

JayCees Announce Commercial Building Survey

Plymouth's JayCees will conduct a commercial building survey in the City of Plymouth beginning the middle of August, announced JayCee club president Wendell Smith this week.

He said the project will consist of a survey of all vacant commercial buildings and will determine the status and availability of each.

Member Robert Evans, a local dentist, is in charge of the project and will be assisted by Al Kolak, Joe Fletcher and Smith.

A meeting July 9 with members of Plymouth's retail development committee will serve as a starting point, Smith said.

Growing a great variety of foods and leading the nation in many, Michigan comes closer to completely setting the family table than any other state.

Due to the fact that the next regular meeting of Plymouth Grange falls on July 4 it has been postponed to 8 p.m. Thursday evening, July 11. There will be no supper because of the work being done on the hall.

It is indeed a busy summer for many of our brother Grangers who are giving many hours of their time, despite the hot weather, in giving our hall a face lifting. This includes a new front entrance, a new door on the side entrance, new siding and a new stairway, among other things. This transformation will put us in step with Plymouth's Pilgrim Theme and will make our hall more comfortable and attractive.

Our Master, Jesse Tritten, is home from St. Joseph Hospital but is still unable to do much.

John Oldenburg is home from St. Mary Hospital and feeling happy that surgery was not necessary.

Louise Hutton is also home from St. Mary Hospital following an operation on her right eye.

Eight of our members attended the Southeastern Michigan Grange picnic held at Tecumseh Grange, June 23.

ATTEND ORIENTATION
Carol S. Wendt, Rita Beukema and Bonnie M. Hunt, Plymouth, participated recently in the orientation program at Western Michigan University, where they will be freshman students this fall.

A HI-Y CLUB project, "Let Freedom Ring" on July 4 will feature the simultaneous ringing of all church bells in the community for a four-minute span starting at 1 p.m. Heading up the project locally are Terry Holt, 630 Byron St., and Ron Becker, 643 Hartsough. Holt is chairman of the project for northwest Wayne County and Becker is co-chairman and president of the Plymouth Hi-Y Club. "Let Freedom Ring" will extend across the nation as Hi-Y Clubs everywhere are organizing the four-minute church bell ringing. It is designed to renew America's heritage of freedom on Independence Day.

WITH OUR SENIOR CITIZENS

BY ETHEL MILLARD
GL 3-3782

Plymouth's Senior Citizens held a combined pot luck dinner and business meeting Thursday, June 27, at the Masonic Temple. Sixty-one members present.

We were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Kehrls daughter Mrs. Marie Bonamici who played her guitar and sang several old folk songs which we all enjoyed.

Our trip to Bob-Lo will be Thursday, July 11. The bus will leave the Masonic Temple at 8:30 a.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Fisher will serve as host and hostess for the month of July. The refreshment committee includes Mildred and Grant Camphausen, Mary and Leo Hughes, Esther Weigel, Juanita Kehrl and Arnold, Mrs. L. F. Nipp, Mary Schultz and Elsie Hohl.

Card playing ended the enjoyable afternoon.

No meeting will be held until July 18.

Plymouth's Senior Citizens held their weekly session Thursday, June 20, with 66 members present.

Our trip to Bob-Lo has been set for July 11. Time for leaving Temple will be determined at our next meeting.

The June 27 meeting will be a combined pot luck at 12:30 p.m. and our July business meeting.

Our group was well represented at the Farmington Senior Citizens card party. All members having birthdays in June were honored. Our refreshment committee served delicious cake, tea and coffee.

Cards were the entertainment for the afternoon.

Combined Meet

tion gradually develops.

Wernette broached the subject of a municipal water authority, one that would include not only the City and Township, but Northville and perhaps even Canton Township.

Lindsay said he would want to know more about the purpose and scope of such an authority. "We've already had one experience with a proposed water authority," he said, "and we're still paying the bills on it."

Several years ago a similar authority was suggested but never materialized for various reasons.

On the matter of Detroit water, City Commissioners listened attentively as Lindsay and his fellow Township Board members outlined what they considered to be major advantages of using Detroit water.

The Commission — and more precisely, the previous City Commission — has been reluctant to enter into further talks with Detroit over the possibility of Detroit water here.

Commissioner Robert Beyer had this to say:

"We've heard so many reports and rumors on Detroit water that maybe we're afraid to act on the matter."

Later he said "Maybe we've been misinformed about Detroit water."

An exchange of questions and answers between Township Trustee Ralph Garber and Commissioner James J. Houk followed.

"How much would the City expect the Township to pay toward the cost of a larger reservoir?" asked Garber.

"We haven't even considered the possibility yet," Houk replied.

Asked Garber: "Suppose the larger reservoir were built and was adequate to supply the western part of the Township. Would the City be willing to furnish us water out there?"

Houk answered: "We would be very receptive to that."

He added that the City "does not want to sit on a development of the Plymouth community."

Commissioner James J. Jbara asked if the Township felt a municipal water authority had merit. While he was not greeted with a specific answer in ensuing conversation it appeared the Township was receptive to the idea, or at least interested in exploring the possibility further.

Class of '58 Holds 5-Year Reunion Party

Plymouth High's graduating class of 1958 held its five-year reunion recently at the VFW Hall, and more than 150 people were on hand for the fun and festivities.

Carlton Bowling acted as master of ceremonies and numerous gifts for a variety of achievements were handed out. The evening included dinner and dancing.

The class paid special tribute to two members, Jeff Yoeman and Dan Hoben, who passed away.

Chairman of the reunion was Joan Fogarty, Donna Schwartz Hagen was treasurer and Gail Smith Cannady was secretary. Eight months of planning went into the reunion.

One member, Judy Hignote, traveled from Washington, D.C. to attend.

Chips from the ROCK

by William C. Scott, President Distribution Services, Inc.

"Let Your light so shine before men that they may see Your good works."

With that counsel there goes a grave responsibility to continue the light in all its intensity under all conditions. Our "Mr Chips" has burned a light for many years. He is not about to let that light go dim.

For it is this light — Community Life and Community Individuality, with the Home — that has been a major factor in making and keeping America great.

It is this light that has been Plymouth's Strength through many years — in stormy as well as calm times. It is still bright today. But our heritage needs to be kept in focus with appreciative regard — continuously — to keep the light burning brightly.

Is Plymouth's light in danger of dimming? Newcomers call our attention to what appears to them as a certain haze developing around the light. These newcomers ask: "Where are the people who are being prepared today for leading the community tomorrow?"

This is a timely question — a provocative one that calls for thoughtful consideration.

In today's mobile society people come, people go. The danger here is that the big city octopus and the strip cities have a tendency to strangle the enthusiasm for maintaining the community light and the rugged individualism that it represents. Cities are absorbing the dignity of the individual, the home, and the community.

To maintain the light of individuality and all that Plymouth stands for — to the individual, to the community and to the nation — we must prepare youth today for leadership tomorrow.

We must prepare youth to achieve leadership objectives such as have built Plymouth.

A look at Plymouth's development through personal enthusiasm for the community, is a worthy pattern to emulate.

To the local geography many years ago, people came to kindle their light in Plymouth. They continue to come. They continue to support a strong community. Many people have grown up in our community. Some have kept their roots here and others have gone elsewhere to build and maintain strong community life. These are people who have faith in the future, the virtues, the knowledge, the patience, the steadfastness, and the love to light a light and tend it.

Any one of us can name community leaders who have brought to us, as natives or immigrants, the strength that has made and continued to make Plymouth a shining light as a community.

But what of Plymouth's leadership for tomorrow? Plymouth children have remained or emigrated to other communities with faith to build and to stand steadfast. Is the past enough for the future? There are citizens who are greatly concerned with Plymouth as a community of the future and the sufficiency of the "youth products" of Plymouth. A mobile society demands a stalwart youth today to light, to reflect and keep the lights of rugged individualism burning in communities across America.

A few weeks ago a group of high school seniors did a magnificent job of standing square and tall, in front of Rotary, reporting on their stewardship for the year. Every man there was proud of these youths. But what about the other more than two hundred seniors? Was this small group representative? Were these fourteen enough to keep the Plymouth community light shining and also supply our share of missionary strong men to the rest of the World?

Ed Sawusch doesn't think so. Ed Sawusch feels that all three hundred seniors are important. All three hundred graduates must get the help of all, to fulfill their place in our community and Nation.

Cameron Lodge doesn't think so. Cameron Lodge feels that the adults of today have a real responsibility assisting all our youth in establishing a sound faith. "Faith that is the assurance of things hoped for and the conviction of things not seen" . . . responsibility in helping our youth to supplement that "faith with virtue, knowledge, patience, steadfastness, Godliness, brotherly love and charity."

We all have a responsibility to our God and ourselves to maintain and strengthen the Plymouth community light as a shining example of community strength in the mobile World of today.

Today's few stalwart leaders can't do it alone. All community leaders, and all people, must unite — enlist themselves in the Unity of Purpose drive — to build every "youth product" of Plymouth into a stalwart leader for tomorrow. Every adult must set the example, and by his example and a dedication of his talents and time, personally build "a youth a year as a man of tomorrow."

Who's going to spark it? Maybe a Cameron Lodge — maybe an Ed Sawusch — maybe a George Lawton — maybe someone who hasn't been heard from yet?
