Draugelis, McNamara and Roberts Win in Primaries

Impressive victories were chalked up yesterday in local and district-wide balloting as electors cast votes for 14th State Senatorial candidates and Plymouth's Municipal Judge hopefuls.

Slim turnouts were reported as less than 10 per cent of the registered voters cast ballots in Plymouth Township and little more than 13 per cent in the City of Plymouth.

Edward H. McNamara, a Democrat, and Farrell E. Roberts, Republican, led by wide margins both locally and throughout the district to nail down slots as Senatorial candidates for their respective parties.

In Plymouth, City Attorney Edward Draugelis swept to a lopsided win over J. Rusling Cutler and Clifford H. Manwaring.

DRAUGELIS posted a 427 tally, compared to Cutler's 157 and Manwaring's 115. However, the victory was clouded by an opinion from the office of the Michigan Attorney General which left some question about the city attorney's legal eligibility.

In the 14th Senatorial District contest, made necessary by the December death of Senator-Elect Paul M. Chandler of Livonia, Roberts and McNamara won handily.

In City of Plymouth balloting, Roberts led his nearest opponent, Thomas J. McHugh, 360 to 56. In Plymouth Township, Allen C. Ingle came closest to Roberts, trailing 34 to 229.

McNamara led Mrs. Gilmore in the City 101 to 68. In the Township, he had 54 votes to Mrs. Gilmore's 22. John H. Burke of Farmington finished third in the Democratic primary, getting 15 votes in the City of Plymouth and 11 in Plymouth Township.

In district-wide voting in Wayne and Oakland Counties, McNamara received 4,004 votes to Mrs. Gilmore's 976 and Burke's 1,010.

In the GOP primary throughout the district the tally was as follows:

Roberts, 4,739; Paul A. Kern, Jr., 1,493; Allen C. Ingle, 1,154; Thomas McHugh, 909; Fitzhugh Prescott, 383 and George T. Ames, 231. Local totals appear below:

"MAY BE ENFORCED"

Att'y General Says Charter Still Holds

In an opinion handed down last Friday by Michigan Deputy Attorney General Leon S. Cohan, the Charter of the City of Plymouth was upheld, leaving open a serious question about the legal eligibility of City Attorney Edward F. Draugelis for the post of municipal judge.

The opinion, signed by Attorney General Frank J. Kelley and Cohan, held that the city's five year residency requirement is still in effect and may be enforced.

Draugelis won an impressive primary election victory Monday.

Monday evening, at Plymouth's City Hall, Draugelis said he would probably seek a court judgement on the matter.

The opinion, signed by Attorney General Frank J. Kelley and Cohan, held that the city's five year residency requirement is still in effect and may be enforced.

The ruling was requested by The Plymouth Mail through Plymouth's State Representative, James Tierney (D) of Garden City. The question about the city attorney's eligibility for the court post was raised last week by at least one other Plymouth attorney who chose to remain unidentified.

IT REVOLVES about a requirement in the Plymouth City Charter that candidates for municipal judge must have been residents of the City of Plymouth for at least five years prior to the date of election. Draugelis does not meet the residency requirement. He based his candidacy, however, on a 1954 amendment to state law which eliminated the five year residency stipulation. The 37-year-old city attorney cited other state statutes which rule that provisions of city

Signers Sought for Covenant

The Plymouth Assembly for Equal Opportunity is sponsoring a drive for signatures on an open housing covenant that pledges the signer to "welcome to my neighborhood any responsible person of whatever race religion or national origin."

The drive will be held on Sunday, Feb. 21, the first day of National Brotherhood Week.

An estimated 2 1/2% of the population of the Plymouth Community have signed such a covenant already — about 400 signatures.

The covenant was drawn up by the Assembly last year. A meeting was held Tuesday at the Presbyterian Church to orient Assembly members on drive plans and to outline a series of questions and answers expected to be put to drive members.

The Assembly has about 150 members but urges anyone else interested to join in the drive for signatures. According to Chairman of the Assembly Norman Thornburn:

"THE COVENANT purpose is one and the same with one of the Assembly's purposes — to give the decent, uncommitted majority an opportunity to publicly commit themselves."

City Denies Apartment Rezoning After Hearing

A request for rezoning of eight lots on Coolidge Road from one family dwellings to two family dwellings was denied following a public hearing at which residents of the area objected during Monday night's Plymouth City Commission meeting.

The eight lots, known as Maplecroft Subdivision, are owned by 4 local builders. The proposed subdivision was to be built by Garling Building Company of Plymouth.

About 30 residents of the area were on hand and they voiced unanimous objection to the proposed amendment to the ordinances. Speaking against the proposal, Gary Combe of 900 Fairground said:

"I think that this rezoning is unfair. We bought the property and we had the image that this was a residential city. This is spot zoning that would affect the worth of our property." Another area resident, George Hudson, 706 Burroughs, said:

"WE HAVE enough land rezoned for multiple dwellings. We should relax and look at what's happening." Robert Garling, of Garling Building Company, noted:

Start Suit to Stop Bell's Twp. Micro-Wave Tower

An injunction has been sought against Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and their plans to build a micro-wave tower on the corner of Napier and Powell Roads by a property owner directly across from the tower's proposed site.

Ossie Hincote, 51265 Powell Road, filed suit in Wayne County Circuit court. Attorney John Ashton will handle the suit for Hincote.

The suit is being brought against the Township Planning Commission, the Township Board of Trustees Township building inspector Matthew McClellan, and Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

The initial hearing is set for March 5. If, at the time, the court feels grounds for the suit are substantial it is expected they will issue an injunction against Michigan Bell to halt any possible work on the tower.

THE SUIT alleges the Planning Commission went beyond its authority in granting a building permit to Michigan Bell for the tower. According to Attorney Ashton:

"The Planning Commission acted beyond their power to act. This is an agricultural area, zoned agriculture, and the tower does not meet the (Continued on page 2)

Here's Attorney General's Opinion on Municipal Court

February 12, 1965
Representative James Tierney
Lansing, Michigan

Dear Representative Tierney: You direct my attention to the following situation existing in the city of Plymouth, Michigan. That city adopted a charter under the Home Rule Act on October 1, 1951. Chapter 8 of that charter deals with the municipal court. By Section 8.1 it is provided: "The Municipal Court of the City of Plymouth, having been created hereby continued and shall be subject to the provisions of this charter." Section 8.2 directs that a municipal judge shall be elected for a six year term at the city election held in 1953 and that after the first such term the succeeding terms shall commence on the first day of January of the calendar year following the election. It is then provided in Section 8.2: "In addition to other qualifications required of elective officers of the city by this charter, each Municipal Judge shall, at the time of, and immediately preceding, his election or appointment, have been a resident of the City of Plymouth for five years and an attorney admitted to practice law in the Supreme Court of this State." At the time of the adoption of the foregoing charter provision it was provided in Section 28 of the Home Rule Act that any city having a justice court and a police court or a justice court may, in or by amendment to its charter provide for the abolishment of said courts and the consolidation of the powers, jurisdictions and duties of said courts into a court to be presided over by a judge or justice, who shall have been a resident of said city for five years, and who shall be an attorney admitted to practice law in the Supreme Court of this State immediately preceding the date of his election or appointment. It is to be noted that the Home Rule Act as recited in its charter of October 1, 1951, a municipal court had been created and previously there was not then before the electorate the question of abolishing a justice court and a police court or a justice court and the consolidation of the powers and jurisdiction of any such courts into a municipal court. It therefore can be contended that the 5 year residency requirement appearing in Section 28 of the Home Rule Act at that time was not applicable, in respect of the merits of such a contention, it is clear that the residency requirement heretofore quoted from Section 8.2 of the city charter did not conflict with Section 28 of the Home Rule Act and in fact was comparable and compatible. In 1954 the legislature by Public Act 75 amended Section 28 of the Home Rule Act to provide for the abolition of the justice court and the police court or a justice court and the creation of a municipal judge, who would be a qualified resident elector of the city. You request to be advised whether the foregoing change in Section 28 brought about by the 1954 Public Act renders invalid the 5 year residency requirement still prevailing in Section 8.2 of the city charter. It is my judgment that the 1954 amendatory act does not have the effect of upsetting the 5 year residency requirement still appearing in the city charter and that such 5 year requirement is still effective. I am familiar with the holding of our Supreme Court in Harsha v. City of Detroit, 261 Mich. 586, and again in Bullinger v. Gremore, 343 Mich. 516, that the State acting through the legislature has the authority to amend city charters and to enlarge or diminish the cities' powers. However, I do not read the 1954 amendatory act as having the effect of a general revision of the legislation already adopted and existing charter provisions which were in conformity with the law at the time of their adoption. In this connection I point out that under the language of Section 28, both antecedent and subsequent to the 1954 act, the authority to abolish justice and police courts is a general revision of the law applicable to city charters and municipal courts and is established. I read the language as applicable prospectively to the creation of municipal courts and the election of municipal judges thereunder by charter adoption or charter amendment for that purpose undertaken subsequent to the effective date of the 1954 act. I see no repugnancy between the present provision in Section 8.2 of the charter of the city of Plymouth and Section 28 as amended by the 1954 act. No decision by our Supreme Court has been found passing on the question raised by you. The case nearest in point is People ex rel. Westford County Prosecuting Attorney, v. Kearney, 345 Mich. 680, in that case the legislature by a local act of 1895 established the Recorder's Court for the City of Cadillac and required therein that the judge of such court be an admitted practicing attorney of the city. Years later the city of Cadillac adopted the Home Rule Act and in fact was comparable and compatible. Continuing, the opinion made this note on the effect of the 1954 amendment: "You request to be advised whether the foregoing change in Section 28 brought about by the 1954 Public Act renders invalid the five year residency requirement still prevailing in Section 8.2 of the city charter. "It is my judgment that the 1954 amendatory act does not have the effect of upsetting the five year residency provision still appearing in the city charter and that such five year requirement is still effective. "I do not read the 1954 amendatory act as having the effect of a general revision or amendment of already adopted and existing charter provisions which were in conformity with the law at the time of their adoption. "Nor do I find in the 1954 act any language which would indicate an intention by the legislature to make the change in residency applicable to city charters and municipal courts already established. "I see no repugnancy between the present provision in Section 8.2 of the charter of the City of Plymouth and Section 28 as amended by the 1954 act. The Attorney General's office noted that no decision by the Supreme Court has been found passing on the question raised. The opinion concluded: "AS I HAVE heretofore pointed out, the five year residency requirement appearing in Section 8.2 of the Charter of the City of Plymouth was not in conflict with the statute at the time of its adoption. "I find nothing . . . which conflicts with my conclusion that the aforesaid five year residency requirement is still in effect and may be enforced. Last week, according to City Clerk Richard Shafer the question about Draugelis's eligibility was directed to the State Elections Commission. The commission, he said suggested that the chain of command be followed and the matter be referred to the Wayne County Prosecutor's office. However, Shafer said, since no formal protest had been filed, the matter was dropped.

In Fact & Futhermore

Is Martha Washington Mother of Our Country?

By Lenore Bechtel

I wish next Monday weren't George Washington's birthday. I don't plan to tell the children, but I'm afraid it will be difficult to conceal a national holiday — even from a pre-schooler and a kindergartner. Since this is the time of year when kindergartners paint pictures of cherry trees and make hatchets out of construction paper, my secret is bound to come out.

The fact is, my children already know about George Washington.

They found out about him when they were collecting president cards found on the boxes of a particular brand of cereal — a brand we ate for 11½ straight weeks. As soon as we purchased a box, we emptied the cereal into old coffee canisters and started cutting out president pictures. Even when I had six or seven coffee canisters full of cereal, I was solaced with the thought that collecting pictures of presidents was, after all, educational.

Some children in our neighborhood were collecting pictures of monsters — a rather ghoulish hobby.

Chris and Kelly were fascinated by most of the presidents since they had never seen beards, white wigs, or ruffled shirts on men. George Washington was the most captivating only because the number on his card showed that he was our first president, a fact which gave him equal status with Adam and Eve or Santa Claus. As a matter of fact, they couldn't figure out why George Washington wasn't Adam, if he were the first.

"For a long time," I told them, "there wasn't a United States of America. But eventually when we became a nation and needed a president, George Washington was it. He is known as the father of our country."

"Do you mean he is our Daddy?" Chris asked.

"No," I said. "I was using father figuratively."

"If he's not the father of our country, why do you call him that?"

"He is the father of our country, but that doesn't mean he is the father of each person in the country."

"That's dumb," Chris said.

"Stupid," Kelly agreed.

I quickly changed the subject. "George Washington was a very great man," I went on. "He never told a lie, not even when he was a child."

As they exchanged skeptical glances, I realized the educational opportunities of this story. George would be a good example for Chris and Kelly, who had the sneaky habit of blaming their misdemeanors on each other.

Washington, George's parents, loved the tree, and Mrs. Washington liked to pick the cherries and bake a cherry pie. But one day that naughty George cut the tree down, and his parents were so sad.

"Didn't George Washington like cherry pies?"

"Oh yes," I said. "He loved them."

"Then he was dumb to cut the tree down," Chris said.

"Stupid," Kelly agreed.

"Yes, well anyway," I went on, "Mr. Washington said, 'George did you cut down the cherry tree?' and George said, 'I cannot tell a lie. Yes, I did cut it down.'"

"Boy, I bet his bottom was sore," Chris said.

"No," I said. "I don't think Mr. Washington spanked him because he was happy that George told the truth. Now if George had tried to put the blame on someone else, Mr. Washington would probably have spanked him very hard. It is always better to be honest. That's one reason he became president — because he always told the truth."

As they thought quite seriously about my last statement, I was confident the story had made an impression on them and that this lesson in history would help eliminate their little white lies. Kelly especially seemed rather amazed.

"What was the name of George Washington's wife?" she asked.

"Martha," I answered, pleased at her historical inquisitiveness.

"Is she the mother of our country?"

"I guess, figuratively speaking, we could call her that."

"Poor Martha," she said sadly. "I bet she was in the hospital all the time having babies."

I could see there was little use trying to explain figurative language, so I closed our discussion and shooed them outside. After several trips back in the house to retrieve wanted toys, they played very quietly.

When they re-entered the next time, Kelly was noticeably changed. Her bangs were chopped in six lengths and the rest of her hair altered between practically bald spots and erratically shingled locks.

"What happened to your hair?" I gasped.

"I cannot tell a lie," Chris said. "I cut it." Kelly smiled broadly, happy to have a new hairdo.

"But why?" I asked, suppressing my desire to thrash the both of them.

"We don't have a cherry tree and the scissors wouldn't cut the one we have," Chris explained with his perplexing five year old logic. "They cut Kelly's hair fine."

I've never figured out why my children couldn't have collected something uneducational and safe like monster cards.

charters shall not conflict with or contravene state law. In the opinion handed down last week, the attorney general's office took this view of the charter prior to the 1954 revision of the Michigan statute:

"It is clear that the residency requirement heretofore quoted from Section 8.2 of the City Charter did not conflict with Section 28 of the Home Rule Act and in fact was comparable and compatible."

Plans called for the tower to be built on a lot 383 by 383, directly across from Hinote's property. Two towers are proposed, the first one to be knocked down and a second, higher one put up at a later date. The second one is expected to be over 300 feet high.

Building permits for the tower were issued in the middle of December. Township Trustees authorized defense of the case at last Tuesday's meeting.

Tribe Famous For Colorful Blankets

By Lon Dickerson

The Mende tribal grouping is the most populous grouping in Moyamba District. On my recent visit to that district I saw them engaged in an art which has won for them world-wide acclaim.

This notoriety has been achieved through their country clothes. The skill has been passed on to some of the other tribes, but the Mendes are still considered the best artisans in this field.

Country cloths are attractive hand woven blankets ranging in size from 28 square feet upwards. The ability to make them has been passed on from generation to generation. Today, however, with the advent of modern technology and the resulting loss of interest in traditional ways of life, it is confined primarily to the older generation.

Thus, unless there is a revival of the skill among the young generation, the art will die out with a few years. The making of country cloths will then become a lost art.

Cotton is planted at the beginning of the rainy season, roughly late April or early May. By mid-January it is ready to harvest. Thus on my visit to the district I saw a great deal of cotton being picked by hand and left in the sun to dry.

After the cotton is dry, the women pick out all the seeds by hand. The next stage is carding. In this process the women use cotton cards imported from England. They are exactly like those used in colonial America. The cotton is placed on one of the small wooden boards covered with wire brush bristles and combed with the second one.

The process results in a loose, cylindrical strand of cotton about a foot in length.

As there are no spinning wheels, the cotton is next spun into thread by hand. The common varieties of cotton are either cream colored or a light reddish brown.

Other colors are obtained by dying the finished thread. Two shades of blue and one of brown are the usual dyed colors. Yellow and red dyes are available, but seldom if ever used for dying thread.

Green can be obtained by mixing blue with yellow. But, again, this is very rarely ever done.

Because of the length of time required to prepare native thread and the limited number of colors available, cotton thread is today imported from England in large quantities. This thread is either mixed with the native thread or used exclusively.

The result is that country cloths made entirely from native thread are hard to find today.

Once the thread has been prepared or purchased the men assume the task of weaving the final product. Again this process is done entirely by hand.

To prepare the thread for weaving it is first wrapped around the outside circumference of the house like an American woman would use her husband's outstretched hands to wrap her wool thread before rolling it up in a ball in preparation for knitting.

The thread is next stretched out for the warp in lengths of 20 to 30 feet. It is passed through a bamboo comb and then two heards of raffia which are suspended from a tripod of three sticks. Two short sticks at each end hold the thread.

Heavy Rains Dampen Twp. Man's Spirits

Herbert W. Smith, 42188 Lakeland Court, went to bed late Wednesday night and glanced out his kitchen window at the rain-soaked backyard. Everything was normal. Two hours later his back yard was under four feet of water and water was pouring under the door of his lower-level family room. A few short minutes later there was four feet of water in there, his furniture was floating and he was angry.

It had happened before, three years back, but that time there was only three inches of water. It was mopped up with rugs and rags. This time, however, it took a pump a day and a half to get things back to normal.

A combination of a plugged county drain, overworked sump pump, spring thaw and unseasonal rain turned his backyard and several acres of orchard at the back of his property into a veritable lake within the space of a few hours.

At 4 a.m. the water crested, hitting the electric furnace and air conditioning units. It sparked and sputtered and caught on fire. The township fire department was summoned, and the blaze doused, with firemen standing in four feet of water.

Smith, who is general manager of Milan Screw Products in Milan, Michigan, stayed home from work that day and totaled up damages.

An insurance adjuster estimated from $3,000 to $5,000 in damages was done to just the objects in the room.

ACCORDING to Smith, he called township officials at 3 a.m. A mix-up delayed the arrival of a township pumping crew until 9:30 that next morning.

In the meantime, things started to happen. As soon as the water reached wall sockets, the freezer, then the washer and dryer motor units blew up. Minutes later the water

FOUR FEET of water in his basement rooms made a bad day for Herbert W. Smith, Lakeland Court, last Wednesday. Here, a couch and chair, along with other odds and ends, float in water that seeped under a door. In an adjacent room, a freezer, a washer and a dryer were damaged.

Fall Festival Set For Sept. 9-12

Sept. 9-12 were set as the dates for this year's Fall Festival by members of the festival board of directors at a meeting Feb. 9.

The long term goal of the board, according to Mrs. Marshall North, is to make Fall Festival as self sufficient as possible. She explained that the board hopes the Festival will be able to take care of itself some day instead of asking financial support from local business and industry.

New plans for this year's Festival include raising the money needed for expenses, such as entertainment, for the festival before the event, Mrs. North said. The money donated to the festival by local service clubs from last year's earnings form the base of Festival money, but the board wants to raise other money before the event.

The board is also asking organizations participating in the Festival to send representatives to their meetings. Committees were also organized at the Feb. 9 meeting. They include, Publicity: Cecil Sharrard and Wendell Smith; Concessions: William Fehlig, chairman, John Herb and William Sempliner; and Finance: Mrs. Ray Hulce and John Herb.

On the entertainment committee, of which Margaret Wilson is chairman, are Cecil Sharrard and Mrs. North. James Thornton is chairman of the major service club participation and assisting him will be William Fehlig.

REGULAR meetings of the board and members of committees were set for the second Wednesday of each month at 8 p.m. The next meeting will be March 10 in the American Hospital building.

Board members are Edward Sawusch, president; John Herb, vice-president; Mrs. North, secretary; Mrs. Hulce, treasurer; William Fehlig, James Thornton, Cecil Sharrard and Margaret Wilson.

A special musical instrument designed for music instruction of the mentally handicapped will be demonstrated by its inventor, a Farmington man, William Martin. The instrument is called a mountain dulcimer.

To Extend Water Line

A proposed extension of the water mains on Five Mile Road and Haggerty Road was tabled pending engineers' reports on extending the main down to Schoolcraft Road at the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees meeting last Tuesday night, Feb. 9.

The action came in a routine meeting and followed discussion of the water main proposals for Lake Pointe Subdivision No. 9.

Water mains on Ann Arbor from Haggerty east to Terry were proposed and the engineer asked to draw up plans. This came after the petition of 16 residents on Haggerty between Joy and Ann Arbor Road for water was ok'd.

In other action the board approved the appointment of Gene Overholt as a new full-time fireman, approved payment of routine bills, including about $2,700 in statements for easement work by Township Attorney Earl Demel.

Canvasbacks for Oldford and Sons Forshoe Subdivision were accepted.

A discussion of what to do with a defaulted contract came next. The defaulted contract was with the Venice Construction Company for sewer lines. The matter was tabled after the board was told the Township was withholding further payment to the company.

Marmion Hills canvasbacks were approved as was a contract with the County Road commission for dust palliative for unpaved streets in the Township.

TWO LAWMEN:

Discuss Enforcement And Human Relations

Plymouth's Director of Safety Kenneth Fisher and Deputy Inspector Richard M. Novak of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department discussed law enforcement as applied to human relations before the Plymouth Assembly last Thursday night.

Both Fisher and Novak emphasized the duties of their departments, and outlined steps they might take in the event of a race incident. Inspector Novak said:

"It is a situation that is here whether you like it or not. If we don't enforce the laws, the state will. If the State won't, the Federal government will. Even Mayor Hubbard in Dearborn will go to jail. They (Negroes) deserve the protection of the law just like everyone else."

Novak pledged that his department would "back their play." Fisher agreed with Novak's opening statements and noted:

"I don't want to second guess about what will happen. Further I don't agree wholeheartedly with the Civil Rights Commission. I don't agree with their citizen review board of all police ac-

Both Novak and Fisher discussed methods of preventing riots, and techniques for handling riots already in progress. They also explained their mutual aid agreements.

The two lawmen concluded by explaining how citizens groups can help law enforcement officers. However, Fisher noted the assembly was not a group they expected trouble from and they were to some extent, talking to the wrong group.

Daniel Martin, sheriff of Wayne County, who was originally scheduled, canceled for race riots. On this, Fisher said:

Town Crier Exercise is Answer To Figure Problems

By Jacquie Town

Translating the title on a recent "Girl Talk" program, one of America's leading female authorities on physical fitness said, in effect, that the Average American Woman's biggest problem is her Big Rear End.

As I sat viewing this fifty-one year old specimen of perfect proportion and boundless vitality, I quickly took a sneaky view in the direction of my own derriere. Even at a weight of less than 110 lbs., I noticed the greatest share was exactly where madam had stated.

In the case of my own hour-glass figure—the sand had run to the bottom.

Bonnie Pruden's solution to this battle of the bulge was a simple one: Exercise. Unfortunately, some of those performed by TV muscle men, are not always the correct ones. Miss Pruden pointed out that there are exercises and there are exercises.

Then another panelist, Debbie Drake, pointed out that exercise shouldn't make you muscular, but rather, beautiful and poised. Many add muscles where females don't need them.

After all, who wants to look like Ed Allen??

Next an Oriental Ballerina, who disliked the term "Belly Dancer" proceeded to explain that the motions involved in her type of exotic dance, originated years ago as folk dancing and were excellent for strengthening sagging abdominal muscles. Morocco (honest that's her name and she was born in Brooklyn) said quite seriously that these movements were not sexy or provocative, but rather the exact motions a woman performs during labor in childbirth.

Admittedly, during childbirth they would hardly appear sensuous, but minus maternity clothes, or much else for that matter, it does raise a question.

Her point was that the peasant women had very little difficulty bearing children because of the performance of the folk dance which prepared them for the labor, and most of them had excellent figures too. Each of the girls had considerably valid points on the subject of physical fitness and the effects it has on our health.

I decided their opinions, backed by mountains of medical statistics, made sense and now was as good a time as any to wage my war with the Grand Maris; add a little here and there, mostly there, and fight for self improvement.

And then I remembered.

Quite a few months back my pencil-pushing spouse decided to become flexible instead of flabby, and he purchased the "Royal Canadian Airforce Exercise Plan for Physical Fitness." However, after just reading the book, he was to exhausted to try the plan.

The book had accomplished very little except to cover a burnt spot on the coffee table since then.

After one final glance at my own end result in a full length mirror, it was hang the burnt spot and began the task of XBX, which is the recommended program for women. It only takes 12 minutes a day and I'm actually getting results.

I'm exhausted all the time, and so sore I can't move, but I am getting results.

The level I'm to attain is to be able to perform 10 exercises a total of 355 times in the relatively short period of 12 minutes. I have yet to reach my goal, and the comments on my progress report sound like an ad for liniment.

"Oh, that one hurts" or "Whose idea was this?" There are times when I feel like a silent film actress in tights with the reels running full speed, but I'll be ready for the Royal Canadian Airforce if they need me.

Now all I have to do is con my husband into joining me.

I've tried all the arguments like, it's good for your health, you'll be so much more attractive, and really dear, you should do something about your waist-line.

Perhaps it would give my husband incentive if I practiced the exercises of the Oriental Ballerina, after all as Miss Pruden herself says, "There's exercise and there's exercise."

Even the Royal Canadian Airforce recommends running.

Sorority Offers Fellowship For Social Service Study

A graduate fellowship for study in the field of social service is being offered again this year by Alpha Xi Delta, national social fraternity for college women.

Juvenile delinquency is the national philanthropic work of the fraternity and it is offering this $1,500 fellowship because of the increasing need for trained personnel to work with young people. The award was first made in 1959. To be eligible for the award, you must be a graduate of an accredited college or university with an outstanding scholastic record and interest in pursuing a career or working with children or youth to prevent delinquency in the United States.

As its part in the national philanthropy, the Dearborn Alumnae group which includes Plymouthites has aided Plymouth State Home this year by equipping a sewing class for teenagers and donating funds for construction of a swimming pool. It also has been assisting the Big Brothers of Dearborn for the past five years.

Applications for the fellowship may be obtained from Mrs. Owen Newell, 14128 Ingram, Livonia. Completed applications must be returned before March 1.

TREASURES FROM

Plymouth Pantries

New Plymouth resident, Mrs. E. A. Fisher, of 1416 Hartsough St., suggested a main course salad, "Molded Shrimp Salad," to Plymouth Pantries this week.

Mrs. Fisher recommends camping as an excellent way of travelling with youngsters. She explained that wherever they stop along the way, the boys meet other boys to play with and keep them happy.

Enlarged photographs, which her husband made, decorate a wall in their family room.

Grange Gleanings

Plymouth Grange 389 members met in the Grange hall Feb. 4 and made plans to have a bake sale at Krogers Friday, Feb. 19 at 9 a.m.

Miss Broeder, after graduating from Marygrove College, entered the University of Detroit Law School. She has been a practicing attorney for a number of years in Detroit.

Her recipe for the molded shrimp salad is one her mother gave her, she said. It is the only salad she has served that men seem to enjoy and even request, she added.

PREPARING her "Molded Shrimp Salad" is Mrs. E. A. Fisher, of 1416 Hartsough St. The unusual salad can be served as a main course or softened, as a spread for crackers, Mrs. Fisher said.

City DPW Activities
 By Superintendent Joseph Bida
 The past week found the Department of Public Works busy patching streets and in several areas draining high water due to the heavy rain and the thawing of the snow and ice.
 A 1 1/2" water tap was installed at 101 Industrial Drive, a 3/4" water tap at 105 N. Union, a storm sewer main was unplugged on Roe Street east of Hamilton. Water had to be pumped out from a low spot on Blunk Ave. at the north end of where there are no storm sewers. Also, water was drained in the alley west of Sunset because of new construction; also a drainage problem was handled at Junction and Ann Street. A storm sewer was installed on Goldsmith between Lena and Sheldon Road.
 At this time I would like to thank my capable staff for carrying on the column for me during my illness.
 Effective March 1, 1965 all alley pick ups of garbage and rubbish will be made at the curb until further notice. Thawing and spring rains which will make the alleys very muddy.
 Four funerals were held out at Riverside Cemetery.

Swim Club

a 60-day membership campaign. Their aim is 300 members according to Fletcher, the maximum that the facility can hold.

The club will hold an open meeting Thursday, Feb. 18 at 8 p.m. at Junior High School West as a membership kick-off program. Persons can sign up and pay their dues then.

Colony Swim Club was formed last year, but when the Plymouth Township Planning Commission told them in April that the land they wanted at the corner of Beck Rd. and Ann Arbor Tr. would have to be re-zoned from R-1-E, residential, to C-2, commercial, the group dropped its plans.

ORIGINAL membership dues collected were returned intact. Later requests, for ten dollars a family, were made for further investigation of land. 56 families re-joined and work proceeded; these are the members who voted to continue plans for the pool.

The Club is planning to build a Z-shaped pool with diving, swimming and training areas. It will include a 25-meter regulation area and the diving area will have one-meter and three-meter boards.

Tentative date for completion of the pool is June 15, according to Fletcher. Officers and members of the board of directors include Fletcher, president; Paul Malboeuf, vice-president; Paul Dwyer, secretary; Arthur Larson, treasurer; Mrs. John Pulker, membership; Jack Fleckenstein, rules; William Kloote, building; Leslie Gallagher, site; and Robert Jenkins finance.

SANDRA KANDAH (Livonia) as Madame Arcati in Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit" gets instruction from the production's director, Robert Stenger of Plymouth during recent rehearsals. The play, one of the great old dramatic standbys, will be presented Feb. 19 and 20 in the Northville State Hospital Auditorium, beginning at 8 p.m. Tickets are $1. A benefit will be given for patients at the hospital Thursday, Feb. 18. "Blithe Spirit" is a three act farce and centers around the supernatural doings of a 'medium' and the dead spirit she contacts. The spirit is Elvira, late wife of Charles, who returns to haunt his second marriage. This is Schoolcraft College's first dramatic effort and is sponsored by the college's English Department.

TRAPPED IN MIDDLE

Plymouth—Too Big to be Small, Or Too Small...?

By DOUG JOHNSON
Mail News Editor

Plymouth is a small community trying to be big. Caught midway in the transition from rural to suburban, some say Plymouth is a middle-brow community striving for egghed-ism. Others say Plymouth is square, but trying to be hip.

Still others say The Plymouth Community is trapped in the middle—too big to be small and too small to be big.

Plymouth is a small community, yet it yearns to be more. There is an undercurrent of feeling—a sort of unwritten, but often thought and voiced motto—that The Plymouth Community aspires, as well it should, to be the cultural center of the area.

Plymouth is a community with vast cultural aspirations, yet some express a nagging feeling that these yearnings aren't commensurate with the community's ability to produce.

Plymouth is looking to be in. You can't buy a "New Yorker" magazine downtown, and a "Saturday Review of Literature" is equally hard to find. Yet you can sign up for an adult education class in Existentialism from Dr. Henry Walch of the First Presbyterian Church. But you would have to go out of town if you wanted a farm tractor.

The Plymouth Community wants to be sophisticated. You can take ballroom dancing or oil painting lessons at the schools in the adult education program. You can send your children to the library to take part in a Great Books seminar.

YOUR POODLE needs grooming and you'd like to do it? Plymouth has a class for it. Play an instrument? You can join the Plymouth Symphony or the adult band under the Adult Education Program.

If you want to be behind the footlights, join the Theatre Guild.

Learn to play the guitar? Speak German? Master Ballet? Read "War and Peace"? Show your paintings? Plymouth's got an organized group to do all these things.

Yet, with all these cultural outlets, Plymouth is still struggling. In Plymouth you can buy a $300 tall case grandfather clock that is well over 130 years old to complete your antique collection; but you'd have to go elsewhere to buy a copy of "Crime and Punishment."

Another indication that Plymouth is still on the cultural outside looking in is reflected in the current state of the Theatre Guild. Attendance to the productions have been poor. Last Thursday night's production of "California to the New York Island," a hootenanny, drew only a handful of people to the Northville State Hospital auditorium. The show was based on the folk songs of Woodie Guthrie, a noted balladeer among folk music buffs.

The Guild has had other troubles. Their membership has dwindled from an estimated 300 people to a handful, about 25 active members. The group's last show, "Harvey," drew an apathetic reception and lost money for the Guild. Funds set aside earlier for a building fund have been used in supporting non-money-making shows. According to the Guild's president, Jacob Rumpf:

"WE'RE THINKING about a merger with Nankin Mills Players. There are too many community theatre's around. But we're going to hold on."

The Guild's been around for 19 years and has produced something every year, including such offerings as "Mr. Roberts," "The Rainmaker," "Tea House of the August Moon," and "Diary of Anne Frank."

A handful of patrons contribute money to the group; the rest of their financing must come from returns at the box office.

Recently, President Rumpf complained of a lack of support on the part of city officials in an open letter in The Plymouth Mail. In a recent editorial in the Guild's news letter, he noted:

"A basic change must come about in order to maintain some semblance of theatrical interest, or let our dramatic flavor die away..."

The Guild's plans for the future are, at best, shaky. Great hope appears to ride on the merger. The proposed production of "The Moon is Blue" scheduled for early March is no longer in the works. A script committee, however, is reading and selecting plays for the 1965-66 season.

Another cultural group, probably the most affluent and successful, is the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra.

This is the orchestra's 19th season and the group continues to draw large crowds. Mrs. Herb Woolweaver, Symphony secretary, explains it this way:

"We are fortunate to have grown to the size and quality we have because we started out as an amateur group interested in music and then had to draw from more people and a number of communities. As we did, we grew."

ORGANIZED by adults who didn't want to give up their high school music bent, the Symphony rehearses every Monday night, currently for an April 3 concert.

As successful as the group has been, there are at least two strong forces holding it back, according to Mrs. Woolweaver. First, many people stay away from the concerts because they think the symphony is for a select group only—a group viewed as nice old ladies, music experts and patrons of the symphony and classical music.

But the programs are free and are planned for a wide range of tastes. The second, and more significant, force is the lack of adequate auditorium facilities in the area. Symphony goes don't like to sit on a folding chair in a room designed as a gym; they can't see beyond the first few rows.

Consequently, according to Mrs. Woolweaver, the symphony—may be drawn elsewhere because of the lack of adequate facilities. As proof she cites the move of Symphony Director Wayne Dunlap, to Schoolcraft College, the possible use of the Northville State Hospital Auditorium instead of Plymouth facilities, and the conjecture that this summer's pop concert may be held outside at Schoolcraft.

The key to the whole thing, many leaders feel, is a civic auditorium for Plymouth.

Samuel Hudson, director of advertising and public relations at Evans Products, is chairman of a committee for such an auditorium.

The committee grew out of a "Citizens for Plymouth" meeting over a year ago that sponsored a questionnaire concerning things The Plymouth Community needed most. A community center was a top answer and a committee was appointed in conjunction with the board of education. The group began work recently. According to Hudson:

"THE POSSIBILITY of a community auditorium is in the exploratory stage. I'm calling the first meeting next week to set up subcommittees. We hope to have preliminary reports by June... at this point we have as many ideas as to what is needed as there are people."

Hudson emphasized that the auditorium was just at the idea stage now and the committee couldn't answer too many questions without several months of study.

Another group, successful in a quiet manner, is the Three Cities Art Club. The club just held its first juried art show at Northland. Distant dreams include a building for an art center where local artists could show their work.

At the fall festival, the art club's exhibit is a big hit and is sponsored by Plymouth Rotary.

About 12 years ago some local artists formed a nucleus, including Marion Sober, probably Plymouth's best known professional artist. The club recently has become another kind of group, and is opened to patron members—people other than artists themselves. This group also feels the pressure for adequate facilities, if only slightly.

The symphony, the Guild and the art club are the hard core of Plymouth's cultural aspirations. Other groups, such as the American Association of University Women (AAUW) sponsor "Listening Post" lectures.

There is a Wednesday morning study group which meets every Thursday to hear noted speakers, and an active antique club.

For every interest, Plymouth seems to have an outlet. Still, as Jacob Rumpf noted in his letter to The Mail, it takes more than 12 people to fill an auditorium; thus, perhaps Plymouth is faced with a case, like it or not, of too much, too soon.

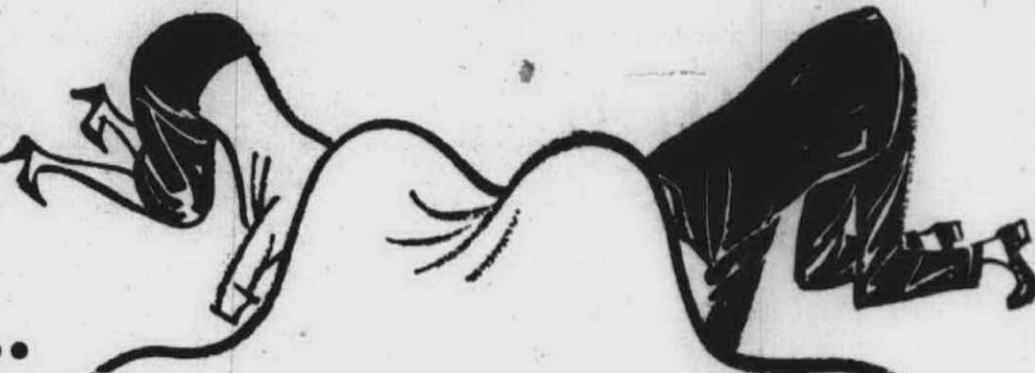

THE WORK of professional artist Jessie Hudson (Mrs. Samuel Hudson) hangs in the parlor of the First Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Hudson belongs to one of the Plymouth area's most active cultural groups, the Three Cities Art Club; she also teaches art at Plymouth High School.

THEATRE GUILD'S production of "California to the New York Island" included James Blackman of Livonia who teaches in Plymouth's adult education program, and Leslie Fish from the University of Michigan. The program featured the songs of Woody Guthrie and drew talent from all over the surrounding area. The Guild has been considering a merger with a Nankin theater group to boost its sagging membership.

American Legion Auxiliary

Women of the American Legion Auxiliary throughout the country are joining The American Legion in support of the House Un-American Activities which is again under fire from organizations demanding its abolishment, reports Mrs. Gertrude Simonetti, Legislative Chairman. We consider this committee of the House of Representatives to be an important safeguard against communist infiltration of our country, said Mrs. Simonetti. By its effective work, it has aroused bitter enmity which is expressed by the National Committee to Abolish the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Decision of the Veterans Administration to close 31 of its installations in various parts of the country has brought vigorous protest from the women of the American Legion Auxiliary, reports

Mrs. Fern Burleson, Rehabilitation Chairman. The Auxiliary is joining its voice with that of The American Legion in urging that this decision be reconsidered, Mrs. Burleson said. The Veterans Administration plans to close 11 hospitals, four domiciliary homes and 16 regional offices for reasons of economy and efficiency, according to its recent announcement, she explained.

Members of the American Legion Auxiliary, many of whom work in Veterans Administration hospitals as volunteers, know well the need for these institutions, stated Mrs. Burleson. We believe that the number of hospitals, homes and regional offices cannot be reduced without reducing the service to veterans and their dependents, according to Mrs. Burleson.

Six thousand veterans will be effected by the closing of the hospitals and homes Mrs. Burleson said. They all are either men with service-connected disabilities or are in financial need. If room cannot be found for them in other VA installations, some other agency must come to their rescue, she added.

Veterans in the domiciliary homes are nearing 70 years of age, on the average and are disabled principally by heart disease; Their only income is usually a $66 per month veterans pension, and most of them have no families, Mrs. Burleson said. Just a reminder about Auxiliary meeting Wednesday, Feb. 17 at 8 p.m. at the Post Home.

All Post and Unit members are urged to attend the 17th District Oratorical Contest before regular business meeting at the Lloyd H. Green Post Home in Northville.

Also our rummage sale is approaching — Saturday, March 6. Now is the time to sort out those items. For information or pick-up call Mrs. Betty Richter at GL 3-8942. Coffee and doughnuts will be sold during the sale.

Open Housing Covenant

Sponsored by
Plymouth Assembly for Equal Opportunity

I BELIEVE that the inalienable rights designated in the Bill of Rights should be assured to all Americans; that all persons in America should be entitled to equal opportunities in education, housing, and occupation without restrictions based on race, religion or national origin. It is important for all persons who believe this to support each other and the legally constituted authorities in keeping such restrictions from our community. While these rights and opportunities are assured by the new Michigan constitution as administered by the Michigan Civil Rights Commission, to be meaningful they must have the earnest and enduring support of the citizenry. Therefore, I PLEDGE MYSELF to welcome to my neighborhood any responsible person of whatever race, religion, or national origin, and I will work with him to build, improve, and maintain a community which is good for all.

I understand that the Plymouth Assembly for Equal Opportunity may or may not publish my name together with not less than four hundred other names sometime in the future.

The Sporting Thing

By Bill Nelson

Next week Doug Johnson, whose official connection with The Plymouth Mail is announced elsewhere in this edition, will also take over the duties of reporting on Plymouth sports.

You'll like him.
He is a graduate of Michigan State University in English and Journalism and has already proven his way around the Plymouth news front with several excellent reporting jobs during the past couple of weeks.

When I introduced him to swimming coach John McFall a couple of weeks ago, McFall noted "Maybe we'll get some good sports writing now." The observation was accompanied by a thump in the stomach, and I count it as one of my favorite tributes. It should also be accurate as to Doug.

Writing the past several years has been a part-time luxury that circumstances now won't permit. There are other challenges, but perhaps none are more demanding than the news business.

Particularly for the full time devotee, the weekly news business is a never ending series of crises. And Plymouth has been fortunate with the quality of its journalists and the current editor, Dave Wiley also fits that tradition.

Dave can write, has courage and will serve the best interests of the community. Like any editor, he will continue to be assaulted by image-conscious propagandists seeking to sugar the truth. His editorial taste buds, however, are able to distinguish sugar from the salt of facts.

It has been fun working for him.

The fun of the word game is that we come at them differently. Our backgrounds are different and the task of communication (not in the sense of image building, but in the conveying of ideas) is like an endless pursuit of a rabbit.

Everytime we think we make sense to each other, our experiences jump a little and words do not ever exactly mean the same thing, the next time they are used either to the user or usee (to coin one)

And maybe Mary Poppin's "supercalifragilisticexpialidocious" is the sum of it all. She maintains that the word means anything you want it to mean.

And, perhaps, it is as good as any to end on. Thanks to all involved for staying with this, and supercalifragilisticexpialidocious.

Rocks Play Allen Park

Allen Park is Plymouth's competition in varsity sports this week in both swimming and basketball.

The Rock basketball team will play at Allen Park at 8 p.m. Friday. The JV's will precede this game with a 6:30 p.m. encounter.

On Thursday, the Plymouth swimming team will host Allen Park in a 7 p.m. meet at the Plymouth high school pool.

Redford Union, which had barely beaten Plymouth (51-50) on its home court earlier this season, burst loose with 24 points in the second period Friday to smother Plymouth 68-49 in Plymouth.

Orrin Newton tossed in 29 points for Redford Union on 11 field goals and seven free throws. Alan Maiback was next with 14 points on seven field goals.

Jim Lake and Rick Jones led Plymouth scorers with 10 points each on five field goals each.

The Rocks held their own in the beginning, edging to an 11-10 first quarter lead, but RU broke away in the second period, outscoring Plymouth 24-6 to lead at the half 34-17.

AFTER THAT, the two teams matched baskets as Redford Union led 51-34 at the beginning of the final period, before finishing on top 68-49.

Against Redford Union, Cummings' team took seven of nine first places.

THE ROCKS finished this way: Fifty yard free style: Gould (29.0), first; Whittaker (31.5), second; Fifty yard butterfly; Malboeuf (32.2), first;

Kimball's Webster Steams To Two Plymouth Pool Records

Plymouth varsity swimmers were dunked twice last week-end by identical scores. Redford Union beat the Rocks at Redford Union on Friday, 63-42 and on Saturday, Royal Oak Kimball duplicated the feat 63-42 in the Plymouth pool.

In the Kimball meet, Doug Webster of Royal Oak set two pool records and narrowly missed his own state mark in the 400 yard freestyle.

Webster holds a 3:56.7 state mark in the 400, and in the Plymouth pool he was clocked at 3:58.2. He churned a 1:57.0 in the 100 yard butterfly for a Plymouth pool record in that event.

The Rocks performed well against Kimball, but could not cope with what is one of the best teams in the state this year.

For Plymouth, it went like this:

TWO HUNDRED YARD Medley Relay: John Skinner, Dan Norman, Jeff Haarbauer and Dick Berry, first; 200 Yard Freestyle: Doug Jaskierny, first; 50 Yard Freestyle, Dick Berry, first;

JV's Lose At Buzzer

Plymouth's Junior Varsity basketball team gave Redford Union a battle last Friday, but succumbed at the buzzer 51-48.

With the score tied at 48-48 RU's Dave Waser sunk a layup as the buzzer sounded. He was fouled in the process of shooting and added a free throw after the game had ended.

Plymouth jumped off to an early 17-9 first quarter lead but RU's JVs shayed that to 27-25 at half-time. RU then grabbed the lead and went into the final period with a 40-35 margin.

Plymouth tied the score at 41-41, 46-46, and 48-48 before the last second basket by Waser won for RU. John Davis led Plymouth scorers with 13 points on six field goals and a free throw.

Bulk Mailers Have 2 Years To Adopt Zip

Bulk second and third class mailers will have nearly two years—until Jan. 1, 1967—before they are required to begin pre-sorting their mail by ZIP Code, Postmaster General John A. Gronouski announced today.

Regulations requiring pre-sorting by bulk mailers were first established nearly 40 years ago. The application of ZIP Code to those regulations is the first major change since the regulations were established.

The new ruling covers newspapers, magazines and periodicals in the second class category, and advertising matter, books and certain types of merchandise in third class.

A total of 275,000 mail users fall into these two categories. Combined, they generate annually more than 27 billion pieces of mail — 39 per cent of the 70 billion pieces processed during the past fiscal year by the Post Office Department.

Purpose of the ruling is two-fold, the Postmaster General explained at a Washington Conference of the Direct Mail Advertising Association at the Hotel Statler Hilton.

1. To eliminate the sorting that otherwise would have to be done at the post office of origin. Virtually all of this mail will flow into the postal stream without entering the originating post office.

2. To by-pass the cluttered "gateway" post offices in almost every state. The mail will be dispatched directly to the sectional center nearest the point of destination.

This cost saving operation, Mr. Gronouski predicted, will produce faster, more efficient service for second and third class mail, and this in turn will benefit all types of mail.

Bulk second and third class mailers who fail to meet the Jan. 1, 1967 deadline will be charged at the single piece, rather than at the preferential bulk rate for each piece of mail handled by the Department after that date.

As a first step in pre-sorting to the five-digit ZIP Code address, second and third class bulk mailers will be required to pre-sort by the three-digit sectional center numbers some of the mail they are now massing on state distribution points.

This applies to bundles making up to a third of a sack but not enough for a direct shipment to individual cities. The remainder would continue to be sent in a state sack.

JV's Swim Past RU

Plymouth's Junior Varsity swimming team sped past Redford Union last week 69-36. For Coach Tom Workman's squad it was the fifth win against four losses this season.

The JV Rocks took nine of 11 first places in ringing up their victory margin.

In the 200 yard medley relay Roger Sand, Bill Leonard, Tom Bowsman and Pat Brady combined to win. Bill Wolfe was first in the 200 yard freestyle and Bob Wellman was second. Pete Kenney and Dick Lorenz finished one-two in the 50 yard freestyle and Mark Newman was second in the 200 yard individual medley.

Lorenz and John Larson placed first and second in the diving and Bowsman won the 100 yard butterfly. Kenney was first in the 100 yard freestyle and Jim Nelson was fourth.

BOB SHIREY won the 100 yard backstroke and Sand was second. Wolfe was second in the 400 yard freestyle and Craig Zurn was first in the 100 yard breaststroke. The JVs (Newman, Larson, Ted Johnson and Brian Foust) finished by winning the 200 yard freestyle relay.

Coach Workman expressed pleasure with the overall performance and noted the performances of

PLYMOUTH HIGH NOTES

By Sharon Olin

With finals over and grade averages calculated, Nancy Miller leads the senior class scholastically as the number one student of the class of '65. Nancy is planning on attending Western Michigan University and will major in Latin. At present, her subjects are Latin 4, Spanish 2, comparative government, English, chemistry and band. She is also a member of the Spanish Club and National Honor Society.

Prints." Sociology, special English, special physics, advanced journalism and French 4 complete Carol's schedule. With a possible major in the field of languages while attending the University of Michigan next year is Janice Williams who ranks sixth in the class. Janice is following a schedule of Latin 4, special English and international relations. She is also a member of the National Honor Society. Sue Rybka, seventh in the class, also is planning on attending the University of Michigan next fall. Sue is president of Future Teachers, a member of the French Club, National Honor Society and Forensics. Sue's classes are advanced algebra, special English, advanced sociology, international relations, French 4 and library assistant.

In tenth place is Toni Osborne who is planning to attend either Eastern or Western Michigan University. Her schedule includes advanced stenography, English, business machines, and advanced sociology. Toni is a member of the Future Nurses, Pep Club, Hi-Y, National Honor Society, and Future Teachers, of which she is secretary.

On Friday, Feb. 19, five members of "Pilgrim Prints" and Miss Elizabeth McDonald, advisor, will attend a press conference at Seaholm High School in Birmingham. "An American on the Moon" is the topic to be discussed by Colonel John A. "Shorty" Powers. Those students attending will be first page editor, Grace Thompson, third page editor, Janet Blunk, business manager, Carol Otwell, and reporters Rob Wilson and Al Rehner.

Jill Norton '65 and Jack Dean '66 have been chosen by the Youth for Understanding Teenage Exchange Program Center in Ann Arbor to tour with 68 other members of the 1965 Michigan Youth Chorale this summer in Europe. The group plans to leave on June 23 and will visit North Ireland, England, the Netherlands, Germany, Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Austria. They will return to Michigan approximately August 20.

Published by the beginning journalism class under the supervision of Miss Elizabeth McDonald, "Pegasus," the new literary magazine will be published sometime in May. "Pegasus" will be printed in offset and will contain works submitted by Plymouth high students in the areas of literature, both prose and poetry, music, art and photography.

Editor-in-chief is Jan Larikin '65, with assistant editor Mike Manly '66, helping her. Kay Hannula '66 is the business manager and Katie Wall '66 is art editor. Steve Ott '66 and Kathy Van Loo '67 are responsible for production and publicity respectively. Everyone in the beginning journalism class will participate in the publication of "Pegasus."

Results of the cheating survey taken by "Pilgrim Prints" have been calculated and it was found that out of 332 students who participated in the survey, 294 admitted cheating sometime in school; another 86 students stated that they had never cheated. In answer to the question, "If you saw your best friend cheating on a test, would you report him?" Fifty-one students said that they would while 337 said no. A person is not as guilty as the person he saw cheating if he does not tell was the opinion of 259 students and 122 thought they were.

When asked if it was right to cheat in school, 292 said never, 81 said sometimes, but three senior boys, however, stated that they believed it was all right to cheat all the time. Some students answered only part of the questions and others did not identify themselves by grades.

Selected members of the vocal department will participate in the solo and ensemble competition at Wayne State University on Saturday, February 20. They will sing solos, duets or ensemble numbers before judges and will be rated from excellent to poor for their ability and appearance. Fred Neilson, music director of PHS, will accompany the students.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Casselman left Monday, Feb. 15 for Coco Point Lodge, Barbuda, British West Indies. Their daughter, Carol, married Don Painter in Livonia on Feb. 13.

Let's keep our reputation

Life is funny. Last week, The Plymouth Mail endorsed City Attorney Edward F. Draugelis for the office of Municipal Judge, doing so with the foreknowledge that a question had been raised about his eligibility.

In our front page news coverage of the three candidates and the question which had been raised, we tried to be fair and impartial — requesting through State Representative James Tierney (D) of Garden City an opinion from the Attorney General of the State of Michigan.

The opinion was delivered late last week, too late to have any bearing on Monday's primary election and Draugelis won a lop-sided victory.

The opinion, which appears elsewhere in this issue, holds that the Charter of the City of Plymouth prevails and that the five-year residency requirement is still in effect and may be enforced.

In short, if the opinion does nothing else, it confirms that a valid legal question confronts those who brushed the matter off in sensational and emotion-laden terms.

Draugelis has said he will seek a determination on the matter in court, but some interesting points have been raised.

Will the city election commission, of which the city attorney is a part, certify the results of his Monday primary victory?

If Draugelis is, in fact, not legally eligible for the post, what happens to Clifford H. Manwaring who ran last in the primary? Will he be eliminated from the race and the post go to second-runner J. Rusling Cutler by forfeit?

The Plymouth Mail hates to be in the somewhat uncomfortable position of criticizing a man it has endorsed for public office. From the standpoint of qualification, we still think the city attorney leads.

But it seems to us that all this could have been avoided had he done his homework a little more thoroughly.

(1) The city commission should have been alerted to the question before or at the time Draugelis announced his candidacy.

(2) An official, impartial legal opinion should have been sought.

More than anything else, The Plymouth Mail objects to the manner in which the question was raised.

Included were behind the scenes maneuvering by other attorneys who didn't care to take a public stand on the matter and an anonymous letter sent to Plymouth's City Commission.

The letter, which we had but refused to dignify by publication, should be given the same consideration given to all unsigned epistles.

They go in our wastebasket. At any rate, the question is now in the open, a legal opinion has been given and things should be resolved before the April 5 general election.

We hope the whole mess serves as an object lesson.

In the future, The Plymouth Mail would like to see political questions brought forth in an open, unbiased manner, free of emotional labels, sneaky, unsigned letters and gutless coverups.

This community has a reputation for political cleanliness. Let's keep it that way.

LAWMEN Kenneth Fisher and Richard Novak spoke informally at the Assembly For Equal Opportunity's Thursday night meeting at the high school. The program was part of the Assembly's "Know Your Community" series. Novak is from the Wayne County Sheriff's Department and Fisher is Plymouth's Director of Public Safety. (See Story, Page 1).

LETTERS:

Disagrees with Mrs. Berry; Cites Subtle Oppression

Mrs. Berry, I had just returned home from the University of Detroit for a few days of semester recess when I had the "experience" of reading your remarks on the front page of the Plymouth Mail.

As a senior at the University I am usually quite busy with various positions on Student Government, in the Young Republican Organization on Campus, the Model United Nations Assembly of the University and a recently convened Constitutional Convention at the University, therefore I don't usually get the time to read any of the local newspapers.

After reading your dissertation on property values and morality I plan to make it an iron-clad rule to place the Plymouth Mail and other area newspapers on my reading list so that I might keep tabs on opinions similar to yours.

Because, Mrs. Berry, (and I hope you will pardon my not standing upon diplomacy) it is attitudes such as yours which are unable to look beyond selfish interest and uninformed prejudice that are a cancer upon the health of a Free Nation. I could not comprehend at first how a person who lives in a supposedly Christian community in the Northern part of the United States which espouses racial equality in contrast to the discrimination of the South, could utter such a self righteous sentiment as "I don't believe you can find a nicer person than me," and then presume to pose as a theologian and pass moral judgement upon other human beings.

The immoral condition lies not in a Negro living next to a white, no — it exists in the soul of every white man who emulates the Pharisee of Biblical background and claims before God his goodness and service to morality while he looks down upon the less fortunate who happen to differ from him in social rank, fortune, heritage or religion. You called the paper and complained about Press coverage of the Human Rights Assembly and yet, Mrs. Berry, your opinion, and I use the term loosely, appeared on the front page. It would seem that your view of freedom of the press is as distorted as your interpretation of what is moral and what is immoral.

There is a lot more that could be said in repudiation of your sentiments but I have neither the time nor are they worth any more thought or paper. In concluding, I would just like to point out, Mrs. Berry, that my remarks finger at the so called white-trash in the South who oppress the Negro; and yet this same "do it yourself Puritan" practices an oppression which is infinitely more subtle but just as cruel.

An oppression of the cold heart which does not welcome the Negro as an equal, an oppression of the mind that is all to quick to see the bad and not the good in the Negro.

I feel sorry for you Mrs. Berry but especially I feel sorry for all those in this town and elsewhere that harbor deep within the recesses have been relatively subdued in comparison with what I would actually like to say. Indeed, if my true evaluation of your "attitude" were printed I should most likely be sued for contemptuous libel.

You may rest easy with regard to one fact however, you are probably not the only person in our "all white suburban sanctuary" that feels the way you do. Your only distinction from your "silent brethren" is that you publicized your feelings; and I don't know whether I should respect you for it or pity your lack of understanding.

Your attitude is a symptom of a disease all too prevalent in Northern towns such as Plymouth. A disease which causes the comfortable suburbanite to sit back after dinner and watch the Huntley-Brinkley news report, and poke his of their own consciences the same thoughts that you have expressed.

It's about time the city leaders and religious clergy of this community take the offensive and fight the smug complacency which can stifle true morality and implant in its place a pseudo-Christian ethic which preaches love of man — the white man!

Pays Tribute to Fine Personnel

EDITOR'S NOTE: The letter below was sent to The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce in December by a woman who had done some Christmas shopping in Plymouth. Last week, her note was relayed to The Plymouth Mail.

December 14, 1964
Gentlemen:
In this busy holiday season I would like to pause to pay tribute to the fine sales personnel employed by Plymouth stores.

Never have I encountered such courtesy, helpfulness and friendliness as I did one night last week when I concluded my Christmas shopping. I found the clerks to be most efficient and helpful as I made my selections; and, when laden with numerous packages, several went out of their way to walk me to the door and hold it open for me. I would like to mention by name the stores I had occasion to do business with, and to their sales staffs I extend a sincere thank you and wishes for a Happy Christmas Season:

Betty's Book & Card Shop
Community Drugs
Famous Men's Wear
Melody House
Minerva's
Sincerely,
1365 McKinley, Apt. D

YMCA Jr. HiBoys Go Ice Fishing

The YMCA Junior High boys went ice fishing in Kensington park recently and heard a nature lecture by director of the Nature Center, William Madison.

The YMCA Chip has ordered new bridge tables and chairs. Two new pool tables were purchased recently and a table pool tournament is being planned.

Also a ping pong tournament will be arranged if enough people are interested. The Chip is located in the building directly behind the new city hall.

SCIENCE DAY

Four Plymouth boys attended the Detroit observance of the ninth national Science Youth Day, Feb. 11 at Greenfield Village. The program, sponsored by the Engineering Society of Detroit, Henry Ford Museum and 17 business and industrial firms, introduced students to the opportunities in science and engineering. Attending from Plymouth were W. Edward Wendover, of Joy Rd.; Rick Jones, of 13900 Ridgewood, and Bob Kreitsch, 4476 John Alden Rd., all Plymouth High School students, and Tom Case, 9303 Morrison, from St. John Baptist High School.

The phone rang last week, after the paper was out, and I found myself on the receiving end of criticism from a person respected by virtually everyone who knows him. Long active in The Plymouth Community, he is one of the area's beloved elder statesmen. Few people would quibble with him.

He called to voice vehement objection to an offering by a Plymouth Mail columnist — High Schooler Mike Ross.

"I have never read anything so ridiculous in my life," he commented. "It's too bad. There was a time when The Plymouth Mail would never have carried anything like that."

He is, without doubt, right.

As a weekly newspaperman, I have spent more hours than I care to think about poring over old volumes of community newspapers; and there was a time, in fact, when no weekly newspaper would print anything remotely critical about its community.

These were the days when weekly journalism dedicated itself to building a wall around its community. Protectionism was the byword and the first group to receive consideration was the main drag businessman.

Editors, outwardly, at least, were committed to the proposition that no finer community existed than their own and discussion was tantamount to subversion.

An example. On Feb. 9, 1894, the name of M. Fred Gray first appeared on the masthead of The Plymouth Mail as publisher.

Old Fred started things off with a bang with a couple of front page stories that would get a present-day publisher hauled into court for a libel suit so fast it would make him dizzy.

He covered for the first time — insofar as I can determine — a meeting of the village council, and wrote this story:

"Thomas P. Sheahan, who was one of the contractors in constructing the village water works, has started a suit in the Wayne Circuit Court by claiming $20,000, being what he claims is due him for extra work."

Gray waxed enthusiastic and, by today's standards, libelous, as he commented, "Mr. Sheahan, has the nerve to commence suit to recover on a contract he made and failed to complete. . . . When the village gets around to business it will make it so warm for the contractors and their bondsmen, that $20,000 will be a small item to what the village will require as damages as non-fulfillment of contract."

In another item, Gray took what may have been the first active stand by The Plymouth Mail in favor of local merchandisers. Referring to an itinerant peddler who had come to town, the editor commented:

"The Mail got there with a two-stick item and completely knocked our short friend out. On Wednesday morning with a 'you think you are damned smart' parting to the Mail editor, he shook the dust of our village from off his feet and left a poorer man than when he arrived."

Those days, however, are gone for good.

As a peace-loving soul who looks back upon his days in the Marine Corps as a somewhat grotesque interlude, I am not about to run anyone out of town.

And (I say this respectfully), neither am I going to squelch dissenting views. They are a healthy factor in a community's growth.

Mike Ross has been given a liberal degree of latitude in his choice of subject matter and viewpoints.

So have all other Plymouth Mail columnists.

If I were forced to take issue with Mike's comments last week, it would be simply because he restricted his conclusions to The Plymouth Community. In this day and age, all of a American society is classified by income, education, social standing and neighborhood.

The caste system extends far beyond local boundaries.

I can't say that I buy Mike's concern for those who claim inability to make friends. That's their own darned fault.

But I do feel that Mike has, by and large, done an exemplary job. Together with the keen insight of youth and a way with words, he has made more than a few good points.

Fortunately, my conclusions are apparently shared elsewhere.

The Wyandotte News-Herald, one of the metropolitan area's largest weekly newspapers, reprinted a "PHS Viewpoint" in its Feb. 3 edition with the comment:

"... What he had to say is a column worth re-printing, editorially. If you are a teenager or adult you'll agree."

No window post.
No floor hump.
No radiator.
No power steering.
No power brakes.

(Some of the things you don't get in a Corvair are among your best reasons for buying it.)

'65 Corvair Monza Sport Sedan

Corvair by Chevrolet

The beauty of it, of course, goes deeper than the things you don't get. There's the other side of the coin—what you do get in their place. Take the no window post, for example. What you do get is hardtop styling—with curved frameless side windows—in every Corvair closed model. The transmission and driveline hump you don't get means more foot room. Thanks to Corvair's rear engine, the floor is practically flat. No radiator—the engine's air-cooled—also means no water, no antifreeze and no hose leaks to worry about. All of which add up to some more important pluses. Power steering? Power brakes? Corvair needs them like a centipede needs crutches. With most of the engine weight on the rear wheels, the front ones are free to steer easily. And stops are quick and sure—with no nosediving. Come on down to our showroom and discover the difference.

Drive something really new—discover the difference at your Chevrolet dealer's Chevrolet • Chevelle • Chevy II • Corvair • Corvette

Jacque Town Saves The Mail

Dear Editor: Jacque Town's "Town Cryer" saved The Plymouth Mail my subscription. I am pleased that they have space for things other than personal quotes from "very nice persons" on the front page.

I also liked Mike Ross. Sincerely,
D. Rowe
