(EDITOR'S NOTE: Gloria Bowles, The Mail's high school editor, is staying with a family in Germany this summer under a program sponsored by the Council of Churches. This is the second in the series of articles in which she is met by her "adopted" family.)

By GLORIA BOWLES

"We want peace . . . only peace. We are tired of war."

So spoke my German "Vati" (Father), a country pastor, several days after my arrival in Southern Germany. Reverend Kurt Seils, with two of his five wonderful children met me at the station in Oberndorf to begin my two month stay with the family in Betzweiler.

The ride to Betzweiler in the family's new Opel was an entrancing . . . the country here is indescribably beautiful. There are rolling hills covered with soft green grass and the wooden houses are nestled in the hills. One sees no similarity between the modern housing developments in this village in the middle of the Black Forest. Homes are of wood, many three stories high. They are square, with roofs which slant upward to form a point on either side.

Vati, Ruth, 12, Werner, 13 and I reached home and marched up the stone walk, bordered by a garden. At 7:19, bounded out of the house and shook my hand, as did Mutti and Dortha, 16. (This is a German custom . . . when they are leaving a party, for example, the Germans make a point of shaking everyone's hand and bidding them goodbye.)

I awoke early the next morning. From my window, I could see the tower of the small church built in 1400. On either side of the home were giant pine trees. My eye followed the steep hill ahead up to the tall pines and down again to the homes clustered on the hill. It was a breathtaking sight.

After breakfast (we have bread with cheese, meat or honey, tomatoes and a beverage . . . coffee, tea or milk) Vati had to meet with three other ministers. I went with him, and met the "frau" of one of the ministers. Like most Germans, she had a rosy future ahead. Her home was spick and span. (I have noticed that here everything is so clean.) She spoke with bright-eyed enthusiasm of the new home which she and her young husband were remodeling.

On another day, I went with Vati to the "Schule" where he teaches religion for 12 and 13 year olds. The happy German youngsters were very intrigued by this young "amerikaner." (I find this true wherever I go when people know I am from the states. Everyone stares!) The children sang hymns, then listened intently to the words of their teacher, whose method of instruction was much like that in our universities . . . a lecture was heard by the students.

The school building was new, very modern. There were shiny linoleum floors, new tables and chairs and an accordion doors separating the rooms.

When it came time to leave, each of the children came up, shook my hand, smiled, said "Auf Wiedersehen."

This is only one of the many adventures I have had since arriving in Betzweiler . . . I have taken walks with my German brothers and sisters through this village of 700 and the surrounding woods, all of which look like a Hollywood set, watched Vati and the boys work with the bees . . . the family makes their own honey . . . climbed up the church tower.

Changes Underway At Airport

Mettetal Airport is in the midst of a face-lifting operation, one that is costing between $60,000 and $70,000.

Included in the operation are two new runways, both over the 2,000 foot mark, an operations office and new T-hangers. All in all, the changes and additions mean smoother operation and better handling of the large number of people doing flying. The new facilities are expected to be in full operation in two months.

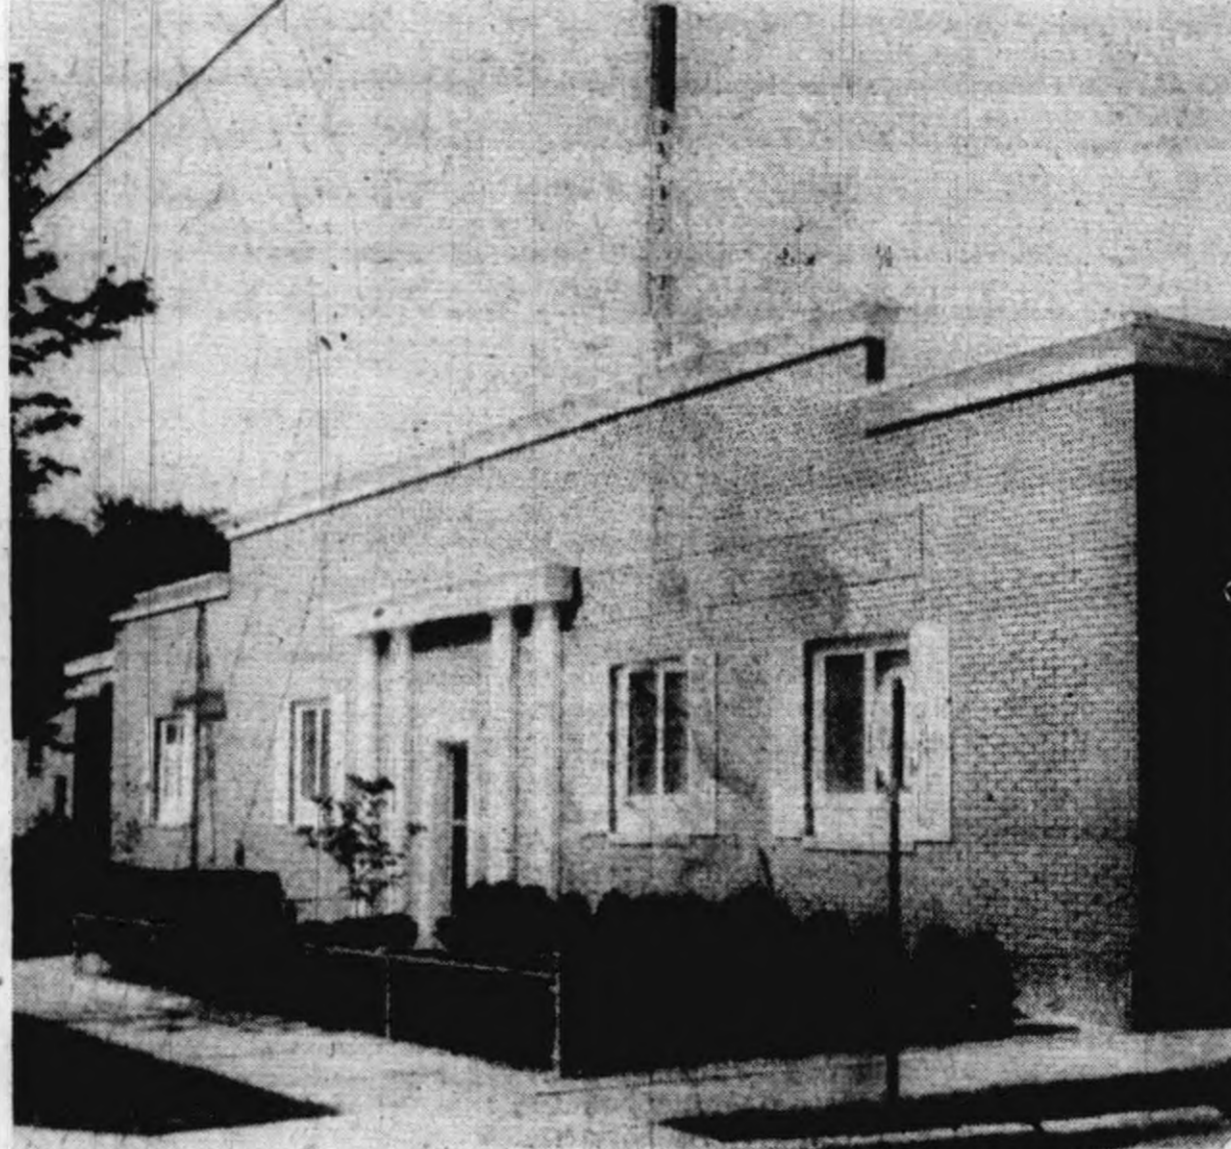

Bob and Marvin Mettetal are together making the changes in the existing facilities. In the past few months they have gained possession of the land from their father. The elder Mettetal owned the land for some 30 years.

The airport, which started in the early 1940's, has handled more airplanes each year. At present there are close to 100.

One hard surface and one sod runway have replaced the four old sod strips. These two runways, the hard surface one running north and south and the sod strip running northeast and southwest, were laid in those directions to keep aircraft away from housing developments. Green Meadows is the only subdivision that the planes will come near, 800 feet in the air, the airport owners said.

In the spring when the present base settles on the FOLLOWING A community-wide theme of "colonializing" buildings, Bathey Manufacturing Co. on Mill St. has transformed its conventional factory into a bright, attractive structure. By the addition of shutters, wooden columns, gray and white paint and a few other refinements, the building has become a good example of how easily colonialization can be accomplished. The colonial touch to construction has been promoted by the Chamber of Commerce for over a decade. Bathey is the first industry to adopt the theme.

County Backs Water Bonds In Township

One of the first important hurdles in obtaining a water system for Plymouth Township has been crossed with the approval of the Wayne County Board of Supervisors of the county's secondary faith and credit for the sale of bonds.

Township Supervisor Roy Lindsay said this week that the supervisors have approved "in principle" the pledging of its faith and credit for the sale of bonds.

Cost of the proposed water system is $1,100,000.

The water system, when started, will be the first actually built by Plymouth Township. There is a water system in Lake Pointe Village built by the developer and later turned over to the township for operation.

This water system has its source from two wells. The proposed system will require two more wells and a water purification plant. It would essentially cover the same area as now is being covered by the township sanitary sewer under construction.

Lindsay declared that there is still much red tape to go through, including approval of the bond sale by the State Finance Commission. A bonding firm, Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, are now working out the terms of agreement between the county and township. This final agreement will require approval by the county supervisors, but no opposition is expected.

The arrangement is similar to that made prior to the construction of the sanitary sewer. Instead of the public voting on the bond issue, the county is willing to pledge its credit for any bond buyer. Re-payment of the bonds comes from sale of water.

Construction of a water system also goes hand-in-hand with the sewer system now being laid. Normally, users of sewers pay for the sewer by means of a rate based on the amount of water used during a billing period. Without metered water system, a flat rate will need to be used.

The supervisor said that it is possible that work on the water system will start this coming winter. It will serve the area around Lake Pointe Village, will run southward to Joy Rd., east as far as Eckles and as far west as Sheldon.

But while the township contemplates a water system of its own, there is now a strong possibility that the township will get Detroit water within the next year or two.

Negotiations are now underway between the city of Detroit and Wayne County officials to settle a long-standing dispute about who should run an out-county water system. Detroit believes it is in the best position to do the job and it appears that the county may give in.

At present, communities such as Livonia buy their water from the county which in turn gets it from Detroit. Supervisor Lindsay is a member of the water and sewer committee of the Board of Supervisors which is in on the negotiations. Lindsay believes that Plymouth Township is in a better position to obtain outside water quicker from a Detroit system than from the county proposed system.

If Detroit takes over, a 50 or 60 inch pipeline would be extended through Livonia. "We will not wait for grass to grow under our feet waiting for Detroit water, though," Lindsay declared. He said that despite negotiations, Plymouth Township will move ahead with its own supply. When and if Detroit water does reach the border line at Livonia, the connection will be made and the township's water source will be maintained for stand-by use.

Detroit would not allow partial use of its water with a local supply, the supervisor pointed out.

NEWS BEAT

More thieves were at work around Plymouth during the past week . . . They jacked up a used car at Jack Selle Buick and took two wheels, then opened trunks of six new cars locked within a chain-link fence and took the spare wheels from each . . . The A & W Root Beer stand next to Selle was ransacked over the weekend with $23 in cash and 10 cartons of cigarettes stolen . . . Agnew Jewelers, 340 S. Main, reported a watch taken from a window display . . . And two Livonia boys have admitted stealing hubcaps from a car parked in the East Central Lot.

WATER TROUBLE: The new sewer being laid in Plymouth Township is reported causing a drop in the water table for some homeowners. With many wells being only 12 feet deep, the deeper sewer excavations have caused water to run to lower levels at some points.

INJURED: Susan Starkweather, 19, Northville, swung too wide in turning left off Main St. on Mill St. and her car ran into the side of a concrete drive being laid at the Marathon station being constructed. She was taken to a hospital suffering lacerations of the mouth.

OLD TIMES: Former employees of the Daisy Manufacturing Co. will get together this Saturday noon at Haggerty and Hines Drive. The meal will be potluck.

HANDY LIST: Seventy-three organizations are listed in a mimeographed publication now available at the Chamber of Commerce, 455 S. Main, for 50 cents a copy. Produced in response to requests, the booklet includes names, phone numbers of the organization head, meeting dates and beginning of the fiscal years.

City Sewer Users Due For Rebate on Water Bills

A reduction of sewage disposal rates and a rebate on water bills paid during the past two months was some of the most welcome news to come out of Monday night's city commission meeting.

The commission gave final reading to an ordinance that will reduce the sewage disposal rates that were increased only two months ago. And they passed a resolution that will give credit to water users who paid the increased sewage disposal bill. It was the Wayne County Road Commission that last spring announced that because sewage disposal charges

Stair Issue Divides Board Vote

A question of whether to enclose stairways in the Plymouth High School to conform with request of the state fire marshal was debated and then rejected by a vote of the board of education Monday night.

The fire marshal's report of early this year asked that doors be put at the stairways on each floor. This would include two stairways in the main building and one in the annex.

Two stairways in the buildings are already being eliminated by construction of a stair tower between the two buildings.

According to the investigators, an open stairway three to six feet high works like a chimney should there be a fire. The fire marshal's recommendation would mean placing an enclosed doorway at each floor.

Local fire authorities were not in agreement with the recommendation when it was offered. They claim that adding doors that would extend into the hall would only slow down emptying the building. It can now be emptied within a few minutes.

Commissioners Do Some Protesting Too

It was the city commissioners themselves who filed the complaints during a city commission meeting Monday night—one dealing with trucks and the other with the wailing of the fire siren.

Mayor Pro-Tem Robert Sincock was chairman of the meeting in the absence of Mayor Harold Guenther. So when no one spoke up during the call for "citizens' suggestions," Sincock himself said that he had one.

The commissioner protested the alleged ignoring of the city's truck route ordinance by truck drivers. He called it "nothing but a farce."

"Either we should have an ordinance or we shouldn't, as far as I'm concerned," Sincock declared. He noted that he had received numerous complaints about trucks using Farmer St. and Penniman, both of which are not included in the truck route.

Commissioner William Hartmann agreed that he has seen many trucks use Penniman which he doubted were making deliveries on that street.

Shopping Made Easy

Credit Card Plan Started By 28 Plymouth Stores

Whether one wants a load of lumber, a pair of shoes, a bag of fertilizer or a new fall outfit, several thousand Plymouth area families will be able to do their buying here without a cent in their pockets because of a new Chamber of Commerce 5-C Credit Card Plan.

Twenty-eight local merchants have banded together to form the credit card plan that will make it possible for card holders to fill nearly all their shopping needs without carrying money.

Letters have gone out this week to nearly 4,000 Plymouth area families whose credits have been firmly established by a credit bureau rating. In these letters will be a card entitling the holder to purchase on credit at any or all of the 28 stores participating in the plan.

When a card-holder makes a purchase, he merely shows his credit card to the clerk. Each merchant will then bill the customer at the end of the month.

While the letters will be sent to those already with a good credit rating, there may be others who want to join the plan who do not have an established credit rating. For these, it is necessary only to visit any of the 28 participating merchants to obtain details. A small form can be filled out to apply for the card.

The "5-C" portion of the plan stands for "Chamber of Commerce Community Credit Card."

Harry Roberts is chairman of the Chamber committee that worked out details of the plan. Also on the committee are Charles Beagle, David Mather, George Lawton and James Houk.

"Service, quality and friendliness have been the policy of Plymouth merchants in the past," Chamber committee members pointed out this week. "and start of the credit card plan is one way of expressing their point of view."

Plymouth merchants, under the leadership of the Chamber of Commerce, have been making a concentrated effort to stimulate sales. While there are shopping centers operating within the area and others anticipated, Plymouth merchants point out that they too are a shopping center. Stores are within a few blocks of each other and free parking is becoming more abundant. Last month the parking meters were removed from the Central Parking Lot with the revenue subsidized by merchants.

Stores involved in the credit card program provide a wide variety of merchandising. Here's a classified list of the type of store and the name of the stores involved:

- Cameras — Photographic Center
- Children's Wear — Pixie Shop
- Drapes — Cadillac Drapery Co.
- Drugs — Beyer's Rexall Drugs, Peterson Drugs, Plymouth

Clip Out List of Public Officials from this Issue

What is the name of our state senator and how do I write him? What congressional district do we live in? Who's on the Planning Commission?

These are some of the questions frequently asked at The Plymouth Mail office. We're not tired of answering them, but to give everyone a handy means of keeping these facts at their fingertips, we suggest they turn to page six of section three.

A Directory of Public Officials has been printed in this issue which we strongly suggest that each family clip and save.

City Once Had Hopes of Auto-Making Boom

When Plymouthites Made Cars

By Jim Sponseller

While Detroit, Flint, Dearborn, South Bend and a few other cities are world-known for auto manufacturing today, there was a time when many Plymouth residents believed that their village might become a major center for car making.

Only the elder citizens will recall the few years in the earlier part of the century when cars actually came off a production line in Plymouth. There are probably a few people alive who actually worked in the small plant—and perhaps some who invested money in the venture, and lost it.

It was a few weeks after Henry Ford astounded the industrial world in January 1914 that he was going to pay his workers $5 a day for a 40-hour week that some Detroiters approached Plymouth civic leaders about locating an auto plant here.

One hundred and fifty people attended the meeting at the village hall on Jan. 26, 1914 called by Village President Louis Hillmer to discuss the offer. The Detroiters had formed a company called the Alter Motor Car Co. All public apparently liked the car. But in January 1917, three years after the firm was started and over 1,000 cars turned out, the Alter Motor Car Co. folded up and went into receivership.

Business was good, more men were hired each succeeding month, production fell behind orders and the reported that the car's designer, Clarence Alter of Manitowoc, Wis., later went to work for Packard.

A check with the Henry Ford Museum this week revealed that they had no Alter car among their big display of antique vehicles. And a Greenfield Village spokesman said that he failed to recall an Alter among the hundreds of models entered in the antique car conventions at the village.

Dealerships for the car were limited to the Midwest because production could not keep up with the orders.

The car, which sold for $650, was considered "handsome and classy" for its day and the workmanship was tops.

Soon after production started, a Plymouth Mail reporter toured the plant and was impressed with the assembly line methods. He described the system of construction which began with the wooden frame work. It was then passed on to other workmen where the patented steel was applied. After doors were attached and the car rough

ONCE HUMMING with activity as an automobile factory, the old frame building on Farmer St. near the railroad is now still and empty. It was recently vacated by Service Steel which used it for a warehouse.

The Reader Speaks Up:

Editor: It appears that the Board of Education is showing the same narrow-mindedness so typical of it in the past. Today, however, this narrow-mindedness has taken the form of a direct slap in the face of the voters of the Plymouth Community School District. The results of the School Board Election unquestionably showed the feelings of the voters toward the recent policy of the Board over the controversial high school issue. We are making reference to the overwhelming victory of Mr. Niemi and Mr. Zylstra over former President Stecker and Vice-President Mitchell, who, of course, backed the Board's policy. Logically, the voters did not elect these two men with their fresh and new ideas to have them awarded with offices of relative unimportance. Because of this, however, the Board's policy and ideas remain as stagnant as if there had never been a School Board Election.

THE MAIL ATTITUDE

BY PAUL CHANDLER

Will the helicopter ever become a useful means of short-haul transportation?

Nobody is sure, but Plymouth is one of few communities giving the matter serious thought. The Plymouth Chamber of Commerce recently instructed its manager to look into the possibility of establishing a municipal "heliport."

This would be a small portion of land easily accessible from above. No city in Michigan yet has established such a port.

In theory, whirlybirds provide an intelligent way to get from the suburbs to, say, downtown Detroit. Or for a salesman to travel from the airport to a series of outlying factories in an area. Those with an eye to the aeronautic future believe the helicopter will become almost essential for short flights, once the big jet airliners become a reality. The big boys need great long runways and large passenger loads to sustain themselves. They can't hedge-hopping about the countryside.

Thus far, however, helicopter "commuter" service hasn't advanced far. A service is available from Willow Run to downtown Detroit, but there are only two or three seats per trip and the cost of the ride is about $10 a head. So there hasn't been much action.

Bigger planes are on the designing board, some of them able to carry 25 or 30 passengers. They could create the breakthrough helicopter dreamers anticipate.

Daisy Manufacturing Co. moved to Arkansas more than a year ago, but much esprit de corps remains among the employes in this area who used to work at the local plant. They were a loyal close-knit bunch, coming from Redford Township, Livonia, Plymouth, Wayne, Northville and beyond.

Anyhow, the "gang" will have a unique "first reunion" picnic on Saturday (July 25) at Haggerty and Hines Drive. Potluck dinners go on the tables at noon. Everyone will bring a dish to pass.

Another bank will begin operations here within a fortnight. Detroit Bank and Trust intends to start operations from a mobile office on Aug. 5 at Schoolcraft and Wilcox Rds., close to Lake Pointe Village, planning to later settle permanently in a shopping center plotted for the same location.

Volunteers Plan Fair For Mental Patients

On Tuesday and Wednesday, July 28th and 29th, Northville State Hospital Volunteers will sponsor the Seventh Annual Patient Fair at the hospital. This is a recreational event, planned for the patients' pleasure, and consists of 18 booths, manned and sponsored by volunteer groups.

Games of skill and chance are arranged and each patient is expected to win at least three or four prizes. Soft drinks and homemade cake can be enjoyed while patients are being entertained by a Clown Band furnished by the Detroit Federation of Musicians.

Plymouth groups sponsoring booths are the Plymouth Birthday Ladies; Plymouth Friends of Northville State Hospital, and the Plymouth Womans Club, as well as individual Gray Ladies and Hospital Volunteers, all of whom volunteer regularly throughout the year.

Local women, from the above groups, who will be operating booths at the Patient Fair include: Mrs. Bertha Knupp, Mrs. Eva McAllister, Mrs. Audrey Borregaard, Mrs. Agnes Rallens, Mrs. Jessie Boke, Mrs. Ivah Pint, Mrs. Bert Thiele, Mrs. Jean Latture, Mrs. Zoida Burrows, Mrs. Betty Pockard, Mrs. June Farrant, Mrs. Mae Schuler, Mrs. Isabel Schroeter, Mrs. Hildegard Bruder, Mrs. Anne Penhale.

Wet Grounds Give Trouble To Jr. Golfers

The weatherman cooperated again Monday to let the Advanced Junior Golf League get in nine holes, but the clubhouse at Hilltop was filled with moans and groans as disappointed players turned in higher cards than usual due to wet greens and fairways.

These are the points earned in Monday's play: Three, Jim Balston, Dick Gretzinger, Doug Graham, Ron Beck, Jeff Griswold, Bob Kreitsch, Bob Fisher, Gerry Scott, John Park, Donny Burleson, Cathy Zornow, Joanie Reas, Sandy Fielden. Two points: Doug Breed and Linda Griswold. One point: Mike Manley and Sue Reas.

Several players must play the next two Mondays to get in their four matches to qualify for the tournament Aug. 10 and 11. They are Ron Becker, Bobby Cardenas, Barry Corwin, Gary Fuelling, Dick Greitzinger, Harry Halvarson, Joe Light, Kirk Rowland and Leslie Walker.

Eleven-year-old Bob Beck provided a newsworthy item a week ago when he came in with a 49. Bob began his second season this year playing in the 70's with a 28 handicap and each week has pared his score until he now has earned a handicap of only 20 which is good for any young feller.

Points earned last week were these: Three points: Bob Fisher, Jeff Griswold, Jim Eder, Bob Kreitsch, Bob Beck, Tom Fletcher, Jeff Scott, Ron Becker, Sue Reas, Mary Newingham, Sue Tichy and Janie Vallier. Two points: Skip Otwell. One and a half points: Terry Holt, Doug Breed, Donny Burleson, Dave Richard, Joanie Reas, Sandy Fielden. One Point: Bucky Zornow.

Maud Anderson of Union Street is spending a couple of weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Edward Sommerman and Mrs. Patrick Fegan and families near Marquette.

Stolen Car Crashes After 115 MPH Chase Two Livonia boys who stole a car and then were chased by State Police at speeds up to 115 miles an hour before the car crashed through a guard rail in Plymouth Township, have been turned over to Wayne County juvenile authorities.

Stolen Car Crashes After 115 MPH Chase (Continued) The youths, both 16 years old, took the 1959 Buick Wednesday night, July 15, from the home of Tilton V. Anstine, 11307 Ingram, Livonia. At about 12:30 a.m., state troopers from the Ypsilanti post approached the car on Canton Center Rd. and Michigan Ave. because of a minor traffic violation. The young driver streaked off in the car northward on Canton Center Rd. with State Police in pursuit. Troopers said that they traveled at 115 miles an hour almost the entire way. At Joy Rd., Canton Center makes a right turn. The young driver slammed on the brakes but the car crashed through the guard rail and came to a halt in the front yard of a home. The youths took off on foot in the darkness. Plymouth police were alerted. Three hours later, police found the driver walking in front of Dunning-Hough Library on Plymouth's Main St. He was walking home. Under questioning, he gave the name of his companion and both were turned over to Livonia police. State Police said that although the car was extensively damaged, the boys escaped with only minor injuries. Because the boys are juveniles, their names were not given.

Mrs. Herbert Famuliner Fl. 9-0924

The South Lyon School Board met last Monday night. Mr. and Mrs. Willard Lyke of Nollar Rd., a non-resident, came before the board and asked to consider accepting their daughter, who will be in the fourth grade. Mr. Bartlett reminded the board that they have received similar requests from several others on a junior high level as well as a request from the Sutton School District to take 10 students. The board adopted a resolution about 20 years ago not to accept non-resident students, and have done so only in a few cases. After some discussion the board decided to stick to their declared policy of not accepting new non-resident students in general, and that these individuals and districts concerned should be informed of the decision.

Supt. Bartlett read to the board a letter of resignation from Richard G. Bucksar with the board accepting the resignation. Teaching contracts for Margaret Louise White at $4,000 and Gilbert Sievert at $4,500 were presented and approved. Mr. Bartlett informed the board that he has been interviewing candidates for the Junior High Principalship and he will do some more screening before presenting the candidates to the board.

The South Lyon School Band presented a concert last Thursday evening at 8 p.m. on the school lawn. Included with the program was a cake-walk sponsored by the band. Another concert is planned for this coming Thursday evening.

Four Pitchers Try But Redford Wins

Pitching, or rather lack of it, hampered the Plymouth Merchants as they were defeated by the Redford squad 9-6, in the ninth inning Sunday.

The lack of pitching has been a weak point of the local merchants, since the start of the season, Sunday was no different. Every pitcher on the squad, four in all, were called to the mound to do their best.

Rich Shepherd, the second man on the mound for Plymouth, held the Redford Merchants from the third inning until the top of the ninth. He took over when Ken Kisabeth allowed five runs to score in the opening two innings of the game.

Shepherd, playing his second game of the season, has been out of action since the opening game due to an illness. He was relieved by Greenwood, who handled the pitching assignment against River Rouge last Sunday.

Greenwood was in turn relieved by Fred Mushinski. Gary Mushinski homered for the local merchants in the first inning, with a man on, to put Plymouth in the game as Redford collected three the same inning.

In the second inning Redford pulled away as they scored two more runs. But from that point on 'til the ninth Shepherd held them while Plymouth collected four runs in their half of the sixth.

to reach base, then Bouford singled to drive one across the plate. Harvey Wells smashed a long ball triple into the far regions of the outfield to drive the remaining two men over the plate. Moments later, he crossed the plate to put Plymouth ahead 6-5.

The next three innings went to the pitchers of both squads. Then Redford found Shepherd's combination.

Redford's first man up tripled and the second got a walk. Greenwood then took the pitching assignment for Plymouth.

Greenwood retired the first batter, then the man on third scored on an infield hit, to tie the score. With two men on, the next Redford merchant tripled. He in turn scored on an infield out to give Redford their nine points.

Plymouth will take on the league's last place team, as they travel to South Lyons this Sunday.

Kiwanis Field Day Will Attract 300

The second annual Kiwanis Field Day is set for Tuesday this year, one day before the Metropolitan Youth Fitness Field Day.

Started last summer after an absence of five years, the field day is expected to attract between 100 and 150 youngsters on that day. Close to 300 will take part in the preliminary rounds that are being held at the playgrounds now.

Lack of interest was the main reason for dropping the program before.

Four age groups have been established, allowing all the youngsters a chance to compete. The age limits are: A, 14 and 15; B, 12 and 13; C, 10 and 11 and D, 7, 8, 9.

The day's activities are scheduled to start at 1:00 p.m., to run off the seven events. They range from Bean Bag Toss to Tetherball. Then at 7:00, the mass calisthenics will start the program, followed by the running events. These events are for groups A, B and C. Girls will take part in two of the events.

The afternoon session is expected to last two hours with the evening's activities lasting close to one and one-half hours.

Awards for the winners have been purchased by the Kiwanis club. Eighty-two silver cups will be given to the talented youngsters. Not only have the Kiwanis members paid for these awards, but they have given a large part of the money needed to secure awards for the Metropolitan Fitness Day on Thursday. Listed here is the schedule for Tuesday:

7:00 p.m. Mass Calisthenics will be done by all and the exercises will be the same exercises done on Thursday, July 30th. The one exception is that while the boys are doing a minimum of 8 "Push Ups" the girls will all stand quietly at attention.

Motor City Open At Meadowbrook

The seventh Motor City Open will be held on the weekend of August 13-15 at the Meadowbrook Golf Club. All the outstanding shotmakers from the PGA circuit are expected to bid for the winner's slice of the rich $25,000 purse.

If precedent holds, the coming Motor City meet will be a terse, dramatic contest in which a playoff will be required to decide the new champion. Four times in the first six Motor City tournaments, extra holes have been necessary to settle the matter of who's boss. On one occasion, even a playoff couldn't resolve the deadlock.

The most recent Motor City champion was pudgy, be-spectacled Bob Rosburg, the Californian with the baseball grip. Rosburg edged out Ed Furgol on the first hole of a playoff to take it all at the Western Golf and Country Club in 1956. In 1957 and 1958, The Western Open replaced the Motor City tourney on the Detroit golf calendar.

In the first Motor City Open at Meadowbrook, bantam Ben Hogan came from behind to score a playoff victory over Dutch Harrison. Fans will never forget the two 75-yard wedge shots which little Ben sank from the same spot on No. 18 to tie Harrison and force the playoff.

In 1949, Cary Middlecoff and Lloyd Mangrum reigned as co-champions. They tied at 273 after the regulation 72 holes at Meadowbrook. They agreed to divide the honor and the cash when darkness ended their playoff after 11 holes marked by sensational recoveries.

Mangrum won it alone at Red Run with a 274, beating Sam Snead by a single stroke. Middlecoff and Ted Kroell tied at 274 at Red Run in 1952, but Middlecoff won the crown on the first extra hole. Middlecoff won again in 1954 when he played the last 13 holes of the first round without a putter and still posted a 72. He finished two strokes ahead of Gene Littler, Tommy Bolt and Marty Furgol after 72 holes.

The last major PGA tournament at Meadowbrook was held in 1955 when Chick Harbert, the home pro and one of Michigan's all-time greats, fell in defense of the National PGA championship which he had won from Wally Burkemo at St. Paul in 1954. The victory went to hustling Doug Ford, who simply outlasted Middlecoff in the grinding match-play event.

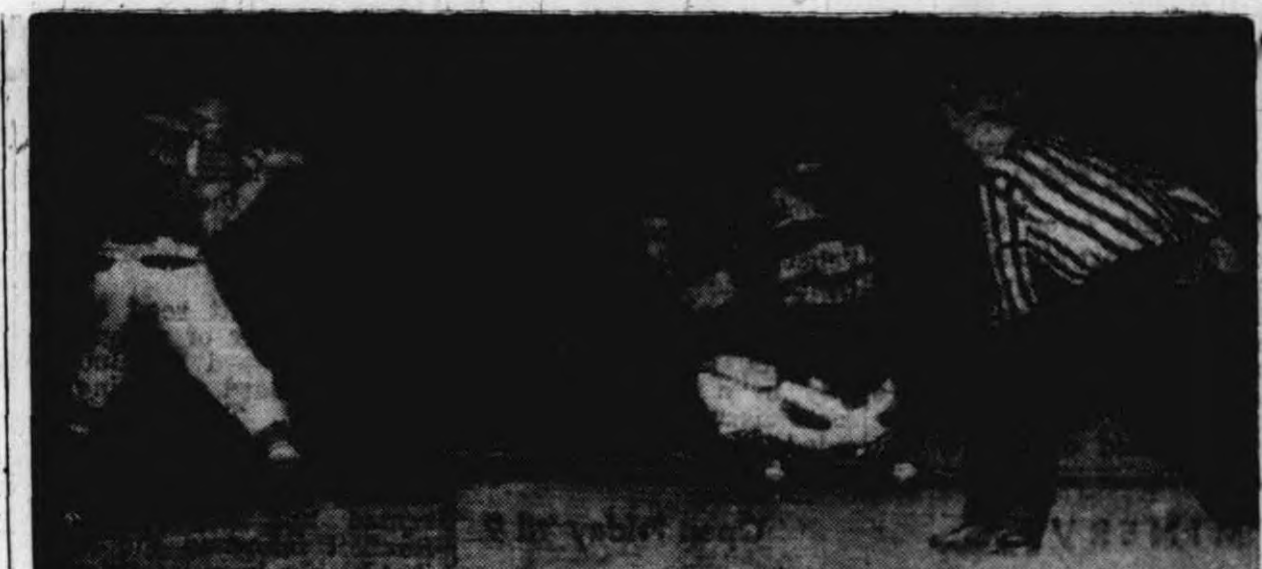

Now the PGA tourists are coming back to Meadowbrook again for the tournament that will be the high point of the golfing year in Michigan.

The entry fee charged by the Recreation Dept. in class A, B and C league softball is actually nothing more than a token payment, according to the facts released by director Herbert Woolweaver.

The costs set forth include only the necessities for the playing of the games. Umpires, lights and maintenance being part of the itemized costs released.

Included in the maintenance expenses are the light bulbs and installation, lime and the mowing of grass. Union rates call for a minimum of $32.00 for two (2) hours labor.

At the present time local teams are charged $85.00 and other teams $105.00, in class A play. There is some talk, however, that next season all teams be charged $105.00.

A breakdown of class A costs for one game are as follows:

Umpires	$9.00
Boys	2.50
Supervision	4.50
Lights	3.00
Total	19.00

Each team paying 1/2 is $9.50. With 15 games a season the entry fee would run $142.50, the difference then between the entry and the total cost is made up by the Recreation Dept.

In class B the costs and entry fees are lower but the Recreation Dept. still makes up the difference.

Their costs run so:

Umpires	$4.50
Boys	2.50
Supervision	4.50
Lights	3.00
Total	14.50

Teams in this league are charged $40 (local) and $60 (other) for the 14 game season.

The "Boys" listed for each group are the chasers of mis-guided balls.

Due to cutbacks in the budget, balls were not provided this season as they were in previous years.

Class C ball players furnish everything but playing area, maintenance and guidance. They pay no entry fee.

D. R. C. Season Comes to Close

The Detroit Race Course's 58-day meeting is headed down the stretch toward its Saturday closing. Three outstanding events highlight the final week of racing at the Michigan Mile Track.

On Wednesday, highlight of the program will be the Plymouth Handicap. The event, with a purse of $5,000, is for three-year-olds and will be contested over a mile and one sixteenth.

Michigan's thoroughbred breeders will gather at the DRC Thursday for a turf doubleheader.

The annual Detroit Race Course Yearling Show will be held in the morning, with 25 to 30 youngsters expected to be entered by the state's leading breeding establishments. Lou P. Doherty, owner-operator of the Stallion Station at Lexington, Ky., will judge the show. The DRC will award trophies to the owners of the best colt, best filly and to the best in show.

Returning with six yearling is the Shirrone Farm, which swept honors last year. Owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Q. Bridge, Shirrone won honors in the colt and filly division in addition to taking best of show laurels.

The afternoon's racing program will be highlighted by the third running of the Michigan Futurity, a race limited to two-year-olds foaled in Michigan.

A total of 18 names remains on the eligible list for the $7,500 event.

Michigan breeders with eligibles include: Evelyn Miller, of Luzern; James Phalan, Jr., of Metamora; Max Woodhull, of Cedar Springs; Glen Dalloway, of Grand Rapids; Stanley B. Maison, of Mt. Clemens; Grace Kosiba, of Northville; Norman Smith, of Crosse Pointe Shores; Arthur Gibson, of Bloomfield Hills; and Mrs. Bridge.

In the evening, the Michigan Thoroughbred Breeders Association will hold a dinner dance at the DRC.

Next Saturday, closing day, will be highlighted by the running of the $10,000 Devil Diver, a mile and 1/8th test for three-year-olds and up.

A special meeting of the Board of Education of the Plymouth Community School District was held Tuesday evening, June 9, 1959, in the staff room of the Plymouth Community Junior High School at eight o'clock.

Present: Mr. Fischer, Mrs. Hulsing, Mr. Kaiser, Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Soth, Mr. Stecker and Mr. Zoet; Mr. Blunk and Mr. Isbister.

Also present: Mr. West and a representative of the International Truck Company.

President Stecker called the meeting to order at 8:00 p.m.

He indicated that the purpose of the meeting was to take action on the purchase of 3 school buses. He distributed for consideration the recommendations prepared by Mr. Blunk and Mr. Houghton that the bus chassis and bodies be purchased from the low bidder. Since questions arose which raised doubt about the low chassis bidder meeting the written specifications and, also, about the economy of operation of this vehicle, action was deferred until Monday, June 15, 1959.

The secretary read the results of the election as tabulated by the election inspectors in the two precincts. No official action was taken on the results pending further certification by the inspectors on the total number of ballots cast in each precinct.

It was moved by Mr. Mitchell and seconded by Mr. Fischer to authorize test borings be taken on the Bennett-Peck Property in order to determine the desirability of this property being purchased for a school site.

Meeting adjourned at 8:45 p.m.

Contest to Name Club Gives Lots Of 'Mad' Ideas

The Maddy Music Company of Plymouth featured two contests during the Plymouth J.C. Sparkler Days Celebration.

One contest was to name the new Piano and Organ Club to be sponsored by Maddy Music Company. It proved most interesting and amusing to note the various answers and ideas submitted by the many contestants. Some of the interesting and original entry titles were as follows:

"The Sharps and Flat Club," "Maddy bout Music," "Maddy Hatty's Jam Club," "The Or-Pi Club," "Maddy's Mad Hatters," and "Awake up if Music." (Junior's unique entry).

In the remarks column, following the question "Would you like to join our club? Yes? No?" were answers such as: "No, cause I is broke," "No - I'm too young," "No talent, but have a even children," "Maybe, after I come back from Europe."

Incidentally, the winning title was "Club Metronome" which was submitted by a member of one of the families affiliated with Maddy Music. Therefore, to keep the contest legitimate and to allow all contestants an equal chance to win, a name was picked at random and the winner is Mrs. V.C. Peck, 357 Irvin St.

The second contest was entitled "Watch the Temperature Rise." Those persons who purchased an instrument from Maddy Music Company during the Sparkler Days Celebration were entitled to participate. At the time of the drawing there were eleven contestants, bringing the temperature to 55 degrees. The winner was Mrs. Ruth Barney, 934 Hartough St. who received an organ for less than half price.

Changes at Airport

(Continued from Page 1) VHF frequency. Two 10,000 gallon fuel tanks will be installed between the administration building and the runways for rapid refueling of planes. The two new T-hangers will house 30 planes. Twenty-six of these spaces are already leased but plans include additional structures of this type. These differ from the older T-hangers by having doors to completely enclose the planes. Future plans call for another structure to be located at the north end of the field to house a charter service and plane dealership.

THIS WAS CONSIDERED the most up-to-date type of factory when it was constructed in 1914 to make motor cars. Located on Farmer St., it now has broken windows and decaying timber.

When Plymouth Made Cars

(Continued from Page 1) painted, it was pulled across a ramp from the smaller building to the bigger building where the body was rubbed and color varnished. An elevator took it to the second floor where upholstering and tops were added. While on roller tracks, the body passed down to the electrical system installers and fender men. With the body ready, the chassis was prepared elsewhere by mounting of the springs, axles, wheels, motor, steering gear and transmission. Finally, the body was mounted to the chassis. Up to 25 cars a week rolled off the assembly line. Employment started with 50 men and the Alter Motor Car Co. emerged as a big economic boom to the community. One Bucyrus, O. dealer had a display at a Columbus auto show and took orders for 60 cars! The 1914 car was a five passenger touring car but in 1915 Alter introduced a roadster. Company president Guy Hamilton predicted the outlook for the new year as bright. By June 1915 another 60 by 100 foot addition was erected and 100 men were now employed. The Plymouth Mail commented: "We sincerely hope that the day will come when the Alter car made in Plymouth, Michigan, U.S.A. will be sold around the world. The air gun has made Plymouth a household word, why not the motor car?" In June 1915 a fire broke out in the upholstering department and gave the entire town a scare. The fire department got it out but at a very night it was voted to lay a water pipe from Farmer St. to the factory so that there would be better fire protection. At the annual meeting held in July 1915, the treasurer's report showed the company in a very "healthy" condition. Nearly all officers and directors of the firm were out-of-town residents with the exception of W. W. Murray, A. J. Lapham and Robert S. Todd. In July 1915, the 1916 Alter

Germans Don't Want

(Continued from Page 1) er (in a straight skirt) to take pictures... went with my brothers to a nearby town, where there was a "sporting day" at their school. We have gone to the market in town, which is not much different from a small American grocery store, been swimming in a modern pool in Alpirsbach and to an amusement park in nearby Dornham, played badminton and ping pong. Saturday night saw us at a party at a neighbor's home. We sat outdoors under an enclosure covered with a thatched roof. Japanese lanterns decorated the walk through the garden leading up to the enclosure, where the soft Oriental lights dangled from the ceiling. We talked (they talked... I just listened and made a futile attempt to understand.) It was a very nice party. The German church where Vati preaches is much like the Protestant churches we attend at home. Vati's sermon my first Sunday in Betzweiler was concerned with the fact that transportation—between Moscow and New York is close... only a few hours by air. He mourned, however, that real relationships between the U.S. and Russia are distant. On Monday, I went to Tübingen with Vati to take Peter, 18, back to school, where he is studying for the ministry. We went from there to Stuttgart. There is an American army base in this town of 60,000... this fact led to the highlight of the trip for me. I saw some Americans for the first time since my departure. One cannot imagine the excitement of seeing some Americans a fter being isolated from them for a time. One of last year's exchange students told me "if you ever run across an American in Europe, you will want to run up and kiss them." I didn't kiss the three soldiers from Jersey, Iowa

Reunion

Mrs. Ralph Wagenschütz was elected president for the third year of the Wagenschütz family reunion at their 31st annual get-together held this year at Kalkaska, Michigan. The Duane Balls were the hosts this year and 94 of the family were present. Next year's reunion will be held in July in Chelsea, Michigan.

Commissioners Do Some Protesting Too

(Continued from Page 1) Manager Albert Glassford explained that the budget during the past fiscal year had been over-expanded on the sign account but that 25 signs have now been ordered from the state for posting on the streets where there is the most trouble. Glassford added that the signs will be erected as soon as they are received. Concerning the fire siren, Hartmann late in the meeting asked the question of why the siren is needed now that radios are installed in each volunteer fireman's home. "Whenever that thing blows it notifies every household in town. And in the middle of the night it wakes everyone up and starts them worrying if Aunt Minnie's house is burning on the other side of town," Hartmann added. Kenneth Fisher, who is both fire and police chief, said that at present there are about five volunteers who have no radio in their home. It was also noted that some firemen are not home when there is an alarm. Under the present system, the fire alarm is sounded a minute or two after the radio alarm is sent to firemen in order to give them a head start on fire truck chasers. Chief Fisher said that he would survey firemen to find out just how many answer the alarms through the radio and through the siren. Those who do not have radios are also called by phone. In other business before the commission, authorization was given to take bids on a new rescue truck, police car, under-carriage scraper and pick-up truck. Approval was also given to a contract between the city and Denski Brothers for the collection of rubbish during the next 12 months by the private firm. The contract calls for payment on the basis of 65 cents a month for each pick-up place. The switch from city collection to a private collection is expected to save around $8,000 annually. Manager Glassford said that one of the city's rubbish trucks could be sold to Denski Bros. and he suggested the other be put on blocks for at least one year. As for the city employees who picked up rubbish, Glassford said that the DPW usually has 22 workers but now has 17 so that the rubbish collectors are badly needed in other jobs. An Ethiopian dollar equals the about 40 cents in United States money.

City Sewer Users

(Continued from Page 1) es were being increased by the city of Detroit (into whose treatment plant the county interceptor empties), it would need to pass the increase along to the communities attached to the interceptor. This meant a doubling of Plymouth's charge. As a result, city commissioners approved an ordinance that hiked the rate from 10 cents per 1,000 gallons of water used to 15 cents and the minimum bill from $1.50 to $2. A few weeks later, the board of supervisors, under pressure from other communities, decided to drop most of its increase. Plymouth will still get an increase, but adjustment of the rate required an amendment to the ordinance. The new rate will be 13 cents per 1,000 gallons and a minimum bill again of $1.50. Some residents have paid one bill under the new rates, some two bills.

A VIEW 2500 MILES AWAY of a thrilling moment in the lives of Mrs. Alfred Baché (back to camera) and her daughter Mrs. Thomas Larsen. Nancy Larsen, whose husband is at the National Bank here in Plymouth, was flown to California to be on the TV program "It Could Be You." Unknown to her mother, whom she hadn't seen in four years, she was standing behind the curtain on stage with her two sons, Michael, five years old, and Brian, four months. Her mother with two other women were given clues as to the identity behind the curtain. A few phrases of baby-talk dating back to Nancy's girlhood made her mother realize and then followed the lump-in-the-throat moment above.

To Women It May Concern

By Myra Cox, Women's Editor

Have you ever won a blue ribbon? Believe me, it will make you stand taller if you should! After many years I still wrap with tender care given only to fine Lennox, a ceramic bowl made on the potter's wheel at camp out of pure mud. But it won for me a blue ribbon in the beginners' class at the Amateur Handicraft Show. The teacher said I really hadn't goofed—you could buy round and perfect pieces in the dime store, and mine was free form. I cherish too that faded and frayed symbol of excellence.

Your opportunity is at hand, or at least you should be thinking about it. The Annual Flower Show is the event, sponsored by the Plymouth Branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association, August 28 at the Junior High. It is not for professionals or a select group of private growers—it is for amateur horticulturists even as you and I.

If you have a prize African violet (one that blooms is a prize) a variety of lily or an ivy house plant you may be the winner. Exotic specimens are not necessary. If you select a flowering plant, watch the size and color of the bloom. Texture and condition of leaves is also important. The rules and classes are printed elsewhere for your scrutiny. Even if you don't have a winner the fun of participating will bring you real pleasure and some good garden gab, you'll see.

It would be wonderful if Mrs. Vernell Hitt of Phoenix Road had another bloom on the rare night-blooming Cereus she has. This legendary plant, said to date back to Biblical days, was brought in here in a cutting stage by Mrs. Hitt from North Carolina and has a white wax-like bloom that has the scent of a lily. It opens only at night and lasts in full bloom only one night. It is amazing to see and is said to represent Moses in the Bullrushes. Mrs. Hitt wishes she knew someone with more information on the history of this most unique plant.

Anyway, scoot out in the yard, decide on one type you're going to pour a special brand of affection on, alert the family (they will help keep the bugs away from your prize) and if you win we'll take your picture which will be fun for both of us.

It was fun taking the picture of the very charming Mrs. Wilson of Fox Hills, who lives in Ann Arbor with her husband and three small children. She was runner-up in the Women's State Amateur Golf Tournament. Helen Gilbert and I tiptoed around the course in the gallery for about 10 of her 36 holes on Thursday at the Jackson Country Club. What pressure, although the gallery doesn't even breathe deeply I'm sure the two finalists are very much aware of them. A real ready smile and good sport, Mrs. Wilson won my admiration.

Had to pass up being kidnapped for lunch by Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Pino last Wednesday in order to catch the 12:30 broadcast of Nancy Larsen on "It Could Be You" TV program. Honestly, if I were exposed to a steady TV diet I would be on daily tranquilizers and a box of Kleenex to catch the tears. I don't even know Mrs. Larsen, and have a nodding acquaintance with her husband over at the National Bank, but was all choked up and bet there weren't too many dry eyes when she rushed into her mother's arms during the program. (see picture)

Incidentally Plymouth residents that are familiar with Plymouth Colony Farms on Ann Arbor Road and the scene of the wonderful outdoor concerts will be happy to welcome Ralph and Grace Pino to this community. Doctor Pino is planning on taking an extended leave of absence from his practice as Ophthalmologist at the David Whitney Building and will be living on the Farms. Next time I'll kidnap them for lunch.

NO DOUBT THE firm handshake and congratulations of Helen Gilbert of Plymouth was welcome to runner-up last week of the Women's Annual Amateur Golf Championship at Jackson Country Club, Mrs. C.U. Wilson. The mother of three small children, Mrs. Wilson confessed she had "the jumps." She was a champion in 1951 and no doubt will be again as her children become less demanding of her time. She joined Fox Hills Country Club this year and did the club proud in ending up runner-up to champion Mrs. Goddard of Birmingham. Mrs. Daniel Dayton, also of Fox Hills, holding Mrs. Wilson's silver tray, was a winner also in the first flight.

REUNION

The 42nd annual Bassett family reunion was held Sunday, July 12 in Riverside Park. The 75 present came from LaPorte, Indiana, Howell, Novi, Livonia, Wayne, Lincoln Park and Plymouth. A potluck dinner was served to the group and the afternoon was spent in a variety of ways including visiting, a soft ball game, and races for the little ones. Evening supper adjourned the activities for the day.

Magazine Honors Resident

Miss Ada Daggett, 496 Ann St., Plymouth, recently won a Solid Gold Honor Emblem from The Reader's Digest, in recognition of outstanding service as a subscription representative of the magazine. Solid Gold Honor Emblems are awarded to only three in every thousand Digest representatives, so Miss Daggett's achievement is noteworthy. Commemorating its 37th Anniversary this year, the Digest is awarding Gold Honor Emblems to men and women who have actively represented the magazine in their communities for 25 years or more, and who secured 20 or more subscriptions in the past year.

Tours Through Plymouth Gardens

IT IS HARD TO know where to start with a description of the colorful flowers, gardens and shrubs that surround the home and one acre of land of the Eugene Ferrari family of Ford Road. The rows and rows of beautiful peonies were on the wane when the above picture was taken, showing Mrs. Ferrari, daughter Evelyn, and Eugene Ferrari. The delphiniums with their many shades of blue were in full beauty. The Ferraris share their love of the gardens and are not amateurs in the garden hobby. They do it for pleasure and for business. Before his entry in a defense plant during World War II, Mr. Ferrari raised pines and evergreens. They take pride in constantly seeking new and better varieties of plants. They have 10 new varieties of peonies that have a 15" longer stem and are harder than the average peony.

They have some wild flowers. One plant that grows in their gardens is called a Jewell Weed. Mrs. Ferrari said there is no finer cure for poison ivy. The plant has a tube-like stem (transparent) that when broken produces a liquid that immediately stops the itching of poison ivy blisters and makes them disappear.

Mrs. Ferrari loves collecting "Sedums". To those unfamiliar with the name, these are the little plants that grow on rocks and are used in rock gardens. She had a countless number in her many rock gardens. Collecting rocks including some fossils and two pudding stones is of great interest to her.

Working with pines and small trees interests Mr. Ferrari. He starts many varieties from seeds.

The Ferraris have lived in Plymouth since 1933. They have six children and 10 grandchildren. Their youngest son Alan, 9½, loves to help with the gardening under the careful tutelage of his mother. All share their parents love of flowers. It is hard to do justice to the overall effects of the many plants, trees and flowers grown by this family that really has a green thumb.

Straehle - McCormick Exchange Vows In St. Paul's Church, Farmington

Marjorie JoAnn Straehle, daughter of the Gilbert T. Straehle of Livonia, exchanged nuptial vows with Robert Charles McCormick son of the Howard E. McCormick of Taylor, on Saturday, July 11, during a candlelight ceremony at St. Paul's Lutheran Church at Farmington. Rev. Walter Rutkowski officiated at the double ring ceremony. She was given in marriage by her father.

The bride's ankle-length gown was fashioned with a Chantilly lace bodice dotted with pearl sequins and a bouffant skirt of silk organza and Chantilly lace, a headband held her shoulder length veil in place and she carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations centered with a lavender orchid corsage.

Joann Breitmeyer of Unionville, niece of the bride, was maid of honor and preceded her to the altar. She was gowned in nylon over yellow taffeta with matching headband and veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow carnations tied with green ribbons.

Mr. McCormick asked Carl Langert of Taylor to be best man and Edward J. Breitmeyer and Lavern D. Engelmeier of Unionville, brother-in-law of the bride, to usher.

Soloist, Lavern Garchow of Livonia sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer" accompanied by Harold Kenow at the organ.

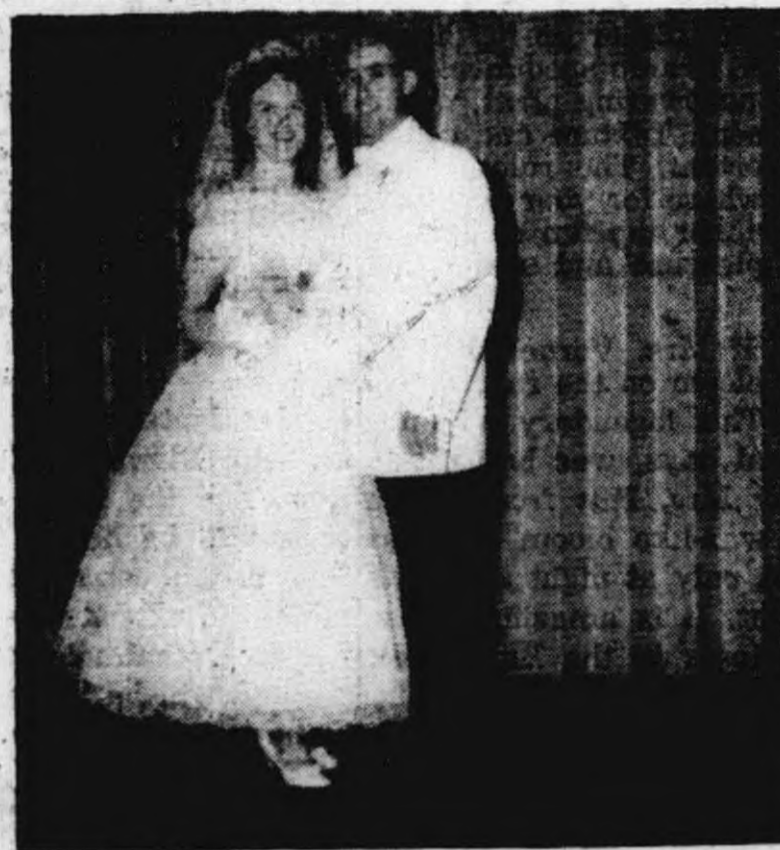

A reception was held in the church hall immediately following the ceremony, with guests from Ann Arbor, Cheboygan, Dearborn, Detroit, Fair Haven, Farmington, Melvindale, Plymouth, Port Huron, Taylor and Unionville.

Following a honeymoon trip to Northern Michigan the young couple will reside in Taylor, Michigan.

Mrs. Straehle chose a blue pure silk original with white accessories. Pink lace and matching accessories was Mrs. McCormick's preference for her son's wedding. Both mothers were presented with orchid corsages.

EMPHASIS ON SLUM PREVENTION

CHICAGO (UPI) — American cities are putting new emphasis on slum prevention, according to the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials. The association reported that six times as many cities have housing codes in force now as four years ago. It said at least 260 cities now have laws setting minimum requirements for safety and health in housing, compared with 44 cities four years ago.

Town Crier Tells Of Honoring Miss Plymouth

By MARGIE SPRATLING

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wall and family of Beck Rd., recently returned from their vacation trip. The itinerary included Niagara Falls, New York City, Boston and Washington. Before returning home they spent a few days at the Idlewood Beach cottage of Mrs. Wall's brother, Bill Berghorst.

On July 5 Roxanne Smith, the new Miss Plymouth, was honored at a patio breakfast at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Ferguson of Powell Rd. Present also were Mr. and Mrs. Rex Smith and Buzz, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Sparkman and Wayne and Rosanne Kelley. Everyone had so much fun that before they knew it lunch time had come, so they had lunch too. The Fergusons had guests from Detroit later and Mrs. Ferguson said she spent most of that day on the patio.

The following weekend the Fergusons spent at Long Lake visiting Mr. Ferguson's brother Clyde and his family. Sunday they visited Mrs.

Julia Saner, who for many years was their next-door neighbor at Windover Lake. The Spratling family, Bruce and I. Bruce Jr., Ruth Ann, Connie Mack, Puddin and Mary, spent the week of July 5-12 at Little Ore Lake with Bill and Lou Powell of Livonia and their children Dick, Mary Lou, Geraldine and Billy. The Powell's oldest son, Jim, spent one day with us. We got in a lot of sun, swimming and time on the hammock. All of us agree there's much to be said for this lazy livin'.

That's all for this week. Give me a call and there'll be more next week.

PLUGGING THE GAP

NEW YORK (UPI) — Leaky window sashes are just as wasteful in the summer as they are in the winter in air-conditioned homes. To keep the hot air out, caulking compounds are available in foldup metal tubes. They are easily applied and can be removed in the autumn if desired.

Madam President

Fern Burleson

Recently installed for her second term as President of the Auxiliary of the Passage-Gayde Post of the American Legion, Mrs. Harry Burleson has been a member of the Plymouth post for six years and has enjoyed every busy year of it.

The post was formed in 1945 and the Auxiliary in 1946, the first to be organized after World War II. The Auxiliary assumes the responsibility of sending a girl each year to Girl's State where they are taught every phase of our government; sponsors a student at the National Music Camp at Interlochen; and also does their part toward the upkeep of "The Billet" at Otter Lake, a home for orphaned children of American Legion Members. They also work in the Veterans Hospital at Christmas time, wrapping and sending gifts the Veterans select from the free gift shop available to them.

Returning this last week from the 41st Annual State Convention of the American Legion in Grand Rapids, Mrs. Burleson was pleased to have been awarded the cup shown in the above picture. It is the Alma Viergiver Cup given to the Publicity Chairman that has the most news printed about her post.

Mrs. Burleson and her husband have lived in Plymouth approximately 28 years and have three children. She is particularly pleased that this year her activities are really a family affair in that her daughter Lillian is her Secretary, her son-in-law Donald Kinghorn is the Post Commander and her husband Harry is his adjutant.

Grange Gleanings

Those attending the Grange picnic last week report having had a very enjoyable evening. It is too bad that more members were not present.

Remember next Sunday is the 25th wedding anniversary of Jesse and Louise Tritten. They are holding "Open House" at their home at 41840 Ann Arbor Trail from 2 to 5 and from 7 to 9. They extend an invitation to all their friends, both Grangers and non-Grangers to be with them at that time. The Grange wishes to announce that a silver chest will be in evidence there, similar to those for our other friends. Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Tritten, their boys and Mr. Spicer attended a State Grange Officers' picnic Sunday at Morenci.

Conservation Measure
MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI) — Gov. Robert Stafford signed into law a bill to protect Vermont's famed covered bridges. It requires local officials to give the governor and Historic Sites Commission 90 days notice before removing or destroying a covered bridge.

FALSE ALARM
MARTINE, Calif. (UPI) — The firemen of Martine have been run ragged since the town installed dial telephones recently. There is only a one-digit difference between the fire department's regular office number and the number which automatically sets off a fire alarm when it is called.

BRIEF CASE
BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI) — Newly inaugurated mayor James E. Fitzpatrick turned his first major problem over to the ordinance committee for investigation. A woman had complained that too many other women were wearing "short shorts" on the city streets.

As every experienced Cadillac owner knows, the Cadillac car represents an extraordinary value. Its initial price, includes a host of features that cost extra on most other cars . . . its sturdiness and dependability assure great savings in maintenance and operation . . . and after years of service, it traditionally returns a higher percentage of its owner's investment. PATROLMAN CHARLES Mattice (above) from the Wayne County Sheriff's Patrol standing at a safe distance from what looks like an innocuous little boulevard tree in front of the home of the Milton Orrs of Shadywood Drive. The tree, however, is the new residence of a restless Queen Bee that decided to take a little fly and was followed, as is Nature's way, by a million little boy bees. Their arrival, forming a black cloud in the sky and a large humming noise, did not go unnoticed by Lake Pointe residents. After a consultation of nervous neighbors and the patrolman, a beekeeper was called, and through an ingenious procedure employing a sheet, he soon had the 15,000 bees in the back seat of his car and on the way to a more suitable home. About 1,000 of the bees stubbornly refused to follow the fickle Queen and remained on the tree, to be subsequently exterminated with sprays and smudge pots. Milton and Roberta Orr said the bees had just set up house-keeping but had already gone into the business of making honey in their little tree, no doubt to prove to the many onlookers the old axiom "busy as a bee" is true.

AMERICAN LEGION NEWS

Dorothy Koi was elected to the office of department historian at the 41st convention held in Grand Rapids July 16-19. A member of the U.S. Air Force during World War II, and presently a member of Passage-Gayde Post 391 of Plymouth, she has served as post adjutant, post junior vice-commander and adjutant of the 17th District. She was also the organizer of the 17th District Blood Bank.

Approximately 15 members of Passage-Gayde Post and Auxiliary attended the 41st annual state convention of the American Legion in Grand Rapids. The 17th District Ritual Team participated in the annual parade. Several members served on committee meetings. Attending the Auxiliary Membership Banquet were: 17th Post District President, Maxine Kunz, Adah Langmaid, Lillian Kinghorn and Fern Burleson. The challenges were paid off and were very interesting and funny. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Koi and Maxine Kunz attended the American Legion Joint Banquet held on Saturday evening, July 18th in the Ballroom of the Pantlind Hotel. The Alma S. Viergever Memorial Trophy for Publicity, American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Michigan, was awarded to Fern Burleson, Publicity chairman, of Passage-Gayde Auxiliary, on the convention floor Friday, July 17th.

Climaxing the annual meeting was the election on the 12th ballot Sunday afternoon of the new state commander for 1959-60, Lewis C. Bricker, of Coldwater. The 54-year-old insurance man is a purple heart veteran of World War II, and a 14 year member of The American Legion. He joined the Custer Post 53 shortly after his discharge from service in 1945, later transferring to Coldwater Post 52. Bricker has been a Legion Commander at the Post, District, and County levels. He is currently a member of The American Legion State Service and Rehabilitation Committee. Delegates to the Auxiliary convention, meeting at the same time, chose Mrs. Grace Richardson Johnson of the Detroit Districts as President.

PIED PIPERS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Seven young men from the Virgin Islands were found guilty of disorderly conduct because their steel drum band attracted a crowd estimated by police at 2,000 which paraded right behind them through the streets of New York.

But Magistrate Walter H. Gladwin suspended sentence on the defendants, whose ages ranged from 16 to 20, after their lawyer explained they were following the custom of their native land in celebrating the end of the school term.

Delegates to the National Convention being held in the Twin Cities, Minneapolis-St. Paul on August 24-27, are Maxine Kunz and alternate Melva Gardner and on Post level, Tom Rounell of Detroit and alternate, Donald Smith of St. Johns.

During Friday's session, Miss Sally Berndt of Adrian, Girls State Governor, gave an address on her stay and activities at Girls State, held on the University of Michigan campus, Ann Arbor, in July. Maxine Kunz, past 17th District President was chairman of the district caucuses.

Mint Man Spikes Rumor About New Penny's Worth

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Saving new pennies because you heard they are going to be recalled by the government? Think you're going to make a lot of money in rare coins?

You have been misled. When the issue of new U.S. pennies came out in February, a rumor was spread about that the government was going to recall the copper coins because somebody goofed and put a small "o" in "United States of America" on the coin's tail-side. Actually, mint artist Frank Gasparo of Philadelphia deliberately used the small "o" to break up the uniformity of the lettering.

The Assistant director of the mint, Leland Howard, said rumors start "every time we put out a new coin." "People look at it closely, find something they never noticed before and hope it'll turn into something rare." Howard said Gasparo worked for weeks on an eight-inch clay-model of the coin, which, when a change has the Lincoln Memorial etched on its back instead of just "ONE CENT."

He said that it was rather illogical that one of the 41 letters, which appear on the penny, would escape Gasparo's notice on a model that large.

An examination of the coin shows that the small "o" is the only letter of the 41 that is not capitalized. The fact makes the little letter more noticeable.

But Howard said, "it's no mistake and we're not going to recall the coin."

The small "o" in the "ot" on the new penny doesn't stand alone among the "of's" which appear on U.S. coins. Small "o's" appear on the 1921 "Peace Dollar," the 1916 half-dollar and the current Franklin half-dollar. Howard pointed out.

Senior Girl Scouts Meet; Camping, Swapping Favorites

By KATHY WHITE

Six Plymouth girls, April Corey, Jody Edgar, Barb Gooch, Barb Haas, Marsha Rubey and Kathy White left by train June 30 to attend the International Senior Girl Scout Roundup in Colorado Springs for two weeks with some 8,500 other girls.

When the train left none of the girls felt any qualms about leaving. All were looking forward to meeting not only girls from all over the United States but also some of the girls from the 26 foreign countries that were represented.

Traveling with them on the train were girls from the Greater Detroit area. After the lay-over in Chicago, the girls boarded a special Girl Scout train which was to take them to Colorado Springs. On the train the Plymouthites met with other scouts from Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois. Even enroute, swapping was the favorite custom, as the girls traded items native to their region.

Upon arrival in Colorado Springs, buses picked up the scouts and transported them to their section of the camp. There the girls registered, put their money in the camp bank and purchased the section ties and cowboy hats which they were required to wear because of the terrific sun.

The scenery was beautiful, but the campers had sun, wind and sand to cope with. As the girls lived completely in a city of over 6,000 tents, the wind had a great effect on their stay.

During the two weeks, two hail storms, a sand storm, a rain storm, two twisters (or baby tornadoes) and at least a dozen wind storms occurred.

Each section of over 1,200 campers was assigned a day for touring. These tours included a ride through the Air Force Academy, a stop at the Garden of the Gods and a chuck-wagon lunch at a ranch. Forty-four buses were used in each tour.

Although many section campfires were held (with lanterns because of the dry grass) only three were held in the arena. The first, officially marking the opening of the encampment, was held on July 2. In the program the Alaskan girls gave the Girl Scouts of America a new flag with 49 stars and the Hawaiian girls gave us a shiny star. Much group singing was done and, with the tremendous crowd, it sounded beautiful.

The second all-encampment campfire was held on July 8 which is the Colorado Centennial Day. The evening's entertainment included horse riding by the Lakewood Riders, Indian Dancing by a group of Explorers Scouts and skits about the old west. In the skit "Pony Express", a message was delivered to the president of the Girl Scouts of America, Mrs. Culmer. The message was from President Eisenhower, saying he hoped the campers would have a fine time.

The closing - night campfire was messages of peace for the World Association of Girl Scouts and Girl Guides from girls representing various countries.

On the fourth of July, an all-encampment flag ceremony was held to commemorate the changing of flags. The new flag was the one given by the Alaskan scouts. It took 317 girls all morning and evening to put up and take down the 105 flags in the Avenue of Flags.

Cooking at the high altitude was more difficult than in Michigan. The scouts did their own cooking with charcoal. On the first night, one patrol wondered if they would eat well during their stay. Their hamburgers, instead of the usual burned on the outside, raw on the inside, were burned on the inside and raw on the outside.

One of the highlights for a Plymouthite was being photographed with her patrol and president, Mrs. Culmer, watching them cook their first meal. These photographs were shown on the evening news programs and Dave Garrowsky's TV program.

The reason the patrol was chosen was the spectacular tents they had. Each of the five patrols from the Huron Valley Council was equipped with a red-and-white striped tarp, a red-and-white parawing and three green pup tents.

During the encampment the girls traded many old and interesting souvenirs. Jody Edgar traded World Pins with Mrs. Culmer, and Marsha Rubey received a certificate as a rebel colonel from Nancy Byrd of Louisiana.

$60,000 FARM AT FAIR
SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—A complete farm, valued at $60,000, will be in operation at the New York State Fair when it opens Sept. 4. The farm will feature a modern home especially designed for rural living, a poultry house, a herd of 25 Ayrshire cows and a shop equipped with daily machinery repairs.

Over at Northland Playhouse they are taking a page out of the Plymouth Theater Guild's notebook. Last week, the Northland Playhouse theater troupe did the dramatic "Diary of Anne Frank" and for the current week they are presenting "Mister Roberts". The Plymouth Guild Players will open their season of three plays with the hilarious "Mr. Roberts."

"I imagine that Hal and Loretta Young, who will be directing and producing, will be over at Northland Playhouse in the front row checking on Howard Keel as he does the title role. Might be that they could convince Howard to forego his movie commitments and appear this November with the Plymouth Theater Guild players in this show. Of course, Hal assures me that he has 20 or 30 men in the community that are "champing at the bit" to play the lead role.

Interesting sidelight on the "Mr. Roberts" production is that the Northland Playhouse—all the props and scenery to be used is part of the original Broadway production. A young man in the cast of the original show had the foresight to purchase all the props and the scenery after the Broadway play closed its four year run. Every summer he rents out the scenery and props to the many, many summer theaters that do the show. Now why can't we all be this smart and make money the easy way!

Directors and producers are being chosen by the Guild's Board of Governors for the following two plays: "Diary of Anne Frank" and "The Rainmaker", this week at a special meeting. I'll let you know next week who will be responsible for these coming attractions.

Thinking back to the Stratford Canadian Festival, my mind's eye still sees the placid river Avon with those white swans, the flags flying on the roof of the Shakespearean theater, the sound of the trumpeters as they call the crowd to the theater, and the wonderful performances of "Othello", a play "As You Like It." Douglas Campbell took the lead role in "Othello". Many critics thought that Mr. Campbell did a creditable job in this difficult part. I couldn't agree that he was the best Othello I've seen. No doubt, his work as Falstaff and in other comic roles kept getting in the way.

Another prejudice of mine is that I have always felt that Othello should be a tall, commanding figure of a man. Doug is under six feet, stocky build, and looks more like a football lineman. Don't get me wrong now that Doug doesn't do a fine job with the part. Just as far as I was concerned he satisfied me a great deal more as the clown in "As You Like It".

Shakespeare wasn't at his best when he wrote "As You Like It". The play strains your "believe-ability" standards. However, it is a gay, mad romp when the Stratford players take over. Irene Worth does a happy job of pretending to be a man for most of the play. You might George and I sit in the third row and from this close spot, we are happy to report that Miss Worth is every inch a competent actress. Her facial work is superb.

Vocally and interpretativewise all the Stratford players are letter-perfect in their parts. You have to go over there to see and hear what I'm driving at. Shakespearean drama takes consummate skill and the Canadian players have that lively, theatrical skill. Believe me there's never a dull moment at the Shakespearean Festival. Hope you can make a trip over that way some time during the next few weeks. The Festival will continue until September 19th.

I've given Mrs. Agnes Pauline a complete schedule of the other art, music, and drama events that will be taking place in the weeks to come. She will post the schedule in the Library for all to see. Take a quick glance and see if there isn't something that might meet your fancy. There's even a motion picture film festival late in August that might interest many denizens of the celluloid palaces. See you next week with more about what's happening on the local White Way or better yet what shows are in rehearsal for the all-important Broadway opening in the fall.

Said bills shall be rendered bi-monthly (each two months) during each operating or fiscal year and shall represent charges for the bi-monthly (each two months) period immediately preceding the date of rendering the bill. Said bills shall become due and payable within fifteen (15) days from the date thereof, and for all bills not paid within that period, a penalty of ten (10) per cent of the amount of such bill shall be added thereto.

III. MUNICIPAL CHARGE

For the benefit derived by the City-at-large, the City shall pay a charge of $14,000.00 per year, which charge shall be payable in quarterly installments, in advance from the current funds of the City, or from the proceeds of taxes which the City, within constitutional and statutory limits, is hereby authorized and required to levy in an amount sufficient for that purpose.

IV. SPECIAL RATES

For miscellaneous services for which a special rate shall be established, such rates shall be fixed by the City Commission. Where a user uses a large amount of water which is not discharged into the sanitary sewer system, a special rate for sewer service of such user may be established.

V. ENFORCEMENT

The charges for sewer services which are under the provisions of Section 21, Act 94, Public Acts of Michigan, 1933, as amended, made a lien on all premises served thereby, unless notice is given that a tenant is responsible, are hereby recognized to constitute such lien and whenever any such charge against any piece of property shall be delinquent for six (6) months, the City official or officials in charge of the collection thereof shall certify annually, on April 1st of each year, to the tax-assessing officer of the City, the fact of such delinquency, whereupon such charge shall be by him entered upon the next tax roll as a charge against such premises and shall be collected and the lien thereof enforced in the same manner as general City taxes against such premises are collected, and the lien thereof enforced provided, however, where notice is given that a tenant is responsible for such charges and service as provided by said Section 21, no further service shall be rendered such premises until a cash deposit of not less than Ten ($10.00) Dollars shall have been made as security for payment of such charges and service.

PRODUCING SOME OF the most beautiful gardens in Plymouth, the above pose appropriately in the garden of their President, Mrs. Edwin Zipse, of the Plymouth Branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association on the occasion of their last Board meeting. Unlike many other clubs they are not inactive in the summer. On the contrary, they are deep in the throes of planning their annual Flower Show to be held August 28 at the Junior High. Any of the above would be qualified to answer questions relative to the coming Flower Show or the Garden Contest sponsored by them to be judged the first week in August. Both events are enough to keep the group active and on their toes. The above are Mrs. Edwin Schrader, Mrs. George Schmeman, Mrs. Edwin Zipse, Hostess and President; Chairman of the Garden Contest: Mrs. Rexford Hoffman, Mrs. Henry Lentz, co-chairmen of the Flower Show; Mrs. Charles Nelson, Mrs. Ralph J. GARDEN GAB—

BY BILL SAXTON

The very welcome heavy rains Monday morning saved what was left of many parched lawns. To restore life and color into browned areas apply ammonium sulphate dissolved in sufficient water at the rate of one pound to 200 square feet. Use a sprinkling can or garden hose feeder.

The Syphonex unit which feeds from a bucket works well if used with a free flowing unrestricted type nozzle. The Proen unit that fits between tap and hose can be used with any type nozzle or sprinkler.

Merion blue grass responds especially well to supplementary nitrogen feeding. The lush green growth is rewarding but don't be fooled into exchanging this type of shot in the arm in place of complete lawn food applied regularly. Nitrogen alone is incomplete.

Latest information from the Agricultural Research Station at Fort Collins, Colorado, refutes some of our most cherished ideas about watering lawns. Results of a five year study definitely show that light watering done frequently is far superior to infrequent soaking.

Light sprinkling or heavy soaking did not effect root levels. Roots do not "seek" water. This writer will have to "eat crow" because we have subscribed to the deep soaking method for many years. Apparently the important point is to apply sufficient water to prevent drying of soil at all times, even as little as 1/2 inch.

These findings will encourage underground sprinkling systems. Use of rubber or plastic pipe has put them in a much lower price range than the old, expensive copper systems. Set up with a timing device and divided into circuits for different areas these systems become almost automatic.

If you would like information on types, layouts or cost estimates make an appointment to have one of our representatives look at your property. Materials for grafting your own layout on a do-it-yourself basis are supplied free by Goodyear. Be the first one in your neighborhood to install a system.

The CITY MANAGER'S CORNER

By Al Glassford

Last week, we talked about the changes in the physical plant at the City Hall, the painting, the repair work, the new drinking fountain and the new flags. There is also a new look in the administrative structure of our municipal operations. During the past three or four months, we have suffered two serious losses in personnel.

Both losses involved department heads. Consequently, we have had to fill these vacancies quickly. We feel we have done so in the best interests of the city and to everyone's satisfaction.

We have already seen how the Chief of Police was given the added duties and responsibilities of Fire Chief. We have also noted the administrative changes that were thus made necessary in both the Police Department and the Fire Department. However, the loss of our City Treasurer last May caused many more administrative changes and readjustments for our personnel.

The first administrative problem that had to be solved was that of appointing a new treasurer. The man selected for the job was our Clerk-Assessor, Mr. Kenneth E. Way. This, however, did not solve all our problems, because with his appointment as treasurer, we found ourselves without a City Clerk.

Our charter, while it does permit the combining of several jobs into one position, does not permit combining the job of City Clerk with the job of City Treasurer. Therefore, we had to name someone else for the job of City Clerk. We appointed our accountant, Mr. Joseph Near, to this job. As our administrative structure stands now, Mr. Way is our Treasurer-Assessor and Mr. Near is our City Clerk-Assistant. These two appointments became effective on June 1 of this year.

While these two appointments are permanent assignments, there are some administrative re-alignments that are temporary in nature. Nevertheless, they are equally important at the moment. These changes are brought about because of the vacation period which now is upon us. Thus, when one of the department heads goes on vacation, one of the other employees must assume his duties and responsibilities. This means our personnel must be flexible enough to take on new tasks, and to learn in a short period of time the shortcuts to jobs that were more or less routine to the person who normally does that work.

Of course, this works the other way around, too, for when one of the departmental employees goes on his vacation, someone must cover his job. Often, this means the department head will have to do some of that work.

Even though the City Hall has been re-decorated, and even though some of our personnel are performing new tasks, the purpose of our City Hall and of all our employees is still the same—to provide service to the people of Plymouth. We invite you to come to the City Hall to see the new look. We are here to help whenever and wherever possible.

C & O Wins Safety Council Award

Chesapeake and Ohio Railway for the second year in a row has been presented the National Safety Council's "Gold Spike" award for outstanding community and employee safety programs.

The council chose C&O along with 16 other U.S. and Canadian railroads for the Public Safety Activities Award to recognize and stimulate community safety work in areas they serve.

The judges cited C&O for the work of its staff of 23 safety officers and 65 employee safety committees, cooperation with the Ohio State Safety Council in a program to prevent highway-railroad crossing accidents and assisting the Ohio State Highway Patrol.

Also singled out by the judges were C&O's part in producing television spot announcements on highway-rail safety and assistance to Boy Scouts and local safety organizations. They praised the railroad's use of a safety instruction car and distribution of a monthly "Safety Digest" to its employees.

A total of 55,633 students in cities on the C&O have received safety instruction by movies and talks in the instruction car and in public and parochial schools.

Dredging Operations Menace To Wildlife

LANSING — Conservation Department officials have urged the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to halt its dredging operations in a marshy 20-acre tract between Plum Creek Bay and Raisin River of Monroe county.

As recommended, the shutdown would last only until dikes or some other adequate control can be installed to confine dredge materials within the area owned by the Monroe Port Commission.

Fish and waterfowl are being jeopardized and public navigation is hampered by dredge materials which have overflowed the Commission's project boundary and washed on the south shore of the bay.

One commercial fisherman reported losing 2,800 pounds of catfish which he had live-trapped in the bay.

There is also a threat that dredgings will wash on the beach area of Sterling state park.

Dredgings are being hydraulically pumped from the turning basin of the Raisin River and deposited on Plum Creek Bay bottom lands owned by the Commission. Approximately 200 acres of marsh and bottom lands are to be filled and developed as the Commission's harbor site.

FIRE ESCAPE CHUTE

STOWE, Vt. (UPI) — A 19th century schoolhouse still standing here is equipped with a unique fire escape chute. In olden days to escape from the second floor in case of fire, pupils would merely hop into this chute and slide to safety at a breathtaking speed.

BEST ENGINES!

one of 7 Big Bests Chevy gives you over any car in its field

You've got more to go on than our say-so: Every motor magazine has given Chevy's standard passenger car and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED says it this way: "... surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price." And if you want the thrift of a six, you still get the best of it in a Chevy.

BEST ECONOMY
No doubt about this: a pair of Chevy sixes with Powerglide came in first and second in their class in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run—getting the best mileage of any full-size car, 22.38 miles per gallon.

BEST BRAKES
Not only bigger, but built with bonded linings for up to 66% longer life. Just to prove what's what, Chevy out-stopped both of the "other two" in a NASCAR*-conducted test of repeated stops from highway speeds.

BEST RIDE
A few minutes behind the wheel will leave no doubt about this. MOTOR TREND magazine sums it up this way: "... the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class."

BEST TRADE-IN
Check the figures in any N.A.D.A.* Guide Book. You'll find that Chevy used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

BEST ROOM
Official dimensions reported to the Automobile Manufacturers Association make it clear. Chevy's front seat hip room, for example, is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars.

BEST STYLE
It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, "a new high in daring styling."

Who's New in Plymouth

THE MURDOCKS just didn't happen to move to Plymouth—they have been looking for a home here for quite some time and were thrilled when they found the house they wanted on Sheldon Road in the community they wanted to live in. Chicago born Allan Murdock received his higher education at Wayne State University. Ever since his youth he has been interested in broadcasting and has acted and directed many youth programs while still in high school. He took an additional year of education at Wayne for their course of study of TV, keeping in mind their program of using the medium for educational purposes. He is now director of the closed circuit TV for the classrooms at Wayne State University, and also works at WXYZ-TV directing the Soupy Sales and Johnny Ginger show. Ellen says her family is her hobby and she enjoys all phases of home making, particularly cooking and most particularly taking care of petite 16-month-old Linda Sue, who is always full of surprises.

Facts About The Canton Township Fire Department

ESTHER SPRENGEL
GL. 3-194

That Canton Township stork is busily making plans to visit some of our residents real soon and the mothers-to-be are being feted with showers galore.

One of the mothers-to-be honored with a shower for their coming event, was Mrs. Marie Markham (former Mariann Palmer). The shower was given for Mrs. Markham by Mrs. James Spigarelli and her daughter Janet of Beck Rd. The guests enjoyed an evening of games and helped Mariann and ah about the many wonderful gifts she received for the new little Markham. The guest list included: Mrs. Warren Palmer, Miss Annie Wietecha, Mrs. Geo. Wietecha, Mrs. Theron Palmer (grandmother to-be), Mrs. Willard Bowman, Mrs. Edward Bassett, Mrs. Frank Spigarelli, Mrs. Richard Palmer, Mrs. Wilva Markham, Mrs. Russell Palmer, Nancy Spigarelli, Connie Jo Palmer, Mrs. Dan Wilkins, Mrs. Howard Salley, Mrs. Emma Ripper, Mrs. Charles O'Donnell, Gail O'Donnell, Mrs. Dean Palmer, Mrs. Wm. Sprengel. Following the games and opening of gifts, the guests enjoyed a luncheon and helped Mrs. Markham cut the cake gaily decorated to fit the occasion.

Another of our mothers-to-be honored with a baby shower, was Mrs. Dale Wilkins (former Brenda Jewell). The shower was given by Mrs. Viola Dutho, Mrs. Ina Bassett and Mrs. Eleanor Wilkins, at the Dutho home on Ford Rd. The table was centered by bouquets of flowers and centered with the bird most related to this sort of occasion, the stork. Games were played with prizes awarded the winners. The guest list included friends and relatives. Mrs. Marie Gentz, Mrs. Shirley Carpenter, Mrs. Velma Jewell, Mrs. Beatrice Wilkins, Mrs. Isabelle Spigarelli, Miss Janet Spigarelli, Mrs. Bonnie Markham, Mrs. Russell Palmer, Mrs. Richard Palmer, Mrs. Augusta Hawk, Mrs. Forest Truesdell, Miss Linda Truesdell, Mrs. Edward Bassett, Mrs. Elaine Persich, Mrs. Mary Jane Mitchell, Mrs. Ruth Thompson, Garnet Thompson, Mrs. Corrine Clark, Mrs. Marilyn Korte, and Dorothy Bassett. The guests were served a luncheon highlighted by a special cake baked for the occasion.

Gail O'Donnell of Beck Rd., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. O'Donnell was the guest of honor at the birthday party given in her honor by Miss Susie Campbell for her 18th birthday. The guest list included school friends of Gail's.

Mrs. Lena Carter celebrated her 71st birthday with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John McLennan of Cherry Hill and her grand-daughter, Delores, Ronald and Johnny McLennan. The group went to the Metropole Supper Club in Windsor. We want to add our wish for many more such occasions.

Miss Delores McLennan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McLennan of Cherry Hill and two friends, Miss Rita Skove of Northville and Miss Ardith Norton of Jackson, Mich., plan a few days stay at the Saugatuck Resort on Lake Michigan.

Mrs. Stauffer of Lotz Rd., was hostess for a demonstration party for neighbors and friends. The demonstrators, Mrs. Beulah Asher of Ford Rd., a township resident, is new in the field of Trichory, Liquid Decorating products. As I understand it, it is sort of a liquid way of embroidering. Good luck in your new venture, Mrs. Asher.

I have never mentioned it before, but from time to time our column will also include local news happenings. Maybe this next item won't come under the heading of news, but for fate nothing serious happened. The other evening after dark, Mr. Sprengel and myself witnessed what might have very well been an accident. A car bearing a family, came to a quick halt on Beck Rd., skidding its tires. The driver got out of the car and as his headlights struck the road, we noticed that a rope had been stretched across Beck Rd. This has happened before. I hope the persons responsible for this act read this column and will realize the seriousness of their prank. The driver stopped so suddenly that the young child in the car could have been thrown through the window and seriously hurt or even killed. I hope it will not be necessary to have the law patrol on road to make it safe for families to travel it.

Mr. and Mrs. Forest Truesdell of 42759 Cherry Hill Rd., recently announced the engagement of their daughter, Linda Jean to James Dingeldey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Dingeldey of 819 Haggerty Rd. Jean and James both attended Plymouth High. The couple are busy making plans for a fall wedding.

The township's fire chief, Mr. Fred Korte Jr. called to request the township residents not to do any unnecessary burning of any kind. If household rubbish must be burned, please see that a very fine wire screening is placed over the burning container to keep particles from flying about and a constant vigil kept until the fire is out.

As everyone knows the lack of rain has made everything extremely dry and easy to burn. The fire department is being plagued with calls on grass fires. So please put off burning things until the weather-man endows us with some rain. However, many of you might not know, that there is an ordinance requesting people to secure a burning permit from the fire hall when burning large quantities or areas. The permit is free and takes a short time to secure and is purely for your protection and keeps our fire department informed. We have asked Chief Korte to fill us in on the fire alarms and he said he would be glad to.

This week we would like to tell you about our Fire Department. Our voluntary fire department is composed of 17 men. The chief, Mr. Fred Korte Jr., Assistant Chief, Gordon Vetal, Captain Melvin Korte and Lieutenant Lawrence Longwish.

These men were all elected to their posts by the men of the fire department and their selection passed by the board. We have two very fine and modern fire trucks, 40 feet of aluminum extension ladder, roof ladder, and 25 feet of extension ladder on the pumper and a resuscitator. The men of the fire department are given instruction from time to time from qualified instructors and have on occasion gone to special classes.

The men serving as volunteer firemen are divided into two groups, day and night shifts. The one point the chief did strongly bring out is the fact that the men that serve as firemen are required to report each time they will not be available by telephone to report to a fire. The rule was put into effect to save the department time in calling the men not available for duty. The firemen are asked to call the fire hall, report themselves unavailable, the length of time or if they are not sure, to report when they return. The men attend one meeting a month, where problems, techniques, etc. are discussed.

A special meeting was called this week of the men, to put into practice a new foamite attachment for the pumper truck. The foamite attachment is particularly useful in industrial fires, etc. The men went to the Township dump to practice with the attachment to determine the amount of pressure and hose necessary to get the best results. Grass fires have been the biggest problem for the fire department of late. Funds to operate our fire department come from the tax dollars.

When a fire is reported to our fire hall, a qualified person then calls all available firemen, giving them directional instructions and sees to it that another man is available to operate the fire truck left at the hall. Chief Korte stated that constant plans are being made to increase the efficiency of our fire department.

Well, that does it for another week and lately it seems that I'm doing all the talking, how about hearing from you.

South Lyon Sculptor Molds Concrete Ideas for Kid's Play

Abstract forms in bright color providing a new type of playground for children have been developed by a University of Michigan sculptor.

He is James E. Miller, of South Lyon, and instructor in the U-M College of Architecture and Design. Working on his own time and using reinforced concrete, he designed wall sections two and a half inches thick and five feet tall, pierced with holes of various sizes.

Resembling huge slices of Swiss cheese in form, the concrete sections provide a permanent playground installation. Each is cast in a solid color — yellow, red, brown, green, and other earth hues.

Miller's "brave new world" of concrete play forms is being erected in a naval housing development near Kinston, N. C. The mold he designed was shipped to North Carolina and cast there.

The concrete is handled in the same way as in the construction of a section tank. All the commercial equipment is available but nobody has really utilized it because of the complexity of developing a mold system," he explains.

Why did Miller turn from specific sculptural problems to designing playground forms? "I wanted to give city children a take-off point for their imaginations," he says. "I grew up in the country and a cave or clump of bushes was a whole world where I could play. City children today don't have ready access to wooded areas. I decided to do something about it."

"I confined play areas children are mostly limited to use of swings and slides for which they have to wait their turn. I thought what I was especially needed was a chance for kids to play together creatively."

How do the concrete forms take care of this? "The walls are really versatile. They can become whatever the children want them to be — a maze, house, castle, just about anything. The holes are used for climbing, peering and crawling through. Sometimes the kids are lions, sometimes they ride horses, shooting at one another. This equipment is so 'general' it really gives them a chance to use their imagination."

Actually, the best playground is a junk yard — full of all the props kids need. But junk yards can be dangerous. These abstract forms are safe. The edges are smooth and rounded so there is no chance for getting hurt. This necessitates a mold system that gives you a perfectly smooth casting with rolled edges and variable designs so that holes may be placed in different positions."

Health Service Now Recommends Polio Booster

For the first time the United States Public Health Service officially recommends a fourth or booster inoculation of Salk polio vaccine. Dr. Joseph G. Molner, City County Health Commissioner, says that this fourth Salk inoculation has been advised in Detroit for some time.

Because babies, young children and teenagers are the groups particularly susceptible to polio it is most urgent that these groups and young adults have the booster. He says now that the time of year is approaching when polio reaches its peak, you should see that all members of your family including yourself have maximum protection against it by having the recommended number of four inoculations.

Persons who have had the three initial Salk polio vaccine injections should go to their doctor for the booster. In most instances, approximately a year's interval between the third and booster inoculation is suggested, however, if the third was given eight or nine months ago it is wiser to have the booster now than at the end of the polio season.

Provision has been made to take care of those extreme cases where a family is not able to provide this service for its members. You can learn more about this by calling any of the health centers of the Detroit Department of Health.

Pregnant women especially should have a booster prior to the polio season because the Salk vaccine provides added protection for them and in addition provides shorter-term protection for the unborn baby. This immunity which the Salk vaccine causes to be built up in the blood of the mother-to-be protects the baby for only a month or two after his birth.

This new recommendation of the United States Public Health Service points to the scientific advances which occur from time to time as physicians acquire more experience with the use of new products.

For babies younger than six months the newest recommendation is for three inoculations with Salk polio vaccine each a month apart beginning when the baby is two months old. The fourth or booster dose to be given seven to twelve months after the third.

Flower Show August 28

A Community Flower Show, sponsored by the Plymouth Branch of the National Farm and Garden Association, is scheduled for August 28. Mrs. Paul Wiedman, general chairman, has made arrangements for the use of the Junior High School.

Purpose of the show is to promote better understanding and good fellowship among Plymouth area residents and to give assistance to new homeowners who want to develop more beautiful home grounds. These people enrich their lives through association with other gardeners.

For this year's show, a Junior class for children under 15 has been added. It is hoped all flower lovers and gardeners will enter their specimen blooms along with flower arrangements, houseplants and displays of fruits and vegetables.

Plant Lilies In Your Garden From August Until November

By Dorothy H. Jenkins

White, orange and pink lilies reach their peak of bloom in gardens next month. August also is the time to start planting lily bulbs for bloom next year. Planting continues through November. It's always better done in fall, for then bulbs have been freshly dug and can make root growth in their new location to support top growth in the spring. Bulbs of the Madonna lily (Lilium candidum) are the first to appear on the market in August. Dainty white lilies open in a cluster at the top of the stem in June or whenever delphiniums bloom in your garden. Plant in a sunny place. Madonna lilies are neither the first nor the last to flower outdoors. No matter where you live, it's possible to have some kind of lily flowering from mid-spring until early fall. The first one always is the small red Coral lily with flowers not more than 2 inches wide. It opens in May in the Northeast and Midwest. After the Madonna lilies bloom you may have your choice of easy-to-grow or temperamental lilies and of those that must have sun or those that open in a partly shaded place. Hybridists in July in Connecticut, has a glistering nasturtium red flowers. Valencia is more golden and flecked with tiny brown spots. In a shaded place I'd plant the small waxen yellow Hansoni lilies for June bloom, and the larger golden orange Henry for August bloom. In sun, the huge and fragrant white Regal lilies are the queen of July. Newest of the Regals is called Royal Gold and its trumpets are a soft golden tone. Centifolium, the other large white lily for mid-summer bloom, now comes with pink flowers known as Pink Selection. Unusual colors are found in the Preston Hybrids. One of the finest is Brenda Watts with brown-spotted, grenadine red flowers. Coronation is pure yellow, and Lillian Cummings is another tall, grenadine red lily. Tiger lilies, of course, are so easy to grow that in some parts of the country they have established themselves almost as wild flowers. On the other hand, the spotted pink L. speciosum isn't always easy to establish. Before planting Speciosum and Aratum lilies, try some of the kinds that are more certain to grow and flower. Whatever kind of lily you decide to plant, purchase bulbs that are guaranteed to be clean and disease free. Then select a place in your garden where sun or shade is to its liking. Make certain that drainage is good there and that water will never collect around the bulb. Then plant each bulb three times as deep as the height of the bulb itself. Once planted, lilies should bloom forever.

Tricks For The Patio Cook

(From the book of Martha Logan, Home Economist from Swift & Company). Be original. Try different cuts of meats. Specialize in seasonings such as herbs, meat sauces, or combinations of seasoning in tall shakers. Create an unusual sauce or two. Have one hot-spiced, the other mild and subtle. See sauce recipes below. Use the sauce before, during, or after the cooking. That is, let meat or poultry chill in the sauce two or three hours before the cooking, swab or brush the meat or poultry frequently with the sauce during cooking, or serve a pitcher or bowlful of the sauce with the cooked meat. Make a ritual of flourishing the dauber for the sauce. Do not hurry or worry. Make guests wait and watch. Let them help to eat and carry. Serve crisp vegetable relishes and help-yourself appetizers. Have steak knives sharp. Use throw-away plates. Encourage finger foods. Keep menus simple. Serve hot foods hot. Make clean-up time a cooperative project.

Control Nerves To Control Weight

PART 3
(Following is the third of four dispatches on overweight.)

By Patricia McCormack United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—More than half the obese patients in a study from Endocrine Clinic of Boston City Hospital admitted that they were "nervously" nervous or high-strung. They said that food relieved them of tension and gave them pleasure. One homemaker said her husband's activities kept him from home frequently. She filled in some of the time by going to movies—alone. But when she returned home she felt so lonely that she usually ate "even though I was not really hungry."

"It allayed some of my nervousness and gave me something to do." As her weight went up, she felt all the more sorry for herself and ate more. Eventually, she was a good, round weight—300 pounds. Another patient, an overweight teenager, sorry about being unpopular, became a people-hater. She secluded herself at every opportunity and treated herself to her sole remaining pleasure: eating. The more she ate, the less chance she had of becoming popular. She became fatter and fatter. The tension-type eaters are just one of several types of obese. There are the social types, the night-raiders, and the garbage-pail personalities. To tension eaters, food is a tension chaser and source of pleasure. When they are bored, food symbolizes the love and affection they need, desire and cannot find. Social eaters eat to be sociable. They won't turn down a morsel at a cocktail party, a bridge game, dinner or week-end gatherings. The night-raider becomes gluttonous nocturnally. During the day, he or she eats like a bird. But after the last meal of the day, the night-raider's hidden personality comes out. Trips to the kitchen are frequent for a piece of pie, a half-dozen cookies, a scrambled egg, and toast. A true night-raider consumes more than one-fourth of his total calories after the last meal. The garbage-pail type can't leave a scrap on the plate. Usually, she is the lady of the house. She eats the left-overs that aren't suitable for stashing away in the refrigerator. Day after day, this is the way with the garbage-pail type. She pays no attention to the calorie cost of living; neither do the other types who suddenly find themselves with more padding than will fit into their clothes. (next: Even the "lean" have troubles.)

Stains Removed With These New Methods!

When the bottle of ink is knocked off the desk or a chocolate peppermint is smeared into the rug, you don't necessarily have to send the rug or the slipcover off to the cleaner or look at the dark mark forever. Prompt action may remove most of the stain at once.

If a liquid has been spilled, blot up as much as possible with paper towels or tissues or a clean soft absorbent piece of cloth. If candy, sugar or chocolate has been worked into material, scrape off the crust. And if the spot was made by spilling butter or something else that is oily or greasy, saturate a cloth with dry cleaning fluid and apply. As fast as this cloth becomes soiled, dip another clean one in the fluid and apply it.

Once the bulk of the stain has been removed in the appropriate way, one of two other treatments should be given as soon as possible. Again, promptness prevents the stain from setting or intensifying. Although results may not be as complete as if treated by a professional cleaner, the stain is reduced at least.

Here are the two follow-up treatments with the stains they are most effective in removing. Why not clip them out and tack them up in a convenient place, since no one can ever think of the right thing to do in an emergency?

1. Mix two teaspoons neutral (non-alkaline) detergent in 1 pint of lukewarm water.

Squeeze mixture on the spot and blot up with damp cloth or sponge. Then squeeze plain water on the area and blot with a dry cloth.

This treatment works well on ink stains, if it's applied soon after the ink itself has been blotted up. It should also work for spilled shoe or furniture polish, egg and gelatin stains.

2. Mix 1/2 cup white vinegar and 1/2 cup lukewarm water. Squeeze on the spot, allow it to remain for two or three minutes, then absorb with clean cloths. Follow with plain water and blot.

This second method is needed after stains from alcohol, tea, coffee and soft drinks have been treated by the first method. A combination of the first treatment followed by the second one is effective for liquid glue.

Fresh fruit stains on tablecloths can be stubborn and fresh peach, pear, cherry and plum worst of all. Stains from these four fruits should be sponged with cool water. Work a little glycerine or soapless shampoo into the stain and let it stand for several hours. Then apply a few drops of white vinegar and after a minute or two, rinse thoroughly with water.

To remove stains of other fruits, boiling water is the specific. Pour it over and through the stain from a height of about three feet.

Never use soap or ammonia on any spot since these two household cleaners only help to set stains.

Great American Sport-Horseshoes

The clang of a horseshoe against a metal stake in city park or vacant corner lot attracts onlookers and would-be players like magic. Since you can't find old-fashioned sports and athletes enjoy horseshoes, horseshoe pitch or pitch—whichever you call it—it's a good game to set up on the home property.

No matter what the age or skill of the players, this is a game that requires comparatively little space, no special surface, and equipment that is easy to come by. An area 10 feet wide and 40 feet long is adequate. A section of the lawn is a good location. It needn't be fine lawn, although horseshoe pitch will cause little damage. The coarse wild grass that covers the vacant lot or the weed-infested rear lawn do equally well for this game.

If men are going to do most of the playing, stakes should be anchored 40 feet apart. A distance of 30 feet is permissible for women players. A half dozen real horseshoes begged or bought from the riding stable and two strong wooden stakes from the lumberyard or two 3-foot lengths of galvanized iron pipe from the plumber are all the equipment a family needs. A set of four horseshoes and two stakes may be store-bought.

The pipes or wooden stakes must be anchored at the proper distance apart so that only 10 inches is above ground level as a target.

Pitching boxes around the stakes mean little or no damage to the grass even if someone pitches a few every evening week after week. Without the boxes, grass will be worn down or earth hollowed out around the stakes. Outline each pitching box with strips of hard wood, 4 inches wide and at least 1 1/2 inches thick. A 4-foot pitching box is ample, 2 feet may do. For the two boxes strips of lumber are cut to length and nailed together. They are sunk 2 inches in the ground.

Clay rather than ordinary soil is recommended to fill the boxes. Clay bakes hard in the sun, packs down when wet.

A good thick turf maintained between the two pitching boxes will offset damage to the lawn. Fertilizing helps to thicken grass. Few property owners bother to fertilize their lawn in early summer, but a feeding now at about half the rate of the spring application is advantageous for game-playing areas. Reseeding thin spots in fall and spring also is beneficial.

Everyone thinks he knows how to play. There are no rules; for example, a person stands at the side of the box to pitch. And rules for scoring. If a rule book doesn't come with the equipment, talk with some of the clubsters, check local recreation centers and work out your own enjoyable family version for this traditional game.

BORING UNDERGROUND.
STANTON, Mo. (UPI)—Twenty geology students from all over the nation are serving as cave guides this summer at Meramec Caverns here. The first thing they had to learn, according to cave director Lester B. Dill, was to tell jokes while conducting their tours. Otherwise, he said, they would be too technical—and boring.

How to Cook All Day at The Beach

Want to spend a whole day at beach or lake, even breakfast time? Then take a tip from the people who live in the sun all year round, and cook and eat your breakfast outdoors right at the scene. Of course, have a little something to eat very early in the morning before you start, perhaps juice, cereal and coffee. After you arrive at the shore, make the main part of your morning meal outdoors, like a Hawaiian "luau" or native feast. Then you'll still have lots of sunny hours before you.

Here's an easy menu for your cook-outside breakfast:
Grilled Individual Steaks with Grilled Bananas in Peel, Coconut-Topped Rolls, Campfire Cocoa

Get the coals going, set the steaks to sizzling, put on maple-dripped bananas in their peel—and a wonderful feast is under way with the very least work imaginable. The liquid sweetener for your beach breakfast, maple-blended syrup, gives an exotic glaze to the bananas and enhances their flavor in a new way.

The rolls can be glazed with maple-blended syrup and topped with coconut the night before the breakfast, and then just barely heated in aluminum foil at the coolest part of the grill. Conveniently enough, the cocoa is made at the scene with portable milk—that's rich, evaporated milk that comes in cans—and since you've got your maple blended syrup along with you to make the bananas, use it to sweeten the cocoa, too. It's a delicious outdoors treat.

Bananas Grilled in Peel
Take a banana that has all-yellow or slightly green-tipped peel. That's because a less-ripe banana will stay firm during cooking. With a knife, make a lengthwise slit in the banana peel. Lifting the slit peel just a little with knife or fingers, drizzle in a little maple-blended syrup all along the slit. Now put the banana to grill on a grate over the glowing coals. The peel will turn black. The fruit inside will develop an extraordinary, mellow flavor everyone will like. To eat the fruit, you just pull aside the peel and with a fork or spoon, eat the cooked fruit inside.

More than 160 cases of beer were stolen over the weekend from the M. Powell and Son Cartage Company. Miss Elsie Mae Keeping left Sunday by plane for St. Paul, Minnesota, for a week's visit with relatives.

In no case will the checks be over $10.00. At the annual school election held in Northville last week, Dr. Harold Todd and George Stalker were made members.

Community College Needed

A recent survey of high school students in Livonia, Plymouth, Redford, South Redford, Redford Union, Clarenceville and Garden City shows an overwhelming desire for a community college.

We advocate the construction of such a college and suggest that its emphasis be on electronics, because such an emphasis would help attract a new, booming industry which will give us an economic hedge against the violent ups and downs of the auto industry.

Prospective businesses judge a community in many ways, and one important criterion is the educational facilities available to provide capable help in an increasingly complex industrial situation.

A community college, of course, can be of great benefit to the individual student and young parents who are concerned about the future high cost of education at colleges far away from home.

There is also the intangible, but important benefit to a community which accrues just from having a college around. A community college, as good libraries do, adds stature to a community.

The desire revealed in the survey of students ought to be quickly supported by adults in our area. It makes good sense.

Parents Abandon Leadership

In the rush to the suburbs many people justify the move as a search for a decent place to live. Sometimes they think they are escaping "city problems" such as street prowling, juvenile gangs.

A gang fight in Redford last week focuses our attention again on the fact that a move to suburbs is no guaranteed annual escape from human problems.

It's easy to think that such problems as juvenile delinquency are solely problems of urban areas, but occurrences like the Redford knifing last week have a way of shattering adult complacency.

The belief that a move to the suburbs solves all social problems for the individual is false. It is born of the human tendency to think you can escape human problems by leaving them to someone else, in this case a city.

Sooner or later we must face up to the gang war down the street and quit running away from tough problems. At best, a new life in the suburbs offers a chance to dig into community problems in the early stages before they get too large.

But in Livonia citizens recently had a chance to expand support of the parks and recreation program by voting an increase in tax. They didn't do it.

We are sure that more parks are not the total answer. Many of our larger cities have plenty of them.

What is it then that we don't have? It's a failure of parental concern at least, and probably of parental discipline. It's a thing called responsible leadership in the family group.

Adults who find their success only in more material possessions and sensations of the moment can hardly expect their kids to be enthusiastic, responsible self-disciplined young adults.

And that is just as true in the suburbs as in Paradise Valley.

'If Your Name Is Lydia'

LYDIA, requested by a reader who did not sign his name.

There is an inscription on a tombstone in Oak Grove Cemetery, at Vineyard Haven, Massachusetts that says, "John and Lydia that lovely pair."

A whale killed him, he & body lies here . . .

This inscription, commemorating a young woman who died in childbirth, and her husband, dates from 1770.

Somewhere else in Massachusetts one Lydia Burnett lies buried. She died, aged 91, in 1816. All this proves that the name Lydia has long been in use in our country.

Where did we get it from? It is a Greek name, and simply means "a woman from Lydia." The one Lydia for whom this appellation spread was an early Christian convert from Lydia, an ancient kingdom in Western Asia Minor.

Lydia is mentioned in the Acts of the Apostles, and we know about her is that she hailed from the city of Thyatira in Lydia, settled at Philippi in Macedonia, and was converted there by St. Paul. As far as is known, she was the first Christian convert St. Paul made in Europe.

We are inclined to believe that women did nothing but housework or spinning and weaving in bygone times. Many records show this was so. Lydia, for instance, was a business woman, "a seller of purple."

The city Thyatira, her home town, was famed for purple dyes. Purple, a color of a shade varying between crimson and violet, formerly called "crimson" and in Latin "purpura" was so named from the shellfish purpura which was the material from which the famous dye was manufactured.

It was in antiquity a highly valued substance, and extremely costly. That's why robes dyed with it could be afforded only by the well-to-do; they were worn as a mark of imperial or royal rank.

Lydia seems to have been a successful business woman. After she was baptized, together with members of her household, she invited the Apostle and his companions to come and live in her house.

A noted character in a comedy is "Lydia Languish." She is the young heroine in Richard Brinsley Sheridan's play "The Rivals." Lydia is the niece and ward of the even more widely remembered Mrs. Malaprop whose name became a synonym for who mis-applies words.

Her appellation, by the way, is made up from the French words "mal a propos," meaning "out of place," "inappropriately."

One "Lyddy Russel" had the misfortune to be considered a witch. It is said she followed a schooner out to sea, and raised a hauling storm, for which the captain of the schooner, one Ezra Coffin, shot Lyddy dead with a silver bullet.

This was, it seems, the accepted procedure against witches. Lyddy's body was washed ashore, a silver bullet in her breast.

"When You Retire"

By JOHN BAY

Most of us live lives so devoid of high adventure that it's a treat to meet a man like Sasha Siemel, 70. This bronzed, bearded, big-game hunter looks like a robust version of Commander Whitehead of Schweppes fame! He takes his adventure in big gulps in the Brazilian jungle where he's the only white man in history to hunt Jaguars with a spear.

"Ever since I was a boy I've craved adventure," said Siemel when I caught up with him in New York the other day. "I ran away from home in Latvia when I was 16, worked my way by ship to Brazil, and embarked on a youthful career prospecting for gold and diamonds.

"I loved the wild, rugged jungles and natives who had the courage to face a man-killing jaguar with nothing but a spear. Jaguars, of course, are the most vicious animals on this continent and attain weights as high as 350 pounds. They'll charge anything when angry or concerned, and their charge has all the thrust and intensity of canned lightning.

"I began studying the techniques of native hunters and after several years of observation and experimentation learned to hunt jaguars with a spear.

"This led to working for ranchers whose herds were being depleted by jaguars, and to commissions from zoos to capture jaguars alive for their collections.

"At 40 I embarked on a new career as a professional guide for big game hunters who came to Brazil from all over the world to hunt the big cats. I also began photographing hunting safaris and jungle life.

"But life really began for me ten years later. I had reached the half-century milestone when I happened to lead a hunting party which included a beautiful young woman from Pennsylvania. I considered myself a confirmed bachelor but romance flowered just like in the movies and soon we were married. Today we have four children ranging from 5 to 13.

"We divide our time between Brazil and the U.S. During our stay in the States I lecture, show my movies of hunting expeditions, and write for sports publications. Then we head back to the jungle where I resume my work as a hunter and guide."

Siemel, it should be noted, is an unusual physical specimen and enjoys perfect health. "I attribute my health and vigor to regular exercise," he told me firmly. "In Brazil I get all the exercise I need in my work, but when I'm in the States I follow a series of bending, stretching, and lifting exercises every day.

"I'm convinced," he concluded, "that most health problems among older people today stem from the lack of regular physical exercise. Another factor may be man's boredom with sedentary occupations. I'm lucky to be in a line of work which is both physically demanding and mentally exciting," he concluded, "and I only wish I could share it with everyone."

(If you would like a free list of "Basic Health Rules for Older People" write to this column co. (this paper) enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Seek Solution to Inflation Creep

By Roger W. Babson's Staff

Farsighted businessmen, economists, and political leaders are genuinely fearful of inflation. Even the psychological effect of this economic threat can lead to serious imbalances, as businessmen, investors, and consumers alike gear their thinking and actions to the prospect of further price advances.

Although deficit spending on the part of the government has been responsible for much of the inflation of recent years, this factor would wane in influence if the anticipated balancing of the nation's budget could be effected during the next few months. This would leave as the chief remaining source of danger the persistent upward spiral of direct and indirect wage costs.

The recent business recession brought this danger sharply into focus.

Normally, the cost of manpower — as is the case with other factors of production — responds to the fundamental law of supply and demand. During periods of business prosperity and full employment, competition for available labor causes an uplift in wage costs.

By the same token, during slack business periods, wage costs should decline somewhat in reflection of the lessened demand for workers and the increase in the number of workers seeking employment. This natural balance has been frustrated, however, by top-heavy union power.

The 1957-58 business adjustments saw no letup in the pressures for higher pay rates and fringe benefits. Statistics show that raises were numerous throughout the recession.

Hence, though prices of basic commodities and other operating costs reflected the business slow down, there was no accompanying downward adjustment of wage costs.

The current vigorous business recovery has given labor leaders new grounds for making stiff demands, and it is doubtful that even President Eisenhower's plea for labor's co-operation in the battle against inflation will be heeded. Hence, coming months are likely to see a wave of concessions to labor which will push wage costs even higher.

Bible Comment:

Bible Chronicles Man's Reaching Toward God

The history of religion among the Jews, which produced the Bible; the Old Testament in its entirety, and the New Testament in its beginnings, is the story of the search for God, the truth concerning man himself, his relations with his fellow men, his responsibilities and destiny in a world of right and wrong, and all the mysteries of life, suffering, and death.

Revelation did not come all at once. The Bible in its many books offers the surest evidence that, as the Bible itself says, "holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost."

The evidence is of the Bible growing out of human experience. The writers of the Bible had to experience it, before they could write it.

The experience began, as the Bible itself shows, in a dim apprehension of the nature of God, far removed from the vision of God in the face of Jesus Christ, or from the visions of the great Hebrew prophets.

No view of the Bible is true to the Bible itself that does not take into account the factor of progressive revelation, of progress in the search for God and the knowledge of Him.

But, having said that, the nature and meaning of that progression must not be misunderstood. It does not mean that earlier perceptions were untrue; only that they were partial and inadequate.

They were way-points in man's quest of God, glimmerings toward the full realization of the "Light of the World" in Jesus.

Handwriting Analysis By Lucille Williams

(Due to the fact that I'm having such a wonderful time at Rice's Rustic Resort in Upper Michigan I'm staying an extra week, so the column is composed of letters from people up here, mostly Plymouth people. The letters sent in to the column will follow next week when I return.)

Dear Lucy:
Will you come up, for several weeks?
Your friend,
Peter Guenther

Dear Peter:
With your permission I used your letter and, of course, I'm here and loving every minute of it.

Your writing is so loaded with creativeness and constructive ability I have to look hard to find the other things. You can build, form, create, put together and construct most anything.

You have a good memory and you follow through to the finest detail. Your pride is exceptional; it must be right and complete.

There is a desire for physical activity but you hold no suppression. You do things slow and easy but thorough.

You like small responsibilities and enjoy them. There is a reserve of philosophical and spiritual thinking that can be drawn on when needed. Subconsciously it's there, full strength, just waiting to be used when necessary.

You're open minded and receptive to adding more knowledge and learning in any way.

You have well balanced organization; a place for everything and everything in its place. Things just must be right and go along smoothly for you, and boy can you keep a secret when you're told.

Dear Lucy:
I have just finished reading "Gone With the Wind," enjoyed it very much. It's very interesting and we're having a lot of fun listening to everyone's handwriting analysis.
Jean Chaney

Dear Jean:
You have a very quick active mind, and what you don't understand you'll find out by reading, studying and investigating.

Dad's a "Budding" Genius

Time to start planting flowers again, so here's a few details about the Fowler Garden Preservation System.

Youngsters used Dad Fowler's garden as a short cut to the playground. He had a tough time keeping them out until he started a new system.

He called the small try together and had them print their names on cards. The cards were put on stakes near every clump of flowers. Right away, each kid began to root for "his" particular plants to come up first, voluntarily kept trespassers off "his" area — and Dad's garden thrived!

From where I sit, there's a system for just about everything . . . even for getting along with people! The best one I know is tolerance. It means respecting your neighbor's preferences as well as your own. For instance, I prefer an occasional glass of beer with dinner. You may like iced tea. If we accept each other's choice, we're on our way to making our friendship "flower."

Department Seeks Mineral Rights Too

LANSING — Conservation Department officials have proposed an exchange with the federal government which would give the State ownership to mineral rights on lands in the Swan Creek wildlife experiment station.
Sought by the Department are mineral rights to lands on which the State presently holds the surface rights. In exchange, the State would trade its mineral rights on national forest lands in Michigan where the federal government owns the surface rights.
The amount of acreage which would be involved has not yet been determined.
As proposed, the State would acquire mineral rights to lands in Swan Creek, Ottawa Marsh, Miner Lake and Crooked Lake areas. These areas either are, or will be, major concentration sites for waterfowl.
Acquisition of these rights would avert a recurrence of the controversial incident which arose early this year when the federal government permitted drilling for oil and gas within this popular goose shooting area.
Drilling was conducted on state-owned lands where the government held the mineral rights. It proved fruitless as had twelve other attempts.
Federal officials have not acted upon the Department's proposal.

School System Has Come Long Way Since Pioneer Days

(This is the seventh in a series on Plymouth's history written for the Plymouth Historical Society in 1930-31 by the late Mrs. Nettie Dibble.)
The settlers of Plymouth were mostly New Englanders or of New England descent, who had enjoyed the advantages of and fully appreciated common schools education. As soon as the first rude wants of life were provided for—a school was established.
The school was a rough log cabin, the same as the settlers' dwellings. Seats were hewn slabs with pegs for legs and without backs.
The first school in Plymouth was located on the Shattuck hill opposite the entrance to Riverside Cemetery. In the early days, there was a log school on what is known as the Marcus Miller farm—corner of North Territorial road and Moreland Avenue, and one on the J.C. Peterhans farm; also one on Golden Road on the John Van Imagen farm now owned by Frank Palmer; this last was known as the Rutter District.
One known as the Bradner school was located on land adjoining the Charles Packard farm. Among the teachers of the Bradner school were: L.L. G.M., and Sarah Shattuck, Nancy Dean, Christiana Miller, and Zerah Burr. While among the pupils are found the names Ledyard, Bradner, Chaffee, Safford, Cramer, Burr and Terry.
Some of the early teachers of the Butner School were Mary and Lorena Fairman, Kate and Anna Clayton, and Caroline Sackett. Among the pupils were Van Imagen, Westfall, James, Adams, McNulty, Moreland and Clayton families.
The school on the J.C. Peterhans farm was known as the Red school house. Some of the teachers were Darius Boughton, O.D. Power, L.K. Hough, Orrin Hough, John Eliot, John Ramsdell, Margaret Clayton, Juliette Winans, Henrietta Harte, Clementina Steele, Sarah Shattuck, and Cordeall Brealety. Among the pupils were the names Shattuck, Whipple, Barker, Bennett, Waterman, Cranford, Newman, Jackson, Williams, Snell, Sly and Hudson.
The first frame school house was built in 1830, just west of Dr. Kimble's residence on Penniman Avenue. This was school district No. 6, until consolidated with the other schools into District No. 1 in 1853.
The land on which this school stood was bought in 1863 by Mr. E.J. Penniman. Later a large school building was erected on Ann Arbor Street just below the Pelham house. One of the early teachers in this school was George A. Starkweather.
The May, Roe and Shafer families attended this school, also Mary Fralick, (Mrs. C. W. Valentine), Emma Packard (Mrs. Oscar Fraser), and Margaret Cramer (Mrs. H.O. Hanford).
In 1836, William Starkweather erected a rough frame school near the present corner of Main Street and Starkweather Avenue. Here a select school was carried on for a long time. Among the instructors were Lyon, Chandler, and Millet, the latter being a specialist in Greek and Latin.
The first frame school erected in what is now known as North Village was in 1837 on the lot where Elmer Willett's house now stands on North Main Street.

This school building remained until Union District No. 1 was formed in 1853, and is now the upright of a cottage east of Markham's or the King Rifle factory.
Among the early teachers of this school were Sarah Jones, Ursula Holbrook, Sarah Shattuck and Rufus Brown. Among the pupils were the Mason, McCarn, Booth, Chilson and Bentley families, Nelson and Monroe Stevens, George and J.C. Peterhans.
In about 1840, a select school, known as the Seminary, was erected on Church Street by E.J. Penniman, in memory of his first wife, Rev. Joshua Clayton, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, was one of the early teachers, followed by T.T. Lyon, Rufus Chilson, Dr. Mack Mosher, C.A. Frisbe and others.
It was in the fall of 1853 that T.T. Lyon, Chairman of the Board of School Inspectors, appointed Henry Fralick to notify the qualified voters of District No. 1 of a meeting to be held in the Seminary on November 2, 1853.
In pursuance of this order, Mr. Fralick notified every voter, 131, either personally or by a letter.
On November 2, 1853, in the afternoon, those interested in the school met in the Seminary at Plymouth Corners as the Village was then called and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: James Adams, Moderator; Henry Fralick, Director; and Isaac Heddon, Assessor.
Among the pioneers who attended this meeting were Ebenezer Penniman, Jacob Westfall, John Kellogg, Peter and Henry Fralick, Thomas May, Henry Holbrook, William Ledyard, James Moreland, George Starkweather, Joseph Brearley, William Grow, Franklin Adams, and J. Scattergood.
At this meeting Mr. Penniman offered to give the Seminary building and the lot on which it stood to the District on the condition that the site be established as the future location for the school building of District No. 1.
According to the vote of this meeting, Henry Fralick sold at public auction at the Empire House, Plymouth Corners, on November 26, 1853, the buildings and lots belonging to the eight districts which were now consolidated into District No. 1.
The teachers employed for the first year were C.A. Frisbe, First Department; Edward Adams, Second Department; and Sarah Shattuck, Third Department; and the first union school was opened in 1854 in the building given by Mr. E.J. Penniman.
Extensive repairs were made on the Seminary building and the following year a large addition was built to accommodate the increased attendance.
This building was used until 1884 when the schools were moved into the new building which had been erected on the same site at a cost of $18,000.00. During the erection of the brick building the old building which had been moved

Graduates from the Plymouth High School are admitted to the Freshman Class of all Colleges in the State, the school having been placed on the approved list of High Schools in 1901. It was largely through the efforts of Mrs. E.C. Leach that a kindergarten was added to the school in 1898.

Death of Fawns Puzzles Officers

LANSING — An unusual die-off of fawns in Sherman township of Iosco county has Conservation Department game men puzzled.
Conservation officers, following up a report by crewmen of the Au Sable Forest Products Company who discovered 17 dead fawns in the area, found three more fawns there last month.
The officers confirmed 10 of the dead fawns reported by the crewmen. The carcasses, too badly decomposed to permit autopsies by Department biologists, were concentrated within 50 feet of each other. There were no signs of predation or chemical usage in the area.

The oldest forest fire lookout station in Maine is still in operation. It was established on Squaw Mountain in 1905.

Before we go ahead with the news this week, we'd like to remind you who are reading this column to phone us with your news. We are at the above telephone number almost any hour of the day and night. (any reasonable hour, that is!) So as soon as you get home from your week-end or vacation junkies, or as soon as your visitors depart, call us while news and events are still fresh in your mind. Clip the above name and number so you'll have it at hand—but, above all, call!

We stand corrected—or at least a new record has been set on this "mileage mania" hon'—we've been talking about Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Watson and son Dennis, Jr., of Elmhurst returned the fourth of July from a two-week trip to California which covered more than 6000 miles—and this, mind you, in their Volkswagon! They took the Southern Route on the way out, stopping at many points of interest along the way. First stop was in Evanston, Ill., at the home of their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brandell. They stopped in again on their way home, this time to welcome a brand-new grandson, Bryan William, the Brandell's second child. At Phoenix, Ariz., Mrs. Watson said the temperature was 112 degrees, but that once up in the mountains, it was considerably cooler. In San Francisco, they crossed the beautiful Golden Gate Bridge, from which they saw the San Quentin prison island in the Bay. They spent a day at Disneyland, near Los Angeles, which was a big thrill for them all, especially Dennis Jr. They spent a couple of days at Laguna Beach in Southern California, and on their way home via the Northern Route, spent a day at Yosemite Park. The Watsons are looking forward to seeing all the slides they took along the way. On their return, the Watsons went to Forton, Mich., Mrs. Watson's home town, where they joined in the street celebration of that city's 125th anniversary festival.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Scovill of Marlowe had as their guests for a week over the Fourth his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Eckhart Gauger and three children from St. Louis Park, Minn. During their stay the Scovills showed the Gaugers some of the points of interest in and around Detroit—the Zoo, Greenfield Village, the Ford Rotunda, the Ambassador Bridge and a brief glimpse of Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Tunge of Brookline and two of their three children, Susan and Shannon, returned a week ago Wednesday from a week's visit with her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bryan, at their home in Raleigh, N.C. Mr. and Mrs. Roy VanBuren and children Gary and Sandy and nephew Billy Dietz of Marlowe spent the week-end of the Fourth at a cottage on Lake St. Clair near Algonac. Saturday they all enjoyed the fireworks up there.

Mr. and Mrs. James Stasky have sold their home on Oakview and will move the first of August to their new, larger home on Bakewell St. in Wayne.

Also on the first of August, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Stofa and two-year-old daughter Monarae will leave their home on S. Main for the sunny skies of Florida. They will spend some time looking the state over and hope to buy a business as well as a new home.

Members of the WWI Veterans Barracks 267 and Auxiliary gave a farewell party Thursday night for Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Boyce who have sold their home and are going to Florida to take up residence. The party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Art Carlson in Northville, and those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Lowes—he is Commander of Barracks 267 and she is president of the Auxiliary, Mrs. Evelyn Dolmage of Farmington, Mr. Ernest Hanson of Northville, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Willgus and Mrs. Thyra Wickstrom of Plymouth and Mrs. Pauline Sims of Northville. The Boyces were presented with a lovely parting gift, a travel alarm clock. Ice cream and cake were served for refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. Willgus, very close friends of the Boyces, will drive down to Florida with them and during their two-week vacation there will visit many former friends now in Florida—Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harney, the Shelines, the Rogers, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Brown, who have returned from their vacation here.

Little Loretta Harper, seven-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Harper of Northville, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey K. Reims of Northville, returned to her home Thursday from Ford Hospital following exploratory surgery during which doctors found a tiny hole in her heart. It is hopeful this will heal in time.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Williams of Brookline had as their houseguests last week her brother's wife, Mrs. Ronald Stephens and her three children from Newberry, Mich.

Mrs. Bessie Ziegma of Elyria, Ohio, dropped in on her sister-in-law, the A.J. Ziegmans of Marlowe, for a short visit Wednesday night. She left Thursday to join her husband, Oliver, who is a captain on the Great Lakes freighters—has been for about 13 years—aboard a freighter bound for Hamilton, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle McArthur and two daughters of Harrisville, Mich., arrived this Sunday for a short visit with her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stobbe and family of Marlowe.

Mr. and Mrs. G.W. Swick of Elmhurst spent this week-end water-skiing on Mio Pond at Mio for a quiet weekend they left their three children in the care of their grandmother. The Swicks were the guests of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Sturm of Elmhurst and Mr. and Mrs. Terry Sturm, at the Sturm cottage.

Mrs. Lucy Albright of Chicago has spent this week and last visiting her sons and daughters in Plymouth. She has spent some time with each of the families—Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Albright of Brookline, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Cunningham of Joy, and the Donald Thompsons of Deer.

Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Burdson of Northern and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A.L. Allison of Elmhurst, spent Thursday evening in Williamston for a wedding reception at the Baptist Church there. The reception was for the Allison's grandson, Timothy Keese, and his bride, who were married June 27 in Des Plaines, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Austin and daughter Carol of Brookline returned a week ago Sunday from their cottage on Silver Lake near Clare, where they spent a pleasant 10-day vacation. Last Sunday the Austins entertained their daughter Mr. and Mrs. James Downing and family of Northville for the day and celebrated Mrs. Downing's birthday with a family dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. John Moore from Texarkana, Ark., are spending two weeks visiting her sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Batterton and family, at their home on Corrine.

Mrs. Clarence Bradford of Marlowe, son Clarence Eastering, her mother Mrs. Clarence Bischoff of Oakview, and sister-in-law, Mrs. Eileen Bischoff of Detroit spend the day Thursday aboard the SS Aquarama, going to Cleveland and back. During their day on board the ship, which Mrs. Bradford described in glowing terms, they enjoyed some of the activities available—shuffleboard and dancing—and had a lovely dinner affair.

Rev. and Mrs. Harold Reese and son John from Williamston spent the day a week ago Friday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A.L. Allison, at their home on Elmhurst.

Back at their home on Sheldon from a three-week tour of that other Sunshine State—Florida—are the Keeth Keeths and children Randy and Deborah. They, too, compiled an impressive mileage record on their way—over 4500 miles—down through the state on the Atlantic side, back up the Gulf side, and a "side tour" to Washington, D.C. The Keeths spent a week in St. Petersburg with an aunt, Mrs. Mary Baker, and while there visited friends Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith in nearby Tampa. Another week was spent in Miami Beach, and included sight-seeing trips to Monkey Jungle, Barron's Jungle, the Sea Aquarium, Africa, U.S.A., and the everglades. They also visited Miss Allen's Reptile Farm in Silver Springs. Although Mrs. Keeth says they don't "go" very much, we'd agree that when they do, they certainly have an interesting time of it.

Brenda Allen, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Allen of Brookline went into St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor this Monday to be operated on for a chest defect. Brenda is making a scrap book of mementos of her experience and would be thrilled to receive cards from her friends and classmates in the second grade at Smith School.

Post Office Fight Against Obscenity Gains Momentum

A four-fold program of action by the United States Post Office Department, aimed at stamping out the giant mail order obscenity racket, was reported here today by Postmaster Timpona.

Under the leadership of Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, he said, local postal officials throughout the country are cooperating in carrying out a highly intensified drive against the "vicious misuse of the mails."

The Post Office program is:

1. To draw maximum public attention to the menace of this racket.
2. To urge parents to help apprehend the mailers of filth to their children.

3. To help mobilize community support behind adequate law enforcement of local ordinance or state laws when these purveyors are apprehended and brought to court.
4. To rally public opinion behind new and stiffer legislation on obscenity.

Coupled with this program for gaining public and legislative cooperation, the Post Office is greatly enlarging its efforts to apprehend mailers of obscene materials and, wherever possible, to bar their use of the mails or bring about their prosecution.

Postmaster Timpona reported that highly encouraging progress has been made in bringing public attention to the growing menace of the obscenity racket. Postmaster General Summerfield has expressed deep gratification for the interest that newspaper publishers and editors, and leaders of national organizations and civic groups, have shown in advising parents and the public generally of the growing mail order obscenity menace and telling them how they can help eliminate it.

This cooperation by parents, he emphasized, is essential. "Since the Post Office itself never opens first class mail, we must depend upon the citizens into whose homes pornographic material is sent to provide the information that will enable us to apprehend the senders."

CHICAGO (UPI)—A space-saving combination television set and stereophonic record player was introduced at the summer International Home Furnishings Show here.

The set, manufactured by Hoffman Electronics, contains six speakers for TV sound and input jacks into which an AM-FM tuner or record changer can be plugged.

HOPE, TOO—City fathers of Shullsburg, Wis., prettying the town with new street signs, found they had Faith, Judgment, and Peace and Goodness—but no Hope. However, there will soon be Hope for Shullsburgers, including Kay Morriser. An undedicated street has been given status—as well as the name, "Hope."
