Civic Leaders Take Look Into 1961

Few Entering Contest For Heights Jobs

There will be many vacant spots on the Plymouth Heights ballot Tuesday, Jan. 17 for the 13 jobs needed to run the proposed new city that would surround the City of Plymouth.

As The Mail went to press Wednesday afternoon, only one person had actually filed for a post. He was John D. McEwen, 44475 Governor Bradford, who is seeking the job of mayor.

Township Clerk Fred L. Miller said that several other petitions have been taken out, but whether they would all be filed by the 5 p.m. deadline was not known. He said that it was obvious that there would not be enough filed to fill all of the vacancies.

Whether those seeking the jobs actually take over the jobs if elected depends upon approval of the charter. Electors must approve the charter, also on the ballot, before the proposed city becomes a reality. If the charter fails, those winning office will automatically be out of a job. Jobs are open for a mayor, clerk, treasurer, seven councilmen, municipal judge, and two constables.

None of the present officeholders, including Supervisor Roy Lindsay, appear to be interested in the Plymouth Heights offices. Despite the fact that there are a number of offices available without candidates, this will not affect the Jan. 17 election. Provision will be made, as usual, on the voting machines that will allow the writing-in of candidates' names.

Those receiving the highest number of votes win the election — that is, if the charter is approved. Under provisions of the Plymouth Heights charter, there will be primary elections with the exception of the first one this January when an unlimited number of candidates may run for each office.

But while the Township clerk's office is carrying out the preliminary work for the Heights election, it must also go on with the regular Township Biennial election.

The Biennial Primary is Feb. 20 across the state. Nominating petitions for this election must be filed by 4 p.m. next Monday, Jan. 2.

Although this is a holiday, City Clerk Joseph Near and Township Clerk Miller will be at their offices all day to accept petitions up until 4 p.m. In the City, there apparently will be a large field of candidates filing for the four Commission vacancies and a one job on the Board of Supervisors.

Present Township Board members have filed their petitions. They are all Republicans. Democrats have also taken out some petitions and are expected to offer a slate covering most of the major offices, according to one spokesman.

More Than Ever Get Help at Christmas

The prayer of a Salem family that they in a somehow have a Christmas dinner was miraculously answered by the Salvation Army last Saturday as they and the Plymouth Goodfellows performed their annual task of bringing some seasonal happiness to the less fortunate.

Capt. John Cunard revealed the story yesterday as he attempted to bring together the results of the Salvation Army's effort during the pre-Christmas week. member whose normal job is that of a steam engineer at the Wayne County Training School, lives in the Salem area. He had planned to take a box-load of food to the Salem family as he returned home after working all Saturday morning handing out food boxes. But when he arrived at the Salem family's home, they reported that they had already picked up the box themselves.

Bell phoned back to Capt. Cunard and wanted to know what to do with the box.

"Check around and see if there might be a family in need," Capt. Cunard answered. So Bell went to a store in Salem to find out if they had any names to suggest. They reported that there was indeed a family that lived nearby

Each year at this time, The Plymouth Mail turns to those who hold key civic positions to find out what they foresee during the approaching year.

Answering the question this year were Superintendent of Schools Russell Isbister, Plymouth Township Supervisor Roy Lindsay, City Mayor Harold Guenther and the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce president, George Lawton.

In general, the four men predict some important decisions in 1961. The incorporation question, which was scheduled for last November, has been postponed until Jan. 17. The proposed community college, water for the township and several new businesses and industries for the City were all seen as coming during the next 12 months.

Building Projects Ahead for Schools

This year electors in the Plymouth Community School District went to the polls and approved a Building and Site Sinking Fund. During the coming year, Superintendent of Schools Russell Isbister foresees, the Board of Education will be busy many nights putting the money from this fund to work.

The superintendent also expects voters to be faced with the important decision of whether to set up a community college in Northwestern Wayne County.

Two major building projects will be undertaken in 1961. The first phase of a new junior high school will be started on April 1. This school will be constructed at Sheldon Rd. and Ann Arbor Trail and the superintendent estimates that it will be two-thirds completed by the end of the year. It should be ready for occupancy by September 1962.

Also scheduled for 1961 will be many alterations to the Senior High. The 42-year-old building must undergo alterations to fulfill the requirements of the State Fire Marshal's office. Work estimated at $266,590 is planned. Bids will soon be taken on this job. The community college vote will probably be the only school election facing voters, except for the usual Board of Education contest in June. Six school districts, Redford Union, South Redford, Farmington, Livonia, Garden City and Plymouth, will stage an election sometime in the spring. Electors will be asked to approve the establishment of a community college.

Supt. Isbister estimates that schools will open in September next year with over 5,000 pupils. Official enrollment last September was 4,879.

Around Feb. 1, the superintendent feels that the new multi-purpose room at Starkweather School will be opened — a facility long-awaited by children and parents in that district.

The Board of Education will continue its evaluation of the total education program next year, Supt. Isbister said. Departments are called in periodically to present a review of their work and make suggestions on how improvements can be made. The Board expects to expand its summer school program next summer by providing more credit courses for high school students.

Supervisor Likes Township Status

Looking forward to the expansion of the water system in Plymouth Township this coming year, Supervisor Roy Lindsay isn't pulling for the City of Plymouth Heights' proposal on the ballot Jan. 17.

The charter proposal to form a new city for the eastern half of the Township is naturally the most important event facing Township people in the new year. Curiously though, not a whole lot of interest has been shown, for it seems that few seriously believe that the charter will be approved.

Supervisor Lindsay sums it up like this: "I would prefer it to remain a Township. We've got a good program going now and there would be no object at this time in forming a city. Everything is under control as far as health and welfare of the Township is concerned."

It was the lack of water and sewer that brought about the annexation-incorporation difficulties in the first place. Industry, business and subdividers wanted to use vacant Township land but the Township couldn't offer the two vital services — water and sewer. As a result, some property-owners asked to have land annexed to the City of Plymouth, which had a policy against extending water across the boundary.

To halt this movement, a petition to incorporate a new City of Plymouth Heights was filed. This has held up further annexation petitions for the past two years.

Now, the Township has sewer in the eastern half and the water system is promised this year. After the water is installed, the supervisor expects "big things."

"If economic conditions don't stop us (the Township) is in good position to invite good industry in. This will be our object in the coming year. We will extend our water to any industry interested in locating here. Naturally we will get some housing, too. All of this, of course, will be delayed until the

City Tax Statements Finally Issued; No Increase this Time

While most people were anticipating some bills after Christmas, City property-owners found an unexpected bill in their mail boxes Tuesday — their annual City tax statement.

Scheduled to be issued each July, the City bills were delayed six months while the City government settles an argument with the State Tax Commission and Wayne County Board of Taxation.

City Treasurer Kenneth Way received the bills, printed by the Board of Taxation, last week and put them in the mail Saturday. They were received by most property-holders Tuesday.

The bills may be paid until Feb. 3 without penalty. After that, two percent is added. The total tax amount receivable is $396,900.

In most cases, the bills will be the same as last year. The City Commission had agreed to "hold the line" on City taxes this year. Some bills, however, will be somewhat higher or lower due to individual property readjustments.

Ordinarily property-owners would be receiving their county-school tax bills this month. But the City still has an application before the State Supreme Court upon which it will be determined if the City can appeal its equalization case to the high court. The court was to review the application Dec. 20 but was postponed while attorneys for Willis Hall, a co-plaintiff with the City, and City Attorney Harry Deyo submit more briefs.

The City appealed its equalization by the County Board of Taxation last July. City Commissioners have felt that

IT'S A REAL electrifying experience — not skating near the Detroit Edison Substation at Farmer and Theodore Streets, but ice skating in near-zero weather. Chamber Foresees Rapid Changes

Next year will be an important one in Plymouth's rapidly-changing history, Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce President George Lawton declared this week as he joined those looking into 1961.

During the year, he noted, Plymouth area people will face at least two important issues which he feels will change the future of the community however they are resolved.

"The first issue will be the vote on whether or not to form a new City of Plymouth Heights," Lawton pointed out. "If the proposed city were approved, every indication is that our future might be one of living in one of two second-rate cities. Judging from available facts, it would appear that the new city would be of no advantage to residents, business or industry."

The Chamber president added that the second important issue will be the vote on whether to form a community college (see school forecast). "Our Chamber of Commerce has a committee studying this issue at the present time," Lawton declared.

"The information will be made available as soon as the study is complete."

Lawton believes that 1961 will find more and more metropolitan area residents shopping in Plymouth's stores. "With improved parking, a wider selection of goods and the hometown friendliness, it should be a pleasant year for both customers and business."

Jan. 1 will also see the sales tax increase from three per cent to four per cent.

Population, business and industry will continue to thrive in Plymouth in '61, Lawton asserts. "Wheel Trueing and Detroit Mutual Insurance Co. are among those making new homes here. Many of our existing businesses will also be growing into new buildings during the year.

"Plymouth can look for a year of improved service facilities, steady industrial growth and an increase in stores for comparison shopping.

"Our ability and willingness to face the issues before us will have a tremendous bearing on the future of the greater Plymouth community."

Business, Industry Comes to City

"We are not a community given to dramatic and explosive type accomplishments," Mayor Harold Guenther declared as he looked ahead toward the next 12 months.

"We are a mature community with many deep roots. The character and conduct of our people, civic leaders, government are merely expressions of our total community personality."

Some of the material advancements seen next year will be the coming of the Wheel Trueing Co. and the Detroit Mutual Insurance Co. to Plymouth. Wheel Trueing will build across the road from Burroughs Corp. while work has already started on a new home office for Detroit Mutual on Plymouth Rd.

The mayor foresees revitalizing and far-reaching work and expenditures in the business community. There will be, for instance, a new shopping center in the southwest corner of the city at Sheldon and Ann Arbor Rd. And businessmen and the City are working toward more off-street parking.

Such new construction, however, "is simply expressions of faith by others in our stability and future," Mayor Guenther pointed out. "These accomplishments actually took place last year and the years before.

"The real accomplishments of 1961" will be just as difficult to discern for they will lie in the quiet and orderly efforts of many people and organizations perpetuating and expanding our institutions of school, religious life, of dedicated service clubs, of our Chamber of Commerce, of social, civic and entertainment organizations and of democratically sensitive government cooperating with civic and business leaders.

"It is my conviction Ray Eppert, president of our Burroughs Corp., in his address to us a few weeks back, wisely and deftly pointed out the single over-riding need for our community: This community must maintain its present governmental status and relationship as a base for positive and cooperative efforts that will protect our Community from the dilutions of personality and character that threaten us from explosive population increase.

"Plymouth is a unique and fine community," the mayor concluded, "and there are many healthy signs it will continue to expand in an orderly and stable manner and will continue to remain peculiarly Plymouth."

John Nelsons Host Clan

Children, grandchildren and great grandchildren gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Nelson on Arthur St. Christmas Eve. There was an exchange of gifts followed by a holiday lunch.

The newest great-grandchild, tiny Shannon Bennett, was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital Friday evening to be put under oxygen. She is the daughter of Deanna and Dan Bennett of Garden City. Their small son, Scott, came with them. The report from the hospital Christmas Eve was very favorable and joyously received by the gathering. Six-month-old Nelson Wohn came with his young sister, Charlotte, and parents Jacky and John Nelson Wohn from Wayne. Jerry and Betty Nelson brought their three daughters and year-old son from their new home in Livonia. Jessie and John Wohn, together with son Ron and daughter Kay of Plymouth joined the family group.

This was the first occasion some of the cousins had to see newer members of the family.

By JEAN CAMPAU

Scanning the back issues of 1960 Plymouth Mails seemed a good way to serve a two-fold purpose, that of re-awakening thoughts for my readers on events of things past and to familiarize myself with names and places in your lovely community.

Do you remember when—the Salvation Army's Kettle and Letter appeal of a year ago raised $1,176.33 from local business places for charitable purposes? These contributions warmed many hearts as they provided checks, groceries and toys for needy families and clothing and goodies for children, patients at Northville State Hospital and more than 200 people in convalescent and rest homes.

Archie and Celia Herrick of Bradner Rd., were honored at their daughter's home, the U. R. Sutins, with a celebration commemorating their 61st wedding anniversary. Mrs. Herrick was born and raised on a farm which has since become the site of the Detroit House of Correction and Mr. Herrick is the son of early Redford settlers.

1960 was the year the Plymouth High School graduation class of 1920 had a reunion-tea that marked their 40th year since that memorable day.

The Plymouth Branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Club held its annual potluck picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fisher of Amherst Rd. On this occasion husbands were the guests.

Wang J. Livingston, Schoolcraft Rd., was awarded the highest honorary degree in the York Rite of Freemasonry; the Knight of York Cross of Honour.

The Soroptimist Club, as early as June, was already elbow-deep with plans for their "Famous Women in Michigan" luncheon which was held in September. I attended this affair along with Myra Cox and George-Ann Bauer and can attest to the fact that the ladies' efforts were a smashing success. Such eminent personalities as charming Ann Campbell, Alice Swainson, Jane Schmerhorn, Fran Harris and Dr. Wilma Donohue were among the guests presented. The proceeds raised went toward a Senior Citizens program.

Mrs. Robert D. Willoughby, Mrs. Harry N. Deyo, and Mrs. Howard Atwood, members of the Sarah Ann Cochran Chapter of the DAR, attended the 69th Continental Congress of the National Society in Washington.

Neva Lovewell and Lila Humphries were honored guests at a Bon Voyage Tea given by Mrs. John Wimsatt prior to their European jaunt that took them to 10 countries.

In late March the Plymouth Theatre Guild was deeply entrenched with preparations for their production of the "Rainmaker." You may recall that Helen Fortney, Jerry Coslow, Bob Lucchetti, Nick Carpenter, C. V. Sparks, John Benzmilller and Ken Cook were featured in the cast.

Ladies of the Plymouth Women's Club met in January at Ruth Wallace's home to formulate plans for their Benefit Show in February. Some of those participating were: Dorothy Dibble, Grace Sweet, Blanche Johanson, Charlotte Gaffield, Betty Holmes and Elaine Lytle.

Many equally important and interesting occasions have been omitted here, not by design but rather by the limits of space. One thing stands out in each of the papers I've been reading, and that is that Plymouth is a very busy area. Being from Redford Township and knowing few people here puts me at a temporary disadvantage, so I hope you will literally swamp me with information about yourselves, your clubs and organizations so that we may become better acquainted in the year to come.

A happy and productive 1961 to you all.

Rocks Fare Well In All Athletics

Plymouth did well in the major sports — basketball and football (and in swimming which must be included as a major sport at Plymouth) during 1960.

The Rocks also did well in all the so-called minor sports. The cross-country team of 1960 was 13th in the state and the track team won the league meet by eleven twelfths of a point last spring after being beat by Bentley and Redford Union in dual meets. They were third in dual meet competition with a three-two record.

The Rock's golfing team tied for second in the league meet and the basketball squad posted a 7-3 league record that was good for a one-third share of first place. The overall baseball record for 1960 was 13-3.

The tennis team won eight and lost five and placed third in the Suburban Six.

1960 was a good year for Plymouth.

Gridders Good; Look To 1961

Rock football fortunes remained strong during 1960 with Coach Mike Hoben's team posting a solid six and two record for the season.

The record was one down from the 7-1 mark posted a season earlier and with the dip in wins, the Rocks placed third in the league with a 3-2 league record. Bentley and Belleville tied for first with a 4-1 league record.

The Rocks posted their strong record thusly:

SPORTSEEN

By BILL NELSON

The thing about New Year's Day is that it is the first day of the year. If you're wise, you'll forget about it and stop there.

If you start delving further into what a year is—why this arbitrary jumping off (or in) point, you'll quake. It's no answer to post-celebrating fog.

We are operating under a Gregorian Calendar, which was instituted in the 16th century by Pope Gregory the XIII. It gets fairly involved, but the fact is that in 3,300 years we will lose a full day. In addition, the year 2000 will be a leap year—the first year since 1600 to be divisible by 100 and still a leap year. The calendar is a manly attempt to bring the calendar into balance with nature—but still in 3,300 years we'll lose that day—bit by bit.

Doesn't faze you? How about this? Calendars were once gerrymandered by politicians. In Julius Caesar's time political manipulation caused an error of 80 days at one point. Finally Caesar ordered an adoption of the solar calendar of Egypt and augmented it by taking account of its error by adding a day once every fourth year. It lost 10 days by the 16th century and led to the Gregorian reform by Pope Gregory.

If the idea of politicians playing with your days like your money doesn't bother you... then consider this: The Calendar Reformers are after us! One proposal pleads for identical months.

It would have 13 identical four-week 28-day months. It would be known as the "International Fixed Calendar." As a sports enthusiast I can't subscribe to anything fixed. These people would add a day at year's end to make a 365 day year and add another between June and July in leap year.

No one says what those extra days are called: maybe exceptional identical months.

Another group wants a so-called "World Calendar," which consists of three-month 91 day quarters. The first month of these periods would have 31 days and the second and third 30 each. This calendar also adds a day now and then.

All of these calendars (and there are many more throughout history) go into great detail in a search for regularity. Variety is forgotten.

The Indians in their native wisdom had the best idea that we have come across. The Sioux Indians had a cycle of months which began with the first new moon after the spring equinox. These months had enchanting names.

They were called such things as the "Moon of Worms," "Moon of Flowers," "Warm Moon," "Moon of Journeys," and "Gold Moon." Another candidate for month of the year is the name "February" from which we get February, which literally means "Months of Fevers." Check with the neighbors' kids in February.

After due consideration and research, one can be certain that anyone can concoct a calendar to suit his purposes and do as well as any heretofore.

Thus instead of the current months you would have Doyle, Adams, Mason, Baughmann, Jones, McFall, Elder Fan, Stengel, Hoben, Wilson and Sandmann.

Its usage has some of the same romantic quality of the Indian names and they seem appropos. If you wanted to meet someone at a football game in Ann Arbor in what is now decadently called October you would merely say "Let's meet at 1 p.m. on the 7th of Hoben." Or at a basketball game next week just say "I'll see you on the 11th of Doyle."

One more factor should be incorporated into this calendar. Orientals, particularly Chinese, have a wonderful idea in naming years. For instance there is the "Year of the Dog," the "Year of the Cow," etc.

We would add that touch, using athletic names, of course. Because of his unbeaten swimming team, 1961 must be named "The Year of McFall."

But whatever calendar you choose to adopt—have a Happy New Year.

A GAME OF hockey can usually be found on Plymouth's ice ponds these days. These four young Red Wings, from left, are Tim Wernette (dropping the puck), Tom Scholtens, John McGraw and John Gilles. There are five man-made ponds now available in the Township and City and the County-run Wilcox Lake and wading pool.

Cold Weather a Joy to At Least One Clan—Ice Skaters

Some zero and below weather has helped put Plymouth's ice skating rinks in good order and at least seven areas spots are being used by hundreds of skaters— young and old.

The City and Township have both been at work flooding man-built ponds, while the Wayne County Road Commission has put in a lot of work clearing off Wilcox Lake.

Three rinks are now being used in the City. They are at the Hamilton St. playground, another at the eastern end of Burroughs St. and one on school property at Theodore and Blanche Streets.

DPW Superintendent Joseph Bida said that two other rinks, one beside the V.F.W. Hall, and one on Goldsmith Ave., may be ready by the end of this week. Ice on these two did not hold up.

Township Firemen have flooded a rink in Robinson Subdivision and another on Gold Arbor.

Largest of the skating areas is Wilcox Lake where heated sheds are provided. The Road Commission has had tractors sweeping snow off the lake. The County also has

Tankers Win & Win

Statistically, swimming coach John McFall just has to consider 1960 a good friend.

The Rocks won the Suburban Six League Title and were unbeaten in dual meet competition.

They placed 15th in the 1960 State Meet at Ann Arbor last winter.

They carry an unbeaten string of 23 straight dual meets into the New Year. The Plymouth swimming team and the coach ought to view the coming year with mixed emotions.

The Rocks should improve their times with every meet and there is no team in sight that will beat them in dual meet competition, McFall's misgivings to the contrary notwithstanding.

While dual meet competition depends on overall team strength and depth, state competition is largely a matter of individual effort. If Plymouth is to place higher this season Plymouth's individual stars will have to improve on 1960's performances.

New Year Opens With Long Holiday Weekend

With New Year's Day falling on Sunday, another long holiday weekend is ahead for Plymouth and the rest of the nation. Monday will again be a holiday because Jan. 1 falls on a Sunday. Most stores and industry will close doors from Saturday night until Tuesday morning. Schools will also re-open Tuesday. Some churches will celebrate the coming of the new year with special services, the evening before, but most will be able to observe the event at their regular services Sunday morning.

A number of clubs and fraternal groups will be having New Year's parties Saturday and, of course, there will be countless gatherings in homes. At the Senior High School, the International Relations Class will sponsor a semi-formal dance for teen-agers from 9 p.m. to 12:20 a.m. There will be live and recorded music. Admission of $1 per person will be used to finance the class's proposed trip to the United Nations.

Like this week, The Plymouth Mail will be published one day later — with a Thursday date-line instead of Wednesday. Advertisements and news must be in by 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Rubbish will be picked up in the City this Monday, the same as last Monday. In other words, there will be no holiday for the rubbish pick-up crew.

There will be no mail delivery Monday. The bowl football games, usually played on New Year's Day, will be postponed until Monday this time.

Pilgrim Farm Group Has Yule Party

On Wednesday evening, Dec. 2, the Pilgrim Farm Bureau Group met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Foege, 43655 Joy Rd., for its annual Christmas Party.

There were 54 persons present, including 32 adults and 22 children. Everyone enjoyed a delicious turkey and ham dinner with all the trimmings, followed by games and singing of Christmas carols. The next regular meeting will be held on Jan. 8 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Everett of 8445 Canton Center Rd.

Lighting Contest Judged at Lake Pointe

A Christmas decorating contest sponsored by the Lake Pointe Homeowners Assn. resulted in the outside decorating of 119 homes in the development.

Judging was based on originality and creative effort. The panel of judges was composed of several members of the Tri-City Art Club. Winners will receive plaques.

Association President Jim Garber presented the first place plaque last week to L. R. Spagnola, 41215 Russet Lane. Second place winner was D. L. Koch, 42114 Brentwood, and third place plaque goes to G. E. Elston, 42044 Clemons.

Honorable mention was given the following:

S. A. Abraham, 14485 Rob-Lang, 42111 Brentwood; L. C. inwood; A. T. Pertola, 42071 Smith, 41507 Greenbriar; Clemons; Donald Weisen- L. A. Schendel, 42257 Hamburg, 42047 Clemons; H. J. mill Lane; and F. H. Sigmon, Pink, 14475 Oxford; R. G. 42377 Hammill Lane.

On a broader scale, the superintendent believes that the federal government will offer general federal support for education next year. This year the government has given aid in several departments such as science, math and testing, but he believes that such support will spread to all departments.

Also anticipated is a study of school finance by the Wayne, Oakland and Macomb Associations of County School Boards. They will seek out sources of revenue for operating schools, other than property taxation.

Town Hall On Jan. 5 Features 'Heights' Topic

"What Shall It Be — City or Township?" That will be the topic of a Plymouth Community Town Hall meeting on Thursday, Jan. 5 at the Junior High School.

With an election coming on Jan. 17 that will decide if half of Plymouth Township shall become a new city, the Town Hall committee is staging another in a continuing series of meetings to acquaint the voting public with the issues and the candidates.

Ted Campbell, chairman of the Town Hall Committee, said this week that there will be five parts to the program.

Township Supervisor Roy Lindsay will first tell how the City of Plymouth Heights proposal came about. Russell Ash, a member of the Charter Commission, will then explain highlights of the proposed charter.

This will be followed by William Carter of the Detroit Citizens Research Council which last month completed a detailed study on the proposal.

Campbell said that candidates who are seeking offices for the new city will then appear — if there are any candidates.

The audience will then be given an opportunity to ask questions of those appearing on the program.

The meeting, starting at 8 p.m., will be in the gymnasium of the Junior High.

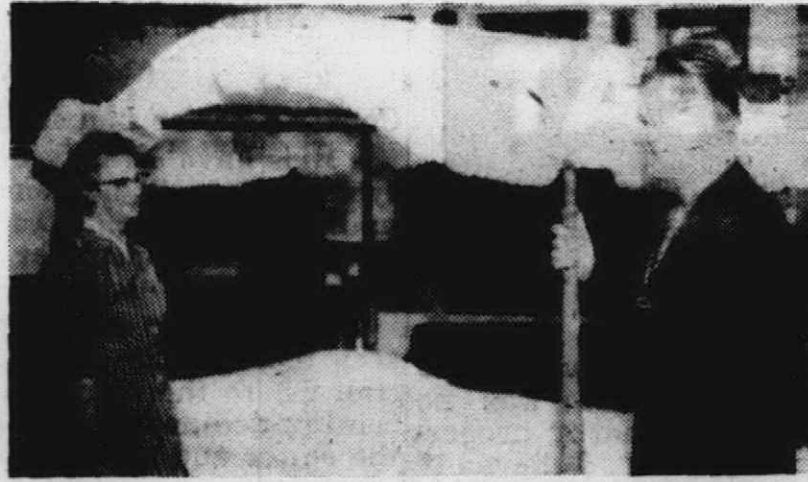

Town Hall meetings were started four years ago by citizens interested in having issues discussed and candidates to present their views at public forums.

O.E.S. Highlights

Plymouth Chapter No. 115, Order of Eastern Star, will hold its next regular meeting Jan. 3. Meeting will open at 4:30 p.m. due to the fact it is School of Instruction Night. There also will be a potluck dinner at 6:30 p.m. We hope there will be a good attendance.

At 7:30 p.m. the School of Instruction will open with Sister Mabel Shaw, our Worthy Grand Matron and Orient Chapter being guests.

Polo was first played in the U.S. at Newport, R.I. It was introduced in 1877 by James Gordon Bennett Jr., owner of the New York Herald.

THE MAIL ATTITUDE

BY PAUL CHANDLER

One of the classic pieces of American literature is the editorial published in the New York Sun in 1897 wherein an editor attempted to assure Virginia O'Hanlon, an eight year old, that Santa Claus existed. Many editors reprint the essay every Christmas time.

Npw at the Christmas season of 1960, with all America in a troubled and confused mind, I wonder how many realize that the letter to Virginia wasn't written for children.

It was penned for adults — troubled, mature human beings.

It can be read again in today's setting and it sounds the same. The message is not child-like, because children essentially are material and literal in their approach to life. They believe in an actual, breathing Santa Claus, not an imaginary one.

Only to adults does a world of ideals and intangibles begin to make some sense. But they forget. Virginia's letter concluded, you may recall: "Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus."

"The most real things in the world are those that neither children or men can see. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world."

"You can tear the baby's rattle and see what made the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man could tear apart."

"Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance can push aside that curtain view and picture the supernatural beauty and glory beyond."

"Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding." At holiday time, most Americans are susceptible to such thoughts. We become mystical. We know that a child's dream of a Santa Claus is an important, valuable thing — that a child's pleasure is more important than any money it might require to create it.

Then the season goes and we revert to other patterns. Success is wealth. An intelligent person believes only what he can touch, see or hear. It is better to be a live coward than a dead hero. And so on.

It's called materialism and the world is bursting in the head trying to prove that materialism is all that matters, despite the lack of satisfaction it always has offered civilized peoples.

That is a shopworn subject, however, and it needn't be drawn out here today.

Instead, let's circle the target from another direction. An Episcopal Bishop in California said the other day:

"I find myself obsessed these days by a strange idea: Perhaps we Christians should considerably subdue our celebration of Christmas this year."

"A celebration presumes a victory. But 20 centuries after the birth that founded the Christian movement, it is not at all clear that there is a victory for the church to celebrate."

"For Christianity is in retreat ... the church has become largely ... irrelevant ... the church finds itself in the ludicrous position of preaching brotherhood and practicing intolerance ... the Christian church was meant to lead, yet today it finds itself being led ..."

Obviously, the Bishop fears the organized American church has missed the very message given Virginia by an editor.

The church is busy recruiting numerical membership; erecting buildings; competing with other sects in terms of bulk, size and wealth; investing trust funds; and generally living with the material world in a material way.

Yet it is the biggest single institution supposedly dedicated to the proposition that "the most real things in the world are those that neither children or men can see."

And "it is in retreat ... it has become largely irrelevant." Its pews are full of heartsick people.

With the soft hand of the Nativity story upon our heads, it is a proper season to organize thought.

Maybe our churches don't represent it today, and undoubtedly the crasser commercialism of the Christmas season doesn't reflect it at all, and maybe the race for hard production and brittle scientific excellence is no clew, but nonetheless there is an unseen and unseeable force which is the most real thing in the world.

Sometimes it is called the Holy Spirit. Virginia called it Santa Claus ... It is for all of us to recognize and respect.

School Planners to See Film on Fire Next Week

The tragic story of the Chicago school fire will be shown on film for the Plymouth Community School Planning Group at their meeting at Starkey weather School on Wednesday, Jan. 4.

After this frightful lesson on school fire safety. Sgt. O'Farrell of the State Fire Marshal's Division will discuss what could and should be done to make old and new schools fire-safe. He will cite examples of the neglect of basic fire safety in schools.

In connection with this program, the safety committee will present its recommendations for fire inspections in the Plymouth Community School District. The report is the result of a year-long study of fire ordinances, inspections, and results.

All interested Plymouth residents are invited to attend this meeting.

NEWS BEAT

A car being driven into Fay's Pure Oil station at 725 Ann Arbor Rd. on Christmas Eve was tapped from behind by another car. The driver, Larry Wells, lost control and the car struck a gasoline pump and knocked it over. A fire followed and Township firemen were summoned. There was no explosion but fire heavily damaged nearby property on the "island" ... A coon hunter was believed to have started a fire in a hollow tree on Ridge Rd. which brought firemen out Christmas Day for three hours. The tree was in a peat bog which started burning. Unless such fires are extinguished immediately, the peat could burn for several years.

WALLET FOUND: A child perhaps on a Christmas shopping trip is believed to have lost a wallet downtown Saturday. Containing no identification papers, it had some money. The loser may call Mrs. Lillian Newton, GL 3-3152 to make identification.

BIG JOLT: Washtenaw County taxpayers are not too happy with their tax bills this month. Nearby Salem Township, for instance, had its equalized valuation raised from $4,146,394 last year to $9,738,712 this year. In the Northville School District portion of Salem Township, the combined County and school rate is a whopping $104.20 per $1,000 of valuation.

IN THE NEWS: The name of John R. McDonald, 371 Irwin, broke into the national news last week. Capt. McDonald, a pilot for Capital Airlines, is also an inspector of crashes representing the Airline Pilots Assn. in the eastern U.S. On the scene of the New York City tragedy, Capt. McDonald criticized Federal Aviation Agency Administrator Elwood Quesada for making statements to assign blame on the pilots before evidence is in.

Accidents Mar Pre-Christmas Week for Some

The long holiday weekend, which took a heavy toll on the highways throughout the nation and Michigan, brought no traffic deaths to the Plymouth area, but a number of accidents were reported last week.

Charles Taylor, 54, of Whitmore Lake, suffered a concussion last Thursday in a freak accident on Penniman Ave. Apparently losing control as he drove west out of the City, Taylor drove his car into a no parking sign near the corner of Sheldon Rd.

The car then crossed Sheldon and hit a load restriction sign. It struck a tree and Taylor was thrown out. The car traveled a little further and hit a pole, bounced back and ran over its driver, pinning him under the car. Taylor appeared fatally hurt, police said, but at St. Mary Hospital his only injury was a concussion.

Mrs. Raymond Viau, 220 Ann St., and her daughter Leslee, 4, escaped possible drowning last Tuesday. Mrs. Viau was going down the hill on Wilcox Rd. where the road curves around Wilcox Lake. Police said that it appeared that a tire may have blown. The car swerved toward the lake, going down the hill and coming to rest with the front end in the lake.

Mrs. Viau suffered a deep facial cut and Leslee was not hurt.

Last Friday night at the Starkweather Ave. crossing of the C & O, William Keeler, 47685 Saltz Rd., failed to stop behind cars that were lined up for a passing train. Police said that his car hit the rear of a car driven by James Passage, 181 Roosevelt, which in turn was shoved into a car ahead driven by Ralph Spigarelli, 1237 Beck. Police said that Wheeler, who suffered lacerations and a concussion, was ticketed for driving under the influence of alcohol.

County's sewer ban is lifted."

Bids have already been taken for the new water main that will be connected with a Detroit water main at the Livonia boundary. Bonds will be sold next and the Supervisor is hoping to get the project underway in February.

As for other predictions, Supervisor Lindsay foresees more office space necessary at the Township Hall where the clerk's and treasurer's jobs are becoming demanding. An office and service shop for the sewer and water department will also be necessary.

The supervisor states that consideration will be given to purchasing a new fire truck and rescue truck next year. During the current year the Township Board accomplished one of its major goals — building of a new fire station for the north section of the Township.

More Than Ever
where the father had been unemployed.

Bell went to the door and there was greeted by the amazed wife. "We had been praying to the Lord that somewhere we might get enough food for a Christmas dinner," she told Bell, "and you've actually answered our prayer."

Bell was so heartened by the circumstance that he drove all the way back to Plymouth to tell it to Capt. Cunard. "God works in strange and miraculous ways, and this was one example," Capt. Cunard declared.

Other stories could probably be told of Saturday's work of the Salvation Army and the Goodfellows, but most of them are stories of people with little or no income whose Christmas probably would have been quite bleak without the aid they received.

Goodfellow President Clarence Holman reported that 60 families in Plymouth City and Township received clothing, food or toys last Christmas Eve. This is a record high. Last year it reached 48 families.

Unfortunately, donations for the Goodfellows' newspaper sale were considerably lower than last year. And so were those to the Salvation Army.

The Salvation Army had 65 families on its list this year. Some were the same as those on the Goodfellow list. The lists were compared to avoid duplication and there were items, such as clothing, by one organization and toys or food by the other.

New Books at the Library

Just in time for holiday reading the Dunning-Hough Library has added a number of entertaining and informative books for adults and children.

ADULT
THE SNAKE HAS ALL THE LINES, by Jean Kerr
 A chuckle a page is guaranteed in this potpourri of witty and personal opinions. It is similar to the anecdote style of Please Don't Eat the Daisies.

 All of the pieces have previously appeared in magazines or newspapers, though some were under different titles.

A ZOO IN MY LUGGAGE, by Gerald Durrell
 A detailed account of a six-month trip to the British Cameroons 'in West Africa.

The author and his wife collected specimens for the zoo they hoped to start.

THE LOSER, by Peter Ustinov

A sympathetic novel of a young man trained not for life, but for death. The book tells the story of Hans Winterschild who grows up in the political atmosphere of Hitler's Nazi regime and his readiness to meet the hero's end.

THE DAY CHRIST WAS BORN, by Jim Bishop

A reverential reconstruction, and a dramatic account of events on the day Christ was born.

Bishop drew on his research into ancient Jewish customs and firsthand observations while traveling in the Holy Land to write this moving story.

ON THE CHILDREN'S SHELF
 Juvenile

OLD RAMON, by Jack Schaefer

A beautifully and tenderly written tale filled with wisdom as well as adventure.

The story tells of an old shepherd, a small boy, and two brave dogs. The boy watches and learns from Old Ramon about sheep, rattlesnakes, sandstorms, coyotes and wolves and how to overcome fear, ease tension, face death and responsibility.

TREASURED TALES, compiled by Laura E. Cathon and Thunelda Schmidt

A book of short stories about brave deeds, strong decisions and great accomplishments. The stories are interesting, exciting and full of adventure. A good read-aloud book.

TERRIBLE, HORRIBLE EDIE, by E. C. Spymon

Funny and tender by turns, the story is about Edie, a 10-year-old girl, and her summer adventures on the Massachusetts coast. As the youngest of four, Edie rebels against this unjust fate and as a result is in almost constant trouble.

EASY READERS
BEDTIME FOR FRANCIS, by Russell Hahan

This is a fun story for 3-6 year-olds, about a bear-child who doesn't want to go to sleep and conjures all manner of things to delay the inevitable. Clever illustrations by Garth Williams.

A GAGGLE OF GEESE, by Eve Merriam, 5-8 years old

Written in rhyme, this illustrated book is about animals and what they are called in plural, i.e., several jack-rabbits are a hysk of rabbits and a family of bears would be a sloth of bears.

PARSIFAL THE PODEDLEY, by Nell Chenault for 6-8 years old.

The story of a young Podedley and his first position. A fanciful tale of a strange magical creature who befriends a lonely little boy.

The busy preparations for the gala "International Holiday," a New Year's Eve Dance open to the general public, are evidence that the festive holiday season has not completely stopped student activity, let alone dampened the spirits of the International Relations class, which is sponsoring the event as another of its fund-raising projects for financing a study trip to the United Nations in New York.

Although the admission has been kept down to $1 a person, there will be decorations in the international vein, as well as refreshments and foreign entertainers. The time — 9 p.m. Saturday until ... 1961!

Describing the decorations, which are likely to cause much comment, dance chairman Mary Tess Newingham said that, "they will be completely international, but with emphasis on the French." This statement is strengthened by the "sidewalk cafe" that has been planned, where merrymakers will be able to relax and enjoy their refreshments in a Parisian atmosphere. Foreign displays are also to be available for those attending.

A number of very familiar Christmas cards on this reporter's desk are a reminder of the success of the seniors as greeting card salesmen. Sales mounting high into the thousands have insured for the class adequate funds to cover a senior banquet, free yearbooks, and free caps and gowns for graduation ceremonies.

Leading salesmen in the class were Bob McKillip, with $120 in sales and Sue Grady with $106 worth. Both attended a luncheon given by the Mitchell Greeting Card Co. at the Statler Hilton Hotel on Washington Blvd. in Detroit for the top salesmen from Michigan schools participating in the card selling program. A tour of the Mitchell plant in Detroit followed.

Bob was also top salesman in Michigan, and was awarded a leather wallet to commemorate this distinction. Further evidence of Plymouth's enthusiasm is apparent from the fact that its total sales—nearly $8,000—were the highest in the state.

The Debate Team had an interesting match with Royal Oak-Dondero High School last week, both from the standpoint of judges, and their decisions. Drs. Story and Satler, of the University of Michigan Speech Dept. (Dr. Satler is its head) were present, Dr. Story judging the affirmative teams, and Dr. Satler the negative. As usual, the topic was: "Resolved, that the UN should be strengthened."

Victory was awarded to Plymouth's affirmative team—composed of Dave Raafab and Paul Malboeuf. When time came to judge the negative teams, (Jim Kropf and Dave Fey representing Plymouth), Dr. Satler, who had brought his young son along, asked him who he thought had won. The boy replied "Plymouth!" The doctor promptly awarded the victory to Royal Oak.

In spite of this split decision, Plymouth has a good record with three Suburban Six League victories—defeats over Allen Park, Bentley, and Redford Union.

THAT TIRED old man with the long beard deserved to sit down and soak his feet after last Saturday night's journey. This display of Santa in the "morning after" pose was found in the yard of the George Schmemman home on N. Territorial Rd. There were undoubtedly many parents who felt the same way.

ANNOUNCEMENT

After serving the northern section of Plymouth for nearly 54 years, we regret to announce we have closed our Liberty Street Store effective December 24, 1960.

Beyer Rexall Drugs, 165 Liberty Street, Plymouth, Michigan was begun by my father, Otto Beyer, upon his graduation from Ferris Institute College of Pharmacy in 1907. Upon his death in 1941, after faithfully serving his profession, which certainly was his greatest enjoyment, this store was operated by my mother and sisters, Marion and Helen.

In 1947, after finishing college and serving in the Navy, this store was purchased by me from my family.

Upon opening of our new store at Main and Mill Streets in September, we found that our customers preferred shopping in this larger and more modern store with much greater accessibility.

I sincerely regret the closing of the Liberty Street Store after these many years. It certainly was the greatest part of my personal and business life. I also hope, that we can serve you in the future as we have during the past 54 years at either our Main Street, Forest Avenue or Ann Arbor Road Stores.

St. John's Observing New Year's

Sunday, Jan. 1, in addition to being New Year's Day, is known in church circles as the Feast of the Circumcision of Our Lord which took place when the Holy Child was eight days old. The regular Sunday services will be held at St. John's Episcopal Church, 574 South Sheldon Rd.

At 7:45 a.m. the Holy Communion will be celebrated by the rector when a brief meditation will be given. The other two services at 9 and 11 a.m. respectively, and the services will be identical and will comprise the Service of Ten Lessons with appropriate carols sung by the choir and congregation. This service has become very popular in England for some time and it was introduced into the Diocese by its bishop, the Rt. Rev. Richard S. Emrich, Ph.D., S.T.D. The lessons will be read by members of the laity.

At the 11 o'clock service, the Sacrament of Holy Baptism will also be administered.

A special parish meeting was called for Tuesday, Dec. 27 to consider some firm offers that the Vestry has received for the old church property on Harvey and Maple Aves. A good representation of our members will be appreciated.

Witnesses Assemble In Adrian, February 3-5

Jehovah's Witnesses from this area will hold their semi-annual circuit assembly in Adrian, Mich., Feb. 3-5. C. Carson Coonce, president of the Plymouth congregation, said arrangements are being made for about 75 from the local congregation to attend. The total attendance from all 25 congregations will be about 1,500.

"The meeting's theme," said Mr. Coonce, "will be 'Be Taught by Jehovah.' This, in effect, means letting God teach us His way rather than asking Him to bless our ways."
Mr. Nicholas Kovalak, Jr., Convention manager of Dundee, Mr. Richard Krebs estimated a peak attendance of 1,700.

Teen Aegers for Peace

One bright spot in the international scene these days is the student exchange program.

Some 2,300 intelligent and attractive teen-agers from 50 nations this year are spending approximately ten months in U.S. homes, attending U.S. schools and learning the truth about America in one of the most remarkable educational experiments in history.

Similarly, about 1,300 American teen-agers are living in homes abroad—learning new languages, gaining a new comprehension of international problems.

"I talked with dozens of exchange students and attended many of their final sessions," writes J. D. Ratcliff in Reader's Digest. "There was almost unanimous agreement on many things. Nearly all had gained a deep respect for U.S. democracy. All had made friendships they were sure would last a lifetime."

At first government-sponsored, the exchange program is now handled by five private agencies: the American Field Service, American Friends Service Committee, International Christian Youth Exchange, National Catholic Welfare Conference and the Michigan Council of Churches.

Screening committees make a careful check of students and host homes. Students must be intelligent, adaptable, outgoing—potential future leaders. They are matched, insofar as possible, with young people whose families are of similar economic status, cultural and religious affiliation.

It costs about $1,000 to give an exchange student a year in the United States—transportation being the major expense. Bed, board and pocket money are provided by the volunteer families. The agencies meet the remaining expenses in a variety of ways. Under the American Field Service plan for example, a sponsoring group donates $650, overseas families $330, AFS the rest.

"There is no idea that provides so great a return for so small an outlay," says Stephen Gallatti, director of American Field Service. "For a few hundred dollars, a service club or an individual can make a valuable contribution to better international understanding."

Under 21

By DAN HALLIGAN

Dear Readers: Teen-agers are dating a great deal younger in life than they were 20 years ago. Not only are they dating much sooner, but they're going steady too soon. Many girls of 13 and 14 who are going steady don't even know the meaning of the word. Why do girls of 13 and 14 go steady? Why don't they? Following are excerpts from letters written by girls of 13 and 14 or girls who are older but who dated at those ages. Maybe you'll learn something if you read this column.

Dear Dan: There was a time when I disagreed with you about going steady at 13 and 14 and like most girls, thought I was real cute because I did. Now I've wised up.—In the Know.

Dear Dan: If kids of 13 and 14 go steady and wind up in parked cars, you can't blame them. Almost every time you find a juvenile in trouble, you can check back on adult delinquency in the home.—Rita

Dear Dan: You really must be a crackpot. I'm 13 and think any girl of that age should be allowed to do all the dating and going steady she wants. I'm the only girl in my age group of seven who can't date and I get made fun of all the time. What's your answer to that?—Thirteen.

Dear Dan: I've been going steady for two years and started dating when I was 12, three years ago. I thought I was big and knew everything but did I ever find out differently. I learned the facts of life the wrong way and boys took advantage of me. My mother thought she was doing right in letting me date at 12 but all I got out of it was a bad name.—S.

Dear Dan: Girls who date before they can even spell the word are crazy. These young twirps who go around with their skirts up to their knees and sweaters so tight they can hardly breathe are about as glamorous as an old cow.—Old Ugly.

Dear Dan: I went steady with the first boy I dated but found out the price was too high. My boyfriend thought he owned me.—Rinda.

Dear Dan: I'm 13 and in the eighth grade and have gone steady or steadily with several boys against my mother's wishes but she's old-fashioned.—S. E.

Dear Dan: I'm now 14 and don't think I'm missing out on anything because I'm not allowed to date. Time enough for that later.—Barbara.

Dear Dan: Girls of 13 and 14 have no idea of the responsibilities involved with dating. A lot of boys of 13 and 14 hear older boys talk about their so-called "conquests" with girls and try to make the attempt themselves. No girl of 13 and 14 can possibly be prepared to face such a situation.—The Real Hep Square.

Dear Dan: Your attitude is completely wrong. I think if a girl is mature enough at 14, she should be allowed to date. I'm 14, I date and I'm going steady with the boy I love very much.—Just 14.

Here are some opinions from the male angle:

Dear Dan: I've been dating this 14-year-old girl because her father lets us use the car. Actually, she's less than 14 mentally but she's the only way I can get a car so I give her a big line about loving her and she eats it up.—No Name Lover.

Dear Dan: My girl and I are 14, freshmen in high school and have been going steady for two years. We always go to school activities together and enjoy ourselves.—Steady Reader.

Dear Dan: Here's an opinion from a 19-year-old father of three children. This girl and I started dating at 14 and inside of six months we were sneak-dating and going steady. We had to get married when we were 16 and dropped out of school. I love my three kids but hate my wife and something drastic may happen some day. If I had to go back several years, I know what I wouldn't do. I should be in college instead of working in a cement block factory for $60 a week.—A Young Father.

How's Business?

By ROGER W. BABSON

Local Governments Deep in Debt

At the end of World War II, the net debt of state and local governments totaled only $14 billion. Since then, however, this segment of the public debt has mushroomed rapidly until, at the end of 1959, the figure stood at $55.6 billion.

During this period the net debt of the Federal Government rose only 15 percent, whereas that of states and municipalities forged ahead by 300 percent. During the decade of the 1950's, net federal debt rose only 11 percent, while state and local governments saw their debt increase by over 200 percent—a rate exceeded only by the pyramiding of consumer installment and mortgage debt.

The most significant influence on the expansion of state and local debt since World War II has been the vast increase in the number of automobiles, which has necessitated substantial spending for construction of new roads and highways. Commuters who daily battle traffic bottlenecks are well aware of the massive problems which result from the fact that 75 percent of the nation's families own automobiles.

The other major contributor to the growth in state and local debt has been the baby boom since World War II. During the 1950's these children caused educational facilities to bulge and necessitated the construction of new schools and recreational facilities. The spurt in local tax rates attests to the huge expenditures made to construct, equip, and staff these facilities.

In addition, the multiplicity of demand for public services coincident with the suburban trend and the elevation of living standards has placed a greater burden upon state and local governments. Large sums have been borrowed to finance water works and sanitation projects, etc.

While the pace of state and local borrowings should begin to decelerate before long, this will be of only academic interest to taxpayers since the total state and local debt will continue to grow in the years ahead.

If Your Name Is Debbie

By ANN REYNOLDS

"Deborah," "Debbie" and "Debra" are variations of the same name. It is an ancient Hebrew name, and means "a bee." The art of beekeeping is an old one, and the bee has been considered the symbol of diligence. By the way, the Greeks, too, had a name signifying "a bee"; this is "Melissa" and "Melitta."

This name was rescued from more or less complete oblivion when the search for Biblical names got underway, after the Reformation. In an 1814 edition of Webster's Spelling Book "Deborah" is mentioned as one of the most popular names in our country. But then it experienced a downfall.

In 1863 Miss C. M. Yonge who was very much interested in the destiny of names wrote that "it has acquired a certain amount of absurdity from various literary associations which prevent it from being used except by the peasantry." One of these "literary associations" was that Sir Walter Scott named a governess in a book Deborah Debbitch.

Today the name "Deborah" and its alternate and endearing forms are frequent and glamorous, no doubt because of some girls in the motion picture and television business. Another reason for its modern popularity is that it is often picked by Jewish parents who take pride in their ancient heritage, and prefer a name that is easily identified as being from the Hebrew.

Two women named "Deborah" occur in the Old Testament. One was the nurse of Rebecca; the later one, and more important, was a judge and prophetess. This Deborah was the fourth of the Judges or leaders of Israel, and men and women came to see her asking for help and advice as she dwelt under a palm tree between Ramah and Bethel on Mount Ephraim.

She was married to a man named "Lapidoth," which is "supplier of lamps," and it is said that she was one of the clever women who knew how to combine marriage and career. Her greatest task came when she, at the inspiration of the Lord, appointed Barak to lead an army against Sisera, captain of the Canaanite King Jabin. Barak stipulated that she come along to the wars. She did, and the Lord put the mighty Sisera and his powerful army with nine hundred iron chariots into the hands of a woman. The story of that campaign is told in the fourth chapter of the Book of Judges, and in the fifth, called "Song of Deborah." (Want to know about some other name? The Model I was referring to was the Automobile, Dear.

Again Michigan leads the Nation! 500 miles of freeways now open to traffic in Michigan!

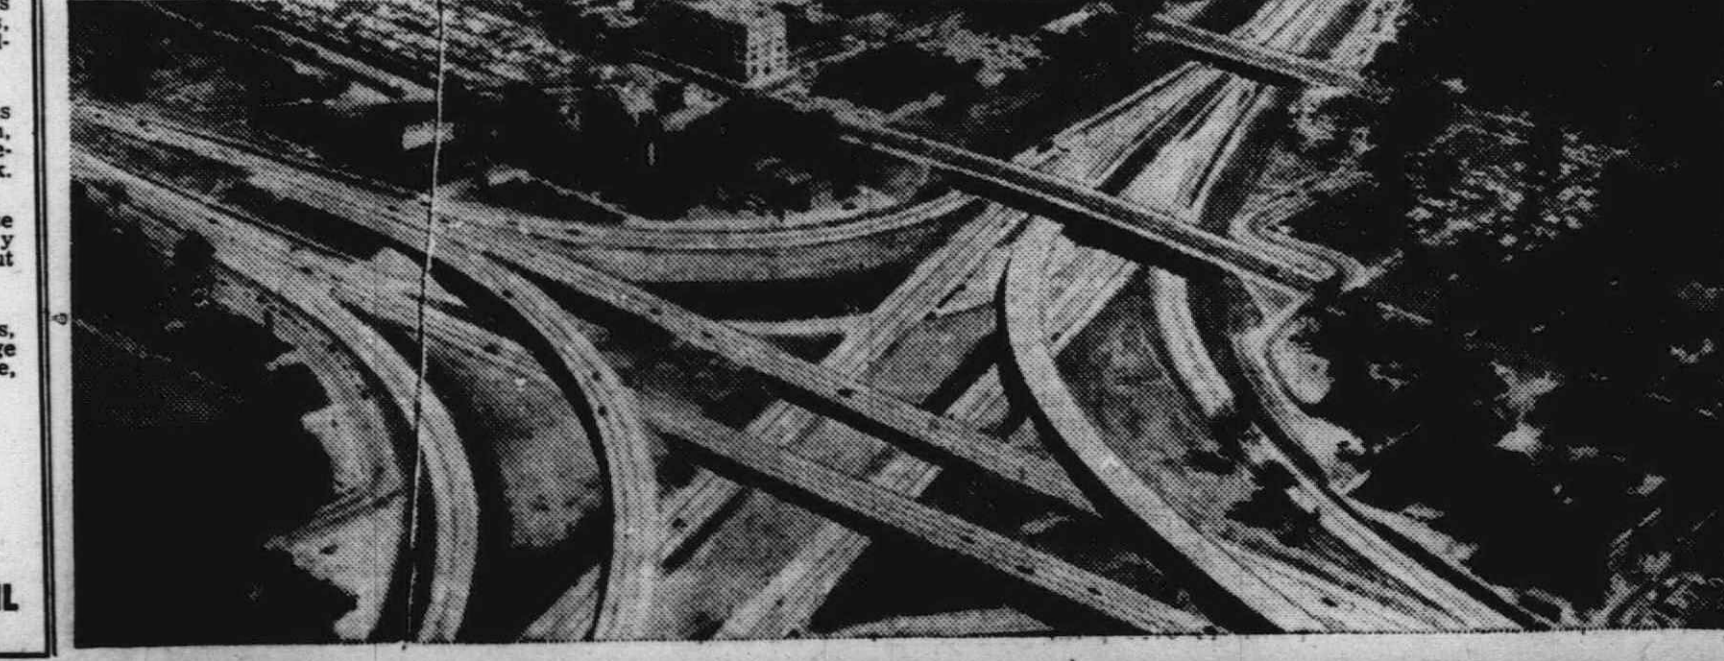

A record-breaking 500 miles of modern freeways—easier driving and four times as safe as conventional highways—are now in use by millions of Michigan motorists and thousands of vacation travelers. One highway alone—Interstate 94—runs 203 continuous miles from downtown Detroit to St. Joseph. It's the longest stretch of toll-free, limited access highway in the United States!

Today, Michigan holds 1st place in Interstate System construction—up from 35th place just 3 years ago. Since 1957, Michigan's freeway mileage has increased 5 times! You can thank your capable state highway engineers, backed by efficient contractors and crews.

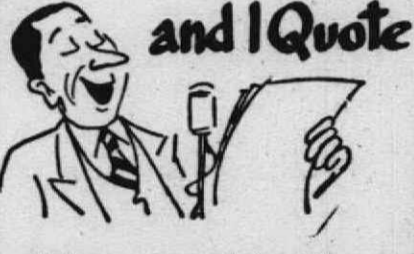

You can be glad, too, that more than 99% of these beautiful new freeways are paved with concrete. Its lower cost and proven performance save tax money. Concrete highways and streets outlast asphalt almost 2 to 1 and cost up to 60% less to maintain. Add greater safety. Concrete gives more skid resistance, wet or dry, and better nighttime visibility.

In front-running Michigan and other progressive states, highway engineers choose concrete to save money and provide motorists with the safest, smoothest-riding, longest-lasting highways.

"March of Dimes Has Scholarships"

Three hundred student leaders from the Greater Detroit area public and parochial high schools, junior high schools and colleges attended a meeting of the Wayne County Chapter of the National Foundation, at the Henry Ford Hospital Auditorium, to hear about the multi-million dollar Health Scholarship Program being financed by New March of Dimes funds, under auspices of the National Foundation.

A presentation of the overall Health Scholarship program was made by George P. Voss, vice president for public relations of the National Foundation from New York. He told the assembled group that 515 scholarships are available nationally for students planning a career in any one of the following health fields: Nursing, Medicine, Physical Therapy, Occupational Therapy and Medical Social Work.

Each scholarship is for $500 per year for 4 years, or a total of $2,000. January and June 1961 high school graduates are eligible for nursing, physical Social Work scholarship, therapy scholarships. Pre-medical graduates are eligible for the Medicine scholarship. Sophomores in the six year course of Medical Social Work are eligible for the Medical Social Work scholarship.

Voss pointed out that 20 students will receive these scholarships in 1961 from the State of Michigan. In the first two years of this program, a total of 40 scholarships have been awarded in Michigan. Thirteen of these scholarships have been awarded to students from the Wayne County area.

A welcome address was given to the 300 high school leaders by Dr. Robin C. Buerki, Executive Director of Henry Ford Hospital.

Mrs. Betty Becker, vice president of the Detroit Board of Education and Secretary of the Wayne County Chapter, the National Foundation acted as chairman for the meeting. She pointed out that this program is designed to help overcome the critical shortages of personnel in the health fields. The Scholarship Program will encourage girls and boys to select a career in one of the health professions at a time when they are looking to their future full of

Wayne State Production Bright

The Detroit theater scene brightened last week with the excellent Wayne State production of "The Madwoman of Chaillot." The two sets designed by Richard Spears blended beautifully with the highly professional acting of the Wayne State students. Gail Burkow had the cherished part of Countess Aurelia. Gail's performance set a high standard for future productions.

Gordon Mayer, Russ Paquette, Alan Levy, and Stuart Freedman, a highly competent quartet, provided their characterizations that were superb. Old George could ramble on at great length about this sterling production, but let's briefly warn all that it pays to attend the Wayne State University Theater at 3424 Woodward. The dividends are happy memories of plays well-done. I'll be sure to warn you before the next production hits the Wayne State boards in February.

A few blocks further down Woodward Ave. from the Wayne State University Theater is the Vanguard Theater. The theater is actually on E. Columbia St., a half block off Woodward. "See How They Run" finished a month-long run at the Vanguard this weekend. "Lady's Not For Burning" opens on Wednesday, Jan. 4.

One additional feature initiated by the folks at Vanguard is a special series of children's plays. "Cinderella" opened last week to the happy laughter of hundreds of children. Each day at 2 p.m. the Vanguard company will play "Cinderella" through Jan. 1. Chris Flynn plays a dashing Prince Charming and Mary Lou Zieve loses the slipper at the Grand Ball. There's music, dancing, and some special magical effects that take place right in front of your eyes. If you're downtown this week, drop the kids off at the Vanguard for a couple of hours. Of course, you're welcome to stay too. You could make a real day of it and stay for the evening performance of "See How They Run," a farce that everyone can enjoy whether you're 6 or 60.

On Thursday evening, Dec. 29 the gay, mad comedy "How to Make a Man" has its world premiere at the Cass Theater. Let's hope it fares better than "Love or Libel," the recent Dennis King-Ty Guthrie effort. "Love and Libel" received only lukewarm notices in Detroit. Everyone felt that Guthrie's directorial genius would save the day. Boston loved the show; the critics raved. A couple of weeks ago the New York critics took a look and turned their thumbs down. Five of the newspaper boys knocked the show, with the result that "Love and Libel" is but a memory. Guess it only musical version of "Ah, Wilderness," with the rotund Mr. Gleason, amply proves the point. As long as Jackie Gleason was in the show, it prospered. Mr. Gleason left about five weeks ago. Result: the show died.

A TV personality—you saw him on four debates with... ah... with... ah... who was that other fellow?—went to the theater the other evening in New York City. Ninety-six Secret Service agents guarded our bushy-haired TV debater. Guards surrounded Jack in the theater, outside, and even backstage. So heavily guarded was backstage that an actor in the play "The Best Man" portraying a newspaper reporter, had a difficult time getting on the stage twice during the evening. The agents wouldn't believe that he wasn't for real. The stage manager identified him in time to make his entrance on stage.

Another Secret Service gentleman had the job of checking the set. Since "The Best Man" has a number of scenes the show uses a turntable. Of course, some scenes move rapidly and if you're not quick, the turntable moves and wham, bang, you're on stage. At least once during the evening the S. S. man almost ended up in the scene with the actors as he was a bit slow in checking the 11 or 12 danger areas on the set.

Yes, when Mr. Kennedy goes to the theater, he brings his own audience right along with him. After the show he went backstage, chatted with the actors, and shook hands with stagehands, electricians, etc. JFK told the actor portraying a shift Senator in the show, "You remind me of several I know." Even after President-elect Kennedy had left the theater a few of the Secret Service men were wandering around. Asked why they were there, one of the operatives replied, "We can't seem to find one of our guys." Better check that turntable, fellas!

Sorry to hear about the fire out at the Bartlett School headquarters of the Plymouth Theater Guild. With a big production (over 40 speaking roles) coming up in "Inherit the Wind" damaged scenery and costumes can add only additional woes to Larry Tiltonson, the producer, and Bill Moore's bag of production problems.

proves that even a greater director like Tyrone Guthrie can pick a poor play. No one is infallible in the show biz world.

"All The Way Home," a recent entry on Broadway, barely survived the critical indifference of the critics. They didn't rave about the play. But the public enjoyed the show. They went out from the theater eager to button-hole people and tell them about this simple story of a man's family and the effect his death has on his wife and young son.

The producers were ready to close the show after a week until suddenly the public came to their rescue. Tickets are now being sold for this play well into February. Every now and then this happens on the Main Stem. Makes you believe in people once again. Naturally, this shakes the critics up a bit.

"Wildcat," Lucille Ball's musical comedy about a wild gal in the oil fields, has little to shout about in the music, dance, or story departments. Somehow though, the public will pull this show through. The TV image of Lucy as projected by Lucille Ball will take the money into the box office. Here again the critics have said the show is a tame item, but the fame of Lucy is not to be underestimated. "Take Me Along," the

Postmen Bring Message About March of Dimes

The men who probably walk more than anyone else in Wayne County have been carrying loads of holiday greetings the past two weeks. This week they will carry a new message of hope from the 1961 March of Dimes for many of their neighbors who cannot walk at all.

Local postmen began delivery of 800,000 envelopes that will allow Wayne County residents to contribute by mail during January to the efforts of The National Foundation to prevent the crippling diseases of birth defects, arthritis and polio.

"We hope our message brings speedy replies in the form of cash, money orders and checks, because March of Dimes contributions are desperately needed to finance National Foundation programs in patient aid, research and professional education," said Charles L. Gehringer, campaign director.

"Approximately 250,000 American children are born each year with significant birth defects. These birth defects cripple more children than any other cause besides accidents.

"More than 11,000,000 of our neighbors suffer from arthritis or some form of rheumatic disease with a loss to the nation of some 31,000,000 work days every year," he added.

"So watch your mailboxes. And please say 'YES' to the New March of Dimes by mailing in your contributions to prevent crippling diseases," he urged.

The annual March of Dimes begins Jan. 2 and will run through the month culminating with the traditional Mothers' March on Tuesday, Jan. 31.

'School Phobia' May Cause Child to Refuse Returning to Classroom

If your child suddenly refuses to return to school after the Christmas holidays, he could be suffering from a serious emotional disorder.

In the language of psychiatry, a phobia is any exaggerated and unrealistic fear. According to Dr. Stuart M. Finch, chief of the U-M Children's Psychiatric Service, "The factor that distinguishes the school phobia from most others is the degree to which it interferes with the child's basic living pattern."

"The child who is afraid of dogs, horses or streetcars can still lead a fairly normal life. But the child who is afraid of school needs immediate treatment; the longer he is out, the more difficult it is for him to re-establish himself."

He says the school phobia is particularly insidious because the child often is a good student and appears to like his school and teachers. He just does not attend. His failure to attend usually comes after a long holiday, or follows an illness where there has been a considerable lapse of time since the last day of school. The results may range from occasional absence from school to a complete withdrawal from all activities outside the home.

In Dr. Finch's opinion, the phobia stems from a disturbing relationship between the child and his parents. He becomes "frightened to death" of the idea of attending school, and wants to remain home.

The school phobia is markedly different from the usual forms of truancy, Dr. Finch adds. When the truant plays hockey, he seldom comes home; the school phobic child usually heads for home immediately.

In an article on school phobia published in the magazine "Postgraduate Medicine," the U-M psychiatrist mentions four basic steps in treating the illness:

1. Show the parents the emotional root of the child's condition and enlist their help in the treatment.
2. Remove all "secondary gain" which the child may get from his illness, such as all-day TV, games or other activities which he would not be allowed if he remained in school.
3. With the help of the child's teachers, make him responsible for keeping up with his school work whether or not he actually attends class.
4. Encourage the child to spend a certain amount of time, however brief, in school each day.

The Gift That Wasn't Under Your Christmas Tree

We hope that the floor under your Christmas tree was piled high with useful gifts and that Santa Claus brought you everything you ordered . . . but there's one gift that even the most generous Santa Claus couldn't place under your tree . . . the priceless gift of Good Health!

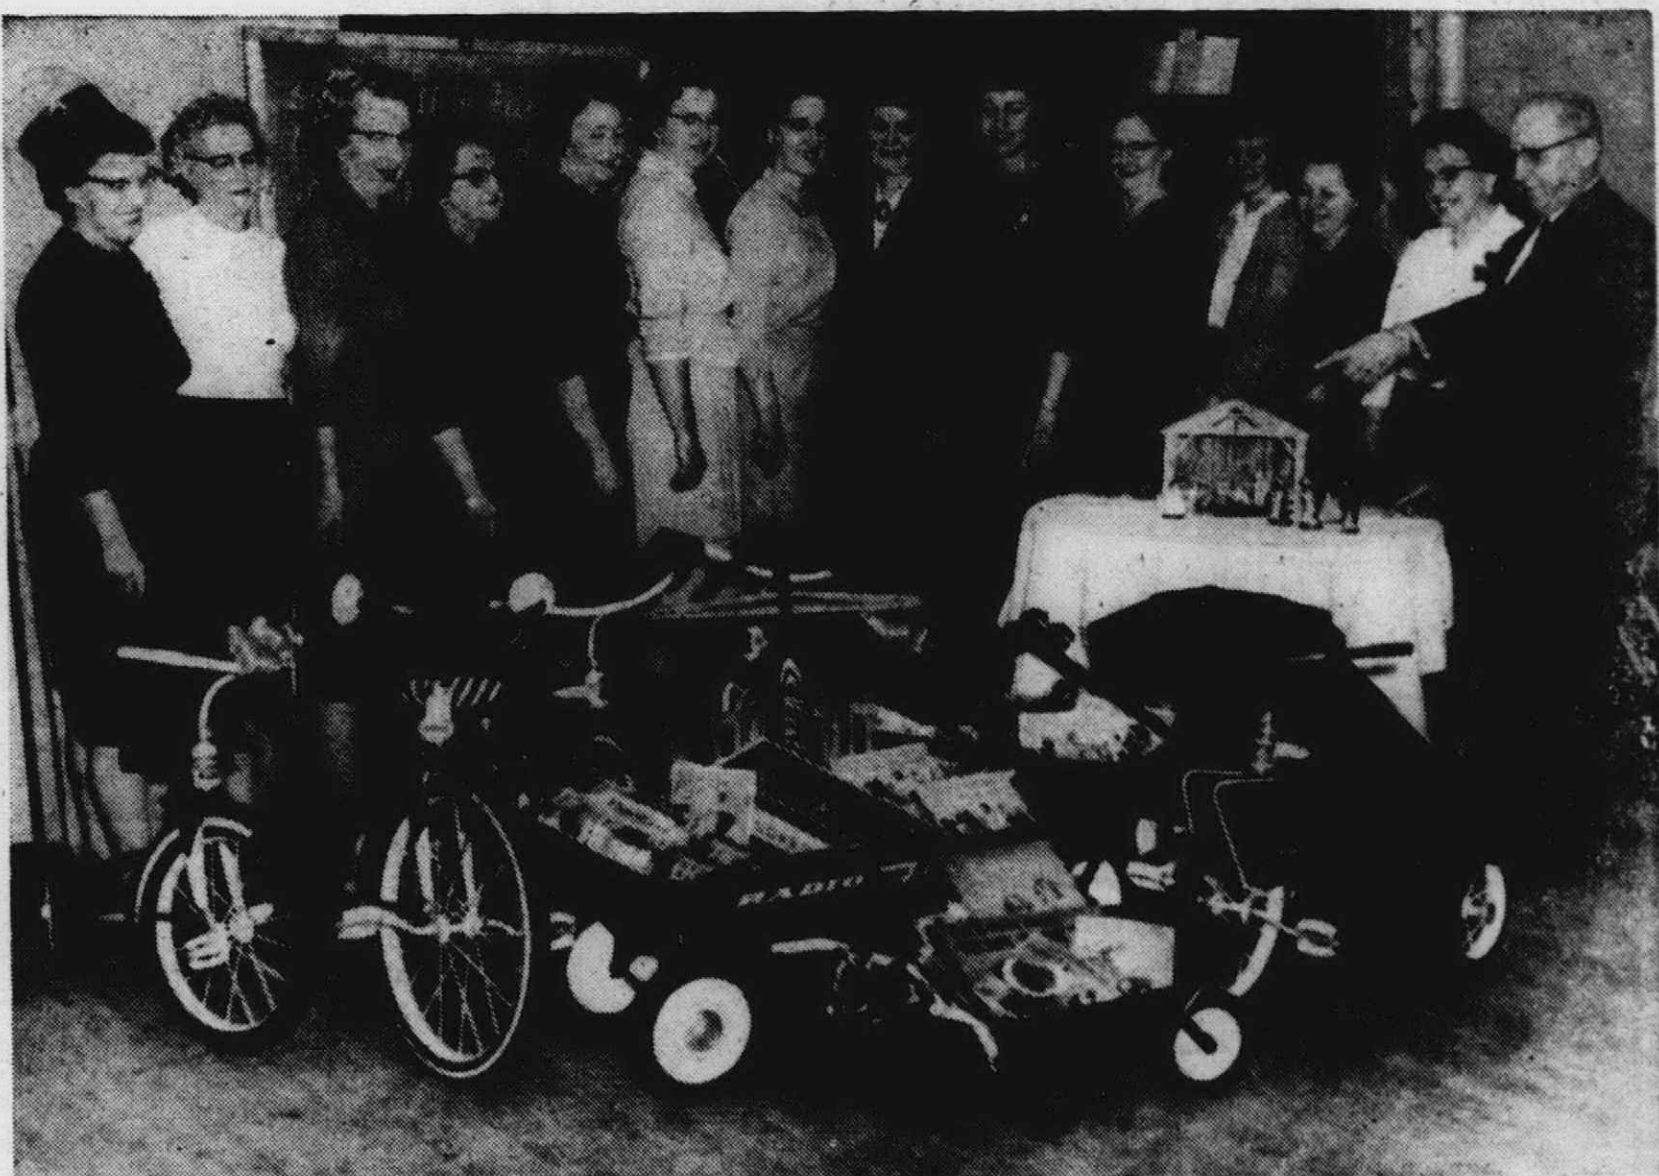

If Santa missed you entirely with gaily wrapped packages . . . you still are fortunate enough to have Good Health, be grateful, for you have been blessed with a gift whose values lies far beyond measurement in mere dollars and cents.

It is our sincere wish that you and your family may enjoy Good Health during this Holiday Season and throughout the years to come.

TOYS AND play equipment valued at over $250 was presented to the Cass Community Center in Detroit last Thursday by the Women's Society of Christian Service Circles of First Methodist Church. The center, operated by the Methodist Church, is for children of low-income families. Included in the load of Christmas gifts were five trikes, two wagons, teeter-totters, wheelbarrow, slides, clothes and other gifts. Shown are the circle chairmen, from left: Mrs. Marshall North, Mrs. Blaine Lytle, Mrs. Carroll Munshaw, Mrs. William Squires, Mrs. Robert Blood (president), Mrs. Brenton Goodhand, Mrs. Richard Larkin, Mrs. Clarence Jetter, Mrs. W. Hall Bailey, Mrs. Howard Bowden, Mrs. Richard Culver, Mrs. Arthur Shepard, Mrs. Lester Wilson and the Reverend Melbourne I. Johnson, D.D., pastor. Two pastors now living in Plymouth, Rev. William H. Perkins and Rev. P. Ray Norton, were once ministers at the Community Center.

THIS IS the winning entry of Dale Dirlam, 10, of Plymouth in Michigan Bell's annual "What Christmas Means to Me" drawing contest.

Plymouth Boy Wins Michigan Bell Christmas Drawing Contest Award

A young Plymouth boy won a top award in the sixth annual "What Christmas Means to Me" drawing contest sponsored by The Michigan Bell, employee publication of Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

Dale Dirlam, age 10½, of 9264 Morrison, was a grade 5 Honorable Mention winner for his colorful drawing of the Three Wise Men riding their camels on their way to present their gifts to the Christ Child.

Dale explained the meaning of his drawing with this little note: "I drew a picture of the Three Wise Men coming to see Jesus, because they started the giving of gifts on Christmas, and we are studying about them in Sunday School."

Dale was among 494 children in the state who submitted drawings, with accompanying letters or notes, for this year's contest. The entries were judged in Detroit by a panel of art experts.

The annual contest is open to children in the first through the sixth grades who are related to Michigan Bell employees. Dale is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Dirlam, and attends Smith School.

Three Plymouthites Receive Michigan State Degrees

In the Michigan State University fall graduating class three Plymouth people were among the 698 students to receive their degrees. Robert Ervin Franklin, 47970 Gyde Rd., received his B.A. in television, radio and film, David Lowell Nelson, 9429 Marilyn St., received his M.S. in electrical engineering and Lana Theora Williamson, 15075 Finch Dr., received her B.S. in home economics teaching.

The term closed officially Dec. 12. Commencement exercises were held Dec. 6. Dr. Arthur L. Knoblauch, president of Western Illinois University and an MSU alumnus, delivered the address on the topic "Excellence Is a Personal Quality."

Average Infant Today Can Expect to Live for 69.7 Years

The average infant born in this country today can expect to live almost half-again as long as one born in 1900, Health Information Foundation reported today.

In its monthly statistical bulletin, Progress in Health Services, the Foundation discussed the medical and social implications of increased life expectancy.

"Life expectancy," the Foundation pointed out, is a hypothetical measure often used as an overall indicator of health levels in a population. Expressed as a number derived from a "life table," it shows for a given time-period the average lifetime to be expected by a population if at each successive age it experiences the mortality rates prevalent during that time-period.

A baby born in 1900, H.I.F. said, could expect to live 47.3 years, while one born last year has a life expectancy at that time of 69.7 years — the highest ever recorded in this country for the total population.

Although both males and females have benefited from increasing life expectancy in this century, greater gains have been made by females. Thus, while life expectancy for males rose from 46.3 years in 1900 to 66.4 in 1958 (a gain of 20.1 years), the comparable rise for females was from 48.3 to 72.7 (a gain of 24.4 years).

The Foundation pointed to a number of social consequences arising from the trend toward longer life, notably: a record growth in the number of aged persons, an increase in the working lifetime of the average person, a decline in the number of orphans, and a general postponing of widowhood to the later years.

According to George Bugbee, foundation president, the increase in life expectancy is "one of the most fundamental changes to affect our country in this century." Not only has the average lifespan lengthened, he said, but "the years of working life have greatly increased, and family life has been strengthened. The great majority of parents today will not only live to see their children grow up, but can also look ahead to some reasonably active later years."

The last decade in particular, Bugbee pointed out, has seen "dynamic growth" in medical knowledge. "The results are nowhere more evident than in the extension of life, largely because the infective and parasitic diseases, which once decimated those at the younger ages, have now been so largely controlled. This class of diseases, which caused about 18 per cent of the deaths in 1900, today causes just over 1 per cent."

Nevertheless, he added, the application of new medical knowledge has imposed on the public "the need for greater investment in public health measures and greater use of physicians, hospitals, drugs, and all components of medical care. Each new breakthrough requires a larger investment by the public if that knowledge is to be converted to longer life and more comfort to those living with illness."

the Sharp Trader buys at better than wholesale

...because he buys where his bread is buttered

A REAL sharp trader doesn't need "connections" or "special discounts" or catalogs, or any other gimmick to get what he buys at BETTER than wholesale.

Maybe you think we're kidding?

Not at all. It's a fact. When you BUY in the community you LIVE in, you know that every cent you pay for goods and services above wholesale cost stays here at home with you. By staying here, it can get around to buying MORE good things for you and your family.

It's trading material . . . and TRADE ALONE builds communities with better opportunities, better schools, better churches, better neighbors.

Any ONE of these advantages could bring you returns beyond measure in a BETTER LIFE, as well as real CASH returns in the form of increased business, improved property values, a better job, more people to help you carry the load of normal community expense.

All of this — which you don't get for your money when you buy somewhere else — makes the cost of the actual GOODS very low . . . when you buy them at home.

That's how the SHARP TRADERS get BETTER than wholesale values.

THESE PLYMOUTH COMMUNITY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEMBERS ARE GENUINELY INTERESTED IN THE FUTURE OF PLYMOUTH AND IN YOUR PERSONAL WELFARE HERE.

All About BABIES

Protecting Baby's Teeth
By John A. Olson, M. D.
Cranford Medical Center
Cranford, N. J.

Medical and dental experience gathered in the last three decades has established that the incidence of cavities increases when there is a deficiency of fluorine in water supplies.

Dental decay is rare in areas blessed with naturally fluoridated water, but exceedingly common where drinking water is obtained mainly from surface supplies or from wells where the earth's crust is low in fluorine.

Experiments which have been conducted in the last two decades in Newburgh, N. Y., Grand Rapids, Mich., and Brantford, Ont., indicate that introduction of fluorine into public water supplies has reduced cavities up to 60 percent.

In Kingston, N. Y., which was the "control" for Newburgh and where fluorine was not added to the drinking water, children from the ages of six to nine had eight times as many missing first permanent molars as Newburgh children of the same age group.

In Brantford, where the results were typical of the other studies, reports showed 54 percent less decay in the permanent teeth of children from the ages of six to 16 after fluoridation than before.

Medical and dental associations, in light of these experiments, are in favor of fluoridating water supplies, but most communities have not adopted the practice. The principal objection has been that fluoridation of the public water supply constitutes compulsory medication and deprives the individual of his freedom of choice.

Now, with a new concentrated fluoride compound, it is possible for families living in low-fluorine areas—under the guidance of a dentist or physician—to provide their children with drinking water containing the correct amount of fluorine to strengthen their children's teeth — without waiting for town or city officials to act.

The dentist or physician who prescribes this new compound can give parents the simple instructions for adding the tasteless liquid to their baby's or their children's fruit juice, drinking water or milk.

While only second best to fluoridation of public water supplies, the new fluoridation compound, may introduce an era in which the water supply question will no longer involve politics and communal disputes. A free choice for the individual family, their physician or dentist, is now made possible.

Don't Keep Cooked Turkey Too Long
Don't forget to use the cooked turkey stored in your freezer. This meat can be a quick start for scalloped turkey with noodles, barbecued turkey or turkey turnovers. But plan the menus before storage time in the freezer runs out.

Anita Dean, foods and nutrition specialist at Michigan State University, says frozen cooked turkey may keep up to six months if slices are covered with broth or gravy for storage. However, these same slices, when packed without gravy or broth to protect them from air, should be used within one month.

MSU Offering Two New Courses to Adults Here

Two informal courses designed to increase the layman's appreciation and enjoyment of classical literature and of music will be offered at Plymouth this winter by Michigan State University. "Shakespeare for Moderns" and "The Understanding and Enjoyment of Music" will be presented under the auspices of the MSU Liberal Arts Adult Education Program, in cooperation with the Plymouth Public Schools. The literature course, consisting of 10 two-hour sessions, will be offered Wednesdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Dunning-Hough Library, beginning Jan. 11. It will be taught by Dr. Martha R. Beck, MSU special extension lecturer. Working with scripts, movies and records, Dr. Beck explains, students will examine and analyze three of Shakespeare's plays — "Romeo and Juliet," "Julius Caesar" and "Hamlet." These works will then be compared with an American play, "Our Town," by Thornton Wilder, and with Shaw's "Pygmalion" and with "Madwoman of Chailot" by Giraudoux, an example of modern French drama, she adds. The music course will be conducted by Dr. Theodore E. Hager of the University of Michigan School of Music. Classes will be held Thursdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Dunning-Hough Library, beginning Feb. 2. There will be 10 sessions of two hours each. Dr. Hager states that participants will pursue the meaning of various types of musical compositions through such factors as melody, harmony, rhythm, form, style and historical background of the piece. The music of many of the world's greatest composers will be used as the basis for study, he adds. Adults are invited to enroll now by contacting Dan McLaughlin, director of the MSU Continuing Education Center, MSU-Oakland, Rochester, or Herbert Woolweaver, Plymouth director of adult education, GL 3-3100, Ext. 4.

Newspapers Not Fading, Editor Tells Journalists

"American Newspapers Are Not Fading," Martin S. Hayden, editor of "The Detroit News," reported recently at Wayne State University's 12th Annual Journalism Day at the McGregor Memorial Conference Center. Hayden's topic was in reply to last year's speaker, Carl Lindstrom, former professor of journalism at the University of Michigan, who discussed his book, "The Fading American Newspaper." Hayden conceded that if Lindstrom had spoken of the "diminishing number of newspapers there couldn't have been much dispute." "Instead, however," Hayden added, "he chose the thesis that newspapers, as an institution, are headed down a chute. That, of course, appears on the surface as nonsense refuted by the record. "Figures show, for instance, that in the last quarter century the number of regular newspaper readers has increased from 41 million to 58 million, that in the last 20 years the advertising lineage in papers in the country's 52 major cities has jumped from 1.2 billion to 2.8 billion lines a year." Hayden defended what he called the "trimmings of American newspapers — the comic pages, TV columnists and beauty hints." "Some of our critics will say that such an approach debases journalism, that it symbolizes a 'fading American press,' that it wouldn't have been allowed to exist in the days of the Great Pulitzer and Horace Greeley. I say such critics have not read the files of American papers of other days. "From the columns devoted to them," Hayden noted, "I'd contend that American readers of 1915 could not have passed a quiz asking for information on Clemenceau, Gregory Rasputin and Orlando of Italy. "Certainly a comparable newspaper reader group today knows far more about Lumumba, Kasavubu and Col. Mobutu. "I submit that our printed product — perhaps because it is so well-policed by hostile critics—is today the best that this or any other nation has seen. "Finally, I insist: Despite the papers that have closed, newspapering is still a good business and American newspapers are not fading."
