Plymouth Rings In New Year

Plymouth residents will greet the new year of 1962 this Sunday night in a wide variety of ways — at church services, at private and public parties or during a quiet evening at home.

Because New Year's Eve falls on Sunday this year, there will be some curtailment of both church services and of public parties, it was found.

Some churches which normally have Watchnight services have curtailed them this year because they are having church services that morning. And some clubs which have been open on other New Year's Eves will not open because of the curfew on Sunday serving.

According to the State Liquor Control Commission, only beer and wine can be served until midnight. After that, liquor can be served. Closing time will remain at 4 a.m. Locally, two popular places, Lofy's Arbor Lill and the Thunderbird, will be open, but Hillside Inn will not. Most groups holding club licenses will also be open.

GIVING TO OTHERS, rather than exchanging gifts in their classes this year were members of several Bird School classes. Representatives of the classes were greeted by George Ebling, administrative assistant of the Plymouth State Home and Training

Each year at this time, The Plymouth Mail sits down with four representatives of community leadership and attempts to find out what they feel will be ahead during the approaching year. Interviewed this week were Superintendent of Schools Russell Isbister, Township Supervisor Roy Lindsay, Mayor Robert Sincok and Chamber of Commerce President George Lawton. These, then, are their predictions for 1962.

Schools Face Millage Election...

A millage election in April will be one of the vital programs in the Plymouth Community School District during 1962, Superintendent of Schools Russell Isbister pointed out this week as he looked into the approaching year.

Opening of the new Junior High School, a School Board election in June and an emphasis on quality in education will also be among the highlights of the year.

The Board of Education hasn't made it official yet, but it is expected that sometime in April there will be a special election at which voters will be asked to renew 3.5 mills of operating levy that expires this year, and perhaps additional millage. The 3.5 mills was voted in 1957 and has run for five years. But during 1962, the School District will open another Junior High and will face the problems of rising costs — including a probable hike in teachers' salaries. This would undoubtedly mean millage over and above the 3.5 that is expiring.

In June is the regular school election. At that time, the terms of School Board members Robert Soth and Wesley Kaiser will expire.

"There will be a continued emphasis on quality in education," Supt. Isbister asserted. "This will include further attention to curriculum development and improvement, with planning between the elementary, junior high, senior high and college levels of instruction."

"We will also make a constant evaluation of new materials, content and methods in classrooms, plus a deeper look at television as an educational tool for learning."

With enrollment expected to reach a new high of 5,150 next fall, the district will open the Plymouth Junior High — West, on Sheldon Rd. This first phase

City Aims at Ambitious Goals...

An ambitious program is ahead for the City during 1962, according to Mayor Robert Sincok — one that will result in some marked changes and improvements.

The Mayor foresees start of the Urban Renewal program along Mill St. starting in February. This project, in the planning stages for the past two years, would make industrial sites available on ground now used by homes now in run-down condition.

A new water program is also expected to materialize during 1962. Application has already been made to the federal government for erecting a million gallon reservoir west of the City and eliminating the two elevated storage tanks. This reservoir would continue to be used should Detroit water be made available to the City. "In fact, it is being planned with Detroit water in mind," Mayor Sincok said.

Several projects started this year will be finished in 1962. One is the Central Parking Lot, where buildings have been cleared off. Paving will be concluded next spring. A hearing was held this month on improving the Penniman Ave. block between Main and Harvey St. This job can be expected to start next May and will mean the street will be torn up. The Parking Committee will also give its report on the Fralick Ave. parking investigation early next year and some action may be taken in this direction.

One of the most ambitious projects in mind is a municipal building, combined with a community building and auditorium. Federal aid may be available for this type of project and the City will make a thorough study of such a project during the year, Mayor Sincok promised.

More Expansion in Township...

"If the economic situation is not too bad, we are looking for quite a bit of expansion in Plymouth Township during 1962," Supervisor Roy Lindsay declared this week when asked to look into the future.

The Township's initial sewer and water program are now achieved and now the Township must look toward expansion of these systems, the supervisor noted. "We will expand and extend our sewer and water as far as we can financially afford it."

With most of the eastern portion of the Township now covered with these facilities, the Township Board will now look toward the western half. But it will take ready customers to expand the systems in order to sell bond issues.

One program sure to be completed during 1962 is a sanitary sewer for Plymouth Colony subdivision and part of Arbor Village. Bids have already been taken on these projects.

A Department of Public Works will begin operation on Jan. 1 with a superintendent serving as the entire department personnel for the time being. A building will be constructed behind the Township Hall during the year to house the DPW and its equipment. The department is necessary to maintain present water, sewer and other Township facilities.

"We hope to get some industry into the Township and hope to hold what we have," Supervisor Lindsay commented. With water and sewers now available to some industrial sites, the Township hopes to keep its favorable low tax rate and high assessed valuation by luring more industry inside its borders.

Chamber Sees Steady Growth...

"Plymouth as a community has not and will not change rapidly," the president of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, George Lawton, pointed out as he observed the new year. "This same point has retained and will continue to maintain the flavor of our community," he added.

"In the field of education, I believe a large majority of our community will continue to demand and pay for excellent educational facilities. We can look for a continuation of our Community College development and can hope that its location will be near enough to Plymouth to utilize our facilities which lend themselves to this type of development."

In the industrial field, the Chamber president predicts that 1962 should prove to be a good year, which will be a reflection of the good industrial year on a national scale. Plymouth will continue to be an attractive center for light industry based on our rail frontage and our proximity to Ann Arbor. Our local government will begin to take a greater part in attracting desirable industry as our residential development begins a rather period of rapid expansion.

"In the retail field, the demand will continue for specialty shops and those stores that can enter this field should be pleasantly surprised," Lawton declared. There will also be a turning to local merchants for dependable quality as price competition forces more of the large chains into inferior merchandise.

Some Thoughts For a New Year

By Rev. Francis C. Byrne
Our Lady of Good Counsel

New Year's day is a day of rejoicing. It is also a day for serious reflection. What the new year will bring to us is hidden from our eyes. Will it bring prosperity to our country? Will the problems of unemployment and automation be solved? Will the cold war develop into a hot war? What will happen in Cuba, in the Congo, in East Germany, in Indonesia and other trouble spots of the world?

WHILE THESE AND other questions may cause us to speculate about the future, there is really only one question which is vital to us on the first day of 1962. That question is: Will this new year be a year of spiritual success or spiritual failure to me? Will it bring me closer to God, or farther away from Him? Thousands, even among our fellow Americans, are leading an aimless existence. They may be learned in their own particular field, they may enjoy a degree of material prosperity, but they have no aim in life. They do not know from whence they came, they do not know where they are going. Perhaps we are among them.

If we live with no thought of God, if we neglect the honor that is due to Him, we must face the dismal prospect of paying the penalty of our failure for all eternity. "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and suffer the loss of his soul." (Mark VIII - 36.)

WE ARE NOT ATTEMPTING to say that we should have no concern for others. "No man is an island." We cannot love God unless we love our neighbor. Parents should be deeply concerned about their children, not only to provide them with material things, but also to see that they share in the rich spiritual heritage which we have received from our forefathers. They should be concerned about their children's religious instruction, their reading habits, the type of movie and television programs they are permitted to see.

All good citizens of our country should be concerned about the problems of their own community, those of their State, and those of their federal government. The least they can do is to exercise their right and privilege of voting, and try to vote intelligently. Whoever we are, we should be concerned about the poor, the afflicted, and the underprivileged, whether they are in our own community, in China, in India, or some other corner of the globe. It is not enough to talk about these problems. It is not enough to condemn or heap abuse on others. A word of praise or commendation is often worth a

Plymouth Police Give Gift To Overtime Parkers

Hundreds of motorists didn't know it, but they received a Christmas present from Plymouth police preceding the holiday.

No overtime parking tickets were issued by police during the three-week period before Christmas. Director of Public Safety Kenneth Fisher said this week. This meant that an uncounted number of motorists drove away feeling happy that they went ticketless while the red flag on the meter waved.

The moratorium on tickets was ordered as a Christmas "extra" for those who shop in Plymouth during the holidays. No public announcement was made of the ticketless program so that some drivers wouldn't abuse the effort. Tickets were issued for improper parking and other driving violations, however, Fisher said.

Young Students Become Givers

The true meaning of Christmas — that of giving instead of receiving — was displayed by classes of the Bird Elementary School last Thursday when young pupils trudged through the doors of the Plymouth State Home and Training School with armloads of toys and an envelope filled with money.

Instead of exchanging gifts in their classrooms this year, some of the children decided that there are others who could use the gifts better than they could. So they decided that this year the children at the State Home and Training School would get the gifts.

Bringing money instead of gifts were third graders from the rooms of Mrs. Jane West and Mrs. Florence Lickfeldt and fourth graders of Mrs. Judith Dembsy. Donations reached $54.

Early last week, a delegation from each room journeyed downtown to purchase the toys.

"Lots of thought went into what should be bought," Principal Glen R. Williams declared. "They ruled out toys that contained a lot of pieces. You can easily see, however, which ones were bought by the girls and which ones the boys bought."

Mrs. Millicent Smyth's fourth graders decided that their contribution of $16.50

In six months, the department expects to also have a new pumper.

Greetings to you again from the southwest corner of Livonia and the eastern outskirts of Plymouth. I have missed not being with you and yours every week. I shall look forward to our get together from now on, so don't forget to call me with your news. With the holidays now upon us, there should be much of interest going on at your house. This group will meet again in January at the home of Mrs. Hocking on Narise Dr.

Our family had the recent pleasure of attending the Christmas production of the Ann Arbor Civic Ballet at the Ann Arbor High School, Saturday, Dec. 16. It was with mixed emotions that we watched Mrs. Santa's Toy Shop come to life, for our daughter Nan was privileged to dance, as a jack-in-the-box, in this portion of the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gennis of Joy Rd. are having many houseguests during the Christmas holidays. They are Mrs. Margaret Rose and children Jeffrey and Robin, Mrs. Mary Watt and Claude Nichols, all of Mason.

In keeping with the festive occasion, the Scouts of Troop 271 of St. Michael's Catholic Church, held their quarterly Court of Honor, combined with a visit from good, old Santa Claus and Christmas refreshments for all the youngsters and adults in attendance. The Court of Honor, held on Thursday, Dec. 21, was opened with the presentation of the colors and the pledge of Allegiance led by Brian Swain and William McNece, respectively. Mr. P. O'Sullivan, committee chairman opened the court of honor and introduced Robert Bennett, Sr., scoutmaster, who conducted the investiture of one Tenderfoot scout, Joseph Pachota. Following this the second class award was given by committeeman Emil LaPointe to Douglas Borkowski; Kenneth Cyr, Russell O'Sullivan, Joseph Pachota and Michael Roney with each boy's parents coming forward to receive a similar pin of the boys rank, in miniature.

Merit Badges were given to Brian Swain for Life Saving; George Bachelor, William McNece, Robert Bennett and Michael McNece, all Cooking merit badge. After a few pertinent remarks by scoutmaster Robert Bennett, concerning parent participation, the outcome of the recent wreath sale and the coming camp-out at Metamora on the week end of January 12-13-14, the ceremony was closed with the Scout's benediction.

Mr. and Mrs. Gail Leckner of Joy Ave., Livonia, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Claude Desmond of Joy Rd. on Christmas Eve. This is an annual affair for these two families at which time there is a gift exchange and a festive meal together.

The Fidelis Class of the Newburg Methodist church were guests on Saturday, Dec. 9 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Ryder. The group gathered for a pot luck supper followed with their annual Christmas party, brought to a grand and glorious end by the presence of Santa Claus.

IT WAS a big moment for five year old Gary McQueen of Hartsough St., when Santa slipped away from his elves at the toy factory Friday, to pay an early visit to the lad and check on any last-minute changes he might have made in his Christmas list. Sharing his excitement along with his mother was his visiting Sunday school teacher, Mrs. Dunbar Davis. Little Gary, a shut-in, must stay in-doors most of the time because he is afflicted with Cystic Fibrosis.

Bell Employees Wear Santa's Hat

On Dec. 13, employees of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, representing the Central Office and Traffic Department of Plymouth and the Plant Department at Northville and Plymouth, came to Northville State Hospital, 41001 Seven Mile Road, Northville. In lieu of an exchange of gifts among themselves, they had raised $136 for needs of patients in the hospital's "A" Building.

Mrs. Louise Profit of the Traffic Department, in making the presentation, commented, "We were impressed with the number of items which would be real useful for the patients. We realized, too, that these items on the wards, available for the patients to use, could be a real boon well beyond the Christmas Season. It was for that reason, I believe, that the employees of our Company were so responsive to this plan."

Miss Mary O'Neill, R. N., Acting Nursing Supervisor of "A" Building listed electric razors, walkers, irons, record players, and radios as just a few of the items nurse attendants in her area had mentioned as needed from time to time. "The availability of these and other articles on our wards would assist meaningfully in patient care. A fund upon which we could draw for these items is a real asset, particularly because of our hospital's limited budget. As we are encouraging responsibility and socialization among our patients, obtaining such articles as these becomes doubly important."

When New Year strikes... Start it off with our good wishes!

• HAPPY NEW YEAR! And All Good Wishes! •

by Carl Peterson

Once a long time ago, there was a wonderful little girl who had waited most anxiously for Christmas Eve. When the moment finally did arrive she went several times to the door to peer into the wintry night.

Noticing a slight hint of dejection as the child turned back into the room the last time, the girl's mother asked the reason. Sadly, the little girl explained . . . "Mother, you said that when Christmas Eve came the sky would open and the angels would sing, but I don't hear the angels."

It would appear that this instance, in varying fashions, happens a lot to us.

Christmas Eve for us this year has come and gone. And, perhaps, like the little girl, we built ourselves up for something great and when the time came we felt disappointment. Not necessarily at Christmas time might we be inclined to this attitude.

Maybe it's because we try to get too much out of the times. Perhaps we are dwelling too heavily on what will come to us, rather than what we can give to someone else.

The Holiday season, centering around Christmas and the spirit of giving, is a feeling — a very personal and peaceful feeling. The sky won't necessarily open nor will the angels sing. But something sings from within us. And as always there is love in the air, and compassion, and a feeling of fellowship.

And at least at this time of the year there is peace and happiness a-plenty and we shall think that we have more of love and substance to share. And we'll share it . . .

There's nothing to compare to this "Song" that stems from within us. So . . . a merry, merry holiday season to you and happiness a-plenty during the forthcoming year.

Belleville Hands Plymouth Fourth Loss, 38-32

Plymouth hit a dismal low point in its 1961-62 basketball schedule last Friday evening as visiting Belleville upended the Rocks, 38-32.

Displaying a sputtering, confused offense and overlooking their defensive tactics, the Rocks couldn't get started and then appeared barely able to finish the encounter.

It was a case of two teams being undecided as to which should lose. Both appeared willing, but Plymouth's efforts were a bit more convincing.

At times it seemed that Plymouth's best offense was Belleville's own inadequacy. But this was so only during the first 28 minutes of play.

In the closing four minutes Belleville surged to a 32-30 lead and hung on to win.

The Rocks were casual in defeat.

They scored a meager 14 field goals out of a massive 66 attempts for a disappointing 21 percent accuracy. From the free throw line, Plymouth did still poorer with four out of 21 for 19 percent.

Surprisingly Plymouth held a rather commanding 16-11 lead midway through the second period on the strength of 10 straight points while Belleville went scoreless.

But this margin dwindled gradually. At the intermission, the Rocks still possessed a 20-17 edge. In the third quarter, however, Belleville stepped ahead 21-20 and for 10 minutes the two teams remained on equal and unimpressive terms.

At the start of the fourth period, Belleville led 24-but Jim Dart scored a free throw and a field goal to give Plymouth a short-lived 27-26 lead.

The two teams were tied 30-30 with two and one-half minutes remaining when Lionell Thorold dumped in a pair of free throws to put Belleville ahead for keeps.

Three seconds from the finish Belleville added insurance on the strength of Thorold's basket from close range. It didn't matter by then.

For a while, Plymouth fans were wondering if the Rocks could accumulate 30 points in the game. But Eloy Menchaca saw to that with a jumper from the free throw line with four minutes to go.

Plymouth's attack came to a standstill at practically that very moment.

Later Plymouth coach

Charlie Ketterer termed the game the "worst basketball exhibition" he had ever witnessed.

Belleville, the winner, was as unimpressive as Plymouth. The Tigers claimed the victory from the free throw line, a spot from which Plymouth has had little success.

Belleville, which scored two less field goals than the Rocks, cashed 14 free throws out of 22 attempts. It made the difference.

Dick Schryer had nine points for the Rocks, Menchaca eight, Dan Stremick seven and Dart five. Scoring honors went to Belleville's Thorold, who had 10 points.

The Rocks, who now are 1-4 for the season and 0-2 in the league, will visit Livonia-Bentley on Jan. 5. Bentley upset Allen Park, 39-37, last Thursday evening.

JayVee Cagers, Swimmers Win

Basketball Team Coasts

A first-quarter attack that netted 15 points and earned a nine-point lead led Plymouth's JayVee basketball squad to a 43-35 decision over Belleville last Friday night.

The victory also enabled the JayVees to pull above the .500 mark thus far in the season. It gave Plymouth a 3-2 record going into the holidays.

While coach Dick Bearup was far from satisfied with the performance, Plymouth fans were a bit happier than they had been a week earlier when the junior Rocks scored only five points in the opening period.

This time, the Rocks jumped off to a commanding 15-6 margin at the end of the first eight minutes and held on to win.

At intermission, Plymouth's edge was 25-18. Belleville ended the third quarter when threatened seriously only at the visitors moved to within four points of the Rocks but a closing flurry by Plymouth squelched this quickly.

Jerry Kisabeth, with 11 points, claimed individual scoring honors for the winners as Dick Engoff contributed eight and Bruce Berry, Tom McGill and Doug Sutherland each added six.

McGill, whose hustle earned a tribute from Bearup after the game, displayed good floor leadership and was a standout for Plymouth on defense.

Next on the JayVee agenda is Bentley on Jan. 5.

Tankers Take 10 of 11 Firsts

With 10 first place finishes out of a possible 11, Plymouth's junior varsity swimming team raced to an easy 7-3-1 victory over the Belleville JayVee's last week.

As a result, the junior Rocks entered the holidays with a two-win, one-loss record.

Once again, Jim Beglinger led the way with two individual victories and 10 points.

Plymouth wasted little time, claiming first place finishes in the four opening events along with three seconds and a third.

After Jerry Scott and Mike Bentley captured second and third respectively in the 100-yard breast-stroke, the Rocks swept all the remaining first place positions and picked up three more seconds.

Scoring for Plymouth was accounted for by:

Doug Breed, first, and John Bowsman, second, in the 400-yard freestyle; Dick Berry, first, and Dick Meyers, third, in the 50-yard freestyle; Mike Britcher, first, and Bill Drennan, second, in the 100-yard butterfly; Mark Keith, first, and Dan Olson, second, in the 100-yard backstroke.

Scott, second, and Bentley third, in the 100-yard breast-stroke; Beglinger, first, and Dan Cook, second, in the 100-yard freestyle; John Hertzler and Chuck Ruge, tied for first, in the diving competition; Jeff Hoffman, first, and Britcher, second, in the 200-yard individual medley; Beglinger, first, and Breed, second, in the 200-yard freestyle.

Hockey Team Shells Garden City, 10-6

Exploding for six goals in the first period last Saturday, Plymouth's "senior" hockey team went on to defeat Garden City Bel-Temp, 10-6, in a Garden City recreation hockey league encounter.

Coach Hal Shelley's players utilized a balanced scoring attack to down Bel-Temp. Bill Hawkins, Del McAllister, Dave Fehlig and Al Kolak all scored two goals apiece, while Denny Hanks and Tom Pfister added one each.

The victory evened the Plymouth entry's season record at one win and one loss.

On Thursday, Plymouth was defeated 7-3 by the Garden City "A" team. The local squad averted a shutout in the final period with a three-goal outburst as Jerry Vettesse, Hanks and Kolak connected.

Both contests were played on the Garden City rink. The next action for Plymouth in the Garden City league is against Northville on Thursday, Jan. 4. The game will begin at 9:30 p.m.

By Jerome O'Neil

Charlie Ketterer, who dabbles in life insurance between basketball games, stepped into the smoke-filled gloom of the coaches' office last Friday night and surveyed an attentive gathering.

"It was the worst exhibition of basketball I've ever witnessed," he commented tersely.

He was referring to Plymouth's 38-32 beating at the hands of visiting Belleville moments earlier. His interest was more than academic, since Ketterer is head basketball coach of the Rocks in addition to being a district manager for the Franklin Life Insurance company.

There appeared to be little argument among the others present that Plymouth, indeed, had looked poorly and then some in its loss to Belleville.

For Belleville's varsity cagers are not so talented that they would strike fear to the hearts of Bryan Boring's freshman basketball team here.

Never-the-less, Plymouth's varsity endured its fourth defeat in five attempts and approaches the new year with little hope of impressing other teams around the Suburban Six.

Ketterer failed to notice the two game officials who searched for shower towels amidst the collection of coaches and observers.

"Plymouth just didn't come to play basketball tonight," noted one guest with a twinge of emotion.

His comment seemed valid enough in light of events just past.

The Rocks "gave it a go" with Belleville, but simply couldn't find the range. Out of 66 field goal attempts, Plymouth sank 14, far less than is considered average for a night's shooting performance.

In similar difficulty from the free throw line, Plymouth connected on only four of 21 attempts, something below what Ketterer would have welcomed.

In the locker-room after the game, it was not only the showers that were steaming, Ketterer was disturbed and said so.

It was understandable, since a coach is out-of-place if he's a happy loser. Ketterer was far from happy.

As he had mentioned after an earlier defeat: "It's tough to be a loser, regardless." And Plymouth, in its generosity to Belleville, had not exerted itself to any great extent.

Elsewhere around the Suburban Six conference, others were taking their lumps, too. Such as . . .

Ray McKay, Allen Park's cage coach, who finds his holiday season somewhat tarnished as a result of the Parkers' surprising 39-37 loss to Bentley High.

The Bulldogs, who relied heavily on defensive tactics, halted a losing string of some length and perpetrated perhaps the biggest upset of the basketball season in local circles.

Allen Park, who earlier in the campaign topped 70 points once, had an off night made worse by Bentley's close defensive pattern.

During the affair, McKay himself was ejected from the game.

It was Allen Park which 12 days ago barely carved a victory over the Rocks, 63-58.

Neither team, facing different opponents this past weekend, measured up to earlier performances. But then, too, Christmas was pressing close. And things like that can be distracting. Just wait 'til next year.

Redford Union Sets Sights On Cage Crown

Redford Union last weekend set sail for its first undisputed Suburban Six league basketball crown in several years.

But the Panthers needed an important assist from Bentley High, who last year shared the crown with Redford Union.

With a 59-40 decision over Trenton, Redford Union chalked up its second league victory while Bentley deflated Allen Park, 39-37.

Some had regarded Allen Park as a top contender for league laurels this winter, but Bentley failed to heed the warning and stymied the Parkers with a tight defense and a good shooting percentage.

Meanwhile, Plymouth settled deeper into the league cellar as visiting Belleville trimmed the Rocks, 38-32.

Former Swimming Star Finds Little Pleasure In Rock's Latest Victory

Bill Brandell, one-time Plymouth swimming star, took little comfort last Thursday night as he watched the Rocks beat Belleville High, 62-35.

The reason: Brandell, fresh from the University of Michigan, is now the varsity swimming coach at Belleville.

Plymouth treated Brandell and the hopeful Belleville swimmers with careless abandon, shaping a 23-13 lead at the end of four events and building steadily from there.

It was the Rocks' third victory of the season opposed to one loss.

Plymouth coach John McFall appeared pleased after the meet as his swimmers showered and looked forward to a two-week lay-off while the holidays interpose.

Phil Bender claimed individual scoring honors for the Rocks as he gained wins in the 100-yard breast-stroke and the 200-yard individual medley. His effort was good for 10 points.

The Rocks pause now until Jan. 4 when neighboring Livonia-Bentley visits Plymouth's pool. However, during the holidays, Plymouth will practice regularly under McFall's watchful eyes.

Scoring for Plymouth in the Belleville encounter was accounted for by:

Dick Alford, second in the 400-yard freestyle; Gary Gould, second, and Ken Fischer, third, in the 50-yard freestyle; Barry Corwin, first, and Dick Taylor, second, in the 100-yard butterfly; Dick Michaels, first, and Tom Hoffman, second, in the 100-yard backstroke; Bender, first, in the 100-yard breast-stroke; Gary Gould, second, and Rick Malboeuf, third, in the 100-yard freestyle; Wayne Stephenson, first, and Burt Quinn, third, in the diving competition; Bender, first, in the 200-yard individual medley; Win Schrader, second, in the 200-yard freestyle.

Plymouth's 200-yard medley relay team of Michaels, Agnew, Dave Beglinger, and Ron Peck, was first in that event in a time of 1:55.8.

In the 200-yard freestyle relay, Plymouth won in 1:45.7 with Don Morgeson, Rick Malboeuf, Tom Larson and Al Blunk doing the honors.

Pool Open Afternoons During Holiday Week

The pool at Plymouth High will be open to recreation swimming from 1 p.m. until 2:30 p.m. Wed., Dec. 27 to Sat., Dec. 30, the Recreation Department announced recently.

Persons of any age may swim during that time, the department added. An admission of 25 cents for students and 50 cents for adults will be charged.

The pool is available normally during week nights at other times of the year.

Monday nights from 7:30 to 9, open swimming (no age limit) is conducted. During the same hours Tuesdays, the pool is available to mothers and daughters. Wednesdays are for father and son combinations and open swimming is held Thursday nights and on Saturdays from 1 to 2:30.

Persons who are interested in swimming Thursday nights are urged to phone the recreation department, GL 3-3100, extension 4, to determine in advance if there is any conflict with the high school swimming team.

The Plymouth High swimmers conduct their home meets on Thursday nights, thus canceling out recreation swimming at those times.

Canton Writer Has New Respect For Those Serving on Juries

Esther Sprengel

By the time you read this column, you have exactly nine days to get back to those department stores with the Christmas gifts that must be returned in the required 10 days given you. Just thought that since the papers keep you posted on the days you have left to shop, I ought to let you know how long you have to take all that stuff back.

The error in last week's column cannot be blamed on the pixies. I guess I shall have to admit to this one myself. Mrs. Edward Bassett of Beck Rd. called to state that her son Evan Bassett did not receive the Star Boy Scout rating, but achieved his first class rating. Mrs. Bassett explained that the Star rank involved a great deal of work and in all fairness to the Boys who had received this rank, that we should make the correction, which we have. Anyway, Evan is to be congratulated on the work put into receiving first class rank, for any step up in scouting requires effort and work on the part of the recipient.

I think our family witnessed one of the cutest Christmas programs we have ever seen, last Tuesday evening at the Gallimore School. After a welcome from the president of the P.T.A., John Schroeder, the audience and students of Gallimore along with their teachers joined in caroling, under the direction of the music teacher, Miss Emmett. To the left of the stage sat a group of young people, dressed in the traditional white over blouse of the choir and offered the background music for the play, "The Littlest Angel."

Although not a word was spoken by the characters in the play, the story was narrated by Mr. Don Alexander, sixth grade teacher at Gallimore. The Littlest Angel was played by Lenore Anderson, who truly looked first the impish angel she portrayed and then took on the angelic look appropriate to an angel as the play progressed. The other angelic characters (who truly at least just this once did look angelic) were: Gatekeeper, Evan Bassett;

Understanding Angel, Mark Finley; Archangel, Robert Magraw; Wingmaker, Robert Howell; Halosmith, Ricky Kirby; Messenger, Bruce Burow; Seraphim, Susan Green; Cherubim, Johnnie Lodge; Choir (in play) Josephine Armstrong, Wollinda Plymale, and Lois Viperman. The Fifth-Sixth grade Chorus sang the background music, consisting of "Whistle While You Work," "O Lord Most Merciful," "Music in the Air," "For the Beauty of the Earth," "O Holy Night," "Praise to the Lord."

The scenery was cleverly made to depict heavenly clouds and devices were used to make the littlest angel's gift to ascend into the sky. A wonderful turnout was made by the parents and they all seemed in agreement that the children and their teachers did a real job putting the program together and presenting it.

My term of jury duty is over and I completed it with a new look of respect and importance. I, like many other citizens, answered my jury call with a natural curiosity and to this point not too much knowledge as to what really went on behind those court room doors. At the first look, it seemed that there wasn't a need for the 108 people who filled the assembly room, with perhaps only 12 persons being used a day for actual jury call. The pay of $8 a day was regarded by us unfortunate citizens as not really compensating us for our efforts.

Didn't we have to travel a great distance to get to the downtown County building? If we were energetic and didn't mind walking, we could find a parking place for 50 cents.

Prizes Awarded In Beyer Contest

Thirteen youngsters were given an extra bit of Christmas happiness when they carried home prizes in the Beyer Rexall Drug Store annual Boys and Girls Contest.

Mayor Robert Sincok announced the winners at the Main St. store last Friday night with the super grand prize, a 19 inch portable television set, going to Robert Smith.

Boy winners were: grand prize, Evans bicycle, Andy Hancock; first prize, electric juke box, Randy Blackford; second prize, H-O train set, Gary Boyne; third prize, transistor radio, Jeffrey Perciful; fourth prize, gas powered trainer, Donald Fulkerson; fifth prize, visible V-8 engine kit, Larry Hill.

Girl winners were: grand prize, Evans bicycle, Dianna McInnes; first prize, concert hall chord organ, Ann Heid; second prize, four-speed portable phonograph, Joy Tapp; third prize, English pram doll carriage, Sandra Brown; fourth prize, Betsy McCall doll, Janis Reeves; fifth prize, 17 jewel watch, Claudia Trau.

Joy Tapp, winner of the phonograph, announced that she was donating her prize to the Plymouth State Home and Training School.

Otherwise it ranged from a $1 to a $1.25. Then lunch rolled around, and it seemed no matter how hard I thought about matter lunch diet, the bill still came out a $1 (mind you this was my conception as well as those of other persons serving).

And then there was the time spent, not doing a thing but waiting to be called to serve on a jury. We kidded, laughed and eagerly awaited our first call.

Those 108 persons were then divided into four boxes, where then the 27 names were put into capsules. The boxes were chosen in order and all those in that box called went to a court room, where capsules were drawn out for 12 jurors. After the 12 were chosen, the lawyers from both sides questioned the jurors on many things, and some were excused for that particular case and when one was excused another capsule was drawn, the person not chosen to serve returned to the assembly room to await further calls. I was one of the eager ones. I anxiously awaited my call.

I served on a civil case and I strained my ears for every bit of information and I knew the decision was important to both sides. But the need of truly responsible, intelligent and diligent jurors, did not cause a reaction on me, until I served on a criminal case. When I saw the persons involved, I listened to their testimony, tried to record each bit of information in my head, remembering very hard that only the information furnished at the trial was to be considered. I went to recess, feeling just a bit ill. One of the other jurors stated that perhaps since it had upset me so, I should be excused, so as that my decision would not be an emotional one. My emotions were aroused, not in sympathy for anyone person though.

Perhaps I did wonder at how people get themselves into these situations, but this was not what the court wanted me to decide. They wanted a guilty or not guilty decision and this is what finally really meant something. It was my duty (with the other 11) to decide, without a reasonable doubt, the verdict. I knew that the pay, the time, or inconvenience of jury duty was not important. The important thing was, would I be a good juror, would I give the cases my undivided attention and, above all, be able to do to the letter of the law my duty?

I then thought of the thoughts that go through the minds of persons getting a jury call. I thought of the many reasons I had heard people use to be excused from their duty and then I started to think about the kind of people I would want to sit in judgment of me if (heaven forbid) I needed a jury's decision. I knew (what I am sure all persons know down deep who accept their call) the importance of getting men and women to fill those jury seats.

Bentley Ensemble Entertains Local Kiwanis Members

The Kiwanis Club held its annual Christmas Party on Tuesday, Dec. 19, at Lofy's Arbor-Lill. After a dinner, the entertainment was presented and included a piano solo, "Valse in C Sharp Minor" by Miss Lynda Walter; a vocal solo, "The Birthday of a King" by Miss Maxine Woodruff; a Bible reading, by Dr. G. H. Fitch and a vocal solo, "Night of Nights" by Miss Jan Hopkins.

The Bentley High School Senior ensemble from Livonia presented an a cappella concert under the direction of Jerry Smith of the music department. They sang seven songs which were as follows: "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," "Silver Bells," "White Christmas," "Christmas Party," "Carol of the Little Drummer Boy," "Deep River" and "Let All the Nations Praise the Lord."

Dr. G. H. Fitch was entertainment chairman for the evening.

Duplicate Bridge for New Players Being Offered

Duplicate bridge for new players will be sponsored by the Plymouth Bridge Club starting Friday, Jan. 12 at 8 p.m. at its new headquarters in the Colonial Professional Building, 729 W. Ann Arbor Trail. Games will be held each Friday night.

The club is affiliated with the American Contract Bridge League and will be limited to players who have fewer than 20 masterpoints registered with the league. Fractional points will be issued at the weekly games and masterpoint games will be held on the fourth Friday of each month.

Since this is a "junior" club, it offers an opportunity for those who like bridge, but have played little or no duplicate, to compete against players of their own experience.

Free coffee will be served and ample parking is available. The playing room has been newly remodeled and is well-lighted and air conditioned. The playing fee is $1.25 per person per evening. No reservations are necessary. Further information can be obtained by calling one of the directors, Bill Tullis of the Mayflower Round Table (GA 2-7848) or Margaret Armstrong (KE 5-4465). An afternoon club is also being considered.

He spent his childhood on a farm, assisting his father for several years, but in time he became a teacher as was his mother, an uncle, and two aunts. His wife, Jean, is also a member of his profession teaching second grade in Livonia. Two other members complete the Rank family, David, a sophomore at Albion, and Karen, a freshman at Michigan State University.

MR. RANK is a member of Phi Delta Kappa, a professional fraternity, of Zeta Chi Sigma, a social fraternity, and of six professional organizations: The national and state Educational Assn.; the national and state Assn. of Supervision of Curriculum Development, the national and state Department of Elementary School Principals.

In the latter organization he was active on the State Planning Committee from 1953 to 1958. In 1957 he also served in the NEA on the development of principalship. In 1958, 1959 and 1960 he served the State Department of Public Instruction as a member of the curriculum research committee.

Mr. Rank has taught in the Hazel Park Junior High School and was employed for three years at the Ford Motor Company in Ypsilanti. When that plant closed, he sought a teaching position in Plymouth since his home was here and has been a math teacher in the Junior High School, then principal of Starkweather, and for the past eight years the principal of Allen School. ## Thoughts for New Year carload of protests. "It is better to light one candle than to curse the darkness."

WHAT THE NEW YEAR will bring to us in our own personal lives might also be a question for speculation. It may bring prosperity. It may bring new friends, new opportunities. Again, it may bring unemployment, financial reverses, sickness, or even death. Heart attacks, cancer, and countless other diseases take a tremendous toll of lives in our nation each year.

This week end we will read a list of fatal accidents on the Michigan highways — perhaps 20 or more. Three to four hundred would be the normal total of such fatal accidents throughout the nation. Perhaps another week end people will be reading about our death. But whatever the new year may bring, let us face it confidently, determined to make it the best year we have ever spent in the service of God. As St. Paul says: "Have no anxiety. Rejoice in the Lord always. Again I say, rejoice. The Lord is near." (Philippians IV-5). God is always near to those who serve Him and seek His help.

Schools Face Millage Election . . .

of construction will hold all seventh graders and probably some sixth graders overflowing from elementary schools, the superintendent said.

The present Junior High, which will assume the name of Plymouth Community Junior High — East, will have all eighth and ninth graders in the system.

When the second phase of the Junior High — West is completed in 1964, there will be equal seventh, eighth and ninth grade programs in both. The Senior High, starting next fall, will have only grades 10 through 12.

There will be no new building starts during 1962, Supt. Isbister predicts.

Another educational program facing voters, although not directly connected with the local school system, is a vote on millage for the Northwest Wayne County Community College. It is expected that this vote will be taken during the regular June school election.

City Aims at Ambitious Goals . . .

will be start of construction of a new plant for the Wheel-Truing Co. on the land sold them by the City across from the Burroughs Corp. Plans for the re-designing of Kellogg Park will also be completed in January, the mayor said, and some action can be expected here.

First Federal Savings & Loan Co., owners of the group of old buildings on the northeast corner of Main and Penniman, has promised to start work in January to tear down the buildings. If plans are not completed for erection of a new building immediately, the land will temporarily be turned into a parking lot, company officials have told the mayor.

"We would like to begin a curb and gutter program for the remainder of the town and complete as much as finances will allow," Mayor Sincok said. Many streets in the older sections are still without curb and gutter and are unpaved.

The Mayor also said that he has been communicating with a major department store chain concerning location of a store in downtown Plymouth. "They sound very interested, especially since we are moving ahead with our parking program," the mayor concluded.

More Expansion in Township . . .

ship Hall is now being completed, with larger offices being built to accommodate the Township clerk and treasurer's staffs. "We do not expect to expand the hall any more during 1962," the supervisor said. "Eventually there may be a new township hall someplace and this one would be turned over to the fire department, DPW and a police department."

A major piece of equipment that will be delivered in 1962 is a new fire engine that will cost around $28,000. Bids have been taken and a selection will soon be made.

Chamber Sees Steady Growth . . .

Plymouth will continue to be a popular place for professional people to practice. Over 20 new professional people settled in the community last year, and this trend should continue into 1962.

"From a total community standpoint, we can look forward to remaining a quiet, cultural community for some years to come. There will continue to be a group in the community who would have us become a cosmopolitan suburb of Detroit, but as these people put their roots down they will be working with the rest of us to retain our identity as Michigan's home town community," Lawton concluded.

Young Students

would go to the Hospital Fund. Mrs. Karen Cubitt's fourth graders also contributed to the fund and Patrick Esarey's sixth graders each brought a toy from home to be given to the children. Another class, the fifth grade taught by Mrs. Lois Jensen, collected $15 to buy a CARE package for abroad instead of exchanging gifts.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS...

10 Years Ago

The annual Symphony Ball will be held tomorrow evening in the high school gymnasium. Kenneth Norman and his orchestra will furnish music for the dancers from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Mrs. Eleanor Balfour, general chairman of the Ball, states that preparations have been going on for the past several weeks and that this year's Ball should be one of the best since its origin in 1948.

Because of the generosity of Plymouth residents, the Goodfellows slogan, "No child without a Christmas" came true again this year. Although the Old Newsboys barely missed reaching their goal of $1,600 they collected enough to give all the needy families in this area a Merry Christmas. The issue of the Plymouth Mail Goodfellow edition brought in $1,543.12.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar Davis of Burroughs Ave., recently entertained several little guests at a party honoring their daughter, Susan, on her fourth birthday. The guests included: Mary Louise and Jimmy Perlongo, Rose Ann and Gene Rieder, Paula and Cheryl Kane and Douglas Sylvester.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fisher will be hosts at Christmas dinner in their home on West Ann Arbor Tr. to Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Fortney of Ft. Wayne, and their own immediate family.

Mr. and Mrs. George Richwine entertained 32 guests at a family Christmas party Sunday evening in their new home at 859 North Main. They also enjoyed the visit by the Carolers during the festivities.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reeves of Ann Arbor Tr., were hosts to Mr. and Mrs. Carl January, Mrs. Florence Webber, Mrs. George A. Smith of Plymouth and Mrs. Dwight Purdy and Miss Grace Stowe of Detroit on Christmas Day.

Classmates Share Michigan Bell Drawing Contest Honors

Both six years of age, Tom Hastings and Mary Heid have been named Merit Award winners in the seventh annual Christmas art contest conducted by Michigan Bell each year for the children of its employees.

The drawings of Tom and Mary, two of 631 submitted in this year's contest, gave them second place for grade 1 entries. To answer "What Christmas Means to Me," Tom wrote:

"I like birthdays and that is why I like Christmas — it is the greatest birthday of all — the birthday of Christ. The angels are all coming to see the Christ Child. The angel in the middle is carrying a birthday cake and the other angels are carrying candles and singing."

Tom's drawing vividly illustrates his thoughts. An angel in pink carries the birthday cake, while the other angels, in robes of light pastels, carry candles while musical notes fill the air.

Tom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Hastings, of 346 Evergreen.

In her little-girl's printed note, Mary says: "When I think of Christmas I think of the Blessed Mother holding Jesus."

To illustrate her meaning of Christmas, Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heid, of 14417 Oxford Drive, drew a blue-robed smiling Blessed Mother holding the Child Jesus in the entrance to the manger. Two golden clouds shine down on them, while golden sun rays shine through the stable.

Merit Award certificates have been sent to both children for these winning entries. This annual contest is open to children in the first through the sixth grades throughout the state who are related to Michigan Bell employees.

Dear Mr. Eaton:
This is just a note to let you know what a fine job your staff did on my last ad. It is by far the best ad I have had in any paper during my three years in Plymouth. I only regret that it is not the first rather than the last.

Many good wishes for your continued success.

Post Office Hits New Peak During Christmas Season

Plymouth's Post Office handled the largest load of mail in its history on Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 18 and 19 as the 1961 Christmas mail rush hit its peak, Postmaster George Timpona reported.

The record local mail volume was handled with fewer employees than ever before under a new program which emphasizes overtime benefits for regular career employees of the local post office, with a minimum use of inexperienced Christmas temporary helpers, Postmaster Timpona noted.

This year's two-day record on Dec. 18 and 19 totaled 363,000 pieces and was handled with only 18 temporary employees. Nationally, use of temporary help, with extra wages going to regular employees, has been cut from nearly 300,000 last year to about 250,000 this year, about 20 percent.

were handled nationally by the nation's 35,000 post offices during these two days.

This year's Christmas delivery plan featured nation-wide use of an "all-in-one" home delivery — with all mail for the day delivered to homes in a single delivery, instead of the set-up of previous years "in which residents would have inexperienced youngsters running over their lawns several times a day delivering a few cards at a time."

The Post Office Department's programs this Christmas called for the one daily delivery, but to guarantee fast delivery of all mail, exceptions were permitted at the discretion of the local postmasters to meet special situations.

In addition to the greater efficiency and economy of all-in-one deliveries, this year's holiday mail handling program at the local post office has featured more pay for regular, full-time career employees and a lesser use of inexperienced Christmas temporary employees.

The once-a-day Christmas deliveries in most areas is achieved by a "fusing" process. Simply stated, this means that regular employees begin work in the early morning hours to fuse all the mail for the day for each route into batches that can be handled in a single delivery by the carriers out on the route, including temporaries.

In some cases, those making deliveries will pick up extra loads out on their route from the familiar green-colored "relay" mail boxes (which are serviced by postal trucks), but they do not have to make numerous trips back into the post offices to carry out limited batches in frequent, costly trips.

The Postmaster commented: "We are confident that our experience this season — as evidenced by our experience on these peak days — in delivering residential mail in one delivery will enable our post office to contribute its share to the nationwide program of the Postal Service in maintaining the best service with the minimum use of inexperienced manpower. This means faster deliveries with fewer errors."

Chips from the ROCK

This column is written this week by Elton R. Eaton II and is a brief impressionary interpretation of a combined business and sight seeing trip completed in the last week in London and Paris.

After an amazing five-hour flight from New York, I landed in London in the midst of a typical heavy fog, and I loved it. The first thing that I wanted to do was to purchase a raincoat and umbrella, and was surprised to find that they were far more expensive than here at home. One umbrella shop has a duplicate of the one sold to the Queen, all ivory and solid gold, valued at $275. I found the English clothing styles to be rather conservative in comparison to ours.

My first visit after the shops and stores was at Eton College in the center of Windsor, just outside London. The boys in their morning coats looked almost too distinguished to be attending high school classes. Choir boys at the school attend free until their voices change. After this they must pay their own way. Eton has 1,170 students, though 70 are the King's Scholars who attend from around the British Empire at the invitation of the Crown each year free of charge. Entrance to the school is by registration at the time of birth.

I was anxious to go into an English pub and discovered that Guinness Stout was the popular drink and was a bitter, heavy beer and was served with a large hunk of bread and cheese, probably used to help get the beer down. The night-life in London consists of the theater, pubs, superb restaurants and private clubs. The tourist isn't allowed into the private club unless he buys a membership, so I barged in to see what they were like, expecting to be kicked out, and was. They looked just like the bars and night clubs we have here.

Madam Toussaud's Wax Museum is a must for tourists. The figures are so life-like I found myself staring, trying to make them blink. After a visit to the Tower of London where the fabulous crown jewels are kept, one can understand how the British found the term "bloody." I was shown the spot where 1,500 people were beheaded, including kings and queens and also the room that imprisoned Marie Antoinette before her beheading. Windsor Castle, containing tombs of kings and queens dating from the 1400's up to those of King George V and Queen Mary, is another place that reminds one of all the tradition and history surrounding England. I knew the Queen was there because the royal banner was flying. I was reminded of my old toy soldiers when I saw the changing of the Guards at Buckingham Palace. I had my nose pressed close against the iron gates to hear and see the colorful bagpipe band.

Last year in England the two-year draft was stopped and military service is now on a voluntary basis. These people don't seem worried about the Berlin situation, as they feel immune to this sort of crisis and couldn't understand our emphasis on bomb shelters. London proper has at least 12 daily newspapers, among which the Evening News has the largest night circulation of any newspaper in the world. It is not uncommon to find display advertisement on the front page and world news on the back. Along with the Lord Mayor of London, I attended services at St. Paul's Cathedral which was most impressive and interesting. As I left London for Paris, I realized that I hadn't heard the famous Big Ben strike once though I could see it from my hotel room and walked under it many, many times.

This may sound trite, but I love Paris. The people, the language, the cobblestone streets, everything about Paris lends to its charm. The first thing I did was to contact Traudl Breins, my Rotary-sister from 10 years past, who served as my translator, my guide, my date, and my good friend in showing me all over Paris, as only a Parisienne can. (Of special interest I might say we used the Metro for most of our transportation and it is a fabulous underground railroad.) What the planned tours didn't show me, Traudl did, and we even returned several times to such places as Notre Dame Cathedral and the Montmartre.

Notre Dame was magnificent. I learned that it took over 100 years to construct, with the rich and the poor working side-by-side, accepting no pay in order to erect this superb structure for the worship of God. The rose windows, the flying buttresses, the columns, the stained-glass windows, and the solemn strength of the building are overwhelming.

The Montmartre is located on the highest hill in Paris, overlooking the city, and is the center for most of the artists and painters today as it has been for many years. Traudl took me to a non-tourist cabaret there called Le Lapin Agile constructed in 1800. It used to be the favorite rendezvous of Toulouse Lautrec and Utrillo, who could never pay their bills, so they left many of their original paintings which still hang on the musty, smoke-saturated walls. Also in the Montmartre I visited Chez Genevieve of Jack Paar fame, I ate snails at Mere Catherine's, and I walked through the church of the Sacre Coeur.

Malmaison, Napoleon's home restored with good taste, offers a true example of a Napoleonic residence with its Empire furniture. It also reflects vivid memories of Napoleon and also of Josephine who died there in 1884.

Versailles remains the finest example of classical architecture in Europe, second to none for the majesty of its architecture as well as for the lay-out of its gardens, flower-beds, and fountains. In the park of Versailles, the Grand and the Small Trianons, the Hamlet and its country cottages are still imprinted with the presence of Marie Antoinette who found there the freedom and simplicity so lacking in her life at court.

Of course I went to the Follies Bergere . . . a spectacular Spectacular. Wow! An interesting contrast is noticed in the "Bobbies" of London carrying a night stick only, and the "Gendarmes" of Paris sometimes armed with machine guns due to the Algerian outbreaks. It seemed good and unreal walking down the Champs Elysee chatting with an old friend from Plymouth, Gloria Bowles, and she commented that it made her a bit homesick when she realized she was only five hours from home. She was to spend Christmas with her "brother" in Germany.

I might conclude by saying that I shall never forget my 21st birthday which occurred while I was away and it is truly wonderful to know our Plymouth Travel Centre can, on such brief notice, whisk you away, in a matter of hours, and transplant you in a fairyland so different than one would really believe.

Pictured on my right is Gloria Bowles, a former Plymouth Mail staffer, graduate of Plymouth High School, and daughter of Judge and Mrs. George Bowles now of Grosse Pointe. On my left, the other Parisian, is none other than Traudl Breins who lived with us for a year in Plymouth as a guest at our home and of the Plymouth Rotary Club . . . Gloria is a student at the Sorbonne University in Paris, . . . Traudl is a linguist with a French motor company . . . The picture was taken in front of the world-famous Paris Opera House which we visited after lunch.

A Look Back at a Year of Reading

Just as we were wondering what would replace the hula hoop in the public fancy, along came speed reading. 1961 was the year of the energetic eyeball. Americans struggled hard to read faster. Reading, once a private and individual experience, became a group activity. One reader alone with his book was old hat. Now you also needed a fellow with a stopwatch, some friends to cheer you on, some enemies to confound. We learned this year that our new president reads 1200 words a minute. He was a piker, though, next to graduates of speed reading courses around the country who emerged, red-eyed but happy, to claim they could gulp 20,000 words a minute. A man in Philadelphia said he read War and Peace in 22 minutes. He didn't say why.

Writers wrote faster, too. There have always been competent novelists who could do a professional job on two or three books every year and get them published. This piddling total was surpassed in 1961 by several writers. For instance, John Creasey of England and Carter Brown of Australia, both tellers of mystery tales, whipped out nine books apiece last year, all complete novels published in hard cover editions. Creasey's record was the more astonishing: his nine books reached the public under six different pen-names (he is J. J. Marric, Gordon Ashe, Jeremy York and several other fellows whose names we didn't catch) and totaled 560,000 words. Brown's books came to a little over 400,000 words and he owned up to all of them. As usual America's champ in the multiple book marathon was Erle Stanley Gardner. But he finished the year with a paltry four novels under two names.

Books sold well in 1961. Two books, one novel and one history led all the rest by showing up on the best seller list every week all year long. The novel is Harper Lee's Pulitzer Prize winning first novel, To Kill a Mockingbird, in fourth place on the best seller chart last Jan. 1 and securely in third place this week. So far the novel has gone through eighteen printings and stayed comfortably near the top of the selling ladder for 73 consecutive weeks. No paperback edition is planned for at least several months.

William Shirer's Rise and Fall of the Third Reich is the other top favorite. In the fourteen months it has been published, this detailed, scholarly history of Hitler's Germany has sold over 300,000 copies, a remarkable sale for a ten dollar book. It is, at present, fourth among national nonfiction best sellers and has stayed in the first four during the past 60 weeks. A paperback edition has been announced for late spring, possibly in two volumes priced somewhere over a dollar each. Third Reich, incidentally, came out in German translation last month. To date over 25,000 West Germans, with mixed emotions amid a certain amount of controversy, have bought it.

Colleges Have Boomed Since '08 Constitution

By Elmer E. White

Higher education in Michigan, especially in state-supported institutions, has come a long way since the 1907 - 08 constitution was written.

At that time the document, which is now under scrutiny for revision in Lansing, listed only one institution, the University of Michigan, as a constitutional entity unto itself.

Now, two universities have been added to the list, Wayne State University and Michigan State University, and many of the other state institutions of higher learning have changed their status.

EASTERN, WESTERN and Central were formerly teachers' colleges. They have gained university status and their enrollments reach new limits almost yearly. The others, Northern Michigan College, Michigan Tech and Ferris Institute, have also grown with increasing rapidity.

This year, a 10th four-year institution was created by the legislature for western Michigan, now known as Grand Valley State College.

During the years these developments have taken place, other changes in the field of higher education have also been recorded. The number, size and curricula in community colleges have increased.

EDUCATORS NOW say the community colleges will gain in importance in future years, at least partly because of the rising need of some post-high school training for employment.

Michigan's college-age population, youth between the ages of 18 and 24, will be 95 percent larger in 1975 than it was last year, ac-ording to a prediction by Dr. David Goldberg, program director of the University of Michigan's Institute of Public Administration.

This would give Michigan's colleges and universities a potential enrollment of better than 400,000 students in less than 15 years.

NEED FOR A sound philosophy by state leaders about the financing of college education is underlined in a Wayne State University proposal which comes up for legislative consideration in the next session.

Wayne has submitted a plan to raise tuition at that university in return for an increase in state support. "The matching feature," says President Clarence B. Hilberry, "means a sharing of responsibility by the taxpayers and by the families immediately concerned, rather than the assignment of the whole cost to either." Wayne proposes that state funds be increased $4 for each $1 in tuition.

LOANS TO students is another suggestion from Wayne. This deferred payment feature would require the student or his family to start payment after he had finished college.

Initial reactions from legislators has been one of "interest." This is proper and predictable. Anyone connected with the budget should be interested in ways to reduce it and to make state money go further.

It should be remembered, however, that one way to eliminate taxes completely would be to eliminate all state services. The other extreme is to eliminate the financial problem for the student and pay complete tuition costs.

The Professor Sez...

by Ed Brown

It seems only a short while (and a few pounds) ago that I was a youngster in "knee" pants, playing on the spacious lawn that surrounded our farm home, which was located near the village of Caro in the Thumb area of Michigan.

I remember how many hours a day my dad had to work in the fields to "eke out" a reasonable living for his family, which consisted of mom, three teasing daughters, and a shy, mischievous son — yours truly.

MY DAD GOT UP at five o'clock in the morning, milked the cows, separated the milk, and then came in to eat a hearty breakfast. Afterwards he harnessed the team of horses, and was in the fields by seven o'clock. The rest of the morning chores were left to we "young-uns" — such as "slopping" the hogs as "Tennessee Ernie" says; feeding the chickens and calves, cleaning the stables, carrying in the wood for the kitchen range, and going to the well for a fresh pail of water.

THOSE DAYS are gone, and that type of farming with horses is of thing of the past. Now my brothers-in-law have all the modern equipment necessary to make a good living, and also a small return on a rather large investment.

Today farming is "big business" if one wants to do more than just exist. A farmer needs many more acres, since the expensive machinery can do the work in much less time, and a larger acreage means more profit.

Many farmers today do very little chores for they have few cows, if any at all, and no horses, for the profit comes from the land. To make any kind of money it takes about a 50 or 60 thousand dollar investment.

NOT ONLY has farming methods changed today, but also laborers working in a factory find it much different than their counterpart of a few decades ago. They find things much easier today, and working conditions much better; the pay is higher and the hours are less.

How well I remember the working conditions in the grey iron foundry where I worked for two years after graduating from high school. I had to earn enough money to get started at college.

I was a molder and an iron-pourer, and if you think either are easy you're wrong. Everything was "piece work" in those days, and we made quite a lot of money, but we earned every cent of it.

TODAY MOST of the factories are clean and the health conditions are good. The trend is toward a shorter work-week, and probably will continue that way with automation becoming more commonplace. This means that workers may have more leisure time than now. Educators may have to reevaluate some programs so that this leisure time may be spent in a profitable way.

This use of leisure time intrigues me and I'll spend some time on it in a later article.

Right now I'll go to work on that list of New Year's resolutions for the coming months. I want to wish you all a pleasant holiday season, and may the new year bring much happiness your way.

WHAT EVER happened to... The congenial young man who moved to Plymouth in his junior year of high school and immediately became one of PHS's better athletes? He starred in football as a back and was a great catcher in baseball before graduating in the late 1940's.

During his stay at PHS he served a term as school mayor. This former athlete married the former Nancy Stevens, who also graduated from the local educational institution about the same time.

They have three children — Debbie, 7; Lance, 5; and Blake, 3, and all live at 18869 Nola in Livonia.

He is now a full-time fireman in the Livonia Fire Department, and is assigned to the office of Fire Prevention.

His name — — — Bob Newsted.

News of Interest In Our Churches

St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church

In the 10 a.m. service on Sunday at St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Penniman at Evergreen, Pastor Norman Berg will preach on "A Full Appreciation of Christmas." The anthem, "We Greet Thee, We Adore Thee," will be sung by the Senior Choir under the direction of Richard Scharf.

Holy Communion will be celebrated in the evening service at 7:30 p.m. on New Year's Eve. "Our Purpose In Life" will be the theme of the sermon. An annual rite at this service is the installation of new officers of the church. To be installed this year are:

Vice-president, Robert Bartel; financial secretary, Raymond Douglas; Board of Elders, William Bartel, Sr. and Walter Tacia; Board of Education, Roger Bogenschutz and Edwin Good; Board of Trustees, Lyndon Fritz and Aldo Hoik; Board of Stewardship, Donald Wisman, Ron Wendland, and Harold Kendall.

The traditional anthem, "Our God Our Help In Ages Past," will be sung by the Senior Choir. On New Year's Day, worship service will begin at 10 a.m. "You Can Look Ahead Confidently" will be the assurance of the sermon. The Junior Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Norman Goebel, will sing "The Wise Men Bring Their Learning."

Calvary Baptist

The story of evangelist Billy Graham, will be told in a film, "Decade of Decision," at 8 p.m. Sunday at Calvary Baptist Church.

The 65-minute film is introduced by Dave Garraway. This 10th anniversary production of the Billy Graham film organization tells the intriguing story of the evangelist's rise to national and international prominence.

Starting in the 6,000-seat tent in Los Angeles in 1949, it continues through more than a hundred crusades, climaxing in 1960 with the mass meeting attended by more than 100,000 Germans near Berlin's Brandenburg Gate.

The showing is open to the public.

Soroptimists Have Christmas Dinner

The Soroptimist Club of Plymouth had their Christmas dinner at Lofy's Arbor-Lil on Dec. 13. A silent auction was held and each member received a gift. Santa Claus favors decorated the tables.

Guest for the evening was Mrs. Peter Ytterboe of the Sandefjord Soroptimist Club in Sandefjord, Norway. Her ensuing talk concerning her work as a "word blind" teacher as well as her club's projects were very interesting.

It was discovered that their ways of raising money to serve their community are not too different from ours.

Aids Local Families

Catholic Social Services of Wayne County, a Torch Drive agency, provided service to nine families from Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

This agency offers family service, marriage counseling, adoption service, service to unmarried mothers, care of children outside their own homes and protective service.

Detroit Author To Speak To Woman's Club

The Plymouth Woman's Club will have its first meeting of the new year at the Masonic Temple on Friday, Jan. 5 at 1 p.m. Mrs. John Gaffield, program chairman of the day, will introduce Miss Jerry Seibert who will speak on the topic "People Are Power, Women Are People."

Miss Seibert, one of the Midwest's most fascinating women, is a Detroit author, newspaper columnist and lecturer. Her books, published by Houghton Mifflin Co., are national favorites, especially her biographies of famous women. Her lectures are dynamic and stimulating with the writer's talent for bringing the facts into bright focus.

By George Spelvin
Our town has ceased jingling to those Christmas bells. The package-laden shoppers are hitting the exchange route with grimmer countenances as they move in their disenchanting year-end look. A few gaily-colored lights remain. "Happy New Year" signs suddenly swirl on the scene to give our town a traditional touch to the fading hours of 1961.

1962 arrives on Monday. Resolutions for a better year are started once again. Everyone will make an attempt to break old habits and give themselves a chance for the new to take over. Of course, most of us aren't too serious about all of this so old George always says, "Go right ahead and resolve to your hearts content."

Ashton Rates 'Bye Bye Birdie' A Holiday Hit

One happy thought for the new year is that the downtown section of Detroit will welcome back an old friend in the form of the Cass Theater. Yes, Ken Schwartz, the smiling manager of the Cass, has informed me that "The Tenth Man," a delightful comedy by Paddy Chayefsky opens on Tuesday, Jan. 2 for a two-week run. Director Tyrone Guthrie has staged this production. It's an imaginative play, a real spine tingler that's inspired, wonderful, and comic all at the same time. You won't believe such praise until you've had a chance to see this first dramatic hit of 1962. Call the Cass Theater this week for reservations.

Paddy Chayefsky opened his new play, "Gideon" on Broadway a couple of weeks ago to seven raves. The critics accepted his latest play with the same high plaudits that they gave to "Tenth Man" a couple of seasons ago. Douglas Campbell and Frederic March co-star in this Biblical tale of man's search for God. Mr. Campbell is an old favorite of ours that we have seen for the past six years at the Stratford Shakespearean Festivals. I hope she will be able to get away from his Broadway hit in the spring for the Stratford rehearsals. It wouldn't be a Shakespearean Festival without the incomparable Douglas Campbell.

Vanguard Offering
(Wednesday) with "Dark of the Moon." This production will run until Jan. 26. "Dark of the Moon" is a bold, unusual tale about witches, strange spirits, and some mighty weird goings-on down in the Ozark hills. Years ago "Dark" was a highly successful play and I'm certain that the Vanguard actors will present a perfect professional production. If you have yet to attend a performance at the Vanguard, make a resolution to try at least one of their fine plays in the year '62.

Every Saturday and Sunday Children Theatre performances are given of "The Little Matchgirl." Call WO 3-8863 for tickets. Children admissions cost only a dollar. I believe you'll find the trip downtown well worth the effort.

'Birdie' is Terrific
Check the review of "Bye, Bye Birdie" written by my colleague in criticism, Philip Ashton, found at the end of this column. Phil reports that "Birdie" is a terrific musical comedy. The Fisher Theater is sure to sell out with a quality theatrical product like this. "No Strings," the world premiere of the newest Richard Rodgers effort, arrives at the Fisher on Jan. 15. Already tickets are going strong for this pre-Broadway offering. "A Taste of Honey" follows close on the heels of "No Strings."

Looking into my dusty files for 1961, I have unearthed a few time-worn items. Wayne State's magnificent production of "King Lear" deserves a whole column of praise. It's not often that the Wayne State University players outpoint the University of Michigan, but in this instance I'm afraid the fur-lined curtain must be given to the Wayne group. Everyone of their male actors gave an excellent account of themselves. And technically their "Lear" was a fabulous, enchanting production. Dr. Leone can afford to take great pride.

Brooklyn theater and the production that you'll view will be a superior one in every respect. Looking fondly at the program, it's hard to pick out scenes or numbers that were outstanding. All the numbers were terrific. The scene in Act II where Albert is trying to get Rose (Gretchen Wyler) to talk to him on the phone is a classic. The Bell Telephone would do well to preserve this happy moment on film for posterity.

Musically, it's a gem. Before you have time to sit back, a rousing rendition of "Kids" puts your foot to tapping. And so it goes throughout the show. You are caught up in a maelstrom of merriment from the opening when some clever newsreel shots flash on the act curtain to the closing tender song, "Rosie," as done by Mr. Patterson and Miss Wyler.

Kay Medford as the watchful, carping mother garners the accolade all actors dream of. Her sharply-etched portrait of a nosy mother was a comic masterpiece. Dick Gautier twisting and twitching as accurately as King Presley made his rock 'n roll role a biting comment on our teenage trends. Yet at the same time everyone knew it was all in fun. "Bye, Bye Birdie" makes you lazy, you still has time to point out a fact we often times forget: our teenagers talk big, act silly, but God love 'em they're still kids, and we wouldn't be without them for all the crazy, mixed-up "tea in China."

My advice is to turn those dollar bills received in place of tangible gifts into tickets for the liveliest musical comedy that has hit these parts for many a moon. You'd best hurry. "Birdie" leaves town on Jan. 6, and the lines at the Fisher Theater are already getting long. And while you're getting tickets for this sure-fire hit, you might think about "No Strings," the next big attraction at the Fisher. It opens on January 15th and promises to be sensational.
