Home from Russia Tour--He'd Do It Again

If offered the choice, Larry Livingston of Plymouth would do it all over again.

Four credit hours were given band members, in contrast with probably 15 hours that the student would have received while at Ann Arbor.

Larry feels that the band had more enthusiastic receptions in Russia than in other countries. At first, Russian critics found it hard to believe that the bandmen were not professionals.

"I had only one glass of milk the entire trip," Larry recalled. In Russia the milk isn't pasteurized and in the Near East there is an epidemic among cows.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen E. Thompson

Austin-Thompson Vows Pledged in Afternoon Rites

At an afternoon ceremony, May 6, Lois J. Austin and Allen Eddy Thompson repeated their vows before Rev. Henry J. Walsh at the First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth.

The bride, given away by her father, wore a floor length gown with a Belgian lace bodice and lace applique on the long sleeves. The taffeta skirt ended in a chapel train. Her cascade bouquet was made up of carnations, rosebuds and stephanotis.

Shirley Austin, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She was frocked in lavender silk organza over taffeta with a rosebud at the waist. Miss Austin carried a cascade bouquet of lavender carnations.

Bridesmaids Miss Peggy McFarlane and Mrs. Myrna Jewell were gowned in aqua and yellow dresses and hats and flowers to match. Their accessories were white.

Best man was Willard Thompson, brother of the groom. Jerry Helmer and Steve Jewell were ushers.

Mrs. John Baltes, accompanied by Fred Nelson, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love You Truly." The altar was decorated with two baskets of gladioli and carnations and candles.

The mother of the bride wore a turquoise sheath of silk organza over taffeta with beige accessories. The groom's mother was dressed in a lavender sheath of silk organza over taffeta with lace top and white accessories.

Approximately 100 guests attended the reception held in the I.O.O.F. Hall in Plymouth, coming from Plymouth, Livonia, Northville, Garden City, Kingsford, Dearborn, Clinton, Taylor, Allen Park, Wayne, Kentucky, Illinois and Detroit.

For her wedding trip to Canada, the new Mrs. Thompson chose a beige and white cotton knit sheath with jacket.

The couple are graduates of Plymouth High, the groom from the class of 1956 and the bride, class of 1959. She is also a graduate of Cleary College.

Jean's Jottings

By Jean Campau, Woman's Editor

The two boys and seven girls had been scurrying around for days to locate all the blue and gold bunting and cheesecloth that Plymouth and Northville merchants had to offer. And at last they had enough to decorate the exposed parts and rafters of the unfinished interior in the comparatively new fire hall on Main St. Then just before the exciting climax of 12 years, the young people went to several nearby farms to gather armloads of Marguerite Daisies to complete the decorations. For this was the class flower and this was the Plymouth High School graduating class of 1891.

Janet Crosby Hodge, now 88, recalls the day just as if it were yesterday. June 19 was a beautiful day and evening. "We had a class historian and prophecy and a valedictorian and each of us had to recite an original essay that we had memorized."

Her own essay, woven around the question put to Michaelangelo when asked about the rare color quality of his paints, began, "brains, sirs," replied Michaelangelo, "not corn, cotton or iron—." "There was a good deal of eloquence that night," recalls Mrs. Hodge.

She and her closest chum, Evelyn Ramsdell, wore identical dresses made in the same shade of blue called 'ashes of roses,' the other five girls were frocked in white.

Her teacher, Anna Smith, who was known as the grandmother of the school, gave out the diplomas to the young graduates.

With a quick return to the present, Mrs. Hodge said, "It is a pity there has never been a school named for this devoted teacher, for she had the love of everyone and was a fine teacher."

Following the commencement exercises, State Senator and Mrs. Calvin Crosby, Mrs. Hodge's aunt and uncle, gave a graduation party at their home, then located on the south corner across from the Mayflower Hotel. The party was catered from Detroit and Mrs. Hodge remembers it was the first time she had ever seen colored brick ice cream. It was blue and gold, specially made to carry out the class colors.

Until her marriage to Burt A. Hodge in September 1897, she was a country schoolmarm, teaching 25 to 30 pupils in grades one through eight. Then the newlyweds went to Des Moines, Iowa and lived for 20 years. Returning to this area they purchased land near where Meadowbrook is situated and there she and her husband raised gladioli and peonies for florists. From this endeavor her spouse earned the interesting title of "The Glad King."

Mr. Hodge died two years ago and since that time his wife has lived at the West Trail Rest Home. She is a delightful lady, who has lived an exciting life. When she speaks, her vigorous, animated and well chosen vocabulary transmits her subject from mere words into reality for her listener.

Though the population has increased drastically and school buildings and teaching methods have changed, the Plymouth High School graduates of this week will experience the same thrill of expectancy and know that the world is their oyster just as Janet Crosby Hodge and her eight classmates did that June day 71 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred K. Clement

Widmaier-Clement Vows Spoken at Evening Ceremony

Judy Jeanne Widmaier and Fred Kenneth Clement exchanged marriage vows in a double ring ceremony at the Church of Plymouth, June 2, before Dr. Henry J. Walsh.

The bride, was given in marriage by her father. The new Mrs. Clement wore a floor length gown of silk organza with scoop neckline. The front panel of the skirt was trimmed with seed pearls and white sequins. Her fingertip veil was fastened to a white organza-rose headpiece.

The matron of honor, Patricia Lusk, wore a pale orchid chiffon dress and carried a basket of white and orchid chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids, Sally Swope, sister of the bride, and Wathena Miller, also wore pale orchid frocks with matching baskets of flowers.

Gary Clement, brother of the groom was best man and serving as ushers were the bride's brother, George G. Widmaier and Larry Cole. Mother of the bride wore a beige sheath dress trimmed with a green orchid. The groom's mother chose a dusty rose dress trimmed with a white orchid and white accessories.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church hall for 150 guests.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. George Widmaier of Russell St., Plymouth, and the parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clement of Liberty St.

The newlyweds motored to Niagara Falls before taking up residence in Plymouth.

The couple are both graduates of Plymouth High School.

Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary

Our sincere get-well wishes to Winifred Cadaret who is in Garden City Osteopathic Hospital. Congratulations to Jackie Dunlap, daughter of Pat and Edward, on winning the camp drawing this year. Her alternate in the event she cannot attend will be Donnetta Smith, daughter of Beryl and LeMay.

We had the pleasure of having Treasurer D. Tooley and Musician D. Shepherd of the Wayne Auxiliary at our last meeting.

A mailing has been made to all Auxiliary members of a letter and an identification card informing them of the insurance policy taken out by the Auxiliary for this year for cancer. It is important that each member read the letter carefully and keep the card. While we do not anticipate that any member will need to use this policy, it will be well to acquaint yourself with it.

We have approximately one more week to buy bricks or tickets for the project at Valley Forge. Let's give Loy Young a hand and call for a ticket today. The cost is $1 each.

A surprise party was given for Marion Robertson Thursday night with approximately 33 attending. The luncheon was provided by the drill team and Marion received some lovely gifts.

The Father and Son banquet, although not a sell-out, was very successful. Bert Krumm was the oldest father; Jack Olsaver was the youngest; Vic DeWife had the most sons there; and Duane Johnson, who has only daughters, had the most sons who did not belong to him at the party. The food was delicious and the entertainment, a demonstration in archery put on by George Cruax, was a tremendous hit. Many are already looking forward to a similar event next year.

Americanism Chairman LeMay Smith will be presenting an American Flag to the Girl Scout Troop No. 282 of the Grand Rapids School. There are four graduates at the National Home and our Auxiliary has sent a gift to each. The Auxiliary this week helped the family of a veteran by providing a basket of food. The veteran is hospitalized and the family really appreciated the little bit of help given.

Summer is finally here and school will soon be out. Before you take off on that well deserved vacation, how about making the next meeting.

Past Presidents Merle Atchinson and Marion Creith were the installing officers, presiding over the impressive candlelight ceremony.

The installation was preceded by a dinner at Lofy's for the incoming and outgoing officers, the installing officers, and the past presidents of the Farmington Vivians also attended.

We want to wish the new officers the very best for the coming year and to thank the officers from the past year for a most successful year.

The highest mountain on the moon is estimated to be 33,000 feet high.

Flowers Shown Senior Citizens

The Senior Citizens of Plymouth gathered at the Oddfellows Hall Thursday, June 8 with a large group attending.

Mrs. Paul Wiedman, president of the Plymouth Branch of the Farm and Garden Club, gave some instructions in the making of wreaths from cones and also the making of many floral arrangements. She was assisted by Mrs. Albert Pint and Mrs. Louis VonStein.

A business meeting was held, followed by the sewing of cancer pads and playing of cards. A luncheon was served by the Plymouth Grange. Mrs. Mildred Higgins and Edward Egloff were host and hostess.

Clifford Tait Earns Degree At Ohio State

Among the 2,395 receiving diplomas at Ohio State University last Friday morning was Clifford W. Tait, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford W. Tait, 13970 Ridgewood.

Clifford received a bachelor of science degree in business administration.

Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, delivered the commencement address.

Books Old and New For Summer Reading

With more leisure time in the approaching summer months, Agnes Pauline, of the Dunning-Hough Library, states that the library has a variety of new volumes and many old favorites on hand.

On the circulating list are "First Men to the Moon" by Werner von Braun, "Introduction to Space" by Lee DuBridge and "Victory Over Space" by Albert Ducrocq. Each book, as the name implies, deals with the new frontier.

Other suggestions for summer reading are Tolstoy's "Anna Karenina," "Lost Horizons" by James Hilton, and the works of Hemingway, Faulkner and F. Scott Fitzgerald.

Persons contemplating a European jaunt will enjoy their trip more and save time and money by checking travel books and pamphlets. Some of these are "Myra Waldo's Travel Guide to Europe," "Fielding's Travel Guide to Europe," "Europe of $5 a Day," and Howard Stein's "Budget Guide to Europe."

Books covering European countries can also be obtained. Tips on travel in France are given in Sydney Clark's "All the Best in France," "Your Trip to Britain," by Richard Joseph, "View Hunting in Italy" by Sidney Bloeme, "Handy Guide to Western Germany" by Bernd Boehle, and "Switzerland" by Eugene Fodor, to mention but a few.

The 100th anniversary of the Civil War has brought a flood of books from publishers, according to Mrs. Pauline. Two outstanding titles are "The American Heritage Picture History of the Civil War" edited by Bruce Catton and R. Ernest Dupuy's "The Compact History of the Civil War," which is a readable introduction to the maze of battles and issues of the Civil War.

The field of biography is well represented in such books as "The Real Abraham Lincoln" by Reinhold Luthin, "Nathaniel Greene" by Theodore Thayer, "John Paul Jones" by Samuel Eliot Morison and "I, Benedict Arnold; The Anatomy of Treason" by Cornel Lengyel.

Plymouth and the Civil War

Plymouth Men in Other Units Besides Famed 24th

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last in a series of articles telling of the role Plymouth men played in the Civil War 100 years ago.)

BY JEAN CAMPAU

Co. C. of the 24th Regiment, a vital part of the formidable Iron Brigade, represented the largest single concentration of men from Plymouth, but by no means did it comprise all those who fought from here.

James DeFoe and William B. Roe, of Plymouth, were appointed captain and first lieutenant, respectively, of Co. F, 16th Infantry. Under its original name, it was known as Stockton's Independent Regiment. This body of 761 officers and men marched off toward the front in September 1861.

In the Fifth Michigan Cavalry, Co. D, was Capt. Eli S. Simonds and Second Lt. Thomas J. Dean. Second Lt. Benjamin Treat and Robert F. Allen were in the Eighth Michigan Cavalry. Albert Hines was a first lieutenant in Co. C. of the Ninth Michigan Cavalry.

When the Federal Government called for volunteer regiments in the far west to guard the outer reaches of the Union against Confederate invasion, Plymouth man, Chauncey E. Baker, (the father of Mrs. Roderick Cassidy and Henry E. Baker), enlisted in LaPorte, Calif., on August 16, 1861.

Cpl. Baker served in the Union army, Co. F, First California Infantry until August of 1864. During the early days of the struggle between the North and South, the Rebels entertained hopes of securing Arizona and New Mexico to gain a stronghold in California for purposes of obtaining supplies of men, horses, material and money.

However, through the vigilance of these Western divisions, one of which Chauncey E. Baker was a part, the South's attempts were successfully foiled.

Charles H. Houk was 21 when he enlisted in August of 1862. He served his hitch of three years in Co. I of the 24th Infantry and was mustered June 26, 1865 from the 243rd Co., First Battalion, Veteran Reserve Corp.

Lt. Abram Pelham enlisted in the Federal Army Nov. 7, 1861 and served in Co. A, 13th Michigan Infantry. Pelham served with his regiment under General Bewell in Kentucky and Tennessee as quartermaster. He was in Nashville when Gen. Rosecrans assumed command and later participated in the battle of Stone River.

John N. McFarland, 45, was a captain in Co. D, Fourth Michigan Cavalry. In this same illustrious and colorful Fourth Cavalry were brothers Ira D., 21, and Harvey Scott Heywood, 26. Ira served three years from Aug. 28, 1862 to July 1, 1865, when he was mustered out in Nashville.

Harvey entered the Fourth Cavalry, Co. D., as a corporal, July 28, 1862. He soon became a sergeant and was made a first lieutenant in May of 1865. "For gallant and meritorious service in the recent campaign in Alabama and Georgia" he was elevated to Brevet Captain of the U.S. Volunteers.

During his engagements, he was wounded in an action at Sparta, Tenn. in Aug. of 1863. Prior to his enlistment, Heywood was a landsman in the distant West and had joined a polar expedition returning to the U.S. soil shortly after the outbreak of the War between the States.

Ira and Harvey Heywood were brothers of the late Mrs.

George A. Starkweather, grandmother of Karl Starkweather.

Albert Rose, a great uncle of Perry Richwine, enlisted in Plymouth in 1863 in Co. D, 3rd Michigan Cavalry, whereupon he was immediately sent south and saw much active service in the "campaign of west" along the Mississippi.

He died a few months after writing this letter in Memphis at the age of 21 from the "fever." (This could have been malaria, scarlet fever or typhoid).

The father of this young Union soldier was known to early Plymouth settlers as "Captain" Rose, a soldier of the Great Lakes.

This letter was written to Perry Richwine's mother's mother.

La Grange, Tennessee July 10, 1863

Dear Sister, I received your kind and welcome letter and was glad to hear from you. I was glad to hear from Cal for I have written him three times, but have never received any answer.

We are now camped at LaGrange, about 45 miles from Memphis, Jackson (Miss.) is evacuated. Our regiment was the last one to leave there.

We left there the 8th of June and reached here on the 11th. We had not been here only four days when we got orders to march with seven days ration.

We were gone nine days, destroying everything. We destroyed the grain in the field and corn in the crib and every house and barn, driving off the mules and horses and the Negroes, leaving the citizens in many cases entirely destitute of a any of the necessities of life. It is estimated that we destroyed property to the value of more than 12 millions of dollars.

The troops engaged in this were the 3rd Michigan, 2nd Iowa, 7th Kansas, 9th Illinois, 4th Illinois and 4th Ohio cavalry, making, as you see, a very strong cavalry force.

Our Colonel was in command of the whole force and he ordered that everything should be destroyed. And I tell you, his orders were obeyed to the letter.

Well, Charlotte, I must stop writing as it is time to feed the horses. So goodbye, as you said you would excuse a short letter. Write soon, direct to Albert P. Rose Co. D, 3rd Michigan Cavalry, LaGrange, Tenn.

Rising from the dead-strewn battlefields and the evil prison camps a new America emerged. The bucolic image that had typified America in the years preceding the war was revamped after 1865 into one of progressive might and the Industrial Revolution was just moving centerstage.

It was this appalling and furious fight that gave the newly reunited nation its character, with a renewed and regenerated strength. To be sure, there were gross inequities toward the vanquished and humiliated South and the real nub of the violent upheaval, states rights, is yet to be solved.

Many say it was a foolish war and should never have been fought. Perhaps it was. Still, if by some magic, the thread of the years could be unraveled, it would surely happen again for the same fiddlers would be there to play the tune. History, as earth-shattering as some parts of it have been, cannot be changed.

So, the great American Civil War stands as a granite fact. This account would be incomplete if acknowledgment and thanks were not given to those who supplied so much aid and information. They are listed in the order that encountered them: Agnes Pauline and the Dunning-Hough Library Staff, Ferdinand Freund, Walter Ash, Karl Starkweather, Norma Cassidy, George Burr, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Westfall, George R. Raub, Sr., and Marcus Shattuck.

Plymouth High School

By Lester Barison

Commencement ceremonies tonight at 8:00 will end the high school careers of over 290 graduating seniors, as well as finish off the activities of the school year.

Seniors completed their exams on Tuesday of last week, and have been out of school since that time, returning however for baccalaureate on last Sunday evening as well as commencement practice this morning and Tuesday morning.

Baccalaureate was a great success with a large group of townspeople as well as relatives present to witness the ceremonies. Reverend Edward Castner offered the invocation, while Reverend James Laird of Detroit delivered the sermon. He made the point that man is religious by nature - he has to worship something. The question was then posed to the graduates, "What will you worship? Will it be yourself, or perhaps something made by man?"

Rev. Laird then proceeded to give examples of persons who had devoted themselves to worthless and inconsequential pursuits, ignoring the worship of God that is fundamental to a happy life. The old parable of the prodigal son was cited as an example that pure enjoyment of material things does not lead to permanent happiness.

After the sermon Reverend Donald Williams gave the benediction, praying for the successful lives of the graduates.

While seniors were relaxing, underclassmen were hard at work polishing up last minute reports, and cramming for their exams, which were completed yesterday. The Future Nurses Club celebrated that happy event with a dinner at Hillside Inn directly after the last exam. Later, on the evening of that same day the spring initiation of the National Thespian Society was held. The impressive candlelight ceremony was the last for the departing senior members.

Among those students looking forward to exciting events this summer are all the members of the '61-'62 band, who will spend the last week of August at the National Music Camp at Interlochen. The trip is being financed by the proceeds from a chop suey dinner, peanut brittle sale, dance, and the spring choral concert.

Plymouth graduate Larry Livingston, who toured the Soviet Union this year with the University of Michigan band was back at the school last Tuesday afternoon to show slides and tell about his experiences to Miss Fiegel's International Relations seniors. The group was really happy to hear this first hand information about a country that was studied so much during the past year. Having gathered in Miss Fiegel's room after commencement practice, they were rewarded by some fascinating tales of life behind the Iron Curtain.

Well, this reporter becomes a bit nostalgic when he realizes that this is his last Plymouth High column. A quick look at the past year's columns reveals a multitude of school projects and endeavors—all accomplished and carried through in grand style. What better indication of a fine and outstanding student body and faculty? All that can be said is that it's been great covering all of the wonderful activities and people at good old PHS.

SPORTSEEN

By Bill Nelson

Since their opening in April, the Detroit Tigers have been credited with several successes. At least one writer has attributed the rise in the economic situation to the Tigers. Others have said that all of Detroit and Michigan is talking again in buoyant, confident tones—the state legislature to the contrary notwithstanding.

The term Tiger Town, of course, includes more than Detroit. The influence extends as far out as Plymouth, where (we should get it on the record quickly) the citizens have always been solid-rock Tiger fans.

There is something surprising and heartening in the Tiger rise. Few expected anything like what has happened and most of us are cheered when an underdog goes out and wins.

In recent years the Tigers just seemed to be putting in time, but now the team has caught fire. Norm Cash and Rocky Colavito are earning more respect every day. And those back-to-back home runs are something Tiger fans could very easily adjust to.

There is some good pitching and occasional superb fielding. In addition, there is youth. While they won't have won anything until they have beaten the Yankees, the Tigers figure to be in the race all the way.

If you've kept your ear next to the radio and eyes on the night television games, you may have missed noting that summer floats in next week.

For many high school athletes it means a short reprieve before college. Little Leaguers share the limelight with adult softball teams in Plymouth now.

The recreation department has summer activity going with swimming, physical fitness programs and golf activity. There are, of course, dozens of park facilities and lakes nearby.

Summer is Michigan's most relaxed season. Picnics and recreation appeal to everyone. You can set your own pace on a hot day.

Just plain walking ought to have the top vote for summertime activity in Plymouth. The tree lined streets provide a pleasant backdrop for just wandering around.

Don't forget the mosquito repellent, however.

Michigan Chorale To Sing

The Michigan Chorale, a mixed ensemble of 69 high school seniors from Michigan, will present a concert of sacred music on June 21 at the Aldersgate Methodist Church, 10000 Beech-Daly Road, at 8:00 p.m.

Lester McCoy, B.M., M.M., Conductor of the University Musical Society, Ann Arbor, is the director of this group of young singers who will leave on June 29 for a two month concert tour in South America and Mexico, during which they will interpret the United States through music to people of other countries. Their repertoire includes all types of music including great works of the classical, romantic and contemporary periods. Many compositions of American composers and American folk material are also included.

This Teen-age Student Exchange is sponsored by the Youth for Understanding Program and is in direct cooperation with the International Educational Department of the State of the United States.

Young people participating from the Livonia-Detroit area are Maurita Turner from Bentley High School, James Browning and Jan Southart from Redford Union High School, and Joanne Carlson from Cody High School.

The Old Timer

"The trouble with being a good sport is you have to lose to prove it."

WINNERS and runners-up in the Jaycee Tennis Tournament were these eight young people. The boys, from left, are Tom Locke, Bob Waters, David Tidwell, and John Tichy. The girls, Marilyn and Linda Wall, Kathy Smith and Carol Otwell.

Finalists Travel To Holland

Four winners and four runners-up in the First Jaycee Tennis Match will travel to Holland June 30 to participate in a three-day state meet on June 30, July 1 and 2.

In the tournament at Plymouth on June 10 and 11, John Tichy beat Tommy Locke 4-6, 6-3 and 9-7 to win the 18 and under trophy.

Linda Wall won the 18 and under girls title by default. Marilyn Wall, her sister, will participate in the state meet with her.

David Tidwell cast his best upon Bob Waters to win 6-2 and 6-4 in the 15 and under competition. The other 15 and under trophy was won in the girls division by Carol Otwell when she beat Kathy Smith 7-5, 1-6, 6-3. Bill Drudge and Jim Stevens organized the tournament for the Jaycees.

Jim Dzurus Wows Gators

Jim Dzurus, a 1958 graduate of Plymouth High, is going great in Florida. Now a University of Florida junior, Dzurus hit .366 in the season just ended, while playing for the Gators.

According to a report from Jim Eadons, a fraternity brother of Dzurus, Dzurus has one year left. Dzurus was the second leading hitter for the Gators this season and is considered to have one of the best "throwing arms" in the Southeastern Conference outfields. He has had several professional offers and is considering whether or not to sign with a major league team. The Gators were third in their conference this year, but were rated high enough nationally to receive invitations to national baseball tournaments.

FIRE IN THE SKY—More than two tons of high explosives will light up Downtown Detroit's skyline on July 3 when Hudson's presents its third annual pyrotechnic salute to the International Freedom Festival. The 45 minute aerial display, largest to be staged in the U.S. this year, will start at 9:15 p.m. from four barges moored midway in the Detroit River between Downtown Detroit and Windsor. More than half a million persons viewed the show last year.

U of D Graduate

James R. Petrik, 32, will receive a B.B.A. degree from the University of Detroit on June 15. Jim majored in management at the Evening School of Commerce and Finance. He resides at 9614 Roseland, Livonia, with his wife, Edwina. He is a member of Epsilon Zeta Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, national professional business fraternity.

To Hear From

Con-Con Delegates

The Livonia Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold a dinner meeting at 7 p.m. on June 20, at the Hillside Inn, Plymouth. Included in the program will be candidates for the Constitutional Convention from this area, who will discuss their proposal changes to our State Constitution and debate their reasons.

All men in the area between the ages of 21 to 36 are cordially invited to attend. This will provide an opportunity to hear an excellent talk on this controversial subject and to become familiar with the activities of the Jaycees in Livonia. For further information contact J. R. Young at GA 2-6269.

Of the 40,666 foreign students in the United States schools for the 1956-57 academic year, Canada led with 5,739. China was second with 3,055 and Korea third with 2,307.

Plan Cool Trip

Eight local lads, between 14 and 16, have signed up to attend "The Double Blue Hockey School" in Toronto,

Aug. 27 to Sept. 2, according to James McKindies.

Those leaving by train on Aug. 28 are: Bob Crowthers, Mike Materna, Randy Sharland, Terr Cosgrove, Clark Raven, Butch Thomas, Don Gavigan and Jim McKindies.

Anyone interested in the school should contact McKindies at GL 3-7036 for all particulars. A $15 registration fee is requested by the first of July. The trip includes a visit to the Toronto Exhibition.

Kiwanians Visit

Race Course Today

Approximately 35 members of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club have decided on June 14 for a visit to the Detroit Race Course. Schoolcraft and Middlebelt Roads.

The group will begin its outing with lunch in the newly redecorated DRC Clubhouse and then will watch a full afternoon of thoroughbred horse racing at the "Michigan Mile Track."

A race will be named in honor of the group and officers of the organization will gather in the winner's circle for pictures and a word of congratulations with the victorious owner and jockey.

The valley floor of the Nile River is seven feet higher today than it was in Cleopatra's time. This is due to the silt deposited by the annual floodings.

Pastor, Wife Return from Tour of Europe, Holy Land

A communist May Day parade past the place where Jesus worked with Joseph in the carpenter shop was one of the events of interest taking place as Pastor and Mrs. Patrick J. Clifford of Calvary Baptist Church toured the Holy Land recently.

The couple was sent by their congregation on the tour through Europe and the Holy Land.

Leaving New York on April 4 on the Queen Mary, they arrived in London five days later. They spent two days in London visiting many of the familiar places of interest. On April 12 they flew to Cairo, Egypt. Besides taking the usual pyramid trips, they flew 450 miles south of Cairo to Thebes, the ancient capital of Egypt. Here they saw the ruins of the Great Temple area at Karnak, and the temple area of Luxor.

Crossing to the west side of the Nile, they visited the tombs of the kings, including the tomb of King Tut. A place of special interest was the ruins of the Temple of Queen Hatshepsut, where according to tradition, Moses was raised.

From Egypt they flew to Beirut, Lebanon, a beautiful city on the Mediterranean. For the next three weeks they traveled through Lebanon, Syria, Jordan and Israel by car. They were privileged to stay inside the city walls of Jerusalem for four nights at the Gloria Hotel. On Sunday, April 23, they attended a morning service at the Garden Tomb and a vesper service on the Mount of Olives.

During the days in the Bible land, temperatures reached 97 degrees at the Dead Sea, 103 degrees at Beersheba and 95 at the Sea of Galilee, Rev. Clifford reported.

As the pastor and others visited Joseph's carpenter shop in Bethlehem on May 1, a May Day parade sponsored by the communistic element in Israel passed by. The pastor took a number of pictures of the parade and of placards that publicly expressed their hatred for the U.S. They learned that only two per cent of the population of Israel is communistic. Israel in general has a friendly attitude toward the U.S., the pastor said.

Rev. Clifford noted that Israel was the most advanced and progressive nation of all they visited. "The new university of Jerusalem and hospital are as modern and beautiful as any in our own country," he observed. Israel has no unemployment.

The Sabbath Day in Jerusalem, Israel was very quiet—no buses or taxis are operated. In fact, they were not able to have a fried egg for breakfast on the Sabbath in the King David Hotel. Old Jewish customs and laws are strictly adhered to by the majority of people.

After visiting the modern cities of Haifa and Tel Aviv, the group flew to Athens where they took a side trip along the Aegean Sea to Corinth. From Athens they flew to Rome, and then to Switzerland over the Alps. "Switzerland was the most beautiful and scenic country visited," the pastor declared.

Arriving in Paris, they encountered a 24-hour transportation strike which hindered the sightseeing somewhat. From Paris they returned to London and motored to Edinburgh and Glasgow with a side trip to Loch Lomond. Then came a flight to Belfast, Ireland and by car to Dublin and Limerick.

Flying by jet back across the Atlantic, they enjoyed five hours of sunset. "We will be forever grateful to our congregation for making the trip possible," Pastor Clifford said. This Sunday, June 18, he will show some of the 1,200 slides taken during the trip. It will start at 7 p.m.

"We saw many beautiful places and met interesting people," Pastor Clifford noted, "but there is no place like the U.S.A. for our way of thinking and living."

In his trip, the pastor saw a slogan in England which he felt would be appropriate for our community—"Particular People Prefer Plymouth."

Hole-in-one Feat Nets Golfer New Set of Irons

When Charles H. Griswold, 1314 Beech St., sets out to do something, he wastes no time.

Last Friday he purchased a First-Flight golf ball at Hilltop Golf Course and signed up in the golf ball company's hole-in-one contest.

Stepping up to the first tee, he lifted his No. 3 wood and socked the ball down the 207-yard stretch. It dropped into the hole. For his effort, he won $150 in merchandise and he selected a new set of irons.

Griswold was playing with Hilltop's pro, Chris Burkhardt, along with Charles Clark and Harry Koss. The last ace on this hole was three years ago.

What Grows Goes By Truck!

Like Michigan's factories, offices, shops and homes, her important farming industry depends on motor transport. Trucks play a vital part in getting crops planted, cared for, and harvested—and they are the means by which the harvest gets to market. For example, nearly 90% of fruits and vegetables moving into Detroit come directly by truck. And this is relatively true of other cities throughout Michigan. . . . In addition, virtually all farm products travel by truck at least part of the way to market. So you see how very much the dynamic farming industry relies on the trucking industry in this great State of ours.

NATIONAL FLAG WEEK — JUNE 11th - JUNE 17th

June 11 through June 17 is National Flag Week, with special emphasis on Wednesday, June 14, which is Flag Day. Dr. Cigrant also assisted in forming the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag in 1889 and later petitioned President Wilson to urge its acceptance by the War Department. The date of June 14 was chosen as the birthday of the flag in commemoration of the official adoption of the Stars and Stripes.

50 Witnesses Going to NYC

According to Carson Coonce, presiding minister of the Plymouth congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, travel arrangements have been completed for 50 delegates to attend the United Worshipers Assembly at Yankee Stadium, New York City, June 20-25.

Mr. Coonce said that most of the local residents who plan to attend the convention will be leaving on Monday, June 19, so as to arrive in time to get in their accommodation and attend the opening sessions of the convention. Many of the delegates will stay in private homes in New York.

"Convention sessions," said Mr. Coonce "will provide practical instruction in Bible teaching methods, and give down to earth discussion of the application of Bible principles to every day living. Among the 70,000 expected to attend will be delegates from every country in South and Central America, Canada and the Islands of the Caribbean," he declared.

PASTOR Patrick Clifford is shown walking along the Valley of the Dead at Luxor, 400 miles south of Cairo. The trip was only 45 minutes from Cairo by jet. Nearby was King Tut's tomb.

Home from Russia

Even in the Iron Curtain nations of Poland and Rumania, Larry found the people hardly sympathetic to the Communist cause, but "just waiting around" for something to happen to free them.

Larry found Russians apparently happy they are getting something to eat and having a place to sleep, in contrast to the Czarist days of depression for the common man.

On Friday, June 2, the band was back on U.S. soil again and played in the famed Carnegie Hall. Larry's parents flew to New York to attend the concert.

Larry's father is instrumental music director at the Junior High and Larry has ambitions of becoming a professional musician, either playing with an orchestra or teaching music in college.

But whatever his course in later life, the education Larry gained during the past three and a half months will never be forgotten.

Hotels were also another source of irritation. "Even the best hotels in the Soviet Union were not good," he continued. "There would usually be one lav on a floor, no hot water and elevators out of order."

"Every room had bedbugs and some students were bitten. There were mice too." A doctor and his wife a nurse traveled with the group.

Except for some books, Larry refused to buy souvenirs in the Soviet Union because of the high prices. "A man's suit costs between $200 to $300 and shirts from $7 to $10. Then, the quality is poor."

In Cairo, the band traveled out to the famous Great Pyramid and Sphinx. But Larry and the rest of his fellow musicians agreed that Athens was the top spot on the tour.

"It was more Americanized than other places. Many people speak English. While most of the Middle East Arab countries had little children by the hundreds going around begging for money, there was none of this in Athens. It seemed very metropolitan, and it is very beautiful, especially the Acropolis."

Soviet people will not talk about politics but people at other stops had much to say, according to Larry. "They seemed to be of the one idea that the United States should be more aggressive with the Communists. They can't figure out why they (the U.S.) allow the Communists to push them around. They believe that the Reds won't start a war for they are afraid of the destructive weapons."

The first charter commission was elected in January 1959, the same date that voters living within the boundary of the proposed Plymouth Heights approved the formation of the new city.

During the ensuing months, the Charter Commission drafted a charter and submitted it to the governor. Last Jan. 16, the proposal was placed on the ballot and it failed, 1,589 to 35.

The Plymouth Heights de facto mayor, John McEwen, then filed a petition for a new election within 10 days after the Jan. 16 vote.

Admittedly, the Plymouth Heights charter drafting and election is a device for maintaining "two years of peace" within the community during which there can be no petitions for annexation to the City considered.

Stein said that he expects at least 50 buildings to be connected to the water line at first and it could reach 70. The agreement has a maximum of 100.

"We are very happy and pleased with the action of the City Commission," the supervisor said yesterday. "Their offer was very attractive."

Canton officials first approached the Plymouth Township for extension of water but the Plymouth Township rates apparently were too high for Canton and the City Commission was approached.

Plymouth Township will be receiving its water from Detroit. The connection to the Canton water extension will be made at Sheldon and Joy Roads where a City line runs southward to the Gallimore School.

members of the Board of Education or shall have been employees of the Board. However, such persons cannot be active members of the Board or on active status as employees of the Board at the time of selection.

Although there has not been a previous written policy covering name selection of elementary schools, the policy pattern has been followed. Present elementary schools, with the exception of Starkweather School built over 30 years ago, have been named after retired teachers, administrators or Board members.

The junior or senior high buildings, however, will be identified by their locations, such as North, South, Central, etc.

What if another junior high is built west of the new Junior High-West? The Board discussed this Monday night and decided that the newest school would probably fall in the Northwest or Southwest area anyway and these designations could be used. Or else the older school could be renamed.

In other business before the Board, representatives of the maintenance union appeared to ask that maintenance men be considered for pay raises, although they fully understand that money situation is not good this year. They noted that 10 men had attended 15 sessions in Detroit to obtain their high pressure boiler operation licenses. Seven passed their examination.

The Board accepted the resignation of William Foster, Starkweather School sixth grade teacher, who will be taking another position next year, perhaps in Fargo, N.D. Before the resignation was approved, the Board straightened out a technicality regarding the sabbatical leave granted the teacher three years ago when he received a Fulbright Scholarship to teach in Northern Rhodesia.

The policy states that a teacher must work three years following his return in order to receive half of his salary while away. Foster was granted only a half sabbatical leave pay and therefore felt that he should be required to work only a year and a half after returning, instead of three years. The Board agreed and his resignation was accepted.

Ask Amy

BY AMY ADAMS

HER HUSBAND CAN'T SAY 'NO'

Dear Amy:
I would like your opinion on this. I go to a dance with your husband and a group of other couples and a man (not in the group) asks your husband's permission to dance with you and your husband says "Sure," but he really doesn't want you to dance with this man, what would you do?

My husband expects me to read his mind and say, "No!" I told my husband if he doesn't want me to dance, to refuse the guy himself! Is it my place to say "No" or my husband's? The guy asked him! When there are other things he doesn't want me to do, he says "No," so why can't he do the same at a dance?

Mrs. D.G.E.
Dear Mrs. D.G.E.:
It's your husband's place to say "No." But if he's chicken, don't let him stew. You make some (gracious) excuse.

Dear Amy:
I am a girl of 15 and I like a boy who is 17. He took me out once and asked me out again, but I said "No" because I was afraid to ask my parents if I could go. It was my first and my only date. Then he asked to come over to my house during the week. This is my problem: I kept telling him that I was doing something else so I guess he got the idea that I didn't like him. I would like to know how to ask my mother if I could ask him over. Please print this letter because I know a lot of other girls who have this same problem.

Gave the Wrong Impression
Dear Wrong Impression:
Never be afraid to ask your parents' permission to invite your friends home (boys or girls). I think it's wrong for parents not to encourage their children to do so. If Mother hasn't given you the okay up till now, ask her!

Dear Amy:
I don't know why my newspaper doesn't print your column every week. I have taken this paper for over 20 years and I like to read your column. What can I do about it?

A Reader of the Christian County Republican
Dear Reader:
Write or telephone your editor. He'll thank you, my publisher thanks you... and I thank you!

Dear Amy:
After reading the letter from

"Being Cheated," I just had to write you. I sent my son to the store with a dollar to buy a half gallon of milk and some candy for his little brothers. He put the milk and the dollar on the counter, and turned around to pick out the candy (opposite the counter). In the meantime a man came in and got a six-pack of beer and paid for it with my son's dollar-off the counter and left. My son told the owner what happened and instead of seeing if the man was near the store, he searched all of my son's pockets and didn't find the dollar so he had to believe him. He wrote me a note about what happened and that he lost more than I did so not to expect any change back. My son came home crying. He was heart-broken, not because the man stole his money, but because the owner of the store wouldn't believe him.

Tell all the children to hold on to their money at the store and don't put it on the counter until they are ready to pay for their purchases!

Proud Mother of 4 Sons
Dear Amy:
I hope you can help me. I had been a widow for three years and have married again. We have been married eight months. My husband is good to me and I love him. I have a son (16) and he lived with us for awhile but has left home.

I love my son very much but I can't get him to come back home because my husband said something to hurt him and I don't believe he wants him. What should I do? I love my son better than I do my man. Please help me work this out.

Undecided
Dear Undecided:
Before a woman remarries, the feelings of her prospective husband for her child should be frankly discussed. If you overlooked this important issue, you had better make your feelings known to your husband before the gap between the three of you grows wider. It can be worked out with their cooperation. "Love me, love my child" is an old expression which has yet to be improved upon.

Nobody Laughs Much Anymore

We have been brooding for some time — 20 minutes, at least — over the decline and fall of American humor. It occurs to us that all American humorists are dead, sick, blind or 85 years old.

Look at the stage. When George S. Kaufman died last week, the eulogizers said sadly (and truthfully, for once) that there is no one to replace him. But if Tennessee Williams goes to his reward, assuming he has one coming, any one of a dozen novice neurotics can step in without an audience noticing a change.

Literary humor is frailer still. Can you name five American humorists sound of body, mind, taste and perception not old enough to be drawing Social Security? Thurber? Yes, but he is sixty-six and blind. Jean Kerr? Yes, bless her, she is the only one to begin practice since the war. (She says she is only 35 but then all women are 35.) S. J. Perelman? Yes. Who else? Benchley died the year price controls were lifted. Ring Lardner died the year Schoolboy Rowe was a rookie. (For the record, Schoolboy Rowe died last year; all good ball players are dead, too, or in Cleveland.) Don Marquis, Frank Sullivan, Will Rogers, Finley Peter Dunne, Dorothy Parker, F.P.A. — how many more? — have never been replaced.

These melancholy musings came on while reading James Thurber's new collection, Lanterns and Lances, a funny, penetrating and occasionally tedious book. Thurber is seriously (but not solemnly) concerned with the frightful things men in our time are doing to each other and also with what they are doing to the English language. He has reasonable hope that both men and language will survive but only if we behave more intelligently than we have. In one of the sketches, a fable, an adviser tells a man not to worry about a giant who is bothering him. "Don't pay any attention to it and it will go away," he says. And the man paid no attention to it, and it went away, taking him with it.

A happier, earlier Thurber is available in paperbacks with the classic, My Life and Hard Times (Bantam, 50 cents).

It looks, in fact, as though we must pick up reissues if we want any first rate humor. Here are a few we have returned to lately:

The Complete Humorous Sketches of Mark Twain, just published, contains over 700 pages by America's greatest humorist.

The Most of S. J. Perelman, a fat volume by a master of parody.

A Subtreasury of American Humor, edited by E. B. White (Pocket, 35 cents), a top-notch anthology.

The Decline and Fall of Practically Everybody, by Will Cuppy (Dell, 35 cents), history made hilarious.

The Beast in Me and Other Animals, by James Thurber (Avon, 35 cents), some of the Master's New Yorker pieces of the forties.

In Lanterns and Lances, Thurber observes, "The trend of the modern temper is toward gloom, resignation, and even surrender... Well, we are still going on, and have four decades left in this battered and bloody century... It is high time that we came of age and realized that, like Emily Dickinson's hope, humor is a feathered thing that perches in the soul. Let's hope the feathered thing is still perched somewhere in the American soul even though its song is faint these days."

Our Guy in the Sky

Stalling Around Is 'Must' for Student

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of articles by The Mail's managing editor who is putting to crucial test the statement that nowadays, almost anyone can learn how to fly.)

By Jim Sponseller

"You wear a parachute, don't you?" my wife inquired as I returned home after my first hour of flying lessons.

"Gosh, no I don't," I replied somewhat astounded. The thought of a parachute never occurred to me before.

"Well, I think you ought to get yourself one," she admonished.

"I really don't think there is room for one in the plane," I argued. And as far as I knew, they had gone out of style along with double-breasted suits. I promised to find out about them anyway.

Alan Finney, my instructor, answered my question the next day. "I'd be afraid to fly one out," Al admitted. It seems that just about the only fliers who wear parachutes nowadays are the military men who move along at hundreds of miles an hour.

Flying, one learns, has changed a lot since most of us were a boy. The guy with a helmet, goggles and oily leather jacket is no longer around. Instead, the spectator at Meigsfield Airport will find businessmen dressed in suits and carrying briefcases stepping into and out of planes, or pilots dressed casually — as if they are going out to barbecue a chicken in the back yard.

Newer planes, such as the Piper Colt in which we are learning, is upholstered like the inside of a car. The seats are side-by-side and not tandem. There's a fancy little steering wheel, not a stick. You sit inside and start the engine by turning the key, instead of turning the prop. Instead of landing on two wheels, there are three on most new planes.

The Colt is one of Bill Piper's newest innovations. Determined to bring out a "compact" plane that will sell for under $5,000, Piper Aircraft, headed by the 30-year-old William Piper, introduced the Colt early this year. It has a 108-horsepower engine and an airspeed of 115 miles an hour or so, burning around a gallon of gas each 3 miles. If you buy one, you get three lessons.

"Today we're going to try some stalls," Al announced as we headed northwest of Plymouth last week. If stalling a plane is anything like stalling a car, I figured I would rather not have a part of it.

But stalling did not prove to be nearly as disastrous as it sounded. In fact, it was quite fun. Slowing the plane down, the wheel is pulled gradually back and the plane noses upward. Slower and slower it goes and the controls become less effective. Finally, the speed is so slow that the nose suddenly falls and the plane dives a little. By applying a full throttle, the plane is back to normal. Why practice stalls? According to those in the know, you're liable to find yourself in a stall some day. Perhaps the plane is going upward at a greater rate than you realize. Knowing what to do in such a case is quite handy. Then, too, landing is a form of stalling — only it's done a few feet above the ground.

"If the engine quit right now, what would you do?" Al suddenly asked me as we crossed over Salem Township farm land at a few thousand feet.

"I guess I'd try to land," I replied.

"Try to pick a place where you would land," he asked.

All I could see were green fields and brown fields. As I tried to make up my mind, the throttle had been closed and we started to glide.

"How about that strip along that fence there?" Al suggested as I still pondered. In decision is apparently not a good trait in this situation. Lower and lower we got, and I found that by estimating a landing point not too distant and by zig-zagging if the spot was too close, we could glide down to a landing without an engine.

I gave the plane full throttle as we approached the simulated landing spot at 100 feet or so. For a moment I thought we were really going to land.

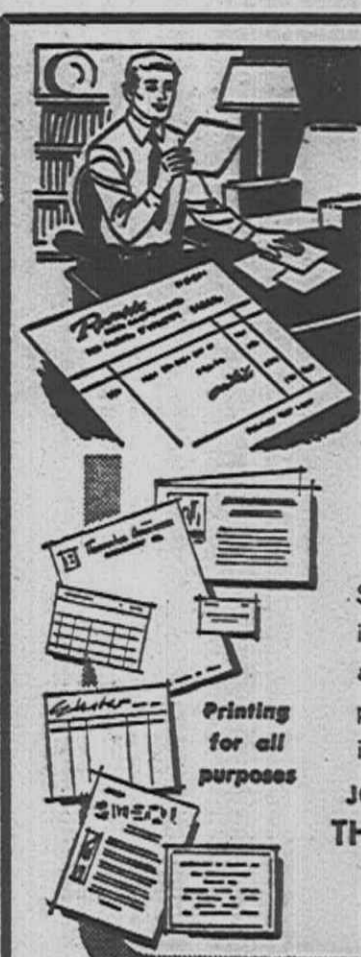

Which brings the thought to mind that one of these days my time will come to make a landing. Last week I handled the rudder control in landing and taking off. One of these days, Al may get overly-generous and decide to let me be whole hog.

"You realize, Al," I told him last week, "that we are in a tight spot. Everywhere I go readers ask me how the flying lessons are coming. Some ask me if my arms are getting tired from flying. You know, if I don't solo," I continued, "I'm going to have to leave town."

"Oh, you'll solo," Al replied with confidence. His expression was so sincere that for a moment I almost believed him.

Consumers Power Rate Increase Now in Effect

Residential gas customers of Consumers Power Co. will pay an average of about two cents more a day for their gas service under new rates now in effect. The new rates apply to usage on and after May 11.

For customers who heat their homes with gas the average increase will amount to about four and a half cents a day, according to Division Manager David H. Gerhard.

Rates for commercial space heating and for commercial and industrial service also are somewhat higher, Gerhard said, the amount of the increase varying with the amount of gas used.

"This is the first change in Consumers gas rates since 1954, when they were reduced," Gerhard said. "Since then there have been sharp increases in the cost of everything that goes into gas service including wages, materials and especially the cost of gas purchased by the Company for delivery to its customers. More than 90 per cent of the gas distributed by Consumers is brought into Michigan from distant locations such as Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma.

"With the revised rates in effect, Consumers gas rates will still compare favorably with those of competing utilities."

The new rates are designed to produce additional annual revenue of $7,925,000 a year as authorized by the Commission May 5.

How's Business?

May Shows Upswing

THIS SHOWS CURRENT BUSINESS COMPARED WITH THE SAME TIME FOR THE PREVIOUS THIRTEEN YEARS

By Roger W. Babson

As indicated in our Composite Business Chart shown here, the rising tempo of business was continued in May. Spearheading the second successive month of increased activity were such key lines as auto and steel production, and coal mining.

STEEL SALES

- SHEET and PLATE Sheared to Size
- Structural Shapes
- Custom Fabricating

Plymouth Tank & Fabricating Co., Inc.
42331 Ann Arbor Road
Plymouth, Mich. GL 3-3420

Output of autos reached the highest level for 1961 thus far, reflecting improved sales and the building up of dealers' supplies as a hedge against a possible labor shutdown this summer. Steel production continued to post gains each week, as demand showed further improvement.

Primarily due to the higher requirements of steel industry, coal production took a new lease on life, and a number of mines were reopened. Other industries turning in improved performances included copper, aluminum, chemicals, and producers' durable equipment. Output of paper and paperboard products was sustained at a high rate. The recovery in new construction expenditures which began in March made additional progress.

As far as consumers are concerned, employment conditions have definitely improved. Moreover, personal incomes — particularly in the form of salaries and wages — are moving upward again. While the post-Easter letdown in spending made for disappointing early spring sales figures, buying interest picked up in the latter part of May.

The rising trend of new orders are indications that business should continue to make further upward progress in the months ahead. Additional support should become evident in the form of inventory replenishment buying, now that supplies have been worked down to minimum levels relative to sales.

The latest survey of consumer buying intentions suggests that retail trade will show more vitality in the months ahead. And the economy, of course, will derive important stimulus from the acceleration of government spending, — especially from the missiles and space programs.

By DAN HALLIGAN

Dear Dan: I'm going to be working out of town for about two months this summer and I've got a problem. I'm going steady now but I don't see much use in it when I'll be away for most of the summer.

My girl still wants to go steady, meaning she won't date while I'm away and I won't date. I don't think that's very reasonable because I'll be working with other boys of 17 and 18 and I know I'll get plenty of chances to go out. Why turn them down? Am I right or is my girl right? — Teddy

Dear Teddy: Being right or wrong isn't as important here as being fair. If you'll be honest with yourself and your girl, you'll admit you don't want to go steady and probably haven't wanted to for a long time. Why do I say that? Well, when a boy writes to me and asks me if he shouldn't be allowed to date for two months while he's away, then I say he wants to play the field.

Dear Dan: My father runs a small grocery store in our neighborhood and last night he announced I was going to be his clerk this summer. He means it too and I don't know if there's any way I can get out of the job. I don't mind working and would like to get a job somewhere but I hate to think of working for my father selling bread and milk to people I know. I don't think this is fair. After all, I'm 17 and you never meet nice young boys in this neighborhood.

What can I do to make my father see my side of this? — Regina

Dear Regina: Your Prince Charming can show up anywhere, anytime. Just because you may want to stand in the middle of Times Square in New York City doesn't mean you'll make an impression on a boy. Some of the nicest guys in the world live right there in your neighborhood but apparently you haven't had your eyes open very much.

You know your father better than I do and if you think he meant what he said, I'd say you'd better leave things as they are. You'll have your good times, so don't give up hope.

Dear Dan: How do you tell a boy you've already seen a picture he wants to take you to without making him feel hurt? I go to the movies about twice a week and several times now I've had to see the movie when I had a date. It isn't very much fun and I'm afraid the boys I've been dating think I'm bored with them. — Movie Bug

Dear Bug: I don't think you'd hurt a boy's feelings if you told him, "I'm sorry but I've already seen the movie at the Bijou if that's where you were planning to take me."

If the guy is real gone over you, he'll come up with a substitute. Don't worry about this and quit going to the movies so often with all the nice weather we're having this summer.

Dear Dan: I'm working in our local library this summer and for the past four evenings a young man of about 20 has come in, checked out books, brought them back the next day and checked some more out. Everytime I look up from my work, I find him staring at me.

I'd love to get him to talk to me but I'm as shy as he seems to be. Can you help me out? — Judie

Dear Judie: At least you know the fellow's name and other particulars from his library card something he doesn't know about you. It sounds as if he likes you and would like to say something besides library conversation and my advice is for you to keep looking up from your work. At least this should encourage the guy and the next move will be up to him. Keep in mind, however, you may be imagining more than what you see so don't rush into anything too soon.

Letters TO THE EDITOR

Attention City Commission Gentlemen:

This has reference to your recent decision to add fluoride to the water supply.

It is my considered opinion that the City Commission does not have the moral right, and perhaps not the legal right to force any individual to take into his system any substance whether it be fluoride or tomato juice. It does not appear that the Commission has considered the fluoride problem, or the individual rights involved, in the depth with the seriousness that it deserves.

I, therefore, urgently request the Commission to reconsider this problem and at least allow each citizen to voice his opinion by vote. This seems to be the only manner in which democracy or government by the people can possibly be demonstrated.

Very truly yours, Robert D. Maurer

EDITOR:

If House Bill 309 is signed by the Governor or an acting Governor, it will set up in the City Commission to police the price of milk and all milk products. Everyone who handles milk will be compelled to pay a license fee and be subject to a Milk Dictator. Those who are on the Milk Commission will draw $20 a day whenever they meet.

The whole scheme is too restrictive to be American. It will add to the cost of any milk product, even cottage cheese, ice cream and sherbet. Cash and carry customers will be compelled to pay as though the milk was delivered to their door, which is now 28 cents per quart. Shades of the day when America was free as to buying and selling.

Our Legislative jackasses at Lansing should be replaced by some who have regard for milk users and their rights. Forty-three Democrats and 37 Republicans should be ashamed to be seen in public. Of all times to concoct a scheme to make milk cost more. More children will have poor teeth and bones from lack of milk. High school boys could have done better in protecting milk buyers. I am asking for a roll call to determine how our Legislative bums voted on 309. Let them try to live down Bill 309 if they ever can.

From where I sit it looks like a grand scheme sponsored by the big dairies to rob all of Michigan milk users.

A hundred housewives went to Lansing to protest.

The Mail Attitude

It required approval in each of six districts for the Community College proposal to pass Monday.

It received whopping big votes of confidence from four of the six districts.

And then there was Redford Township. Both Districts there voted "No," by 2 to 1 margins.

If the total vote for the six districts were to be lumped, the College showed 11,823 "Yes" and 8,010 "No." Omitting the two Redford rebels, the vote would have been a smashing 9,237 "Yes" to 3,706 "No."

What gives with Redford? How can everybody else be out of step except that community?

This reporter has consumed thousands of words over the recent years trying to explain that special place where "no" is almost an automatic reflex on any proposal which goes to vox populi.

In a sentence, I believe the answer is that Redford Township lags behind its neighbor cities in community pride, community purpose. It lies right on the Detroit borders; it uses a Detroit postal address; its people just sort of sleep in Redford and think elsewhere.

For this election, too, there was a heavy helping of anti-propaganda laid down by a tabloid publisher who handled the truth just about as loosely as is possible and still not be stoned in the market place.

Maybe that aided the defeat, in Redford; but newspaper publicity isn't basic. An editor can plant the seeds, but there must be soil or they won't grow. The acres in Redford are steeped with suspicion, doubt, pessimism.

Well, voting is a democratic method and the other Districts now will peel off and start over again—without Redford. This leaves many heavy hearts among the Redford educators who did a mighty job of trying to aid a good cause and now find themselves left out and behind other school districts . . . even Clarenceville, the small, heavily-taxed, proud district to the north which approved the college plan by a stout 3 to 1.

There also are many heavy hearts among Redford parents who face the reality of properly educating their family.

This newspaper is sorry for Redford Township. It's the best way of saying it we can find today.

The next election to occupy our attention will be a partisan primary on July 25 to pick GOP and Demo candidates for the Constitutional Convention.

(Paul Chandler, your editor, is running on the Republican ticket in the State Senatorial District.)

This promises to be an unusual election in that there is considerable effort in many high places to have pure party politics adjourned and effort made to pick convention delegates on bases other than labels.

The following tells about this approach—

Practical intelligence, dedication to principle and objective judgment are the personal qualifications voters should weigh first in selecting delegates to the forthcoming state constitutional convention, the Coordinating Committee for Constitutional Convention declared today.

The committee is made up of the citizens' organizations that spearheaded the successful campaign to call a constitutional convention next Oct. 3.

Since candidates are to be nominated on a partisan basis, the Coordinating Committee announced it has prepared the following yardsticks as a guide to voters in evaluating significant qualifications other than the candidate's expressed party preference:

A. Is the candidate an informed citizen with the practical intelligence to understand the constitution and what it means for the future as well as the present?

B. Is he (or she) dedicated to the principles of sound representative government with liberty and justice for all?

C. Is the candidate open-minded and objective, and willing to decide controversial issues on the basis of fact and the good of the entire state, or is he (or she) committed in advance to a fixed, inflexible position?

D. Is he prepared to do what is necessary to be a full-time, fully-participating delegate?

E. Is the candidate seeking election to consider positive, constructive revision, or merely to oppose change?

F. Is he alert to the major issues so far identified and willing to submit them to study, as follows:

1. The large number of departments in the executive branch which are not accountable to the chief executive.

2. Apportionment of representation in the state legislature, and its relation to the state's population growth.

3. Present constitutional limitations on the powers of both legislative and executive branches.

4. Popular election vs. appointment of judges.

5. Earmarking of state funds and the degree to which it is desirable, or excessive in the light of changing fiscal needs.

6. The large number of state officials now subject to election, and its effect on voter ability to properly assess the candidates.

7. Frequency of elections and its effect on the voter's ability and willingness to vote as often as required.

8. Existing patterns of local government and their application to differing rural and urban needs.

9. The degree of detail and statutory provisions vs. the concept of the constitution as a broad statement of fundamental law.

The Coordinating Committee includes representatives of the following organizations:

American Association of University Women, Citizens For Michigan, Dearborn Chamber of Commerce, Detroit Bar Association, Detroit Education Association, Grand Rapids Bar Association, Kiwanis, Lansing Building Trades Council, Methodist Board of Christian Social Relations, Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers, Michigan Education Association, Michigan Junior Chamber of Commerce, Michigan League of Women Voters, Michigan Municipal League, Michigan State AFL-CIO, Michigan State Association of Plumbers and Pipefitters, Oakland Co. Citizens League, United Auto Workers, United Church Women of Michigan, Wayne-Oakland-Macomb Co. Building Trades Council.

Representatives of the two major political parties on the Coordinating Committee were consulted on the recommended yardsticks but were not asked to endorse them to avoid possibility of conflict with specific party standards for candidates.

sheet, unsigned, stated that a new $6 million junior college will be built west of the Plymouth area, and ready for use in September 1953. It said that it would be available for Plymouth area students.

The "junior college" mentioned will be for pre-seminary and pre-teacher training for the Missouri Synod of the Lutheran Church, according to the Rev. Norman Berg, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Plymouth. Enrollment will not be open to the general public. The college will be located just east of Ann Arbor, near the new U.S. 23.

Safety Swim Rules From A Local Expert

So you want your child to learn to swim? Fine, but don't push him. Let him decide when he's ready to start.

That is the advice of Mike Heick, swimming director at the Western Golf and Country Club and for two decades a water safety instructor and coach. Heick taught thousands of youngsters to swim in 15 years as a fulltime instructor for the Detroit Department of Parks and Recreation.

"Parents make a serious mistake when they try to pressure a child into learning to swim too soon," says Heick. "The youngster may develop a deep fear of the water that is very difficult to overcome. I never try to teach a child to swim unless I'm convinced that he's ready to go."

"If a child wants to learn, you can teach him to swim in half an hour. By that I mean that in 30 minutes you can teach the lad how to support himself in water over his head."

What is the best age for teaching a child to swim? "That depends on the individual," answers Heick. "Some children can learn when they are four or five years old. Others may not be ready to begin until they are nine or ten."

Curtain Going Up

By WALLY ROBERTS

Reserve your seats in July preferably that first week. Why? The world-famous WATER FOLLIES of 1961 will be held at the Aquatic Center Area of Co-Lo Hall. The Water Follies show combines all the fun and excitement of a stage show with the aquatic thrills of a top-flight water show. Ten scenes take place in huge portable pools that hold over 50,000 gallons of water. Think how spectacular the Follies could be if they signed a contract with the California Wine folks to do a joint advertising stunt and let the show in its Detroit stand use wine instead of water! Even Cecil De Mille couldn't top this effort.

Using only the plain, bacteria-filled water, the WATER FOLLIES OF 1961 is a novel and exciting show. Stan Mitchell, world's greatest acrobatic diver, and Roger Nadeau, one of the nation's finest water comedians, will be with the big production for its three day stay. There will be two shows a day. You can pick up your tickets now at the downtown Convention Arena box office or if you're out Northland way... pick them up at Hudson's. The whole family should really enjoy this attraction.

Northland playhouse continues this week with Miss Ginger Rogers in a play that clearly is a mistake for Miss Rogers. Last season she ran into similar trouble with "The Pink Jungle." Agnes Moorehead stole the show from her and eventually this production folded before it hit the big time. Her current attraction, "Bell, Book and Candle" sputters, fails to ring any bells, and should have remained a closed volume. In short, let's hope we see Miss Rogers in the future doing some dancing in a fast-paced musical comedy. This milieu is more to her professional capabilities.

At the Vanguard theater, the opposite is true. Dr. William Gregory has done another excellent job with a group of faithful actors and turned out a lively, fast-moving musical comedy. The air-conditioned Vanguard thrives with a thousand laughs as a talented group of thespians enact the hilarious antics of "Leave It To Jane." You have the rest of this month to view this pleasure-filled production. Call WO 3-3863 for tickets. You'll enjoy the wild, wonderful carryings-on.

A TINY wheelchair given with a huge amount of heart was the gift of the Plymouth Soroptimist Club to the Easter Seal Society. (L-r) receiving the gift is Jane Devereaux, executive secretary of the Society, and Miss Neva Lovewell on the Board for the Society. Mrs. Vaughn Smith made the presentation from the club. In honor of the occasion Miss Lovewell was hostess to the two ladies at a luncheon at the Round Table Club.

"Y" Membership Drive Success in Livonia

Membership drive workers in Livonia were jubilant last week to learn that 228 Livonia women had joined the Dearborn Area YWCA, going over the top in the Spring Membership Campaign. Total membership in Livonia now stands at 304.

Credit for the success of the drive goes to Mrs. Richard Coates, the divisional chairman and their workers. Division chairmen were Mrs. Michael Tomkow, working with Mrs. Dennis Burrows, Mrs. Herbert Baker, Mrs. Gordon Tyson, Mrs. Keith Foster and Mrs. Douglas Hewitt. Working with captains, Mrs. Kenneth Earl and Mrs. James Chamberlain, were Mrs. John Moore, Mrs. Donald Wilcox, Mrs. H. T. Rozk, Mrs. James Kern, and Mrs. Harold Megridge.

Other workers were Mrs. Walter Gregory, Mrs. Charles Campbell, Mrs. William Maier, and Mrs. James Dingman.

The year's activities will be climaxed with an all-membership Spring Brunch to be held at the home of Mrs. Richard Coates, 15854 Stamford, at 10:30 a.m. on June 15. The morning's program will include a review of the activities of the past year and a preview of next year's plans.

Arrangements for the brunch are being made by members of the Membership Volunteer Personnel Committee which includes Mrs. Don Friedrichs, Mrs. John Stevenson, Mrs. Sidney Ba gnall, Mrs. J. Schreier, Mrs. O. S. Herbert Baker, Mrs. O. S. Pommerening, Mrs. William Maier and Mrs. Arthur Jenkins. The program is under the direction of Mrs. William Lindhout.

Free baby sitting service is being provided for all members who wish to attend the brunch. The banquet room at Merri-Bowl Lanes, Five Mile Rd. near Merriman, will be used as the nursery, and mothers may leave their children there anytime after 10 a.m. The nursery will close at noon.

"Showcase" In The Water

A "Showcase" swim show at Northern Branch YWCA, 13130 Woodward Ave., will present the YW's synchronized swimmers in a series of unusual water ballet routines. Depicting store window displays as well as a scene from a Broadway play; the swim show, scheduled for 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, June 9 and 10, and for 3 p.m. on Sunday, June 11, is open to the public.

A scene from the musical-comedy, "Camelot," will present swimmers wearing medieval attire and representing Queen Guinevere, her six ladies-in-waiting, and four pages.

A mother-daughter routine will show 1961 fashions, and a store window displaying perfume provides the idea for a solo number.

A pet shop — with the swimmers frolicking at puppies; the gowns for a bride and her wedding party; travel costumes, and artist's waltz, and, finally, an automobile show window provide the inspiration for the remainder of the water ballet program.

Coolley Alumni To Sponsor Two Events

Cardinals, Inc., Coolley High School Alumni Association, are having their Annual Summer Dance at Carpenters' Hall, 12833 Parian, on Saturday, June 17. All Coolley graduates and their friends are invited. Proceeds go toward a scholarship for a Coolley graduate of the Class of 1961. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

On Saturday, June 24, there will be a Golf Outing at Highland Country Club with trophies, prizes, and refreshments. This is a stag day so come and bring your friends and neighbors.

through 21, the "Teen" division for girls aged 14 through 17, and the "Tween" division for those aged 10 through 13. As the judging proceeds, 108 lucky entrants will receive the newest models of Singer Sewing Machines. Their winning garments will be sent to New York for the next round of judging. Then a fortunate 15 girls will be invited to come to New York with their mothers or a family-approved companion for an exciting, all-expense stay at one of New York's top hotels. After a whirl-

The grand prize winner in each age group will be announced at this fashion show. In the "Tween Division" $400 will be awarded all five winners. The top winner will also enjoy a one-week vacation tour of historical points in the United States for herself and parents.

In the Teen Division, all five winners will receive $600. In addition, the top winner will receive the one-week vacation tour of historical points, for herself and her parents. In the Misses and Mrs. Division, four winners will receive $800. The top winner will receive $1,000, plus a trip that is the dream of every young girl — a summer jet trip to Paris for herself and one companion, for a tour of the top fashion houses and a preview of the fall fashion showings.

Judging on the various levels will take place through September. Entry blanks and complete rules may be obtained through any local Singer Sewing Center.

The Entry Receipt for the Young Stylemaker Contest and its eight lesson sewing course is $10.

Handicapped Students Reminded of Career Days

Mrs. Jane Devereaux, Executive Secretary of the Easter Seal Society of Western Wayne County, reminds physically handicapped high school students that registration for Career Days, to be held at the Easter Seal Center during the last two weeks in June should be completed promptly.

"We shall try to bring in speakers, films and demonstrations which will be of greatest interest to those in the group," she said. "While certain topics, such as the general demands of a job, the need for preparation and training will be a part of the program, the business men to serve as discussion leaders, and the kinds of job tryouts selected depend on our knowledge in advance something."

about the aims of the students.

Plans thus far include presentations covering general occupational fields in which physical limitation in and of itself is no bar to employment. Bench assembly, clerical operations, trade training, and small business operations are among the job opportunities to be discussed. Where practical, job samples will be available so that the participants may work with actual material, and test themselves against certain established standards of quality and quantity.

Additional information may be secured by writing to the Easter Seal Society, P.O. Box 101, Inkster, calling the Easter Seal Center, Parkway 2-3055 weekdays between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., or by contacting Mr. Greiner at the Horace Mann School, KENwood 5-4000.

Caddies Wanted At Western

Help Wanted. Boys, 14-18 years of age. Pleasant, interesting part-time work. Make up to $60 a week. No experience necessary. Apply any time.

Such is the ad that almost any golf club in this area might use. For all golf clubs are always looking for good prospective caddies. Here is a deal summertime employment, and boys can have it for the asking.

"We have enough boys apply for jobs as caddies, but not all of them work out," says James Seiler, caddy superintendent at the Western Golf and Country Club, at Five Mile Rd. and Kinloch. "We are always looking for new caddies. No club ever has too many first-rate boys."

In common with many other caddy bosses, Seiler prefers youths with no previous knowledge of golf or caddying.

"The blunker they are when they walk in, the better I like it," he observes. "Then I can teach them my way. They haven't acquired any faulty habits that must be corrected. If a boy really wants to learn, he can catch on fast enough."

Prospective caddies should be neat, polite and attentive. At Western, where about 150 caddies are employed through the summer, beginning caddies are paid $2 a round. Experienced caddies get $2.25 and caddy captains — a rating which must be earned on merit — receive $2.50. Tips are additional.

When caddies aren't out on the course at Western, they can enjoy such diversions as baseball, basketball or horse-shoe pitching. If they are inclined, they can toss a football around. They can play golf for free every Monday, and pick up valuable pointers from the pros, also for free. On slow days, they can often go out late in the afternoon to shoot nine holes.

Boys who have caddied for two years, a minimum of 100 rounds each year, are eligible for consideration for the Evans scholarships, which pay tuition, room and board for deserving young men. Ten former Western caddies, as an example, are now attending college on these scholarships.

Mary, Queen of Scots, was proclaimed queen before she was one week old.

Lady Drivers Needed Now

The Livonia Branch of the Michigan Cancer Foundation is urgently in need of volunteer drivers to transport patients to Detroit hospitals for therapy treatments. The assignment involves picking up the patient at his home, driving him to the hospital, a waiting his treatment and returning him to his home. These patients are ambulatory, and capable of instructing the driver where he needs to go. No driver will be expected to drive oftener than one day a week and for only a few weeks.

However, if you can make only one trip, it will be appreciated. Please call Mrs. Dorothy Thompson, service chairman, GA 1-2684. The experience is very rewarding—you will be helping to save a life.

Local Deltas Dine

Local Alpha Xi Deltas will gather for a dinner meeting of the Dearborn Alumnae Chapter at the home of Mrs. Harvey Deiter, 18850 Westmore, Livonia on Tuesday, June 13. College active and alumni members of the area are invited to the annual potluck dinner which will begin at 6:30 p.m. Reservations can be made by calling Mrs. Donald Boyd, GA 1-4676.

By George Spelvin

Summer theater slowly stretches its silky, gossamer wings. The season has only started and already huge crowds are coming back from the Northland Playhouse or the Vanguard Theater singing the praises of either "Bell, Book and Candle" or "Leave It To Jane."

Plan right now to meet Menasha Skulnick out at Northland during the week of June 20 through the 25th. Mr. Skulnick is truly the "Dean" of all comics. His style never fails to please. He can take a simple phrase, such as "Shut the door" and send an audience into hysterics.

Someone finally persuaded Mr. Skulnick to appear in an English version of one of his Yiddish productions. The vast American audiences have been appreciating the deft, subtle humor of Mr. Skulnick ever since. What's more he can bring a tear to your eyes as quickly as the corners of your mouth turn up at his ridiculous capers.

Menasha Skulnick will be appearing out at Northland in a play that he did last season on Broadway, "The 49th Cousin." The critics all agreed that the play was quite weak as plays go, but then with Menasha on stage—they also concurred that what more does anyone need. Vanguard's "Leave It To Jane" hits a new high in lively musical comedies. The Jerome Kern melodies are lovely. The ancient overworked plot creaks a bit, but the Vanguard folks just pour a little more thespic coal on the fire and before you know it the show is steaming along in fine fashion. Dr. William Gregory, once again, turns in a beautiful job of directing. His skill in working with the Vanguard company to turn out better than average production continues to amaze me. The Vanguard is air-conditioned to take the whole family down to 58 E. Columbia for a cool evening's entertainment.

Hope some of you did get over to the Campus Theater to see the three films from India: "Father Panachali," "Aparajito," and "The World of Apux." I saw all three during the nine-day engagement of the trilogy. India can afford to be proud of these three films. They are classic. The trilogy traces the heartaches, pleasures and human events of a family in India. Simple theme, but powerfully executed. I can't remember when I've been so impressed by a series of motion pictures. You live with this family. Their concern is your concern. Every high school student should see these three films for a better understanding of India. You can't really believe how devoid or free from materialism family life is in India. Simplicity and a warm religious feeling characterize this terrific trilogy.

This week in Ann Arbor the Campus is showing "Behind the Great Wall," a feature-length documentary on China. All reports from New York City where this film played a few months ago indicate this film gives you a better understanding of what goes on behind the bamboo curtain in China. Chet Huntley handles the narration in this all-color travelogue that reveals some of the cultural and economic changes that have been taking place in Red China.

You'll have a final chance to see Ingemar Bergman's Academy Award winning film, "The Virgin Spring," starting June 26 at the Campus Theater. If you missed it earlier, here's your chance to view a cinematic triumph by this provocative Swedish writer-director.

When you're out shopping at Northland or seeing one of the plays during the next few weeks, consider the purchase of tickets for the world-famous WATER FOLLIES OF 1961. Ticket sales are brisk and promise to be difficult to obtain if you wait too long. The Water Follies, the world's largest water and stage show, is an appropriate attraction to open the gigantic Civic Center Arena of Cobo Hall.

Reserve the dates of July 2, 3, and 4 for this novel and exciting show. Ten water scenes and seven lavish stage numbers make up the show. It's a sensational setup with the whole production's spectacular scenes swirling across stages over 150 feet long and in portable swimming pools holding some 50,000 gallons of aqua pura. Here's a family attraction that could well replace the circus as an annual affair.

The Drama Season in Ann Arbor draws to a close. Final play of the five-week stint, "Pleasure of His Company," provides another happy evening. Last week's offering, while being on the "sick side" of the humor ledger still proved that a light, frothy excursion in the theater is still an audience-pleaser. The Ann Arbor audiences chortled with glee as Larry Parks and Betty Garrett tossed their carefree lines blithely out into the auditorium. In fact, Larry Parks surprised old George. His acting has mellowed over the years and I'll have to admit he proved himself adequate in this play.

Steve Elliott remains the No. 1 stock player of the Ann Arbor Drama Season. Every week he turns up with a different role. Language professor, Irish buddy, New York neighbor, or Texas oilman—you choose the part and Steve will give you a characterization that sticks with you long after the star's featured role has been forgotten. Let's hope that the 1962 Drama Season finds a starring role for Steve Elliott.

With the advent of the Stratford Players in Canada and their rehearsals and open their magnificent theater for the ninth season. Paul Scofield comes to us from London to do "Coriolanus" and "Henry VIII." Douglas Campbell will be featured in "Love's Labour's Lost." More about the Festival in the weeks to follow.

One word of caution: ticket sales are going better than last year at this time. Several folks in town waited until two or three weeks before they went to try and get tickets. You can't do this. You must order your tickets at least five or six weeks ahead of the time that you plan to go to Stratford, Ontario. Be wise and order your tickets now. Drop a postal card in the mail to the Festival Box Office, Stratford, Ontario, for all the details.

Small Game Take in Michigan, In '60 Found Better than Usual

Michigan's small game hunters generally fared better during their 1960 seasons than the year before, estimates from the Conservation Department's recently completed post card survey show.

Only goose and snowshoe hare hunters came out short of their 1959 take. Goose kill tapered off from 24,460 in 1959 to 21,240 while the snowshoe hare figure tumbled to 295,390, nearly 65,000 below the previous season. In both cases, upper peninsula kill dropped to outbalance hunter gains in the lower peninsula.

Cottontail rabbit hunters scored the biggest comeback as their shooting success jumped from 999,000 in 1959 to 1,191,480. Nimrods in the southern lower peninsula packed the way, bagging 1,001,570 cottontails.

Upland bird hunters enjoyed an increase in their take-home bag. Pheasant take remained below the one million mark for the second straight season, but rose to 974,490, some 60,000 above the preceding fall.

Although upper peninsula take fell by about 69,000 birds, the statewide ruffed grouse kill moved up to 380,800, highest on record since the Department introduced its post card poll in 1954. Hunters in the northern lower peninsula harvested 194,330 of these birds while those in the southern lower peninsula took 54,870.

Even with the dip in goose kill, the waterfowl season bore better results than the year before. Duck hunters returned home with an estimated 382,260 birds as compared with 328,950 in 1959. Woodcock hunting lived up to its advanced billing as 83,890 "timber doodles" were downed. This is another high on the Department's post card records. Some 24,600 coots were taken, about 2,000 more than the year before.

Watch That Sun, Dr. Molner Warns

Sunshine in moderate amounts is good for most people, but sunburn is not a laughing matter and is as harmful as any other burn, Dr. Joseph G. Molner, City-County Health Commissioner, advises. Prevent sunburn as you would any other accident — by being cautious.

Individuals vary greatly in the amount of exposure to the sun their skin will tolerate without being burned by its ultraviolet rays. The length of time of exposure, as well as the intensity of the sunshine, is responsible for the sunburn.

If your baby is fair, with thin, light skin, be especially careful. His skin will burn more easily. All babies benefit from the sunshine, but some do not tan. Too much sunlight can be harmful, even after a baby's skin is tanned. Overexposure should be avoided by older persons and those who are ill. The following points should be kept in mind if you want to enjoy the sun without harmful burn:

1. The sun's rays between the hours of 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. produce the most severe sunburn.
2. Watch out for skyshine, too. Ultraviolet rays can cut through clouds and fog and cause sunburn even when the sun is behind clouds.
3. When the sun's rays are reflected by water, sand or snow, the risk of burning increases.
4. It is recommended that protective preparations be used by all until the skin is tanned. Forget about baby oil, mixtures of mineral oil and vinegar and other homemade concoctions. The product must contain a known sun screening agent. Look at the label — paraaminobenzoic acid and its esters, the salicylates and a digalloyl trioleate compound are among the best. Apply the lotion at least every two hours, after each swim and whenever the protecting film may have been rubbed off. Give sensitive areas a double dose.
5. Protect your eyes. Unlike your skin, they cannot build up immunity and are always vulnerable to injury. When lying down, cover them with cotton pads; at other times, wear dark glasses. This is particularly important for motorists.
6. The symptoms of burning begin from six to 12 hours after overexposure. If your skin feels hot to the touch, it should be treated as a burn. If the burn is severe with blistering, chills and fever, consult a doctor at once.

Local Troops At Scout Camp-O-Ree

Troops 743 and 1531 led by Scoutmasters Howard Smith and William Congdon were judged to be among the top troops at the Sunset District Camp-O-Ree held June 2 to 4 at Lower Huron Metro Park. Fifty-four troops took part in the three-day event making this the largest camp ever held by the Sunset District.

The two troops also put on a drowning child demonstration for Dr. Lawrence E. Filken who was in charge of the First Aid Station at the Camp-O-Ree.

Proficiency Awards were won by the Sioux Patrol of Troop 743 and the Flying Eagle Patrol of Troop 862. District Commissioner, Robert E. Marshall said, "Scoutmasters Howard Smith, Cecil Ronk, and William Congdon deserve a lot of credit. Competition was tough. There were almost 900 scouts registered at this Camp-O-Ree. It was the largest district camp we ever had."

One of the main events at the Camp-O-Ree was attempting to catch a greased pig. This event was won by Bruce Middleton, Troop 202, Livonia. Ken Lescoe of Troop 270, Livonia, and Jerry Lind of Troop 743, Plymouth, were tied for second place.

The campers also participated in a Lost Parachutist Hunt and a Scavenger Hunt. Saturday afternoon, Saturday night's features were a tug-of-war and a giant campfire. After the Protestant and Catholic church services in the morning, the boys watched an exhibition of fencing by the Ford Fencing Team.

As explained by Ralph Mullen, chairman of the District Activities Committee, whose committee was responsible for planning and carrying out the Camp-O-Ree. "We have activities like this to give boys an outdoor experience and develop their self-reliance. Although we have featured events for fun and interest we emphasize good camping and teamwork. We try to make it a memorable experience for the boys."

"This has been a particularly fine camping experience. More scouts attended than at any previous Camp-O-Ree. I want to commend Howard Lindsey of Wayne who cooked for the adult staff, Dr. Laurence E. Filken of Northville, who supervised the first aid tent, and all the other adult volunteers whose work made this possible."

Shell experts test for knock by accelerating up steep grade. In another test, that "fifth wheel" in the back is lowered onto the road to measure mileage precisely.

TOP PERFORMANCE!

Shell test crew reveals five ways to test your car for top performance—and how the 9 ingredients in today's Super Shell can help you get it

Test #1. Quick starting
Count the seconds it takes to start your car. The engine should "snap to" in about two to three seconds. A slow start drains your battery. And it may flood your cylinders, causing performance troubles.
If your engine is balky, try Super Shell. It's blended with a frisky ingredient called Butane—

Test #2. Smooth running
Pay close attention to your engine in traffic.
Does it vibrate roughly when you stop for a traffic light? Does it seem to "surge" as you pull away, then falter and fade?
The problem may be the wrong blend of gasoline.
In summer, for example, excessive heat can make winter grade gasoline bubble in the fuel line. Bubbles can interfere with the flow, causing rough running.
Shell scientists don't let that happen with Super Shell. When hot weather threatens, they adjust Super Shell's 9-ingredient formula to give it the correct volatility for smooth summer driving.
Test #3. Reserve power
On a turnpike, in light traffic, accelerate suddenly from about thirty miles an hour to the legal limit. Now ask yourself:

1. Did your car accelerate smoothly—with no faltering, no bogging down?
2. Do you have plenty of power to spare?
If you feel you've "run out of engine," it's time to do something about it.
Super Shell may be your answer. It contains TCP, to help restore power lost to combustion chamber deposits.
And another Super Shell in-gradient, called Platformate, contains components that release 11 per cent more energy than even the finest of 100-octane aviation gasolines.

Test #4. Knock
Accelerate up a long, steep hill and listen carefully. If you hear a sound like marbles falling into an empty oil drum, you've got knock. It could cause engine trouble.
Take no chances. Switch to Super Shell. Its formula includes no less than three ingredients to fight the various causes of knock.

Super Shell's 9 ingredients for top performance
Super Shell now contains 2 octane boosters, 1 mileage booster, 1 quick-start component, 1 fast warm-up ingredient, 1 anti-knock mix, 1 gum preventive, 1 anti-stall ingredient, and new, improved TCP. These nine ingredients all work together to give your car top performance.

keeping a record of the exact amount you buy.
3. Finally, fill your tank to the brim again. Add up all the gallons you've bought (not counting the initial fill-up in step 1). Divide this amount into your total miles driven. This gives you your miles per gallon.
Try this test with three tanks of Super Shell. You'll see what top performance really is.

Test #5. Miles per gallon
Don't trust your fuel gauge when you measure miles per gallon. Take these three simple steps and be sure.
1. Start your test by filling your tank. Make sure the gas line comes up to the brim. Write down your mileage reading.
2. Drive in your normal manner for at least three tankfuls—

Have you a "Have you ever heard of" item? A Township resident reports plowing up a pheasant nest and among the eggs finding a blue egg, same size and markings as the regular pheasant egg. The question is, do we have an unusual egg on our hands, or did some other bird get confused and land in the wrong nest?

A sweet sixteen (or do you call it sweet for a boy?) birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs.

Lawrence Longwish, for Gary Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Clark of Cherry Hill. The surprise party was given for Gary by his friends. Gary was described as a very surprised young man. The 18 guests enjoyed refreshments, dancing, birthday cake, and a bit of elaboration here. The birthday cake was decorated to denote Gary's hobby, go-cart racing. The oblong cake was decorated with go-carts, the cake served as a race track. Games were played and the guests had a bit of fun, at Gary's expense, which he took very good naturedly. Each guest named something spontaneously that Gary was to do. All in all the guests had a wonderful time and Gary received many nice gifts. May we add many happy returns. The date of the party, by the way, was Saturday, June 3.

The Township firemen were the guests of the Township Board at a recent joint meeting of civil defense and firemen. The men were invited to view and become acquainted with the operation and mobility of the defense equipment purchased by the Township. The meeting was held at the Water Department Building, where the value of the generator owned by the Township in case of an emergency was pointed out to the men.

The informative meeting was of great interest to the men and proved that our Township is prepared for emergency measures.

A warm welcome is extended to Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson, of Canton Township. The Johnsons had left the Township to make their home in Wyandotte, Mich., but they are moving back to their home on Beck Rd. with their family, son, Jim, daughter, Mary Alice and infant daughter, Beth Ann. The family expressed pleasure at returning to the Township.

The Faith Circle of the Cherry Hill Methodist Church held their election of officers at the regular meeting. Mrs. Florence Bordine was elected president, Mrs. Midge McClure, vice-president; secretary, Nancy West; treasurer, Iris Gill; spiritual life leader, Mrs. Velma Conklin; secretary of promotion, Marcia Rice; missions chairman, Lillian Hauk; flower fund, Mrs. Sarah Gill. The group sponsored a Tupper Plastic Ware Party on Thursday, June 8. The ladies enjoyed the demonstration and the 30 guests present were served refreshments.

The Sprengel family enjoyed a visit with former neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Clay

BUCKET SEATS ALONE DO NOT A MONZA MAKE

■ Gee! ■ Little did we know, when we introduced the Corvair Monza last year, that we were starting a Big Thing. We just thought it would be pleasant if you could buy a car that treats you, the driver, like you want to be treated. ■ The bucket seats, of course, are the most obvious evidence of our desire to please you. But they're not the most important thing. No sir. What's really vital is the way a Monza handles—something nobody in the U.S. has yet copied. Or can copy. Because Corvair is the only rear-engine car made in this country, and you know what that means: steering light as thistle-down. (You even park this one more easily, it steers so brisly.) Beautifully balanced braking—the car stays level even under panic braking, which we hope you'll never have to do. Traction and more traction, so you don't become a stick-in-the-mud. The kind of cornering that's sheer joy to experience. ■ You get more: a fully independent suspension that blots out road shocks before they can ruffle you. Clean, crisp styling. Thoroughgoing economy, from purchase price to operating cost. ■ You're not going to be satisfied with bucket seats alone, are you?

Psychiatrists End Training

A combined graduation and farewell party will be held on June 17 to honor six psychiatric residents at Northville State Hospital who are completing the three years of specialized training in psychiatry required by the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology. Some of them are becoming hospital staff psychiatrists while others are entering private practice.

For approval by the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology for this training, an institution must meet rigid standards which include adequate facilities, qualified teaching personnel, and adequate clinical materials. At the present time nine certified psychiatrists serve on the Northville Hospital staff. In addition, instruction to the residents is provided by visiting lecturers, many of whom are faculty members of Wayne State University and the University of Michigan Medical Schools.

The six doctors completing their training are: Sanford Bloomberg, M.D., Clemens H. Fitzgerald, M.D., Lawrence E. Jackson, M.D., Roman Migodinski, M.D., Barbara A. Hardt, M.D., and Eleanor M. Woloy, M.D.

Riverside Park Church of God Observes Silver Anniversary

The Riverside Park Church of God, Plymouth and Newburgh Roads, will celebrate its Silver Jubilee Anniversary this week, Wednesday through Sunday, June 14-18, with special services each evening at 7:30.

Former pastors will be returning to take part in the services and preach. The Royalaires Quartet will be featured in a special Gospel Concert on Saturday night, 7:30 p.m. A basket dinner is planned for Sunday noon on the church lawn.

The congregation had its beginning in Plymouth 25 years ago when a small group of interested people met for a Prayer Meeting in the living room of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Funk's home on Oct. 25, 1935. Mrs. Funk is still residing in Plymouth.

This property was given to the church by Mrs. Fern Myers who is now living in Plymouth. Additional property was purchased in 1953.

In 1958 the congregation dedicated a new sanctuary which was added to the old unit. Last year the church purchased a tri-level parsonage in Greenwich Village.

Former pastors have been: Rev. Elmer Harris, Rev. Clifford Funk, Rev. Arno Thompson, Rev. Lynn Wright, Rev. Richard Struthers, Rev. P. M. McPheron, Rev. Hal Hooker, and Rev. E. B. Jones.

The church is presently being pastored by Rev. Rolla O. Swisher who assumed his duties in 1959.

Dr. Molner Offers Tips On Swim, Wading Pools

Swimming and wading pools should have special attention to make them safe for use by children or adults, Dr. Joseph G. Molner, City Health Commissioner, states. Certain important precautions are needed to keep them from becoming accident hazards or to prevent them from becoming a means for spreading infection.

Sanitary regulations, in effect for many years, make it mandatory for public swimming pools in Detroit to have the water treated by controlled filtration and also to have it chlorinated or otherwise properly disinfected. The water in these public pools is kept in satisfactory condition by being recirculated, filtered and chlorinated continuously while in use. Personal cleanliness is required of the users of public pools. Sanitation and operation are checked frequently by the Department of Health.

Dr. Molner says proper care of private swimming pools require measures quite like those practiced at public pools which are carefully engineered, operated and supervised to keep health and accident hazards at a minimum. Family swimming pools should be equipped with a filter and a pump which should have enough capacity to recirculate the water every 12 hours. In addition water should be disinfected with chlorine or some other suitable chemical. A fenced-in area or yard is a must for safety around every swimming pool.

Usually it is impractical to provide similar equipment for a wading pool. The best compromise which will reduce the chance of infection is to change the water often enough to keep it clean in appearance and to add chlorine or other disinfectant before and during use.

In hot weather a shower spray from a hose helps to keep children cool and this water is always fresh.

The following hints on the care of the small pools should be followed in order to reduce the chance of accidents or the spread of infection.

1. Keep in mind that the person maintaining the pool has a legal liability as well as moral responsibility for its condition and safety.
2. Do not permit too many people in the pool.
3. The use of the pool should be restricted, if possible, to members of one family. If playmates are allowed to share it, make certain that they are in good health.
4. Any pool over two feet deep is a potential drowning hazard and should be maintained only in a completely fenced area.
5. Make sure that water in the pool is clean. Dirt in the water prevents disinfectants from reaching the bacteria to destroy them.
6. Metal and glass objects, soap, foodstuffs, pets, leaves or grass trimmings tend to cause accident hazards or to use up the disinfectant and should be kept out of the pool.
7. Rinsing the feet before entering the pool is a valuable precaution.
8. Avoid submerging the end of the hose in the pool water. Unless hose has approved vacuum breaker, it may contaminate the city water in your house.

Prospective pool owners may receive additional information by calling the Detroit or Wayne County Department of Health.

Take Care In Use of Air Mail Envelopes

"Air mail envelopes should never be used unless the sender desires air mail service. While the use of air mail envelopes for first-class surface mail is fortunately not widespread, usage is frequent enough to merit special attention." So says Postmaster George Timpona.

The colorful red and blue bordered envelopes are restricted to mail intended for transportation by air. If this restriction is not observed, there is potential trouble and embarrassment for everyone concerned. Air mail envelopes which do not bear sufficient postage (7 cents per ounce up to 8 ounces) are handled as air mail and postage due is collected from the addressee. In the process, the post offices involved are compelled to give the item in question special and expensive attention. The person to whom the envelope is delivered is certainly not pleased when he is requested to pay for special service that neither he nor the sender had in mind.

The position of the Postal Service can better be understood when it is pointed out that air mail envelopes were purposely created with their distinctive markings to identify air mail immediately and to make certain that it receives priority handling on the way from deposit to destination. It would therefore be illogical to permit use of such envelopes for ordinary purposes, as post office personnel would then never be sure about what the mailer had in mind.

When time is a significant factor, air mail should be used. But the mail should always be properly identified. Then the Postal Service will know at a glance what the mailer wants and the recipient will not be asked to pay the cost of the transaction.

The first actual construction under provisions of the new Federal Aid Highway Act of 1956 began in St. Charles County, Mo., on the Mark Twain Expressway.

The first legitimate mail order school was organized by the Chautauqua Institution in 1878.
