

Merchants Roll Bargains Out to Sidewalks for Friday, Saturday Sale

Plymouth will take on a county fair atmosphere this Friday and Saturday when Plymouth merchants move thousands of bargain items outside for their second annual Sidewalk Sale.

Last year the stores tried out the Sidewalk Sale for the first time and it was such a success that it will be held two days this time instead of just one. Most of the leading downtown stores will be selling their wares on the sidewalk. The sale will be during the regular store hours—9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

Besides the sales in front of the stores, several merchants with stores on the "fringe area" of the downtown will set up booths in Kellogg Park. The Veterans of Foreign Wars will have a food sale and the Theatre Guild will set up a refreshment stand. There will also be roving musicians throughout the downtown to add to the carnival atmosphere.

Ed Reid, of the Photographic Center is general chairman of this year's sale. Reid said that this year's Bazaar will be of larger proportions than last year's.

Throughout Section 3 of this issue of The Plymouth Mail will be found special advertisements dealing with the sale. These ads mention just some of the bargains being offered.

Even The Plymouth Mail, which has very little in the way of merchandise to sell, is offering two classified ads for the price of one at the office.

While there will be a lot of merchandise on the sidewalks, all stores will be open for shopping inside the buildings too.

The Sidewalk Sale is another in a series of events planned by merchants in cooperation with the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce to make shopping fun and to give shoppers a change of pace.

Merchants will provide free parking, as usual, in the Central Parking Lot.

Underground Gas Storage Due for Area

A giant underground storage field that will hold some 30 billion cubic feet of natural gas will be developed in the Northville Gas Field by Consumers Power Co. next year.

Details of the plan were outlined by representatives of the company when they appeared before the City Commission Monday night asking for underground storage rights in a 10-acre parcel of land that the City owns on Six Mile Rd.

Consumers plans to take over the entire Northville Gas Field, which runs from the Plymouth City limits, northward through Plymouth, Northville and Salem Townships and on into Okla and County.

Instead of pumping gas out of the existing wells, Consumers will pump gas into the wells during the summer time and remove it during the high peak winter period. Most of the gas being stored would come from Texas.

The City Commission was especially interested in the technicalities of the project because the 10 acres that Consumers will obtain rights for is part of the City's water field. Several wells which supply water to Plymouth are located in the proposed storage field.

But Consumers Power representatives assured the City that there "could be absolutely no water contamination to the City's water supply."

The City's wells are taken from formations 150 to 250 feet below the surface. Consumers Power is obtaining rights to store gas from a point 1,000 feet below the surface and deeper.

This will be the first underground gas storage field in this part of the state owned by Consumers Power. They have three located northwest of Clare, another near Holland, one ready to open near the Salem Field, located west of Hastings and another being prepared near Everett.

The Northville Field's underground storage would hold around 30 billion cubic feet of gas, engineers estimate. Not all of this would be usable, however. Consumers normally pumps around 800 million cubic feet a day.

State Tags 64 Diseased Elms in City

Sixty-four elm trees in the City have been condemned by the Michigan Department of Forestry because they are infected with Dutch elm disease.

An inspector from the department went through the entire City last week and sent back samples of suspected trees for tests. As a result of the check, red tags were placed on 64 trees.

Sixty-two of the trees were on private property and two on city-owned property. This is the first year that elms on private property have been inspected, according to DPW Supt. Joseph Bida. The department did not have enough manpower in previous years to check elms on private land.

Also red tagged were wood piles and even dead elms. These are very susceptible to the disease.

Owners of the condemned trees were notified by mail and they must have the trees removed. A number of the trees were in Hough Park and Park Lane Subdivisions.

Bida said that many people call his office concerning elms suspected of having the disease. Many elms are suffering a blight, Bida declared, and may have the appearance of being diseased.

Candy Sale Aids Little Leaguers

A chance to help keep the Plymouth Little League in business another year will be given citizens during Little League Week, Aug. 5-13.

A well-known brand of candy will be sold at a downtown booth starting this Friday by the Little Leaguers and their Auxiliary composed of mothers. Profits will be used to pay off this year's expenses and to help finance next year's program. It is hoped to add two more teams in each league next year.

Mayor Harold Guenther has proclaimed Aug. 5-13 as Plymouth Little League Week.

Plymouth's Swainson Makes It! Faces GOP's Paul Bagwell Nov. 8

ONE SURE VOTE for John B. Swainson as Democratic nominee for governor was registered Tuesday morning when this man entered the voting machine booth in Precinct 3 at the Plymouth Township Hall. He is John B. Swainson, who with his wife, Alice, arrived at 9:30 a.m. to vote. He then hurried on his way toward Detroit to do some last-minute campaigning. At 12:30 a.m. Wednesday, his chief rival, James Hare, conceded.

Morell Meets Martha Griffiths In Battle for U.S. House Seat

Plymouth's first contender for the state's highest elective post, Lt. Governor John B. Swainson, today is turning his sights on his Republican opponent, Paul D. Bagwell, after felling two Democratic rivals in Tuesday's primary election.

Swainson, who makes his home on a very appropriate street called Governor Bradford, located in Plymouth Colony, swamped his closest rival, Secretary of State James M. Hare, by 68,887 votes, according to unofficial returns.

The 35-year-old lieutenant govern-nor, who celebrated his birthday just last Sunday, has lived in Plymouth the past three years with his wife, Alice, and their three children, Peter, Stephen and Kristina.

Swainson will tangle with the GOP nominee, Paul D. Bagwell, who was unopposed in his bid for re-election.

Should the Plymouthite win the election Nov. 8, he would be the youngest ever to be elected governor. Gov. G. Mennen Williams was 37 when he was elected in 1948 and Wilbur M. Brucker, now Secretary of the Army, was only 36 when he took office in 1930.

NEWS BEAT

WHEN LT. GOVERNOR and Mrs. John Swainson entered the meeting room of Plymouth Township Hall to vote in their Precinct 3 place of polling, the gubernatorial candidate's alert eye was drawn quickly to a sign at the door. "That's my opponent," he noted. The sign, posted at every polling place in the state, was a list of instructions to electors and it was signed in bold print by Swainson's chief rival, Secretary of State James M. Hare.

Plymouth voters turned out in greater numbers than they did for the primary two years ago. There were 1,129 voting in the City Tuesday and 881 in Plymouth Township.

The City vote was not as large as it was for the primary during the last presidential election year in 1956. That day there were 1,424 City voters going to the polls. A $500,000 bond issue for purchase of Mettetal Airport was on the ballot, which brought about great interest, and its defeat.

Lt. Governor and Mrs. Swainson went to the Plymouth Township Hall at 9:30 Tuesday morning to cast their votes. They waited in line while other voters finished. One of the three Precinct 3 voting machines was broken down.

Afterward, the lieutenant governor visited some of the polling places in the heavily populated metropolitan area for a few thousand handshakes.

Tuesday night the Swainson forces gathered at the Herose Hotel in Detroit where they saw the tide slowly sweeping in their candidate's favor and drifting away from the Pick Fort Shelby Hotel where a victory party was ready to roll for Jim Hare.

At 12:35 a.m., Hare sent a telegram to Swainson, conceding defeat and promising support in the upcoming election.

Detroit Councilman Edward Connor ran a poor third. For probably the first time in history, more people voted the Democratic ticket in Plymouth Township than the Republican. The three Democratic candidates for governor received 100 votes more than the GOP's Bagwell.

City voters also voted heavily for Democrats, giving Bagwell only 139 more votes than the three combined Democratic combined. Plymouth usually votes for Republicans by at least a 2-1 margin.

The heavy Democratic balloting was due to two things:

1. Many local people wanted to vote for their "favorite son" John Swainson.
2. Many Republicans admitted voting a Democratic ticket in order to "have something to say" about the Wayne County election. Being nominated by Democrats for a Wayne County office is the same as being elected. Being only a few contests on the Republican ticket, some Republicans felt they could afford to switch.

Looking at the other contests in the area: Richard E. Morell, supervisor of Redford Township, won the Republican nomination for U.S. Representative. He will face Mrs. Martha Griffiths, now serving her third term. Mrs. Griffiths received 31,896 votes while Morell won 10,458.

Other GOP candidates were Gladys E. Smith, past 17th

13,000 Visitors a Year

Nature Center a Success

A growing public attraction on Plymouth's doorstep that last year drew 13,000 visitors is still virtually unknown to a majority of people in this area.

Called the Nankin Mills Nature Center, it is located in Middle Rouge Park five miles east of Plymouth in a building that once served as a grist mill and a factory for Henry Ford's auto-building empire.

The Nature Center, while appealing and educational for children, also is of interest to adults. It opened in April 1958. During its first full year of operation in 1959, it was host to 13,300 people.

The Center is open the year-around. Operated by the Parks and Parkways Division of the Wayne County Road Commission, the Center is free to the public.

School children by the busload and Scouts, Cubs and Brownies by the troop and pack flock to the Nature Center each year to gain some elementary knowledge about the wonderful workings of Mother Nature.

There they find cuttings of many types of native trees, birds (both live and stuffed) and their nests, rocks found in this area and other special displays that are changed periodically.

Most intriguing to the youngsters is the case containing blue racer and garter here.

snakes, both common to the area.

Hostess to the thousands of visitors is Miss Mary Ellsworth, park naturalist, who formerly worked at the Cranbrook Institute of Science and at Michigan State.

"We're just swamped with children at times and they all have questions. We have to answer them too. They stop in with birds, frogs, toads and any other animals they might find. Many of the animals have been injured and the youngsters expect us to fix them up."

Outside can be found several cages, one with rabbits. There was also a cage with four baby raccoons but last Saturday night someone smashed the cage and stole the animals, much to the unhappiness of Miss Ellsworth and the dozens of youngsters who visited them regularly.

The displays are found on the first and second floor of the tall white building. There is storage in the attic floor and the basement level is used for a laboratory.

The building itself is an attraction. It was built as a mill sometime around the Civil War, it is believed. In 1922 Henry Ford bought the mill and converted it into a factory.

This was the very first of Ford's factories that were to give farmers a chance to "put one foot on the soil and the other in the factory." Later, many others were built, such as at Phoenix, Waterford and Wilcox Lakes, Waterford Northville and towns west of

FATAL COLLISION

Ross Sinclair, safety director at the Plymouth Plant of Burroughs Corp., received the sympathies of his many friends here this weekend. His son, James, 16, was killed in a head-on collision Friday with a truck on Pontiac Trail near South Lyon. Also killed was a Robert Rich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rich, also of South Lyon. Mr. Sinclair is mayor of South Lyon.

TOOLS OF a forestry worker are shown by Miss Mary Ellsworth, naturalist at the Nankin Mills Nature Center, to two visitors, Greg Walkuski of Detroit, and his brother Frederick.

ONCE A GRIST MILL, this old building now houses the Nankin Mills Nature Center. Many passersby have seen the building but do not realize that it is an attraction for thousands each year.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell G. Carmical

Bride's Father Is Wedding Officiant

The Reverend Milton E. Truex officiated at wedding ceremonies uniting his daughter, Judith Ann, to Lowell Gene Carmical, son of Mr. and Mrs. Odie Carmical of Union City, Tennessee. Dearborn Valley Church of Christ was the scene of the July 2 ceremonies.

Given away by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported Italian silk with a fitted bodice of Alencon lace and seed pearls. The long sleeves extended to a point at the hands. She wore a crown of alencon lace and seed pearls to hold her fingertip veil. The bride carried a bouquet of stephanotis and white orchids. Her only jewelry was pearl and diamond earrings, a gift of the groom.

The Sims Choral Group of Detroit furnished music for the ceremonies. "I Pledge My Love", "Thine Alone", "Love Thee Truly" and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You" were sung.

Serving as matron of honor was Mrs. Harold Truex of Plymouth. She wore a dress of rose organdy with a scoop neckline and a full skirt. The back fell into a wide sash, held by a pale pink carnation. The matron of honor wore a crownless picture hat of matching organdy and carried a cascade bouquet of light pink carnations.

In dresses of similar design, but lighter colors, were the bridesmaids: Glenda Carmical and Brenda Sue Seebold of Louisville, Ky. They carried cascade bouquets of Plans for the VFW National Convention are in the final stages. Both the Republican and Democratic candidates for President have been invited to make major addresses at Cobo Hall during the week of Aug. 21. It is predicted that the 1960 Convention will be the largest in the history of the VFW organization. The estimated attendance ranges from 50,000 to 75,000. Will you be there?

Hospital Chairman Geraldine Olson, with the help of her husband, delivered a large assortment of current magazines, books and puzzles to the Maybury Sanatorium on July 23. Please save your recent magazines, especially sports magazines and the ones that appeal to men. This is a very worthy project and one that helps those who are less fortunate.

Lutheran Nuptials Unite Plymouth Couple July 2

The wedding of Miss Doretta I. Grabowski and Fred Aldrich, Jr. was solemnized July 2 in services held at St. Peter's Lutheran Church. Pastor Norman W. Berg officiated at the 7 p.m. rites.

Doretta is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Grabowski and Fred is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Aldrich, Sr., all of Plymouth.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of embroidered silk organza with a chapel train and a scoop neckline. She carried white gladiolus with daisies and her only adornment was a heart-shaped necklace of white gold, a gift of the groom.

Marion Weimer, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Serving as maid of honor was Juddie Bondie. Both girls wore white silk organza with cummerbund and streamers. Flowers were embroidered on the bodice. The matron of honor had caramel as an accent color, while the maid of honor chose green. Both carried white umbrellas of flowers in their accent color.

Mrs. 1960 State Fair Selected in Autumn

Somewhere in the vast State of Michigan is a mother who will be honored at the 11th annual Michigan State Fair and crowned Mrs. Michigan State Fair of 1960.

General Manager Donald L. Swanson and members of the Michigan State Fair Commission started the search today for the State's outstanding mother and housewife. The "mom" selected will be crowned on Thursday, Sept. 1, following the mammoth opening parade through Detroit's downtown business section, by Gov. G. Mennen Williams as part of the ribbon cutting ceremonies and a program at the Fairgrounds in Detroit.

Swanson said the deadline for entries has been set for Monday, Aug. 15 and the rules will follow the same format as in the previous two contests of 1958 and 1959.

The mothers, 21 years and older, must be residents of the State and must file an entry listing all qualifications and reasons why she should be selected.

The entrants may file the entry themselves or have it sent in by a friend, member of the family or by a club or church organization to which she has devoted hours of service and faithful duty.

The contest was inaugurated in 1958 with the selection of Mrs. Jarold Clark of Crosswell as the first Mrs. Michigan State Fair. The honors went to Mrs. James Boyce of Saugatuck a year ago.

Plymouthite Tours In South America

Touring with the 69-voice Michigan Chorale is James Conrad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Conrad of 251 Auburn. The group of musical teenagers and director Lester McCoy, are on a South American goodwill concert tour.

The tour included concerts in Bogota, Colombia. Their audiences numbered in the thousands at each performance and have been in such places as a boys' school, a factory, the Ciudad University, a shelter for abandoned children, a workers' community area and an underground salt mine. The group's performance over television.

Sponsored by the Youth For Understanding program of the Ann Arbor Council of Churches, the Chorale has given concert tours throughout Germany in previous years. Members stay with selected families of the area they are visiting.

At the El Amparo de Nino (shelter for abandoned children), the Chorale was given a return musical salute by a group of seven young girls and their mandolins along with the singing voices of the mass of Bogota orphans. Before leaving the home, the North American teenagers collected some money which was turned over to the director of the home to aid somewhat in providing for the children's needs.

A committee formed in Bogota to express appreciation for the visit of the chorale group. They are insisting that the young musicians return next year for a longer period of time. It was also requested that the Chorale visit some other large Colombian cities.

Lima is the next stop for the Michigan Chorale.

It's News To Me!
By KARLA HERBOLD

Those little, colorful sports cars that are the bane of big-car manufacturers and expressway drivers seem to be taking the rest of the country by storm. Last week, we attended a press party at the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club near Pontiac, and got a closer look at the exciting sport of road racing. The club also has facilities for those interested in archery, pistol, rifle and skeet shooting (never did find out what a skeet is), but the new European-type road course is fast becoming the most popular.

We were treated to a short race, with all varieties of cars participating. Usually cars are classified as PRODUCTION (produced in a series with normal equipment) or MODIFIED (changes made to improve the mechanical performance). The race we saw had everything from a just-out-of-the-factory Corvette to a sturdy Volkswagen, bringing up the rear. All the cars made satisfying (to this racing novice) tire squeals at each corner and there was even a checkered flag.

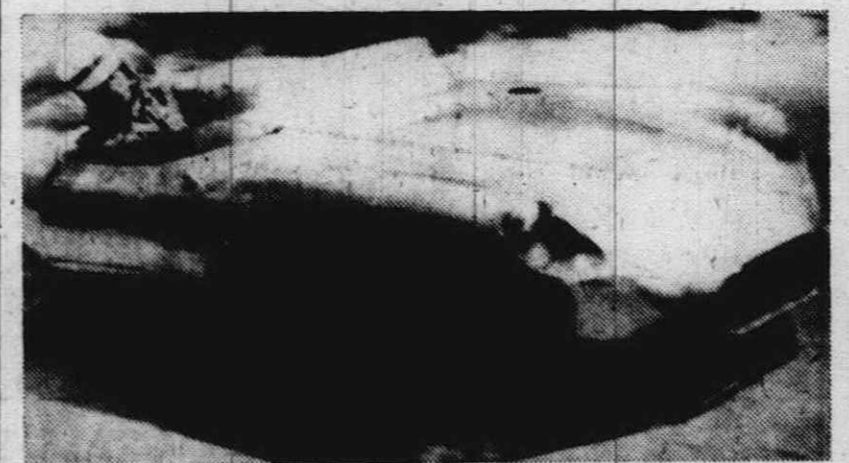

That flag, of course, means "you have finished the race" and the green flag means "start", but we hadn't known before that a black flag means "pit stop" and a blue flag signals that "you are being overtaken, give way." It seems as if it would be hard enough to drive in a race, without having to watch for flags.

After the race, we more agile reporters were driven around the course. Actually, it takes something more than agility to be graceful while scrambling into a low-slung sports car. It's even hard to get the door open, because many cars have only inside handles. The little red Sprite I rode in also had what the driver explained as a "drift" (the momentum of turning a corner makes the whole car slide sideways).

Actual driving experience was provided with the really low-slung go-karts, which are little more than a frame, a motor, four wheels and bumps.

Although most of the club's sports car enthusiasts race the same cars they drive to work during the week, some members have larger modified cars used exclusively for racing. The club's excellent safety record doesn't prevent all cats from adding the slightly ominous feature of headlights taped to prevent shattering in an accident and many have the additional protection of rollbars.

In the picture below is Bill Bradley of Detroit who will drive his Elva Climax at the Mid-Summer Trophy Races, Aug. 13 and 14. Bradley, who has placed 150 times, hopes to add another place at the Oakland Club events. Seven classes will race during that weekend and a compact-car section may also be featured.

Plymouthites Among Art Show Winners

Winners of the Third Annual Arts & Crafts Exhibit of Farmington, were announced Sunday, July 31, by Stan Hench, director, as follows: Fine Arts Division: first prize, Carolyn Thurman (Southfield) "Summer City," oil; second prize, Gerald Boyce (Indianapolis) "Three Marys," water color; honorable mentions, Shirley Denison (Plymouth) "Study," terra cotta; Emily Fox (Detroit) "Dynamic Detroit," oil; Marjorie Becker (Northville) "Fantasy," water color; Stan Hench (Walled Lake) "By the Railroad," water color.

Crafts Division: first prize, Gerald Boyce, Fish Pendant, silver; second prize, Roy Petersen (Plymouth) six-spout bottle, clay; honorable mention, Linda Edgerton (Northville) Fish Pin, silver.

Plymouth Teachers Attend Honor Society Convention

Over 2,000 educators are expected to meet in Bal Harbour, Fla., Aug. 10-13 at the Americana Hotel for the International Convention of Delta Kappa Gamma, international honor society for women teachers.

The highlight of the convention will be the awarding of 56 scholarships for advanced study valued at $2,500 each. Dr. Carolyn Guss of Indiana University, chairman of the Special Scholarship Committee will make the presentation at the Birthday Luncheon on Thursday, Aug. 11. Contributions from the nearly 75,000 members in the Society have made this possible. One scholarship will be awarded in each of the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and the five Canadian provinces in which the Society was organized when the project was undertaken in 1958.

This is the second large scholarship project of the Society, which annually awards three scholarships of $2,500 each. In 1954 awards of $1,300 each were presented to 52 members in the states, territories, and provinces that were then organized. Many states and chapters annually award scholarships for advanced study and grants-in-aid for future teachers. A number of scholarships given by various states and by the International Society have brought women educators from other countries to the United States to study and sent members overseas for similar experiences.

The Educator's Award—a gift of $1,000 for the most significant contribution to education written by a woman between April 1, 1958 and April 1, 1960—will also be presented at the Luncheon. Former winners of the award include Dorothy Canfield Fisher for "Our Young Folks"; Kate Wofford, "Modern Education in the Small Rural School"; Catherine Drinker Bowen, "John Adams and the American Revolution"; Agnes Meyer, "Out of These Roots"; Kate Hevner Mueller, "Educating Women for a Changing World"; and Dorothy Rogers, "Mental Hygiene in Elementary Education."

Featured speakers for the convention will be Mrs. Margaret Konantz, O. B. E. (Order of the British Empire) of Winnipeg, Manitoba, the national vice-president of the United Nations Assn., and Dr. Anne Gary Pannell, president of Sweet Briar College, Va.

Mrs. Konantz will speak at the evening session on Thursday, Aug. 11. Her subject will be "Clasp the Hands and Know the Thoughts of Those in Other Lands." She is also national vice-president of UNICEF and campaign chairman for World Refugee Year.

As main speaker for the convention, Dr. Pannell will address the assembled Delta Kappa Gammas at the Presidents and Founders Banquet on Saturday evening, Aug. 13, on the subject of "Great Teachers." Dr. Pannell serves on numerous educational councils, boards, and commissions and has represented American education in conferences with teachers and educational leaders abroad.

State Parks Record Lag

Michigan's state parks are lagging behind their 1959 record pace in daily attendance and camping despite heavy use since the July 4th weekend.

Through July 17, the attendance figure, 7,825,000, was almost 14 percent below that of 1959 at this point and were down 5.5 percent.

Conservation Department parks officials attributed both declines to cold, rainy weather during the opening weeks of the parks season.

Unfortunately, the usual problem of turn-away campers at some parks is continuing at last year's clip. More than 11,150 camping families have found themselves on the outside looking in because campsites were filled to capacity.

Assembly Delegates Return To Plymouth

Jehovah's Witnesses of this area have returned home from their recent "Peace Pursuing District Assembly," held in Briggs Stadium, Detroit. "Most of our neighbors here," said Mr. C. Carson Coonce, representing the Witnesses of this locality, "are just as interested in the prospects for lasting peace as we are."

"For four days," he explained, "we received Bible instruction designed to keep us awake to the fulfillment of Bible prophecy and to assure us that Almighty God purposes peace for our generation." The local delegates were part of the huge throng of over 40,000 persons that filled Briggs Stadium to near capacity on Sunday, July 31. All were enthusiastic over the key public talk, security during "War of the Great Day of God the Almighty," delivered Sunday afternoon by Fred W. Franz, vice-president of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York.

Mr. Franz reminded the vast audience that all mankind stands in danger of madly destroying itself by its own means. The proposals for nuclear-age cities with sub-surface shelters, he said, will provide no real security for living on earth after nuclear and poison-gas warfare on a world scale.

"In the face of the threatening war of the great day of God the Almighty there is urgent need for a shelter," he said, "a refuge, a place of security different from that which worldly-wise men are proposing for surviving a possible nuclear third world war. What men are proposing for human security during future world war by men, will not be equal to the security needed during the coming war by God with men and Satan and his demons."

"God alone has provided the necessary security measures," he continued, "that will be adequate for God-fearing people. He has provided the safe place, and he tells us how to get into it. The real place of security is to be on the side of God the Almighty, and of his Christ. God's kingdom is the only hope for mankind," concluded Franz.

This assembly was one of 11 scheduled this summer in the United States by the Watchtower Society, acting for Jehovah's Witnesses world-wide.

Mr. Coonce said the Witnesses, as a result of attending the Christian assembly, will be of greater assistance to their neighbors in their house-to-house ministry and home Bible teaching.

OUR 76th YEAR Since 1884

(EDITOR'S NOTE: How do you make a visit to Europe as enjoyable as possible? Edwin Emery, a professor of journalism at the University of Minnesota, offers some suggestions in the following dispatch. Emery is in Europe as a Guggenheim Fellow studying the operations of U. S. press associations.)

By EDWIN EMERY
LONDON (UPI) — American tourists are given a good welcome and friendly help in Europe — probably more than they deserve.

After four months of driving 10,000 miles through 10 European countries with my wife and daughter, we can cite countless examples of European courtesy, friendliness and fair-dealing. The number of unhappy incidents we can count on the fingers of one hand.

There were the two Germans in Saarbrücken — one a former war prisoner — who walked halfway across the city with us to make certain we found the restaurant where friends were dining. There was the Italian youth who rode with us after dark through the twisting streets of Siena to show us to our hotel, then walked back after smilingly refusing a tip.

Friendly ways of hands and spoken greetings from the roadside have followed us through Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Italy, Spain, France, Belgium, Holland, Great Britain and Ireland. We are strangers, with round export plates on our Volkswagens, and that is enough to gain a friendly smile, even before the "USA" sign can be seen.

Language differences are no barrier to friendliness. A group of Germans in a Munich rathskeller "talked" to us with much merriment. They found out their guest was a journalism professor, through painstaking effort, and we found out one had a brother in New York.

Little pocket "phrase books," sign language and gestures can go far toward achieving understanding. The tourist who acquires some "hote" and "menu" German, Italian, French or Spanish can make his way without trouble.

It is not hard, either, to learn how to compliment the hosts on the good meals or extra service. Showing appreciation with a phrase in their language works wonders — just as it does at home.

Some Americans expect Europeans to "have their hands out" for the reputedly inexhaustible American dollars. In continental countries where an established 10 to 15 per cent service charge is added to the bill in lieu of tips, this might be considered to be true — but remember that the natives pay the same extra amount.

Driving a car through Europe is very easy. Roads are good, signs are clear and numerous, traffic is orderly, and the same gas stations with many familiar brand names are available. Parking is nearly always possible on the street outside your hotel. Many Europeans, of course, speak English. It is a common tongue in Holland, Belgium and Scandinavia, and fairly widely spoken in other countries, particularly by those who deal with tourists. This is fortunate for language-deficient Americans.

Europeans have a friendly curiosity about America. They might be vague about the location of a midwestern state like Minnesota, but they've heard of its Sen. Hubert Humphrey. They know a good deal about American foreign policy, politics and culture.

They do not talk too readily about international politics, the war or American shortcomings unless they are "warmed up" and convinced you are in earnest.

Of course, Europeans have stereotyped ideas about America, just as Americans have about Europe. They ask how we spend our leisure time, for example, with tongue in cheek — and their picture of an American is "a man in a hurry," too hurried to enjoy life.

The wife of a French professor, after imploring us not to take offense, said that this was their favorite joke: "An American and his wife are standing in front of the great Notre Dame Cathedral. The man looks at his watch, frowns, turns to his wife and says: 'I'll do the outside and you do the inside. We'll meet here in five minutes and compare notes.'"

Some additional tips for travelers who want to be happy in Europe:

Learn what each currency is worth in dollars. Use their money, not the dollar bills that some tourists think are "good anywhere." In fact, some European currencies are stronger than the dollar these days.

Don't be an "American" and stay at luxury hotels and drink at American bars if you wish to meet people from other countries. You will only meet somewhat weary Europeans who have to serve a somewhat demanding clientele.

Remember that there are many tourists from other lands. Half the tourists in Italy come from Germany and Austria.

Don't overstock with such items as cleansing tissues, soap, razor blades, film, cigarettes. They are available everywhere. Water is good, milk is pasteurized in any ordinary place you visit.

Don't worry unduly about customs regulations and currency problems. Currency controls have been a burden throughout Western Europe's booming economy; frontiers are as easy and friendly to cross as the one between the U.S. and Canada.

Remember you don't win everytime at home, either. If something costs more than you expect, or you can't get "American coffee" — try again, next time.

Don't try to see too much in a short time, know where you are going, and find out in advance what attractions you should see. Read a few guide books and try not to be too ignorant about other people's cultural achievements, institutions and ways of life.

Smile if you can't do anything else — someone will help you out. For Americans, despite their faults, are liked in Europe if they will let themselves be liked.

Revolutionary Water Converter Being Developed

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — A revolutionary machine which could run a year without refueling is being developed by Chance Vought Aircraft, Inc., to convert salt water into drinkable water.

CVA engineers believe the machine will be capable of producing up to 100,000 gallons of usable water daily. Conversion of salt water has long been an aim of science, anticipating its use in agriculture, for drinking and industrial applications.

CVA calls its machine "Project Artesia." The method will utilize radioisotope energy to boil salt water. The steam given off is captured as fresh water as it condenses, leaving a salt residue.

The use of radioisotopes is safe since fission products carrying the isotopes are placed in capsules which allow beta and gamma rays to escape into continuously-flowing water, said nuclear physicist Martin Welt.

causing heat and then boiling. Other radiation will be dissipated in the water. An application of the system might be a mobile unit mounted on the back of a military truck.

Cost of the method, Welt said, would not be economical enough for civilian use until sufficient quantities of radioisotope-bearing materials are available.

Interment was in Riverside Mausoleum.

Fred G. Geney

Fred G. Geney died suddenly August 1 at the age of 84. He was a resident of Nankin Township and had been born in Southfield.

His wife Anna preceded him in death in 1953. Two sons, Elden of Wayne and David of West Dearborn; two daughters, Louise of Plymouth and Mrs. Jessie Marvin of Ann Arbor survive him. A brother, John of Inverness, Florida, 5 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren also survive.

Geney who came to the area in 1905 from Detroit was a retired interior decorator.

Services will be held Thursday, August 4 at the Schrader Funeral Home in Plymouth. The Reverend Dr. Melbourne I. Johnson will officiate at the 1 p.m. services. Interment will be in Newburg Cemetery.

Spend Summer At Band Camp

Plymouth musicians have been spending part of their summers at various band camps. Attending the All State High School Band session at the National Music Camp at Interlochen were Ruthann Lidgard, who was sponsored by the Plymouth Elks; Dale McCloor, sponsored by the Optimist Club; LeRoy Lane, who was sponsored by the Kiwanis and Mary Lou Smith, sponsored by the Vivians.

The young people played in a 230-piece band, and participated in music theory, conducting, electronics and recreation.

A summer band camp at the campus of Eastern Michigan University was attended by Chris Cutler who was sponsored by the Rotary Club; Judy Hardimon sponsored by a private donor; Becky Lyons sponsored by the University Music House of Ann Arbor; Kevin Huntington sponsored by the Rotary Club and Mike Ross sponsored by a private donor.

25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Waldorf Pletcher of Five Mile Rd. were guests of honor, Saturday evening, at a surprise 25th wedding anniversary party given by their daughters, Margaret and Barbara. Thirty-five guests were present from Lansing, Bay City, Jackson, Detroit, Livonia and Plymouth.

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (UPI) — Charles Savoy, a considerate citizen, waited from 2 a.m. until 8 a.m. before notifying firemen of a fire at his home because he didn't want to disturb the fire fighters.

He explained that a cigarette smoker ignited a mattress, so he pitched the mattress into the backyard and left it to smolder.

Little League Highlights

By JACK SHEPARD

Wednesday night at 6:15 will be your last chance to see a Plymouth Little League game this year unless there is a tie for first place in one of the leagues, or one of the games is postponed by rain. Standings through last week were:

National League		American League
Pirates	6 1	Indians	6 2
Braves	4 3	Tigers	6 2
Dodgers	4 3	White Sox	2 6
Giants	0 7	Yankees	2 6

The Indians gained a tie for first place in the American League in an extra-inning game Saturday with the Tigers.

Both teams made rare double plays in a thrilling close game between the Yankees and White Sox. Shortstop Dave Lytle caught a line drive behind third to nip a Giant rally.

Playgrounds Finish Six-Week Program

The playgrounds finished their six week program last Friday. The Junior Olympics of the Detroit Metropolitan Area had their finale Field Day on Friday, July 29 at Renton.

The members representing Plymouth had qualified at the Kiwanis Field Day on Tuesday, July 26 at the Gallimore Elementary school.

The Plymouth Recreation Department was pleased with the success of the Plymouth Playgrounds and would like to extend their thanks to all that made this a successful experience for the young people of Plymouth.

Young people are reminded that there are still many activities available—swimming, tennis and ball games, that will give all an opportunity to see their friends and carry

Mr. Golfers Hold Tourney

Young golfers, members of the Junior Golf Assn. have been playing at Hilltop Golf Course for several seasons. One 11-year-old remarked, as he finished his second year of play, "The course doesn't seem as long as it did last year."

The tournament is uppermost in the young people's minds. Play will begin promptly at 8:30 Monday, Aug. 8. Participants who are late will forfeit. Walkers and players will be treated to a free luncheon by the Association. The match play will also be scheduled for Aug. 9.

At 7:30 p.m., an award night will be held at the course.

Winners of three points in last Monday's play were Otwell, G. Scott, Eder, Hallock, Schulteiss, Brennaman, Holmes and Niepoth.

Bender, Fueling, K. Zorlow, Hulce, Larson and Holt were winners of two points.

The 1 1/2 point winners were Wall, Burleson, Riess and Pentecost.

Beck, Breed, Fisher, Rarome, Wiley and Phil Bender won one point.

Walking were Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Holt, Mrs. Drennan, Mrs. Krietsch, Mrs. Otwell and Mrs. Scott.

Canton Township Voters OK Planning Commission

Over 500 Canton Township voters went to the polls Tuesday and supported a proposition to form a planning commission and gave approval to two Township men who were seeking state and national offices.

The voters also gave their support to Carl Stellato of Cherry Hill Rd., who was seeking Democratic nomination for the U.S. House of Representatives. He was attempting to unseat John Lesinski, now in his fifth term. Canton electors gave Stellato 119 votes and Lesinski 98 votes. But throughout the 16th District, Lesinski was a leading Wednesday morning, 32,979 to 27,332.

In a Republican race for State senator, Hagbard Berg, Michigan Ave. nurseryman, polled 39 votes in Canton. But he lost out in the 21st District to Douglas Brown, 22, of Dearborn, a real estate salesman and law student.

Otherwise, Canton voters went almost "down the line" with other areas in approving nominations, including that of John Swainson for Democratic nominee for governor.

THE MAIL ATTITUDE

BY PAUL CHANDLER

John Swainson's victory in the Democratic election Tuesday was a notable personal achievement, and he had the backing of the voters in this, his home district.

Many things contribute to a conquest of the voters, but the most telling factor in Swainson's upset triumph was the personal attraction he displayed during the campaign.

He campaigned harder, with more skill, than did James Hare and he offered the voters a fresh, young face which appealed to them. It seems to be the trend in American politics, and it made the difference.

Now it is more than probable that the next chief executive of Michigan will be one who lives in Plymouth, right here in this district, our neighbor.

Before the voting, there was wonder whether Swainson's youth (he's 35, looks younger) would be an asset or liability.

The Republican candidate for Congress from the Seventeenth District will be Richard Morell of Redford Township. He thumped three rivals, including Gladys Smith, who represented the GOP "old guard" and who had been District party chairman.

Morell doubled the tally on her, 10,458 to 5,246. His victims also included Dick Wakefield, the old Detroit Tiger bonus flash who received 5,191 votes.

Morell is another in the "fresh young face" pattern. He's 32 years old, wears a crew haircut, with a political career consisting entirely of 15 months as Supervisor of Redford Township. In his home town he polled 1,674 votes, to 406 for Mrs. Smith and 545 for Wakefield.

On the Democratic side, incumbent Martha Griffiths rang up 31,896 votes and appears the winner in November, barring miracles.

Morell's performance in his first campaign outside his own locality is praiseworthy, nonetheless.

There was a two-way battle for the GOP nomination as State Representative. Victory went to another Redford Township yearling, Jack McDonald. McDonald polled 4,238 to 3,081 for Bill Duffy of Livonia. Duffy carried a slim lead in his home town of Livonia but was edged out everywhere else in the district.

McDonald is in his late 20's, clean-cut and youthful in appearance. In fact, he is a close friend and political stablemate of Morell's.

McDonald's opponent will be Harvey Beadle, incumbent Democrat from Redford Township. Beadle was renominated by polling 6,973 votes to 2,254 for George Bennett of Northville and 1,413 for George Trombley of Redford.

As to the State Senatorial race, there was no surprise. Democratic incumbent Ray Dzendzel mopped up three rivals. And on the Republican side, Weldon O. Yeager was unopposed.

In our last issue, The Mail released the news that the matter of the incorporation of Plymouth Township would be put to a serious, final, decisive vote in November. Today we'll just add a couple of footnotes to the basic facts.

All Township residents will recall that when this subject originally was sold to the voters (by a thin margin), advocates contended that the vote was just a device to halt annexation, and that no one in a place of influence seriously intended that incorporation ever come to reality.

The Mail warned then that this might not be necessarily so. Recent events indicate that some men are indeed serious about creating the second city, and we believe this aim will become obvious to the residents in subsequent weeks. Some voters doubtless will feel betrayed.

Another interesting point is that if the incorporation matter should be approved, then the new City of Plymouth Heights apparently would have to conduct a public election on whether to permit liquor by the glass. This might or might not pass; in any case, it would place in risk large investments and the livelihoods of some major Township business places.

According to current legal information, the liquor referendum is mandatory of all new cities who wish to issue licenses.

Burger Chef Opens Plymouth Outlet

A new Burger Chef dining spot will cast open its doors for the first time in Plymouth this week-end amid gala Grand Opening festivities. It is located at 1365 Main St., just north of Ann Arbor Rd. Numerous bargains in top-name foods will be offered by the local concern during its Grand Opening days this week.

Hired as general manager of the new Burger Chef restaurant is Harry M. Wiley, 38, of 41031 Micol, Plymouth. Wiley, a Plymouth resident for seven years, formerly operated Wiley's Market on Joy Rd.

He is married and is the father of two children, Skip, 7, and Jack, 12. Originally from Ann Arbor, where he attended school, Wiley is a World War II Navy veteran and for four years was employed by National Bank of Detroit here in Plymouth in the Installment Department.

The Burger Chef spot will officially open for business on Thursday, Aug. 4.

Wiley, a Kiwanian, explained that his restaurant will cater to all members of all families. He related that only top-flight foods and food-stuffs will be served.

Credit Plan Enters Second Year

The Plymouth Community Charge Plan, which makes it possible to shop in any of 21 local stores without opening up separate charge accounts, is now marking its first anniversary — and so far its existence has been a complete success.

Seven thousand new charge cards are being sent out this week to replace the original charge cards, it was announced. As soon as the new cards are received, the old ones will not be good.

The charge plan was first started a year ago under the cooperation of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce. Most of the original customers were in the Plymouth and Northville area. This week, 3,000 of the new charge cards will be received by Livonia shoppers who maintain a good credit rating.

verged upon Pontiac to help him celebrate. Many Plymouth people helped in the campaign.

In the State senatorial race, Republican Weldon O. Yeager, employment agency owner, was unopposed and tallied 19,107 votes. Raymond D. Dzendzel, Democrat, won the nomination handily with 14,913. Dzendzel is a Carpenter's Union business representative.

demand becomes heavy. By bringing the gas from Texas during the low demand period and storing it, the danger of falling pressure in the winter diminishes.

Other Democrats in the State senatorial race were: George Montgomery, Detroit school teacher, 7,689; Ralph S. Hatt, Detroit attorney, 6,376; and William Plotkin, Detroit attorney, 3,166.

The storage of gas in the Northville Field will be done in two different gas bearing formations. The principal formation is known as the Trenton formation and is about 4,500 feet below the surface. The second is the Niagara formation which lies about 2,900 feet down.

It will be Republican Jack McDonald versus Democratic incumbent Harvey Beadle in the Nov. 8 race for State Representative from the 21st District.

Between these two storage formations and the surface of the ground, engineers note, are a large number of rock and shale rock formations which are "absolutely solid and give unlimited protection for any pressure that might be created in the underground storage field by our operations. The overburden of the rock and soil is extremely solid and protective."

McDonald, who ran the federal census in this area and is an operating engineer, gathered 4,238 votes in incomplete figures Wednesday to defeat William J. Duffy, a Livonia resident and personal executive for GM. Duffy had 3,081.

Above the 1,000 feet level there is a very substantial overburden which is computed to exert a pressure of 1,000 pounds, downward, and "would protect the public from any leakage or loss of gas or from any possible explosion," the company added.

There were no contests for the precinct delegate jobs, but there were a number of write-ins. In the City's second precinct where the Democrats had no nominee, Mrs. Dorothy Frank won 18 write-in votes, enough to give her the job.

There are now several producing gas and oil wells in the field. Consumers is the owner of more than 90 percent of the interest in the field. Some of these wells have been producing up to five years.

Dr. Eugene Keyes of Dearborn, who staged a write-in campaign for lieutenant governor on the Democratic ticket, got only one vote in Plymouth Township and none in the City. A billboard on Ann Arbor Rd. near the Township Hall appealed for write-in votes — an expensive piece of advertising for one vote.

If any wells are abandoned or plugged, the company declared, the surface pipe will be cut off three feet below the surface and it will be plugged by filling the top 500 feet with cement and the well capped by welding a steel plate to the top.

Almost complete returns Wednesday morning gave Swainson 274,376 votes. Hare had 205,489 while Connor had but 61,038.

To change a field from a "pumping out" to a "pumping in" status requires no special equipment. "It just means that the flow of gas will be changed in the summer," an engineer said.

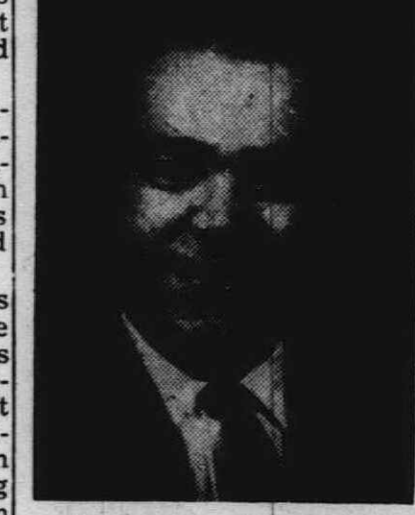

Bagwell led all candidates with 472,039, but this wasn't larger than the combined Democratic vote.

The City will receive $10 an acre for granting the underground rights.

Swainson began his political career in 1954 when voters from the 18th State Senatorial District elected him to the State Senate. He was re-elected in 1956 and served as minority leader.

Two years ago he was elected as the running-mate of Gov. G. Mennen Williams and won. Just a few days before the election the newest addition to the Swainson family, Kristina, was born which gave the candidate a pleasing bit of extra publicity. When he announced his candidacy for governor last spring, Mrs. Swainson told The Mail that they had no such "strategy" planned for this election.

He did have a birthday, however, just last Sunday and a cavalcade of cars con-

ELECTED president of the Plymouth Lions Club at a recent meeting was F. Harger Green, a resident of Plymouth for a number of years. He lives at 595 Simpson. He succeeds Richard Stribley of Carol.

Girl Burned While Frying Breakfast Egg

Six-year-old Nancy Saunders was going to surprise her mother Sunday morning by frying her an egg for breakfast.

But as the first grader stood on a chair at the stove, her terrycloth pajamas caught on fire and the blaze traveled up her body and under her arm. She was badly burned on the right arm and hand.

Nancy is the daughter of Mrs. Joan Saunders, 9244 Marlowe. Plymouth Township firemen were called and they rushed Nancy to St. Mary Hospital. Tuesday she was transferred to the Crippled Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor where she will undergo skin grafts. She is reported out of shock and showing improvement.

Empty. The Cutlers lived in the home 12 years.

"I didn't want to live there," Cutler recalled this week. But one day Mr. and Mrs. Ford and I were there and Mr. Ford mentioned that he would like to have someone live there who would appreciate it. He smiled and said that he was thinking of me. Mrs. Ford declared that she thought it was a grand idea.

"We had a nice home near the Fairgrounds, but we moved into the old home," Cutler added. "There were nothing but mud roads with big ruts then and we lived six miles from the nearest town."

The nature project will grow as the years go by. A nature trail following nearby Tonquish Creek will be laid out within a few years. This land was donated by the late William P. Holliday. It will be named in his honor.

Ecological and geological points of interest will be marked along the trail.

Many people do not know of the arboretum that has been established in Middle Rouge Park for many years. It is located north of Six Mile Rd. Over 600 species of trees are marked.

New subdivisions are covering Western Wayne County every year. Tens of thousands of people now live where only hundreds dwelled a decade ago.

But standing out as a permanent island in the fields of new homes will be the Middle Rouge Park and its new classroom — the Nankin Mills Nature Center.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Aurel Ursa of Shadywood, Plymouth, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Shemwell of Hix Rd. were honored at an open house wedding reception. Mrs. Shemwell is the former Vicki Lee Bronson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Steever. The young couple were married in Canada on June 1. Approximately 80 attended the afternoon affair at which the traditional wedding fare was served.

Mrs. Melvin C. Gutherie of Newburg Rd. is home after spending her vacation visiting in the historic eastern states of our country. She reports having seen many things unobserved in other previous visits and also that she had a fine time.

Home from a northern vacation are Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hocking and daughter, Janet, and son, Ronald, of Narise Dr. Cold and rain was much on the format for these folks but despite the inclement weather, they report having had a fine time.

Our house has been a beehive of activity this past weekend. Our son David came home, after spending a week at the D Bar A Scout Ranch in Metamora, Mich. With him came his friend, Robert Curry, a former resident of Livonia, now residing in Lombard, Ill. Curry came to Michigan to attend the week at scout camp and then in turn spent a few days at the LaPointe residence. Also home this past weekend was our oldest son, Bruce, who came from the Judson Collins Memorial Methodist Camp in Onsted, Mich. where he is spending the summer working as assistant lifeguard. It was nice to have a full house again.

On Sunday, July 30, the adult choir of the Newburg Methodist Church had their annual swim and potluck dinner party at the home of Graham Bennett on Stark Rd. Guests present for the day of fun were Miss Sally Fedus, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Crawford and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nixon, Mrs. James Greenwood and children, Denise, Debbie, Kim, Jamie and Randy; Mr. and Mrs. William Eastlake and daughters Cheryl and Kathy; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leveron, Mrs. Florence Crawford and son Dale and Mr. and Mrs. Emil LaPointe and children, Bruce, David, Mark and Nan and also Robert Curry of Lombard, Ill.

Henry Mende, Jr., of Newburg Rd., is home recuperating after undergoing surgery at St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia. The report is that he is doing fine and cards of good cheer could encourage a more rapid recovery.

No further results of the Newburg baseball team as they were rained out this past week. By the time this news reaches your hands they will have played one game. Watch next week for the results.

Mrs. Mary Watt of Mason, Mich., is a house guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gennis of Joy Rd. for a few weeks. Mrs. Watt is the mother of Mrs. Gennis.

It's been nice being with you. Won't you give me a call when you return from your vacations? We sure would like to hear all about what you see and where you were. See you next week?

Mrs. Mackie, who teaches first grade at Bird Elementary School, was born in Granville, Ohio, was her mother was for 25 years, a housemother at Denison University. Deciding as a sixth grader to become a teacher, she graduated from Granville High School, attended Ohio University at Athens, Ohio and received her Bachelor of Science degree from Eastern Michigan University. She taught in the rural and city schools in Ohio until her marriage when, because of a depression ruling against married women teachers, she was forced to resign.

Returning to teaching several years later, she taught in Ohio and at the Stark weather Elementary School in Plymouth before joining the old Central Grade School and then the Bird Elementary School faculty in 1950. Mrs. Mackie also worked for one year with crippled children at the Shriners Hospital in Lexington, Ky., and with a nursery school in Newark, Ohio. For a summer she was a cottage supervisor at the Wayne County Training School.

A member of the Plymouth Education Assn., she is also active in the Michigan Education Assn., the National Education Assn. and is an Area Delegate to the Department of Classroom Teachers.

Mrs. Mackie and her husband live on McKinty St. in Plymouth. Bruce Mackie is employed by the Wolverine Shingle and Lumber Co. of Detroit. The Mackies have one son, C. William Norman, and two grandchildren. Their son, who is a graduate of Plymouth Community High School, is the City Manager of Howell, Mich.

The first grade teacher is a member of the D.A.R. and is active in circle work for the Presbyterian Church. She has enjoyed serving as a Girl Scout Leader, a Den Mother and as a Sunday School teacher. Besides a variety of personal hobbies, which include ceramics and painting, she is an avid gardener.

The University of Minnesota football stadium can accommodate about 66,000 persons, and its indoor basketball arena can take care of about 19,000, the latter a Midwest record.

GLEANINGS FROM THE GRANGE CALENDAR

Tomorrow night, Aug. 4, is potluck supper at the Hall at 6:30 p.m., followed by a regular business meeting at 8 p.m.

On Aug. 11, several from our Grange will be visiting the Deerfield Grange in Lenawee County, giving the highlights on the Washington trip and showing slides.

There were 25 from here who attended the Tri-County Pomona picnic at Ann Arbor. It was a delightful day, delicious potluck dinner and interesting program. Group singing followed a talk by State Master Brake. It was voted to extend an invitation to more counties and change the name to Southeastern Michigan picnic to be held at the same place.

Two members from Monroe County were appointed to be in charge for next year. The state Grange has acquired three pieces of property which will be developed into campsites, etc.

One is on Drummond Island where the building will be made into several living quarters and will be for rent to Grange families for vacation and hunting season. Watch for information in the Michigan Patron each month.

We are very happy that Sister Flora Rathburn is able to be at home again. Sister Luella Partridge has moved to Ann Arbor and is living with her sister. The address is 506 West Hoover, telephone NO 8-6325.

Our sympathy is extended to Sister Hilda Lunn in the loss of her brother in Columbus, Ohio.

A UNITED LUTHERAN CONGREGATION

announced by Dawson-Murray Associates, Inc., Dearborn advertising and public relations agency.
Edited by Cy Lindroth of Plymouth, FYI (For Your Information) has 44 pages of information covering all media outlets in the five-county Detroit metropolitan area. The listings include pertinent information on every newspaper, radio - television station, magazine and miscellaneous publication having editorial offices or staff representatives in the Detroit area.
FYI lists editors, columnists and special writers of all daily papers in Wayne, Macomb, Oakland, Monroe and Washtenaw counties, and the editor, publisher and publication day for area weeklies. Under radio stations are listed wave length, power, station manager, promotional director, news editor, etc.

TV stations are listed similarly plus a schedule of newscasts. Detroit editors and publication dates are given for magazines.
Publishers Bob Dawson and Frank Murray describe FYI as the most comprehensive media listing ever attempted in the Detroit area, and disclosed that more than four months of research and cross checking preceded publication. They said the agency expects to market the directory to agency and industrial public relations departments both locally and nationally.
Subsequent volumes, updated and expanded, will be offered periodically, the publishers said.

Future Fresh Take Look at Western

More than 1,500 freshmen who will be entering Western Michigan University for the first time next fall are getting a two-day advance taste of campus life this summer. Under the direction of Dr. Paul L. Griffith, dean of students, the freshmen are coming to the campus to learn something of their future programs of study, to meet with the counselors and to see a bit of the campus. It is not all work and some social life has been planned too.
Among those who have finished visiting the campus are: Arthur Helm, Geralee Rehbein, Dolores Aldrich, Frances Smith and Larry McMullen of Plymouth.

WIN IN MARATHON'S

1250 people will be winners this week!

Just look at the fabulous prizes being offered in Marathon's exciting, new Picnic Sweepstakes . . .

A Picnic in Paris . . . a Bonus Prize. That's right . . . a trip for two, via Trans World Airlines SuperJet, to Europe's glamour capital for a stay of nine wonderful days. A picnic-to-end-all-picnics!

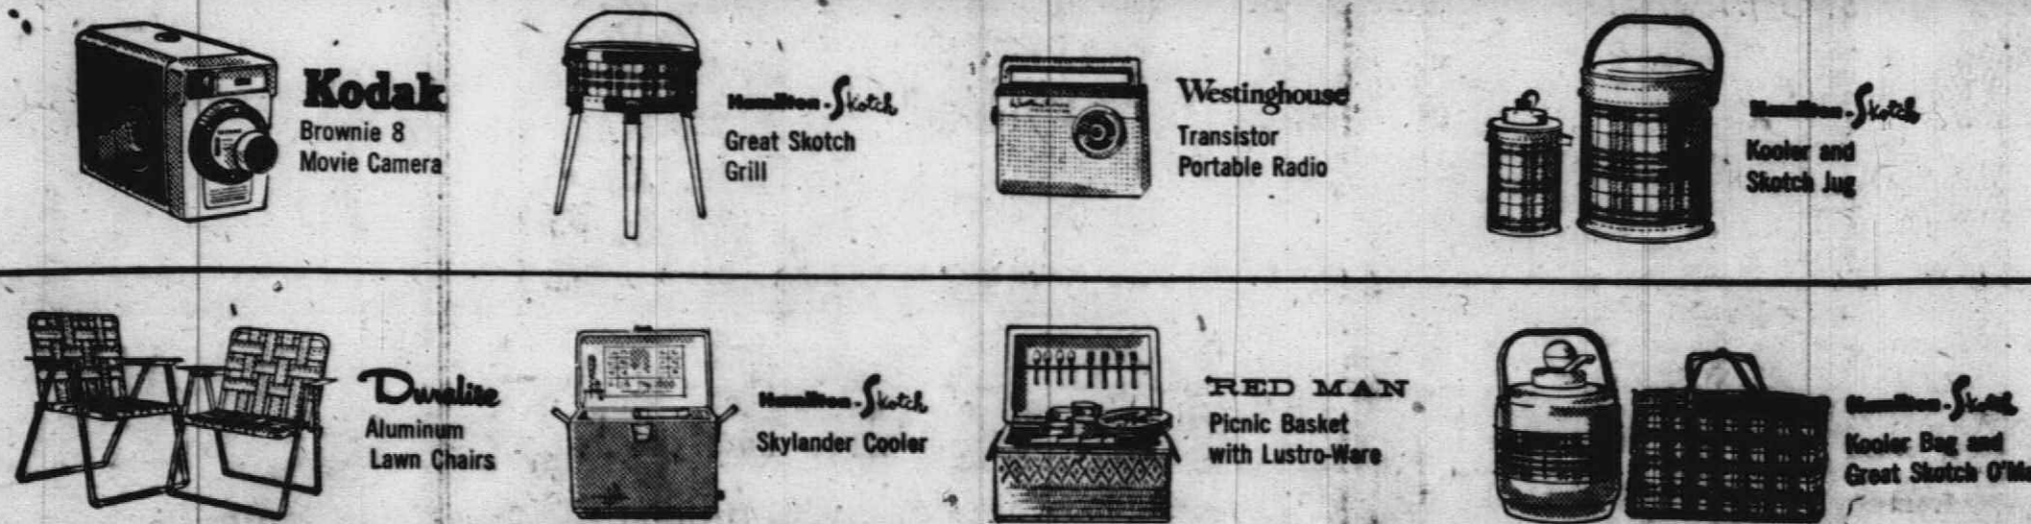

1960 Pontiacs . . . as Grand Prizes. Another this week . . . and every week from now through August 28. Your family will have an endless pleasure picnic if you win one of these beautiful 1960 Pontiacs, the only car with Wide-Track wheels.

1250 Neighborhood Prizes Every Week. Every Marathon dealer is running his own local sweepstakes, too, awarding a valuable prize every week to someone right in his own area. You don't compete with folks coast to coast, but just with your neighbors.

It's Easy to Win! Each Marathon dealer has a weekly drawing at his station for one of the valuable prizes you see below. And everyone entered in these drawings is eligible to win the week's grand prize of a 1960 Pontiac. All who enter before the Picnic Sweepstakes ends on August 28 are eligible to win the big bonus prize of a Picnic in Paris.

Enter Weekly to Win Weekly. It's easy to enter! Easy to win! Nothing to rhyme. Nothing to buy. Just drive in, write in, or phone—and enter your name and address with any Marathon dealer featuring the Picnic Sweepstakes. Get complete details from him. Enter now to win this week's local prize. Then enter again each week to be eligible for other weekly prizes. Every time you enter you increase your chances of winning!

THESE ARE THE PRIZES BEING WON EVERY WEEK AT YOUR LOCAL MARATHON STATION

used, equipment — and that means they're buying pure jets and prop-jets. In some cases they really can't afford expensive new planes, but there is national pride as well as competitive ability involved. No foreign airline operator wants to pit a DC7 against a jetliner. He not only wants to boast that his planes are as modern as anybody else's, but he couldn't compete against the jets. Experts say the European market has just about disappeared. The South American market is limited by the weak economies of some countries and the instability of governments. And here again, there is a question of national pride — our neighbors to the south want jets, too.

The planes cost $2.5 million, new. But there is really no average price for a used, older Constellation models can be picked up for a song because there is no demand for them. Ironically, the ancient DC3 can still find buyers, although it's a far cry from the days when American sold its entire DC3 fleet for more than the planes cost when they were brand new.

That imaginary advertisement sums up one of the most pressing economic problems of the Jet Age—what to do with the hundreds of piston-engine aircraft that are becoming surplus years ahead of their time.

The following questions and answers discuss the difficulties of airliner disposal and the plans for solving those difficulties:

Q.—How many piston-engine transports will become surplus?

A.—Industry estimates vary from 400 to as many as 1,000 by 1965. One reason for the lack of a firm figure is the real effort being made by U.S. airlines to utilize their older equipment. Several, for example, are converting their big DC7's and Constellations to all-cargo configuration. Air cargo is booming and if anything, the airlines are short of cargo aircraft. However, there is a limit to how many surplus planes can be absorbed this way.

Q.—Are there any other ideas for utilizing the older airliners?

A.—One suggestion is the inauguration of a third level of passenger fares—even lower than current air coach rates. The plan is to use DC6's, DC7's and Constellations on certain high-density routes, with no reservations, no meals and absolutely no frills. Airline officials believe this "air bus" or "commuter" service might attract millions of new customers. Another idea is to pour surplus airliners into the underdeveloped nations and areas which currently can't afford air transportation systems. Naturally, this would involve federal financing and is strictly a long-range, almost hypothetical proposal.

Q.—How about selling our surplus planes to airlines in Europe and South America?

A.—There virtually is no overseas market for U.S. piston-engine planes. First, foreign airlines want new, not used, equipment — and that means they're buying pure jets and prop-jets. In some cases they really can't afford expensive new planes, but there is national pride as well as competitive ability involved. No foreign airline operator wants to pit a DC7 against a jetliner. He not only wants to boast that his planes are as modern as anybody else's, but he couldn't compete against the jets. Experts say the European market has just about disappeared. The South American market is limited by the weak economies of some countries and the instability of governments. And here again, there is a question of national pride — our neighbors to the south want jets, too.

Q.—What are used airliners selling for these days?

A.—It is hard to give specific figures, because so much depends on a plane's condition, equipment and other factors. One example, however: American sold 25 DC7's to an aircraft leasing firm for about $950,000 each.

Q.—Well, come to think of it, an old airliner wouldn't be a very good buy anyway, right?

A.—Wrong. The tragedy of the surplus airliner problem is that so many superb planes are unneeded and unwanted even though they have years of useful and economical life left in them. In most cases they are better today than they were the day they came off the assembly line. They have benefited from constant modifications and improvements. They have been beautifully maintained. Unfortunately, planes like the DC7 are victims of something that has never before happened in commercial aviation history: The jets are doing the job for which the older aircraft were specifically designed, namely long-range service. In the past new piston-engine airliners created new types of service and they never really replaced the older planes. That isn't the case with the jets, which outmoded the DC7's and Constellations overnight and literally left them with no jobs they could perform. Furthermore, one jet can do the work of three DC7's.

Q.—Granted that nobody seems to want the bigger piston-engine planes, isn't there still a market for twin-engine airliners like the Convair and Martin?

A.—Some market, but not spending a lot more money big enough to absorb the approximately 200 Convairs and Martins that will be available by 1965. The local service airlines are buying some of these planes as replacements for their DC3's, but they're on brand new prop-jets. Significantly, the easiest to sell airliners today are Convair 340's and 440's—which can be modified to take turbo-prop engines.

Q.—Can't the airlines shift their long-range planes to other routes?

A.—In some cases, yes. American is using DC6's on routes formerly served by Convairs. United opened up a non-stop New York-Omaha schedule with DC7's—a route that formerly involved several stops. But there's a ceiling on such improvisations; usually it is uneconomical to fly such big planes into cities where traffic potential is low.

Q.—Can't the airlines trade in their older planes when they buy new ones?

A.—There's a good deal of this going on. Typical example: Northwest turned in nine Boeing Stratocruisers as partial payment for its new Lockheed Electras. But this doesn't solve the surplus problem; it merely shifts the peddling burden from the airline to the manufacturer. Actually, neither the airlines nor the manufacturers are selling used airliners directly. The bulk is being done by aircraft brokers and leasing firms.

U of M Holds Art Display

Among the 133 Michigan artists displaying their works at the Rackham Galleries in Ann Arbor is Mable Bacon of 1015 Joy Rd. The display is sponsored by the University of Michigan.

The Plymouthite's painting, entitled "Organic Forms," is part of the Regional Invitational Art Exhibition which will run through Aug. 3. Works which have been awarded recognition in local and regional art shows during the past year were chosen.

A part of the U of M Extension Service, Summer Session, the exhibition is also connected with the College of Architecture and Design.

Big Objective, Big Cost

"The world of the 21st century," says Architect Herbert H. Swinburne, noted for his forward-looking designs for colleges and schools, "will be dominated by the country with the best educational system."

Mr. Swinburne, who testified in Harrisburg recently before the construction task force of the Pennsylvania Governor's Committee on Education, is quite naturally determined that it will be the US that will come up with that system.

"Architects can no longer confine their thinking to construction materials and techniques, to mechanical and structural systems... their inquiry must go beyond room schedules and square foot allowances. To produce a better school," Mr. Swinburne assured the Governor's experts, "the educator and the architect must work at it together; it is not the exclusive province of either."

This architect foresees the school of tomorrow as planned for three kinds of activities, rather than consisting of more or less identical classrooms. Teacher teams, headed by a highly-paid specialist and aided by a staff of assistants, will be in charge of large groups and employ closed circuit TV, special projectors, tape recordings and all the latest visual and audio teaching aids for mass instruction. Additionally, there will be medium-sized seminar groups permitting closer teacher supervision; a thirdly, individual study with recourse to teacher guidance.

Architect Swinburne quotes the thinking of our foremost educators as follows: "In our new schools, teachers will be regarded as consultants and authorities rather than as taskmasters and study activities will be designed to encourage students to take more and more responsibility for self-direction. The physical plant for such schools will require specially designed and equipped lecture rooms for the large groups, more informal quarters for the seminars and for individual study. It will require projects and materials centers as well as workshops, libraries and laboratories and will doubtless have groups of small rooms that can be opened up into a big one by pressing a button."

All this sounds pretty elaborate and expensive, and Mr. Swinburne assures us that school costs will continue to increase. And yet, unless we think big and employ the newest and best of the modern teaching aids and ideas, we shall be unable to provide for the oncoming horde of students that becomes bigger each year. But the paradox is that to follow outworn educational methods and facilities would actually cost us more per student when all costs are toted up than going modern!

Perhaps, after all, we were born a couple of generations too soon.

If Your Name Is Neil

By ANN REYNOLDS

There was an old Irish name, "Niul"; it originated in a word for "champion" in Irish "naidh". Among the variations that ancient name brought forth today "Neil" is the most popular. There are now Neils of other than Irish extraction; not all parents who pick this name for baby are aware of its Irish connection. Oh, if they are, it does not make any difference to them.

Nigel, Nel, Nial, Neal are related forms. O'Neill, which was the last name of our great dramatist, Eugene O'Neill, and Nelson, appear mainly as last names. The composition of these two names is similar. O'Neill means "son of Neil", Nelson is "son of Neil".

In past centuries when the knowledge of tracing words to earlier forms was in its infancy, this group of names was held to have arisen from the Latin word for "black", which is "niger" and "Neil" was written in Latin texts as "Nigellus". This is where "Nigel" came from. It was also tried to deduct "Nils" from "Nicholas", a Greek name combined from words signifying "victory" and "people".

The O'Neills claim descent from the last but one pagan king of Ireland who was assassinated in 405 A.D. The O'Neills were one of the foremost "septs" (which is Irish for "clan") of Ireland. Their war cry was "red hand set on", and in their crest of arms there appears a red hand, chopped off at the wrist. There is a tale that explains it.

One O'Neill, when going to settle on the Coast of Ulster, was eager to secure for himself possession of a good stretch of land at the seashore. It used to be so that the man whose hand would touch the beach first could claim ownership to it. When O'Neill's boat lagged behind the others, he with his dagger chopped off his right hand at the wrist, and threw it on land. This way his fingers were the very first to touch shore.

There is an Icelandic Saga dating from the 12th century, the Njal Saga. It is a story filled with jealousy, treachery, revenge and massacres that come to an end only when the last surviving son of Njal is converted to the Christian Faith, and forgives his enemies.

"Nelson", as a last name, had as its most illustrious representative the great English naval hero Viscount Horatio Nelson. He lost one arm in his attempt to capture Santa Cruz de Tenerife, in the Canary Islands, and his life during his greatest victory, the Naval Battle at Trafalgar, near the West Coast of Spain, over the fleet of Napoleon. The alluring Lady Emma Hamilton was Nelson's mistress; her beauty remained renowned through the many paintings by the English painter George Romney.

You have a good imagination and should use it along literary lines. You have ability and can express yourself on paper. You like many activities, variation of daily routine and like to be a part of many things.

Dear Mr. Curious: I'm glad the analysis was worth waiting for, now for a look at yours— You are a very dominant person, a leader and a person who knows completely what is to be done. You possess great determination, emphatic decision and you have no trouble making up your mind for anything.

Mr. Curious: You are easily irritated and hate interruptions. There is little emotion, you have pride, very little sensitivity and a desire to own and acquire. You have definiteness and the power to set your own goal. You go forward and with a purpose in mind. There are some constructive, engineering traits but most of your writing denotes mental strength.

Dear Miss Williams: I've been reading your column for quite a while and find interesting but considered writing myself. However, I've finally broke down and decided to try my luck—what do you find in my handwriting?

How's Business?

Economic Slant Downward

By ROGER W. BABSON

Seasonal shutdowns exerted strong breaking forces upon business in July, causing our Composite Business Curve to slip lower. The dips of the past two months have imparted a definite downward slant to the trend of general business.

THIS SHOWS CURRENT BUSINESS COMPARED WITH THE SAME TIME FOR THE PREVIOUS THIRTEEN YEARS

Automobile production was cut back further in July, because of the large supply in dealers' hands and because of retooling operations. The slower pace of new car output exerted a drag on the metal fabricating and automotive accessories lines, just as its sustained strength had bolstered these sectors earlier in the year.

Steel production was down again, but after the sharp slump in output occasioned by the long holiday weekend early in the month, steel operations stabilized at a level somewhat above that low point.

A bright spot in the business picture was the continued high rate of electric power output, but since this is probably due to increased residential consumption, it is not necessarily a valid gauge of industrial conditions. Consumer spending continues to run at a high rate, reflecting the optimistic impact of new record levels of personal income. Business capital expenditures likewise are holding up well.

The summer lull in industrial production may be expected to carry into August. This, of course, is an annual occurrence; hence, the downturn in conditions exist in a plant, such conditions usually show up in the finished product. Beverages from outside Michigan must be registered with the Department as do syrups, extracts, powders and concentrates used to manufacture soft drinks in the state. At this time of year, syrups are frequently used on fairgrounds, circus grounds and drive-ins. Littlefield says consumers can be assured that if artificial color, artificial flavor or a preservative is used, it is declared on the label. If the drink is artificially sweetened, the label must clearly show the fact with a warning statement that the drink is intended to be used by persons who must restrict their intake of ordinary sweets.

The same precautions are taken to assure the quality of frozen concentrates for beverages and juices. They also are subject to the provisions of the soft drink law. In Littlefield's opinion, the law and its enforcement benefits both manufacturers and consumers of non-alcoholic beverages in Michigan.

State's Soft Drink Law One Of The Stiffest

When a bottle or can of soft drink is opened in this state, the consumer has assurance the product is neither adulterated nor misbranded because of Michigan's soft drink law, one of the strictest in the nation.

Millions of bottles and cans of non-alcoholic beverages are consumed in the state each year. Through the efforts of the Michigan Department of Agriculture's foods and standards division and with the cooperation of industry, consumers have a product meeting quality and labeling standards in the opinion of Director G. S. McIntyre of the Department. The foods and standards division chief responsible for enforcement of the soft drink law is J. L. Littlefield.

All bottling plants are required to be licensed by the Department, and their operations are closely checked by inspectors to prevent adulteration and misbranding. Samples are often taken from production lines and submitted to the Department's laboratory for examination. If unsanitary conditions exist in a plant, such conditions usually show up in the finished product. Beverages from outside Michigan must be registered with the Department as do syrups, extracts, powders and concentrates used to manufacture soft drinks in the state. At this time of year, syrups are frequently used on fairgrounds, circus grounds and drive-ins. Littlefield says consumers can be assured that if artificial color, artificial flavor or a preservative is used, it is declared on the label. If the drink is artificially sweetened, the label must clearly show the fact with a warning statement that the drink is intended to be used by persons who must restrict their intake of ordinary sweets.

Choose Kuhl As Member Of FHAAC

Appointment of Alfred H. Kuhl of 3480 Fletcher Rd., Chelsea, as a member of the Farmers' Home Administration Area Committee was announced this week by Carl Robinson, the agency's county supervisor serving Washtenaw and Wayne counties.

Kuhl is director and vice-president of the Michigan Producers Dairy Co. and president of the first district of the Michigan Milk Producers' Assn. He is active in the Washtenaw County Farm Bureau and is chairman of his local group. Kuhl owns and operates a dairy farm near Chelsea. He is married and has a daughter.

Two other members make up the three-member committee which works with the county supervisor to see that the best possible use is made of the agency's farm credit service program consistent with local farmers' needs. The other two members are Guy Paul of Whitmore Lake and Albert F. Ruhlig of Dexter. Paul will serve as committee chairman during the next, or 1961 fiscal year.

Each member is appointed for a three-year term. Kuhl succeeds Laurel Breitenwisch of Manchester whose three-year term expired this year.

The committee determines the eligibility of individual applicants for all types of loans. It also reviews borrowers' progress and aids the county supervisor in adapting the agency's loan policies to conditions faced by farmers in this area. Members are selected and appointed so that, so far as possible, different areas or neighborhoods are represented.

The Farmers' Home Administration makes annual or intermediate term loans to farmers who need adequate funds to buy equipment and livestock, and longer term loans to build or repair houses and other essential farm buildings, and to purchase or improve land suitable for family-type operations. The local FHA office is located in Room 17 of the Washtenaw County Building in Ann Arbor.

Superintendent Attending State Conference

Educators from throughout the state are attending the new superintendents conference of the Michigan Association of School Administrators in Marquette, August 1-4. Dr. Clyde M. Campbell, MASA executive assistant, announced.

Themed "The Successful Superintendent at Work," the conclave is at Northern Michigan College.

Key speakers include Dr. Edgar L. Harden, president of Northern Michigan College, and Jean Worth, editor of the Escanaba Daily Press.

The four-day session centers around symposiums on such topics as: how to achieve curriculum improvement and how to achieve successful professional relationships. School finance, transportation, certification and the National Defense Education Act also is being discussed.

Presiding at the conference is James C. Covert, superintendent of Royal Oak public schools, president of the MASA.

Other officers include: Earl H. Place, St. Joseph, president-elect; Roy Bennett, Charlevoix, vice president; Russell Iabister, Plymouth, past-president; and Dr. E. Dale Kennedy, executive secretary of the Michigan Education Association, treasurer.

A department of the MEA, the MASA has a membership of more than 600 school administrators.

Returns From Week of Camping

Boy Scout Troop 781 sponsored by Our Lady of Good Counsel Church has returned from a week at the D-A Scout Ranch.

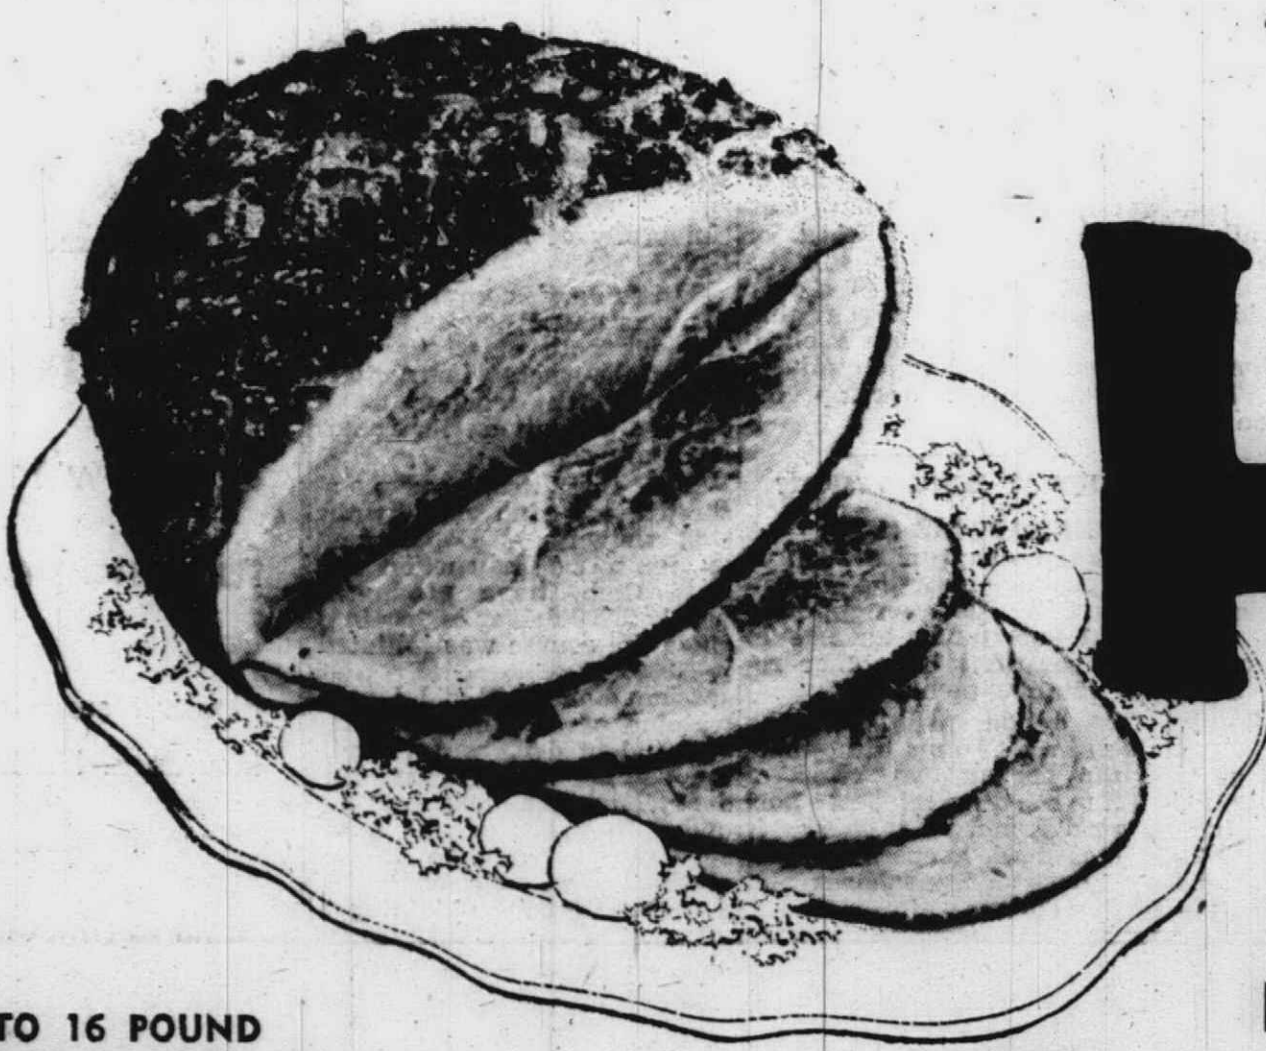

The troop was a year old in June, so there were many boys on their first camping trip. Everyone was kept busy during the long week working on second and first class advancement and merit badges.

By the end of the week, the troop had 24 boys making advancements. Ten boys achieved the rank of second class Scout while 11 were advanced to first class.

Three other Scouts, George Gardner, John Todd and John Park, completed work on merit badges toward the star scout rank.

The boys did their own cooking under the supervision of Joseph Caloia. Bud Smith was in charge of the boys' advancement, while Ed Kopenski took charge of all supplies at the camp.

The Scoutmaster, Andy Hruska, expressed his thanks to the men and to members of the troop committee for their effort on transportation and preparation.

King Richard beset on all sides by slashing, whirling blades cries out in the final scene of an exciting Shakespearean play, "A horse... a horse... my kingdom for a horse." The Plymouth Theater Guild workshop headquarters, a mile or so out from the city limits on Canton Center Rd., find themselves in a similar situation. Only the request is not for a HORSE. I say this quite loudly and with big capital letters so that we do not get any equine friends by return mail.

Rosemary Koiman, a Theater Guild Board member, informs me that their immediate need is for a shallow well pump. The workshop headquarters would enjoy slaking its thirst. Anyone having a used shallow well pump, please contact Rosemary at GL 3-3532. She will accept all wells with a well case well.

Out at Northland they're ringing all the bells for the pert, peppy appearance of Miss Betty White. Miss White will have the lead in one of last season's big Broadway hits, "Who Was That Lady?" Peter Lind Hayes and his wife, Mary Healy, played the leads in the New York production. Show deals with the farcical adventures of a chemistry professor. You'll enjoy the shenanigans that grace the stage out at Northland this week.

And remember, it's James Garner week coming up. Make those reservations early for the return engagement of "Mr. Maverick" on Aug. 9.

Last week's show at Northland, "The Gazebo," a comedy-mystery, has been getting a lot of mileage out on the summer theater circuits of Michigan. Reports have it that Sam Davis, our perspiring Theater Guild member, played the role of the Detective at the Grand Ledge Summer Playhouse. And Ken Cook, our other graduate to the ranks of the "pros", played in the "Gazebo" as the Coroner. Both of our Guild members had a mutual murder on their hands, but actually weeks apart and miles from each other... since Ken is saving the air artistically up at the Petoskey Summer Playhouse.

Our old buddy, Sam, has been working steadily all summer as a theatrical apprentice. He stage-managed "Bell, Book and Candle." If you remember, he was "Nicky" when the show played here a couple of seasons back. Sam had a small part in "Ladies' Night in a Turkish Bath." By the way, this show once played Chicago for a whole year under the title of "Good Night, Ladies." Maybe we should revive it for production in Plymouth. Let me assure you that it's a scream from start to finish. Sam also had a lead part in "I Am a Camera."

"I Am a Camera" is the Julie Harris show that won the Donaldson award for her as the best actress during the Broadway season of 1951-52. She played the part of the amoral Sally Bowles with such conviction that the critics shouted long and loud about her versatility as an actress. She had just completed a run as a petulant, lovable adolescent in "Member of the Wedding" the season before switching to a role steeped in connotations of sin.

Miss Harris is currently appearing at the Stratford Shakespearean Festival until Sept. 17 in "King John" and "Romeo and Juliet." Old George heartily recommends your visiting Stratford, Ont. to see Miss Harris as she enacts these rows with consummate perfection. I had the pleasure of talking with Miss Harris after her performance in "King John." My visit with her is in this issue of The Plymouth Mail. After talking with her backstage, I'm more convinced than ever that she will always be one of the great ladies of the American Stage.

Sidewalk Sale days are being held this week by the businessmen on Friday and Saturday. Phyllis Kelly, a ubiquitous Theater Guild member... (That's for sure) called to remind me that the Plymouth Theater Guild will have a sidewalk booth. Members will be selling something to eat while you poke around from store to store. Cotton candy, snow cones, popcorn

MEN IN SERVICE

Kenneth Gregory

Cadet Kenneth Gregory, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Gregory, 391 Sunset, is receiving six weeks of training at the Army Reserve Officer Training Corps summer camp at Fort Riley, Kan. The training is scheduled to be concluded July 29.

During this training Cadet Gregory is receiving practical experience and instruction in tactical, technical and administrative subjects, with special emphasis being placed on the duties of a second lieutenant.

The 20-year-old cadet is a 1957 graduate of Plymouth High School. He is a student at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Several Local Adventists Attend Camp

Several members of the Plymouth Seventh-day Adventist Church, 41233 E. Ann Arbor Trail, will attend the 92nd annual camp meeting of Michigan Adventists, held at Grand Ledge, starting Aug. 4.

This Saturday morning, Aug. 6, at 10:45 a.m., local Adventists will hear R.A. Anderson, Washington, D.C., secretary of the Ministerial Assn. of the denomination. Features of the 10-day session include a full line of services beginning with the early morning devotional service at 6:30 a.m. and climaxing with the evening preaching service at 7:30 p.m. Leading church officials from the International headquarters of the church, Washington, D.C., will be among the guest speakers. The Battle Creek Tabernacle Choir will appear during the week, along with other Michigan choral groups.

At Sabbath School services this Saturday, at 9 a.m., Plymouth Adventist members will join in a program which will feature the study program of the church and a pageant of the church's mission program in foreign lands.

The Grand Ledge campsite is a "tent city" which houses over 3,000 inhabitants for the duration of the church convalescence. Thousands of others commute by automobile to attend the sessions. This temporary city has well laid out streets and avenues and "house" numbers for the cabins, tents and trailers. Traffic police and watchmen are on 24-hour duty.

A modern cafeteria serves food to the campers, while a well stocked grocery store makes it possible for those in attendance to prepare their own meals if they so wish. A large display of Bibles and other Christian literature is available at the Book and Bible House on the camp grounds.

The main auditorium seats 10,000, while the building for youth and junior members will accommodate 2,500. Smaller children attend meetings in large canvas pavilions, and are supervised on the camp playgrounds during planned recreational periods.

Each Friday evening at sunset the Seventh-day Adventists usher in their day of worship which lasts until sunset Saturday. No work or commercial activity will be carried on at the 58 acre campgrounds during that time, in accord with Biblical instructions on which Adventists base their worship beliefs.

DOES IT RING TWICE?

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — A suburban electronics firm is now producing for the government a customer-operated postal sub-station for use in super markets and other retail establishments. The vendor sells three denominations of stamps, stamp books, two sizes of stamped envelopes, post cards and stationery. It weighs mail, keeps a running account of purchases and makes change.

PHS Teacher Attends Driver Training Institute

Chester Deardorff of Emerson Junior High School and James W. Cook of Plymouth High School were among 46 state school teachers awarded all-expense scholarships from the Automobile Club of Michigan to attend the 31st Driver Training Institute at the University of Michigan, Aug. 1-12.

Satisfactory completion of the accredited course, which includes both classroom and behind-the-wheel instruction, qualified the teacher as a driver education instructor for state schools.

The Institutes, co-sponsored twice each year by the host university, Department of Public Instruction and Auto Club, have graduated nearly 3,000 driver instructors since the course was initiated in 1939. Graduates of this session alone will aid in the training of an estimated 10,000 student drivers during the coming school year. Under Michigan law, persons under 18 years of age must successfully complete an accredited driver education course before obtaining a driver's license. Almost 110,000 Michigan high school students take the course yearly.

Director of the Institute is A. A. Vezzani of the University staff. Course instructors and lecturers will include representatives of the Michigan State Police, Michigan Department of State, Department of Public Instruction, the University and Auto Club. Augustus Caesar is said to have declared on his deathbed: "I found Rome brick and I leave it marble."

Hi!

Just thought we'd drop a line to all of you college bound gals before the rush of college life snows you under.

Jacobson's has set up a college board, and we as members would love to help you with your new fall selections. We represent schools all over the country so you can be sure that no matter what you choose, it'll be in style wherever you go.

If you haven't guessed by now, we are really excited about Jacobson's new fall outfits, and we're sure you will be too.

Hope to see you soon.

Sidewalk Days Feature Curbstone Bargains, Fun and Hilarity

Plymouth merchants — instance of bargain seldom idle in the field of merchandising and good promotions — are at it again. The latest festivities, scheduled for all day Friday and Saturday, will comprise the annual "Sidewalk Sale," an old fashioned fun for which Plymouth businessmen and the Chamber of Commerce are fast becoming famous. The Sidewalk Sale this week-end will closely resemble the Sidewalk hilarities of a year ago, with one exception. A year ago, the Sidewalk Bazaar was limited to only one day's duration. This time, with merchants reflecting on last year's high success, the Sidewalk Sale has been extended to two full days, ample time for merchants and customers alike to have loads of fun. Coordinated by the Chamber of Commerce once again, the Sidewalk Sale will take on a carnival atmosphere from opening until closing both days. Merchants will move their bargain counters outside onto the sidewalks for adequate display space of merchandise "too hot to handle inside." The event is still another in a lengthening series planned by Plymouth merchants to give local shoppers a change of pace and to put still more fun in shopping. Last spring — as in past years — it was "Midnight Madness" that intrigued thousands upon thousands of shoppers to downtown Plymouth. The Sidewalk Sale Friday and Saturday is figured to do the same. See you at the curbstone!

Don't Worry - Fences Aren't Unneighborly

Fences aren't unneighborly. They're as American as huckleberry pie. And, whereas they were once erected for protection, nowadays their purpose is to define property lines or areas on the property or simply to beautify it.

No country has originated as many styles of fences. The rail fence appears in one version or another from New England to the Northwest. Michigan has its barriers of tree stumps, Colorado its pole corrals of aspen or pine, Louisiana and South Carolina their ironwork fences.

Picket, post and rail and board fences now are popular from coast to coast. More modern are basketweave and louvered fences. Rustic pickets are a lower version of the old high stockade and, of course, there is always steel or other metal mesh.

Most of these fences now are available in prefabricated sections which greatly simplify installation. Fence posts still will have to be sunk and riders attached before the sections can be set in place.

Fencing should be appropriate to the house. Equally important is the amount of upkeep that the fence will require annually. If there's too much gardening to allow time for painting, then a fence with a natural finish certainly is preferable.

Before buying any sort of fence, certain points should be investigated. If the property is to be bounded by a fence, be sure that you know where the boundary lines run. If there is any question, it's worth calling in a surveyor or engineer to establish corners as well as property lines and to set property line stakes.

Above all when a fence is being erected along a property line, it is wise to build the fence on your own side and inside your property line. If the fence is to be owned jointly with a neighbor, the property line will satisfy both of you.

Equally important is the investigation of zoning ordinances or community restrictions on fencing. New homes built in some of the new developments even include restrictions on fencing in the deed for the property. Visit the town offices, building department or zoning office to find out what regulations exist.

If there are no restrictions on fences, general custom sets the height of fences to 6 feet between neighbors. In some localities, the maximum height is, by common consent, 4 feet.

Every fence has a best side. It isn't essential that the best side face the neighboring properties. Fences along the side or rear of the property which are to have planting against them on your side might well be built with the best side facing outward. However, it is customary to have a front fence built so that the finished side faces the street.

Consider Hard Maple

The Maple Flooring Manufacturers Assn. is the authority for Northern Hard Maple, Beech and Birch flooring grading practice. The association publishes the official grading rules and many technical booklets, including guide specifications for floor installation procedure.

MFMA, according to the announcement, also conducts continuing laboratory research in the testing of floor finishes passing the rigors of this activity, exclusive with the association, all floor finishes pass the rigid examinations in the independent laboratory of Foster D. Snell, Inc., New York City, a re endorsed and so listed by MFMA in regularly revised and issued bulletins.

The association listed the following technical literature as available free to architects, school officials and the general public:

- "Controlling Expansion of Hard Maple Floors"—Research Booklet.
- "Specification Manual"—A.T.A. File Size—Complete MFMA Technical Booklet, including the official MFMA Grading Rules.
- "How to Lay a Lifetime Floor of Northern Hard Maple"—Folder for the professional and amateur floor layer.
- "Finishing Northern Hard Maple Flooring the MFMA Way"—List of MFMA approved floor finishes included.
- "Please Don't"—Suggestions for the installation and care of Northern Hardwood Flooring.

Patching Unending Job

Patching is a chore that is always on hand. We are a patch, particularly a hand-sewn one, proudly, for patching is as much an art as weaving or knitting.

The choice of patching by machine or hand will depend largely on the article and the material. Machine patching is hardly a timesaver but it is sturdier than hand sewing. Unlike machine stitching, hand-sewn patches for underarm repair and on woolen clothing will be almost unnoticeable.

When a hole is large enough so that a darn would be conspicuous as well as too weak, it's time to patch. Use material from the garment, right side outward, even if it's necessary to snip from the inside of a hem or pocket. If necessary, wash the patch with soap and baking soda to fade it to matching color. Cut away worn portions of the hole or tear to make a square, rectangle or circle, and then cut the patch one inch larger all around. Threads in the patch should run in the same direction and any pattern should match that of the garment. Clip corners of the hole about 1/4 inch diagonally and turn in the raw edges before basting the patch in place. The raw edges of the patch also should be turned under and basted. Pressing is recommended before final stitching of the patch.

To make patches less conspicuous on woolen clothing, darning is better than hemming. The hole is prepared for the patch as it would be in any material. The short running stitch used for darning should be made with thread that is taken from or matches the material, along each side and overlapping at the corners. Do not turn under the raw edges of a woolen patch but finish them by overcasting.

Machine stitching is practical for patching sheets and dish towels, play clothes and denims. However, bath towels and other articles of soft, thick material are better done by hand. Hand patching and mending is softer on any article than machine stitching, although it is no equal to the professionally done weaving or invisible mending usually preferred when an accident occurs to something new, however expensive this work may be.

Life of Leather Is Lengthened

After 50 years of research, testing and experimenting, the perfectionist French have finally come up with a solution to the age old problem of how to clean, polish, rejuvenate and preserve the matchless beauty of fine leather shoes, handbags, and luggage. At long last they have put their unconditional approval on a polishing agent developed by the Laboratoires Saphir of France, and released it to leading department stores and specialty shops in Europe and the United States.

Saphir, named after its creator, had a six year testing period in the United States in the handicraft studios of Lucille De Paris, specialists in alligator and other fine reptile handbags. There it was discovered that the smooth, creamy polish not only cleaned and polished, but brought out new beauty with age for both alligator and calf.

Credit really should be shared with the French shoe industry, for it was the leaders of that industry who brought their problem to the Laboratoires, and requested a polisher that would be non-streak when applied and but fed, and that would clean, renovate, restore the finish of fine leather shoes, and also enhance the original color. Later, the shoe manufacturers of France were joined in their appeal by the French handbag and leather goods industry. It soon became not only a challenge, but an actual necessity for the Laboratoires to produce the needed leather goods industries are world famous.

BUTTERED CORN ON THE COB
At Home: Brush each ear with melted real butter; season with salt, pepper; wrap in a damp paper towel. Place on square of Super-Strength Alcoa Wrap. Pull foil close around corn; seal tightly. Place on Super-Strength Alcoa Wrap. Super-Strength helps prevent rips even when pulled taut around corn... holds in juices during cooking.
At Picnic: Grill corn over medium coals 20-25 minutes, turning frequently.

DOUBLE-DECKER HAMBURGERS
Combine 1 1/2 pounds ground round steak, 1/2 cup cold water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper; stir together. Place in Super-Strength Alcoa Wrap. Place one Super-Strength Alcoa Wrap. Place one spread patty in center of each square. Spread patties with ketchup, stuffed olive slices. Top with remaining 4 patties. Spread with butter; insert toothpicks through center of each patty; hang onion rings over toothpicks. Bring edges of Super-Strength Alcoa Wrap up around bottom patty in cup shape. Place patty cups on grill. Grill over medium coals 35-40 minutes. Serve Double-Decker in Super-Strength Alcoa Wrap cups.

GETTING AROUND

When the milkman found the huge snake coiled on the doorstep of a Pinellas Park, Florida, house, he naturally called the police. Police

Sgt. Wilbur Stiegler came quickly but didn't want to damage the house by shooting the snake. Instead, he got a piece of strong lumber, crept up on the reptile, and whammed it one. Someone in that neighborhood is now minus a big, toy plastic snake.

We've spotted them in Brentwood, California, and Steger, Illinois, and Kent County, Rhode Island, among other places, so we'd like to warn everybody, everywhere, to please remove dangling dice, baby shoes, miniature monkeys, and other gadgets from their rearview mirrors. Aside from their doubtful aesthetic appeal, they add to the normal hazards of modern motoring—and besides, don't forget it is illegal to have them hanging there.

Building Inspector A. A. Steele recently tagged the new addition to the Beverly Hills, Michigan, firehouse for not fireproofing the doors between office quarters and the garage which houses the town's fire truck. The abashed city authorities have promised to correct this violation of their own building code.

When the time came for breaking ground for the construction of a bank branch in Sandy Springs, Georgia, officers planted silver dollars all over the lot and then invited the boys and girls of the area to come and dig up as many as they could find in five minutes. It worked fine, too, since 500 youngsters turned up an awful lot of dirt. Jimmy Clay, we understand, found the 1924 dollar that entitled him to a brand-new, shiny red bicycle.

Warner Rosenschein, of Oakland, New Jersey, commutes on his own railroad. He laid his own cedarwood ties on a bed of crushed stone and then got himself a small coach with push-button controls. He gets from his hilltop house to the street in four minutes flat. It cost him $1,500, but it sure beats walking.

Carolynn Blake writes to tell us about a patio party in Salina, Kansas, that was attended by an uninvited guest. A baby squirrel, it seems, fell from a tree and landed in the salad. By the time the tiny scamp had got himself out, it was the best-tossed salad anyone around there had ever seen.

A Salisbury, New York, correspondent tells us not to worry about people being replaced by computers. One of the machines in her office, she said, was asked to translate "The spirit is willing but the flesh is weak." Faster than the speed of sound the robot came up with "The whiskey is good but the meat is spoiled."

"He's busy right now landscaping the estate."

WHAT GRASSES TO PLANT AND WHERE

These are the grasses "most likely to succeed," but local conditions vary... if in doubt, check with your State Agricultural Department.

- Zone A: Kentucky bluegrass, Merion bluegrass, Bent, Creeping red fescue, Illahee or Chewings fescue, reedtop.
- Zone B: Bermuda grass, Zoysia, reedtop, ryegrass; use bluegrasses in upland sections.
- Zone C: Bermuda grass, St. Augustine grass, Zoysia and ryegrasses.
- Zone D: Kentucky and Merion bluegrasses, Bent, Illahee and Creeping red fescues. Water well at start and irrigate thereafter in this region.
- Zone E: Bent, Kentucky and Merion bluegrasses, Illahee and Creeping red fescue.
- Zone F: Bluegrasses, Bermuda grass, Zoysia, St. Augustine grass, ryegrasses, and reedtop.

To Build A Good Lawn

come up green and flourishing in the spring of 1961

Points to bear in mind

The worst is now over, but from here on, bear these points in mind:

- 1) Good seed makes a good lawn. Lawn grass seeds distributed nationally by reputable companies are cleaned of all weed seeds, are scientifically blended to do the best possible job, and when they are given a good start, will yield a lawn of fine, narrow-bladed grass from the start, with no bare spots (where annual grasses have died out) to be filled in later on.
- 2) A good lawn requires between 500 and 600 grass plants per square foot, and to get these plants you'll have to sow far more than the 500 or so seeds to the square foot. Seeds may sprout and die because they dried out within a few hours. Or some may be accidentally buried and won't germinate until it is uncovered and exposed to light, or other accidents may happen. Usually the manufacturer has a recommendation on the box as to how many square feet the contents will cover. If you are in doubt, consult your seedsman.
- 3) Seed may be hand-sown, but we suggest that you buy a mechanical spreader.
- 4) Water, water, and keep on watering. Keep the seedbed always moist. As the grass sprouts, water longer each time so that the moisture penetrates more deeply. After the grass has been up a week, water only once a day (unless it is very hot, dry weather) but soak the soil well. Don't depend on rain; it may only wet the top.
- 5) When seedlings have reached 2 1/2 inches, it is time to start mowing. Set your mower to cut the grass at 1 1/2 inches, if your lawn is bluegrass or fescue. Set it at 1 inch if you have Bent-grass which thrives better when closely clipped. (Be sure mower blades are sharp, for dull ones tear and injure the grass.) Rake up clippings, and also leaves, or they'll mat and kill grass.

6) Feeding is of the greatest importance. If you buy a food specially formulated for lawns, you can't go wrong. We recommend that the fall feeding be done with a fast-acting formula. For the feeding before planting, use a fast-acting formula, too.

7) In conclusion, let us sound a warning against having too much lawn! The best is one which is small enough to be maintained with ease.

Now Is The Time

Seed it and feed it now and it will

FROM NOW until mid-September is the easiest and most painless time to start building a lawn (mid-October in warmer regions). Just follow Nature's own routine: Seeds ripen in summer and drop to the ground, lying there until favorable sprouting conditions arrive. With grass, this is usually when the soil is good and warm from hot days (up to 95°), while nights are becoming longer and cooler (55° to 60°) and dew is getting heavier. Also, autumn rains will soon come to provide burgeoning roots with plenty of moisture, assuring deep penetration before cold weather slows down growth.

Annual weeds, sprouting from seeds present in the soil, will die with winter's coming; in spring, your already-seeded lawn will start vigorous growth early enough to shade out or choke out most weeds which may come along.

Start with the soil

Turn the soil with a spade or plow it with a garden tractor or rototiller to a depth of about 8 inches. At the same time you can incorporate plant foods. Remove all stones, sticks and other debris so that the grass roots will have no impediment to their growth and also so that normal capillary action (moisture rising from below) can readily take place.

Thoroughly crumble the soil. Then roughly level it and finally, rake it smooth in one direction, then rake it again at right angles to the first raking. (If your soil is acid, add pulverized limestone at the rate of 5 lbs. per 100 sq. ft. before raking, so that it will be mixed with the soil.) After sowing seeds, lightly tamp or roll the area to make sure that they are in contact with the soil. Do not cover seeds, for they will germinate only if they have light. The topsoil must remain open, too, so that water or rain will be admitted and won't wash seeds into low spots.

Don't try to plant lawns on steep banks. Not only will the seeds wash out, but the banks will erode badly; later on, too, you'll find mowing a bank is a terrible chore. Instead, keep lawns to fairly level areas and plant shrubs on the banks, or use a ground cover.

New Kraft Barbecue Sauce simmers real cook-out flavor right into the meat!

When it starts to simmer, the flavors really speak up. This is the barbecue sauce that gives you the flavor you cook outdoors to get. The Kraft cooks made it that way—with nineteen herbs and spices. And once it's on the fire, those simmering spice flavors seep right in and keep the meat juicy. Try new Kraft Barbecue Sauce in your kitchen, too; cooks who do say that it brings its real cook-out flavor right indoors—and what could be better than that?

Scientific liquid medication works fast to heal dogs' itch-sores

Stops scratching in minutes
SULFOFENE is an amazing scientific medication that kills fungus spores picked up in weeds and grass, the cause of scratching in 7 out of every 10 cases. Discovered by a famous veterinarian, Dr. A. C. Merrick—sulfofene works almost instantly to stop fungus itch (often called "summer itch," "mane," "eczema," or "hot spots"). So soothing, the most frenzied itching is relieved instantly. Quickly promotes healing; open sores heal over. Scales disappear and hair grows back!

Guaranteed to work or money back! Used by kennels and leading veterinarians. At all drug stores, leading pet shops and pet supply departments. Only 96¢. Save money with the new large economy size $1.79.

What a blessing to be able to trust in the wonderful germicidal protection Norforms can give you. Norforms have a highly perfected new formula that releases antiseptic and germicidal ingredients with long-lasting action. The exclusive new base melts at body temperature, forming a powerful protective film that guards (but will not harm) the delicate tissues.

And Norforms' desirent protection has been tested in a hospital clinic and found to be more effective than anything it had ever used. Norforms eliminate (rather than cover up) embarrassing odors, yet have no "medicine" or "disinfectant" odor themselves.

And what convenient! These small feminine suppositories are so easy and convenient to use. Just insert—no apparatus, mixing or measuring. They're greaseless and they keep in any climate.

Volunteer fire fighting in today's conditions has become a highly skilled, technical operation.

Volunteer Firemen

leaves behind a hazardous residue of half-filled paint cans tucked away in an airtight closet.

To combat these and other factors, volunteers are waging an intensified campaign of home inspection. But this is no simple matter. The volunteer has to be trained how to do it. When he comes to your home, he's likely to have 72 items on his check list.

All this adds up to time. Members who work days try to make their house calls and give their lectures at night; the night-shift boys do it in the daytime. Both do their homework nights, or whenever they can squeeze it in.

A minor headache is the urge people have for turning out and clogging the roads when the siren goes. It will still sound, for legal reasons; but more and more departments are devising special systems to alert the firemen. Some are using elaborate multiple telephone hookups. More popular are UHF broadcasting systems, which activate a set in the fireman's home in 30 seconds. He is given explicit information, so he can be prepared when he gets to the scene.

Time was, when the Volunteer Fire Department was an all-male enterprise; but no longer. The women's auxiliaries are becoming increasingly popular and active around the country. Usually they are composed of the wives or girl friends of firemen who back up their men by providing the coffee and the box lunches, doing traffic duty, and helping in fund-raising. There are also a good many of them on the rescue squads now, including quite a number of registered nurses. Several states have legislation pending to admit women as regular volunteers.

In many towns departments are preparing for the future by training boys under 21 as junior auxiliaries who will later join the company as regular volunteers.

Brighton, Michigan, has one outstanding such auxiliary. After a wicked tornado, it was the boys who handled the traffic. They also rescued three children who were trapped, and saved the life of the father by artificial respiration. Recently, they bought a red jeep with their own earnings.

Ben Franklin, who organized his neighbors into the first volunteer company, would no doubt be deeply gratified to see how his idea has caught on.

"It is a grass-roots effort, devoid of pretentiousness, cynicism, and phony welfare-ism," according to Arthur O. Sharron of Duquesne University who has made a study of the volunteer fire company. "It represents the basic honesty of the rank and file."

just taking care of her to accommodate a friend.

On the other hand, I am more than resigned to being her mother when her childishness manifests itself in less socially fracturing ways. As when, for instance, she has just thrown a double in parades—or learned that there will be no school on Columbus Day—and she sways from side-to-side in a forty-five-degree arc and exclaims with incredulous joy, "Oi, Kub-fooy, Kub-fooy! I'm fainting!"

Nor do I feel like disowning her when I sit in Harry's and my bedroom of an evening, taking up herms in the dresses my daughter inherits from the daughter of a man in Harry's office, and hear the sound of voices from Cora's room, where Harry is sitting on the edge of the bed giving ear to Cora's version of My Day.

Cora's voice sounds like a very small but quickly flowing brook, and, like a brook, it races on without pause; but every once in a while there is a far-distant train whistle or fog horn, and that is Harry's heavier tone, interposing briefly with question or reply. I cannot usually distinguish the words of this exchange—they are just alternations of sound—but once in a while a fragment will come in clearly.

CORA: There was this boy and Daddy he had the most wonderful...
HARRY: Not that... There was a boy...
CORA: A boy. There was this boy and Daddy he had the most wonderful...

The sound of voices reminds me that just as some noises are so high and thin that only dogs can hear them, so, inversely, there are courteous requests that dogs and adults can hear but which are completely inaudible to children.

When all my good-natured—nay, positively fluting!—attempts to communicate with Cora have drawn a blank, I have to fall back on the coarse techniques of the drill sergeant.

"Cora Fitzgibbon! You get down here this minute and set the table!"

A languid and unheeding football echoes on the stair, and then Cora comes into the kitchen with a countenance I can only describe as looking like a swamp. It has that same unpleasant calm.

"You don't have to get so mean," she says. "You never asked me."

sation; and I said to Harry at breakfast this morning that I am beginning to get fed up with these volumes. They are always written by a class of people I call Measurers, and whether they come from Madison Avenue or from the loftier purlieus of a university, Measurers always find everybody alike because they want to. They pretend to be shocked at conformity, but it is only a pretense. I am not going to read any more of their books, no matter how well spoken of. Measurers are an evil influence. By directing everyone's attention so steadily and exclusively to what can be measured ("What do you think of Beowulf's Cake Mix?")—"Whom do you like for President?")—they keep people from being sufficiently aware of what cannot be measured.

Who can tabulate the quiet courage of the man who dropped into the ranks of the Permanent Talented Unemployed and had to sell his house? At least to the outside world, he bore his disaster bravely. Who can measure the influence of a good teacher? Who can delineate the sense of loss and longing of a child whose father dies suddenly of a heart attack at the age of thirty-six?

Conformity? To be sure. A great dreary hundra of physical comfort. A vast and cheerless steppes of pinch pleats, dresses, and political sameness.  Political sameness.  The talk, though obviously popular and profitable, just creates more of what is noticeably deplored.

The other answer to conformity is enthusiasm for Measurers. According to the "real" and "factual," they inevitably and unavoidably distort; but though they are no doubt kindly people who spend a lot of time with the children, they must go. Their vacant places are accorded for playwrights and novelists.

Having thus disburdened myself of a certain amount of hostility for Measurers, I rose from the table and accompanied Harry to the front door. After I had kissed him (my unmeasurable treasure) with perhaps a shade more appreciation and tenderness than usual, I said, "Off you go, Planner. And don't let any graphs grow under your feet."

August 27th—Eureka! The weather has broken at last and the long-range forecast is that the dog days are over and the climate is back to normal again. Heard the first kayoid last night snoring heavily, like a drunken snore, against the buoyant chorus of the crickets, and that is supposed to mean frost in six weeks.

What's So Bad About The Sun?

Be Careful—That Deep Coat of Tan May Cost More Than It's Worth

BY HYMAN GOLDSTEIN, M.D.

GENERALLY, exposure to the sun in reasonable amounts is not likely to do you any harm. But do not be in too much of a hurry to acquire that deep coat of summer tan. Direct sunshine, in big doses, is a dangerous thing to play around with, and the harm it can do you far outweighs any possible good.

"But I can lie for hours in the sun, and it really makes me feel wonderful—bakes out every kink." Haven't you often heard people say that?

The people who live right under the sun in tropical countries have no such illusions. Medically, the sun contributes one important element to good health, namely, vitamin D, which is also contained, of course, in various foods.

"There may be other beneficial effects of sunshine," says Dr. Benjamin Spock, a leading pediatrician, "but if there are, they haven't been discovered."

And ironically, tanning too rapidly has the effect of depriving the body of the one benefit the sun is capable of conferring. The reason the skin becomes tanned is to protect the body from the effects of too much sun. The tan is actually a pigment which prevents the rays from penetrating, and a quick tan thus keeps out the vitamin D.

In "working," as they say, on a quick tan you first of all run the risk of sunburn. A severe sunburn is as dangerous as a first- or second-degree burn caused by fire. In many cases, the blisters resulting become infected and leave permanent scars. Further, a deep tan too swiftly acquired may dry up the skin's natural oils, causing it to toughen and become rough. Medical authorities have long suspected that this skin roughness may be one of the causes of skin cancer. Overexposure to the sun may aggravate certain skin disorders, too. Some medicines are apt to make the skin abnormally sensitive to sunlight. It is dangerous, for example, to be exposed to a hot sun after taking sleeping pills or sedative drugs.

Dr. Herman Goodman, writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association, reports several cases of severe headache and vomiting caused by taking aspirin just before or during sun-bathing. Many of the so-called wonder drugs also cause an unfavorable reaction to sunlight.

ALARMING as the results of over-exposure may be, it would be foolish and unnecessary to let them scare you out of sun-bathing altogether. In fact, a few diseases such as acne vulgaris, psoriasis and some varieties of eczema, tuberculosis, and certain skin ulcers are helped by moderate exposure.

But just don't hurry that vacation tan. Don't cook for more than fifteen minutes at a time without a break. Keep alert for pinkness of the skin or any feeling of undue warmth on the exposed part of your body. Those are danger signals warning you that you've had enough sun for the day. Antisunburn lotions and creams are helpful, especially if you take a small dose of sun first and then apply them, and if you remember that they must be reapplied after swimming or being rubbed off.

A tan can be handsome—but take it easy.

This summer, stay 15° cooler with Kaiser Aluminum ShadeScreen, the amazing new screen that keeps hot sun out, lets cool breezes in. It screens, shades and cools all at the same time. No harsh glare or sun-fading...no direct heat rays...provides insect protection. And, because ShadeScreen is aluminum, it can't rust, requires little maintenance. needed $2,000 for a down payment on a new pumper. He got 20 men to give him $200 apiece on his personal note. Then he took the money to the bank, bought long-term government bonds, gave those to his donors who tore up his notes, and he was in business. Some volunteers, in desperation, have been known to get up high-stake, under-the-counter blackjack games. While such devices are frowned upon, there is a feeling that the end justifies the means.

A volunteer fireman today faces a host of new headaches. When an industry moves to the suburbs, it may bring with it new chemicals or gases. What are the special fire hazards? How do you combat them? With the building of atomic power plants, another unfamiliar area opens up. The International Fire Chiefs are now at work with the Atomic Energy Commission to develop standards for training, plans, and procedures.

There are new dangers in the home, too. It seldom occurs to anyone that when you load a new electric broiler, dishwasher, power tool, and stereo hi-fi onto a tired wiring system, you're asking for trouble. Then there's the "paint-it-yourself" craze which too often

How long are a Frenchman's legs?

The answer is that Frenchmen's legs come in an assortment of sizes—just like everyone else's. Some Frenchmen have long legs. Some have short. All Frenchmen fit comfortably in a Simca (five at a time) because it's designed that way. With plenty of headroom, hiproom, legroom. Full-size foam rubber seats. Four doors and a big trunk, too. Simca, in fact, skimps only on gasoline—which explains, in part, why Simca is one of France's largest selling five-passenger sedans. And also one of America's favorite economy imports with more, more and more people.

Now! 4 Onion Dressings no one can buy

The very first onion dressings
...make them with this new GOOD SEASONS MIX!

Good Seasons Onion Dressing. So different, so delicious. A light, fresh dressing with an herb-epice base, flecks of sweet, red peppers, and a provocative touch of onion. Flavorful, but never sharp! Takes just seconds to mix. Easy directions are on the Good Seasons envelope. You combine your favorite oil, vinegar and a little water with the Mix. The water, or a substitute liquid, makes the blend smoother. (A continental chef's secret!) You can use many substitutes, vary the dressing to your own special taste. See the recipes below for delicious suggestions.

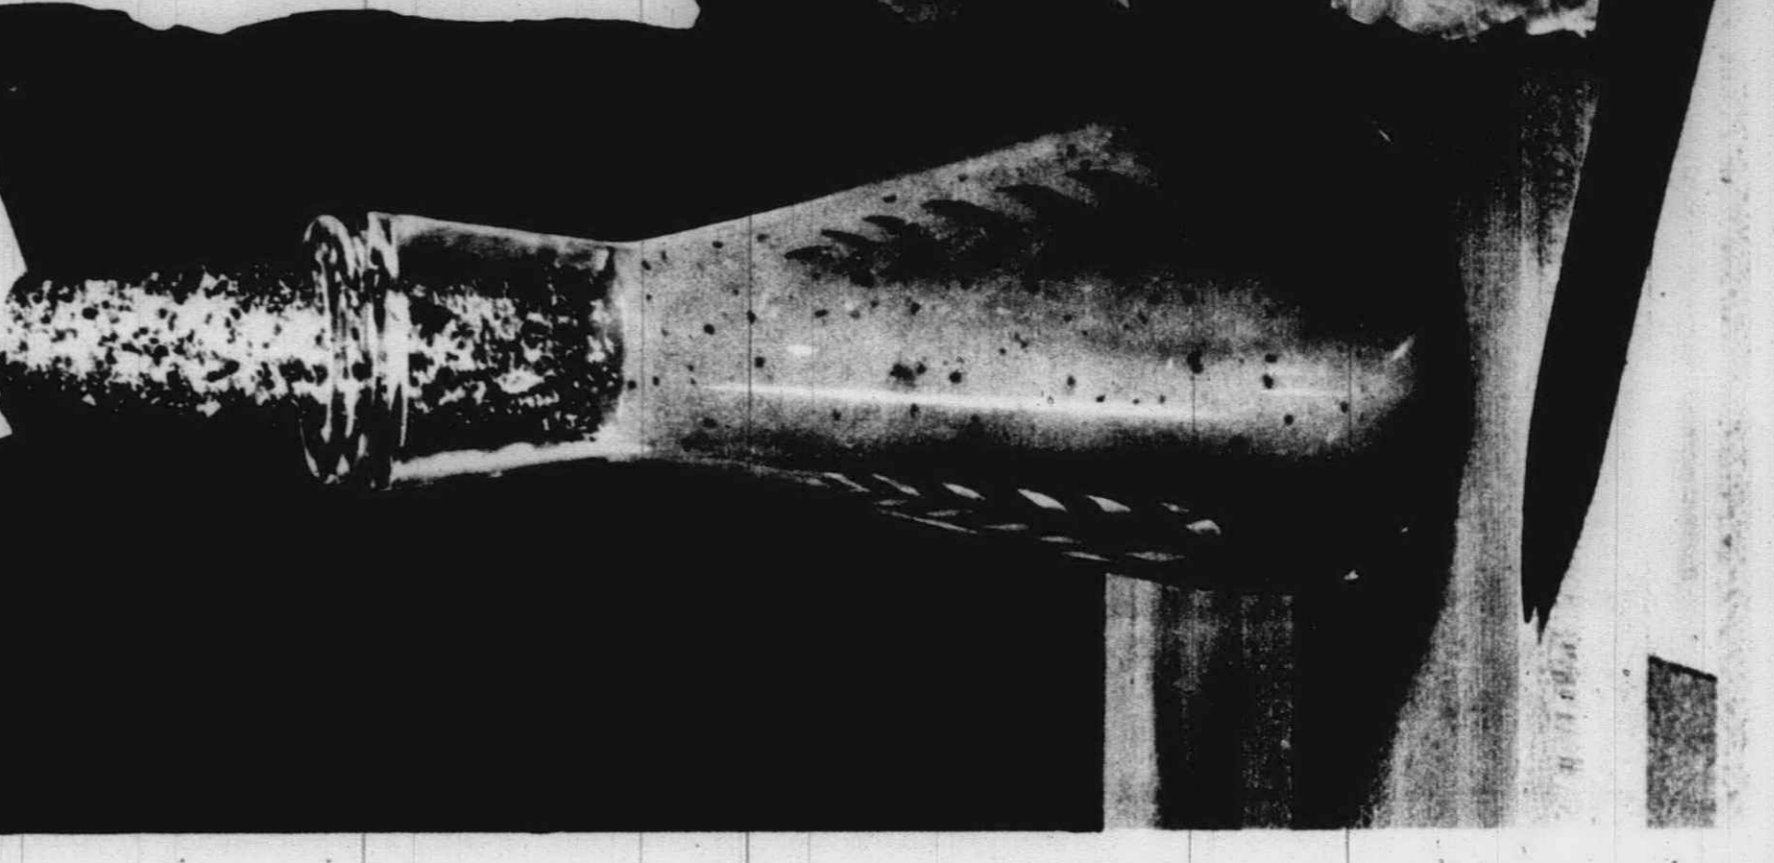

Creamy Onion Dressing for Cole Slaw. Prepare the Good Seasons Dressing but substitute either sour cream or mayonnaise for the water. This dressing, stirred into shredded cabbage salads, ends all that teary business of chopping onions. And the flavor is evenly distributed, subtle.

Onion-Orange Dressing. In making the dressing, use orange juice instead of water. New and very good on all fruit salads. Or, on a green salad that has either orange sections or canned mandarin oranges (so easy), and a sprinkle of blue cheese chunks.

Tomato-Onion Dressing with Sweet Pickle. Substitute chili sauce or catsup for the water. Final touch: add 1 tablespoon chopped sweet pickle. A smooth and zesty dressing, to brighten green salads, sea food, cottage cheese.

Get the new Good Seasons crust, with measurements marked, where you buy the 7 Mixes: Italian, Classic, Garlic, Cheese-Garlic, Onion, Bleu Cheese, Exotic Herbs.

Typical volunteers—lieutenant is a telephone company employe and fireman is a student at a local college.

WHEN A GASOLINE truck overturned and burst into flames near the crossroads hamlet of Ceres, California, it was the volunteers who saved the town from destruction.

They emptied their last three gallons of foam onto the burning gasoline, holding the fire in check until help arrived from nearby departments. Almost every day somewhere in the United States, our million or so volunteer firemen, organized into nearly 20,000 companies, perform a similar vital service for their communities. In addition to their fire engines, many volunteers operate rescue trucks, too, with oxygen tanks and respirators, to rush to the side of victims of heart attack, suffocation, choking, electric shock, and other critical emergencies.

On a recent Christmas Eve, volunteers at North Bellmore, Long Island, were called from traffic duty at St. Raphael's Church to give first aid to an elderly woman who had collapsed. Upon arrival, they found she had been given up for dead. Using their new electric inhalator for the first time, they brought her back to consciousness.

Besides these more spectacular activities, they have a lot of mundane duties to perform, such as inspecting schools, homes and industries, and giving public talks on fire prevention. They are usually leaders in all civic affairs and often spearhead the fund drives. Although they are nonpolitical as to party, they exert considerable influence in town matters.

Volunteer Firemen are still living with a reputation which they may have earned in earlier, more happy-go-lucky days of being a crowd of "good-time Charlies," in it mainly for is that volunteer fire fighting has become a highly-skilled, highly-technical avocation, demanding many hours of homework and specialized instruction. There are training schools now in 39 states. Courses are going on at the rate of 12 a week. The average course is 60 hours, and the things a fireman has to learn would easily fill a big, fat book.

Our new suburban areas would be dangerously short on fire protection if it weren't for their volunteers. Many new communities are handicapped by blind or incompleting streets; a lot have no water systems yet, or hydrants. The volunteers often meet this situation by adding pumps which carry their own auxiliary tanks. In some places they have drilled a system of controlled, spaced water-wells, for emergency supply.

Many towns cannot yet afford a paid department. If they'd had to wait for cash in hand before they had a fire department, some of them might have burned down by now.

A Volunteer Department is costly enough. First there's the firehouse—no mean item at today's prices. Then there's the equipment. A pumper may cost $20,000; a hook and ladder $30,000; a rescue truck $15 to $20,000; all in all, the equipment bill may run not far under $50,000. Luckily, the volunteers' credit is brassbound, for they are a membership corporation of responsible citizens.

To get up the needed funds, many a town has depended on the self-starting resourcefulness of its volunteers. Beyond the customary carnivals, the annual ball—all usually staged to raise badly needed funds. What many people may not realize

GRILLED CHICKEN

To Prepare: 5 min. To Grill: About 25 min.
Lemon Basting Sauce
3 broiler chickens, 1 1/2 lbs. each, ready-to-cook weight, cut in halves

- Clean, rinse, and pat the chicken dry with absorbent paper.
- Place chicken, cut side down, on greased grill or in a greased steak broiler 6 in. from coals. Grill, turning and brushing frequently with sauce, until tender.

For Lemon Basting Sauce (about 2 cups)—Melt 1/4 cup butter in a small heavy saucepan. Stir in 1/2 to 1/3 cup lemon juice, 1/2 cup hot water, few drops Tabasco, and a mixture of 2 teaspoons paprika, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon black pepper, and 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard. Mix until thoroughly blended.

BARBECUE PIT POTATOES

Paré 4 large baking potatoes and cut each lengthwise into 6 or 8 chunks. Place on a large square of heavy aluminum foil. Brush potatoes with melted butter and sprinkle with salt and black pepper. Bring corners of foil together and gently squeeze edges to seal; place on grill. Shift package occasionally on grill to insure even cooking. Cook about 55 min., or until potatoes are tender; open foil the last few minutes to allow steam to escape. Sprinkle with seasoned salt and serve. About 8 servings

VEGETABLES ON SKEWERS

To Prepare: 25 min. To Grill: 10 min.
To Marinate: 2 hrs.

- 1 lb. can artichoke hearts, drained
- 1/2 lb. medium-sized mushrooms, stems reserved
- 1 1/2 lb. jar small white onions, drained (not cocktail size)
- 12 small whole tomatoes
- 2 medium-sized green peppers, cut in 1-in. squares
- 1/4 cup salad oil
- 1/4 cup cider vinegar
- 1 1/2 to 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon black pepper
- 1 clove garlic, split

- Four a mixture of oil, vinegar, salt, pepper, and garlic over vegetables in a bowl. Cover and marinate 2 hrs. in refrigerator, turning occasionally. Drain vegetables and reserve marinade.
- Thread vegetables on each of 12 10-in. skewers in this order: mushroom cap, artichoke, green pepper, tomato, onion, green pepper, and mushroom cap.
- Turning and brushing frequently with the reserved marinade, grill kabobs about 6 in. from coals about 10 min., or until thoroughly heated. About 12 kabobs

HOT POTATO SALAD

For those who prefer a hot potato salad to grilled potatoes, here is a salad that can be heated on the grill before serving.

- To Prepare: 35 min.
- 6 medium-sized potatoes, cooked
 - 1 cup finely chopped onion
 - 3 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
 - 1 1/4 teaspoons salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
 - 1/2 cup cider vinegar
 - 1/4 cup water
 - 1 1/2 teaspoons sugar
 - 1 egg
 - 1/2 cup salad oil

- Cut potatoes into 1/4-in. slices. Put into a bowl and toss lightly with the onion, parsley, and a mixture of the salt and pepper; set aside.
- Combine the vinegar, water, and sugar in a small saucepan and heat to boiling. Beat the egg slightly; continue beating while gradually adding the hot mixture, and then the salad oil in small amounts.
- Pour dressing over potato mixture and toss lightly to coat evenly. Turn salad into a large skillet and set on grill to heat slowly. About 6 servings

TART-CHERRY SALAD MOLD

To Prepare: 25 min. To Chill: 2-3 hrs.

- 9-oz. can crushed pineapple, drained (about 1/2 cup) and sirup reserved
- 1 1/2-oz. can water-packed pitted tart red cherries, drained (about 1 1/2 cups) and liquid reserved
- Water
- 6-oz. pkg. cherry-flavored gelatin
- 12-oz. bottle (1 1/2 cups) carbonated cola beverage
- 1 cup (about 4 oz.) coarsely chopped nuts

Combine the reserved pineapple sirup and cherry liquid; add enough water to make 2 cups. Heat mixture until very hot.

- Empty gelatin into a bowl and add the hot liquid; stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. Cool gelatin mixture and add cola beverage, stirring until well blended.
- Chill in refrigerator or over ice and water until mixture is slightly thicker than the consistency of thick, unbeaten egg white. If chilled in refrigerator, stir occasionally; if chilled over ice and water, stir frequently.
- Meanwhile, lightly oil a 1 1/2-qt. mold or a 9x9x2-in. pan with salad or cooking oil (not olive oil); set aside to drain.
- When the gelatin mixture is of desired consistency, mix in the pineapple, cherries, and nuts. Turn mixture into the mold and chill until firm, about 3 hrs. About 8 servings

CARROT RELISH

Clean and cut carrots into thin strips; pour liquid drained from dill pickles over them. Cover and marinate at least 2 hrs., turning occasionally. Serve with other crisp and chilled relish-tray favorites.

PAN O' ROLLS

To Prepare: 12 min. To Bake: 15-20 min.
2 8-oz. containers ready-to-bake biscuits

- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 tablespoons finely cut parsley
- 1/4 cup shredded Parmesan cheese

- Heat butter and garlic in a small skillet until butter is melted. Mix in parsley. Remove from heat.
- Open biscuit containers according to directions on package. Separate biscuits; dip each biscuit into the garlic butter.
- Overlap 15 of the biscuits around the outer edge of a 9-in. round layer-cake pan; form inner circle by overlapping remaining biscuits. Drizzle any remaining butter over top of biscuits and sprinkle evenly with Parmesan cheese.
- Bake at 425°F 15 to 20 min., or until golden brown. Serve hot. 20 rolls

CHOCOLATE WHIPPED CREAM CAKE

To Prepare: 20 min. To Bake: 25-30 min.

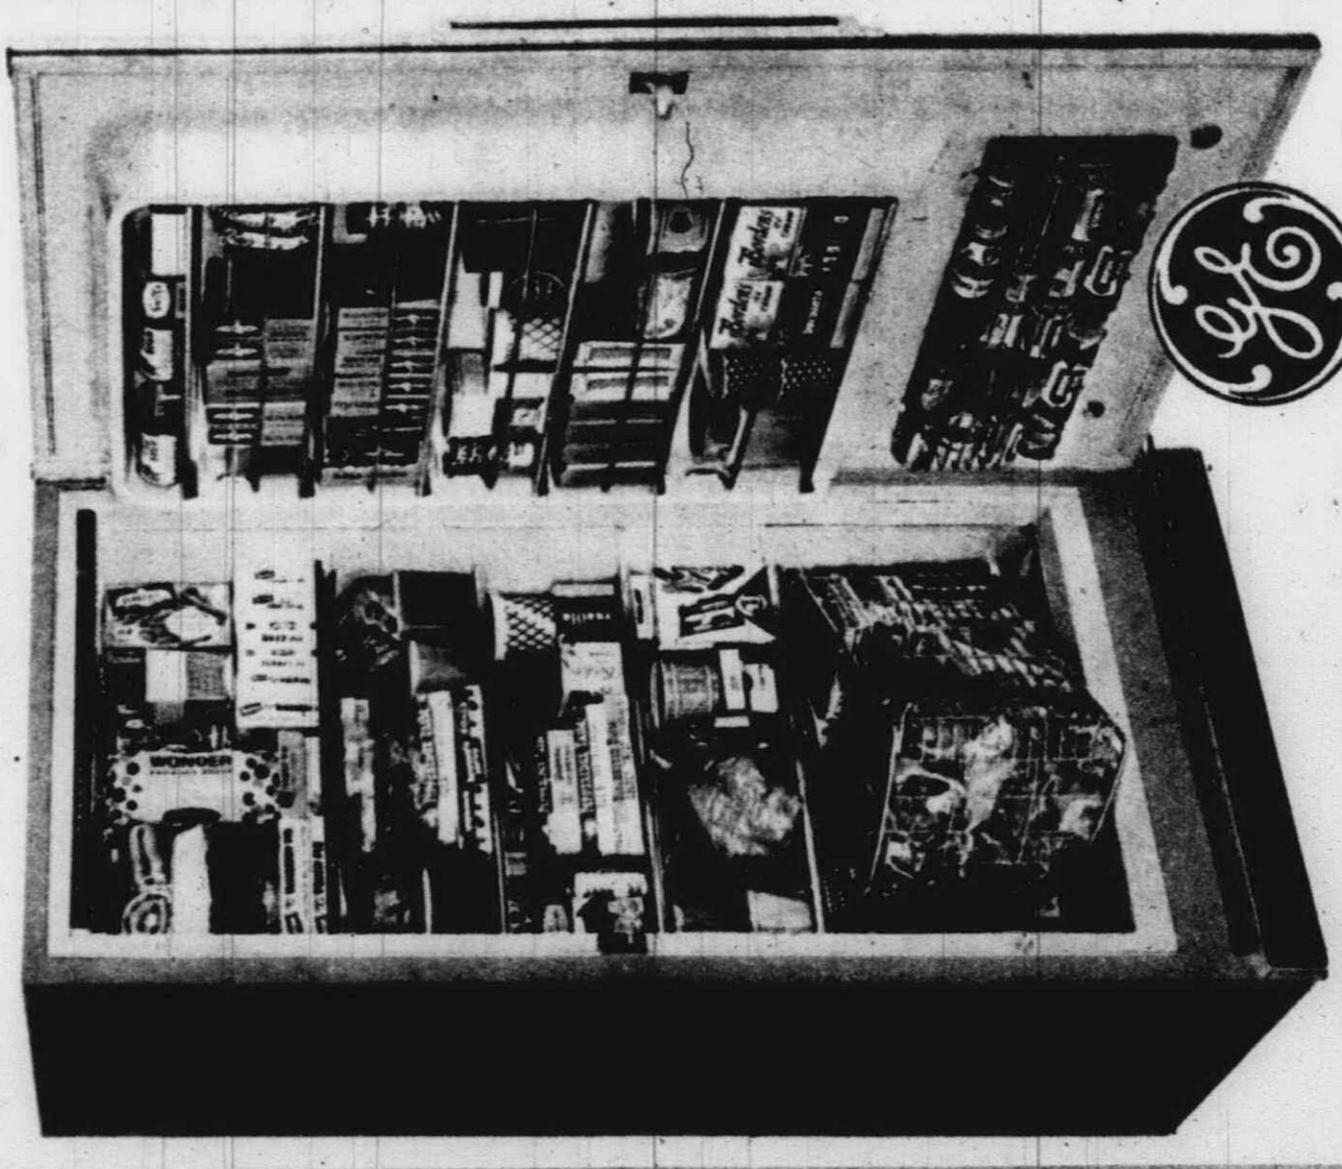

- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 1/2 cup cocoa
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- 1 cup chilled whipping cream
- 3 egg whites
- 1/2 cup cold double-strength coffee beverage
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract

- Grease and flour bottom only of a 13x9 1/2 x 2-in. pan; set aside.
- Sift the flour, sugar, cocoa, baking powder, and salt together twice; set aside.
- Using a chilled bowl and beater, beat cream until it stands in soft peaks when beater is slowly lifted upright.
- Using a clean beater, beat the egg whites until rounded peaks are formed. Gently but thoroughly fold together the whipped cream and beaten egg whites.
- Sift the dry ingredients over mixture in fourths, folding in alternately with a mixture of the coffee beverage and vanilla extract. Turn batter into pan and spread evenly to edges.
- Bake at 350°F 30 min., or until cake tester or wooden pick comes out clean when inserted in center of cake, or cake surface springs back when lightly touched at center. Remove from oven to cooling rack; cool completely. Frost top with chocolate or plain butter frosting (your favorite recipe or a mix). Decorate frosting with Chocolate Swirls. One 13x9-in. cake

For Chocolate Swirls—Melt 1/2 sq. (1/2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate over simmering water. Drop spoonfuls of cooled chocolate onto top of frosted cake. Using back of spoon, swirl pools of chocolate.
