Random selection continues for high schools

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education reaffirmed the use of random selection in assigning students to a high school by beginning the process that will make it a permanent policy of the district.

Monday night the board voted 6-1 to approve, for first reading, adoption of the random selection policy.

The process is used to balance student population between the two high schools at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) and to prevent the recruiting of athletes and de facto segregation.

Trustee E.J. McClendon felt a stronger move should be taken and asked that the procedure be included in the district's book of formal policies.

Trustee Roland Thomas voted "no" because he said he was against random selection.

UNDER THE procedure eighth graders are randomly assigned to attend either Plymouth Canton High or Plymouth Salem High when they begin high school in the tenth grade.

The only exception allowed is the so-called sibling rule which allows the eighth grader to attend the school randomly drawn or to attend the one his older brother or sister attends, if the older sibling will be in school at the time the student will enter.

An eighth grader, for example, may exercise the option if he has a brother or sister who this year is in the 10th grade. In two years, one sibling would be a senior and the other a sophomore. On the other hand, an eighth grader with a sibling in the 11th grade this year would not be eligible for the exception.

WHEN CANTON High was first opened, a feeder system was used whereby students attending certain middle schools would automatically attend either Canton or Salem high school, explained Superintendent Dr.

John M. Hoben.

When Canton was completed and became a full-fledged high school, random selection was instituted in 1978 to assign students to both schools, he said.

Hoben said the district went to the CEP concept of two schools on one site, and to random selection, to avoid any form of de facto segregation. The process has accomplished that goal, he said.

Trustee Flossie Tonda said that random selection also ended problems involved in the recruitment of athletes.

Thomas said he didn't like the system because it splits families and neighborhoods and causes problems for students.

Schroeder disagreed. "Parents have more problems than children do with the things the district does. In another district we once lived in, my two sons once competed against each other in swimming and water polo and it posed no problem for them or us."

THOMAS responded that Schroeder's experience has not been the same for all parents and that some families have problems with split loyalties when children attend different high schools.

Trustee Sylvia Stetz said there was no disruption with random selection because once the assignment is made it is good all through the student's high school career. Under a feeder system the student would be transferred if the family moved from one area to another within the district.

Thomas asked if a survey of residents could be taken to get their views on random selection.

Schroeder said that some 1,400 eighth graders are randomly assigned each year and only about 1 percent appeal to the board, suggesting that 99 percent find the process acceptable.

IN A RELATED matter, the board Monday night denied the appeal of three students who had been randomly assigned to Salem and wanted instead to attend Canton.

The board denied all three appeals because the sibling exception did not apply.

While arguing to deny the appeals, Trustee E.J. McClendon defended random selection as "the most logical way to provide equal opportunity schools at equal sizes."

Stetz said that some appeals were made because ninth graders were involved in sports at the CEP while attending classes in middle schools. This option was allowed by the board after the ninth grade was shifted from high school to middle school.

Although siblings may be competing on different teams as ninth and 12th graders, she said, that did not qualify as an exception because they were not in school together.

McClendon agreed, saying that when the board made the decision to allow ninth graders to participate in sports at the CEP it was made clear the decision would have no effect on student assignments.

Trustee Elaine Kirchgatter said it was interesting that all three appeals were to attend Canton instead of Salem. At one time, she said, most of the appeals were to attend Salem.

Schools eye tax options

This may be the last year that townships and cities collect property taxes for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The school board already has started the process to collect school property taxes twice a year — in June and in December.

Under a new state law, school districts may negotiate with townships and cities to collect the dual taxes and pay a fee for the service.

School districts may collect the taxes themselves or negotiate with an intermediate school district or a private institution to collect the taxes for a fee.

The city of Plymouth has expressed a willingness to collect taxes for the schools and talks are ongoing on what the fee will be.

CANTON Township has gone on record as refusing to collect school taxes in June, and Plymouth Township has asked for a fee that school administrators feel is excessive.

As a result, school administrators this week are talking with Wayne County about collecting the taxes.

School officials also have talked with bankers in the community who have expressed an interest in collecting taxes.

First National Bank of Plymouth officials have said they would provide the full range of tax collecting services, including the mailing of bills and collecting.

National Bank of Detroit officials said they definitely were interested in collecting taxes and would investigate and get back with school officials on what other services the bank could provide.

Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business, said there has been "no problem" in talks between the city and school district but "Plymouth Township's fee is way too high and Canton has refused to collect in June."

HOEDEL also will be meeting soon with officials from Salem and Superior townships to talk about what fees they would charge to collect Plymouth-Canton school taxes.

Hoedel is working under an April 1 deadline. By then he must have the tax rolls prepared in order to collect half of the school taxes in June.

Ice art on parade

After the weekend crowds left, this is what Kellogg Park looked like early Monday morning. The first annual Ice Sculptor Festival proved to be a success as more than 65,000 persons came into Plymouth to view the spectacular in Kellogg Park. The sculptures above were carved by professional chefs from Midwest Ice Co.,

Mayflower Hotel, Plymouth Hilton and other establishments and by student chefs from culinary arts departments of Schoolcraft College and Oakland Community College. For more photographs, see Pages 3A and 11A.

Era comes to close

Board ends Extended School Year

The use of year-round scheduling is over for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Monday night the school board voted 7-0 to end Extended School Year (ESY) scheduling in the school district and place all buildings on the traditional nine-month school calendar.

The action took Eriksson and Field elementaries off ESY and placed them on a nine-month calendar for the 1983-84 school year.

Both schools, among the three newest in the district, opened their doors on a year-round schedule and have never known any other system except ESY.

The shift is being made to save money and because declining enrollment district-wide allows these two buildings to go on a nine-month schedule without exceeding capacity. (ESY allows a building to hold one-third more students than if it were on a nine-month calendar.)

The change will result, though, in an initial shift of students from one attendance area to another. An attempt Monday night to guarantee placement for three years failed.

SUPERINTENDENT Dr. John M. Hoben said that the change will result in the displacement of a large number of students from Cavalier South and Cavalier West in Canton.

The students, who would have attended Eriksson this fall, will be assigned to Isbister Elementary School.

In response to a question from the board, Shirley Spaniel, director of elementary education, said students from these subdivisions have not been moved before except for a few who were moved when families first began moving into the area.

Tom Yack, board president, said Cavalier parents at public hearings on ending ESY expressed concerns about being moved constantly and asked if a guarantee could be made that the placement at Isbister could last for three years.

Hoben said it was the administration's intent to keep students permanently at one school whenever possible but a guarantee could not be made for the Cavalier pupils. The administration now is looking at a plan, to be discussed with the board Monday, in which portable buildings would be used to absorb additional students if growth comes in two or three years.

Trustee Flossie Tonda said she was against a three-year guarantee because it might be possible in two years to return the students to their home school of Eriksson.

Trustee E.J. McClendon said: "I think it would be very unwise to make a commitment. I would hope we move children as little as possible and as few as possible but we need the flexibility to make decisions that are required."

TRUSTEE Glen Schroeder agreed. "We don't want to move anyone but to make such a commitment does not make good business sense." He said it would not make sense to spend $40,000

Study continues on cable

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

The Plymouth Township cable television task force is switching channels — from orientation to comparison work.

"The last few meetings we spent learning about the technical terms of cable operations," said Barbara Lynch, task force chairwoman.

"Starting with the next meeting, we will be investigating what other cable companies are doing?"

The township task force was appointed in December and work started in January.

The group is charged with looking into Omnicom Cablevision's compliance with the cable ordinance and has one year to complete its report to the township board of trustees.

A similar group in Canton Township recently finished its year-long task. The Canton committee recommended Canton officials start franchise revocation proceedings against Omnicom.

Those proceedings were stopped late last year when Omnicom agreed to upgrade the level of service provided to subscribers.

INCLUDED IN the Plymouth Township group's orientation work was the Canton committee's report.

"Plymouth Township doesn't want to go over old ground," said Pat Touhey, a task force member.

Getting acquainted with Canton's work and the working terms used in cable was important since the issue "gets complicated quickly," Touhey said.

"We're moving slower than anticipated because the orientation took longer than I thought it would," said Lynch.

The next phase of work for the task force will include looking at other cable facilities, reviewing the cable ordinance and meeting with Omnicom representatives, Lynch said.

"We're looking at other companies not so much to make up a wish list but to make sure we are getting the best service for the dollar," she said.

Touhey was surprised that the task force wasn't invited to last month's opening of the Omnicom facility on Ronda Drive in Canton.

"Omnicom's problem in a nutshell is a lack of public relations," Touhey said. "THEY TRIED to graft themselves to the community from afar. They're just kind of out there astride the community but not in it — in it but not of it," he said.

"The goal of the task force would be to open the channels of communication, so everyone can feel comfortable talking and getting things worked out for the best of the community."

Youth dies during basketball game

By Ariene Funke
staff writer

Funeral services were held Tuesday for a 15-year-old Canton youth who died Saturday after playing in a basketball game.

Bradley Fletcher, a ninth-grade student at Lowell Middle School, was a member of the Plymouth-Canton Junior Basketball Association, an independent junior basketball group for children in grades three to 12.

The youth, who had a history of heart problems, became ill after a game Saturday at Plymouth-Canton High School, according to Dick Egli, administrative assistant for community relations for the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Bradley had open heart surgery in November 1980 but had a physician's permission to play basketball, his father, Daniel, said.

The teen was described by his father as a youth who enjoyed sports.

"He was able to play, and he enjoyed it," Daniel Fletcher said. "He loved sports. He loved life. He was born with the heart condition. Surgery enabled him to participate in things he liked to do."

BRADLEY HAD played eight minutes during the game and was stricken shortly after the game ended, said James Gee, president of the league. A doctor attended the youth, and a Canton Township rescue unit was called to take Bradley to Oakwood Hospital Canton Center, according to reports.

Hospital staff tried unsuccessfully to revive him, according to Roger Waha, an Oakwood spokesman. Bradley was pronounced dead at 3:07 p.m.

Funeral services were Tuesday at Lambert-Loeniskar & Vermeulen Funeral Home Officiating was the Rev. Ernest M. Porcari of St. Thomas A Becket Church in Canton.

An autopsy was performed by the University of Michigan pathology department. Results were unavailable at deadline.

In addition to his father, Bradley is survived by his stepmother, Sherri, brother Paul, stepbrother Andrew, stepsister Wendy Nipper and grandmother Corrine Mister.

Sheriff's overtime

County's deficit growing

The Wayne County deficit, already estimated at $122 million by County Executive William Lucas, grew by another $600,000 last week as the Wayne County Board of Commissioners approved unbudgeted expenditures for the sheriff's department.

"How do you pay from an account where there's no money?" asked Commissioner Kay Beard, D-Inkster.

Fellow Commissioner Arthur Carter of Detroit gave the answer: use account E3405-0. This number, which many board members are beginning to memorize, is for the county's deficit account.

"I don't know whether it's appropriate to fund (an expense) from an account that's established to fund a prior year's deficit," objected Commissioner Mary Dumas, R-Livonia.

David Plawewski, Lucas's legislative agent, said the executive's office realizes money will have to be found to pay off the accumulated deficit.

BY VOICE votes, the county commissioners, operating Thursday as a committee-of-the-whole, approved these sheriff's department expenditures:

• $485,000 in overtime for the final three months of fiscal 1982, when Lucas was still sheriff. The breakdown: $301,000 for the executive and jail, $102,000 for the jail annex in Westland, $54,000 for court services, the rest for secondary road patrols and Metropolitan Airport.

• $109,000 to keep open the fourth floor of the jail annex. The 36-man cell block is used only when the county jail system approaches its 1,000 capacity. Sheriff Loren Pittman asked the funds for the months of March and April. Commissioners approved the funds contingent on the county executive's suggesting a source of funds.

IN OTHER action, the commission sent back to committee a proposed $117,000 out-of-court settlement for a damage case brought by George and Anthonita Zelenka against the Sheriff's Department and three deputies.

Commissioners asked for a recommendation from Executive Lucas. Commissioner Richard Manning, D-Redford, noted bitingly that Lucas's chief of staff, attorney Dennis Nystrom, said, "Our corporation counsel couldn't find his way out of a paper bag with both hands and with both eyes open."

Added Manning, "To avoid that potential criticism, we should refer this to the chief executive's office. I would not want to hear in two weeks that we did another dumb thing."

ACCORDING TO commissioners, the Zelenkas filed suit in 1976 after George Zelenka was knocked down, beaten and kicked by deputies while being booked at the Westland annex for a traffic violation.

Claiming permanent serious psychological and emotional damages, Zelenka put out-of-pocket expenses for attorney fees, medical expenses, loss of earnings and forced sale of his home at $25,000. Circuit Judge Maureen Reilly suggested the out-of-court settlement indicating a jury might award damages of more than $500,000.

Car sellers may be towed

Police are planning to tow away cars parked in the K mart parking lot with for sale signs on them.

Plymouth police have received complaints about cars for sale being parked in the northwest corner of the K mart lot, Haggerty and Ann Arbor roads.

On some weekends there are as many as 20 cars parked in the corner of the lot, according to Police Chief Carl Berry.

"People slowing down to look at the cars are causing traffic problems on Ann Arbor Road."

Police plan to start towing the cars in the near future, he said.

Ice carvers chip winners

It was just another "chip off the ol' block" last weekend as chefs and students participated in Plymouth's Ice Sculpture Festival.

An estimated 66,000 people passed through Kellogg Park over the weekend to view the finished carvings or watch the artists at work.

The event brought an estimated $50,000 into the business community, City Manager Henry Graper said.

Each of the ice carvings was judged by a panel of five judges. The pieces were evaluated on workmanship, presentation, degree of difficulty, and originality.

Winners in the professional division were:
 • George Greenwell of the Midwest Ice Co. took first place with his China Lady. He won two airplane tickets to Orlando, two tickets to EPCOT Center, $400, and limousine service to and from Metro Airport.

Theres and Bob Gall of Plymouth Township are among visitors to Kellogg Park for the ice festival.

Tales from the Tonquish

Old Shaman's last ride

Alone on his tired, little Indian pony, limping along Pontiac's ancient trail, the last Shaman (medicine man) of the Tonquish Potawatomi pondered his plight.

Yesterday a paleface governor of this territory had tried to buy the Shaman's influence, tried to force him to direct his people's thoughts toward a new land in the far west. The paleface had threatened much and promised little, and the old Shaman was greatly worn by the pressure of his own conflicting thoughts.

Near the intersection of the Grand River trail and the path to Silver Lake, an area known today as New Hudson, he turned his pony eastward toward the white settlements. He wanted to see what had happened to his old stamping ground along the Middle Rouge.

The Shaman had heard of many changes there. Other duties had kept him away from Tonquish Plain for almost six months. Now, in December 1819, he was responding to the call of Toga's people to install their new chief.

Because he was one of the most celebrated medicine men among both the Ojibwa and the Potawatomi, the Shaman recognized his commitment, his obligation, to his Tonquish cousins. He promised himself that he would not fail them. But the path was long and rough, and both he and the pony were exceedingly weary.

After almost an hour's slow riding he turned southeast toward Plymouth Mound. At a crosspath known today as Baseline (Eight Mile) and Novi Roads, he was startled to hear the clanging noise of chains being dragged along the ground.

Alighting quickly, he crept behind a thicket close to the laboring surveyors. He saw them signaling each other. How strange!, he thought. What are they doing? They are peering through that box at some imaginary bird or tree. Perhaps that's the way they measure. And they are pounding stakes into good Mother Earth. Bonga! Bonga! Bonga! Damn it all.

WITH THE TREATY of Detroit in 1807, and subsequent agreements including the Treaty of 1815, the Indians in the Plymouth-Canton and surrounding area had ceded much of their Michigan land to the Americans.

The white man's new boundary ran due north from North Defiance, Ohio, to a line designated as the principal Michigan meridian, a few miles east of what now is Lansing. This is Lansing's Meridian Road.

The base line was run east about eight miles north of Fort Detroit. Base Line Road is derived from this, and it also is known as Eight Mile Road.

From these two lines (Meridian and Base Line) surveyors established all the townships in Michigan including those in the Upper Peninsula.

The box which mystified the Shaman was a hand-held compass housed in a wooden frame. The surveyors could get a straight line by aligning the protruding sights in the box with their old-fashioned mercury compass. The noisy chain which had startled the Indian was a standard Gunther chain of 100 links of eight inches each. It was supposed to be, and usually was, exactly 66 feet long.

Bonga! Bonga! The old Shaman looked at the sun and knew he must hurry if he was to reach Plymouth Mound before noon.

Along the Middle Rouge near Northville he again was startled to see two new mills grinding the white man's corn. And there were several cabins along the familiar stream which had not been there before. He wondered what had happened to his people's weirs and traps. They must be stolen by now, he concluded.

Urging the little pony on toward Plymouth Mound, the Shaman continued to brood about his confrontation with the white governor. In his heart he questioned the white man's promises. "Oh, Great Spirit, what do I do now?" he cried aloud.

Suddenly, in his anguish, he was transfixed with the foreboding that he would never ride this way again. This thought came to him as in a dream. But it was a true thought and he recognized its truth.

Those among the Shaman's followers who really knew him sensed that his perceptions were unique; his prescience was remarkable and not unlike that of a few other survivors of the Ojibwa of ancient lineage. He lived alone and somewhat apart from the usual rhythm of time and place. His people never doubted him and their confidence was the mainstay of his extensive and successful medical practice. He was the most successful healer in this part of Michigan and consulted by Indians and whites alike.

AFTER AWHILE HIS INTIMATE confrontation with his private world evoked a prayer.

Of course, I have no idea of exactly what he said, but I have read hundreds of Indian prayers and I am sure that his petition was not unlike this typical example:

"Hey-a-a- Hey-a-a- Hey-a-a-
 I am a poor old Shaman, Oh, Great Spirit
 The last of my people. Hear me.
 Oh, hear me.

I cry for my people.
 They have given their land away.
 Hey-a-a- Hey-a-a-
 Help us now, oh, Great Spirit.
 Help us to find our way into the West.
 I have been trying to believe the white man's promises.
 I have been seeking them,

VFW to reopen hall

By W.W. Edger
staff writer

A World War I veteran, who installed the first officers of VFW Mayflower Post 6695, is coming back as the honored guest when the veterans dedicate their new home on Mill Street in Plymouth on Saturday, April 6.

More familiarly known as "Goldie" among the veterans, G. Edwin Slater holds a proud record of installing the Mayflower Post Commanders for 17 consecutive years, starting when the post was organized and continuing until 1946.

Now a retired lawyer living in Dearborn, he was the department commander in 1950-51 and is widely known in veteran circles.

His returning to Plymouth will be the feature of the big day Mayflower Post members have been looking forward to since the former hall was destroyed by fire in January 1982.

Sharing the spotlight with Slater will be Ernest Stratyckuk, department commander in 1963-64, who will be the main speaker for the evening portion of the dedication program. Another important visitor will be Jim Goldsmith, current department commander of Post 5666.

Ceremonies will begin at 12:30 p.m. with the presentation of the flag. Next will follow an open house in the new quarters. Refreshments will be served during the afternoon.

A buffet dinner will be served at the evening program beginning at 6:30. Following the dinner and the formal dedication program, there will be dancing to the music of the Bill Thomas Orchestra, a local band, until 1 a.m.

Former poster child dies

By Ariene Funke
staff writer

Five years ago, Christopher Yotti of Canton began meeting celebrities and attending fund-raisers as a poster child for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

In recent months, according to his parents Frederick (Rick) and Cindi Yotti, 10-year-old Christopher was confined to his home, weakened by a rare, progressive, neuromuscular disease called spinal muscular atrophy.

Christopher died Saturday at his home. Services were scheduled for 1 p.m. today at Newburg United Methodist Church in Livonia.

Christopher and his brother Matthew, 9, shared a common struggle with the crippling neuromuscular disease which results in lack of muscle development, weakness and loss of muscular abilities.

BOTH BOYS attended Roosevelt-McGrath School in the Wayne-Westland school district. Together they served as southeastern Michigan poster children for the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) in 1977 and '78.

The MDA has provided moral support and social activities for the family.

Those were fun times, said Rick Yotti, currently MDA president for southeastern Michigan.

"It was a really good experience for them," Yotti said. "They had an opportunity to meet and touch a lot of people. We liked sharing with others, and we do now."

Annual MDA fund-raising campaigns meant bed races, carnivals and parties and hopes of catching a glimpse of a celebrity or two.

But the disease's progression kept Christopher homebound for the last 1 1/2 years, Yotti said.

The family is comforted by the donation of Christopher's eyes to the Michigan Eye Bank.

Memorial donations may be made to the Muscular Dystrophy Association, or to the Newburg United Methodist Church in Livonia.

In addition to his parents and brother Matthew, Christopher is survived by his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Yotti of Trenton, and Dr. and Mrs. Rolland Keeling of Houghton.

9-month year for schools for a portable so the students could attend Eriksson if Isbister had 200 empty spaces available.

A motion was made by Roland Thomas, supported by Yack, who stepped down as chairman to argue for the proposal, to guarantee placement for the Cavalier students for three years.

Some 107 students live in the two subdivisions which are located north of Cherry Hill between Sheldon and Morton Taylor extended. The subdivisions are in the southwest corner of the Eriksson attendance area and abut the Isbister attendance area.

Thomas argued that if portable buildings are going to be used in the future to absorb any student growth which might occur then the board should be able to guarantee a three-year placement.

Spelman said present enrollment studies indicate a decline in older neighborhoods because children are growing up faster than children are being born or are moving in. As a result there will be a natural decline the next two years at Isbister and Miller elementaries.

The administration is considering moving a group of students from Fellows Creek, now at Farrand, to Miller in 1984, she said, but that won't affect space at Isbister.

YACK SAID the Cavalier subdivisions were susceptible to change because they are on the outside of the attendance area and could be a target for a move anytime population shifts. "Being here for a length of time I think they should have some privileges and one should be being at a school for a certain length of time."

The motion to guarantee placement was defeated, however, by a 4-3 vote. Voting in favor were Thomas, Yack and Sylvia Stetz.

Trustee Elaine Kirchgatter, in discussing the main motion, thanked parents and staff for making ESU successful while it existed.

Kirchgatter stressed the cut was being made for financial reasons, adding "I believe ESU was an educationally sound way to educate children."

McClendon agreed, saying that he was chairman of the committee which originally recommended year-round school for the district.

Regional board gives partial OK to 'super sewer'

By Tim Richard
staff writer

"Super sewer" moved a half-step closer to $76 million in federal funding as a regional agency gave it conditional approval.

The seven-county Area-wide Water Quality Board recommended state and federal funding for a sewage treatment plant in Brownstown Township at Lake Erie, two sewer interceptors going north to Trenton and Huron townships and a major relief sewer through Novi, Northville and Plymouth Township.

But the AWQB also recommended local officials "diligently pursue the issue of whether the North Service Area (the area north of Plymouth) flow could be treated at the Detroit plant . . . or the Brownstown plant."

And a city of Detroit representative underscored the Detroit vs. suburbs nature of the issue by voting to remain "steadfastly opposed. We can't accept this," said John McGrail, a Detroit representative on the AWQB sitting in for Charles Beckham, the indicted director of the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department.

SUPER SEWER is the nickname of a plan to build a single large sewage treatment plant at Brownstown and to serve a 40-mile string of communities in the Haggerty Road corridor with a major sewer interceptor.

The project is the work of the Wayne County Department of Public Works and the pet of DPW director Duane Egeland. The 64-year-old engineer from Livonia has been steadfastly pushing the project for more than 10 years.

"It was what we expected to get," Egeland said of the AWQB's decision at the end of a nearly four-hour meeting last week. "The board rarely rejects staff recommendations. Many members were voting on instructions," he said, referring to McGrail's stiff opposition to a suburban sewage treatment plant.

In dispute is whether the north part of the project area should feed wastewater into the Wayne County plant at Brownstown or instead tie into the northwest Detroit interceptor and be treated in the Detroit plant.

There was no question, however, over whether the North Service Area sewer interceptor was needed, no matter which plant it ultimately feeds into.

THE QUESTION — at least in engineering terms — is whether the Detroit sewage treatment plant has capacity to serve the northern suburbs.

Detroit officials insist their plant has the capacity and that it would be a waste of federal and state funds to build too large a Wayne County plant at Brownstown.

Egeland, however, came down hard on this point: "We don't have the figures for Detroit. But we have them for our system. And we think ours are lower."

"There's no chance in the world we can get (federal) funding for the Detroit plant," Egeland went on. He added that extending Detroit sewers to pick up wastewater from the northern suburbs "will disrupt 20 miles of recreation land."

THEN EGELAND turned to the politics of the situation.

"It's somewhat amazing to us, after this (10-year) process, that these questions come up . . . Obviously, there are numerous hidden agendas. People have motives."

Egeland was sitting as Wayne County's representative on the AWQB for the first time. He was appointed DPW director and AWQB representative by County Executive William Lucas, who bounced out the DPW's two previous leaders, Royce Smith and Chester Wozniak. Lucas strongly supports the super sewer project.

Some Oakland County officials, however, professed puzzlement at the dispute.

"We've heard from Egeland there is no excess (treatment) capacity in Detroit. We've heard there is," said JoAnne Van Tassel, a township supervisor from Lake Orion in northern Oakland County.

Donald Ringler, Oakland County DPW chief, shrugged, "It doesn't make a lot of difference whether our sewage is treated in Detroit or by Wayne County."

LEFT OUT of the recommendation was immediate funding for a portion of super sewer serving Canton and Van Buren townships.

That segment is to be a later phase of the $298 million total project. And it, too, is a matter of controversy as to whether it will be served by Detroit or Wayne County.

Patrick Brunett, a staff member for the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, under which AWQB operates, reported after the weeks of intense negotiations: "We were not entirely successful in reaching a situation where all parties felt all questions had been answered."

McGrail of Detroit said the city has "institutional questions" about Canton and Van Buren, a veiled reference to the politics of the situation.

EGELAND ARGUED for full approval of the project, pointing to the May 1 deadline his department faces for getting 75 percent federal funding and state approval under the Clean Waters Act.

"This (compromise) recommendation introduces a further gamble. The whole project could unravel," he said. "You may consider that an alarmist point of view, but it is possible."

The Wayne County DPW chief said that super sewer, as it stands, involves an agreement among 17 communities.

"This is an integrated project. Each community is dependent on the other for benefits," Egeland said.

That admission delighted Detroit's McGrail. "I hadn't realized how integrated this is," he said. "The system could crumble before our eyes."

'Each community is dependent on the other for benefits.'

but I cannot find them.
We did not ask these people here.

Oh, Great Spirit. Where are their promises now?
Where are we now? What have we done to cause us to depart from our homeland?
We really have no place to go.
Where is our ancient dream?
Forsake us not, Beloved Spirit, be with us now. Guide us now.
Hey-a-a. Hey-a-a. Hey-a-a.

As his prayer blended with the wind he felt his own tears falling down his craggy cheeks. But soon his depressed spirit was lifted by the sound of the drumbeat on Plymouth Mound.

Now, he said to himself, I must paint on a happier face. They trust me and depend upon me. I am their Shaman — their teacher. I must not let them down, yet they must never know the price of my bravery.

WHEN THE SUN REACHED high noon he strode among the assembled throng with every appearance of poise and power. He wore his favorite mask and his most elegant robe, and he walked with an air of majesty most becoming to the head Shaman of the mystical order of the Mediwiwin.

Bowing graciously to the magnificent Powatomie altar, his powerful voice and magical words hypnotized them into the belief that he had secret, esoteric knowledge of all the mysteries on their Indian earth.

The murmuring crowd of nearly 200 sat on the ground in ever-widening concentric circles around their impressive altar. At the sight of the Shaman they suddenly were silent.

Some had walked long distances to hear him and they did not want to miss a word. They longed to hear his marvelous voice telling them that all was yet right in their world. They believed he could restore their peace and preserve their pride. He could make their hearts sing again like a bird in the forest at the dawn's first light.

(The next column will report what the Shaman said, and how his influence was negated by Telonga's quick-witted reply.)

Shots fired at business

Three people escaped injury Saturday evening when several shots were fired at the rear of a Plymouth Township business. Two shots broke a window and lodged in inside walls.

The employees of the Absopure Corp. at 9135 General Court were in the back of the building when the shooting began.

The bullets are believed to be from a

.22 caliber rifle, according to Plymouth police, who are investigating.

At least seven to eight shots were fired at the back of the building, including the two which went through the window, according to police.

The three employees could have been hit by the gunfire, the report said.

Police estimated the damage at $200.

Information not misinformation

Ordinarily we don't advertise. We feel that "being persuaded" has more to do with the kind of light and conviction that came to St. Paul than with advertising. But we've placed this ad because we feel it's time to make available some accurate information about Christian Scientists and what we really believe.

For example: maybe you've heard that Christian Scientists are "against doctors." That's not a fair statement. Yes, we do believe strongly in Christian healing—as distinguished from "faith healing." In this secular time, we believe it's crucial to humanity that the practical power of prayer survive. But we also totally support free moral choice, and we love and value humanitarian efforts wherever they're found.

Or maybe you've read something recently that labels Christian Science as a "cult." You may or may not agree with what Christian Scientists believe, but you can easily determine there's nothing about us that fits this derogatory category. We've been a democratically organized church of lay members on the American scene for over 100 years. Church services and Reading Rooms are open to all. And anyone who's attended a church service knows of the emphasis on Christian prayer, quiet reasonable thought, and individual spiritual experience.

As we said, the reason for this ad is to offer information instead of misinformation. And if you send the coupon, be assured there is no follow-up of any kind—phone, letter or personal.

State's cupboard is bare — but how to restock it?

By Carol Azizian
staff writer

State government is a victim of its own financial "chicanery" and bad accounting practices, not the recession.

That consensus of opinion was reached by State Budget Director Philip Jourdan, Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Murphy and Wayne State University President David Adamany in talks before the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce.

All three aired their views on the impact of the state fiscal crisis at a chamber gathering last week.

Although they agreed on the causes of the crisis, they disagreed on solutions for wiping out a projected $900 million deficit.

Democrat Jourdan defended Gov. James Blanchard's proposals to boost the state personal income tax 38 percent and reduce spending by $225 million.

Republican Murphy called the proposals further examples of "fiscal gerrymandering and chicanery."

Although Adamany, who once worked for a Democratic governor in Wisconsin, opposes the cuts, he sees no alternative. He supports a permanent tax increase as a "long-term strategy for economic revitalization."

JOURDAN criticized former state fiscal planners for "wearing rose-colored glasses and resorting to accounting gimmicks to solve some of our problems."

"They've approved revenues that come to the state and gone on a cash basis with regard to expenditures."

"It's as if you had a heavy checkbook, and anytime anybody owed you money, you just entered into the register that you had $100. When you owed somebody else money, you didn't write him a check until he presented you with a bill."

"After a period of time, those checks would begin to bounce like rubber balls."

That's the situation Michigan's in," said Jourdan, a lawyer who served as a congressional staff chief to Rep. William Brodehead of the 17th District until last year.

"This has destroyed our credit rating — Michigan has the worst credit rating of any state in the U.S. — and caused a severe cash-flow problem."

"When somebody comes to us with a bill and says 'I want to be paid,' on many occasions, we look in the treasury and the cupboard is bare."

THE MOST reasonable solutions to the problem, Jourdan said, have been proposed by Blanchard.

"The governor's cuts were smaller than those recommended by his Financial Crisis Council, mainly because of a constitutional requirement (the Headlee amendment calls for 41 percent of state spending to be at the local level) and partly because deeper cuts would do severe and permanent damage."

Jourdan said the income tax hike was justified. "We looked at all the different kinds of taxes and determined that increasing the income tax would be the most profitable and do the least harm."

He argued against claims that the tax hike would put Michigan among the highest-taxed states.

"We have to keep in mind that other states are going through the same problems," he said.

Jourdan admitted "there's some truth to the fact that the tax increase could hurt the business climate," but added, "in order to get businesses to expand and hire more people, we have to maintain a business climate that would allow that to happen."

MURPHY agreed with Jourdan that the state is not just an "innocent victim" of the recession. "The state is more, a victim of its own chicanery than the recession," he said.

But the third-term Oakland County executive called the new governor's proposals just one more example of that "financial chicanery."

"Bad government should suffer bad consequences and should not be rewarded with tax increases," Murphy said.

"If the tax is increased by 38 percent, our citizens will have less money to pay property taxes. The pressure on county governments to provide relief through still lower property taxes and property assessments will grow."

Murphy said the county already has cut its property tax rate three times in the last four years and is battling with the State Tax Commission to lower assessments.

THE COUNTY executive criticized state officials for deferring aid payments to local governments. Oakland County lost $1.6 million in state aid last year and could lose another $1.8 million this year, he said.

But despite drastic reductions in state aid, the county still manages to balance its budget using proper accounting practices and without resorting to a property tax increase, Murphy said.

The state should look to Oakland County as an example of how a government's financial affairs should be run, Murphy said.

Even though Oakland has drastically reduced its work force, it still operates efficiently with fewer employees, he said.

"This year, we didn't give our employees a pay raise, even though pay scales have continued to fall 33 percent behind inflation. We're in a position to give that increase, but we're avoiding crisis in the years ahead by managing better today."

"The governor and state legislators should not accept pay increases for 1984 when counties which are not broke are not granting pay hikes."

Murphy urged state officials to "work hard, make sacrifices and, above all, assume responsibility for their mistakes."

ADAMANY disagreed with Murphy, saying he "wasn't willing to get into a fight with state officials over what they need to do to save the government."

The new president of Michigan's third largest state university called the tax increase a necessary measure to alleviate the immediate financial crisis and provide a long-term solution to economic recovery.

Realtors report a rise in business

With one of the most ambitious programs ever undertaken in any sport the American Bowling Congress is declaring war on the sandbaggers who have been the curse of all handicap tournaments.

Under a plan inaugurated last week at ABC headquarters, a computer system would contain the averages of every sanctioned league bowler in the country. The plan is the brainchild of the rules committee, of which Tom McKay, executive secretary of the Greater Detroit Bowling Association, is chairman.

The meeting was held for the benefit of the country's major tournament managers. All details were explained and the managers fully endorsed the plan as a means of getting rid of the "headaches" often developed where handicap scoring is part of an event.

The plan calls for each association in the country to feed the averages of its leagues in to the computer. Then, when a question arises anywhere, all that will be required is to push a button to national headquarters, and the official average will be revealed.

This is the boldest stroke the ABC has made in its entire history, dating back to 1903.

IT'S EITHER feast or famine for the classic bowlers at Wonderland Lanes. This past week, for only the second time this season, there were no 700 series. Tom Gow needed only a 686 to set the pace. This was five pins more than Marv Holly posted for second place. Meanwhile, the lone 700 came in the junior house league where Bob Hanson had a closing 278 for 729.

The sharpshooters at Westland Bowl kept up the pace when Perry Smith had an opening 279 in 756 in the battle of the sexes leagues. In the Wednesday men's league Mike Fremontino came through with a 247 finish for 700.

In the ladies' league Mickey Brown, with a 143 average, had a 232 game in a 569 series.

The other 700 of the week came in the senior house league at Merri-Bowl. It was the work of Ron Genojar who used a 244 starter for a 704, while Andy Neely rolled the high game of the night with a 657.

TWO BOWLERS barely missed the select circle at Woodland Lanes when Mike Rose and Len Singer each posted 697 in the trio league.

In other good performances Rich Groen paced the Vinco league at Garden Lanes with 630. In the men's house league Carl Schafer used a 244 game for a 606. Gloria Howell topped the ladies' senior house league with 588, just six pins more than Sue Schmidbauer in second place. On the men's morning league Carl Schafer had a 244 in 606. There was a real battle for the week's high at Super Bowl. Dee Zaleski Korzeks landed third with a 233 in 204.

Solar heating sales eyed in Plymouth

A Plymouth resident is considering marketing a portable, space-heating solar device here.

William Berry of Albert Street plans to sell the new solar heat bank developed by United States Solar Industries, Inc.

The solar bank unit will not heat a home, Berry said, but instead is a supplemental heat source for individual rooms.

The best application is to install a solar bank unit in a room which is occupied most of the time during the day, such as a living room or family room, Berry said.

"The solar bank works by creating a thermal cycle. As hot air cools it descends. The unit then blows hot air up and takes in cool air from the floor."

The portable unit can be installed when needed and easily put in storage during non-heating months, he said. The only moving part is a 110-volt fan.

The unit, which can be hooked up to a battery, must be installed facing south. It can be placed in a wall or on a window sill.

THERE IS a temperature control knob on the heat box so the unit can be shut off automatically when the room hits the desired temperature.

The unit also has a heat sensor in the outside panel, said Berry, and will turn on automatically once the heat in the panel exceeds 98 degrees.

Financing is available for solar home improvements, said Berry, who added that tax credits are available from the state and federal governments.

Including the tax credits, a unit will cost about $250 and can save $75 per heating season. Based on these figures, said Berry, the unit should pay for itself within four years.

Operating cost is low, he said, as the cost of electricity for the small fan will be about $6.60 for 30 days use.

Berry has a solar bank unit in his home at 44601 Albert and reports that it has operated 40 percent of the days during a three-month period, or about three days out of every week. The unit will operate when it is partially cloudy but will not operate on overcast days.

WAYNE COUNTY ROAD COMMISSION
COUNTY OF WAYNE, MICHIGAN

TO THE SUPERVISOR AND CLERK OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH, WAYNE COUNTY, MICHIGAN

SIRS:

You are hereby notified that the Board of County Road Commissioners of the County of Wayne, Michigan, did, at a meeting of said Board held on February 3, 1983, decide and determine that the certain streets described in the minutes of said Board should be County roads under the jurisdiction of the Board of County Road Commissioners. The minutes of said meeting fully describing said streets are hereby made a part of this notice, and are as follows:

Minutes of the regular meeting of the Board of County Road Commissioners of the County of Wayne, Michigan, held at the Board's offices, 415 Clifford Street, Detroit, Michigan, at 9:00 a.m., Eastern Standard Time, Thursday, February 3, 1983. Present: Chairman Hampton, Vice-Chairman Dukes and Commissioner Bondy.

"Commissioner Bondy moved the adoption of the following resolution:

BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of County Road Commissioners of the County of Wayne, Michigan, that it hereby accepts the dedication to the use of the public of the following described roads and they are hereby taken over as county roads and made a part of the county road system of the County of Wayne:

All of Jo-Ann Lane and Pinetree Drive as dedicated to the use of the public in WEDGEWOOD MANOR SUBDIVISION, a part of the N.W. ¼ of Section 34, T.15., R.8E., Plymouth Township, Wayne County, Michigan, as recorded in Liber 100 of plats on Pages 33 and 34, Wayne County Records, constituting a total of 0.286 mile of County Roads.

The motion was supported by Commissioner Dukes and carried by the following vote:
Ayes: Commissioners Bondy, Dukes and Hampton.
Nays: None."

THIS NOTICE IS GIVEN UNDER AND BY VIRTUE OF ACT NO. 283 OF THE PUBLIC ACTS OF 1909, AS AMENDED.

Form small business teams for export trade

By Carol Azizian
staff writer

Smaller businesses have little to lose and much to gain by venturing into export trading.

With recent passage of the Export Trading Company Act, businessmen and bankers can band together to create jobs, enhance competitiveness in the overseas markets and make exporting less expensive, said a spokesman for the U.S. Department of Commerce.

That upbeat message was delivered to more than 100 businessmen, bankers and attorneys who attended a seminar last week at the Southfield-Sheraton Hotel.

Sponsored by the U.S. Commerce Department, Michigan District Export Council and the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce, the seminar was one of 45 held nationwide to encourage businessmen to form their own export trading companies.

"THERE ARE success stories — even in Michigan, which has a severe economic downturn," said Richard L. McElheny, director general for the U.S. Foreign Commercial Services of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

McElheny cited two Michigan firms — one in Grand Rapids and the other in Bridgeport — which increased their sales volume and staff by exporting goods.

"There are 5,000 firms like that throughout the United States," he said.

"Many of them were hurt by the lack of access capital, high interest rates and relatively strong value of the dollar here in the last few years.

"But with interest rates dropping and gradual equalization of the value of the dollar, we hope to give them better access to capital."

A MAJOR breakthrough for American businesses, said McElheny, is Congress' passage of the "landmark" Export Trading Company Act. The act has removed impediments to export trade and penetrated the original sacred cow separation of commerce and finance.

It designs a legal system to permit the financial resources of banks, international expertise of multi-national companies and the export management industry to work together in organizing thousands of small and medium-sized companies to stake out a share in foreign markets.

"Now you can be a lot more aggressive and receive support from the government and the private sector in competing for markets overseas.

"Before, there were very restrictive banking and anti-trust regulations — old concepts that were around at a time when the world had changed. Our competitors didn't have any of those handcuffs or restrictions, which explains in large part our decline in the share of world market."

UNDER THE new law, bank holding companies and bankers' banks can become partners in an export trading company.

"They can put money in an enterprise as an owner and help finance its growth. That gives firms access to capital.

"The law even has a provision which orders the Export-Import Bank of the United States to have more capital available (provide loan guarantees).

"Second, there's an anti-trust exemption which allows U.S. firms to get together to become more effective competitors against foreign companies.

"That's what Japanese firms have done — affiliated as a cartel or monopolistic marketing franchise for certain areas of the world market."

Japan has 8,000 trading companies, handling 60-70 percent of the nation's imports and exports.

"European construction or engineering cartels do the same thing when they compete for major projects. There's a French or an English corporation, for example, competing against five or six U.S. firms."

U.S. COMPANIES can band together, not only for major projects, but also to form a marketing organization, McElheny said.

The organization could formulate a product line to offer to agents and distributors.

McElheny cited several examples of successful trading companies and interest generated in forming new firms:

• A major U.S. trading company, operated out of New York, makes $6 billion a year in bartered trade in Africa. "It's a $26 billion-a-year company. They trade refined petroleum products, coal, etc. in exchange for various products such as coffee. They also help U.S. manufacturers get component parts into manufacturing plants in Kenya. There are about three or four subsidiaries operating over there which have a lot of trouble getting raw materials and component parts into their manufacturing plants, and they're looking to some of these exporting trading companies for help and expertise."

• Three medium-sized construction and engineering firms banded together to act as a general contractor for a project in Bogota, Colombia. "All three had different skills. There were some overlapping talents, but more or less, they had three specialized divisions. For that project, they were exempt from anti-trust concerns."

• Marketing representatives from three major U.S. firms visited Tokyo recently to begin plans for forming an export trading company. "They asked our commercial officers to help them find agents and distributors for certain targeted kinds of products which they intend to put into the Asian market."

• The Port Authority of New York and New Jersey has taken the first step toward creating a joint export trading company. The agency is negotiating with 30 small and medium-sized companies in New York and New Jersey which don't export now but have the potential to export. The Port Authority expects the program to produce $15 million in sales over the next two years. Product areas targeted include processed foods, home furnishings and apparel, fur garments, wood furniture and printing equipment. "The New York State Legislature must pass modifications to the law to encourage that to take place."

Some states — notably New York and West Virginia — will consider establishing Export-Import Bank guarantees. "They're aware of the need to do more to provide financing for small and medium-sized businesses. And they're considering making capital guarantees — money available through the commercial banking system — to encourage banks to loan more money for the export process."

New law helps

Area firms are eager to export

By Carol Azizian
staff writer

Despite the bleak economy, some area businessmen are willing to look at the bright side and even gamble with new ventures in export trading.

A handful of businessmen interviewed by the Observer at a recent seminar on Export Trading Companies in Southfield said they hope to diversify sales by moving into the overseas market.

"I'm used to dealing in the foreign market, but only in the service aspect. I want to diversify and form an export trading company to sell modular housing units, aircraft or whatever comes into demand in the Saudi market," said Edward Shelton, president of a Troy engineering and architectural firm.

SHELTON IS U.S. representative to the IDEA (International Design Engineering and Architecture) Center, headquartered in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia. The company — which has branches in London, Paris and Athens — builds housing (including several embassies) throughout the world.

Along with more than 100 businessmen, Shelton came to the Southfield seminar to learn how the Department of Commerce could help him start an export trading company.

"I'm here for the learning experience," he said. "I want to examine all the ins and outs. It's my first step in a long voyage."

Shelton believes the new Export Trading Company Act will encourage more businessmen to stake out a share in foreign markets.

"American businessmen have a local or national concept of marketing. Some are even afraid (to sell products and services) in Canada. This law opens up a whole new ballgame for American businesses."

ANTICIPATING THE renewed interest in export trading, J. Victor

Valade recently formed his own export management company.

The company, Voyager Exports of Rochester, represents manufacturers who want to sell products overseas. Although he has only one client so far, Valade hopes business will take off once the new legislation is implemented.

"The new law will eliminate a lot of barriers," Valade said. "Now a manufacturer can go to one place (an export trading company) and have everything done for him."

Although the company he works for — Federal Mogul — already sells products overseas, John F. Misterovich hopes the new law will encourage other manufacturers to export.

"This act creates so much interest that people will come to us to discuss joint ventures," said Misterovich, director of the corporation's international aftermarket services.

Democracy in work place a worthwhile goal

THE PLYMOUTH-CANTON Board of Education is looking for a way to involve its employees in a program.

Initially the program has been tagged with the high-sounding title "Quality of Work."

The effort appears to be similar to the Employee Involvement (EI) program at Ford Motor Co. Some Canton and Plymouth residents are involved in the EI program, as reported in Monday's Suburban Life section of this newspaper.

Actually, similar programs have been around for a number of years under a variety of titles. Generally, the approach has been described as participatory democracy in the work place.

The program does not confer upon employees the power to make decisions. But neither is the program, if it's to be successful, a shallow disguise for an employee suggestion board or advisory committee.

The school board seems to recognize the challenge: The board and administrators have to be sincere in organizing a partnership with employees to help produce the best learning environment possible in a cost-effective manner. The board and administration's sincerity also needs to be demonstrated by employees if the Quality of Work effort is given an honest chance.

BASICALLY, the group of employees are to get together to talk about quality of work life, cost reduction, and productivity. The aim is for all employee groups to attempt to work with management to help solve some of the serious problems facing the district.

A meeting was held Tuesday afternoon with employee representatives to discuss how the group should be organized. Invited were union representatives for administrators, teachers, transportation, maintenance and cafeteria employees, clerical, teacher aides and licensed technicians.

In private industry, such cooperative efforts have required the blessing of organized labor to become a success. The administration has shown foresight by involving the union leadership in the process at its very beginning.

Participatory democracy can be as frightening to union leaders as it is to boards of directors and managers. Commitment from both sides is needed if the process is to have a chance.

Although management and union are on opposite sides of the table during the bargaining process, that adversary relationship need not extend beyond negotiations. In the school district, the relationship between unions, board and administration seems to have matured enough to warrant an attempt at greater employee involvement in discussions about issues which affect all.

The initial Quality of Work proposal developed by administration, and blessed by the board, recognizes that in this statement: "The process, while a formal system of collaboration, is external to (outside of) the collective bargaining process which continues."

SOME OF THE tenets of the proposed program are that Quality of Life:

- Is a cooperative method of employees working together for an agreed-upon purpose.
- Pledges to involve employees, wherever possible, in those decisions which affect their working conditions.

- Values and encourages creativity in its employees.
- Believes in the strong relationship between job satisfaction and the conscious recognition of employees.
- Devotes special effort to develop a sense of "family" within the district.
- Promotes seeking solutions to work-related problems through the use of employee groups.
- Strives to promote job satisfaction.
- Sponsors policies and activities to enhance respect among all employees.

There will be problems and concerns in organizing such a program. There is a strong, natural tendency for all involved to defend their turf. But the present system has not always proven ideal at solving problem, and life has conflicts.

The faults of the present system are sufficient motivation to give the Quality of Work program a chance to work. The Observer supports the steps taken to begin the program and hopes employees and administrators can discover the procedure and organization needed to make the effort successful.

Bob Wisler

Public looks for symbols of leadership

THE RECENT decision by the Wayne County Road Commission to replace 102 cars for top employees with more luxurious Chryslers loaded with extras is another example of an attitude which is found too often in government.

The road commission seems to be telling the world it believes it can spend public money as it decides without any concession to the idea that the appearance of economy is as important as the actuality of economy.

In times like these, it would seem the commission would exercise more restraint and would take some actions designed to show skeptical voters that a public agency can be trusted to manage public funds.

NOT JUST the Wayne County Road Commission but all branches and levels of government should be examining their actions closely to ensure that public funds are being used as wisely and prudently as possible.

The loss of governmental revenue on every level has caused most governments to look at not replacing employees, at laying off employees, at cutting services previously provided, at avoiding new programs and at seeking wage concessions.

These are times when symbolic actions may be as important to a skeptical public and to employee organizations as the necessary real cost-cutting measures.

Avondale school trustees, for example, recently voted to forego the small salaries they receive for their service, for the second year in a row. They are paid $15 per meeting for up to 22 meetings a year. The actual saving to the school district was almost negligible. As a symbolic representation of the school board's intent to be diligent and self-sacrificing in its efforts to handle financial crises, it was an important move.

THE STATE administration is having difficulty talking with employee groups about wage concessions. Union leaders point to pay increases which will accrue to the governor and legislators in 1984. The raises were authorized by a state compensation commission, and to negate them the Legislature would have had to reject them by a two-thirds vote in each house.

Whether legislators should indeed get more money than the $31,000 per year they now receive is debatable. But by accepting the raise, in the fashion that they did, they lost an opportunity to become actual and symbolic leaders of government serious about state financial calamity.

What is needed in these times are actions which will enable officials to gain the public trust that will be needed to deal with the problems of government.

ACCORDINGLY, we must feel a loss of confidence in the state Supreme Court in its handling of the disputed appointment of former Dorothy Comstock Riley to the state Supreme Court.

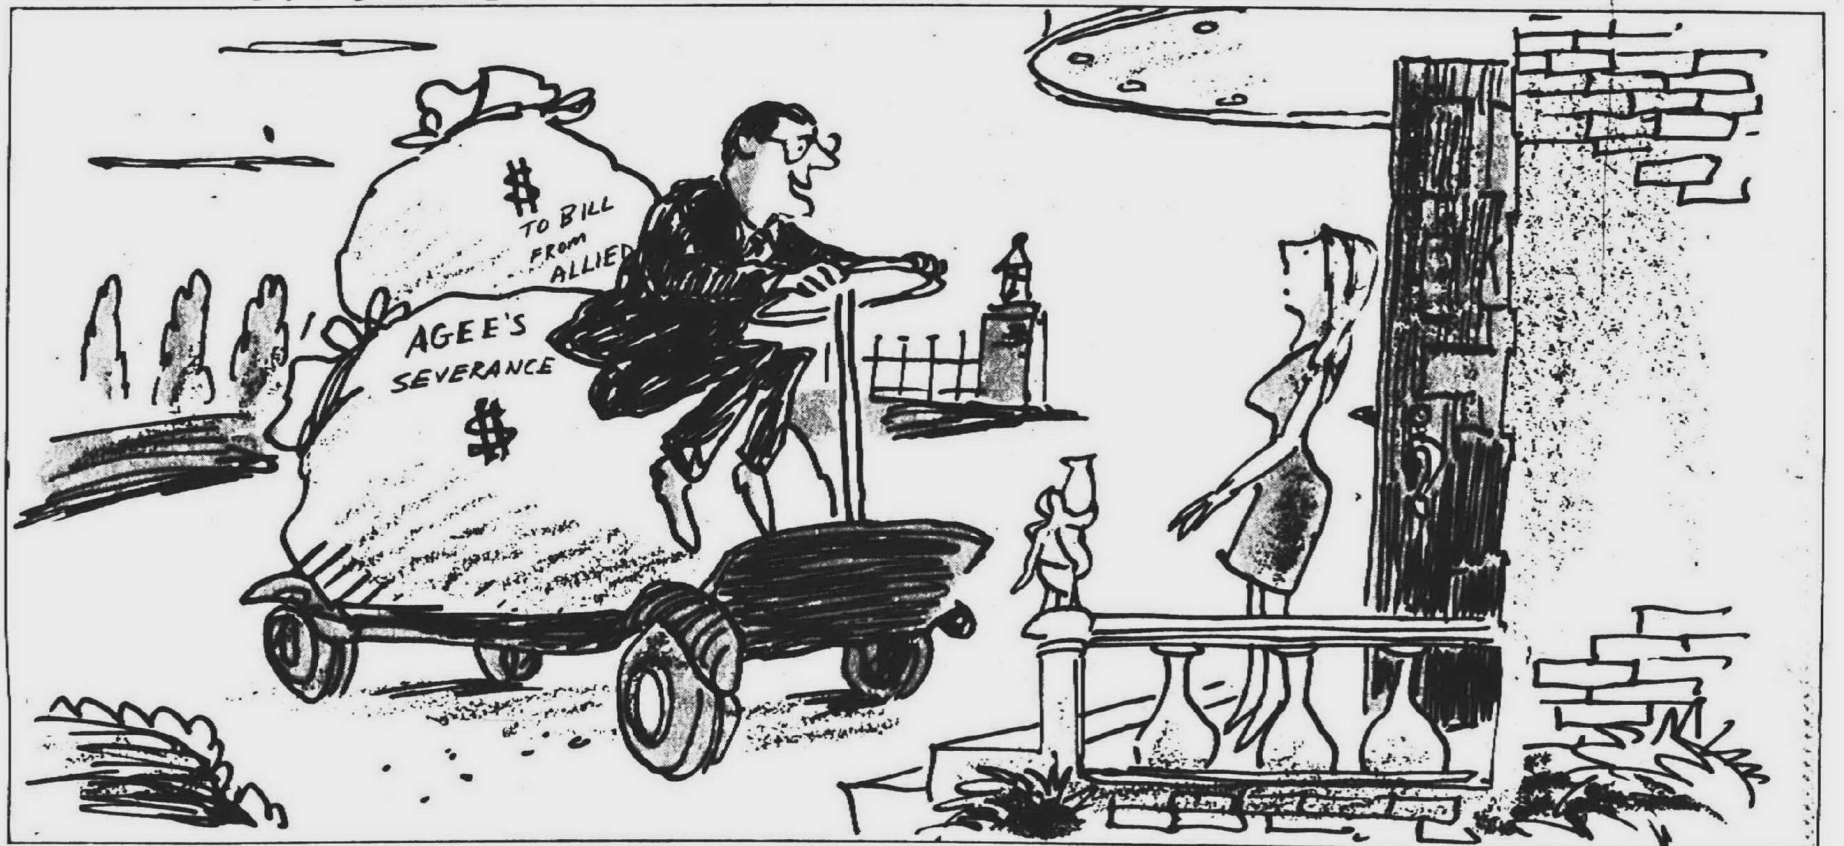

Riley was appointed by Gov. Milliken during his last days in office. James Blanchard contended that the outgoing governor did not have the authority to replace a judge whose term would start during a new governor's term and the attorney general asked the Supreme Court to nullify Riley's appointment.

After weeks of delay, the court split 3-3 Friday on the issue of whether Milliken had the authority to appoint Riley. Since a majority did not vote to oust her, Riley's appointment seemed secure. But Justice Charles Levin changed his decision over the weekend and Tuesday night the court voted 4-2 to remove her from office.

What confidence can the public feel in a court which seemed to vote more on the basis of party lines than actual law and a jurist who votes one way one day and another way a few days later?

This kind of vacillation, indecision and possible political manipulation does little to inspire confidence in the court or in our state government.

'Honey, I just got fired!'

Agee isn't a classical kind of hero

WILLIAM AGEE doesn't fit the mold of either the classic hero or the classic villain.

Unlike Hamlet and Oedipus, he didn't fail at noble work because of a character flaw. Unlike the usurper Richard III, he didn't fall in battle.

Agee, who last week announced he will depart from the merged Allied-Bendix company, was a hero until his last battle. He had to walk the plank but was equipped with a "golden parachute" — $825,000 annually for five years and nearly a million bucks in stock options. Many of us could live on that.

So what was the net effect of Agee's nearly 10 years in the Southfield headquarters of Bendix Corp.?

HE DID MUCH good by two measures. First, in a world of conglomerate mergers, Agee sought to focus Bendix's efforts.

Consider some of the other weird mixtures of enterprises corporations acquire: a finance company owning a movie company, a soft-drink company into entertainment, a tobacco company owning distilleries, U.S. Steel owning Marathon Oil, duPont rescuing Conoco . . . it's as if someone threw a bunch of stock certificates in the air and people scooped up whatever they found.

Agee's acquisitions at Bendix had a purpose: pointing the aerospace and automotive company firmly in the direction of high technology. That was what he was doing last fall when he made a tender offer for Martin-Marietta, the Maryland aerospace firm.

Agee is a financier who trades in companies, not an inventor or a retailer. He did his work well.

SECOND, IN a world where mergers soak up vast amounts of borrowed capital, Agee worked with his own company's cash.

If you want to get a group of builders riled up, mention "merger" to them. They turn red in the face, complaining of the big shots using vast lines of credit to wheel and deal in existing companies rather than using that money to build houses. They see young folks unable to buy houses because interest rates are kept high due to heavy federal government and merger borrowing.

Agee's source of cash, as I get the picture, was the proceeds of unneeded firms Bendix had sold off. Thus, Agee is generally innocent of the two biggest sins of big business — building silly conglomerates that no one can run and squandering good credit.

AGEE CAN, in fairness, be faulted in some areas. The kind of raid he attempted in buying up Martin-Marietta stock isn't too popular. Business managers often act as if they own the companies they're hired to run, and the bosses at Martin-Marietta didn't like the notion of Agee buying control of their company, even if his plan was socially useful and highly intelligent. So they attempted to buy out Bendix, and the affair turned into a game of corporate cannibalism.

To stave off being eaten up, Agee agreed to a merger with Allied Corp., a firm that's in chemicals, plastics, oil and gas. Just what socially useful purpose Allied will perform by owning a high-tech firm like Bendix is unclear. It is certainly a violation of Agee's own principles.

Finally, Agee turned out to be a poor spokesman for corporate enterprise. During our interview with him after his Detroit Economic Club speech, he responded to merger questions with nebulous abstractions. He talked like a spineless bureaucrat when he had a dandy case to make.

Yet despite his warts, Agee is more of a credit to free enterprise than many of the creeps who criticize him.

Adventures of a suburban pioneer

the stroller
W.W. Edgar

ALMOST 45 years have gone by since that day in 1938 when the Edgars, on the advice of former neighbors, purchased two acres of the wooded area of an abandoned farm out in the country.

At the time, The Stroller had in his hand a check for $750 he had earned as the official scorer for the Detroit Red Wings. It was the most money he ever had had at one time.

What to do with it?
"Why not buy those two acres in the country?" the lady of the house said. "Some day they might be valuable."

So the land was purchased for $725 (lots now would sell for $12,000), and the fun began.

THE ACREAGE was right off the corner of Six Mile and Merriman. The roads (they weren't even called streets) were gravel and fetlock deep in mud in the spring.

"Pay no attention to them," the real estate agent told us. "They will be paved in spring." They were paved 25 years later.

The acreage, we learned, was in Livonia Township which had within its confines 17 farms. There was an 18-hole golf course at the corner of Five Mile and Middlebelt and another at the crossing of Ann Arbor Road and Ann Arbor Trail.

There were several broken-down gas stations in the center of the township. But there were plenty of trees, and the weeds were a yard high — they hadn't been cut in years.

So we built a home in the woods. A road had to be built so we could move in. But there were no water and sewer lines.

WE ENGAGED a well digger. One morning we passed him on the new road into the woods. He was leaving.

"How's the water?" we asked.
"There ain't none," he replied, "and I don't want to take any more of your money."

"What will we do?"
"The next time you build a house," he said, "drill the well first. God puts the water where HE wants it — not where you want it."

So we dug a cistern, but the water we found didn't last beyond Labor Day, and the first winter we used a road commission water wagon to tap a hydrant a half-mile away.

THEN CAME the first spring — and the mud. We couldn't make it through the goo. So we parked the car at Six Mile Road and walked in through the mud for an entire spring.

Finally, the township prospered a bit. We then got a sewer, for which we had to pay cash. It was the same with the water. But being young, we had fun.

We had been among the first to leave Detroit in the rush to the suburbs. As years went by, more and more followed until General Motors built a big plant on Plymouth Road, and the Sheldon Land Co. opened a new subdivision (city-like), giving a Ford car to anyone who purchased a home. There was no other mode of travel.

Then came the race track, incorporation as a city, 100,000 people and the fanciest city hall in the country.

The famous '49ers who opened up the old west had little on us who made the rush to the suburbs worth while.

Those were happy days despite the mud and lack of water.

Tax panel looks at options

By Warren M. Hoyt
special writer

Several options to Gov. James Blanchard's income tax proposal — from increasing the sales tax to 6 percent to installing state-owned slot machines — have been presented to the House Taxation Committee since the governor presented his proposal in late January.

Committee Chairman H. Lynn Jondahl, D-East Lansing, said the proposals indicated a "consensus" from legislators that taxes will have to be raised to balance the state deficit. They hoped cost figures on what each proposal would raise could be developed by mid-February.

Meanwhile, house speaker Gary Owen, D-Ypsilanti, called for House cooperation in completing action on a tax proposal by the end of the month. He urged House members to present all tax- and budget-cutting proposals to the taxation and appropriations committees as early as possible.

The options were in response to Blanchard's proposal for a 1.5 percentage point permanent increase in the personal income tax rate, with an additional 0.25 percentage point included to cover an estimated $800 million deficit due to deviations from generally accepted accounting principles.

AMONG OPTIONS presented to the committee was one by Rep. Thomas Scott, D-Flint, to tax advertising sold by newspapers, radio and television stations, magazines and other media.

Scott did not suggest the proposal replace the Blanchard plan, but asked committee members to analyze it to see how much revenue could be raised if the tax were imposed April 1.

Scott also proposed an amusement tax — similar to that used by former Gov. William Milliken in 1982 — with a tax on theater and sporting event tickets and cablevision, but not on video games.

Freshman Rep. Jerry Bartnick, D-Temperance, called for an increase in the sales tax to 6 percent which would be dedicated to higher education as well as K-12 once the state's deficits are eliminated.

Under the state constitution of 1963, any proposal to increase the sales tax must be approved by the voters. A proposal put on the ballot now could not take effect until mid-May, because of time requirements for the election and to implement the tax.

Jondahl said an increase in the sales tax might be employed as a replacement to the income tax increase in future years.

REP. MICHAEL Bennane, D-Detroit, asked for revenue figures if the state installed and operated slot machines — on much the same premise as the daily lottery games — in such places as bars.

Meanwhile, Blanchard, bolstered by a poll showing substantial public support for a tax hike, began a seven-city tour to gain backing for his proposal for solving the state's budget problems.

The poll showed 66 percent of those surveyed would support a tax increase in Michigan if it was necessary to straighten out the state's financial affairs. Some 27.8 percent of the respondents expressed opposition to the new tax while 6.2 percent were undecided.

The random telephone poll of 500 persons conducted by Nordhaus Research also showed that 71.2 percent expect Blanchard to raise taxes while 22.2 percent disagreed with that statement.

Among other questions, 59.8 percent agreed that Michigan will be unable to compete with other states if citizens are not willing to pay for services such as education and law enforcement.

The survey also showed that 65.2 percent of the respondents believed the governor and Legislature could solve the financial problems "if they had the courage to make some tough decision about taxes and spending."

ESP series offered at SC

A series of lectures on "Paranormal Venturing" will be offered from 7-9:30 p.m. Fridays beginning Feb. 25 in Room F530 of the Forum Building at Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

Paranormal Venturing is the tip of the iceberg exploration of various aspects of extrasensory perception (ESP), according to Delavan Sipes, who will present the series. Lectures will focus on dream interpretation and the logic of reincarnation and karma.

Sipes served two years as president of the Detroit Council of the Association for Research and Enlightenment (Edgar Cayce Foundation).

Other lectures are planned March 11 and 25 and April 8. Charge for the series is $50. Registration information is available by calling 591-6400, ext. 409.

Commission, Lucas seek auditor compromise

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Wayne County commissioners are at work repairing an ordinance setting up a legislative auditor general that will pass County Executive William Lucas's scrutiny.

Lucas last week vetoed a commissioner-prepared ordinance which would have created the office.

Commission leaders think that most of Lucas' objections to the plan lack merit. And they gave Lucas bad marks for waiting too long to raise his objections.

"His basic concern was that the auditor general would perform the functions of the chief financial officer," said David Plawecki, the former state senator who is Lucas's lobbyist on board matters.

The chief financial officer is an administrative who will report to the county executive. The auditor general will report to the County Commission in much the same way the General Accounting Office (GAO) reports to the U.S. Congress.

THE REJECTED ordinance, along with a reply from commission research chief George Cross, was referred by Chairman William Suzore of Allen Park to a six-member committee.

The committee will be chaired by Edward Plawecki of Dearborn Heights and include three other suburban commissioners — Kay Beard of Inkster; John Hertel of Haper Woods and Milton Mack of Wayne. Two Detroiters are members — Samuel Turner and Jackie Currie.

Cross, an attorney and former corporation counsel for the county before being replaced by Lucas, told the commission most of Lucas' objections were minor and even erroneous.

Lucas, in a corridor interview, told the Observer he "hated to veto it" and indicated his mood was one of reaching a compromise.

Before referring the matter to committee, the commission heard 22 speeches and raised 33 "points of information," according to a tally kept by Commissioner Richard Manning of Redford, who chaired the 90-minute session.

HERE ARE a summary of Lucas's objections in his veto message and excerpts of Cross' replies:

1. The ordinance, as passed by the commission, requires the auditor to make an annual "report of the financial position of the county."

Lucas objected that such a duty belong to the chief financial officer.

Cross said Lucas "fails to recognize that the GAO operates as a 'watchdog' over government expenditures, and the GAO's sphere of authority includes all federal branches, including the executive and judicial branches."

2. The ordinance proposed that the chief financial officer be required to review recommendations of the auditor and advise the auditor of action being taken on the recommendations.

Lucas complained the ordinance "implies that all audit findings . . . shall be implemented and any variance shall be monitored by the chief financial officer." He said this appeared to put the auditor over the chief financial officer, contrary to Wayne's county home rule charter.

Cross, citing the analogy to the General Accounting Office again, said, "The practical theory . . . is, since the Congress appropriates, Congress can monitor to see if monies are being spent for the purposes . . .

"This does not in any way invade or diminish the separation of powers. As an example, you may recall that just last week the GAO uncovered gross overruns in the cost of aircraft construction for the military. The military is part of the executive branch."

THIRD, THE ordinance required the auditor to make available to the chief financial officer "all information useful in the preparation of " budgets.

Lucas objected it "grants the legislative auditor a significant role in preparing the executive budget. . . Preparation of that budget is clearly an executive function."

"Obviously misinterpreted," sniffed Cross. "If the chief financial officer makes no request for helpful information, no information is supplied (by the auditor). It does not go beyond making useful information available."

In oral comments to the commission, Cross said, "If the CEO doesn't want it, he doesn't have to ask for it. It's a cooperative effort."

FINALLY, the ordinance empowered the auditor to give County Commission concurrence to settlement of disputed claims against the county up to $10,000.

Lucas objected: "Settlement of claims within budget appropriations is clearly an executive function."

Cross replied that nothing in the charter or law gave the executive authority to settle disputed financial claims. And he cited a law governing county boards giving them power to "adjust claims against the county."

Cross added that with one exception, the County Commissioners ordinance creating an auditor general was identical to the city of Detroit's ordinance.

THERE'S NO special day set aside for them. No Nurse's Aid Day or Nurse's Aid Week. But here's a letter from an aid at the Dion Nursing Home in Canton Township that tells their story. The writer asked that her name be omitted. As she wrote, it takes a special kind of person to be an aid:

THE OTHER DAY, while having lunch with someone, they asked me what type of work I did. I hung my head and said, "Oh, I'm just a nurse's aid."

As soon as I said it and realized what I said, my head came up fast. Yes, I'm an aid.

It takes a very special girl or guy to work with our older people. We have to handle it both mentally and physically to be able to walk into the nursing home or hospital and drop all our own troubles at that door, get a big smile on our face, and greet each patient with a friendly "Hello."

Being an aid you learn just how to handle each patient with their special needs. This includes feeding them, talking to them, lifting them (if they need this) into chairs, beds and baths. It's making each one feel wanted, loved and comfortable.

In our home, it's wonderful the way the gals and guys from laundry, kitchen, housekeeping, aids and nurses work together to do all this. The gals in the office play a big part, too.

WE ALL HAVE time for each patient and it makes you feel so good when you get that little smile from them.

I've seen our help sing, dance, take time to listen to their troubles, and pray with them. This is very important to each one.

We all have a lot of work to do — lifting, bending, making beds, keeping fresh water in their rooms, cleaning their dresser drawers and tables, bathing the patients and dressing them for another day.

The nurses are great at helping, letting you know if you've done something wrong and showing you the right way. Giving you a pat on the back when you've done well. We all need this to keep going.

Yes, I'm a nurse's aid and glad to be a part of the super team it takes to make a nursing home happy, safe and comfortable for each of our beautiful patients.

Hold your heads high, aids. I know when you walk out that door you're very tired. But you all feel so good inside, just knowing you've helped make a lot of patients safe, comfortable, clean and happy.

PLANS FOR THE 50th anniversary celebration of Boy Scout Troop 1534 (old P-4) are well under way. Allan V. Strong, the troop's first scoutmaster, is coming from Caseville. Wesley Rathburn, one of the first Scouts in the troop, has accepted an invitation to the potluck dinner and Court of Honor. The dinner will be at 6:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 21, in First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth.

Party planners still are trying to track down former members of the troop that started out in the Methodist Church on Church Street, then moved across the street to the Presbyterian Church when the Methodists built their new church out on North Territorial.

Ken Wheeler, Ed Henrie and Gene Buchan would appreciate any help they can get in finding addresses for former scoutmasters Marvin Terry, 1947; Wallace J. Osgood, 1939; Leroy Rafferty, 1946-48; and Maurice A. Woodworth, who was active in the troop from 1940 to 1945.

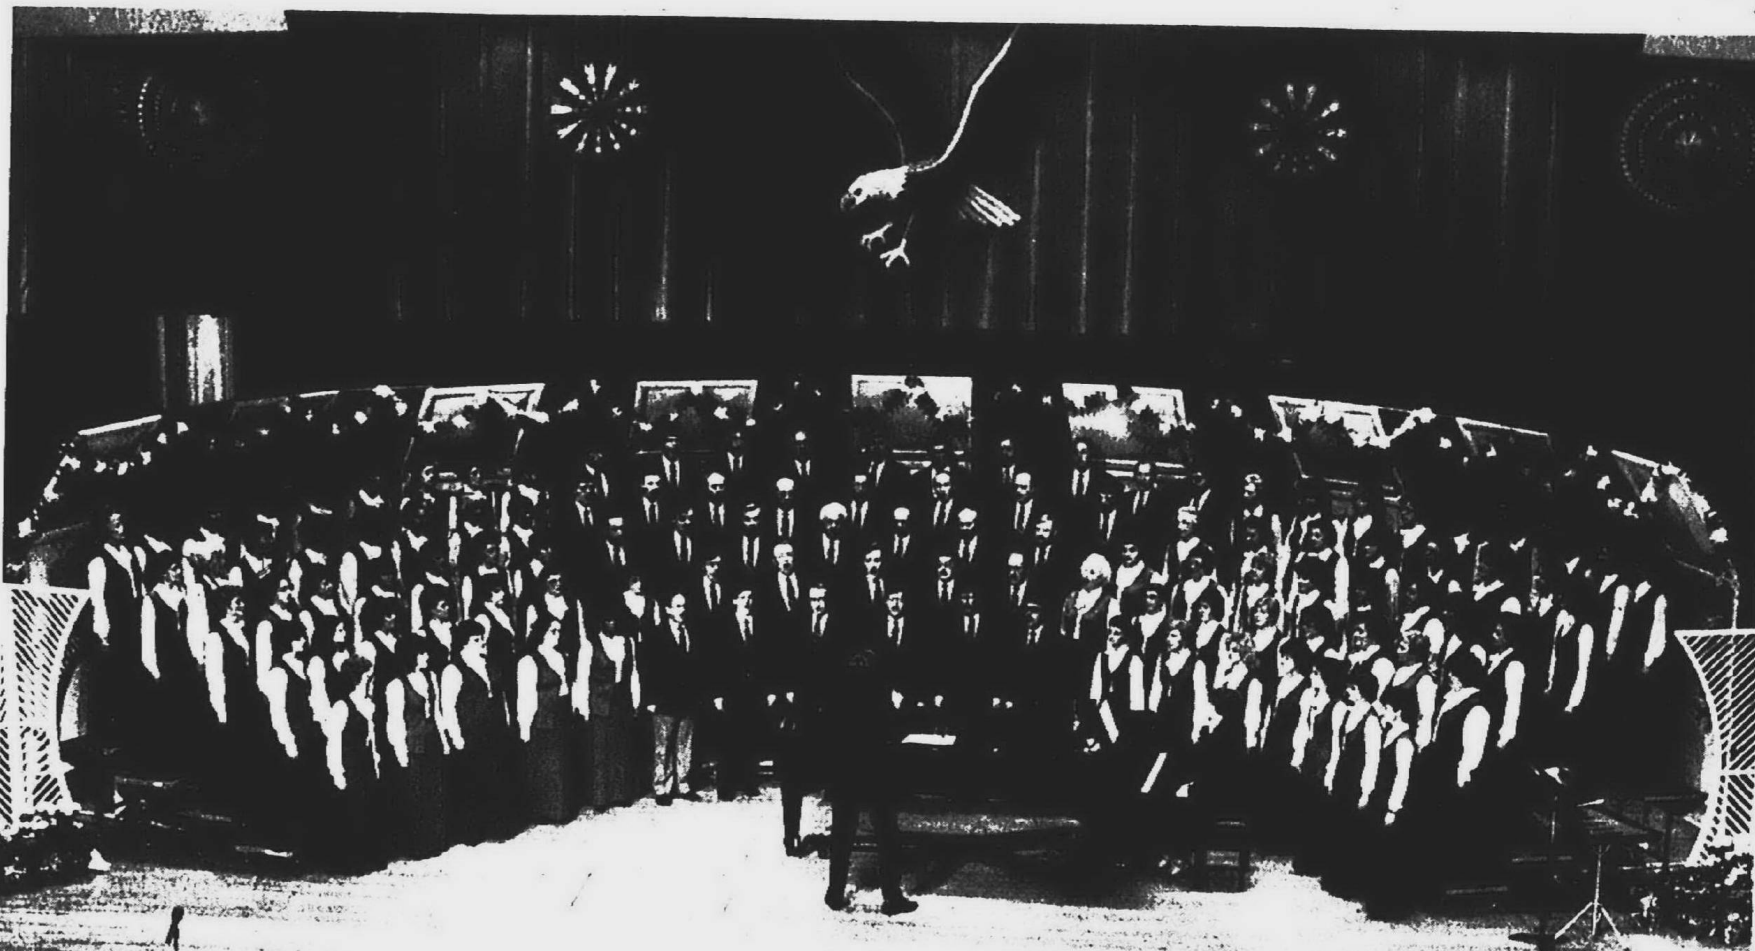

They also need help in locating Dennis Fuelling, first Eagle Scout, assistant scoutmasters Howard E. Culver, 1934-35, and W. George Hodson, 1936-39; and scouts Lloyd Green and Walter Smith.

Please call Ken Wheeler at 453-7275 with information.

She is a graduate of Plymouth Canton High School and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Massey of Plymouth.

The Plymouth Community Chorus hosted the Johnny Mann Great American Choral Festival and also took second-place honors in the community chorus category. The Holland Community Chorus came in first, and the Wyoming chorus was third. Dolores Murray and Morrand Zimmer, members of the local chorus, were responsible for the decorations. They made the eye-catching eagle that hovered above the 32 competing choruses.

Great choral festival lives up to its name

Mike Gross, director of the Plymouth Chorus, responded to the audience's standing ovation.

Johnny Mann said there were no losers at last weekend's Great American Choral Festival at Plymouth Salem High School Auditorium.

"I have never before heard so many good choral groups in one competition," said Mann, who flew in from California for the state festival.

The auditorium was filled to capacity for the two-day event with spectators standing in the aisles. A seven-foot television screen was set up in the high school cafeteria. There more than 200 people, part of the overflow crowd, watched the on-stage activities.

Four grand prizes of $1,000 each were awarded to the Wayne State University Men's Glee Club, the Interlochen Arts Academy group, the Mercyaires from Mercy High School in Farmington Hills, and the Meadow Brook Estate from Oakland University, Rochester.

Medals were awarded to other choruses in eight categories. City of Plymouth Mayor Elton Martin gave Mann a key to the city and Mike Gross, director of the Plymouth Community Chorus, a plaque.

The Farmington Hills Sweet Adelines came in first in their category. The Battle Creek Boys Choir earned a first. Interlochen, Grand Blanc a cappella choir, and Livonia Franklin Bel Canto Choir came in one-two-three in the high school non-choreographed division.

Winners in the choreographed high school competition were the Mercyaires, the Top 20 from Canton, Ohio, and the Milford High Vocal Ensemble.

Mann praised the planning that went into the festival and the clockwork precision as the 32 singing groups performed at 15-minute intervals.

The Friday evening concert which involved the Plymouth Symphony, the Plymouth chorus, and Judge Dunbar Davis, as narrator, was rounded off with performances by four area choirs. It marked the first standing ovation of the festival. There were more to come.

Staff photos by Gary Caskey

Johnny Mann's reaction could be described as ecstatic. He said, "This community has something no other community has." He wants to come back.

Garden clubs host state winter council

Five area branches of the Woman's National Farm & Garden Association will host the Michigan winter council meeting. Representatives of 90 branches will attend the Thursday, Feb. 24 gathering at the Sheraton-Oaks Motel in Novi.

The hostesses will be Lake Pointe Village, Tonquish Creek and Trailwood branches of Plymouth, Apple Run of Canton Township, and the Livonia branch. Lenore Howe of the Lake Pointe Village branch will act as meeting general chairman.

Registration and coffee will be at 9 a.m.

An old-fashioned town hall format will be in effect for the business session scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Phyllis Slatery, Michigan Division president, will preside as members ask questions of various division chairmen.

LUNCHEON and program will begin at 12:30 p.m.

The program will feature Rita Kirschler, a member of the Pennsylvania Division WNF&GA. Kirschler was the recipient of the Frysinger Fellowship which led to her representing the association in Denmark last fall.

She will present a program, illustrated with slides, on her travels and experiences as the guest of the Danish Housewife Association.

Nuclear weapons freeze supporters plan meetings

The Western Wayne County Nuclear Weapons Freeze Committee will have two meetings next week. Anyone interested may attend either meeting in Holy Trinity Lutheran Church in Livonia. The first will be at 7:30 p.m. Monday and the second will be at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

There will be reports from people who attended the area-wide Freeze Conference scheduled for 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday in the General Lectures Building of Wayne State University. Those who attend the meetings in Livonia will hear the decisions reached at Saturday's information and action strategy conference.

Plans also will be made concerning the collection of proxies to be taken to Washington, D.C. in March. Proxy forms will be available at the meetings for distribution to churches and interested groups.

The Citizens Lobby is planned for March 7 in Washington. Johanna Fechter, regional coordinator, and Gloria Pappas, both of Plymouth, plan to make the trip to Washington.

Fechter said, "It is incredible that we continue to build nuclear warheads and new delivery systems when we already have far more than the amount termed necessary for deterrence." She said that it is necessary to make it clear to Congress that the 60 percent of the voters who voted for a bilateral freeze don't want to be ignored.

For information about the committee or the meetings call Fechter, 455-2149.

Hope and Austin Whipple prepare to cut the cake their bowling league.

He's still bowling at 90

They celebrated Austin Whipple's 90th birthday at the Plymouth Bowl. Lee Jackson, secretary of the Plymouth Seniors Bowling League provided the birthday cake and the signs.

She said, "Austin is one of the oldest bowlers in the country. I know he's the oldest in Plymouth."

The surprise party at the bowling alley was responsible for Whipple's 105 score in his first game. But he came back with a 139 in the second and rolled a 159 in the third. He maintains a 113 average and has been bowling for 70 years.

Whipple retired in 1960 as owner and manager of Huston Hardware on Pennington, Plymouth. He maintains an active pace — walks two miles every day and does all his own yard work. Neighbors say he even gets up on his roof to make repairs.

HE WAS BORN Feb. 7, 1913 on a farm on Haggerty Road. He attended the Plymouth schools. His first wife, the late Ruth Huston Whipple, was the first woman mayor of Plymouth.

He has two sons, Edson, who is employed by a Toledo newspaper, and Elmer, a Ford Motor Co. employee.

Austin Whipple and his wife, Hope, will mark their silver wedding anniversary next year. They were married in 1959.

Fellow bowlers showered Whipple with birthday cards, gifts and flowers. All the senior bowlers enjoyed the birthday cake and punch.

GAIN marks anniversary

February is the first anniversary of the Plymouth Community Family Y program GAIN (Goals-Answers-Ideas-Now), previously called Networking.

Leslie Frederick and Les Marrus are co-directors under the director of Janet Luce. In many communities, this program was originated to guide the homemaker to a career transition once she decided to work outside the home. It was intended to give incentive, to develop a positive self-image, and encourage individual self-confidence for all women in this situation.

Frederick and Marrus have taken this theory and developed it for men, women and the business community in the Plymouth-Canton area. The questions you may be asked at one of the meetings you attend are: How can we help you? Where are you coming from, where do you want to go? In what line of work are you presently employed? If you are not employed, we can try to help you if you will allow us.

They are not an employment service. They are together to develop career growth and further advance interests and goals you set for yourself or your business.

MONTHLY MEETINGS on the second Thursday of every month are in the loft at Station 885 in Old Village, Plymouth. The program speaker is usually a prominent figure in the Plymouth community providing information to the 30 to 50 people attending the meeting.

It is a process of using your contacts for information, advice and moral support as you pursue your career. It also is an interesting social outlet available to anyone.

There is a personal self-satisfaction in helping someone you never met or helping an old business acquaintance build new bridges within your community. If you want to promote yourself or your business in the community call 453-2904 or plan to come out to the next monthly meeting.

Happy anniversary GAIN. Keep up the good work.

THE CANTON Newcomers Club has a successful fashion show each year for women interested in stretching their wardrobe.

There is a new twist to the program this year. Stretch and Sew will be on hand with a spring preview and a slide presentation. Many of us have a sewing machine collecting dust somewhere in our homes, maybe it is time to find a few extra minutes each day to make something simple and economical for ourselves.

Debbie Barnes heads this year's board of hard-working ladies for the Canton Newcomers. Elaine Savola, Terri Kressaty, Maggie Thomas, Marion Domke, Carol Bollman, Sharon Ballios, Nancy Anderson, Carleen Vanderbok, Louise Robison have brought renewed interest along with Debbie to many Canton women.

A revival in new home building in the last few months after a standstill will have board members working even harder to encourage additional growth between now and the middle of June. The arts and crafts classes are overflowing with one morning session and one evening session each month. Dining out with your husband or boyfriend, luncheon-in as well as luncheon-out are still the traditional favorites for most members.

Marge Mogelnicki creates exciting monthly ideas for the Mom and Tots field trips, while the babysitting co-op is used extensively by mothers needing to attend functions with the little tykes.

The ever-popular couples functions remain heavily attended with future activities including a wine-tasting party in March, a millionaire party in April and the always zany road rally planned for June.

There always will be room for new ladies interested in the variety of card clubs offered through the Newcomers.

The resident restrictions have been lifted from the club's constitution. Former members are encouraged to rejoin and enjoy the new friendships waiting for them within this club.

The meetings are the first Wednesday of every month in Faith Community Church on Warren Road just west of Canton Center.

When you come, you will be rebuilding additional interests in our fine community.

Melin-McKee

Laurie Ann McKee and Andrew Theodore Melin exchanged marriage vows Jan. 15 in St. John's Episcopal Church, Plymouth. The Rev. Robert S. Shank officiated. The bride is the daughter of Ruth and Dale McKee of Niles. Donna and Walter T. Melin of Carol Street, Plymouth are the bridegroom's parents.

The bride's gown featured a white lace beaded bodice and a train. She carried a bouquet of pink lilies and dusty rose roses. Her attendants, Lee Stribling, Jaclynn Nichol, Donna Boose, Sandy Oliver and Judy Perkins wore dusty rose gowns with high collars and lace bodices. They, too, carried pink lilies and roses.

Walter Melin, Richard Hewlett, John Sonnega, Jon Hawkes and Joe Perkins were the bridegroom's attendants.

The wedding reception was in Livonia Roma Hall. The Melins are living in Plymouth.

The bridegroom graduated from Plymouth Salem High School in 1978 and from Michigan State University in 1982. He is station manager for the Plymouth-Canton Schools radio WSDP. The bride is a 1978 graduate of Niles High School and a 1982 graduate of the Kendall School of Design in Grand Rapids. She is working as an apprentice in the medical sculpture department of the University of Michigan.

Blevins-Leavinworth

Linda Mae Leavenworth of Plymouth and Ray Carl Blevins of Ypsilanti were married Dec. 11 in First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth. The Revs. Philip Rodgers Magee and Thomas H. Cook officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay J. Leavenworth of Newport Street, Plymouth. Mr. and Mrs. Carl M. Blevins of Shady Valley, Tenn. are the parents of the bridegroom.

The bride's empire gown had a sweetheart neckline with venice lace and seed pearls, and a Watteau train. She carried white roses, lilies of the valley, baby's breath and greens.

Cecilia Massarello was matron of honor and Bradley Lightfoot, the bride's nephew, was ring bearer. The matron of honor's rose chiffon gown had an empire waist and a Victorian neckline. She carried pink roses.

Julius Blevins was best man and ushers were Dan Marshall and Gary Leavenworth. After a buffet dinner in Fellowship Hall, the couple spent their wedding trip in Hawaii and later skiing in Colorado. They plan to live in Plymouth.

He is a Ford Motor Co. employee and she is employed by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools as a substitute teacher.

OPEN A 1982 IRA ACCOUNT.
Open your account before you file your taxes, and take the IRA bonus on your 1982 Federal income tax return.

OPEN A FIRST FEDERAL IRA AND EARN GUARANTEED HIGH INTEREST RIGHT FROM THE START.

First Federal announces a new Four-Year Certificate IRA Plan.

10.50%

annual interest, paid and compounded quarterly, and guaranteed for the full term of the account.

10.92%

effective annual yield.

This rate effective Monday, January 31, 1983, until further notice.

Look what it can do for you—on a $2,000 deposit over four years—and compare it to the results you get with other IRA plans currently available.

| | |
|-----------------|-----------------|
| 1st YEAR | $217.80 |
| 2nd | $242.20 |
| 3rd | $268.65 |
| 4th | $298.86 |

TOTAL INTEREST
AT MATURITY $1,027.51

Above example assumes a $2,000 balance on deposit, with interest compounded for four full calendar years.

Compare IRA plans carefully before you commit.

You should ask: What's the interest rate? Is it compounded? How much will my money actually earn each year?
How is the interest credited to my account? When?

Measure our IRA Plan against the answers you get to these questions anywhere else, and we think you'll commit to First Federal.

This and other IRA accounts at First Federal can be opened with a minimum deposit of as little as $100.

IRS regulations require a substantial penalty for withdrawal prior to age 59½ on IRA plans. Federal regulations require a substantial penalty for early withdrawal from certificate accounts.

Lenten film tradition continues at St. Andrew's

In keeping with its tradition of presenting a Lenten film series as part of its Christian education program, St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Livonia will offer a no-charge series that will begin Thursday, Feb. 24, and continue for five consecutive Thursdays.

The films will be shown at 7 p.m. in the various assembly areas of the church educational wing. A nursery and baby-sitter will be available for preschool children. School-age children through grade six will view films specially selected for this age group.

Two adult films will be shown simultaneously. One will be a "Fun in Marriage" workshop by Charlie and Martha Shedd. The second will be "New Wine" by Keith Miller.

The Shedd film titles are: "Vocal Communication," "Body Communication," "Soul Communication," "How to Stay in Love," and "Straight Answers to Delicate Questions."

FILM TOPICS BY Miller are: "The Taste of New Wine," "Walking in God's Story," "The Power of Christian Love," "Conversion: Beginning the Adventure of God," "An Outpost of the Kingdom," "Passing the Cup of Faith."

The children's films are: "Hobo and Runaway" and "Someone Special" to be shown the first week; "Pilgrim's Progress" and "Haunted Church Bell" the second week; "Little Eagle" and "Silent Thunder" the third week; "Toby's Tree House" and "Peter and the Magic Seeds," the fourth week; "Tanglewood Secrets" the final week.

St. Andrew's is located at 16350 Hubbard between Merriman and Farmington roads in Livonia.

'Man from Aldersgate' play Feb. 20

A one-man play, "The Man from Aldersgate," will be performed by professional actor Roger Nelson at 7 p.m. Feb. 20 at Clarenceville United Methodist Church. The performance will run approximately 70 minutes.

The story offers a unique and personal look at the life and times of John Wesley, founder of the Methodist Church. Nelson will be sharing the life-long journal of Wesley, who defied mobs, cast out demons and rode 250,000 miles on horseback to preach more than 42,000 sermons.

Admission is free. Nelson's appearance at the church follows a 4 1/2-month world tour. The film with the same title will be released sometime this year.

Letting the 'Good Times' roll

"Good Times," an intergenerational variety show, is ready to roll at St. Paul Presbyterian Church in Livonia with three performances this weekend. Friday night's curtain will rise at 7:30 p.m. for the show which combines members of the Cherub Choir through the Chancel Choir. Saturday will see performances at 5:30 p.m. and at 8 p.m. The event is sponsored by the music department of the church in conjunction with the senior high program to help students earn money to support two summer adventures — a mission trip to Maine by the youth fellowship and a worship and music conference to be held at Montreat, N. C. But singing and dancing are only part of the fun. Food is also a highlight with an array of goodies being offered. Tickets are $1 at the church office and at the door. Child care will be provided. Taking part in the show are: Heather Coir (front row, left), Joanathon Liebertz, Jim Aittama, Cathy Cheslak and John Aittama. Also, Jenny Aittama (back row, left), Vickie Tomey, Tim Miller, Julie Annigan, Jon Findley and Jenny Findley. St. Paul's is at 27415 Five Mile.

form in concert in the church chapel at 8 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 19.

Methodists unite in 'Project Renewal'

Members of Clarenceville, Newburg and St. Matthew's United Methodist churches, all of Livonia, are joining with thousands of United Methodists in eastern lower Michigan and the Upper Peninsula in a new venture called "Project Renewal."

The program is the "dream" of Bishop Edsel A. Ammons, Detroit, who hopes to challenge United Methodists to both deepen their own Christian commitment and to reach out and share their faith experiences with people in their own neighborhoods and communities.

Project Renewal is a major thrust for the 137,500 Detroit Conference United Methodists for this year and beyond, he said.

DETAILS OF THE program will be explained at a district rally Saturday, March 5, when members of the three local United Methodist Churches will meet with other area church members to hear Ammons. The Dearborn First United Methodist will host the event that will begin at 9:30 a.m.

The three Livonia pastors believe an integral part of Project Renewal will be the formation of small groups such as those formed by John Wesley, founder of Methodism. These small "care groups" will meet regularly for Bible study, prayer or discussion of how the Christian faith relates to current issues.

These care groups will support "share groups" who will be sent out in the community to meet in home or community centers.

Women's Aglow schedules meeting

The Rev. Louis Calaway will speak at a meeting of Plymouth Women's Aglow at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 19, at Plymouth Grange Hall, 273 Union.

Women's Aglow is an interdenominational and worldwide organization of Christian women.

There are ways out of violence of madness

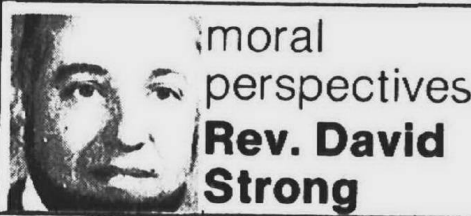

I recommend that everyone see the film "Gandhi." It is an excellent resource which helps us to discover how we can deal with violence in non-violent ways.

Violence abounds. Ten people were murdered in Detroit in one weekend of January. Nine died of heroin overdose. A trial was recently held of a boy who when he was 16 years old kicked down a door near Yale, and shot the five members of the family to death.

Congress and our President are debating placing Pershing missiles in Europe which would be only six minutes from launch to nuclear war. The Soviet Union reacts to this by promising that they will station submarines off our coasts with nuclear missiles just six minutes from our cities. Violence abounds.

In the film "Gandhi," a person reflects upon this man of peace and says, "He offered the world a way out of madness, but the world doesn't see it."

THERE ARE WAYS out of the madness of violence. Usually it requires a sacrificial act on the part of someone. In the Old Testament the people of Israel faced a decision. In leaving Egypt

moral perspectives

they could either fight the Philistines or go into the wilderness. They chose a way which avoided violence, yet also meant they would suffer the wilderness experience.

In "Gandhi," during the war between the Hindus and Moslems in India following independence, a Hindu comes to confess to Gandhi that he has killed a young boy. He had killed a Moslem boy because his own son had been murdered. In agony over this killing he says to Gandhi, "I am going to hell." Gandhi replies, "I know a way out of hell. Go find a boy the age of the one you killed, one who has lost his mother and father. Adopt him as your son. But he must be Moslem, and you must raise him as a Moslem."

This scene communicates the power of a deed in the spirit of good which can break the vicious cycle of violence. This scene suggests how healing can come if we search for a different way to respond to violence.

How can we seek new directions in a world of violence? We can study the lives and actions of those who have attempted a different way. We can acknowledge that the conditions for violence are the same but the way we respond to violence are in the process of change.

Jay Haley wrote an essay on "The Power Tactics of Jesus Christ." This essay gave me new insights into what options we can have in dealing with violence. I remember a nurse in Chicago telling me how she had talked a man out of raping her. We can learn the tactics to overcome violence. We can also attempt to know our enemy better. Various groups, such as the People to People Program seek to bring about human contact between the people of different nations. A friend of mine has decided to travel to the Soviet Union to come to know Russian citizens face to face. It is way to bring about change.

We can discover what contributes to violence. A recent study of persons in prison established that a large majority of people who commit violent crimes had been drinking excessively before the violent act. We need to understand the factors which contribute to making people, communities and nations violent.

One of the most important points of the film "Gandhi" come near the end of the film when peace in India seem less possible. It deals with a situation in which we doubt that good will overcome evil. In the film, Gandhi tells his friends not to despair. People who were tyrants and murderers always fall. He had studied history. "They always fall. This is "he says, "God's will. Remember this and try to do God's way."

Variety spices Atlanta's main hub

Historic Peachtree Street is lined with plenty of eateries, old and new ATLANTA — Bill Schemmel was at the wheel, Mary Magruder in the back. Bill is the restaurant critic for Atlanta Magazine, Mary is a professional travel photographer. Both of them live in Atlanta, and were in the process of giving me an informal tour up Peachtree Street — strictly top-of-the-head stuff, the kind of information a traveler doesn't find in a brochure.

Peachtree starts at Five Points, near the spot where Atlanta began as a railway terminus. The "center of town" shifted in recent years to the Peachtree Center, a complex of shops, offices and restaurants that dominates the city. I've seen the downtown, so we were heading north towards the far suburb of Buckhead and the new shopping centers around Lenox Square.

1-of-a-kind traveler Iris Jones
contributing travel editor

Peachtree Street is literally the main artery of Atlanta, old and new, so we have driven past the bulldozers renovating Central City Park, the pink Texas granite of the new Georgia Pacific building, the restored Fox Theater and the restored Hotel York across the street. Now we are passing what was once the Haight-Asbury of Atlanta, and is now the home of tiny art galleries and craft stores, towards Colony Square.

COLONY SQUARE is a complex of offices, hotels, shops and restaurants adjacent to the Atlanta Memorial Arts Center. A new art museum will open here later this year. Listen to Bill Schemmel give a running commentary as he drives: "Check out a restaurant in Colony Square called Toulouse. Very French."

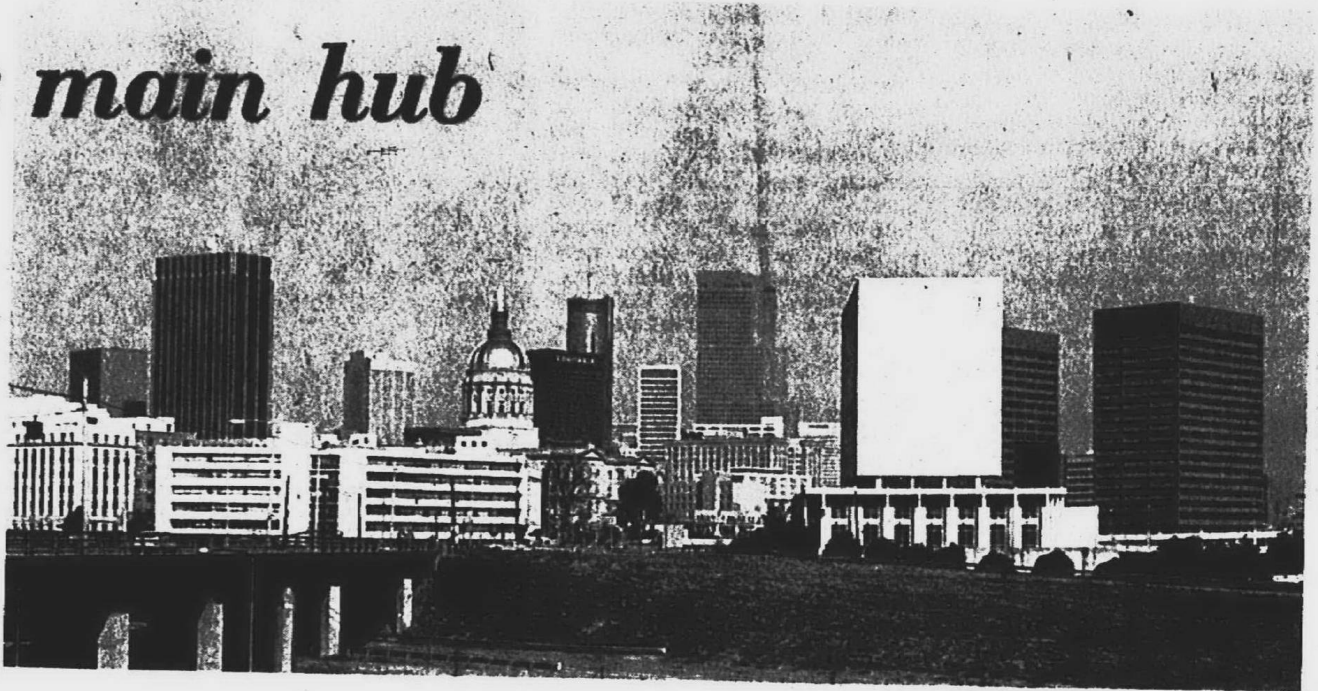

"Another one of the eating places you might like is the Country Place, casually chic. The original one, a mile from the present hotel district downtown, was the Pleasant Peasant, a New York-style bistro. There's also Peasant Uptown, Daly's downtown and in the suburbs. All reliable and busy."

"As we go on up Peachtree, there's the Kiyo Ya, one of the two best Japanese places in town. The other is Gojinka's, north of Lenox Square. The Kiyo Ya is simple, good sushi bar, authentic, moderately priced."

"The Coach and Six, on the left, is a steak and seafood place where businessmen take clients for lunch. Williamsburg decor. Very popular. Notice Cloud's, it's a great gourmet grocery store. And Harrison's, a famous singles bar and restaurant where upwardly mobile young professionals go for a meeting place."

I was so busy writing it all down that I nearly missed "La Grotta, the best Italian food in town, north Italy, very high class." We were turning left on Andrews, on a loop that would bring us back to Peachtree at West Paces Ferry a few blocks north.

The old Coca-Cola money is in these big houses high on their green swards of grass, looking deep down into wooded ravines. This is the southern edge of the Blue Ridge Mountain forest, tamed into long shaded driveways leading to colonnaded houses.

IRIS SANDERSON JONES

A mixture of old and new buildings — mainly new — dot the Atlanta skyline.

Back at Peachtree we drive through trees to the historic Swan House, the adjacent Tullie Smith Plantation and the Atlanta Historical Society. The Swan Coach House is obviously a favorite for ladies lunch, but if you ask Bill where he would go, he'll say "a few miles west on West Paces Ferry to Old Vinings Inn, one of the best restaurants in the city, in an old clapboard cottage renovated by a French woman and where she serves French provincial food."

The governor's mansion is near West Paces and Peachtree, but the corner itself, the heart of Buckhead, is the usual modern mishmash of gas stations, shopping centers and ugly skylines. Here, however, you'll find "the 103 West, one of the best restaurants in town. You'll either love it or you'll hate it. Very French. Very expensive."

You will also find the Cinema n' Draft House, where you can have beer and nibbles at a table while watching movies, mostly second run, according to Mary Magruder, who is as much a movie buff as Bill is a restaurant buff.

We turn right past the diversion to Roswell, past "Joe Dale's Cajun House, which has great jambalaya," on our way to Lenox Square. "The only really outrageous disco left in town is in this area. Limelight. Fantastic sound and light system. Celebrities often seen there."

"And there's Dante's Down the Hatch, decorated like the hold of a sailing ship. Have dinner about 9 p.m., fondue, good jazz . . ."

Lenox Square is a large, trendy, quality shopping center, "a giant Bloomingdales," across the intersection from Phipp's Plaza, home of names like Gucci, Saks, Lord and Taylor, Tiffany, Godiva.

You go in the back door of Lenox Square past a pastry table and the smell of fresh ground coffee to tables set in an open courtyard. You may never get past The Fish Market, "a fabulous restaurant with a raw bar," but if you do, you can buy cold sliced duck or fried chicken with potato skins or have fresh seafood in a casual courtyard setting at Halpern's or take your fast-food takeouts to small wrought-iron tables.

There's more of course. "Cuban sandwich shops near Piedmont and Miami. A great Asian supermarket at Broadview. Katz Deli on Cheshire Bridge Road." There are places near the Emory University district, where dogwood, weeping cherries and azaleas color the high lawns in March and April. "An East Indian place called Anarkali's, several pizza places like Everybody's or Jagger's or Lullwater's Tavern."

"The Hedgerow Heights Inn at Maple and East Ferry, Swiss-French, elegant and expensive. . . ."

But I can't go another mile without stopping for lunch. If you want addresses and phone numbers for these places, buy a copy of Atlanta Magazine or check with the Atlanta Convention and Visitor's Bureau at 233 Peachtree Street N.E. (659-4270).

It was an informal tour up Peachtree Street — strictly top-of-the-head stuff, the kind of information a traveler doesn't find in a brochure.

Local writers brave Big Apple's big storm

Two Birmingham writers were caught in the recent winter storm when ice and snow closed down New York City. Mary Augusta Rogers and Julie Candler of Birmingham were stranded in the Big Apple last week and only managed to get home via last-minute reservations on Amtrak.

Even that wasn't easy, because it was impossible to get through to Amtrak reservations on New York telephones. Julie finally telephoned her daughter and son-in-law, Carolyn and Joe Solaka, who run a travel agency called Gulliver's Travels in Detroit.

Carolyn called Amtrak in Chicago and finally got a reservation for two on the train leaving New York at 6:30 p.m. Saturday. It was due in Toledo at 9:30 Sunday morning, not a moment too soon, since Julie flew to Denver for her son's wedding that afternoon.

Mary said: "I learned something about travel. If you don't think you can get out, don't go to the airport. We nearly went to Newark for our flight."

"Those who did spent two days sleeping on the airport floor. We met some of the 'refugees' on Amtrak, one of whom spent $75 getting back to New York City from Newark."

Neither woman had ridden trains for years, but they loved it. "Once you figure out how to fit in a roomette, you can sleep like a baby," Mary said. "Trains are very evocative. They made me think of days when I traveled with my father, or came home from college by train."

"The food still isn't good, but it's better than it used to be. And the porters are exactly as they used to be. You would almost think they were chosen by Central Casting. They worked very hard to make us comfortable, and we loved it."

2 one-acts performed with style

Peter Carman of Westland is Jonathon Brewster, whose plastic surgery makes him resemble Boris Karloff, in "Arsenic and Old Lace," through March 12 at the Henry Ford Museum Theater at Greenfield Village, Dearborn.

THE THEATRE-GUILD OF LIVONIA-REDFORD'S PRODUCTION OF "TWO BY TENNESSEE" CONTINUES AT 8 P.M. FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, FEB. 18-19, AND FEB. 25-26, AT THE PLAYHOUSE, 15138 BEECH DALY ROAD, ONE BLOCK SOUTH OF FIVE MILE ROAD, REDFORD. TICKETS AT $5 PER PERSON ARE AVAILABLE BY CALLING 522-1526.

By Gail Susan Mack
special writer

The Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford presents an evening of thought and contemplation for theatergoers. The production of "Two by Tennessee" is a well-done display of typical Tennessee Williams characters in their ugliest moments.

The show is comprised of two one-act plays by Williams. Both "Auto da Fe" and "Suddenly Last Summer" are serious dramas that portray women as either domineering mother-types or weak, fragile individuals. The sons of controlling, opinionated women suffer to the point of insecurity and desperation.

In "Auto da Fe," Mme. Duvenet is a strong, religious woman whose son, Eloi, is confused, anxious and guilt-ridden. The somewhat humorous interaction between mother and son ends in tragedy because of the mother's staunch righteousness.

review

"Suddenly Last Summer" is a more complex one-act. Mrs. Venable, a wealthy, powerful woman, is determined to clear her son's tragic death by proving that her niece, Catherine, murdered him.

CATHERINE'S MOTHER, Mrs. Holly, and her brother, George, try to persuade her to admit to the murder. They would then remain recipients of a considerable sum in Venable's will.

The only admirable character in both plays is Dr. Cukrowicz who strives for the truth despite a threat that Mrs. Venable might cut off funds for his research foundation.

Acting in "Two by Tennessee" is strong enough to breathe life into Williams' characters. Mattie Wolf, who portrays both Mme. Duvenet and Mrs. Holly, turns in a superb performance.

She is completely believable through her detailed movements and voice quality in each role that she presents.

Tom Hinks, also playing two characters, is convincing. As George Holly, he is a wimpish young man, still attached to his mother's apron strings. His gestures, facial expressions and movements add much to his fine interpretation.

As Eloi, Hinks takes on a difficult challenge of portraying a confused man who suddenly goes berserk. Although his performance is very good, he could use more variety in a more gradual, yet bigger build of hysteria.

PAT DORRIAN Sandbothe, as Mrs. Venable, appropriately creates the upright old woman. She skillfully transforms from a controlled, pleasurable lady of great wealth and esteem to a screaming, uncontrollable witch filled with vengeance. Sandbothe's only void is a lack of variety on some of her difficult, lengthy speeches.

Joseph Guest plays Dr. Cukrowicz in "Suddenly Last Summer." In contrast to the others, Guest's character appears compassionate and concerned. The movements utilized by Guest seem rather stiff and inconsistent.

The character of Catherine is most delicately portrayed by Lisa Jerrell. Her understanding of this young lady is apparent through her performance. She does an excellent job of conveying her painful experience of witnessing the death of Venable's son.

The scenery for this production is artistically pleasing, as well as clever.

WILL THERE REALLY BE A MORNING? Drama based on the autobiography of Hollywood star Frances Farmer, here portrayed by Susan Blakely, (as opposed to Jessica Lange, who is being touted for an Oscar for her role in the title of the current theatrical release Frances.) Ms. Farmer's life is traced from her chaotic childhood in Seattle to her emergence as one of the top film personalities of the 1930's. Success is underscored by her deteriorating personal life, an unsuccessful marriage, a tortured love affair and a raging war with the mother who is determined to control her life. Lee Grant, John Heard, Melanie Mayron and the great Royal Dano co-star. Ultimate survival from a season in hell.

GEORGE HAMILTON

legendary swordsman and his little-known twin brother Ramon (who has more than a touch of lavender in his personality), tries for the same sort of zaniness with the masked avenger as he successfully pulled off with Dracula in Love at First Bite a while back. Salem's Blohm ends coaching tenure

BOB BLOHM SAT on steps behind the Livonia Bentley scorer's table Tuesday, in a gym where he had performed some of his greatest feats as Plymouth Salem's girls' basketball coach, and explained why he was resigning.

"We sat down one day and figured it out," Blohm said, meaning boys' coach Fred Thomann and himself. "We work eight months a year putting this program together. It's been pretty intense — we run it like a year-round thing."

"I just didn't feel I could put that kind of time into it anymore. And I'm not the kind of person that would do this with less than 100 percent commitment."

AS HE SPOKE, Blohm watched the Salem's boys' junior varsity team hold off Bentley to win. Bentley has been Blohm's archrival in his five seasons of coaching.

It is a true mark of Blohm's ability that his Rocks came out on top in the majority of those meetings.

It wasn't that Salem had the better players. Kim Archer, the Bulldogs' truly exceptional power forward who has been acknowledged by many as the state's premier player, plagued Salem for four of Blohm's five years.

But superior talent wasn't enough to beat the Rocks. In the last two years, Salem and Bentley met six times. The Rocks won four.

"I want to realistically look at the things I'm doing . . ."

Look at what he has accomplished. Blohm compiled a 102-20 record in just five seasons. For the statistically-minded, that's better than a 20-4 mark every year.

BLOHM'S FORMULA for success? He'd say defense and sound fundamentals — playing smart basketball.

But that's where Blohm is wrong. Because ask any coach and he'll preach the same things, the same code for success.

Maybe that's what sets Blohm apart. Instead of preaching, he taught his players — and they listened. They learned and believed in him.

That is truly a gift few coaches possess. I've seen hundreds of games, and countless times when a coach calls for a timeout, the players gather in a circle around him and suck on water bottles, half-listening to his instructions.

Not so with Blohm. His players were attentive. The result — they won. Consistently.

"The kids we've had haven't been physically awesome, but they had basketball skill and knew how to win."

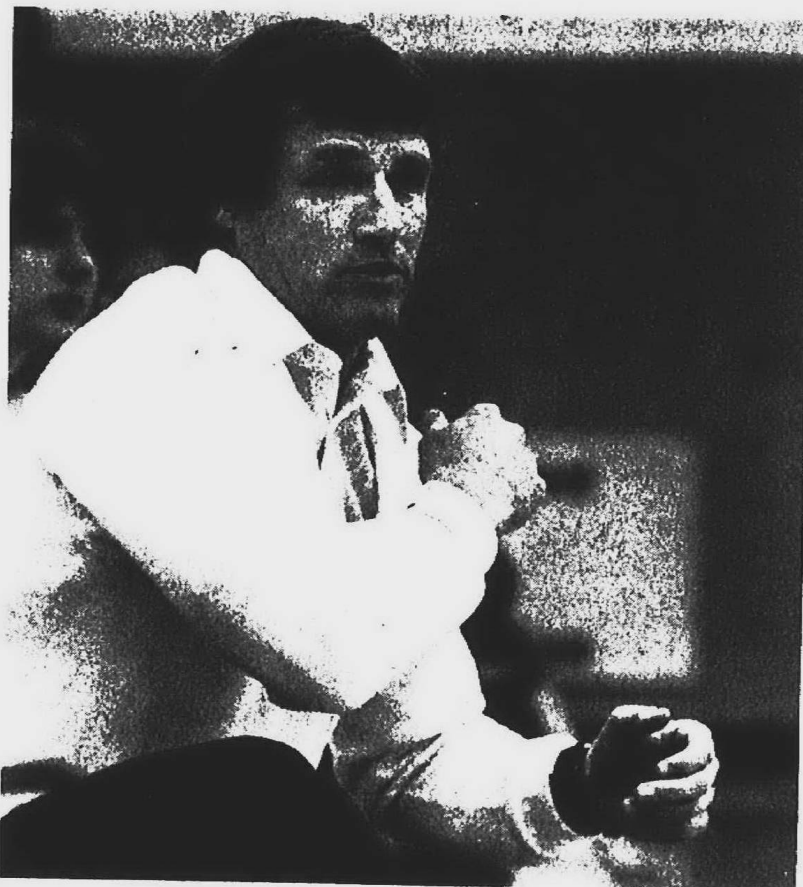

IT WAS A lesson Blohm taught well. Perhaps the best example was last season. Salem's tallest starter was 5-foot-8. Its best rebounder was 5-4. It was a methodical team that relied on a patient, perimeter-shooting offense and a tough, person-to-person defense to win.

The Rocks' record: 20-3, on a team with two senior starters, a team that was outsized by every opponent.

"Our success was due to our kids, who were willing to play as a team, and their ability to execute the fundamentals. We always had players willing to fill roles."

C.J. Risak

GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

Bob Blohm will no longer teach the game of basketball for Plymouth Salem's girls.

Players like Patty Weidman, now one of Central Michigan University's top players. Or Cheryl Sobkow, a star at Schoolcraft College. Or Eileen Moore, or Nan Horwood, or Jan MacKenzie, or Carol Ross, or Jacque Merrifield.

Each one filled a role as a Salem basketball player. Some, like Moore, MacKenzie, Ross and Merrifield, filled more than one as their roles changed year to year.

It comes back to teaching. And that's what Blohm did best.

"THE TEACHING of the game is what's most fun. That's what basketball is. I don't think there's a better place for a kid to go to learn than out here."

What Blohm taught was how to win and what goals to set. The object wasn't victories — it was to improve as the season progressed. Improvement would build winners.

"We always wanted to play well in the districts. That was always our goal."

The teaching of winning basketball — as Blohm, now 40, learned it in his prep schooldays in Indiana and in his playing years at Western Michigan University — will, for the time being, be put aside. Blohm will seek to fulfill other educational aims.

"There's some administrative opportunities, and I'm working on my certification in elementary education," the teacher at Central Middle School said. "And I'm into Eastern Michigan's educational leadership program."

WHICH MEANS Blohm is expanding his educational horizons. As far as his coaching ambitions, he did speak with Brad Kinsman, the University of Detroit athletic director, about the women's basketball position now vacant. But that is a post he has decided against actively seeking.

"It's time for me to relax and see where I'm at. It's a hard decision giving up the girls. They've been a great group to work with. And we've had tremendous support — from that standpoint it's been really gratifying."

"It's just that sometimes, you get too close to a situation. You don't see things clearly."

So Blohm will step back and take a look, examine what he has done and what he wants to do.

Will he return to coaching? Ask a fortune teller with an accurate eye for the future.

BLOHM STARED at the court as the Rocks' JV wrapped up its win over Bentley. There was that twinkle, that gleam in his eye that sparkled often in his days as Salem's girls' coach — after every victory.

He was remembering: the players, the games, and the Bentley series.

"All the Bentley games were tremendous experiences for us. In 1980, the game in the regionals, Bentley had a six or seven point lead at the half and we beat them in overtime."

He will be missed.

Rocks squeeze past Western for mat title

The best proved it where it counts — on the mats.

Plymouth Salem, the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) dual meet champion, confirmed that it was the best team in the 10-team league by edging Walled Lake Western for the championship Saturday at Western.

Western lost just one WLAA dual during the season — to Salem when heavyweight Kevin Van Otten pinned his Western foe in the final event to lift the Rocks to a six-point victory in the January meet.

The WLAA tournament was just as close. It took "a total combined effort of 13 boys who wanted to win the league meet," according to Salem coach Ron Kreuger, for the Rocks to prevail by a scant eight points.

Salem finished with 212½ points. Western totaled 204½. Plymouth Canton took third (140½), followed by Livonia Bentley (123½), Walled Lake Central (115), Livonia Churchill (72½), Northville (71), Livonia Stevenson (58½) and Farmington and Farmington Harrison (both with 56).

"WE FIGURED it would be close," Kreuger confessed. "We didn't know if we'd win it or not. We knew they were balanced and would place 12 kids (in the top six)."

"There wasn't enough balance through the league to stop two teams from running through it — we placed 13 (in top six)."

The top three teams filled 18 of the 26 spots in the finals: Salem had seven (including five champions), Western had six (three champs) and Canton had five (two titlists). Central also won a pair of weight divisions and Bentley had one champ.

"There was a real disparity in the league," agreed Canton coach Dan Chrenko. "We bumped off Western for (Salem) in a lot of cases."

DESPITE WINNING five of 13 weight classes, the Rocks needed the help John Beaudoin dropped down to 132, the division he won a state title in a year ago, and kept his match record perfect by routing Western's Bob Rich in the finals, 13-0. Beaudoin, a senior, is now 38-0 for the season, including 24 pins.

Rick Vershave (98), a junior, slipped past Bentley's Salem Yaffai, 7-4, for another Salem title. John Woochuk (155) blanked Canton's Marty Heaton, 6-0, in the finals for Salem's third crown.

Tom Walkley (198) was awarded the championship when Canton's Paul Fletcher defaulted in the final. Fletcher's younger brother, Brad, died earlier

'Gaze into my eyes — and improve'

(First of a two-part series.)
So, you're disgusted with your bowling, and your tennis game is disappointing after all those costly lessons.

That golf swing has hardly improved over the years — your drives are still slicing and those putts are horrendous. And, the racquetball game is just not the same after receiving that permanent indentation in the small of the back by your friend's wall-crunching forehand shot.

You're even getting tired of running lately because it's becoming more work than fun.

But, your worries are over. Jerry Cassell (pronounced like castle) — a hypnotist — is here to save you.

Let's get it straight right off the bat, though. Cassell is not going to wave a pendulum before your eyes to teach you the basic fundamentals of a particular sport. He's here to show you that sports is simply a state of mind over matter.

Marty Budner

Cassell is becoming more and more involved with sports hypnosis and self-hypnosis. He's specializing in sports for basically two reasons — he's familiar with most athletic problems and there's a big business pond out there to fish in.

THE FORMER FARMINGTON High School (1960 graduate) all-state wrestler operates on the premise that all athletes have the fundamental knowledge and an x-amount of ability in their particular sporting field. His aim is to show you that it's intense concentration — and not a lack of fundamentals — that you need to develop.

"I know what competition is . . . I have a strong background as a competitor and as a coach," said Cassell. "Being that I was an athlete and a coach I can relate with what an athlete goes through."

"I've always enjoyed athletics and there's a need in our country for (sports hypnosis)," said Cassell. "Hypnosis can't hurt anyone, it's ethical and it's not cheating. It's helping the (athlete) by programming their subconscious state."

If that sounds scary, it shouldn't be. Cassell does not put a person in an unconscious trance. Athletes do not become zombies walking around in a state of discombobulation like one of George Romero's suspicious critters in the "Night of the Living Dead."

Cassell puts an athlete in a state of self-hypnosis.

Salem tankers sweep N'ville

Everything was perfect for Plymouth Salem's swim team last Thursday.

The Rocks claimed all 11 first-place finishes in dispatching Northville, 82-44, at Northville. The clean sweep of firsts also kept Salem's Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) record unblemished in five dual meets. The Rocks are 9-2 overall.

Erik Kleinsmith and Mark Roehrig each won two individual events and swam on the victorious 400-yard freestyle relay (3:31.7) with Scott Anderson and Bob Bowling.

Kleinsmith's wins came in the distant free events, the 200 (1:54.8) and 500 (5:14.1). Roehrig captured the 200 individual medley (2:12.2) and 100 butterfly (1:00.1).

The Rocks had three sweeps of the top two places in the meet: Anderson won the 100 free (52.2) and Tom Shaw was second (54.9); Tim Harwood (59.4) and brother Mike (1:02.8) were 1-2 in the 100 back; and Ashley Long finished first in the 100 breaststroke (1:06.8) with Dave Workman second (1:10.6).

Bowling triumphed in the 50 free (23.8) and Todd

Riedel took the diving (203.9 points). Mike Harwood, Long, Tim Harwood and Bowling combined to win the 200 medley relay (1:48.6).

SATURDAY, SALEM placed second to host team Inkster Cherry Hill in the four-team Western Wayne Invitational.

The Rocks scored 308 points to 337 for Cherry Hill. Belleville was third (260) and Dearborn Heights Crestwood was fourth (120).

Salem was first in five events, with Kleinsmith leading the way with wins in the 200 (1:55.0) and 500 (5:13.7) freestyles. Mike Harwood won the 100 back (1:01.7) and Riedel captured the diving (355.6 points). Mike Harwood, Long, Roehrig and Shaw teamed in winning the 200 medley relay (1:48.8).

Tim Harwood and Long each had a pair of seconds for the Rocks. Harwood's came in the 50 free (23.5) and 100 fly (58.6), while Long was second in the 200 IM (2:13.1) and 100 breast (1:06.2). Kleinsmith, Anderson, Tim Harwood and Bowling swam to a second in the 400 free relay (3:25.5).

Salem swims at 7 p.m. tonight at Livonia Stevenson in a key WLAA dual meet.

Hypnotist can coax a better game

This is done through a series of lectures and/or cassette hypnosis tapes for sports conditioning "to increase the athlete's ability for practicing skills through intense concentration; positive self-control; self-expectancy, self-motivation and self-discipline; and relaxation before competition."

Concentration and relaxation are the key words. Cassell "programs" the athlete to use his or her self-generated power of concentration and relaxation as a means of improving athletic accomplishments.

SELF-HYPNOSIS is learning stress release and positive self-control through concentration and relaxation.

Cassell's not picky — he'll hypnotize a group (like he did with the Detroit Express and the Central Michigan University track team) for a nominal fee ranging from $25 to $30 or an individual (like he did to some high school wrestlers and what he wanted to do to Detroit boxer Thomas Hearns before his loss to "Sugar Ray" Leonard) for $35 per hour.

"It's simple to hypnotize a person for bowling," said Cassell, an accomplished black belt who once took second place in an international judo championship.

"For example, you're with your friends and you're bowling a good game, and someone says to you, 'don't throw a gutter ball.' Then you say (to yourself), 'I can't throw a gutter ball.' But, it's now planted in your mind.

"If you don't have self-control, self-expectancy, I'll bet you 50 percent or more of the time it's going to go right in the damn gutter and that's not normal for you. What happened is that you accepted (their thoughts) and you made it part of your expectancy.

"Can't is a negative word. You program yourself negatively by thinking 'can't'. All you should do is take a deep breath in, roll out slow like your body's hollow, then go through the procedure (bowling approach) in your mind.

"You see yourself like you're out of your body or you're actually inside your body and walking through the entire procedure. First, you focus on your mark if you're a spot bowler, you pick your spot, exhale and relax, then you step, step, step, then lift your arm back and throw the ball.

"(At that point) all other external sounds don't matter. That's what we call concentration. If you are programmed through hypnosis and self-hypnosis that all sounds relax you — and your power of concentration is beyond your belief system — all you can see is that spot. All you feel is reaching out and your arm is rubber — it's elastic — and people can yell and scream and drop a ball and you still block that out because you're programmed to relax."

CASSELL GRADUATED from Central Michigan University with a bachelor of science degree in physical education and administration and a master of arts degree in education and administration. He is currently working on a doctorate degree through the University of Michigan.

He became involved in hypnosis in 1971 while maintaining a job as an administrative assistant in adult and community education in the Brighton School system.

Cassell opened a clinic in 1981 and claims to be one of only four persons in Michigan who are certified as a professional forensics hypnotists, "utilized particularly in crime investigation and retrogressive therapy."

"My objective is to make a person perform to the best of their ability," he said. "I think that all of us should be the best that we could be. Most sports are concentration.

"Most athletes — especially professional athletes — without even realizing it use a form of self-hypnosis on themselves."

(Next week: How Cassell hypnotized the Detroit Express soccer team into winning the American Soccer League championship and how Cassell worked with Central Michigan University's cross country and track and field teams.)

SOFTBALL MEETINGS
An organizational managers' meeting for this year's slow-pitch softball leagues in Canton is scheduled for Feb. 26.

The men's league meeting will start at 10 a.m., with the women's following at 11 a.m. The co-ed league and the 35 and over league will meet in April.

The sessions will be in the meeting room on the first floor of the Canton Township Administration building, located at 1150 S. Canton Center. Among the topics to be discussed are entry fees, registration dates and times, contract requirements, residency requirements, new proposals and new leagues (co-ed and 35 and over).

For further information, call the Canton Parks and Recreation department at 397-1000 between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

SALEM BASEBALL
There may still be snow on the ground, but at Plymouth Salem the baseball season is already being planned.

Salem coach Brian Gilles would like all interested ninth graders who will be attending Salem to attend a baseball meeting at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 23, in room 2307 at Salem High.

For more information, call Gilles at Salem (453-3100, ext. 247).

Salem survives scare

Plymouth Salem pulled a victory out of the hat Tuesday to keep pace in the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) Lakes Division basketball race.

Erich Hartnett's 17-foot jumper with 14 seconds left enabled the Rocks to beat upset-minded Livonia Bentley, 47-45.

Salem is 11-1 in league play and 14-2 overall. The Rocks will end their league schedule tonight against Walled Lake Central at home. Livonia Stevenson finished its league campaign Tuesday with a 12-1 record.

Bentley blew its chances to win the game after Hartnett's basket.

After calling a timeout with eight seconds to go, Salem's Dave Houle committed his fifth foul and was charged with a technical.

But Bentley failed to convert two free throws, and the Bulldogs followed by throwing the inbound pass at mid-court into the hands of Hartnett. The Salem junior then passed to teammate Matt Broderick, who was fouled with one second left. The Salem guard made his first free throw and then missed the second shot as the game ended.

"IT WAS a flat out incredible game," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "Bentley's intensity level was very high because they have to get into the playoffs (Western Lakes tournament)."

"This was a great victory for us coming down the stretch. We had to win to maintain our tie with Stevenson."

John Cohen, a senior forward, came off the bench to lead Salem with 14 points. Houle and Broderick added 10 and nine, respectively.

basketball

Phil Graczyk and Dan Rayes led Bentley with 12 apiece.

The loss drops the Bulldogs to 4-8 in league play and 6-overall. Bentley must win Friday at Farmington to gain the fourth and final WLAA playoff spot.

CANTON 50
HARRISON 49

Plymouth Canton on a roll. The Chiefs, still minus high-scoring guard Mark Bennet sidelined with a stress fracture in his foot, battled back in the second half to overtake Farmington Harrison and win for the sixth time in their last eight outings.

Ron Rienas turned in a superb all-around game, scoring 21 points, grabbing 12 rebounds, shining out four assists, blocking three shots and limiting Harrison's Wes Jees to one second-half basket.

Canton, which trailed by seven (15-8) after one quarter and by as many as 15 in the first half, tied it to three at the intermission and took the lead by four (44-40) after three quarters. Harrison had a chance to win it in the final seconds but missed buzzer shot and Pat

Murphy secured it by rebounding for the Chiefs.

Mike Jennings added 14 for Canton, which evened its record at 8-8 overall and 6-6 in the WLAA. Harrison (4-12 overall, 3-9 in the WLAA) was led by Gordie Dawson's 16 points.

DET. BETHESDA 68
PLY. CHRISTIAN 30

Detroit Bethesda "controlled" all phases of the game," said Plymouth Christian coach Butch DiRenzo. Bethesda's control resulted in a lopsided loss for the Eagles at Pioneer Middle School.

Christian was guilty of 34 turnovers in 64 possessions, as its record dipped to 3-13 overall and 3-9 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference (MIAC). Bethesda is 14-3 overall and 10-3 in the MIAC.

Brian Spicer led Christian with 22 points. Tony Williams led a group of four Bethesda players in double figures with 14 points.

Christian travels to Bloomfield Hills Roper for a 7:30 p.m. game Thursday.

Canton 3rd at mat finals

Saturday following a junior league basketball game (see Page 1A of today's Plymouth and Canton Observers for related story).

VAN OTTEN GOT the Rocks' last first place by pinning Stevenson's Brian Youngberg, a foe he had lost to in two previous meetings, in 4:56 in the heavyweight match.

Dave Dameron (105) reached the finals for Salem before losing on a pin to Bentley's Paul Doulette in 3:03. John Jeannotte (119) also made it to the finals before falling, 7-1, to Central's John Andrews.

Jeff Davis (138) dropped down from 145 and placed third, pinning Northville's John Letarte in 3:38 in his final match. Bruce Zak (145) took fourth for Salem and Kevin Freeman (112), Paul Michellini (126), Joe Ward (167) and Scott Corrunker (185) each finished sixth.

CANTON'S TITLES were captured by Todd Bartlett (112), who blanked

Salem's Tom Walkley nails Ed Fultz of Walled Lake Western in the 198-pound semifinals. Walkley walked away with the division title.

Western's Rolf Henriksson 7-0 in the finals, and by Larry Janiga (145), who went overtime before besting Western's Steve Burnham, 7-2.

The Chiefs also had three seconds: Heaton (155) and Fletcher (198), who both lost to their Salem opponents, and Bob Parks (138), who dropped an 8-3 decision to Western's Rod Schuh in the championship match.

Tim Collins (126) placed third for Canton by beating Steve Timmis of Harrison, 1-0, and Tom Frigge (132) earned a third with a 5-1 victory over Curt Calhoun of Central. Jim Malsom (heavyweight) took a fourth for the Chiefs. STATE DISTRICT competition is next for the local mat teams. All districts begin Saturday morning. State regionals are slated for Saturday, Feb. 26.

"Oklahoma" (1955), 8 p.m. Friday on Ch. 50. Originally 145 minutes.

Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Oklahoma" opened on Broadway in 1943 but didn't make it to the silver screen until 12 years later. That figures, because Hollywood wasn't doing big-budget musicals during or right after the war, but "Oklahoma" fits in perfectly with those '50s blockbusters — usually shot in Cinerama or VistaVision — that were intended to draw viewers away from TV and back to the theaters. Gordon McCrae and Shirley Jones star in the big-screen, big-sky musical. Rating: $2.95.

"Horse Feathers" (1932), 1 Friday night on Ch. 50. Originally 70 minutes.

The Marx Brothers take over Huxley College, lead the football team against archrival Darwin — get it? — and Groucho utters the immortal line: "I thought my razor was dull until I heard his speech." What more could one ask? Well, the brothers also do the swordfish routine, and Groucho, addressing a faculty assembly, utters another immortal line: "As I look out over your eager faces I can readily understand why this college is flat on its back." Margaret Dumont does not co-star, but Thelma Todd and Nat Pendleton do. Rating: $3.25.

"My Friend Flicka" (1943), 11:30 a.m. Sunday on Ch. 50. Originally 89 minutes.

Roddy McDowall and Preston Foster star in this multi-leveled story of a boy and his horse. The boy's father, Foster, believes his son should own — and resemble — a thoroughbred, while the youth, 14-year-old McDowall, is more attracted to — and more resembles — a cross-breed. The father's argument that mixed-bloods are inferior takes on Arian proportions; meanwhile, the son's love for the spirited Flicka and his defiance of his father make for an engaging story. One question remains: Why does this American lad have an English accent? Jeff Corey also stars. Rating: $3.10.

"Tarzan and the Leopard Woman" (1946), 11:30 a.m. Saturday on Ch. 50. Originally 72 minutes.

It was the beginning of the end for Johnny Weissmuller, then 42, who would do only two more Tarzan films after "Leopard Woman." Brenda Joyce had already replaced Maureen O'Sullivan as Jane, and Lex Barker was waiting in the vines to take Johnny's place among the apes. Johnny Sheffield, as Boy, also stars.

Rating: $1.

Festival rings its 25th year

"Let Freedom Ring" is the theme of the 1983 Windsor-Detroit International Freedom Festival June 24-July 4. It will be the 25th anniversary of the annual American-Canadian joint Independence Day celebration.

More than three million people are expected to attend the 50 events in Windsor and Detroit during the 11-day festival this year. The festival is considered to be the largest one in North America.

"Let Freedom Ring" also is the name of a special silver-anniversary event. During the festival's June 24 opening ceremonies, every bell, horn, factory whistle, musical instrument and human voice in both cities will be sounded for 25 seconds according to a schedule.

Festival accents films, video segments

By Dan Greenberg
staff writer

"You've come a long way, baby," reflects the theme of the numerous film and video programs screened Saturday at the Detroit Area Film Teachers' (DAFT) "UPDATE '83."

More than 130 films and video segments screened at the film festival showed the blending of film and video technologies into cinematography. "Vilm" (video plus film) may not be its name yet, but it certainly is the game.

The day-long annual festival of visual delights and film/video products was held this year at the Wayne-Westland Community Schools' William D.

Ford Vocational/Technical Center.

Chairing "UPDATE '83" were Nadine Maynard and John Prusak, an instructor at the center. The 65 films and 69 video segments screened were provided by 32 cable companies, film/video distributors and independent producers from throughout the United States and Canada.

INDEPENDENT producers proved the most exciting, demonstrating media strengths throughout the metropolitan area with a number of excellent, well-made films.

Jeff Bloomer's "400 Power" is an imaginative short film demonstrating exceptionally high levels of film craftsmanship. The film tells the story of someone who looks through a microscope and sees incredible creatures. Bloomer is one of Prusak's instructional assistants at the center.

The center was a fine choice for "UPDATE '83." The 100,000 square-foot facility provides comprehensive training in 19 skill areas, including Prusak's motion picture production.

High school students learn job skills in half-day sessions at the center and complete their academic classes at their home high schools. Training is also provided for recent high school graduates and adults.

BESIDES SCREENING local independent filmmakers' work, "UPDATE '83" treated its several hundred participants to a number of commercially available films from the National Film Board of Canada, Pyramid of Los Angeles, Learning Corporation of America from Rockford, Mi., and Phoenix Films of Lathrup Village, among others.

Each year's UPDATE program enables local teachers to preview films available for classroom use.

The video art supplied by local cable companies and independent producers was particularly interesting. Electric cinematography or the use of video techniques modeled after film techniques, as opposed to live television, was clearly evident.

The film technique uses a mechanical optical system with a lens, light-sensitive celluloid film and a projector.

Video, however, is an all-electronic system. It uses a lens to focus an image on an electronic plate. The image is immediately transformed or recorded on videotape by polarizing electrons on plastic mylar.

Dan Greenberg teaches film history and cinematography at the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College. A filmmaker himself, Greenberg has written the script for a variety of films including how to install your own garage door opener, a half-hour documentary on Sinai Hospital and a segment narrated by Helen Hayes for the Michigan Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children. Greenberg is writing a book on the reference literature of film. An article taken from the book recently was published by Film Quarterly at the University of California in Berkeley.

Videotape is played back, producing images by reading the position of the electrons.

VIDEOTAPE'S lower cost, greater flexibility and potential for technological advancement offer many advantages. The "UPDATE '83" program notes that video art utilizes electronic techniques, feedback, computers and synthesizers "to search for a medium that combines the movement of the performing arts, the visual sophistication of painting and the rhythms of music."

"With video, such a medium has arrived," the program concludes.

In addition to film and video presentations, "UPDATE '83" provided a wide selection of T-shirts, film brochures and information, most notably John Prusak's, "For Reel," a beginner's guide to filmmaking. While there are more specific and detailed filmmaking guides available for the novice, Prusak's "For Reel" is a good place to start. The book was produced locally by the Wayne-Westland Community Schools' media service.

UPDATE is an annual program presented by DAFT, a group concerned with all aspects of film education. In addition to this annual screening, DAFT presents monthly feature film screenings; the Michigan Student Film Festival, set for this year on May 14 at the Detroit Public Library; Focal Point, which is an intense summer workshop in filmmaking and videotape production; and Vision Video, another in-depth video workshop.

Through these activities, DAFT prepares students in the metropolitan community for cinematic literacy and for appreciation of film and video as communication and as art.

Concert tribute honors Stan Kenton

Fans of late jazz great Stan Kenton will gather for the 71st anniversary of his birth in a tribute at 8 p.m. Saturday in Clarenceville High School's Schmidt Auditorium, 20155 Middlebelt, Livonia. The 21-piece Brookside Jazz Ensemble, augmented by Kenton alumni Sam Noto, Bob Lympers, Chuck Carter and Mike Suter, will perform this second annual all-Kenton music tribute.

The Kenton tribute is sponsored by the Cultural and Public Affairs series at Schoolcraft College. Tickets at $6 may be purchased at the College Bookstore. Tickets may be reserved by calling 591-6400, Ext. 265, or 218. Brookside Jazz replaced Dick Shearer's Band, which had been scheduled to perform. Shearer was called to California due to family illness. Last year his band played to a packed house.

WITH THE SAME instrumentation as the Kenton orchestra and some 40 of his charts, Brookside Jazz has chosen some of Kenton's top tunes for the tribute.

Sam Noto, who played with Kenton in the 1950s, will come in from Buffalo to sit in the trumpet section with another alumnus, Bob Lympers, who collaborated with Kenton to write "Intermission Riff."

Chuck Carter, baritone saxophonist in the 1970s, will come from Indianapolis, and Mike Suter ('70s) will be in the trombone section.

WCZY-radio personality Dick Puritan, who is an ardent Kenton fan, will be master of ceremonies again this year.

Millie Everson is Babe Williams, who works in a pajama factory, and falls in love with her boss, Sid Sorokin, played by Dick Weed, in the Rosedale

Gardens United Presbyterian Church production of "The Pajama Game."

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

A comically romantic couple are George Jewell as Hines, a time-study expert, and Catherine Stage as Gladys, the president's secretary.

'Pajama Game' staged

The musical "The Pajama Game" will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, Feb. 25-26, and 4 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 27, at the Rosedale Gardens United Presbyterian Church, 9601 Hubbard, corner of W. Chicago, Livonia.

Tickets at $3.50 for adults and $2 for 12th grade and under, may be obtained at the church or reserved by calling 422-0494.

Music and lyrics for "Pajama Game" are by Ricard Adler and Jerry Ross. The show is based on the novel "7-1/2 Cents" by Richard Bissell.

Director is Martha Kuykendall, music teacher in Livonia, who has done a dozen or more productions at the church.

SCENERY IS by Caroline Dunphy, costumes by Cindy Phelps. Piano accompanist is Martha Robertson. The show features a 20-piece orchestra directed by Lanny Swanson and a chorus of 25 performers.

"Pajama Game" stars Millie Everson as Babe Williams, Dick Weed as Sid Sorokin, Catherine Stage as Gladys and George Jewell as Hines.

Millie Everson is a private voice teacher in Livonia who has been involved in most of the church's musicals. She played Nellie in "South Pacific." Dick Weed had the lead last year as Fred in "Here's Love." He has been in numerous community productions and played Marrying Sam in "Lil Abner" for the Livonia-Redford Theatre Guild. Catherine Stage has done most of the choreography for the musicals and also some local theater. George Jewell has played many character roles in past performers.

Hit songs from the musical include "The Pajama Game," "Hey There," "Hernando's Hideaway," "I'm Not at All in Love" and "Once a Year Day."
