

PLYMOUTH'S NEW City Hall (center) can be expected to look much like this artist's concept, once construction and landscaping work have been completed in about 15 months. At the left of the new municipal headquarters is the present Plymouth Historical Society museum while on the right is the Dunning-Hough library. The new City Hall itself will be 116-feet in width, compared to the 56-foot width of the library and the approximate 40-foot width of the historical museum. Eventually, Church St. will be extended across Main St. and will become a boulevard between the museum and the city hall with the two strips of pavement separated by a 16 foot landscaped section. Artist Joan Busch, wife of The Mail's newspaper foreman Dean Busch, conceived this picture from photographs of the museum building and library coupled with the architect's sketch of the new City Hall and preliminary plans of the proposed municipal structure. The architect's estimated cost of the new building is $414,000. Additional expenses, such as land acquisition, demolition of the existing City Hall and architect's fees, will boost the total cost to somewhere between $550,000 and $580,000, it is expected. A recently approved federal grant of $255,500 has made the project financially feasible for the City.

To Create Public Safety Director Post in Township

Plymouth Township officials Tuesday evening took the first preliminary steps toward establishing an office of Township director of public safety, but there was no indication that the job would be filled immediately.

Board members directed Clerk John McEwen to draw up an ordinance establishing the office, following the recommendation of Township attorney Earl Demel.

Demel earlier had been asked to prepare a legal opinion on the subject. "It appeared that for economy it was premature to establish a full-time office of Township fire chief," he said.

Sees 'Banner' Real Estate Season Here

The real estate business in Plymouth "is in for a banner year," according to Dan Oles, vice president of Gerling Inc. here.

Oles cited his firm's sales record for the first 11 days of March. The company during that span closed sale transactions on eight used homes and five new properties, combined value of which was $174,710.

"After a long, cold winter," Oles said, "it would appear that real estate buyers are already out in force." He said the success of his firm "was accomplished through classified advertisements placed exclusively in The Plymouth Mail."

June 1 Occupancy Eyed For Luxury Apartments

With construction already well underway despite the winter weather, the Crestwood Park Apartments, a 100-unit development on Sheldon Rd. mid-way between Ann Arbor Tr. and Ann Arbor Rd., are being planned for initial occupancy by June 1.

Target date for eventual completion of the project is set for next March, according to Gil Pearson, president of the recently formed companies in charge of development and construction.

A total of 14 separate buildings providing dwelling space for 100 families will be the end result, Pearson explained, with additional facilities for recreation and a free-form swimming pool.

The development, situated on slightly more than eight acres, is directly adjacent to Arbor-Croft subdivision. The individual buildings will be of two-story construction and the apartments themselves will feature built-in appliances keyed to "luxury-living," Pearson said.

While Pearson is president of the development firm in charge of the project and of Glasgow Construction Corp., which is handling the actual construction work, five other men — four of them Plymouthites — share with him the tasks of administering the development.

Canton Zoning Changes to Lead To 1,000 Homes

Zoning changes made Tuesday evening by the Canton Township Board paved the way to a residential development along Joy Rd. that ultimately will number 1,000 new homes there.

Action to call a public hearing on the zoning amendments was deemed unnecessary.

A representative of the development company in charge of the project has told Canton treasurer Philip Dingley that work on 100 homes will probably get underway this summer.

Involved is a 160-acre parcel of land extending along Joy Rd. from Hazerty to Koppernick. On a 500-foot set-back along the strip, homes will be situated on quarter-acre lots.

The balance of the land, however, will be devoted to homes on lots with a minimum frontage width of 52 feet. The set-back was determined.

TWO PLYMOUTH insurance men, Jim Thornton (left) and Chuck Finlan, this week announced jointly the sale of the William Wood Agency, Inc. to C. L. Finlan & Son. The firms represent a combined total of 85 years of insurance service to the Plymouth area.

Finlan Insurance Firm Acquires Wood Agency

Sale of William Wood Agency, Inc. to the C. L. Finlan & Son insurance agency was announced jointly this week by Charles P. Finlan and James Thornton.

The transaction unites two long-time Plymouth insurance firms whose combined service to the western Wayne County area totals 85 years.

The Wood Agency was formed in 1925 by the late William Wood, while C. L. Finlan, grandfather of Charles Finlan, established the other agency in 1916.

Finlan said that the Wood Agency will continue under its present name, but will be re-located in the building at 518 S. Main which now houses the Finlan agency. Thornton, owner and manager of the Wood agency will continue with the firm.

Negotiations on the transaction began in January and the sale was completed March 9. Terms of the transaction were not disclosed.

"The consolidation of the two agencies," said Finlan Tuesday, "will assure still greater efficiency of operation as well as wider provisions for customer service."

He said that "the high level of skilled insurance counseling that has marked the growth of the William Wood Agency and C. L. Finlan & Son over the years will continue."

Although established by Charles Finlan's grandfather in 1916, the Finlan agency from its inception also included C. Harold Finlan, Charles' father.

Charles, known better as "Chuck," became associated with the firm following his father's death in 1948. Finlan, 34, is a 1947 graduate of Plymouth High and attended the University of New Mexico for a year.

He is married to the former Jean Carmody, of Plymouth. They have three children, Marilyn, 10, Nancy, 8, and Charles, 3. Finlan is also a partner in Lang-Finlan, Inc., an agency specializing in surety bonds. It is located in the Fisher Building in Detroit.

The Finlan insurance firm acquired the Parrott Insurance Agency in 1955. It had

New State Constitution Subject Of 'Town Hall' Meeting Friday

The proposed new state constitution will be the subject of discussion at a "town hall" session Friday evening, March 15, at the Junior High East. The meeting, to which the public is invited, begins at 7:30 p.m.

Sponsored by the Plymouth Junior Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Citizens Research Council, the affair is designed to further acquaint citizens with the proposed constitution on which voters will decide at the April 1 biennial spring general election.

Moderator of the session will be JayCee member Robert Evans, while the speakers will include three staff members of the non-partisan Citizens Research Council.

Robert Pickup, the executive director of the Council, along with William Carter and John Higgins, staff members, are the speakers. Local JayCees are urging Plymouthites to attend the meeting in order to learn more fully the pros and cons of the new document which will be voted upon April 1.

Bids Run $35,000 Beyond School Building Estimates

Plymouth's School Board is faced today with the task of shaving $35,000 off construction costs of three major building projects so as to remain within previously established budget allocations.

Having placed a maximum of $861,000 on the construction costs covering the trio of projects, Board members Monday and Tuesday evenings opened bids on the work.

They found themselves holding an overall low-bid total amounting to $895,000, or four per cent greater than estimates made earlier.

The necessary cost-cutting must be accomplished by March 25 when contracts will be awarded on the two-room addition to Farrand School, the further rehabilitation of the Senior High and the construction of Phase II of Junior High West.

Funds for the work will come from the current five-mill building and site sinking fund, which has also provided the pay-as-you-go financing of the first phase of Junior High West.

During the days between now and March 25 when contracts will be let, the School Board's facilities committee in conjunction with representatives from the two architectural firms involved will seek ways of trimming $35,000 from the total construction cost.

The initial search for means of reducing cost will be made in the plans for Phase II of Junior High West.

According to Superintendent Russell Isbister, a likely savings will be accomplished by deferring the purchase of certain items of kitchen equipment slated eventually for Junior High West's new provision.

A possible change in building materials, thus creating further reduction, will also be explored there, Isbister said.

The bidding procedure was set up by the Board in such a way that numerous individual jobs involved in the Senior High rehabilitation were bid upon separately. There are nine individual items in that portion of the three-pronged building project.

Isbister said that it is possible that one or more of the nine aspects involved in the Senior High could be put off so as to assure the necessary dollar-savings.

Interestingly, the Board got its biggest break in the Senior High bidding, Architect Byron Becker, of the firm of Wheeler-Becker & Associates, which is in charge of both the Senior High project and the Farrand School addition, estimated the Senior High rehabilitation would require $216,700 for construction work.

The low bid from among six submitted on the job was for $177,922. It came from Burger Construction Co., same firm that is now completing the new First Federal building in Downtown Plymouth.

Other companies, and their bids on the Senior High project, included: Hyatt Construction ($188,321); Smith & Young Co. ($192,183); Clarence Gleason, Inc. ($203,400); Muzzin & Vincent, Inc. ($181,958); and Diefenbacher & Kihofte, Inc. ($193,370).

It is expected that the eventual construction contract, with any revisions made between now and March 25, will be awarded to Burger Construction.

Any savings realized in the bidding on the Senior High project were more than wiped out in the bidding on Phase II of Junior High West.

Architect for the job is Bennett & Straight and the estimated construction costs were set earlier at $583,550. Instead, the sum of the low bids on the project amounted to $658,000, some $75,000 greater than the estimate.

The low "base" bid was by Ray Misch & Son, Inc. for $403,610. Next lowest-base bid was submitted by Hickson-Costigan, Inc. for $414,440. Mechanical, electrical and kitchen trades were also bid upon, only in separate fashion.

Lowest mechanical bidder was Allen Briggs Co. with an amount of $171,800. Next lowest mechanical bidder was John Green Plumbing & Heating for $173,370.

School Board Appoints Three New Teachers

Three teacher resignations and the same number of appointments were approved by School Board members Monday night.

Resignations were accepted from Mrs. Suzanne Hyland and Mrs. Charlotte LaPointe, both of whom have been teaching at Smith Elementary School, and from Mrs. Rita Siwik, who has been teaching at Gallimore Elementary.

Among the appointments was one for Mrs. Betty Chisholm, who will teach second grade at Gallimore, filling the vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Siwik. Mrs. Chisholm, who has been on maternity leave, had previously taught in the Plymouth school system.

The other two appointments involved Mrs. Janice Elston, who was a teacher for nine years at Willow Run school in Ypsilanti, and Judith Green, a recent graduate of Western Michigan University.

The former will take over a fifth grade teaching post at Junior High West and the latter will be teaching first grade at Smith School, replacing Mrs. Hyland.

The resignations and appointments were to take effect immediately. In other routine matters of business, the School Board approved a recommendation by member Robert Utter that all schools in the Plymouth district be closed on Good Friday.

The action stemmed from a request by the Plymouth Education Association on the basis that student absenteeism is normally heavy on Good Friday. Utter also reported briefly on other activities of the employee relations committee, of which he is chairman.

Esther Hulsing, chairman of the curriculum committee reported that between 30 and 40 persons attended a full curriculum review last Wednesday evening at which time a lengthy report on curriculum revisions, additions and future plans was received and distributed.

The Board also approved a school health policy.

Nurses' Group Holds Meeting At State Home

The Nursing Department of Plymouth State Home and Training School was host Monday night to the Plymouth Registered Nurses, who held their monthly meeting at the hospital to learn more about mental retardation.

Director of Nursing, Miss Corinne Bachle, welcomed the nursing group and briefly detailed the evening's program.

In order to observe the children before bedtime, the group was conducted on a tour of the facilities by the nursing supervisor.

Returning to the auditorium, the Nursing Education Instructor, Mrs. Karen Shumaker, explained various causes of mental retardation, the problems involved, the programs being developed to meet the needs of the children and the strides which Plymouth State Home and Training School has made in this field.

The most interesting part of the discussion was when certain types of retarded children, under the careful attention of the supervisors, were introduced to the group.

The visiting nurses had difficulty concentrating at the speaker while watching the happy, playful children who were overjoyed at being the center of attention.

Educating the professional people in specialized areas is a special phase of the total education and training program conducted by the Nursing Department of Plymouth State Home and Training School.

PLYMOUTH AUTO WASH opened earlier this month at 1340 Ann Arbor Rd. just east of Sheldon Rd. Co-owners (above) are Gordon R. Grantham and Thomas Alexsy. The auto wash is located in a new colonial-styled building, designed to match the predominant colonial architectural theme of the Plymouth community. Alexsy, a builder in Dearborn, lives on Ridge Rd. here, while Grantham, a real estate agent, resides in Dearborn. Inclement weather delayed the official opening for two months, according to the owners, who added that a paved surface surrounding the auto wash will be installed as soon as the ground frost is gone.

Plymouth High Notes

Another long awaited weekend is coming up for the members of the International Relations class when they will travel March 15 and 16 to Hillsdale College to attend the 14th annual Model United Nations Assembly.

Seniors Judi Adams, Barb Niemi, and Jeri Gulbransen will represent Ghana, while Jim Stout, Greg Holland, Mary Lisa Frank, and Antje Hoefler will act as delegates from the United Kingdom. Miss Gertrude Figel, their teacher, will also accompany the group.

After arriving at the college early Friday morning, the group will attend General Assembly to be held in College Church on the campus. Judi Adams will be running for committee chairman in the elections that will be held at this time. Jim Stout has been acting as her campaign manager and information sheets have been previously sent out to all of the delegations.

Greg Holland will give a General Debate speech on the representation of China.

In the afternoon committee meetings will be held with four committees being activated. First is the Political and Security Committee which will debate Nuclear Testing, On-site Inspection, and the Representation of China. The second committee, Economic and Financial Committee, will discuss the United Nations Development Decade, International Conference on Trade Problems, and the Economic and Social Consequences of Disarmament.

The Administrative and Budgetary Committee will consider the proposals concerning Geographical Distribution of Personnel, Geographical Distribution of Personnel for all Secretariat, and the Obligations of Members with Regard to Financing of UNEF and Operations in the Congo.

The Special Conference on the Status of Women will take into consideration Equal Pay for Equal Work, Access of Girls and Women to Elementary Education, and Inheritance Laws as they Affect the Status of Women.

Edith Sampson, a former U.N. Worker will be the speaker on Friday evening. On Saturday morning committee meetings will reconvene and a second General Assembly meeting will be followed by a luncheon which will complete the program.

Funds for five of the delegates and the adviser are furnished by the Plymouth Rotary, and the class provides the money for the additional members of the class.

IN MEMORIAM

To Mrs. Anne E. Labadie who passed away March 15th, 1960.

Break not oh, sound, the silence of my thoughts. 'Tis but a moment that sweet memories have brought - of the mother dear of mine. I can see her sitting by the window.

In her favorite rocking chair - I can see the sun caressing her lovely silvered hair. I can hear her voice like music.

Soft and sweet and low, I can see her dimming tired eyes. Close gently as she rocked, to and fro.

Lovely hands of yester years. She laid upon my brow. As she kissed away my tears to lift my weary soul.

Yea! Courage to endure! Whatever life may hold in waiting. May I be strong and not repine.

Break not, oh sound, these memories divine - Of that mother dear of mine.

Sadly missed by her daughters, Enid Stanzitz, Thelma Potts and grandchildren.

Industrial Group Needs Help

problem of raising sufficient funds locally to close another deal that will ultimately provide additional industrial tax base for the community."

The IDC, faced with the same need for local funds in the past, has previously managed to raise nearly $100,000.

Part of this amount went toward clinching a package that brought Distribution Service, Inc. to Plymouth two years ago, and much of the remainder enabled R.C.A. to move here more recently.

About $8,000 of the total permitted the IDC to purchase the former Consumers Power Co. building on Farmer, where another industry is expected to locate soon.

"We've had participation when we needed it," Lawton said, "but the actual number of participants has been so few that we're getting to the point where we're financially at the bottom of the barrel."

"We simply have to broaden the participation in the program if we're going to have any further success," he stated.

"The package involving Superior

Sliding Door Frame Co. is an example of where we need a greater base of financial participation and it is going to have to come from the ordinary Plymouth resident."

It is a situation that has been stressed repeatedly by the three other members of the IDC's executive committee, Frank Arlen, Harold Guenther and Harvey Ziel.

"Every effort has to be put toward luring new industry here," Lawton continued, "unless residents are willing to see their school taxes climb and climb."

He said that the Industrial Development Corp. has issued a direct plea to Plymouth residents to buy a $25 share of stock in the corporation.

"It's an investment in Plymouth's future," Lawton said.

The Industrial Development Corp. has sold only slightly more than 200 shares of stock in its two years of existence, Lawton explained. "We have to obtain wider participation in order to fulfill our intentions of bringing still more industry here," he said.

Lawton said that 10-year interest-bearing loans may also be made to the industrial corporation. While the $25 share of stock returns no interest, the loans pay a six per cent interest annually.

Lawton, Arlen, Guenther and Ziel may be contacted personally for further information on participating in the Industrial Development Corp.

Township Board

The Board deferred a decision on the purchase from City of Plymouth of a six-inch water main on General Dr.

Further study of the transaction, which involves a City-proposed purchase price of $5,689, will be made by City Manager Albert Glassford and Township engineer Herald Hammil.

"The Board feels it could not justify this additional expense for the few additional customers it would gain," said Clerk McEwen.

The Board dealt with a number of items during the balance of its Tuesday night meeting. It approved payment of $22,300 in bills among other matters.

There was no definite indication that the public safety post would be filled immediately upon being created. Township officials, in fact, implied that the actual employment of a public safety chief may be still in the relatively distant future.

The Board dealt with a number of items during the balance of its Tuesday night meeting. It approved payment of $22,300 in bills among other matters.

He said that the situation would be investigated and that the Wayne County Sheriff's office would be notified of the violation, if one exists.

In other matters, the Board:

• Passed a resolution authorizing the supervisor and clerk to execute a mutual sewage and flowage rights agreement with the City of Plymouth.

• Resolved to support Detroit's bid for the 1968 Olympic games.

• Authorized preparation of plans whereby the Township may extend a water main one-quarter mile west along Ann Arbor Rd. to Beck Rd. so as to provide water to Woodlore subdivision.

• Approved plans of Garling Riverside Subdivision No. 3 as revised, but directed that performance bond be posted before the approval could be considered official.

• Approved the final plat of Lake Pointe Subdivision No. 6, pending inspection of sewer and water mains which have recently been put in place by the builders.

• Tabled an ordinance pertaining to the operation of "gun clubs."

O.E.S. Highlights

Of interest to all members of Plymouth Chapter Order of Eastern Star will be the "Fish Fry" to be held at the Masonic Temple on Saturday, March 16th.

The menu consists of boneless fillet of perch, professionally fried to a delicious golden brown, boiled potatoes with parsley butter, vegetable, cold slaw, dessert and beverage.

The serving, which is "all you can eat Lenten Dinner" is from 5 o'clock until 8 o'clock p.m.

On Tuesday, March 19, Plymouth Chapter will honor its present and former Star Points. For those former Star Points who have not been able to be present on our Regular Meeting night.

"Tribute" to each point on an individual basis, this would be a good time to attend, when they will be honored collectively. The Chapter would be interested to know what station you have represented.

Star points who are present from other Chapters will be honored. Reservations by Saturday, March 16.

School Bids

turned in by Switzer Electric Co. for $54,344. No other electrical bid was for less than $65,000. Low bidder on the kitchen equipment was Gold Star Products for $23,356. Great Lakes Hotel Supply Co. made a bid of $28,493.

After revisions in the plans so as to cut costs to the budget limit, it is expected that the low bidders on Phase II of Junior High West will receive the contracts.

On the two-room Farrand School addition, Burger Construction was also the low bidder at $80,086. Becker's construction estimate was $61,000. Smith & Young Co. was the next lowest bidder with a $63,507 figure. The highest bid was $84,200 by Clarence Gleason, Inc.

In all three projects, architect's fees must be added to the construction costs. Wuteler-Becker & Associates will receive a fee of $21,600 for the Senior High project and $4,400 for the Farrand addition.

Bennett & Straight's fee for handling Phase II of Junior High West is $29,000. When contracts are let, will be held in the Board of Education offices on Mill St. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. The public is invited.

The other five officers of the two companies are William Drudge, Rodney Grover, Heinz Dittmar, Al Grissom and Warren Windisch. Only Windisch is not a Plymouthite.

Already, the developers are taking leases for occupancy of the apartments, Pearson stated, with a minimum one-year lease being offered.

Construction was started February 1. Features of the apartments include: one and two-bedroom options; air-conditioning; optional car ports; and built-in appliances. The buildings will center around a free-form swimming pool with 500-square-feet of sun deck space, Pearson revealed.

Rotary's Bowling Champs

SOME 25 LOCAL Rotarians travelled to Frankenmuth last Sunday to participate in Rotary's annual state-wide bowling tournament. Though local bowlers didn't run off with any prizes this quintet racked up the highest score from among the local keggers. The local delegation was headed by Don Lightfoot, chairman of the event who also captained the team that led the Plymouthites. From l. to r. are William Covington, Clifford McClumpha, Wesley McAtee, Kal Jabara and Lightfoot. Observers at the convocation observed that though the Plymouth team didn't win any honors on the bowling alleys they did a tremendous job of piling up points at a Frankenmuth chicken dinner which all enjoyed after the match in one of Frankenmuth's famous hotels.

Approve School Health Policy

Board of Education Monday night approved a new school health policy requiring a health examination for pupils enrolling in the school system for the first time.

It also requires immunization against certain communicable diseases as well as periodic exams as the students move into the fourth, seventh and 10th grades.

Visions checks will be required annually of all students in first through sixth grades and in the eighth grade. Similarly, hearing checks will be administered by technicians on pupils enrolled in kindergarten, second, fourth and sixth grades.

The typical dental fluoride treatments will continue. Plymouth Dental Society is engaged in a program, approved earlier, whereby students are treated at kindergarten, second, fourth, sixth and eighth grade levels.

Students in grades 4, 7 and 10 will be required to submit signed statements from family physicians verifying they have received physical exams.

Wood Agency

The Wood agency was established in 1925 by William Wood. He died in 1951 and his wife, Florence, became owner and manager.

Thornton, Mrs. Wood's son by a former marriage, joined the agency in 1955 and assumed the ownership and management of the firm in 1960 upon his mother's death.

Both Thornton and Finlan have completed numerous special courses in insurance administration and sales. The two men are both members of the Plymouth Rotary Club.

Set Open House for Johnsons In Honor of 50th Anniversary

MR. AND MRS. DEAN JOHNSON

At an Open House on Sunday, March 24, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Johnson will celebrate 50 years of married life. The couple, who live at 845 N. Mill, will be honored by friends, relatives and neighbors at the Grange Hall from 2 to 5 p.m.

Their two daughters, Mrs. James Gretzinger of Adams St. and Mrs. Gene Overholt of Brownell St., are giving the party for their parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson have been residents of Plymouth for 22 years. They moved here from Huntington, Ind., where they were married on March 23, 1913.

Mr. Johnson is a retired barber and was employed at the Grant Simpson barber shop on Liberty St. However, he still keeps busy by helping Lee McConnell on Stark weather with barbering jobs.

The Johnsons are members of the Grange and the First Methodist Church. Mrs. Johnson also belongs to Eastern Star and the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church.

The couple has five grandchildren: Dick and Mary Jane Gretzinger and Carol, Barbara and Jodi Overholt.

Kincades Wed Fifty Years

Approximately 100 guests joined Mr. and Mrs. James Kincade as they celebrated their 50th Wedding Anniversary at an Open House on Sunday, March 10.

The party, given by their two sons, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kincade, 9243 Rocker. The second son, Col. Norman T. Kincade stationed in Naples, Italy called during the day to extend the congratulations from his family abroad. Other phone calls during the day came from Los Angeles and Montreal.

The couple was married on March 11, 1913 in Detroit and have lived in Plymouth for the last 50 years. They have been at their present address, 40757 Plymouth Rd., for 42 years.

Mr. Kincade is retired and previously worked for the Ford Motor Company. He is a member of the Presbyterian Church and the Grange.

Mrs. Kincade belongs to Grange and the Plymouth branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Assn.

B&PW to Hear Yeager Talk on New Constitution

Explanation of the proposed new State Constitution, followed by a question and answer period on the constitution will be the program highlight of the March 18 meeting of the Plymouth Branch of Business and Professional Women's Club, to be held at Hillside Inn beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Guest speaker for the evening will be Weldon Yeager, chairman of the 17th Republican Congressional District. Mr. Yeager was a delegate from the 18th Senatorial District to the Constitutional Convention last year.

Local TOPS Club 'Tops' Northville

Guest speaker at the last meeting of the Plymouth TOPS Club was Rosemary Pezak, TOPS Teen Queen from Dearborn.

Miss Pezak, who is a contender for the state title of TOPS Teen Queen, dropped from 205 lbs. in September 1961 to her present weight of 126 lbs.

The Plymouth club will be entertained by the Northville TOPS Club at a St. Patrick's Day Party next week — their reward for beating the Northville Club, the challengers, in a six-week weight lossage contest. Average weight loss per person for the Plymouth Club was 7.4 lbs. per person, compared to Northville's 2 1/2 lbs. per person.

There are still a few openings in the Plymouth Club. Anyone interested in joining should call Mrs. Pat Laidlaw at GA 2-8778.

TREASURES FROM Plymouth Pantries

MRS. STUART FLAHERTY

It'll be the "Top of the Morning" and the wearing of the green come Sunday, March 17 (St. Patrick's Day) and what could be better for this week's recipe than a recipe for Irish Stew from an Irishman?

This week Mrs. Stuart Flaherty, of 8400 Narise Dr., agreed to share with us two old authentic Irish recipes, the first of which was handed down from her mother's side of the family (her grandmother and great grandmother both were born and lived near Dublin). The second recipe, believed to be the older of the two, was handed down from her father's side of the family. However, the Flahertys (Mr. Flaherty's father was also born in Dublin) prefer the first recipe.

A former co-leader of Girl Scouts, Mrs. Flaherty and her husband raise ponies and horses for a hobby and in the past raised cocker spaniels.

IRISH STEW (I)

1-1/2 lbs. round steak
4 carrots
5 potatoes
2 onions
chili powder (dash)
salt and pepper

Cut round steak into 1/2" cubes, salt and pepper well and coat with flour and brown all sides well in a heavy deep pan. Make gravy by adding a tablespoon of flour for every tablespoon of fat. When flour is completely dissolved, add enough hot water to half fill pan. Then add sliced onions and carrots which are cut into 1/2" pieces. Cover and simmer for about 1 hr. Then add potatoes, cut in 1/2" pieces, and chili powder and cook until potatoes are tender. If gravy gets too thick add a small amount of hot water.

IRISH STEW (II)

1-1/2 lbs. stew meat or steak
4 carrots
5 potatoes
2 onions
salt and pepper

Cut meat in 2" pieces, salt and pepper and place in kettle. Add enough cold water to half fill kettle and bring water to boil. Do not brown meat. When water has boiled turn heat down to simmer and cook for 2-2 1/2 hours. Then add carrots, cut in 2" pieces, and onions, sliced or whole, and cook at medium heat for 30 minutes. Then add potatoes and cook until they are tender. To make gravy, mix flour with water and add to juice from stew.

An added touch to serve with the stew on St. Patrick's Day, suggested by Mrs. Flaherty, is a lime jello salad containing radishes, celery and green pepper, which has been prepared in Shamrock molds.

Elsewhere in the paper a recipe for Minted Brownie Pie, using Girl Scout Chocolate Mint cookies, appears in the Trefoil Digest column.

1/2 C. chopped nuts
1/2 lb. butter

1 C. powdered sugar

Finally, sprinkle remaining cookie crumb mixture on top and refrigerate for 12 hours. Cut in squares and serve.

Art Around Us:

by Mrs. Jessie Hudson

"What is Art?" I found myself trying to answer this question recently, before a group of lay-women with no experience or training in the field of art. Art is drawing... yes, that it is. Drawing is the foundation stone on which all good art is built. Art is color. That it is, too, because without a knowledge of the properties and visual reactions to color and certain color combinations a painter may not produce art. Art is communication: It could be considered as a means of communication. In fact one of the earliest, most basic, and instinctive needs of man is to communicate through pictures. Primitive man, 500,000 years before Christ, drew on the walls of his caves using rudimentary implements such as charred sticks, animal fats and colored earths. He left us a record which reveals to archaeologists much of his manner of living. Give a child a thick pencil or crayon and he scribbles something which represents things important to him. They both are answering a need to communicate.

you don't demand musical sounds you can recognize... crashing ocean, actual thunder, howling winds. You expect music to rouse in you the same feelings through abstract sounds that you would experience from nature's sounds. Art is created by form and color, and painting can be pleasing if you enjoy just form and color alone, and if you learn to disassociate your mind from subject matter. Poet's enjoy words put together in pleasing arrangements... phrases that paint a vivid picture in their minds, even if the poem seems obscure in sensible meaning. The function of art is the creation of beauty. But if representation (or exact likeness) were the only standard for a work of art, a good photograph would have a better claim to being art than a Greek statue or a piece of sculpture by Michelangelo. These artists changed, distorted, emphasized to achieve a more than realistic effect. Art reveals the beauty in things. It is an educational experience. It even teaches man the beauty in things he might consider ugly if not presented to him by a master such as Michelangelo or Rembrandt. A toothless old hag done by Rembrandt is not ugly. She acquires pathos, dignity, patience... everything the master felt about her and about humanity in general.

Beauty is not an inherent quality. Styles in beauty change from generation to generation and are different to different races. Styles in paintings should also change, to keep step with or be in the vanguard of popular taste. Modern art, then, is just as valid art as the more recognizable paintings by Renaissance masters. It expresses the painter's emotions. He uses a simplified means of communication, returning to pure form, color, movement and the combination of certain colors to impart his feelings, just like a symphony of abstract notes arouses a feeling in a listener. He feels that subject matter might get in the way of his expression... might interfere with the pure emotion which he is trying to communicate.

The Antique Corner:

By Mrs. John Gibbons

The world's most dramatic stories have been told in glass windows. Since the time of the Romans glass mosaics have related man's history. Colored glass bits have been used to decorate furniture, walls, and even floors. Colored glass, opaque in quality, was forerunner to the transparent glass and therefore older. The first colored glass windows were made by artisan monks. The major problem was in obtaining the glass itself, making glass in flat sheets, oddly enough, was one of the last achievements glass makers learned. It wasn't until the 7th century that glass makers came upon a partially successful method known as crown glass.

Crown glass was made by blowing a large bubble of glass with a blow pipe and opening the bubble by shearing it off at the rim and quickly working the glass in their hands until the bubble lay in an open circle. The glass was full of blemishes and was slow work to perform which made it a scarce commodity. The center of every circle had a blob of glass too thick to see through, this is where it got its name of crown glass or as it was later referred to as bulls eye glass.

The first stained glass windows were made to depict phases of Christian beliefs. The earliest of these windows were made of colored bits of glass cut from long sticks of glass into cube form. The beauty did not lie in the color alone, but in the fact that the early craftsman could not cut a smooth surface, therefore, the rays of light played on the rough surfaces much as a diamond reflects light. The first windows were made of much smaller pieces of glass and banded together by melted lead. The glass colors were deep hues of ruby red, midnight blues, greens and browns. The light reflected through the different thicknesses and gave off subtle gradations that the later more perfected windows could not duplicate. The final disastrous effect of better glass method production was the introduction of larger pieces of glass into the designs of the stained glass window. These larger pieces tempted the artists to use paint more often which reduced the depth and dimension of the window. Little windows were done on the early windows, just enough to discern facial features.

After the 15th century the artists, growing more skillful did away with what they felt were the defects of the window, but actually it was these very defects that made the earliest of windows stronger in construction and more beautiful to look at.

The process of how a stained glass window is made is an interesting one. First a large board was prepared twice the size of the actual window. Next it was smeared with a coat of sizing and whitewash and put on a set of jugs. The design of the window was scratched onto half of the board and a number placed into each pattern to designate the color for that plate. The pieces of glass of the right color were laid over the sketch and retraced on the glass preparing it to be cut. In some cases the colors were of such depth as to make the sketch impossible to be transposed on the color. Then it was sketched onto a clear piece and layed over the colored piece to be cut. After the entire pattern of the window had been completed it was ready to be cut. The intricate patterns were cut with a "dividing iron" that was heated red hot. It was recommended that if the glass was hard to cut one might apply a line of saliva along the pattern and the hot cut line would follow this wet pattern. If any part of the pattern need to be painted then that piece needed to be fired before being set into the window. Next the pieces were assembled with the thin strips of lead on the other side of the board which enabled the artist to keep his design before him at all times. It is amazing to think of the beautiful effects that these early craftsmen achieved when they worked on a solid hard surface never seeing the complete effect with light behind it. The artist could only guess as to the effect of his finished window, whereas today's artist works on a transparent surface that tells him in advance the desired effect.

The toll of the old stained glass windows has been a high one. Wars have taken their toll also more have been destroyed by intent than accident. Not only were they broken by bombs, shattered by gun shot, but they were intentionally dismantled to use the lead in them for bullets. At one period of history good Queen Bess decreed that all colored glass windows be replaced by plain glass and all pictorial windows "of a superstitious nature" be destroyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Fritz, of Northville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol Ann, to Doyle A. Rowland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Rowland, of Gottschalk Rd., Plymouth. Miss Fritz, a graduate of Northville High School, is attending Eastern Michigan University. Mr. Rowland, a graduate of Roosevelt Military Academy, Aledo, Ill., is attending the Detroit College of Law.

I have heard it said that the stained glass window is a lost art. Modern glass makers of today have done a great deal to attempt to duplicate the windows of the past. Glass has been made to give the appearance of flaws and unevenness of color. Acids have been used to etch out light and enhance the reflection of color. Still with all of this know how there can be no comparison with the masters of yester year.

Tells Rotarians Here

America's Abundance Keyed To Motivation, Good Tools

There is nothing mysterious about America's plenty... "It's simply because we have learned to produce and distribute economic goods in abundance." Wyatt F. DeLoache, Midwest District Manager of Du Pont's Extension Division, said last Friday in speaking before members of Plymouth's Rotary Club.

that today's worker can enjoy things that were available only to yesterday's millionaire. But the productive tools of modern industry come from savings. What is not so clearly recognized is that the savings of free people provide the capital for our industrial system, and the return which they hope to receive for its use can come only from profits. Here is the very basis of our economic structure.

clearing the forest, built his home, provided the fuel, and planted the crops, had tangible evidence of the result of his efforts. "Unfortunately, in the complex of today's industrial society," he said, "some of the once obvious relationships between cause and effect are in process of disappearing... One major point on which confusion exists is the principle of personal responsibility.

Links Growth to Water

(Editor's note: While much has been written about the City's water system and problems surrounding it, little has been said lately of Plymouth Township's water system. The following article deals with that subject and stems from a recent appearance by Supervisor Roy Lindsay before a group of industrial executives seeking to learn first-hand the facts on the local water picture.)

Detroit water arrives at Plymouth Township, via flowage rights through Livonia, at a booster station on Eckles Rd. near the C & O railroad tracks there. A 400,000-gallon elevated tank on Schoolcraft Rd. adjacent to the Township's Lake Pointe Village fire station provides storage for the Township's water system. It is the only means of water storage, other than the water actually situated in the mains themselves.

He told how "a few years ago" he even explored the possibility of setting up a water authority, but was rebuffed in his efforts. Lindsay stated that he felt the Detroit water system eventually will extend to Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti. The Township supervisor also said that he did not believe Detroit would proceed with its plans to run a major water line down Sheldon Rd. He cited a lack of adequate users in that area for the pending announcement by Detroit that the Sheldon Rd. line will not be installed for some time to come.

There are plans being made, Lindsay said, to extend a water line further along Ann Arbor Rd. so as to provide water facilities to a proposed residential development at Beck Rd. and Ann Arbor Rd. Lindsay explained the Township's system. Hamill said that pressure in the Township varies from about 30 pounds per square inch in water mains to 75 pounds, as a result of a difference of elevation between one side of the Township and the other.

Band "Excellent" On 1st Attempt. Appearing for the first time in an orchestra festival, the Plymouth High East's newly formed 50-piece Eastern Airs Orchestra received a second division (excellent) rating at the District 12 Michigan School Band and Orchestra Festival in Trenton on Saturday.

The orchestra was rated superior in sight reading. Other Junior High orchestras were from Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, Dearborn, New Boston, Livonia, Dearborn and South Redford. The "Eastern Airs" were the only Junior High School orchestra appearing in Class AA. The newly organized group will be featured at the Annual Band Show "Rockets in Review" to be held at the Plymouth Junior High East Gym on March 22 and 23.

Hope College was established by the Reformed church in Holland in 1851, and Calvin College was founded by the Christian Reformed church in Grand Rapids in 1876.

BUSY STUDYING the script for Plymouth High's forthcoming stage production of "Bye Bye Birdie" are these five members of the cast. From left: Marna Roy, Margaret Ellison, Otto Dobos, Joe Gettgey and Art Gullick. The play will be presented March 28-30 in the Senior High auditorium. Tickets are on sale now at the school. Student admission is $1, while tickets for adults are $1.25 a piece.

Snake Bites, Fractures, Broken Bones No Problem to Local Boy Scouts

A visitor who happened in to visit Troop Six of the Boy Scouts during the past few weeks would have been convinced that a great disaster had just taken place in Plymouth. Since Christmas the Troop has been engaged in intensive training in the subject of First Aid.

Every member of the Troop, including a few just installed in February, has second class First Aid requirements. All First Class Scouts are working on the First Aid Merit Badge, under the leadership of Mr. Gerald S. Greer, a trained First Aid expert. The conclusion of the entire program will come early this month when all members of the Troop will be tested on their ability to apply the proper treatment to all types of injuries.

KIWANIS NOTES

Kiwanian Bert Bates introduced several guests from the South Lyon Kiwanis Club at last week's regular meeting at Lofy's. The 75 members and guests visited the Nankin Mills Nature Center near the intersection of Ann Arbor Trail and Edward N. Hines Parkway Drive.

On display are stuffed birds, animals, samples of grain and other objects quite common when this building was operated as a mill. A small garden of approximately one acre is planted in the summer time for the purpose of growing various types of crops. These are labeled along with many trees for the visitors information and enjoyment. Some small animals that are injured are hospitalized at the center only later to be released when they have recuperated from all injuries.

Raised Ceiling, Bay Windows "New Look" at Hillside Inn

Extensive remodeling of the main dining room at Hillside Inn was completed last week to provide greater customer convenience and reduce the "noise level" previously encountered there. It is the third major remodeling project undertaken at the popular dining establishment in the past nine months by partners Bob and Margaret Stremich.

Capacity of the dining room is 125 persons. The work was done by John Barrett & Co. and was begun late in February and completed last week.

How I Earned My First Dollar

Walt Beglinger

Born in Attica, New York, in 1907, Walt Beglinger was about seven or eight when he earned his first dollar selling vegetables to motorists. He doesn't recall exactly how much he and his brother, Robert, earned, but "we had a lot of fun" he reflected more recently.

Today, Beglinger is a prosperous Oldsmobile-Cadillac dealer in Plymouth and just marked his 22nd year in the auto business here.

It was in 1913 and 1914 that he and his brother cultivated a plot of land on their father's farm outside Attica, New York. They cleared off a small piece of land, planted and raised carrots, beans, radishes, lettuce and a variety of other items.

Motorists from Buffalo, a few miles distant, would drive by the farm, often stopping to purchase fresh farm produce from Walt and his brother.

When he was about 13, Walt earned $1 a day working on a neighboring farm. In 1926 he moved to Detroit and entered the auto business. Prior to relocating in Plymouth in 1941, he had his own used car lot in Detroit on the corner of Grand River Ave. and Ohio St.

Early in 1941 — only brief months before Pearl Harbor signaled the start of World War II — Walt set up an Oldsmobile dealership on Main St., next to The Plymouth Mail.

"It's the site of part of the new First Federal building today."

He was the only salesman in those days. Soon after the war began, Walt found himself without any cars to sell. He operated Parkside Bar on Ann Arbor Rd. during most of the war years.

After peace was re-established, Beglinger re-opened his Oldsmobile dealership on Main St. where the Food Fair Supermarket stands. In 1948, he obtained a Cadillac franchise to go with the Oldsmobile agency.

"Since then, business has been good for Walt Beglinger. Late in 1958 he moved to the modern new location on Ann Arbor Rd., east of Main St. Today, he employs a staff of 25, including six salesmen. An extensive service department is a key-stone in his prosperous dealership.

He recalled a few anecdotes from his early days in Plymouth.

When he first moved here, he roomed with Robin Merriam, who now lives on Beck Rd. in Northville. One day, Walt came home to the Merriam residence and found a sign on the front door telling him the Merriams had moved and taken his belongings with them.

He raced to his new home and found most of his belongings already put in their respective places in his new quarters.

He laughed about it last week: "I didn't even know they were going to move," he said.

About that same time he met the woman who later became his wife. Married in 1943, Walt and Garnet Beglinger have five children. Two are drawing acclaim for their accomplishments as members of Plymouth High's varsity swimming team.

David is a senior and Jim is a junior at Plymouth High. The other Beglinger children are: Mary Lynn, 14, who is in junior high; Wally, 12, a student at Smith Elementary school; and Janet Anne who is two and one-half.

Walt and his family live at 1115 Roosevelt, a long way from the farm near Attica, New York, where he earned his first dollar.

THE MAIL'S ROVING reporter records the entry of dentist Covington and druggist Beyer to the base of the slopes prior to entering the lifts pictured below which will whisk them to the top of the hills for their first official descent.

KAL JABARA AND Bob Beyer swing high above the trees on their ascent up the slopes while Doctor Covington relaxes and ponders his first descent in the second chair carrying our champions to the top.

CHAMPION KAL JABARA draws the first try for qualifying and is pictured here ready to spring into action while Beyer gives Covington last minute tips on how to handle this particular hill. Incidentally, these two (Beyer and Covington) are planning on continuing their competition on an international scale by entering the April try-outs in Switzerland while they are touring the continent with their wives this spring. And, where is a picture of The Mail's roving photographer who accompanied this distinguished quartet? Well, according to reports from members of the team he was up to his neck in snow banks with his camera tangled with his skis half of the time and the other half skiing with the pretty, blond wife of the Red Wing's Gordie Howe. At any rate he can't be criticized too much because we do have these pictures to at least prove he was there.

OTMAR SCHNEIDER of Austria, Christian Pravda of Switzerland, Max Monroe of Aspen, Colorado and Stein Ericson of New Hampshire, national ski champions, were in the fast company of four Plymouthites last Wednesday and Thursday at Michigan's Boyne Mountain Ski resort.

Purpose of the convocation of all these skiing greats was preliminary practice for the National Professional Slalom races held there on Friday and Saturday. Though none of the four Plymouthites qualified for the final events their "skills," or should we say spills attracted wide attention and approval from the throngs assembled for the great event.

Pictured above getting ready for their first assault on the slopes of Boyne are, left to right, druggist Robert Beyer, dentist William Covington and tank fabricator Kal Jabara. Below, the old pro himself, shoeman Robert Willoughby, who personally accounted for more "wide tracks" than any of the rest of the Plymouth delegation, but who, in spite of his many "sideway" descents, proved the most determined of the foursome.

One hundred and 44 delegates representing Michigan's 34 State Senatorial districts and 110 State Representative seats, wrote the proposed new constitution in 136 days.

In the state's proposed new constitution, civil rights are strengthened. The new document has created the first and only state constitutional civil rights commission in the United States with broad powers.

The proposed new constitution has more than 3,000 fewer words than the oft-amended 1908 version, making for greater clarity and understanding.

Swimmers Clinch 6th League Title In Seven Years

Outright victories in both relays coupled with balanced strength throughout the entire meet re-established Plymouth's superiority in the Suburban Six league championship swim meet last Friday and Saturday.

The Rocks wound up as champions for the sixth time in seven years after accumulating 112.25 points, a total threatened only by Trenton with 94.25.

Trenton is the only school in the conference that has managed to break Plymouth's tight grip on the championship. A year ago, Trenton squeezed in with a five-point victory, upsetting the Rocks in the process.

The league championship meet has been held for only seven years, and Plymouth has been the winner in all but last year's staging.

Third place in the contest last weekend went to Bentley High with a 72-point total. Allen Park was fourth with 60. Redford Union scored 33.50 points and Belleville finished with 30.50.

The games were held at Allen Park. Plymouth never trailed, once the final events were underway. At one point however, Trenton was only 5 points behind the Rocks.

Later in the meet the Rocks held a commanding 98.25 to 83.75 lead over Trenton, the only opponent that threatened the Plymouth swimmers. A victory by the Rocks in the 200-yard freestyle relay clinched the championship, however.

Scoring in individual events was based on seven points for first place, five for second, 4.5 for third, 4.0 for fourth, 3.5 for fifth, 3.0 for sixth, 2.5 for seventh, 2.0 for eighth, 1.5 for ninth and 1.0 for tenth.

In the relays, the scoring was doubled. Winners were awarded 14 points, second place was worth 10, and so on.

As a result, Plymouth picked up 28 points by winning both relay events. Dan Olson, Dave Agnew, Dave Beglinger and Tom Blunk won the 200-yard medley relay in 1:50.4, and — at the end of the meet — Mark Schultheiss, Pete Gustafson, Mike Britcher and Blunk combined to win the 200-yard freestyle relay in 2:38.6.

Neither of Plymouth's relays coupled with balanced strength throughout the entire meet re-established Plymouth's superiority in the Suburban Six league championship swim meet last Friday and Saturday.

story in the 50-yard free, and Dick Berry was second, Gustafson seventh and Britcher eighth. Gould's time of :23.5 was a record for the Allen Park pool and equalled his best time of the season.

Jim Beglinger posted a second place finish in the 200-yard individual medley as Tom Hoffman nailed down an eighth in the same event.

Schultheiss amassed 244.1 points in the diving to lead in that event. Bert Quinn picked up third for the Rocks in the same competition and John Herter was fourth.

In the 100-yard butterfly Dave Beglinger finished third, three places ahead of teammate Collins. Olsen and George Gardner were third and tenth, respectively, in the 100-yard backstroke and one event later Agnew claimed a sixth for Plymouth in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Gould missed winning the 100-yard free by three-tenths of a second. He wound up second, as Berry gained fifth place for the Rocks, Jim Norman seventh and Jim Mattison ninth.

The Rocks had four swimmers in on the scoring in the 400-yard freestyle event. Jim Beglinger was third and emerged from the meet with 9.5 points to his credit. Jeff Hoffman was sixth, Jim Haarbauer was eighth and Doug Breed finished ninth.

The Rocks clinched the title with a victory in the 200-yard freestyle relay, concluding event of the evening.

The Class A state swimming meet, which Plymouth won two winters ago, will conclude the 1962-63 swimming season this weekend. It will be held in East Lansing, site of Plymouth's conquest in 1961.

UNBEATEN CHAMPS in the men's recreation basketball league this winter were these cagers who comprise the Cloverdale Dairy team. They wound up with a perfect 8-0 won-lost record and finished two victories ahead of the next closest competitor in the conference, Auto-Crat Mfg. Co. The Cloverdale players from left in the front row are: Jerry King, Tony Monte, Wayne Harrington, Mel Bobcean and Bud DePlonche. In the back row, from left: Ken Knipschild, Ken Kisabeth, Myron Hopper, Chuck Thomas and Bud Lanphear.

Rocks' Tourney Visit Ends Abruptly, 53-34

Plymouth's activities along the post-season basketball tournament trail were brief and to the point.

The Rocks lost.

They failed for at least the third year in a row to move past the first round of district action. Ann Arbor High was the stopping point for Plymouth last Thursday evening at Bowen Field House on the Eastern Michigan campus in Ypsilanti.

Ann Arbor tossed a 53-34 roadblock in Plymouth's way, thus bringing to a close one of the Rocks' more frustrating seasons in recent winters.

Plymouth won four of 10 conference games and finished fourth in the Suburban Six but could muster only one other basketball victory, concluding with a 5-11 overall record counting the defeat to Ann Arbor in the district play-off.

"We just didn't come to play," was the terse remark by Plymouth coach Charlie Ketterer later as he reflected on the Rocks' outing by Ann Arbor last week.

Ketterer planned Monday to draw the curtain on the 1962-63 campaign. At that time, his players were to turn in their game equipment and select a most valuable player.

The Rocks were never in serious contention after four minutes of the game against Ann Arbor had elapsed. The eventual winners racked up a 12-6 first period advantage and stretched it to 26-14 by half-time.

By the close of the third quarter, Ann Arbor led 39-26 and the Rocks, in the remaining eight minutes of action, could score only eight more points.

Jerry Kisabeth led Plymouth with eight points and team floor captain Dick Schryer contributed seven more in a losing cause. Cal Luibrand and Gary Grady each hit for six, Dick Egloff had four and Jim Lake three.

A trio of Ann Arbor players did the primary damage against the hapless Rocks. Chuck Menefee, Harold Simons and Pete Hansen accounted for 36 of Ann Arbor's 53-point total.

Menefee had 13, Simons 12 and Hansen 11. Their accumulative total alone beat the Rocks in scoring.

Plymouth scored 12 of 39 field goal attempts for 31 per cent while Ann Arbor made 21 of 53 shots from the floor for 40 per cent. In the free throw department, the Rocks cashed 10 of 21 for 48 per cent compared to Ann Arbor's 11 out of 20 for 55 per cent.

Among the Plymouth players that scored against Ann Arbor, only Schryer is a graduating senior. The other three who will disappear via the graduation route in June are Chris Gaffield, Frank Gulbrandsen and Bob Steele.

One other player will not be in the Rocks' camp next winter. He is junior Tom McGill, whose family is moving to Traverse City shortly.

As a result, Ketterer will welcome back seven of his 12 present varsity members next season. At that time, Ketterer will be moving into his third season at the helm of Plymouth's basketball fortunes, after an earlier stint in the mid-1950's.

Most noteworthy accomplishment by the Rocks during the 1962-63 basketball season was a decisive victory over Redford Union, a loss that led RU to ultimate disaster in the Suburban Six conference.

Prior to the defeat at the hands of Plymouth, Redford Union was well on its way to a conference championship. Instead, Bentley High took top laurels in the league with a 9-1 record, two victories ahead of Redford Union.

Plymouth's 4-6 mark was identical to its success a year earlier in the Suburban Six league. However, it was enough this winter to earn Plymouth a fourth place conference finish, a notch higher than a year previous.

70 Contests for 5 Teams

Busy Spring Awaits Rocks

From the standpoint of total number of athletic engagements, the spring sports season is by far the busiest for Plymouth High.

Spring, 1963, is certainly no exception.

The Rocks will take part in an even 70 sports contests, spread among varsity and junior varsity track.

The two baseball teams head the list, as far as the number of individual contests for each is concerned. Both will take part in 15 games this spring.

Next in line come the golf and tennis squads, each of which will see action in 13 encounters, while the varsity track team approaches a 10-meet schedule and the Jay-Vee thinclads have four battles on tap.

Schedules for the six teams were released this week by athletic director John Sandmann, who — as he does each spring — will serve double duty as both director of athletic activities at the high school here and as coach of the golf team.

Sandmann also revealed that there have been no changes in the coaching staff for the 1963 spring agenda.

Mike Hoben will return as varsity baseball coach. He is also Plymouth's highly-successful varsity football mentor during the fall.

Heading the varsity track fortunes once more will be Keith Baughman, who has been particularly successful in this capacity since taking over from Konrad Moisie in the early 1950's.

Jay-Vee baseball coach is Bryan Boring and Dick Bearup will serve as Jay-Vee track mentor. Boring is the freshman basketball coach during the winter and Bearup serves as Jay-Vee basketball chief during the same months.

Jim Doyle, former varsity basketball coach, returns as head tennis coach this spring. As mentioned, Sandmann again is varsity golf coach.

This is Plymouth's 1963 spring sports schedule:

Rocks in State Swim Tourney This Weekend

Plymouth's winter sports activities conclude this Friday and Saturday when the Rocks' varsity swimmers take part in the State Class "A" swimming meet in East Lansing.

It is a meet that Plymouth won two winters ago.

The races will be conducted in the pool at the intramural building on the campus at Michigan State University.

Diving and 400-yard freestyle preliminaries will be held Friday, and all remaining preliminary events and the final races will be conducted Saturday. The Saturday preliminaries start about 11 a.m. and the finals are slated for that evening.

According to John Sandmann, Plymouth High's athletic director, 800 tickets will go on sale at the door for the preliminary events and another 500 tickets will be sold at the door for the finals.

There are no tickets available at the school here, Sandmann said.

Chips from the ROCK

Food for thought... A couple of local contractors came into our office to pass the time of day and an interesting subject evolved during the course of the conversation. Both were perturbed at the plight of general contractors such as builders, plumbing, heating, electrical, etc.

They were comparing their situation to that of architects, who provided services for parties wanting to undertake new building projects and who were just awarded jobs without going through the necessity of having to submit a bid which would cover the cost of their services.

A person wanting to build something simply chooses an architect, and his accepted fee then becomes an automatic part of the total money spent in bringing the building to completion. The contractors and suppliers along the way, however, must make specific bids for the services and products they will provide for the project.

There was no criticism of this reality, but these two contractors were critical of the number of jobs let by architects to outside bidders who seemingly were called in because the specifications were seemingly beyond the limits of local contractors. They pointed to many local buildings that had been constructed here under the direction of some local architects and yet the actual building services were provided by out of town contractors who might have submitted an original low bid but were given substantial increases, in total costs, before the job was completed.

They could cite numerous incidents of this nature yet they were not especially critical of all local architects. Their main concern, it seemed to me, was the fact that if all local architects would make an effort to consider local tradesmen in their planning that a lot of local dollars could be spread back throughout the community which would benefit all concerned and the total locality as well.

I am in no position to substantiate the theories of these two local businessmen in regard to their businesses or even that of the architects... but... I do firmly believe that if all local tradesmen were given all of the local work, instead of bringing in out of town firms, it would be a tremendous boost for our local economy.

I am just as realistic about the materials that go into these projects. It seems to me if we build a new school, a home, a business block or a city hall, materials should be furnished by our local suppliers because they do pay the taxes that make these buildings possible... and I am just as firmly convinced that people doing the work on all of these projects should be local residents, whenever possible, who will return the dollars back to our stores in purchases, and our schools and municipalities in taxes.

It would be impossible to calculate the hundreds of thousands of dollars that go out of Plymouth for these items mentioned above. But... if we could have retained all of those dollars locally, just think what they would have meant to this area.

It seems to me that civic responsibility should be given another hard look at this time, and people, and especially civic bodies, who are going to spend money for this sort of thing should make sure that whoever does their work should be from Plymouth or at least Plymouthites should be given every opportunity to provide the materials or services demanded. These dollars will stay here, and how better to get back part of your original investment than to spend it where you know it will come back in one form or another.

At long last we have substantiated the fact that Plymouth did have, and of course, still does have, a Territorial road. Under the term of Andrew Jackson, as president of the United States, when Michigan was still a territory, a Territorial road was dedicated, "from the township of Plymouth, and running thence through the village of Ann Arbor, west to the mouth of the St. Joseph River."

This is the first actual, factual information we have been able to print on this subject and thanks to the keen eye of Marshall North up on west Maple street we have determined that Territorial road was located in Plymouth, in fact it started here and did follow the old Chicago road which also ran through Plymouth.

GRAND WINNERS in the recent VFW Auxiliary poster contest here were Dennis Shelley (left) and Brian Cavell, who are shown with the auxiliary's youth activities chairman, Mrs. James McKindles. The two boys each were awarded $10 for their winning efforts. Both are eligible to enter the VFW state convention poster contest in June where the grand prize winner is awarded $25. Theme of the poster contest was "Honor the Dead by Helping the Living." Dennis, 14, was the top winner in the seventh and eighth grade division, while Brian, 11, won in the fifth and sixth grade category.

Where did Mr. North find all of this information? One of his electricians out at the G.M. Transmission plant brought him a copy of the first issue of the Democratic Free Press and Michigan Intelligencer, published in Detroit on May 3, 1831. Those were the days when Michigan was still a Territory and had not as yet joined the Union. In reading the four pages of this interesting paper Mr. North noted in the Laws of Michigan, passed at the second session of the fourth council, an act for establishing a certain Territorial road. Imagine his surprise when he read it and found it was the same Territorial road that we had been so concerned about for the last several months. So, as any good reporter would do, he had the whole paper photostated and brought it to us to provide proof for our readers and residents of the true origination of this road.

Below is reproduced, as well as we can, the actual act as it appeared in the paper back in 1831.

It is interesting to note that the road originated near the Inn of Timothy S. Sheldon, on the Chicago road, in Plymouth Township and then continued on west. I have checked with many old timers and as yet have been unable to locate where the Sheldon Inn was located. Certainly it must have been near Sheldon road.

The only Inn west of the village limits that can be recalled is one located on the hill just east of my home. Several years ago we had a foundation and old stone well filled in at this site so some child wouldn't fall in and get hurt and it may be that, since it supposedly was an old coach house or trail Inn, it might have been the Sheldon operation. At least at this writing we have been unable to locate any other site in the western part of the Township where anyone can remember an Inn being located.

At any rate there was an act establishing a Territorial road of which we now have proof, and it did originate in Plymouth Township and continue on through "Ann Arbor" west of the St. Joseph River.

Let's hope more of our interested friends provide us in the future any more enlightening factual information they might stumble on in the course of their daily pursuits. These tips are most appreciated not only by the writer but by our many residents as well.

The Plymouth Mail Plymouth, Michigan

Dear Mr. Eaton

I have always felt sad Martha Griffiths wasn't on the Republican side. How come? She is indeed a brilliant woman and a lovely one too.

I agree with you on the Old City Hall question. My Heavens, why pull down or bat down that dear old land mark? Surely it could be put to some use, for instance The Plymouth Historical Museum. They will need a new place if the Polley house will be taken out to put in a new street.

It is just like a disease, all over the country, destroying buildings — especially in Michigan. Did you know about that beautiful old church in Tecumseh that was destroyed recently? What is going to become of the Old Hough House that was burned this winter?

As for Schoolcraft College, there is enough in Michigan named after Mr. Schoolcraft as great and good a man as he was. Why not Henry Ford, he sure did a lot for Wayne County — and the world! Good health to you Mr. E.

Old Timer (Margaret Pierce 14286 Northville Rd. Plymouth)

P.S. Seems to me we agree on a lot of problems... Is that good? Am I getting to be a conformist?

The Plymouth Mail Plymouth, Mich. Editor:

Yesterday, in Livonia, a five year old girl was killed by a school bus. No one is to blame but it might have been prevented. I have already contacted Sen. DeAndree's home, Mayor Mookle of Livonia, and others who have to do with school buses.

In the State of Ohio, they have legislation to prevent this sort of accident. There must be a "Safety" on each bus who gets off with the children and sees that they are clear of the bus before the "Safety" gets back on and the bus proceeds. We have a "Safety Patrol" to guard children who must walk to school. Let's provide some protection for those who ride.

We cannot help little Catherine Maiden, but perhaps we can give some purpose to what happened and she can help save other lives. May God comfort her parents.

Decisions, Decisions...

Two items last week, out of a myriad of local events, arrested our attention. The two are related, but only by the ties that bind all taxpayers.

First is the City Commission's thoughts surrounding the possibility of including a fall-out shelter in the below-ground area of the new City Hall.

The second involves the slender chance that an industrial-directed "steering committee" might organize shortly to guide Plymouth — and perhaps adjacent communities as well — through the maize-like wanderings that concern the future of water here.

Our reaction to the first, a fall-out shelter, is quite negative. But on the matter of a water issue "steering committee" we would urge positive action, as rapidly as is possible.

A fall-out shelter in the new City Hall, while indeed humane in thought, would seem to be of negligible overall value to the community at large. If 150 persons could physically fit into such a shelter, we will be surprised.

If those same 150 beings could get there in life-saving time, in the event of nuclear attack, we would be downright astonished. More likely, upon receiving an actual alert, persons would scurry for home and loved ones, rather than diving for the basement of City Hall.

Furthermore, to properly construct, maintain and provision a shelter of this type would cost additional money — more, in our opinion, than the potential value of the resultant protection.

While we question the advisability of a fall-out shelter at all — perhaps due to an inherent cynicism on our part — if it is absolutely necessary in the minds of public officials, let's at least build one that might amount to a little more than a drop in the proverbial bucket.

If the compelling urge to construct a shelter is upon us at this belated date, why not build it say, beneath Kellogg Park? At least there it could be of sufficient size to accommodate enough persons, numerically, to make a sizeable contribution towards preserving a significant share of our populace.

A fall-out shelter in the new City Hall? Thank you, City Commission, but we can't agree. Now then, a water issue "steering committee" most certainly catches our ear. It would

The signing of a bill into law by the Governor is a momentous occasion for varying numbers of people.

When a measure affects the entire state this impact is often lost in the shuffle of the year's activity. When it is a bill aimed at a smaller segment of the population, however, greater note is usually made.

Such was the case this year when Gov. George Romney signed his first bill into law. Romney's signature making the first bill law went onto a measure sponsored by Sen. Farrell Roberts, Pontiac Republican, to alleviate some local problems in the Oakland County area.

For Roberts the signing ceremony was significant because he had accomplished something for his constituents. The Governor used Roberts' pen to note the date of the signing on the measure, which became effective as soon as the date was affixed.

Sen. Milton Zaagman, R-Grand Rapids, also provided the governor with a pen during the ceremony. The "George" was affixed to the measure with this pen. This was the first bill Zaagman, a freshman Senator, saw go through the legislative process as part of his doing. He chaired the Senate committee which considered it.

And for the governor, who used House Committee Chairman Roy Brigham's pen to sign "Romney" to the measure, it also was a memorable occasion. "I've never signed something that was to become a law," he said. "This is historic for me if not for anybody else."

The controversy had to come. During the 1962 Legislature, many observers commented about the unusual lack of floor debate on the bill which came to be known as the Sunday Closing act.

Former Rep. Chester Wozniak, Hamtramck Democrat who sponsored the legislation and ushered it smoothly through both houses, is no longer in the House. The law, which allows boards of supervisors to vote against its effectiveness in their county, does not take effect until the end of this month but already a number of counties have decided not to come under the complicated act.

And now, Rep. Russell H. Strange, R-Clare, has stated a move to repeal the law as soon as it is scheduled to take effect.

Designed to please everyone, the measure provided that most stores would have to close one day out of every seven: either Saturday or Sunday.

State administrative officials called it a "nightmare to enforce or administer" since it contained no definite provisions for enforcement. Exemptions to the seventh-day closing were many as the supporters of the measure attempted to encourage the seem to be a highly realistic approach to a major problem that is looming increasingly larger with every passing day.

Water — and sewers, too, for that matter — is the key that will unlock considerable growth in this portion of Wayne County. At the rate officials have been moving on the issue, we wonder sometimes if fully satisfactory answers will ever be found.

Water is a facet of "progress" that strikes beyond municipal boundaries. It has long ago gone past the scope of the City alone. It has passed, similarly, beyond the fringes of the Township.

It has created a City debt that still amounts to $335,000. A $1 million water and sewer "mortgage" is on the books in Plymouth Township. Canton Township has a similar sized indebtedness for the same purpose.

It would seem that no single suburban governing body can alone fully resolve this thorny problem today. If indeed it is to be wisely answered and met with at all, it will require a vast amount of mutual effort — and additional tax dollars, as well.

Probably Detroit stands as the eventual source of water for all the outlying suburbs. Detroit wants to supply us, meaning not only the City and the Township, but Northville and Canton, too. Detroit already has a contract with Plymouth Township.

But we suspect that Detroit would be delighted to deal with a representative "authority" rather than five or six municipalities individually. We feel that Gerald Remus would favor selling Detroit water to a single major source in these parts. That body — which would evolve into a water "utility" undoubtedly — then would resell to a sweeping slice of the western part of the county.

A municipal water authority, buying from Detroit and selling to western Wayne County users, will not spring up over-night nor by itself. It will take strong initial leadership.

The most plausible source for this vital leadership rests in the hands of local industry.

Industry, by our way of thinking, could go further in joining the thoughts of elective officials in Plymouth City and Township, Northville City and Township, and Canton Township.

Once joined together in a common bond, these public officials, still under the moderating influence of industry, could work out the legal requirements of forming a mutual water authority. Detroit, as we said, should favor the move, since it surely would at least simplify the bookkeeping involved.

At any rate, we heartily urge the Industrial Division members of Plymouth's Chamber of Commerce to establish a "steering committee" on water, drawing as its committee members executives of local industry, who — we believe — can work beyond existing municipal boundaries and speed the day when water is no longer an "issue or problem" in western Wayne County.

Current Winter 15% Colder Than Normal

It will take more than "the first robin" to make residents of Southeastern Michigan forget the winter of 1962-63, says James P. Thomas, of Consumers Power Company.

So far, this winter has been about 15 per cent colder than normal, according to Thomas, manager of the company's West Wayne Division which includes Plymouth.

And the winter's not over yet, he adds. March and even April may provide some biting cold spells before storm winds can safely come down and screens go up in the suburbs.

"To date, there have been 31 days when the temperature has been at zero or lower, compared with half a dozen or so in the average year," says Thomas.

Records show it has been 45 years since this part of the country had it so cold. Only two other winters since the turn of the century brought lower overall temperatures to the Great Lakes Region than the one now reluctantly drawing to a close. Those were the winters of 1904-05 and 1917-18.

"The early weeks of the season were not so bad," says Thomas. "But December turned out quite a bit worse than last year, and January and February were still colder, or yet. They averaged 15 to 20 per cent colder than the year before."

"Buried was the bloody hatchet; buried were all warlike weapons, and the war cry was forgotten. There was peace among the nations."

The Professor Says ...

By Ed Brown

I have been receiving some good-natured "ribbing" the past few months, but I do not mind it in the least — my acquaintances now call me "slim," even though I still have quite a few pounds to go before I reach my goal.

You remember that when I first started this column I had a count-down each week — it meant weight loss. I did it for "kicks" at first, but later on I became serious and it developed into a "way of life." I thought it best not to say anything, but just let my friend's see me "shrink" to my supposed size. So far I have lost over 70 pounds.

It has been a year now so I can make an annual progress report. I'll tell you frankly — it hasn't been easy, however, it has been easier than I anticipated it would be.

I have always had the thought that it would be great if we "heavies" could just lose that extra poundage by some miracle drug in a short while — I never could condition my mind to any long-range program. This is precisely what I had to do — be the master of my mind, and tell it what to think and do rather than having it tell me what to do. Confusing? Yes, I know!

I am now on the second half of my two-year program, and I know that each day brings me closer to my desired goal — the figure I had in my twenties.

I don't want you to think I did this all alone — I had help from a group of people with the same problem. I helped start the local weight-reducing club in Plymouth — I supplied the idea and, along with Herb Woolweaver, we engaged outside help in organizing the local group.

A person can lose much easier if he belongs to some group where all have common problems and goals. Such people tend to understand others like themselves, and a bond of helping one another develops into group therapy.

Great care must be taken that such groups do not become socialized to such an extent that the basic purpose of losing weight becomes of secondary importance.

I do not believe that anyone who wants to lose weight has to belong to a state or national organization. Often local aims and goals become forgotten because of the state and national tieup, and more and more time is spent on formal business meetings concerning some activity relating to a state or national project. These higher groups are always urging local groups to participate in conventions by sending representatives.

If a local organization decides to send someone, ways must be found to raise the money. So a club goes all out for any money-making project — rummage sales, jewelry sales, hat sales, bake sales, excessive fines or dues, or any other way of getting money. When this happens, the basic purpose of benefiting ALL CLUB MEMBERS in helping them lose weight is lost.

I have always maintained that the purpose of a local weight-reducing group should be to help all who want to lose weight, and that can best be accomplished by an eduational-discussion type of meeting. In this way, people learn the correct eating habits, what foods are good for them, which foods are of a more nutritious value; habits that will carry over after the desired weight has been obtained. Outside speakers — doctors, psychologists, psychiatrists are very important as resource people for group education.

Last December I secured a well-known psychiatrist from Northville State Hospital to speak to the local group. He gave an interesting hour-long talk on eating habits as an emotional outlet. In some cases there is a definite relationship, especially in the extra large person.

To me, a reducing group should be purely educational with group participation and discussion. A person must really want to lose weight more than anything else, and nothing must interfere with that desire. So many people are merely wishful thinkers — they would like to lose weight if there was some easy way that did not "crimp" their present living habits. It is just not that easy. We have to make a choice of what we want to do — lose or not.

After I made the decision, I had to rearrange my entire eating habits and re-educate myself by making a study of foods and their characteristics. Ever before me is the day a year hence when I can look in that mirror with that satisfying feeling of knowing I made it.

Some people have a false sense of pride in not wanting anyone to know they are trying to lose weight. Still they walk down the street with everyone seeing them, so why feel humiliated by joining a weight group and trying to do something about it.

I believe at first I had to "lick" the thought that I had to join a group and could not do it on my own. Sort of resentment having to do that, and resentments and frustrations make one eat more also. When we get all these things under control we can lose, and perhaps become much happier persons as a result.

My wife and I have now started a group in our home. It is quite a spirited group and one based wholly on education and discussion. Oh, yes, we have the weigh-in, the fines for gains, contests, etc., but no dues, money-making projects or formal business meetings. Just 30 to 45 minutes of discussion with no coffee or refreshments.

Everyone has but one objective — to lose weight. We meet each Thursday at seven o'clock.

The first month our new group lost an average of one pound per week per member. If anyone is interested in this type of a group call GL 3-7462 and ask for either Ed or Rose. But remember you must really want to lose more than anything else and are willing to sacrifice a little of your normal habits.

Couples are welcome. It helps so much if both members of a family try to help each other, or understand the problems connected with losing weight.

I'll give you another personal progress report at the end of my program a year from now. It can be fun you know — losing weight, that is.

Linnea, You Were Overlooked But Not Forgotten!

Overlooked — quite by accident — in last week's story about the "girls" at City Hall who breathed a sigh of delight when the $255,500 City Hall grant was approved was Mrs. Linnea Salow.

Linnea, as everyone addresses her, is City Manager Albert Glassford's "Girl Friday" — his secretary, in other words — and she, too, played a key role in the preparation of the City Hall grant application last fall.

She pitched in with Clerk Joe Near's "girls" on the second floor at City Hall and helped in the actual application preparation. She also serves as the Clerk's secretary during the City Commission meetings, and thus keep track of the minutes of the many official meetings that ultimately led to the decision to submit to the federal authorities a grant request on the proposed new municipal headquarters here.

Linnea, we're sorry we accidentally overlooked you last week.

James O'Neil Urges Adoption Of Constitution

James F. O'Neil, Republican candidate for State Board of Education and a resident of Livonia, has come out strongly in favor of the proposed state constitution, upon which voters will decide at the polls April 1.

He cited as one of his reasons for urging the adoption of the new document the fact that it contains a Bill of Rights, described by him as "one of the best in the nation."

O'Neil, who was a candidate for a seat in the U.S. House of Representatives last fall, said that the new constitution is equally supported by many non-partisan groups including the League of Women Voters, the Michigan Education Association and the Michigan Council of Churches.

He spoke in a debate of the new state constitution at Royal Oak, March 11.

His campaign for State Board of Education will also culminate April 1 when voters decide on that race.

Michigan's 1850 constitution was a good one as it applied to agriculture which was the basic industry at the time. But since then manufacturing and tourist industries have come to the state. The proposed new constitution is fashioned for all three industries.

The first month our new group lost an average of one pound per week per member. If anyone is interested in this type of a group call GL 3-7462 and ask for either Ed or Rose. But remember you must really want to lose more than anything else and are willing to sacrifice a little of your normal habits.

Couples are welcome. It helps so much if both members of a family try to help each other, or understand the problems connected with losing weight.

I'll give you another personal progress report at the end of my program a year from now. It can be fun you know — losing weight, that is.

Stage Designer
Bill Moore
Is Busy Man

Although Bill Moore, 104 S. Holbrook, is engrossed in his college studies, he still has found time to answer a request of the Plymouth Theatre Guild.

Saxie Heft, producer of "The Mousetrap," has selected Bill to do the stage design for the forth-coming spring production by the Guild on May 2-4 at the Senior High.

Bill is a veteran of Guild activities here and has acted, directed and served as stage manager. It was, in fact, his association with the Guild that sparked his college career.

Bill is fast finishing his undergraduate work at Eastern Michigan University. His field of study: drama. He has posted a 3.6 all-college average at a school where 4.0 is perfect.

Tryouts for the Guild's adaptation of "Mousetrap" will be held March 21 and March 22 in the Plymouth City Hall courtroom. Since the play deals with murder and mayhem, it was felt that only a courtroom would be properly fitting for initial tryouts.

Bill's stage design will be on display at the try-outs in the form of a scale model.

Steve Allen's "Sophie," of vaudeville. One number might be fine, but three or four only filled the cup to overflowing. And let's hear Sophie's trademark at the end, namely "Some of These Days." Steve's song "Red-Hot Mama" comes only close to capturing the heartache and appeal of Sophie's musical trademark.

Reports indicate that Steve Allen is busy writing a new song for Art Lund to clarify his character. Now if the author can get busy and provide the corny revision suggested, I feel that "Sophie" might stand a chance on Broadway in May.

Locally, the Plymouth Theatre Guild in May will be having its own theatrical wories in the form "The Mousetrap" (May 2, 3, 4). Tryouts will be held March 21 and 22.

Director Kay Devereaux can be justly proud of all of her actors. The AAUW once more proved that their abilities are vast and varied when it comes to putting on a wonderful day of live drama for the children in the Plymouth area. We are looking forward to next year's exciting production.

'Cracker Barrel' Talk
March 20 in Canton

Current farming developments will be the topic of a "cracker barrel" styled meeting conducted by the Wayne County cooperative extension service at the Canton Township fire hall, Canton Center and Cherry Hill Rds., on March 20.

It is one of a series of such programs, all of which are conducted cooperatively by the county's extension service and the department of agriculture at Michigan State University.
