

Police Chief To Head Fire Department

Chief of Police Kenneth Fisher was appointed acting fire chief by City Manager Albert Glassford Tuesday night in a move that could lead to an entirely new administrative set-up for the two departments.

Glassford announced his appointment at Tuesday night's city commission meeting and later received commission approval. The entire arrangement is described as "tentative."

The manager said that the plan was proposed by city firemen themselves and that so far the advantages seem to outweigh the disadvantages.

Plymouth has been without a fire chief since March 8 when Chief Robert McAllister died suddenly of a heart attack. The city recently announced that applications would be taken for examinations for the position. The examinations have now been called off.

As fire chief, Fisher would serve only as administrative head of the fire department. He would not take part in fighting fires.

The plan calls for elevating the two battalion fire chiefs to the positions of acting fire chiefs. They are George Schoeneman and Charles Groth.

They would operate similar to their present method. The two are on duty on alternate days. When a fire occurs, the man on duty that day technically serves as chief, although the other probably shows up at the fire.

Glassford said that he is giving the arrangement a trial and that it could be terminated at any time that he sees that things are not working out properly.

City Write-Ins Work Hard But Fall Far Short

Two men attempting to gain election to the city commission through the write-in and "sticker" method failed by a long way to accomplish their mission. All four of the candidates whose names appeared on the ballot were elected and will officially take office next Monday.

J. Rusling Cutler, absent from the commission for two years, won a two-year term while Carl Shear, Robert Sincock and Marvin Terry, all incumbents, will serve another four years.

Not accomplishing their difficult task of getting into office through the write-in method were John Truer and Richard Merriam.

Also on the ballot was the race for municipal judge. It was won by Nandino Perlongo who has sat on the bench since 1949. Defeated by 308 votes was attorney Clifford Manwaring. The new term, lasting six years, does not start until Jan. 1, 1960.

The results:

City Commission
Marvin Terry	817
Robert Sincock	806
Carl Shear	716
J. Rusling Cutler	682
John Truer	280
Richard Merriam	166

Municipal Judge
Nandino Perlongo 767
Clifford Manwaring 458

Monday's election attracted 1,472 voters, 211 more than two years ago.

While the commission officially begins its new term next Monday, they will not hold their next meeting until the following Monday—April 20. At this meeting the new commission will follow the charter procedure of electing a mayor and mayor pro-tem. Cutler, who served a two-year term before being defeated two years ago, will fill a vacancy left by Harry Roberts who decided not to run again.

Marvin Terry, appointed to the commission in July 1953 and the senior member of the body, out-pollled other candidates by receiving 817 votes. Terry is owner of Terry's Bakery.

Sincock, a service station owner, now serving as mayor pro-tem gathered 806 votes while Carl Shear, retired auto dealer, had 716.

Charter provides that the three top vote-getters will have four-year terms while the fourth place candidate wins the two-year term. Cutler had 682 votes.

While the write-in candidates didn't come close to winning, their efforts were probably the most strenuous of any candidates for the jobs in recent years. Cards containing stickers and telling how to vote by the write-in method were passed out from house to house and near some of the polls.

Those familiar with politics realized that attempting to gain office through write-in is a very seldom successful venture. Few people are familiar with the method of voting and those voting with the stickers Monday found it a tough job to bend over and put the sticker on the roll of paper through the narrow slot. Some people reportedly gave up in attempt.

Many of Merriam's votes were presumably tossed out due to an illegal type sticker printed for him. No initial or first name were used with his last name and according to the county clerk, this is not in accordance with election law. (It was reported that a county election board's clerk has told backers that the name in any form was correct to use.)

City Clerk Kenneth Way said that after being instructed by the county clerk to not count stickers with initials or first names, he informed the first workers of the same. He said that he has no record of how many votes were lost because of the ruling.

The two write-in candidates were backed by a newly formed group called the Committee for Representative Government. One member of the committee stated last week that they are already thinking of candidates to run two years from now.

MOST OF THEM didn't know what was going on, but dozens of spectators leaned over the Northville Rd. bridge railing at Wilcox Lake Monday morning as two State Police skin divers probed the bottom. They were looking for two safes that Robert C. Davis of Plymouth said were dumped into the water. Davis had admitted committing some 70 burglaries. No safes were found. They also found no gun near the lake dam which Davis said he threw in several years ago.

Convicted Burglar Gives Skin Divers a Bum Steer

A sentence of four to five years in prison has been given Robert C. Davis, 263 West Ann Arbor Trail, who has admitted 70 burglaries during the past three years, most of them safe crackings.

Davis, 38, was sentenced in Oakland County Circuit Court on a charge of breaking into the American Screw Products Co. on Nine Mile Rd. in Farmington last October.

None of the 70 crimes took place in Plymouth. State Police declared this week. They took place in Wayne, Oakland and Washtenaw Counties. For most of the burglaries, he used pliers to remove cylinders in door locks of the buildings.

As part of the attempt of State Police to wrap up the case, two skin divers were brought here Monday to try locating two safes that Davis said had been dumped into the Rouge River at the Northville Rd. bridge. The State Police skin divers found nothing. They also looked for a gun that Davis said he threw into Wilcox Lake near the dam. It, too, was not located.

Other information Davis had given was quite accurate, State Police said. Davis' life of crime ended last October when Plymouth police arrested him. He had stolen 10 books of season tickets for Detroit Lions games from the American Screw Products Co. safe. He also took about $600.

A friend sold four books in Plymouth and the buyers showed up at a Lions game. There, police picked up the occupants of the reserved seats, found out who had sold them the tickets and the woman acquaintance admitted that Davis had given her the tickets to sell.

State Police said that many thousands of dollars were taken in the burglaries. Davis first pleaded innocent to the charge but later changed his plea to guilty. He was previously charged with breaking and entering in Washtenaw County and was on probation.

Local Employment Security Commission people report that some unemployed are receiving questionnaires asking personal information about them and quoting the Employment Security Act's penalty for withholding information. The cards are not being sent by the Commission and the attorney general's office and postal authorities are investigating...

The Chamber of Commerce is still receiving complaints about salesmen who allegedly sell products made by the blind. They have succeeded in selling merchandise by telling a husband, son or daughter that he is delivering merchandise ordered by the absent wife or mother.

NEW HOME: The city's department of public works has taken over the rear half of the former Christian Science Church for offices. The building, recently purchased by the city, will also be used by the Plymouth Community Credit Union. DPW Superintendent Joseph Bida has moved his office from the city garage to the former church.

DIVERSIFIED: The city's two write-in candidates had their stickers widely distributed on the voting machines by voters. Some stickers were placed where there were no candidates and one received a vote as state superintendent of public instruction.

WELL INFORMED: Two Wayne brothers will have to do a lot of reading to get their money's worth from their Monday morning Free Press. Soon after the papers were delivered after 2 a.m. Monday at Bill's Market, Old's Grocery, the National Bank corner and Hotel Mayflower, the brothers stole them—all 269. Anne Donnelly, the paper distributor here, gave police a description of a suspicious car she noticed. The brothers, aged 23 and 25, were traced and arrested. They said they wanted to sell the papers for scrap. Agreeing to pay the $28.35 restitution, the brothers now have 269 issues of the same newspaper to read.

Millage OK Assures Fire Hall Erection

Republicans maintained their firm grip upon the reins of Plymouth Township government Monday by sweeping their entire slate back into office.

Supervisor Roy Lindsay won his third term over Democrat Orville Tungate by 336 votes in what was probably the fiercest struggle for the job in the history of the township. Supervisor Lindsay pulled 926 votes while Tungate won 590. Their margin of difference was considerably lower than others seeking township board posts.

Monday's election, which drew 1,583 voters to the polls, also saw the approval of a half-mill levy to finance the operation of a proposed fire station in the Lake Pointe Village area. It won vote of 735 to 530.

Republican Treasurer Elizabeth Holmes, who has held the job since 1953, led her slate with 1,002 votes. Her opponent was Silvano Salvador with 507 votes. The township board's only new face will be Fred L. Miller, 46303 Phoenix Rd. He overpowered his foe, Mrs. Vina Galloway, with a 963-526 vote for the clerk's office.

Miller, who is a retired supervisor of accounting with Ford Motor Co., is expected to take office within the next week. He is no relation to the late Norman Miller who was clerk for nearly a quarter of a century. Mrs. Rosalind Broome, who was appointed clerk when Norman Miller resigned, was elected two years ago but decided not to enter the race this year.

Returning to the trustee position for the next four years will be C. Veach Sparks who received 959 votes to the 537 given Democrat Thomas Foley. Only the trustee positions are for four-year durations. One is elected every two years.

Looking at the rest of the township ballot, George Howell with 32 write-in votes is the new justice of the peace. His Democratic foe was Phillip E. Young with 7 write-in votes.

Walter Summer received 903 votes to beat Democrat Lawrence Money with 530 votes for the board of review.

The four Republican constable candidates were elected with ease. They were Robert H. Burns, 941; Vernell Hitt, 980; Donald King, 953; and Thomas Dorset, 951. The Democratic candidate, Fred Lester, pulled 505 votes.

Without opposition, Republican Frank Millington chalked up 992 votes as the highway commissioner candidate.

In commenting on his victory, Supervisor Lindsay declared that he wanted to thank all of his supporters.

"It means a continuation of the progress that we have already started. We will strive to give as an efficient and economic form of government as possible."

The defeated candidate, Tungate, stated that he was "very pleased" with the turnout. "We believe it was a good election as far as issues were concerned. We must agree with the mandate of the people and will do all in my power to see that Plymouth Township remains as a township. I hope that Mr. Lindsay feels free to call upon me at any time in any respect. I also thank my many loyal supporters."

One Township resident, Frank Millington, asked if the township supervisor candidate Orville Tungate was running for the office only because the Plymouth Mail wanted to sell

While Monday's turnout of 1,583 was a record for the biennial spring election, it was not the largest when compared with other elections. The record is the presidential election of 1956 when 2,471 voted. There are 2,966 registered voters in the township. Two years ago only 613 voted.

The Wonderful Six-Hour Day

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This column, prepared weekly by a joint committee on teacher welfare and the Board of Education, usually appears in the inside pages. But because of the widespread interest in this week's column, The Mail is giving the teacher group an opportunity to present its side of this subject on the front page.)

An old friend of ours named Indignant Taxpayer told us a thing or two the other day.

"What a racket you teachers have," he said. "Six hours a day, five days a week and only ten months a year. A real racket!"

We didn't blame him for being upset.

The way he told it, we do have a racket.

It looked to him as though teachers' working hours were only a step behind those of a department store Santa for blissful brevity. It reminded us of what Bill Klem, the old American Leaguer, said about umpiring: "The pay ain't much, but you can't beat the hours."

We knew our friend was honest but that he was drawing a conclusion from faulty facts. As a result we decided to survey the nearly 200 Plymouth teachers to see if the wonderful six-hour day exists.

We came up with a good deal of information on how teachers actually spend their day.

Classroom time, the only part of the work week visible to the naked eye, runs from eight to four each day, with forty-five minutes for lunch. The lunch period, though, can't be counted on by all teachers: it is frequently shortened considerably by hall duty, meetings, and various other acts of God and children. Nevertheless, the classroom work time can be set at thirty-six and a half hours a week.

This is probably what jarred our friend. Thirty-six or seven hours work never hurt anyone.

But there is a great deal more to teaching than classroom time.

No teacher walks into a class unprepared. Whether a teacher works with kindergartners or high schoolers, preparation for each day's class is vital and time consuming. No good teacher skimps here.

The kindergarten teacher, dealing with sixty or seventy tots, all different in needs, all in school for the very first time, must prepare class projects to instruct and interest each of them, a challenge to her imagination and skill. Besides preparing youngsters in the basics, teachers do their own work in music, art and gym. She can't do this without considerable planning—outside of school.

Or take the other end of the scale, senior high. It is clear that a man cannot simply roll out of bed, stroll to school, and instruct 150 youngsters, in say, American history, economics, sociology and government, in rapid and unthinking success.

Sirens to Blast Off In City Civil Defense Test

City residents are being warned not to get excited when they hear a long, continuous blast of the fire siren on Friday, April 18. It will be part of "Operation Alert 1959," a test of the Civil Defense Mobilization plan. The test is nationwide.

Sometime during the day the local police department will get a radio notice that a hydrogen bomb has been dropped on Detroit. The fire siren will be sounded for one continuous blast. (This is also the alarm should a tornado funnel be sighted nearby.)

When the test is over, the all clear signal will be three one-minute siren blasts and two minutes of silence between blasts.

Six Groups Participate In 'Parade of Bands'

Following is the tentative program of the six participating groups:

1. Fifth grade band-orchestra conducted by Wayne Dunlap "Puppet Parade March" by Weber; "German Waltz" Traditional; "Village Festival Overture."

2. Sixth grade band-orchestra conducted by Wayne Dunlap. "Overture to Merry Wives of Windsor," Niccolai; "Waltz Serenade," Janome; "American Dance Medley," Hoffman; "Our Flying Heroes March," Hoffman.

She Just Didn't Know About It

Crippled Plane Didn't Bother Wife of Co-Pilot

By LEE SECHLER

Friday seemed like another day to Mrs. Joseph Hertrich of 50150 Hanford Rd., Canton Township, Plymouth. Or until 4 o'clock it seemed that way.

For some reason or other she didn't have the radio turned on, too busy cleaning the house. Her husband, Joseph was busy, too. He was the co-pilot on the Capital Airlines Viscount that made a wheels-up landing at Willow Run last Friday afternoon.

The flight from New York was smooth, without a hint of trouble. Shortly before 1 p.m., pilot Earl D. Nygren entered the landing pattern expecting a normal landing.

The nose wheel and the left main gear were locked down but the right main gear wouldn't go down. After trying all the automatic switches, they tried the hand pumps to lower the wheels. When this failed, they tried putting the plane into a sudden climb in the hopes that the shock would snap the gear loose. No luck. The only alternative now was to make a belly-landing.

The ground crews started to work and the Viscount crew began circling the airfield to use up fuel and prepare the 11 passengers.

Still Mrs. Hertrich was unaware of the events taking place above Willow Run.

Joe went back to explain to the passengers what had happened and what was in store for them. In order to keep their minds off the landing, Joe and the stewardess helped the passengers help move the water jugs from the galley and place any and all objects that might hit someone out of the way.

The foam was on the runway and the plane's fuel supply was down. The passengers, after being briefed by Joe and prepared by the stewardess, were ready.

Pilot and co-pilot went over the landing check list to make sure they knew their assigned operation. Just before 3 p.m., one more passage was made over the runway for a final check, no room for mistakes. The next time around they were going to bring 21 tons of metal and its load of 11 riders in for a landing.

The plane floated down to the runway and slid to a stop on the foam much like a small boy on a patch of snow.

The plane was damaged but all the passengers walked away from the landing without a scratch. All except one. He scratched his little finger pushing out an exit, after the plane came to a halt.

Joe, assuming his wife had heard about the trouble on the radio, called his wife to let her know that he would be home in an hour.

"He sounded so calm that I couldn't understand why he would be home in an hour," laughed Mrs. Hertrich. "Joe was to catch a return flight to New York and get home about eight."

"We've just belied in the plane," was his reply.

Joe, who has seven years flying experience, explained that the reason the right main gear wouldn't drop was because part of the latch had broken, holding the wheels up.

"Actually the plane wasn't damaged very bad," he related. "It should be flying again sometime next week."

NEW ON the local political scene were these two men. They are J. Rusling Cutler, left, who will become a city commissioner next Monday, and Fred L. Miller, right, elected trustee. Cutler, an attorney, served two years on the commission previously. Miller, a retired accountant, will take office within a week.

Annual Meeting
The Annual Meeting was held Saturday evening at the Town Hall, with 174 people present. The meeting was called to order by William Scheel at 8 p.m. Minutes of the last year's meeting were read and approved. The Annual Report of the township was read by Wm. Scheel. A motion was made to continue to pay the sum of $100 a year for the care of each of the three cemeteries in the Township. Motion carried. A motion was made by Sam Bairo to discontinue the Patrol car in the Township and revert to the Sheriff Dept. and the State Police. Seconded by Fred Verran. Ballots were passed out. 149 votes were cast, 34 no and 115 yes and two blanks. After the voting a letter of resignation, dated as of April 1, was read from William Edmunds who has been the Township Deputy. A motion was read by James Johnston, President of the Stone School Board, in which he stated it wasn't right for the Township to obtain money from the two school districts for the operation of the Township. Discussion followed. Another motion was made by Leo Van Bonn to table the motion, seconded by S. Shear. Motion carried. Discussion was held on the subject of having a full time fireman. William Scheel reported that a petition had been started to have it put on the ballot. Motion was made to adjourn.

These are the results of other local contests: Clerk: Betty Shear (R) 282; Edith M. Eberhart (D) 214. Treasurer: Harlow Ingall (R) 320; Anna E. Houser (D) 182. Trustee: Edwin M. Hamilton (R) 291; William D. Lemon (D) 207. Justice of the Peace: Ralph W. Cole (R) 269; C.F. Grimmes (D) 228.

Board of Review: Coda Savery (R) 294, unopposed. Constable (four elected): Raymond Doolin (R) 293; William Edmunds (R) 286; Carleton Hardesty (R) 280; Donald Tiffin (R) 293; Robert Bryant (D) 206; Herbert Canada (D) 210; Kenneth Moomey (D) 206.

Commissioner of Highways: Robert Bulmon (R) 319, unopposed.

Betty Shear as the clerk will be the new member of the Township Board. Ingall has been treasurer for five terms while Hamilton was also an incumbent.

Looking at other candidates on the ballot, Salem Township voters gave their support for the Republicans, although it was not by an extremely wide margin. The difference for most candidates was around 60 votes.

Trustee: Elmer Schultz (R) 628; Colburn Dennis (D) 418. Justice of the Peace: Robert Simmons (R) 532; Richard Lehman (D) 470.

Board of Review: Albert Schrader (R) 688; Alex Wajski (D) 301.

Constables (top four elected): Bert Walling (D) 550; Clare Avery (D) 478; Wilfred Cather (R) 448; John Collins (R) 441. Also, Melvin Paulon (R) 430; Lawrence Baron (D) 422; Harold Hannon (R) 403.

While those on the township board now in office, a mixture of Democrats and Republicans, were in the running together trying to stay in office, it was incorrectly reported last week that those on the "outside" trying to get in office were also grouped together.

This was not the case, according to candidate Wadecker. Canton Democrats ran as a slate, he said.

William Scheel Wins Another Term in Salem

Salem Township's Republican supervisor, William I. Scheel, has won another two-year term after his opponent, Fred C. Verran, came within an uncomfortable margin in Monday's biennial election.

Verran came within 44 votes of tying the GOP supervisor in an election that saw 530 electors going to the polls. Scheel received 274 votes while Verran polled 230.

None of the other Republicans seemed to have a close call as Scheel who has been in office 10 years. Salem Township traditionally is Republican.

But Scheel has had closer calls. One time his opponent came within eight votes and asked for a recount. But Scheel gained votes in the recount.

These are the results of other local contests: Clerk: Betty Shear (R) 282; Edith M. Eberhart (D) 214. Treasurer: Harlow Ingall (R) 320; Anna E. Houser (D) 182. Trustee: Edwin M. Hamilton (R) 291; William D. Lemon (D) 207.

Stein Begins Fourth Term As Canton Twp. Supervisor

It was the majority decision of 1,179 electors going to the polls in Canton Township Monday to retain the present Canton township board headed by GOP Supervisor Louis Stein.

Stein, who has been in office since 1953, accumulated 673 votes to defeat Democratic candidate Robert Wadecker, a former supervisor.

Wadecker received 423 votes. Also remaining in office is Democrat John Flodin as clerk, Democrat Philip Dingeldey as treasurer and Republican Elmer Schultz as trustee.

The results were: Clerk: John Flodin (D) 811; Wray Smith (R) 262. Treasurer: Philip Dingeldey (D) 850; Hagbard Berg (R) 222.

Trustee: Elmer Schultz (R) 628; Colburn Dennis (D) 418. Justice of the Peace: Robert Simmons (R) 532; Richard Lehman (D) 470.

Board of Review: Albert Schrader (R) 688; Alex Wajski (D) 301.

Constables (top four elected): Bert Walling (D) 550; Clare Avery (D) 478; Wilfred Cather (R) 448; John Collins (R) 441. Also, Melvin Paulon (R) 430; Lawrence Baron (D) 422; Harold Hannon (R) 403.

While those on the township board now in office, a mixture of Democrats and Republicans, were in the running together trying to stay in office, it was incorrectly reported last week that those on the "outside" trying to get in office were also grouped together.

This was not the case, according to candidate Wadecker. Canton Democrats ran as a slate, he said.

Church News

Rally Day at the Salem Federated Church was hailed as a big success. A new Sunday School record attendance of two hundred ninety-five was set, the previous record being two hundred seventy-three. Approximately three hundred attended their Morning Worship Service and heard Lieutenant Wilburn Legee, Flint's Singing Cop sing several gospel songs, relate many interesting police experiences and give a testimony of what Christ meant in his own life.

There were approximately thirty-five "first timers" in Sunday School and these were presented with "We Welcome You" ribbons. Awards were presented to those bringing the most folks not presently enrolled in our Sunday School.

April has been set aside as Sunday School Month and officers and workers of the Sunday School will make an all out effort to keep the attendance above the two hundred mark.

Judge Bowles Returned To County Bench

Circuit Court Judge George E. Bowles of Plymouth was one of the 18 candidates elected to the circuit bench in Wayne County Monday, running 11th in the field of 28.

Judge Bowles, who is the only circuit court judge from Western Wayne County, won 182,437 votes, according to an unofficial tally. His new term will not expire until Dec. 31, 1965.

In the city of Plymouth he received 965 votes, more than any other candidate on the ballot. Plymouth Township voters gave him 215 votes, more than any other circuit judge candidate.

In a statement issued yesterday, Judge Bowles declared: "Mrs. Bowles and I sincerely thank the many friends and supporters in the area. Nat Sibbold and his committee were particularly helpful." He then pledged his continued effort to assure that every case before him is justly heard.

ANYONE YOU RECOGNIZE? They are the ladies that have adopted Ward N at the Northville State Hospital. They entertain 75 to 100 patients each month with games and refreshments of homemade cake, coffee, ice cream. A birthday cake is made and decorated by Ruth Burton and a gift given to each patient having a birthday in that month. They call themselves the Plymouth Birthday Group, and for March put on a play "Easter Around The World." They authentically represented many different countries and were well received by their audience of over 600 patients.

GRANGE GLEANINGS

A large turnout of about 75 guests attended the Grange meeting last Thursday evening with the potluck supper being highlighted with a beautiful delicious birthday cake in honor of Mr. Spicer's birthday. The chef was none other than his daughter Betty Norman. A poem for Mr. Spicer was recited by Mrs. Jessie Vealey for this special occasion.

The program for this meeting was of special interest to all the members. Mr. Al Glassford Plymouth's city manager presented a display of the future plans for the City of Plymouth and explained their significance of the contemplated changes.

The Sewing Contest judges announced three winners at the meeting: 1st prize Louise Tritten 2nd prize Esther Jacobs and 3rd prize to Milly Rienas. All the dresses entered were greatly admired and appreciated.

The next Grange meeting will be in charge of the Health Committee with Mary Fillmore as Chairman. The Grange women will exhibit the Red Cross equipment they have been working on this winter and will be shown to the public.

Remember our Anniversary meeting on May 7th. We will be celebrating our 85th Anniversary of the founding of the Grange also the 50th of Mr. and Mrs. Spicer's becoming Grange members. We plan to have a tasty potluck supper and hope all those generous dishes arrive for our extra guests!

Some of our social news of the Grange—Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lunn were weekend guests of his brother and family in Paine, Ohio.

Mrs. Spicer is seriously ill at her home on Ann Arbor Trail. All of our members wish her a speedy recovery.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) Police rushed into an apartment where smoke was billowing from a gas oven and a space heater was glowing in the corner and found three small children clustered around the TV set calmly watching a program.

Start Fishing Rebuilding Started SOONER At Brae Burn Club

(This is the second in a series concerning Plymouth's golf courses)

An expensive and extensive rebuilding and remodeling program is being planned by the owners of Brae Burn golf course.

Work started Monday on a new addition to the club house facilities that are offered by the Blocks. The existing building damaged by fire is to remain, with the new section to be completed in about two months.

The new building will eventually house the dining space and will cost around $16,000. At the end of the season the clubhouse that was damaged by fire will be remodeled at a cost of $25,000. When completed the two buildings will give the appearance of being L shaped.

The parking area and drive have not escaped the Blocks' attention. This too is receiving some changed.

As for the course itself, the 17th hole is longer. This was done because of the building of a new tee.

A change of rates was also announced to be as follows: weekdays, nine holes $1.50, 18 at $2.00; all day $2.00; weekends $2.00 for nine and 18 for $2.75. The twilight league will be active again this year at a cost of $1.25 for weekdays after 4 p.m. and $1.50 for weekends.

Memberships are $100 for men and $150 for the husband and wife. A Jr. membership is listed at $50.

All the last year's leagues are back and a few new ones have not escaped the Blocks' Electric teams are expected to play here.

Found something better than T.V. last Friday night. Wrestling at the State Fair grounds. Not the best, but then it did provide some laughs. Understand that it is to be a weekly event.

How about some wild baseball facts to pull at the next party you go to? Do you know who wore the first baseball glove? Or who was the first to catch a ball dropped from the Washington Monument? Read on.

The first clash between a player and his arch-enemy—the umpire—occurred June 19, 1846, when the Knickerbocker Club of New York played the New York Baseball Club at Elysian Fields in Hoboken, N.J. A player named Davis was fined six cents for cussing. The umpire was Alexander Cartwright, a leading player for the Knicks, who had chosen to umpire instead.

That game was also the first instance of team baseball as we know it. The New York club won 23 to 1 after four innings.

The Knickerbocker Club, formed in 1845, was the first regular baseball organization. And in the third season, the members donned blue and white uniforms to become the first team uniformly outfitted.

A breach of baseball etiquette made Al Reach the first paid ball player. In 1864, it was considered unethical for a player to "jump" from one team to another. Reach, however, deserted the Brooklyn Atlantics when he was offered money by the Philadelphia Athletics.

Five years later, the Cincinnati Red Stockings turned professional and became the first salaried team.

In those days, baseball was far from the gentlemanly game the Knickerbockers had played. A player might leave the field bleeding or unconscious after stopping a fast ball, but he refused to baby himself by wearing protective equipment.

In 1875, however, Charles Waite, first baseman for Boston, put on a glove—flesh-colored, so the fans wouldn't notice it. A.G. Spalding finally wore a dark brown glove, adding stuffing to it a little at a time.

The first catcher's mask was developed in 1878 for a Harvard player who preferred being called a sissy to have his fine Barrymore profile smashed.

Still wondering about the Washington Monument? Well, Billy "Pop" Schriver of a Chicago ball club caught a ball dropped from the 500-foot level of the memorial in 1892. Just a grandstander, but—that's baseball.

Sunday's sunshine brought out the bats and balls as the small fry on the block where I live spent the better part of the afternoon enjoying it. Even some of the older group were found there at mealtime.

One tennis player was almost cut from the squad in a hurry. He faded back to back hand a deep shot and narrowly missed Jim Doyle. That's when I heard that the best way to get cut was to hit the coach. Other than that anything goes.

Looked like the Indians have taken over Michigan Sunday. Counted at least eight boys with bows and arrows. Don't know who they were after but they had plenty of arrows. Maybe Custer was in town. Their movement was toward the west.

Dzurus One of Nine To Receive Award

Jim Dzurus, local high school graduate, was one of nine University of Florida freshmen to receive an award for their basketball ability.

The frosh ended the season with 15-4 tallie in the ledger and promise to do even more next year.

Being on a winning team is not new to Jim. Last year he was named to the Suburban Six second team, in a guard position. Young Dzurus retained his rebounding mastery and set-shooting ability when he went to Florida.

THESE THREE captured four of the six top places offered in the car customizing contest sponsored by Jerry's Shoe Repair and Hobby Shop. Left to right they are: Bill Norgrove, fifth place; Barry Radawill, first and third; and Butch Lockwood, second. Absent when the picture was taken were David Wendt, fourth place winner and Barbara Santhony, sixth. Barbara was the only girl of the 24 who entered.

Conservation Notes

LANSING, Apr. — Officials of the Conservation Department and the Bear Creek Mining Company are discussing a proposed "all-minerals" lease for wildcat exploration on public lands in the western upper peninsula.

The proposed lease would give the mining company the right to explore lands where the mineral situation is generally unknown, and at the same time safeguard the state's interests in case a body of economic minerals is uncovered.

Most of the lands in question are in the Ottawa National Forest; lands where the Federal government owns the surface rights and the state owns the mineral rights. The state has more than 130,000 acres of mineral rights in that area, although the mining company has not specified which lands it wants.

Bear Creek is the same company that recently requested a lease in Porcupine Mountains state park; the present request, however, is in no way connected with the earlier Porcupines question; nor are the lands in question located in any state-owned development project.

No action can be taken for several months. Also, the Conservation Commission must approve any arrangement step-by-step, as there is no precedent for such exploration.

IRENE CANNING
GL. 3-1244

Hi Neighbors! I do hope all the parents, children and teenagers have thoroughly enjoyed their Easter vacation. At least some of you must have been able to catch up on an extra 40 winks of sleep.

"Happiness goes out from the heart before it comes in. It never by any chance stays at home. You can harvest it for the common good, but you cannot store it for the individual use. You can lend it, but you cannot accumulate it."

A man must contribute to the stock of human joys before he can participate in its profits. To seek happiness without giving it is a futile quest, and all our longings for it, if we have not learned to give it to others is foolishness. Happiness never really was any good in this world but to give away." Anon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Nowland of Lakeland Court have been busy this past week taking advantage of the warm weather. They have been leveling off their lawn and spreading gravel in their back yard. We know Ray must be participating in the joys of mowing that fine lawn one of these nice summer days.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sumner of Bradner Road had visitors over the Easter holiday. They were daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Willoughby and daughter Suzanne, of Bambier, O. Mr. Willoughby is attending Kenyon College in Bambier, O.

Mr. and Mrs. James Pope of Lakeland Court visited Mr. and Mrs. John Steinmiz, Mrs. Poppes' parents in Detroit last weekend.

Mrs. William McAllister tells us that Bill was down in bed for awhile having a siege with the Flu bug. That old bug is still hovering around the folks in our neighborhood. Did you have to tie him down Lois, or did you lock him in? Sometimes these men are sort of hard to convince that they need a rest. We do hope Bill is back to work by now, as we miss his smiling face around the store.

We failed to mention Mrs. George Conover, Mrs. Howard Anderson, Mrs. Childs, Mrs. John Reece and Mrs. Robert Hudson when we told of all the busy bees from the Farrand School who helped to make the bake sale such an outstanding success. Thank you wonderful mothers for your excellent cooperation.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawton Billings of Schoolcraft Road have just returned from a month's vacation in the sunny Southland. Mrs. Billings said the second week they were in Miami, Fla. it rained six nights and five days. She said the sun finally broke through on the sixth day and they managed to get a southern looking tan on the third week. They spent a lot of time around Miami Beach. They enjoyed the fishing and also the fresh fruit around Tampa, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williamson and Miss Lucy Barnes drove to Greenville, So. Carolina Good Friday. While in Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. Williamson visited their daughter Theola, who is enrolled at Bob Jones University. Theola is majoring in Home Economics and Christian Education. Mr. and Mrs. Williamson and Miss Barnes enjoyed the Bible Conference which was being held at Bob Jones University. Miss Barnes renewed acquaintances with a lot of old friends at the University. Mrs. Williamson said they had driven south as far as Orlando, Fla. and were on their way back to pick up Miss Barnes, when they learned of the tornado which had hit Orlando. They had just missed the tornado by about fifteen miles. Mrs. Williamson said she was so thankful they had started back north the night before.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Horvath of Phoenix Court had dinner in Windsor, Ontario, last Tuesday evening. They dined at the Club Metropole. Linda Horvath spent last week with her friend Aileen Holstead, who lives in Wayne, Mich. Mrs. Horvath said they are putting up a new fence to protect their grass and flowers.

Mrs. McIntyre and her father, Mr. F. E. Ford and her two daughters, Susan and Kathy flew by T.W.A. to Phoenix, Arizona on March 21. They took a one day side trip to the Grand Canyon and another one day trip to Hoover Dam. They visited Los Vegas, Nevada, Tijuana, Mexico, Los Angeles, San Diego, and San Francisco, Cal. They reported no rain in San Francisco and no smog in Los Angeles. They took a trip through the Redwoods Forest and said the thermometer registered 80 degrees in San Francisco. They flew a variety of airlines including Western, Bonanza and Frontier. While they were in Los Angeles they enjoyed riding on the Freeway which had eight lanes of traffic. Mrs. McIntyre said she had never seen so many people going places before. They took tours every other day to places of interest but managed to stay in one place long enough to acquire a wee bit of tan. They returned home Sat., March 4.

Mrs. Elton McAllister of Lakeland called to tell us about the Gracious Gormay Group. This is a group of ladies composed of the following: Mrs. William Baumgartner, Mrs. Roger Smithling, Mrs. William Medlyn, Mrs. Robert Tripp, Mrs. Ralph Walsh, Mrs. James Pope, Mrs. Elton McAllister, Mrs. Richard Wheaton, Mrs. Finch Roberts, Mrs. Henry Gottwald, Mrs. Robert Grieve and Mrs. Nicholas Stratten. Mrs. Florence Wheaton is chairman of this group. A meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Nicholas Stratten of Schoolcraft Road on March 23. There were nine members present. Mr. Saxton of Plymouth loaned a movie "How Green Does Your Grass Grow." Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ralph Walsh. The next meeting will be held on April 30. Mrs. Finch Roberts will be in charge of the meeting.

Come on neighbors, call in your news of interest to the neighborhood. The number to call is GL. 3-1244. See you in print next week.

Plymouth High School

By Gloria Bowles

Homeroom meetings today signaled the start of Plymouth High's 1959 elections. At stake on Election Day, May 12, are All-School offices—mayor, vice-mayor, secretary and treasurer of the Student Council, president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer of the classes and four Student Council posts in each class.

Senior Claudia Kessler, appointed by Mayor West to head the Election Board, announced the names of students to be working with her on the Board. They are seniors Dave Graves, Bette Argo, Jeanette Ridley, Susan Campbell and junior Linda Lee.

For three successive days beginning April 13 each class nominating board, made up of homeroom representatives, will meet once to select slates for class offices. April 23 is the date set for the class caucus, when all class members will have an opportunity to make additions to the preliminary slate submitted by the nominating board. The class caucuses also serve as a kind of primary for nominations must be approved by the class, which narrows down the field of candidates.

Any student, whose name does not appear on the slate after the class caucus and who wishes to run may circulate a petition with signatures of 25 percent of the class. Petitions must be submitted by May 1.

Nominations for all-school offices will be made at a joint meeting of the nominating board on April 21.

Registration for elections is slated for April 27 and 28. New students and those who failed to vote in two previous elections should register on one of these dates.

Campaign week—May 5 to 9—will find excitement at a high pitch... swinging into the final days of the campaign, a Public Address System assembly will be presented, with candidates for all school offices expounding on their "platforms." "Butterflies - in - the - tummy - day," when ballots will be cast, is May 12.

Windup of activity is the Inaugural Assembly, scheduled for May 21.

Yesterday morning 35 talented PHS'ers traveled to Bentley, where they presented a Talent Assembly. (It was a "night club atmosphere, a casual mood," said Dick Hubert, chairman of the project.) Eleven acts performed for Bulldog fans. At the same time, Bentleyites were in Plymouth to show off their singing, dancing and guitar strumming skills.

Robert Browning used 3,413 proper names in his poems.

THE MAIL ATTITUDE

BY PAUL CHANDLER

Monday's election, in our opinion, constituted one of the shining hours in the history of Plymouth Township.

A large, representative body of voters took the time and trouble to get out and make their beliefs known. They did this because of a really aggressive political campaign and also, we believe, because The Mail had focused a great deal of attention on the election.

The result is that the community clearly understands how the citizens feel about their Township government. They gave a staunch vote of approval to their administration and specifically to Supervisor Roy Lindsay.

Without the big turn-out on Monday, the majority beliefs would still be a secret. Plymouth Township in the past has been through mostly "token" elections where a small portion of the electorate approved unopposed candidates. From those tests, it wasn't possible to conclude much of anything.

The fact that I, as your local editor, had a view different than that of the majority is completely irrelevant today, and something should be explained:

I believe it is my unavoidable responsibility to write my beliefs and opinions, as an indication to readers of The Mail of what we have seen in our travels as a reporter, and how we interpret facts.

To do less would be to deliver a newspaper with serious deficiencies in it.

We'll always have something positive to say at key moments in local affairs.

But we well realize our voice is one voice only. It is presented as a part of the total. Whatever influence it might have will inevitably be determined by our accuracy, our truthfulness, and our fairness—matters which can be measured only over a stretch of time.

And while we have an obligation to lead public opinion, we also have a duty to respond to it. Whenever the voters tell us they don't agree with us, and the issue has been presented fairly to them and the true majority has sounded its decision, The Mail will be respectful and join unflinchingly in the total, united effort to make this a better place to live.

We compliment Supervisor Lindsay, his teammates, and the organized Republican majority on a really tough, victorious campaign. It was no fluke victory.

The Plymouth Community often has been accused of "apathy." There was none in Plymouth Township Monday.

Plans are now completed for the 13 Anniversary and Mortgage burning celebration at the Post home, Saturday, April 11. There will be a Pot-Luck dinner at 6 p.m., followed by an unusual "burning ceremony" and dancing. Several out-of-town guests are expected. Chairman, Ed Kopenski and his committee promise a most enjoyable evening.

The Post notes with pride, their Basketball League, (18 and under) finished in third place. Congratulations to the team!

Another important event on the calendar is the Installation of Officers of both the Post and Auxiliary. This ceremony will take place on Saturday, April 25 at the Post home. This is an impressive event which is the beginning of the term for the new officers.

According to the MOV, one of the biggest conventions ever staged at Traverse City is being planned when the VFW state conclave meets there June 25 through June 28th. Many Post and Auxiliary members are planning to attend, remembering the fine hospitality shown there three years ago. The schedule of events will be covered later, but everything points to a successful convention.

Official "Poppy Days" in Michigan will be May 21, 22 and 23rd, this year. Michigan's goal this year is one million poppies, although that number was not sold in 1958. This is one of several projects, which will require assistance by all our members. Approaching its climax is the membership drive. Our Post is slightly behind our 1958 membership, but should be able to reach 100 per cent with a little extra effort.

Spoon and Spool 4-H Treat Their Moms

The Spoon and Spool 4-H Club had a party March 31 for their mothers. The affair was to show how much they had learned in the fine art of cooking. Fruit salad, coffee and cookies and Hawaiian Punch was graciously served. The members were late over the skirts they have made and are hoping they will win a prize on 4-H Achievement Day for juniors to be held April 18.

Chamber Asks for Removal Of Meters in Central Parking Lot

With an admission that they are "frankly worried" about the huge Wonderland shopping center due to open in Livonia next fall, Plymouth Chamber of Commerce representatives submitted a parking proposal to the city commission Tuesday night.

Chamber Manager Donald Millikin and member James Taylor made the presentation that in essence asks the city to remove parking meters from the Central Parking Lot.

Taylor declared that offering free parking to compete with shopping centers should be done now, rather than wait until Wonderland opens. "This is not the complete answer, but it is one brick in the structure," Taylor added.

Questioned about the use of free parking space by employees themselves, Taylor said that he is confident that employers must police their employees and it would be up to us to do it.

Millikin said that the Retail Trades Committee working on the problem "may be completely in error" in its approach to the problem, but it feels that it may be one way of helping the commission to meet the problem.

Mayor Harold Guenther said that the city manager is now working on one approach that he intends to have ready soon. He said that he for one would not favor having the general fund pay off the parking fund debt.

The proposal points out that meters in the Central Lot now produce about $5,000 annually which is used to pay off the city's parking fund debt. City Manager Albert Glassford reported that this debt is now $47,500.

Continuing, the proposal asks the commission to determine how much increased valuation within the central business area will reap in taxes during the year. If the survey reveals that $5,000 in additional taxes is being collected from this area, "it might seem advisable to bolster that tax base by free parking. Such a plan would preserve this important tax base which we cannot afford to dilute and would provide a more solid foundation for our future planning."

Petitioners Ask Planning Chairman Disqualification

A petition signed by 40 people living in the Maplecroft Subdivision area asking that Planning Commission Chairman Sidney Strong disqualify himself from entering further Symar Subdivision discussions was presented to the city commission Tuesday night—and later handed back.

It was during the "citizens suggestions" portion of the agenda that the petition was presented to Mayor Harold Guenther. The petition pointed out that Symar Subdivision people are represented by attorney J. Rusling Cutler, son-in-law of the planning commission chairman.

For this reason, the petition declared, Mr. Strong should step down from the commission during the Symar discussions.

(Symar Subdivision is a proposed development near the Junior High which has been opposed by some residents in nearby Maplecroft Subdivision because there was only one through street into the area from Main St. and they questioned the type of house to be built.)

(The Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on the developer's new plat next Thursday night.)

Township Okays 1959 Budget For $115,610

Saturday, April 4 was the annual meeting for the Township of Plymouth. Approximately 50 residents attended out of a possible 6,300 to approve the 1959 proposed budget for $115,610, an approximate increase of almost $30,000 over 1958.

Mrs. Roy Lindsay made the motion to accept the budget. It passed unanimously.

A request for a motion was made by Supervisor Roy Lindsay to set up a contingency fund (for emergencies) of $10,000. The motion was made by William Reid and passed unanimously.

They allowed it, they said, because their proposed building code that they intend to soon adopt allows the lower ceiling, and so does PHA.

Truer asserted that the commission had no authority to grant the request since state building laws forbid a 7 foot 6 inch ceiling. He said that an organization of people in his neighborhood feel strongly enough about the point to take the matter to court.

With this indication, the city commission directed City Attorney Harry Deyo to submit a written opinion about ceiling heights as defined by state law.

Motion was made by resident I. Miller and passed to set the date of the next Annual Meeting for May 6, 1960 at Plymouth Town Hall.

Motion was made by Mrs. Louis Norman to approve the Board's appointment for the coming year of Earl J. Demel as Township Lawyer; Herald Hamill as Township Engineer; and Walter Martin as Township Auditor. Motion carried.

On a motion from Gerald Muir, the assemblage rose in salute to the present Township Board, as a vote of thanks for the work they had done, in behalf of the Township during the past year.

Motion to adjourn was made by Mrs. Roy Lindsay.

Truer declared that they are not basing their request on law, but on the morality issue involved. He said that he realized that Strong has donated much time as a planner, but the petitioners must use this method to bring the

From the Teacher's Desk

Many teachers take part, too, in voluntary activities not always directly connected with their classes. Sponsoring clubs, advising classes, chaperoning school functions; these are a few of the items that make demands, sometimes heavy, on the teachers' time.

We hope our friend Indignant Taxpayer won't misunderstand. We are neither complaining nor boasting of the time a teacher puts in. We like it, or we wouldn't be teaching.

But we don't like the myth of the wonderful six-hour day.

We want to be judged by our total performance, not by the time-clock part.

Fair enough?

The teacher's job doesn't end with preparation, though, or even with presentation to the class. There are always the follow through: the evaluation and correction of themes, reports, tests.

Take the average high school teacher. She meets 150 students a day. One paper a week from each means 150 papers to evaluate—outside of class. How long should she spend on each paper? That's hard to say, but if she decides that five minutes each is enough she has added over twelve hours a week to her work time; that is, another twelve hours added to class time and preparation.

Earlier in the meeting, Truer, one of the two unsuccessful write-in commission candidates, got into another discussion about a building code matter. Two weeks ago the city commission, sitting as the building board of appeals, decided to allow a lower floor ceiling of 7 feet 6 inches for a Park Lane Subdivision home. City building code requires an 8 foot ceiling or higher.

Township Board Discusses Buying Of Sensimatic

At the Township Board meeting April 1, the purchase of a new Burrough's Sensimatic (billing) Machine, for approximately $5,000 was discussed.

Supervisor Roy Lindsay explained the purchase of this machine was necessary, since beginning this summer Plymouth Township residents will be receiving water and sewer bills. He further stated, before the purchase could be made, they would have to get an opinion from Miller, Canfield, Paddock, and Stone, regarding taking the money for the purchase from the Water and Sewer Dept. funds.

newspapers and questioned him, if elected, would the Plymouth Mail run the Township?

In answer to a question by Paul M. Chandler, Carl J. Shear answered the last question of the evening with a dramatic "yes." The question was whether it was true that industry is trying to locate in Plymouth Township. Previously Supervisor Lindsay had stated there was no industry that he knew of wanting to locate in the Township.

The moderator called an end to the meeting and the Chairman adjourned it, with the obvious question in everyone's mind—who wanted to locate in the Township? The supervisor made an attempt to be heard once more, however, the meeting was formally and finally over. On the most part the three hour meeting was courteous, but not dull.

of the many choices to be made on the state and county levels. There were 18 candidates selected for circuit court judgeships alone.

Long lines were found throughout the day at the township hall's three precincts. Cars jammed the parking lot and firemen were called in to direct traffic.

I wish to thank all the voters of Plymouth who supported my campaign for Municipal Judge. I pledge to fulfill my promise to keep our community as clean as possible.

State Legislature Hails Newspapers

LANSING — The Michigan Legislature has commended The Plymouth Mail and more than 300 other Michigan newspapers for participating in a unique industrial development advertising program. The resolution, adopted unanimously by members of both the House and Senate, paid tribute to the newspapers for publishing a year-long series of industrial development advertisements sponsored by the Michigan Press Association and Michigan Economic Development Department.

Calling it "an outstanding example of public service," the resolution said the advertisements have made Michigan residents "aware of the need for effective local industrial development programs."

"These advertisements have brought to millions of newspaper readers a better concept and understanding of industrial development and the need for participation in such local undertakings," the resolution said.

"This understanding seems certain to lead to stronger industrial development programs to attract new industry to our State and to encourage Michigan industry to expand within our boundaries."

The advertising campaign will help "assure continuing progress and a greater Michigan" the resolution said. The resolution extended "the appreciation of the people of Michigan" to newspapers "who are participating so generously in this advertising campaign as a means of advancing the industrial and economic progress of every Michigan community."

Stamp-Sized Post Office LAWS, Calif. (UPI) — The post office for this tiny Southern California community — 29 registered voters — is 9 x 15 ft. It was obtained in 1932 by Joe Smith, husband of Postmistress Florence Smith, in exchange for two loads of gravel. The party of the second part was the Shell Oil Co.

Jack and Doris Ryder returned to Lake Pointe last Friday after a three week absence. They have been away following in the warm sunshine at Fort Lauderdale, Florida. The trip to and from Florida was quite successful with no unhappy events as so many times befall travelers on such a long journey. Their young sons, Jeffery and Jackie, rode in the rear seat of the car which had been made up comfortably into a play and rest area by installing the crib mattress. This made a sealed off space from back to front seat, giving the children plenty of free moving-around area.

The Ryders selected the Ocean Echo Motel at Fort Lauderdale. They spent two weeks there, with one week left for traveling. Jeffery enjoyed the ocean waves, but only after several dubious tries at it. Jackie loved it from the start. During one of the rainy days they visited the Sea Aquarium where the porpo, sharks, and all the other sea creatures are so magnificently displayed.

Have had several more calls from troubled persons in our Village concerning the dogs. Seems like there are still many dogs running loose and annoying the children and adults. One person told me that her neighbor was very much frightened by a large dog who chased her in her own backyard. The Township Dogcatcher is on 24 hour duty and can be seen patrolling the neighborhood lately. If the dogs are taken away, a four dollar fine is issued and must be paid before the pet can be returned to its owner.

Lawrence and Doris Collins of 42372 Brentwood Drive moved to Lake Pointe from Chelsea, Michigan at Half Moon Lake last December. They are now busy getting ready for the outdoor work that awaits them, since they plan on having a vegetable garden at the rear of their backyard.

Larry loves to work at different projects at the workbench which he has set up in the basement. He also has plans for building an addition to their new home. Larry is a bricklayer by trade, but is attending school in order to become an architect.

Doris is pretty well occupied all day since there are four little Collinses to keep her busy. They are red-headed Craig, who is 4½, blonde Cheryl, 3½, and the 20 month old twins Tary (who is brunette) and Gary (who is a brownette). Doris says they really have a variety this way, and we agree!

Just heard about a new diet the other day—sounds fascinating! It's called the Miracle Diet and is presented as being safe, medically approved, nutritionally sound, and fast. You can lose 14½ pounds in just 28 days (if you have the willpower—that is!) Here's how it goes:

Recipe for one day:
4 oz. orange juice, 3 whole eggs, 1 quart plus ½ pint skim milk (or reconstituted dry skim milk), 3 tablespoons salad oil;
Beat eggs. Beat in the other ingredients. Pour into covered jars. Refrigerate. Shake well before serving.
Your regimen:
Take a six ounce glass seven times a day; preferably at breakfast time, 11 a.m., lunchtime, 2 p.m., 5 p.m., dinnertime, and bedtime.
Before you go on a diet though, you should check with your doctor. It is nothing short of foolhardy to gamble with anything as important as your health without medical approval. P.S. Let us know how this diet works.

Young Les Bartson recently received news that he has won another award in the Eastern Michigan Scholastic Writing Awards Contest. This is his third award, having won an award each session since he first entered the competition three years ago. His winning article was in the familiar essay category, the subject being the ocean liner QUEEN MARY. Les is also being initiated into the National Thespian Society this month.

From Ypsilanti to Lake Pointe at 4248 Hammill Lane was the move for the Howes several months ago. Many of us are already familiar with the name John Howe since John is the physical education instructor at the Farrand School. Besides teaching at Farrand, John also instructs at the Bird, Gallimore and Cherry Hill Schools. Lenore teaches first grade pupils at the Gallimore School. They have a daughter, Leann who is 3½ years old. Leann attends the Lee Nursery School on Ann Arbor Trail, while Mommy and Daddy are away teaching.

John is busy these days camping out—he has already camped out one week and has five more weeks to go. Each school he teaches will have its turn at either the camp at Proud Lake in Milford or Island Lake near Brighton. The Farrand School will attend camp classes at Island Lake. There they have cabins which house 12 to 15 children. There will be art teachers and resource people from Michigan State University to help the children have a wonderful time while camping out. The Proud Lake camp is of the domitory type and houses 60 boys and 60 girls at one time. Hope all the children have a splendid time! And John too!

Over on Brentwood Drive at 42336 we have still another teacher, Peggy Heiney. Peggy teaches the kindergarten students at Taft Elementary in Livonia. During the summer she plans on being a co-ordinator at the Tot-Lot nursery classes in Coventry Gardens in Livonia.

The children are enrolled there for six weeks and spend from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. enjoying themselves out in the sunshine. Charles Heiney is employed at the Consumers Power in Plymouth. Chuck enjoys a good round of golf and is looking forward to a whirl on the course very shortly.

The Reader Speaks Up

Editor: We were probably one of the first parents that went to discuss the injustices which were taking place in the High School Band. We thought it better to discuss the existing conditions with the band instructor and the principal, rather than have our band students become discouraged and discontinue band.

From this conference we were able to draw but one conclusion; it was that certain students were not wanted or needed in band, even though they had talent and really enjoyed music.

Some of the students, with less talent, were encouraged to remain in band for political reasons or otherwise.

The responsibility of administration is to our boys and girls and the community as a whole, rather than to minority group and one instructor.

If the Board of Education and Administration want to be democratic and fair, why don't they investigate the reasons why so many students have dropped out of band in the last two years. Formerly, many people went to the football games not only to watch the boys play football, but to watch the band and majorettes perform. But now, due to all the contention that has arisen, there is a lack of spirit within the band and the audience as well.

We as parents are not interested in our boys and girls being trained to become members of the U. of M. Band or in making a career of music; but, we are interested in them receiving a well rounded education and participating and enjoying music, art, and physical education.

I am a teacher in another system and I feel it is my job to encourage boys and girls to be interested in music, art, social studies, science, or whatever it may be and enjoy it to the utmost.

If I took it upon myself to discourage the students that did not wholly agree with my ideas, and they were allowed to drop out of my class, what an easy job it would be to teach. After all, boys and girls brought up in a democracy have opinions and ideas which they should be allowed to express.

We are interested in the future of the High School Band, as we have boys and girls in Junior High and Elementary Band that have enjoyed the fine instruction they have received and wish to continue on into High School Band.

But, we are afraid that, if conditions continue as they are now, they will become discouraged and all of their former instruction will be wasted.

Paris's Place de la Concorde, despite its name, has been the scene of a violent discord. The vast square, a present-day traffic hub, was designed to enhance a statue of Louis XV erected in 1763. There Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette died on the guillotine. During the Algerian crisis in May, 1958, troops battled thousands of rioters in the square.

Of the eleven men who tried to escape from Alcatraz, two were shot and probably drowned and the rest were caught.

Tips for Teens

By ELINOR WILLIAMS

Q.—"Dear Elinor: I'm a 16-year-old girl and very troubled. I'm in love with a boy who graduated from high school a year ago. We love each other and I want to marry him some day, but I think he is going to join the Navy. My parents also hope we will marry. I would like to go to school for two years after graduation, but he would have to wait for me. Do you think I'm selfish?"

Ans.—No, it isn't selfish to get an education before marriage; it's wise. You may have to earn a living some day and you should know how to do it. Besides, you'll be a better wife and mother and probably have a happier marriage if you are more mature when you say "I do."

If this boy really loves you, he'll wait for you. Two years isn't much in a whole lifetime — and he'll be away in the Navy or at school and you're likely to be separated, anyway. Why not consider yourselves engaged, if you like, but also use the two years as a test period to be sure how you feel about each other as you mature and your experiences and horizons widen.

Q.—"Dear Elinor: I am a boy 13, and know a girl that I like, but my best friend also likes her. What should I do? I'm not sure she likes me."

Ans.—Let the girl decide who has top billing in her romance department. It's up to her to decide. When the decision is hers, it's less likely to interfere with the friendship between you two boys — especially if she likes a third boy best or changes her mind frequently, as it often happens with 13-year-olds.

(For help with personal problems, write to Elinor Williams at this paper. As many letters as possible will be answered in this column.)

AGAINST THE ODDS

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (UPI) — You apparently stand a better chance of getting killed in Rhode Island by crossing intersections with the traffic light than against it.

According to the Automobile Club of Rhode Island, "10 per cent of all pedestrians killed at intersections in 1957 were crossing with the signal, while 6 per cent were crossing against it. These figures prove conclusively that it is dangerous to assume that the 'go' signal on the traffic light relieves the pedestrian of the need for alertness."

Stamp Collector

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Saving trading stamps turned out to be an unprofitable venture for William F. Mueller, 25. Police gathered up 10,000 of them in his hotel room as evidence in a series of burglaries.

The standard of the world in Character

The moment a Cadillac comes into view it begins to say wonderful things about the man at the wheel. It tells of his fine taste . . . his good and practical judgment . . . his achievements in his chosen field. And the reasons for this are found in the character of the car itself. For longer than fifty years, goodness has been the watchword; craftsmanship the creed. In the lexicon of motordom — Cadillac is the world's best synonym for quality!

To Women It May Concern

By Myra Cox

From an unknown author I bring you this week an excerpt of a prayer that I believe contains pearls of wisdom:

"Teach me the art of taking minute vacations—of slowing down to look at a flower, to chat with a friend, to pat a dog, to read a few lines from a good book."

Doesn't that minute vacation idea have a lot of appeal? Had you ever thought of it that way?

Getting a good book in Plymouth is not difficult. The largest, best stocked branch in Wayne County is the Dunning-Hough Library right here in Plymouth on Main Street. Agnes Pauline and her staff of trained courteous personnel will be happy to see you use the Dunning-Hough Library facilities.

Since National Library week is April 12-18, why not put on your week's agenda to take a "minute vacation," go in and get acquainted with the vivacious Agnes Pauline, and in keeping with Library Week Slogan, "Wake Up and Read."

Mrs. Pauline, head librarian here since 1953, when Mrs. Ada Murray retired, was one of a series of nice things that have happened to me since I've come to Plymouth. She made me feel so welcome at the Library to use all the available facilities the library has to offer. I'm sure she would do the same for you, particularly if you're new to the Library on Plymouth area. She is anxious always to make new friends for Dunning-Hough.

The Tri-City art group hung paintings in the library that are a pleasure to see, and are changed each month—and there is always something new and interesting being displayed. Despite her many activities (or maybe because of them) Mrs. Pauline manages very well to keep her finger on the pulse of Plymouth.

The variety of books will amaze you. From joke books to cook books; what to say when you give a speech, write a letter, or apply for a job; there are records available to teach you Spanish (my favorite) French or German, etc. (a wonderful way to work yourself through a basket of ironing); there are books to make you smile and cry; in addition to the regular hard-cover there are several paper backs and the one of the latest, "Anatomy of a Murderer," written by Michigan's Judge John D. Voelker; many of the books are controversial and thought-provoking — "Strike Heaven on the Face," is one of these and I am reading now, "The Ugly American" — is fiction based on fact, and is about men and women in Southeast Asia — "people making mistakes, people being a little corrupt, trapped by the beauty of a land or of a woman, people being bought cheap with champagne and caviar. Here is an ambassador who refuses to learn the language or the personality of the country to which he is assigned; a Catholic priest who wages a lonely, victorious battle against Communism on its own ground; an ugly engineer who works productive miracles with lengths of bamboo and an old bicycle; a Navy captain sapped of his effectiveness by the skill with which a Chinese girl plays upon his vanity." The story is good and entertaining but this is not the important part — every American reading this book will do some serious thinking — some of us may even have the apathy knocked right out of us, and a few may take a renewed interest in their government, which of course, is not a bad idea.

You know, it's funny how we are creatures of habit with our reading — particularly newspaper reading. Some read only head-lines; some read cover to cover; some read only funnies; and some, like myself, are addicts for reading fillers. I can tell you, for instance, how many bananas they eat in Pakistan, how much whiskey is sold South of the Mason Dixon line; and how many people voted in Rhode Island in 1900. With this method of reading you come across some real gems — oh, nothing that is really profound, or will alter the course of your life, but I think you would be interested in a couple, i.e.

Did you know that Mike Todd Jr. is producing the first movie in the history to have built-in smells? The "smellie" is being produced by the American "Smell-O-Vision" Co. and tells the story of a young Englishman who stumbles on a murder plot while vacationing in Spain. It is appropriately named "Scent of Danger." The odors, synchronized in the same as the sound track, will waft out to the audience throughout the movie. They will include the smell of the murderer's tobacco, a girl's perfume, wine, and nearly 40 other aromas. Hope you don't have a cold when you see this one.

Another small piece in the metro paper was on the British super-economy, do-it-yourself car coming to the U.S. It will be in kit form for $850 and the manufacturer claims the average handy-man can assemble the 100 mile to the gallon car without special tools in less than 100 hours. I hope U.S. follows suit in putting one of these on the market.

Now be honest — had you read about these two new ideas? Progress is almost too fast in this space age we live in — don't forget about those minute vacations, please.

See you at the Library!

Nuptial Vows Join Couple From Plymouth-Wayne

Mrs. Robert W. Flowers

In front of a flower covered arch Rev. Lillard F. Southern, pastor of Greensburg Methodist Church, Greensburg, Kentucky heard the marriage vows of Janet Elizabeth Cummins and Robert Wayne Flowers on April 3 at the First Baptist Church.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cummins, 50320 Hanford Road, Plymouth, wore a gown of white imported French lace fastened with a sweetheart neckline, long sleeves pointed below the wrist, a full length bouffant skirt of tiers of lace in Victorian style. One pearl on a silver chain, a gift from the groom, was her only adornment. Her fingertip veil was fastened to a pearl and rhinestone tiara brought from Paris, France. Her flowers were crescent shaped with gardenias and hyacinth buds wound with streamers.

The groom, Robert Wayne Flowers, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Flowers, 4338 First Street, Wayne. Mr. Edgar L. Cummins, Dearborn, Michigan, an uncle of the bride rendered three numbers during the double ring ceremony accompanied by Mr. William Jones of the U. of M., "I Love You So", "Give Me Your Hand", and "A Wedding Hymn".

Maid of honor, Judith M. Cummins, sister of the bride, wore a gown fashioned of pink shantung, Victorian style, sweetheart neckline, floor-length with a large bustle bow in back. Pink, short gloves, large picture hat of the same material as the dress completed her outfit. She carried a basket of pink and white spring flowers.

Miss Joanne Ruark, Mrs. Douglas Connett, Mrs. James Peterson, Mrs. John Stanger, Stanbarger, Miss Margaret

Roberts and Mrs. David Drummond attended the bride. All were from Wayne except Mrs. Stanbarger, cousin of the bride from Wyandotte, Mich.

Miss Ruark, Mrs. Connett, and Mrs. Peterson wore dresses and hats fashioned as that of the maid of honor in turquoise. Mrs. Stanbarger, Miss Roberts, and Mrs. Drummond in champagne color. All the bridesmaids carried baskets of variegated spring flowers.

Four-year-old Peggy Cummins, cousin of the bride, was a flower girl for her cousin in a dress hat and gloves identical in color and style to the maid of honor. She dropped rose petals from a parasol-shaped basket as she walked down the aisle.

The ring bearer, Nathan Cummins, brother of the bride, carried a white diamond-shaped pillow bearing the rings to the altar. He wore a black formal tuxedo as the rest of the ushers.

Roy L. Huber acted as best man with Dean Stewart, Terry Flowers, brother of the groom, C. Buford Armstrong, Robert Manion, Wayne Cummins, Jr., brother of the bride, and Duane Flanagan as ushers.

Brothers of the bride and groom performed the duties of lighting the candelabra placed on either side of the flower arch and on the organ, adjusting the aisle runner, and stringing ribbon between the pews enclosing the family.

Terry Flowers seated his mother gowned in a mint green lace dress with a chiffon fishtail and scalloped sabbina neckline with matching accessories. Wayne Cummins, Jr. seated his mother, gowned in a pink roseprint lace sheath with scattered jewels at the neckline. Finger sandwiches, hors d'oeuvres, relishes, punch, coffee, tea and the traditional wedding cake was served buffet style at the reception honoring the newlyweds, at Washtenaw Country Club in Ypsilanti.

Aiding the bride's parents as hostesses were Mrs. Isaac Beaman, Mrs. Thomas Beaman, Miss June Beaman, Miss Diane Beaman, Miss Carol Crist, of Lansing, Mrs. Buford Armstrong, Miss Joanne Rivers of Wyandotte, Mrs. Russell Walters of Belleville, great-aunt of the bride greeted the guests at the guest register.

A three-piece combo furnished soft background music of semi-classical and standard selections.

On April 2 a rehearsal dinner for 40 persons was held at the Seven Seas in Ypsilanti. Host and hostess for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Walters, from Belleville, great aunt and uncle of the bride.

After a wedding trip to Daytona Beach, Florida, the young couple will be at home in Wayne, Michigan.

The bride attended Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill. and Eastern Michigan College. Although she is presently employed by Dr. B. Robert Crandell of Wayne, she is planning on finishing her college education. The groom having served in the U.S. Marine Corps is now attending Eastern Michigan College and is employed by Trans World Airlines.

Through the use of colored slides of paintings to illustrate his talk, McGonagle will trace the development of today's art through its fore-runners of the past century and will explain how the attitudes and approach of artists have changed from the classical period to the present.

Nothing to Crow About Bridgeport, Conn. (UPI) — Mrs. Alvis Adams won an uncontested divorce after testifying she was assaulted by her husband's pet rooster. She said Adams told her she was "secondary" to his pets and took the rooster's side in the affair.

CARMI, Ill. (UPI) — Little more than 30 minutes after Mrs. Andrew Leithliter gave birth to a son, her daughter-in-law, Mrs. James Leithliter, became the mother of a baby girl.

by George Spalvin

April with its showers drenched our snow-soaked lawns last week to get this month off to a traditional start. All the snow, wet weather, and drizzly goings-on is sure to mean a hot, dry summer. Must be that new Marilyn Monroe picture that opened last week in Detroit has old George thinking about the summer heat. Name of Marilyn's latest celluloid dramatic wriggle is "Some Like It Hot." The provocative picture used in the advertisement is designed to raise all male temperatures to steam heat proportions.

An interesting sidelight on this suggestive ad for "Some Like It Hot" might be in order. This week's variety reports that the ad was refused in Washington, D.C. newspapers. Paper objected to the line... "her bosom companions" ... and the ad finally appeared with it changed to "her close companions." I've noted on my own bit of research that the advertisement in the New York Times was more risqué than what appeared in our Detroit papers. Looks like the chest just failed the test in our Nation's capitol—our congressmen must remain unsullied.

While we're in the complaining mood, let me be-foul the air with a negative word or three about the recent showing of the movie "Auntie Mame." I followed dear Auntie through the book, stage play, and now the movie. Have to admit that the book still remains the champ. The play followed the book far more faithfully. I'm quite sure that the author never intended Auntie Mame being quite as tearful as the movie version showed her.

The screen play enlarged the sympathetic angle, blew up the subtle comedy into slapstick sequences, and substituted conservative language for the spicy terms of the original. I'm sure that Mr. Babcock, Auntie Mame's arch enemy in the show, must have had a great deal of influence on the screen writers.

Enjoyed Peggy Cass's performance as Agnes Gooch in the film. She did a terrific job with her pre-natal, side-to-side clumping up the steps. Too bad they had to change the situation by having her soft pedal the whole affair with a last minute remembered marriage. Only Hollywood can get away with such absurd dion as Auntie. Thought the gradual scene blackouts were effective. The movies are emulating more stage tricks in every picture. One of these days they will be brave enough to tackle some intelligent dialogue that makes you think for a few minutes beyond the final showing of the cartoon.

All I can say is that Hollywood tried to give us a bigger, better version of "Auntie Mame," but I'm afraid they mangled the script and came up with a butchered job entitled "Auntie Maimed." There's no doubt in my small mind that many people will disagree with me on my criticism of this picture. Just remember that you should read the book, see the stage version, and then send me your letters of protest.

For an adventure in classical comedy that was written in 1866 take a quick trip over to the University of Michigan this week-end for Ben Johnson's "Volpone." You'll see what I was talking about when I said earlier we need some dialogue in our movies that give us "food for thought" and not indigestion since the vitamin content is so low.

Also, George Bernard Shaw's "Misalliance" finished a two week run at the Wayne State University theater. A brilliant comedy with some cogent statements about reading. Let me quote a segment of the dialogue: "Reading is a dangerous amusement." "Why, man, it's the beginning of education." "On the contrary, it's the end of it. How can you dare teach a man to read unless you've taught him everything else first?"

Read that over a couple of times. You'll see a sage significance in those lines. In some ways it could be called a capsule comment on much of our educational practice. We feel obligated to teach everything else long before our students have a genuine grasp of the reading process. One of these days we'll get matters straightened out.

TV watchers can take heart—a new comedy show is coming their way. Look for "Laugh Line" on Thursdays at 9 p.m. over Channel 4. Show starts next week on the 16th of April. It's a novel show with comics supplying ad-lib captions for living cartoons. Now why didn't I think of that show? Sounds like it might be fun if the ad-libs aren't too well rehearsed. Give it a try next Thursday night if the weather outside is too soggy and the drive-in movie sounds too stodgy.

Noticed that once again that eight out of the top ten shows on TV as indicated by the rating services were Westerns. Only Danny Thomas and the Lucille Ball-Desi Arnaz show have enough viewer appeal to buck the boys with the wide-brim hats and the smoking guns. "Maverick" still out-pointed Ed Sullivan and Mary Martin on Easter Sunday.

With all the clutter of the hooves TV comes up with many a fine educational feature. A prime example was Easter Sunday's presentation of the "Life and Times of Teddy Roosevelt." Following that history lesson, "The Jazz Age" with Fred Allen narrating gave many of us oldsters a chance to dream a bit about those good, old days. And the youngsters had some extra, quite graphic, history lessons for free.

Marie Bowers, producer of "Wake Up, Darling," reports that Jan Muzey will have charge of the costume committee. Right now Jan is looking for mink coats or small chinchilla fur pieces for the gay divorcee in the play. M.J. Cook as Gloria has the good fortune to swish about the stage come the first of May in those furs. Rehearsals have started and the scenery crew is about ready to dip into the paint cans to give a touch of gay color to the many flats needed to transform the Plymouth High School stage into a modern New York apartment.

'Wake Up Darling' to Conclude Successful Theatre Guild Year

by George Spalvin

When the Plymouth Theatre Guild's third and final production of the 1958-1959 season goes on the boards early next month it will climax a record-breaking season for the local thespians, which includes: A new high in membership (265). A new record for attendance during a show's run (1,100 for "Teahouse of the August Moon"), and A new peak in the number of actors and actresses to make their first appearances before Plymouth theatregoers (19).

With serious rehearsals now in full swing for the final production, "Wake Up, Darling," a rundown of the full cast, along with those of earlier shows, reveals that more than half of those Plymouthers saw behind the footlights were making their debuts. All together 37 Theatre Guild members took on roles in the three productions.

In addition to those who appeared before the audiences, newcomers in the same numbers were toiling backstage learning the secrets and intricacies of playgiving.

A look at the cast of "Wake Up, Darling," which will run May 7, 8 and 9 at the High School, gives a good cross section of the combination of veteran and newcomer which has sparked the group during the year. Cast as Polly and Don Emerson, the leads, are Jacquie Gagnon, a two-year veteran of acting and directing, with John Glanz, who will appear in his first major role. As Deerfield Prescott and Gloria, the second leads, are Bob Lucchetti, now in his third year of the season, along with Mary Jane Cook, making her first run for the roles.

Others in "Wake Up, Darling" are Rosemary Kloomin, a veteran, and Jerry Colow, Ruth Manzy and Shirley Bell, newcomers to Plymouth footlights.

In "Teahouse," the newcomers numbered 11 of a cast of 24 and in "Bell, Book and Candle," the tight little cast of five had three first-timers.

Hal Young, theatre guild president hailed the "firsts" as evidence that the group was functioning as it was meant to be. "Plymouthites are showing a strong interest in the theatre as an art and as a participating medium. On top of that we're glad that so many Plymouthites come to see us and like what they see," he said.

Young pointed out that while Plymouth's theatre group shows a healthy turnover in casting, it is by no means at the expense of quality. "The casting of every show is wide open. The figures just show that there are a lot of people with talent in our town," he noted.

Following fresh on the heels of "Teahouse's" triumph, Director Bob Wall, of "Wake Up, Darling" is promising to break a few records of his own, including, he says, the number of laughs chalked up in the three night run of "Teahouse."

On top of that we're glad that so many Plymouthites come to see us and like what they see," he said.

Young pointed out that while Plymouth's theatre group shows a healthy turnover in casting, it is by no means at the expense of quality. "The casting of every show is wide open. The figures just show that there are a lot of people with talent in our town," he noted.

Home on Wheels OK, But

By BILL THOMAS

I feared the trailer was too heavy for our station wagon to pull over the Appalachian Mountains, so we hired a mover to tow it the 750 miles—at 25 cents a mile. This seemed pretty expensive, and we decided that if we were going to keep on living in a trailer, we might as well have something to tow with. So we bought a half-ton pickup truck, which we thought would do the job. As it turned out later, the half-ton was too light to do much towing either.

This found out after completing my Army hitch and heading back across the mountains with that four-ton monster behind me. Inexperienced at the job, it was a tough haul but I finally made it... and I swore I would never undertake to move a mobile home anywhere again.

Now we have two children, and since more the walls are beginning to move in a little day by day, Room is more and more a thing to be desired. We think now we are ready to settle down and find a home, but with the type of house we need for a growing family, it may be a long time before we get out of our trailer.

My wife and I have concluded that a mobile home is ideal for its purpose. For those who must travel in their work from time to time, facts of trailer life.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The casting of every show is wide open. The figures just show that there are a lot of people with talent in our town, he noted.

Some of our residents have already got the urge to start traveling. In just about 10 more weeks our children will be home for summer vacation. I haven't got the Spring restlessness as yet, for all I see is muddy water and mud dy boots.

Mr. and Mrs. A.E. Larson of Joy Rd returned from a recent trip to Arizona. Mrs. Larson called to report that the trip took them on a dual visit, first with the son Al Larson and wife. From there the Larsons went to visit their son Mel, and met for the first time their new daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mel Larson. Mrs. Larson was married February 1, and the Larsons were very pleased with his choice. Mrs. Larson stated they had beautiful traveling weather, with the temperatures ranging from 70 to 80 degrees. She said the flowers were beautiful and that people were already enjoying swimming.

A baby shower was held for the new son of Mr. and Mrs. James Wells. The new Terry Edward Wells was born February 20th, two months prematurely. Although Terry had to remain in Beyer Hospital until March 25, a shower was given in his honor by his aunt, Mrs. Nick Mucker, of Saltz Rd., March 21. His mother, Barbara Wells, attended the shower given by Hazel Hogan and Opal Mucker at the Mucker home. A buffet lunch was held, and the guests included: Mrs. Arthur Wells, Judy Wells, Nancy Wells, Rosie Wells, Mary Ann Wells, Joyce Gagneur, Lucy Gagneur, Hazel Gallasou, Janet Gallasou, Patsy Livingston, Joan Lash, Linda Smith, Ann Miller, Mrs. Sue Mandel, Sarah Gillen, Mrs. Sharon Watson, Edith Ducez, Doris Brown, Mrs. Anna Tomczak, Elsie Larson, Ruth Warnamunde and Ann Kaiser. The young Terry Edward has now gained his required five pounds to leave the hospital and is at home with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Combs and two sons spent Easter week-end with Mr. Combs parents Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Napier, formerly of Plymouth, now residing in Jackson, Kentucky.

Robert and Gerry St. Louis, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas St. Louis of Beck Rd. spent their Easter week vacation with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Orr at Hudson, Michigan.

Well, I have tried to get back to the alphabet a bit, at the rate I'm going at it, the beginning of the alphabet will be history by the time I reach the end of it.

I called Mrs. Perry Campbell of Canton Center Rd. Mrs. Campbell's mother, Mrs. Charles Sims, formerly of Detroit, is now living with the Campbells. Easter Sunday the family had guests, the Campbells' daughter, Mrs. Irene Smith and children, Dave and Louise. Their granddaughter, Nancy Eaton of Canton Center Rd., dropped in also Sunday, before returning to her classes at Cleary college in Ypsilanti, Michigan. Although the house was very quiet, Mrs. Campbell stated she had her five grandchildren visiting with her for a few days. Joel, Lesley, Jerry, Beth Ann and Grace Campbell. She said they were busy watching television.

While speaking with Mrs. Campbell, I remembered that Mr. Campbell served Canton Township as Supervisor some years ago—1947, and also has served as Treasurer for the Township. Mrs. Campbell said they moved to their present home on Canton Center in 1919. Both Mr. and Mrs. Campbell pride themselves on their faithful voting habits.

The Arthur Carmickle's of Canton Center Rd. had a very pleasant Easter Sunday. After church, the couple's three sons and families, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carmickle Jr. and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Carmickle, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Montgomery and family and Floyd Woolley enjoyed a festive dinner together.

Laverne Grady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S.E. Grady of Cherry Hill Rd. was feted at a wedding shower given in her honor by Mrs. Lawrence Longwish at their home. The guest list included: Mrs. Schraufnagl, Grace Roberts, Pearl Fink, Mrs. Trude Huettner, Mrs. Caroline Henry (Laverne's future mother-in-law), Arlene Henry, Diffie Lee Biggs, Jean Campbell, Mrs. Elmer Clark, Barbara Clark, Sarah Beaune, Mrs. George Longwish, Mrs. Clyde Kintner, Betty Harrison, Helen Rung, Martha Colburn, Ann Longwish, Barbara Longwish, Mrs. Grady, Sue Grady. The table was gaily decorated with streamers and large and small wedding bells. The table was graced by a special cake baked for the occasion by Mrs. Jean Collins, the cake was in the shape of two hearts, beautifully decorated with roses, with one heart bearing the name of the future bride. Laverne, the other heart bearing the name of the groom to be "Conrad". The group enjoyed games of Bingo with prizes awarded the winners and there also was a door prize for the lucky person.

Laverne and Conrad have set their wedding date for May 9. Conrad was a graduate of Plymouth High's 1957 class and Laverne the 1958 class. Mrs. Grady, mother of the bride-to-be, said there are other festivities planned in the couples honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rocco and family of Napier Rd. have been on a very festive busy schedule. Easter Sunday the Roccas had dinner with Mr. Rocco's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rocco of Detroit. Other members of the Rocco family were present, Miss Mitzie Rocco, and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Bacevski and children. The evening was spent with Mrs. Rocco's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Irwin of Hanford Rd. for the evening meal.

On Saturday, April 4, a surprise birthday party was held for Mrs. Rocco's grandmother, Mrs. Hazel Irwin at the Irwin's residence. The guest list included: Mr. and Mrs. E. Erwin, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Pelchat, Mr. and Mrs. A. Rocco and family, Mr. and Mrs. Chester H. Alstead and family, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Halstead Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Scott of Lake, Michigan, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Irwin.

Mrs. Rocco also announced the pleasure of having her sister, Mrs. Mildred Lyle and son Pat at their house guest.

Another former resident mentioned in the history book was Robert Crawford Safford, born in Canton, Wayne County, March 21, 1838 and is the son of Rufus and Elethea Safford. His father was the son of Jabez Safford, and was born in Canterbury, Windham County, Connecticut, on June 1, 1800. His grandfather was one of three brothers who came from Scotland, one of whom settled in Connecticut, one in Vermont, and the last in New York. Rufus Safford after reaching his majority worked on a farm in summer and taught school during the winters, eventually going to New York City where he worked at the Stonecutter's trade for a number of years. In 1832 he emigrated to Michigan, and settled on Section 2 in the township of Canton (which is the extreme north-east part of the township). In 1835, he married Elethea Crawford, the daughter of Robert and Hannah Crawford. She was born near Saratoga Springs, New York, on October 30, 1803 and came to Michigan with her brother Ezra, in 1833. Rufus and his wife continued to live on the farm which he first bought until death on June 11, 1884. His wife died on March 28, 1889, at the age of 86. They had three sons, namely, Robert Crawford Safford, Jabez A. Safford, who was born on September 17, 1839. He died Feb. 6, 1853. Winfield Scott Safford, the third son, was born January 20, 1841, was a soldier in the Civil War, and was wounded at the battle of Gettysburg on July 1, 1863, and died the next day. Robert Crawford Safford was educated in the district school and also attended one term at the State Normal School in Ypsilanti. He continued with his father on the farm until April, 1864, when he moved to Plymouth, and still occupies the farm upon which he has lived for a quarter of a century. He was married on January 23, 1863, to Elizabeth A. Murray, daughter of Archibald Y. and Abigail Murray, who settled in Canton Township in 1826 and were among its earliest inhabitants. They have had one son and two daughters, namely Lenora who was born on April 13, 1865; she died on October 9, 1868. Homer Erwin was born September 18, 1869 and their daughter, Ada Murray on November 26, 1877. Mr. Safford subscribes to the doctrines of the Universalist Church, but is not a member of any branch society. He is a strong temperance man, and believing that all legal measures should be adopted to restrict the liquor traffic, he supports the Prohibition movement and has done much to advance the cause of that party. In 1889 he was serving as Chairman of the Wayne County Prohibition Committee and is esteemed and respected as an able and useful citizen. Thus ended the biographies of the three men among the firsts to the Township.

I have information that may lead to more interesting data about our Township. I know there is much to be related. So as not to leave anything out, or over-look anyone, I would appreciate your help if you have any information or know of someone who might. Our Township residents, new and old, seem to be very interested, as well as persons not living right in the Township, so if you can offer anything to our history please don't hesitate to call me.

Easter Sunday was a pleasant day for many residents and the Nick Mucker's of Saltz Rd. were among some of the busiest hosts. For dinner the Mucker's entertained Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wells and daughter Judy, Gary Mucker and friend Sharon Watson. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Orville Wells and family joined Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mucker and family.

That does it for another week. I have come to the end of the history book information about Canton, but have some very good leads on persons who lived here and perhaps still do.

Last week we discussed the legal requirements relating to the development and adoption of Plymouth's budget by the City Commission. The process and development of the budget is set out, as we noted, in accordance with the conditions outlined in the city charter, but, actually, budgeting is a continuous process. As we prepare and complete one budget, another is in the making.

For example, we have already prepared a folder for the next fiscal year 1960-61, and have inserted notes to myself of items we were not able to provide in the newly presented budget. Included is a note concerning tree trimming, which must be put off for a year because of the condition of the roads which demand immediate attention and will continue to be expensive, on into the next budget year.

How do we decide what goes into a budget? Since service is the product which a city sells, wages and salaries are the largest kind of expense. Before any actual pencil work is done on the budget, one of the first considerations is that of salaries and wages which should be paid to the employees.

In Plymouth, the salaries and wages make up approximately 40.4 percent of the total operational expense. The remainder includes contractual services, such as street lighting, staffing of the Dunning-Hough Library by the Wayne County Library Board, welfare aid billed to by the county, and payments for maintenance of the crossing gates with the C & O Railway.

Other major items include liquidation of bonded indebtedness and interest payments, together with any capital outlays for the city's share of paving, sewer installation or other improvements requiring current financing.

The salaries and wages which the city pays to its municipal employees are based upon a pay plan which was developed expressly for the City of Plymouth several years ago by the Personnel Service of the Michigan Municipal League. This schedule sets the ranges for each class of employment. Each class of employment has pay increase steps for employees in each pay range. However, the pay schedule is reviewed each year to make certain that our employees are receiving wages and salaries that are in line with the rates received by employees doing similar work for other municipalities in this area.

About 12 cities from the southeastern Michigan area are selected as representative communities and the salaries and wages which they pay for comparable work are tabulated. This information is obtained from a wage and salary report made each year by the Municipal League. Another indicator of the need of a wage or salary adjustment is obtained from the office of the U.S. Department of Commerce which supplies a report of the consumer price index for the past year, and for previous years.

Having gathered this information, a conference of department heads and the manager is called to determine whether or not a pay increase is to be recommended to the city commission. At this conference, we also determine interdepartmental priorities of needed services within the city for capital improvements.

For example, we weigh the relative merits of a needed truck against a new automobile needed for transportation. Again, we may decide whether or not there should be a cash grant to the equipment fund, if it is short of cash, or to the sewer fund if it is determined that a deficit may occur in the following year of operation.

After the general direction of the city's fiscal policy to be recommended to the city commission is established by this conference of department heads, the department heads are supplied with forms on which they are required to submit the budget data for their particular departments. When this material is returned to me, it will have the new wages and salaries indicated, if any, and all the projected costs of supplies and capital outlay items needed.

Then the job begins of incorporating the departmental budgets into a single budget document and preparing the budget message transmitting the budget to the city commission.

Next week we will conclude this discussion of constructing a municipal budget. We will continue from the time the preliminary budget documents are completed, through program evaluations, the manager's administrative audit, and ending with general budgetary controls.

Who's New in Plymouth

FOR HER PRESS debut little Miss Marta Stephens, 6 weeks old, made it quite clear to all that she had arrived. Crying or laughing she is the sweetest most cuddly baby verified by her proud parents Jeanne and Guy F. Stephens, Jr.

The Stephens moved into their delightful three bedroom ranch home in Arbor Village in January. They are originally from Illinois and Mr. Stephens is with the Ford Motor Company. Plymouth, they felt, was an ideal community to live in, to raise their family. Settling their back and front yard is one of the first items on the agenda. They are most anxious to landscape their back yard without disturbing the fine old trees to be found on their generous lot on Southworth Avenue. Mr. Stephens, in addition to being a potential gardener, is an avid tennis player.

Replacing Mr. Gilmore at the Corporation's general offices is Spencer F. Anderholm. Gilmore will be the chief financial executive at the B-G-R Division, reporting to the general manager, and will also supervise general office operations. Mr. and Mrs. Gilmore are the parents of two boys and a girl. They will move to the Plymouth area in the near future.

Redman will be responsible for accounting functions, including accounts payable and receivable and cost accounting. He joined the B-G-R Division in 1927 and was promoted to chief accountant in 1946.

Family Project-Construction Of An Outdoor Terrace

When it smells like spring, the handyman or craftsman is likely to think of projects that he can work on outdoors while he supervises his neighbor's efforts at gardening. Since there are at least nine outdoor construction projects in addition to furniture making, that's enough to keep anyone occupied for several years.

The problem may be to find room for all these projects. Construction of a terrace, by all odds, the most popular weekend pastime. Then there may be a new sidewalk, a wall, curbs or edgings, steps, fences, gates, arbors or trellis. Once these have been installed they'll need an inspection each spring and possible repair or retouching.

For that most popular construction job, a terrace, the key is a firm bed or foundation for the flooring. Flagstone calls for a 6 to 8-inch base of cinders (not pebbles) or sand and rock dust. These are easier to handle than a concrete base.

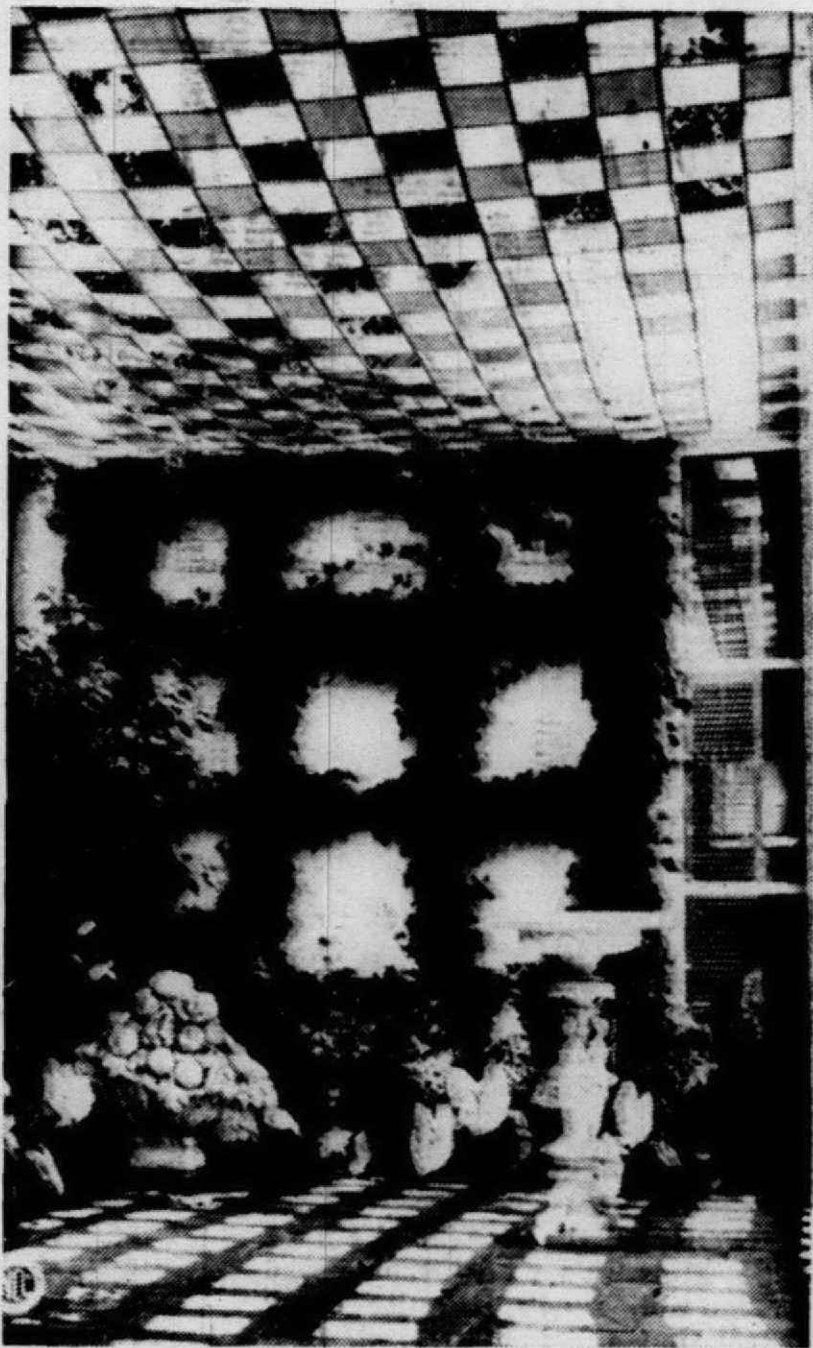

Cross sections of logs are a newer material for terrace flooring and for walks. In either case, the logs should be placed on a bed of cinders that has been tamped down to a firm level. For a solid paving, the logs are laid close together, sand or soil thrown over them and then brushed into the crevices with a broom.

Redwood sections are generally used on the West Coast, cypress in the South east. Elsewhere any hard wood such as hickory or maple will give many years of service if it is treated first with a preservative.

A coat of preservative is essential for any wood that is to do outdoor service, whether as part of a terrace, post for mailbox or fence or the fence itself. A weathered look can be achieved for a new rail or paddock fence if it is covered first with a brown stain, then rubbed down with ordinary white lead to which a bit of gray has been added. The result is a silvery sheen.

Almost any style of fencing is sold in ready-made lengths. The important thing is to put the fence up in a straight line. Use string as a guide line. Fence posts must be firmly anchored with rocks, if not concrete.

Anything that shortens the time-consuming chore of clipping after mowing the lawn is worth the time it takes to install. Curbing and metal edging are two answers. Try to have the top surface of the curbing flat so one wheel of the lawn mower can be run over it. So also, a row of bricks laid flat instead of on end may be placed along flower beds or specimen shrubs in the lawn to accommodate a wheel of the mower.

THE HOME-HANDYMAN has gone a step beyond a "simple" terrace with the above, however, he started from scratch and with the whole family adding a suggestion (and elbow grease) this was the result. Cool greenery and classic design lend Mediterranean grace and beauty to this patio. Enchanting the beauty is a delicately-styled canvas canopy through which light filters, forming a checkered pattern on the bricks beneath. Soft cotton canvas was used.

Another timesaver during hot summer weather will be paved areas laid so that weeds cannot grow in their crevices. Filling with sand may do the trick, but pack-

A preamplifier is what the owner of a high fidelity rig uses to control the sound that comes out of his loudspeakers.

It also takes the minute impulses that come from record, tape or tuner and gives them a slight boost before it passes them on to the amplifier.

Most preamplifiers — "amplifiers control units" would be a more accurate name—are built on the frame of the amplifiers. This allows some economies in both amplifier and preamplifier.

But first-line equipment has separate amplifiers and preamplifiers - control units. There are three reasons for this separation.

The first is that with separate units, the amplifier can be hidden away and the preamp-control unit, usually a smaller, neater component, used for operation of the entire rig.

Then, separating amplifier and preamplifier keeps the preamp from being affected by the considerable heat the amplifier generates. And, finally, separate preamp-control units usually have extra gadgets on them.

Preamplifier control units enable listeners to control the volume of their sets, but with more delicacy than the controls on an ordinary phonograph.

This is particularly true when a rig is being operated at low volume. A "loudness" control enables the high and low frequencies to be boosted without raising the middle frequencies.

All "program material" — lim-pulses from records, tape or tuner — is introduced into the rig through the preamplifier. A switch enables a listener to turn quickly from one to the other.

With stereo, a preamplifier actually is two preamplifiers, since it has to control two channels. But it has other functions. The stereo preamplifier has controls to balance each speaker and to reverse their positions. Once the speakers are balanced, there is a single volume control that adjusts the volume equally on both channels at the same time.

An owner of high fidelity equipment who has an amplifier with a preamplifier mounted on it needn't feel underprivileged. Because of stereo and its requirement of two of everything, there are going to be many more combination amplifiers preamps than there were.

The human ear, for example, hears the "middle frequencies" more easily than low and high frequencies.

The C20 costs as much as some of the best combination amplifiers - preamplifiers. But it will do almost everything except test the dust content of the air.

One of the C-2's features is connections in the front, so that a neighbor can bring over his tape recorder, plug it in and record anything he wants, monitoring it at the same time.

Backyard Putting Green

No one has ever enjoyed a golf course more than I do. There's something about the sweep of the fairway, the rolling smoothness of the green whether the course is a public one or a private club. Like the guy in the ad who says "they laughed when I sat down to play the piano," I laughed when someone in the family suggested a putting green in our backyard.

Well, that putting green has been there three years now. Because of it, I'm better on the golf course. Our golfing neighbors like our putting green too, and we've had some friendly family putting matches.

It might be possible to make a miniature golf course out of a regular lawn, but you can't make a putting green. Anyway, cutting the average lawn as close as a putting green has to be to have a good surface for tapping a golf ball with any degree of accuracy, will ruin it.

A putting green in the backyard doesn't have to be as large as those on the golf course. On my approximately 50 by 100 foot property, the green is an irregular area approximately 10 to 20 feet. We put only one cup in this green; if it were a little larger, I'd put in three or four cups to liven up the practice sessions.

The cups, like golf clubs and balls, can be bought in any number of stores. The special mower to cut the Bent grass so smoothly and so short is a stock item in any store that carries lawn mowers. But the turf for a putting green has to be grown—and this can be a fussy business.

In making as well as maintaining a real putting green, drainage is all important. This means drainage of the subsoil in addition to the soil. Unless a fine filtering material that's selected is known to be almost perfectly drained, it's essential either to lay tiling or a 6-inch layer of gravel underground. Surface drainage is taken care of by grading the putting green at 2 to 5 degrees.

On top of the subsoil, the layer of gravel or tiling should be spread at least six inches of good topsoil. For a green approximately 10 by 20 feet, this requires not less than 6 cubic feet of topsoil. Into the topsoil incorporate a bale of peat moss, a scant cubic yard of sharp stonefree sand and 4 pounds of superphosphate.

The surface should be raked and rolled as often as is necessary to remove stones, fine debris and to eliminate depressions. This raking establishes the grade or contour of the putting green. Before the final raking scatter and incorporate 5 to 6 pounds of a completely balanced fertilizer.

Bent grass is the kind to sow for any putting green. This type has extremely fine blades which can be cut close to provide a fine playing surface. Any of the several Bents available — Colonial, velvet, seaside — will be satisfactory. Two pounds of seed sprinkled evenly over 200 square feet should provide a satisfactory putting "lawn."

Frequent mowing, soaking with water during dry spells, and fertilizer once a month

From Mrs. Bill Hunt, 28915 W. Chicago, Livonia, we have the following:
No need to buy a quart of sour milk or buttermilk because you need a cupful for a special recipe. Simply add 2 tablespoons of vinegar to 1 cup sweet milk and stir. You then have sour milk.

Place a piece of apple in your brown sugar jar and it will keep the sugar from drying out and lumping. Try the same cure for too-dry cookies.

Rice grains will stay separate and white if cooked in water to which a teaspoonful of lemon has been added for each quart.
To iron rough, dry garments in a hurry, try this method. Dampen, roll tight, wrap in a cloth and then in a paper and put into the oven while the iron heats. The garments will dampen thoroughly for ironing by evaporation in the warm stove. Only takes a few minutes.

Garnish hot or cold soup with chopped, pimiento-stuffed olives.

A quickie sundae in spring-time colors calls for 1 pint raspberry sherbet, 1 1/2 cups melon balls and 1 pint sliced fresh strawberries. Alternate layers of sherbet and melon in 4 parfait glasses, and top with strawberries.

A quart of strawberry bisque needs only 1 pint of berries. Crush berries, add 1/2 cup sugar and mix well. Fold berries and 1 cup crushed macaroons into 2 cups heavy cream, whipped.

Freeze chicken ficassee, chicken loaf and creamed chicken. Reheat quickly before serving.

Cotton fabrics with special finishes scorch more easily than other types. However, the special finished fabrics can be ironed more quickly.

KILL CRABGRASS FOREVER

Good news for the folks that pride themselves on a beautiful lawn. According to the Southeastern Association of Landscape Nurserymen, PRE-EMERGENT CRABGRASS control is now out of the experimental stage.

Older Crabgrass remedies were based on the killing of this pest "after" it was well established and had just about ruined the lawn. The new method is to prevent it. Since these new products not only can give up to 100 percent results—but can kill many other garden pests as well, including ants, centipedes and similar ground pests, they actually represent a saving to the homeowner because they should eliminate costly lawn repairs in the fall.

The new compound is marketed under several brand names and your local nursery will be able to recommend the one best suited to your lawn.

However NOW is the time to act. For Pre-Emergent treatment works on the seeds as they emerge—hence, the name PRE-EMERGENT.

This should be your first Spring job since an interval of at least one month is required before re-seeding of your lawn is recommended.

Noodles And Soup For A Spring Casserole

As the dawn breaks, on a beautiful warm April morning, thoughts turn to things to do outside. . . with little as possible time spent in kitchen chores! Plan early and set forth on a day of exploring.

With convenience at your finger tips, on your pantry shelf, plan a colorful looking and eating Spring casserole with a can of condensed cream of chicken soup. Cooked noodles and the soup make up the base of this SPRINGTIME CASSEROLE. Color is provided by adding diced cooked ham and leftover cooked lima beans . . . or if you prefer canned or cooked frozen limas. For tang, the casserole is topped with shredded sharp cheese.

We suggest a platter of spiced fruit as an accompaniment. It, too, is colorful and such a good partner to your casserole.

Prepare the casserole in the morning . . . keep in a cool place until you're ready to bake it to a bubbling brown about 25 minutes ahead of dinner time. Here's the recipe:

- Springtime Casserole
- 2 ounces medium noodles
 - 1/2 cup finely diced cooked ham
 - 1 medium onion, chopped
 - 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
 - 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup
 - 1/2 cup milk
 - 1/2 cup drained cooked lima beans
 - 1/2 cup shredded Cheddar cheese

Cook noodles in lightly salted water; drain. Meanwhile, lightly brown ham and onion in butter. Combine with soup, milk, lima beans, and cooked noodles. Pour into a 1-quart casserole; top with cheese. Bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) about 25 minutes or until hot and bubbling. Makes 4 servings.

Trend in Sportswear

There's a whole new world of sportswear evolving for leisure - loving, sun - funning and out-of-door living! Sparked by the country-wide shift to informal, suburban living, active sportswear, always a teen-age favorite is now found in the wardrobe of almost every American woman.

However, the style-and-pace-setters are still the teenagers, whose fashion-wise preference always set the new season trend. The biggest news in sportswear is the costume look in wonderfully wearable adaptations of the style that's also a hit in its more dressy versions.

GARDEN GAB— BY BILL SAXTON

Pruning is necessary on growing materials for several reasons; to control growth, increase yields, maintain health and to help in transplanting.

Remember in pruning that strongest growth comes from top and outside facing buds. New growth seeks sunshine or light. Weak growing plants should be pruned most severely. Vigorous growing parts of the same plant should be pruned more severely than weaker parts. Trees or plants left unpruned tend to revert to their natural form. . .

In pruning remember the following rules. Make smooth, clean cuts leaving no stubs. It's better to make several cuts than to have heavy limbs fall and tear bark — leaving wounds hard to heal. Pick out bud positions which will result in desired growth. Use pruning paint on any and all cuts. Make cuts smooth and preferably oblong or oval. Keep pruning equipment sharp.

The majority of trees and shrubs should be pruned while dormant in February and April. Evergreens, prune best while new growth is soft during the summer. . .

Hybrid Roses should be thinned out in late winter. Take out all dead and diseased canes and cut back dying cane tips just above a vigorous outside bud on a good strong stem. Never leave any growth on roses that is over two years old. Small flowered Polyanthas, Rosa Regosa or other species of roses require only annual thinning out of old, weak wood and shaping up. Ramblers bloom entirely on new wood so all canes that have flowered should be removed to the ground or to new buds right after flowering. Large flowered climbers produce on side shoots from old canes so just cut out dead wood or winter-killed tips after flowering clip each flowering stem to just above the second eye from the main stem to encourage a second blooming period. . .

On some shrubs blooms appear on year-old growth so they must be pruned after flowering on shrubs where blooms appear on the current years growth. Prune in late winter or early spring.

Be careful in pruning cone bearing evergreens like Hemlock, Spruces and Firs. They usually cannot produce new buds on old branches so you are safer to prune after new growth has appeared.

Fruit trees should be pruned to remove suckers, all diseased or dead wood, crossed branches that rub and, to produce an open center that admits sunlight and air to the fruit.

The Fidelity Class of the Newburg Methodist church is having their annual spring rummage sale on Saturday, April 18, at the Church Hall, Ann Arbor Trail and Newburg roads. This is an all-day affair and all your discards may be brought to the church anytime after Sunday, April 12 and if you have an item too big to carry please feel free to call GA. 1-6944 or GL. 3-3289, and someone will see that the articles are picked up. Also in conjunction with the sale will be a Bake Sale, sponsored by the Rhoda Circle of the church. Your support to both of these affairs will help much toward the financial success of these events.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Waltz and daughter Jennifer of Richland Avenue had their Easter dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Waltz on Westland in Redford Township.

I have always wondered what it was like to cook for and take care of a large family, well last week, for four days, I found out. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nida of N. York, Dearborn left their three children, Robert, Gail and Jane at the LaPointe residence while they flew to Philadelphia and New York on business. It was quite an experience and enjoyed by all. It is nice to report that all were quite well behaved despite having to be confined to the house because of the inclement weather.

Graham Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Bennett of Stark road spent the Easter week-end visiting with friends in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. Donna Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett's daughter was home for her Easter vacation from Central Michigan college in Mt. Pleasant where she is working in her sophomore year.

Well, that will be all for this week and do hope I will hear from you and all about your many activities. See you next week?

What's OLDS got that makes it sell so well?

Here are the reasons why!

- DEMONSTRATED ENGINEERING LEADERSHIP! Wherever you look on a '59 Olds, you see the result of advanced planning and thinking... the latest in mechanical features and applications. If it really makes for better driving, you'll find it first on an Oldsmobile!
- PROVEN REPUTATION FOR QUALITY! Olds owners know from personal experience that their Oldsmobile will deliver long-lasting pleasure and performance because it's built right... right from the start!
- DISTINCTIVE OLDSMOBILE STYLING! There's no other car on the road that has the rich smoothness, the unique two-tone, the crisp beauty of line that sets Olds apart from the ordinary wherever it's seen!
- COSTS LESS THAN MANY GUESSES! An Oldsmobile does look expensive. In fact, many guess an Oldsmobile costs much more than it actually does... but you'll find there's a Rocket to fit most every pocket!
- ROCKET ENGINE PERFORMANCE! The favorite feature of Olds owners is the lively, spirited action they get from the remarkable Rocket Engine... it's so quiet, responsive, reliable!
- ECONOMICAL OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE! Because it's a quality-built car to begin with, owners report that their Oldsmobiles cost less to operate in the long run than other cars in its price class! And there's excellent fuel economy, too!
- TRADITIONALLY HIGH RESALE VALUE! Official used car figures show that Olds value holds... brings a higher percentage of its original cost at trade-in time... gives more for your money while you own it!

Dear Lucille: I'm not sure what's wrong with me but I think something must be—I cry a lot, I don't get along with people and feel all in fact. I lost my husband about a year ago and have been mixed up ever since.

Dear Mrs. J.B.R.: You are overly emotional, all keyed up and are keeping a good share of it bottled up within you. There is so much suppression here, this is not good for you.

Parent Firm Of Dunn Steel Is Purchased

The parent organization of the Dunn Steel Division plant in Plymouth has been purchased by Textron, Inc. of Providence R.I., an announcement this week said.

Dunn Steel, located on Dunn St. in Plymouth, has been a division of the Townsend Company of New Brighton, Pa. for several years. Townsend is one of the oldest and largest fastener producers in the country.

President F.R. Dickenson of Townsend said that his firm will be operated as a wholly owned subsidiary of Textron with present personnel and policies preserved intact.

Textron had offered $20 per share for Townsend stock provided it could obtain 80 percent, or 215,000 shares. That offer was accepted and the condition met, Dickenson disclosed.

Textron controls some 24 companies in diversified fields, including textiles and metal working. Its sales amount to about $250,000,000 a year and total employment exceeds 17,500.

Townsend, with annual sales close to 320,000,000 employs 1,000.

Second Canton Township Water Main Receives County Backing

The Wayne County Board of Supervisors has recently approved a resolution pledging their "faith and credit" toward financing a $600,000 water system for Canton Township that may serve the Canton Center Rd. area as far north as Joy Rd.

Work was ended last week on a trunk line that brought water along Michigan Ave. from the township's eastern edge as far west as Haggerty Rd. From this 16-inch trunk will be laid lateral mains that will eventually serve some 155 homes, a school and other commercial buildings.

Township Supervisor Louis Stein this week expressed hope that the second water system would be started sometime this fall. It would enter Canton Township along Belleville Rd.

While the water coming from the east along Michigan Ave. is from the city of Detroit source, the Belleville Rd. main originates in Van Buren Township where the township has two wells. These wells are rated by the state at three million gallons a day and state health officials believe they are capable of serving Van Buren and Canton Townships for the next 10 years.

Petitions are now circulating to have the water main brought northward. At least 51 per cent of the land area must be represented by petition signers before the mains can be laid.

Stein states that so far the new water main will serve Belleville Rd. north to Michigan Ave.; Michigan Ave. from Beck to Morton Taylor; Sheldon Rd., from Yost north to the cemetery; Geddes Rd. west to Canton Center; and Canton Center as far north as the property owners desire the water.

Stein said that there is an urgent need for water in Canton Township because of the dropping water table. Below 100 feet salt is found. While a few have found an abundant supply of good water, the supervisor added, the water situation is termed critical for the township as a whole.

Seventy-five per cent of the Michigan Ave. water main was paid by Wayne County and the remaining 25 per cent by Canton Township.

Trees, Shrubs Discussed by Extension Groups

"Trees and Shrubs" was the topic of the lesson for the Home Economics Extension Groups sponsored by Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service for the month of March.

Allen Group had Mrs. Maurice Ferguson as their special guest with Mrs. Frank Bradzell as hostess. Mrs. Stanley Travis was the Group Chairman and Mrs. John Amrhein and Mrs. Stanley Travis presented the lesson. Their next meeting is April 29.

Things to consider before planting of trees and shrubs are the hardiness, culture, and uses of each; whether it be an evergreen or deciduous type. Things to consider under the culture of trees and shrubs are planting, fertilizing, pruning and soil moisture.

Under trees and shrubs the various purposes are to be considered as to shade; wet, dry, and acid soils; screens and windbreaks; and for fragrant flowers. The colored foliage is an important thing to remember.

Plymouth Home Extension Group met at the home of Mrs. Jackson, 160 Union Street. Co-hostess was Mrs. Forrest Olson, Mrs. C. Smith, Mrs. Otto Reamer and Mrs. George Cramer gave an interesting lesson on the subject.

Robinson Extension Group met at the home of Mrs. Joseph Thom, 565 Arbor Road on March 25. Mrs. Norman Frid and Mrs. John LaGrow gave the lesson. The Michigan Extensions' tentative plans for next year were read by Mrs. Stephen Cherney. Plans were made to visit the Home Furnishing Show in Detroit April 6. The next meeting of the group will be April 15 at 12:00 at Mrs. Alfred Brewster, 11637 Morgan, Plymouth.

UNIVAC DELIVERS THE PROOF!

Delivering fresh bread daily to millions of consumers, the Southern Bakeries Co. of Atlanta makes stern demands on its trucks. And, according to the Company's Univac machine, the Chevrolets in the fleet are delivering 2.1 more miles per gallon than the other makes—out-saving 'em all by 20%!

New versions of famous 6's nurse a gallon of gas like nothing you've ever known in trucks. Big, tough V8's for every truck series have the shortest stroke design—the savingest design—of any comparable engines. Durable chassis components hike up profits by holding down maintenance costs.

The pups are there again!

Yes. You can't quite miss the completely local emphasis of the Detroit Times. Worlds may shatter. Dynasties may fall. But somewhere—somehow—a boxer gives birth to pups. A boxer belonging to a lonely little guy. And the pups are a front page feature.

Call this sentimental, if you like. We don't think it is.

Like any other major newspaper, we have the services of AP and UPI—including our Hearst Headline Service. Plus our own news bureaus in Washington and Lansing.

But watch that feature picture on the first page of the Times. And then you'll know. Our heart is with you: the pups are here again.

An enthusiastic fisherman never gets too old to fish. That has been proven time and time again. It was proven again this week when Plymouth's oldest fisherman secured his license for this year. Thomas Davis, who without a doubt is Plymouth's oldest angler secured his license the other day from Charley Beagle. Mr. Davis is now past 96 and spends most of his time on the streams and lakes around Plymouth.

We note with great interest the way some of our enterprising merchants are prettying up their windows for spring. We have especially noted the window of the Gayde Brothers on the North Side who this week have devoted their entire window to an unusual paint display. Large cards showing the various colors and how each color makes a home look different have caused many people to walk down that way and inspect the window. We suggest you do the same.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Doc Didn't Pull His Punch

The other day Doc Williams got to talking about one of his patients.

"This fellow had a bad tooth," he explained, "but I told him I could save it with a few prompt treatments. Then, after that one visit it was six months before he came back.

"This time," Doc said, "his cheek was all swollen up. 'It's that same tooth,' he said. 'Think we can save it?' Sure, I said, after I take it out you can put it in your pocket and take it home with you."

From where I sit, trouble gets worse with neglect. That's why we should never ignore "intolerance" in any form. Sometimes it crops up in little things like begrudging a man his right to a glass of beer, or telling him what kind of television programs he should watch. Let's all respect our neighbor's preferences and opinions. That way we won't "pull" at each other's freedom.

Springtime Care Needed for Lovely Lawns

Do you dream of having a luxuriant green carpet around your home? If you have a lawn, but it's a patchy one, here are some tips on how to make it uniformly beautiful.

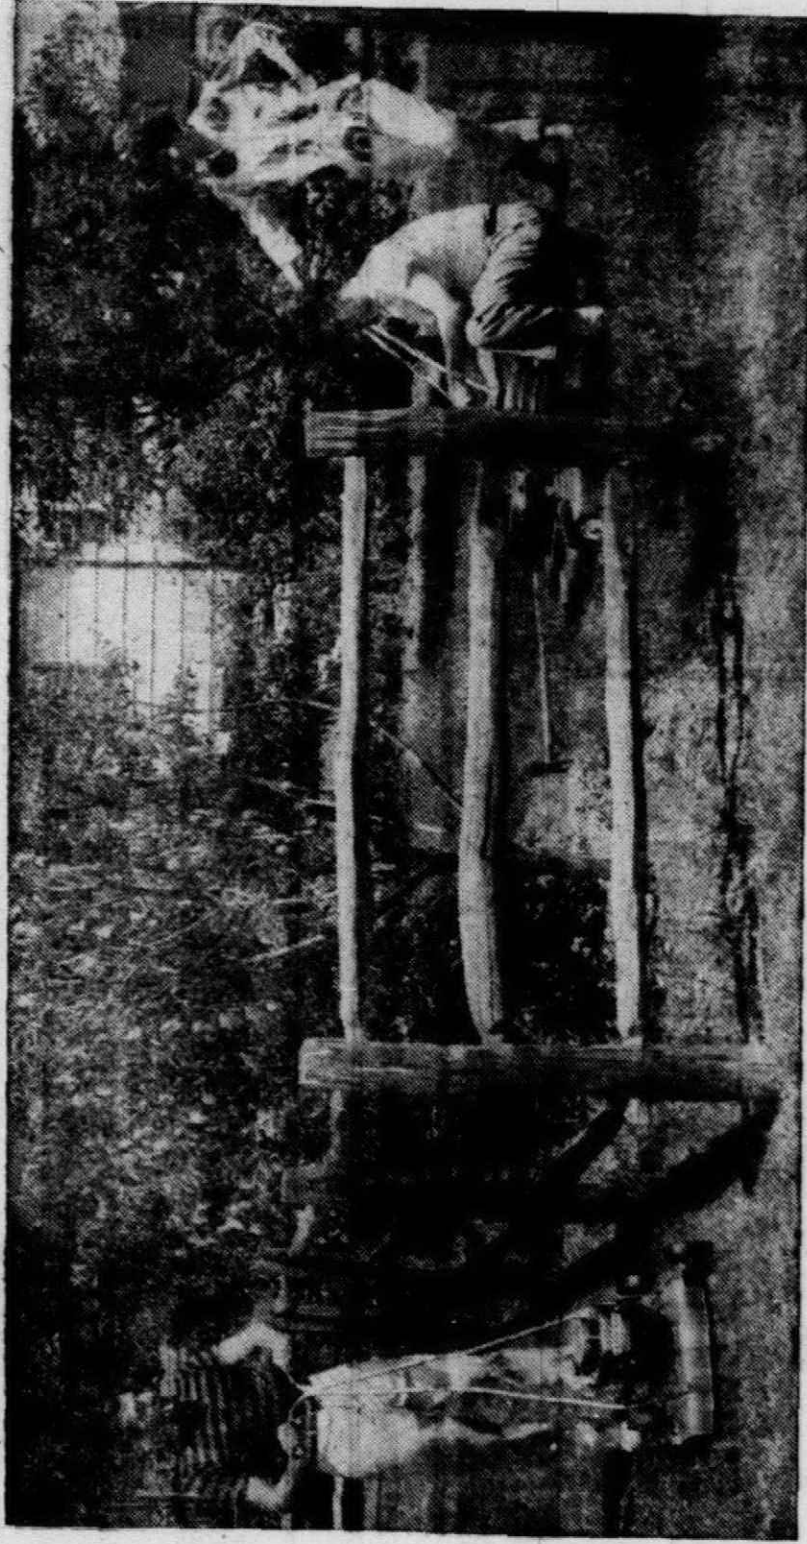

Step No. 1 is the preparation of a good seed bed. Spade to a depth of at least 8 inches, turning the soil over and crumpling it thoroughly.

A level surface tends to reduce the danger of seeds washing away, so your next step should be to smooth off the peak and fill in the hollows of your spaded area.

This can be done easily by dragging a length of ladder or a heavy plank sideways across it.

To keep the soil from drying out, spread a layer of organic matter and work it in to the upper inch of soil. Peatmoss, feathered, screened, rotted materials, straw or mulch materials. Rake or lo-till the mulch into the surface layer of your lawn area and use a lawn roller to sur-face the earth to a firm, level surface.

Step No. 2 is the seeding. Less than 20 percent of the seeds you will sow will survive to form a healthy bed of grass. It is therefore necessary to seed at least five times the amount you expect to grow. Follow the directions of the seed supplier for the suggested proportion of seed per square foot of lawn. This figure will vary with the type of grass used, openings.

A familiar scene across the nation this spring: neighbors turning out with clippers, garden tools and power mowers. The first mowing of the fresh, spring lawn is very important. Most experts recommend letting the spring lawn come up to a height of about three inches before attempting the first mowing of the season.

Brand New Paint Products Make Painting an 'Anytime' Project

Anytime of the year is interior painting time because new paints are odorless, easy to apply, and very fast-drying — some types dry in much less than one hour. For as little as $10 you can paint a whole room using the solvent-thinned paint products available in a wide range of beautiful colors.

The solvent-thinned paints are the familiar oil paints and the newer alkyl resin emulsion paints that require no application, are self-leveling, dry quickly, and have great covering power. When you buy odorless alkyl resin finishes, ask for the companion odorless thinner.

The water-thinned paints are known as latex, or emulsion paints and are found under a wide variety of names — these are extremely fast-drying, odorless, very easy to apply. Spatters, brushes and you — can be cleaned up with water.

Both the alkyl and latex paints dry to a desirable flat finish that is ideal for walls and ceilings of living rooms, bedrooms, and bathrooms. They can be applied over dry wall construction, wallpaper or plaster.

Semi-gloss or gloss finishes are available in both alkyl and latex types and these glossy paints and enamels are fast-drying, highly scrubable, resistant to grease and dirt and are practical for trim, kitchens and bathrooms.

A TOOL HOUSE is a necessity if the home has no basement. A simple, small structure is easy to build and can be partly concealed with plants.

TO WHAT DISTANT PORT? ... THE H.M.S. President pictured against the setting sun in London's River Thames captures the portrait: lure of the sea.

TEN PAINTING TIPS

1. Select the paint product best-suited for the job.
 2. Follow directions on the can.
 3. Use good quality brushes or rollers.
 4. Protect floors and furniture.
 5. Prepare the surface properly.
 6. Paint at comfortable temperatures in a dry, well-ventilated room.
 7. Wipe up spatters and spills immediately before they harden.
 8. Clean brushes, rollers and other tools as soon as you finish using them.
 9. Wear rubber gloves while painting and cleaning brushes or rollers to protect your hands and assist cleanup time.
 10. Consult your dealer if you have any questions.
- Dress comfortably for the painting job, covering your head if you're working overhead. Be sure there is adequate ventilation in the room in which you're working. Do the ceiling first, then the walls, and finally the woodwork, doors, and trim.

Latex Paints Now In Use For Exterior Applications

House paint has two functions. And—most important—the first and most important is to protect the surface from the effects of rain, snow and sunlight. The second is to beautify the house.

Most homes are built of clapboard siding and shingles with the original job. Latex paints cover so well that often the original paint is not even touched. However, it can be applied the same day. Latex paint dries in less than an hour.

For the wood trim of a house, colorful exterior enamel or trim-and-trillis paint is recommended. It is easy to apply latex paints which are indoors decorating have now branched "out".

Special exterior masonry latexes are now on the market (under various brand names) for use on stucco, cement, bricks, cinder blocks and asbestos shingles. What are their advantages? Substantially the same as those to the "Dutch Boy" Company. They go on easily and dry quickly and it's easy to clean up after painted until too late.

Durable Asbestos Cement Top Home Weatherproofer

With the coming of spring, it's a good time to take stock of the condition of your home. The outside of the house storms and don't have to be your first consideration, because it is here that the damage usually starts.

Now—the outside walls... many of the usual... headaches that homeowners suffer, can be cured by installing asbestos-cement shingles. It will do away with the problem of interior rotting, or the worry of termites, or the cost of maintenance. New application methods which accentuate the horizontal shadow lines between the courses of asbestos shingles will not only give your home a modern look, but also add greater weather-tightness.

Another new method of siding application is the board and batten treatment in which 4-foot-wide asbestos-cement panels are used with trim battens to replace, do it right, stripes arranged vertically. This highest quality siding method also is one of the least expensive.

HAPPIER KITCHEN

Here are some ideas to remember if you plan a new "modern" kitchen. Eating accommodations should be large enough for at least six people; the kitchen should be placed in a sunny window so that you can see outdoors; a "back door" leading outside is very convenient; a lavatory or half bathroom should be nearby, and provision should be made for exhaust fans to take away kitchen odors.

The average city home accounts for two pounds of dirt per week through open windows.

Pegboards Are As Useful In New Home as Old One

Peg boards are as useful in the new home as in the old. The board comes in several thicknesses from 1-8 and 3-16 inches to as much as 1-4 inch. Panels, usually about 20 by 23 inches with 400 perforations in this area, are available. Such a panel may be purchased with a certain number of hooks and clips.

However, since peg board is sold at so much less than the cost of a piece of wall area to be covered. If an entire wall, as in a garage, is to be covered, then several panels plus additional pieces to fill in the bottom area may be needed.

To attach, a 1 by 1-inch studding should be fastened to the wall. The studding can be put up in 2 or 3-foot squares. The studding is essential to hold the peg board out from the wall in order that hooks or fixtures can be inserted in the holes.

The peg board will cover the studding. Nails can be driven through the holes in the peg board or around the edges.

Peg board comes in a natural plywood color. However, it is easy to paint any color desired. Large sheets will accommodate garden tools including several rakes and a heavy spade or shovel. Another large panel in the utility room will hold together household tools such as mops, broom, dustpan, etc.

A smaller sheet, cut to size, in the kitchen will hold cooking spoons, pancake turner and such within reach. Another small panel on the wall above the sewing machine will keep shears, scissors, even machine attachments together. On the inside of a closet door, hooks on a peg board provide a convenient place for belts, ties, even scarfs and shoes. Peg boards are equally convenient in the bathroom. Finally, with metal supports to hold glass shelves they prove decorative in any room.

Cushion Padding Available Now As Base for Linoleum

Since the average housewife walks back and forth on the floor of the linoleum, and so she across her kitchen floor is easier to keep clean. an estimate of nine billion for every day, it is a good idea to have a cushion padding installed on the work required for under-foot!

This padding is a spring-filled foam "underlay" in covering a 12' x 10' surface. The material cushions the impact of the foot against the floor, and is said to be more comfortable to walk on than flooring alone.

Any kind of linoleum, either sheet goods or tile, may be installed over the air-foam underlayment.

This padding is easy to install on a do-it-yourself project, and can be put down on top of any existing smooth-surface floor (except asphalt tile and vinyl asbestos tiles).

Bobbed Old flooring does not have to be ripped up, and the new electrical room lighting necessary. Of course, the padding can be used in any room in the house as well as the kitchen. This material, fully installed, is no more expensive than the old linoleum base. And, it's an investment in years of comfort for every one in the home.

Another advantage of the padding is that it is quiet; the footsteps are softened and other noises are hushed. Because of its resiliency, dirt is held in the living room! Many new homes have high ceiling living rooms for added spaciousness. They are especially shown in split level houses. If you have a low 'intimate look' to the ceiling, a low 'intimate look' to the ceiling is a dial.

CEILINGS UP

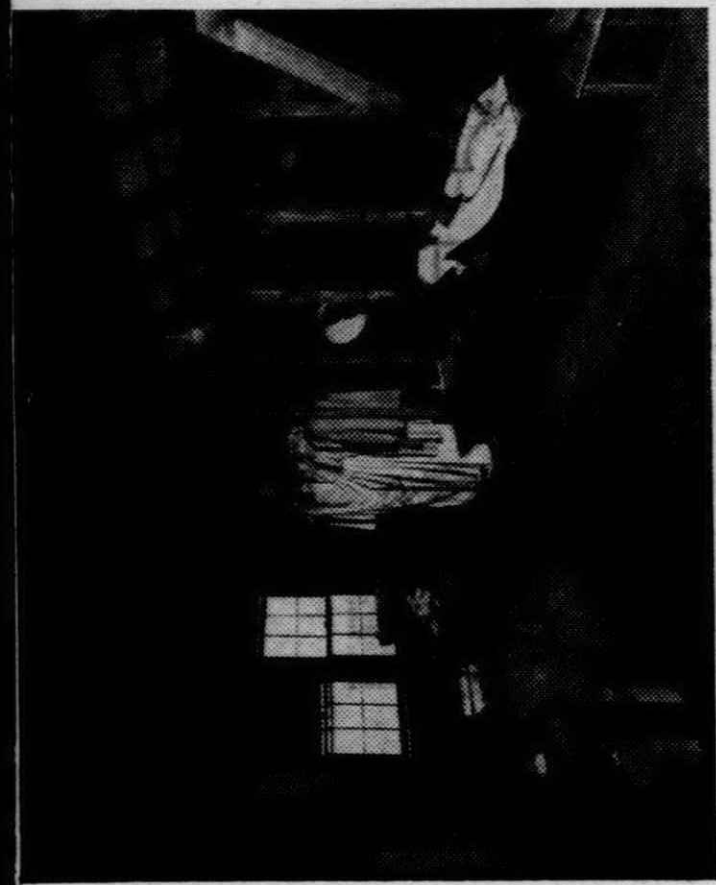

What 'light' mood are you in, darling? This may well be the modern housewife to her toll tired husband! The new low electrical room lighting from soft to bright, by easy turn of a dial.

Here's a fine example of how modernization can provide economical and attractive new living space in an old home. This attic is typical of the kind in millions of prewar homes in almost every part of the country. Now (below) windows have been enlarged to admit more light and fresh air, walls and ceilings have been covered with easy-to-decorate gypsum wallboard and the rough flooring has been covered with matting. Follow Few Simple Short Cuts to Ease House Cleaning

Do you sometimes feel that the much time this will save you ... to say nothing of the extra steps.

Develop your own routines ... remember "Cheaper by the Dozen"?? The principles are the same as those used by time and motion experts. You can work out your own rather easily and quickly by trial and error.

Scheduling your work gives you more time ... whether you plan the time for all your chores or just for those extra jobs.

Next time you redecorate or purchase a new item for your home, stop to consider how easy it will be to care for.

Consider built-ins or shelves against the wall. These require much less dusting and straightening.

Organize your closets and put every inch of space to work for you. When there's a place for everything ... everything usually stays in its place!

Try to arrange for more outdoor eating and playing. You don't have to be so meticulous with in-the-open living areas.

A little work now ... thinking, testing and planning ... will save you a great deal of work the rest of your life. Make livin' easy!

Make the bed as soon as you get out of it. Pick up in the living room and den each evening before you to bed. You may be amazed at how ICE BOX? ... This letter box, belonging to Little Shaver, stands in the middle of the street in Dutch Hollow, Va., during their worst storm in 29 years.

First of all, don't expect your home to be immaculate everywhere, always. Concentrate on the area that is most important to you. Other members of the family should be responsible for other areas; their own bedrooms for example.

Next, forget about "woman's work" and "man's work" ... maybe Junior is better at dishwashing than mowing the lawn. If so, let that be his regular assignment.

Now go through your home, room by room. Remember that the fewer unused things you have, the less work you have. Look at each "frill" and ask yourself if it's worth the effort.

Develop the habit of cleaning as you go. After you wash up, you may want to clean the lavatory. At least rinse the dishes right after you use them.

Four Good Rules For Power Mower Safety

- 1—Don't mix oil with the gasoline. Good for scooters, maybe, but not for the 4-cycle mower engines.
- 2—Don't make adjustments to the engine while it's running. This works only when adjusting the carburetor.
- 3—Don't do any "tuning up" inside the garage or storage shed. This is strictly an outdoor job. Carbon monoxide fumes are deadly, and in a confined space can kill.
- 4—Don't fill your gas tank while the engine is running. In fact, wait until it has cooled before refilling. Gasoline on a hot cylinder explodes and blazes quickly.

Be sure to choose your (the engine and cause power mower for your (breakdowns)).

greatest needs rather than by price or other consideration.

There are two major categories of mowers: electric and gasoline powered. Of these there are three distinct types ... rotary, reel and hammer-types. The reel is excellent for fine, smooth turfs, but does a poor job on uneven or tough lawns. This type not only turns the blades, it also propels the wheels. Operating expenses are lower than for other mowers.

The rotary is best where rough or uneven ground must be trimmed, or where tough crabgrass abounds. Its initial cost is about 30 percent cheaper than for reel mowers.

Ideally, electric mowers should be used only where the distance from lawn edge to house is not more than 100 feet; where there are few shrubs and trees to get in the way of the cord. This type is about 20 percent cheaper than a gasoline mower. Both reel and rotary types are available. On wet lawns such a unit may be a shock hazard.

The price of a power mower depends on the width of the swath it cuts as well as the type of construction and the engine.

The larger mowers are powered with a four-cycle engine of about two and one-half horsepower. The smaller model will have a two-cycle, one and one-half horsepower. (Any less power will overload

Tips Revealed for Selecting Paneling

An important item in many home building or remodeling plans this year will be a wood-paneled room—a finished cellar or attic, a family room, living room or den.

At the outset planning to panel a room presents a major problem in selecting the "right" paneling from the wide variety on display in the lumber dealer's show room. Betty Jennings, designer, offers these hints on making a selection:

1. Miss Jennings suggests that prefinished paneling has many advantages. Finishing your own paneling, she points out, is not only expensive and time-consuming but also uncertain as to results. A factory-applied finish such as the Weldwood finish for on a few dollars more than an unfinished paneling—is comparable with that on the finest furniture. It is easy to maintain with an occasional wipe-down with a damp cloth and an infrequent waxing. Since it is a permanent finish its initially higher cost over paint-on-plaster or wallpaper will more than pay its own way during years in which no refinishing or repapering is necessary.

2. Prices for paneling vary widely. Miss Jennings offers these budget hints: Economy range: there are a number of low-priced "textured" woods which cost as little as $38.00 for a 12 by 8 wall. These are woods from which the softer spring growth has been scoured out of the grain creating three-dimensional patterns with a driftwood effect. Among the colors available are Frosted Ebony, Silver Grey, Havana Green and Fawn.

Middle-priced range: the material for a 12' by 8' wall of an interesting African hardwood may cost as little as $45. Birch for the same area averages about $65. Among other middle-priced woods are Nakora (a type of Japanese ash) and Philippine mahogany.

Luxury range: Cherry, walnut and oak are among the woods of higher price with their traditional popularity creating a comparative scarcity. The price range roughly is $75-$80 for a 12' by 8' wall.

3. Miss Jennings points out that a major consideration in selecting paneling should be the use to which the room will be put. For a children's room which will take a hard usage, for example, one of the textured woods—designed for hard knocks—might be advisable. For a master bedroom, perhaps Color-Styled Samara in one of the new decorator colors—Coral Rose, Biscayne Blue, Sherwood Green or Dove Grey. For a formal living room reflecting traditional warmth and a feeling of substance it may pay to go into the higher price range for oak or walnut.

4. In selecting the variety of wood Miss Jennings advises considering whether the room to be paneled has plenty of light. If natural lighting is bright it may be paneled with one of the darker woods such as mahogany or walnut. If the room is naturally dark a lighter wood may be indicated such as oak, Korina or Dove Grey Samara.

5. Miss Jennings advises taking furniture into consideration. If you will use furniture you already own make sure the paneling does not clash. It is often possible to install paneling of the same wood as your furniture. If new furniture is to be purchased it may match or complement the wood in the paneling.

6. Another consideration is your color scheme. Miss Jennings points out that many woods have overtones of red, pink, yellow or brown which may clash with pre-conceived color schemes. On the other hand, Color-Styled Samara, for the first time now, makes it possible to obtain the luxury of a fine hardwood grain lined in a color around which a decorating scheme may be planned.

7. There are several paneling styles from which to select. V-Plank, with grooves cut into the face vertically to give a random plank effect is especially good for large areas and for somewhat informal types of interiors. Colonial V-Plank gives a decidedly Early American effect because of the pegs inserted above and below horizontal v-grooves which are spaced like those in old peg planks. The standard panel usually 4' x 8' in dimension fits most applications, formal or informal.

Wood paneled walls, says Miss Jennings, reflect the warmth and prestige which most of us prize so highly in our surroundings. They are a lifetime investment and should be considered as carefully as you would consider the purchase of a fine piece of furniture.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. Clara K. Rhodes, Epps, Louisiana: I remember protracted meeting times back in the days of yore. I'm sure you do, too, whose birthdays near three-score. We'd go for miles come meeting time, in wagons, buggies, horseback, on foot, trudging along the dusty roads, from every direction, corner and nook.

They'd take all the children, too, sometimes a dozen or more, from babes in arms to courting age (who'd hang around the church house door). Till they'd hear the singing start, then go in and take their seats, but more interested in who's at church, than listening to the preacher preach.

Mothers would take a quilt along, to make the babies a pallet. A jar of water, a drinking cup, a sack of tea cakes, to quiet their rackets. But about the time the service started, you were always sure to hear, "Momma, I want a drink of water." From a wee voice loud and clear.

Then as the preacher took his text, or as they knelt to pray, "I want a tea cake, mama," you'd hear another say. And just when everything got quiet, another whispered loudly in mother's ear, blushing mother would rise and leave and go out somewhere to the rear.

Make Garage More Orderly More Useable

Garages are notorious for being catch-alls for everything from kids' tricycles to a conglomeration of garden equipment.

A good home improvement starter project, which will dress up the garage's interior and reduce the fire hazard, is a functional liner.

Garages, unsightly to begin with, in most cases, because they usually show unfinished wall studs, can be given interior walls that have a dual purpose — organized storage to end garage chaos, and a thousand percent improvement in appearance.

Strong metal fixtures that fit interchangeably in any of the hundreds of Peg-Board holes support storage items out of the way, yet are within easy reach.

KITCHEN HELPER

Frozen fruit cans, usually attacked with a sharp knife, can be opened quickly and easily with the inconspicuous but handy beverage can opener.

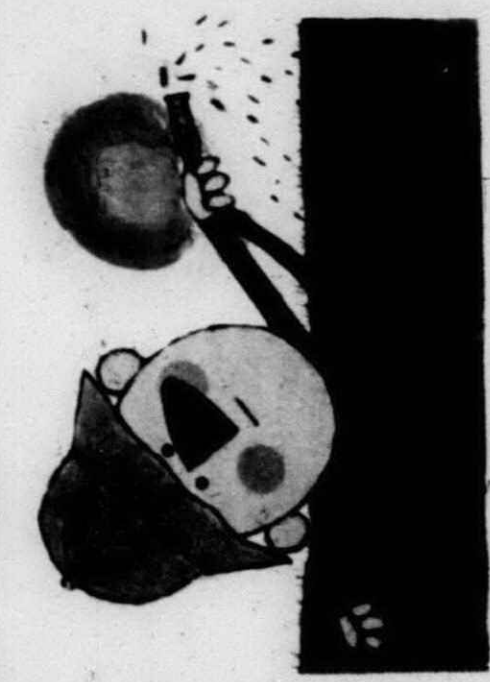

Most of us do not realize that the round, blunted end of this opener can flip off the lids of frozen fruit cans with out any mess or danger. The Selfton Fiber Can Co., leading makers of frozen food containers, makes this suggestion for simplicity, safety and speed.

New cabinet hardware alone can make a substantial improvement in the appearance of a kitchen as these two pictures demonstrate. Before this simple, inexpensive modernization, the kitchen (above) had unattractive and obsolete pulls and outside catches. But now (below), Amerock's smart Contemporary hardware and concealed catches give it a whole new personality.

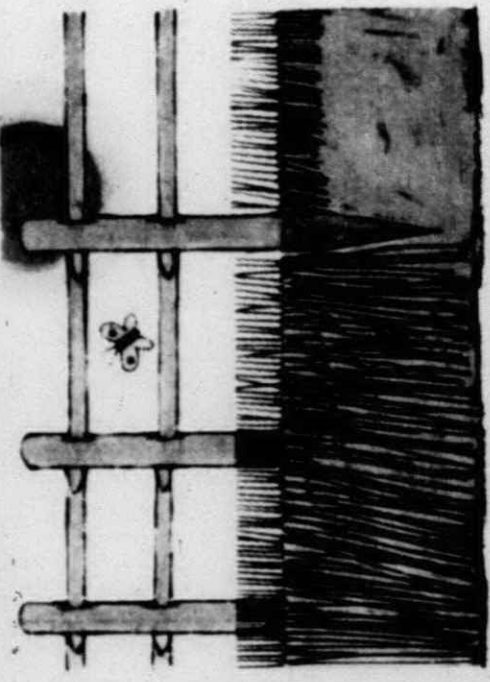

Things you don't have to do with NEW GOLDEN VIGORO

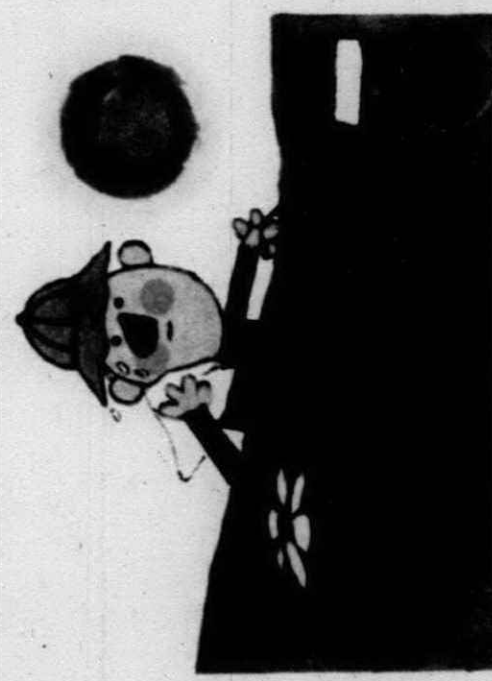

You don't have to race against green-up time. You can feed your lawn any time you want... any time of the season. Golden Vigoro won't burn.

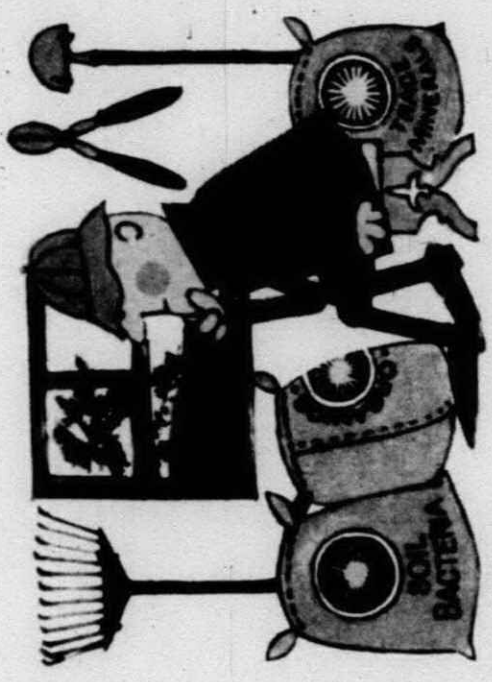

Or give grass a bath. With New Golden Vigoro you just spread it and forget it. Skip the watering-in. It won't burn the tenderest growth.

Or worry about roots. A Golden Vigoro lawn has vigorous roots. They reach deep in the soil, keep lawns greener in hot, dry weather.

Or feed your lawn every month. One Golden Vigoro feeding in spring lasts for weeks after other lawn foods have given out.

Or buy a lot of extras. New Golden Vigoro gives grass everything it needs (except sun, air and water) to develop thick, deep-rooted growth.

Or constantly fight weeds. Use End-o-Weed to kill weeds. Then feed Golden Vigoro for a thick, springy turf that helps choke out new weed growth.

One of KRAFT'S 3 famous margarines is THE RIGHT SPREAD for you!

Perhaps you'll prefer SWEET CHILLED PARKAY

Maybe your choice will be MIRACLE MARGARINE

This is Kraft's newest margarine. The flavor is distinctively delicate—and the texture is lighter—because it's been "golden whipped." Each economical pound contains 6 sticks.

But you should also try KRAFT-DELUXE MARGARINE

This spread is mostly margarine—but it has been flavored with the high-priced spread. It brings the rich taste of luxury to your table!

KRAFT

Urges you to try all three!
We're sure you'll agree each one is perfectly delicious. Only you can decide whether you prefer the delicate flavor of our Miracle Brand—the "sweeter" flavor of Parkay or the extra richness of Kraft Deluxe. Chances are, you'll like all three so well you'll find yourself switching back and forth among them!

Commuting Expense Should Be Deducted,

Says Congresswoman, As "Cost Of Doing Business."

COMMUTERS are being victimized by a tax structure as out of date as the "Tin Lizzie." Moreover, the time has come to do something about it. To my mind, there is no reason why wage earners and salaried people should pay taxes on money that was never, in any real sense, their own.

Today Americans are spending millions of dollars every year as the price of holding their jobs—for this is what the expense of commuting amounts to. The money you spend on transportation to and from work is no more your own than is the money skimmed off your paycheck by federal, state and local governments in the form of taxes. Uncle Sam wouldn't think of taxing you on money you've paid as taxes. On the contrary, he allows you to deduct it from your taxable income. Yet he will—and does—demand that you pay taxes on the money you spend to hold your job.

This is inconsistent. What's more, it's discriminatory because not all of us are treated alike in this regard. Some Americans are in the privileged position of being permitted to deduct the "cost of doing business." Thus, a carpenter must have his own tools. This is part of keeping his job. He has the right—and it is a proper one—to deduct the cost of tools from his taxable income. The salesman who must travel may deduct his travel expenses. The doctor, the writer, the entertainer and, of course, the businessman—all have the right to deduct the "cost of doing business."

The wage earner and the salaried person should have the same right. The cost of commuting, whether it is from city to city or street to street, is just as much a "cost of doing business" as is the travel done by a doctor or lawyer.

According to the Interstate Commerce Commission commuters paid $114,000,000 to railroads in 1957. They rode an average 19.8 miles per trip and paid an average 2.36 cents per mile. This added up to an average 47 cents per trip. If you multiply this by two and add the cost of connecting subway, bus or car transportation, it becomes clear that for these Americans the cost of holding their jobs—the "cost of doing business," if you will—is considerable. Actually, those who ride by rail are in the minority. Fully 68 per cent of employed persons drive automobiles to work at a cost estimated by Fortune magazine to be a nickel a mile. Taken annually, these nickels add up fast.

Moreover, as everyone is painfully aware, these costs are skyrocketing. Commuter rail fares zoomed 110 per cent between 1947 and 1957. Despite this more than doubled rate, the railroads are losing money on commuter runs and want to boost fares again. The old nickel bus fare has long gone the way of the Toonerville trolley. And auto costs are rising, too.

So we are not talking about peanuts. The expense of getting to and from work is a big one and a real burden to many families. A Plainfield, New Jersey, man wrote me recently that "my commutation ticket (Plainfield to Philadelphia) costs approximately $600 per year, plus the necessity of driving an automobile at the Plainfield end and 36 cents a day subway fare at the Philadelphia end, or a total cost of not much less than $1,000 a year."

A union printer who also lives in Plainfield wrote that he cannot quit his job in New York without surrendering seniority and fringe benefits. He complained that he is spending $350 a year on commuting.

Nor is the problem limited to the New York-New Jersey area. It is nation-wide. And with more and more people moving to the suburbs, with plants diffusing themselves over the countryside, longer and longer trips to and from work will be the rule. This means they will be more expensive, too. For these reasons I have introduced a bill which, I am convinced, would bring our tax law up to date. I am not out to bankrupt the Treasury Department. And I'm not trying to set up a gravy train for suburbanites. But I am looking for justice and a touch of realism in our thinking on this matter.

My bill would provide for income tax deductions up to $300 per year for expenses incurred in commuting either by car or public transportation. I have set the ceiling at $300—a level which I believe will give commuters equitable relief without resulting in an excessive loss of revenue to the government.

I must say, in all frankness, that I hold little hope for quick action on this measure. The landscape of America has changed radically as millions have moved from city to suburb. But laws notoriously lag behind life. Until Congress is awakened, it is unlikely to act. This puts the matter squarely where it belongs—in your lap. As a member of Congress, I can introduce bills. I can fight to hold hearings on them, I can cast my vote. All this I will do. But unless the commuter speaks out on his own behalf, more loudly than he has until now, the forecast—I'm sorry to say—is cloudy.

If you think something should be done about this glaring inequity, let your Congressman know. As for me, I think it is time Uncle Sam recognized that travelling to and from one's job is a "cost of doing business," and a legitimate deduction from the income tax.

Books

OUTSTANDING among the spring titles are three books, each written by a gifted storyteller in the setting of his native country. Canadian Hugh MacLennan in THE WATCH THAT ENDS THE NIGHT tells of a strange triangle—two men devotedly loved by the same woman. The moving theme, that love is the greatest gift, flows deeply among the three main characters. (Scribner, $3.95)

In RAIN AND THE FEAST OF THE STARS, Reiko Hatsumi relives her childhood, bright with festivals, pink cotton candy and French lessons. Her impressions of old Japan, as it conflicts with the new, are vividly recalled. (Houghton, $3.50)

THE PLEDGE by Friedrich Duerrenmatt, Swiss novelist, is a tale of mounting suspense—a police inspector makes a promise that eventually destroys him. Penetrating psychological mystery set among the quiet Swiss Alps. (Knopf, $3.00)

Taylor Caldwell in her DEAR AND GLORIOUS PHYSICIAN presents a fascinating portrait of St. Luke the young physician. Later, as a Christian, Luke meets many who had known Jesus, and records their accounts in the Gospel. This brilliant historical novel is founded on extensive research. (Doubleday, $3.95)

FLYING TIGER: CHENNAULT OF CHINA by Robert Lee Scott, Jr. is a chronicle of an extraordinary leader and of the many men who flew with him. Chennault's active life spanned two world wars and was always governed by a noble spirit. Heartwarming and inspiring. (Doubleday, $3.95)

The scene of Lawrence Durrell's MOUNTOLIVE, like his JUSTINE AND BALTHAZAR, is Alexandria in the 1930's. A thrilling story seething with religious intrigue and political conspiracy is told through the eyes of a British diplomat. (Dutton, $3.95)

Mary Margaret McBride's latest, A LONG WAY FROM MISSOURI, is a funny, fast moving story about a light-hearted career girl in New York. As a reporter she meets celebrities and "crowned heads," covers divorce trials—and the unpredictable always happens. (Putnam, $3.75)

Pat Frank's ALAS, BABYLON describes a handful of survivors of nuclear bombing and how they struggle for existence. Like pioneers, they are forced to resort to their wits, and the strength of their bare hands. Plausible and realistic. (Lippincott, $3.50)

TELL ME STRANGER by Charles Brace-llen Flood is the story of a successful woman photographer and her man Friday. Assignments abroad take them to Kilimanjaro, and lead to romance and adventure. (Houghton, $3.50)

The mysteries of marine life become a fascinating adventure as Rachel Carson introduces her readers to the plants and animals that live at THE EDGE OF THE SEA. (Mentor, 50¢)

ROMAN TALES by Alberto Moravia is

Movies

EIGHTEENTH-century Russia is the setting of an exciting pageant, TEMPEST. Two lovers, aristocrat Silvana Mangano and army officer Geoffrey Horne, are trapped in the turmoil of a Cossack revolt against Catherine the Great. The story maintains a fast pace and visually it is a magnificent spectacle.

RIO BRAVO, a robust western of the first order, is packed with fast action, humor and romance. Sheriff John Wayne arrests a murderer, Claude Akins, whose rich rancher brother hires professional gunmen to seek revenge. Aided by Dean Martin and Ricky Nelson, Sheriff Wayne shoots his way out.

SOME LIKE IT HOT is a gay, fast and whacky film starring Marilyn Monroe as a singer in an all-girl band during the roaring 20's. Jazz musicians Tony Curtis and Jack Lemmon, witnesses to a gang shooting, escape detection by disguising themselves as women and joining the band. Herewith, a barrelful of laughs and wild complications.

a group of short stories about ordinary people—waiters, plumbers, thieves—caught in extraordinary situations. Spirited and pungent. (Signet, 35¢) GREAT STORIES BY CHEKHOV are taken straight from life and enlivened by the author's humor and perception. (Dell, 50¢)

NEVER SO FEW by Tom T. Chamales is a powerful story of Allied guerrillas who fought to hold the Burma Road against the Japanese during World War II. (Signet, 75¢) Compiled from letters and diaries of those who were on the spot, REBELS AND REDCOATS gives an eye-witness account of the American Revolution. Co-authors are George F. Scheer & Hugh F. Rankin. (Mentor, 75¢)

Man's first interplanetary adventures are recorded in a book of science fiction, THE MARTIAN CHRONICLES, by Ray Bradbury. Imaginative and convincing. (Bantam, 35¢)

Recently from Dell: Shakespeare's JULIUS CAESAR and THE MERCHANT OF VENICE. (35¢). Also THREE PLAYS BY IBSEN. (50¢). Large type, interesting commentary.

COMPULSION is a spellbinding movie based on the case of two abnormally brilliant 18-year-olds who commit a diabolical crime. Dean Stockwell and Bradford Dillman are convincing, and Orson Welles gives an admirable performance as the impassioned lawyer who pleads for their life.

THE MISTRESS unfolds a touching story of a lovely girl (Hideko Takamine). She becomes mistress to a moneylender, so that her aging father may retire. This film is in the true Japanese vein—delicate, poetic and with a haunting note of pathos throughout.

Clifton Webb and a raft of bright young faces make THE REMARKABLE MR. PENNYPACKER engaging fare. Webb, a free thinker of the sedate 90's, leads a regulated double life between two offices and two wives, who provide him with 17 children. The inevitable showdown occurs, but Webb emerges unruined and forgiven.

Marilyn Monroe as the torch singer of the riotous 20's in "Some Like It Hot."

Records

DRUMMER Shelly Manne (photo) is our current fair-haired boy. Recording with Contemporary, he is a serious musician who has hitched his wagon to modern jazz. Interpreting Hank Mancini's PETER GUNN, Shelly is fresh and stirring and loaded with new ideas. Another Manne disc, THE GAMBIT, is a chess game in jazz; exciting and provocative. Go, Manne, go!

Humorist PETER USTINOV has added records to his triumphs on stage, screen and TV. In GRAND PRIZ OF GIBRALTAR a sports car jamboree gives him material for a brilliant, side-splitting performance where he takes every part, including the cars. (Riverside)

LARRY ELGART is beginning to cause a furor among the young set. Perfectionist Elgart has his heart set on the new "Elgart sound" you hear in LARRY ELGART AND HIS ORCHESTRA, his latest RCA release—smooth, rich dance music, strong in the horn section.

Crazy, crazy, is the only way of describing Hans Conried's and Alice Pearce's MONSTER RALLY (RCA). It is a collection of the scariest horror songs you've ever heard.

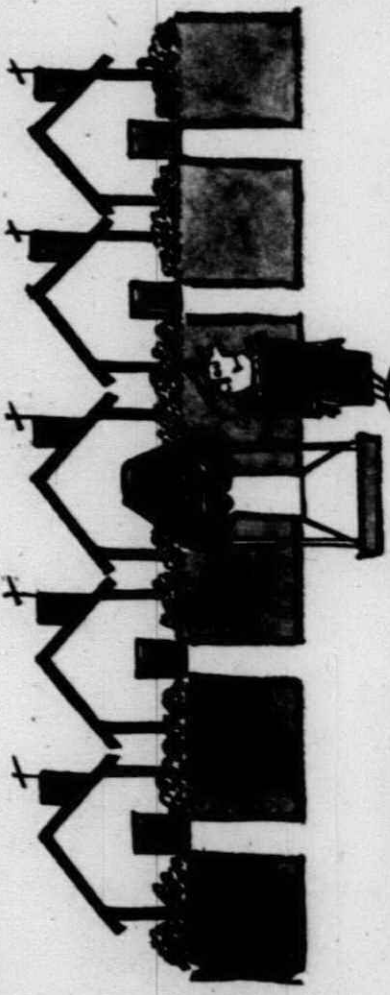

Operatic highlight of the month is an RCA edition of Gian Carlo Menotti's MARIA GOLOVIN. First performed at the Brussels Fair last year, it won immediate acclaim, and several musicologists feel that it is Menotti's most important work. Beautifully sung in English, the performance stars Franca Duval, Richard Cross.

The voice of Sir John Gielgud, famous Shakespearean actor, has been captured for posterity in AGES OF MAN, (Col.), a collection of 16 great passages from Shakespeare concerning youth, manhood and old age. Hear this!

Artur Schnabel has given the world two new records of his marvelous talent (RCA). On RUBINSTEIN AND CHOPIN, he plays some of the composer's less familiar works including Impromptus 1, 2, & 3. In another album he offers the well-known SCHUMANN PIANO CONCERTO IN A MINOR. An opera about operas, Richard Strauss' CAPRICCIO (Angel) features Elizabeth Schwarzkopf. Almost a conversation piece, it examines playfully the problems of words and music, and reveals Strauss' enormous admiration for Gluck.

Two views of Shelly Manne as he puts his men through their paces.

How To Be A Non-Conformist

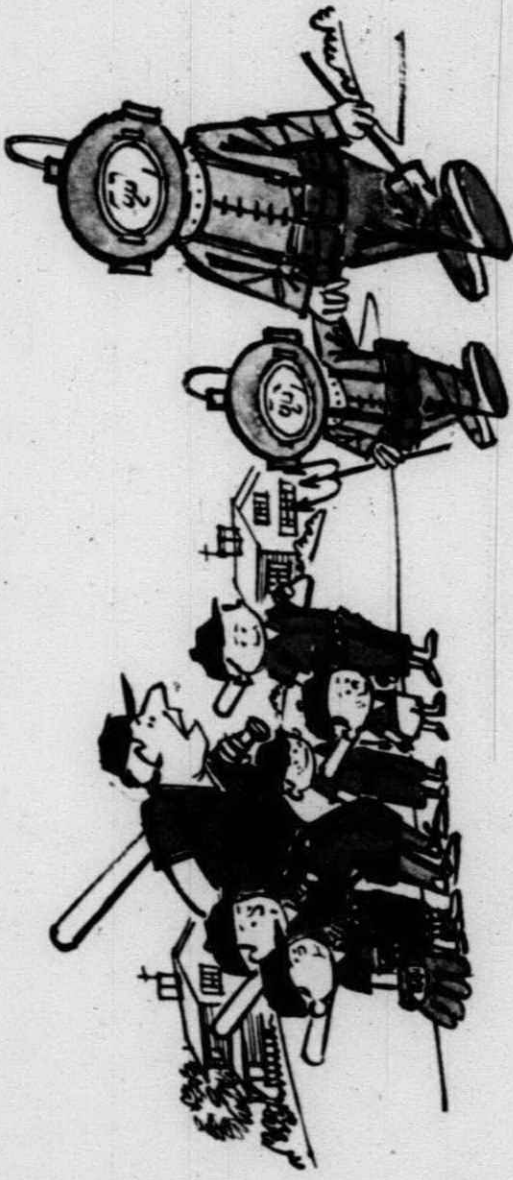

Today's living patterns have developed a whole new concept of society—Keeping Up And Down With The Jones. In a world hurtling toward conformity, here are a few helpful suggestions for maintaining some identification.

With the increasing popularity of the small car and the station wagon on the suburban scene, dramatize your indifference with either of the above selections.

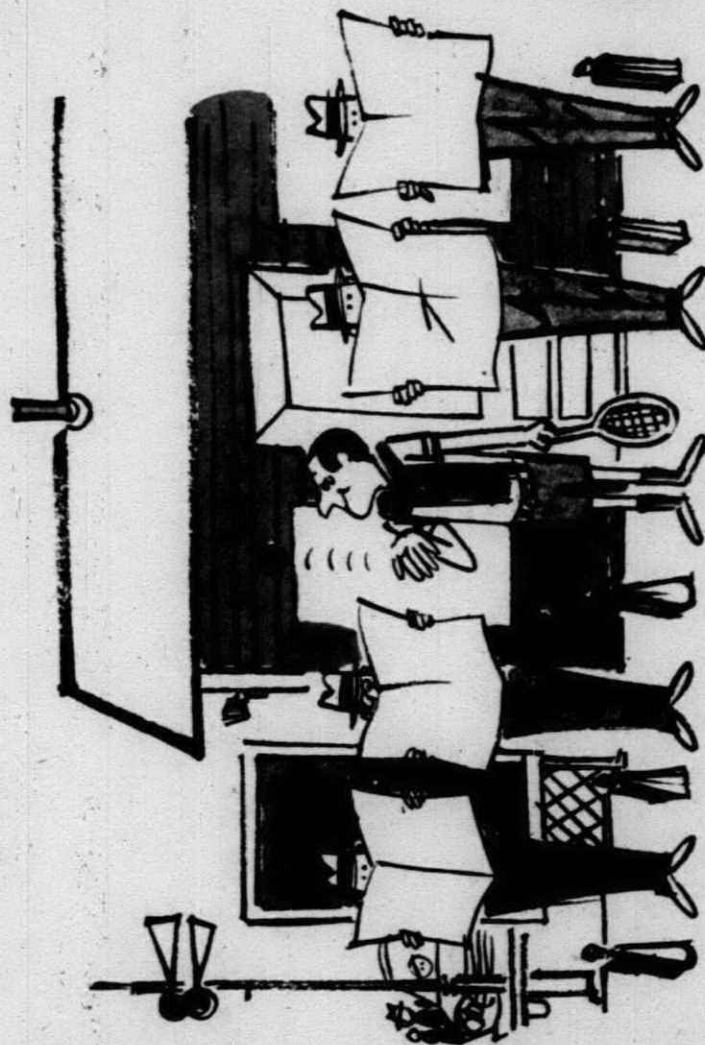

Go to your local supermarket and purchase only ONE item, preferably a staple. (Anything exotic makes you a conformist.)

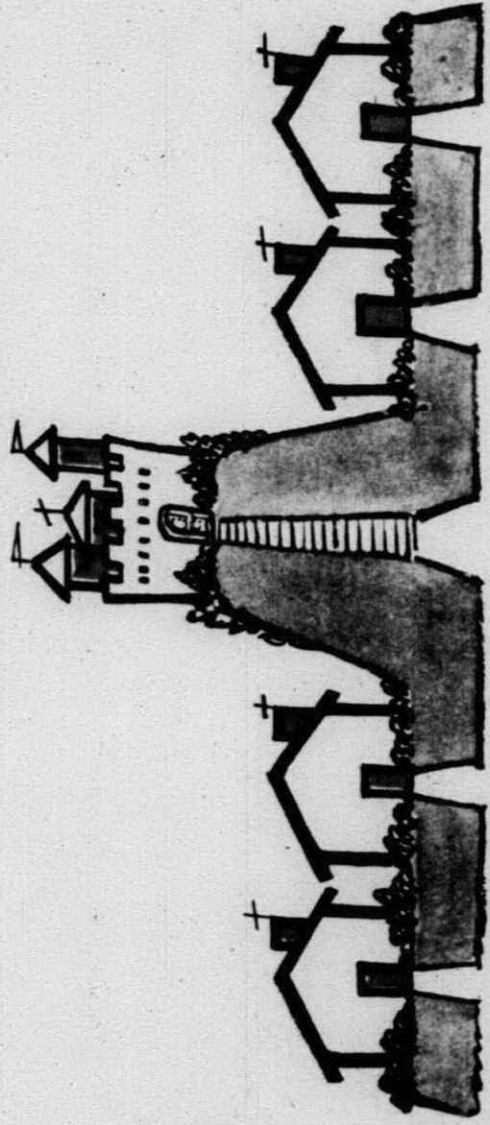

With the trend obviously toward large families, NEVER be seen publicly with more than ONE child at a time. Avoid participating in the USUAL group activities.

Be selective about your children's playmates. Choose them with care and for any outstanding characteristics you may observe.

Commuting forms decided habit patterns. Assert your individuality whenever and wherever possible.

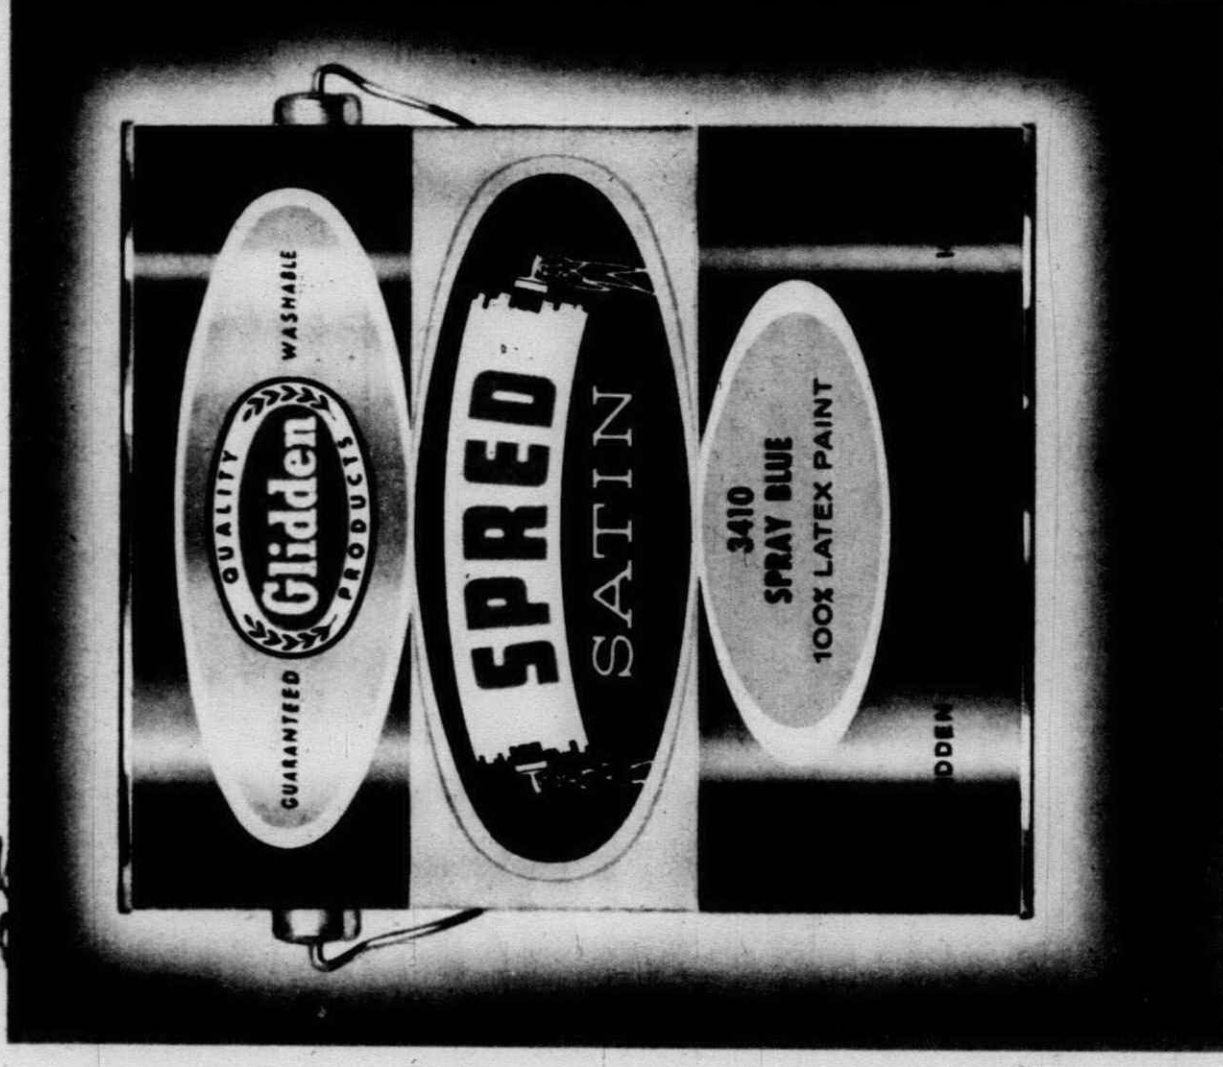

"To the practised eye there is more diversity in the scene than might appear, for the more acclimated to the homogeneity, the more sensitized one becomes to the small differences." (Fortune, 1953)

The Poets See One Face And Sing — The April Gardener Sees Another, And Mutters In His Beard

APRIL is beloved by poets, of course, although because of the vagaries of verse, the name must be put in the middle of a line and not at the rhyming end. What poets like about it is the idea—the end of long winter, the imminence of the fey, gay, way of those flowers of May. To be sure, poets are people, and as such deserve attentive hearing and perhaps a little money for wine and espresso. Poets, however, cluster in places like Greenwich Village. There everything is done for them, a janitor providing heat, a corner cafe providing meals.

What, in effect, do cloistered poets know of April as it really is? Can they legitimately be called spokesmen for that so disordered month? Undrenched by showers, undisturbed by the need for a new roof, new sump-pump and ten pounds of grass seed, they can be spokesmen only for poetical illusion. They should try the suburbs some time. Let them come out this week-end, say, and help clean the place up. Pick up, dig up, rake up—all in meter, if they wish it that way. Setting down the virtues of April, the dogged illusion stresses many things, including pleasures. In cool, mountain streams, it says here, the trout are biting fiercely. This carries the inference that due entirely to April, the trout are so eager they gulp down fly, hook, leader, line and part of the rod. Could be, could be, but a suburbanite can only read of this, not see. In nearby baseball stadia, it continues, they are knocking them into the stands, everyone in the line-up batting .400. This too, could be, although the proof necessarily must lie elsewhere. The suburbanite has something closer at hand, requiring his attention.

Now that it is April, step over to the window here and glance at the yard. During the long months of winter, it has become a shambles. Strolling packs of dogs have littered its once neat surface with mounds of whitening bones. These are of shanks, legs, ribs, and if some mad restorer put them all together, what would he get in the way of beast or fowl? A caricature of a poet, perhaps, come to an April end after writing sentimentally of April. Scattered among the bones are rusted toys and tin cans, dropped by tearing packs of children, and twigs and branches dropped by trees with tired chlorophyll.

At intervals across the yard are great lumps of earth, like anthills. Frost, trying to heave up subterranean stones, or what? Possibly in the far distant mountains of Tibet, the Abominable Snowman has frolicked with such enthusiasm as to cause bulges this side. Be that as it may, bones, toys and wood products must be picked up, and a heavy roller must

and how to grow them yourself

NO MATTER how important a good dressing may be in making a salad, the real basis for success lies in the greens selected for it. Sooner or later, all good cooks learn the two secrets of preparing good food: First, to choose high-quality ingredients; and second, to prepare them so that they retain their flavor. Elaborate sauces and dressings may disguise inferior materials but they cannot triumph over them. This is true of salads, too. Here's why:

Lettuces bought in supermarkets come from commercial farms, the varieties being chosen because they will withstand the punishment of harvesting, shipping to wholesalers, reshipping to retailers, storage under refrigeration and re-refrigeration if they are not immediately sold. In other words, these lettuces must be fairly tough. But good salad greens should be tender and succulent, harvested at the top of their sweet crispness, and used before any flavor is lost. The answer is to grow your salad greens at home. Choose the superior, tender sorts, plant them early and often, harvest them at the height of their goodness, and then use them quickly.

Very little space is required for a complete salad garden—a plot 4 feet by 9 feet sufficing for an average small family. You'll succeed in growing good greens which will not be made bitter by hot weather, won't droop or bolt to seed in midsummer heat if they're grown in deep, rich, well-drained soil that is not soggy in spring or fall, but can be kept moist and shaded in summer.

By using the roll-up shade shown, the bed may be uncovered in spring and autumn, shaded in the dog days of July and August to bring out the best in your salad plants. Although there are many more herbs and vegetables you'll want to use in salads, the basic list at the right will give you a start. Add to it as you wish. Keep your beds well fed, well watered, shaded in hot weather, and you'll agree that "Good Salads must be Grown, not Bought."

HOW TO BUILD THE SHADE:

Use 1" x 2" x 24" stakes to support a 1" x 2" frame, 12" above ground. Plasterer's laths are held together by heavy gardener's twine, looped and re-looped in chain stitch (left) about 2" being left between laths. Shade may be rolled up when not in use and stored in a corner of the garage.

The Two Faces of April

be trundled over the lumps, before a true lawn is in being. As he wearily goes about this task, the gardener may be allowed his fierce hope that those trout may gulp not only the rest of the rod but the reel and the fisherman, too.

Nor is that all there is to April, not nearly all. Out in the rivers, for example, the shad are openhandedly dispensing roe—and shad roe, bock beer and asparagus spell out spring. That is they should, and do, in some places if not in all. Not here at hand, however, not here in the April suburbs. April. April. As though the month were not enough gloomy, those people inside the house pick it as the time for spring cleaning. Cleaning means not only that everything is placed whichaway, but also that there are sandwiches instead of meals cooked on stoves. In distant Greenwich Village, poets are dining this night on shad roe, eating more than their share, much more. Roe. Go blow low foe Joe. It is peanut butter here, on crusts.

As noted, April is the month for cleaning, and that brings up the crux of the matter. In April, the gardener just has too many demands on his time. He must tidy up, which is understood. It is also understood that he must correct a little error of his own devising. This was during the winter when, restless on a warm day, he mapped out certain changes in the landscape. No, not a stone wall this time, for building the wall of '56 gave him an allergy to rocks from which he has not yet recovered.

What he did that day was to decide on adding ten feet to one end of the garden, moving some heavy shrubs from another end, and building a gravel path down the middle. On that warm day in January, he was fool enough to map out the whole project with actual stakes, and—worse still—to tell everyone about it. Now those stakes stand like the pointing fingers of destiny, and he is trapped in the labyrinth of his own blueprints. He must landscape now, or never hear the end of it.

To meet these fully understood demands would take all the gardener's time, every hour of it throughout April. Something still is added, from inside the house. Presumably because you can see the garden through the glass, window cleaning is regarded as yard, or outside work. Not just the outer side of the pane, for which a faint shadow of case could be made, but the inside as well. Poet, speaking softly of April's gentle rustle, have you ever heard the house cleaner summoning the gardener to come and do the windows?

HEAR her calling, and well you may—even above the sound of cheering for a home run at the stadium. The windows must be done this minute, on this day already heavy with whitened bones, toys, sticks and bleakly accusing marker stakes. This particularly unwelcome voice of April carries across the yard, rounds the side and goes to the rear of the garage where, in a broken chair in sunlight, the gardener sits thinking. In April, a man can't sit thinking with his eyes closed for more than a minute before they are after him.

April. April in the suburbs. April in the rain. April which means that spring has come, and that May flowers are on the way. Yes, the gardener has heard it all, and much of it he chooses not to believe. One April sound, however, he does recognize as a true sound of spring. This is the telephone, ringing in the evening. On the other end are city people, calling very, very casually, just to see how everyone is. They have been silent since the fall, busy no doubt with such major problems as getting tickets for "Redhead," but now they are thinking of long week-ends in the country. Theirs is the truer sound of spring than the voice of the turtle or the peep of the peeper; theirs is the hopeful chant of April.

Kind friends, here is a message from the suburbs. If you think you are coming out in July, come now also—when it is April. There are extra rakes, hoes and shovels in the garage, and indoors the housecleaner always can use the services of so charming an assistant. Incidentally, after you've cooked it at home, put the shad roe in the thermos so that it will keep warm until dinner time. No, do not forget it, and leave it in your apartment in the city. Some poet would just snatch it up there, and would be inspired to write something more about the illusion that is April.

FAME in the MAIL

ex-editor named Magee, and made Ed Eberman School Director. The rest of the staff consisted of an office boy named Marvin, now head of the Mail Department, and two clerk-stenographers.

In 1951, after two winters spent shivering around kerosene stoves in the mill and a nearby building called "The House of Correction," the staff grew to 100 and the School moved to its present home in a modern, fireproof building on the Saugatuck River overlooking a flock of seagulls and Westport's shopping district.

School Becomes Schools

Dorne was right. People did welcome a school of commercial art run by successful Famous Artists. In 1954, aiming at the millions of what he calls "Sunday artists" who paint for their own satisfaction, he added a fine arts course and the School became Schools. As a Guiding Faculty, he rounded up Ben Shahn, Doris Lee, Stuart Davis, Will Barnet, Arnold Blanch, Fletcher Martin, Dong Kingman, Ernest Fiene, Adolf Dehn and Syd Solomon.

Two years later, in 1956, he added a cartoon course, with an all-star cast made up of Rube Goldberg, Whitney Darrow, Dick Cavalli, Virgil Partch, Barney Tobey, Al Capp, Milt Caniff, Willard Mullin, Harry Haengisen, Gurney Williams, Bud Sagendorf and Peter Wells. It is a pretty safe bet that you can't visit a modern art museum, read a national magazine from cover to cover, or flip through the funny papers without seeing the work of one or more of the Famous Artists, who serve on the Founding Faculty or the two Guiding Faculties.

Keeping the mushrooming Schools on the person-to-person level hasn't been easy. Probably no one but Dorne, who, among other occupations was once a knock-em-down, drag-em-out rough-house prizefighter, would have accepted the challenge. "There we were," he says with a frown. "In the first years we all lost money on the School and then the idea caught on and everybody wanted to take our lessons!" At last count, there were 6,000 to 7,000 lessons coming in per month from the 15,000 students. All had to be corrected and returned.

Two Truckloads Of Daily Mail

Dorne, Eberman and the Founding Faculty solved the problem by increasing the number of instructors. From Domonkos and Magee in 1948, the full time staff has increased to seventy, all successful (though not Famous) artists in their own right. Working only four days a week to allow them time to pursue their own careers as artists, they meet regularly with the Famous Artists, who conduct two-day seminars each week, closely follow their guidance, and pass it on to the students.

Two truckloads of mail a day pour into

At left, some of the teen-agers who worked on the social code. In the background, the Rye High School.

It is reasonable to insist that a fourteen-year-old be home by 10:30 on Saturday night? Should a girl have to worry about schedules if she is going out with a boy who is in training? Is there anything so bad about bringing a few cans of beer to a friend's party? If the holder of a junior license happens to be an excellent driver, and has no way to get to the party unless he can take the car, can't you make an exception to the law that says he must not drive after dark?

Wherever there are parents and teen-agers, these painful questions are bound to come up, and it would take Solomon to answer them. Be lenient, and it will be against your better judgment. Be strict, and you will seem unjust compared to other parents, and worse still, you may be forcing your teen-ager to be "different." You can't win.

Last year in Rye, New York, the strict parents and the lenient ones put the problem squarely to their teen-agers. Would they consult, and draw up their own code of behavior, one set of rules for everyone to follow?

"We felt the time had come," says Mrs. Charles Rice, president of the Mothers Guild of the Rye High School. "We knew that parents were not consistent about discipline, hours for dates, types of parties and so on. After we had studied existing codes, including two from the neighboring towns of Brinkville and Rye Neck, we came to the conclusion that if our young people could write their own set of behavior rules, they would certainly be more acceptable, and probably easier to keep."

The teen-agers agreed. A committee of forty-six was formed, drawn from class presidents and vice-presidents and heads of sororities, and average students, and from every high school in Rye. Everyone was invited. The interested parents contributed a room where they could meet, provided them with such code material as they had been able to collect, made plans to have the teen-agers' code printed and circulated when it was drawn up, advised them to keep it simple and to the point, and left them to themselves. After weeks of discussion and earnest thought the forty-six turned out the following code which they described as "a simple set of rules to guide our social activities." Here are their rules, as they stand today in the handbook of the Rye High School:

We the teen-agers of Rye subscribe to the following code:

1. We feel it is discourteous for anyone to attend a party, not personally invited by the host or hostess, unless the party has been designated an "Open House."
2. Crashers should be politely but firmly ousted.
3. There are two types of "Open House": those "open to everyone," and those "open to a specific group." The former often gets out of hand. We feel the latter is more desirable.
4. At least one parent or responsible adult MUST be present whenever teen-agers entertain. While allowing the young people a sensible measure of privacy, they should be informed as to transportation at all times.
5. The type of dress worn at parties should be suitable for the type of party given, and the

to the

And Their Parents'—Guidance

final decision is left up to the family at whose house the party is to be held.

6. Having definite hours for a party to start and finish is socially correct. The specific time set for any party is left up to the discretion of the host family and should be made known to the parents of the guests.

7. Parents should know at all times where their teen-agers are and should be informed as to transportation. Teen-agers should know at all times where their parents can be reached.

HOURS

1. The following is a general guide for week-end social activities by grades—7th, 10 p.m., 8th, 10:30 p.m., 9th, 11 p.m., 10th, 12 p.m., and 11th, 12:30 a.m.

2. Circumstances may arise that will necessitate exceptions to the above hours. Generally, all dates should be talked over with parents, and a definite time agreed on for each date.

3. A reasonable time for getting home from functions such as school proms, special out-of-town dates, etc., should be arranged in advance by both parents and teen-agers.

4. We feel that at all times the girl should tell her date the time set for her return. He should follow her wishes.

5. A girl should also respect her date's time limit, when car, training schedules, etc., are involved.

DRIVING

At all times, be a considerate and courteous driver. We feel that parents should insist that their children obey all driving laws. For example:

1. No driving when drinking.
2. No "hot rodding."
3. Laws pertaining to junior licenses.

DRINKING

1. We feel that alcoholic drinks should not be available to anyone under age at any party.

2. No adult should take the liberty of offering alcoholic beverages to a teen-age guest.

3. Bringing drinks to a house where one is a guest is bad form and inadmissible.

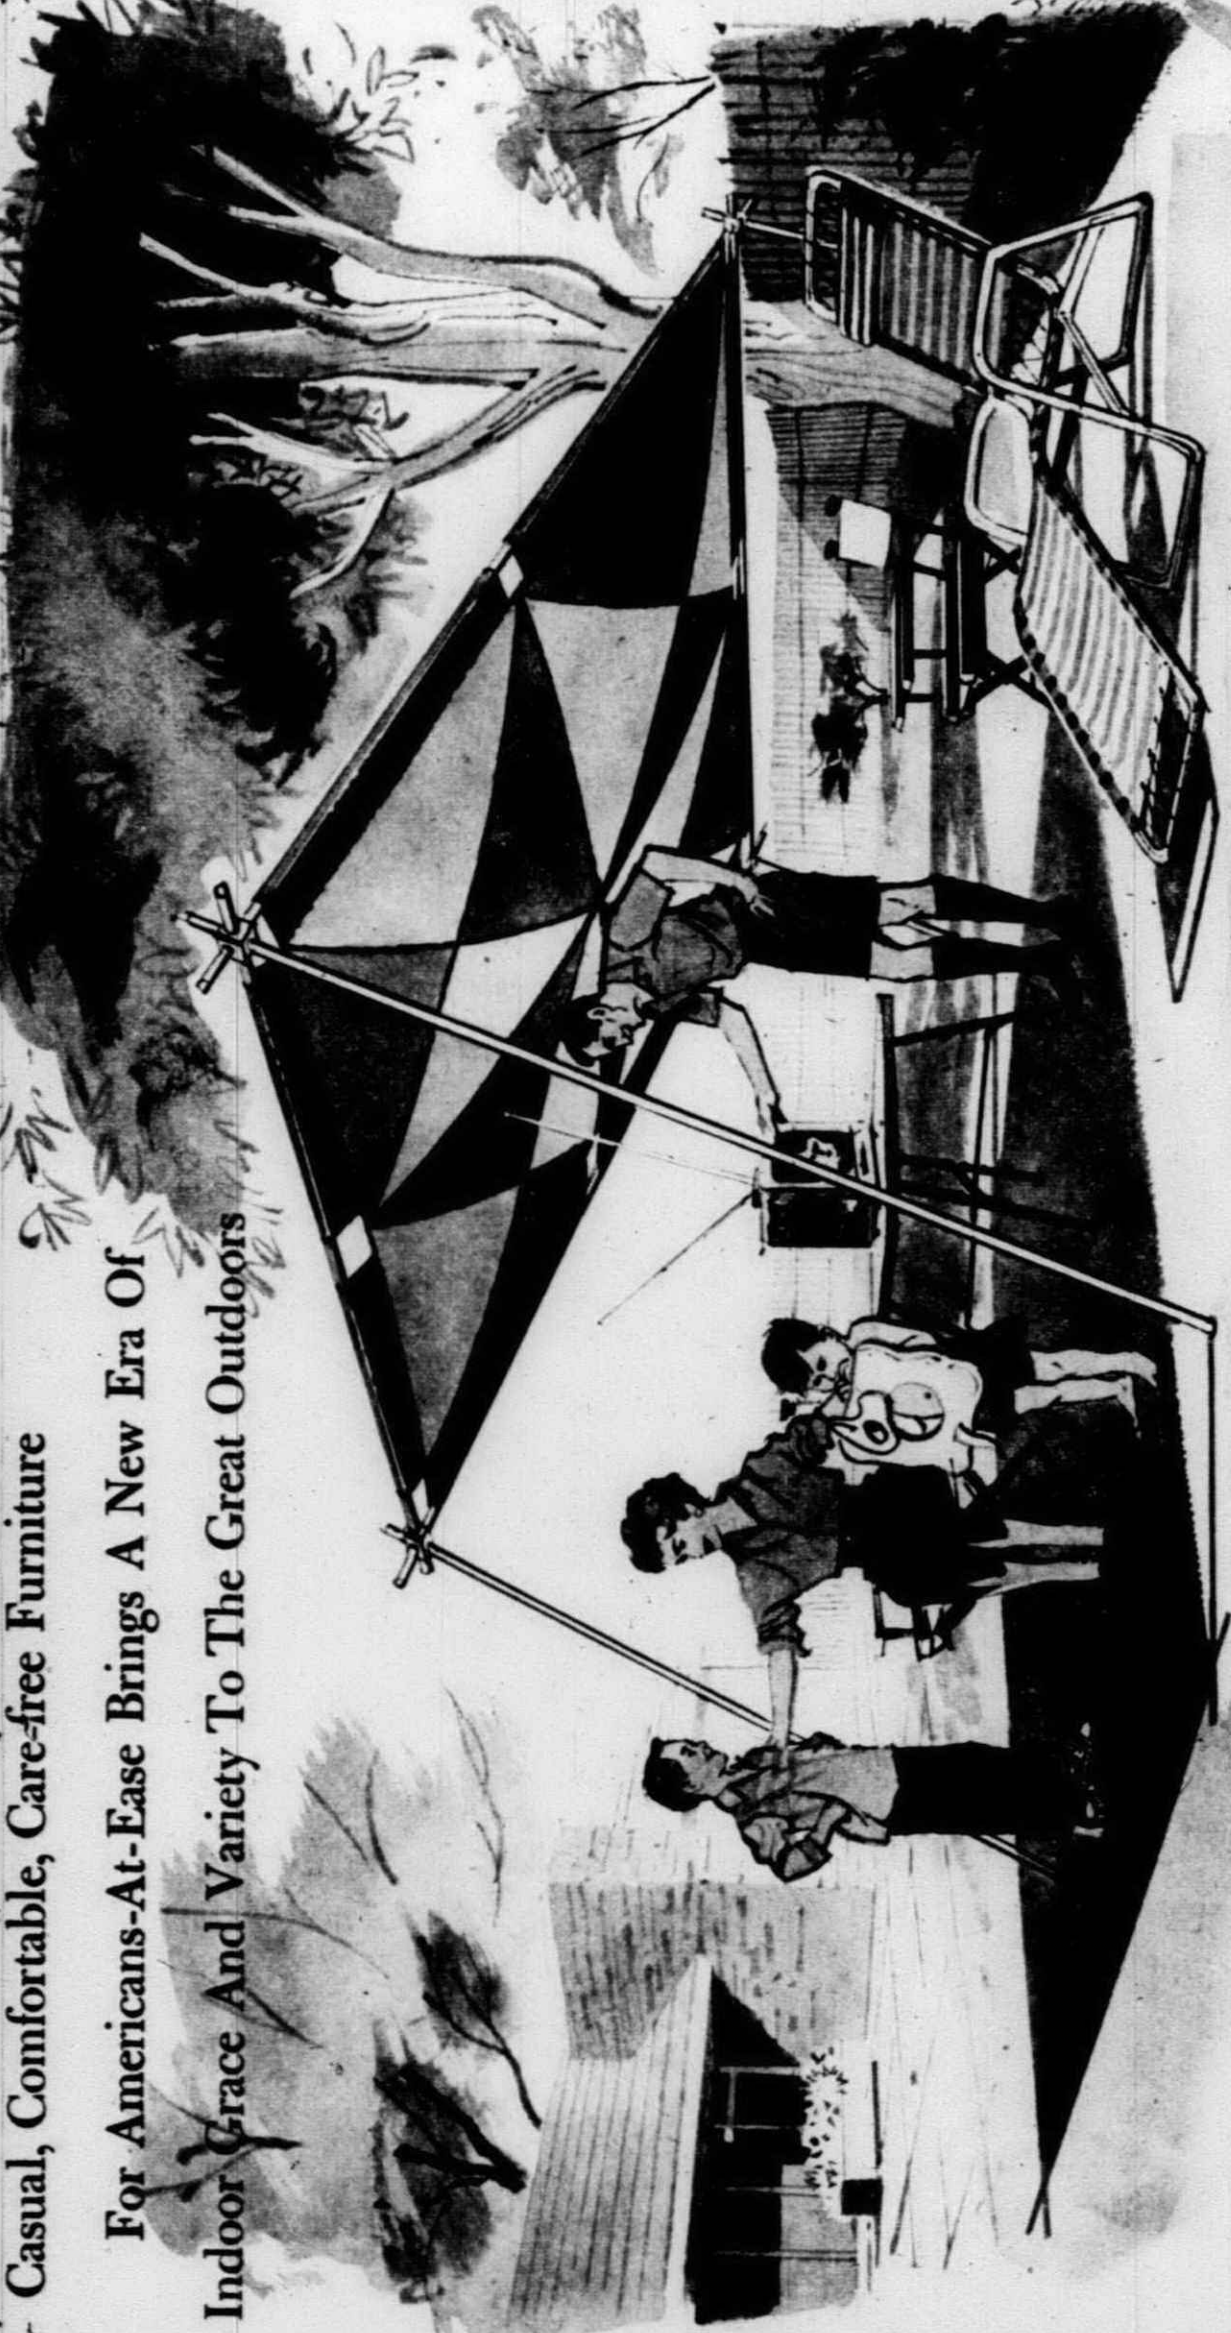

The Rye Code is believed to be the first such document ever written and voted into existence by teen-agers only. When it was completed, it was shown to the parents for their acceptance—not for their approval or ratification. The committee, for instance, vetoed an adult suggestion that the section on Open House be omitted. "Open House," they said firmly, "is definitely a teen-age custom, and if we omit it from the code everyone would know that we had not written it."

The parents retreated, accepted the rules as written, and then did their part in the following-up, arranging for printing, distribution and useful publicity. The code has become incorporated in the high school handbook and circulated to the families of every teen-ager in Rye, and inquiries have poured in from all sides.

The teen-agers have fulfilled the hopes of their parents. Their code works. The coders are not resting on their laurels, however. Some of the original forty-six have now graduated, and others have been elected to their place, to re-evaluate and re-edit as necessary, to keep their own basic rules of behavior up to date and functioning.

Everything Under The Sun

HERE are tables and chairs and floaters and shelters to suit the sun-spirited way of life brought about by houses with lawns, gardens, patios, terraces, and big picture windows. Inventive manufacturers are combining materials, using beautiful lines, and weatherproofing, to produce a new kind of furniture that can be used indoors and out. In the aluminum, wrought iron, wood (particularly redwood), and rattan furniture field, the news is good.

Aluminum, the undisputed leader in popular appeal, has been and continues to be the trend-setter. It is lightweight, it is rust-proof, and it is comparatively inexpensive. The complaint in years past was that it could only be used gracefully out-of-doors. This is no longer true. The combination of aluminum with period and style imaginable—equally at home beside a barbecue on the terrace or in an elaborate salon.

The news in redwood is the exciting way it has been used by some manufacturers in delicate, thin-planked designs and shapes combined with aluminum to give a feeling of the light-weight, the luxurious, the modern.

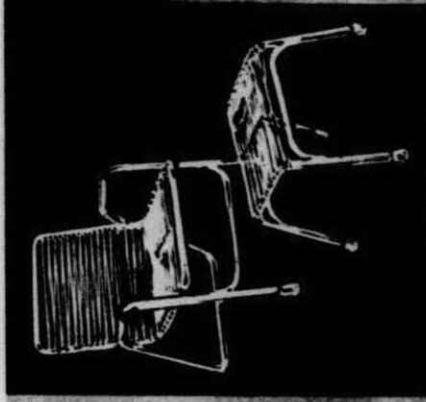

In rattan there is fluidity of line and casual comfort in reasonably inexpensive furniture. Here, too, there is a trend toward products that can be used twelve months of the year—for dining areas, the family room, or even as an occasional piece in the living room.

In a word, for indoors and out, there is, today, everything under the sun. Continued on page 19

"After that," says Dorne, "we were on our way. It was easy." Rounding out staff, they added Al Parker, Harold Von Schmidt, Steve Dohanos, Peter Helck, Austin Briggs, Robert Fawcett, Jon Whitcomb, Ben Stahl and the late John Atherton, since replaced by Dong Kingman. Each of them put up money out of their average annual incomes of $75,000, and worked on completing the lessons.

Suburban Location Preferred

For location, they settled on Westport, Connecticut because most of them lived within driving distance and because the town already had a large proportion of influential art directors and editors commuting to work in New York City.

The first School, in a dilapidated old mill complete with waterwheel, spiderwebs and cracks in the floor you could fish through, had its grand opening in September of 1948. To impress newspaper and magazine writers, Dorne dressed the Famous Artists up in paint-smared overalls and set them to work vaguely but busily wielding brushes. As a clincher, he served bowls of potent punch. The resultant good publicity brought in the first student, a local waitress who reported in person a few days later and paid her tuition in quarters she got in tips.

Another early student was a Georgia cracker who lived in a cabin that looked like a stage set for "Tobacco Road." The local agent of the School found him sitting on the front porch and asked, "Did you write in about studying art?" "Yep," said the man. "Foller me!" He took a shovel back of the house, dug up a tin can and peeled off bills for the full tuition. Dorne still doesn't know how he heard about the School, but he kept up with his lessons for a year and a half, then disappeared.

Success In First Year

During the first year, the student body grew to 1,000, more than the Famous Artists could teach in person. They hired a local artist named Alex Domonkos to work full time as instructor under an

ERIC THE TERRIBLE

BY HIS MOTHER, ROLLIE HOCHSTEIN

Sometimes, say for five minutes after I get back from a day downtown, I'm full of patience and good will toward Eric. The way of the time I prefer to go my way while he goes his—till he dismantles the hi-fi or throws his baby sister's overalls into the washing machine while she's wearing them. And then I go his way—hard. Eric himself is anti-corporal punishment. He's taken to asking me in crises: "May I stand in the corner, Mommy?"

Never mind the corner, buddy. I want satisfaction. It isn't even safe to entertain with a two-plus terror in the house. First thing you know, he's grabbed star billing. Like at my midnight supper party. I throw an elegant party once an era and this was it. So naturally I'd asked the most distinguished people we knew: my husband's boss, a couple from the city, our income tax analyst, and others also. We were just sitting down to seafood a la chafing dish when Eric toddled into our candle-lit midst, naked from the waist down, to announce: "I made two big wee-wees, eddy-buddy! Wanna see?"

One guest was editor of a baby magazine to whom I had just described my gentle approach to child care: "We plant the seed, give it plenty of room to grow in, and then just let it grow." So I had to go along. A blossoming Eric danced us a few cha-chas, gave a song recital with toy guitar accompaniment, ate a man-sized portion (mine) of seafood melange and was about to play the piano when I pulled him up by his roots and dragged him, screaming, back to his bedroom. After all, a garden needs weeding.

So that's the mother business. Excuse me—I mean you can't please anybody. I vowed, for instance, that my children would never worship at the feet of the TV set, ruining their eyes and atrophying their muscles. Well, they don't. They sit halfway across the room ruining their eyes and atrophying their muscles. I still don't approve of this vicarious living, but it's those hours of spectating that stand between me and a participating membership in a psychopathic ward.

Kate, lacking seniority, watches anything Eric turns on. Eric, lacking taste, favors a program (which he calls "children dancing") called Something-Or-Other Bandstand, a disc jockey show featuring scores of juveniles pouncing on one another in time to such cacophonies as "Rock that Conga," "Lucky Lady-bug" and "Bim Bom Bay," presided over by a young man named Dick Clark. Dick Clark is Eric's hero.

One day my father called up while "children dancing" was on, and Eric spun pitifully between the two magnets. After yo-yoing for a few seconds, he walked resolutely to the screen and said: "Excuse me, Mr. Clark. I have to talk to my grandpa."

The child has never shown me such consideration. But I take it as a sign that he's growing up, and maybe that's not so bad. Soon I can start pushing for an early marriage. Say, at four-and-a-half.

the crumbs and shrieked for cornflakes till I put his hot cereal on the table and he rushed over, ate it up and clamored for more. When he was one and speechless, we had no arguments about the menu. He simply spat out what he didn't want and that—with a few wipes here and there—was that. Nowadays, I have to cover everything up with twice its weight in sugar and butter so he won't find out what it really tastes like.

What bothers me most about arguments with Eric is that he always wins. If I end it all with a forehead to the fanny my tear-brimmed eyes make it clear that I could teach Madame de Farge a thing or two about cold blood. If I reason with him, he reasons with me and I lose out to his superior logic. I'm still on edge from yesterday's stunning defeat:

Eric: "May I go downtown with grandma?"

Mommy: "She said she'd take you on Saturday."

Eric: "I wanna go now."

Mommy: "Saturday won't be here for two more days."

Eric: "No, today is Saturday. Today is Saturday, Mommy."

Mommy (glancing uncertainly at a calendar): "Today is Thursday."

Eric: "Why?"

You figure it out. I just told him to go paint some pictures on the wall.

All the best baby books refer to the "terrible twos." They tell you to channel the terror's energy into constructive occupations. I try. But it calls for top level creative thinking and I'm seldom up to it. Let him plan his own activities and take his punishment like a man.

I'm not altogether an unnatural mother. I agree with the others that it's sad to see the children growing up. It seems only a minute or so ago that my Eric was crawling and all I had to do was keep knives, poisons, and the dog's dinner off the floor.

But Eric will never see two again, and two-and-a-half-year-olds abound in traits that make a mother nostalgic about the good old days when mush in jars, diapers in droves, and an occasional dunk in the kitchen sink were baby's only needs. In my one or two idle moments a week I rock and reminisce on the time when I was allowed free run of my household. Now I've got a severest critic who isn't my friend at all. He's all motion and a yard long and he doesn't like the way I do anything.

Today, for a recent example, Eric and I had a fight over breakfast. Around here in the mornings, we have our own version of Shock Theater—me. I was blindly and painfully leaning on the stove, stirring up a mess of pottage when Esau—mean Eric—hurled in. The boy has no sympathy with my morning sickness (not pregnancy, just torpor) and he rebled, "What are you making—hot cereal? I don't want that cereal. I want that cereal."

"Please stop talking, Eric." I groaned. "Mommy isn't up yet. Go iron the rug till breakfast."

He pulled up a chair and climbed into the cupboard.

"I want this cereal," he said, snowing a blanket of cornflakes over the floor.

My blood wasn't too tired to boil and I got him down from there fast. He threw himself on the linoleum, rolled around in Half of them have had previous art training, including many professional artists, illustrators, and cartoonists who want to improve their techniques. Students range in age from 16 to 94, and there was one special case aged only 14.

Judging by the letters the students send in with their homework, they show a school spirit that makes the cheering section at Old Siwash seem listless by comparison. Founded by Al Dorne
Chiefly responsible for the school spirit as well as the original school itself is energetic, fiftyish Famous Artist Al Dorne, reputed to have made up to $100,000 a year for his illustrations in national magazines and advertisements.

Like many successful artists, he got to the top the hard way. Starting in New York's East Side, he left school in 7th Grade, sold newspapers in Times Square, painted eyebrows on dolls, broke into commercial art through trial and error and was making $20,000 a year before he got out of his teens.

Also, like most successful artists, he was often buttonholed by less successful ones asking for advice. Existing art schools were long on art training, short on the more professional working methods needed for illustrating.

Why not, he asked himself, start a school that would have as teachers only successful illustrators?

He claims now that he first broached the subject to fellow-Famous Artist Fred Ludakens about twelve years ago while sitting in the Men's Bar of the Waldorf-Astoria on New York's Park Avenue. Others say he was working on the idea several years before. Most illustrators didn't think a correspondence school run by artists would work.

By 1948, Dorne, Ludakens and an art director named Ed Eberman had skeleton plans and the first draft of a series of Here an instructor teaches a student who may be a thousand miles away. He makes corrective drawings on canvas or paper, depending on the medium the student is using, to show him graphically how to improve his work. In addition, he dictates a letter of suggestion and criticism, so through words and pictures, the correspondent is shown how to get better results.

CHOCOLATE DESSERT ÉLÉGANT

Here is a party dessert made of delicate graham crackers enhanced by a luxurious chocolate filling. Reminiscent in appearance of an old-world torte, this creation reaches full flavor and interesting texture after chilling about forty-eight hours.

To Prepare: 40 MIN.

- 2 sq. (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup water

To Chill: 48 HRS.

1. Set out an 8 x 8 x 2-in. pan.

3. Vigorously stir about 3 tablespoons of chocolate mixture into the egg yolks; immediately blend into mixture in double boiler and cook 3 to 5 min., stirring constantly. Remove from simmering water and blend in the vanilla extract. Cool completely.
4. When mixture is cooled, cream the butter until softened. Add confectioners' sugar in thirds, beating until light and fluffy after each addition. Add the chocolate mixture a spoonful at a time, blending after each addition.
5. Beat the egg whites until rounded peaks are formed. Spread over chocolate mixture and fold together.
6. Cover bottom of the pan with graham crackers. Spread one-third of the chocolate mixture over crackers. Cover with a second layer of crackers and spread with one-half of remaining chocolate mixture. Repeat layering and finally top with graham crackers. Cover and chill 48 hrs.

How to make exciting dressings no one can buy

...so easy to do with a GOOD SEASONS MIX

Look—5 dressings with Old Fashion Garlic

1. The basic dressing:
Old Fashion Garlic Mix makes a fine French dressing, delicately-flavored, but with a subtle undertone of garlic. Truly continental—light, fresh. To make it, just add your own oil, vinegar, and a little water to the herbs-and-spice Mix. (The water, or a substitute liquid, is an old French secret. Makes a smoother blend.) Easy directions are on the Good Seasons envelope.
2. Creamy French Dressing
To make this, just substitute either mayonnaise or sour cream for the water in the basic dressing. Perfect for those who like creamy, thicker dressing, but with sophisticated flavor... never too bland.
3. Wine-Parmesan Dressing
Substitute wine—red, white or a vermouth—for the water. Just before the final shaking of dressing, add 2 tablespoons of grated Parmesan cheese. This is sensational on green salads!
4. Fruit Salad Dressing
Substitute orange juice or pineapple juice for the water. The Good Seasons herb-spice base, with its gentle hint of garlic, gives a delicious new flavor to a fruit salad. Tantalizing, smooth.
5. Tomato-Chive Dressing
Savory, bright and versatile. Equally good on tossed salads, cottage cheese or seafood salads. Use either tomato juice, sauce, soup or catsup, instead of water. Add a heaping tablespoon of chopped chives or onions before final shaking. Magnifique!

This smart cruet is available in the Good Seasons Salad Dressing Kit. Or, use any screw-top jar for mixing.

FRESH STRAWBERRY ANGEL PIE

Beautiful and luscious! An airy meringue shell adds the sweetness the strawberries need.

- 1 packet (1/2 pkg.) meringue mix
- 1 cup undiluted evaporated milk
- 2 cups fresh ripe strawberries
- 3 tablespoons plus 2 teaspoons (about 1/2 pkg.) strawberry-flavored gelatin
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup very hot water
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract

1. Prepare meringue mix according to directions on package for meringue pie shell. Bake meringue; set aside to cool.
2. Chill a bowl and rotary beater.
3. Pour the evaporated milk into a refrigerator tray and set in freezing compartment to chill until icy cold.
4. Rinse and drain the strawberries. Reserve six berries for garnish; hull and slice remaining berries. Set in refrigerator to chill.
5. Put into a bowl the gelatin, sugar, and salt. Add the hot water and stir until gelatin and sugar are completely dissolved. If chilled in refrigerator, stir occasionally; if chilled over ice and water, stir frequently.
6. When gelatin mixture is of desired consistency, using chilled bowl and beater, beat evaporated milk until very stiff. Blend in the lemon juice and vanilla extract. Spread over gelatin mixture, add the sliced strawberries, and gently fold together. Turn into meringue shell and chill just until firm, 2 to 3 hrs.
7. Before serving, make two or three lengthwise parallel cuts almost to stem end of each reserved strawberry. Separate slices slightly and arrange on top of pie for garnish.
