Not Hurt In Crash

BULLETIN—Word has just been received that a new helicopter has been shipped to the North Pole to provide transportation for Santa Claus on his trip to Plymouth next Saturday. The helicopter will arrive in time for the trip, according to the North American representative of S. Claus & Co. in Anchorage, Alaska. The original helicopter crashed in a trial flight earlier this week. The pilot, Claus himself, said that he still could not get used to mechanical transportation. "I'm still a sleigh man," he said as he crawled from the burning wreckage. He was unharmed.

By Our Special Correspondent
NORTH POLE (Wednesday)—Santa Claus will be making a trial flight in his helicopter later today as part of his preparation for his trip to Plymouth Saturday, Dec. 3.

Claus plans to fly to Anchorage, Alaska to pick up some toys at his branch plant there. "I don't know if the helicopter will be able to pick up all the toys there, but it's much faster than dogsled," Claus said.

If he is not able to pick up the entire lot, Claus said he might make a second helicopter trip. "I'm getting to like this new-fangled gadget, even though I'm still kind of clumsy about landing it."

Claus crashed three times last year while taking joy rides around the Arctic ocean and was reprimanded once by the commander of a Soviet icebreaker for breaking the ship's radio antenna in a low flight.

Canadian air traffic authorities said they would be on the lookout for Claus this year. "We'll try to be helpful in keeping the skies clear for him, because we realize that he has a lot of traveling to do, especially on Christmas Eve," said an airport official "but we don't want any more of these loop-the-loop or buzz-the-tower shenanigans."

Claus has said that "many of these airport men just get overexcited" and that he had never had any problems from them when he had been driving his sleigh. "They're just afraid that I don't know how to control this thing."

One of Claus's elves had volunteered to pilot the helicopter on the trip to Plymouth, but Claus rejected the offer. "These elves are good toy-makers," he said, "but they just don't understand mechanical transportation. Besides, I'd enjoy a nice quiet flight by myself. I can hardly think up here with all these elves jabbering."

Claus has not decided yet whether or not to use the helicopter on his Christmas Eve flights. "The helicopter really doesn't have enough capacity, but its speed may make up for that. Still, the reindeer may start giving me trouble if I leave them entirely out of this."

Rudolf, he said, was known as an agitator and had even threatened a mass reindeer-sit-in in the halls and offices of the Claus factory. "Of course, we'll put a stop to that," Claus said. "We tolerate and encourage dissent, but we cannot tolerate the irresponsibility of a business disruption."

The factory hopes to have all toys completed by Dec. 23.

Problems or Programs

Congressman and Congressman-Elect have divergent views

Congressman Weston Vivian, defeated in his quest of another term, and his successor, Marvin Esch, have widely divergent opinions of what is going to happen when the next Congress convenes in January.

To Vivian, the next Congress is going to be faced with problems — huge problems — but in Esch's opinion the so-called problems are going to be considered past history and the Republicans in the new Congress will concentrate on forward and progressive looking programs — even to the extent of offering a budget to the country.

In an exclusive interview with The Mail from his office in Washington, Congressman Vivian, while admitting that he would have liked more time to answer questions, stated that the problems, as he sees them are:

1 — Levelling of the budget as it pertains to the cost of the war and the extent to which inflation and taxes and program cuts may be used to pay the cost of the war.

2 — Major decisions to be made regarding Social Security and, especially the proposals made by the President for improvements for the elderly.

3 — Studying program of last two years to determine which programs to cut back, if any, to cover cost of war.

4 — The space program — to cut or not to cut.

5 — Food for peace — how much?

Congressman Vivian, after listing these problems to be faced, stated that he would be surprised if the new Congress will debate them in an orderly and organized way.

And he also said he expected very few of the programs initiated in the last two years to be stopped or stifled. According to him much will depend on the wisdom used by the new Congress in approaching the task.

In approaching his new job, Congressman-elect Esch smiled at the thought of problems.

"These are past problems," he said, "and for the next two years we hope to produce a program that should get results."

Manslaughter Warrant Issued

Death Car Driver Held In Smash-up

A warrant charging manslaughter has been issued against William Shouse, 20, of 843 Starkweather, the survivor of an auto crash that took the life of William Cannady, 22 of 49770 West Ann Arbor, last Friday.

The crash occurred on Ann Arbor Trail near Beck Road, when the two youths allegedly were attempting to race away from a police car. While going at a high rate of speed, the car skidded off the north side of the road for more than 400 feet, the car then crossed the highway and struck a tree roadside.

The warrant was issued by Samuel Olson, Prosecuting Attorney, charging him with being the driver of the death car and — more than that — driving with a suspended license.

It was the second time his license had been suspended and he had an otherwise very bad driving record.

Cannady was dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital and Shouse's condition was considered critical. He since has shown improvement and will recover.

For several days the police had been puzzled while trying to fit the pieces together to figure out why the two youths were attempting to avoid the police car.

Since then, it was learned that Shouse was the driver of the car and that he had been driving with a suspended license.

Shouse's license was suspended for the first time on November 28, 1965. That suspension held for one month. The second suspension came on September 23 and was due to be lifted the day after the fatal accident.

Bjork Will Head Plant In Plymouth

Arthur B. Bjork has been appointed manager of the Plymouth rail car plant of Evans Products Company.

Mr. Bjork joined United States Railway Equipment Company, a wholly-owned Evans subsidiary, in October of this year.

McFall Will Take Many Fine Memories into New Career

"I'll sure have a lot of pleasant memories to take up North with me and there are several moments I shall never forget."

The speaker was John McFall, the husky coach who has just resigned from the athletic staff at Plymouth High School to close out a 17-year career in which he had been swimming coach of the varsity gridiron squad.

"Over the years I have seen a great number of boys come and go and I naturally have felt proud of some of their performances."

"It will be some of these moments that I will re-live from time to time after we take over the management of a motel in Petoskey."

Of all the thrills he must have had during the many years at Plymouth High, what was the outstanding moment of all?

"That's easy to answer," he replied.

"It was the night in 1961 in East Lansing, when we won the state high school swimming championship. We finally reached the top and it was a thrill the like of which I never have had before."

Did he recall the point scores and which school pressed Plymouth the most?

"I don't recall the exact points," he replied, "but I think we had 44 1/2, and Battle Creek was far behind, in second place, with 30 some points."

The greatest athlete he ever coached?

"That would be difficult to answer," he replied. "I liked them all and, among swimmers it is most difficult to choose because the boys swim in different events."

During his 13 years as the swimming coach he developed six boys who won places on the All-America team — which is quite a feat for any coach.

"I wouldn't attempt to select one over the other," he explained, "because I was proud of all of them."

The All-Americans he coached included:

Bill Brandell who swam the 200 and 400 yard events and won the All-American honor in both the 1956-57 and 1957-58 seasons.

Phil Bender, a breast stroker in 1960-61.

Nick Herrick, medley relay and butterfly in 1960-61.

Jim Zett, 100-yard free style and medley in 1960-61.

Dick Gretzinger, individual medley and butterfly.

Dick Michaels, 100-yard backstroke 1960-61.

The retired coach also is proud of his record in the Suburban Six Swimming League Organized during the 1956-57 season the league has held 17 meets and his Plymouth team won 10 league titles.

In football he served as assistant for 15 years and did a creditable job. As head coach during the past two years he suffered the pangs of any coach whose teams have been riddled with injuries.

His teams won only two games while losing 13, but the 1966 team, while hampered by injuries and dogged by ill-luck, gave plenty of promise for the future.

McFall made it plain that the record of his football teams had nothing to do with his decision to resign.

"The deal for the motel up North has been in the making for quite a while and it just came to a head. It was a tough decision to make at this time — but I think we are going to like it up North."

He also is a lawyer, having studied week-ends and at night for a long time. There is a possibility that he will engage in the practice of law in Petoskey, too.

Whatever he does, though, after he takes his wife, Pat, and two daughters, Sarah 6, and Karen, 8, up north, he'll have plenty to remember of his days at Plymouth High.

And they'll be pleasant memories, too.

The Happiest Man In Town ?

One of the happiest men in Plymouth these days is 82-year old Sidney D. Strong.

Ever since the suggestion was made to celebrate Plymouth's centennial next year, he has been walking down Memory Lane — and having a great time along the way.

For a time there was some question as to whether there had been a centennial held in 1924, but he quickly came to the front with an explanation that the 1924 event was not a centennial but a celebration to mark the opening of Plymouth Road paving.

He should know. He was City Manager in those days and he proudly tells you how he and Harry S. Lee, then the Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, began working on a seal for the Village.

One night at a Chamber meeting the two men got together with their ideas and the seal was born. Thirteen years later it was formally adopted as a general community seal and a suggestion made to use the words "A village of Homes".

Asked about the seal, the DRIVER WALKED AWAY from this accident on Northville Road near Hines Drive when he was forced off the east side by a passing car, smashed through the guard rail and wound up at the bottom of nearby dam upside down. Arnold Dalton, 25, of 38448 Elsie, Livonia, was taken to St. Mary Hospital but released after examination in the emergency room. He told investigating police officers he was southbound on Northville Road when forced off and the next thing he knew he was in the car upside down. This picture by Russ Reimer, of Northville, shows the new car just after it had been righted by a wrecking crew.

Schools Call Site Meeting

Recognizing the population explosion and the growing demand for school sites to provide education for the children a "summit meeting" has been called for next Monday, November 28, to review plans and options over the entire area.

Initiated by the officials of the Plymouth Community School System Board of education, the meeting will bring together representatives of the governing boards and planning commissions from Canton and Plymouth Townships and the City of Plymouth, along with members of the area planning commission and the supervisors from Northville, Salem and Superior Townships.

The meeting is to be held at Junior High West and will be called at 8 o'clock.

The meeting will mark the first time that such a comprehensive study has been made and it is expected that a plan for future development will be established.

Information will be presented regarding land options for school sites and the Plymouth Board's planned program for new school facilities, including some that are now only in the designing stage.

The School Board plans considerable forthright discussion on how the size and location of the proposed school sites will fit into the 701 plans for the respective governmental units.

Projected population figures reveal a great growth in the area and the need for schools is going to surpass anything known in the past.

It is to meet this demand with

Police Say 'Be Careful'

Acting Chief of Police Roger Vanderveen has predicted heavy traffic on through highways during the holiday season and pledged the full cooperation of Plymouth's police department in keeping traffic flowing smoothly - and in protecting responsible drivers from those whose careless ways of driving cause accidents involving others.

"All drivers must accept their share of the responsibility," he continued, "and that responsibility starts long before the motorist slides behind the wheel of his car."

The chief offered these planning tips for holiday trips:

A pre-winter check-up and mechanic's inspection for your car is a must. Winter driving demands the most from your vehicle - and brings out the worst if the car is not in top shape.

Think, too, about the emergency equipment that should go into the trunk as well as the family belongings - a dependable jack and lug wrench; sharp sand or metal traction mats; a shovel; booster cables; a tow chain; a good set of reinforced tire chains; and emergency lighting equipment (lantern, warning reflectors and/or flares).

And keep your eye on the weather. It's the most unpredictable thing about this time of year, Vanderveen reminded Thanksgiving travelers.

"Cancel your trip if the weather threatens," he advised. "You may not wind up a hero with the family, but you will end up safe and comfortable at home."

Methodists Plan Xmas Family Night

The Methodist Men of the First Methodist Church of Plymouth will hold a Family Night Christmas party on Thursday night, December 1, at 7:30.

A play, "I Gave Him Myrrh", will be given by the 12th grade Sunday School class, songs by the Epworth Choir (grades 7 through 12) and group singing of carols. The program should last a little more than an hour with refreshments to follow.

PLYMOUTH FRIENDS of the Northville State Hospital met at the home of Mrs. Eugene Cross of Palmer on Thursday to prepare for a gala Christmas party for patients. Filling attractive baskets with personal items and an array of delicacies and lots of holiday spirit will all be a part of their day. L to R are Mrs. Eugene Cross, Mrs. E. I. Wylie, Mrs. Alford Morrison and Mrs. Vincent De Santis who help monthly with social activities.

Manslaughter

Because of his improved condition, the police are now waiting his release from the hospital to serve the warrant.

Here are the details of the horrible crash that boosted the death toll in traffic to a half dozen in the area over the past two weeks - ends:

Patrolman Lawrence Ray picked up the speeding car near the intersection of Forest and W. Ann Arbor Trail.

The speeding car raced through the intersection at Harvey and Ann Arbor Trail with a green light but Ray had to wait for the signal to change.

His report shows he followed the car west and almost caught up with it at Sheldon Road when it had to wait for the traffic signal. Ray reported he turned on his siren and the blue signal light and then noticed the youths talking to each other. There but Claus said that with increased automation the plant might even beat that deadline. "We really haven't shifted to a completely automated operation - I don't think I would approve of that. Besides, quality toymaking is just naturally labor-intensive."

"Still, the elves get tired of handcarving all these Tinkertoys every year, so we've decided that some automation will eliminate the drudgery and elevate toymaking to a true art."

"The only real problem is what to do about war toys. The elves just don't like to make them. I say business is business, but I do have to get along with my employees."

"Even the reindeer have been throwing out orders for war toys when they go to pick up the mail. I'm just not sure what to do."

Claus said he would be staying in Plymouth most of the Christmas season. "The climate in southeastern Michigan seems to be about the best for me. And I like Plymouth - it still has something of a small town atmosphere."

He will arrive at Kellogg Park at 11 a.m. on Dec. 3 and reside in the red house there until Dec. 22. He will hold open house for visitors at the hours listed below.

Esch: A Progressive Future

"The Republicans must face the possibility of presenting a progressive and forward looking program - not the backward type of program offered by the old Republicans in the coalition with the southern Democrats."

He admitted that the new Congress will study the program of the past two years to determine to what degree to cut and what the war will cost. "And the Republicans will have a budget of their own," he stated, "if the President's budget isn't balanced."

One of the things he is concerned about is getting the opportunity to debate these subjects on the floor of the House. "It may be hard work to do this in debate, but we'll be in there trying."

"The people indicated in the election," he pointed out, "that they want some leadership shown in Congress. They want this leadership in such categories as Education, Housing and Transportation."

In the late Congress the members relied too much on a strong executive and now the people have shown they want a change.

And he further promised to organize a Citizens Group in the area which is to discuss legislation with the hope that some sort of tax reform could be had on all three levels - federal, state and local.

But, according to him, there are no problems - just a chance to offer a forward looking program.

'Happy Man'

in the center." As he spoke he proudly fondled one of these old flags and no prouder - or happier - man lived when he was asked to pose for a picture with the ancient example of his handiwork.

"I guess I am the only official left of the old group," he stated, "and I'll be here for the centennial when they hold it." He recalled that he was born in Kalamazoo and was graduated as an engineer from the University of Michigan and later went to work in Sault Ste. Marie.

"In 1922," he explained, "I was invited to come to the Village of Plymouth as the City Manager. The population in those days was only 2,800. We were working on a plan for pavement on Plymouth Road. We finally got it and the celebration, about which some are confused, was held in 1924 on Mill Street near the toll gate."

What was the greatest change he had seen in Plymouth through the years?

"The greatest change concerns the people," he confided. "It seems to me they are more cosmopolitan these days than they were then."

With that he departed, wearing a broad smile. He had just taken another stroll down Memory Lane - and he enjoyed every step of the journey.

This house may be one of the oldest buildings in Plymouth.

Interesting houses

Family Farm is Now Shopping Area

Forest Ave. was once a waving cornfield. And not too long ago, either. The city took part of the property of the E. Fletcher Campbell's about 25 years ago to build the street.

The farm is no more. The only place to get vegetables on the one time farm property is at Stop and Shop.

But the farmhouse still stands, at 941 West Ann Arbor Trail between the Mayflower Beauty Shop and the Professional Building.

The place has been in the Campbell family since 1908. But its history goes back long before that.

E. Fletcher Campbell, now dead, appears to have been very interested in the history of the house where he grew up.

He apparently found conflicting data as to when the house was built.

In 1954 Campbell stated that the house was built by John Kellogg in 1835, and that workmen were brought from Detroit to aid in the construction.

Kellogg was one of the city's earliest and wealthiest landowners. He did own the property at that time.

However, in 1949, Campbell said that the house was built by a John Moreland in the late 1860's or early 1870's.

Did Campbell do more research in the six years between 1949 and 1954? Was it Kellogg's house or Moreland's? No one knows for sure, today.

Campbell did give an excellent history of the place in a paper he presented to the Historical Society. Here are some excerpts from that paper.

"The present Campbell property", he wrote, "was settled by a man named William Starkweather in 1825.

"Well, William Starkweather wanted to get some money, I suppose, - and who wouldn't."

"So with Timothy Lyon as a prospect, he offers 80 acres, including where I live, plus 160 additional acres for $1300.

"Timothy demures about all of that $1300. That's a lot of money, you know. But for a mortgage, minus the four acres sold to John Breedon, Timothy goes in debt.

"He tried it for three years, but I guess the Indians wouldn't work."

Benajah Holbrook, Jr. bought about 200 acres of the property next. Holbrook sold 140 acres to Edward Brooks and Alfred Hartshorn for $3000. That's quite a bit more than Starkweather got for the 240 acres.

"Brooks apparently was a big real-estate operator, in a small way in Detroit", continued Campbell. "He outlived his partner Hartshorn, who had been the brains of the partnership, because Brooks goes into bankruptcy."

Shortly afterwards, before the middle of the 19th Century Kellogg bought the property.

Campbell continues: "Some 24 years later, Kellogg is getting old, and figures he'd better have some of his accounts ready for the final gun. So Cassius Kellogg gets everything for $2000.

"Cassius P. and Sophia, his wife can't manage all the farm, so they sell some of the property to George Baird. That's the same property which my father bought when he came to Plymouth in 1908. And to think, Baird got my father's one and a half acres for $450 in 1865."

Campbell continued the history of the land as it was sold from family to family. Included was one tight fist man who had it written into the deed that he had 2/3 interest, while his wife only had 1/3.

His family came on the scene in 1908. The place was overgrown with weeds. They found an old grape vine, which is still producing grapes today. They fixed up the place, and installed electricity. And the Campbell family has lived in the house ever since.

Pretty Stenographer: I've finally figured out the difference between Sophia

Loren's legs and mine. Mine hold me up; hers support her.

Go Ahead-Plan a Holiday Party

Try Fondue

The tempo quickens. The holiday party season is just around the corner.

Plan a fondue party for a different way to entertain during the holidays.

It is ideal for an entire evening, or a "drop in afterwards" type party.

To add to the elegant party spirit treat yourself to one of those new velvet pantsuits, or full length "Guinevere" gown. About three to five couples is the ideal number to invite to this type of party, where everyone dunks crusty French bread into the fondue.

Fondue supposedly originated in medieval Switzerland, and a tradition carried over from those days is that anyone who drops a chunk of bread into the fondue has to buy the next bottle of wine.

However, you, of course, will have plenty of white wine, the ideal accompaniment for fondue, on hand.

Fondue can be served in a chafing dish, fondue dish or any attractive bowl on top of a hibachi. It is best to cook it on the top of a double boiler and then transfer it to one of those dishes, or the cheese will take too long to melt.

CHEESE FONDUE

- 1 pound American cheese
- 1/4 pound Swiss cheese
- 1/4 pound brick cheese
- 1 1/2 cup dry white wine
- 4 tablespoons Brandy
- loaf of French bread

Cut cheese into small blocks, and cover with wine. Stir mixture over low heat or in the top of a double boiler until the cheese melts. Add brandy and transfer to serving dish.

Serves four to six. A nice way to serve it is to place the dish on a low table surrounded by a couple of baskets of French bread cut into 1/2" chunks.

Let your guests sit on cushions around the table. To make a more substantial meal add a Waldorf or other crunchy salad. Here is an exotic nut salad.

NUT SALAD

- 1 large apple chopped
 - 2 cups walnuts
 - 3 figs quartered
 - 6 dates quartered
 - 1/4 cup coconut shredded
 - 2 tablespoons raisins
 - 1 tablespoon butter melted
- Mix all these ingredients. Put a leaf of lettuce on a plate, top that with a slice of tomato and then the nut mixture. Then put a spoonful of real mayonnaise on top of the nuts. Serves six.

Engagements Announced In Plymouth

Miss Skinner

The Donald Skinners of Penniman Ave. announce the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Jean to Thomas Jon Barry of Beach St.

Miss Skinner, a 1965 graduate of Plymouth High School, is now a sophomore at the University of Michigan.

Her fiancé attended Ferris State College, where he was a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

He is now an Airman First Class stationed at SAC Base Davis Monthan in Tucson, Arizona, where the couple will live. A Dec. 29 wedding is planned.

This sugar cube church is yours for the making. It is a good focal point for holiday decorations

Wards Have Christmas Eve Get Together Every Year

A Christmas eve party is a lovely tradition at the home of the Donald Wards of Evergreen.

The party started when the Wards' children were still little. Like most parents they had to stay up late and put toys together. Neighbors, whose own children had grown, enjoyed coming over and helping with the toys.

From this has developed a traditional party that could easily be adapted for many families.

When the Wards' children were little, it was a working party with everyone wearing slacks and sweaters.

Now, it is a dress-up party with close friends dropping in to exchange season's greetings. It's an open house party with some friends only able to stay a few minutes, while others stop for a longer time.

Mrs. Ward lights her house entirely with candles. The effect helps bring out the tender meaning of Christmas.

This would be easy to duplicate. Tall candles, short candles, decorated candles all abound in the stores.

The Ward house is decorated with the traditional Christmas colors, red and green. There is a tree, of course. Evergreen roping is used along the fireplace. Mrs. Ward trims it with red bows, and tiny white lights strung through the roping.

A special attraction is a candy house, made with a base of egg whites and sugar, tiny candies, and hershey bar windows. Sugar cube churches and gingerbread houses can be found in stores around Plymouth.

Directions for the church are below. Mrs. Ward arranges cotton around the base of the house.

She then puts tiny colored lights under the cotton so they shine through.

The menu is simple. Mrs. Ward serves eggnog and pieces of fruit cake. She also sets out a couple of dishes of mixed nuts.

She simply buys the eggnog from the milk man and adds rum to it. A little bit of whipped cream and a dash of nutmeg in each cup tops it off.

SUGAR CUBE CHURCH

- 2 pound box of sugar cubes
 - 1 1/2 cups confectioners' sugar
 - 2 egg whites
- Mix sugar and egg whites to make the "mortar".

Make two sides 10 cubes long and 6 cubes high.

Press mortar through pastry tube or paper cone on top of row of cubes, allowing mortar to run down between cubes.

Make arch of windows with two sugar cubes split diagonally. There should be two windows on each side.

The rear wall is seven cubes wide, six cubes high, and has no windows.

The front is the same dimensions, with a two by four cube space near one side for the door.

A steeple should be placed near the other side of the front. The steeple is two cubes deep, two cubes wide, and 11 cubes high.

The roof is made from 7x8" cardboard covered with colored paper. Fold in half so each side of roof measures 4".

Fill in empty area between roof front and church with the same cardboard.

Steeple top is four triangles (3/4" at base; 3 1/4" high) cut out of colored paper.

Tape pieces together; fold and place on steeple. Paste cellophane over window openings.

Stevens Plan Special Day

The holidays are a family time, so a family party is definitely in order.

Too often grandparents miss the fun of Christmas morning. The John Stevens of Greenbriar Lane arrange their Christmas mornings to include the children's grandparents.

Mrs. Stevens' parents come over on Christmas eve, a sofa bed is put into use and they spend the night. This way the grandparents share the Christmas eve traditions of midnight church service and setting out the toys under the tree.

The family is all together in the morning to watch the children open their presents.

Other relatives drop in for a Christmas breakfast. Mrs. Stevens puts sausage and Canadian bacon in the oven while the presents are being opened.

Cinderella Comes To Our Town

Cinderella, that hardworking young lady who finally escapes her drudgery to win a prince, will appear in Plymouth on Dec. 3.

The Plymouth Theatre Guild will present "Cinderella" at the high school auditorium. Performances will be at 9:30, and 11 a.m., 1 and 2 p.m.

Tickets will be on sale at Plymouth schools on Nov. 30 and Dec. 1.

Kathy McNeiece of Northville will be Cinderella. The ugly sisters are Ariene Bailey, Mary Stevens, and Clemie Cybert. Norma Loveless is to be the cruel stepmother.

Jerry Fench will don a page boy wig to play Prince Charming.

Sandra Richards had been working hard as the director.

The Guild is being assisted by high school students, who will form the core of an apprentice guild after January 1. Linda Lash from the high school is the assistant producer, and Sue Roberts is the assistant director.

Specialty of the house Here's an Easy Fruit Cake Recipe

A cheery blue, white and green kitchen is the background for Mrs. Ford as she picks out a recipe from her cookbook.

Mrs. Harry Ford of Beechcrest has a very easy recipe for fruit cake. It does not have to be made way ahead of time, the way some fruit cakes do.

The recipe makes a lot, and is perfect if you are having a large group, or want to give some away as gifts.

For just the family, make half a recipe.

LIGHT FRUIT CAKE

- 1 pound soft butter
- 6 eggs
- 2 cups 3 1/2 tablespoons all purpose flour
- 1 pound powdered sugar
- 1 pound white raisins
- 1 1/4 pound whole candied cherries (use both red and green)
- 1 1/4 pound candied pineapple (cut into pieces)
- 2 pounds white pecans (or other nuts), less if wanted
- 1 teaspoon baking powder

1 teaspoon vanilla and a few drops almond extract

Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs one at a time. Mix well after each addition. Add flour and baking powder mixed. Add nuts, vanilla and almond extract.

The whole recipe will fill four 9x3 loaf pans. If you use angel food cake pans, fill them half full.

Line the pans with wax paper. Bake for one and a half hours at 275 degrees for gas and 300 degrees for electric. If 275 is used, bake for about five minutes over the one and a half hours.

Be sure to test with cake tester for doneness.

This cake can be used the day after it is baked. It will keep for some time wrapped tightly in the refrigerator.

Plymouth residents present were Dr. and Mrs. Barber, Mrs. Harry Bartel, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nesbitt, and Elizabeth McDonald.

Willis Bloxson, teacher of biology at Emerson Junior High in Livonia and a 1953 graduate of Plymouth High School, introduced scholarship winners in the Western Wayne Summer Scholarship Science program.

Eight students from the area had been winners, including Cynthia Bruzda, 41385 Chestwood Drive, Plymouth, a student at Ladywood High.

Ends Training
Camp Pendleton, Calif.—Marine Private Donald G. Henshaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Henshaw of 47751 N. Territorial Road has completed four weeks of individual combat training here.

Five seventh-grade homemaking classes of nearly 30 girls each made "real, old-fashioned" homemade bread this week at Plymouth Junior High West. The classes under Mrs. Margaret Hanson had baked about 150 loaves by the end of the week. Taking bread out of the oven are, from left, Ann Fenkell, Diane Williams, and Camille Carpenter.

Safety Based On Gentle Touch

The early U.S. Navy flag which displayed a coiled rattlesnake and the words, "Don't tread on me," would be a fitting warning for use on the gas pedal of modern cars during hazardous winter-time driving.

The first real snowstorms of the season have again provided plentiful examples of what happens when drivers feel their cars slowing down and do the "natural" thing. They step on the gas--and instead of getting needed traction, "spin-out" in every direction. The heavy cars with overpowered motors skitter sideways across roads, over curbs, into each other and into spin-out stalls.

Wiser drivers, or those with lighter cars and less powerful motors, take things easy and get where they are going with little or no trouble. Above all, the wise driver uses a light touch and gentle pressure on the gas pedal.

Perhaps several techniques learned in driving many thousands of miles each winter near the Canadian border while serving as a Regional Man for the Minnesota Farm Bureau (where temperatures occasionally dropped to more than 50-below zero)--will be helpful to Michigan motorists.

When experienced northern drivers are faced with changing or unknown conditions, they first learn all they can about the conditions they face. If the road looks icy, they test it--at once, to see how much or how little traction they have. They will hit their brakes modestly hard, using short, "pumping" motions while barely moving. Next, they do the same thing at about 20 miles per hour, and always with no traffic about. On occasions, when ice is evident, they will learn how a car will react going downhill by deliberately stepping on the gas going up. They realize that substantial stability remains if wheels do spin going UP a slope, and that this is an excellent test of what can be expected under much more dangerous conditions going down.

Most important of all, when there is heavy snow or ice, they never, never tread heavily on the gas. This has nothing to do with speed, but with transmission of power. All modern cars have more than enough power to carry them through great depths of snow or mud if wheels are not allowed to spin. Slow application of power prevents this. "Squeeze gently," the experts say for the gas pedal--"don't tread on me!"

Bus Service Now In Romulus Area

An application of Short Way Lines, Inc., to extend and re-route its bus service in the Romulus-Belleville area has been approved by the Michigan Public Service Commission.

The area had been without such service for an extended period of time, since a preceding carrier had discontinued service. At the time of hearing on the application, the Van Buren Township clerk and the Romulus township supervisor testified in support of the application.

Old Folks Celebrate Thanksgiving

One hundred forty members of the Plymouth Senior Citizens were on hand to celebrate Thanksgiving at the club's Nov. 17 dinner meeting.

Loren Goodale catered the dinner. The Harmonican Kittens played for community singing. Singing at the event were Mrs. Mae Samuelson, Mrs. Mildred Smith, Walter Brown and Harlan Hickerson, who were accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Baynam.

The club's business meeting and election of officers will be held Thursday, Dec. 1.

Merit Test Applications Open

Plymouth High students who expect to complete their secondary school requirements and enter college in 1968 can register now to participate in the 1967-8 National Merit Scholarship program according to Principal Carvel Bentley.

Bentley indicated Plymouth school officials have set a limit of 175 for the tests on a first come, first in basis. The school tested 135 in 1965 and 125 in 1966.

The first step for all students who wish to enter the nationwide competition is to take the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test to be given at Plymouth High on Saturday, Feb. 25.

Participating students must pay a $10 fee which is remitted to the Science Research Associates, the testing agency. If a student is unable to pay the fee, it will be paid by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation at the request of the school.

In addition to competing for the merit scholarships to be awarded in 1968, students can take the test to obtain information useful in planning their future education and career.

With his NMSQT scores, each participating student will receive a handbook to help him evaluate his scores, compare his performance with that of other high school students across the country, and give him information on choosing a college and financing his education. The handbook and other interpretive materials are furnished as part of reporting the test results.

The highest scoring students in each state will be named semifinalists and will be eligible for Merit Scholarship consideration. In addition to the National Merit Scholarships financed by the NMSC, more than 300 business corporations, foundations, colleges, professional associations, unions, trusts, other organizations and individuals offer scholarships through the Merit Program.

About 13,440 students have won Merit Scholarships in the 11 programs to date. Some 2,330 Merit Scholarships were awarded in 1966 with stipends ranging from $100 to $1,500 per year for four college years. The amount of a winner's award is determined by assessing the financial assistance he will need to attend the college of his choice.

Frank Nunley Given Award

Frank Nunley, Michigan line-backer, one of the country's greatest defensive players, was named winner of the Wolverine Trophy for his play this season. Selection is made by the coaches based on the number of tackles and assists and general defensive play.

The blond Belleville crasher is credited with 73 tackles and 110 assists during the ten-game schedule. He also is credited with making six "big plays" in which he made tackles behind the opposing line, prevented a first down or touchdown on crucial plays.

Rick Volk, defensive back from Wauseon, O., also a senior, was credited with 66 tackles, 84 assists and four key plays.

Dennis Morgan, 230-pound junior line-backer, who underwent a knee operation following the Minnesota game, was third in the number of tackles with 52, although the Gopher game was sixth of the season. He assisted in 33 plays. The Phoenixville, Pa., athlete also made five key plays. Rocky Rosema, junior from Grand Rapids, is credited with nine "Big plays" at his defensive end spot, the largest number on the squad.

Offensive honors went to Jim Detwiler, Toledo, and Jim Hribal, Detroit tackle.

Optimism Grips Rocks As Cage Season Opens

With two weeks of strenuous practice behind them, the Plymouth High School basketball players are awaiting the opening of another season next Friday night.

The Rocks, who will have to depend on speed and accuracy, usher in the season against Walled Lake - and much will depend on the showing in the first real skirmish.

Unlike most other teams in the league Plymouth is without tall players and must devise ways and means of getting around them with speed and accuracy from the floor.

Five lettermen have returned to this year's squad and are favored for the starting positions. The returning veterans are Mike Stakis, Ron Lowe, John Ellison, John Davis, and Nate Litubrand. Stakis and Lowe were starters last season and are counted on to do yeoman work this year.

Coach Dick Bearup, starting his second season, is hopeful of bettering last year's mark when the Rocks won four games and lost 11, while Trenton won to take the Suburban Six League title.

It was a new coach and a new system a year ago. With that experience now behind them, the Rocks are counting on moving up the ladder.

Schoolcraft Finally Ends Losing Ways

The fleet footed sharpshooters from Lorain, Ohio, won the first annual Schoolcraft Community College basketball tournament, but the real surprise was furnished by the host team.

After losing 24 consecutive games over a two year period, Schoolcraft not only broke the string but landed a place in the finals.

Then, the charm was shattered and Cinderella lost her slipper as Schoolcraft, unable to stand the rarified atmosphere of victory, bowed to the Ohioans, 86 to 54, with the title at stake.

The tournament, which is expected to be an annual affair, was an outstanding success both from the standard of play and attendance. More than 1900 persons attended the three nights of competition in the Northville Community Building.

Schoolcraft ended its long losing streak in its first appearance in the tournament by beating Monroe Community College, 71 to 44, in the first round. In the second appearance Schoolcraft bested Highland Lake 67 to 56.

With this victory the host team equalled the number of triumphs it had registered in the past two years.

There was even some speculation that Schoolcraft might climax its surprise showing by winning the title. But it was not to be. The golden dream was shattered by the speed and accuracy of the Ohioans, top-seeded team in the tournament.

32 Letters To Students

Varsity letters were awarded to 32 members of the Schoolcraft College soccer and cross country teams at the college's annual sports award banquet at Waterman Center.

Soccer Coach Bob Leggat, who led his team to an 8-0 record this year, presented 18 major letters and five minor letters to squad members. Cross-country Coach Tony Rizzo, whose runners compiled a 20-1 record, presented eight major letters and one minor letter to his harriers.

The Schoolcraft cross-country team were Michigan Junior College Athletic Association champions, placed third in the regional JCAA meet, and finished 12th in the national meet at Pensacola, Fla.

George Marshall, track and cross-country coach at Eastern Michigan University, was guest speaker. Athletic Director Marvin Gans was master of ceremonies for the program which included remarks by Schoolcraft President Dr. Eric J. Bradner, and Vice-President John H. Brinn.

Pro Bowlers Prizes Hit Record Peak

AKRON, O. - Almost $800,000 in cash prizes will be on the line this winter for the nation's top professional bowlers to shoot at.

The all-time record prize fund, which will be distributed in 15 cities starting in January, was announced by officials of the Professional Bowlers Association (PBA) today at their Rubber City headquarters.

Thirteen of the stops will be on the regular winter tour of the PBA, which starts January 3 in Tucson and winds up in Akron with the $100,000 Firestone PBA Tournament of Champions finals scheduled for April 1.

The other two tournaments in which PBA members will compete are the ABC Masters tournament in Miami Beach and the BPAA All-Star tournament in St. Louis, which are sponsored by the American Bowling Congress and the Bowling Proprietors Association of America, respectively.

will find the professionals moving into a municipal auditorium for the first time for the finals.

Special lane installations will enable some 5,000 to 6,000 fans to see the finals of the week-long affair, which will include a gigantic $30,000 Pro-Am event.

First prize at each tournament will range from a minimum of $5,000 to as much as the $25,000 first prize paid the Firestone winner, and competitive fields will range from 96 to as many as 160, depending on the location of each tournament.

The record-breaking prize list is made possible by the rapidly growing interest in professional bowling and its superstars such as Dick Weber, Don Carter, Dave Davis and Wayne Zahn and the fact that four of the tournaments will be sponsored commercially by national organizations. They are Faberge, Inc., the Ebonite Co., Miller Brewing Co. and the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.

Now in its eighth year, the PBA has grown from a 1959 beginning of three tournaments and $47,000 in prize money to a cross-country year-round tour of some 32-35 tournaments, with prize money expected to reach the $1,500,000 mark in 1967. PBA officials said they expect to add possibly 22 tournaments to the schedule for next summer, with the year climaxed by the $70,000 PBA Championship in the now-building new Madison Square Garden Center in New York.

There will be another first in the PBA's history this winter. The $70,000 Mobile-Sertoma Open in the Alabama city

Hawks, Doves & Vietnam

The American people, as they view the war in Vietnam, cannot be classed either as doves or hawks.

At least this is the opinion of a professor of government at Harvard, Seymour Martin Lipset, whose recent article, "The President, the Polls and Vietnam", throws some light on the confusing results of Vietnam opinion polls.

The article appeared in "Trans-action", a magazine published at Washington University, St. Louis.

According to Lipset, polls on foreign affairs have greatly different meaning than polls on domestic issues. While the American people are involved in domestic issues and can react to them on the basis of direct experience of liberal-conservative beliefs, they have no such experience or knowledge in foreign affairs, Lipset says.

Therefore, opinion on events abroad is influenced much more by the press and political leaders than is opinion on events happening at home.

"If we trace the poll popularity of a single leader, say Tito of Yugoslavia or de Gaulle of France, it becomes clear that the poll variations in the United States follow policy decisions made about him on the basis of whether his actions further or hamper American concerns.

"In other words, polls do not make policy so much as follow policy in most areas of international affairs."

This tendency is especially noticeable now with regard to the Vietnam war. The national policy-makers, particularly the President "have an almost free hand to pursue any policy they think correct, and get public support for it.

"They can escalate under the justification that this is the only way to prevent a Communist takeover" in Southeast Asia; they can negotiate with the Vietcong for a coalition government if this policy is presented as one which will gain peace while avoiding such a presumed takeover."

Lipset's conclusions do not mean that most people are fickle, he says. Instead, they agree upon certain large goals, such as peace and the containment of Communism, and they are willing to accept the judgment of their leaders on how this is to be done.

Many of the opinion surveys taken on Vietnam issues have tended themselves to favorable interpretation by either hawks or doves - Americans have come to both dove-like and hawk-like conclusions.

Bud Lipset thinks that these seemingly inconsistent answers fit into a general attitude toward foreign affairs.

"Two sets of attitudes stand out among the various responses. The great majority of the American people desire peace in Vietnam, do not want war with China, are prepared to accept some sort of compromise truce with the enemy, and, in fact, anticipate a negotiated peace rather than a victory.

"On the other hand, a substantial majority is strongly hostile to Communism and all Communist countries, including Soviet Russia, Cuba and China.

"Most Americans are, in fact, both doves AND hawks; the more thorough and detailed the querying of opinions, the more clearly this appears."

Lipset goes on to point out the peace-war conflict in responses to a poll conducted by the National Opinion Research Center (NORC) of the University of Chicago.

Essentially everyone polled favors peace. Eighty-eight per cent would favor American negotiations with the Vietcong if they were willing to negotiate, and more than half would accept formation of a new government in which the Vietcong took some part as a means of ending the fighting.

But the doves turned into hawks when asked, "If President Johnson were to announce tomorrow that we were going to withdraw from Vietnam and let the Communists take over, would you approve or disapprove?" Eighty per cent rejected this flatly, and 56 per cent would not even accept 'gradually withdrawing our troops and letting the South Vietnamese work out their own problems.'

"When pollsters' questions remind respondents of the cost of the war in lives and do not mention Communism, Americans often support the more pacific alternative," Lipset concluded. "When they are faced with fighting or agreeing to a Communist victory, they opt for continuing the war, and even for escalating if necessary."

The only point on which President Johnson gets heavy criticism is on not turning the problem over to the United Nations. A slim majority approved such a course in a Louis Harris poll.

Where Do We Go From Here?

Big Typhoon to Hit Capital City Soon

Although you won't hear about it from the weatherman in his forecasts a typhoon of giant proportions is due to hit Washington, D.C. shortly after the first of the new year.

It will swirl and twist and turn and be unlike anything that has hit the nation's capital in a long time.

The big commotion will come with the opening of the 90th Congress and the advent of a large delegation of "new" Republicans determined to revamp the mockery of the so-called two-party system that has been the vogue during the last session.

"We are going down there with forward looking programs," Congressman-elect Marvin Esch advised, "and in advancing them will look at the so-called problems as 'past' problems.

"We are going to offer a program of aggressive and progressive thinking and the problems will be removed in the transition."

The Congressman-elect, like the other new GOP representatives, is determined that there will be a better balance in the new body and that it will not be accused of being a rubber stamp for the Man in the White House.

"We hope to end the coalition of the old line Republicans and the southern Democrats," Esch explained, "and propose the type of thinking that should produce substantial results."

According to some of the hints that have been dropped along the line the new Republican group is prepared to take on L.B.J. and his spending programs. The word has been whispered along the route to the capital that "if the President offers an unbalanced budget, we will have one of our own that is balanced."

With this sort of thinking and planning the early days of the next Congress promise to be most interesting and folks will really believe a typhoon has struck the stately old capitol building.

Money Should Go To Junior Sports

There isn't any time like right now, while the Plymouth Community Fund Board of Directors is still on Cloud Eleven after the tremendous success of the 1966 campaign, to make a pitch for funds for one of the community's most worthwhile youth activities.

Specifically, we are referring to the Junior sports program which includes the baseball leagues during the summer, the basketball during the winter and the football, which is just now getting started. These programs have been carried on for years by groups of interested parents who have tried all sorts of promotional efforts to raise funds. These are dedicated people who are interested in the welfare of their children as well as all others in the community.

The list includes the coaches and managers who devote hours of their time to working with the boys. It includes the officials - umpires and referees - who take time off in the afternoons and evenings to lend their bit to the cause.

Then there are the mothers who have to take care of the uniforms and the bruises and lacerations of their boys when they come home from the games, tired, sore but full of the enthusiasm that is generated by the league activities.

These same parents who are donating their time also make contributions to the Community Fund.

Thus, the question naturally arises as to why the PCF Board should consider making an allotment to the junior athletic programs.

It has been brought to our attention that this matter may be presented to the Board within the next few weeks. We would like to go on record now favoring grants for this program.

We are well aware of the time that has been put into the junior sports activities by such individuals as Joe Bida, longtime president of the Baseball League and former DPW Superintendent; Ken Vogras, new president and current DPW head; John Van Wagoner, who has been one of the prime boosters of the junior basketball project; Howard Oldford, who carries the ball for the Junior Chamber of Commerce in the basketball leagues; Neal 'Doc' Fenkeli, the radio and television supervisor for the Detroit Tigers, who has done everything possible for the success of the various activities; Joe Gates, Municipal Judge Ed Draugellis, City Commissioner James Jabara, George Hunter and others who have been working for the success of the ventures as coaches, advisors and counselors.

We feel this would be a good investment on the part of the Community Fund. It would be something like making an investment in the future and helping to stamp out possible problems before they develop.

We hope that when the matter is presented to the Board that members take a favorable attitude. We believe this is just as worthy a cause as many of the others backed by the Fund.

Local Girl Thankful After Injury Miracle

A child screams. A mother, having a leisurely cup of coffee with a neighbor, rushes to the garage. She expects to find her daughter's hand shut in the car door.

Instead the five-year-old girl is standing on top of the trunk of the car, the radio antenna is pushed through Patricia Griffin's eye and up into her brain.

This happened on Sept. 26. Now, almost two months later, Patricia is home from the hospital. Tests indicate she has no brain damage. The Hugh Griffin family of Murray Hill Drive, has real reason to be thankful this Thanksgiving Day.

At 20 after one on Sept. 26 things weren't so calm. Patricia and her friend Pamela Finney had been jumping from the Finney's garage door to the trunk of the car. Patricia landed on the antenna.

Mrs. Griffin and Mrs. Alan Finney ran to the garage and tried to get the antenna out of Patricia's eye. Fortunately Mr. Finney was home.

While Mrs. Griffin held the girl, he unscrewed the antenna from the car. Finding the antenna was firmly stuck in the girl, he didn't try to force it out.

Doctors credit this with saving the girl's life. Extra pressure would have severely damaged the delicate brain.

Not realizing how serious the injury was, Mrs. Griffin and Finney rushed to Anapolis Hospital.

There X-rays were taken, eye surgeons were called in. Brain surgery was necessary, so the girl was sent by ambulance to the University Hospital in Ann Arbor.

"I kept talking to her all the during the ride," said Mrs. Griffin. "She was conscious, but very quiet. She was in shock.

"They hadn't been able to cut the antenna, at Anapolis, so I had to make sure she didn't move around.

"She was in surgery for almost three hours at the University Hospital," added Mrs. Griffin.

"Finally at 9 p.m. the parents were told that the operation was a success, but further tests would be necessary to see if there had been any brain damage.

Those tests have been successful.

All that remains of an accident which will be written up in medical journals, is a partially shaved head for Patricia. And her memory of a six day stay in the hospital, which she describes as:

"Blaugh."

Burroughs Chairman To Retire

The chairman and chief executive officer of Burroughs Corporation, Ray R. Eppert, plans to retire from active work in the firm on Feb. 1, 1967. One of Burroughs' major plants is in Plymouth.

Eppert's long career with Burroughs covered a span of 46 years. He served in many executive capacities and since April 1958 has been chief executive officer. During that period a complete technological transformation of Burroughs was accomplished.

Ray W. Macdonald, president, will assume the responsibility of chief executive officer on February 1. Macdonald was elected president January 1, 1966 and Eppert was elected chairman at the same time.

Eppert was born in Carbon, Ind., in 1920 and he joined Burroughs at the age of 18 as a shipping clerk in Ogden, Utah. Within four months he was named senior sales representative. He advanced rapidly through all phases of sales work, both in the field and in the home office.

In 1939 he was named assistant general sales manager and in 1941 was promoted to general sales manager. He became vice president in charge of world marketing in 1946, a member of the board of directors in 1948, and executive vice president in 1951. In April 1958 he was elected president of the corporation.

Long interested in public health, as chairman of the Detroit Medical Center Committee, Eppert has helped plan the multi-million dollar hospital and medical education complex now rising in midtown Detroit. He is also president of the board of trustees of Harper Hospital.

Eppert is affiliated as director or trustee with twenty-five national and international organizations. In 1962 he was awarded the Cross of Chevalier, French Legion of Honor.

He is a trustee of Hillsdale College, a member of the lay board of trustees of the University of Detroit, and a director of Cranbrook School for Boys. He has been awarded degrees of Honorary Doctor of Humanities, Hillsdale College (1956), Honorary Doctor of Laws, Western Michigan University (1961), Honorary Doctor of Science in Business Administration, Detroit Institute of Technology (1961) and Honorary Doctor of Laws, Michigan State University (1962).

Eppert is a member of the board of directors of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, Michigan Consolidated Gas Company, and the National Bank of Detroit.

As leader of a corporation heavily involved in international business, Mr. Eppert became deeply interested in the problems of foreign trade and international finance, and is widely regarded as one of the nation's experts in these fields. Recently, he was appointed by the U.S. Department of State to its Advisory Committee on International Business Problems.

Since its inception, Eppert has been the most active business executive in the United Fund movement. He participated in Metropolitan Detroit's first United Foundation campaign in 1949 and has played a prominent role in each of the campaigns since then. He moved up the chain of command until in 1953 he was general campaign chairman.

Congress of the United States
House of Representatives
Washington, D.C. 20515

November 23, 1966

Dear Friends:

The Thanksgiving season is a time when Americans traditionally give thought to the many blessings and bounties of life for which we can be thankful.

In this spirit, I would like to thank you, the citizens of the Second Congressional District--my employers for the past two years--for the privilege of representing you in the United States House of Representatives. I am especially grateful to those of you who cast your votes for me in the election just passed. To the hundreds of individuals who generously helped to finance my campaign for reelection, and to the many hundreds of volunteers who devoted countless hours, immeasurable energy, and unbounded hope to the campaign, I owe and offer my sincere appreciation. You helped make democracy work.

I regret that I shall not have the opportunity to represent you and our District in the forthcoming Congress. During the past two years, I have welcomed the challenges and responsibilities of office. And the challenges that remain are many. Our world is far from perfect. Our nation has painful faults and unhealed flaws, as well as noble ideals and worthy practices. Our people still have rights to be fulfilled and needs that must be met.

In recent weeks, many of you have sent letters and telegrams of condolence and encouragement. I am deeply grateful, to each of you, for your thoughtfulness and support.

In the months ahead, I shall look forward to meeting with many of you, when opportunity permits, and hope that, at some future time, I shall be able to accept again the challenge of public service.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,
Wes Vivian

You won't trade this convertible in every three years.

(It's a KitchenAid dishwasher.)

Like all KitchenAid dishwashers, it's built to last years longer. It's called a convertible because you can use it right now as a front-loading portable dishwasher without any installation expense. And convert it to a built-in whenever you like. You get a choice of colors, a roomy interior, a washing action so effective you don't have to hand rinse, a separate drying system. And to top it off, a 1 1/2" thick, hard maple cutting board. Wheel on down and see all the new KitchenAid models.

Don't be switched from the best... KitchenAid. GLENN C. LONG

Thanksgiving Prayer

Eternal God, at this festival of the harvest season we praise and thank Thee for this good land which Thou hast given us for our heritage. We thank Thee for all our natural resources, We thank Thee for all our human resources, We thank Thee for our freedom under Thy Divine Rulership, And we thank Thee for Thy guiding hand along Thy pathways. But more especially we thank Thee for things unseen. And now on this day of gratitude, we beseech Thee to make us a people "strong in the hold and in the power of His might." Equip us with truth and character that our nation may become the servant of Thy righteousness, and a beacon of freedom to all peoples of the earth. Amen.

Obituaries U.M. Football Team Sets Passing Record Polls Stir Big Debate

BILLIE RUSSELL CANADAY
 Rev. Robert Spradling, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Northville, officiated at the services for Billie Russell Canaday, 22, who was killed in an auto accident on Ann Arbor Road, near Beck, on November 18.
 An employee of Whitman-Barnes Corporation, since graduation from South Lyon High School, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Canaday, 49770 West Ann Arbor Road, a brother, Herbert Canaday, Jr. of Plymouth; and two sisters, Linda Canaday of Plymouth, and Mrs. Minnie Watson, of Northville. Interment was in Riverside Cemetery in Plymouth.

Michigan's football squad closed the 1966 season on a cheery note as the Wolverines downed Ohio State 17-3 at Columbus last weekend to wind up the year with several Big Ten and Maize and Blue records to help mark a third-place tie with Illinois in the league standings.
 The complete season brought Coach Bump Elliott's team an over-all winning mark of 6-4, and a Big Ten showing of 4-3. In the Conference race the Wolverines scored 171 points to 110. Overall their point total was 236 points to 138 for all opponents.
 Individually Jack Clancy, Maize and Blue leader and chief candidate for All-American honors at split-end, completed his career in a blaze of glory to clinch both ends of the Big Ten's pass reception records. Against the Bucks, Clancy caught three passes for 59 yards to swell his Big Ten total to 698 yards to break the mark of 656 set by Wisconsin's Pat Richter in 1962. The Wolverine leader holds the Conference record with 50 passes he has caught this season.

Michigan's football squad has caught 128 passes for 1,841 yards and nine touchdowns. His battery mate, Dick Vidmer at quarterback, also turned in an amazing performance. His touchdown pass to Clayt Wilhite against the Buckeyes brought his Conference touchdown-tossing mark to 10, thus tying the Big Ten record of Ron Vander Kelen of Wisconsin, set in 1962.
 Vidmer also set an all-time Michigan mark of 1,611 yards with his 117 of 226 completed passes. His total offense mark of 1,641 yards also breaks the mark set by All-American Bob Timberlake of 1,515 set in 1964 for 10 games.
 Defensive halfback Rick Volk also boosted the record collection by booting 24 of 24 point attempts for a new Big Ten mark, breaking the record of 22 set by another former Michigan, Jim Brieske who set it in 1946 and repeated in 1947, Harry Allis, another Wolverine, duplicated with the same number in 1948.

There was a time, not many years ago, when the nation's sports writers referred to the football season as the "silly" season - and not without good reason.
 It was the time of the year when cold, hard-hearted business men would throw away the cares of their offices and responsibility, to engage in the most partisan of all activities - cheering for their alma mater on the cold, crisp days of the Fall.
 Heads of manufacturing plants, top officials of government and business, would journey to the college stadia each week and rally to the call of the alma mater.
 Strong men grew weak. Often they stood with bared heads and tears streaming down their cheeks, as the college band rent the air with the old fight songs.
 But the silliness of those days is palling in contrast with the silliness that marked the close of the present season.
 An otherwise good football season is moving into history with the cry, "Who is No. 1?"
 This is the result of a quirk in the schedule - set up about six years ago - that brought together the nation's two top teams, Notre Dame and Michigan State, on the closing week of the season.
 Both unbeaten and untied, they had the eyes of the nation on them when they engaged in their celebrated 10-10 tie. In other days and other years this would have been taken to mean that there was little to choose between the two.
 But, somewhere along the line, a custom of rating the teams, got started. First, it was a vote of specially selected coaches, and next the nation's so-called top sports writers. In many cases those who voted never saw the teams in action. But their votes counted just the same.
 That's what has happened now. Men who saw neither of the teams in action have created a controversy that may never be settled.
 Notre Dame is playing Southern California this week and could get beaten. If that happens Michigan State could be No. 1, and move up in the rating without ever touching a ball.
 The same thing is true out on the coast where Southern California has been chosen to represent the west in the Rose Bowl - yet the Trojans lost to UCLA last week in a nationally televised game.
 So, the Rose Bowl, once the proud "daddy" of all bowl games, now is going to offer Purdue, second or third ranking team in the Big Ten, against a team that, presumably, is not the best on the coast.
 Talk about silly seasons - this has been one.
 But the end is not yet. It could wind up with Alabama getting the top spot.

DALE E. ARNOLD
 Services were held for Mr. Arnold, 64, of 643 Burroughs Avenue, Plymouth, at Schrader Funeral Home in charge of the Rev. Donald E. Williams of Plymouth and the Rev. R. N. Raycroft of Howell. Burial was in Riverside Cemetery.
 Mr. Arnold had been an automobile dealer at Arnold Auto Sales in Plymouth. He had come to the community in 1923 from Oklahoma. He died Nov. 21 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital following a heart attack.
 Surviving are his wife, Alice; his mother, Mrs. Charles Arnold of Muskegoe, Okla.; a son, Charles of Plymouth; a daughter, Mrs. Richard Swanson of Plymouth; two sisters, two brothers, and 12 grandchildren.

He also set a new Michigan receiving mark of 76 passes for 1,079 yards. Last season he set a Michigan record of 762 yards on 52 receptions. Thus in two seasons at end, Clancy

Questions & Answers

Is it possible to hang-age cuts of meat at home?

Cuts of meat will not improve by hanging. Meat ages properly to tenderness only when hung in large loins or whole hindquarters. The tenderizing process is achieved when the blood is absorbed through the tissues, and small cuts do not retain sufficient blood to make this possible. Ideally, the whole carcass should be hung for ten days before it is cut into large sides.
