

Board, teachers in accord

Plymouth teachers and the Board of Education's representatives have reached tentative agreement on a master contract for this fall, it was learned late Tuesday.

In a joint announcement, representatives from the teacher's sole bargaining agent, the Plymouth Education Association (PEA) and from Russell Isbister, superintendent of schools, it was revealed that all steps in the final process of securing a contract are:

- (1) The two PEA negotiators, William Kloote and Ray Homer, must return to their seven-man negotiating committee and seek their final approval.
- (2) The teachers must all vote to ratify the contract, a step Kloote and Homer feel can be handled before the end of the month, with a favorable vote.
- (3) The Board of Education must vote to ratify the master contract.

The announcement Tuesday indicated that Kloote and Homer, and Board representatives Isbister, and assistant superintendent William Harding had reached an accord and a tentative agreement on all issues. Details of the settlement of the contract will appear in next week's Plymouth Mail.

Both Homer and Isbister said they have every reason to believe the contract will be ratified.

"I think it is significant that we follow the letter of the law right down the line," Homer said.

"We are in as good a position to build unity here in this community as any community in suburbia," was Isbister comment.

All four negotiators told the Mail in a joint meeting that negotiations had been carried on a high level.

Isbister said each side gave a little on the positions they adopted at the end of the school year when the teachers turned down a Board offer, and said they would not teach in the fall without a master contract.

Isbister met with the School Board Monday night, and had received enough direction to reach the accord Tuesday.

The settlement rules out the use of mediation, which the PEA had requested if talks failed.

Harding called the settlement a "significant step" towards keeping Plymouth competitive with other schools.

Isbister said there would be no trouble financially meeting the new terms of the contract with teachers.

The PEA and the Board were apart on salary, fringe benefits, and class size terms.

ON THE CAMPAIGN route for votes in Plymouth was ex-Governor G. Mennen Williams, now seeking the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate seat. He was feted at Plymouth's Mayflower Hotel Tuesday morning at a meeting of candidates and party workers. Party members, from left, are Orville Tungate, George N. Bennett, Williams, Robert Dwyer, Earl Demel and Edward Draugelis (back to camera). Williams spoke briefly at the breakfast for television cameras, then left for a tour of downtown Plymouth, the Western Electric plant, and headed for a Democratic luncheon at Thunderbird Inn. As he sat down for breakfast, his first question was: "How does the election look to you?"

Township renews share in joint planning group

Plymouth Township has renewed its share of the expenses for the Plymouth Area Planning Commission and its director, Harold Fischer, despite some comments about Fischer himself.

The comments came from John McEwen, Township supervisor, and treasurer Elizabeth Holmes. Both expressed some concern over Fischer, but voted to renew the contract.

Twp. may allow Mango's to build

The battle between the Plymouth Township Board and Frank and Julie Mangogna took a different turn last week when trustee Richard Lauterbach suggested allowing them to build their new restaurant without the proper rezoning.

The Mangogna's currently run a tavern located on M-14 west of Plymouth near the M-14 - Ann Arbor Trail intersection. They want to replace the old building, but have failed in attempts to get proper rezoning for the site.

Lauterbach suggested at Tuesday's regular July meeting of the Board that a permit be issued for the proposed new structure, but the rezoning withheld.

"I'd like to have the attorney rule on this," Lauterbach said. "I have mixed emotions on this matter. I can understand why the residents wouldn't want rezoning. But I also must appreciate that the business was there before the homes were."

THE BOARD agreed to give the matter to attorney Ralph Cole.

The problem stems from a 1957 master plan rezoning which placed Mango's in a residential rezoning. Under law, for them to improve the present building, or to build a new one, rezoning is required.

The Mangogna's bid for rezoning failed last fall. They have owned the business since 1955. Residents in the area bitterly opposed their proposal for a new restaurant and lounge.

"When we pass these sweeping master zoning plans we create these non-conforming uses. Each should be considered on its own merits," Lauterbach said.

Mrs. Elizabeth Holmes commented on the move to get an attorney's opinion:

"I don't oppose getting an opinoperative venture on the part of the City of Plymouth and the Townships of Canton and Plymouth towards enhancing the non-residential tax base of the school district.

Before voting yes on the matter, McEwen said:

"Mr. Fischer recommended eliminating the Township, the Canton and the City planning commissions. The first step he takes when he's appointed is to try and take these rights away from us. He should not attempt to take away any of our prerogatives."

TOWNSHIP Trustee, who is a member of the Area Planning Commission and the one who put the matter before the Board, said there had been a problem of personalities.

"But Harold has been straightened out on a lot of things," Garber explained. Fischer had submitted a list of accomplishments with the request for continuation of the Township's share of the expense. It was Mrs. Holmes who commented on that:

"I'm not hedging on personalities, but this list of accomplishments I have to take with the grain of salt. Spartan Stores went to a real estate agent who took them to the Bunyaes. Ford... we all know how that worked out. Vico Products, they had been looking for a place."

Mrs. Holmes was referring to the announcement of a Spartan Stores food handling warehouse, of the Ford heater and air conditioner plant, and of the Vico Products expansion plans, all

Taxis split City over rate boost

The Plymouth City Commission is still divided on what to do about taxi service in Plymouth.

Checker Cab Company's request for a rate hike was tabled by a narrow 4-3 margin at the City father's regular meeting Monday night. Commissioners George Hudson, Robert Smith, James Houk and Jim Jabara voted yes to Hudson's motion to table the matter.

Hudson's reason for tabling was to study taxi service in other communities served by Checker Cab Co. He said he would support a rate increase if the other communities who have voted the boost—were getting service.

"Our concern in this is service. If the study shows service is good in these other communities, I would support the rate increase," Hudson said.

Checker rate increases have been approved in Livonia, Farmington, Northville and Redford Township.

THE OTHER cab company in Plymouth, Mayflower Cab, was the brunt of complaints about leaving the telephone off the hook. John Florence, owner of the local company, said he had taken the phone off the hook to get some sleep because he

For sale: half-done building in City of Plymouth

Need a 32,000 square foot half finished industrial building?

The partly finished shell of a building located in the City's Industrial Park along Plymouth Rd. will not be finished by the owners of the site, Wheel Trueing Co., and it's for sale.

The deal for the land was made several years ago, and after several extensions granted by the City, a new owner took control of Wheel Trueing. It was decided not to finish the building, and now both the uncompleted shell and the 7.76 acres of land is for sale.

The site is thought to be excellent by industrial developers because it fits many requirements: paved heavy duty roads, sewer and water. City manager Richard Blodgett explained the City's stand:

"Wheel Trueing could finish the building, move in in one day and sell it, thus fulfilling their agreement. We'd rather have a tenant who will stay, who will have a payroll and pay taxes. And if Wheel Trueing completes the structure, it might not meet the new owner's specifications. In its present condition it is a lot easier to modify."

THE PHONE number of the Plymouth Area Planning Director Harold Fischer will be on a sign advertising the site for sale.

The City granted Wheel Trueing numerous extension, dating back to 1961 and 1962. However, the recent change in the company's owners has left the building unfinished.

Two city commissioners, James McKeon, and Jim Jabara are working on negotiations for the sale of the site, along with Blodgett.

McKeon said the City's position on the extensions had been lenient because the plan was such a tax jewel. The company dealt with precision tools, and among other things, industrial diamonds.

Blodgett indicated that a couple of leads had developed for the land and building.

PACKAGING EXPERTS:

New ideas come from old Alter plant

The gray unpainted clapboard building on Farmer St. near the rail road tracks has had a lot of tenants. In 1916, the plant turned out Plymouth's contribution to the automotive industry—the Alter Car. The company only lasted a short while before folding.

Now, in 1966, Tower Industries occupies the building and turns out folding cartons, like the one your tooth paste tube comes in, for instance.

The company, headed by Henry Golab, is in the highly technical business of packaging. They print and die cut folding boxes and cardboard packaging materials. For instance, they make light weight boxes for small Chevrolet parts, doing the printing and cutting.

THE COMPANY has printed point of purchase displays for Bell Telephone Company, made boxes for Firestone, run one million tooth paste cartons for General Laboratories in Minneapolis.

Golab, in a written release, describes what his company does:

"To meet the need for responsible, creative market-oriented packaging for industry and retail merchandising, Tower Industries Incorporated opened in January of 1966."

The new owners of the Alter Car building installed new heating, new wiring, a new concrete floor, and will paint the outside soon.

"We hope to add equipment and soon have about 30 people working here," Golab said.

The building sits on four acres of land, and covers rounding negotiations is the money the City invested in utilities. The price the company paid did not include development costs, which were added when subsequent sections of the park were sold to other firms.

And, according to Blodgett, there was no written agreement for payment by Wheel Trueing at a later date.

The land was sold at $3,500 an acre, but with the utilities, the building, and increases in real estate values, the land price has gone up threefold.

The City, according to Blod-

Twp. to vote on incorporation

The incorporation of about half of Plymouth Township into a full fledged city will be on the August 2 primary ballot.

Governor George Romney signed the charter last week for the City of Plymouth Heights, and forwarded it to the charter commission chairman Maurice Breen.

The publication of the Charter in this week's Plymouth Mail was the final step assuring it a place on the ballot.

Voters, if they vote yes on incorporation would form a city that would extend from McCumpha Road east to all Township boundaries.

It is given little or no chance of passage, and has long been regarded as merely a holding action against annexation attempts from the City of Plymouth and Livonia. Both are in prime position to annex industrial lands along Plymouth Rd.

As long as incorporation is in the attorney general's office, the Township will not face annexation proceedings.

Virtually no attempt is being made by the Charter Commission to get it passed. Chairman Breen is currently on vacation for two weeks.

This will be the third vote on the Charter. In July of 1963 it was defeated 658-46. In 1961 the vote was overwhelmingly against incorporation, as only 35 said 'yes' and 1588 said 'no.'

Just in case it does pass, however, current Township officials have filed for office in the new municipality.

If the Charter vote approves a city, Ralph Garber would be elected municipal judge, Dick Lauterbach would be a councilman, Mrs. Elizabeth Holmes would be treasurer, Mrs. Helen Richardson would be clerk, Gene Overholt would be a councilman, and John D. McEwen would be mayor.

All are members of the Township Board.

McEwen in effect has been mayor de-facto of the proposed City for some time.

Besides Breen, John Murawski, Harlan Hickerson, William Green, Jr., Martin Schomberger, Robert Richardson and Daniel Evans form the charter commission.

Murawski has acted as secretary of the group.

Among the provisions in the charter:

(1.) Generally, all the rights and powers delegated to home

In a nutshell

★ Detroit Mayor Jerome F. Cavanagh's campaign for the U.S. senate will come to Plymouth Saturday, July 23, via an old-fashioned whistle stop train. The train will stop at the C & O depot at 8:20 p.m., after a barnstorming tour of Pontiac, Easton, Durand, Owosso, Pawama, Grand Rapids, and Michigan State University. The train will carry about 140 Cavanagh supporters, including a number of sport and entertainment personalities.

★ Austin Stecker and Maurice Breen were re-appointed to the Plymouth Township planning commission last Tuesday by the Township Board, for three year terms. Two other vacancies on the planning Board remain open, with the Trustees still looking at possible replacements.

★ Billy H. McFarland, 16, 253 Blanche St., was injured slightly when his motorcycle rammed the rear of a car turning off Main St. into the High School last Wednesday night. Young McFarland's bike slid under a car driven by Mrs. Christabelle King of 15780 Haggerty Rd. No tickets were issued. Police say a witness reports Mrs. King was signaling the turn, stopped and McFarland tried unsuccessfully to avoid her.

★ Michigan maps are still available free at the Plymouth Mail office, 271 S. Main St., at the front counter.

★ A new Board—the Refrigeration Board of Examiners—was appointed Monday night by the City of Plymouth City Commission. Kenneth Fisher, city aide, and William Ray will represent the City; Jules Eder and Cameron Lodge, Sr. will represent the licensees, and Joe West the users of refrigeration.

Optimists nipped by Garden City club, protest game

McK's Partyville of Garden City nipped the Optimists last week, 5-4, but coach Cliff Burpo has the game under protest.

Burpo filed a protest apparently over the game time and rule that suggests game time is forfeit time if a team fails to show. He feels Partyville came too late.

Ron Boyne pitched for the Optimists, and after four walks in the fifth inning was relieved by Jack Robertson.

Partyville scored all five runs in the fifth. The Optimists opened up with one run, after Ron Ross singled. After an error and a flyout, Dave Prochazka scored Ross.

In the seventh, Boyne singled, Mike Lockwood drew a walk, Ross rapped a single, and Mike Clinkhammer singled, scoring the other three Plymouth runs. Plymouth had eight scattered hits.

In the other game last week, the club took apart Dad's Club behind the three-hit pitching of Dan Camp, 10-2.

The Elk's lonely run came when Paul Carlson drew a walk and his brother Russ Carlson slammed out a double.

AT COLLEGE

Stenger named Dean of Instruction

Robert Stenger, of Plymouth, member of the Schoolcraft College faculty since classes first started two years ago, has been appointed Acting Dean of Academic Instruction for the 1966-67 college year.

His appointment was approved by the College Board of Trustees upon recommendation of President Dr. Eric Bradner and Vice President John Brinn.

Copies of Twp. master plan now on sale

Copies of the Township of Plymouth's Comprehensive Development Plan and report, recently adopted by the Plymouth Township Planning Commission, are now available at the office of Township Treasurer Mrs. Elizabeth Holmes, at $5 per copy.

After two years of intensive study and evaluation, the Township Planning Commission and Planning Consultants, Waring and Johnson, prepared this report in order to meet the problems of rapid suburban development and population growth, according to Township Supervisor John McEwen.

The plan and report includes the pattern and intensity of land use and the provision of public facilities, including transportation, together with long range plans for such development.

It also includes the programming of capital improvements and their financing, and the coordination of all related plans of departments and agencies; the preparation of regulatory and administrative measures to insure coordination, administration and updating of the plans and programs of the future.

"This report should be of great importance to any interested resident and landowner in Plymouth Township and that it provides guidelines and specific examples for Township officials that should help them do a better job in their continuing responsibility for provision of essential services," McEwen said.

Stenger joined the Schoolcraft faculty after serving five years at Plymouth High School where he was chairman of the English Department for two years.

He is a native of Beaver, Pa. where he was a star miler on the track team. At one point in his athletic career, Stenger was rated among the top five milers in the world, recording his best clocking in a meet in Cologne, Germany when he ran against the famed Roger Bannister and was third in 4:07.

Bannister will be remembered as the first miler to crack the four minute barrier.

Stenger holds a bachelor's degree from Eastern Michigan University and has taken additional work towards his master's degree.

He started his teaching career at Rogers City where he taught two years. Then he moved to Plymouth where he was a member of the staff for five years before accepting the Schoolcraft assignment.

Stenger will be on trial for a short time but Dr. Bradner indicated he would recommend a permanent full Deanship in a reasonably short time if his work is satisfactory - which he expects it will be.

makes the dies for the cutting at the plant.

"Since the advent of cellophane, the folding carton industry has had increasing competition from parallel packaging industries," Golab explains. "There is no limit to the area of opportunity. Success has to do whether or not you can sell ideas. New products for human consumption will require new packages. And new package construction in conjunction with automatic packaging equipment in many areas of the food field, the drug fields and other areas has not been touched yet."

"And more attention could well be paid to the trend toward increased use of vending machines," Golab added. "Vending machines in every way, shape or form have a high place in modern merchandising."

GOLAB is assisted by Ronald Salzano, who is vice-president of the firm.

Golab has acted as president of the Society of Packaging and Handling Engineers, Michigan chapter. His background includes several years in this field. He has lived in the Detroit area many years.

"What is needed is a creative approach that fosters new ideas on how to solve customers' marketing problems through improved packaging," Golab said.

Tower Industries has from single to four color process printing, a design and art department, vacuum forming, which is the transparent flexible plastic blister or bulb, that now is used to package some items, and folding cartons.

"We are a long way from having exploited all of the opportunities natural to paperboard and what can be done in terms of graphics, construction and, other values that can be built into packaging," Golab concluded.

Plans for the future include a larger press with four units, which means four colors can be printed on cardboard at once, and a second die cutting machine.

Progress at the plant that once made cars and now makes tooth paste cartons is underway.

(2.) The charter provides for a strong mayor system, with the chief executive receiving $10,500 per year, a clerk $9500 and a treasurer $8500. The mayor performs an administrative function, and would not be allowed a vote on the council. His broad power includes drafting the budget, recommending appointments, and suggesting local legislative programs.

(3.) A council in the charter is made up of seven men elected at large, who are paid a small sum for each meeting they attend. Their powers include ordinances, planning and zoning, public safety, public works and parks and recreation.

(4.) A municipal judge would be elected for four years under the charter.

(5.) Sections dealing with taxation and borrowing power are also included in the charter. The annual general ad valorem tax shall not exceed one per cent of the assessed value of all real and personal property subject to taxation.

(6.) Other broad powers granted in the constitution to home rule cities, such as rights to form a utility, are written into the charter.

The ballot proposal reads: "Shall the proposed Charter for the City of Plymouth Heights drafted by the Charter Commission elected on September 1, 1964, be adopted? Yes. No."

What would happen to the rest of the Township should the charter pass is not spelled out by Township officials. Another Township government would have to be formed, or the area taken into the City of Plymouth Heights.

Dissolve Twp. Fire Admin Board

The Township Fire Administration Board has dissolved itself, following the appointment of a full time director of public services.

William Burr, veteran Detroit fireman, assumed all the duties the Board had performed over the past few months.

Chairman Mel Troyer, and members Clayton Koch and Richard Wagar voluntarily dissolved their board.

The Board was appointed in January, 1965, and served as a recommending body to the township Board on administrative questions governing the fire department.

The Plymouth Pilgrim
By DAVE WILEY

Shortly after former U. S. Rep. George Meader of Ann Arbor suffered defeat in 1964 at the hands of present Democratic Congressman Weston E. Vivian, it became apparent that Meader would make another stab at winning the seat.

If the public didn't know, it was obvious to newsmen when Meader got himself named to a committee in Washington and began sending out releases on his activities.

So it came as no surprise when he announced. From a purely personal standpoint, however, it came as a disappointment; for I had hoped that the man who lost the primary by a two to one margin in Plymouth would retire gracefully.

But Meader, though he took a pasting here, racked up a lead over former State Senator Stanley G. Thayer in district-wide balloting and went on to conduct a general election campaign that sickened and disgusted me.

The former Congressman, of course, was accustomed to appealing to a primarily rural district where anti-federalism, anti-atheism and anti-communism combined with pro-motherhood and prayer-in-the-schools were guarantees of victory.

It didn't matter that his attendance record in the House was miserable and that he voted against his own party leader, Gen. Eisenhower, on the Republican administration's civil rights bill of 1960.

Indeed, Meader appeared here shortly after we inherited him in a redistricting move to publicly condemn pending civil rights legislation with the explanation that most of his electorate was incapable of understanding it.

He trotted out all of a political Music Man's sales gimmicks to tell us that there was trouble right there in River City on the Potomac — with a capital "P" and that rhymes with "C" and that stands for civil rights.

During the general election campaign, Meader burned up a raft of government postage with occupant mailings of Congressional Record reprints of a stirring oration he'd written in commemoration of his negative vote on the civil rights bill.

Oh, it was right out of William Jennings Bryan.

And now here we are again. Only the cast has changed slightly with Meader running against State Representative Marvin Esch in the primary.

But the script has changed markedly. Ol' George is bleating about a "strong, centralized executive government . . . with a weak Congress." And he gets in a few sobs about "one-party government" as though that were the fault of anyone but the former Senator from Arizona and the party he represented.

In his original announcement, the ex-Congressman — get this — went on record for "The equal treatment of all citizens regardless of race or color and the protection and preservation of their rights and liberties, both by the letter and the spirit of the law."

Isn't it wonderful what a flexible man he is?

Reaction to Meader's entry into the race has been varied, from expressions of outright nausea by individual Republicans to a commendably non-committal editorial published by one of the district's daily newspaper and re-printed and distributed by the Meader forces.

This monument to journalistic fence sitting and semantic indecision and vacillation notes that Esch will be stronger in the general election if he beats Meader, and that Meader will be stronger if he beats Esch.

"For Mr. Meader," the editorial notes, "a victory over Esch would remove some of the tarnish of the 1964 defeat and enter him in the fall general election on the crest of a victory, rather than in the aftermath of loss."

"The psychology of this," the editorial writer concludes with admirable perception, "will be extremely important." The newspaper finished its courageous analysis of the situation with this unctuous pronouncement:

"At this point it is difficult to guess, either way, but the 1966 congressional primary and general election in this area are certainly going to be among the most interesting in the nation."

Sure they are, Charley. It will be a compelling sight to see how well intelligent voters remember two years ago.

Will they cast their ballots in the primary for the old politician portrayed in idealized drawings in campaign literature?

Will they vote for a man who has consistently displayed a keen sense of political negativism?

Will they nominate a man with a sharp awareness of the worn out political cliches necessary to slide to past victories in a largely rural area?

Or will they vote for Marvin Esch in the primary?

Interesting, indeed.

The Ray Hulces and the Eugene Crosbys on their way to their seats in the pavillion.

Speaking of Women

Plymouthites visit Meadowbrook

A calm almost starless night saw a group of fifty people from Plymouth at the Meadow Brook Music Festival.

Last Friday night the group, organized by Mrs. Ray Hulce boarded a bus which took them to hear Van Cliburn play.

Mrs. Hulce is the district chairman for Meadow Brook, in Plymouth. She and her committee, Mrs. Arthur Larson, Mrs. John Moehle, Mrs. George Bauer and Mrs. Wells Smith decided the best way to interest people in Meadow Brook was to have them go there.

The group, which included the Harold Guenthers, the David McCubneys and the James O'Days, left Plymouth early in the evening, and enjoyed a leisurely dinner on the terrace dining room.

Then as the sun, instead of the stage lights, dimmed they sat on the grass to hear the clear notes of Van Cliburn ring out over the hill.

Most people simply bring blankets and sit on the hill overlooking the pavillion. These are sold first to season ticket holders, and after that on a first come first served basis to the general public.

Meadow Brook is connected with Oakland University at Rochester. The site was donated by Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson.

This is only the third year for the music festival, but its popularity is immense.

Dress is casual with many wearing slacks. But a sweater is a necessity when the evening cools and the breeze starts to echo the music.

The season runs from June 30 to August 20. So there are plenty of concerts left with such famous guest soloists as Issac Stern, who will be there in the early part of August.

Many well known works by such composers as Brahms, Tchaikovsky and Respighi are all coming up.

The last two weeks are somewhat different, the seventh week is going to be devoted to choral works. The eighth week will be the works of modern composers.

Lawrence Pesda, the bus driver of the people who went last Friday night asked to be quoted when he said:

"It's inspiring to see so many people in Plymouth who are music lovers."

Probably nobody who went wanted to inspire anyone, only to have an enjoyable evening.

Mr. Taylor graduated in June and is working on his masters at Central.

Miss McIlhargie

Mr. and Mrs. John A. McIlhargie of Jener Place announce the engagement of their daughter Janet to Donald Nickerson Jr. also of Plymouth.

Miss McIlhargie attended Plymouth High School and Schoolcraft College.

Mr. Nickerson attended Plymouth High School and was a Navy Hospital Corpsman in Vietnam.

At present Miss McIlhargie is a secretary for the Detroit News, and Mr. Nickerson is employed by Ford Motor Company. April 15, 1967 has been set as the wedding date.

Specialty of the house

Tasty sauce for chicken bar-b-que

Busy is one word that could easily be used to describe Mrs. John Jacobs of Linden St. In the four years that she has lived in Plymouth, the vivacious Mrs. Jacobs has given her support to many worthwhile projects.

Right now she is the president of the Episcopal Church Women, on the Symphony League Board, and a member of the Plymouth Panhellenic Association.

She was also quite active in getting the Colony Swim Club started, and is now on the membership committee for the club.

The Jacobs live in a pleasant colonial house with their three children Nancy, Jeff and Linda. It was by pure chance that they discovered the house. They were out for a drive one Sunday afternoon, with no intention of househunting.

Their house was then a model and they decided to stop and look. The next thing they knew they were making arrangements to buy it.

Mrs. Jacobs likes the convenience of being close to town. Originally from Birmingham, she finds Plymouth much the same pleasant small town atmosphere Birmingham did while she was growing up.

As a family the Jacobs enjoy sports. In the winter they often go skiing together. In the summer they turn to swimming.

Many of their summer meals are cooked outdoors. The recipe Mrs. Jacobs suggests is a sauce her family enjoys served over chicken.

Neighborhood children gather to see the pictures on view at Mrs. Burley's house.

Art show held on Irvin St.

Painting pictures on a rainy day may not be new, but Mrs. Robert Burley added a new twist when she decided to have an art show last Friday with the pictures.

"After three days of rain, and kids with busy minds and empty hands we started to do some painting," explained Mrs. Burley.

Once the painting was started the idea for the show was born. The first step was to interest as many as possible to enter. So some of the children, made posters announcing the show and marched up and down the street with them.

About 15 children entered pictures in the show. Most of the children had more than one entry.

The entrants ranged in age from 12 down to one year old Brenda Munding.

There were more than 25 mothers and children who came to see the fair.

They had a chance to view the original works of the children. And there were prints of famous paintings on hand, too.

Attracting a lot of attention were some watercolors by Mrs. Burley's friend Mrs. Thomas Spencer, the former Celeste Arjay of Plymouth. Mrs. Spencer who now lives in Rudyard, Michigan had worked in the same medium as the children, and they were quite impressed with what could be done with paint.

After the winners were chosen by a vote of all who were there, cookies and Kool-aid were served.

Mrs. Burley and a neighbor, Mrs. Glenn Aldrich were so impressed with all the interest shown they are going to try to have some kind of children's art show at the Fall Festival.

The Garlett house when it was owned by Mrs. Garlett's family before the turn of the century.

The Garlett house as it appears today. It was remodeled in 1935.

A maple tree planted before the Civil War shades one of the oldest houses in Plymouth.

Now the home of Mrs. Charles Garlett, it was originally built by Peter Fralick in 1841 or 1842 as a harness shop.

To the best of Mrs. Garlett's knowledge there are no Fralicks left in town, although Kenneth Harrison of Penniman Ave. is distantly related to the Fralicks.

Fralick, for whom Fralick Ave. is named, built the shop on Penniman Ave. about where Schrader's furniture store is. Exactly how long it stood there no one knows. But during its lifetime the house has been moved three times.

Sometime before 1860 the house was moved down the street to 968 Penniman. In 1860 Mrs. Sarah Van Vechten Shattuck, Mrs. Garlett's great-grandmother, bought the house.

Mrs. Garlett, as is appropriate living in a house so steeped in history, has a great love of the past and has kept excellent records of her family's history.

The Shattucks originally came to Plymouth in 1832 from Watertown, Mass. They settled down on a farm outside of town. That farm is now the Burroughs plant, the Hillside Inn and the cemetery.

Life on the farm was hard, and in 1860 Sarah Shattuck was a widow and decided to move into town.

She and her daughter Ella lived in the house for many years. In 1917 Mrs. Garlett's father inherited the house.

"The poor old house was moved again in 1923," explained Mrs. Garlett. Her father built a new house at 968 Penniman and moved the house to Church St. where it stands now.

Mrs. Garlett and her husband moved into the house. In 1935 they remodeled it. However the basic house still stands.

A walk through the house is like a walk through history. The window panes, which were hand blown glass and have bubbles in them are still at the window panes.

The front door was admired by Henry Ford and a representative of his offered to buy it from the Garletts.

Mrs. Garlett has hung old kitchen implements to decorate her kitchen.

Their dining room table dates back to 1838, and old Hitchcock chairs with the original rush.

On the bookshelf there is even a pair of real granny glasses which were owned by her great grandfather.

Two bound books contain the history of the Shattuck family, and on her mother's side the Hinsdale family. It is fascinating to look through these books to see the story of these two families since they came to this country in the middle of the 17th century.

Mrs. Garlett taught music for thirty years in the Detroit school system. She now is a member of the Plymouth Women's Club Glee Club, the DAR, and the Huguenot Society.

These attractive mustard colored towels in black frames hang in the Smith's family room.

Mrs. Smith's wooden plaques, with Currier and Ives prints.

How to make plaques for your walls

How about a treat for your house? Mrs. F. Wells Smith gives directions how to make some of the attractive wall hangings she has in her own house.

The Smiths live on Maplewood Lane with their two children, Jack who is 15, and Julie who is nine. They are members of the Epiphany Lutheran Church. Mrs. Smith is a member of the Symphony League, she states that her main summertime interests are golfing, gardening, and bridge. During the winter her interests are the same, but the order is reversed.

Her first project is one that is simple, but effective. Mrs. Smith makes attractive pictures by hanging linen towels in a frame.

She uses one of the decorator kitchen towels and stretches it over a piece of 1/4 inch plywood. She then staples the towel around the edges of the wood. Then it is put in a frame and hung. When finished it is very good looking. It is easy enough to find the right towel to fit into any color scheme.

Her second project is a little bit harder, but Mrs. Smith has given step by step directions for the wooden wall hangings. First get pieces of 3/4 inch thick pine wood from any lumber store. Scrap lumber may be used.

Cut the wood the same shape as the picture you wish to use, only leave the wood 3/4 to one inch wider on all sides.

In order to give the wood a distressed look Mrs. Smith places bent nails lengthwise along the edges and pounds on them so they leave marks. She then beats the edges with chains and files them here and there with a wood rasp.

She then sands the surface of the wood. The next step is to stain it with antique pine, and shellac it with a thinned shellac.

Next select the print you wish to use. Mrs. Smith says that Currier and Ives prints from old Christmas cards work very well.

Tear the edges of the picture you use, rather than cutting them with scissors.

Paste the picture on the wood with wallpaper paste. Be sure to smooth down the top of the picture so there are no air bubbles. Next put some burnt umber on a cloth and rub this into the edges of the picture. This blends the picture with the wood.

Now shellac both the picture and the wood with thinned orange shellac, to give it an antique look.

Then rub the entire surface with steel wool, or else the shellac will leave a glossy surface.

Repeat the shellacking process three or four times, being sure to rub with the steel wool after each coat of shellac.

When you are finished get a brass drawer pull and screw it into the top of the picture. And you have a new picture to hang on your wall.

EMU PROF SAYS MAYBE:

Will jazz die in U.S.-its native land?

Is jazz in trouble in its native land? Will European jazz musicians eventually assume leadership in the only musical form originated in this country?

It's possible, says a musician who should know. William O. Smith, a member of the Eastern faculty for the summer, is perhaps uniquely qualified to speak on the subject.

He not only has a broad background in jazz, but also in classical music as clarinetist, composer and conductor. For the past several years, he's lived in Rome, composing and performing throughout the continent.

Smith believes jazz is in danger in the United States because "jazz clubs are dying out here - even in New York - and there isn't anything to replace them. There's no place for the young jazz musician to develop.

"In Europe, both jazz and contemporary works are performed regularly on state-owned radio and television stations, which are required to provide the time. Here, it's not possible to get the same sort of exposure on commercial radio and TV," Smith says.

He has a solution, however. "Universities and foundations should start now to provide a place for young jazz musicians to develop. It's odd that they do accept this responsibility in the field of contemporary music, which is derived from Europe, but don't accept it with jazz, which is America's unique contribution to music."

Europeans still feel, however, that Americans lead the way in jazz, Smith says. "There's great prestige in Europe for an American jazzman. That's why so many are now living there. There still aren't many good European soloists or rhythm sections."

Smith, now a slim, sandy-haired 39 with a bristling mustache, started his musical career in the traditional way - with variations. "I started out playing drums in the Oakland (Calif.) public schools, but when I was about 10 a guy came to the door and convinced my mother I shouldn't be denied the benefits of learning how to play the clarinet."

As with so many young clarinetists of the 1930's, his first idol and inspiration was Benny Goodman. "Smith organized his own dance band and played for school dances in the Oakland area through high school, meanwhile studying the classics. Since then, he has enjoyed parallel careers in jazz and the classics, an experience he likens to "juggling several balls at once."

In 1945, Smith moved to New York to attend the Juillard School of Music. "I'd play in jazz clubs until 3 or 4 in the morning, then get up at 8 to attend classes. I was running my health, so I decided to go back to California."

There, he enrolled in Mills College at Oakland, a move which he says had a profound effect on his career. First he met Darius Milhaud, who was teaching there, and then met a young pianist who was also studying under Milhaud - Dave Brubeck.

"We formed the Brubeck Octet and were named the Small Band of the Year by Downbeat Magazine," Smith recalls. However, they were unsuccessful financially, and the group broke up.

"I gave took the rhythm section and formed the first Dave Brubeck Quartet, and has been very successful ever since. I stayed with the academic life."

He also began winning some of the most important awards in music - the Prix de Paris, 1951; the Roger Sessions, and later 53; The Phalan Award, 1954-55; the Prix de Rome, 1957-58; and the Modern Jazz Quartet.

Fromm, Players Fellowship, 1957, 1959; the Guggenheim Fellowship, 1960, 1961.

Since then, his parallel careers have both developed successfully. He's written several pieces for the San the Prix de Rome, 1957-58; and the Modern Jazz Quartet.

NO STRICT GUIDELINES

Ambulance service part of Medicare

Social Security District Manager, Sam F. Test, of the Detroit-Northwest office, 18500 Grand River said today that the medicare law sets no arbitrary standards for ambulance services. Test said recent inquiries have come to his office, mostly from funeral directors who operate ambulance services as a sideline, who were concerned that rigid standards under medicare would increase their operating expenses and make it infeasible for them to continue the service.

He said most inquirers were relieved to discover that State and local requirements they must meet generally match the medicare guidelines.

Certain ambulance services when medically necessary are paid for under the voluntary medical insurance part of the medicare plan. The service will be paid for in situations where the ambulance is required by the patient's condition,

Appoint Plymouthite to head school program

Dr. E. J. McClendon, of Crabtree Lane, Plymouth, Secondary Education Consultant, Wayne County Intermediate School District, has been elected Chairman of the School Program Committee of United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit (UCS). Dr. McClendon succeeds Dr. John F. Choltz, President of Michigan Lutheran College, who chaired the UCS Committee for the past three years.

The UCS School Program Committee plans and coordinates a variety of projects aimed at helping Detroit-area teachers and pupils. These include a series of regional conferences to acquaint school personnel with the services of various social agencies and to help agency personnel understand school programs and meet their representatives. "Since the purpose of our committee is to enrich the current program of studies in the public, independent, and parochial schools, we will continue to plan and put into operation projects that will give the youth of Metropolitan Detroit a broad knowledge and understanding of the community's social, health, and welfare activities," Dr. McClendon said.

The 40-member School Program Committee has a roster of leaders representing the school districts and community agencies in the tri-county area.

Smith meets with top JC

Michigan JC president Wendell E. Smith of Plymouth met with William Suttle, president of The United States Jaycees, prior to the first session of a two-day conference of Jaycee state presidents in Tulsa, Oklahoma, headquarters of the 257,000 member civic group recently.

Smith will help map strategy for The U.S. Jaycees' next programming year, receive an indoctrination on the national organization's project targets and exchange ideas with other ranking Jaycee members from all 50 states and the District of Columbia during the meeting.

State senate hopeful offers vote award

John A. MacLellan, one of the 14th District GOP Senate candidates, has proposed a "Get Out The Vote" contest.

MacLellan is offering a $100 award to the township, city and village in the 14th Senatorial District which achieves the highest percentage voter turnout in the August 2nd Primary.

He is offering a $50 bond to the Republican and Democratic precinct delegates whose precinct achieves the highest turnout in the District.

"We want the voters to know the primary is the only election where they can really 'vote for the man'," said MacLellan. "The general election is a battle between the parties with the candidates already selected by the interested primary voters."

Voter apathy and disinterest are our worst enemies. Citizen participation is essential to good government."

The award to the participating governmental units will be made to the winning units' fire department fund which will be of benefit to the whole Community. MacLellan stressed that the award is not a prize, but a token of recognition for good citizenship and full community participation in the primary.

"The Republican and Democratic candidates, who have filed, and the precinct delegates all recognize the importance of this primary," he said. "We are all united, I believe, in wanting this primary to produce an expression from the greatest possible number of voters in the 14th Senatorial District."

"I think that wide and effective voter participation can result if the community leaders will encourage a public interest approach. They can set a fine example and encourage all others to support this civic effort through the press media available to them. If the Russians can vote 99% for their hand-picked candidates - we Americans ought to do as well when we have a choice - or that choice may well become a disastrous no choice."

Judge Allen C. Ingle of Farmington has agreed to judge the results in each instance.

Skill with canoe taught by YMCA

The YMCA, which operates out of a two by four office in the Plymouth Community Federal Credit Union, has a summer program in full swing.

The key Youth Employment Service is still in operation, under the direction of Mrs. Eugene Crosby. Also, the Chip, a teen dance center located directly behind the City Hall; is in operation.

A stepped-up recreation program is underway, with grade school administrator Tom Workman, and Tony Monte, a Eastern Michigan University student, directing summer activities.

Much of the time is spent on canoeing and canoe instruction to prepare for week-long canoe trips in Northern Michigan. The large group of YMCA boys will be broken down into smaller groups so everyone will get to go on a trip north.

Bicycle hikes to Kensington Park, swimming, a trip to Greenfield Village — all are part of summer plans.

Even a trip to the Aero Craft Canoe factory is so the youngsters can see the aluminum canoe made.

Locally, games and physical fitness activities have been conducted at Junior High West. Trips to the Detroit Zoo, and the Kellogg Co. in Battle Creek are planned, along with fishing trips.

And on August 20, the group will see the Detroit Tigers play.

Despite the lack of a building the YMCA has established this summer program for boys, the employment service, the Chip, the senior Hi-Y program, and graduation parties for PHS.

The emphasis in all YMCA programs has been towards providing inexpensive youth activities that can appeal to the broadest possible base in the community.

Particular care has been taken to make sure finances — or the lack of them — does not interfere with an individual's eligibility to belong or take part.

The YMCA is supported in part by the Plymouth Community Fund.

LAUNCHING A canoe is not as easy as it looks. Mike Lynch and Garry Krumm maneuver carefully, making sure their weight is balanced on each side and the middle.

MOVING A canoe overland is mostly hard work as Bill Kelley and Ron Farmer, two boys taking part in the YMCA summer program, demonstrate. How to portage a canoe is one of several things learned.

CANOE instruction is conducted by a YMCA youth director, Tony Monte above. The art of paddling is taught to Ross Plats, Scott McCrady, Ed McIntosh, Pat Kelley, Ray Allen and John Kelley.

SWAPPING places in a canoe is tricky business, and it is practiced on the ground first. Tony Monte, left, shows Keith Allen, Ron Caudill, Kevin Phelan, Paul Montgomery, Bob Maxwell and Alan Petro.

WHEN learning is over, canoeing may be fully enjoyed. Mark Finely, Steve Finely, Gary Viazanko, Ed Daniel, Richard Erb and Monte paddle on Wilcox Lake.

Bill Arnold heads young Republicans group for Esch

The Congressional campaign of Rep. Marvin L. Esch, candidate for the Republican nomination for U.S. Congress, has been enhanced in Plymouth with the creation of the Wayne County Young Republicans Esch for Congress Committee.

Chairman of the committee is Bill Arnold, 21, of 45300 N. Territorial. Bill has been active in the Albion College Young Republicans, where he is a student, and has been appointed to the State Board of College Young Republicans.

Arnold, a precinct delegate candidate himself, will be doing precinct organizational and canvassing work, along with Dave McGuire of 1481 Palmer and Mike Kleinsmith of 290 Parkview.

Others on the county Esch Young Republican committee include Ronald Withhoff of 13705 Ridgewood, Jim Conant of 5683 Napier Rd., Sarah Stout of 13775 Ridgewood, Geoff Rovin of Livonia and Connie Crump of 46735 Timberlaine Rd., in Northville.

Rev. Herbert Brubaker and his new domain, the First Methodist Church of Plymouth.

Rev. Herbert Brubaker is new pastor at Methodist Church

Rev. Herbert Brubaker, whose career as a Methodist minister spans nearly four decades, came to the Plymouth First Methodist Church from six years as a District Superintendent.

Father Kucyk

New pastor at OLGC is man of enthusiasm

Father Herman Kucyk, the new assistant pastor at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church is a man with a great deal of enthusiasm.

He replaces Father Alfred Renaud who was well known in the community for his interest in a wide range of civic affairs.

Father Kucyk is from the Detroit area. He served in the navy for two years from 1944 to 1946. Afterwards he worked at the Ford Motor Company from 1947 to 1950, when he decided to enter the seminary. He was ordained a priest in 1957.

This is his third assignment. He has served as assistant in parishes in Dearborn and St. Clair Shores.

"Being a priest is a terrific challenge," he says, describing his work. "There is no routine. I like being a parish priest rather than being in a specialized field."

FATHER KUCYK is interested in civic affairs, but would prefer to find his bearing at his own parish before getting too involved.

He is vitally interested in young people and believes in getting to know people by their name.

He feels that if you get to know children you can easily get to know their parents. He plans to do a lot of work with the children attending the Catholic school. A part of his job will be visiting the classes and making himself available for help.

"This shouldn't be just a factory where bells ring, and people come and go without ever getting to know anybody," he says.

Very easy to get to know himself, he feels people in Plymouth have already been very friendly.

As the assistant he will be in charge of the teen program. He likes working with that age group.

Father Kucyk wants to develop the teen program so that instead of studying abstract ideas they can see a practical application of the role religion plays in their life.

JC's will aid wire services at polls

The Plymouth Jaycees will have a role in the Aug. 2 primary. In an effort to speed up reporting of vote results of the gubernatorial and senatorial races, the Plymouth Jaycees will serve as special precinct reporters in this area for the AP-UPI Michigan Election Pool. Jerry Yohey, president of the Plymouth Jaycees, said members of his chapter will call from their assigned precincts with the results of the two key races to the AP-UPI news gathering center at the Fort Shelby Hotel in Detroit. Each local Jaycee precinct reporter will be properly identified with a letter from State Elections Director Robert M. Montgomery. The AP-UPI Election Pool said the Jaycees in turn will receive a cash grant from the wire services for taking on the state-wide project to assist the news media in getting the vote results to the public as soon as humanly possible. The grant is earmarked for Jaycee projects dealing with the promotion of governmental affairs, free enterprise activity and community development work.

State Ok's $830,000 in school bonds

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley, Chairman of the Municipal Finance Commission, announced today that the Commission approved $830,000.00 of School Building and Site Bonds for Plymouth Community School District, Wayne and Washtenaw Counties.

Attorney General Kelley said, "The proceeds will be used to erect, furnish and equip additional elementary classrooms either as additions to existing buildings or as separate buildings; erect, furnish and equip additions to the high school buildings; acquire additional land for site purposes; and develop and improve sites.

Proud Plymouth senior citizens refuse to 'just fade away'

NO BOTHER that there aren't enough men to go around; Plymouth Senior Citizens dance to their own harmonica and piano music. Supplying the foxtrot and waltz tunes are Forrest McDonald, Fredericka Norman, Frank and Sadie Ciolkoski, William Micol, Mollie Tracy and Caroline Rowland. Every Thursday there's something a cookin' on their activities menu at the Masonic Temple.

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of articles on the agencies supported by the Plymouth Community Fund. The drive, not held until October and early November, nonetheless is in the planning stages. These articles are designed to tell the PCF story: Where does your money go?)

Senior citizens of Plymouth do not fade away; they have organized for year-around fun and companionship.

Helping the oldsters to be alert, active and useful is the Plymouth Community Fund, which will provide Senior Citizens with $1,000 kitty for their 1967 programs.

Senior Citizens is one of 13 community agencies that will be financed by a budget of $88,543 which is to be raised the period October 10 - November 4. Edward W. Schening, plant manager of the Burroughs Corporation in Plymouth, is general chairman of the 1966 fund campaign.

SOME 200 members form the Senior Citizens group in Plymouth. They range in age from 60 to 80, and gather each Thursday afternoon in the Masonic Temple for cards, social and square dancing, some singing and chat. The coffee urn is always hot at these sessions.

Often the "seniors" will lend a hand to another community agency, such as preparing cancer pads.

If youth is restive, so are Senior Citizens at times. That's when you'll see them - some with canes, most erect - crossing the gangplank to board a boat for a Bob-Lo excursion.

WHEN the Tigers are in town it doesn't take prodding to coax Plymouth "seniors" to the ball park. And in the winter, neither snow nor sleet will deter them from a group trip to the Ice Capades. Samuel Wilhelm is president of Senior Citizens, while Mrs. Wilhelm arranges their trips. Mrs. Mary Winning proudly admits (as treasurer) that she "handles the kitty".

Plymouth Community Fund helps the group by paying their meeting room rent, and chipping in for the cost of their educational and entertainment programs, together with some bus trip expenses and flowers for the aged sick. There's a community pride in Plymouth's Senior Citizens organization.

Help at cancer center VFW Auxiliary says

Mayflower Auxiliary has for many years contributed hours of work and cash donations in the fight against the dread disease - cancer.

Members work at the local cancer center each week. They help in the production of dressings, do office work, and provide transportation service for patients to and from treatment. If you can help for just a few hours, please call Mrs. John Schwartz at 453-2284.

You do not have to be a member of our organization to take part in this work. The Auxiliary would gladly welcome help from others in the community too.

The VFW Auxiliaries have rebuilt the research laboratories at Bar Harbor, Maine, and have set up memorial funds in Mercy Children's Hospital, Detroit.

Funds at the present time are also provided for treatment of cancer in individual children. To help provide for these funds, auxiliaries try to pay one dollar per member per year. Donations over and above this amount are often given. Our Auxiliary carries a cancer insurance policy on all paid-up members. This is a privilege extended to us by the National VFW Organization.

Ex-Plymouthite named to Horology Board

Wallace Dale Eckler, former Plymouthite, has been named to a two-year term on the new Michigan Board of Horology by Governor George Romney. He lives in Buckley, Michigan. The Board of Horology, was created in 1965 to certify and license watchmakers, under the department of licensing and regulation.

Eckler at one time managed a store in Plymouth.
