Forty Newcomers Attend Gathering

Knock on Door May Be Theatre Guild Member

A knock on the door by a member of the Plymouth Theatre Guild can be expected by all city householders within the next few weeks.

Voters to Decide Millage for Detroit Port

Plymouth area voters will join other Wayne County electors at the polls on Tuesday, November 5 where they must decide if they want to raise county taxes by sixteen hundredths of a mill in order to raise $9 million for the Port Commission of Detroit.

A resolution calling for the special election was approved by the Wayne County Board of Supervisors this month. Ordinarily this is an off-year for elections, but Plymouth voters have two elections coming up in the next two months.

On Monday, October 14, electors in the Plymouth Community School District will vote on the proposal to use 2.5 mills of debt retirement for establishing a building and site fund. It is estimated that the fund will raise about $167,500 a year with which new buildings and sites can be constructed without the need of a bond issue — thus saving heavy interest charges.

The county election on November 5 will have two proposals. The first will ask if the Port Commission of the City of Detroit can borrow the sum of not more than $9 million and issue general obligation bonds. All electors can vote on this proposal.

Proposal No. 2 asks if the tax limitation can be raised by sixteen hundredths of one mill (or 16 cents on each $1,000 of valuation) for a period of 16 years to finance the $9 million. The average Plymouth homeowner has an assessed valuation of $4,500 on his home. This tax would amount to 72 cents a year. Only property owning taxpayers can vote on this proposal.

The bond issue is the result of the St. Lawrence Seaway project which will bring ocean-going vessels to the Great Lakes. The Port Commission wants to be ready for the ships and figures that the project will take $9 million.

In their plans are land acquisition, an office building of about 15,000 square feet, two transit buildings, need of 202,000 square feet of operating area for cargo and vehicle handling, truckage for rail car handling, a wharf and dredging at the wharf to a depth of 27 1/2 feet.

Registration for both the county and school elections is now taking place. Clerks of the city and township of Plymouth will register for the county election until 8 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 7.

The last day to register for the special school election is 5 p.m., Oct. 4. Voters can register for the school election with the clerk in the city or township in which they reside.

Wording on the school ballot will be as follows: "Shall the limitation on the total amount of taxes which may be assessed against all property in Plymouth Community School District, Wayne and Washtenaw Counties, Michigan, for all purposes, except taxes levied for the payment of interest and principal on obligations incurred prior to December 8, 1932, be increased, as provided by Section 21, Article X of the Constitution of Michigan, by twenty-five hundredths of one percent (0.25 percent) (2 1/2 mills) of the assessed valuation, as equalized, of all property in the School District for a period of five years, from 1957 to 1961, both inclusive, to establish a building and site sinking fund?"

Although the wording infers that the tax rate will be increased two and a half mills ($2.50 per $1,000 valuation), the building and site-fund will utilize millage dropped from the bond retirement fund, thus keeping the school tax rate at 21.95 mills.

Escapade Takes Life Of Youth

Two Detroit youths who stole a car and drove it to the Wayne County Training School to help release friends, were involved in an accident last Friday morning which took the life of one.

The weird story was not told until Tuesday morning when the surviving boy, Rodric Olson, 16, of 1843 Kimberly, was questioned by Sheriff's detective Lt. Gordon Tray.

Killed in the accident was Daniel R. Smith, 16, of 10359 American, who died in Wayne County General Hospital at 5:30 a.m. Friday, an hour after being admitted. Olson, who was on probation for previous violations, was turned over to juvenile authorities.

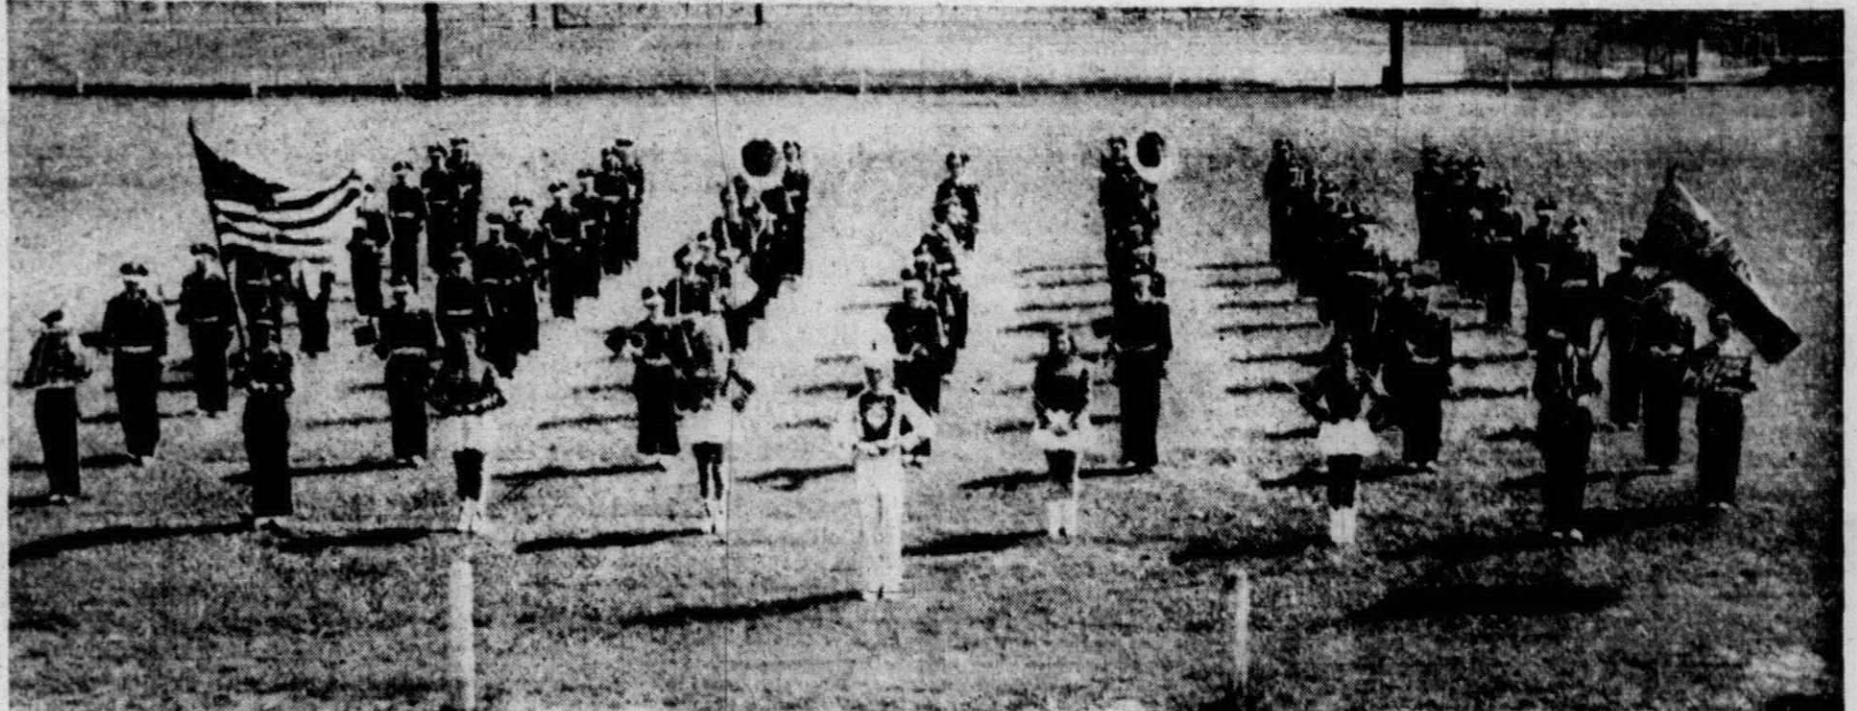

Olson told Lt. Tray that he and Smith walked to a Southfield road viaduct where Smith disappeared and later returned with a 30-30 rifle and ammunition. Olson quoted Smith as saying that they were going to the Training School to release a couple of buddies and that they might need the rifle for protection.

Olson said that they then walked to the home where they stole the car. This was the home of Edward Hisle, 13175 Newburg road, Livonia, (12 miles from the viaduct). Olson said that Smith found an Oldsmobile in the driveway with keys inside. They then drove to the Training School north of Plymouth.

Parking the car, they entered the grounds, according to Olson, and were checking the cottages. They then saw a car enter the grounds which they thought was a police car. The boys ran back to their car and sped away with Smith driving.

In Northville, the car was seen going fast through stop streets and traffic lights. Police began the chase, pursuing them on Edward Hines drive. At Six Mile road the car left the highway on a curve and crashed into a tree. Smith died an hour later and Olson, treated at the hospital, was released 12 hours later.

Meanwhile, the dead youth's parents are bewildered over their son's death. "I just don't understand it," his father sobbed. "We have a nice home for him here. How can this happen?"

SIXTY-THREE MEMBERS strong is the Plymouth High School Band this year. Directed by James Griffith, the band made its first appearance in Northville last Friday. The first home game will be Oct. 4.

It takes hours of practice to provide an outstanding half-time show by the band and this year the group has a few surprises.

Band Marches With 63 This Year

Despite all the thrills offered in the high school, college and professional football contests during the coming autumn days, millions of gridiron fans would be sadly disappointed if bands were not there to add their color. The Plymouth High school band, directed by James Griffith, was on hand as usual to give its salute to King Football as the Rocks opened the season last Friday against Northville. The 63-member organization displayed the American flag beside Plymouth's new high school flag for the first time at last week's half-time show.

This is the second year Drum Major Dennis Simpson, a sophomore, will lead the band. "The drum major has the same authority on the field as the director on the podium," Griffith said. "He is in complete charge."

Michigan flavor" that provides color. Later on in the season the band will present a "lights-out" show in which the Drum Major and four baton twirlers will juggle lighted batons on a darkened field. Another pending half-time show will be a "spectacular" which Griffith is saving for a surprise.

Phones Crippled 1 Day by Strike

A surprise picketing by Western Electric installers at the Michigan Bell equipment office here last Thursday morning resulted in a slow-down of telephone service throughout the day and required the company to rush in some 60 supervisors to man the switchboards.

Before The Mail went to press last Wednesday night, a Michigan Bell spokesman said that the Plymouth telephone male operator. Some people remarked that they even enjoyed the brief change. One businessman said that he called the local Burroughs plant and suddenly found himself talking with Atlantic City.

There is considerable cost to the fielding of this year's edition of the Plymouth band. "I'd estimate it costs between $200 to $225 per person considering the instruments and uniforms," Griffith said. "We have 95 uniforms although only 63 will be in use at one time."

Olson said that they then walked to the home where they stole the car. This was the home of Edward Hisle, 13175 Newburg road, Livonia, (12 miles from the viaduct). Olson said that Smith found an Oldsmobile in the driveway with keys inside. They then drove to the Training School north of Plymouth.

Service by the emergency operators was offered throughout the night, during which the Western Electric strike was settled. Pickets left the building at 6 a.m. and regular operators returned to work.

Tropical Plant Blooms Twice In 15 Years

Friends and neighbors of Mrs. Ella Wagar gathered at her home on 328 Farmer, the evening of September 14 to watch her night blooming cereus present its second bloom in 15 years.

The bud began to open at 8 p.m. and at 10 p.m. the above picture was taken. The flower measured 8 inches in diameter and hung from a pencil-like stem about twelve inches long. At 3 a.m. the white flower was in full bloom, throwing its petals back to reveal the delicate center. The heavy and fragrant perfume easily filled the whole house.

After 3 a.m. the flower's short life span ended. It seemed to relax and slowly wilt according to viewers. By morning it was dead.

The plant, a native of Mexico and the tropics, requires careful attention and temperatures.

The first blossom came four years ago. Mrs. Wagar has transplanted the plant four times to accommodate its growth.

Lifetime in Plymouth Affords Memories on 60th Anniversary

The names of Crosby and Hodge have followed the growth of Plymouth since the early settlement days. Today there are only two living representatives of those families, both bearing the name Hodge.

They are Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Hodge of 11686 Francis street, who celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary Monday. Mr. Hodge also celebrated his 87th birthday last weekend. They were married in the Crosby home in 1897.

The Hodges have seen a lot of changes in Plymouth in their lifetime. Bert Hodge was born in 1870, two miles east of Plymouth on a farm on Plymouth road near Newburg lake. The house was built by his father of wood from the trees on the island in the lake. Only it wasn't a lake then, but a hollow on the farm.

"We did a lot of our courting there," recalled Mrs. Hodge. She was born on the Crosby farm on Plymouth road in 1872.

The Hodges knew each other ever since they were old enough to remember. They attended Newburg school and Plymouth high school together. Mrs. Hodge graduated with the class of 1891. Graduation exercises for ten were held in Plymouth hall.

Mrs. Hodge went on to teach at three local schools. Her first school was Stark, followed by Patchen school and Houston district school which was on the corner of Cherry Hill and Canton Center roads.

She sees children and grandchildren of friends and former students of hers, that look so much like their parents and grandparents that it makes her think back to those days.

They attended the Baptist church on the corner of Spring and Mill streets where Mrs. Hodge sang soprano and Mr. Hodge sang bass in the choir.

Mr. Hodge was working as a canvasser for the Saturday Evening Post when he was sent to Des Moines. It was here that he switched to the Des Moines Tribune and put out the first three issues of Successful Farming, a Tribune publication.

The Hodges soon returned to the Plymouth area and started a gladioli farm on Eight Mile road. When he retired from the farm about 12 years ago, they moved into Plymouth to their present address. Mrs. Hodge then went to work for the Mayflower hotel as a bookkeeper and night clerk.

Not many of the "old crowd", as Mr. Hodge calls it, are left, except the Mark Joys'. They have been callers at the Hodge home since the first year the

THANK YOU

Recently I was forced to spend an unwanted and little-deserved vacation in the hospital.

It was annoying, as most such things are, except for a wonderful re-discovery of how nice people can be. Visits, cards, inquiries were all part of something that touched me deeply.

I can't individually contact you all — so please understand my appreciation.

Thanks.

Car Hits Four Trees, One Twice

A wreckless driving ticket has been issued to a Plymouth motorist whose car hit four trees—one of them twice—last Saturday night.

Andrew Wozniak, 61, of 644 Adams, had backed out of his driveway onto Adams street at about 6:29 p.m. Then the ordeal started. Moving forward, the car swung in an arc to the west side of the road and jumped the curb, hitting a tree located between the sidewalk and street.

Wozniak backed the car up across the street, police said, put it in forward gear again, jumped the curb and hit the same tree. Witnesses said that the driver gunned the motor and the car sped forward across the street, ran across a lawn, knocked down a small tree and crashed into another.

Police said that the driver had been drinking. Damage to the car was estimated at $300.

Eileen Kelly and Ruth Cadogan, who are attending the University of Michigan, spent the weekend in Plymouth at their parents homes.

PLYMOUTH'S BUSINESS

The smoke has settled and all the reports are in and after Wait, Bob and Al recovered from the onrush of Plymouth shoppers, they declared, a bit groggily, that Beyer Rexall Drugs 50th Anniversary celebration was a complete success. Free ginger ale, balloons for the kiddies and many special bargains drew the largest crowds in their history. Some of the main prize winners were: Mrs. Glenn Kaiser, 15760 Hagerly, an electric blanket; Mrs. Birdie Tremain, 42331 Clemons Dr., a portable radio; Carl Zander, 801 Starkweather, an electric blanket; Mrs. William Monteith, 424 Adams St., a portable radio; and Dorothy Lempton, 998 Arthur, a mixmaster. Congratulations Bob, here's hoping we're both around for the next fifty.

Letter to the Editor

Gentlemen: Being a Plymouthite, I thought it only right to drop you a line and say how nice it is to be able to read how things are going back home.

I've been stationed in Korea since the 23rd of March of this year. I'm with the Company A, 3rd Engineer Battalion (combat) of the 24th Infantry Division here. We are a support company for the 19th Infantry Regiment. Our company is about 3 miles from the true line, or better known to us as the "D. M. 2" (demilitarized zone).

From the outposts here you can observe the Chinese Reds at their work. Let's all hope this work will never result to what happened in 1950. None of us would like to have that again.

My dad has been sending me the Plymouth Mail for the past two months now and I really enjoy all the articles, even the want ads are fun to read over here.

Here is wishing everyone back home lots of luck.

This Is Women's Week

Plymouth's Business and Professional Women's club is joining 3,300 other BPW clubs in the 48 states, Alaska, Hawaii and District of Columbia in sponsoring National Business Women's Week.

The observance opened Sunday and closes this Saturday. Its theme is "Salute to Women Who Work."

The National Federation of BPW clubs founded in 1919, is the oldest and largest national organization for women who work. Membership totals more than 170,000. The federation is the only organization for women which includes all professions and occupations.

The Plymouth club meets monthly at the Hillside Inn. Their accomplishments have been many. For the past three years they have awarded a scholarship to a graduating senior girl. They have also given much support to the Plymouth Symphony, maintaining a sustaining membership.

One of the chief aims of the organization today is to seek equal pay for women whose work is comparable to that of men. They also are dedicated to promoting equal rights amendment to the Constitution, better Social Security benefits for women, and removal of discrimination on the basis of age, sex or marital status in both government and industry.

Plan Day School for Mentally Retarded

A pilot project to provide special schooling for mentally handicapped children in a six school area is now getting underway.

Called the "Wayne County Day School Program for Mentally Handicapped," it will be held at the Training School for children ages five through eight. Participating are the Plymouth, Northville, Livonia, Wayne, South Redford and Redford Union school districts.

Superintendent Russell Isbister and other superintendents have been working on the project. Parents of mentally handicapped children in this district can contact the superintendent for more details. The program was made possible by special legislation. Children attending the school will be in the Northville School district.

Going! Going! Going! Yes, these are the words that characterize the "eager beaver" members of our school. Although not completely established in the routine of school life, they are off to a flying start! PHS has a wide variety of organizations from which students may choose and the scramble to join some of these clubs is somewhat similar to the "college rush."

Moving into the rushing tide of events are nine girls who were recently selected as members of the Triple Trios which is the most exclusive singing group in the entire school under the supervision of Mr. Fred C. Nelson.

To Beverly Harrison, Ann Hulsing, and Karla Herbold, practice is no stranger. However, the "first timers", Beverly Adams, Karen Stevens, Julie Stecker, Betsy Edgar, Ann West, and Lois Austin will soon be well acquainted with this thing called practice. If this year's group follows in the footsteps of preceding groups, we can expect some very fine entertainment.

Behind the closed doors of Room 15 on Sept. 18, plans were being formed for our Homecoming. It is easy for students and parents to recall the events of last year's Homecoming which was a huge success. The assembly of students in front of the high school during the lunch hour, the bonfire, and the crowning of the queen, Carol Clarke, are just a few of the highlights that stand out in our memories.

Homecoming promises to be bigger and better than ever as the various organizations join hands to work on one of the big projects of the year. Instead of the Student Council assuming the entire responsibility, everyone is going to be drafted into service. Jobs in the form of committees have been distributed among the clubs. Janet Spigarelli and Mer Palmer, co-chairmen of the committee, presided at the meeting to which were sent the following representatives: Nancy Eaton, Girls Athletic Association; Mary Lee Haug, Future Nurses Association; Jane Hardimon, National Honor Society; Kay Sempliner, Future Teachers Association; Karen Lent, Water Waves; Bob Isbister and Bruce Curtis, Dolphins; Staten Lorenz, Chess Club; Don Alsbro and Dave Walasky, Varsity Club; and the writer of this column, Pilgrim Prints. Gustave Gorguze, assistant principal, is working with the students. More about Homecoming in the near future.

Calling all Seniors — Now is the time to come to the aid of your class and sell those Christmas cards! In order to raise money to meet some of the expenses of the senior year, the class is selling Christmas cards. Passers-by will note the big bags piled about the guidance office. They are the orders of the students who are faced with the job of selling approximately 1,400 boxes thus far with the promise of more to come.

Arlene Kubick and Ann Cooper, co-chairmen of the committee which is advised by Miss Virginia Olmstead, are being assisted by Jim Gothard, Dick Bennett, Bill Hubert, Sue Keith, Carl Glassford, Janet Spigarelli, Kay Fisher, Mike Stickney, Joan Lowden and Mary Lee Haug.

All is fair in love, war and selling Christmas cards, and you may be the next target of one of the super salesmen of the Senior class. Not only are they working to add funds to the class treasury but the two best salesmen will receive a free dinner at the Stalter.

The only people who are off limits to the students are teachers, and they will be served by a committee designated to fill their orders as a class project. You aren't safe from the sales talk of these ambitious students unless you are a teacher, so you might be prepared to buy some of these beautiful cards. "Money at last!" This is the sigh of many students who have been anxiously awaiting the day when the Used Book Store would "pay off." The line of students is long and it must look twice as long to Annie Dennany, manager of the bookstore, who has been working in there since school started. She has been assisted in the buying and selling business by Carol North, and Judy Herrick. The Used Book Store is an enterprise of the Pilgrim Prints under the supervision of Miss Elizabeth McDonald.

Adding to the usual confusion of the first weeks of school is the rerouting of classes due to the installation of new windows in Building A (the former Junior High School).

Who were those well-dressed people who seemed to be everywhere Monday and Tuesday? They were the Seniors who were having their pictures snapped. "Your Yearbook — Make It Outstanding" starring members of the 1957 Plythean Staff, was shown in the High School auditorium Thursday, September 18, and will again be shown during the intermission at the annual Staff Subscription Dance on October 18.

The Football Bounce, sponsored by the Future Homemakers of America Club, featured disc jockey, John Small. The record dance was held in the high school auditorium.

Pilgrim Group Announces Newly Elected Officers

The Pilgrim Group of the Wayne County Farm Bureau met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Sharland of North Territorial road on September 18. Newly-elected officers are as follows: chairman, Albert Foege; secretary, Mrs. Loyd Sharland; treasurer, Mrs. Harvey Vetal; discussion leader, Miller Ross; committee woman, Mrs. Roy Schultz. A dessert was served following the discussion period.

A fellow can't open the newspapers these days without reading of some new machine or project or discovery that would have sounded fantastic ten years ago. The nation's fantasy writers (the lads who dream up those weird stories about men from Mars and various other "whistle stops" along the outer-space tracks) are moaning that scientists are making them look like a bunch of chumps.

Truth is proving stranger than fiction... and if this continues, the word jugglers may have to stick with subjects that are down-to-earth. Faced with the reality of supersonic speeds, satellites, rockets, diving bells and nuclear physics, the fantasy writers just can't seem to keep ahead of the parade. It's fantastic!

Planning Group To Meet Tuesday

The School Community Planning Group will hold its first meeting of the 1957-58 year on Wednesday evening, October 2 at 7:45 p.m. at Bird school.

The meeting will include a report of Board of Education action on last year's group recommendations and a summary of the interest-areas for each study committee planned for this year.

The school community planning group is an advisory group created to assist the Board of Education. It includes both members of the Plymouth schools staff and interested residents of the school district.

Last year over a hundred local people participated in studying problems for the Board of Education and formulating recommendations to the Board on such varied subjects as special training for exceptional children, changing Plymouth from a fourth class to a third class school district, modifications of school facilities and science training for elementary school children.

All persons interested in the field of school planning and assisting the Board of Education are asked to attend next Wednesday's meeting.

Margaret Dunning and Zella Collon are in New York this week on a buying trip for Dunning's.

Rocks Open Season with Win Over Confident Northville

The Plymouth Rocks opened their 1957 football season in grand fashion last Friday, polishing off an entirely too confident Northville eleven, 13-12.

The score, identical to last year's Northville-Plymouth battle, is indicative of the closeness of the two teams throughout the contest.

Plymouth booted the opening kick-off to the home town squad, held them for three plays, and received the first punt of the '57 campaign. Northville quickly regained possession, though, when Ken Knipschild's short pass was intercepted. However, neither team could successfully move the ball, and they exchanged punts again before the quarter ended with Northville on the offensive.

As the second 12 minute period began, so did the Northville quarterbacks Wittenberg and Grosse begin to function. They passed and piloted the Mustang squad on a low bounding kick and the Rocks began to click. Halfback Dave Walasky, the Plymouth workhorse all evening, picked up 21 yards in three consecutive carries to set up the Plymouth tally. Ed LaRoche then cracked off tackle from the two for the score. But the Northville line suddenly tightened and broke through to block Harvey Well's try for point.

The half ended with the home team deep in their own territory.

The Mustangs kicked to Plymouth beginning the second half of play, and the locals moved well before stalling on the Northville 40. Play then raged between the two 30 yard markers, neither team threatening seriously. The third period terminated with Plymouth faltering on their own 45.

At the onset of the fourth quarter, Myron Hopper punted to the Northville 35 where the Mustangs put the ball in play. It was at this point that the big break of the ball game came about. After failing to gain the necessary yardage in three downs, Northville elected to punt. But Don Alsbro came crashing in from his defensive end position and clearly blocked the attempted kick. Don then pursued the rolling football, picked it up, and galloped seven yards before being hauled down.

A series of end-around plays by Walasky and LaRoche then brought the ball within the Northville 10. On the third down, Walasky took it to the one, where quarterback Knipschild sneaked over a minute later. Dave then sliced off-tackle for the one point that eventually proved the margin of victory.

However, with four minutes remaining, the Mustangs were far from through. On the first play from scrimmage following Plymouth's kick, the Northville squad racked up a touchdown. It was a play that won't happen again in a thousand years.

Going for a long gain, quarterback Ed Wittenberg spiraled a long one to speedy halfback Beiry who was covered by Rock safetyman Ed LaRoche. Both boys were running full speed, when Ed momentarily lost sight of the ball while maneuvering for a better defensive position.

The descending ball landed directly on top of Ed's helmet, caromed high into the air, and settled into the outstretched arms of Beiry who continued across the goal for the score.

But that's all they could accomplish. The whole left side of Plymouth's defensive unit converged on the Northville ball carrier who tried to pick up the tying point on a quick opener. And the score stood at 13-12.

The Rocks then retained possession of the pigskin until the final 30 seconds when Hopper sent it deep into the Northville area where it lay when the whistle blew.

It was a well-earned victory for the Plymouth squad.

Not shown is R. Hartner, driving contest winner.

Northville Man Wins Plymouth Golf Honors

Bill Benjamin fired a sizzling 147, three over par, to capture top honors in the Plymouth City Golf Tournament held at Hilltop Golf Course last Saturday and Sunday.

Bill, who makes his home in Willow Brook Village near Northville, came in Sunday afternoon with a near-perfect 73 which was the top round of golf shot during the two day competition. His 74 of the day before was second high.

Plymouthite Tom Lock, city tourney winner several times, was close behind the winner as he finished in the runner-up position in the championship flight of play. Tom had rounds of 77 and 75 for a very respectable 152.

Winner of the first of the other three flights was Bob Johnston, 159, with Ken Olds taking second place via a 164 score. In flight-two, Kurt Atchinson, a junior at Plymouth High School, defeated Walter Vloch on the third hole of their sudden death play-off by sinking a pretty 10 foot putt. Both golfers ended tourney play with 174.

And Glen Ford bested Bob Hennelly in the first hole of their play-off to merit third flight championship honors. They each had accumulated scores of 187.

Each of the winners and runners-up were awarded trophies, with Benjamin receiving the F. A. Volbracht Trophy, which will be given to each winner of the Plymouth City Golf Tourney in ensuing years. Bill also received the Plymouth Mail Traveling Trophy which was won last year by Elton McAllister.

Hole-in-one winner Don Huebler (14' 11" from cup) and drive contest champ R. Hartner (240 yards against stiff wind) also took home trophies.

Kurt Atchinson, a high school golfer, had to exchange his second flight award, however. The trophy he was to have received was of a value exceeding $3, and his acceptance thereof would have eradicated his amateur standing. Kurt readily accepted a less expensive memento.

Attitude

BY PAUL CHANDLER

Other newspapers, not to mention public officials, politicians and commentators, have been dwelling on the subject for a long time. Today it nudges heavily on my mind. The subject is the climate in Michigan for business and industry.

It hasn't yet proved to be a particularly complex a problem for the politicians. The Republicans blandly charge that Michigan is not friendly to business; the Democrats blithely deny it. A few statistics on taxes are tossed around, presumably "proving" either point of view, depending on the party affiliation.

The thing that bothers is the lofty point of view from which most spokesmen tackle the matter. And the pertinent point now isn't so much what has happened in the past, as how we're going to treat business in the future.

The persons heard from least are those who are most keenly — yea, desperately — involved. Those are the people in the local communities, such as ourselves.

Totally aside from the textbook theories and the social-economic principles, industry makes two easily-understood contributions to local communities: they pay big taxes and they provide jobs.

Take those things away from any suburban community and there is trouble. Not in theory; in the pocketbook.

One thing many individuals don't really understand is that business is a gamble. A man puts his money up hoping that he can sell enough product to pay off the stake, and earn a profit. Or it could be a group of men.

In some cases, it's a once in a lifetime gamble. If the man is right, he's a success. If he fails, he can spend the rest of his days recovering. Or it can be a group of men.

Hence, with the process being a gamble, it can be accepted that those making the wager will always look for the best odds possible. Michigan may offer one set of odds to a businessman, but another state, say in New England, may provide odds he likes better. That doesn't mean it is impossible to succeed in Michigan; it simply means that there's a better chance somewhere else.

The "odds", in this sense, are such things as taxes, the cost of labor, the supply of raw materials. Equally as important (actually the most important thing of all, in the minds of some bettors) is the general attitude of the government and public toward the project. The bettor doesn't want to play in a house where nobody much cares if he wins, and where the rules of the game can be changed at any time against him.

This can be made specific. In Michigan, say, a business can find a good piece of land, erect a building, have the gratitude of the community where he locates, and hire trained, good labor. Things really aren't so bad.

But, at the same time, another state, say Georgia, says to the same business: "Down here you don't have to build your building. We'll put up that for you and rent it back. Our labor is cheaper than you have up north. We'll not charge any taxes for 10 years."

The odds are better in Georgia, in other words. Things are OK in Michigan, in most respects, but they just happen to be better somewhere else.

And that is the problem today, plain and real. Lurking back in the businessman's mind, as he decides, is the other intangible. He wonders if in Michigan the political climate really encourages a man to risk his money here, or whether the house will change the rules on him a year or two after he gets started and makes the odds much longer.

What makes it tough to understand for many an average citizen is a long indoctrination to be suspicious of business. Most people regard business as a sure thing, not a gamble. They note big profits, but fail to remember the opportunity there was for big loss in that same company. They forget other businesses who tried, failed, and vanished.

They also probably never really understand what a business does for a town. A study shows that just 100 factory workers mean to their community the following:

- 296 more people in town
- 112 more households
- 51 more school children
- $590,000 more personal income per year
- $270,000 more bank deposits
- 107 more passenger cars registered
- 174 more workers employed
- 4 more retail establishments
- $360,000 more retail sales per year.

What is needed more than anything in Michigan right now is a group of citizens and leaders who care about what happens to business.

It isn't necessarily here to stay, and when it leaves, it leaves a trail of wreckage.

CANTON TOWNSHIP has this year joined the United Foundation and will stage a Women's Campaign October 15-25. This group met last week at the home of Mrs. Carl Cederburg, 39926 Warren Rd., drive chairman. The township has been divided into four sections with a chairman for each area. From left, sitting, are Mrs. John Schwartz III, of Lilley Rd., Northeast area chairman;

Mrs. Cederburg; Mrs. Joseph Doyle, Sheldon Rd., Southeast chairman. Standing: Mrs. Worth Kramer, Wayne county residential suburban chairman; Mrs. Earl A. Tank, recruiting chairman; Mrs. Harry Russell, Geddes Rd., Southwest chairman; and Mrs. Elizabeth Karske, Ridge Rd., Northwest chairman. Each area chairman will recruit other workers.

Peanuts (4000 Bags Full)
Being Sold on Kid's Day

Plymouth Kiwanians will be stationed at every strategic business corner in town this weekend as they observe the ninth annual Kids' Day with the selling of peanuts.

Kiwanians spent Tuesday evening sacking up 4,000 bags of peanuts which they hope to sell Friday evening and Saturday morning. Five hundred pounds of peanuts were used.

Seventeen stations have been set up at which members will be located. They will be on the street from 4 to 9 p.m. Friday and 9:30 a.m. to noon on Saturday. Any donation will be accepted in return for the bag of peanuts.

All proceeds from the peanut sale are used for Kids' Day projects. Last year more than $1,000,000 was raised by Kiwanis clubs across the nation on Kids' Day. Locally, the Kiwanis club uses the money for such things as supporting its Girl Scout Lodge and sending delegates to Boys' State. It has also donated toward band uniforms, sponsoring a bicycle safety inspection program, supported the Junior Police Organization and helped in sponsorship of the Halloween parties.

Barlon Rogers is chairman of the Kids' Day committee, assisted by Robert Barbour, Dr. Fred Foust, John Wallace, Carroll Porter, Marvin Sackett, Ralph Carter, Norman Atchinson and Albert Glassford.

Robert Lidgard, president of Kiwanis, said that the theme of the day will be, "Boys and Girls—Our Greatest Resource."

Why are children's shoes so expensive?

The correct answer to this question amuses some people, angers others and doesn't help the budget a bit. It might save a pair of feet if Mom can use it to convince Dad that shoe prices are not bad.

The real reason that shoes are expensive is because we have to have TWO of them. When we look at a pair of eight dollar shoes we should think of them individually as four dollars each. That is how the manufacturer must look at them when he figures his cost of material and labor.

A single shoe at three, four, or five dollars is a far better value than a hat, a purse or a necktie at the same price. The shoe must withstand grinding on sandstone and yet not blister little feet. It wades through puddles, kicks cans, shinnies up trees and comes up smiling with a little polish.

With the exception of glasses nothing that we buy for a child can affect his future happiness as much as the footwear that protects the very foundation of body health.

Grandfather, Coming Here from Vermont Via Erie Canal, Built First Frame Home in This Area

(Editor's Note. This is another in a series of historical remembrances written by Edward C. Hough, who has lived in Plymouth since he was a small boy. Today's story deals with the historic Hough farm near Plymouth.)

BY EDWARD C. HOUGH

My grandfather built one of the first frame houses to go up anywhere in Wayne County outside the city of Detroit.

His name was Ira M. Hough. Back in 1825, at the age of 19, grandfather decided to leave Vermont and take advantage of the recent completion of the Erie Canal to head west. In company with neighbors he packed his belongings and boarded an Erie canal barge at Albany, N.Y., and in a few days landed in Buffalo. From there, a sailing vessel brought him to Detroit.

He spent a few days in Detroit and then set out, afoot, following the Rouge river until he reached Tonquish creek. Instead of continuing up the Rouge, as did many settlers, he followed along the Tonquish until he reached the place which during the past century has been known as the Hough place.

Ira Hough cleared the land and on July 3, 1826 a deed to it was signed in person by President John Quincy Adams. I still have the original deed, along with one signed during the term of President Andrew Jackson for another 40 acres adjoining.

My grandfather first built a log cabin. It burned in 1835 and that's when the frame house was built, the same house that still stands on the farm. In 1907 our family built another log cabin which is a replica of the original one.

After building his cabin, grandfather married the daughter of a

Vermont family which had traveled with him. I don't know, perhaps the young lady was the reason my grandfather made the trip in the first place—or maybe they got to know each other during the journey.

My grandmother was alone in the original cabin with her first baby one evening while her husband was out working in the woods. She turned around to see a huge Indian standing in the room with her. There were many wild tales about Indians dashing out the brains of babies and capturing women in those days, and my grandmother was terrified.

The Indian told her, however, the tribe had slain a bear not far away and wished to trade bear meat for flour. Finally he left, and she snatched up the baby and ran into the woods to find her husband. She had no desire to be left alone in the cabin any longer.

Grandmother was somewhat unusual in that she never could learn to smoke. They had their own little tobacco patch in the garden, however, as did almost everyone in those days.

The house which was built in 1835 was so fine that people came from miles around to see it. The original glass, imported from England, remains in some of the windows even today. We've modernized the inside of the farmhouse and preserved it carefully, but it's still the same building. A tenant lives in it and works the land and as long as I'm alive there'll be no changes on the old farm.

The Hough farm was the headquarters of the first school district. In my possession is a school financial report made out in 1827. It shows that Mary Barber was paid $32 for her year's services as a teacher. Emily D. Brown was paid $11.67. One broom was bought at the cost of a shilling and "repairs" amount to three shillings more.

Another report dated in 1846 shows the total annual expense as $47.41!

These school records were turned over to me a number of years ago by Floyd Reddeman, whose uncle was one of the early treasurers of the school district. The Hough school district census taken by James Safford on Sept. 25, 1840, showed the names of the following pioneers:

Jane Cumings, James H. Cumings, Hannah Booth, Betsy Kel-

(Another chapter of Mr. Hough's memories will appear in The Mail next week.)

American Legion Eligibility Told

Who is eligible to belong to the American Legion? That is a question being asked this month, as the local American Legion post launches its 1958 membership campaign.

Vice commander, William Langmaid, membership chairman of the drive, points out that Veterans of World War I, World War II and the Korean War who were in service on active duty during certain dates of hostility, as set by the United States Congress, are eligible for membership in the American Legion.

The eligibility dates are as follows: World War I veterans, from April 6, 1917 to November 11, 1918.

World War II veterans, from December 7, 1941 to September 2, 1945.

Korean veterans, from June 25, 1950 to July 27, 1953.

Eligible veterans are men and women who served honorably in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard or Air Force of the United States during the above dates, or citizens of the United States at the time of war who served on active duty with any of the armed forces of governments associated with the U.S.

All such services should be terminated with an honorable discharge or honorable separation or continued honorably after either of above mentioned periods.

For further information, veterans are advised to contact William Langmaid, Plymouth 1068-R, of Passage-Gayde Post No. 391 of the American Legion.

The Ohio State Capitol at Columbus required 22 years to build.

BY AL GLASSFORD

You may have noticed a proclamation in last week's Plymouth Mail when the Mayor proclaimed Plymouth Symphony Week. There is much more to this than simple acquiescence on the part of the Mayor to a request.

Any city that is properly governed and awake to its problems is a city that is guided by seriously conceived policies. It must take advantage of every opportunity to express and promote its basic policies.

One of the most important policies of our City Commission is to protect and expand our local business. Our local business is a healthy segment of our tax base and one that can be expanded through cooperation of our citizens, or local merchants and our City Government.

Our Plymouth Symphony is an accepted institution in our lives. It does much more than satisfy the musical requirements of a relatively small number of our people.

It is a source of deep pride to many of us in our social contacts with friends outside our City. It causes many people to visit Plymouth who want to see a small city with such a fine orchestra. It has been the deciding factor in causing a number of responsible families to take up residence in our City.

It is that intangible "plus" that expresses itself in many ways to many people. It is the influence that causes people on their way to a football game in Ann Arbor to stop in our City for their lunch or dinner. It causes people to go out of their way to go through our City, many of them stopping and window shopping and trading with our local merchants.

It indicates, by the very nature of good music, a fineness, a stability, a dependability that causes our people to trade in our City; whether it be our gasoline, our stores products, our restaurants' fine meals, our hotel services, or the many mechanical services we have to offer.

Our Plymouth Symphony is a very real economic influence in our City, one that should be jealously guarded and enthusiastically supported by our local business people especially.

We do not know how much each factor contributes to an economically healthy city, but we do know the kind of city you and I want must be well balanced in services, culture and beauty and that our Plymouth Symphony is a very important part of our overall picture.

Ice Cream, Fruits, Nuts Combine to Make Salad

Robbie Scrimger is his mother's most avid audience when it comes to mixing things in big bowls. A favorite of his parents, Fruit Gelatin, is no exception.

Here's Mrs. Ted Scrimger's recipe:

Fruit Gelatin
1 package lime gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 pint vanilla ice cream
1 cup crushed pineapple, drained
1 cup white cherries or grapes
1 small jar maraschino cherries
½ cup nut meats

Cut fruits and nuts into small chunks. Add boiling water to the gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add ice cream and stir until all lumps have disappeared. Add chopped fruit and nuts. Mix well. Pour into square cake pan and place in refrigerator until firm.

To serve, Mrs. Scrimger suggests cutting into squares and placing on lettuce leaves. The Scrimgers live at 325 South Harvey.

Woman's Eye View

by Nancy Rigney

As more and more schools are raised across the nation to cope with the problem of adequate education, the trend is reflected in Plymouth's amazing new junior high school.

It is amazing in comparison to the schools most of us went to. Even those of us more recently out of school can remember red brick buildings, drabness and conventional windows. By the time we reached high school, modernization was there—colorfully covered walks joining buildings, no red brick and larger windows.

It didn't end with these new ideas. Architects and decorators carried on until today's ultimate can be seen in the junior high school.

Children can no longer complain about narrow dark corridors done in any one of the favorite colors of not so long ago—steel gray, olive or a two-tone job combining these colors with cream.

Walls of glass reveal a far from drab interior. Beams, posts, doors and sills are of either yellow, coral and aqua. An accordion roof and glass enclose the library.

Talking to one of the junior high teachers the other day, I asked how she felt teaching between the glass walls. A little exposed she replied.

She said that once the kids were accustomed to the 'out-door-indoor' relationship, everything was fine. The teacher held their attention until the girls gym class briskly trotted by in their bloomer uniforms. Then all the young men turned their heads to giggle.

How do the kids like it? Bob Hill who is new to Plymouth as well as the school says, "It must be the most beautiful school in the whole country." Bob has lived in Montgomery, Ala., and St. Louis, Mo., so he had something to base his opinion on.

His opinion is shared by the other kids and by the givers of the two design awards the architects have received.

Plymouth students of younger age are fortunate too, if Smith school is an example. I had occasion to see the interior on a trip there to visit a college friend who is teaching third grade. Its light and airy atmosphere is credited to plenty of windows—of the wall covering variety.

If your children wish they had a blackboard in their home, here's a way to do it. Paint cloth window shades with black-board paint and hang them at comfortable heights in the playroom or bedroom. They can be rolled up when not in use.

Visitor from Holland Writes Of Experiences in Plymouth

(Editor's Note: Many Plymouth residents will remember Mrs. Hendricka Boersma's visit to Plymouth in August of 1956 to study and compare the community recreation department with those in her homeland. Holland. Mrs. Boersma spent almost two weeks in Plymouth as part of a five months tour of the United States as the guest of the International Education Exchange Service. Following are excerpts from an article Mrs. Boersma wrote for a Dutch Protestant church publication, "Beek." It has been translated by Fred VanDyke, 9585 Joy road.)

The students of the high school (the American name for our middle schools) who have just been in the drug store for lunch, are now, during this nice weather, in a centrally located park (Kellogg) listening to music. Also there, are the clerks of the administrative personnel of the various small and large undertakings in Plymouth. What is happening is not uncommon. Everyday during the lunch hour the Plymouth Branch Library sends out library music from records through loud-speakers that are located in various corners of Kellogg Park. To further community life, a prominent man in the town is blind loans his tapes to the library to contribute to the community. The library, in connection with the Adult Recreation Department, operates the system.

The library works in close cooperation with the Adult Recreation Department. The librarians do not only play good music to have the young people of Plymouth become acquainted with good music, but also to remind them that there is a library. This works.

It is a most interesting library. I have been there at noon and have seen the crowds of children who assemble in the special children's reading room. The kids come in and read a book that they may have started the day before. Also, they get books that the school requires them to read.

While I was there somebody whispered, "Holland" and the kids asked the library assistants for my opinion on the books and illustrations about Holland. My opinion of the books was that the wooden shoes and windmills are no longer prominent in Holland. But the rest was about right.

Plymouth has a population of about 8,000. It is about 20 miles from Detroit. Though many Plymouth people work in Detroit, they still feel proud of their community and are very active in many clubs that American communities provide. The are very much interested in recreation and adult education. There is a city paper that reports all these things that are of daily interest to the people regarding community life. There are 18 churches, according to the Chamber of Commerce, that play an important part in

Letter Writing Week Is Coming

International Letter Writing Week will be celebrated in Plymouth during the week October 6 to 12, Postmaster Timpona announced today.

Commenting on the establishment of International Letter Writing Week, Timpona pointed out that each year since 1938 the Post Office Department has joined in the observance of National Letter Writing Week—an annual event celebrated to emphasize the meaning and value of letter writing as a symbol of American freedom.

"As a result of its success," Postmaster Timpona stated, "National Letter Writing Week will be conducted on an international basis this year for the first time. International Letter Writing Week is based on the idea that written communication between people in all countries of the world will contribute toward the building of a lasting peace.

"I am sure we are aware that a personal letter is, next to an actual visit, the most intimate means each of us has to communicate with our fellow human beings. Letters between peoples of different nations are a sure method of establishing friendly relationships and understandings. The problems of freedom loving peoples will be more quickly solved if they are better understood.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bacon of Clemons drive were entertained at dinner in Dearborn Wednesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hartwick. The Basons will leave October 1 to make their home in Rodondo Beach, California.

Oh, For a Candidate

REPUBLICANS ARE LOOKING for a carload of candidates for governor. The party made motions toward the "Big Switch" at a Mackinac Island rally of leaders originally expected to designate one or two potential candidates.

When the questions came, John B. Martin, Jr., of Grand Rapids—once a Republican auditor general and later candidate for other posts—sizzled. "If you mean when are a few men going to select the party's candidate for 1958, never," he snapped.

Martin is the Republican National Committeeman and the organizer of the Mackinac Island meeting. Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield did not attend. Martin's election to the top party organization position was seen as a rebuff to Summerfield's leadership of the past.

Party speculators figure House Speaker George M. Van Beursem, a young Zeeland lawyer, might be the choice to run against the Democrat. Everybody is convinced it will be Gov. Williams. Rep. George Sallade, of Ann Arbor, is an announced hopeful. There are others, none of whom have gotten enough of a nod to rise above the others.

Van Beursem was handed a summer speaking tour on behalf of the Republican legislature. He turned the job over to others when his voice gave out, and the campaign has been quieter since.

Williams, meantime, has the advantage of incumbency and the element of surprise working for him. He doesn't have to announce what he's going to do next year.

Best bets now are that Williams will go for another term as governor, with Lt. Gov. Philip A. Hart opposing Senator Charles Potter for the U.S. Senate. Potter, whose strength next year will depend, in part, on the strength of the party organization and its candidate for governor, sides with Martin's idea. He opposes the idea of picking a gubernatorial candidate now.

It has been done in the past and Republicans have lost, taking nothing away from Williams.

The late Mayor Albert E. Cobo, of Detroit, was drafted. Donald S. Leonard was a front-runner from the start two years before. Fred Alger was handpicked before Leonard and Harry F. Kelly, now on the Michigan Supreme Court, was recalled in 1950 after the Kim Sigler defeat to Williams. Kelly had won before, had served as governor, and was the No. 1 vote-getter. He lost.

This time, Republicans contend, the push should be toward a young man who has never lost an election, one the party can unite behind.

Maybe the switch will work—nothing else has in the past decade.

The next general election will be held Nov. 4, 1958.

***** WHETHER THERE WILL BE another telephone rate increase this year is in the hands of the Michigan Public Service Commission.

Michigan Bell Telephone Co. has asked for a re-hearing of its original request for a $125,000,000 boost, after the commission approved $2,835,000 several weeks ago.

William M. Day, company president, said the increase fell far short of the needs of the company to expand and improve its services.

***** EFFORTS ARE BEING made again to sell state-owned property under the Great Lakes to private citizens. The property was dedicated more than half a century ago to be reserved for hunting and fishing and other recreational activities.

Private developers have filled in parts of the lake near the shore for their own purposes. The state, still working under the law, has taken more than 30 into court. The reasoning is that some of the land is no longer needed for its original purpose and, by selling or leasing it, the state can be assured of a constant and continuing income.

The proposals will be made to the 1958 legislature.

Rake's Progress

"Life Begins at Forty"

By ROBERT PETERSON

Ever think of buying a second home? If you can afford it, you may find that life takes on a new excitement when you divide your time between two residences.

I recently had a talk with John Macomb who, with his wife Jenny, live in a small mid western town. They bought a second home last year to solve a problem they faced when John retired from his job as a pharmacist. "We couldn't decide where we wanted to live," said Mr. Macomb. "We've lived in this little town all our lives and didn't want to move. But we also liked the city 100 miles away where our daughter and her family live."

"For years we made it a practice to drive to the city for a visit every couple of months. But we always felt hurried and restless living out of suitcases. Our daughter would urge us to stay and enjoy ourselves but after awhile we felt underfoot. One day after leaving our daughter we happened to drive through a nearby suburb called Lakewood where we saw a two-bedroom cottage for sale. Since we had some extra money in the bank we figured our daughter could just as well inherit the cottage as the money. So we bought the place and have made it our second home."

He said the arrangement has worked out just fine. "We got a big kick out of fixing up the cottage. We fitted it out with everything from clothes to kitchen equipment so that when we come for a stay we have everything we need. We spend a week or ten days every month at Lakewood and the rest here at home.

What are the advantages? "Well," mused Mr. Macomb, "we never get bored. When I first retired I fixed up the basement here at home and put in a workshop. But I used to get awfully bored being around the house so much. With two houses we get a change of scene.

"Then too," he went on, "we get to see a lot more of our grandchildren having a place just a few miles from our daughter's home. And two houses gives us two sets of friends."

"Another thing we like is the chance of sharing our cottage with some of our friends from the hometown. When we learn they are going to the city we just give them the key to the cottage and tell them to use our 'townhouse.'"

Receiving the Best in Books

By United Press

Britain produced an innumerable class of civil servants known as the colonial career man. The class was almost nonexistent in the United States. A notable exception was George A. Malcolm, who, according to his publishers, may be the only American to have made a career of the colonial service.

Malcolm's reminiscences on 30 years in the Philippines and a relatively brief period in Puerto Rico have been published under the title of "American Colonial Careerist" (Christopher Publishing House).

He served as first assistant attorney general, dean of the law college in the University of the Philippines, supreme court justice and adviser to U.S. high commissioners in the Philippines. Later, he was attorney general of Puerto Rico.

Malcolm, on the whole, is proud of the United States record in the Philippines, but points out its "most glaring fault."

"Nearly half a century of American occupation of the Philippines had done little more than perpetuate the land tenure system of the Spanish era, with all its attendant evils," he writes.

His criticism of Filipinos is gentle. He finds that "all too few serious-minded Filipinos realize that the gulf between a rich minority and the poverty-stricken unemployed is widening."

He recommends for the Philippines a "genuine" two-party system.

Malcolm fears the nearness of Red China to the Philippines. He is skeptical that Japan will ever become a true friend of the Filipinos and suggests that Japan's dream entirely evaporated . . .

Faraway (Simon & Schuster), which won author Andre Dhôtel the Prix Femina, is a worldly fairy tale that pits convention against imagination and adventure. A delightful Gallic tongue-in-cheek novel, it relates the story of Gaspard, a youth whom accidents pursued from an early age. Because disasters dogged his path, he soon began to be mistrusted and left alone, even as a small child. Consequently, he daydreamed more than usual as he went for long solitary walks in the woods of his native Ardennes where he lived with his innkeeper aunt, Mlle. Berlicaut.

To Mlle. Berlicaut, unconventional people were a threat to the universe; yet the very unconventionality from which she sought to protect her nephew dogged his footsteps — from his initial meeting with a blue-eyed runaway, to his discovery, aboard a private yacht at sea, that the runaway was a beautiful young girl.

With the help of a wild horse whom Gaspard met in a forest and a wealthy deaf boy, Gaspard set out to search for the runaway girl. From this point on, it is useless to attempt a story synopsis — the charm of M. Dhôtel's writing makes even the Hollywood-type ending suitable to this 20th century fairy tale . . .

The little world of the little man, minutely explored and lovingly described, small in scope and vast in meaning; all these make up the theme of an ambitious first novel by Myron S. Kaufmann: Remember Me to God (Lippincott). The minutiae-gathering camera focuses on the Amsterdam family of Boston: old Adam, a small-time local judge trying to affirm himself as patriarch and benevolent tyrant as tradition demands; Richard, striving to get ahead to be somebody, against strait-laced Catholic or Puritan Yankee competition; and teenaged Dorothy, who stutters, and dreams of romance, and is fated to remain the spinster child of aging parents, as Richard, somewhere is fated to die a hero's death in the war.

The Chayevsky school of realism: no better, no worse, and nothing left to be said.

Kaufmann is an acute observational writer; he has probably lived most of his story himself, and remembered it well. Too well perhaps, or at too great length. While moments of this novel are delightfully tender and humorous and others almost painfully poignant, the total effect of his 640 pages is somewhat overwhelming—too much of a basically good thing.

To Gain The World?

We know a man who does not pursue honesty as merely the best policy, but who is honest even if it is not to his own best interests. He speaks out of the voice of experience, as a father of sons to whom he is determined to set a good example.

He said that he had noticed, where men became wealthy and prosperous dishonestly, that though they apparently didn't suffer, the consequences upon their sons and other members of their families were often disastrous.

What does a grafting or dishonest father gain if he becomes wealthy and attains a sort of success only to find that his sons seek to emulate his success through the crookedness that made it? What does he do when he sees them going down to ruin in a worldly as well as a spiritual way because of the false heritage he has given them?

Think of what is happening in the world as our friend has thought about it. Take a long-range view and see if the voices of wisdom aren't right when they whisper that human welfare is linked with honesty and right choice.

"The path of the just is as the shining light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day." This rich and beautiful figure brings to mind this saying, "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." It is in our will, the inner choice backed by good judgment, that our destiny rests.

To set before oneself the goal of good living, the way of honor and decency, is to be worldly wise as well as spiritually sound. Even where men have to make great sacrifices to keep their integrity, honesty is justified. For what comfort or gain is there for any man to realize that what he has won has been won at the cost of himself?

Thousands of folks have "whopper-jawed" insurance programs. In these OUT-OF-BALANCE programs, there are some things not insured that should be . . . some risks over-insured . . . some insured twice . . . many under-insured.

These situations come about in two ways:

- 1. Insurance programs that just "grow" with a policy being bought here and another there and no supervision given to the overall picture.
2. Insurance programs based on "bargain" policies where skimpy coverage can result in a loss of thousands of dollars.

Most people don't discover the weakness of their insurance until they have a loss or a judgment and get a partial settlement or none at all.

There is a better way to find out and that is to place the problem in the hands of a professional insurance agent and ask him to analyze your policies. He'll do this without obligation and give you a frank, professional opinion.

That opinion will be weighted with the years of his experience and his personal reputation in the highly complex field of insurance. He will give you that opinion as a man who is the APPOINTED REPRESENTATIVE of the world's largest insuring companies with powers to bind those companies in contract.

We regularly render this analysis service. Often, we are able to save the client money . . . sometimes, we are able to buy more complete insurance for the same money. ALWAYS we are able to show you, the client, the exact situation you are in and prescribe those changes which will guarantee the complete peace of mind that comes with a BALANCED insurance picture.

'Split' Offers Space to Grow In

A popular theory among house hunters is that older houses offer more space for the money than new homes. Architect Rudolph A. Matern, of Jamaica, N.Y., has designed this modern split-level home as proof you don't have to be rich or old fashioned to have plenty of living space.

The house, from its colorful roof down to its 26-foot recreation room, is planned for a growing family.

There are four bedrooms, two-and-a-half baths, a 19-foot living room with adjoining dining room, and a kitchen roomy enough for a breakfast table and chairs.

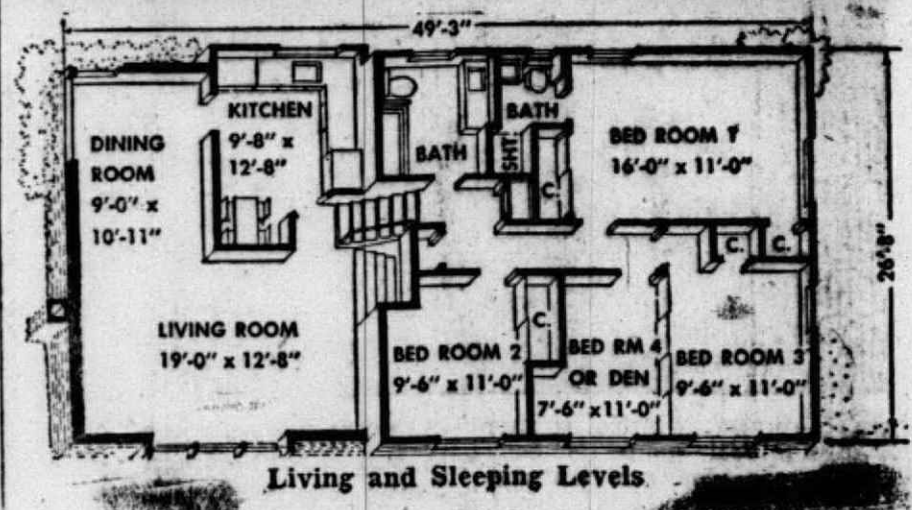

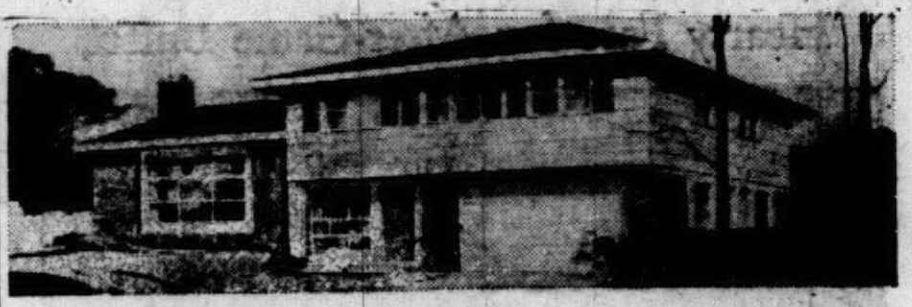

Other unique space features Matern has built into the house are 10 closets, 10-by-12 foot entrance foyer, two-car garage with a work bench, and basement storage room.

Outside, the architect has specified asphalt shingles in a rich deep color for the unique combination of hip and gable roofs over the two levels. The asphalt shingles set the color scheme for the house and give it dependable protection from harsh weather.

Recognizing the growing enthusiasm of American families for central air conditioning, plus the need for economical heating, Matern also specified thick mineral wool insulation in walls and ceilings throughout the house.

Because it keeps summer heat out, the insulation makes it possible for the builder to install a smaller, less-expensive air-conditioning system, or for the home-owner to save on installation costs at a later date. Mineral wool also helps keep cooling and heating operating costs at the lowest possible levels.

Another thoughtful feature is the strategic location of the bathrooms. The main bath is at the head of a short flight of steps leading from the kitchen and the living room, while the second bath is off the master bedroom. The "half" bath is just inside the rear door, handy to the recreation room and the rear yard.

Further information, blueprints and specifications can be obtained from Rudolph A. Matern, 90-04 181st St., Jamaica, L.I., N.Y. Refer to Plan No. 9427.

For Gluing Wide Boards

IN gluing wide boards or frames when no long clamps are available, Popular Mechanics advocates drilling two saw horses for dowel stops. Dowels inserted in the holes will hold the work while the glue sets.

Boards to be edge-glued are placed between the stops. Between one of the dowels and the work, drive a long wooden wedge to clamp the boards together, as shown in the illustration. When the dowels are not being used, drive them down.

INSULATION SAVES FUEL

Studies at the University of Illinois have shown that thick mineral wool insulation can save as much as 40 percent per year on heating bills and reduce operating costs of air conditioning by as much as 67 percent.

Two-Kitchen House Makes Life Easier For Housewife

By LEROY POPE

United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW PROVIDENCE, N.J.— (UP)— Housewives soon may cook in two kitchens in one house.

Builder Alfred Tabor has designed and built a $35,000 split-level house with a full-sized second kitchen downstairs. The kitchen is styled for indoor and outdoor parties.

"This second kitchen will start a national trend in better houses," Tabor said.

The second kitchen — complete with refrigerator, range, sink and pickled-oak cabinets — is built into the back end of a playroom. There's a built-in bar at the other end of the playroom.

Outdoor Club

"That means you can hold parties without having to use the main kitchen on the upper level. The playroom and patio become an outdoor club in summer. In winter the playroom is a private night club," Tabor explained.

The builder, who started in business working for his father after school in Brooklyn, N.Y., during the depression, said he got the idea for the extra kitchen after hearing women complain about running up and down steps in split-level houses.

"The second kitchen is wonderful for every living as well as for parties," Tabor said. "It keeps the kids from running up the steps for a drink of water or between-meals snacks. It makes it easier to keep the main kitchen clean."

Pandora Window

"Baby bottles and formulas can be kept in both kitchens so mother won't have so many steps," he added. "And if you have relatives staying several days, well, you know how the old saying about two women under one roof — it's better if they don't have the same kitchen."

The main kitchen on the upper level is larger than the extra kitchen. It also has a freezer, automatic washer and dryer, refrigerator, stove, sink and cabinets.

The second kitchen has one feature which Tabor is especially proud of: a "Pandora window."

"That's my own invention — a big picture window at the back of the 29-foot playroom," he said.

The window, made of heavy glass, opens up to form a dinette table on the patio.

For the final touch, Tabor added a third bathroom to the four-bedroom house.

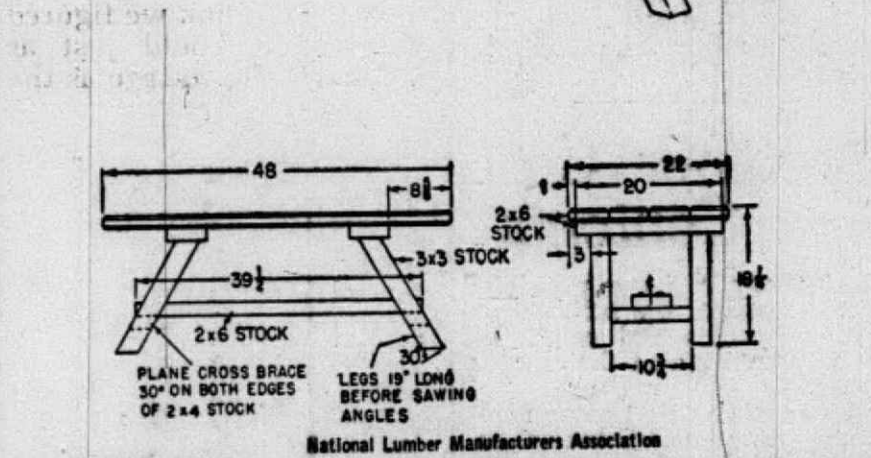

The number of horses on U.S. farms in 1951 dropped below the five million mark for the first time in census history.

Current taxes take about 29 cents out of each dollar spent in the United States for the purchase of a new automobile, the industry estimates.

HERE'S HOW... MAKE A RUSTIC COFFEE TABLE

A rugged coffee table with a rustic look can be made by the home craftsman. Cut all square ends with the help of a miter box. The pattern for the angle cuts can be made with a protractor or 80-60-90 degree triangle.

The top is made of 2 by 6-inch lumber, 48 inches long. Bevel the sides and edges of each piece as shown. The 8 by 3-inch legs and the 2 by 4-inch braces are cut to the dimensions shown. Make the angle cuts at 30 degrees. The braces are attached to the legs 3 inches from the base of the legs. The cleats and stretcher are made of 2 by 6-inch lumber. Assemble the project with glue and No. 10 wood screws. Counter bore holes for the screws.

PICTURE TILES
TELL ROOM STORY

Smart stylized inlays in resilient floor tiles add an appropriate accent for each room. Designs die-cut and pre-assembled at the factory are known as Themetile. You can get them in asphalt, rubber, vinyl and vinyl asbestos tile.

A bubbling champagne glass, a bronco rider, teakettle, fork and spoon, musical notes and many other silhouettes set definite notes of character for various rooms.

Linen and Lace

WITH AN EYE toward Christmas giving or beautifying your own table, here is an unusual linen and lace cloth. It is a graceful, dainty combination of linen and crocheted lace. Another beauty about it is that you can make it whatever size you prefer. Each linen square is hemmed and stitched to an equal square of cotton crocheted motifs, forming a delicate, checkerboard design.

The directions for this tablecloth may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Plymouth Mail with your request for the Primrose Patch tablecloth instructions.

Safari Cooking
With Electricity
Has Drawbacks

So long as you have to carry your own generator, use of electrical cooking appliances on an African safari is limited, according to Myra Waldo.

American home appliances will work in the jungle," said the well-known cook book author, "but I had one handicap most housewives are spared. The safari's electric generator provided only enough power to run one electrical cooking appliance at a time."

She found meal-planning almost more trouble than the actual cooking.

Then why did she bother to take electrical equipment on safari? Did she plan to write a cookbook for big game hunters? "No, indeed," said Miss Waldo. "I didn't get enough useable food material from the trip."

Miss Waldo made the seven-week trek across Africa's mid-section to test cooking appliances for American manufacturers. They wanted to learn how the appliances would operate under rugged conditions. With Miss Waldo were her husband — attorney Robert Schwartz — and a white hunter and native bearers.

"The appliances worked all right," said Miss Waldo, who is food consultant to Pan American World Airways. But she doubts they will replace little charcoal fires which African women use for cooking all their food, including bread and cakes.

"We even attempted a soufflé in the coals," Miss Waldo said. "It turned out very well, much like a French soufflé. . . a little runny in the center."

But most of the safari's meals were far from fancy.

The main dish usually consisted of bustard, oryx or gazelle. "A bustard comes in two sizes, lesser and greater," said Miss Waldo.

"The lesser average about 10 pounds, looks something like a turkey but tastes more like guinea fowl. It's fine either stuffed or cooked in wine or beer."

"The greater bustard is a black and gray creature with a 6-to-8-foot wing spread," she added. "After looking at an English variety of canned meat for a few weeks, any kind of fresh meat tasted good to us."

The oryx, she explained, made good eating. Like gazelles, they are members of the antelope family.

Miss Waldo does not recommend this rich diet for weight-watchers unless they keep on the move.

"I had an absolutely enormous appetite the first three weeks," said the cooking expert. "Of course, I gained weight. But I lost the extra pounds as soon as we started traveling over the rough roads."

The safari varied its gamey menu with canned and frozen foods kept in an electric refrigerator and freezer which she tested.

European settlers also offered fresh fruit and vegetables from their gardens. "The safari had a well-balanced diet," said Miss Waldo, "although with a smoky flavor over-all."

Container Cost
Tops Contents

Most shoppers have wondered about the cost of the brilliant array of packages and containers stacked head-high in their favorite market.

The suspicion that some containers may cost more than the contents has been confirmed by James Goff, director of Michigan State University's packaging technology course.

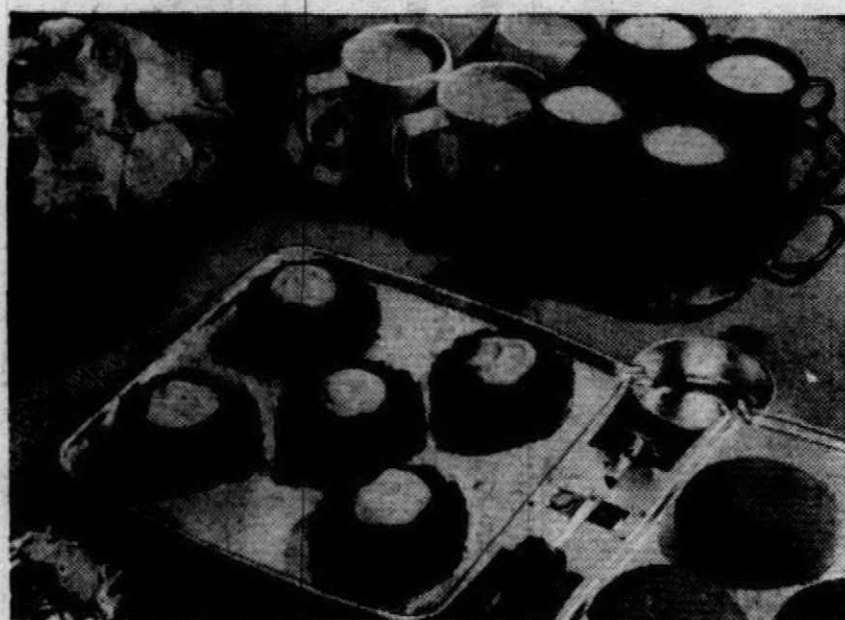

Newest example of this, he reports, is the container for shaving cream.

"The can itself may cost from 35 to 45 cents," Goff says. "The remainder of the 79 cents average cost must cover the propellant, marketing, overhead and profit in addition to soap cost."

Another case of the package costing more than its contents, he adds, is that of individual servings of dry cereal — which may cost four to five times as much as the same amount of cereal in one large package.

The obvious answer is that the customer is buying a product for its convenience.

Jumbo Cereal Flake Hamburgers
Hearty Fare for After-Game Buffet

Entertaining at a buffet supper after a football game is easy when the main course features Jumbo Cereal Flake Hamburgers. All ages enjoy juicy hamburgers served hot from a table grill in a toasted bun with favorite garnishes.

Cereal flakes are so quick to use in making hamburgers. They are easy to crush, thus eliminating the tedious job of crumbing bread. Juiciness and flavor are improved by the addition of cereal flakes. Main dishes are but one of the many ingredients of breakfast cereals. Cookies, confections, muffins, breads, and pies take on new flavors and textures by the addition of breakfast cereals. Cereals make important nutritional contributions of high-quality protein, essential B vitamins and minerals, in addition to food energy.

Hostesses who enjoy entertaining try to do as much advanced preparation as possible. Jumbo Cereal Flake Hamburgers can be prepared and shaped early in the day. A mold helps to make uniform-size hamburgers. For easy handling, place squares of waxed paper between each patty and refrigerate until time to grill. This recipe adapts itself to freezing. Simply prepare the individual patties, wrap in a moistureproof freezer paper and freeze.

The buffet table can be set before the game. Relishes can be prepared early in the day. After the game, heat the grill, cook the hamburgers, place potato chips and relishes in serving dishes, prepare a tray with mugs of instant cocoa and chilled milk and presto, supper is ready!

For a quick and easy dessert roll balls of ice cream in pre-sweetened rice cereal and serve with fruit or chocolate sauce.

Jumbo Cereal Flake Hamburgers
2 cups corn flakes, slightly crushed

1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1/4 cup chopped onion
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2/3 cup milk, water, or tomato juice
2 tablespoons fat
Mix ingredients together thoroughly. Gently shape and flatten 8 patties. Heat 2 tablespoons fat in skillet or on griddle. Cook patties to the doneness desired, 3 to 8 minutes over medium heat, turning once. If preferred, broil until done on a rack 6 to 8 inches from a bed of glowing coals, turning once. Yield: 8 hamburgers.

Low Broiler Heat
Leaves No Mess

Do you ever hesitate to use your broiler because it makes such a mess in your oven? Try using a moderate temperature such as 350 degrees.

Not only will a moderate temperature cut down on smoking and spattering grease, but it will result in meat that is more tender, shrinks less and is more evenly cooked. To keep your broiler temperature at the desired setting, you will want to leave your oven door ajar while broiling.

The distance between your broiler pan and the heating unit will also make a big difference in the way your meat will look and taste. Putting it too close to the unit will result in meat that is seared on the outside and rare in the middle.

If you place the pan so that the top of the meat is three inches from the heat, your steak will be nicely brown on the outside and evenly cooked on the inside whether you like it well-done, medium or rare.

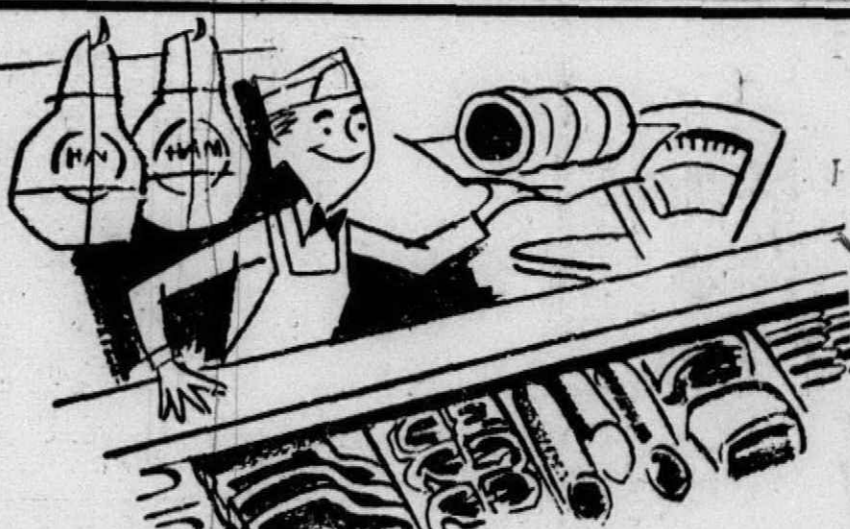

If you have always thought of sectional furniture in terms of upholstery, here is a grouping which will change your mind. Wooden furniture can be sectional, too. The chests are scaled so that they may be placed in any kind of an arrangement. This furniture is available with a "beautyguard" finish which allows you to have real hardwood tops which are abuse-resistant for carefree entertaining. (Lexington Chair Co.)

Dry Clean or Wash Fiber Glass Drapes

Are you wondering how to launder those fiberglass curtains? They may either be laundered at home or dry-cleaned. If you wash them yourself, however, here are a few tips that will make the job easier.

down or soak in mild soapsuds as hot as your hand will stand. Do not rub, twist or wring.

Rinse the fabric carefully without squeezing or wringing. Do not use a starch or a bleach. To dry the fabric, roll it gently in a bath towel to remove excess moisture. The curtains may be hung at the window while they are still damp. Smooth the side and bottom seams with your fingers and that's all there is to it. They will dry in about five minutes.

TIPS for TEENS

By ELINOR WILLIAMS

Q.—Dear Elinor: We are two senior girls and are still dateless. What can we do about this mess? Many of our friends are going steady or planning to be married. Most of the boys we meet already have girlfriends, so they don't ask us out. We get along well with people and are goodlooking. How can we meet unattached boys?

A.—Go where boys are! Combine fun-plans with a campaign to meet boys, and you'll soon get acquainted and have dates.

Don't get the wrong idea. This doesn't mean to flirt with boys in public places such as movies and the corner drug store. But go regularly to school clubs, a church Young People's group, YWCA activities that include boys and other community doings that boys attend.

Avoid appearing too, too attached to another girl or a group of girls, because boys don't like to break into a tight little group to ask a girl to dance, etc. Go to the meetings or activities with one other girl or by yourself and you'll have a better chance to get acquainted with unattached boys.

Choose one or two school clubs and go to all the meetings until you're one of the "crowd". When you meet a boy you like, get a friend who also knows him to arrange a double-date for you so you can get better acquainted and he'll see you looking your prettiest as a date-partner. If there's no friend to help you, invite him to your home for a TV evening and a snack or a bridge game.

Blind dates are another way to meet boys and they're all right if arranged by a friend.

Look for other possibilities in your community... the Junior Red Cross, Junior Achievement, a hand-craft center, etc.

Your attitude is important, too—not too eager, but casual, friendly and interested. Look as if you're having fun; this also attracts boys.

(For help with personal problems, write to Elinor Williams at this paper. As many letters as possible will be answered in this column.)

Cleared In Wife's Death

DETROIT — (UP) — The autopsy report of Dr. Herman J. Linn, pathologist at Royal Oak's William Beaumont Hospital, today cleared Charles K. Lawson, 64, Hazel Park, of any blame in the death of his wife, Mrs. Alice Lawson, 69.

Lawson was held pending the medical report after he called for an ambulance to take his wife to the hospital, where she died several hours later of a brain hemorrhage.

Lawson was released following the report today. Lawson has added spice to Hazel Park politics in three unsuccessful tries for election to the city council, and with criticism of city administration.

Linn said the bluish coloring in Mrs. Lawson's face was a common occurrence in such brain hemorrhage cases.

Front Row Center

by George Spelvin

Mark the first week of October on your kitchen calendar as try-out week for the first Theater Guild play of the season, Russ Creel, Plymouth Theater Guild's president, informed me that all parts would be cast that week. By the way, the show is "wide-open." No one has been pre-selected for the parts.

The first production will be directed by Bill Merrill of Will-O-Way Playhouse fame. He's had a busy summer season directing a plethora of plays. Bill is always ready to help out and indicated to Russ that he will enjoy directing the Plymouth group in their opening production.

Dorothy Smith, Guild member of many years, has requested the job of producer. As the producer she will have charge of appointing program, make-up, costumes, props, lighting, stage committees. Needless to say she will be plenty busy in the weeks to come. If you'd like to volunteer for any of the aforementioned jobs, give Dot a call. She will gladly give you a chance to make the first play—"The Desk Set," a top show.

BROADWAY BANTER: Say, Joe like Hirsch's Dim White Way is finally flickering a bit. Jack Carter is bringing in the world premiere of a new musical, "Carefree Heart"; and a Broadway hit of several years back—"The Diary of Anne Frank" with Joseph Schildkraut, a real "pro" heading up the cast. Yes, both the Cass Theater and the Schubert will be all aglow. Quite a shock since they have been dark for many a month.

"Carefree Heart" hits old George right where the auricles and ventricles meet—the heart. Years ago yours truly played in the Moliere play from which this musical is being lifted. Moliere called the show "The Doctor in Spite of Himself." As I recall we re-titled it as "The Mock Doc." Now it turns up as "Carefree Heart." It's like they say in Italy: "Kay Sear Ra; Seer Rah."

All joking to one side your friend Spelvin did play the Jack Carter in a non-musical version of this play. The year was 1940; place Chicago. You can bet all the green stamps you own that George will be viewing this version. I'll have a first hand report on what they done to a time-honored classical farce.

"The Diary of Anne Frank" won the Pulitzer Prize and the Drama Critics Award while playing on Broadway. It's not every year that this happens. This fine drama is going to be here for three weeks. You'd better call early for tickets. I have a feeling that even theatre-shy Detroiters will crowd the box office to see this prize-winner.

SEASON TICKET DRIVE UNDERWAY: Hope you are planning on purchasing a season ticket for the Plymouth Theater Guild. Guild members have been assigned specific territories and they may be talking to you about the big saving in store for you—any minute now. You get an extra variety by buying a season ticket.

Saw Warren Worth last Saturday while out picking apples. He already had a promise from his next-door neighbor for a season ticket. With the Guild board members showing the way to sell these season tickets it will be easy enough to sell the 1,000 set as the campaign goal.

Watch for the clever poster telling you how the campaign is going. Jack Van Haren, Guild member from Northville, assisted in their construction. In case you've missed them—it's a poster with a real curtain on it and as the season drive progresses the curtain will open revealing a series of scenes from the coming shows.

Almost time to close the curtain on this week's work-production. Before I do, I'd like to make amends. Libby Curtner reminded me at the Guild meeting that her name was spelled with a "C" not a "K." I had her mixed up with the Krazy Kat era evidently. Incidentally, Libby did a bit part in "South Pacific," last production at the Musical Tent. I'll bet they spelled her name right on their program or she wouldn't go on!

It is estimated that approximately 25 million people have seen the Naval Aviation Cadet Drill Team.

YOUR HANDWRITING TELLS YOUR STORY

With Grapho Analysis
BY JEAN EVANS

Dear Jean:
I'm very interested in having my handwriting analyzed. I'm a recent graduate of Plymouth high and am not sure of what I'd like for a career.

Are there any observations that might be of help?

Dear Jane:
You are cool, self-possessed, not likely to be shaken by emotional appeals. You will view a situation calmly and handle it without bias. You skim over the surface of things and come to conclusions before you have all the facts.

Your handwriting shows you are able to concentrate on whatever you are doing and dislike being interrupted while doing it. You have a healthy imagination and look ahead with expectation. You lack will power and purpose which should be cultivated. You are able to complete a goal or project once it is set for you.

Dear Jean:
It is interesting to know that handwriting analysis reveals personal characteristics. May I ask that this specimen be analyzed?

Dear B.L.J.:
You are a person who will be quick to sympathize with another person who tells you their troubles and will be able to be still about anything he confides in you if you so choose. You have a variety of interests and are fond of change and travel.

However, there is an indication that you are prone to have too many interests resulting in confusion.

Your handwriting is full of rhythm indicating that you are Completing a two performance run, the first production of the Plymouth Theater Guild Workshop group could chalk up a brilliant artistic success. Capacity audiences at each performance expressed their appreciation with round after round of applause.

Jim Blackman's name does not appear anywhere in the cast or backstage, but it has been his guiding influence as chairman and organizer of this workshop group that has made this initial offering possible. While many of us dawdled in a dingy this summer, Jim was assembling the workshop group. Jim tells me that it is the hope of the workshop group to present plays for the Guild members at least every other meeting.

Audience-wise the cast did a more than competent job. Everyone seemed quite pleased with the excellent characterization work done by Ford Sutherland and Libby Curtner. The dramatic scene where the audience is let in on the secret was charged with suspense and high drama. Using incidental music to highlight and supplement the inherent conflict was a touch of theatrical genius on the part of the director.

Dr. Ford Sutherland, in doing his first directorial debut with the Plymouth Theater Guild, shows great promise. A three act production would seem to be advisable for his talents... in the very near future.

Two newcomers to the Guild, Abe Kooiman and Mike Toth, made their debut in this production. Abe had only a few lines, but he delivered them with authority. Mike had a longer part and gave every evidence of being at ease on the stage. His show of confidence covered up many mistakes that amateurs make in their initial appearance. Over-all his characterization was a little too casual for a Warden. My experience with such individuals has found them a bit more formal and serious.

Tussling with the role of the prison chaplain or priest, Jim Brown came out second best. Admittedly, the part of a cleric is always difficult. To strike the right tone or shade of reverence to convey the dignity of the church is always a large order. Jim approached it several times and in his final scene as they lead Dyke to the "chair" he was hitting professional paydirt. Making his second appearance as a Guild member, Jim shows great improvement.

As stated earlier, Ford Sutherland and Libby Curtner gave the show real emotional drive. Their acting was neatly balanced. Both of them have done considerable work and their handling of the pace, tempo, and mood of their scene was excellent theater.

At the conclusion of the play, after the cast had taken at least five curtain calls, Dr. Sutherland in his role as the director introduced the many, many people who had assisted in preparing the production. Check the cast credits for all of the names. In a word, the backstage work was "tops."

We hope to see the old Junior High gym transformed again by the Workshop group. The magical spell and hard work made the tiny stage into a warden's office where a life and death struggle held an audience entranced. As stated before, it was a good play performed in a skillful manner.
