Sidewalk Shoppers Have Big Time

THOUSANDS OF shoppers roamed the downtown sidewalks last Friday and Saturday for the second annual Sidewalk Sale. This shot, taken looking south on Main St., shows part of the crowd which jammed the sidewalks. Nearly all merchants reported that the sale was an outstanding success.

PLYMOUTH'S Sidewalk Sale took on a carnival atmosphere with many of the clerks dressed in costume. Here, Emma Wilkerson is doing some selling in front of Minerva's. The largest crowd was noted on Friday. Chairman of the affair was Edward Reid. The Chamber of Commerce Retail division handled the arrangements. Last year the sale was held one day only.

NONE OTHER than the Plymouth Theatre Guild could devise a display like this. They sold food through the mouth of this giant. This and several other counters were in Kellogg Park.

LOTS OF FUN was reported by shoppers as they rummaged through the outdoor counters. A survey made by The Plymouth Mail of some shoppers indicated that they enjoyed the Sidewalk Sale and most of them reported finding some real bargains in things they were looking for.

Horns Blasted, People Shouted and the Tears Flowed

It Was 15 Years Ago Sunday When the Town Went Wild

By Jim Sponseller

"With laughter, with tears, with shouts of joy, with an outburst of enthusiasm never before seen in Plymouth, some thousands of its residents Tuesday night greeted in spontaneous celebration the announcement of the surrender of Japan."

That was the beginning of a report from the Aug. 17, 1945 edition of The Plymouth Mail telling about the celebration that hailed the end of the world's worst piece of bloodshed.

This Sunday will be the 15th anniversary of the Japanese surrender announcement. For most people, it seems inconceivable that 15 years pers the information that Japan had given up. Within a few minutes, the first automobile horn started blasting down Plymouth's Main St.

In less than 10 minutes, hundreds of cars came from everywhere and within an hour the streets and sidewalks were filled with joyous men, women and children!

With automobile horns bellowing, bells clanging, whistles and other noise-making contraptions sounding, it was almost impossible to hear a person talking who stood next to you.

Hour after hour the parades of cars moved up and down the streets. Dozens of the cars carried dummies hanging by ropes representing Hitler and Hirohito.

Boys stood on rooftops and threw bits of paper and soon the town looked like it had been hit by a snowstorm. The crowd was joyous, but orderly.

In the crowd, of course, were the wives and parents of hundreds of men still serving in the Army and Navy. Tears came to many eyes as they re-l-ized more fully that their husbands and sons were soon coming home.

Someone succeeded in shorting the clock on the Plymouth United Savings Bank and it began a long and loud clanging. It was after midnight before the celebration ended.

A more formal celebration was planned during the next few weeks. On Oct. 3, a "Victory Thanksgiving Jubilee" was held which drew some 10,000 people. A parade, street dance, fireworks and other events highlighted the day. An inspiring address was delivered by Dr. Alexander Ruthven, president of the U of M.

Within weeks after the Japanese surrender, Plymouth servicemen started to arrive home gripping their discharge papers.

For the families of a handful of Plymouth men, however, the end of World War II came too late.

The nearly four years of conflict had snuffed out the lives of 34 local young men.

Board has been forced to borrow money in order to get until tax money is received in January. This year the Board needs $200,000.

National Bank of Detroit was the lone bidder. They offered to buy the tax anticipation notes at an interest rate of 2.40 percent.

Petitions Going Out For 'Heights' Election

Proposed City Offers 13 Elective Positions Nov. 8

Petitions for those who want to be candidates for office should the proposed City of Plymouth Heights become a reality are now available at the Plymouth Township Hall, Clerk Fred L. Miller announced.

Ten elective jobs will be open, including a mayor, seven councilmen, clerk, treasurer, municipal judge and two constables.

Electors will vote on the candidates at the same time as they vote on the question of whether they want to approve the charter for the proposed new city.

The election will be Tuesday, Nov. 8, the same date as the nationwide presidential elections.

Interested in filing for the offices.

Should the charter proposition be approved, those receiving the most votes at the November election would take office. Should the charter not be approved, the election for offices would be automatically void.

There will be no primary election this time, but primaries would be staged in subsequent elections should the new city be formed.

Copies of the proposed charter will be made available to the public within the near future. An announcement will be made when they are ready.

Plymouth Heights is the proposed city that would surround the city of Plymouth. It includes all of the portion of Plymouth Township that lies east of McClumpha Rd. (and a line running north of the northern terminus of McClumpha.) In February 1959, voters within the boundary of the proposed city voted to accept the principle of forming a new city. It contains 8.3 square miles.

In order to become a candidate for office, one must have resided within the corporate area of Plymouth Heights since Nov. 8, 1958 (with the exception of municipal judge, where the date is May 8, 1960). One must also be a qualified and registered elector of Plymouth Township.

The following will be elected:

- One mayor, term of four years, salary of $8,400.
- One clerk, term of four years, salary of $7,200.
- One treasurer, term of four years, salary of $6,600.

Three councilmen, terms of four years, salary of $600 each.

Four councilmen, terms of two years, salary of $600 each.

One municipal judge, term of four years, salary of $3,500.

Two constables, terms of four years, paid on a fee basis.

Election to all offices will be on a non-partisan basis. At least 75 bona fide signatures are needed on petitions, and not more than 100, the Township Clerk declared. Candidates, however, may pay $100 in lieu of signatures.

Petitions must be filed by 5 p.m. on Sept. 12. Miller noted that all petitions filed by persons other than the candidate will be accepted only when they are accompanied by the written consent of the candidate. Each candidate must file an affidavit attesting to his residency.

Candidates for municipal judge must be licensed attorneys.

Clark Miller said that there have been numerous inquiries from persons in-

Michael Spitz, Friend of Young People, Succumbs

Michael M. Spitz, active participant in Catholic organizations of the Our Lady of Good Counsel parish, died suddenly Aug. 6 of a heart attack. Mr. Spitz, who was born 39 years ago in Injia, Yugoslavia, lived at 700 Arthur in Plymouth.

A dispatcher with Ford Motor Co. he came to America in 1921 and to Plymouth two years later. Spitz coached the parish school team in football, basketball and baseball. His 7th and 8th grade teams participated in the Northwestern Division of the Catholic Youth Organization, winning in their division. He was also a member of the Holy Name Society, the Knights of Columbus and the Plymouth Democratic Club.

Mr. Spitz was a graduate of Plymouth High School and Ford Trade School.

His mother, Mrs. Suzanna Spitz and his wife, Dorothy, survive him. Three sons: Michael M., Matthew J., David, and three daughters: Karen, Debra, Dorothy, also survive. Peter J. Spitz, his brother, of Wayne, survives.

Three sisters, Mary Jane Spitz, Mrs. Ann Eicher, both of Plymouth, and Mrs. Katherine Miller of Topeka, Kan., also survive him.

Rosary was held Tuesday at Schrader Funeral Home Tuesday and services will be held at 9:30 on Wednesday, Aug. 10 at Our Lady of Good Counsel. The Rev. Fr. Francis Byrne will officiate. Boys who are members of teams Mr. Spitz trained will serve as pallbearers: Brian Gilles, Mike Kisabeth, Keith Bever, Pete Lomonaco, Jim Lockwood and John Nance.

Interment will be in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

NEWS BEAT

A local physician vacationing at his cottage in the upper part of the state recently decided to buy a sailboat. The boat dealer pointed out what he felt was a good buy, "a boat made right here in Michigan." When the dealer said that it was made in Plymouth, the doctor replied that it couldn't be—that he lived in Plymouth and never heard of a boat builder there. But indeed, Plymouth does have a boat builder, Superior Polymer, Inc., 199 West Ann Arbor Trail. The firm has been there several years. The physician bought the boat, incidentally and reports it's a good one.

ALL OUT: The 100 State Highway Department maps received by The Plymouth Mail for free distribution last week are all gone. There was great demand for the map. Apparently no more will be allotted. Copies can be obtained, however, by dropping a card to Motorist Services Division, Michigan State Highway Dept., 732-C, Mason Bldg., Lansing 26.

A FIRST: The first of an expected stream of politicians arrived in Plymouth today (Wednesday). U.S. Rep. Martha Griffiths parked her familiar campaign trailer in Lake Pointe Village for a chat with folks there and then moved downtown. Although Plymouth is known as a Republican town, the Democratic Congresswoman has received considerable support in Plymouth.

FIRE RUNS: City firemen were called to 751 Evergreen Sunday noon where a house that had been condemned by the city was being torn down and caught on fire. Some lumber was being burned nearby and ignited the nearly-demolished building. Friday night firemen were called to the D & C Store where someone threw a cigarette into an awning and started a fire.

POLICE BEAT: While Gene Henry, 40, Northville, hung around the R & D Auto Sales at 114 Plymouth Rd., he learned that keys to the office were kept at a nearby service station during off-hours. After the place closed Saturday, he told the station attendant he needed the keys. He entered the office, took the key to a car, put on dealer plates and drove off to Mt. Clemens for the weekend. Monday morning police picked him up after he had returned the car and within a few hours he was sentenced 30 days and fined $50. Some car owners in the East Central Parking lot reported that their vehicles had been scratched with a sharp object. No one was hurt in a head-on collision Tuesday at Main and Mill St.

It's County Fair Time for 4-H'ers

Wayne County 4-H Club members, including hundreds from the Plymouth area, are readying their exhibits for their annual 4-H fair, and the 1960 4-H fair dates are Aug. 16 through 21. About 1,600 4-H Club members will show 2,000 exhibits at the 4-H fairgrounds, located at Quirk Rd. and the Edsel Ford Expressway, near Belleville. Visitors use the north Belleville Rd. exit.

4-H youth will compete in 24 divisions for ribbons, trophies, and the honor of representing Wayne County at the 1960 State Show at Michigan State University.

Exhibits will include flowers, clothing, foods, garden vegetables, photography, electrical projects and handicrafts. Also there will be exhibits of horses, cattle, swine, rabbits and poultry.

The 4-H Fair boasts a wide variety of entertainment, including carnival and midway rides daily. On Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 16, there will be free midway rides for the Michigan Crippled Children's Society.

Grandstand activities will be featured nightly at 8 p.m. On Wednesday, Aug. 17, Johnny Ginger of WXYZ television fame, will host a program on which the Jan Bitnar Dance Studio will present a novelty dance program.

District winners on the County 4-H "Share the Fun" contest will be the grandstand attraction on Thursday, Aug. 18. 4-H Club members will entertain with song, dance, pantomime and music.

The Saturday night program will feature the annual 4-H Horse Show with demonstrations, contests and trick riding.

The annual Barbecued Chicken Dinner will be held Sunday, Aug. 21 from noon to evening. After the Sunday open-class horse show, a 900 pound Angus steer will be given away.

Trampoline Center Opens Here Saturday

Those who have dreamed of just spreading their arms and flying or turning a somersault in mid-air can have their wish starting this Saturday.

Opening up on S. Main St. will be the Jumpin' Jiminy Trampoline Center.

The Jumpin' Jiminy Trampoline Center will be at S. Main and Hartsough. It will be operated by Earl Gordanier of Detroit.

Gordanier said that there will be 10 trampoline units installed at ground level. They are not under cover and the center will be closed during the winter months.

Hours of the center are from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Plymouthite Weds New Jersey Bride

In the Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church of Woodbury, N. J., on July 23, Miss Jennifer Diane Wilkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Wilkinson, of Pitman, N. J., was married to James David Isbister. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Isbister of Plymouth. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Reverend R. Donald Clare.
 Mrs. Robert Laird of Mantua, N.J., was guest soloist and was accompanied by Mrs. Arthur L. Amme at the organ. The church was decorated with palms, baskets of chrysanthemums, gladioli, and carnations.
 Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of hand clipped chantilly lace and satin fashioned with a scoop neckline, a full skirt and panels which swept into a chapel train. Seed pearls were featured on the bodice and the skirt. Her fingertip illusion veil fell from a seed pearl coronet. She carried a prayer book with camellias and stephanotis.
 Nancy Jill Wilkinson was maid of honor for her sister, Mary Martha Nunez of Nichols, Fla., a cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. The maid of honor wore a wedge-wood blue waltz length gown of silk organza over taffeta. The dress featured a high neckline with deep V back and a bouffant skirt. Miss Nunez' gown was pale blue and identical to that of the honor attendant. They wore circlets of roses in their hair and carried baskets of matching flowers.
 Robert Isbister was his brother's best man. Ushers were T. Dean Paver and Howard A. Oldford. The acolyte was Joseph Blaha.
 For her daughter's marriage, Mrs. Wilkinson chose a blue embroidered sheath of pure silk with rose accessories. The mother of the groom wore a pink sheath of silk organza with white accessories. Their flowers were cymbidium orchids.
 A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the Hotel Pitman. After a wedding trip to New England, the couple will reside in Arlington, Va.

Junior Counselor
 Kathleen Keener, a senior at Plymouth High School, returned this Sunday to her home at 695 Simpson Ave. after serving as Junior Counselor at Killarney Lutheran Camp in the Irish Hills. During her several weeks at camp, Kathleen instructed in arts and crafts, nature lore, and Bible studies. Kathleen thoroughly enjoyed her camp experience and the children under her care.

Canton News Catches Up After Vacation

ESTHER SPRENGEL
GL 3-0194

Sorry we weren't around last week, but the six Sprengels took a few days vacation. More about that later. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shrumm of 48210 Gyde Rd. are enjoying a visit by their son, Staff Sgt. Richard Shrumm, and family. After their three-week visit at the Shrumm home, the Sergeant, his wife and their three children will leave for California to visit with Richard's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brown, until time for school to start. The Breitmeyers returned a bit early from their vacation as their home was the scene of an outdoor ice-cream social for the members of St. Peter's Lutheran Church of Plymouth.

The township is very proud of a heroine these days. Carol Koppen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Truitt of Ford Road, Carol was at the seventh day Adventist Church Camp at Grayling for seven days. While there she took her test for beginners swimming merit. After completing instruction when Carol heard the cries of a little girl who found she was too tired to make it back to shore. They threw out a life preserver, but the rope was too short and Carol immediately swam back to pull the young camper to shore. The little girl needed artificial respiration. Carol stated she wasn't a bit nervous, the only thought she had was to get to the little girl, but after it was all over she felt ill all over from nervous exhaustion. Needless to say Mom and Dad are very proud of her as well as her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Koppen of Gorman Rd.

Also while at camp Carol received two honors, one for swimming and one for the best-kept cabin. She told of the treasure hunt taken by the group in order to find their lunch, and her mother proudly showed the purse Carol made of popsicle sticks. It was hard to believe it was made by hand, as it was one of the most attractive purses I have seen this summer. Carol stated that her experience has not scared her of the water, but much more aware of the need to know how to swim.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hewer of Canton Center Rd., just returned from their trip to see the Show Boat at Lowell, Mich. Mr. Hewer said they try to make the trip each year and that the talent is from Hollywood, Calif. The Hewers then proceeded up to see the Mackinac Bridge.

Another family just returning from a trip to the Mackinac Bridge are the James Spigarells of Beck Road. Post cards from the family reported "having a good time". Mrs. Robert Orr, a former resident, now residing in Hudson, Mich., was here on a visit the past week to help plan a Stork Shower with her two daughters, Mrs. Charles Combs and Mrs. Thomas St. Louis. The shower was in honor of the expected blessed event in the James Johnson family, former residents of Beck Rd., now residing in Wyandotte. The shower was held Saturday evening with former neighbors and relatives attending. The festivities were held at the Charles Combs home on Beck Road.

Scoutmaster Ralph Lefler and four boys of Scout Troop 298, Dan Van Aken, Larry Lea, Roy Harper and Larry Ashmum left this area at 5:30 p.m. on July 19 and headed for Colorado Springs, Colo., for the National Boy Scout Jubilee Jamboree. The trip was a success with only a few problems: one blow-out, a 62-mile drive to have a trailer part welded, the need to purchase one trailer tire. The main discomfort was the temperature of 90 degrees to 98 degrees. These temperatures existed mostly in Missouri and Kansas. The creeks and river beds were completely dry in Western Missouri and all of Kansas.

They arrived safely in Colorado Springs on Friday, July 22, about 1 p.m., tired and glad to be there. Camp was then set up and a program was scheduled for sight-seeing in the vast area of this largest display of scouting. Tents stretched over 2,000 acres of ground. Then came the first treat for our group of scouts — a hot shower and clean uniforms.

enough importance in this impressive celebration to stop off in his trip to the west to view the scouting festivities. Also present were many Hollywood stars. The theme of this celebration was "onward for God and Country". No wonder Sunday worship was the greatest and deepest feeling the boys experienced. Also along this line of thought was the lighting of over 56,000 candles at the closing ceremony Thursday night July 28, which was seen by many as it was also televised.

Driving to and from Colorado Springs and sight-seeing covered about 3,112 miles. A few more problems arose on the way home: a transmission had to be replaced, another trailer tire was purchased, and clutch work was necessary. Our boys left Colorado Springs, Friday, July 29, about 2 p.m. and arrived in Plymouth 12:30 p.m., Monday, August 1, with only one regret, that more of their fellow scouts could not have joined them.

Boy Scouts in the 7th district to have a camporee at Garden City Park on Cherry Hill Road at Merriman the weekend of July 22-24. Representing Troop 298, were eight boys who did very well in the planned program set up by the council. Two patrols participated and brought back ribbons for their efforts. The Pioneer Patrol, Tim Voss, leader, Jody Barton, Dave Smith and the Raven Patrol, Tom Wiles Leader, Frank Vail, Joe Vail, Jerry Smith, were under the supervision of the full time leader Harold Voss. Assistant Scoutmaster for Troop 298 with much help from Mr. Kevin Smith, Institutional Representative.

Bob Voss also attended as Junior Assistant Scoutmaster. Our troop was placed in the classification of 1st place for troop inspection and, for this attainment, received a blue ribbon. All patrols entered in Patrol competition and both our patrols made a showing in this line. Some of the Scoutcraft they competed in were knot tying, first aid, map-reading, fire building. For their efforts the Pioneer Patrol received a red ribbon for 2nd place and the Raven Patrol received the white ribbon for third place.

A great number of boys attended the Camporee from many parts of Wayne County which is a part of the Detroit Area Council. All enjoyed the weekend which included swimming as well as fireworks and the visit from the TV personality, Johnny GINGER. The boys expressed their thanks for the help that was given by Mrs. Kevin Smith.

DOWN THE DRAIN
RACINE, Wis. (UPI) Sink-installed garbage disposals will wash an estimated 4,745,000,000 pounds of garbage down the drain in 1960, an industry spokesman says.

Ever J. Hammes, a local disposer manufacturer (In-Sink-Erator Manufacturing Co.), based his estimate on the more than 4,500,000 disposers currently in use. He estimated 949 pounds of garbage are produced annually by an average family of four.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hewer of Canton Center Rd., just returned from their trip to see the Show Boat at Lowell, Mich. Mr. Hewer said they try to make the trip each year and that the talent is from Hollywood, Calif. The Hewers then proceeded up to see the Mackinac Bridge.

Another family just returning from a trip to the Mackinac Bridge are the James Spigarells of Beck Road. Post cards from the family reported "having a good time". Mrs. Robert Orr, a former resident, now residing in Hudson, Mich., was here on a visit the past week to help plan a Stork Shower with her two daughters, Mrs. Charles Combs and Mrs. Thomas St. Louis. The shower was in honor of the expected blessed event in the James Johnson family, former residents of Beck Rd., now residing in Wyandotte. The shower was held Saturday evening with former neighbors and relatives attending. The festivities were held at the Charles Combs home on Beck Road.

In case you haven't heard, the Township now has a Planning Commission in place of the former Zoning Board. Perhaps we can get an explanation of the new commission for you by next week.

Always trying to check on your vacations, so here is a little about the Sprengel outing. We planned a station wagon living vacation, with each of the six Sprengels designated to a certain part of the wagon for sleeping. We had been forewarned that sleeping facilities were scarce up North. The first night out, at Mackinac City, we found even the state camping areas were filled, but we managed nicely and in the early morning took a ride over the Mackinac Bridge, then to Iron Mountain, leisurely visiting here and there. We had visited the Hartwick Pines, Indian Burial grounds, underground forest, Indian Village, Miner's Castle, and Miner's Falls at Munising, Mich. We toured through the Iron Mountain, then on to Wisconsin where we camped in a State Park, swam in Lake Michigan and then took the boat from Milwaukee to Saginaw.

FRIDAY, JULY 29 was the final day of summer practice for 188 instrumental music students who were enrolled in the summer school program of the Plymouth schools. This is an intermediate band group composed of sixth graders. Parents were invited to the closing day concerts. Laurencé Livingston and Wayne Dunlap have conducted the program. Of the 188 pupils, 25 were taking string lessons. Meeting three times a week for six weeks, the groups were composed of pupils from the fifth through the eighth grades. Outside of the playgrounds and swimming, the instrumental music program was the largest in the summer school program.

Little League Umps Challenge Managers in 'Battle of Year'

An All-Star game among Little Leaguers and a pitched battle between the Little League Managers and umpires are scheduled this week on the local diamonds.

The All-Star game will be at 10 a.m. Saturday. Each manager selected outstanding players on other teams in his league and the players with the most points were selected. The public is invited to this game that will end the Little League season.

A game with a not-too-serious motive will be played at 7 p.m. this Friday night under the lights of the high school diamond. The 18 Little League umpires have challenged managers of the Little League teams to a softball game.

ing official playing rule decisions but also are more versed in managing, coaching, and playing knowledge than said managers and coaches—do hereby challenge such managers and coaches to a softball game A collection will be taken to be donated to the Little League.

Name Citizens To Community College Group

Four people have been appointed to represent the Plymouth Community School District on a Citizens Advisory Committee that is to help direct the future of the Northwest Wayne Community College.

The Board of Education made the appointments Monday night. Named were Donald Sutherland, a certified public accountant; Mrs. Jessie Latta, a housewife; Robert Barbour, banker; and Samuel Hudson, public relations and advertising director of Evans Products.

Each of the six school districts that are attempting to form the Northwest Community College are appointing members to the Citizens Advisory Committee. The other districts are Livonia, Clarkston, Garden City, Redford Union and South Redford.

Up until now, the planning has been done by school board members from each district. Harold Fischer, secretary of the Plymouth Board is president of the executive committee. Mrs. Esther Hulsing, also a Plymouth board member, is secretary of the committee.

A headquarters for the Community College has now been established. It is located in the Newburg School located at Newburg Rd. and Ann Arbor Rd. in Livonia.

Billed as the "most fiercely fought" softball game of the year, the game is being played after representatives of the umpires and managers signed a document of challenge. It read in part:

"Whereas a body of men in striped shirts and blue caps, known by official recognition as umpires, and so referred to in the remainder of this document . . . do hereby publically and at an official sanctioned meeting of the Little League, state the following:

"Whereas a body of men in various loud-colored T shirts and assorted colored caps, known officially as managers and coaches, have been proving their ineptness at making decisions usually reserved as a right for umpires,

"And whereas the umpires not only are expert at mak-

It's County Fair Time for 4-H's Once Again
Other traditional features of the fair include the Saturday afternoon archery shoot, tractor plowing contest and 4-H demonstrations. Home-cooked meals, prepared by home economics club members, 4-H leaders and ladies of the Farm Bureau, will be served daily to the 4-Hers and to the public at the Home Economics Dining Hall on the fair grounds. Displays of sporting goods, boats, automobiles, farm machinery and home appliances will be shown on the fair grounds. The 4-H Fair is operated by volunteer workers who wish to further the development of all phases of the 4-H youth program in Wayne County.

4-H Club agents, Les Mack and Robert Paulson, will be at the Fair Information Booth all week to answer questions from prospective members and leaders about the 4-H Club program. Wayne County 4-H Horse Club members will entertain visitors to the Wayne County 4-H Club Fair, Saturday evening at 8 p.m. The 4-H Horse Show will include demonstrations in western pleasure and horsemanship classes, and of proper handling of park seat entries. Also included in the program will be contests in barrel bending, speed and action, musical chairs, square dance drill teams and similar contest events. This show has been a big drawing card in recent years as the 4-H Club members work hard to make it an outstanding show. 4-H Tractor Club members will also compete for the honor of representing Wayne County in the State Tractor Operating Contest to be held in conjunction with the State 4-H Club Show at East Lansing, Aug. 30. The County contest will be held at the 4-H Fair on Saturday, Aug. 20. Contestants must be 12 years old or over, and must have been enrolled in the 4-H tractor project during the current year. The 4-H contest will be followed by an open class contest open to any adult interested in entering. The day-by-day schedule is as follows:

Tuesday, Aug. 16
Entry Day. Free midway rides for Michigan Crippled Children's Society. Parade at 7 p.m. Flower judging.
Wednesday, Aug. 17
Judging Exhibits Day. Midway and carnival, parade at 7 p.m. Grandstand at 8 p.m. with Johnny Ginger of WXYZ-TV and Jan Bitnar Dance Studio. Fireworks at 10 p.m.
Thursday, Aug. 18
Horse judging at 9 a.m. Midway and carnival. 4-H demonstrations at 1:30 p.m. Parade at 7 p.m. and grandstand program at 8 p.m. "Share the Fun" festival.
Friday, Aug. 19
Horse judging 9 a.m. Midway and carnival. 4-H demonstrations 1:30 p.m. Parade at 7 p.m. and professional entertainment in grandstand at 8 p.m.
Saturday, Aug. 20
4-H archery shoot 2 p.m.; 4-H demonstrations 1:30 p.m.; tractor operating contest in the afternoon. Parade 7 p.m. and 4-H horse show in grandstand at 8 p.m.
Sunday, Aug. 21
Chicken barbecue noon and evening. Fair Association Horse Show. Midway and carnival. Selection of winner for 900 pound steer.

Board Adopts Two-Floor Plan

recommendation for a two-story academic wing. The report noted that from the best available estimates, it will cost $26,000 more to build the two-story unit than a one-story unit. But it is figured that the savings in fuel will be around $2,000 a year on the two-story building because there is greater heat loss in a one-story building. Over the 40-year life expectancy of the building, such a fuel savings would result in a net savings of $54,000, according to Gerald Fischer, member of the Facilities Committee. Zylstra declared that he felt that only a small group of taxpayers wanted a two-story building. He felt that the safety and convenience factors of one-story construction should be weighed. He noted that in a "man-on-the-street" tape recorded interview he had done before the June election that the majority favored one-story building (he interviewed 25 people). He also felt that university studies should be considered in this matter.

Thomas Kelly, building and grounds supervisor, replied that he had called five school districts to find out if two-story construction was better or not. "All of them told me that it was purely a matter of choice," he added. The Department of Architecture at the U of M told him that no conclusive results have ever been achieved in their studies. Soth said that with today's rigid building regulations, a two-story building offers as much fire protection as a one-story building. It is because of these high fire prevention standards that the cost of two-story construction has soared in recent years. Zylstra asserted that he felt that the Board should run a survey to determine what type of building the taxpayers want. But this suggestion was not greeted favorably. Both Mrs. Esther Hulsing and Harold Fischer answered that the public elected the Board to make such decisions and that it was the Board's responsibility. Fischer added that by taking time to make a survey would delay the schedule. The architect had recommended taking bids in February because better bids can usually be taken earlier in the year. "I would hate to lose that advantage," Fischer declared. Board President Harold Niemi also pointed out that the preliminary drawing of the building distributed before the election in June showed a two-story wing and that he was sure that when voters approved the new Building and Site Sinking Fund proposal that they did it with the understanding that there would be two floors. The vote was then taken with Zylstra casting the negative vote.

Cut-Rate Care
SUMMIT, N. J. (UPI) — Patients get cut-rate hospital charges when they check into the do-it-yourself wing at Overlook Hospital. They wear street clothes, and pick up their own medicine at nurses' stations. Such self-help makes it possible to reduce to two—from five—the number of nurses on duty. Rates are reduced by 50 percent in the cafeteria.

Urge All-Day Parkers To Avoid Central Lot

Free parking in the Central group of merchants began leasing the Central Lot from the City. Meters were removed and parking was declared "on the house."

Merchants were warned at that time that "all day" parkers could ruin the project. Those who work downtown would probably be the violators, it was noted.

The Chamber of Commerce has recently found that there are a number of cars parked in the lot all day long. While there are no time limit signs posted, the Chamber is appealing to downtown employees and employers to park elsewhere. There are several other free lots near the downtown. The East Central Lot behind the Penn Theatre has many vacant spaces during the day.

Merchants located near the Pharmacy, D & C Store, Davis & Leht, Dodge Drugs, First Federal Savings & Loan, Graham's, Kade's, Kemnitz Candy, Kresge's, National Bank of Detroit, Papes' House of Gifts, Peterson's Drugs, Photographic Center, Plymouth Men's Wear, Plymouth Office Supply, Schrader Funeral Home, Terry's Bakery, Wiloughby's and Penniman Market.

Officers Elected

Orville Tungate was elected chairman of the Plymouth Democratic Club, Saturday at the group's bi-annual executive board meeting for the election of new officers. Other officials for the coming year will be Mrs. Anthony Frank, vice-chairman; George Onusko, treasurer; and Charles Root, junior, who has been chairman for the past two years, secretary.

The tracking range of the Air Force Missile Test Center at Cape Canaveral, Fla., is 5,000 miles long, extending through the Dominican Republic to Ascension Island, halfway between Brazil and Africa.

Local Delegates Named to JA National Meeting

Eighty-nine official delegates will represent southeastern Michigan at the 17th annual National Junior Achievers Conference to be held at Indiana University August 21 through 26.

The announcement was made by the president of the southeastern Michigan JA board John E. Brennan.

Brennan announced that the youthful business leaders will discuss business problems and enter contests for business acumen. They will also discuss ways of improving the performance of their duties in Junior Achievement companies.

Brennan stated that the young executives will join with over one thousand other Achievers from coast to coast for the five day conference, recognized as the only teenage trade association convention of its kind.

In many respects the teenage conference will take on an air of political sophistication as area delegates drum up votes and "stump" for "favorite son" candidates for the presidency of the National Junior Achievers Conference, the top Achiever post in JA.

There will be nominating speeches — sometimes made by the candidates themselves — banners, favors and publicity sheets proclaiming a candidate's qualifications.

Political excitement such as was witnessed in both party conventions recently and back-room strategy will play a decided role at the business conference.

As one business executive put it, "in this age of political and business naivete by some teenagers, this national JA convention in effect teaches them a great deal about both."

Named by Brennan, who is a vice president of Chrysler Corporation and director of corporate manufacturing staff and services were:

Sandra Glasford, 16, of 1217 West Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth - representative of the JA Unlimited Company; Austin E. Lynch, 17, of 27954 Lyndon, Livonia - president of Burroughs sponsored by Burroughs Corporation - Plymouth division; Mike McDonnell, 17, of 32247 Wisconsin, Livonia - vice - president of JA - Pro - Co sponsored by Ford Motor Company and Judith Reich, 17, of 8949 Denne Drive, Livonia - president of JA - Sun Industries sponsored by the Sun Oil Company.

Grange Cleanings

The last regular meeting was well attended. After the business session, everyone joined in singing old songs followed by games.

The four new tables have arrived and are very nice.

Sister Louise Tritten, and Brother Lloyd Fillmore were two of the judges for the Grange exhibit at the Monroe County Fair Tuesday.

Do not miss the corn roast, Saturday evening, Aug. 13. The place is Willoughby Wiskey's with corn furnished. We must furnish butter, a dish to pass, card tables, chairs and table service. In case of rain, it will be held the following week. Anyone needing transportation should call Master Tritten or your reporter. Arrangements will be made.

Sister Tritten now has the rules for the needlework and baking contests to be entered at State Grange this fall, so get your crochets hook out and practice up on baking if you hope to enter.

Anyone having articles to contribute for the rummage sale on Sept. 10, bring them when you come to Grange or call Sisters Isabelle Taylor or Irma Brown who are chairmen. They will be very grateful for contributions. You need not be a Granger to donate articles.

On Aug. 13 the last picnic will be held at Gunsolly Mill beginning at 6:30 p.m. Following the supper, pictures from the Washington trip will be shown. Do not miss it. If you cannot make the supper, you may want to see the pictures.

Tomorrow evening, several from our Grange will go to Deerfield Grange for the meeting and to show the pictures.

We hope to see many of our Grangers at the Wayne County 4-H Fair in Belleville next week. Remember, we are sponsoring a 4-H group and should be back of them 100 percent.

Musial Likes Outfield
ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals always preferred playing the outfield but more often than not wound up as a first baseman, his current stand.

"You're almost like a spectator in the outfield," he said, "but at first base you're keyed up all the time and never can relax."

Plymouth Student Writes From Germany

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of articles written by Plymouth young people who are abroad this summer. Each has been invited to write back what they are doing and their impressions. This article is by Margo Van Antwerp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Van Antwerp of 1347 W. Ann Arbor Trail.)

By MARGO VAN ANTWERP
The Harz Mountain area is the prettiest and best-liked area in Germany. The many mountains covered with pine trees, the creeks, and rivers and the smell of the fresh mountain air make this part of Germany very beautiful.

Bad Harzburg is a town located in a valley of these mountains with the Rado Creek running from one end of the town to the other. Harzburg is a town of wealthy people and also a nice summer resort spot. There are also many older people here since the town is recommended to those who need to improve their health.

There are always many buses and cars in Harzburg. The East German border is only three miles from the town and so this becomes the first stop for the many travelers of Berlin and also those coming from the northern countries. In the town are many hotels and places for these tourists to stay. Even the larger homes are sometimes used as hotels with the families living on the main floor.

When I left America, I had the impression, as a lot of people have, that Germany is a backward country. I can only judge by my own family, what they have told me and what I have seen here in Harzburg, but this former impression has changed. The German people are not quite as up-to-date as we, the Americans, are, but they are only a few years behind.

Most of the houses in this area are large since the town was not damaged during the war. These homes and the newer homes, have the modern conveniences that American homes have, but on a smaller scale.

The women have the easy life of the American women with the exception of the dishwasher. Most every family has a washing machine and those who don't go to the near-by laundry. The clothes are hung on a line to dry, instead of being put in a dryer. The German women spend a good portion of the day in the kitchen. The food is very good but also very rich. There seems to be a lot of sugar used in all the food, particularly in the cakes.

The Germans have their main meal at the midday. This is when the children come home from school and the men come home for a few hours from work. The children go to school only in the morning until about 1 p.m. Stores close for about two hours, depending on the town, from one to three. During this time, the meal is eaten and the adults rest for an hour or more.

Schools in Germany are planned in a different manner. The students go to five years of grammar school and then six or nine years, usually nine, of high school. When the high school exam is taken, and passed, at the age of 19, a student will go on to six years of college. Germany's schools are much more difficult than American schools, in the respect that a student usually takes two or three languages at one time, plus math, chemistry, physics and history. The vacations are also different, two or three times a year. When the student has his summer vacation, he will not go into a higher class when he returns to school, but he will graduate into a higher class during the year.

Most students do not learn to drive until they are 18 and then they usually don't drive without their parents in the car. Everyone rides a bicycle and even the adults who don't have cars ride bicycles. Not every family has a car and those who do have only one. The cars are all very small. Family life is very strong here. There is not the "rushrush" of the everyday life as in America. The main reason for this, I think, is because there are not very many women's clubs, men's clubs, or organizations for teenagers. The women usually play tennis or bridge or belonging to a church organization. The men do the same, but many play golf. And the teen-agers go swimming or take walks. One of the questions most Germans ask is "What are all the women's clubs for?" One does not realize that Americans are always rushing to one club or meeting until they see how the people live who do not have these things.

Everyone here leads a very casual life, but they walk for about two hours a day. This provides a very good balance with rich German food and is also very interesting. I have walked many miles on the Harz mountain paths and

I haven't been on the same path twice. I have been to the highest mountain in Western Germany and have seen many miles of the countryside. Of course, the highest mountain is in Eastern Germany. My German parents speak very little English, but my older brother and my sister speak English very well. This is very important since it is my only way of communicating. My family is wonderful to me and I'm certain it will be difficult to leave.

Two months is a very short time and it will soon be gone. I will find myself homeward bound. This time will come too soon.

Michigan Bell Works on $210,000 Expansion in Plymouth

Telephone men are working on a $210,000 project to expand the capacity of the dial telephone exchange at Plymouth.

William Dunn, manager here for Michigan Bell Telephone Company, said the expenditure is part of the $500,000 the company plans to spend in Plymouth this year to improve and expand service.

The project will enable the company to eventually establish 2,000 new telephone numbers in the Glenview exchange. The exchange now has 6,776 telephones, not counting extensions.

"This project is necessary to keep abreast of the business and residence expansion in the Plymouth area and to provide for future telephone growth," Dunn said.

The work is being done in the telephone building at 1360 Ann Arbor Road by technicians of the Western Electric Company, which is the manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell System.

Dunn said the project is scheduled for completion in October.

State Troopers Now Taking Applications

An opportunity to become a trooper in the Michigan State Police, one of the finest police organizations in existence, is again open to qualified young men, according to Sgt. Wayne Jussila, commander of the Ypsilanti post.

"Every young man should investigate this opportunity right now because it doesn't come very often," he emphasized. "The pay is good, the work interesting, there is job security and a liberal pension plan."

Complete information and application blanks can be obtained at any State Police post or from the State Civil Service Commission. Applications must be turned in or mailed to any post or the Civil Service Commission not later than Wednesday, September 7. Applications post-marked up to midnight that day will be accepted.

Eligible are men 21 to 29 years of age, married or single, at least 5 feet 10 inches tall, in good health and of good character, and with a high school education or its equivalent.

Trooper pay begins at $4,656 and goes to a maximum of $6,744 plus longevity pay after six years. Promotion in rank brings substantial pay increases. There are paid vacations, paid sick leave, a subsistence allowance of $3 a day, and, in addition, uniforms and equipment are furnished. Officers are eligible for pensions at half-pay after 25 years of service, with the same provision also for the widow in event of death of the retired officer.

The trooper pay scale begins when the recruit enters training.

Over 300 Vote In Salem Township

Secretary of State James M. Hare out-pollied his Democratic rival for governor in last week's primary election in Salem Township.

There were 300 voters going to the polls during the day. There were also 10 absentee voters and three declared void.

The Democratic race for governor was won by Swainson 33 in Salem, Hare received 37 votes and Swainson had 31. Edward Connor pulled out 6 votes.

But Salem Township, which has a predominately Republican voting record, gave GOP governor candidate

Paul Bagwell 209 votes, almost three times the combined vote of the three Democratic candidates.

Salem Supervisor William I. Scheel lost in his bid for nomination to the State Legislature from the 1st District. The Republican nomination was won by Gilbert E. Bursley. Scheel, however, won support in Salem with 146 votes to Bursley's 65.

Other results were as follows:

Republican Lt. Governor: Hutchinson 74; Reid 117.

U. S. Senator: Bentley 121; Leonard 80.

U.S. Representative: Meader 144.

State Senator: Milford 54; Thayer 79; Bowling 19; Campbell 36.

Your Garden Needs More Than Just Loving Care

If you don't have the right environment for a garden it won't do well — despite the loving care that goes into it. Does the plot have lots of sunshine, good drainage and fertile soil?

The backyard city garden-er may encounter problems such as fences or buildings that throw too much shade, areas with little air circulation, or subsoil full of rubble and stones. If so, the best solution is to find a good vacant lot nearby.

A good plot must have direct sunlight at least six hours a day. Leafy crops such as lettuce can take a little more shade.

Good drainage is vital. Beware of land that remains wet very long after a rain. The ideal soil is rich, deep, friable sandy loam without debris or rock. Know that if it grows grass or weeds, it probably will support a garden.

Early spring is the time to start breaking ground for your garden. But avoid plowing or spading when the soil is wet. This will only make it harder packed and cloddy.

A good test is to squeeze a handful tightly into a ball, then break it apart with your fingers. If it crumbles, you're ready for work.

Soil fertility can be improved with well-rotted compost, peat, leaves or manure. Spread evenly over the ground and then spade in thoroughly.

Commercial fertilizer should be applied a few days before planting. Place it two inches to each side of the seed row and a little lower. Use about one pound per 25 or 30 feet of rows if the rows are two feet apart.

You can overfeed gardens. The Department of Agriculture recommends from 50 to 60 pounds of standard fertilizer for a 30-foot by 50-foot area.

In breaking up the ground, spade down to eight or 10 inches, unless this turns up too much subsoil.

Summer Safety Driving Tips

A long line of stalled traffic on a hot summer's day is likely to be further delayed by one or more cars which develop an acute attack of vapor lock. It is recommended that drivers carry a large thermos bottle of ice cold water as quick first aid for this malady. Pour cool water over a cloth and wash it around the fuel pump and fuel line which may run close to the engine block. If caught in stopped or crawling traffic with motor idling, the probability of vapor lock can be reduced by speeding up the motor at two or three minute intervals. This increases the consumption of gasoline and moves cooler gasoline from the tank through the fuel system.

To Issue Uniforms August 27

Invitations have gone out to 94 Plymouth High School boys by Coach John Hoben to report for football practice Aug. 29.

A letter to the boy, his parents and a list of suggested training rules were sent to the 94. Anyone who did not get an invitation, Coach Hoben said, can contact him at GA 1-0176 after Aug. 20.

Boys going out for football will receive their uniforms Aug. 27. Practice times will be announced at that time. Each boy going out for the team must have a physical examination and must pay $4.50 for an Athletic Accident Benefit Plan.

Coach Hoben, in his letter to parents, appealed to them to help their sons in regard to training rules, keeping their grades up and maintaining high morale. "Next to studies, football must come first to your son if he is to be a good player," the coach pointed out.

Automated Drive-In Can Turn Out 600 Hamburgers an Hour

Reflecting the age of automation, an entirely new type of drive-in was opened last week on S. Main St. in Plymouth by Burger Chef Systems, Inc.

Featuring 15 cent hamburgers and 15 cent milk shakes, and stressing "no-waiting" service, the Burger Chef establishment produces infra-red broiled hamburgers on toasted buns at a rate of 600 per hour by means of a newly-patented, conveyerized broiler-toaster. Even the mustard and catsup are dispensed automatically.

John Wyatt, vice-president of Burger Chef Systems, Inc., was in Plymouth for the grand opening ceremony last Thursday morning. City Manager Albert Glassford cut the ribbon to formally open the carry-out establishment.

Wyatt said that this is the 108th Burger Chef now open or under lease. It is the sixth in Michigan. There will be 11 open in the state before the summer is over.

Burger Chef Systems, Inc. is an outgrowth of a restaurant equipment manufacturing concern in Indianapolis. While it is a separate firm, directors of the two concerns are the same.

Milk shakes can be served as fast as they can be drawn, freezer-fresh and prepared to order, from the two spigots on an automatic mixer. The entire operation is geared to principals of automation and, running at capacity, could produce well over three million hamburgers and shakes annually. Hours are 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. seven days a week, and the store will be open year-round.

The Burger Chef menu will include cheeseburgers, French fried potatoes, coffee, milk and soft drinks. All service will be from two serving windows at the front of the "functional modern" 37 by 49 foot building while customers park in the paved lot which accommodates 60 cars.

The Burger Chef plan of operation, according to Harry Wiley, is based on a nation-wide survey of customer preferences in food and service and food storage, preparation and serving. All equipment is fabricated of stainless steel, easy to keep sparkling clean and operable with a minimum staff.

Equipment, building and land represent an investment of approximately $100,000. Other units already are open or in process of construction in a dozen midwest states and it is predicted that at least 125 will be in operation before the end of the year.

Associated Spring Declares Dividend

The Board of Directors of Associated Spring Corporation, Bristol, Conn., has declared a second quarter dividend of 35 cents per share outstanding. The dividend is payable September 10 to stockholders of record as of the close of business September 1. The company's first quarter dividend, like its 1959 third and fourth quarter dividends, was 35 cents per share.

Roland L. Sylvester was elected treasurer of the corporation. Sylvester, a board member, formerly was assistant treasurer and controller. He joined the firm in 1951 as assistant to the treasurer after serving as supervising accountant for the Hartford (Conn.) accounting firm of Ernst and Ernst.

Smile, Please Asks Contest At Fair

A great BIG SMILE is all that is needed for anyone in Michigan to enter the latest contest announced by the Michigan State Fair.

Just send a clear photograph of that BIG SMILE, along with name, age, address and phone number to the Michigan State Fair Smile Contest Director, Detroit 3, Mich. The photos must be entered by August 15.

You can enter yourself or you can send in a photo of your friend, child, parent or anyone in Michigan. The Smile Contest will have three divisions according to age groups:

1. Junior Division - ages 6 through 12
2. Teen-age Division - ages 13 through 19
3. Adult Division - ages 20 and up.

Three winning smiles will be picked, one in each of the divisions. The photographs will be judged by a committee comprised of representatives of the State Fair, the Detroit Press Photographers Association and the Michigan State Dental Societies, cooperating with the Smile Contest.

Each of the winners will be awarded a "Day at the State Fair." They will be given trophies at the Music Shell at 1 p.m. Friday, September 2, and then will be royally entertained. For example, the younger child will receive meal tickets and Midway rides; the teen-age winner will be a guest at the Pat Boone show and meet the stars; and the adult winner will be similarly feted. All will be otherwise entertained and treated as celebrities.

Pictures of the winners and semi-finalists will be enlarged and become an integral part of the large dental education exhibit during the State Fair, September 2 through 11, sponsored by the Michigan State Dental Societies. But it's the smile that counts — not the condition of the teeth.

You can wash a wool blanket at home if you use the "soak method." Experts tell us that wool blankets shrink when they're washed because of too much handling and agitation, not because of too much heat.

Contrary to common belief, the experts recommend that when we dry the blanket we use the hot setting of the dryer. This high temperature cuts agitation time to a minimum.

The "soak method" allows you to use an automatic washer if you can add the blanket after the water is in the machine.

First, fill the washer with warm water. Use a mild soap or detergent and let the machine action whip up a good suds. Then stop the machine.

Add the blanket and soak it in the sudsy water for 15 to 20 minutes. Turn it over a few times by hand. Set the dial to remove the water and let the machine squeeze excess water from the blanket.

To rinse the blanket, fill the tub with clear warm water again and stop the machine. Give the blanket a "soak" rinse for 5 to 10 minutes and turn it by hand a few times. Let the water spin out as before and rinse again.

You can dry the wool blanket in the dryer. Have the dryer set at "hot" and put in six bath towels. When the towels are hot, add the blanket. Drying time will vary with the individual blanket, but 20 minutes is about average. Remove the blanket while it is still slightly damp. Last is the "stretch" step. If you have help, stretch the blanket by pulling on opposite ends to reshape it. If you are alone, drape the blanket over a clothesline and pull on both ends. For a final touch, use a wire pet brush to smooth the entire surface and finish shaping it. Finally, drape the blanket over two parallel lines to complete drying.

RADIO FREE EUROPE OPERATIONS MAP

A RECENT VISITOR to the Radio Free Europe headquarters in Munich, Germany was Miss Elizabeth McDonald, 702 Ann St., a Plymouth High School teacher. Radio Free Europe is a network of 28 powerful transmit-

Living Ease From Work

A man's home may be his castle, but he spends most of his waking hours in his office. The significance of this is attested by the number of firms that specialize in re-decorating offices to make them more livable.

There's also a reverse twist to this idea, for American homeowners are not letting office decorating ideas stay in the office. Sheldon Cady, home improvement authority at Allied Chemical's Barrett Division, says that more and more equipment, materials and techniques that were formerly found only in offices are making their way into homes.

"Many things that were originally designed primarily for working comfort have become models of living comfort," he says. He cites as examples:

1. Windowless rooms cooled by air conditioning.
2. Translucent plastic panels, such as Allite, for room dividers.
3. Inter-com systems ranging from two-station "baby sitter" units to elaborate door-answering systems.
4. Ultra modern furnishings.
5. Ceilings finished with noise-muffling Barretone acoustical tiles.

Is Stork Taking Tranquilizers?

Lansing — Indications are that Mr. Stork is either on tranquilizers or still on the "slow-down" he started in Michigan in 1958. According to provisional figures released today by the Michigan Department of Health, the stork delivered 1,405 fewer bundles to Michigan doorsteps during the first three months of this year than he did last year during the same period on his Michigan route.

There were 42,463 babies born in the first quarter compared to 43,863 in 1959.

If the stork continues his lighter loads for the rest of the year, 1960 will be the third straight year he has been taking it easier since 1957 when he went all out by delivering a record high number of 208,488 precious bundles.

In 1958 he slowed down to 202,690 and this was the first year since 1948 that births hadn't increased in Michigan. The following year, 1959, he really put on the brakes and delivered only 197,809, according to state health department records.

Radio Free Europe's Listening Audience Reaches New High

The number of radio receivers in the captive countries of East Europe has more than doubled since Radio Free Europe went on the air 10 years ago, and the number of listeners to RFE broadcasts has reached an all-time high, it was announced by RFE Director Thomas H. Brown, Jr.

Radio Free Europe's expanding audience was reported by Brown as RFE marked its 10th anniversary. RFE, which now broadcasts 18 hours a day to Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary, and six hours daily to Romania and Bulgaria, went on the air on July 4, 1950.

In July 1950, there were approximately 4,250,000 radio sets in RFE's five target countries, Brown said. Today, there are 10,519,000 sets capable of receiving western broadcasts in these satellite countries.

During the past year alone the number of sets has increased by approximately 1,025,000. The statistics on radio receivers are based largely on official regime sources as analyzed by RFE's audience research section.

Interviews with 735 refugees and travelers from the satellite countries since early 1959 show that approximately 90 percent of them were RFE listeners, and that most of them listened regularly.

Brown said RFE was named as the "most preferred" and "most influential" of western stations by those interviewed.

A special study on listenership in Poland, based on interviews with 320 Polish refugees and travelers in West Europe, showed that more than 95 percent of them had listened to RFE, about 75 percent of them on a regular basis, Brown said.

The most popular broadcasts, in order of preference, were: news, political programs, information about the West, entertainment, music and religious, economic, educational and cultural programs. The most popular RFE program in Poland was "Polish Tea Party," a musical variety show featuring political satire.

Brown reported that the 320 Poles who were interviewed described RFE's five "main tasks" as follows:

1. "To inform the people and present a comprehensive picture of events."
2. "To point out the mistakes of the Communist regime."
3. "To inform the audience about the West."
4. "To keep the peoples' hopes alive and help them resist Communism."
5. "To inform the people about the situation in Poland."

When RFE went on the air July 4, 1950, it had only one shortwave transmitter. Today, 28 powerful transmitters in West Germany and Portugal carry RFE programs behind the Iron Curtain. More than 50 Communist radio stations and teletype services are monitored regularly by RFE, and hundreds of Communist newspapers and publications are carefully studied.

RFE's headquarters are in New York City, and the main European offices and studios are in Munich, West Germany. News bureaus are located in 10 major European cities.

A private, non-governmental network, RFE is supported by American contributions to the Radio Free Europe Fund. All contributions are used, without deductions, in sending undistorted news and information to the 78,000,000 captive people in East Europe.

The Wisest Choice...at The Wisest Time!

Is there a "right" time to move up to Cadillac? Ordinarily, our advice would be to put considerations of year and season aside when you think of the "car of cars".

For Cadillac always stands alone in what it is and does and represents—and the pleasures of owning this fine motor car are as timeless as they are tempting.

But today, we would confess that there are some very special benefits that await the man who finds himself ready for a new Cadillac.

Consider the merits of the car itself. Cadillac styling and engineering have produced for 1960 at their bountiful best. There is a look of beauty and a sense of fitness in every line of this creation. Its performance is truly classic—and its luxury is a constant inspiration.

And then, of course, there are several important factors of practicality to be considered. The car's current delivered cost promises a most pleasant surprise—its careful craftsmanship pledges a carefree and economical future—and its great reputation means a resale value that is predictably satisfying.

And, to add further to practicality, your dealer is currently in a position to extend a generous allowance on your present car.

So if you feel the time has come for your new Cadillac—you can count yourself doubly fortunate. For you will be making motordom's wisest choice at the wisest possible moment.

See your nearest Cadillac dealer soon—and see if we aren't right!

Bell Announces New Free Customer Aid Short Trips Can Wear Tires More

Michigan Bell Telephone Co. today announced a new "built-in" wiring service for customers building new homes.

Under the new program, concealed telephone wiring will be installed in all rooms of new houses.

The free service also is being offered by Michigan Bell for new one and two-story apartment buildings.

The wiring will be placed inside the walls during the period of construction, leaving no exposed wiring when the building is completed.

Telephone installers are now equipped with a special electronic detecting device they pass along the surface of a wall to locate the hidden wiring. The detecting device, especially developed by Michigan Bell, utilizes a transistorized amplifier to "hear" a humming tone transmitted throughout the desired telephone circuit. An installer then will cut a circular two-inch hole in the wall, pull out the telephone wires, and fasten them to a wall fixture that also was especially designed by Michigan Bell for pre-wired homes. The fixture and wall opening are covered by an attractive face plate about three inches in diameter and available in ivory, beige, or brown.

Customers will pay the regular installation charge when obtaining service, the same fee any other customer would pay.

The new service meets the trend toward "built-ins." A nationwide study, recently completed by McCall's magazine for its Third Annual Congress on Better Living, showed most women would like concealed telephone wiring throughout their homes. Two-thirds of the women said they considered concealed telephone wiring "very important."

One-third of the women, however, pointed to the "trouble and expense" in having homes pre-wired. Michigan Bell's new offering would nullify both objections because there no longer is any charge for the additional wiring and the wiring is installed before construction of a house is completed.

To take advantage of the new service a builder must give the telephone company advance notice as to when the electrical wiring will be completed. This is necessary because the telephone wiring must be installed before insulation, lath, or plaster is placed.

With concealed wiring, home owners are assured of sufficient wiring for future telephone needs.

Extension telephones, or jacks for portable phones, may be located anywhere a customer wishes under this plan. There will be no expense for patching or redecorating walls when a telephone is moved from one location to another. The old wall openings simply will be covered with two-inch face plates.

Installed when a house is constructed, "built-in" wiring allows neat telephone connections, and adds to the home's finished appearance and efficiency.

What He Didn't See He Collected

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI) — You name it, and Arthur J. Keck's got it. In the line of license plates, that is.

When he was 16, Keck became concerned about his inability to read markings on license plates of passing cars while on a motor trip to the Midwest. A month later he was back in his suburban home, wearing glasses to correct nearsightedness and starting a hobby because of his curiosity about license plates.

Now, at 39, Keck has a collection of some 2,500 plates from around the world. He keeps them in his attic, stored in various spots because the weight would be too much for the floor if they were piled in one place.

Keck has license plates from all the states and from more than 65 countries. The smallest comes from the Virgin Islands, the largest from Switzerland. The oldest were issued in 1906.

While most of the plates are made of metal, some were made from rubber, leather, cardboard and even pressed soybeans.

Keck said he found out that the Falkland Islands, off the South American coast, is one of the few places where no form of vehicle registration is required.

"There are only about 50 cars in the entire area, so practically everyone knows whose car is where," he said.

By GEORGE SPELVIN

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Plymouth Mail's entertainment writer, George Spelvin, recently traveled to Stratford, Ont. for the Shakespearean Festival. This is the first in a series about the world-famous Festival and the people he met there.)

CHICAGO (UPI) — A short trip to the shopping center may wear your tires more than a long trip on a super highway.

A tire can be worn as much from driving 13 miles an hour around one city street corner as from driving 10 miles without a turn, according to R. L. Marlowe, a physicist at the B. F. Goodrich Research Center.

Marlowe said that the way a driver turns corners, applies his brakes and accelerates are major factors in the life of his tires.

"While these operations take place over a very small part of the total mileage, their effect is large because the rate of wear for these operations can be 1,000 times as high as for normal straight-ahead operations," he said.

Wheels that are out of alignment also cause excessive tire wear, he said. A 1-degree misalignment can increase the rate of wear seven times, and a 2-degree misalignment will raise it 50 times.

Marlowe said new highways are causing tires to wear out three times faster than older roads. This is because surfaces of old roads grow less abrasive when they become coated with a mixture of tar, oil, dirt and rubber.

Her blue and white courtly costume with pink edging delicately placed filled the spacious dressing room with majestic beauty. To enhance her regal appearance she was wearing her crown. One had a feeling of being in the presence of royalty. The soft-spoken quality of Miss Harris' voice added a proper aura of dignity. She was every inch a queen in or out of the costume.

Miss Harris' deceptive plainness constantly gives off latent "sparks"—an ethereal, mystic quality that only hints at the powerful theatrical performances possible from such a mild-mannered individual.

A book of short stories by Tolstoy on her sofa-bed provided us with an opening question: "During those long stage waits in 'King John' you must have an opportunity to catch up on your reading?"

"Oh, yes. Presently, I'm reading Duerrenmatt's 'The Pledge.' Have you read it?"

Fortunately I had read the book. I commented that it might make an excellent stage play. Miss Harris thought it would make a better movie.

"What about Hollywood? Are you interested in doing more film work?"

"No. I much prefer the stage... even though some of my films were challenging. The stage provides me with more adult material."

I remarked that it hardly seemed 10 years had slipped by since she had jumped to stardom overnight with her sensitive portrayal of the mixed-up adolescent Frankie Adams in the prize play, "The Member of the Wedding." She agreed it had been a hectic decade indeed with her getting married to Manning Gurian, her manager; having a son, Peter—now five years old; and her many stage, screen and TV roles have kept her on the "go" constantly.

No matter how far or how fast Miss Harris travels in this frantic life of an artist, she has managed to have her family travel right with her at all times—even to the extent of renting a trailer during one of the tours.

Many of her Grosse Pointe friends and neighbors (her birthplace and parents' hometown) have driven over to Stratford, Ont. to enjoy her in "King John" and "Romeo and Juliet." Mother and Dad, like any proud parents, have been over several times to visit their grandson and daughter.

Miss Harris' kind and gracious ways made the 15 minutes we were with her fly by. We had hundreds of questions to ask, but we realized the hour was late and knew she must want to get home to the family fireside. The Gurians have rented a home for the summer in Stratford and are enjoying the many cultural advantages of this most unique Canadian community.

What are Julie Harris' plans for the immediate future? More high caliber television productions similar to her successful productions of "Johnny Belinda," "A Doll's House," or "Little Moon of Alban?" Television roles are not being accepted during the fall and winter of 1960 as she will be busy preparing an expanded stage production of "Little Moon of Alban." Present plans call for the production to be taken on a tryout tour for four weeks against a whole season as was the case with "The Warm Peninsula."

Peter, her lively son, and Mr. Gurian are looking forward to renting an apartment in New York City when "Little Moon of Alban" hits Broadway. Miss Julie Harris, a modest, gentle actress, commands great respect from audiences and critics alike when she takes her place on the American stage. Thus, her hubby might well bargain for a long lease on that New York apartment.

Our last plea to Miss Harris was: please don't forget the Detroit audiences and make certain that her current production will eventually take to the "road." We need an evening in the theater every now and then rich in the deep, sensitive acting style that is her specialty. Miss Julie Harris has the depth and resourcefulness to give to whatever might be the mood of the play, merry or malicious.

JULIE HARRIS dressed as Blanch of Spain talks with our Front Row Center columnist, George Spelvin, in the quiet of her spacious dressing room. George reports that Miss Harris does an outstanding job in her two roles with the Stratford Shakespearean Festival Co. Miss Harris appears as Juliet in "Romeo and Juliet" and as Blanch in "King John." She will be at Stratford, Ont. with the Festival players until Sept. 17.

Reflecting for a moment on what makes a play outstanding or worthy of attendance or more than one time brought me around to the word, "human." The element of human warmth and concern permeates any play that has classic endurance. As a member of the audience, productions with this human quality, it behooves us to make the "human" application. Our lives become suddenly intertwined with the situation on stage and the theatrical offering takes on added stature.

By the way, you will have a chance to see "Picnic" next season. The Nankin Mills players have selected it as their third play of the season. Let's hope that they give Mr. Norton a call at the University of Michigan. I'm sure he would be receptive to an invitation to discuss the producing of a most difficult play.

Earlier in the season the Nankin Mills players have selected "Bell, Book, and Candle" as one of their productions. Here is another play more than usually difficult for amateur players. Author John Van Druten put this play aside for three years after finishing it because he couldn't find the right leads. Rex Harrison and Lilli Palmer came along and did the roles to a "T." Unless Miss Julie Harris and Christopher Plummer decide to join the Nankin Mills group of actors, at present it might be well for them to shelve this production.

Speaking of Miss Julie Harris, let's visit this kind, considerate actress via an interview I had with her a couple of weeks ago. It's worth the ride over to Stratford, Ontario to watch the Canadian players and Miss Harris perform with the consummate skill that comes only after years of devotion to the profession.

"Miss Harris?"

Mr. Jack Karr, the Shakespearean Festival's publicity director, followed this query with a discreet knock on a cream-colored brown dressing room door. The door opened ever so slightly and Miss Harris, resplendent in a yellow dressing gown attractively designed with miniature red and blue dragons, stood wide-eyed and apprehensive.

"Oh, I had forgotten you were coming. I'll slip into my costume. You'll want to take some pictures, won't you?"

"Why... yes... we had planned on at least two."

"It will take me only a minute."

We waited down the hall among the realistic Shakespearean props used daily in the productions. They stood silently with us in this large room backstage and gave off an air of authenticity even upon close inspection. Mr. Karr went to Mr. Christopher Plummer's dressing room to see when he would be ready for his interview. In a matter of seconds, Jack Karr was back informing me that Mr. Plummer was showering and would be able to see us right after our talk with Miss Harris.

By this time, Miss Harris had opened her dressing room door partially, the signal for us to enter and chat with her.

Some Corrective Ideas On State Job Climate

(Michigan's "job climate" is a matter of concern to citizens on all levels. The following is an address delivered by Robert P. Briggs of the Chrysler Corporation to the State Chamber of Commerce. We are printing it today because it contains a number of important thoughts on the solution of the woes of a State which is struggling to escape the handcuffs of being a "one-industry" community, that of automotive production.)

By R. P. BRIGGS

From Ohio and Indiana on the south to Wisconsin and Minnesota on the west, Michigan businessmen have certain beliefs in common.

We do believe in the free enterprise system. We do believe in the two-party system. As a State Chamber of Commerce we are bipartisan—but we do want every businessman within our borders to make the party of his choice a force for the betterment of Michigan!

Outstate Michigan needs Detroit businessmen. And Detroit businessmen need outstate Michigan. In short, we both are desperately in need of a united voice for all Michigan business.

But unless we all stand together—businessmen from every area of the state—there can be no united voice for Michigan business.

TAX PROBLEM CRITICAL

Perhaps one of the most crucial issues Michigan business needs to be heard on is the critical tax question facing this state.

As one businessman to other businessmen, let me offer a few basic taxation concepts for consideration. These concepts are probably more correctly truisms since they are so basic, few will argue with them—regardless of their political philosophy.

Our state legislature is a policy-making body like a board of directors.

But no self-respecting corporate board of directors—especially as you and I know them—would accept the responsibility we give to our legislature. We want our Michigan legislature to evaluate the legislative programs and needs of the state and to allocate the necessary funds to accomplish a maximum of benefit, just as a corporate board of directors allocates funds for the benefit of the corporation.

But there is a unique difference. We give our corporate boards freedom of action. But we—yes, we—the people of Michigan—constitutionally bind our legislators' hands and limit their authority over our state's finances.

Of all the state monies collected each year—the bulk is constitutionally or legislatively previously assigned or restricted. The legislature currently has control over about one-third of the total amount collected.

FREEDOM IN NEW LAW

A policy-making body should have freedom of action and the proposed sales tax amendment carries the important advantage of giving our board of directors—our state legislature—a one-cent tax that it may elect to levy, in total or in part, and the right to exercise legislative discretion as to its use.

In fact, the legislature might decide not to use any of the tax—but it at least is entitled to adequate tools to do its job.

We are all aware that taxes on business ultimately fall upon the consumer. If Michigan business taxes are greater than in our competitor states—then Michigan business is unfairly handicapped when competing for national and world markets and is losing part of the potential of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Both of the recent Michigan tax studies show that taxes on Michigan business are excessive. I doubt if anyone here will take exception to that finding. Business taxes should be reduced. Reduced Michigan business taxes would result in lower product costs to Michigan consumers.

Reduced taxes on business would improve our competitive position and stimulate the flow of risk capital to Michigan which would increase Michigan's job opportunities.

The penalty Michigan business must pay in high taxes is further compounded by the tremendous amount it has paid in unemployment compensation.

UNEMPLOYMENT TAX HIGH

For the calendar year of 1959 the Employment Security Commission disbursed $135 million in unemployment benefits. I believe we can all agree that is a staggering amount. But what is even more startling is to realize that if Michigan business could take only half of this money for business expansion and industrial development, our future unemployment costs would be reduced.

It is essential that we broaden the base for business taxes if the business climate of Michigan is to be improved. Harry Hall has already observed that a 1.0 to 1.3 billion dollar investment in Michigan annually is necessary if we are to provide job opportunities for the 80,000 to 100,000 people being added annually to our work force.

Such an investment by business will substantially increase the tax base of Michigan—bolster tax revenues—or make it possible to reduce taxes.

And this investment has a humanitarian objective—wherein business and labor can join forces in the creation of the 80,000 to 100,000 new jobs needed each year.

As we see it, the task before us is threefold. We need—

To retain our present jobs—

To gain jobs by expanding existing Michigan business—

And to create new jobs.

The most obvious way of creating new jobs is to improve our job climate and attract new business and industry to Michigan.

Another course of action is to stimulate industrial research and capture for Michigan the jobs resulting from the creation and development of new products and new ideas.

Thriving industries have been spawned elsewhere by research and the same thing can happen here in Michigan.

For example—not too many years ago New England woke up to the realization it had lost its textile industry. The area was suffering economically and unemployment was at a high level. But research at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and other higher educational institutions in the area, as well as by forward looking private enterprise companies, spawned the electronics industry and New England was on the road to recovery.

California also illustrates what research and a deliberate course of action can do for a state with economic problems. Until World War II, California's economy was based to a large extent on two things—natural resources and sunshine.

LOOK AT CALIFORNIA

A high percentage of retired people lived in southern California. But today California is not just a home for the aged—it is the place where the airplane industry developed to maturity and where the electronics industry has created hundreds of thousands of jobs through research by industry and by such institutions as Stanford University and the University of Southern California.

What happened in California was no accident. In 1943 the West Coast electronics companies formed an association and went after military business. By acting collectively they began a growth that has had a profound effect upon the economy of that region. Sales volume has multiplied nearly fifty times and is now at an annual rate of two billion dollars—with two-thirds of this amount accounted for by the Los Angeles area where more than 84,000 people are now employed by electronics companies with a total annual payroll in excess of 500 million dollars.

We have great reservoirs of research facilities in Michigan.

The University of Michigan Research Institute has research contracts amounting to twelve and a half million dollars a year. The University has a working tie-in with the Bendix, Parke Davis and other research laboratories located adjacent to the Ann Arbor campus.

Michigan's other great colleges and universities—such as Michigan State, Wayne State, and the University of Detroit have excellent research facilities and are striving for closer cooperation with business and industry.

There are at least 32 private research organizations in Michigan specifically equipped and organized to perform research in electronics, nucleonics, chemistry and general engineering.

In addition, many Michigan industries—including automobile manufacturers, chemical and drug companies, to name but a few, as well as many represented in this room today—have tremendous industrial research facilities spawning new products and industries.

RESEARCH IS AT WORK

All of these research centers are producing new ideas every day, and it is our responsibility to make Michigan so attractive that the resulting new jobs spawned by Michigan research are kept in Michigan!

There is a third source for new jobs in Michigan—a longer range program deserving the full support of every Michigan citizen—be his collar blue or white. That source is the aggressive tackling of the problem of the waste lands within our borders.

Upwards to 40 percent of Michigan's landed areas are now technically classified as waste land. Why it is even possible today to homestead some land in Michigan!

Our so-called waste land is—in reality—one of Michigan's great undeveloped natural resources.

It has been proved—by research—and demonstrated by practice—that this land can be reclaimed for industrial, agricultural, tourist, resort and recreation use.

For example—

The W. K. Kellogg farm near Augusta was once classed as unproductive—but has been turned into lush green fields by Michigan State University agricultural experts.

Research has developed the know-how to convert fished out and almost dried out creek beds into well-stocked, bountiful trout streams, attracting many thousands of tourists and their dollars, each year.

Michigan now has a four million dollar blueberry crop—on land, much of which was formerly off the tax rolls or on the tax rolls as almost worthless.

I could continue citing examples. But the point is now apparent.

The reclaiming of our waste lands and the development of new industries through research—can create new jobs and increase Michigan's population. And—equally important—can add additional sums to the tax base of Michigan.

As industries are spawned, plants and factories built, and jobs created—tax revenue increases.

ELINOR WILLIAMS

Q.—"Dear Elinor: My best friend goes with the same girl I do (we are both 17-year-old boys). Her mother doesn't want her to go steady and wants her to go with both of us. My friend and I had a fight about who would date her. How can we make this work out without breaking up our friendship?"

Ans.—Are you sure that the girl's mother is the one who wants her to date both of you? Did you hear her say so?

Q.—"Dear Miss Williams: I went with a boy last year, but we broke up because we were always fighting. Now we're back together again, because we really like each other, but we just had another fight. What should we do?"

Ans.—Try to agree with him to give dating each other one more trial. If you really want to "get along," there's a good chance you will. Avoid arguments; don't answer (change the subject) when one starts. When you disagree, skip it if it's about a little thing. If it's really important, "talk it out" calmly and quietly until you reach an agreement. But if you continue to blow your tops at the same time or if he won't talk things out or compromise, you might as well break it up and date three friends instead of as

Handwriting Is Clue About You

Dear Miss Williams: I am going to study engineering (I hope). Do you think I have any ability along that line? I hope this is enough writing to make an analysis.

Thank you, John

Dear John: You are a very determined boy with a mind of your own. You are an independent thinker and follow your own ideals. You do not believe in always following custom, you will act according to your own thinking and beliefs.

There is more than an average amount of constructive ability in your writing. You are a builder and have a good imagination and a very good memory. I hope you succeed in your engineering course, you do have ability and good determination.

Dear Miss Williams: I have read your column for a long time with interest and finally decided to write in to you. Is it easier to analyze good penmanship than scribbling?

Dear Mrs. Hanson: No, — good penmanship is not easier to analyze. Sometimes it is very hard to find as many little traits as you'd find in so called scribbling. Basically every piece of writing is a challenge to an analyst.

Your writing shows you to be very self-conscious. You are not sure of yourself and have very little determined effort.

You are very generous and even tempered. You do not get irritated but are very sensitive. Your feelings are easily hurt and you imagine things to be worse than they are.

You are capable of a alert thinking and enthusiasm when you are sailing along nicely. Fortunately your feelings do not run deeply so you can shrug off these hurts instead of carrying them around in your mind to build up into a mountain. Thank you for writing.

Dear Miss Williams: My husband thinks handwriting analysis is the bunk. Just like fortune telling. I've been sneaky and got some of his writing, would you analyze the enclosed memorandum and see what you find?

A Reader: Dear Reader: Your husband is a strong willed, forceful, and very determined person. He is emphatic, makes up his mind of no and sticks by it.

He has an exceptional memory, is very loyal to his own ideals and watches every little detail.

There is a desire for activity, to get out and do things and he has no trouble "fitting in" with a crowd.

He has a definite aim and purpose, knows where he is going and will have no trouble getting there.

An Educator Speaks

'Differences Among Pupils Should Be Made Greater'

ANN ARBOR — The task of the effective teacher is not to remove ability differences in children but actually to make the differences greater, declares Ronald J. Lecker, consultant in The University of Michigan Bureau of School Services.

'Development of each child's potential will of course make ability differences greater but by no means be considered undemocratic,' he contends. He cites the Rockefeller Report: 'Judgements of differences in talent are not judgements of differences in human worth.'

'Differences in ability in children do exist,' Lecker says. 'Beyond grade four, there may be a spread of six years or more in any one grade.'

To recognize these differences, he adds a school must have a good record system, communication between staff members, and comprehensive testing, guidance and counseling programs.

Lecker says the ideal classroom teacher should have four qualities:

A thorough knowledge of students; flexibility in operating within the teaching schedule; the wisdom to encourage individual work; and sufficient classroom control to allow freedom for independent study.

Lecker points out that no one system of program planning for individual differences will be effective for all schools. But adjustments should not be rejected or accepted solely on the label of "progressive" or "traditional," he warns.

Lecker cites as possible program adjustments: acceleration, summer school (for both rapid and slow learners); ability grouping of students, special interest clubs, research projects and reading assignments, language laboratories, extra subjects and seminars for able students.

It is important to give individual students the skills they will inevitably need in our society, for "In 20 years the labor force will grow by 21 million; the professional and technical force will grow 75 per cent; and laborers and unskilled will decrease 23 per cent," he concludes.

Keen Competition Marks Motel Industry Growth

NEW YORK (UPI)—Many motels of the future also may call themselves "airtels."

If so, the Gardens Motel in Chipley, Ga., will be the trailblazer, or "airblazer." It is the only one in the United States which has a private landing field on its own property.

Two other motels, situated in crowded metropolitan areas where long landing strips are impractical, furnish helicopter service to their airport. They are located in Arlington, Va., near Washington, and in Cincinnati.

These facilities reflect the keen competition that is taking place in the motel industry, which has become a "big business" during the past two decades.

In 1939 there were only 13,000 motels in the nation, and most of them offered only the bare necessities of an overnight stay.

But today there are almost 60,000 motels in operation and those which fail to offer certain luxuries seldom put up "no vacancy" signs. In the south motels without swimming pools are rare.

To meet the competition, some motels have banded into associations which set high standards that must be met by each member. Thus, each motel becomes an advertisement for every motel in the association. In turn, the association checks each motel to determine what it needs to attract the motorist.

"Closed circuit television is a feature becoming more and more prominent," said Tommy Tucker, president of the largest association of independently operated motor courts in the nation (Quality Courts United).

There are 75 motels throughout the country which already offer this facility," said Tucker, whose headquarters is in Daytona Beach, Fla.

Tucker said the development of the motel industry has helped make other businesses successful.

"For instance, the industry spends $3.2 million annually for guest soap," Tucker said. "The same amount is spent annually for post cards. There's nearly $54 million invested in beds, $15 million in lamps, $65 million in swimming pools, $44 million in television sets, $40 million in chairs, $2 million in waste baskets, $6 million in soft drink dispensers and so forth."

Tucker believes the future of the industry is brilliant. "Travel is increasing all the time," he said. "With more and better highways being added annually this trend will continue. The motel industry, I feel, will grow by leaps and bounds and will, as time goes by, play an even greater role in America's economy."

Evans Introduces Dual-Purpose Auto Haul-Away, Freight Truck

A versatile new dual-purpose trailer designed to haul automobiles from factory to dealers and quickly convertible for a profitable return haul with dry package freight has been introduced by a firm that is jointly owned by the Evans Products Co. of Plymouth.

The vehicle can move on railroad flat cars as piggy-back or on its own wheels over the highway, directly from auto loading yard to auto dealer's door.

The trailer, which is completely enclosed, is designed to reduce auto shipping costs by eliminating damage and pilferage. It is produced by the Dual-Evans Corp., a firm jointly owned by Evans Products Co. of Plymouth and the Dual Motors Corp. of Detroit.

A spokesman said that the product will probably be produced by a trailer making corporation plans to lease the Dual-Evans trailers to railroads.

Design of the unit permits a railroad or trucker to convert the trailer from an auto hauler to a dry freight hauler without special tools in less than 10 minutes and back again when desired. The new patented Dual-Evans trailer has a convenient standard dock-height floor which permits loading of the trailer with mechanized loading equipment. This provides a new unusual means for transporting most any product. It offers great opportunities for securing pay loads in both directions as opposed to one-way loads.

"The Dual - Evans device provides a far more efficient and profitable transport of freight by carriers than we've had" said Edward S. Evans, Jr.

"With this trailer, a railroad or a fleet operator can schedule transportation of automobiles one-way and revenue producing dry package freight returning, or he can haul autos both ways, or package freight both ways. This allows great flexibility coupled with reduced costs in the delivery of products," he said.

"This is the first device which enables railroads to pick up automobiles at the factory and move them tightly covered and sealed directly to auto dealers," he explained.

Piggy-back use of the new Dual - Evans equipment on railroad flat cars provides a proven method of cutting costs of transporting products, particularly on long hauls. Load restrictions during frost break-up months present no problem when the trailer goes piggy - back over the rails.

The advantage that this device has over the conventional auto haulaway trailer is that it may be converted for dry freight hauling during the months when auto plants are not producing and shipping automobiles, as is the case during the new model change - over period, Evans said.

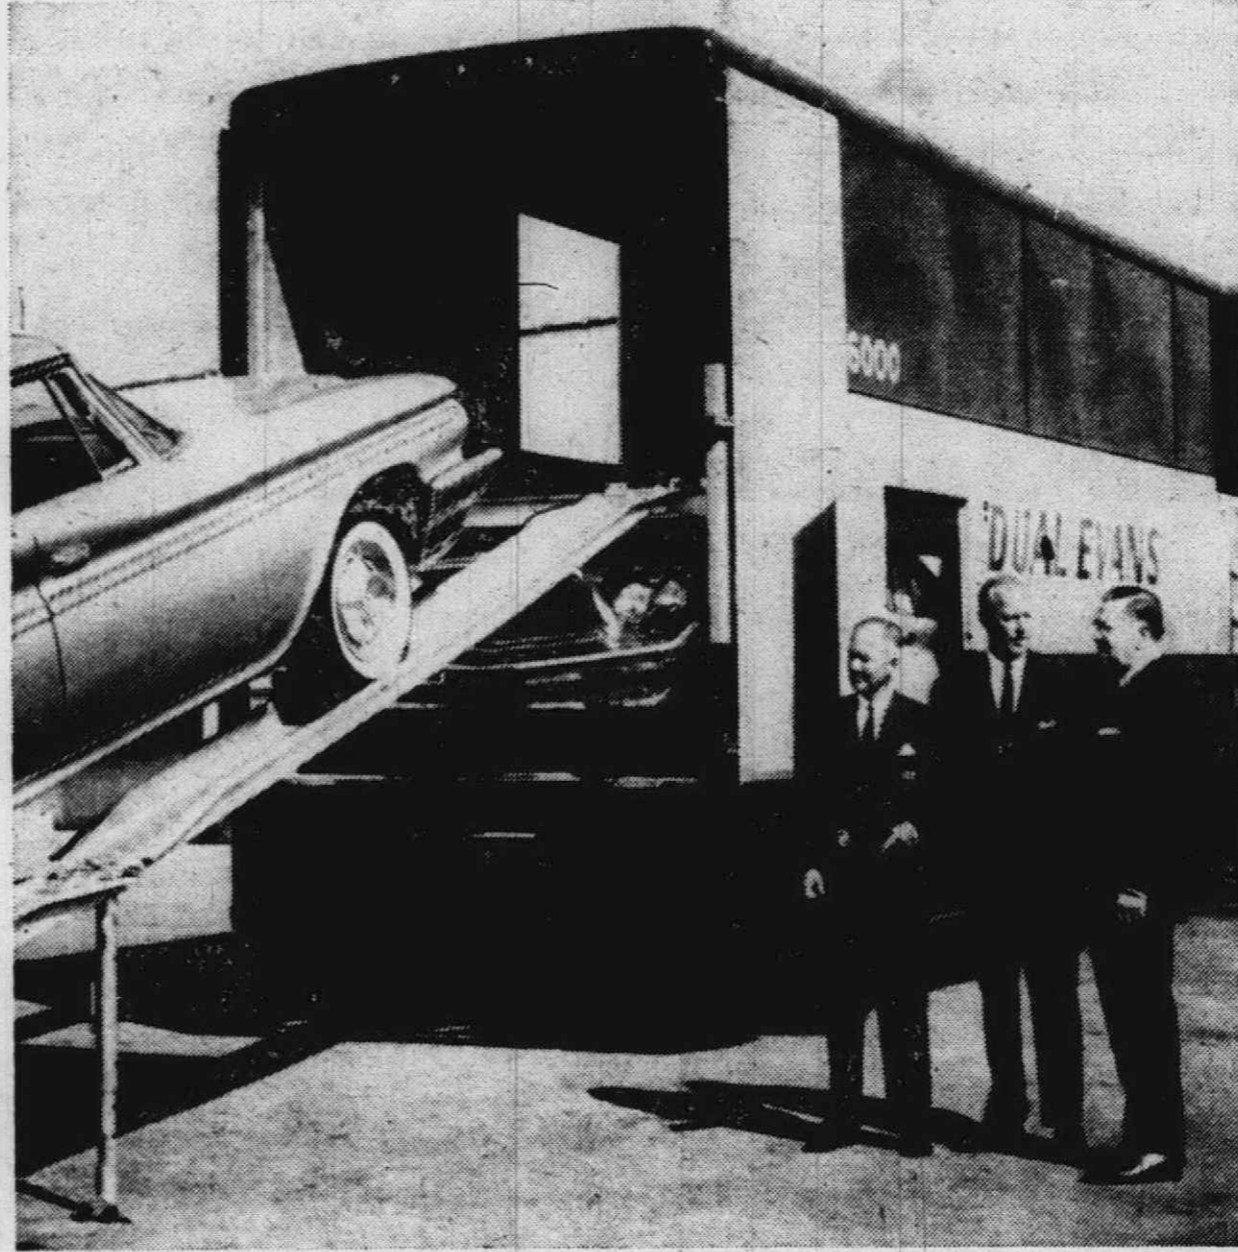

"By making more efficient use of existing railroad rolling stock, piggy - back transportation has increased railroad revenue by 300 percent and offered shippers all-weather transportation in any direction. Most railroads and highway truck operators are faced with the problem of 'one-way' loads. The Dual-Evans trailer solves these problems," he said.

Introduction of the Dual-Evans trailer now offers railroads and fleet operators a means to secure a significant percentage. This is an area in which there is much to be done, Evans said.

Autos are released from plants clean, highly polished, and with all optional equipment and accessories as ordered. When shipped in a weather proof enclosed Dual-Evans unit they are locked and sealed from damage by sand or hail and may be delivered to dealers just as they were loaded without reloading or handling enroute, he pointed out.

When the trailers are converted for use as dry freight haulers, cargoes are protected from load shift damage through use of Evans Damage Free devices which lock cargoes in place.

Highway trailers now produce revenues of some $4,000,000,000 per year. Their number has increased five times over the past 15 years.

A VERSATILE new trailer that can haul automobiles from a factory to dealers and then be easily converted for a return haul with dry package freight has been introduced by the Dual-Evans Corp., a firm jointly owned by Evans Products of Plymouth. Shown previewing the model are Ben Colman, president of the Dual-Evans Corp.; Edward S. Evans, Jr., director and Eugene A. Casaroll, vice-president and treasurer of the company. Small doors in the side of the trailer permit auto drivers to climb out of cars after they are driven inside the trailer.

Evans Products Company of Plymouth is a pioneer in the development and manufacture of specialized damage-free railroad loading equipment. Dual Motors has years of valuable experience in the design and use of highway equipment.
