Which is better: a magnetic cartridge or a ceramic cartridge?
This is a question that has been asked since the start of high fidelity. It's hard to find a person who will discuss the subject impartially.
One who should be able to is Roger Anderson, chief cartridge development engineer for Shure Brothers, Inc., which makes both kinds and presumably should not care which sells better.
Theoretically, Anderson said, a ceramic cartridge should be as good as a magnetic cartridge, but he added: "Practical considerations make it difficult at this stage of the game to make a ceramic cartridge as good as the best magnetic."
A ceramic stereo cartridge contains two ceramic elements which produce a minute electrical current when twisted. The stylus is attached to these elements.
When the stylus responds to groove, it transmits them to the ceramic elements, producing twisting and turning which makes electrical current.
A magnetic cartridge works on the principle that changing the relative position of a magnet and a coil produces changes in electrical current. In some magnetic cartridges, the stylus is attached to the coil, which moves within the field of stationary magnets.
In other cartridges, the coil is stationary. The stylus is attached to the magnet, which moves in response to stylus vibration. Because the magnet is generally smaller than the coil, it requires less force to move the stylus.
Anderson said the ceramic cartridge is superior to the magnetic cartridge in three respects:
—The ceramic's electrical output is 10 to 30 times greater than that of a magnetic. That makes it possible to skip a preamplifier in using a ceramic with a high fidelity rig.
—A ceramic automatically equalizes any changes in modification of frequencies on a recording. A magnetic requires equalization.
—A ceramic is cheaper to make than a magnetic.
Anderson lists three advantages magnets have over ceramics.
—A magnetic cartridge is "100 per cent" more compliant. In a magnetic cartridge, the stylus varies the make-up of the magnetic field. In a ceramic cartridge, the stylus must twist the ceramic element.
—The frequency response of a magnetic cartridge is half an octave greater than that of a ceramic. This is because the high compliance of a magnetic makes it possible to use a stylus of smaller mass, which, in turn, is more responsive to high frequencies.
—Separation of stereo channels above 10,000 cycles is better with a stereo cartridge. The cartridge must respond to both sides of the channel, yet keep them separate. "Crosstalk" occurs when the cartridge mixes channels.

Rocks, Redford Union Begin 1960 Competition

Cagers Open New Year With Statistical Edge

Plymouth's basketball team will carry a 3-1 record and some commendable statistics into their first battle of the New Year with Redford Union at 8:30 p.m. Friday.

In addition, coach Jim Doyle's charges will face a team with a 1-1 Suburban Six League record and an overall 3-3 total. Redford Union has played three more games than Plymouth, having participated in the Northwest Suburban Christmas Invitational Tournament.

Plymouth has also won one and lost one in league play, but overall the Rocks have battled to three victories.

Plymouth has done this largely by scrappy play. In every game they have faced taller teams and are considered the shortest team in the league.

The statistic sheet of the first four games, however, shows where the Rocks have outwitted their taller opponents. Plymouth has gathered in 53 stray balls from opponent bad passes and fumbles, while losing only 15 the same way.

Randy Egloff with eleven leads the Rock ball hawks, but he is followed closely by Wayne Sparkman with nine thefts. John Salan and Dave Mynatt have corralled eight opponent bobbles each.

Plymouth has shot 196 times and made 59 goals for a 30.1 average, while opponents have shot 195 and made only 56 for a 28 per cent mark.

Egloff has the highest average of a working regular with 26 out of 72 for a 36.1 record. Right behind the Rock Captain is Don Argo with 10 out of 33 for 30.3 per cent. Jim Thompson has a 12 of 39 for 30.8 average.

"Statistics can be a little misleading," Coach Doyle points out. "In the case of shots from the floor, a lot depends on what kind of a shot game. It's an important one, because the Rocks return to their home court the following week to meet Allen Park. If they win this one, Plymouth could have a 5-1 record very quickly. And that's a good way to start any new year.

Recreational Swim Hours Listed Here

In lieu of a trip to Florida, there is swimming for Plymouth residents right in their own back yard... well in their own high school pool anyway.

Plymouth High School swimming coach John McFall sent out the following New Year's reminders on swimming activities at the high school pool:

Monday... Family Night
Tuesday... Mother & Daughter
Wednesday... Father & Son
Thursday... Open Swimming
Friday... No Swimming
Saturday... Grades 1-5 1-2 p.m. Grades 6-12 2-3 p.m.

McFall added that the charge for students is 25 cents and for adults, 50 cents. If there is a home varsity swimming meet on Thursday, there is no swimming on Thursday of that week.

The program runs from January 7 to 9:30 p.m. and continues every Monday night for 12 weeks in the Plymouth High School Gym, according to Adult Education Director Herb Woolweaver.

The sessions are open to any male past high school age and costs $5.00 for the twelve week program. Registration can be made at the Adult Education and Recreation office at Plymouth High School.

Volley Ball, Hockey Begin Soon

A Men's Volleyball program will begin January 11 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. and continue every Monday night for 12 weeks in the Plymouth High School Gym, according to Adult Education Director Herb Woolweaver. The sessions are open to any male past high school age and costs $5.00 for the twelve week program. Registration can be made at the Adult Education and Recreation office at Plymouth High School. In addition Woolweaver issued a reminder that Plymouth recreation now includes hockey programs. Plymouth is sponsoring three teams for 15-year-olds and younger. Additional information can be had by contacting Woolweaver at the Plymouth High School.

Tankers Take to Road, Aim for Ann Arbor Win

Three meets away from home inaugurate the beginning of 1960 for John McFall's undefeated swimming team. One of them will be the toughest dual meet of the season.

Plymouth will paddle over to Redford Union tomorrow afternoon for the first dual event of the New Year and follow that with a meet at Allen Park, January 14th.

Both meets are viewed by McFall as "tuneups" for the Ann Arbor contest on Saturday, January 16th. McFall figures Ann Arbor as the toughest team on the schedule.

In six years of competition, Plymouth has never been able to defeat Ann Arbor, although in the 1956-57 season they lost by only one point.

Last season five points separated the two schools and Ann Arbor went on to win its second state championship in the preceding three years. The other year, they finished second in the state.

Redford Union has a 1-1 Suburban Six League record, but a 2-1 overall mark. In league competition they have beaten Belleville, but lost to Allen Park.

Allen Park had a couple of swimmers out of the Redford Union meet. It might have been different had these two participated. McFall says, "It's their second year of swimming and they have a

By BILL NELSON

The New Year's weekend with its totaling up and resolving activity has slipped by and now the 1960 challenges are upon us, especially for three gentlemen of Plymouth sports and recreation.

For Jim Doyle and John McFall it comes this week with Redford Union athletic teams. For Herb Woolweaver, it is the winter Adult recreation and education program, which begins registration a week or so from now.

Doyle surveyed his 3-1 basketball record to date and expressed pleasure at the fact that Plymouth has lost only 10 balls during the first four games due to bad passes.

"John Salan has done an outstanding job," Doyle said, "when you consider that he has lost the ball only twice by bad passes and that he brings it up the floor about 25 or 30 times a game."

The five-foot-six guard has been part of a team effort that Doyle calls a "good hustling defense which has brought the victories. It means that nearly every time we get the ball," Doyle said, "we are getting a shot off."

Doyle also praised Jim Thompson for a "steady job" and Don Argo for his shooting and "rebounding work." Argo is second to Egloff in rebounds. Randy has 57 and Argo 25. He also had a pat on the back for Wayne Sparkman who has played "good defense and picked up nine loose balls."

But Doyle saved his best comments for Jim Ralston, who has been red hot in practice lately. "He may break loose and be the surprise player of 1960," Doyle said.

The case coach doesn't figure that his players will have additional trouble in the Redford Union gym, although it seems a little smaller. Swimming coach John McFall, however, believes a foreign pool may make a difference of ten points in the final score of a swimming meet.

"The turns are a little different at each pool," he adds, "and the home swimmers usually know their own pools better. In addition, spring boards for the divers vary at every pool."

Be that as it may, he doesn't expect much trouble from Redford Union, and his unbeaten team is clearly pointing towards the Ann Arbor meet.

"They don't have as many individual stars as last year," McFall said of the State Champions, "but they have a strong and well-balanced team."

"They have one of the best pools in the state and we shouldn't have any trouble with the pool, although the boards may give their divers an advantage because they are more familiar with them."

"Ann Arbor," he adds, "will be our toughest dual meet of the season." Translated it means an unbeaten dual meet season for Plymouth, if they win.

Over in the Adult Education and Recreation office, Herb Woolweaver is getting ready for another big time of activity when Plymouth adults register for the 1960 winter programs.

There's even a program for boys and girls entitled "Tramboling," which we are assured is an activity designed to take "children of any age" from leaping and bounding on the bed, to a canvass covered spring contraption built for such purposes.

Some of us should have enrolled our kids last year to avoid that bounding New Year's morning enthusiasm with which we were greeted so early this year.

Should have a New Year's morning class next year. And if that doesn't appeal to you, there is sure to be something that will in the many activities scheduled by Woolweaver.

Aliens Must Report Address

Walter A. Sahli, District Director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, advised today that the annual alien address report program is again under way. According to Sahli, 168,000 aliens reported their addresses last year in the State of Michigan. The number this year is expected to be slightly larger. Sahli attributes this anticipated increase to additional persons coming to the State of Michigan. The Immigration official pointed out that the address reports are required by law and willful failure to comply with these requirements may lead to serious consequences. Forms with which to make the reports are available at all Post Offices and Immigration Offices. It is an easy matter to fill out one of the cards and return it to the same office. Sahli added that trained personnel will be on hand in all Immigration Offices to answer any questions.

Cadillac

Silence is the Voice of Quality

Get behind the wheel of a new Cadillac car some day soon—point its handsome hood down your favorite stretch of highway—and listen!

Except for the occasional lullaby of the passing breeze, there will be literally nothing but silence to greet your ears.

But, oh, how meaningful that silence is!

For it speaks, with irrefutable logic, of the ingenuity of Cadillac design—and of the soundness of Cadillac engineering—and of the excellence and solid integrity of Cadillac craftsmanship.

And just as silence is the voice of quality in a motor car—so quality is the product of experience.

For almost six decades, Cadillac has devoted itself exclusively to the creation of the finest motor cars that the current automotive science would permit.

So rigid, in fact, has been Cadillac's adherence to the principles of quality that the two have become virtually inseparable in the public mind.

Never before, however, has this quest for perfection been as fruitful as for 1960.

In its styling and design, in its construction and assembly, and in its attention to detail—it is, far and away, the finest Cadillac yet.

We suggest that you see this new Cadillac—and drive it—and listen to it—very soon.

You'll find, we're certain, that the quiet of a Cadillac is the most eloquent sound in motordom.

Canton Township Proud of Their Deer (and doe)

ESTHER SPRENGEL
GL 3-0194

Happy New Year, and our one wish is that more of you will call and join our column in 1960.

Sorry we didn't have a column for you last week, but we had an uninvited guest at our home, the flu. We shall see what we can do with our limited supply of information this week.

Before we get to the Christmas festivities, we must report a little new information about our Township deer. Up to a time ago, only one resident had seen our four legged friends, but now he has made his existence known to many more residents.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Mucker and a guest at their home, Mrs. Betty Hix, got a very good look at one of our deer right on the Mucker's front lawn. Being a little shy, the deer (a doe), took off for the woods behind the Mucker home on Salt Rd., with the Muckers' sons, and Jimmy Kaiser also of Salt Rd. in close pursuit. So you unbelievers, do you dare doubt so many township residents? As you noticed it was a doe, who knows, maybe we will be seeing more and more deer soon.

The 4th Busy Baker Group had their Christmas Party at the home of Sue Roberts. The girls played games and received points. At the end of the evening their points were added up from all the games and the winners with the most points turned out to be Cathy Forshoe, Gretchen Steiner, who received prizes. The games were under the direction of Pat Hawk. The girls exchanged gifts, and presented their leader, Mrs. Ira Hawk, with a gift from the group. The refreshments for the evening were made by the girls and I'm sure were delicious. Our information comes from the group's reporter, Nancy Spigarelli.

The Christmas party held by the boys of Boy Scout Troop No. 298 for their members, parents and families was a success. The Master of Ceremonies for the evening was Dan Thorpe, who read the Gospel of St. Luke, the birth of Christ. The article "Is There a Santa Claus?" was read by Scout Leader Mr. Ralph Leffer. Boy Scout Frank Harper recited, "The Night Before Christmas." A choral group comprised of 12 boys sang Christmas hymns and ballads.

The gifts the boys brought for a boy in the hospital were collected by Mr. Leffer and taken to the Ypsilanti State Hospital where they were to be distributed Christmas day. Refreshments of coffee, cookies and kool-aid were enjoyed by the group.

Each child was presented with a bag of candy and the boy scouts received a "ditty bag" made and given them by the Women's Reserve of Troop No. 298. A ditty bag, as understood, holds the words and ends used or carried by the boys on their camping trip.

The Sprengel family attended their traditional Christmas eve party at the home of my aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Zabel of Detroit. The party is always centered about the children, with the appearance of Santa Claus and his many gifts.

The following days are spent in viewing the Christmas trees of all the families. On Sunday we were host to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kaminski, my husband's parents, and on New Year's Eve, our home was the scene of a family gathering to see in the New Year. This is one time of the year that everyone, down to the youngest, is allowed to stay up until midnight (if they can make it).

The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Zabel and son, Kurt, of Livonia; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hiving and children, Karen and Kenney of Nankin Township; Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Karschnick of Redford; Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Zabel of Detroit; and Mrs. Ella Cross of the Township. I've told you what we did, what did you do?

Home from their studies at Michigan State are Fred and Ray Spigarelli, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spigarelli of Beck Rd. The fellows are spending the holidays with their parents and friends.

Home on Army leave is Lt. Bob Sylvester, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sylvester of Lotz Rd. Bob had been stationed at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., and arrived home on Dec. 18 to be with his family until Dec. 31 when he returned to his new post at Ft. Ord, California.

The Girl Scouts of Troop No. 270 held their Christmas party at the home of their leader, Mrs. Lamar Authier on Sheldon Rd. The party was held in the recreation room of the Authier home and the girls enjoyed games, prizes, and refreshments of hot dogs, potato salad, cupcakes, and ice cream. The girls took part in a grab-bag exchange of gifts and presented their leader, Mrs. Authier and co-leader, Mrs. Frederick Steiner with a potted plant for Christmas. The troop consists of 16 Girl Scouts.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Russell and family enjoyed Christmas festivities with their respective families. On Christmas Eve, the family attended a buffet dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Powell of Ann-St. in Plymouth.

Christmas day found the Russells at the home of Mr. Russell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Russell of Brookville, Plymouth. It was a special get-together and Mr. and Mrs. Russell just moved here recently from Pennsylvania. The outstanding guest at the festivities was the Robert Russell's first great grandson, Phillip Arvin. The dinner was attended by 14 members of the family.

The Wesley Kaisers are in a social whirl, Christmas day found the family at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shirey of Plymouth, with Mrs. Kaiser's parents also present, Mr. and Mrs. Fay Shirey. New Year's Eve at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Olendorf of Plymouth Hills. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wagonschutz and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shirey.

The parents and members of the Gallimore P.T.A. enjoyed the Christmas party given by the children of the school. The group enjoyed a play given by the fifth grade. The young people wrote the script, produced the play and made the scenery. The fifth and sixth grade choral group entertained the parents, under the direction of their music teacher, Mrs. Atwood. The young people did a fine job and many comments were heard on the very outstanding work Mrs. Atwood did on teaching the children harmony. All grades sang individual Christmas songs for the group.

After the program they entertained their parents and families in their rooms by serving punch and cookies. Host and hostesses for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bowman, Mr. and Mrs.

Penney and Mr. and Mrs. William Sprengel. A well organized and carried out program was realized by the parents, who enjoyed the fine work the children, their teachers and principal had done.

Mr. and Mrs. George Longwish enjoyed a Christmas get-together at the home of their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Freese. Also on hand for the festivities were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Longwish and family, Mr. and Mrs. Don Longwish and family and the Longwish's niece and family, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Batchelor and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Benoit entertained their families on Christmas day, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Benoit and Mr. Southall.

Our Fire Chief, Fred Korte, reports a comparatively quiet time for our Fire Department over the holidays. There were two runs, one on Ford Rd., a stove fire. The stove, a 1926 Moree, was set on fire by grease drippings in the tray. The occupants had the fire out when the firemen arrived. The other fire was at 4279 Cherry Hill Rd. This blaze was caused by a faulty construction in the fireplace. The damage was approximately $300. When you throw out those Christmas trees, be sure, the chief warns, they don't become a fire hazard; get them away from the house and destroy or dispose of them.

So many of our residents are down with the flu, so get well soon and call us when you are up to it.

The Reader Speaks Up:

Editor: I noticed in the December 29, 1959, issue of the Plymouth Mail that Mr. Fischer, school board secretary, is in favor of denying all church use of schools in order to be "fair" to all church groups. Several years ago one of our Plymouth schools burned. May I ask Mr. Fischer where the students attended classes until the new school was built?

It seems to me fairness and separation of church and state run on a one way street in Plymouth. Or has our constitution been changed since then?

This Is Our Michigan

FIRST OF A SERIES
If Michigan has nothing more than mere size, we would have plenty to brag about. In land and water area combined we are the biggest state east of the Mississippi river and tenth largest in the nation. The flag of Michigan proclaims dominion over 57,022 square miles of land area and nearly 40,000 square miles of water surface—a total of 96,791 square miles. Our land area covers 36,494,000 acres—larger than England or Austria... twice the size of Ireland... nearly five times as big as Switzerland. Michigan's upper peninsula... nearly one-third of the total area of the state... is as big as Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts and Rhode Island combined... and larger than either Belgium or Switzerland. Until 1959, Michigan could claim the longest coastline of any state in the Union. When Alaska entered the union, Michigan had to revise its claim. But we can still say we have the longest freshwater coastline—9,121 miles of any of the states, and rank second in total length of water frontage. Our broad expanse of Michigan territory embraces 40 per cent of the water surface of four of the five Great Lakes—Erie, Huron, Michigan and Superior. In that respect, we are far ahead of our neighboring states. Our second-ranking Wisconsin controls only 10 per cent of the Great Lakes surface. We have 11,037 inland lakes—ranking from small bodies of 10 acres of water surface (the smallest we count as a lake) to the 31.3 square-mile Houghton Lake in Roscommon County. Our streams and rivers traverse some 36,350 miles, a distance of almost one and a half times around the world. Of all the states we are indeed entitled to the proud claim of Water Wonderland, the slogan we imprint on our Michigan license plates. We are the seventh most populous state in the country... and the fastest growing state in the Midwest... and with our 23.4 per cent gain since 1950, second only to California among the industrial states recording the greatest population growth this decade. Early historical records credit a French explorer, Etienne Brule, with being the first white man known to have seen the inland empire of North America, including the vast territory which is now Michigan. Brule's trip through upper Michigan waters in 1618, on an expedition searching for a new passage to the Pacific and the Orient, beat the Pilgrims landing at Plymouth Rock by two years. Brule was only 19 when he discovered Lake Superior on his upper Great Lakes expedition while serving as a scout for Samuel de Champlain, then French governor of Canada at Quebec. Continuing Brule's explorations of the Michigan territory, Jean Nicolet—commissioned by Champlain to search for a new route to the Orient—passed through the straits of Mackinac in 1634. Seven years later, French Jesuit missionaries Isaac Jogues and Charles Raymbault built their first little mission at Sault Ste. Marie. By 1668 two other Jesuits, Fathers Jacques Marquette and Claude Dablon, were able to establish a permanent French settlement at Sault Ste. Marie. Founded more than 100 years before the American Revolution, their mission—now grown to a community of 20,000—became the nation's third oldest city. Marquette, after opening his Sault Ste. Marie mission, founded another at St. Ignace in 1671. That was the same year that Francois St. Louis in the name of King Louis XIV formally proclaimed French possession of the Sault territory and the Great Lakes area. The flag of France floated over northern Michigan outposts from that time until the arrival of the British 90 years later. (Copyright 1959 by Federated Publications, Inc.)

License Applications Are Smaller this Year

The job of filling in 1960 passenger car license applications this year will take one-third less time due to the fact that they have been reduced in size this year. According to James M. Hare, Secretary of State, this is part of the economy made possible by the "plate plus tab" system. Michigan car owners will get tabs marked "60" which will be placed over the upper right corner of the green and gold 1959 license plates. "The short form will save time for everybody," Hare said, "and should give us a heavier job of hand lettering. If the lettering is clearer and crisper our time-saving automated machinery will do a better and faster job. The smaller application will also save a considerable amount of paper and ink as well." This economy was one of many made possible through the system of making license plates serve for more than one year. Much more than the expense of metal and the work of stamping out new plates is spared the State. In the case of the smaller license applications the extra copy which had to be made out in the past was used in printing the so-called "Police Book" which is a registry of all cars licensed in Michigan. These are listed in alphabetical and numerical sequence, such as, WU 1868, WU 1869, WU 1870, and so on and is used to trace the ownership of abandoned vehicles, cars involved in hit-run accidents, and so on. Since all car owners will retain their 1959 plates with the same letters and digits, there is no need for a new police book. This saves the Department of State and the persons who buy these compilations a considerable amount of money. All branch offices in Michigan's 83 counties now have tabs and the new, smaller size, application blanks. Weight taxes and the 1960 tabs are on sale starting Monday, November 2, 1959. In Virginia there are rivers named Cowpasture, Bullpasture and Calpasture. Russia now has more than 240,800 women doctors.

PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL

After a restful Christmas vacation, PHS students are "back in the groove" as they begin preparing for final examinations. The end of the semester, Jan. 29, is a short three weeks away. Four PHS'ers are in Battle Creek today, will be there tomorrow, too, representing Plymouth at the Third Annual Michigan School Conference on Citizenship. They are Mary Newingham, Karen Rank, James Tillotson and Don Carson. Discussion groups, based on all phases of citizenship, will carry out the general theme, "Improving Community Attitudes Toward the School Through Better School Citizenship." The class of '59 still seems to be with us... Money left by the class is going to buy a tape recorder for the high school. '59 graduates, coming home for the holidays, turned out in full force at the high school Christmas Week... among those seen by this reporter were Carin Stofko, Dick Small, Hale Huber, John Van Dyke, Ginnie Sockow, Bob Westover, Frank Smith, Jim Cutler and Mary Jane West. Sports events coming up: there's a swimming meet at the PHS pool tomorrow night with Redford Union... the basketball game Friday night is at Redford Union. Red-checked tablecloths... wine bottles (empty) spouting glowing candles... travel posters decking the walls... a table overflowing with good food: Pakistan's korma plum pudding, sauerkraut, international salad... This was the scene at the International Dinner given by senior government students of Miss Gertrude Fiegel last Wednesday at Larry Livingston's home. It was lots of fun: French exchange student Herve Moritz entertained with his fire-eating trick... German Ursula Kell followed... this business of putting a burning match in your mouth must be typically European... Susan Hulsing and her other American friends just cringed... Lou Dickerson had trouble downing the helping of the Pakistani dish which he had made... so hot... Sharon Neal, an exchange student last summer, wore her Austrian dirndl to the party. Several prospective college students will be going to Ann Arbor this Saturday for the College Board Entrance Examinations... The eight-member senior executive board recently chose the graduation announcements for the class of 1960.

Skiing is Reasonable, Fun for the Whole Family

By GEORGE ADAMS
The Winter Olympics opening at Squaw Valley, Calif., on Feb. 8, will focus the attention of the most confirmed spectator sports on snowy pastimes. Olympic events will be seen and heard in movies, TV and radio (daily on the last two). This will only whet the appetite of winter sportsmen to put on their own skis and perhaps encourage non-skiers to try this exhilarating sport.

winter's use (more than last year) is evidence of how fast this sport is growing. There's a skiing area within reasonable distance of wherever you live and if the distance isn't reasonable, the airlines take you practically to the ski slopes (even some Floridians ski on snow when away from home).
Skiing is a family sport which every member can enjoy regardless of age. If you've never been skiing before, it's more fun to learn as a family group. Nothing takes the place of a snowy field, then a mild slope as you get the feel of the things, but there are self instruction books galore to teach you the language if nothing more.

How expensive skiing will be will depend on how enthusiastic you become. Some people ski only a half dozen times each winter, others save annual vacations for winter and skiing, and some move around the country with the seasons to keep on with their favorite sport. Wherever you go to ski, comfortable accommodations can be found, generally at moderate family rates. Weekend excursions help to cut the cost of transportation.

Equipment consists of proper clothing plus skis, poles and bindings. The latter close to $350. The range to outfit a child runs from about $40 to $160. Youngsters' equipment can be exchanged, as they grow, at stores in skiing centers.
The beginner, even a whole family of beginners, should have good equipment. But it needn't be so expensive that there's no money left to pay the costs of a few days or weekends of skiing.

For adults, proper clothing includes boots, pants, and parka. These, plus skis, poles and bindings can cost as little as approximately $70 or close to $350. The range to outfit a child runs from about $40 to $160. Youngsters' equipment can be exchanged, as they grow, at stores in skiing centers.
For a family of beginners, certainly the most inexpensive items should be chosen. They can be replaced gradually as members become more expert. If there are only one or two persons to consider, then be guided by your budget and the amount of skiing you expect to do each year. At one time all four members of my family skied; now only one does and he is already teaching his young son.
A ski lock for safe storage, a "nozippe," ski sharpener and similar gadgets aren't essential to enjoy skiing. Wax for skis is and so may be goggles. On accessories, it's a good rule to wait and see.

Almost as essential as clothing and equipment are reservations during the height of the season. If the destination is far enough away to mean an overnight stay, make sure before you leave home that there'll be a place to lay your head. Those who live close to a skiing center often have the advantage of day trips to a state park.

Some executives who complain they don't know whether they are coming or going should take another look. Perhaps it's just because they're standing still.
For college student fathers, Christmas is just a warm-up for second semester bills.

ALL TOGETHER — practice slopes and trails spell fun for all the family.

Historian H. A. Clark To Open Sport Car Show

SPORTS CAR SHOW time which starts January 8 at Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn, like the above. Some 50 high-performance competition cars at the show will make it the largest of its kind in the country. Most present day manufacturers in England, Italy, Germany and the United States will be represented and some cars will be shown for the first time in this country. The 1908 Locomobile Runabout above, a famous car in American racing history, is representative of the vintage cars that point the development of sports cars over the years. The exhibit runs through January 31.

DEARBORN, Mich. — Henry Austin Clark, Jr., one of the country's leading automotive historians, will talk on "Vintage Sports Cars" on Friday, Jan. 8, at 8 p.m. at the Henry Ford Museum.

He is the first speaker during the Ford Museum's Ninth Annual Sports Car Show which opens that day and continues through Jan. 31.

The show, "Sports Cars in Review," will feature nearly 50 foreign and domestic sports vehicles, with at least three making first appearances in the United States. All cars in the show are high performance vehicles designed for competitive driving.

Clark, of Southampton, N.Y., is founder and owner of the Long Island Automotive Museum, which houses one of the largest and best-known collections of antique automobiles in the United States.

Clark founded the museum in 1948, culminating an interest in antique automobiles that began in the late 1930s. He presently has more than 200 vehicles.

He is a director of the Bridgehampton Road Races Corporation, former president of the Veteran Motor Car Club of America and a founder of the Vintage Sports Car Club. He has appeared several times as commentator for Greenfield Village's Old Car Festival for the fall.

Watching Calories? Try Coffee Bavarian

WEIGHT Watchers can have their diet and eat their dessert, too.

Coffee Bavarian
(1½-quart mold; 6 servings)
One envelope unflavored gelatin, 1 cup cold water, ¼ cup sugar, ¼ cup instant coffee (as it comes from the jar), ¼ teaspoon vanilla extract, ¼ teaspoon artificial rum flavoring, ½ cup cold water, ½ cup super nonfat dry milk. Soften gelatin in 1 cup cold water in double boiler top. Add sugar and instant coffee; heat over boiling water, stirring constantly until gelatin has dissolved. Remove from boiling water; stir in extracts.
Chill until mixture reaches the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Combine ½ cup cold water and nonfat dry milk in small mixer bowl.
Beat with high speed on electric mixer 6 minutes, or until stiff. Fold into gelatin mixture. Pour into 1½-quart mold. Chill until firm, about 2 hours. Unmold just before serving.

Pineapple Custard
(½ cup; 8 servings)
Two cups water, ¾ cup super nonfat dry milk, 2 eggs, ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, ½ cup drained, crushed pineapple.
Combine water and nonfat dry milk in top of double boiler; beat with rotary beater until blended. Scald over boiling water. Beat eggs until thick and lemon colored; blend in sugar and vanilla extract. Mix a small amount of the scalded milk with the eggs, then stir egg mixture into remaining milk.
Strain; stir in drained pineapple. Pour into 8 (½ cup) custard cups. Place in baking pan filled with hot water to depth of 1 inch. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees F.) until knife inserted near center of custard comes out clean, about 80 minutes. Remove cups from water bath. Cool immediately in pan of cold water. Chill before serving.

STRICTLY FRESH

Some executives who complain they don't know whether they are coming or going should take another look. Perhaps it's just because they're standing still.

For college student fathers, Christmas is just a warm-up for second semester bills.

Most people who enjoy cranberry sauce twice a year, won't have to start worrying until they sell cranberry cigarettes.

Church Coffee-Tea Hour Growing in Popularity

A delightful custom is growing in popularity in many churches across the country. It is the custom of serving a hot beverage and cookies after church services, either in the morning or evening. In churches where two morning services are conducted, it is a pleasant and welcomed occasion for both groups to meet and get to know one another.
Almost every Protestant denomination and a number of Catholic churches are doing this.
In most cases the women of the church make and bring the cookies, prepare the beverage and serve the refreshments in the church social room while other—male or female—parishioners act as official welcome.

The busy homemaker who is frequently pressed for time when it's "her turn" to provide the cookies at church gatherings will find drop cookies quick and painless to prepare. It's best to serve a light kind that will not take the edge off dinner appetites. Here's a simple recipe that takes only minutes to make:

QUICKIE DROP COOKIE
½ cup sugar
1½ T. butter

1 egg
½ t. vanilla
½ t. grated lemon rind (optional)
¾ cup bread flour
¼ t. salt
1 t. any baking powder
3 T. milk
Sift sugar, cream with butter, beat in egg, vanilla and lemon rind. Sift bread flour and resift with salt and baking powder. Add sifted ingredients to sugar mixture in three parts, alternate with milk. Beat the batter after each addition until smooth. Drop from teaspoon onto greased baking sheet. Place spoonful well apart and bake cookies in moderate oven of 350 degrees for about 7 minutes. Yield: about 30 two-and-one-half inch cookies.

Proper Ventilation A Must in Winter Driving

By DAVID ALLEN
On a cold night driving home from a dance or a basketball game, the gang is more likely to roll up all the windows. The more you people who have piled into the car, the less air each one has to breathe.
Soon, too, with the warmth of the heater and from body heat, windows as well as windshields steam up. This definitely cuts down driving vision from both the front and back.
Some of the bunch probably are smoking, too. It is said that the smoke from three cigarettes in a closed car is a potential cause of traffic accidents. The carbon monoxide in the cigarette smoke inside a closed car can dangerously cut eyesight.

Research conducted by the American Medical Association disclosed the danger of chain smoking and also from smoking at high altitudes when driving at night in a closed car. During warm weather when car windows are open, smoking would have little effect. But many accidents have been caused by this habit when the car isn't properly ventilated.
Even on the coldest night, at least one window on the driver's side should be open a crack. To avoid a draft blowing into the back seat, perhaps it would be better to turn the small side window. This will allow some fresh air to blow in and stale air to be drawn out.
When driving alone at night on a monotonous limited-access highway, the driver often becomes sleepy. This is a signal that ventilation is needed. There's nothing like a blast of cold bracing air to wake up the drowsiest driver. The window needn't be left open long—just long enough to change the air completely.
Many of today's cars are completely air-conditioned. However, most of the cars owned by young drivers are of an older vintage and need to have ventilation controlled by the driver. It's better for the gang to be a little chilly than in danger of having an accident.

Seasonal Things You Should Know

Next Winter's Color
Poinsettias are colorful in some homes until March while in others the flowers started to shrivel and a few leaves turned yellow and fell the day after Christmas. If you're willing to give it the right care now and a little more care in spring, late summer and fall, the plant is worth saving for color again next winter. Cut off flowers when they fade but continue to water until the leaves turn yellow. As more and more leaves fall, reduce watering gradually. When stems are leafless, move the plant into a dim but not freezing place. In spring when weather is warm to stay cut back the stems to about three inches and repot in fresh, rich soil. Then sink the plant in its pot in a protected place outdoors. Late August is the time to prune, cutting back each stem by one-third of its length. Neither frost nor chilly nights help poinsettias, so bring it indoors right after Labor Day. Water daily and fertilize every two weeks until bloom appears.

Fire On The Hearth
A bright and fragrant fire makes the fireplace the most popular area in the house. Not all woods, however, produce both heat and cheer. Elm wood is slow to ignite but makes a good fire if it is combined with another kind of wood. Comfort with minimum refueling is provided by oak and hickory. Birch and sugar maple are good, too. Beech logs burn fragrantly down to fine ashes, while apple and any of the fruit woods make the most fragrant fire.

To buy in a convenient amount, ask for a twenty-fourth of a cord. This is a pile of fireplace wood 2 feet high and 2 feet wide with each stick 16 inches long and will fit into the trunk of a car. A cord of wood is 4 feet long, 8 feet wide and 4 feet high with a total content of 128 cubic feet. A cord or a half cord is the cheapest way to buy wood for the fireplace, but 120 twenty-fourth of a cord is easier to handle and store.

Stuffed Toys
Every child has a favorite stuffed toy or doll. Perhaps you can get it away long enough to wash it, before the new toys from Christmas lose their attraction. Wash it, that is, unless you remember that it came with a tag that stated it couldn't be washed. If you are suspicious of toys and dolls being colorfast, then wash separately any with dark colors. Two stuffed toys of any size are enough for one washing machine load. Use the setting recommended for silks and synthetics on both washer and dryer.

Blanket for House Plants
Most house plants make little growth in winter. Such growth as they do make will be interrupted and leaves and flower buds will be damaged if they are close to the windowpane on a cold winter night. Instead of moving plants to another place when the thermometer falls, simply slide sections of newspaper between the plants and the glass. A newspaper section is worry-free insulation. Don't use newspaper, however, if you have a window full of geranium plants. The ink will turn geranium leaves yellow if the newspaper touches these plants for any length of time.

Improvement In Garbage Pails
Three years of research were required to correct one fault of plastic garbage pails. Those that are made of newly developed polyethylene copolymer material are not affected by low temperatures and so can be left in unheated garages or outdoors even when the temperature goes below freezing. Tests proved that these silent, non-rusting, non-corroding and non-denting garbage pails showed no damage when dropped from a height of 6 feet after 10 degrees above and 10 degrees below zero.

Moths in the Kitchen
Moths that are seen flying around the house in winter may come from the pantry shelves instead of the clothes closet. Clothes moths are white or gray white with wings that aren't pointed. A moth with a wing spread of about ½ inch, wings that are brown and cream with brown tips is the Indian meal moth that gets into flour, cereals and other stored grain products. Still another white or cream colored moth with long narrow wings that are usually pointed may have come in ears of corn used for holiday decorations. To get rid of the food eating moths, use a paint brush to apply a 5 percent DDT solution along the pantry or cupboard shelves. Destroy any infested food and clean the storage areas thoroughly before applying the DDT.

RING RECOVERED

FRANKLIN, Va. (UPI) — Three years ago Aubrey Pope Marks lost his high school ring while swimming at Vick's Beach in the Notoway River near here. Area fishermen dragged the river with their nets each year, but it took four-year-old James Richard Kello to find the ring while bathing this summer. He stepped on something, reached down and dug the ring out of the sand only a few feet from where it had been lost.

'Wind' Still Tops At Box Office

NEW YORK (UPI) — Many unusual and costly motion pictures made their bow during the 1950's, but none of them pushed "Gone With the Wind" from its position as the No. 1 celluloid money-maker.

A 1959 report by Variety, the show business newspaper, listed GWTW as the top grosser of all time, with earnings exceeding $33,500,000. The 1939 epic will be re-issued again soon in connection with the 100th anniversary of the Civil War.

Running a close second is "The Ten Commandments," which was released in 1956 and within a year had grossed $32,000,000. Some industry observers believe the Biblical film produced by the late Cecil B. De Mille will eventually surpass "Gone With the Wind" in earnings.

FASCINATING FACTS ABOUT NATURAL GAS

Old As the Earth

Natural GAS came into being millions of years ago. Ancient peoples thought it to be the gift of the great God of Fire and temples were erected for the thousands of fire worshippers. The Chinese people—innovative and practical—piped the GAS and used it to dry salt from brine.

Modern As Tomorrow

After many years of perseverance and the expenditure of millions and millions of dollars, Natural GAS is today pumped out of the ground and through thousands of miles of pipelines to communities all over America. Natural GAS is now a major contributor to the fuel needs of the nation.

*GAS gives you clean, efficient, economical fuel for residential, industrial and commercial needs. Call or write Consumers Power Company to learn how Natural GAS can serve you better.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)
Young Patrick O'Connor dug up some history when he went skindiving off Point Breeze, south of Buffalo. He accidentally lifted upon a rusted cannon in eight feet of water. Railroad Merger Derails Pet Dog
VICTORIA, Va. (UPI) — Merging the Norfolk and Western and Virginian Railways has forced a pet dog to change a habit of 12 years. The dog, a pet of Virginian workers, used to lie between the rails just ahead of the stopping point for locomotives pulling in here to change crews. But somebody forgot to tell the pooch that trains wouldn't be stopping there any more. The day after the two lines combined, an angry worker called N & W General Superintendent W. S. Clement to tell him: "You've got to do something about our dog. This morning one of your fast freights came through here at 50 miles an hour and nearly killed him." The pet was tied up after that. The female death rate in Norway from all causes is the lowest in the world.

A BIG FLAG for the big Plymouth Community Junior High School was presented in a brief ceremony recently to the Student Council. The Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Mayflower Post, presented the 49-star flag for the school's tall flagpole. Representing the Auxiliary were Mrs. Mildred Dely, president (far left) and Mrs. Geraldine Olson, Americanism chairman, right foreground).

The cap is changed...

..but not the man who wears it!

You may have been accustomed to seeing him in an Aetna cap in Kentucky and Southern Indiana or in a Frontier cap in Buffalo and Western New York. Now it says Ashland Oil. That's a change, but not as big a change as you might think.

It's common knowledge that all Aetna and Frontier stations have been affiliated with Ashland Oil & Refining Company for many years. Like Ashland Oil stations, they have been selling top quality products and endeavoring to maintain consistently high standards of customer service.

Even more important, the people of Aetna, Frontier and Ashland are so much the same kind of folks that it takes more than an emblem to make any difference. They are all part of one great independent oil family. It's a big one, this Ashland Oil family. There are more than 4,900 direct employees, plus additional thousands on the payrolls of independent Ashland distributors, jobbers and service stations. Almost 40,000 people have put their savings into shares of Ashland Oil stock. And again this year, we are looking forward to product sales of over $300 million.

Yes, it is a big family, yet the man who wears the Ashland Oil cap has certain family traits. He has a sense of personal freedom, initiative and independence. He takes pride in the products he sells.

Wherever you meet him, in any one of more than 4,000 Ashland Oil outlets in 12 states from New York to Tennessee, you'll recognize the family resemblance. Even if his cap didn't say Ashland, you would know him by his interest in being a good neighbor and in providing you with the finest petroleum products and services for your car. Look for the man with the Ashland cap—he's a good man to know.

We've Got Something More Than Texas — Millionaires

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association

If you want to be a millionaire come to Michigan.

Among favorable reports on the state coming to light recently is one that shows we have more millionaires than even the proud state of Texas.

An analysis of federal income tax returns by Dr. Roger L. Bowlby, economist with the Bureau of Business and Economic Research at Michigan State University, shows that Michigan, with only 4.5 per cent of the total taxpayers, has 6.2 per cent of those declaring gross incomes in excess of a million dollars in 1957. Only four states, New York, Delaware, Pennsylvania and California can boast of more millionaires.

Michigan taxpayers showed incomes totaling $14.2 billions in 1957, and paid $1.84 billions in federal personal income taxes. This tax was 5.4 per cent of the national total though Michigan's population only represents 4.5 per cent of the United States population.

These higher than average incomes and tax payments are not due entirely to Michigan's higher proportion of millionaires, but also because the average individual earns more in Michigan. The state has a much higher per cent of the taxpayers in the middle income brackets from $4,000 to $10,000 than the country as a whole; 43 per cent to 52 per cent.

Personal income figures for Michigan indicate that when the 1959 federal taxes are all paid Michigan will again be near the top, according to Dr. Paul A. Herbert, chief of the research division, Michigan Economic Development department. Michigan increased incomes by $9,600,000 in September over August, according to a report in Business Week magazine of Nov. 28, while all of the neighboring states showed a decline.

Michigan has the largest gain in the nation for that month and for the 12 months ending with this September. Only one state, California, showed a greater dollar increase in personal income.

This data on the state's prosperity which Michigan's Industrial Ambassadors, the citizen group created by the Michigan Economic Development Commission as a sales force to sell the state as a good location for business and industry, received at their December meeting in Detroit. At that "sales training" session, Dr. Herbert cited figures from the Nov. 10 issue of Sales Management magazine showing that Michigan metropolitan areas and other major cities will be much larger and more prosperous in 1965 than they are today. Compared to cities throughout the United States, Michigan cities will generally grow faster and will be relatively more prosperous.

Among the highlights cited by Dr. Herbert were: The people of Michigan's 13 largest cities are expected to show a growth of 135 to 173 per cent in net effective buying income in 1965 as compared with 1958. Growth of cities in the neighboring states in buying income during the same period will range from 106 to 141 per cent.

By 1965 all but one of the 13 metropolitan areas and potential metropolitan areas in Michigan will have improved their ranking as compared with all the Metropolitan areas of the country based on net purchasing power. On the other hand, only 4 of the 12 large cities listed for Illinois will improve their ranking; only 5 out of 14 of those in Indiana; only 1 out of 20 in Ohio; only 2 out of 14 in Wisconsin.

Kalamazoo, according to Sales Management's tabulation, will grow fastest of the 13 major Michigan cities listed: 117 per cent in population and 173 per cent in net effective buying income.

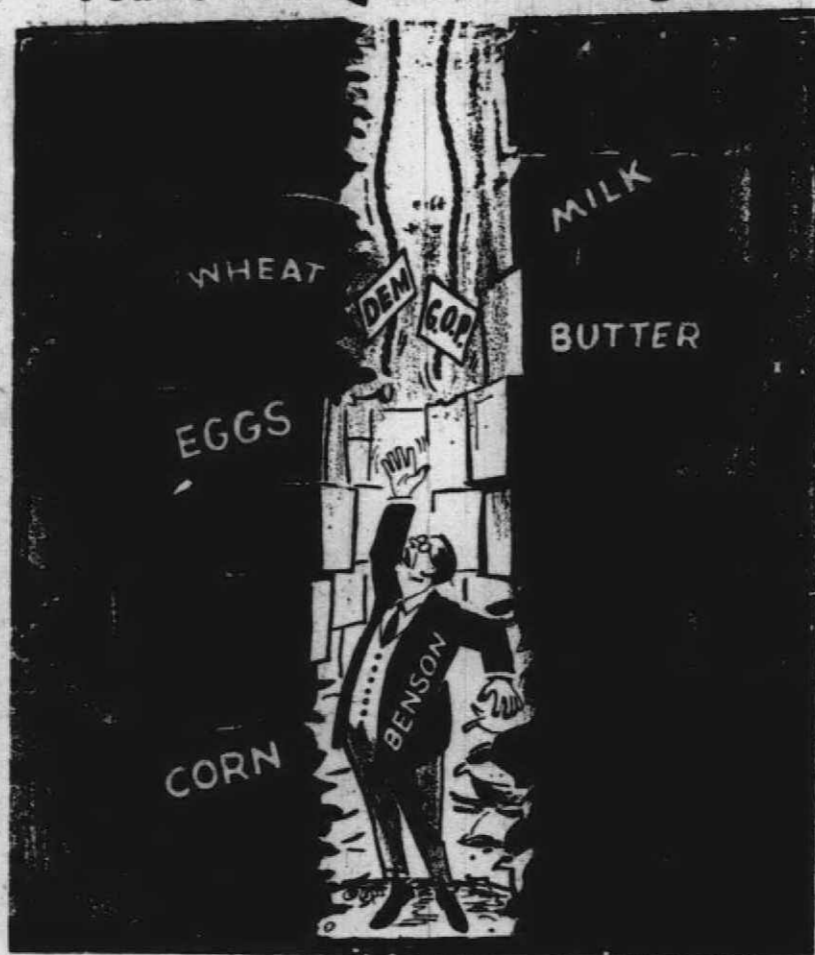

Other Michigan cities gaining in rank over 10 or more metropolitan areas in other states will be Bay City, Benton Harbor - St. Joseph, Muskegon, Jackson, Ann Arbor and Battle Creek. Not a single city in the other East North Central States will equal Kalamazoo's record. Rockford, Illinois comes closest to the Michigan cities by advancing over 8 cities.

Estimates of the United States bureau of the budget, indicate Michigan has grown, is growing, and will continue to grow in population at a rapid rate. Figures vary from a total of 9,400,000 to 11,000,000 consumers by 1970. This in itself is a large state market.

When to this is added the growth in the number of consumers in the surrounding states, it makes the east-north-central states the greatest regional market in the United States. This region will have 21 per cent of the nation's entire population by 1970, over 4 million more than the second largest region, the middle-Atlantic states. It will have grown faster than any other region, a million more people than the Pacific region, the second largest growing area by 1970.

Because of its geographic location, the east-north-central states (Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan) are the most economically logical locations for an industry with one plant that also sells nationwide.

State Has Good Tourist Year Despite Slow Start

Michigan can chalk up another good vacation travel year on its business calendar, according to the state tourist council.

The council's year-end report says Michigan's 1959 tourist business held up well despite a slow start in summer travel, wet and windy fall weather and the economic effects of a prolonged steel strike.

"Not to mention the stiff competition from other tourist states and vacation areas," added Robert J. Furlong, council executive secretary.

But while statewide tourist traffic increased some 5 per cent for the year, travelers kept a tighter rein on their pocketbooks. The tourist council estimates some 10 million persons spent vacation time in Michigan during 1959, about half of them Michigan residents. Total dollar volume from tourism, however, remained close to the 1958 level of $650 million.

Confirming this assessment the council cited a 12 per cent increase in requests for Michigan travel information; a 5.7 per cent increase in highway traffic (3 1/2 billion vehicle miles traveled on the state's highways during 1959, an all-time high according to the State Highway Department); a 6 per cent increase in statewide gasoline consumption for the year; an 11.8 per cent rise in state park use (attendance reached a record high of nearly 19 million in 1959, 5 per cent over the peak year of 1955); and a 4.6 per cent increase in camping.

A survey of the resort and travel business around the state showed increases ranging from 2 per cent to 17 per cent, and a trend toward longer stays. More fall and winter travel also was noted.

But, while some areas showed above average gains, others fell below 1958. The upper peninsula community of Manistiquette reported a 19 per cent drop in business, yet still stayed ahead of 1957. The Arcadian Copper Mine Tours near Houghton-Manitoulin showed a 12 per cent decline in tourist sightseers. Mackinac Bridge crossings were down some 1 per cent for the year.

"Spending for extras and side attractions appeared to suffer most," said Furlong. Some of the setbacks he attributed to a lack of adequate local and area promotion or out-dated accommodations. Generally, the council spokesman said, resorts and areas whose 1959 business declined did not participate in organized vacation travel promotion by local and regional groups.

The tourist council singled out a 9 per cent drop in fishing license sales and the phenomenal boom in boating, skiing and camping as reflecting a major shift in recreational travel interest and habits during the last four to five years.

National travel expert predicted Americans will spend at least $15 billion on vacation travel in this country during 1960, the council report states.

"Michigan will have to fight, and fight hard, to stay in the running for its share of this booming market," said Ed L. Moloney, Cheboygan banker and chairman of the tourist council. Moloney warned that Michigan will have to increase its advertising efforts if it is to compete with "the promotional barrage" of other vacation

Formation of New Corporations Has Shot Upward Since 1951

By Roger W. Babson

For several years now the general public has been bombarded with statistics and discussions regarding the growth in population. And while the birth of babies has been at an extremely high rate for nearly two decades, there has also been with in the last ten years a boom in the birth rate of corporate enterprises.

Surprisingly enough, the wisdom of hindsight suggests that the rate of business formation should have benefited from the excellent business potential during and immediately following World War II.

However, the common conception then was that the historical pattern of a major depression following a war would run true to form. This line of thinking did much to dampen business and investment confidence. Outbreak of the Korean War, plus the prolonged "cold war," however, turned public thinking toward expectations of long-term inflation, and to concepts of a new and "depression-proof" era. Therefore, since 1951, new corporate formation has been in a decided uptrend. Incorporations nearly doubled in the short span between 1951 and 1956. A change in the Internal Revenue Code sparked a sharp upsurge in late 1958 and 1959. The estimated 1959 total of 185,000 sets a new record, 30 percent above the average rate of the previous four years. Statistical studies indicate that changes in the trend of new incorporations tend to precede changes in the trend of general business. Hence, this and other business barometers with "leading" tendencies are watched closely for hints of potential shifts in the nation's economic climate.

For example, a rise in the business birth rate implies additional stimuli to business, creation of new employment opportunities, etc. More important, it shows an increase in confidence among businessmen and investors.

Therefore, the vigor and sustained nature of the uptrend in incorporations in recent years suggest a further period of good business for the months ahead.

If Your Name is 'Mary'

By ANN REYNOLDS, Ph.D.

"I have a passion for the name of 'Mary,'" Byron wrote, and his words express a pretty universal sentiment. 'Mary' is the most popular and most beloved of all women's names.

What is the reason for this immense fondness? From the 12th century onward the use of "Mary" was the token of the great devotion shown to Mary, the mother of Jesus. The Crusaders helped to disseminate it in Western Europe; in Eastern Europe and in the near East it already was widely heard. On the Continent there was, at first, a reluctance against giving this name to infants; it was held to be too sacred for common use. Slowly, however, this apprehension against choosing the name was overcome by the great liking for it.

At the time the New Testament of the Bible was written, "Mary" was widespread in Palestine. Seven women so called are mentioned in the New Testament, but it is believed that some of these refer to evolved from the Hebrew "Miriam," and its pre-Christian popularity was due to Miriam, the sister of Moses and Aaron who was held in great esteem.

What is the meaning of the name "Mary"? Enough books have been written about this problem to fill a good-sized library. Today the consensus is that it signifies "rebellion," and the biblical Miriam's story gives the explanation of it. Miriam and Aaron condemned their brother Moses because he married an Ethiopian woman, whereupon the Lord meted out a horrible punishment on Miriam. He smote her with leprosy, and the dreaded illness made her look "white as snow." Then Aaron beseeched his brother Moses to pray to the Lord that their sister might be restored to health; Moses did so, and Miriam became hale and hearty again.

Among the scholarly views concerning the meaning of "Mary" was that it means "bitter," and also "lady."

In what way was "Miriam" transformed into "Mary," or into the Latin "Maria"? The final "m" in Miriam, sometimes also spelled Mariam, got lost when the Bible was put into Latin. To some translators the final "m" looked like the accusative ending of Latin words. They left it off, and there remained "Maria." "Mary" was a name that, in some places, imposed on its bearer the obligation to conduct herself with dignity. In ancient Siena, Italy, for instance, no "Mary" was allowed to practice an undignified trade.

Many charming variations derive from the name "Mary." Marietta, Manon, and Molly are just some of them.

How Chic! A Hole in Your Sleeve!
Two great talents join forces this month and pungently pinpoint what happens when someone tries to translate The Status Seekers into the terms of realistic daily living. Reader, do have a look—and a smile or two—at "What Do I Do Now, Mr. Packard?" Words by Jean Kerr, and art by top-flight cartoonist Whitney Darrow, Jr. And don't miss Mr. Packard's answer!

Fighting Words... And A Challenge
Do you know that there are some parents who've taken their children back to the city to live because now they deliberately want to expose them to the very experiences that made them move away? If this doesn't make sense to you, we urge you to read Marion Lowndes' report on how to keep your children's minds open, active, and growing—even though they live in the suburbs.

The Traffic Horror
Our metropolitan areas are slowly being choked to death by a fantastic nationwide traffic jam. This month, Wilfred Owen, the country's foremost authority on transportation problems, tells us how it happened, and what we'd better do about it quick, before this joy ride of haphazard planning turns into the "last mile" for our cities.

The Easy Way Out
You, too, can have a gloriously blooming garden while the north wind blows and while there are two feet of snow on the ground—a garden watered only by hot toddlers. Put another log on the fire and turn to page fourteen—it's seed-catalogue time!

GETTING AROUND

...to Our Pleasant Places and People

ACCORDING to law, anyone who witnesses a felony or misdemeanor may make a citizen arrest. (Just as binding as a police arrest.) So, when citizen Henry James of El Cajon, California, was nearly run into by another citizen who was making an illegal U-turn, he saw his duty clear and made the arrest. The felon's name? Lieut. James M. Self of the La Mesa Police.

A modest frame house near Westport, Connecticut, is the world's smallest bona fide Indian reservation. In residence at the moment is just one Indian, seventy-one-year-old Chief Blackhawk, known also as Edward Sherman.

Indian reservations are not taxable. Pained officials tried slapping liens on "Sherman Lodge" to no avail. Blackhawk goes on living there with his wife and parrot, paying no taxes.

Philadelphia's Main Line gets the prize for catchy names. To wit: the fund-raising "Mad Anthony Dances" of the Family Service; the "Lankettes," 30 young matrons dedicated to Lankenau Hospital's Pediatrics Dept.; the "Band-Aids," some spirited ladies who sold candy to outfit the Radnor High School band; and three cheerers for the "Lower Merion Society for the Detection and Prosecution of Horse Thieves and the Recovery of Stolen Horses." (Present at last meeting, 350-people.)

Down the road a piece from Broomfield, Colorado, a lady accused a street employee of hurling his broom at her. The culprit admitted that he had lost his temper, but only, he said, after the lady drove around a "Do Not Enter" sign, across freshly painted stripes he was even then bending over to finish, and struck him from behind, knocking him flat. As he fell, the broom flew up in the air and landed on the aggrieved lady's car. (Case Dismissed.)

If you happen to be in Marietta, Georgia, with your trumpet, call Betty Shipman Bennett and Charles Miner, why don't you? They'd love to join you in a fast (or slow) trio—especially if you're one of 4,000 musicians listed in the Amateur Chamber Music Players Directory. Betty (boasts the Directory) is FI-A (Flute-Excellent). Mr. Miner lists himself in the second category VI-B, (Violin-Good), but we're sure he can keep up even if you're a Tr-Pro (Trumpet-Professional). For a listing or a copy, contact Helen Rice, Secretary of the ACMF, at 15 West 67th Street, New York 23, N. Y.

Your kids tired ofinker toys? Minnetonka, Minnesota, Mayor Robert DeGhetto dropped a line to the Air Force, which supplied him, for free, with a genuine jet plane they were about to scrap. The tiny crew (never fewer than six pilots) love their new playground. A word of caution: we hear you have to call for old jets personally and tow them home.

Mrs. Herman Meltzer, of Glen Cove, New York, mother of three children, was one of 136 parents and businessmen who spent one full day teaching in and administering the town's five elementary schools. "Housekeeping is much easier," was Mrs. Meltzer's report to her fourth-grade class's regular teacher.

Only one complaint. Said a janitor: "No one seemed to want to change places with me."

MOMMY!... MOMMY!... MOMMY!

To mothers, that cry means that there's another cut, scratch, scrape, or burn. It also means she should get iodine—but she often doesn't, because iodine burns and stings, upsets youngsters. Here's good news. Science has discovered a new kind of iodine that stops infection best yet doesn't burn or sting. It's polyvinylpyrrolidone-iodine, found only in ISODINE ANTISEPTIC. Where other types of antiseptics may kill only 1, 2, or 3 types of germs, ISODINE kills all types—even virus and fungus. And up to 40 times faster. Get painless ISODINE ANTISEPTIC. He Has an Open Mind Now how much you can find in it to alert a young mind.

And it is no news, either, that Nature is a great teacher. Children by instinct are stirred and concerned to find out where the rain comes from and how spiders spin their webs and what makes the sunset red, and it can happen—but again it needn't—that a child in the suburbs is skimped on this side of life. Swimming holes are getting scarcer and where the cows used to pasture there's a tidy development, but open country is still within reach if you want to take the trouble—the bus line ends somewhere.

Wherever human beings are, as Thornton Wilder said, "there are layers and layers of nonsense." It follows that from an early age it is helpful to be in touch with the natural unhuman world—for proportion—to keep the mind open.

Thanks to the churrings and stirrings and explosions of the last ten years, the suburbs today are a happy hunting ground for the sociologists and doctors and specialists in mental health and child guidance. What they do in their wordy reports is to uncover trends like this trend toward a filtered experience, which they view so seriously; and where their findings apply, they can be more effective than any fairy godmother to get your child what he might otherwise miss.

A child is born with an open mind. It is a mind ready to be filled with a world of thoughts and experiences and memories which make a fully rounded, well-adjusted human being. In our eagerness to protect our children and to lead them into the safe channels we have found for ourselves, we must not forget that we may make dependent weaklings of them. We must remember to let them breathe the clear air of experience and understanding.

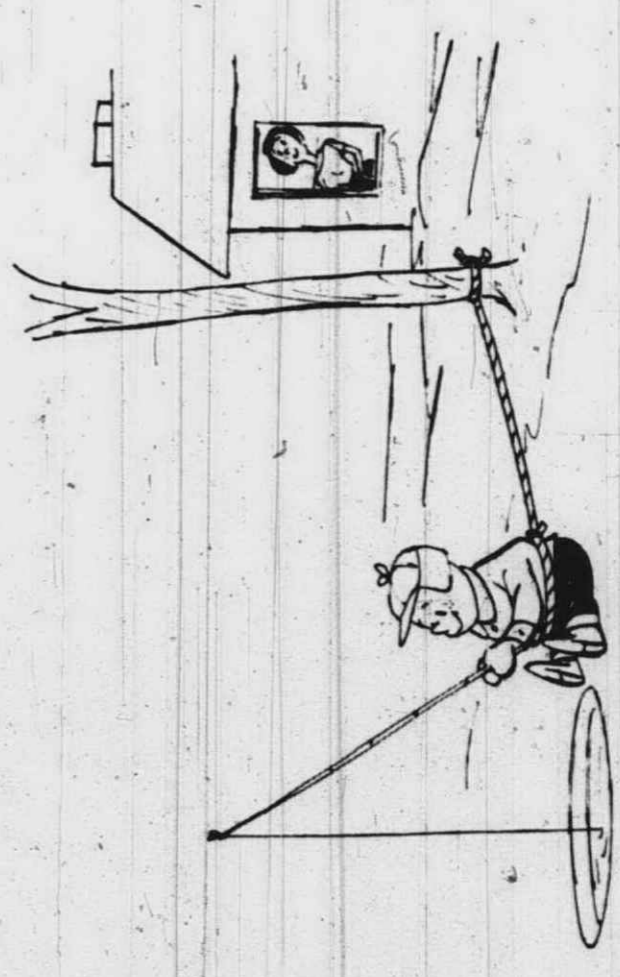

TV current events are another resource for taking a child with you into the outside world. Make use of your newspaper, too. It is surprising, once you start looking,

Your local movies are another resource. There are some that come along in the course of a year which honestly document other countries and other ways of living and, like traveling, broaden the horizon.

Books can help, of course. Look at this year's children's list—"First Under the North Pole," "The Mystery of the Aztec Idol," "Boy of the Pyramids"—you've been half-way round the world already.

You read to your child, and he reads to himself, for the joy of it first of all, but it doesn't alter the fact that with your guidance, here is a joy which can take him out to the mighty, slow-moving East of "Kim," and down to Ulysses' sea "moaning round with many voices," and, for the moment, a long way from Crestwood Heights.

Traffic Mess

and obsolete, haphazard housing should be razed in favor of ample space for trees, grass, flowers, benches, pedestrians, and necessary moving vehicles. A city is not only a bird that can survive.

In the suburbs the problem is to replace random sprawl with new patterns of development for community life. That would mean higher densities in many suburbs, more light industry drawn from the cities, more marketing activity—and with proper planning, more open space here, too, for useful purposes such as parks and conservation.

What would be the effect of these changes on our present traffic jams? By using all available methods of transportation—bus, automobile, the railroad, rapid transit, and, eventually, local air carriers—much of the peak business-hour traffic would then be diverted outward to industry and services removed to the suburbs. If the city emphasized its unique values as a cultural center and an exchange, much of the traffic attracted inward to the city would be moving at non-rush hours.

Spread Out

The automobile which has caused our traffic mess has also given us the means to spread out and solve it. So far, we have used our mobility principally for a spreading out of homes. We also now have the opportunity for a spreading out of business and industry, which would ease congestion in the city and create a reasonable flow of traffic in many directions, instead of a mass attack from all directions on the center.

You recently read in these pages the story of a big Detroit advertising agency which moved its headquarters to the suburbs, diverting its share of traffic outward. Meantime the city of Detroit is beginning to feature its waterfront by replacing factories along the river with parks and theaters and rinks—and space. This is the kind of action we need on a heroic scale to build a geographically uncluttered future and start our traffic moving again.

What can we do about the TRAFFIC MESS?

BY WILFRED OWEN Author of Cities In The Motor Age

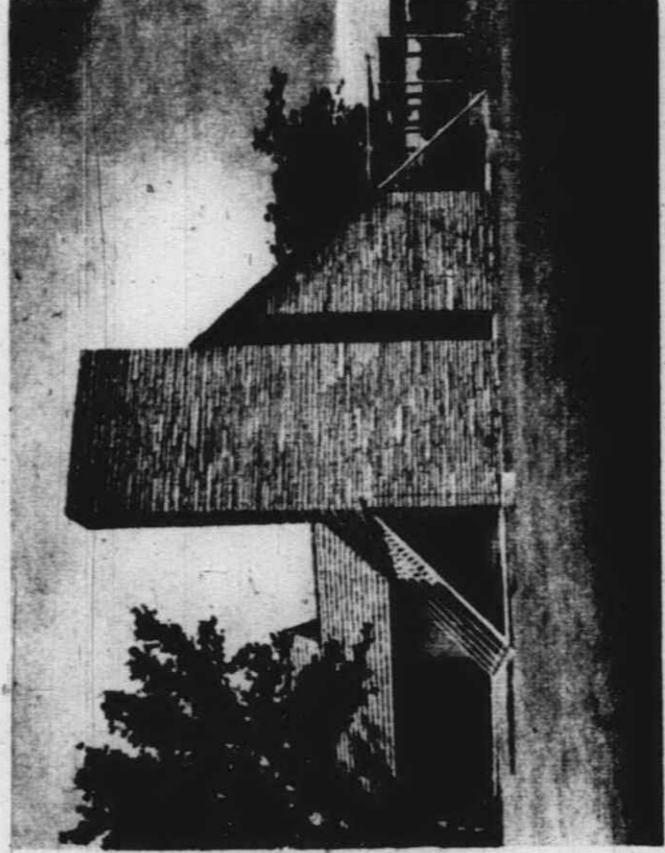

MOST OF US chose the suburbs for the sake of more pleasant surroundings. Some of us fled here to escape urban disorder, only to be overtaken by thousands of others with the same idea. After all the road building, parking lots, street widenings, traffic lights, parking meters, one-way streets, and other measures designed to keep traffic moving between our towns and the central city (still the hub, after all, of our welfare)—we have ended in a bigger jam than when we started. As soon as a new road is built, its promise of relief is cancelled by the rising number of people and vehicles waiting to use it.

After fifty years of the automotive age, some of us have begun asking ourselves, can we be urbanized and motorized, yet civilized?

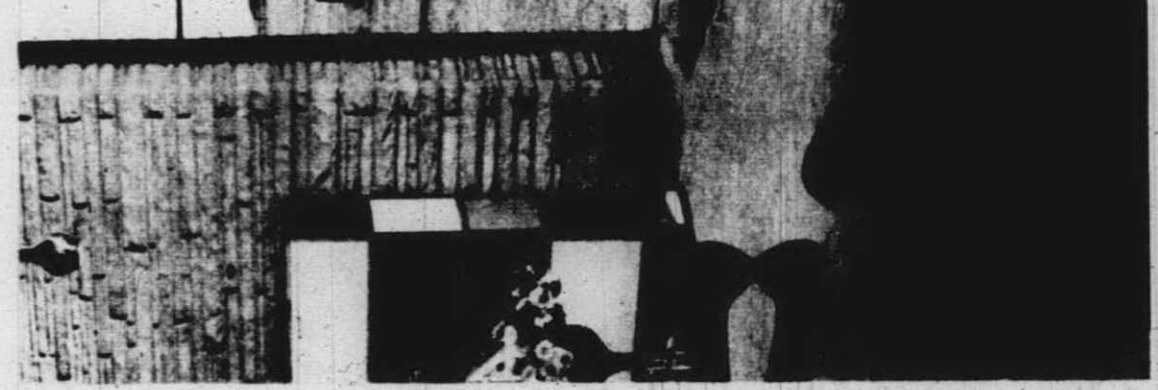

We have begun to doubt that the city as we know it can survive... or that it should. Public transportation systems are inconvenient and inadequate. Transit lines are fighting a losing battle, while commuter rail roads seem intent on going out of business altogether. By 1975 more than a hundred million vehicles will be jockeying for position on our highways. More people, more jobs, higher incomes and more leisure time will furnish the ingredients for still greater urban and suburban chaos. If we don't act fast, by the time we get a six-hour day, six other hours may be spent getting back and forth to work.

Build New Roads

New roads can help, temporarily, and we are getting them. The federal highway program, now fully under way, is the biggest public-works enterprise in history. But as we struggle under the impacts of the motor age it is becoming evident that we need much more than a highway program to adapt our cities to the automobile

From Zurich you see Alpine heights and Spring-green hills... sunny Lugano is a year 'round Riviera... in Berne fountains, flowers, towers, arcades face the whole gamut of scenery... the unbelievable Jungfrauoch—glaciers, waterfalls, color, skiing... vigorous Lausanne sits on an indigo lake... Oklahoma Sanctuary

The views are what the Truett Costons love best about this house fifteen miles from Oklahoma City.

“What do you and your family particularly enjoy about your house?” architect Truett Coston was asked. “Peace,” he replied promptly. “Tranquility. Comfort. View . . . view . . . vista and view. It is a real sanctuary . . . birds . . . clouds . . . sunsets . . . storms . . . really wonderful.” In the big living room, below, the structural steel trusses that support the roof were left exposed, and vines were trained over them, starting from the planting area that borders the glass wall. Now the vines are up, trellis on trellis of them, to the peak of the high cork ceiling, bougainvillea thrives in the planters, and as one friend of the Costons put it, “You come into that living room and it’s like walking into a garden with a wonderful view.” And even at the kitchen sink, every prospect pleases.

Above: the old homestead of 1893 and—opposite page—the wings added to make the present house. Original sharply-pitched roof line is repeated in the new wings.

*We're looking for people who like to draw

IF YOU LIKE TO DRAW, America's 12 Most Famous Artists want to test your art talent. We'd like to help you find out whether you can be trained to be a successful money-making artist.

This offer is part of a program we began ten years ago. We found that many men and women who could have become artists—and should have become artists—never did. Most of them were unsure of their talent and had no way of finding out whether it was worth developing. Others who were convinced they had talent simply couldn't get top-notch professional art training without leaving home or giving up their jobs.

A Plan to Help Others

We decided to do something about this. We decided to make it possible for anyone, anywhere, who likes to draw—and who has talent worth developing—to get the training he needs to become an artist. Taking time off from our busy art careers, we pooled the extensive knowledge of art, the professional know-how, and the priceless trade secrets which we, ourselves, were able to learn only through long and successful experience.

We illustrated this knowledge with 5,000 special drawings; then organized it into a series of lessons covering every aspect of drawing and painting. Lessons that anyone could take right in their own homes and in their spare time. Finally—after years of teaching—we perfected what is probably the most personal and effective method ever developed for criticizing a student's drawings and paintings.

Our program of art training is now well known and respected all over America. We have helped thousands of people find success in art. Here are just a few:

When Don Smith of New Orleans wrote to us, he knew nothing about art—even doubted he had talent. Today, he's an illustrator with the South's leading advertising agency.

Father of Three Wins New Career

Stanley Bowen of Ohio—a married man with three children, unhappy in a “no-future job”—began studying with us, evenings. Now he's earning a much higher salary as an illustrator for a growing art studio. And his family sees a happy, secure future ahead.

With our training, Wanda Pickulski of Rexford, N. Y., was able to give up her typing job to become a fashion artist for a local department store.

Changes His Whole Life

“Your course has been the difference between failure and success for me,” writes Robert Mecnam of Ontario, Canada. “I've come from an $18.00 a week apprentice to where I now own my own house, two cars, and hold stock in two companies.”

A Career of Her Own
“I now have extra money for trips and a bank account to do with as I please,” says housewife Doris Hagen. “Without your Course, I would not have had a profession.”
When Kathryn Gorsuch of Mt. Vernon, Ohio, found out she was to have a baby—she left her filing job at an aircraft company and studied art at home with us. By the time the baby was seven months old, she went back to work for the same company . . . this time as a well-paid commercial artist.
Eric Ericson worked in a garage while he studied nights with us. Today, he is a successful advertising artist, earns seven times as much . . . and is having a new home built for his family.

Profitable Hobby—at 78

A great-grandmother in Newark, Ohio, decided to use her spare time to study painting. Recently, she had her first local “one-man” show—where she sold thirty-two water colors and five oil paintings.

Donald Kern—a cowboy from Miles City, Montana—studied art with us. Now he paints portraits, sells them for $250 each, and gets all the business he can handle.

Paintings Pay for House Addition

Virginia Tootill writes: “The sale of my paintings has more than paid for my Course. It's building an addition to the house for our new baby.”

In just four months Doris White of Wauwatosa, Wis., has painted and sold $750 worth of her paintings . . . all in spare time!

Send For Famous Artists Talent Test

To find other men and women with talent worth developing, we have created a special 12-page Art Talent Test. Thousands of people formerly paid $1 for this test. But now our School offers it free and will grade it free. People who reveal talent through this test are eligible for professional training by the School . . . Right in their own homes.

If you like to draw and want to know if you have talent worth developing—mail the coupon today. The test will be mailed to you without cost or obligation.

PROPHECIES . . . THAT WILL TOUCH YOUR LIFE

To the skeptics:

MARGUERITE CARTER

Had you lived at the time when the Hebrews were powerful in Jerusalem, would you have believed the prophecy that they would one day leave their homeland and return almost 2,000 years later (at a time that seemed their darkest hour)? Yet this ancient prophecy was only recently fulfilled!

Predicting in 1939 the way to tell the ending of World War Two, Marguerite Carter stated, "There's 'one' way to time the ending—and that is when 'Turkey' enters the war. It will be over in a few months." From the 1945 files of the TIMES HERALD we quote the "fulfillment" of one of Miss Carter's astounding predictions; "Turkey came into the war early this year! A few months later Germany surrendered. VE Day was declared—and up went another chalk mark on the horseshoe record for Marguerite Carter."

Again in 1941, Russia's hour of trial, Miss Carter stated, "Adolph Hitler will never conquer Russia in its entirety. He may defeat the bulk of the Red armies and capture cities, but the Russians will come around behind their lines and cut them to pieces. This will be the beginning of his end!"

In 1944 when Russia was in a seemingly weakened condition, Marguerite Carter warned, "We shall find it necessary to sit down at a peace table with Russia and CONCEDE to her wishes—Only shrewd maneuvering will prevent her being the completely dominant power in Europe!" Today the world knows the fateful fulfillment of these words.

In "1958" Miss Carter forecast for "1959", "Your attention will be on MONEY. Today you know the accuracy of these words.

Now, she says, "older" people will not only come into the limelight in all affairs but will touch almost every individual's life! They may be a strong factor in labor disputes. This is a "transition" period of adjustment financially. Workers will change about now with new plans as to location. All business firms will consolidate to strengthen themselves financially. It will be important to have "cash on hand" in 1960 and 1961 followed by a "GOLDEN ERA" in 1962!

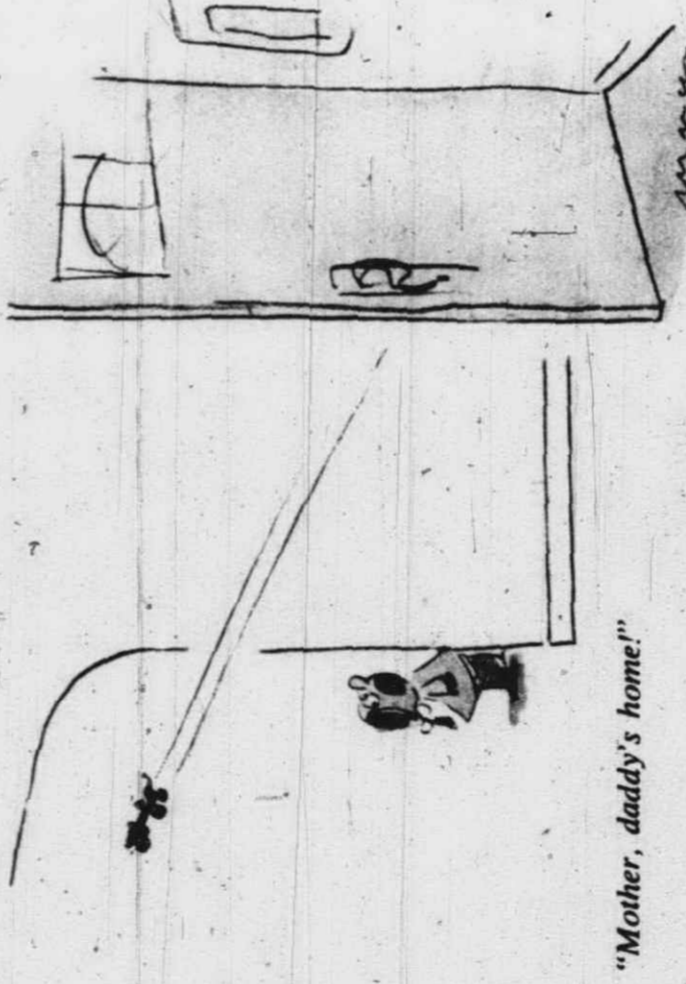

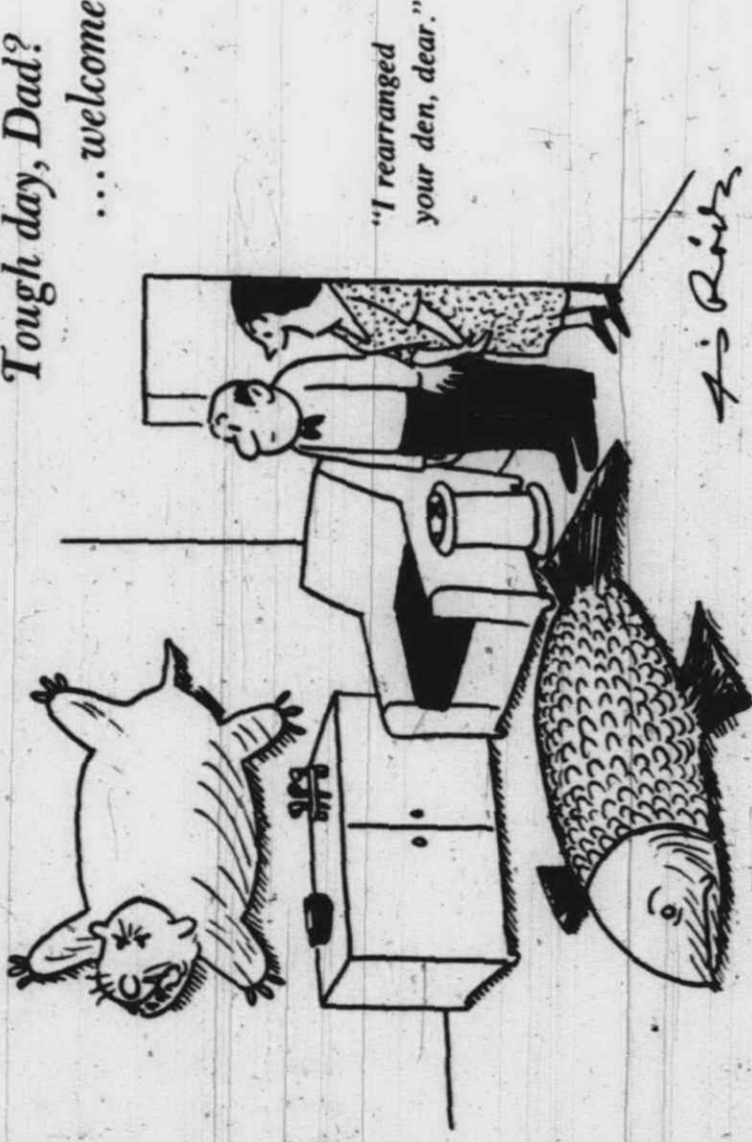

Wise changes and shrewd moves are important now so that you may protect your possessions as well as attain the finer things you desire. The guidance of someone who has your interests at heart and who understands your problems can mean a turning point for you by showing you the way safely through this period of adjustment!

Marguerite Carter is so highly regarded, that men in important positions seek her counsel daily! She is internationally known for her predictions and respected for her accuracy and honesty. She is to be trusted!

TEST HERE! You'll be well pleased with MISS CARTER'S ABILITY TO DESCRIBE ACCURATELY YOUR YEAR AHEAD! Send your birthdate—month, date, year, place and hour of birth (if known)—with $3.00 for your forecast which includes Miss Carter's SPECIAL NOTATIONS showing OUTSTANDING INDICATIONS covering your financial outlook, guidance in changes, health, etc. (Or send $2.00 if you wish the forecast without her special work.) Allow three weeks for careful, proper attention. Address: Marguerite Carter, 902 Jackson Building, Indianapolis 25, Indiana. Enclose 10c extra for mailing costs.

Suburbia—Any Day!

Tough day, Dad?

belonged to the same club, worshipped at the same church. They often ate the same things, depending on whether turkey or shoulder of lamb was the buy at the supermarket. When results were compared with the same tests made on a mixed group of California children, the suburban children as a group rated from slightly to markedly worse in such important matters as "sense of personal freedom," "feeling of belonging," and "social skills." They were limited by their limited experience.

It is as clear as research and data and statistics can make it that there are trends in the suburbs—especially in the most attractive suburbs—that can make for limited experience and a narrow mind. It is also as clear as common sense can make it that it doesn't happen to your child. The resources for enlarging his experience exist right along with the opposite and more obvious trends. The practical question is, how do you make use of them? You can make occasions, as Dr. Dubl suggests, take trips to the city. If your sheltered child

HE HAS OPEN MIND NOW

WOULD YOU MOVE your child to the city for his own good?
 One mother who recently took this drastic step explains her thinking, and in so uncertain terms.
 "At tremendous personal expense, and against my children's resistance," she reports, "I fled from paradise. I fled, not from the country, but from the filtered experience which I had been providing for my children. We went to where the children could be tempted to join street-corner society, where they could see brute poverty and vice and exultation and the bewilderment of the rejected immigrant: where they could be exposed to bad English and despicable music. I took them where they could meet taste that had not been labeled good or bad, so they could make their own decisions about it; where their associates had not been implicitly preselected and pre-labeled as desirable."

"After a period of disorientation and anguish," she concludes, "my children were all glad of the move."
 These are fighting words. If you have read this far you must want to ask:
 "How much experience does a child gain by being exposed to 'brute poverty' that—luckily for him—is not his lot? And how can you look on 'street-corner society' as a device for broadening sheltered suburban children?"
 It is easy to take issue with details, but it is more important to know that this mother who took her children back to the city is Dorothy Lee, a professional anthropologist, a scientist trained to observe human behavior and gauge the consequences. From observation and learning and personal experience she reasons that a suburban upbringing today will tend to soften a child and hold him back.

In her view, what she calls the "filtered experience" of the suburbs deprives a child of the opportunity to meet discomfort. His natural enterprise and curiosity become stunted in an orderly, unadventurous life where he does what everyone else does and makes friends only with people like himself. There is not enough opportunity to experiment and learn and broaden himself in the process.

 Dr. Lee is not alone in her misgivings. Dr. Leonard Duhl of the National Institute of Mental Health in Washington also warns against the sheltered life.

"It is the responsibility of parents to do everything to expose their children to different experiences," he says. "I sometimes think parents living in particularly exclusive suburbs would be wise to make regular visits to the city during certain parts of a child's growing up."

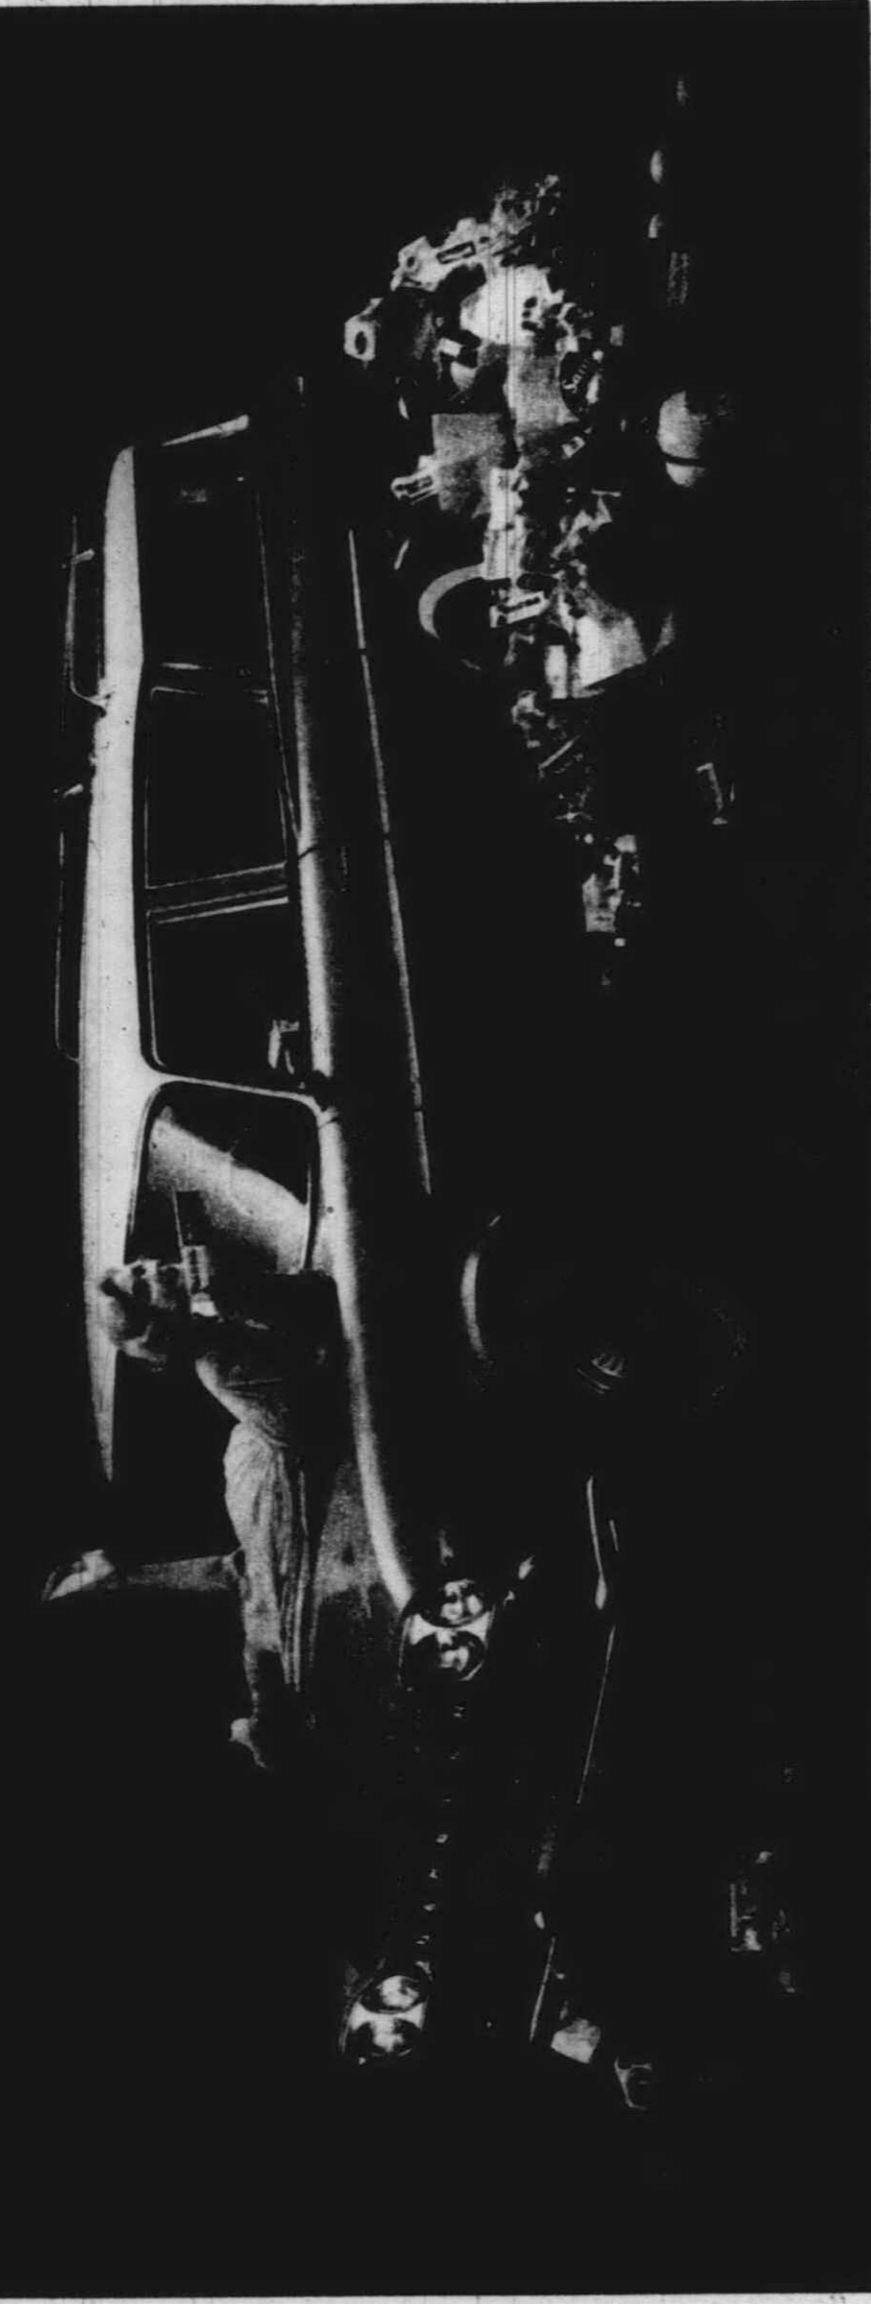

Along with the scientists, plain laymen with common sense—parents included—have begun to question whether an upbringing in an ideal suburb is the ideal thing.

"As in any paradise since the days of Adam and Eve," says one young father, "a closer inspection reveals certain drawbacks."

But you can't, as they say, have everything—always an irritating thought, especially where your children are concerned. So isn't it enough to raise a child in a pleasant neighborhood where he can grow up with congenial companions and go to a good school? The answer, it appears, is no.

IN A pleasant suburb called Crestwood Heights careful tests were made on the children by three sociologists, John R. Seeley, R. Alexander Sim, and E. W. Loosely. The houses these children lived in were charming, and much the same, with TV room, terrace, and barbecue. Their fathers earned about the same amount of money, their families

What Do I Do Now, Mr. Packard?

BY JEAN KERR

AUTHOR OF "PLEASE DON'T EAT THE DAISIES"

I HAVE just finished reading "The Status Seekers" which according to the author, Vance Packard, "explores class behavior in America." And now I'm really upset. Here I've been, all these years, supposing that I was a perfect example of a low-status type. Oh, I just knew, that's all. In fact, there didn't seem to be any other possibility. Here we were: Democrats, driving around in a ten-year-old Chevy, eating meat-loaf, and going to see American movies. Little things, you say, but they add up—particularly when you have five children and not one of them can spell.

But I wasn't really worried. I was bearing up nicely until I read Vance Packard's book. And the reason I am at sixes and sevens now is because it seems, and you won't believe this, it seems that I am really a high-status type. But here's the terrible thing: nobody knows it. My friends (a low-status group if I ever saw one) don't know it. The sales-girls in Saks Fifth Avenue clearly don't know it. My very own mother doesn't know it or she wouldn't keep saying to me, "For heaven's sake, buy yourself a decent set of dishes." This is simply not the remark one makes to a high-status person.

Oh, I am surrounded by skeptics, but I refer them all to Mr. Packard. He says very plainly that "women who are really secure in their upper-class status may become fond of a good-outfit and wear it for years." You'll know how secure I am when I tell you that I still have this suit I bought before I was married. (It's a little tight now, so I just don't button the last three buttons.) But fond of it? If I weren't afraid of sounding mawkish, I'd come right out and say that I'm just plain crazy about that brown tweed suit. It may be fifteen years old this month, but it's just as baggy as the day I bought it. And it's suitable for so many occasions. Whether I am taking two sick cats to the vet, spreading peat moss on the rosebushes, or merely staining the front door, I know I'm dressed correctly when I'm wearing that suit.

There are those who may scoff to read Mr. Packard's report that "the fabulously well-dressed Mrs. Winston Guest recently took with her to Europe a suit she has been wearing for eight years." Now it seems perfectly clear to me why Mrs. Guest took that suit to Europe. It's probably been hanging there getting on her nerves for seven years. By this time she's ashamed to give it to the help and reluctant to burn it. So what could be simpler than showing it through a porthole? If I ever go to Europe, that's exactly what I mean to do with this horrible brown tweed suit. Okay, I lied when I said I was crazy about that suit.

But let's get back to the facts. Another dead giveaway of my high social status is the way I entertain. Mr. Packard insists that at the upper-class level people "tend to prefer relaxed informality. Food typically is offered casually. There may be amiable and fairly open flirting and talking. Weaving figures may offer toasts." Honestly, if I didn't know better I'd swear that Packard was here one night last week. But then I imagine he has his spies, don't you?

As for this business about food being offered casually, I've actually been known to say, "Bill, I think you'll find pretzels on the second shelf." How could you be more upper-status than that? Mr. Packard concludes his summary of entertaining among the elect by stating flatly that "the people having the party at the upper level usually are not trying to prove anything. Publicity in the newspapers is not sought." Well, I should think not. With those weaving figures offering toasts, it seems to me the less said about the whole thing the better.

Mr. Packard Replies

Dear Mrs. Kerr:

If I had known that you, of all people, were going to be reading my book, I would have added an interesting fact which turned up in my research. That is that eating daisies also is definitely upper-class. In fact, it is even more upper-class than eating the meat-loaf you cite. However, eating daisies is not quite as upper as what my son ate when he was the age of your children. He ate lent caterpillars. At least we kept finding fuzz around his lips as he grinned at us.

Now if you are really worried because your high status doesn't seem fully appreciated by your friends, why don't you dramatize it? Get yourself hauled into court for nonpayment of bills which have been beneath your notice. Or better still, get yourself thrown out of the best club in town for unlady-like behavior. These will surely bring you the respectful recognition you so richly deserve.

Vance Packard

But isn't it nice to know that when you are not trying to prove anything with a party you are really proving that you are a high-status person?

Reading further (You notice how this is all adding up, don't you?), we learn that "the slim figure is more of a preoccupation with women of the upper classes. As you go down the scale, married women take plumpness more calmly." Observe that there is nowhere the suggestion that the upper-class female may not be plump. No, the implication is clear. It's all right to be plump as long as you're not calm about it.

Well, as far as that goes, you should have seen me trying on bathing suits in Lane Bryant's last summer. Not that there was any chance you'd have seen me, since I wouldn't even allow the motherly saleswoman to witness the struggles of that dreadful half hour. I tried on suit after suit, all of them designed by some shut-in in California who, it seems to me, would benefit from a beginner's course in anatomy. But at each succeeding glimpse of myself in the rearview mirror I burst into wild outcries and muffled sobs. Indeed, I was anything but calm as I went off to soothe myself with a butterscotch sundae.

And don't worry about the quality of your conversation. Once you begin to get the hang of it you will find yourself just naturally making statements that are irreproachably upper-status. For instance, should the occasion arise, you might say "Gimme a hunk (the high-status person uses unpretentious language) of that pumpernickel (only the upper classes like firm, hard bread)." If you want to be really on the safe side, you might add, parenthetically, "but make it a small hunk," which would indicate that you were not taking plumpness calmly. As I say, it's a technique that can be learned. What's nice for me is that I was born liking pumpernickel bread.

Now that I've laid out the evidence and proved beyond question that I am a true high-status type, there is one statement in the book that comes back to haunt me. That statement plainly says, "medical investigators have noticed as you get near the bottom of the social scale, there is an abrupt rise in a disorder called anomie—feeling isolated, loosely attached to the world, and convinced that things are tough all over."

Feeling isolated? Loosely attached to the world? Convinced that things are tough all over? But that's the way I feel. That's the way I feel all the time. Now what do I do, Mr. Packard?

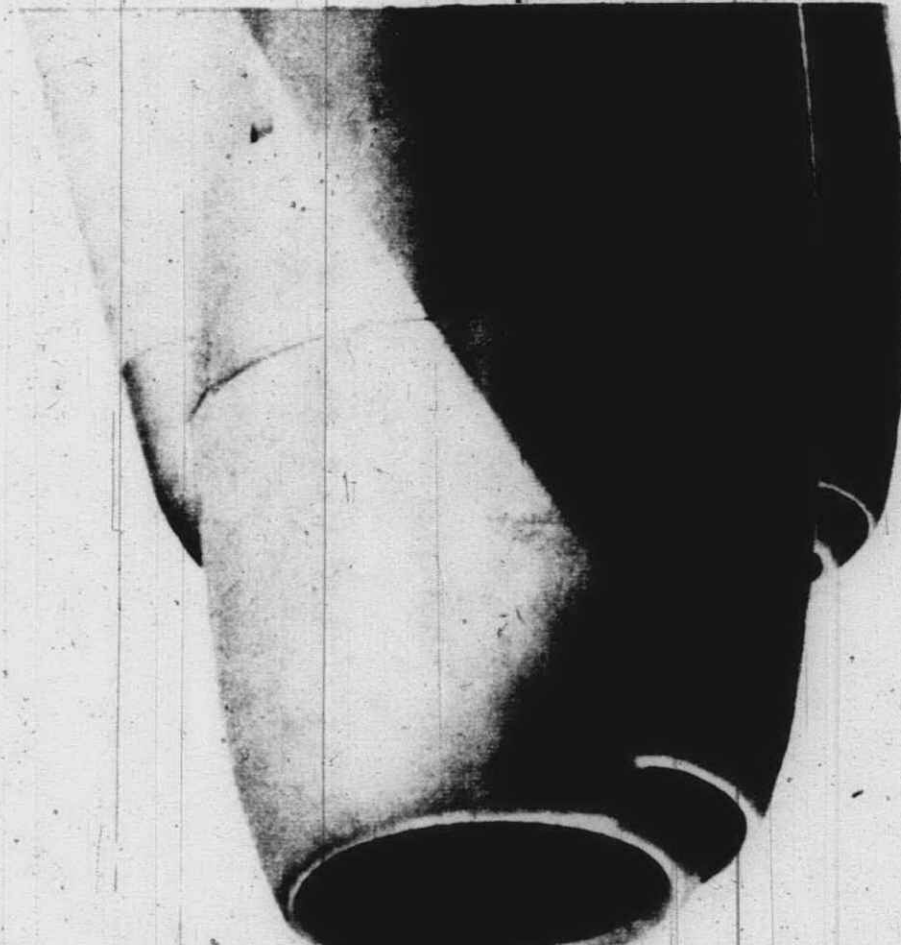

"I tried on suit after suit..."

"Hurry, Spring!" That's how we feel at Swissair. For in May we bring you our own special kind of jet service. How to Plan THE EASY GARDEN

BY JOHN BRIMER
Pull up an armchair, open a seed catalog, and turn to "Annuals"

WHAT ARE the easiest flowers to grow?
 For me, the answer is annuals. Much as I enjoy my perennials, the digging up, dividing, and replanting as the beds get overcrowded, have become real chores. That is why I'm saving only my choicest perennials this year and planting the other beds with annuals. Most of the work, in this plan, will come in the beginning, when hopes are high and the weather is cool.

As the seedlings appear, I'll thin them out so that each plant has plenty of room for future development, weeding as necessary until they get big enough to shade out the late weeds. Then I'll enjoy the flowers all season long and, when frost puts an end to that, out will come the plants to be discarded. Each spring I can spade in plant foods, humus, and lime, if needed, so that the soil will be kept in good tilth and fertile enough for the flowers to flourish.

Now, too, if I wish, I can have a different garden each year, merely by varying my choice of seeds. I can grow all the old favorites I remember from my grandmother's garden and try out the exciting new hybrids that are offered each year, adding those which perform well to my permanent list of favorites.

In the main, however, I'll stick to the long-blooming sort which needs little care and use it for the "backbone" of my borders. Petunias, marigolds, and zinnias are the Big Three among dependable annuals in our country, coming in so many shades and sizes that a garden can be made with only one of them. In fact, if you have limited space, do just that.

It is later than you think for planning the easy garden, so send for your catalogs at once if you haven't already got them. They will tell you all you need to know about the height of your annuals and the size of the flowers, and some give planting information and other instructions. Make your plans right away so you can order your seeds early and have them in hand, ready to plant—against that glorious spring day when you can put them in the soil. The rest will be easy—but not too easy!
