the apparatus throughout Sunday so he could make refinements for next year. The machine handled 3,000 ears of corn per hour. Steam was provided by a good, old-fashioned steam engine, the wheel of which is visible at left in background.

Festival a Big Success, Draws 40,000 People

A roaring success by any standards, the 1964 Plymouth Community Fall Festival became history Sunday evening after a final day that saw all previous records for attendance and participation smashed to smithereens.

Virtually every group in the Festival had last year's attendance figures exceeded during the happy, hectic four-day celebration last week, that drew more than 40,000 persons to town.

Capping the event was the Sunday Rotary Chicken Barbecue, attended by over 12,000 persons. The number compares with 9,500 dinners served by Rotarians in 1963.

The drastic increase was made possible by enlarged barbecue pit capacity and a unique steam-powered conveyor unit for cooking corn on the cob.

Former Rotarian R. T. Sheehan, owner of the R. T. Sheehan Co. of 8070 N. Territorial Rd., put his inventive genius to work and came up with the unusual corn cooker. His firm builds conveyors for industrial use.

SHEEHAN spent most of Sunday afternoon at the barbecue site watching the unit in operation so he could make further refinements for next year. He provided the apparatus at no cost to the service club.

On Saturday, Plymouth Kiwanians exceeded last year's mark by dishing out nearly 2,100 pancakes and sausage dinners to Festival visitors. The Pancake Festival filled Plymouth's Masonic Temple for most of the day.

That evening, the V.F.W.'s Pageant of drums drew over 1,300 persons to the Plymouth High School athletic field for a display of marching talent by units from Michigan and Ohio. Ignoring the unseasonably chilly spell, the crowd sat in rapt attention as the marching units went through their paces.

Friday afternoon's Junior Chamber of Commerce Fish Fry saw JayCees serve 1,500 persons, an increase of 250 over last year's figure.

Plymouth Lions, on Thursday evening, handled 1,500

orders at their old fashioned ice cream and melon social.

MOST figures were below estimates given earlier. Cool weather may have accounted for slightly lower attendance than anticipated.

Well attended and enthusiastically participated in by 250 youngsters was Plymouth Recreation Department's pet show, held Saturday morning in the Parking lot next to Sharrard's. Winners in the event were:

Dogs — good grooming: Mark Andrews, first; Vern Spayth, second; and Lorna DeMeritt, third. Best Behavior: Lynne Tobin, first; Susan Bourret, second; and Karen Myers, third. Most friendly: Barbara Baumgartner, first; Sally Feld, second; and Robin Ketcherside, third.

Most unusual pet, cutest: Don Erbeleth, goat, first; Stephanie May, rabbit, second; Debbie Troutman, rabbit, third. Funniest: Michelle May, parakeet, first; Camille May, hamster, second; and Jackie Phelps, guinea pig, third.

Most unusual: David Sabo, flying squirrel, first; Richard Berry, goat, second; and Leon Jackson, pigeon, third.

Cats, good grooming: Sheila May, first; Marcia Crumble, second; and Elizabeth Jewell, third. Cutest: Carol Cawender, first; Kathy Harrington, second; and Jocelyn Granger, third.

Swear In Charter Commission

Members of the proposed City of Plymouth Heights' newest Charter Commission were sworn in at an organizational meeting held Saturday morning at the Plymouth Township Hall.

Mayor de facto John D. McEwen officiated at the ceremonies. He administered the oath of office to nine men who won election to the charter writing group.

Maurice M. Breen of 41121 Greenbrook Ln. in Lake Pointe Subdivision was elected chairman of the newly-elected commission. Ed Good of 40900 Ann Arbor Road was named vice chairman; and

New Plant in Industrial Park, Few Sites Remain

Another 20 new jobs are in store for the Plymouth Community as City Commissioners, at a special meeting held Monday evening, voted to accept the bid of Parker-Hannifin Corp. of Cleveland, O., for one of the few remaining Industrial Park parcels.

The firm will build a 12,000 square-foot plant at the three-acre site, next to the R.C.A. plant on Plymouth Road.

Parker-Hannifin "Michigan" is scheduled to employ about 20 persons at the new plant. Ten of the workers will serve on the office staff and the remaining 10 will be in the manufacturing portion of the plant.

One of the best-known manufacturers of air and hydraulic systems, Plymouth's newest industry has nearly a half-century of experience in its field — the design and manufacture of devices to control, confine and utilize the flow of fluids — liquids, gases or air — under pressure.

PARKER pioneered in the development of high pressure tube fittings and other fluid controls which found initial application in the aircraft field.

Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis," for example, used Parker fittings on its historic ocean-spanning flight.

Growth and diversification have characterized the company's business for many years. Prior to the acquisition by the Parker Appliance Company of Hannifin Corporation in 1957, Parker already had grown to a position of leadership in the fluid power field. Hannifin too was recognized as an important manufacturer of hydraulic and pneumatic equipment.

In 1960, the firm purchased two Michigan concerns, the Span Brass Manufacturing Co. and the Spanco Brass Sales Co. Acquisition of the two companies gave Parker-Hannifin further diversification.

Other expansion moves include acquiring the Gibbons Salem Machine Company of Sebring, O., a manufacturer of extra heavy duty fluid power cylinders, and purchase of Kenmore Machine Products, Inc. at Lyons, N.Y., producer of special fluid system components for the refrigeration industry.

This marked Parker-Hannifin's first major entry into the consumer goods field as a manufacturer of components.

Net profits of Parker Hannifin Corporation have experienced a five-fold increase in the space of only 10 years. Plants are located in 18 cities, in eight states, Canada and overseas.

The Plymouth plant will be devoted to light assembly of hydraulic and air control systems parts.

IN OTHER action at the special meeting, commissioners accepted the annual audit from auditing firm Sutherland and Robson and voted to continue it as an item of business until final agreement on it is reached.

More industrial expansion is apparently in the works as commissioners voted to authorize advertisement of another acre and a half parcel in the Industrial Park.

The governing body passed a resolution establishing the first and third Mondays of each month at 7:30 p.m. as the day and time for regular commission meetings. The move was a formality required by the Housing and Home Finance Administration.

2nd District Democrats Organize

Democratic party members in Wayne County from the second Congressional District will hold their first meeting, Sept. 21 at 8 p.m., in the Plymouth Community Federal Credit Union building, 500 S. Harvey St.

Anyone interested in the organization is invited. Weston E. Vivian, of Ann Arbor, the Democratic Congressional candidate from the second district will be a guest.

The group will replace the Plymouth Democratic Club, according to Orville L. Tungata, board member. He explained the two groups are almost synonymous because the area is so small.

Northville Township residents, who have been part of the Northville Democratic Club may also be affiliated with this new organization.

The meeting will be concerned primarily with election of new officers and planning a campaign program.

Same Tax, Less $ in Township

While the same four-mill tax rate will apply, Plymouth Township this year will get less revenue from taxes levied on property owners in the township, according to figures released at last week's Tuesday evening Board of Trustees meeting.

Because of new state laws governing taxation of certain industrial equipment, State Equalized Valuation in the township dropped more than $3.5 million, according to Treasurer Elizabeth Holmes.

Last year, Township State Equalized valuation was $60,847,610. This year, the figure is $57,265,720.

The four-mill rate, approved at the Tuesday meeting, will yield $229,062.88 in funds for the township. One mill will bring in $57,265.72 for township allocated funds and the other three will be divided equally between interest and debt retirement on the township's $790,000 sewer construction bonds and $1.1 million water construction bonds.

THE REDUCTION came primarily from exemption of certain equipment from taxation at Burroughs Corp. and Evans Products Co. plants located in Plymouth Township.

Unanimous approval was granted to resolutions giving Township Attorney Earl Demel authorization to initiate condemnation proceedings along Sheldon Road, north of Ann Arbor Road, and along the Tonquish Creek, west of Sheldon Road.

The Sheldon Road sites lie along the route of the 1964 Township water program and the properties along the creek follow the sewer program route. Refusal of property owners to grant easement for the two projects may force the township to start condemnation action.

Other action at the meeting saw the township legislative body approve plans for sanitary sewer extension in Lake Pointe Subdivision No. Eight, approve rezoning of property just west of Sheldon Road on N. Territorial Road from R-1-S to R-2-A and P-O where Heritage Apartments plans to construct multiple family and professional-office buildings.

Reorganize City Fire Department

A reorganization of the City of Plymouth's fire department was announced last week by Superintendent of Public Safety Kenneth Fisher and City Manager Albert F. Glassford.

Together with realignment of department personnel, the city revealed that a concentrated drive to secure volunteer personnel from the north side of town would be started.

The drive comes in the wake of complaints that the north section is partially isolated from fire protection with movement of fire fighters from Station No. Two near Holbrook St. to the new City Hall.

In the departmental reorganization, the post of Deputy Chief has been eliminated. George Schoenemann has been named Assistant Chief.

Former Deputy Chief Charles Groth became a lieutenant in the department, the two officials said.

CO-OPERATION:

Township Pitches In As Plymouth Water Fails

A refreshing demonstration of inter-community co-operation and help came last Thursday as Plymouth Township pitched in to help the City of Plymouth, badly crippled by a serious break in its 16-inch main water line.

The break was first discovered about 7 a.m. when workmen saw water coming out of a manhole at Lena and Goldsmith St. at the point of the main intake for the city's 16" line.

Later, pressure from escaping water blew the manhole cover off and heavy equipment was moved on top of it to keep it in place.

About 1 p.m. the city began to shut water off — a move that created serious pressure drops in some locations and total loss of supply in others. Restaurants were forced to close and industrial plants had to take emergency steps short of shutdown.

WATER WAS re-routed, according to DPW Superintendent Joseph Bida, through the Beck Road Route to the 10-inch Northville Road water line. However, Bida said, pressure from the Six Mile Well Field was too much and the 10-inch main broke, leaving the city without water.

At that point, around 2:30 p.m., the City appealed to the Township and water began coming into the city system from the gate on Sheldon Road.

Later, city firemen pumped additional water from the Township system into the city's at Park Entrance Estates No. Three Subdivision.

By midnight, Public Works Department personnel had completed repair of the 16-inch main. Work was hampered because the T-connection which had broken was equipped with leaded joints and workmen had to melt the metal before replacing the fitting.

The city's water tower began to fill by 1:30 a.m. On Friday morning, the 10-inch Northville Road line was dug up and repaired. Bida said a long split had occurred in the line.

DURING the time that city firemen were occupied pumping water into the system, Plymouth Township fire fighters answered a call to a minor brush fire in the urban renewal development on Mill St.

Key City personnel issued a statement of thanks and appreciation to Township officials and the Township's fire and water departments.

Bida also expressed appreciation to the public for the patience and understanding shown. He explained that "red" or rusty water in the system was due to the direction of flow being reversed for a time.

Lapham Residents Vote 54-3 to Join District

Lapham School District voters approved annexation to the Plymouth Community School District by a vote of 54-3 at their election Sept. 14. Plymouth school's assistant superintendent Melvin Blunk reported to school board members at their regular meeting Sept. 14 in administrative offices.

Plymouth school district buses would pick up the 27 students starting Tuesday morning, Blunk added.

The bid for construction of a four room addition to Allen Elementary School made by Roberts and Orr, Inc. was accepted by the board. The company's bid was $76,285.

In other action the board unanimously approved a motion made by member Ernest Henry naming the Plymouth Mail the official newspaper for the Plymouth Community School District.

The board also granted permission for Gallimore School students to take a one-day trip to Washington D.C. and agreed to lease between five to eight feet of Bird School property bordering Loren Gould's Plymouth Professional Park to Gould on a year-to-year basis. Gould told the board he plans to landscape part of it, blacktop another portion and will maintain it.

The board directed School District attorney William Sempliner to work out details of the agreement.

A special meeting to consider modernization of Plymouth High School's boiler plant was set by the board for Sept. 28 at 8 p.m.

Plymouth Man Dies in Construction Mishap

A Plymouth man and two others were killed and a fourth man injured Monday when a boom collapsed on them while they were working on the construction of a 1.75 freeway.

Thomas B. Day, 27, of 9316 Southworth St., was one of the men killed in the accident which occurred in the City of Foreman and Carbon.

The men were removing steel concrete pouring forms from the top of a 60 foot high column which were being lifted by a crane with a 150 foot boom attached, according to a Detroit police officer.

The injured man, Clarence Shaw, of Auburn Heights was riding a form that was being lowered to the ground by the crane. As the crane began to boom the six ton form, the boom tipped forward carrying the crane with it.

DAY, A FOREMAN, and the two others who were killed, James Kent, a laborer, of Dearborn, and Fred Azar, a carpenter, of Detroit, ran to assist Shaw when they noticed the rapid descent of the form. They didn't see the boom dropping, too, the police officer said.

Meanwhile the man operating the crane, who didn't see the three men, tried to help Shaw by dropping the form as quickly as possible. The boom fell on the three pinning them under it, the officer said.

BAD CHECKS

A warning was issued to local residents to be on the lookout for forged checks, bearing the name of Associated Truck Lines, Inc.

Yellow in color, the checks carry the imprint of Bank of the Commonwealth, West Fort St. and Waterman, Detroit. A check writing machine being used to write the checks in amounts of $100 and over.

No account exists at the bank for the trucking firm and the checks, though realistic looking, are completely bogus. Any person seeing one of the counterfeit checks should contact Plymouth Superintendent of Public Safety Kenneth Fisher.

TRUSTEES approved a resolution requested by Treasurer Elizabeth Holmes to transfer $80,000 from sewer receiving and $50,000 from water receiving accounts into certificates of deposit with National Bank of Detroit so interest may be earned on the funds.

A letter requested by developer Albert Simkins was authorized to be sent to the F. H. A. noting that under present ordinances, sidewalks are not required on Sheldon Road.

A request to gravel a parking lot at the site of the new Plymouth Assembly of God Church was granted and action was delayed on an updated version of the Township swimming pool ordinance until trustees can study the matter further.

An opinion from Township Attorney Earl Demel regarding the proposed Fire Administration Board Resolution was delayed until the October meeting at Demel's request.

Summer in South Found Valuable by Local Student

Having contact with southern and southern workers was the greatest value of this summer's Students-in-Industry project of the Methodist Student Movement, in Atlanta, Ga. for one participant, a college students the opportunity to become involved in the life of working men and to try to understand issues of our society as faced by the workingman, management, labor, organizations and government.

University of Michigan senior from Plymouth. The Students-in-Industry program in which Don Conover, 21-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Conover, of 279 Blunk St., participated, attempted to give a group of

A BETTER understanding of why some working class whites feel the way they do about the Negro is another concept Conover said he gained from his summer experience. He explained that for the first time many white laborers are having to compete with Negroes for the same jobs.

Students in the program lived at Emory University and worked in warehouses and factories in the Atlanta area. Conover worked loading and unloading goods in the U.S. Rubber warehouse. The group also had several seminars each week to discuss their experiences and problems.

A sociology major at Michigan, Conover said he did not go to the south to participate in civil rights movements but some members of the group did participate in integration activities there.

He said he discovered there is not much trouble in Atlanta over integration after living there for a summer. He added he did notice segregation on buses and that some drivers were quite antagonistic to the Negro. Many Negroes, he said, automatically move to the rear in the buses.

Before integration whites had been brought up to believe the Negro was inferior and there was no job competition because each had his own types of employment.

Conover said he felt quite well accepted by his fellow workers and became acquainted with them of the job when they invited him home for dinner or an evening.

The largest amount of antagonism against the group arose from being Yankees, he said.

Participants in the project were selected on the basis of questionnaires, grade points, references and their section of the country. He explained he heard of the project, which is conducted in various cities throughout the United States, through the Wesley Foundation, of which he is a member in Ann Arbor.

ATLANTA WAS his choice because he said he knew little about the South and conditions there.

His one criticism of the project, Conover said, was that the students lived at Emory University and therefore could not truly feel like workers.

Regardless of how much labor they did during the day, they knew they would return in the evening to University life. Conover suggested that perhaps it would be better for project members to live in a working class neighborhood.

Salem Twp. Orders Payment to College

A resolution to pay $1,007.61 in tax funds not spread on the tax rolls of Salem Township for Schoolcraft College was given approval at a Sept. 8 meeting by the Township Board of Trustees, according to Salem Supervisor Harlow Ingall.

Schoolcraft College Trustees, according to Ingall, had promised suit against the Township to recover the funds lost because the tax levy was inadvertently not spread upon Township tax rolls.

A small part of Salem Township lies within the Northville School District with an assessed valuation of approximately $1 million.

An opinion handed down by Peter W. Forsythe, assistant prosecuting attorney of Washtenaw County, indicates that the Township Supervisor is responsible for the spreading of the taxes.

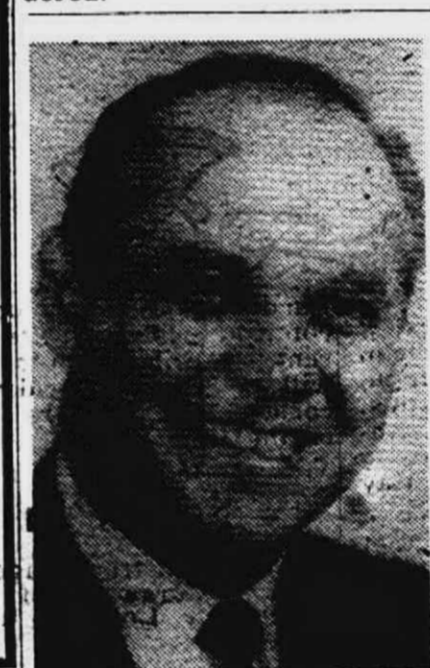

"IT WAS this act that was inadvertently omitted thus making the supervisor responsible for the specific difficulty that arose," the assistant prosecutor wrote.

Forsythe said state law makes the supervisor personally responsible for such error. However, the Salem Supervisor at the time, Glenn Renwick, died earlier this year — leaving no estate, according to Ingall.

"The township would not pay if someone could be held responsible," he noted.

Forsythe noted that law holds the township generally responsible to stand behind its officials in any error or other defaults committed by them.

"It is therefore my opinion," Forsythe noted, "that the township board is responsible and may pay the $1,007.63 inadvertently not spread upon the rolls in Salem Township in 1963." The resolution passed by Salem Trustees reads: "Inasmuch as this board has received a written opinion from the Washtenaw County Prosecutor's office, and since that opinion is: That the Township of Salem, and this Township only, is responsible for the payment of a certain one mill levy which should have been spread on the 1963 tax roll against all property . . . but which was inadvertently omitted . . . It is therefore resolved that payment of one thousand and $1,100 dollars should be made to Schoolcraft College, and such payment is hereby ordered."

PROMOTED to staff manager in the Prudential Insurance Company's Palmer Park district is Leslie D. Vollick, of Plymouth. He will supervise a staff of six agents and will assist the district manager John Cuneo, Ciu, administrator of nearly $80 million of life and health insurance. Vollick joined Prudential April 27, 1959, and since then he has won the Northern Star award several times and been a delegate to regional business conferences. SIGNING FINAL PAPERS for the sale of approximately 2½ acres in Plymouth's Industrial Park formerly owned by Wheel Truening Company is City Manager Albert Glassford (seated, center). Watching the procedure are standing, left to right, Tom Notebaert, of J. L. Hudson, Real Estate Company and Roy McKnight, vice-president and general manager of Standards, Inc. division of Howell-Pennacraft Corporation, the purchaser of the property. Seated, left to right, are Joe Hudson, of Hudson Real Estate, Glassford, and Myron Georgia, president of Standards, Inc.

Final Agreement Reached On Site for New Industry

Thursday afternoon saw the city of Plymouth and Standards, Inc., a division of Howell-Pennacraft Corporation of Inkster, complete final papers for purchase by Standards, Inc. of 2½ acres of Industrial Park property. The company paid the city $15,000 for a parcel of the property recently repurchased by the city from Wheel-Truening Company. The corporation plans to erect a building containing 10,000 square feet of space.

It will probably cost between $60,000 and $75,000, according to President Myron Georgia. Standards, Inc. manufactures perishable tools for the cold heading industry. Georgia explained his company makes tools which go into machines making such instruments as punches. Located in a leased building in Dearborn, the company has 16 employees and is working one shift. Georgia said the number of employees should double when the company moves into its Plymouth facilities. Other divisions of Howell-Pennacraft Corporation include Pennacraft Tool Co., Inc., Inkster; Howell Gear Co., Inc., Howell; and Header Heat Treat, Wayne. The divisions were incorporated in 1959, according to Georgia.

Predict Best Ever Christmas Mail Service

Longer post office window hours, expanded delivery services and large-scale extension of the Zip-coded parcel post speedup are planned for Christmas. Postmaster General John A. Gronouski has advised Plymouth Postmaster, George Timpona. Gronouski outlined to the Plymouth postal head, three major new steps he has taken for the best Christmas mail service the Postal Service has ever had.

(1) Expanded post office window hours Dec. 5 to 26 as deemed necessary by the local postmaster.

(2) A six day week Dec. 7-31 for parcel post deliveries, instead of a five-day week.

(3) Completion by Nov. 1 of Phase III of Zip Code parcel handling at about 130 more "sectional center" post offices (strategically-located mail massing points), providing faster delivery up to 24 hours or more for parcels with Zip Code.

In Phase I and II, approximately 75 offices with receipts of $5 million annually and above activated faster Zip Code sorting and dispatch by Sept. 1. The 130 in Phase III includes offices with receipts of $1 to $5 million.

In addition, many other sectional center offices with smaller receipts will have the program in operation by early December, in time to help speed delivery of Christmas gifts mailed with the Zip Code.

St. Peter's Lutheran Church Sets Religious Census for Community

A religious census of the entire Plymouth community will be undertaken by the members of St. Peter's Lutheran Church starting Sunday afternoon, Sept. 20.

The purpose of the census according to Pastor Norman Berg is to determine the religious preference of members of the community who are not affiliated with a church so that spiritual care may be offered them by churches of their choice.

After the census is taken, names of those indicating preference for specific churches or denominations will be turned over to the respective churches in the Plymouth Community. Statistical results of the census will also be made available to interested religious groups.

Plymouth city and township officials have been notified of the taking of the religious census. Census takers will wear a "Religious Census" badge carrying the name of the worker and will respect the wish of any not desiring to give information about their religious preference.

The census is part of an evangelism program being conducted throughout the state by the churches of the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod of which St. Peter's is a member.

Richard Berger is chairman of the local effort and his Committee includes Robert Beyer, Leonard Arnsion, Donald Hamilton and Roger Bogenschutz. Census takers will be drawn from the adults and teen-agers of the congregation.

Family Service

What are Its Purposes?

Its Functions in Community

By Anna Jung

Family service agencies adhere to the philosophy which is basic to the social work profession: human betterment is the goal of society; society has an obligation to provide its members with the means for achieving their potential; and every individual has a right to expect help when internal or external stress reduces his capacity to function.

This philosophy has pervaded American culture and has fostered the growth and development of family service agencies in 42 states. As early as 1911 the then-existing agencies banded together in a federation "for the purpose of sharing experience and working together toward the common goal of strengthening service to families and improving social conditions in the community."

As of Jan. 1964, a total of 310 agencies were affiliated with this federation, the Family Service Association of America, FSAA. The philosophy of this organization is aptly stated in its motto: "Strength to Families Under Stress."

Family Service of Ann Arbor is a member of FSAA and adheres to the philosophy and purposes of the federation. The Plymouth office of Family Service is part of the Ann Arbor family agency and was established to provide service to residents of Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

The Plymouth office is subject to the policies and practices as outlined in the Articles of Incorporation. Quoting from this document, the purpose of the agency in relation to its clients is:

"To assist individuals and families in developing both the capacity and the opportunity to lead satisfactory and socially useful lives, through individualized counsel and advice, through the formation of plans for effective use by families and individuals of their material, emotional, and psychological resources, and through assistance in securing employment, medical care, education, and support, and in any other manner." A second purpose is, "to participate in community activities leading to improvement, adjustment, and correction of social and community conditions."

FUNCTIONS

The philosophy and purposes of the agency are expressed and implemented through the functions which the agency provides. The method is utilized to perform these functions is the casework method, which will be discussed in another article. The functions of the agency can be categorized in terms of the kinds of problems which clients bring to the agency.

In most family agencies the problem most frequently checked on the statistical card is marital problem. This category encompasses a wide range of human problems including differences in feelings and attitudes about sex and effect of these differences on the relationship between husband and wife. Doesn't it seem strange that something so common to the needs of human beings, and so universally practised, is so often a source of trouble between two persons!

Other problems which frequently threaten marital happiness are disagreements about how the family income should be spent; different recreational interests of the spouses and interferences of parents — or in-laws — in the lives of their adult children. Many husbands and wives are still involved in the struggle to emancipate themselves from their own parents and they "transfer" this struggle into the relationship with their in-laws.

A major function of the family agency, therefore, is to provide marriage counseling. A second large group of clients are concerned about the relationship between one or both parents and their children. The function of the caseworker in these situations is to help parents understand the nature of the children's problems, the casual relationship between parents' handling of the child and the child's behavior and to offer advice and counseling to parents to help them find more appropriate and effective ways of handling their children. Direct work with the children is oftentimes needed to help them to develop more appropriate patterns of adapting to life situations.

SEES FAMILY MEMBERS

Since the major purpose and function of the family agency is to strengthen family life, it is usually considered advisable to see all members of the family at least part of the time, and to see the family together in order to observe the patterns of interaction among the various family members. Thus it is possible to select out the behavior patterns that create stress in the family, and to help the family find more appropriate and useful ways of interacting.

Other problems that come to the attention of the agency, in ever-increasing numbers, involve adolescent behavior, in the home and in the community. Many adolescents find the struggle to emancipate themselves from their parents, and to move into adulthood, unbearably difficult. Many of these young people act out in the community as a way of expressing their need for help.

Many clients come to the family agency seeking help in dealing with individual personality problems; the symptoms often include excessive drinking, or difficulty in holding jobs, or concern about the lack of social contacts, or feelings of depression or isolation. These clients may be young, middle-aged, or old, and the treatment goals need to take the client's age into account.

We're proud of all of you

So many persons devoted so much of themselves to Plymouth's Fall Festival that no one could do an adequate job of expressing appreciation. No one could accurately estimate the man and, for that matter, woman-hours that went into preparation for the four-day spectacular. Virtually every club and organization of note in the Plymouth Community participated, and did so well. Their efforts were reflected in the obvious enjoyment of people attending the Festival.

The four major service club events were well organized, well attended and brilliantly executed. Members of these groups deserve praise.

Fall Festival committee personnel devoted hours of their free time to the thankless task of organizing, coordinating and aligning the program. They were, on several occasions, faced with the unhappy duty of saying no to a group or organization whose proposed project would have overlapped or duplicated another's.

If there have been a few murmurs of dissent and criticism of their work, we would suggest that their efforts be observed in relation to the overwhelming success of the Festival.

And, undeniably, a success it was. Call us corny if you like, but we would single out the work of one man for a pat on the back. Former Rotarian R. T. Sheehan's inventiveness added both expediency and attraction to Sunday's chicken barbecue.

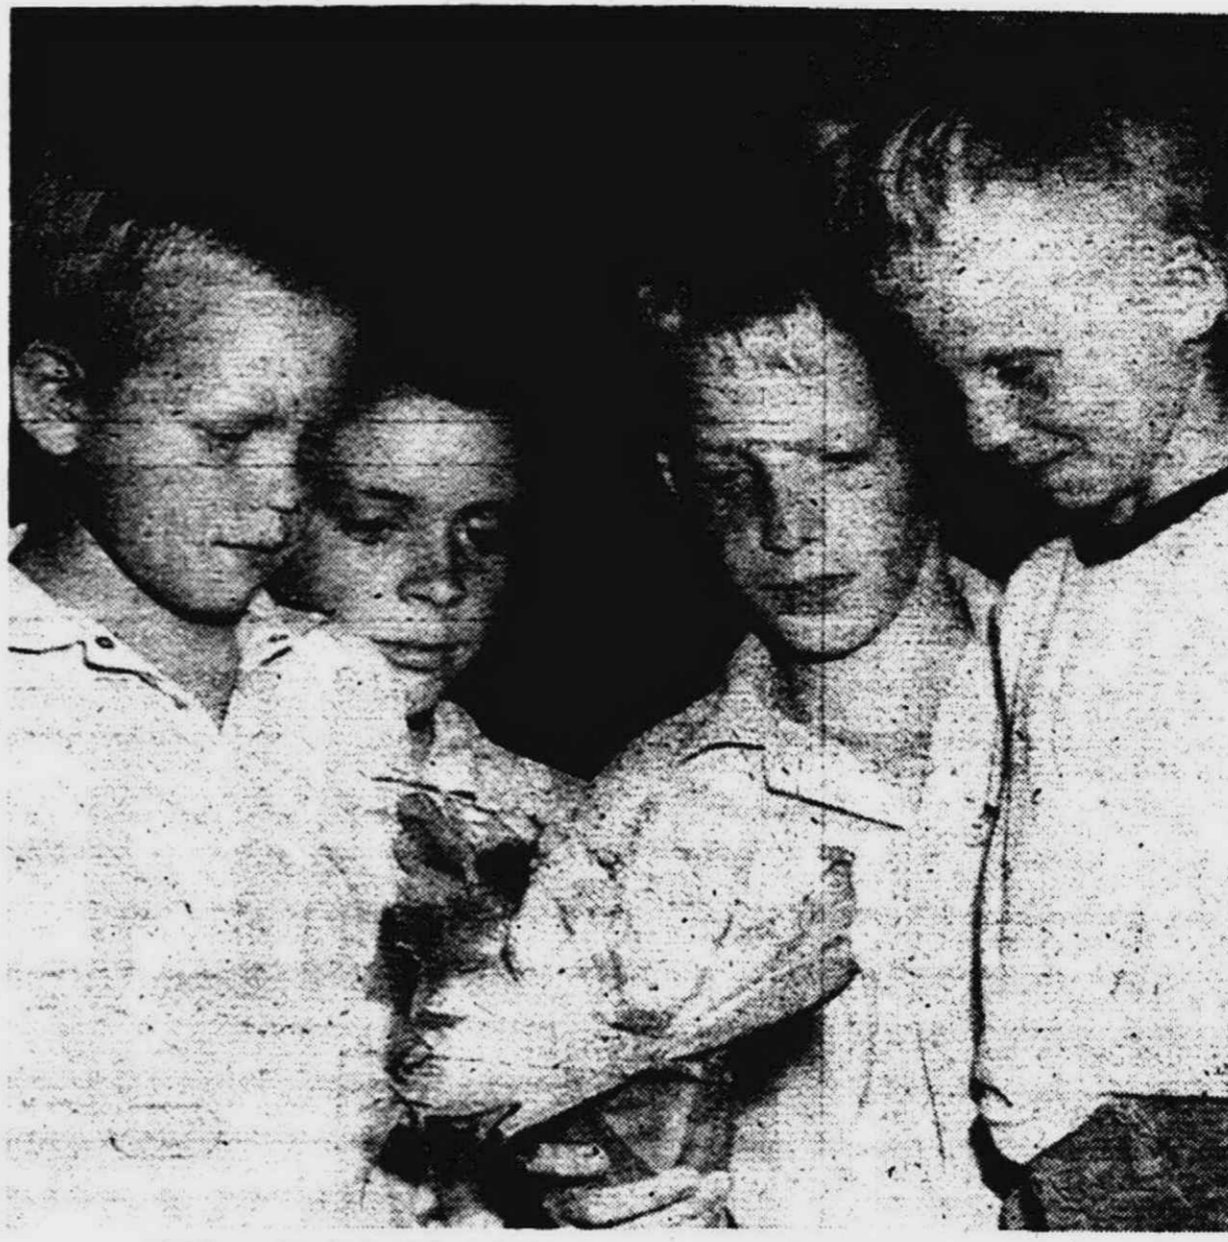

Sheehan, owner of a firm on N. Territorial Rd. that builds conveyor apparatus, came up with a unique system. A conveyor belt, teamed up with a colorful old steam engine, permitted barbecuers to turn out corn on the cob at the rate of 3,000 ears per hour.

His inventive genius and the cost of construction were provided at no cost. Sheehan deserves special mention.

Given the space and the time, we would cite more. City personnel worked to provide all that Festival officials asked. Policemen, firemen and public works personnel worked especially hard.

In summation, we're sorry we can't call everyone by name. It was a bang-up job.

We're proud of all of you.

EIGHT EARS OF CORN in one were found, this past week by Ross Roginski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Roginski, of 9070 Morrison St., while he went picking corn with his family at a friend's farm. Inspecting the amazing ear of corn are, left to right, Ross's brother Norman, Glenn Tripp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tripp, of 9029 Morrison St., Ross and his brother Eddie.

Worthy of a better showing

If one thing bothered us, and continues to do so now that the Fall Festival is over, it is the colossal disrespect and lack of awareness shown this nation's Flag Saturday evening.

Any school kid knows it's customary to stand when the colors of this nation pass in review.

But, at Saturday evening's Pageant of Drums — held at the Plymouth High School athletic field — most of the 1,300 persons there either forgot or literally didn't give a damn.

It made us a little bit sick.

After their performance on the field, each of the parading units marched past the grandstand on the way back to the assembly area. Leading each group was an American Flag.

Generally, for all of the tribute paid to the Stars and Stripes, the units might as well have been carrying the stars and bars of the confederacy or the hammer and sickle of the U.S.S.R.

Few people stood, fewer men bothered to remove their hats and/or salute, and some even failed to haul their cigars down for the Flag.

What the heck are we coming to? Have the ultra-conservatives and the super-patriots so soured us that we can't even muster the courtesy to recognize the symbol of our own freedom? Or is there substance in right-wing charges that we have become a watered down, don't care nation?

We would decry the lethargy and unawareness that was displayed on this occasion.

And we feel certain that as the sponsoring group, the V.F.W. is equally unhappy about it. Much effort went into the stellar presentation they provided.

We issue a hearty editorial raspberry to those whose respect for the United States has fallen to such a low ebb.

It reflects an appalling ignorance of the factors which made this nation what it is and an unbelievable lack of gratitude toward the V.F.W. and participating groups.

The Plymouth Community is worthy of a better showing in this respect.

No answer.

The 1954 Fall Festival has subsided, local groups have literally folded their tents and stolen away, and — in the back of my mind — recurs the gnawing question:

What force, what kind of drive has made the events of these past few days percolate?

In essence, what makes Plymouth run?

A good question, you say. Give us an answer.

I can't.

Oh, sure, I could trot out all those tired and tepid old saws that Chambers of Commerce in communities throughout the midwest have been bandying about for decades upon weary decades.

I could out-habit George Babbit himself with pat, convenient formulae that begin with "boost, don't knock," and spiral upward into rose-tinted clouds of unreality.

But the answer lies elsewhere.

It lies within the human beings who broke their collective necks over the past few months to transform the concept of something called Fall Festival into four days of meaningful, sincere activity.

That word, sincerity, may sum it all up.

to be "in" at the Fair, we were squares.

But that's O.K.

The virtue of Plymouth's Fall Festival is that it appeals to squares.

The Festival is the epitome of something that has largely been lost in our society.

Call it sincerity, call it spontaneity, call it what you will. That indefinable something, the antithesis of commercialism, is an intrinsic part of Plymouth's annual four-day celebration.

We must exercise caution lest we, too, lose it.

It seems imperative to retain in the atmosphere that permits freckle-faced kids to clamber upon the cannon in Kellogg Park and hoot and holler at less fortunate contemporaries from a perch atop its barrel.

Festivity and fun, yes. Commercial carnivalism, no.

High points?

There were many. As a fledgling service club member, I put in not-as-many-hours-as-I-would-have-liked-to at the pancake festival between picture-taking stints.

Bill Lyons looked tired Sunday.

Saturday evening was great. Liberal leanings I confess to, but if my friends in the never-never land of Goldwater and Miller should interpret this as a lack of patriotism, they are wrong.

I love the Flag and I get a heck of a bang out of watching groups parade under it. While I almost froze my tail off on the football field, the music and the pagentry were warming to the heart.

At the same time, it sent chills up and down my icy-cold spine.

Sunday was one big high point.

I spent most of the morning cloistered in The Plymouth Mail's darkroom. I know the printing plant is down wind from the barbecue because, there in the blackness, I kept getting whiffs of chicken.

My mouth watered so much the developer solution got dilute and I had to wander over and con a Rotarian into letting me sample.

It's too bad that Fall Festival, like Christmas, comes only once a year.

At 8 p.m. Friday the 1964 Plymouth high school football season will get underway, when Plymouth entertains Northville at the Plymouth High School field.

Some 3,000 fans are expected to cheer the Rocks, while an estimated 500 will journey from nearby Northville to cheer their Mustangs.

The traditional opening game contest between these two schools has always been full of surprises. Northville is a powerful Class "B" school and Plymouth is a class A school, but the Mustangs have always played well.

LAST season, for example, Northville scored first on a 45 yard run in the second period. Plymouth got that one back on the ensuing kickoff and went on to win 26-6 after a 6-6 score at the half. Last season's Plymouth team finished the season unbeaten with a 7-0-1 record.

This season Plymouth Football Coach John M. Hoben is not yet set on his starting line, particularly at the tackle position. However, some positions are firm.

Senior John Daniel is expected to start at quarterback, while seniors Gary Grady and Roger Tobey will start at the offensive halfback positions. The fullback position at this point is a three-way battle between Curt Irish, Rick Jones and Larry Warneumende, all juniors.

JIM LAKE, a senior, has apparently nailed down one starting end assignment, while senior Gary Fuelling and Jerry Warneumende, a junior, will both see action at the other end.

In the middle of the line, Dave Tidwell and Rick Barron appear to lead center prospects, while Paul Denmore is virtually certain to start at one guard slot. The rest of the line will be announced at game time.

On defense, Daniel and Terry Cosgrove will share the deep assignments in the backfield with help from Warneumende and Irish, while Steve Stribley, Tobey and Jones will share one linebacking post. Grady is the other linebacking.

At defensive end will be Lake and Jarri Watson.

After last week's 4-school round robin scrimmage between Plymouth, Redford, Taylor Center and Berkley, coach Hoben's recreation was mixed. He felt that Plymouth had the edge on Berkley and Taylor Center.

However, Hoben insisted that he hadn't found any handy answers to the problem of inexperience in the Plymouth line.

"WE ARE a long way from any undefeated season," he said, "but we will be in there. I think that we'll play a pretty good game every time."

because these kids have a good spirit and they will put this Friday. These opening games have always been unpredictable.

In Michigan... after a swim, beer is a natural

On a hot summer day, a dip in a cool stream can be wonderfully refreshing. Equally refreshing when you're relaxing afterwards with friends is a hearty glass of beer. There's hardly another beverage around that suits what you do for fun as much as beer. Camping, hiking, or just lounging on a lawn chair—beer brings to each just the right touch of extra good living.

Your familiar glass of beer is also a pleasurable reminder that we live in a land of personal freedom—and that our right to enjoy beer and ale, if we so desire, is just one, but an important one, of those personal freedoms.

The Sporting Thing

By Bill Nelson

Chances are fairly good that your life won't be drastically altered if you miss seeing the opening football game Friday, when Plymouth entertains its traditional opening game rival, nearby Northville.

It's not that kind of thing. It is also likely that what transpires there will not have any measurable effect on all the serious problems that confront the world today.

It's not that kind of thing, either. And, if you need an excuse to go out or a pleasant change of routine or some such rationalization — it doesn't fit that much either. In this sophisticated age, a high school football game usually doesn't measure up to, say a cocktail party.

It's not that kind of thing. But... Chances are that there will be a slight crispness in the air, a hint of another Michigan fall. There may even be some leaves on the ground, which crunch reassuringly under foot.

The Plymouth band will play songs that you've heard before, like the Plymouth fight song. Maybe they'll have a surprise or two too. You may even feel like you're watching a kind of "Music Man" outdoors.

In new blue and white uniforms, some of your neighbors' kids will battle with Northville youngsters and you may even wonder what that youngster down the street is doing out there looking for all the world like a grown man. It'll dawn on you that another year has slipped by.

You will be amazed at how well they perform, if you haven't seen a game lately. You'll also be amazed at the vocal support given the players, and then you'll realize that an awful lot of parents are in the stands with friends and have a decided personal interest in the team.

If you've been following these pages, you'll look down at the bench, where you'll see, at least, two of Plymouth's coaching staff. You'll watch closely the movements of head coach John M. Hoben, an unusual man who will never indicate the emotions that must be sweeping over him.

For him, this is the beginning of the end. A fantastically successful coach, he is doing the job for his last season. He has been named an assistant principal and next year there will be a new coach.

YOUR eye may then light on a round, husky man next to him. He is John McFall, the line coach, who has worked in this capacity for Hoben and Plymouth for nine years.

As always, but particularly so this year, Plymouth's success will reflect the efforts of McFall. According to Hoben, the line is the problem this year. Plymouth is well stocked with end and backfield talent — in fact may possess the best halfback in the state in Captain Gary Grady.

So the interest of devotees will center on the line. How good is it and how much can Plymouth expect from it? The performance of the line will be a tribute to McFall's ability to get an inexperienced group into shape in a hurry.

Northville always adds a little touch of interest, being so close. They are listed as a class B school and always come hunting for Rocks when they meet Class A Plymouth.

Another writer has christened the Plymouth field "Candlestick Park" in pointed reference to its poor lighting. One thinks he must have something, especially when people in the community (albeit approaching the city taxing unit and not the school) are petitioning for a community swimming pool. Lights ought to be provided first.

Up in the press box, things will be nervous with levity appreciated only when things are going well. For some it is very serious. And maybe it ought to be.

It's that kind of thing. As a post script the story of the derelict Shakespearean actor seems appropriate. He was summoned one day to fill an ailing actor's part.

For months he had been looking for work. He borrowed a dime and took a subway across New York, where the director told him to memorize a line, "My how the cannon doth resound". At the last moment he was shoved on stage at the right moment. In the background a cannon fired and in his surprise, he said, "What the hell was that?"

No reader of the Plymouth Mail should say that next Friday night, when the gun goes off against Northville.

THREE GOOD REASONS TO BUY AN ELECTRIC DRYER NOW

- low initial cost
- special installed price
- Edison no-charge service

When it comes to buying a clothes dryer, there are more important things to consider than an incomplete claim about a pennies-per-load operating cost.

Take dryer service, for example. No matter where you buy your electric dryer, Edison will repair or replace electrical parts with no charge for parts or labor.

How do you put a price tag on this extra-special service? One way is to look at what you'd pay for a dryer service policy. Typical charges, in this area, range from $70 to $150 over the first five years. This is the kind of money you save when you dry clothes the safe, gentle electric way.

Also, model for model, an electric dryer costs less to buy than a flame-type does—some electric dryers are $20 to $40 less.

And now, for a limited time, the price paid for an electric dryer includes its wiring, if any is needed. So you save even more.

What about cost of operation claims? Just this, an electric dryer costs about 5¢-7¢ per load to operate—and there are no other hidden costs.

Look at all the facts. They add up to electricity. EDISON

Set Fiesta in Heart of Wine Country

New York fancies its Easter Parade, New Orleans is a magnet for thousands during its Mardi Gras season. But in Spain the high point of its annual wine festival is the Fiesta de la Vendimia, which takes place in Jerez de la Frontera every year.

This is the heart of Spain's wine country and it comes at the very height of the grape gathering season which precedes the making and bottling of their world famous sherry wines.

During the Easter festivities, Park Avenue honors the Easter bonnet, and in Mardi Gras time New Orleans its exotic masquerade costumes and its floats. But during the September vendimia festival in Jerez, the colorful Andalusian riding costumes are king. Everyone wears the white frilled linen shirt, the short black jacket, the leather riding chaps, tall boots, all topped by the broad-brimmed sombrero.

During the height of the Fiesta, the sun-splashed streets of Jerez are rivers of beautifully costumed horse-men and horsewomen, parading back and forth — just like New York's Fifth Avenue crowds or the Canal Street throngs in New Orleans. In Jerez the sidewalks overflow with Fiesta goers while balloon vendors and gypsies try to snatch a few pesetas from the susceptible visitors.

Depending on age and inclination, the Fiesta shows a two-sided personality. On one side of the street flamenco rhythms and impromptu dancing performances erupt. On the other side you are just as apt to hear a group of teenagers breaking out in rock and roll rhythms with some joining in a sidewalk "tweest."

Yet amid all these celebrations this city close to Cadiz never forgets its heritage. Jerez is the justly famous birthplace of both sherry and the superb Spanish horse shown throughout the world.

But, above all, this is wine country. Vineyards stretch or 22,000 acres over the countryside, which has been producing wine as long as history records. The area is liberally spotted with ranches that breed the famous Spanish horses and the fighting bulls. Despite the invasion of rock 'n roll and automobiles, Jerez still shows its chalk white houses, grilled entrance gates, cobblestone courtyards and formal gardens just as it has for centuries. Time has laid a very light hand on this famous city.

Perhaps the most historic structures in Jerez are the oodges — ancient monasteries converted into wineries. Monasteries have produced wines in Spain for upward of a thousand years. Their soaring Moorish arches and graceful columns provide an appropriate background for the rows of time-scarred wine casks. Some of the casks are dated and named in dedication to famous names in history — Napoleon, Lord Nelson, Queen Elizabeth I and other historic figures.

The people of Jerez themselves, as they strut by proudly with heads held upright, are hardly distinguishable from the visitors coming from the rest of Spain and elsewhere. But Jerezians are a history-conscious people. Vasco de Balboa, the first Western explorer to reach the Pacific, was born there in 1478, while Spain's greatest painter, Francisco de Goya, lived and worked there and captured the beautiful Jerez 18th century country on his canvases.

According to Jerezano tradition, Sir Francis Drake who attacked nearby Cadiz in 1597, did so for the 3,000 butts of sherry stored in the ships that rode at anchor in the harbor rather than for his avowed duty to King and country.

Life in Jerez? The local people are hard working but they have working patterns of their own. The work day in Jerez begins at dawn and ends at two in the afternoon. The sun blazing on the burning cobblestones makes work uncomfortable, so they take a siesta, a relaxing sail down the coast or a quiet rest in palm shaded gardens.

Jerezanos love to race the horses they breed and attend the performances where their native bulls provide the entertainment. Every year, during the vintage festival, six breeders enter their best bulls in competition. Three of Spain's foremost matadors are engaged to fight the bulls in an event that sparks the most spectacular event of the sports year in Spain.

Eight months after the vintage festival, Jerezanos hold another Fiesta in May. This Spring Festival is care-free and relaxed in one way, but very businesslike in another.

Interspersed with their drinking, dancing, singing and entertainment is the practical business of livestock trading — still a popular calling among the gypsies, and an important business with breeders and ranch owners.

Like all Latins, their capacity for enjoying life holds a strong place in their philosophy. This capacity is augmented by the product which is their chief handicraft — wine making.

UNMINDFUL of the unseasonable cold and intent upon the show, more than 1,300 people sat in the grandstands at Plymouth High School Saturday evening for the V.F.W.'s Pageant of Drums. More than 400 youngsters from Michigan and Ohio paraded for the crowd.

Mining King Recommends Everyone, Try It

In one of downtown Manhattan's modest walk-up taxpayer-type buildings, number 17 Avenue of the Americas, reigns potential multi-millionaire mineral king James H. Dillon, American soldier of fortune of Canada's copper-silver-gold strike of 1964.

Just what is the gold, silver, copper, zinc, claim and mine owner doing in this setting when he might be out full time amid the deep spruce wood country of Timmins, Ontario, maneuvering his hoard, or tapping new veins of wealth?

Jim Dillon has said he intends to carry on as usual as President and founding member of the Intercontinental Construction Men's Association, a post he has filled for twenty years.

His job is a big one for he oversees a vast clearing house of foreign jobs for 14,000 registered construction men who belong to the non-profit organization.

"No thought of retiring to count my minerals," Jim Dillon says, referring pleasantly to what he has struck. "I enjoy my work, like people and like to help solve their problems. I guess I have more friends scattered around the world than any man in the country. A guy can make an enemy without blinking an eye, but making friends is a full time proposition.

"Some people enjoy hunting, some enjoy fishing. I enjoy looking for minerals. I did a 900 mile magnetometer survey in Baffin Island, had an option to lease 10 million acres of oil land in the Canadian Arctic Islands, 400 miles north of Thule, Greenland, above the 80° latitude.

Dillon has 16 patented gold claims. A claim consists of 46 acres — assays run from 0.94 ounces to 8. ounces of gold per ton of rock — gold is worth $35.00 an ounce, 16 copper claims worth $55,000 a claim; and 100 iron ore claims bearing one million ton of iron ore sells for $35 a ton.

Keeping tabs on the tidy treasure are 25 persons who form the nucleus of his recently formed public company.

It will be five years, according to Canadian law before all the claims are permanently his, Dillon said, provided he renews his miner's license ($5.00 each) his claims renewal license ($5.00 each) and does his assessment work for the minimum 40 days per claim each year at $2.00 an hour.

In the meantime, Dillon remarked he has been approached by two of the biggest copper companies in the states to sell his claims. Approached is not exactly it. With a shortage of copper all over the world, he has been courted, wooed, cajoled, into selling — for a mint of money if course.

All of his adult life, Dillon has lived by the code, "nothing ventured, nothing gained." He roamed the globe for 10 of his 30 years as a journeyman construction worker. He was a mule skinner, a "gandy dancer" (one who ays railroad ties and hops around like a male goose — a gander), locomotive fireman, engineer, labor foreman, construction superintendent, and personnel manager, all five feet four inches of him, as tough fibered as they come, with nothing slight about his broad build.

The stampede to Timmins, Ontario, Canada started in April when news leaked out that one of the largest copper and silver ore bodies ever found had been struck, but Dillon was there before.

In 1958, after seeing iron ore laying in the ground, not belonging to anybody or anything, he posted as many claims as he could, recording them properly with the Canadian Government.

In 1959, Dillon continued, he heard about copper, gold and silver claims held by an elderly man for 50 years.

When he died, and his heirs had no interest in his claims, with two friends he said, he was determined to stake this freed area.

Another gang started out for the same place, just about a quarter of a mile ahead of Dillon's group. They had ten men; they got ten claims. We staked three, Dillon said. Later when they failed to do the assessment work Dillon took their ten claims.

In 1960, he learned of an area which was rich in gold, surrounding Braulian Reef Gold Mines, and was being released for staking by the Canadian Government. Dillon staked the claims, did some exploratory core drilling, had the drill core assayed. Out of 32 assays, 25 were gold-bearing over a nine foot section.

By the time Texas Gulf began drilling their claims in November 1963, Dillon and his friends were already ahead of the feverish band of assorted speculators, geologists, engineers, stakers, who crashed Timmins since early spring this year.

"Anyone with a little red blood and a sense of pioneering adventure, over the required age of 18, should make a try for this great untapped mining region," Dillon said. "All you need is a sleeping bag, a pick and shovel, a gun for those hungry bears and wolves, strong legs, a rugged constitution, and you might strike it, he said. There is more gold, silver and copper in this earth than has ever been taken out. There is also antimony, asbestos, beryllium, chromium, columbium, graphite, manganese, mercury, molybdenum, nickel, vanadium, and zinc. The Timmins area is really the treasure chest of Canada," Dillon said.
