Watchmen Lock Up for Good As Flashers, Gates Operate

By Jim Sponseller

It's all part of this thing called progress, we suppose, but it is always difficult to watch the ways of another era bow out.

One such bit of drama was seen in Plymouth Tuesday when at 4 p.m. a watchman at the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad crossing at Starkweather Ave. hung up his red flag and danger signpost. His little shack at the side of the crossing was locked up. Into operation went bright new flashers and gates, both at the Starkweather and Mill St. crossings. Flashers had been guarding the Mill St. crossing from the middle of the street, but watchmen have been on duty at the Starkweather crossing for 30 years or longer.

Five men hold down the watchman's job at the crossing. Last to step out to the middle of the street Tuesday afternoon to halt traffic was Elza Baker, 797 Holbrook, a former C&O fireman and the senior member of the group. He has held the job 13 years.

Elza had several friends sitting with him Tuesday watching the workmen completing the flasher and gate erection. The posts had been put in last fall but not until Tuesday was the job finished. Because some motorists may think the flashers or gates are in operation and therefore may not pay attention to a watchman, the railroad likes to put on the flasher units and gates all in one day.

Baker expects to move on to a tower job with the C & O in Lansing, but the other four will probably retire. They are Erwin "Cappy" Wright, 11 years on the job, Fred Green, three years, and Clifford Roadman, 11 years. Adam Bush, 774 Starkweather, was also a watchman but has been off the job several months due to illness.

A big padlock has been placed on the old shanty door. The building will probably be hauled away and destroyed. A block away at the Mill St. crossing, motorists still swerve to the right while going over the crossing, for right in the middle of the street for many years have stood island flashers. They were removed Tuesday.

Many cars have tried moving the concrete buttresses surrounding the flashers and lots of blood has been lost. But no one has succeeded in budging them.

Because of this danger, it was decided to replace the flasher units with modern ones and gates at the sides of the street.

Installation of the flashers at the two crossings doesn't come cheap. Together, they cost $30,000, half of which is paid by the railroad, the other half by the city of Plymouth. It also costs a city $500 yearly for maintenance. A petition was submitted to the city commission several years ago to have flashers put in at the Farmer and Starkweather crossings.

Because the Farmer St. crossing is so close to the railroad's switching yards, the railroad and the state have not recommended flashers and gates (gates must be provided where there are multiple tracks) because gates would be down much of the time. This problem, however, is still under study since train-car accidents still happen there frequently.

As for the Starkweather crossing — well, some felt that the watchman waving the lantern at night wasn't as good as the modern flashers and gates. The watchman can be on only one side of the train at once, they say.

So that's about all to the story — unless you want to recall the rainy, freezing and snowy nights and days, and holidays, that this small group of older citizens have stood guard at the crossing.

They have been replaced by two ringing, blinking, one-armed sentinels, but many Plymouthites will store the memory of them away with other pieces of yesteryear.

MODERN FLASHERS and gates took over the guard duties at Starkweather Ave. and Mill St. railroad crossings Tuesday afternoon. As workmen put up the flashers, Elza Baker, senior member of the crew of watchmen, strolled over from his shanty to get a look at the mechanism that replaces him and four others. Old style flashers in the middle of Mill St. were removed.

A method of routing trucks to and from the new Western Electric Co. plant so that it will not be necessary to use Farmer St. appears to be the solution city commissioners will use to solve the knotty problem which has now brought on petitions from several hundred members of a "Farmer St. Citizens Committee."

One petition signed by 377 residents living within a block of Farmer St. and another signed by 65 residents with property on Farmer St. were submitted to the commission Monday night. Both asked that Farmer St. not be used for through commercial traffic.

But a few minutes later on the agenda, City Manager Albert Glassford was able to report that he had attended a meeting with the Wayne County Road Commission which resulted in a plan to pave Sheldon Rd. from the C & O Railroad to Ann Arbor Trail.

This would mean that trucks from Western Electric could use either Penniman Avenue or Ann Arbor Trail to reach trunklines.

The Farmer St.-Western Electric problem arose last fall when the Wayne County Road Commission informed the company that it could not use Sheldon Rd. for its heavy trucks because Sheldon was not a Class A road.

City commissioners then started studying the problem and looked at a long list of possible routes through the city. Since they wanted to pave Farmer St. for many years anyway, they decided that they would "kill two birds with one stone."

Then residents living near the Farmer St. route began attending commission meetings to register their complaints. For the past month, the commission had no further discussion. Then last Friday morning, City Manager Glassford and S. L. Besse, planning engineering supervisor, went to Detroit to meet with Road Commission engineers.

The engineers said they would recommend to the Road Commission board that Sheldon Rd. be repaved for heavy traffic from the railroad to Ann Arbor Trail. The pavement would be 22 feet except at the Penniman and Ann Arbor Trail intersections where it would flair into four lanes.

Total cost of the project, the engineers estimated, would be $85,000. Eighty-four percent of the road is in the city and 16 percent in Plymouth Township. The county would pay the township's share. Since it is a county road, they will share the remainder of the cost with the city, 50-50. This would leave the city $35,700.

The city could pay 25 percent of this amount upon signing of the contract, another 25 percent at completion of the job and the remaining 50 percent a year later.

Commissioners felt that this was the best plan offered yet. To pave Farmer St. for truck use would have cost $145,800.

They authorized the city manager to obtain a form of agreement from the Road Commission and to secure plans before any contract is signed.

County engineers must also submit their proposal to their bosses, the Road Commission board. Similar proposals, however, have been approved with other communities.

Should the truck routing down Ann Arbor Trail or Penniman become a reality, there will be a lot of happy citizens. Commissioners early in the meeting read a two-page letter from the Citizens Committee accompanying 12 pages of signatures which asked that Farmer St. be closed to through commercial traffic.

The 377 signers of the first petition live within a block north and south of Farmer Street. They pointed out that groups

Schedule Harlem Magicians Game Here This Month

There's been a lot of serious basketball played at Plymouth High school this season but on Wednesday, March 26 there will be a game that is so rollicking that those connected with it can't truthfully call it basketball.

The Plymouth Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the Harlem Magicians and the Boston Shamrocks in an exhibition game that is called "Circus Basketball." It is expected to draw a large crowd.

Those familiar with this type of basketball know the name of Marquis Haynes, former basketball clown of the Harlem Globetrotters. Two years ago he formed the Magicians from the best of Globetrotter talent.

So far the Magicians have played before a million fans in the U.S., Canada and Mexico. They also have been on the Ed Sullivan Show and other TV network presentations.

Held in the high school gym, the basketball circus will have a vaudeville half-time show. Profits from the game are used by the Jaycees for their many youth activities.

Tickets are available for $1.50 for adults and $1 for children under 12. They are on sale at Davis & Lent, Blunk's and Parkview Recreation. Bill Stockton is chairman of the affair.

IN BEHALF of the city of Plymouth, Mayor Harold Guenther, left, last Sunday accepted the new colonial unit of the Dunning-Hough Library from Cass Hough who was representing his father, Edward C. Hough. A key to the building was turned over to the city. Later, Mayor Guenther turned the library facilities over to the Wayne County Library board. The building itself remains in possession of the city. Support for operating the library comes from the Township and City of Plymouth, Canton Township and Livonia.

Hundreds Tour, Admire Library

Over 200 people attended ceremonies Sunday afternoon dedicating the Dunning-Hough Branch of the Wayne County Public Library and afterwards inspected the building—with admiration.

The crowd filled all available space in the main reading room and over half a hundred stood throughout the program which began at 2 o'clock.

Former Mayor Russell M. Daane served as master of ceremonies and opened the dedicatory program by introducing Rev. Patrick J. Clifford of Calvary Baptist Church, who led the invocation.

Attorney Perry Richwine then read a letter from Miss Margaret Dunning, who with her mother donated the original building and site 11 years ago. Miss Dunning could not be present. In her letter, she expressed the hope that "as in the past the library will continue to expand and serve the people."

The honored guest of the day, Edward C. Hough, could not be present. He had injured his foot in a fall last week. Reading a message from his father was Cass Hough, executive vice-president of Daisy Manufacturing.

The senior Hough's statement emphasized that "the library's use in the community cannot be over-estimated because it is a storehouse of knowledge accumulated through the ages."

Mr. Hough continued: "Perhaps some budding genius will get his inspiration here and reflect great credit on our entire community. My sister and I have lived in this community our entire lifetime and have always felt deeply indebted to our neighbors for their many kindnesses to us."

His sister was the late Mary Hough Kimble, who with Mr. Hough, formed a foundation which donated $135,000 toward the library's completion.

Mayor Harold E. Guenther accepted the building keys from Cass Hough on behalf of the city of Plymouth. He said, "I know this library will make a great contribution to our city in the years to come."

Guenther then turned the library keys over to Alvin M. Lebedeff, chairman, Wayne County Public Library Board by saying, "I am grateful and relieved to place our library in the hands of such a trustworthy organization as the Wayne County Public Library Board."

Lebedeff accepted the keys and noted that Plymouth's new library is "the biggest and best of comparable libraries in similar cities."

Easter Seals Going Into 4,000 Homes

Plymouth city and township householders are this week receiving envelopes containing their 1958 Easter Seals through which services and aid for crippled children and adults across the nation are sustained.

The Plymouth Rotary Club is again sponsoring the local Easter Seal drive. Chairman by Lawrence Lyons, the Crippled Childrens Committee has sent out envelopes containing the seals, a letter explaining the donation.

Conducting the Easter Seal campaign in this area is the Easter Seal Society of Western Wayne County. It joins over 1,600 other affiliates of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults in the annual appeal which opens today, March 6, and ends April 6.

Besides the Easter Seals, the Rotary Club will distribute coin cards and canisters to business places and schools. There will also be a Lily Parade sponsored by the Rotary Anns, a group formed of wives of present and past Rotarians.

The appeal to help crippled children has much more meaning than is indicated. The Easter Seal Center does not only help children, but also many adults. And the children and adults are crippled in many ways by many diseases.

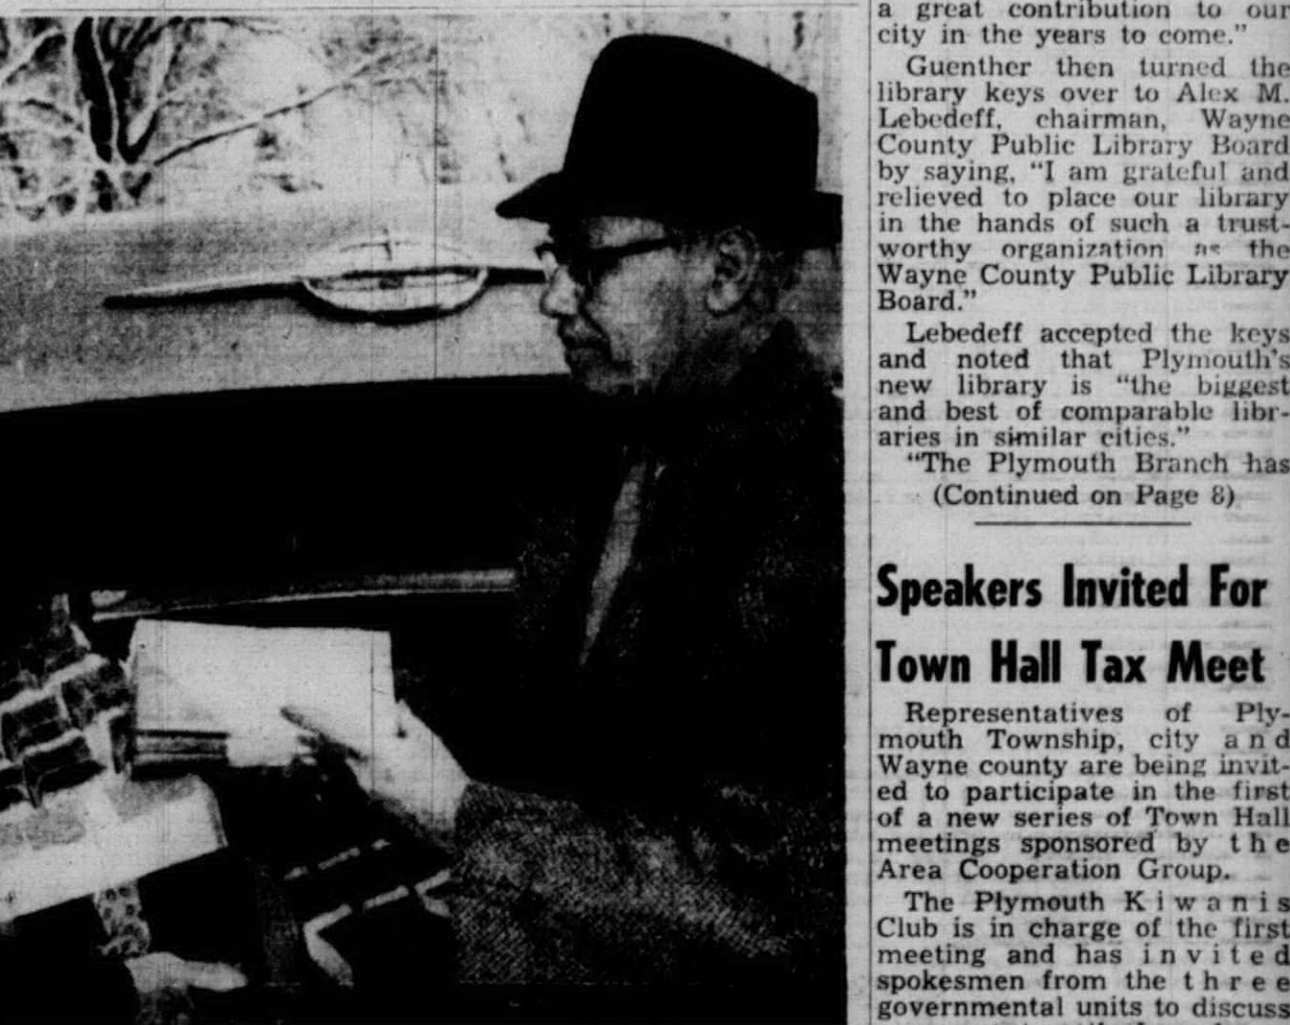

Last year the nation's Easter Seal Societies helped 132,392 children and 26,114 adults along the road to rehabilitation.

Plymouth area residents have long played a big part in the crippled children work. The Kiwanis Club donated its Girl Scout Lodge each summer for meetings and day camp activities of out-county children and adults. Mrs. Herma Taylor of Plymouth was executive secretary of the Out-County chapter of the Out-County chapter for many years until she joined her husband in Scotland last December.

Two Plymouthites now serve on the society's board of directors, Miss Neva Lovell and Martin Kirchhoff. Mayor Harold Guenther was until recently on the board.

Rotarians were very active in raising funds for the new rehabilitation center in Ink-

NEARLY 4,000 envelopes containing Easter Seals went into the mail this week to Plymouth city and township householders. Lawrence Lyons, left, is chairman of the Rotary Club's crippled children's committee in charge of mailing the seals. Eldred Huff, also a committee member, helped take the envelopes to the post office.

Is One Junior High Enough?

Educationally, What's Ahead?

(Sixth in a series written by the School Facilities Committee prior to issuing a survey questionnaire relative to educational needs for the next five years)

In September 1957 the Plymouth Community School District opened a new secondary unit — the Plymouth Community Junior High School. The school has hardly lost its shiny luster of newness when enrollment problems of the future have reared their omnipresent "heads." In brief, the School Facilities committee consulted with William Harding, principal of the junior high school and a member of the committee, for material relative to enrollment conditions, present and future, for our junior high age group.

The Plymouth Community Junior High School is composed of 34 teaching stations. The gymnasium contains two of these stations. The desired class size for the junior high age level is 30 pupils per home room and taking this number into consideration our school is able to house 1,020 students.

It is important that class size be kept at a maximum of 30 in the junior high for the following reasons:

1. With the block-type system of scheduling in use in the building it is important that departments such as shop, home economics, art and music are not overloaded. Thus, a two-room unit housing 60 students can be scheduled. It is the school philosophy that every period of every day each child is exploring some part of our curriculum. There are no study halls and thus the block system of scheduling cannot include oversized or undersized classes and be workable.
2. Since we do not attempt to segregate classes on the basis of IQ or aptitudes each class of 30 pupils is composed of diverse student elements. A maximum of 30 students of such varied abilities and interests is a challenge to any teacher.

3. The junior high age group covers only a 3 year span of time, but this particular group has great need for individual attention from the teacher. Since this is the child's initial step into secondary education, it is important that he adjust to it under optimum conditions.

Let's look now at present enrollment figures and see how the 32 teaching stations, exclusive of the gymnasium, and present class load fit into the total picture.

Present Junior High School Population
Sixth Grade	200 students	6 homerooms
Seventh Grade	351 students	12 homerooms
Eighth Grade	301 students	10 homerooms
Special Ed.	7 students	1 homeroom

At present, our building has 3 empty classrooms. Next school year (1958-1959) the school census shows that we must plan for the following:

Seventh Grade	360 students	12 homerooms
Eighth Grade	360 students	12 homerooms
Special Ed.	7-12 students	1 homeroom

This total of 25 homeroom stations leaves 7 teaching stations still available for student placement by the Board of Education for 6th or 9th grade classes.

However, we must keep in mind the school census for 1959-1960 indicates we will need to absorb more classrooms for 7th and 8th grades than we need this year or

Total - 25 homeroom stations next year. Present 5th grade enrollment total 383 students. This will make our 7th grade class in 1959 approximately 420 or more. The homeroom situation for the year 1959-1960 would appear to shape up in this manner: Special Ed. 1 room. Seventh Grade 14 homerooms (possibly more) (Continued on Page 8)

'Momentous Undertaking' Of Symphony is Praised

In spite of the unpopular weather, an audience of over 500 attended the Plymouth Symphony's fifth and next to last concert of the winter series last Sunday afternoon.

Following the charming Beethoven Symphony No. 8 which comprised the first half of the program, was the presentation of L'Enfance du Christ by Berlioz, by the orchestra and Civic Chorus, and featuring four soloists.

Richard Miller's lyric tenor voice was perfect in his tender interpretation of the part of narrator of the story, and keynoted the haunting delicacy of the trilogy as the chorus, the orchestra, "unseen angels" and other soloists wove their way through the intricate passages.

The other three parts, although smaller, were no less charming in their rendition by Rosemary Murch, Mary, Nat Sibbold, peasant father, and Bertram Gabel who replaced Robert Waterstripe at the last moment as Joseph.

Frank Gill, music critic from the Detroit Times was among the guests of the Symphony, Sunday, having, as he said, to see for himself "an orchestra of this size, supported by a community of this size and playing musical compositions of heroic stature." (The Detroit Times as well as the two other Detroit papers always carry the announcements of the Plymouth Symphony programs.)

Gill is a composer in his own right whose works have been played all over this country, and is presently engaged as director of all student publications at Wayne University, in addition to serving as a music critic for the Times. He is particularly interested in orchestras such as the Plymouth Symphony because "they are the grass-roots of musical culture in America."

In his Monday morning article, included with other reviews, Gill had this to say of Sunday's concert: "When an amateur symphony and choir and soloists are announced as undertaking as momentous a work as Berlioz' 'L'Enfance du Christ', while the orchestra also handles Beethoven's Eighth Symphony all on one program, one's curiosity is whetted.

"Neither of these works is exactly amateur fare, so that even if the project had failed it would have deserved a big A for effort.

"This program was presented Sunday afternoon by the Plymouth Symphony and chorus under Wayne Dunlap and was far from failure. It was a surprisingly smooth and warm performance of both works; the orchestra showing strength and power in its attack and in its dynamics; the chorus giving very satisfying vocal performances.

Those of us who were there were glad not to have missed it!"

3 Governments Hire One Plumbing Inspector

Albert F. Williams, who retired just last Saturday as supervisor of maintenance at the Ford plant in Northville, has been appointed as plumbing inspector for Plymouth Township, Northville and Plymouth.

Representatives of the three governmental units announced the appointment following extensive oral and written examinations. There were 14 applicants.

Inspection of new plumbing installations has been performed by a state of Michigan inspector in the past. But because of the wide area covered by the inspector, local governments found that it often took several days to obtain an inspection.

Northville, Plymouth Township and city then got together and decided to adopt their own plumbing ordinances and hire their own inspector.

With the help of Livonia in conducting the examinations, the field of applicants was narrowed down to three. Williams was accepted because he lives in the community and will be available full time. He is a licensed master plumber and has many years of experience, working both for industry and himself. He

Church Ladies Bring Cheer to Hospitals

The Livonia Hospital Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Maxine Colby, Arnold Ave., on Monday for a dessert luncheon served by the hostess.

The following attended as representatives of their respective churches: Edith Walton, Gloria Del Lutheran; Helen Choss, Hosanna-Tabor Lutheran; Agnes Rammel, St. Marks Presbyterian; Charlotte Wren, St. Andrew's Episcopal; Florence Glanville, Gertrude Gates and Lela Dreaver, St. Paul's Presbyterian; Irene Gray, Peace Lutheran; Maxine Colby, Emmanuel Baptist; Pearl Rolph and Verda Alston, Alpha Baptist; and Lorena Patching, Christ the King Lutheran.

A new television set has recently been installed in one of the wards and plans were made for the Easter party to be held Tuesday, April 1.

The Auxiliary is composed of women of nine churches in the area and would welcome all churches who are not active and would like to bring cheer to shut-ins to call the President, Mrs. Gertrude Gates, KE 4-8699.

The name of Brazil originated because of a word the early Portuguese colonists gathered. Of a vivid red color, the wood suggested live coals, or Portuguese "brasas." The word eventually evolved into "Brazil."

Neepawa in Manitoba, 125 miles west of Winnipeg, was named from an Indian word meaning "abundance."

PLYMOUTH'S BUSINESS

Plymouth's Business welcomed two new entries in the foreign car field this week. One was the opening of Leo Adler Inc., in the former King Furniture building on Forest Avenue, who will offer immediate delivery on the Volkswagen, a German import.

The second is the Opel, another German import now on display at Jack Selle Buick. These foreign imports with their compact size and economy of operation seem to be the answer to that segment of the motoring public who are looking for a smaller car. Perhaps it would be wise for the American automobile manufacturer to scan this market more closely.

Another new addition in Plymouth is the Morris Floor Covering Company that has taken over the Plymouth Truck Center at 1175 Starkweather. Welcome gentlemen, may your stay in Plymouth be long, happy and prosperous.

ONE OF THE first to see the new Opel German Car on display at Jack Selle Buick was Kurt Thrun of the Travel Center. Kurt, shown here with Jack Selle, recalls that he was the proud owner of an Opel in Germany some eight years ago.

AT THE eastern intersection of Ann Arbor Trail and Ann Arbor Rd. a new market, Samways Super Market, opened today. Operated by Bob Samway, his wife and son Bob, Jr., the market is having its grand opening celebration through next Wednesday. The Samways have been in the grocery business 30 years. Market hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily and Sunday.

Livonia's Board Returns to TV

The second TV program presented by the Livonia Public Schools will give viewers an opportunity to watch the Board of Education in action. From 1:30 a.m. to noon on Friday, March 7, 1958, over Channel 56, the Board will present portions of a business meeting, listener reports from the Superintendent and school staff people, and will be seen discussing proposed public issues relating to school planning and finance.

In addition to the Board of Education, Benton Yates, superintendent; Harold C. Wells, assistant superintendent; and Bernice Roberts, elementary curriculum coordinator, will appear.

The third program of the series, April 10, will present an aspect of the elementary program. The final program May 2, will deal with the secondary program.

If Your Name Is JANE

BY ANN REYNOLDS, PH. D.

"Jane" is a name related to "Joan," "Jean" and "Janet," and all three are women's names developed from "John." This is an ancient Hebrew name, originally "Johanan," and means "God is gracious." "Jane" came into English by way of the Old French form for "John" which was "Jehane."

One girl named "Jane" was queen of England for nine days. She was Lady Jane Grey, a niece of Henry VIII. When told that she was to be the queen she caught her unawares, and she fell in a faint.

When nine days had gone by Princess Mary, the daughter of Henry VIII declared herself heir to the throne. Her supporters won against those of Lady Jane, and Jane was imprisoned. Arraigned for high treason she must have feared the worst because she came to the trial in the Guildhall of London wearing a black gown with a black hood, and holding a book bound in black velvet in her hand. Her foreboding proved right; she was sentenced to die on the scaffold. Even as she faced death she declared that she had never aspired to the throne.

Jane lived only 47 years. She was as beautiful in mind and body as she was unfortunate. Books, it seems, were her only friends. Roger Ascham, the most outstanding scholar of his time once found her reading Plato in the original Greek while the rest of the family were away hunting. Jane was 13 at that time. Ascham recorded not only her remarkable achievements but also that she had a very sweet disposition. Still, as a child she was treated harshly by her family, and later she was used by her own and her husband's relations as a pawn for their own ill-fated ambition that eventually cost her life.

Another famous Jane was made to say by the unknown author of an ancient ballad, "And when I smiled all men were glad But when I frowned my prince grew sad..."

She was Jane Shore, and the prince in question was King Edward IV, of England whose mistress she was. Her contemporaries agreed that she was so beautiful that no one could have wished to have the least of her features different. She also had wit, she was gay, and quick with the right answer. What was most remarkable, she never abused the tremendous influence she held over the king but tried to help whom-ever she could.

On Edward's death her fortune changed; she was accused of sorcery. Her life was spared but she was sentenced to do penance: she was made to walk in a procession on a Sunday, a burning taper in hand, thus being held up in scorn. But the crowds that gathered did not rejoice in her misery, only pitied her.

Working Model of Mower Now Worth Thousands

Sunday's guests at the Dunning-Hough Library dedication got a look at a model of a mowing machine that netted its inventor $5,000 in 1886 — but was never manufactured.

Robert Hinkle, 42303 Schoolcraft Rd., brought the model for display Sunday and then returned it to his home because of its almost priceless value.

Hinkle's grandfather, H. D. Hathaway made the model in connection with his mowing machine invention issued by the U.S. Patent office in 1886. The patent was sold to the McCormick Deering company for $5,000, but it was never made.

According to Hinkle, McCormick Deering was making a single-blade mower at that time, that is, knives on a long bar would move back and forth past stationary teeth.

Hathaway, who lived in Antwerp, N. Y., invented a mower that had two sets of knives moving back and forth past each other. This would have done the job twice as fast, Hinkle said, but for some reason the manufacturer didn't want to change its old model.

The Henry Ford Museum has had the model on display for the past three years, keeping it heavily insured. Hinkle's father, J. Ward Hinkle of Detroit, made the loan. Hinkle said that the museum has offered $10,000 for the model and an implement dealer has offered $5,000, but he Hinkles have refused to sell.

Accompanying the working model are patterns and the original patent.

A PATENT for a double-blade mowing machine was sold 72 years ago to the McCormick Deering Co. for $5,000. Today, the model of that patent, now in possession of Robert Hinkle of Plymouth, is worth at least twice that amount. Hinkle's grandfather invented the machine and made the model. It was on display at Henry Ford Museum for the past three years.

New Means of Studying Heart Beat Studied

LOS ANGELES (UP) — A better understanding of the intricate mechanism of the heartbeat may result from a new technique of studying heart muscle in action designed by Dr. William J. Whalen of the UCLA medical school.

The journal, Circulation Research, said Dr. Whalen's method makes possible simultaneous physical and biochemical measurements of the heart muscle action.

Tiny strips of human and animal heart muscle are suspended in a small chamber in which is circulated a physiological solution. Highly sensitive strain gauges measure changes in the muscle strip's length, tension and rate of contraction.

At the same time, chemical changes in the solution reflect oxygen consumption of the tissue, thus giving an indication of biochemical activity associated with the muscle action.

Various types of drugs can be put into the chamber to test their effects on heart tissue.

Fur-bearing animals contribute more than $3 million a year to the wealth of Arkansas. Among pelts sold are opossum, skunk, raccoon and mink.

Church, Scoutarama Open Girl Scout 46th Anniversary

CRAYON TEXTILE designing was being done this week at the Girl Scout Troop 9 meeting at First Presbyterian church. These are among the many handicraft activities learned by Scouts and Brownies throughout the year. From left are Virginia Signorelli, Catherine Hinckley, Cheryl Bradley, Gail Wolfe and Cathy Kaunisto.

A hush falls over the room. A little girl in an everyday dress stands at attention, she raises two fingers in the Brownie salute and says in a very solemn voice, "I promise to do my best, to love God and my country, to help other people every day, especially those at home." Her troop leader bends over and pins on a bright brass pin and says, "Congratulations!"

A brand-new Brownie is born, a potential scout in the making. This scene is being repeated over and over again, not just here at home, but in 47 countries abroad.

Here in our own city of Plymouth, Scouts and Brownies alike have been busy themselves for the past several weeks with special projects and assignments to celebrate Girl Scout Week, which will run from March 9 to March 15.

On Sunday, March 9, uniformed Scouts and Brownies throughout the city will be attending the church of their choice. Then at 2 p. m. in the high school the big celebration will begin — Scoutarama. The Scouts extend a cordial invitation to all. Displays will show the projects of the various troops. At different times during the day, special events are planned. The schedule is as follows:

1. 2:15 and 4:15 p. m. — Intermediate Troop 6 will present the history of the theatre in the auditorium.
2. 2:30 p. m. — Intermediate troop 28 will give a demonstration in good grooming. This will include facials and manicures done by the girls and a demonstration in haircutting by Ellen of Ellen's Beauty Shop. A fashion show will include all the uniform styles for Brownies, Intermediate Scouts and Senior Scouts. The show will be repeated at 4 p. m.
3. 3 p. m. — A presentation of five and ten year pins to adults and Senior Scouts in the auditorium. Following the presentation, troops 1 and 5 will show slides of their troop trip. Troop 15 will circulate literature and show a movie on safety.

The Girl Scouts are celebrating their 46th anniversary this year because way back in 1912 an irrepressible Southern belle by the name of Juliette Gordon Lowe came back from Europe with an idea. She was 51 years old and handicapped with deafness when she founded Girl Scouting in America.

She paid all its early expenses out of her own pocket and ultimately sold her pearls for the sake of her real treasures, her beloved girls. In 1915 the organization had a national council, a constitution and by-laws, a charter and 5,000 girl scouts. Today there are two million American Girl Scouts plus over half a million adult volunteers.

Scouting in Plymouth is also growing. In this past year the scouts have added to their ranks 174 more scouts, eight new troops and 21 more leaders. But there is still a waiting list which means there are many more girls desirous to join. The only solution is for more leaders to guide these girls.

Anyone interested in becoming a leader should phone Mrs. Woodrow Tichy at 4411 or Mrs. James Hardimon at 3585. Your help is needed and your service will be personally rewarding.

There is no need to worry about bringing the children to Scoutarama, for troop 22, under the leadership of Mrs. Z. Russell, will provide a baby sitting service.

The scouts and leaders are all very grateful to the Community Chest for their contribution to the Girl Scouts.

New officers elected for Brownie Troop 9 are Debbie Sand, president; Mary Ann Schlie, vice-president; Sarah Hale, secretary; Jill Worland, treasurer.

The Mother and Daughter Tea will be held in the home-making department of the high school and four dramatizations will be presented. Directing the groups will be Mrs. H. L. Crawford, Mrs. Rexford Purkey, Mrs. Darrel Sand and Mrs. C. W. Worland.

Mrs. J. R. Broderick has talked on dramatizations for Brownies.

Bible Comment:
These Men Valued Hogs More Than Christ the Saviour

WHEN we speak today of insanity, it is not in terms of possession by devils. There are forms of insanity not related to sin and evil temper.

We would not, in terms of modern science, speak of demons leaving a demented man and taking possession of a herd of pigs so that they would run down a steep place into the sea and destroy themselves. Obviously, a story like this has difficulties for the scientific mind. It is short-sighted or foolish not to recognize that.

But when it comes to the moral and spiritual values, the story is clear cut and definite.

Apart from the healing of the two men possessed with demons, it presents a picture of that moral delinquency and hypocrisy so prevalent in life where self-interest and greed conflict with right principles.

It is a story of swine and we must remember that hogs were unclean and taboo in the Jewish religion. These Gadarenes, whose religion forbade them to eat hog flesh, were willing to raise swine for the profit they would make from sale to others. Moreover, they were far more concerned about these swine than they were about the restoration to sanity and health of the two formerly afflicted brother men.

What a picture of narrowness and sordidness in a "whole city," coming out to meet Christ, the wonder worker and the one pure and undefiled.

Three Rocks Selected For Suburban 6 All-League Teams

Suburban Six League basketball coaches have selected Bill Hubert of Plymouth to the All-League first team and Jim Dzurus to the second team. Honorable mention went to Randy Egloff.

The coaches met Monday night at Bentley High school, home of the 1957-58 Suburban Six basketball champions. Bentley was the only school to place two men on the first team while the other schools represented were Plymouth, Belleville and Redford Union.

George King at forward and Tom Eveland at guard were the Bentley players on the first team. Bill Hubert at guard, Chuck Snodgrass of Belleville at center and Harry Munger from Redford Union at forward complete the first team selection.

Five of the six schools were represented on the second team. Dzurus was selected for the guard position.

This is the line-up:

1st team	School	Position	2nd team	School
Chuck Snodgrass	Belle.	Center	Dick Orend.	Allen Park
Bill Hubert	Ply.	Guard	Jim Dzurus	Ply.
Tom Eveland	Bent.	Guard	Dick Pitcher	Belle.
George King	Bent.	Forward	Ron Gabel	Bent.
Harry Munger	Redford U.	Forward	John Mans	Trenton

Cagers End Season As Runner-Up

Plymouth Rocks took over undisputed possession of second place in the final standings of the Suburban Six basketball conference by defeating Trenton 56-46 at the Plymouth gymnasium last Friday night.

After rather a listless first quarter in which Trenton held a 7-6 lead, Plymouth's set-shot artist Jim Dzurus found the range for four field goals to lead his team to a 20-7 scoring advantage in the second quarter and a half time lead of 26-14.

Plymouth coasted in the third quarter and was outscored 16-8 and led by a mere four points 34-30. In the fourth quarter Dzurus, Hubert and Egloff sparked the Rocks offensively and they regained control of the game to win 56-46 and avenge an earlier loss at Trenton.

Elsewhere in conference play, Bentley helped Plymouth's bid to finish second when they squeaked by Belleville 53-51. George King and Tom Eveland accounted for 29 of the Bentley points between them while Dick Pitcher continued where he left off

Javees Dropped In Second Half

Plymouth's Jayvee basketball team built up a 24-16 lead at half time only to be outscored 28-11 in the second half to lose out to Trenton in the last game of the regular schedule 44-35.

Thompson of the Rocks and Stoke for Trenton led their teams in scoring with 11 points each. Salan of Plymouth and Peral and Daniel of Trenton were next in line with eight points each.

SPORTSEEN

March is tournament month for basketball leagues and also for the high school swimming team. Tomorrow night at Eastern Michigan University at Ypsilanti, the Plymouth high school varsity basketball team plays the winner of the Wayne-Bellefonte game. If Belleville wins, Plymouth will be playing a familiar foe whom they have beaten twice in conference games during the season. Game time is 7 p.m.

In the Men's Recreation league, Contractors Machinery, represents Plymouth in the State Tournament beginning March 26 in Plymouth. The other three teams will play an elimination series and the winner will represent Plymouth at the Lasky Recreation Center tournament on March 17. In the first game of the play-off scheduled for March 10, Taits will play C. R. Ely and the winner will play Braden on March 12.

The swimming team will be busy with their league meet at Plymouth pool tomorrow night and Saturday. Plymouth has been improving with each meet and is expected to show prominently in the final results of the league action. Plymouth basketball fans can be proud of their high school basketball team for providing many thrills throughout the season. They finished second to a truly great Bentley high school team which were beaten only once all year and then just by one point. Coach Doyle did a fine job with the team and with tournament play in the offing in the next two weeks the Rocks can be expected to be working hard to gain further recognition.

Jim Dzurus, an uncanny rebound retriever all season, saved his finest scoring display for Plymouth fans in the final conference game of the season. Possessed of an accurate set shot but rather reluctant to use it, Jim found the range early against Trenton and just kept shooting to finish with nine field goals and two free throws for 20 points.

Congratulations to two Plymouth Rock basketball players in their selection on the first and second all-league teams. Bill Hubert, a consistently alert performer all year for Coach Jim Doyle, was selected by the coaches at a guard position on the first team. Captain Jim Dzurus made the second team as a guard also. Sophomore Randy Egloff, who improves with each game, made the honorable mention list. It will be interesting to see just how many of the five boys chosen for the first team are selected to all-Suburban teams by the metropolitan newspaper's sport staff.

(Continued from Page 1) sent to Western Electric, the Road Commission, Plymouth Township and The Mail, then pointed out the commission's arguments for and against various routes and the arguments of residents. Alternate routes included Junction Ave., Sheldon Rd. to Ann Arbor Rd. and Sheldon Rd. to Ann Arbor Trail.

In conclusion the letter said that the city commission has stated that "we owe something to the Western Electric Co. for coming into the city. This may be true but the subject residents certainly do not feel that this debt should be paid at our expense. Any plan which meets with vehement and well motivated objections certainly should not be forced into effect by our city representatives."

Sixty-five property owners bordering along Farmer St. signed the second petition which stated that "we hereby consent to the surfacing of Farmer St. but seriously object to the use of said street for heavy industrial traffic."

It is still possible that the commission may still follow through its original plan to pave Farmer St. for normal vehicle traffic. Residents who signed the petition, however, cautiously asserted that they would consent to "surfacing," which they feel would not necessarily mean paving.

Bills to Toughen Annex Methods Opposed by City

A resolution protesting House Bills which would allegedly make annexations more difficult was approved by the Plymouth city commission Monday night.

There are currently four House Bills introduced in Lansing which affect the methods of annexing land to some rule cities. The Michigan Municipal League, of which Plymouth is a member, has urged all cities to adopt the resolution.

In part it says: "Whereas the city commission of the city of Plymouth has been informed of the introduction of House Bills Nos. 235, 160, 131 and 132, apparently intended to make more complicated and difficult annexation of territory to Home Rule cities and the incorporation of new Home Rule cities and villages, and

"Whereas, present provisions of the Home Rule Act are more than sufficiently stringent to protect the interests of citizens, and

"Whereas many serious urban area problems can only be solved by intelligent annexation or incorporation action and proper planning, and

"Whereas, the aforesaid proposed legislation, if enacted, would possibly 'freeze' many areas in their present condition or status without benefit of needed services and improvements to the detriment of adjacent communities and the area residents themselves, now therefore,

"Be it resolved that this commission does hereby express its disapproval and opposition to the aforesaid House Bills, and requests that same be not reported out of committee; that if reported out, said bills not be passed."

Copies of the resolution will be forwarded to proper committee chairmen along with Senator John Swainson and Rep. Sterling Eaton.

(Continued from Page 1) The largest circulation of any library served by the Wayne County Board," he said. "In 1956 the library issued 136,000 books."

Mrs. Agnes Pauline, Plymouth librarian, urged everyone to use and support the new library. "I know that Mr. Hough has truly enjoyed doing this for the city of Plymouth," she said.

Rev. Henry J. Walsh, D. D. of the First Presbyterian Church, gave the dedication address. He said, "It took great vision for the donors to give this gift to the city of Plymouth. I'm sure it will serve as a major contributor to the life of this city."

"Men have found books as a vehicle in which to leave their thoughts because writing lives on long after death. Through books we can travel through the world. We can savor the adventure of life with persons whom we have never seen. Books give us a living record of man's journey through the ages, from darkness to light."

Reverend Welch concluded by saying the giver is blessed by his gift and, in this case, will be identified with something timeless and treasured.

Rev. Melbourne Johnson, D. D., First Methodist Church gave the dedicatory prayer while Rev. Father Francis Byrne of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church closed with the benediction.

Refreshments were served by the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association after the formal ceremonies.

Besides the 200 or so who attended the dedication ceremony, there were an estimated 250 who visited the library from 1 to 5 o'clock.

Two members of the Library Book Club were asked to pour at the tea following the dedication. They were Mrs. Jenny Cramer and Mrs. Jessie Vealey.

Township Use City Approves Of Fire Hydrants

Lower fire insurance rates for many Plymouth Township property owners moved a step nearer Monday night when city commissioners approved an agreement that would give the use of 27 hydrants to the township fire department.

It still remains for the Plymouth township board to approve the agreement. Although the township fire department has been given use of hydrants in the past, insurance underwriters would not lower its rates to city levels until a formal agreement was enacted.

Thirteen of the hydrants are located entirely in the township of Plymouth on city water mains, while 14 are on the city's fringes but could be used for township fires.

Upon execution of the agreement, the township will pay the city $376.40 annually for use and maintenance of the hydrants. These are the locations of the hydrants.

In Plymouth township: Turkey Run at John Alden; Sheldon Rd. at Gov. Bradford; Turkey Run at Gov. Bradford; Priscilla Lane at Gov. Bradford; John Alden at Priscilla Lane; Ball St. at 9457 General Drive at Pilgrim; Five Mile at Schoolcraft; Five Mile at Parkhurst; Bradner at Parkhurst and Bradner at Lakeland.

In city of Plymouth: Ann Arbor Rd. at Main St.; Ann Arbor Rd. at Harvey; Sheldon Rd. at Maple; Ann Arbor Rd. at Sheridan and at Penniman; Wilcox Rd. at Ford Plant; Plymouth Rd. at east city limits; South Mill near Ann Arbor Construction; near Galin's Warehouse; and at Ford Ave.; Ann Arbor Rd. at 260 Ann Arbor Rd.

In other business before the commission, a resolution was read calling for the codification of all city ordinances. The city charter asks that ordinances be combined in one

Educationally

As we have stated earlier, the junior high school under the block system type of scheduling can handle 1020 students. Although the Board of Education has approved the 6-3-3 pattern of school organization, the present junior high school could not absorb the entire 7th, 8th and 9th grades. The people of the community should be aware that school enrollments indicate approximately 1,100 students next year in grades 7, 8 and 9. In 1959-1960 the figure will be approximately 1,200.

Splitting the ninth grade between the two locations in 1959 will relieve temporarily the crowding in the high school and use efficiently available space in the junior high school. It would almost seem that another junior high school was inevitable within a few years. A second unit need not be another 32 homeroom unit immediately, but possibly a 16 homeroom unit that could be expanded when the enrollment warranted such a move.

The Board of Education is considering another junior high site in their future plans. In view of the enrollment situation such planning would seem to be quite necessary. Now the question remains is when to build?

We have discussed only enrollment problems this week. One other junior high school problem remains with us — the swimming pool-auditorium issue. Next week we'd like to give you some information and background material about the two additions to the junior high, the swimming pool and the auditorium.

(Seventh of the series — "Should We Build a Junior High Swimming Pool — Auditorium?" to be published next week in the Plymouth Mail)

Rash of Petty Thievery Hits

More petty burglaries have been reported during the past week to police and sheriff's department. Two of the breaking and enterings were at schools, three at churches. Starkweather school, which was burglarized just last week, was entered again sometime Sunday, but again nothing is believed taken. Entrance to the principal's office was gained by breaking out glass in a door. The office was ransacked but nothing is believed taken.

Allen Elementary school was also entered, but nothing was found missing there. Bonded Beauty Products on Northville Rd. was entered Sunday night and small change was taken after the office was rifled. The week also brought reports that two overcoats were taken, one from the lobby of the Hotel Mayflower, and the other at Calvary Baptist Church while a meeting was going on.

Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic church had three money boxes taken from the church entrance. It is believed that they contained about $10.

And while Robert Hitchcock, 969 Sutherland, was at the Spring St. Baptist Church Sunday morning, someone stole hubcaps from his car.

Police took into custody two juveniles who by threatening attempted to get 10 cents each from three other boys who were walking Sunday afternoon by the post office. Kent and Kirk Rowland and Richard Tisch said that two boys blocked the sidewalk and demanded 10 cents from each one. When the three turned around to go the other way, the two boys ran around and blocked the sidewalk. One of the Rowland boys was struck while another sought police.

The two youths involved were turned over to their parents during investigation.

Academy High School Unique

(UP) — The Air Academy high school building north west of Colorado Springs is unlike most schools. For instance, it has a bar.

The school district leased the building, once the mansion of a Cripple Creek, Colo., gold miner, for one year for 140 pupils in grades seven through 12. As for the bar, it's boarded up and cannot be seen.

Construction on a new 500-student high school will begin next year.

Land on which the mansion is situated was purchased by the U.S. government for construction of the new Air Force Academy. The mansion was built in Spanish style in the 1930's. In 1950 it was turned into an exclusive club. Students use the ballroom for an assembly hall. Buzzers that once summoned maids and butlers substitute for class bells. Dining rooms and tea rooms have become classrooms.

CAN I CHECK THE FIT OF MY CHILDREN'S SHOES?

There are two simple ways of detecting outgrown shoes. They are not as reliable as having the feet remeasured but are infinitely surer than the old toehunt method which only ruins the toebox of the shoe.

One way is to hold the shoe under a lamp so you can see if the foot is long enough there will be a light area ahead of the mark made by the great toe.

At the risk of being considered a wise guy, the writer suggests counting the toe marks. Five is par for the foot but the majority of shoes show only four. The missing digit is the little toe which is forced to ride in a pocket of the upper which hangs over the outside edge of the shoe. Five-toed feet that make four-toed footprints should be shod in "straight-last" shoes.

The second check is simply to put your hand in the shoe, palm upward, to see if the great toe is digging a hole in the top of the toe box. The above mentioned footprint may show a light area ahead of the great toe only because the toe of the shoe is too shallow to allow the foot to advance any further. The force required to dig such a hole is sufficient to bunionate the great toe.

Architects to Meet
Mar. 12, Says Gould

Architect Nathaniel Gould, A.I.A., of Plymouth reports that the Michigan Society of Architects will hold its 44th annual convention at Detroit's Hotel Statler, March 12-13-14.

Michigan Architects will gather for panel discussions and seminars to study all phases of city planning, regional planning, urban design and slum-clearance rehabilitation and conservation.

"A Better Tomorrow through Architecture will be our theme this year," said Frederick E. Wigen, president of the Society, and added, "We feel that much could be gained by the public if architects would become more active in the small-house field and city planning."

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Powers attended the funeral of Mrs. Lorin Erwin in Jerseyville, Ill. Mr. Powers returned to Florida and Mrs. Powers is visiting children and grandchildren in Plymouth.

A welcome was recently extended to 21 students who are now members of the National Honor Society.

Newly honored members are: Don Alsbro, Sandra Davis, Ray Green, Danny Har- grove, Mary Harper, Judy H- nister, Ann Hulsing, Bob Is- pucket, Joan Ralston, Virginia Roland, Kathleen Sempliner, Pamela Sykes, Janet Spigarel- li, Cathleen Thompson, Lou- vinia Tidwell, Richard Wid- mayar, Karl Williams, Eliza- beth Worth and Timothy Yoe.

Congratulations to our band members who received a "Super- ior" rating for the first time in four years at the Band Festival on Saturday, Febru- ary 22. Plymouth and Pontiac were the only bands to receive a unanimous rating of "1" when all of the judges agreed. The band was entered in Class

AA competition, which means that their competitors were from larger schools.

Members of the six events scheduled to continue to the State Festival after their recent success in the District Solo and Ensemble Festival are: Larry Livingston, Betsy Edgar, Dolores Aldrich, Mavis Williams, Mary Jane Read- man, Marilyn Holst, Nancy Eaton, Jim Carney, Don Wil- liams, Frank Roberts, and Betty Worth. The State Festi- val will be held on March 22 in East Lansing.

Next on the social calendar for band members and their guests is a Band Party which is under the supervision of mem- bers Mary Jane West, Bruce Curtis, Judy Herrick and Larry Smith.

The band also boasts of two Student Teachers from the University of Michigan. They are Mr. Peters and Mr. Doug- las Campbell.

Nancy Kelley, a high school senior who usually works part time in the principal's office, has assumed full responsibility while Miss Shirley Keel is va- cationing. (Miss Keel is Mr. Bentley's permanent secre- tary.) Keep up the good work Nancy!

It was discovered that the funny, little machine making those Sputnik beeps in the high school auditorium was an oscillator. When asked what the students were doing, John Close, teacher of electric and radio courses, disclosed that the students were learning the Morse code. Well, the Morse code is only a beginning! The boys are presently working for their novice license. After they earn the novice license they will be working toward their general license which will enable them to be ham radio operators.

Mr. Close says that our de- partment is equipped to give these boys a good background, and, "If they have a good background in radio, some of them will become good elec- trical engineers and electrici- ans. These boys are learning something that could help them earn a living and save lives in time of crisis." Mr. Close reports that the boys are doing very well and that most of them can send and receive Morse code. He expressed his feeling that the preparation afforded by the present class that is offered is very ade- quate for advanced work in this field.

Take a tip from Mrs. William Fox of 9074 North- ern, never put a kettle of stew on the top of your hus- band's car. Mrs. Fox did just that, but probably won't do it again.

Sunday night she cooked up a large pressure cook- er of stew, but couldn't find room for it in her refrig- erator. The roof of her husband's snow-covered station wagon seemed to be a good place for it to cool off.

If the night air didn't do the job, the morning breeze did as Bill Fox whizzed across town to work at Vico Products on Pearl street. Mrs. Fox had forgotten about the stew and her husband didn't notice the extra load.

At lunch, one of Fox's co-workers, Ed Matney, looked out the window and asked, "What do you keep in the kettle on top of your car, Bill?" The amazed Bill looked and gasped, "That's my dinner."

When informed, Mrs. Fox made a quick trip over to Vico to pick up the stew.

Weekly broadcasts on a network of more than seventy radio stations in the U.S. and seven foreign countries is routine for Joyce Marie Farrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Basil R. Farrell of 201 North Mill. Joyce is a member of the Bob Jones University radio choir, which present a musical program, "Hymn History" weekly on the university-operated radio station. Five stations in Michigan pick up the broadcast. Joyce is a senior in the school of com- merce, with business administration as her major.

St. Patrick's Day is coming soon, but the new Spring fashion collections aren't showing much in green — maybe a touch of avocado or muted shades, but nothing in the good old "Kelly" or "Shamrock" green. There is one voice out of tune with designers and dress manufacturers, that defends green against the flood of reds, oranges and yellows on the fashion scene. This renegade is turning out green wool dress- es and jacket outfits with co-ordinated paisly print blouses and jacket linings.

Locally, spring fashions will go on parade at DeSales auditorium on the Madonna College campus Wednesday, March 12 at 12:30 p.m. Modeling de- signs provided by the Simplicity Pattern company will be some 20 students from Madonna and Lady- wood high school. A stylist from the pattern com- pany will act as moderator for the review. The pro- gram will be open to the public without admission fee.

The tennis dress of the 1920's comes back in loungewear and shortie nightgowns. One new version is a short baby doll gown with a low-buttoned hip band and deep pleats. Ball fringe edges the Peter Pan collar and armholes.

In home decorating the swing is toward blue, according to a construction research bureau. Com- binations of blue and gray, blue and white and blue and cream colors are distinctly popular in floor cov- erings such as rubber tile and solid vinyl tile. Pat- terns created by using a subtle blue and gray are producing striking modern moods both in homes and new shops. Conventionally marbelized vinyl tile is used effectively in shades of Teal blue and Quaker gray. Caribbean blue and white are used for a re- freshing touch.

Housewives can look ahead to a potless-panless era. This is a prediction, of course, and it comes from a paper cup manufacturing executive — so take it for what it's worth. By 1975, most homes will be equipped with electronic stoves that will cook whole meals on paper in a matter of minutes. Pots and pans will be made of paper and thrown out after use.

Overheard in the library: "Look Mommy," called a small and excited voice, "that's where they make the books." She was pointing to the staff room.

Ads Go for School Bus

Friends of Ladywood High School have launched a year- long advertising campaign to raise funds to purchase a bus that would transport Ply- mouth girls to and from the school. Jerry Scully is the Lady- wood activities' chairman at the head of the project. "The anniversary yearbook will be a good one," he said, "and any friend of Ladywood will be eager to have a copy. It will be thoroughly illus- trated and tell of the trials and triumphs experienced by the Felician Sisters and stu- dents since the school opened five years ago." Scully added, "the proceeds will help purchase a much- needed school bus. Unless we get a bus, many Plymouth area girls will suffer great difficulty getting to school." He said Livonia business- men already had purchased a substantial amount of the ad- vertising space available.

Bride, Attendants Don Blue For Zilliken-Gust Service

Vows were exchanged be- fore Dr. Henry Walsh Friday, February 21 in the First Presbyterian Church of Ply- mouth, by Hester Irene Zilli- ken and Kenneth Gust II. A double-ring ceremony was performed. Lighted tapers and vases of white snapdrag- ons and calla lillies decorated the altar.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Murray Mac- Millan of Highland Park and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gust of Dearborn, former residents of Plymouth.

A bridal gown of ice blue peau de soie was worn by the bride when given in mar- riage by her grandfather, Mr. E. F. Davis of Romeo. Hand made by the bride, it was Empire in style, the lace bod- ice featuring a scoop neck- line and long tapered sleeves ending in points over the wrist. A back lace floating panel and a bow of peau de soie accented the flared lines of the skirt. The veil of illu- sion was gathered into a tiny cap, marked with a sprink- ling of rhinestones. The bridal bouquet was a cluster of white roses edged with ste- phanotis.

The City Manager's Corner
By Al Glassford

The month of March is bud- get making time for the City Hall. We must project our costs for the year beginning July 1, 1958 and ending June 30, 1959. Also, we must estimate the income to be re- ceived from taxes, fees, per- mits and sales tax and other monies returned from the state for local use.

As in one's individual household, the needs far out- run the income. First we estimate the cost of the basic necessities, such as fire, li- ability and unemployment compensation insurances, hospitalization and life insur- ances, determine the number of policemen we will need, the number of firemen, office personnel, or D.P.W. em- ployees. Next we must look at the construction and au- tomotive equipment to see which must be replaced and with what frequency.

After we provide for the basic necessities, we then must add the capital outlay items, such as for the city's share for street paving, storm sewers and water mains. Then we consider upkeep, al- terations to buildings, and, office equipment replace- ments and additions.

We must also look into the wage and salary schedules. Our labor scale is $1.83 to $2.01 per hour. A patrolman's top pay is $5.316. It is neces- sary to consider the percent of increase in the cost of liv- ing index, which this year is 2.6 per cent over last year, and to consider the wages paid by our neighboring com- munities, Livonia, Wayne, Dearborn, Ann Arbor and Garden City. In general, the City of Plymouth lags behind 5 per cent in almost all clas- sifications.

Budget making time is also the city manager's audit of operations and of the fiscal problems of each department. At this time, we also deter- mine whether or not enough money will be left over for the balance of this year's operation. Budget time means eight hour's work per day in addition to the usual amount of work completed by the accounting section per- sonnel and the manager's of- fice.

By the first Monday in Ap- ril, the manager must pre- sent the budget to the city commission for its consid- eration and approval. After the commission makes its adjust- ments, it sets a date for a hearing on the budget so that the citizens may make sug- gestions as to what should be added or eliminated. After the hearings, the commission adjusts the budget, if it deems fit, to include suggested changes, passes the budget and sets the rate of tax.

YOUR HANDWRITING TELLS YOUR STORY

With Grapho Analysis
BY JEAN EVANS

Dear Jean: Will you please analyze my handwriting? I like to read your column. It is very interesting. Is one apt to write like other members of their family?

C.S.P.

Sometimes members of one family will write alike in a sense. That is, to the ordinary person the penmanship or the formation of the letters might be similar but, because the Grapho Analyst analyzes the strokes and not the penmanship we know that the true nature of the individual is unique and unlike any other person. Handwriting is as individual as fingerprints and never has there been an exact duplication of either. If members of a family are similar in nature those traits which resemble one another will reveal themselves in the handwriting.

You are a person of many moods. You are temperamental and there is stubbornness indicated in your handwriting. You are not easily influenced by the opinions of others but will make up your mind about something and stick to it.

Dear Jean: Would you please analyze my handwriting? I must say I am sort of skeptical about Grapho Analysis. I believe one is influenced somewhat by the handwriting of other persons with whom they come in contact.

Skepticism is a good quality when a person can be open-minded and learn whether it is warranted. Some of our best Grapho Analysts were originally the most skeptical but were willing to accept the truth when it was presented to them. Grapho Analysis is a science that has been used for over 40 years and is over 90 percent accurate. Your handwriting indicates you to be a person who would be looking for an argument. You have your own ideas and are frank in expressing them and capable of sarcasm. You are somewhat impulsive so this would lead to speaking without first thinking and perhaps you regret it. However, you are able to keep a secret concealed successfully if you so desire.

Dear Jean: Have enjoyed your column very much as I have always believed your handwriting gives an insight into the real you. Would like to know what you find in mine. Thank you.

N.F.

You have a very healthy imagination. You are able to build on ideas and there is evidence of exaggeration also. You might be guilty of elaborating too vigorously on events and situations. You are sensitive to criticism and with your imagination you likely make yourself very unhappy at times with imagined hurts that don't even exist. You sometimes strike out sarcastically while at other times you bottle it up inside.

If you could channel your thinking your imagination could pay great dividends. You might express it in some form of art where color is required, or in writing fiction.

Dear Jean: Please analyze my writing and tell what kind of person you think I am. Funny we never see ourselves as others see us.

PIETY WARNER

There is optimism and generosity shown in your handwriting. You are always looking to the future with hope and confidence and have a genuine desire to share with others.

Those strange sounds escaping from the annex building of the high school every Saturday mean only one thing—a group of 40, struggling young thespians are having a wonderful time doing some real live play-acting. Young George Cederberg has also been helping old George with this large group of eager actors.

Emphasis in this class is on doing. Three plays are in rehearsal and are in the process of being enacted creatively. In other words, three active groups are going through the actual work of acting out a play. Group "one" has been working on a story entitled "Shoes Fit For a King." Everyone has had a chance to be in scene one. As the scene develops, additional dialogue has been created until by now the actors have an effective scene. Ways to improve the acting or dialogue is pointed out by the audience after every performance.

Group "two" worked on Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet. They gave their truncated or shortened version during the second class session. The dueling scene and the balcony scene were short but recognizable. The following week we read some of the actual text to point out how involved the wording of Shakespeare's day really was. "Oh, Sarge," an original playlet, is occupying the attention of this group for the next week or so. Jimmy Austin as a lonely cop in the playlet gives Jack Webb real competition with his wistful characterization. Group "three" has been doing pantomime. Last week Tom Donnelly and Susan Williams took leading roles in "A Cave Man's Work is Never Done." They are going to work on a story about "The Wonderous Egg."

The Children's Theater workshop class welcomes any and all visitors. In fact, if you'd like to get in on the fun, drop in and we will let you do some acting. Jack Wilcox, membership chairman for the Plymouth Theater Guild, called the other day to remind me that there are a plethora of male parts for "My Sister Eileen." Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m. is the time and the annex building of the high school is the place. Russ Wallace is the producer for this spring production. Alice Wright is co-producer. A new director will handle the blocking, polishing, and assisting us with proper interpretation of our roles—Larry Johnson. Larry is in the public relations department of the Bell Telephone Company and has had considerable experience with dramatic groups. Most recently he was director for the Sun Par Theater in Lemington, Ontario.

Come over Thursday night, meet Larry, talk with Russ or Alice, and find out how you can help with the spring production. See... Hockey... Detroit Red Wings On Television See your TV Schedule for Time and Station

Cub Pack P-4 Busy With March Activities

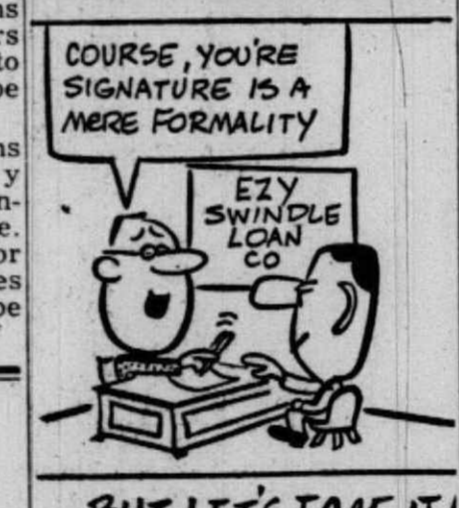

Under the guidance of cubmaster Norman L. Kellman, Cub Scout Pack P-4 has started varied program. A trip to Cranbrook Institute of Science in Bloomfield Hills has just been made and other interesting tours are in the planning. On Friday, February 28, at the First Presbyterian Blue and Gold annual potluck dinner at which they were pleased to have Rev. Norman Stanhope as a special guest, Daniel Camp, Ed. Jones and Ronald Jones received awards. Mrs. Clifford Caldwell, Mrs. H. Richard Rice and Mrs. W. E. Ackerman were given special certificates of appreciation for their contributions in the past year.

Officers and committee members met Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bayless Erdelyi of Dunn Court to discuss the theme of Cub Scouting for the month of March and to prepare for the addition of a new den to the pack. Mrs. Richard P. Nicholls will be den mother for the future Den 3.

WORDS... or Just Being Human THOUGHTS

The MAIL Attitude

BY PAUL CHANDLER

Not frequently we are asked by a wounded taxpayer how the size of school tax paid by City of Plymouth residents looks beside that of other communities.

The answer is that it compares favorably. The school tax for Plymouth city residents this year is $26.36 per thousand assessed valuation. In the city of Northville the comparable figure is $36.58; Garden City $31.53, Redford Township $39.49.

Livonia, with its mass of industry, is lower, at $24.42. Livonia is going to the ballot March 17 to ask for five dollars more, however.

Canton Township, which lies in two school districts, pays $42.94 in the Plymouth district and $57.25 in the Wayne District. Northville Township pays $41.34 in the Plymouth District and $39.55 in the Northville District.

This writer attended a dinner of the 17th District Democratic organization held in the northwest section of Detroit recently. For one thing, I wanted to renew acquaintances with Paul Adams, the new State Attorney General who comes from our home town of Sault Ste. Marie. He was Mayor of the Sault when I was working my first job as a news reporter.

Also, I was interested as a spectator in the party organization which has been winning almost every election in sight in recent years.

The 17th District comprises all of this area hereabouts and goes as far eastward as Myers road in Detroit. This was their "first annual" dinner, and a bumper turnout of almost 500 people paid 10 dollars a ticket, money which will show up prominently again at campaign time. (Multiplication would indicate the one dinner netted $5,000, less the cost of 500 homemade turkey dinners.)

The District chairman, Alfred Meyers, in introductory remarks did not miss the point that the Democrats in a short period of time have captured most of a big, heavily-populated area which ten years ago was known everywhere in politics as a "silk stocking district," a Republican fortress.

He needn't have said anything. A look at the guests about the room made the point by itself, the point being how thoroughly the Democratic party now is entrenched in County and local affairs.

Eight Circuit Judges came to the dinner. So did most of the County Prosecutor's staff, and three probate judges. There were four men from the Detroit city council. The whole elected government of Redford Township was there. So was the Mayor of Livonia, plus four council candidates and a school board member. The County Sheriff, Clerk, Treasurer, Drain Commissioner, and a few auditors stood up for bows. There were Regents from universities, the Auditor General, Supreme Court Justice George Edwards, State Board of Education member Chris Magnusson, and the State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Plymouth had a delegation of half a dozen, headed by Circuit Judge George Bowles and City Commissioner Dick Wernette.

Key personnel from the Seventeenth District at the head table included Congresswoman Martha Griffiths and Lieut. Gov. candidate John Swainson. They flanked Mrs. Governor Williams, Soapy himself being in Washington that night.

Congresswoman Griffiths leaned over to inquire, "Have you heard anything about anybody new who might be intending to run against me this year?" The best her listener could offer was an ancient report that Donald Leonard might get into the race.

The Democrats have grown that much. Who's gonna' run against them — for Congress, for Governor, for Lieut. Governor?

It is superfluous to try to say anything here that would improve the general glow in Plymouth over our new library. It's a sparkling addition to the city and might provide an inspiration that will permit the citizens to see the hope of the future, rather than trying to rationalize the oversights of the past.

The library brings wholesome attention to Plymouth from abroad, of course. An editorial in the Detroit Times this week hailed Plymouth and concluded "The Detroit Times congratulates the people of Plymouth upon this, their latest civic and cultural achievement."

So far, so good. What's next?

A. D. Johnson, manager of the new Western Electric plant, on Sheldon road, today forwards the annual report for his company.

The most interesting point in it was that this giant distribution center in Plymouth is merely one of many such facilities being placed throughout the nation by Western Electric. Others will be finished this year in Washington and Cincinnati. Still others are opening in Cleveland, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Phoenix and Charlotte.

This is an aggressive, ambitious, capital-risking business — Western Electric. We can be thankful they liked our local environment.

My paper's got two subscribers — Sis Harper and her brother Rip — out on lonely Sunset Mountain. A road goes by Sis' farm and both copies are mailed to her because Rip lives back in the woods. Sis always ties her brother's copy to the old hound who trots over to Rip's place. "Rip feeds the dog half of his dinner," Sis explains. "I give him the other half when he gets back. Speeds him along." Thanks to Sis — I bet the Clarion's got the only dog-powered delivery system in the U.S.A. From where I sit, Sis may live in the "backwoods" but she's got a wide-awake mind. Contrast that with some people who refuse to own up there's more than one opinion on any subject — like whether beer or buttermilk makes the best beverage. That mountain air sure keeps those "doggone communication channels" open!

Car Owners: Here's What You Can Do If Ignition Fails

It Can Happen In Springtime

Getting to the exact source of auto failure and correcting the problem seem to be second nature for thousands of young drivers. Junior's knowledge of what makes a car tick has helped Dad out of many an embarrassing situation.

However, not all young drivers and car owners know what to do in case of failure. For example, ignition trouble can be a problem to the inexperienced because of the many possible sources for it.

A heavy downpour, not too uncommon at this time of year, splashing through a deep puddle or even parking in a damp location can short-circuit a car's ignition. If this be the case, a dry cloth must be used to wipe off the distributor cap, wires, spark plugs and ignition coil. Often, if the motor is still hot from driving, the engine heat will dry out these parts quickly.

Another cause of ignition failure can be a defective distributor rotor. To check this condition, the distributor cap must be taken off. This is done by unhooking the snap clips on each side of the distributor and lifting the cap up and to one side. Make sure that wires are not pulled out of the cap.

The rotor can be lifted up out of the distributor shaft for close inspection. The thing to look for is carbon or dirt on the rotor's central contact. If this is the case, scrape the contact clean with a fine file. If a file isn't handy, use the striking strip of a matchbook as a file.

Before replacing the rotor, look for condensation or moisture about the distributor cap. Wipe it clean and replace.

Dirty points can also cause ignition failure. However, these should not be tampered with unless a car owner knows what he is doing. Dirty points can be checked by operating the starter until the points are closed. Then, open and close the points to see if a tiny spark appears. If not, the points are dirty.

They can be cleaned by filing them with the striking strip of a matchbook or by scraping them clean with a penknife. This treatment will suffice until the car can be driven to a service station. Distributor points must be adjusted properly by an experienced mechanic if they are to function efficiently.

Sixteen of Michigan's leading nurserymen will compete for prizes with small gardens of 500 square feet each. The public will judge the gardens.

There will be a mammoth landscaped swimming pool covering 35,000 square feet. It is being installed by Bowman and Bigelow. In addition, large gardens will be provided by the City of Detroit Department of Parks and Recreation, the Landscape Association of Michigan, The Southwestern Michigan Association of Landscape Nurserymen, Michigan State University Department of Ornamental Horticulture, Michigan Botanical Club, the Organic Gardening Club and the Audubon Society.

There will be an outstanding feature garden "Industrial Good Citizenship Program" depicting a well landscaped industrial site. It will show how industry can take part in making an area more attractive through proper landscaping.

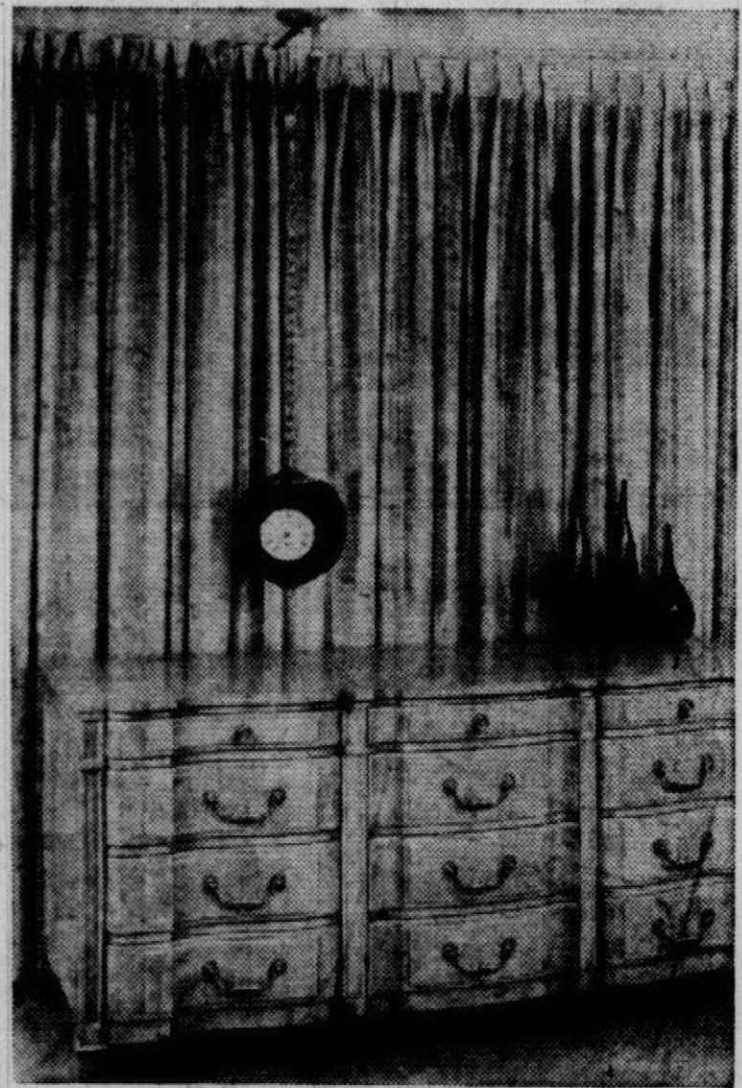

The Michigan Horticultural Society, who sponsors the Michigan Flower and Home Show, will present the flower arrangements section. This year they will present "The Bailey Legacy" based on the life of the great Horticulturist, Liberty Hyde Bailey.

Michigan Florists will double their space of last year with beautiful floral displays and shadow boxes.

According to Werner M. Hoy, general manager, the show will be open from 12 noon to 11 p.m. week days and from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Water-mixed paints have hitherto had a flat finish after drying. Now, a new latex paint has as high a gloss as standard enamels.

QUALITY FINISHES ADD DISTINCTION TO EXOTIC WOODS IN FURNITURE

Recently developed fillers, stains and lacquers were used in perfecting the beautiful finish noted in this year's exhibits at the International Home Furnishings Market in Chicago. In some instances as many as twenty different operations had contributed to the final high polish.

RECORDING action with a Hollywood producer. It's fun and movie camera doesn't require a easy.

Excellent Home Movies Needn't Be Difficult

Good home movies are not only wonderful to have, but they are fun to take, too. No one expects to obtain pictures like those of a Hollywood professional. Rather, most of us take simple movies of our family, our friends, the trips we take and the things we do together.

The three qualifications necessary for good color movie-making are sharpness, color and interest.

Sharpness means proper focus and camera steadiness. An exposure meter is not absolutely necessary for sharp focus, but it does give the only correct lens setting for indoor shots and for outdoor ones in deep shade.

Blurring or fuzziness of a picture is usually caused by movement of the camera during picture taking. Ideally, a tripod does away with any movement but, especially for outdoor shots, a tripod often is inconvenient. An extra-steady way of holding the camera such as bracing it against cheek or forehead is necessary to stop movement.

When using color film in the movie camera, the correct lens opening will bring out the full color. Too large an opening produces a pale, thin tone whereas too small an opening gives a dark, heavy one. Correct lens openings are obtained by practice plus study of reading material supplied with every movie camera and exposure meter.

Since action makes movies click, pictures should be packed with things that are moving, children at play, people doing things. Shots of scenery make fine still slides or in-between action shots, but are dead dull when prolonged in the movies.

Making a movie interesting is what most amateur photographers try to do. Every scene must have a point and the idea is to follow through the scene to the end, not just hit or miss. A change of shooting distances and angles plus use of close-ups packs eye appeal.

When taking a trip, plan out beforehand how a record of it will be made. A few shots taken while the family car is being loaded, leaving the dog at the boarding kennel, going across a large bridge, riding a ferry boat—all these add interest later on when the story of the vacation trip is put together. By splicing and cutting the film, a smooth story can be projected on the home screen and the participants can re-live their vacation.

Both in new construction and in remodeling, the producers add kitchen styling will continue to emphasize built-in cabinets. Today, the manufacturer say, the average new home would have from 12 to 13 cabinets.

In the 1956 survey, 88 per cent of the kitchen cabinets were wood. Judging by the strong demand for factory-produced wood cabinets in recent months, the manufacturers report, the figure may pass the 90 per cent mark this year.

The trend toward larger kitchens and more wood cabinets applies in the remodeling of older homes, the manufacturers say. In modernization, they explain, kitchens usually can be expanded by taking space from an adjacent room or a pantry.

Use of Ruler Is Certain Test of a Carpenter

A true sign of an efficient home carpenter is his ability to use a ruler for accurate measurements. No matter how good tools are, waste of time and expensive wood stock is inevitable if a homeowner doesn't measure accurately.

There are a number of good devices — expensive and inexpensive — available. Perhaps the most common measuring device is the carpenter's ruler. It can be made of wood or lightweight metal, and it unfolds from about 10 inches to either two, three or six feet. The shorter rulers are called boxwood rules, and they are easy to handle for small projects. Both of these type rulers are marked in inches with one-sixteenth graduations. This is about as close a measurement the average homeowner requires in his work.

A majority of homeowners have added to their ruler stock a tape or flexible steel ruler. These metal rulers reduce breakage or damage, and retract into a compact, thin spool for easy storage. A few of the advantages of the flexible steel rule are: it can be used to measure inside dimensions, curved wood stock, and the circumference of dowels.

One of the better measuring devices for marking guides and testing wood flatness is the steel straight edge. This type of rule is a strip of hardened steel that is round with an accurate edge. It comes in lengths from one to six feet. The steel edge is ideal for measuring glass to be cut, and as a guide for cutting glass with a cutter.

There are many homeowners who have graduated into the making of fine furniture or cabinet work. More often than not, the accurate measurements required for this work are done with either a mortise or marking gauge. The mortise gauge has two spurs for indicating parallel lines to make mortises and tenons, a type of wood joint used for strength or neatness.

The marking gauge is made of either wood or metal and it has a head that slides on an eight-inch bar. A sharp spur or pin fixed at the end of the bar scores an even line parallel to the wood stock edge for easy and accurate cutting.

A person need not be a graduate engineer to use any of these rulers. All are easy to apply, and they mean the difference between building an even, strong table or other project, or one that is wobbly and a waste of lumber.

A tractor for hauling trailers on long trips has a high seat so that the driver's eye level is eight feet above the road out of the direct line of approaching headlights. It also has a small crew room with two bunks and a lavatory.

Combine Hobby with Home Decorating; Collect Lamps

A BRACKET lamp mounted on the kitchen wall is inspected by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Money.

Converting antique lamps is Mrs. Money's hobby.

Plymouth Couple Convert 20 Antiques

Today we merely flick a switch, but in days gone by they turned up the wick and held a match to it until a good healthy glow appeared.

The kerosene and whale oil lamps represent a pioneering era in early America as well as progress. A goodly collection of these lamps, now known as antiques, can be found at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Money at 42410 Parkhurst in Plymouth.

Money has had an active interest in history, evidenced in his work with the Plymouth Historical Society, of which he is now president. Two years ago his appreciation of unique lamps became a hobby.

During this time Money has converted twenty lamps to electricity in his garage workshop. Adapters are available for the conversion and do not alter the appearance of the lamp. Many of the lamps were found in second-hand shops on the back roads of Indiana and others belonged to an old aunt and other relatives.

He has two whale oil lamps, which were common up to the Civil War, but they were losing ground to the kerosene lamp as early as 1800. Kerosene lamps were prevalent until 1900 when they bowed out to electricity, although some outlying areas didn't switch over until 20 years ago.

In the days of the whale oil lamp, whaling was a necessary profession. Whale ex-peditions set out often to obtain oil and bone, which was used extensively in manufacturing.

The light given by a whale oil lamp was of a yellowish cast. Kerosene gave a white light and most important, it was cheaper and easier to use.

Things were just about the same 100 years ago — if you didn't want to pay the premium, you did it yourself. Kerosene, sold by traveling salesmen, came in white, red and green. The colors were two cents more per gallon. So, perhaps the most imposing cent was the one for the ingenuous housewives who soaked a strip of red flannel in the white kerosene to produce the decorative color.

With no need for kerosene, the Moneys added a dash of vegetable coloring to water to re-plant the milk glass founts and shade are fringed with glittering prisms. A floral design is hand painted on the glass.

The collecting habits of Mr. and Mrs. Money don't stop with lamps. They also have a glass fount and bases. The fine display of early pressed glass founts and china. Many of these items were given their parents as wedding presents.

All of the old kerosene lamps weren't table models. The collection includes several bracket lamps which are attached to the wall. One pair as authenticity to their home.

LP Records Need Special Care

Before you take that new LP record out of its shiny jacket, start a program of regular care and you'll get ten times as much out of it and every disc you buy.

Hi-fi experts tell us the average record will perform adequately for 200 playings — if it's cared for. Yet, the customary lifespan of the average record is 20 playings. Here's how to increase your listening pleasure and get more for your money.

Record care begins when you pick up the album. Instead of tugging at the record's sleeve, squeeze the ends of the jacket in the crook of your arm and remove the record by its edges, or by one edge and the center. (Don't be afraid of dropping it — the plastic material is virtually unbreakable.) A good general rule is hands off the grooves at all times.

Cleanliness is next. Periodic use of an aerosol spray made especially for hi-fi records counteracts any static electricity and banishes foreign particles clinging to the surface. Dirt is the record's deadly enemy, and once on the grooves is ground in by the needle and translated into noise to compete with the music. More than that, it starts a wearing away process of the disc's sensitive skin.

Read the directions before you apply the spray — overuse will clog the pick-up in the same way as dust. Between periodic sprayings, a scope handy for this purpose chemically-treated cloth or Fingers off the stylus, too sponge will help keep records and brush it gently after each playing.

If your records are grimy treat them to a complete dunking in the kitchen sink. Use a mild detergent, cool water and a versatile cellulose sponge. Press lightly, working the sponge along the grooves to loosen the dirt. Then rinse under cool running water and dry in a dish rack.

Just for the record, here are other products of chemicals try to keep your LP's in a groove. Plastic envelopes cut to size will protect your record from the sound as its tip rides inside the jacket, and a flattens. The diamond stylus — or needle — is your record's best friend. It lasts longer and is less wearing on the grooves.

No needle is permanent however, and the diamond has a lifespan of about a thousand playing hours. Take your needle for a checkup every six months. Many record stores keep a micro-

Sundries Cost Less, Contain More Vitamins

Be good to your family. Serve a variety of meats at least once a week for good nutrition and menu interest. Variety meats are the organs or glands of beef animals, hogs, lambs and calves. They may also be called sundries or organ meats. In this class you'll find heart, kidneys, liver, tongue, tripe, sweetbreads and brains.

Liver, heart and kidneys have as much protein and more minerals and vitamins than regular cuts of meat. One 3 ounce serving of beef liver furnishes over half the daily's quota of iron, lamb and veal about 90 percent and pork slightly over a day's requirement. Liver and kidneys are also excellent sources of vitamin A and riboflavin. The market which is your source of supply is very important to the quality of variety meats for they must be handled and wrapped very carefully. The best quality are plump, fresh in appearance with a shiny surface, relatively firm in texture, and a uniform color. The color of liver will vary from light red for calves liver to a very deep red for pork meats also lead the parade of budget meat values. With one exception, they are entirely edible. The one exception is fresh tongue from which the skin and connective tissue are removed after cooking. There are approximately four 4 ounce servings per pound of heart, liver, kidneys, sweetbreads and brains. There are 3 servings per pound of tongue.

Yes, you can be good to your family at low cost with any kind of variety meat!

Wrong Procedures Causes Floors to Dim After Waxing

The nemesis of homemakers is dirty floors. With heavy spring mud being what it is, children's footprints across a clean kitchen floor, foyer and other parts of the house can drive a calm housewife to a frenzy.

The only defense against such a common, seasonal problem is wax. An efficient coat of wax over resilient flooring not only keeps the home attractive, but lessens floor cleaning chores some 40 per cent.

Surprisingly, not too many housewives know how to wax a floor efficiently, according to home economists. It's not that the chore is neglected, they say, but because of wrong procedures floors in the average home lose their gleam and become dirty faster than they should.

There are two schools of thought on waxing resilient floors. One is the use of self-polishing waxes which are faster to work with but do not keep a floor clean and shiny too long. The other is the regular liquid wax that requires a little more work, but keeps a resilient floor bright and clean for at least 5 months.

Both of these waxes are excellent for such flooring as asphalt and rubber tile, linoleum, cork, and plastic. However, paste wax is not recommended on resilient flooring because of harmful solvents.

Preparation of the floor before waxing is important. This should be done with lukewarm water and a mild detergent. Many housewives make the mistake of using hot water and a strong detergent to clean a floor. This will break down the flooring surface and cause a previous wax coating to turn yellow. Also, only a small amount of water is necessary; do not flood the floor.

A thorough mopping is next, making sure that all trace of water and detergent is gone. This is important since wax will dry in streaks if the floor isn't dry. If a floor is not too dirty, a damp mop to pick up dust will suffice instead of water and detergent mopping.

If a self-polishing wax is chosen, make sure an applicator mop is used. It saves time and evenly distributes a thin coat of wax over the entire floor. If a liquid polish wax is preferred, a polishing machine equipped with a pad does an efficient job of spreading the wax. If a machine is not available, the applicator can be used.

In either case, it is important to apply only a thin film of wax and allow at least a half hour to dry before buffing. A heavy coat of wax will not do the job, and it turns yellow after a while making the floors unsightly and harder to clean.

Many homemakers are not certain about floor maintenance between waxings. Maintenance that should and should not be done are: Never use an oil mop to dust floors; mop up spills and tracks immediately using a mop dampened with cold water; vacuum clean floors to eliminate dirt and grit particles before they are ground into floor surface; Lightly buff burns, rubber heel marks, acid spots with fine steel wool and cleaner; Sweep floor around eating areas after each meal.

Tin makes up 75 per cent of Bolivia's exports today. The bountiful production of tin came along in the 1870's, when Bolivia's silver production began fading away.

Visiting German Youth Finds America Confusing, Fascinating

By David Jolliffe
 America can be confusing as well as fascinating. At least that's what Kraus (Nick) Darup, 18, of Cuthaven, Germany says concerning his U.S. experiences.
 Nick came here with 60 other German students sponsored by the Council of Churches as part of the Youth of Understanding Program. This organization sponsors exchange students between the U.S. and foreign countries.
 "Before coming here I saw the U.S. through the eyes of Hollywood movies," Nick explains. "It's a little confusing to finally get here and discover that Hollywood's interpretations and the real thing is very different."
 Nick speaks English very well and Mrs. Theresa Cameron of 44445 G. Bradford, with whom Nick is staying, says he does better every day.
 "My biggest language problem was some of the slang expressions," he said. "But I haven't had much trouble with English itself. We have to take four years of English during high school, so I was pretty well prepared when I arrived."
 Nick's interests center around sports, as many teenagers do. So this spring he'll switch from field hockey and soccer to tennis and track. Right now he's concentrating on swimming in general and the 100-yard breast stroke in particular.
 The agreement that brought Nick here stipulates he must return to Germany next summer. But he tentatively plans to return to the U.S. and study either architecture or medicine, preferably at the University of Michigan.
 Of course that's a long way in the future — Nick must complete two years of high school upon his return to Germany. The year spent in school here doesn't count on a German high school degree.
 In spite of the language difficulty Nick manages a good average in his U.S. classes.

Kraus Darup

He finds school a little easier here than in his native Germany and he should know. While keeping up with his American classmates, the 5'-10" teen-ager carries on correspondence courses to stay abreast of his German studies.
 "In Germany they count knowledge instead of credits," he continued. "You have to go through 13 years of school before earning a diploma and pass a comprehensive exam before moving on to a higher grade. We figure the last two years in high school are equivalent to two years of college."
 According to Nick there's a world of difference in dating habits between the two countries. "In Germany we don't take high school dating very seriously. But here everyone seems to be going everywhere. Several weeks ago Nick attended an International meeting in Ann Arbor. Students gathered there to give their impressions of the United States.
 Nick also spoke to the Plymouth Rotary Club two weeks ago through whom arrangements were made to find a place to stay here. His father was a Rotary Club president in Germany.
 Before returning to Germany in July, Nick would like to take a trip through the United States. That's one reason he would like to line up a job. Preferably as a baby sitter. "I definitely prefer older babies," he concluded.

Former Pastor's Son to Speak

Rev. Wayne Welton
 The Stanley party was a fine success. There was a good crowd and everybody had a good time as well as adding to our financial account.
 We all expect to come to the Grange hall Saturday night, March 8 to the party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Wisely. Refreshments will be served and a "silver chest" is planned instead of individual gifts.
 Remember the date of March 22. Another one of those good dinners followed by cards and dancing. Further particulars at a later date.
 Heart disease is apparently more prevalent among women than men, but it causes 75 per cent more deaths among the males in this country. One possible explanation of the excess male mortality is that men are thought to be particularly subject and vulnerable to the strains and pressures of modern life.
 Great blue sharks, known as man-eaters, may grow to 36 feet in length.

Aquinas Academy To Hold Panel at Madonna College

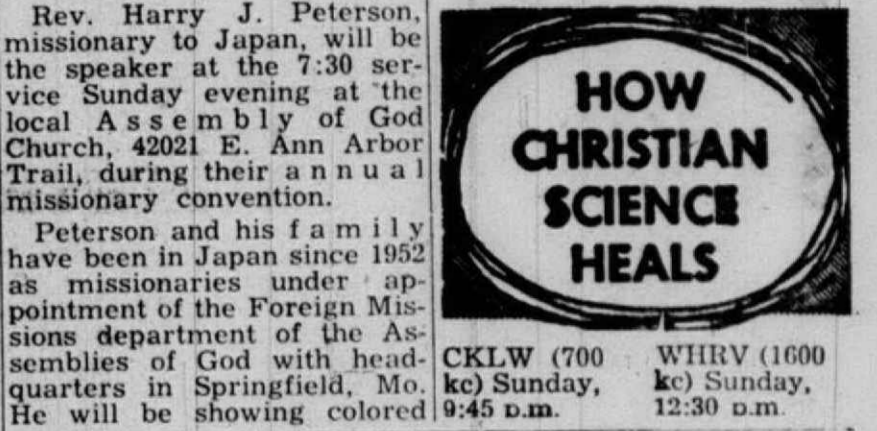

The Madonna College campus Aquinas will meet for the 15th time, Tuesday, March 11, in DeSales auditorium. This year, the academy will specifically consider the philosophic problem of knowledge.
 In keeping with tradition, the symposium will consist of sophomores who have completed the introduction to philosophy course last semester. Director of the group is Fr. James T. Shannon, head of the Philosophy and Theology Division at Madonna.
 Chairman of the Academy, Judge Bondie, will introduce the program and the panel members. First panelist, Janet Chertow, will speak on the life of St. Thomas. Susan Chodnicki will next present the general problem of knowledge.
 Other members of the panel will discuss the three widely accepted solutions to the problem of knowledge. The sensist or materialistic approach will be given by Mary Ann Ornowski; the idealistic explanation by Ivonne Yur; and the middle ground between these two extremes — which Scholastic philosophers generally accept — by Joanne Makowski.
 Father Shannon emphasized that the panel is being presented by beginning philosophy students. "The purpose of the Academy," he explained, "is to attempt to understand what problems philosophy seeks to solve, not to give definite answers."

THE MEANING OF THE CROSS
 No event in human history has been interpreted in as many different ways as the death of Christ. And yet there is no reason for these various "interpretations."
 The Bible's statements on the death of Christ do not need interpreting as much as they need reading. Several passages from the Bible will illustrate:
 "Christ died for our sins."—"God commendeth His love toward us in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us."—"Christ died for the ungodly."
 "Behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world."—"The blood of Jesus Christ, His Son, cleanseth us from all sin."
 Remember, the above are not interpretations. They are simple Bible statements. The Bible, then, leaves no one in doubt as to why Jesus died. He died to take the punishment and to remove the guilt of all the sins of all the world—so that all who accept Him by faith as their Redeemer might go free.
 That, and that above all else, is the message of the Christian Church to the world today. Have you found your pardon in that Word?

TIPS FOR TEENS

Q.—"Dear Elinor: I am a girl in junior high and my problem is dances. We have good dances at school, but boys and girls who like each other never dance with anybody else . . . just each other. I would like to dance with various boys. But the students dance with the same partners all the time. Everybody seems afraid to cut on 'couples.' Some of us think the dances would be more fun if we danced with a lot of partners instead of just one. How can we get the others to do this? I am in the student council and might bring it up in a meeting if you have suggestions.

Ans.—You're right that dances are for "mixing and mingling." If couples want to dance just with each other, they can do it at home any time. Why not bring the subject up in the student council and perhaps you can use "mixers" at the dances like this:

Have a boy or a popular teacher act as a master of ceremonies and announce various kinds of dances. For one dance, have some "assistants" give bits of colored thread or paper to all the boys and girls. Then they all match up threads or paper and the couples with the same color dance together for one dance.

Boys form a big circle, holding hands. Girls form a similar circle inside it. Music starts and the two circles move in opposite directions, one inside the other as separate circles, one toward the left, one toward the right. When the music stops, each boy dances with the girl nearest him.

Have each girl and boy piece together objects cut out of magazines. These objects have been cut out, torn apart, half given to a girl and the other half to a boy. When the two pieces are fitted together to complete the object, the girl and boy dance together. Objects can be animals, cars, food, etc.

Give each girl and boy a piece of paper with the name of one member of a famous couple written on it. Each must see who has the other name and dance with him or her. For example, Adam and Eve; Samson and Delilah; Anthony and Cleopatra; L'il Abner and Daisy Mae; Elizabeth Taylor and Mike Todd; Mickey Mouse and Minnie Mouse, etc.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

Threat or Promise

BY ELMER E. WHITE

Michigan's economic stamina is being tested by a business setback that both parties agree is gripping the nation, either temporarily or on a long-range basis.

The effect on state government is cumulative.

For the second year, Republicans are faced with a need for economy, ranged against demands for expanded services, especially in the fields of higher education and mental health.

"Caucus instructions are to cut the budget. There will be no new taxes."

That was the cryptic announcement of Senator Frank D. Beadle (R-St. Clair) after a two-hour conference with the Republican majority. The repercussions started immediately.

Democrats charged it was a trial balloon, a frank pitch for public support; but there was also the opinion that the GOP is making wise use of the existing situation.

Republicans reason that if the public reaction is against their decision, the party will have a ready-made argument that, despite the anticipated flood of red ink, the public wants services.

"It means that the public will, in effect, be demanding new taxes and we'll have time to pass them," one said.

The final decision can fix state spending on a two-year-old standard with increases only to take care of year-old pay raises, recent promotion adjustments of wage scales and committed buildings.

Another increase will be more than $19,000,000 poured into state school aid from the general fund — a drain never anticipated.

School aid was handled, until two years ago, by the law turning over two cents of the three-cent on a dollar sales tax to the schools. When the fund ran short, the state made up the difference.

First move to keep the level at $190 per pupil was to advance payments two years ago. Last year, the answer was the $25,000,000 cigarette and liquor tax increases.

The twin tax boost fell $6,000,000 short.

That means that the state will have to raise $6,000,000 to handle current-year payments, then find $14,000,000 more for the 70,000 new pupils expected next fall.

Republican decision anticipates a deficit of some $15,000,000 — which party hopefuls describe as "manageable."

Republicans said the decision will mean the equivalent of a 10 per cent across-the-board decrease in state services.

Because some items like public welfare cannot be decreased, the decreases will have to be spotted heavier in some agencies. Republicans said the 30,000 state payroll will have to be reduced.

As the 1958 session of the legislature nears the halfway point, the question develops: Is this really a trial balloon, or a policy decision that will stick?

Very Hardy Perennial

If Your Name Is 'Linned'

By ANN REYNOLDS, Ph.D.

"Would very much like to know the history of my name which is 'Linned,'" Mrs. L. P. D., Plymouth, Mich., writes.

This is an interesting and rare name, and has an unusual origin. As names go, it is a young name. It was fashioned from the last name of Linnaeus, the founder of the modern study of plants, most likely by parents who were great admirers of that famous botanist. Then, after the name had been given to one baby girl, others may have heard it, liked it, and used it.

Carl von Linné, as he was called when nobility was bestowed on him, was born in 1707, a native of Sweden. Last names were not usual with men and women outside the nobility at that time yet. He was the son of a protestant clergyman, Nils Ingemarsson, which simply meant that his father was the son of a man named Ingemar. When last names became the custom, Nils Ingemarsson was faced with the problem what name to pick. He chose "Linnaeus," the word for the linden or lime tree, which was "linn," and latinized it, as did many men in a learned profession. Why did Carl's father pick the name of that tree for his own? Because there was a large old lime tree he was especially fond of. And anyway, these beautiful shade trees had something romantic about them; they were the darlings of European, mainly German poets; they have a bloom with a heady sweet fragrance the bees like to swarm around, and everyone was fond of them. Incidentally, there is a famous thoroughfare in Berlin, "Unter den Linden," or "Beneath the limes," lined with such trees.

The name that was made up from the word for a tree, in turn was also given to a plant in honor of Linnaeus; it is a slender evergreen plant with dainty pink flowers, and it grows among the moss in the woods of the north; its full name is Linnaea borealis or nordic Linnaea, and it was the favorite flower of Linnaeus.

The great botanist was not above using his stupendous knowledge for fun. When he was famous, and his early poverty was only a memory, he had a beautiful country estate, Hammarby. There he planted a clock of flowers; the day-blooming and night-blooming flowers, as they opened at certain times that he knew they would, showed the time!

"Lynn," a name that has become quite popular recently, is of entirely different origin. There were similar words in Old English, Gaelic and Welsh, meaning water-fall, or stream running over rocks, or a ravine with steep sides. This word first turned up in a place name, then a last name, and now is also a given name.

Want to know about other names? Do you like or dislike yours? Write about it to Dr. Reynolds, care of this newspaper. Requests will be compiled with in the order received.

Books That Are Being Read

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Pocket Battleship. The Story of the Admiral Scheer (Norton): The first detailed account of the activities of the German cruiser — known as a "pocket battleship" — that terrorized Allied shipping for months during the last war.

The story is told by its captain, now Adm. Theodor Krancke, and H. J. Brennecke, one of the more popular modern German authors, with never-before published details of its action. There are also a number of photographs. The Scheer sailed from German waters, before the United States entered the war and in one of its biggest successes destroyed a number of ships of a major convoy on the North Atlantic. But the damage it inflicted was even greater than the tonnage sunk — it immobilized large British naval forces at a time when they were sorely needed.

The Scheer was active in the South Atlantic where it made rendezvous frequently with supply ships, and had one daring foray into the Indian Ocean before starting the long voyage home.

"Life Begins at Forty"

By ROBERT PETERSON

MONEY MAY BE THE ROOT of all evil, but it also appears to be a primary factor in retirement happiness.

Until recently I'd never seen any statistics on the role money plays in retirement satisfaction. But the other day I had a chat with Dr. Harry J. Johnston, head of the Life Extension Examiners in New York City, and learned about a study which bears on the subject. This firm, incidentally, does research on longevity and conducts detailed physical examinations for private individuals and employees of firms.

"Sometime back," said Dr. Johnston, "we conducted a survey among 1,500 people past 65 years of age. We asked them many questions, including some about their retirement attitudes and their income.

"We were struck by the fact that 86 per cent of those who claimed to be bored and unhappy in retirement were those with a very limited retirement income. Only six per cent of those with more substantial incomes said they were unhappy.

"Of course good health is the first essential for a happy retired life," he declared. "I don't suppose anyone would argue with that. But secondly you need an adequate income. Such an income frees you from money worries. You don't have to worry about food, clothing, shelter, or medical expenses. It also gives you mobility. If you get bored you can get a change of scene by taking a trip. It permits you to do a lot of things that can contribute to your satisfaction."

I ASKED WHEN HE believed one should start planning for retirement. "You can't begin too early when it comes to adopting good living and money habits," he replied thoughtfully. "There's a lot of truth to the observation that an old person is a living exhibit of the habits he has observed throughout life. If he's taken good care of himself, the chances are he will bring to old age a body much sounder and healthier than will a person who has neglected himself.

"We did a study a few years ago among some men who were unusually healthy at 70. We found they had one trait in common — they were all good sleepers. They had all made a definite point of getting seven or eight hours of sleep every night. I think we sometimes forget how important sleep is.

"Early preparation is also important from the financial point of view," continued Dr. Johnston. "The person who puts aside something from the day he begins working will be way ahead of the man who neglects savings for retirement until he's middle-aged."

The Complete Handbook of Bowling (Prentice-Hall) features 400 split-second sequence photos in which photographer Charles Yerchow depicts the techniques of bowling aces Billy Welu, Lee Weiler, Ad Carlson, Dick Joubert and, in a special section for the ladies, Sylvia Wene.

Every phase of the game is captured in photo and text which, along with tips from the bowling stars, imply that anyone can score over 170 consistently with the proper instruction and application. The book was designed to aid the multitude of bowlers who, with a national average of less than 150, are stymied by the lack of individual instruction.

national Rescue Committee and became a firm friend of the anti-Communist Vietnamese, says the country's long, bloody history of resistance to foreign rule offers hope for its future unity and independence.

"Vietnam had to adapt to many of the Chinese social and technical inventions," he writes. "How to benefit from the more advanced Chinese civilization without becoming Chinese themselves was already the main question in the life of this people when Vietnam emerged as a separate state more than 2,000 years ago.

Can Ho Chi Ming, Communist president of North Vietnam, change the hereditary Vietnamese attitude toward China? the author asks. A positive answer is suggested.

One of the most complete books on the booming sport of bowling has been written by Oscar Fraumli, United Press sports columnist, with the aid of five of the nation's top bowling stars.

Records Being Heard

NEW YORK — (UP) The nation's youngest successful composer-artist combination comes from the Long Island town of Hicksville. The team calls itself the "Two Tones" and already has two teenage hits.

Jim and John Cunningham are identical twins. Like Dick and Jerry Ross, they are the "Pajama Game" and "Damn Yankees" fame. Jim and John interchange the composer and lyric writer duties, according to who gets the idea first.

Jim and John, who are only 17, collaborate on "Jo-Ann," one of RCA Victor's newest favorites with the younger set. Their latest, "My Dear," also should get a hit rating. The Twin Tones formula is simple. After their work is completed, they invite a teenage jury to their home for the verdict. Thus far, this has been a good plan.

For dancers — "An Evening at the Pump Room" is the title of an LP made for Mercury by David Le Winter and His Orchestra. It captures on records the atmosphere of one of Chicago's best-known ballrooms.

Tony Bennett, who has waxed a number of hits for Columbia, now has established himself as a fine jazz singer with an LP, "The Beat of My Heart." Bennett shows off his new talent on 12 tunes, including "Blue in the Night" and "Just One of Those Things," behind a combo which features Jo Jones, Kai Winding, Art Blakey and Cannonball Adderley.

Meredith Willson's wonderful Broadway musical, "The Music Man," is one of the freshest shows to hit the big town. Its "76 Trombones" has become a nationwide favorite. All of the music from

The ice and crust on the snow has made it impossible for farmers to get into the woods to draw wood and it has caught a great many of them short of that very necessary article.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hanchett last Saturday, a boy. We feel mighty sorry for the young lad who was born on Leap Year, as he will only be celebrating once every four years.

Several of the junior boys came to school with their hair curled last Monday morning, presumably to make their appearances better with the girls. However only one had the nerve to come back Tuesday morning with his still curled.

A large crowd gathered at the Reform Caucus Tuesday evening at the Village Hall. Asa Joy was made chairman of the meeting and Bert Bennett secretary. The following ticket was named: for president, E. Charley Minthorn has informed us that it was just a joke, he certainly did not name his son George Washington Minthorn.

A reader of the Mail writes this week asking "What about those drinking fountains that the village bought last summer." Well, they are here, paid for and all ready to put up as soon as the weather permits. Editor's note: They may come in real handy about May 1, that is if the Reform ticket goes through next Monday. We'll be expecting a lot of "dry fellows around the park about that time.

There are to be two decidedly different but interesting questions before the voters come Monday. One is the macadam paving of Main street, the other to license or not license saloons. The latter will not be a direct vote but the Reform ticket is represented by the movement to close up all saloons in Plymouth should their ticket carry. The editor feels sure that our readers are well able to decide for themselves as to how they vote on both issues so only urges that ALL DO VOTE.
