

5-Man Building Authority Makes New City Hall Request

We'll Be 2 Days Early Next Week

Because of the Thanksgiving holiday next week, the Plymouth Mail will publish TWO DAYS earlier than usual. The Mail will be arriving at homes here in Tuesday's postal delivery and news-stand sales will begin early the same day. Actual publishing time of the paper will be late Monday night. Deadlines for all advertising and news have been moved up. Deadline for display advertising will be noon on Saturday, Nov. 17. Classified ads and regular news copy deadline will be Saturday at 5 p.m. All Women's page news must be turned in by Friday noon.

Newly-appointed members of the City's Municipal Building Authority moved swiftly this week to re-submit an application for federal funds in support of the proposed City Hall project here.

Acting within 12 hours of their appointment to the Authority, the five members of the body Tuesday morning resolved all legislative procedures thus paving the way to a second application for federal aid on the plan.

The second formal request was prompted by a letter received last week at City Hall from the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

It indicated that the Building Authority and not the City itself must submit the request for federal funds, since the Authority is the legal body that will govern the project.

City Clerk Joe Near, himself one of the newly-named Authority members, said that the second application was scheduled to be in the mail by today (Wednesday).

Meanwhile, the five members of the recently-created municipal body were rapidly acclimating themselves to their responsibilities, which may ultimately entail the administration of somewhat more than $500,000 if the federal request is approved.

In addition to Near, who is also Urban Renewal director here as well as being City Clerk, the five-man Authority includes:

Harold Guenther, Louis Borregard, Dave Mather and Everett Burmester.

Guenther, former City mayor prior to current Mayor Robert Sincock, is a successful businessman here and has been highly instrumental in luring additional industry to Plymouth in the past two years.

Borregard is a co-founder and presently sole owner of Rotary chapter.

B & F Auto Supply on Starkweather here. While he has not previously been active in special City administrative groups, he is well-known for his guidance and support.

Mather, too, is a Plymouth businessman. He is owner of Plymouth Lumber & Coal Co. here and has been active along with Guenther — in the Industrial Development Corp. which has been aggressive in increasing Plymouth's industrial tax base.

Burmester, a Plymouthite since 1953, is a retired civil engineer, who for nearly 35 years headed his own industrial contracting firm. He is a member of Kiwanis club here and is active in the Plymouth Historical Society.

Near has been City Clerk since 1959 and was City Accountant for eight years prior to that. In March he was named the City's Urban Renewal director.

The five men, all of whom are City residents, serve on the MBA without pay. They were appointed by City Commission in special session Monday night.

Guenther and Mather were named to 1-year terms, Borregard and Burmester to 2-year sessions and Near will serve a 3-year term.

However, as the first four members or their successors come up for re-appointment, they will step into three year terms so that eventually the entire membership is serving simultaneous 3-year terms.

The present terms became effective Monday.

The Building Authority is described as "an extension of the City Commission" and will serve "at the will of the Commission." Should the federal grant for the City Hall project fail to gain approval of HHFA, the Authority will be dissolved.

No City Commission members are permitted to serve on the Authority under the restrictions set up in the new body's articles of incorporation.

Guenther was elected chairman of the body in its first official meeting Tuesday morning. The Authority must meet at least quarterly, but for the present will meet "frequently" until all members are thoroughly acquainted with the City Hall project and the responsibilities attendant to it.

The Building Authority, essentially, will serve as "landlord" for the new City Hall, should it materialize. Feelings within City circles here were definitely tinged with optimism over this aspect.

The Building Authority is enabled under the terms of its incorporating articles to issue the necessary revenue bonds to provide the City's "matching funds" share of the total project cost.

This is among the first matters the body will undertake to arrange, pending federal approval of the grant request.

Among other things, the MBA is charged with obtaining bids for construction work on the new municipal building and for following through on the actual construction.

The Authority already has made plans to meet next Tuesday morning to discuss further its various duties.

Meanwhile, City Commissioners in their Monday night meeting, approved a pair of resolutions that made corrections in the first applications submitted on the other two improvement projects here.

Those applications, returned to the City by the HHFA last week, pertain to a new water reservoir on Beck Rd. and a rather extensive water transmission lines improvement project here.

The resolutions corrected minor errors that appeared on the first applications. The action was described as a "formality" and will create only a slight delay.

Already the City has received a "project number" on its request for federal assistance of the proposed City Hall. This, in itself, was enough to encourage Commissioners to optimism over the eventual outcome of the City Hall plan.

ROOFING WORK on new First Federal Savings building at Main St. and Penniman Ave. was scheduled for completion sometime next week and interior finishing work has already begun. The new structure, estimated at $128,000 not including exterior cement work and land acquisition, is expected to open in mid-February.

General contractor is Burger Construction Co., of Plymouth. The Main St. sidewalk has been tapered back nearly 10 feet at the corner to line up with other Main St. curbing across Penniman. Photo above was taken from the top of the . . . uh . . . National Bank of Detroit building.

F. L. Miller, Twp. Clerk, Dies; McEwen Named as Successor

Special appointment of John D. McEwen, 55, to fill the remainder of the term of Plymouth Township Clerk was confirmed Monday night by the Board of Trustees.

The action followed the death of Fred L. Miller, 70, on Sunday. He had served as Township Clerk since April 1959.

McEwen, a resident of Plymouth Township since 1956 and presently employed with the Wayne County Board of Auditors, expects to assume the Clerk's duties by Jan. 1.

He will resign his present job shortly, he said.

Mr. Miller, who lived at 46303 Five Mile Rd., died early Sunday as a result of a severe stroke suffered Nov. 1 while he was conducting an instruction class for Township election workers.

Stricken as he was about to rise from his chair at the meeting, he slumped forward. A doctor administered him at the Township offices and he was rushed to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

It was there death claimed him peacefully Sunday.

Funeral services were held this afternoon (Wednesday) at Schrader Funeral Home here with Reverend David Davis officiating. Burial was at Glen Eden cemetery in Livonia.

Mr. Miller was born July 14, 1892, in Millstadt, Illinois, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob L. Miller. He moved to Plymouth Township from Dearborn in 1947.

His wife, Marie, to whom he was married Aug. 17, 1929, survives.

Others include: a sister, Mrs. Alma Piston, of Birmingham, Mich.; two brothers, Oliver C. of Falls Church, Va., and Eugene L., of Ferrisdale.

Mr. Miller retired from the Ford Motor Co. in 1957 where he was an accountant. He was elected Township Clerk in 1959 and held the office to the time of his death.

He was also treasurer of Plymouth Township's Community Improvement Assn.

Mr. Miller had previously suffered a heart attack in May, and after a short recuperative period had resumed his Clerk's duties late in June on a part-time basis.

He was busily engaged in organizing the many details (Continued on page 6)

Nominating Deadline is Dec. 31

Spring Election Looms

In the aftermath of last week's general election, further election activities creep gradually toward center stage here.

Involved is the Biennial Spring Election next April when voters here will name their choices for municipal posts in both the City and Township, and at the same time will voice their feelings on the somewhat controversial proposed Michigan Constitution.

Nominating petitions for candidates seeking local office on the City Commission and the Township Board of Trustees will soon be in circulation, authorities indicated, with a filing date of Dec. 31.

In both instances, a primary election will undoubtedly be held in February to trim the number of candidates to only twice the number of vacancies on the two governing bodies.

In the City, a busy race to fill four vacancies on the 7-man Commission is anticipated.

The four incumbents, by virtue of the number of terms each has served, become ineligible to run again.

Prohibited by City Charter from serving more than two terms, regardless of length of the terms, William Hartmann, Carl Shear, Marvin Terry and Mayor Robert Sincock will retire to the sidelines for at least two years.

The terms of the other three Commissioners, Jim Houk, Dick Wernette and Robert Beyer, are not involved in the forth-coming race.

Sincock, who was appointed to a two-year term 10 years ago, and re-elected to two four-year terms since then is the member with the longest service on the Commission.

Shear and Terry will complete back-to-back four-year terms next Spring and Hartmann, who served one two-year term and another of four years, is completing six years on the City's governing body.

According to the City Charter, they will become eligible again for Commission posts after remaining out of the picture for two years.

If more than eight candidates file nominating petitions, a primary election will be held in February. The names of candidates on the April ballot can number no more than twice the number of vacancies.

A petition for candidacy must contain no fewer than 25 signatures of registered City electors and no more than 50, according to Clerk Joseph Near, who is in charge of elections in the City.

Of the three Commissioners not involved in the forthcoming election, Houk and Beyer will complete freshman 4-year terms in 1965 and Wernette will finish his second 4-year term at the same time. He, too, will then become ineligible.

The four winners in April will fill three 4-year terms of office and a two-year term. The winning candidate who receives the fewest number of votes is in office for only two years.

The City Commission is non-partisan.

Meanwhile, in the Township, all administrative officers and Board members are coming up for re-election. Included are the Supervisor, Clerk, Treasurer, a pair of four-year Trustee terms and one two-year Trustee term.

The lesser posts of constable — four of them — a justice-of-the-peace, highway commissioner, and a seat on the Township's Board of Review are also up for nomination.

School Board Studies Pay Structure Changes

School Board members laid the groundwork Monday night for what could be an extensive revision of the present teachers' salary structure here.

"Our present professional salary structure has many inequities in it," said Board Member Robert Utter, who heads the special employees relations committee.

"We need a re-study of the existing structure and improvements to it," he summarized.

Utter, referring to a complete break-down on professional salaries in the Plymouth Schools system, suggested a "ratio" formula with which to establish teacher pay levels based on total education of the teacher and previous experience in the teaching ranks.

He compared the suggested method to one used in the Birmingham public school system, whereby a certain level of education entitles a teacher to a specific annual pay, and additional study and advanced degrees increase the salary by a pre-determined factors.

A special meeting on the subject will be held shortly to further explore the subject and hear recommendations from the administration.

In other matters, Board members dealt with the second phase of expansion at Junior High West. Involved is a tentative $560,000 addition to the present $817,000 building.

Detailed architectural plans are expected to be completed by the firm of Wheeler-Becker & Associates by Dec. 1.

The second phase was arranged so that it could begin in effort upon completion of the first phase. The Board approved the conversion to gas of two oil burners in the Senior High at a cost of $10,300. The four burners now there are all oil-fired. The conversion will extend the useful life of the heating boilers, and will defer extensive costs for as much as five years.

A meter house to control the gas burners is also included in the project cost. Bids will be called for immediately.

The Board directed Supt. Russell Isbister to negotiate a lease agreement with Canton Township with regard to two schools in that part of the district. The schools, one-room Canton Center school and the two-room Cherry Hill building, have been closed since June.

The lease agreement between the School District and Canton Township is subject to final approval of the Board at its next regular meeting.

Meanwhile, another interested party in one of the schools is still to be heard from. Career Games Inc., a newly-formed firm, had indicated an early interest in leasing the Canton Center school, but no word has been heard from the company since Oct. 17.

Career Games is interested in using the Canton Center school as a distribution point for its products.

Canton Township, on the other hand, would turn the Canton Center school into a library and museum, while the Cherry Hill building would be used as a community center, say Township officials.

Board members made it clear that if the lease with Canton Township were approved, there must be no cost to the Plymouth School District arising out of the use of the two schools.

A delinquent tuition account was acted upon.

Salem School District No. 6 — Lapham School — owes the Plymouth district $3,064 for tuitions for 18 out-of-district students attending Plymouth High.

The tuition was originally due June 1.

Free Tuition First Prize In Name College Contest

A two-year full-tuition scholarship to the NW Wayne County Community College is the prize in the institution's "Name-the-College" contest, announced this week by Dean of Students Lois Waterman.

The college's Board of Trustees hit upon the contest idea as a solution to the task of providing an official name for the institution which is intended to open its doors in September, 1964.

According to a news release sent out by Dean Waterman, "the winning name will, in all probability, become the name of the college, but the Board of Trustees reserves the right to make the final decision."

These are the contest rules:

List your proposed name of the college as Item 1. Give the reasons for your selection of this name as Item 2. (Approximately 50 words is recommended, but any length is acceptable, according to college authorities.)

In a memo, address and telephone number of the contestant must be listed as Item 3. All contest entries must be sent through the mail to: Name Contest, 9901 Newburgh

Formality Delays Twp. Sewer Grant

Supervisor Roy Lindsay revealed at Tuesday night's Township Board meeting that Plymouth Township had received a "project number" on its request for federal funds for a proposed sewer line extension.

However, a technicality will require that the Township re-submit the application. Lindsay said that a "formality" will require a second application to the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

It will be sent forward shortly, he indicated.

The proposed sewer line extension will lengthen an existing line along Joy Rd. from Sheldon to Beck.

Simultaneously, Herald Hamill, Township engineer, unveiled preliminary plans for a sweeping expansion program for the Township's entire sewer system.

The overall project, of which the extension is only a portion, will provide more adequate sewer facilities eventually in anticipation of the Township's expected population increase over the next decade.

The sewer expansion plans are designed so as to be linked ultimately with the Wayne County Interceptor sewer system that is presently under construction along Haggerty Rd.

Lindsay reported on two current matters.

He said that street lighting installation at major intersections throughout the Township should begin soon. Detroit Edison, which has already received the work orders, will do the installation.

A total of 30 lights will be put in place, he said.

More powerful street lights along Plymouth Rd. in front of Burroughs Corp. are under discussion presently. A City-Township combination purchase of a greater-strength mercury lights for that district is being explored.

Lindsay reported that Burroughs Corp. has also retained (Continued on page 6)

Dec. 1 Eyed For Start Of UR Demolition

Demolition of buildings within Plymouth's Urban Renewal project on Mill St. will begin by Dec. 1, according to Urban Renewal Director Joseph Near.

He repeated his estimate that new light-industrial tenants will occupy the redevelopment project by late 1963.

Meanwhile, Near last week completed two more land purchases bringing to nine the total number of parcels of land thus far acquired by the City. There are 15 parcels all told in the 17-acre project.

Near said that demolition of the leveling of present buildings there — is intended to begin by Dec. 1 and that April 1 is a target date for installation of utility service.

City Commission, in a special session Monday evening, assigned the task of demolishing the buildings to the City's DPW force, with DPW director Joe Bida to be in charge of the work.

The Commissioners chose not to call for bids on the demolition, feeling that the DPW could "expedite the matter."

BIG BIRTHDAY CAKE and equally large knife helped officials of the American Plan insurance companies here observe the 25th birthday of the formation of the companies. The two companies, located on Plymouth Rd., are American Hospital-Medical Benefit and American Community Mutual Insurance. About to slice the cake above are, from left: Charles Engstrom, a vice-president and director; John J. Temple, president and director; Malcolm MacQueen, medical director and a director; and John Herb, secretary-treasurer for both firms. The birthday observance was held at an annual sales meeting last week at the Mayflower Hotel. Some 70 general and full-time agents attended. The two companies are, also concluding the most successful year in their history, a spokesman said. Engstrom and Temple were among the founders of the companies in 1938. Temple has been president since 1953.

Pupils Feast On Turkey At 3c Per Lb.

Public School students here will feast on as sumptuous a Thanksgiving fare as could be imagined this week, and the cost of the meal will astonish many budget-minded parents.

For 30 to 35 cents, depending upon what grade the child is in, students here will sit down to a Thanksgiving meal that will equal mother's own home-prepared servings come Thanksgiving Day itself.

The menu for one day in all of the School District's nine cafeterias will consist of roast turkey, dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy, buttered squash, cranberry sauce, homemade nut bread, jello and milk.

Most of the schools will serve a traditional Thanksgiving meal at noon-time Thursday, although a few will wait until early next week.

The district's 25 cafeteria employees Monday were starting preparations for the elaborate feast. In all, about 3,000 Thanksgiving dinners will be served throughout the School District.

Elementary school students will pay about 35 cents per meal, junior and senior high students are charged 35 cents. Teachers pay 45 cents.

The district is able to serve the extensive meal at low cost with the help of federal surplus foods. In fact, last week the district took delivery of 1,804 pounds of whole frozen turkeys at a cost of $54.12, or three cents per pound. It was called a "handing charge."

At the supermarket, Mom will pay about 35 cents per pound for a Thanksgiving turkey.

Canton Sewer, Water Plan Foreseen as Early Reality

Supervisor Stein has indicated that he will fly to the Chicago regional office of the HHPA to personally submit the application.

Total project cost is $957,000, while the request for federal funds is in the amount of $457,000. The voter-approved $500,000 bond issue will cover the remainder of the project.

While no tax increase will result from the $200,000 bond issue, a 2-mill boost will be necessary to raise the $500,000 issue.

The improvement and expansion of sewer facilities is an extensive project, and an ambitious one.

The plans include extending a line from a soon-to-be-completed sewer outlet at Haggerty and Joy Rd. The new line will be installed along Tonquish Valley north of Warren Rd. to Morton Taylor Rd. between Lilley and Sheldon.

Also included in the project is a sewer extension on the Township's south edge. It will follow the lower Rouge Valley to Morton Taylor Rd. The new sewer outlets are part of a County construction program, now in progress.

Missing "No" Is Misleading

A typographical error in a story in this issue about a tax increase will lead readers to believe that a tax increase will be levied in order to build a new water reservoir for City users.

This is incorrect; no tax increase will result from any of the three proposed projects here.

In the part of the story that discusses financing of the reservoir, there is a line that reads: "Again there would be tax boost involved, City officials assert."

The missing word "no" misconstrues the actual meaning. It should read "there would be NO tax boost involved."

A Township resident, Ervin Lowe, of 4145 Greenbrook Lane, suffered minor injuries Saturday evening when the car he was driving struck a parked truck on S. Harvey St. here.

He was treated and released from Wayne County General Hospital and is recuperating at home.

City police, in other matters this week, took into custody Phyllis Fisher, 41, of Garden City on charges of issuing bad checks here.

Davis, Williams Participate In Panel Discussion on Youth

Mrs. Dunbar Davis, of 42728 Ford Rd., and Rev. Donald Williams, minister of the First Baptist Church of Plymouth, were two of five panelists who discussed "Problems of Youth," at the monthly meeting of the American Baptist Women of the Detroit Area.

The meeting, attended by about 200, was held Nov. 6, in the Calvary Baptist Church, Dearborn.

Some of the facts concerning juvenile delinquency, revealed in the panel discussion, included that in 1961 there were 1,800,000 youths between the ages of 10 and 18 apprehended by police; 47 percent of arrests by the FBI in 1961 for major crimes were of youths under 18, and that crime has increased about three times as fast as the population.

According to consensus of the panel some of the main causes contributing to juvenile delinquency included broken homes, lack of parental control and discipline, obscene literature and films, school drop outs, early dating and international insecurity.

Announce 'Mighty Man' Cast For Guild Winter Production

The cast for the Plymouth Theatre Guild's winter production, "A Mighty Man Is He," has been announced by director Jacob Rumpf.

Kay Hall, of the Dearborn Heights Little Theater, will appear in the feature role as the wife of the "Mighty Man." Kathleen Dobbs will be seen as one of the competitors for the husband's affections, with Carol Carlson completing the four-sided "triangle" in this sophisticated and gaily paced comedy.

C. V. "Sparky" Sparks heads up the supporting cast with his portrayal of the butler, Jane Dobies as the "Mighty Man's" press agent, Dennis Merchant as the writer and Richard E. Brown as the doctor round out the supporting roles.

Providing some young romantic interest will be Pamela Howell and Earl Collins.

"A Mighty Man Is He" will be presented December 6, 7 and 8 in the High School Auditorium. Mary Ann Nichols is the producer.

Although casting has been completed, many backstage "roles" are still available. Anyone interested in working in the off-stage activities is invited to attend the Theatre Guild meeting this Monday evening or to contact either the producer or director.

Globe-Circling by Jeep Next Travel Adventure

The Plymouth community will have the rare opportunity to girdle the world by means of a jeep with lecturer Ben Carlin during the evening of Nov. 24.

Carlin is that rare personality who has the ability to translate into reality the armchair adventurer's dream of going places and doing things.

In his lecture and film, entitled "Around the World by Sea-Going Jeep," he tells an almost unbelievable story of crossing two oceans and four continents by means of a converted amphibious jeep.

The jeep, named the "Half-Safe", is not a boat but never-the-less was able to survive — alone, unescorted and unaided — 9,400 nautical miles by sea and 35,000 miles over land, all under its own power.

Carlin was born in Western Australia. Between 1935 to 1938, he worked as a Mining Engineer in the gold fields of Australia and from 1939 and 1940, in the coal mines of North China.

As a commissioned officer in the Royal Indian Engineers during World War II, he was in charge of bomb disposal, bridging and airfield construction in India, the Middle East and Italy.

After the war, Carlin conceived the idea of going around the world in an amphibious jeep.

The results of his adventures with the "Half-Safe" will be graphically presented in his lecture and film. He also published in 1955 the first volume of a book, entitled "Half-Safe". It is the story of his trip from Montreal to London. Volume Two, in preparation at this time, will cover the balance of the trip from London back to Montreal, via Calcutta and Tokyo.

The Plymouth Lions Club, sponsors of the Adventure Series for the second year, has attempted to bring the best of entertainment, suitable for enjoyment by the entire family, to the Plymouth Community.

Tickets for each individual performance will be available at the door. Funds obtained from this series go to defray the cost of numerous Lions Club projects, among which is the Leader Dog Program.

Band Offers Surplus Candy

Although Plymouth High School band members sold more than 1,600 pounds of candy in a door-to-door canvass last weekend, they still wound up with a surplus that they want to sell.

Proceeds from the sale will help send the High School band to Interlochen Music Camp next summer.

Jim Griffith, director of the band and in charge of the candy sale, said that there were about 400 pounds of Cashew Butter Crunch remaining.

Persons interested in buying additional Butter Crunch from the band's surplus may contact the Senior High at GL 3-3100. Delivery will be made personally by band members, said Griffith.

The sale last weekend was termed "excellent." Although the band had conducted previous door-to-door candy sales, this was the first time Butter Crunch was offered.

Price of the candy is $1.10 per pound.

Peewee Hockey Try-outs Saturday

Try-outs for the peewee division of the recreation hockey program here will be held at the University of Michigan hockey arena Saturday, Nov. 17, from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., a spokesman has announced.

Cost for each boy trying out is 50 cents.

Age limit on the peewee division is 10 to 12 years.

Further information on the peewee division try-outs may be obtained from Bob Cosgrove (GL 3-7614) or Bob Hudson (GL 3-4794).

Rostow's Brother, State Dept. Official, Speaks in Detroit

A high-ranking State Department official who is the brother of a Plymouth businessman was in Detroit earlier this week for a speaking appearance before the Economic Club of Detroit.

Dr. Walt Whitman Rostow, high-level member of the Kennedy Administration, is the brother of Ralph Rostow, owner of Graham's Ladies Apparel here.

Dr. Rostow is chairman of the State Department's Policy Planning Council, and is a graduate of Yale and a Rhodes Scholar. He served as a major in the OSS in World War II.

Junior High Students Salute Education Week

"Education Meets The Challenge Of Change" has been selected to serve as the general theme for the 42nd annual American Education Week to be observed November 11-17.

At Plymouth's Junior High East, the Student Council is organizing plans for the week. Tom Chandler has been elected chairman.

Prior to the date of observation, an essay contest had been sponsored to better acquaint the student body with the general idea of the week.

The title for the essay was "The Personal Values of an Education".

The winner, Sue Arthur, was presented with a transistor radio. Runners-up were Pamela Bishop, Mary Ann Sincock, Steve Ott, and Connie Hoffman.

During the week, daily announcements will be given on the following themes: Monday, "A Modern Curriculum"; Tuesday, "Effective Teaching"; Thursday, "Life Long Learners"; and Friday,

"International Understanding".

School will not have a regular session on Thursday because that day has been scheduled for Conference Day, a time when parents will have appointments with the teaching staff.

Other features of the week include a giant billboard which has been placed in the lobby of the school depicting the daily themes. This art project was co-chaired by Sue Holland and Sue Hulce with a large committee under the guidance of Mrs. Judith Orvis, Art instructor.

On Tuesday the Student Council is treating the faculty to cake and coffee. The cakes which are to be baked by the students are a tribute to the teachers.

Basic purpose of American Education Week is to make Americans more aware of the important role education plays in a democracy and to underline the value of good schools and colleges.

"Blue Heaven," this year's J-Hop to be held November 17, in the PHS gymnasium, will feature blue lighting reflecting on strips of silver aluminum foil which will encircle the walls and the entrances.

The seven piece orchestra will play in a cove, also of aluminum foil, at the west end of the gym, and at the east end a backdrop make of a paper-mache statuary surrounded by five artificial trees all in shades of blue created mainly for those who wish to take pictures.

From the ceiling will hang two large chandeliers surrounded by six smaller ones made of multi-colored balloons on chicken-wire frames. Suspended over the refreshment tables in the hall will be three-dimensional stars.

"Views of the earth" will be seen through clouds in the trophy case from the round tables.

Plymouth Township

ed a smoke abatement firm to advise on improving efforts to lessen a smoke and soot problem at the local industry.

The Ohio-based firm being consulted will send a representative to Burroughs Corp. soon to discuss further preventative measures, Lindsay said.

Making an appearance before the Trustees were a trio of men, headed by John J. Carlo, general manager of Northville Race Track, who reported that they were negotiating the purchase of the Thunderbird Inn on Northville Rd. here.

An attorney representing the three men introduced them to the Trustees and explained that they hope to complete the purchase and maintain a "highly respectable dining place" at the Northville Rd. restaurant and night spot, which has been closed for more than half a year.

Six law suits are pending against the present owners, all growing out of a petition of bankruptcy. There is also a matter of delinquent Township taxes. All will be cleared up at the time of the final purchase transaction, the attorney said.

Trustees discussed a matter over bonding restrictions with an insurance representative and a vice president of the Garling Construction Co.

The matter centered around the subdivider's responsibilities during and after construction of new homes in the Township. A bonding company, said the insurance representative, had refused to accept an initial bond covering the subdivider because the stipulations were "too stringent."

The Garling's company officer was Frank Swapka. He is presently directing the development of Riverside Drive No. 3 subdivision here. It is a 50-home tract.

Trustees will study the problem with the bonding company and attempt to arrive at a mutually agreeable solution. Trustees said they wished to have the subdivier execute a bond that would free the Township from financial responsibilities arising over broken lot-line markers, faulty sidewalks and other above-ground items.

The board moved to establish a new financial account, the Rouge Valley Interceptor Debt Reserve fund. It will be used to retire certain Township financial obligations pertaining to the Rouge Valley Interceptor.

Trustees look under advice from two bids to supply the Township with gasoline for its trucks and maintenance vehicles.

The Township recently had its own gasoline storage tank installed adjacent to the DPW building behind the township Hall on Ann Arbor Rd.

The two bids were: 25.9 cents per gallon from American Oil Co. and 25.4 cents from J. Austin Oil Co.

Township Clerk

of the Nov. 6 general election in the Township when he was stricken at the Township Hall on Ann Arbor Rd.

The Board of Trustees acknowledged the loss caused by Mr. Miller's death in its meeting this week.

"Not only will the Township administrative personnel greatly miss the kind and wonderful gentleman, but the community as a whole deeply regrets his passing as well," said Supervisor Roy Lindsay Tuesday.

The new Clerk, McEwen, is supervisor of records and of the records reproduction department of the Wayne County Board of Auditors. He has been an employee of the County for nearly 35 years.

He submitted his resignation Tuesday, but previous commitments will prevent him from taking over the $8,000-per-year clerk's office until late in December.

McEwen, who knew Mr. Miller personally, has indicated that he will become a candidate for election to the same post in the April election.

Born in Detroit and a graduate of Western High, and the University of Detroit college of commerce and finance, McEwen served in World War II as an enlisted man in the Army Air Corps.

He rose to the grade of master sergeant and served two years with the Air Inspector's Office in Brazil.

Following the war, he studied law briefly.

McEwen is a member of the Old Newsboys of Detroit, is past president of the Scottish organization of St. Andrews Society of Detroit, is current president of the Detroit chapter of American Records Management Assn. and is national vice-president of the same organization.

He is also current Mayor de-facto of the proposed City of Plymouth Heights.

He said his duties with the Old Newsboys drive which is Dec. 10 will delay him from assuming the Township Clerk's office until late next month.

The Trustees held a special meeting Monday night for the purpose of confirming McEwen's appointment, which was recommended by Supervisor Lindsay.

centennial anniversary of Debussy's birth as well.

Under the direction of conductor Wayne Dunlap, the orchestra will play Prelude to "The Afternoon of a Faun," from the pen of Debussy, and Suite from "Petrouchka" by Stravinsky. The program also includes works by Pergolesi and by Brahms.

"Symphony No. 1" is the title of the selection from Brahms, while the Pergolesi selection is "Concertini for String Orchestra."

Sitter service for children over 2 years of age will be provided by a Plymouth Girl Scout Troop.

There are 15 new orchestra members this year in the 100-piece ensemble, including two youngsters from Plymouth. They are Robin Wideman and Betsy Williams, both recent "graduates" of the Plymouth Junior Symphony.

Theatre Guild Meets Monday

The Plymouth Theatre Guild will have its regular November meeting Monday, Nov. 12, at 8 p.m. in the Annex Auditorium of the High School.

The Apprentice Players will provide the entertainment for the evening with a sketch from "West Side Story" which they have adapted themselves.

Refreshments will be served following the business meeting. All Guild members as well as local residents interested in theater production are urged to attend.

Backstage workers are needed for the current production of "A Mighty Man Is He," now in rehearsal.

Howe, a former teacher in the Plymouth system, was appointed as a half-day reading instructor at Starkweather, and Suzanne Hylard, an Albion graduate and a teacher in Illinois recently, was named to fill a first grade vacancy at Smith School.

The Board approved the removal of a fence near Junior High West along Sheldon Rd. It poses a safety problem to youngsters walking to school from Plymouth Colony subdivision. Spokesman for the subdivision residents was Martin Stiglick, a member of the Community Improvement Assn.

Authorization was given the Wally Byam Caravan Club, Inc. to park some 200 mobile home trailers on a site near Junior High East during the weekend of the 1963 Fall Festival here.

Plymouthite Harold Shirey, president of the Michigan unit of the club, made the request by letter and his wife represented him at the Monday night meeting.

Election

Township governing posts are partisan ones.

Nominating petitions must be filed by 4 p.m. Dec. 31. No fewer than 40 signatures of registered Township electors may appear on the petitions and no more than 155.

C. V. Sparks is the trustee whose term expires. He is expected to run again.

Two other Trustee seats will also become available, both of which are newly-created. Of the three Trustee terms involved, two are for four-year sessions and the other is for two years. Again, the winning candidate with the fewest votes will fill the two-year term.

There is no limit as to the number of terms — or years — that a Township Board of Trustees member may serve.

Incumbent constables are Donald King, Robert Burns, Gene Leader and Richard Powell. The Township justice-of-the-peace is George Howell, highway commissioner is Frank Millington, and Walter K. Sumner is the member of the Board of Review whose post comes up for election.

BY GEORGE SPELVIN

Slipping out to Cementville for a quick November holiday, George renewed acquaintanceships with some of his former actor and director friends. New York city, the mecca for all theater folk, has that special aura that glows, blinks, and generally sputters so incandescently. Bright lights, crowds, and more characters wander aimlessly in the Times Square area than any other metropolis.

My stay was only for a few days. I barely had time to absorb all the magic of the great White Way. From my hotel room on the twelfth floor the Belasco Theater jutted prominently into view. Sam Levene was playing in "Seidman and Son." Took the opportunity to see Sam in this heart-warming play that has not only hundreds of humorous lines but a great deal of humanity in its script.

Went backstage and talked with Sam after the show. Mr. Levene and I share the unusual distinction of having done the same role in two different cities. Years ago I had the opportunity to do the stage manager's part in "Here Comes Mr. Jordan" for the Plymouth Theater Guild. Levene did this role on Broadway. Asked Sam when he was going to come out on the road. We'd like to see him in the Detroit area. Mr. Levene indicated that he was New York born, bred, and is situated there for the next fifty years if he has anything to say about the matter. Guess if you want to see Mr. Levene you'll have to catch him at the Belasco Theater during the next eight or nine months.

Dropped down to the Brooks Atkinson Theater where Sidney Kingsley's "Night Life" comedy drama was unfolding on stage. An old friend of mine was waiting backstage for his wife-to-be, Salome Jens.

Ralph Meeker was that friend. Ralph and I attended Northwestern University together and we used to waste time quite regularly in the Speech school lounge trying to outdo each other in the matter of ad lib humor. To try and top each other we would use all types of weird dialects.

Ralph didn't finish his college career. He departed for a theatrical career early. "Picnic," the William Inge drama, was his first big hit. A TV series "Gun For Hire" gave him additional exposure. Occasionally you will see him on the TV tube in a special drama. Right now Ralph is getting ready to play a new role: a married man. Ralph and Miss Jens will marry on a Christmas Day. The wife and I had an enjoyable visit with them. Mildred counselled them sagely since she spoke from 23 years of experience. It was her contention that many times the marital knot might become a bit frayed and fraught with problems. Ralph assured us such friendly advice would be followed.

Met Vincent Donohue backstage at the Royale Theater while he was putting the east through a final run-through preparatory to opening to a special pre-view audience. "Lord Pengo," the S. N. Behrman comedy-drama on the exciting life of the art dealer, Lord Duveen, opens for critical examination on November 19.

My visit with "Vinnie," as he is affectionately called by members of the cast, had been arranged by my good friend Cliff Hall. Cliff and I had done a TV interview when he was in Detroit about a fortnight ago.

One of my first questions was to check on why he had added the tall, collapsible screens at the rear of the set in Act II and III art gallery scenes.

I had a theory about this that I had broached to my wife. It was my feeling that these were an added directorial touch used to vary the background and give the actors an opportunity to make some strong exits. An actor in a huff and a hurry could dramatize his disturbed condition by swinging shut the door-like shutter of the screens. Vinnie agreed that these were his "brainchild."

They were a bit larger than he had expected, but I was perfectly right in assuming what their purpose was to have been. Old George felt good about coming so close in assessing a theatrical technique. In Detroit, Mr. Mossman in his review of the show had been bothered by the screens and he couldn't determine why they were there.

No wonder many times in his reviews Mr. Mossman jumps off the deep end and misses in his total evaluation of the worth of a production. "Lord Pengo" looked a bit better at the Royal Theater, the little that I saw as the rehearsal was coming to an end that afternoon. A six month's advance sale will keep Miss Moorehead and Mr. Boyer busy until next spring. Who knows maybe New York is in the mood for a conversation piece about art and art dealers?

Dropped in at the Radio City Hall for a quick movie and stage show. A visit to the number one showplace in the nation is always in order when you visit New York. Seldom are you let down by the Music Hall management. Even though the stage show was spectacular in its concept, it didn't seem to quite jell. The Barbados Police Band was the main attraction in a stage production that was honoring these enchanted islands in the Caribbean Sea. All the stage magic (giant steamers steaming across the stage, Telesat flying through the air over the edge of the world, and an enormous TV screen—40 or 50 feet high and wide) built the audience up to such a climax that you expected Fidel Castro to step out on the stage, wave a white flag, and cry "Arriba Dirty Shirt."

The movie, "Gypsy" with Roz Russell more than made up for the slowness of the stage production. "Gypsy" as you will recall was the Ethel Merman stage vehicle. Roz handles the songs in a husky soft, insinuating manner that lets you absorb the beautiful lyrics and gain their full dramatic import.

Toward the end of the show when La Russell is required to really "belt out" the final song, she struggles valiantly, but she never will be able to come up to Merman's standards. And at that she settles for more dramatics in the final song than she does shouting melody. All in all, though, the movie version has a great deal to offer.

Old George felt it was a better translation screen-wise than "The Music Man."

The Michigan Crippled Children Commission was the first state agency of its kind to conduct, in cooperation with the State Department of Public Instruction, a therapy workshop for persons serving physically handicapped children at hospitals and schools, and these workshops have won national acclaim.

As I type the last paragraph, the hills of Plymouth hover into view, a most welcome sight. New York may claim to be first and greatest in many instances, but Plymouth is "home," and the heart is truly where the home is.

THE BILLBOARD
(Week of November 14-21)
Vanguard Theater — "THE EGG" delightful intellectual comedy that Dick Shawn played on Broadway flips its way into Detroit on Nov. 21.
United Artists Theater — "MUTINY ON THE BOUNTY" Long-awaited sea epic with Marlo Brando playing the old Charlie Laughton part. Opens on Nov. 21 to sail the Detroit high seas. Fisher Theater — "I CAN GET IT WHOLESALÉ" Smash musical about problems in the New York garment industry now finishing out a week's run. Larry Kert does a terrific job. "OLIVER" London musical hit will open on Nov. 19 for a three week run... prior to its December opening in New York. This musical version of "Oliver Twist" is a real winner. Shubert Theater — "THE JACKIE MASON SHOW" Latest refugee from the TV tube to appear in person. His comic style has wide appeal. Will be here for one week.

DEMOLISHED last week was a building on Ann Arbor Rd. that at one time housed a garage for Plymouth's only bus service, the Plymouth Coach Line. The building was razed to make room for a new Beyer Rexall Drug Store here. Owner Robert Beyer said that a contract for the new building was to have been awarded this week and construction on the one-story, colonial-styled store will begin immediately. He expects to occupy the store in February, and will close out his other drug store on Ann Arbor Rd. The new building will be "half again as large" as the Beyer Rexall store at Main and Mill St. here, Beyer said. The scene above, showing Louis Norman on the ladder, was photographed mid-way during demolition work last week. Uncovered steel roof girders make a strange pattern against the clear sky, as Norman surveys the work.

Local Teachers Participate in Area II Meet

Michigan's Department of Classroom Teachers, Area II, opened the year's activities with a highly successful dinner meeting at the Ferry School, Grosse Pointe, on Oct. 22.

Mrs. Elizabeth Donnelly, Plymouth, Area Director, outlined briefly the area of activity planned for the year. Mrs. Mercedes Jacobs, Grosse Pointe, Program Chairman, introduced Mrs. Mel Leasure, Madison Hts.

In a short speech, Leasure pointed out the urgency of prompt preparation and adoption of a code of Ethics by the M.E.A.

This is a prerequisite to proposal and passage of the Professional Practices Act by the Michigan Legislature. The Act would establish teaching legally as a profession as are 23 other occupations in Michigan.

The general meeting divided into six discussion groups under the guidance of Virginia Johnston. Topics were: "How to Improve Reading Instruction," "Creative Writing Techniques," "How to Improve Listening," "Use of T.V.," "Oral Communication," "How to Create a Climate for Learning." By using the positive approach these discussions proved both stimulating and helpful.

Plymouth was well represented by Mrs. Donnelly, Area II Director, Cynthia Baker, state delegate, acting as recorder, J. Arthur Mulligan, P.E.A. president, Bertha Anderson, Joyce Finkbeiner, Lucille Finkbeiner, area delegates, and Kathryn Bock representing the South Michigan Assn. of Teacher's Clubs.

Florence Lathers, Area II secretary, and Edith Robb, both Livonia teachers who make their homes in Plymouth, also attended.

More than 2,700 licensed motor carriers serving Michigan make the state a national hub of truck transportation.

Starlight Ball Plans Enter Final Phase

With the Plymouth Symphony Starlight Ball only three weeks away, co-chairmen, Mrs. Gene Gulbransen and Mrs. Donald Graham are busy at work as planning activities move into the final phase.

Tickets for the annual affair, to be held Saturday, Dec. 1, from 9:30 to 12:30 in the multi-purpose room of Junior High East, are priced at $4 per couple. They may be obtained from Melody House, Salem Bestly, and Mrs. Fred Foust (GL 3-2220). Due to size limitations at Junior High-East, sale of tickets will be limited to 200.

Music for the evening will be furnished by Les Shaw's Orchestra. While Shaw and his orchestra have not previously performed at a Symphony Ball here, many Detroit area events in recent years have featured the group. The group has appeared at the Detroit Yacht Club, Birmingham Country Club and the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club.

Door prizes will be awarded at 10 p.m., according to Mrs. George Hudson, publicity chairman.

Familiar Faces

If you happen to be walking near Ross St. and hear bipes, you are undoubtedly near the home of Mrs. David H. Agnew, at 1200 Ross St. Born in Lochalsh, Ontario, of Scottish descent, Mrs. Agnew has been a "girl Friday" at Carl Caplin Clothes for the past five years.

Prior to joining Caplin's full-time she would help Mr. Caplin out from time to time, plus helping her husband in their store, Agnew Jewelers. Interested in most all sports and travelling, Mrs. Agnew moved to Plymouth from Detroit in 1949.

For relaxation, "when she has time," she likes to knit—in the past she has made pillows, afghans, etc.—listen to Scottish and popular music, and read, particularly books of a historical or geographical nature.

Colors that catch the eye of Mrs. Agnew include all shades of brown, and shades of aqua and green.

Mrs. Agnew has three children: two sons, John, 25, and David, who is a junior at Plymouth High School, and a daughter, Mary, who lives and works in Chicago.

Art Around Us:

by Mrs. Jessie Hudson

There is a giant step in the history of art from prehistoric and primitive art, to that of the cradle of civilization, Egypt. The art between has apparently been ground to powder, swept off in an iceflow or is hidden away in some secret treasure store yet uncovered.

Egyptian art is interesting to us because it is so different from our own in perspective and proportion. The Egyptian believed that "You can take it with you" and so recorded every material possession he believed he could transport with him into the even better world to come after death. He ordered inscribed on his tombs all the wheat, jewels, wives and slaves that he had amassed on this earth. Slaves were drawn in profile but show both arms and both legs too, have a two-dimensional appearance with only one arm or foot wouldn't be able to get much work done. Important personages were drawn much larger than anyone else (status symbol) and their idea of perspective was to put everything that was off in space up on a higher baseline. Their art is extremely decorative two dimensional design.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS-AT-HEART
By MELVIN L. WOELL, MGR.
INFORMATION DIVISION
MICHIGAN FARM BUREAU

Why are Americans surprised when a Communist acts like a Communist? Why flinch and appear startled when new evidence appears that the Reds intend to do exactly what they've always said they would do if they had half a chance?

Cuba, for instance. One got the impression that the buildup of super-armorament in Cuba by the Soviets was something less than what could normally be expected, that in fact, the State Department, the Defense Department, the President himself, were "shocked" because such actions were something less than fair.

Since when have Godless Communists played "fair"? And while we're examining the obvious, why must farmers be first to point out the obvious? Why not the communications industry, the educators, the politicians who make great shows of protecting our interests?

For more than two years, Michigan farmers looked at what had happened to Cuban farmers and asked for action. Why a protected sugar "quota" to Cuba, a nation which had nationalized the farming, and sugar industry?

A full year ago, the Michigan arm Bureau adopted a resolution asking for an arms embargo against all Communist countries, and questioned the advisability of extending further aid to any country controlled by a Communist dictator.

Michigan farmers waged a ceaseless campaign to point out what it means to have a Communist country 90 miles from our own. More than 100,000 Michigan residents have seen one or more documented film reports during the past year, showing the encirclement of America through the world-wide spread of Communist activities.

The effort was spearheaded by the Michigan Farm Bureau, assisted by the American Legion and militant church and civic groups. Yet Michigan's Governor John B. Swanson called it "scare talk,"—branded it as "Defeatism." He refused to allow Michigan State Police to participate in the showings.

So now suddenly, Cuba is a big threat. Suddenly Cuba is part of Russia's scheme to bury us, alive or dead. Now they tell us. So what else is new?

Michigan is growing in air transportation with 140 licensed airports and is served by 17 domestic and overseas airlines.

With the coming holidays our thoughts will be ones of tinsel, holly and of course that "just-right" gift for those near the top of our Christmas list. To keep in step with Santa and make your job an easy one, your Christmas Gift Consultant at the Telephone office has a "stealth-full" of gift ideas that will make your shopping a merry experience. Two exciting gifts are the Princess telephone for your favorite teenager, and the bell chimes for those new homeowners. There are lots more — so why not call your business office, 551-9900.

TAKE A TURKEY with all the trimmings, add the family 'round the table, and what do you have? A Happy Thanksgiving! But even if someone in the family can't be with you, there's one sure way to keep the day joyful. A Long Distance telephone call, of course. It's the next best thing to being together... spreads holiday cheer at both ends of the line. Rates are lower all Thanksgiving Day and, on calls within Michigan, lowest after 9 p.m. when you can call any place within the state for 50 cents or less, excluding taxes.

DOWN WITH RUST! Michigan Bell has recently developed a new rustproofing method for its 4,600 trucks and cars. The new method is designed to prevent car rust caused by corrosives used on icy streets. Developed by our motor equipment maintenance people, the process uses a new protective coating on metal surfaces and is expected to save $40,000 a year in the operation of our motor fleet. It's another Michigan Bell cost-cutting technique that helps us keep the price of telephone service low.

High Stakes Involved in City Hall Project Here

By Jerome O'Neil

As others reflected last week on the outcome of the 1962 general election, a small circle of City officials continued to hold their breath — at least figuratively — while awaiting some word from the federal government on City of Plymouth's request for funds for a new City Hall.

It boiled down to a "high stakes" guessing game.

No one, least of all Mayor Robert Sincock, who helped spearhead the application for federal support of the proposed City Hall, would wager on Plymouth's chances for an affirmative response from authorities in the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Not only were City officials on tenterhooks regarding the proposed colonial-styled City Hall, but they also were concerned from the standpoint of two other major public works improvement projects proposed here.

One involves a 3-million-gallon water reservoir — the City's second water storage facility in nearly half a century — along Beck Rd. near Six Mile.

The other — and the third aspect of "high hopes" here — concerns an extensive water transmission system improvement program, whereby the City's existing water supply lines could be modernized, expanded and generally brought up to a more serviceable level under today's requirements.

(It is ranked lowest according to priority on the three-item list, however.)

The realization of at least two of the projects — if not all three — hinges heavily on the answer Mayor Sincock expects to receive within the very near future from federal authorities of the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Only the water reservoir appears as a solid prospect, regardless of the outcome of the requests for federal financial assistance.

Sincock, himself, has urged that the City go through with plans on the reservoir, whatever may be the reply from federal authorities.

He has stated, too that the proposed new City Hall "could not be built without federal help."

Whether the extensive improvements to the City's water transmission lines could be achieved without federal aid is open to conjecture. It is very much in the "doubtful" category, however.

Cost of that program is figured at $336,000, and it was included in the three federal applications for aid that the City submitted three weeks ago to the Chicago regional office of the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

"We must go ahead on the water reservoir regardless," Sincock has said, "because there is a pressing need for additional water storage facilities here right this moment."

The reservoir project has no immediate-bearing on Detroit's intentions to extend a County-wide water supply system into this area by 1965 or so. In fact, a reservoir along Beck Rd. would definitely serve to the advantage of City of Plymouth when Detroit's plans begin to materialize.

But this is all ahead of us.

An interesting series of past events served to place City officials in a position now of anxious waiting over the status of the three federal requests.

The events culminated on Friday, Oct. 26, when Sincock, City Clerk Joseph Near and City Attorney Edward Draugelis flew to Chicago to file the applications.

They spent two hours approximately with an assistant administrator for the HHFA, which handles requests from municipalities for federal aid under the Community Facilities Administration and the recently-passed Accelerated Public Works Act.

When the three men departed late that afternoon — it was all business for them and no pleasure in Chicago — they had left behind applications totaling $1,142,000.

Favorable action on the part of the federal government could bring some $571,000 into the hands of City officials here — a total that would be free and clear, no interest demanded, no repayment required.

Only requirement would be that the City put up a like amount and that the total funds be used for the three stated purposes, namely a new City Hall, a new water reservoir and for the improvements to the City's water transmission lines.

It is under the terms of the Accelerated Public Works Act that City of Plymouth is required to furnish "matching funds," equal to the federal allotment.

A brief look into the history of the Accelerated Public Works Act shows — as is a virtually common knowledge — that it is a direct result of the Kennedy Administration's recent efforts to combat unemployment.

Detroit — and the major part of Wayne county, along with much of Michigan — is listed as a critical area with regard to "non-temporary unemployment."

Certainly, in light of George Romney's many campaign issues, this comes as no news to residents across the state.

Under the terms of the Accelerated Public Works program, the identical portions of Michigan, which are described as "critical" regarding unemployment, have also been listed as "eligible" for federal support of municipal construction that will tend to create jobs immediately.

An appropriation for this purpose was authorized in the Area Redevelopment Act, passed by the 87th Congress May 1, 1961.

Child of the Area Redevelopment Act is the "Public Works Acceleration Act." It too, was passed by the 87th Congress, but only on Sept. 14 of this year.

It states that "Federal assistance to stimulate public works investment in order to increase employment opportunities is most urgently needed in (critical unemployment and under-employment) areas."

An appropriation for this purpose was authorized in the amount of $900,000,000, with no more than 10 per cent of the appropriation to go to any one state.

Still more recently, it was understood here that the actual appropriation was sliced to $400,000,000, with no more than 10 per cent — again — going to any one state.

With the money on the table top, and even before that moment, communities across the nation — many, many from Michigan — were rushing to make application for federal aid. (Several in the Detroit area, including Farmington, have already received approval.)

It was entirely understandable. The money is being granted to eligible municipalities with very few strings attached.

Plymouth City, Plymouth Township, the Township of Canton — and others nearby — quickly have gotten in line.

Here, the City had been kicking around thoughts of a new City Hall for more than half a decade. The present one was built in 1878 and has since become crowded and much out-of-date.

Similar thoughts had been given to a new water reservoir. The consideration of a water transmission improvement project was a late-comer on the City's planning tables.

(If there are those here who are wondering why the Plymouth Community School District hasn't explored the possibility of a grant through the PWAA, the answer is a simple one: School construction is excluded from use of PWAA funds.)

CITY HALL, built in 1878, looks like this today. View is toward library (extreme right). City officials are pondering the future of this same area, hopeful that federal funds will enable them to build a new municipal building here.

Another aspect of the Acceleration Act requires that the local participation of a public works project (to be accelerated) must represent a "net increase" in total expenditure for capital improvements by the municipality during the fiscal year.

There is an example of this — which is strikingly similar to City of Plymouth's circumstances — in a booklet printed by the federal government on the Accelerated Public Works program.

Quoting word-for-word: "A community has already budgeted $100,000 for capital improvements which do not include a much-needed water and sewer system."

"Taking advantage of the Accelerated Public Works program, the community initiates an additional $100,000 water and sewer project, with 50 per cent of the funds coming from the federal government."

"The community's $50,000 share, therefore, represents a net increase in its total expenditures for the fiscal year."

The situation locally is indeed similar. The City had previously budgeted $20,000 — not an auspicious amount, but it had indeed been set aside — for construction of a new City Hall at some moment well in the future.

At any point in time, revenue bonds could be issued to raise much more for this purpose, but the City, up to this past summer, had been in no great hurry.

Meanwhile, City Commissioners had earlier been exploring thoughts of building a water reservoir here to go with the 40-odd-year-old one located on Reservoir Drive off Northville Rd.

While no money had been put aside for this purpose, there is on hand certain surplus funds that could be applied to such a project.

With the news of the federal okay on the Accelerated program, City Commissioners set to work with alacrity on the City Hall and reservoir.

Size of the proposed reservoir was placed at three million gallons, considerably larger than the existing one.

A Municipal Building Authority was formed for the City Hall project. Its duties include the actual issuance of revenue bonds and legal possession of the building for the duration of the life of the bonds themselves.

(At that time, the City Hall would be turned over to the City officially; meanwhile the authority serves as "land-lord.")

Plans were drawn up for the reservoir by the City's consulting engineering firm. Simultaneously, the City obtained an option on a possible site for the reservoir.

An architectural firm was retained for the City Hall plans and preliminary sketches and drawings were prepared.

On a recent Monday night, City Commissioners agreed to submit an application for federal aid on the water reservoir. During the same evening, Commissioners heard a report on suggested improvements in the City's water transmission system.

During the course of the following day, it became apparent that the City could submit applications not only on the water reservoir, but on the City Hall and water improvement project as well.

That evening, Tuesday, Oct. 23, the Commission in an unprecedented nine-minute special session authorized the mayor, City clerk and City attorney to journey to Chicago the following Friday and submit the requests.

Cost of the City Hall was figured at $518,000 with an extra $65,000 needed for land acquisition. The reservoir was estimated at $288,000. The water improvement project was pegged at $336,000.

Land acquisition for the City Hall is not included in federal Accelerated Works assistance.

With $20,000 on hand for the City Hall, the City will have to issue no more than $240,000 in revenue bonds to meet its "matching funds" requirement, should approval on that project be granted. The amount of the bonds could be as low as $200,000.

No increase in taxes would be required.

The revenue bonds — probably to be issued for a 40-year period — will be retired through normal budgeting procedures, on the same order whereby the City has set aside $10,000 annually for two years to accumulate the initial amount of $20,000.

The City will pay a "lease-rent" to the Municipal Building Authority for the privilege of occupying the new colonial-styled City Hall. The "lease-rent" will be applied against the amount of the revenue bonds.

Eventually, the bond issue will be retired.

In the case of the water reservoir, existing funds will help the City meet approximately one-half of its "matching funds" stipulation. (The City's total matching funds share will be about $145,000, with half of this coming from water department funds now on hand.)

Revenue bonds for the remainder of the City's share will be used to raise the approximate $70,000 additional that will be required. Again there would be tax boost involved, City officials assert.

These bonds, too, will be retired through normal budgeting procedures.

Along the same order, revenue bonds will be needed to obtain the City's matching funds for the water improvement project and here again no increase in taxes would result.

Within reason, there is no foreseeable limit to the amount of bonds that the Municipal Building Authority could issue to finance the new City Hall.

But that is a separate legal aspect, and somewhat apart from the City's other two projects.

The City itself, according to a report from Manager Albert Glassford, is able to issue up to $400,000 in revenue bonds at present, without exceeding its maximum limits. (He earlier had gained confirmation of this from the City's bonding attorneys.)

And since, the City's total need — as far as revenue bonds are concerned for only the new reservoir and water transmission improvements — is some $253,000, well within the maximum bonding limits, no problem in financing the projects locally is anticipated.

(Strangely, the Municipal Building Authority — a creation of the City and an extension of the City Commission — is not restricted, nor even considered, where the City's own maximum bonding limits are concerned.)

Since the new City Hall will undoubtedly become a focal point of the community and because the City in recent years has been striving to build a definite overall colonial theme, Commissioners immediately knew that only this style of architecture would suffice for the new structure.

It was this stand that prompted Mayor Sincock last week to lash out at critics who have questioned the Commission's choice of architecture for the new municipal building.

"How could City officials and community leaders continue to encourage the colonial theme if the biggest and presumably the most important structure in the City were anything else," he said.

"It would bring all of our previous efforts at colonial/image-building to a sudden halt and leave Plymouth in the same class as it was before."

"The City would simply become just one more community in a big jumble of other communities," he added. "We'd lose all of the personal identity that we've managed to create."

As an added footnote to the City Hall, it was explained by one spokesman recently that the City's treasury actually would save approximately $260,000 if the new municipal structure materializes.

"There is no question that the City needs a new municipal headquarters," the spokesman said. "It's only a matter of how and when, and whether now or later."

Eventually, it was pointed out, the City of Plymouth must build a new City Hall. By building now, the argument went, the federal government — presumably — will support one-half of the construction costs.

"That's some $260,000 that the City won't have to spend," he concluded.

One other footnote of related interest to the community is the City's efforts to improve its Downtown business district through expanded parking facilities.

Informal groups of businessmen have been exploring ways of financing a "Pen-nan - Main St. - Fralick St." expanded parking lot. Commissioners, too, have touched on the problem with a good bit of serious thought.

One possibility is found in the hopes that federal aid for this, too, will become

A technical formality, outlined in a recent letter to the City from HHFA will delay somewhat a final decision by the federal government on the application for federal funds to support the proposed City Hall here.

In accordance with a request from HHFA, the Municipal Building Authority here must submit its own application for federal assistance of the new municipal structure. The City's own earlier application will be set aside.

The request from HHFA stems from the fact that the Building Authority — and not the City itself — is the legal body that will oversee the proposed City Hall project here.

available — through the 18-month-old Area Redevelopment Act, which has since spawned the Accelerated Public Works Act.

Consideration has been given to an approach that would require the City to form a Municipal Parking Authority, much of the lines of the Municipal Building Authority that is an enabling group regarding the proposed City Hall.

Then, the Parking Authority could apply to the Area Redevelopment Administration for either a loan or grant to support the parking lot project.

"If this does not work out," says Don Kohler, a field coordinator for the AREA City "should apply to the Community Facilities Administration under the new Public Works Program."

Either way, it will be a most difficult program to achieve, because the majority of the project's costs are tied up in land acquisition and the latter is not provided for under the terms of the Accelerated Public Works program.

Which brings us to the present, as City authorities — and residents, too — anxiously await first word on three applications that could bring the City of Plymouth more than half a million dollars.

It all seems well worth waiting for.

"SONG OF HIAWATHA"

Michigan is rich in Indian lore. Longfellow's "Song of Hiawatha" has immortalized legends of the Chippewas and other Upper Michigan tribes. Its Gitche Gumme locale is the Lake Superior area of northern Michigan. The Upper Peninsula is known as the Land of Hiawatha. Longfellow drew his information for the poem, published in 1855, from Henry Schoolcraft, Indian historian and scientist, who lived at Sault Ste. Marie.

ALTHOUGH THEY WON'T be in their football uniforms for Our Lady of Good Counsel's third annual athletic banquet, Sunday, Nov. 18, these two OLCG gridders most certainly will be on hand for the event. One of the reasons is that a well-known sports world personality is expected to make a guest appearance. In any event, the banquet is Nov. 18 at 6 p.m. at the OLCG church hall. The public is invited, according to general chairman John Ennis. A maximum of 300 tickets will be sold and may be obtained from Ennis or Thomas Boyne, and at the school. Proceeds will go toward the OLCG athletic fund. From left above are: guard Glenn Soleau; Mrs. Michael Hunt, dinner chairman; Bob Resch, left halfback; and Mrs. Bernard McMahon, who is in charge of arrangements. The banquet is a "family-style" affair.

Rocks Termed "Promising" As Cage Campaign Nears

The Rocks will have three non-league games to iron out the wrinkles before Plymouth enters the Suburban Six league basketball race at Redford Union Dec. 14. Plymouth's chances in the league are described as "promising."

Charlie Ketterer, erstwhile cage coach for the Rocks, intends to lead his squad to an improved record over last year's fifth-place conference finish on the strength of a 4-6 record.

Overall, a year ago, the Rocks were 6-9.

While only four returning letter-winners grace Ketterer's practice roster these days — and only one of those four was a regular a year ago — Plymouth's coach expects to gain added strength from several former JayVee players.

Only senior guard Dick Schryer represents battle-tested experience in the Rocks' line-up, but center Dave Jensen, guard Bob Steele and guard Andy Salan saw a fair amount of duty with the varsity during 1961-62 and should help measurably.

New faces on the varsity list this year include forward Dick Egloff, guard Doug Sutherland, and center Bill Nelson. All are juniors.

They were steady performers on the JayVee team a year ago when Dick Bearup's junior varsity record was 7-8.

Among his returning lettermen, Ketterer may be mean Plymouth's lack of height. Jensen, at 6-foot-3, is Plymouth's tallest player with any experience behind him.

Schryer is 6-foot-1. Steele stands 6-foot-0, and Salan is 5-foot-7.

An array of other candidates will lend depth of Ketterer's varsity team this year, however. And most of them were players on the JayVee squad a year ago.

Steve Ward and Pat McKenna are the only really new faces. Both are transfer students, but have had cage experience in the past. Ward is from Illinois and McKenna — although originally from here — returns to Plymouth High from Ohio this year.

Others on the varsity prospect list are: Bruce Berry, Tom McGill, Frank Gulbrandsen, Chris Gaffield and Jim Lambert. Gaffield and Gulbrandsen by 10 points.

Plymouth lost twice to Ypsi last year, once in the opener by five points and again in the Class A district tourney by 10 points.

Plymouth, interesting, defeated Bentley in one of the schools' two meetings last year. It was the first time in five seasons.

All three of the teams that Ketterer listed as contenders this year boast tall returning veterans and an array of previous letterwinners. An excellent Jay Vee team a year ago is expected to help both RU and Bentley.

Bentley, incidentally, has a 6-foot-6 Bill Bolin among its returnees. Height will presumably help Belleville as well. Frank Nunley a 6-foot-4 center, is a key to Belleville's hopes, as is hustling Chuck Cabana, who has good potential.

The Rocks open the season Nov. 30 when Ypsilanti comes to town. Ypsi, too, should have a talented first string with four of its top five players back from 1961-62.

Now Have 68 Dual Meet Wins Victory No. 100 Stands as Possibility As Swimmers Prepare for New Season

Plymouth's varsity swimmers, ready to embark on two weeks on their 1962-63 season, might do well to put their sights as high as possible this year.

For, with the right kind of winning combination, the Rocks could achieve their 100th dual meet victory since adding swimming to the sports curriculum in 1952-53.

As the local tankers undergo conditioning practices in the pool at the high school these days, they may be aware that Plymouth boasts a remarkable 86-42-2 dual-meet mark and a winning percentage of .767.

With a 16-meet regular season schedule awaiting them, Plymouth's swimmers could conceivably hit the 100-victory mark on Feb. 21 when Bentley High hosts the Rocks.

It's a tall order for John McFall's tankers, not just because it would require Plymouth to win at least 14 of 16 meets this winter either.

More difficult — but most certainly related to that goal — is the fact that Plymouth would have to overcome as tough an opening series of meets as the Rocks have ever eyed.

On Nov. 29, Lincoln Park comes to town to inaugurate the 1962-63 campaign. Then, on Dec. 6, Birmingham will entertain the Rocks, Redford Union is here Dec. 13 and awesome Ann Arbor visits Dec. 15.

While things could be tougher for Plymouth in its opening four dual meets, an observer would be inclined to wonder how much tougher it could possibly get.

A year ago, Plymouth compiled an 11-4 dual meet record and gained second place in the Suburban Six league championship meet. Trenton was first.

"We have a rough schedule," admitted swimming coach John McFall last week. "With Lincoln Park as the opponent in the opener, we've got our work cut out for us."

A year ago, Plymouth barely managed to squeak by the Parkers.

"Lincoln Park is pretty tough, all the time," McFall conceded.

And then comes Birmingham. Birmingham was co-holder of the state Class A swimming crown last year and has most of its championship team on hand again this season.

While Redford Union may provide the Rocks with a breather, following Birmingham, the thoughts of facing Ann Arbor High after RU will keep the Plymouth swimmers on edge, undoubtedly.

Ann Arbor was third in the state meet a year ago and it, too, has most of the 1961-62 team returning this season.

Michaelis, who led the Rocks in individual scoring in his senior year, is now at Ohio State University on a scholarship. McFall has described Michaelis as the "best backstroke Plymouth has ever had."

Schrader, a sprinter, and Bender, a backstroke, both are counted as severe losses in Plymouth's bid to regain the league championship that it narrowly missed winning last year when Trenton nosed out the Rocks in the league meet by five points.

Interestingly, Gary Gould, who is among Plymouth's returning lettermen, trailed only Michaelis in individual scoring a year ago.

Other faces that will be missed this winter include Tom Hoffman, who gave Plymouth good depth in the backstroke.

McFall, in his 13th year on the Plymouth High staff and entering his 11th as swim coach, listed the Rocks' weak points.

"The loss of Barry Corwin and Dick Taylor leave us short in the butterfly, we'll have trouble in the distance events and it's doubtful that we'll be able to replace Michaelis' overall versatility," he said.

Meanwhile, Plymouth athletic director John Sandmann announced some minor changes in the Rocks swim schedule.

The state swimming meet will be March 15 and 16 in East Lansing, instead of March 8 and 9 as originally intended.

Hal Kuisel, a junior guard, Caleb Luibrand, a junior forward, and Ralph Grady, also a junior forward, complete Ketterer's 18-man roster. He will dress about 15 for each game, he said.

In all, 19 candidates turned out for Ketterer's first practice session last week. One dropped off since then.

While graduation deprives the Rocks of the services of Eloy Menchaca and Dan Stremick and several other tested players, another loss has cropped up that was unexpected.

Jerry Kisabeth, a forward and well-used on the JayVees squad a year ago, will miss two months of the current season with an injured hand. He was a leading scorer for Bearup during 1961-62.

There were 24 sophomores out for first practice, including both those that have since stayed with the varsity and those that have been moved to the present junior varsity list.

Allen Park was the Suburban Six league champ a year ago with a 9-1 conference mark.

"As far as the league is concerned this season," Ketterer said, "I consider Redford Union, Bentley and Belleville to be the top three contenders."

Well, things are about wound up on most of the fronts of interest today and perhaps the way is cleared for a sumptuous Thanksgiving and an especially Merry Christmas. The Cuban situation seems in hand and whether we acted soon enough or not is now a matter of plain conjecture and that decision must be left for future historians to determine. At any rate, seemingly, the present threat to our daily living seems over. From this flurry of concern, however, comes the thought that perhaps all of us might take some heed to our government's warning to make some preparation in our homes in case one day stray missiles might come flying our way.

A crude shelter in the basement and a stock of suggested supplies, just in case, today apparently makes more sense than it did six weeks ago. With the stepped up Civil Defense activity no doubt we'll hear more of this during the days ahead.

My tedious hours of recuperation from the probings of University Hospital specialists also seem almost at an end and perhaps by the time you are reading this I can again be back on a full time schedule down on Main street. No matter how much one worries while ailing it is always amazing how well an organization can function without you, and certainly mine showed no quarter in proving that they could do their job just as well with or without the boss.

Locally, our residents resolved the Liquor-by-the-glass question for another four years. Areas within the city where you would normally expect support turned it down, and well over 300 people who visited the polls chose to ignore it completely on their ballots. This reminds me of a saying prevalent in the Legislature which was this, "If you don't vote on any question, that automatically becomes a NO vote."

Therefore, considering that axiom, local voters turned the proposal down by about 400 votes.

There seems general approval of the election of George Romney to the Governor's office. I, too, was on his band wagon, not because he calls himself a Republican but mainly because he conducted his campaign as an independent and will, I expect, act accordingly in the days ahead. Many Republican candidates were critical of his lack of interest in the Republican teams around the state and in a way I don't blame them.

However, if Michigan is to again regain its position as one of this nation's great states it will take the complete harmony of both parties in Lansing to

Michigan Math Contest Slated Dec. 13 at PHS

A "Michigan Mathematics Prize Contest" will be administered at Plymouth High on Dec. 13, according to guidance counselor Mike Hoben.

Applications for the contest are being received in Hoben's guidance office at the senior high school up to Nov. 16, he added.

To be eligible, the participant must be a student attending a Michigan high school. There is a 50 cent fee that is required in order to cover the cost of mailing and grading the tests, Hoben said.

Approximately $2,000 in scholarships will be awarded by the colleges sponsoring the contest. Parents may obtain further information on the event by consulting their child's counselor.

do the job. The fact that the administrative board is all Democratic is actually of little importance as far as correcting most of our ills.

My personal concern now is whether the leaders in the Senate and the House, Republicans that is, will support Mr. Romney's programs for improvement. In the past 14 years they have defied the Democratic Governors at almost every turn as far as constructive legislation has been concerned. Should they continue this policy, because they sincerely haven't chosen Romney as a solid Republican leader, we will again be in for another two years of stalemate and patch-work taxation.

However, if the Republican lawmakers and most of the Democratic lawmakers are sincerely interested in making Michigan a better place in which to live and work I personally feel there is opportunity at hand. We look for Mr. Romney to make some important appointments from the Democratic party as well as Republican in an endeavor to congeal a new kind of harmony in Lansing. He has stated he is ready and willing to work with both parties and will listen to all. No question but what this is a refreshing approach, and we'll not be surprised to see a new high in cooperation from all concerned during the months ahead when the Legislature is in session. At least we hope so.

Belated congratulations are in order to George Lawton for the fine performance turned in during the last two years as president of the Chamber of Commerce. His accomplishments will be hard to match as will his interest in all things of benefit to our community. Fortunately his successor is capable and, too, has Plymouth's interests at heart. For John Herb we hope for a continuation of this success and predict for him an outstanding term of accomplishment in office as well.

May I use this last line to say thank you for the many interesting cards and cheerful telephone calls received during the last three weeks. It's funny how a little thoughtfulness, no matter how slight, provides such a multitude of cheer.

Letter To The Editor

Linda Horvath
42767 Phoenix Ct.
Plymouth, Michigan

Editor:
I would like to compliment you on the wonderful articles on the United Foundation fund that were printed in previous issues of the Plymouth Mail. In my opinion there couldn't have been better coverage of this issue.

However, I would like to ask why there wasn't more about UNICEF printed this year. Two years ago my girlfriend and I had our pictures in the paper and there was a large amount of advertising done on this subject.

I have inquired about this and found out that this year has had the smallest amount of money collected because not very many people knew about the collection that was being taken.

I would also like to congratulate you on the results of all the articles stressing the safety of the small children on Halloween. I am 15 and I took my sister out "Bugging". While doing so I saw many little children watching the roads before they crossed. I think maybe you finally got through to them.

Sincerely yours,
Linda Horvath

Editor's Note: Thank you, Linda, for your kind words. With regard to an absence of publicity for any local UNICEF project, the answer is a brief one: No one brought it to our attention. To the best of our knowledge, this is the first mention made publicly of a UNICEF activity aimed at raising funds here. Also, by "United Foundation Fund" we assume you refer to the "Plymouth Community Fund."

Evans Products' Railroad Group Holds Annual Marketing Meeting

Evans regional sales engineers from cities throughout the U.S. were briefed on the newest developments in damage-free shipping devices for railroad freight cars and truck and piggy-back trailers and containers recently at Evans Products Company's headquarters at Plymouth.

Please accept our sincere thanks for the support you gave us on our attempt to provide another service to our guests.

We submitted the liquor-by-the-glass proposal to our electorate in good faith and shall accept their decision accordingly. In our opinion the present condition most definitely provides a handicap in our attempting to provide the same full service to our patrons that those institutions can provide who do have this added facility. We cannot help but feel, because we happen to be located within the city limits, we are penalized by this differential in trying to compete with those outside our limits.

City Hall: A "Pell Mell Rush" for Funds

Editor: The letter by Tivadar Balogh jibing Plymouth for its pseudo-colonial architecture, plus the almost undignified haste to obtain federal funds and build a city hall, has prompted me to voice a somewhat oblique opinion on the same matter.

I have long been to believe that Republicans (and I am reminded by the Plymouth Mail's somewhat gleeful sporting that Plymouth is overwhelmingly Republican) are opposed to Federal deficit spending and a "spend, spend, spend" philosophy of Democrats. At least that is what I constantly find in the newspapers as statements by Republicans whenever there are Federal proposals to spend money for schools and higher education.

But, lo and behold, when it was learned that Plymouth could get its hands on some of that Federal money, which we all helped provide as taxpayers, there was a pell mell rush to the federal trough.

Where now are the pious public utterances about Federal budget balancing? Apparently federal spending is only wasteful when it goes to the other guy.

Further, aside from the architecture which I leave to a professional, the site for the city hall, was chosen with no regard for the future. It, too, seems to follow the thinking of the Colonial Americans that all town buildings had to be cheek-by-jowl around a town square so that people would not have to walk or ride their horses any great distance through the mire of those early settlements. Today, all Plymouthites make many more visits to the supermarket than to the city hall, yet supermarkets o-

1962 America have wisely moved away from the crowded center town to where ample parking and expansion room is available.

Apparently the thinking is that a new city hall is the beginning and end to civic thinking. There is no room for expansion beyond a few feet for some tacked-on annexes. There is obviously no thinking of a civic center which could bloom in our community in the next ten or twenty years. Perhaps we will want a civic auditorium for our symphony and theatre guild, or a youth center for our ever increasing off-springs. The logical place for all such public buildings is in a broad, planned-for civic center with city hall as an integral part.

While I am not a City of Plymouth resident, it is entirely possible that before many years the City of Plymouth will embrace much of the territory now in the Plymouth school and postal districts.

Sincerely yours,
Randy Denison

Kiwanians' Guest Speaker Tells of Intricate Computers

Byron Becker, program chairman for last week's Kiwanis meeting, presented guest speaker, Hal Becker, from General Electric Company, whose subject was "Electronic Computers."

Man first learned to count by using his ten fingers. All developments since that time have been used as a basis of ten or are said to have a base ten system. The first improvement was the Abacus.

This ancient counting board made of beads or balls sliding back and forth on wires or in slots enabled man to count up to a number larger than ten and carry forward the difference.

In 1885, W. S. Burroughs produced the first adding machine and in 1889 the first punched card system was produced. This punched card system was the basis for the founding of the International Business Machines Corporation in 1911.

Computers fall into two general categories, namely Analogue and Digital. The best example of an Analogue Computer is the automobile speedometer. It will produce a constant answer with a varying input.

The Digital Computer is extremely accurate and is most commonly used. This computer has five main parts: The input or the reading section; the memory, which is the nerve or heart of the machine; the arithmetic section, which is the section that does the actual computing; the control, which analyzes and executes; and the output or the answer section. The tremendous speed of the vacuum tube has made our modern computers more flexible.

Hal Becker who is the son of Byron Becker is employed as a programmer for one of the largest users of computers outside the United States government. A programmer must develop a flow chart which means stating the problem, determining the type of answer desired, and designing a method of solving the problem that will adapt itself to the particular computer.

One of the most important jobs in programming is debugging or correcting an error in a system. Hal Becker stated that his company was continuously striving to improve the computer and hope to have one in the not too distant future that would understand the spoken human voice and act accordingly.

The charity that hastens to proclaim its good deeds, ceases to be charity, and is only pride and ostentation.

The Professor Says...

By Ed Brown

In dealing with our own children some knowledge of child psychology helps so much in determining what to do in certain situations. Students who have difficulty adjusting to school, and to life in general, often try to get help from the counseling staff and understanding teachers concerning individual problems.

One of the chief complaints is the fact that parents compare them with other brothers or sisters, or even with the parents, in general behavior, attitudes, grades and goals.

We, as parents, should try to spread our affection equally on all our children. This is something hard to do especially if one is shy and has problems, and the others are cooperative with splendid personalities. However, our offspring are all sensitive to personal feelings and want attention and affection the same as anyone else.

One child may be intelligent and may learn things easily, while another may find learning difficult and be a little slow at "catching" on to methods. The latter may excel in some other way though — this is something one should recognize.

The thing I hear the most is that parents have had a child who received all A's and B's while another one gets mostly C's. Some parents continually remind poorer students of this fact. An individual does not like this at all, and a dislike is created between children, and also the parents, that should not have developed with proper handling.

Many times those who feel they cannot measure up to their brothers or sisters will not try as hard and do only average work. Then they feel that they have an excuse for not getting as good grades since they are not trying as hard, or do not have the time because of other things. The latter might be true to a certain extent, for the one might participate in plays, debate, athletics or school activities much more than the other.

So you see why it is so important that we know something about child psychology in dealing with our children. One cannot have an exact rule that covers all children because of individual differences in youngsters.

WHAT EVER HAPPENED TO???

The former scholar and athlete who left PHS in 1949

after having performed very well in both basketball and baseball while in high school. On the court he played all positions; while on the diamond he will be remembered as one of the best hurlers in local high school history.

He was also school mayor during his senior year and vice-mayor his junior year, and took part in school plays and other activities. After high school this young man enrolled at Eastern Michigan for a year and then played professional baseball for a season with the Union City, Tennessee, Greyhounds. Then he started to work at the Ford Motor Company plant at Rawsonville. He secured a leave of absence when he entered the service for two years. Stationed at Fort Lee, Virginia, our guest participated in softball with his team winning the all-army championship. After his discharge he went back to Ford's, and also worked on his college degree which he later received in Business Administration from Eastern Michigan. He works in the prototype shop in the manufacturing and engineering department at Ford's. While in the service he met Barbara Grossman of Philadelphia, who is now his attractive wife. They have three lovely sons — Douglas who is five years old, Martin who is three, and Kenneth a year and half old youngster. The happy family live at 4497

Edmund in Wayne. This young man can also call a "mean" square dance "hoe-down", and has done so on many occasions. Who is this former student? Jack Scheel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Scheel.

College Admissions Policy Gains Approval of Trustees

An admissions policy for the NW Wayne County Community College was approved by the Board of Trustees in regular session last week.

The Board, in okaying the admissions program, reaffirmed the primary purpose of the college: To make education beyond the high school level available to all students interested in, and capable of, benefiting from such a program.

For residents of the district, high school graduates will be eligible for admission to the college as regular students, but may enter only those programs in which their success seems probable as indicated by high school grades, and college tests and interview.

Those who are beyond high school age and are not high school graduates are eligible for admission as special students.

They will be admitted to courses in which their success seems probable as indicated by high school grades and evaluation, college counseling tests, and interviews. Regular status will be granted when deficiencies are removed.

Non-residents will be considered on the same basis as are residents when there remain openings in courses necessary for the programs elected.

All transfer students will be required to complete the same application procedures required of entering freshmen.

Resident transfer students from other colleges are eligible for admission when they present a C average and a statement of honorable dismissal.

Non-resident transfer students will be considered for admission when they present a C average and a statement of honorable dismissal, provided there are openings in courses elected.

sent an average of less than C, add a statement of honorable dismissal will be considered on an individual basis.

In other business last week, a practical nursing program was added to the college curriculum, following unanimous approval of the Board. College president Dr. Eric Bradner was authorized to write the State Board of Nursing for final permission.

The decision was reached after thorough study and a resulting recommendation by the college's curriculum committee.

The addition of a licensed practical nursing program does not rule out further development to include a course for registered nurses, a spokesman said.
