Airplane, Trains Meet Cars

Trains and an airplane were unusually hard on automobiles in a series of crashes in the Plymouth area during the past week — and fortunately, no one was seriously hurt.

There was also an incident early last Friday morning involving a car which crashed into a City water pumping station and demolished the house.

Most unusual of all the mishaps occurred Thanksgiving night when Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Adams, 360 Allen, Northville, and their two children tangled with an airplane.

The Adams family had been with relatives in Detroit for Thanksgiving and were coming to Plymouth enroute home to visit a friend. As the car traveled west on Joy Rd. along Mettetal Airport, a four-seat Piper appeared on the right and its landing gear smashed into the side of the stationwagon.

Piloting the plane was James K. Nicewander, 31, of Garden City, who was returning with his wife from Fraser. It was around 6:30 p.m.

"I looked out and saw the plane coming right at us with its landing lights," Mrs. Adams related this week. "I just froze and couldn't say a thing."

The landing gear smashed into the door, hood and roof and knocked the car sideways across the road, but Mr. Adams managed to keep the car on the road. Mrs. Adams and her son, Richard, 8, who was riding in the back seat, were cut by glass. The boy needed three stitches in his hand. A daughter sleeping in the back was not hurt.

The plane landed in the runway and nosed over. The Nicewanders, who weren't injured, ran over to the car to help the occupants. Mrs. Adams and Richard were treated at Atchinson Hospital.

The plane was extensively damaged and the car may be declared a total wreck. Mrs. Adams said that she was so covered with glass that a vacuum cleaner was used to get it from her hair.

Mettetal Airport's north-south runway runs almost to Joy Rd. The runway is lighted for night flying.

Train-Car Crash

Jackie Johnson, 9115 Corine, considers herself a lucky young lady after a locomotive brushed her and her car off the tracks last week on Warren Rd. Driving west at 2 p.m. on Warren in a friend's Opel, Miss Johnson said that she approached the crossing cautiously but because of a woods near the track, did not see the train.

William O. Swan 'Critical' After Fall Into Acid

Still listed as "critical" but reported making some sign of progress is William O. Swan, 764 N. Harvey, who last Friday morning fell into a vat of hot pickling acid at Pilgrim Drawn Steel.

A foreman at the plant, he was on the wall of the vat filled with acid for a pickling process (for cleaning metal) when he apparently lost his balance and fell in. Relatives said that he managed to get himself out. He formally does not work around the vat, they added.

He was rushed to St. Mary Hospital and later to University Hospital where burns cover all but his face. Mrs. Swan said Tuesday that some improvement is apparent but that her husband is still critical.

"WE THREE KINGS of Orient Are," is the Christmas carol coming to mind as passersby view the newest addition to the Kellogg Park Nativity scene. The Three Wise Men are life-sized and almost real-like with their colorful garb. Purchased from a Frankenmuth firm, the figures cost $479 each. Every year the merchants plan to add more permanent decorations.

Wise Men Now Trek Across Kellogg Park

King Melchior, King Balthasar and King Casper have now joined the permanent cast of Plymouth's growing Christmas scene.

As part of a program to "put Christ back in Christmas," the Biblical characters, mounted on camelback, are found 40 yards back of the Nativity Scene.

The men on camels are part of the Biblical story concerning the coming of the Christ Child. They are usually referred to as the "Three Wise Men" and "Three Kings."

Medieval legend says one was a Negro. The legend adds that their bodies were brought to Constantinople by Empress Helena. Later they were removed to Milan and afterwards to Cologne, Germany.

The Wise Men are the newest additions to the Kellogg Park scene. Last year a new life-like Nativity scene was added.

It is estimated that around $5,000 in material and labor has been put into Christmas decorations just in Kellogg Park, and plans call for expanding it every year.

Each one of the Wise Men on camel cost $479 — or a total of $1,437. Made of a plastic material, the colorful figures were purchased from a Christmas decorating firm in Frankenmuth.

Local merchants are paying the bills for the decorations. The City also shares some of the cost by furnishing labor to put up and take down decorations.

Lights in the Kellogg Park were turned on the night before Thanksgiving. All other decorations were turned on Monday and Tuesday nights of this week for the first time.

All that remains is the 20-foot-high evergreen tree in the center of Kellogg Park that will be decorated and lighted this week. The live tree and its decorations were furnished by the Plymouth Community Federal Credit Union.

An igloo will be placed in the park this week for use by Santa Claus when he makes his appearance in Plymouth Saturday, Dec. 10. He will land by helicopter on Main St. in front of Kellogg Park at 10 a.m.

Board OK's $266,000 High School Alterations

Long List Of Jobs Planned

Improvements and additions to the 42-year-old Senior High School costing an estimated $266,590 have been given the approval of the Board of Education.

The Board, in a special meeting Monday night, voted to move beyond the preliminary planning stage and to have working drawings made of the dozen separate projects. Bids will be taken Feb. 20 and opened three weeks later.

The quarter million dollar project will be financed from the Building and Site Sinking Fund that electors set up by approval in an election last June.

While the Board will definitely move ahead with most of the projects, there are a few that may be postponed one year if it is felt that they cannot be completed in time for reopening of school next September. Some of the jobs, however, will be started before school is dismissed in June.

Most of the alterations are being made to comply with requests of the State fire marshal. The fire marshal's office has been cracking down on schools all over the state ever since the disastrous school fire in Chicago two years ago.

The architectural firm of Wheeler & Becker have been retained for the work. Here are the jobs involved in the huge project:

1. A new stair tower to be built to the front of the main building that will replace the central stairway inside. This stair tower will be wide enough to provide enlarged administrative office space on the first floor.
2. Removal of the central main stairway and converting this area into classroom and storage space on the second floor and a new ladies' teacher lounge on the third floor. The present lounge must be torn out to provide a hallway into the stair tower.
3. Enclose stairs in the central stairs in Annex (former Junior High). "Enclosure" of the stairs means that doors must be placed at the stairway on each floor to eliminate the "chimney" effect in case of fire.
4. Replace all windows. Frame windows in the main building are in very bad shape. Many cannot be replaced with aluminum windows. Those in the Annex were replaced two years ago.
5. Southeast stairway (near home economics room) will be eliminated between the first and second floors. This will allow a wider passage-way between the main building and gymnasium.
6. The third floor lighting and ceiling will be replaced. As money becomes available, the other floors will have the same treatment.
7. Band room will be newly lighted (it is now considered very poor), acoustically treated and painted.
8. A new rolling grille (screen gate) will be installed in the widened hallway between the main building and gym.
9. Fire doors must be installed on the stage of the gymnasium and an asbestos curtain must be installed on the stage of the gymnasium.
10. Sprinklers must be installed on the stage.
11. More exits must be provided from the gymnasium to the corridors and more exits from the corridors to the outside.
12. To provide more classroom space, an addition to the outside of the gymnasium wing is proposed. It would be along the Main St. side and would be built east of the band room. There

IT SEEMED MORE LIKE JUNE than December when City workmen put up Christmas decorations on lamp poles Monday. DPW worker Arlie Bagwell is shown working in the heat of the day (63 degrees!) at Main and Ann Arbor Trail. But by Tuesday it turned cold and snow covered the ground last night to finally make it look Christmas-like.

Complaints Few As Rust Still Flows

Despite the fact that many City water users are undoubtedly getting lots of rust from the faucets, City Hall has been getting only a few complaints.

Last week the Department of Public Works announced that it was starting to flush fire hydrants to eliminate rust that is now being broken off the interiors of water mains. The DPW asked that the public be patient while the flushing takes place.

Call Out To Form 'City Band'

Adults who sometimes yearn for the "good old days" when they marched with a high school or college band will get another chance to revive their talents in Plymouth.

Plans are being made for formation of a "Plymouth City Band." Their first organizational meeting will be in the band room of the Senior High School on Jan. 11. Anyone interested in playing in the organization should contact the Adult Education office at the high school by calling GL 3-3100.

On the planning committee for the new venture are Keith Burton, Sylvester Cooper, Hyrthol DeMeritt, William Edgar, James Garber and William Upton.

One of the prime purposes of the organization is to promote good band music and supplement the orchestral music provided by the Plymouth Symphony. It is planned to hold periodic concerts in Kellogg Park, probably on Friday evenings in the spring, summer and fall.

These concerts would provide entertainment for those taking advantage of the late closing hours of Plymouth merchants and also would attract evening shoppers to the City.

In addition, the band would flushing will take place each Wednesday night starting at 9 p.m. and continuing until about 1 a.m. Consumers are asked to minimize the use of water between these hours.

If they turn on their faucets while flushing is going on they are liable to draw into their lines some of the very rusty water.

Last Wednesday the DPW started flushing at 9 p.m. and worked until 1:30 a.m. This will continue each week until all the iron deposits are flushed out.

"We flushed out pieces of iron the size of hickory nuts," Bida said. "We are finally starting to loosen the many years of accumulations of iron."

For the past eight months, the commercial product known as Calgon has been added to the City water supply. Calgon suspends iron particles and breaks off those that have accumulated.

Mains in some areas are in good shape, Bida said, but mains in other areas seem very bad. Bida promised to keep the public informed of the progress of the program.

May Carry Tax Case To High Court

Plymouth City is expected to carry its fight over the County's equalization of the local tax roll to the State Supreme Court.

A Detroit law firm hired by Willis Hall, executive director of the Detroit Board of Commerce and a County supervisor, will handle the case.

Plymouth, Trenton and Hall, living in Detroit, had all appealed their own city's equalization to the State Tax Commission and lost.

Two weeks ago, The City filed a motion asking the Tax Commission to reconsider its action. This was also turned down, it was learned late last week.

Now, the only remaining course is to carry the appeal to the State Supreme Court. While City Commissioners have not formally acted to take part in a Supreme Court appeal, they have declared during recent weeks that they will take such action if necessary.

In the meantime, no City tax bills have been sent out since last July, although it is possible that bills may be issued in December even if a Supreme Court case is pending over the assessment roll.

The fuss over the equalization concerns the assessment of personal property in Wayne County. Wayne County assesses personal property (machinery and stock owned by business and industry) at 80 percent of its true value. The City feels that it should be the same as real estate assessment — around 46 percent of true value. This is also a figure recommended by the State Tax Commission, and which is used in most places outside of Wayne County. City officials charge that the State Tax Commission will not force the Wayne County Board of Taxation to lower its personal property assessment because Wayne County's influence is too great in Lansing.

The County Board of Taxation raised the City's assessment 13 percent this year because the

Stores Will Open Nightly

Most Plymouth stores will remain open until Christmas starting this Friday, the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce said yesterday.

With their shelves stocked full of gifts, Plymouth merchants are all set for the 1961 Yuletide season and its rush of shoppers.

Many of the outstanding bargain items and gift suggestions are found in this week's issue of The Mail. With free parking in the Central Parking Lot and dozens of stores offering a wide variety of products, Plymouth's own shopping center still attracts throngs of shoppers from all over Western Wayne County.

NEWS BEAT

PAINLESS MUSIC: At least one Plymouth dentist is known to be trying out the newest anesthetic — sound. A special tape play-back machine sits beside the chair and the patient puts on a set of headphones with a volume control unit in his hand. Specially-prepared tapes of robust music are played, and as the pain increases the volume is turned up. There is also a high-frequency "swishing" noise that can be turned up and down, depending upon the pain. The anesthetic by sound has been successfully used by a few dentists for several years and usually works — unless the patient hates music.

HUNTING MISHAP: Sandy Black, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Black, 5845 Lilley Rd., lost his left index finger in a hunting accident last Wednesday. While hunting with his father and other boys near Lewiston, Sandy was resting and accidentally took off the safety and the gun went off. He spent the night in Grayling Hospital.

NEW TRICKS: Dave Galin, who closed his store after 30 years in various businesses here, became a college student this fall to take a night course at Wayne State in interior decorating. Next semester he will take dis- play. Dave is now with Schraeder Home Furnishings.

NEW FACE: More face-lifting for Penniman Ave. is in progress. A building formerly occupied by Plymouth Office Supply owned by Perry Richwine is receiving the "colonialization" treatment. The building has been empty since last summer. Announcement will be made next week concerning the arrival of a new company in Plymouth.

POLICE BEAT: Three cars were stolen in the City last night before Thanksgiving. One belonging to Curtis McGowan, 483 Ann, was found in the St. Peter's Lutheran Church parking lot. Another owned by John Battle, Parkview Dr., was found in Lake Pointe Village, and a third belonging to George Richards of Northville, taken from the Champion Container parking lot, was found at a Livonia drive-in. Or a Basset, 615 S. Harvey and Thomas Rytlewski, 601 Irvin, both reported Saturday morning that eggs had been thrown at their homes during the night.

HAM CALL: Ham radio operators are being invited to a meeting at City Hall, Perry, Richwine is receiving the "colonialization" treatment. The building has been empty since last summer. Announcement will be made

Auto Parts Store Holds Open House

Plymouth's efforts to "colonialize" its stores has even reached the auto parts business and has met with "tremendous" praise.

B & F Auto Supply, Inc., 1100 Starkweather Ave., has built a new store utilizing a colonial exterior. This Sunday, from 1 to 8 p.m., Open House will be held. There will be refreshments served and prizes offered.

Owner Louis L. Borregard said that when he decided to build a new addition that would more than double the floor space of his building, he decided to use the colonial design. "The comments heard from customers have been tremendous," Borregard asserted.

B & F was opened 14 years ago by Bill Michaels and Floyd Tibbetts (the B & F was taken from their first names). Borregard took it over on June 1, 1954 and has now built two additions.

The firm does a wholesale business with service stations, garages and factories and also retails to individuals. There are now 14 employees.

Small Industry In New Building

A small industry formerly located on N. Territorial Rd. Merchant Machine Tool Co., Inc., has moved into a new building.

Plymouth High School
By Lester Barton

PHS'ers welcomed the four day Thanksgiving interlude in their scholastic activities last week as a means to get caught up on book reports, special projects, and the many other tasks that start to pile up as the semester passes the half way mark, its termination drawing nearer with increased speed as the Christmas holiday season approaches.

But the students had ample opportunities to consider the real and more serious aspects of the season, especially at Wednesday morning's Thanksgiving Assembly. First the Triple Trios got the 1,200 students who had gathered in the gym into the spirit of things with some traditional old songs and hymns of the season.

Then Dr. Walsh of the First Presbyterian Church gave a short but thought-provoking talk in which he presented some of his own ideas on the observance. One of the points he made was that one could always find something to be thankful for, no matter how badly things seemed to be going. The doctor opined that a person in a hearse would probably gladly change place with any of the teenagers present, no matter how miserable they considered themselves. A very effective contrast indeed! (Although one must assume that the above-mentioned person in the hearse had not led a particularly commendable life, or he would by no means have changed places with anyone, enjoying as he was the pleasures of Paradise upon which all preachers expound.) The doctor also noted that the spirit of rebellion against undesirable things was good in youth, but that no one should ever be a rebel without a just cause. A pleasing aspect of the doctor's talk was his emphasis of the appreciation of the beauty and wonder of the everyday things in life such as the smell of burning leaves and a game of football.

The spirit of Thanksgiving was further enhanced by an excellent reading of some seasonal poetry by Linda Wall. To conclude the assembly Mr. Fred Nelson, voice instructor, led the entire group in singing "America The Beautiful."

All the while juniors have been bustling with preparations for their big social event of the year, the J-Hop on Saturday, Dec. 10, the seniors have not forgotten about their prom either. It has been announced that the popular dance band, the Jerry Fenby Five, has been engaged for the senior prom next spring. This is the same group which was so well liked at the class' J-Hop last year. Besides providing smooth dance rhythms, the quintet gave an interesting bit of musical entertainment.

The PILGRIM PRINTS has received another Quill and Scroll Society Award. The school publication's work in calling attention to the importance of the American newspaper to democracy during Newspaper Week was brought to the attention of that organization, an honorary society for high school journalists with its headquarters at Iowa University. The PRINTS was awarded a "meritorious National Award Certificate for distinctive achievements in celebrating National Newspaper Week, 1960."

The PRINTS not only discussed the observance at length on its pages but prepared a brief message which was beautifully presented over the public address system by Paul M. Rawley, a staff member. The aid of some ambitious members of the first year journalism class was enlisted, and resulted in some very artistic posters on the subject.

Congratulations are in order to the members of the Plymouth Debate Team who won their first two debates of the year last Tuesday. Defeating both Redford Union and Bentley High Schools on the topic—"Resolved: that the United Nations should be strengthened," were Paul Malboeuf, Jim Krupp, Dave Raafab and Dave Fey.

Other members of the team are Bob Winterhalter, Al Larson and Steve Bullington.

The team, and its adviser, Miss Betty Stevens, are to be commended. The amount of time spent in research and preparations for these debates is evident in the splendid performance of last Tuesday. May the rest of the season be as successful.

WSU Alumnae Organize New Service Group

A service project to be launched early in 1961 is under consideration by the Farmington - Livonia Alumnae Club of Wayne State University.

Speaking at a recent meeting of the group, which now numbers nearly 40 women in Farmington, Livonia and surrounding communities, was George Ebling Jr., representing the Farmington unit of the Plymouth State Home and Training School.

He told of his institution's work with mentally retarded children and described possible service work for the WSU group. At the same time, the women heard of the need of assistance for the Women's Division of the Detroit House of Correction, and of work aiding foreign students at Wayne.

A committee headed by Mrs. John Cotton of Farmington, vice president of the group, will consider the various projects suggested and make recommendations to the group in January.

The club also scheduled a meeting Jan. 25, with three foreign students at Wayne presenting the program. All former Wayne State students in the area, which includes Northville, Plymouth and

U.S. Should Learn More About Inner Space, Speaker Declares

A talk on "The Conquest of Inner Space" dealing with what lies under the seas was given by Lt. Commander Henry Francis Panter of the U. S. Naval Reserve before the Plymouth Optimist Club last week at Arbor-Lill.

Graphically punctuating his remarks with color slides, Commander Panter explained many of the little-known facts concerning what lies in the black depths of the seas.

The new scientist of the sea — the oceanographer — he said, is the modern scientific explorer of the last frontier on this planet. The result of his explorations may prove, he explained, to be actually vital to the continued existence of man on earth. Already, 70 percent of the world's population are suffering from insufficient nourishment.

The realm of the oceanographer, it was stated, is that vast hidden world beneath the surface of the seas. It has a volume fourteen times greater than the volume of all land above sea level. And to date only an extremely small portion of this area beneath the sea is known to man. But enough is known to recognize its great potentialities.

With the world's population increasing at the rate of 100,000 people daily, as was pointed out, we must make every effort to discover new sources of food and minerals. And it is right here that the new science of oceanography comes in.

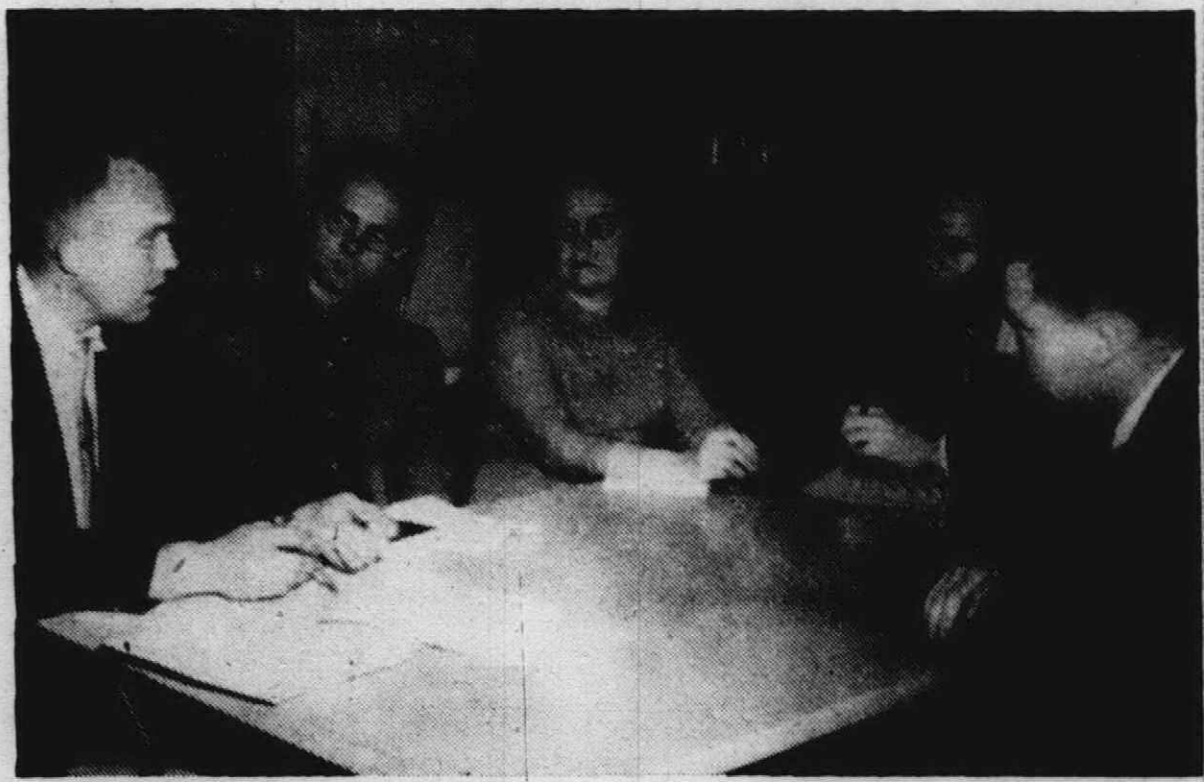

The potentials of all these things, as is now understood, can be safely multiplied many times over the total of the world's present day production. And speaking of food, fish alone is only a small part of the total of the ocean's food substances — and that despite the fact that not more than 10 percent of the total of the world's fish food is regularly taken from the sea.

And as for gold — and to say nothing of oil and all the other minerals — there is said to be enough gold in the waters of the sea to make every man, woman and child the world over a millionaire. It only remains for the oceanographer of the new age to learn how to economically retrieve it.

But all this, as related by Commander Panter, is one side of the picture only. The whole science of oceanography, he said, is linked up with the nation's defense system. In this category the Commander quoted from a report of the National Academy of Sciences which states — from the point of view of military operations there is no comparison between the urgencies of the problems of the oceans, and those of outer space. The submarine, armed with long range missiles is probably the most potent weapon system threatening our security today. It seems clear that the pressures of establishing effective bases and of protecting ourselves from attack are relentlessly driving us into the oceans.

The speaker also took pains to say that the United States — richest country in all the world — has only 45 research ships scattered among civilian, military, fishery and geodetic activities — while the Soviets have a modern armada of more than 100 ships.

The United States has made a brave beginning along this program, Commander Panter continued to say, but

"SPECIAL EDUCATION in the Plymouth Schools" will be the subject of a panel discussion at the next meeting of the Plymouth School Community Planning Group Wednesday, Dec. 7 at Bird School. Fletcher Campbell, Jr., left, is chairman of the Planning Group while George Conover, next to Campbell, will moderate the panel that will discuss new state laws, job placement opportunities and the history of special education. Tom Hemenger, a Chelsea High School teacher, will be on the panel. Others showing discussing the coming meeting are Mrs. Grant Ridley, curriculum committee chairman; David Travis, educational TV committee; and Abraham Kooiman, health and safety committee. The meeting, open to the public, starts at 7:45 p.m.

Rock Basketball Opens with Friday, Saturday Games

Plymouth High's 1960 basketball squad opens its new season this Friday night against the traditional opening rival, Ypsilanti, and then moves to Northville Saturday for another non-league tilt.

Coach Jim Doyle isn't predicting any league titles this year — but coaches seldom are optimistic. But Plymouth lost six lettermen last year and is rebuilding this year mainly with Reserve material. Coach Doyle points out, "It's hard to say what will happen — they may go one way or the other."

This weekend's two games are more or less warm-up sessions for the Suburban Six League which will get underway Dec. 9 when Plymouth plays Belleville.

On paper, it appears that the defending champs, Livonia Bentley, will again be rough. Belleville also promises to make a strong bid, Doyle predicts.

Three lettermen are returning. They are Dave Palmer, 5 foot 6 inch guard; Jim Ralston, 5 foot 9 inch forward; and John Spigarello, 6 foot 1 inch center.

Moving up to the top six are Jim Dart, guard; Danny Strömick, center; and Dick Schryer, forward.

Backing these six up will

Ex-Race Driver Alvin Larson Becomes Attorney in Arizona

A few years ago racing enthusiasts thrilled to the driving skills of Alvin Eugene Larson at a track near Phoenix, Ariz. — but now it's Alvin Larson, attorney.

Formerly a resident of 25245 Joy Rd., Larson competed regularly on Saturday nights at the South Mountain Race Track in Arizona and in 1956 finished third in the state point standings of NASCAR, National Association of Stock Car Auto Racing.

Today, as an attorney, Larson is associated in law practice with Robert C. Preston in Phoenix.

Although he holds a private pilot's license and has been flying since 1954, he admits that his taste for speed has relaxed somewhat to such hobbies as hunting and fishing.

Larson has accumulated seven year's service with the Air National Guard, having joined in Michigan in 1949. He is presently a staff sergeant with the Arizona Air National Guard.

He was born July 15, 1932 in Wayne. While attending Plymouth High School, he was a feature and sports editor of the Plymouth Prints and in his senior year was sports editor of the Plymouth Mail. He graduated from high school in 1950 and moved the following year to Arizona.

Larson worked four years as an insurance claims adjuster, including one year part-time while in law school. He also worked two years full-time as clerk-typist with the Arizona Air National Guard while taking pre-legal studies at Arizona State University.

In 1957 Larson transferred from Arizona State to the University of Arizona College of Law, receiving his LLB in June, 1960.

At law school, Larson was recipient of the Daily Reporter, Book Award, the Lee, and the Western Law Scholarship.

Alvin Larson

and the American Jurisprudence Book Awards. He placed fourth in his graduating class and served as chairman of the Pre-Law Advisory Committee and was member of the Moat Court Board.

Attorney and Mrs. Larson, the former Shirley Lay of Akron, O., reside with their daughter, Melinda Lee, at 3510 North 2nd Ave., Phoenix, Ariz.

ANSWER TO ANTI-DEFAMATION LEAGUE

The Nov. 16 issue of The Plymouth Mail carried an article detailing charges by the Anti-Defamation League against a number of persons and organizations with reference to the "presence of R. Roy Pursell of Plymouth on the recent ballot."

Among them it stated of myself that I, Royal D. Rood, "distributed materials written by (A) the late William Guy Carr, Canadian anti-Semite, and (B) Kenneth Goff, Colorado bigot, former Communist and former associate of the notorious Gerald L. K. Smith."

Seven different times the editorial applies the term "anti-Semitic" or "anti-Semite", obviously intended by malicious association to bring odium upon the deceased William G. Carr in particular, and upon any who may favor his researches into history, such as myself, described as "philosophical leader" of the Independent American Party.

It is true that I did succeed in persuading the party to adopt in its political platform some of the ideas advocated by The Responsible Enterprise Assn. A platform is in fact only a petition, and the party broadsheet bringing the issues to the public did on my motion make special mention of the teachings of David Ricardo, one of the great Jews of history, specifically recommending him as the one great name whose writings, if given proper attention, would solve all economic troubles.

The deceased William G. Carr has been grievously misjudged in the editorial. The Anti-Defamation League indicated a very proper concern over a booklet, The Urologists of the Learned Elders of Zion, adapted from a manual of action perfected by money-lenders, which has indeed imposed sorrow and a great wrong upon the Jew.

Very respectfully, Royal D. Rood, 4501 Cicotte St., Detroit 10

Grange Cleanings A potluck supper will spark the regular business meeting of the Plymouth Grange Thursday, December 1. The supper will begin promptly at 6:30. Please bring a dish to pass as we are having out-of-town guests.

anti-Semitic is unjust not merely to him, but to the entire public, and particularly to Jew who for nearly 2000 years has been trying to get out of the trap he is in. Carr's researches were the work of a lifetime and if during his earlier years of study his attention was biased, or if the laws of the middle ages by forbidding Jewish ownership of real estate and of many other opportunities thereby actually forced the Jew into money-lending, compelling him thus to depend heavily upon interest income (usury) rather than on the profit-and-loss with which they must be content who assume the risks of owning capital goods, emphasizing thereby by Jewish names in the money-lending field; Carr did not have a second lifetime to repeat his research in an effort to uncover a larger number of non-Jewish names. Nevertheless his writings offer the Jew today the best hope of which this writer has knowledge, whereby to put that vicious money-lenders' manual of action into proper perspective.

As there are many who, to exploit Christians, call them Christians, but are not Christians so here have always been many who, to exploit Jews, have called themselves Jews, but have been anything but sincere Jews. It is indeed unfortunate that considerable number of misstatements, both directly and by implication.

The publication by Kenneth Goff of matter taken from the Congressional Record touching on the program being promoted by Rockefeller's Public Administration Clearing House at 1313 East 60th St., Chicago, before the legislatures of all the states, to accomplish in place of present laws the substitution of a scheme called "mental health" to enable controls that will add more profitable money lending, billions in place of millions, and on collective rather than an individual basis, is a publication desperately needed. That Goff was once a Communist or subject to criticism for any other reason, does not affect the facts published. The Independent American Party opposes the Rockefeller scheme, and the Anti-Defamation League might better concern itself with the essential issues than with personalities.

Football Contest Comes to Close The Plymouth Mail's Football Contest drew to a close last weekend with Ben Drew of 35650 Glenwood, Wayne, collecting first prize money of $15.

Other money went to Mary Lockwood, 328 Adams, $7; and Robert Griffith, 40317 Joy Rd., Plymouth, $3. Too late to list in last week's paper were the results of the contest on the weekend of Nov. 19. These winners were: first, Margie Schultz, 1360 Ridge, $15; second, F. B. Steiner, 7675 Ridge, $7; and third, Duane Criger, 451 Arthur, $3. Several hundred entries were received each week of the popular contest. Hundreds more played the game at home. The contest was sponsored by 21 local merchants.

Grange Cleanings A potluck supper will spark the regular business meeting of the Plymouth Grange Thursday, December 1. The supper will begin promptly at 6:30. Please bring a dish to pass as we are having out-of-town guests.

1961 dues are payable any time after December 1 and promptly would be appreciated. The 4-H Club will meet at the Hall Monday evening for its regular meeting and Christmas party. Each member is to bring a gift for a less fortunate child.

A new odorless household bleach which can be used on the most delicate fabrics has been announced.

Jerry Seibert Says...

Dear Jerry: What are cosmetic masques used for? Are they something new, or the old fashioned "mud-pack" under a new name? My skin is sallow, oily and I often have blackheads. Would a masque help?

Mrs. E. N. Y. Probably, some stone-age beauty whipped up the first cosmetic masque of mud and fresh-picked herbs — they've been around that long. But today it's easier and more effective to buy one of the skin-rejuvenating preparations which are the result of extensive scientific research by cosmetic firms.

A good masque should cleanse, stimulate, tone and firm the skin, ease age and fatigue lines, and bring a rosy glow to drawn, sallow faces. Obviously not all of and more becoming than a matte powder finish with this season's bold colors and sparkling materials. "Sheer Genius" comes in eight long-lasting shades. It is long-lasting, blotch or cake on the skin, and contains moisturizing agents and other special ingredients which make it non-drying. It comes in a non-collapsible tube which is convenient to carry in your purse, as well as being spillable on your dressing table.

Dear Jerry: I am a secretary and it is important that I always look attractive and well groomed. Powder makes my skin look flat and dull. But my face looks shiny and unfinished with only lipstick and eye make-up. Could you suggest anything?

Miss C. P. B. Here's something so new I couldn't have suggested it two months ago. Max Factor's "Sheer Genius" is an entirely new type of cosmetic, a liquid which combines foundation and powder so that it is a complete make-up in itself. It can be applied with the fingertips in seconds. The effect is a delicately-tinted, soft sheen, wonderfully fresh and flattering. These results can be expected to be vividly apparent with one application — but contin-

Commission Urges Muscular Dystrophy To Join Community Fund Campaign

A new attempt on a local level to urge the Muscular Dystrophy Assn. to become an agency of the Plymouth Community Fund is being promoted by the City Commission.

Commissioners last week granted permission to hold the house-to-house Muscular Dystrophy drive this past Tuesday night, but returned a letter which strongly "suggests" that next year the organization become affiliated with the Community Fund.

It was in 1956 that the last attempt was made to invite Muscular Dystrophy Associations' participation in the Community Fund drive.

To hold a house-to-house campaign, it is necessary for an organization to obtain approval of the City Manager or City Commission. Last week, when the letter of request reached to Commission, they were not too receptive.

Feeling that the Community Fund drive should before the Plymouth Community Fund to make your request for contributions, rather than holding a house-to-house campaign.

There is no doubt that the contributions from the Plymouth Community Fund will be larger than that which you will gather from a house-to-house campaign," the letter concluded.

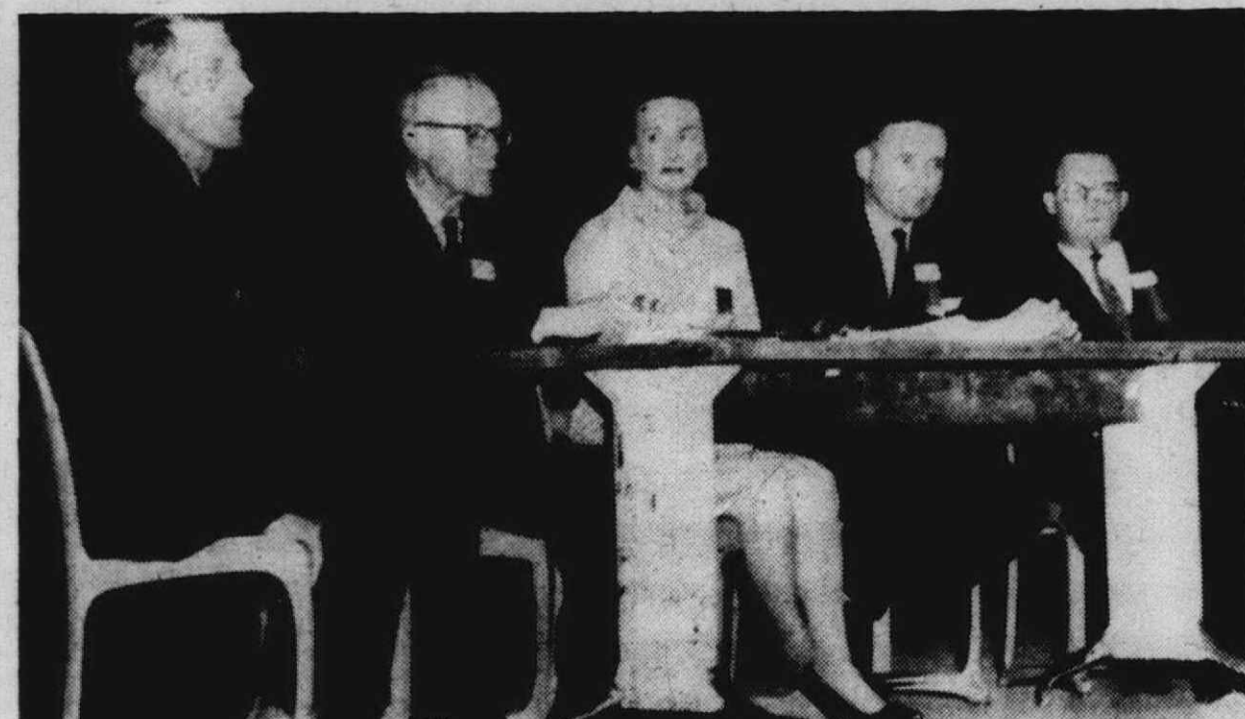

In 1956 City and Township firemen were invited to conduct the campaign. City firemen decided a few days before the drive not to participate since the Plymouth Community Fund had offered the Muscular Dystrophy Association $1,500. And just before Township firemen were to begin their house-to-house drive, they too voted not to march.

But the Muscular Dystrophy officials turned down the $1,500 check, declaring that it is against national policy to participate in united drives. The association, like several other charitable groups, feels that they can raise more money with their own drive than they can by joining united efforts. They also note that they can also obtain more publicity about the disease during a separate drive.

No goal was announced for Tuesday night's drive in Plymouth. It is assumed that unless the Muscular Dystrophy Association changes its national policy, the association will not join the Community Fund as suggested by the City Commission.

This year the Community Fund raised some $45,000, which was $8,000 over the goal. The Community Fund board of directors has expressed many times that it has an "open invitation" to agencies staging separate drives to join a united campaign.

J. DORSEY Callaghan, drama critic for the Detroit Free Press (second from the left), stresses a pungent point as only J. Dorsey can in his pleasant, yet punitive fashion. His remarks came after listening to the other members of the panel: Kay Murphy, Alpena News, Jim Sponseller, Plymouth Mail, and Richard Cloonan, Detroit News. Hal Young, left, Plymouth Theater Guild, moderator of the panel discussion). They discussed "Newspapers and The Community Theater" at the Fall Meeting of the Community Theater Assn. held in Plymouth earlier this month. Three hundred members of the CTAM came from all over the state to discuss mutual theatrical problems and enjoy an evening performance of "The Crucible," the Guild's fall production on Nov. 5.

Mr. Fox Shoots Deer

"The best birthday gift ever," was the reaction of one Plymouth deer hunter last week.

William Fox, Northern, shot a four point buck Wednesday, Nov. 16, at his cabin near Cadillac.

His many years of training and experience paid off at 8:30 the morning of Mr. Fox' birthday, when he sighted the buck.

Theatre Guild Begins Plans for Presentation

Bill Moore and Larry Tillotson have been selected as the director and producer of the next Plymouth Theatre Guild production "Inherit the Wind." Guild President Jerry Thaden announced.

Bill Moore has had extensive experience with the Guild in many capacities. Besides his many backstage chores, he has appeared in "Teahouse of the August Moon," "My Sister Eileen," and "Mister Roberts," recent Guild hits. He is best known, however, as the writer-director-producer of a one act play, "My Fair Adman," presented at the recent CTAM convention here. Moore is a quality control inspector at the Ozalid Co.

Producer Larry Tillotson is no novice in the art of working with diverse human elements. As president of Local 998 at the Hinde and Dauch plant, he is well acquainted with delegation and decision making. He is already selecting his personnel and is forming committees.

"Inherit the Wind" is a stage presentation of the famous Bryan-Darrow trial scene, where freedom of teaching was also on trial. "With its large cast, and difficult staging, it presents a challenge to any director," President Thaden commented.

"In community theatre the challenge to interpret the play correctly is even greater," he continued. "Inherit the Wind" does not, as some think, defend the theory of evolution. It does vigorously defend the right of our teach-

New Yellow Pages Coming

Michigan Bell Telephone Company will begin delivery of its new area Yellow Pages in Plymouth and in five other communities Tuesday, Dec. 6, announced William Dunn, manager here for the company.

The other communities receiving the new directory are Farmington, Garden City, Livonia, Northville, and Novi. Approximately 83,600 copies of the Yellow Pages will be delivered in these communities, a growth of nearly 12,000 over last year.

"The new directory is the one which should be used when looking up classified headings and listings because it reflects the additions and changes which have occurred since the last area directory was issued," Dunn said.

He added that when the new directory arrives, the old one will be picked up.

also provide a first-class marching band for holidays, the committee points out.

Since the purpose of the band is to supplement and not to replace any current musical organization, participation by high school pupils will be permitted only upon recommendation of their band director, James Griffith, director of the Senior High band, will direct the proposed City band.

While the Plymouth Symphony uses many local players, there is a surplus of wind instrumentalists and others who want a chance to play in some musical organization. Furthermore, the committee notes, the band will present a type of music somewhat different from orchestral music.

It is felt that the band would provide an incentive for young people to master their instrument. At present, if a high school pupil is not intending to go on to college, he cannot expect to be able to do anything with his music after he has graduated from the Senior High School band.

Blanket Buying For Christmas

BY ROSELLA M. BANNISTER

Wayne County Extension Agent, Home Economics

If you are buying a blanket for a Christmas present, or for your own home, here are some wise buying-tips for you.

- 1. What is a good blanket? A good blanket is warm, lightweight, durable and attractive.
- 2. What makes a blanket warm? A warm blanket is fluffy. Look for deep, fine, springy nap which does not shed. A lightweight, fluffy blanket may be warmer than a heavy, tightly woven one. The lighter the weight of the blanket, the more comfortable it is.
- 3. What makes a blanket wear well? A firm, even underweave with a well anchored nap will wear well. Rub the blanket; if little balls of fiber roll up, the nap will wear off, leaving a blanket of little warmth.
- 4. What about bindings? Cotton, rayon, acetate, or nylon bindings are often used. Nylon wears best. Look for bindings which are securely stitched. Chain stitched bindings will catch and ravel. Worn bindings may be re-

DOLL DRESSES by the hundreds were made by employees of Barnes-Gibson-Raymond Division with first place in "best-dressed" competition going to Irene Bonkowski. She is shown receiving her prize from Tom Derro, assistant personnel manager of B-G-R. The dolls are turned over to the Goodfellows of Detroit for distribution at Christmas.

Airplane, Trains

The driver said that as she crossed the track, she opened the door. At that instant the train hit the car and threw Miss Johnson to the other side of the road. The car hit a steel post.

Miss Johnson said that she failed to hear any whistle. The train did not stop, she added.

Lying dazed, but still conscious, the driver said she was there almost 15 minutes before she got up and made her way to a house. She asked to be taken to the home of a relative, where the Road Patrol was called. At University Hospital in Ann Arbor, doctors were amazed to find no broken bones, but she was badly bruised and cut. The car was demolished.

Train Wins Another

Early Friday morning, Patrick Brennan, 21, of 525 Ann Arbor Trail, was driving on Haggerty Rd. when his car struck the sixth car of a freight train. His car first crashed through gates that protect the crossing. Wayne

May Carry

Board felt that the City's personal property was not assessed high enough.

While all of the legal maneuvers take place, the City's own tax bills have been held up. They were to be issued July 1. The City should also issue bills to its property owners around Dec. 1 for the Wayne County and Plymouth Community School District taxes.

City Manager Albert Glassford said that it has not yet been determined if the City's case in the Supreme Court would be jeopardized if tax bills were sent out. Some experts say that it wouldn't be. If so, bills will be sent out sometime in December, first for the City's taxes and then for the school and County taxes.

The City has been operating since July on tax money advanced by 20 of the largest business and industrial taxpayers. This will last for another month, the manager said. If the case goes to the Supreme Court, and the City does not issue tax bills, it could be three to six months before the case is decided. It would be necessary for the City to issue tax anticipation notes to continue operations.

Trenton has not indicated that it is willing to carry on its fight to a higher court. Glassford added, Willis Hall is acting in behalf of the Detroit Board of Commerce and as a County supervisor.

"Even if we lose," Glassford indicated, "the County will find it more difficult each year to keep up this inequitable assessment practice."

The PLYMOUTH MAIL

Plymouth, Michigan Wednesday, November 30, 1960 Section 2

'It's Later Than You Think' Postmaster Says

Postmaster George Timpona said today "It's later than you think! Let's not wait until mid-December to get our Christmas cards and gifts in the mails. By taking action now, you'll avoid disappointing friends and loved ones at Christmas time."

The Postmaster asks your special cooperation in being sure that your return address and the recipient's address is plainly typed or written on all labels and Christmas cards. Use zone numbers, and send your Christmas cards by First Class mail so that you can include handwritten messages, making your Christmas greetings more personal.

Also, you'll be certain that they'll be delivered promptly and forwarded or returned, if necessary. Mail your Christmas cards in two bundles, using free labels that you can get at the Post Office, which read, "ALL FOR LOCAL DELIVERY" and "ALL FOR OUT OF TOWN DELIVERY."

The postmaster asks the cooperation of all business firms to delay mailing circulars and catalogs until after Dec. 25, to keep the mails clear for the Christmas rush.

You can avoid standing in line to mail your packages and to buy stamps by going to the Post Office before 10 a.m. or between 1:30 and 3:30 p.m.

Mail your Christmas cards and gifts for out-of-town destinations by Dec. 10. Those for nearby points should be mailed by Dec. 15, or at least a week before Christmas.

Who's Who in the Plymouth Community Schools

Adina Faye Rice

Teaching comes quite naturally to Mrs. Adina Faye Rice, whose mother and father were former teachers. She has taught fourth grade at Farrand School for the past two years.

Although Mrs. Rice has only lived in Plymouth for four years, she and her family are very satisfied that they made a choice of Plymouth as a "smaller community" when they returned to the Detroit area after living in Three Rivers since 1950. The Rice family lives at 1238 Penniman Ave.

Membership in professional organizations include the National Education Assn., the Michigan Education Assn. and the Plymouth Education Assn. Mrs. Rice has been active in the AAUW, but is now on leave from that group while she finishes her Masters Degree work.

Both Mrs. Rice and her husband have been active in Boy Scout activities with Mrs. Rice serving as Den Mother three times with "one more time to go."

Being a successful teacher, mother and wife leaves her with little or no time to keep up with piano playing which she enjoyed as a young girl. She is looking forward to more free time to do that and many more activities when the children are older.

O. E. S. Highlights

Point Up Role of Leader Dogs

The Lions Club, known for its Sight Conservation and Blind work, announces LEADER DOG WEEK as proclaimed by Governor G. Mennen Williams. During Leader Dog Week, Dec. 4-10, attention is called to the important program being carried on at the Leader Dog School, located at Rochester, Mich.

The non-profit school, Leader Dogs for the Blind, was established in 1939 by Lions of Michigan — and has since trained over 1,500 Leader Dogs. Leader Dogs are furnished without charge to eligible applicants.

A Leader Dog enables its owner to enter fully, despite a handicap, into the life of the community — to live an active and contributive life of his own. Lions arrange the enrollment of every eligible person who expresses an interest in getting a Leader Dog. Lions sponsor projects that are largely responsible for the success and growth of the school that provides happiness and confidence to the blind.

In addition to furnishing financial help, Lions are looking for good one to two year old German Shepherds and Labrador Retrievers that can be trained as Leaders. Dogs are contributed — none are purchased for his purpose. All dog trainees must be perfectly friendly to everyone.

Anyone knowing of some blind person who wants to get a Leader Dog, or who has a dog to contribute, is invited to see a member of the Lions Club or write — Leader Dogs for the Blind, Rochester, Michigan.

Newcomers Have Christmas Party

The Newcomer's Club is having its annual Christmas Dinner-Dance on Saturday, Dec. 10 at the Fox-Hills Country Club.

There will be a cocktail hour from 6:30 to 7:30, dinner 7:30 to 8:30 and dancing to follow. Members are delighted to bring one couple as guests.

Reservations close Dec. 2, and they may be placed with Catherine Woomer, GL 3-3172; Bunny Fletcher, GL 3-0463; Elsie Dalesandry, GL 4-5121; or Nancy Kaiser, GL 3-3612. The Committee has spent many hours preparing for this event so let's make it a big success.

Throw those drumsticks over your shoulder and start unpacking the Christmas tree ornaments. The Yuletide season has arrived. And with the tinsel, gaudy baubles that will hang on ye olde Christmas trees comes a veritable plethora of attractions for these happy holiday days.

"Five Finger Exercise" continues its run at the Shubert. You have until this Saturday to purchase a ticket for a drama about family life that will create countless conversations on your ride home from Detroit. How badly bent the lives of one family can become over the years forms the knotty situation of "Five Finger Exercise." A stranger, a German tutor for the daughter, comes into the family circle. He recognizes many of the faults that they can't see since they are so close to their own problems. How Walter, the tutor, fares in trying to provide solutions provides an evening that is filled with dramatic excitement.

Family life seldom runs a smooth course. Seems that by its very nature you must have a pulling and tugging. After all the juxtaposition of four or five personalities thrown together is bound to cause some traumatic tremors. Old George feels that there isn't a parent that couldn't take his wife and children to see "Five Finger Exercise" and not reap some philosophical and practical points for future operation of the household.

Looking at "Five Finger Exercise" from a technical standpoint, you would have to award it a superior rating. And why not? It collected several awards during its New York and London runs. Roland Culver, Brian Bedford and Michael Bryant have played their parts in this meaningful drama for the past three years. By now the roles are almost second nature to them.

Jessica Tandy and Pinkie Johnstone, the two lone females in the troupe, need not take a back seat in the acting department. They upheld the excellence of the over-all acting.

The tri-level stage setting was a joy to behold. How Oliver Smith, the stage design artist, crammed as much as he did on the Shubert Theatre will remain a miracle. You had the feeling of being in all six rooms of this English country-home. Anyone interested in stage design would do well to take a peep at a masterful job as emulated in "Five Finger Exercise." And the direction by John Gielgud left me breathless. In short, here's a play at the Shubert that deserves your undivided attention.

In case you missed Marcel Marceau, the brilliant French pantomimist, when he was in Detroit, you will have a chance to rectify this error. Mr. Marceau will be appearing in the Hill Auditorium, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. You can get tickets by calling the Hill Auditorium box office.

In the near future look for one of Sean O'Casey's most provocative plays "Purple Dust" to be offered by the University of Michigan Drama Department. Dr. Hugh Norton will be directing O'Casey's wayward comedy. I saw "Purple Dust" about three years ago out in New York and enjoyed it immensely. Can't say that I absorbed all the philosophic barbs that O'Casey shot at the audience.

Thus, it appears that I will be at the Lydia Mendelssohn sometime between December 8 through the 11 to re-visit an old favorite.

Theater Guild folk have indicated that they thoroughly enjoyed Mr. Ralph Duckwall's presentation of scenes in all six rooms of this English country-home. Anyone interested in stage design would do well to take a peep at a masterful job as emulated in "Five Finger Exercise." And the direction by John Gielgud left me breathless. In short, here's a play at the Shubert that deserves your undivided attention.

In case you missed Marcel Marceau, the brilliant French pantomimist, when he was in Detroit, you will have a Theatre. You have only this week to buy a ticket at the Cass Theatre and enjoy the show.

Ironic isn't it that almost 20 years ago this week the Japanese were preparing to bomb us at Pearl Harbor and now we are attending a musical revue to watch some of these same Japanese entertain us in a far more innocuous manner.

Other pre-holiday events in the movie houses and legitimate theaters: "Esther and the King," the 20th Century Fox colorful entry in the race to produce the biggest and best Biblical spectacle, has opened at the Mercury Theatre.

Add "Esther and the King" on your list of Bible adventure stories to be seen.

The Wayne State University players plan to open "The Madwoman of Chaillot" on December 9. This happy fantasy will be presented for two weekends at the Wayne State University Theater on Woodward.

"The Andersonville Trail" with Brian Donley opens at the Shubert on December 5 for a two week run.

And for all the young in heart who dote on our swinging songsters of today Johnny Mathis will be appearing in person for a week at the Riviera starting on Monday, December 5.

A clove tree becomes profitable only after ten years of growth, while a coffee tree produces after four years.

ONE OF SIX Air Force Reserve officers selected to visit England, France and Germany is Lt. Col. John R. McDonald, (center), 371 Irvin St., shown chatting here with Canadian and German officers. In civilian life, Col. McDonald is a pilot-captain with Capital Airlines. He and five other Reservists were selected to make the visit for orientation purposes. The picture was taken at the 4th Allied Tactical Air Force headquarters at the Ramstein Air Base in Germany. He is stationed at Selfridge Air Force Base while serving his Reserve assignments here.

Insurance Business Turns Up Some Pretty Strange Risks

How much is your nose worth? Jimmy Durante values his at $140,000. That's the sum of the insurance he carries on the most famous proboscis since Cyrano's.

Most of us buy insurance to cover life, health, theft, accident, and other common risks, but insurance companies have issued offbeat policies on such items as legs, hair, hands, stocks of whiskey, and Presidential inaugurations. Policies against catastrophe have ranged between such unlikely poles as falling sputniks to the birth of twins.

Among the far from mundane policies on business assets is the policy Calvert Distillers took out on the whiskey stock which is its stand-ard of taste and aroma—a million dollar policy!

Calvert matches its entire production to the quality standard. If the standard's a m.p.l.e. were destroyed, Lloyd's of London would pay one million dollars.

Another company protects its business interests in a different way. The Lincoln Electric Co. of Cleveland took out a policy guaranteeing that money earned in France would be converted from francs to dollars.

A big payoff was made by Lloyd's of London when the race horse Your Host broke a leg before a big race in 1951. The company anted up $250,000 for this one.

Show business offers many entertaining examples of odd insurance policies. Fred Astaire covered his dancing legs for $650,000, while flamenco artist Jose Greco has four pairs of special elasticized wool trousers which he has insured against splitting at $980 a pair. The comedy team of Abbott and Costello once had a $250,000 policy against disagreement between them during a five year period. In the musical field the legendary Polish pianist Ignace Paderewski had insurance on his remarkable hands.

One company insures dogs, covering the life of any canine between 14 months and 9 years, if it's pedigreed and registered with the American Kennel Club, for up to $5,000. The insurance covers the dog, but the owner has to pay the premiums.

An unregistered and unorthodox animal — the Loch Ness monster — which had been floating in and out of the headlines in recent years, made insurance news when a policy was taken out against its delivery alive in London.

Would anything seem like more of an insurance "natural" than the fabulously valuable crown jewels of Great Britain. Yet the gems, on exhibit at the Tower of London, are not insured!

In the state of Texas, where they think big, one company executive is said to have his brain insured. Shopkeepers in Washington, D.C., perhaps influenced by the professional politicians' habit of hedging, once took out a $200,000 policy against Harry S. Truman's failure to show up at the 1949 inauguration.

In the domestic world, one worried man insured against supporting his mother-in-law, while another married husband took out a policy against hitting his

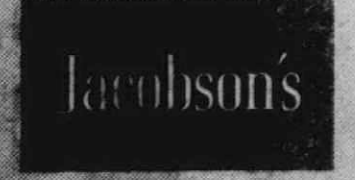

Policies have been taken out against the birth of twins, the breakage of false teeth, and death caused by falling sputniks, but the anxious fellow who took out a policy with Lloyd's to insure against baldness certainly proved he had a head for business — and set a shining example for generations of future policyholders.

Republicans Hear Paul Chandler

Paul Chandler, Publisher of The Livonian and other community newspapers, told Livonia Republicans that the GOP appeared to offer "the only real hope for genuinely independent political leadership" to emerge in this country at this time.

The Democratic party is being maneuvered and controlled by pressure groups, he said in remarks at a local party meeting, and their victorious candidates generally become "captives of their sponsors."

Chandler said he believed there was a growing group of "uncommitted, or independent" voters who were becoming wary of party labels "and who are picking their men as they saw them at the time of election." These "independents" will become an increasing factor in picking future winners, the publisher added, and political parties should devote an increasing portion of their efforts toward them.

"Part of this means picking candidates with attractive personalities. For better or worse, the American public has shown that the TV attractiveness of candidates helps determine the final outcome."

Senior Citizens Group Forms, Invites Membership

A Christmas Cookie Mobile Makes A Tasty Decoration

"Senior Citizens of Michigan, Inc." held its Kick-Off Dinner Tuesday to finalize plans for an all-out drive for membership throughout Michigan. The group was recently incorporated by the Michigan Securities Commission as a non-profit organization, with a primary objective to present an "united front" to secure certain tax reliefs. From the number of inquiries to date, it is believed that several thousand senior citizens throughout the state will be vitally interested in joining forces with this organization," the group said.

This can be done either individually or through local Senior Citizens groups, which are already established in many communities. President Timothy Horgan of Livonia advised. Representatives from various communities will meet regularly with the officers for dissemination of ideas, promotion of plans for group or state-wide social programs and the advancement of the economic welfare of our members. Among the objectives of the organization are: 1. To promote and conduct social activities for the interest and pleasure of the members. 2. To provide and carry out activities resulting in service to various communities and areas of the state. 3. To protect and advance the financial welfare and security of its members including proper objection to certain taxes and financial hardships. 4. To promote such legislation as may advance the interest of Senior Citizens and retirees. Inquiries from aged or retired persons throughout the state, who are interested in further information or association with the Senior Citizens of Michigan, Inc., should be directed to its office at 9620 Arden Ave., Livonia. Horgan feels sure that these inquiries will come from people all over the state who share the feeling that "In Unity There is Strength."

A Christmas Mobile
When it comes to decking the halls for the holidays, do you stay close to the boughs-of-holly, sprigs of mistletoe tradition? Or does your modern scheme of things call for something new?

Either way, here's a holiday decoration that could be the hit of the season. A cookie mobile, it's modern enough to complement Danish furniture—but true-to-tradition in its display of old-fashioned Christmas cookies. A small hole, punched as the cookies come warm from the oven, a length of silver cord or red ribbon, a touch of frosting and trimmings—and you'll have angels, stars, wreaths, floating overhead. You may even want to give pre-Christmas gifts of cookie mobiles, once you see what fun it is to make them.

Cookie Decorating Hints
For a very smooth icing to frost cookies, use thin icing that spreads easily without leaving ridges. Icing for a decorating tube should be slightly stiffer than that used for spreading on cookies, but not so stiff that it breaks as it comes out of the tube. The icing recipe given does not hold stiff ridges; use a plain round point to make scroll-type designs. To make your own paper decorating tube: Fold a 12-inch square of wax paper in half to form a triangle. Place triangle on table with point opposite long side toward you. Bring left hand corner down to point forming a cone. Wind remaining part around cone bringing third corner to meet the first two. Fold corners down inside cone. Fill with icing. Then fold together top edges of cone toward bottom, forcing icing through the point. If necessary, cut off tip. To make red icing, use many times the amount of red food coloring ordinarily used to tint icing pink. For Christmas red, use a drop of yellow food coloring with every 3 to 4 drops red food coloring. Practice making designs with a decorating tube on wax paper to test your skill. Icing can be removed from paper and reused. To keep icing soft while using another color icing, cover bowl or decorating tube with a damp cloth. Allow icing on decorated cookies to harden about 3 to 4 hours before storing cookies or tying them to hang on mobile.

Professor Says Glue to Replace Stitch in Time

Clothing without stitches, houses without nails, and airplanes without rivets—these are among the possibilities foreseen by a University of Michigan expert on adhesives. Alan A. Marra, professor of wood technology at the U-M, says strong, new adhesives will be increasingly substituted for nails, screws, rivets and other fasteners now in common use. Marra recently was elected to a two-year term as chairman of the Committee on Adhesives, American Society for Testing Materials (ASTM). "The fastening together of materials by the use of adhesives is rapidly becoming the preferred means of assembling many constructions because of the great strength and rigidity that can be obtained, and also because the newer adhesives perform adequately in high speed, mechanized factory operations," the U-M professor points out. "The use of adhesives in plywood, furniture, toys and paper cartons is leading the way to their use in fabricating houses, aircraft, boats and missiles. "Few realize," he points out, "that the performance of helicopter blades, the Atlantic cable, safety glass, nylon cords in rubber tires, brake shoes in cars, and non-magnetic mine sweepers is due to the adhesives with which they are assembled. "The increasing substitution of adhesives for nails, screws, stitching and rivets will result in more efficient designs and production methods for many common articles of manufacture. "The quality of adhesives used in the many different kinds of constructions that exist will be assured in large measure by test methods developed in the ASTM Committee on Adhesives, the chairman says. A member of the Committee for 16 years, Chairman Marra reports the group is coordinating tests on a wide variety of specifications for bonding such diversified materials as wood, metal, plastics, tile, glass, paper, leather, and any combination of these and other substances.

3 Issues Stand Out For State Lawmakers

LANSING — Any number of issues could make the 1961-62 session of the Michigan Legislature the liveliest in years. Perhaps three stand out above the others:

From where in the state to elect the extra Congressmen the Michigan became entitled to after the 1960 census.

What to do about the overall tax muddle?

Provisions to bring about a constitutional convention if one is approved by voters at the Spring election.

Add to these the routine and recurrent problems such as appropriations and pork barrel legislation and you have the makings of a session that could out-do the year-long "cash crisis" session of 1959 for fireworks.

Both Republicans and Democrats, of course, want the new Congressmen to be of their political faith.

Because of Michigan's rural-urban split, the area which is given the right to elect the new Congressman will pretty much determine what party he represents.

One obvious solution would be to split one of the highly populous areas of Wayne County.

This would almost certainly give the seat to the Democrats.

Two other suggestions affecting southeast Michigan although not Wayne County would very possibly result in Republicans claiming the seat for one of their members.

One plan would detach Macomb County from the Seventh district, which also stretches up into the thumb.

Democrat James G. O'Hara of Utica holds this seat, and while he would probably hold the new Macomb County seat, a Republican would have an excellent chance in the newly created district.

The other suggestion calls for division of populous Oakland County, presently represented by Republican William S. Broomfield, into two parts.

While Democrats would stand a fairly good chance of electing a representative from a divided 18th, Republicans would almost certainly retain Broomfield and it seems likely a second Congressman of his party would be swept into office with him.

Theoretically, each Congressman should represent the same number of people.

Many Democrats insist that some of the spacious but sparsely populated congressional districts of northern Michigan, now all represented in Washington by Republicans, should be consolidated.

With the GOP dominating the state senate and holding a one-seat edge in the state house of representatives, this is unlikely.

There is a possibility that a complete redistricting could be attempted to bring populations into line with each other among the districts. However, Republicans don't want to lose any of their 11 seats and would like to gain another. Democrats will insist they are entitled to their seven seats and should get the new one.

ANOTHER PROBLEM that could lead to bitter wrangling — both interparty and intra-party — is taxes.

Though a problem nearly every year, revenue for the state will be even more pressing in the upcoming session because of the aftermath of the cash crisis.

Voting a penny hike in the sales tax as approved by the people could make little difference in the legislative tax squabble.

While Republicans may hold out for the four-cent sales tax and nothing else, there is considerable agitation among members of both parties to carry out total tax revision aimed at making the burden of paying for government fall more equitably.

If the tax picture it touched up, the sales tax will still be the focus of attention.

Any adjustments would be made in the subsidiary and auxiliary taxes which are imposed on special groups or special types of transactions. This would mean special interest forces would fight hard for advantage.

CON-CON PROBLEMS can be expected to haunt lawmakers for some time to come.

Not only must they provide for the means of selecting the delegates to a Con-Con, they must make provision for a place to hold one and vote the money to pay for it — estimated at better than $2 million.

The thorny question of whether to nominate candidates for Con-Con delegates in party convention, party primary or non-partisan primary could by itself be dynamite.

Recalcitrant lawmakers could, by dragging their feet, put a serious hitch in Con-Con plans even if voters give quick approval right down the line.

Handwriting Is Clue About You

Dear Miss Williams: I thoroughly enjoy your column. Will you please tell me if I have any psychological talent, as I plan to be a psychologist. Thank you. L. Foster

Dear L. Foster: You do not show deep penetration of thought but you do show quick, alert thinking and an analytical side to your mind. This will be most helpful, it shows you like to probe and sift facts, delving into the unknown. You are diplomatic and have some knowledge of philosophy.

You are not emotional, practice self control and prefer to work alone. There is a definite emphasis — sometimes even to the point of being stubborn. You are an opportunist, have a good memory and are constructive. There is no imagination shown, however.

Dear Miss Williams: I was very interested to read your analysis of several handwritings. I have always thought it would be fun to have mine done and I would appreciate it if you would do it. Thank you for this favor. Sincerely, Edith O.

Dear Edith O.: You enjoy some responsibility and as long as it doesn't get to be too much, you can handle it well. You also like variation, something other than regular routine, activity and many irons in the fire appeal to you. Most of the time you have things under control, good organization, so to speak.

You are loyal to what you believe in and stand behind your judgments and decisions. You have a very good memory and give complete attention to details.

You have creative ability in a constructive way. There is thriftiness, little generosity — but caution. You are practical minded but show resentment to imposition.

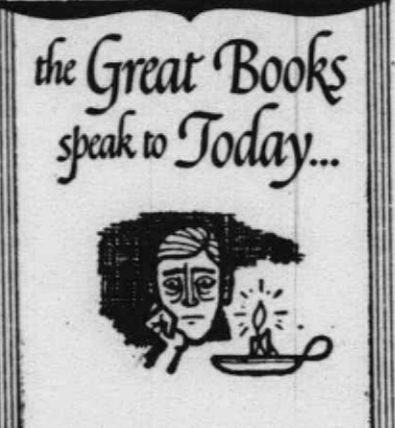

Dear Miss Williams: I was interested in seeing your handwriting analysis in the paper and am very much interested in having mine analyzed. Thank you, Lois Wegner

Dear Lois: You have a good aim and purpose in life, with the necessary determination to carry it through. Although your emotions vary, you are usually in complete control, using good judgment and thinking before you act.

You have pride and ability to make your own decisions. You are analytical minded, not deeply but enough to want to know more than what shows on the surface.

You are not sensitive to criticism and have no temper. There are many times when you are not as oper minded as you could be. There is a desire to be physically active.

(Curious about your handwriting? Send a sample to Lucille Williams, in care of this paper.)

If I sup not well, large, round and amply, my sleeping is not worth a forked turnip. All the night long I then but doze and rave, and in my slumbering fits talk idle nonsense, my thoughts being in a dull brown study and as deep in their dumps as is my belly hollow.

How's Business?

Kennedy Will Spend More

By ROGER W. BABSON

The 1960 Presidential election recorded many "firsts." Mr. Kennedy is the first successful Catholic candidate, and the youngest person to win the office. The television debates between the two aspirants to the Presidency were also a milestone.

Normally, the President-elect's campaign platform provides many clues as to what may be expected in the way of legislation and government action during his Administration. The narrow margin of popular vote accorded Mr. Kennedy, however, would suggest the lack of a clear-cut mandate to activate, in sweeping fashion, his proposals and policies.

This may also affect the decisions Congress will make. Nevertheless, businessmen and investors should be prepared for a period of more liberal legislation and government action. Odds are that Mr. Kennedy will press for increased federal spending in the areas of public works, housing, and defense as a means of revivifying the economy.

He has indicated that he will seek such added welfare legislation as medical care for the aged and expanded social security coverage. The pressure will be on for a hike in the national minimum wage to $1.25 per hour, in order to boost consumer buying power.

The value of these and other projects is likely to accrue to the longer-range business prospects. For the present, unless a radical crash program is instituted, business conditions are likely to reflect a continuation of economic imbalances.

The franchise "with strings attached" which Kennedy seems to have won may be a strong deterrent to the initiating of over pump - priming measures. Nonetheless, public sentiment will bear watching for signs of inflation fears. If the blueprint for expanded government spending should be put into effect too quickly, inflation psychology could blossom forth and create an even more serious problem.

If Your Name Is Virgil

By ANN REYNOLDS

Virgil, I'm convinced that you realize you're the namesake of the great Roman poet Publius Vergilius Maro. He lived in the first century B.C., and all ancient inscriptions spell that poet's name "Vergilius."

In the Middle Ages, however, popular fancy considered him a magician, and brought his name in connection with the Latin word "virga," a "magician's wand." This influenced the spelling, and the name came to be written "Virgilius." As a first name, in this country and in England both forms are used. "Virgil" being the more frequent.

compensate their veteran soldiers. "The Calabrians" robbed me alludes to this. "Parthenope" stands for Naples; Parthenope is one of the legendary sirens, creatures half bird, half woman who lured sailors to destruction by their singing. Parthenope is said to have been buried at Naples. About the heroes, Vergil wrote the Aeneid; his Eclogues or Bucolics depict idealized country life; his Georgics present rural life in a realistic way.

Vergil's influence continued through the Middle Ages. Some Christian theologians saw in Vergil's fourth Eclogue a prophecy of the coming of Christ. This accounts for the great esteem Vergil was held in. The great Italian poet Dante imagines him his guide in the "Divine Comedy," and makes him say "I am Virgil, for no sin deprived of heaven, except for lack of faith."

This means, Vergil was deprived of heaven because born before the birth of Jesus. (It was said that St. Paul wept at Vergil's tomb because he died "before the light had come into the world.")

(Want to know of some other name? Write to Ann, care of this paper. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, also who needed land in order to ways printing your request.)

Under 21

By DAN HALLIGAN

Dear Dan: We're twin brothers and our father owns a large farm on which we've lived all our lives. We have a small bank account and with the scholarships we earned playing high school football, it would send us through college without costing our father a cent. He wants us to stay home instead and work the farm. We would split a quarter of the profits and he'd relax.

What should we do about the old man? If we do what he wants us to, we'll be stuck here for the rest of our lives. — G.W.H. and G. D. H.

Dear Twins: You two have a good argument and so has your father. I certainly can't say "you do this" or "you do that." Your situation is something that will have to be talked out within your family because there's a lot to be considered. Perhaps your county agricultural agent could be invited to sit in on this conference.

Personally, I never went to college and I love farms, so my answer might be a little prejudiced.

Dear Dan: I'm a 17-year-old secretary in a small town and lately have had the feeling that I need to be more of a part of the church. There is a new single minister here who is young and attractive and because I'm not a member of his church, how can I make him notice me?

There are plenty of young men around here and don't date and I think knowing this minister would help me become a better person. — Wistful.

Dear Wistful: You'd better separate your feelings for religion from your personal feelings for this young minister. You attend church to pray and to benefit from the services and not to make a hit with the clergyman.

If your particular religion is that lenient that you can attend another church, that would be a step in the right direction toward becoming acquainted with the minister. Once you do start attending his church, you can feel free to introduce yourself or have a friend introduce you.

As far as making him "notice" you, that can be accomplished if you plunge into church activities and become a regular ball of fire.

All young, unmarried ministers take warning — this girl means business.

Dear Dan: I'm a 17-year-old senior boy and don't like the way you run down kids of 13, 14 and 15 for "going steady." Time changes everything, as you may know, and 20 years ago when our parents were teenagers they had a life completely different from ours. When they thought of going steady, they thought of a somewhat serious romance.

Today, kids don't feel that way. They refer to "going steady" when actually they just have a "boy friend" or a "girl friend." Maybe they haven't even been out on a date but they naturally want to sound older so they say they're "going steady."

I don't go steady myself but I have several times and a couple of those times even before I started dating. Now for a question: How can a boy keep from being considered as just a "friend" by girls? That's what most girls think of me. Friends are fine but I don't want to overdo it.

Terry: Dear Terry: Times may have changed in 20 years but girls are still girls and boys are still boys whether they're teen-agers in this generation or the next. I'm sorry to have to disagree with you but when I talk against girls of 13, 14 and 15 "going steady," I mean just that.

For a guy who's gone "steady" as often as you say you have, you seem to be having date trouble and perhaps it's a question of sprucing up your personality. Have a close buddy tell you your shortcomings and eliminate them as best you can. Good luck.

Think how a mother kangaroo must hate a rainy day when the kids can't play outside!

John C. Coleman, president of the Barracoughs Manufacturing company, will be the guest speaker at the Chamber of Commerce annual dinner meeting Nov. 30 at 7 p.m. at the Hotel Mayflower. Ray Williams will give the president's annual report on meeting. Friday and Saturday will mark the grand opening of Graham's new store on Ann Arbor Trail. In a special opening event the store plans a style show Friday noon with eight Patricia Stevens models showing the latest in new fashions and a radio broadcast accompanying the show with master of ceremonies "Sleepy Head" Johnson actually broadcast from the store.

The large new building now nearing completion at Plymouth and Middlebelt roads will become the Ford Division General Office building, it was announced today by L. D. Cruseo, vice-president of the Ford Motor Company and general manager of the division.

The ground breaking ceremony for the new addition to the High School building on Main St. officially started workmen on the last part of the building program undertaken by the Board of Education here last year. Although the Board has enough money to complete the entire outside of the building and the gymnasium, the pool and band room finishing will depend on the approval of the local voters at the polls on Dec. 11 when the Board has asked for additional funds to bring the entire project to completion.

The "Snowball" is the title this year of the Plymouth Symphony society's annual winter ball. The event is scheduled for Dec. 28 in the high school gymnasium.

The U. S. Express Company has started a small building next to the P.M. depot to be used as a store room and office. This will be to take care of their transfer business.

A team of horses belonging to William Fisher ran away yesterday morning, starting from the elevator. As they were about to make the turn from Main to Sutton street one of them slipped and fell on the icy pavement. The other was also tripped up and both slid for two rods, bringing up at the curb where they were caught and assisted on their feet by several men. No damage was done.

The next number of the lecture course will be given next Wednesday evening, Dec. 7, when Frederick E. Hopkins will deliver his well known lecture on "The Golden Fleece." Dr. Hopkins is a young man, reputed to be a brilliant, magnetic, charming speaker, an orator, entertainer and educator. He comes with many press and personal recommendations.

W. J. Adams, who operated the Phoenix Mills here from 1892-1902, died at his home in Cochocton, O., Saturday at 8 p.m. of pneumonia. The funeral was held there Tuesday afternoon.

NEW WRINKLE

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — To remove a wrinkle from resin-treated fabrics, first steam iron the area to flatten and to heat the material. Then, apply vinegar with a medicine dropper to the wrinkle while the cloth is still hot. The fabric should be left to absorb the acid for a minute or two. Then run the iron over the area until the material is dry. The advice is from Gerda Petersen, extension clothing specialist at the University of Nebraska.

Chevrolet-Livonia was cited for "an outstanding promotional program" in suggestion plan activity. ## Expect Bigger Christmas Seal Sale this Year

Detroit and Wayne County are enjoying more prosperous economic conditions right now than the area did a year ago, according to a seasonal "business barometer" overlooked by government surveys and market experts.

This unique indicator of cash in the public pocket is the 54th annual Christmas Seal Campaign, the traditional appeal for funds to fight tuberculosis and protect the public's health.

Last year, just before the Christmas shopping season got underway, the entire Detroit metropolitan area was crippled by a steel strike which threw hundreds of thousands of people out of work. The effect was promptly reflected in a smaller average contribution to the annual Christmas Seal campaign.

"This year we're definitely on the upswing," said Richard L. Lea, of Plymouth, executive director of the Tuberculosis and Health Society. "With the first Christmas Seal returns just coming in, we've noticed an increase in the average contribution, although it's too early to tell exactly how much it is."

"We believe this year," Lea continued, "that many of the folks who could not help us out last year are making up for it right now. And we need their help. Certainly, if people are out of work, they're going to have a tough time joining our crusade. But this year they seem to be really coming through. Apparently, it reflects their ability to do so."

Letters TO THE EDITOR

Editor: I wish to congratulate you on your stand of the past election. I saw also the danger in the election returns to the State being a one-party state controlled by labor unions. England went broke under a labor government and that is what the Democratic Party is today. It takes its orders from the unions.

I have been a Republican all of my life but as of the last election my party is dead if they go on like they are. We have to start at the bottom of the party and build an all-new Republican party in this state and our county, for the Democrats are leading this county down the wrong road and we cannot do anything about it. Our two Senators in Washington are Democrats and they follow the Democratic line and the people who are Republicans have to go along with their line if we like it or not.

What they should have is four senators in Washington. Send the winning Senator, be he a Republican or Democrat, to Washington with one vote and the loser, be he a Democratic or Republican, a ½ vote. That way all the people would have a voice in the running of our country, without it being one sided.

Sincerely,
A Republican for Nixon in '64

HERE! THE TRUCKS THAT RIDE SMOOTHER, WORK HARDER, LAST LONGER!

Just a year ago, Chevy came up with independent front suspension and has already put some 300,000 Chevrolet trucks with it out on jobs.

The ride that results from Chevy's suspension design is making life a lot easier for drivers. (Just ask them.) It's taking better care of loads, the fragile kind that cost somebody money if they are bounced around. Chevy's ride also enables truck owners to revise their buying habits and work their trucks longer before they trade. This follows naturally. The trucks take less of a beating. There's less stress on sheet metal. Less abuse to tires. Less pounding that wears out parts before their time. The upshot of it is, you either save money or earn more of it or both. And you couldn't ask a truck to do more than that. See your dealer.

The Lamp Division of Westinghouse Electric has come up with an ingenious new auto safety kit containing three miniature lamps which meet the safety lighting requirements of practically all cars; stop, tail, signal, parking and license lights. The kit, available in 6 and 12 volt sizes in a see-through plastic container, insures a handy supply of bulbs to replace dangerous burnouts immediately.

For the home handyman there is a variety of special tools to simplify work in dark or tight corners. Truline Sales Co., Studio City, Calif., offers a screwdriver set in a plastic flashlight lens that puts the light just where it is needed; has two regular and two Phillips blades. For close-quarter work, 3-Way Screwdriver, Winnipeg, Canada, offers a tool with offset blades at each side of the main blade. Beaver Tool Co., Huntington Station, N. Y., has a fingertip, stainless steel wrench which makes it possible to reach a bolt head or nut in any space into which a finger can be adjustable for comfortable fit.

Another item for the home handyman, or sportsman, is Du Pont's new Slippray spray-on dry lubricant that provides ultra-slick surfaces without staining, running or picking up dirt. Dispensed from an aerosol can, it will make such items as drawers, doors, windows, screens and zippers slide easily and keep them from jamming and sticking when not in use. Also serves as a corrosion retardant for battery terminals, stored tools, guns, skates and other metal equipment. Helps keep dirt, grass, snow or mud from sticking to garden tools. Can be used on metal, paint, rubber, plastic, glass and leather; unaffected by water, light, oil or solvents and won't freeze or melt.

All About Babies

By William Kitay
National Association of Science Writers
Editor, All About Babies
Does your baby cry too much for no apparent reason? If he wakes up squalling and you've checked for all possible causes for his fretfulness and found nothing, chances are your baby has gotten himself a habit. And it's a hard habit to break, say mothers who should know.

What's happened is that baby has learned that he can get what he wants by simply crying for it. The louder he cries, the faster his demands are met. The longer he cries, the more certain he is that he will get exactly what he wants.

A recent study put this question to nearly a thousand mothers: "What do you do to keep your baby from crying for attention?"

The answer given most often was: "I anticipate baby's needs so he won't get into the habit of yelling for whatever he wants."

Here are some other suggestions—

Don't wait until baby cries to feed him. If it's time for baby's regular feeding, feed him. Once baby gets into the habit, he'll continue to cry for his food long after he should know better.

Learn to tell when your baby is about to lose interest in a toy. He will often cry when he does. Divert his attention with another toy or entertainment.

Change your baby's position in his crib before he becomes restless. A baby will cry to let you know he's tired of lying in one position.

Give your baby a change of scene, from time to time, so he won't get bored with his surroundings. A bored baby will often cry. New objects to look at will renew his interest and attention.

Change your baby's diapers regularly. A wet diaper is not only uncomfortable, but it can sometimes even be painful. Urine in a baby's diaper breaks down into ammonia, a caustic substance that can be quite irritating to a baby's sensitive skin. This may lead to diaper rash.

The nation's diaper service industry impregnates the diapers it processes with a chemical that inhibits the breakdown of infant urine and thus delays the formation of irritating ammonia.

A sponge and fresh clothing do wonders to keep your baby from getting cranky and from unnecessary crying. At times, a little fondling will help too.

Adding it all up—keep one step ahead of your baby and you'll prevent a habit that can strain your nerves more than your ears.

TIPS FOR TEENS

By ELINOR WILLIAMS

Q.—"Dear Elinor: I have been going steady for three years (we are 16 and 18). Now another girl has started to hang around him. I still have his ring, but am not sure I'm going with him or not. I asked him a few questions about it, but he didn't want to answer them. I'm confused and my homework isn't getting enough time. Can you help me?"

Ans.—It depends on what you mean by the other girl "hangs around him." Since he won't talk about it frankly and honestly with you, you'll have to draw your own conclusions. If he dates this girl or goes to her house, you can assume that your "going steady" deal is off... and that he's too "chicken" to tell you and ask for his ring. Even if this girl is merely chasing him and they aren't dating, apparently he hasn't discouraged her by telling her that he goes steady with you. In either case, it sounds as if it's probably time for a break-up and you'd be smart to date other boys, have fun and get your mind back on your school work.

Q.—"Dear Miss Williams: I need your advice urgently. Last year I made a fool of myself by going with a boy and a cheap crowd that my parents didn't approve of. This year, I came to my senses and have made some nice new friends and am trying to gain a good reputation. But some people won't forget and some boys won't date me on account of the stories about me. What more can I do?"

Ans.—Look for new friends, activities and dates in different circles where your new behavior will eventually attract them to you. Join a youth group and a Bible class in your church. Do volunteer work, if possible, in the Junior Red Cross, a children's hospital or some other organization in your community. Attend regularly and share the work and your reputation will gradually replace the old one. Good luck!

IT'S CHRISTMAS TIME AT MINERVA'S

NEW PRODUCTS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The latest batch of new products contains items of interest to the man of the house—ranging from an anti-freeze for auto locks to a new color-coded line of toiletries.

The man who parks at the railroad station—or anyone whose car must be out in all kinds of weather—will appreciate Merix Chemical Company's (Chicago) Frost-Off lock anti-freeze. In a non-breakable, plastic squeeze bottle, it is said to prevent locks from freezing and also to remove ice quickly from unprotected locks. May be used on any outdoor lock.

Citation House, Morris-town, N. J., is introducing a new line of men's toiletries in which careful planning obviously has gone not only into the product but into the packaging as well. Flak shape containers won't slip through wet fingers; large cap won't disappear down the drain and color keying will help prevent early-morning mix-ups. Electric pre-shave is blue, after-shave lotion is green, and cologne yellow.

The home movie fan now can have a screen ready for a showing at a flick of a switch with Radiant Man-Automatic Compact projection screen. Unit is hung on wall, behind a cornice or recessed in ceiling if desired, and is operated from any standard electricity outlet.

A record number of Michigan winter sports centers will be in operation during the 1960-61 skiing season with three new ski areas boosting the state total to 74.

Pre-season estimates by the state tourist council indicate some 165,000 skiers will make an average of three trips each to Michigan ski centers this winter—if snowfall conditions are as good as last year. This would be an increase of about 10 percent over the number of skiers on Michigan slopes last winter. They are expected to spend some $17½ million on the sport, not including equipment, according to a recent ski industry survey.

This cold weather sport has been booming throughout the state in recent years, particularly since 1953 when a total of 38 ski centers catered to about 65,000 skiers. In seven years the number of ski areas has almost doubled and new members have swelled the growing ranks of ski enthusiasts.

The three winter sports centers opening this winter are:

Alpine Valley, on highway M-59, 10 miles west of Pontiac. This new area plans to feature four slopes up to 1,300 feet in length; two T-bar lifts and six rope tows; a ski shop with rental equipment and instruction; a snow-making machine; and night skiing.

Granview Orchards Ski Area, four miles north of Fenton on Fenton Rd. Plans for the area include five rope tows; a lodge with snack bar; rental equipment and instruction; a snow-making machine; and skating.

Birch Hills, six miles north of Big Rapids. This new area announces seven slopes with rope tows; warming shelter with snacks; and rental equipment and instruction.

A new statewide winter vacation guide, pinpointing and describing each of Michigan's 74 winter sports centers, is available after Nov. 25 from the state tourist council. Free copies can be obtained by writing to: Ski Map, Michigan Tourist Council, Lansing 26.

The 74 areas, dotting the Michigan map from the far reaches of the upper peninsula to the fringes of metropolitan Detroit, offer a variety of slopes for beginners as well as experts and intermediate skiers.

Snow machines will be in operation at 12 ski centers, assuring a longer season and more reliable conditions. Thirty-two areas offer night skiing.

In addition to downhill skiing, Michigan's winter scene features cross-country trails, slalom bowls, toboggan runs, skating rinks, ice fishing, ice boating and hunting.

Indoor facilities at many ski centers include lodge, dormitory and motel accommodations, restaurants, snack bars, lounges and warming shelters. Skis, boots and poles can be rented at several centers offer ski and instructions.

In addition to the three new Michigan ski areas, winter visitors will find facilities improved and expanded at several other ski centers.

Major improvements for the 1960-61 winter include:

- Nub's Nob (near Harbor Springs) — new pomalift; new intermediate area; installation of outdoor heated swimming pool.
- Avalanche (at Boyne City) — addition of seven new ski runs, three rope tows and a new pomalift.
- Boyne Mountain (at Boyne Falls) — two new double chair lifts; installation of year-round skating rink.
- Crystal Mountain (formerly Buck Hills, near Beulah-Benzonia) — new two-story lodge with accommodations for 80; new double-chair lift and snow machine; expansion of ski runs to 10.
- Caberfae (near Cadillac) — two new T-bar lifts, one replacing a chair lift; big increase in rental equipment.
- Sylvan Knob (near Gaylord) — new pomalift.
- Ausable Ranch Ski Club (near Gaylord) — new pomalift.
- Lansing Ski Area (near Lansing) — new lodge with snack bar.
- Mt. Holly (near Pontiac) — new chair lift.

Many other areas report improvements in slopes and tows, and expanded servicing facilities.

GREENS HELP YOU

NEW YORK (UPI) — The dark green hues of broccoli, spinach, turnip greens and kale are a sign of the valuable amounts of vitamin A contained in these vegetables, the Nutrition Foundation reports.

NEW YORK (UPI) Federal spending for highways, airways and waterways in the last decade totaled $16 billion, 25 percent of which was spent in 1959, according to the Association of American Railroads.

During the same period, the nation's self-supporting railroads paid out $11 billion for taxes of all kinds, of which $4 billion were income taxes paid to the federal government, the association said.

Area Farmers Can Now Apply For Support

Fred Korte, chairman of the Wayne County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, has advised farmers that they can still earn cost-sharing for applying needed soil and water conservation practices on their farms this fall. All farmers are eligible to receive these cost-sharing payments which are authorized under the Agricultural Conservation Program.

There are a number of practices such as liming materials on farmland and forestry improvement that can be performed advantageously in the fall of the year. Digging open farm drainage ditches and installation of farm drainage tile are some of the practices which could be started and completed this fall.

Korte wishes to encourage farmers to apply these eligible practices this fall since adequate funds appear to be available at this time. By requesting cost-sharing and carrying out the conservation practice this fall, farmers can be assured of receiving Federal assistance. A request must be filed before the practice is started with your local county ASC office, located at 3901 Newberry St., Wayne.

Price Support for Corn
The government support price for corn in Wayne County for the 1960 crop is $1.09 per bushel. Any farmer who produces corn may receive this price by applying for either a warehouse-stored loan, farm stored loan or a purchase agreement. The method most widely used in Wayne County is the warehouse stored loan. To obtain the support price the farmer turns his negotiable warehouse receipt over to the Wayne County ASC Office and receives the support rate.

The support rate puts a floor under the price the farmer has to take for his corn. If the market is below the loan level, the farmer can always turn the corn over to the government in full settlement of the loan. If the market price rises above the loan level, he has the privilege of paying for the loan and selling his commodity in the open market. Also, at any time he can pay the loan and either sell the corn or use it for live-stock feed.

"goodbye turkey" casserole

New party dish serves 6 or 24... ready in 30 minutes but only with Minute Rice

Hello guests... goodbye turkey! Easiest party dish ever—when leftover turkey, bubbling cream sauce, asparagus... and Minute Rice bake together into a memorable main dish! Who'd ever guess this feast could fix so fast!

No stopping to cook the rice. Minute Rice goes—right out of the box—into the casserole.

This long-grain rice puffs up bright and light with good turkey flavor, blends seasonings, cheese and asparagus into a taste that makes guests say "um-m-m wonderful." Or make it for the family—they'll think it's a party!

	For 6 servings	For 24 servings
"Goodbye Turkey" Casserole	5 tablespoons	1 1/4 cups
Sifted flour	1 teaspoon	4 teaspoons
Salt	1/4 teaspoon	1 teaspoon
Onion salt	1/4 cup	1 cup
Butter, melted	2 1/2 cups	2 1/2 quarts
Milk or light cream	1 1/2 cups	5 1/2 cups
Minute Rice	1 1/2 cups	6 cups
Turkey or chicken broth	1/2 cup	2 cups
Grated American cheese	1 1/2 cups	6 cups
Cooked asparagus	2 cups (6 slices)	8 cups (24 slices)
Sliced turkey	2 tablespoons	1/2 cup
Toasted slivered almonds

Stir flour, half of salt, onion salt into butter. Stir in milk. Cook over hot water, stirring occasionally until thickened.

Pour Minute Rice (right from box) into 2-quart shallow baking dish. Combine broth, remaining salt; pour over rice. Sprinkle half of cheese over rice. Top with asparagus; then turkey. Pour on sauce. Sprinkle with remaining cheese. Bake at 375°F. about 20 minutes. Top with almonds.

For 24 servings, divide ingredients between shallow baking pans. Bake as above.

GETTING AROUND

...to Our Pleasant Places and People

When Mrs. V. M. Hawksley went through customs on her way from England to settle in Shawnee, Kansas, the customs man pulled out a photo of Mrs. Hawksley's son, an actor, dressed as Hamlet. "In the service, eh?" commented the inspector.

A bright red sticker, observed on an automobile bumper near Mountain Brook, Alabama, read: "Help Stamp Out Bumper Stickers."

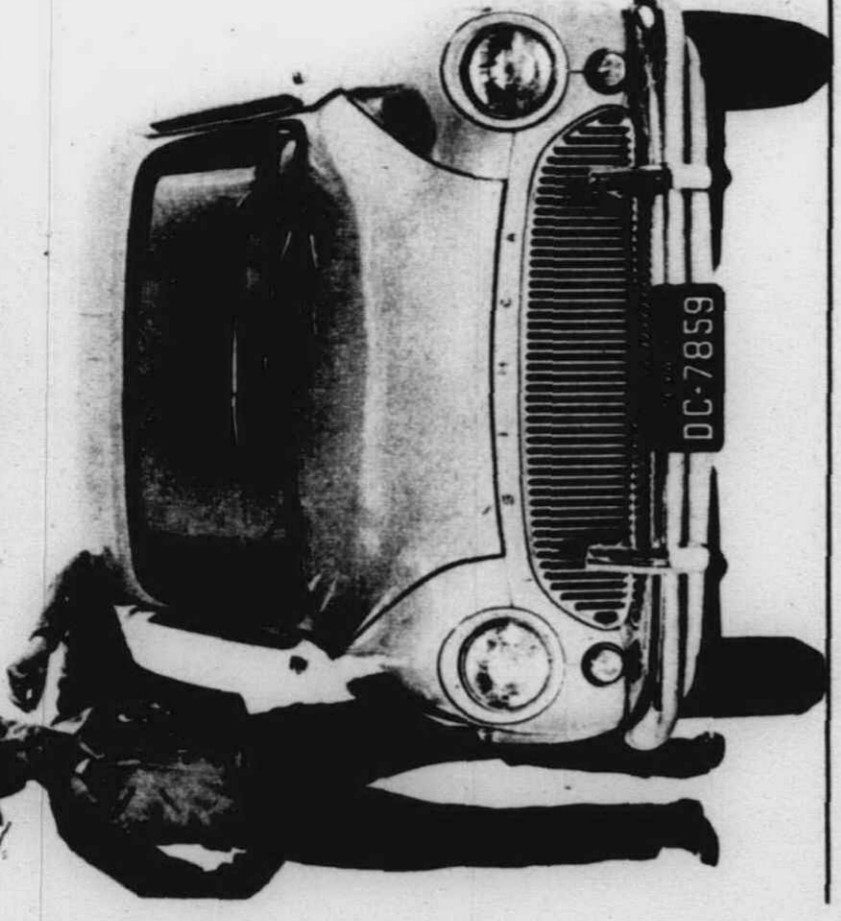

Mrs. W. H. Thomas, of Warrenville, Illinois, writes to tell us about an exclusive drive-in theatre she visited in Buffalo, Missouri—the world's first with a private screen for each of the 250 cars the lot holds.

Every Wednesday the air-raid sirens are heard in Overbrook, Pennsylvania. The Civil Defense test also touches off a cooperative cleanup in which merchants, housewives, and citizens in all walks of life from around Philadelphia get together and spend fifteen minutes ridding their area of litter.

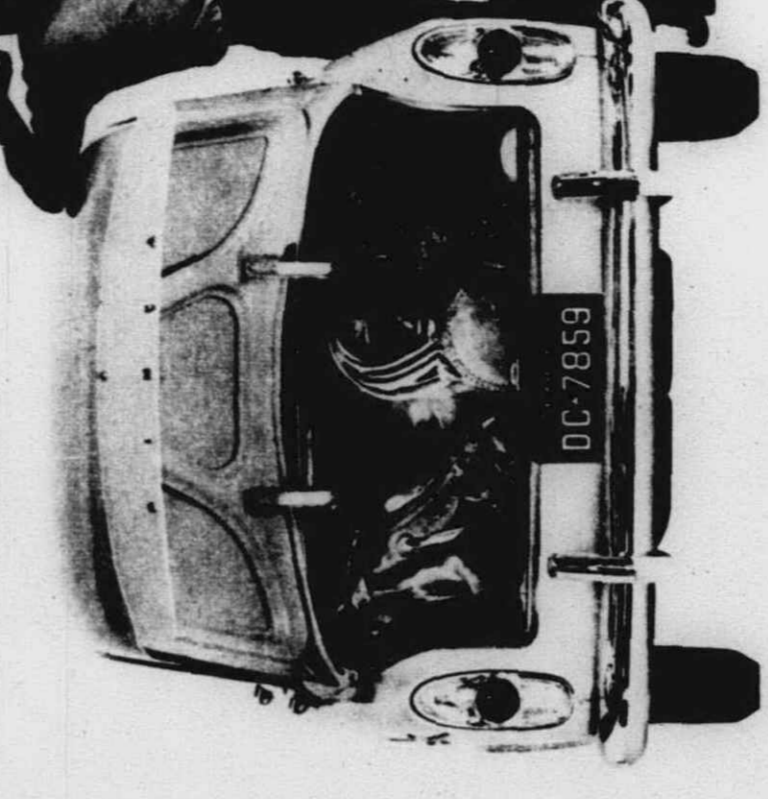

The late Vice-president Alben Barkley once did a hitch as assistant janitor in a Clinton, Kentucky, school. The site now bears a commemorative marker which reads, "Al Barkley Swept Here."

A Bethesda, Maryland, correspondent informs us that a seven-year-old of his acquaintance was asked to illustrate the song, "America The Beautiful," part of which goes, if you'll recall, "For purple mountain majesties, above the fruited plain." Well, the teacher recognized everything—the flag, the map, the purple mountains, and even the youngster's interpretation of "from sea to shining sea." The only puzzle in the entire series was a picture of an airplane covered with red and yellow balls. "Why," explained the artist, "that's the fruited plane."

A group of Locust Valley, New York, citizens love the theatre but found travel, dinner, and ticket expenses coming high. They solved their problem by forming a group and hiring a bus. Dinner is served to the group in Long Island, and then the chartered bus, equipped with a well-stocked bar and bartender, gets them to Manhattan just at curtain time.

Mr. Erle J. Grant, of Doraville, Georgia, wants the world to know that it still costs him twenty-five cents to get a first-class haircut. His barber has not changed prices in forty years, business is very good, and need we add that he's one of the most popular people in that part of the country?

Our Hamden, Connecticut, correspondent swears that the following is a true story: It seems that a few days after a rising young executive got a promotion and a larger office, a maintenance man came by with a pair of shears and cut away a neat 12-inch border of carpeting from all four sides of the room. On his way out he explained to his astounded on-looker, "Company Orders. Only vice-presidents and better get wall-to-wall carpeting."

Almost 12,000 babies have been photographed, within minutes of birth, through the Torrance, California, Memorial Hospital's Identifoto program. As soon as the new-born infant is dressed and put into its bassinette, the nurse wheels it under a special camera and takes its first picture. The baby's parents can then, if they choose, buy one or more pictures as mementos of the blessed event. The project was started in 1954 by the Women's Auxiliary and has since then enabled the ladies to donate about $8,000 worth of special equipment to the hospital's maternity wing.

Along with machines and gadgets that do everything these days but take your vacation for you, add a salt shaker you don't have to shake—the invention of one Matthew Zotas, of Brockton, Massachusetts. You just press a button, and air pressure does the rest.

What have you heard that's new, unusual, or funny? We pay $10 for each item we accept. Write to "Getting Around," SUBURBIA TODAY, 60 East 56th Street, New York 22, New York.

PANETTONE (FRUIT BREAD, MILAN STYLE)

Panettone is as traditional at Christmas in Italy as Stollen is in Germany. Wrap it on a decorative breadboard as a handsome gift.

TO PREPARE: 35 MIN. TO BAKE: 40-45 MIN.

- (allow about 4 1/2 hrs. for rising)
- 1 pkg. active dry yeast
  - 1/4 cup warm water (110°F to 115°F)
  - 1 cup butter, melted
  - 1 cup sugar
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - 2 cups sifted flour
  - 1/2 cup milk, scalded and cooled to lukewarm
  - 2 eggs
  - 4 egg yolks
  - 3 1/2 cups sifted flour
  - 1 cup dark seedless raisins
  - 1/2 cup chopped citron
  - 1/2 cup flour
  - 1 egg, slightly beaten
  - 1 tablespoon water

1. Soften yeast in the warm water; let stand 10 min.
2. Pour melted butter into large bowl of electric mixer. Add the sugar and salt gradually, beating well after each addition.
3. Beating thoroughly after each addition, alternately add the 2 cups flour in thirds and lukewarm milk in halves to the butter mixture. Add softened yeast and beat well.
4. Combine eggs and egg yolks and beat until thick and piled softly. Add the beaten eggs all at one time to yeast mixture and beat well. Beating thoroughly after each addition, gradually add the 3 1/2 cups flour. Stir in raisins and citron.
5. Sift one-half of the remaining flour over a pastry cloth or board. Turn dough onto floured surface, cover with waxed paper, and let stand 10 min.
6. Sift remaining flour over dough. Pull dough from edges toward center until flour is worked in. Put dough into a greased large bowl, grease top of dough, and cover with waxed paper and a towel. Let stand in a warm place (about 80°F) about 2 1/2 hrs.
7. Punch down dough and pull edges of dough in to center. Let rise in a warm place about 1 hr.
8. Divide dough into halves and shape each half into a round loaf. Put each loaf into a well-greased 8-in. round pan. Brush surfaces generously with a mixture of slightly beaten egg and water. Cover with waxed paper and towel. Let rise in a warm place, about 1 hr.
9. Bake at 350°F 40 to 45 min., or until golden brown. Remove loaves from pans to cooling racks to cool.

ISCHL COOKIES

Gaily decorate a basket and fill it with these cookies, originally created at Emperor Franz Josef's summer residence in Ischl, Austria.

TO PREPARE: 30 MIN. TO BAKE: 12 MIN.

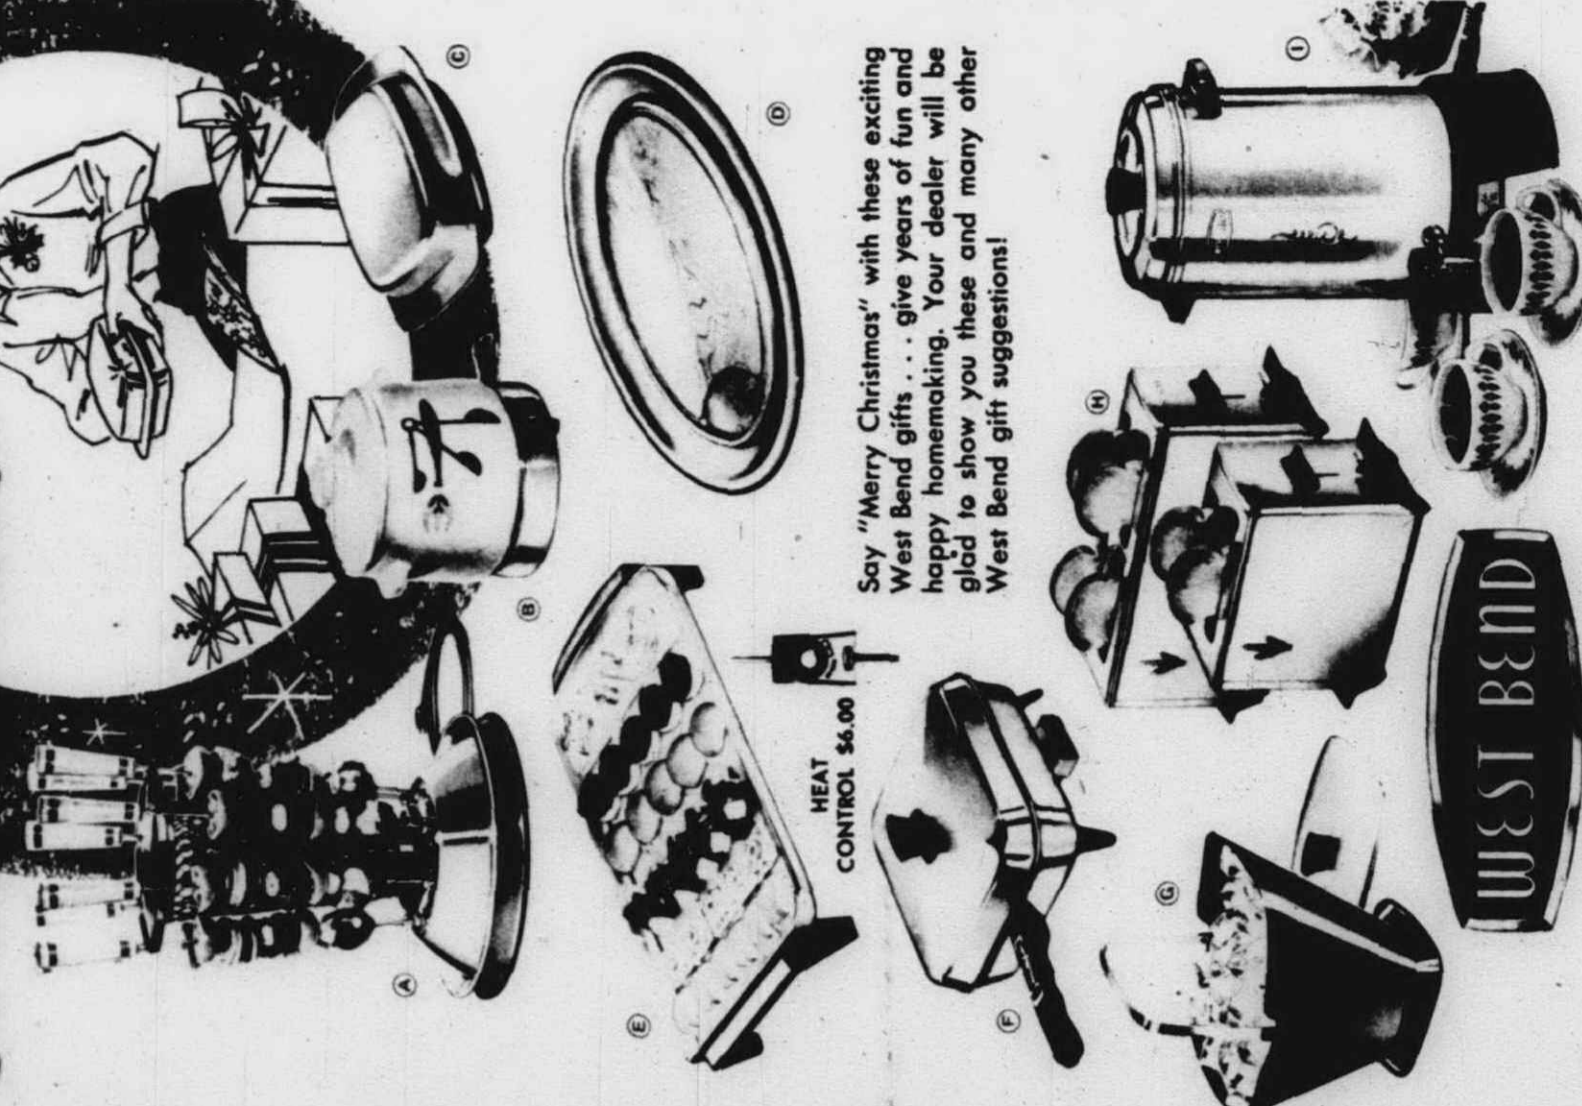

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 2/3 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon

- 1/2 cup (about 4 oz.) unblanched almonds, grated (about 2 cups, grated)
- 1 1/2 cups currant jelly

1. Sift first four ingredients together and blend to distribute spices evenly. Mix in the grated nuts.
2. Cut in the butter with a pastry blender or two knives until mixture becomes a soft dough (requires working beyond the stage when knead lightly with finger tips until mixture holds together).
3. Put one-third of the dough on a lightly floured surface. Roll about 1/4 in. thick. Cut out cookies with lightly floured cutter. Transfer one-half of the cookies to baking sheets. From each of the remaining cookies, cut out 3 rounds, about 1/4 to 1/2 in. in diameter. Transfer cookies to baking sheets.

THE BAD CHILDREN

BY SHIRLEY JACKSON, author of "The Lottery," "The Haunting of Hill House," etc.

MY CAREER as a playwright is over, thank you. I am going back to the writing of novels, where I belong. I have tasted the infectious joys of the drama, and it is not for me.

I didn't want or mean or intend or even try to write a play. At first, I was only a not-very-interested observer; my children and a group of their friends thought that they would like to put on a play, a fever which I believe can strike any group of children at any time, and they went about it in the completely practical manner in which children do go about these things—first they chose their costumes, and then they decided where they would give their play and how much they would charge to get in, and then they quarreled for a while over who could be in it and who couldn't, and then went looking for a play.

My older daughter came to me and asked me if I had any idea what play they could put on, and I, being engaged in some terribly important activity like frosting a cake, said absently that I believed they might try the library, where they would surely find a dozen volumes of one-act plays for children. My daughter went off. I finished frosting my cake and went out and got the evening paper and was sitting quietly reading when my daughter came back and stood compellingly in front of me.

"Listen to this," she said, and lifted a book and read in a high singsong voice: "I fear me, good husband, that this wretched hut of ours will not long withstand the rigors of the wintry blast."

"What?" I said.

"It means she thinks their house is going to fall down," Jannie said.

"Why does she have to say it like that?" I asked.

"Because it's in the play. If we want to do that play we have to say junk like that. Or listen to this one: 'I am Lafayette, a gentleman of noble birth, and I have left my homeland and come to this new country to aid General Washington in this great battle against tyranny.'"

"Hard to get out in one breath," I said.

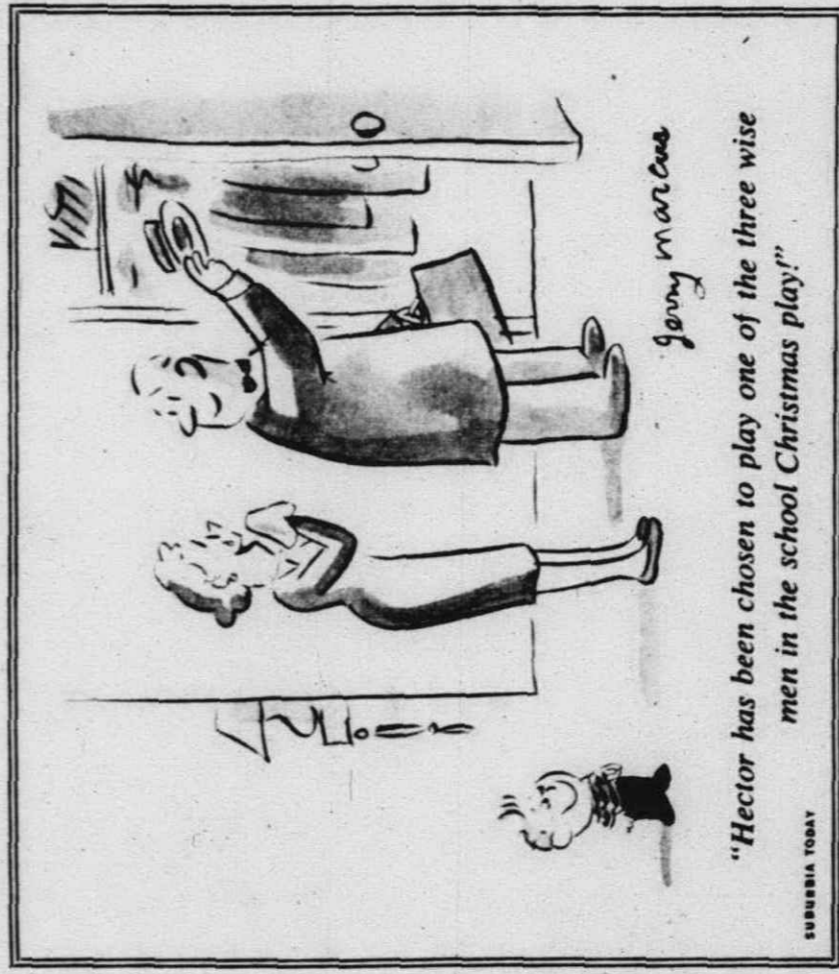

"We want a play of our own," Jannie said. "We want something where we can talk naturally and enjoy ourselves. With a good part for everybody and not much trouble over costumes, and funny. You're a writer," she said. "You write a play for us."

"No," I said.

"You just write it. We'll put in all the acting."

I had a strong feeling that this is how Shakespeare must have started—his kids came around teasing him to write them a play with a good big part for everybody, and funny. I said that I had never written a play before, and that about the best I could do was dramatize a familiar fairy tale, trying to make it funny and to make the language and action as unstilted as I could. They thought that would be fine.

Since their acting group included a couple of ten-year-olds, as well as several older children, I thought that a story like Hansel and Gretel might be a good choice, providing at least two parts for the younger ones, and because I have always been particularly resentful of Hansel and Gretel anyway. I feel strongly that two children who go around eating other people's houses ought to be spanked, not rescued. I thought it would be nice to see Hansel and Gretel get what was coming to them. After all, that witch probably paid taxes on her gingerbread house and had to put out just as much money as the rest of us for mending leaks in the roof and getting the place painted, and here these two kids come along and do a tremendous amount of damage and then go off blithely and live happily ever after. I decided that I had better not make the witch altogether sympathetic, because that might get all the fairy tale people after me, so I made her into a kind of progressive-type witch, full of new ideas about using frozen magic potions (you just drop them into boiling water) and earnestly keeping up with all the new inventions in witchcraft.

"Hector has been chosen to play one of the three wise men in the school Christmas play."

I had to put in an enchanter, to accommodate an older boy in our cast, and I thought I might do well to make the enchanter a lazy, old-fashioned type, so that he and the witch could quarrel contently about whose magic was better.

I made Hansel and Gretel into the two most objectionable children I could imagine, whining and insolent and greedy. Then I set up for the mother and father a pair of bewildered, helpless parents, who wanted their children to be well-mannered and nice, but nothing seemed to help. The parents pointed out that they had joined the P.T.A. and the Little League and bought Girl Scout cookies and paid for tickets to the Junior Prom and given the children bicycles for Christmas and gone to the Class Play and helped out with Home Ec., and still the children were bad. They were just kind of mixed-up and tired parents, like all parents.

I had a wonderful time writing it. Every time I thought of something my children do that I can't stand—and there's a lot of it—I put it in for Hansel and Gretel. As I went along I thought of a little song that Hansel and Gretel could sing; it went like this:

You're mean . . . you're mean . . .
You're bad . . . you're bad . . .
You're a pig . . . you're a pig . . .
I won't play with you.

I found that it went quite nicely to a simple little tune, and as I wandered around the house picking things up I caught myself whistling it.

I brought a carefully-typed copy of the play into the kitchen where my children were sitting around the table, occupying themselves with homework, crayons, and building blocks. "Here," I said, and fled.

After a few minutes I could hear them laughing, and I thought contentedly that they had come to the quarrel between the witch and the enchanter which comes early in the play, and I was glad they thought it was funny. Then I heard Jannie saying "Hey, listen to this, everybody," and she read, in a dismal, tearful voice, a line which went, "Children, we'll never get our work done today if you don't stop quarrelling . . ."

"No, no," I said, hurrying into the kitchen. "Jannie, that line is spoken by the mother—she doesn't whine like that."

Wives and children should travel Economy — and husbands should go De Luxe

pany of children that stay up all night. Economy is half the price of De Luxe.

Since both classes arrive at the same time, I suggest, in order to save money, wives and children should travel Economy, and husbands should go De Luxe.

In my case this was vetoed as soon as it was presented, and I was forced to travel in Economy class, which is a very sobering experience, even at thirty-seven thousand feet.

As I mentioned before, Economy class has three seats across on each side of the aisle. While this serves the purpose of Pan American very well, it does present problems to the passengers.

It is very rare that three people are traveling together, and most people are either traveling alone, in twos, or in fours. The main problem when traveling with another person is which two out of three seats to take.

My wife was all right, since she had two of the children on her side of the aisle. But I was stuck on the other side with my six-year-old son. He chose to sit next to the window, I sat in the middle, and a stranger was foolish enough to sit on the seat on the aisle.

As soon as everyone had eaten and the stranger had dozed off, my son said, "I have to go."

"Why didn't you go before the lights were turned out?"

"I didn't have to go then," he replied. My son woke up the man by the simple process of almost breaking his leg.

When we returned after several runs up and down the aisle, we woke up the stranger again to get back in the seats.

An hour later my son, after playing with the light, the air conditioning, and the buzzer for the stewardess, declared, "I want a drink of water."

"You don't need a drink of water," I whispered.

"I do too," he cried. Having the choice of either waking up the stranger or everyone else on the plane, we chose the former, and once again pushed our way over his tangled feet.

LATER MY SON said he wanted to tell his mother something.

"Tell her when we get to Paris."

"I want to tell her now."

"Shout it to her."

"It's a secret."

This time when the stranger was awakened, he was pretty mad.

"Why don't you sit by the window," I suggested, "and we'll sit on the aisle."

He grunted, mumbled a few words, and moved over next to the window. I stayed in the middle, and my son was placed on the aisle.

Finally the boy went to sleep, and so did I. But after a half-hour we were both rudely awakened. The stranger was trying to get past us to the aisle.

"I have to go," he explained apologetically.

It's enough to make a man bring his own flask.

The Jet Age

BY ART BUCHWALD

WE ARE LIVING, so all the ads read, in the jet age. In the next few years jet airliners will be streaking across the sky, making it possible for people to have breakfast in London, breakfast in New York, breakfast in Los Angeles, and breakfast in Tokyo all in the same day. A whole new vista is opening for people who like big breakfasts.

Recently I flew the Pan American Boeing 707 jet from Paris to New York and then back again. It gave me an opportunity to see the jet in action, and also gave Pan American a chance to test the cabin under the stress of three very young and violent children.

Both the children and the cabin survived the trip, and as a parent I can recommend the flight. But I'm not sure the pilot can recommend the children.

There are two classes on a 707 jet—De luxe and Economy. The front of the plane is reserved for De luxe passengers and the back for Economy. De luxe has the following advantages: You go up the same ramp as the pilot and his crew; you have roomy seats; you're plied with liquor and hot hors d'oeuvres, and served a sumptuous meal prepared by Maxim's (there is usually an orchid on your plate), and there is a bar open all night.

Economy has these advantages: You go up the same ramp as the stewardesses; you have seats three abreast; you are not plied with liquor (you can't get or buy a drink in Economy); you are served large sandwiches and coffee, and you have the com-

"You're mean," Sally sang, and Barry answered, "You're mean."
"You're a monster."
"You're awful."
"You're awful."

"I won't play with you." Something had gone terribly wrong with my play. As soon as it got into the hands of the children it altered. It became hideously clear that my poor tired mother and father were going to be the comedy relief. When the lines were read in a slightly exaggerated style, they became self-pitying and dreary. The witch and the enchanter had become the powerful central figures. Hansel and Gretel, that frightful pair, were regarded as sensible, charming children, and everyone wanted to play every part. My little moral lesson about nice children had faded like yesterday's flowers.

Worse, the children were so pleased with the spiteful little song that they wanted more songs, particularly a song for the witch to sing—Jannie rather fancied herself on stage belting out a solo number—and a song to close the play. My older son, who is by way of being a trumpet player, volunteered to write the music if I would write the words. My first efforts were rejected without discussion. It was then decided unanimously (my vote not counted) that the song the enchanter sings must be a real low-down blues, to be called That Mean Old Wizard Blues, and to open with the lines: "I want a rich witch, baby, no others need apply..."

WHILE I SAT there with my jaw hanging, the blues somehow got itself composed and firmly embedded in the family culture. I wrote a heartfelt little number called "What Wonderful Parents We've Been," for the mother and father, and Laurie set it to a comically lugubrious tune.

I began to perceive why the plays written for children are so firmly held down to the I-am-Lafayette-a-gentleman-of-noble-birth kind of thing. I had been indulging myself in a little sardonic humor at the expense of parents and children and fairy tales, and the children had taken it into their own hands and—because parents and children and fairy tales are the stuff with which children deal so intimately—turned it into a statement of their own about the world and their place in it, and all the sardonic humor had become their own. They found a deep satisfaction in the wicked children and the whimpering parents, the selfish witch and the lazy enchanter, and to go with all of this they wanted the excitement of fast, heady music and a far-out drum. It got through to me even more vividly when I found out what had happened to the end of my song about the wonderful parents; I had ended it with some trifling, amiable couplet, but now it read: "And what are we now, for our time and our prayers, our science fairs and cleaner airs and Papa Bears and anxious cares?—Squares."

I made one desperate, ineffectual attempt to rescue the play and my moral lesson; I wrote an ending to it, in which by means of magic Hansel and Gretel are transformed into sweet, dear, good, kind, little kiddies. The children threw it right out again. Hansel and Gretel stay horrid to the end.

Now, beyond anything else, I am desperately afraid that they are going to try to perform the play. I am quite sure that we will be everlastingly disgraced if this souped-up fairy tale finds its cynical way onto a stage, and the thought that I am the official author terrifies me. I have suggested halfheartedly that they do "Pinafore" instead; I have schemed and contrived to have the production put off until the fall school term on the grounds that it is too late in the year for any large-scale production, and I have secret hopes that some overwhelming new fad will sweep the country before fall. Unfortunately, the songs have gotten out, and I listen to little children going past our house on their way to school singing "You're mean . . . you're mean," and my own children and their friends do not tire of quoting lines to one another endlessly.

In spite of every obstacle that I can put in their way, they have their cast and their parts, and everyone shows up for every rehearsal. They are using our barn for a theatre; when I pointed out that the barn was too dark, too drafty, and too dirty, they cleaned it out, hung old blankets over the windows, and arranged a set of footlights out of flashlights. I said that maybe just the mommies and daddies ought to be invited, but there is a suspiciously great massing of benches and old garden chairs along one side of the barn. The enchanter is going to wear a derby hat. Hansel and Gretel have decided, after much deliberation, to wear cowboy suits. The mother and father are joyfully ripping apart old shirts to deck themselves in rags. The witch is wearing high-heeled shoes, and she carries a long cigarette holder. Everyone shows up for every rehearsal.

I got the last word, for what it is worth. Since I wrote the play, I insisted on the right to title it. It is called "The Bad Children; a play for bad children."

"Now you're the daddy and I'm trying to keep you alive."

Women Play Better Bridge!

BY HELEN SOBEL

The world's leading female bridge player gets the last word—almost

CHARLES GOREN was the first one to say that women make better players than men. Since Mr. Goren is a man and also our number-one ranking player, his gallant statement might seem a little hard to prove. But in some ways, I really think we women are better!

Through the years, men have not exactly encouraged women to use their brains. The kitchen seemed a nice, safe place for them. Consequently, devious things have taken place, and not only at the bridge table. The effect has been to make us women more acute and no doubt, much happier. And better players.

There are also several psychological factors involved.

If a charming, attractive woman is at the table, for example, our hero may ask himself, "My, my, what in the world is she doing here?"

After some admiring glances, amiable chitchat, and lighting of her cigarette, the bidding finally gets under way.

By this time, he may not be paying his customary attention to his hand and will find himself a trick or two too high. There are not too many susceptible men around, more's the pity, but the woman who meets one across the bridge table starts ahead of the game.

Another male opponent, much less enjoyable, is the aggressive, hopes-to-be-overpowering kind, who not only doesn't light your cigarette, but if you aren't quick, will put it out. Such tactics at the bridge table frequently cause a normally placid, easygoing lady to outdo herself completely. I remember watching a game at a club where this happened.

The lady in question was a visitor from another city, and though she knew quite a few members, she was not, naturally, completely at ease.

The first crack out of the box was the announcement that the game was for pretty high stakes. And in a rather patronizing way she was told that,

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

The opening lead by the visitor was the ace of clubs, followed by the deuce.

Declarer won in dummy with the king of clubs, discarding a heart from his hand.

He then led the singleton heart, winning with the ace in his hand, and ruffed a heart in dummy.

Now, of course, his problem was how to get back to his hand to ruff his remaining heart. The opening lead of the ace of clubs, followed by another, surely looked like a doubleton. So he played the ace and king of diamonds, intending to return to his hand by ruffing another diamond.

Well, here is where West's really inspired play occurred. Without a blink or hesitation, she dropped the queen of diamonds on the king.

That brought declarer up short. He mulled about the situation for a while and finally came to the conclusion, I suppose, that it was more likely she had only two diamonds than that she would drop the queen if she could help it.

So he led a club and trumped with the eight of spades, which was promptly overtrumped with the nine.

A trump was returned, and now there was no way South could find to make his contract. He had already lost two tricks, and was obliged to lose a spade and a heart.

I really felt sorry for the poor fellow. He played the hand the way almost anyone would have, but was just outsmarted by a very determined woman. Incidentally, her side won the rubber on the next deal.

As you have probably gathered by now, I tend to be taken with a bit of ethical flimflamming whenever it is possible. The dividends are high, and it makes for a lovely day.

as she probably wouldn't want to play for that much, she could be carried.

But nothing daunted, after a small gulp, she said, "No, no, I'll play for the same stakes as everyone else."

Perhaps I've underestimated her, and she would have defended the same way in any case. But I think a little irritant is sometimes very helpful.

This is the hand—South dealer, neither side vulnerable:

Two hundred deodars, covered with thousands of bright Yule lights, make up the magic of Christmas Tree Lane.

them to Christmas Tree Lane. So he built an impressive, 20-foot illuminated star above his home. The star, too, became a landmark, visible on clear nights from the distant city of Los Angeles.

Then, eight years ago a group of mothers were inspired to create still another Christmas fantasy—this one to appeal primarily to children. They called their project Story Book Lane and formed their own association to devise ideas and pool talent. Housewives, clerks, professional men, and older children borrowed a vacant lot on which to construct the cardboard and plywood Mother Goose characters, Hansel and Gretel settings, and other fairy-tale "productions" which would come alive under colored spotlights on fifty lawns and rooftops at nightfall.

"Every year we wonder if anyone will be willing to do all the work and put up with the inconvenience of staging another Story Book Lane," says Mrs. Clarence McFarland, an Altadena post-office employe who helped found this particular institution. "Then the children start getting excited about Christmas, and asking us when we're going to get to work. It's their enthusiasm that keeps alive our Christmas spirit and makes it worthwhile!"

And that's the spirit that hovers over the entire town. For the local Rotary Club in cooperation with the community newspaper, The Altadenan, now sponsors an annual home decoration contest that takes in the whole of Altadena. Hundreds of homes light up during the Yuletide with Santa Claus vignettes at the chimneys, elves dancing on the lawns, replicas of the Manger and the Wise Men traveling toward the Star of Bethlehem, garlands bedecked with jeweled lights and tinsel, king-size candy canes; and wreaths of eastern holly. . . .

ALONG ABOUT the time the Lamplighters set the lantern wicks aglow against the "teatime sky," just off the main business district yet another outdoor event is readied every year by the Theatre Americana troupe, joined for the holiday occasion by service clubs and professional and amateur talent. This is Christmas in Our Town Square, a musical pageant which traditionally blends regional lore with the sacred spirit of Christmas. Professional Hollywood set designers, musicians, and actors often work side by side with PTA members, shopkeepers, ministers, and neighbors from all walks of life to produce the pageant.

Churches of all denominations, meanwhile, as in small towns across the face of America, have their own Christmas season programs and pageantry. One of the most widely known is the block-long sidewalk tableau staged by St. Elizabeth's Church—a display of life-size scenes from the life of Christ, softly lighted and in a natural setting, which bears a resemblance to far-away Jerusalem. Altadenans don't seem to mind the work, though. Already they have started writing invitations to friends in all 50 states, asking them to drop around this coming Christmas time. There's one thing sure about Altadena's Christmas card. It won't fit into any ordinary envelope!

giant landmarks, and some 30 years ago Altadenans began decorating the trees with thousands of multicolored Yule lights.

Thus was established the annual tradition of Christmas Tree Lane, a week-long nighttime phenomenon of nature and man which over the years has drawn several million entranced tourists.

Down Christmas Tree Lane, processions of cars coast slowly, with their lights out and motors cut. For the mile's silent, awe-inspiring duration of this unique Christmas pilgrimage, even old-timers find themselves in the spell of a holy forest.

Yet, behind the scenes of the event there's plenty of hard work, perseverance, and unselfish contribution of time and money required. County firemen volunteer services in stringing the lights from precarious 100-foot ladders. Boy Scouts join sheriff's deputies in directing the heavy traffic. A nonprofit association composed of leading businessmen and clubwomen has tirelessly solicited funds and taken over the preplanning chores.

Give the gift of friendship... of V. S. 23

"Give her a mink for her birthday; a mink for her birthday; a mink for her birthday..."

Among many wonderful hands I remember, this is one of my favorites:

NORTH	SOUTH
♠ 10854	♠ A
♥ 754	♥ 86
♦ 432	♦ AKQJ765
♣ 10	♣ 10

North is dealer, both vulnerable. The bidding:

North	West
♠ 2	♠ 10854
♥ 3	♥ 8
♦ 4	♦ 8
♣ 6	♣ 8

Opening lead—king of hearts. I was playing South's hand, and our preponderance of high cards, plus my eight-long suit, made it impossible to stay out of slam.

Still, we could have been set. Unfortunately for us, West's heart holding was such that he had no problem about his lead.

My partner, who had bid the hand so beautifully, still had no re-entry for me with the heart opening.

So there I was with two losing diamonds in my hand, and two winning spades in dummy. On the surface, I couldn't get to them, but supposing I didn't win the king of hearts—would he continue? Well, I didn't and he did, as who would not? So I won the second heart with the ace and discarded my ace of spades and was then able to get rid of my two small diamonds on the king and queen of spades.

Squeezes are for girls, too, as you shall see. This is the hand, and North and South, who happen to be women, are playing against the men.

WEST	EAST
♠ 72	♠ K853
♥ 64	♥ 3
♦ J108762	♦ AQ95
♣ 765	♣ J1098

The bidding, North dealer:

North	East	South	West
♠ 1	♠ Double	♠ Redouble	♠ Pass
♥ 3	♥ Pass	♥ 2	♥ Pass
♦ 4	♦ Pass	♦ 4	♦ Pass
♣ 4	♣ Pass	♣ 6	♣ Pass

Though North had a minimum holding, her hand improved with each of South's bids. Consequently, her 4-diamond bid, which shows either 1st-or-2nd-round control, was very good indeed. A slam was not necessarily in the bag.

However, nothing is certain, particularly at the bridge table.

West opened with his diamond jack and East won dummy's king with his ace, and returned a trump.

South won with her ace, and ruffed her losing diamond.

She then led a heart from dummy, overtaking in her hand, and led the queen of spades. West played low, and South, instead of taking the finesse, went up with the ace and returned to her hand with a trump. She then ran all trumps but one, coming down to this situation:

NORTH	WEST	EAST
♠ 9	♠ KO43	♠ K
♥ 7	♥ 7	♥ J1098
♦ 8	♦ 765	♦ 8
♣ J10	♣ 8	♣ A2

The last trump was led, and the spade thrown from dummy.

East was now in the unpleasant position of having to discard his spade king or his fourth club. He conceded the slam to the lady.

Bridge wouldn't be the game it is without these titillating and challenging situations that constantly arise. It makes lots of dull hands bearable just to have some of the "spectaculars."

Well, fun's fun, but I suppose sooner or later we'll just have to admit it—men are really very good players, too! (Sometimes they show remarkable insight.) And the woman who plays her cards right may receive an invitation to play with one of them in the next tournament.

"I want a credit card."
