

Protest Group to Seek Referendum

Fluoridation of City Water Wins Approval

Following an hour of often heated debate between proponents and opponents of the controversial water fluoridation issue, the Plymouth City Commission voted Monday night to place sodium fluoride in the City water system — but there were indications today that there will be a referendum petition filed asking that the proposal be placed before voters.

The unanimous decision came after a representative group of dentists and a citizen group of opponents, both armed with quotes, clippings and other "facts," presented their cases. Both sides brought guest "experts" to the meeting to speak.

Although fluoridation was approved, opponents today declared that they will file a referendum petition. City charter says that such a petition must be signed by not less than 15 per cent of the number of electors of the City who voted for governor in the last election. Upon receipt of the petition, the Commission would have the choice of either repealing their action or deciding to submit the proposal to electors.

But the charter refers to referendum petitions only in connection with ordinances. Monday's action was not through an ordinance, but by a resolution. This legal point must first be cleared up before a referendary petition would be considered.

It was on May 15 that the Association of Plymouth Dentists presented the Commission a resolution calling for the fluoridation of City water. Five years ago the Commission discussed it briefly and dropped it after some opposition.

First to speak out against the proposition was R. Roy Pursell, who doubted the constitutional right of a government to attempt to treat the body. "Chlorinating water is an appropriate duty in order to furnish an adequate water supply," Pursell pointed out, "but fluoridation is not treating water, but treating children in hopes of helping their teeth."

Pursell also brought up the fact that fluoride is poison. He then presented a petition signed by 23 City water users asking that the fluoridation proposal be placed on the ballot.

Dr. Robert Evans declared that the Dental Association's resolution called for raising the City's water fluoride content up to one part per million and that it is already one-third of one part per million.

Introduced as an "expert on sodium fluoride" was P. A. Patterson, who stated that he worked with fluorides for three large corporations. Patterson claimed that sodium fluoride is not found naturally in water and that there has never been proof that fluorides help prevent tooth decay, even in Grand Rapids where it has been in the water for over a decade. He added that teeth of Grand Rapids children are mottled, that even the U.S. Public Health Service has recommended many things that ended in grief.

Patterson then quoted some leaders in fluoridation and dentistry whom he claims have later sworn that fluoridation effectiveness has never been proved.

Dr. William Covington, local dentist, then introduced Dr. William Travis, fluoridation committee chairman for the Michigan State Dental Society and Detroit District Dental Society. Dr. Travis noted that all organized scientific societies endorse and recommend fluoridation and he named a dozen of them. He then asked the Commission, "Whom are you to believe?"

Dr. Travis said that constitutionality of fluoridation has reached the Supreme Court 11 times and has won each time. He added that the Commission is not acting extraordinary by approving fluoridation. He said that in 99 per cent of the cases where fluoridation comes to a referendum, it is defeated because of the "fear propaganda" concerning poison distributed on your doorstep the day before election. He then showed some of the leaflets.

Patterson and Dr. Travis have met many times in similar meetings across the state and both knew each other's speeches well.

Patterson had quoted a Dr. Dean, "father of fluoridation," whom he claimed had refuted his original claims about the effectiveness.

Dr. Travis said that he recently talked with Dr. Dean and that he hasn't backed down one bit. "When I told him about the statements that Mr. Patterson had made over WWJ concerning him (Dr. Dean), Dr. Dean said, 'Well, I can't go swilling screwballs all over the country.'"

Dr. Travis then invited the commission to invite Dr. Albert Huestis or Dr. Molnar, Detroit-County health commissioner to find out their feelings.

Earl Philips, who noted that he was a Christian Scientist, asked that the Commission give the public a choice to select what kind of water it wants. Another speaker, Norma Albert, said that not all groups and dentists are for fluoridation and she listed several American and foreign groups.

Another opponent was Dr. A. K. Ashton, who said that another group opposing it were chiropractors, who are the largest drugless group in the world.

Dr. Travis countered later that fluoride in water is no different than adding chlorine, since both have an end result of helping to prevent disease.

Commissioners took very little part in the discussion. Mayor Robert Sincok sometimes had a difficult time keeping speakers from being interrupted. Applause broke out after some of the stirring appeals.

Commissioner Richard Wernecke said that he had relatives in Grand Rapids and that he didn't know of a single case where the children's teeth were mottled. Commissioner Marvin Terry, before the vote was taken, told the audience that contrary to statements that pressure was being put on commissioners by the dentists, that there had been no pressure put on him and that he had talked to none of the proponents about it.

Following an hour of discussion, Commissioner William Hartmann said that the discussion could probably go on past midnight and that he felt that both sides had presented their opinions, so made the motion to fluoridate the water. Wernecke seconded the motion and it was approved unanimously.

Later, a motion was made to purchase an injecting mechanism and enough fluoride for the remainder of the year. The injector costs $300 while the fluoride will cost another $300.

Diplomas Go to Record 297 at PHS Next Week

A Plymouth High School graduate who is now a vice-president of Syracuse University, will return here June 15 to deliver the Commencement address to 297 members of the Class of 1961.

He is Dr. Kenneth G. Bartlett, vice-president and dean of public affairs at Syracuse. He was a 1923 graduate of Plymouth High and his father is well-remembered as partner in the grocery store, Bartlett and Kaiser.

This Sunday, the Rev. James H. Baird, pastor of Central Methodist Church, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon.

Baccalaureate will begin at 8 p.m. in the High School gymnasium. It is open to the public. The Rev. Edward W. Castner, associate pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will give the invocation. The High School Choir, directed by Fred C. Nelson, will sing "The Heritage of Freedom." Offering the benediction will be the Rev. Donald E. Williams, pastor of First Baptist Church.

Thursday night's commencement will also start at 8 o'clock but will be held at the athletic field. This will also be open to the public, but if it rains, the program will be moved inside and admission will be by ticket only. Last year, when commencement was held outside for the first time, rain forced the program to be moved into the gym.

The commencement will open with the playing of the processional by the High School Band, led by James R. Griffith. Rev. Fr. William F. Child of Our Lady of Good Counsel will give the invocation.

Following the address by Dr. Bartlett, a member of the graduating class, Grace Kuhns, will sing "O Lord Most Holy."

Principal Carvel Bentley, Keith Baughman and Patrick Butler, faculty members, are in charge of the presentation of the class.

Awarding the diplomas will be Gerald J. Fischer and Peter Zylstra, Jr., Board of Education trustees.

This year's class of 297 members is only four more than last year. Next year the class is expected to reach 330.

Dr. Bartlett's responsibilities include the secretaryship of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees and institutional relationships with the university's major publics. Dr. Bartlett is also president of the Metropolitan Development Association of Syracuse and Onondago County, an association of business and industrial leaders interested in the physical redevelopment of the Syracuse Metropolitan area.

Dr. Bartlett has been associated with Syracuse University since 1928. He is identified in the university as the first dean of University College which is the adult education division of Syracuse University and originator of the oldest educational program in radio and television. Although Dr. Bartlett is no longer associated with adult education, the division is one of the largest in the United States.

As a specialist in broadcasting, Dr. Bartlett caused the university to install the first television studios on a university campus and was the first to organize an exclusive-

Propose Curb, Gutter for 10 Street Sections

Property owners along 10 sections of City street will be polled to determine if they want curb and gutter.

The decision to poll the homeowners by postcard came at Monday night's City Commission meeting upon the recommendation of City Manager Albert Glasford. The manager said that curb and gutter is badly needed on many streets in order to control the flow of rain water and to eliminate ditches.

Estimated cost of the installation for each property owner would be $3.60 per lineal foot and probably half price for side yards.

These are the streets that will be polled:

Harvey, from Wing to Ann Arbor Trail; Hartsough, from Evergreen to McKinley; Ross, from Evergreen to McKinley; Farmer, from Sheldon to Amelia; Sutherland, from Main to S. Harvey; Hartsough, from Roosevelt to Sympar Subdivision.

Also, Dewey, from Ross to Hartsough; Roosevelt, from Ross to Hartsough; Harding, from Ross to Hartsough; and Maple, from McKinley to S. Harvey.

This is a total of 12,160 lineal feet.

Vote 'Yes' Monday

Every Community College Accredited in Michigan

By ERIC J. BRADNER

(Last of a series of five articles for voters on June 12)

With the decision less than a week away many people have had their questions answered and are ready to cast their votes in favor of establishing a community college.

Some thoughtful citizens are still unsatisfied. Because the community college concept is new to them, they seek guarantees that the college will actually be of the high quality desired; that the cost to the taxpayer will not go up; that community college students can and do transfer to other colleges as juniors without loss of credit; that the technical courses will be of the kinds needed by both industry and labor.

Some of these guarantees are difficult to provide before the college is established. Perhaps it is not enough to say that all of the 16 community colleges in Michigan are accredited by the Michigan Commission on College Accreditation — that the graduates of all 16 are acceptable at other schools. Perhaps it is not enough to say that not one of the 16 community

School Board Candidates

Lawrence A. Schendel, George Conover, Richard Stribley, Robert Utter

Four Compete for One School Board Post

Electors in six school districts — including Plymouth's — will go to the polls Monday to determine if they want to establish a community college district.

At the same time, Plymouth voters will name one of four candidates to their Board of Education, elect one Plymouth candidate for the proposed community college's board of trustees and help select four at-large trustees to the board.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. Monday and will close at 8 p.m. All precincts will be the same as a year ago, except the location of voting in the High School (Precinct 1) will be moved because of construction work going on there. Voting will take place in the vocal music room in the annex (former Junior High).

Precinct 2 is located at Gallimore School, Precinct 3 at the Plymouth Township Hall on Ann Arbor Rd. and Precinct 4 at the City Fire Hall No. 2 at Spring and Holbrook.

There are four men seeking the single Plymouth Board of Education vacancy. They are George Conover, 279 Blunk, a mechanical engineer and designer for Detroit Diesel; Lawrence A. Schendel, 42257 Hammill Lane, an attorney; Richard Stribley, 1402 Carol, a chemical engineer and sales manager; and Robert Utter, 11827 Amherst Ct., an airport passenger services manager.

Central Parking Lot Assessment Faces Injunction

A special assessment roll for enlargement and improvement of the Central Parking lot that will cost $118,900 was approved Monday night by the City Commission, but after the vote was taken the Commission was given notice that its decision will be taken to court.

It is proposed to split the cost between the City-at-large and the surrounding property owners. The plan calls for acquiring additional land, tearing down two existing buildings and four homes and re-paving the lot. The expansion will mean around 119 additional parking spaces.

But there were five of the affected property owners at the meeting protesting. Dr. Charles Westover, whose office is at Ann Arbor Trail and Harvey, said that he believes that parking is needed but that he is not in agreement with the method of assessment.

He feels that he and others across Harvey St. in a PR-1 zoning district have adequate parking now. He later asked why the entire amount could not be paid from the City's general fund (to which Mayor Sincok replied that there isn't enough money — to which Dr. Westover replied that the City shouldn't get into the project then.)

Others speaking in behalf of the project were Robert Reid, of Reid Corporation, owners of Graham's and Peterson's Drugs buildings; Frank Lodge and Robert Barbour, members of the citizen committee that had planned the project after a year's study.

Reid said that while it is true that all of the property owners have already paid for off-street parking, they must pay for more to protect what investment they have. "If you can keep ahead you can keep what you have." He was referring to the fact that unless adequate parking is continued, shoppers will begin to go elsewhere. "We have a good downtown now, but we can't rest on our laurels," he concluded.

Lodge, who was chairman of the committee, warned that value of downtown property is slowly slipping away. City and schools operate on a tax money of which the majority comes from business and industry, not homes, he said. "We could slip to the point where the City must either operate on less money or else collect the difference from homeowners."

As far as the assessment method, Lodge and Barbour

They will be competing for the post being vacated by Harold Fischer, who is the only candidate for Plymouth's representative to the Proposed Northwest Community College board of trustees.

Each of the six participating school districts — Plymouth, Livonia, Southfield, Redford Union, Clarenceville and Garden City — are electing one person to the board of trustees. In addition, there will be three people elected "at-large" to represent the entire college district. This makes a total of nine trustees.

It will be the duty of the board to operate the college, but first, the question of whether the college district should be formed must be approved. The board would serve without pay.

If the college formation question is approved, it is assumed that there would be another election held before September at which voters will be asked to approve a one-mill levy. A half mill will be used to back a bond issue for buying the land and constructing the buildings. The remaining half mill would be used for operation.

There is one Plymouth resident seeking one of the three at-large trustee jobs. She is Mrs. Jane K. Moehle (pronounced May-lee), 1275 W. Ann Arbor Trail. Mrs. Moehle was assistant dean of women at the University of Illinois, was counselor and instructor at Hospital School of Nursing, Cincinnati; and director of Solicitation of magazine subscriptions by telephone is bringing some complaints to the Chamber of Commerce office. The solicitors claim they have a "surprise" offer — the magazines are claimed to be free but the subscriber must pay for postage. The Chamber says that the firm is in no way connected with any magazine publisher and that it is doubtful that there are any bargains. ... One Livonia woman recently signed a binding contract that will cost her over $50. The Chamber can be phoned for details.

CUTBACK: A reduction in personal property assessments of business and industry has caused the Plymouth Community School District's state equalized valuation to drop from $102,788,225 last year to $88,805,972 this year. The Board of Education called a special meeting for tonight to determine how to re-adjust the proposed new budget that will be cut $45,000 due to the assessment loss.

APPOINTMENT: Charles Groth, who has been assistant fire chief, has been appointed to the new position of deputy fire chief following competitive examinations conducted by the Michigan Municipal League.

VOTE NOTE: All registered voters, whether they are property owners or not, are eligible to vote on the proposed community college Monday. Some people felt they could not vote because they did not own property. Monday's election does not involve a bond issue.

Jean's Jottings

By Jean Campau, Woman's Editor

That wonderful season of 'easy livin' is here! Winter coats have been laid aside, the backyard barbecue is emitting mouth-watering odors. Schools, clubs and churches are planning the annual picnic and the kiddlets are counting the minutes until summer vacation starts.

The strenuous activity of the busy months past takes a recess and in its stead comes vacations, entertaining summer theater, open air concerts and a variety of interesting things to do and see.

One unusual feature you might want to take in is the Flea Market, the first large scale effort of its kind to be held in this part of the country. Sponsored by the Little Group of Farmington, the one-day outdoor antique show and sale will be held June 17 on the 41 acres adjacent to Botsford Inn.

There the Detroit Palette and Brush Club will exhibit their works of art and the Michigan Weavers Guild will offer handwoven textiles and articles of clothing. And along with the carnival atmosphere will be soft drink and food concessions.

Flea Markets, popular for some time in the Eastern states, offer the antique enthusiast the opportunity to browse through hundreds of interesting and valuable items offered by many top dealers in one convenient spot.

Proceeds from the Detroit area Flea Market will be used to further the sponsoring organization's philanthropic projects.

The Little Group is a unique organization of 17 women living in the Farmington-Livonia area, with no by-laws, officers or any regular meeting schedule.

During its six years of existence, the group has contributed large sums of money to various philanthropies through the staging of antique auctions, art shows, silent auctions and other events.

Some of their recipients have been the Well-Baby Clinic in Livonia, Farmington and Livonia libraries, Northville State Mental Hospital, Maybury Sanatorium and Boys Republic.

Tops Tip Scale For New Members

The TOPS Club was founded in 1948 by a Milwaukee housewife as a local club with only four members. It has since grown into national proportions and won the whole-hearted approval of the medical profession as well as the overweight people for whose benefit it was begun.

The theory of the Club is based on group therapy just as Alcoholics Anonymous is. Each member must be willing to apply will power to help herself and her fellow members fight the craving for food that can be almost as harmful to the weighty as drink is to the alcoholic.

Northville's local chapter of TOPS calls themselves the Eater Beaters and has a membership of 30, including several from Plymouth. The group meets each Monday at 8 p.m. in the American School.

At each meeting members are praised for their weight losses or penalized for a gain. Pound losers are rewarded with a prize.

Currently the Eater Beaters are sponsoring a membership drive. Anyone interested may call Mrs. Marilyn Marr at GL 3-1736 for details or the club leader, Mrs. Fran Schlieff at FI 9-0731.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Wisniewski

Wedding Vows Repeated at Our Lady of Good Counsel

Marion Christine Sergison and Richard Robert Wisniewski repeated their vows May 30 before Rev. Fr. Francis Byrne at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Charles Sergison. Her gown was chantilly lace and white organza, with chantilly lace trimming the scalloped neckline. A crystal tiara held her fingertip veil. The bridal bouquet was of white roses surrounding a white orchid.

Beverly Niestroy, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a blue silk organza dress with bouffant sleeves and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Donna Bennett, Gayle Moore, and Martie Mayne were bridesmaids and wore dresses identical to that of the maid of honor's. Sheri Hart was flower girl and Ronald Sergison was ring bearer. Best man was Mick Gavin. Charles Sergison, Jr. and Robert Sergison were ushers. Other attendants included Joe Bonfante, Don Caudle and Mike Wisniewski.

The mother of the bride were a beige lace over mint green taffeta sheath. The groom's mother wore a blue all-over embroidered silk sheath.

Approximately 400 guests attended the evening reception held at the UAW 182 Hall, coming from Florida, Chicago, Pinckney, Detroit and Richmond.

For her going away outfit to Cape Cod Bay, the new Mrs. Wisniewski chose a turquoise and white bouffant dress.

The bride is a graduate of Bentley High School, class of 1959 and the groom graduated from Plymouth High in 1959.

Donald Sutherlands Attend Rotary Convention in Japan

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sutherland of Ridge Rd. will soon return from Tokyo where they attended the 52nd annual convention of Rotary International, world-wide service organization. Mr. Sutherland represented the Plymouth Rotary Club.

The convention, which began May 28, is the largest in Rotary history with an attendance of more than 23,000 Rotarians and members of their families from some 70 countries.

At the opening-night entertainment feature, the Plymouth Rotarian and his guest saw some of Japan's greatest performers, including scenes from the Kabuki Theatre, Shinto dancers, and the Tokyo Philharmonic chorus. The next morning, May 29, they were present at the official opening of the convention by the Emperor of Japan at the Tokyo International Trade Center.

Many Rotarians from outside Japan were entertained in typical Japanese fashion by Rotarians of the Tokyo-Yokohama area. For many months, Japanese Rotarians have been studying English to enable them to become better acquainted with their guests from abroad and to assist them in finding their way around the world's largest city.

On Tokyo's Ginza, famous for its neon brilliance and department stores, in museums, hotel lobbies, and restaurants; in landscaped gardens and at world-renowned shrines and temples, Rotarians from communities in all parts of the world experienced an adventure in international friendship and understanding that is traditional at Rotary conventions.

Rotary in Plymouth is linked to 11,000 other Rotary clubs with 505,000 Rotarians in 122 countries.

322 Main Street, Plymouth
Phone GL 3-3373

The Mail Attitude

This newspaper urges voters to remember to get to the polls Tuesday, and once there, to register an unequivocal "Yes" for the Community College proposal.

"Yes" would establish a college district composed of Redford Union, South Redford, Clarenceville, Livonia, Garden City and Plymouth.

There is no proposal for millage or new taxes on Tuesday's ballot. Any such request would follow in the autumn, and would be measured only then by the voters. The current plan is to ask for a single mill at that time.

Of all the districts, Redford Union and Clarenceville stand to gain the most from the proposal. They are the two with grossly low tax bases. (Redford Union has just about half as much tax base as South Redford, for example.) By joining with richer districts in a common facility, they have the opportunity to enjoy some of the fruits of their neighbors' higher valuations.

This College proposal has reached the ballot only after four years of the most diligent, careful research by the best school and lay minds in the six districts.

Those experts, after months of checking, have determined there is a crying need for the facility. Thousands of our local youth (who are qualified) do not go to college today because (a) they can't afford it, or (b) they can't gain admission at the major schools which have become so jammed they've restricted entrance only to the highest high school scholars.

We have entered a period in our society where to stop education at the 12th grade is to be almost helpless in finding useful employment, or in making a career. The market for unskilled labor has almost vanished.

The Community College would teach trades and vocations to young men and women.

It would provide low cost freshman and sophomore academic training.

It would offer education to adults who are interested in self-betterment and who find themselves with increasing amounts of leisure time.

The College would enrich our communities, increase home values, provide a cultural center.

This is one proposal where the "Yes" should be almost automatic.

Now let's sift the multitude of candidates running for school offices Tuesday.

One part of the election is unique, the first in history. Local voters must pick a Board of Trustees which would run a local Community College. The Board precedes the College; hence, there's never been such an election here before.

Each of six school districts will elect one College Trustee from their own area. In addition, all voters will vote for three "at large" Trustees, who can reside anywhere in the six districts and who must have the highest total votes from the combined area in order to win.

Our recommendations are arbitrary, because the college proposal has attracted a big group of capable citizens willing to serve as Trustee. Nonetheless, because it is a bulky and confusing field, we believe our readers would want us to make recommendations on the basis of our reporters' research.

Of the 13 seeking "at large" posts (three openings), this newspaper has narrowed its gaze down to four:

- Jane Moehle, 1279 Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth.
- Charles B. Kirkpatrick, 31838 Delaware, Livonia.
- James O'Neil, 9840 Ingram, Livonia.
- Harold G. Weber, 26375 Ross Drive, Redford Township.

The three men all are executives in private life, all have a background of loyal and painstaking contribution to school affairs. They've labored hard in these early thankless days of study and research on the College.

Mrs. Moehle is probably our No. One choice, however. First, because we hope the Trustees include feminine representation; second, because her background at the collegiate level is exceptional. She holds an AB and a Master's in Education and is under way on a Ph.D. project. For five years, at one time, she was assistant dean of women at the U. of Illinois. She's been a counselor and instructor at a nurse's hospital; director of residences at Kent State University; once was national president of Mortar Board, senior college women's honor society; and much else. She's now a housewife with two children.

Then there are the individual districts, where only one can be elected. Our recommendations:

Plymouth — Harold Fischer, a power on the local school board for some time, has elected to move to the College project for the future. He's unopposed.

Livonia — A. Ward McCain, the dean of the Livonia board of education in seniority, also has elected to work for the College and leave the local board. He has four opponents, but our choice is McCain because among other things, his reputation and his built-in voter support does much to aid the college project itself. He has pushed firmly since the first hour (some years ago) toward getting the College plan to the ballot stage.

Redford Union — Gordon Brocklehurst is a member of the local Board, well-known in the community, has the respect of educators and school supporters. He has two opponents.

South Redford — Virginia Kissell is our top choice, mostly because her record of school activity is long and sincere, but her one opponent, Richard Haight, is well qualified and has written a whole thesis (for college work) on the details of operating small colleges.

Clarenceville — Paul Mutnick is unopposed, and a respected citizen.

Garden City — Martin J. Blied has been a loyal worker in several areas of planning for the College, and he has our good wishes. Blied has one opponent.

Judith LeGrande Hanlon Exhibits Forms of Art

Gallery 203 in Siepert Hall, site of the Bradley University School of Art, Peoria, Ill., continued last week the products of four years' work by Judith LeGrande Hanlon, a graduating senior.

The exhibit included works done in several media — ceramics, sculpture, painting, graphic art, and drawings. Among the objects shown were those which have won a second place in sculpture, graphics and textiles at the all-school art exhibits. In addition, there were prints that have been shown at the Peoria Art Center.

A native of Plymouth, Mrs. Hanlon has worked for the past two summers as a freelance commercial artist. In Peoria she had art experience in high school at Montgomery Ward. Since that time she has been engaged in volunteer work at the Peoria State Hospital in Bartonville, Ill., teaching mental patients in art classes and will continue working there this summer.

This coming September she will be obtaining a master's degree in ceramics and prints through an Assistantship Award from Bradley.

Besides serving Bradley's art department as treasurer of Delta Phi Delta, the art honorary, she is a member of Angel Flight, Wakapa, who's who in American Colleges and Universities, Delta Zeta sorority, Dean's List, and was the 1960 AFROTC Ball Queen.

telephone lines

By HUGH C. BRONAUGH, Manager

MANY OF US who have watched the satellite Echo move across the night sky realize that the project gave America a clear lead in space communications. However, the longer we delay in setting up the first satellite system, the more we risk losing our lead.

The Bell Telephone System has offered to build and pay for experimental satellites. It is willing to pay for their launching and for the ground stations in the U. S. (Foreign ground stations would be owned by foreign communications agencies.) There would be no cost to the taxpayer.

The Bell System's interest in space stems from the fact that a space communications system would be a natural extension of networks used in providing service to the public today. Bell seeks no monopoly and does not wish to exclude other international carriers either from establishing satellite communications systems or from sharing use of the system it proposes. This system would be operated under government regulation just as today's communications systems are operated.

What could offer a better means to serve the public's interest in a broader communications network for tomorrow!

EVER WONDER how a telephone lineman knows the safety strap he wears when working atop poles is dependable? Like all equipment our people use, the straps must meet rigid standards. Nothing is left to chance. These safety straps are made of several layers of tough fabric. When the outer layer wears thin, the contrasting color of the next layer shows it's time to get a new belt. A small thing—but one reason why telephone people are six times safer than those in most other industries.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

By Rosemary Koolman GL 3-3532

The girls of Girl Scout Troop 278 led by Mrs. R. Baxter and Mrs. K. Dundin have been working very hard to finish up their second class work before the end of the year.

On May 10 they were pleased to welcome as their guest Petra Schneider, an exchange student from Germany, who is spending this year in Plymouth. Petra spoke to the girls about her home in Germany. The entire troop, also as part of their second class work, held a cookout at the Girl Scout cabin. Their guests on this occasion were the Brownies of Troop 231 and their leaders, Mrs. D. Holt and Mrs. W. Todd. Both troops are sponsored by the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

The Girl Scouts of Troop 282 under the leadership of Mrs. C. Lambe and Mrs. L. Spagnola, received their second class badges Thursday May 25 at a Court of Awards in the Veterans Memorial Center. Mr. Jerry Thaden presented a new troop flag to the girls on behalf of the Plymouth Theater Guild which sponsors the troop. The ceremony was preceded by a potluck supper planned and supervised by Mrs. H. Sanocki and Mrs. J. Gallahaire. Prizes were awarded to Raina Smith and Jeanne Plymale for outstanding achievement during the year.

The Girl Scout cabin certainly has been busy this month. May 19 found it sheltering Brownie Troop 245 for their fly-up ceremonies.

The girls who became Scouts on this overnight trip are Linda Dely, Johanna Jacobs, Janice McMullen, Nettie Morgan, Melanie Robinson, and Deborah Waldeck. Leaders Mrs. L. Robinson and Miss Sydney Van Aken would like to express their appreciation to Mrs. Zoet who went with the troop and gave much valuable assistance.

Introducing -- The Four Board of Education Candidates

George W. Conover
 George W. Conover, 279 Blunk, is a mechanical engineer by profession and is supervisor and senior designer for the Detroit Diesel Division of GM. Born in Highland Park, N. J., he became a Plymouth resident in 1948. He graduated from Rutgers University where he received his B.S. in mechanical engineering.

He is a member and was chairman of the Plymouth School Community School Planning Group, 1958-60; headed the group's Exception Child sub-committee 1960-61; is a member and was company representative to the Society of Automotive Engineers 1954-59; is on the Boy Scout Troop P-4 committee, belongs to First Methodist Church and its Couples Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Conover have four children: William, attending Michigan School of Mining and Technology; Donald in the Junior High; and Nancy in the third grade.

"If elected to the Board of Education of the Plymouth Community School District, I would like to see a 'Balanced Educational Program' strengthened and continued for our children. In short, we need a school system that has a program to meet the needs of each pupil. I don't have to elaborate on the differences of our children. Any of us who has more than one child is constantly amazed at the interests and abilities our own children display.

"Our district has made many gains in the last ten years. One area has been the enlargement of our guidance department. In the graduating class of 1960, 50 per cent of our High School graduates went on to advanced learning. This is well and good and is much higher than the national average, but what about the remaining 50 per cent who do not graduate, and the drop-outs who do not complete high school? Are they ready for a job? Many are not as well prepared for their jobs as the other group. Many are not trained to enter into an area of endeavor that is challenging to their minds and within their capacity to perform.

"I realize that I am proposing an ideal goal and working toward it is not simple when there are problems such as a constantly changing and expanding student body, such as expanding such as obtaining competent teachers to consider. Such difficulties are always present but I believe the School Board can expand and modify its programs to help the students more adequately, as an example, Lansing School District has a small engine repair class. In this power mowers, outboard motors, and other small power equipment are repaired by the hundreds each year in a laboratory equipped with many teaching aids such as cutaway models. Offering an auto-mechanics course should also be seriously considered.

"A 'Balanced Educational Program' is needed in our school district now and even more so in the future. Let's give all our children the chance to attain his or her maximum potential.

Richard B. Stribley
 Richard B. Stribley, 1402 Carol, is sales manager in industrial chemical sales for Detrex Chemical Industries, Inc. He graduated from Ann Arbor High School, attended Eastern Michigan and is a graduate chemical engineer from the U. of M.

He was captain in the Air Force, was All-State High School football player and writes regularly for technical trade publications. Moving to Plymouth in 1952, he is a member and immediate past-president of the Plymouth Lions, past president of National Management Association affiliate club, member Plymouth Rock Lodge, F. & A.M., Fox Hills Country Club, PTA, National Electroplaters Assn. Boy Scouts of America, American Ordnance Assn. and University of Michigan Union.

Mr. and Mrs. Stribley have four children: Thomas, ninth grade; Stephen, seventh grade; Jean Ann, third grade; and Sue, first grade.

"If elected, I would like to see the following accomplished: I believe that the cost of building new schools can be lowered appreciably by cooperating with other school districts within the State of Michigan. It seems to me that there must be a design of a school that would meet the requirements of many different areas. By pooling the architectural and engineering costs, each school could be built with the same basic design but at considerable savings.

"I would like to see the summer session expanded considerably, particularly with courses for the Senior High School. This would allow the average student to complete many additional elective courses, and thereby better prepare himself, by exploring these new avenues, for college. It would allow other students to repeat courses if they had difficulty with, and thereby keep up with their class and improve their scholastic standing towards eligibility for college. It also provides a good outlet for students that have nothing else to do during the summer.

"I believe the Senior High School music program could stand some improvement. The Junior High School program is excellent and perhaps a similar system could be investigated for the Senior High School.

"A reading readiness program has been tried in the Plymouth Community School District. It involves a concentrated program at the beginning of the first grade in small classes. No actual reading is taught during this time, but the child is thoroughly prepared so that the art of reading comes easily and properly. I would like to see this approach become a standard part of the Plymouth Community School District program.

"I would like to see the physical education program expanded, particularly for those students that do not participate in inter-school athletics. It is common knowledge that our modern youth is more inclined to be a 'spectator athlete' than a participant. Body conditioning and physical fitness should be as much of an integral part of formal education as any other group of courses.

Mr. and Mrs. Utter have three children, Susan, a senior, and Judith, a fifth grader.

"Much has been accomplished by our Plymouth Community School Boards over the past years. Our school system is one of the most respected of any in the state of Michigan. The quality of our instruction is high. Colleges and universities are welcoming our high school graduates because it has been proved that they have been given sound, basic instruction.

"However, the demand upon our society in this decade of the 1960's will be greater than ever before. It therefore behooves our school system to not only keep pace with our changing world but to stay ahead of it. Only in this way can our youth be trained and prepared adequately to cope with the problems which tomorrow is certain to bring. Our School Board must take the following steps to accomplish this desired goal.

"1. Sound, modern business principles must apply in the administration of our schools. Basic organization must be reviewed; internal communications strengthened. A definite budgeting techniques must be applied and a firm system of control of expenditures instituted.

"2. Our program for the recruitment of teachers should be reviewed. Our salary structure must be constantly compared with other school systems and revised when feasible so that we can attract the best staff available to instruct our youth.

"3. Any organization is only as good as its personnel. Working conditions must be constantly reviewed, keeping in mind the ratio of teachers to students. Individual progress reports should be given on an annual basis. Adequate indoctrination of new teachers must be accomplished.

"4. The curriculum should be reviewed with the goal in mind of coordinating similar subjects in the elementary schools so that the same standards are maintained in each. Further reviews should be conducted on a regular basis to ascertain that our teaching techniques are up to date, that modern methods and aids

"In answer to the question 'What would I like to see accomplished if elected,' I wish to set forth the following ideas:

"First of all I feel that the school system is one of the most important factors in community life, since it not only provides the facilities for educating our children but is a valuable source of adult education and can provide a meeting place for many community activities.

"The Plymouth school system should always be kept up-to-date, progressive and forward looking. I believe that it takes more than first class buildings and classrooms to produce 'good results.' I believe that teachers and teaching practices should be screened to obtain the best possible personnel and methods of education.

"Any program of expansion should be planned to provide sufficient revenue to obtain new teachers as well as provide additional classroom space when this proves necessary. The voters should always be fully advised of the complete package at the time a proposal is put on the ballot. There is a great deal of merit to a 'Pay as you go' plan for building facilities and adding teachers to the system. Under this method generations in the future are not obligated by long term bond issues but each generation more or less pays its own way. This, of course, also eliminates the tremendously high cost which is added by the interest which taxpayers are required to pay whenever bonds have to be sold to raise revenue.

"Long range planning which keeps in touch with the community and anticipates future needs is necessary for any successful school system. Generally the crash program of expansion financed by bond issues indicates that a School Board may have been caught "napping" and has not planned far enough in advance. Finally, I believe a taxpayer is entitled to have a dollar return for each dollar spent on the school system so that he can feel his money is soundly invested in a school system which is a source of pride for the entire community."

Plymouth High School

By Lester Barton

Dance schedules for next year were set up last Friday by a special committee consisting of students Paul Rawley, Nancy North, John Augustine, Assistant Principal Gustave Gorguze and teachers Robert Southgate, Virginia Olmstead. Said Paul, "It was easy to schedule this time — we had 15 dances available and exactly 15 clubs requested to sponsor one."

Sponsoring dances provides many clubs and activities with much-needed funds. Well, seniors are all finished with High School. They completed their finals Tuesday morning, and spent the afternoon of that day practicing for baccalaureate, which will be held outdoors on the athletic field if the weather permits, is scheduled for Thursday, June 15.

Seniors aren't the only ones looking forward to excitement in the near future. A number of juniors are counting the days in eager anticipation of various trips abroad.

The magnificent scenic beauty and quaint charm of Switzerland is in store for Dick Illy when he journeys to that country with his aunt, who has lived there for some time. Dick says he is looking forward to getting a really comprehensive view of the country.

Equally fortunate in having someone very familiar with the country to show them the sights are the four juniors going to Europe through the Michigan Council of Churches Exchange Program, who will stay right in the home of a family specially selected by the program.

Susie Neal will soon be treading the soil of merrie England, and is anticipating the varied cultural charms of the nation that has had so much influence on the United States.

Doug Eder, who is of German ancestry himself, is planning on a stay in the land of the Rhine and so much other magnificent scenery. Dee Wernette will also go to Germany, spending the summer in West Berlin, where the contrasts of democracy and communism are so much in evidence.

The land of windmills, tulips and wooden shoes beckons to Sue Tichy, who will be staying with a family in that hospitable country of the Netherlands. All of the exchange students will be able to see the capital of Holland, since Amsterdam is the orientation center from which they are to be sent to their individual countries and homes after the transatlantic crossing.

Scotland with its romantic moors, mountain scenes and fascinating people is the place where Gay Carey will be spending her vacation. She is going there in a private cabin.

Lynn Van Dyke will be heading many thousands of miles in the other direction when she visits a friend in Hawaii this summer.

United States hotel room occupancy during 1958 was 87 percent of capacity, compared with 70 percent in 1957.

The world's oldest scientific society, the Royal Society of London, was founded in 1662.

WELL DONE — Congratulations are offered to Earl G. Gray (right) by W. G. Mitchell after Gray's last game before retirement. Gray announced that he was retiring as an umpire, except for occasional relief jobs, after last Saturday's high school game between Northville and Plymouth.

Sixty-five years old, Gray has been umpiring for 33 years. He lives at 1210 S. Harvey. Mitchell resides at 917 Hartsough, has been at it five years locally. (SEE SPORTSEEN COLUMN)

Rocks Share Baseball Title

Plymouth split a couple of baseball games last week, but won the big one, 6-4 over Bentley Friday. They lost to Northville by the same score on Saturday.

The win over Bentley gave the Rocks a 7-2 record in the Suburban Six League race and first place by a game. It also set the stage for last Monday's battle against Belleville to decide the league championship. Belleville had a 6-3 record. A loss to Belleville would result in both teams being declared co-champs.

By Bill Nelson

He has worn glasses for the past year and confesses that for "the past few years I've taken the home plate assignment, so I don't have to move around so much."

He's stayed at the game despite his advancing years. He's retired from the Wayne County Road Commission and now sells real estate for Vaughn Smith. He's secretary-treasurer of the Inter County Umpires' Assn. and helped organize it in 1936.

During his time he has umpired everything from softball to hardball, and views his retirement with qualifications. He says, "I'll still do an occasional job when I can help out."

Saturday after his last game (this one between Plymouth High and Northville) he was in a talkative mood. The game was a rather quiet affair except for an occasional shout of "You're blind as a bat" and "You need those glasses." In short, fairly typical.

Gray recalled that he used to umpire games on a field where the Burroughs plant now sits. "In those days I didn't get paid," he said, "but after the first season the boys took a collection and bought me a smoking stand, which I still have. It's one of my proudest possessions."

"I've never thrown a high school coach off the grounds... never had to, but occasionally some of the others..."

W. G. Mitchell, another umpire at the game, chipped in to say, "I saw him call a foul once from home plate that hit a car way out in the outfield. There was a big dispute. It was very close, but the managers and the umpire finally walked out past the outfield." The car was half-fair, half-foul. The dent was in foul territory.

Gray talked some more. Mentioned that he spent most of his life in Plymouth. Now resides at 1210 S. Harvey. He was in a mood to tell lots of anecdotes and even a secret.

It seemed natural to ask, "Didn't you ever have the urge to shout I'm only half blind?"

"No," he said, "I don't think anyone in the games ever knew."

He has been blind in his right eye since he was three years old.

Athletic Director John Sandmann announced today a physical fitness program for the summer. The high school gym will be open every Saturday from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m., starting June 19 for gymnastics and physical fitness.

At 8:30, third, fourth and fifth graders are invited. At 9:30, it's open to sixth, seventh and eighth graders. At 10:30 it'll be available to grades 9-12. The program is under the Recreation Program and will be operated by Sandmann.

Against Bentley, Plymouth collected eight hits, all singles, to beat the Bulldogs. The Rocks jumped to a one run lead in the second inning, but trailed 3-1 going into the fourth after Bentley scored three times in the second inning. Plymouth collected four runs in the fourth, however, on singles by Darroll Miller, Bryan Gilles, Bob Montell, Dick Schryer and Jared Stevens. It sent Plymouth ahead 5-3 and the Rocks were never headed thereafter, although each team scored a run in the last inning.

Rocks Beat Bentley 6-4

Aided by five Plymouth errors, Belleville pounded the Rock baseball team 8-4 Monday to gain a tie for the Suburban Six League baseball crown with Plymouth.

The Rocks had beaten Belleville earlier in the season, 8-2, and the game

Monday was a rematch of a second game twice postponed because of weather. Both teams ended with 7-3 records.

Belleville jumped to a two run lead in the first inning at Belleville, but Plymouth battled back in the top of the second to tie the score at 2-2. Belleville went ahead in the bottom of the third, 4-2, and scored what proved to be the winning run in the bottom of the fifth.

With two outs and no one on base, Plymouth committed three errors and gave up two singles as Belleville pushed to a 7-2 lead. Each team scored one in the sixth, and Plymouth added another in the seventh.

It was too late, and the Rocks had to be content with a share of the title.

residences at Kent (O.) State University.

Exactly how many people will turn out for Monday's election here is hard to predict. School officials estimate around 1,500. There are 2,500 registered voters in the Plymouth Community School District.

The largest school election vote in history was a year ago where 2,332 turned out to vote on candidates and a millage issue.

Last Thursday night, only 15 people showed up for a Town Hall meeting at which the community college question was discussed and candidates presented. While there were numerous questions, no one spoke up who appeared opposed to the proposal.

There is known to be some resistance to the community college formation, mostly from individuals. The main objections heard so far come from those who just don't want to see taxes go up another mill. Some others note that there are many colleges within driving distance that students can attend.

Scores of organizations, however, have endorsed the proposal, including the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce. Perhaps the greatest support has come from parents of children now in school who feel that the yearling who just don't want to see taxes go up another mill. Some others note that there are many colleges within driving distance that students can attend.

programs. The newspaper winners were Kathy White and Gary Mirto. The yearbook winners were Elaine Berry and Sharon Wesley. James Speller of The Plymouth Mail made the presentation.

The Daughters of the American Revolution award for American history went to Celeste Arjay. This was presented by the Sarah Ann Cochran Chapter. Mrs. Robert Willoughby made the presentation.

A Webster's Dictionary was presented by the Detroit News, given to Robert Evens for his winning the humorous reading contest at the district meeting this spring.

colleges operates on more than half a mill of local taxation.

If additional guarantees are needed, one must look to the hundreds of conscientious, well informed, sincere people who have become interested in and are now spreading the information about the advantages of a community college in our area. These are the people who have studied the facts and have become convinced that high school graduates of the future are in danger of being excluded from college. These people are our guarantors as to the genuineness and urgency of the need.

Because the number of youth of college age will double in the next 10 years and because the available facilities cannot double in that time, a considerable number of our young people otherwise eligible will not be admitted to college.

No thinking person will fail to see the effect of the closing of college doors upon his own children. Nor upon his neighbors' children.

said that it is the only method that is approved by bonding consultants and a bond issue must be sold in order for the project to move ahead. They admitted that there are some inequities, but that it is "this way or nothing at all."

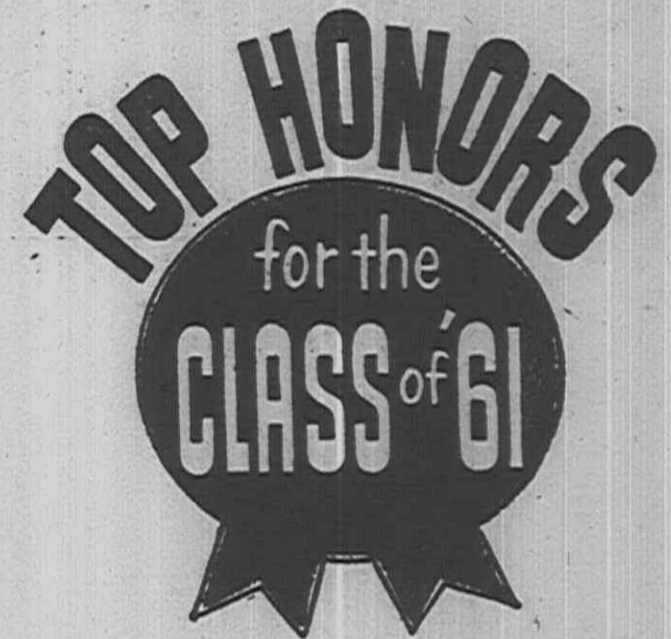

Lodge said that even with the added spaces, Plymouth's parking is only 20 per cent of the national standards.

The motion to approve the assessment roll was approved unanimously. But Dr. Westover announced that he will file in writing his intention of filing an injunction against the assessment.

SOME 800 people attended the funeral services last Wednesday for Owen "Bert" Brennan, vice-president of the Teamsters. Shown are some of the crowd who awaited start of services at Schrader Funeral Home. Teamster President Jimmy Hoffa was in this crowd. Others included Detroit's mayor, corporation officials and former Presidential press secretary James Hagerty was also said to be in the group.

Hundreds Gather Here for Brennan Rites

Officers and business agents of the International Union of Teamsters, government officials and executives of business and industry—some 800 people in all—were in Plymouth last Wednesday for the funeral services of Owen (Bert) Brennan, a Plymouth resident for 10 years who died June 25 of cancer. It was described by a Schrader Funeral Home spokesman as the largest funeral ever held in Plymouth. Mr. Brennan, who died at 57, was a second international vice-president of the union and a close friend of President Jimmy Hoffa. Hundreds of people called at the funeral home Monday and Tuesday nights of last week during calling hours. Hoffa was at the home both nights to be with the Brennan family. Among the mourners were Mayor Louis Miriani of Detroit, Councilwoman Blanche Parent Wise, State Senator Stanley Nowak, State Rep. Frank Mahoney and vice-presidents and other executives of the international union from all across the country. Vice-presidents of a number of corporations were also in attendance. Ford Anthony, in charge of funeral arrangements in the absence of Edwin Schrader, estimated that there were 800 people on hand Wednesday afternoon. There were 400 chairs occupied inside, plus scores who stood inside the home, in the garage and in front of the home. Some 150 floral pieces were on display and walls of the garage were lined with some of them. The flowers were later distributed to area rest homes and hospitals. The Rev. Henry J. Walch, D.D., pastor of First United Presbyterian Church, officiated at the service and declared that Mr. Brennan will be remembered as a friend of the little people, of the common man. "He had to be or he wouldn't have been in the work he was," he declared. The mourners started to gather in front of the funeral home at 11 a.m., two hours before the service. Fralick Ave. near the funeral home was blocked off and filled with parked cars. The Mayflower Hotel and area motels were filled with friends who had come from distant points. Helping Plymouth police to handle traffic were the Wayne County Road Patrol and Michigan State Police. Detroit newspapers and television news cameramen were on hand to record the event. There were 108 cars traveling to Oakwood Cemetery at Saline. It took some 15 minutes for them to pass through town and a small crowd lined the street to watch the procession. Pallbearers including Hoffa were Frank Fitzsimmons, vice-president of Local 299; John T. O'Brien, an international vice-president from Chicago; and Robert Holmes, secretary-treasurer of Local 337. Mr. Brennan is survived by his wife, Alice; a daughter, Mrs. Thomas Neese of Chicago; two sons, Raymond and Lawrence, both of Plymouth; and six grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Hively Move From Canton

By Esther Sprengel GL 3-0194 One of those things that never occurs to us as parents of school children and seemingly is not apparent to our PTA groups, is the concern of persons whose children are grown and out of school but are still interested in our schools. The interest of one such person was brought to my attention recently. Although her children are grown and out of school, she and her husband are still vitally interested in education and would enjoy attending a PTA or PTSA meeting if a welcome was extended. I, for one, know our PTA group would welcome anyone with such interest, as I am sure would other groups in our school system. Perhaps here is a source of membership that could help build up our organizations and interest in our schools, children, curriculum and voting matters. It is with many wishes for much happiness in their new home that we bid Mr. and Mrs. Hively of Beck Rd. a good-bye, and in the same vein we welcome Mr. and Mrs. Earl White, formerly of Northville. They will reside in the Hively home in Canton Township. Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Ferrari of Ford Rd. and family spent a very enjoyable evening with friends, who formerly lived in Livonia but are now living in California. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Holmes returned to the Plymouth area with their two daughters, Carol and Linda, on an unhappy visit, due to the death of Mr.

Holmes' brother. However their trip was made a bit brighter by renewing acquaintances with the Ferrari family. The couples chatted about former times, while the children once more became acquainted. Mrs. Leo Kowalcik of Maiben Rd. and friend Mrs. George Melton of Dearborn took a two week vacation to visit with the Kowalcik's daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Hastings of Massachusetts and their three children. Mrs. Kowalcik showed enthusiasm about the trip and explained on the way the trees and such, were just beginning to bud and on their return were in full bloom, which made it seem like two different seasons. The ladies traveled through New Hampshire, Vermont and Boston. Mrs. Hastings is the former Elaine Kowalcik. Now for the stork news. The Township has some proud grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Plant of Ford Rd. The Plants are the grandparents of a new granddaughter, Ruth Ann born on May 25 to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Southgate of Ypsilanti. Mrs. Southgate is the former Shirley Plant, and Plymouth High graduate. Although we have not been supplied with the name of the young lady, the Melvin (Bud) Corwin family of Ridge Rd. became the parents of a baby daughter this past week.

Need Outdoor Furniture
BY ROSELLA M. BANNISTER
Wayne County Extension Agent, Home Economics
Outdoor furniture for sale in 1961 has a light, airy, open look, designed to make your leisure time more comfortable and pleasant. If you are shopping for outdoor furniture, look for that which meets the following basic needs:

- 1. Outdoor furniture should shed water quickly and dry out promptly.
- 2. It should be rust proof.
- 3. It should be light weight for mobility, yet heavy enough to remain stable in a windstorm.
- 4. It should be resistant to the sun.
- 5. It should be comfortable and attractive, even without cushions.
- 6. It should require a minimum amount of winter storage space, or be usable in indoor areas.
- 7. It should be easily cleaned by wiping or hosing.
- 8. If the furniture has pads or cushions, they should be removable.

Materials used in better quality summer furniture include fiberglass, aluminum, steel, vinyl strapping, nylon mesh, rust-proofed wrought-iron, and varnished or sealed wood.

As a general rule, all pads and cushions should be covered or removed to indoor storage when the weather is doubtful. Water will get in around the stitching even on plastic covers.

Some manufacturers are advertising an all-weather cushion. They say that the cushions may be left out in wet weather unharmed because of special "Drain-Dri" construction. Porous covers and special inner fillings let water flow through and dry quickly.

A wide variety of colors is available in outdoor furniture. It is wise to select a basic color which will not compete with garden flowers. If you want your outdoor living area to have an indoor living room look, chances are you will want furniture that is more luxuriously cushioned than some. Then you must either have a protected outdoor area, or face up to covering or removing the cushions.

Many lawn chairs are part of larger groups with matching chaises and tables of various sizes. One grouping features a glass-topped table with a wicker basket underneath for storage of magazines, sunglasses, ivy plants, or whatever you wish. Compare prices and features of lawn furniture from different stores before you buy.

Midgets Race

A 50-lap national championship midget auto race will highlight next Thursday evening's (June 8) program, starring Indianapolis "500" drivers, at Flat Rock Speedway. It was announced by Promoter Bob George.

Sanctioned by the United States Auto Club, the seven-event card begins at 7 p.m. with time trials. The first race is scheduled for 8:30.

Heading the entry list is USAC's national champion, Jimmy Davies of Gardena, Calif., who nosed out Bob Wente, St. Louis, also an entry, by less than 10 points in their year-long battle for the national title. Third-ranked Gene Hartley, Indianapolis, and Leroy Warriner, a fellow townsman who ranks fourth, also are entered.

Clark "Shorty" Templeman, who finished fourth in the Memorial Day "500," will be on hand along with auto racing's "Rookie of the Year," Parnelli Jones of Torrance, Calif.

George also disclosed that he is negotiating for the appearance of either A. J. Foyt, this year's "500" winner, or Eddie Sachs, one of the sport's great stars.

"We definitely will have either Foyt or Sachs — perhaps both — for Thursday night's program," said George, "and we'll make the announcement in plenty of time for the racing fans' convenience — not later than Tuesday."

George listed Bob Tattersall, Streator, Ill.; Tommy Copp, Millbrae, Calif.; and Bob McLean, South Bend, the nation's fifth, sixth and twelfth ranking drivers, as entries.

Editorial Comment

Partisan School Boards?

(Editor's Note: Recently the Republican Club of Livonia picked out a pair of candidates running for the Board of Education and "endorsed" them. This has created quite a fuss, a flurry of indignant letters to the editor, and comment that "school elections should be non-partisan and politicians should keep hands off.")

(A similar action happened a few weeks ago in Ann Arbor. The following is a comment from a writer on the Ann Arbor Michigan Daily which defends the action.)

By MICHAEL HARRAH (Michigan Daily Staff Writer)

What a surprise. The Ann Arbor Board of Education (all but one are Democrats) has expressed "grave concern" (where have we heard that one before) over the city and county Republicans lending open support to three candidates in the upcoming school board election.

It appears that it is the "established policy of the Ann Arbor Public Schools that the freedom of school government and control on the local level from political partisanship in any form or manifestation is a cardinal principle in our society."

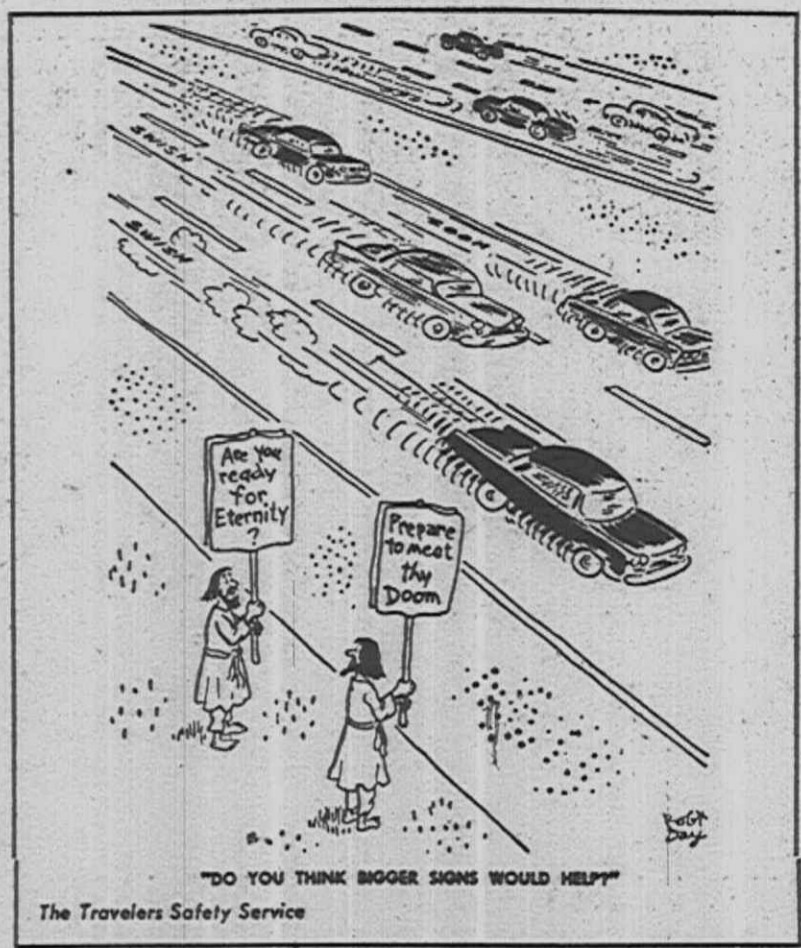

The most incredibly ridiculous part of the board's statement is: Questions which the school boards face in the course of their duties bear little or no relationship to the attitudes and points of view normally associated with the two major national political parties. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

Ever since the beginning of our nation, the government has had its hand in education. The makeup of the government is decided by the means of partisan politics, and it contains, one hopes, dedicated people who will adhere to their own particular partisan ideas.

With the increasing push for federal aid to education, and the various edicts and controls on education that it will entail, the local school boards will be deciding whether or not to accept such aid.

The Republicans oppose this aid, almost to a man. And the Democrats, though not as strong in their views, are for it. It stands to reason that if Democrats control a school board, they will accept such aid, and if the school area is predominantly Republican as in Ann Arbor, the constituents of these board members will be against such acceptance, and to no avail.

How's Business Watch These Key Barometers

By ROGER W. BABSON from this source.

The sharp upturn in business during the month of April has at long last confirmed hopes that the business recession has run its course. It is only natural, therefore, that thoughts are now turning to the questions of how intense will the revival be and how long it will last.

In essence, there is a great desire now to project the breadth and amplitude of the budding business upturn. At this early stage, any such projections would be sheer guesswork. The readers of this column can, however, derive some clue as to how much effective momentum is being generated in the economy as the recovery progresses by watching certain key barometers.

BUSINESS CAPITAL EXPENDITURES. One of the most potent generators of momentum during a period of rising business is a step-up in business capital outlays. For nearly a year now this sector has been drifting downward. Present plans, however, call for an increase in such spending beginning in the second half of 1961. If this materializes, the rebound in business can receive quite valuable energy

BUILDING AND CONSTRUCTION. Spurts in expenditures for building and construction were important factors in the swift and robust revivals following the 1953-54 and 1957-58 recessions. For the past two years, however, new construction outlays have trended generally downward. With a pickup in building now taking shape, we now suggest watching the trend of construction contract awards to gauge the contribution this sector of activity will make to the economy.

DURABLE GOODS DEMAND. Business and consumer spending for durable goods is another strong source of stimulus to business. Curtailed demand for durables largely accounted for the recent slump in industrial activity. Since February, however, new orders for durable goods have been on the upgrade. Be on the lookout for additional evidence substantiating a genuine rise in the durable goods field.

Book Learning

BY B. K. PATE

I rather suspect that when John Dos Passos' Midcentury (Houghton Mifflin, 496p. ($5.95)) reached the critics before its publication in February this year, some of the brethren may have reacted like the fellow in the ditty who implores, "Yesterday upon the stair I saw a man who wasn't there; he wasn't there again today, Gee, I wish he'd go away!"

For American critics have been writing Don Passos' literary obituary the past 20 years; he has fared better in Europe than here but the majority of critics are in agreement that he's slipped and badly since U.S.A. (1938), his monumental trilogy on American life. Dos Passos, however, is a reluctant corpse and Midcentury must be considered as one of the most significant novels of this publication season.

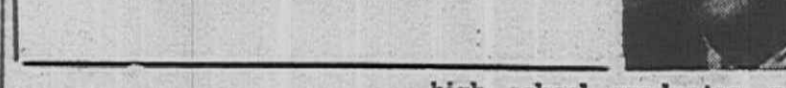

Dos Passos does well in Midcentury those things he's always handled effectively, narrative fiction and short biography. The fire that burned so bright in U.S.A., is not present in Midcentury, the author's petulance comes through to the reader and at times he seems almost neurotically pessimistic, but Dos Passos is just as honest in his fashion as always and we sometimes are forced to ask ourselves whether it isn't the truth he's saying that hurts.

Dos Passos returns to his trilogy for the technique in Midcentury; he employs the same devices: narrative fiction, newspaper extracts, and terse biographies of prominent personalities. These devices are used in his new work as they were in the trilogy, to present a panoramic vision of American life at "midcentury."

The narratives in the book are the best and the best of these, I suspect, provoke many who read Dos Passos writing about his own journey through American radicalism.

Under 21

By DAN HALLIGAN

Dear Dan: I'm a 17-year-old girl and have been going around with a boy for more than a year. My problem isn't about my boyfriend but about his parents. I always thought they approved of me because I used to be invited to their home many times and always received a warm reception.

Lately, however, they have been so inexcusably rude toward me that I feel like two cents. Now when Johnny brings me over to his house, his parents mutter two or three words to me and continue on with what they were doing before I came in, completely ignoring me.

How can I find out what I've done to make them act the way they are toward me? Johnny says it can't be very apparent because he hasn't noticed anything. Please help me.—Very Unhappy.

Dear Very Unhappy: If your boyfriend is 19 and you've been going steady for more than a year, the trouble isn't what you've done but the simple fact the parents now realize their son is serious about you, you're serious about him and one of these days they believe there may be wedding bells.

They're going through a period where they resent you because they feel "you're not good enough" for their Johnny. Any girl would get the same treatment. Ignore the ill manners because in time these parents will have a change of heart and everything will be fine again.

Dear Dan: Am I wrong? A new custom has reared its head in our community in connection with the final windup of eighth grade graduation. After the ceremonies, the parents take a bus or their cars and take the eighth grade graduates to an out of town roadhouse where they are fed and can dance and come home at a late hour.

The cost of this entertainment is divided by the parents which, in many instances, can't be afforded but with which they are obligated to pay. Also, some of the children feel left out because they can't afford the $7 or $8 it takes to be in the car to go by their parents who believe it isn't suitable entertainment for children of that age.

Those parents are in the minority but I agree with them. I believe this type of outing is out of line and unsuitable for children of eighth grade age. Wouldn't it be much nicer after the exercises to have punch and cookies in the gym, let the boys and girls dance, visit or play games? The parents could go into another part of the building on the same floor level and have their own entertainment.

The boys and girls could go home about 11:30 p.m. Am I wrong in thinking that boys and girls of 13 and 14 should be entertained as boys and girls and not as adults? Is this a parent problem, school board problem or school administrator problem to solve?—Let's Be Sensible.

Dear L. B. S.: The problem, and that's exactly what it is, is one for the parents to solve. While we can be nice about it and call it a "road house" a supper club, nevertheless, the kids would be in an atmosphere over their heads. Stepping out, such as these kids will be doing, should be reserved for

Witnesses Meet In Yankee Stadium This June 20-25

"It is Yankee Stadium again!" announced Mr. Counce, presiding minister of the Plymouth congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses at their regular weekly meeting. Date of the Yankee Stadium convention is June 20-25, 1961.

For the fifth time since 1950, Jehovah's Witnesses will use the world famous sports park for their religious gathering. The last convention held there broke all attendance records with 253,922 present from 123 lands.

Commenting on the forthcoming assembly, Mr. Counce said: "The assembly theme is 'United Worshipers.' Jehovah's Witnesses firmly believe the only way to real unity is to put into practice Bible principles and teachings in one's daily life."

"Christian assemblies, such as the one being held at Yankee Stadium help in doing this," he said. He further stated, "Everyone in the local congregation is urged to attend if at all possible."

The New York assembly is the first in a series to be held this summer throughout the United States, Europe and Canada. Delegates from South and Central America will attend the New York convention.

"Our congregation will be represented by at least fifty delegates," Mr. Counce stated. Further arrangements, including travel plans, will be announced later.

Who's Who in the Plymouth Community Schools

William Harding

One-half of William Charles Harding's career as an educator has been spent as principal of Plymouth Junior High School. Mr. Harding has served in that capacity for five years.

Prior to accepting his present position, he taught eighth grade science and seventh and eighth grade mathematics for four years in the Junior High School. Before coming to Plymouth in 1952, Mr. Harding was a member of the Dexter school system where he taught mathematics to seventh and eighth graders and 10th grade biology. He majored in biology and general science.

In addition to his work in the educational field, Mr. Harding has served as a cottage attendant for four summers at the Wayne County Training School. Other work experience includes one and one-half years as a tally man at a lumber mill in Iron Mountain.

Mr. Harding was born in Iron Mountain on Aug. 15, 1923. His father, Iver, who operated a barber shop there, was actively interested in education to the tune of acting as a member of the board of education there for 16 years.

It was during that time that the younger Harding went into determination to make that field his chosen profession. Both of his parents are deceased. An older brother, Budd, has followed in his father's footsteps and is the proprietor of a barber shop. A twin sister, Ruth, who was named after their mother, will accompany him this summer when they both attend their 20th Iron Mountain High School reunion.

Mr. Harding received his bachelor of science degree from the University of Michigan in 1950. Seven years later his master's degree was conferred on him by the same university.

Professional organizations to which Mr. Harding belongs are the National Education Assn., the Michigan Education Assn., and the Michigan Association of Secondary School Principals.

Mr. Harding lives in Redford Township with his wife, Delphine, and two sons, Billy and Tommy. Billy is nine years old, while Tommy is two and one-half. His wife was a medical technician at the University of Michigan and Eloise until she "retired" to become a mother.

As a sergeant in the 25th Division of the Army Infantry, Mr. Harding was stationed in the South Pacific and Philippine Islands. For his combat service he was awarded the Infantry Combat Badge, four Battle Stars and the Purple Heart. He received the latter when he was wounded on the Island of Luzon. His outfit served under the command of Major General Collins who later became Chief of Staff.

In addition to his travels as a soldier in the South Pacific, he has taken trips through the Western states, New Zealand and Hawaii.

Although Mr. Harding is no longer a junior varsity basketball coach or a varsity football coach, athletics rate high on his list of present personal interests. Another interest is Cub Scouting. As a father he is a staunch supporter of their activities. It is no uncommon sight to see him filling his car with boys and heading for a fishing trip or a ball game.

It is obvious that for Mr. Harding guidance of young people to be happy, useful citizens is no sight to four-five days a week job. We can use more sincerely interested people like him.

Front Row Center

By George Spelvin

All the staggering excitement and the more than a thousand thrills to be experienced in "Ben-Hur" explode at the Penn Theatre tonight. You'll have 18 days to buy your tickets for this mightiest of all screen spectacles. If the Penn is sold out, don't get discouraged. I'm sure they'll have tickets for a subsequent performance.

"Ben-Hur" won 11 Academy Awards last year (1960). Old George would agree with at least 10 of the awards. I still feel Charlton Heston's Oscar for the best acting was a pure gift. Stephen Boyd or Jack Hawkins deserved an award far more than the wooden-faced Heston. All right, so I'm bitter about the whole matter. Go and see "Ben-Hur." Let me know if my critical eye has a jaundiced cast. I'm ready to be convinced.

I'm sure of one thing: "Ben-Hur" is a winner. Might be a might long, but then that's the trend these days. Word comes from my Hollywood spies that a project is underway to actually film up entire Bible! Let's hope the rumor is ill-founded.

Month of June turns our thoughts in the direction of the Northland Playhouse out back of Mr. Hudson's king-size general store. A refurbished Roger Rogers, all resplendent in the latest Dior fashions, hopes to thrill her many loyal movie fans (the late, late TV crowd) with her version of "Bell, Book, and Candle." John Van Druten's comedy is a difficult show. The Plymouth Theater Guild struggled successfully with its sophisticated humor a few seasons ago. Might be worth a visit to Ken Schwartz's Northland Playhouse to see if they have polished up some of the lines and made the wicked, sexy witch a bit more wistful.

Ginger plans to appear nightly for ten days in "Bell, Book."

"Send Me No Flowers" is the current Drama Society's play over in Ann Arbor. Larry Parks and his perky partner, Betty Garrett, are garnering more than their share of yocks nightly. "Send Me No Flowers" enjoyed a modest success on Broadway last season. David Wayne played the original role. Here's a farcical comedy about hypochondriacs.

Years ago, "The Poor Nut" set the pattern for comedies about folks that think they're always sick. Mollie back in the 17th century really started the trend with a show called "The Imaginary Invalid." It's been a popular theme ever since pills became the panacea for too many actual mental ills.

Broadway would enjoy seeing a pill producer that would put drama critics in a more pleasing state of mind. The 1960-61 season drawing to a close this week saw far too many shows hit the "skids" and finish on the negative side of the financial ledger. Of course, the exceptions pop up every season: "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" pro-cerned about the low college entrance requirements and the need to raise tuition fees. Nothing was said about the effectiveness of COMMUNITY COLLEGES. California and New York have been quietly moving ahead far faster in this area than we have in Michigan.

By the way, don't forget to get out and vote on Monday, June 12. Plymouth citizens are being asked to support a community college movement in this area. Old George can't think of a better movement to support. You get as much for your money and in the long run you save much cash by letting your son or daughter attend a college close to home. It's one way more of us can share the experience of higher education.

Hal Young was honored to think that the Plymouth Theater Guild members wanted him to guide their activities from the president's position for a second time around. Hal had to refuse in light of pressing business activities. Al Murdock was elected by the Board to ascend to the "driver's seat." All the Guild members approve of such a move and add their hearty "A-OK." The 1961-62 Guild season augurs well on this joyful note.

"Leave It To Jane" opens this week at the Vanguard Theater. You'll want to plan a theater party for this gay, liling musical comedy. It's in its third year out in New York City. The Jerome Kern ... are some of his best. Call VO 3-3863 for tickets.

Dramatic students should have crowded the Cass Theater during the all too short stay of Hal Holbrook's "Mark Twain Tonight." Mr. Holbrook held your attention for two hours with a powerful portrayal of the free-thinking, provocative Mark Twain. His use of the dramatic pause was a delight to behold. Schools in the Wayne County area were invited to see this production at the low figure of $1 per ducat. County-wide participation was gratifying in all sectors but Plymouth.

COMMUNITY COLLEGE IS VITAL TO:

CLARENCEVILLE • GARDEN CITY • LIVONIA • PLYMOUTH • R. UNION • S. REDFORD

Vote

YES

Monday, June 12

COMMUNITY COLLEGE

1. What Is A Community College?

- A two-year college owned and controlled locally, serving local youth and adults with academic, technical, continuing education and cultural programs. It provides high school graduates and adults with high quality education at low cost. (650 are operating successfully in our country today, 16 of them in Michigan)
- It offers two-year terminal programs for students not going on to a four-year college career.
- It offers transfer programs with full accreditation for students who wish to complete a four-year program.
- It serves as a technical institute for the community.
- It offers continuing education at the college level for adults.

2. Why Do We Need A Community College?

- A Community College fulfills a very important need in providing for:
  - those who cannot afford to go away to college (50% of high school graduates),
  - those who cannot immediately meet the increasing stringent requirements of four-year colleges (many are "late bloomers"),

- those adults, both with or without family responsibilities, who want to continue their education beyond the high school level, (but remain in the local community),
- those who want to pursue vocational or technical professions (includes unemployed who want to retrain in new fields).

— Education is our most vital resource and our country's future security is dependent on its fullest utilization.

3. How Much Will It Cost?

- Students - approximately $100 per semester
- Student's Parents - Same personal expenses as high school
- The Rest of Us - equivalent to one tankful of high test gasoline per year

4. Will There Be A Savings?

- To each student - at least $1,000 per year
- To the area - $2,500,000 million will stay in the community in student costs, and another $500,000 will come into the area in state aid
- To adults - credit courses at home at lower costs
- To industry - high skilled labor force locally available

5. What Is The Proposal?

To establish in the area included in the six school districts of Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Plymouth, Redford Union and South Redford a separate community college district, which will have power to conduct business essential to the management of a community college and to elect nine trustees for this district, one from each district and three at large.

6. Voting Facts

- The election on June 12, if favorable will:
  - Establish a Community College District
  - Elect a Board of Trustees

A majority vote in each district is required or the measure fails

- While no taxes are being voted at this time, if the district is formed a request for about 1 mill will be made later, probably in the Fall.

7. Your elected officials have brought this matter to the point where an election is to be held. THE REST IS IN YOUR HANDS!

It Takes A
... To Have A Dream
Come True ...

Will Your Son Have A Chance To Go To College?

COLLEGE Doors in Michigan Are Swinging Shut on Thousands of Youth Unless They:

- (1.) Are wealthy enough to afford high tuition, room and board costs; and
- (2.) Are in the upper 10 percent of their high school classes, scholastically.

YET, In This Modern Age, Education Beyond High School Is An Absolute Essential Because:

- (1.) There is almost no employment left for unskilled labor, and
- (2.) America is in a desperate contest and cannot afford to waste any of its manpower resources.

THERE IS A SOLUTION, An Area Community College, Controlled By The Voters At Home, and Providing:

- (1.) Low cost freshman and sophomore education for academic students, and
- (2.) Technical training in trades and vocations for other youth.
- (3.) Education for adults striving for self-improvement.

THIS COLLEGE will enrich the community and give our sons and daughters a realistic chance to have their dreams come true.

ON JUNE 12

VOTE 'YES' FOR COMMUNITY COLLEGE

(This Adv. Paid for by an Individual)

Pertinent Paragraphs
On College

THE NATIONAL NEED
American education can be as good as the American people want it to be — and no better! To better equip the future generation, every high school graduate must have access to an institution that provides higher education. By 1975, 80 per cent of ALL jobs will be held by semi-skilled, skilled, white collar, and professional workers. The NEED for a Community College is now! A college that provides training for the Professions, Clerical and Sales Occupations, Service Occupations and the Skilled Trades. A college in this area where the education obtained can be put to use.

THE LOCAL NEED
Community College need is based on a comprehensive survey made by a local citizens' group in conjunction with the University of Michigan. The State Legislature passed a special enabling act to allow six school districts to establish a Community College District. Higher costs, overcrowding of colleges and pressure demands for advanced training are causing difficult problems in higher education in Michigan today. These problems can be solved for this area. Changing technology and new opportunities demand training beyond high school for our young people to compete in jobs as well as in professions. Too many students now graduating from high school in this area will not go on to college because of lack of facilities, lack of money or for other reasons. We cannot continue to look to other college communities to educate our young people for us, because all other college communities are overcrowded. The door to higher education is closing.

STATE AID
Operating expenses will be partially covered by money from the State. This amounts to $205 per student per year.

TUITION COST
Full time student tuition will cost $100 per semester or $200 for the normal school year.

WILL THE COLLEGE BE ACCREDITED?
YES! Upon opening, all courses will be approved by the State Department of Public Instruction. Other Colleges will recognize this approval. Before our students graduate, the College will be approved by the Michigan Commission on College Accreditation, which also will allow students to transfer without loss of credit. Accreditation must be delayed until the College has been in operation a sufficient time to permit visitation by the North Central Association of Colleges.

WILL CREDITS BE TRANSFERABLE TO OTHER COLLEGES?
YES! EXPECTED ENROLLMENT Initial enrollment is expected to reach 2,000 full-time and 6,000 part-time students.

WILL THE INSTRUCTORS BE QUALIFIED?
All instructors for this College must have at least a Master's Degree or the equivalent in the subject to be taught. In addition, they must be certified by the State Board of Education.

POLICY BOARD
A governing board, consisting of nine elected Trustees, serving without compensation, one from each school district and three from the combined area at large, will establish the policies of this College.

ECONOMIES
—To each student — at least $1,000 per year.
—To the area — $2,500,000 will stay in the community in student expenses.
—To adults — credit courses at home at lower costs.
—To industry — highly skilled labor force locally available.
—$500,000 will come into the community from state and federal money.

COST TO TAXPAYERS
As stated in the Citizens' Survey, one mill will cover building and operating costs through the year 1968. To the average home owner this would amount to $5.00 per year or two cartons of cigarettes.

Scouting News
Cub Scout Pack 760 held its annual Pinewood Derby at Jackson School on Friday, May 26. Grand winner of the Derby was John Jetchick, with second place going to Edward Snidar. Winners for each Den were as follows: Den 1, Raymond Newhouse, first; David MacDonald, second. Den 2, Ed Snidar, first; Tim Parks, second. Den 3, Steve Gear, first; Steve Dalley, second. Den 4, Brian Regan, first; Steve Snidar, second. Den 5, David Newhouse, first; Bill Kennedy, second. Den 6, Craig Whitcomb, first; Dennis Walker, second. Den 7, John Jetchick, first; Jay Regan, second. Den 8, Keith Harrower, first; Robert Wolfe, second. Den 9, Tom Grimshaw, first; Bill Kennedy, second. The most original car was made by Steve Dalley and the best design was by Ed Snidar. Judges were Robert Cady, John O'Donnell, Bud DeWitt and Mary Horowitz.

Walt received his B.A. from Wayne State University in 1948 and LL.B. from Wayne State University College of Law in 1951. He has taken graduate work at Wayne State University.

"Because of increasing population and increasing costs of higher education," Walt believes, "Community Colleges offer the solution to part of the nation's problem of higher education. The proposed college will be located in an area where high school graduates do not now have readily available college facilities." Walt stated, "I have seen numerous examples of youthful offenders who might have never found themselves in the criminal courts if such junior college facilities had been provided."

A ten-year resident of Livonia, Mrs. Rosina Raymond is seeking to be elected as an at-large member of the Board of Trustees of the proposed Northwest Community College. "My eight recent years at Wayne State and having three children who attend Michigan State, Dearborn Community College and Wayne," she writes, "have given me insight into the intellectual and economic needs of higher education. This, and knowledge of diversified programs necessary to meet our community needs, qualifies me for the policy-making role of trustee."

EDWARD V. TELL

I will approach each matter placed before the Board with enough enthusiasm to assure thorough review and enough skepticism to disapprove and inadequacies and inconsistencies. O'Neil holds a college degree in business management and finance, a master's degree in industrial management and has taken additional studies in current affairs and liberal arts. "I feel I would be an effective member of the Community College Board of Trustees based on my educational background which is fairly comprehensive but still continuing, my active interest in educational affairs, as a currently president of University Alumni group, and an active member of all citizen action committees for the community college and my demonstrated ability in organization, planning, administration personnel and budget control," he writes.

I can think of no better work than that of having a hand in the building of an institution dedicated to help people to learn young or old."

My teachings with high school and adult education have given me how valuable future education is to each individual."

Virginia Kissell brings several years of close association with South Redford school matters to her effort to win the College Trustee seat from her district. She is a housewife and most of her business accounting experience. Townships residents recognize her for work with the Town Hall Series, Girl Scouts, Cancer Society, Suburban League, and PTA's. "The close association I have enjoyed with our schools and school boards over the past 6 1/2 years has given me knowledge that isn't written in textbooks but is gained from a actual experience," Mrs. Kissell says. "I realize the necessity of trustees that are closely associated with industry for certainly the operation of this college will be big business. However, we are dealing with our children. I believe I can offer the necessary balance to keep this fact ever present."

The Partisan Reviewer

I believe if I were county chairman of either the Republican or Democratic Central Committee in the tri-county region, I would purchase Report of the County Chairman (Random House, 310 p., $3.95) by the best selling author, James A. Michener. I would read the book carefully and then I would insist that my top aides and their assistants read it. The book has valuable lessons of campaign politics both parties in this area could profit from before the biennial madness returns in '62 and '64. In 1959, Michener, a former Republican and a Quaker from Republican and Quaker-Lutheran Bucks County, Pennsylvania, decided he would campaign actively for the nomination and election of a Democrat and a Roman Catholic to the Presidency, John F. Kennedy. This decision alienated his "madly for Adlai" wife and a host of liberal friends, whom he found held some very unilateral ideas about a Roman Catholic in the White House. But Michener stuck by his guns. Over his wife, a segment of his liberal circle and after the Democratic Convention he became county chairman of the Citizens for Kennedy Committee of Bucks County. "Report" is the story of that campaign in Bucks County and in the eight states Michener traveled through on behalf of Kennedy.

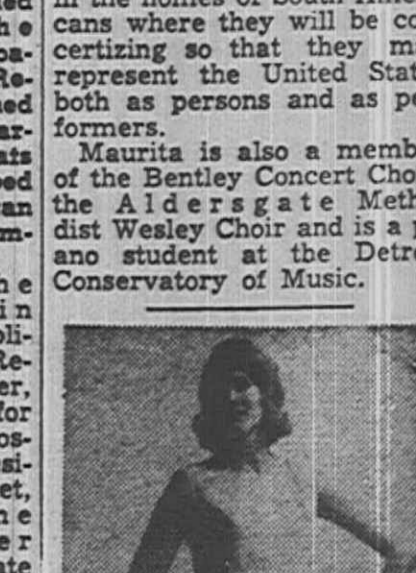

One reviewer says the book will be a "joy" to Republicans as well as to Democrats. This is only partly true, for while the book goes beyond partisanship and while Michener leans over backwards in places to be objective, many of his judgments about the relative value of the two parties will not bring "joy" to the heart of any red blooded Republican fit to bear the name. But the book is probably more important to Republicans who are concerned about the future of their party than it is to the Democrats who, Michener says, reaped the rewards of Republican mismanagement in the campaign. Michener concludes the Democrats didn't really win in the election, that the Republicans lost by forfeit. The Republicans, so says Michener, had everything going for them—peace, relative prosperity, a still-popular president supporting the ticket, experience, etc., etc. The Democrats, on the other hand chose 1960 to nominate a Roman Catholic who hadn't even been able to gain his party's vice-presidential nomination four years earlier. Michener is convinced Ike alone could have won the election had he come into the campaign in mid-October rather than when he did. Also there was this inaction following the jailing of Martin Luther King, Kennedy's intervention on King's behalf swung the Negro vote, according to Michener. Michener further concludes that a Nixon is a better man by far than he appeared in the campaign and that he received bad advice on the conduct of his campaign.

"The real Richard Nixon, leading a fighting party and supported by a fighting general in the White House would have swept the country," is the way Michener phrases his convictions on this point. Michener dredges up some old political history. He points out that Nixon lost by the same margin of votes Harold Stassen predicted he would cost the party in the 1956 election when Stassen led the "dump Nixon" movement at the Republican convention. Had Rockefeller been the candidate, Michener is convinced there would not have been a contest literally—Rockefeller would have won 83 per cent. An aide of Rockefeller's told Michener that his party was still suffering from the "Wildie Syndrome"—"they would rather lose with a regular (Nixon), than win the loss control of the party) with a newcomer (Rockefeller)." The book is worth reading. I can say no more.

Local Girl One Of 69 For Tour

Maurita Turner, a Bentley High School junior, has been selected as a member of the Michigan Chorale which will leave this month for a two-month concert tour in South America and Mexico. The 69 high school juniors and seniors which make up the Chorale, are selected from all over Michigan on the basis of a vocal audition as well as scholarship and leadership ability. The Michigan Chorale is sponsored by the Youth For Understanding Program and is a direct exchange of teenage students between Michigan and other countries. These young people will live in the homes of South Americans where they will be concentrating so that they may represent the United States both as persons and as performers. # Watch Out for those Coffee Breaks!

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of articles written by The Mail's managing editor who is out to prove—or disprove—the claim that "anyone can learn to fly an airplane.")

By Jim Sponseller

Flying Lesson No. 2 taught me at least one thing. Whenever you stand around an airport, be wary when someone asks you to take a coffee break. You may end up dunking donuts halfway across the state!

It was a bright, sunny day as instructor Al Finney and I strolled toward the Piper Colt. Up drove Carl Caplin, whom most people know as a soft-spoken businessman who ordinarily is dispensing fine clothing on the Mayflower Hotel corner.

Carl learned to fly just a few years ago. I won't estimate his age, but he'll gladly whip out a few photos of his grandchild upon the slightest provocation. So when Carl asked us if we wanted to join him for a cup of coffee and I accepted, I soon learned that pilots are more than just some far-flung pot.

"How about Flint?" Carl asked. "OK with me," Al replied. "How about you?" he said turning to me.

I nodded in disbelief and Al and I climbed into the Colt while Carl took a Piper Tri-Pacer.

But one just doesn't climb into a plane and start her up like a car. Getting the plane out to the end of the runway ready for take-off is no small job in itself. This is taught in the very first lesson and by Lesson 2 the instructor figures it's time for me to do this part of the job myself—with some prompting.

So up goes the cowling (hood, to car owners). The oil is OK. Under the engine a little valve is pushed to squirt out a little gasoline. This eliminates dirt and water accumulation in the gas line.

Inside, we put on the safety belts. One button turns on the master switch. Then the pilot must adjust his altimeter, according to the field's height above sea level. In the Piper Colt, he makes sure the left gas tank is turned on, the carburetor heat is off the fuel mixture lever is pushed to "rich" and then he gives three pumps on the primer lever. The brakes are set.

An ignition key is turned on, the engine starts. I was relieved to learn that small planes nowadays have starters, rather than someone "rotting" out and turning the propeller by hand. Having stuck my fingers in an electric fan several times, I was not too anxious to graduate to a r-plane propellers.

"Taxi it out," Al declared. "He sure is a trustworthy fellow," I thought while the plane moved ahead as I pushed in the throttle a crack. It's difficult to get used to, but you push the throttle in to speed up the engine, not pull it out.

Using the rudder pedals on the floor which turn the nose wheel for guiding the plane on the ground, we jogged along the taxi strip and I pulled on the brake just short of the runway. Now comes another test of memory:

"Rev" up the engine to 1,600 revolutions a minute. 2. Check the magnets. 3. Turn on and then off the carburetor heat. 4. Check the oil pressure and heat gauges. 5. Check gasoline gauges. 6. Cut engine down again. Run through a check list posted on the instrument panel that again checks the gasoline tanks, carburetor heat, "rich" mixture and oil pressure. 8. Set trim tabs to "up" position. 9. Take off brake. 10. Check for other landing aircraft.

After going through this ritual, you may think you are now a 32 degree Mason. But it's not as complicated as it sounds.

One way to look at it is this—there are thousands of women learning to fly nowadays, and by Charlie Lindbergh, if a woman can do it, so can I!

I took the plane off the ground and I took the controls as he headed north. We crossed Grand River Ave. A few minutes later Walled Lake was on one side and Kent Lake at Kensington Park was on the other, both looking close enough to spit in. Up between Fenton and Holly we went and far below were cars creeping along U.S. 23.

Thirty minutes later the paved runway at Flint was seen far ahead and Al radioed in for clearance to land. Wherever there are commercial planes landing, I learned, it is advisable, and in most places, necessary to have a radio.

As we nosed down and approached the end of the runway, I suddenly realized that I was still flying the plane.

"You're going to land this thing, aren't you?" I anxiously inquired. "I'll help you a little," Al replied with a smile. He took over completely, however, and we settled down on the long white concrete strip.

Carl, who was without a radio, circled, got a green flashing light from the tower and landed.

Inside the lunch room, we had our coffee break and I had to admit that the coffee did taste pretty good this far away. Quite expensive coffee, though, if one wants to be mercenary about it.

Back in the plane, I taxied the ship out one runway and Ever wonder what books high school students are reading?

The other day we put the following request to the first dozen students we saw: Could you give us the name of a book you have read recently and enjoyed enough to recommend to others?

The responses were enthusiastic and thoughtful. Here they are, with those books available in newsstand paperbacks noted by publisher and price:

What's going on in the world interests these youngsters. Ann West (grade 12) recommended a factual report on racial strife in South Africa called The Tragedy of Apartheid by British journalist Norman Phillips. Ann says this is an eye-opener, extremely readable and informative. Edith Ellison (12) was intrigued by two books by politicians on opposite sides of the fence: Sen. Barry Goldwater's Conservative (Hillman, 50 cents) and Harry Truman's Mr. Citizen (Popular, 50 cents). Edith found Mr. Truman's account of his transition from president to private citizen especially colorful.

Classic novels, old and not-so-old are not neglected. Sandra Newton (11) discovered that "history becomes exciting" in both Victor Hugo's Les Misérables (Bantam, 50 cents) and Kenneth Roberts' Northwest Passage. Richard West (11) plugged his favorite novel, the Mark Twain comedy, A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court (Pocket, 35 cents), admiring its fast-moving story and abundance of humor. Richard Alford (11) just finished Gone With the Wind (95 cents) and, like most people, enjoyed it hugely.

Lester Barton (12) has embarked on a tour of the Thomas Hardy Wessex country with The Mayor of Casterbridge and Far from the Madding Crowd (both Pocket, 50 cents), beautifully written novels of a place and people. Susan Tichy (11) commented that today's teenagers can see much of themselves in the confused 16 year old hero of J. D. Salinger's disturbing but touching Catcher in the Rye.

Books from other countries are high on the list. Janet Graham (11) recommended Boris Pasternak's Dr. Zhivago (Signet, 75 cents) as challenging and worthwhile. Janet Morrison (12) liked The Prophet by the Syrian mystic and poet, Kahlil Gibran.

Lastly, satire is not dead among the young. Karen Clyde (11) voted for George Orwell's fable of Russian communism, Animal Farm (Signet, 50 cents) and Mary Hulsing (11) put in many quick, kind words for three intriguing, off-beat works: The Weans by Robert Nathan, a delightful spoof of modern civilization; Someone Like You, a collection of bizarre short stories; and a first rate anthology entitled Twentieth Century Parody.

These are some of the things some of our young people enjoy. Query to anyone over 18: what have you read lately?

KENT with the
"Micronite" Filter
REFINES away harsh flavor...
REFINES away hot taste
...makes the taste of a cigarette mild!

THE CIGARETTE THAT MADE THE FILTER FAMOUS

Kent's famous "Micronite" Filter is made of pure all-vegetable filter fibers by Kent's "Jet-Blooming" process!

ALL THESE FIBERS ARE COMPRESSED INTO THE FILTER!

Kent has become the favorite of millions, with the richest, finest-quality tobaccos and the famous "Micronite" Filter.

An important step in making the "Micronite" Filter is Kent's "Jet-Blooming" Process. Specially designed machines separate the soft, fluffy material by tremendous air-pressure... then compress the fibers into the familiar filter shape, in an intricate network of tiny channels which refine smoking flavor.

The result is the famous "Micronite" Filter—with a free and easy draw that brings through the true tobacco taste from Kent's blend of the world's finest tobaccos. That's why you'll feel better about smoking, with the taste of Kent.

LIFE PRESERVERS

semifloating position, legs widespread. And once balanced, you can move the boat towards shore by paddling with the hands. A strong swimmer can help by holding the stern and kicking rhythmically.

If your craft cannot be righted, slick with it anyway. If you are in a spot where help seems unlikely, "swim" the boat towards safety, pausing frequently to hold onto the hull and rest. Fatigue is the greatest enemy in these situations, like the case of the father who lost his eight-year-old son when their rowboat tipped over in Chesapeake Bay. ("Finally my boy just slipped out of my arms and was gone. I couldn't hold him any longer.")

As soon as possible after a capsizing, with all occupants clinging to both sides, collect everything that will serve as makeshift "ropes": neckties, belts, handkerchiefs, strips of cloth. When strung over the upturned bottom of the boat, these will be handgrips (each line running from a person on the starboard side to one on the port side). Loops tied around the wrist may save a person even after he has lapsed into unconsciousness.

SUPPOSE the worst happens — you lose the boat and have no life jacket. "Conserve your strength," says the Red Cross, pointing out that you may have a makeshift life preserver handy. When a 56-year-old man was thrown from his sailboat on a Vermont lake, he put his white shirt on backward, buttoned the collar, billowed the wet fabric with air, tucked the tail firmly into his shorts, and floated on his back until he was rescued.

A woman's slip, tied or knotted at the waist, or a silk scarf with the four corners drawn together, will hold enough air to support an adult. Even an ear helps, or a section of floor board. Containers with corks or screw caps (like a one-gallon bottle) can be emptied and wedged into your upper clothing to provide buoyancy. Even a blown-up paper bag will help for ten minutes or so, if held gently.

Above all, don't panic. Remember the Maine farm boy who fell from a freighter in mid-Atlantic some years ago. He had never swum a stroke in his life. But by keeping his head and imitating the paddling motions he had seen his dogs perform, he stayed afloat for two and one half hours—until his ship returned.

GETTING AROUND

When Judge George T. Martin patiently inquired of the Koniulus Township, Michigan, resident why he was weaving back and forth in front of the local beauty shop at 2:45 in the A.M., the militant citizen replied that he and his wife had had an argument about her going to the salon too often. "So," he told the judge, "I went for a few drinks to cool off. Next thing I knew, I was picketing the shop while waiting for her to come out." Fine: $15.00. Sentence: Go home and arbitrate the matter with your wife.

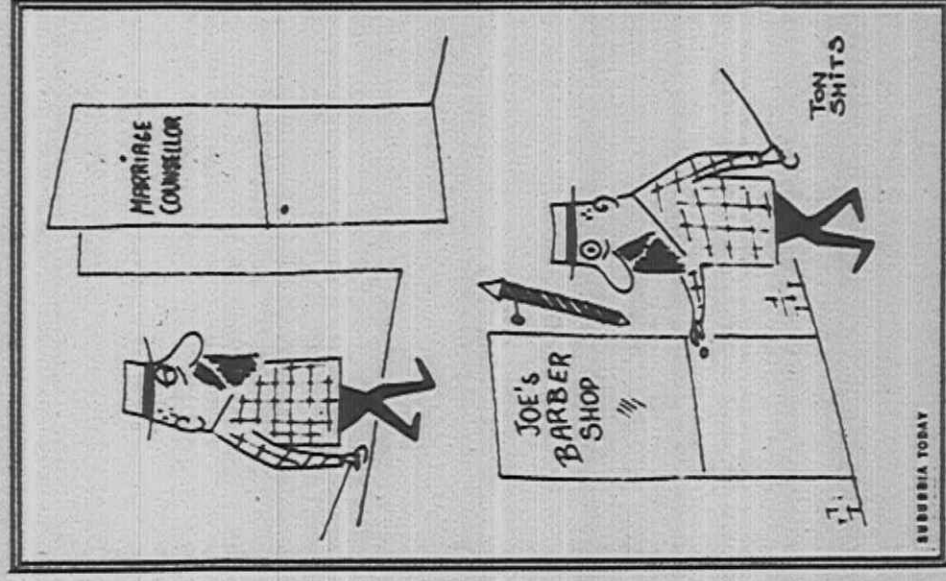

The Motor Corps Service of Long Island Jewish Hospital, in New Hyde Park, New York, is a pretty fancy title for a pretty wonderful group of women who contribute their cars and a lot of their time getting disabled people back and forth for treatment. These chauffeurs travel as much as 30 miles to pick up their charges, take them to the clinic, wait for them, and then bring them home again. The ladies collectively make an average of 60 calls a month, and their helping hand-at-the-wheel is the pride of the hospital's out-patient department.

A little Indian boy at the Cerebral Palsy Institute in Norman, Oklahoma, was overheard protesting to his playmates that he was sick and tired of being the Indian, and couldn't be the cowboy for a change?

The ladies of the St. Matthews, Kentucky, Episcopal Church believe that charity begins where it is needed. One of their projects is collecting clothing for needy children in Louisville, a few miles from their parish. Since many of the needy live in the center of the city, they have set up a shop (the "clothes closet") in the basement of centrally located St. Luke's Evangelical and Reformed Church, open each Thursday from 10 A.M. till 1:30 P.M., from which clothing, bedding, and blankets are made easily available to nearby families who need them.

A sign at a railroad grade crossing near Wheat Ridge, Colorado, reads: "It takes a train only 14 seconds to pass this crossing—whether your car is on it or not."

Jesse Cornish, a man who believes in following his dream, has left Garden City, Minnesota, and is now in the heart of darkest Africa... looking for the place where old elephants go to die. Although most people think this elephant's graveyard is a myth or legend or part of the plot of an old Tarzan movie, Mr. Cornish thinks it's really there, and he has gone to find it. The venture has a practical side, too, since, as Mr. Cornish says, "whoever finds that graveyard can lay claim to perhaps a million tons of ivory—a million tons at $8,000 a ton."

We hope the next time the auxiliary of the Abington, Pennsylvania, Fire Company holds a dinner, they put enough food aside for the volunteers. At the last spread, after a record "1293 roast-beef" suppers were served, it was discovered that there wasn't anything left over to feed the hard-working—and hungry—workers.

They now have machines, out in San Diego County, California, that do all the work involved in getting report cards ready and out to the students. The machines do everything but take the exams—they sort the cards, type the student's name and address on four separate cards, record the grade on the report card, put it in an envelope, address it to his parents, and stamp it. Out of 70,000 cards that went out last term, only one mistake was made. A straight-A student got a card that had a string of F's on it. He reported the error immediately—but nobody's heard a word from the failing fellow who got a straight-A report card.

"It looks like my husband isn't going to come home from Irving (Texas)," said the lady to the judge. "How long has he been gone?" asked Judge Hoyet Armstrong. "Forty years," came the plaintive reply. Divorce granted.

What have you heard that's new, unusual, or funny? We pay $10 for each item we accept. Write to "Getting Around," SUBURBIA TODAY, 60 East 56th Street, New York 22, New York.

LIFE PRESERVERS BY WILBUR CROSS

Both the American Red Cross and the U.S. Coast Guard emphasize the point that most accidents on waterways are set up before the boat has left the dock. The three most common reasons for tragedy:

1) OVERCROWDING. No boat at any time should have the gunwales less than six inches above the surface of the water. Last summer, five teen-age boys and two girls crowded into a small outboard, with waves lapping at the gunwales, to cross a narrow section of the Ohio River. The boat swamped. Even though it floated, two boys and a girl were swept to their deaths.

2) IGNORING LIFE PRESERVERS. No nonswimmer should ever embark in a small boat without wearing a life jacket of an approved type. And no one, good swimmer or not, should venture far from shore without one. Two years ago, when three 14-year-old boys were tossed into Lake Huron after their speedboat hit a log and sank, they survived until rescued by tying kapok cushions together, and hanging on.

3) CHANGING POSITIONS NEED-LESSLY. Determine where everyone will sit before casting off from the dock. "One of the chief causes of drowning accidents from rowboats and canoes," warns the Red river towboat co-sponsored by the Cincinnati Outboard Runabout Assn., helped reduce boating deaths from 14 to none on a stretch of the Ohio River. At Mamaroneck, N.Y., on Long Island Sound, teen-agers under yacht club sponsorship formed a better-boatmanship group. Now Harbor Patrolman Jack Coley, who once considered the youths "trouble with a big T," says they're among the area's best boaters.

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS, Boy and Girl Scouts and similar organizations have begun teaching motorboating in water-safety classes. The National Education Assn. now has a nationwide Outdoor Education Project to assist in introducing such courses. "We've made only a start," says Dr. Julian W. Smith, the project's director. "But many communities are coming to realize a safe-boating course soon will be as vital as driver training."

Even if boating can be made safe, the problem of sheer congestion remains. Millions want to swim, others to fish, still others to sail, cruise or skin-dive. Water skiers alone numbered two million at last count. Meanwhile, millions more prefer to feel the peaceful spell of a river or lake from shore. How can such varying interests be accommodated?

The Chain of Lakes, an area of 11 lakes and the scenic Fox River, 45 miles northwest of Chicago, offers one answer. It long has been a favorite fishing and water playground for millions, but recently as many as 30,000 boats have crowded in on a single weekend. Congestion has been so heavy that water skiers became entangled in fishing lines. Seven years ago a voluntary water patrol, financed by money from an annual benefit dance, was formed. This out

Off to the races—the President and Mrs. Kennedy share their neighbors' interests in horses and country life (the President was given some new riding clothes for Christmas). Right: Glen Ora, where they come for weekends.

BY FITZHUGH TURNER
Publisher, Loudon Times-Mirror, Leesburg, Virginia

IT WAS JUST BEFORE the inauguration that the Kennedys leased their Middleburg estate, "Glen Ora," and Middleburg, when the word was out, went quietly mad. Some of its millionaires—and the neighborhood is reputed to have more millionaires per acre than Wall Street—worried that their quiet life might be interrupted. Because Jacqueline Kennedy is fond of riding, fox hunters worried that tourists might throng the back roads, frightening not only foxes but hounds and horses, ruining the sport. Plain citizens, proud of their town and its reputation for hospitality, worried that lack of overnight accom-comers, curbing "hot-rudders" (first with warnings, then arrests), and assisting boatmen, swimmers, or skiers in distress. That was in 1955. Since then only six persons have drowned on the lake—one less than in the single year before the patrol.

Oakland County, Mich., with 427 lakes inside its borders and the entire Detroit metropolitan area within easy driving distance, felt the water-recreation explosion early. Cars were lined up for six blocks near boat-launching sites. In one season the county had 27 drownings.

Cottage-owner associations decided in 1958 that action was overdue and approached Sheriff Frank Irons. "I can't get funds," he said. "But if we can get volunteers, I'll screen out the half-interested, and we'll train the others."

Now Oakland County has one of the nation's finest water patrols. As in similar groups, from Maricopa County, Ariz., to Hamilton, Mass., the men donate time, money, and the use of their boats. They meet weekly for training in law, boatmanship, safety, and public relations. Oakland businessmen have provided bonding fees, an ambulance, a mobile disaster-unit trailer, two-way radios, even 22 new-model boats and outboard engines at factory cost. And thanks to a recently adopted Michigan law, the state matches funds that counties earmark for boating law enforcement, enriching Irons' waterways budget by $5000 a year.

THE RESULT? In spite of lake traffic so heavy, as one resident says, "you can walk across without getting a foot wet," Oakland, last summer, had no boating fatalities and three-fourths fewer complaints of recklessness or unsafe operation than before. Patrolmen rescued more than a dozen persons in danger of drowning. They issued 1000 warning tickets (one-fourth the number required the first year). Sixty arrests were made—for cases so flagrant that every one was upheld in court.

Wisconsin, with its huge small-boat and tourist population, now takes to the air with planes to enforce safety. When Conservation Department warden-pilots spot an accident or violation, they radio a boat- and trailer-equipped warden on the ground, take photos for evidence, and circle until their colleague arrives. Using loudspeakers, the pilots also warn of dangerous conditions or emphasize safety procedures for boaters below. "Once you've heard that voice from the sky," says Chief Warden George Hadland, "you never forget it."

Such local efforts to control the waterways were given support by a 1958 Federal boating law, the Bonner Act. It called for state or Federal numbering of most craft (so reckless operators for the first time can be identified), nationwide reporting of all accidents, and personal liability for reckless or negligent operation. Four-fifths of our states have implemented this with their own laws. In six you can now be sentenced specifically for waterway homicide and manslaughter. In 24 states, if you're reckless, you're liable even for damages resulting from your craft's wake.

BUT SAFE BOATING requires more than legal protection against recklessness. Half of all boating deaths, statistics show, are due to incompetence. In one state on one holiday, for example, deaths resulted from standing in a fishing boat, towing a water skier without a companion as observer, starting an outboard with the gears engaged, cramming ten persons into an 11-foot boat, and a collision while cruising at night with no one at the wheel. All occurred in good weather and calm water.

Nowhere in the country is a driver's license or even a nautical knowledge test required of pleasure boaters. As of this spring only two states, Nebraska and New York, specifically ruled child boaters off the waters, New York including the requirement of a training course before youngsters ten to 14 can go boating alone. Only one-tenth of all boaters, one authority estimated, ever have taken any approved training.

The U.S. Power Squadrons and U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, however, are increasing their coverage—175,000 boaters took this voluntary training last year. Coast Guard stations in Boston, Chicago, San Francisco, Miami, and elsewhere have telecast a series on good boatmanship. And boating clubs in hundreds of localities have sponsored free schools and dock-side question-answer sessions.

Boating Must Be SAFE to Be Fun

BY ALFRED BALK

From the Golden Gate to Long Island Sound, boatmen are working to protect the 40,000,000 people who will be on the water this summer

I NEVER REALIZED what was happening on our waterways until I went out on a sunlit lake last summer to introduce my six-year-old daughter Cindy to the gentle art of fishing. We had just anchored our rowboat in a glass-smooth cove a few hundred yards offshore and dropped our lines, when we heard the snort and snarl of speedboats. Twin-engine outboards as powerful as autos roared full throttle among the small fishing boats. Water "hot-rudders," some towing water skiers, whipped the lake's surface so that our little craft rocked wildly. I rowed to shore in frustration, and took Cindy home in tears.

"Does it have to be that way?" she asked later. Millions have asked the same question. With boating's boom to the top of family participation sports in the last decade—40 million Americans, or nearly one of every five, now belong to families with boats—our lakes and shores as idyllic settings for peaceful fun and relaxation seem lost with the past. Worse, accidents have shot upward: boating now stands ninth nationally as a cause of fatal mishaps. In 1960, on some holidays in some areas the water claimed more victims than highways—Memorial Day weekend in Connecticut, for example, and July Fourth in New York. And the number of boats is expected to double in the next decade.

Yet despite the chaos and congestion on many waterways, this year there seems real hope, not only for safety and sanity but for peaceful, even pleasant, coexistence of all who would enjoy the water. Where laws lack teeth or where official action has lagged, many communities themselves have taken a stand to crack down on waterway killing and maiming.

Take Hennepin County, Minn., where 72 lakes attract hordes of boaters every holiday or weekend. Six years ago, when the boat population was only half what it is today, seven persons were drowned in boating accidents on Lake Minnetonka alone. Long-time resident Dr. A. E. Allen, a boating enthusiast, was appalled. "If something isn't done, and done soon," he said, "nobody will be safe on our lake, residents or visitors." That winter he got in touch with property owners, mayors of 15 lake villages, and Sheriff Ed Ryan. Together they knit a village association and voluntary water patrol.

One official, a village attorney, drafted new water-safety and anti-nuisance ordinances. Another, a police chief, screened and trained volunteer patrolmen. Each town appropriated $100 for expenses. By summer 30 men, deputized as sheriff's patrolmen and using their own boats, fanned out across the lake in shifts, explaining the laws to new-from seed, although mints and tarragon are best bought as plants from a grower and set out in early spring to allow roots to mature in the first season. Give tarragon a leaf mulch in winter in the far north to insure its survival. Sow seeds out of doors as soon as the soil is warm enough for other seeds. Soaking parsley seeds in warm water for a day before sowing will hasten germination.

Harvesting herbs is best done while the leaves and tips are young and succulent. For freezing, cut and wash, then follow the usual procedure (blanching, dipping in ice water, draining) and then place in plastic freezer bags and seal. Many cooks make up combinations to use in stews or salad dressings, putting enough for one use in each bag. Then it is a simple matter to open the bag after defrosting and there you are, with just the right amount for your dish. Others prefer to store the herbs in larger quantities, using a few as needed.

The 7 Magic

Planted in a big-as-a-minute bed, they will

IT TAKES hardly any space at all beside the kitchen door to grow sufficient herbs to supply your table all summer and to provide enough for winter use, too. One herb garden which we saw last summer in Ann Arbor, Michigan, was only three feet by five feet; yet the grower reported that she not only had plenty for fresh use but that by periodic harvesting, drying and/or freezing, she obtained enough for winter seasonings, as well. Many people start herb growing on too large a scale, she feels, but a minimum-sized bed like hers will almost take care of itself. There was even room to tuck in a couple of pots of colorful begonias and gloxinias, not to mention a short row or two of salad lettuces, reseeded as often as harvested.

The seven herbs we suggest here are by no means all you may want to grow—they are offered as a good starter for a basic herb garden, in case you have no favorites of your own.

Few herbs are fussy about soils or location, but as with most plants, they'll do best in full sun in rich, well-drained soils. Mint and tarragon will tolerate a fair amount of shade, and some others will do well in partly shaded spots if they have sun for several hours a day. All may be grown

BASIL is a spreading annual 2 feet or more tall. Leaves add a beautiful flavor to tomatoes.

PARSLEY, the "witches' herb," is an important source of vitamins and an addition to all main courses.

TARRAGON is a bushy perennial 1 1/2 to 2 feet in height. Buy plants to start it easily. It's a delight in eggs, fish, meats, poultry, salads, sauces, and soups.

MINT, best known as a julep ingredient, has many other uses. It is superb with lamb, and used fresh, or in mint syrup, it adds piquancy to desserts or ice cream. Grow it in a separate bed or sink a large flue tile in the bed to contain its invasive roots. You may want to collect mints—peppermint, curly mint, spearmint, applemint, orange mint, or American apple-mint (often called pineapple mint) others—all from the 3 X 5 bed!

Once you have found how useful and downright wonderful herbs are, you'll never be without a little back-door bed. Early this fall you can pot up your parsley and chives and tarragon and grow them on a sunny window sill for fresh herbs all winter, and you can dry and freeze a plentiful supply of the others—all from the 3 X 5 bed!

Time

Wooster will be 80 "any moment now"—but it's just as good

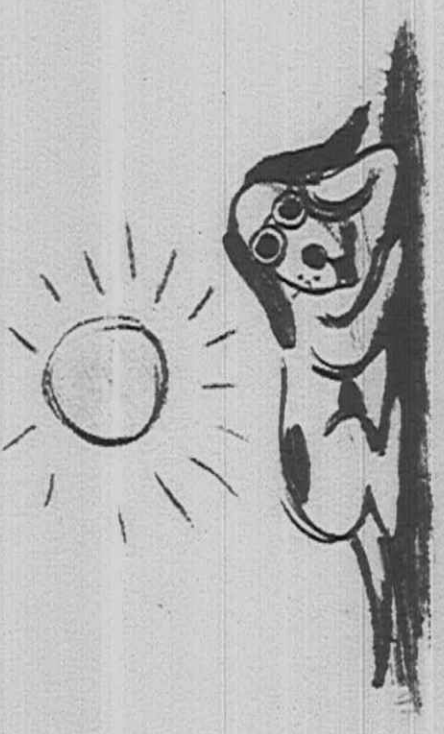

BY P.G. WODEHOUSE

"Our pleasures, in other words, are mainly mental."

I DON'T KNOW HOW it is with others, but as regards myself I find that in the matter of recreation one tends to slow up a little when one reaches the age of eighty, as I shall be doing any moment now. We octogenarians, when we get a bit of leisure, don't go in much for climbing trees or motor racing; we tend to light our pipes and relax over a book. Our pleasures, in other words, are mainly mental. To take an instance at random—me—my idea of a good time is to settle down with a couple of Perry Mason paperbacks or to watch "Love of Life" (a daytime serial which nobody ought to miss) on the television set.

Having been born an Englishman, though now an American and a red-blooded one at that, I used, when I was younger, to play cricket and, until a stiff index finger made me give it up, golf, and in my very early days, when I was a clerk in the London office of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank, I did a lot of running. If I got impressed on me by the authorities that I was to the office late three mornings in a month I would forfeit my Christmas bonus, and one of the great sights in the City of London in the years 1901-1902 was me rounding into the straight with my coat tails flying and my feet going pitter-pitter pat and just making it across the threshold while thousands cheered. It kept me in fine condition and gave me a rare appetite for the roll and butter and cup of coffee, which were all I could afford for lunch in those days.

"Bill generally packs up after the first furlong."

I have never had anything in the nature of a hobby. When my day's work is done, I do not breathe a sigh of relief and say "And now for an invigorating bit of fret-sawing," nor do I model things in plasticine. No particular reason. It is just that these hobbies do not appeal to me. If you were to come to me and say, "Hello, there, Woodehouse, sawn any good fret lately?" I would shake my head. And if you brought me a blob of catch—or try to catch—Pooona each night. We let her out at about ten p.m. for a breath of air, and once out she hears the call of the wild and decides that being at large is a good thing and ought to be pushed along.

And I have the job of catching her. When you are eighty you have passed your peak as a cat catcher. There was a time—say between 1904 and 1910—when it would have been child's play for me to outstrip the fleetest cat, but now the joints have stiffened a trifle, and I am less of a force. The spirit is willing, but the flesh doesn't seem to move as it did. The thing usually ends in a bitter "All right, stay out, you cat!" from me and a quiet smile from Pooona.

And then the reproachful mew outside my bedroom window as the clocks are striking five. And if I leave the fly-screen open so that she can come through the window, she jumps on the bed and bites my toes. There seems no way of beating the game.

Still, things have brightened a good deal lately owing to Pooona having been bitten in the foot by another cat, no doubt in some night-club brawl, and being able to operate only on three legs. One more such episode, and the thing, as I see it, will be in the bag. I may not be the sprinter I once was, but I feel confident of being able to overtake a cat walking on two hind legs.

Meanwhile, the exercise is doing me all the good in the world, for apart from the running there is the falling. Owing to the activities of the hurricanes which enliven life on Long Island many of the trees chez Woodehouse are shored up with wire ropes, and any doctor will tell you there is nothing better for the liver than to trip over a wire rope when going all out after a receding cat and come down like a sack of coals. It amuses the cat, too.

"The exercise is doing all the good in the world."

plasticine and wanted me to finger out a model of the Pentagon, you would be met with a firm nolle prosequi. "Not in the mood," I would say.

Probably because they are always writing or thinking of what they are going to write next, few authors have hobbies. Henry James hadn't. Kipling hadn't. And, as far as I know, the literary artists who write "George Loves Mabel" or "Castro Ought To Have His Head Examined" in pencil on the posters in the subway haven't. Somerset Maugham plays bridge, and so do I when I can get a four, but as a rule what an author does in his spare time is sit and think . . . or, at any rate, sit. This is what I do myself, except when I lie at full length.

But even an octogenarian must have exercise, and here I am fortunately situated. In Remsenburg, Long Island, where I have been living since I became officially senile, we enjoy a number of amenities such as fresh air, fresh eggs, and an attractive waterfront on Moriches Bay, but we have not kept up with the march of progress so far as to have letter carriers. Mail has to be fetched from the post office, and I walk there every day to get it, accompanied by Pooona, my cat, and Bill, my foxhound, who generally packs up after the first furlong or so. Someone tells me that this is always the way with foxhounds. They have to do so much bustling about in their younger days that when they come to ripper years their inclination is just to lie around in the sun. Bill's age, when he came to us as a stray, must have been at least seven, so his days of activity are long behind him, and it is rare for him to stay the course. But Pooona and I are made of sterner stuff, and we trudge the two miles there and the two miles back singing a gypsy song.

Also I still do my setting-up exercises before breakfast, as I have done since 1919 without missing a day, though it is an open secret that I now find a difficulty in touching my toes, and I

But, not to put too fine a point on it, our present nobility is hardly an aristocracy of the intellect. We fix our avid attention on the 42-inch chest and give short shrift to those classroom magicians who can bring a whole five-foot shelf to life. And one day I began to wonder why, if we'll take a young college sophomore with good synapses and call him an all-American, we won't pay any attention to the professor of American literature who might just make a human being of him.

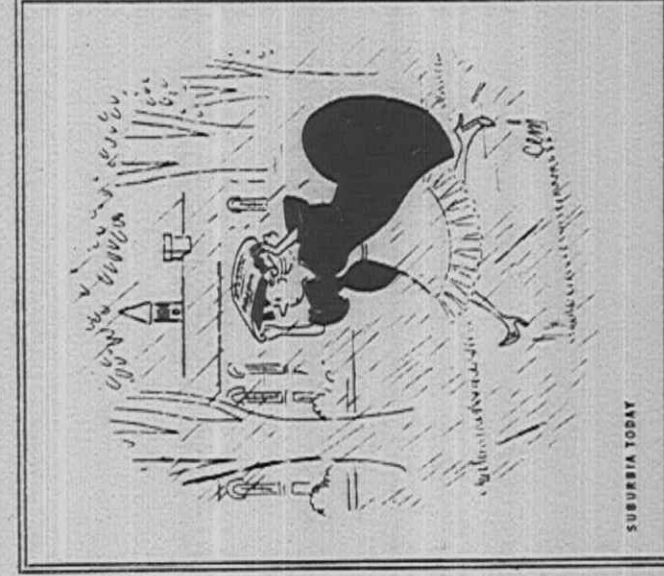

Now beyond any question, the first place we've got to start honoring our teachers is right in their honoraria. We pay our high-school teachers $5,110 on the national average; our college teachers $6,810, and tell them, "Turn my boy into an educated man so he can earn $25,000 a year selling insurance" (or practicing law). Surely a lot of our teacher troubles in this country will disappear when we stop demanding that our best men and women sacrifice earning potentials of thousands of dollars for the privilege of trying to educate our offspring.

Yet teachers, even more than most people, can't live by bread alone. And oddly enough, in our system, it's remarkably difficult to tell a good teacher he's good. We fix his salary on the basis of training and tenure; certainly there's no dollar differential between the competent and the incompetent teacher unless the latter is so abysmally bad as to manage, against all likelihood, to get himself fired.

The student should be the main source of a good teacher's satisfaction. Yet student respect and acclaim, which the good teacher values beyond emeralds, is immensely difficult to express. Should a youngster put a bold face on it and actually tell a prof he likes and admires him, he's liable to the accusation of what we once called "apple-polishing." (Some of my younger friends tell me they've LAST SPRING at my alma mater, Williams College, I started an Educational Experiment (since I started it, I get to put it in capital letters). It's on a modest scale, certainly, but an Educational Experiment all the same. But before I tell you what I did, let me tell you why I did it.

It's beginning to seem that you don't really have to be a clotpole to win honor in America these days, but it doesn't hurt any. We salute athletes of remarkable agility and starlets of improbable dimensions. Dress well, swing a 40-ounce bat effectively, have more than two children at any one time, marry frequently, drive an automobile very fast—do any of these things in the America of 1961, and riches and acclaim are yours. In New York we have a Miss Subway; all you have to do to be that is ride underground and smile. (We even have a lady tenant owner whom the press has dubbed affectionately, "Queen of the Slumlords.") In short, for a nation that did away with patents of nobility right in its Constitution, we manage to have quite a mixed bag of royalty running around.

For Teachers?

A noted lawyer argues that an inspiring teacher deserves a cum laude at commencement, too

BY MORRIS L. ERNST

to inflict Carl Sandburg and Thomas Mann on him.

It hasn't worked quite that way at Williams; the students decided on a modification. They donate the hundred dollars worth of books, in the name of the honored professor, to their college library. No doubt this is an equally worthy plan, although in giving the books directly to the teacher, I had no idea of insulting him with charity—I just wanted him to read the books.

But however it's handled, it seems to me that a teacher-award plan, at a nominal cost, gives students a chance to tell a good professor he's good, to honor him in the coin of his calling, books—and, incidentally, to let the whole academic community in on the important secret that our boys and girls don't want snap courses, that if a teacher hopes to earn respect and admiration in his life's chosen work, he's going to have to teach.

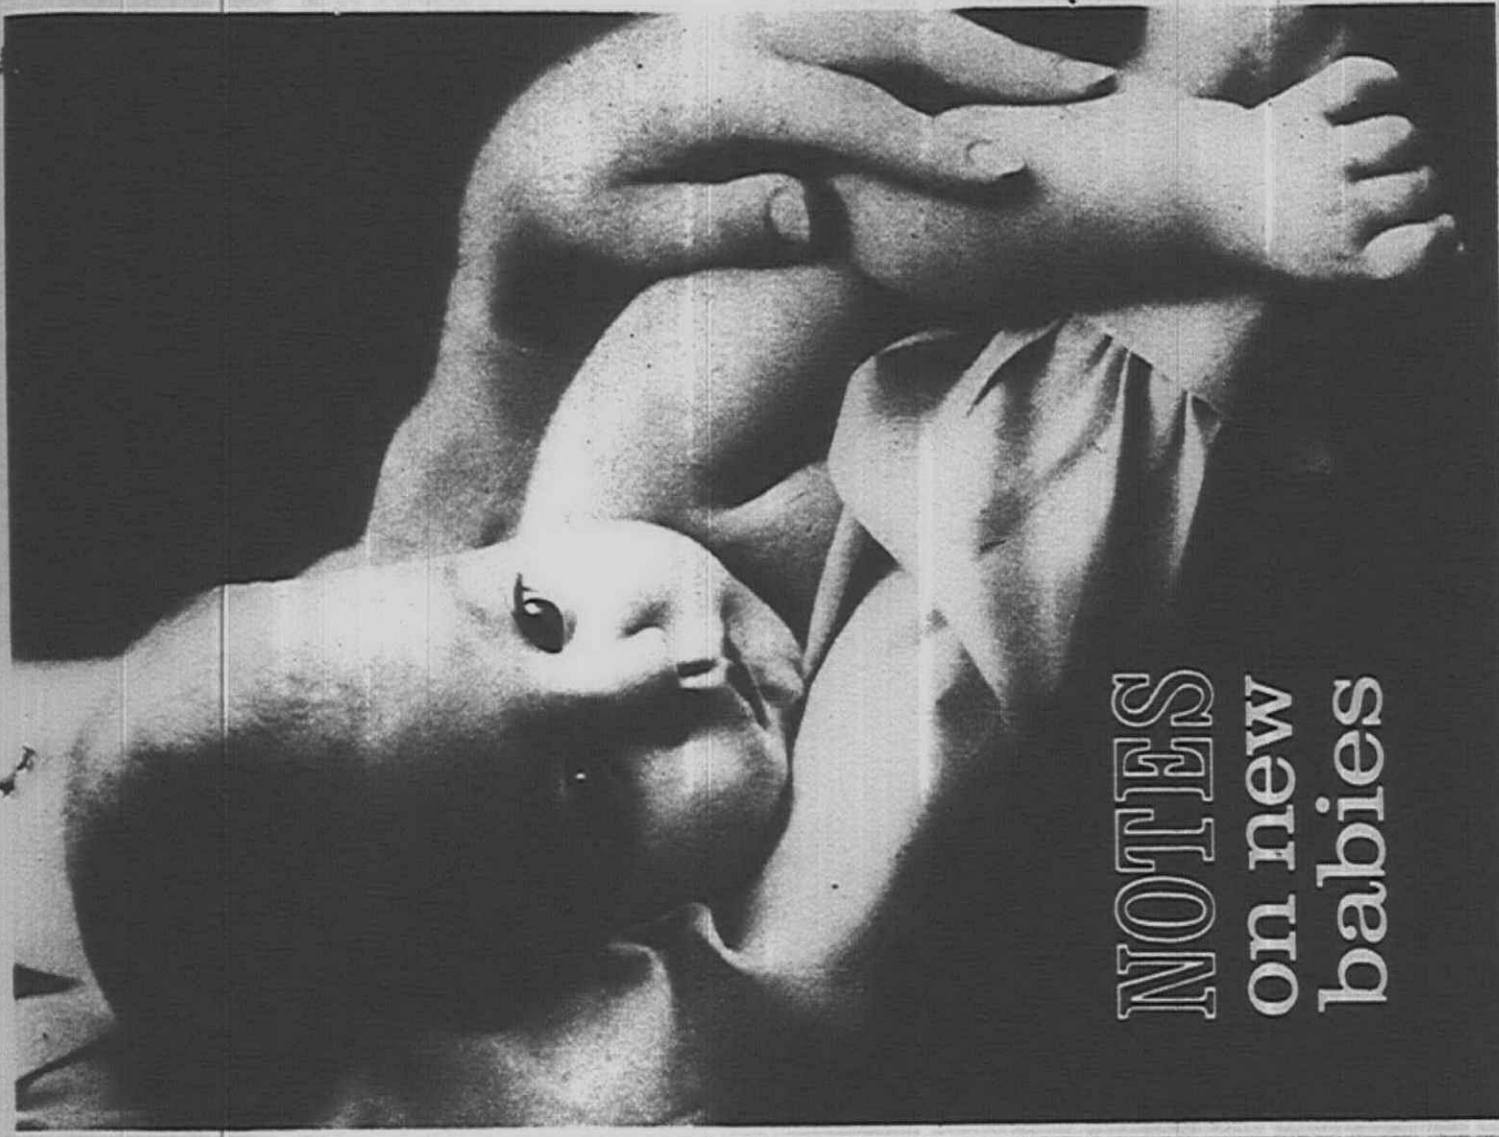

THAT'S WHY I thought other parents and alumni of other colleges and even high schools might be interested in my Educational Experiment. So I wrote to Matthew Nimetz, the young honor student at Williams who helped me set up the award program. How, I asked, are we doing? Here are some of the things he told me:

The award is presented by the school's two highest honor societies, Phi Beta Kappa and Gamma Phi Beta. Most important, they're enriched with blood-building iron, important B-vitamins and bone-building calcium.

NOTES on new babies

bringing up baby
Hate collected by Mrs. Dan Gerber, Mother of 5

Something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue. Some mothers apply this charming wedding custom to baby's layette. Nice sentiment for a new baby.

Many a new mother is overwhelmed by the magnitude of being a mother, and often worries unduly about her ability to handle baby. Best advice I know is to read authoritative articles on baby care... heed your doctor and trust your mother instinct. Be surprised how much it will teach and tell you. It's most reliable.

Watching baby's diet is one of your doctor's (and your) primary concerns. When he gives you the go-ahead on cereal, you'll want to try Gerber Cereal Quads—the variety package containing small-size boxes of Rice Cereal, Oatmeal, Mixed Cereal and High Protein Cereal. Each one has a bland but distinctive flavor—all four have a smooth-to-the-tongue, easy-to-swallow texture. Most important, they're enriched with blood-building iron, important B-vitamins and bone-building calcium.

4 Zesty Italian Dressings no one can buy

... fresh recipes made with this GOOD SEASONS MIX

Good Seasons Italian Dressing. So unusually savory, robust with garlic-flecked with onion and sweet red pepper! Takes just seconds to mix. Easy directions are on the Good Seasons envelope. You combine your favorite oil, vinegar and a little water with the Mix. The water, or a substitute liquid, makes the blend smoother. You can use many substitutes—see the recipes below for suggestions.

Italian Tomato Dressing. When making your Good Seasons dressing, substitute one tablespoon of tomato paste for one tablespoon of the water. Add a spicy, fragrant taste, typically Italian. Try it in a salad of lettuce and spinach with tomato wedges dipped in grated Parmesan cheese. This is a guest-dazzler.

Italian Wine-Mushroom Dressing. Really great with green salads. Use white or red wine instead of water in the dressing. Empty a drained 3 1/2 oz. can of mushroom stems and pieces into a small bowl and cover with dressing. At salad time, toss the marinated mushrooms, mixed greens, and some more dressing, all together.

Italian Blue Cheese Dressing. Make the Good Seasons dressing, then add 3 tablespoons of crumbled blue cheese. Shake well. A natural blend of flavors. Gives you two favorite dressings in one.

Get the new decorative Good Seasons crust, with measurements marked, where you buy the 8 Mixes: Italian Classic, Cheese-Garlic, Onion, Bleu Cheese, Exotic Herbs, Garlic, Old Fashion French.
