Symphony Offers More Tickets to 'Music Man'

The original block of "Music Man" tickets offered recently for sale by the Plymouth Symphony League sold so fast that the League's Group H has obtained additional tickets for local theater-goers for the March 25 performance.

Starring Forrest Tucker in the lead role, "Music Man" is playing at the Riviera Theater in Detroit. The March 25 showing, which will benefit the Plymouth Symphony, begins at 8:30 p.m.

The additional tickets are for those Plymouth residents who were turned away during the initial ticket sale two weeks ago. The new tickets may be reserved by calling two members of the Plymouth Symphony League: Mrs. William Covington at GL 3-2224 or Mrs. John Murphy at GL 3-0892.

Sponsored by Group H of the Symphony League, the event is another of several fund raising programs held during the year to aid the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, now in its 14th season.

Proceeds from the ticket sale will go toward further free concerts conducted by the Plymouth Symphony.

3-Cities Art Exhibit A Hit

The Three Cities Art Club of Plymouth, Northville and Livonia held its two-day Mid-Winter Exhibit last weekend in the Community Center in Northville.

Featured in the show were oils, watercolors, collages, mosaics, jewelry, pottery and sculpture.

"We were extremely pleased with the interest shown by the many visitors," said Mable Bacon, newly-elected president of the club. They all had a chance to vote for their favorite entry and selected a collage by Barbara McKenzie of Northville called "Oriental Park."

Chairman of the exhibit was Shirley Denison of Plymouth.

Teaching Profession Provides Most of Cast For 'Anne Frank' Play

Taking on the tall task of presenting the moving story of "The Diary of Anne Frank" are these 10 people, most of them familiar faces to Plymouth Theatre Guild followers. "Diary" opens its three-day run at the High School on Thursday, March 10. (See other details on Page 1.)

Anne Frank is played by Jan Stewart (1), a teacher at Thurston High. Sam Davis (2) is cast in the part of Mr. Van Daan, father of the family holed up in an Amsterdam garret with the Otto Frank family. Mrs. Van Daan is played by Marilyn Dreher (3), a teacher at Bentley High. The president of the Theatre Guild, Dr. Ford Sutherland (4), plays the role of Mr. Dussel, a lonely dentist. Another Livonia teacher, Jim Blackman (5), has the role of Mr. Kraler, owner of the factory in which the families have hidden.

Miep, a kindly Dutch girl, is the role handled by Olivia Bell (6), a Plymouth teacher. Otto Frank, the male lead, is being interpreted by John Glanz (7), an art teacher at Bentley High. Mrs. Frank is portrayed by Betsey Gibson (8), a teacher at the Plymouth Junior High. A U of M pre-med student, Jerry Looney (9), is Peter Van Daan. Margot, the older sister of Anne, is played by Shirley Thaden (10), a housewife.

Jack's Burgers Restaurant Changes Hands

New owner of Jack's Burgers restaurant, 794 Penniman, is Robert Young, 22-year-old younger brother of the store's former owner, Jack Young.

Bob, as he is better known, assumed ownership March 1. He is a 1956 graduate of Plymouth High and attended West Virginia Technical Institute. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donly Young, 499 Pacific.

His brother, Jack, who had owned the restaurant since 1955, is undecided about future plans. When Jack bought the store in 1955 it was named "Ken and Ork's." Bob said that he is contemplating re-naming the store "The Penn Restaurant." He said he plans to re-decorate the store's interior shortly.

April Cancer Crusade Set For Local Area

To acquaint the public with facts about cancer, the education and research that is being carried on, the services given by the local Cancer Branch and to identify the Michigan Cancer Foundation as the parent organization in Southeastern Michigan are the objectives of the April Cancer Crusade in Plymouth.

The above statement was the directive given the members of the Board of Directors of the Plymouth Branch of the Michigan Cancer Foundation by John Truer, president, at a meeting, Feb. 22.

Jim Wood, field representative of the Western Wayne Unit, in explaining the separation from the American Cancer Society, said that the Michigan Foundation has no quarrel with any of the work of the American Society. The split came entirely because the ACS decided to by-pass the United Foundation Drive and set up its own campaign for financing.

Miss Neva Lovewell was appointed to head a committee to obtain a chairman of the April Crusade to succeed Mrs. Clifford Caldwell who managed last year's campaign.

Appointed to a committee to draft a letter to inform the area of Plymouth's services in the organization were Mrs. Harry Bartel, chairman;

Thomas Adams; and Miss Elizabeth McDonald. Mrs. Bartel, Women's Activity Chairman of the Western Wayne Unit, announced a meeting and potluck luncheon to be held at the Veteran's Memorial Building in Plymouth, March 3, for office workers and others interested in the service and to acquaint them with the education program of the organization.

had stalled. Many who had promised support failed to "kick in," he revealed. Two of Plymouth's successful citizens, E. C. Hough and Charles Bennett, voiced their support of the venture, but warned that no one should invest money who could not afford to lose, since such a project was a gamble. Apparently there weren't too many ready to take the gamble, for by October 1929, the project came to a halt. Construction was halted, McIntosh and his employees faded from the community, and Penhale's mill was left with dozens of wing ribs and spars. But perhaps it was a good thing that the factory folded before too many people had invested their savings. For by the end of October—the 29th—the greatest depression the nation had ever seen was begun. Within a short time, there remained but few people in the United States who would have invested in $50,000 airplanes. Too many were happy to settle for a seven-cent loaf of bread.

Quad-City Group Plans for Banquet

Beta Sigma Phi Sorority's Quad-City Council met Wednesday, Feb. 24, to discuss plans for the Founder's Day Banquet, slated for Wednesday, April 27, at the Mayflower Hotel.

Newest member of the Quad-City Council is the Brighton Theta Zeta Chapter, the admission of which raises the total to five cities represented in the unit. The other communities are Plymouth, Ypsilanti, Livonia and Ann Arbor.

Plymouth representatives at the recent meeting were Mrs. Robert Brown, Mrs. Gerald Fuelling and Mrs. Tom Marshall.

The next meeting will be held March 30 at the home of Mrs. Jean Elliott, 19387.

Many Newburg Area Scouts Receive Awards at Troop 271 Court of Honor

By Mrs. Emil LaPointe
GL 3-3797

On Wednesday, Feb. 24, before a fine assembly of parents and friends, Boy Scout Troop 271 of St. Michael's Catholic Church held their first Court of Honor for the year. The opening ceremonies, conducted by Scout Richard Powell, included the flag bearing ceremony followed by the assemblage repeating the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag. Scoutmaster Ford C. Rea conducted the investiture of seven Troop rank Scouts who were James Morris, John Saplis, Warren Williamson, William Coseo, Michael McNece, Michael McMullen and James Higgins.

Each Scout's patrol leader came front and center to vouch for each Scout as each honor and in turn presented symbolic camp fire of Troop 271. In the absence of committee chairman William Davis, Sr., Jack Schickel officially opened the court of honor and in turn presented the second class awards to William McNece, Stephen Ott, Patrick White, Leonard Kozio, Dale Kessler, and George Bachelor. One boy, David St. Amour, received the first class advancement and this was presented by Committeeman, Emil LaPointe.

The next step up the ladder to the coveted Eagle is the working for various merit badges which by degrees, lead one through the star rank, the life rank and then eagle. Marvin Swain awarded the following merit badges to these boys: William Davis received public health, firemanship, safety, radio and citizenship in the community; David LaPointe received athletics, firemanship, citizenship in the community and public health; and Bruce LaPointe received athletics, aviation and mechanical drawing.

John Krugier, former scoutmaster of the troop and now the institutional representative, presented service awards. One year awards were given to Michael Donohue, Jack Trombley, Dale Kessler, Michael Kowalski, Wayne Shanks and Robert Bennett. Two year awards were given to William Davis, Ricky Ott, Robert White and Robert McHugh. Three year award was received by David LaPointe and Jack Krugier was to receive his five year service award, but because of heavy school work was unable to attend.

Many troop awards, coming from district activities were presented by Scoutmaster Rea as well as many troop leader warrants and badges. Troop warrants were received by Richard Powell for troop scribe, by David LaPointe for assistant quartermaster and by Edward Nowacki for junior examiner. Patrol leader warrants were given to Michael Rea, Daniel Darrah, Robert McHugh and Dennis Swain. Patrol leader badges were given to Ricky Ott and Brent Eggleston and to William Davis and David LaPointe, who had received their warrant in October 1959. Assistant patrol leaders were also recognized by Mr. Rea and these boys were Wayne Shanks, James Nowacki, Brian Swain and Robert White.

The troop was awarded a participation award for a recent fall Camporee and accepting this on behalf of the troop was Dan Dany and Good Turn award was given to the troop for their recent activity in giving out and collecting Goodwill bags. Receiving this award for the troop was Bruce LaPointe. In the January Klondike, one patrol placed in a tie for second for point participation in the district and patrol leader David LaPointe accepted this award. Other acknowledgements for this same event were William Davis and Brent Eggleston. Troop 271 was also recognized as an honor troop for having increased their membership by 17 during the past year and Richard Powell received this award for the troop.

Camper award was given to Dennis Swain who had participated in every camp activity of the troop. Two boys, William Davis and Brent Eggleston, were recognized as outstanding patrol leaders and were awarded with a gift of a liquid-filled compass. William Davis was also appointed assistant senior patrol leader for the first platoon and David LaPointe was appointed senior patrol leader for the second platoon. Troop camp patches were given to the boys and leaders who participated in last June's Keweenaw Peninsula pack trip and these were Edward Nowacki, Bruce LaPointe, David LaPointe, Robert McHugh, Michael Rea, Dennis Swain and William Davis, Jr. and leaders were Scoutmaster Rea, William Davis, Sr., and then presented the Bronze Palm award to Bruce LaPointe, which is earned after a boy gains the Eagle rank and goes on, in a six month period to five additional merit badges. At this writing, the LaPointe boy has a total of 46 merit badges.

The highlight of the evening was the awarding of scoutdom's highest award, that of the Eagle rank and receiving this was Scout David LaPointe. Presenting the award was District Commissioner Harold Wiegand. Scout LaPointe's parents were similarly mentioned in their work with the Scout in order to make the accomplishment of this award possible. Mrs. LaPointe was presented with an Eagle medal as well as an orchid.

PHOTOGRAPHY

FOR THE AMATEUR

By William H. Schleisner

Flash bulbs attached to a camera are no longer the sign of a news photographer. Their use is general among both professional and amateur photographers.

Many amateurs have learned that a flash gun helps them to get better pictures. The bulbs are not expensive but each one can be used only once. A shield that fits over the lamp reflector is a precaution worth taking. A diffuser shield also provides safety.

As a rule, flash bulbs are entirely safe. However, there are times when one will explode and scatter fragments of glass. Since the glass is shattered with a great deal of force, this can be dangerous unless there is a shield.

It's a good idea also to insert the bulb still in its paper container. The container protects the hand of the photographer if the bulb goes off because of defective wiring in the battery case.

The Number Three flash bulbs give off a tremendous amount of light and heat. For complete safety in handling these, it is best to buy and wear a heavy leather glove. It is possible to suffer third degree burns when a Number 3 flash bulb goes off in the hand.

Such accidents are not common. But since they might occur some day, it is wise for an amateur as well as a professional photographer to carry liability insurance. Thus it will be possible to meet any financial responsibility to employees or sitters hurt by shattering glass or heat.

Don't toss used flash bulbs just anywhere. Put them in a special section of the carrying case to discard when you're passing a trash receptacle. Never discard where children might be able to pick them up and play with them, again because the thin glass shatters easily.

Flash bulbs should not be lighted directly into the eyes of the person being photographed, even if he or she knows the picture is being taken. The blinding light from any of the larger flash bulbs may upset the sitter for as long as an hour. The photographer should follow the same precaution for himself, for a blinding flash may make his eyes useless for focusing for a long period.

Urge Some Chaos In Supermarkets

(UPI) — Supermarkets are getting too efficient for women, in the opinion of Mrs. Marie Kiefer, executive director of the National Association of Retail Grocers of the United States.

Mrs. Kiefer, writing in the association's National Bulletin, blamed it all on men. "The male architects, engineers and owners of grocery stores like things logical, orderly and organized," she said, while women are accustomed to the chaos of child rearing, meal preparation and general family life.

"Women feel more at home in stores where there's a little happy confusion," Mrs. Kiefer said. "It is very simple to make. A pastry mix and coconut for the crust; ready-prepared apple sauce (can or jar) plus packaged lemon gelatin for the filling; and ice cream."

Apple Pie a la Mode (Serves eight) One pastry stick, 1/4 cup shredded coconut, 1 package lemon gelatin, 1/4 cup boiling water, 2 1/2 cups canned apple sauce, 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 pint strawberry ice cream, 1/4 cup toasted coconut.

Prepare pie crust from stick of pie crust mix according to directions on the package, but use 1/2 teaspoon more liquid. Mix in coconut. Roll out pastry on floured board or pastry cloth. Fit into 9-inch pie plate. Flute, prick sides and bottom with fork. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 8 to 10 minutes. Cool. Dissolve lemon gelatin in boiling water. Add apple sauce and grated lemon rind; mix well. Chill until slightly thickened. Pour into baked pie shell. Chill until firm. Just before serving, place ring of small ice cream balls around edge of filling and garnish each ball with toasted coconut.

Apple Ginger Dessert Combine 1/4 cup chopped candied ginger with 2 cups canned apple sauce. Chill until very cold and serve with cream. Or else use as a topping for vanilla ice cream.

For garage heating, the H. C. Little Burner Co., San Rafael, Calif. offers a Saffi-Vent sealed gas heater which burns either city or bottled gas, may be controlled by a thermostat and uses throughout the light venting for drawing in oxygen and releasing exhaust.

If jalousie windows, so pleasant in warm weather, prove a source of drafts in winter, Alco Products, New York, suggests Jala-Seal, silicone rubber channeling, which it says won't mildew, stretch or stick to other panes, has rolled edges to prevent glass breakage and is unaffected by temperature extremes.

Hate to wait at home for parcel deliveries? You can install an all-metal package receiver in a wall near your service entrance. Milk, newspapers, parcels can be placed in the box from the outside and removed from inside the house. Donley Brothers, Cleveland.

For homes with air conditioning, Carrier Corp., Syracuse, N. Y. has an Automatic Air Purifier combining odor removal, winter humidification and air cleansing.

If it's the exterior of the house that's on your mind, Aluminum Company of America is introducing a new aluminum clapboard siding which it says will pay for itself in lower fuel and maintenance costs.

Pie a la Mode Is a Kitchen 'Sure Thing'

Tempting in any season: apple pie dished up with strawberry ice cream.

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

Apple pie a la mode delights the small fry, grown-ups and senior citizens alike. For any season, here's a new and lighter version.

It is very simple to make. A pastry mix and coconut for the crust; ready-prepared apple sauce (can or jar) plus packaged lemon gelatin for the filling; and ice cream.

Apple Pie a la Mode (Serves eight) One pastry stick, 1/4 cup shredded coconut, 1 package lemon gelatin, 1/4 cup boiling water, 2 1/2 cups canned apple sauce, 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 pint strawberry ice cream, 1/4 cup toasted coconut.

Prepare pie crust from stick of pie crust mix according to directions on the package, but use 1/2 teaspoon more liquid. Mix in coconut. Roll out pastry on floured board or pastry cloth. Fit into 9-inch pie plate. Flute, prick sides and bottom with fork. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 8 to 10 minutes. Cool. Dissolve lemon gelatin in boiling water. Add apple sauce and grated lemon rind; mix well. Chill until slightly thickened. Pour into baked pie shell. Chill until firm. Just before serving, place ring of small ice cream balls around edge of filling and garnish each ball with toasted coconut.

Some Fabrics Shrink The new spring cottons may tempt you to buy four yards, then hurry home to cut out a new dress. Home economists at Michigan State University suggest you take time to check the label on the bolt for shrinkage. If the fabric may shrink more than one per cent, shrink it before you cut it.

Women Broaden Super-Mart's

By PATRICIA WIGGINS United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Who's behind the stepped-up invasion of supermarkets by such non-food items as nylons, books, beauty aids and grass seed? You are.

According to food executives who gathered here recently, the woman shopper has demanded — and won — one-stop shopping trips in the family car.

The result has been the blossoming of drug, department and hardware stores familiar in growing profession among the groceries.

Stores in northern New Jersey have even begun issuing money orders at their check-out counters so that women can pay the light and gas bills at the market.

One firm in California reportedly is thinking of adding swimming pool supplies to their already large non-food displays.

As one executive, from a group of Kansas City, Mo., stores put it: "Everything we do, we do to please the women."

At his food stores, incidentally, parking spaces are wider "because women like them larger than men." And, because women like pink, all es and other comforts for the women shopper. The alleged non-food demands by the feminine shoppers are reportedly just an extension of their long and constant demand for variety and service on grocery items.

For example, a modern supermarket's dairy department — shown during the association's meeting — displayed 227 brands of cheeses and cheese products. A sauce and dressing department boasted 19 different kinds of vinegar items. And milk is no longer just milk, but is whole, skimmed, homogenized, fortified, or what have you in a variety of sizes and cases.

While claiming that women shoppers have caused the expansion in products handled at big chain stores, the executives were the first to admit that it has meant good business for them. Big stores mean big money.

Supermarkets, new and old, averaged $19,500 a week in business last year. Most new stores today are being built to handle close to $30,000 a week.

Suburban Living

Today's Refrigerators Can Store "The Works"

By ANN JERMYN

Today's refrigerators have space for storing the makings of a heroic "Dagwood" sandwich. And in the freezing compartment may be stowed all the essentials for the most formal company dinner, or the meats and other perishables for a week of family menus.

A freezer still is considered a necessity by many families. This depends partly on where they live, the accessibility of food markets and the frequency of shopping trips. Another factor is time and inclination to freeze home or locally grown fruits and vegetables such as asparagus, raspberries and other delicacies.

Neither a winter's supply of fresh frozen fruits and vegetables nor a freezer food plan whereby certain foods are purchased more economically can be accommodated in the freezer compartment of the kitchen refrigerator. But these freezer units, now standard equipment with most refrigerators, make possible quantity buying for a weekend to two weeks depending on the size of the family and appetites.

For the couple or the family with young children, the refrigerator with a freezer unit should not only be adequate but also an excellent introduction to the possibilities of a separate freezer. Certainly the freezer compartment is an excellent way to learn management and organization which are essential to the economic use of a large freezer, when it is justified.

The freezer unit of a refrigerator needs only minimum care to operate efficiently. It will need defrosting, especially in the summer when humidity builds up the moisture. How often the refrigerator door is opened during the day has a bearing on how frequently defrosting must be done. For the average small family, once a month is sufficient.

Defrosting can be both quick and easy. Do it on the day of the week when the freezer unit is nearest to empty. Two pans of boiling water placed in the unit speeds defrosting. When it is completed, wipe out with a solution of baking soda and warm water.

Homeowners Look Up For New Ideas in Ceiling Decoration

After twenty years of ceiling dullness American homeowners are looking upwards once more for new ideas in home decoration.

This current interest on the part of homeowners in ceiling decoration is nothing unusual. For centuries people have used ceiling decoration to alter or enhance the appearance of a room.

Most buildings constructed during the Renaissance and other great periods of architectural activity had elaborately decorated ceilings.

One of the finest examples of art in the world is the 10,000-square foot ceiling of the Sistine Chapel in the Vatican. This was the masterpiece of Michelangelo, who had to lie on his back on a platform 60 feet above the floor to paint the scenes from Genesis that the painting comprises. This work of ceiling beauty took four and a half years to complete.

Getting closer to the home, the housewife of ancient Rome (if he could afford it) preferred a ceiling of travertine stone with its rich pattern of random indentations. From the Middle Ages onward, lords and plain folk tried to make their dwellings more livable by covering the ceilings and walls with furs, skins, paper and other material.

The painting of flowers and other decorative motifs on ceilings was a common practice in our grandfathers' day. And the introduction of plaster brought a new dimension to ceiling decoration — ornamental plastering — a technique that was in widespread use as late as 194.

In the housing boom that followed World War II, the emphasis on cost savings and mass production in new homes limited ceiling decoration to a few coats of paint in standard colors. But the recent development of low-cost decorative ceiling materials and the growing interest on the part of homeowners in interior decoration are spurring a ceiling revival that may overshadow a anything seen before.

Homeowners are learning that a few strips of wood, ceiling tiles and/or paint, plus some simple tools can both repair and redecorate an old ceiling or give a new ceiling special distinction.

The modern art of ceiling decoration is as simple as: a. Including ceilings in room decoration plans. b. Selecting a ceiling pattern or color. c. Doing it yourself.

In redecorating, for instance, you can give a room the illusion of greater height by using white, blue or blue-green colors on the ceiling and contrasting them with wall colors.

To make a tall ceiling more intimate—paint it red, yellow, pink or orange in a deeper shade than the wall colors.

You can physically lower a ceiling by suspending wood furring strips from wall to wall and nailing or stapling ceiling tiles to the strips.

These ceiling tiles, made of fibreglass, come in the popular 12" x 12" and other sizes and offer many decorative possibilities:

White fibreglass tiles can be repainted by the homeowner to match or contrast with any shade of paint. Repainting can be done with oil, alkyd or water-based paints applied with brush, roller or spray.

Perforated ceiling tiles, in addition to decorative qualities, have the advantage of noise reduction. These tiles have become popular in dens, playrooms, TV rooms, finished basements or attics.

A recent innovation—decorative fibreglass tiles — are available in a choice of imprinted designs. In the "Barretone" line, for instance, there are three decorative patterns.

"Fissure," a reproduction in low-cost fibreglass of the rich-looking travertine stone used in construction since Roman times.

"Sparkler," a simple non-directional pattern of gold and silver lines that should appeal to people with modern tastes.

"Tattersall," a quiet, warm pattern that homeowners with traditional decorating ideas will like.

These decorative tiles can enhance the attractiveness of any part of the house—including the living room, dining room, and bedrooms.

For the do-it-yourself enthusiast, tiles are relatively easy to install and their tongue and groove locking feature assures a professional-looking job. If you plan a ceiling decorating project, here are some pointers that may make the job more enjoyable:

1. Draw an outline of your ceiling to scale. Join corners of rectangle with diagonal lines. The part where the lines meet is the center of ceiling.

2. Cut out a cardboard square to scale to represent one tile. Place center of "tile" over center of sketch with sides of tile parallel to sides of "ceiling." Trace center tile. Draw rest of tiles working in circular fashion around first tile. In this way, tiles that will have to be cut to fit an area less than a foot square will make up the border of the ceiling. When work actually begins (see No. 7), the first tile to be installed will be the one in the lower left hand corner of the sketch.

3. Determine the number of tiles you will need. After ordering tiles, open all packages and allow tiles to stand in room for 24 hours. This conditions them to the atmosphere in the room.

4. When working with tiles, keep hands clean. Wash hands often and after furring, sprinkle powder or cornstarch on them to absorb hand moisture.

5. If you plan to cement tiles to ceiling, make sure the ceiling surface is smooth, clean and free from dirt and dust. Any whitewash, calcimine or wallpaper must be removed first.

6. If new lower ceiling is to be put on or old ceiling is cracked, uneven or peeling, tiles will have to be attached to furring strips. Use 1" x 3" furring strips, straight and true, of pine or other soft wood. Apply first furring strips flush to wall across joists. Other strips should be installed parallel to first strip with centers twelve inches apart. If row of tiles is less than 12 inches wide, distance between furring strips should be lessened correspondingly. When ceiling is covered by plaster or other surfacing, nail wood strips through surfacing into joists.

7. Following scale drawing, start first tile in lower left hand corner of ceiling and work from left to right one row at a time. Cut tiles to fit with fibreglass knife or fine-toothed saw. Always cut with face of tile up. Cut away rear tongued edge to start first row and front grooved edge to finish last row.

FASCINATING FACTS ABOUT NATURAL GAS

Advertisement for Natural Gas. Enterprising Americans. After the first practical use of Natural GAS, it was clearly evident that this Stored Sunshine was a vital asset to home and industry. The fact that it could only service communities near the productive GAS fields, spurred engineering experiments and private enterprise to overcome transmission obstacles. "Sunshine Subway" Now the super-abundance of Natural GAS in a few states can be shared by all states! Engineers were 100 years figuring out how to transport GAS just 100 miles - yet 30 years later, it is transported 2,000 miles! Pumping and transmission - two major problems - have been successfully solved. "In 1870, a wooden pipeline 25 miles long was an accomplishment! At the beginning of 1959, the industry had enough miles of pipeline to circle the earth 22 times! In Consumers Power Company's area alone, there are 7,000 miles of pipeline. GET THE FACTS - BETTER YET - GET GAS! PG-6880-31

Burroughs' Income Up 22 Percent

Burroughs Corporation's world-wide revenue in 1959 increased 22 percent to $359,778,068 as compared with $294,085,078 in 1958, Ray R. Eppert, president, announced today.

The 1959 earnings after taxes, but before a non-recurring writeoff, amounted to $10,745,369 for the year compared with net income of $6,407,934 for the previous year. Based on the average number of shares outstanding, earnings per share in 1959, before the non-recurring writeoff, were $1.62 as compared with $1.02 per share in the previous year.

Estimated income taxes owing to the United States and other governments amounted to $5,061,000 for 1959 after a refund of $2,072,000 as compared with $3,798,000 after a refund of $1,590,000 for 1958.

In 1959 the company wrote off a major portion of its investment in certain equipment. As a result of this action net income was reduced by $3,635,802 which is equivalent to 55 cents per share. This action brought net income after taxes and other non-recurring charges to $7,109,567 or $1.07 per share. Expenditures for research and development programs during 1959 were $2,700,000 more than in 1958.

The increase in revenue in 1959 resulted from a much higher level of billings in both commercial equipment and military product categories.

Incoming orders for commercial equipment were up 14 percent over the previous year despite the slowdown in capital goods purchases because of the strike in the steel industry. Incoming orders for military products continued at a satisfactory rate during 1959.

FORD MOTOR Company last week donated a spectrograph for metal composition analysis and other research work to the Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn. Among Ford engineers on hand for presentation of the instrument to the college was William J. Edgar (second from left) 12350 Ridge Rd., Plymouth. Edgar is the engineer in charge of spectroscopy at the Ford Manufacturing Research Office. Behind the spectrograph are (from left) Roy Miller, physical science teacher at the college; Mr. Edgar, Harold N. Bogart and Henry A. Tuttle, all of the Ford Manufacturing Research Office, and Fred Eshelman, dean of the college. Mr. and Mrs. Edgar have two daughters, Betsy, who is attending Western Michigan University on a music scholarship, and Jody, a sophomore at Plymouth High School.

Giant Home and Flower Show Opens at Armory

Spring with all its radiant color and scent of blossoms and fresh hewn wood made an early debut at the First Annual Combined Builders Home and Flower Show of Greater Detroit in the Artillery Armory, W. Eight Mile Rd. near Greenfield, Feb. 27. It continues through March 6.

More than twice as big as any previous home or flower show, the presentation spreads over seven acres of space under one roof, with more than 500 individual exhibitors and a score of special breathing-taking and eye-feasting displays.

One of these is the "Dancing Waters," a fabulous enchanted fountain spectacle that leaps and dances to music in a kaleidoscope of changing colors. The fountain, with its sprays of water shooting as high as 50 feet into the air, is activated every hour while the show is on.

A full-sized home of revolutionary sandwich-panel construction is another feature exhibit. The home, built by Koppers Co., Inc., of Pittsburgh, has been featured two years in a row as the National Association of Home Builders' research house, with the most recent one constructed in East Lansing.

The show accents the latest in new home construction, designs and materials and the newest in modernizing equipment and techniques and home appliances, as well as covering all phases of horticulture, agriculture, landscaping and flower gardening.

There are expansive green lawns, beds of blooming flowers and growing plants, cut flower arrangements in galore and the large Allied Florists feature a display of cut rose arrangements surmounted by two cupids six feet tall and holding vases of gorgeous blooms.

There are continuous theaters showing featuring cooking schools, movies, floral arrangement demonstrations and popular radio and television personalities.

Selections from the $250,000 Yale Lock Collection of locks, keys and door ornamentation are shown. There is also a collection of religious mosaics from the Immaculate Heart College of Los Angeles, and an exhibit by the Scalandre Museum of Textiles, Silks and Prints.

The Mayor's Committee for Neighborhood Conservation and Improved Housing sponsors a home improvement center and there are special exhibits by the Michigan Horticultural Society, Detroit Audubon Society, Michigan Botanical Society, the Michigan Organic Society and the State of Michigan Agriculture Department.

Of special interest is a family fallout shelter exhibit by the Detroit office of Civil Defense.

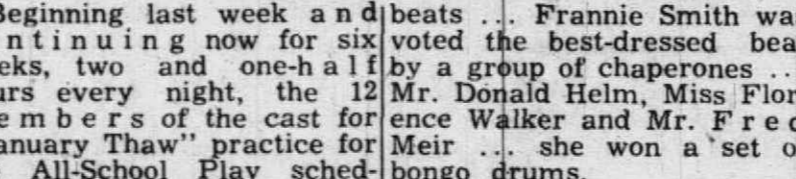

Six large decorator rooms arranged by Detroit members of the American Institute of Decorators supply many ideas for Spring planning by homemakers.

The opening hours are 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, and noon to 11 p.m. Monday through Friday. The show will close at 8 p.m. on the final day, Sunday, March 6.

The admission charge at the gate is $1.25 for adults and 50 cents for children 12 years of age and under. However, pre-sale tickets are 90 cents and can be purchased at the 1960 Idea Home, Farmington and Six Mile Rds., Livonia, and at leading florists and department stores.

In addition to being able to buy tickets at reduced prices at the Idea Home, visitors there have an opportunity to win the house by estimating the number of nails in a replica. The winner of the home will be announced the final Sunday before the show closes.

A hard-surfaced parking lot at the armory has a 7,000 car capacity. Parking charges are 25 cents per car.

Remember Model United Nations Assembly... Hillsdale, March 18 and 19, comrades.

That's what the senior international relations class had on its mind, as it chose eight of its group to act as official delegates to the mock session, in which Plymouth plays an important role.

It will represent the views of one of the two big powers at the assembly — Russia.

Three committees plus a Disarmament Conference will be activated. Representing Russia on the Political Security Committee, discussing disarmament, will be Gloria Bowles, Spokesman or committee number 170, Special Political Committee, will be Sharon Neal, and "expert" on the Hungarian question; Janet Freiwik, who will be the Russian spokesman on the Algerian problem; and comrade Gary Ross, to work on the question of Tibet in the committee meeting.

Official delegate to the meeting of the Economic and Social Council will be Dick Hubert. Alternates are Judy Bullington and Lon Dickerson.

About 150 seniors showed up for that class' last get-together Tuesday night, Feb. 23.

FoMoCo Honors 3 Local Men

Three Plymouth men were among 106 Ford Motor Company employees cited for community leadership recently at a banquet in Dearborn.

Ira D. Hauk, who works at Ford's national parts depot, was named for serving the youth of Plymouth and Wayne County. Edward T. Miller, of the transmission and chassis division, was cited for serving the Plymouth youth program. Jack Price, of Ford's frame plant, was honored for civic improvement and youth activities here.

All of the 106 employees received Community Service awards, plaques bearing the engraved commendation from Henry Ford II, Ford Motor Company president.

Presiding at the awards banquet was Benson Ford, a vice-president of the company and Detroit's United Foundation president.

Container Firm Names Local Man

Labels to Speed Up Mail Available at Post Office

"Conspicuous special service endorsements such as Airmail, Special Delivery, and First-Class are an important factor in receiving speedy mail service," says Postmaster George Timpona.

Airmail, special delivery mail, and oversized first-class envelopes are sometimes delayed by becoming mixed with third-class mail if they lack an endorsement. Although small handwritten or typewritten endorsements are helpful, they may be overlooked by postal employees and result in delay in delivery of mail having a special time value.

To help prevent delay and mishandling of such mail and to insure that the mailer will receive the type of service for which postage has been paid, it is recommended that priority mailings be endorsed with colorful gummed labels which are now furnished without charge by the post office.

According to Postmaster Timpona, all airmail and special delivery mail should be endorsed to show the service desired by placing the label below the postage and above the address. Odd-sized first-class mailings or oversized envelopes should be endorsed in the same manner. Regular size first-class envelopes, however, should not be endorsed.

Mailers can help themselves to better service by making use of the distinctive labels which are available at the post office. Advice and assistance on all kinds of mail problems can be had by calling the post office.

4-H Honors Local Youth

Doug Cline, a 1959 graduate of Plymouth High and now a Michigan State University freshman, was recently presented the "4-H Quarter Horse Award," a state-wide presentation for 1959.

Cline earned the award for his wide work in 4-H affairs, plus raising, training and showing a quarter horse filly "Cherokee Girl."

Already, the young man has won several blue ribbons with his horse, has placed second in the performance class at the Michigan State Fair, and was picked as one of five top 4-H riders in Michigan.

He started a breeding program recently and also owns two registered quarter mares. He sold a filly foal earlier this year. Cline hopes to use the income from his foals to help finance his way through college.

The award was presented to him Feb. 20 at a meeting of the Michigan Quarter Horse association.

Exchange Student Joins Her Adopted Family in Plymouth

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is included in the whole amount of money you pay for the dinner.

After the dinner, it was the first real food we ate that day. We came back into the busses, starting the second part of the trip. In the night it got terribly cold. We could not sleep, because we felt so uncomfortable in the seats. We all longed for the morning when we could move again.

After having slept a couple of hours, it got light outside and we saw the skyscrapers of Detroit. In Windsor we all got out of the bus for the passport control, which lasted quite a while. After walking a little bit we felt more awake, got back into the busses and passed the Canadian Tunnel. This was a great big moment and we passed the border with a loud "Hurrah": we were in the United States.

In about an hour we were to see our parents. What would they look like? What would they be like? But most of us were too tired to think much about it and they tried to get some sleep. When we arrived in Ann Arbor, we stopped at a church, the meeting place. Our dresses were wrinkled and we felt dirty and not quite ready to meet our new fathers and mothers. We were told that we could change and wash in a large room in the church provided for us.

When we entered we saw a little tiny room filled with crowds. It was nearly impossible to move. So we decided just to go as we were, got our name tag and kept looking and smiling at every stranger who possibly might be your father or mother. I sought for a long time. Then a girl came into my direction, also smiling, and having a name tag with "Jill Clarke" on it. This had to be my new sister, she looked just like on the picture my American family had sent me.

I was right. After a couple of minutes I said hello to my new parents whom I liked the very first moment. We all met in the church for a welcome gathering. Then our names were called and we went down to have dinner. I was hungry and seldom I enjoyed a dinner so much as this one.

It was raining when we departed. One of the first things I noticed was the huge car my family had and I liked it real well. (But the cars don't surprise me anymore). I did not understand half of the things my family told me, and I guess they had a hard time understanding my English also. I don't remember too much of the first day, because I was so tired. I just sunk into my bed and slept immediately.

We stayed the night on the boat in Montreal, leaving the next morning. We had to go into a large hall where our luggage was controlled. We knew we would not have time to eat very much for the rest of the day, so we took some food with us, sandwiches and oranges, happy that we did not have to pay. But then we were told not to take any food with us because it would not pass the control. So, kind of disappointed, we brought our treasures back.

After having passed the control by Canadian officials, we took our luggage to the Greyhound busses waiting for us there. The first thing we noticed were the small windows and the comfortable seats. Well, they seemed only comfortable the first hours of our trip. After having been 24 hours in the bus we thought a little different about it. We were to pass Toronto, Windsor-Detroit and stop in Ann Arbor, where we were to meet our new parents.

The following 24 hours' trip was not the nicest one I had. First we kept ourselves busy by looking out of the window; the signs and advertisement in English attracted us, the shop-windows in the towns, the dresses of the people etc. These things really were not too different, when I think of it now. But then we were thrilled by everything, because it looked so "real American". By the time we got tired of this. Some people started sleeping, some talked, others made nonsense and the first ones started complaining about being hungry. But we still had quite a way to go for the next dinner and we just had to wait.

Finally late in the afternoon we stopped at a restaurant. Everybody was so hungry and we rushed into it. When we had to decide what kind of dinner we wanted, we had a hard time finding out the meaning of the names. I remember I was so surprised when I got an entirely different dish than I wanted. A new experience was the tip. We saw people after having finished their dinner leaving some money on the table.

We thought they might have forgotten it and our first reaction was to run after them and bring the money back. But then somebody told us that this is just a custom in America, called "tipping". In Germany the tip usually is included in the whole amount of money you pay for the dinner.

The Family Mailbox

THE RIGHT OWNERS

Dear "Miss Louisa:" I am wondering if you could give your readers a suggestion. My family was recently involved in a serious automobile accident and all of our neighbors have been wonderful about bringing to the house cakes, desserts, fried chicken, casserole dishes and so on. We could not have managed without the kindness of our friends. As no record was kept of the china on which all this bounty was delivered, I find myself with a pile of dishes and I am having a terrible time returning them to the right people. Would it be possible for people to mark their china when they carry presents to sick or bereaved families? Mrs. J.A.J.D.

Dear Mrs. J.A.J.D.: Thank you for your letter, for so many people have been faced with this problem. I think it would be a good idea for the donors to write their name on a small piece of adhesive tape and stick it on the bottom of the dish or plate. Better still, use paper plates or cover boxes with aluminum foil.

MILDEW ON CLOTHING

Dear "Miss Louisa:" Many people who read your column are worried about mold on shoes and clothes. I, by chance, came upon an idea that might be helpful. I wrapped my shoes in some black tissue paper and I found that they did not mold. How do you remove mold from felt hats and the ribbon bands on them? Mrs. C.T.

Dear Mrs. C.T.: I think your idea of the black paper to keep mold off shoes is a good one. Thank you for sending it to me. The best way to remove mold from felt hats is to take a wire clothes brush and brush hard — outdoors so the spores won't scatter and fall on other clothing. Let the hats sun, then spray them with a mothproofing spray and store in plastic bags which can be sealed tightly with a rubber band.

SPRING PREVIEW

Dear "Miss Louisa:" My jonquil bulbs are already shooting out of the ground. Can I dig some of them up and bring them indoors to hurry them into flower? K.F.S.

Dear K.F.S.: Clumps of jonquils as well as violets may be potted and forced into bloom. As soon as buds appear, they will open quickly inside the house. Many plants from the garden can be brought in and forced into bloom in a sunny window. It is not too early in my section to cut branches of pear trees and plum — or in your locality. The Japanese quince lends itself to forcing as do forsythia and winter jasmine. Put them in a deep container in a cool, sunny room until the buds show color. Experiment and you will be delighted with the results.

HOME DRESSMAKING

Dear "Miss Louisa:" I want to learn to make clothes for myself. Can I do it without taking sewing lessons? I know how to use a sewing machine and how to do hand sewing, but live too far in the country to get regular lessons. Mrs. K.L.T.

Dear Mrs. K.L.T. You certainly can teach yourself to sew, for there are many books with pictures and directions for home sewing. When you go to town, visit a sewing center or sewing machine store and they also will tell you where to secure directions. You also can have a form made of your own body and this will help when you progress to more difficult dressmaking and possibly tailoring. To begin, I would select a cotton skirt or blouse. Never buy cheap material for anything you plan to make, for there is no economy in this. Get a simple pattern and ask the person in the pattern department to measure you and help you to select from the easy-to-sew patterns. Then go home, study the pattern, and you will find the directions so simple that I think you will get along fine. Never try to cut and sew a garment the same day. You will find it better to get it ready one day and start to work on it the next day. Remember to pin your seams first, then baste, then stitch — and Good Luck.

RECIPE FILE

Dear "Miss Louisa:" I keep my recipes in a file and the cards on which they are written become badly soiled by grease and other substances getting on them when I am cooking. Do you have any remedy for this? Miss P.S.

Dear Miss P.S.: Some people use a small plastic envelope to slip the cards in, but I think that a better way is to spray the cards with shellac. The box in which the cards are kept also can be sprayed. Shellac now comes in an aerosol can. You can get it at a hardware store, and you will find many uses for this shellac.

JUNIOR READER

Dear "Miss Louisa:" What makes my dog bark at the paper boy? The paper boy kicks at him. Tiny is my dog and he only hates the paper boy. Edith Dear Edith: The paper boy has made an enemy of Tiny and dogs remember the people who are unkind to them. Some people do not like dogs and dogs know this and they bark. My dogs do not like the garbage men. Maybe the men threw cans at them or hurt them. Be kind to animals and they become friends.

Ventriloquist To Perform At Schools Here

Wayne Fernelius, popular policeman-ventriloquist, with his dummy, Jerry McSafely, will visit local schools March 15 and 16 to entertain and instruct Plymouth school children in safety methods.

The ventriloquist act and appearance here is presented by Paul Wiedman, local Ford dealer.

The illustrated lectures by Jerry McSafely, the dummy, are close to a command performance with youngsters. Jerry demonstrates with songs, stories and charts the safety rules for children of every age.

Jerry and his master, Fernelius, have appeared at schools, lodges, churches and many other community groups and organizations in order to dramatize the need for careful observance of approved safety rules.

The schedule for the appearance of the ventriloquist act is: Gallimore school, March 15 at 10 a.m.; Smith School, March 15 at 1 p.m.; Bird School, March 16 at 10 a.m.; and Farrand School, March 16 at 1 p.m.

Extension Group Approves By-Laws

Program planning took the place of the regular project lesson during the Allen Home Economics Extension Club meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank Bradsell, Feb. 24.

The new club by-laws were also studied and given approval.

The club voted to give $25 to the Emma DuBord Scholarship Fund. This scholarship is given annually to a needy and worthy Home Economics girl student.

Mothers Club Hosts Ypsi Unit

The Ypsilanti Navy Mothers' Club was hosted by the Plymouth unit of the organization at a refreshment dinner last Wednesday evening at the Veterans Community Center here.

Canton Township Reporter Tells Of Gallimore School PTA Party

Eather Sprengel
GL 3-0194

The slogan: "Our Plymouth school buses always run," was not appreciated by our students last Friday morning, with so many communities announcing there would be no school. Such are the tribulations of having such an efficient bus system.

Tuesday Feb. 23, was the regular meeting of the Gallimore School P.T.A. meeting, but it was in no way a routine gathering. The theme for the meeting was "hearts and flowers," directed at the teaching staff of the school. The committee, headed by Mrs. Doris White and her co-workers, Mrs. Jean Rocco and Mrs. Ruth Alford, put a lot of work and thought into making it a very enjoyable evening.

The decorations featured vases of flowers on the refreshment table and chairman's table. There was a display of a large heart on the wall. The basketball baskets in the multi-purpose room were gaily decorated with green crepe paper, enhanced with pink carnations.

At the door, the guests were given name tags in the shape of hearts with flowers along side the heart. After each guest registered with Mrs. Betsy Delaney and Mrs. Katherine Little pointed out the room each of their children were in, they were directed by the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. George Deen, to look over the bulletin board, which carried baby pictures. The pictures were of the teachers (all of which were a complete surprise to the adult version of the baby picture). The guests were asked to vote for the cutest baby and drop their vote in a ballot box. As the teachers approached the board, expressions of great surprise were heard at seeing their baby pictures on display. After each guest cast his vote, the group settled down for the business meeting.

As each teacher heard a little biography about him or herself, they were given a corsage and box of candy. It was clear that all were surprised and pleased. Then it came time to announce the cutest baby. Winner was Miss Pat Johnson, first grade teacher.

The prize was a beautiful heart shaped cake, decorated with all sorts of spring flowers, surrounded by a basket-weave design around the heart. The base of the cake featured a delicate lace, all of which was the work of Mrs. Virginia Benoit. Miss Johnson planned to share the cake with the faculty after taking some pictures of it the next day. Following the group's show of appreciation for the teachers, they all enjoyed refreshments of cake, jello, coffee and tea.

Mel Korte and Fred Korte were hosts to our township friends at a stag party held at Mel Korte's Warren Road home. The gentlemen enjoyed playing billiards and cards, followed by refreshments.

The Cherry Hill Methodist Church announced plans for their annual Lenten pot luck supper. The supper will be held every Tuesday during Lent and will feature a speaker at each occasion.

On the boys. As you know Mr. Lefler is the scout master, and awaiting him were the boys standing at attention upon his arrival with greetings of Happy Birthday ringing out. Mr. Lefler was overcome by the greeting and the gift certificate presented him from the boys. Refreshments of cake, coffee for the adults and kool-aid for the boys were served. May we add belated birthday wishes and a comment on the fine work Mr. Lefler has done with the boys.

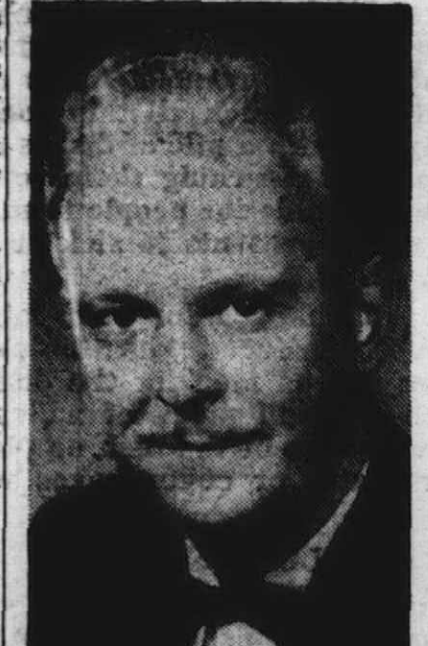

Cub Master of Pack No. 298, Mr. John Wiles conducted the Cubs' Blue and Gold Supper recently. The dinner was pot-luck with each family bringing two dishes to pass with ham for all. The following boys received awards: Jack Hopkins (Wolf Badge), Jerry McKim (Bear Badge), Jerry Smith, (Lion Badge), Jack Hopkins and Gary Lynn, (Gold Arrows), Jim Gilbert and Gary Lynn (two silver arrows), Lester Coleman and Mike Kubik (one silver arrow). One year pins were presented to: Dennis Caroen, Jeff Mason, Gary Deniski, Jim Gilbert and Mike Kubik.

Jeff Mason received a recruiter's stripe. Following the presentations, each den, under the direction of the den mothers, presented their program. On Feb. 23, the boys had attended the planetarium in Ann Arbor to look at the stars and planets. They enjoyed the trip.

A word from the Women's Reserve of Troop No. 298: tickets are now available for the pot luck supper to be held April 6. Tickets may be obtained from any boy Scout of 298 or members of the Women's Reserve.

The Canton Community Club was called to order by the president, Mr. Ralph Lefler on February 23 at the Geddes Rd. Hall. The group went over plans for the year, took a perspective look at their responsibilities to Boy Scout troop No. 298 which they sponsor and discussed their purpose of existence.

group held a regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Ira Hauk, the leader. The group discussed achievement day and enjoyed a salad made and served by Bonnie Hoffman, a member of the group.

HI-FI

By PRESTON McGRAW United Press International

The boom in electronics, the Johnny-on-the-spot regarded by some as the Gold Strike of the 1960s, has brought mixed blessings. For the "purists" in the home sound reproducing field which can be considered a part of electronics, it has brought considerable misgivings.

The shift from manned aircraft understandably gave a big push, commercially, to the overall commercial manufacturing aspects of electronics.

Some of the big names in electronics in the home music field, or high fidelity as it was generally understood, have been swallowed in amalgamations of companies.

It's readily apparent that some of these companies were acquired primarily by other firms because of their electronic facilities which could be adapted to purposes other than making high fidelity gear.

Almost concurrently, the "stereophonic" boom came along. The ad writers seized upon the "stereophonic" and "high fidelity" tags to describe about everything and anything.

The "purists" have observed quietly, mostly without comment, at least none publicly.

It's increasingly difficult, for the newcomer interested in high fidelity, to tell which really is high fidelity.

Unfortunately, the term high fidelity never had a precise meaning, nor, it is likely, ever will. To some extent, what might be high fidelity gear to one person might be another's squawk box.

There's a race on, it would appear, to boast the largest number of speakers or channels of sound in the stereophonic equipment.

Speakers, as a matter of economics, aren't judged solely on a quantitative basis in a system.

Speakers can be bought for 50 cents each. And some good speakers can cost several hundred dollars each.

And, some of the many channels of stereophonic sound are non-existent, say some who watch—or listen.

There's no doubt that technical progress brings equipment within more general reach, sometimes at low cost. But it can be seriously maintained that quality doesn't come too cheap, ever.

The "purists" flatly contradict some who maintain that really good entire systems—speakers, changer, turntable, tuner and related items—could be sold as cheap as some now on the market.

After all, many of these "purists" have paid as much for a turntable, arm and cartridge—nothing else, mind you—as some of the current "complete" systems.

It's still possible, some observers grant, that these "purists" are in the class of some old fogeys who maintain that "they don't build houses like they used to!" Some in the building trade maintain today's houses are much better than in the old days.

Maybe the "sound addicts" and "purists" paid too much—or "were took."

After all, if what you have pleases you, you're the one who matters.

Editorial

Here's One Builder Who Gave Land To Schools

One of the mysteries to many suburban taxpayers is why the public schools must buy expensive land in the area of a subdivision yet to come, and then build the school to take care of the needs which the new housing will create.

Why shouldn't it become a moral responsibility (it is not a legal one) for the developers to at least donate the acreage needed for an elementary school in the neighborhood? And maybe a little space for a public parksite?

If it weren't for the subdivision, the school wouldn't be necessary, but that's not the only point. A bigger one is that schools always seem to pay through the nose at top market price for whatever land they purchase. The home developer often has bought the land himself at low prices at an earlier date.

Anyhow, we're leading into a news clipping from the Lansing State Journal which is our editorial today, addressed particularly to subdivision builders. Its headline says, "East Lansing Schools Receive Gift of Land" and it reads:

"A 10-acre parcel of land in Whitehills subdivision north of highway M-78 was deeded as a gift to the East Lansing school district Monday night.

"Title to the property, valued at more than $20,000, was turned over to the board of education by Albert and George White, developers of the residential section.

"A stipulation that went along with the deed stated that the plot must be used as a future school site and, if property is left over, for a park.

"Board members passed a resolution accepting the gift and complimented the White brothers for their generosity.

"Supt. C. E. MacDonald said that it was one of the rare occasions in his long career as an educator that such a gift has been offered to a school district.

"He said an elementary school would probably be built on the site to serve an area roughly bounded by M-78, Lake Lansing Rd., Abbott Rd. and Hagadorn Rd.

"The area now is occupied by about 100 homes and has been marked for a heavy future residential build-up.

"Albert White said the area has a potential of more than 800 homes."

Autos Need Hazard Signals, Too

After years of battling way safety engineers and against the menace of traffic experts have won the "sitting duck," high-a major victory that should swiftly lead to the virtual elimination of this common peril that has spilled a river of blood on American highways.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has ruled that commercial vehicles operated in interstate commerce must, by August 1, have turn signal installations that include a switch that will cause all four of these signals to flash simultaneously — to provide an effective, attention-compelling traffic hazard warning when the truck is stalled or disabled on the traveled portion of a highway.

While truckers have been required for years to carry flares or other prescribed warning devices and set them out on the highway in these circumstances, pile-ups have occurred before they could be placed, drivers have been killed in the effort to do so and many safety engineers have considered such makeshift equipment generally inadequate.

But the car owner seldom carries more than a flashlight — if that. And numerically, the passenger car constitutes ten times as big a hazard as the truck. So it's time now for state and local authorities to take a tip from the ICC, require turn signals equipped for hazard — warning duty — and clear the unseen sitting ducks from the highways completely.

Your Handwriting Is Clue About You

BY LUCILLE WILLIAMS

Due to the heavy response to this column, we are printing just the answers to letters in a limited space.

Diane Hill:

You have a feeling of independence and like to think for yourself. Responsibility can be handled very nicely and you possess a fluency of thought that helps in your conversation (which you do well).

You like to stand out and be noticed and have some creative ability. There is a desire to acquire, possess and own. You have a tendency toward some jealousy and resentment. A little persistence and a feeling for physical activity.

Hazel Mathews:

Your purpose in life is very good, you are future minded and a good thinker. You like to sift out facts and probe a subject more for your own benefit.

You express yourself as you feel, are cautious and watch your generosity very carefully. You dislike interruptions but have a sense of humor.

There is a tendency to hold onto your possessions. You have a good memory and ability with your hands. — There is some persistence here.

Nina Moe:

You like to be noticed, want to stand out and get attention. You think in terms of how something will benefit you or affect you. There is suppression of thought and expression. You feel deeply and are determined and emphatic.

You are enthusiastic and love variety. Your boyfriends do not have enough writing but here's what I could find.

Richard:

Very conservative, able to concentrate, a good worker and a fine memory.

David:

Emotions variable, can be cool and calm or can be very expressive. Philosophical minded and creative. Likes attention.

Mrs. C. Lenz:

You are psychic and often "feel" when things are about to happen. You love music and like to express yourself on paper, which makes you a little on the cultural side.

You are diplomatic and very determined and capable of doing your own thinking. There is a sense of humor involved too. You have pride and enthusiasm. In answer to your question, it is very logical to write the way you feel and think (which changes) but basically your main thinking habits and feelings are the same.

How's Business?

By RODGER BABSON

One of the most striking differences between modern management thinking and the archaic attitudes which guided business a generation ago is the increasing awareness of the importance of research and development work. It was only a few decades ago that spending for research and development was considered unnecessary and, in fact, wasteful. Most of the work then was carried on in connection with education. During the 1920's, expenditures for research and development totaled less than $1 billion for the ten-year span.

During the next two decades, expenditures for research gradually increased, despite the depression and civilian wartime restrictions. It was not until 1953, however, that spending in this sector surged upward. Now, the phenomenal sum of $8 billion a year is being devoted to research.

Research and development are contributing materially to the future growth of our country. Not only is the amount of spending creating employment and demand for buildings and equipment to carry on the work, but the fruits of research and development are the creation of new products and processes. To carry the sequence one step further, the production and marketing of the myriad of new products generate the main impetus for growth in employment, income, and demand for goods and services throughout the economy.

Many industries and companies have found that their recent explosive growth in sales and profits can be traced directly to their research laboratories. The chemical, pharmaceutical, and electronics industries are prime examples of the power of this ingredient.

Here, then, is the real hope for the future growth of our nation. Since there is a considerable time lag between the creation and the output and marketing of new products, the stimulus of recent years' research will have a lasting influence. And this, of course, will be reinforced by research and development work in the years ahead which will unfold still more investment opportunities.

Michigan Has Sunday Law In It's Books

You'd be surprised to know that Michigan has had a strict Blue Law on the books for 113 years.

"No person shall keep open his shop, warehouse or workhouse, or shall do any manner of labor, business or work, or be present at any dancing, or at any public diversion, show, or entertainment, or take part in a sport, game or play on the first day of the week."

So says Section 435.1 of Michigan Compiled Laws of 1948, which was originally enacted in 1845.

This section was discussed by the Michigan Supreme Court in a recent case involving a Flint city ordinance requiring some types of businesses to close on Sunday.

A majority, consisting of five of the members of the Supreme Court, held that the Flint ordinance was a proper city enactment.

Three members disagreed with the majority on the ground that the Flint ordinance conflicted with the State law and therefore should be held invalid.

Pointing to the broad scope of the ancient State law on the subject, Justice Voelker in a dissenting opinion said:

"The class affected is not furniture dealers or real estate dealers or any single one of all the other isolated trade groups usually embraced in the various Sunday ordinances we have considered. The class affected by Sunday legislation has long been determined, established and defined by the State statute on the subject; that class is no less than the entire population of the State of Michigan; and the class or kind of work prohibited is no less than all work of all kinds on Sunday."

This was the recent case of People's Appliance, Inc. vs. Flint, reported in 358 Michigan 34.

How the Mighty Have Fallen BRIDGEPORT, CONN. (UPI) — In 1948, Robert Thompson was sentenced to death for a murder. Later, the sentence was commuted to life; later still, to 28 years. Four years ago, he was released on parole.

Thompson was in court again recently. He was fined $25 for frequenting a gambling house.

If Your Name Is Harriet

By ANN REYNOLDS

This is the English form of a French girl's name, "Henriette", and "Henriette" was made up from the man's name "Henry", in French "Henri".

If we probe farther back, we find that "Henry" evolved from the Old German "Haimirich"; it is a combination of two words, one of them meaning "home", the other "rule". In Latin it was written "Henricus", and this already shows a similarity to the English and the French shape of the name.

When "Henriette" was imported to England it became "Harriet". In the 19th century it became more popular than it had ever been, for two women writers, one English, Mariette Becheur Stowe, and one American, Harriet Beecher Stowe. The English Harriette said that she and Mrs. Stowe were the two most abused women of their time. They had put their talents into the service of the abolition of slavery, and so had made many enemies.

The American Harriet, however, the author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin", made also many friends. She had admirers all over the world because of her book which was translated just about into every language. When she set out to write her story depicting the sufferings and wrongs endured by the slaves, she had no idea of the size of the work she was beginning. She had written stories before, penning a piece "when ever a new carpet or mattress was needed or when her accounts wouldn't balance". This was rather often; her husband, Calvin Ellis Stowe, was a man rich in learning but nothing else. And there were half dozen children to feed.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" was to be a story of a few installments in the anti-slavery weekly "The National Era". But then, like one of the characters in her tale, impish, delightful Topsy, it just "grewed"; to the length of a full sized novel, and one that shook the world. Millions of copies were sold. Songs were written about it, even a card game was invented, called "Little Eva and Uncle Tom". It was adapted for the stage, and during the hundred years or so since then, there remained no hamlet so remote as not to give the chance to witness beautiful, good, fair little Eva dying on the stage. Incidentally, little Eva's name is not "Eve", the name of first woman, but is short for "Evangeline", an appellation invented by the poet Longfellow.

Harriet Beecher Stowe, a "little bit of a woman, about as thin and dry as a pinch of snuff" never took credit for having written the book read by so many millions everywhere. She always insisted it was "The Lord himself" who wrote it, and that she was merely an instrument in His hand. Want to know about other names? Write to Dr. Reynolds, care of this paper, printing the name requested. For a personal reply enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.
