EAST LANSING — Up here for the annual convention of the Michigan Press Association...

That's the proposed hospital to be built by the Felician Sisters in Livonia between Five Mile and Schoolcraft at Levan Rd.

The word this morning is that construction will start about April 1 and the completion date is July, 1959.

One obstacle will be knocked away in Livonia this week. Approval of $700,000 in federal funds has been delayed by the Office of Hospital Survey and Construction (in Lansing) because there is no sanitary sewer line leading to the hospital.

Livonia is scheduled to write a letter this week promising the necessary facilities by July 1, 1959. It's a $112,000 item. Livonia will finance the line from money which lies in a fund accumulated to retire bonds on a central system installed in the City two years ago.

The hospital is planned for an initial 175 beds, plus all the other facilities. Work will commence shortly after the letter pledging the sewer is received from Livonia.

Superintendent Russ Isbister and School Board President Harold Fischer were here for luncheon last Friday to receive a plaque for having published the finest annual school report in their class.

Schools, education of future citizens, and the ultimate destiny of our country were much upon the minds of speakers and the several hundred publishers and editors who gathered here for the convention.

Perhaps the most common plea was that we do not panic into making severe changes in our school system simply over the single issue of Sputnik.

Dr. John Hannah, president of Michigan State and a man with considerable experience in the inner councils of Washington, noted that the American school system was the one which gave the world sulfa and penicillin, harnessed the atom, and many other lasting achievements.

He added that in Russia the only publicity goes to successes; there is no explanation in the Soviet when mistakes or failures are made; there is no apology for money spent, no budget that must be justified to the people.

"Presumably we could have launched the earth satellite much earlier," Hannah said, "instead we gave priority to other things."

He urged a broad system of scholarship so that students of limited means can go to college and he asked for more schools. He pointed out that colleges now were jammed, and yet there were 70 percent more high school freshmen last year than there were seniors.

The Plymouth Mail won third place in annual judging of Michigan's weekly newspapers, competing in the top-circulation group which consists mostly of big papers published in metropolitan Detroit.

The judges were impressed with the neatness of this paper. The enthusiasm of the editors appeared to show through in the care taken in layout and design. News coverage was also impressive.

Honorable mention in our class went to the Trenton Times and Wayne Eagle. Our neighbor, the Northville Record published by Bill Sliger, was second in its class.

There's an unusual advertisement in The Mail this week which we commend to your attention. It was written and purchased by Sam Zehra, an enterprising investor who's put a restaurant, auto dealership, car wash and appliance store into a single center on Plymouth Rd. in Livonia.

This ad (headed "I never thought of that") is a message to ladies to get out and purchase things they need — now. He contends consumers have money in the bank, but are timid in buying because of unfounded scare talk about "recession."

Zehra's point of view receives some affirmation in a survey released this week at the U. of M. There they interviewed 2,500 consumers and concluded that "this lowering in the level of consumer optimism and confidence is due more to unfavorable economic news than to adverse personal experiences."

A third of the families interviewed in December said their 1957 incomes had increased over 1956 but even so were contending that "the recession has already occurred."

The U. of M. chalked this up to the heavy bombardment of scare talk everyone receives in newspapers, magazines, TV and radio.

Attorney Defends Job

Plymouth Township Attorney Earl J. Demel has in the township but was this week taken to task by the court decision made last week by Municipal Judge Nandino Perlongo concerning a zoning case in which the judge declared two former township zoning ordinances were illegal.

The case was that of the City of Plymouth against Kenneth Kahrl who operates a roadside stand at Sheldon and North Ter-

County Backs $700,000 Township Sewer Bonds

Plymouth Township last week came one step closer to obtaining a sanitary sewer system when the Wayne County Board of Supervisors approved a resolution pledging its "faith and credit" toward the selling of $700,000 worth of bonds.

Supervisor Roy Lindsay said that the resolution gives the green light to its bonding attorneys, Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, to draw up the agreements necessary between the township and the County Road Commission which will handle the sewer laying job.

The $700,000 sewer will cost $100,000 more than the recently-completed sanitary sewer in the city. The city and township sewers were part of one plan drawn two years ago by Engineer Herald Hamill, but the city decided to go ahead with its part alone.

With the county pledging its faith and credit, it will not be necessary for township voters to approve the bond issue. Supervisor Lindsay points out, however, that the sewer project must be followed closely by a water system. This may require a proposal to the voters.

The firm of McDonald-Moore, financial consultants, will negotiate the bond sale. Plans call for the sanitary sewer to empty into the Wayne County interceptor sewer at a point near Newburg Lake. The sewer line will then follow a southerly and westerly path, servicing properties in the more heavily populated areas of the township.

Supervisor Lindsay said that he expects work on the sewer to start this year.

Prospects for More Gas Looking Better

Plymouth householders and those living outside who have vainly tried to obtain gas space heating for the past two years are receiving some encouragement from a report of the Staff of the Federal Power Commission which has recommended steps to re-distribute gas outside of Detroit.

The Federal Power Commission listened to year in a case in which the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company is attempting to withdraw its gas supply to Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. in Detroit and to re-distribute it out-state.

Plymouth's city commission was among the cities which last year passed a resolution backing Panhandle's proposal. There were 800 applications for space heating in Plymouth alone and Consumers Power has 160,000 applications throughout Michigan.

The Staff of the FPC, which conducts the hearings and makes recommendations to the full FPC commission, has said this:

- 1. That the present and future public convenience and necessity requires the termination of Panhandle's forced deliveries of 127 million cubic feet daily (46,355,000 cubic feet annually) to Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.
2. That Panhandle's other customers in Michigan and Indiana which are solely dependent upon Panhandle for their gas supply, have an urgent need for additional volumes.

Panhandle sells no gas to the customer, but delivers gas to companies such as Michigan Consolidated in Detroit. The Detroit company has two other suppliers and has such a surplus that it has been running an advertising campaign for additional customers.

There are three other Michigan Gas companies that would receive Panhandle's supplies besides Consumers if the re-distribution is approved. It is recommended that

1. A tear sheet from The Plymouth Mail issue of October 1, 1957, be submitted to the FPC.

2. That the FPC be urged to expedite its decision on this matter.

3. That the FPC be urged to consider the needs of the people of Michigan and Indiana.

4. That the FPC be urged to consider the needs of the people of Michigan and Indiana.

City Re-appraisal Gets Nod; Tax Rate to Drop 2 Mills

City commissioners met as a committee-of-the-whole Monday night and gave unofficial approval to the re-appraisal of all city property that was taken by the Wayne County Bureau of Taxation last year.

At the same time, the commission gave tentative approval to dropping the city tax rate by two mills so that the re-appraisal will not burden taxpayers too much.

Commissioners took their first look at the re-assessment results two weeks ago when two men from the Bureau of Taxation came here to explain what had been done.

Monday night they decided that the re-assessment was the only way to smooth out the inequities which have developed since the last appraisal was made 10 years ago.

Next week, Monday, February 3 through Friday, February 7, any property owner wanting to know their new assessment can find it out by going to the city hall. Clerk-Assessor Kenneth Way, located on the second floor, will be able to give each property owner what the new assessment for buildings and land will be and how much taxes they could expect to pay.

Property owners should know their lot and subdivision numbers. If they do not know this information, it can be found on tax bills.

Those who feel their assessment is unfair may appear on March 4 or 5 before the Board of Review at city hall.

In the past number of years, city taxpayers have been paying 15.5 mills ($15.50 per $1,000 of valuation). This past year the rate was jumped one mill to pay for a new fire truck. In 1958 the rate would have dropped down to 15.5 mills again.

But commissioners, after looking at re-assessment figures, feel that the increased valuations will bring in more revenue than is usually required (although much money is needed for capital improvements).

As a result, they tentatively agreed that the rate should be dropped to about 13.5 mills. The re-assessment should jump the valuation on real property (buildings and land) from $11,668,000 to $18,611,000. Personal property has not yet been considered.

Commissioners agreed to follow the Tax Bureau's recommendation to assess at 40 percent of the market value placed on land and 43 percent of the value placed on buildings. The land assessment is based on market values of 1957 while building assessments are based on 1955 values—minus any depreciation.

While the city itself will compensate for the valuation hike by decreasing the tax rate, city property owners also help feed two other hungry mouths—the Plymouth Community School District and Wayne County. While it would be wasted effort to ask the county to also reduce its rate, the commission may discuss the possibility with the school board.

History of Early Plymouth Presented

A narrative of Plymouth's early years is starting in this week's issue. Written by Karl Starkweather, vice-president of the Plymouth Historical Society, it will be placed in the Dunning-Hough Library with other papers written by Historical Society members throughout the years.

The narrative will appear in three parts. It represents many years of research by the author.

Second Foreign Film Scheduled For February 8

"Beauty and the Beast" a French Fantasy based on the old fairytale, is the second in the foreign film series presented by the Women's Committee for the benefit of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra.

This is not the same production that was seen recently on television, but a French production with English captions.

The committee was disappointed in the sound track on the last film of "The Man in the White Suit" and every effort is being made to improve it, and to elaborate on the setting with recorded symphony music before the film and between the showings. There will also be an old Charlie Chaplin comedy.

The film will be shown at Plymouth High School Auditorium, Saturday, February 8 with two showings, one at 7 and another at 9 p.m. Donations are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

This film is recommended for children of third grade level and up, and French students.

Four youths involved in a brawl in Canton Township last Sunday afternoon have been sentenced to jail while four others, including a Detroit man who is hospitalized with a fractured leg, must still face trial.

Charges of disturbing the peace have been filed in the case before Justice of the Peace Michael Bradley of Nankin Township. Six of the youths appeared Tuesday morning.

Two others involved were another Snyder brother, Leonard, 17, who did not appear Tuesday, and Robert Mac-

Gerald Elston has been named by the board of education as principal of the new elementary school now under construction in the northeast section of Plymouth Township.

Elston, who has been principal of the out-lying schools in Canton Township and supervisor of the sixth grades located in the Junior High during the past year, was appointed to the new position Monday night by the board.

The new school is scheduled to open next September. Superintendent Russell Isbister said that work so far is "on schedule" with one unit of six classrooms with about to have its roof deck put in place. The school, temporarily called Elementary School No. 6 by the board, is located north of Schoolcraft across

The City Manager's Corner
By Al Glassford

Previously, we discussed the "weak" mayor and the "strong" mayor forms of city government, and have described the Council-Manager form. We now turn to the Commission type of government.

Before the turn of the century, there was an influx of immigrants to the country. They were uneducated, could not find their way around in the new country and were befriended by irresponsible party bosses in city government. The bosses knew their way around and could get things done, either for money or for votes. This was also at a time when the policy of government was "hands off business." Many corrupt combinations of businessmen and politicians were in existence.

Civic reformers thought they had the ideal solution to the problem when at Galveston, Texas, there was installed the Commission type of city government. It consists of five men elected by the voters, each of whom has a department for which he is responsible. For instance, one man may have charge of the finance department which takes care of such problems as assessments, taxation, bonding and collections. Another commis-

SPORTSEEN

By Bill Dilworth

For the golf enthusiasts in the area, the Adult Recreation Department has openings in the instruction classes on Monday and Tuesday nights at 6:30. There is still time to register for any of the classes just by calling the office at the high school or visiting it. Doug Jetter is the golf professional and he comes very highly recommended.

At the junior high school Bill Brown and Frank Sullivan let the kids pick their own names for the teams in the intramural basketball program and here is what they have chosen - Rocks, Jaguars, Nats, Wildcats, Schooners and Bullets. There are 45 boys taking part and after two Fridays of play the Jaguars and the Wildcats are undefeated. Present plans indicate that a five game schedule will be played followed by play-offs near the end of February.

Mark your calendar for Wednesday February 26! That is the next time that the Boston Celtics visit Olympia to play Red Rocha's Pistons. The complete schedule for the month of February:

Tuesday, Feb. 4 7:15 p.m. Syracuse vs. Pistons
Minneapolis vs. Philadelphia

Sunday, Feb. 9 8:30 p.m. New York vs. Pistons

Wednesday, Feb. 12 8:30 p.m. St. Louis vs. Pistons

Sunday, Feb. 15 8:30 p.m. Minneapolis vs. Pistons

Tuesday, Feb. 18 8:30 p.m. Syracuse vs. Pistons

Saturday, Feb. 22 8:30 p.m. St. Louis vs. Pistons

Wednesday, Feb. 26 7:15 p.m. Boston vs. Pistons
St. Louis vs. Cincinnati

Tomorrow night the Plymouth Rocks varsity basketball team open the second half of their Suburban Six Basketball schedule at home against Redford Union. When these two teams met in the opening game of the season Plymouth won 52-35. Plymouth can win tomorrow night IF they remember a few points that Coach Jim Doyle has been making in the last few games. One is SHOOT SHOOT SHOOT and another is WORK WORK WORK.

Against Trenton they did neither of these long enough to get a sustained drive going. They looked good spasmodically and that isn't enough to win against a fired up aggregation like Trenton was last Friday playing in their new gymnasium for the first time; and like Redford Union is going to be tomorrow night after having won three in a row.

Belleville proved to everyone that Bentley can be beaten! If Plymouth works hard and WANTS TO WIN they could be beating Bentley in another important game later this month. The Rock football team was known for their second half comeback. Can the basketball team comeback and shake a slump that has held them in a grip for two games?

From the Scratchpad - The GAA at the high school has just completed its volleyball tournament and the team captained by Nancy Eaton defeated the team captained by Sue Utter 22-6. The story behind the Walkerless swimming team at Allen Park is that John Walker was forced to miss school all week because of a bad attack of the flu. As the 51-45 score indicated, John's presence might have meant the difference between victory and defeat.

Bengal tigers may reach eight feet in length and weigh as much as 350 pounds.

Rock Freshman Victory is Fourth In Five Starts

The Plymouth High School freshmen basketball team won its fourth game in five starts last Friday night at their home court when they defeated Trenton 55-43.

Plymouth led by six points at halftime 26-20 and increased the lead to 12 points outscoring Trenton 29-23 in the second half.

Plymouth had three players in double figures. Dave Palmer with 20 points was high scorer for the game while Art Nelson with 14 and John Spigarelli with 13 helped the Rock cause considerably.

For Trenton the top scorers were Hursey and Fenner, both scoring 12 points.

The next game will be played tomorrow night at Redford Union high school.

Jayvees Bow To Trenton, 48-43

The Plymouth Jayvees basketball team journeyed to Trenton last Friday night and were defeated by the Trojans 48-43. Trenton led 25-19 at half time.

Thompson of Plymouth was high scorer of the game with 18 points. Luridi with 14, Pearl and Wukouritis with 12 each led the Trenton scorers.

The next game is tomorrow night when the Rocks meet Redford Union at 7 p.m. In their first meeting of the season at Redford Union Plymouth lost by one point 28-27.

The teams:

Plymouth: Spirkman (4), Deporter (9), Urquhart (1), Porter (1), Taylor (2), Salan (6), Thompson (18), Hubert (2), Myratt, Bell, Timcoe, Argo, Wells, Ruch and Hartloff-43.

Trenton - Luridi (14), Wukouritis (12), Pearl (12), Daniels (5), Stoke (2), Hallenbeck (3), Snyder, Stajich, Huff, Cody, Frazen, Reno, Fought, Koss and Roger-48.

Rocks Fail to Gain In League While Bentley Stumbles

Trenton Trojans varsity basketball team complete with new uniforms and a new gymnasium that would be a credit to any board of education played inspired basketball before an enthusiastic crowd last Friday night to defeat the Plymouth Rocks, 58-41.

Elsewhere in the Suburban Six league, Belle-ville provided an upset by defeating Bentley in the second "sudden death" overtime on a basket by as they built up an early 5-0 lead against Trenton. This was shortlived, however, as Trenton capitalized on free throws to lead 11-7 at the end of the first quarter. The Rocks outscored Trenton in the second quarter 14-13 and trailed by three points at halftime.

Plymouth tied the score at 24-24 early in the third quarter but could not keep up with the pace set by an inspired team playing its first game in a new gymnasium.

Gary Walters led the scorers for both teams as he scored 16 points. John Mans with 11 and Bob Voss with 10 were other top scorers for Trenton. In addition to scoring 21 points between them, Mans and Voss controlled the backboards for Trenton.

Don Alsbro was high scorer for Plymouth with 10 points. He and Jim Deucus played well for the Rocks but their efforts were not enough to rally Plymouth to any sustained scoring drives.

Redford Union moved into the tie by virtue of their third consecutive win - a 46-43 victory over Allen Park. Redford Union had to come from behind a 28-19 deficit at half time to win.

Plymouth entertains the high-flying Redford Union Panthers tomorrow night. When these teams met in the opener at Redford, the Rocks won by 17 points, 52-35.

THIS IS a view of new apartments being built at the eastern end of Liberty St. A court is inside the U-shaped buildings. The two buildings each have eight apartments of two and one bedroom size.

16-Family Apartments Readied

Apartments for 16 families are nearing completion on East Liberty St. and a re-scheduled for opening around March 1.

The Glenhurst Building Co. of Detroit started the construction in November and is already accepting applications for occupancy.

There are two units under construction, each having eight apartments. Each unit will have four one-bedroom apartments and four two-bedroom apartments.

"Plenty of room" is the thing that the builders advocated in drawing up plans for the apartments. The kitchens, livingrooms and closets are much roomier than those found in the average apartments.

In each unit is a utility room where washers and dryers are furnished. Apartments are also furnished with central heat, garbage disposal, incinerator, electric stove, refrigerator and tile bath.

One unusual feature in the construction is the staggered wall studding which means that a pound on one wall will not be felt on the wall in the adjoining apartment. Walls between apartments are also insulated.

All apartments have separate entrances. Some will be entered on Liberty St., others from a court formed by the U-shaped buildings. Off-street parking will be provided in the court. The buildings, which have been designed with colonial touches, will be completely landscaped.

The building firm partners, Max Nosanchuk and Harry Nachman, have built similar units in Detroit and St. Clair Shores.

State Campers Here Saturday

Plymouth area people interested in camping are being invited to a meeting here Saturday of the Michigan Campers Improvement Association, an organization formed last year to support measures that would help camping conditions in the state.

The meeting will be held in the commission room of the city hall starting at 2 p.m. City Manager Albert Glassford is president; Ronald Forrest of Inkster, vice-president; and Nettie Miller of Lansing, secretary.

fish of his life at Jack's Landing near Hillman. It was the biggest pike caught there in five years. Koers will have the fish mounted. Examining the catch with her father is three-year-old Kathy.

New Girl Scout Council Charted For Summer

The Huron Valley Development Committee which was organized in September 1957, has completed a plan and budget for the projected Girl Scout Council which will serve girls living in Washtenaw, West Wayne and Livingston Counties.

Mrs. J. E. Cooper and Mrs. John Izett are members of this committee.

The committee plan will be presented to a group of representatives from all the communities involved at a meeting in the Little Theatre at the Ann Arbor high school on February 5, at 8 p.m.

This completes the first phase of the development committee work. During the next four weeks the members of the committee will be discussing the plan with Girl Scout adults and other interested people throughout the area.

In March organization of the new council will proceed. The new Girl Scout Council will be chartered early in the summer.

This new organization will replace the present smaller councils which are now functioning in Washtenaw, West Wayne and Livingston Counties, including the Plymouth Council.

Plymouth's Business

THIS WEEK marks the end of the annual January Clearance Sales that have had the bargain hunting segment of the Plymouth populace scurrying about for wanted items at special prices. Reports from several merchants are that this has been one of the most successful January Clearances in their history.

DAVIS AND LENT will end its Circus Days sale with the annual drawing for a Hart Schaffner and Marx suit and a Boy Scout pup tent from the boy's department. Last year's winners were Philip Bender of 908 Penniman, man's suit, and Dennis Stamper of 9800 Brookline, pup tent. Still time to get your entries in for the drawing this weekend.

JERRY PEASE back from his annual trek to the sun-drenched shores of Miami looking tanned and fit. Jerry and Mrs. Pease also took a side trip to New Orleans to soak up a bit of the atmosphere of the French Quarter. (note to the Rotary Treasurer: don't forget to collect)

BUD DONN of Diamond Automotive tells of a friend of his that just returned from Las Vegas with a small fortune. Of course said Bud, he went there with a large one.

MARGARET DUNNING expected back this week from a buying trip in Chicago with the latest in Spring fashions for the ladies.

Plymouth High School

BY LIZ SARAH

Broadcasting from the Plymouth High School auditorium was Town Meeting of the Air featuring Myrna Miller and Tom Rollin, debating for the affirmative with Gwen Scharl and Glyn Norton of the negative. The topic for discussion was "Is the United States Educational System Adequate for the Atomic Age."

The program, taped during second hour on Thursday, January 23, was heard on Saturday evening, January 25 at 7 o'clock. Students who had second hour free were in attendance. Miss Betty Stevens of the speech department, proudly related that the spontaneous participation during the question and answer period was very effective and indicative of the interest of students in world affairs.

PHS is certainly not the Bright Lights of Broadway, but judging from the reception by local students at a pep assembly on Friday, January 17, Danny Hargrove would be a box-office sensation. Danny, accompanied by Dean Finney on the drums, draws a huge audience even while practicing in the high school auditorium. Since their pep assembly appearance, the two boys have been "signed on" for various engagements. Danny and Dean were featured at the Final Fling on Friday, January 24. Keep up the good work boys. This is only the beginning.

Although the general comment agreed that they enjoyed themselves, many of the students who attended the play, "Much Ado About Nothing" at the Riviera Theater Tuesday evening of last week didn't have much to say about anything as they sleepwalked to school the next morning. (Those late hours do it very time.)

Keeping abreast of the growing emphasis on science, a Plymouth branch of the National Science Clubs has recently sprouted under the leadership of Mr. H. E. M. chemistry teacher. Recently elected officers are as follows: Ray Green, president; John Van Dyke, vice-president; and Jim Urquart, secretary-treasurer.

As Mrs. Maddox is resigning to start a family, Miss Lynn Ackerman, newest addition to the faculty, will take over Mrs. Maddox's English classes.

Photographs are always a big project in the composition of the Plythean. Now that the pictures are out of the way, the members of the annual staff are very pleased with the results of their Photo Pass Plan, mentioned here last week, which according to the editor, Jeannette Fore-

Mrs. William Hartmann of Blunk street entertained members of the Frances Reed Glover past matrons club at a co-operative luncheon Wednesday having guests throughout Wayne County.

Parkview Circle

Friends Help To Celebrate

Mrs. Robert Fitzner
825 Parkview Drive

Last Monday was a blue one if ever I saw one. The day was cloudy and overcast and everyone I'd talked to seemed to get that same way. Cheer up! Get started on that yummy Easter outfit and forget your troubles. Spring will be here before you know it.

Linda Curok of Parkview Drive gave a party for her little friends in the neighborhood last Saturday when she celebrated her third birthday. Guests were Sheila, Jimmy and Tommy Parks, Ellen and Holly Sponseller and Larry Wilson. Linda's brother Paul also had his first birthday on Saturday so he got in on the fun too.

Marty Kennedy, Jr. of Parkview Drive was home from Olivet College over the past weekend.

A dinner party last Saturday evening at the home of Barbara and Dick Pape on Jener Street was attended by Celeste Joyce and Al Truax, Barbara and Harvey Cooper and former Circle members Diane and Bill Stang now living in Wisconsin and Ethel and Jim Cameron now of Buffalo, N.Y.

Barbara Coyle of Garling Drive has rented her home and with her two children will make her future home with her mother. We're sorry to lose them from the Circle.

Ottie Cobleigh of Parkview Drive began her nursing duties on Monday Janary 27 at the Maybury Sanitarium in Northville.

The Bob Cowans of Parkview Drive were dinner guests of their neighbors the Bob Andrews one evening last week. When talking with Mrs. Cowan this morning I learned that they will be moving to Arkansas this summer with the Daisy Mfg. Co.

Doris and Ted Kuhns and children were dinner guests of Doris' parents Mr. and Mrs. Bridges in Detroit last Sunday. The occasion marked the birthday of Mr. Bridges.

Dottie Conn of Parkview Drive is now a lady of leisure since resigning her job with the Plymouth Mail last Friday. She and hubby Buford are anxiously looking forward to a visit from the stork in March. Lady of leisure hardly seems the correct phrase to use what with all the preparation for the big event. It will be their first.

So long. As Lee Ruland always says "its been average".

Mr. and Mrs. John J. McLaren and Mr. and Mrs. J. McLaren were in Northville Tuesday afternoon to attend the funeral of Mrs. Genevieve Babbitt Brown of Detroit held in the Casterline Funeral Home. Mrs. Brown was Mrs. J. J. McLaren's aunt and also leaves a niece in the east and a nephew in Northville. Mrs. Brown taught in the Northville schools for many years before her marriage.

Grange Gleanings
The big "fun night" party was a huge success. The dinner was delicious and there was a splendid crowd there to eat the delicious dinner. Everyone was lavish with praise. There were several tables of cards upstairs, but at 8 p.m. the music began tuning up and soon the floor was filled with couples. Everyone enjoyed the music and dance very much. The "old time" music seems to suit the people, so we hope to have more of the same at the later parties. The next supper and party will be on February 22 with Jesse and Louise Triten as hosts.

Our next Grange meeting is on February 8. It will be a pot-luck and our worthy lecturer has arranged a program that should be of interest to everyone. A scout master and some of his group will give a talk on scout activities and duties.
Fred Pinnow is in St. Joseph Mercy hospital, a very sick man. He has our best wishes.
Mrs. Mary Root is also there and has been seriously ill for three or four weeks. She seems to be "holding her own." Her many friends are hoping and praying that she will soon recover.
Don't forget the rummage sale on Saturday, February 1 from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. You may bring your contributions to the hall tomorrow anytime from 1 to 4 p.m.
Mrs. Ohisa Chatham and granddaughter, Ellen Scanlon, and Mrs. Ruby Glick of Saginaw were Saturday night guests of Mrs. Chatham's sister, Mrs. Charles Rienas. They came down for the roast beef supper.
We were happy to see Mollie Wagner among us again at the supper. She came down from her home in Kalamazoo to visit her prents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Groth for a few days.

Maccabee News
The next general meeting will be held Wednesday, February 5 with a pot-luck supper at 6:30 p.m. and the meeting starting promptly at 7:30 p.m. We had a splendid turnout at the last meeting, so let's make this one better yet.
Sorry there is so much illness among our members. Best wishes for a speedy recovery to all.

by Carl Peterson
I wonder what ever happened to that industrial designer in Chicago who had designs on the whole universe. When it came to ambition he hit a new high. With the possibility of rocket and space ship travel in the near future, he filed a claim to all outer space. That included everything from here to there and on both sides of it. You can't go much farther.
At the time, officials said he might even get it, because no one else had thought of applying for the ozone real estate. If his claim were upheld he intended to promote peace by barring rockets from his territory. It would be tougher to make that stick than a used postage stamp. However, he's got something, and it's out of this world. Maybe he's "not building castles in the air."
A Miami woman asked for a divorce after her husband threw a dictionary at her. It seems words passed between them. Well, words can carry a lot of weight. And if weight is a problem for yourself or any member of the family, we have the last words in medically approved reducing aids and food supplements for the underweight, too. We carry only products of proven quality and reliability.

Consumers and its affiliate, Michigan Gas Storage, get 65 million cubic feet daily. This would be over 20.5 billion cubic feet annually. Michigan Gas Storage would get 6 billion cubic feet annually. While it is impossible to translate the volumes allocated in terms of new space-heating customers, it is believed that the additional supply would allow Consumers tens of thousands of new customers. It will now be up to the presiding examiner and the full FPC Commission to approve the Staff report. Traditionally the Staff's recommendations are adopted. It is not known when a final FPC order will be issued.

TWO BAD ACCIDENTS occurred in Salem Township last week, one of them taking the life of 21-year-old Paul D. Thompson of Walled Lake. Thompson's car, shown above, struck a cluster of trees as he drove north on Pontiac Trail near Brookville Road. He died in University Hospital. Billy Woodcox, 11270 Rushton Rd., South Lyon, was seriously injured when his car crashed into a tree on Angle Road near the West Salem Country Church. State Police report the car skidded off the road and wrapped around a tree. It took police 20 minutes to extricate Woodcox from the wreckage. He suffered severe face lacerations and a fractured left leg.

4. Anyone who has a common bond of association with Plymouth — such as occupation. Heike, also recommended that the board of directors be increased to nine members. He stressed that they "must be willing to serve and give their time." The entire slate of present Credit Union officers was re-elected for 1958. Francis Clinton, member of the nominating committee and toastmaster for the banquet, said that "re-election of these people will be to the best interest of everyone, particularly any new members from the community that may join this year. Our present board is familiar with the operation and can facilitate operation of a Plymouth Credit Union." Re-elected officers include: Edgar Peck, Frank Heike and Buford Spotts, directors; Sheldon Baker, supervisory committee; Wallace Osgood, credit committee. Featured speaker was Cecil Crews, field representative and director of Education and Research for the Michigan Credit League. He referred to credit unions in general as a "do-it-yourself bank and savings institution." "Such a venture is based on the philosophy of helping each other," Crews said. "By extending membership to include Plymouth you can grow to become a key community point that will help the city grow." According to Crews, the Michigan Credit League is willing to support a community credit union. He cautioned that when the common bond of unity (Daisy) is gone, the present organization must be eliminated unless the community as a whole will support it. The business meeting was followed by a dance.

Educationally, What's Ahead

One of the last named committees in the above excerpt of activities was the School Facilities Committee. They have the rather difficult task of peering into the cloudy future and trying to come up with suggestions as to what will happen in the next five years, population-wise and what facilities will be provided. Plymouth board members echo this sentiment when they say, "We welcome any help that will assist us in interpreting the desires of the people as to the educational facilities needed in the Plymouth area in the coming five years, 1958-1963." John Rudloff, chairman of the Secondary School Facilities Committee, agrees that the task ahead is a huge one for his committee. For this reason his committee has requested the Board of Education's permission to do an educational survey in the Plymouth area. The survey would be done by the committee, after Board approval of its contents, and tabulated by members of Rudloff's group. On January 13 the Board of Education gave the "go ahead" signal to the committee. However, the Secondary School Facilities Committee would like all the citizens receiving this survey to have some necessary information before they start checking questions. It is the belief of the committee that unless the citizens fully understand the school situation, the survey is likely to be meaningless. Thus, in the interest of gaining more understanding, the committee will issue a number of articles during February and March to give everyone the same background of information. Articles will be published in the following areas: the High School — needed renovation and what to do with the 9th grade?; the Outlying Schools — what is their future?; Starkweather School — are a new multi-room and library needed?; the Junior High — is another building necessary?; Enrollment Trends; and the Survey Form, itself. Each member of the committee has been assigned to get facts for each of these articles. The articles then go to the Board of Education for approval and are published in the Plymouth Mail. Members of the School Facilities Committee are: John Rudloff, chairman; Mrs. Almeda Hubert, Gustav Gorguze, Bob Wall, William Harding, Lehn Potter, Mrs. Isabel Spigarello, Carvel Bentley and Keith Baughman.

(Second in this series — "What's Ahead for Our High School" to be published next week by the Committee for Secondary School Facilities.) Wilbur Gould was taken to the Veterans hospital in Ann Arbor Sunday night, January 26 suffering from pleurisy and pneumonia. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bond and daughter Janice of Springville, N. Y. were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Wendland and Cheryl of Schoolcraft road.

boys' uncle, MacIntosh, urged the group to go to the Weiss home to demand payment for the broken window. Loading the group up in his truck, MacIntosh drove to Ford Rd., and they found Weiss and Joseph, Jr., changing a tire at the Thomas home. Mrs. Thomas said that she was laying down in the living room of their home recovering from the flu when her son and Weiss ran in the back door of the home to get help of her husband. A couple of the boys were believed to have followed the two into the house. Outside, the free-for-all began with beer bottles, shovels, clubs and other handy weapons being used. Mr. Thomas said that MacIntosh told him that he was going to gouge out his eyes, which caused a facial abrasion. Mr. Thomas' head was also held under water in a ditch, he later testified. Conflicting testimony could not determine who broke MacIntosh's leg or who was hitting whom. Sgt. Derengoski said that it appears that some of the eight visitors may have been hitting each other. The boys later said that they didn't want to fight but that MacIntosh started one. The melee attracted many travelers along Ford Rd. and the outside interest apparently helped break it up. Several sheriff's patrol cars and an ambulance later arrived.

Favorite Recipes From Plymouth's Kitchens

MRS. ROBERT SMITH mixes the ingredients for stuffed date drops, a recipe given her by a former neighbor, Mrs. Athol Packer. Watching are three year-old Glenn and one and one-half year-old Michael (with cookies in hand).

Date Drops Keep Cookie Barrel Full

The cookie jar is rarely empty in the Robert Smith household at 700 Pacific, despite the efforts of three year-old Glenn and one and one-half year old Michael. One of the favorite cookies in the Smith family are pecan-date cookies. Here is Mrs. Smith's recipe.

- Pecan-Date Cookies
1 pound pitted dates
1 3-ounce package pecans
1/4 cup shortening
1/4 cup brown sugar
1 egg
1 1/4 cup sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sour cream
1 recipe golden frosting

Stuff dates with nut halves. Cream shortening. Add sugar and beat until light; beat in egg. Sift dry ingredients. Add alternately with sour cream to creamed mixture. Stir in dates. Drop on greased cookie sheet, one date per cookie. Bake in a 400 degree oven for 8 to 10 minutes. Cool and top with golden frosting.

Golden Frosting

Lightly brown 1/2 cup butter or margarine. Remove from heat and slowly add 3 cups sifted confectioner's sugar. Add 3/4 teaspoon vanilla and enough water to make frosting of spreading consistency. Makes about five and one half dozen cookies.

It takes about 3/4 to one pound of chicken to serve an adult. If you're serving it broiled or barbecued you'll serve a pound or 1/2 chicken. A 3/4 pound serving is adequate for fried or roast bird.

New Books At The Library

"Flight Into Morning" by Amelia Elizabeth Walden — Against a background of test pilots and helicopters, this is basically a turbulent family story with the elements of mystery and suspense woven in.

"Spokane Saga" by Zola Ross — The story develops in Spokane, Wash., as it is rebuilt after being gutted by fire. Destinies are shaped and molded by the vigor of the resurgent city.

"Corner Boy" by Herbert Simmons — Gang warfare, jive talk and the struggle for self-importance are all part of this book about certain teenagers in certain rough sections of a big city.

"A Cage for Lovers" by Dawn Powell — A novel about a young woman who has sacrificed her life for the sheltering security of money and position.

"A Cup of Tea for Mr. Thorhill" by Storm Jameson — An intensely interesting account of one man's revision against a heartless political philosophy he has lived for 13 years and finds he can no longer stomach — Communism.

"Irish Pilgrimage" by Daphne Pochin Mould — A guidebook through the many realms of the author's adopted country — geographical, historical, social and religious.

"The Sound of Thunder" by Taylor Caldwell — This drama of envy and mounting tension between brothers, unvoiced struggle between husband and wife and the search for self-esteem, spans 1904 to 1937 in upper New York state.

Theatre Workshop For Children Opens Feb. 8

On February 8 at 10 a.m. the first Children's Theater Workshop class will be held in the Plymouth High School—a class unique in many ways.

First, all ages are welcome to register for this class. There is no age limit from eight to eighty being the two extremes mentioned by the instructor, George Spelvin. Spelvin brings to the class experience in children's theater work.

For the first semester some of the basic fundamentals of acting will be studied. Actual practice will result in a one act play to be shown for the elementary children in the Plymouth area. Later, there will be longer plays such as "Rumpelstiltskin," "Miss Poppins," "Radio Rescue," and other time-honored children's favorites.

Registration is still open for this class all this week by calling 895. All rehearsal time will be within the class hours of 10 a.m. to noon.

Woman's Eye View

by Nancy Rigney

Many a college student and old grad cherish their alma mater and swell with pride when its sweet music is played, but not many can say they wrote their college alma mater. Plymouth can boast one — a young lady named Lucy Underwood of 205 North Harvey.

Miss Underwood composed the music for the alma mater of Alabama College in Montevallo, Ala. The need for a new song arose recently when the State College for Women turned coeducational and became Alabama College.

Last February the college opened a contest to all alumni. The music was judged by a special committee composed of members of the music faculty. Miss Underwood's winning score was matched with words written by another alumna entered in the contest.

In December she was notified that she had won. She received a cash award and will be recognized at "College Night," February 22, when she will return to Montevallo.

She majored in music, of course — a bachelor's degree from Alabama College and a master's from University of Michigan. Miss Underwood is now in her second year as elementary vocal music consultant for the Livonia school system.

As winter becomes more evident in Michigan, word comes from Florida that a group of Plymouthites make a weekly practice of reading the Plymouth Mail and soaking up the sun on the side. Visiting this happy group on "Plymouth Mail Day" were Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Powers, who made the trip from Tampa to Englewood, only to find all parties involved, with their noses buried in a paper.

Scanning the pages were Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Penney, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. West and Cobo Dennies.

Joanne Pankow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Pankow of Irvin street, is a pretty busy gal at Michigan State. Joanne was recently elected vice president of Delta Nu chapter of Phi Mu sorority for 1958. She is also scholarship chairman of her sorority and serves on the membership committee. A sophomore, she is majoring in secondary English education.

Lucy Emily Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Barnes, 133 East Ann Arbor, Plymouth, has been elected president of the Zeta Tau Omega Literary Society of Bob Jones University in Greenville, S. C. She is a senior majoring in elementary education.

During these days when the talk of economy is the focal point of many a conversation let me give you an "ice breaker" for the next mortgage foreclosing you attend. Several businessmen have claimed, "We're cutting to the bone — in fact, we're operating below efficiency." In theatrical circles recessions, hard times, and business lulls are everyday occasions. In fact, the lack of ready cash in theatrical tills has caused many people that like to eat regularly to take a full-time job and have community theater responsibilities as a hobby.

Plymouth Theater Guild members have been accelerating the avocational side of their life these days. Yes, the rehearsals are moving right along for "Double Door", the Guild's winter production. Last week I told you about some of the leads and I guess I'd better let you know about the eight remaining cast members. Mike Toth, Bill Kamen, Mildred Lamb, Harry Curtner and Dick Tait will be making their first appearance in a major production of the Theater Guild.

Several of these newcomers tried out their theatrical tricks in one act plays given before the members at the monthly meetings. Russ Creel, Alice Wright, and C. V. "Sparky" Sparks are three troupers with a list of credits that would look like a history of the 10 years of Theater Guild operation. They have supporting roles in this production and regular Theater Guild goers know in advance that their characterizations will give the play that professional touch.

Received a clever birth announcement from a hard-working Guild member — Rosemary Kooiman by name. The announcement read as follows:

The Kooiman Players (a closed corporation) Presents "Birth of Safety Engineer" (A Drama in three acts) Act I: ? Act II: ? Act III: A Small Voice Starring: Dirk Jon Kooiman, Producer: Rosemary Kooiman, Director: Dr. Benn Hill, Special Effects: A. Kooiman, Critics invited... free admission at the Kooiman House.

Dirk Kooiman arrived at the Garden City Hospital on January 13. We hope he grows up to be the Tab Hunter of 1975. By the way, old George had to censor the titles of Act I and II. Come over to the next meeting of the Plymouth Theater Guild for complete details. Enjoyed the British movie "Man in the White Suit" at the High School a couple of weeks ago. Alec was a scream and his chemical apparatus that bloomed gave the audience many a delightful moment. Wish the Women's Committee of the Plymouth Symphony could arrange to have these films on a Sunday afternoon. I'd bet more people would find time to view them. They are too good to miss.

Latest Broadway news indicates that Henry Fonda and Anne Bancroft have opened in a show called "Two On A SEESAW." There are only two characters in this play. Over the years there have only been a few plays with this cozy number of characters in the cast. "Voice of the Turtle" had three characters. "The Fourposter" a few years ago had two characters and was a hit on Broadway and the road. According to the reviews "Two On a Seesaw" is an excellent vehicle for Anne Bancroft and gives her a chance to reach stardom. The play is not the greatest, but on the strength of Anne and Henry it will probably make money. With such a small payroll it should be able to make the grade.

Can't help mentioning the Children's Theater Workshop again this week. It's still not too late to register for this course. The first class starts on February 8th at 10 a.m. By the way in the Adult Ed. booklet it states the class will be 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Get your pencils out and change that to 10 a.m. to 12 a.m. Nine o'clock is a little too early for theater work. Check this issue of the paper as there is another article telling more about just what we intend to do in this course.

Incidentally, before we file out of the theater for this week, I'd like to give you a tip on a TV show that will be on Channel 58 on Friday, January 31 at 11:30 a.m. First grade teacher is going to have 20 unrehearsed, eager-to-learn "kiddies" on view. She will be teaching them a reading lesson. It'll be interesting to hear and see their adlibs. Old George is the host on this program so I'll give you a complete report just in case you haven't bought your converter and antenna yet.

New Cinerama Opens With Gala Premiere

The new Cinerama production "Search for Paradise" will have a gala premiere Tuesday evening, February 11 at the Music Hall, sponsored by the Detroit Memorial Hospital. Mervyn Gaskin, premiere chairman, announced that the performance would provide funds for additional hospital equipment. The event promises to be one of the most colorful opening nights in local theatrical history. First nighters will blink in the glare of three Hollywood searchlights and walk into the theatre to the music of a military band, treading the red carpet with the letters spelling Cinerama in gold. This has become a trademark of the famous Lowell Thomas productions.

Barber Shop Quartets to Sing For Cystic Fibrosis Research

The third annual Barber Shop Quartet Parade to be called a "Heartful of Harmony" will be staged in Wayne February 7 for the benefit of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation. L. W. Ruge, 467 Ann St., president of the Metropolitan Detroit Chapter, said that the entire net proceeds from the show will be given to the Research Foundation, an organization dedicated to the objective of finding a cure for this dread disease that affects children.

Tickets are available in this area by phoning Plymouth 2529 or Garfield 1-6132. The program, sponsored by the S.P.E.S.S.O.S.A. Inc., will take place at Eloise Auditorium, Michigan Avenue at Merriman at 8 p.m. on Feb. 7. The show will feature the famous Schmitt Brothers of Two Rivers, Wisconsin, International Champions in 1951. There will also be Renee McKay's Cracker Jills, 1957 Sweet Adeline Champions, and many other outstanding quartets from the Detroit area and other parts of Michigan.

Cystic Fibrosis is not rare, being about as prevalent as childhood Leukemia, for example. Several Plymouth children have suffered the ailment. CF symptoms start with mucous forming in the lungs or pancreas, causing serious blockage which results in eventual death of advanced or untreated cases. Prior to the identification of CF as a distinct disease in 1938, deaths were attributed to pneumonia, malnutrition, bronchitis, etc. The National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation was formed only two years ago to sponsor and support research to find a cure and to alert unsuspecting parents to the dangers of CF. Children who have chronic coughs and colds, who eat voraciously but do not gain weight, have bulky diarrhea, extended abdomen, and/or salty sweat, are suspects. According to Ruge, the biggest job facing the group is to gain recognition of the public and to awaken its interest in efforts to combat Cystic Fibrosis. "We are tremendously pleased and grateful for the interest shown by these barber shoppers in our cause," Ruge added. "It is a wonderful thing they are doing and they deserve the sincere thanks of everyone concerned. It takes a lot of thought, planning, time and work to put on a show of this type and they are keeping none of the profits for themselves."

"PAL JOEY," played by Frank Sinatra, gets trapped between a "kissy mouse with munny" (Rita Hayworth) and a "nifty chick with no experience" (Kim Novak) in the Columbia Pictures' production of the Rogers-Hart stage hit. "Pal Joey" opened last Sunday, Jan. 26 for a week's stay at The Penn Theatre.

New Instructors, Courses Come to Madonna College

When second semester classes begin on Jan. 27 at Madonna College, Livonia, students will find several new courses and instructors awaiting them.

Rev. Francis J. Wojcik, who has a Master of Arts degree in Social Science from the Catholic University of America, will join the sociology staff. He is at present the chaplain of the Northville institutions which include Maybury Sanatorium, the men and women's divisions of the Detroit House of Correction and the Wayne County Training School. Previously, Father Wojcik has taught at Sacred Heart Seminary for 14 years.

Joining the language department as an instructor in Spanish will be Padre Francisco Paz who holds a doctoral degree in Canon and Civil Law. Originally from Colombia, South America, Father Paz is at present working toward a doctoral degree in English at the University of Michigan.

Rev. John Wittstock, pastor of Our Lady of Victory parish in Northville, has already begun rendering his bi-weekly services as special confessor and spiritual director of the students. The position of college nurse will be taken over by Mrs. Helen Thill, R.N., of Livonia, at present on general duty at Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital, Detroit.

Three new courses have been added to the curriculum this semester. The English Senior Seminar, a required course for all English majors, aims to coordinate the works of a single author with his period and his specific genre and also to coordinate and organize the information acquired in various courses in English and American literature.

A new home economics course in home management will deal with the personal and family budget, time and energy management and the problems of the consumer. Added to the journalism offerings is a course in advertising principles and techniques based on the economic, psychological and moral factors of advertising. The three-day student retreat usually held at the college between semesters has been postponed this year until the opening days of Lent.

Out-of-towners must have wondered what was going on last Tuesday. Every parking meter was covered by a paper bag lettered "Free Parking."

Tuesday was officially designated "Free Parking Day" by the Town Council as a reward for going a year without a traffic accident.

"Traffic safety, like virtue, is its own reward," said Judge Cunningham as he proposed the motion. "But let's show our drivers we're proud of 'em!"

From where I sit, a little praise never hurts—in fact, that's why I talk in this column about the nice, fair-minded people I meet. Folks who live—and let live... who don't care whether you like beer or buttermilk at dinnertime. I say real neighbors never try to "park" their ideas on others!

Better Your Living

with Modern home improvements

Thursday, January 30, 1958 THE PLYMOUTH MAIL

Plymouth Lumber Opens Unique Sales Department

Mae Beitner, Manager of the new Hospitality Nook of Plymouth Lumber, extends a personal invitation to anyone interested in home improvement to take advantage of the many informative pamphlets available at the new department of Plymouth Lumber.

David Mather, President of Plymouth Lumber and Coal announced this week the opening of a new sales department designed to cater to the distaff side of the lumber trade. It has been given the rather fetching title of "The Hospitality Nook" and in it one can relax in a homey atmosphere and browse through the many booklets that are available for those interested in home improvement.

"The Hospitality Nook" has been constructed from the many types of building materials that are available at Plymouth Lumber and one may get a pretty fair idea of how the material would look in their own home. Mae Beitner, Plymouth Lumber's trained color consultant and decorator has issued a personal invitation to everyone to visit the new room and see just what can be done in the field of home improvement with care and planning.

Don't Forget Bedrooms In Improvement Plans

In the average home the bedroom seems to take a "back seat" when it comes to remodeling and improvement plans for the house.

A well-planned bedroom can double as a living room, sitting room, study or child's playroom according to family needs.

If you find your sleeping area confining and drab—an inexpensive fix-up trick can be accomplished with relaxing, new color schemes or wallpaper.

Floor-to-ceiling cabinets for wardrobe storage, particularly in a attractive panel-type finishes can give extra comfort plus extra convenience.

Add a restful chaise-louge, a contour chair or a reclining, relaxer-vibrator chair—and lo, here's a wondrous retreat for tired Moms and Dads.

A portable television set, particularly with a remote-control switch will give the folks an entertaining hideaway when the young fry take over in the living room.

Younger members of the family are entitled to privacy, too. And, converting a bedroom to versatile living space doesn't have to be a major task or expensive undertaking. Skillful planning can help provide study and hobby areas, room for music and books.

Here hard wearing, easy-to-care-for vinyl, plastic or rubber floor coverings are ideally suited to a young person's room. Pull-down fixtures for proper light, plenty of outlets for hobby tools, record players, etc. are vital, too.

That "spare" or guest bedroom need not stand idle. With new, comfy convertible sofas, fold-into-a-cabinet beds, and other modern sleeping conveniences—this room can serve full-time duty as a fun or busy room without the usual bedroom accoutrements.

And, for plus comfort for every member of the family consider these important extras—electric blanket, room air conditioner and dehumidifier, clock-radio and smart-looking lamps for before-sleep reading. What better way to start and end a busy day than in a cheerful, comfortable bedroom!

Wood is Versatile

Wood is probably man's most versatile material. Besides being used as lumber and for other wood products, it has been converted by chemical processes into paper, wall-board, rayon, X-ray and photographic film, toothbrush handles, shoe buckles, safety glass, fountain pens, buttons, washable wall shades, upholstery fabrics, explosives and thousands of other items.

Plan to Add a Room?
A good many home-buyers buying houses today are "space hoarders." This simply means that they buy a larger house than they need at first. The builder leaves one or more rooms unfinished—that is, studs, rafters and subflooring not covered with finishing materials.
The advantages are that buyers get a maximum amount of space at lowest initial cost, and it gives the home-owners time and opportunity to carry out their own ideas for interior finish.
Wood paneling is widely used today for such room finishing projects. It is chosen because it lends itself to distinctive room design and is relatively easy and inexpensive to install.

Dress-Up Home With New-Style Lighting Fixtures

Once a fixture was a garish, glaring object placed smack-dab in the middle of a ceiling.

But today, according to the American Home Lighting Institute, a fixture is a softly radiant, smartly styled home furnishing that is placed anywhere that light is needed—on walls and even in corners.

Fixtures are bigger than they once were, and they're more flexible, too. You can turn or adjust them to cast light just where you want it.

Perhaps the biggest change in the fixture picture is the use of more and more off-center locations. Instead of leaving room edges and corners in the shadows, home-makers are increasing the living space of rooms by putting fixtures in these areas.

Walls and windows are being lighted by fluorescent cornices and valances to push back the edges of the rooms, and to enhance the color, texture, and design of draperies.

Conversation corners, sideboards, and art objects are getting light of their own from off-center fixtures suspended above them.

Fixtures are changing from the static, fixed objects they once were to accessories that move about. A popular type is the pull-down fixture, that goes up and down by reel or spring action to provide the level of light needed.

New Ideas For Space, Comfort

A family room, more than any other feature, makes a house modern. It is the first major innovation in home planning since the old-fashioned parlor was dropped. In many newer homes, this activity center is pushing the more formal living room close to the status of a parlor.
Fortunately a family room is comparatively easy to add to almost any existing house. Sometimes a breezeway can be enclosed, or a back porch or garage converted for family relaxation, while a new patio or covered car-porch is economically built.
The location of a breezeway, porch or garage, near the kitchen is ideal for an informal recreation room. It gives a mother easy supervision over her children at play and the room is unseen from the front door and living room.

Time-Saver

Modern building materials, such as 4 by 8-foot panels of plywood, hardboard, insulation board and gypsum wallboard, save time and labor in the conversion of existing space. The Construction Research Bureau recommends conventional framing with 2-by-4s spaced 16 inches on centers. This not only meets building permit requirements for wall framing,

These fashions represent three different countries. They are, left to right: an afternoon suit and coat in black and white printed cotton by Lea Livoli of Italy; an Indian sari of red cotton mousseline; and a long formal by American designer Jane Derby in Hope Skillman Everglaze cotton slipper satin. The clothes were introduced to the fashion world in Venice, Italy, at a meeting of the International Federation of Cotton and Allied Textile Industries.

Cotton Knits Become Popular Fabric to Span the Seasons

Cotton, always a leader in the summer fashion parade, now sets the style pace the year around. Some cotton fabrics can be worn fall, winter, and spring.

Knits are the newest of the three-season cottons that are available in piece goods as well as ready-to-wear garments. Pattern companies are even offering special designs, including dress and coat ensembles as well as smartly tailored dresses, that can be made from these interesting new fabrics.

Because of their construction, cotton knitted fabrics do require special care in sewing so that the finished garment will hold its shape and wear well. Any slim dress or skirt should be lined with a firm but lightweight fabric. A fine broadcloth, lawn, or batiste may be used for the lining.

not necessarily recommended for beginning seamstresses. It's a good idea to begin with a fabric that is easy to handle. A firmly woven cotton is a good fabric choice for a novice. Percale, broadcloth, pique, and gingham in small prints or solid colors are examples of fabrics suitable for a first sewing project. A person learning to sew should start with a simple blouse or a plain skirt.

Here are other suggestions that will help an inexperienced seamstress achieve success from the beginning: While you may have a type of fabric in mind—or even a particular color or print design—your first step is to choose the pattern. For a minimum of alteration and fitting, determine your figure type and the correct pattern size for you. Figure types and sizes are explained in the front of the pattern book. Most pattern companies now suggest that you take both high chest and bust measurements into consideration when buying a pattern. Never buy patterns by dress size, as patterns are marked a size smaller than ready-to-wear items.

On the pattern envelope will be listed the type of fabric suitable for making the garment and the yardage required. Sewing notions you will need also will be listed on the envelope. To save time and trouble later, buy thread, seam tape, zippers, buttons, and trim when you purchase your fabric. Stores usually carry sewing notions such as thread and seam tape coordinated in color to the piece goods they have in stock.

Whether you are a beginner or an experienced seamstress, any sewing project you undertake will require wise planning and careful work if it is to be successful.

Check 'Bargains', Clearance Sales Before Buying

A bargain isn't a bargain unless it does the work it's supposed to do. With the traditional winter white sales and clearances in full swing, shoppers are advised to look twice before purchasing "bargain" material.

Homemakers should be especially careful in selecting household linens, according to laboratory technicians at American Institute of Laundering, research and educational center for the professional laundry industry. These textile experts offer the following tips in buying linens.

Watch for heavy sizing, which is a filler material used in loosely woven fabrics. Heavily sized items, especially sheets and pillow cases, have a good appearance when new. However, after laundering, the sizing is gone and the item becomes very limp.

To check for sizing, rub the fabric lightly. If a powdery substance appears, the article contains too much sizing.

Know the correct size so that the bedding will fit properly and there will be ample material for tucking. Correct size means more comfort as well as better wear.

For quality linens, look for threads that are evenly woven and of the same thickness. Check sheeting for firm, compact selvage edges and hems that are straight with an even stitching of from 12 to 14 stitches per inch.

In toweling, choose close, large, loosely twisted and thickly packed loops, which indicate that the towels will be absorbent and will give good service. In selvaige edges, check to see that each width yarn extends to the outside edge and passes around the length yarn. This construction assures the buyer that the towel will wear well.

The best measure of buying quality merchandise is the Certified Washable Seal of American Institute of Laundering. The Seal costs the homemaker nothing and is bound to save her money. It is awarded only to materials and garments that are laundry tested for shrinkage, colorfastness and general appearance.

If you have leftover cooked chicken, refrigerate it as soon as possible after the meal. Cover it to keep it from drying out and put gravy and stuffing in separate dishes. Use cooked chicken within three days.

Make your kitchen more convenient. Store things you use often where they are easy to see, to reach and get hold of.

To help a slim skirt hold its silhouette, the lining should be just a bit less in circumference than the garment. Baste a one-eighth inch deep tuck the length of each major skirt pattern piece cut out of the knitted fabric. When the lining and the garment have been joined, simply remove the basted tuck and sufficient added ease will exist.

In knitted garments, underarm and shoulder seams and waistlines should be reinforced with matching seam bindings. Use a slightly longer than usual stitch on a straight sewing machine. On an automatic zigzag sewing machine, use a small zigzag stitch. In this way, the seam will have the same "give" as the fabric and the sewing threads will not snap. If you follow these tips and others listed with your pattern instructions, your new knitted garments will have a professional look and will wear a long time.

This time of year you will also want to sew with velveteen, corduroy, canvas, denim, and other heavy-weight cottons in novelty weaves and textures. Success in sewing with corduroy or velveteen depends upon the proper method of cutting out the garment. Since these cotton fabrics are woven with a pile surface, they must be cut with each pattern piece placed in the same direction on the fabric. Otherwise, part of the finished garment will appear light in color, and the remainder will appear dark. Place the pattern pieces so that, when you rub your hand over the fabrics from the top of the pattern piece to the bottom, you brush the pile or tufts up—not down.

Diagrams for cutting are included with the pattern instructions. In the case of velveteen and corduroy, these instructions should be followed carefully. On the pattern envelope, you will notice that additional yardage is usually specified for pile fabrics.

Since fabrics such as velveteen, corduroy, and knits do present certain sewing problems, they are

Evening Sparkle—Here is a lovely, sparkling blouse which will be ideal for informal evening wear. Worn with even the simplest of skirts, it gives the wearer a feeling and appearance of glamour. Prepare Now for Arrival Of New Addition to Family

Nothing can compare with the happiness of a home that's expecting a baby. Babies however do cost money! So if you're going to be blessed with a visit from the stork, it's a good idea to get your family finances in shape for his arrival.

Just what does a new baby cost? And what's the best way of preparing financially to take care of him and his mother? Here are some facts, and a few words of advice, from the family-finance experts of the American Bankers Association.

How much or how little you spend will depend, of course, on such factors as the type and amount of medical care you want or need, and on your income. Generally speaking, however, basic mother-and-baby expenses come to about $325 for doctor bills and hospitalization. The cost of the layette depends on the number and selection of articles, and although you can spend up to $125 or more, the average figure is usually between $35 and $50.

Furnishing the nursery with crib, mattress, chest or chest-dresser and other equipment will cost up to about $150. As for food and upkeep during the first year, $10 or $20 a month should cover the cost of feeding your new baby on a formula, medical check-ups, within three days.

After adding up these costs, your next step is to determine what funds are available to meet them from such sources as your family savings account, U.S. Savings Bonds, and group hospitalization. Then, by comparing your estimated costs with the total of available funds, you will know how much more you will need by the time the baby arrives.

To make certain that there's the necessary cash, you should arrange either to start a special savings account or increase your deposits in your present account to meet the extra costs. And the easiest way to do this is to set up a simple "Stork Savings Schedule." Just divide the additional amount you will need by the number of months remaining before the baby's birth month, and start depositing that amount in your savings account regularly each month. Your new baby will make his debut definitely on the right side of the ledger!

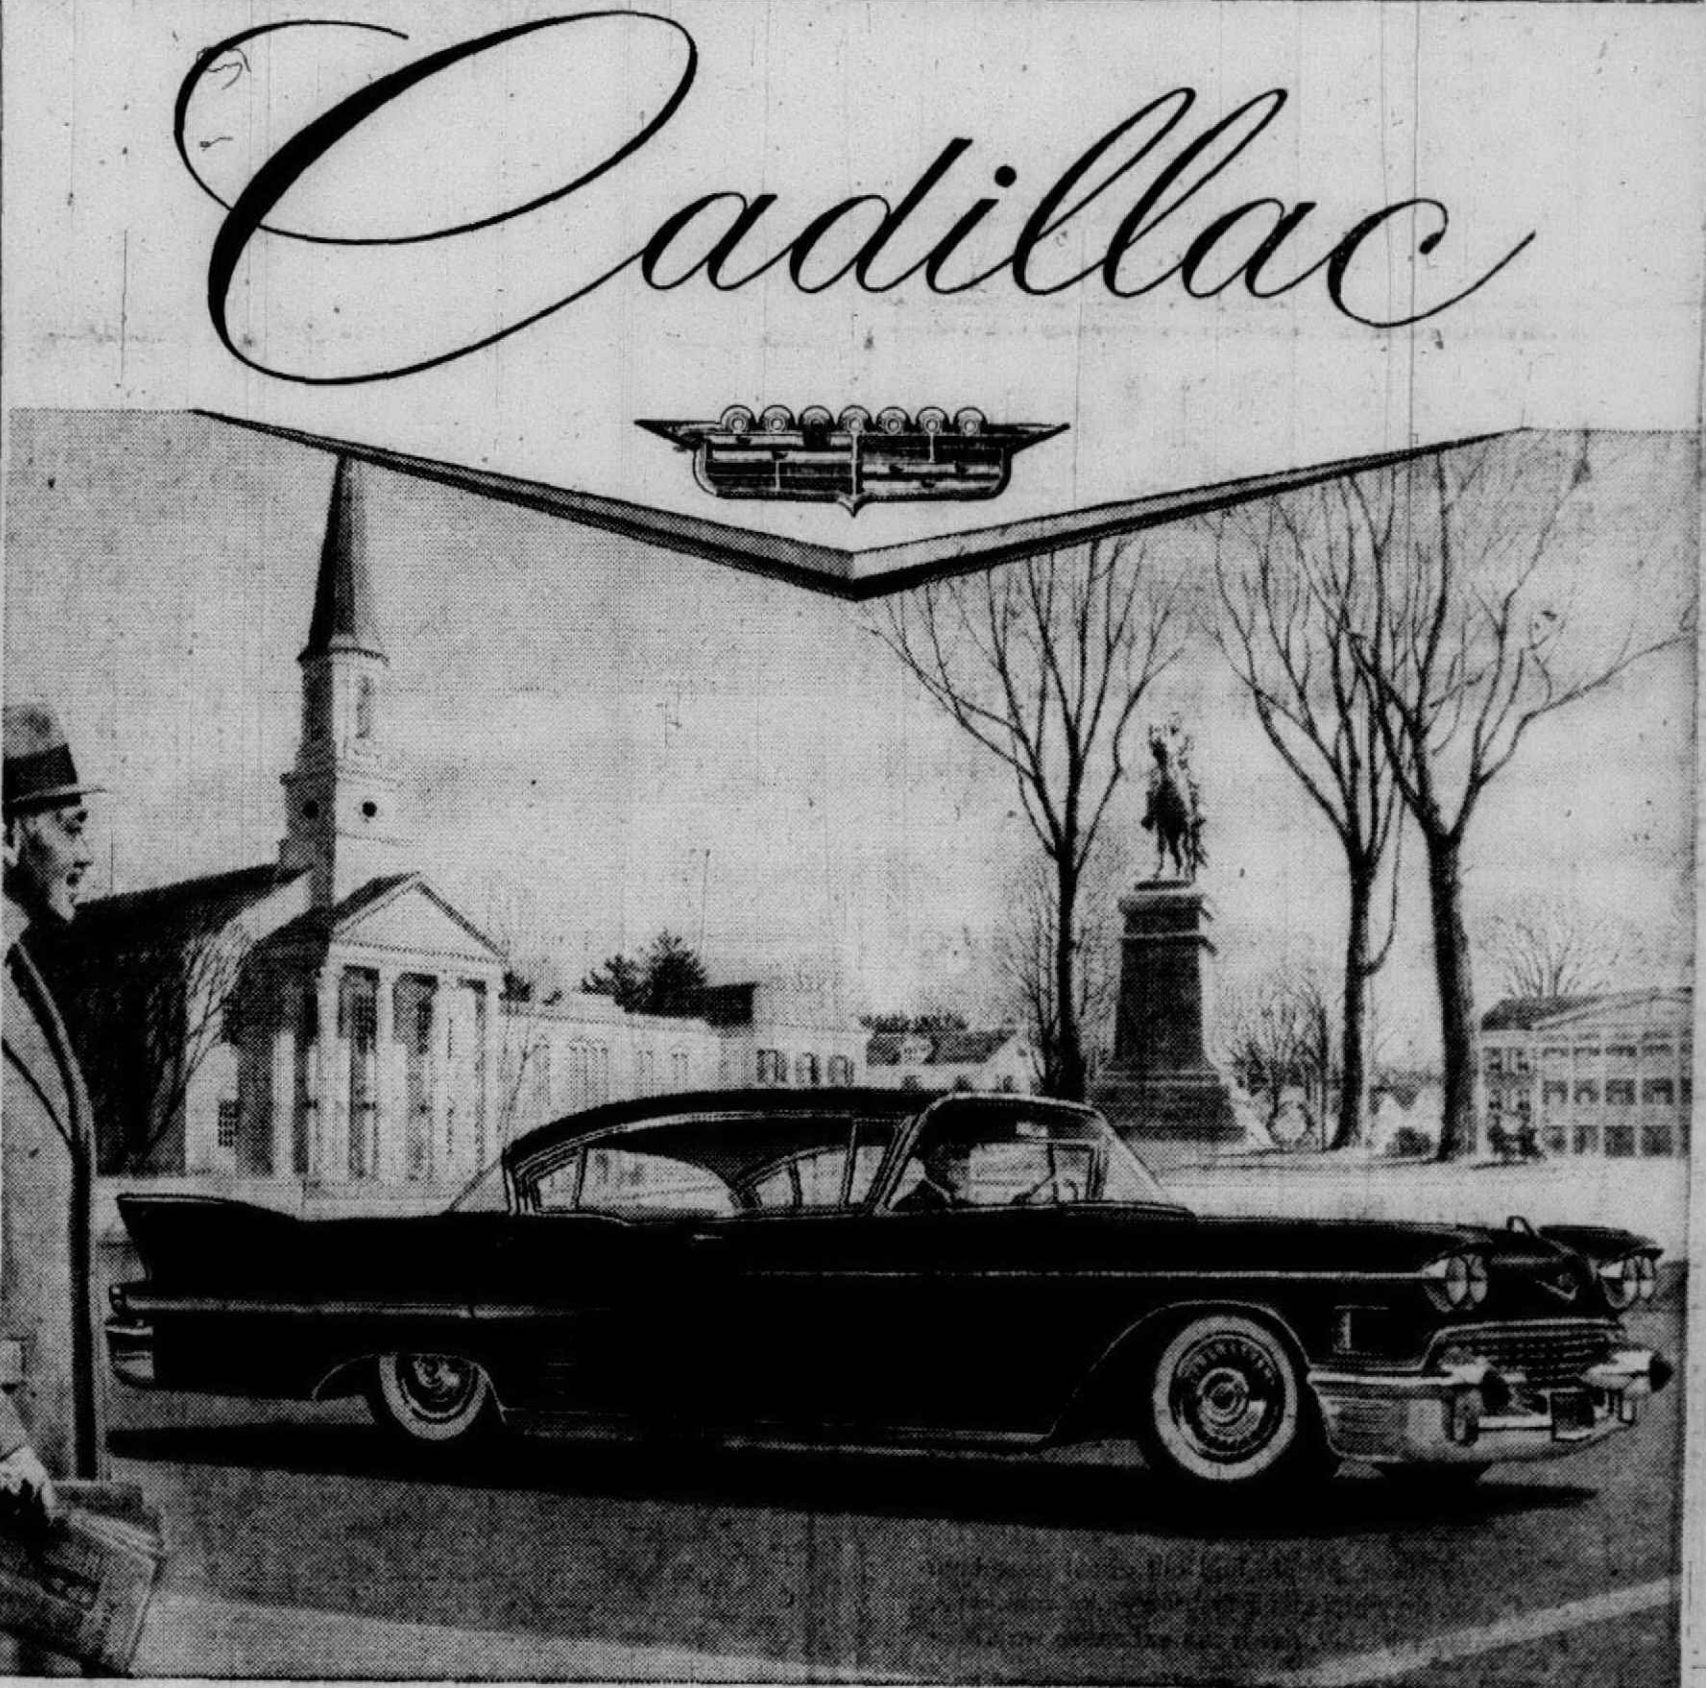

When you bring fresh chicken home from the market, remove the store wrap. Rewrap the chicken loosely in waxed paper so air can circulate. Keep chicken in coldest part of the refrigerator and use formula, medical check-ups, within three days.

Just an Old Fogey

(EDITOR'S NOTE: George Peck is President of the Laymen's National Committee, sponsor of National Sunday School and Bible weeks.)

BY GEORGE PECK

Many times I've been accused of being an old "fogey," that I'm still living in the good, old "horse-and-buggy" days, that the parade of progress has passed me by. And why? Because I still believe in the cardinal virtues that in times gone by contributed so much to the welfare, prosperity and happiness of the American people.

And now I'm again leading with my chin, in the full knowledge that once more I'll be bringing down on my balding head, a heap of recriminations from my "do-gooder" friends (?) who believe, or who prefer to believe, that government can and should do things for its citizens that they can and should do for themselves—the things which they formerly did and by so doing created the world's greatest civilization.

Russia has beaten us to the draw by launching Sputniks, number one and two. In the opinion of some of our bureaucrats at Washington, the answer to this challenge is to appropriate more tax-money for missile research and development, and to have the Federal Government give aid-to-education. They see in Russia's Sputniks an opportunity to trot out the so often spurned "Federal Aid to Education" and at long last foist it on the several States.

Their argument is that Russia is turning out more scientists than the U.S.A., and that it is necessary for the Federal Government to give aid to the States if we are to catch up and pass Russia in the "Production of Scientists Race." But this, in the humble opinion of this scribe, is not the answer to the problem. It ignores the basic reason not only for this nation's failure to turn out scientists, but experts in most of the other professions.

And that basic reason is "progressive education" which over the past two decades has blighted the nation's educational system—which has succeeded in practically eliminating personal responsibility, competition and initiative from the minds and hearts of our public school, high school and college students. The theory of "progressive education" is that all students must be given equal rewards for unequal performances—no student must be flunked because it would give him or her an inferiority complex for life.

Yes, I'm an old "fogey." I still believe as did my father and my grandfather that the primary purpose of education is to prepare the adolescent to fight the battle of life. Life is a struggle and if struggle is eliminated in the schools, how in the name of all that is holy, can our schools carry out their proper function of readying the student to cope with the struggle he must face as an adult?

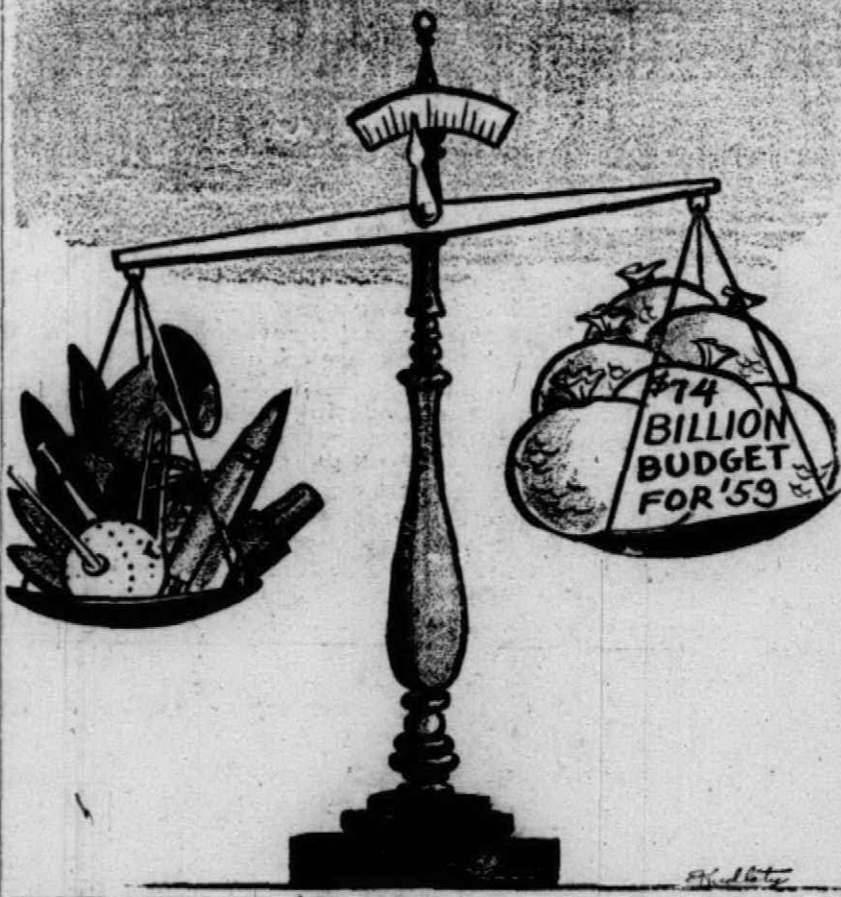

Our education system is sick—very sick. The Administration's scheme of appropriating money for helping the States bring forth more scientists would treat only the symptoms—not get at the root of the disease. It would fall short of the mark.

During the past several years I've talked with hundreds of employers, both large and small. Their experiences dovetail with my own. The chief concern of the young American high school or college graduate seeking employment (the product of "Progressive Education") is not an interest in the opportunities offered for advancement, but rather chiefly, if not exclusively, a concern as to the number of vacations with pay, sick leave, unemployment compensation, the number and length of coffee-breaks, and how soon he can be retired on pension. It doesn't enter his mind to find out just what his duties are to be and to figure how he can make his fair contribution to the success of his prospective employer's business.

In other words, the graduates of our schools today, have been transformed from self-reliant lovers of individual freedom, scorning interference with their personal and private affairs, to learners relying upon government largesse and acceptance of government dictation in each and every phase of their activities.

Yes, I'm an old fogey. I recall the time when the home and the school worked together to discipline the growing child that when he grew to manhood he was able to take his place in society as a constructive and productive citizen. "Progressive Education" has changed that and until we discard that debilitating system, no amount of money dished out by Federal Government is going to give this nation the scientists and experts needed to keep America strong and secure.

Will It Budge It?

"Life Begins at Forty"

By ROBERT PETERSON

IT DOES SOMETHING TO me in the pit of my stomach when I hear about a capable, experienced person who wants and needs a good job but is bypassed by personnel managers simply because he's in his 40's or 50's.

"Talk all you like about life beginning at 40," writes a disillusioned reader of 52, "but when you can't find a decent job and you're wondering how long you can hold out, life doesn't show very much promise."

He went on to say that he had worked for 20 years as a clerical supervisor in a chemical firm. Six months ago the firm merged with a large corporation and in the resulting reorganization he found himself out in the cold.

He told his wife not to worry because it would be a cinch finding another job. After all, he had excellent references and two decades of experience. So he set out bravely, going from company to company filling out application blanks and chatting amiably with personnel interviewers. "We'll call you when something comes up," they would tell him cheerily.

But they never called and as time passed he learned the painful truth that at 52 he was considerably beyond the age when most firms were interested in him.

THIS STORY IS OLD HAT in the Forty Plus Club, an organization which helps unemployed executives find jobs and which has branches in Buffalo, Chicago, Los Angeles, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, D.C., Boston, and San Francisco.

The other day I visited the New York office of this club and talked with the club president. I asked about the well-dressed, mature men milling around in the outer office. "Those," he said, "are just a handful of the executives past 40 who are currently at liberty."

"How come they're available?" I asked, bearing in mind the old saying that if a man is unemployed after 40 there must be something wrong with him.

"Some," he replied, "are victims of company mergers or of firms that have gone out of business or moved to other localities. Some of these men have already retired from military work or other jobs and want to go back to work. And some of them quit their former jobs because they didn't like the work they were doing, or for similar reasons.

"All of these are perfectly legitimate reasons for a man being unemployed after 40. But there is such an emphasis on youth today that experienced men have a difficult time getting relocated."

The Forty Plus Club serves only a tiny fraction of the mature unemployed, but it's doing a superb job. Business and industry have come to respect this organization because it's well known that if a man has been admitted to the club membership his references are impeccable and he has passed a battery of rigorous interviews and written tests which insure his mental alertness and fitness for an executive assignment.

If Your Name Is CHARLES

BY ANN REYNOLDS, PH.D.

Would you guess, Charles, that you have over three million name-sakes in this country? "Charles" is among the most popular names everywhere where English is spoken. Or German. To England it was brought by the Normans at the time of the Conquest. It did not catch on right away. Only in the last century did it become so widely used, in English speaking countries. In France and in Germany it was heard almost more often than any other name for more than one thousand years, mainly because of Charlemagne, or Charles the Great.

That king of the Franks was born of a family that had used the name "Charles" traditionally, and that's why the dynasty of which Charlemagne was the most important ruler goes by the name of "Carolingian." Crowned emperor on Christmas Day in 800 A.D., he ruled over lands extending eastward to the river Elbe, and westward to the Pyrenees and the Atlantic. He organized his empire after the pattern of the Romans, did much for education, and brought men of learning to his court, among them Alcuin, an Englishman. He also realized the importance of commerce, and kept up friendly relations with England and even such distant regions as the realm of the Arab caliph Harun al Rashid of legendary fame.

What is the meaning of the name "Charles"? It simply means "a man." It is of Old Germanic origin; the English form "Charles" having developed from the original "Karl" by way of the Latin "Carolus" and the French "Charles". Occasionally "Karl" is used also in these U.S., it is the modern German form "Karl" taken over in recent times. The word from which "Charles" evolved, gave rise to another modern German word besides the name "Karl". It's "Kerl", meaning "a man, a guy", mostly in a derogatory way. In English it has a counterpart, too, "churl". Little used today, it means "a rustic, surly sort of fellow."

(Want to know about other names? Is your name unusual? Write about it to Dr. Reynolds. Care of this newspaper.)

Johnson Backfire. For weeks, Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Democratic leader in the Senate, received tremendous publicity on his investigation into the "lag in missiles."

He paraded the highest brass from the Pentagon before his preparedness committee. Their testimony pointed to ill-planning of recent years—a direct reflection against the Republicans.

Well, before the investigation started, Johnson pledged there would be no politics played in the probe. Nevertheless, the senator's Democratic colleagues capitalized on the disparaging testimony and started lambasting the Republicans.

Then what happened? Evidence was produced that showed the missile slowdown was the fault of President Truman's administration.

Moreover, Republicans pointed out that Johnson's military "watchdog committee" had been in existence since 1948.

So, they're saying: "Johnson's watchdog committee failed to foresee the missile lag."

The senator's retort: "We must measure responsibility in terms of what is done for the future rather than what was done in the past..."

It looks like the military preparedness issue may not be as strong against the Republicans as was earlier expected.

Adams Goofs Again. Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams played right into the hands of his critics who have been snidely saying that he—and not Mr. Eisenhower—is running the White House.

This was in his Minneapolis speech when he condemned Democrats for failures in national security while at the very same time, Mr. Eisenhower was giving his Chicago audience not to make a political pawn out of security.

The speech showed up the stupendous authority Adams enjoys in the White House—an authority that permits him to publicly override the policy of the President of the United States.

The sensational "Polaris" missile, still undergoing preliminary tests, is said to be the hottest rocket so far produced by this country. The "Polaris" can be fired from beneath the surface of the ocean from submarines.

Atomic-powered subs, which now take more than three years to construct, will soon be built under an 18-month schedule.

You'll be hearing plenty about SAGE—a semi-automatic ground environment—in the months to come. It's a warning system designed to speed up detection of enemy aircraft.

SAGE will be operated from 36 secretly-located, specially-built buildings loaded with electronic computers. Circuits will connect these sites with special radar equipment and our air bases.

Should an intercontinental missile be heading this way, the computers would spot it almost instantly, and in a few seconds have all the information needed by our interceptors.

Congress has appropriated $30 million for this project.

Now that four members of Congress died within two weeks in January, there is talk Capitol Hill may soon procure a full-time standby ambulance. The latest victim, Rep. Lawrence Smith of Wisconsin, was stricken in the House restaurant and lay on the floor 18 minutes before an ambulance arrived from downtown. Had an ambulance been available 15 minutes sooner, some persons believe, Smith may have lived.

The U.S. Navy, the world's largest, has a strength greater than that of all other countries combined.

The Truth About Air Ride

-and why it's better

in a Buick

Every window of every Buick is SAFETY PLATE GLASS.

Most cars have always used horizontal leaf springs. Some use horizontal torsion bars. For 2 decades, Buick has used nothing but upright coil springs at all 4 wheels for better, softer cushioning. And to get the most out of these buoyant upright springs—to bring additional solidity, balance and stability to the ride—Buick developed a new kind of chassis. This exclusive Buick chassis has the rugged roadability of a massive X-braced frame and the true-tracking steadiness of Buick's Rotoflow Torque-Tube Drive. Developed and perfected by 20 years of experience with upright springs, Buick's Miracle Ride Chassis today turns out to be a "natural" for replacing upright coil springs with upright air springs. It's this exclusive chassis engineering experience that gives you in Buick the smoothest, most advanced, most experienced air ride* in the world.

THIS IS NOT THE PLACE TO WORRY ABOUT YOUR INSURANCE

Many of us have insurance programs which have sort of "grown" through the years without the supervision and direction of a professional insurance counselor. Such programs are composed of policies bought at various times and, maybe, "bargain" insurance with skimpy coverage that can risk the loss of thousands. Many people in these polyglot insurance positions, don't know for sure whether they are protected COMPLETELY and, sometimes, they are paying for double coverage of the same risk.

Some of these people find out about poor insurance when they have their first fire... or collision... or damage suit. But, this is the expensive way.

The sensible way is to call in a professional insurance counselor—a qualified local agent. Have him make an analysis of your insurance position. He will point out its flaws, if any, and very often will save you money in annual insurance costs. ALWAYS such analysis will bring you complete peace of mind.

We offer such service without obligation. As accredited agents of major insuring companies we have no "special" policies whose selling means an advantage for us—we are not "employees"—we are insurance buyers in your behalf. Our stock in trade is ETHICAL insurance at the proper price. We sell PROTECTION, not "bargains", because an important part of our service is being there to help you when you have a claim.

YOUR HANDWRITING TELLS YOUR STORY

With Grapho Analysis
BY JEAN EVANS

Dear Jean:
Would you please tell me what personality traits you read in my handwriting. I'm writing on my lap so you'll receive an honest specimen.

I'm very much interested in music, do you consider my study a waste of time? I intend to keep on studying regardless, but would like an objective opinion!
BEE THOVEN

Dear BEETHOVEN:

First of all, the natural way of writing is at a desk or table with enough space for the elbow to rest on the table. With this freedom the arm can move in an uncramped motion. However, if writing in your lap is your natural position then this analysis will be completely accurate.

There is rhythm in your writing and a bit of ability to interpret music. There is ability here if you will keep at it and not put off doing the necessary drill work and practice. You have a creative mind and also the facility of manual dexterity.

You are sensitive to criticism and are easily hurt by remarks of others. You are proud of what you do and hope to gain approval instead of criticism.

Dear Jean:

Will you please give an analysis for my son's Gerald and my handwriting — Gerald has his name on his. This is mine.

Dear R. T.:

You are a generous person who likes people and wants to help them. You usually pay close attention to detail and complete whatever you begin.

Gerald shows the ability to concentrate on the work at hand and also has a way of influencing others to his way of thinking, getting them to carry out his wishes or desires. This might be used to advantage in an executive position or perhaps in law enforcement or discipline. He has some ability along literary lines. This could be anything from writing reports fluently to writing fiction or non-fiction.

Dear Jean:

I have read so much about the wonderful work you are doing. I hope you can help me as much as you have others.

At work I like all people but don't seem to keep friends on friendly terms very long. Can you tell me what is wrong?
MRS. L. V. T.

Dear MRS. L. V. T.:

There is evidence here that you are sarcastic, outspoken and have a vivid imagination. You must remember that when you repeat something you have heard in a way other than it was spoken, people will lose confidence in your honesty. They will think that you elaborate on everything they tell you. You can correct this if you really want to. You can carefully weigh anything before you repeat it and make sure it is exactly what you heard originally.

Dear Jean:

Can you tell from my handwriting what is wrong with my personality?
W. C.

College Students Getting Smarter, Study Reveals

MADISON, Wis. (UP) — The average college student entering the University of Wisconsin now is "sharper" than the average student who entered in 1930, according to a study made here recently.

Dr. J. Kenneth Little, director of institutional studies at the university, said scholastic achievement of present college freshmen is higher than in 1930.

Little said the percentage of entering freshmen who had ranked in the top quarter of their high school classes was 45 per cent in 1930 and 56 per cent in 1956. There has been a continual decline since 1930 of students who graduated in the bottom half of their high school graduating classes, he added.

The Post's next business meeting is Wednesday, February 5, 8 p.m. at the Veterans Community Center. Americanism Chairman Robert Wilson, has taken the information to the schools regarding the Oratorical Contest. The local contest is in February, date to be announced later. The district contest will also be in February, Zone Contest, March 7, and the State Contest, March 14, at Southeastern Junior High School, Battle Creek at 8:00 p.m. More information will be given out at a later date.

The Junior's next meeting will be Wednesday, February 5, 46801 Joy road. (Gwen Holcombe's home). In December they delivered Tropical Fish to their adopted ward at V.A. hospital, Ann Arbor and 33 New Year's cards were also sent to them. Remember they are still collecting hose and used cards contact Mrs. Holcombe, phone 1759-M, on this project.

The Auxiliary is planning to have initiation on February 13, Dorothy Knapp announces, as this is one of the programs for the Americanism chairman. The next business meeting is Thursday, February 27, 8 p.m. at the Veterans Community Center. Adah Langmaid, National security chairman of Passage-Gayde Unit 391, reported at our last meeting. "That more efficient management of manpower in the armed service is urgently needed to strengthen our national defense against the threat of rocket-busting Russia." Adoption by Congress of a new pay plan to help keep highly trained specialists in the services is being advocated by the Auxiliary; she stated. A high degree of training and skill is required to handle modern weapons. Without the men who know how to use them the most modern weapons would be useless in event of attack. The armed forces are constantly losing men of high value to the national defense because civilian jobs are more attractive than a career in the services. A modern pay plan to pay people what their services are actually worth is needed to go with modern weapons. A pay plan that would encourage and reward outstanding performance in the armed forces and attract high quality personnel into military careers has been drafted by the Commander Committee and has been widely discussed. It would give our country a greater degree of security for less money by substituting quality for quantity in our defensive forces.

The next 17th District meeting is Friday, February 7 at the Lloyd H. Green Post Home in Northville at 8:30 p.m. The American Legion's annual "For God and Country" telecast, which this year will feature the spiritual motivation of the four Chaplains of the United States Army—Rabbi Alexander D. Goode, the Reverend George L. Fox, the Reverend Clark V. Poling, and the Reverend John P. Washington—who, on February 3, 1943, heroically sacrificed their lives in the sinking of the torpedoed troopship Dorchester by giving their own life jackets to four American soldiers. Commander Gleason will memorialize this inspiring event by designating February 2 to 9 as "Religious Emphasis Week." During this period all members of the American Legion are urged to dedicate and to rededicate themselves toward the development of religious and moral ideals and to reaffirm their faith and belief in the worship of God and to encourage participation by their families and neighbors in the services of the religion of their choice. The telecast will be aired by the American Broadcasting Company from 8 to 8:40 p.m. EST, Saturday, February 1st.

The Great Rectangle and What Became of It

By Karl Starkweather

Foreword

From time to time, and throughout the years, there have been published various notes and stories concerning the history and folklore of Plymouth. Not all of them have been entirely correct in fact. But this is to cast reflections in the direction of no one. Loose statements and wrong implications seem sometimes unavoidable. Throughout all the years of Plymouth's early history it would seem that no one ever took the trouble to systematically record the things which were going on. The community of course had no newspaper, and the skimpy Detroit news sheets of the period had no local correspondent.

Certain bits of previously published Plymouth history were based on incomplete information, or on information obtained from previously made reports which in themselves may not have been free from error, or again from respected elder citizens whose memories were not always infallible. After painstaking research an attempt is now made to chronicle—not a complete history of Plymouth—but merely some of the facts having to do with its founding, and along with some details concerning what will now, for the first time, be referred to as The Great Rectangle. In this the author has been greatly assisted by George K. Heartwell, vice-president of the Burton Abstract and Title Company, Detroit.

All this has been done in correlation with the first settler family to actually locate and begin housekeeping within its borders. This family consisted of William Starkweather, his spouse who had been born Kezia Benjamin, and their first born child, Albert Oscar.

When William Starkweather in the year of 1825 brought his family to northwestern Wayne county's wilderness the entire region was nameless. It was only five years earlier that the territory had even been surveyed. It was in 1820 that a system of surveys had been set up by which two straight lines were drawn across the territory in opposing directions. The north and south line was called, and is still called, the Principle Meridian. The east to west line was and is referred to as the Base Line. From these two lines the federal government laid out the territory into counties, the counties into townships, and the townships into sections.

Wayne county townships were laid out in the same year—1820. These townships, after having been surveyed, chartered, and geographically established, geographically still bore no names. They were identified only by the land department's technical description—like Town One South, Range Eight East, District of Detroit, M. T.—for what was destined to become Plymouth township.

All these townships, of course, were totally uninhabited. The only life in the entire region was that of the primeval forest. There were wolves, bears, deer, wild turkeys and the smaller wild game and animals—but no humans. To be sure, the area was known to the Potawatomi Indians, but they were never known to have established any permanent village here.

Soon after the government had finished charting the area into townships, it was thrown open for settlement. But for five whole years no settlers came. Then sometime in February, 1825, Connecticut-born William Starkweather arrived in Detroit. Detroit was then a village of between two and three thousand inhabitants.

Accompanying Starkweather was his spouse, Kezia Benjamin, and their toddler son, Albert Oscar. Temporarily leaving the family in Detroit, and in company with a few others with like objectives in view, he set out on foot for points west. The party was equipped only with rifles and the barest of necessities.

The journey was purposefully made in wintertime. Since the undrained bogs and marshes were frozen, it made the going easier. And it is recorded too that the winter of 1824 and '25 was an unusually open one. The walking party finally reached a point where now stands the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth. The men had reached the spot sometime in advance of two other men who had left Detroit at the same time on horseback.

George Anson Starkweather, second son of William and Kezia, and who was Plymouth's first born child, once told the story about the one which had been told to him. It was said that when the party arrived at the point just described, his father suddenly faced about and exclaimed: "This spot is good enough for me—I go no further."

And that was it. After taking note of his bearings, William hurried back to his wife and child in Detroit. At the United States Land Office which had opened up there, he purchased a quarter-section of wilderness land as a homestead.

Back in Detroit William evidently did a bit of pondering. Should he—or should he not—take on more than the 160 acres which he had just purchased? After waiting three days to decide, he went again to the land office, took another look at the plat book and forthwith added 80 acres more to his new home in the wilderness.

Next, he organized his family, gathered up various necessary tools and equipment, and together they then laboriously trekked their way to the area which was to become their home for the remainder of their years. It is not known how the trip was made, but presumably it was accomplished with a rough cart or wagon and a yoke of oxen.

These 240 acres which William Starkweather had now purchased, although composed of two separate parcels, comprised one single rectangle of land. The quarter-section was in Section 26 of the township, while the extra 80 acres was in Section 27. The price paid was $1.25 per acre, or $300.00 for the whole. The date of this claim and the beginning of his homestead is still recorded in Washington as of March 11, 1825.

This land, the original Starkweather homestead, now comprises the very heart of the present city of Plymouth. (In fact, it comprises much more than that.) From this point on, the original Starkweather homestead—this 240 acres—will for the most part be referred to as The Great Rectangle.

Approximately stated, the original Starkweather tract—the Great Rectangle—is bounded on the north by Elm and Mill streets, Church street, and then on a line continuing directly east to the Bathey Manufacturing Company plant on Mill street, then on the south by a line drawn from the intersection of Elm and Mill streets straight west to Sheldon road, then on the west by Sheldon road, and finally on the east by Mill street.

The present Masonic Temple marks almost the exact center of this entire rectangle. Put in another way, and using the Masonic Temple as a center, the area would extend 2,000 feet east, 2,000 feet west, 1,500 feet north, and 1,500 to the south.

Roswell Root

Now let us go back, for a moment, to that party of pioneers who came on foot from Detroit. What became of those others who were with Starkweather on his day of reconnaissance is not clear. Their names are no longer known. It's possible that some may have gone on into the next county.

Some may have lost heart and returned east. They did go their several ways, however, and none stayed longer with Starkweather, nor so far as known returned with him to Detroit. That is, with one possible exception.

This one exception is believed to have been Roswell Root. He continued four miles farther west, in the direction of Ann Arbor, or to Section 31 which is the very southwestern section in the township. It was there that he found land that pleased him. It was there that in two separate parcels, he purchased 120 acres of land. And now, 132 years later, some of his descendants still proudly occupy a large portion of the original homestead.

A Wilderness Night

Following the arrival of the William Starkweather family, there was no place for them to go. There was not even an abandoned Indian hut for shelter. The weather was good, however, and spring was peering in to peep around the corner. They slept that first night on open ground.

The spot where they established their camp is now the site of the Hotel Mayflower. Their only protection that first night was a huge oak tree—with fires built all 'round.

These fires were not only for warmth—but to keep away the howling wolves. These ravenous animals feared fire. Sleep of necessity that first night could not have been too sound. At intervals throughout that night someone had to add wood to the otherwise dying embers. Incidentally, to build a new fire in those days was often an extremely difficult task. The friction match had not yet been invented. At the side of the sleepers stood the trusty musket—dry and ready.

Activity began again at daybreak. During the day a bark shelter was hastily put together. This served as temporary protection until the more substantial log cabin could gradually be constructed. The story has frequently been told here that Albert Oscar had first been placed next to the wall of bark, but after a time some of the bark began to dry out or fall off. This left open crevices. Then, in fear that the wolves' fangs might reach in to do harm to the little one, the bed was moved to the center of the shelter.

First Housekeepers

When William came to the region which was to become Plymouth his purpose, of course, was not to found a new community. His only thought was to move westward from the rapidly congesting east and to settle where land was fertile, plentiful and cheap.

Whereas two of his older brothers had become lawyers, and a younger brother was destined to become a member of Congress and then later to become United States minister to Chile, he himself chose the good earth. He had been a farmer before and he wanted to continue in this vocation in his new home.

By virtue of the fact, however, that William Starkweather and family constituted the first family unit to set up housekeeping within the entire Plymouth area, and the fact too that what he later did was the direct cause for the growth and expansion of the old Plymouth village, he can truly be regarded as the founder of Plymouth.

To be sure, there were other arrivals within the township during the same year. The entire area filled up in a hurry. But these others were adventurers, single men, or young married men who had left their families in the east while the adult male member went on beforehand to investigate. Many of them, of course, selected and established homesteads and then went back for their families.

But it was William Starkweather and his wife who had come first of all. Indeed, in testimony of this fact a bronze plaque has for many years been affixed to the outer wall of the Mayflower Hotel. It can be seen by all who stop to look.

William Starkweather too could have easily left his family in the safely sheltered east, but this he did not choose to do. Nor did his spouse so desire. They all came together and all stayed. None ever returned to their nativity. Kezia herself had been Vermont born, but eventually had become a Connecticut school teacher. The fathers of both William and Kezia, incidentally, had been soldiers in the Revolutionary War.

New Neighbors Arrive

The Starkweather family soon had neighbors. But at first these were few and far between. Their first neighbor was Luther Lincoln, who lived a mile away, just outside the present easterly city limits on Plymouth road.

The first break-up of the Troop 3 sponsored a junior high dance on January 24 to help finance a trip next spring. The leader is Mrs. William Edgar.

Girl Scout troop 20 and their leaders enjoyed a skating party at Wilcox Lake on January 15. They had refreshments at Starkweather school afterward.

original Starkweather homestead occurred three years later—in 1828. William then sold four acres to one John Beedon. The present Plymouth post office, incidentally, is located on a small portion of this piece of land.

Just who this John Beedon was, or where he came from, or what he would want with only four acres in western Wayne county in 1828, has not been ascertained. One conjecture, however, is that he might have been a hewer. The term "hewer" in those days was the term used to designate or describe a skilled woodcutter. He was a man skilled in the art of using axe and adz. It was a good American trade in the early days and a very necessary one.

Throughout the early years of Plymouth's history the better homes and barns were usually made with a framework of heavy hand-hewn oak timbers, the timbers in turn being joined together with wooden pegs. The term "better homes" in this instance is used in comparison with the log cabins.

During the first thirty-five years of Plymouth's existence, a local hewer could have kept himself occupied full time—winter and summer. Local timber of all kinds was close at hand and it was exceedingly plentiful.

Had John Beedon been a hewer, or a shoemaker, or had he followed some other necessary trade of that period, then it could be understood why he would want only four acres in Plymouth's history. At any rate, when William Starkweather sold John Beedon four acres of land, and right in the heart of present day downtown Plymouth, he—Starkweather—became Plymouth's first subdivider. And as Starkweather had paid only $5 for the acres in the first place, and then sold it for $16.00, he undoubtedly considered that he had made a fine profit.

After Beedon and his wife had established themselves on their four acres, the Starkweathers then did have near neighbors. The Beedons occupied the place for some seven years; after which time the property was transferred intact to a new comer, who was Benjamin G. Barker. Barker became one of Plymouth's outstanding citizens and continued to own the property until the time of his death in 1856. The 1856, incidentally marks the date of the first of Plymouth's two great fires. The later one occurred in 1893. But those are other stories.
