

Panel sees more community co-operation in offing

Canton Township supervisor Louis Stein and treasurer Philip Dingeldey expressed their willingness to co-operate with any study of uniting basic services of area governments at a meeting before the Kiwanis club last night.

They both agreed to co-operate with any steps the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township might take towards a study of uniting basic services.

In what may have been an historic panel discussion between City Commissioners George Lawton and James McKeon, Township officials Dick Lauterbach and Elizabeth Holmes, and Canton Township's Stein and Dingeldey, an informal agreement was reached that a study of uniting some basic services might be considered in the near future.

Lauterbach agreed to the study, and said:

"Yes I favor a committee to study areas of future cooperation. But carrying it to the extent of consolidation I would say is a little premature." Lauterbach said he felt the best procedure would be to work out police and fire consolidation will be a natural."

Township treasurer Elizabeth Holmes called for an independent study of the problem.

"OUR OPINIONS are all too ingrained. But we could live with the results of an independent study. I don't think the committee should be made up of local citizens." Dingledey said: "Canton has established its willingness to cooperate . . .

A lot of our people are interested in the Plymouth Community. They shop there."

"We'll talk any time. We certainly want to co-operate," Stein said.

Commissioner McKeon felt governmental units involved should concentrate on specific problems; "tackling one at a time. For instance, if this area had a full time fire department it is very possible fire rates for industry could be lowered."

Commissioner Lawton said he favored a plan that "could gradually furnish the populous areas with greater services," and favored an "orderly expansion of services as requested."

The entire discussion was part of a special program sponsored by the business

Workshop still needs building

Plans for a sheltered workshop for mentally retarded in the Plymouth area are in the final stages and need outside financial help.

A community center to pinpoint those needing help, particularly teens and young adults, has been established by concerned citizens of Livonia, Northville, Redford and Plymouth.

This organization is seeking information on handicapped of all ages. If you know of a child or young adult who might benefit from this program contact Mrs. Alice Mohrhardt, 42314 Hammel Lane, or write Box 304, Plymouth, giving the individual's name, location and nature of handicap.

All interested participants will be contacted. A facility which could be used as a workshop is needed. It might be an empty house, (Continued on Page 2)

Canton man tired of cemetery vandals

In the shade and solitude of a little plot of ground southwest of Plymouth rest a handful of people that died a long time ago, most of them before the turn of the century.

They lie in a sun speckled cemetery on the corner of Gyle and Ridge Roads in Canton Township and the only way we know they are there are the assorted gravestones, which have been the victims of several years of vandalism and destruction.

Some of the people here died hard.

Take the three young men who fought with the Michigan volunteers in the Civil War—the Eddy brothers. Clark Eddy, age 24, died in a Petersburg, Va., hospital. William Eddy, 21, fell in battle at Fredericksburg; Willard, 25, died in battle at Williamsburg.

The cemetery has been more or less under the care of a nearby resident, John Schroeder, and his neighbor across the road, Tom Alexy.

Countless times they have chased rowdy teenagers out late at night, and, as many times, gone in the morning and upright overturned gravestone.

think about what this means."

He is surveying the most recent damage to the cemetery's gray and aging stones when he made this comment.

He said he hoped some group could help him put up a fence to keep out troublemakers; keeping up the cemetery is more than the veterans groups coming out once a year and putting tiny American flags on the appropriate stones, he feels.

Schroeder pointed out where whole rows of stones had been kicked over, and he finally walked over to a large monument that had been toppled by the fun seeking teens, and read aloud the three names of the Eddy brothers who died in the Civil War.

"Whatever happened to our sense of tradition?" he asked.

Schroeder is not a dogooder, nor does he feel a tremendous religious impulse toward the graves or the people there.

HE IS JUST a man stuck with guarding a bit of this area's history, and wishes some other people would take an interest in what happens there.

Calhoun to build on Plym. Rd.

Leo Calhoun, who had been unsuccessful in finding a site in the City for a new building for his Ford dealership, was before the Plymouth Township planning commission last week seeking rezoning of a plot of land on Plymouth Road between Eckles and Haggerty.

Calhoun told planners that he had an option on approximately 14 acres, but needed it rezoned from M-1, manufacturing, to C-2, commercial. The site is acceptable to Ford Motor Co., according to Calhoun, and will be the location of his new auto showroom and service garage.

Calhoun explained to the commission that the facility would employ several new workers, and that it would be "ample for present and future needs."

Commission member Maurice Breen called the move a "desirable development for the Township." A public hearing date was set for mid-June, and an opinion ordered from planning consultant W. C. Johnson on the proposal.

IN OTHER ACTION, the planning commission reviewed

Two killed, three hurt as open convertible flips over, crashes

Two Plymouth youths were killed and three others critically injured in a two car crash on the corner of Beck and Ford Road Thursday.

Dead are Earl Thomas Yorch, 18, 47495 Warren Rd. and the driver of one of the cars, John Bridgman, 21, 42475 Postiff Drive.

In critical condition as of Friday were Robert Yorch, 20, Larry Bannis, 515 Starkweather and James Johnson, 15, 9208 Elmhurst.

The driver of the other car, Donald Tartoni, and his wife Gloria, of Kokomo, Indiana, were treated for minor injuries and released from Wayne County General Hospital.

The accident happened about 11 p.m. Tartoni was traveling west on Ford when Bridgman's car failed to stop for a stop sign on Beck. Tartoni's high-powered sports car hit Bridgman's convertible broadside, flipping it over. The car landed upright in a rocky creek bed on the north side of Ford.

All the passengers in Bridgman's car were thrown clear; Bridgman was pinned under his car, and died instantly.

Bridgman's car was badly damaged as it slid through a guard rail, down the embankment and came to rest.

Thomas Yorch was dead upon arrival at the hospital; his brother Robert 'Cody' Yorch was reported in very serious condition, and in danger of losing one of his limbs as a result of the accident.

State police, who investigated the accident, reported that the passengers in Bridgman's car were tossed out like sticks of wood, and scattered over the immediate area.

The area has a clear view from both ways. Police said they were investigating the possibility of alcohol being involved, and had turned that part of the case over to the Wayne County medical examiner.

TWO WERE KILLED, and three others critically injured when this open convertible flipped over and landed in a rocky creek bed, last Thursday. The car was hit in the side, flipped over, and landed upright in the creek; the driver of the car was pinned beneath his auto.

City holds property tax line for fifth year

The City gave final approval to next year's general fund budget of $772,346, marking the fifth year in a row that all services have been maintained without an increase in tax millage.

Commissioner George Lawton took the opportunity to praise the rank and file City administration: "They have done an extremely good job in running the City."

Basically, the budget is the same as last year's, with less money appropriated in some of the bigger funds — administration, public safety, building and structures, and parks and recreation. The money has been shuffled into the unappropriated reserve, and is the result of several overages projected by the end of the fiscal year in June.

A GENERAL SALARY increase for City employees was set aside to be studied by September, with any pay boosts retroactive to July 1.

The new accounting system has led to some headaches in determining exactly what money was needed where.

This marks the first year on the new system, and the budget has been drawn on the basis of the last 10-month period.

Next year, acting City Manager Kenneth Fisher expects to have a year and a half projection to work with.

Some talk had circulated about either cutting services or cutting the budget; neither was considered according to Fisher.

In general, the budget remains the same, with slightly more money expected this year than last. Most funds have been cut back to some extent, giving the Commissioners a larger unappropriated amount than usual.

The much talked about youth officer may come up at the next meeting, according to Fisher. Funds have been available for the officer, but Fisher said he was waiting for direction from the Commission based upon new budget considerations.

THE OFFICER would handle youth problems in Plymouth. The budget considerations may also hold up certain of the proposed street projects, as the Commission waits to see how much money is expected to be left from last year's budget.

About $75,000 is expected to be available. Of the $772,346 budget, $472,050 comes from spreading the tax millage over the tax rolls; the rest comes (Continued on Page 2)

YMCA asks aid in summer jobs

The YMCA employment service is in full swing, seeking summer employment for Plymouth's high school and college students.

In an open letter to the professional people of Plymouth Community, John M. Hoben, guidance counselor at the High School, and one of the prime movers behind the employment service, asked for the community's help in providing jobs this week. Hoben wrote:

"The Plymouth YMCA in co-operation with the Plymouth Community Fund has undertaken the task of providing work experience for Plymouth youth between the ages of 16 and 25. As you are well aware, this age group makes up a sizeable share of the unemployment statistics on both a national and local level.

"MANY OF the problems of juveniles are compounded by the increase of idle time brought about by unemployment. This age group is particularly unlimited in talent and has a distinct desire to produce.

"The purpose of this letter is two-fold, basically to alert you to the service and secondly as an appeal to you, the citizens of this community to help in solving a local problem.

"You may take an active part in this program by providing a work station for one of our youth. No job is too big

Good teens

Young Jeff Cardinal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Cardinal, 585 McKinley, has won his fight for life after a near-fatal carbide accident three weeks ago on Ann Arbor Road.

But he remains in the hospital paralyzed from the chest down, and has lost the use of one of his eyes. There is a slim hope that the next six months may bring back part of the life in the lower part of his body.

In the meantime, many Plymouth teenagers have been helping the Cardinal family by doing what Jeff normally did.

They have come over on Saturdays to mow and rake the lawn and they have walked the dog.

Some even conducted a campaign to get young Jeff elected all-school treasurer — a campaign he started but never could finish. The campaign was successful, and the youngster is PHS's new student body treasurer.

Mrs. Cardinal thanked all the teenagers involved for their help so far.

"They pitched in and helped, and we really appreciated it," she commented.

Have drill, will travel to Liberia

Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Van Ornum of Maple Ave., and their son David are leaving Plymouth June 29 for two months work in Liberia, West Africa.

Van Ornum will practice dentistry at a mission station and his wife and son will be teaching school. David is a junior at Houghton College, N. Y. and plans to enter Christian education, according to Mrs. Van Ornum.

They will be working with Baptist Missions headquartered in Monrovia, Liberia and will be stationed about 40 miles from the capital city.

Although this is the Van Ornum's first such experience, Mrs. Van Ornum said several of their friends have participated in similar projects and found them rewarding.

In a nutshell

* Bruce Allen, 23, of Livonia was injured seriously when his car went out of control on the curve near the corner of Schoecraft and Wilcox Roads Friday evening. His car snapped off a stop sign, two other signs and then slammed into a tree. Sheriff's patrol officers report that he was traveling at an extremely high rate of speed.

* Robert Clogg, President of the Livonia Association for Retarded Children and Treasurer of the newly formed community opportunity center, will speak at the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce Business Men's Forum on June 3, at the Hillside Inn at noon. He will discuss the community opportunity center and its benefits to the mentally retarded young adult in Plymouth, Livonia, Northville and Redford Township.

* Rubbish will be picked up in alleys starting June 1. However, there are some alleys where people have piled brush and rubbish and these will have to be cleaned up by the people before they can be picked up.

Fall Festival has sound money plan

Last week a drive was launched to raise funds for the 1965 Plymouth Community Fall Festival, to be held from Sept. 9 through 12.

Fall Festival, for those who are new to the area, is the community's biggest annual event — a four day splash of activity that drew more than 40,000 persons last year.

Its purpose is to create a congenial, turn of the century atmosphere and to impress visitors that Plymouth is indeed a warm and friendly place.

The Festival grew out of a service club barbeque that served about 600 persons in its first year. On last September 13, a Sunday, Plymouth Rotarians with help from throughout the community, dished out nearly 12,500 chicken dinners.

The practice in the past has been to hold the event and then attempt to pay for it from contributions afterwards. Last year, the major service clubs and concessionaires were asked to contribute a percentage of their income from the Festival.

Even so, a deficit had to be made up after the Festival was over.

This year, we think the Fall Festival Committee is taking an approach that shows forethought and perception. They are seeking $5,000 from Plymouth Community businesses, industries and service clubs to provide advance funds for Festival operations.

With these monies and their budget of $4,125 planned ahead, the committee will be able to lay more adequate plans.

This week, representatives will be calling to pick up pledge cards sent out to over 350 individuals and organizations.

The Plymouth Mail wholeheartedly endorses their efforts.

If the Festival is to continue to grow and prosper and, at the same time, maintain its flavor of non-commercialism, those cards should pledge the funds sought.

The Fall Festival has gained a wide reputation as a pleasant wholesome event — well worth attending. Let's keep it that way.

Last Friday I sat in on a Plymouth service club meeting where Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Company's President, Charles H. Bruce, accepted a Michigan Week plaque on behalf of his firm.

Bruce is the tall, spare, blond executive who headed last year's successful Plymouth Community Fund Campaign. In accepting the award he expressed customary words of thanks for such recognition and then threw in a unique thought. The exact words slipped rather quickly through the gaping aperture between my ears, but the essence remains. It is this:

"We want to thank Plymouth for letting us be an aggressive organization in a time when aggressiveness is not always looked upon with favor."

Hear, hear!

I am the kind of guy that respects polished aggression; and Alexander Hamilton has displayed a definite talent for it. From the day they opened their doors in Plymouth, this group has shown a sense of awareness.

Their open house, held slightly over a year ago, was a well oiled exercise in aggressive precision and activity since that time has obviously been equally well organized.

After all, you don't sell 80 million bucks worth of insurance in a year without a little pre-planning.

In short, Alexander Hamilton deserved the plaque. They should get some sort of award for community beautification too.

I don't mean the remodeling they've done. Hang around on Penniman Avenue some afternoon when their office staff goes home and leer at the pretty girls.

I get lonesome down there all by myself.

Community newspapers have had a propensity through the years to use the public for a crying towel. I would not do that.

But a word of explanation is in order. The basic fact of life is that, to show black ink at the end of the year, a newspaper must maintain a given ratio of advertising to news.

Most publications shoot for 65 per cent advertising. Some go as high as 70 and those who have no second class postal permit go higher — even hitting 75 per cent and above.

Here at The Plymouth Mail, we try to maintain something between 60 and 65 per cent.

But once in a while we get more news than we can print.

When that happens, we have to leave things out of the paper.

Our readers don't like it. Advertisers don't like it.

Non-advertisers are sometimes quite vocal about not liking it.

And I don't like it. Fortunately, it doesn't happen too often.

Based on telephone calls received last week, a couple of people are tired of what they seem to think is the Plymouth Mail's over-preoccupation with human rights.

One guy, whose conversation ranged from the profane to the obscene, expressed disapproval of a story carried in the Plymouth Community School District's creative arts section, published with last week's newspaper.

"I'm gonna boycott your crummy paper," he threatened. "After all, who supports you — the niggers or the white people?"

Another caller reassured me that he was not prejudiced.

"I am not anti-Negro," he said, "and I am not anti-Semitic. But I am sick and tired of seeing a page and a half each week devoted to the racial situation."

"All I read about are Norman Thoburn and Tom Healy and (former) Mayor Wernette." He suggested that "other prominent people in the community" felt the same way.

I will cheerfully admit that, in recent months, the Plymouth Mail has consistently reported the activities of the Plymouth Assembly for Equal Opportunity.

But that's what it's been — reporting. We didn't invent the stories.

The accounts of P.A.E.O.'s activities have appeared here because they revolve about efforts of a local group to educate themselves about the most pressing social problem in the United States of America.

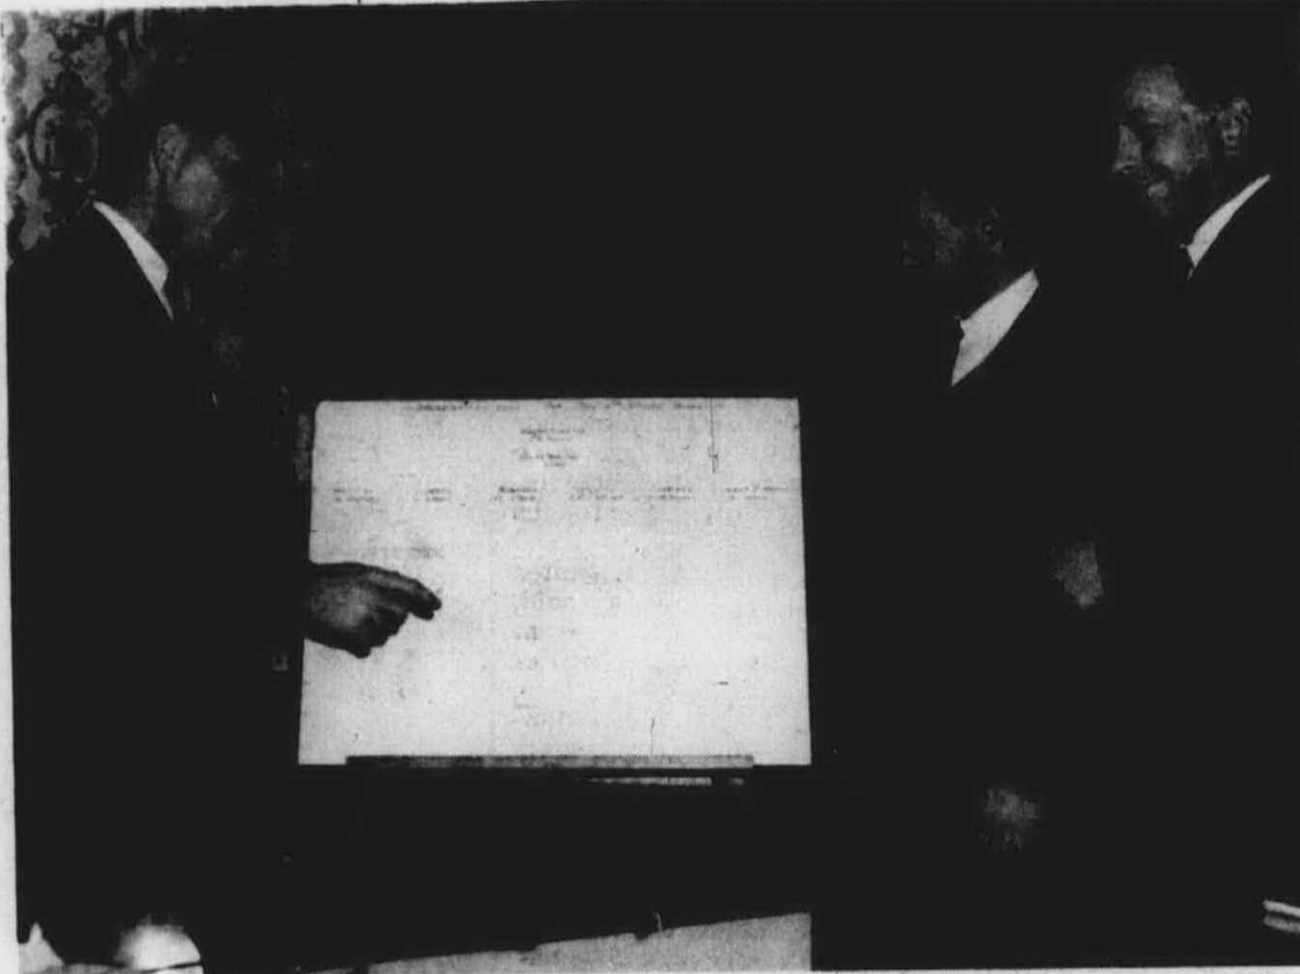

I would not deceive you into thinking I am an intimate of the "prominent people" in this community. But I rub elbows with most of the area's business and governmental leaders in the course of my work.

I have gotten no great groundswell of dissatisfaction.

And even if I had, I'm not so sure — in all good conscience — that I could ignore the subject.

It's been centuries in developing at the national level and, even though we've been trouble-free locally, it's not about to go away.

LETTERS:

Mail sticking nose in where it's not wanted

Dear Editor:

You have been sticking your big nose where it doesn't belong for too long and I think it is about time someone told you off.

There are plenty of things that are good here in Plymouth without you always poking fun and criticizing the things that we have that are so good.

I just get sick when I read some of the stuff in your paper anymore. I have been a resident of Plymouth Township for many years and things have always been pretty good until you began stirring them up with all your talk. My neighbors that own land out here like it out here because their property has low taxes.

Really I don't know what is the matter with you down there. You have news in your paper no self respecting paper would have. It makes us look bad when you write things about things like the dam that came apart.

Like the article a white back about the man that said we should let Communist China into the United Nations when everyone knows it is a Red organization anyway. And why are you always writing about the Colored people??? We don't have any colored people in Plymouth and we always haven't had any trouble here in Plymouth.

One of the first things we heard about was the continual fight between the city and the township. We think the whole thing should be brought out in the open for public view. The new people like us and several others we know would like to hear all the issues explained.

One of the first things we learned was that taxes were higher in the city than the township. We live in the city and would like to know why our taxes are higher.

We understand taxes have been kept lower in the township because several people have wanted it that way because they own land they want to build houses on.

Also, we were told that land on one side of the street in the city was assessed 12 times as high as land across the street in the township. How unfair can you get!

If this and other things are true, they should be brought out so everybody could have fair and equal taxes.

It's not fair for us to pay more to send our kids to school than the people across the street.

IF YOU really want to do a service for Plymouth, why don't you stop the school people before they start teaching all our young people about sex. There is too much sex in the world now without our school teaching about it.

And that pilgrim column. I don't know how anyone could write the atheistic things he does. That's probably the poorest column I have ever seen and it shouldn't be printed.

Please try and improve your newspaper. It sure needs it. Don't print my name because I wouldn't want my friends to know I wrote to you.

ed preliminary plans for a 56-unit apartment development on the land next to, and behind, Plymouth Bowl on Plymouth Road.

They moved to accept the plans and discussed parking considerations, as well as the road inlet, which will become a county road.

Commission member Tivadar Balogh called the plans "good; architecturally."

The land is already zoned multiple.

The planners also approved the preliminary plans of Twin Arbors subdivision, then moved on to consider new apartment units proposed by Fred Greenspan.

The new units, involving 16 one-bedroom units and 96 two-bedroom units, are to be located next to his present Lake Pointe Village development.

Johnson quickly reviewed all the elements of the plan, and indicated approval of them.

The planning commission complimented Greenspan on his work so far, and agreed to O.K. his preliminary plans for buildings F, G, H and J-1, J-2 and J-3.

Plans for a proposed shopping center on the corner of Haggerty and Ann Arbor Road were laid aside when a development representative reported he could not come to the meeting. His plans call for six stores, a super market, a 24-lane bowling alley, and a branch bank.

THE PLANS FIRST came to light at the Board of Trustees regular meeting two and a half weeks ago, at which time Robert Welder sought a liquor license for the bowling alley. He was told to wait, while the planning commission acted, and the board studied all license requests now before them.

The commission also agreed to list for public plans submitted by Postiff Estates for the land behind Plymouth Stamping Co.

Very truly yours,
M. Patrick.

History

Museum-on-Wheels, the Michigan Historical Commission's new history mobile will be on display in Plymouth June 5-6.

Parked in the parking lot between the Historical Society's museum and City Hall, it will be open both days from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

There are 19 chronologically arranged displays which illustrate the colorful story of Michigan's development from prehistoric times to the present.

Valued at over $50,000 the historymobile has been developed through the cooperation of Michigan businesses and industries who contributed all equipment and supplies; 14 museums cooperated in preparing the displays.

The exhibit is being sent to communities throughout Michigan free of charge, as a service of the Historical Commission.

Plymouth Historical Society, whose members will serve as hosts and hostesses, made arrangements for the event; Sidney Strong was in charge of the project.

Detroit water plugs for new review of facts

EDITOR'S NOTE: The subject of Detroit water for the City of Plymouth has been discussed at great lengths in recent years. However, because population in this area is drastically on the rise, The Plymouth Mail felt the matter deserved another look at this time.

By DOUG JOHNSON
Mail News Editor

The Detroit department of water supply has always felt that their position had not been given due consideration by the City of Plymouth, and recently stepped up their campaign to bring the issue before Plymouth residents again.

Tom McPhail, senior publicist from the department of report and information, was in town recently to explain the Detroit water position.

The possibility of Detroit water will become an actuality this fall, when the Detroit water line is completed down Sheldon Road to Five Mile.

It is here the Township hopes to hook up and provide water for its industrial sites along Sheldon, and it is here that the City of Detroit hopes the City of Plymouth may hook up.

McPhail said he felt several times in the past that the Detroit water issue had not been clearly explained to City water users.

HE RAN down the points he felt should be considered and answered a series of questions that had been put to him about the subject:

- The so-called tremendous expense was a rate of $1.46 per 1000 cubic feet, or 19.5 cents per 1,000 gallons.
- To gain comparable softness of Detroit water, residents are spending about $6 a month more for softeners; they would not need this with Detroit water.
- The indecisiveness about rates is not true, McPhail noted; the city was given a firm rate in a letter in December, 1962.
- They cannot raise the rates extensively without notice; if they do, Plymouth has recourse to the courts.
- That the water is contaminated is also not true, McPhail noted, because of the Detroit purifying system.

McPhail also said the rates were set by a seven member water board with three of the members coming from the suburbs.

McPhail concluded that since water was now available from Detroit, Plymouth ought to take another look. Detroit water would end softening problems, a lot of the rust color problems and be cheaper in the long run.

The City view of Detroit water has always been wary. Superintendent of the Department of public works, Joseph Bida, commented on McPhail's remarks and called them, at best, "one-sided."

"WHY GIVE them our $2 million investment? The value of their system will go up."

"We asked them for a rate at night to fill our new reservoir. They said no."

Bida noted that Detroit's offers were never firm, and had centered around verbal discussion.

"We also asked for two hour notice if service was going to be interrupted so we could put our own well in standby condition. They didn't go for that." Bida is frank about his position:

"Sure, it would be a relief to get Detroit water here; I'm the guy that gets he raps. But we have better water."

Other things the City asked for were denied, Bida said. "We wanted Detroit water at one point; we would run our system from there on. We wanted our own storage to meet our own peak periods. We didn't want to give them the right to go down any street they wanted to."

As far as softening goes, Bida noted that he knew people in Lake Pointe that had Detroit water, but still needed a softener.

DESPITE ALL these objections, Bida felt that at some point these problems could have been ironed out. But one thing remained in the way—an already extensive local debt for a water system.

The City currently owes about $500,000, and would have to sell water at about 45 cents per 1,000 gallons to get Detroit water, and pay off current debts.

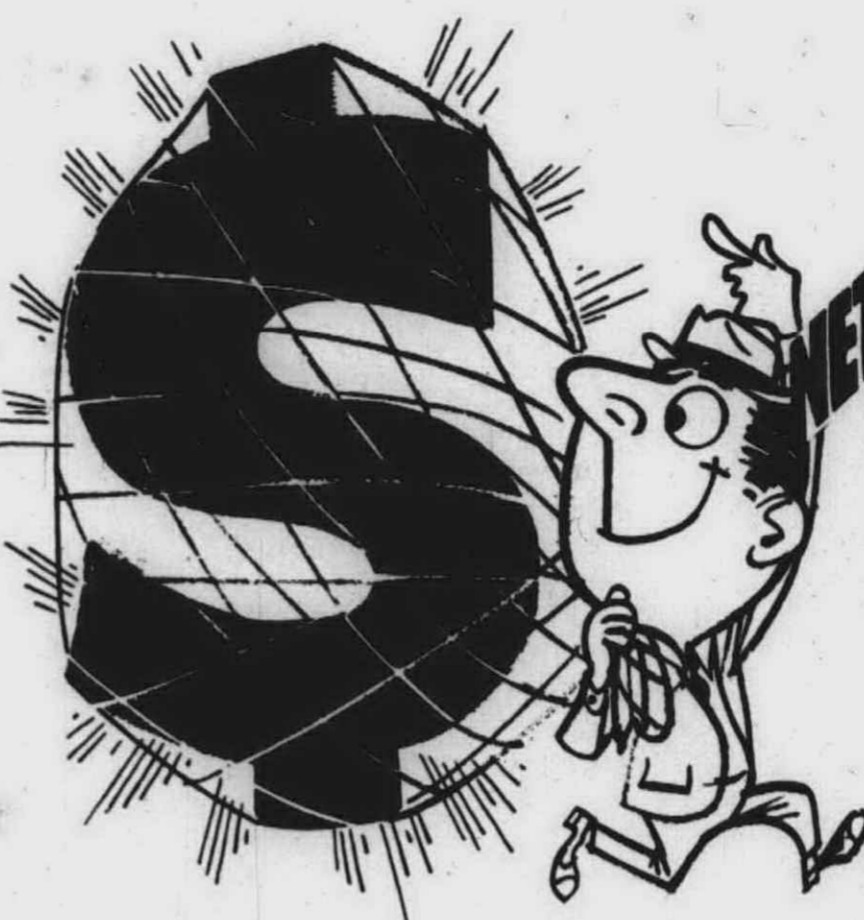

There also exists some fear that the City might lose some of its big industrial customers, especially Burroughs Corp.

"They wouldn't guarantee any pressure," Bida said, "and we never knew from Detroit where our booster would be."

Bida points to the following factors about the issue:

- Recent tests showed that City wells could produce enough water for the City into the far distant future.
- Detroit water has recently come under fire because it is the subject of a Federal war on river pollution, and had been called a "200 million mess" by the Detroit Free Press. Detroit water department head Gerald Remus had labeled the federal plan "foolish."

The issue of Detroit water has been a standing one for several years. It was the subject of a lengthy report by the University of Michigan in 1963.

large garage, a heated barn, a vacant store, or an empty building of any kind. The workshop is a nonprofit charitable organization and needs a low cost or free building. Anyone knowing of a facility is urged to contact John M. Murawski, 453-0106.

Finally, immediate financial aid is necessary. Once in operation the workshop might near a self-supporting level; however, usually additional help is needed, according to Murawski.

The community opportunity center is soliciting individual and family member donations from all local businesses, service clubs, churches and local governmental agencies. Individuals can help with donations, time, and recommendations. The group has indicated it must hire a director immediately if it hopes to employ its first mentally retarded and open the community workshop by Sept. 1, 1965.

and public affairs committee of Kiwanis, and was moderated by Carl Pursell. Questions were asked by Dave Wiley, editor and general manager of the Plymouth Mail, and Richard T. Thompson, a managing editor of the Livonia-based Observer chain.

Thompson questioned Lauterbach on the police force for the Township, and asked if present police protection was adequate.

"Probably not" Lauterbach replied. "There hasn't been a demand for more policing. This is going to come in the near future. We are definitely going to have to provide more protection."

Stein also noted that police in his Township would be forthcoming in another two years.

Both Lauterbach and Mrs. Holmes felt the government move slowly, and in the words of Lauterbach are "going to have to adjust the citizenship to this type of thing."

The subject of a central fire department was brought up and the possibility of making the City of Plymouth a central location for a fire department, but Stein noted that insurance companies insist the areas be no more than five miles from the fire hall.

He noted, however, that he thought the law would allow a joint authority.

Other discussion centered on co-ordinating the master planning efforts of three governmental units in some way. The idea was rejected to some extent by Mrs. Holmes, who objected to a "lay committee being lines of communication between professionals."

ment proposal for that strip of City street.

"The widening of that road does not benefit the individual owners and businesses along there."

Lawton also moved to "take a close look at assessing procedures," particularly since the City traffic flow is changing so much.

It was decided to send this, and the proposed widening of the Harvey street stretch between Penniman and Ann Arbor Trail, to the planning consultants for further study.

The question of acquisition of land also is involved, and may hold up the project for this year.

The City also decided to set aside plans to pave part of Maple street after receiving a written petition from about 85% of the property owners involved seeking to stop the proposal.

The rest of the street projects were approved, and the drawing up of the assessment rolls ordered.

The action on Main St. and Harvey was held up pending a study of the Area Redevelopment Plan, a study which had been sought earlier in the month, particularly by Commissioner James Jabara.

In other action, Ex-Mayor Richard Wernette was appointed Chairman of the Human Relations commission to replace Carrol Munshaw, who resigned recently.

Mrs. Robert Adamowski

Joanne Izett, Robert Adamowski speak vows May 22

Joanne Iva Izett became the bride of Robert Edward Adamowski in a double-ring ceremony, May 22, in St. Thomas the Apostle Catholic Church, Ann Arbor. The Rev. Patrick Jackson performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart Izett, 11749 Priscilla Ln. Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin S. Adamowski of Chicago, Ill., are the bridegroom's parents.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a bell-skirted, floor-length gown of silk linen. Venise lace medallions edged the scooped neckline of the dress and extended to the hemline on both sides of a satin insertion.

Her triple-tiered veil of imported French silk illusion was held by a crown covered with venise lace medallions and seed pearls.

She carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister Judy Izett of East Lansing. Mrs. Richard Paulson of Belleville, and Mrs. Richard Ireland of Cheboygan, were bridesmaids. They all wore gowns of yellow linen with nymph green bodices. Their headpieces were fashioned of matching linen circlets and net.

Miss Izett carried a basket of white daisies and Mrs. Paulson and Mrs. Ireland carried baskets of yellow daisies.

The bridegroom's brother, Benjamin H. Adamowski of Palatine, Ill., was best man. Seating guests were William Troutman of Lyndhurst, Ohio, and John Pappas of Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Izett selected a matching sheath and coat of beige linen lace over antique gold for her daughter's wedding. The bridegroom's mother wore an ensemble of pastel blue textured fabric.

month's trip to Europe.

They will live in the Chicago area where Mr. Adamowski will join the firm of Adamowski, Newey and Riley. Mrs. Adamowski, before her marriage, was head nurse of orthopedics at University Hospital, Ann Arbor. She is a University of Michigan graduate.

Her husband graduated from University of Michigan Law School earlier this month and was a member of Barrister's Club. He did his undergraduate work at Cornell University where he was affiliated with Chi Psi social fraternity.

Plymouth State Home Auxiliary holds meeting

Officers of Plymouth State Home and Training School Auxiliary's Advisory Council elected at the May 18 annual meeting are Mrs. John McIlhargie, moderator; Mrs. Gene Niles, secretary; and Mrs. Edward Meredith and Mrs. Henry Breneman, treasurer.

Harry Baltuck, president-elect of Parents' Association for Retarded Children, presented a $300 check to the auxiliary at that meeting.

The funds will be used for annual operating expenses and award pins, thus eliminating the necessity of annual dues for auxiliary members.

More than one-third of the active membership attended the meeting. George Ebling, Jr. gave the welcoming address and Walter Kenzie, business executive, spoke about current and future building programs at the school.

New books at Dunning-Hough

Among the new books at Dunning-Hough library are the following according to Mrs. Warren Worth, librarian. "Louis XIV" by Vincent Cronin is both a biography of the French king and a study of the influence of his personality on the events of his time.

"A History of Michigan's Thumb" is written by Gerald Schultz. The author used original sources in gathering little-known facts about the area. A map of places of historical interest is included.

"The flight of the Falcon" by Daphne Du Maurier is the story of a man who returns to his native village in Italy in search of a clue to the identity of a murdered woman.

"Vacation and Travel Photography" gives practical advice on cameras, lighting and color, with special emphasis on taking pictures of characteristic people, rather than scenery.

"Make Room for the Jester" by Stead Jones, his first novel, tells of the return of an alcoholic drifter to his native town in Wales and its effect on the townspeople.

"The Small Miracle" by Paul Gallico is the story of a small Italian boy. When his pet donkey becomes ill, he looks for a miracle to save him. "The Breath of Life" by Donald Carr reports on the menace of poisoned air in modern civilization.

"Countryman" by Hal Borland. The author of several successful novels gives the philosophy of values which he has developed during years of intimacy with the outdoors.

"Our National Parks in Color" by Devereux Butcher is a guide to national parks and monuments.

Netmen win regional

Plymouth netman had no trouble for the fourth year in a row winning the regional tennis championship Saturday.

The Rocks mowed down most of the competition, and ended up playing each other in the finals; this is not a new story.

Plymouth tallied 21½ points, the nearest competitor 8. Last year, Plymouth had won it with about 15 points.

Plymouth was matched with teams from Birmingham, Farmington, Bloomfield Hills, Berkley, Walled Lake and Rochester.

SIX CAN qualify out of the tournament for the state finals; Plymouth sewed up five of those qualifying places. Clark Raven, Jim Bruff, Rick Jones, Bob Waters and Dave Tidwell all will play in the state matches at Kalamazoo College June 4 and 5.

The matches were held at Cranbrook. The Rocks played what coach Jim Stevens termed "great tennis."

Tim Wernette and Robin Wideman were praised by Stevens for their play as were Steve Hulce and Charles Masten, who went to the semi-finals and then were beaten by a Plymouth pair.

Rocks place 3rd in golf title shot

Plymouth golfers ended up a poor third in Monday's league meet at Western Country Club, despite a medalist effort by Bob Wall, who shot a 79.

The 79 gave Wall medalist honors for the league.

This will be the first year in six that the Rocks haven't been in contention for first place; last year they lost it by one stroke, two years ago they won the league; three years ago they lost it by one stroke, and two consecutive years before that, they won the title.

Trenton won the match with a 342, with Bentley coming in second, with a 347 Plymouth third with a 353. The league title will be fought out by Bentley and Trenton in the remaining dual matches.

OTHER SCORES for Plymouth were Tom Janicki, 92 and Jeff Griswold 96, both too high to help the Rock cause very much. Bob Beck shot a fair 86.

In other matches, Plymouth beat both Redford Union and Bentley, with Griswold shooting a 41 for low score, Beck a 45, Wall and Janicki a 43, last Monday.

Tuesday with Thurston at Braeburn, Plymouth won 160-169, with Wall hitting a 36, Janicki a 38, Beck a 40 and sophomore Neil Goodman a 46.

The victories had left the Rocks 6-4 for the season.

They had won six in a row before the league match, and may have a chance at second place if other league matches go as expected.

Driving range plans grand opening

Arbor-Joy Driving Range, on Ann Arbor Rd. at Joy Rd., will hold its grand opening celebration May 29-31.

Among the guests at a private opening May 21 were Plymouth Mayor James Houk who drove the first golf ball, and Mrs. Edith Renwick who suggested the name for the driving range.

Leonard E. Millross is the owner of the range.

Tidwell drew a bye for the opening round, then went on to win three and the regional championship for the second year in a row for his single play.

Earlier in the week, Plymouth dumped Northville on the courts 5-2, with Tidwell having to go three sets to win. The two losses went to Tim Wernette and Rich Wagar.

Then the Rocks shutout Bentley 7-0, winning all sets in easy fashion, and topped Ypsi Roosevelt 7-0 Thursday. The wins leave Plymouth 8-4 in the league.

Tigers

Plymouth Community basketball and baseball junior leaguers will travel to Detroit to see the Tiger-Cleveland Indian game Saturday, May 29 at 1:30.

Neal (Doc) Fenkell, public information official for the Tigers, made the arrangements for tickets for the game.

The Northville bus company will be taking the group to the game.

Junior league basketballers who signed up earlier should contact their coaches. The only cost for the youngsters will be the 50 cent bus fare.

All those going will meet at Junior High west at 11:30 and return there immediately after the game.

Contacts can be made by calling Joe Bida (453-1556, or Howard Oldford, (453-3360.)

MEMBERS of a bowling team sponsored by Stone's Texaco service on the corner of Joy and Canton Center won a first place in the new ball league tournament at Westland Bowl on Wayne Road last week. There were 16 teams involved. In front are Bob Carley and Bill Davis. In back are Ann Wietecha and Albert Wietecha, Garret Stone (owner of Stone's) and Linda Davis.

Johnson paces track win over Northville

Plymouth had little trouble on the track last week, as the Rocks clobbered Northville 82-27.

Dan Johnson led the way once again, netting three firsts — in the high jump, the broad jump and the high hurdles.

Plymouth won both relays, the 880 with a 1:35 time.

In the vault, Grant Fisher took a second, Bill Clyde a third. Jim Scharmen won a second in the high jump.

Pat Brady took a first in the shot, and Bill Cummins a third.

In the 880, Plymouth Plymouth swept all three places, and went on to take a third in the 440.

Don Burleson won the 100 yd. dash, with Dave Jordan taking a second.

JV standout Bill Nelson won the 220 with a 1:24.1 mark, with the Rocks also taking second and third. Dennis Tonkovich placed second in the 180 yd. low hurdles.

TINKER, TO EVERS, TO CHANCE!

There are few around today who had the pleasure of seeing this famous baseball double-play combination in action some five decades ago.

But few there are who have not heard of this almost legendary trio.

In the community health area, there is an equally effective trio of prescription drug manufacturer, physician and pharmacist.

The game they play: Life and death.

The opponent: Human illness.

When the stakes are high, there is no margin for error, no time for the second guess.

That's why the members of this team, the community health team, are all professionals with a backlog of training and experience unexcelled anywhere.

That's why, when the pressure is on, they can respond with quickness and intelligence to provide the life-giving medications that can win the biggest game man ever plays.

New tracks snub nose at weather

Doug Johnson

A boon to trackmen has been on the horizon for a short while, and may well be on its way to becoming a universal aid.

In the past, when the rain hit a track it turned to a sodden and sloppy mess. But something new from science may help outdoor track headaches, indoor ones, too.

An all-weather track has been devised. Made of rubber or plastic, it has very low maintenance cost, and can dry off in ten minutes after a summer shower.

There are three kinds on the market. One, the Grastex track, is used in the Suburban Six league by some schools. A Tartan track, made by the 3M Company, is both plastic and rubber. A third is made of rubber and black-top.

All of them have tested out and proven two things. Track can be weather proof, and faster.

The tracks have been shown to be faster generally. Boosters of the tracks point to the fact that records can vary with the condition of the track, and these tracks guarantee a consistent standard.

A cinder track must be relined, smoothed and filled in constantly, all of which cost a high maintenance dollar.

These need no such repair work. Several colleges have followed the pioneer steps of Florida A & M, who helped develop the rubber tracks. The U of M will get a new one this year.

The savings are in the yearly maintenance costs — not the initial cost. That's very high.

In general, if Plymouth were to consider a Grastex track, between $50,000 and $75,000 would be involved. My figures are not official, and are based on personal guesses.

This spring more than ever showed up the deficiencies of a cinder track, and it might be well to consider such a track for Plymouth, someday in that great future when enough money is available for all projects. For those who want to take a look, take a trip to Belleville.

Several high schools have taken the plunge, and are reported very pleased, probably because they can do something about the weather.

Rocks shutout by Ru-3-0

Plymouth's nemesis on the diamond has been Redford Union this year; last week was the second time they had been beaten by Rick Berryman, RU's ace pitcher.

Plymouth lost 3-0, with a good effort on the mound by catcher Marlan Sutton. Coach Brian Boring had shifted Sutton into the pitcher position to give his two standbys, Dave Troutman and John Daniels, a rest.

Sutton pitched what Boring called a "good game," and may see more action at that position. He has been one of the Rocks stars this spring.

In the shuffle, Daniels was moved to first, Jim Arnold into Sutton's place behind the plate.

Plymouth rapped out five hits, all at the wrong time.

Plymouth, threatened in the first half after Bob Gotro singled, then was moved to second. But Gotro was thrown out at the plate as Jim Lake singled.

Redford Union rapped two homers, one down the first base line where there is no fence and ground balls seem to roll forever.

The game was for all intents and purposes a battle for first place in the league; a victory could have put Plymouth in a tie for first. As it stands, RU is the first place team, Trenton the second place team. The Rocks have been in the thick of the league battle since the beginning, but have lost four games, two to each of the league leaders.

Boring credited Sutton with a good job, and noted that Plymouth "would have won most of their games with that kind of pitching."

Earlier in the week, Plymouth dumped Allen Park, 6-4 with Dave Troutman getting the win. The Park scored three easy unearned runs in the third, and a fourth in the seventh.

Plymouth scored two in the opening frame, as Gotro drew a walk, Curt Irish rapped a single, Daniel sacrificed, and Sutton singled driving in a run. Mike Lockwood singled, and drove in a second run.

It was the same people who came through in the fifth, with Sutton and Lockwood singing, knocking in Trout-man. All together, three scored in the fifth. The Rocks capped the game with an unearned run in the seventh.

P. A. E. O. hears of suburb move-ins

A panel discussion featuring people who helped open up previously all-white neighborhoods to Negroes concluded the Plymouth Assembly for Equal Opportunity spring lecture series last Tuesday.

The panel was moderated by City Attorney Edward Draugelis, and included Jack Anderson of the Wayne Human Relations Council and Howard Coleman of the Southfield human relations group.

Anderson related the experience of the first Negro move-in—the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Phipps. Mrs. Phipps was also present for Tuesday night's discussion.

Andrews indicated that some bitterness accompanied the move, and windows were broken by rock-throwing neighbors. He said his group had "lended moral support, but left law enforcement to the police."

THE WAYNE incident became one of the tests of the State's new Civil Rights Commission. Commissioner Burt Levy, who spoke here before the P.A.E.O. recently, was present at the time the Phipps family moved in, and helped ease the tension.

Anderson termed the move-in one of the "most successful under pressure anywhere in the U.S."

Coleman told of the move of the Smith Carson family into Southfield. The tactics were less overt, but as effective, he noted.

They had some problems in securing their property beforehand. A house was built for them in a subdivision where homes sell for $45,000 and up, but their first problem was finding a bank that would finance a loan. When this was accomplished they had difficulty in locating a contractor who would build for them.

After overcoming this obstacle and with work under way, the builder began to have trouble with suppliers. When the house was finally completed, the family moved in without incident.

CARSON is a teacher at Garfield Junior High in Southfield, and his wife teaches in the Pontiac system.

After the Carson family moved in, the only evidence of bad feeling was directed at Coleman. He told how his telephone would ring every hour on the hour, starting at midnight, and continuing through the morning.

He stated that since he is a widowed retiree, living alone, it didn't bother him. "I simply sat by the phone" with a good book, answered each call—although no one was ever on the other end—and made up for lost sleep the next day. If someone were able to vent their spleen in this relatively harmless manner, I could put up with it."

The calls continued every night for two weeks, and are now only occasional.

Mrs. Phipps said she "would do the same thing again. All of us are human. It's not the color of the skin that counts."

Anderson noted that his church lost about 30% of its worshippers when it took an open stand on the issue.

Go Ahead . . . Go Cadillac!

Before you buy any car at any price, consider a Cadillac first of all. New or previously owned, a Cadillac is the one way to be sure your investment will buy the most and last the longest.

Whatever you have budgeted for your next car, your Cadillac dealer has a Cadillac to fit your plans. Naturally, if your choice were unrestricted, you would prefer a new 1965 Cadillac like the Sedan de Ville in front. Next best would be a late-model, previously-owned Cadillac such as the black 1963 Sedan de Ville, above. A well-maintained, one-owner used Cadillac is actually the only real rival of a new Cadillac. Because of the popularity of the 1965 model, your authorized dealer is the one logical place to go for the best selection of fine used Cadillacs.

NOON by the Chapel Clock

One... two... three. Four years Connie and I have listened to that deep, resonant chime counting off the hours of our college days. Sometimes it was just part of the setting at State—like the Commons, and the Quad, and Moonlight Walk. But often it called us to high moments of worship and thought and prayer.

Four... five... six. Today we pause, and count! Exams are over. Trunks are packed. Books are on their way back to the Library. Tomorrow—Commencement.

Seven... eight... nine. Again we're reading each other's thoughts. Let's walk once more through that graceful arch, hand-in-hand and smiling. Let's kneel together in the sacred stillness, breathing our thanks... our hopes... our needs... our dreams. For life and love await us. And these we will share with God! It is Noon by the Chapel Clock.

Ten... eleven... twelve.

ASSISTANT POLICE CHIEF Loren Johnson and Robert Cain, head of the Automobile Club of Michigan's office in Plymouth launched this year's "bring 'em back alive" campaign by putting yellow BEBA stickers on a police car. The campaign is part of a $100,000 safe-driving program started by the company last week.

Bad drivers won't change; need extra care for selves

Michigan motorists will be the object of a program of "positive action to encourage more and safer motoring" in the remainder of 1965, through a $100,000 statewide safe-driving campaign announced Wednesday, May 22, by Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Using the theme 'Bring 'Em Back Alive!' we have designed what we are sure will be the most far-reaching safety education in Michigan's history," Fred Rehm, general manager, said recently.

Auto Club hopes to get at least a third of the state's motorists to display "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" bumper stickers.

Most traffic safety education programs in the past have been well-meant but ineffective, Rehm pointed out.

"We think we know a great deal about traffic safety. But that is not so," Rehm said.

"There is a popular fallacy that the major source of traffic accidents can be traced to several minority groups," Rehm said. "They are loosely identified as: the negligent, the mentally and physically unfit, the drunk and the speeder."

"WE KNOW THAT 85 per cent of accidents are caused by human failure. So we assume that they are caused by a small, identifiable minority. And we aim everything at them with the public applauding our 'doing something about all those crazy motorists!'"

"But, although you and I, the 99 per cent of responsible motorists, drive safely 99 per cent of the time, it is we who cause most of the accidents by momentary lapses," Rehm pointed out.

"It is almost useless to appeal to the minority who are habitual bad drivers. They won't change. That's why the 'Bring 'Em Back Alive!' program will appeal to you and me."

"It will try to reach us through love of our family—unselfishness—to make us extra-careful. And extra is all the vast majority of us have to be to return safely," Rehm said.

"We make us extra-careful. And extra is all the vast majority of us have to be to return safely," Rehm said.

"BEBA won't stay home. It won't watch out. It will say go and have fun and enjoy Michigan; have a good weekend or a good vacation. But bring your family back alive," Rehm said.

Answer to 'I'm bored' - summer school

Worried about the kids being underfoot this summer? Plymouth Community Schools have a solution.

More school. The summer school program this year is like a three ring circus, with something for everyone. Under the direction of Gus Gorguze, the program will have classes for anyone in grades K-12.

Art and art workshops are offered for all grades, with three two-week sessions in design, painting and clay and sculpture. Sessions are two hours daily, $5.50 per week session.

A music program is offered in grades 6-12, in classes that meet three times a week. The classes will involve instrumental instruction and will be taught by James Griffith, Fred Nelson and William Grimmer.

Household hints from Plymouth homemakers

(Editor's Note: Want to know an easy way to solve a household or garden problem? Are a homemaker who will voice their tested solutions to various problems in this column each week.)

To give your children the thrill of receiving mail and to help them with their school work and you with vacation planning, Mrs. William Bevier of Pinetree Ln., suggests buying postcards and having the children send for travel information advertised in magazines from the various states.

As they arrive, place them in file folders and later you can find them as they are needed in school or vacation planning.

Mrs. Bevier also suggests covering wire coat hangers with left over dress material and scenting them. Then you know where your dresses are, she explained.

To make your drawers and closets smell nicely, Mrs. John Murawski of Greenbriar Ln., suggests making a sachet using an orange, cloves, otis root (available from a druggist) and cinnamon.

Cover completely the outside of the orange with cloves so that none of the skin shows. Roll it in otis root and cinnamon and place in a plastic bag for two weeks. Then it is ready to be used.

When you have small plants to water or plants in a hard to reach spot, Mrs. Robert Spayth of Morrison St., suggests using a meat baster to put the water where you want it. Do you know a way to make your housework easier and that you think others would benefit from? Or do you want to know how to do something. If you do, write it to the Plymouth Mail, signing your name and address.

the egg fight and then for- bid the skip day I don't feel the students should have necessarily gone in direct opposition, organ- ized anyway, and carried out their plans. They should have instead organized and brought their complaint before the high school administration, which lu- tens with some ears to any organized protests, but to the school board and their own parents.

An egg fight, like skip day, can be something that's great fun. It appeared in the Chi- cago Tribune as "Teens Stage Race Riot, Hundreds of Youth," and in various outside papers as "Teen- age coup," and "Teens Take Over Town."

The senior skip day has been another recent sore spot. When the official sen- ior skip day came up, the ad- ministration stepped in, where I must admit they have authority, and said the senior exams would be moved from the end of that week forcing them all to remain those ex- tra three and one half days that are usually allotted them in "compensation."

For not having a class trip or a skip day, this seems a rather poor excuse when Ann Arbor, to mention only one, has always had senior class trips, organized senior skip days, and gets out just as early as we.

When students have gone through high school for three or four years and a great many have missed a nominal number of days, and in their final weeks of high school they are denied one day, this, to me, is getting awfully petty.

When the school did ex- press their "viewpoint" on Greenfield's lawn sprayer, it was a real eye opener.

Adults reveal short memories in egg riot

The year is 1921. It is evening on a warm spring evening. In a nearby recreation area some older teens are engaged in a typical teen-age past time. Hundreds of rotten ap- ples, cabbages, and toma- toes are being tossed mer- rily through the air, hitting where they may, which many times was not on the grass. When the unwise did for fighting, and by midnight the area was clear of young people and their laughs could now only be heard in the distance.

The next day the town smiled on the amusing, and now annual, incident, but made sure the area was cleaned. Nothing more was said. Four or five weeks passed and the senior trip was over and it was time for the an- nual and traditional senior skip day. The seniors from the old high school jumped into what jalopies existed and trundled out to a nearby lake on what often ended up as a full day's trip. Between flat tires and avoiding bad pulled-holes the auto finally chucked up to a white, sandy beach.

BACK AT school life went on as normal, the world didn't stop revolving, the sun kept shining, and no one shot their old fuddy-duddy stacks. But it's not 1921 any more, were it's 1965 and many things have changed. There are few flat tires now and virtually no chuck-holes in our modern free-ways. There are far more automobiles but no senior class trip.

This is modern day Ply- mouth with its returned and refined attitudes towards a myriad of subjects. But with- out this little up-to-date town and many old-fashioned ideas, are many just in the minds of people who are trying to cover their memories or from those who are even more un-

Mike Ross

Mike Ross began to inas- tigate practices similar to the ones that their parents or grandparents had participated in. Today cabbages and tomatoes have been re- placed by eggs and quite senior skip day isn't quite what it used to be. But with these changes have come the fading of many adult's memories of their teen days.

The egg fight during the last week in April was a fiasco to all who participated or were remotely involved in it. No longer is the attitude, "Let them have their fun, they're only young once," carried by as many as it used to be. "We never did such things," and "It's dis- graceful, simply disgrace- ful." These are remarks from people who are trying to cover their memories or from those who are even more un-

The problem may be solved for the teacher but what about the welfare and education of the student? The provision for possible salary increases ($150,000) might be applied to these areas of special education, thereby providing a better over-all value for the taxpayers.

We had a citizens committee to study the financial needs of the school. Who is going to investigate the needs of the students? Perhaps it is time to closely examine our school's policy and the criteria used in regard to teacher qualifications.

The reason for apparent apathy of some teachers and administrators may be traced to outside real-estate interests. Meeting the fire codes is perhaps more important than their students. As one citizen expressed it: If they teach schools like they build buildings, no wonder we have problems.

Jeffrey Huntington, 302 Sunset a senior in the College of Literature, Science and the Arts owns the best undergraduate library among undergraduates at the University of Michigan.

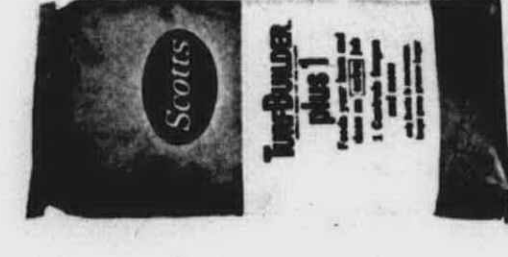

Huntington was declared winner in the William Warner Bishop contest by a panel of judges selected from the University faculty and Undergraduate library staff. His prize is a $100 U. S. savings bond, a gift of S. R. Shapiro, a rare book dealer in New York.

Paul Hamlin, of Plymouth, was named Regional Director of the Year and presented with a trophy in acknowledgment of the $40,000,000 volume produced by his agency. This first year volume enabled the company to pass 1200 of the nation's 1600 life insurance companies and rank in the top 400 companies nationally and third in the state of Michigan.
