THIS WAS the scene last year at the Plymouth Colony Farms concerts. The outdoor symphony program is located between Joy and Ann Arbor Roads, about five miles west of the city. Visitors can either sit on folding chairs that are provided or can spread blankets on the ground.

Family Outings Invited

Outdoor Symphony Begins Sunday

Some people enjoy the beach, others go for the wooded picnic grounds — but many families this Sunday will head for a particular grassy slope in Plymouth Township overlooking a lake where the Plymouth Symphony will open its second outdoor concert series.

Families are being invited to bring their picnic suppers to the Plymouth Colony Farm starting at 4:30 p.m. for an outing before the concert starts at 6 o'clock.

As the day of the concert gets nearer, box order ticket sales are getting so brisk that the committee finds it will be unable to return the tickets by mail in time for the first concert. So the public is being asked to purchase their concert or season tickets at the ticket booth on the concert grounds this Sunday.

Tickets also still can be purchased at Melody House, Cassidy's, Smith Music and the Penn Theatre.

NEWS BEAT

Better Stick to Own Knitting

PLYMOUTH WAS recently flooded by cards telling of a "get rich quick" scheme by knitting or re-weaving at home. The Chamber of Commerce says that several women have taken up the offers here. After the firm sells you the machine, they then sell you the wool with promise to sell your work. But here's the catch: no matter what the quality of work, they usually reject the article because it is "not up to standards." No one's getting rich except the promoter.

POLICE BEAT: Around $300 in damage was chalked up to air rifles by the police department over the weekend at Eckles Coal and Supply Co. on Holbrook. Someone shot out all the windows, headlights, taillights, turn signal lights and rear-view mirrors on two oil tank trucks, along with 12 windows in a building, four outside flood lights and flood-light control box. . . . A 24-year-old Lansing man, Guy Johnson, was taken from a passenger train here Saturday evening when he became drunk and abusive. He was fined $25 by Judge Perlongo. . . . A young Plymouth motor scooter operator was fined $25 for somehow riding four on his vehicle.

POSTAL NOTES: With vacation time here, postal officials and rural carriers are again concerned about children who run out to meet the mail truck or car. Patrons are urged to keep their youngsters away from the mail box until the vehicle leaves. There have been numerous such accidents elsewhere, close ones here. . . . Someone some Plymouth people read that the post office will hold mail while patrons are on vacation. Not so here. Postmaster George Timpona states. It is up to each postmaster to decide this and Plymouth post office just hasn't got the room.

KEEP YOUR PLATES: When the new auto license laws went into effect last fall, auto owners getting rid of their vehicles were to turn in their plates to the license bureau. But Bureau Manager Mrs. Doris Root says the law has now been changed, that those disposing of vehicles without buying another should keep the plates.

LONG PLAYING: Plymouth Symphony trumpeter Bill Beitner (jewelry store owner) has established some sort of record. With there being around 23 rehearsals of the Symphony a year, he hasn't missed one in six years. The entire symphony has a 90 percent attendance record, considered remarkable for a non-professional group.

can be reached only from Joy Road where a large parking area is provided. There is then a walk through a wooded path to the concert site in front of a willow-surrounded lake.

Music this year will be amplified for better hearing. Orchestra numbers also will be "fuller" to improve listening.

Soloist for the concert will be Miss Emily Mutter Adams, violinist. At the age of four she began study with her father and at six attended the School of Music at Ann Arbor. She has studied under Michael Press and Ilya Schkalnik. She is concert master for the Detroit Women's Symphony and Plymouth Symphony and plays first violin with the Detroit Symphony. She was on the music staff of WXYZ for two years.

The program will open with Overture and Ballet Music from "Rosamunde" by Schubert. Written originally for a play the music in recent years has become a favorite of concert audiences both here and abroad.

Symphonic Espagnole for Violin and Orchestra by Lalo will feature Miss Adams. First performed in 1875, this composition is in five movements, although the third is usually omitted in performance. The number has been

Merchants Open Prize Event for Youngsters

A search for enough homes to give 50 sailors a July 4th supper is still being conducted by the Chamber of Commerce this week as final plans were being made for the celebration.

There will be 50 sailors from Grosse Ile Naval Training Base instead of 70 as originally expected. The Navy Mothers have volunteered to feed the young servicemen at noon after the parade, but house-holders are being asked to "adopt" one or more of the visitors for the evening meal.

The sailors will be picked up by residents at 4:30 p.m. in front of the high school and returned at 6:30. Those wanting to be host to a sailor should phone the Chamber office.

A large list of prizes are being given this year to youngsters by Plymouth retail merchants. Children 19 years and younger must come into the participating stores to register for the prizes (children under 12 must be with a parent). There is nothing to buy.

The drawing will take place at 4:15 p.m. at the athletic field and prizes will be awarded that evening.

Prizes include: $90 Evans Interceptor bike, $72 Evans Matador Bike, $60 portable phonograph, $50 convertible bike, $40 portable phonograph, two $25 rods and reels, two $16.50 ball bat and glove, two $12 artist sets, two $11 Kodak cameras and ten $5 gift certificates redeemable at any Plymouth store.

Prizes for the Miss Plymouth contest winners were announced this week. Miss Plymouth of 1958 will get a choice of a three-day lake cruise to Buffalo aboard a

Aimed to Block Plans Of Builder to Annex

A new petition to incorporate part of Plymouth Township as the City of Plymouth Heights has been filed with the Wayne County Board of Supervisors in order to throw a roadblock in the path of a petition being circulated by a builder who wants his land annexed to the city of Plymouth.

Township Supervisor Roy R. Lindsay said that the Plymouth Heights incorporation petition is the township's answer to the petition being circulated by the Dearborn Development Co. which wants 20 acres of its property along the city's eastern border annexed.

Two weeks ago when it was learned that the development company was circulating the petition, the Supervisor declared that the township "will do everything it can" to prevent the annexation. Yesterday he said that the Heights petition carries out that promise.

As far as can be determined, the development company's petition has not yet been filed. The development firm is part of the Fred Garling organization which has built many homes and two subdivisions in Plymouth. The property has been owned for several years by Garling but development has been impossible because of the lack of water. Sewers can be connected to a nearby drain.

With the filing of a new Plymouth Heights petition, the annexation-incorporation story is getting more complicated. Another Heights petition still before the Board of Supervisors was filed a year ago. But after it was filed, the city annexed 22 acres of its own land in Riverside Park and Cemetery.

This annexation caused the legal description of the Heights petition to be incorrect. Since there was no precedent for such a situation, the prosecutor's office recommended to the Board of Supervisors that they let the parties involved take it to court. It never has.

The newest Heights petition is the same as the former one except that it excludes the city's 22 acres. It contains 281 names. Since the supervisors usually act on petitions "first come, first served," the long process of disposing or approving the Heights petition must come before the Garling petition is considered. Then too, there is the question of the precedent of the first Heights petition.

Lindsay, who himself is a member of the Ways and Means Committee of the Board of Supervisors which must pass judgment on the petitions, said that no action will probably be taken on any petitions until the board convenes next fall.

The supervisor said that the township had to stop the Garling petition because it would disrupt the township's entire sewer and water program. "Township people don't like to do this type of thing," he said, but it is a matter of protection. He added that if people on the fringe area can't wait until sewer and water are available, then the township must move in and protect its own boundaries.

He explained that the long and complicated process of drawing up a bond issue for sewers is still in the works and that annexation of a piece of property would set back the project. The supervisor added that if the bonding process continues on schedule, sewers for the eastern and southern sections of the town-

A FLOCK of sheep that had taken Oscar Alber of Salem Township nearly a lifetime to develop was virtually wiped out Monday morning when one or perhaps two dogs caused the death of 85 of the animals. Alber is shown with a third of the dead sheep.

Dog Massacres Sheep Flock of 85 in Salem

A sickening situation for one Salem Township farmer is serving as a warning for others this week as residents of the area seek a dog that caused the death of 85 sheep.

The massacre took place on the farm of Oscar Alber, 5440 Vorhies Rd., eight miles west of here. A dog — or perhaps two dogs — moved into the Alber pasture in the early Monday morning darkness and killed some 60 ewes and lambs. Another two dozen were so badly mauled that they had to be destroyed.

Alber arose Monday morning to hear a dog yelping in the pasture some half mile from the farm house. He knew immediately what it was for he lost 15 sheep in a similar manner many years ago.

In the middle of the pasture is a swamp so thickly covered with growth that it is almost impossible for man to enter. But many of the injured and frightened sheep ran into the swamp and died there. Other dead sheep were placed in a pile while wounded ones were taken to the barn and later destroyed.

Alber and his grandson spied a muddied, brown-looking dog running from the swamp as they approached. Several shots were taken but the dog ran through fields to the northwest. A hunt later proved fruitless.

Washtenaw County will allow Alber some compensation for his dead sheep. But to Alber, has efforts at sheep raising appear about over. He had spent most of his lifetime developing the flock of American Delaine sheep and had shown them at fairs. His total flock may have been wiped out had he not had some 16 bucks and some lambs in the barn.

Sheep killing by dogs is not uncommon, but 85 is almost unheard of. The dog could possibly be a farm pet. Residents in the area are keeping a look out for any stray dogs. Alber believes the dog he saw was a mongrel but with some appearances of a shepherd.

Homeowner Poll Revealed

Paving Projects Tabled Until July 7 Meeting

The question of whether South Main St. and Hough Park Subdivision streets will or will not be paved this year will linger a few more weeks, although city commissioners met Monday night to make final decision.

Only four of the seven commissioners appeared at the special meeting. Although this is a quorum, it takes at least five members to approve a project like street paving where a majority of property owners are in opposition.

Whether the commission will over-ride opinion where opposition is in the majority, is not known, but those commissioners present felt that the decisions should wait until the next regular meeting on July 7 when more commissioners should be present.

It was learned Monday that less than a majority of property owners along the South Main St. paving and widening project are against the idea. Petitioners oppos-

The South Main project runs from Burroughs to Ann Arbor Rd. It would widen the street to 44 feet and give it an entirely new base and surface, plus new sidewalks. Micol's son attended the meeting and pointed out that backfill from sewer taps made in the street have not yet compacted and that paving now would mean trouble later.

Commissioners decided to table the South Main Project along with five others in the Hough Park area.

Two weeks ago when public hearings were held on the projects, many of those in Hough Park who had previously petitioned for the paving later signed petitions opposing it, due mainly to the economic conditions.

This left commissioners so confused that they had City Manager Albert Glassford take a post card poll. Even this resulted in some confusing results, but it appears that residents along two of the streets do not favor it, those along three other streets are opposed.

Mayor Harold Guenther, for one, stated that he is opposed to paving just part of the streets in the subdivision. These were the poll results: Park Place from Evergreen to McKinley: 2 with 3 parcels of land favor paving now; 1 with 2 parcels favor paving in 1959; 3 with 5 parcels do not favor; 1 with 2 parcels favor if entire subdivision is paved.

Evergreen from Elm to Ann Arbor Trail: 5 with 10 parcels favor now; 3 with 4 parcels do not favor. McKinley from Elm to Ann Arbor Trail: 6 with 9 parcels favor now; 2 with 4 parcels

Film Brings Music of Evelyn Woods to TV

Friends of Evelyn Woods, concert pianist, were happily surprised to see her in a television program last week when pictures by Dennis Glenn Cooper of the S.S. South American cruising the Great Lakes were shown on Channel 4.

Miss Woods is well known in musical circles as the organizer of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, where she performed as soloist for many years.

As Mrs. Carl Groschke in private life, Evelyn makes her home in Scottsdale, Ariz. When she arrived in Detroit recently she telephoned 'hello' to Harold and Grace Von Bergen of Redford Township before leaving for Holland, Mich. where the steamship spends the winter months.

Cooper narrated the script of the film showing Miss Woods at the grand piano in one of her daily classic concerts on ship board. He remarked that she could make the piano talk and that her talents were worthy of Carnegie Hall. Miss Woods also heads an orchestra on board ship when shows are presented for the cruise members.

Mrs. Lloyd Johnson has returned to her home in Minneapolis after attending the wedding of her brother, Anthony L. Worth in Plymouth on June 15.

Summer Activities Begin For Lake Pointe Villagers

By Mrs. Arthur Cooksey
GL. 3-2871

We congratulate all those youngsters that have successfully completed another rung on the educational ladder and all those who have graduated into a new period in their lives. Many children in Lake Pointe will be pursuing directed activities in the summer program, others will be enjoying Scout Day camps. Summer means release from the daily routine of school but it can also be the time for children to tackle other interests; perhaps those that there was no time for during the regular school year.

Mike Ellison, Pat and Terry Cosgrove, and several Bowman children will be taking swimming lessons. It will mean car-pooling every day for their mothers, but they seem to think they will be able to surmount the problem.

Dale Ann and Diann Evans will be enjoying the local Scout Day Camp program held for the first full week of the vacation at the Scout camp in Hines Park. Since Dale Ann just became a Scout she is very anxious to learn more about her new work. (By the way, we think that Scout camp site is a marvelous exhibition of community spirit. It was built by the members of the families of the Scouts and by workers from many different crafts and trades in the Plymouth area. All for free!)

One cannot walk ten feet in Lake Pointe without seeing something new a-building

The Jack Ryders are having a garage erected on their lot, as are the Dudley Mahers. It was a rickety day out here last Tuesday with two little Rube Goldberg-type cement mixers going at the same time. Both families mentioned above own tri-level homes and found, as soon as outdoor play equipment and gardening tools entered their lives, that they HAD to have a convenient place in which to store them.

We noticed too that Mr. and Mrs. Goodale, who own and operate Goodale's Delicatessen on Starkweather, had a shiny fence put up. Their yard is a marvel of blooming things. It's a wonder how people that work almost around the clock can still find time to have so many lovely flowers and shrubs growing.

On sunny days we have what has become a do-it-yourself figure improvement school. Marge Haeske, who started the movement to ride a bike around the subdivision, Colleen Moss and Helen McQuaig can be seen pedaling around at a leisurely pace. They invite anyone else with a bike to join them.

It's a wonder that Marge can find time to bicycle when she has so many hobbies and interests in her own home. She and Art have furnished their home with Early American furniture and to complement the furniture, Marge has been weaving her own hooked rugs. We learned they are lovely.

Art spends every free minute he can find building his own attached garage. He and Marge are almost ready now to put the cupola on top of the structure and to top it with a rooster. They hope to harmonize the inside and outside of their home with the Early American style.

Around the corner on Oxford a home is being built almost to order. A man from Grand Rapids, who works for Michigan Bell, will be moving to Plymouth as soon as the builder can complete his house. It is a trial model that will have four bedrooms and yet be a tri-level. The newcomer will no doubt use those four bedrooms; he has nine children.

Last Friday night June Geist was the hostess at a Stanley party. Her guests came from all over the Detroit and suburban area. She has no doubt found by this time that no matter how big your house is, when you have a party it could stand to be bigger.

Sad news, too. The bank at the rear of the Moss home didn't hold during the flash-flood-type storm we experienced last week. They were simply heart-broken. Don't know whether they've given up or not. At least their dog still loves them.

It seems that many folks out here are troubled with mushrooms growing on their lawns, and it seems to happen to those people that have sodded their yards, rather than to those that have planted seed. Is there any remedy that readers know of? Pulling them out or cutting them off doesn't seem to have any effect on their growth.

Speaking of lawns reminds us that we saw a very unusually little evergreen in the yard of Ethel and Albert White. It is a "Mugo pine." It's a long-necked evergreen that is shaped like a squat Christmas tree. But each individual limb looks like the Scouharo cactus, in that the limbs grow upward and outward from the main trunk. Curving upward to the sun. According to Ethel, she estimated that her trees had each grown about four inches since they were planted in early spring.

Gerald and Janice Elston took time out from their home activities and school work to attend an alumni meeting at their Alma Mater, Anderson College in Anderson, Ind. Janice was very excited about the trip partly because she wanted to re-visit the new library on the campus. It is the library that Charles E. Wilson, former U.S. Secretary of Defense and currently with GM, donated to his college. It is an unusually beautiful building, according to Janice.

Mrs. Perry's grandson visited her a week ago Wednesday from Lake Orion. He stopped off in Plymouth to have a farewell lunch with his grandmother, Jimmy Nelson was on his way to his summer work as a camp counselor. Mrs. Perry was very happy to be honored even for a brief visit.

We hope that before families in Lake Pointe, and everywhere else for that matter, make their summer plans, they include the four outdoor concerts of the Plymouth Symphony on their calendars. The setting at Plymouth Colony alone is worth the very inexpensive price of the season ticket. Besides hearing delightful music they can really stretch out on either the slope of the hill or on their own lawn chairs, if they choose to bring them. And it is one of those places where children not only can but DO have more freedom than would have at the regular indoor concerts. The music being presented is familiar to everyone and a treat to enjoy when summer heat and work is getting everyone down. It might also be mentioned that the entire area is sprayed with a bug repellent before each concert and we found that Plymouth Colony was just about the only place that wasn't a swarm of insects in mid-summer.

Hope all the folks in and around Lake Pointe keep me in mind when they return from their trips or have news. Instead of printing all the news that's fit, as Bud Guest put it last week on his early morning radio show, I print "all the news that will fit."

Mr. and Mrs. Hylan C. Moore

Sally Ann Black Dons Lace, Taffeta Gown for Nuptials

Sally Ann Black, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doane Black of West Ann Arbor Rd. became the bride of Hylan Charles Moore Saturday, June 21 at the First Unitarian Church in Ann Arbor.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moore of Garden City.

Dr. Edward H. Redman performed the 7:30 o'clock ceremony. The church was decorated with white gladioli and majestic daisies and candelabra with white lighted tapers. Traditional wedding marches and the bride's favorite selections from Bach were played.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown fashioned with a basque bodice of chantilly lace with a sabrina neckline and long sleeves and a sweeping skirt of silk taffeta with an insert of lace.

Her double-tier veil of silk illusion was hand applied with chantilly lace and secured by a lace cap incrustated with pearls. The bridal bouquet combined white carnations and stephanotis in a cascade arrangement, centered with a white orchid.

The social hall of the church was the scene of the reception for 175 guests from Plymouth, Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, Allen Park, Royal Oak, Wayne, Detroit, Livonia, Dearborn, Farmington, Northville, Pontiac, Huntington Woods, Bloomfield Hills, Garden City and Lake Orion. Guests also attended from Sandusky, Port Sanilac, Stockbridge, Ingersoll, Ont., London, Ont., Kansas City, Mo., Fort Pierce, Fla and Yackima, Washington.

Hostesses at the reception were Carol Dible of Dearborn, Sally Bollinger of Bloomfield Hills, Teri Madalinski of Dearborn and Sandra Ann Squires of Port Sanilac.

The bride donned a blue and green dress with black accessories for a trip to Gratiot Inn. The couple will live in Ypsilanti temporarily.

The bride was graduated from Plymouth High School in 1955 and is presently a senior at Eastern Michigan College where she is a member of Stic Society, Kappa Delta Pi and Lambda Tau Iota. The bridegroom is a graduate of Fordson High School, attended University of Michigan, and is a graduate of Eastern Michigan College. He is now a student at Kansas City School of Osteopathy and Surgery in Kansas City, Mo., where he is affiliated with Sigma Phi Epsilon and Atlas fraternities.

Mrs. Black chose a blue chiffon dress and a hat of blue roses for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Moore wore a pink lace dress with a hat of matching chiffon. Both wore white carnation corsages.

European Honeymoon Follows Freiheit-Lostuzzi Ceremony

Florence Esther Freiheit and Salvino Lostuzzi have traveled to Europe for a two-month honeymoon in Italy, neighboring countries and the Brussels World's Fair after their marriage on June 21 at St. Mary Cathedral in Lansing.

The bride lived at 367 S. Harvey St., Plymouth and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Freiheit of Charlotte. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Guido Lostuzzi of Genoa, Italy.

Rev. Gerald Boyer officiated at the double ring ceremony at 10:30 a.m. Two basket arrangements of white gladioli and chrysanthemums decorated the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length ivory peau de soie gown, fashioned with a sabrina neckline trimmed in alencón lace applique, a fitted bodice, a redingote overskirt and long sleeves. A matching alencón lace Juliet cap held her tulle fingertip veil. She carried a cascade arrangement of white roses.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Charles Cooper of Erie, Mich. donned an aqua ballerina-length dress of silk crystal over taffeta. A head-dress of miniature pink roses, and aqua veil and a cascade arrangement of miniature pink roses completed her costume. She is the sister of the bride.

Edward Apostol of Lansing served as best man. Ushers were Fred Freiheit, Jr. of East Lansing, a brother of the bride; Seth Marshall of East Lansing, and Stanley Robertson of East Lansing. Immediately following the ceremony a reception and buffet luncheon was held in the Porter Hotel dining room in Lansing. The MAIL Attitude

By PAUL CHANDLER

All storm water in this area ultimately finds its way to the Rouge River.

And the Rouge is too small for the load it must carry under flood conditions. As building of new dwellings continues throughout the more distant reaches of Wayne County, the inadequacy of the Rouge will become worse.

So, at the same time that many communities are struggling to put pipes into the ground to carry away storm and sanitary sewage, they are doing it with the guilty knowledge that even if they can build the sewers, the problem really won't be licked until something drastic is done to the Rouge.

I state these obvious things as background to some late-hour information which has reached this desk from Richard E. Manning, Supervisor of Redford Township.

His community is possibly as "flood conscious" as any in the whole of Wayne County and in recent days Supervisor Manning has been doing some fact-gathering which is the most comprehensive of any I've encountered in the broad Western Wayne County area—all of which is intimately involved in the final solution.

Manning has two pieces of news. They're related:

1. There's now a law on the books which would permit communities within the basin drained by the Rouge to join together by petition and ask the State to direct a deepening project on the river.
2. The proposed cost to each of the several communities involved has been computed on a percentage basis, and the figures show that if such a project were to come, the following would pay as noted:

City of Plymouth — .62 percent of the total cost
Plymouth Township — 2.40 percent
Redford Township — 3.75 percent
Livonia — 7.29 percent
Canton Township — 5.94 percent
Nankin Township — 4.67 percent
Northville Township — 2.80 percent
City of Northville — .28 percent
City of Detroit — 18.33 percent
Salem Township — 2.18 percent
City of Dearborn — 6.41 percent
City of Farmington — .44 percent
Farmington Township — 6.14 percent

The foregoing figures are selected at random (on the basis of local interest) from the multitude of communities in three counties which would contribute. The formula is based on total acreage and total occupied acreage.

But they are enough, I believe, to show that any such program would not be greeted with wild enthusiasm everywhere.

For example, Redford Township is well "down stream" in the flood area and takes a heavy whipping at times of great rains. Citizens there regard the finding of relief as an emergency need.

But, by the assessment formula above, a place such as Canton Township, "up stream," sparsely settled and with perhaps only 15 percent as much tax valuation as Redford Township, would be required to bear almost a 60 percent larger share of the total cost than Redford.

And there is Dearborn, with the vastness of its tax riches, down on the rolls for a smaller slice than Livonia.

The total amount of money is not even estimated, and in any event it would hinge upon the amount of widening, deepening and cleaning the communities agreed upon.

But the percentage amount of "assessments" stated above give an idea of how each community would participate, if the new method should be employed.

Manning has made a full report of the long effort to improve drainage. He sent copies of it to all the civic associations in Redford Township, hoping to enlist their support for the new petition method, stating, "there has been drafted a petition which would authorize the Director of Agriculture of the State of Michigan and the Drainage Board for the Inter-County Drain Project, covering the Rouge Valley Project, to take action to begin the project and levying a special assessment against the communities at large which may be affected."

He previously explained that a bill calling for Federal expenditure of $101,500 on the old channel of the Rouge was vetoed this Spring by President Eisenhower.

He also appended a letter from County Drain Commissioner Henry V. Herrick which said: "I wish to express our view that no major undertaking on three branches of the Rouge River should be started at this time; and, that this major project should wait until such time as the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has concluded its study and made its report to Congress—with the hope that the Federal Government will allocate funds to help defray part of the cost of this Flood Control Program."

"It is our belief, however, that a widening, deepening, straightening and bridge enlargement on the lower stretches... would be advisable at this time."

The importance of all this is that another method is being used to try to relieve the peril which exists at the Rouge River.

Like all other methods, other than one involving an outright gift of money from Santa Claus, this one will pinch some and arouse opposition.

But the fact it is being tried is news today to all of us.

Burglars Take $207 From Dairy Store

Two Starkweather Ave. business establishments located side-by-side, Ray's Restaurant and Guernsey Farms Dairy, were burglarized sometime last Saturday night with over $200 taken from one.

The dairy store had $207 taken, police reported, after entrance was gained by breaking off the front door lock. At the restaurant the front door was also pried open but nothing was found taken.

The highest peak in British Columbia is Mount Fairweather, 15,287 feet.

RECEIVING COMMENDATIONS for their years of safe driving without a chargeable accident were, from left: Mrs. Doris Eaton, Mrs. Eythol Olson, Mrs. Lucille Mathias and Howard Grady. The three women have eight years and Grady has six years.

Four School Bus Drivers Honored for Safety Record

Four school bus drivers for the Plymouth Community School district were honored at a dinner held at the Hotel Mayflower Saturday night for their years of driving without a chargeable accident.

Receiving letters of commendation from the board of education and the superintendent of schools were Mrs. Doris Eaton, 7773 Canton Center; Mrs. Eythol Olson, 545 N. Harvey; Mrs. Lucille Mathias, 858 Blunk; and Howard Grady, 8841 Oakview.

The three women drivers were honored for eight years of driving without a chargeable accident while Grady was honored for six years.

The dinners are held annually at the end of the school year but this was the first time that recognition has been given drivers for their safe service. There are 46 regular school bus drivers and three substitutes, including Robert Houghton, director of transportation.

Each driver averages between 12,000 to 18,000 miles a year. During the just concluded school year, drivers went 161,312 miles. The mileage is getting higher every year as more school buses are added.

Five years ago there were 1,235 students transported by bus in the school district. This past year the figure was 2,100—half of the total student body. Problems involved in figuring out routes and making sure each child is picked up are inconceivable to the average person, according to Houghton. But he credits his drivers with maintaining outstanding driving ability and service to the students.

Houghton also believes that there are no better children anywhere for bus passengers.

Tuesday evening up to Smith School for son Bill's sixth grade graduation. Wednesday evening Bill attended the sixth grade farewell dance and Thursday evening was Janet's graduation from Plymouth High. We also had hubby's sisters visiting us Thursday evening, Mrs. Pearl Hadden of Flint and Mrs. Myrtle Weaver of Troy, Mich. Saturday friend husband and myself attended a birthday party of our Sunday School class at Covenant Community Church in Redford Township. By the time this gets to print we should have son Jerry home on leave from Fort Hood, Tex. Our oldest daughter has been quite ill with a virus infection in her blood. She hopes to be well enough to go to Wisconsin this weekend as a counselor for a Bible Camp. So that winds the column up for this week.

Apologies are in order to Mrs. Jean Braccina, 33935 Schoolcraft Rd., Livonia. Last week we published an announcement of the approaching marriage of her daughter, Nancy, to James Farmer of Plymouth. One line of type containing the name of the bride's mother was inadvertently lost, although it had been set. The wedding took place Saturday and we take this opportunity to correct our error.

Graduates Asked To Continue Education

An appeal to graduates to continue their education because of the new world of atomic energy will eventually be controlled by young people was made by Steven Nisbet, speaker at last Thursday's 77th annual commencement at Plymouth High School.

Diplomas were awarded 208 seniors before a standing-room-only crowd in the high school gymnasium. Presenting the diplomas was Mrs. Esther Hulsing, secretary of the board of education whose daughter was one of the graduates.

Nisbet, who is State Board of Education vice-president and public relations vice-president of Gerber & Co. pointed out the value of education in America's growth and progress. He noted that it is the basic institution of freedom and democracy, and in spite of recent criticism, it is still basic to our safety, development and future.

"Education is a local community's responsibility," Nisbet told the graduates. "Improvements lie not in some distant location, but in each community where local citizens, boards of education, school administrators and teachers must work together constructively on their school program to insure progress."

"Education in America," he continued, "is not in telling people what to think — that is indoctrination — but in teaching people how to think."

Using the theme of "Finding Your Way," the speaker told grads that healthy and constructive thinking and hard work can come only from people who are healthy in mind and body. He urged them to keep on with their education "for we are in a new world of atomic energy and our future will be controlled by how our young people learn how to use and handle this new force. As scientists say, the future will be governed by ideas and imagination of how to use this new power."

Nisbet stressed character development, because without it, education can be turned into a destructive force. He quoted Lord MacCauley's comment: "Tragedy happens when high intelligence is wedded to low ideals."

"The basic development of character demands that religion and the principles taught by Jesus Christ become an integral part of our lives," the speaker concluded.

Fred Nelson at the organ played the processional and recessional. Rev. John Walskay, pastor of Plymouth Assembly of God, delivered the invocation.

Town Crier: Europe, New England Florida, Lakes Beckon Vacationists

(Covering the area along Sheldon to Ann Arbor, Truitt, Harvey, and Sutherland, including Plymouth Colony, Hough Sub., Plymouth Hills, and Ridgewood.)

By GLORIA BOWLES 3-2340

Vacation time is here, as evidenced by the comings and goings of many Town Crier area residents, who taking advantage of the warm summer months and the free days, are planning special family activities.

Sightseeing in Florida and visiting friends in Nashville, Tenn. are on the itinerary of the tip planned for July by Mrs. Seymour L. Luvish and children Nancy, 9, Jim, 11, Don, 14, and Mrs. Luvish's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Heattie of Detroit. This trip—the first Florida jaunt for the family—will last three weeks.

Phil and Cherry Jacobus (he's the son of Mr. and Mrs. R.L. Jacobus of Elm) left for a three weeks' vacation in the New England states and Cape Cod. Ken Jacobus, who was elected next year's Treasurer of the Senior Class of PHS, has been spending this week at Boys State at Michigan State University in East Lansing, leaving last Thursday.

wood and Mrs. Richard Daniels of Adams. Also attending was Nancy's teacher Mrs. Willard Lickfeldt.

Mrs. Newton returned recently from a three day stay in Harper Hospital.

Mrs. H. W. Blomberg of John Aiden and Mrs. J. W. Kaiser of Blunk were co-hostesses at a tea held in Mrs. Blomberg's Plymouth Colony home on Tuesday afternoon, June 17 from 2 to 4 honoring bride-elect Dorothy Curtis, who will be married this Saturday, June 28. Thirty-five women from Plymouth, Lintonia, Farmington, and Ann Arbor were present.

The proud grandparents of a 6 pound, 10 ounce boy—William Dennis, born on June 17 at 10 p.m. at St. John's Hospital in Detroit—are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dagget of Ridgewood. The father and mother of the new born, their first, are Jay Dagget and his wife, the former Dorothy Witt of Detroit. Jay is a 1948 graduate of Plymouth High School and will attend his class reunion this week. (Probably he's handing out cigars!) He is presently employed at RCA. Father's Day was celebrated by the Ralph Mineharts and children Maureen, Lee, and Larry of Linden; this Parklane Subdivision family entertained her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy O. Fisher of Forest, by taking the Fishers to dinner on the special day. With school out, I plan to

Veterans of Foreign Wars

The Post is holding a chicken barbecue at their hall on Lilley road, Sunday, June 29 from noon on. This is open to the public and everyone is cordially invited.

Eileen Williams presented a flag last week to Boy Scout Troop 781 of Our Lady of Good Counsel church. Later in the summer our auxiliary will present a flag to the church at their request.

Patsy Warner, daughter of Roy and Marion Warner, has been chosen to go to camp for two weeks. Patsy will go to Camp Trotter and Edward Bartel and Jack Kopinski will go to Camp Woodbury. These camps are maintained by posts and auxiliaries in Michigan and in the Michigan Overseas Bulletin of April an editorial stated that the budget for this year is $27,339.33. The budget items include the necessary costs of operation and maintenance and very little more. While this program doesn't benefit veterans directly, it is one of the best training programs for their children.

Frances Zuick of California was a guest at the auxiliary meeting last week. She is visiting in Plymouth and we were happy to have her with us.

Janet McLain's birthday was celebrated this month.

Fuel Oil Dealers Declare 'War'

Fuel oil dealers of Western Wayne County have organized for battle to tell the public their product offers the best way to heat dwellings.

Their foe is gas heating. Their weapon will be carefully planned advertising aimed at educating readers, over an extended period of time, to the advantages of oil heat. In the latter category they will stress cost, safety, and luxury.

Allied with the Western Wayne County dealers in the fight is a national agency, Oilheating Market Reports, which has undertaken a comprehensive survey of the particular market area. The results of the research will be conveyed to suppliers for use in deciding where to strike with their educational program and how much money to spend upon it.

The open strategy conference was a ssembled by Robert Allison of Eckles Coal and Supply Co. of Plymouth.

A roomful of fuel oil experts met at the Hillside Inn last week to compare notes, start the survey, and listen to advice from Fred Burroughs of New York, director of Oilheating Market Reports.

Signs adorned the walls of the conference room: "They're Safe With Oil Heat," "Oil Heat is Best."

Burroughs reported briefly on the enemy. "Pipeline construction for gas is almost at a standstill everywhere," he said. "Everywhere there appears to be a wave of rate increases for gas. Our competitive position is improving every day."

His audience included representatives of both major suppliers and local dealers: Sun Oil, Socony Mobil, Sinclair, Gulf, Speedway, Standard, Austin Oil of Wayne, Theisen Clemens Co. of St. Joseph, Mich., Pyramid Oil, C.R. Ely and Sons, Livonia Oil Co., Eckles Coal and Supply, plus several heating companies.

They heard a report of the amount of money which had been contributed to the "war chest" to wage the public education campaign.

And they named a "general staff" to open operations consisting of Rodney Barwick of Socony, Tom Osteen of Sun Oil, Francis Smith of Shell, Charles R. Ely of Ely & Sons, Austin Bennett of Austin Oil, and Robert Feister of Feister Oil.

World War I Company to Pay Respects to Dead Commander

BY DAVE JOLLIFFE

Seventy-seven ex-soldiers will hold a reunion in Grand Rapids tomorrow to pay homage to a dead man. It will be their 40th anniversary.

In 1918, the 1st Co., Inf., 3rd Officers Training School, Camp (later Fort) Custer at Battle Creek, finished its 90-day course with 205 men. It was commanded by Captain Tom Thoits of Grand Rapids. He was killed in 1936 in an automobile accident and buried in Oak Hill Cemetery, Grand Rapids.

Captain Thoits' initials, "TT" which looked like the numerals "77." That's why the company calls itself old "77."

Hugh Gardner, 144 E. Pearl, is one of the former soldiers. He and 76 others will meet at a well-kept grave to honor a commanding officer whose leadership grew into an institution. Gardner, 22, was one of the youngest members of the company.

What did Thoits have that, 40 years later, still commands the respect of men from all walks of life? Gardner, now a dispatcher in the S. Mill Street office of the Ann Arbor Construction Company, explained, "He had the ability to lead. That, more than anything else, commanded our respect. Sometimes he was more of a father than a C.O. He'd stick up for any man he thought was right. He'd even gamble his own reputation for the men. Perhaps most important, he always treated everyone as an equal."

"The captain got the best out of every man. I remember once when he lined us up after a particularly sloppy drill and said, 'I've seen worse drills but I can't remember when.' Believe me, that was the last time he had to say that."

The company Thoits commanded was not composed of battle-scarred veterans who fought side by side in mortal combat. They were only a company of enlisted men going through Officers' Candidate School. That makes this anniversary story that much more remarkable.

All of the men were veteran soldiers. They had seen officers before — good and bad.

Gardner remembers one instance when he and a friend were stranded in a snow storm and forced to report 24 hours late from leave. It so happened that the Governor of Michigan, Albert E. Sleeper, was stranded by the same storm and took refuge in the same farm house. Perhaps this long-ago governor was once a military man — at any rate, he understood the consequences of being AWOL, and, in an effort to help his fellow man, he wrote a letter to Thoits explaining the circumstances and asking forgiveness for Gardner and his friend.

The two troopers, armed with the letter, marched into the captain's office prepared to receive official dispensation.

They never got a chance. Thoits had a mind of his own and kept the two ramrod stiff at attention. Any attempts to reach a pocket and display the letter would have been suicidal.

A firm believer in democracy, the captain gave them a choice between a summary court martial and company punishment. They accepted the punishment — 30 days confined to quarters — and left sadder but wiser men.

From those few minutes 40 years ago, Gardner recalls a pair of bright, brown eyes that "saw right through us."

Among the faithful who have journeyed to see Thoits' grave are: Stanley Brownell, professor at Cornell University; John Cronin, vice-president at General Motors; Simon DenUyl, president of Vohn Aluminum; and John Zeller, former Detroit Tiger baseball manager.

Oddly enough company "77" expect 77 members to attend the 1958 reunion. They will come from all over the world. In the past some have returned from Europe. This year six are coming from California; five from Florida — others from 20 or more states.

Thoits knew all the facts of the military. Gardner remembers several instances when the captain would take over for a technical speaker who was unsuccessfully explaining the intricacies of the .30 caliber machine gun, or military law, or any one of a dozen other subjects.

"He had the ability to reduce technical courses to their lowest common denominator and put them in language anyone could understand.

The First Company of the Third Officers Training School graduated in April of 1918 and Gardner never saw Thoits again until their first reunion in 1924. Thoits attended regularly until his death. Since then his wife and son have been at the reunions.

Gardner, 62, has attended three reunions since 1950. His wife Evelyn also attends.

Art Competition Being Staged At Summer Concerts

An art competition involving paintings of the Plymouth Colony Concert has been announced this week by the Three Cities Art Club (Plymouth, Northville, Livonia). Members of the club will also exhibit at the concerts.

All artists in the area are invited to enter the competition. Paintings must be the result of on-the-spot sketches or completed work done at the scene of one of the concerts at Plymouth Colony Farms, located west of Plymouth on Joy Rd., between Beck and Ridge Roads.

The winning painting (oil or watercolor) will be purchased and presented to the city of Plymouth. Dates of the concerts are Sundays, June 29, July 13, July 27 and August 10 at 6 p.m. All entries must be ready by August 8 and qualified judges will select and announce the winner August 10. All artists entering the competition must register with the Three Cities Art Club at one of the concerts.

The outdoor concerts, now in their second season, offer the artist a setting of rolling hills, lake and willow trees, with picturesque farm buildings, along with symphony music to enhance the atmosphere.

Further details can be learned by calling Mrs. Marjorie Becker, president of the club, at Northville 1463-M.

Paving Projects Tabled

favor it in 1959; 1 with 3 parcels do not favor.

Maple from Sheldon to South Harvey; 3 with 8 parcels favor now; 2 with 2 parcels favor 1959; 1 with 1 parcel favors curb and gutter only in 1959; 18 with 37 parcels do not favor.

On an adjoining street, Elm and Wing from Evergreen to South Harvey, the following results were tabulated: 3 with 8 parcels favor now; 15 with 24 parcels do not favor.

These were some of the comments from those approving the projects: "You should be able to get some low bids on this work now, so let's get a necessary job done." "The job would be least expensive this year. There never will be a time when the property owners of the city will feel it can afford this improvement." "Failure to do this job will be a serious blow to progress."

Remarks from those opposing paving included: "Street being used as a race track now." "Street in excellent condition. To pave with an ugly gray cement strip would be no improvement and an utter waste of taxpayers' money." "Can't afford it." "I like the rural appearance as it is." "I'm about to be unemployed so really can't afford it." "Lightly traveled (concerning Maple). Would favor closing street at Sheldon Rd." "The last special assessment for sewer, etc. on Herald St. makes our taxes too high now. Anything further is unfair, prohibitive and would be the last straw for us."

And they were all amazed at the mighty power of God... (St. Luke 9, 43.)

Almighty God's power to heal us, physically, mentally, spiritually, has to be experienced to be believed—and it is available to all who love and obey Him. Truly, God is "the Great Physician, Who has never lost a case." His prescription is Faith; He expects no payment other than our love.

Letters to The Editor

Editor:
A week ago I appeared before the Board of Education as the appointed representative of the Plymouth Education Association to give a summary of the teachers' views on the Board's recently adopted salary schedule. The Mail's story on this last week was basically correct but two statements were attributed to me which I did not make. I would like to correct any false impressions regarding the teachers' stand that may have come from these misquotations. I was quoted as saying, "Teachers are interested first in their own pay, and second in maintaining the quality of career teachers." I neither said nor implied this, nor would I or any teacher ever say this. Teachers are vitally concerned with "maintaining the quality of career teachers," and the statement as it appeared in the Mail is totally inaccurate. The Mail also said, "Both

Local Witnesses

Make Plans to Attend Convention

Jehovah's Witnesses from the Plymouth congregation today announced plans are underway to attend an international convention of Jehovah's Witnesses in New York city this summer.

Mr. C. C. Coonce, presiding minister of the local group, said the convention could well be the largest in the history of Jehovah's Witnesses. It is scheduled for July 27 through August 3 and will be held in Yankee Stadium and the Polo Grounds simultaneously.

The last international convention, attended by many local Witnesses, was held in 1953 in Yankee Stadium and reached a peak attendance of 165,000 including the overflow audiences. Watchtower officials, Mr. Coonce said, have arranged this year for the program to be held in both places, with most program features repeated at the Polo Grounds immediately following the first presentation in Yankee Stadium.

The Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, governing agency for Jehovah's Witnesses, has been making special travel arrangements for foreign delegates. Many missionaries who have served in other lands will also be brought to the United States for the Bible convention. Purpose of the gathering is to provide stimulus for the New World society of Jehovah's Witnesses in Christian association, Bible instruction and ministerial training.

Mr. Coonce stated that it is not yet known how many Witnesses from the area will attend, but he added, special travel arrangements are being made by plane, train and many will travel by automobile. He said further it may be necessary to make limited meeting arrangements or cancel local meetings altogether during convention time.

awards" in the 1958 contest for The Redford Township Observer, sister publication of The Mail, the NEA revealed. It was entered in the "Top News Story" Division.)

The Mail has won a host of honors in recent years and this is its highest achievement on a national level. Publishers everywhere covet the NEA prizes because they are the highest attainable for community newspapers.

Last January, The Mail was decorated for "general excellence" by the Michigan Press Association, which conducts state-wide competition. The exact placing (whether it will be first, second or third) won't be revealed until the annual convention banquet on July 9. The NEA wrote: "We can't tell you any more at this time, but we do hope that you will make definite plans to be present to accept your plaque at the Annual Awards Banquet."

"The selection of your newspaper for this high award is indeed an honor, since the judges this year were confronted with the greatest number of entries ever received in an NEA competition — a total of 2,043.

Prayer of the Bullfighter." Published in 1926 for stringed quartet, the work lends itself well to the more varied orchestra.

Concluding the program will be "Polovetsian Dances" from the opera, Prince Igor by Alexander Borodin. This famous Russian composer used the opera for folk songs and dances and to present subjects drawn from Russian legend and history. The dances vary in style and content, but through all of them runs the exotic oriental atmosphere and the vigorous, intoxicating rhythms typical of native Russian music.

The incorporation includes only that part of the township east of McClumpha Road, or a little over eight square miles. Making the rest of the township a city through petition is impossible because law requires a certain density of population per square mile.

Woman's Eye View

by Nancy Rigney

After reading the local columns this week, it's hard to believe that anyone will be left in Plymouth after the vacation season gets into full swing. So many fabulous vacation plans in the offing.

While the rest of the city pours over road maps and travel folders, the James Barbers of Ridgewood can reminisce over 29 rolls of film. They just returned from a three-week tour of Europe.

Columnists must take a breather every now and then, too. Mrs. Arthur Cooksey of Shadywood Ct., the Lake Pointe Village correspondent, is off tomorrow on a two-week jaunt.

A new face among the columnists is Grace Wigley of 740 Parkview Dr. who will take on reporting chores for the Parkview Circle area. She is replacing Mrs. Robert Fitzner who is kept busy with her duties as secretary at the Methodist church.

Canton Township will have a column for the first time, with Mrs. Esther Sprengle of Beck Rd. handling the news.

Mrs. Rhea Ross of Harding, who covers the Maplecroft-Birch district, is carrying on with her column as usual, despite the changeable weather, which has singled her out as a cold victim. The 'sinus season' is taking its toll... even though summer has officially begun.

Thumbing through the Women's Wear Daily, a trade publication, the fashion impression is definitely chemise or close to it. Summer styles include lots of loose-silhouetted cousins of the chemise, with many forms of blousing, the two piece or over-blosure dress, the tube with a knee flounce, the long tubetorso with pleated or flared skirt and the trapeze.

The major offense against the chemise is to wear it too long or too big says a women's dress manufacturer in said magazine. Improper size and length destroy the chemise's "young effect," he reports.

To complement the simple lines of the chemise, headache bands and beads are the thing. Crystal jewelry is back, in both clear and vivid colors. A note on this is supplied by Yves St. Laurent, Dior's successor in Paris, who believes that the long, 1925-style beads are out. He shows 10 to 15 rows of short beads crowding the neckline of the latest costumes. The newest headache bands are fringed to match fringed stoles.

The chemise has raised hemlines and caused the comeback of the jeweled garter (say the powers that be in jewelry circles.) A New York store is featuring the jeweled leg bands for wear just above the kneecap. Prices range anywhere from $125 for a garter with an amethyst buckle, to $12,000 for one with a glittering diamond flower set in a black rosette on a red velvet band.

I just returned from a few days in Chicago, which included several afternoons restraining myself in the downtown shops. They're showing nothing but the chemise and variations, bead necklaces and bibs, needle-pointed and T-strap shoes and head-hugging flapper hats. (No jeweled garters.)

Grange Cleanings

Our last meeting of the summer season was well attended, with a friendly group of 74 members present. Two new members were obligated into the order, followed by several matters of business importance.

On July 10 we will have our first Grange picnic at the usual place by the viaduct. Pot-luck supper will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The men of our Grange are to be congratulated on a job well done — the painting of the hall is finished and looks splendid. The "bee" on Saturday, June 21 finished it up. The women furnished a fine lunch at noon and the work was accomplished in record time.

Mr. and Mrs. Squires had the pleasure of a trip last week by invitation of their nephew. They went up to Tiquamenon Falls and of course crossed the new bridge and saw many sights in their four-day holiday.

On August 9 the Grange is invited — as usual — to be the guests of the Willoughby Wisely's at their Strawberry Lake farm for the annual corn roast. That is a pleasure that we all look forward to.

The ice cream strawberry social last Friday evening was held in the Grange hall instead of the park as was planned, so there was not as large a crowd as there might have been in the park. Nevertheless a good crowd enjoyed the sociability of the evening. (The weather was too damp and cold for the park.)

About 35 members attended the Tri-County picnic Sunday at Milan; a beautiful day, a good dinner and a nice crowd was reported as well as a fine program.

If you want Grange Cleanings during the summer, you will have to telephone me at GL 3-1918 and I will do my part to set them in print.

Jacquelyn Bailey Becomes Bride of Lt. Harvey R. Jahn

Jacquelyn Lou Bailey became the bride of Lieutenant Harvey R. Jahn, Jr. at 8 o'clock June 21 at the First Presbyterian church of Plymouth. Rev. Henry J. Walsh officiated the double ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Bailey, Jarvis avenue in Livonia, are parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Eleanor Jahn, Oakdale avenue in Livonia, and the late Harvey R. Jahn Sr.

White candelabra and palms flanked the re-table on which were placed white geranium plants. Following a colonial theme, on the communion table were two bouquets of white daisies and blue carnations. White satin bows marked the relative's pews.

The bridal gown of imported Swiss embroidered organdy was worn by the bride when she was given in marriage by her father. It featured a basque waist line, traditional pointed sleeves, and a bouffant skirt. The scalloped embroidered portrait neckline emphasized a string of pearls, given by the bridegroom. The embroidered rosebuds over blue taffeta underskirts. They wore white accessories and carried baskets of blue daisies and pink sweetheart roses. The flower girl, Kimberly Salow, niece of the groom, wore a white nylon organdy dress with a pink underskirt and carried white daisies and roses.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was William King. Seating the guests were Harold Salow, brother-in-law of the groom, Lieutenant Robert Gall, Tom Bombach, and Richard Bottill.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Bailey chose a light pink silk sheath dress, and pink & white accessories. Mrs. Jahn wore a mauve lace dress with mauve and beige accessories. They both wore pink sweetheart roses and white stephanotis.

The reception at the Masonic Temple carried out the colonial theme and the colors pink, blue and white. On the buffet table an antique cut glass compote dish, a gift, held pink and blue carnations and white daisies.

Rhea Raymond was in charge of the guest book, and gifts were taken care of by Betty Lewis. Serving as hostesses were Mrs. Everett Beach and Mrs. Owen Beach, aunts of the bride and Audrey Strait and Mrs. James Brinkerhoff, friends of the bride's mother. The four tier white fruit cake was topped with white sweetheart roses and stephanotis to match the brides bouquet. After the traditional cutting of the first piece by the couple, Mrs. Harold Malcolm, aunt of the bride, and Vicki Lothman served the guests.

The bride wore an orange sheath dress for their wedding trip to Lake Michigan. Since the bridegroom graduated from West Point this year, they will leave for Europe on his first assignment.

Guests were from Birmingham, Dearborn, Detroit, Lansing, Jackson, Hillsdale, Saginaw, Howell, Shepherd and Hillsboro, Ohio.

Methodist Church is Scene Of Carter-Hoffman Union

Four attendants dressed in eyelet nylon over powder blue taffeta preceded Shirley Elizabeth Carter down the aisle of St. James Methodist Church in Detroit for her marriage to Donald Charles Hoffman on Saturday, June 14.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ralph Carter, 200 Pacific and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hoffman of Palmyra, Mich.

Dr. Benjamin F. Holme officiated at the afternoon ceremony, before an altar bedecked with white snapdragons and white gladioli. Chancel decorations included large baskets of white chrysanthemums, white snapdragons, white gladioli and candelabra. The wife of the minister of the bridegroom's church, Mrs. Frank Frinkle, sang "If I Could Tell You," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white chaplet lace gown with a wide V-shaped neck and wristpoint sleeves. The floor-length bouffant skirt of net extended into a chapel train. A princess crown of pearls held her fingertip veil. White roses surrounded an orchid for the bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Clifford Elliot, cousin of the bride, assisted as matron of honor and Carolyn Stuckey of Detroit, Mrs. Burt Martens of Royal Oak and Donna Emerson of Penn Yan, N. Y., served as bridesmaids. They wore identically styled gowns of white eyelet nylon over blue taffeta, complemented by matching crowns of sequins and net and bouquets of red roses.

The bridegroom asked Ralph Davis to be his best man. Ushers were James Masten, Richard Forsythe, William Erskine, Clifford Elliot and Larry Hoffman. The bride's mother, Mrs. Carter, selected a dress of dusty rose lace over taffeta with matching accessories. Mrs. Hoffman wore a rose lace over taffeta ensemble with white accessories. Their corsages were of rose cymbidiums.

A reception was held at the church Fellowship Hall for 250 guests from Adrian, Palmyra, Detroit, Toledo, Bucyrus, O., Pennsylvania, New York and Maryland.

For a trip to Atlantic City, the Pocono Mts. and Niagara Falls, the bride donned a blue sheath dress with a white lace top, white accessories and the orchid from the bridal bouquet.

The bride is a 1958 graduate of Hillsdale College where she was affiliated with Chi Omega sorority. The bridegroom graduated from Adrian College where he was a member of the American Commons Club.

The couple will live in Adrian until fall.

Corrects Portion Of Attendance Boundary

The superintendent of school's office this week announced a correction regarding the attendance boundary between the Bird and Smith elementary schools as approved last week by the board of education.

The Hough Woods subdivision will be detached from the Smith School attendance area and attached to the Bird School attendance area as reported. The error was made in the description of the Hough Woods subdivision's southern border and should have read as follows: "The Hough Woods subdivision's southern border is along the easement between Beech Street and Linden Street." Therefore, all elementary children living on either side of Beech Street, Beech Court and Carol Street will attend the Smith School. All elementary children living on either side of Linden Street will attend the Bird School.

"SCHOOLS OUT" — These magic words are finally a reality for our younger set. The neighborhood is a beehive of activity and from dawn till dusk the sound of children's laughter can be heard. No more tight schedules — just relaxation (I hope) for the next few months for all of us staying at home. A chance to putter in the garden, pack up a picnic lunch and head for the beach or just sit in the backyard and soak up the sun. Now stop laughing — It's possible if not probable. Summer's here such a short time let's get out and enjoy it.

Graduation parties were the mode this week and below are several that took place in our subdivision.

The Blake Fisher home on Burroughs Thursday evening was the setting for a lovely open house in honor of Plymouth High. Those attending from out of town were: Mrs. Newell, Sharon's grandmother, from Capac, Mich.; and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barth, Sharon's aunt and uncle, also of Capac. From Marshall, Mich., came the guest of honor's brother, Mr. R. Fisher and his two children. Many of the Fisher's friends and relatives of Plymouth stopped by during the evening to congratulate Sharon and enjoy a glass of punch and some of Mrs. Fisher's home made cake.

The Roland Widmayer home on Ross was the scene of another open house Thursday evening honoring Dick who also graduated with the high school class of '58. Those attending were relatives and friends from Plymouth and nearby towns — except for Dick's aunt, Mrs. Myrtle Ronson, of Sault Ste. Marie, who motored down for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ney and small son are motoring to Providence, R. I., for several weeks vacation with Mrs. Ney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Zappulla and Mrs. Elsie Ney, mother of Mr. Ney, of Tarrington, Conn.

The Dale Arnolds of Burroughs had as their guests last week Mr. Arnolds' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Arnold of Harlan, Ia. Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ray of Pontiac were the dinner guests of the R. Hoffmans of Burroughs St. Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Simmons of Edison attended the commencement exercises at the University of Michigan Saturday evening to see their daughter, Sue, receive her Bachelor of Science degree in Nursing. After a short vacation, she will begin her nursing career at the University Hospital.

Dick Widmayer accompanied his aunt, Mrs. Myrtle Ronson, on a motor trip to Chateau, Mon. He will return by plane the second week in July to prepare for his entrance in the University of Michigan this coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. Cedric Sweet had as their guests Friday evening Mrs. Sweet's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. DeLar of Kalamazoo.

The past and present officers of the Evergreen Dance Club attended a cookout at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Lindermulder of Detroit. The club which holds its dances at the Western Country Club monthly from October to April ended with a dinner dance in May. Plymouth is well represented in the executive capacity — those holding offices from here are: Richard Stribley of Carol St. president; Mrs. Tom Marshall of Ross St., secretary, and Richard Fritz of Amelia St., treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Becker and several couples from Lansing enjoyed a weekend at the Bailey Resort on Drummond Island. While there they attended the wedding of Shirley Bailey, daughter of the proprietor of Bailey Resort.

Bill Davis and daughter, Nancy, accompanied William Rudick and children to the Rudick cottage on Indian River this weekend.

Now, I think, I'll dash through my house work and soak up some of that lovely warm sun I mentioned earlier. Maybe it will help me throw off this bad cold I picked up while enjoying our loveliest of all seasons. See you next week — if I don't develop pneumonia.

Great Lakes Drops Merchants

Front-running Great Lakes Steel of the Inter-County Baseball League disposed of Plymouth Merchants 10-1 last Sunday afternoon at River Rouge leaving the local team three notches above the cellar spot.

The Local 1299 team of Great Lakes Steel gathered 12 hits compared with only three for the Merchants. Another big difference was the no errors for Local 1299 and four for the Merchants.

Great Lakes now leads the league with seven wins and one loss while this was the fifth loss for Plymouth against three wins.

The lone Merchant runner came in the third when Ronnie Bender rapped out a triple and then came home on an infield out by Nedrey. Great Lakes scored once in the first inning, four runs in the second, one in the fourth and two runs each in the sixth and eighth innings.

Ken Kisabeth hurled seven and a third innings for the Merchants and Dick Shepherd finished the game. Schlater pitched the entire game for Great Lakes.

The Merchants were hurt not only by their four errors, but also by the loss of three regulars from the line-up.

Next Sunday the Merchants play River Rouge on the home field starting at 3 p.m. The visitors are one of four teams tied for second spot with 5-3 records.

Junior Golf League Opens With 105 Registrations

Junior Golf opened Monday morning at Hilltop Golf Course with 105 youngsters registering — 34 of them girls. Last year there were 38 signing up on the opening day with 17 girls participating.

Eighty appeared for instruction and play with half beginning their league play and the other half receiving their first instruction. The latter will begin playing next week on at least four holes.

Among the qualifiers who played, three points were earned by Skip Otwell, Don Luvisch, Bob Knapp, Bill Lew, Doug Eder and Steve Hayskar. One and a half points were earned by DeMcAllister, Steve Hayskar, Bob Stewart, Jim Haynes, Tim Graves, Jim Johnson, Gary Fuelling, Bob Rew, Bob Taylor, Jamie Eder and Linda Griswold.

Non-qualifiers earning handicaps were Tom Adams who carded a 51; Jim Ralston, 48; John Cook, 60; Kirk Rowland, 67; Gary Fillmore, 57; Keith Evans, 50; Charles Ohl, 64; Gary Parmenter, 86; Hal Balch, 65; Jerry Balch, 65; Bucky Zornow, 65; Dennis Fuelling, 75; Jeff Griswold, 65; Gerry Scott, 74; Bob Beck, 81; Hollis Hanes, 69; Jill Hadley, 55. (Last two were rained out after seven holes.)

Benefits afforded by the league are beginning to pay off as shown by the lower handicaps after Monday's play of all but one of last

SPORTSEEN

By Bill Dilworth

Now that school is out for the summer, the recreation program swings into action on a full scale. The playgrounds are open and manned by an efficient crew of instructors and supervisors. Eleven playgrounds are available at the following locations: Allen School, Auburn Playground, Bird School Playground, Cherry Hill Playground, Gallimore School Playground, High School Playground, Truesdell Playground, Hough Playground, Hamilton School Playground, Smith School Playground and Starkweather School Playground. A complete list of the activities at each playground appeared on page 5 section 1 of last week's Mail.

In addition to the playground facilities, Gus Gorguz and Mike Hoben will be coaching teen-agers and younger in the fundamentals of baseball in the afternoons at the high school. Plymouth has two teams represented in the under-15 league and two in the 18-and-under league. These leagues are under the supervision of Les Anders, director of Recreation for Livonia. Bill's Market, one of the Plymouth teams in the under 15 league, is managed by Harold Stevens and in their first two games have posted victories. They defeated a team from the Wayne Ford Civic League, 4-0, and Wayne County Training School, 13-2. The other team in this age classification is sponsored by Davis & Lent and managed by Leonard Budnick. They lost their first game to Livonia Jets 6-1 and were rained out of their scheduled game with the Police team.

Tomorrow night Bill's Market plays on the diamond behind the high school against the police team while Davis & Lent will journey to the Clarenceville high school diamond to play Clarenceville.

The two teams representing Plymouth in the 18-and-under division are sponsored by Elks and Fishers shoes. The Elks team is made up mostly of the high school players who were members of this year's Suburban Six championship team and is managed by Doug Egloff and Bob Barnhill. Hank Rupert and Gus Gorguz are the managers of the Fisher team. At press time the schedules had not been drawn up because of the uncertainty of the number of teams that would be entered.

Baiting averages for the Plymouth Merchants team of the Intercounty league were released last week by their manager John Schwartz and Chuck Tomlinson leads the team with a 444 average. He is followed by the clean-up batter Bud Nedry with an even 400. Gary Hees is third with 333 and fourth is short stop Ron Bender with 324.

FROM THE SCRATCHPAD — Mike Hoben will be spending a week starting tomorrow at the Y.M.C.A. camp at Corry Lake coaching football fundamentals. His pupils will be high school students from Illinois and Indiana. Some of the coaches on the staff are Hank Minark of Michigan State, Bump Elliott of Michigan and John Repetak of University of Detroit. We noticed in the Livonian that Jim Doyle's idea of a basketball clinic throughout the summer has been copied by Bob Bentley and his assistant of the Bentley Bulldogs, Suburban Six champions this year.

Recreation Fastball League

CLASS "A"
 Begingets won their sixth game in seven starts by defeating Wayne Dispatch 5-2. Gabby Street pitched a three hitter and Slessor at second base for the winners was the leading hitter with two triples.

Wolf Aircraft continued their unbeaten string by defeating Lincoln 12-1. Jim Lowe pitched and helped his own cause with a home run in the fifth inning. Other homers for Wolf Aircraft were hit by Art Keeler and Rockman.

Joe Thibodeau pitched Cloverdale to a 7-0 win over Dehoco as he allowed them just five hits.

Chevrolet Spring and Bumper defeated Mayflower 11-0 as Harrington struck out 21 batters over the seven inning game. His catcher dropped the third strike so Harrington had to retire one more man — this one on a fly ball.

Northville Downs Opens Season Monday Night

With the sensational success of Hazel Park Harness Raceway's meeting still fresh in mind, Northville Downs' official family is looking forward to the best meeting in years when it opens its 15th campaign next Monday June 30.

With summer dates again, after an absence of a year when it had an early spring meeting, Northville Downs is anticipating at least as much success as Hazel Park during the 36-night campaign which carries into the first week in August.

More than 500 horses already are quartered on the grounds, and the capacity of 750 is expected to be filled by Sunday when horses stream in from the East and Midwest including Hazel Park where activities end on Saturday (June 28).

In fact, General Manager John Carlo has made arrangements to take care of an anticipated overflow of horses at Fowlerville Fairgrounds and has an opportunity to send more to Adrian, if needed.

The half-mile plant gets off to a flying start in the first week when the nation's top four and five-year-olds compete in the $10,000 added Transamerica Pace on Friday, July 4.

It is the first of five stakes listed at the track with four $5,000 events to follow on successive Wednesdays, beginning July 16.

The first race is scheduled nightly for 8:30 p.m. and nine events are listed for each program.

According to the ancient Sallie Code of Laws, proclaimed by King Clovis, in the Fifth Century, a woman cannot become the ruler of France.

What happened to Jack Tighe could happen to anyone in baseball. Sooner or later the end of the line comes for just everybody in the game.

Players get over the hill. Coaches lose their popularity. Managers experience bad seasons. The old order has to make way for the new.

I encountered the same situation both as a player and a manager. Knee trouble forced me out as a player. A downturn in the fortunes of the Giants (New York variety) ended my career as a manager.

I have been more fortunate than many players of my era and remain associated with the game as a sportscast, also writing this column. So many others who love baseball as much as I, however, no longer have any connection with the sport.

Sadder is the fate of those who were unprepared for the end of their careers. They were trained for no other calling, had insufficient education to enter another skill field.

Smarter are most of today's players, who are aware that someday they must hang up their gloves for good and prepare accordingly.

Many buy into businesses or start businesses that they turn to in the off season. Others begin off-season careers with companies promising them a future.

Surprisingly, many seek college educations to help them in the days when they no longer can thunder on the basepaths. Some rightly put education ahead of baseball.

The Bolling brothers, Milt and Frank, are notable examples, insisting on clauses in their contracts when they were minor leaguers that allowed them to finish the school year before reporting to the team.

As a result, both missed several spring trainings. Frank with the Tiger chain, Milt with the Red Sox farm system. But as a practical consequence both possess degrees from Spring Hill College in their native Mobile, Ala., and are prepared to turn to teaching when their baseball careers are over.

Reno Bertoia went to Assumption College in his native Windsor whenever he could find the time.

390 Receive Dog Violation Notice in Canton Township

Canton Township's recent drive to have all dogs vaccinated and licensed has met with great success according to Lovette Gee, Township Dog Warden.

A check of records had revealed that the number of dog registrations had been declining steadily. This fact, coupled with an accumulation of complaints by Township residents, resulted in the Township Board moving that a dog census be taken.

Gee, assisted by Township constables John Collins, Bert Walling, John Newport and Gerald Cather, conducted a door-to-door check and in those cases where dogs were found to be unlicensed, a violation notice was issued. According to the terms of the notice, violators were given a two week period in which to comply with the ordinance.

The surprising number of 390 violations were issued during this census. Of this total however, only six violators were fined by Justice of the Peace Ralph Foote for non-compliance. In addition 40 stray or unwanted dogs were destroyed during this period.

Due to the success of this drive and because they feel that unlicensed dogs constitute a serious health problem, the Township Board has

Canton Scrap Drive Continues

The Boy Scouts of Troop 298, sponsored by the Canton Community Club, still have a long way to go before the current scrap metal drive can be considered a success. The funds derived from this drive are intended to help finance the annual ten day camp out for the scout troop, which will be held at Ludington State Park, July 26 through August 4.

The boys have set themselves a goal of 10 tons of scrap metal and as of now are approximately a third of the way completed. Residents who may have any material they wish to contribute may contact committeeman Robert Williams, John Thorpe or Harold Voss and they will arrange to have the scrap picked up.

Weather Perfect for Firemen's Picnic

(Covering the area east of the railroad tracks to the park and from Parkway Circle north to Wilcox Lake.) BY GRACE WIGLEY GL. 3-2734

Let's talk about the weather. Hasn't it been great? Now's the time to start your summer off with a bang. Whether it's picnicking, vacationing, gardening, or just plain lying in the sun, summer is a wonderful time of year.

Ruth Butts and her father, of Parkway Dr., tried their luck with the barbecue grill and found out what an experience it can be. Miss Butts' brothers and their families also enjoyed the affair. They are Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Butts and their two sons, Thomas and Ricky, of Ann Arbor, and Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Butts of Lansing. Mr. and Mrs. Brophy of Montreal, Quebec also visited the Butts' home.

Gunsolly Mill proved to be the perfect site for a picnic given by the Plymouth Firemen's Association. This pot-luck supper was thoroughly enjoyed by the firemen and their families. Kiddies gave swings, slides, and teeter-totters full treatment while the women set picnic tables and the men built the fire to roast hot dogs.

Parties Fete Robinson Sub. Area High School Graduates (Covering the area between Ann Arbor Trail and the Parkway from Haggerty to Bassett Roads, including Robinson Sub.) BY MRS. MAXINE CARSON GL. 3-0559

Shirley Laycock, little five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Laycock, took ill quite suddenly on Tuesday and was taken to Ridgewood Hospital for an appendectomy operation. Shirley is doing fine and doesn't seem to mind the stay at the hospital at all. Maybe a card or two from some of her little friends and neighbors might help cheer her up and pass away the time. So let's all send her a card.

Mr. and Mrs. John LaGrow of Brownell Street held open house for their daughter, Jackie, who is a graduate from Plymouth High. Mrs. LaGrow estimated close to 70-75 attended. Congratulations and good luck, Jackie.

A farewell party was given in the home of Mrs. Betty Dethloff of Morgan St. by the former Char-Mar unit of the Methodist Church in the honor of Mrs. Charlotte Horvath, who is moving with her husband to Rodgers. Betty Thorne acted as co-hostess. The girls had a lovely evening and presented Mrs. Horvath with several gifts. Betty and Jim Parks, of Parkway Dr., are building a lovely patio. Marty Kennedy Jr. has just received notice from Olivet College that he has been chosen as a student counselor of one of the dormitories. His job will be to enforce regulations and to act as an advisor to some of the younger students. It is certainly a distinction since he is one out of six to receive the honor. Congratulations!

Mrs. William Stang, formerly of Parkway Dr., gave a bridge party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Wilson, of Wayne. Those who attended the party from this area are Mrs. Harvey Cooper, Mrs. Ted Kuhns, and Mrs. Dick Papes. Mrs. Stang, who now lives near Milwaukee, is visiting her parents with her two sons Mike and Chris.

Hear at the Kuhns household on Friday at 7 p.m., a party was getting under way. It was Pop's fifth grade Sunday school class who enjoyed (we hope) an evening of

When Terry Wilson and Marilyn Lake came around selling fruit the other day, everyone was surprised at their low prices. We ordered a half dozen oranges which were priced on the list for five cents. Before we could pay for them, the girls presented their home made oranges which they had cut from paper and colored with an orange crayon.

The Fitzners, of Parkway Dr., tried out their bright, new car by taking a trip to Ohio. On Saturday they ate dinner at the Lucas County Childrens Home.

On Saturday, June 14, Barbara and Harvey Cooper, Elton and Rocky Smith, and Charlotte and Jim Winterhalder danced at Wallace Lake to Glen Miller's orchestra. Then on Sunday Barbara and Harvey, along with their small son Tim, visited Harvey's father, Arthur Cooper at Lake St. Clair.

Tips on Buying an Air Conditioner for Room

Thanks to modern air conditioning, beating the heat of summer is a simple task. The cost of air conditioning is about the only stumbling block, but the demand for room units has enabled this once-high cost to be cut in half.

Not too many families care to put out the cost of a central air-conditioning system in a home. While such a system would be desirable from the standpoint of comfort, this high-cost-of-living age has held up many families from making the investment.

What can be done, in regard to economy and obtaining efficient relief from heat, is selecting a room in the home to be air-conditioned. This area could be a large family room, living room or group of bedrooms where each member could be accommodated comfortably.

Most anyone can endure the heat of day if he or she gets a good night's sleep. From this point of view, it may be wise for a family to concentrate on the bedrooms. There are available, portable air-conditioning units that can be carried from room to room. Such a unit could be installed during the day in a room which is used by the family, and brought to a bedroom for the night.

No matter which room will be air-conditioned, buying the right unit is important. The most important step is to select a reliable dealer who knows what he is talking about and understands a family's problem. To help the dealer, a family should know the exact size of area (room or rooms) that are to be cooled. Additional information that should be included is the number of windows in the room to be cooled, its exposure, insulation, number of people who will benefit by a unit, and the amount and type of lights in the room.

The capacity of the unit is the next step. Previously only 10 and 12 ampere units of varying horsepower or "ton" ratings were available. Now it's possible to purchase 7 1/2 ampere units which means using less electricity to keep this lower amperage unit operating.

Equally as important as the capacity of a unit is whether a home's wiring system can efficiently and safely take an air-conditioner; this applies to apartment dwellers, too. Like other heavy-duty appliances, it's best that an air-conditioner have its own circuit.

Once a unit that fits a family's needs and a price has been determined, a homeowner should learn from the dealer exactly what the price includes. Are there extra charges for window installations, service, guarantee? If there are, it's better to have them in writing at the initial purchase than having the price change from time to time.

A BACKYARD playhouse, simple in design, will keep children happy and safe all day.

Backyard Playhouse Not Tough to Build

The fascination of a backyard playhouse is endless to children. Such a playhouse needn't be large or elaborate. Actually, one can be made from odd pieces of lumber left over from a project. Or, second and third grade lumber can be purchased from a local lumberyard to keep low costs.

The size of a playhouse depends on the number of children who will use it. Of course, such a play item will entice a good number of neighborhood children. An average size, however, would be approximately 4 to 5 feet high, 6 feet long and 5 feet deep.

If a gable roof will be used for the playhouse then the roof ridge (or peak) of the roof will be higher than the 4 feet on two sides of the playhouse. An easier design, although just as attractive and strong as a gabled roof playhouse, is a shed type. This design calls for a box-like frame with an allowance for a slightly pitched roof so that the rain will drain off.

The first step in making a playhouse is erecting the frame. This is done by making two sides of the playhouse first. Each side calls for nailing 1 x 3-inch stock according to playhouse lengths to the top and bottom on the flat side of 2 x 4's. These will serve as "plates"

Increase Safety, Attractiveness

Lighting to open up a whole new world of enjoyment outdoors after dark needn't be the glaring sort that brings down the wrath of the neighbors. At a minimum it should light the property so that walking is safe after dark, but electricity also can be used to make the garden a fairyland.

The house which still has lights only at the front door and a post lantern at the gate or driveway entrance is behind the times. Little more of a concession is the standing or table lamp with outdoor socket and extension cord on the porch or terrace to facilitate reading or playing games in the evening.

Insects aren't a necessary evil accompanying outdoor lighting. Bulbs are available to repel or allure insects. Ordinary yellow bulbs provide light without attracting the insects as a white mazda bulb does. Where yellow or other repellent bulbs can't be used, spraying with an aerosol DDT bomb will keep insects at bay for at least two hours.

Electricity should be installed first to shed light on steps of the porch, terrace or garden or any turns of a path through the property. One simple way to do this is to countersink lights along a path or walk. All this requires is a concrete box in which any light bulb may be attached, so long as the box is sealed with a cover of thick glass. If outdoor lighting fixtures are preferred, there are mushroom, cone and parasol shaded ones, either portable or stationary, to be plugged in the ground at proper locations.

Lighting the lawn for croquet, the swimming pool or any game court for after-dark use may be as essential to some families as proper lighting for steps. This calls for floodlights. Outdoor floodlights and spotlights for use on a home property are not comparable to the brilliant ones used at a baseball park. Furthermore, some of these can be attached to tree branches and thus be somewhat concealed by foliage during daylight.

An inexpensive substitute for floodlights, for a trial of this outdoor lighting, are simple waterproofed sockets attached to spikes which can be shifted from one spot to another. To these sockets are attached outdoor bulbs of heavy glass in either spotlight or floodlight style.

Decorative lighting of the garden or property makes use of spot, floodlights and standing fixtures of the mushroom and parasol type. A handsome shrub or tree may be silhouetted with spotlights, portable fixtures may be moved from week to week to focus on a group of plants in full bloom.

Unobjectionable, even in daytime, are pagoda and wren-shaped fixtures to hang in trees or tall shrubs, and the metal tulips that conceal light bulbs whose stems can be stuck here and there in a flower border. Metal cattails and lily pads conceal illumination for a pool.

Go easy on decorative outdoor lighting this summer. Try one or two fixtures in different places to decide how much illumination is desirable. All fixtures must have waterproof sockets and cables, and current must come from weatherproof outlets. Consult a qualified electrician, and follow community regulations for installation and inspection by experienced electricians.

AFTER-DARK lighting makes walking safer and accents plants. The mushroom reflector is one of several styles of outdoor fixtures.

Follow Seasons with Color Slides

Color slides are an ideal way for a homeowner to record the progress of his property during each of the four seasons of the year. Starting with the earliest snowdrifts and ending with the last brilliant color of oak leaves in the fall, the photographer can take an interesting set of pictures.

While spring is the ideal time to start, a photographer can begin at any time. The best way to plan the photographing is to take a walk about the property and pick out several spots that have interesting plantings and settings. Then, photograph this same place in spring, summer, fall and even winter. It is surprising how much the foliage of trees changes from the soft spring greens, through dark greens in summer, to the yellow reds or browns of fall. Even grass photographs differently throughout the year.

One good setting, for example, would be a birdbath with simple planting around it. This makes an ideal subject to photograph during each season of the year. If a few colorful cardinals or orioles happen to be bathing at the bath at the time so much the better. In winter, the snow on the birdbath — if the home is situated in northern areas — resembles a lemon meringue pie. Another good subject would be the photographing of flowering shrubs and trees, and particularly fruit trees. Photographs can be taken when they are in flower and also when they are in fruit. When there is a bright blue sky, tilt the camera upward and photograph through the branches so the sky will serve as background. If the tree happens to be an apple or crab-apple, photograph through the blossoms for an artistic, unusual effect. Should photographing be done during summer, it's best not to photograph during the hours of 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. The sun is too bright during this time, and this tends to wash out the color in the slides. Too late in the afternoon will make the slides dark and the colors unnatural.

HERE'S HOW...
MAKE A TOOL STORAGE SHED WITH SHELF

This garden tool storage shed includes a working-surface shelf.

First level the ground and pour a concrete base. Before the concrete sets, place the 2 by 4-inch and 2 by 2-inch lower frame members, fitted with 4-inch bolts. Press the bolts into the concrete. When the concrete has set, build the rest of the frame, as shown, using waterproof glue and 16-penny common nails.

An additional base member and horizontal member at door height should be added if the shed is placed in the open. Attach the siding and roof boards with 6-penny finishing nails. Add building paper and roof shingles.

The door is two 68 1/4-inch lengths of 1 by 12-inch lumber, braced as shown in the detail drawing. Both door and shelf are fastened with 3-inch butt hinges, first adding a 2 by 4-inch shelf brace.

Give Yourself a Lift - Make a Garden Corsage Every Day

Strawberries One of Most Popular Freezing Fruits

After a later-than usual harvest, Michigan strawberries are in our markets. Quality is good and prices are about the same as they were a year ago.

Strawberries are probably one of the most popular fruits for freezing - even among the urban homemakers. If you are planning on buying berries in a few days, Detroit's Consumer Marketing Information Agent from Michigan State University recommends that you select bright red, firm berries, free from blemishes and bruises. Then sort and wash the fruit - being careful to handle it to prevent bruises. Prepare only a small amount at a time and drain well.

After hulling or capping the strawberries, you may use one of three methods for freezing. You may want to dry-pack the berries in moisture-vapor-proof containers. Dry-packed berries keep a shorter time than those packed in sugar or syrup. In dry-pack, the berries also fade and lose flavor.

Packing with sugar is a favorite method with many homemakers because it preserves the color and flavor. About 2 1/2 quart of berries will yield one pint when frozen. Sprinkle 3/4 cup sugar over a quart of berries. Turn

Professional Looking Job Is Simple

Wearing flowers gives a person a lift, and there's no reason why it can't be done all summer long. This doesn't mean a stop at the florist shop every morning. It does mean cutting flowers from the garden for a small corsage or boutonniere. A little practice enables anyone to make a professional-looking corsage.

The corsage or boutonniere will not wilt if it has been cut and conditioned properly. Flowers that are to be worn should be cut several hours in advance. Cutting them the evening before is best, and even a day is not too long to let these corsage flowers stand in water in a cool place. The cellar, sheltered corner of the back porch or any dim, cool place is fine; they need not be kept in a refrigerator.

When cutting flowers for corsages, cut some foliage too. Leaves of geraniums, ivy, begonia, iris, coralbell or any others in the garden that look attractive should be cut and conditioned as are the flowers. Neither leaves nor EVERYONE can wear a corsage when flowers bloom in gardens. To make one, use fine or medium fine wire for each blossom, soft string to wind foliage and flowers together, and plastic tape to cover stems of completed corsage.

Chubby Size Dresses Can Be Problem

The right size is oh-so-important in both ready-mades or patterns for good looking clothing. And sometimes the right size can be a problem if you're shopping for a chubby girl.

Often the problem is to get a dress to fit the "chubby miss" that helps her look her best and is at the same time youthful. Many times dresses in regular girls' sizes - 7 through 14 - may fit, especially if they have elasticized waist bands. These dresses usually have set in sleeves with roomy armholes but may still be skimpy through the chest area. Have her try them on to be sure - it's the best way to check fit.

The "X" sizes are roomier than straight sizes. In toddler clothing a 3X has more room than a size 3. In children's dresses a 6X runs a little bigger than a size 6.

Several companies now have ready-to-wear dresses especially for the chubby girl. You'll find them in girls' half sizes from 8 1/2 through 14 1/2.

If you're sewing instead of buying ready-mades, be sure you get the right size pattern. Use the child's actual breast measurement, not her age, as a guide. Measure her around the breast holding the tape easily, not tightly. Then in pattern book charts find the age pattern that corresponds to her breast measurement - her measurement will probably match an age older than she really is.

For example, you'll find a 30-inch breast measurement given for the size 12 pattern - the child needs a girls' size 12. If her measurement falls between sizes, choose the larger size.

Take the back waist length measurement - from the base of the neck to the waist. This helps you decide whether the pattern should be in girls', sub-teen, junior or teen size range. Check this measurement on pattern chart.

You may still need to alter the pattern. You can add up to 2 inches to the waist. Just slash the blouse pattern from the bottom, near the side seam and parallel to the lengthwise grainline. Spread both front and back blouse pattern pieces 1/2 inch at the waistline for the needed 2 inches.

If the skirt is gored, you'll need to slash the skirt gore down from the waist just below where you slashed the blouse. Spread skirt sections apart 1/2 inch from top to bottom to allow the 2 extra inches in the skirt.

flowers need have long stems for corsages.

A nosegay is the simplest sort of corsage to make and wear. This is a small bunch of flowers encircled with foliage. Two or three geraniums ringed with their own foliage or ivy leaves are tied together with soft green string. Wrap the stem ends with inch-wide plastic tape in green or other suitable color so that they will not stain clothing.

A nosegay could also be made of mixed flowers. Start with a rosebud for the center, then around it arrange a ring of baby's breath, next a ring of violets, then candytuft or annual phlox and finally a circle of leaves such as coralbells. Later in the summer one large blossom of a tuberous begonia might be ringed with leaves or fastened flat against one large shiny green leaf to make a more tailored nosegay.

Soft green twine to tie the flowers together and tape to bind the stems are all the equipment needed to make a nosegay. For a corsage which is pinned flat against the shoulder, fine and medium fine wire also are needed. Wire of the weight suitable for the flower is cut in 6-inch lengths and each flower is wired, so that it can be bent in position as desired. To wire a rose, one floret from a gladiolus spike or a pansy, hold the blossom in the left hand. Pierce the green calyx at the back or base of the blossom with one end of the wire, then grasp both wire and flower where it has been pierced and twist the wire down the stem.

When flowers have been wired, foliage is chosen for the backing of the corsage. Holding the foliage flat, the wired flowers are laid in position and tied with the soft green twine. Cut the stems short on the completed corsage and bind them with plastic tape. A ribbon bow fastened with wire can be twisted around the stem end, if desired.

A corsage can be kept fresh for some time. Cover it with wax paper and place it in the refrigerator until it is to be worn.

Survey Shows Necessity Of Teaching Nutrition in School

Leila Presson, Assistant Director, Dietary Department, University Hospital, Ann Arbor

Is teaching nutrition in school a new idea? It definitely isn't. Nutrition was taught in some Chicago and New York schools as early as 1917. The importance of nutrition has been recognized by others besides people in the fields of nutrition and medicine. In an article written in 1936, Will Durant, the well-known philosopher, made the following statement: "Since the strongest root of happiness is health, I should like to see my children abundantly instructed in the knowledge and care of their bodies—I should make education in health required course in every year of schooling from kindergarten to Ph.D."

He went on to say that when more was definitely known about diet, he would ask dietitians to teach the principles of diet for one hour in every school week for 15 years so that in adult life our people could intelligently make the changes in diet required by the transition from a physically strenuous outdoor life to a mentally exerting but sedentary one.

We don't need to be told how important good health is to our welfare and happiness. Good nutrition is basic to good health. This being true, it seems logical to be concerned not only about increasing the amount of teaching with regard to nutrition but also about increasing the effectiveness of the teaching.

There are many methods and places for teaching nutrition, but the school is one of the best possibilities. Almost every child can be reached in school, and schools have teachers trained in the art and science of teaching. In school, nutrition could be a part of the children's continuous education and development. This is important because the way we eat is a very strong habit. However, since we know that habits can be changed or replaced, we should attempt to replace poor habits of eating with good habits.

Another point to consider is that nutrition education is a long-term process that can not be covered in one unrelated course. It may take years to improve the general diet in a single community. However, it has been shown in many instances that nutrition-education programs centered in the schools can greatly improve the eating habits of children and thus influence family diets.

How much nutrition should be taught? The amount is adequate when students can say yes to the following questions: Do I know how nutrition affects my work and play? Do I know what nutrients are required by the body and in what amounts? Do I know that good nutrition is attained by selecting foods that provide nutrients in amounts needed by the body? Do I know how to discriminate between fact and fallacy in advertising and in popular beliefs about the use of foods? Do I know how to prepare foods so they will furnish maximum nutrition? And most important, do I put into daily practice these principles that I know?

By teaching the principles of good nutrition so that children practice what is taught, we can begin to promote the happiness that accompanies good health.

I know I'm reporting a little out of my territory on this item and I hope you other gals will excuse it this once, for this reporter attended a truly inspiring court of honor held, Monday, June 16 for the Boy Scout troop 271 of St. Michael's Catholic church. Beside many awards and advancements of many boys, the highlight of the evening was the giving of the Eagle Scout award, the highest advancement in scouting, to two boys, Stephen Curry and Douglas West.

Editor:

For some time, I have been intending to write you and express my admiration for the objective manner in which your newspaper has reported the controversial departure of the Daisy Air Rifle Company from Plymouth.

My intention crystallized into action when your signed editorial on the subject in the May 15 edition of the Plymouth "Mail" was brought to my attention.

As I understand it, the ideal function of a newspaper is to objectively report the facts and then to honestly interpret those facts in its editorials.

Lamentably, this ideal is realized all too seldom, as the "treatment" given the Daisy Air Rifle story by the metropolitan dailies in Detroit illustrates.

So it is doubly heartening when the newspaper closest to the scene — and thus supposedly most susceptible to local pressures — calls its shots accurately and fairly, to resist these pressures, as you have, calls for courage and integrity of the highest order.

To my warmest congratulations may I add a sincere wish for the continuing prosperity and success of the Plymouth Mail.

Very truly yours,
NEIL STAEBLER,
Democratic Party
State Chairman.

Demos 'Steal' Issue

Republicans, while acting prudently and in good faith, lost part of a chance for a big bow on the public stage in an election year.

Democrats stole the show when the legislature enacted a federal program to extend unemployment compensation benefits to 115,000 jobless at a cost of $30,000,000.

The workers, the victims of the recession, will be getting their checks beyond the present 26-week maximum this summer.

It all started when Republicans sponsored a proposed extension of benefits during the legislative session but held back to wait for Congressional action.

Democrats charged that the original Republican plans were not enough.

Republicans reminded that Michigan's benefits exceeded those in all other major industrial states and ranked high in the nation. But they stuck for a time with their controversial state plans even after Congress set up an emergency system of federal loans, totaling $30,000,000 for Michigan, to extend benefits.

Democrats, realizing they did not have the majority in the legislature to do anything more, fought for adoption of the federal program.

When Gov. Williams signed the bill, the Democratic delegation in the legislature was photographed behind his desk and each received a pen with which he signed the bill.

The Democratic stand, rightly or wrongly, is that they created pressure enough to force Republicans to vote for the federal plan.

Republicans point out they waited to be sure which course was best; that the Democrats could not do it without their votes.

Political experts see the situation as a ready-made political issue this year.

They predict it will be a vital vote-getter among the unemployed and those who are jittery about business and industry and their fate in the recession.

Republicans must make much more of their side of the story; that it took President Eisenhower's signature in Washington and the Republican majority in the Michigan legislature to do the job.

Foreign car registrations are increasing in Michigan.

Two reasons are given: that the sportier continental models satisfy an urge for the modern generations, and that domestic cars are becoming too expensive and large.

As the registrations increase, all major American automobile manufacturers have revealed they have smaller models on the drafting boards and some have definite plans for making them.

Merchandising experts insist, however, that most car buyers say they prefer smaller, less expensive cars and then purchase the gaudiest, biggest cars off the assembly lines.

Secretary of State James M. Hare, noting the increase in foreign car registrations and another boost in used car sales, has one answer.

It is reflected in the lower figures on new car sales and the slightly increased used car sales, the lower price per unit in new cars. "Perhaps the nation is beginning to trade down to the Joneses, instead of keeping up with them," he said.

'Life Begins at Forty'

By ROBERT PETERSON

George Wilkerson, 49, has a retirement plan cooking which promises to provide him with a retirement home in Arizona—at no cost whatever!

A couple of winters ago this commercial artist and his wife went to Phoenix, Arizona, on a month vacation. They fell in love with the dry air and mild climate and decided to make this their retirement home when George retired some 15 years hence.

"One day," said George, "we happened to hear of a small house which was renting for $84 a month. Later we heard that the house was for sale for $8,500. That's when I got my brainstorm. I began wondering why I couldn't borrow some money and buy the house—and then use the rent to pay off the mortgage."

"I did some simple arithmetic and found that in 15 years we could take in over $15,000 in rentals, which would more than pay for the house. So I talked to a local banker. Within 24 hours I had bought the house by paying $800 down and taking out a 15 year mortgage on the balance."

George says he spent a couple hundred dollars redecorating the house and was lucky in finding a couple which was looking for just such a house as this to rent indefinitely. He arranged for the tenants to pay their rent directly to the bank—which agreed to act as agent.

Today the Wilkersons are collecting $84 a month rent, and are paying out only $72 a month on the mortgage—plus very low taxes. In other words, in exchange for a little cash and a lot of ingenuity they bought a house which in all probability will completely pay for itself and then some by the time the Wilkersons are ready to retire. Assuming that the upward inflationary spiral and the Phoenix expansion boom continue, this house stands a good chance of being worth even more than the Wilkersons paid for it.

Of course the property will doubtless give the Wilkersons a few headaches between now and retirement. For instance, there is the matter of keeping the house rented. But they're not worrying too much on this score as they scouted the situation before buying and found that in a rapidly-mushrooming Phoenix rental properties are always in demand.

They'll also have some problems of maintenance. But the bank supervises minor repairs, and the Wilkersons can arrange any major repairs during their annual vacation jaunt to Arizona.

If you take the trouble to make plans for the years ahead you'll pave the way for a much more comfortable and satisfying retirement. It is sheer indifference which causes many people to reach retirement undecided as to where they want to live and with no personal financial plan to help them supplement their pension and social security.

If Your Name Is 'LAURA'

By ANN RLYNOLDS, Ph.D.

Does the name "Laura" remind you of the laurel tree? (Editor's Note: No.) If so, you are pretty close to where we have to look for the origin of this name.

Not as if some parents had just taken the word for this tree, and fashioned an appellation for their new baby girl from it. Things are not that simple. "Laura" was adapted from the man's name "Lawrence"; most likely it sound "Laurenca" at first. It became, then shortened to "Laura." And "Lawrence" derived from a place name, so called because laurel trees grew abundantly in its vicinity.

The laurel tree, or sweet bay, is a plant native to the shores of the Mediterranean Sea; it was sacred to the ancient Greeks and Romans. The laurel's shiny, deep green leaves, wound into wreaths, were bestowed on the winners in the ancient athletic games.

There are half a dozen or more variations of "Laura" in use now: Lorraine, Laureen, Lauretta, Lora, even "La Reyne," which tries to imply an origin from the French word for queen, "la reine," unsupported by a fact. Friends of mine named their baby "Laurel," and here by completed the full circle, bringing the name back, in spelling, to the plant name it originated from.

"Laura" is a name famous in world literature. The Italian poet Petrarch, or, in its original Italian spelling, Francesco Petrarca, addressed his sonnets to one "Laura." Whether she was a fiction of that poet's imagination, or a real woman, is still a problem undecided by scholars. And this remains so, although Petrarch described his Laura as a golden-haired beauty, lovely to look at, with long lashes and jet black eyebrows.

If Laura was a real-life person, she possibly was Laura de Noves, the daughter of a Provençal nobleman, married to Hugues de Sades before Petrarch ever set eyes on her. Well, the poet certainly tried his best to make believe that there was a Laura of flesh and blood.

He relates that it was on Friday, April 6, 1327 that he first saw her and was inflamed by his passion that raged in his heart for exactly 21 years. Because it was then that Laura died, and her demise freed him from what had been both a bitter and a sweet enslavement for him.

Those scholars who doubt that Laura was real find proof in Petrarch's sonnets, in which he plays more than once on the similarity between the name Laura, and the laurel, symbol of his long-lingering for a poet's laurels.

Petrarch's poetry touches on emotions embracing the height of joy to the very abyss of despair, and it matters little whether there was a Laura or whether his adored was an idealized version of all the feminine beauty he ever beheld and imagined. Both U.S., Soviet Elect Judges

CHICAGO (UPI) For all their differences, the United States and the Soviet Union do have at least one similarity. Both elect judges.

An article by E. Blyth Stason, dean of the University of Michigan's law school, in the Journal of the American Judicature Society, reported two ways of choosing judges are most common — appointment by a political officer or a career system. He surveyed ways of judicial selection around the world.

Stason said every nation "in the civilized world" seeks judges independent of outside pressure and influence, but their methods of choice differ. He compared some of the different judicial systems. In Britain a political officer, the Lord Chancellor, appoints nearly all judges. "The traditions are such that the appointments can be said to be uniformly non-political in character," Stason commented.

In France and most of continental Europe lawyers and judges chose different career courses immediately after law school. They must pass a competitive exam, with those who pass entering judicial life as openings occur.

In Latin America judges are selected usually by the president or congress. In some nations, Stason noted, judges are picked from a list drawn up by the supreme court. In Asia some variation of these methods is used. In the Soviet Union lower court judges are elected while upper court judges are appointed by legislative bodies. Stason said Russian judges do not have to have training in law. Up to 10 years ago two-thirds of the judges had no legal training.

But Stason pointed out that in spite of the fact Soviet judges are elected, the law requires them to serve "the policy of a totalitarian dictatorship as expressed in the statutes of the Soviet state."

He said Soviet judges are always under scrutiny from agents of the Ministry of Justice who can see they are punished. The judges also can be recalled by their constituents.

Thirty-six states in this country elect all judges. In five states they are appointed by the governor, in four by the legislature. A few states are experimenting, Stason noted, with appointment from a list prepared by a judicial commission. Federal judges are appointed by the president with confirmation required by the U.S. Senate.

MICHIGAN BELL telephone lines A YOUNGSTER WALKED into a drugstore and asked for a job. "What's your name?" asked the druggist. "Alexander Graham Bell," replied the boy. "I guess that's a pretty well-known name, son." "It ought to be," said the boy. "I've been delivering groceries in this neighborhood for two years now." EVEN ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL himself (the inventor, not the delivery boy) couldn't have guessed how important his invention would become to us. The phone plays a part in just about everything you do. Take your vacation, for example. When it comes you'll want to be able to relax and enjoy yourself. So take care of all the worries beforehand, phone ahead to make all your reservations or let friends know when you'll arrive. It'll be such a weight off your mind and for such a small cost! A GROCER FRIEND tells us the story of a lady who called him about an order. "Please bring some of your snap beans to the phone," said the lady. The grocer, who takes everything in his stride, complied. "Now break one," she commanded. He did, and a sharp "pop" went over the wires. "Fine," said the lady, "send me three pounds." THE REASON WE mention this incident is to show that there isn't any end to the telephone's usefulness. Every day someone hits on a new way of saving time and money with the phone. PARTING SHOT! Drive so that your driver's license will expire before you do.

Chiropractors Attend Confab

Doctors E. A. Rice and G. K. Ashton of Plymouth were among those attending the annual Chiropractic Convention held this month in Detroit sponsored by the Michigan State Chiropractic Society.

The convention is held annually to fulfill requirements of license renewal for Doctors of Chiropractic throughout Michigan. It provides them with a two day educational program in the latest and most advanced research in the profession.

Among convention highlights were: a $10,000 check to establish a student loan fund for prospective doctors who aspire the profession; a public seminar explaining the role of the chiropractor in modern society; and an address by Dr. Dewey Anderson, director of the Public Affairs Institute, urging a program to enable accredited chiropractic schools to obtain public funds and grants from foundations as do medical colleges.

Farm in Family for 122 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Smith — owners of a Centennial Farm at 8010 Newburgh Road, were honored by the Michigan Historical Commission and Detroit Edison at a luncheon in Plymouth last week.

A Centennial Farm plaque — designating a farm which has remained in the same family 100 years or longer — was presented to the Smiths by Edward L. Millis, manager of Edison's Wayne sales district. Also, honoring the family at the luncheon was N. A. Smith, assistant county agent (Wayne County) for the Michigan Agricultural Extension Service.

Clyde E. Smith and his two sons, David and Everett, own and operate a truck farming business on land purchased by Stephen Smith — great-grandfather of the present owner — in 1836. The first family owner, a native of New York State, bought the original 80-acre parcel for $750 — less than $10 an acre. The land was later owned, in turn, by Josiah and William J. Smith, grandfather and father of Clyde.

OWNED BY the same family for 122 years, the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Smith has been designated a Centennial Farm by the Michigan Historical Commission. Smith, who lives at 8010 Newburgh Road, is the great-grandson of Stephen Smith who came from New York State and purchased the land in 1836.

WINNERS OF prizes in a contest sponsored by Fisher's Shoes were these five boys, from left: Dennis Cole, Jeffrey Rogers, Dory Breed, David Aubrey, and Billy Aluia.

The Auxiliary's nomination and election of officers will take place at their business meeting, today, Thursday, June 26, 8 p.m. at the Veterans Community Center. Please bring your chairmanship folders and annual reports will be given. Come and elect your officer for the year.

The 17th District Post meeting is Friday, June 27, 8:30 p.m. at the Redford Township Post Home, Beech Road. Election of officers is scheduled . . . be there and elect your choice of officers.

July 2, Wednesday, 8 p.m. at the Elks Club . . . Installation of Officers . . . of the Post and Auxiliary. Refreshments will be served after the installation. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Marion Kot, Girl's State Chairman, Maxine Kunz Adah Langmaid, Gwen Holcombe, Melva Gardner and Fern Burleson served refreshments from the 360 some girls at Girl's State, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, for their regular pajama party. This was held in Stockwell Hall. Girls' State is a national program of the American Legion Auxiliary. In these days of stress and unrest, Girls' State brings to the girls of today a knowledge of the fundamental principles of American government through actual practice. Selection to attend Girls' State is a high honor. The girl chosen is a potential leader, honest, industrious, and has a high sense of duty. Her physical condition should be such that she can actively participate in the athletic and fast moving program. The girl is chosen from a list obtained from the principal of the high school. Wolverine Girls' State is limited to any girl in the Junior or third year in Senior High School. At the conclusion of Girls' State, two girls will be chosen from the 360 girls to attend "Girls' Nation" in Washington, D.C., where they will see the United States Government in operation.

The 13th annual American Legion Boys Nation July 18-25 is expected to be the biggest yet, with 98 high school boys scheduled to attend.

YOUR HANDWRITING TELLS YOUR STORY

With Grapho Analysis
BY JEAN EVANS

Dear Jean: I wrote you a letter quite a while ago, but never mailed it. I am enclosing that letter with this one, to see if there is any difference in my writing. I also used different pens. Will be watching for your reply.

B.J.R.

Dear B.J.R.: You are a person with deep lasting emotions. You are impulsive and will do things without thinking first. You are not easily influenced, having your own opinions and sticking to them.

You like color, and you enjoy that which satisfies your senses whether it be taste, smell, touch, hearing or seeing. There isn't any change in your handwriting since you wrote the first letter. We put on paper just what is in our sub-conscious mind and the mood that we are in at the moment of the writing. It may seem that your handwriting differs but to the trained analyst there is no change in the character traits.

Dear Jean: Would you please analyze my handwriting. Thank you.

R.S.

Dear R.S.: There is rhythm in your handwriting which indicates that you are "in step with life". You can do whatever you set out in life to do. You are a person who will want the approval of others and would be a good worker in any position that you put your mind to. You would do the best you could to deserve the least criticism. You are proud of your work, your self and your surroundings.

Dear Jean: Could you please tell me if I have a chance of getting a good job or not. I'm 16 years old and will graduate from school next year. Also could you analyze my boyfriend's handwriting? Here is a sample of it.

Pauline

Dear Pauline: First of all, I have no idea what your future holds for you as Grapho Analysis is by no means a method of fortune telling. But, living in the United States you are a free citizen whose opportunities are as unlimited as your ambition allows. It is up to you what you will attain in life because you will earn exactly what you receive.

By nature you are an impulsive person but you are hampered by timidity and fear. You are conservative and thrifty not only with money but expenditures of the emotions also. Your boyfriend is likely to skim the surface of things and not think deeply about them. There is a bit of the desire to be bossy shown here and he is outspoken and talkative while you are more on the quiet side.

Dear Jean: Would appreciate your evaluation of my handwriting sample. I have been reading your column with a good deal of interest.

F.F.

Dear F.F.: You thrive on responsibility and will carry through successfully. There is dignity and pride shown here. You are not sensitive to criticism and will be able to take other's remarks in the manner they were intended. There is evidence of diplomacy and a sense of humor.

The Dolly Varden trout, a rainbow colored fish, was named after Dolly Varden, who always dressed in bright colors. The original Dolly was a girl in Charles Dickens' novel, "Barnaby Rudge."

Japan's textile mills employ more workers than any other manufacturing industry in the country almost a fourth of the total work force.
