Mail Attitude: A Politician And Peace

By PAUL CHANDLER

WARM SPRINGS, GA.—According to the reporters of that day, when the Babe was born in Bethlehem two centuries ago, angels sang of a new possibility of "peace on earth and goodwill toward men."

A traveler is going to spend the holidays this year in a strange setting away from home, but not after having discovered that the message of Christmas sings also in the winds and pines of a Georgia hillside where a giant of a man retreated for 13 years to try to stave off assassination by the pressure of the Presidency.

Franklin D. Roosevelt died of fatigue here at Warm Springs in the "Little White House" on April 12, 1945.

He wrote a speech, I just discovered, on April 11—but it never was delivered. Today the typewritten pages lie spread out in a cabinet, penciled corrections imposed on the lines in the author's handwriting.

That speech talks, too, of peace on earth and goodwill toward mankind.

Until the visit here, I never gave any thought to what might have been on the mind of the President at the moment he slumped in his leather chair, victim of a "massive cerebral hemorrhage."

It appears that victory in world war II was in sight. The last paper ever read by FDR is on view here and it's headlines cry:

"9th 57 MILES FROM BERLIN!"
"HITLER IN CHARGE, REPORTS SAY DYING, BROKEN HITLER OUT!"
"PRESS ASSERTS, BUT EDEN IS DUBIOUS."
With the war's end in sight, then, President Roosevelt was going over the lines of a short speech in which he sought to convince his listeners that peace was possible, that war was an outrage, that all should be cast out who doubted the ability of men to find their peace on earth.

And then he died.

To a visitor, perhaps the most lasting impression of the "Little White House" is its stark simplicity.

It was a comfortable, but plain, vacation home, built by FDR in 1932. It isn't big, its furnishings are inexpensive maple, the walls are dark-pine panel. The bare varnished floors are only occasionally covered by simple throw rugs. A 10 cent mosaic set in the middle of the pantry floor beside an old-fashioned ice cream freezer which turns by hand and not far from an icebox which required real ice blocks for its coolant.

This was a rich and powerful citizen of the world, but when he "got away from it all" he obviously had no urge for luxury.

The glory and the power of the place are outside, beyond an open sundeck. There falls off a valley, murmuring, crowded with tall pines, becragged, carpeted with needles. It faces the west and the colored sunsets must have been awesome.

Five years ago Bill Farwell started out to "cash in" on Christmas. He was going to get into the Santa Claus business by going into homes on Christmas Eve.

He bought a $12 suit and ran an advertisement offering his services for a nominal price.

He made $35 that first year, but he discovered something. More than the money he made, he enjoyed making Christmas merry for the kids. So since then, he has quit charging.

Bill has the best Santa outfit in town and has to turn down twice as many calls as he makes.

A few days before Christmas Bill spends some time at the First Federal Bank in Plymouth, talking with the youngsters. It was while he was at the bank that he ran into trouble.

"What would you like for Christmas?" Santa Bill asked a little girl. "Why Santa, don't you remember? I told you yesterday," she replied. Bill was on the spot. Thinking quickly he said, "Why yes. You wanted a doll."

The little girl was happy. Santa had remembered.

Santa Bill makes about 400 children happy every year. He can visit 30 homes on Christmas Eve, if he runs to and from the car at every home.

"I have to turn down twice as many calls as I make," replied Bill regretfully, "and I have to limit my stops to Plymouth because of the time element."

Bill is usually booked up the first week in December. One year he was so busy that it slipped his mind to buy presents for his family. Luckily he got off the hook. Just how he

President Roosevelt chose this site to build because of beauty and serenity of the natural setting. In such a place was this last, undelivered speech composed by a tired, worn man whose hand shook when he signed his name and who had deep lines in his face such as most of the world never saw there.

"Even as I speak these words," wrote the President, "I can hear an old, old chorus. You have heard it, too. You will hear more of it as we go forward with the work at hand."

His "work at hand" was constructing the peace. It is the chorus coming from the defeatists, the cynics, the perfectionists—and the world's sad aggregation of timid souls who tell us, for one reason or another, IT CAN'T BE DONE."

Then FDR explained that these people had a "kind of worship for the horror of war... they endow it with immortality... they certify it to us as the ultimate fate of mankind on earth."

But he said, "You and I don't stand in awe and adoration. We don't think war deserves it. You and I are not willing to concede that we were put here on earth for no better purpose."

He said, cheerfully, that he believed the "cult of the faint-hearted was dying out, for the first time becoming a minority belief."

"Today as we move against the terrible scourge of war, and as we go forward toward the greatest contribution any generation of human beings can make in this world—the contribution of lasting peace—I ask you to keep your faith..."

"The only limit to our realization of tomorrow will be our doubts of today!"

It's a long time in distance and time from Warm Springs, Georgia on April 11, 1945 to Bethlehem on the first Christmas, but there is identity between the typewritten words on the sheets of paper here and the melodies heard in the skies of Judea.

Christ came to give men hope of peace, to urge them to acquire a true set of ideals, to establish what was important in life and what was vain.

FDR, only 24 hours from his death, decried the "awe and adoration" paid by men to the horror of war and scorched those who said that self-destruction was the "ultimate fate of mankind on earth."

Christ represents the family of God; FDR represents the world of practical politics. They struck their conclusions from totally different positions and with different degrees of authority.

Today we are a nervous, apprehensive world. The mental clinics are loaded, our youth have drifted in record numbers into mischief and crime, our adults are hard-bitten and cynical, our society drifts without any particular purpose other than tomorrow night's martini and a bigger car next week and a fancier home next year.

It is as if everyone despairs, expecting quick doom, probably by hydrogen explosion, sooner or later.

The message of Christmas says such thinking is wrong.

It can be read in the pages of Luke—or, for a traveler, on some sheets of paper in a display case in Warm Springs, Ga., among the pines and rocks and hills which turn blood-red in the sunset and which soothed a former President.

Another Rough Night for Santa Bill

By Lee Sechler

Five years ago Bill Farwell started out to "cash in" on Christmas. He was going to get into the Santa Claus business by going into homes on Christmas Eve.

He bought a $12 suit and ran an advertisement offering his services for a nominal price.

He made $35 that first year, but he discovered something. More than the money he made, he enjoyed making Christmas merry for the kids. So since then, he has quit charging.

Bill has the best Santa outfit in town and has to turn down twice as many calls as he makes.

A few days before Christmas Bill spends some time at the First Federal Bank in Plymouth, talking with the youngsters. It was while he was at the bank that he ran into trouble.

"What would you like for Christmas?" Santa Bill asked a little girl. "Why Santa, don't you remember? I told you yesterday," she replied. Bill was on the spot. Thinking quickly he said, "Why yes. You wanted a doll."

The little girl was happy. Santa had remembered.

Santa Bill makes about 400 children happy every year. He can visit 30 homes on Christmas Eve, if he runs to and from the car at every home.

"I have to turn down twice as many calls as I make," replied Bill regretfully, "and I have to limit my stops to Plymouth because of the time element."

Whether to construct a $3 million high school or to build additions to the present building and erect a new junior high at a cost of $2.3 million were the questions debated in the normally quiet air of the Junior High Library last week by the School Facilities Committee.

Forty citizens listened intently as the committee presented two alternatives — Plan A (for high school additions) and Plan B (completely new building). And while the group did not attempt to make a recommendation at this time, it appeared evident that the majority felt that a new building was "the most economically sound."

The subject of making additions to the present high school had not come up when the school board decided last month to ask for a bond issue to finance a new building. They had given it some study last spring and felt it impractical at that time.

But when the School Facilities Committee held its organizational meeting two weeks ago with 200 attending, many taxpayers asked if it weren't more economical to add classrooms to the present high school than to build a new one.

Dr. Frederick Foust, chairman of the Secondary School Facilities Committee, had turned the question of "additions versus new school" over to four school board members and the high school principal, Carvel Bentley, who came up with some figures on the matter last Wednesday night. Their report, they explained, was compiled with the assistance of an architect, two building engineers and several secondary administrators.

It was pointed out that constructing additions to the present building would not solve the enrollment problem. More space for Junior High pupils is also needed. The school board next fall wants to make the ninth grade part of the Junior High System, but there are rooms for only 150 members (half) of the freshman class at the Junior High. These 150 must be moved, however, to make room in the high school for the other classes.

It has been the plan that if a new senior high is built, the old senior high would be converted to junior high use. But if additions are made to the present senior high, a new junior high must be built.

These are the figures released by the committee:

Plan A (additions to high school)
New Jr. High (900 student capacity)	$1,500,000
Addition to High School (400 students)	802,000
Total	$2,302,000
The high school addition in detail:
Classrooms for 400 at $1,500 per pupil	$ 600,000
Machine, welding shops, library addition	30,000
More boiler facilities	40,000
Parking lot	40,000
Equipment	50,000
Architect fees	42,000
Total	$ 802,000

This plan provides for 1,500 students. In 1964 there will be at least 1,550 students in the upper three grades. Enrollment-wise, this would be a dead-end approach since the building could hardly be expanded any further.

It is planned to build a new high school that could be easily expanded if necessary.

The planners also claim that a third junior high would be needed in 1968 under Plan A.

Using an enlarged drawing of the present high school site, Board Treasurer Harold Fischer explained Plan A in detail. His explanation covered the following points:

1. Boiler facilities at the present high school site would have to be removed. A new power plant would be constructed on the present athletic fields.

2. Expanded parking area would eliminate some of the present athletic area.

3. Size of the present school site (11 acres) is too restrictive. Fischer pointed out on the drawing the areas that would need to be purchased or condemned.

Colorgrature Magazine Makes Debut Next Week

"Suburbia Today," a sparkling new colorgrature magazine devoted to those living in America's fast-growing suburbs, will make its debut in The Plymouth Mail next week.

This newspaper will be among 143 top-flight weeklies across the nation selected to include the magazine section in its regular editions once a month.

The colorful supplement, edited specifically to the basic interests of the readers of newspapers such as this, is directed to the home-owning families who have constituted the modern march to the suburbs.

Readers will receive the first issue January 8 and in the first full week every month thereafter. There will be no increase in price.

Readers all over the country living in suburban areas which now publishes the highly successful "Family Weekly," a supplement included with many daily newspapers, "Suburbia Today," however, will have its own staff of men and women who know personally the interests of suburban families.

"It will be the editorial purpose of 'Suburbia Today' to reflect the good taste, the social gaiety, friendly frivolity and serious purposes of family life in the selected suburban communities," the publishers say.

The 143 newspapers including the magazine are located around 47 key cities and will go into a million homes.

In the premiere issue next week, there will be articles such as "What's Ahead in 1959?", giving a capsule preview of the shape of things to come.

Readers will also find articles on suburban life in the gas light era, how to arrange a kitchen for supreme convenience, new ways to prepare kabobs, and a column on "Books, Movies and Records."

The magazine will be published by the same firm

Symphony Ball Shifts Scene To Junior High

The Plymouth Symphony's "Christmas Ball" will be held in the gymnasium of the Junior High School, instead of the Senior High School as previously announced.

At 9:30 the night of Saturday, December 27, Phil Cole's orchestra will strike the opening chords of a brilliant ball, probably the most beautiful in the history of the affair.

Tables will be placed about the center dance floor and will be covered with pastels, cloths and small centerpieces. Refreshments will be available and a cloak room will be manned for heavy outer clothing.

Tickets are still available, but should be purchased soon since there are only a limited number available. They are $4 a couple, and if the purchaser is not handy to Caplin's, the Mayflower Hotel, Beyer's Drugs or Cassady's in Plymouth, he may order tickets by calling Mrs. Robert Webber in Plymouth.

Bob Jenkins, the chairman of the Ball, announces that in addition to Mrs. Webber who is in charge of tickets sales, several other committees are organized. Dor Marsden will be in charge of table arrangements, and Mrs. Shirley Snowden is in charge of decorations.

Mail Peak Hits Late

Think you're busy this Christmas season? You ought to go to the post office.

At press time on Monday, Postmaster George Timpona predicted a bigger year than last, mail-wise. On Saturday, however, mail was on the decrease by 10 per cent. Timpona registered dismay — he wondered whether people were hoarding stamps or just late in getting out mail. Some 300,000 3-cent stamps were sold in two weeks, but were not seen on many letters and packages.

Timpona asserted that the peak for mailing should have been Friday, but with laxity on that day post office employees looked to Monday for the deluge. (A peak is determined by the number of machine cancellations, the GOODFELLOWS were extremely cold-fellows Saturday when they sold their special editions and took in a record $1,850, about $150 more than last year. Goodfellows will be packing and distributing their gifts this Wednesday. This Santa Goodfellow is shown chatting with a good customer.

Taxes Keep Going Up But Rate Still Same

Have taxes gone up — or haven't they? To those who have received tax bills within the past month this seems like a silly question. Rare indeed is the property owner who isn't paying a higher tax bill. So why does anyone question if taxes have gone up?

Despite the higher taxes being paid in, those receiving the taxes — the school district, Plymouth Township and Wayne County — claim that they haven't raised the tax rate. And oddly enough, they haven't.

For instance, three weeks ago at the public meeting at which new high school facilities were discussed, someone asked about taxes going up. School Board President Austin Stecker replied that the school tax rate has been the same (21.95 mills) for many years.

How, then, can taxes go up without someone raising the tax rate?

City Assessor Kenneth Way and Plymouth Township Treasurer Elizabeth Holmes say that explaining this phenomenon is quite an ordeal. Most taxpayers can't quite grasp the complicated explanation. It wasn't too many years

B & PW Induct 11 Members At Smorgasbord

Following a Smorgasbord Dinner at Hillside Inn, on December 15, the local Business and Professional Women's Club held the induction of 11 new members with Miss Evelyn K. Burke, second vice president of the state federation, officiating.

This was followed by presentation of pins, by the officers, President Mary J. Wagenshutz, Vice President Velma Bariel, Recording Secretary Florence Neal, Corresponding Secretary Betty Marquis, and Treasurer Gertrude Reitzel, on:

Constance Aldrich, Mary Ellsworth, Mary Ellen Hosier, Ludmilla Jackson, Jean Lee, Ruth Mayer, Peggy Pertola, Daisy Proctor, Doris Root, Dorothy Sciba and Lucille Williams.

The announcement was made that the District Meeting would be held at Hawthorne Valley on January 17, at 3:30 p.m.

In place of a gift exchange each member present made a contribution to be used for local Christmas charity.

Cards were sung by the group, following Agnes Pauline's telling of a Christmas story, "The Caravan" from a collection of Christmas stories by Ruth Sawyer.

Yuletide Ceremony Unites Joyce Farrell, Jerry Bryan

Miss Joyce Marie Farrell and Mr. Jerry Edward Bryan were united in a Christmas-mood double ring ceremony at the First Baptist Church in Northville on Saturday evening, December 20 at 8 p.m.

Pastor Peter Nieuwkoop officiated. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Basil Farrell of 700 North Sheldon Road. Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bryan of Abilene, Texas are parents of the groom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white chantilly lace over satin, accented by a round lace scalloped neckline, a small scalloped lace collar, and long pointed lace sleeves. The dress also featured a chapel length train. A finger tip veil of illusion, which fell from a small headpiece of lace and seed pearls, completed the lovely picture.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Wendell Evans of Greenville, South Carolina, a former roommate of the bride at Bob Jones University. Mrs. Wendell wore a street-length dress of red velvet with a V-neckline and long pointed sleeves and carried a white muff with garlands of holly and a red poinsettia blossom.

The bridesmaids, Miss Patricia Benjamin of Ypsilanti, a college friend of the couple, and Mrs. Edward McKean of Wayne, wore identically styled dresses and carried the white flowers.

The flower girls, Mary and Martha Bryan, sisters of the groom, donned short red velvet dresses for the wedding. Soloist for the pretty ceremony was Mr. Fred Crawford of Detroit with Miss Kathleen Boutwell of Livonia at the organ. Selections were "A Wedding Prayer," and "Saviour, Like a Shepherd Lead Us."

Best man was Mr. Fred P. Bryan of Abilene, Texas, the brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Mr. Wendell Evans of Greenville, South Carolina and Mr. James Frank of Greenville, Michigan, a college friend of the groom. The two also acted as ushers, with Mr. David Bryan, brother of the bridegroom assisting.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. For a wedding trip to Abilene, Texas, the bride wore a kelly green wool sheath dress with brown accessories and a beige clutch coat. After December 28, the couple will live at Bob Jones University in Greenville, South Carolina.

Social Security Tips Before You Retire

Will you retire during the coming year? If so, you should get in touch with your social security office two or three months in advance to file a claim and present what proofs are necessary for your old-age benefits. By filing at your social security office two or three months before you expect to retire you can have your claim in order for quick payment of your benefits when due.

When you call, be sure and bring along your social security card. This may seem hardly worth mentioning, but it is important. You're an individual as far as the social security people are concerned, but since the odds are several thousand other people in the country have the same name as yours, we must have your social security number to check your record of earnings.

Speaking of earnings, if you work for wages or salary bring along your statement of last year's earnings. This will be shown on Form W-2 received from your employer. Otherwise, we may have to write to your employer for this information. This could delay the processing of your claim. On the other hand, you may have been running a trade or business of your own. If so, bring a copy of your entire Income Tax Return for last year.

If you have the cancelled check or money order stub from payment of the tax, bring this too. It's a good idea too, to bring along proof of your age. This should not be any problem because so many types of proofs are acceptable. For instance, if you don't have a birth certificate, chances are you do have a baptismal record, or an old insurance policy, a family Bible or a marriage record.

If none of these are available, the folks at the social security office will tell you of a number of other acceptable documents. It takes time to get together the proofs needed to document your claim. To get a record of all your payments you are entitled to receive—to get your first check in the mail. The difficulty in securing any one proof could delay your first payment by several weeks. Don't let this happen to you.

Remember, if you want to be sure your claim for benefits goes through quickly, get in touch with your social security office two or three months before you expect to retire. Don't gamble with your future—Inquire before you retire.

Lyle Levelles Make Home In City Following Honeymoon

Altar vases filled with white mums provided the backdrop for the 11:30 a.m. wedding ceremony at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church on November 15, which united Miss Judith Ann Monteith and Mr. Lyle H. Leveille.

The pretty bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Monteith of 442 Adams; the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lyle V. Leveille of Canton Center Road.

Miss Monteith donned a floor length satin gown featuring a lace bodice, long pointed sleeves and a sabinra neckline and carried an orchid and baby mums on a white bible. A chapel length train and a fingertip illusion veil and jeweled crown completed the costume.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Janet Hessler, who wore a light green taffeta gown, with rounded neckline and short sleeves. The dress was accented by dark green velvet trim. Mrs. Hessler wore mits matching her dress and carried yellow mums.

Wearing a similar gown, Miss Margaret Leveille acted as bridesmaid. Her dress was tangerine and trimmed in dark brown velvet. She also carried mums and wore matching mits. Both attendants wore a headpiece with a circular veil.

Best man was Carl Leveille and usher was Brent Schultz. Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Knights of Columbus Hall. One hundred guests from Plymouth, Flint, Bay City, Redford and Detroit were present.

For a one-week wedding trip to the Upper Peninsula and Wisconsin Mrs. Leveille wore a red wool sheath, gray accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The bride graduated in 1954 from Plymouth High School and is employed at the First National Bank. The groom is a graduate of Engadine, Michigan High School and served in the Marine Corps for three years. He is presently employed at the Bell Telephone Company. The couple will make their new home at 876 Irvin Street, Plymouth.

LOTS OF ARTISTIC talent goes into the decorations for the Symphony Ball, being held this Saturday at the Junior High.

No Easy Job, This Decorating For Gay Symphony Ball Affair

Amid the sparkling confusion of over 10 dozen snowflakes and numerous paint sprayers, is Mrs. Shirley Snowden, valiantly quarterbacking the enormous job of providing the decorations for the Plymouth Symphony "Christmas Ball."

As other folks the country over prepare to tackle the job of Christmas, Shirley, and a really harried crew, do their Christmas assignments and devote evenings, weekends and sometimes whole days to the job of decorating a high school gymnasium so that it will look like a Winter Wonderland.

The 10 dozen snowflakes, the glittering bandstand backdrop of ice, snow, a shimmering silvery lyre, a smiling snow-queen and all the organization that these effects require are the inspired work of the very talented and hardworking Shirley Snowden.

Shirley was an art major at MSU and after graduation, followed a career of store decorating both in the Detroit area and in Lansing. She laughs off the almost super-human job she's doing by saying, "Oh, this is my work, and I just love doing it."

Hanging from the ceiling in the center of the dance floor will be the benign "Snow Queen," lighted by four spotlights, as she touches the nearby snowflakes (pastels sparkling with silver), with her magical wand.

Snowflakes will also hang from the ceiling over the rest of the floor, turning gently in the air, reflecting the lights, sparkling as if to suggest the fall of a blanket of snow.

The two big doors opening into the Gym will look like gateposts after a heavy snow: silvery, encrusted with snow.

Behind the bandstand huge valances of cheesecloth will be draped suggesting the snow-covered hills of a fairy tale. Here and there the snow will glitter in the light.

At the end of the bandstand the snow-cloth will drop two Grecian columns. Across the room from the bandstand, against two big doors, a silver lyre, sitting in a bed of ice and snow, will balance the room.

Shirley's talent is obvious, but the enthusiasm she generates in everyone near her is less so. It takes a person of unusual tact, kindness and artistry to urge her husband, Ray, from the snug comfort of their home to assist with the hanging of the cheesecloth.

Ray is being helped in turn by Jerry Thaden and Jim Randall. Shirley has enlisted the help of Joan Coslow, Shirley Thaden and Rosemary Kooiman in spraying the snowflakes. (Not pictured is another girl-Friday, Harriett Randall, in whose basement most of the silver may be found.)

The sparkle of the Ball can be outdone only by the sparkle of Shirley Snowden, whose voice, face, actions and whole life are the sparkle of life itself, or the rare and beautiful sparkle of the world after a snow-storm.

GREAT LAKES, Ill. (PH-TNC) — Sherman L. Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace A. Thompson of 41090 E. Ann Arbor Trail, graduated from recruit training Dec. 13 at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

The graduation exercises, marking the end of nine weeks of "boot camp," included a full dress parade and review before military officials and civilian dignitaries.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Brummett of Ann Arbor, celebrating their 50th Wedding Anniversary, were honored at a dinner in the home of their daughter, Mrs. Elma Renwick of Plymouth.

Present at the recent dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Renwick, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Renwick, and Mrs. Henry L. Johnson and family. Guests from Plymouth, South Lyon, and Northville dropped in throughout the afternoon and evening.

Girl Scout Report:

Girl Scout Troop 257 helped to make Christmas a happier one for a group of children living at the Michigan Children's Institute in Ann Arbor. The scouts made 18 individual boxes of gifts, several dozen cookies and a number of stuffed toys.

Along with the joy of sharing, the girls earned several badges by actually making each item. The gifts were wrapped at the home of Mrs. Alice Fisher, the leaders of the group. Vivian Rahlh and then delivered by Mrs. Rahlh and Mrs. the group.

Redford Rallies To Take Rocks, 55-49

A fourth quarter rally by Redford Union nullified the sparkling three quarter exhibition of basketball, as Redford defeated Plymouth 55-49 in the last game of the '58 season.

Plymouth will resume play after the holidays, when they travel to Allen Park.

The loss Thursday night was the fourth in as many starts and the second in conference play, but was the best game the Rocks have played. If the Rocks keep improving as they have, '59 will unveil a winning team.

Plymouth got off to a fast start by scoring first and running the score to seven before the Panthers managed to collect two points.

The Rocks, playing havoc with the Panthers' zone de-

Big Harry Munger of Redford tied the score on a foul shot. A few minutes later Randy Egloff put the Rocks back in the lead. With the quarter only three minutes and two seconds old, Wilkinson tied the score at 43 all. Five seconds later, Harry Munger stole the ball and put the Panthers ahead.

Redford proceeded to run the score up to 51 before Plymouth could score. Wade Schultheiss then scored three points, a lay-up shot and one at the charity line. Randy Egloff stepped to the free throw line to make the scoreboard read 47-51, favor of Redford.

Larry Wells scored the last basket for the Rocks, while John Kraft went on to add two more tallies for the Panthers.

Redford JV's Drop Plymouth

The Plymouth JV's were over-powered by Redford Union 62-43, in the last game of the '58 season. After the holiday vacation the Rocks will open against Allen Park, at Allen Park.

The loss was the second for the JV's, in league competition.

Plymouth led at the end of the half by a margin of 22-13. Redford then came to life in the second half, outscoring the local cagers 49-21.

Brown of Redford, was top scorer of the evening with 25. Ralston led Plymouth with 11 points.

Winter's A Good Time To Apply New Roof

In most parts of the country a new roof of asphalt shingles can be applied in winter as well as in other seasons, says Andrew C. Lang, author of the book, "Home Repairs."

One advantage of reroofing in winter, says Lang, is that work schedules of roofing contractors are not as heavy in cold weather as they are during the warmer months.

The combined state police forces in this country today total only about 22,000 men.

During this merriest season of the year, we send our greetings and good wishes to all our cherished friends and neighbors. May your Holidays be bright with all the joys of Yuletide. May they find you in good health and leave you lighter in heart, happier in spirits — looking forward with confidence to the year ahead and all that it holds for you and yours.

SPORTSEEN

By Lee Sechler

From the first jump to the last buzzer there was CHEERING. It came from all sides and filled the gym. It flowed into the halls and out doors. WE may have lost the basketball game to Redford Union but the spectators were not disappointed in the showing the much improved varsity made. They look better every game.

The varsity should and will develop into a better team in the '59 competition. In fact I'll go on record as saying I think brighter days are ahead for them and coach Doyle. (Don't let me down fellows.)

The Plymouth cheerleaders do a great job of organizing the student body. At Trenton they were faced with large odds, but led the Plymouth fans to a yelling victory over the Trenton rooting section.

Saw a couple of new guys in the pool the other night after swim practice. Seems the two are swimming from here to Lansing in the pool. Maybe you know them. One is Percy Puddinfoot and the other is Herman Slouthwater. Percy is a traveling bullfighter, or something like that, and Herman works in a correctional institution. At the present time Percy is about a mile ahead of Herman. Watch this space for progress reports of our brave swimmers. For you mathematical people it takes 72 laps to make one mile.

When we played Ypsilanti I saw a couple of bottle blonds on the front row. Well, it's been three weeks since that first game and the girls disappeared from the sports scene. Thursday night they were back on the front row, but one was a different color. Maybe she mixed the "stuff" wrong. My grandmother has grey hair but not like that. Oh, well maybe that's the new color for basketball season.

Need a last minute gift for a sportsman? No idea what to get? Stop in and talk to Bill Knapp in the basement of Davis and Lent. Bill would be glad to help you pick the right equipment for that man.

Next week we'll take a look at old records from Plymouth high's sports record file. And find out what happened to some of the former athletes.

Breaks Own Record In Swim Victory

Don Williams, who last week set a new team record for the 100 yd. breast-stroke, broke his last meet time as Plymouth sunk Redford Union 75-21 last Thursday night.

Don swam the 100 yd. breast-stroke in 1:15.4 against Trenton and beat that time at the Redford meet. His time this week was 1:14.9.

The swimmers will take a holiday rest, meeting Allen Park on the eighth of January. Allen Park, also a member of the Suburban Six League, should be tougher competition than Redford Union.

The Rocks invaded the panthers pool and swam away with most of the honors to take its second conference win, in as many starts.

Although the Plymouth swimmers had a field day, it must be remembered that this is the Panthers' first swim team. Given a little experience they might develop into a better group.

The Rocks captured first places in the ten events and finished in one, two order in six events.

Results of meet:
50 yd. freestyle: 1. Art Helm, Plymouth, Time 26.7, 2. Dave Read, Plymouth, Time 27.4, 3. Ed Ferris, Redford.

100 yd. butterfly breast-stroke: 1. Dick Gretzinger, Plymouth, Time 1:07.4, 2. Robert Daley, Plymouth, Time 1:09.3, 3. Milton Pollock, Redford.

200 yd. free-style: 1. Beau Toll, Plymouth, Time 2:13.5, 2. Ron Daley, Plymouth, Time 2:14.2, 3. Doug Groves, Redford.

100 yd. backstroke: 1. Karl Melow, Plymouth, Time 1:05.9, 2. Rick Williams, Redford, Time 1:08.0, 3. Allen Davies, Plymouth.

DAVE SCOTT is complying with the rules in the background as he clears the board in a practice session. This is Dave's first year as a diver and if he keeps improving, by the end of the season he will be top notch.

Frosh Suffer First Defeat

The freshman basketball team suffered its first loss of the season as Redford Union outscored them 26-19.

Last week the freshman team dropped Riley 41-20.

Stremich was high point man for Plymouth scoring seven on two field goals and three charity throws.

Thomas Edison invented the phonograph in 1877.

Lake Pointers Delighted With Holiday Weather

BY MARCY BARTSON
GL. 3-6729

This is the week of the most wonderful of all holidays — Christmas. We hope that everyone has one of the happiest Christmases ever. May all the things that you have been wanting and wishing for come to you this most blessed of all days.

I guess everyone must have been so busy preparing for all the festivities that no one had time to call and tell us what the latest news in Lake Pointe is. Due to this, our column is going to be a short one. We do hope that some of you will call to tell us some of the details about your Christmas! Let's see how many different ways the day was celebrated. Won't you call and share your experiences with us for next week's column?

Bonnie Coons had her mother, Mrs. William Bruce, visit with her last week. Mrs. Bruce is from Tecumseh, Mich. and enjoyed her visit to Hudson's Northland while she was here. The bright twinkling lights and decorations there really fascinated her.

Bonnie tells me that the Newcomers Club Christmas party was a great deal of fun. An estimated number of 48 couples and their guests were present. The party was held at Fox Hills Country Club. Lake Pointe, with at least 20 couples from our Village being there, was well represented.

The door prizes were won by a few of our friends. The Heids won a camera, the Phelans, a box of candy, and the Coons won a cute Christmas design ash tray.

Bonnie and Bill had a lovely cocktail party at their home before leaving for the dance. Their guests included the Bolducs and Tom and Gerry Bonnell (isn't that the most holiday sounding name you've ever heard?) Tom and Jerry are new to our Village and live on Brentwood Drive.

Also present were Sue and Art Griebel of Livonia, and Mildred and Dick Vollick of Plymouth.

Two meetings have been held recently by the Lake Pointe Homeowners Association. The first one was held at Art Haeske's home, and the latter at Jim Kratzner's residence. Mr. Albert Glassford, the City Manager, spoke at this meeting. Afterwards there was an open discussion period. More news on these meetings in the future.

Nancy and Barb Armstrong have been enjoying the winter weather immensely. They go ice skating in the evenings down at Lake Wilcox and find it lots of fun. Nancy says that it's wonderful here for all the winter sports. They have been skiing several times up at Mount Holly. Bob rents his skis while Nancy has all of her own equipment. Nancy has been enjoying this sport for quite awhile now. She attended Bradford Junior College and while there she indulged in all of the marvelous winter sports of New Hampshire and Vermont.

The Armstrongs are getting ready to leave for Akron, Ohio for a four day visit with Nancy's mother. Nancy tells me that they have traveled to Akron about six times in the past few months. Merry Christmas to all of our friends! And a gain, please take a few moments out of your busy day to call and tell us about your Christmas. The number is GL. 3-6729.

A mineral that has puzzled scientists since a small quantity was found 11 years ago in New Hampshire has been identified from recent discovery of relatively rich specimens in Bavaria and named in honor of a German mineralogist.

Gerald Pease

Election of new officers at Fox Hills Country Club placed with Gerald Pease as president. Other officers are: vice-president, Charles Sawyer; secretary-treasurer, Casey Partridge; board members, Jack Westmeyer, Edward Hanks, Steve Paslaski and Robert Holland. The new president, owner of Pease Paint & Wallpaper, will lead the Country Club through its second season as a private golf course.

Third Grader Wins Phone Co. Art Competition

An eight-year-old Plymouth boy won a top award in the annual "What Christmas Means to Me" art contest sponsored by The Michigan Bell, employee publication of Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

Dale Dirlam, 9264 Morrison Street, was Grade 3 honorable mention award winner for his drawing of Santa Claus walking through the snow and carrying a big sack over his shoulder.

His explanatory note which accompanied the drawing read: "Merry Christmas means Santa Claus to me because when children think of him, it makes all of us happy."

According to Mr. William Dunn, the local telephone manager, Dale was among 440 children in Michigan Bell territory who submitted drawings in color, with accompanying letters, for this year's contest.

The annual contest is open to children in the first through the sixth grades who are related to Michigan Bell employees.

Charles McConnells Observe Golden Wedding on Jan. 1

A gathering for friends and neighbors on New Year's Day at their home is the event planned for the celebration of the 50th Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McConnell, 170 North Harvey.

The couple was married New Year's Day, 1909 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Weiher, with Reverend Innis officiating. Mr. McConnell has since beaten the '50' mark — he's been barbering for 53 years and still owns a shop on Penniman.

Expected to take part in the merry-making are the couple's daughter, Mrs. James Stark, her husband and daughter Sherrie, all of Farwell, Michigan. The Plymouth Grange is holding a New Year's Eve Open House in honor of the couple.

A Merry Christmas is the wish of your columnist, and my earnest prayer is that each and every one of you remember the little Christ Child who was born in a lowly manger on Christmas Day. I think many of us are apt to get so involved in the spirit of Christmas giving that we forget the real meaning of this special day. If we would put Christ back in Christmas, and show a little more love for one another instead of all the rushing around buying gifts etc. I am sure we would all be much happier.

Mr. and Mrs. (Jack and Wanda) Young attended the Hockey game last Sunday, at the Olympia. The game being played between the Montreal Canadiens, and the Red Wings, of course I think they were slightly disappointed because the Canadians won.

I asked Wanda how the first son Jackie was. If you remember Jackie was just recovering from bronchial pneumonia last week. His mother said his condition was very much improved. As for Christmas they are to spend the day with Wanda's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harman of Belleveau St., Plymouth.

A call to the Max Preston home revealed a birthday celebration for their daughter, Mrs. Lee Rowe. They were entertaining at dinner Mr. and Mrs. Lee Rowe and children Leanne and Scott, from Wayne.

A wee little visitor in the Vern Sturm home was Barb and Vern's new little grandson, Richard Harold Martin (Ricky) born November 12th, weighing in at 8 pounds, 4 1/2 ounces. Of course Barb says she was babysitting while the new parents, Pat and Harold were finishing up their Christmas shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson and family are making plans to spend the Christmas holiday with their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ace Hutchin of Brighton.

Holiday visitors in the Dewey Stamper home will be Mrs. (Betty) Stamper's brother Tom and his family. Tom and Wanda Roberts and three children, formerly of Green Meadows, and now living in Covina, Cal., will spend two weeks visiting in Plymouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sweeney are slowly recovering from injuries received in a car accident on August 18 near Findlay, Ohio. They were confined to the hospital for five weeks. Mr. Sweeney suffered a severe back injury and must wear a back brace for some time. Mrs.

Sweeney suffered fractures to both legs, pelvis and the breast bone. Three trips have been made to the hospital, by ambulance, for treatment. Another trip must be made on Jan. 2. The Sweeneys were on vacation when the accident happened. With them in the car were Mrs. Sweeney's two sisters and one child. They were injured also but not seriously. James Sweeney, the Sweeney's oldest son and his wife and wife's mother will visit with them over the Holidays.

Another member on the sick list is Lewis (Red) Foster, who suffered a heart attack Saturday, Dec. 13. He was taken by ambulance, to the St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor where he was immediately placed in an oxygen tent, where he remained until Tuesday, in critical condition. After several tests and observation it was determined on Thursday that Red was suffering spasms of the main artery to the heart restricting the flow of blood. He was allowed up for short intervals on Sunday, his wife hopes to have him home for Christmas, if his condition continues to improve.

Dinner guests Thursday evening in the Stace home were Mr. and Mrs. James Redd (formerly Beverly Stace), Mrs. Earl Redd, Jim's mother and his younger brother Rickey. The occasion being in honor of Bev's birthday, Friday, Dec. 19.

Home for the holidays — Richard and Donald Russell, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Russell, will be home from Fort Ord, Cal., where they are stationed with the Army.

Grange Gleanings

The Christmas party of last Thursday night was a really wonderful success, about the best we have ever had. Everyone enjoyed the evening immensely. There were well over 100 present. The program was splendid and showed a great deal of work time and patience on the part of the lecturer.

There was a tableau with the three wise men, a baby in the crib, a candle-light procession, selections on the accordion, songs by a group of women and recitations by several of the small folks. All were very good.

Remember our New Year's Eve party. Cards, dancing and general visiting will be in order — just a friendly get-together.

Our next meeting is our usual pot luck supper and owing to the regular date being New Year's the meeting has been changed to Friday night, January 9. Don't get mixed up on the date — it's Friday instead of Thursday night.

Sister Leila Butts was in St. Joseph's hospital several weeks ago during the early fall but is now very pleasantly situated at the Chelsea Methodist Home, where she will be well taken care of.

We have another one of those good suppers coming on January 24 and I hope to have the menu for you next week.

Mima Carruthers

Following an illness of several months, Mrs. Mima Carruthers, 89, of 901 North Rosevere Street, Dearborn, passed away Friday, December 19 in her home at 10:45 a.m.

A member of the First Presbyterian Church in Plymouth, Mrs. Carruthers was born October 12, 1869 in Glencoe, Ontario, Canada, the daughter of John and Ellen (Nelson) Newbigging. She was married to Charles John Carruthers April 30, 1904. He preceded her in death in 1946. Surviving is one daughter, Mrs. Margaret Downs of Dearborn, Michigan and four grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Monday at 1 p.m. from the Schrader Funeral Home with Reverend Henry J. Walsh D.D. officiating. Interment was in Riverside Cemetery. Pallbearers were Fred Ebeling, Carl Chapin, Warren Eddie, Hazen Eddie, Gardner Eddie and Edward Ebert.

Small, fringed terry cloth hand towels make good place mats at the children's lunch table.

Library Closing Hours

Dunning - Hough Library will close at 4 p.m. on both Christmas Eve and New Years Eve. Librarian Agnes Pauline announced this week.

Taxes Keep Going Up

They should be. So instead of raising values on properties that are considered low, ALL assessments are raised 10 percent.

This year, the Wayne County Bureau of Taxation made a complete re-assessment of the city of Plymouth. City commissioners decided not to adopt the new figures, claiming they were not equitable. But the county tax people figured that the city's total assessment was 10 percent low. So this, added to the state's 10 percent hike for all of Wayne County, raised the city's valuation 20 percent.

This figure does not show up on the tax bills. To make figuring of tax bills easy, the city assessor has come up with a "multiplier." If city property owners multiply their assessment by 41.38 mills, they will have their tax bill. Of this amount, 31.58 is for schools and 9.80 is for the county. (City taxes are paid in July.) The actual set tax rate is 21.95 mills for schools and 3.80 for the county.

Synthetic rubber is not a true synthetic because it is not a chemical twin of the natural product.

Alava, Wash., is the western-most town in the United States.

Tax bills going out to Plymouth Township taxpayers had a specially-made sticker for each bill breaking down the taxes.

Using the "multiplier" method, Township property owners paid 28.56 mills to the school district, 2.22 mills to the township and 8.36 to the county.

This would seem to indicate that city property owners are paying higher school and county taxes than those in Plymouth Township. In the eyes of county and state tax authorities, this indicates that Plymouth Township's assessments are closer to what they should be than in the city.

There is one more logical question. If governments and the school district are receiving higher tax returns, why don't they lower their tax rate?

The school board has frankly admitted that if it were not for the equalization factors, their 21.95 mill tax rate would have gone up long ago because of increased costs of operating more buildings.

It was in 1955 that equalization made its first appearance following a court action. In 1958 the city of Plymouth's valuation went up about 10 percent through equalization; in 1957 it was raised another 10 percent; and this year there is an added 20 percent — or a total hike of valuations through equalization of 40 percent since 1956.

In 1953, when the school district reached the 21.95 mill level, its local tax income was $715,990. Today, with the same tax rate, local taxes raise $1,383,845 — over twice the 1953 amount.

While a certain amount of this could be due to new construction, equalization was the big factor. The recent reduction of assessments of utilities by the state also hurt here somewhat. Plymouth Township lost $225,940 in valuation through the action while the city lost about $100,000.

Build New School

4. Cost of property adjacent to present 11-acre site is high. One parcel investigated by board, 77 feet wide, was quoted at $35,000.

5. An estimate was made by Architect Byron Becker last spring setting the estimated remodeling cost at $354,000.

"Of course," Mrs. Esther Hulsing, board member, warned, "when you talk about construction costs for remodeling you must remember that it is at best an educated guess. We have consulted people that should know better than we do."

Plan B (New Building). 1. Cost estimate, including swimming pool and auditorium, $3,000,000. 2. New high school would be built for 1,500, but like the present building, which is over its intended use, could handle up to 300 more.

3. A "simpler" type of construction would be used in the new high school to lower the cost.

4. A second high school would handle the enrollment comfortably until 1967 and it could be expanded to handle more students.

5. Another (third) Junior High would not be needed until 1970.

School Board member Robert Soth pointed out that a Plymouth postmark you see on every piece of mail. Around 100,000 cancellations in a day is a peak.

Only half as much mail was handled on Friday of this week, compared to 1957. Previous to Saturday, there had been one day of 74,000 cancellations and several days boasting 60,000 — no peak, though.

Also on the decrease is the number of part-time employees hired this year. There are 42 fulltime employees and 30 to 35 part-time people working to keep mail circulating here. Timpona said that he doubted the slow-down could be attributed to the upped price of sending first class mail — four cents now for letters.

On the increase is incoming mail and the number of deliveries made, with three-a-day in some areas, depending on the need. Parcel post deliveries were made Sunday. The Bronson Building is being used again this year for parcel post.

What's the time needed for taking care of all this mail? A 22-hour shift is necessary, Timpona said, with some employees working from 5 p.m. to three or four in the morning. Special hours, 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., went into effect last week; regular hours, 8:30 to 5:00 are in order this week.

DORIS DAY goes on a shopping spree and brings home a parking fine ticket for anguished hubby, Richard Widmark, to pay. It's a laugh scene from MGM's new release, "Tunnel of Love," filmization of the comedy hit which ran on Broadway for a year. The Penn Theatre has arranged a "Plymouth Preview Showing" of "Tunnel of Love" for their New Year's Eve Midnight Show. It will start at 11:30 p.m. at regular prices.

Christmas is a time for memories, a family gathering, a few days of peace on earth, good will to all. With such an attitude operating as usual this Yuletide it wasn't too difficult for old George to lean back in his chair with the overstuffed back and dream about a Christmas a year or two ago. In fact, the whole situation might well make a smash Broadway musical entitled, "The Tree." I believe it all started as I gazed thoughtfully at our Christmas tree and meditated thusly.....

'Twas the night before Christmas and all through our house, all manner of creatures, both male and female, were stirring and stirring. The Christmas tree waited patiently trimmed. Gifts were piled high to be wrapped. Six willing hands of three eager, bright-eyed children were all too ready to help with the task of dressing the Yule tree. Linda was in charge of tinsel hanging. Marilyn would have liked to help, but her height was against her. She stood below and helped Linda by shouting loudly where each icy strand of tinsel should droop and drape.

Young George was in charge of the lights. With artistic effort he placed each strand several ways until he had the right effect and had knocked off at least a dozen other ornaments. Next came the important job of spraying on synthetic snow on the tree. Of course, old George had to show them how to get that realistic effect. Half a can of snow later the demonstration was completed but no one was convinced. So, each child took their turn to spray the tree, ceiling, furniture, and the surrounding walls with sticky snow. The blizzard effect impressed many of our friends and I'm sure the sale of synthetic snow has increased sales of that commodity considerably.

As usual several of the tree lights failed to produce a ruddy glow. Mother assumed the job of checking the lights. What a job. Old George suggested a short cut, one used in his stage lighting days. Why not take an individual light socket and connect it directly to the 110 volt line or the room plug?

After burning out five Christmas tree lights, two fuses, and suffering a severe shock, I was convinced that Mother's method had more merit. As I recall the exact words were: "Haven't I always told you that I know the... (you fill in the rest for I'm sure you've all heard this speech before.) An hour or so later when aircraft. Newburg WSCS Musicales Captures Yule Meaning

MRS. EMIL LAPOINTE
GA. 1-2029

On Saturday, December 27, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bazo, an open house birthday celebration will take place to honor Mrs. Susar Bazo on her 75th birthday. The Bazo home is at 902 Hanlon in the Cherokee Trail sub. and all friends of Mrs. Bazo are cordially invited to call between 1 and 4 p.m. on Saturday. Congratulations, in advance, from your Newburg area friends.

Voices lifted in Christmas singing, under the direction of Mrs. Paul Nixon, at the Newburg Methodist church on Monday evening, Dec. 15, helped those who attended the Woman's Society of Christian Service Musicales really feel the true meaning of the beautiful Christmas.

Mrs. Wilma Nixon assisted at the piano and was a part of the piano duo, along with Mrs. Winifred Nixon, who played two fine selections, "Allegro Brillant" and "Scherzittino - Chaminade." A solo by Mrs. Robert Shier, "Adore and Be Still," was followed with traditional Christmas songs from Germany, Sweden and England. A Christmas Negro spiritual, "Rise Up Shepherds and Follow," was sung by Mr. Paul Nixon. "The Seven Joys of Mary" was sung by the choir with Mrs. Anthony Kreger as soloist. Two selections were sung by the Junior High School, which were "Sweet Little Jesus" and "Fair Lord Jesus." Mrs. Helen Hopper assisted at the piano for these numbers. Mrs. R. E. Niemann delighted the children present with a Christmas story, "The Shiniest Star." A trio composed of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nixon and Mrs. William Dorr, sang, "Bethlehem" and then two selections in the lighter vein, "Patapan" and "Around the Christmas" were sung by the senior choir. Christmas carols were sung by the assembly and at the close of the evening refreshments were served and an hour of fellowship was enjoyed by all.

It makes me sorry to hear that Mrs. Harry Gilbert of Newburg road has been in the hospital for the past week. She is home now, in time for Christmas, and cards of good cheer and get well would help to brighten her day.

Mr. and Mrs. George Oldenburg, long ago residents of the Newburg area and now residing in Walled Lake are celebrating their 55th wedding anniversary. In fact the date was December 21, but cards of congratulations would be very thoughtful for such a wonderful event. 1883 Decker road, Walled Lake, is their address.

The Livonia City Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. Winnie Davis on Middlebrook road, Thursday, Dec. 18 for pot luck luncheon and a Christmas party. Mrs. Mildred Clark, president of the club, conducted a brief business meeting, in which the group voted for a forthcoming card party to be held at three different homes on Thursday afternoon, Feb. 19. Only a limited amount of tickets are being sold for this event, so get yours early. After the business meeting, Mrs. Bernice Ellis led the games in playing Christmas games, Christmas carols were sung and Santa Claus distributed grab bag gifts. The January meeting of this group will be held at the First Federal Savings and Loan bank at Sheldon Center on Thursday, Jan. 15 and they will have as their special guest, Rev. Robert D. Richards, pastor of the Saline Methodist church in Saline, Mich. Pastor Richards was formerly associated with the Newburg Methodist church. More information concerning the February card party will come your way, via this column, in the meantime, keep Feb. 19 marked on your calendar.

The Apache patrol of boy scout troop 271 of St. Michael's Catholic church, presented the Livonia Convalescent home with a Christmas centerpiece. The two boys who represented their patrol in the presentation were Robert Curry, patrol leader and David LaPointe, assistant patrol leader.

A newly formed intermediate girl scout troop, along with their leaders, Betty Westlund and Brownie Flaherty, went Christmas caroling on Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 16 at the Sumpter rest home in Belleville, Mich. This troop has not, as yet, acquired a number but they have chosen, as their grandmother of the troop, Mrs. Anna Miller. Mrs. Miller is the mother of Mrs. Flaherty. Let's watch this group of young women, as they progress in their work in girl scouting.

Edward Grosjean of Newburg road is still in Mt. Carmel Mercy in Detroit and would appreciate your sending of get well cards to speed him on his way to a rapid recovery from recent surgery.

The Joy road Canasta Clan met at the home of Mrs. Arthur Gennis of Joy Road, Tuesday evening, Dec. 16 for their regular monthly get-together for playing cards and for their annual Christmas Party. Members present included: Mrs. Edward Howlen, Mrs. Emil LaPointe, Mrs. William Kenner, Mrs. Clifford Hocking, Mrs. Stuart Flaherty, Mrs. Claude Despond, Mrs. Bert Overmyer, Mrs. Raymond Peterson, Mrs. Harold Mackinder, Mrs. Enid Stammitz, and Mrs. Robert Pregitzer.

Mr. LaPointe and our two boys, Bruce and David, along with boy scout troop 271 of St. Michael's Catholic Church, spent last Sunday, Dec. 14 at the Island Lake recreation area on an advancement hike. Despite the cold and wintry weather, David cooked a full course dinner for four on an open fire to pass his cooking merit badge. Boy scouting is certainly marvelous training for boys. Those who spend many hours in giving their leadership to this organization are to be admired.

At the close of their regular choir practice on Thursday, Dec. 18, the adult choir members of the Newburg Methodist church met in the hall dining room for an hour of sociability and refreshments. A gift was presented to Mrs. Paul Nixon, organist and choir director, by the asssembled group. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nixon, Mrs. Mildred Case, Mrs. Carol LaPointe, Miss Sally Fedus, Miss Janice Kenner, Mrs. Gladys Kreger, Mrs. Betty Wright, Mrs. Olive Lorraine, Mrs. Sandra Thomas, Mrs. Dorothy Waack, Rev. and Mrs. R. E. Niemann, Homer Steward, Leonard Ritzler, Graham Bennett, David Nixon and Mrs. Jean Greenwood.

Visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Waltz of Richland this Christmas season, are Mrs. Waltz's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Whaley of Glouster, Ohio. The Whaley's will be visiting throughout the entire Christmas and New Year week.

Mr. LaPointe and our oldest son Bruce, along with Mr. Henry Nida and son Robert of Dearborn, went to the Olympia in Detroit on Thursday, Dec. 18 to watch the Detroit Red Wings take on the New York Rangers in a fine hockey game.

Be sure to let me know what you will be doing throughout the holidays. Call me and I'll be glad to see that it gets to the paper. Until next week, then do have a very merry Christmas and a happy and prosperous new year.

Plymouth High School
By GLORIA BOWLES

At this moment Plymouth High students are enjoying a Christmas vacation. Teens here were free at the sound of the 3:30 Friday bell and will be until the 8:30 dong on Monday, January 5.

Between now and the 5th, there is all the bustle that is Christmas, plus a dance on Saturday night, January 3 in the gymnasium at 8:00. Of course there's A L W A Y S homework. Sports fans saw a basketball contest (what a game) and a swimming meet Wednesday, are looking to another swimming meet on January 8, this one with Allen Park. There's also a BB game with AP the following night.

Athletically inclined boys were mute last week. Varsity Club had its initiation, one of the stipulations being that no fellow could speak to girls for a whole morning. Feminine wiles triumphed occasionally for some of 'em slipped... and let a few words out.

A Pilgrim Prints poll asked students (and one teacher) "What do you like or dislike about being a teen-ager?" Pat Butler, librarian and English teacher, claimed, "What I didn't like was that my Dad wouldn't let me have the horse and buggy very often."

A survey conducted by the community civics class here, with 350 students taking part, revealed much about the money habits of local teens. The total teen income from allowances, part time jobs and other sources is $4,920.18 per week $4,205.89 is spent weekly in town! Other interesting info: the average allowance weekly is $1.45... average weekly expenditures are 99 cents for food, $1.09 for entertainment, 59 cents for personal care, $1.07 for clothing, 24 cents for school supplies, 35 cents for luxuries and 67 cents for car maintenance.

Another survey, this one distributed by Pilgrim Prints showed that of 561 quizzed, only 81 never date. In the senior class, only 4 males and 5 females don't date. Three hundred and sixty students picked personality as the asset they look for most in their girl friends and boy friends. The next thing chosen was looks with brains running last.

The baseball field behind the school is, with the coming of snow, being transferred to an area for snow-balling!

And... Have a Merry Christmas!!!

With everyone so busy these days, I feel almost guilty calling you and taking up some of your precious time. But everyone I called has been most gracious, so here we go.

Fred "Skip" Aldrich Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Aldrich of Ford Rd. left Thursday, Dec. 4 for Lakeland, Florida. Skip has a position as mechanic with the "Forty-Acre Truck Stop". Skip and Dave Brinks drove to Florida, with Dave returning this past Friday.

The annual Christmas party of the Bunko Club, are having their celebration December 18, at the home of Mrs. Scott McGeary of Harvey Ave. in Plymouth. The members of the club include many from Canton Township and city of Plymouth. The group was organized about 19 years ago by the late Mrs. Coburn Dennis, of the township. Members of the group are—Mrs. Henry Root, Mrs. Clara Truesdell, Mrs. Beatrice Wilkins, Mrs. Bertha Forshee, Mrs. Del Neissner and daughter Beverly, Mrs. Fred Aldrich and daughter Bonnie, Mrs. Bill Clark and daughter Carol, Miss Peggy Corwin, Mrs. Marie Scheufler and Mrs. Flora Fuchs. The group meets once a month.

The Plymouth High School J-Hop was attended by some of the township's young people: Peggy Corwin, escorted by Bill Robertson, Joyce Gotts, escorted by Dave Gyde and Pete Theisen, escorting Bonnie Shade.

Locals Train On Scholarships

Miss Suzanne Cook, Miss Judith Werstine and Harry Willnus of Livonia, are attending Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, with a scholarship granted by the State Board of Education, University controlling board.

Through these scholarships, 708 of which are granted by Western, it is hoped to assist in the training of future teachers. While its program has broadened over the years, the training of teachers still is a major function at Western Michigan University, with about one-half of the student body enrolled in the School of Education.

Miss Cook, a freshman secondary education student, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Cook, 18875 Loveland Ave., Livonia.

Miss Werstine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Werstine, 11710 Boston Post Road, is a sophomore elementary education student.

Willnus, son of Mrs. H. Willnus, 11301 Auburndale, Livonia, is a junior secondary student.

All are graduates of the Bentley high school.

two houseguests for the holidays. Mrs. Bowman's mother, Mrs. Lois Baker and Mrs. Bowman's nephew, student at Michigan State University, Mr. and Mrs. John Contarino and son, Johnny, are planning to have their Christmas dinner in Garden City, at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard West, Mrs. Contarino's niece and family. Other guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rutley and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Iowich, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Olovich and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pantle.

The women of the W.S.C.S., unit two group of the Cherry Hill Methodist Church, are holding their Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Buchner of Cherry Hill Rd. It will be a potluck dinner with 12 ladies attending. A baby shower was given for Mrs. George Corwin (Judy) at the home of Mrs. John McFarlane of Ford Rd. The traditional colors of pink and blue were carried out in the table decorations and a game of baby bingo, followed by several other games were enjoyed by the 38 guests present. The guests arrived from Northville, Wayne, Belleville and Plymouth. Also present were Mr. Corwin's great-grandmother and Mrs. Corwin's grandmother.

Upon checking with Mrs. McFarlane on the shower, I asked about their Christmas plans and Mrs. McFarlane said the entire McFarlane family were having Christmas dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wamberger of Cherry Hill Rd.

One of the busiest homes in the township, I believe, was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theron Palmer of Beck Rd. Their son, Dean, took as his bride Lou Ann Rosengarten, December 20 at the first Unitarian Church in Ann Arbor. Dean is in his junior year at the University of Michigan studying law, and his bride Lou Ann is graduating in January as a speech major. The marriage of Dean and Lou Ann was preceded by a Bachelor Dinner for Dean given by his friends at the home of Howard Olford on Beck Rd. The guest list included the groom's father, Mr. Theron Palmer, the bride's father, Mr. Roy Rosengarten, Bob Willoughby, Bruce McChie and other friends of the couple. Lou Ann was given a bridal shower in Ann Arbor by her friends. Deans aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Salley of Ford Rd., held an after-the-rehearsal dinner at their home for the wedding party and the couples parents. I would like to add our wishes for happiness and success in their new life together.

I called to see what plans Mr. and Mrs. Louis Stein of Sheldon Rd. had for Christmas, and found a very busy Mrs. Stein. Mrs. Stein was caring for her two grandchildren, George and Patricia Louise, while their mother, Mrs. Dwight Vincent, the former Cynthia Stein, was in the hospital for a few days. Mrs. Stein said they plan to have Christmas dinner at their home with their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent and their two grandchildren sharing the festivities.

Many of the township families are remaining home to enjoy the Christmas holidays with their family. One of these to stay at home, with their four boys, are Mr. and Mrs. Dean McClue of Sheldon Rd., Mr. and Mrs. George Atton of Brookline, were hosts to Mr. and Mrs. Elgie Schwarz of Haggerty Rd., and their son Sam Schwarz, who was home on leave from the Air Force base located in Florida. The Schwarzs were also accompanied by their four other children for dinner at the Atons.

Called Mrs. Arthur Rocco of Napier Rd., to check on their holiday plans. Mrs. Rocco said that Mrs. Rocco (Jean) was down with the flu. Hope you're feeling better real soon, Jean. The Edward Behlings of Beck Rd., are planning to have Christmas dinner at Mrs. Behlings sister's home in Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. John Klug and family.

The Marvin Bondie family of Ford Rd., are planning a Christmas dinner for 12 guests. Mrs. Bondie's three sisters and their families, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hahn, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Atkinson and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stoll, also Mrs. Bondie's niece and husband Mr. and Mrs. E. Hahn.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Longwish of Canton Center Rd., and their four children are celebrating Christmas dinner with Mr. Longwish's family at the new home of his brother, Mr. Don Longwish at Thinbark in Wayne.

Another of our families planning a Christmas at home, is the Ralph Burch family of Joy Rd.

The Ralph Foote's of Marlowe Ave., are planning Christmas dinner at the home of Mrs. Foote's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kusiak of Detroit. Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Foote, will be their two daughters Diane and Margery and two married daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kamin and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gate, and the Foote's three grandchildren. There will also be all the other members of Mrs. Foote's family attending the festivities, numbering about twenty in all.

The Harold Frye family of Cherry Hill Rd., are spending Christmas at home with their six children, one married daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilcox, and daughters Marlene and Darlene. Also visiting at the Frye home, will be Miss Patricia Bateson of Baldwin, Michigan.

I called Mrs. Wesley Goerke of Lotz Rd., to check their Christmas plans. Mrs. Goerke stated they usually hold open house at this season, and will probably follow the custom this year. Upon further conversation with Mrs. Goerke, I found that she and Mr. Goerke are planning to celebrate their seventeenth wedding anniversary by going to dinner and the Cinerama.

Home from Michigan State University for the holiday season are Judy and Jean Rowe, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rowe of Al Smith Rd. Jean is in her senior year and plans to teach retarded children after graduation, Judy is in her freshman year.

A new resident to the township, now residing on Al Smith Rd., is Miss Lois Rowe. Welcome Miss Rowe. Miss Sharon Hoffman and group, former resident of the Detroit Bandstand TV program, in celebration of her 16th birthday. The group continued their celebration at Sharon's home. Many more happy birthdays Sharon.

Lou Ann Rosengarten, Dean Palmer Wed Dec. 20

Lou Ann Rosengarten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rosengarten of Sarasota Florida, became the bride of Dean Palmer son of Mr. and Mrs. Theron Palmer of Beck Rd., Plymouth, December 20, at the First Unitarian Church in Ann Arbor. The Rev. Redman officiated.

The bride wore a white two-piece wool dress, accented by a corsage of white carnations. Miss Rosengarten's maid of honor, Miss Carolyn Albas, wore a street length dress of aqua color, with a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. Palmer was assisted by James Isbister as best man, and the guests were ushered by Mr. Howard Olford and Bruce McRitchie. Mrs. Rosengarten, mother of the bride, wore a rust ensemble with a corsage of white roses. The groom's mother, Mrs. Theron Palmer, wore a dark green two-piece dress, with a corsage of white roses. Grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Rosengarten, and grandmother of the groom, Mrs. Fabrique both wore corsages of pink carnations. Miss Joan Knoetzer, friend of the bride, played the organ for the ceremony.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theron Palmer, for members of the wedding party and relatives. The guests were from Toledo, Clinton, Florida, Boston, Cleveland, Detroit and Birmingham.

Friends to Honor Henry C. Rowes

An open house will be held Sunday, Dec. 28 for Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Rowes of 1985 Al Smith, Canton Township, who are celebrating their silver wedding anniversary.

The open house will be between 2 and 8 p.m. Friends and relatives are invited to attend. Arrangements for the affair are being made by the couple's daughters, Jean and Judy Rowe.

Store nutmeats in the freezer or the refrigerator and they will stay fresh tasting and free from rancidity, according to Michigan State University extension home economists. Store in tight containers and plan to keep nutmeats only a few weeks.

Ice Skating Becoming More Popular Every Year

Making a Laundry Center

Closet and shelf space for a home laundry center provides additional convenience for the homemaker and dresses up the basement. The length of the wall unit will depend upon the size of the washer and dryer. To avoid vibration on the two units, allow about 3 inches of space between them. Add to this the length of the floor cabinet. The wall cabinet shown in the drawing has a 1 by 2 inch board for the bottom. If water pipes come through the home craftsman should use a 2 by 4-inch frame instead of the solid bottom. The sides are of 1 by 12-inch lumber, recessed at the lower shelf level and further recessed at the top to accommodate the 1 by 1-inch horizontal panel. The lower shelf is of 1 by 12-inch lumber and the upper shelves are of 1 by 10-inch lumber. All doors are of 1 by 12-inch lumber.

"Ice skating is the only nice thing about winter," insists the young mother of two children who lives in a Connecticut town. "The only time I'm not cold all winter long is when the four of us are down at the pond skating."

As a means of keeping warm during cold weather, ice skating can hardly be recommended to everyone, regardless of their disposition, age and inclination. It is good exercise, but those who have learned to skate consider it sport or pleasure. By-products, especially for youngsters, are the development of balance and poise.

Skating nowadays needn't be just a winter sport. It's become so popular that many towns as well as cities have indoor arenas or rinks where it's possible to ice skate ten or twelve months of the year. In some instances, rinks set aside certain hours on Saturday for youngsters only, on a sort of club basis.

An outdoor rink with refrigerated pipes to freeze the flooded surface and night lighting was opened last winter in New Canaan, Conn. This was constructed adjacent to one of the public schools and is run along the same lines as a community swimming pool is in summer in so many places. Such a rink has many refinements and certain advantages. It will have months of use each year as compared to two weeks of skating, at best every winter, on a pond in the same town.

Most skaters agree that nothing compares to skating outdoors. It's the pond or river that is frozen solid, even if for only two weeks, with a fire somewhere along its bank and nippy wind that reddens every skater's cheeks that most people remember nostalgically.

Whether it's outdoors or indoors, youngsters do learn to skate much faster than adults. Those who haven't learned by the time they've reached their teens needn't consider ice skating an impossibility.

The enthusiastic young matron says her ankles always turned in and she couldn't push one foot ahead of the other when she tried to ice skate during school days. But five winters ago when her youngsters and husband were going, she bandaged her ankles, put on skates and found she could—at long last—glide along on them without wobbling or tumbling.

It's important that adults and youngsters wear skates that fit. Even the most agile youngster won't be able to skate if he's wearing his father's skates that are three sizes too large. Nowadays double runners are considered pretty much of a waste, even for the youngest child who wants to go along to the pond with the family.

Skates attached to shoes are of two styles—with a plain blade or especially made for figure skating. The average skater should examine his blades. The curve of the blade always has a sawtooth edge, but if the end points down this should be filed. This little point on the end of a blade indicates a figure skate; it's tricky and can cause the average skater to go sliding and perhaps take a tumble.

Don't attempt figure skating, unless you've had special instruction or lots of practice. The figure skater's that you remember executing when you were in high school don't come quite as easily to the twenty or thirty-year-old who is out of practice.

Have skates sharpened by an expert. Don't toss them in a garage or on the porch when you come home; if you do, the ties and even the holes may freeze.

Dressing warmly is essential for both young and old to enjoy ice skating outdoors. Slacks, sweater, short warm coat, a scarf, mittens and some sort of cap are basic. The short, full skirts which are so attractive on girl skaters and the fancy costumes aren't warm enough to wear for skating on the pond or river; they're most comfortable on indoor rinks.

Michigan Among Leading States Using Oil Heat

Michigan is among the leading states in the use of oil for home heating, with a total of 471,928 oil burner installations expected to consume more than 557,130,000 gallons of this fuel during the current heating season, according to the National Fuel Oil Council. This is an increase of 13,878 oil-equipped homes in the state in the past year.

Michigan, together with the other Midwest states, has increased the entire region's total of home oil burners by 85,686 over last year, and the Midwest now consumes 3,017,070,000 gallons of fuel oil annually.

Michigan is an important and growing part of the oil heat market of the United States, which stretches across the colder, northern half of the country and where the most heat is required during the seven-month heating season.

American homes are the best heated in the world, according to the Council, for over 46 million of them have heating equipment and 24,028,000 of these have central-heating systems. Oil is the leader among the fuels used, supplying 44 per cent of the home heating energy, while gas supplies 33 per cent and coal 23 per cent. Nearly $2,500,000,000 worth of oil is used annually to heat American homes.

In this state and others with a full season of chilly days, the oil heated homes are predominantly centrally heated—over 9 million of the more than 16 million American homes heated with oil have central heating, the Council reports. Gas leads in the more easterly southern states where less rigorous winters can be met with non-central heating.

Oil heating has been marked by new developments in fuel and equipment in recent years, while maintaining its recognized economy, according to the Council.

Assemble the cabinet, using water-resistant glue and 8-penny finishing nails. A block of 1 by 1-inch lumber should be placed beneath the end of the lower shelf for additional support. Use a pair of 2-inch butt hinges on each door and friction catches on one shelf behind each door. The shelves serve as door stops. The floor cabinet is made to match the recessed bases of the washer and dryer, is fastened to the cabinet by nailing through the cabinet floor. The long door of the wall unit covers the lint vent pipe from the dryer. This pipe will enter the bottom shelf and extend through the cabinet to the outdoors. If the floor and wall are true, the wall cabinet may be placed against the wall and held in place with the washer and dryer. It may be necessary, however, to fasten the unit in place. This may be done by nailing to the ceiling through the top of the unit and to the floor through the base. If the exposed back edge of the wall unit does not fit evenly against the wall, quarter-round molding may be used for finish.

NO BETTER WAY to keep warm — Ice skating is a sport young and old can enjoy to gether in a frozen pond or indoor rink.

Insulation Makes Blue Toe-Tucker An Extinct Bird

Are you a "toe-tucker"? This is the way heating engineers describe someone who lives in a house with constantly cold or drafty floors. The "toe-tucker" habitually sits with his feet pulled up under him to get them off the chilly floor. In an adequately heated, caulked, and weather-stripped house, cold and drafty floors almost always are the result of insufficient insulation, or no insulation at all. If it's a house built over an unheated crawl space, at least two inches of mineral wool are needed in the floors to help them retain heat. Without insulation, heat is radiated outside and the floors stay cold regardless of the temperature in the room. In other types of houses which have floors that seem warm to the touch yet are plagued with a chilling, low-level draft blowing across them all winter, the fault lies in uninsulated walls.

Silent Night

"All is calm, all is bright." So beautifully expressed in the hymns and carols of blessed memory, the Christmas message strikes a responsive chord in every heart today. May you and your family partake in fullest measure of the deep and enduring joy that makes Christmas the happiest time of the year.

LOOK WHAT GAS IS DOING NOW!

Everything that goes into a GAS dryer comes out FASTER... FLUFFIER... FOR LESS MONEY PER LOAD!

No warm-up wait with a Gas dryer. Turn it on and it's on... clothes are drying. No hang-over heat wasted afterwards—no danger of over-drying the clothes. Then, because gentle Gas heat blows moisture away, instead of baking it out, clothes come out fluffier, more wrinkle-free... and you'll find that makes 'em easier to iron. They last longer, too. With all these advantages, a Gas dryer still costs less to install, less to maintain, less to use per load!

Keep Hubby's Tools at Hand

The hand tools that a handy household collects for hanging pictures or making minor repairs have a replacement value in the neighborhood of $50. The investment will run much higher in any household that includes a craftsman who enjoys making things and probably has power tools in addition to hand tools.

Where and how a housewife can keep her husband's basic hand tools so that anyone can find one when it is wanted — and find it in good working order — need no longer be a problem. One central place where every household hand tool can be kept and returned after each use needn't take up valuable space. Tools that are thrown in drawers in the kitchen can be broken or blunted; if left in the garage where it is damp, they can become equally useless because of rust.

The modern solution to having every tool in its place is the peg-board. This rectangular white board with holes evenly spaced over its surface can be purchased in various sizes. One convenient size is 20 by 23 inches with 400 holes. The purchase of a board this size usually includes four spring clips to fasten it to the wall and 24 hooks to be placed in the holes for the tools.

The hooks can be clipped into holes in any way that is convenient for holding the tools. A peg-board for household tools such as hammers, screw drivers, chisel, saws, etc., is usually placed on a wall over a workbench. Another convenient spot for all or part of these tools would be the utility room, an indispensable part of contemporary, one-story homes.

The peg-board, actually, is an adaptation of a system men have used for a long time. That is, suspending their tools against the walls by means of nails. Two nails driven into the wall a short distance apart are just right for supporting a hammer by its head or a chisel by its handle.

Some families may consider a cupboard preferable to hanging tools on the wall.

Cupboards with plywood doors such as are installed in kitchens can be placed in the garage, cellar, utility room or wherever tools would be handy.

A cupboard with its shelves has advantages in that not only tools but also boxes and jars or small items can be stored on its shelves.

Nails, screws, tacks, picture hooks and such should be kept separately in small containers, according to their size. This eliminates pouring out the contents in order to find a nail or a screw in the size and type needed.

Instead of placing these containers on a shelf where they might be knocked off, here's another method of keeping them under control. Bottles about 3 inches high with screw tops, empty peanut butter or other food containers, for example, can be fastened in an orderly row to the underside of shelves. This is done by a screw through the cover, the head on the underside so that the end can be secured into the underside of the shelf. To reach the contents, simply unscrew the jar from its top.

A box, labeled as to contents and with a tight cover, should be used for all electrical equipment. Into it go fuses, plugs, light switches and switch plates, friction tape and similar items. Store this at one end or under the workbench, or on a shelf where it can be found whenever any of its contents are needed. This will be in a hurry, as is usually the case with other hand tools.

Many families that supposedly operate on budgets do so in name only and actually have trouble keeping tab of where their dollars should go — and do go.

But that's not the case with those who set up a budget calendar — a chart of regular monthly expenditures with the dates on which they're due.

Husbands and wives usually decide jointly on major expenditures such as purchase of an automobile, refrigerator, range, furniture, and so on. But all too often, either husband or wife has only slight acquaintance with the family's finances as a whole — and the budget calendar.

Inform Selves

Both should inform themselves in all family money matters, suggests the American Finance Conference, national association of independent sales finance companies. That includes expenditures for insurance, taxes, fuel, utilities, doctor and dentist, food, clothing, mortgage or rent, as well as the monthly installment payments on car, appliances and furniture.

Only if both husband and wife know the relationship of income received to expenses paid out, week by week, month by month, can they do a realistic job of keeping within their budget and planning harmoniously for future goals, points out the AFC.

It isn't necessarily the woman who is "in the dark" about money matters. Many men shirk the responsibility of knowing where the family stands financially.

Don't assume that an expected pay raise will solve your budget problems, the AFC adds, for often the families with supposedly super-sufficient incomes get into the worst financial plights.

Earmark Money Needs

So establish a family budget calendar and keep tab on it, both husband and wife. Earmark ahead of time the money needed for various month-to-month obligations. Indicate the dates when all regular payments are due. Do the same with installment payments on car, furniture, and similar items.

Then you'll know each month how much is available for your family to spend on other needs and wants, many of which can be purchased on time payment plans fitted easily into the family budget calendar.

The Fisher Radio Corporation reports it is about ready to start marketing a multiplex adapter so that high fidelity equipment owners can use certain multiplexed frequency modulation broadcasts for stereo.

Multiplexing is the broadcasting of one or two subsidiary signals of different wave lengths along with standard FM broadcasts on the same channel.

Some broadcasters went for the idea a year or so ago in hopes of making a profit out of FM, which is not generally a profitable enterprise.

They planned to use a secondary signal to broadcast background music for sale to factories and restaurants or to broadcast messages to trucking companies, doctors and delivery services. Little has been done about this except that a few stations have recently used the multiplex signal to broadcast stereo music.

Under this system, only the main — or regular FM signal — is supposed to be picked up on home FM receivers. With some previous FM multiplexing, the secondary signal was also annoyingly audible in the home.

Fisher's adapter is made under a licensing agreement with Crosby Laboratories, which are reported to have developed a compatible multiplex stereocasting system.

Some FM stations are experimenting with the Crosby

The adapter will use both low-level and high-level input signals, produced by different types of tuners.

It uses five tubes, a selenium rectifier and two diodes in the counter detector stage.

Side-View Mirror Is Invaluable

Any car owner who does not have a side-view mirror on his or her auto or may not receive one for Christmas, should start the New Year right by buying one for the driver's side of the car. Side-view mirrors are not standard equipment on all cars and are not compulsory by motor vehicle law in the majority of states.

The side-view mirror has so many advantages that a driver who has become used to one is never willing to drive a car without one. The best chrome-plated mirror costs no more than $7 and can be installed in a jiffy at a service station or the appliance store.

The rear-view mirror over the dashboard enables a driver to see who or what is behind his car on the road. This mirror also is an aid in making a turn safely.

A side-view mirror literally can be a lifesaver in bad winter weather. For example, when ice or snow completely covers the rear window of an auto, the inside mirror becomes useless. At such times, the side-view mirror is the only guide a driver has. Furthermore, in rainy, snowy or foggy weather, it's much easier for the driver to keep a sideview mirror clean so that he can see it than it is to keep the rear window clear to reflect traffic in the inside mirror.

Bad weather isn't the only cause of blocking out the rear window view for the inside mirror. When the car is full of youngsters, being driven to or from school or dancing class, their bobbing heads are enough to make the inside mirror unreliable. In such cases a sideview mirror becomes a real safety factor.

A SIDE-VIEW mirror eliminates "blind spots" not reflected in inside mirror. Thus driving and parking are safer.

Any good driver is aware that certain blind spots exist when he must depend only on his inside, rear-view mirror. These blind spots are the areas just to the right or left of a car's rear. Without a sideview mirror, these areas will not always be in view.

Many women drivers, who won't drive without a mirror on their side of the car, have had a second one installed on the passenger's side of the family car. This second mirror will simplify parking.

By looking at a side-view mirror on the right-hand side of a car, a driver always can tell how close she is to another car when she is parking. One or two side-view mirrors can prevent many a scraped or dented fender and bumper usually caused by tight conditions in parking lots or at street parking meters.

A good driver learns to use both the side-view mirror and the inside rear-view one. It never pays to depend on just one of the two. Both mirrors are important — and especially needed — when a driver is leaving a parking lot or is pulling out to pass another car on the road.

Price Tag Law Is Aimed At Aiding New Car Buyer

Those detailed price tags that you see on 1959 cars represent the latest development in the automobile industry to inform customers what they are getting for their money.

The factory price tags must appear on every new car beginning this fall, according to the new federal Automobile Information Disclosure Act, which dealers themselves thought individually and through their associations.

A manufacturer's suggested retail price, including a breakdown covering the cost of each accessory and cost of transportation of the car to the dealer, is set forth on the tag.

Know Total Cost Apart from the price tag law, growing emphasis on fully informing car buyers is reflected also in a trend toward dealers making sure that time buyers know the total cost and breakdown of installment financing charges.

Dealers are advancing this practice by their own operating policy, by agreement within dealer groups and by joining sales finance companies in urging state laws that set high standards, reports the American Finance Conference, national association of independent sales finance companies.

While the new factory price tag should be a good guide, it will not necessarily represent the actual selling price. The dealer is free to reduce or even raise the suggested retail price according to the profit margin he must have to run his business and meet payroll.

Whatever the new car price and the trade-in allowance, what really matters to you, of course, is the difference between the two figures and the balance to be paid. If you are a typical buyer, you will use installment credit to pay the balance.

Contract Forms Vary Forms for installment purchase contracts vary among states, but they always should have all blanks filled before you sign, so that you understand the transaction at the time and so that no basic questions arise later, the American Finance Conference advises.

Installment contracts should show the full purchase price, cash down payment, trade-in allowance, balance to be paid, cost and coverage of insurance, and size and number of installment payments.

If the fabrics in your children's snow suit are made of man-made fibers, do not let the garment get too soiled. Michigan State University extension home economists recommend that nylon suits be washed often and let dry thoroughly. Also, brush a little full strength detergent onto the grease marks and soil spots before putting the garment in the suds.

Memo Home Carpenters: Make Cutting Boards for the Mrs.

Making an object that is useful about the kitchen is one sure way a home carpenter can please his wife, and justify the existence of his workshop.

Wood stock for a cutting board should be selected with care and be free of knots. Birch or maple is recommended, and it should be at least 3/4 of an inch thick. If desired, several narrow pieces of stock can be glued up to make one thick piece.

All wood warps, and a cutting board that receives repeated damp wipings to clean it will warp after a few months. To prevent this, the end of the cutting board should be a separate piece with the grain running in the opposite direction of the main portion of the cutting board. Attaching this end piece calls for a strong dovetail joint.

Once the cutting board is completed, sand all surfaces thoroughly; particularly the edges to eliminate any chance of splinters. The edges of the cutting board can be finished with a bright, nontoxic enamel. However, do

For new furniture with oiled wood finish, extension home economists at Michigan State University advise application of a preservative every three months for the first year, and once every six months the following year.

Cheese Is Versatile For Holiday Snacks

A clever hostess will have cheese on hand for holiday entertaining. Cheese, a versatile food, can be used as an appetizer, in the main course, or with fruit for dessert.

For a quick and easy appetizer tray, arrange 1-inch cubes of cheese on a tray with fresh fruit. Top the cubes with tiny olives or pickled onions and hold together with colorful toothpicks.

The cheese you buy is either natural cheese, process cheese, or process cheese food. Process cheese is made by mixing one or more natural cheeses. Cheese food has more moisture and less fat and milk solids than natural cheese.

All cheese should be stored, tightly wrapped, in the refrigerator. It's a good idea to remove cheese from the refrigerator an hour before serving, for the flavor is best when cheese is at room temperature.

To save time in the kitchen, you may want to grate cheese in advance and store it in a covered jar in the refrigerator. Four ounces of cheese makes one cup of grated cheese.

The scheduled Masses on Christmas day will follow the regular Sunday schedule. There will also be other Masses, as each priest has the privilege of offering three Masses on this feast. This is an ancient custom, recalling the three-fold birth of the Film on Scotland Shown Dec. 31 at Calvary Baptist

The story of Scotland's heroic struggle against tyranny from without and within will be told on the Panoramic motion picture screen 8:30 p.m., Wednesday, December 31 at Calvary Baptist Church as World Wide Pictures presents "Fire on the Heather," newest film in the series of feature length motion pictures produced by the Billy Graham organization.

The distinguished actor Donald Crisp links together a series of unusual dramatic performances which highlight Scotland's rich and colorful heritage. Filmed entirely on location in authentic settings, the sequences recreate the failure of Roman conquest in the Border Country, Columba's introduction of Christianity to the King of the Picts, John Knox' battle for reform during the reign of Mary Queen of Scots, and the bloody era of the Covenanters seen through the martyr's eyes of John Brown of Priesthill.

The dramatic scenes are played by an all-Scottish cast led by the gifted actor, Duncan McCrae. Transitions between historical eras are provided by colorful montages of Scotland today, including the scenic grandeur of her lochs and glens, the color and excitement of the pipe bands, the traditional highland games, together with graphic coverage of Scotland's heavy industries which are a mainstay of British economy. "Fire on the Heather" climaxes with a demonstration of Scotland's efforts to return to the faith of her fathers, as the Billy Graham Crusade in the city of Glasgow is visited for a glimpse of great crowds in Kelvin Hall, music by the 1500 voice Crusade Choir and a sequence featuring Evangelist Billy Graham himself in action.

Village with Long, Skinny Buildings Promises Country-Living in Cramped City

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 1958 model in cliff dwellings, New York style, is three blocks long, two apartments wide and 16 stories high. Such a sun-drenched spectacle is the first of three 2,000-family units to sprout from the rubble of nine dreary blocks south of historic Washington Square in Manhattan.

The off-beat apartment building has set tongues wagging, but most conversation about the new Washington Square Village concerns what will be between the building — four acres of wide open space.

That is a thing hard to believe in a city where the scarcity of land made it necessary to wedge buildings together like so many cigars in a pack.

Paul Lester Wiener, consultant designer and site-planner for the $75 million project, said the completed village will prove that city living can be freed from the wedged-look.

The dream: Privacy and space, plus a touch of suburbia on the earthy part between buildings — in a metropolis where land is about as valuable as solid gold.

Wiener says the buildings, each as long as two football fields, will make the dream come true. Two streets run through the property, but these don't stop planners. The long, lean storied structures will stretch across both streets.

Promenades, parklets and playgrounds will rise between the buildings. There will be shops, as in suburbia.

"But nowhere," said Wiener, "will there be the city-mass-of-stone look."

Outside, the longest apartment building in the nation is decked in different colors to overcome a bowling alley look. Some sections are grey from top to bottom; others, white, yellow, red.

Wiener, a graduate of the Royal Academy of Vienna, has designed structures around the world. He was co-architect of the presidential palace in Havana, Cuba. His work has won awards in France, Brazil, Ecuador and Guatemala.

He also was co-architect for the new United Nations Pavilion for the peaceful use of atomic energy, Zurich, Switzerland.

Washington Square Village, the site planner said, is an "entirely new idea" that almost any urban renewal plan can incorporate — to a greater or lesser extent, depending on need.

Original suggestions for the Village site called for nine to 12 separate buildings. "But," Wiener said, "there wouldn't have been much of the wide open spaces."

The apartments, ranging from two and a half to six rooms, are air conditioned. Most have terraces.

Wiener, who looks like a 40-ish country squire, even in his office, believes that the Washington Square concept of relaxed and airy city living long has been needed.

The first building is more than three-quarters rented.

But workmen still are putting the finishing touches on many apartments.

Rents range from $137 for the two and one-half unit to $398 for the best five-roomer.

per month — not exactly "average income" housing.

For those beyond the upper middle class, there are two and one-half unit to six-room and larger penthouses, and higher rents.

Under the Village, there are two-layered parking garages. Sunken gardens with exotic plants turn lobbies into show places.

Each building will have its own staff of doormen and uniformed attendants. Tenants can use inter-house phones and a lobby announcing service, plus telephones in elevators.

This new concept of city living is just five minutes from Wall Street and Times Square — for those who can afford it.

Festive Mince Pie

FRANCING REINDEERS add just the right touch to a luscious mince pie for Christmas. Make it with a 9-ounce package of condensed mince meat . . . and for an extra big one, bake it in a 9-inch pie plate instead of the 8-inch size; and add apples to the mince meat. Cutouts are made of the top crust pastry with a cookie cutter. Brown them delicately, separately from the pie, or right on the top at the same time you bake it.

MINCE MEAT PIE
 1 9-oz. package condensed mince meat
 1 1/2 cups water
 3 tablespoons sugar
 1 1/2 cups diced apples
 1 recipe pastry

Break condensed mince meat into small pieces. Add water and sugar. Place over heat and stir until all lumps are thoroughly broken. Boil briskly for one minute. Cool. Add apples. Line a 9-inch pie plate with pastry and flute around edge. Fill with mince meat mixture. Cut reindeer with cookie cutter from remaining pastry. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 30 minutes, or until crust is golden brown.

Parochial Bus Service Should Not Be Offered

Back on the surface in Plymouth schools this week is an old question. The parochial schools of the City are asking that they be furnished bus transportation for their pupils by the public school system.

In one form or another, this issue has been encountered for years in every community across the nation. It usually is presented as a simple "practical" matter, but it's deeper than that.

This again is the subject, deep and complicated, of separating Church from State.

This newspaper urges that the Plymouth public school administrators turn down the request. And we recommend that every citizen do a lot of thinking about the matter, because it offers a test of what we know about basic American political philosophy.

This latest request is somewhat different because it seems to have gained considerable public support. Petitions bearing some 1,400 names were given the Board of Education. Prominent persons in the community were among those on the list.

A long list of names, however, does not turn wrong into right.

The key fact in the discussion is that today the public schools offer their facilities to everyone in the community, including all of the total public education program, plus bus service to those who require.

This public program is denied no one!

There are some who choose not to take advantage of it, even as there are those who decline to go to the public library, or to use certain paved streets or other public-supported facilities.

Parochial schools always are started because their sponsors believe education should take a different form—or receive a different stress—than that provided by existing public facilities. This is their privilege and right.

But while they are free to operate their own schools, they are not free to expect the rest of the general public to support their private program.

Today in Plymouth the Catholic and Lutheran parochial schools are involved. They join together in asking for bus service. But if it should be granted to them, there is no reason whatever why any other church group couldn't set up a school and insist that the general public help them make a go of it.

Bus service seems simple enough, but if that is provided, how could it stop there, in terms of realistic logic? What if the parochial school needed textbooks, and insisted they be provided by the public? Or what if they needed coal for the furnace, or basketballs for the varsity?

In each case it could be granted just as easily as bus service, justified on the general grounds that "these are taxpayers, entitled to something for their taxes, and they're taking a burden off the public schools."

America was settled originally by Europeans who were fleeing from societies where religion and politics were inter-twined. Our Constitution provided explicitly that the government should be free from religious discipline, and, on the other hand, that every man could worship God in the time and way he himself desired.

If the general public provides bus service for parochial schools, it means that the Lutheran and Catholic religious point of view is being encouraged, nourished, and strengthened by tax money paid by Presbyterians, Methodists, Seventh Day adventists, Christian Scientists, agnostics, atheists, and many others.

In many cases, there are individuals who absolutely do not want their money so used. They don't believe in the same things as the Lutherans and Catholics.

And under our Constitution, these "minorities" are protected in religious matters.

The Plymouth Board of Education should reject this latest request, gracefully, in a friendly way, and strictly on the basis of important principle.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

State Republicans Show Signs of Life

by Elmer White

REPUBLICANS HAVE COME ALIVE in Michigan after a decade of defeat and despair.

There are new traces of liberalism in the party and a sense of what psychologists and social workers call "togetherness" that has been absent in recent years.

They hopefully figure 1960 to be the breaking point in the regime of Gov. Williams, the year when they will have their first open shot at the executive office in 12 years.

Right now, Republicans hold power only in the state Senate, 22 to 12. This gives a perilous and uncertain dominance in the legislature since they lost their majority in the House which is now split 55 to 55.

POLITICAL EXPERTS see three signs of life in the party.

1. Chairman Lawrence Lindemer drew the applause of Democratic Chairman Neil Staebler at one point in the 1958 campaign for reviving the organization of the party.

This is the field where Democrats, behind master-strategist Staebler, swept the field away from Republicans after close elections in 1950 and 1952.

2. For the first time in years, Republicans refused to criticize their defeated candidate for governor, Paul D. Bagwell, and he responded by hinting he would again lead the party in 1960.

Bagwell is a campaigner, the likes of whom Republicans have not seen in years. For the first time, Gov. Williams did not lead his slate after carrying them into office originally.

3. Republicans have dropped the panic approach to politics. They also reduced the ancient attack on Williams which calls him a "tool of UAW President Walter P. Reuther."

OTHER SIGNS of health show the party is out of debt following the Nov. 4 election.

LOCAL CONTROVERSIES over the routes of Michigan's new expressways can only serve to delay the construction program, according to Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie.

The U.S. Bureau of Public Roads, however, requires that public hearings be conducted on the routes before Federal aid funds are available to pay up to 90 percent of the total cost.

These hearings, while possibly a handicap to efficiency of the highway's program, do permit the people to express their views and get answers to questions which concern them.

The most damaging controversies from a time standpoint have taken place in the Detroit area, where Mackie already has withdrawn his promise to have a major artery under contract by 1961.

Nevada has the smallest population of any state—160,600 people in 109,821 square miles.

even after paying for a testimonial dinner for Bagwell and other party leaders.

For the first time, the party demanded that its legislators be held accountable to the party organization. Legislators are elected from districts where their names and records are better known than their party affiliation. They have at times turned down proposals solidly backed by party leaders.

Republicans in the Senate, realizing their role as the last bastion of the party in Michigan, are looking for ways to become the voice of the party.

MOMENTUM IS DEVELOPING quickly behind a safety program for public schools in Michigan to prevent disasters such as hit by the Angels School in Chicago.

Dr. Lynn M. Bartlett and Gov. Williams already have started campaigning for higher building standards.

Included in the plan will be regular inspections and failure to comply with orders will eventually close the schools. Bartlett said some of the state's schools are "combustible."

LINKED WITH CONTROVERSIAL tax proposals certain to set fire to the legislature in 1959 will be a campaign against waste in state government.

The special committee on waste which studied the problem during the summer and fall will make its report in the first weeks of the session, which starts Jan 14.

MEMBERS HAVE SAID it will include reports on the misuse of state-owned automobiles, printing contracts and other areas where they say it is possible to get more economy.

"Sure, we can continue this plus era of our government, but we won't be doing our duty to the taxpayer," said Senator L. Harvey Lodge (R-Drayton Plains), committee chairman.

I can't tell you your life's ambition but I can tell you some interesting things about your handwriting.

You're quite persistent—anything you might fail at you'll try again. You're very efficient and have good organizational ability. You find time for the right things and don't get confused easily.

You like some variety but you're the classical type that holds their confidential friends to a secluded minimum.

You're very practical, only a little sensitive and don't go around daydreaming. Nothing real gabby about you, you're quite secretive in fact, like to keep things personal to yourself.

You have constructive talents, can build or create. There is some resentment but it is not outstanding. Hope this has enlightened you somewhat.

Dear Miss Williams: Can you give me any information as to studying Grapho - Analysis? I'm not sure yet but I think next year I'd like to take a course.

THE MESSAGE OF OLD, BUT NEVER NEW 'Peace on Earth to men of good will' Illustration of a globe with figures.

HANDWRITING Tells About Yourself By LUCILLE WILLIAMS

Dear Miss Williams: Your weekly column in the Plymouth Mail is always enjoyed by our family. I would certainly appreciate your analyzing my handwriting. Many thanks. F.M.S.

Dear F.M.S.: You're an independent thinker, you'll stick to conventional habits and ways until they interfere with your personal thinking—then you'll go your own way. You are very determined but your will power is thin.

There's a desire and a liking for cultural arts and you have an appreciation of music. You're constructive and have a good memory. Your emotions are expressed just the way you feel them, nothing diplomatic; you act, do and say the way you want. It's odd that your type of person could ever feel self-conscious but sometimes you do.

You know you also have a humorous streak in you. Dear Lucille: I've heard some writing shows a lot of traits and some doesn't. Why is this? Can you tell by my writing what I show? P.R.C.

Dear P.R.C.: Some people are just nice ordinary average people and their writing just doesn't show very much. Others have outstanding traits because they push ahead, are talented or have something that is definitely out of the ordinary. You have a definite sense of humor, dry humor, and you like people, you like to be around a lot of activity. I'd say you are probably the life of the party type.

Also you have a sense of rhythm and music appreciation. I'll bet you like to dance. You like deep color tones and enjoy rich foods. There's no sensitivity, no one could spoil your good time by a critical remark—you'd brush it off and take it all in stride. Dear Lucille: Read your column every week. Have often wondered how a lady's works with one's handwriting. Your column is very interesting. Can you tell me my life's ambition and personality? N.J.B.

Dear N.J.B.: I can't tell you your life's ambition but I can tell you some interesting things about your handwriting. You're quite persistent—anything you might fail at you'll try again. You're very efficient and have good organizational ability. You find time for the right things and don't get confused easily.

You like some variety but you're the classical type that holds their confidential friends to a secluded minimum. You're very practical, only a little sensitive and don't go around daydreaming. Nothing real gabby about you, you're quite secretive in fact, like to keep things personal to yourself.

'Highly Favorable' Business Year Is Prophecy of First Federal

A new year with highly favorable prospects for business is forecast by First Federal Savings in its December quarterly news letter, Business and Real Estate Trends. "The revival of economic activity, which started in the late spring and gained momentum in the fall months, should continue well into 1959," the quarterly says. "While some communities and some industries will lag behind the advance, the outlook generally is encouraging."

Even the auto industry, which was not a significant factor in sparking the recovery this year, contrary to experience after previous post-war recessions, seems headed for a period of expansion. Here is why the quarterly says 1959 looks good: "GROSS NATIONAL PRODUCT bounced back to an annual rate of 440 billion dollars in the third quarter and appears headed toward topping the previous high quarterly record rate of 445.6 billion."

INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION is up to 137 per cent of the 1947-49 average after dropping to 126 last April. UNEMPLOYMENT is down to less than 6 per cent of the work force. PERSONAL INCOMES are running around five billion dollars ahead of levels a year ago. CONSUMER SPENDING, at an all-time high in the third quarter, is headed toward further gains with a record Christmas season indicated.

BUSINESS EXPENDITURES for plant and equipment are up modestly. GOVERNMENT PURCHASES rose six billion dollars in the last year and are headed further upward. HOUSE BUILDING, at an indicated annual rate of 1,200,000 units for 1958, is expected to continue at that rate at least through early 1959. The quarterly notes that any uncertainties about the 1958 elections have now been eliminated from the business scene and adds: "Despite the sizable Democratic victory the composition of the national government remains as it was during the past four years with Republicans controlling the executive and Democratic the legislative branch of the government. Thus, political policy changes are likely to be of degree rather than kind."

The news letter emphasizes unemployment as the most difficult of all recession problems. It suggests that although the number of unemployed is being reduced gradually, there is the possibility that somewhat higher levels of joblessness will be "normal" henceforth, because possibly training and skill requirements for workers are moving upward. Increased mechanization of industrial processes, it is pointed out, creates demands for skilled workers and eliminates some of the unskilled jobs. Hence, the publication concludes, it may be advisable in periods of unemployment to train and retain the jobless in new skills in lieu of prices in line with expanding research contributing significantly. The quarterly takes a dim view of the widely held belief that at least gradual inflation is inevitable over the long-term future. It cites a resurgence of competition as a major factor in holding of inflationary tendencies.

Whether Santa Claus arrives by surfboard or submarine, he is met with enthusiasm and unique Christmas celebrations throughout the Pacific Ocean. According to the Pacific Area Travel Association, winter travelers can find holiday scenes ranging from the snow-covered pines of Alaska to the sunny beaches of Australia, where Dec. 25 is mid-summer and families take a Christmas dinner in picnic hamper to the shore. In the Philippines, the Christmas observance lasts for 22 days, beginning on Dec. 16 when the devout attend a 4 a.m. "Miss de Gall," so-called because the M a s s starts at the first crowing of the cock. Homes are decorated with Christmas trees and antlers, while carolers and brass bands serenade from door to door. On Christmas Eve, a feast of roast suckling pig follows midnight Mass, with Christmas Day devoted to visiting and gift-giving. But the day that Filipino children anticipate is Jan. 6, when shoes are placed on windowsills the night before to be filled by the Three Wise Men.

In the Hawaiian Islands, the arrival of Santa Claus by outrigger canoe or surfboard signals the start of the holiday season. Soon a freighter known as "the Christmas Tree ship" steams into port with a load of Pacific Northwest fir trees for Hawaiian homes. The traditional carols are heard with a ukulele accompaniment, as well as the islands' own Merry Christmas song, "Mele Kalikimaka." Visitors to Japan will find the annual Christmas Eve Ball at Tokyo's Imperial Hotel a major event of the social season. But for the Japanese, New Year's is the major holiday. Cards and gifts are exchanged on that day and almost everyone enjoys a week-long holiday. The Christmas customs of "Merrie Olde England" are found in Hong Kong, Singapore, Australia, New Zealand and Fiji where the traditional dinner of roast goose and plum pudding is served. The ancient institution of "boxing day"—when boxed gifts are exchanged—falls on Dec. 26, providing a four-day weekend this year for most of the English-speaking countries in the Far East. For the Chinese population of Hong Kong, Formosa and Singapore, New Year celebrations start Feb. 8, when festivities herald in the lunar new year, which, this time, will be known as the "year of the pig."

Several days of activities, including a dragon parade, fireworks and performances by roaming musical groups are climaxed by the beautiful Festival of Lanterns, during which vast crowds turn out to join in the huge parade. A French flavor prevails at Christmas in Vietnam, New Caledonia and Tahiti where restaurants go all out to serve their finest cuisine and wines. The arrival of Santa Claus, in Noumea, New Caledonia, each year sets off a round of spirited revelry. In past years, "Father Christmas" has arrived by plane, ocean liner, submarine and even satellite. Buddhist Thailand does not celebrate Christmas, but holds colorful New Year religious ceremonies from Dec. 31 through Jan. 5. Yellow-robed monks receive alms, bells are tolled, gongs sounded and priests chant blessings in all-night services.

Achievers To Attend Confab On Management

Plymouth teenage JA business people will join six hundred other Junior Achievement company delegates from four mid-western states and Ontario at Detroit's Tuller Hotel December 26 for the organization's annual Region II Junior Achievers Management Conference where scores of topics ranging from creative selling to stock-market operations will be discussed by the young business tycoons.

The conference will see leading industrial and business executives in attendance, some heading actual discussion groups which will try to iron out scores of business operational problems confronted by regular business concerns as well.

The conference will be conducted by the Achievers themselves. In general they will deal with explorations on free-enterprise and career planning, augmented by special speakers and programs to highlight the vital functions and component parts which make competitive free enterprise tick.

Similar JA regional conference—five in all will be taking place throughout America. These mid-winter conferences give added meaning to the "learn by doing" teen organization's National Junior Achievers Conference held in August with teenage delegates from 37 states and two Canadian provinces in attendance.

Teenagers in Junior Achievement set up and manage actual miniature companies under adult guidance. They set wage scales, manufacture products and market competitively priced merchandise throughout America.

Outside the conference rooms, one of the highlights of the three day conference will be a mystery tour throughout greater Detroit, where the young business adults will see free-enterprise at work. They will also have a chance to meet top industrial and business leaders while in Detroit.

The first night's activities on Friday, December 26 will include a live broadcast of Bud Guest's "Guest House" program from the ballroom of the Hotel Tuller, over Radio station WJR.

Don't install gas or electric ranges under kitchen windows, say Michigan State extension home economists. Be sure the window can be opened without reaching over the range. Refrigerators should not be located close to the range or radiator or receive direct rays of the sun. Refrigerator should stand level. Some counter space at the opening side of the refrigerator is also very handy.

'America Illustrated' A Success in Russia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When the U.S. government's Russian-language magazine, "America Illustrated," hits Moscow newsstands, it is a success. It is for himself and the others for resale at a premium.

The U. S. Information Agency, producer of the slick, picture-filled publication, thinks this is one of the best signs of the magazine's success.

Nobody expects the magazine's non-political word-picture stories to win a flood of Russian defectors to the free world. But American propagandists think it may go a long way toward giving the average Soviet citizen an idea of everyday American life and thus bridging the gulf of misunderstanding between the two nations.

Even big-shot Russians get exposed to "America Illustrated." The U.S. Embassy in Moscow distributes 2,000 copies free each month to leaders of Soviet opinion, including leading Communist officials. The USIA isn't saying, but chances are one copy goes to Nikita Khrushchev himself and the Soviet strongman may take an occasional peek between the covers.

The United States began distributing its propaganda magazine in the summer of 1956 after working out a reciprocal agreement with the Soviet Union. Russia started passing out here an English language magazine about the Soviet Union at the same time.

The two nations had exchanged magazines earlier, but publication was suspended in 1952 because of obstacles raised by Russia.

The revived U.S. magazine resembles a copy of "Life" without advertising. In fact, it frequently reprints articles from "Life" and other leading American magazines because they tell what Americans are interested in.

Story subjects run the gamut from sports to science to music to fashion. The latest issue includes a two-page spread of shapely American girls modeling figure-hugging bathing suits. Another shows 20 of Detroit's latest automotive masterpieces.

Russia does not censor the magazine. But the editors are careful to avoid any controversial political subjects.

because the U.S.-Soviet agreement provided such material would be left out. The United States sells 50,000 copies of "America Illustrated" in Russia monthly in addition to the 2,000 copies given away. It costs five rubles, the equivalent of $1.25. The price may seem high but the USIA insists it is in line with the cost of other magazines of similar quality sold in Russia.

For a time, as many as 12,000 of the magazines were being returned unsold. USIA officials attribute this to the fact that the Soviet magazine was not selling well in the United States. But since the U.S. and Russia signed a new overall cultural exchange agreement early this year the number of returned copies has dropped off sharply and the magazine frequently is sold out completely.

Exact circulation figures are impossible to determine. USIA officials figure the magazine is passed from person to person so that it reaches a far larger audience than the 52,000 figure might indicate. One sign that the agency values the magazine highly is that a similar one is now in the planning stages for distribution in Poland.

Incidentally, there is one big difference between "America Illustrated" and typical U.S. publications. "America Illustrated" never receives any letters to the editor from its readers.

To The Editor

Editor: This is really an open letter to the school board and the taxpayers of Plymouth. I know I'm not a resident of Plymouth, nor a taxpayer of your city. Having been born and raised in Plymouth and graduating from P.H.S., my heart still lies with the hometown.

I can't for the life of me see the Plymouth School Board setting a precedent by allowing parochial school children to ride public school buses. With the movement on across the United States, it would only take a favorable decision by Plymouth's School Board to set the trend, and put on pressure in all the nation.

I have nothing against parochial school children, but I feel this way: parochial schools are in a sense, private schools. If you send your son to a military school or your daughter to a private girl's school, do you expect the public to pay their room and board? No, you pay the room, board and tuition, and at home you still pay taxes to support the public schools. This is as it should be. If you want your children to attend private schools, you should expect to pay the added costs and take inconveniences rather than asking the public to pick up the tab.

Then, think of the added costs to taxpayers. I think taxes in every hamlet in our nation are plenty high, agreed, the majority of said taxes goes to our schools. Yet, we cannot keep up with the added population, it goes without saying that if parochial school children used public school buses it would take more buses and more bus drivers to transport the children.

Now, with medicine having made such great strides, a large group of our population are on fixed incomes. How in the wide world they manage to pay taxes I'll never know! Our town consists of a lot of elderly couples and widows, the majority living on social security. Our township has helped them by reducing their taxes. Of course the reduction to them has been added on to the working man's taxes. We don't mind helping out these people who are expected to live on less than $100 per month, but if we had to pay added taxes to transport parochial school children to and from school when public schools are available then we'd yell.

That's my stand on this controversial national issue and I believe you'll find it's the sentiment of the majority. If people want to send their children to private schools, let them and them alone foot the bill for the privilege, also put up with the inconvenience of transportation for these children.

Kroger Gift Checks

Christmas gift checks totaling approximately $74,265.00 will go to employees of the Kroger Company in this area, it was announced today by Mr. C. Olaf Talla, vice president of the Detroit Division which operates local stores.

Christmas checks go to all full-time employees with six months or more service, with the exception of those who participate in a company incentive plan, Mr. Talla said. Incentive plan checks will be distributed early in 1959.

Contributions totaling $2,041,908.161 were reported by 52 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox bodies this year.

Stanley Park, Vancouver, oasis of towering cedars and first at the harbor entrance covers 1,000 acres.

THIS CANDLE light singing signaled the start of the fourth annual Christmas Boar's Head dinner, presented by the Men's Brotherhood of the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth. The event held last Wednesday night, stems from the Elizabethan period in England. The program was co-chaired by Dr. Henry Walch and Blaise Delaney.

Greetings
It's the season of rejoicing, of peace on earth, good will to men. May Christmas bring you complete happiness.

Holiday hosiery is more colorful than ever. A woman can choose stockings to match nearly any shade of evening shoe, from pale pink to dark green. Decorated hose also are in abundance. Look for clocks, ankle and knee embroideries. One Christmas number features a holly motif in jewels and gold.

Countess Mara now coordinates men's wear. She shows cufflinks, ties, and shirts in matching designs. Also available — vicuna socks.

Simplicity Patterns offers help to Moms costumeing small fry stars of school or church pageants. Pattern 4071 makes an inexpensive angel robe from white cotton sacks, wire and metallic paper.

Festive aprons for the hostess and her helpers: Red and green terrycloth bib styles, patterned with Christmas designs. The fabric absorbs spilled food and washes easily.

Spats make amusing stocking stuffers for teen-agers. The spats come in smooth felt on one side and plaid cotton on the other, in red, gray or black. They can be laundered repeatedly without fading.

The site for Gagetown, New Brunswick village near Saint John was donated by Gen. Thomas Gage in 1765.
