

Specialist works with parents of poor readers

An important part of every child's education involves learning to read. While some children experience little difficulty reading, for others learning to read presents a major problem. Parents want to help their children during this difficult experience but often don't know where to begin, says Sandra Buike, a reading specialist who lives in Plymouth and maintains an office in Dearborn.

"Usually this occurs because parents don't know what they are dealing with," said Buike. "Often children who are having trouble with their reading or other school work display disruptive or inappropriate behavior, including withdrawal in the classroom and/or the home.

"Parents, therefore, aren't certain if they are dealing with a behavior problem or a learning problem."

HAVING SPENT 14 years working in various capacities with children and adults who have problems reading, Buike begins her work with a thorough diagnostic evaluation of the problem. "A good diagnosis is very important. It is the diagnosis that determines reading strengths and weaknesses, and provides the basis for the design of the remedial work," said Buike.

Following the evaluation, Buike and the parents discuss the test results. At this time a decision is made about the next course of action for the child.

"Generally a reading problem is not the result of a single cause," she said. "Physical, psychological, home and school factors can influence one's ability to read. Therefore, it is very important that the diagnostic evaluation look at the individual as a whole versus looking for reading deficiencies."

For the majority of disabled readers, Buike maintains, once the diagnostic evaluation has determined their particular reading strengths and weaknesses, a well-developed program based on the student's individual reading needs will in time result in reading proficiency and an increase in self-confidence.

Parents often ask about the length of the remediation period and if the program will result in a "cure."

"It is very difficult to answer these questions," said Buike. "There is research which suggests that a program of remediation or tutoring include a minimum of 50 instructional hours for improvement to be significant and lasting."

"However, I think it is an individual matter. While you can't expect instant results after two or three sessions, one student may work with a tutor for 6 to 10 weeks and make fantastic progress while another student may need support services through high school and even college.

"As for 'cured' — reading is a developmental process and our reading is contingent upon our experience with the world as a whole.

"As we grow personally, experientially, professionally," said Buike, "our reading grows. 'Cure' implies that reading is a technical art — simply the mastery of phonics, which of course, it isn't. Phonics or reading skills are a part of the reading process but they are just that, only a part of it."

AFTER SEVEN YEARS as an elementary classroom teacher in two Michigan school districts, Buike left full-time teaching and enrolled in graduate studies at Michigan State University.

At MSU she majored in reading instruction and in research on teaching. She was a research intern for the Institute for Research on Teaching in the College on Education and completed extensive research on how students and teachers interact in reading classrooms and how teacher decision-making influences the ways in which students are taught to read.

Upon completion of her doctorate, Buike assumed a position as an assistant professor at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. There she taught courses on developmental and clinical reading, completed a study with parents of disabled readers, and published several articles.

The research study completed while she was co-director of the university's reading clinic has proven beneficial in her work with parents of disabled readers, she said.

"The stress levels at home are particularly high. Helping parents to understand their child's problem, deal with their guilt and feelings of failure, and work with the school usually help ease the situation at home."

As the mother of a third and fourth grader, Buike knows first-hand that even a minor learning problem can create tension in a family.

"I think sometimes parents need to know that they are not the only ones with a child experiencing reading/learning problems. They need support — someone knowledgeable to talk with. They also need to learn techniques to cope with the situation and receive praise for their positive efforts."

In December 1982, Buike resigned from her position at North Carolina and returned to her native Detroit. She presently is working on a private basis with children and adults in the greater Detroit area. She also has worked with teachers and principals in several area school districts since her return.

Golf tournament to benefit champs

The sixth annual Randy Williams Memorial Golf Tournament will be Saturday, Aug. 20, at Fellows Creek Golf Club in Canton.

The tournament will be a benefit for a special fund set aside to pay for room and board of any Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP) athletic team which advances to state championship play.

The tournament originally was started as a benefit for the family of Randy Williams, a young man who died of cancer in his early 30s about five years ago, leaving a wife and child.

Now the golf tourney is held in Williams' honor with money raised going to benefit CEP teams seeking a state title. In recent years the money also has been used to help needy families in the Plymouth-Canton community.

The tournament will feature three-man scramble play, golf cart, dinner, refreshments, and prizes for a donation of $50 each. Tee times will be assigned.

Fellows Creek is located on Lotz Road, one block east of I-275 and north of Michigan Avenue in Canton.

The committee planning the tourney this year also is seeking businesses which are willing to sponsor a hole. Any business sponsor may contact Larry Olson at 453-2434 or another committee planner.

Other members of the committee include Mike Patrick, Jo Humphries, Mike Kisabeth, and Chuck Olson, chairman.

The name of the game is changing for ambulances

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

The fire department ambulance many people have grown accustomed to seeing around town is fast becoming a thing of the past.

The changing world of emergency medical care is again turning to the private sector for ambulance service — bringing an end to the era of the municipal ambulance.

"Today there is a push for paramedic service," said Plymouth Fire Chief Roy Hall, formerly with the Redford Fire Department.

"However the high cost of paramedic service is forcing communities to turn to hospitals — it's a trend of the future," Hall said.

PARAMEDIC SERVICE means advanced life support (ALS), methods and equipment designed to go beyond the basic emergency medical care provided by most municipal ambulance services.

The difference could mean life or death to a heart-attack victim or severely injured accident victim.

Paramedics can administer drugs, start IVs, interpret EKGs, and perform more sophisticated medical procedures on a patient. The paramedic is in direct communication with a hospital physician while responding to a call.

Providing ALS with paramedics requires expensive equipment and higher levels of training for personnel, something most communities can't afford.

ONE EXCEPTION is the Southfield

Fire Department, which operates its own paramedic service (see related story on this page).

"Up until about 1968, ambulance service was provided by funeral homes," Hall said.

In 1968 Michigan required ambulance operators to work in pairs and be trained in advanced first aid, he said.

Funeral homes pulled out and fire departments stepped in, since firefighters were trained in advanced first aid and were on-duty around the clock.

Additional legislation evolved into today's requirement that ambulance personnel be certified emergency medical technicians (EMTs). EMTs must complete 140 hours of training.

"NOW THE PUSH is for paramedic service. However the cost of this service is almost prohibitive for communities," Hall said.

The average cost for one ALS paramedic unit is $45,000. The labor costs for manning the unit run between $70,000 and $150,000 a year.

Paramedics must complete two years of college medical training and then pass a state board exam. While working as a paramedic, time must be spent in continuing education.

Area hospitals are starting to get into the paramedic act. In the metro area, St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor and Botzford Hospital in Farmington Hills, operate paramedic services.

THE SERVICE is offered to municipalities at no cost, other than a working agreement and notification of emergency calls.

"We believe EMS (emergency medical service) and hospitals are natural partners, because EMS units are nothing more than extensions of the hospital's emergency room," said Greg Beauchemin, director of Botzford's Community EMS service.

"There is more credibility with the hospital. The public has a good taste in their mouth when you talk about paramedic service tied into a hospital," he said.

The work and costs of operating a paramedic service are "not practical" for small fire departments and small private ambulance companies, Beauchemin said.

"WITH A hospital-based EMS service, we have facilities readily available for continuing education. We can draw on the resources of the hospital," he said.

"For a fire department it's hard to pull the paramedics out of a service area for training. It has to be done on an overtime basis. We are able to rotate our personnel to get them into the hospital for training."

Community EMS works in Farmington, Farmington Hills, Redford, Plymouth, Novi, and Northville. Other communities reportedly are considering working agreements with Community EMS.

"Having EMS tied into a hospital is something you're going to see more of across the nation in the future," Beauchemin said.

Southfield does it different

On Nov. 17, 1972, Southfield inaugurated the nation's first paramedic operation in a city with a population of less than 100,000.

In the program's first 10 years, the paramedics were called out on more than 35,000 emergency runs.

Today, the paramedics, operating out of four of Southfield's five fire stations, handle about 4,000 medical emergencies each year. Response time to each emergency is four minutes or less.

The Southfield Life Support Unit (LSU) is manned by about 28 paramedics and six sergeant paramedics, all of whom are members of the Southfield Fire Department. Like other members of the department, they also respond to fires and other non-medical emergencies. The pay range for the paramedics is $29,890 to $31,630. The sergeants receive between $35,705 to $37,740.

EVERY PARAMEDIC receives 560 hours of emergency training, including 480 hours of advanced emergency technician course work. Most training is conducted through Providence Hospital in Southfield. The hospital has been a working partner in the LSU program since the program was first conceived in October 1971.

During its history, the LSU has achieved a number of distinctions. It was a driving force behind the creation of the Michigan Medical Services Act in 1974, legislation which supports formation of paramedic units. In May 1976, the LSU was selected to accompany President Gerald Ford during his tour of southeastern Michigan.

Youths warned Safety tips given moped drivers

Along with dandelions, spring weather brings worries about the dangers of mopeds — small, motorized bikes with movable pedals.

Police will enforce regulations to reduce the possibility of someone becoming injured or killed, Canton Police Chief Jerry Cox said.

Last year, the police department issued tickets and confiscated several mopeds which were improperly used or licensed. The same policies will be followed this year, Cox said.

MANY MOPED drivers are underage youths who drive illegally, tie up traffic on roadways, and endanger themselves and motorists, Cox said. The slow-moving mopeds are "treacherous" and hard to see, he added.

"We're going to vigilantly enforce the law," Cox said. "They (mopeds) don't belong on the highway."

Township trustee Steve Larson was shaken last week as he recalled a recent near-miss. He said he almost hit two youths on a moped during evening hours at Sheldon and Warren roads.

Larson estimated the riders' ages at 10 or 12.

"He shot across Warren Road with no lights on," Larson said. "I think it's time and appropriate that we have to crack down. When I think how close I came to killing those two kids, it's scary."

MANY PEOPLE confuse a moped with a motorcycle, police said. Some drivers are unaware of laws regulating mopeds. Others ignore the law, police said.

According to some guidelines drawn up by Cox, a moped has two or three wheels, with operable pedals and a motor of less than 50 cubic centimeters. Top speed is 25 miles per hour.

A moped's pedal system incorporates less than 1.5 brake horsepower. Bikes without pedals which exceed 25 mph are considered motorcycles under the law, as are mini-bikes and motor scooters.

Guidelines are stricter for motorcycles than for mopeds. According to the Michigan Motor Vehicle Code:

- Minimum age to operate a moped is 15, with a special moped license from a Secretary of State's office. Youths must have their parents' written permission in order to get a license.

- A moped cannot be driven on sidewalks or bicycle trails. It cannot hold up traffic on a roadway.

- Annual license plates aren't necessary for a moped, but a registration sticker, good for three years, costs $15.

- No passengers are allowed on mopeds.

- Insurance isn't necessary for a moped. It is required for a motorcycle.

- Mopeds must be equipped with brakes on both wheels, head lamp, horn and muffler.

COX EXPRESSED concerns about the reintroduction in the Michigan Legislature of a bill that would relax guidelines for mopeds.

A similar bill was passed last year, but vetoed by former Gov. William Milliken.

"I'm opposed to changing the law," Cox said.

City election

of the Planning Commission to serve on the City Commission, and so McKercher, with that background and other civic involvement, can be expected to be a strong challenger.

Earlier, city hall watchers had speculated that Greg Green and Dorothy Frid would be making a second bid for the City Commission, but as of Tuesday neither had taken out nominating petitions.

Also on the November ballot, six residents will be elected to seats on the Plymouth Library Board. Two will be elected for one-year terms, two for two-year terms, and two candidates will be elected for three-year terms.

So far not enough residents have filed to insure six persons will be elected.

So it's likely the political season in Plymouth won't get started this summer, but after Labor Day a good campaign may be in the works.

Go Ahead, Ask Your Doctor. You've just been handed a prescription. You start to look forward to better health. But what do you know about that drug? Do you understand what it is meant to do? Do you know how to take it? Medicines can have some side effects, and they have to be taken correctly. So, be sure to read instructions carefully, and don't hesitate to ask your doctor about: When to take the medicine. Some drugs should be taken on full stomachs, some on empty stomachs, some in the morning, some before going to bed. How to take the medicine and how much. With water, with milk or without anything? Should the dose be one or two spoonfuls or what? What not to take with the medicine. Some medicines don't mix with alcohol, others shouldn't be mixed with other drugs. What side effects the drugs can cause. Medicines may produce a variety of other reactions. Not all people will have the same side effects but you should know what the possibilities are. There are many sources of information about prescription drugs. Ask your doctor or pharmacist.

Woman shocked trimming grass

A 32-year-old Plymouth woman was seriously injured Sunday afternoon when she received an electrical shock from a grass trimmer.

Apparently the woman's necklace touched the trimmer's connector plug, causing the electric shock, according to police.

As of Tuesday Diane Harris of Mayflower Street was listed in stable condition at the intensive care unit of Oakwood Hospital.

"The report we're getting is that she is alert and coming along nicely," a hospital spokesman said.

About 1 p.m. Sunday Harris was working in her backyard with an electric lawn grass trimmer, police said.

Another Stump, a neighbor, told police she heard the grass trimmer stop and looked out her window. Stump saw Harris had fallen down.

Stump's husband, Steve, unplugged the extension cord to the trimmer and administered CPR until the fire department arrived, the report said.

"Stump said he observed a metal chain that was around the victim victim's neck stuck to the connector plug," the report stated.

Harris was taken to Oakwood Hospital's Canton Clinic and later transferred to Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn.

8 candidates seek 3 Schoolcraft board posts

Eight candidates are seeking three, six-year terms on the Schoolcraft College board of trustees June 14.

So far, the campaign has been largely one of personal qualifications. One exception: The fact that six of the seven current trustees are residents of the Livonia school district. One is from Plymouth-Canton and none from Clarenceville, Garden City and Northville.

In recent weeks, the candidates have been invited to forums before the Livonia and Garden City PTA councils. To those who attended, The Observer and audience members asked these questions:

1. What contacts have you had with Schoolcraft College (other than serving on the board of trustees)?
2. How do you feel about the "governance" issue — the current system of electing the seven trustees at-large?
3. Most of you have had interviews with the Faculty Forum (instructors union). What was your impression? What did you learn?

MARY BREEN, 49, of Plymouth Township has been assistant principal in the Livonia school district for seven years, the last two at Stevenson High, and said, "I've never been happy with being just a teacher or housewife." She has 23 years as an educator.

1. As a civic worker, Breen has worked on millage campaigns for Schoolcraft and as an administrator has encouraged students to attend Schoolcraft. It will give everybody an educational opportunity. She also attended a community college — Henry Ford — before attending Wayne State, Eastern Michigan and Michigan State universities.

2. "I feel part of both communities," said the Plymouth Township resident who works in Livonia. "We are a total district, not just individual communities. . . . We should not think of ourselves as separate entities."

3. "Over the years, I've become tired of hearing about teachers here — administration here — kids here. We should be one, big happy family. Too many times we've worried about being at odds."

GERALD L. COX, Garden City, served a term on the Schoolcraft board (1973-79). He taught and was a department head in Detroit schools for two decades and currently is a licensed insurance agent with the Arnold L. Fine Agency.

His campaign has emphasized the community college's role in Michigan's economic redevelopment, specifically advocating improved facilities, including one for fine and performing arts.

1. Cox serves on the board of the Schoolcraft College Foundation, "an area where every community can be represented."

2. One of Cox's chief issues is that six of the seven Schoolcraft trustees are from Livonia, with about half the college district's population. "As long as there are at-large elections, we're bound to be dominated by the city to the north," he said to a hometown audience. He has not proposed a specific solution but has prodded the board to address the question.

3. He warns that the strike issue "is not over yet. It'll keep coming back until we do something about the laws in this state. The board is on one side, the teachers on the other. . . . Quite frankly, I don't expect to get their endorsement."

DARYL DELABIBO, 29, is director of administrative services and assessor of Garden City, where he has worked five years. He is president-elect of the local Kiwanis. Delabibo has taught part-time at Detroit College of Business and Wayne State University's continuing education program. His degrees are from Aquinas College and WSU. He says his city experience gives him a grasp of "declining resources in the face of increasing demands for services," adding, "There are no major issues. That's a credit to the board."

1. Delabibo has taken a computer class at Schoolcraft and has an intern who is a full-time student in criminal justice.

2. He puts much distance between himself and Cox on the representation issue, saying, "I don't think Garden City has been neglected" by the college. "The board has done an admirable job representing all communities. A person should be elected on his or her merits. I think my qualifications can stand on their own."

3. The Faculty Forum was interested in his views on labor relations and management — "What would I do in the event of a strike? Individually, I would do nothing. . . . The best thing a board member could do is be fair and reasonable."

HARVEY A. FAILOR, Canton, is retired after 36 years in education, the last 18 as principal of Fordson High School in Dearborn, where he supervised the five-year renovation of the building. He has been active in professional groups, served on the search committee for a president of Henry Ford Community College and has been a Sunday school superintendent.

"I decided to run for the Schoolcraft board because of a sincere interest, 36 years experience and because, after retiring, there's a — blah! — void in my life."

2 and 3. He was not present when the questions on governance and the Faculty Forum were asked.

Failor sees Schoolcraft as having a major role in "continuing education

Schoolcraft College district

The Schoolcraft College District includes the K-12 districts of Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth-Canton and a small portion of Novi.

College board elections are held in odd-numbered years at the same time as local school board elections. The Schoolcraft board has seven members, all elected at large.

Schoolcraft trustees regularly meet once a month and may hold special meetings, particularly during the budget season and during labor negotiations. They serve without pay.

Regular meetings start at 8 p.m. the fourth Wednesday of the month in the board room of the Grote Administration Building, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

and lifelong learning." He added that "I fully subscribe to the prescribed mission of Schoolcraft College — an educational, cultural and recreational center dedicated to meeting the challenges of a changing society."

BRYAN GRAHAM, 20, of Livonia is a student at the University of Michigan-Dearborn majoring in international studies and systems engineering. He offers to bring a "student perspective" to the Schoolcraft board.

1. "I have never been a student at Schoolcraft, and I have no conflict of interest. I have used the physical education building and library. Schoolcraft has a very good library."

2. "I see Dr. Cox's point. I don't think things will change. . . . If people feel threatened by Livonia, that's a legitimate concern."

3. Forum leaders "were preoccupied with economics" after striking in 1980. "They asked, 'What would you do for the faculty?' — along those lines." Graham also found them interested in a fine arts building and how Schoolcraft would coordinate its efforts with Livonia. "I don't hold out a lot of hope" for getting their endorsement.

HARRY GREENLEAF, 46, of Livonia has been chairman of the board for four years and is seeking his second six-year term. He is a supervisor in organization planning and salary administration for the central staffs of Ford Motor Co. Greenleaf is also a former two-chairman of the 2nd Congressional District Republican organization.

1. Greenleaf ran for the board in 1975 and was elected in '77 but was not otherwise involved with the college. He taught math part-time in an upstate New York college and more recently taught personnel management at Henry Ford Community College.

2. He advocates the "Delta plan," whereby trustees would be nominated from equal-sized sub-districts but run at-large. "It's not ideal or perfect, but it is tested, and it has been upheld by the Supreme Court." Greenleaf said the Schoolcraft board has been sensitive to the needs of Garden City and other communities. They have had "input" if not direct representation. "If I had to depend on the Livonia vote, I wouldn't have been elected."

3. The Faculty Forum seemed to have "a set of questions for each candidate." He sensed they wanted "a more participative style" of management.

MYRON KASEY, Northville, has not appeared at a candidates' forum, supplied a biography or picture.

ROSINA RAYMOND, of Livonia has taught foreign languages and genealogy in a variety of educational institutions, has been active in the Livonia Library Commission and Democratic politics, and is seeking her third six-year term.

"I've known the college for 22 years," she said. "We have added the wonderful Women's Resource Center.

We are going to the people — Garden City, Northville, Plymouth-Canton. We are growing; we are solvent; we have a balanced budget."

1. Her work with Schoolcraft began with two campaigns for its founding and a millage campaign. "I was involved in all of those campaigns. I did not win my first one, either," she said of an unsuccessful bid before her 1971 victory.

2. "Livonia has not dominated" Schoolcraft, she said, noting that prior to reapportionment, the Plymouth school district had half the Schoolcraft seats. She supported a smaller district reapportionment plan.

Raymond also strongly supported a nine-member board, a system whereby smaller K-12 districts would have a better chance of placing candidates on the Schoolcraft board. She added, "I am willing to look at the Delta plan again."

3. She had not yet been interviewed by the Faculty Forum at the time the question was asked.

roll call report

House votes against Capitol expansion

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes May 19-25.

PRESERVE CAPITOL. The House voted, 325 for and 36 against, to repair the West Front of the Capitol rather than extend it with a new facade.

The West Front, which faces the Mall, is deteriorating as its sandstone crumbles. It is the only side of the original Capitol that remains an exterior wall.

At issue were perquisites as well as historical preservation, for a new facade would contain space eyed by senior members for personal "hideaway" offices and committee quarters.

The vote approving $49 million for West Front preservation rather than $70 million for expansion occurred during debate on HR 3069, an appropriations bill later sent to the Senate.

Supporter Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y., said "this is the wrong time for us to be spending millions... for extra space in this Capitol or any building associated with work of Congress."

Opponent Bob Traxler, D-Mich., said "the extension of the West Front is to fulfill the manifest destiny of the U.S. Capitol building."

Members voting yes opposed extending the side of the Capitol that faces the Mall.

Voting yes: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth; Dennis Hertel, D-Detroit; Sander Levin, D-Southfield; and William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

Voting no: William Ford, D-Taylor.

DEBT. The Senate passed, 51 for and 42 against, and sent to the White House a bill (HR 2990) raising the national debt ceiling by $98.8 billion to $139 trillion.

The current limit will be reached by early June. The new ceiling is expected to suffice until Oct. 1.

Supporter Russell Long, D-La., said that because the government must pay its bills "there is no room for politics" in debating the issue.

Opponent Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, was among Democrats who wanted to use the bill as a vehicle to attack the third year of the administration's supply-side tax cut, which is to take effect July 1.

Senators voting yes favored the higher debt ceiling. Riegle voted no.

BUDGET. By a vote of 50 for and 49 against, the Senate approved a fiscal 1984 budget blueprint calling for more taxes and domestic spending and less defense spending than President Reagan wants.

The measure (S Con Res 27) recommends federal outlays of $849.7 billion in the year beginning next Oct. 1. It must be blended with a House budget plan even more distasteful to the White House.

Here are the major disputes: In 1984 tax hikes, the Senate wants $9 billion, the House $30 billion, the president $2.7 billion. In domestic spending, the Senate wants to exceed the president's 1984 request by $12.6 billion and the House wants to go $33 billion beyond the president.

In inflation-adjusted defense hikes over 1983 levels, the Senate wants a six percent increase and the House wants four percent. Reagan asked for 10 percent.

Also, the Senate will accept a 1984 deficit of $178.6 billion, the House $174.5 billion and the White House $192.4 billion.

Senators voting yes supported the Senate budget resolution and parted company with the White House.

Levin voted yes. Riegle voted yes.

(See story on the MX vote on Page 7A) MX. The House voted, 239 for and 186 against, to release $625 million in fiscal 1983 funds for speeding development of the MX missile.

Projected to cost taxpayers $20 billion to $30 billion over the next several years, the 100-missile system, based in existing silos in Wyoming and Montana, would replace the Minuteman later this decade as the land leg of the Triad nuclear arsenal.

Objecting to an administration plan to house the MX in a "dense pack" underground cluster, Congress last year refused to approve the $625 million.

The funding resolution (H Con Res 113) was sent to the Senate.

Supporter Robert Michel, R-Ill., said the MX will make the transition to meaningful arms control "easier to endure and survive by putting the Soviet Union on notice that it runs grave risks if it thinks the time has come to attack."

Opponent William Ratchford, D-Conn., said the MX "would present a high-value target in a vulnerable basing mode which would invite a first strike by the Soviets."

Members voting yes wanted to release the MX money.

Voting yes: Pursell and Broomfield. Voting no: Hertel, Ford and Levin.

MX (Senate). By a vote of 59 for and 39 against, the Senate followed the House and released $625 million for a test flight and other development of the MX missile.

While this was a significant administration victory, many senators said they will vote for future MX funding only if President Reagan continues to be flexible with his arms policies.

Supporter John Danforth, R-Mo., said "U.S. negotiators in Geneva would be placed in a weaker position if the Congress refrained from deploying the MX while the Soviets maintained their large SS-18 missiles."

Opponent John Glenn, D-Ohio, said he favors mobile basing of new U.S. missiles. He added that the Soviet ambassador to the United States told him MX deployment will scuttle the Salt II arms control agreement between the superpowers.

Senators voting yes favored continued development of the MX.

Carl Levin, D, and Donald Riegle, D, voted no.

Opinions are to be shared

Opinions and ideas are most fertile when shared with others. That's why the Observer encourages its readers to share their views with others by making use of the From Our Readers column. While the Observer expresses its opinions on the editorial page, we always leave space open for our readers to express their ideas. Submitting a letter to the editor for publication is easy. We ask that letters be typewritten or printed legibly and kept to 300 words or less. They must be signed and include the address of the sender. Names will be withheld only for the best of reasons, and the decision to do so will be made by the editor. Letters may be mailed or hand-delivered to our news office at 461 S. Main, Plymouth 48170.

from our readers

League thanks many helpers

To the editor:
The Allegro group of the Plymouth Symphony League would like to extend our thanks to the Observer and all those who helped make the League sponsored 1983 Plymouth Community Home Tour an overwhelming success.

Our sincerest appreciation goes out to so many — beginning with the ever-gracious homeowners, all those who donated material items, those who worked tirelessly from initial planning to the wonderful luncheon which provided a warm, dry respite from the inclement weather, and ending with the Plymouth and surrounding communities who consistently support the efforts of the Symphony League so generously.

As in the past, the Observer provided us with cooperation and timely publicity for which we are grateful.

Shirley Wold

Why's property valued wrong?

To the editor:
Why have many properties in the city of Plymouth, mine included, failed to reflect the current market values?

"Great Lakes" was hired to reassess in an attempt to adjust differences between property values within the city to obtain the state equalized value (SEV) factor of one (1.0). State evaluation factor is set at 50 percent of what a "willing buyer and a willing seller" pays in the last 12-30 months.

By thoughtful questioning over a two-year period at the City Commission meetings, I have found:

1. To date, when property is sold in the city the price paid is not adjusted either up or down; thus failing to reflect a true assessed evaluation of the recent sales market.

2. In the neighborhood where the sale occurred, our houses were not adjusted to the current market value; neighborhood adjustment is not practiced by our local tax assessor.

3. Many of us received our reassessment notices days short of the 10 days required by state law; although the law is not enforced by our state.

In my attempt to prove my house's "true value" before the Board of Review, I presented copies of recent neighborhood sales, plus "bids" on attempted sales. I explained condition of area, location to railroads, natural hazards such as flooding, excessive traffic, lots close together and noise. All was ignored, thus confirming the above facts.

This has resulted in my paying a 70 percent SEV factor.

To go before the State Board of Review costs time, money, and energy, plus a long wait and lots of forms to fill out, resulting in a long wait for a hearing.

Why do our local government officials fail to carry out state tax laws when it benefits us? They listen, nod and change the subject.

Dorothy Frid
Plymouth

JOE SEDLACEK has been elected president of the Plymouth-Canton Civitan Club for the 1983-84 season. Lou Mair is president-elect; Eleanor Shevlin is vice-president, funds; Stan Socha, vice-president, service; and Joe Henshaw, vice-president, administration. Sam Detrich is secretary-treasurer.

Look for Lou Mair and crew June 11. They will be out selling flags. Flag Day is Tuesday, June 14.

The club will have its annual birthday celebration and dinner at its June 16 dinner meeting. Folk singer Robert Fritz will entertain the Civitans and their spouses.

EVELYN BECK had high score at last Thursday's party bridge games in the Plymouth Cultural Center. Congratulations are in order. She has been playing with the group for seven years and this is the first time she came in first. Carl Peters was second high. There were eight tables in play.

BILL HEINEY, magician and illusionist, will be entertaining Saturday at the Westland Center Kids Fun Factory. He will present two 40-minute shows in the auditorium of the Emporium. Shows are scheduled for 1 and 4 p.m.

Bill's shows are non-stop magic, featuring a four-second escape. He will cut his assistant in three pieces and his specialty is magic with animals.

Bill graduated from Plymouth Salem High School in 1979 and now attends Eastern Michigan University, where he is majoring in marketing. He began his career in magic 13 years ago, when he was 8.

His parents gave him a magic kit for his birthday. He practiced on relatives, friends, the dog — anyone who would watch. His interest and proficiency grew to the point where he attended a magicians' convention. He is now well down the road to being a professional magician.

He is from Plymouth. His assistants are Clare Osterberg of Canton Township and Lisa Bryl of Plymouth.

IN THE EXCITEMENT of telling about Evelyn Beck coming in first in party bridge games, I forgot to mention that Ernie Tracy and Rene LaCombe tied for first place the week before.

CHRIS DAVIO opened Tuesday night at the Road House on Ann Arbor Road. He will be performing 8:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays until the end of June. He has a single act, plays acoustic guitar and sings both country and contemporary music.

Chris is a 1978 graduate of Plymouth Canton High School. He once worked with the group, Phoenix. This is the first time he has performed professionally in his hometown and he says he is excited about seeing some of his old friends.

PAM BURTON brought home a trophy from the state forensic finals in Lansing. She was awarded sixth place in the dramatic interpretation division. Pam Pavilisack was eighth in radio broadcasting.

EVER WONDER about the occupations or professions of the women who are members of the business and professional women's clubs? The Canton BPW is one of the newest and most active groups in the state. Nineteen new members were installed at the May meeting.

They ranged in age from 19 to 50-plus. Enthusiasm was a common denominator for each. The dinner meeting programs focus on self-development, personal health, financial know-how, dressing for success, team work, motivation and the ever-present need to balance multiple roles with work, home and family.

The new members are: Tricia Ahern, CPA; Eleanor Akerlind, owner of The Bookkeeper; Carol Baker, real estate sales associate; Terry Bennett, special education; Maria Broad, real estate agent and broker; Shirley Cameron, owner of Cross on the Green; Mary Danglebrook, executive secretary for Federal Pipe and Steel; Carol Dugan, secretary; Ginny Eades, owner of the Letter Writer; Bhanu Hajratwala, physical therapist; Donica Keogh; Carol Perrin; Mario Petito, law clerk for a circuit court judge; Terry Ponkey, branch officer, Bank of the Commonwealth; Catherine Provost, corporate employment specialist, Owens Corning Glass; Cynthia Russell, medical transcriptionist; Suzanne Shubick, program director, Omnicom Cablevision; and Emily Wallace, systems analyst.

Arts council celebrates 14th birthday

What is 14 years old, occupies rooms over a drugstore and comes in 325 different shapes and sizes? It's the Plymouth Community Arts Council (PCAC).

This is PCAC Week and displays have been set in store windows throughout Plymouth. Each display depicts one of the many services offered to the community by the arts council. Restaurants have cards on their tables describing PCAC activities.

Council members will meet at noon Friday for the annual spring luncheon. Janet Campbell, president for the 1982-83 season, will turn over the gavel to the new president, Judy Morgan.

The week will culminate with the Artfest in Kellogg Park on Saturday, when many of the works by local students will be on display.

ARTS COUNCIL volunteers contributed more than 28,000 hours last year promoting the arts and introducing children to art, music and theater at a level they could understand and appreciate. Professional theater and amateur programs were sponsored in the elementary schools.

Art ladies appeared monthly at 15 area schools to discuss paintings and sculpture. They left reproductions in the schools to be enjoyed until the next visit. Music and art presentations were made regularly in the high schools.

Teacher assistance grants are made through the arts council and a series of continuing awards are given on all grade levels.

The art rental gallery on the second floor of the Plymouth Library offers original paintings and reproductions at a minimal monthly fee.

Arts and crafts classes are offered for children and adults. Lectures, tours and performances are part of the arts council agenda.

THE FALL Festival arts and crafts show has gained a very favorable reputation among Michigan artists. The two-day fair in Central Middle School attracts thousands of visitors each year.

On alternate years, the PCAC presents a musical revue with a professional director. The stars of the production are the residents of the community, who dance and sing like show business professionals doing a two-night stand. It is a fundraiser for the PCAC and a fun raiser for the participants and audiences as well.

Each year the council presents Joanne Winkelman Hulce scholarships in honor of its founder, Jo Hulce. This year's winners of the prestigious awards are Richard Roman, artist, and Cathy Bomback, cellist. Each will receive a monetary award to further their studies in their fields.

12-year research revells 12 generations

By Sherry Kahan
staff writer

IT TAKES a fat book to absorb all the facts about a family whose members arrived in this country in 1625, just five years after the Pilgrims came ashore at Plymouth Rock. And Elizabeth Conover Kelley of Canton has written a 454-pager in "Conover, Pioneers and Pilgrims."

A social worker for the Livonia school district, Kelley picks up the story of her ancestors when Wolfert and Neeltje Van Couwenhoven left Holland to become two of the first settlers of Nieuw Amsterdam, later to achieve fame as New York City.

It follows the family through a gradual altering of its name to Conover, through 12 generations and through a movement west to New Jersey, Ohio, Illinois and other midwest states.

The book is a one-pound-10-ounce demonstration of the flow of writing, the willingness to pour over documents, and the skill at marshalling facts that has seized the country since the TV program "Roots."

The flyleaf of Bibles are being studied as never before. (Vital family statistics were often written in this mainstay of early American life.) Courthouses and libraries have been searched in unprecedented numbers.

"IN THE MIDWEST it wasn't required that vital statistics be recorded until 1875," said Kelley, giving an example of the kind of history that genealogists must soak up. "Federal census records in the east started in 1790. But early New Jersey records were lost, probably through fire."

"The oldest Bible I found in my family was filled in by people who obviously could not write well. It was hard to decipher what they put down. But a fact I found helped an architect in St. Louis in his effort to get his mother in the Daughters of the American Revolution. The page proved her lineage."

Kelley, who before her move to Canton lived in Plymouth for 18 years, believes there is little snobbery left in the quest for ancestors.

"People did it once to get into the DAR or on the Mayflower list," she said. "But the interest in genealogy broadened after 'Roots' came out and caused a huge upsurge."

"I started before then, 12 years ago, but wasn't interested in getting into the DAR. I wanted to find my family background. For a couple of years I really didn't get very far because the only time I did research was on vacations."

In 1971, she took her notebook and pen to Adams County, Ill. to talk to relatives and drop in on the courthouse. She also visited New Jersey, at which time she became a member of the Van Couwenhoven-Conover Family Association.

The person who set Kelley running down the genealogy paper trail was her father, Guy L. Conover, who died in 1981.

"He always said his family was an early pioneer family," she said. "He knew his grandfather's name, Jonas Conover, and Jonas' brothers, Robert and John. Their father was also John and they settled in Lima Township in Illinois."

JONAS, ROBERT and John were as far back as she was able to go at first in her ancestor digging. For two or three years she struggled to link the father, John, to a certain line.

"One day in a courthouse in Woodbury, N.J., I found a deed which indicated that the John I was following had died without issue, so I knew he couldn't be my ancestor. That summer I found deeds that pushed me back further to another generation. I found the John I was looking for.

The way of the genealogist is filled with failures and successes like this. But Kelley thinks it all adds up to fun.

"The hunt is great," she asserted with a smile. "You get so absorbed in it, you lose track of time. You read old deeds and wills that take you back to that period."

Editor of her college yearbook, Kelley also enjoyed the writing of her book, though not the proofreading of galleys. It can be obtained at a cost of $24.50 by writing to Kelley at Apt. 104, 42272 Addison Drive, Canton 48187. It is also on sale at Plymouth Book World in Forest Mall, the Book Break in New Towne Plaza in Canton, B. Dalton in the Livonia Mall and the Open Book in the Wonderland Shopping Center, Livonia.

Is she exhausted and ready to rest on her laurels?

"Starting next year I'm going to start working on my mother's family."

Betty Kelley says a genealogist's life is full of papers, filing boxes and resource books. But the reward came in the publication of her book on her Dutch ancestors.

Congratulations in order for weekend events

Well, a good time was had by all! Yes sir, that describes Canton's first soccer tournament. If you missed it you should be ashamed, and not just a little sorry. We offered good competitive sport, loaded with excitement and quality players. As Phil La Joy, president of Canton Soccer Club, put it, (and humbly so I might add) "tremendous," "really super," and "a real community effort," to name but a few of his comments on Monday.

Now nothing would please me more than to list all the players, but as you can well imagine, space prohibits this. So I'll do the next best thing and list the trophy winners.

Here goes: Boys Select Under 14, Ann Arbor Tyrants, Livonia Raiders; Boys Select Under 12, Birmingham Blazers, Livonia Arsenal; Girls under 12, Plymouth Stingers, Canton Wildcats. Boys under 12, Van Buren War Eagles, Westland Astros; Girls under 10, Columbus, Ohio Ravens, Canton Raiders; Boys under 10, Windsor United, Canton Raiders; Boys under 16, Windsor United, Grove City, Ohio; Boys under 19, Warren Lancers, Redford Marauders; Girls under 14, Northville Wildcats, Livonia Avengers; Boys under 14, Dearborn Heights Strikers, Canton Cowboys.

Congratulations to all. Please note I did not say winners but trophy winners, because every one of you — trophy or not — is a winner.

Each of you joined in and made something of yourself, you didn't waste your days saying "Oh there's nothing to do." You went out and did it. Congratulations, and keep on "kicking!" to the parents who drove, and drove, and drove to get their children back and forth to practice and games.

From the whole community, thank you to all the coaches and staffs of the Canton Soccer Club and the Canton Recreation Department.

Keep watching for updates on the special soccer clinic for all children in Canton to be July 7, and the "soon to be set" date for pre-registration for next season.

CONGRATULATIONS to St. Thomas A'Becket for a job well done on a terrific festival. And to the big winners of the raffle — $5,000 to Howard Lalone, two round trip tickets to Las Vegas and $500 to Grace Pelot, and $500 to Ed Aton.

Hats off to those who got out there and sold four or more books of tickets, for first prize of a trip for two to Toronto including hotel and train won by Gillespie (no first name on the ticket), second prize of two season tickets to Fisher Theater won by Jay Colligan, and third prize of two tickets to a concert series at Pine Knob won by D. Moore.

Well, congratulations to all, and to St. Thomas A'Becket Festival Committee for another fantastic "Canton Weekend."

SPEAKING of congratulations, how about a big one for Stanley Roman, celebrating his 35th anniversary with Hy-

WE HAVE ANOTHER couple of travelers among us. Shirley and Jack Roberts have returned from almost a week in Dallas, Texas. They went down to attend the 27th UAW Constitutional Convention. Shirley reports she actually went to the convention with Jack and found it very interesting. She did, however, find time to take a tour and shop.

Shirley took the tour of Dallas and South Fork — "not as exciting as the program" says Shirley, and, as you might imagine, she didn't see J.R., (and boy she had a thing or two to tell him!)

The tour guide was originally from Battle Creek. As a matter of fact, many of the people on the tour were from Michigan. She was surprised to learn that the citizens of Dallas were not particularly thrilled with the "Dallas" series in the beginning. And to add to the demise of the image, there are NO oil wells in Dallas — as a matter of act they have never found oil in Dallas.

Shirley and Jack managed to tear themselves away long enough to get each of them a pair of real nice boots. They bought a beautiful cowboy hat for their poor son Joe, whom they left at home just because he was still finishing up his first year at Kalamazoo College.

And for those of you who just like to dine, they ate a couple of times in the "Tower" restaurant just turning around 50 stories up, and overlooking Dallas. To our delight, they report the view is not as pretty as the Detroit skyline at night. They made it to the Kennedy Memorial, not a fun thing to do but too important to miss.

All in all, they had a wonderful spring break. They were delayed at the airport awaiting weather clearance due to the terrible problems they have been experiencing there, but thank heaven they did not get caught in it.

Oh yes, just one other thing, she did meet our Governor Blanchard, but forgot to ask him about paving Warren Road. Can you imagine her forgetting that, maybe the next time. We're counting on you, Shirley!

BEFORE YOU GET involved with the races this weekend, please remember the ice cream social at Miller Elementary on Hanford. Now I know this isn't an ethnic festival like downtown Detroit, but there will be a dunk tank, and the obvious ice cream, and besides, I baked four dozen chocolate chip cookies for this.

COMING SOON, the Children's Leukemia Fund blood drive, June 11, to be exact. So keep watching for more information, and as always, please call me. You know, I love this job. See you next week.

Garden clubs pay floral tribute to Matilda Wilson

Brilliant displays of spring flower decorations and table settings will honor the 100th anniversary of Matilda Dodge Wilson's birthday. The Michigan Division of the Woman's National Farm & Garden Association is planning the exhibition in honor of the woman who was national president of the WNF&GA from 1964 to 1966. The garden association chose "A Floral Tribute to Matilda Wilson" as an opportunity to be part of Oakland County's plans for observing the anniversary.

Meadow Brook Hall, Mrs. Wilson's former home and now historic public mansion, will be the setting for the 62 displays that will be part of the floral tribute tour. The arrangements, created by individual members of the 90 Michigan branches, will be presented throughout the mansion. Each will have an appropriate theme and title determined by its room placement.

MEADOW BROOK Hall will be open to the public for the event. Hours will be 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday and Friday, June 9 and 10. Admission is $4 for adults, $3 for senior citizens, and $2 for children under 13 and WNF&GA members (with identification).

Admission will include a complete tour of the hall at regular tour charges. Michigan Division President Phyllis Slattery of Northville will participate in the floral exhibit. Charlotte Schefler of the Trenton branch is general chairman of the exhibit. Meadow Brook Hall is on the east campus of Oakland University. Entrance is on Adams Road south of Walton Boulevard. For more information, call the Hall, 377-3140.

Students to attend leadership seminar

Pamela Bankowski and Ehab Aryan will represent Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools this weekend at the Hugh O'Brian Youth International Leadership Seminar. The students were selected by the Dearborn Heights Jaycees and the Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs to attend the state seminar.

The local competition was open to all high school sophomores. The criteria for selection consisted of evidence of emerging leadership ability, cooperation with fellow human beings and sensitivity to the needs of others, ability to relate to new pursuits and acquaintances, and the desire to share knowledge and experience with others. Aryan and Bankowski will meet other outstanding sophomores at the Hoyt Conference Center, Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti. At the conference, one boy and one girl will be selected to attend the annual week-long international seminar, sponsored by the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation. All expenses will be paid for the state delegates' trip to the national seminar which will be in Florida in August. Top 10th graders from every state in the nation and 12 other countries will meet prominent leaders in business, government, education and the professions at the August seminar.

Steppingstone names director

Suzanne Witucki has been appointed director at Steppingstone Center for the Potentially Gifted in Plymouth Township. As director, she will assist Klyo Morse, administrator and founder of the school, in areas of curriculum and development.

Witucki holds a bachelor's degree from Georgian Court College in New Jersey and a master's degree from the University of Michigan. She has lived in the Plymouth community for 11 years where she has planned and implemented numerous programs for the Plymouth-Canton Association for the Academically Gifted. She has researched and taught units as a volunteer in the school district's TAG (talented and gifted) program and in the Plymouth Community Arts Council picture/sculpture lady program.

WITUCKI has worked as a volunteer probation officer for the 35th District Court and counseled prisoners at the Detroit House of Correction. She is a member of the Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women.

Steppingstone will have an open house for parents, students and friends at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 15. It is open to the public.

The elementary school was founded two years ago to meet the needs of gifted students.

The program depends on an individualized approach, allowing the student the freedom to learn at his/her own rate. The emphasis is on enrichment rather than acceleration. The curriculum includes the study of the French language and culture, private lessons in piano and violin, weekly dance lessons and weekly ice skating lessons. Suzanne Witucki

White-Drow

William G. White and Rose M. Drow exchanged marriage vows May 28 in St. Francis Church, Traverse City. The bride is the daughter of Wallace and Harriet Drow of Lake Leelanau, and the bridegroom's parents are Albert and Bernice White of Plymouth. The Rev. John O. Ladd officiated.

The bride was attended by Mary Drow as maid of honor, and bridesmaids Shirley Miller, Barb Drow, Tina Drow, Gail Frandsen and Julie Risky. Stacy White was flower girl. Joseph White was best man and groomsmen were Dan Drow, Steve Haggard, Dave Leach, Dan Weiser and Kris Konyha. Basil Bardenhagen was ring bearer.

The bride is a graduate of St. Mary's High School and is employed as a hair stylist for Trimmer's in Traverse City.

Her husband graduated from Plymouth Salem High School 1974 and from Northwestern Michigan College in 1979. He is a pilot for Simmons Air Lines.

The couple honeymooned in Mexico after the wedding reception in the Lake Leelanau VFW Post Hall. They will live in Cedar, Mich.

Zauha-Gould

Doris Gurchinoff of Plymouth announces the marriage of her daughter, Karen Louis Gould, to Peter Larry Zauha of Plymouth. The wedding took place April 29. A reception dinner at Mountain Jacks in Farmington followed the ceremony.

Animals for Artfest

Jeff Vos displays a stack of stuffed animals that will be in Saturday's Artfest in Kellogg Park. The animals were made by students for the annual show and sale. Jeff made the shark in his left hand.

New Morning offers pre-school computers

New Morning has expanded its summer program offerings to include eighth-grade students. The private school on Haggerty Road in Plymouth Township will limit class sizes.

Students in grades 1-8 can improve and maintain academic skills in reading, writing, math and study skills. An individual assessment and program tailored to each child's need will be developed by the experienced, certified teacher, assisted by a teacher's aide.

Elaine Yagiela, director of New Morning, said two three-week sessions will be offered for two hours each morning July 11-29, and Aug. 1-19. Class size will be limited to 15 students. The fee is $90 for three weeks or $150 for six weeks.

MARILYN ROMACK, preschool teacher, will teach two computer classes for young children.

"Preschool Computers" for 3-to-6-year-olds will meet Tuesday and Thursday mornings June 21 through July 7. "Early Elementary Computers," for 5-to-8-year-olds, will meet later on the same mornings. Children will have ample time on the computers, stressing computer familiarity, eye-hand coordination, appropriate academic skills and beginning programming. Classes are limited to 12 students and fees are $36 and $40.

Arts and crafts for pre-schoolers will be offered Monday and Wednesday mornings July 11-27.

For registration materials and more information call New Morning School, 420-3331.

No parking Save places for handicapped

A handicapped parking place is not a special privilege for a disabled persons, says the national commander of Disabled American Veterans. "It is not even a convenience," he adds. "It is a necessity."

Edward Galian points out that DAV is not asking for sympathy. It is asking for understanding about things like handicapped parking zones marked with the international handicapped access symbol. Others should not park there.

He explains that spots close to stores are what handicapped people need. "It may be a pain in the neck for an able-bodied person to walk a much longer distance with a loaded shopping bag in each hand," he notes.

"But think of someone carrying a heavy load over that same distance on artificial legs. It can cause serious pain, perhaps even bleeding. And the person wearing prosthetic legs is more susceptible to falling than an able-bodied person."

The disabled also need ramped curbs near their parking place, and space between their car and other cars. It's hard to pull a wheelchair out of the car and set up before leaving your car. You need room, he explains.

Galian notes that handicapped persons rely heavily on their cars because otherwise they would be prisoners in their homes. They can't walk very far. "Further, nearly all bus and subway systems, regardless of the law, are not set up to accommodate people who can't walk up steps."

He stresses the fact that "handicapped parking places are for handicapped people."

"Please, don't put yourself in their place," he says.

Free conservation for MichCon users

Ten people will be eligible to receive conservation measures recommended by a Home Energy Analysis (up to $2,000) free of charge.

Customers of Michigan Consolidated Gas are receiving entry cards with their April bills that can make them eligible to receive major energy-conservation improvements at no cost.

From all customers who qualify, 50 entrants will be selected at random. There is no charge to enter or to be eligible for selection.

"All MichCon customers who send in Conservation Celebration cards between April 9 and June 9 are eligible," said Alfred R. Glancy III of MichCon. "But anyone who gets a home energy analysis is a winner," Glancy said.

"Households receiving a home energy analysis do twice as much to save energy and conserve roughly twice as much as those without audits."

Ten people's awards could include insulation, storm windows, or even a furnace, depending on the specific recommendations from the home energy analysis. Twenty others will receive up to $250 worth of conservation improvements. An additional 20 will receive water-heater insulation blankets.

MichCon employees are not eligible.

Twenty-five winners will be randomly selected in May, and 25 additional winners will be chosen in June.

MichCon's Home Energy Analysis Program has inspected more than 80,000 Michigan houses since June 1981. For a $10 fee (which is waived in low-income households), a trained analyst inspects the energy efficiency of a house — checking insulation and furnace operation, for example — and recommends energy-saving improvements.

More information and application cards are included in April's gas bills.

Legislative Drive-in

Three members of the Canton Business and Professional Women's Club went to Lansing for the Legislative Drive-in, sponsored by the State BPW. Teresa Solak (left), assistant vice president and branch manager of Bank of the Commonwealth; Bonnie Mallory-Liscombe, public health nurse for the Detroit Visiting Nurse Association; and Deborah O'Connor, director of the Canton Public Library, met with State Rep. Gerald Law. They had lunch with Sen. Robert Geake.

SAWS see to it that kids are fed

Plymouth Seventh-day Adventists have pledged to support 10 children in Central America for the rest of the year. The commitment was made at a worship service and was in conjunction with the Adventists' annual disaster-famine relief offering.

Last year's gifts made possible a mother-and-child health-care program of food, clothing and medicine distribution as well as nutrition instruction on every needy continent.

Food supplements provided to 300,000 daily in Chile, Bolivia, Peru, Haiti and Rwanda during 1982 were valued at $5 million. Nearly $1 million was spent in Haiti alone.

"OUR NATIONWIDE church gifts are earmarked for doubling that number of people fed," said Irene Peterson, director of the local Adventist Communicity Services Center. Plans are being finalized to start the child feeding programs in Chad, the Sudan, Madagascar and Tanzania.

Last year's gifts also provide equipment, medicines and mobile clinics with assistance valued at $1.6 million. "Distribution is made through SAWS, our Seventh-day Adventist World Service," Peterson said.

"In some countries, U. S. aid has asked that SAWS do the distributing for the help because 98 cents of every dollar goes to the project," said Pastor Royce Snyman, pastor of the local congregation.

"Thinking it might help us to be even more liberal, we took on this specified project of the kids in Central America," Snyman said. "We really have so much for our children, we just wanted to share with those who have not.

Women for Jesus hosts Baptist minister

Dr. James Reid and his wife Dr. Diana Reid will speak at a 7:30 p.m. meeting of Women for Jesus Monday, June 6, in Roma's of Garden City on Cherry Hill between Venoy and Merriman. The Reid family worked in New Zealand as bring Pentecostal missionaries. Dr. James Reid pastored Baptist churches for 50 years, headed the International leprosy mission and worked with drug addicts in the New Life Center.

Rev. Seltz is honored on 25th anniversary

Holy Trinity Lutheran Church of Livonia plans a festive service of Holy Communion at 11 a.m. Sunday to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the ordination of its pastor, the Rev. Robert C. Seltz.

Seltz will preside at the communion. The guest speaker will be Dr. Bertwin Frey, past president of the English District-Lutheran Church Missouri Synod and former associate of Seltz.

The adult voice and handbell choirs will perform several musical selections under the direction of Ernest Brandon, music director. Barbara Crute, church organist, will accompany the service. Participating also will be Donna Borgert, Kim Borgert and Beverly Schellhase on the piano, cello and flute.

PRIOR TO HIS installation at Holy Trinity, Seltz served as associate pastor of Messiah Lutheran Church, Fairview Park, Ohio. Before that, he helped begin a new congregation in Ann Arbor, St. Luke Lutheran Church.

He and his wife, Janet, have four children, Randi, 24; Mike, 22; Ted, 20; and Kim, 16; and a foster daughter, Karen Habel, 24.

Seltz's special interest is in the mission of the church and the community at large. From 1974-76, he served on the Mission Board of the English District, LCMS. While in the Cleveland area, he helped originate the Lutheran Council of Greater Cleveland, and served on the board of the Lutheran Metropolitan Ministry Association, where he worked especially with the Probation Friend Program and the Desegregation Task Force.

Since coming to Livonia, he has served as president of the Livonia Ministerial Association. He is the current president of the Greater Detroit Area Pastoral Conference of the English Synod. In addition, he has represented the church conference on numerous occasions.

The schedule for the day of thanksgiving will include an anniversary lecture from 9:45-10:45 a.m. and an anniversary banquet at 1 p.m.

Being hospitable

The Pope John 23rd Hospitality House was the recipient of a $500 donation from the Redford Suburban League. The Hospitality House, at Alexandrine and Second avenues, Detroit, provides free housing for out-patients and families of patients being treated at the Detroit Medical Center. An open house for the public at the facility will be held from 4-7 p.m. Friday. Shown are the Rev. Ron Koehler (left) of the Hospitality House staff and RSL members Enid Dobbett and Alice Glueck.

Nativity welcomes its new minister

The Rev. Michael Cafman, who became pastor of Nativity United Church of Christ in Livonia May 15, is "happy to be back in this area and excited to be a pastor again."

In his previous position he was interim pastor for three years at First Congregational Church in Sarasota, Fla.

Cafman was born in Ypsilanti and lived in Ann Arbor until he was 8 and his family moved to Garden City, N.Y. He earned a bachelor's degree at Davis and Elkin College in Elkin, W. Va. He became a master of divinity at Andover Newton Seminary in Newton Center, Mass., and a doctor of ministry at Interdenominational Seminary in Atlanta, Ga.

He continued his travels around the country with his first church, 1969-72, the First Congregational Church of Hooksett, N.H. His next assignment was Bushnell Congregational Church in Detroit, followed by First Congregational Church in Fargo, N.D.

His sermon at the 10 a.m. service Sunday at Nativity is titled "The God We Know — the Forgiving God."

PTL in Company at Memorial

PTL in Company, a contemporary gospel sing-out group from the Academy Christian Church in Colorado Springs, Colo., will perform at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 14, at Memorial Church of Christ, 35475 Five Mile, Livonia.

Organized in 1976, the 29-voice group of high school and college students is using "High Country Discover" as its theme, featuring the music of several musicals such as "Believer," "Breakfast in Galilee," "And There Was Light," and "Backpacker's Suite."

Color lighting and choreography strengthens the visual images of the lyrics. The use of slides on a rear screen projector shows scenes of the Rocky Mountains during several of the numbers.

chairman of the Candidates Care Committee of the EPC and pastor of Trinity Presbyterian Church, Plymouth; the Rev. Harold K., Polk, pastor of Calvary Presbyterian Church, Flint; the Rev. W. Wallace Hostetter, minister of evangelism at Ward; and John Baird, Ward church elder.

Ward pastor Dr. Bartlett Hess will deliver the message. A reception honoring Woodburn will follow the service.

No quick fixes for our human vulnerability

There is an ancient story about a godlike hero, Achilles, who could not be killed or wounded except on the heel of his foot. The secret finally is discovered, and he is killed by a weapon aimed at his heel.

The story points out the fact that we human beings are all vulnerable. It also suggests our human desire to evade this vulnerability. No age beside our own has tried harder to avoid vulnerability to disease, war, hunger and natural disaster.

Our leaders talked about a window of vulnerability to Russian weapons. The search for a way to have the MX missile less vulnerable has led nowhere. As time passes the goal of making us less vulnerable slips further and further out of sight.

For all of our armed forces, electronic weapons, medical advances, psychology and clergy, we are even more acutely aware of our vulnerability than ever before.

moral perspectives
Rev. David Strong

A RECENT SURVEY indicates that the issue people have the greatest difficulty dealing with is their own vulnerability. Henri Howden, in his book "The Wounded Healer," invites us to affirm our vulnerability. He believes that it is a means of discovering the deeper meanings in life.

Recognizing our human condition can be an invitation to greater understanding and healing. It is in the midst of our vulnerability that we can learn of compassion, caring and forgiveness.

Through our wounds we explore the depths of our own loneliness. In our vulnerability we search for the deeper meanings of love and push our spirit to consider the very borders of life itself and the mystery of the beyond.

A phrase keeps running through my mind — there is nothing more holy than being human. The scriptural definition of being human is that we are limited creatures in relation to God. The Garden of Eden story is one which expresses our desire to defy our limitations.

THE TRUE HEALER in our society will oppose the idea that we can or should escape our vulnerability. As human beings, we should not suppose that there should be no fear, loneliness, doubt, confusion or pain in life. To suggest otherwise is to encourage persons to find quick fixes to what is really our basic human condition.

The true healer will teach others that acknowledging and exploring our vulnerability can be a pathway to peace, justice and community. It is in our common condition that we find the basis for community and cause for hope.

The Psalms presents all our human condition, including our vulnerability, as it may be expressed before God. Many suggest that praying the Psalms as though they were our lives helps to deepen our life and hope. This can even lead to discovering another truth, that ultimately, our own wounds are a source of our healing.

LWV delegates will attend state confab

Six local residents will be among some 225 delegates attending the 1983 state convention of the League of Women Voters (LWV) of Michigan.

The six will represent the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Novi at the state convention when it meets tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday at the Kellogg Center, Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Billie Whitely, Janet Correll, Gloria Hammonds, Deanna Huff, Claudia Day and Nancy White will participate in the LWV's decision making on program, budget and bylaws. They will also help elect officers for the state LWV for the next two years.

White will serve as state board representative. Beverly McAninch of Plymouth is president of the state organization and, in that capacity, will preside over the three-day convention.

Agnes Mary Mansour, director of the Michigan Department of Social Services, will speak at the noon meeting on Saturday.

Julia Holmes, action chair of the LWV of the U.S., will deliver the keynote address at the banquet tomorrow night.

League members also will participate in workshops and informal meetings dealing with program and membership-related issues. Of special interest will be workshops on the League's position on natural resources, the handling of toxic wastes and its current study of national security and arms control.

The LWV, founded in 1920, is a non-partisan, non-profit volunteer organization whose main purposes are to encourage political responsibility through active and informed participation of citizens in their government, and to act on selected issues studied by the membership.

The League never supports or opposes any candidate or political party. The LWV of Michigan represents 150 Michigan communities. Membership is open to all citizens 18 and older.

'Prix' challenge: power vs. finesse

POWER. Not the ultimate goal in auto racing. But it can be a pivotal ally. The goal is to win. More power results in more speed. More speed means a faster car. And the fastest car will quite often streak to victory. Quite often. But not always. Sunday's Detroit Grand Prix will allow a good look at power vs. finesse. It may be the last look Detroit gets with these factors as such opposites.

TURBO AND FORD Cosworth — these are the two powerplants used to propel the sleek Formula One autos. The Cosworth engine has been in use for 15 years, and has dominated the Grand Prix racing scene much of that time.

Turbos, however, have emerged as the engine of the future. Because, in simplest terms, a turbo engine can provide more power.

A lot more. The V-8 Cosworth engine now in use cranks out, at tops, 540 horsepower (hp). A four-cylinder turbo engine is capable of 700 hp.

That's an incredible power advantage. But, even though now a majority of the Formula One teams race turbos, the powerful engine has not dominated.

Why? There are many reasons. Turbos have been around since the '40s, but Renault is credited with its recent development. Still, the Renault team has been working and refining the engine for eight years and reliability problems remain. And a car can't win if it doesn't finish.

Reliability may be the No. 1 reason Keke Rosberg won the World Driver's title last year in a Cosworth-powered Williams. Rosberg didn't win a race, but placed high enough in his races to outpoint his turbo competitors.

RELIABILITY ISN'T as big a problem for turbos as it was, according to Wylie McCoy, general manager of Livonia's McLaren Motors. McLaren and Williams are the two major Formula One racing teams using Cosworth engines.

"Ferrari is the most reliable (of the turbos)," McCoy said. "Renault and BMW have a certain amount of trouble, and the others have degrees of problems."

"But, yeah, they are getting better." Still, the Cosworth cars hang tough, especially on tight, city-street courses — like Detroit's. And McCoy thinks its because of tires.

"People look at the turbo vs. Cosworth, but they don't realize there's a tire war going on between Michelin and Goodyear," he said. "Rosberg's win at Monaco (May 15) was entirely because of his choice of tires."

What Rosberg did was use Goodyear tires suited for a dry track, even though the circuit through the streets of Monte Carlo was wet. The track dried after a few laps and Rosberg had a big advantage over the turbo cars.

THE COSWORTH powerplant is lighter than the turbo package and more fuel efficient. That means the turbos must carry a heavier load. And a heavier car wears out tires more rapidly.

So does a course with an abundance of tight turns. So far this season, there have been two Grand Prix races on city streets: at Monaco, where Rosberg reigned, and at Long Beach, in which McLaren got its only victory of the season with John Watson finishing first.

Turbos have won the other Grand Prix events, with Renault's Alain Prost winning the Belgian and French races, Nelson Piquet capturing the Brazilian in his Brabham-BMW and Patrick Tambay driving his Ferrari to triumph at San Marino. All three courses are more wide open, with longer straightaways suited to the faster turbos.

What can be expected in Detroit this weekend? "There are so many variables, it's hard to predict," said McCoy.

INDEED IT IS. One of those variables is the course itself, which has been altered. Last year, Watson won in his McLaren at an average speed of 78.2 miles per hour. This year's course is promised to be much faster, with some of the tighter turns absent. And faster favors turbos.

Weather, too, could have an affect. And don't forget the tire war McCoy mentioned.

Certainly, fans will see two different races over the weekend: the qualifying laps and the race itself. The swift turbos should dominate the qualifying. They have at every race this season.

But if there is a Cosworth within the first three rows, beware. The tight turns could take a toll on the turbos on race day.

HOW MUCH turbo-powered engines will dominate Formula One racing remains a question because of rules changes for next year. The minimum weight is being lowered and pit stops for fuel will be disallowed.

That means the less efficient turbos will have to cut their horsepower to save fuel and weight. Still, McCoy figures that soon all Formula One teams will race turbos. McLaren already has a Porsche-turbo powerplant on order. It could arrive by year's end.

"They'll probably be more development on the turbos," McCoy said. "They'll have to cut back to a lower horsepower level."

"(The changes) will take away some of the turbos' advantage. It'll even things out."

But that's next year. At this year's Detroit Grand Prix, it'll be power vs. finesse.

New names make league a tossup

By Brad Emons, staff writer

The Livonia Collegiate Baseball League is alive and well with another summer of baseball beginning Friday.

The league, for the area's top players 19 years and under, has been known for years as the Livonia Adray League. Livonia Parks and Recreation commissioners, however, changed the name of the circuit this winter, removing Mike Adray, the area appliance dealer's name, from the six-team league.

But Adray's name will still be prevalent. Livonia Adray, the regular season and playoff champion, appears to have another strong team under manager Ron Hellier despite the fact that only two veterans return.

baseball

Hellier's team reached the final four in last year's prestigious All-American Amateur Baseball Association tournament in Johnstown, Pa.

"This is the youngest team we've ever had," said Hellier. "I don't know what type of league it will be."

LIVONIA ADRAY returns shortstop Pete Rose and fireballing reliever John Recker from Oakland Community College.

Rose, a Livonia Stevenson senior, will be joined by prep teammates Rick Rozman, Brian Porter and Scott Miller.

Greg Everson, who plays hockey at U-M-Dearborn, and Jim Lasota represent Bentley High.

Hellier also has Catholic Central graduates Dave Rodriguez, a pitcher; John Judge, catcher; Mike MacDonald, pitcher; and Randy Baringer, second base.

Ed Groves, recently released as a 17-year-old by the New York Mets, should also help the pitching staff.

Plymouth Canton senior Don Dombey will play either third or short, while Jim St. John, a senior from Millford Lakeland bound for Eastern Michigan, will handle the catching.

WESTLAND-REDFORD ADRAY, which tied for second place last season, is expected to make a serious run for the title.

Manager Roger George, head coach at Henry Ford Community College, brings with him his entire infield which includes the team's leading hitter, second baseman Tony DeMare.

Canton crowns tourney champs

By Ken McDonald, special writer

It was not a carefree, relaxed Memorial Day weekend for 98 youth soccer teams in Canton Township.

In fact, it was a fierce, competitive holiday as squads from Canada, Ohio and Michigan battled for top honors in the first-ever Canton Soccer Invitational.

The tournament, marking the dedication of Canton's Phillip S. Dingelday soccer fields, concluded Sunday as championship matches were decided in 10 divisions.

In Girls Under 12 action, the Plymouth Stingers gave the Canton Wildcats a welt they'll never forget, administering a 9-0 beating in the championship match. Plymouth advanced to the final with a 1-0 victory over the Columbus, Ohio Cheetahs, while the Wildcats nipped rival Canton Goldiggers, 3-2.

Two Canadian teams proved the Great White North is not only a hockey powerhouse, but a force to be reckoned with in the world of soccer.

IN BOYS UNDER 16 play, Windsor United dumped Grove City, Ohio 8-0 for the championship. Windsor advanced by tripping the Canton Red Devils, 5-1, while Grove City squeaked by the Livonia Spartans, 2-1, in the other semifinal.

Another Windsor United team proved superior in the Boys Under 10 flight with a 9-0 triumph in the final over the Canton Raiders. The Raiders made the final with a 5-0 shellacking of the Canton Shamrocks, while United had little difficulty with the Canton Red Devils, 5-1.

The Columbus Ravens gained a title for Ohio in the Girls Under 10 division with a pair of shutout wins.

The Ravens blanked the Canton Raiders, 4-0, for the title, and the Van Buren Tigers, 3-0, in the semifinals. The Raiders, meanwhile, booted the

soccer

Canton Chargers in the other semifinal, 3-1.

VAN BUREN, however, gained revenge in the Boys Under 12 flight by zapping the Westland Astros, 2-1, in the title bout.

Westland advanced with a hard-fought 4-3 thriller over Windsor United, while the War Eagles took care of the Canton Golden Streakers in the other semifinal, 3-0.

The Canton Cowboys had a rough going in the Boys Under 14 draw, dropping the title match to the Dearborn Heights Strikers, 4-0. The Cowboys corralled Redford United in the semifinal, 3-1, while Dearborn Heights clipped the Downriver Demons, 3-2.

Clawing their way to the Girls Under 14 crown were the Northville Wildcats, who nipped the Livonia Avengers for the championship, 2-1. The Wildcats qualified for the finals, tripping Columbus, 2-1, and Livonia advanced by knocking off another Livonia team, the Choice, 4-2.

IN THE OLDEST division of play, the Warren Lancers, a Boys Under 19 squad, got by the Redford Marauders, 2-1. The Lancers received a bye in the semifinals when Petoskey failed to show, while Redford delivered the Dearborn Heights Rangers a crushing 5-2 defeat.

Two select club age groups, the Boys Under 12 and Under 14 divisions, were won by the Birmingham Blazers, 8-1 victor over Livonia Arsenal, and by the Ann Arbor Tyrants, who defeated the Livonia Raiders.

Area drivers test Grand Prix course

By C.J. Rieak, staff writer

On Sunday afternoon, the eyes of motorsport enthusiasts from around the globe will be focused on a 2.56-mile circuit of Detroit's city streets.

Those eyes will be riveted on the group of drivers behind the wheels of the Formula One race cars. Grand Prix racing is the cream of international auto sports, and Detroit is the sole remaining site of a Grand Prix race in the United States.

Four local drivers will be on the Detroit track this weekend — not competing with the world's best. These drivers will be battling in the four supporting races accompanying the prestigious Grand Prix.

These races — the Kroger 100 Formula Mondial, Renault Le Car Cup, Champion Spark Plug Challenge and Kelly American Challenge — are not the reason 100,000 people will jam the grandstands around the Detroit circuit this weekend. These drivers know that.

But to them, the competition is just as intense in their race. Winning is a single unifying reason for both support race drivers and Formula One competitors to climb behind the wheel.

DAVE MROZ of Livonia has no illusions of grandeur when it comes to car racing.

"I've always raced closed canopy cars, so I never thought about racing them," Mroz said when asked about dreams of driving a Formula One car.

Mroz will compete in the Kelly American Challenge, the last race Sunday afternoon. His Ford Mustang will be making its initial appearance.

"This is the first time the car will be out this year," Mroz said. "Last year was the first time we had a car in this series. In five races, we finished in the top 10 three times.

Dave Mroz challenges Prix course

"That gave us an idea of what it takes in these races, and we took that and built a whole new car."

THE RESULT of his efforts will be on the track Sunday. Mroz isn't expecting too much — "basically, it'll be our test session" — but figures that if he can finish in the top 10, he'll have a car capable of top five performance once adjustments are made.

Mroz, who works at Ford's Engine Design Engineering and Research Center in Dearborn, has been racing for 12 years. He started with the SCCA (Sports Car Club of America) Amateur National circuit and worked up to the IMSA (International Motor Sports Association) GT series.

Basketball all-stars prepare for Kalamazoo games

They've got some teams coming Saturday, June 18, to Kalamazoo's Red Fieldhouse on the campus of Western Michigan University.

The array of talent assembled for the fourth annual Basketball Coaches Association of Michigan (BCAM) All-Star Festival may have the town humming.

For the first time, the event is sponsored by the Kalamazoo Consortium of Higher Education in cooperation with the American Cancer Society. Member institutions in the consortium are Kalamazoo College, Kalamazoo Valley Community College, Nazareth College and WMU.

The girls' All-Star game will lead off the action at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, June 18, in an East-West team format with Michigan's Miss Basketball, Sue Tucker, as the feature attraction. Tucker is on the West squad which also includes Plymouth Salem's Jacqueline Merrifield. The East team features Kim Archer of Livonia Bentley, Carolyn Burt of Farmington Mercy, Mona Clor of Redford St. Agatha and Lavetta Willis of Livonia Ladywood.

The East squad coach is Larry Baker of Class A champ Mercy.

FOLLOWING AT 5:30 p.m. is the boys' Class B-C-D match-up where Detroit Country Day's Damon Jones and Avondale's Hank Woodmore are members of the East squad.

The final game starts at 7:30 p.m.

with the Class A game.

Antoine Joubert of Detroit Southwestern heads the East squad which also includes Mike Malekski of Redford Catholic Central, Mike McCaskill of Southfield and Lewis Scott of Redford Bishop Borgess.

The West team includes Darryl Johnson of Class A champ Flint Central and the state's leading scorer, 6-foot-5 Dan Marjerle of Traverse City.

Admission to all three games is $3 per person. Tickets can be purchased through the WMU Athletic Ticket Office at (816) 383-1780, or members of the BCAM statewide.

Two other Saturday events are also open to the public.

First, the Fellowship of Christian

Athletes (FCA) will hold a breakfast at 8 a.m. Saturday. The cost is $3 and reservations can be made by calling Dick Shills at (616) 373-5395. Singer-songwriter Don Wharton and Michigan center Tim McCormick will head the program.

Secondly, the annual BCAM Awards Banquet is scheduled for noon Saturday at the Kalamazoo Center-Hilton. The organization will recognize 1983's "Honorary Mr. Basketball" for contributions to the game.

Compuware finishes 4th

A string of three straight wins got Compuware started off on the right track last weekend at the BPS Modified Fastpitch Softball Tournament in Atlanta, Ga.

The team, consisting of Plymouth and Livonia residents, eventually finished fourth in the 41-squad tourney.

The battery provided the power for Compuware. Pitcher Al White and catcher Dave Brubaker were both named to the All-Tournament team.

Compuware, which competes in the Plymouth Division A Modified league, played six games, winning four. The first three triumphs came in the first three games.

WHITE'S PITCHING and the hitting of Ron Ray, who slammed a two-run triple and a solo home run, and Bill Lawson and Rick Dreher, who were both two-for-two, ignited Compuware to a 10-0 romp over Knight's Park of Atlanta in its first game.

The second game was tighter, with Compuware surviving by a 9-8 count over Miracle Water of Tennessee. Ray contributed a two-run double and a solo homer and Curt Richards and Bob Duman each had two hits.

Odyssey of North Carolina was Compuware's next victim by a 13-8 score. Brubaker had three hits, while Bob Ridley and Jim Bedson had two apiece.

The win streak ended against Carter's of Louisiana, which bested Compuware, 8-6. Keith McManaway banged out three safeties and Charley Johnson had two.

Compuware did make it to the consolation finals by beating Walker's of Atlanta, 5-3, behind McManaway's three hits, two RBI and two runs scored.

Don Swan of Atlanta toppled Compuware in the battle for third place, 13-8. McManaway had three hits and Dreber two.

McManaway went 11-for-17 in the tournament (.649 batting average) and Brubaker was eight-for-16 (.500).

George's biggest find was ex-Livonia Franklin standout Mike Williamson, an outfielder on scholarship at EMU. Williamson was unable to play this spring at EMU because of a shoulder injury.

"His shoulder is OK now and he should really help us," the Westland-Redford coach said.

George has also recruited Franklin seniors Chris Lewis and Steve Willbanks. Thurston grads Gary Beggs, a pitcher, and Dan Phillips, a catcher, also return. Jeff Valdez, a senior at Thurston, shores up the infield.

George also returns pitcher John Paz, formerly of John Glenn. Pitcher Ken Vermuelen (Plymouth Salem) and outfielder Kevin Schwanz (Redford Union) will also see action.

"I don't know much about the other teams," George said, "but I think we'll be competitive."

MICHIGAN NATIONAL BANK manager Rey Fracassi is hopeful for an improved season despite a cast of new faces.

"I feel we'll be stronger because we have more speed and more depth," said the veteran coach. "Livonia Adray has to be the favorite, but it could be a three- or four-team race."

Returning veterans include pitcher Pat Martin, shortstop Dean Fracassi, who hit .469 this spring at OCC; second baseman John Bolen and catcher Dale Vaquera.

Stevenson grads Ed Duffy and Jim Boucher also have experience in the outfield.

Prix course beckons

For him, a victory Sunday would be completing the race in the top 10 with no serious mechanical problems.

GARY WITZENBURG of Troy is also a realist. Witzgenburg will be driving his 710 Datsun in the Champion Spark Plug Challenge Sunday, and he will also drive in the Renault Le Car Cup race.

Witzenburg, 39, writes for Popular Mechanics. He also has a guest column that appears every other Wednesday in the Detroit News.

"I'd have to say our chances are remote that we'll win but are good to finish in the top 10," Witzgenburg said. "We just revised this car 2½ weeks ago at Charlotte, North Carolina. It was competitive when we bought it 6½ years ago. But it's been idle for four years, since the middle of '79."

Witzenburg said that the Champion Spark Plug series "this year is dominated by front-wheel drive cars." His Datsun has better horsepower but can't handle as well as its front-wheel drive competitors.

THE OUTCOME of the Champion Spark Plug Challenge race, Witzgenburg said, could "depend a lot on where you qualify. It's hard to pass on this course and there's no room for error. If a car with greater horsepower gets out in Filling in the other spots are Ron Peterson, first base; John Conners (CC), second base; Kevin Kroll, right field; Tom Brock, center field; and Ron Presley, left field.

Cliff Simpson, a freshman from South Carolina, should help Martin and Ron Fellows (Detroit Redford) in the pitching department.

WALTER'S APPLIANCE coach Mike Keller and assistant Richard DeVries have tapped the downriver area for recruits.

Keller is especially excited about pitcher Kevin Schmidt of Allen Park, who played on a Wyandotte Connie Mack team that won last year's state title.

"I look to be in it this year," he said. "I just feel more confident about the ballplayers I have."

Garden City ace and slugger Joe Taraskavage returns along with catcher Joe Winnicki, outfielder Jim Stoitsiadis and infielder Mike Kisiel.

Keller is also banking on pitcher Rich Wood (Franklin) once the state tourney concludes. Churchill grads John Bebb and Joe Lack provide depth.

WENDY'S of Ann Arbor was the youngest team in the league last season under coach Brian Lang.

And they may be ready to challenge with the addition of ex-Plymouth Canton pitchers Dan Smith and Jamie Chilcott, who took the Chiefs to the Class A final a year ago. Plymouth Salem infielder Mickey Madsen was also reportedly signed by Lang.

front, in could hold off its better handling competitors."

Witzenburg has been involved in many facets of auto racing, but in his early days of competition he dreamt of driving a Formula One car.

"Absolutely," he said. "I had fantasies about it. I know there's no way for me to get involved now at my age and financial situation."

Witzenburg will also race in the Renault Le Car Cup as one of a handful of celebrity drivers. "I don't have any front-wheel drive experience, so I don't know how I'll do," he said.

However he fares in either of race, Witzgenburg said it will be a "helluva thrill" just to be racing on the same track as the Formula cars.

THE TWO REMAINING local drivers are Dennis Staley of Birmingham and John Vickerman of Garden City.

Staley will compete in the Renault Le Car Cup. A relative newcomer to this level of auto racing (his first race was last September), Staley has been busy and on the road gaining experience. Last weekend he was in Limerock, Conn. Before that, he traveled to Charlotte, N.C., and Atlanta, Ga.

Vickerman will be competing against Witzgenburg in the Champion Spark Plug Challenge. His car is a Chevette and his pit crew is truly a family affair. It includes his wife, Rose, and his brother-in-law, Ron.

Rzepecki bids farewell with a win

In another week Aleta Rzepecki, the Detroit area's top woman bowler, is going to bid good-bye to the area and will become the wife of David Sill and open a pro shop in Orlando, Fla.

As a parting gesture to the community she proved the top Detroit area representative in the Women's International Bowling Congress, by winning the Queen's tournament, placing second in the all-events and leading the singles. No other Detroit bowler ever has equalled that showing. But the area no longer can claim her.

In leaving she is following the path of several other top notch bowlers who earned their honors while living here and then moved away.

The most celebrated is Joe Norris, considered the best male bowler the city ever had. He captained the famous Stroh team and then retired to San Diego. Following him was Marge Merrick, four time

Detroit woman bowler of the year, who now resides in Ohio. Dave Soutar, rated one of the tops in his time, now is a resident of Kansas City and Buzz Fazio, another Stroh captain, lives in Battle Creek. Others who followed included Bob Kwolek, Bill Bunetta and Tony Rindman.

From all indications, the annual bowling charities event now being bowled in all sections of the state, will reach a new high this year with more than $100,000.

The rugby player lateraled the ball an instant before the jarring tackle, which could be heard and almost felt across the field. The player slumped to the ground and lay motionless while the play continued down field. After 20 seconds, the player began to writhe, rolled over, slammed the ground in pain and frustration, tried to rise, fell. Action was halted and the player was carried off the field to an ovation from both teams.

Seconds later play resumed with fierce hitting, crisp lateraling, and hell-bent-for-the-goal-line sweeps. The hitting was particularly strong, with bodies colliding without let up as the non-stop action swirled back and forth across the field at Levy Middle School in Southfield.

Though the play was polished and the contact savage, none of the men were hurt. That's because the men were there as spectators or officials. All the tackling and impressive play was carried on by what in times past has been referred to as the weaker sex.

The players may be women, but this isn't a kitchen, bub. It's not a laundry room, either. It's the field of battle, and battle it out they do. If you don't play heads up, somebody is liable to hand you yours on a platter.

dumb jock lives on, let it be known she is an engineer in Novi.

She plays for the Detroit Women's Rugby Club, which plays its home games at Levy in its spring and fall seasons. Recently, the Detroit club hosted the Michigan State club, for whom Redner toiled before graduating in 1980, and the Lakeshore club from Chicago. Despite the ferocity of the game and the way the women play it, the three teams went at it in consecutive, round-robin fashion. MSU and Detroit tied, 0-0, in the opener; Lakeshore zipped past Detroit in game two, 12-0; and MSU nipped Lakeshore, 12-6, in game No. 3.

"I got into it at State," explained Redner after the first game. "I ran into a friend at the bookstore who told me the rugby team was having tryouts. I didn't know it then, but everyone who tries out makes it. I showed up and was hooked.

"I had a van and was adopted as team driver. I took the whole team everywhere in my van for three years."

Rugby is something of a cross between soccer and football, like what kids call tackle keepaway, with the object to move a swollen, football-like ball across the goal line. Despite the solid hitting, Redner and Janna Richards, a player who serves as publicity director, too, insist it is almost safe.

"I've only seen two broken bones since I've been on the team — a hand for the ball, which is tossed into the scrum.

After the ball is rolled in, the scrum moves crablike across the field, lurching one way and then another until the ball, somehow, works itself free. When it does, the players who have been following the scrum scoop it up and race toward the goal line.

Equally as colorful is the terminology for the sidelines plays, when the ball is tossed in by one team after the other has knocked it out of bounds.

"Cherries, Indiana, white, Detroit," bellows one player to the one throwing the ball in. The terminology tells her and her mates where the ball is going.

"Orange, L.A., No. 1, Detroit."
"Indianapolis, Cincinnati, tennis shoes, 75."

DURING THE first game, a group of softball players practice on an adjacent field. At one point, a batted ball rolls onto the rugby field. A small, young woman picks it up. A big softball player trots over. Angry that the softballers, in practice, have interrupted the game, maybe angrier that the softballers has no idea that he has interrupted something — after all, it's just some girls running around — the woman fires off a Ron Guidry fastball at the man.

The spring season begins with — what else? — spring training in Florida in March. The fall season picks up in September.

There is no admission to home games at Levy. Those interested in attending games, or in trying out — anyone who tries out makes it, remember — should call Beti at 849-1364 or Jan at 556-3330.

SCRAMBLES GOLF

The third annual Canton Festival Golf Tournament is scheduled for an 11 a.m. tee off on Sunday, June 19 at Fellows Creek Golf Course. The tournament will consist of three-man teams playing in a scrambles concept.

Awards will be presented to the top three teams, and for the longest drive and closest to the pin.

Cost for the tourney, sponsored by the Canton Parks and Recreation department, is $33 per team. Deadline for entry is June 17. For further information, call the Canton Parks and Rec department between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. at 397-1000.

DOUBLES TOURNEY

Tennis players should start preparing now for Canton's annual Mixed Doubles Tennis Tournament, slated for Saturday and Sunday, June 25-26 at Plymouth Canton High School's courts.

Sponsored by the Canton Parks and Recreation department, the tournament has a $4 per team entry fee. Also, each team must provide a new can of balls. For further information, call the Parks and Rec department at 397-1000 between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

JR. FOOTBALL SIGN-UP

The last registration date for the Plymouth-Canton Junior Football Association is from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Saturday, June 11 in Plymouth Canton High School's Phase III lobby.

The football and cheerleading programs are open to all Plymouth and Canton boys and girls 9-13 years old. Price is $40 per player and $25 per cheerleader.

Birth certificates are required at registration. For more information, contact Karen Welling (981-3842) or Vic Gustafson (455-4189).

S'CRAFT TENNIS

The annual Schoolcraft College Men's Open Tennis Tournament is approaching.

The tourney, sponsored by the office of Community Services in an effort to increase community use of the college's 12 tennis courts, is slated for Thursday-Sunday, June 9-12.

Entry fee is $5 for singles and $8 for doubles. Deadline for registration is 10 a.m. Tuesday, June 7. To obtain a registration form and/or more information, call pro Chuck Volland at the Tennis House, 591-6392, after 4 p.m. weekdays and after 9 a.m. weekends.

COUNTRY RUN

Canton Parks and Recreation department is sponsoring its annual Canton Country Festival five-mile run, starting at 9 a.m. Saturday, June 18.

The run starts near the Township Administration Building (1150 S. Canton Center). Check-in and late registration is at 8 a.m.

The first 400 participants will receive their choice of a Canton Country Festival hat or visor. Awards will be presented to the top three finishers in each of six age groups in both men's and women's divisions.

Advance registration fee is $5 (before Thursday, June 16). Late registration is $8. For more information, call the Canton Parks and Recreation department between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. at 397-1000.

EMILY-MIDAS RUN

It's that time of year again. Emily's and Midas Mufflers are the top sponsors of a 10-kilometer (6.2-mile) run on Saturday, June 11, that finishes at a party, complete with dancing, food and beer right at the finish line (Washington and Congress in downtown Detroit).

The run starts and ends at the same spot as the party, which begins when the run ends. Got that? Anyway, price is $8, which includes a T-shirt, beer, parking and a race number — whether you run or not.

Entries are available at: Emily's, 171 W. Congress in Detroit; Midas dealers; any of the 10 Health Alliance Plan centers; Ford dealerships; Vic Tanny's; or most sporting goods shops.

There's a definite goal for this year's event: to make it the biggest in the country. Last year's ranked fifth. Will this year's be first? Pay the eight bucks and find out.

DRC CUTS RATES

Grandstand admission to Detroit Race Course has been cut from $2.50 to $1 for the rest of the track's thoroughbred season, which runs through July 10.

The $1 charge is good on every racing day — Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, too.

The change is aimed at increasing fan support, said DRC general manager David Karoub.

Clubhouse admission of $3.50 and $1 parking will remain unchanged.

MICRO JET

It may sound like something out of a Saturday morning cartoon, but the Micro Jet actually exists. The tiny aircraft — 12 feet long with a 17-foot wingspan and a weight of 515 pounds — is capable of reaching a speed of 300 miles per hour.

Flown by Jerry Mercer and sponsored by Budweiser, the Micro Jet, which set six world class records in 1979, will be featured at the Pontiac Air Show Saturday and Sunday at the Oakland-Pontiac Airport. The mini-jet will perform a 12-minute routine of loops and rolls, climbs and drops, all set to music.

The aircraft will also make an appearance at the Detroit Freedom Festival (July 3 and 4) and the Detroit Air Show (July 9 and 10).

SPORTS SHOW

The inaugural Western Wayne County Home, Builders and Sports Show will be Friday-Sunday, June 10-12, at the Inkster Civic Center Arena.

Merchants and tradesmen from the area will have items and services for the home on display. Admission to the show is free.

The arena is one block north of Michigan Avenue and one block east of Inkster Road.

Booth rental information is available by calling the arena at 562-0130.

HYDROPLANE RACES

The Ypsilanti Jaycees and Marine Prop Riders Association are co-sponsoring championship hydroplane races Saturday and Sunday at Ford Lake in Ypsilanti. Six classes of limited in-board hydroplanes will compete.

Advance tickets are $4 per car. Admission on the day of the races is $5 per car. Refreshments are available. Ford Lake is near I-94 and Whittaker Road. For more information, call 482-4920.

TENNIS TOURNEY

Silvers Inc. and Buddy's Pizza will sponsor a professional men's tennis tournament Wednesday-Sunday, June 15-19, at the Detroit Tennis and Squash Club.

The tournament committee has received entries from many of the nation's top players. Competition will be in four divisions: men's singles, men's 35 and over singles, men's 45 and over singles, and men's 55 and over singles. Prize money has been set at $10,000, with $4,000 going to the men's singles champ.

For information, call Charlie Rothstein at 259-2600 or 851-3976; or Steve Stuppler at 557-1777 or 661-5885.

CELEBRITY GOLF

Tickets are still available for golfers who want to play in the Michigan Celebrity Golf Tournament Monday, July 11, at the Detroit Golf Club.

Sponsored by Little Caesars, the tourney benefits the Michigan Heart Association. Last year, $35,000 was raised for the association.

Competition is set up in a five-man scrambles format, with one celebrity playing in each team.

Celebrities already signed up include tournament founder Hal Newhouser, Mickey Lolich, Vic Wertz, Eli Zaret and Jim Johnson. Chi Chi Rodriguez will be on hand for the tournament and to conduct a clinic. He will also speak at the awards banquet.

For more information, contact R. Michael Hyman at the Michigan Heart Association at 557-9500.

Savings plus tax benefits in tax-deferred annuities

By Sid Mittra
special writer

Many people believe that savings certificates are the best choice for their investment program. An alternative that has many of the same features yet pays tax-deferred income is called a tax-deferred annuity.

Assume you have a few thousand dollars to invest. Assume further that:

- You don't want to pay current income tax on the interest earned.
- You don't need that interest now so you would like to leave it to compound.
- You want your capital to be immediately available (liquid, in case of emergency).
- If the need occurs, you would like to use it as collateral, and
- You don't want to take the risk of getting back less than what you originally invested. A tax-deferred annuity finances and you

might be your best investment choice. These annuities are in reality loans you make to insurance companies. They earn interest that is credited to you but not taxable until it is withdrawn. Thus your investment compounds itself without being reduced by taxes.

This means that your savings dollar will grow much faster than in most other programs. The stability of principal and liquidity of investment are guaranteed by the life insurance company, which, by law, must maintain cash reserves to cover withdrawals.

THE MAJOR advantage of an investment in a tax-deferred annuity is your ability to compound interest before the IRS gets its share. The power of compound interest is almost unbelievable. For example, if you are able to invest a little under $9,300 every year at 10 percent interest, in 25 years you will become a millionaire.

Pepsi, overcoming taint, could rebound strongly

I have owned shares of Pepsi for many years, and the stock has usually done very well. However, with so many stocks doubling or better these days, Pepsi is only up a few dollars. Can you tell me why this stock hasn't done better?

PepsiCo, Inc. had a problem last year that cost it a lot of confidence among professional investors. It was discovered that fraud had been taking place for several years in one of Pepsi's foreign divisions, and that a lot of profit had been reported that hadn't actually been earned.

This caused two problems: One was that confidence in the management was reduced because it had failed to discover the fraud over a period of years. There also was some concern that the discovered loss would be "just the tip of the iceberg," and further losses would be turned up.

A SECOND PROBLEM was that the losses now discovered meant the company had been less profitable than previously calculated.

Quite a bit of time has now passed, and no additional problems have been discovered. However, the company's business has been weak overseas, and the devaluation of the Mexican peso has caused a decline of profits in that country.

today's investor

Thomas E. O'Hara

of the National Association of Investment Clubs

It has been anticipated that the company's earnings would not start up again until the second half of this year. The recently released earnings for the March quarter were 40 cents a share as compared with 69 cents a year ago.

MY GUESS IS that as soon as earnings start to move up again, you will see the price of the stock respond nicely. The losses resulting from the fraud have been written off, and the company is a strong competitor with a good record of growth.

Soft drinks are the largest of Pepsi's businesses, accounting for 39 percent of sales. The Frito-Lay division makes the company a leader in snack foods. Pizza Hut and Taco Bell are the company's entries in the restaurant business. North American Van Lines, Lee-Way Motor Freight and Wilson Sporting Goods are smaller but important parts of the company.

IF THE SIGNIFICANT recovery in earnings predicted by chief executive Donald M. Kendall for the second half of 1983 occurs, I would expect the price of your stock to catch up with the rest of the market.

The past restored

Old South comes alive in Savannah

SAVANNAH, GEORGIA — When I walked into the Ballastone Inn, I felt like I was coming home, even though I have never stayed there before. It was more than just the stormy weather I had struggled through on my way from Detroit. It was the welcome and the rich comfortable surroundings of this lovely, old Savannah home.

The Ballastone is one of 17 inns and guest houses in the historic district, which runs for 30 short blocks south of the restored riverfront plaza and about 14 blocks east and west. These are the dimensions of the planned city built by James Oglethorpe on a bluff 42 feet above the Savannah River in 1733.

Twenty of the original 24 treed squares, Savannah's outdoor living rooms, have been saved, along with 900 of the houses built around and between those squares in the last two centuries. Most of the historic inns and guest houses date from the mid-to-late 19th century. Many have been restored authentically right down to genuine "Savannah colors," others have been renovated recently to fit their surroundings.

The Ballastone Inn with 19 rooms and suites is one of four relatively large inns. The Eliza Thompson House has 26 elegant rooms, many with polished four-poster beds and fireplaces, built around a cobbled courtyard. The 17 Hundred 90 Inn, which has a fine public dining room and a popular bar, has restored, antique-filled rooms down a gently sloping hallway and has modern accommodations ready to open late this year in townhouses across the street.

THE FOLEY HOUSE, one of those narrow brick homes approached up a wrought-iron staircase, has a charming hostess waiting to lead you into the comfortably furnished lounge and up the stairs to one of the 11 guest rooms. Like all of these historic inns, each room is elegant but different: large enough for one or two beds and an arrangement of sofas and chairs, accessorized with charm and taste. One room has a huge, 100-gallon bathtub.

The Foley and the Ballastone, like so many of these wonderful inns, make you feel as if you were staying with a friend. A wealthy friend, with good taste, servants, and a beautifully furnished suite just waiting for your visit.

When you go up the curved, iron stairway and into the wide hall of the Ballastone Inn, you will see Brad Holloway or one of his staff sitting at a polished antique table at the entrance to the lounge. Tea and coffee are always ready for you there in the lounge, along with a complimentary glass of sherry or a sideboard that serves as a bar.

Downstairs they are baking fresh bread for the breakfast they will serve in your room. Lou may be making some of her famous pralines. Upstairs, past the glorious quilt hanging on the wall, you will be ushered into an "ordinary room" room with a large bed, seating area and small dining table or into the plush China Trade suite.

The beauty and comfort of the place makes your shoulders relax at once. Chinese paintings and Oriental rugs drew me down the narrow hallway of China Trade, past modern bathroom, makeup area and bar sink to a large room: two four poster beds, a small dining table flanked by wicker chairs, a sofa and two armchairs facing the television set and several beautiful pieces of reproduction furniture.

The only discordant notes were flimsy plastic clothes hangers, and slightly dilapidated shutters, out of place in this otherwise beautifully finished room.

IN THE MORNING, enjoying my breakfast in bed, I could look out on the two faces of Savannah: on one side, the not-yet-renovated buildings of old Savannah, on the other side, the graceful trees and brick streets of restored, historic Savannah. If it wasn't for the parking meters, you might expect a horse and carriage to rumble down that shaded street.

Carriage rides are available from the riverfront, a good way to get an overview of restored homes and leafy plazas you will explore later on foot. The inns and guest houses are marked on the map that you can pick up at the Savannah Area Convention and Visitors' Bureau, 301 W. Broad St., so look for them as you sit high above the horses head and watch this 19th century world go by.

There are several fine hotels in Savannah: the new Hyatt Regency on the waterfront; the restored DeSota Hilton, a 10-minute walk south in the historic district; the new Mulberry Inn, 10 minutes east along Bay Street. Inside it looks like a restored inn, in spite of the fact that it was once a Coca-Cola bottling factory; the Savannah Sheraton, 20 minutes drive out of town in a resort setting; and a very fine Day's Inn, downtown, with unexpectedly spacious two-story rooms.

Most of these hotels were on the skyline when Mary Lee opened the first guest-house accommodation in the restored historic. "You should have seen the dilapidated condition it was in then," Mary Lee said. "You would not believe it now."

ALTHOUGH SHE laughingly calls it "furnished in early attic" you will be charmed by the three suites she has created for rent here in her own home. Each suite is available at a flat rate of $50 and includes living room, bedroom kitchen, bathroom and all those homey Southern details: carved picture frames, dried flowers on a table, baskets on a kitchen shelf.

The two suites in the restored brick carriage house can be rented separately or shared by two couples. In either case, occupants have access to the private garden and courtyard.

Other guest-house accommodations range from a single, in-house guest room in Robert McAllister's home at 117 W. Gordon for $28 double (his garden apartment is $48 double) to a beautiful suite in the Four Seventeen at 417 E. Charlton for $125. Most of the guest houses are $50 to $75 and offer a double or queen-sized bed plus sitting room, bathroom and kitchen facilities.

Clyde Thompson, who lives and works in his restored 1853 home at 25 W. Perry, calls his home Barrister House. He often rents the newly built carriage house suite, with two bedrooms plus living room and kitchen, to attorneys who stay for several days at a time. He charges $60 a night for two people, $80 for four, for the two-story

The Ballastone Inn (pictured above) is one of 17 inns and guest houses in Savannah's historic district. Most of these historic lodgings date from the mid-to-late 19th century.

New train route climbs the Rockies

DENVER — Amtrak has rerouted its Chicago-San Francisco train so that it goes "through the Rockies . . . not around them," as the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad once advertised. The new train is called the California Zephyr.

Recently the D&RGW made the last of its thrice-weekly runs between Denver and Salt Lake City on what it long called the "Scenic Line of the World."

At the same time, Amtrak changed from the present routing of its daily San Francisco Zephyr through Wyoming to the D&RGW route through Colorado that was Amtrak's original plan when it began service on May 1, 1971. This was held up or more than 12 years because the D&RGW elected not to join the Amtrak system, continuing its own service.

The original California Zephyr, which operated from March 20, 1949, to March 22, 1970, was considered one of the truly great trains of America's past. Its schedule between Chicago and San Francisco was planned so that the trip through the Colorado Rockies and the California Sierra would occur in daylight year-around.

HEADING WEST from Denver, the Amtrak double-deck Superliner equipment using the new route will ascend some of the steeper rail grades in North America and go through 28 tunnels before crossing the continental divide in the 6.2-mile Moffat Tunnel. The tunnel is 9,239 feet above sea level and will be the highest point in the entire Amtrak system.

Continuing west to Glenwood Springs, Rifle and Grand Junction, the routing follows the Colorado River for 238 scenic miles. The grandeur of the scenery in Glenwood Canyon is said to have inspired construction of the first Vistadome trains. En route to Salt Lake City, the route crosses Utah's Wasatch Range at 7,440 feet before dropping into the Great Salt Lake Valley.

West of Salt Lake City, Amtrak's Zephyr will remain on its present route through Reno and across the Donner Pass into California, although the original California Zephyr used a different route.

Passengers traveling on Amtrak's The Pioneer between Chicago and the Pacific Northwest, as well as on The Desert Wind between Chicago and Las Vegas/Los Angeles, will also view the spectacular scenery of the new route while traveling between Denver and Utah.

Amtrak will honor all reservations made for travel on the D&RGW Zephyr. However, you should contact Amtrak to reconfirm.

The California Zephyr's departure time daily from Chicago will be at 2:50 p.m., four hours and five minutes earlier than former schedules; from Oakland at 12:25 p.m., 40 minutes earlier than previously.

Street dancing duo has got 'Dance Fever'

Ethel Simmons Staff writer

TERRY DYE, 35, has been a street dancer for five years. He and his 20-year-old dance partner, who has the unlikely real name of Barbie Daul, have been dancing together a short while but already their tough street style has landed them on "Dance Fe-

Dye, a resident of Commerce, works for the West Bloomfield School District in the maintenance department. Daul, a one-time Birmingham resident who now lives in Millford, is a hair stylist at Heidi's Salon at the Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi, where she works with Dye's wife Juanita.

Dye and Daul won the Michigan finals for the recent "Dance Fever" competition held at the Main Act in Roseville. They will be going to Hollywood in July to tape their stint on the nationally televised show "Dance Fever." The segment will air in September, and if Dye's determination pays off, the dance team will stay in the running long enough to sweep prizes totaling $31,000.

Last week in the Birmingham office of the Observer & Eccentric, the couple sat down to talk about street dancing.

"YOU CAN'T learn it in any dance studio," Dye said. "It's black oriented. You have to get out on the streets to learn it. You have to pay your dues. It's tough."

"You've got to feel it," his partner said.

Dye was raised in a black neighborhood in Pontiac and learned street dancing as a teen-ager with his black friends. He and four black guys from Detroit are known as Captain Crunch and the Funky Bunch, a group of street dancers who entertain at bar mitzvahs and other private parties.

Dye had been looking for a female dance partner but it wasn't until he and his wife gave a Christmas party in their home that he and Daul first danced together.

"It's usually hard to find a girl who can do this style. I only know about 10 girls who can do this," he said.

Dye is convinced he and Daul will take the "Dance Fever" top prize. "We're going to win because it's so rare. You never see white people dance this way."

DAUL SAID she only began dancing five years ago. "When 'Saturday Night Fever' came out, I just went wild." She started dancing in her living room to the radio.

"I never thought this would happen," she said, with wonderment. "I never even had a guy to dance with."

Dye said Daul is going to join his performing group, starting with their next party.

He said an example of street dancing, done by a group of children, is seen in the movie "Flashdance." Describing street dancing, Dye said, "It's very synchronized and intricate."

"It's tough," Daul repeated. Meaning both that it's tough to do and that the street style itself is tough.

GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

Terry Dye and his dance partner, Barbie Daul, tie themselves in a knot in a demonstration of the street-smart style they love.

A high-energy terminology is used to name the motion in street dancing. "You create waves with your body," Dye said, standing up to demonstrate. "Poppin' and lockin'," Daul said, mentioning another dance movement. Strobing and vibrating are other terms Dye used.

THE DANCE DUO practices together Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Sundays, for four to five hours each day, at his house. "It's hard driving," he said of the dance style, "like doing the four-minute mile in three minutes."

Both dancers have natural high-energy levels. Dye exercises daily, stretching and doing mostly dance exercises and also street dancing. Daul said, "I'm constantly walking or moving. I'm very energetic."

"I've always been full of energy," Dye said. "It's just my metabolism. I go to bed at 2 a.m. and get up at 7 a.m. I'm always up before the rest of my family."

Although he looked relaxed during the interview, he said, "I'm just sitting here ready to explode."

For their "Dance Fever" audition, Dye and Daul had some help with their choreography from Allen Ester, a professional street dancer from Detroit, and Cool Hand Duke from Los Angeles.

AT THE FINALS, "My wife said she knew we had it made, and so did all my black friends," Dye said.

Dye especially admires two hot Detroit street dancing groups, TNT and the Funkateers. "TNT — they are the master mechanics of street dancing in the U.S.," he said.

At parties, where Dye and his street dancing group appear, they do more than just perform. They try to get everybody out on the dance floor, to learn a little street dancing.

"It's basically easy. You have to get the funkiness into it," he said.

Dye is teaching his own son, Terry Anthony, the art of street dancing.

On "Dance Fever," contestants will vie with couples from every state in the United States and from other countries as well.

Dye and Daul had their black-and-white costumes made especially for the "Dance Fever" tryouts. The futuristic outfits are paired with red bow ties and old-fashioned spats, to create a look that goes from the 1930s to the 1990s.

"THE COSTUMES were expensive," Dye said, "but we're going to have to replace them because we found out you can't wear black and white on TV."

Dye is from a family of four boys, and he's the only dancer among them. Daul is from a family of nine, six boys and three girls, and she's the right in the middle at number five in the family. None of her brothers and sisters dance much.

Daul lived in Birmingham for 10 years and went to South Elementary School just before her family moved to Millford.

A dozen years later, actress plays role of Mame

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

THE ROLE OF "Mame" is one that Jo Anne Meurer has always wanted to play. When she last tried out, for a Birmingham Village Players production, she was told she was too young.

This time, some dozen years later, she has got the role in the St. Dunstan's Guild of Cranbrook production of the Broadway musical hit. She beamed. "I was just hoping they wouldn't tell me this time that I was too old!"

"Mame" will be presented as the annual outdoor show in June which is traditionally a musical. Performances will be at 9 p.m. Friday-Saturday and June 9-11 in the classic Greek Theatre pavilion just behind the guild's playhouse on Lone Pine Road in Bloomfield Hills. Tickets at $5 and $4 for students are available by reservation, phone 644-0527.

NANCY BRASSERT, who directs the show, said, "Twelve of our most talented ladies tried out for 'Mame.' Fifty-six auditions were held for all the roles, and there were eight Veras and four Gooches."

Betsy Todd won the part of Vera Charles, Mame's best friend.

Ten-year-old Thom Cochill, whose mother Judy is an active member of St. D's, wrapped up the part of Young Patrick, who develops a strong bond with his Auntie Mame.

Thom's mother, who had the lead in last year's production of "Bells Are Ringing" at St. D's, helped him study his lines after school.

"He had his lines down before anyone else," the director said.

A fourth grader at Hickory Groves Elementary School, Thom has had a few roles in school productions, but "Mame" is his first appearance in community theater.

"THE BIGGEST school play that I did, I was a rat in 'The Pied Piper of Hamelin.' I was one of the two that had a line," he said. "I was Humpty-Dumpty in a Christmas play, and I was a pumpkin in 'The Littlest Pumpkin.' I had a speaking part. In a talent show, a friend and I wore the same clothes and did a mirror image.

"This is the biggest part I've ever had. Next June they're going to do 'Music Man,' and I'm going to try out for that."

Asked how the rehearsals were going for "Mame," he said, "It's fun but I have to talk louder because it's big."

"Louder and slower," Director Brassert chimed in.

The show features two young boys in the cast. Nathan Balyeat, 9, plays Peter. "He plays my son," Thomas said. Brassert explained Thom is Young Patrick in Act I, then another actor plays the older Patrick, and Nathan is the grown-up Patrick's son.

"Mame" is a big show, with a cast of 56. There are 18 scene changes, and Mame has 17 costume changes.

Brassert is up to the challenge of a large-scale production. "You have to be well-organized and plan ahead," she said. "God is not always with you. Last night the musicians were rained out and had to practice indoors. And we only have the musicians three times before the performance."

The very calm director was somewhat gleeful as she told how she keeps the cast in line. "I wear a whistle around my neck. It has a terrible, shrill sound. They'll do almost anything to keep from hearing that whistle."

Brassert said that Maurer's role as Mame is a very athletic one. The star is required to slide down a banister in one scene. In another, she hangs from a moon, and in still another, she gets tossed around in a jitterbug.

"THERE'S SOME very strenuous dancing. It's a whole new thing for me," Maurer said. "I always thought of myself more as a singer and actress. The young people in the show help me. The young man who picks me up and throws me makes me look good."

At one rehearsal, Maurer said she heard her husband gasping aloud. "I was hanging from the moon," she said, describing a production number in which Mame sits upon a crescent-moon prop.

STEPHEN CANTRELL/staff photographer

Nancy Brassert is directing "Mame," to be presented in the outdoor Greek Theatre at Cranbrook in Bloomfield Hills. The show has music and lyrics by Jerry Herman.

Maurer has a deep voice, with well-measured speech, and she has a ready smile. "My husband was helping me with the lines one night, and he said, 'You are Mame!'"

She continued, "Mame has a lot of projects, and I always have a lot of projects."

Describing the character of madcap Mame, Maurer said, "How the script is written, Mame doesn't really have all the lines. It's really what other people say about her that makes her a character."

"HER LINES are really very lovable. I'm finding ways of making her larger."

One of the things the actress enjoys about doing Mame is, "It's fun to have Christmas in the middle of the show."

"I like to hide in the stocking," said Thom, recalling his part as Young Patrick during the Christmas scene.

Maurer, who has been a member of St. D's for 20 years, becomes a senior member this year. She has played mostly in musicals at St. D's including "Brigadoon" in 1964, "Pajama Game" and "The Boys from Syracuse." She also played in "Thurber Carnival" and "Anxieties of '68." The last role she played at St. D's was Anna in "The King and I."

While a member of the Birmingham Village Players, she belonged to a singing group from the players called the Villagers.

When her family life got too busy, she took a sabbatical from the theater.

SHE EXPECTS to find a tear in her eye when she sings the song, "If He Walked Into My Life Today," in "Mame." "Most people think of it as a romantic song, but it's really about Mame's relationship with her nephew Patrick. My son is grown and will be. I'll be thinking about him on one of those performance nights."

When Young Patrick sings "My Best Girl" to Mame, she said, "Thom's mother says she cries."

Brassert also directed last year's Greek Theatre musical, "Mack and Mabel," which had 48 in the cast. "We usually have 40-50 in the cast of the June show," she said.

A member of St. D's for 16 years, she last performed onstage with the group four years ago, playing the lead in "40 Carats." She currently is appearing with Janus Dinner Theatre in a rousing production of "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers."

She also has directed and done costumes for the Nancy Gurwin Productions of Southfield. She has assisted Ed Guest on all the shows he has directed, both for Nancy Gurwin and St. D's, the last eight years.

SCENE DESIGNER Bob Raisch has done the sets for "Mame," the decor changing four times, from the years 1929 to 1948. "He has done a marvelous job on figuring out how to change the decor with the least trouble," Brassert said.

A crew of 12, the largest St. D's has ever used, helps to change the scene. "My husband's in the scene crew, so he finally gets to see me, through all these weeks of rehearsal," she said.

Also helping in the massive production effort are Margie Brooks, musical director; Bill Peltó, choral director, and Susie Kaughman, choreographer.

Rehearsals for the show have been going on since mid-April with the entire cast. Music rehearsal and blocking began in mid-March.

Brassert said, "I'm hoping all the scene changes move fast enough to flow."

Second runs

Tom Panzenhagen

"The Hospital" (1972), 2 Friday night on Ch. 2. Originally 103 minutes.

Black humor at its blackest is the driving force behind this Paddy Chayefsky film. It's not as glib or as concise as another Chayefsky picture, "Network," and director Arthur Hiller lets the script get away from him from time to time. But George C. Scott and Diana Rigg help smooth over the rough spots and make this a memorable film. Bernard Hughes and Nancy Marchand co-star.

Rating: $2.80.

"The Sons of Katie Elder" (1965), 1 p.m. Saturday on Ch. 50. Originally 112 minutes.

Henry Hathaway, who directed John Wayne in "True Grit," does his best to keep this Wayne vehicle moving, but the script and the performance of Dean Martin ultimately weigh it down. Problem one: Suspension of disbelief is fine but "Katie Elder" presents the viewer with four brothers — Wayne, Martin, Earl Holliman and Michael Anderson Jr. — who, in real life, range in age from 38 to 20. That's a lot to swallow. Problem two: Martin, who's been touted in this space more than once before as a candidate for worst actor of all time. Despite that, there's enough action in this film to keep most Saturday afternoon movie viewers happy. George Kennedy and James Gregory co-star.

Rating: $2.65.

"The Great Race" (1965), 1 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 50. Originally 150 minutes.

though his claims to fame as a writer, producer and director include such lusterless baubles as "Breakfast at Tiffany's," "The Pink Panther" and "10," most of his films are infused with one thing: quality. Edwards doesn't necessarily make good films, but his films are well made. "The Great Race" is such an effort. Tony Curtis, Jack Lemmon, Natalie Wood, Peter Falk and Keenan Wynn star in this amusing extravaganza about a New York-to-Paris automobile race. Most of the laughs are provided by Lemmon and Falk, but, as is typical of an Edwards film, there's not a bad performance to be found.

Rating: $2.85.

"The Day of the Jackal" (1973), 2 Tuesday night on Ch. 4. Originally 141 minutes.

This Fred Zinnemann film seems never to have gotten much attention, perhaps because it's so chillingly realistic and foreboding that filmgoers were unable to genuinely embrace it. The British-French production chronicles an assassination attempt on French President Charles De Gaulle by mixing fiction with factual film footage. Frederick Forsyth wrote the screenplay from his own novel. Edward Fox stars as the assassin, code named "the Jackal"; Cyril Cusack and Delphine Seyrig co-star.

Rating: $3.05.

Fran L. Washington plays Janie Mae, who thinks Jody Starks, portrayed by Clifford A. Reed, will bring her a better life in "To Glean It Around," opening at the Hilberry Theatre.

Drama will open at world premiere

The premiere of a new play by Bonnie Lee Moss Rattner, a native Detroit native now living in Franklin, will be presented next Wednesday through Saturday, June 23, at the Hilberry Theatre in Detroit.

Wayne State University's world premiere production of "To Glean It Around" opens officially Thursday, June 9, following a preview Wednesday. Performances are at 8 p.m. Wednesdays-Saturdays. For ticket information, call 577-3972.

The play is a stage version of Zora Neale Hurston's "Their Eyes Were Watching God," a novel of the 1930s. The book uses the rural Southern setting, dialect and folklore, and the romantic theme characteristic of that period.

A controversial black author of the '30s and '40s, Hurston is now being hailed as one of the most important women writers in the nation's history.

Bonnie Rattner was born in Detroit and attended public schools in Detroit and Berkeley. She studied at the University of Michigan, the Sorbonne and Wayne State, where she earned bachelor and master of arts degrees in English.

IT WAS AT Wayne State, in a graduate seminar on American women writers, that she first read "Their Eyes Were Watching God." "It changed the course of my life," she said.

For the last eight years she has been involved with the life and work of Zora

Neale Hurston. At her suggestion, Harper & Row, Publishers, became agent of the Hurston estate. It took the publishers six years to trace the heirs and conclude negotiations necessary for Rattner to acquire three of the Hurston properties, including "Their Eyes Were Watching God."

The production will be directed by Von H. Washington, director of WSU's black theater program. It will open the 1983 Hilberry Summer Theatre Festival, which continues Wednesday, July 6, through Saturday, Aug. 6, with five productions.

Premiere announced

The Fourth Street Playhouse will open its Michigan premiere production of "My Sister in This House" by Wendy Kesselman at 8:30 p.m. Friday at 301 W. Fourth, Royal Oak.

Performances will continue at 8:30 p.m. Thursdays-Fridays, 9 p.m. Saturdays and 7:30 p.m. Sundays through July 16. Tickets are $6 Thursdays and Sundays, $8 Fridays-Saturdays. For reservations call 543-3866.

upcoming things to do

● FUN FACTORY

The Westland Center Kids Fun Factory will present magician and illusionist Bill Heiney in shows at 1 and 4 p.m. Saturday in the center's auditorium. Each show will be 40 minutes of nonstop magic including a four-second escape; Heiney cutting his assistant in three pieces; and his specialty, magic with animals.

● CENTER STAGE

Steve King and His Ditties play at 9:45 tonight through Saturday at Center Stage, 39940 Ford Road, Canton. Doors open at 8:30 p.m. Admission is $2 tonight, $3 Friday and Saturday, with women admitted free each night. Teen Night, open to ages 15-19 only, features DJ Bobby G, at 7 p.m. Tuesday. Admission is $2.50.

● REUBEN PERFORMS

A big "welcome back" party for Little Reuben and the Motor City Players continues through Saturday at the Super Lips Lounge, 15414 Telegraph, Redford. Reuben was hospitalized after an automobile accident last November. He has had extensive therapy since getting out of the hospital a month later. The Motor City Players continued to perform without him until the end of January. Reuben and the Motor City Players will celebrate their second anniversary together Saturday, June 11, also at Super Lips Lounge.

● PROJECT HOPE

WXYZ-TV personalities John Kelly and Marilyn Turner will act as auctioneers for a Grand Prix Auction during Project Hope's fund-raiser beginning at 6:30 tonight at the Riverfront Ballroom in 400 Tower of the Westin Hotel, downtown Detroit. The ballroom, which overlooks the actual race course, features mini-races with celebrity drivers. For more information, call the HOPE office at 649-4775.

● PIANO ARTISTRY

Seattle-based pianist Scott Cassu performs in shows at 11 p.m. and 2:30 a.m. Saturday at the City Club Cafe, 2108 Park Avenue, Detroit, just a few blocks away from Grand Prix activity. Cassu's newest album, "Spirals," was chosen Billboard magazine's Top Album Pick. Tickets at $5 are available at the cafe, phone 965-8460.

● MOONLIGHT CRUISES

Pat Huber and Shortcake play country-swing rock music aboard the season's second Boblo Island Moonlight Cruise from 11 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday. Dancing under the stars highlights the cruise aboard the historic Boblo steamship. Tickets at $8.95 may be purchased at the Boblo office in the Veterans Building, 151 W. Jefferson, Detroit; at Automobile Club of Michigan offices throughout the state, or at the dock the evening of the cruise. A cash bar and snacks are available on board.

● RIVER CELEBRATION

Focus:HOPE will throw a moonlight party on the Detroit River 8-11 p.m. Tuesday aboard Boblo's S.S. Columbia. This second annual Celebration on the River will feature Detroit-area jazz and folk performers. Tickets at $10 can be ordered by calling Focus:HOPE at 683-7440 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

● GYPSY TRYOUTS

Pontiac Theatre IV will hold auditions Friday-Saturday for its summer production of "Gypsy." Tryouts for children will be at 8 p.m. Friday, 4 p.m. Saturday. Adults will audition at 7:30 p.m. Friday and 7 p.m. Saturday. For more information, call 338-2903.

Designers, builder offer modern version of Old World grandeur

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

Opulent fits. So does elegant and impressive and any number of the other superlatives.

The Detroit Symphony ASID (American Society of Interior Designers) Showhouse which opened last Tuesday is a brand-new $1.5 million 25-room house in Bloomfield Township, built by the Malcolm Leventen Corporation of Southfield.

The 28 interior designers added some $1 million in furnishings.

Landscape architecture students from Lawrence Institute of Technology did the landscape plan and another group of LIT interior design students did one of the hallways.

The project, a fund-raiser for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, is sponsored by the Detroit Symphony League, the Women's Association for the orchestra and the Michigan Chapter of ASID.

Loretta Miles, ASID, coordinated the work of the designers. That, in itself, is a demanding job which she handled with great success.

The continuity from room to room is a triumph, for too easily, each room can become a showplace for an individual designer without regard to surroundings. It can and does happen, even in homes done by a single interior designer. But, the flow of color and style here is exemplary.

THE COLORS the designers were given to work with were neutrals, taupe, teal and black, and various accent colors. Miles kept close tabs on the plans for each room, approving color swatches and design. She may have made a few people unhappy for a moment or so as she rejected things she felt wouldn't fit, but the end product is highly pleasing.

Visitors will note the mix of periods and colors, antiques interspersed with late Art Nouveau, country French, Oriental and American. With this it becomes more like a family home in which treasures have been collected over the years, rather than a newly created showhouse.

The house lends itself to elegant, expensive treatment. There is a lavish use of Italian marble, not only in the two-story foyer with a classic winding staircase, but in the master bathroom and family room and master bedroom suite fireplaces. All the marble was carefully matched on site by European craftsmen.

The use of crown moulding is extensive, giving an old world look to these new surroundings. The oak trim, sometimes natural, sometimes painted and treated to achieve a pickled oak look, warms the atmosphere, which by dint of size alone, could be cold.

The Georgian fixtures, wealth of textures and soft accent colors also help make a hospitable atmosphere. A soft teal shows up frequently as does rose, for instance, in the charming upstairs sitting room by Ural Designs & Interiors of Livonia.

Turquoise, sometimes considered hard to work with, is one of the dominant colors in the living room by Gorman's Gallery of Southfield.

Here it reaches an exciting level used as a wall color and repeated in the elaborate crown moulding. Against a honey-colored carpet, muted tones of sea foam green and mauve for accents give a sophisticated, continental ambience to the living room.

At the far end, on a carpeted dais, is a Louis XVI harpsichord in bright blue.

THE ETCHED pattern on the glass coffee table matches the small, overall upholstery print on matching chairs.

The family room, about the same size as the living room, with pickled oak paneling, was done by Walter Herz Interiors Inc. of Southfield.

Because, as expected, it is less formal than the living room, the colors of the family room are bolder and the wicker and contemporary French furnishings more casual. But even this casual is in keeping with the formality of the home.

The kitchen and adjoining solarium (a passive solar energy room), designed by Pastor Interiors Inc. of Bloomfield Hills with cabinetry planned and designed by Kitchens by Lenore of Birmingham, is a wonderful combination of sunshine and artistry. The pickled oak look continues throughout. The wall treatment is a laminated, large print, navy blue fabric with tangerine and neutrals.

The shaded teal, tile floor, a color to fall in love with, has pale peach grouting.

In fact, the color of the grouting in all of the tile installations is something to pay attention to, along with a myriad of other details which add so much to the overall look.

The bathroom of guest suite is done in earth tone tile. The three imported boxes are leather covered. The effect is a tailored, but hospitable look.

Blue, green, shades of mauve and neutrals give the living room which is designed to function as a music room a kind of sophisticated serenity.

The graceful drama of the circular stairway is enhanced by the five-part skylight and a sweeping curve of molding on the inner wall.

NOT TO BE missed is the $30,000 19th century French needlepoint rug in the French bedroom (hardly a detail) by Perlmutter Freiwald Inc. of Franklin, and the coffee table with a 19th century gas lantern from a Belgian bake shop in the grand guest suite by John Mitchell Interiors of Birmingham.

For the $5 fee at the door, visitors will have a chance to see what's happening in the home furnishings field (which often leads the apparel field), the new colors and trends.

It is more than a visit to a 10,000-square-foot house with a rather staggering price tag, it's a delightful learning experience.

Helen Peterson of Bloomfield Hills is the symphony chairman of the showhouse and Brian Collins represents the local chapter of the American Society of Interior Designers.

There's a boutique with lots of greenery and hand-crafted items by Michigan artisans on the premises along with a tea room.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, noon to 6 p.m. Sunday and 6-9 p.m. Thursdays. Closed Monday. The house will be open through June 22 at 1711 Morningside Way, Wabek North, north of Long Lake, between Franklin and Middlebelt, Bloomfield Township.

For information, call 446-0950 weekdays.

Designers give talks

A series of Thursday lectures, "An Evening with the Designers," begins at 7:30 p.m. this evening at the Detroit Symphony/ASID showhouse and continues on June 2, 9, 16.

Tickets for the programs are available at the door, 1711 Morningside Way, North Wabek, Bloomfield Township, north of Long Lake between Franklin and Middlebelt.

All of the speakers are members of the Michigan Chapter of the American Society of Interior Designers.

The programs are: May 26, "Eclecticism/How to Mix Periods," Daniel E. Clancey; June 2, "Accessories and Lighting," Brian Clay Collins; June 9, "Color/Does Red Really Make You Rage?," and "Window Treatments," by Margie Cockie Cunningham.

Each program will include a slide presentation followed by a question and answer period.

For information, call 569-3212.

The shaded teal tile floor and the light oak cabinets work together to give the kitchen a bright, sunny country French look. The glass cabinets are contoured.

Professor masters metal, wood and stone

By Carmina Brooks
special writer

Wayne State University's professor Phillip G. Fike was 8 years old when he carved his own tombstone. A boyhood friend's father owned a monument works in his hometown of Reedsburg, Wis., that became a place of great fascination for young Phillip.

One day a master stone cutter employed at the stone works noted Phillip's interest. He handed him some tools, a small slab of marble, and showed him how to chisel his name into the stone. Today, his mother uses Phillip's first work as a bookend.

"My first experience of making things with my hands began right there," Fike said.

Since that first experience excited his imagination, Fike has become a metalsmith, sculptor, printmaker and one of the nation's leading goldsmiths whose work has been exhibited both nationally and internationally. He continues to create original pieces in metals, wood and stone, including pins, rings, necklaces and body adornments. He has become widely known as an artist, scholar, craftsman and teacher.

WAYNE STATE University honored Fike recently by awarding him the 1983 President's Award for Excellence in Teaching. Fike, professor in the WSU department of art and art history, in the Liberal Arts College, has been mentor, friend and inspiration to Wayne State students for 30 years.

"I am pleased to get the award because I am a studio artist and metalsmith selected among Ph.D.s who publish extensively, and somebody thought what I am doing is valuable," Fike said.

Fike's professional objective is to be involved in the mainstream of contemporary arts and crafts as an artist, craftsman and teacher. He has succeeded. He considers university life and teaching central to his career.

"When I came to WSU I was in the right place in my life and I have been in the right place ever since," he said.

THIS YEAR Fike will complete work on an official mace for the university.

"The mace is a symbol of authority and high human endeavor that will add enormous drama to important academic ceremonies," he explained.

Fike's mace is 46 inches long, made of 168 layers of ebony. On the handle 10 discs fitted together will rotate, interrelating to a continuous pattern. At the head is a pentagon holding the WSU medallion. Affixed to the bottom is an ebony earth globe with meridians designed into a symbolic code that can be lined up to become a map of the planet.

"Professor Fike is recognized for his inventiveness with which he has produced genuine original works. All are created with integrity towards ancient processes and a mastery with metals," the citation states.

FIKE IS an avid researcher. He has written a paper on primitive lenses and early magnification which explores the history of the use of magnifying glasses to aid in the decoration process.

He has researched the art and history of niello. Niello is a method of decorating silver and gold by filling incisions with a black composition consisting of silver, copper, lead, sulphur, and borax to produce an ornamental effect.

"Generally, the scale of my forms is small and often intricate, and I prefer to make objects which are readily functional and harmonious with human use and spirit," he said.

His impassioned study of ancient historic and contemporary fibulae (a clasp) is a lifetime pursuit. It began in Rome in 1965 where he became interested in the bronze and gold pins of the Etruscans, who gave them the name "fibula."

Fike calls his study of the fibulae "researching the anatomy of the safety pin."

THE BASIC pin clasp is a prime form in human existence, Fike teaches.

"Keeping warm is a primate problem and the development of clasping devices capable of holding heavy skins and furs to the body became as natural as any other shelter and comfort," he writes.

"The modern safety pin as we know it in the American culture is an object manufactured in the billions every year and used for domestic emergencies. This is an example of our packaged environment. The safety pin once had a very important aesthetic spiritual function in the life of other cultures. The fibula was not only a spiritual object which reflected a culture, but was also an artistic sculpture which solved the problem a clasp does. People needed safety pins 2,000 B.C. just as much as we need them now."

"The modern safety pin reflects our distance from potential variety and meaning inherent in the ancient clasp. It functions automatically without concern nor pride of display.

"Place the ends of your thumb and forefinger together and press them very hard against each other. The space between is an eternal dimension. The pressure integrity is strong and controlled by will, yielding by choice."

FIKE IS called "extraordinary" by his peers. "His charisma, humanism, and generosity is inspiring," they write.

"Professor Fike lends his patience, his skill, and his concern, not only to his materials, but also to his students, who find his concise and articulate presentations unforgettable," the citation continues. "He works on his pieces directly before his students and reveals to them his personal mechanisms of learning."

Fike likes to teach by selecting an object that is taken for granted — a safety pin, a comb, or a pair of shoes. He asks his students to make this article out of anything they like.

'The safety pin once had an important spiritual function in the life of other cultures.'

— Phillip Fike
Wayne honoree

A comb, he says, can be made from toothpicks and string, wood, metal, fine wire, or fibres. The Yucca plant has needles and fibres strong enough for combing and sewing, he notes.

"This not only teaches how to work with various materials and simple tools, but they have to deal with something they have always taken for granted," he said.

"Our students are brought into a packed world, we don't guide them into disaster. We help them understand how important the disaster is."

Last year a thief stole $50,000 worth of gold pins from Fike's university studio by burning a door open with a jeweler's torch. Five Fibula, his variations on the ancient Roman safety pin, an antique jewelry collection, and some office equipment were taken. The fibulae were not insured and the loss was a low point in his career.

The 1983 WSU President's Award for Excellence in Teaching was a high point.
