

Presbyterians to Hold Dedication Sunday

Dedication services for the Christian education addition to the First Presbyterian church will take place this Sunday afternoon with Dr. Kenneth Neigh, executive secretary of the Presbytery of Detroit and the Synod of Michigan, delivering the sermon.

Constructed at a cost of $161,653, the new building will be open for visitors after the dedication service and during a tea served by the Women's association. Sunday's service will begin at 4 o'clock in the sanctuary of the church.

Also participating in the Palm Sunday ceremony will be the chancel choir directed by Fred Nelson. They will sing the cantata, "The Seven Last Words," by Theodore Dubois.

Ground was broken for the education addition following church services on Sunday, April 3, 1955. Construction of the 56 by 89-foot building was started the next day. It consists of a basement and two stories.

Seventeen additional Sunday school classrooms have been provided by the addition. It also includes space for a chapel, kitchen, choir room for rehearsals and robing, an office, pastor's study and additional facilities.

The building has also permitted redistribution of space utilization in the church by providing a larger dining room, better storage facilities, more excellent facilities for Youth Fellowship and Scouts.

There will be special dedications for the chapel, library, pastor's study and nursery when they are completed at a later date.

Under the guidance of the pastor, the Reverend Henry Walch, D. D., and the minister of education, the Reverend Thomas Keefe, the congregation and Sunday school have rapidly grown in recent years. Average attendance in 1940-41 of the Sunday school was 143. It climbed to 199 by 1950-51; jumped to 316 by 1953-54 and currently stands at 438. Like church services, Sunday school is held in two sessions.

R. Douglas Shaw, who died suddenly during the fund campaign, was chairman of the building committee. He was succeeded by Robert Webber, chairman of the various committees were: Richard Daniel, building study; Eugene Light, plans and construction; finance, Elvin Taylor; publicity, Robert Webber; campaign treasurer, Mrs. Lawrence Van Rensselaer; ways and means, Mrs. Roy Jacobus; and team captains, John Edward Brown, William Edgar, Ralph Garber, Samuel Hudson, Roy Jacobus, Austin Pino, William Slinger, Carl Wall, David Wood and Robert Wilson.

First Presbyterian church was founded on February 23, 1833. The first service was held in a schoolhouse on Cass street. Two years later, in the fall of 1835, the first church building was erected on the present site at a cost of $386.62. There was an additional cost of $4.75 for drafting of plans and drawing of a bond, paid to Ira Bronson, who was in charge of construction.

A brick church was started on the same site in 1847 which was completed in 1849. The old frame building was sold for $110 to the Baptist congregation. Remodeling of the building in 1877 cost $2,500 and remodeling again in 1904 cost $3,500.

Further improvements costing $400 were completed in 1918. Catastrophe struck on January 9, 1936 when the church burned to the ground. From the ashes, the present church was completed in November 1937 with Charles H. Bennett as chairman of the building committee.

Easter Lily Day was proclaimed by Mayor Russen. M. Daane, who commended the Society for Crippled Children and Adults for its humanitarian cause. In his proclamation the mayor added that in the spirit of the golden rule, "it seems fitting that a special day be set aside at which time all may avail themselves of the opportunity to support this activity in their own individual way."

Discussion of military careers with her family with the statement, "I hope there won't ever be any more wars."

For many years Mrs. Moore made her home in Nuckolls county, Nebraska. As a widow with her son Billy, she came west from Pennsylvania to live with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Kern, at their farm home near Cadams, Nebraska. This was about 1883.

Cadams continued to be her home while her son was growing up. Later on, when her son was in the Army, she moved to Nelson, Nebraska where she lived about 20 years. She was finally persuaded to join her son and family in their moves to various military posts, some of which were overseas. When Colonel Moore retired in 1942, the family moved to Plymouth.

Colonel Moore died in 1944 and her daughter-in-law, Virginia, passed away in 1952. She long ago outlived all close friends and relatives of her generation, but the younger generation continue to hold her interest, for now she has five great, great grandchildren.

Until recently, Mrs. Moore had always been a good traveler. At the age of 90 she traveled by train to Montana to visit the Davis family and when she was 92 she went by automobile from Michigan to Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas to visit her grandson Richard and family. She remained active and well until about a year and a half ago when she fractured a hip in a fall. Since then she has been confined to either a chair or her bed.

Attending Sunday's anniversary event besides the four grandchildren will be four great grandchildren and their families, Bill Moore, son of Colonel and Mrs. Richard Moore; Sharleen Moore, Mrs. Gene Rogers and William Moore, children of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Moore.

BURROUGHS CORPORATION'S proposed addition of 204,000 square feet is shown here in relation to the present plant on Plymouth road. President John S. Coleman announced the expansion plans two weeks ago. When the addition is completed in 1958, the plant is expected to employ 2,000 more workers. There are now 3,500 employed here.

Western Electric Purchases Land

Location of a new industry in the community was assured Tuesday morning when final legal negotiations between the Roderick Cassadys and the Western Electric company were completed.

Engineering and plans for work on the new building were approved by the company's home office in New York, according to Thomas Gibbs, manager of Western Electric's Michigan division.

Ground will actually be broken late this year for the structure which will cost in excess of $5,000,000. It is estimated that the opening employment roll will consist of a minimum of 700 employees. It was estimated last fall that there would be 800 employees.

Transfer of the land title from the Cassadys to the company came just 15 months to the day after original negotiations were opened in 1954 between the two parties. Public announcement of the proposed plan came at a meeting last May 31. One of the conditions of the proposal was that the 38 acres of Cassidy farm land intended for the plant had to be annexed to the city of Plymouth.

Results of this condition was months of controversy ending in an election on November 1. Gibbs said this week that he wishes to publicly thank residents of the community whose vote made it possible to locate the plant here and he extended his personal thanks to the many people who helped solve many of the preliminary difficulties encountered during the negotiation period.

"We are proud to find our company is so warmly welcomed by your people and we shall do everything in our power in the future for your community so that we will be good neighbors too," he stated.

The plant will serve as a warehouse for storing and distributing parts for telephone companies and will repair and recondition equipment returned by the phone companies. The present plant, located at 822 Oakman boulevard in Detroit, has been outgrown.

Dr. Andonian To Fill Health Officer Vacancy

Appointment of Dr. Sonia Andonian as city health officer was confirmed by the city commission at their meeting Monday night. She will succeed Dr. R. R. Barber.

Although there are no records available to check the facts, Dr. Andonian will probably be among the few women health officers in the country.

Dr. Barber's resignation was accepted a few minutes before the appointment was made. Both the resignation and appointment will become effective April 1.

Dr. Barber submitted his resignation in a letter to the commission last month. He stated that circumstances beyond his control made it impossible to give the time required to carry out his duties and responsibilities as health officer. Dr. Barber had held the position since February 5, 1951.

Dr. Andonian came to Plymouth in 1953, joining in practice with Dr. Barry Alford, whom she had known in medical school. Dr. Andonian suspended her practice here 14 months ago when she became the mother of a son, Mark, and later became ill. She plans to resume her practice at a later date.

Before coming to Plymouth, Dr. Andonian had graduated from the Wayne University college of medicine, interned at Wayne County General hospital and spent two years at the hospital as a resident physician.

The new health officer and her husband live at 383 North Main street.

To Organize Association In Superior Township

All residents of Superior township in Washtenaw county are being invited to attend an organizational meeting next Wednesday night of a group tentatively called the Superior Township Civic Association.

Purpose of the organization, a spokesman said, is to keep residents informed of proposed developments in the township. The meeting will take place in the township hall starting at 8 p.m.

The school architect, Wheeler and Becker, Architects, is studying the bids to see that they meet specifications, and will make recommendations to the school board tonight.

To Vote Wednesday On Township Millage

Tells Sewer System Need To 'Faith and Credit' Issue In Township

Just how badly do the populated areas of Plymouth township need a sewer system? That question was asked the Wayne County Department of health's engineer on the eve of an election which will determine if citizens of Plymouth and Canton townships are willing to financially guarantee bonds for water and sewer installations.

Martin S. Hilbert, the department of sanitation's engineer, stated in a letter to Supervisor Roy R. Lindsay that a recent survey of sewage problems in Plymouth township indicate that the situation in some cases is more hazardous now than in previous years.

"Sewage is being discharged from an old existing sewage system which empties into Tonquish creek, north of Joy road," Hilbert noted. "This area is being developed with numerous homes and raw sewage in the open ditch creates an increasing hazard to the health of people in that area."

The old sewerage system to which Hilbert refers is located in the Palmer Acres subdivision which services South Main street (in the township); Ball street and Corinne street. This sewer runs across Rocker Estates subdivision into a septic tank at the edge of Tonquish Creek. Effluent from this large septic tank and drainage field runs into the creek.

"In the area known as Green Meadows," Hilbert continued, "there are numerous septic tanks which do not function satisfactorily due to the presence of a high ground water table. Many of these installations have been in for some time and are creating extensive community health hazards. Corrections of the individual installations would not provide an adequate solution to the problem, since the area is not suitable for the continued long-term use of septic tank sewage disposal systems."

The health department engineer stressed that steps must be taken in the near future to provide adequate sewage disposal facilities for those sections of Plymouth township. It is the understanding of this department that the township has been in the process of developing numerous plans and proposals.

In commenting on the letter, Supervisor Lindsay said that the engineer's statements are true. He added that the plan is based on use, making it the most equitable plan possible at the lowest possible cost.

Office Gets Face-Lifting

Citizens going to city hall to pay their taxes, water bills or traffic fines will no longer need to look through barred windows at the treasurer and his force. A modern counter with a glass partition is being installed this week on which a cash register, too heavy for the old counter, is being located.

Elect Reverend Davies Ministerial Group Head

The Reverend David T. Davies, pastor of St. James Episcopal church, has been elected president of the Plymouth Ministerial association.

Also elected at their recent meeting was the Reverend John Walasky, pastor of the Assembly of God, as secretary and treasurer of the group. Previous officers were the Reverend Melbourne I. Johnson, pastor of First Methodist church, president, and the Reverend David Rieder, pastor of First Baptist church, secretary-treasurer.

Represented in the association are the Church of the Nazarene, Assembly of God, First Baptist church, Calvary Baptist church, Salvation Army of Plymouth, First Methodist church and First Presbyterian church.

MAKING FINAL preparations for Saturday's Easter lily sale, proceeds of which aid crippled children, are Co-Chairman Mrs. Max Wachowiak and two of last year's top collectors, Jinx Goddard, left, and Sheila Lorenz. The drive, part of the Easter Seal campaign, will be conducted from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the downtown shopping area by Plymouth grade school children, junior high school students and the high school Y-Teens club. Miniature paper Easter lilies on table above will be offered shoppers for their canister contributions. Mrs. Russell Isbister is heading the drive with Mrs. Wachowiak.

Seal Chairman Charles Finlan reports that several hundred envelopes have been returned from the mailing campaign which was launched at the beginning of the drive. Finlan and his committee will start to tally funds this week.

Proceeds go to the Wayne Out-County chapter which extends services to crippled children and adults throughout western Wayne county who are financed entirely from voluntary contributions, solicited during the annual Easter Seal campaign.

Salvation Army Plans Nearby Home for Aged

Construction of a $1,000,000 home for the aged on Canton Center road was announced this week by Lieutenant Colonel T. M. Larsen, head of the Salvation Army division in Detroit.

Starting date of the construction will depend upon the outcome of the Metropolitan Building Fund campaign currently being carried on in Detroit, Colonel Larsen said. New buildings are expected to cost about $850,000 while furnishings and equipment will bring the total up to $1,000,000.

Site of the home is on 14 1/2 acres of farm property willed to the Salvation Army six years ago by the late John Haggerty. The large Haggerty homestead still stands on the property at 2146 Canton Center road, which will be used as the administration building for the home.

Colonel Larsen said that plans call for wings to be constructed outward from the main building which will have 120 separate rooms "each with the comforts of home." Each resident will have a separate room, except where there are married couples. Located in the administration building besides offices will be the dining room and a medical department.

Like many other Salvation Army homes for the aged, the project will be called "Eventide Home."

John Haggerty, for whom Haggerty road was named, was at one time Michigan's secretary of state. He also served as one of Wayne county's early road commissioners. His fortune, much of which was lost in the depression, was made in a brick manufacturing company, the largest in Michigan.

Haggerty never married but at one time maintained a home for boys at his own home.

School Principal, Family in Mishap

Elementary school Principal Earl T. Gibson and his family were involved in an auto accident Sunday night in which his wife and two of his three children were thrown out of the car onto the road. All escaped serious injury.

Gibson, who is now principal of the outlying schools in Canton township and who will be principal of the proposed Gallimore school on Sheldon road, was returning to Plymouth from a visit to Toledo when the collision occurred at Ford and Newburg roads. Gibson was driving north on Newburg and a car driven by Sylvia Green of Wayne was traveling east on Ford.

Sheriff's officers said that both claimed they had the green light. Gibson's car was swung around by the collision, throwing out his wife who suffered bruises, Thomas, 2, who had lacerations of the head, and William, 4 months, who was uninjured. Gibson received lacerations of the left arm and Kerry, 4, was uninjured. All were taken to Wayne County General hospital for treatment. The cars were badly damaged.

Recalls 5 Wars on 100th Birthday

Anxieties of five wars linger in the mind of Mrs. Ella Moore, 253 Irwin street, who this Sunday will celebrate her 100th birthday amid a gathering of grandchildren and great grandchildren. She is Plymouth's oldest known resident.

Preferring not to be called Grandma Moore by anyone but members of her family, the centennial celebrant makes her home with her granddaughter, Helen Moore, and Miss Moore's aunt, Emma Hanthorn. She enjoys keeping close touch with her other three grandchildren, Wayne L. Moore of Walled Lake, Colonel Richard H. Moore of Alexandria, Virginia and Mrs. Evelyn Davis of Thompson Falls, Montana.

Mrs. Moore was born Ella Jane Kern, on March 25, 1856 in Allentown, Pennsylvania, the third of six children. She likes to tell that as a child she remembers hearing the guns of the civil war battles near Allentown. She recalls that child-like she had plans for hiding her baby sister, Lizzie, "if the soldiers came."

Mrs. Moore's memories of wars are numerous. Her son Will was one of the youngest commissioned officers in the U. S. Army during the Spanish American War. Later he served a year in France during World War I and in 1942 he was recalled from retirement to serve one year of active duty during World War II.

Her grandson, Richard, now a colonel in the Army, fought in Europe during World War I and later, her great grandson, Bill Moore, was in the Army during the Korean conflict.

Mrs. Moore always finishes a

White Breakfast Plans Complete

Final plans for the annual Presbyterian Women's association White Breakfast have been completed according to Chairman Mrs. Meredith Smith. The event, held each year on Maundy Thursday, will follow a meditation period in the sanctuary of the church beginning at 9:30 a.m.

The Reverend John Vander Meulen of the First Presbyterian church of Dearborn will address the gathering. Religious table settings will set the theme of the breakfast.

The program will also include introductions by Mrs. Robert Webber, greetings by Mrs. Emerson Robinson, devotions by Mrs. E. J. Cutler. Mrs. Leslie Daniel will give invocation, while Mrs. Thomas Keefe will offer benediction. Wayne Dunlap will sing "The Seven Words of Jesus Christ of the Cross," accompanied by Fred Nelson.

Mrs. Smith stated that tickets are still available from any committee member.

Rotary Anns Slate Luncheon Meeting

Plymouth Rotary Anns will meet Monday, March 26, at 12:15 in the Mayflower Hotel for luncheon and their regular spring meeting.

Mrs. Roberta Steele of Cadillac Draperies, 217 North Main, will demonstrate new trends in interior decorations.

Wives of Rotary members and their guests are welcome to attend. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Richard Papes, social chairman, by this Friday.

Long-winded talkers are today out of their age.

Nancy Brannan

Nancy Brannan Sets June Wedding Date

A June wedding is being planned by Miss Nancy Louise Brannan, whose engagement to Ernest M. Moran of Detroit, a Wayne university student, has been announced by her parents, Mrs. Beatrice Brannan of 42639 Five Mile road, Plymouth and Charles S. Brannan of Detroit.

Mr. Moran is the son of Mrs. Grover Mears of Lakeville, Illinois. The bride-elect is head librarian at the Inkester branch of Wayne County library. She is a graduate of Western Michigan college in Kalamazoo, where she was affiliated with Sigma Kappa sorority, and the University of Illinois in Chicago.

Long-winded talkers are today out of their age.

VFW Auxiliary Holds Election

A new slate of officers, headed by Helen Bowring as president, will direct activities of the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary for the ensuing year as a result of Tuesday night election at the post hall on Lilley road. Loretta Young is the retiring president of the organization.

Assisting the new president will be the following officers: Beverly Brown, senior vice president; LeMay Smith, junior vice president; Jean Jones, treasurer; Catherine Cline, chaplain; Geraldine Olson, conductress; Marion Luteromser, guard; Loretta Young, three-year trustee; and Adele Stevens, two-year trustee.

The new officers will serve following installation ceremonies in April.

Results of the VFW post election held Wednesday night were unavailable by presstime.

Mrs. Douglas Blunk and little daughter, Gail, plan to leave Sunday, by train, for the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ritzheimer in Trenton, Illinois. Mr. Blunk will join them for the Easter week-end.

Social Notes

Mrs. Erma McLean of Oakview avenue and her sister, Mrs. W. E. Mather of St. Clair Shores, have just returned from a week's vacation in Albuquerque, New Mexico, El Paso, Texas, and Juarez, Mexico. They made the trip by plane and visited relatives while there. Among the many places of interest visited were several old Missions, the University of New Mexico, the oldest church in the United States, Los Alamos near Santa Fe, where our Atom bombs are stored and several mountains and gorges.

Mrs. Ernest Dayton of Portland, Conn., who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Adams, in her home on Harding avenue, plans to leave for home on March 30 and will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Adams and children, Thomas, Judy and Jonathan. They will go on from there to New York, where they will visit relatives before returning to Plymouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephan Turk and children, Stephan and Debbie, of Morrison avenue, plan to leave March 31 for a visit with his mother in Endicott, New York, his sister in Trenton, New Jersey, and his father in Atlanta, Georgia.

Mrs. Henry J. Walsh, Mrs. Nina Blunk and Mrs. George Cramer joined Mrs. Blanche Johnson, Tuesday evening for a cooperative dinner and evening of canasta, in her home on Church street.

Long-winded talkers are today out of their age.

Over Fifty Attend Guild Program

Over 50 persons were gathered Monday night at the junior high school gymnasium to hear Mrs. L. Hart Wright of Ann Arbor, guest speaker for the Plymouth Theatre guild meeting, in excerpts from "Tea House of the August Moon."

Well known for her monologues, the Ann Arbor resident gave a capsule version of the three-act comedy. Portraying the principal roles in the drama from a native Okinawan to top brass of the U. S. occupation forces, Mrs. Wright gave her audience a vivid and excellent presentation of the play.

"Tea House of the August Moon" by John Patrick was adapted from Vern J. Sneider's Pulitzer prize-winning novel of the same name. The show opened on Broadway in 1953, subsequently winning various dramatic awards.

Mrs. Wright received her master's degree in drama from the University of Oklahoma. She has directed little theatre groups in Oklahoma City, Fenton and Ann Arbor, Michigan. At present she is active in the Dramatic Arts center and children's theatre groups in Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Edwin Campbell of Harvey street north entertained Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Mary Donnelly, of Baltimore, Md., who was the guest of her twin sister, Ann Donnelly the past week. Other guests were Ann, Mrs. Charles Beagle, Mrs. John McAllister, Mrs. Norman Atchinson, Mrs. T. C. Box and Mrs. Forest MacInnis. Dainty refreshments were served following an evening of games.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Troutman of Dunn Court have invited guests for a party Saturday evening as a farewell for Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Beely, also of Dunn Court, who will soon be moving to East Lansing to make their home. The guests will include their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. William Erdelyi, Mr. and Mrs. James Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pine, Mr. and Mrs. William Hennells and Mr. and Mrs. George Zaboras, also Mrs. Troutman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Schwedler, of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Al Silberberg, son-in-law and daughter, and Herbert Silberberg of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Beely will be presented with a gift in remembrance of the occasion following a buffet lunch.

AAUW Sale Nets $90 For Scholarship Fund

Used books sold like hotcakes Saturday morning and afternoon at the Kroger store on Forest avenue where the American Association of University Women was staging its first enterprise of this type for benefit of the AAUW scholarship fund.

Some $90 in proceeds from the event will be donated to the fund which aids U. S. and foreign women in graduate study for the doctorate degree. So successful was the used book sale that the organization is hoping to make it an annual affair. Mrs. Robert Probeck was the chairman.

RECOGNIZE THIS GROUP? The Mail ran their picture on January 5 before they were inducted into the Navy here by Chief Electrician's Mate Wayne Raddety (in peak cap). Last week, Ken Klinski, left, Harold Hopper and Lawrence Olds were home on leave, along with Donald Brown (not shown). They had enlisted together and gone to Great Lakes Naval Training school, but now will report to Great Lakes, Norman, Oklahoma, Imperial Beach, California and San Diego respectively. Chief Raddety is the local recruiter.

Livonian Reports 'Saucer'

Pointing out that she has never had any particular interest in such things as space flight, a Livonia woman this week reluctantly told the story of how on February 2 she sighted a "flying saucer" near her home.

Mrs. Ada Holden, Bainbridge road, said in an interview this week that she is willing to report what she saw, but holds no claim as to what it was or where it came from. She said that she was about to drive away from her home at 4 p.m. to pick up her children at school when she looked up and "there it was."

The "it" was an aircraft about the size of a helicopter, but it had no overhead propeller. In fact, no motor could be heard at all, she added. The bottom disc seemed to be spinning but the top, which seemed to be a cockpit, was stationary. It glowed in the sun as if it were a bright metal, Mrs. Holden added.

It seemed to be skimming over trees toward Merriman road, and as Mrs. Holden watched intently, "it dissolved as if it had been covered by a mist."

Mrs. Holden states that she is willing to tell the story publicly only in hopes that others who may have seen the object will speak up.

Mrs. A. E. Gulick To Head AAUW

Elected president of the American Association of University Women Thursday night at a meeting in the Mayflower hotel was Mrs. A. E. Gulick who succeeds Mrs. Ray Collins, retiring head of the organization. Mrs. Gulick will serve a two-year term of office.

Others elected that evening, also on a two-year basis, were Mrs. R. V. Probeck, recording secretary; and Mrs. G. L. Petersen, corresponding secretary. Present AAUW officers, with another year before completion of their terms, are Mrs. J. R. Witwer, first vice president; Mrs. W. V. Clarke, second vice president; and Mrs. C. B. Levering, treasurer.

Installation will be held May 17. The new officers will take over their posts July 1, end of the club's fiscal year.

SOCIAL NOTES

Among those attending the three-day state meeting of D. A. R., held in Jackson Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week, were Mrs. Harry Deyo, Mrs. Robert Willoughby, Mrs. Walter Gemperline, Mrs. T. Fraser Carmichael, of this city, Mrs. Claud Cruse, Regent of the Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter, Mrs. Dell Hahn of Northville and Mrs. Dwight T. Randall of Detroit. All are members of the Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter.

Private First Class Ronald Johnson, who has been stationed at Fort Campbell, Kentucky, spent from Friday until Monday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson on Ann street.

Miss Mary Donnelly returned to her base in Baltimore, Maryland, Sunday following a week's visit with her sister, Ann Donnelly on North Harvey street.

Residents Successfully Protest Proposal to Close Eight Alleys

Over 70 residents of the northwest section of the city jammed the commission chambers last Thursday night to tell the planning commission their reasons why alleys in their neighborhoods should not be closed.

As a result of their protests, only three of the 11 alleys under consideration will be recommended for abandonment.

The largest crowd since last year's Main street public hearing attended last Thursday's session. Practically all alleys in the northwest section of the city were on the vacating proposal. This included an area bounded by Sheldon road on the west, the railroad and Theodore street on the east and Church street and Penniman avenue on the south.

At the close of the one and a half hour hearing, planning commissioners discussed the proposal and its objections and voted to recommend to the city commission at its April 2 meeting that only three alleys be vacated.

These three are located in the Karmada and Blanche street area and have not actually been used as alleys. There were also no citizens voicing objections to their closing.

Commission Chairman Sidney Strong opened the hearing by telling reasons why the planning commission favors elimination of all possible alleys. It was pointed out that alleys cannot be adequately maintained because of the costs involved. It was also noted that alleys are usually unsightly and are a breeding place for rats. Alleys are no longer being included in new subdivisions and many municipalities are eliminating alleys where possible, the group was told. (Several alleys were closed in the southwest part of Plymouth last year.)

But these reasons failed to convince citizens attending the hearing. There were six separate petitions filed with the planners containing a total of 90 names, all in protest to the proposal. One of the main objections was the necessity of carrying the garbage cans to the curb if alleys are eliminated. Not only are garbage cans along the street unsightly, it was asserted, but city workers would be spilling some of the contents on the street.

Children also would be coming along and smashing bottles along the street which they pick out of the rubbish, one citizen noted. It was also stated that children often walk to school down the alley between Sheldon road and Sunset because of the lack of a sidewalk along Sheldon.

Since each of the adjoining property owners would share the abandoned alley property, it was asked if this would mean added evaluation to the property and added taxes. Mayor Russell Daane, a spectator at the meeting, opined that it would not mean additional taxes.

Citizens also stated that many of them have permanent fences or shrubs along the present lot line and that the alley is filled with stone and bricks, making it difficult to take over half of the alleyway.

There were three people in the audience who spoke in favor of closing their alleys. Opponents to the closing claimed that it was the city that was lax in keeping the alleys in good shape.

Mayor Daane replied that putting a grader and operator to work on the alleys would mean neglecting the unpaved streets and would cost money which the city doesn't have. He added that paving the alleys could be accomplished with a petition from property owners.

Galin Grand Opening Termed Huge Success

The grand opening celebration of the recently remodeled Galin and Son Appliance store, 849 Pennington, was termed a huge success by owner Dave Galin this week as the 12-day event came to a close. Both he and Furniture Department Manager Horace Thatcher were greatly pleased by the large turn-out for the occasion.

Winners of gifts in the grand opening festivities were: Paula Massarelli, 276 Union, $150 worth of furniture; Edith Eklund, 443 Adams, a Benrus men's calendar watch; and Jane Ann Rule, 14840 Merriman, Livonia, a Crosley transistor radio.

A retail merchant in Plymouth for 29 years, Galin expressed thanks for the visits and congratulations paid him by many old and new friends and customers. Merchants in Plymouth paid tribute to Galin with cards, floral gifts and telegrams also congratulating him.

The Ladies of St. Peter's Lutheran church are reminded that the bags of "Easter Cheer" for Eloise hospital will again be packed on Maundy Thursday evening following the church services, in the church basement. These gifts will be distributed following the services on Good Friday afternoon. Ladies are urged to have their cookies and colored hard boiled eggs at the church by Thursday evening.

Gives Insurance Policy To New Car Buyers

Bill West, owner of West Bros. Nash dealership, 534 Forest avenue, announced recently that he is giving a $25,000 personal automobile accident insurance policy, at no extra cost, to each purchaser of a new Nash automobile.
West explained that the policy provides $25,000 coverage for the purchaser and spouse in the event of fatality to both, or $12,500 in the event of fatality to one, while driving or riding in the privately-owned Nash car.
The insurance plan grew out of numerous letters from owners claiming Nash safety features had prevented deaths in accidents described as being "other-wise fatal."

To Vote Wednesday on Township Millage

 will cost an estimated $750,000 while the 22 miles of water line will cost an estimated $1,125,000. About 1,200 acres of Plymouth township land will be serviced by the sewer and 340 acres of Canton township land.

The three-man Sewer and Water Authority board declared in a statement this week that many people from Plymouth and Canton townships apparently do not have a clear idea about direct costs of the proposed systems. "Everyone should understand that the entire system is a revenue paying system." This means that the users who gain direct benefit will pay for its construction costs and service charges.

It was pointed out that for the first year, the direct cost to the townships will be about $43,000 for Plymouth and about $17,000 for Canton. "This cost to the taxpayers is required for two purposes," the board declared. "The first is to enable the system to get started and the second is that with this favorable start the Water and Sewer Authority can borrow money at a more favorable interest rate."

As to the direct cost, the authority believes that the system as set up by the engineer is based on "very careful planning and that when a surplus accumulates it is possible for the authority to return all direct costs to the taxpayers."

They added that "taxpayers are being asked on March 28 to vote favorably their 'faith and credit.' This means that both townships are willing to stand behind the Water and Sewer Authority and to go its security to enable it to borrow money to pay for the construction of the sewer and water systems."

Authority board members claim that they have received many calls regarding specific problems. People of Palmer Acres at the south end of the township, through their spokesman, Leo Flowers, "are to be assured that their present private sewer system will not be disturbed, nor does the authority intend to replace that system," the board declared.

The authority will request that it be tied in with the new system but that there will be no charge to the present users because this is a system in existence prior to the authority. "This combining of systems will eliminate the present contamination problem caused by the old, inadequate septic tank in that area," the authority stated. "The only cost to the present users will be the monthly service charge which in all probability will be less than their present maintenance costs."

Board members have also had inquiries from Thomas Foley and William Boone regarding sewerage service to Plymouth Colony. "The authority has in mind to service Plymouth Colony with a sewerage system and it is the intention to have that realized by the end of this coming summer," the board stated.

Regarding local problems in Canton township, Albert Schrader, a member of the board, said that he had calls from local builders asking about extension to project sites of sewer and water not now directly proposed. "The authority has advised these builders that the plan of the system is flexible and to any serious-minded builder, sewer and water facilities can be brought to his site within a reasonable distance of the mains."

Books on Selling Rate Library List Of Busiest Loans

During the first six months of 1955, the gross national product averaged an annual rate of $39,000,000,000. Moving this tremendous amount of goods and keeping orders flowing are America's 3,800,000 salesmen, who are being saluted now during National Salesman's Week, March 18-24.

Doing a whopping good business on their own are books on salesmanship at Dunning library, according to Head Librarian Mrs. Agnes Pauline, who notes a steady increase of book loans on "selling." Especially in demand, she pointed out, were those by top salesmen like Frank Bettger and Elmer Leterman, who pass along the sales ideas that have made them successful.

Bettger is rated one of the country's most successful life insurance salesmen. His two books, "How I Multiplied My Income and Happiness in Selling" and "How I Raised Myself from Failure to Success in Selling" are chronicles of the selling career. Both are available at the local library.

To prove his point that "no" is not an answer, top salesman Elmer Leterman has assembled his ideas in a book called "The Sale Begins when the Customer Says No." He tells ways in which a favorable sales atmosphere may be created—ways which also ensure a satisfied customer. Another is "Personal Power through Creative Selling."

Now that it is an election year, discount everything you hear by fifty percent.

NEW CHAPEL of First Presbyterian church is located in the Christian education wing to be dedicated this Sunday afternoon. The chapel itself will be dedicated at a later date.

Background of Wednesday's Election Given

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Start of a $1,875,000 sewer and water system in Plymouth and Canton townships is a serious undertaking. Construction of these two services will mean great growth in this area. For this reason, The Mail is publishing the following background story of the proposal written by Plymouth Township Supervisor Roy Lindsay.)

The township board about five years ago was confronted with the problem of furnishing sanitary sewer facilities. This problem was brought about by growth and development; growth in population and development of industrial area. School authorities were likewise pressed for furnishing additional school-rooms.

At that time the township board was also confronted with the problem of water supply.

Efforts were made to remedy the problem, but since no practical means were found, it was left unolved and normal growth and development were retarded to some extent. Nonetheless, the supervisor sought various methods of providing the sanitary sewers because the lack of sewers presented community health problems and costly ways of obtaining relief. The Wayne County authorities were consulted but to no avail, since the construction and financing was outside their scope. The township board explored the possibility of creating a special assessment district but this was found too costly and the burden too large on the benefited property. Other methods of financing were explored, but these too were found a financial hardship on the taxpayers.

During the early part of 1955, enabling legislation was provided by the state legislature which permitted townships to form sewer and water authority corporations. An authority could be created by the governing bodies of two or more townships, cities or villages in joining together to meet a common problem of sewers and water supply. Accordingly, Plymouth and Canton townships quickly availed themselves of this method of financing, and are the first authority in the State of Michigan to proceed under this enabling legislation.

All engineering plans, were rushed post-haste to bring the sewers and water supply to realization, so at the present time almost all necessary easements have been obtained to clear the way for final plans and specifications.

The Townships of Plymouth and Canton Water and Sewer Authority has been established and has been functioning for about four months. The engineer has presented a report showing the feasibility of constructing sewer and water system at an estimated cost of approximately $1,800,000. This system will function strictly as a revenue system which means that its income will be derived from sale of water and sewage disposal service—in other words "usage," by the customers of the facilities and the payment therefore will enable the Authority to retire the bonds and interest and pay for operating expenses.

In this connection the financing of the cost of construction of the water supply and sewage disposal system will be by sale of revenue bonds. In setting up of the financing program it was necessary to provide the usual requirements, such as bond reserves, replacement reserves, bond and interest retirement fund, and operating and maintenance funds. These requirements are essential to qualify a bond issue for approval of the Municipal Finance Commission and to prospective bond buyers.

Also, since it would be the beginning of the system and since there were no actual customers on the books but all customers were potential (future customers after the system is constructed) it was required that some insurance or "collateral" be provided to the bond buyer so as to afford him some protection and security for his investment in our sewer system. This insurance or "collateral" is the 4 mill vote of the townships of Plymouth and Canton. It is not the intent nor the desire of the township board to use the 4 mill levy. If it did levy this millage, the tax so collected could not be used legally for any other purposes than the water supply and sewage disposal system. The millage vote will enable the Water and Sewer Authority to save not less than $50,000 in interest cost.

However, the first year's operation of the water and sewer system will require approximately one mill levy the first year and at most one mill the second year. This statement is based on reports of the engineer and financial consultant which reports show the water and sewer system will be self-supporting after the first year; no further tax levy would be required.

The school system will benefit by this proceeding.

Corrects Accident

It was incorrectly stated in last week's report of an auto accident at Ann Arbor trail and Mill street that a car driven by Laura Sowders of Northville was struck from behind by a vehicle driven by Gerald Hamlin, 11329 Southworth. It was the Hamlin car which was waiting for the traffic light and was struck by the Sowders car.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Widmaier of South Main street were hosts Sunday to members of the Extension group and their families for a pot-luck dinner with covers being laid for about 30. Following the dinner all enjoyed a showing of pictures taken by the Harold Shirey on various trips covering Yellowstone Park in Wyoming, the Bad Lands, the copper country in northern Michigan and some Florida scenes.

Petitioners Offer Alternate Sewer Plan

 Machines will have much more freedom to work in the streets. In Birch Estates, Hamill stated that fewer street crossings will be needed if the sewer is laid behind the homes. A Birch Estates resident said that he was told by the builder that the storm sewer there would eventually become combined with the sanitary sewer when there was an outlet. He was informed by commissioners that the city had made no agreement with the builder to have a combined sewer.

Most of the citizens present got a look at the detailed plans for their streets during the hour-long discussion. Commissioners voted to accept the petitions and at the end of the meeting sat through the first reading of a 25-page sewer ordinance.

Goodwill and friendship cannot be bought, nor can sincere appreciation be expressed with mere words.

To you, my friends and neighbors, I wish to say thank you from the bottom of my heart. During my 29 years in Plymouth on all special occasions, you expressed your interest and friendship and especially on the occasion of my new venture into the furniture business. During the ten day grand opening you made all of us here very happy and we are most grateful.

I pray and hope to deserve your confidence, and by my business conduct, show my appreciation to all of you who were kind enough to drop in and wish us good luck and make our grand opening successful beyond our imagination; and to all of you who wished us success with the beautiful flowers or by telegram. Thanks a million.

New Arrivals in the School Library

Reading is a favorite pastime of most everyone, and the "bookworms" of Plymouth high school will find they have a choice of their favorite type of reading material among the several new publications received by the school library this week. The new books are:

"THE FOUR MINUTE MILE" by Roger Bannister, a provocative book in that it tells what motivates a man to train for years, to run his heart out for a few minutes of supreme physical effort. Bannister has answered thoughtfully those criticisms leveled against him, the reason he never had a coach, and much of his personal life.

"ROSEMARY" by Mary Stolz, author of "Ready or Not" and "Pray Love, Remember," once again Mrs. Stolz has written a story deep in feeling and perception. The problems facing Rosemary, her family, and her friends in her hometown and the college she attends are those that everyone must face. Mrs. Stolz writes with compassion and truth never sacrificing reality for sentiment.

"LOST CITY OF THE SUN" by Kenneth Sinclair, is a thrilling story for boys, about a desperate race to find an ancient city and a mysterious Indian city.

Couples married less than a year buy 40 per cent of U. S. Carpets.

by Carl Peterson

It seems there are so many strains in modern living that a lot of folks get wound up like a pretzel. And if the tension isn't relaxed, something's got to give. One of the latest treatments we've heard about for mental tensions is laughing gas. According to the medics, laughing gas releases secret fears and gets you as relaxed as the bride's father after the wedding's over.

As a firm believer in an occasional chuckle, we can see a load of logic in this idea. A sense of humor, it seems to us, would do the trick even better. It serves as a shock absorber over many of life's worst bumps. As the poet said, "Laugh and the world laughs with you." If you sit around brooding you collect nothing but wrinkles. So maybe the doctors have something. If you've got trouble, just breathe deeply... and laugh it off.

A Ventura, California, woman who was brought into court for driving at night without lights claimed, "I can see like an owl." We'll bet the judge didn't give a hoot. Most folks do give a hoot about how they feed the "inner man" or woman. Well, our aim is to please, in food as in everything else. You'll like the soups, sandwiches and fountain items we serve... and our delicious pastries, too. Make it a habit to stop in for a bite. Remember, "Someone you know, knows me."

Five Attend Forensics Meet at Allen Park

Participating in the Suburban Six meet at Allen Park on March 23 will be the Plymouth high school Forensics group under the supervision of Carl Kranish, speech instructor.

Attending the meet will be the following students: Janet Willoughby, entering the oratorical declamation; Bob Young, the interpretive readings division; Jerry Steele, in humorous readings; John Vos in extemporaneous; David Tiltonson, original reading.

Winners of the meet will be eligible for state regionals. Last year three members from Plymouth received two second place ratings in Extemporaneous and humorous readings, and a third place rating for an interpretive reading.

Committee Picks Design For Junior Class Rings

A committee of sophomores with their advisor, Miss Virginia Olmsted, English teacher, recently met with A. P. Terryberry, ring salesman, for the purpose of choosing a design for the junior class rings.

The ring samples arrived Thursday, March 15, at Plymouth high school where they were on display until Monday of this week. They have now been taken to Agnew's jewelry store where sophomores may order them any time up until March 31.

A small deposit is being requested at the time of ordering the rings, with the balance to be paid next September when the rings will be delivered.

Grange Cleanings

We had a record attendance at Grange last Thursday night and everybody enjoyed being there. A group of 15 members from Scio Grange came over.

The Scio officers took over the stations of our officers. The Scio group put on their play called "A Mock Wedding." It was very funny and caused a lot of laughs.

We had Grange guests from Harbor Springs, Stony Creek, and Romulus. These exchange visits are fine, good for everybody.

The Grange extends heartiest congratulations to our latest bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. George Humphries who were married March 10. We shall look for them at Grange very soon now. Mrs. Humphries is already a member and we hope her husband soon will be.

Our next two meetings promise to be something interesting so don't miss them. April 5 is supper night as usual and that is always interesting you know. For the program Mrs. Rose Wilson is going to show the pictures of the trip to Hawaii which she and Loretta took last summer. They are lovely. For those of us who are not fortunate enough to go it will mean a real treat seeing it all through their eyes.

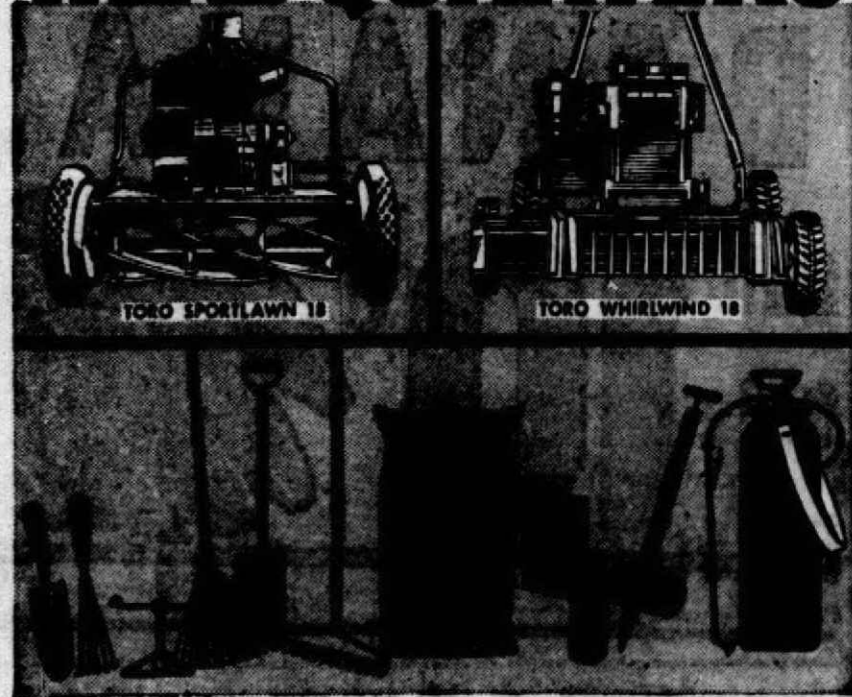

And by all means be sure to come to the apron social on April 19. The women are requested to make an apron for the auction sale which should be a lot of fun and we need a lot of extra men for that, so come on, all you men folks and help the fun along.

But we hope every woman member will be there even if they do not bring an apron. Further plans will be announced at the next meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Tritten from Brethren are down here for a few weeks visit with their sons and other relatives.

The Lily club on Monday evening was a pleasant affair even though the attendance was small. The April party will be on April 16 and the committee will be Mr. and Mrs. Gardner and Mr. and Mrs. Grammel.

Understanding High Blood Pressure Assists Scientists in Combatting It

If one examines the water system of a town, one will find a central pumping station, with a system of water mains branching in all directions and with small pipes going into houses. To keep the water flowing, the pump at the central station must keep the water under a certain head of pressure.

Now suppose that every householder installs 1/2-inch pipes in his home instead of the conventional 1/4-inch pipe. An additional burden is placed on the central pumping station. As a result, the overloaded pump may weaken or break down, or one of the pipes may burst.

In the body, too, there is a central pump—the heart. It must circulate blood through the "blood-mains" of various sizes known as arteries, through the tiny arterioles into the capillaries, and finally back to the heart by way of the veins.

In hypertension, or high blood pressure, very much the same thing happens as in the illustration cited above. An increased resistance is offered the flow of blood by the narrowing (or constriction) of the smaller vessels (arterioles). If life and activity are to be sustained, all parts of the body must have their vital supply of oxygenated blood. So the heart responds. It works harder against these greater pressures. The result sometimes is that the heart and its muscles grow larger, and are finally unable to compensate for the increased load. Thus, hypertension may lead to heart failure, or to one of the blood vessels being ruptured because of the increased pressure.

In a small minority of hypertension cases, the basic causes are readily identifiable and often correctable. The source of the trouble may be a tumor of the adrenal gland, or a diseased kidney, or a variety of uncommon causes. Yet in the vast majority of hypertension cases, perhaps 90 per cent, the cause is unknown. Medical science calls this "essential hypertension."

To find the cause of hypertension and to develop new methods of treatment are among the primary objectives of research supported by the Michigan Heart Association through funds received from the Michigan United Fund and from Memorial Contributions. Already, research has furnished some of the blocks which fit into the puzzle, but probably not all of them. At least, if they are all there, medical scientists have yet to find how they fit together to make a total and recognizable picture.

While the basic causes of essential hypertension have not yet been discovered, medical science is able to treat most cases with effectiveness. A few cases yield to surgical correction, while many respond favorably to treatment with drugs. As a result, the life expectancy of these patients is probably increased significantly.

Surgery, as mentioned, is becoming increasingly effective in selected cases. More recently, and largely within the past five years, a number of drugs have been discovered which are effective (alone or in combination) in reducing blood pressure in a high percentage of hypertensive patients. Simple sedatives often have a beneficial effect.

With many patients, these drugs appear to keep blood pressure down more or less permanently if they are given continuously. Fortunately, most may be taken by mouth. They do not have a curative effect, since the high blood pressure returns once the drug has been stopped. But they do serve a good purpose, and are a small price to pay for relief from the disability and may delay or prevent serious consequences of this disorder.

While the quest continues for better and more effective methods of treatment, the overriding research objective is that of discovering basic causes and thereby discover preventive measures.

When it comes to the dollar, there is often a parting of the ways, even among otherwise intelligent people.

Announces 4-H Club 'Award Programs' Plan

Awards for 48,000 4-H club members are offered in the first announcement of 1956 national 4-H award programs by the national committee on boys and girls club work, Chicago.

County, state and national winners in 4-H poultry, garden, dairy and entomology programs will be honored for outstanding achievement. 4-H members are urged to begin now to keep accurate records of reports submitted by members.

Awards in the 4-H poultry program include medals and an all-expense trip to the national 4-H club congress in Chicago for the state winner plus $300 scholarships to six national winners.

INCOME TAX FACTS No. 5
Tax Benefits Ease Pain of Sickness

(This is one of a series of articles on federal income tax filing. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Accountants and the Michigan Society of Certified Public Accountants.)

Nobody likes to be sick. But if there was sickness in your family during 1955, you may have some compensation tax-wise. First, there is the question of "sick pay." If you were absent from work due to injury or sickness and received payments from your employer (either sick benefits or regular pay) or his insurance company, these payments, within limits, are free of tax.

There are two limitations: First, the maximum amount is $100 per week, plus any amounts which came from your own contributions to the plan. Second, unless the absence was for sickness during which you were hospitalized at least one day, or for an injury, the payments are not tax free until after the first 7 calendar days of absence.

If these payments are included in the wages shown on your withholding slips, you should subtract the proper amount from your income in the place provided on the first page of the tax return (Form 1040). Attach an explanation as described in the instructions. You are entitled to exclude this amount even if you do not itemize your deductions. Apart from sick pay, you may have received payments covering medical expenses for yourself and your dependents. Don't include these in your income, but don't deduct the medical expenses covered by these payments either.

Medical Deductions
If you itemize your deductions, you may be able to save tax money by listing medical and dental expenses you paid for yourself and your dependents.

This year you list your medical and dental expenses on a separate sheet, rather than on the form itself. Space is provided on the form for figuring the amount that is allowable as a deduction.

You are allowed a deduction for your medical expenses beyond 3% of your adjusted gross income. If you (or your husband or wife) were 65 or over at the end of the year, the 3% rule does not apply to your own medical expenses. It does apply to any medical expenses you pay for your dependents.

Your deduction is limited to a maximum amount for the year, as explained in the instructions. Medicines and drugs may be included in your medical expenses only to the extent they exceed 1% of your gross income.

Among the items to include in your list of medical expenses are fees of doctors, dentists, hospitals and nurses. List premiums for Blue Cross and other health, accident or hospitalization insurance, but remember you cannot deduct medical expenses paid or reimbursed by insurance.

Widows and Widowers
There are several provisions of special interest to widows and widowers:

1. You may file a joint return with a husband or wife who died during the tax year if no separate return is filed.
2. If you have not remarried and have in your household a dependent child or stepchild, you are entitled for the next two years to use the same tax computation (with income-splitting) as you would have been entitled to on a joint return.
3. When life insurance proceeds are taken as an annuity or in installments, widows and widowers are allowed $1,000 per year of tax-free payments in addition to the principal.
4. You may be entitled to retirement income credit if your deceased husband or wife would have qualified.
5. You may be entitled to a deduction for child care expenses.

The instructions that come with your tax forms give further information. Help is also available from the Internal Revenue Service, which urges you to consult a properly qualified advisor if you need outside assistance.

U of M Doctor Outlines Procedure For First Aid Treatment of Burns

While prevention is always the best treatment for burns, a few simple safeguards can help prevent scarring and promote prompt healing when they do occur, according to a University of Michigan medical specialist.

Open flames which ignite clothing, boiling fluids, and hot metal surfaces like stoves or irons are often the cause of burns in the home, says Dr. Paul Hodgson, assistant professor of surgery at The University of Michigan Hospital.

Minor first and second degree burns—identified by reddening of the skin and blister formation—should be kept clean and protected from irritation or infection, the doctor warns.

He suggested these burns be sponged gently with a mild soap and cotton, then dressed lightly with gauze or left open. If only an ointment is used, it should be a light application of a mild, bland ointment such as sterile vaseline.

Small blisters should be protected, the doctor continues, since the blister fluid is sterile and the overlying skin acts as a protective membrane until the rest of the skin heals.

Major burns, of course, should be treated by a physician and may require hospitalization. When these occur, the patient should be protected from contamination by covering the burned area with sterile or clean dressings, of gauze, sheets or kerchiefs, according to the doctor.

No attempt need be made to remove clothing or swab the burned area with ointments, he emphasizes, since this can better be accomplished at a hospital.

If a patient becomes thirsty following a burn, it is wise to permit him to take only small sips of a dilute salt water solution (one teaspoonful of salt to a quart).

BOOK REVIEW

"The Truth About The United Nations"
By R. R. Pursell

Few books have made a dent into the misunderstanding surrounding such a national popular subject as "The Truth About The United Nations."

Since this was written by over 35 nationally known men and women highly specialized in UN affairs it is astounding the great revelation of the truth of affairs that have been hid or mis-branded to fool the people.

For instance, Ambassador Lodge has been making speeches and sending out "news releases" stating that all it cost us to belong to the United Nations was $13 million. The truth is that it cost over $100 million. Why the deception?

Again the UN is held up as the only salvation for peace and that it does not meddle with affairs internal. The truth: The US has separate agreements with 50 nations and we maintain 950 bases overseas to keep the peace while the UN has over 200 agencies that meddle in nearly every phase of our existence from determining the price of wheat that goes into one's toast to our rights of who may and may not sell a piece of land.

The biggest surprise, perhaps, is the exposing of the way in which both the Russian Reds and our own One Worlders are using the UN to break down our Constitution. Of course these two groups hate one another, but realize that it is the great strength of our Constitution that protects the individual. Since the rights of individuals have to be destroyed before either group can succeed in their programs they unite in destroying the Constitution itself.

The greatest beauty of the book to many will be the way it shows we must take to protect ourselves by first protecting the Constitution. If we go down in slavery it will be because the friends of the Constitution were weak—not because its enemies were strong.

Every one who is concerned with the steady undermining of our Constitution, or is anxious to understand the efforts to maintain peace, or the student who is getting the feel of individualism vs. socialism struggle will find this book a "must" for constant reference.

State Urges Grass Seed Buyers To Examine Tag on Packages

To assure the people in Michigan who will be buying seed this spring that their purchases are of proper germination and free of noxious weeds, the seed testing laboratory of the Michigan Department of Agriculture in Lansing for the past four weeks has been working at capacity.

Purchasers of seeds can only take full advantage of this important work by taking pains to read the tag on the package or the declaration of purity and germination on the package they buy. Under Michigan law this information must be on seed packages.

In the Department's seed testing laboratory at Lansing, seeds are sprouted in germinators under strict temperature and humidity controls that as nearly as possible simulate actual growing conditions in the state.

Seed is first examined by skilled seed analysts with the aid of glasses like a jeweler's glass.

Using the Restored Ordo of the early church in accordance with the decree of the Sacred Congregation of Rites issued last November, Holy Week services will begin at Our Lady of Good Counsel church at 7:45 a.m., Sunday, March 25, with the blessing and distribution of palms, followed by a procession of the faithful to honor Christ, the King. Following will be the Mass for the Second Sunday of Passiontide or Palm Sunday.

Patchen PTA to Hear Art Show Committee Study Group's Report

A summary report from a pilot study group in "Family Living" will be given Monday night, March 26, at a meeting of the Patchen school Parent Teachers association, starting at 8 p.m. The group, meeting at the school each Tuesday evening for the past five weeks, has just concluded its study. Under the leadership of Mrs. Alta Fischer Moore, visiting teacher from Wayne County Board of Education, group members discussed methods of handling discipline problems, television, allowances, father's role in family, and other phases relative to parent-child relationships. A film entitled "Family Circle," with commentary by Mrs. Moore, is also scheduled for the PTA program. There will be a brief discussion period following the film showing. Refreshments will be served at the close of the program.

Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Buford Conn, in their home on Parkview drive, were Mr. and Mrs. Milton Alexander of Starkweather avenue and Mr. and Mrs. William Nipp and family of Marlowe street.

Petersen, chairman of the exhibit. Experts will be on hand to demonstrate rug hooking, china and glass painting, leathercraft, weaving and similar arts and crafts. The meeting is open to the public, with a special invitation extended to those having entries in the Creative Arts show.

DeMolays Attend Services At Newburg Church

Twenty-four members of the Plymouth chapter, Order of DeMolays were guests Sunday at the Newburg Methodist church in Livonia. Following a breakfast at the home of Master Councilor Henry Mende, the boys attended the 9:00 o'clock services and heard the Reverend Robert D. Richards deliver a sermon especially prepared for the teen-agers.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Truesdell of Lilly road were hosts Saturday evening at dinner and bridge to the members of their club including Mr. and Mrs. William Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Hoebel, Mr. and Mrs. Carvel Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baker, Austin Whipple, of Plymouth, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Simms of Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dobbs and Dr. and Mrs. Elmore Carney and son, Jimmy, arrived home Thursday from Florida. Enroute to Florida the Dobbs visited their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harding at Ft. Benning, Georgia, then on to Tampa, Florida, where they joined the Carneys and went on for two weeks at Englewood.

Mrs. Ethel J. Parmalee arrived home Saturday from Atlanta, Georgia, where she had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. William Foley and family for the past two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Goddard were hosts at a dinner party for a group of friends Saturday evening at their home "Beck-reck" on Beck road.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Jones arrived home last Thursday from a three weeks vacation in Florida. Enroute they visited with cousins in Madison, Indiana; three days with friends in Deland, Florida, Fort Lauderdale and St. Petersburg where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moss for a weekend before returning home. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Russell and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sharpley, who are also in Florida, joined the Joneses and Mosses for dinner on Saturday evening at the Wedgewood Inn.

Miss Salley Morgan spent the weekend from her studies at Purdue University with her family, the William Morgans. She was accompanied by Miss Joannette Hodge of Indianapolis, Indiana. Both girls returned to Purdue on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Henderson of Auburn avenue will be hosts Saturday evening to their dinner bridge club entertaining Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dobbs, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wood, Mr. and Mrs. George Farwell and Dr. and Mrs. Carney.

Mrs. A. E. Vallier of Penniman avenue entertained members of her bridge club Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. McLaren arrived home from their vacation in the west having spent the past month in Mesa, Arizona. While there they were entertained at dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jolliffe and the William Arscotts. The Arscotts are former Plymouth residents. They also visited the Grand Canyon during their stay in Arizona.

Mrs. George Cramer entertained Monday at luncheon and bridge for the members of her Birthday club in her home on North Harvey street.

The Mayflower bridge club was entertained Tuesday at a luncheon in the home of Mrs. T. Fraser Carmichael on Blunk avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Durie of North Territorial road, who have been vacationing in Florida for the past two weeks, returned home Saturday evening. While in Florida they spent some time in Mt. Dora where they met and visited with Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Kenyon and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Allison, Plymouthites, who are spending the winter there. They also visited in Sarasota and other points of interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Eber Readman have purchased the Walter Grant home on West Maple avenue and will soon move there.

Livonia Gathers Area Art Work For April Show

Residents of Livonia, Plymouth and surrounding areas will be given an opportunity to display their various arts and crafts before the public eye at a two-day Exhibit of Creative Arts to be held at Bentley high school, Livonia, Friday and Saturday, April 6 and 7.

The exhibit is open to the public from 2 to 9:30 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. on Saturday. There will be no charge for admission.

The show is sponsored by the Rosedale Gardens branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, in cooperation with the Department of Parks and Recreation of Livonia.

The exhibit will include displays of hand-painted china and glass, pottery, sculpturing, leather and metal work, weaving, jewelry, tailoring, and dressmaking, crocheting, knitting, wood carving, photography, oil and textile painting, water colors, pastels, charcoal, hooked rugs, flower arrangements and many other pieces of art.

Mrs. A. T. M. Petersen of Livonia is general chairman of the event.

Local Air Reserve Unit Hears Nike Commander

Plymouth flight A of the 9632nd Air Reserve Squadron had as its guest speaker at a regular meeting last week Captain Norman Skendrovic, commanding officer of the 85th Anti-Aircraft Battalion at Grosse Ile, a part of the "Nike" air defense system for Detroit.

Skendrovic's talk consisted of pointing out that the Detroit metropolitan area is extremely well protected from any sort of air attack should such an assault occur.

At present the local air reserve squadron is engaged in a recruiting program, the success of which was evidenced last week at the meeting with the presence of eight new men in attendance. John Erickson, commander of the local flight, extended an invitation to all reservists in the area to attend the meetings of flight A. The meetings are held on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at the Veterans' Memorial Center on Main street.

Harold Bond Weds Saline Resident

The First Methodist church of Plymouth was the setting for a candlelight ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Joan Olive Buck and Harold John Bond at 7:30 o'clock Saturday, February 25.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gates of 308 Bemis road, Saline, are guardian parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Bond of 1143 Maple avenue, Plymouth.

The Reverend Melbourne I. Johnson was officiating minister for the nuptial ceremony. Beauty vases of white carnations and gladioli decorated the altar while baskets of gladioli were gracefully arranged about the two candleabra.

The bride was given in marriage by her guardian father. For the wedding ceremony she chose a gown of imported nylon tulle over satin, fashioned with shirred bodice, a portrait neckline appliqued with alencon lace, short sleeves with matching gauntlets, and skirt with rows of nylon tulle and ruffles terminating in a chapel-length train. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion with scalloped, rolled edge was secured by a jeweled crown. White rosebuds centered with a white orchid composed the bridal bouquet.

Library Announces Trio of Guest Speakers

The Plymouth branch of Wayne county library has announced that Elden G. Kracht of 34024 West Chicago, Livonia will give a brief talk regarding items from his rock collection now on display at the library, tomorrow night, March 23, at 7.

Also announced was the appearance of a guest speaker for the library story hour for children at 11 a.m. Saturday morning, March 24. Mrs. Marilyn Rosenthal of Romulus will give a vocal presentation of American folk tales, accompanied by guitar. Mrs. Rosenthal has given similar programs at other branch libraries and is an active participant in camp work for young people.

On March 31 her husband, Avram, will be the guest story teller. Rosenthal is well-known for his flute and dramatic presentation of the "Pied Piper of Hamelin." His previously-scheduled appearance at the March 17 program was postponed due to illness.

Mrs. Gates chose a pink dress of lace and linen for the wedding ceremony, while the bridegroom's mother selected a cocoa brown, print dress with white accessories. Edgar Nash, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, performed the services of best man. Guests were seated by William Beitner and Robert Bateman. Attending the reception which followed in the church parlors were 175 guests from Plymouth, Northville, Detroit, Highland Park, Saline, Holly, Milford, Quincey and northern Michigan, as well as from Columbus, Ohio. For going away, the bride chose a baby blue knit suit with turquoise accessories. Two weeks in Florida was planned as the wedding trip. The couple are residing at 1042 Starkweather, Plymouth. The bride is a graduate of Northville high school, while the bridegroom graduated from high school in Plymouth.

Bahai's Mark New Year

Bahai's of the Detroit Metropolitan area, Romulus, Van Buren
Twp., Plymouth, Inkster, Ypsisanti and Ann Arbor celebrated the Bahai New Year on Tuesday evening, March 21. Mrs. Doris Lindemann, Romulus, and Mrs.
Lawrence Thomas, 42033 Van
Buren road, joined forces with Bahai's and their friends in Ann Arbor where the feast was celebrated with a pot-luck supper followed by the showing of films of the Holy Land.

New Ruz, the Bahai New Year,
heralding the year 113 of the Bahai dispensation, was observed by Bahai's throughout the world on March 21. The Bahai calendar, inaugurated in 1844 at the beginning of the Bahai era, provides for 19 months of 19 days each, with 4 intercalary (5 in leap year) days added between the last two months. The final month,
March 2 to 20, is devoted to fasting, when Bahai's take no food from sunrise to sunset.

New-Ruz, coinciding with the first day of spring, celebrates not only the return of life and fruitfulness with each physical springtime, but the new life God shows on mankind with each spiritual springtime, when His religion is renewed, and a new era begins.

Dr. L. K. Anderson, missionary to Africa, will be the guest speaker this Sunday morning at Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian church in Livonia. He will preach at both the 9:30 and 11 a.m.
services.

Determined as a small boy to be a missionary, he fulfilled his ambition by arriving in West Africa in 1927. He served three fields and trained African leaders for the church. He also helped translate the Old Testament into Bulu and did work on the unrecorded Bafia language, being the only white man to speak that language.

From 1930 to 1950 he worked in New York as secretary for Africa and Latin American missions, making several trips to Latin American nations. In 1950 he returned to his old African field and has been there ever since.
Mrs. Anderson has helped him in all of his arduous activities.

Israel has been censored by the U. N. Security Council, unanimously, which is something of a record in itself.

Rosedale Gardens

Mrs. Joseph R. Talbot, Jr.
GARfield 1-5847

Little Connie Sullivan, 9918 Cranston, is back in school after undergoing a tonsillectomy operation a couple of weeks ago.

The Rosedale Gardens PTA held their election of officers for the 1956-57 season at the March 7 meeting. The nominating committee, consisting of Ruth Lane, Flora Bryton, Claire Lutz, Patty Crow and Lillian Wolverson, presented the following slate, which was unanimously approved: President, Mrs. Frank Wicks; First vice president, Mrs. John Griffith; second vice president, Mrs. John Nabrazy; third vice president, Mrs. Arthur Larson; recording secretary, Mrs. Iva Mellvain; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. L. Whitfield; treasurer, Mrs. L. C. Houdek; and council delegates, Mrs. Edwin Bradford, Mrs. Charles Olmstead and Mrs. L. F. Brayton.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harsha, Jr. and daughters, Ruth, Nan and Joan Ellen spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harsha, Sr., 11317 Arden. Little Ruth was royally entertained at a family birthday dinner given by her grandparents. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Harsha.

Four girls from our community are taking part in a six-week future teacher program at the Rosedale Gardens school. Marcia Wegans, Nancy Carlson, Kay Seelinger and Bonnie Steele will spend Tuesday and Thursday afternoons for two weeks in observing the total school. The next week will be spent in a particular classroom, and finally they will have the experience of working directly with the children in some activity such as story telling, at length with teacher supervision. There will be an evaluation period.

Mr. and Mrs. John Nabrazy entertained Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Henderson and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Stefaniak at a dinner party on Sunday, March 18 in their home, 11827 Cranston. Mrs. Nabrazy's father, Mr. Henderson, celebrated his birthday on March 17, so dinner table decorations and centerpiece, including cake, were green and white.

Parents of children in the kindergarten classes at Rosedale school were delighted to hear that there are two sessions of kindergarten now instead of three. New hours will be morning session from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and afternoon session from 1 to 3:30 p.m.

Seventeen or 18 children from the Nursery school of the Rosedale Gardens Civic association spent a memorable day on Tuesday, March 13. The following mothers drove the children into Plymouth and accompanied them on the train ride to downtown Detroit: Rosemary Hilgers, Betty Broscious, Jean Fenn, Joyce Heiby, Muriel Holman, and one brave father, John Vernier, who was on his way downtown to work. The Chesapeake and Ohio railroad gave each of the children a button, showing their well-known trade mark, the sleeping kitten, which gave them a tangible memento of the day.

Phyllis Houghtby, Marion Sullivan, Sally Thomas and Margie Shalotko drove to the Fort street station to pick the children up and drive them back home.

Kite Flying Time is Hear Again ... But Don't Turn Fun into Disaster

When Plymouth youngsters begin searching the house for pieces of string, bits of cloth and remnants of last year's kite, you can be sure that springtime is here. For many generations kite-flying has been recognized as a sign of spring right along with the gusty winds of March, the first robin, roller skating and marble shooting. And, already some of our young residents have abandoned their favorite winter pastimes and have begun rigging and flying their first kites of 1956. But before the season gets into full swing, R. P. Douglas, head of Detroit Edison's safety department, would like to pass along a few simple rules for keeping the fun in and the danger out of kite-flying. Here they are:

1. Always fly kites in open fields—away from overhead wires and away from streets and roads where traffic is an additional hazard.
  2. Use a wooden kite frame; wood is a non-conductor of electricity.
  3. Use "plain" kite-string; avoid all tinsel wire or cord that has any appearance of being metallic. Metallic cord can carry electricity to your hand and cause painful injury or fatal shock.
  4. If the kite does catch on a pole or tree, leave it there. It's too bad to lose it but making a new kite is fun—and climbing for the old one might result in a fall or electric shock.
  5. Never fly your kite during an electrical storm. Ben Franklin used a kite in his experiment with electricity. But he was lucky not to have been killed.
  6. When you're running to raise your kite or keep it in the air, watch your step rather than your kite—it may save you a bad bump or tumble.
- Some people will remember last spring when a man was flying a kite for his grandson near Starkweather avenue. String with tinsel wire was used and fell across a power line. Electricity in part of the city and township was out for several hours, but fortunately the kite flyer escaped injury.
- "Kite-flying is a great sport for beginners and veterans of many springs alike," Douglas said, "and it can be safe if these rules are observed."

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Delia Bradley reports that Girl Scout Troop 6 had an overnight at the Kiwanis-Girl Scout lodge on Friday, March 16. Patrol 3 was in charge of preparing the dinner, patrol 2 the entertainment, and patrol 1 the preparation of breakfast Saturday morning. Mrs. M. Canine and Mrs. Woodrow Tichy are leaders of Troop 6.

Judy Hardimon reports that Brownie Troop 7 has been working on booklets to send to the Veterans of Foreign Wars hospital chairman, who will turn them over to the children's ward at Maybury sanatorium. Mrs. Robert Dickman is the leader of Troop 7.

Although aluminum is still a young metal in the early stages of growth, it is consumed in greater volume than any other non-ferrous metal, exceeding the combined volume of copper, lead and zinc.

Democrats Plan Registration Drive

Plans were laid for a precinct-to-precinct registration drive beginning in April when the Plymouth Democratic club held their monthly meeting.

Stressing the fact that this year's election could well be decided by a few votes in each precinct, Orville Tungate, Plymouth party chairman, declared that "Voting should not be considered a duty, nor an obligation, but rather a privilege—a privilege that a majority of the people in the world do not enjoy."

Although I strongly urge support for the Democratic candidates, the aim of this drive is to see that all eligible voters are registered, regardless of political convictions."

A resolution was unanimously adopted to urge a non-endorsement policy towards Democratic candidates in the 17th district primary election. It was felt that each candidate should be judged upon his individual merits on a non-partial basis.

Noting a 30 per cent rise in Plymouth Democratic voting strength in recent years, Chairman Tungate also urged all Democrats in Plymouth to take an active part in the party and attend the April meeting in the hall located at Pearl and Holbrook.

Stark-Newburg PTA Elects Officers Tuesday

Stark-Newburg PTA will hold its regular monthly meeting at the Stark school at 8 p.m. Tuesday, March 27. There will be an election of officers for the three newly-formed PTA groups.

Program for the evening will be centered around scout activities with cub, boy, and girl scouts participating in the event. All parents are urged to attend this meeting.

The PTA is also sponsoring a card party on Friday, April 13, to be held in the multi-purpose room of Stark school. Tickets are now available.

VFW Sponsors Fish Fry

A fish fry will be sponsored tomorrow night, March 23, by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Mayflower post No. 6695, at the post hall on Lilley road.

Hours for the event are 5:30 to 7 p.m. The public is invited to attend. Tickets will be available at the door.

43-42 Defeat Ousts Plymouth In Basketball Tourney Action

It was "three strikes and out" for the Plymouth cagers when they faced Bentley last Thursday night in the second round of the class "A" regional basketball tourney held last week in Ypsilanti.

For the third time this year, twice in regular season play and then in the second pairings of the now-finished regionals, the Plymouth cage crew was unable to halt the Bentley machine, which captured the 1955-56 champion Six league basketball crown.

The Rocks were knocked out of further competition in the regional action as the Bulldogs pinned a nerve-tangling 43-42 defeat on the locals. Plymouth earlier whipped up an opening round victory over Ypsilanti to advance to the second stage of the post-season battling.

Once again it was lofty Ron English who paved the way for the Bentley decision. He accounted for 19 points in leading his teammates into the regional final game. When Bentley stopped Plymouth in two regularly scheduled games this year, English tallied 30 and 26 points to stave off the hopeful Rocks.

Plymouth had both the desire and the opportunity to win when Bentley suffered one of its few "uprights" of the campaign. But despite these favorable features the Rocks couldn't scrape up that last ounce of reserve skill to overcome their green and white jersey arch-rivals from Livonia.

Scrambling back from a one-time ten-point shortage, the Plymouth squad staged a futile last-minute rally in a spirited attempt to beat the Bulldogs on the huge playing court at Michigan State Normal college's Bowen Field House.

Throughout the entire second half the Rocks displayed an uphill struggle to overhaul the Bulldogs. And they almost made it as Plymouth trailed even at 35-35 with 6:09 remaining in the tilt when Jerry Steele, who played all year in the shadow of Tom Ferguson, dumped in a field goal and a free toss. Ferguson had fouled out of the encounter a minute earlier.

Then the locals went out in front for the first, last and only time as Steele contributed another bucket with 5:23 to go. But at basket and a charity shot by Ted Regal shoved the Bulldogs ahead 38-37 with 4:19 left to play.

The Rocks fought valiantly in an effort to catch Bentley over the span of the closing moments, but English and Co. were not to be denied. Regal stretched Bentley's margin to 40-37 with 3:22 left. Plymouth's Dick Davidson connected to shave the deficit to 40-39. English on a free throw and a bucket pushed his team in front by a 43-39 count with a minute and ten seconds remaining.

Rocks' Ken Calhoun, on a driving lay-up hit for two and drew foul shot in the process. He scored it and flickered the scoreboard to its final mark.

However the Plymouth fans whooped when Jack Carter had at chance with 40 seconds left to tie the battle with a free throw. He failed. Then the locals expected one more assault at the Bentley boards in the waning seconds. The Rocks got off three shots at the basket but missed all three. Bentley gathered in the rebound finally and it was all over.

Both squads opened the contest slowly and scored ineffectively throughout the first period. English with 14 points in the first half led Bentley to a 25-21 half-time edge after shaping a 12-8 lead at the end of the initial eight minutes.

Sheele and Davidson shouldered the scoring for Plymouth with 11 and 10 respectively. Carter tallied six, Calhoun and Ferguson each five in a failing cause. English with 19 was tops for the winners while Dick Clark added 11 to bolster the point-production for the Bentley five.

That same evening Ann Arbor notched a 59-42 conquest of Monroe with a 37-point surge in the second half. The count at the intermission was 22-20 favor Ann Arbor. As a result Bentley and Ann Arbor clashed last Saturday for the Regional crown, the winner of which moves into the state class "A" championships this week.

Like I Said, Doc This Pink Duck Was Flying Low

If you think you see a pink duck sometime during the next several weeks, there's no need to rush off to an eye doctor or a psychiatrist—technicolor waterfowl actually are winging their way north.

Many ducks and geese have been banded and dyed various colors as part of special studies on local movements and migrations of waterfowl. The studies are being conducted by the federal Fish and Wildlife Service and conservation agencies in several states.

Bird watchers in Michigan may detect the marked birds, generally with the aid of binoculars, during spring migration flights which take place from mid-March until May.

Canada geese have been marked at southern wintering grounds with colored neck bands and dyes. The dyed ducks include such species as green-winged teal, pintails, ring-necked, baldpate (wide-gon) and scaup (bluebill). Other species, as well as the dyed birds, have been marked with identifying leg bands.

Persons who sight any of the specially-colored birds are requested to contact the Conservation Department's game division at Lansing, giving specific information as to color combinations, locations of coloring on the birds and where and when the birds were seen.

Tripp Bows Out In Quarter Finals Of State Tourney

Geo. Tripp basketball team, this year's local recreation league champ, was ousted at the quarter-final mark of the Michigan state recreation class "B" tournament by Mount Pleasant, 95-76, last Friday. The tourney was held in Adrian.

The trippers fell back 25-9 at the end of the first period in a rough and ragged contest against Mt. Pleasant. This wide spread was too much for the local champions to overcome despite good scoring efforts in each of the remaining three quarters.

Don Huebler paced the losers, who trailed at the half 46-28. Huebler dunked in 23 points on seven field goals and nine free tosses while Bob Lults and Duane Becker each tallied 16 points in a futile cause. Mt. Pleasant's scoring was handled by Ed Van derwerf with 31 points and Sam Gerow with 21.

Class "B" state recreation champion was decided Saturday with the title going to Adrian, the home team and last year's defending crown holder. Adrian capped the trophy with a 78-77 nod over semi-finalist Mt. Pleasant. In the semi-final round of play Mt. Pleasant earned its crack at Adrian with an 82-58 victory over Monroe while Adrian was setting down Wayne 82-69. In addition to Tripp's loss, other quarter-final games included Wayne's 71-60 win over Albion, Adrian's 74-71 edge over Roseville and Montic's 62-51 conquest of Marshall.

Baseball, Track, Golf Seasons Open Next Month for Rocks

Plymouth high school's spring sports schedule unfolds itself next month with the first track meet of the year which takes place on April 12 against Redford Union here. In short order the rest of the slate consisting of golf and baseball gets rolling.

The initial golf battle of the fledgling campaign will be held April 16 when the Rocks face Southfield high school there. On April 20 the baseball season is begun as the local diamond squad squares off against Belleville there.

All three athletic squads will enjoy full schedules. The track meets will be held at regional, state and league matches. The baseball team looks forward to 14 tilts including two Saturday battles, a new feature for the Rocks' diamond men. The links team will wade through 11 dual matches and regional and league meets.

Golf Coach John Sandmann reports that the locals will kick off their practices as soon as the weather allows. Returning letter-winners from last year's squad include Tom Carmichael, Staton Lovenz and Bill Rambo. With this threesome as his main brace, Sandmann will attempt to better the 1955 showing of five wins and six defeats. Last year the Rocks finished third in the league. Bentley was champ.

Coach Charlie Ketterer plans to initiate baseball drills on March 27, content to remain inside until better weather allows his team to move outside. A meeting of diamond hopefuls will be held March 26 in preparation for the beginning of regular drills.

Track mentor Keith Baughman, with John McFall, already has opened the thinned workouts. He began last week with indoor practices awaiting good weather when the more than 40 hopefuls will move out-of-doors for more serious drills.

No tennis team will be fielded by Plymouth this year due to lack of a coach, explained Athletic Director John Sandmann last week.

Hoax Dogs Local Cagers In Regional Tournaments

The sturdiest barrier in Plymouth high school's basketball path withstood the Rocks' most recent assault successfully. And once more the locals were unable to hurdle the second round of regional post-season cage play.

It's an old story with the various Plymouth quintets of past years. They often overpower their first-round opponents in the regionals. When Plymouth was a class "B" school, the Rocks had to capture a district crown in order to even enter regional action.

But once into the second frame of pairings in the regionals Plymouth stalls. It is this step on the ladder to post-season fame that invariably halts the Rocks. They appear jinxed in efforts to advance further.

John Sandmann, who is athletic director at Plymouth and was previously head varsity basketball mentor here, has records that support this fact. He can check back to 1948-49 when he was just starting out at the local camp. If his statistics are any indications of what came before him and what is in the future for the Rocks, it seems that Plymouth is up against a stone wall in regional second round games.

Sandmann's records extend back only as far as 1948 but the period since then served to mark Plymouth sufficiently along the cage trails. It is not recorded whether the Rocks ever made better progress in post-season tourneys to that date.

At the beginning of Sandmann's reign the locals fared poorly in district tourneys and did not even get into the regionals. At that time the Rocks completed in class "B" and preceded regional battling with a district play-off. Since then, however, Plymouth has become a class "A" school, in which post-season tourneys do not include a district but begin directly with regional pairings.

In 1948-49, Plymouth bowed in the first-round districts to Farmington by a wide margin. The next year the Rocks were ousted in the district first round by Walled Lake.

But in 1950-51 the Rocks copped the district crown with three straight victories (over Redford Union, 45-32; Garden City, 56-26; and Bentley, 47-46) to move into the class "B" regionals at Pontiac. The locals drew a first round bye and then dumped a headline into the blockade that has since become so familiar to them. In the second round Utica pumpeled one of the best teams of which Plymouth can boast. Final score was 57-37.

The following year the Plymouth quintet repeated this showing. The Rocks won the district crown by virtue of a first round bye and decisions over Farmington, 34-33; and Bentley, 45-44. The locals drew a bye in the first round of the "B" regionals and were halted again at the second round. Again it was Utica by a 46-36 tally which ousted the Rocks.

In 1952-53 the locals competed in class "A" for the first time. Moving directly from regular season play to the regionals, as is the prerogative of "A" schools, Plymouth again gained the second round with a 61-52 conquest of Lincoln Park in the opening pairings. But Fordson opened the second-round whammy on the Rocks with a 75-55 win thereby eliminating them.

A season later the Rocks failed to gain the second round of regional action as Fordson gave them the boot in the initial pairings, 61-50.

In 1954-55 the local cagers almost moved to the third round. Opening with a 37-33 nod over Detroit St. Joseph the Rocks, who that year shared the league crown, then took on Catholic Central in the second stage. For 26 seconds of the last minute of the game, Plymouth appeared to have beaten both CC and the second round jinx. But the Shamrocks scored with 22 seconds to go and Plymouth bowed out 52-51 at their familiar spot in the regional play-off, the second round.

It was the same story this year. The locals opened with a 52-36 victory over Ypsilanti and tried desperately to snip the hoax with a late-game second-round rally against Bentley. But the Bulldogs held back the Rocks to nab a 43-42 edge and send Plymouth on its way.

Five times in the last eight years Plymouth has moved to the second glittering step on the regional stair only to be halted there with frustrating consistency. But such familiarity does not shape a necessarily permanent friendship and each year the odds go more and more in favor of the Rocks. Eventually the locals will reach a point where the odds have to go their way... it says here.

Resident, Member of Teaching Staff For Scout Training Programs

On the teaching staff for a series of basic training programs in cub scouting, boy scouting and exploring of the Sunset district, Boy Scouts of America, which started Tuesday in Livonia, is Plymouthite Stewart Dodge, cubmaster of Pac' 6, sponsored by the local Lions club.

The cub and exploring training programs are being held at Jefferson elementary school, corner Henry Ruff and West Chicago, while the boy scout program is being held in the all-purpose room at Stark elementary school, corner Pinetree and Stark road. The cub scouting program consists of six two-hour sessions, one night a week. All cubmasters and their assistants, pack committees, pack administrators, den mothers, institutional representatives and commissioners who have not completed the Cub Scout Leaders Basic training, are urged to attend. Parents are also cordially welcome. Subjects include program planning, the achievement plan, den and pack meetings, pack administration, den mother and den-chief relationships.

Boy Scout Leaders Basic Training consists of six two-hour sessions, one night per week plus an outdoor week-end at the D-Bar-A Scout ranch near Metamora, Michigan. Purpose is to train scoutmasters and their assistants, troop committees, institutional representatives and commissioners in the fundamentals of the program, its aims and objectives and the patrol method of scouting. The course includes "Organization and Leadership,"

"Helping The Boy Grow," "Ingredients of Good Troop Meetings," "Program Planning," "Patrol and Troop Hiking," "Patrol and Troop Camping" and practical application in the out-of-doors.

Training for explorer leaders includes four two-hour indoor sessions and one overnight experience. All elected explorer leaders as well as explorer advisors and assistants, post committeemen and explorer dads are requested to attend the training program. Subjects are "Fundamentals-What Exploring Is," "Explorer Leadership," "Explorer Program," "Explorer Service" and "Explorer Expeditions."

The Sunset District covers approximately 300 square miles and includes such communities as Belleville, Denton, Inkster, Garden City, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth, Romulus, Sheldon and Wayne.

There will be a small registration fee for the entire training program. Those wishing to make up previous sessions they missed may do so without a fee. All sessions start at 7:30 p.m.

The last seven days have been busy ones for us having attended five different dinner parties with various friends throughout the community during that time. No matter where we were or who we were with sometime during the evening someone always turned the discussion to our present local school problems . . . more children . . . the addition of more districts . . . new grade schools . . . a new junior high school. It was perfectly obvious that the whole community is awakened to the growth problem, and it was further obvious that all were beginning to think about the effect of this expansion as reflected in their own future tax bills.

In the first place I should state that everyone expressed the opinion that they were prepared at all times to vote at anytime for more school improvements . . . all realized their obligation to the children of the community and all wanted the best school system that was economically possible. However, all wondered when the school tax load was going to reach a ceiling and all wondered if it might not be possible to find some method of providing all of the necessities for modern education and yet give serious consideration to economy along the way.

One matron with three children in the school system said that for the life of her she couldn't see why, in the proposed junior high school plans, so little room was allocated for shop and home economics, which were required subjects of all junior high students, in comparison to the spacious quarters allocated for band and choral work, which were not required and had probably one fourth of the student percentage usage that the former two would have.

Other people advanced various questions and opinions. Unfortunately most of those directed at me about the actual planning I couldn't answer having been out of touch with the intricate workings of the school since I left the school board . . . and having only a reading knowledge through The Plymouth Mail of what the schools are planning for the future. There were many however, who felt that the renting of churches and other temporary space was not a satisfactory solution to the immediate problem.

In this I agreed having seen the same plan in action while on the Board and knowing the problems we encountered by holding classes out of our own buildings. Many wondered why additions couldn't be added to our present schools as a cost-saving method of getting additional rooms ready for use by fall.

I know the Board of Education studied this possibility but I am wondering perhaps, with all of the local interest in this possibility, if the Board might not be wise to re-evaluate this idea before making any hasty decision.

In the first place the Board has three new grade schools, Bird, Smith and Allen. Each has ample land for addition . . . each has ample heating, sewer and water facilities, and for reasons of economy the same set of plans used for each building could simply be imposed over the originals and another wing could be added identical with the others. Each principal could, without effort, supervise four or five more teachers and certainly no kiddie would suffer just because his school building had one hundred or more additional students.

A check with contractors revealed the fact that the basic facilities would accommodate the additions, a terrific basic cost saving, and further revealed the fact that all three building additions could be started at once and opened for usage by September first if available building materials were used. This does not mean the shelving of Gallimore school, but it would give the board ample time to do that job at its leisure, provide the space needed by next fall, and get under way another building to care for its needs in another year or so.

There are no state regulations which would prohibit the building of these additions and the using of the same plans, another big cost saving factor. In fact the new Gallimore school could be built from the same plans used by Bird, Smith or Allen schools if the Board so desired to use them. As a matter of fact all three of these schools could also have been built from the same set of plans. There is no limit to the number of rooms in any building and even a second story could be added if wanted. Our present schools are called the most desirable and are planned as such, but if economy necessitates the curtailing of some of these luxuries there isn't anything anyone can do about it.

As far as locating schools near the projected centers of population it is certainly most desirable but no one can tell us we have to do it. In fact the state pays for the school bus and the transporting of our children, if we keep the costs in line, so all three buildings could have been built on a fifty acre site and the buses could bring all of the children to the same location if necessary at no cost to the taxpayer. This, of course, isn't prudent but it could be done.

The right of the people to know is basic to the preservation of our freedom, and fundamental to our American way of life. The infringement of this right, whether by government or by groups, or by individuals, no matter in what small measure it may begin, will lead to tyranny and the death of liberty.

A re-evaluation by the Board of the whole overall picture might be wise . . . wise especially in view of the fact that during the years ahead it will need the support of all of the taxpayers in the school district to approve its further expansion. Certainly any public displays of economy efforts will impress the taxpayer today and make him more willing to gladly vote more dollars out of his pocket in the years ahead.

The school lobby and school organizations of America are one of the most powerful forces at work today. All Americans are alert to the responsibility they have to the child . . . they know it is their responsibility to provide educational facilities, but these same forces must be as alert to the stretching of the taxpayer's dollar as they are to the modernization of their procedures and expansions.

The average family has just so much income and though now well educated to its responsibility in regard to education it will reach a point where it will rebel when tax dollars shrink food, clothing and other necessary budgetary items . . . Rebel to the point that sooner or later it will say "no" when called upon for help, and it is this innuendo which we sensed at all of these social gatherings . . . sensed them so seriously that we ask again, let's really take another good look at these possibilities before going ahead . . . It really could save the poor old taxpayer thousands of dollars if done and still provide ample educational facilities for our children.

★ THINKING OUT LOUD ★

One question, sometimes controversial, sometimes personal is asked each week by The Mail of four pedestrians along Plymouth's downtown streets. This week's guests are "thinking out loud" on the question:

Last week we asked adults if they thought teachers should be allowed to spank children. Today we are asking boys and girls at Bird elementary school the question, "Do you think bad children should be spanked either at school or home?"

JANE VALLIER, 1338 Penniman (4th grade): "I think that if they act bad enough in school, they should be spanked. But if they just whisper or something like that, I don't think a child should be spanked. At home it depends on what they do. I think parents should have that privilege. No, I haven't been spanked recently."

MIKE CARNEY, 238 South Main (5th grade): "No I don't think it's all right to spank them. Our teacher doesn't spank. He makes us write sentences and you can remember that longer. I think it's all right to get spanked at home. I haven't gotten a spanking for I don't know how long."

MARY HULSING, 1010 Church (sixth grade): "Unless it is just something terrible, I don't think a child should be spanked in school. The teacher should send you to the office. Spanking would just make things worse. It should be the parents' decision if they want to spank. It depends on what they have done, like breaking windows as they did here at the school."

JIM KROPP, 45170 West Ann Arbor Trail (sixth grade): "In school I don't think it is a good idea. Spanking the child makes him rebel and gets him madder at the teacher. At home it is their own business. I guess I haven't been spanked for seven years."

Who Wants Uranium? Sunshine's Much More Profitable!

Readers are still being pestered by Canadian brokers to buy uranium stocks. News items about building reactors on college campuses keep up the interest. From studies, I believe that your money, if put in savings banks, can be both safer and more profitable than if put into a speculative clay bank.

URANIUM IS VALUABLE

Uranium will have its uses, but for many years these will be confined to military purposes, especially in connection with ammunition, shipping, guided missiles, and movable electrical plants. Uranium, however, is subject to many competitors, including water power, oil, natural gas, and cheap coal. These other natural resources will hold down the price of uranium, especially in view of its great quantity all over the world. The main thing for the oil and gas people to fear is legislative persecution such as the electric utilities suffered under Roosevelt. The recent action of the U. S. Senate, however, in connection with the natural gas bill, shows that there is no reason to fear such destructive legislation at present.

Probably the first competitor that all these natural power resources will face is the unused power from the sun. This has tremendous possibilities and will some day be harnessed. Looking ahead many years, I see much more profit in buying properly located land in Florida, Texas, Arizona, New Mexico, and southern California, where the heat of the sun is great, than in buying land in Colorado, Utah, or somewhere else with the hope of getting uranium.

DON'T FORGET GRAVITY

Grandpa used gravity to help regulate his tall clock; later it was used to develop power from falling water. There are other uses for gravity, though they are very few at present. Yet, when we think of the tremendous unused power of the ocean tides, we realize the possibilities of harnessing gravity. Today gravity power is where steam power was 200 years ago. Men of that era knew steam would lift the cover of a kettle, but no one knew how to harness it. For details, write the Gravity Research Foundation, New Boston, N. H.

The secret of harnessing most power is to have a "differential" which will enable the power to work in opposite directions. The great work of Watt's in harnessing steam was to devise the reciprocal engine, which provided a differential, permitting the steam to automatically enter opposite ends of the cylinder of his engine. This means that the harnessing of gravity may await the discovery of a partial insulator of gravity—probably some new alloy. As there are millions of different alloys which have not yet been tested, it is probable that a particular insulator of gravity will be discovered.

REMEMBER THE REVOLUTION OF THE GLOBE

As you read this column, do you realize that you are moving at the rate of 1,000 miles per hour? (The world is approximately 24,000 miles in circumference and the day consists of 24 hours.) This revolution offers the greatest opportunity for free power. Furthermore, it will not need a differential in order to be harnessed. The most hopeful thing is that most physicists, astronomers, and other scientists agree that they do not know what makes the world revolve! They do not accept seriously the standard theory that—like a baseball—our globe was sent twirling when it was thrown off from the sun or some other planet and has been twirling for billions of years ever since.

In view of experiments with toy meters, where the revolving armature has no electrical connection with the magnetic field, another theory is possible. This is, that the interior of our globe consists of some new metals or alloys making it the rotor of a great meter. The field of this meter is the electrical waves coming from the sun and other planets or generated by the clouds. Thomas Edison told me that more static electricity is used in one thunderstorm than is produced each day by all the power companies in the U. S.

State Keeps Rising Costs, Taxes in Balance

State government costs will set a new record for next year but everybody expects a balanced budget.

These peculiar forecasts are based on prosperity of the past 12 months with the increase in tax yields just barely offsetting increased costs of government.

Legislators, juggling such things as the "growth factor" of taxes—the bigger net yield which normally follows a business boom—and expanded services are into the final stage of budget business.

At the moment, the 1956-57 budget looks something like $315,000,000. Gov. Williams asked for $369,000,000. Republicans in the Senate aimed for $310,000,000. House finance leaders hoped to pare off the requests, ending with $305,000,000.

Williams based his budget figures on a $25,000,000 surplus, which he said could be used to cover part of the requests. Republicans said the surplus was more like $17,000,000 and hoped to avoid spending it for operations.

"If we did, we would have a government next year that we couldn't afford," said Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton).

Already banging away at Republican cuts in his requests, Williams is charging that more than $1,500,000 was slashed out of the public health bill.

He said that a tuberculosis case-finding program will suffer, along with other major projects. "We always have and always will take care of the financial needs of any program to safeguard the health of our citizens," said Senator Elmer R. Porter (R-Blissfield) appropriations committee chairman.

Senator Clyde H. Geerlings will run again for the seat in the legislature he occupies for Muskegon and Ottawa counties.

Earlier, he said he would quit because he was tired of "being a champion of lost causes."

Folks back home rounded up petitions, bombarded him with mail and resolutions from civic groups, urging him to reconsider his decision.

So Geerlings, a Republican who often supports ideas representative of the conservative Republican view but who at times lacks support in his own party, reconsidered.

His major irritation was the indifference with which his constituents treated legislation important to their welfare. It's a common plight in Lansing.

Direct mail campaigns are normally pretty well organized, and the sincerity of the appeal is often suspected for that reason. But the mail Geerlings received urging him to run again, smacked of the kind of sincerity most often found in concerned friends. So Geerlings will be back—if he wins—with a slightly different view of his constituents.

Veterans of Foreign Wars

A record turnout attended the St. Patrick's Day dance at the Post hall on Saturday, March 17. We hope all who attended enjoyed themselves and will return again on Saturday, April 21, when the Post will hold another regular dance.

Tuesday, March 20, the Auxiliary held their election of officers for the ensuing year. A complete list of the newly-elected officers appears elsewhere in the Mail. Watch for the date of the chairman's meeting sometime in April for the purpose of preparing and computing our honor points earned by each committee.

We have all plans well in progress for the Cancer Card party to be held on Tuesday, April 10, at our Post hall at 8 p.m. Each member has tickets and is asked to sell at least four to make up one complete table. Refreshments will be served and we have extra prizes to be given away. We hope you keep the date open and help with this cancer and publicity project. Proceeds will go entirely to the Cancer Research fund.

In April, the Post is planning their 10th anniversary celebration. Full details of the celebration will be announced later. Our auxiliary is proud to be a part of this happy occasion of the 10th anniversary of the Mayflower post 6695. We have come a long way during that period of time and the post has accomplished much now owning their own new post hall.

Favorite Recipes

Plymouth's Kitchens

Cook Spareribs
Hawaiian Style

Stepping into the Harold Niles home on 399 Pacific some late afternoon you might happen to sniff a sweet-sour aroma from the kitchen, finding its source a vinegar and brown sugar mixture brewing away on the back of the stove as preparation for Hawaiian Spare Ribs.

That's the favorite recipe we have this week, which goes under the formal name of "Island Sweet-Sour Ribs." An authentic Hawaiian dish, Mrs. Niles was given the recipe by an islander visiting in this country. You'll like its delicious flavor, too, accented with a touch of soy sauce.

The resident points out that the dish is less greasy than most as frying the spareribs beforehand, step 1 in its preparation, removes the excess grease. Suggested accompaniments are buttered rice, harvard beets and fruit compote to complete a tasty meal.

Island Sweet-Sour Ribs

- 2 pounds of lean spare ribs
- 3-5 tablespoons of brown sugar
- 1/2 cup of vinegar
- 1/2 cup of soy sauce

Fry chopped spare ribs in lightly greased frying pan until golden brown. Transfer to heavy kettle in which the 1/2 cup of vinegar is simmering. Add soy sauce and brown sugar. Cook slowly, covered for 1 1/2 to 2 hours.

Mrs. Harold Niles of 399 Pacific gets sideline assistance from her daughter Lynn, 8, in switching the browned spareribs to the kettle for preparation of "Island Sweet-Sour Ribs."

VISITORS AT DUNNING library will have an opportunity to examine this piece of uranium ore which Mrs. Joe Arnold shows to her son Guy, 5, as part of a rock collection loaned to the branch by Elden G. Kracht of Livonia. A mineralogist and prospector, Kracht stands behind a scintillator which registers amount of radio-activity, while at right is Mrs. Warren Worth, library staff member. The display, gathered up on western camping trips, includes lithium ore used in hydrogen bomb preparation, beryl ore, source of material for atomic reactors; fish fossil discovered 9,000 feet above sea level, remains of an ancient sea covering the Wyoming area, dinosaur's stomach stone, chert containing flint used by early man for starting fires, fashioning tools and later by Indians for arrow-heads. The collection of some 15 articles will be on display for several weeks.

Business Women Hear Civil Defense Talk

A talk on civil defense needs of this locality and ways in which they may be met was given Monday night before the Business and Professional Women's club of Plymouth by Wyatt Barnes of Detroit.

The speaker, assistant to William S. Evans, deputy director of civil defense for Wayne county, addressed the group at its 6:30 dinner meeting in the Mayflower hotel. Films were also shown on civil defense work in connection with the talk.

Choral Groups
Present Concert
Tuesday Evening

"Festival of Song," the first Choral concert of the spring season, will be presented Tuesday, March 27, at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The high school choir, mixed chorus, and Girl's Glee club, directed by Fred C. Nelson, will be the featured groups.

The choir will sing "There Shall A Star Come Out of Jacob," "This Joyful Easter Tide," "The Battle of Jericho," "Good Day," "Inch Worm," "Shenandoah." The Glee club will sing "Now Praise Be the Lord," "The Shepherdess," "Beautiful Dreamer," "The Night was Made for Love," and "April Morning."

"Palm Branches," "I've Been Working on the Railroad," and "Chippewacas," will be sung by the mixed chorus. Triple Trios will sing "Peaceful Evening," "Love and Marriage," and "He." The Choraletts will sing "When I Have Sung My Song," "At Even Tide," and "I'm Going to Wash That Man Right Out of My Hair." Pianist Ronnie Rowe will also perform.

Goodwill Trucks Visit
Plymouth-Area Monday

The next regularly scheduled visit of Goodwill trucks in the Plymouth area is Monday, March 25, announced Miss Edith Sorenson, local telephone representative for Goodwill Industries.

Anyone desiring to contribute discarded materials to help the handicapped help themselves, may do so by calling Miss Sorenson at Northville 571 before the pick-up date. Goodwill trucks stop only on request.

Needed are clothing, shoes, toys, small appliances and most types of furniture which would be discarded during spring housecleaning. The articles will replenish depleted stock piles of material at Goodwill Industries which provide employment opportunities for its 400 physically-handicapped workers. Goodwill headquarters are at 6522 Brush, Detroit.

Spring Look In Linen

THE LONG, MOULDED LOOK of winter moves gracefully into spring wardrobes. As leading designers offer an exciting array of dresses, here is a slim-line suit of purest Irish linen, with the popular one-piece look. Slender as a flower stem, the skirt is tiered from just below the waist. Blouse has convertible Peter Pan collar, short cuffed sleeves, hand bound buttonholes and self-covered buttons. It comes in flower tones of blue, pink and yellow, a natural wheat shade, velvety black and navy.

Here's Dessert That Stands Gaff of Lunch-Box Travels

Every year 'round March and April, Mom begins to run out of ideas for lunch box desserts. As a suggestion to really surprise your family next time you pack lunches, slip in a piece of moist, taste pleasing jelly roll. Home economists advocate lard, a versatile cooking shortening, when making this lunch box wonder. Lard produces cakes with a fine crumb and feathery lightness which retain their moist, firm texture.

Sift flour with baking powder. Separate eggs. Beat whites until stiff and yolks until creamy, then fold together. Gradually add sugar, then flour mixture, then vanilla and last the hot milk combined with lard. Pour into a jelly roll pan 11 x 17 inches and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 20 minutes. Turn onto a slightly dampened cloth. Trim 1/2 inch of crust from sides. Spread with jelly and roll. Dust with confectioner's sugar. Yield: 10 to 12 servings.

Here's a good way to remove mildew stains from washable white cotton material: mix together soft soap, powdered starch, salt and lemon juice. Apply this paste to both sides of the material and expose to the sun until the mildew disappears. Wash as usual.

Jelly Roll
1 1/2 cups sifted enriched flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
3 eggs
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
3/4 cup scalded milk
2 tablespoons lard
1 glass plum jelly
2 tablespoons confectioner's sugar

Parasols, Tank Suits, Have Fashion Revival

The shirtwaist dress is popular for Spring and Summer. This is one of the classic designs that is always in good taste. It is worn for almost every occasion. The cotton shirtwaist is a good choice for grocery shopping or for a round of golf. The linen or silk shirtwaist makes a lovely afternoon dress and the satin and the linen with satin or jeweled trim makes an elegant cocktail dress. The straw bag has definitely gone glamorous. There are beautiful ones being offered in every color under the sun, decorated with flowers, rhinestones, pearls, shells and many glamor material that comes to a designer's mind. The matching parasol is news and very becoming. One of the latest numbers in a recent showing of spring and summer clothes was a mother-and-daughter outfit, each with its matching parasol. Some of these new parasols are very elaborately decorated and can represent quite an investment. Some are simple but just as effective. They are said to cast a flattering shadow over face, and when chosen in a becoming color casts quite a romantic glow. The parasol pocketbook is a new idea. Straw imports from Italy are more beautiful than ever. Shoes, every item of clothing—is being fashioned from the soft, pliable straw, native to that very fashion-conscious country. The coloring process is said to be much improved and more lasting. The best advice in this department is—don't try to economize. If you buy the cheapest garment offered it may well prove to be the most expensive because it will not hold up and will not keep its color. In the bathing suit department look for a revival of the tank suit. These suits, for the most part, need an almost perfect figure to be becoming. However, manufacturers say they are making them by the thousands and that American women will wear them. They are improved over the old type tank suit in that the materials are far better and they all feature a built-in bra. Big, bold rings are still being seen. Earrings are big and bold too, but not long and dangling as before. Fresh flowers are being fashioned into earrings. In fact, a pair of earrings that were nothing more than two small plastic tubes attached to earring backs, recently made news at a New York fashion showing.

JEWELLED WHITE WOOL COATS

Never has there been such a season of elegant coats! Perhaps you are the proud owner of one of the soft, white wool coats bedecked with an elaborated decorative design in the front shoulder area or down each side of the coat opening. Coat designers have taxed their ingenuity in selecting and combining semi-precious stones, pearls, rhinestones, satin bugle beads, sequins, radium beads, spangles, fish scales, and cobochones to make fantastic, breath-taking designs. Many designers have executed or given emphasis to these designs by needle stitching with gold and silver clever manipulation of double-embroidery yarns. And most fantastic of all is the combination of lace with white wool fleece.

THE NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF DRYCLEANING, SILVER SPRING, MARYLAND says these coats are definitely a luxury item. They cannot be handled in cleaning as the durable coat you purchased for everyday duty. These white wool coats require special handling by your drycleaner. Therefore you may find that any firm that accepts them for cleaning will make a slightly higher charge than they do for your heavy duty coat. For your own protection, suggest to your cleaner that you want "Special Handling" for this luxury item.

Another hint! You will get added wear life from your white wool coat if you give it a little extra care between wear periods. It is worth the investment to purchase a new garment bag just to protect your jeweled white coat. "Your Cleaner is Your Clothes Best Friend!" ## This Salad Sparkles For Company

To add a decorative sparkle to your next company meal, serve a beautifully arranged fruit salad for dessert. The salad shown in the picture combines a mound of dark sweet and light sweet cherries with pear halves, filled with creamy cranberry dressing. There are many other colorful, flavorful canned fruits from which to choose. Serve color-contrasting half-moon sandwiches of canned fruit-nut and chocolate breads as the accompaniment. Good fillings are cream cheese and cinnamon butter.

Glamour Dessert Salad
1 can (8 oz.) whole cranberry sauce
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup whipping cream
1 tablespoon sugar
1 can (1 lb. 14 oz.) pear halves
1 can (16 oz.) light sweet cherries
1 can (16 oz.) dark sweet cherries
Salad Greens
Break cranberry sauce into pieces with a fork. Add mayonnaise, whipped cream and sugar. Arrange chilled drained pear halves and cherries on salad greens. Fill center of pears with the cranberry mixture. Six to eight servings.

Look for grapefruit that are firm, well-shaped, have a fairly smooth skin texture and are heavy for their size. Russeting, a reddish brown color, does not affect flavor, explains food specialists. A good chiffon cake is feather light with a springy, moist and tender crumb. The cake is clear yellow inside and light-golden-brown outside. An angel food cake is golden-brown outside and pure white inside.

Quiz Yourself Against List Of Foreign Cookery Terms

Many of us think of foreign cookery as an exotic world of splendid spices and simmering sauces. Yet many of our popular foods today are adaptations of foreign recipes. A food specialist suggests that if you like to serve dishes with foreign flavor you become more familiar with the following terms. How many can you identify?

1. An acid mixture usually seasoned, and with or without oil in which meat (uncooked or cooked) is allowed to stand to give flavor.
2. A meat stock or broth usually prepared with beef.
3. Food cut into thin match-like strips.
4. Cubes of bread toasted or fried and served with various dishes and in soups.
5. A highly seasoned relish of Oriental origin which contains fruits and vegetables.

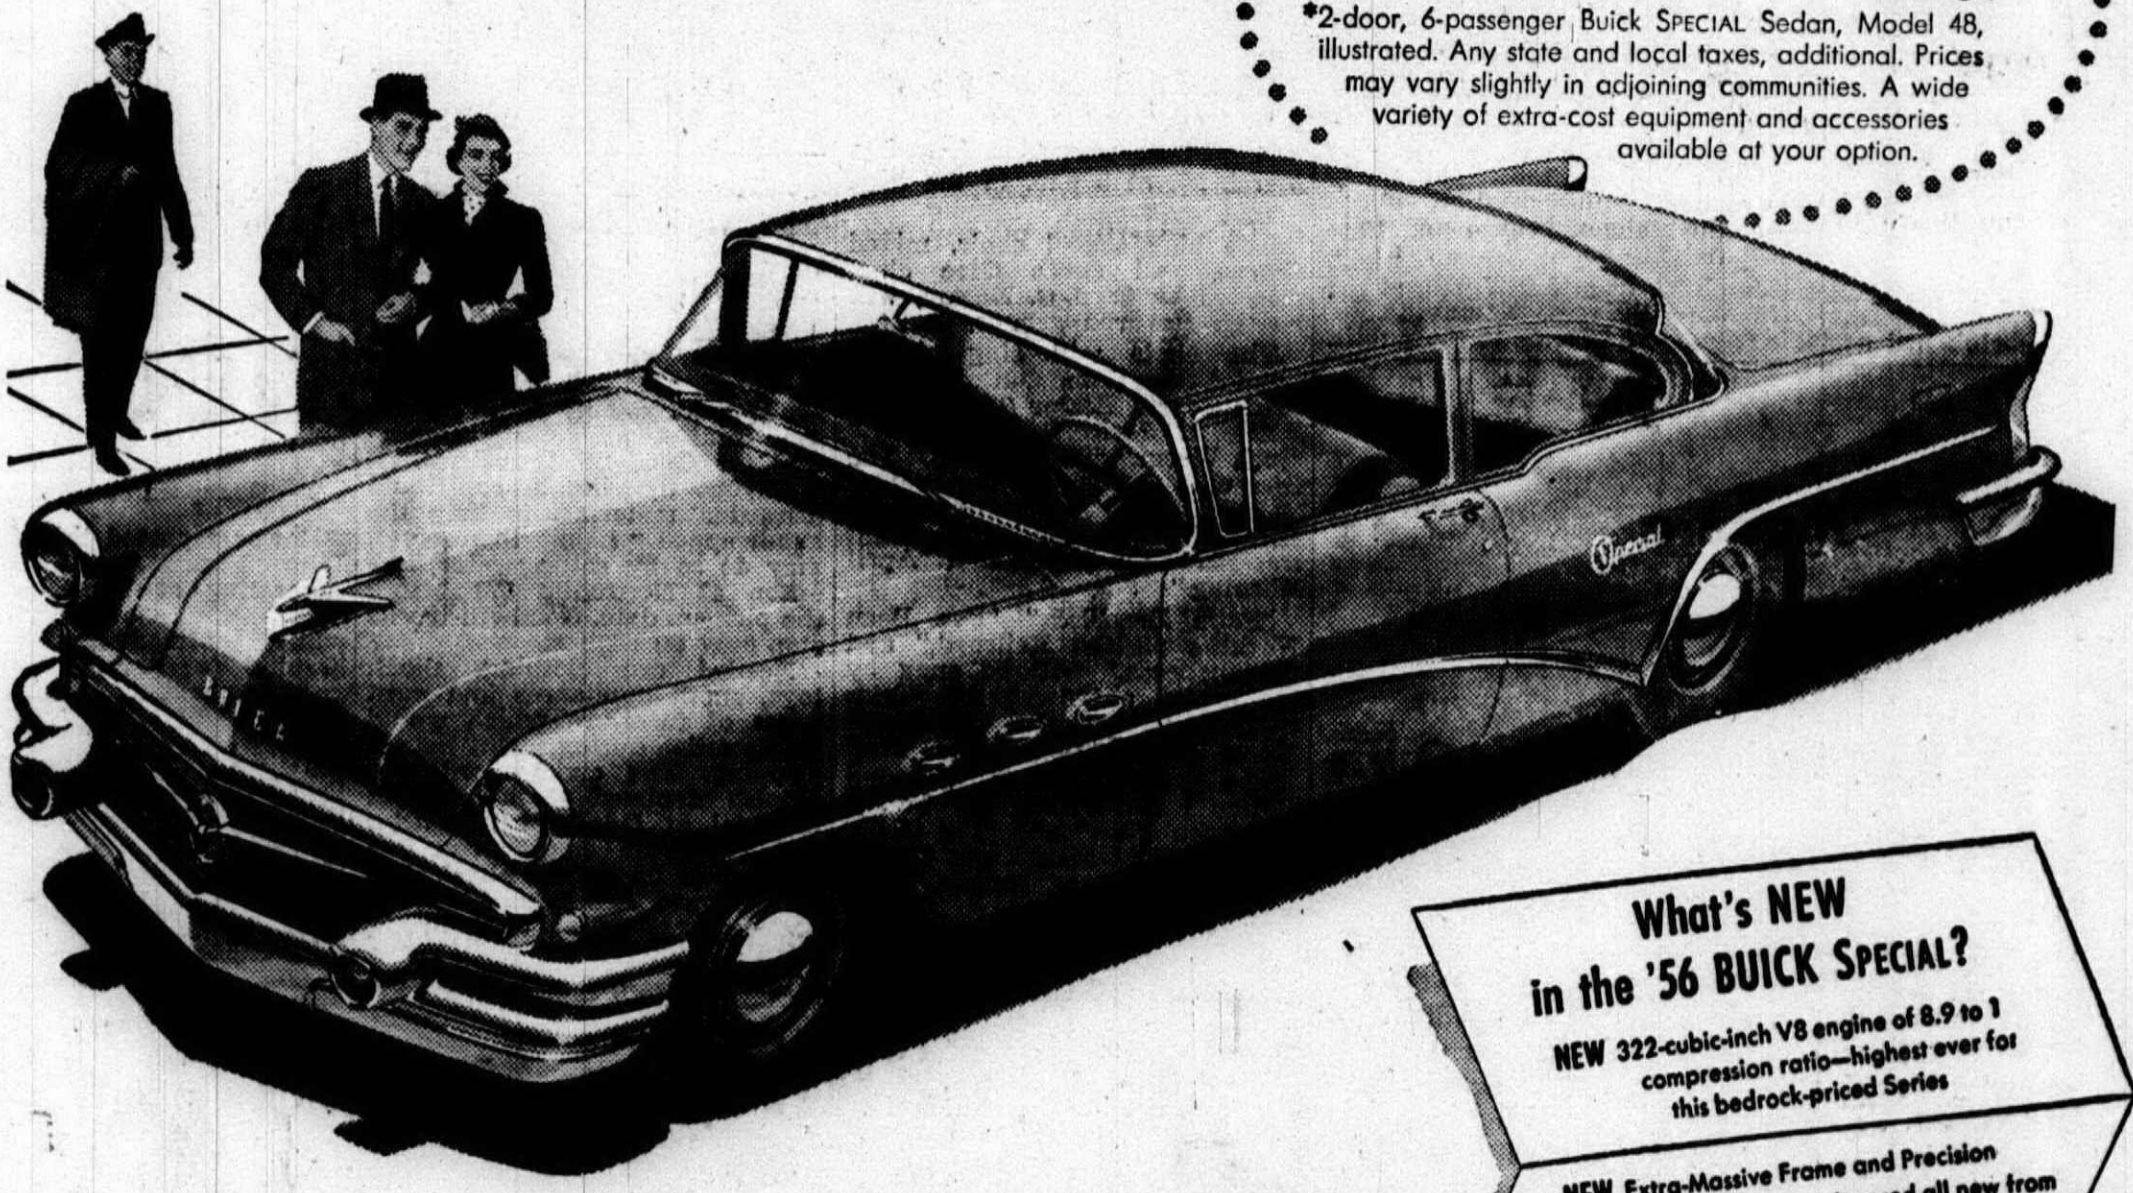

Answers: 1. Marinade, 2. Bouillon, 3. Julienne, 4. Croutons, 5. Chutney.

THIS is the one that measures BIG—by any yardstick you choose...
BIG in solid pounds and honest inches...
BIG in high-compression horsepower...
BIG, best of all, in the way it makes small money talk.

For, this strapping beauty is the 1956 Buick SPECIAL—biggest package of high-fashion luxury and high-stepping performance ever offered in Buick's lowest-priced Series.

What that boils down to is just this: You can call this brawny Buick your own for only a few dollars more than the price of the well-known smaller cars—for even less than some models of those very same cars. And the price we proudly print here backs up that statement.

But low price, alone, doesn't explain why Buick outsells every other car in America except the two well-known smaller ones. The big reason, you will find, is because Buick gives you so much more pure automobile for the money.

You'll find it in the bigger thrill you get from commanding the agile might of Buick's big new 322-cubic-inch V8 engine.

You'll find it in the greater smoothness of Buick's superb new ride—in the utter serenity of Buick's new handling ease—in the bigger satisfaction of Buick size and roominess and steadiness and styling.

You'll find it, too, in the fact that here you can get the matchless smoothness of the world's most modern transmission. For, at your option, you can also have the new double-action take-off—and the extra gas-saving mileage—of Buick's advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflo.

So, how about it? Will you come in real soon? We've got the facts and the figures—and the car—to prove everything we've told you—waiting for you.

†New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

The three Plymouth residents who won the recent Kroger's Gold Medal Flour Jumbo bag-weight guessing contest are Nadine Bolen, Marian Rich, and Mrs. Harold Gilbert.

Mrs. George Molnar of South Haven gave a shower for Miss Beth Ann Sutherland last Saturday. Guests present were Mrs. Donald Sutherland, Mrs. Stephen Waga, Sylvia Waga, Mrs. Robert Zielasko, Mrs. John Murdock, Florence Smith, Mrs. Larry Zielasko, Mrs. August Houk, Mrs. William Sutherland, Mrs. James Bentley, Mrs. William C. Smith and Miss Elizabeth Sutherland. Miss Sutherland will become the bride of Richard Waga of Dearborn on March 31.

Workmen have begun removing equipment and storage tanks from the site of Herbert Swanson's service station on the corner of West Ann Arbor Trail and Forest avenue. Mr. Swanson has sold the property to a Dearborn builder who is planning on building a one-story, three-unit building on the property.

Not only has nearly every housewife in and around Plymouth been neglecting the housework in order to witness the television Kefauver committee's crime investigating hearings, but the man of the house, too, has been doing his bit of slacking. Every business place in Plymouth, and offices too, where there is a TV set have had them on since the hearings started in New York. The general comment has been "It is about time we did something to end this rotten mess."

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Farnum of Cadillac road entertained at dinner Sunday in honor of their daughters, Patricia and Frances' confirmation at St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran church.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter R. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. John Gaffney, Mr. and Mrs. David Gates, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Saxton and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jacobus were guests Friday night of the Dearborn Players when they produced three one-act plays in their playhouse in Dearborn.

HEALTH & BEAUTY

It seems the vitamin - mineral pill fad is dying down. For a time, a great many people were sold on the idea that nutritional health could be bought at the drug store. While vitamin and mineral supplements are useful to a physician in treating deficiency diseases, they are not needed otherwise in most cases. It is possible they may even cause sickness if taken in too large amounts.

There have been clinical cases of vitamin A poisoning due to overdoses of concentrates. Doctors tell us that overdoses of vitamins are especially dangerous for children. If you think your children are malnourished and yet you have been feeding them plenty of the foods that they need, you had better see a doctor. Food plays an important part in treatment of people who are diseased or injured. Far too little attention has been given to nutrition as an aid to curing and healing. Some doctors say that therapeutic nutrition in hospitals has not kept up with recent advances in the field of other medicine.

The majority of therapeutic diets outlined in various hospital manuals do not supply the nutrients necessary to maintain good nutrition during acute illness. Extra attention should be given the requirements of the convalescent and this is recognized by doctors to be a very important phase of rehabilitation medical care. The Committee on Food and Nutrition of the National Research Council reports that a moderately active man should be eating about 884 pounds of fruits and vegetables a year. This should include about 635 pounds of fresh produce. The Council suggests 1,300 pounds of fruits and vegetables a year for a boy of 13 to 15.

Milk is said to be almost as important in maintaining good health in old people as in children. Every person should drink at least a pint of milk each day. If you are under 18 or over 50, you should be drinking at least a quart each day. All appetizing meals must include meat for most of us. Meat is an outstanding provider of top-quality protein for growth and maintenance of healthy tissues in all age groups. Meat provides valuable amounts of B vitamins and blood-building iron.

What a Life
Mother had her numerous offspring out shopping, and as they waited for a bus she began to tell them a story to keep the peace. "One time I was in the middle of the jungle," she said warily, "and I looked up to see a tiger only a few feet away. I tried to run, but with a bound it was on me and I was struck down dead."
"But it couldn't have. You're still living," protested several of the children.
A weary glance swept the family as mother closed her eyes and replied, "You call this living?"

Try the V-8 that smashed 30 world records in one day!

Discover what happened at the thrilling Kingman, Arizona performance run! Try this Ford yourself... for pick-up... for passing... for hill-leveling! You'll love what you experience!

It's the 225-h.p. Thunderbird Special V-8 you can have now in Ford!

At 6 p.m. on Saturday, February 25, a '56 Ford set out to re-write the record book at the new Ford Proving Grounds, Kingman, Ariz. Just a little over one hour later, this 225-h.p. Ford had set 30 new world marks—ranging from short runs to 100-mile performance! To you this record-breaking performance promises the most exciting response ever delivered for so little money. Hills you've long known will disappear. Stop lights will be fast fading memories within instants after your foot nudges the throttle. And when it comes to passing, you'll pass in a wink with plenty of "whoosh" in reserve.

Thunderbird. It's the kind of sleek, years-ahead styling for which Ford is famous.

Let Lifeguard Design Start Protecting You

And, of course, you get Ford's exclusive Lifeguard Design. Among all cars in the low-price field, only Ford gives you this extra protection. Doesn't your family deserve this extra safety in the event of an accident?

More real economy, real stand-up

So whether you judge a car on performance... or safety... or styling, it's easy to see that your best buy is a Ford V-8. And as an added benefit, you get the economical upkeep and built-in value that are part of the Ford tradition. So... come in today, won't you? Slide behind the wheel of this 225-h.p. Ford that set 30 world performance records! Take it out on the road... and let it whisk you from "whoa" to GO as you've never gone before! When you return you'll understand why Ford is the V-8 with the world's biggest following.

WATER SOFTENER

They're both right. The Reynolds Rental Plan is really sensational! You rent an R-S Ball-O-Matic 30,000 Grain Capacity Water Softener for only $3.25 per month. You control it and regenerate it as often as you want. It's yours to use—just as if you owned it.

It will only cost you 13¢ a day (in extreme cases a few cents more) to have all the zero-soft water you need. All the water in your home will be zero soft, and can be used abundantly.

Then, when you're ready to buy a water softener, you receive a credit for the rent you've paid to apply on a new R-S Ball-O-Matic (or you can keep the rental unit, if you wish).

See us today. You can't afford to be without soft water!

Ball-O-Matic water softeners have been manufactured in Detroit since 1931. There are probably more of them installed in this area than of all other makes combined. You are sure with a REYNOLDS quality softener. Factory installation and factory service.

FOR EVERY HOME

Modern Heating Installations Answer Need For Every Type of Space and Heat Problem

For the homeowner who has questions about modernizing his steam or hot water heating system, there are answers that will satisfy both his needs and his pocketbook at the same time.

First, a minimum approach: In homes equipped with steam or old fashioned gravity hot water systems powered by a hand-fired boiler (and there are many of these throughout the country), the first thing the homeowner can do is convert the hand-fired boiler to automatic firing.

Most boilers can be converted easily by a capable contractor. Age of boiler is not necessarily a factor. For instance, many cast iron boilers 40 or more years of age are still providing good heat, and with the addition of automatic firing, they may be made more efficient.

Second basic improvement is the addition of an electric pump to convert the system to forced circulation as opposed to the slower gravity type. This helps the system "answer" faster with more heat when it's called for by the thermostat.

Costs for conversions to automatic firing and forced circulation normally run from about $275 to $400, says the Institute of Boiler and Radiator Mfrs. Of course, price depends upon location and labor conditions.

Then there's a maximum approach. If year-round air conditioning is desired, heating-cooling baseboards or convectors may be installed instead of plain heating baseboards or convectors. And a combination boiler-chiller may be set up in the basement, where it will take up no more room than the regular boiler alone.

Incidentally, when heating or heating-cooling baseboards are installed during modernization, they simply replace sections of old wooden baseboards along the floor.

Maximum course of action is recommended when extensive remodeling is being done throughout the house, at which time the Installation of modern heating units can be effected in out-of-the-way places in the home. They are as clean to operate as the home clothes dryer. All sections are completely sealed and factory-assembled to assure no leakage of gas at anytime. Modern boiler units are "pint-sized" compared to the old furnaces of days not too far gone by.

Nature Serves Smart Designer

About 20 years ago, the then-controversial modern architect Frank Lloyd Wright designed an even more controversial home for a Wisconsin newspaperman.

An Albany, Oregon building contractor read an article about this unique house, and inquired for the working drawings and specifications. For a fee of $450 and a building outlay of $7500, this forward-looking builder in 1953 got himself a house still admired and looked upon as a forerunner of contemporary western home design.

A striking feature of the one-story house is ceiling and roof deck of solid two by fours laid on edge and extending from window walls out and over the yard

THE TUB-SHOWER

Almost every new residential home built today has the shower-over-tub combination in the bathroom. The use of a handsome yet really waterproof material is definitely needed in these modern installations. That's why durable ceramic tile is most often used in residential homes of quality. Practical as well as decorative, waterproof tile is a permanent installation that's easy to keep clean, sanitary, and its colors—some 200 to select from—never fade.

A survey of 35 air conditioned homes in Dallas, Texas, shows monthly cooling bills averaging less than $13 per house during the five hottest months, says H. Creston Doner design director for Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company, who points out that double-pane insulating glass windows are a major contributor to air conditioning economy.

Enliven Dull Rooms In Your Home with Fresh, New Color

Have you been wishing that you could improve your home by transforming your living room, bedroom or kitchen? Have you been dreaming of giving one—or all—of these rooms new beauty?

The biggest single change you can make does not lie in replacing your furniture or your carpets, but in changing the room's background color. This, you yourself can do . . . easily, quickly and inexpensively—with the aid of the countless beautiful hues of paint that are now available.

You can repaint the ceiling, walls and woodwork of an average room for less than $10. And as for the time it takes, you'll be surprised how rapidly you can apply the color . . . in a very few hours, at most.

Before repainting a ceiling—or any other surface, for that matter—make sure that all cracks are carefully filled, then smoothed level with the surface. Small hairline cracks can be filled with spackling material. Larger ones often need patching plaster. Your dealer will be glad to tell you exactly how to use it.

Another important thing to do before you begin to paint is to remove the hardware from your doors and windows and to loosen your lighting fixtures. This will make your painting job easier.

EVERYBODY LIKES TO DO IT

Painting may well be called the most popular U.S. hobby. It's such a satisfying outlet for creative talent to transfer color from a can to a wall and thus transfer a room.

Decorated walls for a new attic room or other addition to the home can be achieved in short order by applying prefinished hardboard planks over the simple backing of furring strips on open studs.

For Marlite planks, sufficient support is provided by 1" x 4" furring strips nailed horizontally on 16" centers—a backing that is easier and quicker to fit and install than many other types. The planks are secured with special metal clips that are nailed into the furring and hidden inside tongue-and-groove joints.

When the paneling is applied over a masonry wall or over an old wall that is not solid, it is advisable to use such furring strips as a base.

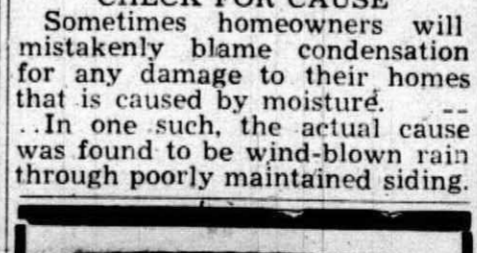

For a furred base for a companion product, 16"-square tongue-and-groove blocks of 1" x 2" stock on 8" centers are recommended.

WINDOW ECONOMY

Economy minded home builders make certain, in planning a new home or making alterations on an old one, that window dimensions permit the use of stock-sized window units.

According to H. Creston Doner, design director for Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company, custom-built units can be obtained made with either single-thickness plate glass or double-glazed insulating glass, but necessarily they are more expensive. In contrast, stock sizes in each type are immediately available and are less costly because they are produced in quantity.

CHECK FOR CAUSE
Sometimes homeowners will mistakenly blame condensation for any damage to their homes that is caused by moisture. In one such, the actual cause was found to be wind-blown rain through poorly maintained siding.

Leo M. Zamory, Architect House No. A-130

Cozy and Compact

PLANNED for your present needs, and with built-in space insurance for your future, this ranch house has many outstanding features. It's the ideal choice for a narrow lot but by no means could you call it a "little" house. Everything you'd want is here: spacious living room with fireplace and a ten-foot picture window; separate dining room with double exposure; a fifteen-foot "U"-shaped kitchen, a guest closet at the front entrance, and a bathroom on the main floor level. On the first floor, there are two bedrooms with double exposure and plenty of closet space. The upstairs area can expand into two additional bedrooms and a second bathroom. The full basement will take care of your laundry center, plus your hobby activities and a play area for the youngsters.

For the convenience of readers who wish to study this house in greater detail, we have prepared a complete sketch plan which can be obtained by sending 25¢ in coin to Modern Plan Service, Department 130, Lincoln Building, Mount Vernon, New York.

BUILDING AND REMODELING NEWS FOR EVERY HOME

Poor Lighting Major Problem In Majority of Homes Today

No less than 95 per cent of all homes in the average American community lack adequate lighting, according to a survey made by General Electric home lighting experts.

As a result of their poor lighting, the homes generally prove to have a gloomy, unpleasant, inhospitable atmosphere, the survey revealed.

Even more important, the lighting is so inadequate in quantity and quality as often to be tiring to the eyes of the occupants. It also is objectionable in that it makes slower and more difficult such tasks about the home as reading, sewing, shaving, applying makeup, ironing, and working in the kitchen and laundry. In some cases it even makes "unsafe conditions."

"Light conditioning of the homes in which we live can and should be the next great step forward in American home betterment," according to Eugene W. Comery, of Cleveland, illuminating engineering in charge of General Electric's residential lighting activities.

"People in all parts of the country are dissatisfied. Their need and desire for better home lighting is real, and growing," Comery says. He points out that the gap between home lighting and that of the store, office and factory, steadily widens. "Every day women come home from the vivid colors of fresh fruits, vegetables, and meats in the brightly lit supermarket.

And men come home from the office or factory, alert and happy, to lighting that puts them to sleep over the evening paper," the G-E lighting expert declares.

Just what is good home lighting? Comery says it is twofold in character, consisting of general room illumination, and of lighting for specific seeing tasks. It is so diffused as to be comfortable to live with, yet adequate in amount for quick and easy seeing of the task to be accomplished.

And finally, proper home lighting is of such a quality as to make for improved home beauty, charm, and livability.

To explain to the householder what he needs in the way of modern lighting, and to simplify his job of obtaining it, G. E. has prepared 22 lighting recipes, each offering easy-to-follow directions for lighting a specific task in the home.

Developed by Comery, the recipes, or prescriptions, are designed to cure the many unrecognized irritants of family life that spring from faulty lighting. "These recipes are the newest and most practical lighting ideas ever devised for the home; they remove the guesswork by picturing the equipment, the placement, and the benefits derived," according to the engineer.

Comery adds: "No complicated or expensive construction work is involved in the application of the recipes. And no new living habits are required to enjoy them, because they are the logical answer to the family's seeing needs. Nor do they put a strain on the family budget. But no words can prove so clearly the desirability of lighting by recipe as the light conditioning of a home."

The new, simplified approach calls for lighting situation formulas, some of which may be applied in several rooms of a particular house. For example, the lighting recipe for "reading while seated in an upholstered chair" is just as valid in the bedroom, study, and sitting room, as in the living room. The portable or wall lamps to be used, and the locations in which to place them, are the same in each case.

Other recipes specify lighting for hand sewing, reading, writing and drawing at a desk or table, reading piano music, television viewing, preparing food, performing other kitchen duties, reading in bed, packing up face at dressing table or vanity, shaving at bathroom mirror, working in laundry, and ironing by hand or with a machine.

These recipes for specific seeing tasks are combined appropriately to create light-conditioned rooms. In addition to these applied situation recipes, the well-lighted living room contains a lighted wall-to-wall balance, the dining room a smaller lighted wall bracket and a ceiling fixture, the kitchen a ceiling fixture, and the bedroom a ceiling fixture and lighted window valance.

You can light condition your home by starting with one or two recipes, fitting the project to your budget, according to G-E home lighting specialists. In many homes, where portable lamps meet recommended characteristics, the application of a recipe requires only the use of a tape measure, to assure that the lamps are properly positioned.

Usually, however, it will be necessary to acquire several new portable lamps and fixtures. In the case of each recipe, alternate equipment is listed, giving you a wider selection of lamps and fixtures, and permitting you to adapt the recipe more easily to your particular home environment and to your budget.

The best and easiest time to light condition your home is when it is being built or remodeled, according to G-E spokesmen. You can enjoy light conditioning to the fullest only if your wiring system has at least one outlet for every six feet of wall space, a switch at every door to allow turning lights on ahead, and off behind you, sufficient circuits, so that no room becomes fully dark when a fuse blows, and heavy copper wire to handle electric power adequately.

Our readers may obtain free copies of a book of tested home lighting recipes, called "See Your Home in a New Light," by writing the Inquiry Bureau, General Electric Co., Nela Park, Cleveland 12, Ohio. Copies also are available through many electric fixture and appliance dealers.

Stop Down Draft Problem With Metal Chimney Cap

Drawings indicate how chimney crown performs under different wind conditions. Solid-line arrows indicate wind direction. Broken-line arrows show how flue gases escape. With a 20-mile-per-hour downward wind, left, the crown is up to 133 percent efficient compared with an open flue. With horizontal wind, efficiency is 116 percent, compared with an open flue.

Buying a new hat isn't ordinarily thought of as a way to save money, but it can do that if you put it on your chimney instead of your head.

A chimney hat—more properly called a chimney crown—is a short metal stack that fits on top of the masonry. It solves the problem of down drafts, insuring a positive draft regardless of wind direction or other weather conditions. A good draft results in better performance from the heating equipment, and that lowers fuel consumption.

A chimney crown keeps rain and snow from entering the chimney. A dry chimney means a better draft, too.

To test the draft of a home chimney, this test is recommended by engineers at the Coleman Company, one chimney crown manufacturer:

Place a wad of newspaper in the vent opening at the base of the chimney and ignite it. The draft is strong enough if every particle of burning paper is carried up the flue. If bits of paper go up part way, then drop down, there might be loose bricks or other openings in the chimney. This indicates that the chimney should be repaired.

To prevent old mahogany and walnut stains from "bleeding through" a new coating of enamel, sand the surface, wipe off the dust, then apply a thin coat of shellac. When it is dry, sand again, then apply enamel undercoat before the final coating of enamel.

Two Young Owners of Nearby Airport Bank on Big Future in Private Flying

Despite the fact that numerous small airports in the Detroit area have been forced to close for lack of business in recent years, Plymouth can boast of an airfield nearby which is in the midst of an extensive expansion program.

National Flying Service, 39205 Ford road, a mile west of Newburg road, has been located here only since December 1. But already the 80-acre airport shows indications of what the owners foresee in the future of public and private flying with regard to smaller-sized airstrips.

Actual signs of NFS's enlargement project include a modernized styled red-brick administration building, complete with lobby, offices, a classroom and instrument flying teaching equipment. Also the skeletal framework of an up-to-date and extra-large hangar under construction offer further evidence of the progress foreseen by this privately owned and operated terminal.

The National Flying Service is owned and operated by a pair of young men who are by no means novices to the flying game. They are Charles Spicer, Jr., 17212 Lenore, Detroit, and Johnnie Parker, 23002 Lila, Farmington. Both are only 35 years old and both have been airplane instructors in one capacity or another all of their adult lives.

A veteran of World War II, Spicer was an Air Force Reserve flight instructor while his cohort, Parker, also a veteran, was a Naval Aviator instructor at the same time.

These two have owned NFS since 1948 but the flying school itself has been in continuous operation since 1928. Spicer and Parker worked for the previous owner for a short while before buying him out in 1948.

Parker and Spicer explained further plans to enlarge and enhance their airport. The new hangar facilities now under construction will result in 40 modern hangars; new runways are in the drawing stage; and a new repair shop will soon be added. The 16 existing hangars which are obsolete will be torn down upon the completion of the new ones.

A measuring stick of the airport's business is the fact that it houses 32 privately owned planes in rented hangar space. Due to a lack of further hangars, the owners have been forced to turn away many people wishing to store their planes. Furthermore a waiting list for this service is growing.

Following the overall expansion project, the airport will be neatly and smartly landscaped to create proper greeting for incoming flyers. An item of interest is noted in the fact that transient planes may land free of charge at the strip. The pilots of these incoming craft only pay for storage over night and fuel.

The actual business undertaken at National consists of a flight instruction program including training of private and commercial pilots, flight instructors and teaching instrument flying. For this wide and varied instructional program, Parker and Spicer have well provided themselves.

The personnel at NFS consists of five full-time instructors, one part-time instructor and two mechanics to service the planes. Chief Pilot and Instructor Don Nelson is an example of the calibre of instructor employed at NFS.

Nelson was an Air Force fighter pilot during World War II. Following the war, he was an instructor while at the same time maintaining an active status in the Air Force reserve. Back in the Air Force during the Korean conflict, Nelson became a jet instructor. As such he has compiled an impressive total of in-air jet hours.

One of the airports mechanics, Raymond Galvin, has been designated by the Civil Aeronautics Administration to issue and certificate air-worthy listings to private airplanes. In this capacity he may repair a plane or inspect one and declare it officially worthy to fly.

Capping a long list of mechanical items and devices that are necessary to conduct such a flying school as NFS are the airport's six training planes. The owners await delivery of two new Piper Tri-Pacers to add to the six trainers.

In National's modern new administration building are complicated electrical devices that aid in training pilots in the technique of instrumental or "blind" flying. Included is a link trainer in which the trainee sits and "flies" in total darkness with only electronic guides.

The school's safety record is near perfect. Parker and Spicer reported that no one has been seriously injured since the service was opened 28 years ago. The present owners were substantiated on this fact by the previous owner who initiated the school in 1928.

Perhaps one of the largest flight schools in the state, National, due to its well-equipped set-up and excellent efficiency standards, has consequently been approved by various aeronautical agencies. It has been given seals of approval by the Civil Aeronautics Administration, the Veteran's Administration (allowing it to conduct a veteran training program) and by the Michigan Department of Aeronautics. National is one flying school in a very limited field that has been so approved and certified.

The National Flying Service moved to its present site on December 1, taking over the place of another old airport that had been previously located there.

NFS has been co-situated in Farmington and at the Plymouth road-Middlebelt intersection in Livonia but its lease expired.

The youthful co-owners of National gave little thought to quitting. They sought out their present location and settled there. They both feel that the future of private pilots and small airports is bright indeed.

In fact they agree that soon people will be piloting personal airplanes in the same degree that they presently pilot autos on the highways—en masse.

New Books at Dunning Library

Over 30 new books were added to the library collection this week, offering patrons of the local branch a wide range of fiction and non-fiction material.

Running down the list, they are "Tender Victory" by Taylor Caldwell, John Gunther's "Inside Africa," "The Scarlet Cord" by Frank G. Slaughter, Edison Marshall's "The Gentleman," "The Secret of the Hittites," discovery of an ancient civilization by C. W. Ceram, "Prize Stories, 1956" the O. Henry awards edited by Paul Engle and Hansford Martin, "Island in the Sun," by Alec Waugh, Miller and Doering's "Mechanics of Materials," a copy of the American Guide Series on "Arizona," fourth edition of Floyd L. Ruch's "Psychology and Life," and "Command Missions," by Lt. Genl. L. K. Truscott, Jr.

In the murder mystery and suspense line were "Delayed Payment," a Dr. Priestley tale by John Rhode; Manning Coles' story of international intrigue, "The Basle Express," and "The Riddle of Sampson," suspense novel by Andrew Garve.

Other new additions were "The New Yorker 1950-55 Album," "Just One More" concerning the problem drinker, by James L. Free; Francis Steegmuller's historical novel of Louis 14th's time, "The Grand Mademoiselle"; a second edition of "Swimming and Diving" by Armbruster and Morehouse, and American Progression series, "Tinkers and Gentlemen," story of Yankee inventors by Edmund Fuller.

"A Saint of the Week," lives of 50 saints by Desmond Murray, O. P.; Clark McMeekin's novel, "The October Fox"; "The Fives and Sixes Go to School" by Emma D. Sheehy, Hervey Smith's illustrated guide to "Boat Carpentry," and a World War II story, "We Die Alone," by David Horvath.

Concluding the new shipment were a Littlefield College outline on "American History after 1865," "The Adventure Book of Rocks" for young collectors by Eva K. Evans, an "Auto Repair Manual," "Right Dress," success through better grooming by Bert Bacharach; and "The First Winchester," by John E. Parsons.

INCOME TAX FACTS No. 4 Exemptions Cut Your Tax Bill

(This is one of a series of articles on federal income tax. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Accountants and the Michigan Society of Certified Public Accountants.)

This year's redesigned tax forms make it easy for you to indicate the personal exemptions to which you are entitled.

Every taxpayer is entitled to one exemption, which means a deduction of $600. Those 65 or over have a double personal exemption, and blind persons of all ages have an extra exemption. These rules apply to both husband and wife on joint returns.

In addition, you are entitled to one exemption for each qualified dependent, but the extra exemptions for age and blindness cannot be taken for dependents.

Rules for Dependents

To qualify for an exemption a dependent must:

1. Have received more than half his support from you, unless you file a Multiple Support Agreement (see below). In figuring support, scholarships received by your child do not count.
2. Have less than $600 gross income unless he is your child and under 19 or a student.
3. Not file a joint return.
4. Have been either a member of your household or closely related to you, as defined in the official instructions. Although cousins are not usually "close relatives" for tax purposes, a cousin receiving institutional care for a mental or physical disability who lived with you before going to the institution would qualify.
5. Have been either a citizen of the United States or a resident of the United States, Canada, Mexico, Panama, the Canal Zone or, in some cases, a serviceman's child living in the Philippines.

Your exemptions usually depend on whether you and your dependents qualify under these rules at the end of the year. However, if your husband or wife died during the year you may file a joint return and take the same exemptions that both of you would have otherwise had. Similarly, if a dependent died during the year, the rules are

Multiple Support Agreement

If you shared with others in the support of a dependent, but none of you provided more than half, you may still be able to arrange among you for one of the group to have the $600 exemption. You might agree, for example, to take turns in having the exemption from year to year.

The one who claims the exemption must have contributed more than 10% of the support, and he must have been a member of a group who altogether provided more than half the support. Each member of this group must have been entitled to claim the dependent except for the requirement of providing more than half the support.

In order for one of the group to have the exemption all other members of the group who contributed over 10% must sign declarations that they will not claim the dependent. The Internal Revenue Service provides Form 2120 (Multiple Support Agreement) for this purpose.

Be sure to claim all the exemptions you properly can, because each one reduces your taxable income by $600.

If you are supporting dependents, but are not able to file a joint return, you may qualify as the "head of a household" and be entitled to use a special schedule of tax rates that give you half the benefits of income splitting.

The instructions that come with your tax forms give further information. Help is also available from the Internal Revenue Service, which urges you to consult a properly qualified advisor if you need outside assistance.

MOMS News

A pot-luck supper has been planned for Monday, March 26, at the Veterans Memorial center, starting at 6:30 p.m.

On Wednesday night, March 14, our hospital chairman, Mrs. Agnes Rollins, and Mrs. Joan Sackett visited the T. B. ward of Ann Arbor Veterans hospital where they served the boys home-made cookies and hot chocolate.

We are making plans for our spring card party which will be held April 16 at 8 p.m. at the Veterans Memorial center. More news later on the party. Let's all get together and help our chairman.

Social Security Question Column

Plymouth Mail readers are invited to send us their social security questions. The questions will be answered in this column or directly by the Social Security district office at 14600 Grand River, Detroit 27, Michigan.

1. How does a minister pay his social security? I would like to come under this new plan. O. B. A.

Answer: The social security tax is paid at the time the minister files his income tax return. He may elect to have coverage under social security by filing out Form 2031, Waiver Certificate for use by ministers, and filing his form with the District Director of Internal Revenue. It should be filed on or before April 15, 1956.

2. When did social security start for self-employed farmers? G. B. C.

Answer: Coverage for farmers started with 1955. The first report is due April 15, 1956 with the 1955 income tax return.

3. Has there been any change in the law to pay disabled people? L. A. R.

Answer: There has been no change in the law. Payments cannot be made to any worker under age 65.

OUTDOOR NOTES

From The MICHIGAN DEPARTMENT OF CONSERVATION

Northern Michigan deer, already severely hampered by winter weather conditions, were hit by new storms during the last week.

Threats of further starvation losses mounted as the upper and northern lower peninsulas recorded heavy snowfalls March 7 and 10.

Reports from the central part of the Escanaba district indicate the upper peninsula's heavy snow belt received 16 inches of new snow in the two storms.

The lower peninsula also felt the impact of the storms. Boyne City, in the northwestern section, reported 2.2 feet of snow on the ground while Alpena, in the eastern half of the peninsula had 2.1 feet of snow. About seven inches of snow fell in the northern lower peninsula last week.

I. H. Bartlett, in charge of the Conservation Department's deer investigations, said possibilities were increased for rather severe losses.

"Deer in many areas were in bad condition before the storms," Bartlett said. "The latest snows and cold weather probably mean many more won't make it through the winter."

Temperatures dropped to five degrees in the northern lower peninsula Monday morning as the region received another inch of new snow. U. P. temperatures were down to zero.

Bartlett said the current winter has been marked by abnormally heavy snowfall early in the season. The critical period for the state's deer herd started earlier than in recent years and total deer deaths will be determined by the length of time before spring thaws make their appearance.

A survey of deer country, to determine the extent of winter starvation, is scheduled to take place after the spring break-up, probably in early April.

Archery deer hunting, growing more popular each year, attracted a record turnout of more than 37,000 sportsmen in Michigan last year, an increase of some 4300 over 1954.

Hunting license sales reports through February of this year show that 33,636 residents and 8509 nonresidents purchased archery deer permits for the 1955 season.

Archery hunting licenses for 1954 included 29,941 residents and 2883 nonresidents.

Other hunting license sales also showed increases over 1954. Resident small game hunting license sales reported through February totaled 701,959, a 2.4 percent increase over the same period last year. Nonresident small game license sales jumped from 7231 to 7749, a 7.2 percent increase.

The first of three special postage stamps emphasizing the importance of wildlife conservation will be released in Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, May 5.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield said the design of the first stamp portrays a wild turkey in flight and represents an outstanding example of conservation work being carried on by state and federal agencies. Michigan is one of several states which have wild turkey restoration programs.

Other stamps in the series, which was designed by Bob Hines, artist for the federal Fish and Wildlife Service, will represent a mammal and a fish. Specific design and sale of the other two stamps will be announced later.

Sportsmen, campers and others using public lands were cautioned this week against the danger of spring forest fires.

Conservation Department officials remind outdoorsmen to be extremely careful with matches, tobacco, campfires and other possible sources of fire.

Acorn and beechnut crop failures have sent hungry squirrels in search of other foods throughout several sections of the state.

Reports from the western part of the lower peninsula indicate many squirrels are feeding on the bark of elm, beech and maple trees.

D. H. Jenkins, Conservation Department game biologist, explains that squirrels normally strip bark from trees to supplement their diet, but the current shortage of acorns and beechnuts has caused an increase in this activity.
