200 Acres Scorched By Fire

A major grass fire that raged across 200 acres of fields and endangered homes was fought by Plymouth Township firemen Monday afternoon west of the city.

This has been a big year for grass fires, but this was the biggest of all, firemen reported after an exhausting hour of battle. A strong wind whipped the fire from Ann Arbor Trail, south and east to McClumpha and Ann Arbor Roads.

Giant clouds of yellow and white smoke rose a half mile, drawing many spectators. Some of the spectators, seeing the desperate situation, pitched in with firemen to help beat out the ground blaze.

The fire started behind an Ann Arbor Trail home. A resident wanted to burn off grass along a fence row and took precautions to plow a furrow around the fence, but a strong wind carried the fire across the plowed ground.

Within a matter of minutes, the fire swept across fields and up behind homes along McClumpha and Ann Arbor roads. Firemen received four different calls and the trucks sped from one home to another to snuff out fire which crept up near barns and garages.

A grove of evergreens was badly damaged and damage to an orchard is not yet known.

Township firemen also extinguished three other grass fires in the past week. One, last Wednesday, was west of the Burroughs plant. On Friday they went to a Turkey Run home where boys playing with a magnifying glass started a grass fire. On Saturday night someone ignited a pile of old Christmas trees at the township dump, causing a big fire.

New Precinct for School District Voting Formed

A second voting precinct for Plymouth Community School District elections was approved by the board of education at their Monday night meeting.

Included in the new precinct will be homes in Canton Township within the school district and all of Precincts 2 and 3 in Plymouth Township. The polling place will be Gallimore Elementary School on Sheldon Road in Canton Township.

The school board several months ago received a verbal request from Canton Township hall to make it more convenient for voters in that end of the school district. All voting so far has been at the high school.

Then last month, the Canton Township board passed a resolution formally asking for the precinct and offering the township hall and voting machines for school elections. Two weeks ago the board decided to set up a second polling place but they hadn't established where it would be or the area included.

Monday night the board decided to use Gallimore school. This was in line with a previous policy of holding school elections in schools. They then included Canton Township and the two Plymouth Township precincts in the new school precinct. By keeping established precincts of Plymouth Township, we hope to eliminate much confusion," Superintendent Russell Isbister said. The two Plymouth Township precincts include areas on the west and partial north and south sides of the city of Plymouth.

The new precinct will also include the small portion of Superior Township where there are but four registered voters.

There will be 5,528 registered voters in School Precinct 1 which includes all of the city of Plymouth, Plymouth Township Precinct 1 and a section of Northville Township.

Precinct 2 will have 3,346 (Continued on Page 8)

CLOUDS OF SMOKE soared high into the air Monday afternoon when 200 acres of grassland burned off a mile west of the city. A strong wind swept the fire along, endangering homes and buildings. Plymouth Township firemen and many spectators finally beat out the fire without damage to property, except a grove of pine trees. It was the biggest of dozens of grass fires in the area this spring.

Liquor-By-Glass Election Being Tried in City Again

City of Plymouth voters will be asked this fall to approve the sale of liquor by the glass, it was disclosed this week by Ralph G. Lorenz, manager of the Hotel Mayflower.

He revealed his plans to a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce Monday and the latter adopted a resolution supporting the proposal.

"The present dry law is discriminatory in its effect on business within the city," said the C. of C. resolution. "The present law also places an undue competitive burden upon city business as compared to similar businesses lying just outside the city limits."

"The responsibility of the Chamber of Commerce is to encourage and strengthen all business within the total Plymouth Community and to encourage the flow of commerce into the Plymouth community."

"Now therefore be it resolved, the Board of Directors does support the proposal to permit the sale of liquor by the glass in the City of Plymouth, it being our understanding this proposal will be offered the voters in an early election."

Petitions will be circulated in the immediate future for sufficient signatures to get the matter on the November ballot, Lorenz said. If the petitions are successful, the matter would be offered city of Plymouth voters for the third time, it having been rejected twice before. But Plymouth Township, which surrounds the city, has been "wet" for years. Lorenz said the outcome of the election would determine whether the Hotel Mayflower "would continue in its present form."

"Last year the hotel fed 200,000 people and slept 21,000," he said. "Of this total, 90 percent were from out of town. This meant that the pull of the Hotel meant business for everyone in the city — gas stations, clothing stores, and all the others. It's a far bigger matter than simply the survival of one business in Plymouth. "But, it's a losing struggle as far as my stockholders are concerned. Conrad Hiltor, recently announced he would build a super-hotel at Willow Run airport, with cocktail lounge, swimming pool, and all the rest. Today 40 percent of the Mayflower business comes from the airport. "And, in 1960 after the next census, at least 15 new liquor licenses will be available in Livonia and possibly three more in Plymouth Township. This will bring further strong competitive forces into the field against the Mayflower. We offer visitors every modern facility, except liquor with meals. There's nothing management can do about that. Only the voters can do it."

The vote of the Chamber directors was unanimous. Various members of the Board contended that the

'Number Please' Silenced Sunday

Plymouth telephone users will no longer hear the familiar "number please" when they lift their receivers starting this Sunday morning.

Special ceremonies will mark the inauguration of a new dial telephone system which is now undergoing final testing prior to the "cutover" at 2:01 a.m. this Sunday.

The new service will be integrated with a nationwide dialing network within a few minutes during the early morning hour when technicians disconnect the old office and put the new in operation.

Robert D. Maurer, manager of Michigan Bell Telephone here, said that a special ceremony Saturday evening will mark the inauguration of the new service. Mayor Harold E. Zuenther and Township Supervisor Roy R. Lindsay will place the first official dial calls over special pre-arranged facilities from the Mayflower Hotel during the Saturday night program attended by civic and business leaders and Michigan Bell officials.

The program will include a demonstration of the electronic magic which makes possible direct dialing by Plymouth telephone users to some 40 million telephones throughout the United States and Canada as well as to most southeastern Michigan communities.

"We actually have two complete telephone systems in Plymouth now," Maurer pointed out. "Cables from the homes and businesses are still connected to the old manual exchange, while a new network is connected to the new dial equipment in the automatic dial office on Ann Arbor Road.

"This arrangement permits us to complete the changeover with a minimum of inconvenience to our customers," the manager added. Plymouth's new system has been completed at a cost of $2,900,000. It was in February 1957 that ground was broken on Ann Arbor Road for the new dial equipment building. Western Electric installers have been busy for months putting equipment into place and making tests. Miles of new cables have been laid underground and overhead. Every telephone set in the system had to be converted to dial.

At last count, there are 9,173 telephones in the Plymouth exchange. In 1940 there were 1,743 and in 1946 the number grew to 3,676. Plymouth's phone system will be the most modern made. It is even more modern than Detroit's which does not have direct dialing. Actually, only about eight per cent of long distance calls are direct dialing. Others require the personal attention of the operators thus making it necessary to retain a large long-distance operator force.

The present equipment building on Ann Arbor Trail, across from Kellogg Park, will be vacated and probably sold.

This week, all phone subscribers are receiving their new numbers and phone directories. Plymouth has been assigned the GLenview prefix.

For most people, the new telephone system will mean a loss of their storehouse of remembered telephone numbers. Starting with Edward C. Hough who had a phone number of "1", most numbers could be easily remembered because they had only a few figures. All new numbers will have five digits with the first always being "3."

Maurer urges users to consult their directories closely before placing calls over the new system. When placing calls outside Plymouth, users should consult their Direct Distance Dialing booklet received in mail. The booklet contains complete instructions for finding area codes for dialing other cities and a complete list of areas which can be reached by direct dialing.

SOON TO BECOME a part of communications history in Plymouth is this manually operated switchboard located in the Ann Arbor Trail equipment building. The board has served Plymouth many years but will become obsolete this Sunday morning when dial service is introduced. Most operators will continue to work in other posts with Michigan Bell.

Plymouth Father of Three, Livonia Wife Die in Wreck

Funeral services were held early this week for two people killed in a head-on collision in Plymouth Township last week, one of them a Plymouth father of three children.

Dead are Arthur H. Johnson, 35, of 345 Pacific, and Mrs. Virginia Emmett, 38, of 35940 Parkdale, Livonia. Mrs. Emmett's husband, Robert, 35, was injured.

The tragedy happened last Thursday night on Plymouth Rd. just east of Hillside Inn. The Emmetts were coming out of Plymouth while Mr. Johnson, an examiner for the All-State Insurance Co., was returning home from his Plymouth Rd. office, near Greenfield.

Witnesses told Wayne County Sheriff's deputies that the Emmett car had just passed another car on the four-lane highway when the Johnson car approached down the hill on the left side of the center line. Both of the victims were believed killed upon impact.

Sheriff's deputies, Plymouth police and Plymouth Township firemen were on the scene. A heavy rain was falling during the evening.

It took half an hour to remove the Plymouth man from the wreckage. An acetylene cutting outfit was summoned but was not needed. A gasoline tank hanging from one car was removed by firemen to prevent start of a fire.

Funeral services for Mr. Johnson were held at 10 a.m. Monday from Our Lady of Good Counsel Church where he was a member. He was also a member of the Holy Name Society and Knights of Columbus.

Rev. Father Francis Byrne officiated at funeral services. Interment was at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Southfield Township. Surviving are his wife, Marie; three children, Mar-Jorie, 7, Rebecca, 2, and Ronald, 3 months; and a brother, Lee of Detroit.

He was born March 3, 1923 in Detroit. His parents preceded him in death.

Mr. Johnson was a 1941 graduate of Plymouth High school and had lived here 22 years. He had worked with All-State for seven years.

Services were held at 1 p.m. Tuesday from the Fred Wood Funeral Home, Detroit. Interment was at Grand Lawn Cemetery.

Mr. Emmett has been transferred from Wayne County General Hospital to New Grace Hospital where his condition is described as "good."

Under Study

Proposed City Budget Goes Over Half Million

A record high budget that is $34,000 higher than last year's is being studied by the Plymouth city commission.

Commissioners held a committee-of-the-whole meeting Monday night to go over the proposed budget, but they didn't get very far.

They will have several more meetings before the budget is passed next month, including the usual public hearing.

City Manager Albert Glassford, who is required to draw up the budget each year, recommends a budget totaling $514,370. The current year's budget is $480,607. This year's however, included one extra mill, or $18,000 for a new fire engine.

The commission still hopes to cut the city tax rate from 15 mills ($15.50 per $1,000 valuation) to 13 mills. But taxes won't be going down. The city will adopt the state equalized value which will hike valuations a certain percentage. The percentage is still not known, but it is assumed that it will bring the average taxpayer's bill up to where it was last year—or higher.

Glassford, in his budget message to the commission, said that the increase in revenue will be increased from new construction, adjustments in land values which are low and the equalized value. Assessed valuation for real and personal property in Plymouth will go from $18,000,000 to about $25,800,000.

Among the increased expenses pointed out by the manager are the city's share of paving projects ($20,000), salary increases ($19,000) two additional staff employees ($8,500) and city hall redecorating ($3,000).

Commissioners also must struggle with wage and fringe benefit requests from the Department of Public Works Local Union. They have asked a 20 cent per hour wage increase and a 40 hour week, among other things. They now work 44 hours.

Glassford has recommended a 42 hour week and perhaps dropping to 40 hours in the 1959-60 budget.

MOST PEOPLE take a second look when they see a Pontiac station wagon coming down the C & O Railroad tracks. Called a Hy-Rail car, the vehicle is used for inspection purposes by railroad officers between Detroit and Grand Rapids. The flanged railroad wheels are retractable, making it possible for use on the highway. This is the only one of its kind on the C & O. Pictured with the car in Plymouth last week are Robert Fenton, freight and passenger agent, left; and J. N. Ikner, trainmaster for the Detroit Terminal.

Cooperation Group 'Looks' at Western Electric

A look at Plymouth's forthcoming Western Electric plant was given the Area Cooperation Group at a meeting held last week at the Junior High. New officers for the group were also elected.

Named as co-chairmen were Bob Huston and Warren Smith. Mildred Levering was named secretary and Esther Franklin is Treasurer.

A. D. Johanson, general manager of Western Electric plant, was the speaker. He now heads the operation on Oakman Boulevard in Detroit which will be moved to Plymouth when the building opens in December.

Johanson first told of the scope of Western Electric's operations on the national level, noting that it develops and installs equipment for the Bell Telephone System.

The Plymouth plant will be one of many distributing centers throughout the United States. It will serve as the Michigan distributor. Located on 36 acres of land on Sheldor road, the plant itself is 475 feet by 675 feet and his 420,000 square feet of floor space.

It consists of three main areas—office, equipment repair and shipping. Half of the footage is devoted to warehouse and shipping. Ten thousand different items manufactured by Western Electric are stored for distribution to the Bell System. In other words, the plant will be a type of general store, Johanson pointed out.

Repairing, reconditioning and modifying equipment will be one of the operations. The plant will be able to recondition 30,000 to 40,000 items a month.

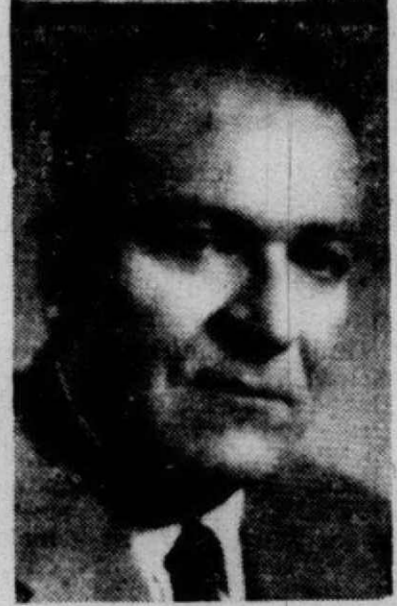

There are 600 people now working at the Oakman plant, most of whom will work here. In addition to these; there will be 40 to 50 equipment installation employees stationed here and 50 to 100 Bell Supply Department employees.

An open house will be held several nights after the plant opens, the manager told the audience.

In answer to questions from the floor, Johanson said that hourly employees belong to a union; that the payroll here will be $3 million annually;

Charles T. Fisher

John Coleman

Deceased Business Leaders Had Link with Plymouth

A Plymouth bank and an industry flew their American flags at half-mast this week in respect to their leaders.

John S. Coleman, president of the Burroughs Corporation, and Charles T. Fisher, Jr., president of the National Bank of Detroit, both died early this week a few hours apart. Both were familiar figures to many Plymouthites.

Fisher, 51, headed Plymouth's two banks. In February of last year, he spoke before the Plymouth-Livonia Advisory Board of the National Bank of Detroit here and predicted that the "future of the area is bright."

Since 1952, when the 11th largest banking concern in the country purchased the Plymouth United Savings Bank, it had poured $1,283,000 into new banking facilities in the Plymouth-Livonia area.

Fisher died at 6 a.m. Monday of lung cancer in Jennings Hospital. He became president of the National Bank of Detroit just before he turned 31.

Coleman, 60, was a frequent visitor to Plymouth, both on business and pleasure. Burroughs is Plymouth's biggest employer and Coleman made intermittent trips to the Plymouth Rd. plant on business matters.

Although he lived in Detroit, Coleman had a "hide-away farm" at Seven Mile and Beck roads in Northville Township where he spent many of his weekends. Often he would visit Plymouth in an inconspicuous manner and while here he would sometimes purchase a suit at Caplin-Sibbald Shop. "I've got seven acres of land and eight acres of machinery," he would often mention in referring to his hideaway.

In October 1955, the Burroughs president spoke at a Chamber of Commerce annual dinner here. A short time later he was elected president of the U.S. Chamber. He died of a heart attack.

Both men had been top community leaders and their records of achievement in business and civic duty were long.

Funeral services for "Chick" Fisher are being held today from the Peter and Paul Jesuit Church in Detroit. Services for Mr. Coleman were Wednesday evening at St. Paul's Episcopal Cathedral. Burial will be Friday morning in Arlington National Cemetery, Arlington, Va.

Two customers, Archibald Brown and Glenn Allen, noticed the light burning in the N. & R. Restaurant and stopped in for a late night cup of coffee. They sat down at the counter and waited. And waited. An hour later cafe owner James Moran showed up to lock up the restaurant, something the cleanup man had forgotten to do.

It was announced at the meeting that the next Town Hall meeting will be before the school board election and will be presented by the School Community Planning Group.

KENNEBUNKPORT, Me.—(UP)—The famous Toonerville Trolley now "runs" along the walls of the Trolley Museum here. Fontaine Fox, creator of the newspaper cartoon of yesteryear which featured the erratic little trolley, has presented original drawings of his cartoons to the museum which has a collection of 63 old trolley cars of various sizes and shapes.

THESE ARE THE CARS involved in last Thursday night's head-on crash on Plymouth Rd. in which two people lost their lives. At top is the 1953 Pontiac owned by Arthur Johnson, 345 Pacific, while below is the 1952 Oldsmobile driven by Robert Emmett, 35940 Parkdale, Livonia. Mr. Johnson and Mrs. Emmett were killed.

Local Rotarians Host District Conference

Plymouth Rotary Club will be host to between 500 and 1,000 Rotarians from southeastern Michigan and part of Ontario at the District 660 Conference being held in Detroit this Sunday and Monday.

The Plymouth club is sponsoring the conference this year because one of its members, Frank E. Henderson, is governor of the district. But because the affair is so large, it must be held in Detroit.

Nearly all of the Plymouth club's 80 members will be attending the conference and taking part in its operation. It is being held at the Hotel Stalter with sessions Sunday evening and all day Monday.

Among the speakers will be a former German who now directs the Army Ballistic Missile Test Laboratory and a former Rotary International president.

The Sunday evening program opens at 5 p.m. with a reception in the Wayne Room for District Governor Henderson. This will be followed by a dinner in the Grand Ball Room at 6 o'clock. Most Rotarians will bring their wives.

Addressing the Monday night banquet audience will be Karl L. Heimborg, director of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency's development operations division which is working on the Jupiter (intermediate range) missile.

During World War II, Heimborg directed a staff of 600 people in Germany developing the power plant and related components for the V-2 and Wasserfall missiles. He continued working in the missile and engine test field after arriving in the United States at the end of 1945.

In 1953 Heimborg was assigned as chief of the test lab of Redstone Arsenal's Guided Missile Development Division, transferring to the Ballistic missile section in 1956. He became an American citizen in 1956.

Speaking for Rotary International at the convention Monday noon will be A. Z. Baker, president of the worldwide Rotary movement in 1955-56. Baker is president of the American Stockyards Association with headquarters in Cleveland, O.

These are the conference committee chairmen: General chairman, Frank Arlen; vice-chairmen, Harry Draper, Harold Guenther, President James Taylor and Harold Curtis; secretary, James Thornton; treasurer, Donald Sutherland; attendance, Larry Lyons; decorations, Sam Hudson; entertainment, Carl Caplin.

Also, banquets, Ralph Lorenz; parking, Kenneth Harrison; speakers, Perry Rich-at-arms, A. C. Williams; credentials, Ralph Lyne (of Taylor Center); elections, John Maynard; and resolution, Hugh Williams.

Schools Receive Hi-Fi Record of National Anthem

Every school in the Plymouth Community system will receive a new high-fidelity recording of the National Anthem this week from The American Heritage Foundation.

"The foundation's new recording of the 'Star-Spangled Banner' will add much to many of our school programs," said Superintendent Russell Isbister. Although high-fidelity was introduced in 1947, this is the first high-fidelity rendition of the "Star-Spangled Banner" to appear on a single disc.

In a recent letter offering the records to school superintendents, John C. Cornelius, foundation president, stated:

"It is hoped that the foundation's new high-fidelity recording will instill in the 41,000,000 young Americans attending our schools and colleges a deeper appreciation of our National Anthem, and a greater understanding of the rights and responsibilities of our treasured American heritage."

The records arrived last week at the superintendent's office and were distributed Monday to each school. They have been provided free as a special public service by the nonpartisan, nonprofit American Heritage Foundation. Produced by Radio Corporation of America, Victor Record Division, the foundation's new recording of the "Star Spangled Banner" features the music of the world-famous Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch conducting, and the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, Fritz Reiner conducting.

The American Heritage Foundation sponsored the 37,000-mile Freedom Train tour (1947-49). Its current project is a nationwide nonpartisan educational campaign in cooperation with the Advertising Council.

Heating Dealers Form Association

An organization called the Suburban Heating Dealers Association has been formed with meetings being held the second Tuesday of each month. A discussion of new heating and air conditioning methods, along with a program and dinner, takes place at the meetings.

The meetings, with the local heating inspectors present, will help to standardize good installation and service procedure, the group declares.

Officers of the new group are: president, Harold E. Stevens; treasurer, Richard Erdelyi; secretary, William C. Otwell. Membership is open to any licensed heating man in the suburban area. Present members come from Livonia, Garden City and Plymouth.

Several promotion efforts are being planned, including participation in Fire Prevention week and a cooperative advertising program.

The association points out that summer is the time to start worrying about installing and repairing furnaces. "Don't put off until next fall when we are swamped with the seasonal rush," they concluded.

Brunette to Blonde In Three Easy Steps!

Now any homeowner, like the one shown in the photo above, can change an old dark wood surface to a popular blonde or light wood finish without scrapping or removing the old finish. A new wood finish especially designed for the older painted or stained furniture gives you a stained effect that is tough and chip-proof without spending time or patience stripping away the old surface, sanding and restaining.

It's as simple as one, two, three! The homeowner at the right is completing the first step—a base coat in the same color as the desired finish. Next a coat of color grain is applied and then the stained effects are created with a dry brush as shown in the inset.

Finally, an application of a clear finish results in a final product like the end table at the left, which was previously the same color as the chair.

This means that the old table handed down from Aunt Sue or the fine old chair in the attic, garage, or basement can take its place with newer home furnishings. With a minimum of effort and three simple, foolproof steps, anyone can make the transformation from old-fashion to modern.

Closing Symphony Concert Draws Praise from Audience

The Plymouth Symphony Winter Concert Series under the direction of Wayne Dunlap drew to a close Sunday. The expression of pleasure from the audience as they departed and the lovely strains of the familiar Schumann piano concerto with the brilliant virtuosity of William Doppmann ringing in the ears made a fitting end for the fine series of concerts. The orchestra ended the concert with a flourish, playing the difficult and delightful work of Strauss, "Til Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks."

Plymouth Has New Church, Pastor

Last Sunday Plymouth's newest church, Trinity Baptist, held its first services in the old Telephone Building on Penniman Ave. With the new church comes a new pastor, the Texas-born Rev. Truman Felkner.

Rev. Truman Felkner

Affiliated with the Southern Baptist Convention, the church will continue Sunday services at 11 a.m. and Wednesday evening services at 7:30 p.m. at the Telephone Building until a permanent site is obtained. Previous services were held at the V.F.W. hall.

Rev. Felkner comes to Plymouth with a broad background of church work to his credit in both Texas and Michigan. He was pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist Church in Hazel Park for seven years. While in Hazel Park he was an active member of the Youth Protection Commission, appointed by the city council.

Born in Texas City, he began his college training at Howard Payne College in Brownwood, Tex., where he majored in Bible and minor in biology. His master's and doctor's degrees in theology were received at the National Bible College in Wichita, Kan.

He pastored several places in Texas, the most recent being Olive Place Baptist Church in Fort Worth. His wife, a teacher, and his 16-year-old daughter Margaret are still in Fort Worth, but will join him when the school year closes in June. Meanwhile Rev. Felkner and his 19-year-old son William are "batching" it in an apartment.

A man of many talents and experiences, Rev. Felkner has been a college biology teacher, has a pilots rating, served in the Marine Corps during World War II and has taken missionary trips to South America and the West Indies. It was in 1951 that he went to Brazil and in 1953 he toured the West Indies.

The MAIL Attitude

BY PAUL CHANDLER

Republicans of this area gathered at the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth for luncheon last Saturday. U.S. Senator Charles Potter was the personal attraction, but the larger purpose was stated by Gladys Smith:

"I'm not telling you something you don't know," she said, "when I say that this 17th District out here is a 'swing' district in the coming elections. We can carry this District, if we all work."

Mrs. Smith is chairman of the 17th District Republicans. She's new in the job, and is typical of extra effort which is being given to the Plymouth-Livonia-Redford Township-Northville area by higher GOP strategists. For, as she stated, voters here sit in one of the last outposts in Wayne County where Republicans entertain some thoughts of possible victory. This hope of continued victory is more or less based on the fact that Sterling Eaton, Republican from Plymouth, is the state representative.

The political thinking today is that Redford Township now is under the control of the Democrats; Plymouth, Northville, and most of the sparser Townships will go Republican; and Livonia is up for grabs and will make the difference.

Potter in his luncheon remarks made an appeal to voters to take government out of the control "of a small group which originally wanted to run things through labor party, and which now controls the government through the Democratic party."

Potter said this trend had its origin in Michigan, and that the performance of Michigan in the next election is of keen significance to the rest of the United States, "everyone will be watching Michigan."

If the Democrats win in Michigan, then the "labor party" will seek control of the White House in 1960 and 1964, and "we would face the real possibility of seeing Walter Reuther in Washington as secretary of labor," he said.

Potter added, "They've already stated they are going out to exterminate me in this next election, but I'll tell you that I don't exterminate easily."

He was particularly bitter about the use of union dues to finance political campaigns. "I can assure you no man today can run for state office on the Democratic ticket without the stamp of approval of a small group of labor officials. I don't resent Walter Reuther supporting anyone he chooses, but I do object to spending of union dues to promote not the desires of the members, but to promote HIS desires."

And a final warning was, "They are a small group, but a small group, well-organized and well-financed—which they are—can also defeat an apathetic majority. Our problem is to get the Republicans out of the stands and down on the playing field."

To this observer, the latter remark had more meaning in terms of the forthcoming campaign than all the other challenges and charges.

Where are the Republican candidates? As he spoke, it was well into April, and the GOP hadn't designated a candidate for Governor, or Lieut. Governor, or U.S. Congress from this district, or State Representative from this District—to name a few.

Their Democratic counterparts have been out on the trail campaigning for weeks. It looks probable again that the Republicans will prop up some candidates at the last minute around here, and the voters will knock them down, as usual, and as they should.

A Chamber of Commerce in any community consists of a group of business and professional men who have banded together to improve the commercial climate of the whole unit.

It is based somewhat on the Revolutionary philosophy that "either we hang together or we'll hang separately." Perhaps never in the whole history of Plymouth has the need for a big, alert Chamber of Commerce been so evident to so many persons. The problems of modernizing and promoting the town's shopping, to meet the competition of shopping centers; the urgency of attracting and keeping key industry for a tax base; the deep desire to retain Plymouth's unique own civic personality despite the suburban changes—all of these properly are objectives which should be tackled and wrestled to the ground by a good C of C.

All of which is to urge businessmen throughout the city to consider membership with the C of C in a most understanding way when they are approached in the near future. Mayor Harold Guenther has designated April 12-26 as a special "week" for the membership drive and there's a lot at stake.

Easter Seal Fund Still $600 Short of Goal

Contributions totaling nearly $2,900 have been tallied in Plymouth's Easter Seal drive which took place last month, headed by the Rotary Club.

Chairman Lawrence E. Lyons says the Crippled Children's Committee of the Rotary had set up a goal of $3,500 for itself this year and that it now stands about $600 short. Contributions, however, will be accepted until the end of the fiscal year on July 31.

"We want to thank all of the merchants for their help in placing canisters and 'shower of silver' cards in their places of business," Lyons declared. He also offered thanks to the theatres for carrying film "trailers" and the help offered by other civic clubs, along with the Plymouth Mail.

"We most sincerely thank the boys and girls who did such a wonderful job in the sale of Easter Seal Lilies on March 29," the chairman added. The sale was supervised by Mrs. John Salan and Mrs. Robert Beyer of the Rotary Anns.

The City Manager's Corner

The county health department has requested that we supply it with a list of properties which are not properly connected with the sanitary sewer system in the City of Plymouth, where the sewer is available. To do this, in an orderly fashion, we have decided to test each toilet and laundry tub to determine whether or not the fixture is properly connected with the sanitary sewer system. We will begin in the south section of the city. The work is now in progress.

We use a dye known as "fluorescein dye" which comes in dry powder form and has the color of dark maroon to brown. As soon as the dye dissolves in water, it becomes a brilliant green and may be traced through the sewer system. The project will be under the personal supervision of Charles Thompson, our building inspector, who will coordinate the work of making a record of each house as to the sanitary sewer facility and to determine whether or not the septic tank is or is not properly disconnected.

The Department of Health has established the deadline as July 1, 1958 as the final date for connecting to the sanitary sewer. If you do not have a proper sanitary sewer connection, you will receive a notice from the health department and if, after adequate time has elapsed, you have not made proper connections, court action will follow.

The health department is one of the most powerful of governmental organizations. For example, if a proposal to install a sanitary sewer is voted down by the voters, and the health department deems it proper for a sanitary sewer to be installed to serve a community, the health department starts action in a court of proper jurisdiction. If the department shows necessity, the court may rule that such sewer must be installed and upon such ruling, the community issues sanitary sewer bonds.

The relationship of a health department to a community is about the same as a doctor to his patient. Occasionally, we must swallow a bitter pill for our own benefit.

Plymouth Phone History Dates Back to 1880's

By Jim Sponseller
Only 10 years after Alexander Graham Bell developed the world's first telephone, Plymouth had its first telephone installed.

This week, 72 years later, Plymouth is getting the world's most modern telephone equipment with the installation of a dial system.

It was 1876 when Bell demonstrated his revolutionary new instrument. While Plymouth was not among the first to get telephones, it was far from being last. Only 10 years later, on April 20, 1886, the village's first toll station was established in a drug store owned by J. H. Gale, located on the present site of the National Bank of Detroit.

Four years later, the Michigan State Telephone Company installed a competing exchange in the office of E. P.

Lombard located where Jerry's Shoe Repair now operates. This exchange included a single iron wire connecting with Detroit. Lombard was a Justice of the Peace and sold insurance. Both of these systems, however, were connected with only a few phones and out-of-town parties. The village's first true phone system started about 1891 when four citizens, Edward C. Hough, Charles Fisher, Dr. Taft and Chauncey Rauch, decided to set up a system just between their homes. They had so many requests to hook on, however, that the original exchange had 100 subscribers.

Hough was president of the company, called the Plymouth Telephone Co., and Rauch was named secretary-manager. Both men still live in Plymouth and Rauch will take part in Saturday night's "take-over" ceremony. Since Hough, who is now president of Daisy Manufacturing, was the president, Rauch assigned him the telephone number of "1." He still holds this number, but starting

Sunday morning it will become Glenview 3-0001.

The Plymouth Telephone Company's switchboard was located where Louis Sculo's Shoe Repair shop operates on Penniman. As a coincidence, the first switchboard operators were Frank Bell and his wife. No one then would have guessed that the nation's major phone system would be the Bell System.

The Bells slept right in the building, but they offered only daytime service. But finally, night service was started at 6 o'clock with an operator sleeping on a cot in front of the switchboard. There was an understanding with all subscribers that no night calls would be made except in time of emergency.

When an emergency did arise, an alarm bell sounded, waking up the operator. According to Rauch, Plymouth's telephone system was progressive from the start. Rauch himself worked only part time to start with. Then business got so good that he opened an office along side the switchboard. "When farmers wanted phone service, they would have to haul the poles themselves to places where we put a stake. We then had men to put the poles," Rauch recalled. "The man who dug the post holes got $1 a day while the installers got $1.50. The very first pole was dropped and broke into three pieces." Rural service cost $1 a month. Soon after the Plymouth Telephone Company started, the Northville Telephone Company was opened and the two laid a line joining each other along Sheldon Rd. "At first we charged 10 cents a call, later it was free," Rauch continued.

Then the firm found another source of revenue. When people rode the electric trolley from Detroit, they had to make a change at Wayne. Quite often people would miss the trolley there, but couldn't call home to tell the folks. So the phone company laid a line to Wayne, installed a booth at the depot and charged 10 cents a call.

Rauch continued with the company during the period when it changed its name to the Wayne Telephone Company and when it was sold to the Home Telephone Company of Detroit. Rauch was named supervisor of the Home ex- ed in the Gale Drug Store be- fore the turn of the century mushroomed to 1,743 tele- phones in 1940. There were 3,676 in the Plymouth ex- change in 1946 and today the total has doubled to 9,173.

Boy Scouts Turn Monkey to Cross River Via Ropes

For a brief interval last Sunday, the Rouge River was spanned by a new bridge. The first class scouts of Troop Six, sponsored by the Plymouth Lions club, as a part of their work toward a pioneering merit badge, erected a "monkey bridge" over the river as it runs through Riverside Park.

To the uninitiated, let us explain that a monkey bridge consists of three ropes suspended across a river, one large one to walk upon and two smaller ones to serve as handrails. While one does not need to be a monkey to get across safely, it certainly helps a lot. And if anyone did not tie his knots properly, the result is obvious.

The erection of the bridge attracted a few onlookers, but when the scouts began going across the bridge, a sizeable crowd collected to appreciate the splashes when a mis-step caused one or two of the builders to wind up in the river. Superintendent of the construction was Star Scout Frank Eidson, with First Class Scouts Forrest Morgeon and Jeffrey Theobald as foremen on each bank. The balance of the erection crew consisted of First Class Scouts Sam Steele, John Stace, John Stone, David Sutherland, John Wolfe, Michael Kenyon and Fred Fry.

Rotary Mower Stolen

A rotary mower was stolen last Friday night from Saxton's Farm Supply, it was reported this week.

The mower was a Toro "Whirlwind" self-propelled machine with a serial number of 4044. The used machine was outside the building. Anyone knowing the whereabouts of the mower can contact Saxton's.

BRIDGPORT, N.Y. — (UP)

Mrs. Gertrude V. Moore celebrated her 94th birthday the same day her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Wiehe, marked their 50th wedding anniversary.

Line Drive

The gray of winter slowly yields to the advance of spring, when bright, sunny day follows bright, sunny day with an occasional thunderstorm thrown in — and once again men in knickerbockers take to the diamond to do things with a little white pill far beyond the scope of ordinary mortals.

One may call it only a game, and indeed that is all baseball really is, but few sights are more gratifying than watching an outfielder racefully make a running catch, a batter drill a home run when his team needs one to win or a pitcher send one batter after another down swinging.

It hardly seems possible that more than half a year has elapsed since I last discussed on baseball and the Tigers, yet there is no denying the calendar.

Much has happened since then. A fellow named Billy Martin was acquired from Kansas City along with other fellows named Gus Zernial, Lou Skizas, Tim Thompson, Tom Morgan and Maurice McDermott.

In return, Detroit yielded players named Frank Hoer, Bill Tuttle, Jim Small, Duke Maas and John Tsitouris.

In addition, people called Jim Hegan, Hank Aguirre, Vito Valentini and Milt Bolling were picked up from Cleveland in exchange for fellows named J. W. Porter, Hal Woodeshick and Pete Wojcie.

From the Giants came Gail Harris for one James Finnigan, and from Cincinnati came Stan Palys for a bundle of cash.

It is a tribute to the trading acumen of young General Manager Johnny McHale that virtually all of the new players will stick with the Tigers. Over at the bastion of baseball at Michigan and Trumbull Avenue here in Detroit, an air of quiet confidence exudes despite dreary pre-season performances.

No one is talking pennant at Briggs Stadium. Pennant contention is what is hoped for if not expected.

The Tigers do have a contending club, no matter what the spring training record shows. Almost half of those Florida ball games were lost after the sixth inning when

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Senior Troop 1 flew to Milwaukee, Wis. Monday, April 7 to be guests of Senior Troop 391 of Milwaukee. They were entertained at a pot-luck dinner on Monday evening. Tuesday was spent sightseeing and shopping, topped off by dinner at a German restaurant. The Plymouth girls were accommodated in the homes of the Milwaukee scouts.

Wednesday found the girls at Camp Will O' Hill, 30 miles out of town on the Milwaukee river. Hiking, cookouts and song fests were the order of the day.

Thursday was Italian Day under the supervision of Italian exchange student, Beatrice Conte, who delighted the girls with a lasagne. As a dinner guest they had Mrs. Margo Reichart, a Girl Scout observer to Italy last year. Mrs. Sheldon Baker became an honorary Italian Girl Guide and was presented with a pin. Friday evening Wisconsin's champion square dance caller presided at a co-ed square dance. The visit ended Saturday afternoon when the girls flew back to Willow Run.

Bowls 707 Series

A three-game series of 707 was bowled Monday night by a member of the Evans Products Men's League at Livonia Lanes. He is Charles Hook, salesman for the Western Division, who scored the highest three-game series in the league's history. His games were 229, 242 and 236.

SPORTSEEN

By Bill Dillworth

Now that the Easter Vacation is over and the students have returned to school for the final semester of study, the sports program gets underway in full force this week. By the time this article appears the tennis team under Coach Bob Smith will have opened their season with one of the teams, from whom they expect their keenest competition — Trenton. The golfers opened their season yesterday playing Bentley. Mike Hoben's varsity baseball squad starts in quest of another unbeaten season when they entertain Northville at home today while Bill Brown takes the jayvee team to Northville. Tomorrow Keith Baughman takes his track team to Trenton for the first scheduled Suburban Six meet of the season.

Next Monday the golfers host Allen Park and the baseball team journeys to Redford Union to open the Suburban Six season against the Panthers. Tuesday the Tennis team entertains Allen Park at home while Coach John Sandmann takes his golfers to Ypsilanti. Wednesday the divot diggers return to their home course to battle par and the Trenton team. Thursday the Bentley nine visit the Plymouth campus. Friday the track team visits Allen Park while the golfers stay at home to play Northville.

The spring and summer programs of the Recreation Department are still in the planning stages with organizational meetings being held to iron out administrative details and prepare schedules. Herb Woolweaver looks for a very active summer for boys of all ages who are interested in playing baseball.

Saturday night the swimmers officially close a successful season with a banquet at the Junior High School sponsored by DADS. Shades of "This is Your Life" appear as the identity of the most valuable member of the swimming team for the '57-'58 season is a closely guarded secret. Along with this feature will be the announcement of the captains for next year's team and the presentation of letters. In addition there is an opportunity for the swimmers to display their dexterity in another favorite indoor pastime — the knife and fork circuit.

We hope to have final results of the bowling league for junior high school students in a week or two. Forty students from the high school have been bowling in a league composed of 8 teams. They have been bowling for the past eight weeks and will finish their season within two weeks.

The Girls Athletic Association are also nearing the end of their basketball for this year, and they too will have a winner within a week or two.

Tomorrow is a big day for baseball fans in this area when the Detroit Tigers arrive from Chicago to open the 1958 season at Briggs Stadium against the Cleveland Indians. Just how the Tigers fare in the 1958 season depends on how hard they want to win ball games. The manager cannot bat for them, he cannot pitch for them. He can merely direct the team and hope for the best.

Many observers claim that "on paper" Tigers have a first division club, yes, some say even a first place club. Unfortunately the day-to-day games are not played on paper but on a field where hustle, desire and alert stratagems payoff in victories. Far be it from this observer to belabor the point of where the Bengals finish in 1958. Suffice it to say that their position in the standing will vary directly with the amount of hustle each player displays on the field assuming that the pitching and hitting meet major league standards at the same time.

Jack Carter and Roger Smithling supervise men's gym classes Wednesday nights at the high school gymnasium. These classes are held for the benefit of men and boys who do not get sufficient exercise and want to be in better "condition" physically to cope with gardening chores, friends who insist on playing eighteen holes of golf, and the rigors of spring and summer picnics. Just bring old clothes, running shoes and a towel any Wednesday night at 7:30.

Chamber Seeking 100 Members in Campaign

Need of a strong Chamber of Commerce will be emphasized next week when the Plymouth Chamber launches a membership drive to secure at least 100 new members. The spirited one-week drive will "kick-off" with a breakfast for campaign workers at the Mayflower Hotel next Monday morning at 8 o'clock. "A strong Chamber of Commerce is particularly essential in this era of intensive competition between trade areas for desirable business, industry and sales dollars," Homer Frisbie, general chairman of the membership drive, declared. "Rather than drift aimlessly with the tide, we must institute a program of vigorous action to see that our community does not lag behind in the contest," Frisbie added.

Mayor Harold Guenther has set aside Chamber of Commerce Week in Plymouth with the following proclamation: "Whereas, the Chamber of Commerce is an organization of the forward-looking citizens of a community, created for the purpose of promoting the civic, commercial and industrial progress of the community, and through which worthwhile projects are undertaken for the benefit of our community, "I hereby proclaim April 21 to April 28 as Chamber of Commerce Week for Plymouth." The Chamber will have its annual spring dinner on Monday, April 28 at Arbor-Lill.

School Petitions For Six Obtained

Six nominating petitions are now circulating for three board of education jobs that will be filled at the June 9 election.

None of the petitions have yet been filed. They must be on file at the superintendent's office by 5 p.m. on Saturday, May 10.

Petitions have been secured so far for Perry Richwine, 41895 Wilcox; Harold Fischer, 40875 Plymouth Rd., now president of the board; Arthur Haeske, 41980 Brentwood Drive; Richard Range, 15420 Maxwell; and Wesley Kaiser, 46861 Saltz Rd.

A petition was secured for another person, the superintendent's office said, but no name was listed.

Securing of petitions does not necessarily mean that they will be filed. When filed, the petitions must mention whether the nominee is seeking the short term (3 years) or one of the two long (4-year) terms.

Liquor By Glass

(Continued from Page 1) present situation constituted "hypocrisy"; that the Mayflower was "the center of much of Plymouth's business and social activity"; that a right now was a time when the city could ill afford to lose one of its best known landmarks.

Plymouth now has only three places which sell beer and wine by the glass — Marquis Toll House, Box Bar and the Mayflower Tap Room. The city commission in the past has indicated that it would permit no more than three such licenses. It is not known yet how many licenses the commission would permit allowing liquor by-the-glass.

To get the issue on the ballot next November, signatures of 1,335 qualified electors must be secured on petitions. These signers must be residents of the city and registered electors.

The formula for arriving at the number of signers is based on 35 percent of the total votes cast in the city for the secretary of state in the last election. In the last election, held in 1956, there were 3,815 votes cast.

It was this failure to secure enough qualified signatures which doomed the local option in 1956. Only 876 signatures were needed at that time but it was found that many signers were unregistered as city voters and some had signed twice.

Plymouth voters rejected the liquor question last in the 1952 presidential election.

John Guettler of the Dairy Freez on Ann Arbor road attended the Michigan Food Fair in Wayne on April 15. The fair, sponsored by the Detroit Edison Co., demonstrated the newest techniques in commercial cooking equipment for drive-in and restaurants.

Allen Burdine was very happily surprised on Wednesday evening of last week when about 20 friends and relatives came with gifts and cake honoring his 88th birthday.

A birthday luncheon was given Tuesday noon by Mrs. Wilford Thelen for Mrs. Dorothy Cook. Present were Mrs. E. Lavergne, Mrs. Pierce Butler, Mrs. John Daoust, Mrs. Ann Dowling, Mrs. Vina Galloway, Mrs. Irene Bock and Mrs. Charles Nelson.

Community Welcomes New Dial Telephones Sunday

Plymouth Speaking . . .

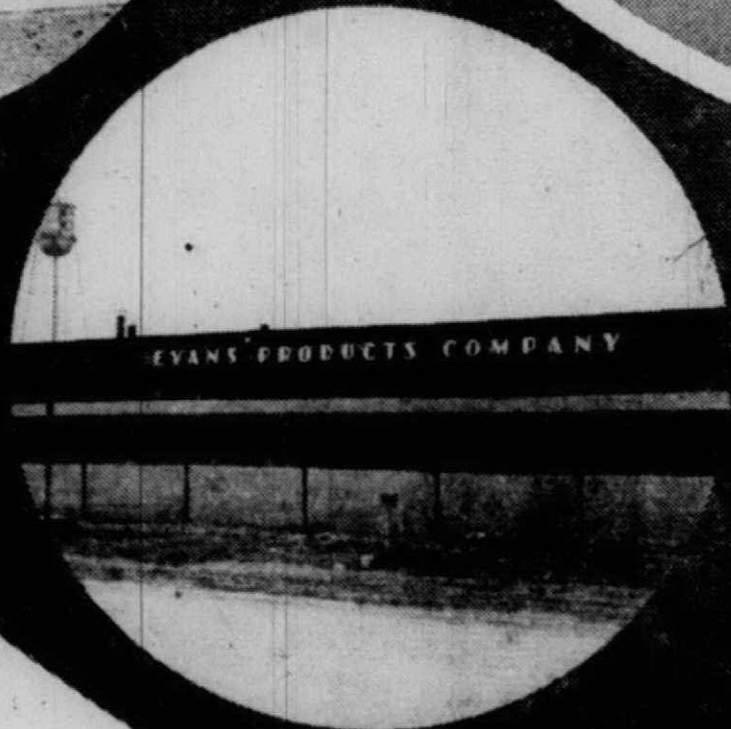

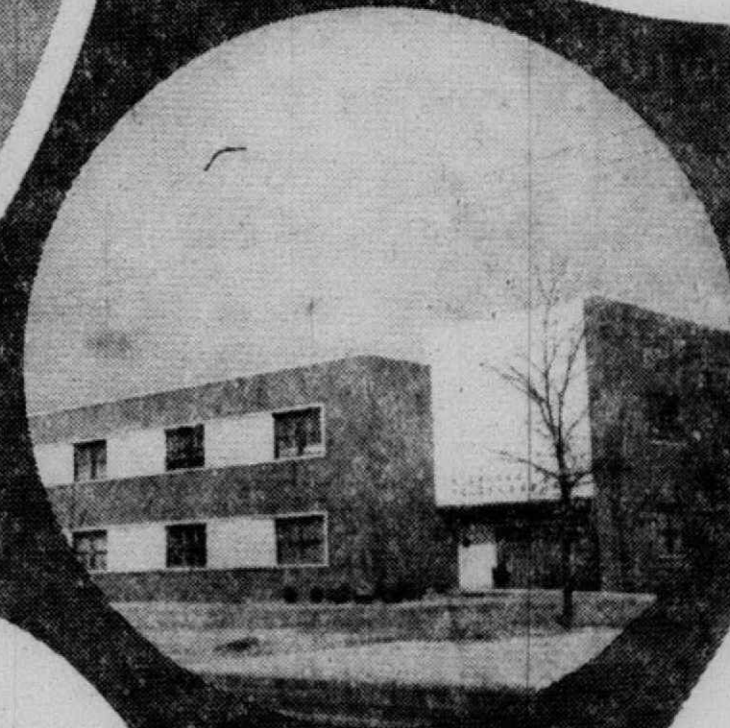

This is Plymouth speaking . . . and I'm talking proudly

According to historians, I'm somewhere around 132 years old, but don't let that fool you . . . I'm still young . . . and growing too.

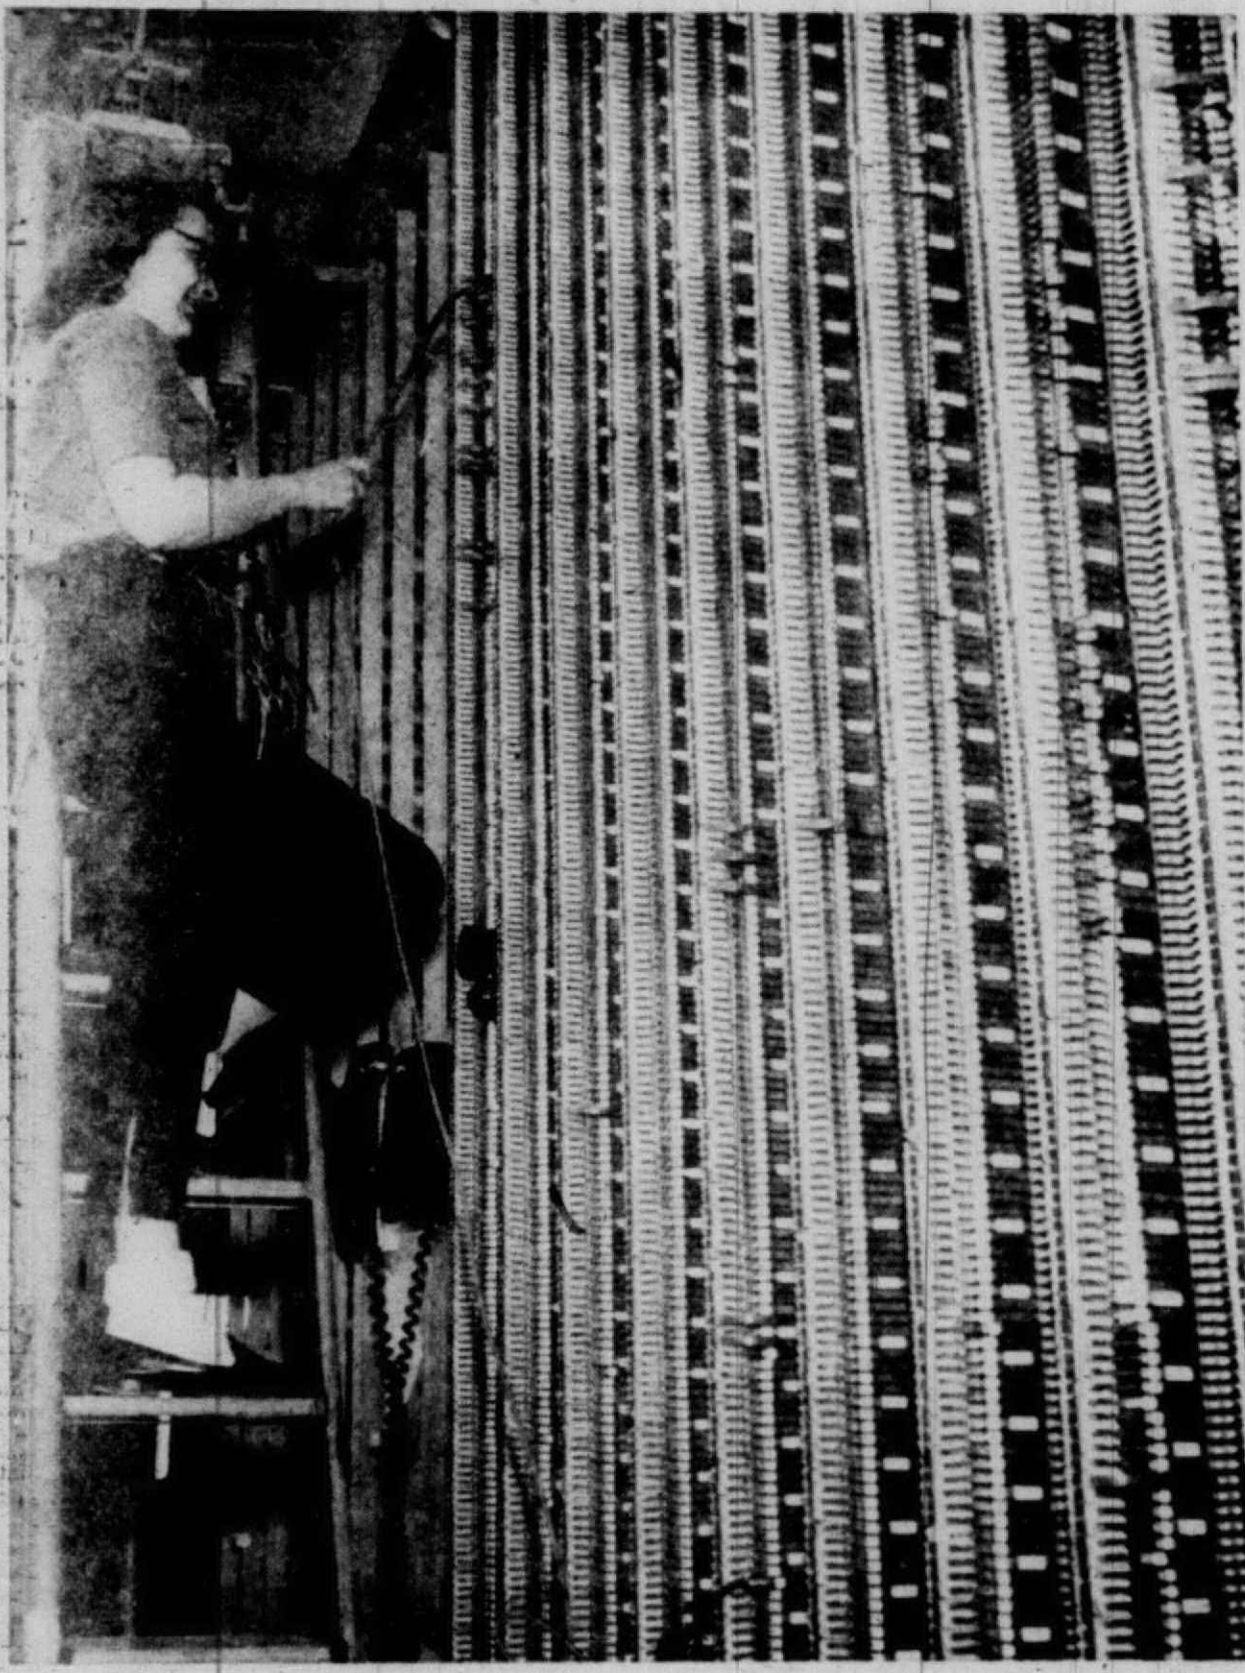

There are lots of folks who have put a lot of faith in me . . . businessmen who open new shops . . . industrialists who build new factories . . . and the phone company, for instance, which just spent nearly $2 million to give me a better link with the rest of the world.

No one is sure how big or fast I'll grow. Sometimes the growing pains hurt . . . but I have a good remedy for that. It is the 13,000 or more people who call me home. Their strong desire for a good community . . . and their faith and courage . . . keep me young, happy and vigorous.

Take a close look at me. No wonder I'm proud!

Electronic Brain Keeps Tab of Direct Dialing Process

ROBERTA RUSSELL, Michigan Bell switchboard helper, is testing circuits in the new dial office preparatory to the conversion Sunday morning.

Plymouth one and two-party telephone users will be able to dial direct to nearly 40 million telephones in 24 states, Washington, D.C., and Ontario, Canada when Plymouth's new dial telephone service is inaugurated at 2:01 a.m. on Sunday, April 20, R. D. Maurer, Plymouth manager for the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, announced today.

Local users will be able to dial virtually a ny community in southeastern Michigan's 313 area by the simple two letter, five numeral system following the cutover, Maurer said. In dialing outside the 313 area, however, a code must be dialed to bring the customer into that dialing area followed by the numbers.

Among major cities Plymouth telephone users can dial will be New York City, Washington, D.C., and San Francisco. Others are Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Chicago, Baltimore, Milwaukee, Newark, New Haven, and Sacramento and Oakland, California.

A huge electronic brain is the key to the intricate Direct Distance Dialing, Maurer explained. This machine automatically searches out an available circuit when a call is dialed into it, and rings any telephone in most of the nation's major cities in just a matter of seconds.

Maurer said automatic accounting equipment, known to telephone people simply as AMA, will register each step of a customer-dialed long distance call for billing purposes.

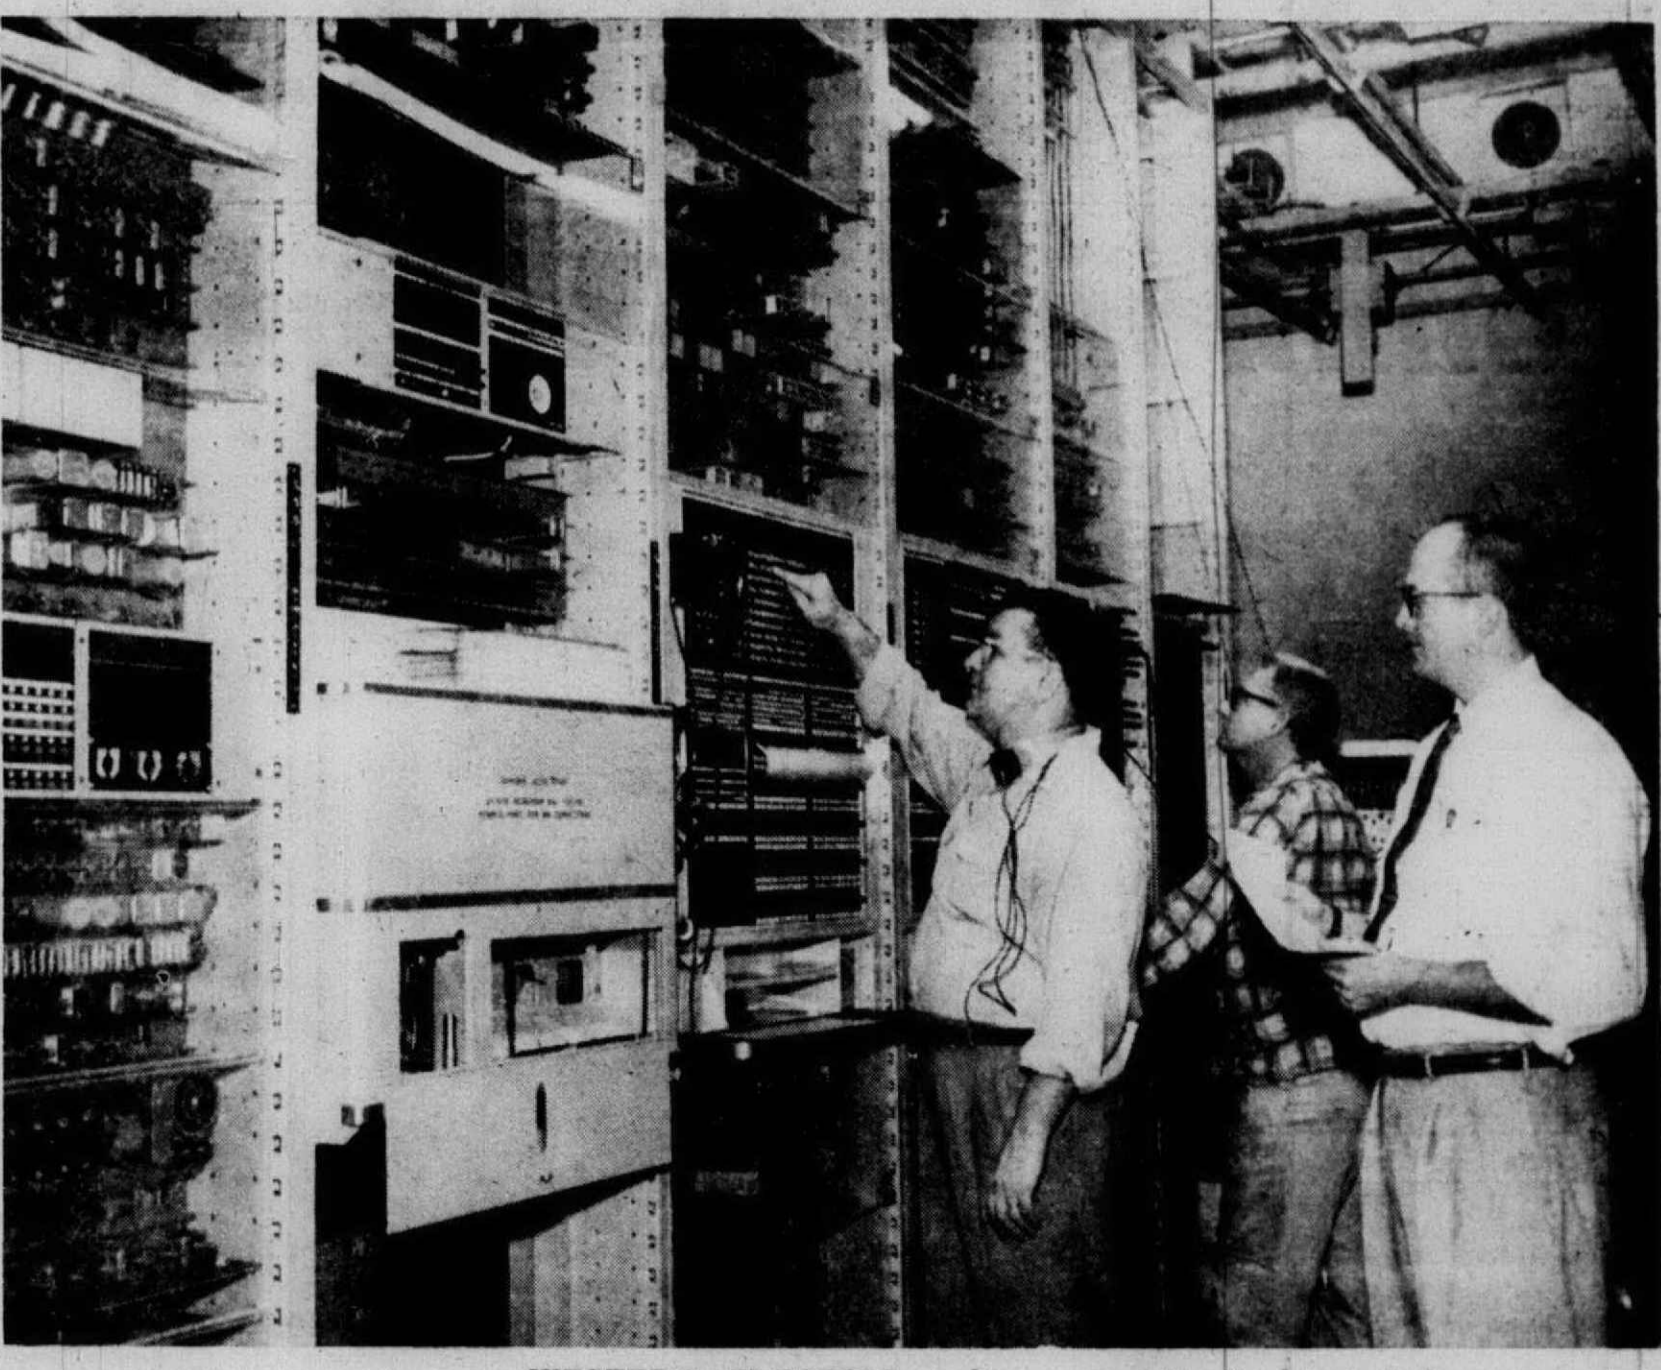

The accounting system, he said, works like this: information needed for accounting is automatically stored up, as calls are made, on reels of paper tape with equipment located in the telephone exchange. Holes are automatically punched in this tape in a coded pattern which is later read and interpreted by machines in the accounting office.

Then, the reels are taken to an accounting center where a battery of machines assemble, translate, sort, summarize and finally prints this information for use in preparing the subscribers telephone bills.

To a layman, this equipment, housed in neat metal cabinets with plastic windows, would probably appear to be a maze of springs, magnets, switches, wires and motors.

The electrical brain of this central office switching system recognizes, on each call, whether the user making the call has flat-rate or message-rate service. Further, it also determines whether a call to a more distant point in the metropolitan area is to be billed as a toll call. Thus the "brain" determines whether any record of the call needs to be made and, if so, in what detail.

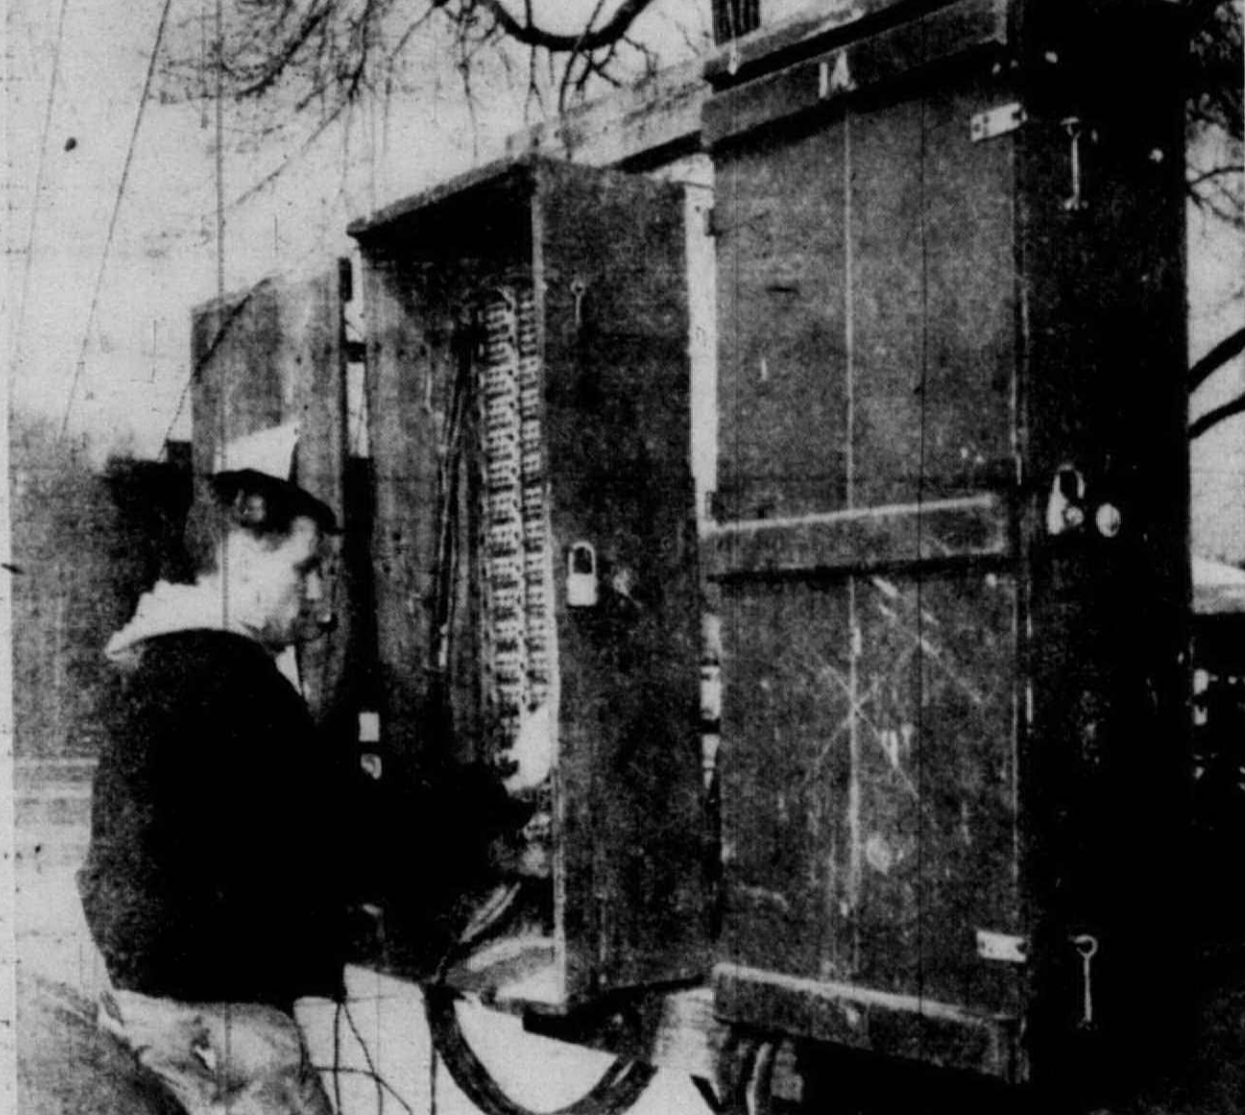

Such information to be recorded is first translated into numerals, which are represented by tiny holes punched

WESTERN ELECTRIC technicians Al W. Lackey, Warren El-lito and Robert Irwin are busy today in the new dial switching center making final tests to be sure equipment is in working order for the dial opening this Sunday morning.

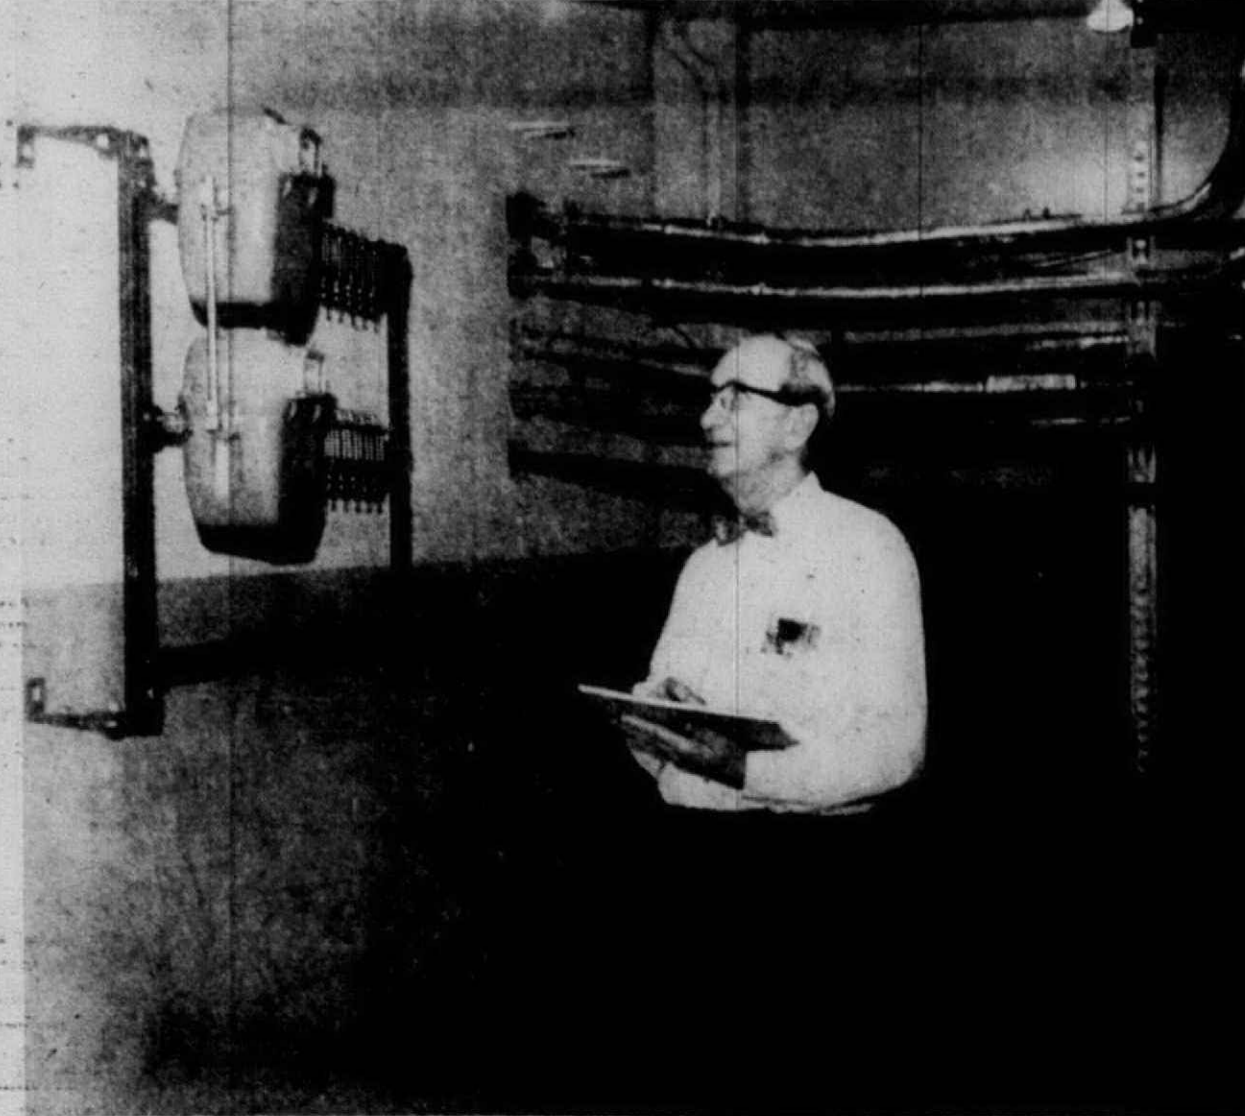

HEADING Michigan Bell's Plymouth operation is Robert Maurer, 216 S. Holbrook. Michigan Bell's office operations are located in a new building on S. Harvey Street while the new equipment building is on Ann Arbor Rd.

THOSE MYSTERIOUS green boxes on poles in the Plymouth area are part of the Michigan Bell Telephone company's dial conversion program. Switches in these boxes will be thrown at 2:01 a.m. Sunday to disconnect the old office and connect the new dial exchange.

HIGH OVER the city streets, Dale Hirth and Fred Briggs work in a Michigan Bell splicers' tent interconnecting the tiny wires which carry calls to and from the dial exchange.

CABLES CARRYING thousands of wires from other cities and Plymouth business and residence telephones pass through this "cable vault" in the dial office. Ellis Dickerson reads a cable pressure gauge.

A DIAL CONVERSION involves lots of paper work in addition to technical operations. Here, Ruth Wingard, Arlene Gobel and Glenna Merillot, business office employees, are putting Direct Distance Dialing booklets in envelopes for mailing to Plymouth phone users.

THIS NEW switchboard will receive calls not dialed direct by operators after the dial conversion. The board will receive calls from public telephones, person-to-person calls and "collect" calls.

Allen PTA to Hear Safety Talk, Film

The Allen school PTA will hold its monthly meeting next Tuesday, April 22 at 7:30 p.m. in the school gym.

The program will be of extreme interest to everyone and should be very informative. A trooper from the Ypsilanti State Police post will show a film and hold a short discussion on rules of the highway. This will include among other safety factors, regulations concerning school buses. The trooper is associated with the Traffic Safety Patrol.

Refreshments will be served after the program.

SALT LAKE CITY. — (UP) — Two would-be bandits, temporarily halted in an attempt to rob McCullough's Market when owner Rudy Winter brandished a pistol at them, fled from the building after one was almost hit in the head by a quart bottle of soda water thrown by Mrs. Winter.

New Phone System to Increase Mich. Bell Employees Here

The number of Michigan Bell Telephone Company employees in Plymouth will increase following conversion of the city's exchange to dial operation April 20, Robert D. Maurer, the company's manager here, reported today.

The company's plant department, charged with the responsibility of operating and maintaining the telephone exchange, already has added eight persons to handle the increased work. They include five maintenance men and three women who connect and rearrange wires in the exchange.

Maurer said the April 20 cutover to dial service and Direct Distance Dialing would have little immediate effect in the number of operators.

Although all local calls as well as calls to the Detroit area and other nearby exchanges will be dialed direct by the customer, studies indicate only about 8 per cent of present long distance calls will be dialed direct by the person placing them," Maurer said. "All person-to-person, collect, credit card, and other relatively complicated long distance calls will be handled by operators as in the past."

Maurer said that if there is any ultimate change in the Plymouth operating force it will be an increase since the so-called "complicated" calls originating at Northville and Brighton will be handled here by mid-summer. Plymouth operators already handle calls originating at South Lyon and Belleville.

"The calls from each of these communities have been increasing each year," he said. "Thus, the number of such calls handled at Plymouth is bound to grow, rather than drop."

Maurer pointed to two other factors which brightened the Michigan Bell employment picture here when Western Electric, the manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell System, occupies its new Plymouth warehouse late this year.

The cost of converting to dial telephones and inaugurating Direct Distance Dialing in Plymouth is set at nearly $3 million.

Direct Distance Dialing which starts here April 20 is one of the most significant milestones in telephony since Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone 82 years ago.

Because the bell is the usual signal which alerts us to an incoming telephone call, a number of people think that the "Bell" of Michigan Bell Telephone Company or the Bell System means that type of telephone.

The Michigan company and the System, however, take their names from the inventor — not from the bell which is part of the telephone instrument.

Bell was born in Scotland on March 3, 1847. Threatened with tuberculosis, he moved to Canada in his late 'teens. The family settled at Brantford, Ontario. In the home-land there, Bell performed his first experiments on the telephone, but he finally located in Boston where in 1876 he created the instrument which today is so important in the daily lives of people throughout the world.

Bell became a naturalized citizen of the United States in 1874 — two years before the invention of the telephone. So proud was he of his country that the epitaph on his grave, at his own request, read: "Born in Edinburgh — Died a Citizen of the U.S.A."

Love of Job Keeps Local Commercial Pilots Flying

By David Jolliffe

Little boys look at television and say: "I want to be a cowboy." Others gaze at the cop on the corner and say, "I want to be a policeman," and a few look longingly at the sky and say; "I want to be a flier."

Many think it — few others make it as fliers. But the few who do are unanimous in their opinion:

For example, John McDonald, 371 Irvin, a professional pilot since 1941 and with Capital Airlines since 1945 says: "It's a nice way to make a living — but you've got to love flying. Just ask our wives — they'll tell you it's not a bed of roses. Imagine yourself alone in the cockpit of a million dollar piece of machinery, bar-bareling along at over 600 mph, with the responsibility of 75 people in your lap.

Of course you have some pretty positive odds in your favor. Geniuses have constructed a machine that has proven time and time again. You have a battery of controls in front of you designed to give as complete a picture of machine and surroundings as is inhumanly possible.

But as McDonald says, "You're sitting up there in a flying IBM computer and just one knob quits — then, all of a sudden, you're back to old fashioned flying."

And it's a long way down! The barnstorming pilot days are over. Serious flyers don't wear goggles, helmets, and zoom around in an open cockpit with their scarf trailing out behind them. Planes aren't held together anymore with wire and tape. And, above all, nobody in his right mind takes chances with stunts and show-off flying.

Now it's a family affair. Wives take a personal interest in their husband's work. Mrs. Barbara Wheaton of 44605 Gov. Bradford, says, "I've got as many propellers in my head as Charlie."

Her husband, Captain Charles Wheaton, a 9-year veteran with Capital, has always been a flyer at heart. At 18 years of age he attended Ohio University and did odd jobs around the University Airport in Athens.

And another wife — Mrs. Grace Finney, 302 Maple Avenue, an ex-airline stewardess, says, "I miss flying. Especially when I take Larry to the airport."

Her husband, Larry Finney, another Capital pilot says, "It's a rigorous life — we have to pass a stiff physical exam twice a year. The emphasis is on the eyes and heart. If your eyesight falls below 20-20 you can still fly, but it must be corrected with glasses."

McDonald goes even further. "For airline captains it's like putting your job on the chopping block four times a year. Besides the physical every six months, I have to pass a proficiency test twice a year. If I fail to qualify, either in the physicals or in the test, I can lose my license."

What other profession is so exacting? "You take a doctor," McDonald continued. "After he is licensed to practice medicine he never has to take another test. The same with a dentist, lawyer or any other profession."

"And believe me, it's easier to fly blind in a blizzard with passengers, then it is with a canopy over the cockpit and a judge sitting beside you watching every move."

Pilot pay is about the same as any degree-holding college graduate would receive starting with a corporation. Probably less than a skilled laborer's. From that time on, however, advancement can be rapid — just how fast depends on individual ability, aptitude and ambition. Within 36 months an enterprising flyer can make $10,000 a year.

If an experienced pilot wishes to quit one airline for another he must forfeit his seniority and begin at the bottom of the scale.

Farsighted rules such as this eliminates cutthroat tactics by the airlines for experienced pilots and bases everybody's status on seniority.

None of the fliers interviewed ever had an engine failure or mechanical malfunction of any kind.

"People don't realize how safe commercial aviation is today," Finney said. "If there's one accident it gets so much publicity that everyone forgets how many airplanes are in the air and in reality how much safer flying is than highway driving."

McDonald goes even further.

WRITERS WANTED FOR

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS

The Plymouth Mail has openings for women who want to write neighborhood happenings for the newspaper. No experience necessary other than a good knowledge of spelling and grammar and an ability to talk to people. For spare time cash earnings for a few hours work a week, contact Paul Chandler, The Plymouth Mail.

"I've never had any trouble in the air, but a few years ago I was in an automobile accident and was laid-up for a year. The safest means of transportation is on scheduled airlines. The most dangerous is by car."

McDonald is the Central Air Safety Officer for Capital and the vice-chairman of the Detroit Regional American Safety Commission.

Probably one of the biggest disadvantages of flying is that the hours are irregular, and a certain amount of tension is always present when you are trained to expect the unexpected.

"We know our jobs so well that flights are usually just routine," Finney continued.

Besides being experienced pilots when we are hired, Capital, or any other airline, puts its men through a training program to make them thoroughly familiar with the type aircraft they will be flying.

John Downing, 1133 S. Harvey, a senior pilot with North Central Airlines manages to combine the disadvantages of irregular flying hours with the numerous advantages open to all commercial pilots. John uses his 11 years of seniority and gets first choice on North Central's pilot schedule. For the last three years he has had a schedule that keeps him at work only 10 days a month.

Downing leaves Willow Run on his milk-run at 11:30 a.m. and is back by 11:30 p.m. the same day. He does this every third day and says jokingly, "Flying is much better than working for a living."

Gordon Ellison, of 14460 Shady Wood Court in Lake Pointe Village, speaks for everyone when he says: "It's interesting work because it's so exciting. If you enjoy flying it makes the odd hours and the loss of sleep easier to take. I really never tire of it."

Other local pilots include Wallace Gall, Reservoir Road, and Joseph Hertrich, 50150 Hanford Road, both with Capital. Joseph Rahll, 1429 Sheridan, is with Alleghany Airlines.

Most commercial pilots average only 12-15 hours of actual flying time a week. "The Civil Aeronautics Administration has strict rules about actual working hours," Finney said. "We're limited to a maximum of 85 hours flying time every month. We can't fly more than 8 hours during any 24 hour period without having the next 24 hours off. And we can't fly more than a total of 30 hours during any 7 day period."

Pilots are protected by one of the most generous unions any profession can boast of. The Airline Pilots Association is part of the CIO and zealously guards pilot rights.

WITH WILLOW RUN only 11 miles away, Plymouth has a number of commercial pilots, including Larry Finney, 302 Maple, above, who is co-pilot for Capital Airlines. At left is John McDonald, 371 Irvin, with his wife. McDonald has been with Capital since 1945. He never had any trouble in the air but was laid up a year with a broken leg received in an automobile accident.

"Nobody gets fat in our union," McDonald says. "Every post is voluntary and officials serve without pay. The union regards passenger safety first — and company third. It costs me $430 a month to be covered against disability, loss of license and injury," Finney added. "Besides that I pay out $225 a month on a pension plan. "If I'm temporarily disabled and can't fly I can collect $500 a month — if I can't ever fly again I collect $25,000 in cash, tax free."

As proof of the pilots belief in themselves, their profession and their equipment, this is "living-insurance" for mutual aid. "If I should die, my estate gets only $500 burial money," McDonald said. Ed Sullivan once said; "I never met a pilot who wants to die."

McDonald says: "Trust that pilot up front — he's in the seat that gets it first."

Women of the American Legion Auxiliary, who are studying Honduras this year in their Pan American Study program, are aiding the economy of that Central American republic through helping Honduras help themselves at a very modest cost, Mrs. Langmaid explained.

Agricultural and woodworking tool kits are being purchased and given to schools, clubs and individuals in Honduras. The program is being carried out through the facilities of the CARE organization. While the amount expended so far is only in the neighborhood of $3,000, the Auxiliary already has assisted many people in this undeveloped country improve their conditions of life. Simple tools which we take for granted in the United States are lacking in many parts of Honduras, said Mrs. Langmaid. A tool kit costing only a few dollars means much to these people. Many of our kits go to vocational training schools and are given

Plymouth High School

The Sack Is Here
The chemise was out in full force at the dance last Friday night, April 11. That "crazy" style has become very popular around the school. Sharon Watts sort of initiated the fad a few weeks ago; now almost every girl has at least one chemise or an overblouse. The comments of the boys vary all the way from, "They're sharp," to, "I wouldn't be seen with a girl dressed like that." Oh, well, they're fun for a change.

Jean Whitebread, dressed as a man, and Marilyn Goodhand exhibited the various types of dancers seen at a high school dance for some special entertainment at the Friday evening, record dance. The performance was very brief but brought forth a few chuckles from the audience as some of them must have recognized themselves as "out of step" or "all over the floor." The girls were members of the sponsoring organization, "Rainbows." It was a cute novelty.

Scholarship Winner
Ray Green has won a four-year scholarship from the Ford Motor Company Fund. Congratulations, Ray. While we're in the congratulatory

Don't Send That Poisonous Reptile Through the Mail

The variety of items that people send—or try to send—through the mails is amazing says Postmaster George Timpona. From form notices and trinkets of little consequence to social and business transactions of incalculable value, most everything makes grist for the biggest business on earth. But not all that is deposited is welcome. Certain types of letters and packages are in violation of law. Violations can bring penalties of up to $5,000 in fines and five years imprisonment, or both. One of the better known non-mailable items is chain letters. Others are lottery tickets, sweepstakes tickets, obscene matter, articles relating to birth prevention, liquor, firearms, explosives, matches, caustic acids, treasonable statements, poison, and poisonous reptiles.

In general, any articles, compositions or materials which may kill or injure another, or injure the mails or other property are non-mailable. Primary purpose of the law is to protect the mails against damage, to protect those who handle them against personal harm, and to protect the public against fraud. Some items ordinarily prohibited may be sent through the mails if they conform to special regulations as to preparation and packaging and if they are not outwardly dangerous, or of their own force dangerous or injurious to life, health, or property.

The burden rests with the mailer to insure that he has complied with the law. So if you are in doubt call your post office.

MASTERS OF DECEIT

By R. Roy Pursell

Would YOU recognize Communist slantings if you saw them, heard them in a speech or sermon? Would you believe that we have it on Main Street, Plymouth, Michigan, U.S.A.? It is so easy to say: "It can't happen HERE." Well, it IS happening here and Pursell's is happy to present the best written book of the century to help you. It is

MASTERS OF DECEIT

The Story of Communism in America and How to Fight It

J. EDGAR HOOVER

The Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation explains the startling facts about the major menace of our time, communism: what it is, how it works, what its aims are, the real dangers it poses, and what loyal American citizens must know to protect their freedom.

While it is highly informative, it does what few books do: It concretely outlines just what YOU can do NOW to combat the evil of the "false religion" of communism, so that we can stay free.

OPPOSES ADENAUER . . . Big debate in West Germany is whether to use atomic weapons, and Socialist Democrat Erich Ollenhauer, speaking at Frankfurt, says no.

by George Speilvis

As the Plymouth Theater Guild finishes its tenth season, they can sit back and bask in the reverberations that come from riotous laughter when confined in a small place. "My Sister Eileen" ended a successful season for the Guild members. Elections for next year's officers and board members are ahead on the horizon. On May 19th the Guild will elect a new set of officers. All card-holding members should plan to make this meeting and help select the board members that will guide the destiny of the Plymouth Theater Guild for the 1938-39 season.

To try and select an outstanding actor from last week's production would be fool-hardy. (Everyone did their part like a scout from Paramount pictures was out in the audience. But yet, all the performers acted as though they thoroughly enjoyed the play fully as much as the audience. It would be hard to separate many of our Plymouth friends from the parts that they played in "My Sister Eileen." This, after all, is a true test of good characterization. And let's not forget the director — Larry Johnson. This was his first production for the Guild.

We certainly hope to see more of him. He has a professional manner that shines through when the show finally "gets on the road." Being a director is far from the easiest job in the world. In fact, you have to be impervious to a hundred and one tricks of human nature. In short, the director takes a play and molds it into a creative two-hour production. Larry has reason to be proud of "My Sister Eileen."

Gigantic is the only adjective that properly fits the description of the producer's task on any community theater production. Ask Garland and Alice Wright for confirmation of such a statement. Alice and Garland worked many long hours past midnight to give "My Sister Eileen" a home for a few days last week. Take for example, the Russian costume. Instead of renting a costume and suffering one more bill, Alice put on her thinking cap. She snagged some cloth left over from a curtain on stage, borrowed a remnant from an old coat that had a nasty hole in it, and with a few hours of real craftsmanship — presto, change — a Russian costume complete with Cossack type headgear. It's this type of activity that keeps our Plymouth Theater Guild on top of the community theater roster with its professional-type productions.

Speaking of costumes, even old George got into the act via a sports shirt. One of those wild shirts that C. V. Sparks graced the stage with happened to belong to my "blue green" period as Sparky indicated in the play. His line: "Life . . . is for idiots. . . ." will always remain with me as the high point of that comic scene with Eileen.

With the Crocus pushing their violet and yellow heads up out of the ground it's a reminder that Shakespeare's birthday can't be too far off. Old Bill was born during the later days of April. According to the best records it was around the 25th of April. Reason for the doubt is that many of the town records were destroyed by fire. Over Ann Arbor way they will be celebrating his birthday with a fine production of "Love's Labor Lost." The University players always do an excellent job of presenting Shakespeare. My advice is for everyone to get their tickets on either Monday or Tuesday of next week prior to the opening of the play on Thursday, April 24th. Those that hesitate will miss a performance of a Shakespearean play that is not produced too often on this continent.

Bumped into a book in the Plymouth library the other evening showing how the old Vic Theater over in London is in the midst of doing all of Shakespeare's plays over a five year period of time. The book has notes on the productions and most important of all it is profusely illustrated. I was startled to discover that "Love's Labor Lost" was one of the plays discussed and illustrated — pleasantly startled, that is. I'll be sure to return the book immediately so that if any of you not too familiar with this Shakespearean work would like to "bump over" to Ann Arbor, it will be available.

Before we turn off the spotlight for the evening, let me warn everyone if you have some beautiful crocuses coming up on your lawn, hold off using the lawnmower for as long as possible. After the flowers fade away, the leaves do the big job of manufacturing next year's flowers. You cut the grass too soon and snip, zip there will go some beautiful flowers. So just tell the "little woman" she will have to wait a bit longer before she gets the power mower out of the garage.

Time to hit the road for this week. A last minute reminder — save either May 9th or 10th for a hilarious night out. The Garden City drama group, The Footlighters, are giving "Charley's Aunt" at the Burger Junior High School. This old favorite is always worth a repeat visit.

Two Students Win State-Wide Math Contest

Plymouth High School can proudly claim two winners in the annual Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition. Among the 55 named to receive tuition scholarships were Roger Kenner and Raymond Green.

The event, sponsored by the University of Michigan, Michigan State University, Wayne State University and Central Michigan College, drew 6,200 state high school students.

Roger, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kenner of 8629 Narise, plans to study electronics engineering at Wayne State University. Raymond is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Green of 6221 Lotz. He accepted a four-year Ford scholarship last week, making him ineligible to receive the mathematics scholarship. Raymond will study engineering at the University of Michigan.

Legion Essay Contest Winners Announced

Two Plymouth young people will receive $10 awards next week for writing winning entries in the American Legion Auxiliary essay contest. First prize winner in the senior group (10th to 12th grades) was Julie Stecker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Stecker, 45455 Territorial. Julia is a junior and is 16 years old.

Subject for the essays was "Citizenship — An Honored Privilege." Next week the winner of the junior group will be published. It was written by Paul H. Jensen, 1372 Sheridan.

CITIZENSHIP AN HONORED PRIVILEGE BY JULIE STECKER I am citizenship. I am the envy of a countless number of Germans, Russians, French and other foreigners. Do you, Mr. Average Citizen, take advantage of me? Do you take me for granted? Think hard, Mr. Average Citizen, do you really know what I am and what I stand for? You, Mr. Average Citizen, neglect me and forget me. I gave you the right to vote at all elections, but do you? You say you get out every four years for the important elections, but what about your state and city elections? Aren't they just as important? I also gave you the right to a free education. Did you take advantage of this and finish high school?

Do you respect and obey the laws? You know, of course, that these laws are for your benefit. What about serving on a jury if you have been asked and also, do you pay your taxes honestly and understandingly? These taxes only serve to protect you. Now, Mr. Average Citizen, what about that meeting you should have attended last night, you know, Community Planning Group Meeting? Why didn't you go? Oh, yes, just too tired. This is why you're only average. I also gave you the right to make your community a better place in which to live. Just what have you done about it?

These are some of the more important things I stand for. There are also the daily privileges, such as being helpful, driving carefully and don't forget those little signs along the side of the road saying, "One hundred dollar fine for throwing trash on highway." You, Mr. Average Citizen, are born with these privileges at your fingertips, these that your ancestors worked and slaved for, so you could have the honored privilege — Citizenship. You didn't have to flee from another country to acquire these privileges as many have done and many would like to do. You don't do all the things I stand for, but if a foreigner should ask you to trade places with him, would you? Of course you would not. Why not show me you appreciate me?

To a foreigner, I mean the chance to earn a good salary at any work, I also mean that his children can have an edu-

YOUR HANDWRITING TELLS YOUR STORY

With Grapho Analysis
BY JEAN EVANS

Dear Jean: You have a very healthy imagination and a creative mind. You are a person whose feelings are easily hurt and with your imagination you likely suffer greatly because of this exaggeration. You are secretive about it and others probably never guess how you feel. You could use this imagination profitably if you so desired because of your creativity and originality. There is much unused imagination also evident which proves that you are not using it to your best advantage. Please tell me what Grapho Analysis can tell about my handwriting. I enjoy your column very much.

PEG
You are an efficient person who flits along through life with optimism for awhile then you become discouraged. You tend to skim the surface of things that don't interest you and don't bother with them. You are one who likes variety.

Dear Jean:
I read your column every week and I think it's fascinating. I am a teen-aged girl and I'm very undecided about my after-high school plans. Is there anything you can find in my handwriting that would give me a clue about what I am best suited for? I would also like to know anything you can tell me about my personality. This means a lot to me. Thank you very much.

F.R.
You are quick to jump to conclusions, believing something to be true before you have all the facts. There is also resentment shown in your handwriting which will cause you to take offense at the remarks of others unnecessarily. You have a genuine desire to share with others with no thought of reward. You are independent in your thinking and will follow your own code of behavior. You have a creative mind and the facility of manual dexterity. You like variety and change of scenery. You have a sympathetic nature and will wish to help those in need of your assistance. You can discover for yourself what line of work you would like to enter by choosing one in which these qualifications are desired.

Dear Jean:
Reading your analysis in our weekly paper I decided to ask you what's wrong with me, perhaps you could tell. My husband passed away two years ago and since then the two older children have been worlds apart, why I do not understand. They come to tell me this and that but I want to stay neutral as I love them both.

MRS. C. R.
Dear MRS. C. R.: Your daughter is sarcastic and not as liberal in her opinions as might be desired. There is also evidence that she wishes to impose her will or ideas on others which could very easily cause the friction between her and her brother who is very sensitive to others' opinions and remarks. He resents her attitude and has likely built up a protective wall against her interference. This personality clash is not uncommon within a family and becomes evident as the members grow older.

Resolutions Recognize Efforts Of E. C. Hough, Russell Daane

Resolutions honoring Edward C. Hough and Russell M. Daane have been approved Monday night by the city commission. Hough was honored because of his donation of the new Dunning-Hough Library while Daane was recognized for his service to the city and part in obtaining the library donation. The former mayor is leaving Plymouth next month for a new job in Ft. Wayne.

The resolution to Hough reads: "WHEREAS, Mr. Edward C. Hough, a life long and respected resident of the City of Plymouth, Michigan, whose pride and interest is demonstrated by his personal contributions to this community, and

"WHEREAS, Mr. Edward C. Hough, through his benevolence, has provided for the citizens of Plymouth the funds and means by which it was possible to complete the new wing of the Dunning-Hough Library, and

"WHEREAS, Mr. E. C. Hough further supplied the furnishings to complete the friendly atmosphere of the library, and

"WHEREAS, Mr. Hough has by such civic-minded contribution provided, without desire for public acknowledgment, a beautiful building for present and future generations to enjoy, and in which will be housed the knowledge of the cultures of the past, present and future,

"NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that this City Commission accept this gift of the new wing of the Dunning-Hough Library, and hereby extend to Mr. Edward C. Hough, on the behalf of the citizens of the City of Plymouth, Michigan, the sincere appreciation of the community for the many good works provided by him for the betterment of this city."

The resolution for Daane reads: "WHEREAS, Russell M. Daane has served this community of Plymouth, Michigan, as a charter commissioner, a city commissioner and mayor, and

"WHEREAS, through his personal endeavor and under his leadership and guidance many notable civic achievements have been realized, and

"WHEREAS, as a result of his energy and devotion to duty, many tangible benefits have accrued to this city, the most noteworthy being the acquisition and development of off-street parking lots, a sanitary sewer system for one third of the city, water main extensions and a new well for the public water supply, and, most important, he, personally, did interest another civic-minded citizen, Mr. Edward C. Hough, in donating sufficient funds to complete the public library,

"NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that this City Commission hereby extend to Russell M. Daane the appreciation of the citizens of the City of Plymouth for his devoted service and sound counsel as charter commissioner, city commissioner and mayor, and for his interest in obtaining for the betterment of this community the many public works and, especially, for his interest in obtaining for the citizens the new wing of the Dunning-Hough Public Library.

"BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that this City Commission wish Russell M. Daane Godspeed in his new responsibilities in another community."

Woman's Eye View
by Nancy Rigney

It's a little late to talk about April Fool jokes, but a couple of dillys turned up in conversation around the office the other day.

The story about Jim Thornton of Woods Insurance Agency goes like this: Lucille Williams, who works at Beyer drugs over on Forest, tucks the monthly rent in an envelope and slips it under the front door where landlord Jim Thornton picks it up. April 1 being more than just another rent day, Lucille couldn't let it pass in a routine manner. She did some collecting of her own throughout the neighborhood and stuffed the envelope with the exact amount in play money.

Thornton with envelope in hand went to the bank and made out his deposit slips. He opened the envelope just in time to save himself a red-faced explanation. Too bad a bank teller had to miss a story he'd probably still be telling if Thornton had gotten to the window with his packet of play money.

Another Plymouthite who felt a little silly on April 1st was a colleague at the Plymouth Mail, who worked many long hours here that Tuesday reading many galleys of proof. The victim was Mrs. Dale Johnson (known as Connie) who by evening was still at her desk and immune to anything but those ever-present galley proofs.

A phone call from sister Jennie informing her that another sister had eloped took her completely by surprise. She told the news to everyone in the office who knew her sister and rushed home in a tizzy. Hook, line and sinker!—almost. Once she got in her car thoughts like 'this couldn't be true' and 'this is April 1' crossed her mind . . . and she was so right.

Plymouth High School's Pilgrim Prints April 1 fooled the whole school with a full page of contrived stories. But, as co-editor Liz Sarah has said, they didn't tell big enough whoops because most of the students didn't notice anything unusual.

If Mrs. Sheldon Baker ever takes a trip to Italy, she can pull out her Girl Guide pin and take in a meeting any time. Just last Thursday she became an honorary Italian Girl Guide in Milwaukee, Wis. Mrs. Baker and her senior troop spent a week there as guests of a Milwaukee senior troop. An Italian exchange student and Girl Guide presented Mrs. Baker with the pin.

In her words, "It was a perfectly wonderful trip" and the girls agree that it was pretty exciting. For most of them it was their first flight.

B-G-R. Changes Sales Manager

In preparation for his retirement on September 1, William J. Black, sales manager of the B-G-R Division of Associated Spring Corporation, Plymouth and Ann Arbor, has been put on special assignment work for the general manager, George C. Sessions, marketing and sales manager of the Division, has assumed direct charge of Black's former duties.

The changes, effective April 1, were announced by Charles J. Stofko, general manager of the B-G-R Division.

Two important reasons for making these changes were pointed out by Stofko. "First, our whole organization will have to go through a period of adjustment," he said. "Service to our customers is paramount. So this adjustment must be made as smoothly as possible. Second, Mr. Black's adjustment in his personal life must be considered. His contributions to our progress have been too valuable to merely let him come to an abrupt halt in his working life.

"Ever since the B-G-R Division was established over 35 years ago, Mr. Black has been its sales manager," Mr. Stofko continued. "During this period he has built up an enviable reputation in the mechanical precision spring business in the area that we serve. We are fortunate in having Mr. Sessions with us to lead our expanded marketing activities. His many years of supervisory, sales, and manufacturing experience with the Wallace Barnes Division of Associated Spring Corporation will mean a great deal to us in the years ahead."

THE READER SPEAKS UP

Dear Mr. Chandler:
In the course of a brief visit in Plymouth recently, I had occasion to see a copy of the Plymouth Mail and was delighted to find therein the splendid article on education by Professor Harold I. Clapp of Grinnell College. I wish to take this means of congratulating you on your prespicacity in making available to readers of a community the size of Plymouth so penetrating an analysis of serious issues in education.

After years of exposure to the praises of "social adjustment" and similar drivel, it is gratifying to see that some Americans are asking very pertinent—and occasionally embarrassing—questions as to what the role of the school really is. It is likewise gratifying to note that editors with vision are bringing these questions to the attention of a wide audience.

Jet Passenger Travel Not Far Off in Coming

The big public fanfare hasn't broken yet, but jet travel for U.S. airline passengers is just around the corner, according to the editor of Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine. In less than a year the first U.S. jet commercial planes will be in service, and in a year and a half nearly one third of all U.S. passengers will be flying in jet planes.

From Chicago, it will be one hour and 40 minutes to New York; three hours 50 minutes to Los Angeles; two hours 50 minutes to Miami. The New York to San Francisco traveler will be able to leave at 5 p.m., dine on the plane and arrive in time for a show or an evening on the town.

You'll cruise in lavish comfort at between 550 and 600 miles per hour. Your swept-winged plane will swoosh through the air at 30,000 feet, high above weather and turbulence. Your sensation will be one of vibrationless ease, disturbed only by the subdued whish of the jet exhausts. Many of the planes will carry up to 155 passengers—almost twice the number who fly on the mammoth DC-7's.

The major jets in the sky will be the Douglas DC-8, Boeing-707 and Convair-380. Some will be for short and medium-range trips. Others, such as the Boeing Intercontinental, will span the oceans. So fast and so large will be these planes, a single one will do the work of four passenger trains or 60 buses.

Once the airlines recovers the billions spent on the new planes, any economies in a show up on the fares you pay. New jets will be able to fly passengers at a lower cost than existing planes because of their speed and capacity.

About 66,000,000 passengers will fly in jets and other planes in 1960. Airlines will chalk up close to 35 billion passenger miles. For an eye-opening comparison, note the 1950 figures: 17,000,000 passenger miles.

Homer Martin Seeks U.S. Senate Job

Another Plymouth area resident, Homer Martin, 7405 Brookfield Rd., has entered the big-time political arena by announcing his candidacy for U.S. Senator.

Martin, who was one time president of the United Auto Workers, said yesterday he will run against Lt. Gov. Philip A. Hart in the August Democratic primary. He is one of two rebellious Democrats opposing the Williams block.

Opposing Williams will be William L. Johnson, Ironwood radio station manager. The two men are members of the new State Democratic Club of Michigan, Inc.

Martin was once a Republican candidate for Congress from the 17th District; he headed the Fair Share group of dairy farmers opposing the Michigan Milk Producers Association; and in late years has been in the awning business at his home in Salem Township.

Another Plymouthite, State Senator John Swainson, is running for lieutenant governor on the Democratic ticket.

2 by 4 Feet Good to Start

Joel, 8 years old, dug holes for an acorn and a pine cone, covered them with soil and labeled them just the way his mother covered and labeled the gladiolus bulbs she planted the same day. Kathy, 9 years old, hasn't forgotten the six tulip bulbs she planted last fall and looks every morning before she goes to school to see how big the bulbs are.

Children like to garden, if given half a chance to do so. They like to feel proprietary for their own small space or their very own bush. Mowing and clipping the lawn each week can be worked out as a "business proposition" with a teen-age son, but don't expect him to hoe the corn which Dad planted or spray the roses which are Mother's pride of his own free will. On the other hand, a 10x19 square foot plot in which he can grow strawberries or tomatoes to sell will be tended every week.

Ten by ten feet is a lot of garden for a youngster to plant, keep free of weeds and producing crop of flowers all summer long. A boy or a girl should be 12 years old before a space that size is allotted. The 5 or 6-year-old who wants to plant when Mommy and Daddy do will find that 2 by 4 feet is enough to keep him interested.

By the time a child is 8 or 10 years old, 5 by 7 feet of space is more to his liking, for then there are different seeds and plants he'll want to try. Letting a Northern child sow cotton seed and tend a row of cotton plants one summer is an experience the child will talk about proudly at school. Or, if he selects his own 50 cents worth of seed packets from the rack at the store, he's bound to choose pictures of some plants he doesn't know.

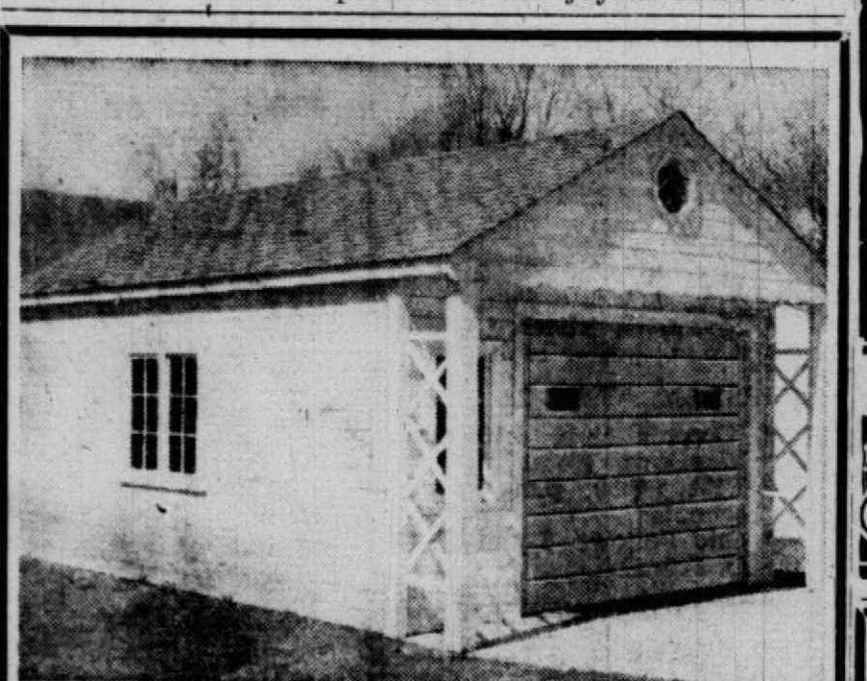

The crops that will be gathered and the flowers that can be picked in summer is one means of sustaining a child's interest in taking care of his own garden. That's why every child ever year should sow radish seed, for the round red radishes are ready to be picked and eaten 21 days after seed was sown. Cress and corn salad can be picked for the family salad bowl about 6 weeks after sowing. Carrots and beets can't be pulled until about 10 weeks after sowing.

A few bulbs, a rosebush or a shrub planted in the child's own plot helps to sustain interest because of their permanency. A half dozen gladiolus bulbs planted 4 inches apart or a lily bulb set as deep as 5 inches will be a miracle to the child as it grows and blooms.

An everblooming rosebush such as Jiminy Cricket or Circus will keep the curious child — and what child isn't curious? — looking to see when another flower is going to open. And if the child looks, then he is likely to pull out any weeds around the rosebush or to water it if it's a dry summer.

Whether the child is 4 or 14 years old, it isn't fair to give him garden space in the corner that is shaded or where soil is poorest. The area should get some sun and have reasonably good soil. Good tools in a junior size, not play tools of tin, are another provision.

Thus equipped, any youngster will copy his elders in spading and raking the soil, planting a and transplanting, watering and weeding his garden, and chasing — and perhaps catching — the bugs. Praise from the family for the crops that are gathered or the flowers picked is the joyful reward.

Carburetor Lemon for Ladies

The gas purchased at a local service station would be absolutely useless to the engine of the family car if it weren't for one important engine part. This is the carburetor.

It's not that any of the marketed gasolines is inferior, but the chemical energy in gasoline cannot be turned into mechanical energy until the carburetor begins to work.

This work consists of the art of mixing or blending the gasoline with a certain amount of air to form the combustible, or exploding, mixture when it is ignited inside the engine's cylinders. It is at this time that the engine responds to power.

HERE'S HOW . . . MAKE A WALL UNIT-HEADBOARD COMBINAT

A bookcase ensemble can solve a storage problem for toys and books. Little-used items are stored on the lower shelves of the wall unit and hidden from view when the bed is moved against it.

The length of the wall unit corresponds to the length of the youngster's bed. The length of the headboard unit is equal to the bed width plus the wall unit. Cut the frame members to this length. Cut the side panels of each unit of sufficient length so that when they are placed between the frame members the total height, 33 1/2 inches. Be sure to include the base in the height of the headboard unit. Mark the location of the interior shelves on the side panels as shown in the diagram. Assemble the individual frames. Cut the interior shelves of the units to fit between the sides. Cut the three small dividers to fit between the lower shelves of the wall unit. Center the dividers on the shelves and attach them from beneath. Position all shelves and fasten them to the sides. Cut the upper dividers to fit and fasten them in place as shown.

Make the base for the headboard unit 4 inches shorter than the unit length. Attach the hardwood plywood back.

Art Glass Vases for Collectors

From 1880 to 1900, important decorative accessories for homes were made of Art Glass. The term Art Glass includes at least eighteen different types of glass, all of it colored. Often the glass imitated other materials such as stone, china or metal.

Vases — large and small, classic or rococo in shape — were standard Art Glass output. The smaller, less flamboyant vases in the type of Art Glass that appeals to a collector, provide charming bits of color for rooms of today. The three vases pictured all are small and used by the owners to hold cut flowers. Milk white opaque glass was made early in the nineteenth century as blown glass, in the later decades as pressed glass. It antedates art glass. Typical of Art Glass are the vaseline and satin glass vases pictured. Both the satin glass and small rose bowl have the satiny, mat finish that characterizes this glass. Typically also, the rose bowl is shaded in color and the inch tall vase is decorated with iridescent spirals. Vaseline glass should not be confused with the light yellow pressed glass. The vaseline glass is yellow, either clear or opaque, but has the blue tinge and oily look of real vaseline. Painted and enameled vases were also popular during the late Victorian period. Overlay, mercury or silvered glass, marble glass, agate were other novelties. Amberina is a transparent glass that shades from amber at the base to ruby at the top. Spangled, striped, Tiffany or Favrite glass also had their vogue.

These fancy types of glass all were made in the United States, although some of them copied English or European styles. Art Glass was free blown, pattern molded or pressed.

ART GLASS VASES — The three vases pictured above were made between 1880 and 1900 in the United States. On the left is a rococo vaseline vase. Center and right are pictured satin glass pieces. The vase and small rose bowl both have the satiny finish that characterizes this glass.

Michigan Bees Have Heavy Flight Schedule takes one little bee the use of honey in baking. Detroit Consumer Marketing Information agents suggest first — that honey be kept in a dry place. Cover it, for it loses flavor and absorbs moisture and odors when left uncovered. Comb, extracted and chunk honey should be stored at room temperature in order to prevent crystallization. However, creamed honey and honey butter may be stored in the refrigerator. If the popular extracted or liquid honey crystallizes, place the container in a pan of warm water until the crystals disappear. Do not over-heat the honey comes from alfalfa, clover and clover blends. Blending makes a product that is more uniform in color and flavor. Clover honey is mild and delicate in flavor and light colored, while the darkest honey is made from the buckwheat bloom which has a strong, rich flavor.

(6-inch diameter) Press pastry into muffin pans; double the edge of pastry over and pinch with fingers to make an upright rim. For filling, beat eggs, and blend in the other ingredients. Pour 1/4 cup of the mixture into each unbaked tart shell. Bake at 400 degrees F. (hot oven) for 25 to 30 minutes. Makes 6 tarts.

Budget, Health Threatened By Timeworn Fallacies

Are you sometimes fooled by fallacies in food buying? Food misinformation encourages the waste of your money — and it threatens your health through the misunderstanding of the real facts. Poor buying and eating habits may be developed through the word of mouth fallacies which are passed from one generation to another, as well as through the clever use of words and distorted nutritional phrases in many printed sales releases.

Facts about food buying and menu selection may not seem as exciting as the exaggerations of the food faddist. Many homemakers realize that for every food fraud, there is a food fact. Already there have been many releases printed regarding the fallacies in food nutrition.

The Detroit Consumer Marketing Information agent has been working on the Foods and Nutrition Committee of the Michigan Home Economics Association to assist those who also want the facts about food buying. Within a few weeks a leaflet will be completed which will provide the factual answers to many fallacies regarding food buying, as well as a summary and bibliography of information available concerning fact and fallacy in food nutrition.

In order that you will have an idea of the type of information included in the new release, the following are some examples:

Fallacy: The Squeeze test is the best indication of freshness of bread.

Fact: The old squeeze test no longer measures softness or freshness of bread. Some types of bread are naturally compact and are not soft when baked — others remain soft for days because softeners are added to the ingredients.

Fallacy: "Leaders" advertised in the markets are foods of inferior quality which the store has had on hand.

Fact: "Leaders" may be foods of equal quality to the usual merchandise, or the same food found in competitive markets. They may be priced at cost to attract the shopper into the store with the hope that other purchases will be made.

Fallacy: Beet sugar is not as good a product as cane sugar.

Fact: Beet and cane sugars are chemically the same. They may be used with equally good results for all purposes.

Fallacy: Large sizes of fruit are usually the most economical.

Fact: Medium sizes of apples, oranges, pears, etc., are usually more economical, provide the most fruit for the money, and are the best choices for general use.

Fallacy: The best way to test a cantaloupe for ripeness is to shake it and press the stem end.

Fact: Shaking a cantaloupe loosens seeds and hastens spoilage, while pressing the stem-end often bruises the fruit. Neither are an indication of ripeness. Ripe, full-flavored fruit has a coarse, cork-like netting, a golden undercolor and a smooth well-sunken scar at the stem end.

Fallacy: The term "Government Graded" means that meat is always the best quality available.

Fact: Meat may fall into several different grades depending upon its characteristics — conformation, quality and finish. "Government Graded" meat may be one of the lower grades instead of the best.

Fallacy: When one kind of luncheon meat sells for a higher price in one market than in others, it indicates that that brand is the best quality.

Fact: Michigan sausage laws are rigidly enforced and there is little difference in quality between the most expensive and the cheapest luncheon meat. There is often a large cost spread between cold cuts of similar quality in different markets because of seasonings, packaging and packer advertising. Read the labels and try different brands.

Fallacy: Grade A eggs are always large eggs, while the grade B would be the smaller sizes.

Fact: Grade of egg refers only to the inside quality of the egg. Each of the grades—A, B, or C may be large, medium or small. Size refers only to the weight of each dozen eggs and has nothing to do with grade or quality.

Fallacy: Eggs may be stored satisfactorily at room temperature.

Fact: "In the refrigerator" is the rule for keeping eggs—in the store and at home. At room temperature eggs can lose as much quality in 3 days as they can in 2 weeks in the refrigerator.

Fallacy: By using the "feel test" to determine if a frozen package is still hard, you will know if the freezer is cold enough.

Fact: The "feel test" is misleading, for a package of food in the temperature range of +10 degrees to +20 degrees will feel hard, but quality goes down fast at these temperatures. Frozen foods should be stored at 0 degrees or below.

Fallacy: Allowing the temperature to go up to 25 degrees for a day or less does little damage to frozen foods.

Fact: Letting a package of frozen food get up to 25 degrees above zero just one day is worse than using a package from a pack more than a year old but held at zero or colder. Once damage is done by a rise in temperature, it can never be corrected.

A clean windshied is important to safety. A solution of warm water and ammonia does the trick.

A Clean Car Spells Safety

Take a tip from the neat-vacuum cleaner. Get a pail est girl in town, and let your warm water with some good housekeeping show on ammonia in it, a clean the road. Washing the car sponge and either a squeegee you drive uses many of the wiper or several dry soft the best figure exercises.

Procedure:
1. Clean inside of car. Remove all litter from glove box, all clutter from shelf behind rear seats — galoshes, rubbers, umbrellas, comic books, toys, etc. Empty ash trays. Sweep, then vacuum thoroughly. If your car has vinyl plastic upholstery, wash it with a sponge wrung out of detergent and warm water, followed by a clear water wipe-down. Make sure flashlight has a working battery before replacing in glove box, that you replace only one each of maps you use regularly, that the glove box contains your insurance identification.

2. Close all windows. Incidentally a line along the exposed edge indicates the window is made of laminated safety glass, the only kind used in windshields.

3. Wash down outside of car with detergent. Rinse and dry.

4. Wash tires. Use steel wool if necessary.

5. Wipe on a thin film of auto polish. Allow to partially dry, then wipe off.

6. Finally, wash all window areas inside and outside with the warm water and ammonia solution. Wipe dry with a clean cloth or with a squeegee wiper.

You will then be looking through the cleanest windshied in the neighborhood, as proud of your clean, safe car as you are of your spring house cleaning.

If ironing is necessary, DO use only a warm iron with light pressure. Resin-treated cottons absorb less moisture, so you don't need a hot iron.

Polished and embossed cottons need some extra care. Iron polished cottons with a subdued sheen on the right side — those with a high luster on the wrong side. Just freshen embossed cottons. Use very light pressure and iron over a towel, otherwise you will flatten the pattern.

When you bleach, DO use a powder bleach. DON'T use chlorine bleaches unless the label says they're harmless. Chlorine absorbed by the resin treatment may weaken and discolor the fabric.

DO squeeze water out gently in your hands. DON'T twist or wring; it tends to cause wrinkles and may injure the finish.

Machine is Modern Answer To Grandma's Quilting Bee

The making of quilts is a year-around leisure stint for many women. The selection of a pattern, the "piecing" of bright scraps of material and then quilting by hand is a best of its kind. However, a solid color bottom that picks up one of the colors in the print is always a satisfactory combination.

Machine quilting, especially with the attachment, need not be restricted to straight rows of stitches. Transfer patterns for quilting may be purchased and applied to the bottom layer, or a person can work out her own design.

Rows of stitching which criss-cross each other to form squares or diagonals are basic. A center of diamonds, made by diagonal rows of stitches, might be edged with a row of scallops also made by stitches.

An edging of a double rectangle of stitches, the two rows about three inches apart, might be filled with four flower petals, each one needing only two rows of stitches. One pointed tip of petals fits in a corner of the quilt and the other pointed end is in the exact center of the quilt.

It is best to baste these three layers of fabric together so that they will not shift when placed on the machine to be quilted. Shifting could be fatal to the pattern in which the stitching is done.

For greatest warmth the top and bottom materials should be lightweight wool. Cotton

Plymouth Show Dogs Bring Home Ribbons, Titles to Kennel Owners

Right in Plymouth's back yard are three kennels — breeding, raising, selling and showing dogs. Name almost any dog show and you'll find when the final results are in, that Lallan Kennels, Lappan Kennels and Raymond E. Olson have walked away with a good number of ribbons.

Olson, a chemistry teacher at Bentley High in Livonia, is located on Schoolcraft in Plymouth township. He has four breeds, affenpinschers, Japanese spaniels and long and short-haired chihuahuas and has the distinction of being the only affenpinscher breeder in Michigan.
 In addition to similarity in names, Lallan's and Lappan's raise poodles. Lallan's owners, Barbara Fluery and Beulah Finch, specialize in poodles and maltese. They also have an interesting newcomer — the Chinese crested. The only hair on this breed is a tuft in the middle of the forehead. Lallan's is on North Territorial across from Fox Hills.
 Lappan Kennels is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Martin Zurn and located on Joy road near Beck road. They raise collies and toy, miniature and standard poodles.
 Breeding of top quality pedigrees for show purposes and sale is the aim of the local breeders. They all have some nationally known champions and are active in dog shows throughout the Midwest and east. But their interest still lies in the home front — raising even-tempered children's pets, keeping their kennels in top-notch condition, and being very concerned about who they sell their dogs to. All three agree that a lot can be told about a prospective dog-owner by a face-to-face chat — whether they have the dog's interests at heart or as often is the case with poodles, they are only pursuing a fad. Mrs. Zurn points out that the fad-follower will soon tire of the dog and often neglect it. This is one of the reasons, she and other breeders are "fussy" about their customers.
 Unfortunately such is not the case with all dog breeders. A dog named "Pete" had a trying early life at the hands of a bad dog breeder, but the story has a happy ending thanks to the loving hand of Mrs. Zurn.
 "Pete" is an orange apricot poodle (pictured on page) who was caged in the basement of a New Jersey home with 50 other dogs. He had never been out of his cage and was unable to walk. His hair was dirty and matted. Mrs. Zurn, who took five of the dogs, and other outraged breeders rescued them and filed suit against the breeder for cruelty. The other breeders didn't see a chance in the world to bring "Pete" back to normal dog life.
 But Pete is a new dog these days and with a new name "Lappan's Pirate Gold 'O Twilite." He holds "winners dog" and "best of opposite sex" titles in the Livonia dog show and several Michigan and Ohio shows.
 He's full of life and the kind of character who likes to take his frustrations out on his hair brush. He has a wonderful disposition with children but still a little afraid of people.
 The kennel-owners don't forget their own either. Dogs are shown until they are about four or five years old but they aren't sent to the auction block. Not by a long shot — they retire and let the younger set earn their keep. Miss Fluery and Miss Finch have dozens of "pensioners" around who were champions in their day. One is a 21 year-old maltese, who hangs snug in a bright green sweater.
 Miss Fluery and Miss Finch have been in the business for 20 years in the Detroit area, during which time name Lallan has become respected among dog breeders. They are enthusiastically remodeling their new location on North Territorial.
 The Zurns and their two children Wendy and Craig came to Plymouth from New Jersey last year. They have a ten-acre farm which they have equipped with kennels and exercising pens for their dogs. At one time Mrs. Zurn was studying to be a veterinarian and feels that the kennel fulfills this ambition to work with animals.
 Olson's training in biology and his interest in dogs led him into dog breeding in 1950. Plenty of space is the rule here, too, as he also raises trophy-winning dahlias.
 The affenpinschers are an old German breed which Olson has bred down to the toy size. Their titles include "Affree" which is a combination of the breed name and Olson's initials. Toycraft, from toy and Schoolcraft, is another name used.
 The Detroit Dog Show in March brought home best of breed titles to Olson and Lallan's. The triumphant pair for Olson were his affenpinscher, "Katrinka von Affree" and his Japanese spaniel, "Wadsworth Yum Kim of Toycraft." A maltese, "Sea Lord of Gissing" was the winner for Lallan.
 In the puppy class "Lappan's Sheer Elegance," a collie, placed first. Also known affectionately as "Teddy Bear," she is only eight months-old. She entered her first show at six months which was the Collie Club of America Special in Hartford, Conn. Against a field of 207 opponents, she placed fourth which was remarkable for her age and experience. After placing first at the Detroit and Flint shows, she entered her fourth show at Youngstown, Ohio March 23. There she topped "best female," "best of winners" and "best of variety."

THE ORANGE-APRICOT standard poodle, "Pete," stands at attention with Wendy Zurn. He was once neglected and caged in a basement, until Mrs. Zurn of Lappan Kennels took him and made him a winning show dog. His full title is "Lappan's Pirate Gold 'O Twilite."

TWO PAIRS of eyes watch co-owner of Lallan Kennels, Barbara Fluery. In the foreground is a maltese, "Lallan Toto of Daviston." Behind is "Lallan Feisty," a Chinese crested. The tuft of hair seen atop its head is the only hair on its body.

MRS. MARTIN ZURN of Lappan Kennels is pictured with 8 month-old collie winner, "Lappan's Sheer Elegance" or just plain "Teddy Bear." The kennel also raises three sizes of poodles—toy, miniature and standard.

CHAMPION AFFENPINSCHERS, Katrinka von Affree and Trudl von Affree, are held by owner and breeder Raymond E. Olson. Trudl was undefeated in gaining her championship in seven shows. Olson is the only Affenpinscher breeder in Michigan.

WADSWORTH YUM KIM of Toycraft is the impressive title of this Japanese spaniel owned and bred by Raymond E. Olson. Nicknamed Sukl, she was a best of breed winner at the recent Detroit dog show.

They Get Together

Gov. Williams will be the first Michigan chief executive getting a chance to use reorganization powers sought by government reformers for eight years.

Many people were amazed when Republicans joined Democrats to enact a law enabling the governor to reorganize state government, held in check only by a legislative veto.

or more each year, could not possibly know the details of a functioning department and whether it should be merged with another.

The bill, as passed by both houses, allows the governor to propose mergers and abandonment of agencies but he cannot propose new agencies.

The whole system reverses the normal relationship between the legislature and the governor, in which the lawmakers enact and the governor vetoes or approves.

The history of the idea in Michigan began with an ambitious research program started eight years ago.

The governor may make his proposals within 30 days after the legislature convenes in January. The legislature then will have 60 days in which to act.

If the legislature does not approve or disapprove of the proposals, they will become law 90 days after the session ends.

Researchers reasoned that the administrative head of government should be responsible for his own operations and should be the most familiar with the weaknesses and strengths of the agencies.

The executive reorganization plan was offered to the legislature each year and each year it was defeated or left to gather dust in a committee room pigeon hole.

Either house can veto the proposals, and affirmative votes by both are needed before the proposals can be put into effect.

For years, separate attempts have been made to merge all health agencies under a single administrative office; each operating separately, but their work coordinated by a single head.

Only a few political scientists believed it would pass this year. It passed the House 66-36 and the Senate 19-11.

Critics of the idea argued that the legislature is the state's lawmaking body and should propose, debate and iron the kinks out of reorganization ideas before they are put into effect.

It has also been proposed that the dozens of state regulatory and licensing agencies be merged, that a clear distinction be made between some overlapping welfare and health functions.

The whole idea of the survey eight years ago was to centralize control of government as well as responsibility, giving voters a clear-cut view of the record of candidates.

Backers of the idea said that the legislature, in session for three months was making the switch from radio to TV he lost his beloved wife. This was a blow from which he is only now recovering. He also encountered a period of poor health.

"Life Begins at Forty"

By ROBERT PETERSON

I HAD LUNCH YESTERDAY with John MacPherson, 81, who is radio's famed Mystery Chef. After hearing his fascinating story it occurs to me that there are at least two very good lessons to be learned from his career. One is that fame and fortune can begin at 53, and the other is that it's a good idea to salt a way some of your loot while you have it.

something with my hobby of cooking.

"Strawberries were in season at the time so I picked up the phone, called a baking powder company, and asked for an appointment with the president. I got the appointment and when I walked into the president's office I told him I was sure they could sell a lot of baking powder if they were to hire someone to tell people over the radio how to make a surefire strawberry shortcake." The president was impressed with the idea and hired Mr. MacPherson to go on the air as "The Mystery Chef."

The Mystery Chef turns out to be a very appealing gentleman — neat, pink-cheeked, and sandy-haired. For the first half century of his life he enjoyed moderate success in the advertising business. But then everything went wrong. He suffered reverses which plunged him $30,000 into debt. His wife came down with rheumatic fever. They were dispossessed from the apartment that had been their home for 18 years. And the last straw was his grim discovery that he had cancer. Doctors gave him little chance of surviving the cancer, but following two major operations he made a slow recovery.

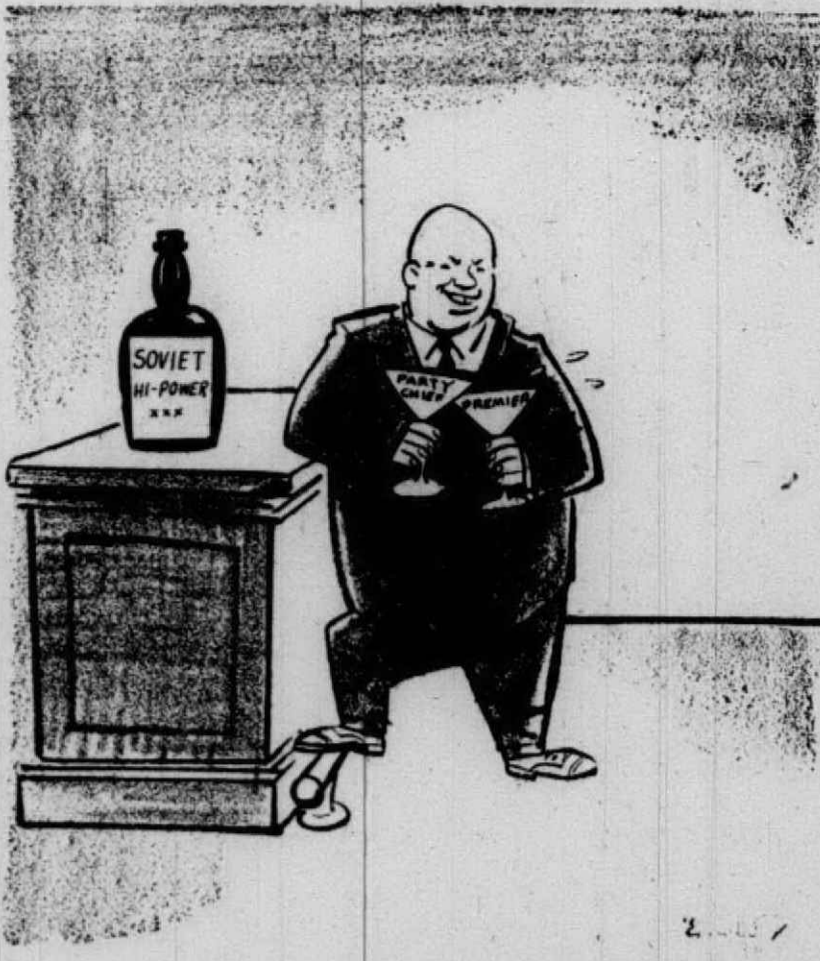

As a pioneer in the radio cookery field he attracted an immediate following. Soon he was on network radio and his program became required listening for millions of housewives throughout the country all through the 30's and 40's. At one time he had 63 sponsors. Sales of his cook book zoomed.

His income zoomed too, and for years he never made less than $100,000 a year. As he rode the crest of high fortune he found his greatest pleasures in heaping luxuries on his wife who had stuck by him so loyally in their lean years. He bought her a townhouse, a country estate, a yacht, an $80,000 chinchilla coat, and dozens of diamonds including a fabulous 28 carat gem mounted in a platinum necklace.

When he was able to work again he found a job with a midtown advertising agency. But he had been there only four months when the boss called him in and bluntly informed him, "You're a little too old for us."

"It was a crushing blow," recalls Mr. MacPherson. "I was 53 years old and deeply in debt. It was 1931 and the depression was on. I felt that I was a very poor provider for my loyal wife. I sat down to assess my skills and the thought struck me that perhaps I could do

BUT GOOD THINGS HAVE a way of coming to an end. In 1949 when he

If Your Name Is EMMA

By ANN REYNOLDS

"Perhaps you have some information on my name, 'Emma', and perhaps some history on it will give it more meaning," writes a reader named 'Emma', who does not care too much about this appellation of hers.

"Emma", and its endearing form "Emmy" are variations of "Irma", and both contain a word that meant in Old Germanic "whole", "universal", "exalted." It was also the surname of an ancient pagan Germanic deity, and a shrine for that god could still be seen in the 8th century in Westphalia, Germany; it went by the name "Irmisul", and was destroyed by Charlemagne.

The Carolingian royal house of which Charlemagne was the most renowned ruler were the first to use "Emma" for their daughters. Charlemagne himself had a daughter "Emma." She must have been a robust girl. When once her lover Einhard came to see her in her chambers, snow began to fall, and Emma was afraid that when he left, his footprints in the snow would give away that they had met secretly. So Emma carried her lover, the famous chronicler Einhard, on her back across the yard to his own quarters, hopeful that nobody would see them. But Emma's august father always knew what went on in his family. An early riser, he caught sight of his daughter with her burden, and was so touched by her and Einhard's love that he allowed them to get married.

The Emma who brought the name to England in the 11th century from her native Normandy had to undergo an even greater ordeal. After an adventurous life twice married Emma was accused of having an illicit love affair with a bishop.

THE WINNER AGAIN: BENSON. There's no doubt about it now... Ezra Taft Benson will stay on as secretary of agriculture as long as Dwight Eisenhower stays on as President.

Russian successes in outer space. Overlooked by many — not, however, by the United States Navy — is the threat Soviet Russia poses with its massive buildup of submarines.

young senator from the Bay State. One of labor's potshots: Kennedy is showing too much profile and not enough courage. This is a take-off on Kennedy's award-winning book, "Profiles in Courage."

When Mr. Eisenhower vetoed the price support "freeze" bill he was telling the world in silent but eloquent language that Benson still rates tops at the White House.

It is no secret that our subs are making many contacts with Russian subs off the East Coast. Navy planners believe they are mapping our coastline and probing our anti-submarine defenses.

THE SILENT SENTRY. Too little credit is given to one Federal agency which saves countless American lives every year — the Food and Drug Administration. Next time you take a bite of food or a teaspoon of medicine remember that the F & D people checked it to make sure it would not make your health or threaten your life.

This was the acid test, coming as it did on the heels of a plea by 14 Republican senators that the President sign the Democratic-sponsored farm bill to save Republican Congressional seats in the Fall elections.

This spring we will show the Russians we mean business when the Navy conducts "Operation Slamex" in the Atlantic — the biggest anti-submarine war game in history.

In February alone F&D seized and destroyed 537 tons of unfit foods. One food processing plant, warned of unsanitary conditions by F&D, spent $4,000,000 to correct these inadequacies. A bakery laid out $180,000 for structural improvements and new equipment to make its products more sanitary. And one pharmaceutical manufacturer spent

"Oh, he (Benson) is the hero of the city consumers, I guess," said one embittered GOP farm critic. "And I suppose that's the way to elect a national ticket. But it isn't the way to elect a Republican Congress. You need a few farm votes to do that."

INSIDE STORY. Organized labor is publicly criticizing Sen. John Kennedy, Dem.-Mass., for not taking a stronger pro-labor stand during Senate labor-management rackeets hearings.

People in the know say this is a cover-up to make Kennedy more acceptable to voters who don't like labor. As far as labor leaders are concerned they know they can depend on the ambitious

One GOP senator predicts privately that White House support of Benson may cost his party 10 or 11 Senate seats.

$35,000 on improvements after F&D criticized him for not having proper safety controls in processing injectable drugs.

- It's a good idea to keep that number IN FRONT OF YOU as you dial. It helps to jot it down.

NEW DIRECTORIES—being distributed in Plymouth this week—list all new Plymouth telephone numbers, effective Sunday. For your handy reference, the inside front cover of the new directory shows how to call out-of-town places. However, you'll continue using your old directory to look up numbers in other communities in your local calling area.

Many of you will dial your own calls across Michigan and across the nation

Plymouth's one-party and two-party line customers will enjoy the newest type of out-of-town service . . . Direct Distance Dialing . . . starting Sunday.

You'll find it easier and faster to "keep in touch" with many business associates, relatives and friends in other parts of Michigan and in other states.

New Direct Distance Dialing booklets tell WHERE and HOW you can dial many out-of-town calls yourself.

Tips for Teens

By ELINOR WILLIAMS

Q—"Dear Miss Williams: I am a 15-year-old girl and five-feet, 11 inches tall. Most of the boys at school are shorter than that and are nice to me, but they don't ask me for dates. I don't know what to do about it. What type of clothes should a tall girl wear?"

Ans.—Wear two-piece outfits with flared skirts (avoid straight, narrow skirts), including sweaters, blouses, jackets and skirts. Suits, two-piece dresses, especially the new over-bust type or with a boxy unfitted jacket. Avoid narrow lines such as chemise and sheath dresses. There are lots of smart shoes with "little" heels that are shaped like high heels but don't add height to your figure. Scale your accessories to your height—large handbags, jewelry, etc. Avoid small, dainty ones because they'll make you appear larger. Try to get acquainted with tall boys by inviting them to dances, parties, and to your homes, etc. when possible.

Q—"Dear Miss Williams: My hands perspire during dates, especially dancing. What causes it and what can I do about it?"

Ans.—When hands are often moist, it's called "nervous perspiration." Apply a liquid antiperspirant to the palms of your hands and let it dry thoroughly before your dates. Even anti-perspirants do not always stop this kind of perspiration, but it might check the moisture somewhat. Probably the best remedy for "nervous perspiration," though, is to try to relax and feel at ease without tension, worry, nervousness or self-consciousness.

Atlantic to Pacific and back, across the towering Andes, in 41 hours

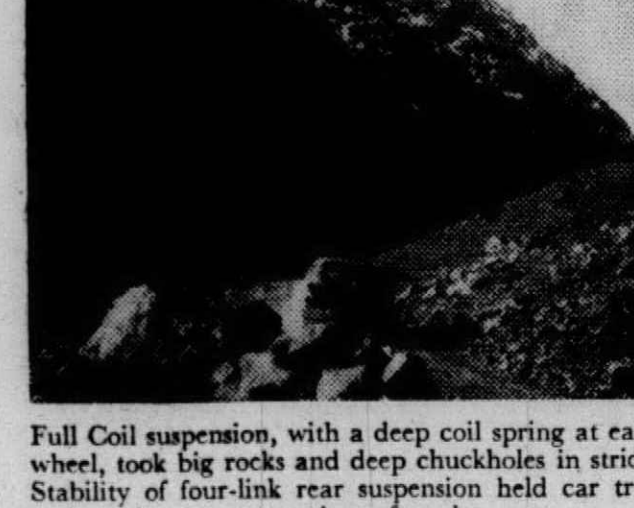

CHEVY TAMES THE TOUGHEST TRANSCONTINENTAL HIGHWAY!

Turbo-Thrust's velvet competence in fantastic foothills of Andes. Jolt-free powerflow of triple-turbine transmission was particularly important in keeping traction on hundreds of gravel turns.

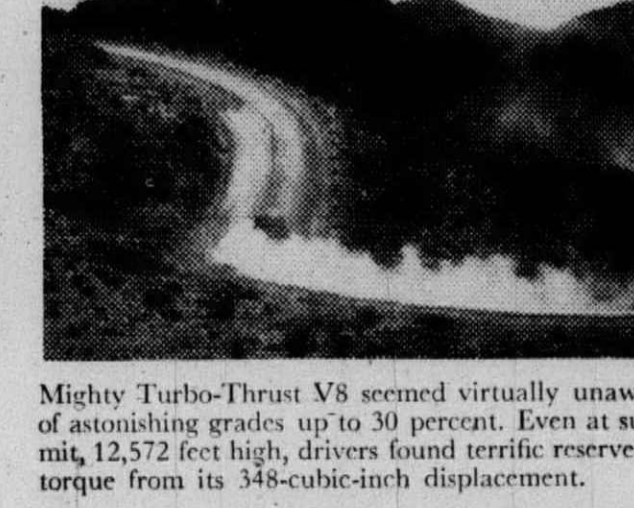

Precision of Chevy's famous Ball-Race steering was a lifesaver on cliff-edge curves; its silk-smooth ease sharply reduced driver fatigue. Vital safety factor was full panoramic visibility of windshield.

Full Coil suspension, with a deep coil spring at each wheel, took big rocks and deep chukholes in stride. Stability of four-link rear suspension held car true and steady on worst sections of road.

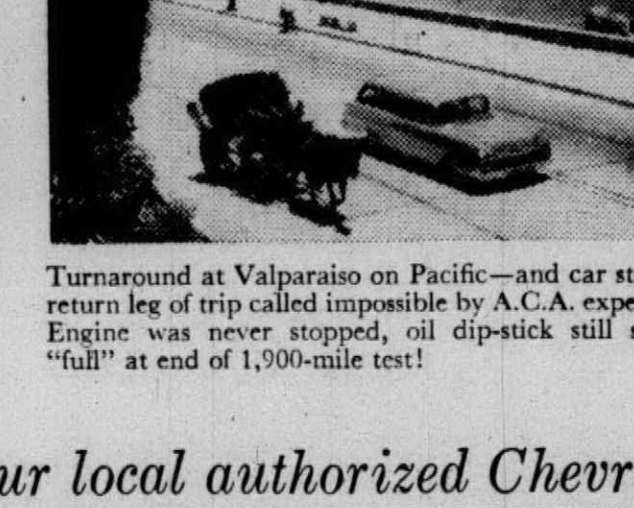

58 Chevrolet station wagon with 250-h.p. Turbo-Thrust* engine swings down to the dock at Buenos Aires, Argentina, ready for record-setting run across South America to Valparaiso, Chile, and back.

Mighty Turbo-Thrust V8 seemed virtually unaware of astonishing grades up to 30 percent. Even at summit, 12,572 feet high, drivers found terrific reserves of torque from its 348-cubic-inch displacement.

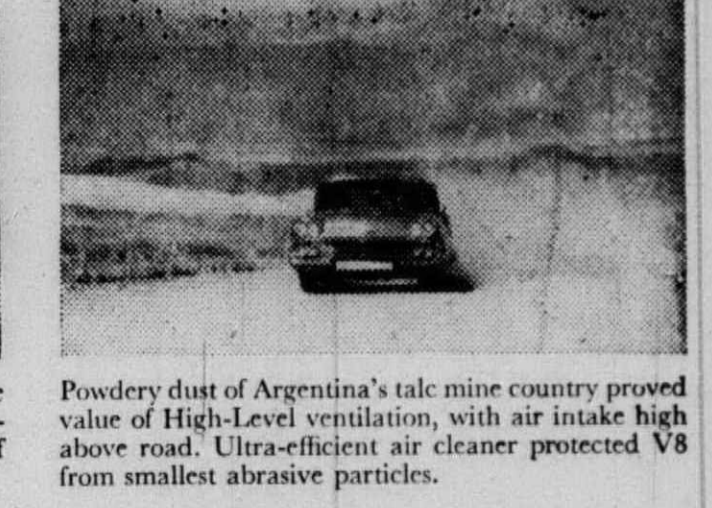

Racking hairpin turns on Chilean slope of Andes tested superior torsional strength of Chevy's new Safety-Girder frame, demonstrated the better road-holding permitted by its lower center of gravity.

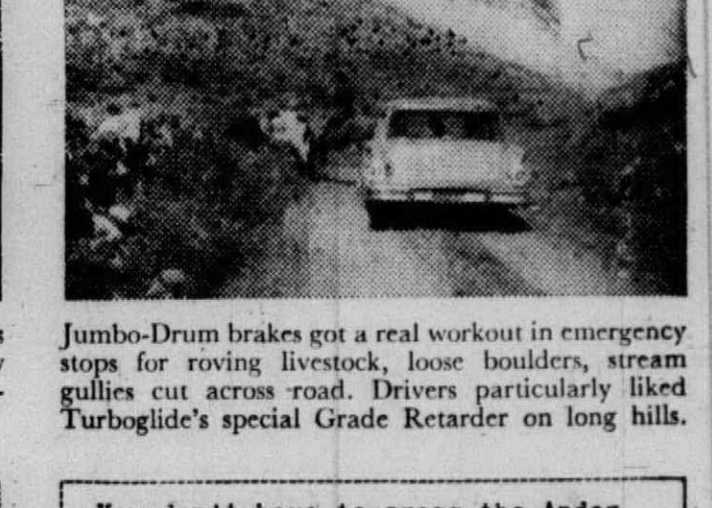

Turnaround at Valparaiso on Pacific—and car starts return leg of trip called impossible by A.C.A. experts! Engine was never stopped, oil dip-stick still said "full" at end of 1,900-mile test!

Heading for the freezing Andes, with hood sealed shut by officials of Automobile Club of Argentina, Chevy arrows across Mendoza desert in 98-degree heat. Not one drop of oil or water was added during run.

Powdery dust of Argentina's talc mine country proved value of High-Level ventilation, with air intake high above road. Ultra-efficient air cleaner protected V8 from smallest abrasive particles.

Jumbo-Drum brakes got a real workout in emergency stops for roving livestock, loose boulders, stream gullies cut across road. Drivers particularly liked Turboglide's special Grade Retarder on long hills.

You don't have to cross the Andes to discover Chevy's remarkable ease of handling, riding smoothness and performance. Just see your Chevrolet dealer for a test run.

You'll get the best buy on the best seller!
