

Plymouth Pauses To Offer Thanks

Business and industry will shut down and most churches will open their doors as the nation observes Thanksgiving this Thursday.

The day which is closely related in history with two other towns named Plymouth will see many festive dinners and gatherings of friends and relatives.

Churches will observe the day with services either on Thanksgiving or the evening before.

Eight churches will present a united service of Thanksgiving at 9 a.m. Thursday at Calvary Baptist Church. Sponsored by the Plymouth Ministerial Association, the united service will be under the direction of Capt. John Cunard of the Salvation Army.

Featured as guest soloist and song leader will be Raymond Williams of the Church of the Nazarene. The sermon of the morning will be delivered by G. Douglas Routledge, associate pastor of Calvary Baptist Church.

Churches cooperating in the effort are First Methodist, First United Presbyterian, First Baptist, St. John's Episcopal, Salvation Army, Church of the Nazarene, Seventh Day Adventist, Epiphany Lutheran, and Calvary Baptist.

Calvary Baptist is located at 496 W. Ann Arbor Trail. Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church will have Thanksgiving Day Masses at 8 and 9 a.m.

As in the past, St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church will hold its Thanksgiving Day service beginning at 10 a.m. Pastor Norman Berg will be the speaker.

In addition to its participation in the united service, St. John's Episcopal Church will have a Thanksgiving Day service at its own church, 574 S. Sheldon Rd., at 10 a.m. The Senior and Junior Choirs will be singing Thanksgiving hymns and will offer an anthem.

The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints will also have a service at 10 a.m. on Thanksgiving Day. The church, at Schoolcraft and Bradner Roads, will have Pastor Robert Burger giving the message.

Reeder Oldham, pastor of the Church of Christ, announced that all Churches of Christ in the Detroit area will meet Thanksgiving Day at 10 a.m. in the Redford Church, 16776 Lahser Rd. Charles R. Brewer of Nashville, Tenn. will be the main speaker along with Pastor Oldham.

Riverside Park Church of God on Newburgh Rd. will have a Thanksgiving service at 8:30 a.m., the pastor, Rev. Rolla Swisher announced.

Thanksgiving will be observed at the Wednesday night service of Allen Heights Baptist Church, starting at 7:45 p.m. The minister is Dr. Truman Felker.

At First Church of Christ, Scientist, a special Thanksgiving Day service will be held at 10:30 a.m.

Board Plans For High School Remodeling Job

A special Board of Education meeting has been called for next Monday night to complete plans for a quarter million dollar remodeling job at the Senior High School next summer.

The Board intends to take bids in February on the major project in order that the project can be completed by next fall when schools reopen.

Last year the Board attempted to make the improvements during the summer months but the planning time for the September opening along with the completed time for the September opening.

Among the items being considered are a new outside stair tower for the front entrance of the building and new heating and lighting systems for the third floor. Also being considered is an addition in front of the new portion of the building facing Main St. It would be two stories high and would be built onto the hallway that runs along the gymnasium.

The proposed addition would have two classrooms.

There are also a number of other improvements proposed, most of which must be made in compliance with recommendations of the State Fire Marshall's office.

Some discussion was devoted to the program at a meeting held Tuesday of last week. (The regular meeting was to be Monday, but it was adjourned until Tuesday so that Board could attend the Chamber of Commerce Annual Meeting.)

A delegation of 16 residents of Shearer Dr., located off Sheldon Rd., was present to ask that bus service be extended down the street. Students must now walk to Sheldon Rd. to meet the bus.

The parents pointed out that walking along the unpaved road is both a safety and health hazard.

Board President Harold Niemi appointed a committee to look into the matter. On the committee are Board members Harold Fischer, and Peter Zylstra; Administrative

New Home Construction Takes Dip

A giant dip in new home construction this year in Plymouth Township and City has been pointed out in a survey made by the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission.

The survey, made at the end of three quarters of the year (Sept. 30) shows that Plymouth Township issued only 28 permits for new homes while the City issued 30.

At the end of the nine-month period in 1959, there had been 97 permits issued in the Township and 58 in the City. Altogether last year, the Township issued 123 permits and the City issued 68.

Since building usually declines in the final months of the year, it appears that construction of new homes will be lowest in many years here.

But Plymouth area is not alone. The report indicates that in the entire metropolitan area, there were 12,627 permits issued for the first nine months compared with 18,001 in 1959.

The Regional Planning Commission blames the decline on the reduced migration and slower family formation.

However, one of the chief factors as noted by local builders is the State Health Department's ban on developing new subdivisions. It has been over a year since any new subdivision plans have been approved. The State Health Department has withheld further approval of new subdivisions in Wayne County until more adequate sanitary sewer facilities are forthcoming.

Blaze Hits Empty House

An empty house at 728 S. Main St. was heavily damaged inside by fire Monday night as flames crept up an interior wall from the basement to the roof.

The house, owned by John Wimsatt, is being sold. Firemen said that they believe that the fire started from wiring in the basement. It had apparently been burning several hours when it was discovered. Because it was a foggy night, firemen had a difficult time ventilating the house and they used air packs to move inside to fight the blaze.

Because of the heavy smoke, the interior will need to be redecorated.

Problems Still Ahead, But Daughter Survives Flames

Family Has Real Reason to Be Thankful — Bonnie Is Home

By Jim Sponseller

Despite a year that brought near-tragedy to their family, a medical bill that will run into thousands of dollars and months of unemployment — the Delbert Larrick family of Canton Township will be observing Thanksgiving this Thursday, more thankful than ever before.

The near-tragedy took place last Aug. 16 when their daughter, Bonnie, then 10, was severely burned and faced death with first, second and third degree burns covering 30 percent of her body.

Bonnie was released from the hospital less than two weeks ago and bills, which will run between $4,000 and $5,000, now face the family. And all of this came while Mr. Larrick was unemployed.

"But we still have much to be thankful for," Mrs. Larrick declared this week as she looked toward Bonnie. "She is with us again and that is what counts."

Bonnie still faces more skin grafts on her body and arms, but the worst is over. She had 15 operations while at Ridgewood Osteopathic Hospital.

Adding to the bright side of the picture, Mr. Larrick started a new job at Lincoln-Mercury in Wayne three weeks ago after being out of work since last June.

The story of Bonnie's misfortune started back on Aug. 16 when she and several cousins were playing at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ora Glass, 520 Holbrook. They wanted to have a wiener roast, but Mrs. Glass pointed out that there weren't enough wieners. She went back about her work in the basement.

But the children started a fire in the grill anyhow. Because the fire wasn't doing well, Bonnie decided to hurry it up. She drained some gasoline from a power mower and threw it on the fire.

A sheet of flame enveloped the child and her screams pierced the neighborhood.

Just coming out of his home next door was 67-year-old James Body, a retired machine operator for General Motors. Seeing Bonnie in flames, he rushed over and grabbed her around the head to smother flames, tore her dress down and rolled her on the ground. Bonnie's hair had been singed some, but most of her burns were on her body and arms.

"I just froze when I came out of the basement and saw what was happening," Mrs. Glass said. "If it hadn't been for Mr. Body, Bonnie wouldn't be alive today."

So one of the things that the Larricks will give thanks for this Thanksgiving is for people like Mr. Body.

Bonnie's life held in the balance for a long time at Ridgewood. Infection set in many times. Fifteen times she entered the operating room during the three-month period. There were also innumerable skin grafts. Bonnie's mother, who spent every day at the hospital, gave skin twice. The rest came from Bonnie's own body. She also had four blood transfusions.

The Larricks, who have two other daughters and two sons, expressed their thanks for Dr. C. B. Jackson and Dr. Charles Vortreide who patiently worked with Bonnie. And there was also the hospital staff who threw a birthday party for their prize patient before she left. Some of the nurses wept. Bonnie was allowed to go home Nov. 11 — her 11th birthday — and there she was greeted by 53 friends and relatives.

Bonnie's sixth grade teacher, at Gallimore School, Don Alexander, tutored her in the hospital and now at her home on Elmhurst St. She hopes to return to school within a week or two.

Exactly how the Larricks will pay for the medical bills, they aren't sure. Although there was some hospitalization insurance, they have been left with a $2,000 hospital bill. There are also other bills for medicine (one bottle cost $100), for the operating room, and bills that have not yet been received.

And there will be more bills in the future, because Bonnie still must visit a doctor twice a week for a dressing change and there will be more skin grafts.

But Bonnie is alive, she's getting better — and that is quite enough for a thankful Thanksgiving for the Delbert Larrick family.

City Warns: Rusty Water Coming

Flush Mains During Night

Users of City of Plymouth water should brace themselves for an avalanche of rust, the Department of Public Works warned this week as they already begin their program of cleaning out water mains.

Since last summer an additive placed in the City's water system has been at work breaking up the particles of rust that have accumulated on the insides of water mains and pipes. In order to get all of the rust out, it is now necessary to flush the mains, DPW Superintendent Joseph Bida declared yesterday.

The job was started last week and already the complaints have been piling up. Hydrants on Elmhurst and Marlowe have been flushed and water at some taps is as brown as dirt itself. Gallimore School, which used City water, has exceptionally rusty water.

Bida said that mains at the end of the system will be flushed first. The flushing will take place at night when most people don't use their water. Flushing loosens up the particles because of the sudden surge of water through the mains.

"Some of the pieces of rust coming from the hydrants are as big as a 50-cent piece," Bida said. He estimates that it will take a month to complete the job of flushing.

But he is confident that once the job is completed, water users shouldn't have any more trouble.

"A section of water main was taken up last week near Anchor Coupling that previously had an inch of rust scale," Bida asserted. "Last week it was clean."

Last summer an injector was placed at each City well which dropped the commercial product Calgon into the water. Harmless in all other ways, the Calgon suspends particles of rust instead of allowing it to accumulate. After a while, it gradually loosens the scale on the interior of the mains. Similar treatment is given in many other Michigan cities.

Once the rust is eliminated, water mains and pipes will be several inches wider inside and pressure will be increased. Bida said that mechanical work on the City's water system in recent months has already increased the pressure from the usual 60 pounds up to 80 pounds.

If there is an accumulation of rust coming into homes, Bida said, "all we can do is ask that the householders bear with us." Rust may be especially noticeable when a washing is done, since the sudden demand of water breaks away the rust. Most of the complaints so far have come from the south end of the water system.

Bida said that the chlorine content of the City's water has been stepped up slightly in recent weeks too, giving the water a somewhat stronger taste of the chemical. The increase was made at the request of the State Health Department.

State Home Starts New $850,000 Patient Unit

Foundations are being poured this week for a new $850,000 custodial building at the Plymouth State Home and Training School at Sheldon and Phoenix Roads.

The new building is located west of Sheldon and north of Phoenix Roads. It will house 220 mentally retarded children. It is to be completed within 15 months.

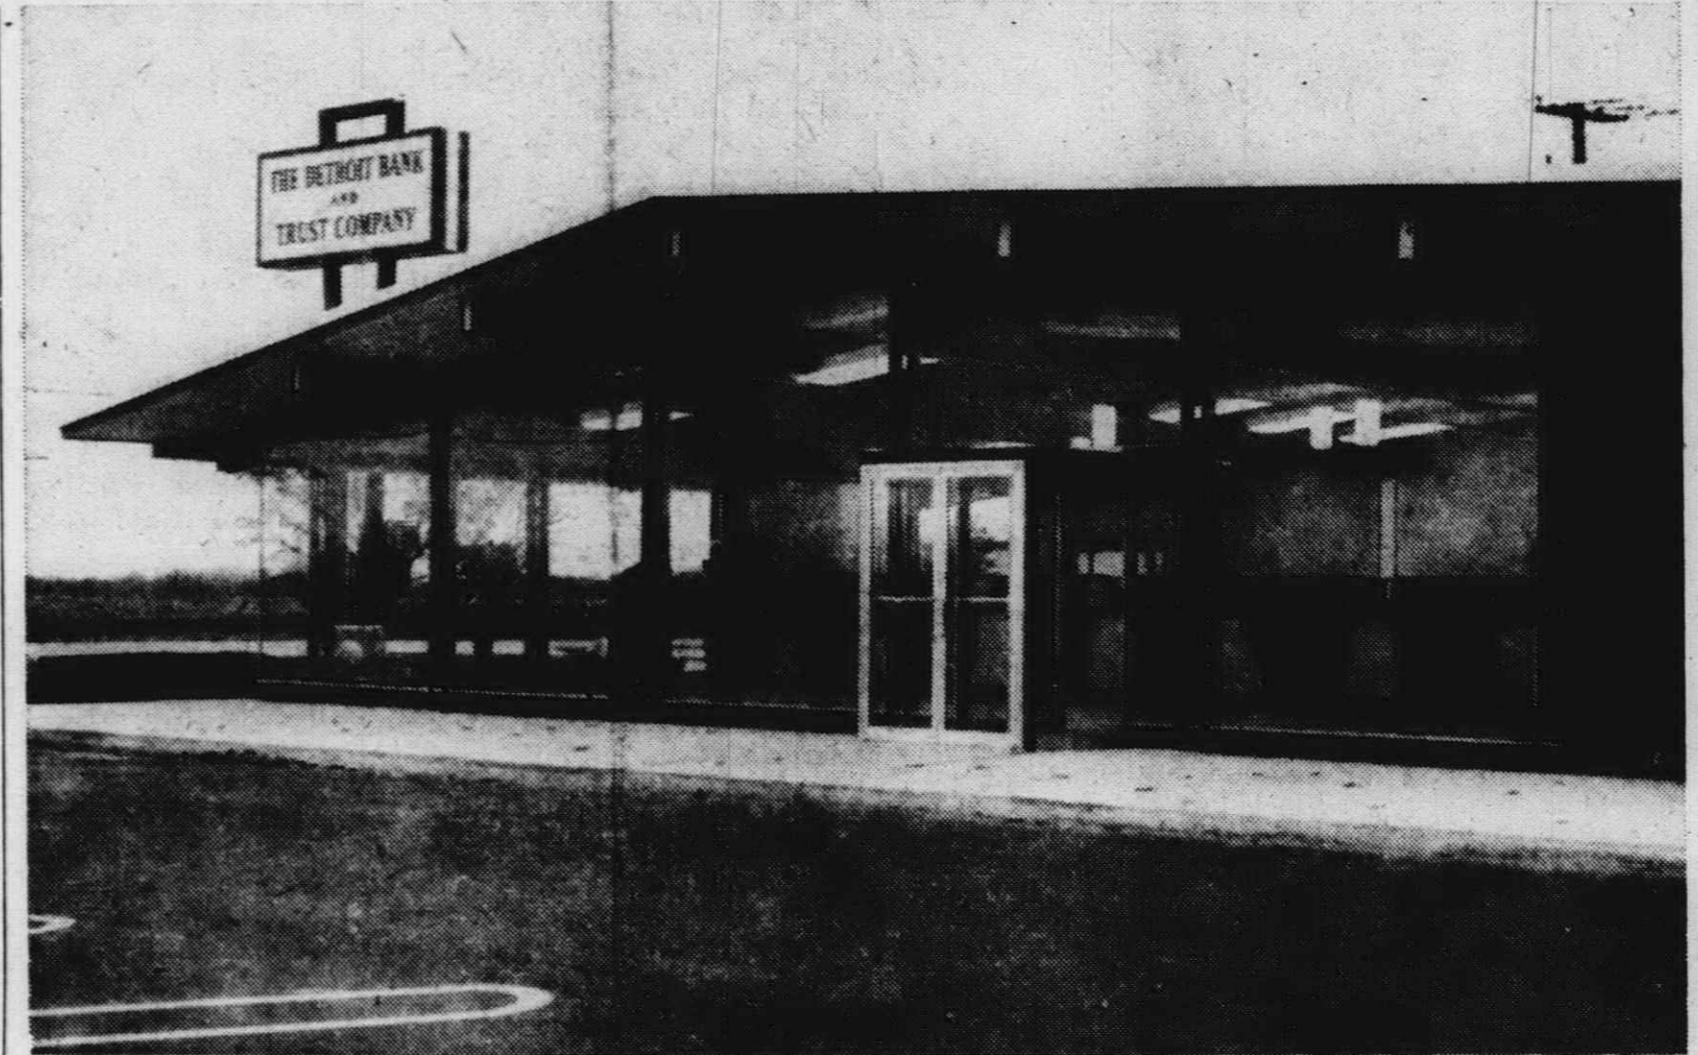

The building is the first in a series of new buildings to be erected in coming years. Eventually the Training School will have 1,500 beds.

Construction is scheduled to begin on a 22-bed infirmary building before the close of the 1961-62 fiscal year. This would hold young people not able to move about by themselves.

Funds are requested for the 1961-62 fiscal year to construct a laundry, to complete plans and begin construction of a store and food service building, to construct an additional 110-bed custodial building, to plan and begin work on three additional custodial buildings of 110 beds each, for plans for a 300-bed nursery unit and plans for a 22-bed unit for the physically handicapped, mentally retarded patient.

It is expected that these units will be completed by 1964 if the requested funds are made available as scheduled at the present time.

Planning money will be requested during the 1963-64 fiscal year for a 200-bed unit for trainable adults. It would be finished by 1966.

LATEST ARCHITECTURAL concepts have been embodied in the new Detroit Bank & Trust Co. office on Wilcox Dr. Formal opening of the branch took place Tuesday morning. Of contemporary ranch design, the building has exposed beams encased in redwood to give a lofty and open effect. There are two drive-in windows and inside customers are provided adding machines to verify their deposits. The building is the first structure in a proposed shopping center in Lake Pointe Village. For additional stories and pictures, see Section 2.

Here's the Word Kids! Helicopter Bringing Santa to Town Dec. 10

Don't worry kids—Santa Claus won't miss Plymouth.

The old man with the long white beard has sent word that he will again be in Plymouth to talk with the local young citizenry. Like last year, he will arrive by helicopter, landing on Main St. on Saturday morning, Dec. 10.

Plans being made by the Chamber of Commerce and the City call for erection of an igloo in which to house Santa this year, instead of the usual house trailer. Besides being here on Dec. 10, Santa will hold regular visiting hours until Christmas Eve.

The Santa visit is one of the many details being arranged by a committee headed by Miss Margaret Dunning. The committee is again planning decorations throughout the downtown, and especially in Kellogg Park.

DPW Superintendent Joseph Bida is in charge of the lighting and decorating with Chamber President George Lawton taking charge of the Kellogg Park Project.

Three life-sized Wisemen and camels will be added to the park's nativity scene this year.

In addition, a 22-foot live evergreen has been planted in the middle of the park. Weighing five tons, it was purchased through Christensen's Nursery and grown on the Ralph Garber property west of Plymouth. It will be decorated each year.

The tree was purchased by the Plymouth Community Federal Credit Union.

Most of the downtown Christmas lights will be turned on Thanksgiving night, Bida said. Others will be connected shortly thereafter.

Most Plymouth stores will start their "open night" until Christmas" hours on Friday, Dec. 2.

To Hear Traveler

Rev. Dr. R. B. Pierce, pastor of the Metropolitan Methodist Church, will speak at the Plymouth Methodist Men's Club Monday, Nov. 28 at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Pierce, whose father was formerly minister of the Northville Church, has just returned from a world tour, including the Belgian Congo.

Volunteers March For Muscular Dystrophy

Plymouth volunteers will join thousands throughout Michigan next Tuesday night for the annual house-to-house March Against Muscular Dystrophy.

Householders are asked to keep their porchlights on while marchers conduct their drive from 7 to 9 p.m.

The Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, Inc., kicked off its annual appeal for funds here last Thursday at the Mayflower Hotel with 10 volunteer area leaders present. Paul J. Millitello, regional director of the association, was present to instruct leaders.

Mrs. Fred Beitner is general chairman of the drive. Leaders present were Harry Geist, Mrs. Joseph Schaefer, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Berry, Mrs. Charles Derr, George Lawton, Mrs. Charles Engstrom, Mrs. Kenneth Fisher and Roberta Steele.

Other chairmen are Mrs. Robert Wood, Mrs. Jerry C. Low, Mrs. Alfred Brewer, Mrs. Robert J. Kauffman and Mrs. George Schoeneman.

Seventy-five percent of the money raised is used for supporting a world-wide program of scientific grants and sponsoring a unique research facility — the Institute for Muscle Disease in New York City, a part of Cornell Medical Center. This $5 million institute is the first research center in the world devoted exclusively to the study of the muscle and its pathologies. The remaining 25 percent of MD funds is used locally for the Patient Service Program, which includes complete diagnostic evaluation, physical and occupational therapy, appliances, education, and encouragement. Additional money is needed immediately to meet the growing demands of the MD victim and to hasten the day when a cure will be found.

There are more than 200,000 MD victims in the U.S. and over 300 in the area. MD strikes children between 3 and 7, gradually deteriorating the voluntary muscles. It progressively weakens and disables its victim to the point where a minor ailment, even a cold, may be fatal.

BONNIE LARRICK, almost fatally burned last August, has plenty to be thankful for this Thanksgiving, especially for men like James Body, 530 Holbrook, who saved her life. He extinguished the fire that had enveloped her head and body.

Dr. Russel Kirk Returns To Address Rotary Club

A widely-known native of Plymouth, Dr. Russel Kirk, returned here last Friday to address the Plymouth Rotary Club and to offer some of his views concerning the concepts of education.

Dr. Kirk, who now lives in Mecosta, Mich., was accompanied to the meeting by two of his uncles, Clifford Tait of Plymouth, and Glen "Potter" Jewell, formerly of Plymouth and now of Mecosta.

Also attending the meeting were two of Dr. Kirk's former teachers, Miss Edna Allen and Miss Gertrude Fiegel.

Dr. Kirk has distinguished himself by authoring several books. He is widely-known in the field of education and is the only living American who has graduated from St. Andrews College (Scotland) with a doctor of letters degree. He spends much of his time traveling about the United States and abroad on speaking engagements.

In his address to Plymouth Rotarians, Dr. Kirk discussed the value of the Rotary Fellowship program abroad, which he asserted produced students whose average was above other scholarship holders, such as the government-sponsored Fulbright scholarship program.

He commended the Plymouth educational system as being much better than most with much being owed to the late George Smith, who was superintendent of schools many years.

In many secondary systems, he noted, there is the philosophy that a high school education should teach students how to get along in the world.

"Education is not for adjustment, but for developing the mind," Dr. Kirk explained. And with an illustration he pointed out that there are many evil things in the world to which young people should not adjust. Instead, he added, "they should act to restore and understand the political and moral principles of our being."

Congratulations are in order to the directors, actors and workers who contributed to the success of the all-school play "Angel Street." Seniors Paul Rawley and Grace Kuhns did a commendable job in establishing the tense atmosphere that pervaded the production, and juniors John Augustine and Kathy Walker, as well as sophomore Lee Stone combined just the right additional dramatic element which resulted in a thrilling theatrical masterpiece. Special notice, of course, must go to Robert Southgate, ablesst of directors, and his assistant, Robert Stenger.

The set, lighting, properties, makeup and costumes were worthy of note and evidenced the diligence with which the production committees had pursued their tasks.

After the play the whole group celebrated the successful conclusion of long weeks of concentrated endeavor at the traditional "cast party," held this time at Jinx Goddard's house. Highlight of the affair was the presentation of gifts to Mr. Southgate and Mr. Stenger.

There's always a lot of mixed emotions after a play — joy at its success, but regret that it's over. Oh well, tryouts for the spring play are only a few months away!

The Johnny Mills Orchestra, a six piece combo, has been chosen to provide the music for the J-Hop, which is ever drawing nearer.

Alas—no senior trip this year. Only about 90 seniors showed up at a final meeting in the study hall last Monday to discuss the possibility. According to school regulations, at least 150 students had to indicate their interest by attending the meeting. Thus, no more arrangements concerning this issue will be considered.

The Science Club has announced its plans to buy and assemble an oscilloscope (a complicated device which makes the shape of a voltage or current wave visible on a screen) and make it available for use in the science department. It is estimated that this project will require between 40 and 60 hours of work to complete.

The club was one of the last to elect its officers for this year. They are: Larry Heidt, president; Dick Jones, vice-president; Mark Fischer, secretary and treasurer. Club spokesmen say the club is anxious to have many new members and that anyone interested in the group and its activities is most welcome to attend any of its announced meetings. This year the group intends to go on some interesting field trips, such a visit to the annual science fair in Detroit.

WCTU Holds Elections For Heading Committees

A meeting of the Executive Board of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, District 17, was held Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 15, at the home of Mrs. Clifford Gracey on Homer Rd. Dessert was served by the hostess before the business meeting.

The officers comprising the Board were elected at the annual meeting held recently at Grandale Presbyterian Church, Detroit.

Those elected were: Mrs. Ernest Mobbs, president; Mrs. George Roush, first vice-president; Mrs. George Siivola, second vice-president; Mrs. Charles Cook, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Clifford Gracey, treasurer; Mrs. G. I. Friday, recording secretary; and Mrs. Paul Kenworthy, honorary president.

Mrs. Mobbs led in devotions. She urged the formation of prayer groups in each Union, since prayer can accomplish so much in the work of improving and uplifting the lives of people throughout the world.

The World W.C.T.U. for many years has urged a noon-time prayer, believing "It is always noontime somewhere. And across the awakening continents. From shore to shore, somewhere, Our prayers are rising evermore."

Suggestions were made by members of the Board for chairmen of committees on spiritual life, character education, speech contests, literature, citizenship and legislation, and armed services.

Mrs. Paul Kenworthy, State Branch Secretary for the Loyal Temperance Legion, consented to continue work as chairman of speech contests, Loyal Temperance Legion, and Youth Temperance Council.

Mrs. Charles Cook and Mrs. Clifford Gracey accepted the joint chairmanship of Publicity.

Members are to be contacted for other committees. Tentative plans were made for closer contact with Unions in the district, for family night, and for institutes and workshops to further temperance work.

Mrs. Roush told of the work done for the Veteran's Hospital and of plans to increase that phase of their work.

Boy Scouts and Progressive Dinners Are All Reported in Newburg News

MRS. EMIL LAPOINTE GL 3-3797

Well, they're off and on the march. Who? The Boy Scouts of Troop 271 of St. Michael's Catholic Church. Where are they marching? Right onto the honor roll of good citizens of this fair country.

Wednesday, Nov. 16, marked the beginning of the first of four court of honors to be held by the troop at which time the boys make many outstanding advancements and receive many honorable awards. This court of honor was no exception.

Presentation of colors and the pledge to the flag as conducted by senior leader Jack Krygier and then Lou Saplis, scoutmaster, introduced John Krygier who officially opened the ceremonies. He stated briefly how the court functions and how important it is for each individual boy's parents to attend this event.

Mr. Lynch, committeeman, then gave out the second class awards to: John Saplis, Norman Young, Michael Kowalski, Michael Mortens, James Morris, Robert Lark, Peter Lynch, Michael Donahue, James Hicks, Bill Coese, Bob Ayotte, Michael McMullen and Ronald Christiano who, in turn, presented their mothers with a small replica of the second class pin.

As there were no first class advancements for this evening, Mr. Krygier then presented the next advance of merit badges to the following boys: James Nowacki for cooking and forestry; Bruce LaPointe for pioneering and electricity; Bob McHugh for swimming and forestry; Dick Powell for personal fitness and soil and water conservation; David LaPointe for pets, electricity and pioneering; George Bachelor for swimming and forestry; David St. Amour for forestry; Richard Miller for swimming; and William Davis for archery, rowing and horsemanship.

James McHugh, committeeman, presented Kevin Dahill with the advancement to Star Scout and service stars for years of attendance in the troop were given by John Krygier to Jim Hicks, Steve Ott for one year; William McNece and Jim Nowacki for two years; Dick Powell and Mike Rea for four years and to Bruce LaPointe for six years of service. Scoutmaster Saplis then spoke briefly to the parents in regard to their duty to see that their boy attend any and all functions of the troop including, and more specifically, the Holy Name Sunday on the second Sunday of every month.

The festivities of the evening were closed with the Scoutmaster's Benediction lead by senior leader, Bruce LaPointe.

Highlight of the evening and the highest award presented was that of Bronze Palm, the next step after which requires an additional five merit badges above the 21 required for the Eagle rank. Receiving this award was Scout David LaPointe and the presentation was made by John Krygier.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Deters of Ravine Drive, spent a recent weekend visiting at the home of Mr. Deters' mother at Fife Lake, Mich.

Quite a few of the Newburg men are away this week, hunting in the north woods.

As yet I have not heard of their successes or failures, but you can be sure that as soon as I know all about their experiences and "the one that got away," you'll know too.

Their next regular meeting will be their annual Christmas party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Ryder on Ann Arbor Trail on Saturday, Dec. 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gennis and daughters, Mary Ellen and Kathy, Joy Rd., spent the past weekend visiting at the home of Mrs. Gennis' mother, Mrs. Mary Watt in Mason, Mich.

Deliberate Shooting of Dog Raises Ire of Canton Citizens

By ESTHER SPRENGEL
GL 3-0194

A very unpleasant mystery has developed in our Township, and we are hoping that someone reading our article will be able to shed some light on the incident. Mr. and Mrs. George Longwish of Cherry Hill, planned an evening out. Just before leaving just about dusk, Mr. Longwish went out and fed their dog, who was tied to his doghouse. The dog was just fine. The couple drove away and upon their return found their dog still tied, but shot with a .22 caliber gun.

A neighbor working in a nearby field told the couple that shortly after they left, a red and white Ford, about a 1955 or 1956 car, drove into their driveway and two young men got out and went hunting. The neighbor needed gas for his tractor and upon returning and putting the gas in the tractor, he saw the men returning from a nearby field. They walked into the Longwish driveway and shortly thereafter he heard a gunshot and a yelp from the dog and the two men got into their car and drove away. The only outstanding thing about the car besides the year and color was the fact that it had a Hollywood muffler.

Mr. and Mrs. Longwish can find no reason for the shooting and do not know anyone with a car answering this description. The dog could not have bothered the men as he was tied. Our great concern is, anyone this sadistic as to shoot a dog tied up, and for no reason, may do some greater harm.

Mr. Alta Morton of Michigan Ave., announced the death of her sister, Mrs. Mabel Hunter. Mrs. Hunter passed away Tuesday in a hospital in Lansing. The funeral services were held on Friday, Nov. 11. Also attending the services were Mr. and Mrs. Erickmoers and daughter, and Mrs. Phyllis Tietz of Cassopolis.

Has anyone seen a black and white beagle, who answers to the name of Bullet? Bullet was hunting with his master in the Ford-Beck Rd. area this past week. Bullet was raised from a puppy which he still has by his master, Kellie D. Jinkins of 42200 Ford Rd. Mr. Jinkins is very anxious to have information concerning Bullet and would appreciate anyone having seen a dog answering this description calling him at GL 3-4792.

Nancy Spigarelli, reporter for the 4-H Plymouth Clover Group, reports a new assistant leader to the group, Mrs. James Spigarelli, who will aid the girls in their first year sewing. The girls will hem a towel and make an apron for achievement day. The rest of the year will be taken up by a course in home improvement and second year cooking. The group's leader is Mrs. Ira Hauk of Warren Rd.

We know many residents will be happy to know that Bonnie Larrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Larrick, is now home from the hospital after 15 operations following her recent accident, when she was terribly burned. Her birthday present from her doctor was permission to go home. Before she left for home, however, the hospital staff gave Bonnie a birthday party in the hospital's kitchen, with cake and ice cream.

At home another birthday party was held for 53 guests, including her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Larrick and children, grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Ora Glass and children, Carol, Carl and Gary, Aunt and Uncle J. C. Lee and their two children, Mrs. Maxine Glass and two children, Mrs. Donna White and four children, Mrs. Josie Walden (an aunt from Ohio), Mrs. Omie Newport and eight children, Mrs. Rosalie Burris Grandest way in the world to get there!

It has been remarked that the most delightful distance between departure and arrival is a journey in a Cadillac car.

And if this has been recognized in years past, it will be more apparent in 1961.

For in all the things that make a motor car a pleasure to ride in—the current Cadillac is clearly in a class of its own making.

It's a pleasure just to sit in a new Cadillac!

First of all, there is the wonderful roominess of the car's interior. Space reaches out in every direction—above, in front, and to the sides.

Here, in motordom's most generously proportioned passenger area, you can really take your comfort and your ease in abundance.

Then there is its great luxury. The seat cushions are soft and gentle . . . and a wonderworld of personal conveniences is in attendance.

And what a treat the interior compartment is to the eye. Choice fabrics and leathers . . . exquisite patterns and textures . . . color and chrome—all blend into a vision of perfect beauty.

And in motion on the highway, these interior delights seem doubly pleasurable.

The car is incredibly smooth and level of ride . . . and it is so quiet in operation that it is actually possible to whisper and be heard!

Have you as yet made a journey in a 1961 Cadillac? If you haven't, you should do so soon.

It's one trip that every motorist owes to himself!

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh
The Milky Way Tragedy
Chub Jackson, the town's only milkman, tells us he missed on an important delivery the other day.
Up way before dawn, Chub went busily about his daily rounds. Three quarts of milk for Mrs. Anderson, a gallon of milk for the Fishers, and so on.
Finished with his deliveries, Chub pulled the empty truck up to his front door. "What would you like for breakfast?" called his missus. "A big bowl of cereal with cream," answered Chub. "Sorry, dear," said Mrs. Jackson, "the milkman passed us by today."
From where I sit, it's wonderful the way folks forget themselves to do things for others. My neighbors are like that. When I have supper with them, they always serve my favorite foods and my favorite beverage—beer! They drink tea themselves, but they're happy to accommodate my preference. If we all accepted each other's right to have preferences, we'd never "milk" our friendships dry.

Gothard, Alsbro on All-League Team

A pair of top-notch guards from Plymouth, Dave Gothard and Dick Alsbro, were placed on the 1960 Suburban Six League First Team and three others have been named to the second team.

The annual selection, made after the season by coaches from the six teams, named three from Belleville to the all-star cast, two each from Plymouth, Bentley and Allen Park and one each from Trenton and Redford Union. Plymouth ended its league season with three wins and two losses, being jolted by Bentley and Allen Park.
Alsbro and Gothard, both 5-foot-nine inch guards, weigh 165 and 160 respectively. Alsbro is a senior and Gothard a junior.
Named to the second team from the Rocks were Ray Liimakka, a 6 foot 1 inch, 190 pound end; Bob Monteith, a 5 foot 11 inch, 195 pound center; and Dick Schryer, a back weighing 165 pounds and standing 6 feet.

In addition, honorable mention went to five others from Plymouth — Jim Ralston, Ron Sweet, Jim Dart, John Spigarelli and Pete Steiner, the 300-pounds-plus center.
While the Rocks failed to win any league titles, they showed amazing aggressiveness in their games and picked off three tough non-league opponents, Northville, Ken McCullers, Curtis Johnson, Gary Crook, T. Josphides, Dick Alsbro, Dave Gothard, Boris Dimitroff, John Ellward, Larry Nickells, Dennis Snarey, Skip Fenner

THE MAIL ATTITUDE

BY PAUL CHANDLER

This reporter is not immune to the folkways of civilization. We respect the dead, the departed. And we yield to no one in mourning for the passage of The Detroit Times, a metropolitan newspaper which recently decided it couldn't make it, despite a weekday circulation of 400,000 homes and Sunday circulation of 500,000 homes.

It wasn't big enough.

Which is where we pause in mourning, and momentarily turn angry, wondering how many giant businesses and how many giant labor unions had time to catch the message during their ebullient dash down the highway of "free enterprise." Do they mourn, for instance, in the same way as a newspaper guy who has personal friends today without a job only because —

A paper with a circulation of 500,000 wasn't big enough?

NEW YORK (UPI) — A hotel which played host to two large political rallies for Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy in one day had only one sign posted in its lobby through which Kennedy left. It read "Cabot."

It wasn't a plug for the fellow Bostonian whose running for vice president for the other party, however, but a signpost to business hospitality of the Cabot Car Bon Ct., also of Boston.

WATCH THE READING

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI)—State Education Commissioner A. John Holden says "if a child's out-of-school reading is confined to funny books, an assignment to write 300 words on Lady Macbeth will hardly inspire him to serious effort. The first step to learn in writing is to learn to listen, speak and read better about more and better experiences."

Production Lines Rolling For Plymouth Jr. Achievers

Plymouth's nine miniature Junior Achievement business concerns are manufacturing the first in a line of plastic, wood and steel products which will be rolling off small production lines in ever increasing numbers in the weeks ahead.

It is estimated that the small-time companies will hit their production stride within two or three weeks. Junior Achievement's eight month program of economic education started on Oct. 10. Since then 361 JA companies in southeastern Michigan and 4,000 throughout the nation have given boys and girls between 15 and 19 the opportunity to learn all phases of business through the operation of their miniature businesses.

Although no official figures are known yet, it is estimated that an all time high has been set in the sale of JA company stock in southeastern Michigan this year. Last year, over 30,000 individuals bought $36,489.50 worth of the 50-cent stock in the area.

Current estimates place the number of local Junior Achievement companies actually selling their wares now at 25 percent. The remainder are still working out assembly line problems or are being delayed by inavailability of raw materials.

Most of the companies will rely heavily on door-to-door sales while a few are striving for wholesale orders.

Each Junior Achievement company is counseled by an adult enterprise which provides an advisory team of three advisors for guidance in business, sales and production matters.

Eight thousand young people are now active in Junior Achievement in southeastern Michigan's six county area.

NEWS BEAT

"They must not make license plates now the way they used to," is the comment heard at Mango's Restaurant, Ann Arbor Rd., as Julia Mango shows a 1916 Michigan plate. A truck load of fill dirt taken from the former Daisy Manufacturing parking lot was being dumped near the restaurant when the license tag showed up. Still in good shape and not rusted, it contains the Michigan seal that was placed on license plates for just a few years. The number is 185-M. Anyone remember it?

JOBS OPEN: There are still a few jobs open during the Christmas season at the Plymouth Post Office, Postmaster George Timpona said this week. Applications will be accepted between 8 and 9 a.m. on Friday, Dec. 2. Veterans will be given preference.

ings recently with their mutual planning consultant, Waring & Johnson, to study mutual problems, especially those along the border line.

Burroughs Corp. Offers Low-Cost Adding Machine

Burroughs Corp. has introduced a complete new line of low cost adding machines and announced an 18 percent price reduction for its deluxe, ten-key models.

The company, which formerly offered just one economy model adder, expects to make an even greater penetration of the estimated annual market for 350,000 adding machines in the U.S. and Canada, said Ken T. Bement, vice president - marketing.

Burroughs' new economy line includes five ten-key adding machines, one full keyboard model and a printing multiplier, a new adding subtracting machine that permits rapid, short-cut multiplication. All are electric.

Prices for the ten-key and full keyboard models will range from $199 to $279. The printing multiplier will sell for $319.

Deluxe ten-key adding machines now range from $249 to $329, approximately an 18 percent price reduction for each of the six models in that line, Bement announced.

The new machines will be distributed through the firm's 145 branch offices and more than 3,000 independent dealers in North America.

Since the firm's founder, William Seward Burroughs, invented the first practical adder in 1891, the company has produced more than two and a half million adding machines. Burroughs died in 1898 at the age of 41, still believing that the total market for his invention was a mere 8,000 adding machines.

Who's Who in the Plymouth Community Schools

Frances Edmunda Chilson

Bird School kindergarten teacher for the past ten years, Frances Chilson, of 1468 Sheridan Ave., was born in Westport, Nova Scotia, the daughter of Albert Bailey, a deep-sea captain.

Following her graduation from Westport High School, she was enrolled at Nova Scotia Normal College. During this interview Mrs. Chilson offered, "Perhaps the following information will help to explain my 'wandering' education: I came to the United States in 1927 to visit my sister in Rhode Island. I liked the United States so much, I decided to stay and teach.

"However, I found that my Nova Scotia teaching certificate was not valid in Rhode Island. So in order to teach I had to attend college in Rhode Island.

"After a year at the Rhode Island College of Education, I decided to specialize in kindergarten. Oberlin College, Ohio, was recommended as being a good college in that field (in those days not many schools specialized in kindergarten) so I transferred.

"The year I graduated from Oberlin, the Wayne County Training School had asked them for a kindergarten teacher and I was recommended so that is how I happened to come to Michigan.

"She later received her bachelor of science degree at Wayne State University. Mrs. Chilson taught first and second grade at Aylesford, Nova Scotia for one year. She held her position as kindergarten and pre-primary teacher at Wayne County Training School for 16 years before joining the Plymouth teaching staff.

At one time she had hoped for a musical career and worked selling handkerchiefs and pocketbooks at E. C. Bowers Department Store to help earn enough money to finance two years at an Anglican Church School for girls, where she specialized in piano and voice. This has been a great asset in her kindergarten teaching.

Married to Arden Richard Chilson, now retired from the Ford Motor Co., she and her husband enjoy a common interest in their leisure time activities as well as travel. They have visited many parts of Canada and most of the United States.

Mrs. Chilson collects poetry, the works of Sir Walter Scott, and whenever she has an extra dollar she invests in Hummel figurines. She is presently learning to play an electric organ.

Active in the local teachers' organization, she has held several offices at one time or another. This year she represents the teaching staff of Bird School on the community relations committee of the P.E.A. Mrs. Chilson also holds membership in the M.E.A. and N.E.A.

Rotunda Opens Yule Fantasy This Saturday

The Santa Claus residence at the North Pole, usually seen only in the dreams of good little boys and girls, will be re-created at the eighth annual Christmas Fantasy opening Nov. 26 at the Ford Rotunda in Dearborn.

Billed as Santa's Wonderland, the make-believe village will have just about everything youngsters see in their "dream visits" to this land of enchantment. Animated elves will man the manufacturing assembly line for toys. Santa himself will be seated in his castle, ready to take his young friends' Christmas orders. A candy kitchen and bakery will be operated by toy workers. Wooden soldiers will guard the castle gate.

Nearby will be Wee Willie Winkie and several of his friends from fairy tale land, including an animated Humpty Dumpty perched atop a brick wall. All the king's men will be standing by in case Humpty topples to the ground.

Elsewhere in the Rotunda will be most of the other popular items in Santa's line of merchandise — dolls, bicycles, trains and Christmas cards from all over the world. Animated jungle animals will be housed in mobile cages with peppermint sticks for bars. A live, 40-foot-tall Christmas tree will glisten with 15,000 colored lights.

Among the dolls on display will be 2,000 dressed by the Ford Girls Club for distribution by the Goodfellows to underprivileged children.

As usual, cartoons will be shown in the Rotunda auditorium during the Fantasy.

At the entrance to the Rotunda's center court, the mood will change to the religious theme of Christmas. A cathedral facade with carillon music ringing from 40-foot spires will adorn the court's entrance. Inside will be a Nativity scene with life-size figures of the Holy Family, the Wise Men and their camels, and shepherds with their sheep. A silhouette of the town of Bethlehem will be in the background. An organ alongside the Nativity scene will provide Christmas music.

Rotunda hours for the Christmas Fantasy will be 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily. The special exhibition will end at 3 p.m. Dec. 24, when the Rotunda will close for the Christmas holiday.

More than 651,000 persons saw last year's Christmas show, raising to almost 4,400,000 the total attendance for the seven Fantasy productions.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Personnel Management Association has presented an award of merit to Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell for outstanding achievement in the field of personal relations. The award has only been granted six times in the past 13 years.

being recorded on video tape by a select group of teachers chosen earlier this year. The University of Detroit television studios are one of the national production centers presently engaged in producing taped television instructional series.

Kenneth Hulsing Named To TV Committee

Kenneth Hulsing, 1010 Church St., has been named by Wayne State University to a 25-member committee that will provide guidance for Detroit area schools intending to use the Midwest Airborne Television instruction program.

Hulsing, who served several terms on the Plymouth Board of Education, is the husband of Mrs. Esther Hulsing, present member of the Board. He is head of research at the Diesel Plant of General Motors Corp.

Commencing in January, 1961, educational television programs will be broadcast from a DC6AB flying in a circular path at an altitude of 24,000 feet over Montpelier, Ind. The project will duplicate the principle of high altitude telecasting first demonstrated by Westinghouse Electric Corp. in 1948.

The Area Committee named the John Dewey School, 21700 Marlow Ave., Oak Park, to serve as a site for MPATI demonstration purposes. This school was selected from a list of some 25 Detroit area schools nominated previously by school officials. Twelve classrooms in the Dewey School will be equipped with television receivers linked by a co-axial cable to an antenna distribution system located on the roof. The equipment will be installed and tested during December, 1960, and January, 1961, when the first test signals will be broadcast from the MPATI aircraft in Indiana.

Meetings of the Area Committee will deal with the problems encountered by various schools in utilizing educational television as well as evaluating program content.

Detroit Bank And Trust Guided By These Men

Joseph M. Dodge

International Financial Statesman

Joseph M. Dodge, as chairman and chief executive officer of The Detroit Bank and Trust Company is truly an important American. He is regarded by many as one of the top financial minds in the world today.

Detroit and Michigan are fortunate to claim such a man as its own. For Joseph M. Dodge is a nationally and internationally known financial cial statesman who has served three Administrations in the United States, at home and abroad.

Joseph M. Dodge

He is proudest of the fact that he is one of the few bankers in the United States who has been president of his State (Michigan) Bankers Association; the American Bankers Association, and the Association of Reserve City Bankers.

Born in Detroit, Nov. 18, 1890, Dodge graduated from Central High School in 1908, and began his banking career almost immediately as a messenger boy at the Central Savings Bank (Detroit). Before long he was a bookkeeper and had taught himself accounting. He was the first assistant state bank examiner and the youngest examiner.

Later Dodge was appointed vice-president and assistant to the chairman, and helped organize the new National Bank of Detroit. Before the year was over, Dodge, then 43, was selected by the board of directors of The Detroit Savings Bank (which became The Detroit Bank in 1936) as its new president to guide the bank through the rough years ahead. Under his leadership, the bank's assets grew tenfold and attracted 380,000 new accounts.

The next phase in the Dodge career produced an outstanding record in public affairs and government service, extending nearly 20 years. A Nov. 25, 1955, Detroit Free Press editorial commenting on Dodge's appointment as special assistant to President Eisenhower and chairman of the (Cabinet) Council on Foreign Economic Policy said "Mr. Joseph M. Dodge, of Detroit, has been recalled to Washington where he has already given signal service. No one is better qualified for the task."

Raymond T. Perring Modern Bank President

If any one businessman is singled out as an outstanding example of everything a modern 1960 executive should represent — it is Raymond T. Perring, president of The Detroit Bank and Trust Company.

First off, he looks the part

Raymond T. Perring

of a modern, first rate bank president, and perhaps most important — he acts it too. Contributing to the image is a profound and sincere outward expression of friendliness shown by Ray Perring to everyone he meets. This attribute is probably triggered by one of his basic and fundamental interests — people.

To support this interest, Ray Perring is an actual participant and leader of more than 40 civic, cultural and charitable organizations. Perring has often said, that although time consuming, it gives him a "great sense of satisfaction to be helping to do things for the community and the people in it."

Perring is a native Detroit, now 55, who has been president of the second largest bank in the state for over seven years already. He entered the banking field in 1927 shortly after graduation with a master's degree from the University of Michigan in business administration. He has been with Detroit Bank and Trust since 1928, when he began as a credit analyst.

His financial career has been characterized by a singular capacity to grow and change rather quickly along with an industry that too has grown and changed rapidly. The old picture of an austere banker amidst cold marble columns and mahogany desks has given way to modern technology and customer minded attitudes. Ray Perring is an example of a modern executive willing — and prepared to change with the times to better serve his market.

Albert M. Robertson Manages Plymouth Branch

Albert M. Robertson brings 34 years of broad banking experience to his assignment as manager at the Lake Pointe Village of Detroit Bank and Trust.

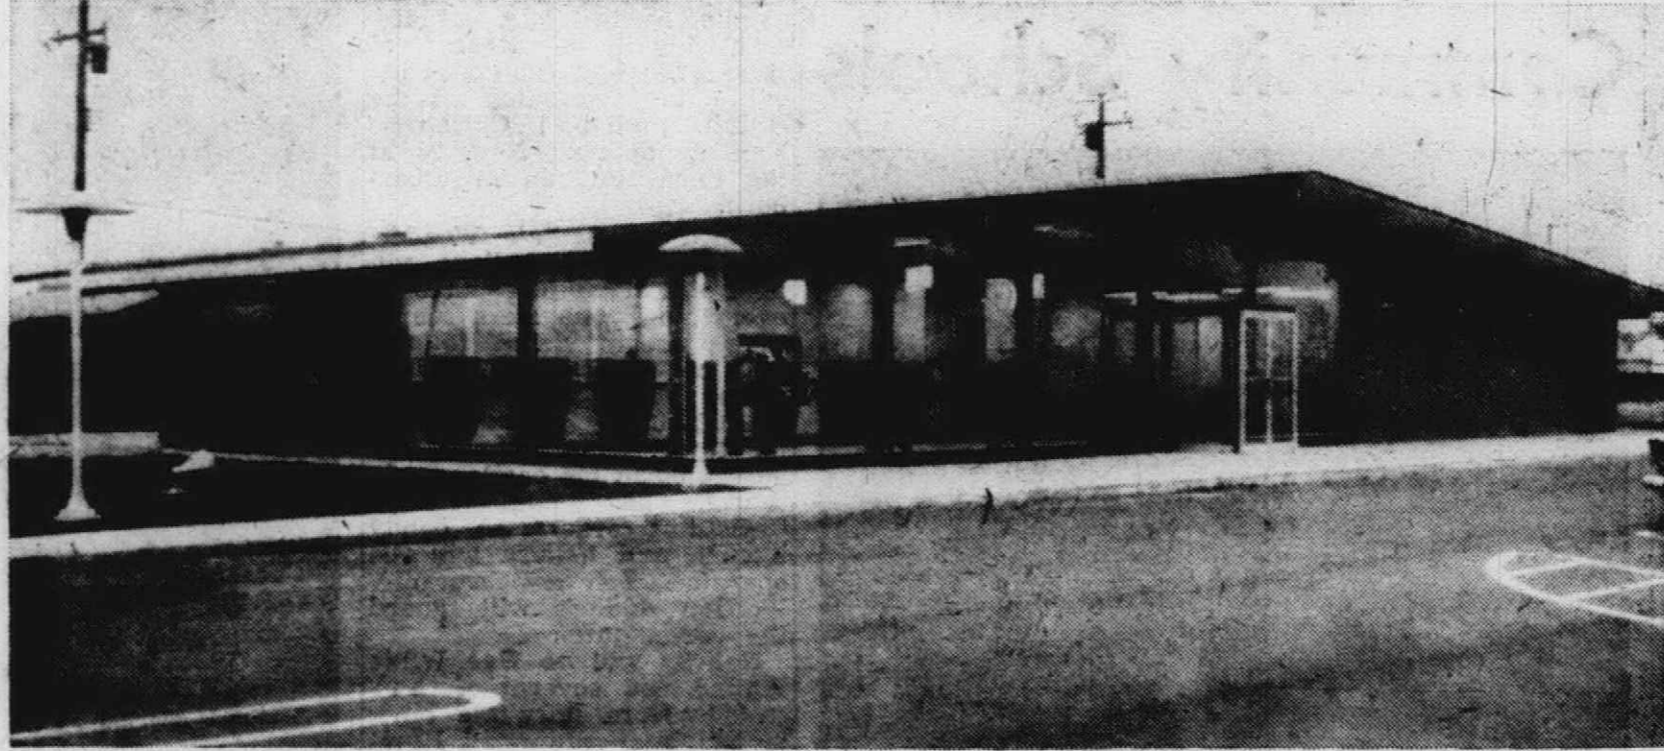

Albert M. Robertson

Beginning in 1926 as a messenger, Robertson earned subsequent promotions to bookkeeper and teller. Later in 1944 he became an assistant branch manager and then in 1948 was promoted to branch manager.

Robertson is a member of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club and is the treasurer and member of the Board of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce.

Robertson, his wife Mabelle and son Pat, 17, a student at Bentley High, reside at 16777 Inkster, Livonia. Another son Albert, Jr., is married and a student at Eastern Michigan College.

AN UNUSUAL contemporary ranch architectural treatment is displayed at the Lake Pointe office of the Detroit Bank and Trust Co.

The open feeling, created by liberal use of glass, exposes a striking line of modern teller windows.

Firm Holds 23,000 Individual Mortgages, Largest in Michigan

The Detroit Bank and Trust Company currently has the largest mortgage portfolio of any commercial bank in Michigan. As of Oct. 31, 1960, Detroit Bank and Trust's mortgage account exceeded $154 million, representing over 20,000 individual mortgages. In the past 10 years, the bank's mortgage account has more than doubled.

Currently, the bank is leading all mortgage lenders in amount of mortgages under $30,000 recorded in the Tri-

County area of Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties during the first 9 months of 1960. The bank's mortgage department had a rather modest beginning on March 12, 1953 when a $2,000 mortgage was made to Zina and Ann Pitcher on property located at Congress Street, Detroit, between Wayne and Cass. Since then, over 10,000 families have used the mortgage service of Detroit Bank and Trust.

Another "first" was scored by Detroit Bank and Trust when the first FHA mortgage was made by the bank in 1934. The bank has continued in this important area of government insured financing and is presently making FHA mortgages on both new and used homes.

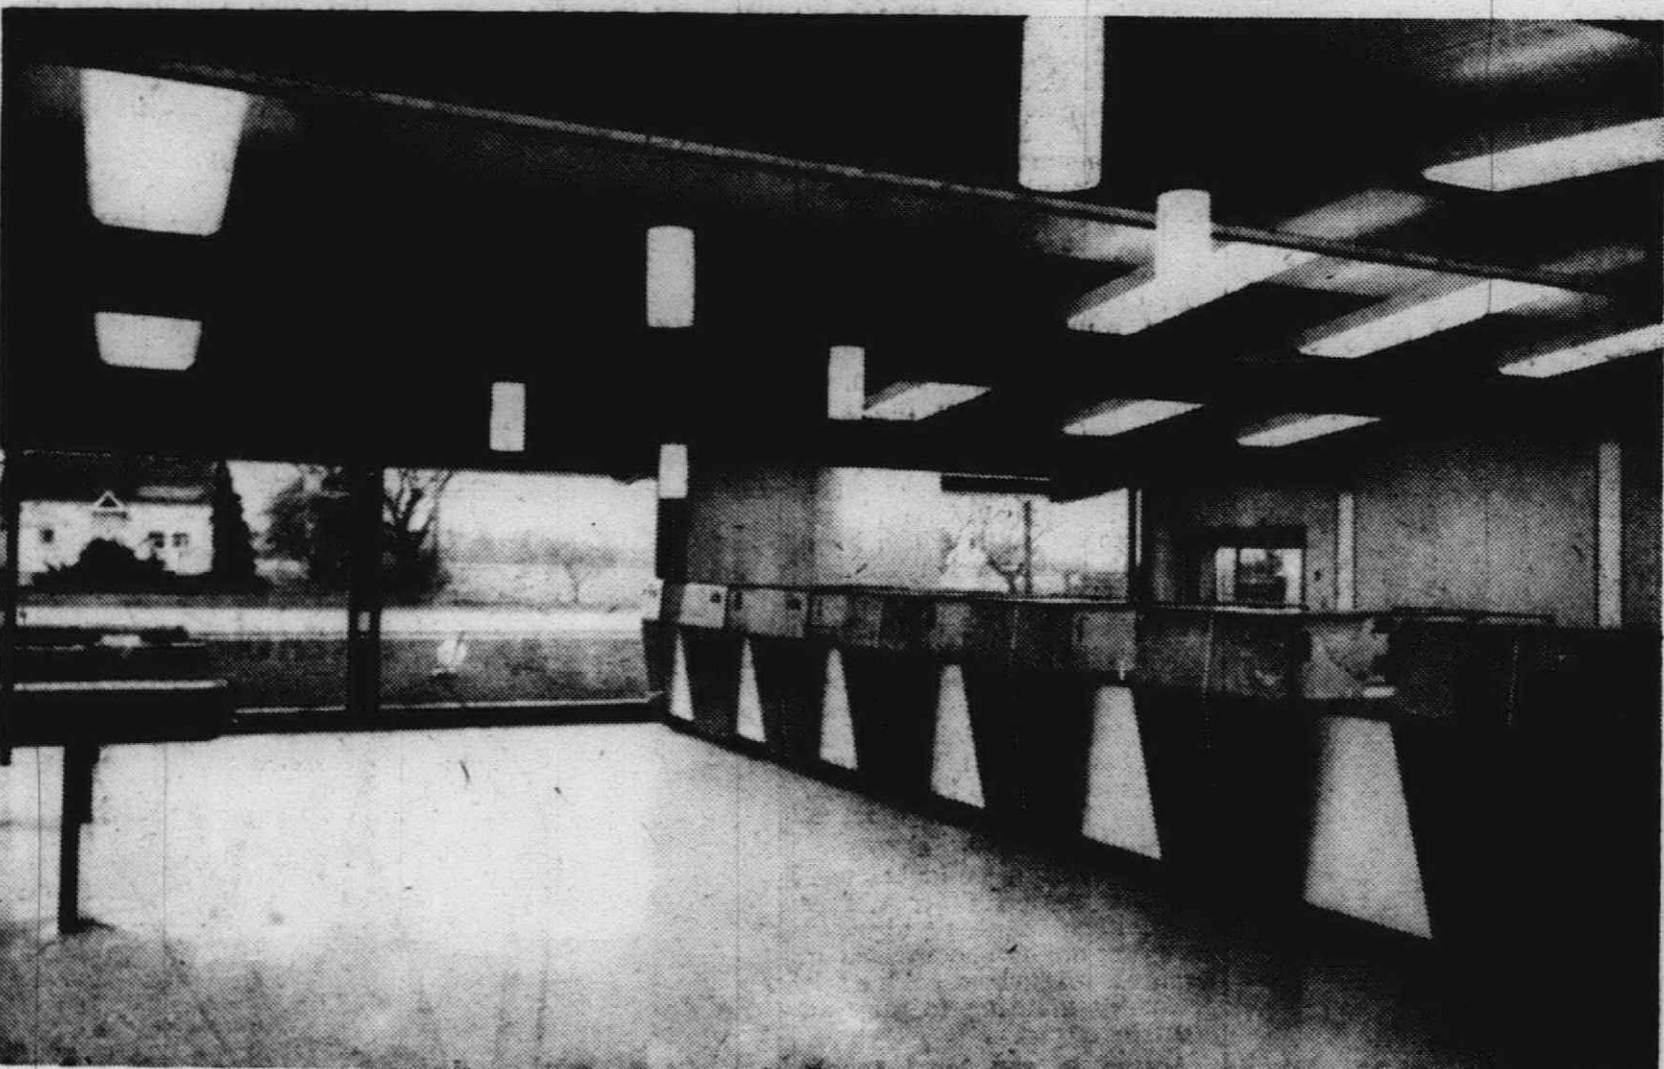

The Detroit Bank and Trust Company was first among commercial banks to provide mortgage loan closing service at any banking office of the customer's choice. The bank has found this to be especially appreciated by customers of our suburban offices in Birmingham, Clarenceville, Dearborn Township, Ferndale, Franklin, Nankin Township, Plymouth Township, Sterling Township, and Southfield. This is also an important "time saver" for brokers, attorneys, builders, and others concerned with mortgage closings.

The closing and disbursement of mortgage loans at the branches is a new innovation in banking service and the bank takes pride in the

During its 25 year Home Improvement loans years of installment lending for virtually any worthwhile the bank has loaned more purpose that will add to and than $1 billion to its customers.

Automobile loans may be placed with Detroit Bank and Trust directly or through any among current customers at authorized dealer simply by the temporary banking office specifying the bank by name.

First Business in Lake Pointe Shopping Plaza

A new business neighbor moved into its new home this week when The Detroit Bank and Trust Company opened its banking office in Lake Pointe Village. The site is located on Wilcox Road west of Schoolcraft.

The bank is the first of many stores planned for the proposed Lake Pointe Shopping Plaza.

For some time Detroit Bank and Trust has wanted to serve the Greater Plymouth area. Lake Pointe Village was selected after studies indicated that it has the greatest potential for growth.

Detroit Bank and Trust moved quickly during the summer of 1959 and on Aug. 5 of that year immediate service was provided to the community in a temporary office while the permanent building was being designed and built.

Since then, the bank's neighbors from Lake Pointe Village, Plymouth City and Plymouth Township have expressed confidence in the new bank with their patronage. The "temporary quarters" consisted of a basic house trailer shell with its interior custom designed as a small banking office. Inside, the four room office contained two teller windows, a manager's area, a bookkeeper's room and sanitary facilities.

Despite its small size and modest beginning the bank has been able to provide every available banking service offered by any large bank ranging from Christmas Clubs to commercial loans.

The architectural firm of Louis G. Redstone, Incorporated and Anner Nazar, Associate Architect was retained to design a contemporary building that would be complete in every respect and equipped to render every conceivable banking service available. A local general contractor, The Burger Construction Company of Plymouth was given the contract to construct the building.

The establishment of such a branch bank in the suburbs is an example of a modern trend in banking to carry the services of a large city bank out to the suburbs rather than requiring the customer to come a long distance to the bank. As proof of this, Detroit Bank and Trust points to eight suburban offices established in the past three years. All the new offices have been established in suburban communities like Lake Pointe Village.

Banks have come a long way since the old wicker barred "cages" for tellers. Modern and spacious buildings provide many conveniences that were considered unthinkable 20 years ago. In their race to woo the customer, modern banks are providing a myriad of services and convenience.

Such things as adding machines for customer use in the bank lobby, envelope drop slots for deposits, pedestrian "walk-up" windows on the street, motor banks, bank-by-mail, large parking lots and many more are commonplace. Banks in many ways have, in fact, become "super markets of finance."

Detroit Bank and Trust is such a bank. Every service that is available to the customers of the main office at State and Griswold is also available at the Lake Pointe Village branch office. A customer can finance anything from dental plates to Diesel engines and he can do it fast. If the twice-a-day mail truck delivery system is not fast enough, Manager Albert M. Robertson can expedite much of the process by telephone.

The new banking facility will be open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Mondays through Thursdays, and until 8 p.m. Fridays.

Bank Has Changed Names Four Times During 111 Years

In 1849 Detroit was a sleepy village of 19,000 that used stagecoach and boat as the principal means of transportation. Grand River was one of four toll roads serving the city.

On March 5, 1849, at the direction of the governor of Michigan, The Detroit Savings Fund Institute was founded to protect the funds of thrifty wage earners from unscrupulous promoters and "wildcat" banks.

The first president of the bank was Elon Farnsworth, a prominent and respected businessman and former chancellor of the State. He served the bank well for 28 years.

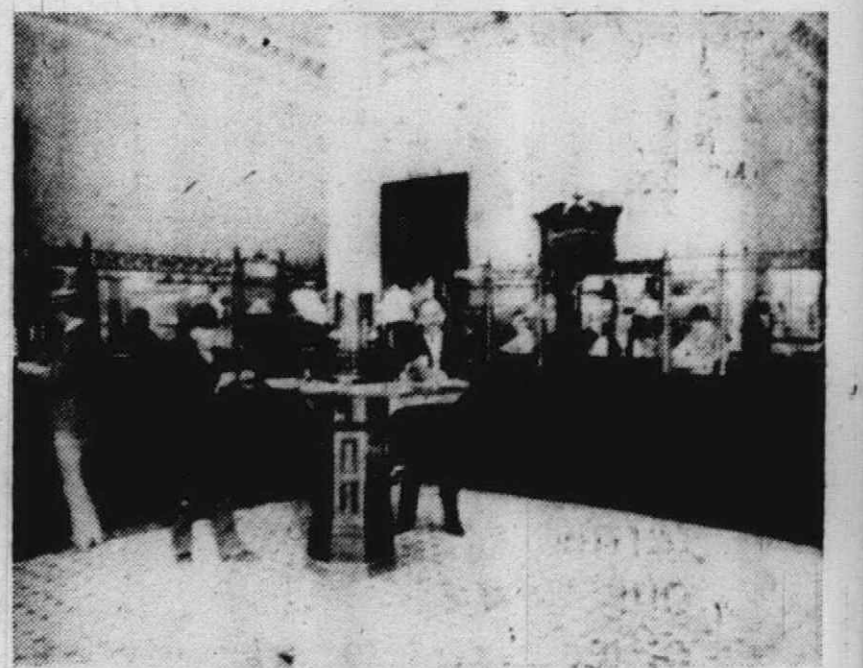

The Detroit Savings Fund Institute was established at the rear of Old Mariners' Church on the northeast corner of Griswold and Woodbridge Streets and at the end of the first year, 1849, total deposits amounted to $3,287. This was the modest beginning of the oldest — and now the second largest — bank in Michigan.

The bank has had four names over the 111 years. In 1871, the name was changed to The Detroit Savings Bank. In 1933, it was renamed The Detroit Bank, and finally in 1956, after the first merger in its long history, the bank became known as The Detroit Bank and Trust Co.

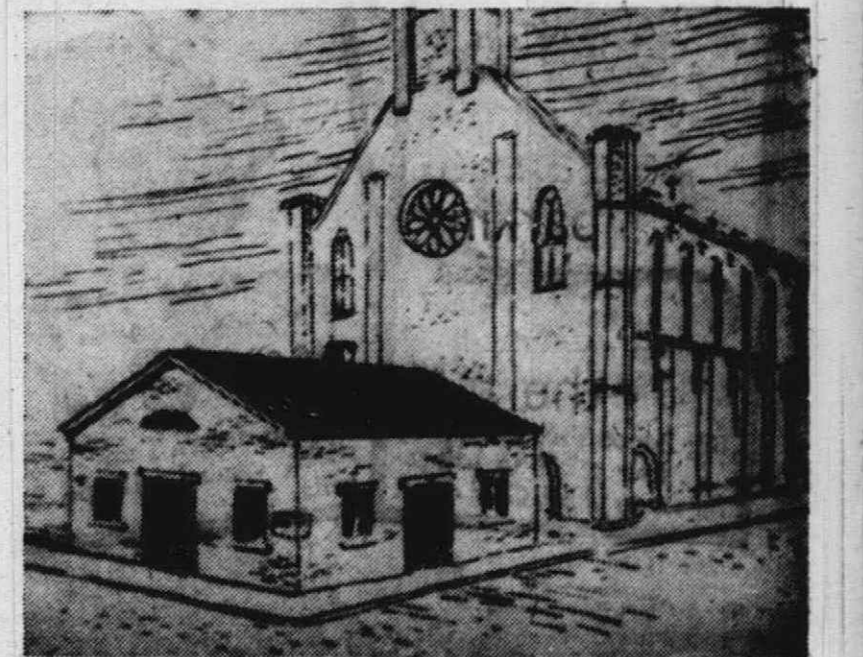

The years have not been without tribulation.

But through wise management, it has weathered all the financial storms and several wars. The bank has stood firm through the incurring crises of 1857, 1873, 1893, 1907, 1921 and 1930. And it has held fast through five wars, the Civil War, the Spanish - American War, World War I, World War II and the Korean Conflict.

Today The Detroit Bank and Trust Co. is numbered among the leading pioneer businesses of Detroit and the State of Michigan. It has a staff of 2,300 people, 59 banking officers, assets of nearly one billion dollars and a history in integrity, community service and progress virtually unparalleled in Michigan financial history.

THE INTERIOR of the Detroit Bank in 1890. Sidney D. Miller, then president, is shown standing at the right of the customers' desk. The bank was then located at the northeast corner of Griswold and Larned Streets.

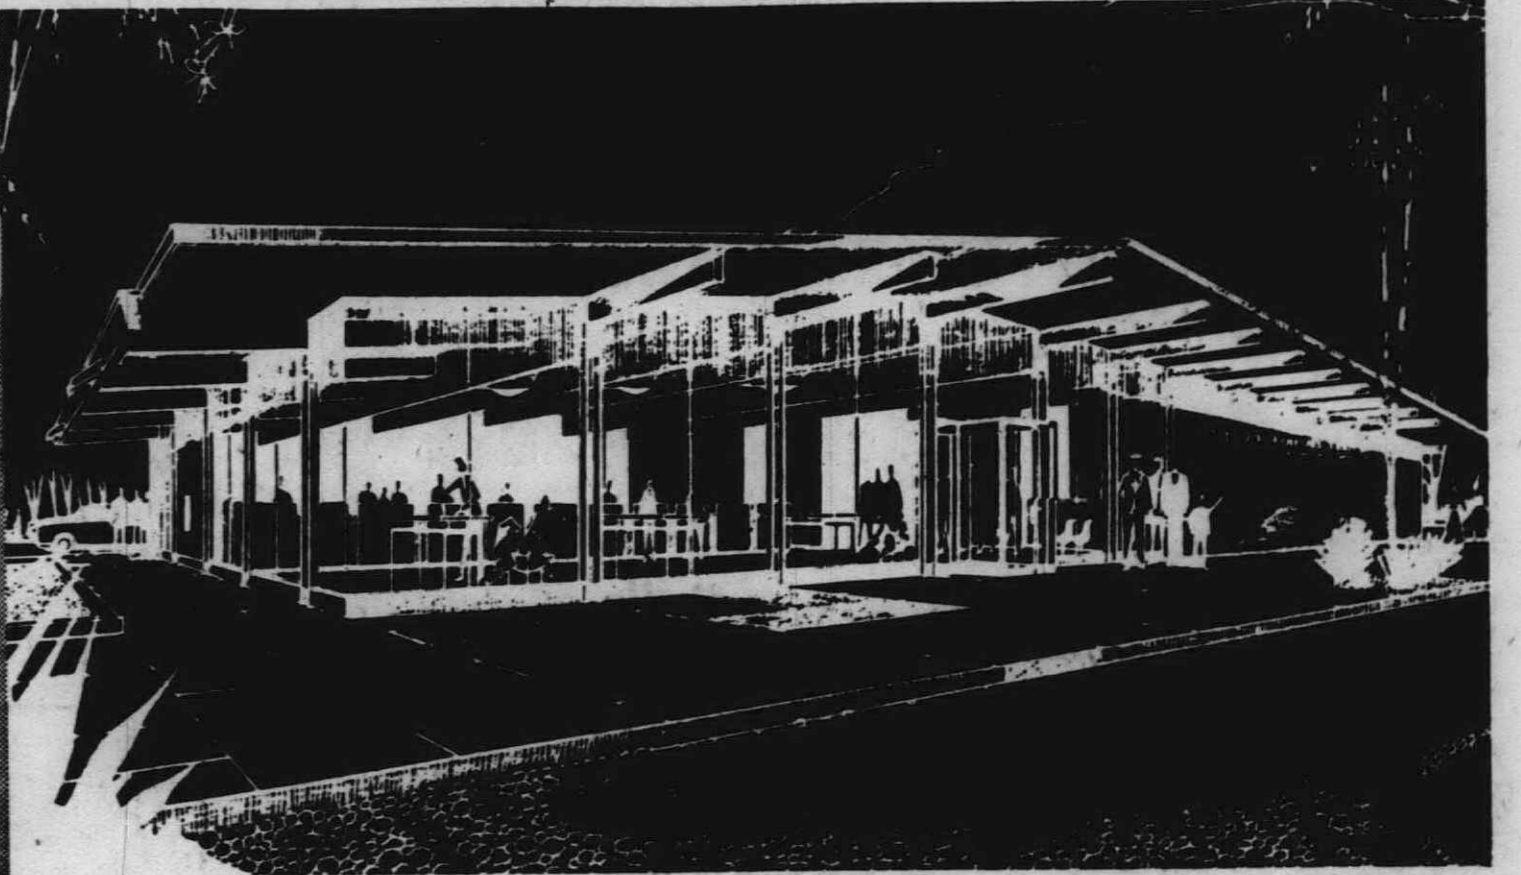

THE FIRST location of the bank was at the northeast corner of Griswold and Woodbridge Streets at the rear of Old Mariners' Church. The church and the bank were founded the same year, 1849.

Pilgrims Brought Own Turkeys From Europe

We can thank the Pilgrim Fathers for that delicious turkey on Thanksgiving Day, says Warren W. Chase, chairman of the Department of Wildlife Management at the University of Michigan. "Domestic turkeys were brought to this country by the Pilgrims," he says. "Most of us have always assumed that the Thanksgiving food of the Plymouth Rock Colony was the wild turkey, but it's been well documented that the people who came over on the Mayflower, as well as other groups arriving in the early 1600's, brought domestic turkeys with them."

Just the same, these were American birds, originally, says Chase. "Domesticated first by the Aztecs of Mexico, the turkeys were taken to Europe by the Spaniards after the conquest of Mexico which was completed in 1521."

Chase explains that at the time of the Spanish conquest, the Aztec Indians had reached a high degree of culture and large flocks of domesticated turkeys were found in their possession. Meanwhile, the American Indians, still savage, had not domesticated the turkey. "From Spain the domestic turkey rapidly spread over continental Europe and the British Isles. The turkey first appeared in England about 1524. Domestic turkeys were probably brought to France before 1543, into Germany about 1530, and into Italy in 1557."

Plymouth Club Observes Rotary

Plymouth Rotarians will join with nearly half a million Rotarians in 116 countries this week for a special observance of "The Rotary Foundation Week," it was announced today by Sam Hudson, president of the Rotary Club of Plymouth. The Rotary Foundation seeks to promote understanding and friendly relations between the peoples of different nations. Its major activity is granting Rotary Foundation Fellowships to outstanding graduate students for one year of study abroad as Rotary ambassadors of good will. Since this program was established in 1947, as a memorial to Paul P. Harris, the founder of Rotary, 1322 young men and women from 67 countries have received Rotary Foundation Fellowships for study in 15 countries, with grants averaging over $2,500. Total grants by The Rotary Foundation for this activity now exceed $3,300,000.

Rotary Fellowships are unique in that, with more than 10,600 Rotary Clubs throughout the world, the student is in direct contact with Rotarians and their families wherever he is studying. He attends their Rotary club meetings, visits in their homes and places of business, and travels as much as possible during his school holidays. In this way, he sees at first hand how the people in his host country live and he lays the foundation for international understanding, which is one of Rotary's principal objectives.

Five Plymouthites Pledge Fraternities

A total of 439 University of Michigan men have pledged membership in 43 campus fraternities, Inter-fraternity Council Rushing Chairman Robert V. Peterson, Grosse Pointe, announces. Later in the school year, students will be initiated into fraternities of their choice. The 43 fraternities are national organizations: Gary J. Hondorp, 1317 Park Place, Chi Phi; Gary J. Ross, 1008 Harding, Theta Delta Chi; Jay G. Selle, 964 Roosevelt, Alpha Delta Phi; Richard C. Wells, 500 Ross, Chi Phi; Earl M. Wright, 875 William St., Theta Delta Chi.

The Reader Speaks Up

Editor:

Your last issue is worthy of congratulations and is deserving of an assurance that you do not stand alone. There are many who will tread the same path with you.

Like yourself, many citizens of this area saw something in the election returns which they did not like. They are also responding as you so aptly stated, by "Signing up for the Game".

Politics is a year around business. The time to begin political organization for a new election is Wednesday morning, the day after the previous election — the wake is over.

As a starting point The Citizens Republican Club of Livonia recently evaluated itself and found that it was an antiquated, outmoded and non-functional organization. In fact who knew it existed?

After self analysis, members old and new revised the laws of this club and gave it a major face lifting. Even the name is new. The former Citizens Republican Club of Livonia is now named The Republican Party of Livonia and it intends that its voice and views shall be heard and, we hope, followed.

The intent of the Republican Party of Livonia is to bring together people who in political theory think approximately alike and who desire to place into public office people who will run the government the way they feel it should be run. Effective immediately, The Republican Party of Livonia will also take a stand on all important local issues and will endorse candidates for city offices.

The latest election indicated that half of Livonia's citizens consider themselves stockholders of Republican views. We have hopes that there is enough interest by these stockholders to start them shopping around for something more palatable than the existing disciplined bloc factions who now have control of our state and federal government.

Political party organization has been called or is sometimes referred to as "Hidden Government". If this is true, and we think it is, it is because most people have not and do not bother to concern themselves with the facts of how political parties work. Furthermore, they do not take the time to assist with its operation or function.

The strength of convictions or philosophies are no stronger than the support they can muster.

We also feel that it is the obligation and duty of political parties to oppose pressure groups or blocs whom strive to control, not serve elected officials.

We are in complete agreement with those who advocate that pressure groups should not control elected officials. Such groups should strive to serve, not control. It is unfortunate but true, that organized pressure groups, blocs or whatever name you may give them invariably exert an influence not proportionate to their number.

In order to fight fire with fire, a bloc of citizens who believe that elections should and must be decided on issues, policies and needs of the Country must be organized to exert the necessary influence proportionate to their number.

In passing I would like to mention a fact not often considered by the political independent; one who stands above partisan identification partially disenfranchises himself. He forfeits his opportunity to influence party policy and has little influence in the selection of candidates.

He waits on the sidelines while critically important pre-primary decisions leading to the nomination of candidates are being shaped.

Defeat has jarred many onlookers off the fence of neutrality onto the battleground of partisan politics. Yes, we truly believe that many more citizens will be signing up for the Game.

The latest political defeat can and will be turned into a future victory. The place to sign up for the game is with your local Republican Party.

Joseph C. Cervas, Jr. Chairman, Livonia Republican Delegation

Editor:

Could it just be possible that some thinking Democrats voted for Mr. Kennedy because he is a brilliant young man, honest enough to face true conditions, courageous enough to want to do something about them and fortunate enough to be blessed with a nice appearance?

If Democrats were only interested in running some glamour boy they might have nominated Rock Hudson. Since when has the Democratic Party been known for choosing a leader for glamour, etc.

Take Mr. Eisenhower, surely a dashing, much loved military leader more appealing than balding Adlai Stevenson — how about Tom Dewey for flashing eyes and glamour compared to plain talking Harry Truman.

Seems like Paul Chandler can't accept anyone with brains and looks, Mr. Kennedy being blessed with both. To achieve the Presidency at the age of 43, is hardly a feat accomplished by impressing intelligent people with charm and dash. Give the American voter a little more credit, Mr. Chandler, and please don't knock Mr. Nixon's personality—it was fine. If the aid of much loved President Eisenhower and experienced Mr. Lodge failed to help win him the Presidency despite the fact that Mr. Kennedy I was not a poor boy 2 campaigned without his wife and 3, was a Catholic to top it off, then the American voter must have seen something other than charm and personality in Mr. Kennedy. It would be an insult to believe otherwise.

As a mother of four little children I voted for John Kennedy because I think he was the very best we had to offer in these troubled times. I believe Mr. Nixon would have made a good President. I think Mr. Kennedy will make a better one.

Mrs. D. DuFresne

The "analysis" of the election as presented in your last column hardly qualifies as a basis for reversing the editorial policy of the paper. Unless your statements are a rationalization of personal prejudices they are to be condemned as lacking in objectivity and based on highly debatable grounds.

Is it necessary for a local weekly to add to the dim of the dailies for the same Republican causes? We'll get that story from all sides. Can't we relax with a free, independent, impartial, observant paper? Or do you too have to vent your partialities regarding the state and nation on us?

Sincerely, Russ Davidson

Editor:

A political campaign is serious business — the stakes win or lose, the candidates emerge from the campaign wiser and, I hope, better men because of their experiences in the political arena.

As your Republican candidate for the Michigan Legislature, I personally am endowed with a full and wonderful measure of rewarding experiences. However, it is not the candidates, their parties, or even the debates and speeches that provide the true excitement and the richest rewards in a political campaign. Rather, it is the people, people like you, who make the campaign such a great spectacle to behold.

You, the voter, listen, evaluate and then each in your own moment of truth join with your neighbors to vote your own government.

The fact that 36,654 wonderful people voted for me Nov. 8 was my ample reward. To you I give my heartfelt thanks. To my opponent, Mr. Beadle, I offer my congratulations and best wishes to represent well his constituents.

But with my thanks to you and my congratulations to my opponent comes an admission. To those of you who voted for me, I sincerely ask that we unite, in the best interest of our district and our state, behind Mr. Beadle to support him in his program. The responsibility for good government is just as much yours as it is his. So give him your criticism, your thoughts and, above all, your support. He needs it, and I'm sure he will use it to the benefit of our district and our state.

Thank you again, all 36,654 of you — It truly was an honor to be your Republican candidate for the State Legislature.

On Sunday evening, Nov. 13, the Columbus Broadcasting System presented a one-hour special television show, "The Influential Americans," from 9 to 10 p.m. In our opinion both the sponsor and the network should be commended on devoting prime evening television time to the subject of revolutionary trends in education. All too often programs of this nature are slanted into the morning or afternoon times with all too few listeners.

"The Influential Americans" presented a series of new programs being tested from coast to coast to provide our children with better instructional methods to meet the challenges of our changing times. The programs mentioned were Achievement Groupings, Language Laboratories, Team Teaching, and the Midwest Airborne Television Program.

All four of these programs are vested with great promise for the future of education. We are sure the citizens of Livonia are interested in knowing whether or not our school system is moving in any of these directions.

Achievement Groupings were adopted in the Livonia Schools and have been working successfully for more than a year. Such a program provides children with the opportunity to have an instructional program more adaptable to the child's ability to learn.

We are sure that Livonians will be interested to learn that electronic language laboratories were built this summer in all junior and senior high schools in Livonia and are currently in operation. To date these laboratories have proved extremely successful in greater mastery of languages. Two of our elementary schools last year also participated in the language programs telecast from the Detroit Public Schools with the same teacher who appeared on the CBS show.

The Midwest Airborne Television network has approached our school system requesting that a Livonia elementary school be completely set up to handle the airborne TV shows at no expense to the district. This school, if adopted, will be one of the pilot schools in southeastern Michigan.

It certainly speaks well for our school system that the program would come to us.

The team teaching concept again holds great promise for the future but must be approached only after conscientious research and evaluation. The team teaching approach is currently being tested at Bentley High School, and a program has been submitted for possible testing in an elementary school.

It is our opinion that the people of Livonia can be proud of the progress towards better ways to teach our children made by the administration and staff of the Livonia Public Schools. We, as citizens of Livonia, should be charged with the responsibility of encouraging our administrators and staff toward the continual probing of new and better instructional methods.

Your Nov. 16 editorial states your belief that "candidates, once in office, should be guided by their own good judgment, the depths of their own mind, and not be jerked around by blocs who pull strings when the whim stirs them." This is a statement with which we can all agree.

"You don't have that this week in either Washington or Lansing." No, we certainly don't have it this week in Washington, nor in Lansing, but we might very well have it in both after the January inaugurations. So how about waiting until all the evidence is in before passing judgment, and be an Independent Citizen?

All due precautions have been taken by the village board of health to guard against small pox, which has been prevalent to an alarming extent in many parts of the state. No apprehension is felt here, although some people have been vaccinated, more especially railroad employes. State authorities have taken strenuous measures to prevent the spread of the disease and it is now pretty well under control.

From the weather point of view Thanksgiving day was anything but pleasant. In fact, it was nasty weather, practically all day and evening. Yet, those who had contemplated making trips to Detroit or elsewhere were not detained thereby, nor were those expecting visitors from elsewhere disappointed. There were a number of family gatherings in the village that were enjoyable to those participating therein and in these instances the program of the weather man did not interfere seriously.

A freight wreck in the Pere Marquette yards yesterday morning in which several cars were smashed, caused a delay in the passenger train going west until nearly noon. No one was hurt.

The party of hunters who went to the north woods three weeks ago have all returned. Nearly all were successful in bringing home a deer, some of them two. All have claimed to have had great sport.

Fitzgibbon

Walter E. Fitzgibbon, veteran Kroger meat man, has received the first annual Retailer Recognition Award given by the American Meat Institute for outstanding achievement in the retail food industry.

The Institute, national trade, research and educational association of the meat packing and processing industry, established the award to place greater emphasis on the relationship between members of the packing and processing industry and food retailers and wholesalers.

"Mr. Fitz," as he is known throughout the meat industry, retired recently as senior meat consultant for the Kroger Co., a position he had held for the past two years. He previously served for 13 years as director of meat merchandising for Kroger. He joined the retail food firm in 1931 following several years experience both in the packing and retailing side of the meat industry.

Hunting Brings Deer Problems

"If my husband gets a deer this year, I'm not sure what we will do with it," is the comment of many a Michigan wife during deer hunting season, Nov. 15 to 30.

Venison is a delicacy if it is properly cooked. Follow the standard methods of meat cookery. Use dry heat methods for the tender cuts, and moist heat methods for the less tender cuts.

That is, roast the leg and loin of young animals, pan fry or broil the steaks and chops, and braise or stew the shoulder, neck, breast and rump.

Venison is a dry meat and is improved by the addition of butter or other fat when you roast, broil or fry it. Because the flavor of venison is concentrated in the fat, some people prefer to trim off some of the natural fat on mature animals.

Seasonings that blend well with the flavor of venison include basil, thyme, rosemary and garlic.

The less tender cuts of venison are often ground. From ground venison you can make deerburgers, meatloaf, meat balls, and mincemeat. Venison cuts suitable for grinding are shoulder, neck, breast, shank, rump and less tender steaks.

To freeze venison, wrap it in a moisture-vapor proof paper. Label and date each package and freeze at 0 degrees F. For best quality, use frozen venison within four to six months.

ROAST VENISON
 Season venison with salt and pepper. (Suitable cuts are the loin, leg or round of tender animals). Place on a rack in uncovered pan, fat side up. Do not cover, do not add water. Bacon strips may be laid across the top for extra fat if desired. Roast in a 325 degree F. oven, allowing 20 to 25 minutes per pound.

VENISON STEW
 Cut meat into cubes about one inch in size. Season with salt and pepper, sprinkle with flour. Brown on all sides in hot fat. Cover with hot water. Cover kettle tightly and simmer until meat is tender, 1 to 2 hours. Do not boil. Add vegetables during last half hour of cooking time.

TIPS FOR TEENS

By ELINOR WILLIAMS

Q.—"Dear Miss Williams: Most of the boys and girls in my class are allowed to watch television on week nights. My parents deny me this privilege. I've tried everything, but they won't listen. I hope you can help me.

Ans.—Grades in school often go down, down, down program is better than none. Your parents want you to get an education that will prepare you for college or a job (there's no future in TV watching). Try to work out a study-schedule that will allow you to get some or most of your school work done in the afternoon, whenever possible, finishing it in the evening. Show this study-schedule to your parents and ask to watch one show on the nights when you have time to do most of your homework during the day. Take your choice of one show, not too late, and remember that one

Phone Co. Announces New Area Dialing

Michigan Bell Telephone Co. announced this week that the telephone number of all its customers will get a new look sometime within the next five years.

The new style telephone number will consist of seven numerals instead of the two-letter, five-numeral type of telephone number in use today, the company said.

For example, a number such as KLondike 5-2368 would become 555-2368.

The new system, the company said, technically will not change anyone's telephone number. It will simply express it in a different form. In the KLondike example, Michigan Bell explained, the letters K and L are in the same dial slot as the numeral 5.

The change to the new system will start on a progressive basis in most communities beginning next April 1. In several communities, however, the conversion to the new telephone numbering system will be made simultaneously when their service is converted from manual to dial operation within the next year.

Conversion to the new system — known as All Number Calling (ANC) — has been necessitated because Michigan Bell and other Bell System companies throughout the country are running out of the present type of telephone numbers.

Besides providing additional telephone numbers needed to serve a growing population, ANC also has significant customer advantages, Michigan Bell said. The company explained that ANC will simplify dialing since most people find it easier to locate numerals than letters on the dial. It also will eliminate the confusion between the letter

"o" and the zero, and between the letter "i" and the numeral 1.

ANC also will eliminate misspelling through the misunderstanding of exchange names.

As a general rule in communities where the change to ANC will be made on a progressive basis, telephone numbers will be switched to all numerals whenever a customer's service request requires a change in the telephone directory coupled with a visit to the customer's home or office. This would happen, for example, when a customer gets service for the first time, when his present number is changed for some reason, or when a customer moves to a new location.

Michigan Bell estimates that 20 percent of the territory will be converted to ANC during the first year of the program. In approximately the first year of the program, any numbers that have not been affected will be changed to ANC on a simultaneous basis.

Library Art Display Includes Photo Exhibit for First Time

For the first time since the Three Cities Art Club has been exhibiting work by their members, a photographic presentation is included in the display at Dunning-Hough Library.

Experimental Phone System Gets Try-Out

A development now underway in the town of Morris, Ill. may eventually have far-reaching consequences for the technology of telephone communications. Customer trial of the Bell System's first electronic central office officially went into full operation there Nov. 17.

The experimental central office, which for the next few months will be switching calls for 300 of the town's 4,500 telephones, is part of a large research and development program expected to lead eventually to the first "production model" of electronic switching equipment. Faster, more versatile and even more convenient and reliable telephone service is the program's ultimate aim.

The Morris installation is one of many experimental steps in a process that may eventually create an electronic telephone system: one capable of offering customers such new conveniences as abbreviated dialing of frequently called numbers at any distance... a code dialing method for providing intercom service over household extension telephones... a provision for automatically routing incoming calls to others telephones if the customer's phone is busy... a means for having a customer's incoming calls transferred to another phone while he is away... a "camp-on" feature indicating that a "busy" line has become free... and a code-dialing method for bringing third parties into telephone conversations.

Plymouthite Wins Scholarship Award

A scholarship award to Arlene M. French of Plymouth to help complete her occupational therapy training at Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, was announced here today by the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

As part of a program to relieve the critical shortage of trained specialists needed in the care, training and rehabilitation of crippled children and adults, the scholarship was awarded to Miss French by the National Society, the Easter Seal Society, and Kappa Delta Phi, national business women's sorority.

Miss French is one of six students who received awards to assist in the completion of their training in physical or occupational therapy in a school approved for such training by the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Assn.

The scholarship program, a cooperative project of the National Society and Kappa Delta Phi, was started in 1952. Since that time awards have been made to 66 deserving students.

Miss French earned a bachelor of science degree at Eastern Michigan University. She also had pre-clinical training at the Wayne County Training School and took a graduate course in learning how to make appliances and equipment for handicapped people.

The Easter Seal affiliate in Michigan is the Michigan Society for Crippled Children and Adults, 10601 Puritan Ave., Detroit, of which Percy C. Angove is executive director.

How to Buy License Tags

LANSING — Michigan businessmen have again been asked to help the state save money by taking a hand in the complex business of registering automobiles.

Secretary of State James M. Hare at letters to many employers or personnel directors asking them to help their workers do the paper work required to obtain the black-on-aluminum tabs which will be fastened to license plates issued in 1962.

This is the second year for the tabs, and the state plans to issue 1.5 million plates again in 1962.

It is said a quarter of a million dollars is saved annually by the new method of processing license applications. In the past, individual applications were prepared and sent to all persons with one or more cars registered in Michigan.

Now, the applicant must fill out his own registration form and present it to a Secretary of State Branch Office along with the weight tax in order to get a license.

That's where the businessmen and personnel directors come in.

Hare encourages employers to make arrangements for their people to pick up the application forms at the branch office, get them to the workers, perhaps fill them out for the registrants and return them to the branch office where the tabs are issued.

He says it is a good device for better management relations, and to save the employer money, too.

If many people are left to their own devices for registering a car, they will wait until the deadline is uncomfortably close before going in with the forms and the money, so absenteeism is reduced.

But if registration is made easy at the place of work, the workers appreciate the service and are not standing in long lines for licenses during working hours.

Hare told the employers that the machine-prepared application form mailings which were discontinued probably really did work a hardship on the applicants.

"However, I'm sure most of you will agree that the annual savings of around a quarter of a million dollars in the case of the prepared application service is one which must be made at a time when tax revenues are greatly needed to keep schools running, to build highways and to provide other needed governmental services," Hare said in his letter.

A RELIEVED HAPPINESS surrounds the tiny Upper Peninsula town of L'Anse. Residents are enjoying the reopening of a major industry in their midst, the first since six years ago when Ford Motor closed its plant which processed wood for station wagon bodies. When metal replaced wood for this purpose, the plant was closed.

Swinging into full production now is another modern plant operated by Celotex. At full capacity it will give employment to 150 people within its grounds and up to 500 woodsmen, required to supply the hard wood logs which are turned into a half million square feet of fiberboard each day.

"... AND KEEP US FREE"

Under 21

By DAN HALLIGAN

Dear Dan: One of my classes in high school is taught by a meek, non-aggressive, rather shy male teacher. There are several girl students in this class who show a considerable amount of disrespect by talking out loud, laughing loudly, talking back, mimicking and degrading this man in front of the entire class. It makes me feel about two inches high just to be in the room while all this is going on every day.

The teacher hasn't ever warned these girls. Since he hasn't, I'm sure they don't respect him and that's why they carry on as they do. Still, he is a human being and deserves just as much respect and consideration as anyone else. Can you offer some advice — Two Inches High.

Dear High: If the situation is as bad as you say, your principal eventually will hear of it and if he's in charge of the school, he'll put a stop to it. Despite this teacher's inability to hold the attention of these girls, they're the ones who are actually suffering.

They're not nearly as smart as they think and certainly won't ever be accused of being ladies. Maybe if this letter is drawn to your teacher's attention, he'll take some action.

Dear Dan: I've known this boy all through high school and have always had a mad crush on him. The trouble is that he's going steady with my best friend and I really don't think she cares for him as much as she pretends. I think the only reason she's going out with him is in hopes of getting married so she can get away from home.

At times this boy seems very interested in me and I'd like to know if you can give me any pointers on winning him. — H. P.

Dear H. P.: Let's hope this boy is only dating the girl because he likes her and isn't considering marriage. Your friend must be pretty desperate to leave home if that's her only reason for dating him and it just may not be. It could be that she does like him and that you're a little jealous.

Regardless of what the facts are, they are going steady and about all you can do is wait on the sidelines and hope for the best. As long as you continue being extra friendly to the boy and always have a smile for him, he'll at least consider you as a special girl and may eventually get your message.

Dear Teen-Agers: Many of you have been asking me in the past week or so exactly what a steady would like as a Christmas present. Well, first of all, remember you're only a junior or a senior and you're not financially independent. Keep your presents at $5 or less.

You teenagers who are out of school may want to spend more than $5 on your girl's friends and boyfriends but just because you have graduated, that doesn't mean you have to buy something as expensive as a wristwatch.

One of the most practical and personal gifts of all for any boy or girl to receive is a portrait. Servicemen will especially appreciate this gift. Girls can also consider wallets, tie and cuff links set, gloves, I.D. bracelets and other such gifts which can be found in any men's clothing store.

In place of a portrait of himself, a boy can give his steady cologne, an I.D. bracelet, a music box, costume jewelry, a scarf and mitten set for cold weather areas and other presents of that type usually found in a department store or a ladies' shop.

Remember, it's the gift and not the price that counts and your $5 present will bring more happiness than you can imagine.

How's Business?

Saving For A Rainy Day

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Consumers have stepped up their rate of savings, building up their cash holdings substantially. Savings & Loan Associations, for example, report that their savings capital has increased nearly seven per cent thus far in 1960. Mutual Savings Banks show an increase in deposits of about two per cent.

In both instances, consumer savings are at an all-time high.

Savings deposits of commercial banks have also risen to a new peak, up in excess of 5 per cent since the beginning of the year. The trend of government savings bond holdings verifies the trend toward a buildup of individual savings. The tendency toward disposal of government savings bonds, which began about 1955, has been halted during the past six months.

Uncertain business conditions doubtless are exerting a restraint upon consumers. Even though aggregate consumer spending for goods and services continues to rise to new record levels, people have been able to accelerate their savings rate at the same time. This has been due to the persistent rise in personal incomes. It is significant, however, that consumer purchases of durable goods have slipped off.

The shift in consumer attitude to the cautious side, as regards purchases of durable goods and spending in general, has disconcerting implications for the business outlook. However, buying is still at a sufficiently high level to bolster business against a radical deterioration in economic conditions. Therefore, it would be well to look at the long-term implications of the rise in savings.

Basically, the increase in personal savings is an optimistic sign for a capitalistic economy such as ours. Savings provide the capital for the building of new homes, the erecting and equipping of new industrial facilities, and the eventual revival in consumer purchases of durable goods. Thus, the current increase in savings is laying a healthy foundation for business later in the sixties.

Critical Comment

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — "Children in our culture are taught not to think for themselves but to seek and be content with rewards and approval," says Dr. Harold H. Anderson. The nation's system of rewards and punishments wastes one of our greatest natural resources, the creative power of its youth, the Michigan State University psychologist contends.

If Your Name Is Dolly

"Dolly" is short for "Dorothea." First abbreviated to "Dor," this name was modified to "Doll"; seems folks found it easier to pronounce. Similar changes made "Hall" out of "Harry," "Sall" out of "Sarah" and "Mall" and "Moll" from "Mary." "Dorothea" is the way "Dorothea" appeared in English, and

"Dorothea" is a turning-around of "Theodora," meaning "Gift of God." A few hundred years ago "Dolly" and "Doll" were so popular that there practically was one girl so called in every family. Children, hearing the name so often, took to calling their "puppets" dolls; they still do.

Just because "Dolly" was such a favorite at one time, it went out of fashion. It had come to designate girls of doubtful reputation; this made parents refrain from giving the name to their baby girls. But even if the word "doll" is still in use for a pretty but silly girl, the name was too nice to discard. It made a triumphant comeback, and is still very well liked.

"Dolly" is a name inseparably linked with the memory of one "Dolly" Madison by her married name. She spelled it "Dolley," which is today unusual. Her letters she signed mostly "D. P. Madison," short for Dolley Payne Madison. Mrs. Madison was a delightful hostess; it is said that she was equally at ease with politicians of opposing parties, foreign diplomats, children, slaves and pets. All her contemporaries agree that she had charm and friendliness. She also had the reputation of a beauty. Maybe she did not quite conform to today's image of beauty; Washington Irving described her as "a fine, portly, buxom dame."

She also had an excellent memory that enabled her to talk to men and women she met about topics they were interested in; she also was tactful, and knew how to keep silent about things which better remained unsaid. Yet even Mrs. Madison, wife of the fourth President of the U.S., so widely known for her easy conversation was not averse to using a clever device, occasionally, in order to help along small talk.

She would enter a room with a book in hand; according to her own explanation, in order to have something pleasant to say. And it's with a book in her hand the life-size figure in the Smithsonian Institution shows the woman about whom her contemporaries said she was "a foe of dullness in every form."

LANSING Observer

(Editor's Note: The author of this column is paid to write it by Republicans. We print it when it's interesting.)

By FRANK G. MORRIS

At 3:30 a.m. on Monday before the election, a special crew of Western Union messengers started delivery of pre-arranged notices to 782 employees of the Detroit Times. Before daylight, all Times workers had been notified that the newspaper had been sold to The Detroit News and that their jobs no longer existed.

This was the newspaper that ran a seven-installment series in 1959 praising the economic climate of the state. This was one of several newspapers that mocked and derided the Republican State Senators who would not yield to Gov. Williams' demand for more taxes on industry and an income tax on the people.

Its demise was a tragedy, comparable in a lesser way to the deaths of the Packard and Hudson automobile companies. But it could not survive the economic climate and the pressure of labor unions.

A bit of the heart of every newspaperman in Michigan died with the passing of the Times.

On the following day, the voters in 82 of the 83 counties decreed by an overwhelming majority that they demand a change from the kind of government that has knocked Michigan into a tailspin.

Paul Bagwell, the Republican nominee for Governor, went down to the Wayne County line with a majority of 290,000 votes over his Democratic opponent, John Swainson.

This big Republican majority was not enough. Once again, the UAW political machine demonstrated its amazing power in Detroit. Bagwell's majority vanished and Swainson was elected Governor by a majority of 40,000.

By the narrow margin of one seat, the GOP recaptured control of the House of Representatives. Republican control of the Senate never was questioned.

So Michigan will continue with all elective administrative officials dominated by the UAW, and defiantly battling a legislative majority responsible only to the voters at home.

The next two years in Laning may not be quite as hectic as the last two. Having broken the impasse in the House, Republicans will be able to kill all income tax bills being prepared by the union.

Approval of the four-cent sales tax amendment to the Constitution exonerated Republican Senators for their determined stand against an income tax in 1959.

But don't conclude that the UAW will surrender. Governor-elect Swainson will go before the legislature in January with a record-breaking spending program.

By advocating more money for schools, for higher education, for hospitals, for welfare aid, for old age pensions, for medical care and other undertakings, Swainson will attempt to rally public support for a program that will cost more than all of the tax money now in sight.

He will try in vain to compromise on a "minor" income tax, hoping to force the door open for this kind of levy.

So the election did not clear the air.

The anti-business climate will be continued by the administration.

The UAW will tighten its hold on the courts, the educational system and on the administrative commissions.

MENU PRINTED AS A PUBLIC SERVICE BY THE PLYMOUTH MAIL

By GEORGE SPELVIN

Hobgoblins have all vanished; the turkey is soon to be an honored symbol in our communities; and before we can say "Santa Claus," the Christmas season will be upon us faster than the inevitable snowflakes waiting in the heavenly wings of that big theater in the sky.

Dramatic productions have been sifting their way slowly and silently down upon us during the past weeks. In fact, so swiftly have the productions been piling up that old George has barely had time to do an adequate job of reporting. The Wayne State University production of "All the Kings Men" back in October is a case in point. Here was a powerful dramatization of a Pulitzer Prize novel that rated "A" for technical effort on the part of the Wayne State University Drama Department.

Their effective use of rear screen projection to change the scenery, a turntable, and multi-level platforms gave Director Richard Spear every opportunity to move his actors and keep the show exciting. And he did. The first act finale with Willie Stark giving a political speech will long remain in my theatrical scrapbook as an outstanding technical accomplishment.

Old George visits the university theaters for this very reason. From time to time you will see shows that will never be done commercially. These productions have moments in them that are memorable. Wayne State University's November production "The Waltz of the Toreadors" closed last week. This production of "The Waltz" was directed by Russ Smith. I'm sure you'll agree with the audiences that saw the show last week—it's a hilarious evening.

University of Detroit has opened the second of four plays that will be done in repertory—"Measure for Measure." This Shakespearean comedy is not seen too frequently and deserves your attention. The U. of D. Players will alternate "Measure for Measure" with "A Touch of the Poet." Eugene O'Neill's brilliant character study of his own family, "A yet I haven't traveled down Six Mile and Livernois way to catch these two plays. One of these days I fully intend to see them.

Thumbing through the pages of Variety, the showman's bedside companion, I came across several financial items pertaining to "Ben Hur," the long-playing Biblical spectacle at the United Artist Theater in Detroit. You often wonder why people strive so mightily along the paths of the entertainment medium. What magic keeps them pursuing so mystic an art? What power provides that energy that keeps folks stumbling and scurrying for the pinnacle of success in the movies or on the stage?

Well, the answer in dollar bills might be found in "Ben Hur." One year ago "Ben Hur" and that chariot race to end all chariot races, flashed across the big screen for the first time. Financially, the picture has been paid off—all $14 million have been returned to the investors.

And now the profits will come rolling in for the next two years as "Ben Hur" unrolls in theaters across these United States and in foreign countries. A modest estimate of the profit for this spectacle has been set at 24 million dollars. Might this be the incentive that so pushes people for a chance to grab at the golden ring in this fascinating, but many times frustrating world of entertainment?

The Campus Theater in Ann Arbor will have a most interesting cinema presentation for your Thanksgiving viewing—"Ivan The Terrible." For years this Russian film was locked in a vault. No one in the Kremlin was brave enough to let this movie be shown since it depicted an era in Russian history far from savory. Recently under Mr. K's leadership censorship rules regarding "Ivan the Terrible" were relaxed. You have only Wednesday or Thursday of this week to see "Ivan." Serge Einstein directed and produced this picture. Many of his earlier pictures have been considered celluloid masterpieces. It has been said that Mr. Einstein uses the camera as delicately and as meaningfully as a Rembrandt or a Rubens. Drop over to the Campus Theater in Ann Arbor for a cinematic treat instead of the usual Hollywood treatment.

"Love and Libel" finishes its prior - to - Broadway run this week at the Cass Theater. Tyrone Guthrie has had a busy two weeks cutting the play. The philosophical moments of the production were too ponderous to be supported by such a frothy plot. A show with such a wealth of excellent acting deserves its place in the Broadway sun. I'll report what happens to "Love and Libel" after it makes its Broadway debut.

The Shubert and Rivieri theaters are playing to full houses for the next few weeks. "Five Finger Exercise," winner of the New York Drama Critics prize, with its vivid approach to the problems of an English family, opens on Monday, Nov. 21 for a two week engagement. The original Broadway and London cast will be featured.

"I'm With You" starring Nat King Cole comes to the Riviera on Nov. 21 for a week's engagement. Nat will be making his legitimate stage debut in this production. Old George has seen Cole in his night club act. He works beautifully and you can listen to him hours on end. There will be a matinee of the show on Thanksgiving Day at 2 p.m. Before you carve the bird, take time to see the King of smooth singing at the Riviera.

At the conclusion of the Saturday performance of "The Crucible" Director Sturgis Sutherland gave two items of hard-working cast two items of good news. Item one: the Grand Rapids Civic Players and the Jackson Players were so impressed that they wanted to negotiate for rental of the costumes made by Phyllis Kelly and her crew of seamstresses.

Item two: if all could be worked out, the Sturgis Players would like to invite the entire cast down to Sturgis to do the show for their community. Director Sutherland is presently working out arrangements for this fifth performance of "The Crucible." Old George will let you know if and when the date will be set. You might be going through the town of Sturgis and want to drop in on the Plymouth Theater Guild as they give their touring version of "The Crucible."

Chamber's Efforts of Past Year Listed in Report

What has the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce done?

RESOLUTIONS — The Chamber of Commerce expressed its opinion on Zoning Changes, the Garling Subdivision Development and the Plymouth Community School District Bond Issue through resolutions passed by the Board of Directors.

LEGISLATION — concerning Sunday Openings was studied by the Chamber at meetings of the local groups.

SURVEY — was taken of local business establishments by the P & R Committee to determine the general thinking for the development and improvement of the retail program in Plymouth.

RETAIL & PROFESSIONAL DIVISION — was formed with an Executive Committee to help plan monthly programs for retailers; study lighting on downtown streets; and make recommendations to the City; coordinate retail promotions such as: Midnite Madness, Sidewalk Sales, Back-to-School and Dollar Days; appoint sub-committees to work out plans in detail.

PENNIMAN AVENUE — The Chamber was represented on a Study Committee to help out with charts and other pertinent information used in the study for development of the area.

INDUSTRIAL DIVISION — was formed with an Executive Board to promote the civic-economic and social welfare of the people of Plymouth and vicinity, and particularly to consider and deal with those problems common to those engaged in industry in the Plymouth vicinity. Dinners and meetings have been held to work out a carefully planned program.

CHARGE PLAN — which includes 21 merchants, is in its second year of operation and is assisted and sponsored by the Chamber. Over 6,000 individuals in this and neighboring communities have received Charge Cards which entitle them to "charge" in local stores.

FREE PARKING — in the Central Parking Lot has again been provided by 21 merchants who pay the City rent for its use. The Chamber proudly points to these businessmen who provide this "free" parking.

COOPERATIVE ADVERTISING — in the local newspaper was coordinated by the Chamber for the barbers and car dealers to bring to the attention of the community, the many services and advantages provided by these local businesses. CLASSIFIED ADS for the entire Chamber membership appeared in the local newspaper. Shoppers were urged to buy locally and the ads emphasized the high calibre business tactics and service offered by Chamber members.

STOLEN CHECK — reports were quickly distributed to local business by the Chamber upon receipt from the Plymouth Police Department. This Chamber service protects local businesses from being "stuck" with bad checks.

MEMBERSHIP — has reached 161 members in the Chamber. The Membership Committee has brought in 46 members since April 1960.

THE CHAMBER OFFICE — is visited by hundreds of people a year who are looking for information on Plymouth concerning housing, education, business locations, business services, industrial sites, industrial lists, maps, organizations, taxes, natural resources, armed services and dozens of miscellaneous items such as social services, welfare, federal government, marriage, vacation guides, former residents, industrial products, etc.

CHRISTMAS IN PLYMOUTH — comes to you through the efforts of the City of Plymouth and the Chamber's Christmas Committee. Street decoration lights and Park decoration are provided by a joint effort. Santa Claus in the Park candy for the children and all the trimmings are made possible by funds provided by the City and the local businesses exclusively. The Theatre Guild is assisting.

ASSISTANCE TO LOCAL ORGANIZATIONS — the Chamber office assists the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Theatre Guild and the Business and Professional Women's Club in miscellaneous matters.

Time From Shadow Blotches To The Newest, Tiniest Watches

Tick! Tick! Tick!
It happens 86,400 times a day, 604,800 times a week, 31,536,000 times a year. Yet most people look at their watches only 15 times a day, on the average, and have no idea of what has gone into the ticking off of each second.

You may think, for example, that your watch runs continuously. Actually it works stop and start five times a second! This stop-and-go operation is the secret of accurate time-telling. If the power stored in the coiled mainspring were not controlled, the hands of the watch would spin at a terrific rate, and all the power would be unleashed in a few seconds. The device which acts as "traffic cop" is called the escapement mechanism.

Yet the amount of power which runs your watch is so small that it would take about 20 million watches to generate enough power to operate the average refrigerator! On this tiny force, the balance wheel — a vital part of the escapement mechanism — turns as fast as the wheels of a locomotive traveling 60 miles an hour.

Had you lived 100,000 years ago, this gadget would have seemed ingenious indeed to the inhabitants of neighboring caves. For it was not until 95,000 years later that someone thought of sticking a rod into the ground to create the world's first sundial.

The world's first clock-watches kept their eyes on water clocks. According to information compiled by the Westclox Archive of Time, the pioneer of this device was the Chinese emperor Hwang-ti. Four thousand years ago he floated a leaky boat in a basin of water; time was told by the number of hours it took the boat to submerge. Later versions of the water clock looked something like milk bottles, with a tiny hole at the bottom to let the water drip out. The sides of the "bottle" were crudely calibrated, and you could tell time by reading the mark to which the water had fallen.

In still later models, drops of water fell on a miniature water wheel which turned gears which in turn moved an hour hand on the clock face. Clever, no? But there was one big hitch — the clocks froze in cold weather.

Knotted ropes which burned slowly, notched candles, incense sticks and hour-glasses were alternative timepieces. Real clocks — with an escapement to regulate their accuracy — were first made around the 1300's by blacksmiths — and no wonder! They were enormous iron contraptions driven by bulky weights, too big to fit into anything much smaller than a church steeple. But these "steeple clocks" could be amazing in ways other than size: one of them, built in 1360 for the King of France, was still running in 1852 — and had been repaired only a few times in those 500 years!

Clocks, small enough to stand on the table followed the discovery of the mainspring in the 15th century. But the big tall "grandfather clock" came into vogue after Dutch physicist Christiaan Huygens, taking a cue from the writings of Galileo, introduced the pendulum in 1657.

Watches, meanwhile, were ticking off progress. Using the mainspring, locksmith Peter Henlein was able — by 1511 — to construct portable timepieces about the size of our alarm clocks. Soon he had gotten them down to egg-size and egg-shape and every fashionable citizen had to have a "Nuremberg egg," poor timekeeper though it was.

To the rescue, in 1675, our man Huygens. His new brain-storm, the hairspring, did for the watch what his pendulum had done for the clock — controlled the escapement to permit greater accuracy. Now watches as well as clocks could acquire a minute hand. The daily error of an hour a day was reduced to a few minutes.

With time marching on — and better timepieces to record it — the watchmaking industry came into its own. One watchmaking tradition began when French watchmakers, fleeing religious persecution in their own land, went to Switzerland. Another started in the 18th century when watchmaking took roots in the United States. Today, by combining mass production techniques and traditional craftsmanship Americans make "a watch for every man" a real possibility for the first time since the hatching of the Nuremberg egg. Today a waterproof, dustproof, shock-resistant American watch is available.

Only time will tell whether or not the average household will one day boast an atomic clock similar to that now serving our National Bureau of Standards. It was built in 1949 after a Columbia University scientist used microscopic molecules of ammonia to divide a second into 24 billion parts! Or perhaps you'd rather own a microwave clock like the one in the town hall of Copenhagen, Denmark. This remarkable timepiece is never wrong by more than three-thousandths of a second per year — and is usually much more accurate than this!

It may yet happen while your "ticker" is still keeping time that atomic alarm clocks or inexpensive weather-predicting wristwatches will make our modern "watchalarms" and self-winding watches seem as crude as those wondrous Nuremberg eggs that never lost more than an hour a day.

SEEING RED

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — If babies had their way they'd be wearing red instead of the traditional blue and pink, according to Lt. Col. Vincent I. Hack of Brooke Army Medical Center.

Hack said he based his findings on recent tests with babies of up to six months that show the infants invariably prefer red.

Postmaster Urges Early Yule Mailing

Postmaster Timpona said today, "Early mailing of all Christmas cards and gifts is the biggest single factor in getting all of the mail delivered before Christmas. Post Office facilities have been expanded, extra help will be geared up to handle a record Christmas mail in Plymouth this year."

The entire Christmas mailing period is a big battle against time. Even though Christmas is a month away by the calendar, it's Christmas every day at the Post Office from now on.

The Postmaster advises, "Don't take chances on mailing poorly wrapped packages. Use sturdy corrugated mailing cartons, plenty of heavy wrapping paper and strong cord. Cartons containing several gift packages should be well stuffed with tissue or old newspapers to cushion the contents."

He said further, "If you have articles of unusual size or bulk, better check with the Post Office before attempting to mail them. The limits of size and weight of packages vary, depending on where you mail your packages from."

Always send your Christmas cards by First Class mail and be sure to include your return name and address on each Christmas card envelope.

Send all Christmas mail going long distances before Dec. 10. Follow up promptly with cards and gifts for local delivery. Mail "Early and Often" for a merrier Christmas.

Editor: I would like to avail myself of your Letters to the Editor column to thank the many people in your community who voted for me for Governor in this past election.

It is a source of personal satisfaction to me that the people approved the program I presented on taxation and government reform even though I lost by a very narrow margin. In this respect, I believe that this was a constructive election campaign which accomplished a great deal of good for the general public interest.

It is impossible to thank each of 1,600,000 voters personally, so I am taking this means to say "Thanks for your help" to all those who voted for me. I am deeply grateful for the confidence they placed in me, and I hope now we all work together to make this a better state in which to work, to live and to raise our families.

Sincerely,
PAUL D. BAGWELL

Don't miss out on the tantalizing goodness of tangy cranberry desserts, relishes and salads during this yuletide season. One of the prettiest and best tasting cranberry desserts we've come across lately is a light and luscious Cranberry - Orange Tapioca, piled high in sherberts or parfaits and served icy cold.

With so many people counting calories these days, this festive dessert is sure to be a popular one. Unnecessary calories have been slashed away by the use of the calorie-free sweetener, Sucaryl, rather than sugar. You need count only 42 calories per serving, which is less than one-fourth the normal calorie count when sweetened in the ordinary fashion. Best part is, non-dieters, too, will enjoy the pleasant, natural - tasting sweetness of this calorie-streamlined holiday dessert.
