New License Laws Explained to Motorists

School Report Graphically Presented in Today's Issue

Every year at this time, public schools of Michigan are required by law to publish a financial statement. This year, the state has asked school boards to present the involved financial statements as graphically and clearly as possible. Since last spring, work has been going on to prepare the Plymouth Community School District's report which can be found on pages 3-6 in Section 3. Twenty-nine photographs, plus other charts make up the report which the board feels that every citizen should study and keep for reference. The special four pages were prepared through the efforts of the board, the administrative staff, Robert Wall of the Wayne County Board of Education and The Mail.

A long list of new vehicle licensing laws is going into effect and it took a day-long session recently for Secretary of State James M. Hare and his assistants to explain the new laws to area license bureau managers. Mrs. Doris Root, manager of the Plymouth bureau, which also serves Livonia and other surrounding areas, attended the meeting at the Veterans Memorial Building with managers from Wayne, Oakland and Washtenaw counties. The 1958 license plates will go on sale about November 1, Mrs. Root said this week. They will be light gray with black numerals. These are among the more important pieces of legislation which will be or are now in effect.

1. Starting with the 1958 plates, the tags will stay with the vehicle owner instead of with the car.
2. If an owner sells a vehicle but does not put his plates on another vehicle within 10 days, the plates must be turned into the license bureau. New plates must be purchased if another vehicle is purchased later.
3. Starting Sept. 27, the purchaser of a car from a previous owner must register the transfer with the license bureau within 10 days or else pay an additional transfer fee of $5.
4. Pick-up trucks will have their own type of license plates this coming year. Pick-ups weighing up to 4,000 pounds will pay only 50 cents per 100 pounds instead of 90 cents.
5. There will be two types of license plates for commercial trailers instead of one. The dividing point between regular and heavy trailers will be 2,500 pounds.
6. For the first time, the Plymouth bureau will handle half-year license plates for trucks. Trucks which pay a license fee of $50 or more can obtain half-year plates.
7. Long desired by mobile home owners is the new legislation authorizing temporary permits for trailers to be moved from one location to another. A fee of $2 allows the trailer to be on the highway 48 hours after the permit is issued. Previously, the trailer owner had to pay passenger vehicle license fees to move a trailer across public highways.
8. New during the past year but not widely known is an application form making it possible to drive trucks to weigh stations. A new or rebuilt truck, for instance, must be weighed before the license is issued. The form would indicate to police that the truck is on its way to the weigh station.

The Plymouth license bureau is located at 181 W. Liberty, between Mill street and Starkweather avenue.

HELPING TO LEAD the parade of fire equipment next Thursday night in downtown Plymouth will be Diane Fuelling who holds the title of Miss Plymouth. Diane is shown trying out the driver's seat of the city's new $20,000 pumper which will be one of the many pieces of equipment displayed next week by nine departments.

While the fire departments want to show the public what is available in case there is a fire, the firemen's first purpose is to prevent fires. Fire Prevention Week, starting Sunday, is set aside to educate the public with ways to prevent costly fires.

SENIOR GIRL SCOUTS are this week up to their merit badges in Plymouth Community Fund literature that will be sent out to all homes and businesses next week. Over 6,000 envelopes addressed by high school typing classes will be sent out containing information about the fund, a pledge card and a return envelope. This replaces door-to-door solicitation. Scouts, from left, are Suzanne Phillips, Marsha Rubey, Elaine Calahan and Barbara Gooch of Troop 21, and Gerorgette Graham of Troop 1. Watching are Mrs. Wayne Rubey, Troop 21 leader; and Mrs. Claude Gebhardt, Mrs. J. Lorenz and Mrs. Ed Geller, members of the residential solicitations committee.

9 Departments Take Part In Fire Prevention Show

Gravel Cave-in Traps City Employee for Over An Hour

A bulldozer operator was trapped in gravel for nearly an hour and a half Tuesday at the city's refuse disposal site, but his only injury was a badly sprained right foot. Herbert Kennedy, operator of the city's disposal site on Chubb road in Salem Township, was at the side of his stalled bulldozer getting ready to start it when a seven-foot-high embankment of gravel collapsed. The gravel, which went as high as his knees, pinned him against the bulldozer. He was unable to bend enough to dig himself out and his legs soon became numb. Kennedy shouted and struggled between an hour and an hour and a half. His home is near the large gravel pit. Finally his wife, noticing that the bulldozer had not been running for a long time, went to the scene and found her husband. A neighbor was summoned who dug him out. The city emergency truck then arrived and a local ambulance took Kennedy to University Hospital for X-rays.

Nine fire departments will invade Plymouth's downtown next Thursday night as part of the biggest Fire Prevention Week program ever attempted here.

Joining the Plymouth city and township departments will be men and equipment from Canton, Superior, Novi and Salem townships, Livonia, Northville and the Detroit House of Correction.

A parade starting at 7 p.m. led by Miss Plymouth (Diane Fuelling) will start on Forest avenue, move east on Wing to Main street; north on Main to Dodge and south on Union to Kellogg Park.

To Pave Stretch Of Sheldon Road

A stretch of Sheldon road from Ann Arbor road to Joy road is now being prepared for blacktopping next summer, it was announced by the Wayne County Road Commission. The road is now closed off while being graded. A stone base will be laid and allowed to settle over the winter. Sometime next summer, a road commission spokesman said, blacktop paving will be added.

It is also tentatively planned to eventually blacktop Sheldon road from Joy to Ford roads, the spokesman said. The stone base may be laid next year and the hard surfacing completed the following year. The new Gallimore Elementary school is located along this part of the road. Last year, Sheldon road was blacktopped from Ann Arbor road to Northville. A portion from Ann Arbor trail, north to the C & O railroad, had already been hard surfaced.

It will be in the Main street block in front of Kellogg Park that most of the activity will take place. Pumps, ladder trucks, tankers, utility trucks, rescue squad trucks and fire chief cars will be parked around the park and the public will be invited to inspect the equipment. In the park will also be display booths erected by fifth grade students. The booths, having fire prevention themes, will be competing for prizes. The Plymouth Association of Insurance Agents will also have a booth.

Highlight of the program will be waterball contests starting at 7:30. A ball four feet in diameter and weighing 75 pounds will be placed in a court 75 by 100 feet. Two teams of five men each, using inch and a half hoses, will play streams of water on the ball in an attempt to push it over each other's goal. There will be eight teams participating.

At 9 p.m., prizes will be awarded to winners of the slogan and booth contest. The slogan contest is for sixth, seventh and eighth graders with the first prize, an Evans bicycle, going for the best fire prevention slogan. Judges are officers of the Plymouth township and city fire department.

Judging the booth contest will be mayors and supervisors of the participating communities, or their representatives. Don King of the Plymouth township department will referee the water ball contest.

There is also a journalism contest going on. Cash prizes will be given for the best editorial or news story written by high school journalism students. Judges will be Miss Elizabeth McDonald, Fire Chiefs Howard Holmes and Robert McAllister, Lt. Paul Albright and Sgt. Paul Saunders. Fire Prevention Week, which opens this Sunday, will also find fire trucks from Plymouth township and city and Canton township visiting the elementary schools in their area.

On Tuesday, Sgt. Saunders of the city and Lt. Paul Albright of the township, co-chairmen for the week's events, will visit the high school for short fire prevention talks. Literature on the subject will be distributed. Grade school children will be given sheets to check home fire hazards. Those completing the sheets will receive a fire helmet. (Continued on Page 8)

Capture Brings Him to U.S.

Businessman Once Fought With Rommel

By David Jolliffe

The jump from a private in Rommel's African Corps in 1941 to owner of Plymouth's Travel Centre in 1957 is a big one.

But Berlin-born Kurt Thrun made it and hasn't stopped jumping. Future plans include an African Safari he and 15 others will attempt next March.

In 1941 an African hunting trip seemed an unlikely pleasure trip. December of that year found Thrun as a scared, very green 17-year-old member of Rommel's spirited African Corps fighting over the hot sands and through thirsty days, outnumbered ten to one.

Thrun saw action against the French Foreign Legion, British Eighth Army and Australians.

Today's 35-year old travel agent saw Rommel on many occasions. Not only did he appreciate the German general's renowned leadership, but he was a "soldier's gentleman."

"There were many times when Rommel himself would help privates pull vehicles out of the sand," Thrun explained. "He was always in the front lines, in spite of advice from his staff."

For a while, Rommel's great sense of danger and military instincts held off the inevitable. Probably the greatest German military leader of all time, he worked fantastic tricks, according to Thrun, to counterbalance the lack of German men and equipment.

"In one particular action I remember Rommel ordering dozens of German Volkswagens equipped with airplane props. He would send the cars ahead of his infantry with their props going full blast. They'd kick up so much sand the enemy would think a full corps of tanks was leading the attack."

Rommel's favorite garb consisted of British trousers and sunglasses with his famous leather overcoat. Although never wounded, the German general habitually appeared at the front lines. Thrun believes this accounts for the unbelievable ability of the African Corps. "We were inspired by his courage and leadership," he said.

An interesting aspect of Rommel's type of warfare occurred when the German and British called an official "time-out" while they met in "no-man's-land." During this temporary cease fire, both sides gathered their dead and wounded. They exchanged cigarettes, candy and conversation. "It was kind of enlightening to see who you were shooting at," he recalls. Thrun's war days were suddenly cut short. In May 1943, shortly after the fall of Tunisia, he was captured.

The African war was officially over at 10 a.m. on May 8, 1943. Stripped of his Soldier's Oath by surrender arrangements, Thrun and several others fled the German encampment for the Mediterranean Sea, hoping to cross 200 miles of open water and reach Axis-held Sicily. They found a small boat, but three miles from shore made a frightening discovery. Their boat leaked!

They beat a hasty retreat for shore, a race between distance and a sinking boat. Distance won and the bedraggled party finally had to walk a mile through shallow water to shore.

Friendly Arabs hid them for eight days. On May 16, eight days after the official surrender, Thrun and seven survivors set out for another attempt at escape.

In the space of a few dark hours that night Thrun's entire life was changed. He and the group were captured when they

Old Cannon Claims Victim

The old Spanish-American War cannon in Kellogg Park, which probably hasn't fired a shot in 60 years, claimed a victim Tuesday and he's not very happy about it.

Kenneth Felt, 8810 Elmhurst, was cutting across the park Tuesday afternoon when he walked into the barrel of the old fieldpiece. A wound on his head drew blood and ruined his suit, he told police.

Felt suggested that the platform under the cannon be raised so that people can walk under the barrel.

Outside of a few hundred youngsters who may have taken some bumps while crawling around the cannon, this is the first known casualty inflicted by the weapon since it was moved to the park in 1921. It was that year that the local chapter of the Grand Army of the Republic had asked the government for a Civil War cannon, but instead received the Spanish-American war fieldpiece. It came from Ft. Totten, N. Y. and no one knows if it was ever used in the war or not.

Although disappointed because they got a "modern" cannon, the GAR had it installed in the park anyway after it was immobilized. But as far as Felt is concerned, they didn't immobilize it far enough—or high enough.

Stubborn Cellar Fire Is City's Costliest of Year

Plymouth city's costliest fire of the year took place Sunday night when flames and smoke caused an estimated $3,500 in damage to a North Main street home.

The home, located at 352 North Main, is owned by Dr. G. H. Fitch and is rented to tenants. Firemen said that the blaze apparently started from an overheated coal furnace.

The ceiling above the furnace was first burning and flames then spread out along the duct-work and into the upstairs. Firemen said that a composition board covered the basement ceiling, making the fire difficult to fight. Smoke was heavy and masks were worn by firemen.

City firemen answered another alarm Friday afternoon when the load in a city rubbish truck began to burn. The load was dumped on the A & P store parking lot and extinguished by firemen. The Plymouth township fire department had no runs during the month of September, except for a gasoline tank which a truck had lost along M-14.

Orchestra Pit Now Empty

Era Of Theatre Organ Ends Here

By Jim Sponseller

Without publicity, ceremony or emotion, Plymouth's first and only theatre organ was recently removed from the building where it had stood for over 30 years.

A two-manual Wurlitzer organ which was installed in the Penniman and Allen Theatre orchestra pit in 1926, was quietly carried out several weeks ago and sold to a Harper Woods resident. It had not been played for many years.

Only in a few big city theatres today can one hear the grand tones of an organ. In fact, most of the modern generation has never had the chance to experience the thrill of watching a huge spotlighted organ rise from the orchestra pit, with music literally shaking the walls.

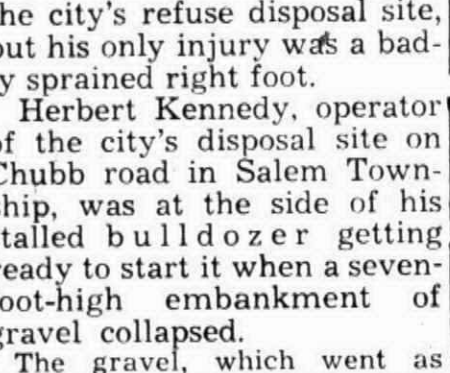

The organ at the P & A Theatre didn't rise from the pit, but its effect, as recalled by many, was just as thrilling.

Mrs. Kate Allen built the P & A, with its doors opened prematurely on Nov. 11, 1918 to stage an Armistice dance and celebration. On July 1, 1921, Harry Lush, owner of the Penn Theatre, leased the P & A from Mrs. Allen.

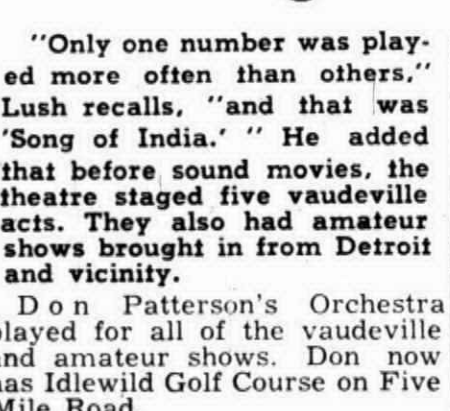

It was in 1926 that Mrs. Allen installed the organ at her own expense — and its cost was $13,000. These were the days of silent movies, so when the organ was moved in, the piano was moved out.

As Mr. Lush, now a resident of California, recalls, the organ was played by Sidney Harris who drove out here from Detroit. Harris died just last year. The organ was played before the show and during the entire program until sound came in. Scroopy on film hit the theatres in the late 1920's and early 1930's. After sound movies, the organ filled the auditorium with its variety of tones before and after movies and at intermissions.

LAST LOOK at the $13,000 organ which for 31 years sat in the Penniman-Allyn Theatre is given by Ralph Ruben, co-owner of the theatre. The Wurlitzer, installed at the foot of the stage in the orchestra pit, had been silent for many years. It has now been sold to a Harper Woods man who intends to install it in his home.

Visitors from Nepal Visit Area Farms

LOOKING OVER the equipment on the Robert Hull farm on Warren road are two young men from Nepal who are in this country as part of the International Farm Youth Exchange. Thane Swar Sharma watches as Nar Bahadur Rai tries out the drivers seat of a tractor. Cindy Moers (left) and Donna Hull are also interested in the machinery and their visitors.

Today ends the third week in the Plymouth area for two "IFYE's" from Nepal. "IFYE" is a 4-H Club abbreviation for participants in the International Farm Youth Exchange program.

The "IFYE's" are Thane Swar Sharma who is staying at the home of Erish Moers, 2915 Canton Center road, and Nar Bahadur Rai, who is with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hull, 4444 Warren road.

Sharma and Rai, as they are addressed in their country, have been in the United States since May studying American life through youth programs and organizations.

They began their U.S. tour in the state of Washington. Sharma remembers a two-day snow storm in May best, when recalling Washington. "We travelled right on top of it," he said.

In their travels eastward from Washington, Sharma compared the mountainous states to his homeland which is nine-tenths mountains.

Nepal is an independent kingdom between South India and Tibet which will take its first turn at democracy after an election this fall.

Rai does 4-H work in the primary schools in Nepal, while Sharma's job is comparable to a 4-H county agent in the U.S.

They have had a busy time of it while in Michigan. They toured Michigan State University and are at present trying to fit a trip to the University of Michigan in their schedule. They attend 4-H meetings, service club meetings and visit farms and 4-H offices.

When their three-weeks are up, they will go on to Monroe County for another three-week stay. Before coming here they were in Lenawee county.

After Monroe county they will go to Washington, D. C. for several days before returning to Nepal.

Sharma said that the horses were the most amazing thing about this country — "They are so compact, yet with so many conveniences."

City, Township May Have Own Plumbing Inspection

Adoption of the state plumbing code by the city and township of Plymouth and hiring an inspector together will probably be the result of a meeting held recently to iron out the problem of plumbing inspections.

Officials of the city and township, along with local plumbers, held a meeting at city hall to discuss the plumbing inspection situation. It was noted that the state inspection service now offered is very inadequate, probably because the inspector assigned to this area has such a large territory to cover.

Township Supervisor Roy Lindsay said that the township would be interested in cooperating with the city of Plymouth by using the same man for inspection and enforcement of the plumbing ordinance. It was also suggested that the city of Northville and township of Northville might be interested in using the same inspector.

To set up a local inspection system, each community would first need to adopt the state plumbing code as its own ordinance.

Fees charged would be similar to that now charged by the state and Detroit.

Flu Still Spreading

New outbreaks of influenza were reported in both of Michigan's peninsulas today. At least 100 Michigan State University students were hospitalized at Lansing with what doctors described as "unofficial" cases of Asian flu.

At Detroit, an estimated 30,000 students were absent from public and parochial schools. At Grand Rapids, about 2,000 students were out Tuesday.

34-5 Is Score but Statistics Are Close; Game Here Friday

In the first Suburban Six game of the year at Redford Union Friday night, Plymouth rocked the R.U. Panthers 34-5. Four of Plymouth's touchdowns were scored by Dave Walasky, and Ron Egloff kicked four extra points to stand out for the Rocks.

RU kicked off to Plymouth to open the game and the invaders scored the first TD with 3 minutes and 16 seconds remaining in the first quarter. They failed to make good the conversion, and at the close of the quarter led 6-0.

At 2:28 of the second period Walasky went over again. Egloff converted and that closed the scoring in the first half.

After a well performed half time show presented by the Plymouth and Redford Union Marching Bands, the Panthers came through with their lone

Grade School Football Leagues Boast 11 Teams

While gridders on the high school, college and professional levels are mauling each other on the weekends nowadays, there are 11 teams of determined youngsters in Plymouth this year getting acquainted with the pigskin game.

Five teams of sixth graders and six teams of fifth graders opened their season last week under the direction of the Plymouth Recreation Department. Composed of 11 boys each, the teams play at 4 p.m. behind the high school. The fifth graders meet Mondays and the sixth graders on Thursdays.

Of the touch type of play is to teach the boys everything about the game except tackling and blocking.

Results of last week's 6th grade games were: Auburn Lions, 25, Allen, 6; Smith, 7, Hamilton Bears, 0. Fifth grade league: Bird, 6, Allen, 6.

The fifth grade teams and their coaches are: Smith, Max Summerville; Plymouth Pilgrims (outlying schools), John Howe; Allen, Jack Carter; Gallimore, Mike Toth and Hank Rupert; Starkweather, Bill Foster; Bird, Max Pierce.

Sixth grade teams are: Allen, Carl Berry; Auburn Lions, Dennis Drews; Our Lady of Good Counsel, Leonard Butnick; Smith, Max Summerville.

According to Herbert Woolweaver, director of the Recreation department, this year's elementary football program is the biggest ever. It is also the first time that the fifth and sixth grades have been divided.

The first anti-segregation law in Minnesota was passed without a word of debate in 1869.

Beglinger Hurler Wins Double Header in Six City Tourney

The Beglinger Olds softball team didn't put its uniforms in storage just because football made an appearance on the sports scene. They're not only playing, but winning.

Invited to a Six-City Tournament, the Olds squad, led by Manager Doug Egloff, fought their way through a doubleheader sweep at Garden City to become tourney champions. Competing with the locals were teams from Romulus, Wayne, Dearborn, Livonia and Garden City.

After successfully surviving the preliminary rounds, Egloff's Nine dumped the Wayne All-State squad twice, 3-1, and 4-1, to cobb the first place trophy. Joe Thibideau was a one-man gang all evening as he hurled both complete ball games and smashed a two run homer to win the first one.

With a 1-1 deadlock hovering over play in that contest, Mr. Thibideau stepped to the plate in the sixth and whacked a round-tripper with a mate aboard. Much invigorated by the feat, Joe strode to the pitcher's mound a few minutes later and calmly whiffed the three remaining enemy batters to chalk up a two-hit victory. Gaby Street then climbed off the Olds bench to warm up for the nightcap.

But since Joe was still steam-

Tennis Clinic Opens Tonight

A tennis clinic for the public is being started tonight at Plymouth High school in conjunction with the Adult Education and Recreation program.

Enrollment for the clinic can be completed by attending the session tonight or within the next few Thursday nights. The clinic is held from 7 to 9:30 in the school gym.

Tom Alexander, representing the National Lawn Tennis Association, is instructor. Both beginners and advanced players are invited to enroll and they may be men or women. There is no fee.

Alexander has been conducting similar classes for over 10 years. He asks that those enrolling bring their own tennis racket, balls and shoes. If a tennis racket is not available, he said, arrangements can possibly be made to furnish one.

SPORTSEEN

by Bill Hubert

This will be the last appearance of "Sportseen" by Bill Hubert, though the Sportseen column itself will no doubt continue with a new "witness."

Near the completion of the school year last June, I was given the privilege of becoming sports editor of the Plymouth Mail. And, with the exception of three weeks in July, have attempted to give Plymouth Mail readers the best sports coverage and presentation possible. My intentions at the time were to continue in a comparable manner throughout the year.

However, since school has reopened, I have discovered—via the route of little sleep—that one can devote time in only so many directions, or all of the various commitments and responsibilities involved suffer. Consequently, to preserve the indeed essential quality of a few endeavors, I have been forced to withdraw entirely from a number of others—among which is the Mail editorship.

A great deal of thought and discussion preceded this decision as it is of a nature not to be treated lightly. It has provided me an experience and opportunity not afforded many people my age—a fact which has certainly been appreciated and honored. But, as the time element and sundry other circumstances and developments of greater or lesser importance are brought to bear, no other alternative remains. The 15 to 20 hours of sports writing every week must stop.

I wish to express my extreme gratitude to Paul Chandler who was kind enough to give me the chance and eventually the job, and Mr. Jim Sponseller to whom I was directly responsible during the past three and a half months. Also to Herbert Woolweaver who gave me a considerable amount of assistance during that time. Thanks for the tolerance. Maybe I'll see you at a PHS basketball game sometime.

A course in tennis and instructional tennis has been added to the Plymouth Adult Education and Recreation Program. Tom Alexander, a member of the National Professional Lawn Tennis Association, will be in charge of the classes which will be held in the gymnasium. For further information, contact Herb Woolweaver at the high school.

How can I be sure that my children's shoes fit when I buy them?

If you mean that you want to check the fit of the shoes yourself, you should first work in a shoestore for at least two years. Then you will be more certain than you are now.

If the shoe internship is impossible I would use the practice of most women when they buy a pair. They don't rush downtown at fifteen minutes before closing time and let the first operator they come to give their hair a fast sizzle. Hairdos are too important.

Hairdos and the operators who do them are the subjects of conversation at every hen party. A newcomer to town knows before she leaves the house not only which beauty parlor she is going to but which beautician will give her the kind of curl she wants. She will read recent magazines waiting for the operator to take her and she might even overpay the bill if she is especially pleased with what the mirror says after the ordeal.

"Who fits your children's shoes?" should be as commonly asked as "Who does your hair?" Try it. You will find that your town has many shoefitters who realize the health importance of children's shoes and will do a really professional job if they know that you are not primarily interested in speed, low price or high style.

THE OVERSIZED CHAIR

If your living room is small and most of its furnishings small-scaled, and you want one big, roomy, deep-cushioned lounge chair, by all means have it. Only don't choose one that's upholstered in a warm advancing color that contrasts sharply with the background of the room. This will tend to make it seem even larger.

MINIMIZE ITS APPARENT SIZE

Place the chair against a wall of the same color—preferably a receding color. Choose plain, rather than patterned, upholstery, and companion it with generous-sized table and lamp so the group as a whole is unified. Plan an offset group that appears to be of equal weight to give the room a feeling of balance.

You Can Be SURE of TOP QUALITY! At Reasonable Prices.

Don't deprive yourself of the incomparable comfort that a big roomy lounge chair offers you. We have a wide assortment of styles and colors that will blend in beautifully with your existing furnishings. Sturdy construction. Wide cover choice. From $79.50 to $189.50.

When you buy a piece of furniture from us, we want you to inspect the construction, the upholstery fabrics, and the wood surfaces. We try always to give you tasteful styling, fine construction and truly good values. So come in and buy with confidence.

Autumn is a Lovely Time Until The Flies Get Into the Act

By David Jolliffe

The fall season is always pleasant. The leaves begin to turn a golden brown, the weather is usually warm and sunny, football takes up where the World Series leaves off and everyone fully appreciates the last lingering breaths of summer.

There is only one spot to mar an otherwise shiny surface. Flies! Every fly that has survived the summer seems to take advantage for his departed kin by invading man's kingdom by the millions.

The two favorite fly killers, swatters and insect spray, both have disadvantages. The former, although emotionally satisfying, takes plenty of savvy, and the latter, in spite of what the manufacturers say, may affect its wielder more than the flies.

Since these recourses seem inadequate to wage a full scale fight, a few facts may help battle flies on their own terms.

One of the most discouraging things to flies is most encouraging to man. Their life expectancy is limited to less than a full season. So, if nothing else works, you can expect to outlive them.

However, nature counterbalances this disadvantage by endowing the common housefly with an alarming reproduction capacity. One egg laying female is capable of mothering 131 quintillion flies. Fortunately for man comparatively few survive the larva stage — only enough to make life miserable.

Actually, there's nothing more satisfying than placing a aimed flyswatter on the posterior of a fly.

A well armed adult against a small fly may seem an unfair fight. Science tells us, however, that it's more than equal since stumbled over a sleeping British patrol. "It seemed like a major disaster at the time but as things turned out it was the best thing that could have happened to me," he said.

Businessman Once

The duration of Thrun's war was spent in an American POW camp at Huntsville, Texas. The prisoners worked on farms, in saw mills and as lumber jacks. He was eventually appointed camp Director of Studies.

"Surprisingly enough, the time I spent in prison camp was quite pleasant," Thrun said. "I was treated with the utmost fairness and consideration."

After his release Thrun, who speaks German, Spanish, French and English, worked as interpreter for American firms in Munich. In August 1952 he married an Ypsilanti girl who was teaching school there. He arrived in the U.S. December, 1952 and got a job with an Ann Arbor travel agency. In 1956 the agency's International Department, which Thrun managed, won the Royal Viking Award, Oscar of the travel industry, from the American Society of Travel Agents for "doing the most to promote international air travel."

While president of the American Overseas Tourist Service, Thrun was instrumental in producing the "International Shopping Guide". The book contains detailed information on 34 countries, including a breakdown by principal cities of reputable stores and their merchandise.

Latest Thrun project is arranging the Sunday afternoon World Travel Series sponsored by the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce.

An Ann Arbor resident, Thrun plans to move here with his wife Kathryn, and their three children.

How did this native-born German become interested in travel? Before military service, Thrun lived on the Baltic coast where his family operated an 80 room hotel. "Most of our guests were European," he said. "Talking to them I became interested in other countries and thought there must be more to life than Hitler's philosophy of military conquests."

As it turns out, there is.

Chiefs Point Out High Costs Of Entertaining Fire

Fire Chiefs Robert McAllister of the city, and Howard Holmes of the township announced the Fire Department's cooperation with other civic groups in using simple precautionary methods to prevent many damaging fires. The fire chiefs, discussing replacement costs said that, "even in small fires, where the firemen are able to confine the flames to one room, it costs property owners two to three times as much to refurbish the burned-out areas as it did ten years ago." The chiefs, particularly emphasized the following points:

1. Great damage to our city and township is caused by rubbish fires. If we remove the rubbish from our cellars, attics and closets, fire losses will come down and many alarms will be eliminated.

2. Buildings classified as conflagration hazards should be protected by automatic sprinklers. Such installations will pay for themselves out of savings in insurance premiums and as a result our conflagration areas will be eliminated.

3. Basement fires are the hardest to fight. Firemen have difficulty fighting their way in and often do not know what the conditions will be when they reach the basement. Since a large percentage of all business fires originate in basements, if these also were protected by automatic sprinklers, our country's nearly one billion dollars in fire losses would be greatly reduced.

The chiefs particularly emphasized the large number of fires caused from carelessness in handling matches and smoking. "Matches should be kept where small children cannot reach them and a liberal supply of ash trays throughout the house would reduce fires," the chiefs said. They particularly emphasized that, "If you value your life, do not smoke in bed."

Quick Meals Next Topic

The first meeting of the Robinson Home Demonstration Group sponsored by the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service met at the home of Mrs. John Ort on September 26. After luncheon the members had a short organizational meeting led by Mrs. Robert Widmaier, chairman.

Hostess for the October 17th meeting will be Mrs. John LaGrow. The topic will be "Quick, Thrifty Meals." On September 18th officers of the Robinson Home Demonstration Group attended the officers training school held at Lincoln Park Plaza, Lincoln Park. Those attending were Mrs. John LaGrow, vice-chairman; Mrs. Stephen Cherne, leader; and Mrs. John Ort, secretary.

New Olds Features Shown
DETROIT UP—Air suspension and a new carburetor designed to improve fuel economy up to 20 per cent will be offered on the new 1958 Oldsmobile cars, according to General Manager Jack F. Wolfram.

He said the air suspension apparatus, billed as the "New-Matic Ride," will be offered as extra-cost optional equipment on all models.

Basement fires are the hardest to fight. Firemen have difficulty fighting their way in and often do not know what the conditions will be when they reach the basement. Since a large percentage of all business fires originate in basements, if these also were protected by automatic sprinklers, our country's nearly one billion dollars in fire losses would be greatly reduced.

Plymouth High School

BY LIZ SARAH

It's later than we think — with five weeks down and two to go in this first marking period. This is a bit difficult to comprehend because it seems like school just opened yesterday. Although student life has somewhat settled down into a routine, there is never a dull moment.

Martha Shoemaker, newly elected President of the Plymouth Chapter of the National Honor Society, took the reins as she presided at the election-officers meeting which was held Tuesday, September 24, in an effort to catch up with the flying time.

Roger Kenner and Carol Ford were elected vice-president and secretary respectively. The local chapter of the National Honor Society is under the guidance and supervision of Miss Louise Spence, Miss Irene Waldron, and Mr. Walter Goodwin, who are all members of the high school teaching staff. Congratulations are the order of the day, not only for the successful candidates, but also, for all of the members of the organization who have gained the honor of membership through scholastic achievements and good citizenship qualities.

They've done it again! For the eleventh consecutive year, the Pilgrim Prints, the high school newspaper which is advised by Miss Elizabeth McDonald, has received an International first place award in the Quill and Scroll critical service competition. Karla Jean Herbold and the writer of this column, co-editors, have resolved to maintain this fine record as they now assume the responsibilities of editing the Pilgrim Prints.

The entire staff which consists of: Annie Denny and Gloria Bowles, news editors; Carole Anne North, feature editor; Bill Hubert, sports editor; and numerous reporters, are busily working on the next issue of the high school paper.

Whoops — the tables were turned last Friday night when the girls received the long-awaited opportunity to even the score with that certain boy. The "Drag 'r Stag", a girl-bid dance was sponsored by the Choir. Boys are such mean rascals, they always seem to manage to ask a girl's best friend to dance instead of the poor girl who is just nuts about him.

The guys certainly got a dose of their own medicine when a few of the girls asked the buddy of that certain boy instead of "Mr. Confidence." The only complaint that the girls voiced was that the boys ate too much when they went Dutch treat! The suspense is just about enough to kill a person! Contestants for membership in the Water Waves, the girls swimming club, are anxiously awaiting the

Each man attending qualified by successfully achieving an outstanding sales and service record.

The highlight of the convention program was a series of business meetings for discussion of new policies and underwriting practices put into use, as well as expansion and improvement of service to policy owners and beneficiaries.

Ralph Lumsden served as an insurance representative in the Waterloo, Iowa area before coming to Michigan. He was appointed a General Agent by the Loyal to serve this area late in 1957.

Black Watch Coming To Olympia Stadium

The world-celebrated Black Watch—More formally identified as the Regimental Band, Massed Pipes and Highland Dancers of Her Majesty's Black Watch, the Royal Highland Regiment—will visit Detroit this fall in a highlight of a tour of Detroit and Canada.

The killed and bonneted pipers, drummers and dancers, and the musicians in their full-dress uniforms will appear at the Olympia Stadium on Saturday, October 12th in the course of an 11-week North American tour.

More than 100 members of the Black Watch will fly from Berlin to Washington, D.C., in September for their U.S. opening. In the ensuing 11 weeks they will perform in 57 U. S. and Canadian cities.

The clamor for appearances of the famed Black Watch has been so strong and insistent that the legendary regimental band will be able to appear at the Olympia Stadium for one performance only on the evening of October 12th.

The Black Watch will arrive in Washington on September 13th. For the next six days, the Black Watch will be the guests of the Marine Corps and will join the corps in ceremonies at Arlington Cemetery and at the Marine Barracks. Other activities will be arranged during this period.

Rosedale Gardens News

Residents Busy Despite Colds, Flu

Hi, Folks! If this seems like a short column this week, it is! Everyone seems to be doing nothing or nursing various colds and flus!

Ten Juniors from Bentley met on Thursday morning last week and went horseback riding. Seems there was no school that day. Kids who gave the horses a workout were Leslie Borgia, Janet Ringler, Larry Herbert, Jim Wilson, Gail Haase, Carl Hansen, Arline Fenolio, Bob Wilson, Carol Fuller and Stewart Tapineau.

Virginia Kobiata, Nancy Roberts and Kathleen Schroeder, all of Louisiana, attended a mother's meeting of the Grant school second grade Brownie troop last Thursday night at the home of Joyce Hoiby on Hubbard.

Ballroom dancing classes started last Friday night, Sept. 27 at the Civic Clubhouse on Hubbard. These classes are sponsored by Rosedale Gardens Civic Association and the instructor is Jimmy Pogones. The three classes include Elementary, 4th through 6th grades, at 7 p.m., Friday Junior High, 7, 8 and 9th grades, 8:15 p.m., and Adult, 9:30 p.m. There are still some openings, and civic members and their families are eligible. If you are interested come when the group would join its meeting and register. Price for six lessons is $6.00.

The Grant fifth grade Girl Scout mothers met at the home of Marion Yadosky on Vermont Tuesday, Sept. 24. Present were Mrs. Dennis, Mrs. Linklater, Mrs. Craig, Mrs. Haack, Mrs. Rosenthal, Mrs. Dunsmore and Mrs. Speck. Audrey Lester is Leader, and Audrey Carnova and Marion Yadosky co-leaders.

If anyone in Rosedale Gardens likes eggs, it would pay them to follow Angie Scott, Auburndale, when she goes shopping! Last week Angie was shopping at the new shopping center and bought a dozen eggs, and everyone of them turned out to have double yolks!

The Robert Dowells, Cranston, have taken their last vacation of the season, returning Sept. 14 from Lexington, Michigan.

Bill Davis' mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Davis of Hollywood, Fla., arrived last Thursday to visit Bill and Jackie and granddaughters June and Claudia for two weeks. The Davises live on Woodring.

The Livonia branch of the American Red Cross is still looking for volunteers, and if you are interested, call Mrs. Irving Hancock, Ga. 1-5386 and she will be glad to explain the work and needs to you.

Nancy Roberts and Jean Stewart, Louisiana, are bowling with the Suburbanite Bowling League this year. I'll expect to hear how you're doing, gals!

Happy birthday to Leslie Borgia, Blackburn, who celebrated her 16th birthday last Thursday!

An anniversary party was held in honor of Mary Ellen and Joe Vella Saturday night, Sept. 21 at the home of George and Mary Vella. Virginia and Walter Kobiata, Vermont and Fred and Stella Felice, Westmore, also attended.

Dagne Peterson, Cranston, entertained her bridge club Wednesday evening, Sept. 25. This club meets twice a month and has eight members.

If any one has some spare room in his driveway, the Quick family here on Vermont could probably use it, now that it has become a three car family! No, that isn't the fire chief you see all the time—it is Ron in his new fire engine red job!

Went to the Women's Club opening dinner at Lofy's Thursday evening, Sept. 19 and it was a regular "blast"! Good food, good entertainment and good company. Mrs. Mary Weitzel, Mrs. Michigan for 1957 was the speaker and gave a lovely inspirational talk which made us want to go home and count our blessings, and representatives from the gas company showed us two films, one in beautiful color of the contest, after which Mrs. Weitzel answered questions from the audience and was presented with a gift. The lovely decorations, a Fall theme, were by Dorothy Hopp, chairman, with Carolyn Campbell.

The Martha Circle of Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian church met Tuesday evening, Sept. 24. Besides holding their regular meeting, the ladies discussed plans for the bazaar which will be held at the church November second from 1 to 8 p.m. This bazaar will be given by the Women's Association and all of the various circles will have booths.

Susan Dowell, Cranston, celebrated her eighth birthday Saturday, Sept. 21 with a party for fifteen of her friends. Those who attended were Peggy and Lindy Core, Nancy Loucks, Connie Sullivan, Sandra Saleen, Ruth Randall, Gretchen Keras, Mary Lynn Hopkins, Kathy Kleinert, Patty Bollman, Karen Currey, Joanne Bieha, Marcia Semenos, Lynette Daugherty and Janis Rich.

I was going to write about Dana's new parakeet, Pizon, and how in four short days he managed to catch his head between the bars of his cage and pull all his neck feathers loose, walk backwards and fall off the television and escape by sneaking under the sun room door, but this will have to be an obituary, instead, because last Thursday morning he fell into the soap and water filled dish pan and didn't survive!

By the way, the next meeting of Women's club is going to be a pot-luck Oct. 17 at 7 p.m. at the clubhouse on Hubbard. Guest speaker will be Mrs. Mayme English Lilloite who will do readings. Hostesses will be Jean Champe, chairman with Edith Hansz, Marge Trick and Texie Andrew as her committee. All women who are members of Civic are eligible to join Women's club and attend meetings. If you want to attend this meeting, call Jean Champe, GA. 2-0610.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hartsell, Mayfield, are the parents of a baby boy, Mark Allard, who weighed eight pounds, 14 ounces and was born at New Grace hospital Sept. 6. Mark was welcomed home by his two sisters Colleen and Elaine and brother David.

Helen and Matt Fortney, Vermont, entertained Helen's sewing club members and their husbands at a steak and corn roast Saturday, Sept. 14. Those attending were Marion and Brownie Podskalny, Marie and Roland Bonamico, Doris and Ralph Diedrick, Lee and Marion Owens, Pat and John Schroeder of Plymouth, Will and Bea Otis of Ypsilanti and Marion and Emmitt Smith of Montana avenue.

A group of square dancing at Rosedale School is being sponsored by the Livonia Recreation Department and will be conducted by Bob and Betty Carson, who have had many years of teaching and calling in this area. Dances for adults with some square dancing experience will be held the second and fourth Fridays, 8 to 11 p.m. and you can register at the school Oct. 11. Fee is $6.00 per couple for eight nights.

A new group for those with limited or no square dance experience will start Monday, Oct. 7 at Stark School and will meet every Monday night 8 to 11 p.m. For further information call Plymouth 484-J.

Before the ladies took off for the Women's club opening dinner The Robert Dowells, Cranston, entertained Bernice and Ray Saleen and Kay Dravate. Bob Dravate couldn't make it, because he had to stay home and cook hot dogs for the brood!

Have you registered your child for dancing lessons yet??? These classes are at the Civic Clubhouse on Hubbard and are open to children of civic members. Tap instruction is at 6 p.m. Wednesdays and ballet Saturdays at 9 in the morning. There is a nominal fee.

Ed and Viv Gilday, Vermont had a night out Monday, Sept. 23 when they went to dinner and to see "Around the World in 80 Days".

Tom and Joan Patterson, Westmore, celebrated their fifth wedding anniversary Sept. 20 with dinner at Hillside and a movie.

Mrs. Borgia's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Barbieri from Philadelphia and their daughter Alexis flew in last Friday night for a quick visit with the Borgias on Blackburn and also to pick up their new station wagon.

Norm and Rena Younf, Roseland, along with a group from Livonia went in chartered buses to Canton, Ohio to attend the big kickoff meeting and dinner for the Vi-San Company. The Youngs left early Saturday morning, Sept. 21 and returned Sunday afternoon.

Those attending from the Rosedale Gardens Branch were Mrs. W. H. Rolan, Mrs. Paul Harsha, Mrs. Frank Holkinson, Mrs. B. Bittner, Mrs. Floyd Angers, Mrs. A. O. Leece, and Mrs. William Thompson.

Little Jennifer Hunter and big sister Susan were quite ill last week with a mean flu virus.

Lt. and Mrs. Dale L. Burns and sons Jim and John from Pocasset, Mass., arrived Sept. 3 for a visit with Mrs. Harold Rolan, Mr. and Mrs. W. Harold Rolan on Melrose and left for home Monday, Sept. 23. Lt. and Mrs. Warren Eades and daughter Linda of San Diego, Calif., also were guests at the Rolan home during the week of Sept. 16. Lt. Eades is being transferred to Kentucky and the family left for there after the visit.

The first Civic Association dance of the season was held at the clubhouse Saturday night, Sept. 21 with a good crowd attending. Bill and Pearl Seigh were chairman with Rita and Walt Seelinger and Dorothy and Gerald Hopp as committee. The theme was "Back to the Little Red School House" and such 'hines as paper wads and rubber bands were provided and dunce caps were used for exchange in the mixer dances.

Resident's Father Named Foremost Family Physician

An 82 year-old upper peninsula physician, Dr. Paul Van Riper, was named Michigan's Foremost Family Physician of 1957 Septem-ber 24 at the Michigan Medical society convention in Grand Rapids. He is the father of Mrs. Sam Dibble, 1353 Elm, Plymouth.

Dr. VanRiper of Champion, where he has practiced medicine 56 years, was chosen by the 135-member house of delegates of the society in its ninety-second annual convention.

Born in Des Moines, Iowa in 1875, Dr. VanRiper moved to Niles with his family as an infant. He graduated from the Uni-versity of Michigan medical school in 1900 and set up a prac-tice in Niles. He remained there one year before moving to Champion.

Newburg Church Gives October Lineup of Events

Hub of activity this month centers around the Newburg Methodist church. Many things of interest will transpire during the month of October and the first of November.
 The Fellowship Class of the Sunday School is having their annual fall Rummage sale, which begins at 9 a.m. If you have things that you wish to have picked up, please feel free to call Mrs. William Schmidt, Ply. 1868-R or Mrs. Earl Waack, G.A. 1-6944 and they will make arrangements for the pick-up. Please save your discards from now until the 19th and help make the sale a complete success.
 Next on the format is the annual Bazaar and harvest dinner. The date for this event is Saturday, November 2 and begins at 9 a.m. and lasts the whole day. There will be many booths from which to make selections to facilitate your Christmas shopping; among those being an apron counter, baby clothes, toys, pillow cases and other needlework. During the day a snack bar will be in operation up until the time of the dinner which will be served from 5-7 p.m. The dinner menu is turkey with all the trimmings and tickets are now available and can be had by calling Mrs. Clyde Smith, G.A. 1-6385. Make your reservations early. The dinner will be served family style and at a price the family can afford.
 In the old church adjacent to the hall, Santa Clause will reign supreme with his wonderland of games and fun for young and old alike. Be sure you keep this date, November 2, in mind and come to Newburg for the time of your life.
 The second Monday of October, the 14, will find the men of the church again assembled for their usual dinner at 6:30 p.m. followed by a fine program, strictly on the masculine side. This group is busy planning a year full of many activities which will be announced at a later date.
 The Women's Society of Christian Service is not to be outdone, in that their schedule is so designed to suit all the ladies and the friends of the church. Their regular general society meeting will be Monday, October 21 at 7:45 p.m. This month's program will be set around the theme of the United Nations. All are urged to attend.

 The Fellowship Class of the Sunday School is having a hay ride on Saturday, October 19. Further details of this event will be found here next week. This should prove to be an evening of fun for all young married couples. Please plan to come! All in all, it strikes this writer that this is one busy bunch of people set on keeping their church ever in the public eye.
 I was sorry that no one called this week with news but perhaps next week you can remember, G.A. 1-2029 and give us a buzz and let your friends know about all your various activities. See you next week.

 Rice's Resort Reunion was held in Riverside Park September 29. It was the second annual reunion and was attended by some 136 persons. After a hearty buffet picnic dinner, games were played and much visiting was done. Families attended from Grand Rapids, Toledo, Holly, Ann Arbor, Grosse Pointe, Oak Park, Huntington Woods, Birmingham, Dearborn, Livonia and Plymouth.
 Boy Scout Troop P3, sponsored by the Rotary, participated in the fall campout for district 7, Boy Scouts of America, last weekend.

Favorite Recipes

Plymouth's Kitchens

Date Bread— Family Treat, Holiday Gift

Mrs. Don Messacar, 540 Adams would like to pass along an old family favorite which was passed to her by her mother. This particular recipe for date bread has an eye toward Christmas giving since it can be baked in gold-lined cans and gift wrapped.

Her mother has also baked mixing bowls of the date bread as Christmas presents. But, no matter what season, this recipe is enjoyed in the Messacar household, which included 13½ month Debbie.

Date Bread
2 cups boiling water
1 pound dates
2 cups sugar
¾ cup shortening
2 eggs
4 cups flour
2 teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoon vanilla

Pour the boiling water over the dates and cool. Cream the sugar and shortening, add eggs and beat well. Pour the liquid over the egg and sugar mixture. Mix well. Add flour, soda, salt and vanilla. Beat well. Add dates and nuts.

Fill cans 2/3 full and bake in a 300 degree oven for about 1 hour. Two pumpkin cans and three smaller cans about the size of creamed corn cans will be perfect for the amount. The cans MUST have gold-colored linings. The bread may be stored easily in the cans until desired or removed immediately and sliced. Mrs. Messacar often adds cherries and fruit to the mix for a little change.

DELICIOUS DATE BREAD is a speciality of Mrs. Don Messacar of 540 Adams. The recipe is one of Mrs. Messacar's mother's favorites. Next in line when the recipe is passed along is Debbie, who already shows interest in baking.

Woman's Eye View

by Nancy Rigney

Ketchup, Catsup or Catchup — a classic controversy. To penetrate the confusion surrounding the name one must start in China, for it seems that this great American companion to the hotdog, hamburger, french fries, etcetera and etcetera, is a Chinese concoction.

However, the ketchup of today resembles its parent in name only. Westerners first tasted the oriental varieties in the late 17th century when English seamen calling at Singapore and Malay ports sampled a pickled sauce which the natives ate with fish and fowl.

The subtle blend of fish brine, herbs and spices was called koechiap or ke-tsiap in China; kechap or kechup in Malaya. The English tried to imitate the sauce back home, where they added a "t" to the Malayan word and tomatoes to the recipe. Their first efforts substituted mushrooms, walnuts and cucumbers for oriental ingredients not available in England.

Later the introduction of tomatoes from Mexico and Spanish West Indies led to development of the sauce we eat today.

The spelling is still controversial. At least three manufacturers prefer the Anglicized ketchup; many others call it catsup; and one dictionary insists that catchup is correct.

No matter what the spelling, 86 million gallons are consumed in the U.S. per year. It is to them that I'd like to dedicate a poetic squid I saw in a recent United Press release. The "ketchup-lovers lament" goes like this:

"Shake and shake
The catsup bottle.
None will come,
And then a lot'll."

While in the poetic vein, here's another one, exposing the origins of the friendly hand-shaking custom:

"When cavemen met they clasped right hands or so the stories go.
In order that the stronger arm
Could deal no treacherous blow."

And speaking of hands, (no more corny poems, just the facts) in the days of old, creams and lotions had to be compounded laboriously by the users themselves. Ancient Babylonians with dishpan hands pulverized pumice stone and mixed it with cream to smooth and whiten skin. Romans used white lead and chalk. The favored ingredients of the 17th century were lard, rosewater and milk.

If you're about to snicker at some of these components, just remember the names of some of the "magic formulas" in today's preparations.

Madonna Opens Psycho-Educational Center Saturday

The Psycho-Educational Center at Madonna College opened for its fifth year of service on Saturday, Sept. 28. Thirty students from Livonia, Plymouth, Northville, Wayne, Garden City and Detroit are enrolled for the fall semester. Most classes will be held on Saturdays with some being scheduled on Monday and Thursday according to arrangements made with the individuals.

Upon its establishment in 1952, the center offered mainly remedial services in reading. Because of special cases and referrals in succeeding years, the Center expanded its services to include those of a psychological and consultative nature. In its short existence the center has already served more than 300 clients.

Among the services offered by the center are diagnosis of educational and psychological difficulties, corrective and remedial treatment in a development program of reading, consultative service in child guidance, laboratory experiences for pre-service and in-service teachers in diagnostic and remedial teaching and lectures to inform the public of various reading difficulties and their proper correction.

The Center's professional approach to dealing with reading difficulties attracts a number of visitors each year.

No New Taxes-Yet

By Elmer E. White

Taxpayers get a break this year, partly because of the coincidence of time. Experts in every political camp are predicting there will be no increase in existing taxes or the birth of new ones during the year.

State government, they said, will be content to operate on a "manageable deficit."

This is the election-year machinery which allows both major parties to campaign on a record of economy and displaying past achievements when money was available.

But next year more money will be needed from citizens to pay off the even-year deficit; to buy the extra services people demand and expand those now offered to handle a booming population.

The signs are all here. Legislators are studying Michigan's entire tax structure.

As the fall of 1957 gets started, there have been two major meetings of the committee. The study may take until late in 1958 to complete to the point of showing a financial trend.

If so, taxpayers cannot possibly know the result—the prospects of new or increased taxes and the need for them until after the 1958 election.

Another committee is studying the needs of the schools and its members are fearing the $25,000,000 "temporary" tax increase on cigarettes and liquor will have to remain for an extra year.

This will carry it at least until June 30, 1959 — six months after those elected in 1958 take office.

Another time factor has a special significance in 1958.

It is the 10th year in the schedule which places on the ballot the proposal to call a constitutional convention to re-write the basic law of the state last re-written in 1909.

There are those among legislators who believe a convention, in re-writing the constitution, could come up with a financial reform, thus eliminating the need for immediate tax changes.

Democrats and some Republicans do not want a constitutional convention under present methods of selecting the delegates.

Under the present laws, three delegates are selected from each state senatorial district.

Though no member of the legislature may be a delegate, politicians feel the convention would reflect the partisanship of the districts which select the delegates.

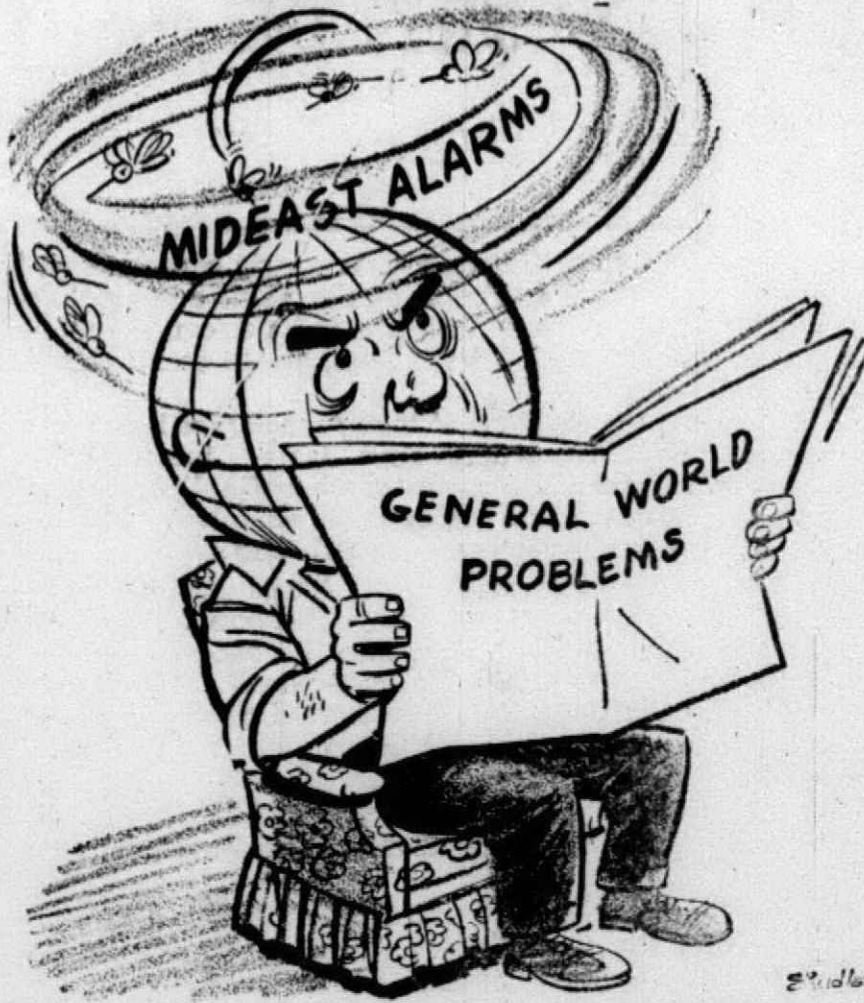

Democrats, who have 11 Senators, and the Republicans, who have 23, figure any new constitution would be written by Republicans despite the 60 per cent voting edge enjoyed by Democrats in the past three elections.

Republicans fear that a constitutional convention might upset the 1952 reapportionment system that gave them what Democrats brand as "perpetual control of the senate."

Legislators are expected to come back to Lansing in January with the same theories that angered educators and others with pressing financial needs last year.

They predict another hold-the-line year financially with the big push for taxes coming in 1958.

Can't Concentrate

If Your Name Is Nancy

BY ANN REYNOLDS, PH.D.

One of my readers named "Nancy" dislikes her name because, so she wrote, "it is so common." I beg to disagree. I believe it is a lovely name, short and simple and unpretentious, and these are the things that endear a name to me. Maybe I am prejudiced in favor of "Nancy" because of one Nancy I know, an utterly charming young woman. And also, because "Nancy" was the first name of the mother of a great American, Abraham Lincoln.

Many tender poems have been written about Lincoln's mother but the truth is there are few facts known about her. Her maiden name was Hanks, and Nancy Hanks and Thomas Lincoln, a carpenter, were married in Washington County, Kentucky, in 1806. They had two children, and Abraham was the younger one. Nancy Lincoln has been described as affectionate, amiable and heroic. Heroic she certainly was. Her life, typical for American pioneer women, was filled with hardship. When her son was 8 years old, she died in the woods of Indiana, victim of a mysterious epidemic, unattended by a physician.

As names go, "Nancy" is a fairly young one, found first in the 18th century. There was celebrated dancer and actress in London, Nancy Dawson; she was vastly admired, she was imitated by everyone. Another celebrated actress named "Nancy," Oldfield by her last name, was buried among the great in Westminster Abbey. Her name has been variously recorded as Nancy and as Anna Oldfield; it shows that in her time it was still felt that "Nancy" was a familiar version evolved from "Anna". Today "Nancy" is an independent name, and few Nancys realize that their name is an offspring of "Anna".

Before "Nancy" became popular, "Nan" and "Nanny" existed as pet names for "Anna". "Nan" and "Nanny" shared the fate of many popular names; they came to mean a girl of bad repute. When that happened, "Nancy" replaced them. Oddly enough, "nanny" today designates a child's nurse.

Having established that "Nancy" developed from "Anna", it remains to trace "Anna" to its origin. It is identical with the Hebrew name "Hanna" and means "grace". According to tradition, the mother of St. Mary was called "Anna"; however, the Gospels don't mention this name. (Want to know about other names? Do you like or dislike your name? Write about it to Dr. Reynolds, care of this paper.)

Life Begins at 40

BY ROBERT PETERSON

A FEW MONTHS AGO I wrote a column about an elderly gentleman named Mr. Hughes whom I had known several years previously. I stated that I had frequently encouraged Mr. Hughes to buy a television set since he spent much of his time indoors nursing an arthritic knee. But the frugal Mr. Hughes kept putting it off, even though he had a comfortable income. "I'd rather hang onto my money and wait until color TV gets here," he would say. But poor Mr. Hughes waited too long. By the time color television had arrived, Mr. Hughes had departed.

The whole point of that column was that when we reach our retirement years we should, if we can afford it, modify our habits of thrift and start living abundantly. After all, as the saying goes, you can't take it with you.

IT WAS MIGHTY GRATIFYING the other day to receive a letter from Mr. Harold Ingham of Los Angeles. Mr. Ingham said he clipped that column about Mr. Hughes and left it in a conspicuous place in his parents' home. "I did so," he said, "because Dad, who retired three years ago, was a little like Mr. Hughes. Both he and Mother were approaching 70 and while they could afford to live well they denied themselves many things that could add to their pleasure. I thought of their life of frugality and self-denial... their many lean years and their careful saving to pay off the mortgage on an apartment house that would supply them with a retirement income. And I thought of Dad's lifelong ambition to visit Australia and how he kept putting it off because of the cost—even though they now had sufficient income so they didn't have to worry."

It seems the column about Mr. Hughes did the trick. Mr. Ingham writes that the tempo picked up in his parents' home and he noticed an air of anticipation. "Dad sent for travel literature," he related, "and Mother went to the library and brought home an armload of books on Australia. Travel agencies were visited. Friends who had been abroad were questioned. And the means of financing such a trip were studied in detail. Sure enough, Dad finally discovered they could afford a trip to Australia!"

"They found that the trip would require six months, would cover 27,000 miles, and would cost about $4,000 for the two of them. Well," concluded Mr. Ingham, "they're off on their world tour—and you can take a bow."

Can You Afford a Baby Sitter?

"I can't afford a baby sitter," admits Mrs. Dorothy Van Ark of Boulder, Colo., and here is why. For one thing, her baby-sitting days are running out too fast, she writes in the September issue of TOGETHER magazine. "Recently I sat with a group of wives at a convention our husbands were attending. A Mrs. Harmon said: 'It seems only yesterday I stood in front of a pile of ironing and thought, if only once I could get caught up! And now there isn't any pile at all. I'm all caught up.'"

"And here I sit, I thought, paying someone so I can get away from the things I dreamed about a few years ago — the time I'll look back on with longing a few years from today. Right now is the only period of my life when I actually have these things. It's the time that's dear. I can't afford a sitter."

Of course, like every other mother Mrs. Van Ark has her days when the dishes pile up and the dirt tracks in the front door and the potato chips grind into the carpet in a semi-circle around the TV. But she admits she has found an answer for even the worst days.

"The minute school's out for the summer," she says, "we start going places together. We've ridden horseback over the continental divide, hiked through rocky trails, fished in icy lakes, and even tried painting the scenery in oils. At night we come home to a reasonably presentable house and the children are so limp that their father and I can sit undisturbed and watch the sun dip down behind the mountain peaks. Yet you don't need the Rockies to do this, either. We did the same thing in New York City."

Sharing experiences with her children doesn't mean that Mrs. Van Ark has to cling to them with endless mothering. She's just on hand to help them decide things for themselves. But those decisions mean much to a parent in terms of security. And that sense of security, she claims, a mother needs.

"The other day I discovered that Dexter had told a lie. We were all driving downtown to get him the baseball mitt he had been longing for. He was excited until an innocent comment from his sister, in the back seat, revealed the lie. I waited until we were alone, walking down the street together, and then I said, 'You know I can't buy that mitt for you now.'"

"Not ever?" he asked, looking down at the pavement.

"Yes, someday — next Saturday, after you've shown me all week how you can tell the truth."

"Mrs. Van Ark admits that it was a week of struggle, and once or twice Dexter slipped. But she tried to be alone with him more and more, and arranged for them to do special things together. They didn't talk much about truth, but they talked a lot about the mitt, "which amounted to the same thing." One night after his prayers, he agreed that telling the truth was all right. "Makes the feeling inside feel good," he confided to her.

The last time they moved with their children to a new area, writes Mrs. Van Ark, their nearest neighbor was friendly and helpful. "Here's the name of the milkman, you'll find the best meat at the Super, and it's hard to beat the Dugout for cleaning." The neighbor became a friend. "But I'm sorry; I won't give you the name of my sitter."

"This kind woman needn't have worried about that," concludes Mrs. Van Ark. "I don't want the name of her sitter. Over the years I've been a mo-

New Home Fashions are Built on Old Trends

Early fall is the time when the home furnishing industry puts new life into its slogan "First, Furnish Your Home" and publically declares Home Fashion Time.

It's the time when many families are on the move. The home furnishings industry estimates that perhaps 10,000,000 Americans are in the process of changing their homes on October 1, traditional moving day.

Millions of others are planning to dress up their homes in readiness for the coming holiday season with its parties and house guests and air of hospitality. Every hostess wants to take a fresh look at her home - whether a one room city apartment or sprawling suburban house - with an eye to redecoration.

This means throwing out the old and bringing in the new as well as new arrangements of favorite possessions.

There are a myriad of ways to give a home a fresh start and a new personality—introduction of new colors, interesting textures and patterns in materials, lighting changes, rearrangements and of course, partial or complete re-furnishing.

A mere change of color in your accents, a brush on the walls or a new carpet can create a new impression. But whatever the change integration should be its most important goal. A single predominating color or pattern helps to pull a room together.

Redecoration should start with a frank analysis of the requirements, personality and tastes of your family. In a busy household, where the homemaker just hasn't time to fuss over fabrics, then sturdy materials that can be washed or wiped off are advisable. For the housewife who copes with the problem of small feet and hands, removable covers for the furniture are a handy solution.

Elegant fabrics like organdy and lace are fine for the family which requires elegant surroundings and which is willing to make the slight extra effort to give these materials the proper care.

Most homemakers come to a compromise between their desire for elegance and their need for practical serviceability. They use the lighter fabrics in "company rooms" like the living room, and heavier ones in rooms which undergo heavy traffic.

No matter how large or small an undertaking you plan, here are some of the new fabrics, furniture styles and trends that might inspire a scheme to suit your needs.

Modern styling is not only using the inspiration of Scandinavian, Italian, French and Oriental designers, but is becoming a beautiful blending of ornament and fine detail. All of these, of whatever inspiration or period, have been adapted in size and utility to the modern American home.

traditional styles and the sleek exciting designs of today achieve the American look. This look is a blending, a softening, of the dark contemporary designs of a few years ago, with the richness and elegance of yesterday.

The new American look draws from the rich sources of the world, but adapts itself to the 1957 way of living. Sturdy colonial, so popular today, fills the need of strong, crafted appearance, together with the casual way of life so many of us lead.

Eighteenth century traditional and the more ornate Provincial designs give the romantic look along with the practical finishes and engineering of contemporary science.

Designers today are striving for richness in the furniture they produce. "We are fundamentally a romantic people, and our homes should reveal this," says one designer. "We do not have to settle for one dominant look. This creates monotony."

Just as the new look in decorating combines periods and styles, so does the new look in individual pieces represent a bringing together of the best of today and yesterday. This is done in a number of ways.

Designers are producing wood grain and its own soft color for effect. Careful placement of veneers is creating exciting patterns on table tops and fronts of chests.

Drawer pulls are used for decoration too. They are made of gleaming metal or of matching or contrasting wood. Decorations which are applied directly to the furniture are becoming increasingly important. One large new collection features silk screen prints of Mexican motifs in green on a sand-finished walnut. In provincial furniture, entire pieces may be painted, or the legs of dining tables may be painted in contrast with a wood top.

Tiles are used to create interest and to bring color to table-tops, either completely covered with tiles, or scattered about the surface to create a pattern.

The trend in furniture design, in recent years, has been towards correlated collections of pieces made to go with each other. The new "blending" look, with its added decoration, has eliminated the monotony which was once the danger in these correlated groups.

Now, several pieces of a group may contain design features which are not found in other pieces, offering variety and interest.

For example, a chest may have some brass trim which is not seen at all in other pieces in the group. Or the shaping of hardware may differ from piece to piece, such as round drawer pulls on a chest and oblong pulls on a table drawer.

Textures bring interest to home furnishings, too. Many chests feature panels which are reversible, with one side of wood, and the other of cane, grass cloth, fabric, brass grill-work, or a painted finish.

Leather is also important, with its soft finish, and exciting range of color. Two new collections have breakfronts in which the doors are of strips of leather woven into a lattice pattern.

In living rooms the clean, unclutter line is the key word in upholstered furniture. Sectional sofas are still of prime importance. They are popular because they allow for flexibility in arrangement.

But don't think that you must have modern furnishings in order to have a sectional sofa in your living room. They are available in French provincial, Italian provincial and early American styling, as well as modern.

Sectionals and one-piece sofas are slightly off-the floor showing neat legs of metal, wood or wood brightly tipped with metal.

More exposed wood creates a decorative interest in upholstered furniture. Wood stretchers are used along the bases of sofas. Arms of sofas and chairs may be entirely of wood or may have wood frames around the upholstery or around panels of cane or leather.

There is a movement away from the rough tweeds and heavily textured fabrics toward a more lush and smooth feeling. There is still a slight texture in the fabric, but it is not as pronounced as it has been.

Color is an important factor in your decorating scheme. Use it wisely on your upholstered furniture. The many-pillowed sectional or long sofas offer good opportunities for using color.

The pillows may match the fabric of the sofa or they may be of one contrasting color. They might be of several complementary colors or they might be in a print or striped fabric against the solid sofa.

A striking accent piece is seen in a bright orange coachman's seat. This little upholstered chair, which seats two comfortably, is a copy of the coachman's seat used in French country homes in the early 1700's.

The variety of living room furniture available is so great that you should have no problem choosing things which will fit well into your home.

Analyze your pattern of living and pick things which will fill the needs of you and your family.

When furnishing your living room, try to arrange the seating pieces in conversational groupings. This will help to create a warm and friendly atmosphere.

It is no fun to have to shout across the room when trying to hold a conversation.

Try, too, to have tables conveniently near each seating piece. It is not very comfortable to have to balance an ashtray, glass, and plate and try to carry on a conversation or enjoy watching television at the same time.

Anyone for Winter?

One way to enjoy the crisp, cold blasts of winter is to wear warm, wooly garments and face the season with a smile. This three-piece set, knitted of orlon and wool, will help you bypass the chills whether you're skiing, skating, tobogganing or taking a brisk walk.

It consists of a snug-fitting cap with ear-protecting flaps buttoned under the chin; a long, fringed scarf, and rib-cuffed mittens. Each piece is done in the stockinette stitch with a cable pattern running down the center of the scarf, mittens and ear flaps, and around the crown of the cap. In the center of each cable is stitched a shiny sequin and bead.

With an eye toward Christmas, the set or individual pieces would make wonderful presents. For complete instructions send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the needlework department of the Plymouth Mail. Request the Sequined Ski Set leaflet.

Queen's Personal Maid Travels With Ironing Board, Sewing Kit

LONDON—(UP)—Have ironing board, will travel. Such is the case with Miss Margaret MacDonald, a brisk, auburn-haired Scotswoman in her 40's.

Miss MacDonald, or "Bobo", is personal maid to Queen Elizabeth II and accompanies her wherever she travels. She will be on the royal visit to Canada and the United States, Oct. 12-21.

Miss MacDonald went to work for the royal family as a girl of 18, coming from her home in Inverness to be nursery maid to the Duchess of York and her baby daughter.

Princess Elizabeth, as a small girl, would dash from behind a door to startle the maid by crying "Bobo." The name stayed and so did Miss MacDonald. Ever since, she has looked after the woman who became ruler in 1953.

Bobo is the Queen's closest friend and confidant, the only person outside the immediate family who calls Elizabeth "Lilibet" in private.

She attends to all the Queen's wardrobe and it is her pride to send Elizabeth out looking immaculate, no matter how close together the number of public appearances.

Then, Bobo slips on her own jacket and joins the crowds, probably wearing the diamond clip the Queen gave her recently or the gold watch which was a gift from the Queen Mother Elizabeth.

The Queen's personal maid is on duty every day, taking time off as she feels inclined. She does most of the Queen's personal shopping, since court etiquette precludes the Queen buying her own make-up and accessories. The maid lives in her personally-furnished suite in Buckingham Palace.

It is Bobo who always wakes the monarch with a tray of tea in the morning, and then reminds her of the day's list of duties.

Miss MacDonald has her own sleeping compartment in the royal train and cabin on the royal yacht, Britannia. There also are a chair and berth for her in the royal aircraft. And wherever Bobo is, with her ironing board and sewing basket.

Her job is to pack the Queen's clothes, using typewritten lists of every article for quick reference. She does Elizabeth's personal laundry, helps her with her daily dress, and presses clothes the Queen wore the previous day.

The maid travels with a typed outline of Elizabeth's itinerary, each date with a code number beside it to indicate what outfit the Queen means to wear for a particular engagement.

It is Bobo who makes the appointment with the hairdresser, the chiropodist, the dressmakers. She calls the physician if it seems Elizabeth is getting a cold, telephones other royalties with personal messages, buys picture post-

A WALL ARRANGEMENT that goes up instead of spreading out makes use of some often wasted space. The chests are available in a variety of styles so that any number of combinations are possible. The short legs are easily unscrewed so that the arrangement can be changed any time you want a change of scenery.

Precautions Lessen Strain On Children During Moving

Two out of every nine people in this country change their address each year. How does this increasing trend for mobility affect families? Nina Lou Baird, of Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service, says we don't know a lot about that question but there are some helpful ideas, by people with lots of experience, on how to make moving easier for the children and the adults, too.

Whether you are moving to a new house in the same town or going thousands of miles, it's not an easy venture. It involves not only the attention to numerous details, hard physical work and difficult decisions to make, but also the emotional strain of leaving friends and relatives and much which is familiar and thereby offers security.

According to Mrs. Baird, most of the opinions on this subject indicate that: how the parents behave will determine to a large extent how the children react. If the parents are generally confident and optimistic, admitting the inevitable uncertainties, the children's attitudes will be positive.

If the adults see nothing but the stress in the situation, the children will reflect this anxiety. Moving may be more upsetting actually for the adults than the children.

Here are some techniques which Mrs. Baird feels may help bridge the gap:

Before the move . . . tell the children about the move and the reasons for it. Let them mull it over and ask questions.

Give the children the chance to share in the plans . . . insofar as they are capable. This will avoid the "left out" feeling.

Let preschool youngsters "play out" the experience of moving before it happens.

Show the children the new house before moving in. If this isn't possible, show them pictures and describe it.

Let the children pack some of their own belongings.

School-age children could send their own change-of-address cards to friends. Encourage their letter writing. It gives a feeling of continuity.

You could see that the movers move things out of the small children's room last, so that they can go into the new house first.

After the move sit down and catch your breath. Spend a little time with the youngsters as soon as the movers have gone. Encourage the children to ask new acquaintances to visit even though all is not settled.

One way to help make friends is by joining some clubs or groups. You'll have to expect some backward looks of longing but give yourself time to find the assets of the new community.

Serving As We Would Wish to be Served

E. C. Hough Concludes Plymouth Recollections

This is another in a series of intriguing remembrances by Edward C. Hough, who has lived in the Plymouth area for 85 years.

Starting again at the railroad crossing on Main Street, the first house on the east side is the well-built brick building known for many years as the Bode Hotel where Paul Frank and his wife dispensed a very potent brand of hard cider which caused more than one case of hair pulling that was usually settled out of court.

The next house was the home of the Eldred family for many years. Jen Eldred was usually one of the belles of the ball. In the barn on this place Dan Adams started a livery stable with a couple of real fancy rigs that he sold to Czar Penney and after Czar moved into Plymouth and who continued in the business for many years.

On the corner lived Charley Roe, who with his brother Willard, worked across the street in Bennett's Fanning Mill Shop setting up fanning mills which had a considerable sale at the time. Their manufacture furnished employment to a number of people.

"Christian" Brown, an ex-sea captain, fired the boiler with shavings, looked after the engine and was always ready with hair raising tales of life at sea that was most exciting to boys of my age.

Brown's family have played an important part in the development of Plymouth. Will Brown, or "Billy Bump" as the boys called him, was a storekeeper for many years and a very popular baseball umpire. Phnette, his brother, was chief of Plymouth's first volunteer Fire Department and very popular with its members. At the time the Globe Furniture Co. in Northville burned, he called out the boys to drag their hose carts and load them on board a flat car. The F. & P.M. engine gave us a quick ride to Northville but the fire had a start that quickly consumed the entire plant and Northville lost an industry that had been its mainstay for many years. It has never been rebuilt. I served as pipeman on No. 1 with Chauncey Rauch and we all returned to Plymouth in the morning a tired and dirty lot—without ambition to take up fire fighting as a profession.

To get back to the fanning mill business—after they were assembled and painted a bright red that was applied very artistically by Charley Bennett, they were fitted with a set of screens woven by Bert Bennett and sold for $25. During the slack season, Charley was promoted to the job of peddling the mills and several were loaded on a spring wagon drawn by two horses and a farm canvass was made. Charley told many interesting tales of his experiences and on one of his trips he took along a few Daisy Air Rifles that had begun to be popular. His success led up to taking a position as salesman for the company and his eventual promotion to its presidency.

On the corner back of the Fanning Mill Shop stood the village jail and council room in a one story frame building about 18 by 24 feet—two small cells in the back and the front room served as court room as well as the meeting place for the Village Council.

As a boy it was very exciting to peer in the front window and see where Constable Mel Weeks locked up John Selleck after a fight down town. John was so obstreperous that they loaded him into a dirt wagon and sat on him while being driven to the jail.

All the property south of the Windmill Factory running from Union Street through to Hamilton, was the Plymouth Ball Park and many exciting games were played there. It was also used as a circus ground. When Fourpaugh's Circus came to town in 1878, I attended my first circus and it made such an impression on me that I recall the words of a song sung by a clown standing on a stool used as a chair by the elephants:

"Treat my daughter kindly
And say you'll do no harm
And when I die, I'll leave to you
My little house and farm." Etc

Gentlemanly ushers then sold song sheets for a dime. Circuses travelled by road in those days and made one-day stands in places only 25 or 30 miles apart. By the time the night performance was over, a good part of the show had already left and the ground crew was ready to take the board you had been sitting on.

I have been told that P. T. Barnum's show was once held on Plymouth's Village Green but that was before my day.

Across the street from the Roe home was the Bennett house with the long front porch with pillars. Fred Peck and his wife, Nellie Bennett, lived there and perhaps some of you will remember their famous white horse and the surrury with the fringed top and many a good ride I had in it with Ed Bennett, a pal of mine. They had a hostler by name of Jack Sansom—a retired sailor and he could spin a yarn as long and exciting as Christian Brown.

The Pecks built a beautiful brick home on Main St. and Joe Eaton of Ypsi worked for months finishing the interior but it was never occupied as it caught fire and was a total loss.

Next door was the R. G. Hall home. Hall was a sturdy Presbyterian and while running a dry goods store reared a family of two boys—Fred and George—and one girl who was married to Scott. The grandparents brought up the grandsons Winfield or "Wink" as the boys called him. Fred clerked in his father's store and slept in a bed in the back of the store. Ship Taft also had a bed in the back of Taft's store and I used to think if I could sleep away from home like that and be able to do just as I pleased, it would be the height of my ambition.

George Hall had a deep bass voice and made quite a reputation for himself as a singer and sang "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep" on many occasions. He also sang in a male quartette consisting of Cal Hilmer, Fred Bennett, Clarence Stevens, and himself. Mr. sister Mary, was their accompanist and they often met at our house for practice. Cal Hilmer used to eat raisins to clear his throat so he could hit the high notes correctly and sometimes shared his raisins with me.

George Hall learned to pound a telegraph key from J. R. Rauch and later took Rauch's place when Rauch was transferred to Wixom. George lost the end of the forefinger on his right hand and the pad on the end fitted a telegraph key perfectly. I used to admire the way he could pound out a message, until the day he delivered a wire from the Detroit Free Press Co. saying they would stop delivery of papers to me unless I paid up some 25 dollars I owed them.

I had a paper route for some four years while I was in High School and was a poor hand at collecting from my customers. I have always had a suspicion that my dad had something to do with the telegraph but was never able to prove. But the wire was effective and I hustled around and paid up.

(This concludes this series on the early days of Plymouth, written by Edward C. Hough. On behalf of its readers, The Mail is indebted to Mr. Hough for these memoirs. A most sincere "thanks.")

Local Group Looks Over Christmas Decorations

The Chamber of Commerce and the city itself are already making preparations for this year's Christmas decorations.

A group traveled to Frankenmuth recently to the Bronner Display and Sign Advertising Co. which boasts "the largest display of outdoor Christmas trimmings this side of the North Pole." About 95 per cent of yuletide decorative items made in the U.S. are on display in the showrooms.

Making the trip were George Witkowski, Christmas lighting chairman; J. H. Wilcox, Chamber manager; Albert Glassford, city manager; Russ Steininger of Detroit Edison; and Jerry Pease, of Pease Paint & Wallpaper Co. The city and Chamber are attempting to build up a stock of permanent Christmas displays.

While in Frankenmuth, the group enjoyed a famous family-style chicken dinner.

It is possible for a single American carpet to contain fibers from Argentina, New Zealand, Iran, India, Scotland and North Africa since the wool produced in these countries stands wear better than that from United States sheep.

YOUR HANDWRITING TELLS YOUR STORY

With Grapho Analysis
BY JEAN EVANS

Dear Jean:
Perhaps you can tell me why my romance ended in heart-break and depression. I'm intelligent, talented, and pretty. My heart tells me I've found The One, but he's in love with another.

Would I be making a mistake to tell him how much I care?
DISAPPOINTED

Dear Disappointed:
Not being able to see the handwriting of The One, I will be unable to discover the reason for your conflicts.

You are a friendly, generous and affectionate person. You are broadminded and liberal in your attitude towards others.

You are independent; you set your own pace in life and are not greatly influenced by the standards set by those about you. You are loyal to what you think is right.

It could be that you have fooled yourself into thinking he was the right one for you but can you think of him objectively? If you told him how you feel would it serve only to feed his ego? Are you generous to extremes while he accepts it without thought of return?

Grapho Analysis is used extensively in counselling couples before and after marriage. It is invaluable as a key to human understanding.

Dear Jean:
Kindly use this letter as a sample of my handwriting. Your advice (if any), comment or analysis will be greatly appreciated.

Dear LB:
Your handwriting reveals you to be a person who is able to concentrate on the work at hand. You would be content to work requiring close attention to details and without much change or variety.

You desire and accept responsibility easily, being able to complete whatever project you begin. There is indication of real or imagined resentment to imposition in your nature which could be eliminated through conscious effort on your part.

Dear Jean:
I have quite an interest in your analysis. Would you please tell me what you see in this writing?
Florence B.

Dear Florence B.:
You are a person who acts impulsively. You let on how you feel. You respond emotionally to others and their problems or joys. You have the spirit that never admits defeat. You keep on keeping on when others would quit. You are of an optimistic nature. You enjoy simplicity as against adornment.

Dear Jean:
I've never felt that I really belong. Why?
E.M.D.

Dear E.M.D.:
You are a person who is moody and changeable. One time you will show how you feel and another time you will appear unmoved. You don't know why you react the way you do and neither do others. If you could stabilize your emotions you would likely find that people would understand you better and you would be able to feel that you are accepted.

Dear Jean:
Is my handwriting really so odd? I wish you would analyze it. I'm rather anxious myself.
H.H.

Dear H.H.:
Have you ever compared your handwriting with that of your friends? It is decidedly different. It reveals a cool, calm, unresponsive nature. You never express your emotions. You take things as they come without benefit of imagination or enthusiasm. You enjoy being just a "little bit different".

Town and Country Day to Kick Off Fall 4-H Program

Eight hundred Wayne County 4-H'ers and their parents plan to attend the second annual 4-H Town and Country Day, October 5, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., at Belle Isle in Detroit.

Del Dyer, Wayne County 4-H Club Agent, points out that Town and Country Day gives all 4-H'ers of Wayne County an excellent opportunity to exchange ideas.

The day's events will include tours of the aquarium, the conservatory, the sawmill and the zoo, educational exhibits of 4-H projects, exhibits by Detroit Edison and the National 4-H Supply House, recreation, and the presentation of awards to Detroit 4-H'ers.

Town and Country Day will also serve as a kick-off day for the Fall 4-H Club program. Agent Dyer points out, "Now is the time to join 4-H Clubs or to start a club of your own." He says that the four major requirements in 4-H work are:

- 1) Be between 10 and 21 years of age.
- 2) Belong to a club of not less than 5 members and have an adult advisor or leader.
- 3) Do a work project such as sew a dress or construct a bird house.
- 4) Exhibit this work at a fair or achievement day and write a report of your activities.

Good Counsel Adds Another Sunday Mass

To accommodate the increasing numbers attending Sunday
Masses at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, a fifth Mass has been added to the Sunday schedule beginning Sunday, October
6. This extra Mass has been made possible by the recent appointment of Father William C.
Child as assistant to Father
Francis C. Byrne, pastor.
Effective on that Sunday morning the new schedule of Sunday
Masses will be as follows: 6, 8, 9:30, 11, and 12:15 o'clock with the 9:30 Mass regularly a High Mass. On week days High Masses will be sung at 6:40 and 8
a.m. daily except Saturday when the regularly scheduled
Mass will be at 8 o'clock.
Forty Hours Devotion will begin at the 9:30 Mass on Sunday,
October 13, with Father Walter,
CP, of St. Paul's Monastery on Schoolcraft Road, Detroit, giving the series of sermons.
On Monday and Tuesday mornings of that week Masses will be celebrated at 6:40 and 8 o'clock with the Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament beginning before the 6:40 Mass. Evening devotions, which will include the sermon by Father Walter, will begin at 7:30 o'clock. A Procession in which all the men of the parish will participate and Solemn Benediction will close the Devotions on Tuesday evening.
In 1592 Pope Clement VIII ordered that the Forty Hours Devotion, consisting of the solemn exposition of the Blessed Sacrament on the altar for 40 hours in memory of the 40 hours the body of Christ remained in the sepulchre, be continuous throughout the year going from one church to another in all parts of the world.

'Look-Alikes' Out In Builder's Plan For Subdivision

A California builder of more than 30,000 homes has come up with an entirely new approach to the problem of giving individuality of appearance to each house in a giant subdivision.

The firm, Bollenbacher & Kelton, of Los Angeles, avoids indiscriminate use of sharp colors and widely-varying roof pitches, concentrating instead on quiet restraint in developments that fit the terrain.

"We study the terrain and work with it," says Ray J. Swaner, manager of the firm. "In San Diego, we are building 3,000 houses in a bare valley surrounded by stark hills. So we have chosen an earth-brown for our asphalt shingle color, and a moderately steep pitch for the main roof lines."

For variety and interest, Swaner says, 16 different exteriors are used for 10 basic floor plans. Some 80 percent of the roof styles have the same high pitch. They include gable styles, hip roofs, and louvered Scotch-hipped roofs. The variety of roof shapes gives each house its individualized look.

The total effect of the Bollenbacher & Kelton development is rich restraint and a quality of unobtrusive substantiality. The high-pitched roofs have an advantage of an air-washed attic, which helps keep the houses cooler in hot San Diego summers. Another important contribution to living comfort is made by the thick layer of mineral wool insulation laid in blankets between the attic floor joists.

Three islands the length of Manhattan could be placed end to end in the lunar crater Copernicus without fully spanning its 56 mile diameter.

remodeling Magic

Modest Vacation Cottage Now Year-Around Home

Finding a modest summer cottage that can be purchased for a song and remodeled is a sound and economical way for a family to obtain a year-round home in the country.

A case in point is the home of the Charles Camp family near Morgantown, W. Va. The Camps modernized a tiny cottage built in 1937 for summer use, and today have a modern home that gives them comfortable living throughout the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Camp began their project by consulting Arthur B. Campen, modernization editor of Practical Builder, light-construction industry magazine. Campen drew up plans for remodeling to change the cottage into an up-to-date home.

The remodeling included the addition of a new wing and the extension of a section of the living room wall to form a bay, with a gable-end roof section over it. Almost exactly in the middle of the long, low house, the gable end imparts a more balanced appearance.

Asphalt shingles in a green blend were specified for the entire roof, both the original and the added sections. A new colorful roof goes a long way to unify the old and the new in a remodeled house, Campen believes, and asphalt shingles offer a wide range of color choices.

Campen chose white for the clapboard siding, with the green of the roof repeated in the window shutters.

The new wing contains the master bedroom, a wood-paneled den, a bathroom and stairs leading to the cellar. Double-hung windows of ponderosa pine were installed in the new wing, the living room bay and the kitchen, to match the wood windows in the rest of the house.

For year-round comfort, full-thick batts of mineral wool insulation were installed in the new sections. The insulation keeps much of Virginia's summer heat out of the house and enables a new forced-air furnace to do a more efficient and economical heating job in winter.

In modernizing the kitchen, wood-paneled plastic linings and a new counter top were added, providing more storage and work space. A new vinyl floor, a dishwasher, and a garbage disposal unit were installed.

Handyman Urged To Keep Hands Off Heating System

Attention, do-it-yourselfers:

Don't tinker with your furnace and its thermostatic control system. A well-meaning home handyman can cause himself needless expense and even place his family in danger by attempting to repair a heating system.

Minneapolis-Honeywell, which manufactures residential heating controls, likes nothing better than to have Mr. and Mrs. Homeowner interested in heating equipment, but they warn that it takes more than enthusiasm to properly adjust a home heating system.

Rule one, Honeywell engineers say, is to consult a qualified heating dealer for advice. In case of trouble, a call to the dealer, fuel supplier or gas utility will usually bring prompt service.

A properly-cared-for furnace is no more dangerous than any other oil, gas or electric appliance. Failure to receive or follow instructions usually causes little more than inconvenience — even in sub-zero weather — because of the safety features built into modern heating plants and temperature controls.

Honeywell's customer service file, however, contains dramatic evidence that the do-it-yourselfer shouldn't attempt to repair his heating system.

One user, for example, who connected his heating plant to a water pipe for domestic hot water produced a fine (and rust-producing) fountain inside the furnace. A nother homemaker tossed lighted newspapers into her furnace hoping to start the burner. She and part of her furnace were blown across the basement.

Then there's the fellow who looks for leaky gas lines with lighted matches, or puts pennies behind fuses, or built short-circuit "jumpers" around furnace safety controls. A circumvented safety device will stop nuisance shutdown, it's true. It also may burn the house down.

Since most heating plants are electric all electrical safety rules apply. Homeowners are apt to forget that a burner ignition system may carry as much as 7,500 volts of electricity.

The 115-volt "household current" line to the furnace can be fatal. Even the stepped-down (24-volt) power to the thermostat produces a nasty shock.

Thermostats come in for a major share of the abuse at the hands of the do-it-yourselfer. For example, when a homeowner stapled the thermostat's wires to a beam, the metal staple produced a short-circuit that caused the automatic control to call for continuous heating. He didn't notice it before leaving the house for the weekend. The constant pumping of heat caused wooden floors and window frames to shrink, damaged furniture and melted candles.

A big problem are the homeowners who try to clean the thermostat's electrical contact points with steel wool, nail files or sandpaper. If you feel you have to clean them just insert an ordinary calling card gently between the contacts.

Control devices containing sealed mercury switches must be mounted level so the mercury-filled glass tube will tilt as it should when the temperature-sensitive bi-metallic coil moves. Care should be taken that the tube is not damaged, and the two-metal element never should be bent.

Excessive use of pipe "dope", which clogs valves, improper pipe threading, use of heavy plumbing pipe wrenches on precision control valves and attempts to make a given type of automatic control do a different job than the one it was designed for are also prominent causes of trouble.

The home handyman even can cause discomfort and damage without touching the furnace when he fills his house with clouds of sawdust and other debris from his basement workshop and neglects to change his furnace filters regularly. The clogged filters stop air circulation and the furnace cannot deliver the heat called for—even though both furnace and thermostat are working perfectly.

Improper use of thermostat transformers have created some headaches for service engineers, too. In one case they found a thermostat connected to a basement lighting circuit to be operated by a pull chain. So, the thermostat worked only when the basement light was turned on!

Another homeowner hooked an electric train to the thermostat transformer. He kept the cellar epress on time, but he put day-night comfort in his house badly off schedule.

One ambitious amateur used hot and cold air registers of the wrong size and placed them improperly. A hot-air duct located above the thermostat whopped the temperature to 82, while a cold air outlet below caused the thermostat to call for more heat, even when set as low as 70°.

He sold the house—a big loss—after one drafty winter.

There are, of course, several jobs which a do-it-yourselfer can tackle to assure proper operation of his comfort system.

They include vacuuming registers of warm air systems to permit clean air to flow freely; oiling the blower and motor in the furnace; cleaning the vent valves on steam heat radiators; releasing trapped air in hot water radiators, and cleaning or replacing air filters in forced air systems.

But M-H engineers emphasize anything beyond this is a job for an expert serviceman.

Right Windows Save Heat, Reduce Drafts

Early fall is the time to check windows and exterior doors throughout a house to make sure they are functioning efficiently for the winter ahead.

A drafty house and high heating bills often can be traced to windows and doors which do not fit properly, or to faulty weatherstripping.

Old windows and doors can be replaced with units of ponderosa pine pre-fitted at the factory. These pass laboratory tests for tight fit and easy operation, and weatherstripping is precisely installed.

The clear ponderosa pine also is chemically treated to resist moisture and keep shrinking or swelling from causing trouble.

HERE'S HOW

MAKE A FOLDING CAR BED

A useful accessory for the family car is a portable car bed. It can be folded for storage when not in use.

The top is two pairs of boards jointed together with dowel rods and hinged at the center. Cut the boards as shown. Use a miter box to square the ends. Clamp the individual pairs together so that in making the dowel holes they will be perfectly aligned. Bore holes 2 inches deep using a No. 6 auger bit. Make at least six evenly-spaced holes starting 2 1/2 inches in from each end. The dowels are cut 3 1/2 inches long and rounded on the ends to prevent binding. Groove the dowels for a tighter joint.

The sides are made of 1 by 8-inch lumber dowel-jointed together at three places; one in the center, and one 2 inches from each end. Hand holes may be made if desired.

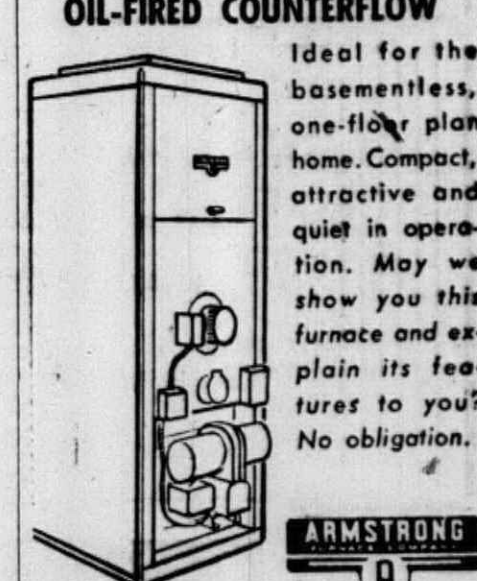

The narrow side board is made of 1 by 4-inch lumber. The car bed is assembled with 3-inch butt hinges. All hinges are recessed.

Round all sharp edges and sand smooth; paint or stain and varnish. A pad or mattress completes the project.

The federal government owns about 21 per cent of all property in the United States.

Asphalt Shingles Handy For Winter Motoring

A few asphalt shingles tossed into the trunk of your car now may get you out of a tight spot next winter. Placed under the rear wheels, the shingles give good traction when the car is stuck in snow or on ice.

This traction comes from the mineral granules embedded in the surface of the asphalt shingles, giving them the rough toughness of rock for long service on a roof. The granules also give the shingles color, for pigments are fired into them by a ceramic process before they are applied.

Cold Weather Needn't Mean Giving Up Porch

One of the unhappiest things about the arrival of cold weather for many families is giving up the extra living space provided in summer by an enclosed breezeway or porch.

But builders say this isn't always necessary. Many breezeways and porches can be made livable for many extra months with thick insulation and a small space heater.

Insulation engineers recommend that mineral wool at least three inches thick be installed in ceilings and walls which are touched by cold on the outside. If the porch or breezeway is built over an unheated area, such as a crawl space, the floor also should be insulated.

Areas which the homeowner can reach easily can be insulated with batts or blankets obtainable from building material dealers. "Enclosed" areas, such as finished walls and small attic spaces, can be filled with insulation by a contractor who pumps mineral wool in under air pressure.

For greater comfort and heating efficiency, windows should be fitted with air-tight storm sash, and any cracks or air leaks around doors, windows, or in framework should be filled with caulking compound. Tight-fitting storm sash of ponderosa pine are available to fit windows of all sizes and can be painted to harmonize with both interior and exterior color schemes.

LAWRENCE WILHELMI, 324 Blanche, center, was awarded a world globe by Harry L. Kinsel, AAA Plymouth division assistant manager, as the firm reached a half million members. Wilhelmi received honorary membership No. 500,006. The number marks the order in which the Plymouth office was established among the 44 state divisions. Also extending congratulations was Mayor Harold Guenther.

Rotary Anns Planning Their Christmas Sale

Plans for an annual Christmas sale were made by Plymouth's Rotary Anns at a luncheon meeting at the Hotel Mayflower last week. Retiring president Mrs. Donald Sutherland presided. On sale in December will be handiwork made by Wayne County Out-County Chapter of Crippled Children and Adults. Mrs. Charles Finland and Mrs. Donald Lightfoot are co-chairmen. The Rotary Anns also plan to assist the Rotary Club by serving at their annual Christmas party for crippled children of western Wayne County. Following the business, the Rotary Anns were entertained by slides showing the trip of local Rotarians to the International Convention in Zurich, Switzerland. Mrs. Sam Hudson showed the slides and was assisted in commentary by Mrs. Sutherland and Mrs. Robert Willoughby.

NEW BOOKS LENDING LIBRARY At The Wayne County

"On the Beach" by Nevil Shute—A novel vitalizing an immediate personal problem that many persons are unable or unwilling to accept as a possibility—destruction of the world. "My Twenty Years in Buckingham Palace" by F. J. Corbitt—The changes in royalty are depicted by the deputy comptroller of supply in the households of George V, Edward VIII, George VI and Elizabeth II. "Lady in Waiting" by Rosemary Sutcliffe—The moving story of Bess Throckmorton and her love for the restless adventurer, Sir Walter Raleigh. "Charlie"—the improbable life and times of Charles MacArthur, who tried to do about everything in his lifetime. He was part of the wild and woolly newspaper days in Chicago, in all the wars, collaborator of five plays, movie writer and husband of Helen Hayes. "Lawless Decade" by Paul Sann—A pictorial history of the great American transition—from World War I armistice to the New Deal. The picture collection is by George Hornby. "The Goodheart-Willcox "Painting and Decorating Encyclopedia"—The complete library of professional know-how on painting, decorating and wood finishing. "Reflections on Hanging"—The influential work of Arthur Koestler, who spearheaded the abolition of capital punishment movement in England. "Dough, Ray and Me" by Pat Kilmer—The highly humorous tale of a young couple who pack up the kids, leave the city behind (in this case, Detroit) and head for Arizona.

Season tickets for the Plymouth Theater Guild season are moving mighty fast. Over one hundred tickets for the entire season have already been purchased. Plenty of season tickets are available. Since only three top Broadway plays is the biggest bargain to be found in October or any month.

The Workshop group met the other evening and made plans for the October 1st meeting of the Theater Guild. By the way, if you're not a Theater Guild member yet, come to the October meeting. It's never too late to join. When you feel that urge to paint scenery, fuss with props, or act, give Phyllis Kelly a call or drop over to a monthly meeting and become one of the group.

Following the production of "The Valiant" the Guild Workshop group has decided to get into the Halloween spirit by presenting an eerie one-act entitled "The Hitch-Hiker". Doug Havershaw has accepted the directing job. Barb Houghton will do some stage lighting effects for the production. Lloyd England has volunteered to handle sound and Phyllis Kelly will be the producer for Doug. Casting call will be issued to all members right soon, according to Doug. Plenty of parts for all. The one-act has 3 female and 3 male parts. Should be something for everyone.

"It's very possible that as a curtain-raiser on the 21st of October a short satirical version of the "The Valiant" will be featured. Some of the crew members have fashioned their own interpretation. At last report they have called it "The Violent". For farce at its finest... don't miss this. Say, "The Valiant" was given before the Plymouth Newcomers

By ELINOR WILLIAMS

Does baby-sitting with a little brother or sister interfere with your school work? It's this girl's problem.
Q—"Dear Elinor: I am 13. Once when I was going to the movies with my friends, my mother asked me to take my little brother (7 years old). I didn't mind. When we came home, I told my mother he was good, but my friends didn't like his going with us. Now my mother says to take him, because he was good, almost everywhere I go. Is my mother wrong or am I wrong in not wanting to take him all the time when I go with friends?"
