

Township Approves Authority

At a special budget meeting of the Plymouth Township board, called last Wednesday by Supervisor Roy Lindsay, township trustees voted to approve the proposed Plymouth Community Planning Authority in co-operation with Canton Township and the City of Plymouth.

The township became the last of the three governmental units to endorse the authority. Approval came after a similar move had been defeated at a meeting of township trustees the day before.

The motion, made by Township Treasurer Mrs. Elizabeth Holmes and seconded by trustee Richard Lauterbach was passed after Supervisor Lindsay expressed opposition to the concept of the authority.

WHILE the township didn't set aside a specific sum, Lindsay told The Plymouth Mail there is enough in the contingency fund to handle the project.

Proposed to expand the industrial, retail and commercial tax base, the planning authority tentatively would consist of nine persons, three from each of the supporting governmental units.

Of the three representatives each from Canton and Plymouth Townships and the City of Plymouth, at least one would be a township trustee or a city commission member.

PROPOSED financial support would include $2,500 from Canton Township and $5,000 each from both the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

Additional funds, office space and secretarial help would be provided by the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce as requested by the authority.

Approval by Plymouth township climaxed more than a year of work on the concept of a planning authority that saw the school district refuse to participate following an opinion rendered by school

Discuss Services Building

Central housing of community and social services came up for discussion at last Wednesday's meeting of the Citizens for Plymouth steering committee, according to Russell Isbister, secretary of the group.

Isbister said members of the steering committee discussed plans for projects, one of which involves rebuilding of the former Knights of Columbus building behind the City Hall.

However, he emphasized, no agreement was reached on plans for a facility to house the services.

Included in the groups which might come under such a project would be the Cancer Society office, Junior Achievement, the Plymouth Community Fund and other organizations.

AFTER NATURE'S FURY:

Plymouthites Await Word From Alaskan Relatives

Nature's recent fury in Anchorage, Alaska, meant more than blazing newspaper headlines to at least five Plymouth families.

Word has been received from Anchorage that former Plymouthites Staff Sgt. Alan J. McMann and his wife and two children and Major Howard Ebersole, Sr., and his wife and son are safe and well.

At Noon today (Tuesday) word had still not been received as to the whereabouts or safety of Harold Hansen and Mrs. Hale Huber.

WORD WAS received by the William Grahams, of 575 Hartsough, that their daughter and her family were safe through a phone call at 2 a.m. Saturday by their son-in-law, Sgt. McMann. The phone call from Alaska was the first that the Grahams had heard of the earthquake.

Brilliant Climax

The Plymouth Symphony's 18th season is expected to come to a brilliant climax on Sunday evening, April 12 at 8:15 when the Turnau Opera Players present Gioacchino Rossini's "The Barber of Seville."

Consisting of six young singers, a stage manager and musical director, the Turnau Opera Players have staged over 350 performances of 40 operas and have given premieres of five contemporary works.

Baby sitter service will not be offered at this, the final concert of the present season.

BULLETIN — At press time, Mrs. Max Stroschein, of Marilyn St., notified The Plymouth Mail that she had just received a phone call from her mother in Foxham, Minn., informing her that she had received a letter in the morning mail from her son and Mrs. Stroschein's brother, Harold Hansen, who wrote that he and his family were safe. Hansen's wife had been at work in downtown Anchorage when the earthquake hit and was in the midst of the fury, but escaped unhurt.

McMann is the son of Mrs. Dorothy McMann, of Brownell St., who is visiting in England. As of Sunday McMann had been unable to reach his mother.

Sgt. McMann, who was interviewed on WWJ radio Saturday afternoon and heard again on the 6 p.m. Channel 4 newscast, told Mrs. Graham that he had evacuated his wife and seven-year-old son, John, and two-year-old Allen, from Elmendorf Air Force Base to Nu Naka Valley, about an hour's drive away. He said that although their house was left intact, furniture, lamps, etc., were broken from the force and that when the earthquake hit, two-year-old Allen was trapped in the kitchen with pans and dishes falling all around him, when the door jammed.

IN BRIEFLY describing the destruction, McMann told the Grahams that all patients in the base hospital, supposedly earthquake proof, had to be evacuated because of the large extent of broken plaster and glass.

Mrs. Graham told The Plymouth Mail that she never realized how many friends she had until they started calling at 9 a.m. Saturday to check on her family. The phone was busy all day Saturday and Sunday and she was still getting calls Monday.

Mrs. U. R. Sutfin, of Maple St., did not hear until late Sunday evening that her son, Maj. Ebersole, and his wife, the former Mary Gotts, daughter of Mrs. Robert Sechtel, of Northville, and 14-year-old son, Kurt, were safe.

She received word via a collect call from a ham radio operator in Seattle, Wash., who had picked up the following message from an Anchorage ham radio operator:

"YOUR family in Anchorage is safe and well - notify Mary's people." Mrs. Sutfin received another collect call from a Kentucky ham radio operator Monday morning who had also picked up the same message and was calling to relate the same. The Ebersoles moved from the City of Anchorage to Elmendorf Air Force Base, located about 1/2 miles away, a few months ago.

Tuesday morning, Mrs. Max Stroschein, of Marilyn St., still had not received any word about her brother, Harold Hansen, 30-year-old salesman for the New York Life Insurance Co. He and his wife have lived in Anchorage for approximately seven years. They have a two-year-old daughter.

Also, at Noon Tuesday, no word had been received concerning the three-month bride of Hale Huber, son of Mrs. Michael Huber, of S. Main St. Huber was in Minneapolis. (Continued on Page 5)

Second Corporation In 2 Weeks to Build Here

Another new industry, the second in as many weeks, was approved for Plymouth's Industrial Park at a special meeting of the City Commission held Monday evening in the City Hall.

Accepted was a bid of $6,000 from E. & E. Manufacturing Company, Inc. for a one acre plot located adjacent to the site of the recently approved Thermax Corporation plant on the east side of Industrial Road.

FROM ITS beginning with two employees 15 months ago, Smith said E. & E. has grown by leaps and bounds. About 15 production employees are expected to be working for the firm when it opens its new facilities in Plymouth.

By next fall, Smith estimated, from 20 to 25 workers will be needed. They will be hired from the Plymouth Community.

The new manufacturer will erect a 5,000 square foot, 16-foot clear span building of either steel or cement block construction with a brick front, Smith said. The structure will include 400 square feet of office space.

He told city commissioners the building will be started this week. E. & E. expects to occupy the new site by mid-June at least, he said.

AT THE present time, the firm uses presses with a 35 to 90 ton capacity to produce stampings for nine different corporations. Smith, noting that auto industry work is seasonal, said the firm hopes to diversify sufficiently to maintain a year around operation.

He said the higher ratio was more suited to communities with larger land areas.

Commissioners passed the amendment to the zoning ordinance at their last regular meeting after amending it to require two parking spaces for each multiple unit.

"THERE IS a question of whether, in an urban setting like this, you need a two to one parking ratio," the planning representative told commissioners.

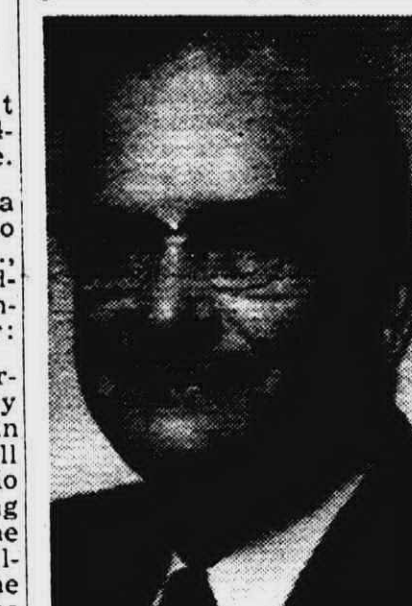

He said the higher ratio was more suited to communities with larger land areas.

Announce Anniversary Speaker

Featured speaker for Plymouth Rotary's 40th anniversary dinner, to be held next Monday at Lofy's at 7 p.m., will be Consumers Power Company administrative assistant for public relations Earl J. Hill.

Hill, a veteran of more than 35 years with Consumers Power, has held positions with Consumers as electrical distribution engineer, personnel and safety supervisor, general safety instructor and assistant general training supervisor.

Earl J. Hill

He is a member of the Jackson Industrial Executive Club, the American Society of Training Directors and a charter member of the Lansing Chapter of the American Society of Safety Engineers.

HE HOLDS a degree in electrical engineering from Tri-State College in Angola, Indiana.

Additional entertainment at the anniversary dinner will be provided by a harp duo from the University of Michigan.

Expected to attend are area Rotary officers and past district officers. Tickets are still available from members of the club's fellowship committee.

Headed by 35-year-old Wallace L. Smith, E. & E. Stamping is a manufacturer of metal stampings and assemblies used in the automotive and garage door industries. The firm, which has outgrown its present facilities, will move here from Detroit.

Charles Burgess is vice president of E. & E. Stamping and Raymond Booth is secretary-treasurer.

Immediately following approval of the new industry's bid, commissioners heard a representative from planning consultants Vilcan - Leman recommend the originally proposed one and a half to one ratio for parking around multiple dwelling units.

Commissioners passed the amendment to the zoning ordinance at their last regular meeting after amending it to require two parking spaces for each multiple unit.

mission should recommend this to the people of Plymouth.

"I don't think anybody in this community would welcome it. I'm not convinced the majority of the people in this town would agree with it. It would bring up an issue that's not facing us."

Disagreeing with Vallier, commissioner George Lawton said he thought the covenant should be reworded to apply to the city commission.

Mayor Richard Wernette pointed out that the covenant was worded mildly.

"As a governing body," he said, "we should exercise leadership. I personally would be in favor of going along with their (the relations commission's) recommendation."

Help!

A search was launched this week for a suitable site for the annual Fourth of July Carnival, sponsored by Plymouth's Junior Chamber of Commerce. The site used last year on the east side of Lilley Road has been sold to the National Concrete Company for construction of warehouse facilities.

A JayCee spokesman issued a plea for a 20 to 30-acre land parcel located in or near the City of Plymouth for the five-day event. He said JayCees have already signed a contract with a larger than ever carnival. Persons with a suitable area for the carnival are requested to call JayCee president Wendell E. Smith at 453-7847 or vice president Joseph R. Fletcher at 453-0463.

Additional entertainment at the anniversary dinner will be provided by a harp duo from the University of Michigan.

Expected to attend are area Rotary officers and past district officers. Tickets are still available from members of the club's fellowship committee.

Township O.K.'s Construction At Industrial Building Sites

The way was paved for construction of two new industrial buildings in Plymouth Township Wednesday when the township planning commission held a special meeting to grant building permits to the firms requesting them.

Reversing their stand of an earlier meeting, planners granted permission to the Cam Chem Co. to construct a plant on a five-acre site in the southeast corner of section 24, south of old Schoolcraft Road.

Construction on the unit is to start soon. The plant is expected to employ from nine to 12 men when finished.

Commissioners also approved what is expected to be the first of four industrial buildings to be built on the east side of Mill Street across from the Plymouth School District offices.

THE NATIONAL Concrete Company was granted permission to begin construction of a 12,960 square foot, one-story warehouse building at the site.

Jack E. Cook, president of the firm, told The Plymouth Mail the building will include 11,000 square feet of shop space and 1,100 square feet of office area.

He said the building will have an aluminum front with large plate glass windows. Construction will start immediately with footings expected to be poured by the end of the week.

THE UNIT should be complete in 30 days, Cook said. At first, it will be used by a trucking firm employed by the concrete company, but Cook noted that the building will be up for lease.

He noted that the structure will screen off the concrete pipe storage area at the rear of the property. The concrete company recently purchased the land from Frank Arlen, president of Plymouth's Industrial Development Corporation, Cook said.

Launch Drive Against Polio

An all-out drive to protect children against polio will be carried to local residents on two Sundays, April 19 and June 14 when clinics for the administration of oral polio vaccine will be set up in Plymouth Community Schools.

Under the supervision of Superintendent of Schools Russell Isbister and health officer Lee E. Feldkamp, M.D., the program will run from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days.

Clinics will be set up at Allen, Bird, Gallimore, Smith, Starkweather and Farrand Schools. Staffing each clinic will be the principal, a doctor, a pharmacist, three nurses and 20 lay volunteers, drawn from Parent-teacher groups, to keep records.

IN ADDITION, six boy scouts, a scoutmaster, a janitor and two bank tellers are expected to be on hand. The tellers will collect requested donations of 50 cents per person to cover costs. Red Cross workers will be on hand to help nurses.

However, Isbister emphasized, no one will be turned away for lack of funds. The smallness of the donation is based on the assumption that civic groups and organizations will help staff the stations where vaccine will be dispensed.

Concerning the program, Isbister noted that no one is predicting a polio epidemic, but the best way to prevent (Continued on Page 5)

Grimmer, president. We regret the omission.

They, too, were gone by Friday.

Methodist Men To See New Turbine Car

The new Chrysler turbine car will be the subject of the program for the meeting of the Men's Club of the First Methodist Church, April 6, at 8 p.m.

The manager of turbine and special car product planning for Chrysler Corporation, George Fenstermacher, will be the speaker for the program and will show a sound movie concerning the turbine car. The car will be on display in the church parking lot.

There are 60 Chrysler Turbine cars which are being used by persons across the country. All the cars are four passenger, two door, hard-tops, with four bucket seats.

The exterior color of the cars is Turbine bronze and the roof is covered with black vinyl. The interior is bronze leather.

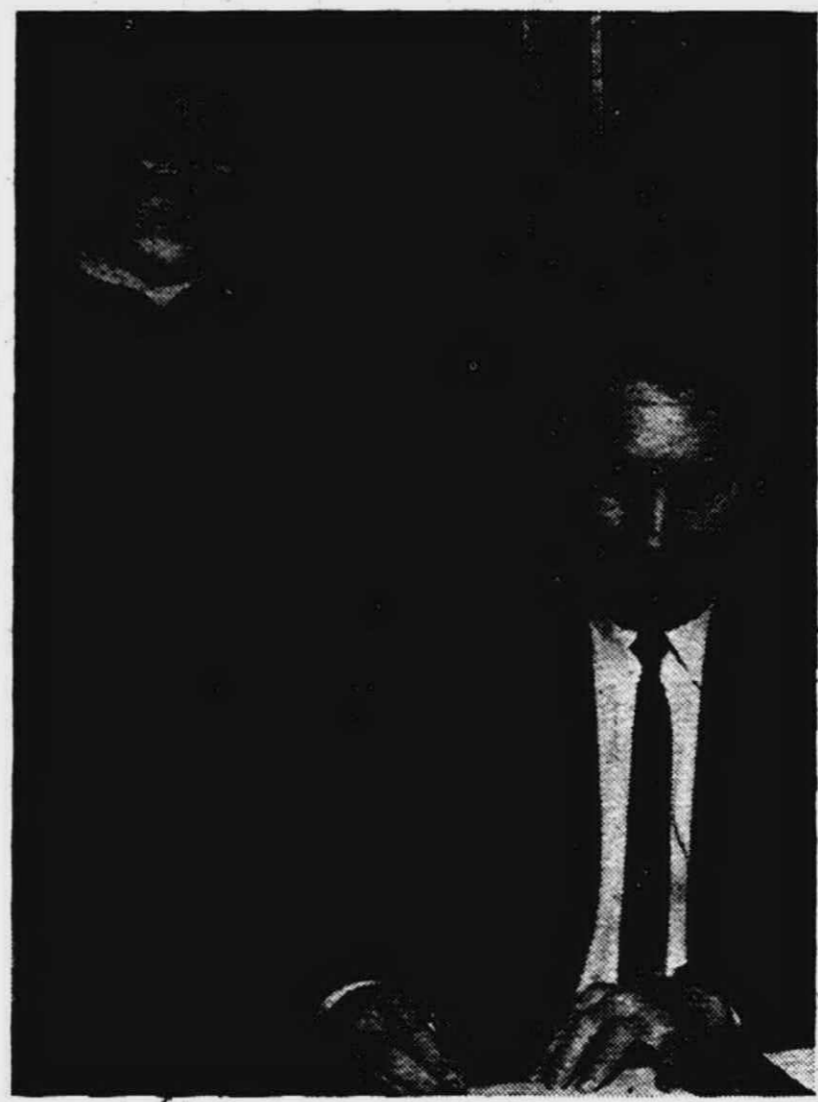

All the cars include automatic transmission, power steering, brakes and windows, padded instrument panel, front seat safety belts and undercoating.

Two large tubular headlight rims dominate the front end styling of the car. The head lamp housings also serve as the front bumpers.

"Swept back" aerodynamic styling dominates the rear of the Turbine car. The turbine car engine has 80% fewer moving parts than the conventional engine. It provides fuel economy and is free from vibrations. The engine, transmission and suspension of the car may be removed as a single unit because of a new unit front suspension giving servicemen greater accessibility.

Wives of Men's Club members and their teenage sons are invited to attend this meeting. For reservations call the president of the Men's Club, Charles Childs 453-0592, or the church office 453-5280.

A SOPHOMORE at Plymouth High School, Edward Wendover (above), puts the finishing touches on his exhibit, chosen from a regional fair, for the Metropolitan Science Fair, at Cobo Hall. The fair is open to the public from Saturday, April 4 through Tuesday, April 7. He is the first entrant from Plymouth High School in the seven years of the science fair's existence. His display is concerned with algae and how it affects a mouse in an air tight container. Edward, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Wendover, 10151 Joy Rd., has entered displays in two previous fairs. He received a blue ribbon as a seventh grader, but his exhibit, made when he was in eighth grade, was eliminated prior to the finals. He spent a year and a half working on his present exhibit.

SIGNING THE proclamation declaring April Cancer Crusade Month in Plymouth is Mayor Richard H. Wernette, Mrs. Francis Patterson, head of the Plymouth Cancer Society office and area Cancer Crusade Chairman looks on.

Declare April Cancer Control Month Here

At the special city commission meeting held Monday night, Mayor Richard H. Wernette signed a proclamation declaring April Cancer Control Month in the City of Plymouth. The proclamation reads as follows:

WHEREAS The President of the United States, by direction of an Act of Congress, has proclaimed April as Cancer Control Month in recognition of the battle that still needs to be waged against this dreaded enemy of mankind, and

WHEREAS It is the personal responsibility of every citizen to acquaint himself with all available facts on cancer detection and treatment in order to protect his own life and the lives of those nearest and dearest to him, and

WHEREAS It is the objective of the Michigan Cancer Foundation, by means of wide-spread promotion of a new educational film for men, "Time Out for Living," and distribution of factual information on cancer, to motivate the public to protect their lives from cancer by means of regular examinations by their physicians and a thorough knowledge of the Seven Warning Signals of Cancer:

THEREFORE, I, Richard H. Wernette, Mayor of the City of Plymouth, urge every citizen of this community to join with me in observance of April, 1964, as CANCER CONTROL MONTH and to participate to the fullest extent in the month-long Crusade of the Michigan Cancer Foundation, a Torch Drive April 1 through 30, 1964.

AND, FURTHER that all the citizens of Plymouth cooperate in every way possible with the Michigan Cancer Foundation's three-fold program to aid research, to educate the public in the importance of early detection and prompt medical treatment of cancer, and to be of service to the cancer-afflicted persons of this area.

Streets Stabilized With Salt

Approximately 16 tons of salt has been used to stabilize 600 tons of gravel in the construction of two catch basins on Byron St., according to a news release from Plymouth Public Works Superintendent Joseph Bida.

Serving Our Country

James E. Foerster, Pvt. James E. Foerster, whose wife, Linda, lives at 315 Roe St., Plymouth, Mich., completed an artillery track vehicle maintenance course at the Army Artillery and Missile Center, Fort Sill, Okla., March 27.

Foerster, son of Mrs. Shirley L. Sutherland, 11349 S. Worth, Plymouth, attended Plymouth High School. His father, James E. Foerster, lives at 98 Harvey St., Coldwater.

Rock salt, Bida explained, is used as a stabilizer because it is both easy to handle and does not dissolve entirely during construction. The reserve comes with moisture to create a brine which acts as a thermostat and controls the moisture.

In a heavy rain, Bida explained, the salt brine acts as a barrier, permitting the surface clay to form a colloidal jelly that seals off the top surface and resists downward drainage. During extreme dry heat, the brine moves upward and the salt recrystallizes to hold the surface clay in place and to shield the bed from sun and heat rays to maintain the necessary moisture.

SALT LOWERS the freezing point, during the winter months, so that frost cannot really penetrate the soil, Bida says. As it becomes warmer the salt brine moves up in the mass to protect the rock and clay from sudden, violent changes and destructive contraction and expansion, according to Bida.

Salt has been used to stabilize many miles of Plymouth streets and has proved satisfactory.

Schoolcraft Buys Books, Given Machines

Latest reports on the development of the Schoolcraft College Library indicate that 14,000 books have been purchased to date. Patrick Butler, Librarian of the College, said many faculty members are now submitting lists of books which will be used in specific courses.

Recent additions in the fields of economics, technology, art, music, government, history, geography, literature, philosophy, nursing, mathematics, and science have been made.

When the College opens, a collection of 20,000 books will be on hand to satisfy the needs of all of the courses to be offered. The library shelving provides for a collection of 35,000 volumes.

In other college news, officials announced receipt from General Motors Corporation a gift of an addressograph machine, a graphotype machine, and two addressograph storage cabinets.

The equipment was secured by Kenneth Lindner, Business Manager of the College, through contacts with John Bryant of the Educational Relations section of General Motors.

Discuss Michigan Week Ceremonies

Plans for Plymouth's Michigan Week Celebration got off the ground last Thursday morning as an 11-man group of committee chairmen met in Plymouth's Mayflower Hotel to discuss the week-long activities scheduled for May 17-23.

City clerk Richard Shafer, Our Government Day chairman, told the group talks have been conducted with Claws on Mayor LaVern Anderson about Mayor Exchange. Anderson will be visiting Plymouth while Plymouth Mayor Richard Wernette travels to Clawson.

Generally, Shafer said, plans call for a luncheon and tours of Plymouth. SPIRITUAL Foundation Day chairman, The Rev. Edward W. Castner said a list of about 15 possible suggestions has been submitted by members of the Plymouth Ministerial group.

Michigan Week Chairman

William J. Nelson said he was inclined to favor a community sunrise service in answer to a suggestion by Rev. Castner and City Manager Albert Glassford.

Our Livelihood Day chairman George Lawton said possible events might include recognition ceremonies for three or four new industries in Plymouth.

Meetings with social administrators have been held to discuss activities in the schools for Education Day, according to chairman Russell Isbister. He said activities in social studies classes may center around the Water-Winter Wonderland theme of the State of Michigan.

City Hall cornerstone laying ceremonies will highlight Our Heritage Day, Friday, May 22. Chairman Sidney Strong said the program will probably include school bands and a boy scout color guard.

KIDS, KIDS, kids. That's what Plymouth JayCees had on their hands last Sunday afternoon at the Easter egg hunt behind Plymouth High School. From 4-600 children scamped over the school grounds to find 5,500 hand-wrapped packages of candy prepared by Junior Chamber of Commerce members. Some of the packets, tagged, were good for prizes. First prize was a $25 U.S. Savings Bond. There were three second prizes of gift certificates from Plymouth stores and 32 third prizes of dolls. JayCees took excess candy to the Wayne County Training School. JayCees termed the event a success and said it would become an annual affair.

Warn Against Chain Letter Schemes Here

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce today warned against chain letter schemes that violate the postal lottery and fraud laws. Wendell Lent, president of the Chamber, said the schemes involve United States Savings Bonds, postal money orders and cash and have cropped up on college campuses and many other areas throughout the country. He cited reports of chain letter activity at colleges in Mississippi, Wisconsin, Indiana, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and New York, among others.

According to the National Better Business Bureau, with which the local Chamber is affiliated through membership, the upsurge in chain letter schemes has prompted Chief Postal Inspector Henry B. Montague to order a nationwide crackdown on violators of the postal lottery and fraud laws. Participants in these schemes are generally college students.

Although some chain letters involved are transferred hand-to-hand and state, "Do Not Mail," the Chamber warned that the schemes still may be violations of the postal laws since proceeds are usually mailed.

Lent said postal authorities consider terms of the U.S. Code sufficiently broad to encompass anything concerning the conduct of a lottery, including Savings Bonds sent pursuant to an endless chain scheme, even though the letters may be distributed by hand.

The Chamber said the Treasury Department disapproves of the use of chain letters as a means of selling Savings Bonds. In 1955 the Treasury Secretary asked all Federal Reserve Banks to advise issuing agents to reject applications for Savings Bonds made in connection with a chain letter scheme.

The Department recently reminded its state directors of this ruling. In the typical chain letter scheme involving Savings Bonds, the letter is purchased with a bond and another bond is sent to the person at the top of the list, whose name is then removed. The new participant adds his name to the bottom and tries to sell the letter to two additional participants to continue the chain and recover his investment.

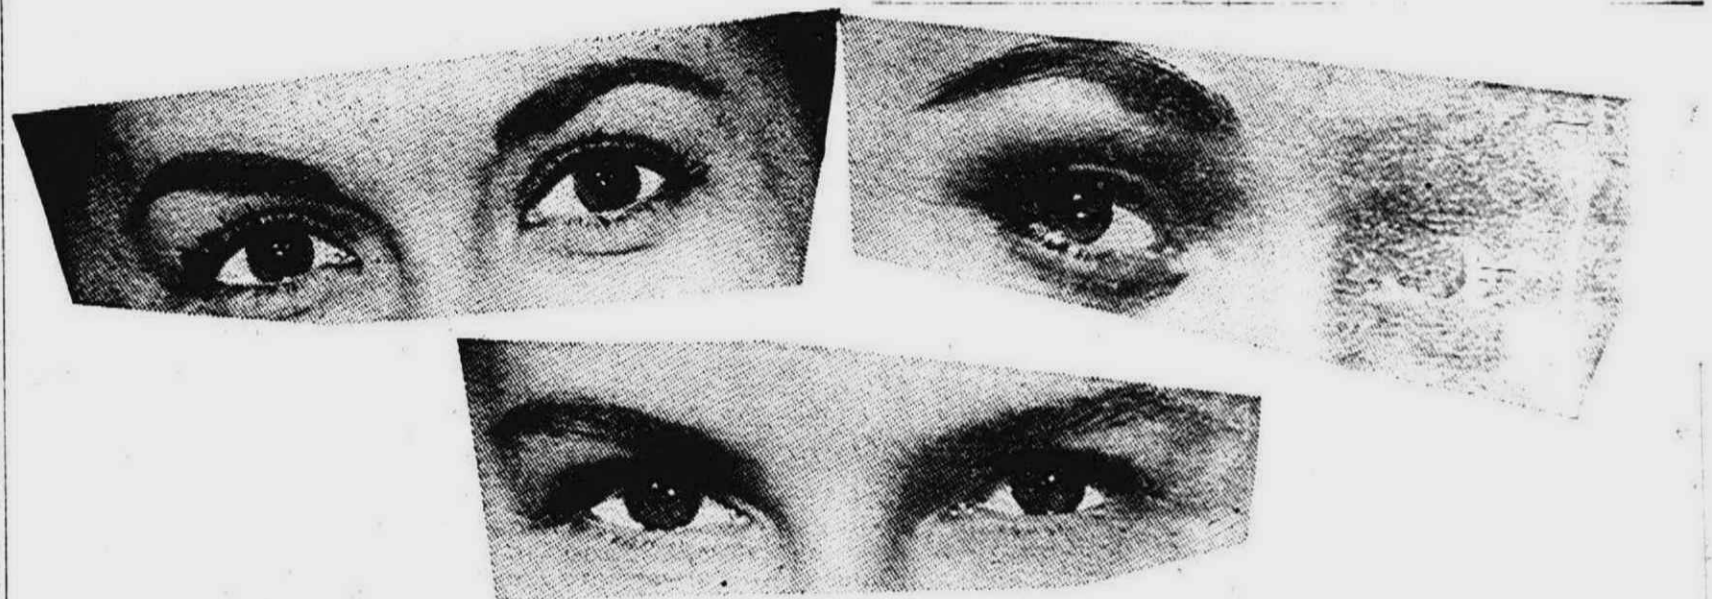

Lent noted that efforts to avoid prosecution under the lottery laws by eliminating the element of chance are evident in some recent chain letter schemes. This gimmick involves having the potential participant place his own name on the bond used to purchase the letter, as a co-winner. This enables him to cash the bond if he is unable to sell two letters, thereby incurring no personal loss.

However, Lent said, the General Counsel for the Post Office Department has ruled that despite this dodge the scheme remains a violation of the postal lottery and fraud laws.

Massachusetts, according to Lent. In Chicago alone three widows were bilked of a total of $18,130. In four other instances the potential victims telephoned Chicago police and were protected.

Lent said that men have an ingenious way of checking whether the prospect plans to cooperate, or whether she immediately calls the police.

The widow is instructed to leave her phone off the hook. Within minutes the con man calls back. He can tell by the signal whether the telephone is disconnected or whether a call is being made. In the latter case he surmises that the intended victim is calling the police and halts the operation.

Set Benefit For Victims of Earthquake

A benefit Gospel Sing — with proceeds to be sent to earthquake victims in Alaska — is currently being organized by Robert Cook, of 44736 Joy Rd.

Cook, co-ordinator for area gospel singing groups, told The Plymouth Mail Tuesday morning that the benefit performance will be held Saturday, April 18, in the Plymouth High School auditorium, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The four groups, scheduled to appear are the Zirkle Brothers, of Akron, O.; the Crain Family, of Taylor; the Country Gospelaires, of Dayton, O., and J. D. Jarvis and his Smoky Mountain Gospel Group, of Hamilton, O.

The groups were previously scheduled to appear at the high school on that date, but according to Cook, will now donate proceeds to the quake victims.

Cook is currently seeking the backing of Plymouth ministers hoping that all area congregations to attend the benefit.

Admission to the benefit will be free, but a collection will be taken up during the performance.

Additional information is available from Cook at GL 3-4294.

Elderly Widows Swindled in Con Game

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce today warned of a confidence game in which elderly widows have been swindled of substantial sums by "helping to trap bank embezzlers."

Wendell Lent, president of the Chamber outlined the scheme. He said that con men have employed several variations of a complicated ruse to bilk 65 to 80-year-old widows in five states out of many thousands of dollars.

According to the National Better Business Bureau, with which the Chamber is affiliated through membership, the swindlers operate as follows:

A widow is telephoned by someone who identifies himself as a Federal Agent or security officer for the bank in which she has a savings account.

She is informed that the bank suspects one of its tellers to be an embezzler and is asked to cooperate in trapping him.

If she agrees, she is told to go to the bank, withdraw several thousand dollars and take it home in an envelope.

Adding a touch of realism, the con man may even caution his elderly victim to wear white gloves so her fingerprints will not be on the envelope or the money within.

A taxi is sent to pick up the widow and take her home again after the money is withdrawn. Then a "messenger" arrives at her house to pick up the envelope so that the money can be examined for fingerprints and then returned to her savings account.

When she finally does begin to worry and calls the bank, it is too late. Both money and messenger have disappeared.

Such swindles have been reported in Washington, Illinois, Ohio, New York and

Local News Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin C. Guthrie, of Newburg Rd., spent 10 days of March in Greensboro, Ga., at the home of their son, Thomas and his wife Nancy. Mr. Guthrie flew home and Mrs. Guthrie remained two more weeks and with Mrs. S. F. Guthrie, of Petoskey, visited Jekyll Island and Savannah, Ga., and Charleston, S.C. While at "hareston" they visited the famous Middleton Magnolia and Cypress Gardens.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Guthrie entertained at dinner on Easter Sunday at Plum Hollow Golf Club. Their guests were Miss Rosemary Guthrie, Mrs. S. F. Guthrie, of Petoskey, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin C. Guthrie, Jr., of Dearborn, and three grandchildren, Melvin, III, Sharon Rose and William Guthrie.

Bell Begins Phone Book Deliveries

The Michigan Bell Telephone Co. announced today that it will spend a total of $526,000 in Plymouth this year for the expansion and improvement of its facilities.

Hazen J. Wilson, manager here for Michigan Bell, said the expenditure is part of a statewide 1964 construction program of $83.1 million — nearly $5 million in excess of the 1963 outlay.

Wilson said this year's program was increased by the company in response to the intent of the federal tax reduction to stimulate the economy through stepped-up business activity.

In Plymouth, the program calls for the expenditure of $131,000 for telephone equipment in homes and offices, $256,000 for central office equipment, $73,000 for outside plant facilities, and about $66,000 for land and buildings.

Throughout the state, Wilson said, more than half the company's 1964 program — $49.1 million — has been earmarked for expansion to meet growth. Michigan Bell expects to add 110,000 telephones to the more than 3,200,000 now in use.

Aside from the gain in telephones, the company anticipates an increase in telephone usage, including an eight per cent boost in long distance calling.

WIRED MASKS and floats were in order last Thursday evening as scouts from Cub Pack 863, Farrand School, held a Mardi Gras in keeping with the cub theme for the month of March.

Accompanied by their parents, 45 cubs turned out for the event. Shown here with their leader, John Rudlaff, the cubs took part in activities including an awards ceremony and three skits.

THESE FIVE Plymouthises, together with their instructor, recently completed the Sunset District Scout Leaders Training Series of weekly evening sessions, a seven-week course for Cub Scout Leaders, Cubmasters, Scoutmasters, committeemen and den mothers met at the Grant Elementary School in Livonia for training. The graduates are entitled to wear the "trained arc" on their uniform sleeve. Shown above, left to right, are Mrs. M. H. Moen of 14858 Lakewood, Mrs. Naomi Pelley, Mrs. Dolores Andrews, John A. ### Cornerstone Luncheon Set

State and National legislators, city commission members, building authority representatives and participants in the city hall cornerstone laying ceremonies are expected to take part in a luncheon scheduled for Friday, May 22 — the day of the rites at the new city hall.

This and other plans were discussed at a meeting of the cornerstone laying committee held last Friday afternoon in City Manager Albert Glassford's office.

Committee members requested that the copper box for the cornerstone be prepared as soon as possible so the quantity of the contents can be decided upon.

Friday, May 22 is Our Heritage Day during Michigan Week. The ceremonies are scheduled for 2 p.m. Bandleader James Griffith has offered the high school band as a participant in the rites to be held.

Commissioners Split

(Continued from Page 1) Edward F. Draugelis noted, "A person who opposes it would be opposing the very law upon which this nation is founded. I think Mr. Munshaw and his commission should be commended."

"In an area such as this," Lawton said, "you either stand for or against it. No city in the country stands in the middle very long. I don't know whether it's politically good or bad to vote for the covenant, but it stands for what I believe."

In answer to a suggestion by Vallier that the covenant be re-worded to eliminate the term "welcome," Lawton said he would hate to see the phraseology watered down.

"If we don't change it," Vallier contended, "it will be broadcast pretty heavily that we are welcoming it." Vallier said passage of the covenant could do more harm than good.

Vallier said he originally had recommended the formation of the human relations commission to block efforts from the City of Detroit to force organization of such a unit. He termed the covenant "premature."

Speaking for the Human Relations Assembly was Richard McGinn of 42325 Brentwood in Plymouth Township. He said about 100 signatures of assembly members had been added to the document. In addition, he said, the Plymouth Ministerial Association had endorsed the covenant.

Commissioners split 3-3 on an amendment offered by Vallier to reword the covenant to eliminate the word "welcome."

They split again on a motion by Lawton to approve the measure. Voting yes were commissioners Beyer and Lawton and Mayor Wernette. Commissioners Houk, Vallier and Jabara cast negative votes. Commissioner Robert Smith was not present at the meeting.

Launch Polio Drive

MEDICAL science has discovered an effective, safe and easily administered vaccine which can be taken orally with water or in sugar.

The Council of the Wayne County Medical Society has approved the report of its committee on public health advocating a campaign to immunize every individual over one year of age in Wayne County.

The new vaccine requires a second feeding approximately eight weeks after the first — in the Plymouth area, scheduled for June 14.

THE TRIVALENT form of oral polio vaccine, used in the program, achieves the same degree of protection against all three types of polio virus in two feedings instead of three.

It is fully licensed and approved by the Surgeon General, U.S. Public Health Service.

Isbister will co-ordinate and take responsibility for physical arrangements including buildings, guides, parking and communications.

He urged persons to take advantage of the program and appear at the nearest center to them on Sunday, April 19.

Twp. Approves

(Cont'd from Pg. 1, Sec. 1) district attorney William Sempliner that it could not legally do so.

IN CONTRAST to Sempliner's ruling, Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley handed down an opinion that the school district could, in fact, legally throw financial support behind a planning authority.

The school board has endorsed, in principle, the concept of the planning unit.

Relations Commission Sees Future Roles

Following a series of initial meetings, Plymouth's official Human Relations Commission sees a dual role for itself in the future, according to information released this week by Carroll Munshaw, chairman of the group appointed last fall by Plymouth Mayor Richard Wernette.

Munshaw outlined the future activities of the commission as he saw it. He said:

"It can serve as a hearing board for any complaints resulting from discrimination in housing, employment, education or public services that may be brought by citizens in the Plymouth area."

"And," he said "the commission must work forcefully through education and in cooperation with like-minded unofficial organizations to insure that all people of all races are accepted into the community with a minimum of unpleasantness."

THE 13-MEMBER group was appointed after consultation with the supervisors of Canton and Plymouth Township. Munshaw said the commission is fully aware of the need for establishing guidelines as an aid in charting a future course of action. In its first meetings, the group has covered the following areas:

- (1) It attempted to become better acquainted with its own varying viewpoints on human relations problems.
- (2) Agreed that it does not represent any special interest groups, but the community as a whole.
- (3) Discussed with Assistant Attorney General Leon Cohen the legal aspects of civil rights under the new constitution.
- (4) Discussed with a local realtor, at a closed meeting, the present status of Negro housing in the Plymouth area.
- (5) Endorsed the lecture series on civil rights sponsored by the Plymouth Human Relations Assembly.

Plymouthises Await Word

(Cont'd from Pg. 1, Sec. 1) force radio station out of Sitka, McMann told Gray, an old school friend, that although the destruction was serious, it was not as great as described in newspapers. He added that Alaska residents, because of the breakdown of communications, did not learn of the full extent of the damage until the Seattle newspapers arrived. Gray told The Plymouth Mail that McMann sends him fish and caribou from time to time.

Second Corporations

(Cont'd from Pg. 1, Sec. 1) in the sale of urban renewal property and the amount of commissions involved were asked to prepare recommendations from local realtors to be submitted at the commission's April 20 meeting.

A resolution was passed opposing state legislation to require a referendum before the enactment of local income taxes.

man Relations Commission to "give its attention to the problems of its youth, its economically and socially deprived, and its aged... and attempt to create through education, a favorable climate for welcoming all persons into the City of Plymouth regardless of race, color or creed."

The commission meets on the third Wednesday of each month at 3:30 p.m. at the Dunning-Hough Library. The public is invited to attend the meetings.

Munshaw said the commission cannot, according to the Attorney General's office, recommend legal remedies on a local level; but it may be able to resolve conflicts by mutual agreement or, failing this, see that the complaint reaches the Michigan Civil Rights Commission.

IN ITS resolution creating the group, the Plymouth City Commission directed the Hu-

School Priority Committee Emphasizes Staff Needs

Staff needs were emphasized as most important with the four-man priority committee appointed recently returned its recommendations to the Plymouth Community School District's joint committee for vocational education.

The priority group, which includes high school principal Carvel Bentley, Philip Johnson, William Campbell and Mrs. Merle Atchinson, was appointed less than a month ago after a staff committee turned in recommendations to improve the school district's vocational and business education programs.

Estimated cost of the recommendations made at that time was in excess of $475,000. In their priority report, dated March 18, the committee detailed changes as follows:

IN THE co-op program, the committee recommended one additional person to teach three classes and do part-time coordination. They urged the addition of one staff member to the industrial arts department to teach five classes where needed.

The hiring of a part-time employee to teach three classes was recommended for the homemaking department.

Under equipment needs, the committee suggested that display cases, cash registers and other equipment for retailing classes be given top priority.

Next in line, the group urged purchase of dictaphones, rotary calculators and printing calculators for business machine classes. Third on the list for business education classes was the purchase of an overhead projector, recommended for the 1964-65 budget.

FOR HOMEMAKING classes, the priority committee urged purchase of equipment detailed in the original report to the vocational education committee.

The group declined to spell out priorities for the industrial arts department until construction plans are completed and use of the new space can be detailed.

Third, and lowest, priority was given to construction of additional space for the business education department, purchase of electric typewriters and construction areas for the industrial arts department.

Recommendations in these areas will presumably be made at a later time.

MAKING FIDDLES requires a spirit of perfection, a steady hand and an eye for measuring, according to Leo Kowalcik, whose hobby is making violins. Kowalcik, above, chisels out a top or bottom for a fiddle he is working on.

DYING OUT:

Local Fiddle Maker Perpetuates Lost Art

"The art of fiddle making is dying out," Leo Kowalcik, veteran Plymouth fiddle maker and head maintenance man at Plymouth High School, exclaimed.

He explained that "canned music" (records) is so easy to make that persons have lost interest in fiddle making, and the old fiddle makers are, if not fading away, dying. Kowalcik, a pleasant, always smiling man who appears to be many years younger than his age, learned to make violins from the man who taught him to play. After having worked with wood all his life, he started his first fiddle in 1938 and is now improving it in addition to working on several other fiddles.

The goal in making a violin is to make one that one day will compare favorably to a Stradivarius.

Making a violin is like being a good cook, Kowalcik says. You not only need all the correct ingredients, but you also must know how to put them together.

Although few tools are used in making the instrument—a Stradivarius pattern mold, chisels of varying sizes, gauges, and clamps to hold the parts—it is delicate work to build a good violin. The tone of the fiddle depends on how it has been put together.

Care must be taken in selecting the top and bottom of the fiddle. Each piece of wood has its own tone which can be discovered, after many years of experience, by rubbing your fingers back and forth across the wood. Kowalcik explained as he picked up a piece of wood and demonstrated the technique. The top and bottom must match to achieve the best tone.

The back of the fiddle is usually made of maple and the top is spruce or fir to achieve the proper density for the instrument. The wood for each piece is carefully selected for grain as well as tone. Kowalcik explained. The neck is made of ebony.

He is always collecting wood for future violins and even found some old bleached boards that are beautiful pieces of wood, he says. If you buy your wood, you sometimes have to pay $45 or $50 for a good piece slightly larger than you need for the body of the fiddle.

"Much loving care goes into making a good fiddle," Kowalcik says. Certain measurements must be made for the thickness and depth of each part in addition to the careful selection of wood. The length of the fiddle, without the neck, must be between 14 and 14 1/4 inches; the front of the fiddle is graduated from 3 1/16 inches at the belly (center) to 1/4 inch at the edges. He chisels out the sections first by eye and then measures them.

Before Kowalcik varnishes a fiddle he rubs it with water to raise the grain of the wood and then sands it, so that his finished product will be smooth.

Each fiddle maker has his own formula for making the varnish and each considers this his secret, according to Kowalcik. Every one thinks he has the Stradivarius formula for the varnish. Kowalcik is also one of the founding fathers of the Plymouth Symphony. He explained that he played both the fiddle and the viola before his hands were damaged in an accident about six years ago.

He used to play with an orchestra in Detroit and commuted back and forth to Plymouth. Tired of the trip into Detroit all the time, he said he hit on the idea of a symphony in Plymouth. The group he played with gave a concert here and the response was so good that he advertised for musicians for a Plymouth symphony.

Kowalcik's second love after fiddle making is fishing. He also is an amateur artist and collects miniature vases, in addition to making cabinets and bookcases, for Plymouth High School.

"When I retire all I'll do will be work on my fiddles," he said with a smile. At present his work space at home is cramped because he recently moved from an eight-room house to three rooms; but he is making plans to add a large area for just his fiddle making and his high-fish set. Kowalcik has completed eight fiddles, all of which he plans to give to his five children and 17 grandchildren one day.

Plymouth Kiwanis Hears Rev. Hugh White

Two Men, A Donkey and A Fig Tree" was the title of the presentation of Rev. Hugh White of Plymouth's First Methodist Church at last week's Kiwanis Club meeting. Our Lord spent his time getting ready for this last week of his life. Many of us overlook the importance of being prepared. The people of Europe place the emphasis on Maundy Thursday and Good Friday, whereas we in America place the emphasis on Palm Sunday and Easter. I feel that we miss something by not placing more importance on Maundy Thursday and Good Friday.

Let us think about this last week of Jesus' life. Jesus chose to enter Jerusalem riding on the colt of a donkey, a somewhat unusual way, his feet almost touching the ground. Jesus could have walked much easier.

This spectacle could be likened to a local parade with marching band, flags, and including cadillacs, lincolns and imperials, with the guest of honor riding in an old pickup truck. Jesus could sense that there was something wrong on this day we call Palm Sunday. There was a lack of rhythm, something like the driver on the expressway who is traveling 40 mph when everyone else is going 55 mph.

On Monday, Jesus was walking on a road and came to a fig tree. Jesus said that no one would eat figs from this tree. Some thought this was a curse, but in reality he could see that, even though the tree was in full bloom, there was some disease that prevented the tree from being fruitful.

On Tuesday Jesus cleansed the temple by driving out the money changers. Some people asked where He got His authority. Some asked if it was lawful to pay a tax. Jesus answered by asking for a Denarius, a coin. "Render unto Caesar what is Caesar's and to God what is God's."

with a past poured precious ointment on Jesus' feet and dried them with her hair. His followers criticized her, saying the ointment should have been sold and the money given to the poor. Jesus rebuked them and voiced his approval on what she had done.

On Thursday Jesus gathered his chosen twelve for a meal because He wanted and needed their fellowship to carry out His Work. On Friday at 3 o'clock in the morning Jesus was tried in the local Sanhedrin for violating both Jewish and Roman laws and was condemned to death on the cross. The cross was the perfect method of execution: slow, sure, and psychologically perfect. The Bible does not give any information on Saturday, hence the name Silent Saturday.

On Sunday, Resurrection Morning, something did happen. Jesus rose from the dead. God appeared to the people. Rev. White closed with this statement, "Go with Christ this last week."

Tim Wernette expressed a sincere thanks to the Kiwanis Club for sending Bill Way and himself as representatives of the Plymouth Key Club to the State Key Club Conference in Grand Rapids on March 21 and 22. The conference included several seminars and interesting speakers and the delegates elected their state officers for the coming year during a banquet on Sunday after church. Wernette felt that the program was very well organized and inspired all the delegates in attendance.

A salty program will be presented on April 7 by Kiwanian Joe Bida and guest speaker Bill Mason from the Morton Salt Company. April 14 is Library Week and the speaker will be Mrs. Warren Worth from the Dunning-Hough Library.

125 Attend Bird P.T.A. Meeting

Approximately 125 members of Bird School P.T.A. and their friends heard Arthur Rule speak on "Problems With Today's Youth," at the P.T.A. meeting held last Tuesday evening. Rule, administrative assistant to Judge James Lincoln, judge of Wayne County Juvenile Court, replaced Lincoln as speaker for the meeting due to sudden illness in the Lincoln family. Speaking to one of the largest-attended meetings of the year, Rule discussed both juvenile delinquents and delinquent parents, saying that in many cases the delinquent parents are large contributors toward the causes of juvenile delinquency.

Salem Progress Committee Hears Engelke, Price

Special to The Plymouth Mail Dr. Engelke, who teaches public health at University of Michigan, spoke first of the various diseases that can occur when there's a breakdown in the sewage system. He stated that he believes all public health problems can be prevented provided the various regulations and standards for the disposal of sewage, etc. are complied with. A soil survey was made of the area by the Conservation Department and found to be chiefly No. 1 (sandy soil) and No. 2 (clay loam). Public health problems occur when septic tanks or other private means of sewage disposal are maintained on property when the soil is of No. 2 type. This restricts water movement causing discharge of the septic tank to the surface of the ground which in turn can be transmitted by flies, rodents or other carriers of sickness or by persons or household pets. Since this particular type of soil will not permit proper drainage, pollution of wells or other sources of water supply and streams or bodies of water could become a hazard to public health.

In Salem Township, many landowners have had their applications for septic tank permits turned down for these reasons. Mr. Price, who also teaches at the University of Michigan, spoke next on what he termed a possible key to Salem Township's future-sewer service. Two firms are now making a study of the area to determine soil type, ground water conditions or elevations, etc. in the possibility that a sewage disposal plant may be feasible. One possibility, some people feel is the only logical answer, is to negotiate a contract for sewer service with Wayne County.

The question is - How should Salem be served and what will be the cost? What the builder does today will have to be lived with for a long time. As the community grows, his responsibilities as a citizen grows also. The results of the topographic survey should be known and acted upon in the near future.

There has been an interesting political battle over in neighboring Livonia. I have no interest in the "rights and wrongs" of any of the issues which have been involved but I am prompted to say a good word for an old friend whether he may win, lose or draw in the mayoralty contest in which he is involved.

Back in 1949 Jesse Ziegler and Harry Wolfe introduced me to Livonia's new Township attorney, William Brashear. It was in those early days that Township officials were urging me to produce a newspaper for Livonia, which I did, and because of this I became more than familiar with Livonia residents, their problems and their growing pains.

I watched with interest the change from Township to City and naturally followed the careers of the men who made this possible. Prominent among them, of course, was young Mr. Brashear who went on to serve in many capacities in the formation of the City. Among them being his election to the Charter Commission in 1950, his appointment later that year as City attorney and then assistant to the Mayor, finally culminating his years of service by being elevated to the mayoralty himself.

During these six years, when he served as Mayor, I worked closely with him on many occasions in the interest of the City of Livonia. One such incident was the tremendous energy he produced to help me in the Legislative fight in Lansing to save the City's half million dollar race track revenue which had been threatened in the Senate.

MAYOR BRASHEAR and myself pictured in the Legislature with a portion of the thousands of letters which came to my desk deploring the State's threat to Livonia City funds.

Throughout this period I was privileged to know "Bill" Brashear intimately and a finer gentleman I don't think I have ever met. He has a warmth and understanding, a sincerity and a homespun determination which can best be illustrated by my mentioning his own personal sacrifice of time and effort in some accidental encounters I had with him in the University Medical Center at Ann Arbor.

As most know, I have been in and out of that institution hundreds of times during the last three years and during the course of these treatments I many times bumped into Bill Brashear who was accompanying his mother to her doctors while she was ailing.

I casually mentioned to Mr. Brashear one day that it was taking a lot of his time to make so many Ann Arbor trips and that why hadn't he let some of the rest of his family provide the hours and time necessary to secure medical attention in that great institution. His answer, "Well Sterling, I just wouldn't feel right if someone else, even my brother, was doing the job. By accompanying my mother on these trips I can sleep better at night knowing that everything humanly possible is being done in her behalf." That sums up Bill Brashear for me.

Now, I agree that this doesn't in any way point up his ability as a civic leader or help qualify him for whatever job he may seek, but it tells me here is a man, unselfish, honest and dedicated to those human responsibilities which sooner or later we all must face.

There isn't space to record all of the previous accomplishments of Mr. Brashear nor perhaps to mention some of the mistakes he must have made, as do any who serve in any public capacity. Human error is as natural for one person as another and only the intensity of a contest, no matter its import, can bring sad connotation in the heat of the battle.

In any honest attempt to help a friend, in any cause, some objective aims of that individual should be forthcoming. Since I am not acquainted with other principals involved and haven't made a serious study of all pros and cons I am only able to project those constructive ideas and aims of my friend Mr. Brashear which most have already become familiar with through other sources.

Mr. Brashear has evidenced a particular interest in Senior Citizens and veterans. His help by actual deed and desire in this area needs no further mention.

There could be no reason for him not to pursue his stand on keeping race track revenue for Livonia. Past performance records this fact.

His many years of determined effort to promote effective industrial and business expansion, to provide tax relief for Livonia residents, as well as new jobs, have been a natural interest and of prime importance to him from the first day I made his acquaintance.

To mention specific civic improvements and aims would be superfluous as they are many and varied. His progressiveness and his forward thinking are accepted by all. To say more, in behalf of my friend, is also unnecessary. I think him a gentleman, a dedicated public servant, honest and capable of doing well in any elective position he might seek. He has earned my respect over these many years and I wish him well in his endeavor.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:
Tuesday evening, March 24, I had the pleasure of attending the Plymouth Senior High School spring concert. It proved to be a well organized, entertaining program and one which probably required a great deal of preparation. In any case, however, the attendance at the concert was a disgrace and certainly did not do justice to the fine performance.

Perhaps some cause for the sparse turnout can be attributed to a lack of proper publicity. But the mere fact that there were less people in the audience than students participating shows that not even a substantial number of the parents were present.

Not only does this lack of interest suggest a cultural void in the Plymouth Community, but an ethical one as well, pertaining to the definite responsibilities of parenthood.

Let's not have the parents discourage such a wholesome and rewarding activity as music in our schools and let's stop playing lip service to our claims of a cultural heritage here in Plymouth.

Sincerely,
Peter L. Gustafson

Dear Editor,

As a member of the Plymouth Community Human Relations Assembly, it occurred to me that an "open letter" to the community might be in order. Here are some of the ideas that we apparently haven't made very clear to the Plymouth Community about the Assembly.

We are NOT trying to precipitate a specific action — we are not "trying to start something." We are NOT going to "bring" Negroes to Plymouth. We are NOT trying to hurry integration in Plymouth.

We do believe, however, that integration WILL come to Plymouth. It may take only a week, it may take two or three years, but it WILL come. It is inevitable. We believe, furthermore, that there is a great amount of misunderstanding and misinformation in Plymouth (and elsewhere) as to what this integration will mean in Plymouth.

We don't want to have happen in Plymouth what happened recently in Dearborn where, as it has been so aptly put, the police were called to protect a mob from the clergy. We believe that if people in this community KNOW what to expect, KNOW the facts and not just the myths, the name of Plymouth will stand unblemished.

We are not trying to "convert" ANYONE. This is too emotional an issue to be appealed to be reason. What we

Since Wednesday, Things Are Looking Up

Things are, indeed, looking up for the Plymouth Community.

At a special budget meeting called Wednesday afternoon by Plymouth Township Supervisor Roy Lindsay, township trustees passed a motion to approve the proposed Plymouth Community Planning Authority.

The move gained acceptance after a similar motion, made before the same group Tuesday, died for lack of support.

As the situation now stands, all three governmental units involved have pledged their support to the planning unit whose purpose will be to further develop the non-residential tax base in this area.

Both Plymouth and Canton Township and the City of Plymouth are committed to support the authority. They are joined by the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce and the Citizens for Plymouth steering committee.

Only the Plymouth Community School District has failed to take steps to insure financial support of the project and school board members have expressed support, in theory, of the planning authority.

The Plymouth Mail gave the authority clear editorial backing on February 18; and, needless to say, we are gratified to see governmental units pledge fiscal help.

At that time, we noted that the Chamber was supporting the planning authority because it "appears to provide the best method of broadening the tax base for the school system as well as units of government."

This newspaper threw its editorial approval into the drive with the comment that "it would act as a vital, sorely needed catalyst that would unite the entire Plymouth Community into a powerful, cohesive organism." There's truth in the old saw about strength in unity, and we are pleased to see that unity becoming a tangible thing.

The trustees of Plymouth Township should be commended for both foresight and wisdom in their decision of Wednesday afternoon. They have contributed not a little to the future of their community.

PLYMOUTH City Firemen had a busy day last Tuesday as they were called out on a rash of grass fires in the city and were summoned to help Plymouth Township fight a grass fire that spread into a scrap yard Tuesday afternoon. Later that evening at 9:24 city firefighters were called to combat a blaze in a pile of discarded lumber behind the Transport Container, Inc. plant located at 429 Farmer Street. The evening fire shot flames an estimated 25 feet into the darkened sky, drawing a crowd of onlookers. Above and left, firemen pour water into the woodpile. The fire caused no dollar damage, according to deputy fire chief Charles Croth. He said the wood was apparently set ablaze by carelessly burning rubbish or by children playing with matches in the area. Firemen were forced to tear the woodpile apart to prevent the fire from starting again.

THE SECRET THAT KEEPS YOUR GRASS GREEN LONGER

It's the green timed-nitrogen "prill" only in Greenfield Measured-Release Lawn Food

These remarkable green timed-nitrogen prills actually feed your lawn every day for many weeks. That's because these nitrogen particles have a special coating that protects the nitrogen and releases it slowly and evenly as the grass needs it. They keep your grass green and healthy longer. You don't have to wait to see results, either. Greenfield Measured-Release Lawn Food also contains uncoated nitrogen for a quick greening—as well as phosphorus and potassium in a complete 20-10-5 formula. Get a bag this week.

Got Some Spare Land? Here's How to Make Money with It

The problem of how to use small land parcels in Western Wayne County for growing was tackled this week by County Extension Agent for Agriculture Edgar C. Kidd who pointed out some specialty crops that would produce income and prove ideal for part-time farmers.

Kidd outlined the fundamentals and possibilities in four separate projects and suggested follow-up procedures for Plymouth Community residents who might be interested in getting started on one of the enterprises.

The four are strawberries, raspberries, peaches and eggs.

STRAWBERRIES

Strawberries are a very short-season, perishable crop. At their best, they are consumed or processed on the same day that they are picked. The peak of the harvest season lasts for less than two weeks each year. Local vine-ripened berries are far more tasty than shipped-in berries, and are more desirable for immediate use or for home processing than those berries that have been picked for even as much as 24 hours. Some method of direct grower-consumer contact is almost necessary to bring about this quick transfer of the crop from field to table.

Strawberries grown and sold on a pick-your-own basis, or grown and sold at the field roadside bring about these quick-delivery opportunities. This can occur only in heavily populated areas such as exist in the Plymouth community. There seems to be no surplus of good berries in this area, and the few good growers state that they are seldom able to fill the demands they receive each year for their crops.

Strawberries are somewhat

BUTLER'S PARTY STORE
3495 Ann Arbor Tr.

temperamental as to soil requirements. A well-drained, fertile sandy loam soil seems best. The soil should be slightly acid, if possible, and should contain a wealth of organic matter. Growers should look forward a full year ahead of planting date to get a good supply of organic matter and fertility into the soil, and to reduce the weed problem before planting. Quack grass is probably the worst weed pest. Strawberry crops should be rotated, with a crop growing in a specified area not more than one year in four.

BERRIES are planted as early in the spring as possible, in well-prepared fertile seedbeds. They must be kept free of weeds all through the first growing season, and blossom buds must be removed frequently so that the growth goes into the runners and new plants. All potential fruit blossoms are determined in late summer, so it is necessary to obtain vigorous, early growth in the berry patch during the early part of the first year. Cultivation and weed control are a constant problem.

The berry plants should be protected with straw mulch during the first winter. The straw is raked from the plants in the spring, and becomes a ground cover between the rows during the harvest season.

The entire crop is harvested during late June of the second year. It is not recommended that the patch be kept over for the second year; the grower has three areas of land for the strawberry project: one in the year of preparation to eliminate weeds and to build up fertility; the second area will be in the first-year planting; and the third will be the field that will be harvested in June. Strawberries do not suffer much from attacks of insects or disease. Nematodes in the soil do a lot of damage at times, and growers must be alert to the appearance of a few possible diseases. Strawberries do not, however, require an extremely complex pest control program.

IRRIGATION is almost a necessity for strawberry production in Michigan. Berries are intolerant of drought at or near harvest time. But irrigation is more necessary with strawberries to prevent frost damage at blossom time. A constant light application of irrigation water during cold spring nights will protect berry blossoms from temperatures several degrees below freezing. Entire berry crops have been lost in one cold night.

It is necessary to select the correct variety, too. Earlidawn, Midway, Robinson, Sparkle and Vesper are highly recommended. These five varieties are in sequence of ripening and ranked according to percentage grown. Robinson is still our most productive variety, but is superseded by Earlidawn and Midway in quality.

The fruit planted in 4-foot rows, 18 to 24 inches apart in the row. This requires about 8000 to 10000 plants per acre. These plants should cost not more than $15.00 per thousand at large commercial nurseries. An acre of good berries, properly cared for, should yield at least 4000 quarts of berries, with some growers getting up to 8000 quarts per acre each year. Standard price for pick-your-own berries seems to have been between $20 and $22 per quart with the picker furnishing his own containers. Picked berries run about a dime or so higher in most seasons.

Strawberries will grow and produce well on some of the soils of Western Wayne County. The market is not over-crowded. They require considerable hand labor. Customers will often come in and harvest their own berries. Irrigation, high fertility, and freedom from weeds is necessary. The project requires almost constant attention and study, considerable capital input, and a three-year program. A few more 1 or 2-acre plots of good strawberries, properly managed should yield a sizeable side-line income for a few Wayne County part-time farmers.

RASPBERRIES

In years past raspberries have been a rather important horticultural crop in Michigan. During recent years, however, the incidence of disease and virus infection plus the difficulty in securing large numbers of pickers during the short harvest season has limited production, except in Southwestern Michigan. A good seasonal demand for raspberries remains, and seldom if ever is the local market over-supplied.

Raspberries will grow well in soil that contains a considerable amount of clay, as long as it is well-drained and fertile. They will do well on the lighter soils if they receive enough moisture and fertility. They are susceptible to many diseases, some of which are associated with other garden crops such as tomatoes, potatoes and previous or nearby crops of other brambles.

Raspberries, like strawberries, adapt well to pick-your-own harvest methods. They also sell well at roadside markets and in local stores. The larger chain stores do not often feature locally-grown raspberries.

PLANTED in 8 or 10-foot rows, about 3 feet apart in the row, raspberries are usually set out in the early spring. Site selection with relation to previous crop row is very important, and it is very important that all stock for new settings shall be obtained from certified inspected nursery sources. The first crop, a small one, comes the second year after setting the plants. Production should reach a peak in the third year and continue for several years afterward. In roads by virus and disease usually necessitate abandonment of the planting after about 6 to 8 years.

A pest control program will be necessary for good raspberry production. Weeds, especially quack grass, are a serious hazard. New methods of chemical weed control are effective. The grower will need a small power sprayer and will need to make at least five applications of chemical pesticide to keep cane blight and insects in control. Mosaic virus must be recognized and rogued out periodically.

Raspberries need annual application of fertilizer, and a late-planted cover crop between the rows is beneficial. An inter-planted crop can be harvested from between the wide rows during the first year or two of the plantation. Raspberries must be pruned properly each year, and must be thinned to maintain the proper size of row. They are usually planted hedge-row style, but occasionally they are found in clump-type plantings. Irrigation is of considerable value in lighter soils, or in seasons of drought. Entire crops can be lost during one extreme hot dry spell during July.

ONLY TWO varieties of red raspberries are recommended: Latham and Taylor. Latham is the old faithful and most productive variety, but Taylor is of superior quality though somewhat less hardy.

Black raspberries can be grown, also, but must not be planted within 500 feet of red raspberry plantings. Certain viruses are spread from the reds to the blacks which cause much more injury to the black raspberries.

The purple raspberry Sodus is very productive and of excellent quality. Its productivity and mosaic resistance results in yields often exceeding red raspberries. When mosaic infections occur in Sodus, symptoms are distinct. Growers can more easily eliminate infected plants because of this characteristic. Everbearing and yellow raspberries are interesting crops, but are not regarded as important varieties for commercial production.

AN ACRE of mature, well-doing red raspberries should yield about 1200 to 1400 quarts of good berries each year. Blacks should yield about the same. The purple raspberry, if grown well, should yield nearly twice as much. Some growers report consistent yields of 5000 or more quarts per acre each year. Prices have stabilized in recent years near the $45 per quart mark, picked, in lots, and $.50 per single quart at stands. Pick-your-own harvesters pay about a dime less.

Good quality red, black and purple raspberries are not in surplus and find a ready market in this area. Many of the soils of the county are adapted to raspberry production. Diseases and insects are a serious consideration; a pest control program must be tried out. Raspberries are not a "quick-in - quick-out" crop, but carry through a 6-8 year cropping program. Pick-your-own marketing is very possible with these berries. Only disease-free nursery stock should be used when starting a plantation. A few one-acre plots of good raspberries should yield a good part-time income to local people.

PEACHES

No fruit tastes better than a pretty tree-ripened Michigan peach. No fruit tree seems to be more exacting in the site or location where it will thrive than the peach tree. No locally produced farm product finds better acceptance at roadside markets than tree-ripened Michigan peaches. But not everyone can grow them.

Peaches cannot tolerate extremes in temperatures. They are grown, on the most part, near large bodies of water, and in areas that have good natural air drainage. They also require a very well-drained soil site. There are only a few places in Western Wayne County that can meet these demands including a few fairly good sites near Plymouth and Northville. The flat, level, poorly-drained clay soils of the county will seldom (if ever) produce consistently good peaches. Therefore, the first consideration in peach production is to select a good site.

There are many good varieties of peaches for Michigan. Most of them contain the Hale name in some form or other. A very few white-fleshed peaches can be sold, but the richly-colored, yellow-fleshed freestone peach is most demanded by the consumer today. Standard sized trees, preferably on red-leaf rootstock are preferred. They are planted in early spring at a usual spacing of about 18 by 24 feet distance. The young trees should begin to produce some fruit in the third year, and a good crop for several years thereafter. Peach trees seldom reach an age of more than 10 to 12 years in this area.

FINANCIAL returns from a good local peach orchard are gratifying. Local peaches often sell $1.00 per peck at the roadside, with good demand. A healthy mature tree will produce as much as 10 bushels of peaches per year. But a peach grower must be a skilled technician.

Peach culture requires careful attention. The trees must be properly set out in the right site. Then they must be very carefully pruned and trained each year. A heavy crop must be propped up. The trees have a rather short productive life. Insects and disease are a constant problem. The grower must have a high-pressure sprayer, and must very carefully follow a complicated spray schedule to prevent insect and disease damage. Winter injury is a constant threat in Michigan. Soil fertility levels must be carefully regulated. Meadow mice can girdle trees in the winter, and late frosts can run a good set of blossoms. Borers can easily get out of hand, and cancer disease can get into the trees almost without warning.

But we still have several good peach producers in Western Wayne County who like the crop, who have no trouble selling it, who realize a fine net return each year from their orchards, and who are able to overcome most or all of the obstacles in the business.

EGG PRODUCTION

Of every three eggs used in Michigan each day, only two of them have been produced on Michigan farms. On the other hand, Michigan has become a surplus feed grain producing state. Several facts become apparent when studying the egg production picture in Michigan:

- (1) Michigan does not produce as many eggs as it uses.
- (2) Surplus feed grains move out of Michigan, and move out through Southeastern Michigan and the Toledo area.
- (3) The Detroit Metroplex is one of the largest consumer areas of the Midwest.
- (4) Modern egg production requires little land area, so land prices are not important in considering set-up costs.
- (5) The market, the feed, the know-how, the manpower and the grading and distribution facilities are all nearby.
- (6) Every factor which could contribute to efficient egg production is favorable in this Southeast Michigan area.

Vast changes have taken place in egg production during the last few years. The traditional farm flock of chickens is almost entirely replaced by larger production units. Costly hybrid hens are expertly automated and regulated. Hens are often confined to very small "cages" for their entire productive life. Feeds and medicines are carefully doled out to the hens, and these hens are expected to produce for about 14 months without letup, and to produce 240 eggs per hen during this time. At the end of this period, the hens are considered "spent" and are sold for salvage at whatever price they will bring, if anything. Then the houses are renovated, cleaned and repaired and a new set of $2.00-per pullet hens are brought in.

A NEW producer often gets into the business by purchasing a package deal. Several feed companies and other organizations have plans whereby a potential farmer may find financing, select a location, and enter into some sort of agreement whereby he is suddenly handed a key to a complete set-up, complete with housing, cold room, hens, feed and automatic equipment all ready to go. His egg production starts the next day. These units are often in the size range of 5000 or more hens. The cost runs slightly over $6.00 per hen, including everything except the land.

There are several items that must be present for a successful operation: There must be enough of these large poultry installations, so that bulk-mixed, bulk-hauled and bulk-priced feed is easily available. A Veterinary-trained field man must be included in the deal; a poultry disease specialist who will visit each farm each week to prevent rather than cure poultry diseases. There must be a reliable pickup route (not too scattered) with connections with an electronic grading station. Last, but not least, there must be an orderly method for selling the graded eggs.

The eggs are not graded on the farm and no eggs except rejects are sold at retail at the farm. Instead, they are quickly put into 30-dozen crates, wheeled into the cold room on the farm, and are held for the twice-per-week pickup.

EGG PRICES in recent years have been very close to the break-even point. Only those producers who were the most efficient have been able to break even or show a long-time profit. The slightest mistake in disease control, ventilation, grading, marketing or supervision has spelled the difference between success and failure. A year-long change of one cent per dozen for all eggs from a 5000-hen setup means a $1000 per year change in income (and profit).

At this time there are about a half-dozen of these large scale egg factories in Wayne County, with several more just south of the county border. Operators of these installations would welcome more of this type of business in the area. The egg production project takes a rather large amount of capital, requires constant professional attention, is a rather high risk enterprise, and the buildings and equipment have little salvage value if the enterprise is abandoned.

Nevertheless, our economy will continue to demand more and more fresh, high quality eggs. Someone will produce them, and many operators will be able to come up with a steady profit from the business. There are so many of the input factors that are more favorable in this Southeastern Michigan area than can be found anywhere else that the project seems logical here.

Wayne County's Extension Agent in Agriculture, Ed Kidd, will be pleased to discuss any of these projects with anyone interested. Kidd can be contacted at his office in Wayne, at 3930 Newberry Street, phone Parkway 1-6550.

Bell to Spend $526,000 in Plymouth Area

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company began delivery of its 1964 telephone directories in the Plymouth area this week.

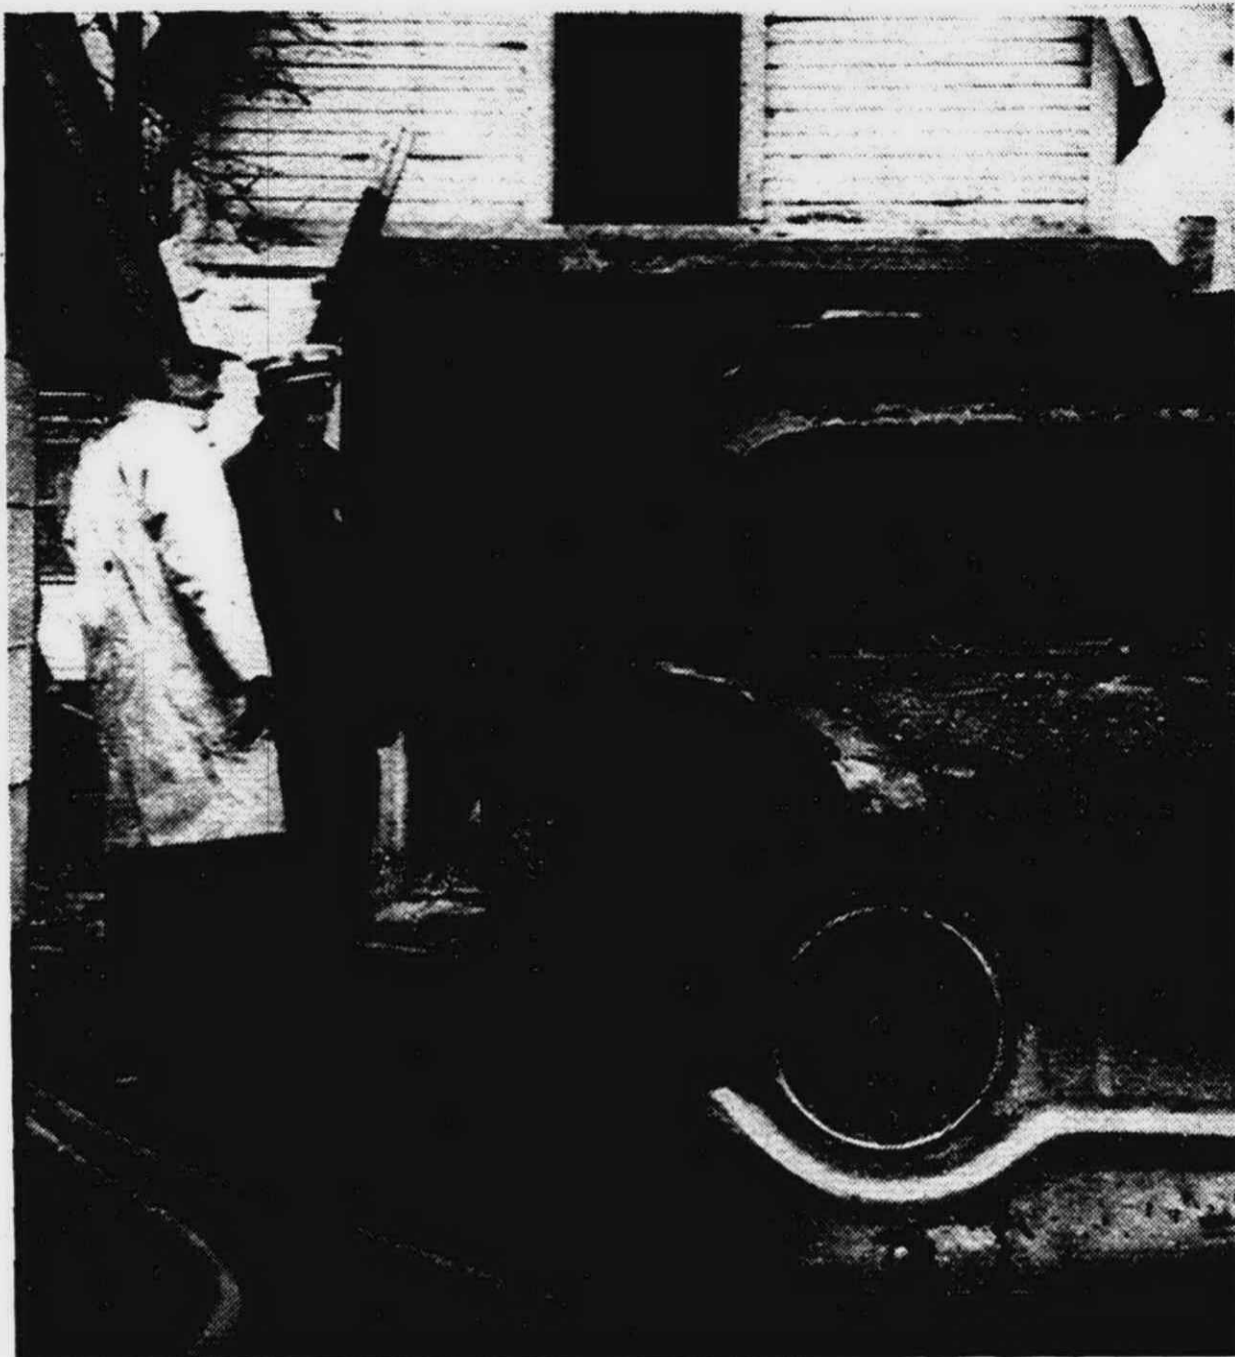

Included in the distribution in the metropolitan area are 556,000 West-and-Downriver area directories, up 11,000 over last year. The 276 page directory covers 44 Wayne County communities.

It will take two weeks for some 450 distributors to complete the delivery.

Included this year on the green cover of the new directory is a map of some 60 communities with an easy-to-see West-and-Downriver area section shown in bright yellow.

The West-and-Downriver area directory is one of three suburban directories distributed by Michigan Bell. The other two area directories are the East directory which includes southern Macomb county, and the North book which covers part of Oakland county.

Telephone customers who need one or both of the other two area directories may obtain them by calling the local Michigan Bell business office.

Damage Set At $6,000 In Tuesday Fire

Damage was estimated at $6,000 following last Tuesday's fire that saw 20 Plymouth Township Firemen and eight city firefighters pour 52,000 gallons of water into the blaze.

The fire was under control less than an hour and a half after firemen were summoned to Marcus Iron and Metal at 215 Ann Arbor Road but Township Acting Fire Chief Barney Maas said the department stayed from about 3 p.m. until after 7:30 before the fire was declared officially out.

He said the blaze was touched off by flames from a grass fire that spread eastward from behind Plymouth Stamping Company into used tires and junk cars on the iron and metal company's property.

MAAS said the alarm was slow in reaching the fire department as persons at the scene tried to put the fire out. Wind blew the flames behind a fence and into a pile of nearly 600 tires.

City firemen were called in to help handle more than 1400 feet of two and a half inch hose at the scene. Iron and metal company owners Ansel Gun and Marcus Last told Maas the property was insured.

POURING some of the 52,000 gallons of water used at last Tuesday's fire into the flames are two firefighters in back of the Marcus Iron and Metal Company on Plymouth Road. Both Township and City firemen teamed up to fight the blaze.

Oaks may take more than 100 years to mature, and live for 1,000 years or more.

More than 22,000 square miles of plantation land has been examined and 60,500,000 trees have been felled in the decade of battle against cocoa tree disease in Ghana.

ATTENTION: Residents Of Salem Township

The Salem Township Fire Ordinance requires that a fire permit be obtained before burning any grass or brush when ground is not snow-covered. Permits can be obtained without charge by calling your fire chief, Charles Raymor, at FI 9-1741, or if you are unable to reach him, by calling the fire department at FI 9-1155.

A fire permit is not required to burn trash in a container with a cover. However, if the fire is allowed to escape from the container all cost to the township for the suppression of said fire shall be billed to the party responsible.

A few safety rules to be followed if you have a permit are as follows:

1. Confine your burning to early morning or late evening
2. Never start a fire when the wind is blowing
3. Have enough help on hand to control the fire
4. Have water and brooms handy
5. NEVER LEAVE A FIRE UNTIL IT IS OUT!

EXTENSIVE damage resulted to this car and the first floor ceiling of the two-story garage in which it was parked last Friday afternoon at the home of Zollie Burcham of 1008 N. Holbrook. Deputy fire chief Charles Groth said the fire still remained under investigation Monday with firemen as yet unable to determine the cause. The blaze started outside the car. Above, assistant fire chief George Schoeneman, left, and Groth check damage to the vehicle. Heat blistered most of the paint from the car's exterior, shattered the rear window and blackened upholstery on the interior. Groth said the cost of damage has not been set.

Shooting Colorado Rapids to be Featured at Y.M.C.A. Dinner

"Fourteen Days on the Colorado River" will highlight Plymouth's first YMCA Indian Guide father and son banquet to be held at the Methodist Church on Saturday, April 11, at 6 p.m., according to Donald Boret, chief of the Plymouth YMCA Indian Guide Federation, and Kenneth Leader, YMCA board of directors.

The six tribes of fathers and sons, numbering more than 100, will hear John Kinsinger, YMCA Youth Work Secretary at Flint, describe with movies and colored slides how in 1961 he shot the rapids on the Colorado River. The thrilling story will tell how the group outfitted themselves with a rubber raft and other supplies, and the difficulties encountered in the adventure.

Another highlight of the evening will be a magician, George Balch, General Secretary of the Mt. Clemens YMCA, will be on hand to mystify the little braves (big braves too) with his tricks. Magic has been a hobby with Balch for a number of years, and he is in constant demand for special events at children's hospitals and schools.

Joseph Palczewski, Flint, Michigan State Chief, will also be present to extend greetings to the newest Y-Indian Guide Federation in Michigan.

The affair is under the direction of the Ojibwa and Potawatomi Tribes. Table decorations are being made by Girl Scout Troop 298.

Grange Cleanings

GL 3-6387

The next meeting of Plymouth Grange will be held this Thursday, April 2, at our hall on Union Street, starting with a pot-luck supper at 6:30 p.m. We hope all our brother and sister Grangers who have April birthdays will be present at the Birthday table.

A real treat is in store for us at 8 p.m. when the program in charge of Agnes Rollins will feature the Cadet Orchestra from the G. C. Marshall School. The members of the orchestra will be our guests for the supper so please bring extra food for the pot-luck supper. The business meeting will follow the program.

Remember the 90th Anniversary of Plymouth Grange is being observed with an open meeting Thursday evening, April 16. A special program is being prepared by Master Jesse Tritten and Overseer Fay Brown. William J. Brake, Master of Michigan State Grange, is to be the guest speaker.

Mamie Murray had the misfortune to have a slight accident last week. Following first aid treatment and x-rays at St. Mary's hospital she was taken to the home of her sister, Martha Gates, to recuperate.

Charles McConnell remains in St. Mary's Hospital. Isabelle Taylor is improving at her home.

Sam Spicer returned to St. Joseph hospital last Saturday.

Remember the Grange Bazaar! Martha Gates and Gladys Carlson, co-chairmen for the Bazaar, are working very hard with their various committees. Their efforts deserve the cooperation of each and every member of Plymouth Grange. What can you, as an individual member, do to help make our Bazaar a success? Now is the time to make aprons, gift or novelty items, toys, or what do you suggest?

PLYMOUTH, MICHIGAN

Since 1947, the "Woody" Rosenthal family, of 33170 Hampshires in Livonia, have bought six cars, a garage, two TV sets, a refrigerator, landscaping, and a college education—all with the help of fast, low bank rate loans from Detroit Bank & Trust. They also kept their checking and savings accounts with us—look to us for business financing and trust services—came to us for a mortgage loan on their new house. No wonder the Rosenthals, all nine of them, feel right at home in our Warren-Greenfield office. We'd like to serve your family, too.

Assembly Hears Speaker on Negro Workers

One of the ideas expressed by Ernest Brown, assistant manager of employment and placement at the Michigan Consolidated Gas Company, in his lecture here recently, was "The United States needs Negroes in upgraded jobs far more than the Negroes need these jobs." Brown's talk was one of a series presented by the Plymouth Community Human Relations Assembly. Brown clarified his remark as follows: Africans coming to this country, touring our factories, see the Negro doing menial labor, usually maintenance work. Then when it is time to negotiate reciprocal trade agreements, the Africans feel they may be used by this country the way we use Negroes here.

The potential available in the Negro labor force must be developed, Brown pointed out, not out of charity or from a sense of justice, but simply because it makes good sense. "It makes far better sense for the Negro to earn a wage than for the community to just hand him the money," Brown said.

TO SPEAK HERE

Urge Caution Against Mail Solicitations

Noting that mail frauds from the public annually are increasing, Postmaster Timpona urged today that local residents take care in responding to solicitations from unknown companies or to "offers too good to be true."

Timpona said that he had received information from John A. Gronowski about the problem and that the Postal Service is pressing a strong drive against quackery by mail, land fraud promotions, eye work-at-home schemes and the like. "It should be emphasized," Postmaster Timpona said, "The land surface of the earth is about 52,500,000 square miles."

"That most businesses doing business by mail are reputable firms, including many that may not be familiar to the prospective purchaser. However, if there is any doubt, it is best to get information from reliable sources, such as the Better Business Bureau.

In cases where there is a genuine basis for suspicion of fraud, we would like to have prompt information from the public in my office — and I will see that appropriate action is taken."

the truth about you

It's not always easy to learn the truth about yourself. But if you look deeply enough, you find the spiritual core of life that was once described to us for all time — "The kingdom of God is within you" (Luke 17:21). There's a one-hour public lecture coming on this subject. Title: "The Priceless Gift of Knowing Oneself," by Theodore Wallach of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship. Everyone is welcome.

Livonia Bank to Give 4% Interest On Savings

Fred A. Lavery, President, Bank of Livonia, announced today the first of several new services which will be offered to the people in the Livonia area.

The announcement is that effective April 1, the Bank will pay 4% interest on pass-book savings on funds on deposit twelve months. The rate or less than twelve months will be 3 1/2%, compounded quarterly.

"The interest rate paid on savings is a matter of vital interest to everyone. The new rate provides an opportunity for savers to earn the highest rate available in this community," said Mr. Lavery.

Iron-rich foods include liver, kidney and heart, spinach, dried beans, dried apricots and raisins.

He usually holds a steering wheel...

... but when he isn't holding a steering wheel, you're apt to find him holding on to a fire truck, gavel, bowling ball or golf club, in church, or at a civic meeting.

He's John J. Nelson, 54, a tank truck driver for Michigan Milk Producers Association for 22 of his 25 years of commercial driving... with never a chargeable accident, and only one minor traffic violation in some 1,250,000 miles of driving.

John is chief of the Almont Volunteer Fire Dept., member of the Almont Village Council, where he serves on the Police Commission and Streets and Sidewalks Committee, trustee of Almont Community Projects, steward of M.M.P.A. Employees Local 83, attends the Congregational Church where his wife, Ruth, teaches Sunday school, and is sending daughter, Karen, to Port Huron Junior College.

A truck driver? You bet! And proud of it. But more than that, Jack is typical of the many thousands of truck drivers who are good citizens, good family men, and who are active in their communities.

Michigan's Fourth Largest Industry

The Michigan trucking industry is proud of its contributions to the growth of Michigan through transportation of goods to markets and raw materials to manufacturers. It employs 1 out of 8 Michigan workers, and paid for one out of every three miles of Michigan highways through various taxes. We're proud of our industry's accomplishments.

FOR BEST RESULTS ADD 160° WATER... FOR WATER THAT HOT YOU NEED AN ELECTRIC WATER HEATER

If you wash your clothes or dishes automatically, you should heat your water electrically. Why? For best possible results, automatic washers and dishwashers need 160° water and lots of it. Only an electric water heater can regularly give you water that hot without burning out. And remember, the electric water heater you buy from any retailer in Southeastern Michigan carries Edison's one-year money-back guarantee of satisfactory performance. In addition electrical repairs, if ever needed, are free from Edison.

An electric water heater—one more of the electric appliances that help you get more out of life. They become even more economical to own as the cost of electricity continues to decrease. See your dealer or

Plymouth Tankmen Shine In Collegiate Competition

Two former Plymouth High School tankmen continued to shine in the collegiate swimming world as they both made good showings in Big Ten competition early this month and competed in the N.C.A.A. tournaments over the weekend at Yale University.

In the Big Ten meets, held March 5, 6 and 7 at Minnesota, Richard Gretzinger of 390 Adams, placed third in the 400 individual medley and came in fourth in the 200 individual medley.

The Michigan State University relay team on which the swim took first place at the event.

Richard A. Michaels, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mel H. Michaels of 575 Arthur, placed third in the 200-yard backstroke, beating world titleholder Tom Stock of Indiana. Michaels swims for the Ohio State University team.

HIS TIME in the 200-yard backstroke was 2:01.0. A sophomore, Michaels is in his first year of collegiate competition.

Gretzinger earned consistent mention as one of the nation's top 20 collegiate swimmers last year and Michaels was rated fifth in the nation as a backstroke, according to Swimming World magazine.

Michaels is expected to travel to the World's Fair in New York in August for try-outs for the U.S. Olympic team. The Olympics will be held in October in Tokyo, Japan.

As it stands now, the Olympic rules committee has decided to take five backstrokers to Tokyo. If Michaels can hold his rating he stands a good chance of making the team.

TENNIS HOPEFULS Rick Jones, Jim Bruff and Dave Tidwell are shown here during a warmup session last week as coach Jim Stevens blew the whistle to open this year's tennis season. Tidwell and Bruff were two of the four qualifiers from Plymouth that participated in last year's state tournament. Jones is a sophomore up from last year's Junior High team.

COACH KEITH Baughman took advantage of the break in the weather last week and sent his boys out to practice for the up-coming regular season meet schedule. Baughman has hopes of overcoming last year's third place finish but his squad will have to hustle to do it. Shown here practicing some starts are (left to right) Bill Ray, Dennis Tonkovich, Bob Powell, Jim Lake, Dave Agnew, Bill Cummins, Dick Berry and Henry Breneman (standing).

BOB POWELL and Gary Grady, returning track lettermen, are warming up on the low hurdles in anticipation of Plymouth's first track meet. Powell and Grady are both hurdlers but Grady also is a top half-miler and broad jumper. They both are being counted on by coach Baughman to help the Rocks regain first place this year.

PROMISING sophomore, Curt Irish, is waiting for the pitch during last week's practice session called by Mike Hoben, varsity baseball coach. The Rock ball players have been hampered by cold, wet weather and welcomed the chance to go outside and hit a few. Plymouth's chances of winning the league championship are slim but the squad, with a little luck, may round out in good shape. The catcher in the picture is Dick Bowman.

40 YEARS OF SERVICE...

THE PLYMOUTH ROTARY CLUB'S

40th Anniversary

TO THE PLYMOUTH COMMUNITY ...

More than 9,000 barbecued chicken fanciers paraded through the Rotary Club's serving line during last year's Fall Festival, nearly doubling the amount that turned out the year before. The "Barbecue" took the Rotarians several months to prepare for and they are preparing now for this year's feast.

ROTARY IN PLYMOUTH

Early in 1924, Dr. Edward Lee of the Wayne Rotary Club, acting as the Governor's representative, met with a group of Plymouth business and professional men, with the result that District Governor Paul King presented our club with its first charter on April 17, 1924.

George A. Smith was our first president. Later he and Frank Henderson served as District Governors, much to our pride in our leaders. We have met in several places in our forty years — first in the basement of the Penniman Allen building, the Masonic Temple, the High School, the old Lutheran Church and, since 1927, in the Hotel Mayflower.

Our membership has grown steadily from the original twenty to our present one hundred. And with this growth, the club has succeeded in keeping a large part of the friendly fellowship possible best in a small club. Perhaps one of the good evidences of this fact is the large number of visiting Rotarians enjoying their make-up meetings with us.

Out of the first twenty three members of our club, five are still active — Brick Champe, John Dayton, Carl Shear, Sidney Strong and Paul Wiedman.

From the very first this club took an active part in the life of this community. In a story of this length it is hardly possible to go into details about the many civic and community projects carried on by the members of Plymouth Rotary during the forty years of the club's life.

Not much more than a listing of these activities can be included — and some may even be forgotten or overlooked.

Crippled Children Support: —

Plymouth Rotary made a very early survey of Western Wayne County for crippled children and adults. We participate in fund raising for the Center in Inkster and for the annual maintenance drive, and transportation of clients as requested.

Boy Scouts: —

Since 1928 they sponsored a Cub Pack, a Scout Troop and an Explorer Post now known as "1533". The Boy Scout Chairmen have always been personal aides for the units and the Club has furnished assistance, especially for camping and transportation, plus an annual Scout program.

Student Loan — Plymouth Foundation: —

Under George A. Smith, the Club established a loan fund which has allowed many a worthy student to get a college education. This fund has grown immensely and is now under the care of a special Board of Directors and is called the Plymouth Rotary Foundation.

Rural-Urban Relations: —

For many years the club has arranged meetings with our rural neighbors to foster goodwill and united effort.

Broadcaster: —

Since 1925 the Broadcaster has continually told our members and their friends what the club is doing, together with pertinent comments on club matters.

Mayflower Hotel Drive: —

It was a local business group, including many of our Rotary members who, in 1927, decided that a local hotel was a necessity — and put on a campaign, which, in one day, raised enough pledges and cash to result in the fine building in which we meet.

Relations with Plymouth, England: —

Between 1940 and 1944, while Plymouth, England was being battered with bombs, this club sent food, clothing, money and friendly letters to its English counterpart. At many times since those days tokens of appreciation have been received by this Plymouth for this hope and encouragement extended.

Fall Festival —

The Club has helped with lights for the High School athletic field, with equipment for city parks, and most recently with its sponsorship of the "Plymouth Fall Festival," the outgrowth of a "chicken barbecue" started seven years ago. Nothing has done so much for a united Plymouth as the co-operation of the entire community in the gigantic annual affair.
