$37,053 Goal Set By Community Fund

A 1960 fund raising goal of $37,053 was approved last week by the directors of the Plymouth Community Fund.

The directors met Sept. 8 to approve the final figures recommended by its Goals and Allocations Committee acting on the requests of the 10 agencies supported by the Community Fund.

Hugh M. Griffin, president of the Community Fund, said that "This year's goal, if reached, will be the largest amount ever raised by the Plymouth Community Fund." Agency requests this year totaled over $42,000 or more than $8,000 higher than the 1959 goal. Griffin said that the final figure approved last week represents about a 10 percent increase over 1959.

The 1960 quota, if successfully reached in next month's fund raising drive, will be allocated as follows:

Boy Scouts, $4,560; Girl Scouts, $3,000; Salvation Army, $3,500; and Visiting Nurse, $2,000.

Two Showings Of Movie For Symphony Set

There will be many people just starting out their evening when midnight nears this Saturday.

At 11:45 p.m., a premiere showing of Tchaikovsky's "Swan Lake" will be at the Penn Theatre. The Russian-made movie in Technicolor has been released through an agreement between the American film industry and the Soviet Union.

Children will also be given a chance to see the film Saturday at 11 a.m.

The film will climax Plymouth Symphony Week and all proceeds will be donated to the Plymouth Symphony Society. Members of the Society will be admitted free. Admission for non-members is $1. The box office will open at 10:45 for sale of memberships.

The film features the famous Bolshoi Ballet in a complete performance of the ballet, "Swan Lake." This film is not the American-made film of the same name released about a year ago.

Children under 12 can see the film for 40 cents Saturday at 11 a.m. The box office opens at 10:30. Other students will pay 70 cents and adults, $1 for this performance.

The Junior Symphony League is sponsoring the morning showing.

Another allotment of $4,833 will go to the United Health and Welfare Fund agencies administered through the United Foundation to make these services available to residents of Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

The Community Fund's 1960 fund raising campaign is scheduled to begin on Oct. 17. Russell Isbister, Superintendent of the Plymouth Community School District, is serving as General Chairman of the campaign this year.

NEWS BEAT

Something new in the way of vandalism is going to cost Plymouth Township some money. Discovered Monday morning were five holes in the Lake Pointe Village water tower, undoubtedly put there by a high-powered deer rifle. The matter is being investigated by the County Road Patrol. The water tower firm that constructed it will send men out to plug up the holes that are pouring forth water.

EVERYTHING GOES: The Post Office intended to offer only cider and donuts to visitors on Sunday's open house. But employees soon noticed children walking around eating candy bars. The Postal Employees group keeps several boxes of candy on a table in one corner for sale to its own members. They forgot to put them away. Youngsters, thinking the bars were part of the refreshments, consumed the entire supply.

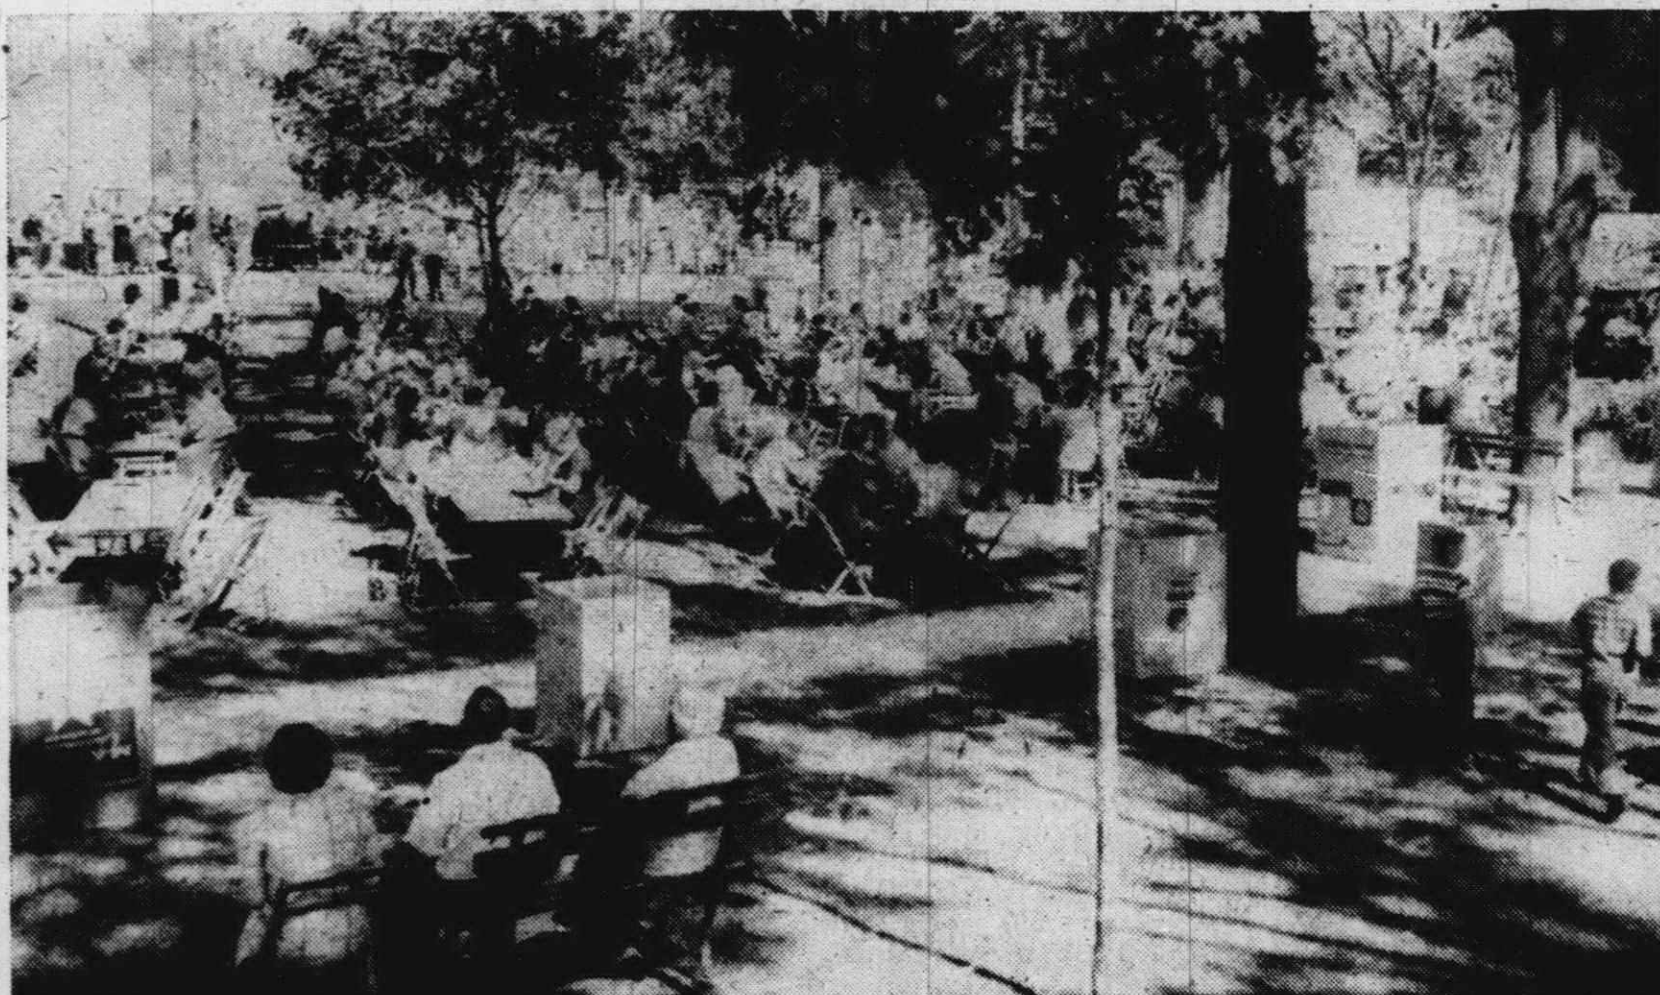

Incidentally, all costs involved in the dedication were paid for by local business, not by Uncle Sam.

YOU TOO: Federal government people from the Bureau of Labor Statistics were asked to go to City Hall to obtain a solicitor's permit after several residents complained to police. The fact-gatherers were making a routine poll, but they too are required to obtain City permit to make a house-to-house canvass.

FIRE RUNS: More serious damage was averted at the Sell home on Marlowe last Wednesday when fire crept up draperies and caused some damage to the home. Township firemen estimated damage at $170. A couple returning to their car downtown Saturday found the front seat smoldering. They drove the car to City Hall where firemen handled the matter.

RELATIVES HERE: Many local people were acquainted with Owen J. Cleary, former secretary of state, who died in Ypsilanti last weekend. He was head of Cleary College and had a distinguished record of public service. But most closely acquainted were the Mac Donnellys on Sunset. Mrs. Donnelly, a teacher at Starkweather, is a sister of Mrs. Cleary.

BIG AFFAIR: All women are invited to a special affair this Saturday sponsored by the Soroptimists in behalf of a program for the senior citizens. Starting at 12:30 in the new Arbor Lill dining hall, the luncheon will have some of the state's well-known women. For details, see Page 7 in Section 2.

LOOKING OVER the crowd, one could find lots of people they knew last Sunday afternoon in Kellogg Park. The Fall Festival, with chicken barbecue and corn roast, attracted 2,700 to eat plus hundreds of others who came to view the displays. It was the largest effort of its kind ever attempted downtown.

Fall Festival Crowd Does Away With 2,750 Chicken Dinners

A bunch of sore-backed, sunburned Rotarians folded up the tables and put out the fires dragged themselves home—confident that they had successfully put on one of the biggest shindigs of its kind ever attempted downtown.

The Fall Festival, with chicken barbecue and corn roast, had lived up to all its expectations. There were 2,800 chicken halves ready for serving. All but 50 were sold.

The 2,750 chicken dinners well exceeds the 1,300 sold two years ago behind the High School.

It was perfect weather for the event. Weather was the one thing that had them worried. Serving started at 12:30 and continued past the 6 o'clock closing time. It was estimated that there were hundreds of other people on the grounds who did not eat there.

Several hundred chickens at a time were grilled over the long pits located in the lot beside the Penn Theatre. Behind this, a traction steam engine owned by Wilford Bunya was brought in from which live steam was used to cook the corn. Other corn was roasted over charcoal.

Blasts from the steam engine gave the crowd a sound they had not heard for a long time—since the steam locomotives disappeared.

Ceremony Thursday Night

Episcopalians Dedicate Church

Dedication of the new St. John's Episcopal Church and Parish House will take place this Thursday at 8 p.m. with the bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan officiating.

The edifice, with its many unique features, will be filled with many of the Episcopal clergy, local ministers, civic officials as well as members.

Officials from the City and Township of Plymouth and the City of Northville have been invited.

Dedication of the new church and parish house will bring to fulfillment a program which was initiated when the rector, the Rev. David T. Davies, came to Plymouth almost nine years ago.

The site was bought in June 1952 from Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Willoughby and the breaking of the ground for the rectory took place in August 1952. It was occupied by the rector and his family in April 1953.

The new church and parish house, located at 574 Sheldon Rd., is attracting many visitors from near and far. It is almost impossible to drive past the church without having one's attention drawn to it. The oriental roof lines and the snow white roof sets it apart as being a rather unusual church.

At night, the 30 foot lighted cross which stands in the courtyard attracts the attention of passersby and serves as a witness to the Christian Faith.

The building is 168 feet long and 84 feet wide and provides complete facilities for worship and church school activities as well as the other activities of the parish. A spacious study for the rector faces out on a courtyard and adequate parish office space has been provided.

A unique feature of the church proper is the courtyard which serves as the background for the altar. This is situated in the north end of the building for the reason that the altar end of the church is entirely of glass and this eliminates any possibility of glare. The courtyard is tastefully landscaped and is illuminated at night.

The influence of the liturgical movement can readily be seen in the church. For example, the altar is free-standing, which enables the celebrant to face the congregation.

Democratic Top-Brass Gathers For Swainson Campaign Kick-off

Democrats on national, state and local levels congregated in the normally Republican stronghold of Plymouth last Thursday night to help Lt. Governor John B. Swainson kick off his fall campaign.

Some 350 people spent the evening at the Junior High School listening to party leaders express confidence of victory in the Nov. 8 election—but still challenging them to get out and work.

Al Meyers, chairman of the 17th District democrats, was master of ceremonies of the reception that began 45 minutes later and without the guest of honor and most of the Democratic candidates. They were in Detroit taping a TV show.

Lt. Gov. Swainson was the first to arrive as the candidates, one by one, raced from the studio to Plymouth.

Last to arrive, after the formal program was over, was a man who is not a candidate. He was Gov. G. Mennen Williams, who pumped hands and gave a rousing talk to the remaining crowd—just as ambitiously as though he were seeking another term.

The Plymouth Democratic Club sponsored the affair. By opening his campaign in Plymouth, the lieutenant governor follows the tradition of Gov. Williams who always opened his campaign drive in lieutenant governor candidate; Otis Smith, attorney general candidate; James Hare, secretary of state; Sanford Brown, state treasurer; Dr. Lynn Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction; and Senator Phillip Hart.

Also, Dr. Lynn Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction; State Senator Ray Dzundzel of the 18th district; State Representative Harvey Beadle of the 21st district; Neil Staebler, Democratic State Central Committee chairman; Circuit Court Judges Georges Bowles of Plymouth, Theodore Bohm and Horace Gilmore; Wayne County Democratic chairman Elsie Gilmore; and other party chairmen and campaign chiefs.

In his short address concluding the evening, Lt. Governor Swainson paid tribute to Senator Hart, his parents, Gov. and Mrs. Williams, his wife Alice, friends, legislators.

tion for the Prayer of Consecration in the Holy Communion. This also enables the congregation to observe the manual acts which accompany the prayer.

The choir is located in a gallery which is situated above the Narthex which brings the congregation into close proximity to the altar for the Holy Communion which is offered by the priest and people together.

Another unique feature of the church is the fact that modern materials have been used in a very interesting and pleasing manner in the construction of the altar, pulpit and lectern. The altar is made of steel, brick and marble and is designed to portray the sacrificial and fellowship meal aspects of the Holy Communion.

The pulpit and lectern are almost identical, having been made of brick and steel. In Scriptures and the preaching of the Gospel, provision has been made for the reading of Morning and Evening Prayer from the same locations. Multi-functionalism has played an important part in the design of the building which increases its usefulness many fold.

The dual function of the lectern and pulpit, for example, eliminates the necessity for prayer desks and chairs in the chancel area. In this church the chancel area is wide open and the attention of the worshippers is focused on the altar; also, easy access is provided to the altar rail for the receiving of the sacrament of Holy Communion.

The parish hall has also been designed with many uses in mind. It can be used for parish dinners as well as for other parish meetings. Through the use of folding-type doors, it can be divided into 10 classrooms for church school purposes. A well-planned kitchen is provided as well as a parlor which is also used as a choir room.

The floors in the parish hall and offices are asbestos tile which were laid by the men of the parish. Also the lawn has been prepared and seeded by the men with the rector directing the operation.

The building was designed by Daniels Associates of Ann Arbor with David Trautman serving as Project Architect. The General Contractor was Burger Construction Company of Plymouth.

RUSS MYNNING, new plant manager of the Plymouth Branch of the Ann Arbor Construction Co., has reported back to his work-a-day world over at 939 Mill St. after a glorious three day outing at Traverse City, Michigan.

Symphony Membership Drive Carried To Business

Businessmen will be calling upon other businessmen this week as the Plymouth Symphony continues its annual membership campaign.

David Mather, owner of Plymouth Lumber, is general chairman of the business drive for Symphony membership. He and his committee this week began the annual push for memberships. Local business has been very receptive in past years in supporting Plymouth's 100-piece Symphony.

David Mather
Business Drive Chairman

Soon to start its 15th season, the Symphony has six free concerts each year. These concerts attract over 8,000 people, annually, many of whom come from out-of-town.

"There are many case histories of families which have moved to Plymouth because of the Symphony," Mather pointed out. "It was not because they were necessarily avid music lovers, but they believed that a community which supports such things as a Symphony will sustain other fine things in which they believe, and help create a satisfactory environment for their family. This has a positive attraction to new business and industry."

The Symphony also found that its concerts were advertised in 21 different newspapers and on at least seven radio and TV stations.

Money received through memberships not only help sustain the Symphony, but also has provided 150 free tickets to children to attend the Detroit Symphony Children's Concerts; sponsorship of a Youth Symphony; and maintains a scholarship program to send students to Interlochen.

"The existence of the Symphony makes the community a more desirable place in which to live and do business," Mather continued. "It is hoped therefore that Plymouth business and industry will recognize the contribution and will be generous in their support."

Each of the candidates for the state administrative board was given a chance to speak earlier in the evening.

Staebler likened the reception to a coming-out party and he added that "we're all in love with the debutante." He asserted that "We couldn't be happier with a candidate."

Senator Hart predicted that Swainson "will wear the mantle of the greatest governor this nation ever knew." The senator had flown from Washington to be at the party. He complained of a sore throat and related that just that morning he was tempted to grab some of the samples of anti-biotics that were on the table when he and a committee of senators were questioning representatives of the drug industry.

It was shortly after 10 o'clock, when Gov. Williams made his appearance. The program was over and the crowd had abandoned the warm cafeteria for the courtyard. Gov. Williams climbed on a picnic table and in a talk that lasted longer than those heard earlier, forecast that the candidate for governor would do an outstanding job.

Cookies and punch were served from a long table at one end of the room. Heading the Plymouth Democratic Club committee that arranged the program were Jack Ruland and Orville Tungate. Charles Root is club president.

The Week's News of Plymouth in Pictures

GENERAL VIEW of the Post Office Dedication scene shows the crowd that gathered as the program started. The ceremony took place on the front steps of the building. The High School Band played for the program.

CONGRESSWOMAN Martha Griffiths presented a flag to Postmaster George Timpona during the Post Office dedication Sunday. The flag had flown over the Post Office Department.

OVER 2,000 people toured the Plymouth Post Office after Sunday's dedication ceremony. Employees answered questions.

OVER 2,700 people ate barbecued chicken last Sunday when the Rotary Club staged its Fall Festival in Kellogg Park. The lot beside the Penn Theatre was used for the "kitchen" and the serving line was on the sidewalk along Penniman Ave. Picnic tables were in Kellogg Park.

Crowds View Post Office from Inside

The door marked "no admittance" was swung wide open Sunday afternoon and some 2,000 people walked through to inspect Plymouth's newly renovated Post Office and addition.

Dedication of the addition was held at 2 p.m., followed by an open house at which the public was given a chance to peek behind the scenes. For most people, it was their first opportunity to get beyond the stamp counter.

Every room in the building was thrown open to the visitors — even the catwalks for the postal inspectors from which they can watch employees at work through one-way mirrors.

Mayor Harold Guenther was master of ceremonies for the program held on the front steps of the building. The Plymouth High School Band, directed by James Griffith, provided music.

Edward Baker, Detroit's postmaster, introduced postmasters from neighboring communities. They included those from Livonia, Northville, Wayne, Lincoln Park, Allen Park, Union Pier, Garden City, and St. Louis.

A letter of congratulations was read by the Mayor from Frederick Fox special assistant in the White House. It conveyed President Eisenhower's best wishes and noted that the new addition is a symbol of Plymouth's growth.

Delivering the dedicatory address was Judge Raymond J. Kelly, a Michigan man who is judicial officer for the Postmaster General of the U.S. He had distinguished himself as an attorney and was state and national commander of the American Legion. He served in both World Wars.

In 1946 he was unsuccessful candidate for governor in the Republican primary. He has until recently been U.S. District judge for the First Division of Alaska. When Alaska became a state, his tenure terminated.

During his address, Judge Kelly pointed out that there are similar dedication ceremonies for new post offices in 200 communities in the nation this month. There have been 365 new post offices built in Michigan since 1954 and 5,000 nationally.

He explained some of the new dimensions of the postal service. These include three experimental post offices — Washington, Providence and Oakland, Calif. New mechanical devices are many, but one of the most unique is the facsimile transmission of mail using video signals.

"Actually, what we are witnessing in the postal service all over the nation is final progress toward our history-making goal of next day delivery of letter mail anywhere in the United States," Judge Kelly asserted.

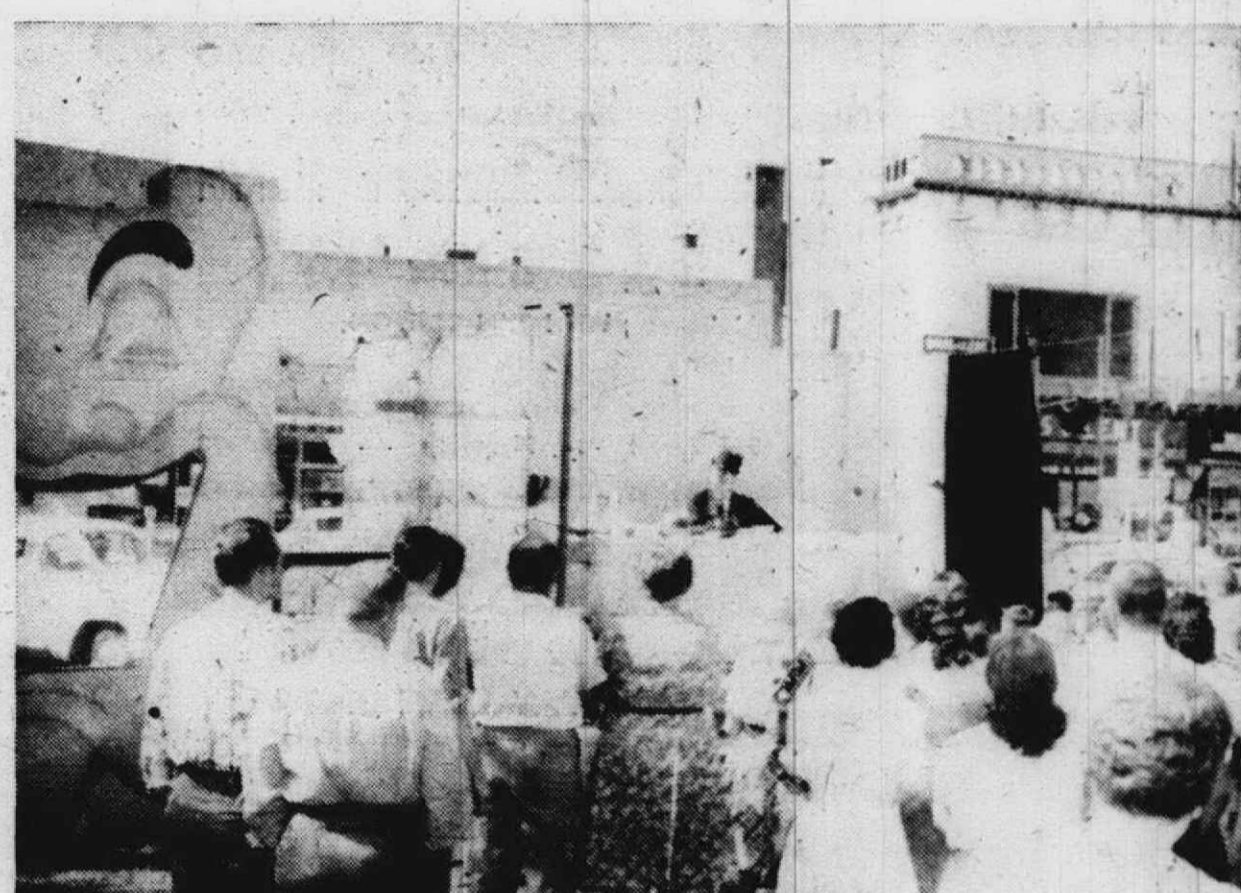

Officials of Plymouth Township and City were on the platform, but one surprise item on the agenda for Postmaster George Timpona was delivered by Perry Richwine, vice-president of First Federal Savings & Loan. A plaque was presented by Richwine in behalf of the Rotary Club to the postmaster for his years of service to Plymouth, during which the latest major improvements have been made.

Also on the program was Congresswoman Martha Griffiths, who presented a nylon U.S. flag to Postmaster Timpona in behalf of Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield. The flag had flown over the Post Office Department in Washington. The flag was handed to the VFW drill team which lowered the old flag and raised the new one during the playing of the National Anthem.

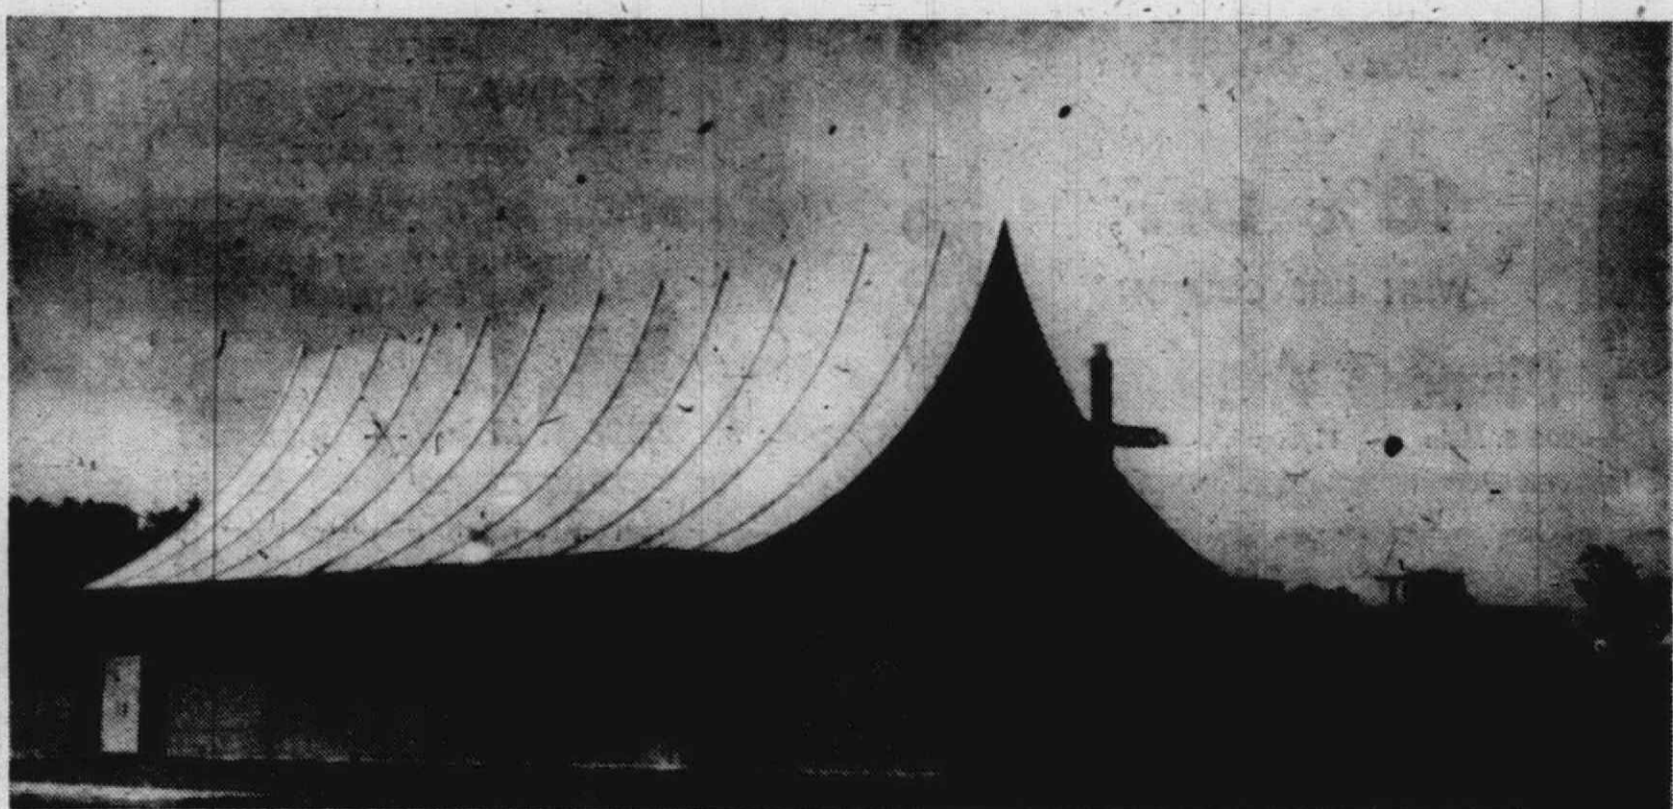

Gerald Fischer, president of the PHS Student Council, read "Ode to the Flag."

During the open house, postal workers in uniform were assigned to various positions to explain the postal operation to the public. Cider and donuts were served by postal workers and their wives.

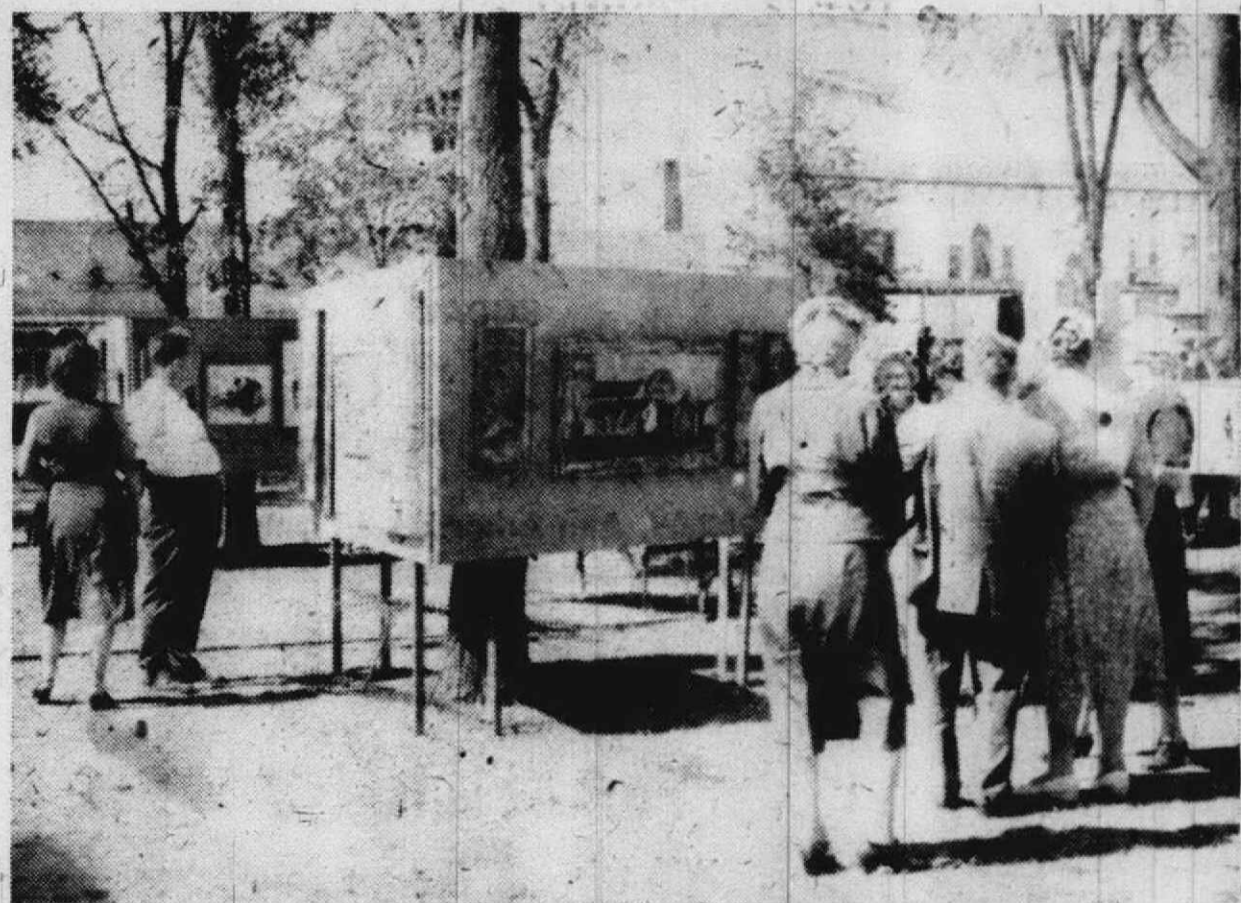

Postmaster Timpona this week expressed his thanks to the public for their interest, to postal employees and to businessmen and others who helped plan the affair.

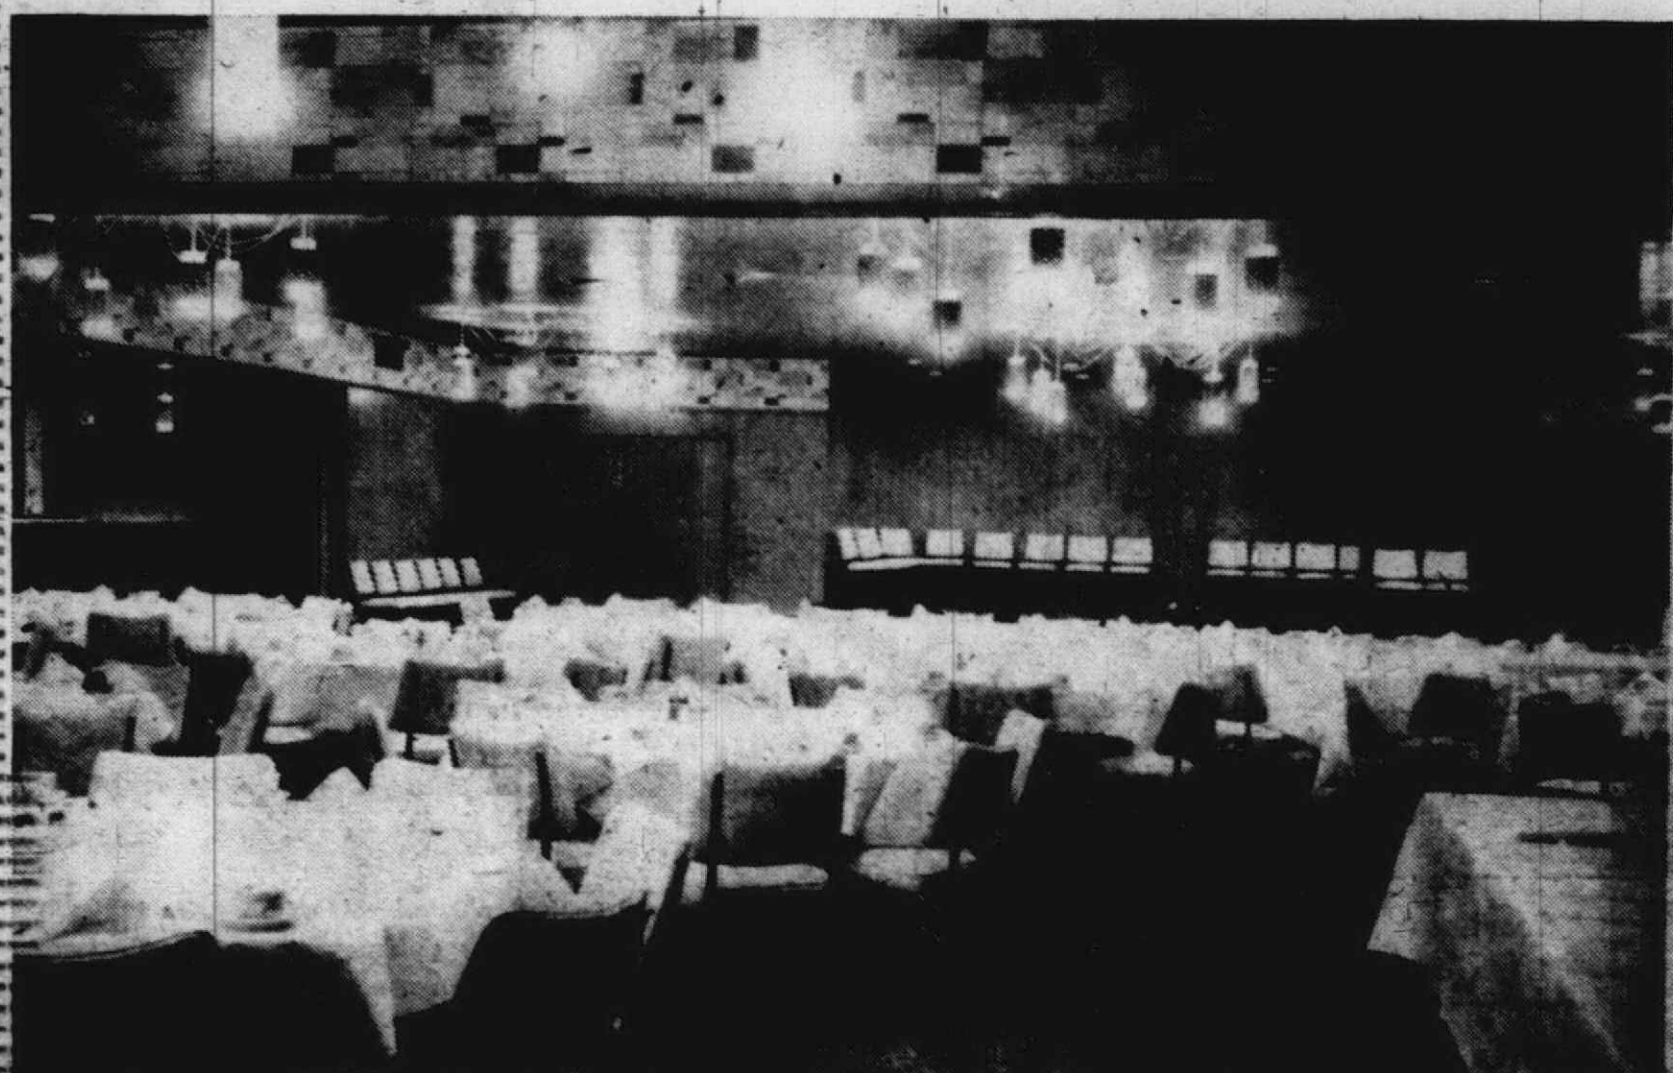

A THEATRE Guild Production, "The Mad Tea Party," was presented in Kellogg Park Sunday in conjunction with the Fall Festival.

DEDICATION OF St. John's Episcopal Church will take place Thursday. Located along Sheldon Rd., the structure with the oriental roof line has attracted many visitors already.

PAINTINGS BY members of the Three Cities Art Club attracted many visitors.

OPENED LAST Saturday for the first time was the 400-seat banquet hall at Arbor Lill. The room has a band shell and dance floor. It also has its own service bar (left) and kitchen. The room, formerly the Arbor Lill bowling alley, is the largest banquet hall in the area.

CORN ROASTED by a steam engine and handled by the shovelful was found at Sunday's Fall Festival. Wilford Bunyea of Joy Rd. had his traction steam engine on hand all afternoon to provide steam to roast the corn. Robert Waldecker, farmer-member of Rotary, is shown at left lifting a batch of corn.

OPENING their football season Sept. 25 with Our Lady of Sorrows of Farmington will be the Our Lady of Good Counsel team. Andy Hruska, assistant coach, and Coach John Janicki are shown giving some pointers. The Sept. 25 game is at home, on the Riverside Park football field. Other games are: Oct. 22, at St. Peter & Paul, Detroit; Oct. 9, St. Michael, Livonia, here; Oct. 15, at St. Agatha, Detroit; Oct. 23, St. Mary, Wayne, here; Oct. 30, St. Suzanne, Detroit, home; Nov. 13, at Immaculate Heart, Detroit.

Rocks Expect Aerial Attack In Season Opener Here Friday

Plymouth High School's football squad faces its annual arch-rival, Northville, this Friday night to open the 1960 season and an eight-game schedule. The colorful game and all its pageantry will be played on the home field at 8 p.m. The 2,500 bleacher seats are expected to be filled, with hundreds coming from nearby Northville to view the traditional battle.

Last Saturday the Rocks went to Highland Park for a scrimmage. At the showing, Plymouth more than held their own but the lack of backs is still apparent.

"Although our lack of foot speed in the backfield showed," head football Coach Mike Hoben stated, "I was very pleased with the line."

At present Hoben is wrestling with a big problem of injuries. A shoulder separation has claimed player John Denany for the entire season and an indefinite stay has been given to Jim Ralston, sidelined with boils.

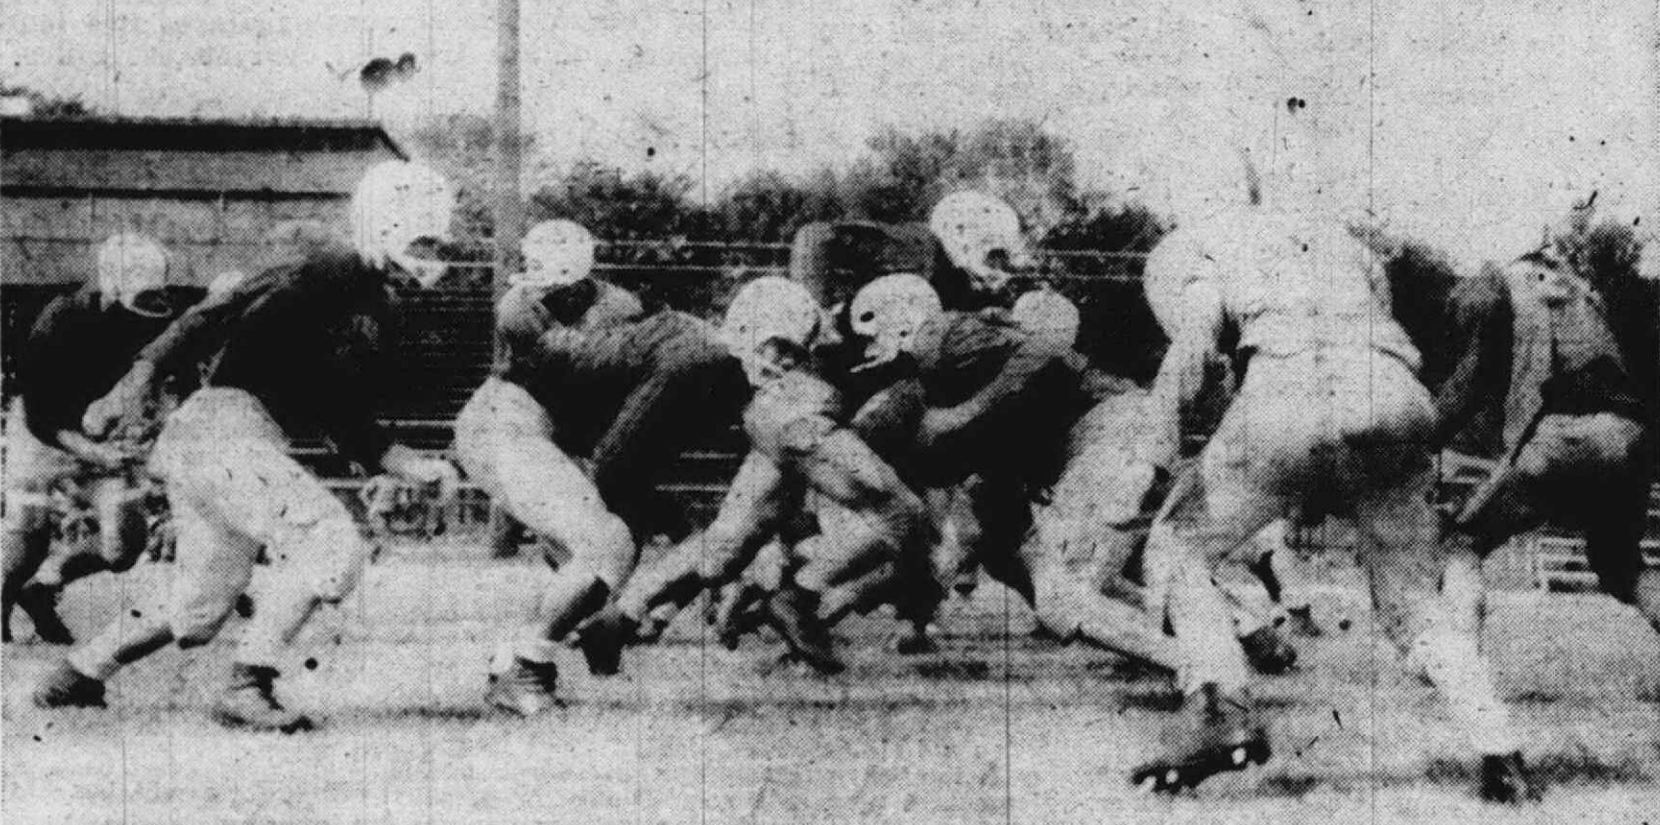

These injuries have made it hard to get a first unit together for the opening game Friday.

Northville is a passing ball club that uses a pro-back offensive, or slot back offensive. Although the Mustangs lost in their line through graduation, they still claim a fine back with Juday, Hay and Darling — all veteran backs.

Because the team does little running and a great deal of throwing, it is estimated that they will pass about seven out of every eight downs.

A new scoreboard will be found by fans this year. Last year new bleachers were erected on the west side of the field.

The price of admission is $1, the same as last year. Elementary pupils buying tickets at their schools can get in for 25 cents. Tickets bought in advance for Junior and Senior High pupils cost 40 cents. Everyone, adults and students, must pay $1 at the gate.

MIXING IT UP in an inner-team scrimmage, the Rocks are showing some marked improvement this week, Coach John Hoben reports. The team lost two all-state backs last season. The 1960 season opens Sept. 16 here with Northville.

Only Four Veterans On Cross Country Team

With the first meet this Friday, the Cross Country team has a lot of practicing to do. Of the 18 team members, only four are veterans. They are the backbone of the team and consist of captain Dave Westover, senior Chuck Bowlers, and juniors Tony Hunt and Byron Latter.

These four will be followed by the remaining team members: Bob Winterhalter, Frank Eidson, Dave Van Ornum, Jim Griffith, Ward Griffith, Bob Crosby, Jim Steele, and Dewayne Stephenson. Other team members are Bill Rossow, Dennis Knapp, Ren Lange, Phil Huxley, Dick Michaels and Dave Curtis.

Elementary Football Set

With the start of school comes football. And football it will be for all fifth and sixth graders. The Plymouth Recreation Department has set up a touch football program for all fifth and sixth grade boys interested.

The public schools participating are Bird, Farrand, Gallimore, Smith and Starkweather. Coaching the boys at Bird will be Patrick Esaray; Farrand, James Grimkenko; Gallimore, Paul Cummings; Smith, Richard Bearup; and at Starkweather, William Foster. All the coaches are teachers at their respective schools.

It was noted that no program will be held at Allen School because of the conflicting bus schedule and the small number of boys who can stay for the practices could not possibly make a complete team. The program, however, will still be open to Allen School members who are interested. All boys of this age group from surrounding parochial schools are also invited. These boys may choose any one of the schools for their place of practice.

The program will start Sept. 19 and will have approximately three weeks of training. Following the training will be a tournament consisting of inter-school games, closing the season the first or second week in November. The program will be divided into League A and League B if enough boys sign to make two complete teams. The two-league program will give any boy the chance to play touch football, regardless of his ability.

The rules of touch football call for the elimination of open field blocking and tackling. Full equipment will not be necessary but protection of the teeth is a must. The boys may have this protection by either a face mask on a head gear or a rubber mouth piece similar to that used in boxing. Spiked shoes, leather heeled shoes, and regular football shoes are prohibited.

Girls Hit By Car Released From Hospital

Two girls were injured and three others jumped to safety when a car jumped the curb in Birch Estates Monday noon.

Rushed to the hospital, treated and later released were Donna Cummings, 14, of 3088 Kicker; and Mary Thomas, 15, of 9445 Elmhurst.

They were in a group of five Junior High girls walking along Harding St. while on their noon lunch hour.

Police said that Frank Mongogna, 17, of 47660 Ann Arbor Rd., was making a left turn from Ross onto Harding when his car jumped over the curb, struck two of the girls and continued on to hit a car parking in a driveway belonging to Carlos Symons, 520 Ross.

Three girls were able to jump out of the way but Donna and Mary were struck. They were treated for lacerations and bruises.

The driver, who had two other boys as passengers, said that the steering wheel slipped from his hands. He was ticketed for reckless driving.

HOW THE GENERAL ELECTRIC SPEED DRYING SYSTEM WORKS . . .
Room air enters the dryer from the front and is then warmed, entering the clothes basket from the back. Fast moving currents of properly warmed air flow through the tumbling clothes, drying them quickly and naturally. Air laden with moisture and lint is carried through the trap depositing lint and then is exhausted at the rear. Clothes are never baked against a hot clothes basket or exposed to direct heat from open heating elements.

Bishop's Company Presents "Cry, The Beloved Country"

The dramatization of Alan Paton's "Cry, The Beloved Country" as presented by The Bishop's Co., unique repertory company will be seen Tuesday, Sept. 20 at 8 p.m. at the First United Presbyterian Church.

This unusual production, adapted from the novel by Phyllis Benbow Beardsley, founder-producer of the Company, is rich in poetic compassion. The human hero of this story is an old and humble Zulu parson from the hills above Ixopo in South Africa. He sets out for Johannesburg in search of his only son. Finally he finds the boy in prison, the murderer of a white man who had devoted his life to justice for the black race.

In the scenes between the native father of the murderer and English father of the murdered the story reaches a height of drama, seldom equalled in contemporary fiction. It is more than a story, it is a profound experience of the human spirit.

The English theatre was born before the altar of the church. The long separation between church and stage is being brought to an end by the group.

Bids on Notes

Three bids were received on $550,000 worth of tax anticipation notes that the School Board will issue to cover expenses until tax money is received in January.

The winning bid came from National Bank of Detroit, with interest of 2.16 percent and a premium of $193. The Detroit Bank and Trust Co. which also has a branch here, also bid 2.16 percent but the premium was only $27.50.

The other bid was from Michigan National Bank of Flint. It offered 2.5 percent interest and no premium.

It is expected that the notes will be paid off early next year.

New Junior High

The architect was authorized to proceed with preliminary plans for the new junior high that will be built at Sheldon and N. Territorial Rd.

Board Members Robert

Soth and Gerald Fischer reported on a meeting with residents of that area who had earlier asked that the front of the building face Sheldon Rd., instead of Territorial. They felt that their homes facing the side of the school would detract from the value of their property.

The board members said that after they and the architect talked with the residents, it was felt that the side view would be as attractive as the front.

New Members

The Board appointed two new members to the Adult Recreation and Education Commission. They are Carroll Porter, to represent the City, and Lester Herter, representing Northville Township.

TIPS FOR TEENS

By ELINOR WILLIAMS

"Dear Elinor: The boy I like has been coming to my house and taking me to dances for several months until two weeks ago. Then when he came, everything was as usual, but I haven't seen him again. I know he isn't busy with a job, but he has been with a boyfriend who goes steady with a girl in another part of town. How should I act when and if I do see him?"

Ans.—When a boy does a "disappearing act," it's usually a sign that he has lost interest, has a new date, mate, or perhaps is busy with a personal project, or is broke. If it's the latter, he could telephone you, but some boys don't... they just come back as suddenly as they disappeared. But if it's a case of lost interest or a new date-partner, he probably won't be back. Unless you have a "going steady" arrangement, a boy usually doesn't feel that he owes you an explanation. When you see him, remember that he has a right to date whom he pleases, as you have, and act as if nothing happened. Be friendly, but don't prolong the conversation and don't ask any questions like, "Where have you been?" or "What have you been doing?"

Q.—"What can you do when a boy comes to your house often and just sits there without ever taking you out? It's getting monotonous!"

Ans.—Next time he comes, be ready at the door or—with your coat on. Step outside before he comes inside and

Biologist Finds A Fox Answers If You Call

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—The Minnesota Conservation Department, plagued by a steady increase of the little predators, is out to encourage fox hunting.

And to help its cause, the department sent a biologist out to experiment with fox calling. He found out it works.

Calling proved most successful in April, May and July during the last four hours of daylight. The researcher called up 73 foxes in a series of 401 fifteen-minute calls.

He called up a fox every seven trips and averaged one fox called up for every two hours of hunting. Nearly half came within 50 feet of him, and some within 10 feet.

The call is made with a series of short harsh cries, gradually decreasing in volume and pitch. You also can use the recorded distress cry of a rabbit, says Jim Kimball, director of game and fish. But, he warns that it's dangerous. You might be shot by a rabbit hunter or treed by a beagle.

The Festival, with Frank Arlen as general chairman, will provide funds to finance Rotary's many projects, such as its Student Loan Fund, the Easter Seal Center, sponsorship of youngsters to the Model United Nations Assembly and Interlochen, and others.

From the response given the Festival Sunday, Rotarians are expected to make the event an annual affair. It has been held twice in the past, but was not held last year.

Weather Wheel Beats Forecaster

MARFA, Tex. (UPI)—Ask Tex., he said, any weatherman what the weather is going to be like in the year 2000, and he'll say there isn't much telling.

But ask Frank Barton and he'll say it's going to be real wet—according to his "Weather Wheel."

The Weather Wheel is a circular chart about four inches in diameter worked out more than 200 years ago by Spaniards in Mexico.

It predicts the weather from the year 1750 to the year 2000, and the eight years Barton has owned the wheel has been 100 per cent correct for Presidio County.

Barton, president of a Marfa bank, got the wheel from Charlie Spencer, a rancher, who evidently had pretty good luck with its forecasts.

Spencer says he will buy Barton a new hat if the chart ever proves wrong.

Spencer said he was given the Weather Wheel by his father who got it on a trip to Mexico.

BENNINGTON, Vt. (UPI)—Dog catcher George Rogers asked town selectmen to buy him a tranquilizer gun for his work because, "It's safer and easier than shooting a dog."

THE NAME STUCK
ACCORD, N.Y. (UPI) — Villagers here credit the name of their community to the optimism of a Post Office clerk in the 18th century. Settlers in the 1700's were engaged in a long controversy over a name, and finally one irate citizen wrote the postmaster general in Washington, suggesting that because of all the squabbling the new community be dubbed "Discord." A government clerk did a little editing, however, and the new name became Accord.

Cats Come Home

with Dividends

but ... scattered dollars don't

You might broadcast a sack of cats . . . and find them all back home in a couple of days . . . plus some extras. But DOLLARS don't have much in the way of a homing instinct.

Take DOLLARS and sow them in the City . . . or send them off to some mail-order concern . . . or hand them to some hit-and-run salesman, and they are LONG-GONE DOLLARS.

IF YOU DON'T THINK SO . . . try to get some of these left-town dollars back home to help fill our Red Cross quota . . . or to buy new suits for the school band, or a new fire engine, or to hire a preacher, or some more school teachers for your kids, or to pave more streets.

BUYING WHERE YOU LIVE supports more people — and more prosperous people — in the neighborhood. People who can save you money by helping you carry the load of time and expense that goes with any community that is fit to live in.

American Renaissance

Use of ceramic tile was once confined pretty exclusively to bathrooms. Now tile's bright colors and variety can be found in practically every room of the modern home. Behind this transformation lies the excitement of an American Renaissance for this ageless material. Many of America's greatest architects are finding ways to surpass even the grandeur of ancient Persian uses for ceramic tile, and tile industry researchers have succeeded in a drive to bring costs within the budget range for every American.

How To Buy Blankets

With the first chill of fall, you'll likely be shopping for a new blanket. But will you know how to get the most for your money when you buy? Do you know what materials give the most warmth... the lightest weight... the loveliest looks... the longest use... and the easiest "cleanability"? With the entry of so many man-made fibers into the field of bedcoverings, the selection of an appropriate blanket is more complicated than this same purchase would have been 15 years ago. While you can't wrap yourself in a blanket in the store — to test its warmth and weight — you can pick it up and compare with others. If the nap is dense, and the fabric sturdy, it will be warm. Test the durability of the nap by pulling at it gently — a poor nap pulls out easily. Too much napping weakens the yarns, lessening durability. Colors can easily be coordinated with sheets and pillow cases to give a decorator finish to a room... but no matter how attractive your bedroom ensemble is, Dad won't be happy unless his blanket is long enough to protect cold feet on a chilly night. A blanket should be long enough to tuck in at the bottom of the mattress, and still reach way under the pillow. If too short, it will not only give inadequate warmth... it will probably be pulled out of shape by shivering fingers trying to stretch it. Warmth is a matter of fiber, construction, and nap rather than weight. A lofty nap holds air pockets between the fibers, imparts thickness to the fabric... gives the greatest warmth.

Speaking of fabric — do you know the different types of blanket materials and the characteristics of each? Grandma had her choice of only one or two blanket fibers, but the modern housemaker has to become familiar with a dozen or more fibers — each claiming distinctive features. Many of the newer fibers offered in today's blankets overcome traditional disadvantages associated with the original blanket fibers, wool and cotton. The moth problems of wool blankets, the matting and loss of nap in cotton blankets, and the meticulously careful hand washing required to prevent excessive shrinkage in both wool and cotton blankets — these and other shortcomings are forgotten with blankets made from modern fibers. Today's blankets not only eliminate such problems... they offer additional advantages of their own. For example, blankets made with Creslan acrylic fiber, newest fiber to enter the blanket field, are from 10 to 25 percent lighter in weight than wool and cotton blankets of comparable warmth. They are quick drying; their reduced absorbency enables them to dry within a few hours, or to be tumble dried by machine. And they are resilient, retaining their nap and bulk, and their ability to provide lightweight warmth. What's more, blankets of Creslan are softer and more luxurious to the touch, and offer a richness and depth of color which lasts through years of wear and repeated washings. Blankets made with the new man-made fibers are almost always stretch and shrink resistant, moth-proof and mildew-proof. They're also less susceptible to tears, stains

Practice Makes Perfect

By William H. Schleisner

Continual use of a camera is essential, if the photographer is to use it efficiently at all times. Loading with film is a case in point.

For example, if you are suddenly called on to load and use in a hurry one German-made reflex camera

2 1/4 by 2 1/4, it is easy to confuse it with a well-known Japanese camera. This Japanese camera is like the German one in many respects but differs in the loading just enough to throw the automatic counter out on the German camera. Therefore, it takes a little concentration on what you are doing to load either camera correctly.

In the German camera, the film passes under the roller, and in the Japanese camera it passes over. Were I to use either one occasionally in my work, I would practice loading it as a refresher.

When I am called upon to use the 35 mm camera I recall how to load it without any trouble, but I do forget from time to time how to set it so that it will give me a time exposure automatically. In order to refresh myself on this particular problem, I will deliberately take out the 35 mm camera, take the back off of it (no film in it) and set it for the automatic timing.

Some of the three-dimensional cameras are difficult to load and also to know when you are ready to expose the first film. Whenever I borrow a 35 mm stereo camera, I always practice with it first so that I won't get into trouble loading. As a matter of fact, it pays to buy old film in order to practice how the stereo camera works.

Some years ago, a friend of mine bought a new camera which had many features that he wanted. One in particular was that the camera had an interchangeable lens facility. This 2 1/4 by 2 1/4 camera had no parallax since it was a single lens reflex. However, more than once I heard fuming and cussing because the camera was so hard to load. Finally, my friend discovered that by taking the spool out of the camera, it could be loaded much more easily. Then after the film was attached to the roll already found in the camera and dropped back into place, the loading was much easier.

In many cases the manufacturer of a camera will make elaborate drawings or pictures to show you how to load the camera. Read these instructions carefully and study the illustrations before attempting to take any pictures that are important.

If in doubt, take the camera to the nearest dealer and let him show you how to load it. If he has time, you also load it in front of him so he can correct any errors you might be making. You might also ask him to sell you out-dated film to practice on, for then you will not hesitate to click your shutter knowing that you are not wasting good film.

TAXPAYERS BEWARE

NEW YORK (UPI)—There just isn't any future for the guy who likes to pad his tax deductions even a trifle.

Soon electronic machinery will check taxpayer's returns against the records of his employer, savings banks, dividend paying corporations, mortgage holders and everyone with whom he has had any financial dealing, according to Thomas G. Higgins, president of the New York State Society of CPAs.

HANDS AREN'T OBSOLETE

BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI)—A University of Vermont Extension Service dairyman says though "milking machines have long since taken over, the farmer's hands are still vital in milking."

Warren Dodge said, "Starting and stripping cows by hand can be important steps in a good milking program and war against mastitis."

Sauk Centre, Minn., provided the scene for Sinclair Lewis' "Main Street."

The Old Timer

"After all is said and done, you usually find more has been said than done."

Mocha Custard Sauce Perks Up Meringues

Light-as-a-breeze meringues, afloat in a mocha custard sauce, make a quite irresistible dessert and a mighty party one, too. Surprisingly, these meringues are not baked; they're just dropped by the tablespoonful into hot milk, covered and left to steam for 10 minutes. The same hot milk is then used for the mocha custard, with unsweetened chocolate and instant coffee combining their compatible flavors in a sauce that is a perfect accompaniment to the airy lightness of the meringues.

Not to be overlooked is the convenience of this dessert, for it can be made ahead of time and brought to the table all chilled and beautiful by a cool, collected hostess.

Mocha Fluff

- 3 egg whites
- Dash salt
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 2 1/2 cups milk
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 square unsweetened chocolate
- 3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
- 1-3 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon instant decaffeinated coffee or instant coffee

Beat egg whites with salt until foamy throughout. Add 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, beating until mixture will stand in peaks. Combine milk and vanilla in large shallow saucepan or skillet and bring just to boiling point. Drop meringue mixture by tablespoonfuls into milk. Cover and remove from heat; let stand 10 minutes. Remove meringues carefully from milk. Pile lightly in serving dish or sherbet glasses.

Add chocolate to milk and heat in double boiler. When chocolate is melted, beat with egg beater until blended. Mix together egg yolks, 1-3 cup sugar, and instant coffee. Add small amount of hot mixture, stirring vigorously. Return to double boiler and cook stirring constantly, 6 minutes, or until mixture coats spoon. Remove from heat and pour over meringues in sherbet glasses. Chill. Makes 6 servings.

Polish, Not Wash

Be fussy with your new furniture. Don't give it a bath in furniture polish or furniture wax until you know exactly what it should have.

Jessie Marion, home furnishings specialist at Michigan State University, says wood furniture is available in a variety of finishes, and the same method of care does not fit them all. For instance, the manufacturer of one table declares no wax is necessary. Just wipe off the surface with a clean cloth. A second manufacturer suggests a thin coat of paste wax rubbed to a hard finish. Another recommends an oil mixture which will add beauty to his hand-rubbed surface.

Ask the retail merchant for detailed care instructions when you buy a new table or chest. He should be familiar with the specific finish as well as with the manufacturer's recommendations for treating it.

From where I sit... by Joe Mars
No News Like True News

Nothing makes a newspaper editor happier than a "scoop." But it seems to me some editors overdo it now and then. Last week, for example, an editor claimed his paper was the first in his city to report the Mayor's "impending retirement." But, judging from the next day's edition of the same paper, the Mayor had other ideas. As a result, the lead editorial in that newspaper then started off like this: "We are glad to be the first paper in the city to inform our public that the story of the Mayor's retirement is just a rumor."

They Could Come Down

Automobile insurance rates are sky-high, people are saying. But, unless some unforeseeable miracle of common sense occurs, they are going to keep on going up!

Thus the question arises, who makes these rates?

And the simplest possible answer is we do — you and I and the hot-rodder over the way; the neighbors, including the old couple who only drive to church on Sunday morning and around the countryside in the afternoon, and the teenagers who drag on the turnpike in the small-hours of the morning.

Rates are made by everyone who drives — including the drivers who serve on juries and award outlandish sums in damage suits on the theory that the money comes from the bottomless vaults of rich insurance companies, instead of the pockets of people like themselves who are paying insurance premiums; including the ambulance-chasing lawyers who specialize in such cases, the shady doctors who collaborate and build huge fees for themselves and unscrupulous but highly cooperative service garages. Nor should we, in all honesty, exclude the rank and file of those insured who suffer an accident and are persuaded they have a liability claim.

On the strength of the record — which shows that in only three of the years since World War II have the insurance companies made money on auto coverage and in the last decade for which figures are complete (ending with 1959), went in the hole by $750 million — insurance people have reason to suspect that there is some larceny in the soul of every one of us! If so, it is a stupid sort of larceny since, along with reckless and inept driving, it is hiking those liability rates up and up.

One fact of rate-making, however, which is not too well understood, provides some hope for reform by localities, if not nationally. This is that insurance rates are geared directly to the driving performance of the various communities. Losses are charged to the accident record of the territory in which the car is kept. Thus, motorists in each area pay only the rates they have helped to create by their collective behavior at the wheel.

This is something everyone should remember, and something no one can run away from. Even if the sight of blood on the highway (including your own) doesn't bother you; even if police blankets shield you from the horror of mangled and lifeless traffic victims; any driving accident you may have and any damages you may collect anywhere in America, are charged right back on the record of your home town!

Holding the line and even reducing liability rates in this area is a do-it-yourself operation. But don't ever forget, it works both ways!

If Your Name is Bob

BY ANN REYNOLDS

Language has a contrary way of dealing with some names. "Robert," cut down to a minimum, and changed a bit, became "Bob." This may have sounded meager to some folks, and they lengthened it to the more melodious "Bobby."

No matter what its form, it has been a favorite for over one thousand years, at various times as Rob, Robin, Hob, Dob or Nob. Already in the so-called Domesday Book, a survey ordered by William the Conqueror in England in 1085, it appears frequently. And now, in these U.S., there are over two and one half million men and boys called

"Bob" or "Robert," according to estimates.

Way back, at that long bygone time when this name's meaning was still clear to everyone, it could not help being taken up by mothers and fathers in search of some nice moniker to pin on their new baby. "Fame" and "bright" are the two words that made up "Robert." It existed in the Old English, and Old German languages, and ever since has remained popular everywhere in the Western World. Last names, too, were fashioned from it when last names came into use, around the 13th to 14th centuries. There evolved from "Robert" such widespread family names as Roberts, Robson, Robinson, Hobbs, Hobson, Dobson and related variants.

"Robert," an appellation so widely beloved, could not help turning up in legends. One of the oddest medieval tales attached itself to the person of Robert, Duke of Normandy, the father of William the Conqueror. Robert, so the story went, was born in answer to his mother's prayer addressed to the devil, and dedicated by her to the evil one.

Having wormed the secret of his birth from her, Robert, tremendously shocked, decided to atone for her crime by a life of self-denial. Absolute silence, taking food from the mouths of dogs, suffering every conceivable ill treatment without ever retaliating were some features of his penance. Not considering all this sufficient, he took no credit for a brilliant victory over the Saracens he achieved, and even refused the hand of a princess.

"Bobby" today is often heard as a girl's name, and stands for "Roberta," a woman's name formed from "Robert." This appellation got a tremendous boost through the novel "Gowns by Roberta" by Alice Duer Miller, and the musical comedy and motion picture of the same subject with the music of Jerome Kern.

Under 21

By DAN HALLIGAN

(Editor's Note: Today this newspaper inaugurates a new feature, designed particularly for readers in their late teens. If you wish to communicate with the author, Dan Halligan, please address letters to him, in care of this newspaper.)

Dear Dan: Recently one of my closest friends died after an illness of some length. Please don't laugh at me for what I'm about to tell you but I just can't seem to forget her. Everything I do is haunted by the memory of all the good times we had together. We did everything together and many people even thought we were sisters. It's been three weeks since she passed away and I still can't bear to hear her name mentioned without having to fight back the tears.

I never cared much for her little sister who is only six but now I almost despise her. Everything Mary used to own has been given to her and all she does is brag about it. I know what you will say—she doesn't understand but I know differently. She's very bright for her age and even brags about the fact her sister isn't ever coming back. Am I justified in feeling hostile toward her?

Thank you.—P.

Dear P.: As much as you may miss your friend, and you should always remember her and the good times you had together, you're not being very fair to her sister. I don't care how bright a girl she may be, she is only six and doesn't fully understand the meaning of death.

I'm sure she isn't bragging about the possessions she inherited or about her sister never coming back, not in the way you think. Remember, as young as she is, she loved her sister too. Time will take care of your tears and loneliness but only you can change your attitude toward the little girl, and you should.

Handwriting Is Clue About You

Dear Miss Williams:

It seems like I'm always going to write in but never do. I'm interested in having my handwriting analyzed too. I've read the column every week and try to guess who the people might be, it's quite a game — I doubt if I've ever been right.

Sincerely, Mrs. A. M.

Dear Mrs. A. M.: Your handwriting shows consistent procrastination, always going to do something but never quite getting at it until sometime later. Even though you are a rather determined person, you are, in definite — there isn't a purpose or aim to work towards. You love to be active, many irons in the fire, and lots of variation in your work and social life. You're a sympathetic type of person, being helpful to others and kind. You are emotional and expressive.

There is generosity in your writing and not the least bit thrifty. You give and give and go along enjoying life, putting off necessary tasks for something you'd rather do.

Dear Miss Williams:

Having read your column many times, I felt I must write to first say how delightfully entertaining it is and second, of course, be analyzed. I hope we read more of you in the future.

Thank you, Mrs. H. Allen. Dear Mrs. Allen: Thank you for such a nice letter, sorry it has taken so long to get to you. The letters must be taken in order and sometimes they pile up. You have a graceful flow of lines, a little creative but more ability to express yourself on paper. You are a well organized person, capable of keeping everything in balance, orderly and where it belongs. This applies to thoughts, ideas, etc., too. You're emotional with expression and very generous. You, too, do have a habit of putting off till tomorrow even with your well organized thinking, however, this is a minor trait in your writing.

You have a desire to own, possess and acquire in general. Your thinking is alert, analytical and penetrating. There is persistence, diplomacy and a little sensitivity. You are independent in your thinking and do not believe in being led by others.

Dear K.I.M.: When a boy kisses a girl, while he may not like her, he doesn't dislike her. That may seem strange but a lot of boys these days kiss girls because it's a habit (a nice one) or because they think it's expected of them. Unless a couple is dating steady and are older teens, I don't think a girl should ever take the initiative and kiss a boy to let him know she had a good time on a date. Too many boys might get the wrong idea otherwise.

How's Business?

Better Days Seen Ahead

By Roger W. Babson

Because of the protracted period of uncertain business conditions,

Schools Causing

Near Sighted Kids?

There's hope that science may soon find the causes of myopia (nearsightedness) according to Dr. George A. Harkless, president of the Michigan Optometric Assn. "The old theory that nearsighted children were doomed to increasing difficulty with age may be unfounded—at least there is evidence which indicates a more hopeful outlook," he said. "Three major studies, two by the United States Public Health Service and one by Purdue University indicate a relationship between myopia and classroom activity. This suggests the possibility that school environment and/or methods of teaching may be at fault."

Several other limited studies, he said, show that bifocal lenses may stop the progress of myopia. Also encouraging have been experiments in which the tiny, contact lenses have been used, he also stated.

These results do not entirely rule out the possibility that myopia is a normal developmental stage of vision, Dr. Harkless said. "However, it gives real dimension to the theory that myopia might be the fault of close-work activity in school before the child's vision is ready for it."

He urged annual vision examinations for all school children, especially those who have already been found to be nearsighted.

we are following up our regular Summary and Outlook column of a week ago with a more detailed analysis of the outlook for coming months.

As the fall season unfolds, the tempo of business should commence to pick up. A good deal of the stimulus will emanate from production of 1961 model cars. The steel industry could show the strongest comeback, because of low steel supplies and some forward buying in anticipation of higher steel prices.

Whether the upbeat in activity will surpass seasonal standards is open to question. Business inventories are still close to their recent all-time peak. Hence, a strong upsurge in demand would be needed to end cautious purchasing policies. And this does not appear likely, with nearly all industries operating below capacity and most commodities in ample supply. Little help can be expected from the building field, considering the disappointing spring and summer volumes of contract awards and housing starts, even though easier credit conditions prevail.

Moves of the monetary authorities to actively ease credit will provide some stimulus to the economy. Upward trending government spending, increasing business capital outlays, and near-peak foreign trade should also bolster near-term business. Much will depend upon whether or not consumers step up their purchases of durable goods to supplement rising outlays for services and nondurables. In any case, the high level of employment and record personal incomes will heighten buying impatience.

Summing things up, it looks as though the economy will experience better business in the months ahead, but the improvement is likely to be gradual and moderate. Competition will remain keen, and little relief is in sight for seriously squeezed profit margins.

Make laundering as easy as laundering can be—get a flameless

ELECTRIC CLOTHES DRYER

WHY A FLAMELESS ELECTRIC DRYER IS BETTER FOR YOUR WASHABLES. Whites stay white, colors stay bright. There's never any sun fading or fume yellowing. Since it's electric, there are no products of combustion. Freshly washed clothes stay clean all the way. There are models which have a temperature for every fabric, from delicate synthetics and wools to the heaviest work clothes. Dewrinkling cycles make ironing unnecessary for much of today's laundry.

TRULY A WORK-MAKING TEAM—AN ELECTRIC DRYER AND AN AUTOMATIC WASHER. Pre-selected, accurately controlled washing cycles and drying temperatures take the guesswork out of laundering. Gentle agitating and tumbling help fabrics last longer, stay fluffier. Drying the electric way is fast, too, because gentle radiant heat begins right away.

TAKE THE WORK OUT OF LAUNDERING AND THE LAUNDRY OUT OF HIDING.

Electric laundry appliances are so clean, good looking, and easy to operate that you don't need to hide them any more. Many homemakers want them handy in the kitchen. And that's easy when they're electric because flameless electric dryers and water heaters can be put where you want them.

Shooting Movies Requires More Skill Than Snapshots

By BOB MCKNIGHT
Written for United Press International
There's one big difference between shooting snaps and shooting home movies!

Every print in a handful of snapshots can be of an entirely different subject, yet each, viewed individually, can be very good indeed. For even though they may have been taken on the same roll of film, snapshots are almost always viewed separately.

All movie scenes however, no matter whether taken on one or more rolls of film, seconds, hours or even weeks apart, are going to be seen one after the other.

There's an implied and expected continuity between them — and very good reason, therefore, why each movie should tell but part of a picture story, and not, as in snapshots, try to "get everything in" any one picture. Among the other good reasons are the lifelike way in which movies can tell a story, and the economy of 8mm movie film which makes the plan practical.

It doesn't matter a hoot what your movie subject is, either. You'll still want to shoot in sequences and not just shots.

Take a youngster, putting together one of those plastic airplanes, for example. In snaps, although you might shoot the scene a couple of times so's to be sure to get it "right," your complete picture story could probably be told in one good print: Boy putting together airplane and this might well be worth a full minute's study and enjoyment. But in movies, in the same period of time, you can even "title" your sequence with a close-up of the plane-to-be as shown on the toy's box, then youthful hands taking out parts and diagrams, a stubby finger tracing the first step; a hand searching out the part, the boy's grimly concentrated face, the plane taking shape, and, finally for your climax, the assembled plane held aloft in triumph.

It doesn't call for a script. Or acting. Or directing. It's just the way things happen. In short—it's a movie. And it doesn't take a lot of film either. The very longest shots can last for 10 seconds; average shots, seven seconds or so; many of the close-ups — and what beautiful close-ups — all movie cameras can make — only three or four seconds. You shoot 'em the way you'll want to see 'em. The way, in fact, you'd talk or write about the same event — in words, sentences, paragraphs. Some should be long, some average, some as terse as a tight telegram. Remember, you can get up to 50 shots on a single roll of 8mm film.

Or take a birthday party. Again the story writes itself. Again there's a ready title—the lettered birthday cake. Again a build-up in interest that leads, this time, throughout the game period and up to the entrance of the glowing cake and the tremendous "p-o-o-f" that flickers out its candles.

Another example? We can't do better than to consider a vacation. Can't you just see the story. The planning of the trip over a road map, the packing, the note for the milkman, the crowded car trunk and the one-more toy that simply can't be left behind, the start, the thruway, the route signs that show the miles covered and those still to go, then the arrival with no end of vacation activities coming up for enjoyment and movie making. Such a beginning will properly and pleasantly launch your movie story so that everyone will see it will feel they're enjoying the holiday right a long way.

Your film will want a finale, too, and it's pretty hard to beat nature's own "curtain" — a glorious late-day sky and cloud effect in which the crimson sun drops lower toward the horizon.

Hard to make good movies? Hard not to once you understand that movies are the completely natural way of making pictures.

Tips From Top Typists

Keys to greater efficiency and higher pay, if you type, may be right there on your typewriter. A recent study reveals that nine typists in every ten can improve their work — either get more done, save energy, or both — just by heeding these ten tips from typing teachers and top typists.

1. Devote three minutes at the start of each day to sprucing up your typewriter. Wipe off all the exposed parts with a soft dry cloth; get into corners with a long-handled brush. For cleaning type — a necessary operation if you're a letterer — use a dry bristle brush, brushing toward you to keep dust from falling into the mechanism. A pin may also be used, especially when the voids of certain letters clog with ink and dirt.

A daily three minutes in the morning — plus a few seconds spent in centering the carriage and covering the machine at the end of the day or whenever it's going to be out of use for awhile — will prolong the life of your typewriter and make it give top performance throughout its extended span.

2. Carbon copies needn't smear your reputation as a top typist. When inserting several sheets of paper, here's how to make sure they go in evenly: fit the leading edge into a folded length of paper or into the flap of an envelope. Release the paper feed by using the release lever and insert the pack of paper behind the platen. Then return the release lever to its normal position. Prevent finger smudges by holding the typewritten sheets with the thumb and forefinger at the top left hand corner and neatly pulling the carbon paper away at the bottom.

3. Protect the platen from undue wear — and get better original and carbon impressions — by putting a backing or second sheet at the bottom of the pack.

4. Use the tabulator. Properly set, it saves countless strokes or single spacing and provides a speedy shortcut for statements, reports, paragraph indentations, subheadings and quoted material. You can save a good deal of time each day with a tabulator adjustment pre-set for the complimentary close and the company name at the end of your letters.

5. The wide open spaces are the secretary's friend. If your boss dictates a short letter of one or two brief paragraphs, use double spacing. A short single-spaced letter looks forlorn and inconsequential on the page, and is difficult to read. Types all first drafts. Reports, speeches, etc. — triple space. This gives the boss plenty of room to write in corrections and afterthoughts, may save you an extra typing job.

Whatever you type, give it eye appeal with wide margins. Guard against making the right margin wider than the left — it should be narrower, if anything. On the other hand, the bottom margin should be wider than the top.

6. Use the best quality typing paper you can find. If you see some that looks better than the kind you're using now, point the fact out to your boss — he'll probably be quick to see that better-looking paper makes him look good to his bosses and customers. A new line of business paper, for example, has been found by the U.S. Testing Laboratories to be whiter than even surgical cotton — not to mention sugar, salt and many other generally accepted standards of whiteness. Brightness tests showed a constant rating of 81-82, making the paper one of the brightest unwatermarked bond papers on the market today.

7. Erase erasure problems. When erasing a letter or word, always use a clean eraser and an eraser shield to prevent unsightly smears. A small piece of very fine sandpaper or an emery board will keep your eraser clean. Erase with a circular motion, using light strokes, after first moving the carriage to the right or left so that erasures won't fall into the machine. White chalk or aspirin rubbed dusted with a clean brush will disguise the corrected error.

8. When keys jam, separate them carefully one at a time. Don't ever use force. If you do, you risk bending the typebars out of alignment and ruining the appearance of your correspondence.

9. Here's a trick to help you insert a letter omitted from a word. First erase the whole word. Position the carriage so that the open space immediately following the last letter of the preceding word is at the exact printing point. Hold down the space bar while you strike the first letter of the word; this gives you a partial space between the last word and the word you've erased. Release the space bar and depress it again while striking the second letter. Continue this until all the characters have been typed in. Using the back spacer isn't nearly as accurate. But it's best to practice this trick a few times before trying it out on correspondence.

10. For quick repeating of the page-periods, asterisks, the same character across dashes — alternate using both hands instead of just one finger. Tap the key and space bar alternately. If you don't want space between the characters, start over, using the same key and space bar, but advance one space before starting.

If you follow these ten tested tips, you may not win any medals or "ribbons," but as for advancement — just watch your speed!

Canton Announces Brand New Arrivals

BR ESTHER SPRENGEL
GL 3-0194
Although not township residents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Abbott and their sons are a well-known part of our township. Mr. Abbott operates the gas station adjacent to Juliana Grocery Store and most of the residents know the Abbots and their sons. Mr. and Mrs. Abbott proudly announced the birth of their first grandchild. The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Steve Abbott. The young man, named Kerry Stephen, was born August 12 at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne and weighed seven pounds, 10 1/2 oz.

We have a little more news about Bonnie Larriek, the little gal who received serious burns. Bonnie has just completed her first skin graft operation, and was home for a day. A dinner was given in her honor at her grandparents home, Mr. and Mrs. Glass of Plymouth and certainly, outside of Bonnie, the guest of honor was Mr. Body, the gentleman who saved Bonnie from more serious burns. Also on hand to wish Bonnie well on her return to the hospital and more operations, were her friends, Linda and Barbara Newport, and her aunts and uncles.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Glass, Bonnie's great aunt and uncle, visited with Bonnie at the hospital from their home in Bowling Green, Ohio. Bonnie wants to express her thanks for the many, many cards she has received from her friends, and Mom tells us that they will help Bonnie through the great ordeal still ahead of her. Bonnie has returned to Ridgewood Hospital.

We received word that Mr. Gaylord of Elmhurst Ave. is in the Garden City Hospital receiving treatment for burns sustained last Friday.

We have it right from the stork that Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rae are the proud parents of a new son. As yet we haven't learned the young man's name.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Witherby of Beck Rd. announce the birth of a new granddaughter, Debra Louise, eight pounds, 14 oz., born to their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Palisano of New York State. Mrs. Witherby left last Sunday to be with her daughter and family upon her return from the hospital. Mrs. Witherby seems excited about her airplane flight and the prospect of meeting her new granddaughter.

Mrs. Alta Morton of Michigan Ave., just returned from a visit with her niece and family, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Powell and her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Hunter of Williamston, Mich.

We received good news — Mrs. George Longwish of Cherry Hill Rd. is reported by her family as well on the road to recovery. Mrs. Longwish is still in Ridgewood Hospital.

Now with all the youngsters in school, we will be getting more news, seeing how Mom will have a little more time on her hands.

Robert Hall Center Opens On Plymouth Rd. Thursday

Chidester Is Store Manager

At 24 years of age, William Chidester is probably one of the youngest clothing store managers in the business.

The youthful but experienced manager who will head the new Livonia Robert Hall Clothing Center store, has been on hand the past couple of weeks supervising the setting up of merchandise and getting everything else ready for the store's grand opening Thursday.

A native of Illinois, where his father was both a publisher of a small weekly newspaper and a superintendent of a school district as well, Chidester was schooled in South Carolina.

He attended both high school in that state and went on to a private college, The Burton Institute. He later joined Robert Hall, first as a part time employee, then moving up through the ranks to his present post of manager.

Both Chidester and the entire sales and management staff of the new Livonia Robert Hall Clothing Center will be on hand Thursday for the grand opening. Chidester will be joined by Livonia Mayor William Brashear and officials of the Robert Hall Company from the company's national office in New York for a ribbon

WILLIAM E. CHIDESTER will fill the post as Manager, opening September 15th, in Livonia on Plymouth Road at the intersection of Wayne Road.

Chidester, a native of Charlotte, N. C., has been associated with the Robert Hall organization since 1953. He was previously Manager of one of the firm's sales rooms in Youngstown, O. Mr. and Mrs. Chidester, with their son and two daughters, will move into the vicinity of Detroit.

Orchid Corsages for Ladies On Gala 1st Day Program

Formal ribbon-cutting ceremonies at noon Thursday will officially open the modern new Robert Hall family clothing center in Livonia, located on Plymouth Road at the intersection of Wayne Road. Hon. William Brashear, Mayor of Livonia, will participate in the official ceremonies.

Last Thursday, September 8th, a new Robert Hall salesroom opened to serve the Clarkston-Waterford area on Dixie Highway (U.S. 10), just north of Waterford Hill. The Grand Opening of the new Livonia clothing center will trigger a state-wide expansion celebration in all 22 Robert Hall salesrooms blanketing the state of Michigan.

Grand Opening Day at the new Robert Hall in Livonia will be a gala event with free gifts distributed to all who attend the festivities. Double orchid corsages will be presented to the first 1,000 women in the new salesroom; miracle all-purpose brushes will be given to men, women and teenagers.

Hourly awards will highlight the Grand Opening Day. Each hour on the hour, from 12 noon until 9 p.m. closing, a fortunate man or woman will be awarded any garment in the store of his (or her) choice. Any adult may become eligible for one of these awards simply by stopping in at the new Robert Hall clothing center in Livonia and filling out an entry blank. One need not be present to win: Robert Hall will notify the winners.

The new Robert Hall clothing center, an 8,400 square-foot contemporary modern structure, was designed by Lippincott and Margulies, industrial designers and creators of the interior of the world's first atomic-powered submarine, the Nautilus. A new and effective use of plate glass, bright colors, and the latest lighting facilities create a spacious and cheerful atmosphere... plus the comfort of air-conditioning. Streamlined throughout, the new salesroom is an architectural contribution to the community, reflecting the modern American way of life.

The interior of the new one-floor clothing center is equipped with every modern convenience to simplify family shopping in the easier, quicker semi self-service way. Clothing is displayed on open racks, divided between men's and boys, women's and girls — arranged by size — making it convenient for customers to pick and choose. Robert Hall launched the first "Low Overhead" salesroom in 1941 in Waterbury, Conn. This new "supermarket" type apparel store, which was able to sell high-quality clothing at lower prices — through the elimination of numerous overhead expenses such as costly show windows, fancy fixtures, plush furnishings and expensive interior displays — soon won the avid approval of the American public, and Robert Hall grew with phenomenal speed into a nation-wide phenomenon. The new Robert Hall in Livonia will be the 327th link added to the coast-to-coast chain.

Robert Hall is the only retail family apparel chain in the United States that adheres to cash-only selling. Harold Rosner, President of the chain and one of its original founders, maintains that people who can least afford it are obliged to pay the most because of easy-credit and its accompanying evils.

For this reason, Robert Hall has no charge accounts — thereby eliminating credit losses, monthly finance charges, bookkeeping and carrying costs — an integral part of the "Low Overhead" policy of keeping prices down.

The clothing chain also maintains its own modern manufacturing plants that tailor the men's suits and coats sold only in Robert Hall salesrooms, which eradicates "middle man" expenses.

Shopping hours at Robert Hall are from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays, enabling families to choose the hours most convenient to them. Each salesroom is equipped with a modern tailoring shop where men's and boys' clothing is altered free of charge, assuring customers of proper fit at no extra expense — a substantial savings in itself. Robert Hall accommodates customers with a convenient lay-away plan. A small deposit holds the garment chosen with never an interest charge at any time if the price of the garment goes down before it's paid for, the customer gets the lower price. If the customer changes his mind, every cent of the deposit is refunded.

Just as Robert Hall pioneered a new concept in retailing, it also formed an appealing concept in employee relations. Although all Robert Hall clothing centers linked throughout the nation are similar in appearance, there are no two alike. This individualism stems from the fact that each Robert Hall salesroom is staffed from within the community it serves, taking on the personality of the neighborhood, reflecting the flavor and color of the locale. In this way employees enjoy all the benefits of working near their homes, and customers are assured of friendly, helpful service. The opening of a new Robert Hall clothing center contributes a number of new full and part-time jobs in the area.

Robert Hall Story Began in 1941

From a revolutionary idea in retailing that began in 1941, to a coast-to-coast chain opening of the 327th family clothing center this Fall: That's a brief sum-up of the progress of Robert Hall, whose phenomenal rise to the top as America's Family Clothiers has been built on its now-famous "Low Overhead" policy.

But, beyond a record-breaking growth, Robert Hall has contributed many new ideas to the retail field — introducing new methods of merchandising, new ways to serve the American public.

With the innovation of the "Low Overhead" system of retailing, Robert Hall set its goal on serving the thrifty-minded American — and adapted "super-market" techniques to simplify family shopping.

The originators of Robert Hall reasoned that a person with limited money to spend on clothing wanted to spend his money on clothing — and not on the store's fancy upkeep. It was this type of thinking that gave birth to the "Low Overhead" idea of eliminating all unnecessary overhead expenses, in order to keep prices down.

The first "Low Overhead" salesroom opened in 1941 in Waterbury, Conn. Frankly an experiment, it was located outside the high-rent district... with no costly show windows, no fancy fixtures, no plush furnishings, no expensive interior displays. Quality clothing with modest price tags was displayed on plain open racks... and was sold on a cash-and-carry basis, to eliminate bookkeeping expenses.

This new and radically different type of retail clothing store appealed so favorably to the American public that Robert Hall began to grow at phenomenal speed, quickly expanding into nationwide proportions.

Robert Hall initiated a new concept in retailing by opening family clothing centers in neighborhood communities, away from centralized shopping areas. At the same time, Robert Hall also introduced a new idea in employee relations by seeking to staff each salesroom from within the community it served.

In this way, each Robert Hall clothing center takes on local color and reflects the personality of the neighborhood in which it is located.

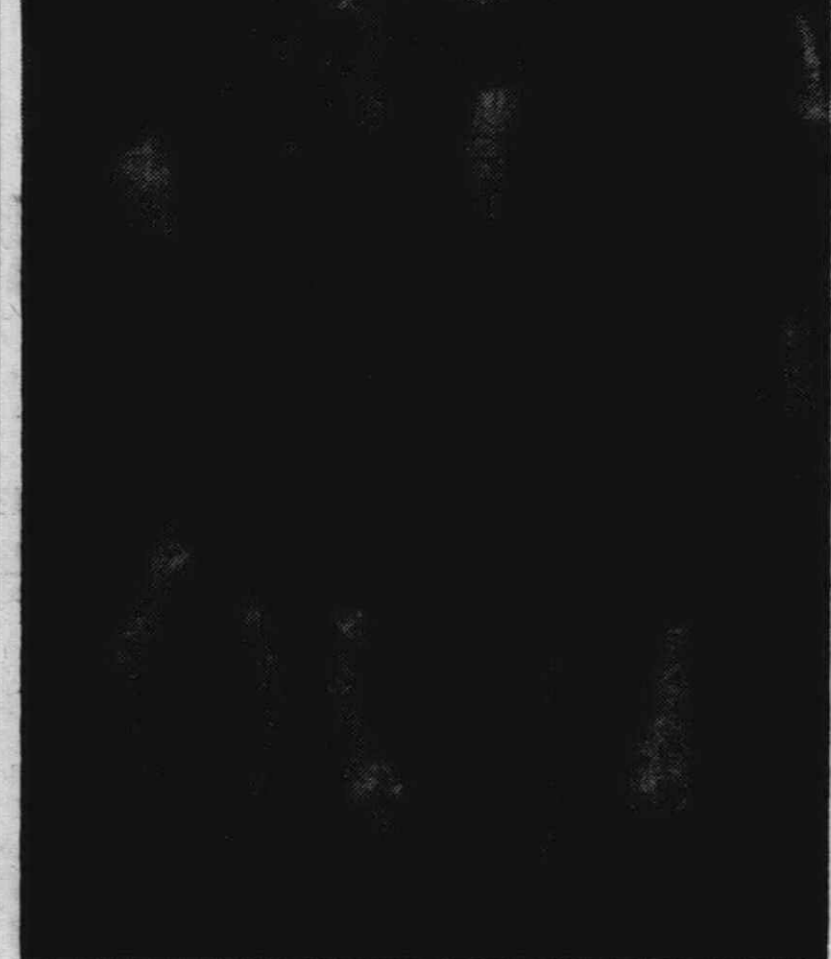

Years ago the directors of Robert Hall anticipated that America was fast becoming a car-riding population and began opening Robert Hall family clothing centers on the highways... preceding today's highway shopping centers.

The first retail family clothing chain to link its way throughout the nation in out-of-the-way locations, Robert Hall quickly expanded from the Midwest to the South, from the Atlantic to the Pacific — climaxing its westward movement by opening eight clothing centers in one day in the Chicago area in 1948 — and 12 simultaneously in the Los Angeles area in 1955.

Robert Hall was the first retail apparel chain to use saturation advertising — via newspapers, radio, TV and national magazines — to achieve the greatest possible penetration of its potential market, thus insuring the volume of mass sales necessary to maintain consistent low prices.

In spite of fluctuating economic situations, Robert Hall has never deviated from its original "Low Overhead" method of operation.

TRYING ON A NEW fall coat — with a genuine mink collar — is Mrs. Tireman, one of Robert Hall Clothing Center's first customers in Livonia. Mrs. Tireman, of the well-known Detroit pioneer family, for whom Tireman Ave. is named, traveled from New Hudson, Mich., to the new Livonia store. Helping her with the coat is Phyllis Kurlowich, saleslady, of the Robert Hall staff.

Fall Fashions Here for Milady

For Livonia, Redford Township and Plymouth ladies, there's a fine new place to select the latest, most up-to-date fashions in America.

And it doesn't mean shopping through expensive Paris catalogues, or paying high prices at exclusive shops.

Right here, in the central area of all three communities, Robert Hall Clothing Centers has opened a new outlet for the latest fine fall and winter fashions.

And when spring and summer roll around, seasonal fashions won't be missing then, either, from the racks at Robert Hall.

A nationally-accredited staff of fashion experts and designers helps keep Robert Hall customers well supplied with brand new fashions twelve months every year. The exclusive services of these designers, coupled with the quality manufacturing processes which have made Robert Hall famous, gives ladies the opportunity to purchase these new fashions at tremendous savings.

So, if it's a new fall coat (and, incidentally, there's a special sale of genuine mink-collared fur coats at Robert Hall) or a new dress, Robert Hall's the place to go to find the latest fashions.

All Set With Men's, Women's, Kids' Clothes

Robert Hall, of course, is a fitting name for a man.

And it symbolizes the fine array of men's attire which Robert Hall Clothing Centers are well known to stock.

But women — and children, too — can find just what they need at Robert Hall Clothing Centers.

For, despite its masculine name, Robert Hall Clothing Centers, including the new one which will serve Livonia, Redford Township, Plymouth and surrounding communities, are well stocked with clothes for the entire family, from baby to grandfather or great-grandmother.

In fact, one of the first customers at the new Livonia store, buying a new fall coat, was a great-grandmother.

The new local store is divided into two convenient sections.

As customers enter the wide front glass doors, they can turn to their left and find themselves in a complete wardrobe selection of fine women's clothes, from casual housedresses to the best selections of fall and winter outerwear.

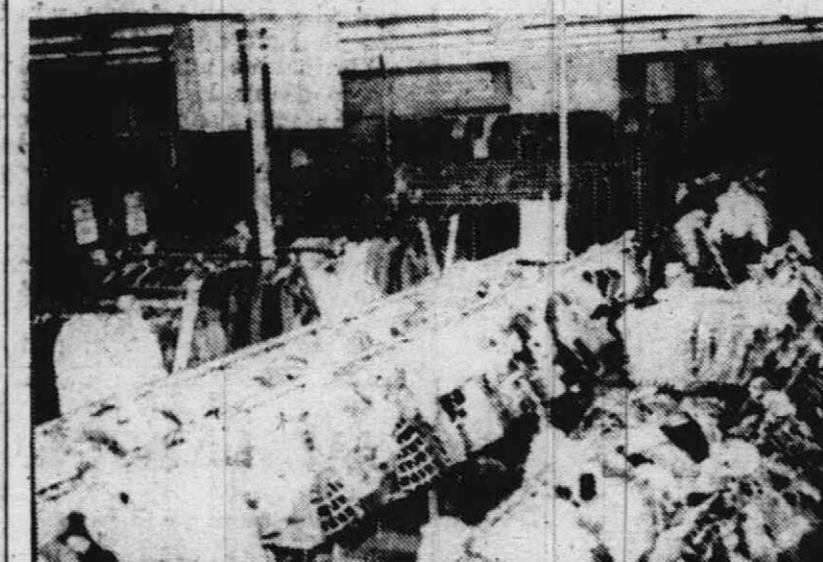

Or, they can turn to their right, and find themselves smack in the middle of one of the community's largest and most complete selections of suits, trousers, shirts, coats, rainwear, and accessories for the well-dressed man of 1960 and 1961.

INSIDE THE NEW Robert Hall Clothing Center Livonia store, racks upon racks of new clothes like these are awaiting customers at Thursday's grand opening. All residents of Livonia, Plymouth and Redford Township, as well as other neighboring communities, are invited to attend the grand opening and the ribbon cutting ceremonies at noon which will be held along with it.

Expert Tailors Ready To Help Fit Clothes

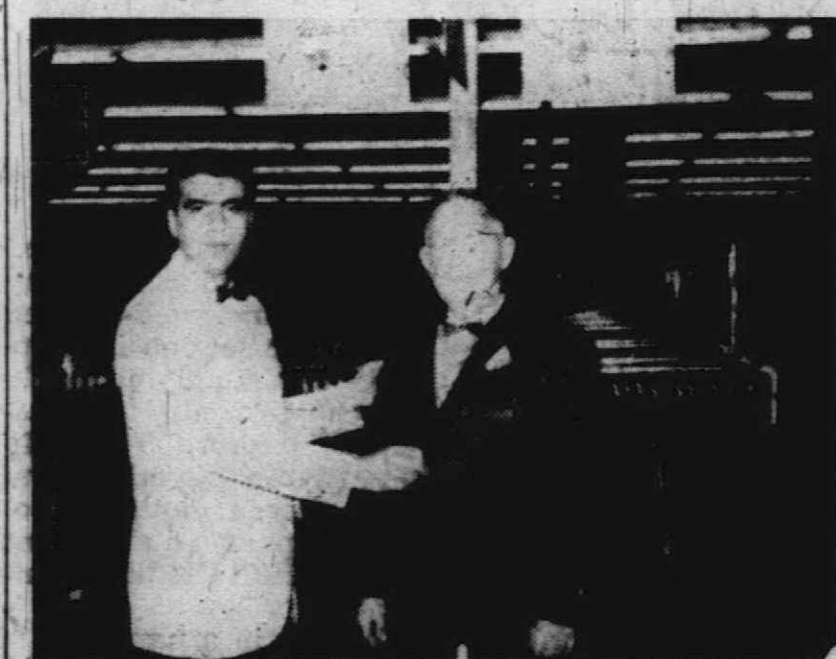

With the savings which customers realize on new clothes at Robert Hall Clothing Centers, they'd expect to pay extra for alterations and adjustments on their purchases. Such is not the case, however! With every purchase of men's and boys' clothes at any Robert Hall Clothing Center — including the new one opening Thursday on Plymouth Rd. to serve residents of Livonia, Redford Township and Plymouth — goes a guarantee of speedy, absolutely free alterations.

At the Livonia store, a complete staff of tailors and fitters is on duty constantly to supervise properly the fitting of clothes. Expertly trained, all have had experience for many years in tailoring.

For guarantees of proper fit and correct tailoring, Livonia, Redford Township and Plymouth area residents will find that Robert Hall Clothing Centers — including the new one on Plymouth Road in the middle of this trading area — will be their best bet.

A NEW SUIT is fitted for Orson Smith, another of Robert Hall Clothing Center's first customers at the company's new Livonia store. Helping Smith, who lives in Garden City, is Jim Sand, one of the store's expert tailors and fitters.

A WIDE ARRAY of new clothes — just in time for back-to-school shopping — is waiting for customers at the new Livonia store of Robert Hall Clothing Center. Wise shoppers will want to be on hand early Thursday, when the ribbon-cutting ceremonies are held, and will be happy to know that Robert Hall's new store will be open daily until 9 p.m. for customer convenience.

Your Guide To Harness Racing

HOW MANY OFFICIALS ARE SUPERVISING AND JUDGING A RACE?

Actual races are supervised by a Presiding Judge, two Associate Judges, a Finish Line Judge, and at least two and usually three Patrol Judges. Almost all pari-mutual tracks use electric or electronic timing devices. Rules provide that one Timer also be equipped with a stop-watch in the very rare case of a malfunction in the automatic equipment.

HOW DOES THIS ELECTRONIC TIMER WORK?

It starts as the first horse crosses the starting line and time is registered at intervals as the leading horse breaks a light beam set at the various measuring points. At the finish the time immediately is recorded. When this type of timer is not used, three stop-watches are used with a comparison of the watches in the hands of three timers determining the official time of the race.

WHO PICKS THE WINNER IN A CLOSE FINISH?

WHAT IS INTERFERENCE?

Most instances of interference are of the unintentional, accidental variety—yet are violations of the rules and call for penalties. Typical examples are crowding, cutting in too quickly when passing, swerving in the homestretch when a definite lane has been chosen, and actual physical contact between sulky and sulky, or sulky and horse.

CAN A HORSE BE "SET BACK"?

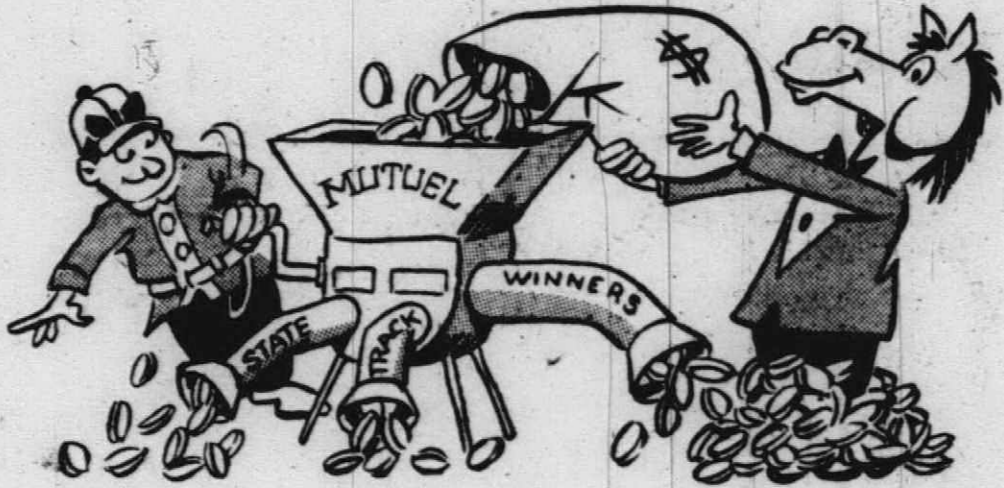

He certainly can. Judges can set a horse back for interference, a "lapped-on" break at the wire, or other violations of the racing rules.

WHO WATCHES FOR INTERFERENCE?

The Presiding Judge and his two Associates in the judges' stand and the Patrol Judges in their various areas of the track. Photo patrol movies also often are used and the entire race can be screened to help attain a just decision.

WHAT ARE THE MORE COMMON PENALTIES A DRIVER MAY INCUR?

Violations that do not affect the outcome of the race normally are penalized by a fine. Violations, except those that are unavoidable and for which no driver is at fault, normally draw suspensions from driving privileges with the duration determined by the severity of the act or lack of intent. The system is extremely effective. A careless driver, or one who intentionally violates the rules, soon is spending so much time on the sidelines that his horses lose racing opportunity, thus losing patrons and purse percentage chances for the driver.

WHAT IS PARI-MUTUEL WAGERING?

Originated by a Frenchman, Pierre Oller, the word means "among ourselves." The track has no interest in which horses win or lose, but acts only as an agent. It only holds the money wagered until the finish of the race and pays the winning ticket-holders the proper amount called for by the amount of the tickets.

HOW ARE ODDS DETERMINED?

Odds are an indication of the popularity of a given horse in comparison with others in the race. Odds are figured by dividing the amount wagered on a given horse into the total amount wagered, less the amount deducted by the track and state by law. A horse with the most money wagered on him will have the smaller odds and be the favorite. Horses with the smallest amount of backing are "longshots."

HOW ARE PAYOFF PRICES FIGURED?

The win price is the result of dividing the amount of money wagered on the winner into the total win pool, less lawful deductions. The place pool is divided between two horses and each half is apportioned to ticket-holders in proportion to the number of valid tickets held. The show pool is split into three divisions and apportioned according to the number of valid tickets.

DO ODDS DETERMINE THE WINNER?

The race is settled on the track—not by the pre-race opinion of the wagering public. The favorite is only the one whom most onlookers expect to win.

DOES A LONGSHOT WINNER HURT THE TRACK?

No. The only effect is that the cashiers' lines are shorter. Fewer people win, but the payoff is better to the fortunate few.

WHAT IS THE "TOTE BOARD"?

"Tote" is the shortened version for "totalisator" and refers to the automatically operated boards in the infield, and elsewhere, showing odds, money wagered, payoff prices, fractional and final times of the race and the time of day plus other pertinent information.

HOW DO I PLACE A BET?

Wagers are accepted at mutuel windows in denominations of $2 or larger. There also are $5, $10 and $50 windows at most tracks. You may wager on your horse to win or to place (finish second) or show (finish third).

When you wager to win, you collect if your horse finishes first. When you wager to place, you collect the place price if your horse is first or second. When you wager to show, you collect the show price if your horse is first, second or third.

You place your wager by going to the proper window and saying first the number of your selection and then the number of tickets you desire. For example "No. 2, one ticket."

Bored With Breakfast? Ingenuity Helps!

Do you get breakfast-bored this time of the year? Find yourself using such phrases as "it's such a dull meal," "I couldn't care less when it's so warm," or "I don't have time?"

Jean Allen and her home economics staff at the Kroger Food Foundation have the answer. It's a matter of attitude, says Jean, who hears about homemaker food problems in 21 states in her work with the quality control and research center.

Breakfast problems loom larger when summer simmers but they're with us 365 days a year. The secret, Jean says, is to refuse to let breakfast fall into a routine. Keep the basic requirements in mind—Vitamins A and C, protein, and approximately a third of the day's calories—then let your imagination run wild.

If the kids say "why can't we ever have hamburgers (or hot dogs, or peanut-butter-and-jelly, or grilled cheese sandwiches) for breakfast?" go along with them. Nutritionally, it's perfectly all right.

See how the most finicky youngster reacts to a hamburger on a bun with lettuce and tomato, French fries or potato chips, a glass of milk, and a sliced orange (served as "dessert" rather than an appetizer).

Or how about a banana milk shake (with an egg in it) along with a slice of toast or a sweet roll? And have you tried raisins, sliced peaches, or ice cream on hot cereal?

On those muggy mornings when absolutely nothing sounds appealing, try a bowl of soup or a fruit-and-cottage cheese plate. Either slides down so easily you'll find they take almost no effort. See, too, how refreshing bacon, lettuce and tomato on toast can be on a sticky summer morning!

If you're really summer-sizzled, try mixing two fruits—blueberries and strawberries or peaches and bananas are especially nice—in a cereal bowl. Sugar lightly, top with scoops of vanilla ice cream and sprinkle with wheat flakes.

Teen Problem

Latest reports indicate that 15 percent of teenage boys and 25 percent of girls eat little or no breakfast. Teenage finalists in the recent Kroger - Westinghouse Junior Cook of the Year recipe contest proved that education can overcome this bad habit. All had received school or home training in foods—and only two of the 52 skip breakfast, much better than the national record.

Most eat juice, eggs, bacon, toast, milk. But they like to try such things as tuna sandwiches, sliced tomatoes, cat-sup, or fried potatoes with their eggs, or apple pie or chocolate cake instead of a sweet bread.

Favorite Sunday breakfast of a North Carolina family is salt mackerel and grits with sweet potato biscuits. Sweet Potato Biscuits are to be recommended particularly. Every Southern family has its own recipe, handed down for generations. Here's one:

Sweet Potato Biscuits
 2 cups sifted all purpose flour
 2 tablespoons double-acting baking powder
 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
 2/3 cup granulated sugar
 1/2 cup shortening
 2 cups mashed (baked) sweet potatoes
 1/4 cup milk

Sift flour, baking powder, salt, and sugar together. Cut in shortening until mixture is as fine as corn meal. Mix in sweet potatoes. Add milk gradually to form soft dough. Turn out on lightly-floured board. Knead lightly. Roll or pat to 1-inch thickness. Cut into two-inch biscuits. Bake in very hot oven (475 degrees F.) 12-15 minutes. Serve hot with whipped butter.
 Yield: Two dozen biscuits.

Save Time

Don't feel that everything has to be top-of-the-stove cooked. Ovens can be great time-savers. French toast and brown-n-serve sausages will finish at the same time in the oven and do not require every-minute watching.

While coffee is perking, bake eggs for the whole family at once while bacon crisps in the broiler... and you dress undisturbed. Special — when partially-broiled, wrap the bacon around pineapple chunks. Finish cooking.

Brown-n-serve rolls are a treat and a bakery-bought coffee cake will taste like homemade if it's heated before serving.

Pancakes, ready-mix quick, are male-favored. Fold a round golden-brown link sausage and serve with cinnamon-dusted hot apple-sauce. Or mix bulk sausage, fried until lightly browned, into the pancake batter before cooking.

For a deluxe dish that might double as dessert at dinner-time, add chopped pecans or walnuts to pancake batter. Another idea—mix grated orange rind (it comes in jars now) in the batter. Serve with a hot orange sauce.

Golden Orange Sauce

1/2 cup sugar
 1 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
 1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind
 1 cup orange juice
 1/3 cup butter or margarine
 1 cup diced orange
 Mix sugar, cornstarch and grated peel. Add orange juice and stir until smooth. Cook over very low heat in a double boiler until slightly thickened. Add butter or margarine and cool slightly. Add diced orange and serve over piping hot pancakes.

Variety Helps

Keep an open mind, even when you prepare old stand-bys. Don't feel that you must fry eggs, just because you usually do. Try alternating—soft-cooked, fried, poached, scrambled baked or Shirred. Decorate scrambled eggs or omelettes with crisp bits of bacon and grated cheese or with tart jelly. Saute minced onion and sliced mushrooms in the fat before adding eggs. Toss leftover asparagus or green beans with scrambled eggs. Add a dash of tabasco to Spanish sauce and, instead of omelette, serve it over fried eggs as they do in Mexico.

The fruit you serve for breakfast supplies the color and glamour, so have fun with that, too.

Combine raspberries and oranges, strawberries and bananas, center melon with blueberries. Dazzlers — fresh orange sections, mixed with chopped dates that have been marinated in sauterne, or vanilla ice cream whipped with orange juice—almost like a milk shake.

Vary the meat that you serve with your eggs. Bacon is wonderful, but so are sausage, ham, pork tenderloin, chipped beef, salami or chicken livers.

Make breakfast party-time occasionally. Try to plan surprises for the family; invite friends to join you a few weeks. A Chicago tradition is Sunday brunch at the famed Pump Room. Here's a Jean Allen version of their Eggs Benedict.

Sunday Brunch Eggs

Cover six toasted English muffins with thinly sliced ham; top each half with a poached egg. Serve with hollandaise sauce or this simple cheese sauce: Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in saucepan over low heat. Blend in 2 tablespoons flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Gradually add 1 cup milk and cook, stirring constantly, until sauce is thickened. Add 1 cup grated medium sharp American cheese; cook over low heat until cheese is melted.
 Yield: 6 servings

To suit a man-size appetite, try Jean's Cinnamon Oat Cakes, served with hot spiced apple nectar (add cinnamon, nutmeg, or ginger to canned juice) and big cups of coffee.

Cinnamon Oat Cakes

1/2 cup all purpose flour
 1 teaspoon baking soda
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
 1 teaspoon sugar
 3 cups uncooked oatmeal
 2 cups buttermilk
 2 eggs, beaten

Combine flour, soda, salty cinnamon and sugar; mix with oatmeal. Blend in buttermilk and beaten eggs. Drop by spoonfuls on hot lightly-greased griddle. Cook several minutes, until golden brown; turn with spatula. Serve with cottage cheese and blueberry preserves.

Yield: 12-16 pancakes. How about it? Do you agree with Jean Allen that breakfast can be "best" instead of "bored?"

My Neighbors

TIPS FOR TEENS

By ELINOR WILLIAMS

Q.—"Dear Miss Williams: I have gone steady with a girl for five months and we are in love—at least I am. She says she doesn't know what love is and doesn't know if she is in love with me. I told her to think hard about it, but she still doesn't know for sure, although I want us to be engaged soon. We have a ring now. How can I convince her?"

Ans.—You can't convince her and "thinking hard" won't do it, either. Take it easy! Instead of trying to rush her into an engagement and marriage before she is ready, stop urging her for an answer. She isn't ready to be "serious" and is honest enough to tell you so. Love usually grows gradually from knowing each other well, sharing interests, fun and experiences. Both the girl and boy don't always fall in love—or realize it—at the same time. It will take some patience and self-control on your part, but if you really love her, you'll give her more time to find out how she feels by dating, having companionship, getting better acquainted without talk of love or future plans. When she does love you, she'll know it and won't want to be without you.

Q.—"Dear Elinor: I met a sailor recently, a very nice boy. We agreed to write to each other. I would like to find out if a girl or a boy should write first."

Ans.—It's proper for a girl to write the first letter—IF the boy has agreed to write to her. Keep it chatty and friendly, not affectionate.

Plymouth High School

By Lester Barison III

The perennial hustle and bustle of opening day again filled the halls of Plymouth High last Wednesday as over 1,200 students surged about, involved in the hectic business of finding lockers, rooms and purchasing books. Long lines stretched down the corridors from both book stores, adding to the congestion.

Yet somehow order emerged as always from the hubbub and within a few days both students and faculty had settled down to the regularity of scholastic routine — vacation days fading quickly away into memory.

This year Plymouth High students are fortunate to have three exchange students from across the seas. Arriving at Montreal on the 22,000 ton luxury liner ITALIA and then traveling to Plymouth was Norbert Voss, who is from a small town near Stuttgart in southwestern Germany. Norbert is staying with Jerry and Ken Fischer and is a new reporter on the staff of PLYMOUTH PRINTS.

From another part of Germany—West Berlin—an island of western culture and ideals in a sea of communistic imperialism, is Petra Schneider who is living with Marcia Randall. Makiko Ichiguro came to Plymouth from Tokyo, Japan, giving students the opportunity to become more familiar with the traditions and civilizations of the Orient. Makiko is living with the family of Barbara Haas. All three are already active in student affairs, having been made student council members.

Plans are now being laid for the most exciting event of the fall—Homecoming—which is set this year for the Oct. 14 game with Redford Union. The presidents of the Water Waves, Dolphins, Varsity Club, Future Teachers, Future Nurses, Future Homemakers and National Honor Society have been invited to a preliminary meeting with Karen Rank and Caroline Scott who are co-chairmen of the event, to determine the participation of their organizations.

Government classes are fortunate this semester in that they will have presidential and gubernatorial elections taking place during their study of democracy in America. Plymouth has been brought closer to the activities which officially began his campaign was held at the Plymouth Junior High last Thursday evening, where this reporter along with PRINTS staff member John Wimsatt was able to meet Swainson as well as Governor Williams, Senator Hart and Congressional Representative Martha Griffiths.

Asked whether he felt the lowering of the voting age from 21 to 18 or 19 would be advantageous, Governor Williams replied that he had supported such a measure since 1949 because he felt students acquired a good knowledge of government in high school and that people are most enthusiastic about voting at this point in their lives.

Since the Democratic party asked the governor whether federal aid would interfere with local control and influence over schools, to which he replied that there had actually been federal aid since 1789, including the land grant colleges, and that it has not yet proved an inhibition to local control.

Representative Griffiths was as strongly in favor of voting at a lower age as the governor. She noted that although Americans are well prepared to vote upon graduation from high school, they must wait a number of years to do so, while their desire to improve and take a real part in affairs diminishes. She also commented that college students cannot vote in college towns even after the age of 21, and thus by the time most people are settled down and able to vote they are 28 or 29 and are more content to believe that "the world is going by" and that they can't do much about it.

Candidate Swainson told this reporter that he "had fond hopes" that Plymouth would go Democratic in the election but that in view of past results he "would be greatly surprised." It is interesting to contrast this opinion with that of Mrs. Griffiths who thought Plymouth would support Swainson.

Also at the affair were PHS grads April Corey and Lon Dickerson. Picking up some of the colorful campaign pins and literature April explained that she was sending them to the family with which she lived this summer in Madrid. Although they have little to say about their own government, they are very interested in American politics.

Registration Opens Saturday For Rifle Club

Monday, Sept. 26 will mark the beginning of a new season for the Plymouth Junior Police Rifle Club.

Held in the Bronson Building in the Central Parking Lot, the club is open to all youngsters 12 years and older. Parents of the young people are encouraged to take lessons with them.

Registration for the club will take place Saturday mornings and Monday nights in the Bronson Building. The cost of $1.75 is to cover the cost of ammunition, instruction material, registration and National Rifle Assn. membership.

Rifles are furnished. The average American consumed 305 quarts of milk, 46 pounds of cream, 8½ pounds of butter, 8 pounds of cheese, 15 pounds of condensed milk, 20 quarts of ice cream and 5 pounds of cottage cheese in 1957.

SENATOR Phillip Hart flew in from Washington to appear at the reception. He complained of a bad sore throat but spoke five minutes, predicting that John Swainson will be a great governor. The next morning he flew back to Washington and continued his committee hearings on the drug industry.

My thoughts this week have been directed toward those hard-working, but seldom-appreciated gentlemen behind the scenes who write the plays that you so enjoy. You laugh, sigh, or wax eloquent relative to a point in a drama, not quite realizing that the all-important man in back of the play was Mr. Playwright.

Why such concern? A little book edited by Toby Cole entitled "Playwrights on Playwriting" created this recent brain wave. Miss Cole has selected outstanding comments by playwrights of this century and last. You can't leave this book without having a new sense of respect and appreciation for the great theatrical writers.

Listen to an excerpt by Henrik Ibsen, first of the modern playwrights, as he explains his writing techniques: "Before I write down one word, I have to have the character in mind through and through. I must penetrate into the last wrinkle of his soul. As a rule, I make three drafts of my dramas which differ very much from each other in characterization."

You've seen "A Doll's House" and "Hedda Gabler" by Ibsen on TV. Neither production was done justice since a great deal of cutting had to be done. You can't tamper too much with Ibsen since he was such a master of characterization.

Another reason for my mind going slightly soft over this matter of playwrights this week arrived in the form of a note from Bob Wallace. He informs me that a three act play that he's been concocting with Jim Brown, local Theater Guild member and Plymouth Junior High instructor, has reached the first draft stage. The rough draft has been corrected, polished, and put in the hands of the mimeographer. He promises old George will get the first look at this wild comedy. Who knows we might even quote a line or two if we feel it has any potential at all.

Playwrights and their first efforts aren't usually as successful as Leonard Spielgras and his final effort on Broadway. I'm referring to the hilarious, yet tender comedy "A Majority of One," starring Gertrude Berg and Sir Cedric Hardwicke. It's playing for a couple more weeks yet at the Shubert Theater.

Mrs. Berg can squeeze more out of a line easier and with less effort than many an actress. And Sir Cedric is a past master at the art of using one small facial gesture to convey a torrent of words. I'd advise all students of acting or directing to be sure and see "A Majority of One." It's not often that we get two people of the Berg-Hardwicke quality on our local stage.

A little later in the month the Shubert Theater plans to have Marcel Marceau and his troupe pay Detroit a visit for a week. Marcel is the wordless wonder from France that has been extracting superlatives from all the New York critics. His earlier appearances in Detroit have been restricted to one-man shows of this pantomimic abilities.

productions operate on a limited basis and have a captive subscription audience. Also "H.M.S. Pinafore" opened earlier this summer at the Shakespearean Festival in Ontario.

"Camelot," a new musical by the authors of "My Fair Lady," plans to have its world premiere in Toronto, Canada on October 1st. All the eyes and ears of the theatrical world will be tuned in to Toronto. The big question is, always, can the authors of all-time hit repeat with a second smash attraction? And Meredith Wilson of "Music Man" fame will be testing when he opens his latest musical effort called "The Unsinkable Mrs. Brown." Already the wags along Times Square are preparing advance copy of a pessimistic note that Meredith may well sink with this production.

Time to shift the scenery for next week's show. Hope I can locate those flats and drops with the cooler colors. The heat's been bugging me. Good place to cool off is the Penn Theater where they have an excellent musical comedy, "The Bells Are Ringing" dancing nightly blithely across the wide, wide screen.

Nanking, China, has long been celebrated as a literary and educational center.

To Sew a Fine Seam Takes a Bit of Practice

By Barbara Slade

There are techniques not only for finishing seams but also for finishing them so that they will hold for the life of the garment yet be inconspicuous.

Even though the seam is sewed on the underside, the selection of thread is important. Always select a color one shade darker than the material, since thread looks lighter after being used for stitching. The right weight of thread for the fabric is also important.

Mercerized thread is recommended for sheer or delicate fabrics and can be used for many others. However, silk thread is preferable for pure silks, and heavy duty thread is more satisfactory for gabardine, corduroy and the like. There also are nylon or dacron threads available to suit the fabric with which you are working.

Before stitching even the simplest seam, test on a sample of material the length of the machine stitch and the tension of the stitch. The correct tension will prevent puckered or stretched seams. Always stitch seams from the wide part of the garment to the narrow.

Some sort of a guide is important to insure accuracy in taking up the 5/8-inch seam allowance which the pattern calls for. The seam gauge on the machine should be used primarily to keep seams even. If additional aid is needed, consider investing in the cloth guide attachment for your machine.

Press seams as fast as you progress with their stitching. As with stitching, press from the wide to the narrow part. To prevent ridges showing on the right side of the fabric, slip a strip of heavy brown paper under the edge of each side of the opened seam. Clip curved seams at intervals before they are pressed.

There are many ways of finishing seams and it pays to spend the time to find out which one is most suitable for the fabric and the garment on which you are sewing.

Only birds get better mileage

MARATHON SUPER-M GASOLINE
Marathon goes farther to make friends

By FRANK G. MORRIS

Newspaper wire services last week carried a brief story from Detroit announcing that Circuit Judge Thomas J. Murphy had relieved the Wayne County government of its share of the cost of Aid to Dependent Children within the City of Detroit.

Nothing in the story would excite the average taxpayer. Yet the decision by Judge Murphy hits every family in Michigan in the region where most families today cannot afford to be hit — the pocket-book.

It means that the state will be compelled to dig up another $1.6 million this fiscal year to help Detroit finance its constantly increasing welfare load.

It means that every worker from the factories of the southern counties to the mines of the Upper Peninsula must lay a few more bucks on the line to help Detroit.

It means that Democrats are a step closer to the party vision of a state-wide welfare system under which thrifty counties (like those on the west side, for example) will assume a large part of the welfare burden of the depressed areas (like Detroit, for example.)

The broad consequences of Judge Murphy's decision are due to an involved program established quietly by the Democratic administration in Lansing. Only experts in the welfare field have been aware of the pattern.

In brief, Judge Murphy ruled that Detroit no longer can call on the Wayne County government for supplementary ADC. He said Detroit must dig up this money from its own tax sources.

In other words, Wayne County escaped from an unhappy deal under which the Board of Supervisors spread taxes to supplement Detroit's staggering welfare burden.

The joker is that Detroit now will get this $1.6 million from Lansing this year and will demand larger sums in the future unless the ADC load is lightened.

This grab is possible because the State Department of Social Welfare has decreed that the taxpayers of poor old Detroit should not be allowed to spend more than a one-and-a-half per cent of assessed valuation on welfare.

This benevolent rule to aid the debt-ridden citadel of the Democratic Party forced the people of the entire state to pay about half the cost of Detroit's $17 million welfare load last year.

In effect, the rule fixes a ceiling of $2.5 million a year as the limit Detroit must pry from its citizens for ADC and direct relief.

So the county government's contribution of $1.6 million, now outlawed by Judge Murphy, will merely be added to the bill being sent by the city for payment in Lansing.

Detroit, stronghold of the Democratic Party, is the only city receiving this special help from the Lansing government.

The ukase that taxpayers throughout the state must share in Detroit's relief costs was not enacted by the legislature.

The lawmakers were not consulted.

Perhaps the legislature would have agreed, if given a chance.

The Republican Party is committed to the principle that the state must aid the local governments when welfare costs exceed the resources of the local taxpayers.

But the GOP also is committed to government by law enacted by the people through their legislature — not to government by dictatorial decrees issued by commissions answerable only to the Governor.

Grange Gleanings

It is hoped that each member has invited some friend and plans to attend "Booster Night" get-together tomorrow evening at 8.

Our lecturer, Bessie Salow, has a very fine program planned, so let's fill the hall. Refreshments will be served following the program.

Keep in mind the bazaar and turkey dinner on Oct. 1. Remember those good dinners the Grange serves family style.

Any donations of articles for the various booths will be appreciated. Only by the help of all members of any organization is what makes it grow and be a service to the community.

Sorry to report the passing of Sister Mabel Spicer who has been in St. Joseph Hospital. Our sympathy is extended to the family.

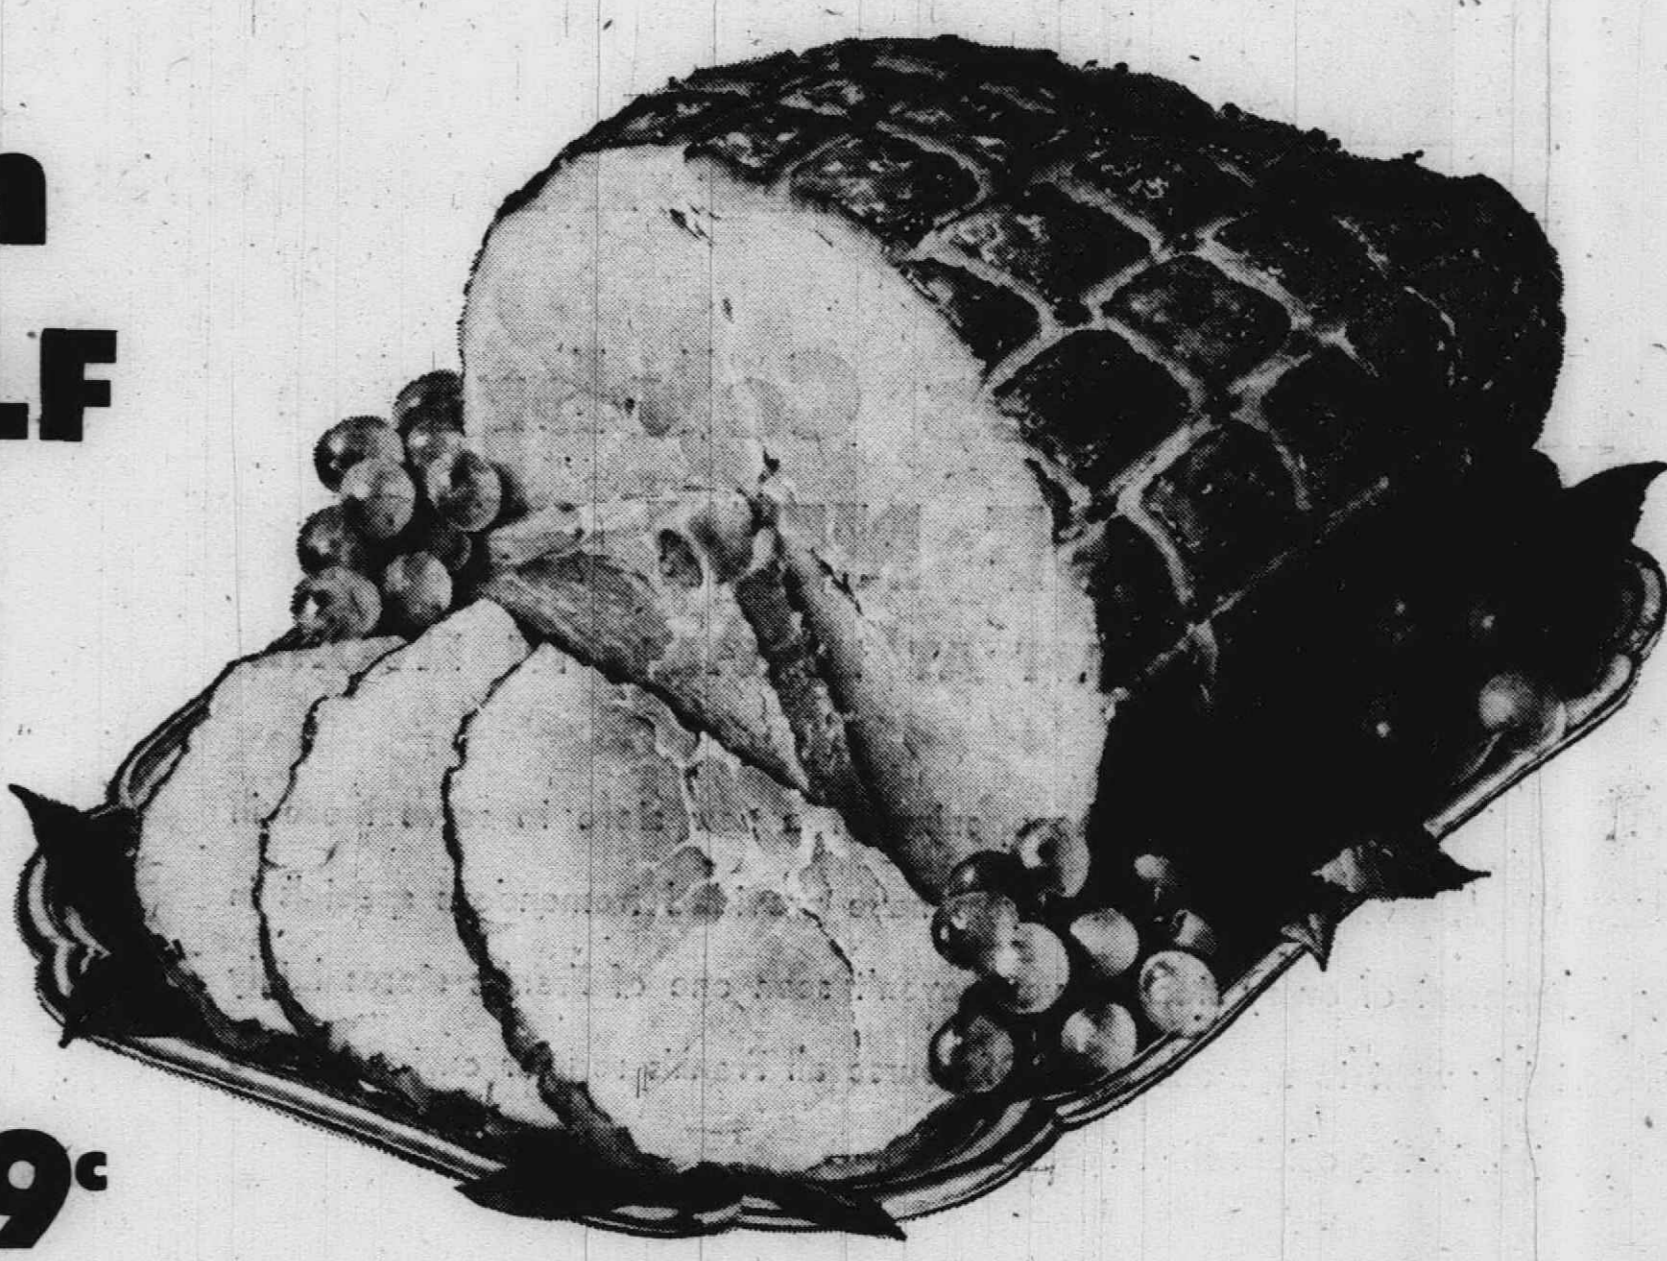

Sister Flora Rathburn is home from the hospital. Cards to the shut-ins are always welcome.

Mrs. West, who teaches first grade at the Farrand Elementary School, is a native of Dearborn Township. She attended Ypsilanti High School and received her Bachelor of Science degree from Eastern Michigan University.

Mrs. West has taught in the Smithville and McCann schools in Wayne County, at Waterford Village in Oakland County and at the Washington School in Wayne. After substituting in Plymouth for a time, she joined the faculty of the Farrand Elementary School when the school opened two years ago.

A member of the Plymouth Education Association, the Michigan Education Association and the National Education Association, Mrs. West has also been active in PTA work for "years and years". She has served as a Girl Scout Leader and Training Chairman and, for a time, was a 4-H Club Leader of the Boys and Girls Club.

Mrs. West and her family live on Ball Street in Plymouth. Mr. Earl West is a Comet and Mercury car dealer, associated with his brothers in the West Brothers firm of Plymouth. The Wests have four children. The former Charlotte West, now Mrs. Joe Tate, lives in Garden City with her husband and two children. Mary Jane West is a sophomore at the University of Michigan while Ann and Dick West attend Plymouth Community High School.

The West family has a mild case of the wanderlust and they have spent several delightful vacations on the open road. Mrs. West recalls in particular (and no wonder!) a 27-day trip to Canada and the Northwest when they didn't eat a single meal in a restaurant - she cooked every one on a camp stove by the side of the road. A two week sailing cruise on Lake Huron is also a fond memory of the Wests.

In between her duties as a wife, mother, grandmother and teacher, Mrs. West enjoys devoting time to her hobbies of gardening and photography.

How to Help Your Child Learn Spelling

Poor spelling can pull down your child's grades in social studies, reading, science, and other school subjects, say our elementary school teachers. Many book reports, term papers and notebooks receive lower grades as a result of spelling and grammatical errors.

Why is spelling so difficult for many children?

Learning to spell English is hard work, according to the National Education Association. Your child would have an easier time learning to spell in Spanish or Finnish, which are far more consistent in their rules.

Most schools concentrate on teaching children about 3,000 English root words which make up about 98 percent of the words both children and adults use in written expression. Some 20 percent of these words don't follow regular alphabetical rules, and these are probably the ones that are giving your child trouble.

Here are the ways, suggested by the NEA, in which you can help your child, improve his spelling:

First, make sure your child has no physical handicaps, such as poor vision, faulty hearing, defective speech, which may be holding him back.

Have him make his own dictionary of "demcn" words that plague him. Get him a scrapbook and have him devote one page to each letter of the alphabet—as he masters the demon, he enters it on the proper page.

Give him his own dictionary. He will use it faithfully if you give him a good example by looking up words.

Avoid baby talk with your pre-schooler or first-grader. It's no help to your child. Make sure that he hears all words correctly spelled and pronounced at home.

SIGN OF NERVES
BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—
Workers are installing new telephone booths in the City Court Building. By mistake, one booth on the main floor displayed its "telephone" sign upside down.
Passers-by constantly reminded the workmen of their error until the jibing wore on their nerves. So they took pen and paper and erected their own sign: "We know it is."

Mr. and Mrs. Victor A. Miller

Burns-Miller Vows Spoken in Northville

Before an altar of white gladioli and mums, Sandra Jean Burns and Victor A. Miller spoke their vows in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Northville, on July 2. The Rev. B. J. Pankow officiated.

Sandra chose a floor length gown of crystal white silk organza which featured an embroidered floral print on the full skirt which fell into a chapel train. Her silk illusion veil was held in place by an organza rose. She carried a modified cascading bouquet of white gladioli and roses.

Mrs. George Miller, Northville, sister-in-law of the groom, was Sandra's matron of honor. She was gowned in white silk organza accented by a teal blue bow at the waist. Her flowers were of yellow roses and gladioli.

Lynn Paquette of W a y n e and Sally Plamondon of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Miller, Bloomer, Northville.

A reception in the V.F.W. Hall in Plymouth for guests from Ann Arbor, Chelsea and Albion followed the ceremony.

The new Mrs. Miller wore a white linen sheath with red accessories for the wedding trip to Northern Michigan.

The bride was a 1957 graduate of Plymouth High School and the groom graduated from Northville High School in 1957.

Sandra is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Burns of Bradner Rd., Plymouth, and Victor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Miller, Bloomer, Northville.

'Capt. Bill' Returns For Guest Talks

Major William Roberts, known to many Plymouth people as "Capt. Bill," will be a guest speaker here this Friday and Sunday.

Capt. John Cunard of the Salvation Army announced that Maj. Roberts, now head of the Harbor Light mission in Detroit, will speak this Friday night at 7 at the Citadel and also at the Sunday School service at 10 a.m., the morning worship service at 11 a.m. and the evening Evangelistic service at 7:30 p.m.

Maj. Roberts was captain of the local Salvation Army unit for several years and gained many friends here.

In addition to Maj. Roberts, his assistant, Lt. Edward Jarvis, will also appear in a series of programs. Lt. Jarvis will present a program of "Gospel Magic" at a downtown open air meeting at 2 p.m. Saturday. At 3 p.m. he will meet with the children at the Citadel and he will appear for a family program at 7 p.m. Saturday.

The public is invited to all of these services and programs.

Supervisor Visits Jehovah's Witnesses

Kris H. Knight, circuit supervisor and traveling representative of the Watchtower Bible Society of New York, will visit the Plymouth Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses for the week beginning Sept. 11. Twice each year he works with each of 23 congregations comprising Michigan Circuit No. 8.

"The congregation anticipates a week of increased activity and spiritual benefit from Mr. Knight's visit," said Mr. Coonce, presiding minister of the local group. The visit is described as part of an advanced training program for Jehovah's Witnesses.

The program will begin Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. with a ministry training school, followed by a 30-minute discourse by Mr. Knight.

Wednesday through Sunday Mr. Knight will accompany local congregation ministers in field missionary service as they call on residents of the community. This is a part of the regular door-to-door ministry and training program of Jehovah's Witnesses.

The Saturday evening program begins at 8 p.m. with a Bible question period, "New Things Learned," which consists of audience participation. A 30-minute discourse by Mr. Knight dealing with counsel for improving one's personal ministry concludes the session.

Highlight of the visit comes Sunday at 3:30 p.m. when Knight talks on "What Does It Mean to be a Christian?" His talk will show the seven basic conditions that must be met to be a Christian or Christ-like. A congregation Bible study using the Watchtower magazine as an aid will follow, and the week's titled "Six Trials of Christ" another short discussion. His talk will conclude with final counsel by Knight and Jesus.

Mrs. Richard Pickering Joy III

Joan Becker Becomes Bride of Richard Joy

Joan Sylvia Becker became the bride of Richard Pickering Joy III before an altar of white gladioli and mums Sept. 10 in the First United Presbyterian Church, Plymouth. Dr. Henry J. Walsh officiated at the 4 p.m. ceremony.

Joan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron H. Becker of Penniman Ave., Plymouth, and Richard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Joy, Jr. of Tommanconr Ave., Grosse Pointe Farms.

Given away by her father, Joan was lovely in a white pea-u de soie satin floor length gown with a shirred bodice and scooped neckline outlined with lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of Amazon lilies, orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Jane Becker, Plymouth, sister-in-law of the bride and matron of honor, wore mint green pea-u de soie satin with matching hat and shoes. She carried a cascade of bronze Fugie mums and croton leaves.

Bridesmaids Kaye Meyers and Karla Herbold, also of Plymouth, wore dresses identical to that of the matron of honor with dark green hats and shoes. They carried cascades of yellow Fugie mums and croton leaves.

James F. Joy was his brother's best man. Ushers were Murray W. Sales, Sterling E. Graham and Hal and Bruce Becker, brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Becker wore a grey and white two piece dress with mauve accessories. A black and blue print dress with complimentary accessories was worn by Mrs. Joy. Both mothers wore orchid corsages.

A reception in Lofy's "Red Room" for 125 guests from Plymouth, Grosse Pointe, Detroit, St. Clair, Eganston, Ill., and Tecumseh was held immediately following the ceremony.

The bride attended Michigan State University where she studied business education. She was a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. The groom is a graduate of Trinity College in Hartford Conn., and was a member of Delta Psi fraternity.

After a honeymoon in Hidden Valley, Otsego, Mr. and Mrs. Joy will be at home at 2503 W. 13 Mile in Royal Oak.

Newburg Area Residents Report Restful Summer

MRS. EMIL LA POINTE
GL 3-3797

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mende, Sr., of Newburg Rd., and their friend Leo Clausen of Wyandotte, spent the Labor Day weekend at the Mende cottage on East Twin Lake in Lewiston, Michigan. While there, Mr. and Mrs. Paul English of Angeline Circle along with Mrs. English's father called at the Mende cottage and, likewise, spent the holiday weekend. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Waack and son Richard of Stark Road and Miss Sharon Hoffman of Plymouth, also chose to spend the weekend holiday at their cottage in Lewiston and while there, called at the Mende cottage on Saturday, Sept. 3. On Sunday, Sept. 4, the Mende's daughter, Beverly and her fiancé, James Campbell were additional house guests at the Mende's. On the return trip home, Mr. and Mrs. Mende and Mr. Clausen stopped off at Frankenthum for the famous "all you can eat" dinners.

Mrs. Carrie Beall of Richland, daughter of Mrs. Edward Reid, is spending a few weeks visiting with friends and relatives in Tanytown, Md. This is the former Reid residence.

Just a little word about me and mine. Our son Bruce is home after spending the summer as an assistant life-guard at the Judson Collins Methodist camp in Onsted, Mich. He has been away the entire summer and it's good to have him home again. Another son, David has been honored with three blue ribbons and one red ribbon, that is three first places and one second, for his guinea pigs at the State Fair. We were real pleased and proud of this achievement. Oh, yes, and while we are talking about ourselves, we spent the Labor Day at the Judson Collins camp, visiting with the manager and his family, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Weiss, Jr., and having a picnic and bringing our son home.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nixon of Wadsworth Ave. are home after spending a week visiting with friends and relatives in Guttenberg, Ia. A revelation, Mrs. Nixon was able to secure seven plow seats and four barrels and you'll never guess what for! If you come to the Country Fair at the Newburg Methodist Church, September 29, 30 and October 1, you'll find out.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Remy and children Leonard and Ann of Newburg Road, are home from a recent vacation in the Eastern portion of these United States. Besides doing much sight-seeing they also visited with two sisters of Mrs. Remys' who reside in that vicinity.

Speaking of the Michigan State Fair, as I was a few paragraphs ago, I mustn't forget to congratulate Mrs. Claude Desmond for her fourth place and white ribbon on her entry of concord grapes. For quite a number of years, now, Mrs. Desmond has been a winner and received first and second places for other entries of grapes. Congratulations and good luck for next year.

It's nice to know that Mrs. H. S. Ayers of Ann Arbor Trail, is home from the hospital after having broken her hip. Although she is confined to her home, she is recovering very nicely and cards of cheer could do much to spread a little sunshine.

Say, you have been letting me down. They say that no news is good news, but not so with this column. If you don't call, how can I write about you and yours? Why don't you just twirl that little dial and let me know what is going on in the Newburg area. See you next week?

Newcomers Feature Pot-Luck, Luncheon

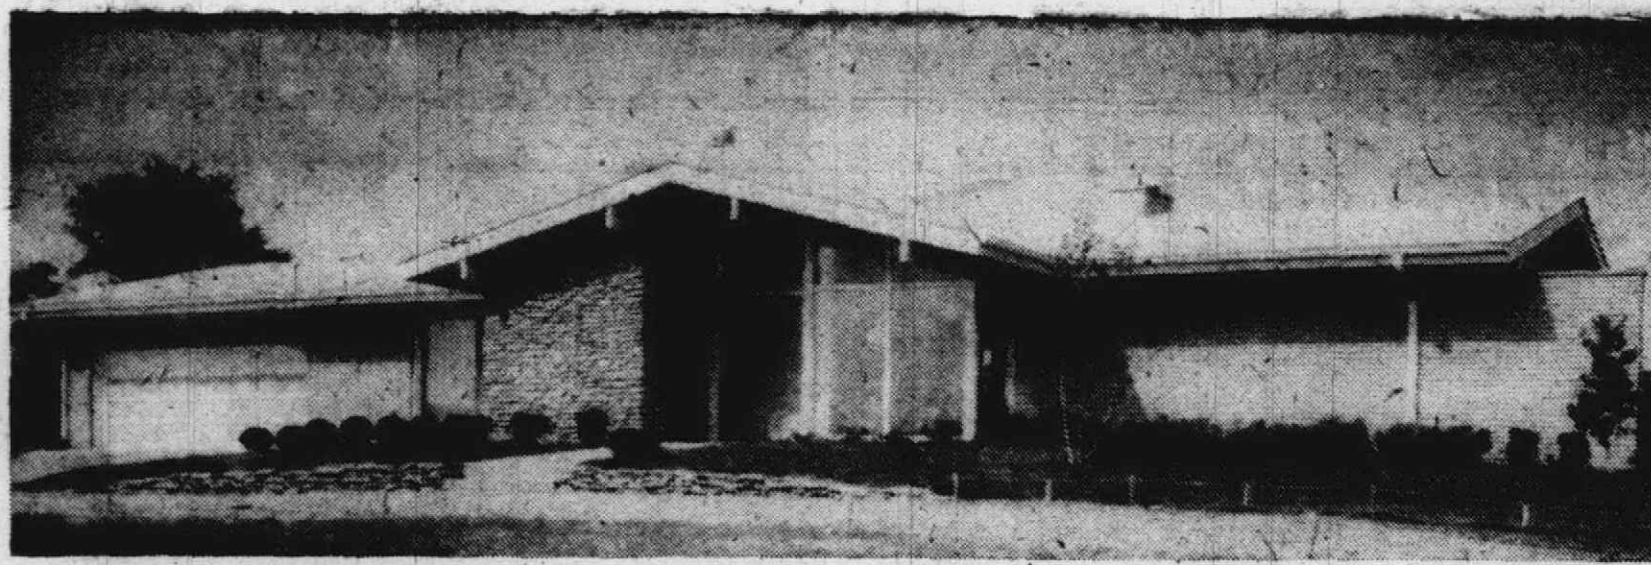

Newcomers' Club is having a pot-luck picnic September 24 at 6 p.m. on the grounds of the Ray Cusato residence at 13776 Ridgewood Dr.

It will be a planned pot-luck with each couple bringing a dish to pass. Reservations must be made with Bonnie Coons, GL 3-2653, by Thursday night, September 22.

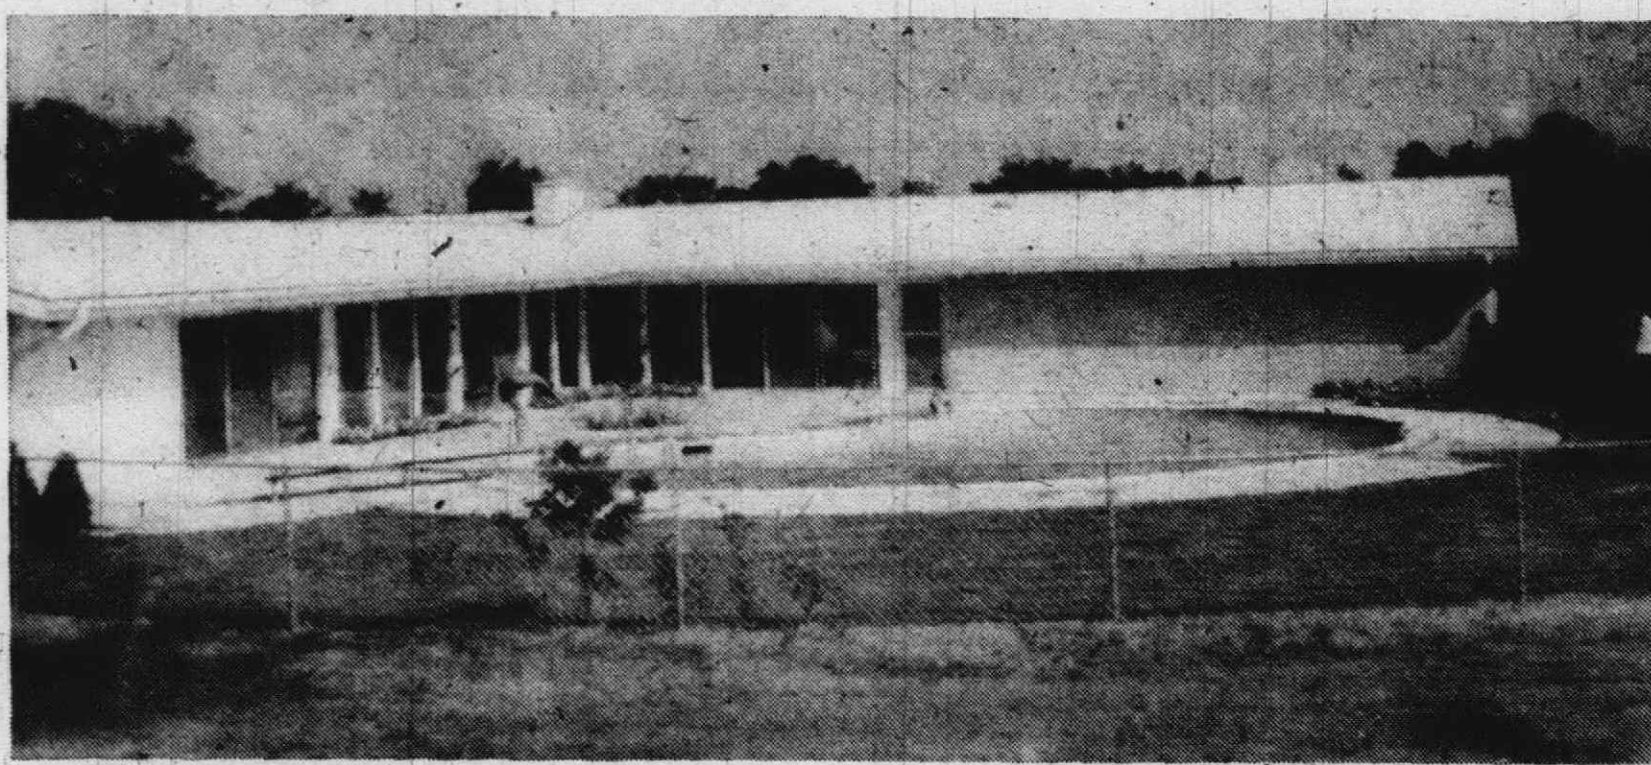

Mr. Stan Hart of Montgomery Wards will address the Club this Thursday during its luncheon at the Mayflower Hotel.

A film entitled "The World is Yours" will be shown which depicts the creation of fashions in Europe to the counters of department stores in this country.

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Lloyd (Little Poison) Warner, Pittsburgh outfielder, collected 198 singles during the 1927 season.

FRONT VIEW of the new House & Garden home shows the gabled entrance and stone wall flanking the double doors.

FROM THE back, one sees the pool surrounded by the bedroom wing on the left and the family room on the right.

House & Garden Home Opens Here Sunday

House & Garden magazine's feature home for June will have its grand opening in Plymouth this Saturday and Sunday in Pilgrim Hills, a rolling subdivision located on Warren Rd. near Napier.

The Pilgrim Corp., developers, will have the open house and grand opening from noon to dark on both weekend days. The home will remain open for the next 30 days.

The home is the Scholtz Mark '60, newest and most luxurious of Scholtz Homes, Inc., Toledo. In the June issue of House & Garden, 28 pages were devoted to the home.

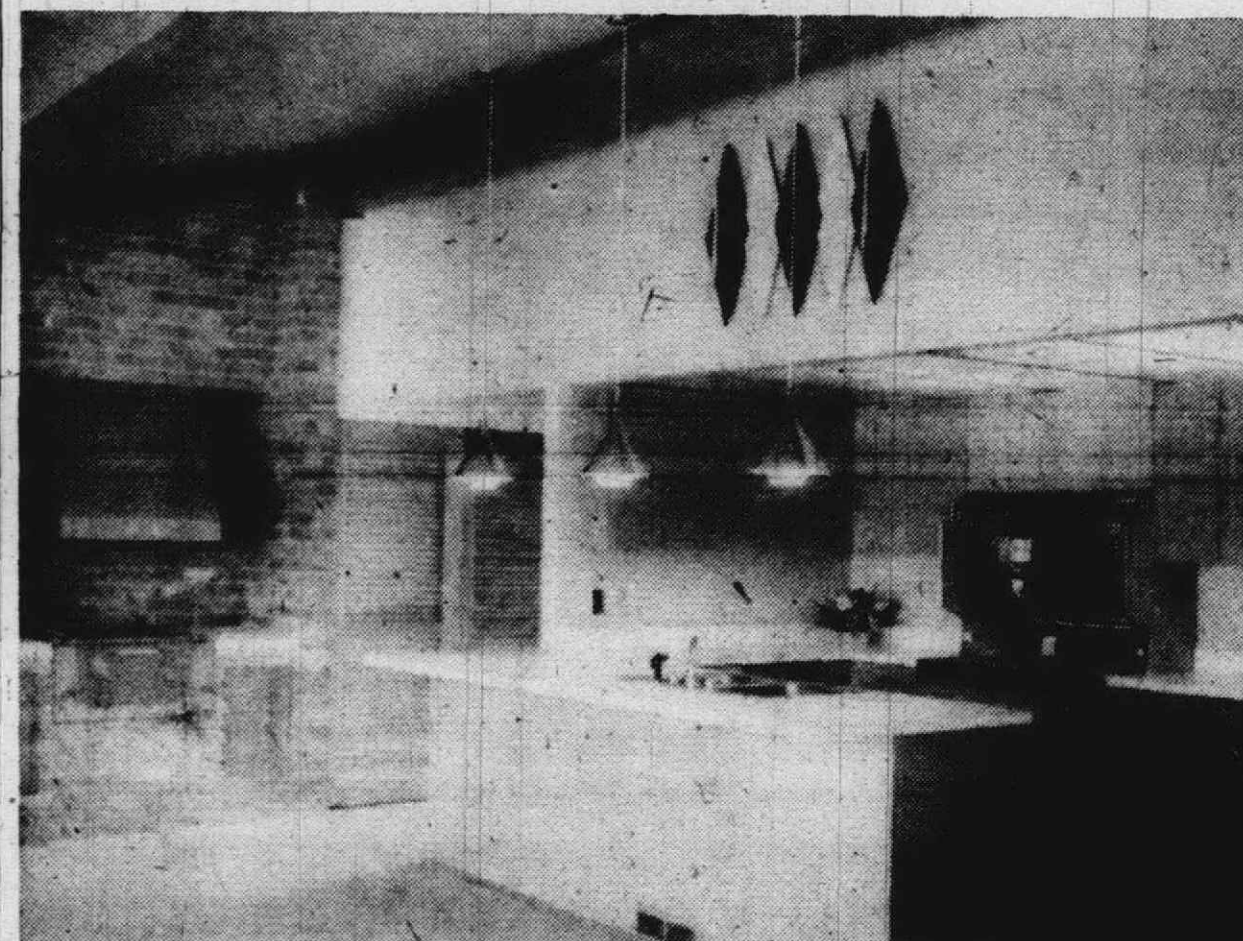

One-story high, the model spreads out in an L shape and wraps around a pool-side terrace. Every room has ready access to the outdoors. The sleeping wing includes three bedrooms, a dressing room-bath and patio for the parents, another bath for the children and 40 feet of window wall overlooking the pool and terrace.

A spacious foyer measuring eight by 22 feet leads the visitor either into the living room (16 by 26 feet), the dining room (12 by 13 feet) or into the large area containing the kitchen and family room. Inside the family room is a built-in barbecue. The interior of the home seems in development, seven of them occupied. Pilgrim Hills can most easily be reached from Plymouth by going west on Ann Arbor Rd. to Napier, turning south (left) on Napier and then left again on Warren Rd. There are signs marking the route.

just now being opened up. By next spring there will be an additional 40 lots, making 81 that will be available. Ten homes are currently in the development, seven of them occupied. Pilgrim Hills can most easily be reached from Plymouth by going west on Ann Arbor Rd. to Napier, turning south (left) on Napier and then left again on Warren Rd. There are signs marking the route.

A KITCHEN and family room are combined. The kitchen includes all of the built-ins and even a barbecue at left.

BAKE SLOWLY
DALLAS (UPI) — Firemen recently found themselves making biscuits when they answered a call at Mrs. Bard's Bakery. Battalion Chief I. D. Jones said a small blaze was under way in a flour bin and when water was poured on the flour "it formed the nicest little biscuit crust."

AIR FORCE BUGS BUGS
HAMPTON, Va. (UPI) — The Tactical Air Command has gone to war against mosquitoes. Capt. Carl W. Marshall commands a special TAC unit which sprays government areas and military bases from Labrador to the Bahama Islands to rid them of disease-carrying mosquitoes and other insects.

SEAMAN TO ADMIRAL
MABEL, Minn. (UPI) — Paul R. Norby, postmaster here, is one of the few persons in the history of the U.S. Naval Reserve to retire as an admiral after once having been a seaman. Norby was a seaman in 1936, was commissioned as an ensign in 1939, and was an admiral in 1944.

DRUG STORE GRAND OPENING

Grand Opening for New Beyer Store

Thousands of shoppers will be carrying home prizes, gifts and many bargains this weekend when Beyer Rexall Drugs, one of Plymouth's oldest business concerns remaining under the same family, will stage the grand opening of its new store.

The gleaming store, located at Main and Mill Streets, will have its grand opening celebration Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The long list of gifts and prizes will be found in this section — but just to name a few there will be free orchids for the ladies, cigars for the men, comic books, s u c k e r s and balloons for the children and many types of samples.

There will also be a handsome list of prizes, such as a television and clock radio.

The newest of three Beyer Rexall stores opened its doors late last June. Adopting the colonial architecture, the store measures 40 by 80 feet. There's a 28-car paved parking lot on two sides of the building.

The roomy, bright interior features a new soda fountain. On the Mill St. side of the building is a medical clinic. The building is air conditioned throughout.

When the new store was opened, the liquor department of the Liberty St. store was moved. The Liberty St. store remains open, with all but prescriptions available.

Beyer Drugs opened its doors in 1907 and has been in continuous operation ever since. Otto Beyer, father of the present owner, Robert Beyer, bought the property and drug store of Dr. J. G. Mieler, who had closed his store because of illness.

Residents of the area were particularly happy when Mr. Beyer announced that he would install a soda fountain, something long desired by people at that end of the village.

The original store on Liberty St. was in the building now occupied by Clover TV. Mr. Beyer ran the store single-handed, a far cry from the force now needed to operate the three Beyer Rexall stores. There are now two registered pharmacists in each store, plus other personnel.

The first Christmas Eve after Otto Beyer opened his store, he took in $21, an amazing day's business in those times. He and his wife counted the money three times to make sure there was no mistake.

In 1920 he built the two-story brick building next door to the original store. He moved the drug business to the first floor and lived with his family upstairs.

Even in those days, pharmaceuticals were not the only merchandise. A good business in Edison phonographs was also done.

Otto Beyer studied to be a doctor but switched to pharmacy to avoid the night riding and distant calls. He was called "Doc" by all who came to his store for their ailments. The store prospered until his death in 1941.

Attending pharmacy college at Ferris Institute at this time was Otto Beyer's son, Robert. He graduated in 1943 and was immediately inducted into the Navy. Mrs. Otto Beyer and her daughter, Marion, ran the store until 1946 when Bob was discharged. Keeping the store open proved to be quite a task for the two but they were determined to keep the business intact.

Upon his purchase of the business, Bob Beyer modernized the store on Liberty St.

Forest Ave. was just newly paved and was formerly dust and mud when the second Beyer store was opened there in 1951.

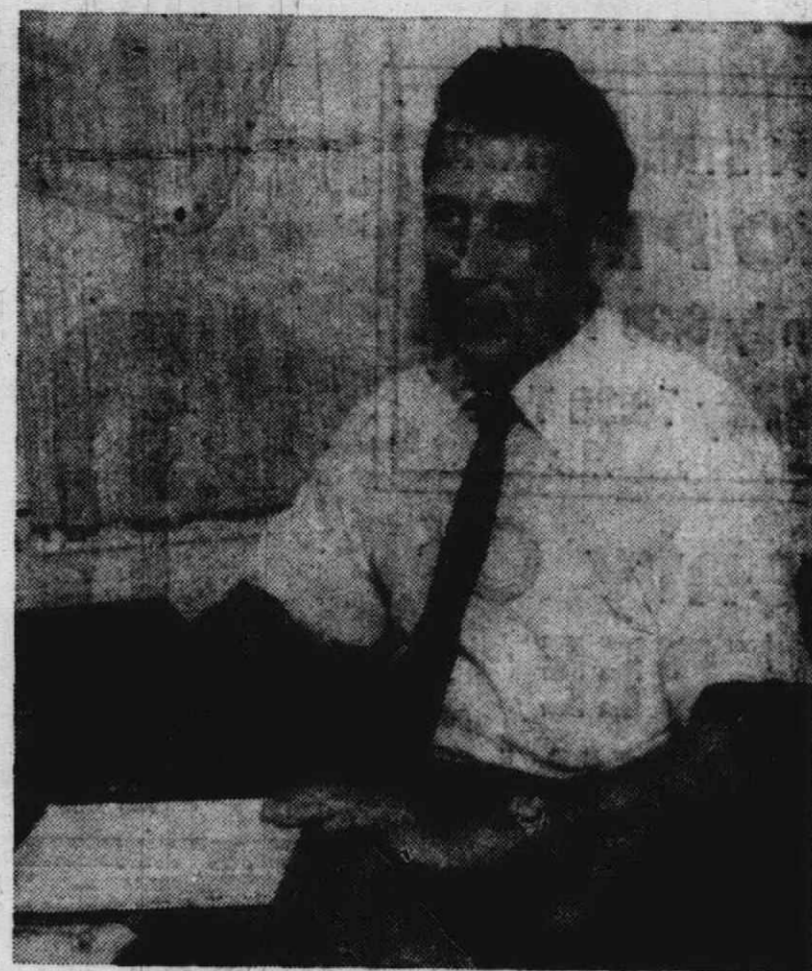

A third store was opened in December, 1957 on Ann Arbor Rd. There are now three Beyer Rexall Drug Stores (the original one on Liberty St. is not operating under that name).

In September, 1957 Beyer drugs celebrated its Golden Anniversary. It joined a select few businesses in Plymouth to reach that age under one family ownership.

The original store was affiliated with Rexall in 1911. In 1957, Robert Beyer was president of the Michigan Association of Retail Druggists of the Rexall Company.
