

Schools Lay Careful Plans For Future

EDITOR'S NOTE: On Monday, March 29, Plymouth Community School District voters will go to the polls to vote on a request for 3 1/4 mills for school operating expenses for the next five years. This is the last of three stories on tax millage, school financing and future planning.

By DOUG JOHNSON
Mail News Editor

The hardest job the Plymouth Community School Board has is building schools to keep up with the area's ever-increasing population.

It's a "tricky business" according to Melvin Blunk, Assistant Superintendent of Schools in charge of business. Last week Blunk characterized the school's position, saying:

"If you build too soon you are criticized; if you build too late you are criticized."

Last week, The Mail explained how the board would float 5 year bonds without voter approval for an estimated $1,450,000 over the period of two years.

Here's how that money will be used:

A FIVE room addition will be built on to Bird Elementary School and the library expanded. The addition will take in more children from the area, including the ones expected when the houses in New England Village are completed.

Allen School will get a one-room addition.

At Gallimore School, another four rooms are planned.

To Explain Millage to Chamber

A special last minute program to explain to Chamber of Commerce members the importance of the proposed 3 1/4 mills increase in school taxes to the operation of Plymouth schools for the next five years is being planned by the Chamber's education committee for Tuesday, March 23.

See Editorial, Section B, Page 7

School District voters will cast their ballots on the issue at a special election Monday, March 29.

"Financing Quality Education in the Plymouth Community School District" will be School Board President Gerald J. Fischer's topic at the noon luncheon in Hillside Inn's Jacob Room.

In his speech Fischer will cover the pay as you go facility program, growth of enrollment and increasing needs for operating schools.

A school now known as Elementary School No. 7 will be built at the about-to-be-purchased site near Five Mile and Haggerty Roads. The school is expected to be 8 rooms plus office and multi-purpose space.

Renovations of the high school boilers and remodeling of three rooms in the high school are also included in the immediate plans.

What are the plans beyond this?

The High School in all likelihood will have an additional 6 rooms extending from the front central stair tower along the corridor leading to the gym.

School officials also plan to purchase another site for an elementary school in the east central area of the school district.

Beyond this, they are reluctant to say. A new high school is admittedly in the offing. When, is the ever important question. The board has indicated it has talked of a new high school during its closed sessions, but has no formal announcement of plans, or the beginning of plans.

SOME officials speculate off the record that a new high school will be considered when the final payments are made on the 1955 debt retirement issue in about two years. The issue was voted until 1974 at 7 mills and might be transferred upon voter approval at no increase in the taxes. Currently, only about 2.8 mills of the voted millage is levied.

School administrators watch enrollment figures and the calendar very closely. This year, for the first time in history, the schools have made a net gain during the school year. Normally, dropouts equal new enrollments throughout the year.

Not so this year. New enrollments have exceeded dropouts and currently total 128 net gain.

The calendar is being watched even more closely this year, as a delay in an addition at Farrand Elementary School has brought overcrowded conditions and a chorus of complaints from area parents.

The Lake Pointe elementary situation has produced some disturbing results. Formerly, the homes in the area had been producing .83 elementary school children. A recent survey however shows homes there are producing 1.45 elementary school children per home.

A membership count is taken every month for the entire district, and the figures are watched carefully, and are being considered while planning the second Lake Pointe school.

That school is tentatively scheduled for 6 rooms to be completed by September of 1966. The room figure is set (Continued on Page 8)

A CLUBHOUSE at Crestwood Apartments suffered extensive damage as a result of a fire early Monday night that started in a furnace compartment and spread to nearby walls and ceiling. Firemen had the blaze doused in minutes. An oily mop left next to the base of the furnace was listed as the cause. Here, Assistant Fire Chief George Schoeneman (white coat) directs the cleanup work of two unidentified City firemen.

Second Fire Strikes Sheldon Apartments

An oily mop left next to a furnace started a fire that caused extensive damage to the clubhouse of the Crestwood Apartments on Sheldon Road early Monday evening.

It was the second fire to strike the Crestwood units recently. A Feb. 21 blaze had started in an apartment building basement and spread through interior walls to the second floor.

The fire was a case of what Director of Public Safety Ken

Fisher termed "sloppy house-keeping."

The mop, a can of wax and a floor buffer were found in the furnace area. The furnace was enclosed in a closet-like area.

ACCORDING to fire reports, the furnace, paneling and ceiling of the clubhouse received extensive damage. Apparently the mop was left near the furnace jets, which flash when the furnace starts up.

Lt. Paul Sanderson of the fire department issued a warning Tuesday to Plymouth residents urging them "to find a place other than a furnace room to store things."

The alarm was turned in about 6:30 p.m. By that time flames were shooting out of the clubhouse. No one had been in the building for an hour.

Firemen estimate the fire had been smoldering about 45 minutes before the alarm was turned in.

The building is at the rear of the Crestwood units and serves as a clubhouse and play room.

The Plymouth City Commission approved the sale of a site in the industrial park for a 120-bed convalescent home and an adjacent precision machine factory, overriding the objections of two commissioners, James Jabara and Robert Smith.

Most of the piece of land which faces Rouge Parkway, is on a slope and considered ill-fitted for use by heavy industry.

Builder John Hendry showed the Commission a layout of his proposal, and told them he would build a $400,000 building on the piece facing the river. The convalescent home would employ 70 people with an estimated yearly payroll of $250,000.

BOTH JABARA and Smith objected to the sale of the land for this purpose, feeling industry should be built there. Commissioner Arch Vallier said their main interest should be in tax base: "We're talking about tax base. I don't care if we have $400,000 in a convalescent home or in a warehouse."

Commissioner George Lawton also supported the move calling it "in the best interest of the city."

Commissioner Smith objected to the sale price of $15,000, and said: "Where else could he get the land for this price."

"It's a perfectly logical price for that land," Lawton said.

Following the discussion, the sale was approved and the City Attorney was asked to draw up the necessary agreements. The agreements will provide that the land be sold back at the original price if the home is not built by June, 1966 and the adjacent machine factory by June, 1967. The factory is a precision machine operation and is noise and smoke free.

The Commission also agreed to a proposal by builder Albert Simkins to use gypsum as a fire retardant material between his proposed garage and apartment units.

Arnold Johanson is president-elect of Rotary Club following an election by the board of directors March 11.

Other officers are Frank Allison, vice-president; Harry Draper, executive secretary; Dr. Clifford McClumpha, secretary; and Loren Gould, treasurer. Dr. William Covington and outgoing president Carl Caplin complete the board.

The Club elects men to the board of directors and then the board elects its officers, Caplin explained.

At a Wednesday evening meeting, sparsely attended by 23 persons, including six Plymouth City Commissioner hopefuls and their wives, candidates spelled out their views on local government at the Plymouth Community Federal Credit Union Building.

The non-partisan meeting was sponsored by the Plymouth Republican Club and moderated by Donald Carlson, a member of the board of directors.

The three incumbent commissioners, running for re-election, were joined by three other candidates. Arthur L. Shepard of 505 Hartsough St., a Plymouth City Planning Commissioner and candidate for the City Commission was unable to attend because of a planning commission session. He sent a letter of regret.

Present at the meeting were commissioners Robert D. Beyer, James C. Houk and Robert L. Smith. The other candidates included Eldon W. Martin, James B. McKeon and George A. Hudson.

The things that bothered him two years ago, when he ran for office, are still bothering him today, according to Commissioner Smith, the first to take the floor.

Termining the problems "even more obvious," and noting that he was discouraged, Smith commented: "Maybe I haven't done the job."

Smith said his talents were not particularly outstanding, his influence was not great and he cited the amount of time public office takes.

HE POINTED to growth in the community and what he typified as a "deteriorating effect."

"I don't see how we can survive if it's not removed immediately."

He criticized the city's water program, referring to the water supply as "terrible." Smith contended that the main reason for the city's pursuing its own program was to maintain its independence.

"We can't be independent," he claimed.

He expressed misgivings about the effect of encroaching shopping centers on the downtown area and in reference to local cultural aspirations — said: "Culture gives no tax base."

Again commenting on the city's water program, Smith said: "As long as you're willing to pour good money after bad, you're being led down the garden path. We're not going to come (Continued on Page 8)

MONDAY:

Draugelis Wins Court Decision

City Attorney Edward F. Draugelis is an eligible candidate for municipal judge.

According to a declaratory judgement handed down by Wayne County Circuit Judge Joseph G. Rashid Monday morning.

Judge Rashid heard the case Friday afternoon and had a written ruling prepared by Monday at 9 a.m.

Working in rapid fire order he thanked the parties for their arguments, read his ruling aloud and asked for a dismissal of a plea filed on behalf of Clifford Manwaring, municipal judge candidate defeated in the primary.

His ruling was termed by lawyers at the hearing as "sweeping" and read in part as follows:

"THE FIVE year residency requirement in the City Charter of Plymouth is contrary to the general statutes of this state, hence, invalid. Consequently, it is the opinion of this court that the plaintiff Edward F. Draugelis is a qualified candidate for the office of justice or judge for the municipal court of the City of Plymouth."

Friday, Judge Rashid had stopped Draugelis's legal counsel, his law partner John Ashton, midway in his argument. At this point, the judge said he thought the argument was being waged over the wrong sections of the state laws.

Ashton was arguing on the basis of Section 23 of the Home Rule Act, as amended in 1954. Rashid contended that the section did not apply, but Section 29 did, and thus another section, Section 33, decided qualifications for municipal judge.

Delaney Denies Seeking Joint Appeal of Ruling

At the close of Monday night's City Commission meeting, according to the minutes, Mayor Richard Wernette said that Attorney Robert Delaney had asked the City to join him in filing an appeal of Monday's court ruling. Delaney, however, says he made no such request, "formal or otherwise."

The as yet unapproved minutes of the Commission meeting read: "The mayor advised the Commission that Robert Delaney had contacted him and requested that the city join him in appealing the case."

The commission then moved to deny the alleged request and to inform Delaney that the City had no intention of filing an appeal.

Delaney issued a signed letter late Tuesday to The Mail that read:

"It has come to my attention that a possible error or misunderstanding occurred at last Monday's City Commission meeting.

No request has been made of Mayor Wernette or the City Commission by either Mr. Manwaring or myself to appeal or join in an appeal of Judge Rashid's ruling regarding Mr. Draugelis' eligibility for the office of Municipal Judge. An inquiry was made as to whether further Court action was contemplated in behalf of the City in view of the possible collateral issues raised by the decision.

Most likely in some form this will be necessary in view of the Courts opinion which invalidated a portion of Section 8.2 of the Charter and raises questions as to the validity of others directly affecting our Municipal Court.

Set $5,000 '65 Festival Budget Plan

A 1965 Fall Festival budget of $5,000 was presented by Mrs. Jo Hulce to the Festival Board of Directors at their second meeting March 10 in the American Community Insurance Co. building.

The budget will be the same as last year's, according to a member of the publicity committee.

Also attending the meeting were representatives from service clubs, JayCees, and the Plymouth Symphony League. In other action the board:

(1) Elected Joe Bida to head the service arrangement committee and praised his efforts in the past.

(2) Agreed more participation by local talent is needed and urged more community effort.

If you have a group or know of one interested in participating in the Fall Festival, call entertainment chairman Margaret Wilson.

Smith said his talents were not particularly outstanding, his influence was not great and he cited the amount of time public office takes.

HE POINTED to growth in the community and what he typified as a "deteriorating effect."

On the positive side, Smith said relations within the community have improved greatly, and he referred to the establishment of the Plymouth Community Human Relations Commission, the Plymouth Area Planning Commission and the recently appointed recreation site committee as examples.

All three groups have members from the City of Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township.

But Smith still contended that little has been done to improve City-Township relations.

"THE WOUNDS are deep," he said in reference to past problems, "and not healed at all. In fact, they're festering."

A high, impenetrable wall separates the community, Smith said.

ROBERTS

Raps Gambling As Revenue Source

EDITOR'S NOTE: Between now and the April 5 general election, The Plymouth Mail will carry news releases from the two candidates for State Senate in the 14th Senatorial District. Below is one from the campaign headquarters of Farrell E. Roberts, Republican hopeful.

Michigan is Michigan from the bottom Southern border of the lower peninsula to the upper-most Northern border of the upper peninsula, regardless of structural variances within, says former State Senator Farrell E. Roberts.

"Why should I and my family pay a toll to visit our relatives who live on the opposite side of a bridge, but are Michigan residents and pay taxes to help support both the upper and lower peninsulas."

"This existing situation is ridiculous and I heartily concur with Governor George Romney's proposal for a toll-free bridge," said the Republican candidate for the 14th Senatorial seat, adding that the Governor's proposal is just another typical example of Republican leadership in Michigan.

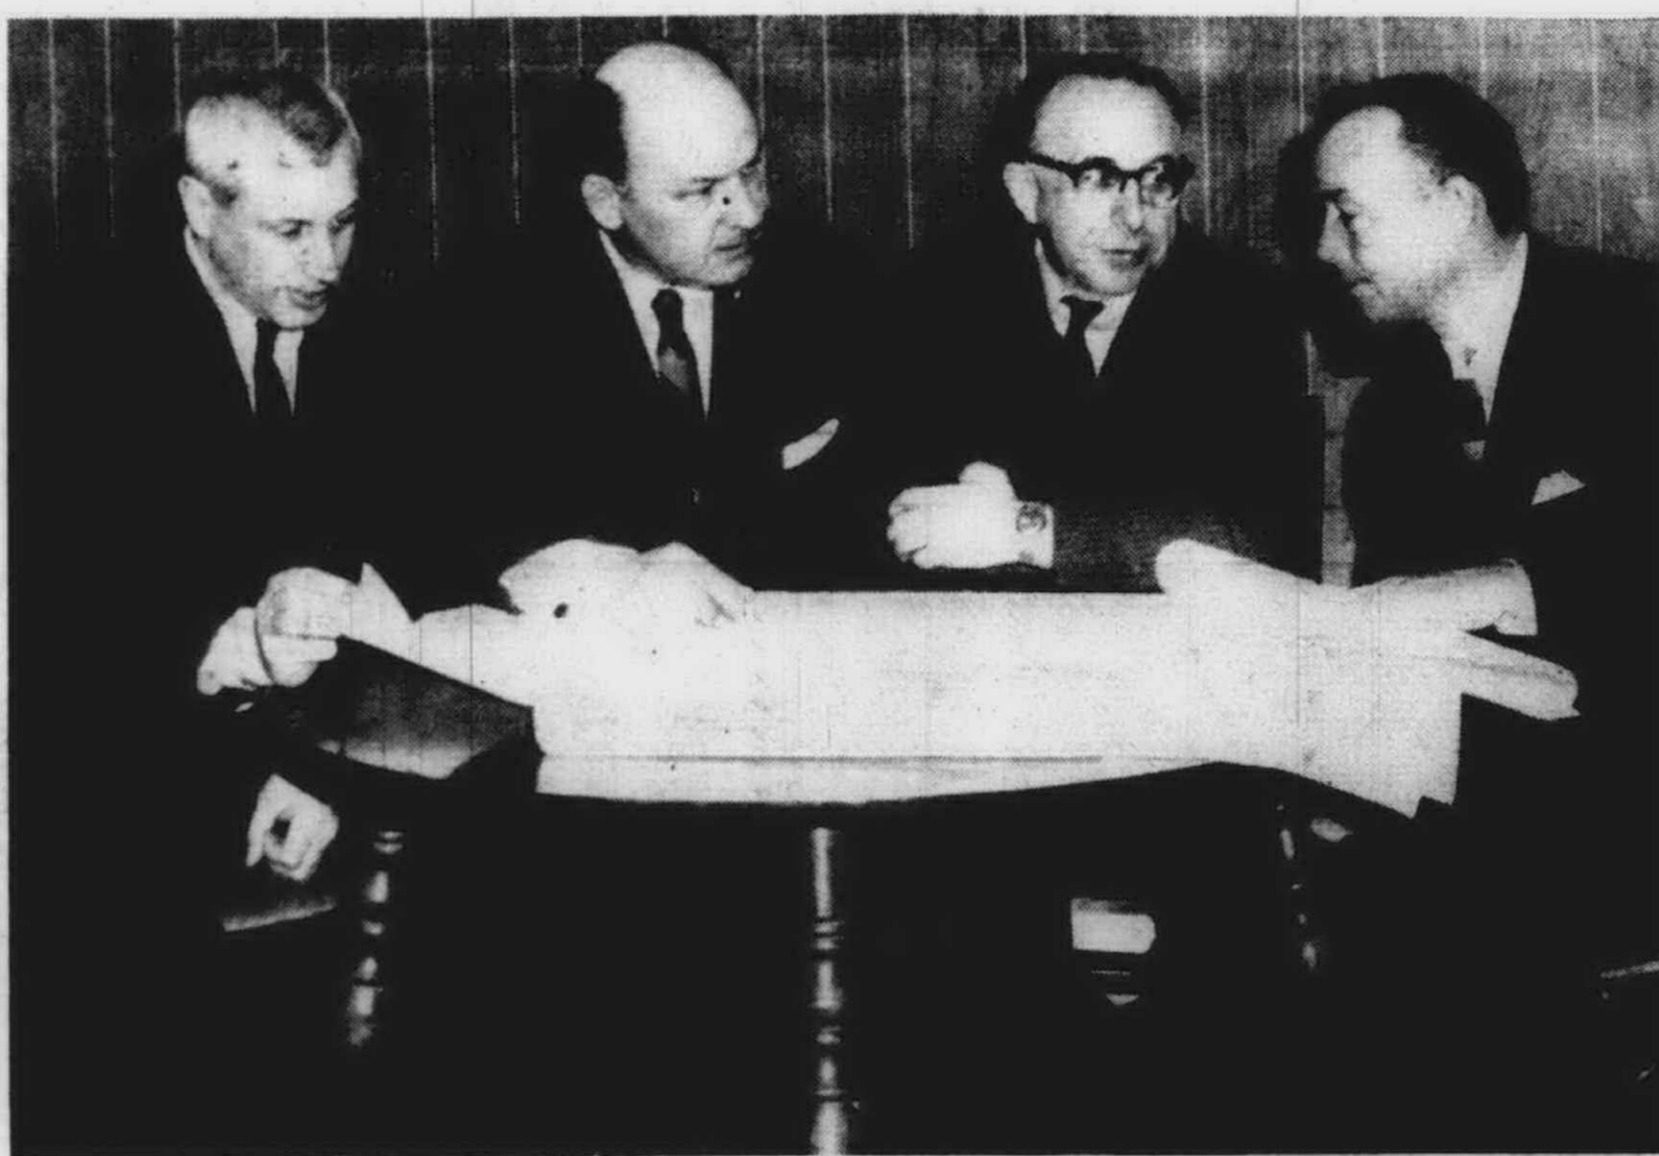

Speaking on other issues, Roberts said if there was ever a time clear thinking and conscientious devotion to the residents of this State was needed, the time is now.

Standing on his past record of voting on issues in the best interest of the majority in his district, which included actively preventing diversion of income for municipalities in this district, Northville and Livonia, from their racing institutions, by legislators of the opposition party, Roberts discussed introduction of additional forms of gambling.

"As a Republican and an interested citizen in our communities and young people, I definitely am opposed to the introduction of any new forms of gambling within the State of Michigan," Roberts said.

"Regardless of the income factor, as propounded by the Democratic party, from other forms of this nature, I shall stand firmly on the belief that the income and support of our schools and institutions can come from legitimate income, rather than that supported by the addition of dog-racing, slot machines, roulette tables, card games, etc."

LOCAL PHARMACIST:

She Urges Cleanup and Care To Prevent Child Poisoning

EDITOR'S NOTE: The President has proclaimed March 14 to 20 as National Poison Prevention Week. Poison proofing is a year-round job. The story below was written by a pharmacist, Mary Helen White, of Wilste's Community Pharmacy in Plymouth. She urges that this week provide incentive for persons to go through their homes and make them safe for children.

By Mary Helen White
A three-year-old swallowed an unknown amount of aspirin which had been prescribed for her older sister. The bottle had been left on top of the night stand in the sister's bedroom. By the time the parents realized something was wrong, the little one was turning blue, convulsing, and in a coma. She was rushed to a hospital, but it was too late. The child died.

500,000 children will be poisoned as the victims of carelessness and ignorance of potential danger on the part of their parents. Accidental poisoning is a tragic and needless occurrence. However, statistics show that more than half (51%) of all childhood accidents are related to poisoning and 90 per cent of poisoning accidents involve children under the age of five years.

Children in this age group are particularly susceptible to poisoning because they are in the learning process. They learn by exploring their environment. What they see they try to reach, and what they reach they put into their mouths. When we look at the types of substances which are swallowed by each age group, it followed a pattern paralleling the age of the child.

A child of six months or more is probably crawling and will likely pick up and swallow what he can reach.

Danger areas include the cabinet under the sink, the garage and the ground outside the house. The proportion of household cleaners and bleaches, polishes, pesticides and paint solvents swallowed by children under one year of age is greater than in any other age group.

AS THE CHILD begins to walk, and then to climb, he is in a position to have access to shelves and cabinets which were previously beyond his capabilities.

Three and four-year-olds tend to swallow medications more frequently than children in other age groups. Roughly 50% of all accidental poisonings are from medications and about half of these are from aspirin.

After watching the ritual of an adult taking medicine, the child is liable to attempt to duplicate the act at his first opportunity, often resulting in poisoning.

If you are having difficulty getting your child to take his medicine, do not encourage him by telling him it is candy. Today's pediatric preparations are pleasant tasting for ease of administration and a child will hunt for them and swallow more than was intended.

Safety closures currently on many medicines are not completely child-proof. Examples from the Public Health Service files illustrate this point. A three-year-old boy climbed onto a chair to reach aspirins placed on top of the dining-room table. It was equipped with a lock cap and he was at first, unable to remove it.

He finally broke the neck of the bottle and managed to eat not only the aspirins but bits of glass as well. In another case, a four year old girl found an aspirin bottle in her mother's purse and opened the safety cap with her teeth.

Medicines should be disposed of by flushing them down the drain when they are no longer needed.

Draugelis Wins

(Continued from Page 1) that it is meant to affect "all cities NOW organized," which means in 1929. Plymouth was not organized as a city at this time and did not become a charter city until 1932.

Thus, says Judge Rashid, Section 29 applies, which says in part, "each NEW city organized under this act." Further, this section refers to Section 33 for determining eligibility of judges. Section 33 reads that general election laws apply for township justices of the peace and will then apply for municipal judges. These laws read that a candidate need only be a resident elector.

NOW, THE Judge feels, since the City charter was amended in 1951, continuing the court organized in 1932, these sections apply in the Draugelis case.

Draugelis was arguing on the basis of a 1954 amendment to Section 28 (the one the judge says doesn't apply) that stated qualifications for municipal judge were only that he be a "resident elector." No length of residency was set.

"In my opinion," Rashid said, "Section 28 is applicable only in instances where an amended charter abolishes old courts."

Friday, Rashid had pointed out his feelings in the matter and had stopped arguments on the part of Ashton, the City's attorney, William Sempliner, and Robert Delaney, who represented Clifford Manwaring.

by veteran lawyer John L. Crandell in a letter sent to City Clerk Richard Shafer seeking the removal of Draugelis's name from the ballot. Then last week, attorney Robert Delaney filed a suit on behalf of Manwaring that in effect — asked for Manwaring's name to be placed on the ballot and Draugelis's ruled ineligible.

Friday Rashid refused to hear Manwaring's plea, feeling, apparently, that a ruling on the question of Draugelis's eligibility would also decide that suit.

Jr. League Baseball Registration

Carelessness is when aspirin or other medication is left on a bedside table, when furniture polish is left on the coffee table while answering the door, when kerosene is stored in soft drink bottles, when a cup of bleach or detergent is left on the washing machine, or when a lady's purse is thrown casually on the bed or an equally accessible place.

Carelessness is storing medicines with other household products where the wood alcohol you got from the drug store for your chafing dish can look, at a glance, like your baby's cough syrup.

Carelessness is failure to read labels to be certain we have the right product or to check the proper dosage.

Carelessness is giving or taking medicines in the dark where many bottles can look and feel the same.

Carelessness is not the sole contributing factor. Many of us are ignorant of the potential dangers involved in the common products we have in our homes. Death can result from the ingestion of home permanent waving lotions, shampoos, furniture polishes, detergents, silver polishes, hair tonics, fingernail polishes, suntan lotions, hair dyes, and the like.

LACK MINORITY GROUPS:

Local Youngsters at a Disadvantage in School

Because we don't have a full compliment of minority groups in our schools, local children have some disadvantages, according to Superintendent of Schools Russell Isbister, who spoke last Thursday before the Plymouth Assembly For Equal Opportunity.

Isbister outlined the school's position on racial issues in the group's final session of a "Know Your Community" series at the High School. In opening he remarked:

"So many of us were moved by the Selma incidents. Man's inhumanity to man reached a high point. One wonders if something similar might happen here."

Isbister felt locally we were complacent because we didn't have the problem at hand. READING ALOUD a written statement of the goals of the Plymouth schools, Superintendent Isbister pointed to the school system's clear commitment to help in equal opportunity for all.

He also cited two studies by a State committee on the need for all children to have "racially integrated experience" and commented on the treatment of minority groups in textbooks.

Isbister then showed the group a sampling of books designed to orient children to racial matters.

On school employment practices, Isbister said that no questions concerning race, religion or national origin appeared on the school's employment applications.

He also said that Negro teachers will be teaching in the Plymouth system. Recently, he said, one well qualified Negro teacher had been at the top of a list for consideration, but she had gone elsewhere.

In the same vein, he said he has made it known to colleges that send student teachers to the area that race is not to be considered.

In the area of school activities, Isbister noted that the schools have had exchange groups from predominantly Negro areas come into the schools, and the high school sociology classes have visited social workers and officials in Negro areas in the Detroit inter city.

FOLLOWING his talk, a member of the audience asked about an incident where a child walked out of a class in Plymouth schools when a Negro came to speak. Isbister said he knew of the incident and agreed with the teacher's handling of the situation. He had let him go to the library.

The program concluded with a favorable comment about a Negro student teacher who had been at the High School last year.

Following the formal program, Chairman of the Assembly, Norman Thoburn, announced a new program series which will begin April 20 with a panel from the Fitzgerald community where Negro move-ins have occurred and realtors have allegedly pushed the panic button on home sales.

John Grotz also reported that the open housing covenant drive had acquired 200 new signatures, giving them a total of 750.

WHAT STEREO RECORDS COST 10 YEARS AGO

You're right. Ten years ago, there were no stereo records at any price.

The same logic is against saying, "Prescriptions cost more than they used to cost." Most of today's leading prescription drugs didn't even exist ten years ago. In fact, over three quarters of all prescriptions written today couldn't have been filled then.

Today's drugs work faster. They are more efficient. They do much to reduce your total cost of illness.

For drugs, Americans spend only one cent of every disposable dollar. This is no more than in 1939. Yet we receive far more value. That's why "Today's prescription is the biggest bargain in history."

April 7 will be our "Lunch-on is Served". This is an annual affair, and tickets may be purchased from Mrs. James McKindles, chairman, or from any auxiliary member. The price is one dollar.

As you are doing that Spring house cleaning be sure to set aside your usable discards for our April 21 rummage sale. If you have things to be picked up call Mrs. Charles Skoglund, at GA 7-9491.

At the April 6 meeting we will be holding elections, so let's have a good turnout for this meeting. It is important for all of us to let our votes count.

March 19-22 is the date of our National President's visit. Mrs. Arthur Klugow will be officially greeted on March 20, at Brodhead Auxiliary 2269-7001 Puritan, Detroit, at 2 p.m.

The Fourth District Linen Bingo will be held at Wyandotte Auxiliary 1136, at 633 Ford Ave. It was postponed due to the bad storm.

School instructions for all chairman and officers of the Auxiliaries will be held during the months of March and April.

Chairmen, now is the time to get those notebooks up to date as report time is almost upon us. Our President Mrs. Lloyd England asks that you get them all completed as soon as possible so that you will be ready for the chairman's meeting to be held next month. More on the date of that meeting later.

Many people are not aware of the many activities that the V.F.W. Post, Auxiliaries, and individual members are engaged in during the year. We are active in affairs pertaining to the passage of bills for the betterment of Veterans and their families, scholarships are given to Schoolcraft College, as well as help to Senior Citizens, such as our work with the West Trail Nursing Home. For the youth of the community we contributed gifts to the "Chip" Club, sponsor Scout troops, PeeWee Hockey team, Little League team, and gifts to the city parks and recreation. Our members work on fund raising drives, such as polio and cancer, work on election boards, census taking, etc.

The V.F.W. Auxiliaries and individual members have always been active in cancer research. We contribute much financial help, as a group and as individuals. One of the Mayflower Auxiliary 6695 member's has contributed 1300 volunteer hours of work to cancer. Many others contribute many hours also.

We are banded together to help the veteran, his family, and the community as a whole. The V.F.W. Posts and Auxiliaries maintain a national home for the widow's and orphans of veterans, at Eaton Rapids.

Our members go to the V.A. Hospital at Ann Arbor regularly, and many volunteer hours are put in by our individual members. Flags are given to schools, churches and other organizations.

Detroit Edison Issues Report

Detroit Edison's 1964 Annual Report, issued March 10 to the company's 113,000 shareholders, covers a year marked by increases in production, sales, earnings, dividends and expenses — and a decrease in the price of electricity to customers.

Walker L. Cislser, chairman of the board of directors, and Edison President Donald F. Kigar, point out in the report that during the year electric rate schedules were revised affording a reduction of about $3,750,000 per year to Edison customers; in November, 1964, the company announced an increase in the quarterly dividend from 30 cents to 32½ cents a share, an increase of 8.3 per cent and employees gained by a 3.5 per cent general pay increase which raised the per-hour average for hourly and weekly employees to $3.73.

The 1964 report also shows that total electric energy output reached an all-time high of 20.4 billion kilowatt-hours, 9.4 per cent above the 1963 total and nearly double the annual output of ten years ago.

Total utility revenues reached $342,855,778, up 7.3 per cent over the previous year. The company's net income for 1964 was $51,723,537 — an increase of 12 per cent over 1963. Earnings per share came to $1.80 on 28,808,567 shares of common stock outstanding at the end of 1964 as compared to $1.60 per share on 28,796,309 shares outstanding at year-end, 1963.

Total utility expenses for the year were $276,511,430 as compared to $258,033,042 in 1963. Major expenses were federal, state and local taxes totaling $73,081,702, an increase of 6.9 per cent over 1963; wages and salaries to conduct the business amounting to $67,486,093 in 1964 — up 6.2 per cent over the preceding year; and fuel and purchased power cost, totaling $62,675,199, the company's third largest expense.

Town Cryer Spring Cleans Early; Plans Camping Trip

By Jacquie Town

Even though the weather doesn't seem quite willing to co-operate, I've begun the inevitable spring cleaning chore. This year it's consisted of total re-decoration.

Between the man of the house and, guess who, we've managed to get everything torn apart, but not much put together.

Each room lacks the finishing touches, so I'm afraid it resembles a battle well fought, but not quite won. The idea is to have things in complete order by the time the weather begins to meet the calendar.

We have recently joined the millions of "Americans turned Gypsy" with the acquisition of a piggy back camper. That's one of those miniature homes that fits compactly on the bed of a pick-up truck. After looking over what seemed like endless camping units, we decided on this type of mobile motel for many reasons — the main one being that the kids can play in the camper while mom and dad enjoy the scenery.

Then, of course, it doubles as the second family car when not in use on the highway. We've done many interesting things in our years as a family, some with humorous results.

Several years back, my husband decided that he wanted to become a man of the sea. Since very little of that commodity exists in this area, he settled for a small boat with a 50 h.p. motor. Our youngest was 14 months old at the time and hadn't developed either her sea legs or her car legs. As we hauled our ship to the lakes, the little one got sick and a stop was necessary for a swabbing detail.

The Admiral of the fleet being an ex-navy man, assured his crew he knew all there was to know about launching. He soon discovered, however, that there was a slight difference between a 16 ft. boat and a destroyer.

After we christened the ship with a bottle of milk, rather than champagne, our Admiral backed the trailer, boat, and the car directly off the launching pad and into the water.

The baby decided to join the rest in the lake. Another swabbing detail, and by this time the boat was afloat and my son was neck deep trying to catch it.

It took three cars, much laughter and kidding, and over two hours to pull us out.

By then, it had begun to rain!

Obviously, we lost a little of our enthusiasm for sea-faring. After considering the hazards of open water, we decided to try the open road.

This time, however, I'm hoping that joys will outweigh the disasters. We've begun to collect a variety of equipment and supplies for our planned excursions but, again, being strictly amateur at the sport of camping, we're not sure what we should be collecting. Advice on this would be appreciated.

These camping units can hardly be classified as "roughing it". We've looked at units complete with stove, oven, bathroom, shower, double beds, refrigerator, running water, and all the comforts of home.

It sure beats pitching a tent, but I'm sure with my luck, we'll run into complicated experiences. But, at least, we'll stay dry. Needless to say, the kids are counting the days, and I'm looking forward to new adventures and less housework. With the camping brochures making State Parks so inviting, we're looking forward to our home on wheels.

There's only one major difficulty so far.

The ex-Admiral insists on being addressed as "Trailmaster".

Rotarians Plan To Hear Past President Speak

Herb Taylor

A delegation of Plymouth Rotarians will hear Past International President Herb Taylor, Thursday, March 25, at noon in the Dearborn Inn. The Dearborn club will be host to the meeting with Roger F. Shively as chairman.

Taylor is best known in Rotary as initiator of the Four-Way Test—the "four commandments" of Rotarian business ethics. He headed Rotary in 1954-55.

Board chairman of Club Aluminum Products, LaGrange, Ill., he is also a director of the Chicago Savings and Loan Association and of the First National Bank, Barrington, Ill. He has been a recipient of the Northwestern University Alumni Award and holds an honorary doctorate of laws from Houghton College in New York. He has been decorated by nine nations—Belgium, France, Italy, Syria, Lebanon, Egypt, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador and Chile.

A U. S. naval officer during World War I, he served his country during World War II as a member of the Price Adjustment Board in Washington, D. C. He is a former national chairman of Boys and Girls Week. He is a director of the Chicago Better Business Bureau.

Kiwanis Wins, Gives Awards

Kiwanis International has won a Freedoms Foundation Distinguished Service Award for its "1964 Americanism program," it was announced today by Marvin Terry, president of the Kiwanis Club of Plymouth.

Kiwanis also shared with Radio Station WGN, Chicago, in receipt of a George Washington Honor Medal from the Freedoms Foundation for the jointly-sponsored weekly radio program, "The Constitution Series, from Injury." The Constitution Series is a thirteen-week set of 30-minute panel discussion programs on fundamentals of the American constitution and the freedoms it guarantees.

The program, developed by Kiwanis and WGN working together, is distributed in taped form by Kiwanis clubs throughout the United States.

The announcement was made on February 22 at Freedoms Foundation headquarters, Valley Forge, Pennsylvania.

Key Club International, the Kiwanis sponsored high school service organization for boys, also was named an award winner in the February 22 announcement. Key Club received the George Washington Honor Medal for its "1964 citizenship program."

Circle K International, Kiwanis college service organization, won a George Washington Honor Medal for its "1964 Americanism program," too.

Kiwanis, one of the oldest supporters of the Freedoms Foundation program, has won an important award in the Foundation's annual series of presentations nearly every year since 1949.

This year, because it is Kiwanis' fiftieth, the organization reciprocated with the presentation of its own "Golden Service Award" to the Freedoms Foundation.

Lester Barston Wins Woodrow Wilson Grant

Plymouth High School graduate Lester Barston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester J. Barston of Shadywood, has been awarded a Woodrow Wilson scholarship for graduate study.

A senior at the University of Michigan majoring in classical history, Barston said he is undecided about where he will do his graduate work. He said he's considering Michigan, Harvard, Yale and Princeton.

In the Honors College at Michigan, Barston plans to study for his doctorate.

The scholarship will pay his tuition plus provide him an $1,800 living allowance. The purpose of the grants which are given nationwide is to encourage students to go to college teaching.

Barston's summer plans are to go on an archeology expedition to Libya with the classical studies department at Michigan. The group will leave May 4 and return at the end of August.

The sea floor, barely explored at all, covers about 70 per cent of the globe.

New Books at Dunning-Hough

Among the new books at Dunning-Hough Library are the following according to Mrs. Warren Worth librarian.

"The Ordways" by William Humphrey is the second novel by the author of "Home from the Hill." This book tells of four generations of a family in a small Texas town and from all indications, this book will be as popular as his first.

"The Mind" by John Rowan Wilson and the editors of "Life" explains what is known about the mind of man, and examines what has been and is being done for those in need of therapy.

"Hotel" by Arthur Hailey is a novel that shows the inner workings of a New Orleans luxury hotel, with its employees, guests and members of management.

"Catherine the Great" by Zoe Oldenbourg shows the life and times of Russia's most famous empress. This is the first biography ever written by the famous historical novelist.

"The Land and Wildlife of Australia" by David Bergamini is an illustrated book in the Life Nature Library series.

"Decimals and Percentage" by Betty K. Friel is a teach yourself approach to the area of arithmetic that many adults have forgotten, or never completely understood, but which is used in many everyday situations.

"Van Gogh" by W. Uhde contains a short biography of the artist and 50 plates in full color of his works.

TREASURES FROM

A recipe for apple bread was suggested to Plymouth Pantries this week by Mrs. Jerry Baker of Ann St.

The Bakers have lived in Plymouth for eight years. They have four children, Gary, 9; Beverly, 8; Gordon, 7; and Geoffrey, 14 months.

Mrs. Baker is secretary of the Dorcas Circle of the Women's Society of the First Methodist Church. She is also a member of the Plymouth Cooperative Babysitting Club.

She lists knitting, playing the piano and her home as hobbies.

The recipe for apple bread is one that she got from a friend and said she recommends it highly. Mrs. Baker added she can't keep it in the house.

She said she has served it at breakfast, coffees and dinner.

Mrs. Baker also suggested making a double recipe which makes three loaves and then freezing them for future use.

APPLE BREAD

- ¼ C. margarine
- 1 C. white sugar
- 2 beaten eggs
- 1 tsp. baking soda
- 2 Tbl. sour milk
- 2 C. flour
- ½ tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 2 C. chopped apples
- ½ C. nuts

Cream margarine, sugar and eggs. Add remaining ingredients and pour into flour-ed loaf pan.

Topping

- 1 Tbl. flour
- 2 Tbl. white sugar
- 1 Tbl. butter
- 1 tsp. cinnamon

Combine ingredients and sprinkle on top of other ingredients. Bake for one hour in 350 degree oven. (Note a double recipe makes three loaves.)

SEWER, WATER

Township Lets Contracts

Water for the Haggerty-Ann Arbor Road area was approved at last week's Township Board meeting...

Road (cost — $27,000) and a main on Ann Arbor from Haggerty to Terry (cost — $17,600) were approved.

In other action on the same projects, the board agreed to put in 300 feet of water main on Haggerty between Amber Court and Ivywood to service the Lake Pointe No. 9 subdivision.

The Board also awarded contracts for water mains along Territorial Road, and out Ann Arbor Road and down McClumpha Road to Ann Arbor Road. Low bid of $213,200 was submitted by Mascone Excavating Co.

The $735,000 sewer project contracts were also let and went to Don Gargaro Co. The project includes a trunk line out Tonquish Creek, and some footage to service the Burger subdivision in the Joy Road-Haggerty Road area...

BOWLING MOVIES

Members of St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Youth Group will see bowling movies Saturday evening at 7 p.m. in the church fellowship hall.

Romney-Roberts Dinner Set

Tickets are still available for the Romney-Roberts Republican dinner to be held Tuesday, March 23, beginning at 6:30 p.m. at Roma Hall, 27777 Schoolcraft Rd., Livonia.

Governor George Romney, accompanied by his wife, will be guest speaker at the testimonial dinner, honoring Farrell E. Roberts, Republican candidate for the State Senate for the 14th senatorial district.

The dinner, planned by area Republicans, will highlight the final push in the Roberts campaign.

Tickets, priced at $5 each, may be purchased from any of the following: Mrs. Betty Jacobus, GL 3-5543 or Kenneth Hulsing, GL 3-0644 (Plymouth).

TRAFFIC STUDY — if you have been wondering what the rubber hoses and black boxes have been doing on City streets this week, here's the answer. The AAA is taking a free traffic survey...

Township Seeks

The Board decided to take the next month to find a local man to answer the questions raised in the report and to set up a committee to work on the point authority.

Township Supervisor Roy Lindsay praised the report and added that if the Township had only one patrol car on the road 24 hours a day, it would "be no more effective than a fly on this table."

Lauterbach agreed that the issue would take millage and added that he hated to see the project abandoned.

THE BOARD also reviewed a petition from Plymouth Bowl for liquor service on the course, and decided to delay the petition after a careful discussion of the matter.

The Board pointed to a verbal agreement established when the bowling alley got its license that stipulated that liquor was to stay in the bar.

The petition also came under fire from Trustee C. Veach Sparks, who said, "Personally, I'm not too impressed by this petition."

In other action, the Board approved improvement plans for Lake Pointe Village No. Nine and Beacon Estates.

In final action, the Board set March 30 as the date for a public hearing on next year's budget.

Beyer, who spoke quietly and briefly, said he was not essentially a politician. "I'm not interested in being mayor or mayor pro tem," he said.

Beyer, owner of three Plymouth drug stores, vowed

Schools Plan

(Continued from Page 1) about 15 months in advance, but can be changed if figures indicate an unexpected upswing in enrollment in the area.

ROOMS can be added midway in the building program. This has been done in the past. For instance, Allen School was set at four rooms, but went to eight when Salem Square started to build.

To complete such a change for the Lake Pointe school would require notice by February, 1966 for a Fall '66, completion. In the meantime, plans for an eight room school are being drawn up by school architect, Odell, Hewlett and Luckenbach.

Elementary school education in Sweden has been compulsory since 1842.

that he would never vote, based on possible reaction from what "is mis-called a 'good customer' or 'good friend.'"

CITING PARKING lot and water main improvements and construction of the city's new reservoir, Beyer expressed disagreement with Smith's position on the water program. He pointed to development in the city's industrial park.

Beyer pledged to vote according to what he thinks is right for the City of Plymouth, if re-elected.

Commissioner James Houk, also a retail store owner, said he was running for the commission again because of a sense of obligation to the community.

"It's a community that's been good to me," he commented.

HOUK RECALLED the discussion, strife and turmoil that characterized the re-election some years back and noted that the city has had to recover from that era.

While admitting that some differences have existed in the past between the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township, Houk said the present commission is composed of people who were not involved.

"This is good," he said. "We look at things with new eyes, as one community." Houk pointed to advances in inter-community co-operation and cited a recently approved reciprocal sewage agreement as an example.

He said he felt his term on the commission had been a part of training him for better work for the City of Plymouth.

"In all the time I've been up there," he said, "I've not taken any stand because it might affect myself."

Houk said he felt youth activities and the senior citizens' housing units proposed for the City of Plymouth were notable achievements.

Lengthy study, during his time on the commission, had convinced him that Detroit water was not the answer to Plymouth's problems, Houk said.

HIS QUALIFICATION was the main thing that George Hudson discussed when he came before the group. Hudson, a resident of Plymouth for 10 years and an unsuccessful commission candidate last time, said he couldn't talk about his accomplishments.

"But I can talk about the effort I've put in to make myself a wee bit qualified," he commented. He explained that he has attended commission meetings on a regular basis for some time.

A member of the city planning commission for three years, Hudson said he has tried to find out what city government is about. In reference to the area, he concluded:

"It's a fine community, and I don't think it should change too fast."

A CHALLENGE to create an improved atmosphere and increase Plymouth's cultural and social influence through out the area was issued by Eldon Martin.

He said spot zoning must be avoided, additional land must be developed for industry and the business district must be further developed.

Martin called for wider use of urban renewal techniques and greater recognition of the city's planning consultants.

Like most of the other candidates, he pointed to improvements in Township-City relations and called for an even closer relationship.

If we don't co-operate, he predicted that Plymouth would become just a crossroads between Detroit and Ann Arbor. Martin said he felt there was a need for better communication in city government.

JAMES B. McKeon, a resident of the city for three years, said he felt his background, education and experience in local industry would help him to serve well as a commissioner.

He expressed a belief that Plymouth can become the shopping, industrial and cultural center of the area and still retain its identity.

"We have to work with other governments around us," he said, "so Plymouth is not isolated. Noting that the city's area encompassed only two square miles, McKeon felt a comprehensive land use program should be developed.

All candidates were asked to comment on County Home Rule. Those that did said they felt, with proper charter provisions, there were advantages to the system.

It has often been said that the only logical substitute for a new Cadillac is one that has seen previous service. Whatever you plan to invest in your next car, above all consider Cadillac.

If you are like most people, you hope someday to own a new Cadillac motor car. For Cadillac's continuing greatness in design and engineering has made it one of the world's most desirable and sought-after possessions. But if a new Cadillac is not presently feasible, you should consider the pleasure and satisfaction that would be yours with a late model, previously-owned Cadillac. Your dealer currently offers an unusually wide selection of fine used Cadillacs at a cost in line with that of many new cars of far less stature and quality. These fine Cadillacs are all in superb condition, and many offer features not yet available on other makes. And from a standpoint of investment, remember that a Cadillac traditionally returns more of its cost at resale than any other car at or near its price. So visit your authorized Cadillac dealer, and let him show you a Cadillac—new or used—that will fit your budget. Your visit will be the wisest motoring move you have ever made. Why not make it this week?

Rev. Henry Walch

COMMUNITY PROFILE

Rev. Walch Comments on The Negro and The Church

"This is my town", says the Rev. Henry Walch, pastor of Plymouth's First Presbyterian Church, and, by local standards, he's been here long enough to make that claim.

Dr. Walch came to Plymouth 22 years ago, in 1943 during the war. "When I came to Plymouth it was a wide place in the road," he recalled in a recent interview. "It was a sleepy little town. I guess one should rejoice at the expansion; yet I miss the sense of being out in the country. I would hope Plymouth never gets so big it loses its sense of identity."

Dr. Walch heads up one of the most prosperous churches in Plymouth, the First Presbyterian Church — with membership estimated at 1,300. He has an associate, the Rev. Edward Castner.

Dr. Walch holds a B.A. and an M.A. from the University of Rochester, Rochester, N.Y., a Bachelor of Divinity (B.D.) from McCormick Seminary, Chicago. The "Dr." is a donated dignity from Alma College, Alma, Michigan.

WRITING his master's dissertation on an interpretation of Plato's Republic gave Rev. Walch an advanced degree in philosophy. In Plymouth, this led to his teaching a philosophy class in the evening adult-education session at the High School — this last term he taught existentialism. Commenting on this school of thought Rev. Walch said:

"Man exists in a different way; not as an object, but as a subject. They catch the immediacy of life, believing that we don't live our life with just our mind, but with our whole person."

He does not totally agree with the philosophy, but sees it as an important addition to human thought.

Rev. Walch has been one of the more active members of the local clergy. Recently, he and several other ministers, signed a better protesting the Selma incidents and sent it to the U.S. Congress.

"It is a reign of terror. I see it as a pure power struggle. It's obvious, if the Negro gets his voice, the political life of Wallace and those other birds is ended," Walch said.

The hypocrisy there bothers him the most; it is the same thing, he says, that led German people down the primrose path.

The pastor likes his town and the people. He is even a little visionary, perhaps. "I would hope that every store was thriving, that there were no problems. It's a manifestation of the way one feels."

Rev. Walch and his wife have two married children, a son and a daughter, and 6 grandchildren. The church membership increases steadily and a third service had to be added to accommodate all worshippers.

The Church (the entire institution) is more alive and vital today, Dr. Walch feels, partly because of the ecumenical movement.

"THE CHURCH has a sense of reality; it's getting to where life is lived. The fact the Church has taken part in the racial issues proves it is vital."

"The dialogue between the churches is tremendously important. When I first went into the ministry it would have been unheard of."

Rev. Walch looks at his position and his creed rather philosophically and draws an extended comparison between what a person wears to dinner and what church he goes to. "Religion is relatively as important as what kind of clothes you wear to dinner when you're eating."

His point is that it is not so important what particular church you attend, but that you go somewhere.

Rev. Walch is equally liberal in making religion practical. "Without tying it into life, it's a lot of hot air," Walch said.

It is not enough to merely say things — they must be implemented in the lives of people.

He feels the fundamentalists are making a mistake when they say all man needs is to be saved, and they are ignoring the individual and emotional nature of man. He cites William James on this and says: "When something stirs you up you should go home and do something heroic — like kiss your mother-in-law or pot the cat."

These comments reflect Dr. Walch's intense practicality and humanness. But he knows his own limitations and says so.

"We don't have very much choice about birth or death. But one point where man and woman can exercise his freedom of choice is in his marriage. If they are not happy they become restless, driven sort of creatures."

Dr. Walch feels there is a need for more sex education and at an earlier point. He also thinks that if couples don't fundamentally enjoy each other, they shouldn't marry. "Sex becomes a trap. Nature doesn't care who you sleep with. Nature is amoral."

The Presbyterian church in Plymouth tries in this area to some extent; but Dr. Walch points out that the church only has the kids for a very short time each week. "Some religions," he said, "look at sex as part of the devil. They wouldn't touch this thing with a 10-foot pole."

Dr. Walch is careful about plans for the future but indicated the church may remodel the sanctuary for further seating. His conservatism reflects his pragmatism, as do his sermons. Currently he is preaching a series for Lent on the meanings in Lord's Prayer, attempting to point to the life and vitality behind the words.

WELL LIKED and respected, Dr. Walch has a lot of feedback from the people in his church, and he works for even better communication.

But, he says, "I can't handle praise. I never feel that I have done the job the way it ought to be done."

Home to Church Sunday

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

We don't consider it eavesdropping to "hear" our children's prayers. Nor is it too much trouble! In fact, it is part of our responsibility to God.

For Mollie and Ted are His children, too. Parents are partners with—not substitutes for—our Heavenly Father.

It is this sense of partnership that has brought faith and the Church into the life of our family. We are not foolishly depending on our mere adulthood to inspire character in them. We do not command that they do what we say, not what we do. And we never sit at home while they are in Church, as though the truth they have gone to seek weren't worth a group's effort.

We figure God wants us at the listening post, to monitor their spiritual searchings, to share with them the blessings He has given us all.

Schoolcraft Accredited

Schoolcraft College was granted Michigan accreditation by the Michigan Commission on College Accreditation on March 11.

Dr. Eric J. Bradner, President, feels that this is an especially significant step in the development of Schoolcraft College, since such accreditation permits not only easy transfer within the State of Michigan but also facilitates transfer outside the State.

On December 21, 1964, the College was visited by a Committee of the Commission on College Accreditation, headed by Dr. Joseph Berkowski of the University of Detroit. Other members of the Commission who visited the College were: Dr. Donald O'Dowd, Oakland University; Dr. Wilfred Erickson, Eastern Michigan University; Dr. Max Smith, Michigan State University; and Dr. Clarence Haines, Flint Community College.

At the conclusion of their visit, the Committee was unanimous in expressing its satisfaction in the development of Schoolcraft College and felt that the Board of Trustees, faculty, administration, staff members, and students could take great pride in the accomplishments to date.

The next step in accreditation for Schoolcraft College will be to secure accreditation by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. The preliminary studies for this accreditation already are under way.

The Sporting Life

Raw Talent Blossoms Out

Doug Johnson

The Plymouth Community Junior Basketball League is one of the best things that has ever happened to Plymouth sports. And all you have to do is see them play some Saturday morning and you'll see why.

The kids played their final game of the regular season last Saturday. The improvements each week have been remarkable.

What a handful of amateur coaches have done in 8 weeks with the rawest of talent would be hard to match with professional coaches and experienced personnel.

And you have to understand the words 'raw talent'.

To appreciate what I mean you need to be faced with a handful of eager, tussle-haired youngsters in baggy sweatshirts, oversized gym shorts and assorted tennis shoes - all breathless and ready to get started playing.

You say, "OK, let's warm up and shoot some baskets."

Before your last words are out, the kids are off like a shot. They head pel-mel for the baskets, and about half of them trip on untied shoelaces and fall. The rest trample by the fallen.

You watch a particularly eager, and small aspiring hoop star grab a ball, look at the basket, close his eyes - and fire with all his might. The ball takes an incredibly high arch, and falls about 6 feet short.

That, my friends, is raw talent.

Not so now. After 8 weeks the kids look polished and well coached. They pass the full length of the court with all the skill of the best players. They shoot, and hit, from anywhere on the court (including razzle-dazzle hooks).

Take the Class 'A' Lakers. Scoring 40 points in their final game last week they went undefeated for the 8 weeks. Another team, the Pistons, scored 42 points in their last game.

All the kids looked good - well disciplined, well coached, and well versed in the fundamentals of basketball.

It's not by accident that their evolution came about. It is the result of a great deal of time and money on the part of many men in the community - too many to mention their names. And I'm sure they would want it that way.

My hat is off to the 140 kids and their coaches. Like Charlie Ketterer, now retired Varsity cage coach, and parent of a youngster in the league (David), I'm glad to see the league so successful. Go see them play their All-Star games on March 27. You won't believe your eyes.

I must cite now a case of perseverance. A friend of mine, George Agas, one time football player for Michigan State University, graduated from MSU Sunday after nearly six years work toward a B.A. It was not that he was dumb; it's just that he changed his mind several times, and thus changed majors several times. He graduates with two majors and five minors, about 290 credits (you need about 180) and plans to go on to grad school. But he's going to be what he wants, and it is because he stuck to it.

There's a lesson there, but I'm not sure what it is.

Tiger's Doc Fenkell Will Spin Yarns Thursday Night

Neal (Doc) Fenkell

A local man will be the featured speaker at the March 18th session of the Jaycees sport-A-Rama series - the final one of the season.

Neal (Doc) Fenkell, 9336 Ivanhoe Drive, Director of operations for the Detroit Tiger T.V. network will speak and show the 1964 Cardinal-Yankee World Series Film.

The event starts at 8:15 p.m. at the Plymouth Junior High West. All boys under 15 years will be admitted for $35 if they wear a basketball sweat shirt or baseball cap. Adult tickets are $1.50.

Tickets available from any Jaycee or at the door.

Net proceeds from the show go toward the support of the many Jaycee sponsored youth activities in the Plymouth Community.

These include the Junior Basketball Association and Little League Baseball.

(Doc) Fenkell is one of baseball's most witty and popular public speakers. An able story teller with a fund of funny yarns, Doc still packs a wealth of baseball dope into his talks. "Entertainment first, but information too," is his motto.

Doc arranges appearances of Tiger players, handles Special Events at Tiger Stadium, and the Stadium's frankly. "It's always great to have someone come up and say he enjoyed a talk." Although he has encountered all kinds of weather hazards, Doc has never missed a speaking date and he is proud of that record.

He says the funniest thing that ever happened to him was being introduced to a gathering as "the Manager of the Detroit Tigers." I immediately asked for more job security than the managers have been getting recently, he laughed.

Swim Club

The Colony Swim Club has scheduled a number of meetings in a final drive for membership.

The Club is selling privately owned shares for $300. The membership fee is good forever, or until the member drops out of the club.

Meetings have been set for March 17 at Allen Elementary School, March 23 and 25 at Junior High East, all at 8 p.m.

Already, 100 member have bought into the Club and at least 200 others have expressed definite interest.

President of the Board of Directors of the Club, Joseph Fletcher, urged anyone interested in the club to come to the public information meetings.

This year we'll have a lawn free from crabgrass - and save money too!

Our grass will be greener too. Thanks to Scott's amazing HALTS PLUS. It's the greatest! One application fertilizes the lawn at the same time it prevents crabgrass. Keeps grubs and moles away for a full year too. Yet it's so kind to good grass you can sow grass seed any time you want.

Nothing wrong with the savings either - $2 off on a 2500 sq. ft. bag. And $1 on the 1000 sq. ft. bag.

McNAMARA:

'Roberts No Pied Piper'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Between now and the April 5 general election, The Plymouth Mail will carry news releases from the two candidates for State Senate in the 14th Senatorial District. Below is one from the campaign headquarters of Edward H. McNamara, Democratic hopeful.

After examining his opponent's legislative record, Edward H. McNamara, Democratic candidate for the State Senate, declared today that the record was consistent — "consistent in that it constantly sacrifices principle for political expediency."

"For one who claims to have been a leader of his party, he was no Pied Piper," McNamara stated.

"During that period, my opponent and his party kept promising the people of this State fiscal reform. Both the party and my opponent reneged on this promise. In 1962 my opponent was one of three Republican Senators who switched their vote from fiscal reform to a group of nuisance taxes, which squeezed the taxpayer even more," McNamara declared.

"Last November the people of this State decided they wanted state-mate government no longer, and elected a Democratic legislature. My opponent can do little for this District as a member of the minority party," McNamara continued.

"As a public servant for more than 10 years, and as an employee of the most efficient business enterprise in the State, Michigan Bell Telephone Company, I will use my business and political experience to bring efficiency in government," McNamara pledged.

"During the years he was supposed to have been a leader of his party, Michigan was short-changed by the Legislature. During those years the State's contribution toward primary education constantly dropped, throwing a greater burden on the local school districts."

He Says Congress Moves At Rarely Matched Pace

By Congressman Weston Vivian

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column, written by Plymouth's representative, U.S. Congressman Weston E. Vivian (D) of Ann Arbor, will appear twice each month. Any opinions expressed are those of the Congressman and do not necessarily reflect the editorial position of The Plymouth Mail.

In its first session, the 89th Congress is moving at a pace rarely matched in history. News analysts have speculated that it may produce more trend-setting legislation early in the session than any Congress since the "100 days" of President Roosevelt's first term, in 1933.

Probably the most important decision made thus far in the Congress, is the passage of the "21-day rule". This rule will allow the Speaker of the House to bring a Bill out of the Rules Committee after that Committee has had 21 days to consider it. It will mean that the Rules Committee will no longer be able to frustrate the will of a majority in the House, by refusing to send a bill to the Floor for a vote.

The passage of the 21-day rule is illustrative of the attitude of many of the new members in the House: They are serious about their legislative duties and impatient with the roadblocks which have prevented action in the past.

Major bills now before House Committees include: medical insurance for senior citizens, water pollution abatement, and aid to elementary, secondary and higher education. These bills are moving through Committee, and should come to the Floor of the House shortly.

One of the most important pieces of legislation passed to date, is the $1.1 billion aid to Appalachia Bill. Appalachia is an eleven-state region extending from Pennsylvania to Alabama. Sixteen million people live in the 165,000 square mile area.

The Appalachia Bill provides funds for constructing highways so the area can be opened to industrial and recreational development. It also makes funds available for hospitals, timber development, vocational education and soil conservation. I disagreed somewhat with the heavy emphasis in the Bill on highway construction. It was my idea that the Bill would be better balanced if more of the funds had been earmarked for education and reclamation programs. However, my ideas did not prevail.

I finally voted for the Bill, because I believe it is in the best interests of the entire nation to help these millions of families.

In Appalachia, per-capita income is 35% below that of the rest of the nation, and in some countries it is far lower. To bring this figure a bit closer to home: one out of every three families subsist on an annual income of $3000 or less.

This means that this region makes much less of a contribution to the national economy than most of the rest of the nation. Thus, at present, it is a drag on our growing prosperity.

The Appalachia program will help correct this regional economic tailspin.

A second significant bill already passed in the House is H.R. 2 which will put stricter controls on the manufacture and distribution of barbiturates and "pep pills".

The increased use of these drugs contributes to juvenile delinquency, crime, and highway accidents. Of the nine billion manufactured each year, half are being sold through illicit channels. This has been due to a large extent by lack of controls over those dealing in these drugs. The Bill will require that persons legally manufacturing and distributing the drugs keep complete records of purchases and sales.

The Bill prohibits possession of these drugs by persons not prescription users or in the legitimate chain of distribution. The Food and Drug Administration will be given enlarged enforcement powers in order to police the new controls. I am happy to report that this important measure passed the House of Representatives by a vote of 402 to 0.

News of the brutal and unprovoked suppression of a peaceful demonstration held in Selma, Alabama, in support of the right to vote, shocked Americans of all faiths and all political persuasions. For most of us, it is unbelievable that law enforcement officers in the United States would beat and gas innocent American citizens.

We in Michigan, so used to having the right to vote, and to exercising that right, tend to forget that this most basic Constitutional right is repressed and denied in some of these United States. It is now clear that Federal action is required, to remedy this. I am convinced that Congress, under bi-partisan leadership, will shortly enact simple, forceful legislation which will protect the right of every qualified American, whatever the color of his skin, to vote wherever he may reside.

Often citizens are uncertain whether letters to their Congressmen are welcome, and if so, to what address they should be directed. I personally consider mail from my constituents most important.

Write to: Congressman Wes Vivian, 118 Old House Office Building, Washington, D.C., 20515.

AAA Publishes Boat Site Guide

Wayne County has 34 public boat launching sites and marinas listed in a first-of-its-kind guide just published for Michigan's boatmen by Automobile Club of Michigan. Title of the 108-page booklet is "Michigan Boat Launching Site and Marina Guide."

"Information on boat facilities throughout Michigan and Ontario is provided in this publication," says Robert Cain, manager of the Auto Club's Plymouth Division. "This is the first time that travel information on a statewide scale has ever been compiled in such detail for boaters," he added.

The guide lists 1,634 sites by towns, under the counties in which they are located. By scanning the charted information, boaters can tell if a site has a shore, timber, steel, gravel or paved launch ramp. At the same time, they will be knowledgeable of facilities available from dockage to restaurants.

Wayne County towns with launch sites mentioned in the guide are Belleville, Detroit, Ecorse, Gibraltar, Rockwood, Trenton and Wyandotte.

A summary of Michigan's motorboat laws, tips for those who trailer their boats and the unwritten laws of the waterways under a section titled "Courtesy Afloat," are included in the booklet.

Auto Club members may obtain this guide at their Club division office.

Are you the future's keeper?

On Monday, March 29, Plymouth Community citizens will have a golden opportunity to graphically detail their stand on an adequate educational program for area youngsters.

That's the day some of them will go to the polls to cast ye or nay votes on the School District's proposal which asks three and a quarter mills for operating expenses during the next two years.

We say "some" because past record indicates that the turnout will be pitifully small.

The monies requested will be used to pay for operating fund increases of about $470,000 next year and $438,000 the year after.

The proposal is not a whim of the school district.

It was arrived at after months of agonizing study by a committee of Plymouth Community School District citizens — people who asked for and got the minutest sort of detail on school operations.

They concluded that additional funds are vitally needed; and their decision was relayed to the Board of Education.

Board members, after long soul searching and investigation, recommended a proposed levy of three and a quarter mills.

What does the millage request mean to you as a property owner?

In terms of dollars, the cost is small enough that most school kids would probably be willing to shell it out of their spending money with nothing more than a moment of scuffing their foot in the dirt before saying, "Well, gee, sure!"

But, let's bring it down to dollars and cents.

Assuming you live in a home in the City of Plymouth assessed at $10,000, your yearly tax increase would be $39.70 after applying the equalization factor of 1.22.

That's 76.3 cents per week, less than 11 cents a day. And if you want us to haul out the hoary old cigarette comparison, it's about one third the cost of a pack of filtered carcinoma.

At this point, city residents are going to be thinking, "Yeah, O.K. But, what about the people in the Township? Everyone knows their assessment is less."

For the sake of argument, let's say Joe Blow — across the street from you in the Township — lives in a comparable house and his assessment is $8,500. After we wallop him with an equalization factor of 1.43, his taxes turn out to be $39.49 more if the millage is passed.

That's 75.7 cents per week, or six tenths of a cent less than the city resident's. It boils out to about the same in terms of cancer sticks.

Seriously, however, The Plymouth Mail prefers a less tangible look at the millage question. Like so many things, it's a fundamental problem of personal morality.

Are you your brother's keeper? Are you your children's keeper? Or your brother's children's?

And, since children and their education are synonymous with the future, are you the future's keeper? Think about it.

Ask yourself if it's worth a candy bar or a cake of soap or a quart of beer a day to ensure that The Plymouth Community merely holds its own in public education.

Remember, while you're mulling it over, that you pay far less than residents of most area school districts. And, if you vote in the requested millage, you'll still be paying far less.

It shouldn't take too much thought to bring you to conclusions — the same conclusions this newspaper has reached:

- (1) The millage question is important.
- (2) It deserves your vote.
- (3) That vote should be an emphatic "yes."

Anything less is shortchanging the future.

Promoting progressive action

Coming at a time when the level of co-operation in The Plymouth Community is reaching new highs, the report and recommendations of Plymouth Township's Police Study Committee gives bases for further optimism and hope.

The report, submitted last week to the Township Board of Trustees, suggests that formation of a separate Plymouth Township police force would not be feasible.

Discussions with the City of Plymouth and Northville Township were recommended — perhaps with an eye toward formation of a police authority. Township Supervisor Roy R. Lindsay was urged to think about appointment of a group to pursue the matter.

Such a body would, by necessity, have to include at least one individual who was familiar with law enforcement and the particular problems it presents. Plymouth Township has such a man in Michigan State Police Captain Fred Davids.

Davids, last week, was being mentioned by one of Detroit's daily newspapers as one of two men in line for a key state police position in Lansing. He has long displayed, as a citizen, an active interest in Township government.

Neither is the Township lacking in other well-educated and capable men to serve on such a body.

In recent months, the community has seen organization of three key groups whose long-term effect can only be to increase and enhance improving relations.

They are the Plymouth Community Human Relations Commission, the Plymouth Area Planning Commission and the recreation site committee recently appointed. All include representatives from Plymouth Township, Canton Township and the City of Plymouth.

Supervisor Lindsay, who always has had the interests of his Township at heart, could perform no greater service than to add to these co-operative efforts by naming persons to closely examine the possibility of community police protection.

Just last week, Lindsay told Plymouth Rotarians that change is in the offing for the Township in the years ahead; and he admitted that progress must inevitably be coped with and adjusted to.

During his present term, he is in a position to crown a brilliant local political career by promoting the sort of progressive action that can only benefit Township residents and the community as a whole.

Appointment of the group recommended by the Police Study Committee and an invitation to Canton Township to participate would be an excellent start.

Would he be available?

On Tuesday evening, Plymouth City Commissioners will gather to discuss the list of 26 applicants who have expressed interest in the city manager's job.

The men whose names appear on the list reflect a wide range of backgrounds, education and experience. They are young and old, and represent communities that stretch across the continent — cities with population spreads that go from less than 700 to over 700,000.

The decision commissioners must make is not an easy one.

But, as they pore over the names, and pressure mounts on them to make a choice, it seems to us that they should not lose sight of the job that's been done in the months since Plymouth bid farewell to City Manager Albert F. Glassford.

When the former city manager departed, one man stood ready to step into his shoes on an interim basis.

Since that time, most city fathers agree, that same man has done a commendable — even outstanding — job. He has spent countless hours at his desk and untold others working on city business outside the confines of the municipal building.

Further, Plymouth's 46-year-old Superintendent of Public Safety has, through his years in city government, schooled himself on the complexities of local affairs.

He has completed university-level courses in municipal administration. And he has compiled a reputation for awareness, depth and plain hard work.

Through all this, he has been available to commissioners for consultation and discussion. Available to the press to explain the details and intricacies of city affairs. Available to the general public.

At the risk of over-simplifying and sounding impertinent, he might be tagged Available Kenneth Fisher.

Commissioners might do worse than to find out if he's available to continue serving as manager of the City of Plymouth.

BUILDING inspector Charles Thompson (left) and City Assistant Fire Chief George Schoeneman inspect a basement of a Crestwood apartment unit to see if recommended changes have been made since a Feb. 21 fire in which an overheated incinerator like the one shown here started a fire that shot through an inside wall and mushroomed in a second story apartment. The City had asked that the pipes on the incinerator be fastened better and that certain fire stops be installed in the recently constructed buildings. The pipes were fixed but the latest inspection revealed a need for more fire stops. In the photo below, the arrow points to a hole where fire officials fear fire might spread from room to room. Immediately to the left is a hole for wiring that also needs fire stopping materials plugged into it. Thompson said the owners would be notified of the violation and given time to fix it. The inspections are part of a stepped up fire hazard check in all city multiple dwellings that had been urged by Commission Arch Vallier at a recent City Commission meeting. Both Thompson and Schoeneman issued a statement to apartment owners, telling them to expect a full inspection of their units in the near future. The Feb. 21 fire was the first of two recent fires at Crestwood units. (See story, Page One).

LETTERS:

Think of Repercussions If Millage Doesn't Pass

Dear Editor:

After reading your article on the proposal for millage in the coming election, I thought that if perhaps the people of Plymouth knew exactly what their money was going towards, it could possibly influence them in some way to vote for the millage and give the young people of Plymouth a better chance in the future.

I am not talking about any of the aspects which the Board of Education is, I am talking about preparing the future leaders of tomorrow for the tremendous adjustment which they must undertake when they step down the graduation aisle.

Being a college student, I have some knowledge of where the emphasis of education should be. And that is right in the preparatory schools.

The transition to college life is hard enough without having faulty or poor secondary background. The major equation for success in college is a good attitude plus a superior basic training.

For that youth not planning on going on to a place of higher schooling, it is the responsibility of the community to train him to become an asset.

This area is perhaps where our secondary institutions fail the most.

People of Plymouth, for your own perpetuation, think before you vote. Think about what repercussions will emerge if you cast a negative ballot.

Educated citizens make for better Americans.

Sincerely,
Robert Dart

The Grim Pilgrim

By DAVE WILEY

Now that the legal hue and cry about the eligibility of City Attorney Edward F. Draugelis for the office of Municipal Judge is presumably over, the whole, complex comedy of legalistic error leaves me with a decidedly nasty taste in my mouth.

Perhaps never before have so many confused persons been in so great an emotional uproar over a question that, properly handled, might not have arisen.

The term, "properly handled," leads, naturally, to the question, "What do you mean, 'properly handled'?"

Well, (and the danger of being labeled 18th Century man in a 20th Century world arises), inherent in the phrase "properly handled" is the concept of personal morality.

There is no doubt in my mind that Draugelis is legally qualified. The laughable part is that Judge Rashid's decision was based on grounds that neither side of the question had considered.

So Draugelis was right. Right, perhaps, for the wrong reasons but, none the less, right.

Legally, that is.

But, let's take a look at the history of the question and attempt to ascertain the degree of moral rightness inherent.

City officials are sworn to uphold the terms of the Charter of the City of Plymouth and, if incumbent responsibility lies heaviest on any shoulders, it's on the city attorney's.

Normally, one would expect a city attorney to raise the question of his eligibility for another city post himself.

And, old fashioned as it may seem, it could be expected that a public official and candidate would disassociate himself from any posture wherein he might be called upon to rule on his own eligibility.

Draugelis, however, as a member of the city election commission, apparently felt free to interpret his own eligibility and certify his own election.

Again, in the end he was right, but not for the reasons he publicly claimed.

City Commissioners, assuming they knew that a question existed about a candidate's eligibility, might be expected to raise the question.

At least three Plymouth city fathers and another public official knew far in advance that such a question existed about Draugelis.

But they remained quiet.

Quiet, that is, until someone — still unknown to me — adopted the sneaky, uncourageous tactic of sending an anonymous letter to the commission and the newspapers the week before primary election.

Then the flag went up.

The Livonia-based Observer newspaper chain, employing its own peculiar brand of interpretive reporting, characterized the whole question as a "smear campaign" which later became a "cloud hovering over his eligibility."

As far as I'm concerned, there's still one heck of a cloud that hangs over the whole mess.

And it's an odiferous one.

Within it are the questions, why didn't Draugelis publicly raise the question himself before the election?

Why did he note, in a letter sent to both The Plymouth Mail and The Observer, "I have advised both Mr. Cutler and Mr. Manwaring, my opponents, of this and to their credit as lawyers, they are not the ones who have raised this issue."

Credit? Some Credit! Why did commissioners, and others within city government who knew of the question, not raise it in an open, unbiased atmosphere before the election?

I wouldn't begin to pose answers.

At best, the problem has been fraught with conflict of interest and ethical and philosophical indiscretions, however small.

Frankly, I'm glad it's been legally resolved. I just hope the bad taste goes away.
