Unity questionnaire

"I am entirely satisfied with the status quo. The only thing the City could offer us would be higher taxes without corresponding benefits."

One resident of Canton favors the move, John R. Schroeder, 7878 Ridge Road. "I believe the uniting of the entire school district would be more realistic as I am a member of Canton Township."

Melvin Gibson of 40225 Gilbert said yes and called for "one government for all people" of the area.

Leslie Taylor, 14230 Ridge Road called for an end to "oldtime emotional political issues" and the start of some "modern efficient business methods."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Erdelyi, 9110 Rocker, said they had been in favor of a City-Township union for a long time.

"Presently an individual may choose 'city' living or 'township' living. Amalgamation would destroy that choice," said Township resident W. R. Augustine, 47501 Powell Rd., in voting against the study.

Expressing a favorable opinion on the study committee, Russell L. Isbister, 50005 Ann Arbor Rd., said:

"Intelligent decisions by citizens should be based on facts. More fact finding committees will result in better decisions."

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Atkinson, 41021 Greenbriar La., said they would favor a study of City and Township union.

"As far as we are concerned this is the only feasible thing to do. Why have two governments — double salaries," were their comments.

John P. Diamond, 15159 Robinwood, said he felt that such a study would be beneficial for both communities at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hoakley favor a study and commented that they would like to see a Township-City union.

Among others saying no to a study were M. L. Kirchhoff of 42506 Schoolcraft Road, and John A. Beems 11681 Amherst Court.

The survey thus far shows area residents in favor of a study of the pros and cons of a Township-City union about four to one.

in the Township, all essential facilities for industry and the assurance that the Township can meet future needs of potential growth.

"To property ratio the industrial properties compared to the continued growth of the residential district, the Township Board feels obligated to assist any industrial development which desires to locate within our boundaries."

"In this instance every attempt will be made to upgrade Sheldon Road to a Grade A Road. Sanitary sewers will be extended wherever needed."

"Knowing that this area has a proximity to industrial and commercial complex within the Detroit metropolitan area we again reiterate the Township Board of Trustees stands willing and anxious to co-operate in establishing a Township industrial park."

Integration

they had and do believe in integrated living.

"Many sincere people of good will have found it hard to accept. But if we don't, we face disintegration on American principles."

The panel told how the U of D had donated office space for the non profit real estate company. The company has also prepared kits on how to sell a house.

THE PANEL also told of occasional threats of physical violence, of its schools, rental and housing problems.

A booklet was passed out explaining the council's work, and its points to study by the FHA, that shows prices have stabilized in the area, and in some cases gone up.

ing information on soil tests and sanitary sewer setups. This move came after hearing a letter from the Wayne County Health Department that it would be "highly questionable if we could approve septic tanks for that area."

Postiff Estate's, represented by Tom Notebaert, re-submitted plans for their land Behind Plymouth Stamping, W. C. Johnson, present at the meeting, indicated some changes, and Notebaert was asked to come back with them at a later date.

Money

The township received the money for over $1,300,000 in bonds for sewer and water Tuesday morning from the National Bank of Detroit.

and several hundred Plymouth teenagers and you have one of the Fireman's Association monthly teen dances. Lanky Paul Cannon was in Plymouth Saturday night with his records and autographed pictures with WKRR stamped on them. The dances are a once a month affair that draw large crowds of local teenagers. Cost at the door is 50c. The firemen use the money for the dances and to finance the busing of students to all away football, basketball games and swimming meets. Cannon gave away tickets to Shindig, a national hootnanny show, signed autographs, and played the current pop favorites. And the kids loved it, as always.

Congressmen tours

tornado disaster area

By Congressman Weston Vivian

There are, it seems to me, two major parts to a Congressman's job. In earlier columns, I have discussed the best-known aspect of the job: representing the District in the National legislature. The second major component of a Congressman's job is to maintain contact with, and provide service for, his constituents. The annual Easter recess of the Congress provided me with an opportunity for ten days at home, during which the second aspect of the job was my principal concern. Here then is a summary of the past week, spent in the Second District of Michigan: The House of Representatives recessed on Thursday, April 15. Friday morning we were in Adrian to begin work on the most pressing problem in the District at that moment: property damage within the tornado disaster area.

I began a tour of the Lenawee County disaster area in the morning with Mayor Bohn, Lenawee County Sheriff Germond and Capt. Dye of the Michigan National Guard. We were joined as the day went on by Rollin Township Supervisor Donald Wood; Woodstock Township Supervisor Kenneth Nickloy; and Ray Jackson, the Supervisor of Franklin Township.

The extent of the property damage we encountered was overwhelming, particularly in the Manitou Beach area. You have no doubt seen news photographs of the homes flattened into rubble and read and heard stories of the tragic loss of life among those caught in the path of the twisters.

The Federal government has a large role to play in helping the people who have lost their homes and places of business rebuild them. While in Manitou Beach I was able to reach the Office of Emergency Planning and the Small Business Administration in Washington from a phone in a disaster trailer. We knew that residents who had suffered property losses were eligible for disaster loans and that the rebuilding of public buildings would be aided by Federal funds, but the immediate question was how to begin — and quickly.

Both SBA and the Office of Emergency Planning promised me they would dispatch technical personnel to the scene to help speed the processing of the applications of the people whose property had been struck.

THE TWISTER DAMAGE

In Milan was principally in the industrial section of the town, three plants had been damaged. Saturday morning, Village President John Tschirhart, Milan Township Clerk Wyman Campbell and I surveyed the damage.

After office hours at the Bedford Township Hall, I toured the "Lost Peninsula" disaster area of Erie Township, in Monroe County, with State Representative Raymond Kehres, County Civil Defense Director Robert Gildersleeve, and Sergeant Marvin Krans of the Michigan State Police. The area was one of the hardest hit, and there is a great deal of rebuilding to do there.

On to Tipton, another of our Second District communities struck by the tragic Sunday storms, to review the Federal assistance available to our friends there. I was very impressed by the headway already made in removing debris.

At an evening meeting at the Blissfield Library, area tomato farmers and processors discussed their urgent concern about an impending shortage of harvest labor this year, due to termination of the migrant farm labor program by the Congress, in 1964.

Tuesday lunch with the Monroe Rotary Club and a discussion of current legislation and my work on the House Science and Astronautics Committee. Early that afternoon, I had a lively discussion with over a 100 senior citizens at the Retired Citizens Recreational Center in the City of Monroe.

The farmers around Britton took a terrible pounding from the twisters. When I talked with some of them Wednesday afternoon I found that they had some special problems. Barns were down, houses damaged and fields littered to such an extent that they are unworkable without a good deal of cleanup. The problem is that they can't repair everything at once, and the buildings must take priority. I called the Department of Agriculture in Washington to see if I could obtain an extension on the March 26th deadline for signing up acreage under the Federal Feed Grain Program. If the extension is granted, it will enable the farmers in the District to concentrate on repairing their buildings while receiving some income from the crop-land the twisters tore up and littered.

Fischer's appointment follows on the heels of his recent election to the vice presidency of the Campus Christian Association and his appointment to the chairmanship of the Student Union Committee. He is completing a year as a Junior Resident in a freshman dorm.

Appoint boys to Wooster dormitory staff

Eder was elected treasurer of the Student Government Association at the college recently.

Local GOP urges medicare defeat

Following a meeting last Thursday evening of the 15-man advisory board of the Plymouth Republican Club, residents of this area are being urged to send telegrams to their Congressmen urging defeat of the proposed Medicare bill.

Senate Hearings on the proposed legislation were scheduled to begin Tuesday, April 26.

The re-activated Plymouth Republican Club urged citizens to wire their Congressmen immediately advising defeat of the medicare bill and adoption of one of the alternate bills, such as elder-care.

Interested residents who desire additional information should call Ed Johnson at GL 3-0895.

American Legion Auxiliary

Disabled war veterans working in hospitals and convalescent workrooms in many parts of the country are completing the memorial poppies which will be worn in honor of the war dead on Poppy Day in May. More than 6,000 veterans of three wars have been given employment by the Auxiliary in its poppy making work this year. The number of red flowers made is expected to exceed 20,000,000.

Earnings of the veterans making poppies, who are the only paid workers in the poppy program, were estimated at $300,000. The poppies are shaped from crepe paper with wire stems, and resemble closely the European wild poppy which bloomed in the battle fields and cemeteries of World War I in France and Belgium.

The Auxiliary Unit will have a corps of volunteer workers distributing these memorial flowers on the downtown streets and at shopping centers all day on Poppy Day, Thursday, May 20. These workers will carry coin boxes to receive contributions for the Auxiliary's work with the disabled veterans and needy children of veterans. We hope everyone will wear a poppy to honor the war dead and will contribute to help these living victims of war.

Auxiliary members as well as Post members are now organizing corps of volunteer Poppy Day workers. Most of the Auxiliary members will be wives of World War II veterans able to give from an hour or two to all day for this work. Some will be older women from World War I families who have been Poppy Day volunteers for many years, and some will be teenage junior members of the Auxiliary working on Poppy Day for the first time.

The Unit Chairman is Mrs. Jean Buttermore and Post Chairman is Robert Richter for this year. Any volunteer help will be appreciated.

Passage-Gayde Unit Girl State Chairman Emma Williams announced the following names were chosen to attend Girl State this year: Mary Arnold - Womans Club and Pat Hart - Passage-Gayde Unit No. 391.

Auxiliary members who have not received the final copy of the Unit standing rules and bylaws, pick one up at the Post Home next time you are there.

President Marcilla Drake has asked that Unit Chairman to please get their annual reports in early.

City needs its professional planners

The City's urban renewal project, and its use of planning consultants, Velican and Leman, will come under close scrutiny soon upon the urging of the taxpayers' best figure-watcher, Commissioner Arch Vallier.

Velican and Leman had submitted a $250 per month bill to the City, which will continue until the 701 program is approved by the federal government. A meeting with consultants is expected in the near future, especially after Vallier commented at a meeting a few weeks back that he was not so sure we needed $250 per month planners.

Some of his fears may be allayed by the recent grant from the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency, which awarded the City of Plymouth $13,285. This is one of the agencies that was set up by the 1954 enabling legislation, the Housing Act, section 701.

We think experience elsewhere in Detroit proves the need for adequate planning. So many suburban communities are developed along one main thoroughfare with a hodgepodge of apartments, retail stores, office buildings and industrial buildings. This sort of strip commercial development is not recognized as desired planning.

Both Plymouth and Canton Townships have realized the need for master planning, sensible zoning and a slow careful look at everything being built.

We would hope that, even though Plymouth is relatively small, that we could avoid blighted neighborhoods by professional planning.

Professional help for anything doesn't come free. We look upon the City's expenditures so far as wise. If we are to take the City's master plan seriously, which was the result of two years' work, we should be willing to commit ourselves to it over a long period of time.

At the time of publication of the plan last fall, it was apparent that a long look needed to be taken at Plymouth's tax base. At that time it was clearly established that the planners needed to work on more industrial sites if the tax balance was to remain in line. And it is to this that we feel the present commission has been committed.

This is perhaps where the urban renewal project on Mill St. comes in — the project made possible by the 1954 legislation.

Simply put, the City has spent money to hopefully raise its tax base by making industrial sites available. Before the razing of the homes and old industrial buildings in the project, $6,000 per year in taxes were being collected.

Surely the Bathey and Duratiner plants, Ossie Hinote's new welding shop, and the proposed Gay Blade skating rink are going to bring in more than that. On this basis alone, the project has justified itself.

The money involved when the project is completed will look like this:

$357,887	entire cost.
- 79,275	land sold to present owners.
$278,612	net cost.
- 69,653	total cost to city (non-callable bonds) issued in the summer of 1962.
$208,959	capital grant given in part to City from government.
+ 3,820	relocation of tenant cost.
$212,779	federal grant when completed.

Where's most of this cost? In buying the old buildings and land (cost $229,002.89) that new industries would not feel justified in buying.

Cost to the City? Only $69,000, which it will more than get back in newly-created tax base — over a period of several years.

It is for these reasons that we have needed, and will continue to need, men who can help us plan our community.

There is one thing that has always bothered me about weekly newspaper editors and publishers.

That is their propensity for boring readers to tears with long and wordy accounts of their own travels, trials, troubles and tribulations.

Like Joe Potatoes, as the morning friendly's Judd Arnett refers to him, could care.

And then last week came, the Wiley herd moved from one house to another and Monday rolled around with every muscle in my body aching including the one on top of my shoulders and all I can think about is moving.

Herewith a dissertation on the gentle art of transporting your worldly goods from one joint to another.

First of all start about four weeks in advance. Plan.

Pack boxes and label them neatly. "Front bedroom, living room," — wherever you want the goodies to go.

Make it a family affair.

Get Mom and the kids together and explain quietly and reasonably that you are moving to a nice new house in a lovely neighborhood and that things must be done systematically and with care.

Think system.

Mark and box and tie and departmentalize every-thing.

Then the whole mess will fall apart as zero hour approaches.

About four days before blast off, Old Hoss, your wife will go over to the new shack to put shelf paper in the cupboards; and she will accidentally twist her back out of plumb — leaving you with the easy stuff like polishing floors.

Two days before the reckoning, one of the utility companies will call to say they can't arrange facilities on moving day as agreed upon.

And, as the hour of decision is at hand, junior will roll out of bed at 6 a.m. screeching, "I don't wanna move, I don't wanna move."

"I won't get to play with Morty any more."

For a week you have been hauling cartons that represent the accumulation of many moons of martial yahem.

You are tired.

You are pooped..

So you sit down with a glass of orange juice to prepare for the day ahead and turn on the idiot box to catch the early morning weather forecast of clear and cloudless skies.

Instead, you get predictions of cold and scattered showers, topped with a commercial that drones, "Pain, pain, pain!"

Yeah, you know it.

By late afternoon, as you stagger through the door with two bed rails, the family is still cheerfully offering handy advice.

"Hey, buddy," the wife sings sweetly, "watch the wall."

"My name isn't buddy," you snarl, "and I'm not a professional moving man."

"I'm your husband."

When it's all over, you'll find the boxes never made it to the rooms they were marked for, the refrigerator has lost a few more pieces of enamel, a leg has snapped off the end table and the cat, unable to locate her sandbox, took refuge in the linen closet.

But you're there..

Your own little house.

All yours.

You admire it from the dinner table the next day while you enjoy the pleasant throb of strained muscles. The kids are amusing themselves in the adjoining family room.

"They always form a line," one of them is saying. "That's the way they march. Hey, Daddy, guess what we've got!"

"What?"
"Ants."

Children and strangers

Recently a blue sedan pulled up near the Our Lady of Good Counsel School. A man leaned out of the car and asked a pair of youngsters if they wanted a ride. They said no.

A serious incident? Perhaps not, but it did happen. It is on police records at the City Hall, and police officers are alerted to the suspect.

A talk with City assistant police chief Loren Johnson last week revealed that the problem in Plymouth is not serious. "So far, there is nothing parents should be alarmed about," the chief said.

"We get a certain number of complaints every year, and we keep our eyes on known suspects."

Parents are warned to keep their children away from strange people and strange cars.

"I would say we would like to warn children not to accept candy or rides from strangers. I don't want to alarm parents because we've been fortunate."

We would urge taking the advice under consideration, and would further urge anyone knowing of incidents involving children and strangers to report them to local police.

Rules for drive-ins

Some rules were needed to regulate drive-ins and we've got them now thanks to the action of the City Commission.

The Commission, along with the drive-in owners and City Attorney Edward Draugelis have drawn up an ordinance to regulate drive-ins.

Among other things, the ordinance outlaws noisy loud speakers, alcoholic beverages, and rubbish left free to blow across the country side.

The ordinance further empowers the commission to revoke a license if a drive-in owner fails to keep good order on the premises.

All cars driving through the lot must stop and seek service. Loitering outside of cars is prohibited.

Which all boils down to one thing. The City has put down in word often thought, but never expressed ideas about drive-ins.

We see the new law as a step in the right direction, and we are pleased to see drive-in owners cooperate on a mutually bothersome problem.

As much as teenagers need a place to meet, past experience has shown unregulated drive-ins aren't that place.

THE FREEDOM SINGERS from the integrated Fitzgerald community in the Northern Detroit area were part of a program sponsored by the Plymouth Assembly for Equal Opportunity last Tuesday in the High School band room. The singers followed a panel presentation that explained the nature of the community and the problems it had successfully faced. About 20 of the singers were present and sang various songs of The Movement, including the traditional "We Shall Overcome," in which the audience joined in. (See story, page one.)

Hopes large number will fill out questionnaires

Dear Editor:
I was glad to read in the Plymouth Mail that two of the Township trustees have expressed an interest in having voter reaction to my suggestion that the City and Township appoint a study committee to explore the pros and cons of unification.

The questionnaire you have developed should help. The significance of the returns, however, will depend on the number of citizens who respond to this questionnaire, both from the Township and the City.

I hope a large number will take the time to fill out the questionnaire so that the Township Board will have an indication of the public's feelings in this matter. The City Commission has already indicated a willingness to cooperate on a unification study.

I assume it is clear to all who read my letter that I have proposed only a study. Whether unification eventually takes place, and the timing of it, would depend on the results of the study and the attitude of the citizens of both the Township and the City after they have read these results.

If a citizens group is appointed by the Township and the City, I would hope that they would avail themselves of expert help from outside of our community — some organization with experience in such matters and not emotionally involved as those of us are who live in the Township and the City.

The matter is such an important one for the general good of the entire area that it deserves an extremely objective appraisal.

Yours truly,
Sam Hudson

I am a young man of 24 years, unmarried. I have interests in letter writing, reading, dancing, music and lawn tennis. My height is 5 feet, 8 inches.

All letters from young and old of any sex will be accepted and I promise to reply to them.

I hope you will help me. Thanks.

Glen Smith to attend AAA safety meet in D.C.

Ten-year-old Glenn Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Smith, 700 Pacific, will represent 210 Plymouth-area safety patrolers at the AAA National Safety Patrol Rally in Washington, D.C., May 6-9.

Glenn, a patroler at Bird School, will be the guest of Automobile Club of Michigan during its annual all-expense-paid trip to the nation's capital.

He will be among 130 Michigan patrolers representing 65,000 fellow patrolers at over 2,500 schools. Each patroler has spent about 180 hours at street corners protecting classmates during the past year.

Michigan youths will join 25,000 patrolers from 20 other states and the District of Columbia upon arrival in Washington May 7. They will march in a five-hour morning parade down Constitution Avenue, annually the longest parade in Washington.

The parade pays tribute to the safety efforts of the nation's 850,000 patrol members. Seventy-five bands and 80 floats will be featured. Automobile Club of Michigan's patrolers will carry "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" banners — a safety slogan familiar to this state's motorists and pedestrians for the past four years.

PATROLLERS from 105 Michigan communities chosen to make the trip will converge on Detroit by bus May 6 from Muskegon, Kalamazoo and Saginaw. The three busses from these points will join a Detroit bus at the Veterans Memorial Building that afternoon in a Greyhound caravan to Washington.

They will spend May 7 and 8 seeing the sights of Washington and will be returned to their homes by Sunday, May 9.

As a highlight of this year's trip, two Three Rivers youths will receive the AAA Gold Lifesaver Medal. Recipients are Donald Brunner, 12, and John Abel, 13, both of Barrows School. Altogether, 13 youngsters from across the nation will receive the gold medal for actually saving a fellow student's life.

Since the national patrol program was launched in 1922, the traffic death rate of children between five and 14 years of age has been cut in half. The death rate of other age groups has nearly doubled.

"In 1926 there were 325 children killed in Michigan traffic. Last year the total was 97," says Ernest P. Davis, Auto Club's director of safety and traffic. "The diligent effort of safety patrolers has undoubtedly played a major role in this reduction," he adds.

Since 1960 he has been associated with the law firm of Levasseur, Werner, Mitseff, and Brown, 816 Ford Building, Detroit.

Some new ideas on vote for teenagers

Mike Ross

In 1943 the Georgia state legislature raised the eyebrows and doubts of the majority of the other forty-seven states when it approved and passed a bill letting the legal voting age be lowered to eighteen. Twelve years later, in 1955, Kentucky met with the same opposition as Georgia had when she, too, lowered the voting age to eighteen. By the time Alaska and Hawaii entered the union in 1959 with 19 and 20 as their respective voting ages the country had been conditioned enough to withstand the strain.

In the six years since 1959 murmurs of protest have been swelling in volume causing minor quakes which seem to be growing into a major eruption. These murmurs have been started by not only the age bracketed from eighteen to twenty-one but by many adults, including college professors and even former presidents Eisenhower and Truman.

This vital question of age and voting has been rising on the political horizon as of late in three of the country's most populous states, California, Ohio, and Michigan.

Last April 19 Michigan became the first state in eleven years to pass through their state senate a bill which would grant suffrage to all persons, meeting minimum state requirements, eighteen years and over. The next step for the bill is now the House.

Whether it will be passed or not is highly questionable, with the majority of that questioning being done by the eighteen year olds of themselves.

Since the movement to lower the voting age in Michigan was started over two years ago the picture seems to have become blurred and distorted, the project getting out of hand—namely the hands of those it would most affect, the young men and women in their late teens. It must be remembered that this was started by a minority and to this date has been supported by a minority.

The teens in the Plymouth area have taken sides, manned their battlements, and are ready to fight to the bitter end, supporting or condemning the bill.

One eighteen year old girl violently opposed the bill. "We're not mature enough. No matter what anyone says we are still influenced greatly by our parents. I realize many twenty-one year olds are to more mature now than they were when they were eighteen, but the majority have broken reasonably away from their parents and have had time to make a few decisions of their own. We're just simply not mentally equipped."

But a near-by female senior countered with, "Maybe you are still affected by your parents' decisions a lot but many more of us aren't. We're the ones who have just graduated from years of learning about this man and that, his qualifications and another's. We have more knowledge about today's politics and issues than our parents. The more knowledge about a subject, the better decision results, so it stands to reason, as a whole, we should make as good, if not better, decisions than adults."

But as varied as the answers were among the females, the differences were just as striking among the males. Another young man's idea was quite apart from the one mentioned above. "Many eighteen year olds would take the responsibility seriously but too many would not. Some might think it'd be really funny to cast their ballot for Alfred E. Newman. Voting is not a matter to joke about. It's a very serious thing that takes more time to think about than flipping through a MAD magazine. We shouldn't have to be told blindly what to do with no say about it. If we don't have a chance to vote against a president that wants it, that's not too democratic."

What I advocate is a test. An exam given by the state, written by college professors and psychologists, psychiatrists and even parents, one that would cover an extensive area showing the maturity and advancement of the individual. They could be scored by a staff similar to the one that wrote the test.

Young Mark and his sister, Nancy, know it's fun to shop at any of the three Beyer Rexall Drug Stores where everybody's friendly and they can find just what they want, right away. Their parents, Jean and Bill, agree — and they also know what other advantages result when they rely on the Beyer team of nine pharmacists to serve their family needs. The family knows that nearly 4,000 times a month their friends and neighbors rely on the Beyer team to fill their prescriptions. Mark, Nancy, Jean and Bill know that shopping at any of the three Beyer Rexall Drug Stores means the best of everything for all the family, all the time. (Yes, Taffy, even a dog's life is better when the family shops at Beyer.)

The Plymouth
Community...

Your heart says it's spring. You can see it in the budding trees and the depth of returning greenery.

You can feel it in the air.

You can hear it in the cheerful chirp of birds.

And with the return of Spring, activities in The Plymouth Community quicken.

There is more doing, more humming, more buzzing.

All of which you can read about in the fresh and sprightly springtime pages of the Plymouth Mail.

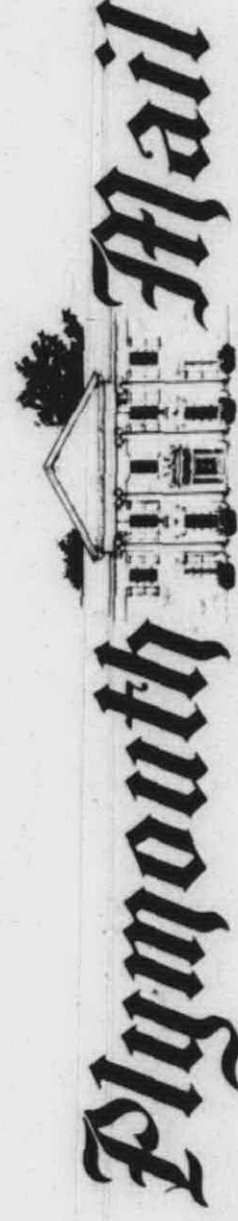

There's women's news and sports news and news about people you know and columns and editorial comment and pictures, pictures, pictures, in the bright and sparkling style of a community newspaper that's too busy serving the Plymouth Community to worry about other areas.

And there's springtime advertising news from Plymouth business places.

Why miss out on all this activity?

A Plymouth Mail carrier boy is eager to deliver it to your door for just 35 cents a month. He'll be contacting you in the next week or so.

On the other hand, if you just can't wait, call 453-5500 and have springtime delivered to your door..

"Where The Plymouth Community Comes First"

Pancakes are good, and the brother of the gal on the cover of this special section agrees. He is Doug Parshall and he likes to eat his pancakes informally. Susan Dotseith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Dotseith of Livonia prefers a fork for eating. But forks or fingers, pancakes are great. Kivnians served 977 people, just under last year's record turnout. Their grocery list looks like one from an army post: 312 pounds of sausage, 40 pounds of butter, 530 half-pints of milk, 25 pounds of coffee, 5 pounds of sugar, 200 pounds of pancake flour and 15 gallons of syrup.

Symphony seeks new members

SYMPHONY BOARD members met earlier this year in the panel-ed executive room of the Schoolcraft College administration building to map out plans for the May membership drive. They are David Wood, Harold Guenther, Jack Moehle, LaVerne Jones, Robert Sincoc, Wayne Dunlap, Sam Hudson, Arthur Haeske, Mrs. Donald Graham, Mrs. Herb Woolweaver, Mrs. Roger Zerby, Mrs. James Warren and James Thomas. On the board, but not pictured are Mrs. Dean Manley and Mrs. Arthur Larson. Sam Hudson is coordinating the drive this year and has just completed publishing an 8-page booklet outlining the Symphony's contributions to the community.

James Thomas is a six-year housewife with four children, for the Plymouth Community Symphony resident, is married, has two children and belongs to Rotary and the Chamber of Commerce. He is married and has 2 children.

LaVerne M. Jones works for Michigan Bell, and has been responsible for some of the staging needed for concerts, and works on concert arrangements.

Robert Sincoc, ex-mayor, is in the real estate business, is married, has three children and belongs to Rotary. Director of the Plymouth Office of Consumers Power.

Mrs. Arthur Larson, a housewife with four children, is the family membership chairman of the board.

ment groups seeking industry asset, the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, will begin its once a year search for membership next week, looking for a record $15,000.

Known all over the state as one of the best, and certainly the largest, community orchestras, the Plymouth Symphony can assemble 100 musicians for a performance. This is only slightly smaller than the professional Detroit Symphony.

Plymouth is the smallest community in Michigan to support such a Symphony — and support it gets, to the tune of an average of $10,000 a year.

Memberships are open to anyone and are broken down as follows:

- Active $7.50
- Supporting $15
- Sustaining $25
- Patron $50 and over.

The course of the Symphony is in the hands of well-known director Wayne Dunlap. Membership is organized into a 14 member board of directors. They represent a cross section of active Plymouth minds, and their names read like a who's who of the area.

Here is a brief introduction to the board:

At the helm as president is Arthur Haeske. He plays bass in the orchestra since 1953, is married, has two sons, and works for Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

Evans Product's public relations director Sam Hudson is vice president of the board, a member of Rotary and the Chamber of Commerce. He is married to Jessie Hudson, an art teacher at the High School. They have one son, a sophomore at the California Institute of Technology.

Mrs. Robert Woolweaver is the board's secretary, is married and has four children. She is a charter member of the orchestra and plays cello. Her husband is director of the adult education program at the high school.

Treasurer of the group is David Wood, owner of a welding company in Detroit.

Other members include: Harold Guenther, president of the E.Z. Sew Enterprises, married with four children, is a member of Rotary and active in community develop-

Grow your own fruit

DWARF FRUIT TREES COME TO THE aid of homeowners who want to produce tree-ripened fruits even on small plots. A simple plan for planting can be drawn up on paper, as the plan above. Figure eight to 10 feet apart for dwarf fruit trees, six inches to a foot for strawberry plants, three feet for raspberries, two to three feet for blueberries. Diagram from American Association of Nurserymen.

Dwarf trees, if available in the type of fruit, are preferred by many families as they require less space, less time to come into bearing, and they are easier to care for. Fruit trees spraying with a simple bromone-type sprayer takes only 15 minutes every ten days or so. Dwarf trees require little pruning, sometimes none. Success of the home fruit garden depends first of all on proper planning. For information on the types of fruit-bearing trees and shrubs suitable for planting in this area, consult a local nurseryman. He will be able to help with suggestions for planting and care of the home fruit garden. State extension departments, too, are often a good source of suggestions.

Planned planthood

What do people think when they see your home, either in passing or in visiting? Often the home may be judged by neighbors and friends on the basis of its landscaping and the pleasing effect landscaping imparts to the property. The value and saleability of a home depends to considerable extent on the first impression of the property as a whole, with good landscaping enhancing the value.

Primary points for good landscaping include excellence of design, according to the American Association of Nurserymen. A well-designed planting takes advantage of the topography of the site to create a beautiful picture from any vantage point on the street side, in the rear yard, on the terrace, or looking at the side borders of the property.

It capitalizes on good views and screens off unsightly vistas. It ties the house to the ground in such a way that it delights the eye, as living plants, sun, earth and sky and house become part of one composition.

Adequate shade should be provided at the time of day you want it, and exactly where you want it. Flowers and foliage, roses and perennials are placed for enjoyment in just looking, or so the blooms can be cut to brighten up the indoors.

Proper landscaping today takes into consideration garden or outdoor living that has become increasingly popular in the past few years. The garden living area is planned with both outdoor entertainment and recreational features.

Families move outside for fun

The great migration to the great outdoors is on again! Families don't have to travel far, however, to enjoy the benefits of relaxing comfort and invigorating activity out of doors. Nowadays, more and more families are making sure that the outdoor life awaits them right outside the back door.

Like indoor living, outdoor living requires planning for maximum enjoyment. Terraces, patios, decks, shelters, screened or otherwise enclosed dance areas, while youngsters want to play games, what is the local weather like? Extra protection from rain or sun may be needed.

At what angle does the sun hit the yard at the time the outdoor living area is most likely to be used for sports? Is a longer season for outdoor living important to the family? Choosing a sunny spot for the terrace, deck or whatever will extend use into the early spring and late fall, while moveable sunshades can offer protection from the mid-summer sun.

Both patios and decks are increasingly popular as outdoor living areas. Patio is the name applied to any open space area, which may or may not have a covering or floor, while decks are a variation on the patio.

A deck can be a small platform for use as an outdoor dining area or larger for more diversified use. At ground level, a deck with a raised platform might be a way to level uneven terrain. Above ground, a flat roof or other platform can be converted into a deck to take advantage of a view. Roofing helps to keep decks and patios cleaner and protects outdoor furniture from the elements. Moveable sunshades offer the option of sun or shade, as preferred.

Outdoor shelters can be constructed to suit the family's preference. They can be ornamental structures such as tea-houses, gazebos, pavilions or "A" frame structures. Pavilions are usually shelters leading into decks and provide protection from the elements and a margin of privacy while allowing a view of the garden, pool area or deck.

Gazebos, those tiny garden retreats grandma used to love, have made a quiet comeback in many different sizes.

Frequent vacuuming will not harm your carpet, contrary to popular belief. It will serve to keep grit and grime away from the base of the carpet, where it cuts fibers and causes wear.

Your carpet should be vacuumed once a week and professionally cleaned once a year, according to the experts.

A trip to upcountry libraries

Peace Corps Volunteers have come to realize that traveling by train in Sierra Leone can be an unforgettable experience. Yet that is how I chose to go upcountry shortly before Easter. Visiting and directing the operations of branch libraries in 11 towns scattered throughout Sierra Leone are two of the tasks included in the title "branch librarian" which was recently added to my growing list of responsibilities at the Sierra Leone Library Board.

Kenema and Kailahun in the eastern part of the country topped the list of libraries due for visitations. And since three other volunteers were going to Kailahun for the holiday, I made plans to go with them. Because the distance is so great, we decided to travel by train.

The train here is a picturesque sight for steam engines are still used. Narrow gauge tracks two and a half feet wide and steel trestles also add color to any trip.

While traveling by rail passengers have a choice of first, second, or third class seats depending on how much they can afford to pay. We chose third class rates.

The train leaves Freetown one day and returns the next. Thus people have no choice but to leave with it on alternate days at 5:45 a.m. One problem at this time of morning is finding transportation to the railroad station.

We walked down deserted streets for ten minutes before we spotted a taxi with the driver sleeping inside it. Once aroused from his sleep, we were able to persuade him to leave the two companions sharing the cab as a bed behind and drive us to the station.

Lon Dickerson

One person in our group had forgotten to buy a ticket beforehand. Thus additional minutes were wasted at the ticket window.

In the meantime the train left without us.

Luckily our frenzied cries brought the train to a screeching halt several yards beyond the railway platform. Not willing to risk another scene, we boarded it with only three tickets. Within half an hour we were able to locate the conductor and purchase from him, at an increased price, a fourth ticket.

Schoolboys going home for the holiday made the train crowded. But the four of us were able to squeeze into an empty seat designed for two people. As the distance from Freetown increased the train became less congested and we all eventually found seats.

Loud conversation between passengers prevented sleep. And exercise was hampered by suitcases, baskets of bread, produce, dried fish, and live chickens which filled the aisleway.

There are 28 stations along the 180 miles of track between Freetown and Kenema. Since the train we were on was labeled "express," we made brief stops at only about half of them. At each stop mummies and sellers laden with oranges, bananas, avocados, soft drinks, palm wine, and other assorted goods offered their wares to passengers through the train windows.

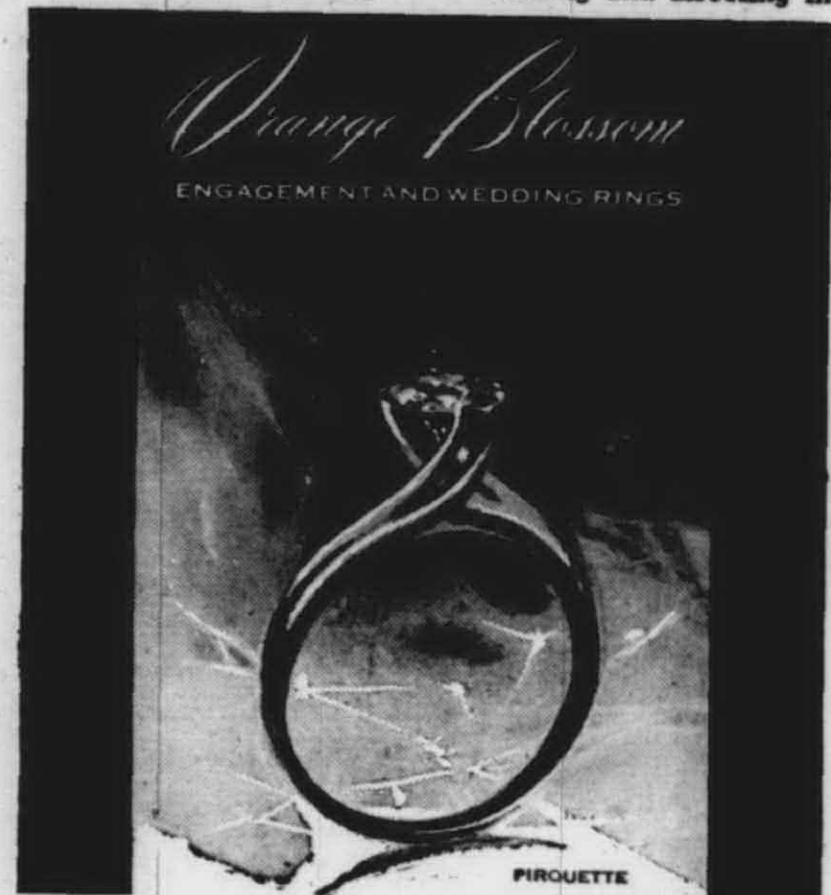

Thirteen hours after leaving Freetown we arrived in Kenema, having covered less than 14 miles an hour.

I completed my business at the Kenema library the next morning in ample time for us to go to Kailahun the same day. The railroad stops 40 miles short of there. Besides no train was going east that day. So we elected to complete the journey by lorry.

But that is another story which space doesn't permit to be told now.

Pang of fear
when tires squeal

Jacque Town

Spring has finally sprung, or so it appears. Even though I have yet to see any flowers blooming or other more obvious signs, nonetheless there are clues that clearly declare warm weather upon us.

The most noticeable signs are the hot-rodgers driving up, down and all over the residential streets. I refuse to allow myself to say, "those teenagers" knowing that the majority of this age group are good drivers and considerate citizens. Instead, so the wrath leveled at me may be a little lighter, I say "SOME of the teen-agers."

I have a small child who is, like every other child, very precious to her mother, and each time I hear the squealing of tires and the speed stick-shift, when she is not in front of my own eyes, my heart literally stops. It's a pretty sure bet that every mother has felt the same pang of fear.

We all wonder what we can do about the joy riding racers who besiege our area on week-ends and after school. We are advised to call the police and give the license number of the car, but often it is impossible to obtain that small number when there are many times we can barely distinguish the color of the car as it travels on down the street at 80 miles an hour.

Very seldom do I feel as though I could physically attack someone, but each time I hear a roaring car, I have a strong desire to throw a shovel at it. Something has to be done to control these maniacs, and maniacs they undoubtedly are, for if they had a normal brain, they would see where this type of thing can lead. I only hope, as does every parent, that the child they kill won't be mine. If it is mine, I don't know if I would be able to turn the other cheek.

Perhaps stop signs and limited police patrols just aren't enough. Maybe raising the age for a driver's license is the only answer. Or possibly, before issuing the license, the applicant should be made to visit the emergency room of a hospital and shown all the things that can happen to his fellow human beings, and himself when an automobile is used in a matter-of-fact, or careless manner.

I fail to understand the motive behind all this race track driving. I honestly wish one of the offenders would explain what kicks they derive from the "sport". It obviously costs more to operate a car when driven in this manner, and I doubt that anyone would knowingly allow their daughters to ride with a boy who was a speed-artist, so surely it can't be to impress the girls. Even if that were the prime reason, isn't it a fact that the car has the power and not the boy? Anyone sitting behind the wheel can floor it, so what's the big deal? The time at the moment of this writing is 10:45 p.m. However, the brakes continue to squeal, and the roaring goes on. We can hear all this and not one police siren through it all.

Plymouth needs more police. The merchants have voiced, and others have said it. Now a concerned and worried parent adds her voice. As a beginning toward that end, I extend an open invitation to any member of the City Commission, or any public official to spend one afternoon and evening in the vicinity of my home and see for themselves what we mean. Anyone interested?

Newcomers Club

PREPARING HER PORK CHOPS recipe is Mrs. John R. Scott of Bradner Rd. The Scotts moved to Plymouth about eight months ago after having lived in California for a year.

Trefoil doings

For the April training session, the girls preparing for Roundup, went on a weekend campout.

The purpose of this weekend was to see how each patrol could work and function together as one unit.

Pitching tents, setting up kitchen units, preparing their meals and finishing lashing were among the activities for which the girls were responsible. Each patrol also had to inspect all equipment to be sure it was there and in good working order. They then were shown the correct procedure to use in packing kitchen boxes, tool boxes and duffles.

As this campout the girls were also given the opportunity to present their demonstration as they had planned to do it at Roundup.

Along with their jobs the girls also had evening programs with skits, campfire songs and a Scouts' own.

Come to Church Sunday

Ever thought about that word — its deep, stirring meaning? We start out as part of a family. And even though we know we are "little" it doesn't matter. We are part of the family—that's important. And what we will become—the family is looking out for that!

Then one day we are grownups. And again we are part of a family. But now we are "big." Oh so big! For what the rest of the family will become—that depends on us!

How important a part did the Church play in your transition from being little to being big? Well, in this free land, the chances are good that you grew up spiritually as well as physically.

But, even if you didn't—it's not too late! Not only can you see your children off to a free and fine education; but you can come with them to church... where the "little" and the "big" learn of GOD... where the truth of Christ's teaching guides the destiny of THE FAMILY.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL

ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Shucks!

Here we were set to tell you all about the snappy new things Rambler has come up with, like the Marlin, our hot new sports-fastback, and optional reclining bucket seats and anti-fade disc brakes, and two kinds of floor shifts, manual or automatic, and our big choice of hustling new engines... then we got this flash news—

Rambler American 440 wins Class B... 25<sup>65</sup> m.p.g.

Beats all other large-engine compacts in Mobil Economy Run

USAC

Use of Mobil Economy Run data approved and certified by the United States Auto Club

A Rambler American 440, with three-speed Flash-O-Matic transmission and peppy 125-hp Overhead Valve Six, has won its class again in the 1965 Mobil Economy Run.

And it won this victory over the roughest, toughest, longest, fastest course the Mobil people have come up with yet. Over 3,200 miles of sizzling desert, snow-capped mountains, gas-wasting city traffic, high-speed turnpikes.

But Rambler's got a lot more—the lowest-priced* U.S. sedans, wagons and convertibles... high resale value, proved by Official Used Car Guides. See how smart and sporty the Economy King can be—at your Rambler dealer today. American Motors—Dedicated to Excellence.

*Based on manufacturers' suggested retail prices—American 220 sedan and wagon, 440 convertible.

Best economy of all cars, all classes, 4th straight year
