Township Opens Sewer for Neighborhoods in Stress

Private contractors are at work in Plymouth Township tying homes into the badly-needed sanitary sewer system.

The $579,000 sewer system, which is still under construction in some areas, is now being used for the first time by some customers in the southern section of the Township. A pumping station near Joy Rd. and Main St. has been placed in operation.

Homes along four lines can now be attached. They are along Sheldon, Brookline, Elmhurst and Marlowe.

Those wanting to tie their buildings into the sewer can now make application at the Township Hall. Around 40 have made application so far, according to Township Treasurer Elizabeth Holmes.

A tap-in fee of $400 is charged every user when they make application. They are given the option of paying the $400 either in a lump sum or on installments. The installment plan is paid off at $18 a year for 25 years. Property owners would be billed $3 every other month.

These tying into the sewer must have it done by a private contractor. There are several concerns working in the area.

It would be possible for a homeowner to do the work himself if he had sufficient know-how, but the job is inspected by the township's plumbing inspector and it is recommended that only qualified workmen be employed for the task.

The old septic tanks and seepage fields must be filled in. The cost of running the sewer tile from the house to the sewer is based on footage and usually runs from $175 to $200.

As of this week, only one applicant has paid the lump sum. He is Tony Jackovich, 9024 Elmhurst. The cost of paying the $400 bill over a period of 25 years would be $450.

There was an urgent need of getting the sewer system under operation. Many of the underground seepage fields were broken as equipment rolled over them as the sewer was being laid. Some residents reported that their septic tank systems were non-operative.

A deadline of two years will be set for tying into the sewer. But since the sewer is not completed yet the starting date for figuring the deadline has not been established.

City to Combat Iron Rust in Water

City Commissioners took their first step Monday night toward eliminating the problem of rusty water that has been plaguing the Water Department more and more each year.

A motion was approved to have the City Manager obtain bids on machines which will dispense a solution into the water to keep the iron particles in suspension instead of clinging to the sides of the pipes and mains.

For several months a committee of city officials has been exploring means of eliminating the rust problem. Complaints are received each week from housewives who find brown, rusty water coming from their water taps. They are especially an unhappy lot when the rust comes on wash day.

A solution called hexametaphosphate will be introduced to the water supply should Commissioners decide to buy the machines. This chemical is now being used in many Michigan cities which have the same problem. Rusty water is a problem where city water comes from wells.

Iron particles gradually build up inside water mains. When there is a large demand, water rushes through the pipes and breaks off these particles in large quantities and shows up as brown, rusty water. Adding hexametaphosphate to the water system would mean that iron particles that have been piling up for decades would be broken away. This would probably cause a very rusty water condition for many weeks.

Joseph Bida, DPW superintendent, told Commissioners that he had been to Kalamazoo that day where they used the Calgon system. He was told that some six inch mains had been reduced to only three inches by rust accumulation.

Loss of Sheldon Rd. Case Brings Re-Assessment

Preparation of an assessment roll that will eliminate residential property from the Sheldon Rd. widening and Monday night in a resolution approved by the City Commission.

The resolution was in response to a decision by the State Supreme Court which upheld the Circuit Court in eliminating residential property from the project. Commercial and industrial properties along the route from Ann Arbor Trail to the C. & O. Railroad will be assessed, however.

AN ARMY of snowmen was born Monday as Plymouth received its first hardy snow since last fall. For the youngsters it was a welcome treat. New sleds that Santa brought got their first workout. Here, Debra Sue Young, 5,

Commission To Cooperate With Pastors

Following an appeal by Plymouth churchmen who are concerned over the sale of "indecent literature" by local magazine vendors to young people, the City Commission approved a motion Monday night calling for the drafting of an ordinance controlling sales of such material.

The Rev. John Walaskay, president of the Plymouth Ministerial Association, and the Rev. Fr. William Child, assistant pastor of Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church, appeared before the Commission to urge the legislation.

Michigan has both civil and criminal statutes covering indecent literature but passage of a local ordinance was asked in order to make enforcement possible by local police and courts. "Most people of respectable reputation don't know there is such magazines being sold in our stores," Fr. Child told the Commission. He said that a committee has purchased 10 different magazines in Plymouth stores which would be regarded as indecent literature.

He estimated that 75 percent of such magazines are purchased by teen-agers. "What adults read is their own business," Fr. Child asserted. "But what children read is our business."

Rev. Walaskay, who is pastor of Plymouth Assembly of God, suggested that a committee of representative citizens be named to assist the city in the enforcement of the ordinance. He suggested that a committee be composed of people from the P.T.A., Protestant and Catholic church groups and civic organizations.

Such a committee would have the duty of reporting to police whenever a questionable piece of literature is found.

Mayor Harold Guenther declared that there is no question that the Commission is interested in working on the problem. He added, however, that mere passage of an ordinance will not solve it. "It is a problem of policing and we would need the cooperation of citizens to keep it policed."

Commissioner Marvin Terry noted that a few years ago there was an attempt by local magazine dealers to "clean up" their shelves. But he said that the distributors haul in magazines without their even knowing what's inside.

"I believe the merchants would be happy to get them off the shelves," Terry asserted.

The question of determining what is and is not "indecent" is difficult to decide in many cases. According to interpretations of the U.S. Supreme Court, the freedom of speech "can and must be censured when it is abused in pornographic or definitely indecent publications."

Censorship can be enforced only after a judge or jury has ruled a publication illegal.

Some local magazine vendors have the so-called "art men's" magazines behind counters instead of on display so that they can be purchased only upon request.

Fr. Child and Rev. Walaskay told The Mail that there are perhaps 15 different magazines on sale which they feel should be banned.

The state law, found in Act 265 of 1957 and Act 127 of 1958, covers not only magazines and newspapers, but

IT MAY HURT financially, but the new Plymouth Township sanitary sewer was welcomed by most of those it will serve. Here is Tony Jackovich, 9024 Elmhurst, who was the first to pay the full $400 tap-in fee. The sewer connection to the home must be contracted by the property owner. Jackovich's job was done by the Len Excavating Co., of several working in the Green Meadows area.

Rock Tankers Sink State Swim Champs

By Bill Nelson

Plymouth's 1960 swimming team has performed a trick that no other Plymouth swimming team has been able to do—they beat Ann Arbor last Saturday evening 56-40.

After the last event Coach John McFall leaped into the swimming pool only a half-step ahead of a crowd of his players who were intent on their coach getting a victory bath, fully clothed. Six hundred Rock fans who had made the trip for the meet screamed in delight at the festivities.

When sanity was restored and the last victim of celebration had gone for a swim in multi or not, a historian could have seen good reasons for the noise.

State champions last year, Ann Arbor was behind from the opening gun. Plymouth pushed to an early 37-17 lead with first in five of the first six events.

Jim Carney started it off by stroking to the wire first in the 50-yard free style. He was timed in 24.5. Dick Gretzinger then turned in the first of two wins by swimming the 10 yard butterfly in 59.

Ron Daley contributed another first for Plymouth in the third event, the 200-yard (Continued on Page 7)

NEWS BEAT

A number of citizens got worried last week when they saw many of the large trees in Kellogg Park being cut. A tree-trimming firm had been hired by the city to do some work on city-owned trees. Seven trees which were dying were originally scheduled for cutting but as they trimmed limbs off others, more rot was found and a total of 13 trees came down. It is planned to move some of the smaller trees to the outer edge of the park.

SURPRISE INTEREST: The Board of Education approved the experimental Saturday classes in Spanish for children in grades four through eight. Forty were expected at last Saturday's first class. Eighty-nine showed up. The instructor, Carmelo Crespo, has split the group into three sections. There is a $3 charge for the class. Placing of foreign language in elementary curriculum is under consideration for next year.

FIRST REPORT: We don't know if its an early one or a late one, but a robin was reported in Plymouth last week. Mrs. Bernice Reddeman, 334 Arthur, who feeds many varieties of birds throughout the winter, found a robin in her yard, which everyone hopes will herald an early spring.

FIRE RUN: City firemen made a run at 7:30 Monday night to Starkweather Ave. but there was no fire. Gasoline fumes had accumulated in the basement of a home but no cause for the fumes was found. They had disappeared by Tuesday morning, firemen reported. WINS CONTRACT: Among the 12 architects selected to build 17 new schools and additions in Detroit was Gould, Moss & Joseph, a Plymouth architectural firm. They will build the Chrysler Elementary School... Eberle Smith, designer of the Plymouth Junior High, will design the Knudson Junior High.

ALIVE AGAIN: The old frame Bartlett School on Canton Center Rd., which closed two years ago, is alive with people again. Used for storage since its closing, it is being used by the Theatre Guild for work... The school district leases the property on terms that it be used for educational purposes.

BUDGET NOTE: Those reading over Gov. G. Mennen Williams' "State of the State" address carefully may have noted that the Plymouth State Home and Training School was mentioned. He has recommended that another unit be built at the new state facility for retarded children.

Symphony To Play Annual Family - Appealing Concert

A panorama of America featuring music that is colorful, nostalgic and gay will be heard this Sunday afternoon when the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra presents its annual Family Concert.

Directed by Wayne Dunlap, the 100-piece Symphony will play in the Plymouth High School gymnasium starting at 4 p.m.

The Family Concert, given each January, attracts large crowds because it is especially appealing to young people.

One of the interesting numbers on Sunday's program will be "A Young Person's Guide to the Orchestra." With Dr. Ford Sutherland as narrators, the various instruments of the orchestra will be presented individually, in various combinations, and finally altogether.

Dr. Sutherland, who is president of the Theatre Guild, played the role of Captain in "Mr. Roberts" this season and was narrator in "Teahouse of the August Moon" last season.

Also being featured on the program is Nat Sibbold, popular Plymouth baritone who most recently sang the role of the Paige in "Amahl and the Night Visitors." Sunday's program will be made up almost entirely of American composers with the exception of Benjamin Britten who wrote the "Young Person's Guide."

Opening the program will be "American Patrol" by Meacham. Throughout this well-known stirring number will be themes of other patriotic music such as "Dixie." Slowing the tempo somewhat will be "Woodland Sketches" by MacDowell. Two selections from the "Sketches" will be played: "To a Wild Rose" and "To a Water Lily."

Closing the first half of the program will be "Legend of the Arkansas Traveler" by McDonald.

Heard during the second half will be: "Farm Journal Suite" by Moore; "Young Person's Guide to the Orchestra" by Britten; and the popular "U.S. Field Artillery March" by Sousa.

As usual, there will be no admission charge. A baby sitting service will be offered by a Girl Scout troop with adult supervision.

Center Booms Detroit

Plymouth, Take Note

If Plymouth has some serious ideas about building a "civic center," the right man was in town last week to give some advice about such big projects.

He was Judge Frank G. Schemanske, president of Detroit's Civic Center Commission, who has been a member of the planning body ever since he was appointed in 1929.

Judge Schemanske was invited to speak before the Plymouth Rotary Club last Friday. In the audience were Mayor Harold Guenther and several other City officials who have hopes of someday providing some type of civic center for Plymouth. If anyone has faith in what good a civic center does, it's Judge Schemanske. While the Detroit Center is a wonderful thing in itself, the judge firmly believes that without it, downtown Detroit would be regressing today instead of progressing.

There hadn't been a major new building built in downtown Detroit for 25 years until the Civic Center started. Judge Schemanske declared. "The Center placed confidence in the downtown area and now look at us."

New buildings have included the National Bank of Detroit, Grand Circus parking lot, University City, and Greyhound Bus Terminal. Michigan Consolidated and the new Federal Post Office are going up, both bringing in new taxes (the post office is leased to the government.) Other new buildings planned are the Detroit News, Detroit Bank and Trust, Manufacturers' Bank, hotels, motels and office buildings.

"The added assessed valuation of buildings already up is $140 million. Another $70 million is under consideration and we feel that it will eventually hit an ASSESSED valuation of $500 million," the Judge estimated.

There was a time when the Civic Center Commission "didn't even have a two-cent stamp," the Recorder's Court judge declared. "But now we're worth $120 million."

When Schemanske was an assistant prosecuting attorney in 1929, he was appointed to what until recently was called the Memorial Hall Commission. Nothing was done until 1933 when Detroiters voted a $5.5 million bond issue for the public auditorium. But Detroit was broke and could not issue the bonds. But finally when Ed Jeffries was mayor, Detroit got a half million dollar refund from the state and it was ear-

Committee to Discuss Foreign Languages for Elementary Pupils

Dr. Charles Eastwood, curriculum director for the South Redford Schools, has been invited to the Jan. 20 meeting of the Plymouth School - Community Planning Group's curriculum committee. Dr. Eastwood has been asked to give the "how" and "why" of South Redford's program of foreign languages in their eight elementary schools.

Elementary foreign language classes, the conversational variety, have increased in popularity over the past five years. In Wayne County's thirty-three school districts, 30,000 students in grades four through six are taking lessons in Russian, French, Spanish, or German. Plymouth's curriculum committee felt it was time to study the situation and consider if the Plymouth elementary schools might eventually offer enrichment courses in this area.

INTERESTED fourth grade students at the Will Rogers School in South Redford Township check up on their Spanish pronunciation. Dr. Rene Rodolosi, Director of Languages, conducts the special half-hour class in conversational Spanish for the South Redford students. The Plymouth School-Community Planning Group's Curriculum Committee is holding an open discussion on foreign language study for elementary students at their January 20th meeting.

Progress Noted in St. John's At Annual Parish Meeting

The Annual Parish Meeting of St. John's Episcopal Church, Plymouth, took place on Thursday, Jan. 14 in the Church Hall with a good representation of the parishioners present. The meeting was preceded by a potluck supper.

According to the Canons of the Church, the Rector, the Rev. David T. Davies, presided and presented his report which indicated a substantial growth in church membership during the past year. He remarked about the good fellowship that characterizes the church and that this is an important factor in winning people into the fellowship of the church.

The financial reports that were presented were most encouraging and indicated a willingness on the part of the membership to sacrifice for the church and its work at home and abroad.

Regarding the new church and parish house which are now under construction, the Rector indicated that it is the hope of the Vestry that the congregation will be able to hold our Easter services in the new church. This project is generating a great deal of interest and enthusiasm among the membership.

One of the highlights of the Annual Parish Meeting is the election of three new vestrymen for a term of three years. The Vestry is composed of nine men, three of whom retire each year. This year the retiring members are Edwin C. Meredith who has served as Senior Warden for the past two years; Ernest W. Ebert, Jr., who was Junior Warden two years; and Laurence S. Ford, who has served as Parish Treasurer for the same period. A vote of thanks was extended to these men for their good work in behalf of the church.

The new vestrymen elected are Roland Bonamici, Harold Schoen and Donald Vanderveen and they will be officially installed on Sunday, Jan. 31 by the Rector.

Before the meeting adjourned Robert Utter expressed the gratitude of the Vestry and the congregation to the Rector for his faithful ministry and effective leadership to the Parish which was approved by a standing ovation of the members present.

Arden Sackett asked that recognition be given to Mrs. Davies for her good work and that too was expressed with hearty applause.

Planned Parenthood Group Opens Drive

A goal of $6,000 has been set by the Washtenaw County League for Planned Parenthood in its annual drive for support, it was announced by Mrs. Tom Lilley, chairman of the campaign.

"Nearly 30 percent of the costs of our clinics is carried by fees collected from our patients," Mrs. Lilley said, "but we must have the help from people throughout the county to make up the difference so that we can keep our clinics functioning."

The League operates clinics on Tuesday and Thursday nights at its headquarters, 122 N. Fourth Ave., Ann Arbor, and on Wednesday evenings, 27 South Prospect, Ypsilanti.

The clinics are staffed with a doctor, nurse and marriage counselor. Information about the League and the services offered by the clinics may be obtained by writing to the League's headquarters.

Lutherans Welcome Pastor

Warm greetings are being extended throughout Plymouth to the Rev. Norman Berg and their five children. The pastor arrived here two weeks ago to assume the pastorate of St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church.

Pastor Berg succeeds the Rev. Edgar Hoenecke who became director of world missions for the Lutheran Church - Wisconsin Synod.

A native of Saginaw, Pastor Berg was graduated from

Plymouth High Student Named for English Skill

Among 800 high school students across the nation who were commended for "excellence in English language skills" this month was Sally Wayne Sawyer, a Plymouth High senior.

The award was made by the National Council of Teachers of English. Sally was among 5,000 who originally entered the competition last spring.

Scrolls of recognition will be presented to the various winners and runners-up. The names of all 800 finalists will be sent to colleges and universities throughout the country with recommendations that they be considered for appropriate scholarships.

Sally, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Sawyer, 1435 Penniman. She will graduate from Plymouth this June and plans to enter Ohio University, Athens, O., this fall to study the teaching of music.

From Michigan alone, there were 18 actual winners and an equal number of runners-up. Sally was named as a runner-up, although the difference between winner and runner-up in the competition has been termed slight.

Competition for the literary award began last spring. Sally, a junior at the time, and Diaphe Van Loo were selected to represent Plymouth High on the basis of impromptu essays they wrote. The subject of the essay was

"What I Hope to Get Out of College."

The National Council of Teachers of English then administered, through local teachers, a 40-minute standardized test which Sally and her classmate, Diane, both took.

These two completed tests, plus an autobiographical sketch, a paper earlier turned in for class-work, and two supporting letters from a teacher and a school administrator were the basis for the judges' decision as to the ultimate winners.

The 5,000 students originally entered in the competition came from high schools in all 50 states.

National Council of Teachers of English is a non-profit professional organization which works with English teachers in numerous ways to help improve the teaching of English from kindergarten to college. The Council has about 60,000 members.

Letters TO THE EDITOR

Editor: Frankly I am in a quandary as to why there should be a difference between the Sheldon Rd. paving and South Main St. paving. South Main St. was an existing pavement and was adequate for the use of the property owners. And I believe it was considered one of the finest pavements in the state of Michigan. If it was not laid right the first time, then why should we be involved now? Perhaps it did need widening for the benefit of growth and increased traffic, which proves the growth of business and population. Because of progress and expansion of business it has brought more traffic such as more trucks, perhaps heavier trucks and other commercial vehicles. Sheldon Rd. has had expansion of business as we have and I see no difference in their expansion there than on South Main, which is definitely a main artery and a bigger source of convenience to all than to the property owners on South Main St. Perhaps someone can give a logical answer and pray they will.

First Baptists To Hear Korean Yule Concert

The Christmas Concert of the "Garden of Children Korean Orphanage Choir" will be heard during the 7:30 Happy Evening Hour of the Plymouth First Baptist Church this Sunday, Jan. 23. The concert, as presented at the Osan Air Base, Dec. 27, has been taped for the affair at the Plymouth church by Captain Robert Malsbury, Deputy Finance Officer at the base and member of the local church. Composed of orphaned Korean children from two to 14 years, the group will be heard singing both the Korean and English languages. An introduction to the concert will be made by Captain Jacob Till, chaplain at the air base at Osan. The concert will precede the brief message of the pastor, the Rev. David L. Rieder, entitled "Jesus Has No Orphans." At the close of the meeting, a social hour and refreshments will be enjoyed by the congregation. A cordial invitation to the community has been extended by the local church for all to enjoy the novel presentation.

THE MAIL ATTITUDE

BY PAUL CHANDLER

Pastor Edgar Hoenecke of St. Peter's Lutheran Church has made his farewells in Plymouth without editorial comment yet by The Mail. It's none too soon that the footnote be added.

This reporter has been in Plymouth almost four years now, a short stretch compared to Rev. Hoenecke's.

When we as a stranger began looking around, one of the most impressive and inspiring institutions in Plymouth, right off the bat, was Pastor Hoenecke's congregation. It was conspicuously robust, seats also were packed on Sunday, the best barometer of pride, moving with the vigor of a young sophomore church rather than one long-established. The eter of all.

Since then, respect for this Church and its Pastor has only increased. It's a bold Pastor's handiwork.

The Mail thus only adds its voice to the community chorus which has rendered its opinion.

Well done, good and faithful Pastor from Plymouth.

State politics have been bubbling close to the brim of the pot in recent days and there should be local interest in a poll recently taken of the opinions of all the newspaper editors in Michigan.

An insurance man financed the survey to determine whom the editors believed had the best chance of winning on both political tickets.

On the Democratic side, Governor Williams led all others, with 94 first place tallies, followed by 58 for Secretary of State James Hare.

When the editors selected those who would poll the second largest number of votes, Hare was in front by 65, followed by Williams with 25, John Swainson of Plymouth with 21, John C. Mackie with 13, Sanford Brown with 9, Paul Adams with 4 and Lynn Bartlett with 2.

Since it is a matter of doubt (yet) that Soapy will run for a seventh term, an analysis of the combined votes for first and second place presented these totals:

Hare 123; Williams 117; Swainson 24; Mackie 16; Brown 9; Adams 7; Bartlett 5.

Among the Republicans, the editors apparently can see no other than Paul Bagwell, the Michigan State professor with the smile who was the GOP candidate two years ago.

Combining first and second votes, Bagwell had 151; Frank Beadle 27; Edward Hutchinson 11; Carlton Morris 27; Don Pears 29; Elmer Porter 6; George Sallade 9; John Smeecks 12.

Hence, if you want to jump to conclusions, it would be that the race will be a re-match of Williams vs. Bagwell, if the Governor chooses to run again. Otherwise it would be Hare vs. Bagwell.

But I believe my newspaper colleagues have failed to measure the public mind accurately when they say Williams is the strongest possible Democrat.

There's sports writing in our background, and we vividly remember that when something goes wrong with the team, the fans (and often the owners) cry for the coach's scalp.

The American public is leader-conscious. They give blame and credit to an individual whether he has control over his destiny or not. It's simpler that way. Few adults have time, knowledge nor disposition to analyze all the many factors which might contribute to success or failure. If things go wrong, just "fire the coach."

And things have gone wrong in Lansing during the past two years. Whether Soapy is guilty or innocent, no matter.

The public, I believe, will seek a change and the coach is about to get the sack, in the primary if he's opposed there; otherwise in the final election.

Our readers should know, in another mood, that the current vile effort to stir up a wave of anti-Semitism across the world isn't entirely something distant and vague.

Our own morning mail brought a letter, posted right here in our small city, by some coward who writes in pencil. It was no kid's prank. It was adult handwriting.

It suggested violent measures against the Jews here and was signed "President, National American Socialist Renaissance Party." A swastika in red pencil adorned the bottom of the page.

Strains of this have been observed hereabouts in the past. The efforts always have been vain. Nonetheless, it is only part of prudence to realize that our barrel does not consist entirely of good apples.

Bowen Receives Degree Sunday

Among those receiving degrees from Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, during winter commencement exercises Sunday afternoon will be David M. Bowen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Bowen, 1113 Penman.

Bowen, a graduate of Plymouth High school, will receive a Bachelor of Science degree from University President Paul V. Sangren, who retires shortly. Commencement speaker will be Dr. John D. Millett, president of Miami University, Oxford, Ohio.

More than 600 degrees and certificates will be granted during the ceremony.

Another local youth who will also graduate from Western Michigan at the same time is George G. Harrison, 10615 Farmington road, Livonia. Harrison will receive a Bachelor of Science degree and a secondary teaching certificate.

Name New Adventist President

N.C. Wilson, Atlanta, Georgia, has been elected the new president of the Michigan Conference of Seventh Day Adventists, according to word received by J. Florea, local pastor.

The election was made by a 13-member executive committee, governing body of the church in Michigan. Wilson is president of the Georgia-Cumberland Conference of Seventh Day Adventists which includes the state of Georgia and eastern Tennessee.

The new executive has a long record of church administration. He has served as president of the denomination's mission program in Australia, Africa and Southern Asia as well as filling numerous posts in America.

Wilson will replace George E. Hutches who has been elected educational director of the church in the Lake States area which includes Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin.

The new conference held will be moving to Michigan early in February and will be on hand for a statewide pastoral council in Lansing, Feb. 8-9.

Carried unanimously.

Community Fund Elects Board Officers, Hears Good Report

Election of new officers and directors of the Plymouth Community Fund and a report on the success of the 1959 drive were highlights of the annual meeting of the Fund held last week.

Hugh Griffin, director of community relations at the Plymouth plant of Burroughs Corp., was elected president of the board of directors. Carl Shear, retired auto dealer and a city commissioner, was named vice-president and Robert Barbour of the National Bank of Detroit was re-elected treasurer.

Two new board members were elected at the meeting and three others were re-elected.

The new members, both serving one-year terms, are Donald Sutherland, of Sutherland & Robson, public accounting firm; and City Manager Albert Glassford.

They will fill vacancies left by the resignations of Charles Stofko and Richard Wer-nette.

Re-elected to the board for three year terms were C. V. Sparks, Thomas Rossettie and Mrs. Claude Gebhardt.

Others continuing their terms on the 12-member board are John Pint, the retiring president; Mrs. Carl Caplin, Orin Scrimger and James Sponseller.

Treasurer Robert Barbour reported on the 1959 drive and issued reports of the annual audit. With the campaign goal set at $34,000, the 1959 drive has resulted in cash and pledges of a little over $35,000. In addition, Barbour estimated that there could be other pledges of up to $19,000 coming through the United Foundation.

In taking over as president of the Fund, Griffin declared that "with Plymouth community having the only independent united fund-raising drive in Wayne County, Plymouth can be justifiably proud of its Community Fund organization. We must continue to strive to make our campaigns successful to retain our independence."

Tells Kiwanians Of Community College Interest

Harold Fisher, a member of the Plymouth Community School District Board of Education, and program chairman for the week of Jan. 1 presented Dr. Raymond Young, head of the department of Higher Education at the University of Michigan.

Dr. Young told the Kiwanians that with the advent of automation (and we are already under the impact of automation in this area) people not only produce more but that there is also an increased level of skill required which would indicate that a high school education is no longer the minimum requirement in this area.

The answer cost-wise from the taxpayers' point of view and the students' point of view is not in larger enrollments at our state universities but rather in a community-by-community resourcefulness in providing for additional educational facilities which would enable students to live at home while attending a community school or as it is better known, a junior college.

Between two and three thousand youth in our area have indicated an interest in continuing their education if such an institution were available in this area.

Local Officials to Attend Municipal League Meeting

Municipal officials from Plymouth and other Wayne County cities will gather in Wyandotte on January 21 for the annual meeting of Region III of the Michigan Municipal League. Attending will be mayors, village presidents, councilmen, and other elected and appointed officials from League member cities and villages in this county.

Program for Region III will open with a session on "Combining Police and Fire Departments", in which panelists will discuss the feasibility and responsibilities of a combined department and what results can be expected by combining the police and fire function into a single department.

Second half of the Region III program will be devoted to "Property Assessments and Recent Tax Commission Decisions".

A dinner meeting will be highlighted by a report on the "League Legislative Program for 1960", followed by a brief talk on county departments of public works, to be given by Glenn C. Richards, Director of Public Works, Detroit. The dinner session will conclude with the annual election of 1960-61 officers for Region III.

The Michigan Municipal League, organized in 1899, is made up of 414 cities and villages in Michigan and is dedicated to the advancement of home rule and to the improvement of municipal government through cooperative effort.

LEFT HANDED SWING shot by Plymouth forward Randy Egloff is good for two points in game last Friday at Plymouth High School. Looking on helplessly are Allen Park's Ong (33) and Grandy (40), while a teammate attempts to block. Plymouth won its fourth game 62-51.

First Federal Hits Milestone Of $300 Million

First Federal Savings of Detroit has begun its second quarter-century by reaching an important milestone - 300 million dollars in assets, reports Perry W. Richwine, vice president and branch manager of First Federal's Office at 843 Pennington Avenue, Plymouth.

"First Federal, Michigan's largest savings association, passed the 300 million mark just 2 1/2 months after celebrating its 25th anniversary," he remarks.

"The year 1959 was one of substantial growth in every department of our business," he continues. "Savings gained $28,910,000 to reach a new high of $274,000,000. More than $8,000,000 in earnings was paid during the year to our savings customers - by far the largest amount we have paid in any year. Over 27,500 people opened First Federal savings accounts during the year. Our mortgage department established a new record, by making 4,083 loans in 1959 - for a total of $54,600,000.

"It is a great satisfaction to know that First Federal leads all Michigan savings associations not only in total assets, but in the total of earnings paid on savings - in the size of its reserves - amounting to $21,000,000 - in the total of cash and government bonds, now $56,600,000 and in the number of savings customers (now over 123,500)."

REMEMBER HOW GOOD it felt when you were in school and got to see a movie during class time? It was almost like going to a "show." Youngsters who are in school today will be getting that feeling more often, thanks to educational TV. But instead of seeing a western or their favorite mystery, the kids may be watching a play by Shakespeare or seeing how an atom behaves. Educational TV, which uses telephone facilities to transmit the programs into the schools, has proven to be a valuable teaching aid.

ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL MADE IT IN 1950. The Hall of Fame, that is—a tribute to our nation's immortals. Because time and memory are fleeting, it might be interesting for you to see how familiar you are with these Americans who are also in the Hall of Fame. See if you can match their names with their professions:

- Horace Mann
- Sidney Lanier
- William T. G. Morton
- Patrick Henry
- Thomas Paine
- author
- statesman
- educator
- dentist
- poet

Here are the answers. If you got four out of five of them, consider yourself an expert in United States history.

To begin to list and describe all the terrific bargains in fine furniture that await you when the doors open to this great sale would take an entire newspaper. We assure you everything in our mammoth stock will go at slashed prices—reductions to 65%.

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE TO THE PUBLIC

We certainly don't claim to be philanthropists in offering this first complete store-wide sale in our 20 year business career . . . or using the above reasons merely to have a sale! Frankly, our business volume for 1959 was many thousands of dollars below our expectations . . . leaving us jammed past our ears with an extremely overloaded "BOTTLENECK" inventory! Therefore, good business judgement demands immediate lowering of merchandise investment . . . REGARDLESS OF COST OR LOSS! To accomplish this vital purpose within the next few days, our "world famous" stock of home furnishings is legitimately offered at — BELOW OUR COST PRICES.

WARNING

A sale of this nature is bound to attract crowds of eager buyers, perhaps more than our large store can hold. If such is the case, we will be compelled to close our doors at intervals to prevent overcrowding our selling space. If we are forced to do so, please be patient because the big bargains to be had will be worth your waiting, and there are plenty of bargains for all.

A square dance, sponsored by the Women's Reserve of Boy Scout Troop 298 of Canton Township has been planned for this Saturday night.

Proceeds from the dance will be used for Scout projects.

GREAT WALL OF TILE

NEW YORK (UPI) — At least 10 percent of all ceramic tile produced in 1959 will be used on building exteriors, says Tile Council research director Dr. J. Vincent Fitzgerald.

That would be about 24 million square feet — enough to cover a wall 100 yards high and 15 miles long.

PLYMOUTH-Northville's Sarah Ann Cochran chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution recently honored five area high school girls, all seniors, for having been named "Good Citizens" of their respective high schools. The five girls are shown above with Mrs. Claude A. Cruseo (left), the DAR Good Citizens' state chairman, and Mrs. Kenneth Hulsing, Good Citizens chairman of the DAR's Sarah Ann Cochran chapter. From left:

Mrs. Cruseo; Nancy Beard of Northville High; Donna Hockaday of Bentley High; Judy Salter of Garden City High; Mrs. Hulsing; Mavis Williams of Plymouth High; and Joyce Byron of South Lyon High. The girls were chosen by fellow students and teachers at their schools. DAR Chapter members hosted the girls at a luncheon Monday at Arbor-Lill. The five girls will also be guests in March of the DAR at its state conference in Flint.

Plymouth Township Home Struck by $8,000 Blaze

Heavy heat and smoke damage to a Plymouth Township home last week cost almost as much as all of last year's fires in the Township put together.

The home of Lewis Kliniski, 45275 Ann Arbor Rd., near Canton Center, was heavily damaged last Tuesday. Township firemen received the call at 6:07 p.m.

Fire Chief Howard Holmes said that no one was home when the fire broke out. The cause was listed as possibly due to a faulty furnace control failure. The home has a coal stoker furnace.

Flames went through the first floor over the furnace, traveled up a wall and into the attic. Smoke and heat damage was found throughout the house.

Insurance adjusters have placed damage to the building at $6,000 and $2,000 to the contents. Last year, total damage in all Township fires was but $8,695.

VICTORY SPLASH was given Plymouth High School Coach John McFall after his team had beaten Ann Arbor 56-40 for the first time. A little dazed and tired, McFall managed a big grin a moment later. (See story on Page 1.)

freestyle. He was clocked in 2:05.5 and twin brother Bob added a third in the same event.

Al Davies and Dick Michaels came home one-two in 100-yard backstroke. Davies' winning time was 1:03.7. Don Williams and Andy Whiting placed second and third, respectively, in the 100-yard backstroke.

Jim Carney won the 100-yard freestyle in 54.6 and Art Helm was second. Nick Herrick was third in diving competition as Ann Arbor closed the gap to 38-25.

Dick Greizinger posted his second first in the following event with a 2:24.2 in the individual medley. With Daley's third it gave Plymouth a 44-28 lead and set the stage for the 200-yard medley event which followed.

Davies, Williams, Toll and Daley combined efforts to win the event in 1:51.6 and to give Plymouth a 52-32 lead. It takes only 48 points to tie; 49 to win a swimming meet, so the final event was anticlimactic.

Daley, Balfour, Smith and Helm were second in the 200-yard freestyle and the final score was 56-40. "We might have had that one, too," Fall mused about the last event after the meet.

"It was a good team effort," McFall noted. "and most of them (Plymouth swimmers) had their best times or very close to that."

It was the sixth in a row for his unbeaten swimmers. "We've a long way to go to the end of the season and the state finals," McFall said.

But there was a big, wide grin behind it all. And when he boarded the bus for the return trip to Plymouth — well applause just rolled from the Rocks.

FRONT ROW CENTER

Two years ago old George was wandering down Broadway idly checking the theater marquees. The Winter Garden Theater had "West Side Story" as its occupant. Last week I wandered out of the Riviera Theater after a stirring performance of "West Side Story." The wait had been worth the effort. Now I'm sorry that I didn't go into the Winter Garden Theater earlier to see "West Side Story." It's the type of production you can see two or three times and still not absorb all its explosive beauty.

From the opening wild chords of the overture (music by Leonard Bernstein) to the closing bit of tense dialogue (book by Art Laurents) "West Side Story" is theater at the grand tradition. Larry Kert, from the original cast, is the backbone of the show. His balcony scene with Leila Martin stands out as a show-stopper. Scenery-wise, I doubt if you will ever see anything to top the "under-the-highway" setting. The audience applauds its reality. You have to see it to believe it.

"West Side Story" remains at the Riviera until Jan. 23. If you enjoy musical comedy a bit different with spectacular, physically perilous choreography and some moving music, hurry over to the Riviera. Its gang warfare theme in the cement jungles of New York has an immediacy, a reality that keeps you on the edge of your seat all evening.

Tennessee Williams' most provocative theatrical expression is coming to the Cass Theater on Feb. 2 — "Sweet Bird of Youth." The entire Broadway cast will come intact from the Martin Beck Theater. Geraldine Page, Rip Torn, Sidney Blackmer will stop in Detroit for two weeks to fill the Cass with violence, compassion, humor and imagery of Tennessee Williams' latest and greatest play.

Finished "The Cave" by Robert Penn Warren this week. A most interesting book about a man (Jasper Harrick) trapped in a cave, actually — the cave and its tragic event become merely an excuse to examine the lives of 12 characters. This novel builds with the tension and excitement found only in the best fiction. Here is a short sample of Warren's tenuous prose:

"The afternoon was wearing on: four thirty. The jay came back and screamed in the beech tree. Many eyes looked up at him, and then returned to the cave mouth. The locusts stopped. That is the local ones stopped, their sound dribbling off into silence. Then you could hear a all the other locusts in Tennessee ringing off the hills and hollows like an electric razor God-size and for eteror like some recollection all at once gone short-circuited and significantly blurring inside your head." Mrs. Pauline has the book over at the Wayne County library; get on the waiting list for some significant reading. You'll be hearing more about "The Cave." It'll be a movie one of these days.

Speaking of the celluloid picture business reminds me that the New York film critics, 15 in number, met last week to dish out the awards for the best picture, actor, actress, and director of the year. Best picture candidates were "Ben-Hur," "Career," "On the Beach," "Diary of Anne Frank," "The Nun's Story," "The Last Angry Man," "Room at the Top." Several critics held out for "Room at the Top." After five ballots, "Ben-Hur" took the race by a nose.

Jimmy Stewart nosed out Paul Muni for the best actor award. I'm afraid I would have stayed with Paul Muni. His work in "The Last Angry Man" contained the finest characterization work I've seen in the past decade. Audrey Hepburn won the best actress award. Again, "Room at the Top" was bested by "The Nun's Story."

Two major committees of the VFW, the national legislative and the national security committees, recently formulated their programs for 1960.

Among their major points are recommendations to place greater stress on racial and religious freedom, and to increase tolerance and the development of a more complete educational program for all students.

These points concern a 11 VFW posts, as they will tend to strengthen our communities and therefore our nation. The national convention is already receiving much attention by the host committees in Detroit. Official dates are Aug. 21 through Aug. 26. It is hoped by the officials this will be the biggest and best ever.

Although eight months away, it is not too early to be thinking about post sponsorship of floats, musical units, and drill teams. Our teams will begin practicing again soon.

The Mayflower post membership contest has just about ended, with the 1960 total falling short of 10 percent of the 1959 figure, unless a last-minute surge should occur. The final results, and team winner, will be announced next week.

It will now be up to the losing team to make plans for the party for the winners. A building committee meeting was held under Chairman

Fred Zinneman, director of "Nun's Story," won the critics' plaudits for his fine directorial job. Old George agrees with this choice.

Quality on TV has been rather low these past two weeks. My advice: let the set cool off. Turn your radio or FM set on for some good music. The programs are bound to get better by next month.

Or you might try the Penn Theater. "Lil Abner" is in town this week. It's a gay, mad musical with the wonderful singing of Stubby Kaye. His rendition of "Jubilation T. Cornpone" is worth the price of admission alone. And coming next week is Pat Boone in "Journey to the Center of The Earth." Looks like a couple of busy weeks for Manager Wilson.

Downtown, the Schubert "The Thuber Carnival" is finishing up its prior-to-Broadway run. You'll have a peck of fun enjoying the screw-ballish antics of Peggy Cass. Also, on Jan. 25 for six days only Katherine Cornell will occupy the Schubert in a witty tour de force entitled "Dear Liar." You'd better order those tickets right now for this outstanding theatrical event.

Neale on Jan. 13. Several matters were discussed. It is hoped that the interior of our post home will soon be improved by the application of a cement enamel which has been recommended.

This will make our post even more attractive than it is. There are several work parties in the planning stage and your volunteer service would be appreciated.

The next 4th District rally will be held at 2 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 7, at Post 9039, 612 West Vernor, in Detroit.

Remember the date of the next meeting, the social meeting for January, which will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 20. Any dues paid for 1960 at that time will be included in the contest. Because the teams are so close, these dues might do the trick.

How about thinking about that recruiting that you've been putting off? Most Auxiliary members are perhaps already aware of the appeal being made for the patients at Lapeer. They would be very grateful to receive such items as old Christmas cards, old nylon stockings, costume jewelry, empty thread spools, and foam rubber scraps. If you have any of the items mentioned and you wish to contribute them to this worthy cause, telephone Jennie Talma, GL 3-4843, or take the items to her home at 358 Liberty Street, Plymouth.

still held up to 500,000 more. The Red Cross believes today, though, there is no hope that large numbers of Germans will return from Russia.

Officials say there is no evidence to indicate that very many of the still-missing soldiers are alive in Russia. The only survivors, they believe, may be a few who married Russian women after the war or some who hid from the Russians and later adopted Soviet citizenship.

Thousands more of the vanished soldiers are thought to have died during the fierce fighting in Normandy in 1944. The Red Cross operates a special tracing service in Munich. When returnees come back — they are still trickling in — they are asked to study the service files to see if they have any knowledge of the missing soldiers.

Several thousand German wives of missing servicemen have since remarried and it still happens occasionally that a soldier returns to find his wife wed to someone else. These cases are rare, according to the Red Cross. But German law provides for this problem. The woman may decide if she would rather live with her first husband or her second.

Allen Extension Club Meets January 27

The regular meeting of the Allen Extension Club will be held Jan. 27 at the home of Mrs. Alton Frederick, 45988 West Ann Arbor Trail. The gathering will begin at 8 p.m. Subject of the lesson will be "Figures and Fashions" presented by Mrs. John Amrhein and Mrs. Carl Caplin. It is hoped that all members will be able to attend.

Republicans Hear Postal Assistant

The Plymouth Area Republican Club, at a recent meeting, had as guest speaker Mrs. Cecil Harden, special assistant to U. S. Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield.

Mrs. Harden discussed the problem of obscenity in the mails. "Mail-order filth has become a major racket totaling nearly 5 million dollars a year," Mrs. Harden told the club at its meeting, the first of the year.

The most alarming trend about smut is that it will be mailed to perhaps a million children this year, she said. Mrs. Harden urged parents to cooperate in the battle against these filth-peddlers by reporting any postal violations to the postal inspectors.

Mrs. Harden was introduced by Gladys Smith, 17th district chairman.

Another meeting of the local Republican club will be held Feb. 9 at the Plymouth headquarters on Penniman. At that time Arvey Levan, of the State Central publicity bureau, will discuss the Michigan tax situation. A question-and-answer period will be included in Levan's appearance.

He will speak at 11 a.m. service, and the church's regular discussion group and music listening programs will be held at 10 a.m. Sunday school classes for nursery through high school will be in session from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

Raising Money for Church

Dear "Miss Louisa:" Have you any ideas for raising money by church women? We are worn out with church bazaars where we work hard, donate the materials, and then spend a day trying to sell and end up buying back our cakes, pot holders, aprons. —Mrs. R. G. C., Haverhill, Mass.

Dear Mrs. R. G. C.: Many churches have given up selling anything or fostering money-raising projects for the church. They depend entirely on voluntary pledging on the part of the women in their organizations and have found that this works better. I know of a church that has talent pledging where the money donated is earned by the individual through her own talents. This is really giving of one's self.

Some women who could not think of anything that they could do tried baby sitting and gave the fee. Others who could sew did altering of clothes or embroidered monograms on linen. Expert cooks took orders for their special favorite foods. Others did typing, coached school children, painted or gave bridge lessons. The talents in any organization are unlimited. I know of one church where thousands of dollars were raised by talent pledging.

There is much to be said for the fellowship that comes from working together on projects for a church, but it is well not to continue doing the same thing year after year for enthusiasm wanes.

Packing For Special Dresses

Dear "Miss Louisa:" I am getting ready to pack away a christening dress and I am wondering if you could make a suggestion as to how to prevent its yellowing. Already after eight years of periodic use, it has turned an ivory color. I would like to prevent its getting any worse. I plan to wash it but prefer not to use a bleach. Can you help me? —Mrs. J. T. B., Norfolk, Va.

Dear Mrs. J. T. B.: The christening dress should be washed carefully on a bright summer's day and placed on a white towel or sheet in the bright sunlight which will help to bleach it. A small amount of bleach will not hurt it, but many soaps have a bleaching ingredient in them. I would not iron the dress before storing it but would rewash and then iron it before it is used again. The hot iron will help it to become yellow in storage. Your grandmother used blue tissue paper to keep lace and fine cloth from turning brown. If you will seal the garment in a plastic bag, this will protect it from silverfish and other damage. Bridal departments in stores will store wedding veils and gowns in plastic boxes, so you might inquire about this.

All in the Family

Dear "Miss Louisa:" Since this is a family mailbox and I am a boy of fourteen, I'd like to have a say. Why does my grandmother kiss me in public? My aunt does the same thing. I love them but I prefer to shake hands. —Richard, Waynesboro, Tenn.

Dear Richard: I guess it is because as far as grandmother and auntie are concerned, you haven't grown up and they never will think so — or admit it's so. They remember you as the little boy they once held in their laps. You must smile at them and tell them "no kissing in public." They will respect your wishes and shake your hand instead.

Tabby Cats

Dear "Miss Louisa:" My mother says you are all wrong about Tabby cats being girls, for a tabby cat is a certain breed of cat that has stripes and is gray and black. —Ruthie, age 10 years.

Dear Ruthie: After I received your letter I went to my friend Mr. Webster's dictionary and looked up Tabby, which is what Miss Louisa should have done before she answered the letter about Tom cats and Tabby cats. Your Mother is right, for the definition in the dictionary reads as follows: "Tabby, a brindled, mottled or streaked cat; popularly, a ny cat, especially a female as distinguished from a Tom cat." So Miss Louisa was partly right after all.

Perfect Omelet

Dear "Miss Louisa:" I like omelets but even though I cook them carefully and put them in the oven to set, they often fall. Have you a good recipe for one that doesn't fall? —Mrs. H. M., Corpus Christi, Texas.

Dear Mrs. H. M.: When you take over the kitchen as chef to produce an omelet, two things are necessary. One is to have your guests ready to eat the omelet when it is done, and the other is to have a warm platter on which to serve it. Even then the omelet does not always stay nice and puffy. My omelet making has been improved no end by the present of an electric frying pan with a cover and a recipe that came with it.

Fluffy Omelet (frying pan). Time 10 minutes.
2 tablespoons butter, 6 egg whites, 3 tablespoons water, 6 egg yolks, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons flour.

Preheat frying pan to 300 degrees. Melt butter and brush over bottom and sides of pan. Beat egg whites until frothy, add water and salt and beat until quite stiff. Put aside. Beat egg yolks slightly, add flour and beat until lemon colored, then fold into egg whites and pour into pan. Spread evenly, cover and cook for 10 minutes until set.

Library Exhibit Displays Both Impressionism and Realism

A truce has been declared between the argument between supporters of abstract impressionism and realism in painting has been settled, at least temporarily. There is room for both.

The exhibit of paintings now hanging in the Dunning Hough Library by members of the Three-Cities Art Club actually seems to favor the realistic rather than the non-objective in numbers at least. One or two of the artists expose both sides and paint with equal ease on either side of the fence.

Mabel Bacon of Plymouth, for instance, has a small but clearly stated realistic view of a boat dock on the Detroit River and at the other end of the scale an attractive abstract impression of colored lights on water.

Stan Hensch's starkly realistic "Resurrection of Lazarus" is very different in mood from his lively design of leaves and trees in glowing autumn colors.

Some of the paintings, though recognizable in subject matter, border on the abstract in treatment. Marge Becker's "Industrial" water color, Catherine Hartley's imaginative use of burlap, canvas and casein paint on corrugated board, Jessie Hudson's gay "Junior Prom" and Barbara McKenzie's jewel-toned "Fortune Leaves" all fit into this between category.

Hal Stein, an ardent exponent of abstractionism, displays instead an excellently rendered landscape in oil and Margaret Cramer, a fervent supporter of realism in art, draws upon abstractionism in her compositions. Mrs. Cramer is the artist featured in this exhibit together with Shirley Denison, sculptor, and Linda-Kate Edgerton, jewelry designer.

The supporters of so-called modern art argue that stark realism becomes tiresome in a very short while. They maintain it leaves nothing to the imagination of the viewer, but that a pleasing, colorful abstract impression is a constantly changing delight to the viewer who sees something different in the painting each time he looks at it.

They disagree with those who say abstract art is easy, that anyone can scribble or drip a lot of paint together. Actually, good design is basic to both kinds of art and is especially necessary for non-objective art which depends solely on design for interest.

The realist maintains that in choosing a definite subject matter the viewer is reminded of familiar scenes, objects or incidents. Great skill in drawing is demanded of the artist because everyone knows what the subject looks like.

On whichever side of the fence your sympathies lie, you will find something to interest you in each of the twenty-four paintings in the exhibit which will remain until March 4. The library is open from 9:30 to 5 on Saturday. Drop in and see the paintings, sculpture and the artistically arranged display of jewelry in the front entrance hallway.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee O. Juve

Miss Foreman, Lee O. Juve Married December 19 Here

In an evening ceremony, Jeannette Viola Foreman and Lee Ole Juve, both Plymouth High graduates, exchanged vows of marriage Dec. 19, at St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran church here.

The new Mrs. Juve is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo D. Foreman, 9315 Marlowe, and her husband is the son of Mrs. Elroy Juve, 668 South Harvey, and the late Mr. Juve.

Jeannette was gowned in brocade silk taffeta, trimmed in Chantilly lace with a scalloped neckline. She wore a princess-style ballerina length skirt and carried rosebuds and white orchids. Her headpiece was of seeded pearl with a fingertip veil.

The ceremony, performed by Rev. Edgar Hoenecke, was conducted before an altar decorated with vases of white mums. The bride was given away by her father.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Foreman wore a two-piece gown of avocado green silk linen. Mrs. Juve, mother of the groom, wore a cascade gown. Both mothers wore two-piece royal blue silk brocade pink camellia corsages.

Maid of honor was Janice Foreman, sister of the bride, who wore a blue chiffon gown with matching headpiece. Janice carried pink carnations. Best man was Rodney Juve, brother of the groom.

Bride's attendants included Bill Foreman, flower girl, and Donald Groom, ringbearer. Both are cousins of the bride. The ushers were Jerry Foreman, brother of the bride, and John Agnew, a friend of the groom.

Music was played by organist Carolyn Smart. Mrs. Helen Goebel sang "Whither Thou Goest."

A reception at the American Legion hall on Newburg road followed the wedding. Approximately 100 guests were present.

For her wedding trip to Northern Michigan, the new Mrs. Juve wore a two-piece red wool outfit with matching accessories.

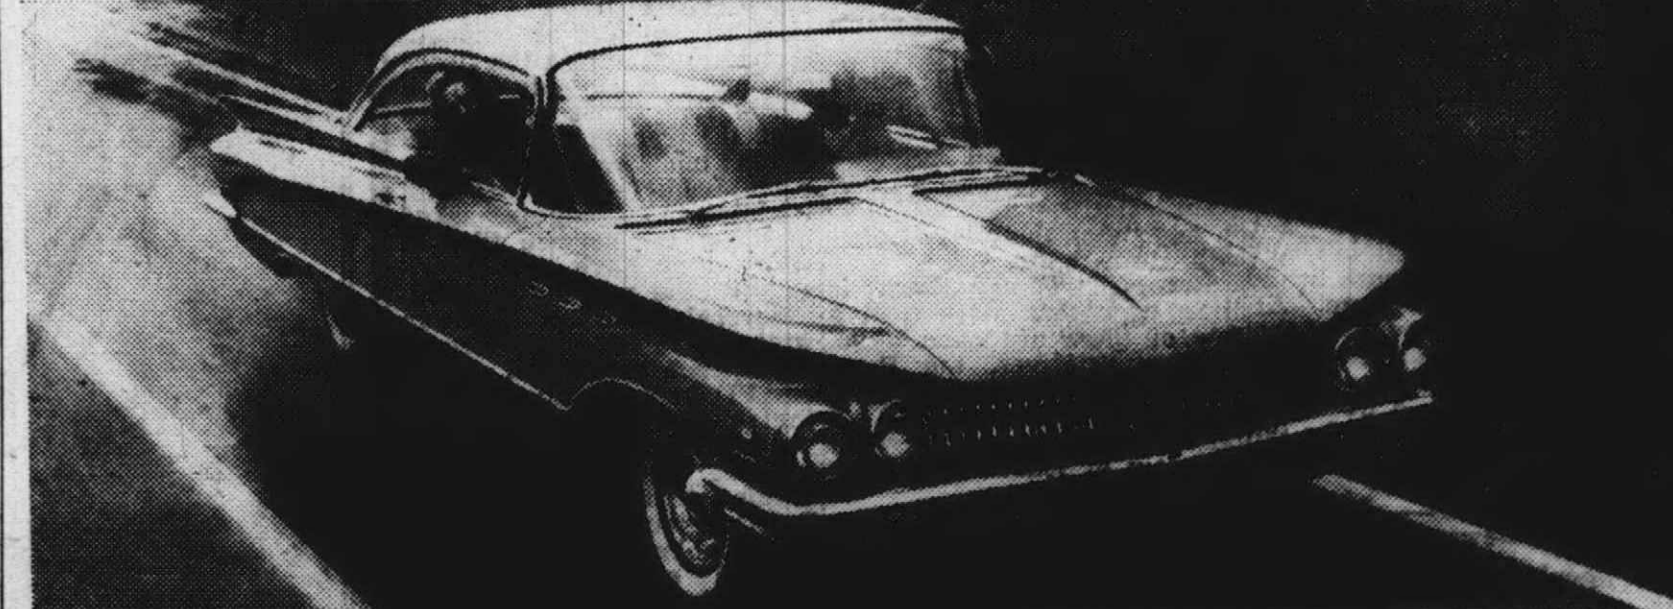

Both young people are Plymouth High graduates, the groom a member of the class of 1955 and the bride with the class of 1958. Lee is a sophomore at Michigan State University in East Lansing and Jeannette is now employed at the Shelby Mutual Insurance Company in Lansing.

The couple are making their home in East Lansing.

Underscoring the faith of the nation's founding fathers, The American Legion's annual "For God and Country" program will be telecast Sunday, Jan. 31, from 10 a.m. (EST) until 10:30 a.m., over the CBS Network. This annual telecast will be seen under the auspices of the prize-winning public service program, "Lamp Unto My Feet." Narrator will be newsman George Hicks. He made radio history with his famous radio broadcast at the Normandy beachhead on D-Day in World War II.

Hicks will interview National Chaplain Rabbi Robert I. Kahn of The American Legion during part of the program. Plan to watch this program and then perhaps send in your thanks to the station who produced the program.

The man who gave The American Legion its name at the historic Paris Caucus in 1919 contends that anyone joining the organization should pledge to remain a member for life. Judge Maurice K. Gordon, 82, of Madisonville, Ky., a major in the 36th Division, A.E.F., has pointed out that The American Legion is a patriotic organization, and that patriotic affiliation should not be sold on the installment plan.

Although he will always be remembered in history as "the man who named The American Legion," Judge Gordon considers his greatest contribution to the birth of the world's largest veterans' organization to be his authorship of the original protocol of the Paris Caucus. Unfortunately, this protocol has disappeared over the years and no record of it has been found.

"My idea for the name The American Legion," Judge Gordon recalled, "stemmed from the Latin word 'legion,' which in its literal form means representatives from the whole people."

The A.E.F. did not represent only a segment of the population or any one particular class of people, but drew from the 'whole people' and that is the concept on which The American Legion was founded for representation of the whole people—the American people—hence the name "The American Legion." Concerning the purpose of The American Legion, Judge Gordon says: "anything which concerns the American people is the business of The American Legion."

The biggest department bowling tournament of all time appears to be taking shape. Entries are coming in fast and heavy, says Al Geisler, tournament president. All male members of The Legion are eligible for the Tournament. Get your bowling entries in before the deadline date of Jan. 31. Contact Vern Miller, 1115 S. # Strike Threat Over, Historic High Seen In Economy

By EDWARD COWAN
United Press International
WASHINGTON (U.P.I.)—The New Year will be a prosperous one for most working people and businessmen in the United States.

And it will be a historic one for the nation's economy with the gross national product expected to climb past the $500-billion mark for the first time ever.

Government experts look for more jobs, greater production, rising incomes, higher prices, a bigger Federal budget. The one prominent exception is the farm front, where income is expected to drop about 7 1/2 per cent.

Although no run- a-way boom is in prospect, economists expect a big increase in the number of people working and a boost in total output of goods and services about equal to this year's. Living costs are likely to creep up from 1 to 2 per cent.

The year 1960 may also reveal the answers to two major questions about the future of the American economy: Are we in for a permanently higher unemployment rate? Is business locked in a short-run boom - and - recession cycle?

Last spring and early summer, just before the steel strike started, unemployment was dropping sharply, after lagging behind other economic factors in recovering from the recession. But the steel walkout reversed the trend and unemployment went up to about 3,500,000 by late in the year.

This represented an unemployed rate of about 6 per cent of the labor force. In prosperous times 4 to 4 1/2 per cent is considered normal. But even with the sharp snapback from the last recession the rate never fell below the 4 1/2 per cent of last May and June.

Many economists wonder whether there are now factors working to make it impossible for unemployment to drop back to 4 per cent. The new year should indicate the answer.

Labor Department economists expect more than 1 million people to enter the labor force in 1960. One expert predicts up to 1 1/2 million new jobs, cutting deeply into present unemployment. Other experts can't be that optimistic. But they agree that the spring of 1960 should find a lot of jobs opening up.

High government officials will be watching the figures on jobs, production, inventories and other economic indicators to see how much truth there is in the theory that upward, the experts say. They figure on a rise in the consumer price index of 1 to 2 per cent, with food continuing to decline and services—such as medical care, insurance, home repairs—posting further mark-ups.

Also headed up is Government spending, with the fiscal 1961 budget expected to call for outlays of about $81 billion, an increase of about $2 billion from present spending levels. The trend is up, too, at the state and local government levels.

Government economists say the business pickup will be fueled from several sources. Personal incomes are rising and when they go up so do retail sales. Buying will also get some extra thrust from greater use of installment credit. Retail sales this year will be well over the $200 billion level and by the end of 1960 may be shooting ahead at a $230 billion clip.

Business outlays for inventories and new plant equipment are also on the upbeat. Because the 1959 steel strike lasted so long—116 days—many businessmen drew down their stocks to practically nothing—and some tapped the barrel dry. With sales rising, businessmen will want to replenish their inventories. They will be piling on extra factory orders, stimulating production and jobs.

Additional lift for the economy will come from business spending for new machines and factories and for modernization. Unofficial estimates are for a rise in such outlays of $2 billion, bringing the 1960 total above $35 billion. That would be the best figure since the 1957 record of $36,960,000,000.

Exports are due to rise, too, taking some of the pressure off the deficit in the U.S. balance of international payments. The deficit, probably more than $4 billion in 1959, may fall to 2 1/2 billion in 1960.

Construction spending is due to rise to a record $55,300,000,000 next year, the Commerce Department estimates. That would be about 2 per cent more than this year. But because of higher prices there would be no increase in the physical volume of construction. Private housing starts are headed down from this year's 1,325,000 to about 1,200,000, the department forecasts.

In autos, it looks for production of about 6,700,000 passenger units as against about 5,498,000 this year.

Washington sources doubt that interest rates are going to slacken much in 1960. If business is especially strong they will probably rise above their already high levels. But should the economy soften, so would borrowing costs.

One final money matter the capital will be watching closely is the developing study into the possibility of closing tax loopholes and cutting tax rates. Both Congress and the administration are looking into the prospect of handing the voters some cheery election year news.

In autos, it looks for production of about 6,700,000 passenger units as against about 5,498,000 this year.

Washington sources doubt that interest rates are going to slacken much in 1960. If business is especially strong they will probably rise above their already high levels. But should the economy soften, so would borrowing costs.

One final money matter the capital will be watching closely is the developing study into the possibility of closing tax loopholes and cutting tax rates. Both Congress and the administration are looking into the prospect of handing the voters some cheery election year news.

Construction spending is due to rise to a record $55,300,000,000 next year, the Commerce Department estimates. That would be about 2 per cent more than this year. But because of higher prices there would be no increase in the physical volume of construction. Private housing starts are headed down from this year's 1,325,000 to about 1,200,000, the department forecasts.

Heides, Optimists Unbeaten In Recreation Competition

The Yellow Jackets edged the Wolverines 32-29 in the 15-year-old and under recreation league to move into a tie for first place last week with the Indians who were scalping the Blackhawks 45-34.

Both teams had identical 2-0 records, and something had to give in a game between the two winners played early this week.

The Wolverines and Blackhawks with 0-2 records play tomorrow. In last week's action, Doug Sutherland scored 12 points for the Blackhawks, while Bowman had 16 for the Indians. Denny Hunt scored 14 for the Yellow Jackets.

In the 18 and under league, Plymouth Optimists downed the Redbirds 75-42 with four players hitting double figures for the Optimists.

Mike Knapp led with 18 points and he was closely followed by Gary Hondorp, 17; Ron Sawyer, 14 and Dave Green, 13. Wynn Schrader led the Redbirds with 14 points. It was the second win for the Optimists against no losses.

Heides also registered its second win 61-28 over the Speed Demons. Alan DePorter again led the league in scoring by tossing in 28 points this time. Bill Reuhr and John Taylor supported

Cagers Rebound To Win 62-51

THE PLYMOUTH MAIL Wednesday, January 20, 1960 5

SPORTSEEN

By BILL NELSON

The world brightened up for Plymouth's basketball fans this week, when their Rocks rebounded from a one point defeat at the hands of Redford Union to win their fourth game against two losses.

Coach Jim Doyle shuffled his lineup, in the Allen Park game, interchanging three guards. It worked wonderfully. "We got 20 points out of our guards," Doyle pointed out, "which is about double what we normally have been getting."

When this happens it frees other players for better shots. In the Allen Park game for example, Jim Thompson got loose for 15 points and Egloff added 24.

Egloff's performance earned high praise from Doyle. "His 31 rebounds are as good a performance as I can remember," Doyle said, "and he had nearly ten assists on the fast break plays."

"Many times he would feed his teammates passes when he might have had a shot himself, which shows what kind of an athlete he is," Doyle said. And, of course, somewhere along the line he routinely picked up 24 points to lead both teams in scoring.

"Salan played a real good game," Doyle added, "as did Thompson." He also complimented Wayne Sparkman on his defensive job against Frank DeAngelo. Sparkman practically held him scoreless in the first half.

After the Redford Union game the team's mental attitude was like a collection of jilted lovers during early week practice sessions. "I talked to them about not getting down," Doyle said. "They came back pretty well."

Plymouth goes to Belleville Friday evening in a game that Doyle says will take "a real good team effort to win." "If we work real hard, I think we can beat them," he adds.

If Plymouth wins, they'll be in a tie for second place at the end of the first round of Suburban Six competition and in good shape for the final round. It also will give them an overall 5-2 record.

Coach John McFall took his fifth victory last Thursday over Allen Park as a matter of routine. Instead his attention was focused on last Saturday's meet with Ann Arbor. Times of Ann Arbor swimmers were even posted in the pool, and McFall got his lads out of bed Saturday morning for a light workout, so that they wouldn't oversleep. "Too much sleep can hurt as much as too little sometimes," McFall said.

John Walker of Plymouth was listed among swimmers on the current Michigan State swimming team. Walker, a sophomore diver, is mentioned as one of three sophomores who "could develop into a top threat," by a Michigan State bulletin.

Plymouth's unbeaten swimmers open the 1960 home season Thursday at 7 p.m., when they host Belleville at the Plymouth High School pool.

The swim team has been on the road for the first three meets of the New Year and Thursday's meet will be the first opportunity for the home folk to welcome the team after their recent historic victory over Ann Arbor, last season's state champions.

Coach Mike Hoben's Junior Varsity basketball team sunk a fantastic 42 per cent of its field shots last Friday to win its third victory of the season 60-33 over Allen Park.

The JV's handily moved to a 15-4 first quarter lead and left the floor at halftime with a 28-19 margin. At the third quarter the Rocks led 40-27 and added another 20 points in the final quarter.

Pete Lomonaco led the scoring for Plymouth with 15 points on seven field goals and one free throw. Dan Stremick was right behind with six goals and a free throw for thirteen points. Jim Dart had four baskets and two free throws for ten points.

"The workers in our countries are basically alike," he said. "I found the American people extremely friendly in every city I visited."

Fomin took a Russian troika on a U.S. tour which gave him a chance to see more of this country than Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev did during his official visit.

The 31-year-old trainer, an employee of the Soviet government, was sent here to train and exhibit a team of three white stallions pulling a one-ton metal carriage given by Khrushchev to Cyrus Eaton, millionaire Cleveland industrialist and financier. The gift was in recognition of Eaton's service to Soviet agriculture.

Fifteen thousand persons turned out in freezing weather to see the first performance by Fomin and his team at Thistle Down race track here. The troika has been a hit in every city in the United States and Canada where it was exhibited.

"I could find nothing I disliked in any of the cities I visited," Fomin said. "But I was particularly impressed by the hospitality and scenic places in New York and Washington."

The troika presents an example of peculiar horsemanship. The three horses move at two different gaits, and at first glance appear to be going in three directions at once.

The lead horse employs a trotting gait. The horses on either side center with their heads turned out. The rig, a hangover from czarist days in Russia, can reach a top speed of 30 miles per hour.

Fomin liked America but he was anxious to get home. "I'll be glad to see my wife and two children at our home near Moscow," the short, stocky trainer said. "I don't like to be away from my family."

He took time out during his tour to attend an American horse race. He said he found little difference between U.S. and Soviet railroads but the role of the jockey is less important in Russia.

Egloff Hits 24, Rocks Move Up

With Captain Randy Egloff in command, Plymouth swept to its fourth victory of the season last Friday and moved into a tie for third place in Suburban Six competition with Redford Union.

Egloff totaled 24 points as the Rocks rolled to a 62-51 win over Allen Park. The defeat dropped Allen Park to fifth place in the league and set the scene for this week's battle at Belleville, Friday.

Belleville is in second place with a 3-1 league mark.

In the Allen Park victory Egloff put on a tremendous individual show, collecting 31 rebounds and exercising general floor leadership.

He brought the ball down court on seven occasions and it seemed that he started the offense on nearly every play by passing to the side after grabbing the rebounds.

Coach Jim Doyle shuffled the lineup by starting Wayne Sparkman and Jim Ralston. Don Argo saw limited action because of a wrist injury suffered in practice.

The juggling worked as the Rocks snapped back from their one point defeat a week earlier at the hands of Redford Union.

Plymouth opened the Allen Park game by jumping quickly to a 5-0 lead and pushed this margin to 11-3 at the end of the first quarter.

The one point defeat apparently had the Rocks' dander up as they roared to a half-time margin of 18 points, 30-12.

By the third quarter Allen Park had shaved this lead to 17 points, 49-32. In the final quarter Frank DeAngelo suddenly warmed up for Allen Park and they closed the gap to nine points difference with three minutes left.

Plymouth was able to stall however, and to gather a couple more baskets.

The victory for Plymouth was mighty important, because it kept them in the Suburban Six race and showed that they were capable of rebounding from a frustrating defeat the week before.

DeAngelo led Allen Park with 21 points while Jim Thompson supported Egloff's 24 point effort with 15 points on six field goals and three free throws.

Egloff earned his total with eleven baskets and two free throws.

PRESS DEFENSE is applied by Plymouth here as Dave Mynatt (12) and Wayne Sparkman (42) converge on Allen Park player trying to bring ball down court.

Unbeaten Streak Extended

Plymouth swimmers took a perfect record into their big meet with Ann Arbor last Saturday after earning their fifth win Thursday, an easy 67-29 victory over Allen Park.

Three pool records were set at Allen Park. Dick Greisinger set two, swimming the 100 yard butterfly in 60.0 and the 200 yard individual medley in 2:23.9. In addition, Jim Carney churned the 100 yard freestyle in 55.1 for another pool record.

Other firsts for Plymouth were won by Robert Daley 200 yard freestyle; Allen Davies, 100 yard backstroke; Don Williams, 100 yard breaststroke and Nick Herrick, diving.

Plymouth also won the 200 yard freestyle relay when Smith, Helm, Balfour and Carney pooled efforts for a 1:46.5 time.

Seconds for Plymouth were earned by: Warren Smith, 50 yard freestyle; Beau Toll,

JVs Hit With 42 Percent Mark To Defeat Allen Park, 60-33

Coach Mike Hoben's Junior Varsity basketball team sunk a fantastic 42 per cent of its field shots last Friday to win its third victory of the season 60-33 over Allen Park.

The JV's handily moved to a 15-4 first quarter lead and left the floor at halftime with a 28-19 margin. At the third quarter the Rocks led 40-27 and added another 20 points in the final quarter.

Pete Lomonaco led the scoring for Plymouth with 15 points on seven field goals and one free throw. Dan Stremick was right behind with six goals and a free throw for thirteen points. Jim Dart had four baskets and two free throws for ten points.

"The workers in our countries are basically alike," he said. "I found the American people extremely friendly in every city I visited."

Fomin took a Russian troika on a U.S. tour which gave him a chance to see more of this country than Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev did during his official visit.

The 31-year-old trainer, an employee of the Soviet government, was sent here to train and exhibit a team of three white stallions pulling a one-ton metal carriage given by Khrushchev to Cyrus Eaton, millionaire Cleveland industrialist and financier. The gift was in recognition of Eaton's service to Soviet agriculture.

Fifteen thousand persons turned out in freezing weather to see the first performance by Fomin and his team at Thistle Down race track here. The troika has been a hit in every city in the United States and Canada where it was exhibited.

"I could find nothing I disliked in any of the cities I visited," Fomin said. "But I was particularly impressed by the hospitality and scenic places in New York and Washington."

The troika presents an example of peculiar horsemanship. The three horses move at two different gaits, and at first glance appear to be going in three directions at once.

The lead horse employs a trotting gait. The horses on either side center with their heads turned out. The rig, a hangover from czarist days in Russia, can reach a top speed of 30 miles per hour.

Fomin liked America but he was anxious to get home. "I'll be glad to see my wife and two children at our home near Moscow," the short, stocky trainer said. "I don't like to be away from my family."

He took time out during his tour to attend an American horse race. He said he found little difference between U.S. and Soviet railroads but the role of the jockey is less important in Russia.

WORTH MORE BECAUSE THEY WORK MORE

Chevy's new torsion springs and Sturdi-Bit design are changing everybody's ideas about how much work a truck can do. Last year's schedules are out—Chevrolet trucks ride faster over the rough runs to get in more trips a day! Big repair bills are no longer a problem—Chevrolet trucks soak up punishment that means downtime to other makes! And trade-in time's put off for extra thousands of miles—'60 Chevrolet trucks stay new like never before!

New Dollar-Saving Prices Step-Vans, 4-Wheel Drives, many light-duty models with automatic transmissions—all are lower priced. Prices have also been reduced on all optional V8's.

New Torsion-Spring Suspension Eliminates I-beam shimmy and wheel fight! With torsion springs up front there's a brand-new, smoother, easier handling feel behind the wheel. New rear suspensions include wide-based coil springs in most light-duty models; tougher variable-rate leaf springs in medium- and heavy-duty models.

Electronically Balanced Wheels Front wheels and tires are balanced at the factory. Helps make that new ride revolutionary!

New Cabs—Wider, Safer, More Comfortable Many models are a whole 7 inches lower (without sacrificing road clearance), so it's easier to hop in and out of cabs. Still there's more space inside: more room for hats and hips, more foot room with suspended pedals. Cabs are safer, too; new build makes them 67% more rigid.

Plus Improvements All Through the Line A new steering linkage system that cuts vibration, means better control. There's new V8 efficiency. Sixes long famous for saving. New key-turn starting. Higher, wider visibility. Talk to your Chevrolet dealer about the world's most advanced trucks.

By PRESTON MCGRAW

If you got high fidelity equipment for Christmas, you've probably heard all the ping-pong games and locomotives you can stand and are now putting it to use for which it was built. That is, to play music.

It will play better if you take reasonable care of it. While most high fidelity equipment is somewhat delicate, it is not unreasonably so and can stand substantial usage.

That does not mean the children should be given free rein with it. A child can break a changer or ruin a cartridge and run up a $40 repair bill in a second. Better to buy the children a phonograph of their own.

And be careful with yourself. Speaker systems can take a lot of power but may be not as much as there is in your amplifier. So turn the volume up gradually. It will also save your ears and nerves.

When you are playing a record, lower the stylus gently into the lead groove. It saves the record and the stylus.

When a record plays out, lift the pickup arm firmly and push it to the outside of the record to whatever device holds it at rest. If you let it skitter across the record, you have another ruined record.

Don't force record changers. Although it seems that some go through a lot of motions to drop a record and get it playing, they still won't take hurrying.

Records cost a lot of money and a respectable collection is more expensive than some of the highest priced play-back equipment. If you are careful with them, they last a lot longer.

Make sure the stylus pressure is what it has to be, but no more. Use a diamond stylus and if the quality of your records seems to drop after a few playings, have stylus, cartridge and arm checked.

It may be that your stylus is worn or that the arm and cartridge are not compliant enough.

Handle records by the edges. Keep them in their jackets until you get ready to play them. Play them and return them to their jackets. Don't leave them lying around bare to collect dust.

There are many devices for cleaning records. One of the most common is a cloth. Some authorities think it grinds dust into records when used too hard.

A brush that runs ahead of the stylus is probably as good as anything. One record manufacturer advises the use of a dishwashing detergent — one part detergent to ten parts of water.

He advises dampening a handkerchief in the solution and letting the turntable spin while using the handkerchief wrapped around a finger somewhat like a stylus.

The stylus will dredge up a quantity of muck after the next playing and this can be lifted off gently with the end of a finger.

Other persons wash their records and let them dry when they get dirty. A clean record naturally plays better than a dirty record.

Turntables and record changers need oil occasionally. And amplifiers need air to dissipate the heat they create. Always put them where air can circulate freely behind them.

Who's New in Plymouth

MAY WE INTRODUCE YOU to one of Plymouth's newest and possibly most youthful families, Anthony B. Christiani and his wife Mary, and their two children, Philip, one year and Felecia, two months old. Mr. Christiani is employed with the Michigan Bell Telephone Company out of the Livonia office as a "splicer." Tying in with his chosen line of work, he is presently enrolled in an industrial electronics course. He is also a member of the National Guard, 107 Signal Group which keeps him occupied one night a week and two consecutive weeks during the year. Although he is extremely busy, Mrs. Christiani can match him in activity just "keeping up with Philip." The active robust little fellow is his sister's biggest fan, kissing her cheek and biting her toe practically simultaneously. The Christianis moved into their spacious home at 528 E. Maple from the Oak Haven Trailer Court and previous to that lived in an apartment in Detroit, so are enjoying the luxury of closets, and high ceilings, etc. They are looking forward to entertaining friends and relatives at home this Sunday after the christening service for Felecia at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church.

CITY MANAGER'S CORNER

The Seal of Plymouth carries these words: "The City of Homes, 1825," and this past year an all time high of 75 homes were built in the city, according to the records of the Department of Building Safety. Inasmuch as our community has the reputation for being a desirable place to live, we must do our best to insure that all building within the city is safely and properly done.

This is accomplished through numerous inspections and plumbing inspections. In this way, we can assure ourselves that the buildings meet the requirements as set forth in our building code, electrical code, heating and plumbing code. The final result is the best house possible within the limits of municipal control.

The Department of Building Safety is made up of the building inspector, the plumbing inspector and a clerk. The building inspector, in addition to building inspections, makes the electrical and the heating inspections required by our ordinances. The clerk of the Department is not a full time employee of the city; he is called in only when there are plumbing inspections needed within the city. He is paid on a fee basis. We share this inspector's time with Plymouth Township.

He is required to inspect sewer connections, drain tile and other plumbing work inside or outside a building. The clerk of the Department of Building Safety makes out the building, electrical heating and plumbing permits and licenses which are required by our ordinances, and she calculates the charges that will be made for them. The charges for these permits vary according to the type and extent of work that is being done.

The schedule of rates is spelled out in the applicable ordinances and regulations. Our charges and building safety requirements are very nearly the same as Detroit's. The inspection of new structures operates in this way: first, a builder will contact the Department and submit the plans for the building he proposes to construct. The building inspector will study the plans to be certain they meet the minimum building code requirements for the type of house under consideration.

He will also check the lot lines, set-back lines, rear yard lines, etc., to be sure the building will be erected within the requirements of our zoning ordinance. If this study shows the building is acceptable, he will approve the plans and calculate the expected construction cost as the basis for charges on the building permit.

When this is done, the clerk prepares the necessary papers and documents and figures the charges that will be made. After paying the fees, the builder will receive his permits and he may begin construction. The first inspection at the site is a rough inspection. This involves checking the footings and foundation of the home under construction.

When the rough inspection is completed, and the progress of the construction approved, the builder may continue his work. During the course of construction, the plumbing inspector will make a rough inspection and the building inspector will make a rough electrical and heating inspection. When the house is completed final inspections will be made including building, electrical, heating and plumbing.

If the house is approved, the building inspector will issue an occupancy permit and the owner will be able to move into the completed structure. In this way, the administration watches over all construction activities within the city, and endeavors to continue Plymouth's reputation as "The City of Homes."

Oh! You're so lucky! That's what everyone is telling senior April Corey and juniors Jerry Fischer and Marjo Van Antwerp. A third of them are going to Europe this summer with the Youth for Understanding Teen-age Exchange program. The three exchanges received acceptances for participation in the program from the Michigan and Ann Arbor Council of Churches recently, and they will be notified about May as to the countries they will visit and the families with which they will stay.

PHS'ers with talent are polishing up their acts for the Feb. 1 tryouts for the Talent Assembly. For the second consecutive year, Plymouth will have an exchange assembly, this one scheduled for Feb. 25 with Redford Union. Seniors Jill Clarke and Sharon Neal are co-chairmen for the event.

Everyone's cramming madly for exams... tests for the first, second and third hours will be next Wednesday, Jan. 27, with fourth, fifth, and sixth hour exams scheduled for Thursday morning. Students will have no school on Friday, Jan. 29. That will give teachers a chance to score tests and mark semester report cards.

Meeting regularly recently has been the Student Council-organized committee investigating the smoking problem at Plymouth High. Vice-mayor Mike Porter is chairman.

Salvation Army Tells of Success Of Holiday Effort

The Salvation Army's Christmas "Kettles and Letter Appeal" to Plymouth business places raised a total of $1,176.33 for charitable purposes. Local corps officers reported last week. With the contributions, Salvation Army officials were able to provide checks for 217 people in this area, thus providing much-needed groceries for the holidays.

In addition, 307 other adults and children received various gifts ranging from clothing to toys, candy, oranges and foodstuffs. A portion of the Salvation Army's local charity funds went toward a party for the inmates of the Detroit House of Correction. In two sessions more than 1,000 men and 400 women were aided.

Patients at Northville State hospital also were recipients of the Salvation Army's Christmas effort in addition to more than 200 residents in convalescent and rest homes in the area.

The Salvation Army Sunday school children were in turn treated with many Christmas gifts by the children of the Fox Hills Country Club, under the leadership of Gerald Pease.

Capt. and Mrs. John R. Cunard, corps officers, extended their thanks to the many citizens who helped the Salvation Army aid local needy persons here this past Christmas.

Brass Adds Warmth - Is Easy to Keep Clean

By Ann Jermy

Brass has been used for centuries in many countries to fashion everyday utensils and various decorative objects. It's an immensely practical metal since it can withstand a direct flame and still retain its color and sheen.

Whether it's antique or modern pieces of brass that add warmth to your rooms, the removal of surface grime reveals the natural color which varies from a silvery yellow to vivid gold or a rosy terra cotta. The color is determined by the proportions of zinc and copper blended together to form the durable alloy, brass.

Brass resists corrosion from air, water and heat. It also doesn't tarnish as readily as silver. This means that cleaning is relatively simple. A supply of clean, soft cloths and a metal cleaning fluid are sufficient unless spots or lacquer which has started to peel confuse the chore.

A good general cleaner for all metals except silver will contain a chemical, usually ammonia, which converts the dark oxide which has formed back to the metal color, plus a silicate which acts as a polisher.

Apply with a soft cloth and since cleaning depends on chemical reaction, a few minutes must elapse before wiping the piece of brass clean with another clean soft cloth.

Household ammonia and steel wool might be used on pieces of solid brass, but not on those which merely have a brass finish. Any piece of brass with an antique finish should be cleaned only with boiled linseed oil, which is purchased boiled, or with pure lemon oil.

Spots that cannot be removed with soap and water or commercial cleaner call for special treatment. Rubbing these places with hot vinegar and salt or with lemon rind and salt should get rid of the most stubborn stains.

If lacquer that once was applied to the brass is peeling, remove this coating completely with a caustic soda solution. To make this, use one-half pound of caustic soda, also called sodium hydroxide, to one-half gallon of water. (Sodium hydroxide is available at drugstores.) This solution, applied with a brush or cloth, softens the lacquer. Then it can be rubbed off with a coarse cloth.

When no traces of lacquer remain, rinse the brass object in cold water and wipe dry. Then polish it. Tarnish-ing or spotting in the future can be prevented without applying another coat of lacquer. Simply rub on a thin type of penetrating sealer which has been formulated for the purpose of preventing tarnishing of brass.

THE COLOR and sheen that make brass decorative are easily maintained by simple cleaning.

A Safety Hint

Members of every family should feel a "burning" need to keep the home premises free of fire hazards. An insurance company lists these important "do's": (1) Do dispose of the family trash from day to day. (2) Do insist on safe smoking habits. (3) Do keep electrical appliances, cooking and heating equipment clean and working properly. (4) Do keep attic, basement, closets, other storage areas neat and orderly without overloading.

Tree Stump Troubles??

By Dorothy H. Jenkins

Homeowners often face the problem of what to do about a tree stump. Does the stump remain as a reminder of the tree that was cut down? Certainly there's no magical formula to make the stump disappear. Anyone who has had to clear a lot on which to build a home will swear that it takes hard work, know-how and the right equipment.

Trees in the sidewalk belt probably belong to the city and removal of damaged ones or cleaning up after a storm is the Park Department's responsibility.

Within the boundaries of your property, don't attempt to tackle removal of a tree stump more than 10 inches in diameter. You'll probably prefer to get rid of the stump of an elm tree killed by Dutch elm disease or a linden uprooted by a storm, but call in a tree expert for the big stumps.

Stumps of trees only 2 to 3 inches in diameter are fairly easy. Chop the main roots in order to pull out the stump, or loosen the soil so that the stump can be cut off 3 inches or so below ground level and the hole filled with soil.

Either of these methods can be adapted to stumps up to 10 inches in diameter. Sizeable stumps can be pulled from the ground after the main roots have been cut. However, don't attach a chain to the family car to pull out the stump.

A heavy tractor or winch-equipped truck provides the power. To obtain leverage, the stump should stand 10 to 12 feet above ground.

Stump machines come closest to providing the magic formula. These machines reduce the stump to chips, and are rugged enough to be operated when ground is frozen. The wood chips can be shoveled into a wheelbarrow to be spread as a mulch or to be added to the compost pile. Tree experts chip off the wood to six or eight inches below ground level. This hole then can be filled with soil and seeded.

If it is not possible to rent a stump machine and too expensive to have the tree expert use one, then you can apply the principle with hand tools.

Bore large holes straight down into the solid wood of the stump (for this method a stump lower than 10 feet is preferable) and so close together that they almost overlap. Then chip off the wood with an ax or adz. Again, it's possible to remove the stump to six inches below ground.

Neither burning nor impregnating the stump with chemicals is satisfactory. Burning is impractical, if only because it requires huge amounts of fuel applied for several days. It will probably violate fire and smoke laws—and still not get rid of the stump.

And so far, there's no chemical that can be poured on the stump or fill holes bored into it and make the eyesore disappear within weeks or even months.

Whatever method you decide to try, freshly cut stumps are somewhat easier than partly decayed or hollow ones. If you let nature take its course, after cutting the stump as low as possible, elm, maple and birch decay fairly rapidly. Cedar, locust, oak and other hard woods may survive for years with only a minimum decrease in size.

THE TREE goes but the stump often remains since there is no quick way to get rid of it. But chopping and chipping away at it offers the best method of ridding your yard or lawn of the eyesore.

... a Soviet journalist once sneered. He was right. During 1960, you and your fellow Americans will open 42 billion tin cans containing over 2,500 different kinds of products.

In terms of woman-hours saved, health hazards overcome, and expansion of the number of products available to consumers, few inventions have been more influential.

Unlike most of the devices that changed the course of the modern world, the handy, dandy tin can was patented in 1810.

That year, a Frenchman named Nicolas Appert had perfected a process whereby food could be preserved by being partially cooked and then sealed in glass jars. An Englishman, Peter Durand, went one better by using unbreakable tin-coated metal cylinders. By 1819, his invention had been naturalized, with William Underwood turning out the first American "cansisters." A competitor, Thomas Kensitt, abbreviated the name to "can."

Along with the Colt revolver, the can of meat, fruit or condensed milk gave life-saving assistance to many a Westward-bound pioneer. Civil War combatants began the tradition of American GI reliance on the tin can. The American fighting man of World War II ate canned food, drank canned water, fought with ammunition from hermetically sealed cans, (including canned smoke screens), got canned blood plasma when wounded, repaired his jeep with canned monkey wrenches, and drove canned motorcycles dropped to him by parachute.

Another wartime boon, the hotcan, promises to cut the housewife's kitchen chores still further by allowing her to cook food right inside the can. The tin can civilization is 150 years old.

The male of 1810 carried on the ancient tradition of viewing a woman as a domestic weakling. "A lady's name appears in the newspapers but twice: when she marries and when she dies," ran a popular proverb of the time.

Since a housewife opened the first tin can in 181, a stream of labor and time saving devices for her have followed. This symbol of plenty, the existence of the human being ushered in an increasing amount of free time for other responsibilities.

Women today have won the right to get their name in the papers for everything from PTA chairmanships to prominence in one hitherto masculine profession after another.

Collectively, they're making news now because they're one-third of our labor force, spend 80 per cent of all family income and vote 7 per cent of all corporate stock—not to mention ownership interest in 500,000 small businesses.

Manufacturers offer lines of sunglasses, screwdrivers and fountain pens especially designed for women. Even shaving cream manufacturers package their product with an eye to the misses who may pluck the item from supermarket shelves.

No political candidate can survive without female votes—a fact cry from 1890, when the territory of Wyoming was almost refused admission to the Union because it had given women the right to vote.

Christopher Sholes deserves much of the credit too; his invention of the typewriter in 1867 would eventually bring women economic independence. Even before that, in 1840, Isaac Pitman put the handwriting on the wall with his new system of shorthand.

In 1870, the census-takers listed only seven women of office workers throughout the country; a mere 40 years later women already held five-sixths of all office jobs.

Two world wars and a host of labor-saving household gadgets recruited more from the home front. Medical advances especially beneficial to women have put them in the majority.

Women, admittedly, have a head start. Today's baby girl has a life expectancy almost seven years longer than a boy born the same year. But the health picture for both sexes would have started the citizen of 1810, to whom 50 was quite a respectable age and 60 was real old age. Today, 15,000,000 Americans are over 65, and the number is expected to reach 25,000,000 by 1980.

One of the major reasons for increased life expectancy is because the average person eats better and more nutritious foods through the variety of products available in tin cans today.

The control of diseases which were accepted as facts of life by early Americans—tuberculosis, pneumonia, mysterious "fevers"—makes each year of our longer lives more comfortable than the man of 1810 would ever have dreamed possible.

But the process was well under way even then. Between 1810 and 1840, 27 new medical schools were founded. The 1840's brought pioneer experiments with anesthesia; the 1860's saw the development of pasteurization, the birth of antiseptic surgery, and the founding of the American Red Cross by Civil War nurse Clara Barton.

In the 1880's a wealthy merchant named John Hopkins set a precedent ultimately followed by a even richer man named Rockefeller, who bequeathed more than three million to open a modern hospital and medical research institute.

The conquest of yellow fever... the development of insulin, the sulfa drugs and the antibiotics... the miracles of plastic surgery... isozoniade to control tuberculosis... the victory of the Salk vaccine over polio... surgical techniques that make it possible to revive a heart which has stopped beating—all these and more belong to the twentieth century and the past 150 years.

What's ahead for us in the next century and a half?

'Bumper Pusher' Is Unwanted Driver

The sign on the back of the truck-trailer reads: "Don't hug me, I'm going steady."

Another motorist was admonition printed on its tailgate: "If you can't stop in time, smile as you go under."

These and similar messages of grim humor are the truckers' way of warning the driver behind to stay a way from trouble. They refer to one of the most common driving habits found on the streets and highways today, a habit which often leads to death and injury, that of "following too closely."

To call attention to this dangerous practice, the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police are putting up 15,000 posters throughout the state devoted to the "Bumper Pusher" in their continuing program of characterizing drivers who are Unwanted in Michigan.

The accident record of the Bumper Pusher is bad—with 12 killed and 2,440 injured last year, representing an estimated loss of $1.6 million. But the accident statistics tell only a small part of the Bumper Pusher's record. Police point out that few traffic tickets are issued for this violation until an accident has resulted and even then, the ticket may refer to some other violation more immediate to the accident. Yet following too closely is the driving error which made the accident almost inevitable.

The description on the police poster devoted to the Bumper Pusher points out that this driver depends on his driving skill rather than on his driving sense to keep out of trouble. The result is that he often over-estimates his skill and becomes involved in rear-end and side-swiping collisions when he has to stop or is attempting to pass.

In many instances the Bumper Pusher is lucky because other drivers compensate for the mistakes of this foolish driver.

Our local Police Chief points out that the Bumper Pusher can be readily identified whenever traffic congestion occurs. Slowly moving traffic is always a warning to good drivers that there are dangerous driving conditions present. This is the time when the Bumper Pusher rides close to the car ahead, depending on the driver ahead to think for him. When a sudden stop is necessary, the Bumper Pusher finds himself unable to stop in time and the resulting rear-end collision often produces serious whip-lash injuries to the back and neck of the passengers in the lead vehicle.  The United States Air Force Recruiting Service has streamlined its Aviation Cadet processing procedure in the State of Michigan. Under this new system interested young men are offered the opportunity to take the Air Force Cadet Screening Test in their own home town.

Sgt. Kaiserman, local Air Force Recruiter, stated, "Now we can give the Cadet test right here in Plymouth; before, we sent applicants to Detroit for this test, causing wear and tear on the applicant traveling to and from Detroit and involving too much of his time."
 The tests will be administered by Officers from the USAF Detroit Recruiting Detachment Headquarters. These men will make special trips to Plymouth any day of the week to administer the test. Kaiserman explained that upon successful completion of the Cadet test, applicants will be sent directly to Selfridge Air Force Base near Mt. Clemens for complete physical testing and further evaluation.

With this new procedure, the Air Force will be able to more efficiently administer tests to more Pilot and Navigator hopefuls, and realize more savings per tax dollar.
 Any man 16 to 26, who is single and in good physical condition may qualify for the Cadet Program. Minimum educational requirements consist of at least a high school education.

The Air Force has many pilots and navigators on active duty at the present time who entered cadet training with only a high school education. This is the only officer career program open to young men with less than a college degree.
 Local young men interested in this program may contact the USAF recruiting office, 2240 Middlebelt road, in Garden City, or telephone Sgt. Kaiserman at GA 4-2580.

State's Junior High Teachers Now Earn Most
 Junior high school teachers earn more money than do senior high instructors, according to a state-wide salary survey recently completed by the Michigan Education Association's Research Department.
 The annual survey conducted by Thomas J. Northey, special assistant in research, also revealed a state medians on allocated, voted and total millage obligations of Michigan residents.
 The 1959 study revealed that junior high school teachers earn a median salary of $5,778. Teachers in senior high schools draw median yearly paychecks of $5,569, or $209 less. Elementary teachers, the survey revealed, had annual median salaries of $5,170.
 The research department also discovered that the median for local school units throughout the state was a 16.4 millage tax burden. This is 1.4 mills over the 15 mill limitation which can be surpassed only by vote of the residents.
 Allocated millage for operation only reaches a median of 8.2 while allocated and voted millage is 10.3. Total millage 16.4 includes operations, building and site and capital outlay.
 The survey also revealed that the median per cent of the operating budget devoted to teachers' salaries is only 62.2 per cent.

You Can Blame Leap Year Idea On the Scots

It's Leap Year again and you can blame the Scots for declaring it open season on bachelors.

They probably saw the custom of letting a woman pop the question as a way to put money in the treasury and take spinsters off the welfare rolls.

According to the research of World Book Encyclopedia, Scotland is said to have decreed in 1288 that ladies "of both the high and low estate" shall have the privilege of proposing during leap years.

If a man refused the offer, he was fined as much as one pound unless he could show that another woman had a prior claim on his affections.

The ladies, however, had to give fair warning that they were out to catch a man. If the edge of a scarlet flannel petticoat wasn't clearly visible, a man was absolved from paying the forfeit.

France reportedly passed a similar law, and the ladies of Florence and Genoa are said to have been given the privilege before Columbus sailed to America.

The gallant English supposedly didn't need a law to make them give the fair but single sex a break. But they backed up the custom by depriving a man of benefit of clergy if he scoffed at a leap year proposal.

Even if he didn't hurt the lady's feelings, he was obliged to present her with a silk gown... as a consolation prize.

Christian Scientists To Hear German Speaker

Application of God's healing power to the solution of the problems of men and nations will be the topic of a public lecture on Christian Science to be delivered in Detroit on Friday, Jan. 22 by Friedrich Preller of Berlin-Dahlem, Germany.

On extensive tour as a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, Mr. Preller will speak under the auspices of Fourth Church of Christ, Scientist in the church edifice, 5240 West Chicago Boulevard at 8 p.m. His subject will be "Christian Science: The Revelation of True Manhood." The lecture is free, and local members have invited the public to attend.

A new form of polyethylene is used to make a packaging film. The film is clear, transparent, strong and relatively stiff and is said to be less expensive than the films in common use.

A special meeting of the Board of Education of the Plymouth Community School District, Wayne and Washtenaw Counties, Michigan, was held on Monday evening, December 28, 1959, in the Board Room of the Administration Building at eight o'clock.

Present: Members Fischer, Kaiser, Niemi, Soth, Zoet and Zylstra; Mr. Blunk and Mr. Isbister.

Absent: Members Hulsing.

Also present: Mr. Ross, Mr. Kowalcik and Mr. Sponseller.

The meeting was called to order by Vice President Soth at 8:00 p.m. Several board members expressed interest in attending an area school meeting at Cody High School in Detroit on Saturday, February 6, 1960. The meeting is sponsored jointly by the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers and the Michigan Association of School Boards and institutions of higher education for the purpose of studying Michigan schools.

Superintendent Isbister was instructed to write the P.T.A. presidents, informing them of the meeting and suggesting, also, the possibility that their schools might wish to send representative teams to the meeting. It was moved by Mr. Fischer and seconded by Mr. Kaiser that Pastor Brauer's request for permission to use a school building, on a rental basis, for Sunday School and church services during the construction period of the Synod's new church, be denied.

Various points of view were expressed by Board members relative to the restrictive nature of the present policy and how this related to community school concept. Some felt that requests of this nature could be handled on an individual basis without a standard policy and that favorable consideration at this time to the request would not prejudice future boards. Others felt the present policy was fair to all and, if exceptions were made, would be difficult to deny similar requests made by other church groups. It was noted, too, that the beauty of a public building is its utility.

A roll call vote was requested on the motion.

Ayes: Members Fischer, Kaiser and Soth.

Nays: Members Niemi, Zoet and Zylstra.

Since the motion lacked a majority favorable vote it was declared lost.

Pastor Brauer was notified that the matter would be placed on the agenda again at the next meeting when the full Board is present.

It was moved by Mr. Fischer and seconded by Mr. Kaiser that the resignation of Mrs. Marilyn Vorenkamp, kindergarten teacher in the Allen School, be accepted.

Ayes: Members Fischer, Kaiser, Niemi, Soth, Zoet and Zylstra.

Nays: None.

Mr. Fischer reported on the Community College Study. Some resistance on the part of the Ionia Board of Education to the proposed method prescribed in the Law, of electing the trustees to govern the community college was noted.

Mr. Zylstra suggested that copies of the agendas for Board meetings be distributed and posted in the school buildings. Superintendent Isbister agreed to act on this suggestion.

Mr. Kaiser reported on the action taken by the Board's Teachers Relations Committee on the Band Study prepared by the Superintendent. He noted the majority of the Committee felt that the report should be approved but that the decision to approve Mr. Griffith's contract should be withheld until all teachers are offered their contracts in the spring. He also recommended further study of the total music program, with particular focus on the opportunities which students have to participate in vocal, orchestral and band performance groups, the amount of time (both in school and post school) devoted by the students to the study of music and the amount of high school credit given for music studies. He suggested further study of the policies under which the high school band is operating.

It was moved by Mr. Zylstra and seconded by Mr. Zoet that the Superintendent's Band Study and recommendations contained therein be approved in their entirety and that he be instructed to take immediate steps to implement the following suggestions contained in the Board's Teachers Relations Committee report of December 23, 1959:

- I. Formalize policies and procedures for the selection, orientation, in-service training and evaluation of teachers. Make copies of these policies available to teachers, board members and the public.
- II. Evaluate the total music program of the Community Schools with special attention given to:
  - A. The place of orchestra in the junior and senior high schools.
  - B. The amount of school time and high school credit in the music program.
  - C. The examination of the roles of the board of education, the administration and the band parents association in the band program.

Ayes: Members Zoet and Zylstra.

Nays: Members Fischer, Kaiser, Niemi and Soth.

It was moved by Mr. Niemi and seconded by Mr. Fischer that the Superintendent's Band Study be approved but action be delayed on Mr. Griffith's contract for the school year 1960-61 until the time when all teachers' contracts are being considered and that steps be taken to implement the following suggestions contained in the Board's Teachers Relations Committee report of December 23, 1959:

- I. Formalize policies and procedures for the selection, orientation, in-service training and evaluation of teachers. Make copies of these policies available to teachers, board members and the public.
- II. Evaluate the total music program of the Community Schools with special attention given to:
  - A. The place of orchestra in the junior and senior high schools.
  - B. The amount of school time and high school credit in the music program.
  - C. The examination of the roles of the board of education, the administration and the band parents association in the band program.

Ayes: Members Fischer, Kaiser, Niemi, Soth and Zoet.

Nays: Member Zylstra.

Mr. Zylstra felt that the matter of scheduling music groups on an extra curricula basis should have been an amendment to the motion.

Mr. Ross, representing Local No. 522 of the International Union of Operating Engineers, stated that at a previous Board meeting he was given to understand some answer would be forthcoming this evening on whether or not the Board was ready and willing to negotiate through the Union which he represents the conditions of work and wages of the maintenance and custodial staff.

Mr. Ross volunteered to bring evidence to prove that the employees are members of the Union. He agreed to bring to the Central Office the original applications signed by the employees so that photostat copies could be made of them.

Next steps in communication with the employees will be decided before the regular meeting of the Board on January 11, 1960.

Meeting adjourned at 10:10 p.m.

Respectfully submitted, Harold E. Fischer, Secretary

MAIL NANCY MINUTES BOARD OF EDUCATION

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education of the Plymouth Community School District was held Monday evening, December 14, 1959, in the Board Room of the Administration Building at eight o'clock.

Present: Members Fischer, Hulsing, Kaiser, Niemi, Soth, Zoet and Zylstra, Jr.; Superintendent Isbister and Administrative Assistant Blunk.

Absent: None.

Also present: Mr. Sponseller, Mr. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Moran, Mr. Ross and Pastor Brauer.

President Hulsing called the meeting to order at 8:00 p.m. Superintendent Isbister read a letter from Mr. Paalaaki, Secretary of Superior Township School District No. 2, addressed to the Board requesting that favorable consideration be given to the annexation of their school district.

Mr. Isbister reported that Superintendent Haab of the Washtenaw County Board of Education is calling a meeting in January of the boards of education in the high school districts contiguous to the primary school districts in Salem and Superior Townships for the purpose of studying the problem of annexation of these districts.

Mr. Isbister read a report of his analysis of the high school band situation with particular reference to the quality of leadership exhibited by the director. He recommended that the director be offered a contract for the school year 1960-61.

It was moved by Mr. Niemi, seconded by Mr. Fischer, that the report be received and that the President be instructed to appoint a committee to give the report further study before taking action.

Ayes: Members Fischer, Hulsing, Kaiser, Niemi, Soth and Zoet.

Nays: Member Zylstra.

President Hulsing assigned the report to the Teachers' Relations Committee for further study and recommendations.

Pastor Brauer, representing the Lutheran Church of the Missouri Synod, appeared before the Board to request permission to use a school building for Sunday church services and Sunday school during the construction period of their new church.

It was moved by Mr. Zylstra and seconded by Mr. Zoet to give tentative approval to Pastor Brauer's request, pending the preparation of mutual contractual arrangements between the Church and the Board for the use of the school building for church services and-or Sunday school to cover such costs as heat, light, custodial services and rental fees. Permission would be granted for a limited time during the period the new church was under construction. After considerable discussion on the arguments for and against the present restrictive policy, a roll call vote was taken.

Ayes: Members Zoet and Zylstra.

Nays: Members Fischer, Kaiser and Soth.

Abstained: Members Hulsing and Niemi.

It was moved by Mr. Zoet and seconded by Mr. Niemi that the present policy in regard to the use of school facilities by religious or church-connected groups be reviewed by the entire Board.

Ayes: Members Fischer, Hulsing, Kaiser, Niemi, Soth, Zoet and Zylstra.

Nays: None.

President Hulsing served notice that a special meeting of the Board would be held on Monday evening, December 27, 1959, at which time the use of facilities by churches would be studied and the Board's Teachers Relations Committee would report.

Superintendent Isbister was instructed to make a survey of neighboring school districts in order to determine prevailing practices in regard to the use of school buildings by churches.

It was moved by Mr. Soth and seconded by Mr. Zylstra that the minutes of the last regular and intervening special meetings be approved.

Ayes: Members Fischer, Hulsing, Kaiser, Niemi, Soth, Zoet and Zylstra.

Nays: None.

It was moved by Mr. Fischer and seconded by Mr. Soth that the following bills be approved for payment:

General Fund:
Voucher 1331, Payroll Nov. 20, '59	$81,708.17
Voucher 1332, Payroll Dec. 4, '59	79,489.32
Voucher 1333 to 1334, inclusive	68,548.46
Bldg. & Site Sinking Fund:
Vouchers 43 to 51, inclusive	22,068.14
1952 Debt Retirement Fund:
Voucher 3017	2.50
Ayes: Members Fischer, Hulsing, Kaiser, Niemi, Soth, Zoet and Zylstra.

Nays: None.

Mr. Blunk reported to the Board on legal opinions procured from Mr. Richard Forsyth, Attorney, on the Board's responsibility in dealing with a labor union in which school district employees have membership.

Mr. Robert Ross, business agent for the International Union of Operating Engineers, stated that he has the evidence to support his claim that the thirty men who are on the maintenance and custodial staff of the Plymouth Community Schools are members of the Local and, therefore, he requested the right of representing this staff in their negotiations with the Board.

After some discussion of the procedures by which the Board would approach this problem, President Hulsing directed the Personnel Committee to meet with the Committee of Three (Original Group of Employees) with whom the Board made negotiations last year. Next steps would be decided after this meeting.

Superintendent Isbister recommended to the Board that Saturday morning classes in conversational Spanish and French be offered to elementary and junior high school aged children.

It was moved by Mr. Zylstra and seconded by Mr. Kaiser to approve on a temporary basis (sixteen weeks) the Saturday morning instruction in conversational Spanish and French, providing the program is self-supporting.

Ayes: Members Fischer, Hulsing, Kaiser, Niemi, Soth, Zoet and Zylstra.

Nays: None.

It was moved by Mr. Niemi and seconded by Mr. Soth that the previously approved motion on the payment of bills be amended and that voucher numbers 44 and 47 of the Building and Site Sinking Fund in the amounts of $8,085.83 and $261.12 be withheld from payment at this time.

Ayes: Members Fischer, Hulsing, Kaiser, Niemi, Soth, Zoet and Zylstra.

Nays: None.

It was moved by Mr. Fischer and seconded by Mr. Soth that the resignation of Josephine Beach be accepted.

Ayes: Members Fischer, Hulsing, Kaiser, Niemi, Soth, Zoet and Zylstra.

Nays: None.

It was moved by Mr. Fischer and seconded by Mr. Zylstra that the appointment of Carole Steele be approved.

Ayes: Members Fischer, Hulsing, Kaiser, Niemi, Soth, Zoet and Zylstra.

Nays: None.

It was moved by Mr. Niemi and seconded by Mr. Zoet that permission be granted for Gerald Elston to attend the Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development Convention in Washington, D.C. and for Donald Rank to attend the Department of Elementary School Principals' Convention in St. Louis, Missouri.

Ayes: Members Fischer, Hulsing, Kaiser, Niemi, Soth, Zoet and Zylstra.

Nays: None.

Mr. Kaiser made a progress report for the Teachers' Relations Committee. He noted that teachers felt the administrative procedures by which they were released for personal business should be reviewed and changed; also, that some upward revision should be made in payments to teachers who teach extra classes in the junior and senior high schools.

Mr. Fischer asked for time in the next meeting to report on the Community College activity.

Some discussion took place in regard to next steps in school plant planning. It was generally agreed that another proposal should go to the people in a special election in the spring.

The Superintendent was asked to write to Reverend Francis Byrne of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church expressing the sympathy of the Board of Education and the Staff in the untimely death of Sister M. Victorine.

The meeting adjourned at 11:30 p.m.

Respectfully submitted, Harold E. Fischer, Secretary

A special meeting of the Board of Education of the Plymouth Community School District was held on Monday evening, December 21, 1959, in the Board Room of the Administration Building at eight o'clock.

Present: Members Fischer, Hulsing, Kaiser, Niemi, Soth, Zoet and Zylstra; Mr. Blunk and Mr. Isbister.

Also present: Mr. Bentley, Mrs. Bromley, Mr. Crespo, Mr. Gorze, Mr. Smith, Miss Spence and Miss Stevens of the high school staff.

The meeting was called to order by President Hulsing at 8:00 o'clock p.m.

It was moved by Mr. Soth and seconded by Mr. Fischer that an account be opened in the National Bank of Detroit, Plymouth Branch, in the name of the Plymouth Community School District, U.S. Treasury Bond Fund, as a depository for employee payroll bond deductions.

Ayes: Members Fischer, Hulsing, Kaiser, Niemi, Soth, Zoet and Zylstra.

Nays: None.

President Hulsing welcomed the high school staff members and noted that the Board was interested in discussing with them the current instructional program in the fields of English and the other languages. She indicated, also, that this is the second of a series of meetings in which the Board is planning to review the entire curricula offerings in the Community Schools. Other meetings will be scheduled periodically during the school year.

An appraisal of present practices was made by the teachers in these subject matter areas. Added emphasis is being given to the importance of communication skills and the necessity for bi-lingual usage on the part of the adult population in today's world. In order to develop facility in the second language the importance of four year offerings in Latin and the modern languages was stressed.

It was mutually agreed that plans should be made now for the purchase and installation of a language laboratory as an aid in teaching.

The selection and evaluation of students for the multiple track system now being used in the English classes were discussed at length. The use of the tracks makes possible a high degree of differentiation in instruction and, also, permits teachers to step up the tempo for the students who wish to pursue their studies at a faster pace. It was recommended that a course in speech be added to the curriculum and that students be permitted to substitute this for one semester of English in the high school course.

President Hulsing expressed to the high school staff the Board's appreciation for the interesting yet factual presentation.

The meeting was adjourned at 10:00 p.m.

Respectfully submitted, Harold E. Fischer, Secretary

Airman John LaGrow, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. LaGrow of Brownell St., Plymouth, has completed his initial course of Air Force basic training at Lackland AFB, Texas, and selected to attend the technical training course for aircraft and missile maintenance at Chanute AFB, Ill.

He is a graduate of Plymouth High. LaGrow and other basic airmen at Lackland are selected for specialization training at technical schools on the basis of their interests and aptitudes. They are re-assigned to the school after four weeks of basic training, and are given additional military training along with the technical schooling.

One gallon of gasoline has the explosive power of 100 sticks of dynamite.

Housewives who hire household help have until Jan. 31 to file the quarterly social security tax returns on wages paid to their employees during the last three months of 1959, it was announced by the Detroit-Northwest social security office recently.

A return must be filed with the District Director of Internal Revenue for any household worker to whom an employer has paid a cash wage of $50 or more during the three months of October, November, and December. Wages of as little as $4 a week paid to a worker each week during this 3-month period will have amounted to more than $50, it was pointed out.

Each employer who pays a day worker a total of $50 cash wages during the calendar quarter is required by law to file a return showing the name and social security account number of the worker, the amount of her wages, and the social security taxes due. The law holds the employer responsible for making the returns and paying the taxes. If not detected first by the Internal Revenue Service through routine enforcement procedures, employers who are not filing reports may be called for a reckoning in a number of different ways. This could happen when a former worker applies to her social security office for retirement or disability benefits, or when a survivor of a worker applies for social security benefits after the worker's death. A worker at any time can also ask the Social Security Administration for a record of her social security credits and ask for an investigation of any credits missing from that record.

Now for the Follow Up

President Eisenhower's 45 minute address to the joint session of Congress — despite its double-talk on inflation, on Federal concern for problems such as urban planning and education; which he emphasized were state and local matters — provided eloquent testimony of our accelerating drift into globalism.

This was basically a state-of-the-world address, and dealt only incidentally with the state of the Union. Most encouraging, perhaps, was the variously repeated thought that the time has come for the other free nations that are "prepared to assist" to help carry the financial burden of aid to backward and undeveloped nations.

The President also pointed out as an "indispensable element" of the aid program the necessity for "national discipline" in the aided countries to make the best use of assistance received. The assurances of our strong defense posture were also heartening — even if given in terms that were perhaps necessarily vague.

Reconvening in the usual high spirits — accentuated, perhaps, by the added excitement of Presidential election year — the halls of Congress were still overflowing with genuineness as the President was escorted to the rostrum of the House chamber. Applause was liberal. But the most pronounced and prolonged came at a point in the speech hardly calculated to raise cheers from a "spending" Congress.

The President had ticked off the "nagging disorders" that distress the nation as labor disputes, antiquated farm legislation, inflation and "in certain instances the denial to some of our citizens of equal protection of the law." He urged that we must try "living within our means" and accept "stern self-discipline" to avoid the "crippling tax" of inflation. Then he said:

"One major method by which the Federal Government can counter inflation and rising prices is to insure that its expenditures are below its revenues."

And then it was that the Congressional cheers and hand-clapping reached their climax! The Chief Executive went on to announce that he would submit a balanced budget of $79.8 billion with a surplus of $4.2 billion that should be applied against our $290 billion national debt, saving $200 million a year in interest.

But we shall see what we shall see. The business of politics-as-usual was to resume the following day.

Eight Men and a November Date

IN DEMOCRATIC political ranks, Sen. John F. Kennedy is the acknowledged front-runner for his party's presidential nomination. But the gap between him and the next closest bidders is not as wide as that between Vice President Nixon and Nelson Rockefeller who officially has withdrawn from the GOP nomination race, but still remains as a strong vice presidential prospect.

As party conventions near, and also the Nov. 8 election date, these men are certain to figure large in political news.

Averell Harriman

Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.)

How's Business?

All Signs Now Indicate More Inflation in 1960

Roger W. Babson's Staff

The uptrend in business and recent labor-management problems have tended to subordinate inflation psychology of late. But certain trends are taking shape which could promote a resurgence of inflation fears.

Despite management and government efforts to hold the line against rising labor costs during the past two years, wage raises have been both numerous and substantial. Paced by the newly signed steel pact, a fresh onslaught of increases seems inevitable in 1960.

The general price structure also is vulnerable to further upgrading. Certainly, a large proportion of any hikes in labor costs will be translated into price increases. Industrial commodities and many service lines are likely to show the most pronounced and general increase, due to the rising trend of business. Fears of temporary shortages of goods, based on increased demand and the threat of further labor tie-ups, could heighten upward pressures upon prices.

Another area to watch will be the inflationary expansion of credit. Expectations of full employment and record incomes are powerful stimuli to consumer buying impatience, with perhaps greatest emphasis on durable goods.

Sales of automobiles, appliances, etc., are now made mostly on "time payments," a fact which suggests a ballooning of installment credit.

Though a moderately lower level of home building is anticipated in 1960, the projected rate of slightly more than a million units should keep mortgage credit extensions high.

It will not be clear sailing for inflationary pressures, however. Cognizant of the dangers of unbounded optimism and mindful of the need to preserve the integrity of the dollar, the nation's monetary authorities can be expected to continue their restraining efforts. The growing menace of foreign competition could also help to temper labor's demands and force management to keep a careful watch on costs. Over all, however, public sentiment is likely to reveal a resurgence of inflationary psychology.

What's Revealed in your Handwriting

Dear Miss Williams: I am interested in knowing what type of person I am. Could you please give me an analysis of my poor handwriting?

Thanks, M.J.B.

Dear M.J.B.:

Your handwriting is varied. Your emotions are also variable. You are in complete control of yourself at times and use good logic and good sense. Then you have periods when you change over and get emotionally upset, express your feelings — even get self-conscious. Your imagination works toward you and brings on a sensitive attitude.

You are capable with your hands and have some creative talent. If and when you make up your mind it is liable to be unchangeable because you can be pretty determined when you want to be. You like attention and are talkative.

Dear Miss Williams: I enjoy your column very much. Would you please tell me what, if anything, my handwriting reveals?

Thank you, Mrs. W.W.R.

Dear W.W.R.:

You are very practical minded, do not worry about things far off. You're more interested in now.

There is a humor streak in you with a good imagination to go with it.

You can be diplomatic but aren't very often. However, you are the type of person who has a purpose in mind and enough determination to see it through.

There is a spiritual reaching up quality in your writing. You can draw on a "reserve" when you need it.

You like to hang on to what you have. That's the tenacity shown in your writing. Creative tendencies are also expressed in your writing. A little sensitivity and some expressiveness.

Dear Miss Williams: Enclosed is a sample of my daughter's writing. Can you tell me if we have any similar traits. I find your column most interesting.

Thank you, Marcia's Mother

Dear Marcia's Mother:

I will not print both letters (to conserve space) but will be happy to answer both and you can compare.

Your daughter has good organized thinking and enjoys little responsibilities. She is quite creative and likes to be conservative. There is a little independent thinking here and she is a little choosy in selection of friends.

She takes pride in what she does, has a good memory, is persistent and open minded. She does not mind criticism.

Your writing shows the same persistence and open-mindedness. However, you are sensitive and often get hurt at criticism. You, too, have a good memory and are efficient.

You are also diplomatic and have a good sharp thinking sense. You like to learn more, retain what you learn and like to hold onto anything gained. There is some creativeness in your writing too.

Hope this has been an interesting comparison for you. Send your letters to Lucille Williams in care of this newspaper for free handwriting analysis.

German Student Fled Advancing Russian Troops

BY URSULA KELL

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Ursula Kell, an exchange student from Germany enrolled in Plymouth High, is relating the plight of her family at the conclusion of World War I. With her father in the service, Ursula, her mother and family are fleeing eastern Germany because of the invading Russians. After moving twice, her mother decided to go to Brandenburg.)

At the last minute my mother changed her decision to go to Brandenburg, East Germany. My grandmother wrote her that the conditions in that town were not good at all; they had no place in their own house, because of the refugee-families lived in it already. The whole town was flooded with them so that we hardly would find a place to live.

My mother remembered the village in West Germany where she had visited my father in a soldier camp. She made there the acquaintance of a nice farmer family. So she decided to go there and find a place.

She hoped to find this area in the west not so crowded as in the east, but that was wrong. We moved from Mecklenburg to Hamburg, I am happy that I don't remember this disturbed and ruined town because my mother told us later what a sad sight it was.

We crossed the Elbe River with a barge. Some American soldiers tried to give me chocolate and do something good for me, but I had fear of them and cried. What a strange language they did speak!

The part of our trip from Hamburg to Wolterdingen was the nicest one. It was spring, there was a wonderful landscape, and the war was over. My mother could not believe to hear the birds singing again, after all she had seen. This spring did not miss influencing the people; they got new hope for a new beginning. They forgot for a time the hardship of the years and my mother remembers these weeks as a friendly, good time. They traveled along riversides, through dark, lonely woods, pleasant valleys, fires in the night and sang and had good friendships. They wanted to live and they had new hope.

After a time they arrived in the village of Wolterdingen and met the family of the farmer. But they had no place; their house was crowded and full of refugees. We stayed some days on the road until we got to live in a very, very small room in another farmer's house which was situated in the woods. We had two beds, an oven, one table, three chairs.

We have six members in the family: grandfather, grandmother, my mother, my sister, myself, and my aunt who had found our address and joined us. My grandfather slept in another house because we had not enough place. My mother and I slept together in a bed, my grandmother in another one, my aunt on the floor with some blankets, and my little sister in the upside down table. You could not move a step — there was no place.

The farmers gave us food — the most necessary things, but nothing more. There is still a cool feeling in some villages against the "East-people," and they would not want to become close friends with them. They speak their own dialect in the villages of northern Germany and so it was not easy for some to penetrate into this society.

The farmers in pre-war times had their big houses all for themselves and now suddenly they had to share; to give their rooms and wealth to other people. In a way, I can understand that it was difficult for them, considering that not all refugees were nice and clean families and some did not take care of the rooms and furniture that did not belong to them. We lived in this farmer's house for about one year. My mother did hard work in the fields to get food for living. She still did not know anything about my father. We lived there till the adventure of one night changed our living conditions.

There was a camp in our village with many Polish people, Russian and Lithuanian. They were poor, and so they robbed the houses of farmers. One night — it was not very late — we were just getting into bed, the glasses of our windows were broken, and three or four men with black masks and machine-guns climbed through the window. "Money, clothes, we want money," they spoke in broken German. We showed them what we had and my mother said: "Take what you want," because there was nothing to take.

My grandmother had some bracelets of her daughter, who the Russians took to Siberia, and my mother had the marriage ring of my father. They took these — our last possessions. They wanted money and said they would kill us if we would not give more.

But finally they understood that we were poor refugees and they tried to get into the rooms of the farmer, but he had locked our door from the outside, so that they could not get out. The gangsters started shooting. They sprang out of the window, got into the house through a little back door and wanted to murder the farmer. But he escaped and alarmed the British police. In the meantime they damaged all that they could, because they disliked the selfish attitude of the farmer. He always refused help and food when they came to him. They shot an employee of the farmer; the police came, but they escaped.

The mayor saw how bad the living conditions were and we moved into another house and had two rooms. Here we waited until my father came out of the war and we stayed there until 1952.

Many Church Activities Set for Newburg Folks

CAROL LAPOINTE

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Mahl of Amherst Rd., Livonia, are home after spending a little more than two weeks visiting at Oyster Bay, Long Island, N. Y., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Alston and in New Haven, Conn., at the home of Dr. and Mrs. George F. Mahl.

Jerry Lampton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lampton of 1614 E. 12th St., Livonia, recently underwent a tonsillectomy at St. Joseph's Hospital in Ann Arbor. Jerry is now convalescing at the West Trail Nursing Home in Plymouth and cards of cheer would be most welcome to the young lad. Jerry's dad is the owner of the new nursing home at 895 Ann Arbor Trail, which is now open for patients.

The Dorcas Circle of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Newburg Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. Henry Fry on Monday, Jan. 11. The ladies were privileged to have as their special guest Dr. Winifred Ingram of the Hawthorne Center, who spoke on "Better Mental Health" and how to obtain it.

Members attending this fine program were Mrs. Fern Ursula, Mrs. Hannah Schmidt, Mrs. Joyce Anderson, Mrs. Lillian Thompson, Mrs. Dorothy Waack, Mrs. Robert Eastlake, Mrs. Marian Boshart, Mrs. Vera Trost, Mrs. Virginia Barres, Mrs. Doris Page, Mrs. Marilyn Bird and Mrs. Rosalie Beasley.

Lots of things will be going on at the Newburg Methodist Church, Ann Arbor Trail and Newburg Eds., which the general public will be interested in attending. First of all, don't forget the evening of January 30 when dinner and theatre will provide a double treat. An old-fashioned ham dinner with cherry and apple pie for dessert will be served from 5 to 7 p.m.

All you can eat for the nominal charge of $1.50 for adults and 75c for children through 12 years of age. Order your tickets well ahead as only 300 will be sold and quite a few are gone now. As for the theatre treat, the adult choir is presenting a three act comedy, "The Singing Saints," which is set in the era of the nineties and promises an evening of much fun. Tickets for this dramatic treat are 50c for adults and 25c for children under 12 and will begin at 8 p.m. You may purchase the play tickets at the door if you wish, or phone GL 3-3797 to make reservations.

Another event will take place on Tuesday, Feb. 16, when the Sarah Circle of the Woman's Society of Christian Service is sponsoring a tour through the Harris Funeral Home on 6 Mile Road. The circle will receive $1 for each man or woman who takes this unusual tour. If you care to go but have no transportation, you may call Mrs. J. B. Baldwin at GL 3-7455. Thursday, Feb. 18 and 19, the Men's Club of the church will present, "The Newburg Minstrels" in an evening of fine musical entertainment in keeping with the minstrel show tradition.

The hour for this event has not been set and tickets are not available as yet. But keep your eyes on Newburg News for the announcement. Another event to mark on your calendar is the ladies' luncheon on Wednesday, March 16 at 12:30 p.m. "Luncheon is Served" is the program.

A very fine meal will be served with many prizes of food given away. Tickets are $1 and a babysitter will be provided for women with youngsters who wish to attend. There will also be a bake sale table from which you may purchase goodies for your evening meal. More details on this at a later date.

Sorry our get-together couldn't be a little longer this week but I had so few calls and then, too, I've been a little under the weather with something and I'm happy we could get together for as much as this. See you next week?

Moscoe Theatres Offer Lots of Food, Emotion

BY ALINE MOSBY
United Press International

MOSCOW (UPI) — An evening at the theater in Moscow means a double feature: (1) four hours of emotional, exciting chest-beating across the footlights, and (2) food.

In that respect, the Soviet Union is the world's best place for an actor to work. I decided after inspecting the winter theatrical program in Moscow.

For an actor, the audience is his, all his, for four hours. The curtain usually rises at 7:30 and most of the plays last until 11:30. There's no such thing as being fashionably late, so latecomers can't disturb the actor's orations. They have to sit out the first act in the chilly lobby.

Then the thespian can pull out all the stops. Acting in Moscow, right down to the smallest walk-on part, is more emotional than it is in Western stages. At first, that's astonishing to the theater fan used to the relatively subdued style of Broadway.

But this is a country of stronger emotions in everyday life, and the theater has to be that much broader to do ordinary life one better.

One long-run popular play, for example, is a real-life story telling how convicts and prostitutes built the White Sea Canal after the revolution. The heroine of "The Aristocrats," a truly buxom blonde, must have put in a good two miles striding around the stage with jaw outthrust during three acts.

In one hysterical scene, she cried real tears and literally rolled around the stage, black velvet dress and all.

Another play dramatizes most fervently life in Siberia 50 years ago, and could be called a Western in Russian boots. In this supercolossal epic, the hero steals his father's mistress, kills her to snatch money his father gave her, blames the murder on his best friend, has his father put in an insane asylum, takes dope, starts a forest fire, orders police to shoot striking workers at his mines and at last ends it all — and the play — by jumping out a window.

The scenic effects were just as flamboyant. Eight completely different sets twirled on a revolving stage. Snowstorms and fires were astonishingly realistic.

Because some theatergoers skip dinner to make that 7:30 curtain, during the first intermission there's a wild rush to a room called the buffet. Limp from the exciting play, you devour thick salami or caviar sandwiches, cheese, beer, sweet Russian drinks or sweeter pastry.

Then back to your seat for another hour of emotion. Next intermission, everybody eats again. In fact, some foreign theatergoers don't understand a word of Russian but give the caviar sandwiches a rave review. After seeing one comedy about love at a machine tractor station, I decided they should shelve the play and just show the chocolate eclairs.

Most theaters put on Shakespeare, from Chekhov to Shakespear. What is easier to find a good modern play that meets the requirements of glorifying the march to Communism.

Whatever the play, the Russians love their theater. For four hours they sit in rapt silence, except when an exciting moment occurs in the plot. Then they discuss this turn of events with each other and a wave of whispers sweeps the theater.

Most theaters are more ornate than in New York, sparkling with elegant chandeliers and little gilded boxes. But you don't see the elegant folk, eggheads or upper bohemians of a Broadway crowd. What appears to be so-called average people, of all ages, fill Moscow theaters, their sturdy figures dressed informally.

After the play, the Russians waste little time applauding the actors. They briskly head for the cloak room, an inescapable institution; you can't get into the theater without shedding your outer garb.

Everybody bundles up again in cocoons of scarves, fur hats, bulky brown coats and heavy boots. Then, like a great brown wind, they surge, chattering busily, into the snowy streets.

License Tab Sales 40 Percent Behind

Sales of 1960 vehicle license tabs are running 40 per cent behind those of a year ago, according to Doris Root, Branch Manager of the Plymouth office of the Michigan Department of State.

The Plymouth office is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily and from 9 a.m. to 1 on Saturday. Deadline is Feb. 29.

According to James M. Hare, sales reports from all 83 counties of Michigan show that total tab transactions are down 150,457 below the 1959 figure. In 1959, sales reached 526,642 during the first ten weeks of license sales. This year, only 376,185 tax were sold during the same period.

Unlike previous years, Hare said, "license buyers in 1960 are getting a small tab to cover the upper right hand corner of their 1959 plate. Since folks don't see a nice new plate on the car ahead of them to remind them to get their new registration, sales are off."

"Last week," Hare added, "we fell behind by more than 20,000 transactions. In other words, the problem is getting worse, not better, every day as the deadline approaches."

Doris Root reminded Plymouth and Livonia citizens that the use of the tab has saved the taxpayers of Michigan many hundreds of thousands of dollars and that money thus saved was used for highways, traffic safety programs, and other essential State services.

Care Will Extend Life Of Your Appliances

By ANN JERMYN

Appliances are miracle workers. They wash clothes, dry clothes, wash dishes, bake, beat, toast, fry, stew, grind up garbage according to the purpose for which they were designed.

The care and attention which appliances require from the housewife, maid or home handyman is minimal. It's hands off the motor, working part of the machine and no amount of curiosity should lead any appliance owner into investigating or attempting to repair it. No oiling or greasing either.

Poor functioning at the beginning or end of the appliance's service should be corrected by a qualified service man.

Inadequate performance may be the fault of the operator rather than the motor. To understand what an appliance can do and how to make it do its work means reading the instruction book—probably more than once.

The instruction book which comes with every appliance is required reading for the owner of any current model. The automatic toaster that was a Christmas gift is not only a different shape and perhaps a different exterior material than the one it replaces, but innovations are almost certain to have been made in its operation. If a space and energy-saving combination washer and dryer now replace the older automatic washer, the housewife needs to understand just how much this new machine can do. Or a new range may have the pull-out type of oven which makes cleaning so much easier.

Whenever another appliance is added or a new appliance installed, be sure that enough electricity is available for its satisfactory operation. The answer can be given and the necessary adjustments made only by a licensed electrician.

You're not getting your money's worth unless the appliance performs all of the services of which it is capable. On the other hand, the instruction book will be equally specific about the things the machine cannot do, including articles that should never be dried in the automatic dryer.

Keeping the appliance clean is the main chore. Washers and dryers, notably washers and dryers or a combination of the two, now are self-cleaning. For example, the instruction book will tell whether or not the lint collector in a washer or dryer is self-cleaning and if it isn't how you go about cleaning it.

The exterior can be kept looking as good as new for years. Simply wipe off the surface, both the porcelain areas and the chrome trim, with a clean damp cloth as often as seems necessary. Never use harsh abrasives which may scratch or wear down the surface. High quality wax such as would be used on an automobile, may be applied every six months or so as extra protection for the surface. However, never apply wax to any plastic trim.

If a falling object nicks or chips the exterior surface, the spot can be filled in with a porcelain cement. Stains can be removed by wiping with a cloth dipped in a chlorine bleach. If the interior of a washer or dryer becomes color stained, the load can be removed by running a load of color-fast materials which have been dipped in a chlorine bleach and wrung out lightly.

Electrical cords, rubber hoses and other essentials of installation should be inspected periodically on appliances that have been in use for a year or longer. Electrical cords can fray, rubber hoses become weakened, by too much water pressure. It's better to replace before an accident.

After reading the instruction book, file it away on a shelf or hang it from a nail in the utility room or kitchen where the appliance has been installed. Refer to the book periodically, even if you've thought all along that you know how to make it do what you want it to do.

Adults received service from the Easter Seal Society of Western Wayne County in the center of the Plymouth plant. The program includes referral to medical services; transportation to such facilities when needed; the summer Day Camp for Crippled Children; clubs and classes for handicapped adults.

History threatened to repeat itself late last fall when heavy snows and freezing temperatures greeted deer hunters at the onset of the November 15-30 gunning seasons.

Thaws followed this early scare and since then the weather has, by a nd large, been normal. However, later freezing left an icy seal over a portion of the herd's acorn food supply.

Although deer took to heavy cover in many districts, they were not confined to their winter deeryards.

This season's generally mild weather is a reversal of last winter when the herd was caught in the throes of unseasonably severe conditions by mid-December.

Leader of the Gypsies' patrol is Connie Hoffman, while Ginny Buttermore is the assistant. Sue Roberts is the leader of the Green Eves' patrol and Shirley Kava is the assistant.

This Winter Much Easier on Deer

Michigan's winter deer herd, estimated between 500,000 and 600,000, fed a nd roamed freely throughout most of its range this week, according to reports from Conservation Department district game supervisors.

Although deer took to heavy cover in many districts, they were not confined to their winter deeryards.

This season's generally mild weather is a reversal of last winter when the herd was caught in the throes of unseasonably severe conditions by mid-December.
