What would happen if you held an election and no one appeared? Plymouth almost found out Tuesday. Election workers are shown here at Precinct 1 in the Cultural Center waiting for voters to appear.

Newcomer wins

McKercher sweeps the field of 5; Martin, Childs, Loisellette elected

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

Mary Ellen McKercher, a first-time candidate, was the top vote getter in Tuesday's Plymouth City Commission election.

Besides McKercher, the three other candidates elected to the commission were Eldon Martin, Mary Childs and Ronald Loisellette.

McKercher received 769 votes, topping the number received by former mayors Martin and Childs. Martin ran second with 742. Childs ran third with 661. Those three were elected to four-year seats on the commission.

Martin, who served as mayor most recently, was elected to his second term on the commission.

Childs returns to the commission after a two-year break. She served on the commission from 1975 to 1981 — the last two years as mayor. By city charter requirements, she had to sit out two years after serving two consecutive terms.

Martin also will not be eligible to run again when his four-year term expires in 1987.

LOISELLETTE was elected to a two-year seat, with 580 votes. The incumbent ran unopposed for a four-year seat in 1979, and will have to sit out the next election in 1985 — even though his two consecutive terms add up to six years instead of eight.

Unsuccessful candidate Gregory Green received 403 votes. Green has run unsuccessfully in past elections and most likely will continue serving on the city's planning commission.

Two candidates who unofficially withdrew from the race, Norman Tritten and Jerry Vorva, received 100 and 88 votes, respectively. Tritten reportedly lost interest in the race, while Vorva said he felt compelled to withdraw due to his employment as a city police officer.

A total of 1,016 residents cast their ballots Tuesday, some 15 percent of the total registered electorate of 6,570.

ALSO ON Tuesday's ballot was an unopposed race for six candidates to serve on the library board of directors.

Elected to the six seats were Catherine Ann Doetsch, Margaret Dunning, Frances Loisellette, Raymond Masters, Mary Ann Prchlik and Nancy Sharp.

The city commission will hold a special meeting on Monday to formally accept the election results, administer the oath of office to the newly elected city commissioners and elect the mayor and mayor pro tem.

Commission observers expect current mayor pro tem David Pugh to step up to the mayor's seat. Pugh was the top vote getter in the 1981 election.

The special meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the city commission chambers on the second floor of City Hall, the corner of Main and Church streets.

Hospital clinic to be built here

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor apparently has decided to build an outpatient clinic in downtown Plymouth.

Action taken by the City Commission Monday night indicates the hospital plans to proceed with the proposed $3.6 million clinic/parking deck complex in the central parking lot area.

Requests for tax abatement, bonding and city funding of a project overseer were placed before the commission, as 18 months of planning comes to a head.

Construction is expected to get underway before the end of the year, according to City Manager Henry Graper, who has orchestrated progress on the multi-faceted project.

The plan calls for the hospital to build a $2.6 million clinic at Ann Arbor Trail and Harvey Street, while the city handles the construction of an adjacent $1 million parking deck.

The city's portion of the construction is slated to be funded through the recently established Downtown Development Authority (DDA).

The City Commission will be asked to approve a tax increment financing plan for the DDA later this month — to use increased tax revenues in the downtown development district to pay off bonds for the deck construction.

Although action on the tax increment plan hasn't been finalized, the commission Monday night approved notices of intent to sell bonds for the parking deck.

Voting against that motion was commissioner Ronald Loisellette. He objected to the city being responsible for the debt retirement of the bonds.

"I'd rather see something in here about a joint agreement with the DDA," he said.

Graper said the bonds weren't going to be issued through the DDA.

"The project is in the DDA plan for tax increment financing," Graper said.

THE COMMISSION also approved a Dec. 5 public hearing on the hospital's request for tax abatement on the proposed clinic. Graper said the tax abatement is a prerequisite for the hospital to build in Plymouth.

The hospital filed the request for property tax relief through the Huron Arbor Corporation, a wholly-owned subsidiary of the hospital which will operate the clinic.

The corporation desires 12 years of 50 percent abatement under Public Act 255, which expires on Dec. 31, 1983.

According to the corporation, the 23,000-square-foot facility "will be occupied by physicians associated with the Catherine McAuley Health Center (St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and Mercywood Hospital) and will contain supportive diagnostic, testing, and treatment services including laboratory, radiology, cardiology, respiratory, mental health, health promotion and minor emergency/occupational medicine services."

Although a building permit hasn't been applied for, Graper said the commission was asked to set the public hearing on the tax relief request for two reasons:

- The fast approaching deadline for Act 255 legislation.
- So that action on the request can be taken "before the fact."

IN OTHER ACTION, the commission approved a request to reallocate some $23,000 in community block grant monies to pay for out-of-pocket expenses on the project.

Those expenses include construction plans and subsidizing the salary of a city employee to oversee the project.

The monies will be diverted from the city's housing rehabilitation program.

In getting to this point, the city has negotiated to purchase two parcels on Harvey Street for the clinic construction, established the DDA and met with hospital officials to design the concept.

If the commission approves the DDA's tax increment financing plan on Nov. 21, and approves the tax abatement request on Dec. 5, everything will be in place to start construction, according to Graper.

County approves local grants

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners formally approved the disbursement of some $7 million in community development block grant funds last week, including some $350,000 for the Plymouth-Canton communities.

The grants are restricted to communities with populations under 50,000, and generally were awarded on the basis of competitive ideas and past performance.

The county's block grant program is expected to create hundreds of jobs for the 32 communities receiving funding, according to Commissioner Mary E. Dumas, whose district includes Plymouth.

The money, from federal sources, is channeled through the county and this year was comprised of traditional community development funds and funds from the federal jobs bill.

CANTON TOWNSHIP is scheduled to receive some $130,500, which will be used to purchase property for senior citizen housing, according to Terry Carroll, grant coordinator for Canton and Plymouth townships.

The Canton Township administration has some property in mind and has started negotiations for it. Carroll declined to comment on the property's location.

"The money will be used just for the purchase of the property, not for any construction," he said.

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP is scheduled to receive $120,000, which will be used for the construction of the Helm Street connector road in the Metro West Industrial Park, Carroll said.

The industrial park, near Five Mile and Sheldon, is the township's major site for industrial development. The proposed street will provide the park with access to Sheldon Road.

Construction of the street is expected to cost $200,000, which the township plans to pay with grant monies over a two-year period, Carroll said.

PLYMOUTH IS SCHEDULED to receive some $103,000, which will be used for a variety of projects, according to Paul Sincok, city grant coordinator.

An $80,000 chunk of the money will pay for renovations of the Old Village fire station, a senior citizen's van and driver and funds for the Plymouth Community Council on Aging, Sincok said.

The remaining $23,000 was originally earmarked for housing rehabilitation, but is being re-allocated for out-of-pocket expenses associated with the proposed clinic/parking deck project in the central parking lot area, he said.

Those expenses include the costs of city code changes, construction drawings and a person to oversee the project, Sincok said.

History revived at restored home

There is nothing that Erick Carne likes better than to renovate an old house and give the present generation a chance to see what homes looked like in the Gay '90s.

His latest example is the old Fisher building that recently was moved from Main Street to Blanch — just off Starkweather.

The old home originally was next to the Better Drug Store on Main Street and was moved to make room for the new traffic lanes at the intersection of Main and Mill Street.

Now that the renovation is complete there is a question in the Carne family as to which area of the country the home had its origins.

"I think it is like the homes we see on Mackinac Island," Erick said, "but I am alone in our family with that idea. My wife is certain that it is a reminder of Williamsburg, Va., the city that is renowned for its antiques and the throwback to the days of early America."

But no matter which area it represents, Carne is delighted to have it and the chance to give the residents the opportunity to see what is part of early America.

Much like the homes you find in the New England where our Pilgrim forefathers settled, the old home now has a brick patio in front and a white picket fence the entire width of the frontage. With that is a pair of old-fashioned night lamps that are another throwback.

"All we had to do inside is install modern plumbing and clean the walls and floors. And now it is fine residence for those who like to live in such a historical looking home."

The old home's actual history is lost somewhere in the records. In City Hall the records go back only to 1900 and are listed only as "old." Ken Way, the assessor, claims there is no record of its construction — only that it is old.

Bob Beyer, who has lived all of his life in Plymouth, recalls that the building at one time was two houses joined. As he tells it, the family had a spinster daughter who was eager to leave home and go on her own. But her father would have none of it. So he built a section of a house and attached it to their home — making it two in one. The new section he gave to the daughter and that is the building that Carne purchased and renovated.

It is now on the market to rent. But occupied or empty, the old home stands as a throwback to the Gay '90s and is an asset to the Plymouth community.

City OKs bonding details for library project

By Gary M. Gates
staff writer

Another page has been turned in the history of Plymouth's Dunning-Hough Library as the City Commission approved the bonding details for a $625,000 expansion/renovation of that facility.

The commission voted 7-0 Monday night to proceed with the sale of $425,000 worth of Municipal Building Authority bonds for the project.

A $200,000 federal jobs bill grant, made available to the city, will be used to pay the remainder of the project costs.

The city and Plymouth Township will split the debt retirement on the 15-year bonds. The township board earlier authorized its involvement with the project.

The city administration now is waiting for a consultant to determine the best time to sell the bonds, according to City Manager Henry Graper.

Although the maximum interest rate at which the bonds can be sold is 15 percent, Graper anticipates they will be sold somewhere at or below 9 percent interest.

Of the $625,000 total project cost, about $575,000 will go for the construction of a 6,300-square-foot addition to the back of the library, on Main Street next to City Hall.

The remainder of the project costs cover the renovation and modernization of the current facilities, Graper said.

After prodding from the township when the concept was being discussed, the city agreed to upgrade technology at the library as part of the project.

THE CITY AND TOWNSHIP are expected to enter a contractual agreement soon to split the operational and debt retirement costs of the library. The city plans to pay its portion of the arrangement with an already-existing 1 mill library allocation.

The township, on the other hand, will pay its portion from the general fund, according to Supervisor Maurice Breen.

In 1983 the township budgeted about $100,000 for the library and increased that figure to $150,000 for 1984, Breen said.

The $50,000 increase should cover the annual bond payment, based on estimates Breen received. He doesn't an-anticipate a payment on the bonds during 1984 — but budgeted the extra money in the event a payment must be made.

Graper believes the combined efforts to support the library may change its operation in coming years.

"What I think this will lead to," Graper said, "is a very detailed discussion of a library district."

Before the bonds are sold, the city must file with the State Treasury Department for approval.

County rejects $20,000 raises for top lawyers

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Key members of the Wayne County prosecutor's staff who were expecting raises of more than $20,000 a year may have to wait two more weeks. The Wayne County Commission last week rejected a proposed new union contract 7-2, with eight votes needed for ratification.

"I am seriously concerned at the level of increases," said Commissioner Mary Dumas, R-Livonia, who with Richard Manning, D-Redford, successfully shot down the proposed pact.

"Some of them are getting more than elected officials," Dumas added.

After the meeting, she conceded the agreement probably would be approved when more than nine of the 15 commissioners show up. Last Thursday's meeting, on the Schoolcraft College campus, was delayed 40 minutes while the commission waited for enough members to form a quorum.

THE AGREEMENT, negotiated by the staff of County Executive William Lucas, involves 21 persons in the Administrative Bar Association, which has been working without a contract since mid-1979.

Commissioner Milton Mack, D-Wayne, saw "significant advantages" to the agreement. "These employees are dissolving their union," said Mack, noting the group would come under the executive compensation program once the final pact is approved.

"It was embarrassing when the CEO (chief executive officer) imposed a four-day work week and had to shop around for an attorney to represent the county" in a suit filed by employees unions, Mack said. He indicated these executive-level lawyers would be able to handle such a case once their union is dissolved.

"These attorneys are still making less than attorneys in private practice," Mack added.

Commissioner Joseph Jurkiewicz, D-Taylor, noted the group had gone without raises for 4½ years. "This is a situation of catch-up. Unfortunately, there is no good time to make up past amounts," he said.

Jurkiewicz added the cost of the contract is "trivial" compared to the cost in lost lawsuits if the county fails to retain good lawyers.

AS PROPOSED by Lucas and recommended by a commission committee, the pact would raise a division chief in the prosecutor's office from $41,730 to $65,000 maximum a year, an increase of $24,270.

A deputy division chief would be raised from $40,541 to $61,800, up $21,259. A principal attorney would be raised from $39,247 to $58,590 maximum, up $19,343.

All current executive level lawyers would be placed at the maximum step retroactive to last Jan. 1.

Only Mack among Observer area commissioners supported it. Edward Plawecki Jr., D-Dearborn Heights, and Kay Beard, D-Inkster, were absent.

In another labor matter, Dumas found herself on the short end of an 8-1 vote as the commission ratified a 33-month contract with the Construction Trades Council, AFL-CIO. "I have continually objected to the 'prevailing wage' rate," she said. "When others have accepted serious cuts, we are giving a small increase. There are hundreds of (unemployed) skilled workers with no wages at all."

IN OTHER business during the 90-minute meeting, the county commission:

- Kept the 1984 county property tax rate at 7.32 mills. Commented Chairman William Suzore, D-Lincoln Park: "We have nowhere to go. We have been at our limit for years."

- Adopted a resolution condemning the recent Soviet shooting down of a Korean Air Lines plane and demanding "financial relief for the families of the 269 passengers and crew members" who were killed.

- Agreed to a 10-year lease of six floors of Cadillac Towers for the friend of the court office. The department will move from the old County Building.

- Approved unanimously a three-year contract with Local 24 of the Hotel, Motel, Restaurant, Cooks and Bartenders Union, AFL-CIO, covering 80 food service workers in the jail. Opening of the new county jail in 1984 will require the addition of 20 to 40 more persons, according to Lucas.

Gov. Blanchard instead proposes to convert a former mental health facility at Five Mile and Sheldon to prison use. McDonald said a legislative committee has taken no action on the proposal, which the township argues would endanger a senior citizens development at Five and Sheldon.

Virgil Kirila, union steward in the county public works department, charged that unnamed county officials are using county vehicles with private plates for non-governmental purposes.

The commission is required by charter to meet four times a year in an out-county location. Thursday's meeting was the first county commission meeting ever held at Schoolcraft.

Salaries increased

Giving thanks for a job well done, the outgoing City Commission Monday night approved a 6 percent raise for all non-union salaried employees.

On the night before city elections, the commission united in praising the city's department heads and non-union employees. The raise will be effective Jan. 1, 1984.

Saying they granted concessions to the city in a time of need, City Manager Henry Graper said the 40 non-union workers have gone without a wage increase for six months.

Department heads, Graper said, have turned down raises for the past two years.

The 6 percent increase will take the workers through the end of the fiscal year in June.

Mr. Slick: He'll make you rich

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

The Albert Lowry financial machine finished rolling through southeastern Michigan last night, when the last of his weekend seminars on real-estate investing ended at the Troy Hilton.

The blitz began two weeks ago with newspapers ads crying out for you to "Make a Fortune Today" and continued with four introductory, free seminars (at the Michigan Inn in Southfield, the Holidome in Livonia, the Fairlane Manor in Dearborn and the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn).

Things were supposed to conclude with a not-at-all-free intensive, weekend seminar at the Hyatt a week ago, but a sellout throng of more than 300 would-be investors (at more than $400 a head) forced an encore seminar for 60 people this past weekend at the Troy Hilton.

In between came appearances on TV talk shows and appeals to local newspapers for coverage. Not so coincidentally came the release of Dr. Lowry's latest book: "Hidden Fortunes: How to Profit from the New Opportunities of the 1980s."

(Though Lowry's machine was here for two weeks, he was here for just two days. He is on a 5 1/2-week tour of the United States to promote his new book and was off to Chicago after his brief stay here. Both his free and expensive seminars are taught by his fiscal disciples.)

LOWRY HAS a bit of the snake oil salesman to him. Ask him his age and he tells you the age of one of his youngest followers in Lansing; ask him the price of his seminars, and he tells you what you get for free; his newspaper ads use "free" so much you know there's a catch; he wears a gold ring that has a series of plane surfaces jutting off from its middle, surfaces so big you could almost land helicopters on them; he talks of not making a profit on this venture and not making a profit on that venture, Despite appearances, his act is no con. Do what he says, give him his hour a day, and he probably can make you rich.

then later explains he's an expert on hiding profits; he tells you he doesn't make a penny from his book sales, that the money goes to educate children, though later you find out much of the money is going to educate HIS four children, in the form of 12 separate trust funds.

He arrived at the Observer & Eccentric offices in Birmingham in a limo. He wore an exquisite suit with the hanky just so, a shirt with monogrammed cuffs, and a silk tie. His hair was neatly permmed.

He looked like a million dollars. He bills himself as Mr. Real Estate in his ads ("free-free-free-free," they declare, "give me only one hour a day and you can retire in three years").

BUT MAKE NO mistake about this man. Despite appearances, his act is no con. Do what he says, give him his hour a day and he probably can make you rich. It won't be easy, and it won't be cheap; you'll have to pay for the weekend seminar after taking the free one, and you'll have to immerse yourself in a world of creative financing and tricky real-estate and tax laws.

But there is money to be made in the '80s, and Lowry is the man to tell you how.

Look at his track record: An orphan as a child and a butcher by trade, he began dabbling in real estate 20 years ago and, applying the same principles he teaches, soon was a millionaire.

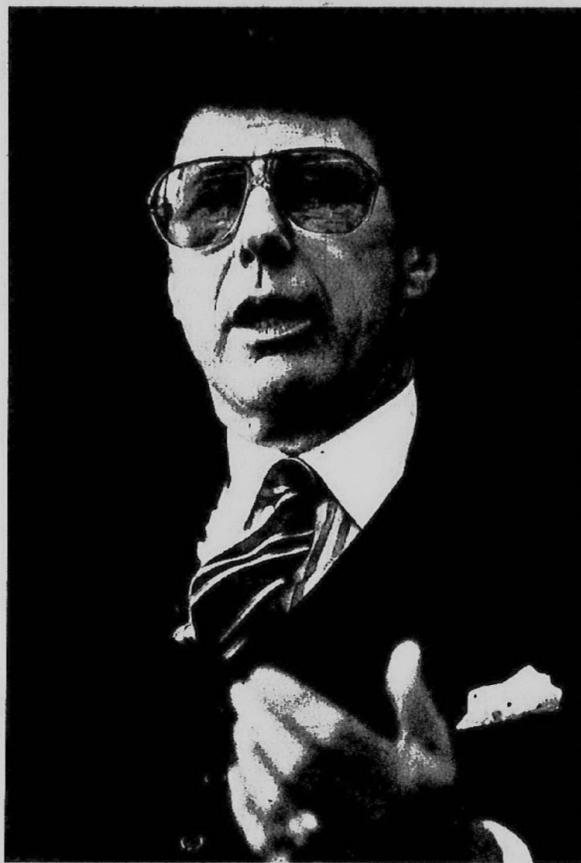

He then went back to school and earned his master's and doctorate; the thesis for the latter grew to become his first book, "How to Become Financially Independent by Investing in Real Estate," which hit the New York Times best seller list in 1977 and stayed there for three years, selling more than 500,000 copies in hard-bound.

His latest book is his fourth, and its huge first printing of 101,000 is the largest by publisher Simon and Schuster this year.

Or listen to one of his followers, Marvin Rich, who teaches real estate at Oakland and Macomb community colleges:

"I'm an example," said Rich. "I paid $400 to take his two-day seminar in 1979 and that was a lot of money to me, then. When I took his class I had one single-family home. I now have 13. It was the most exciting thing to happen to me in a long time. Or since."

Rich writes contracts for the federal government by day, teaches real estate at night and, in addition to his 13 houses, owns a corporation that manages others people's property.

STEPHEN CANTRELL/staff photographer

Albert Lowry: dressed to kill — in the real-estate market.

"Lowry personifies the guy who starts with nothing, uses his head and gets somewhere in the world with good, solid principles," said Rich. "He teaches that you can hardly ever make a mistake in the field of real estate, and when you do, it doesn't hurt that much."

"He does a good job, very professional with a first-class organization all the way. Lowry himself is a gentleman and a first-class guy, the father of all the things going on in real estate in this country now."

LOWRY TEACHES that this country is on its way to becoming a nation of renters.

And in such a nation, smart people own and the dumb rent, Lowry preaches.

Don't be afraid of the tough economy; a tough economy means many foreclosures, which means many bargains for the the savvy. Don't be afraid of high interests, either; because of high-interest rates, sellers are more ready than ever to use creative financing to sell properties.

Above all, don't fall for the standard line that you need 20 percent down and great credit to buy property; Lowry says you frequently can get whatever you want with no downpayment, even if you filed bankruptcy yesterday.

As if bargain properties with nothing down aren't attractive enough, Lowry says that interest deductions and liberal depreciation laws make it nearly impossible to lose on real estate.

"I'm buying a place appraised at $1,050,000 for $750,000 this week," explained Lowry. "That's an instant equity of $300,000. Then, I take the equity and borrow against it, and I thereby have instant cash. Even if you pay 15 percent on the loan, if you're in a 40 percent tax bracket, that loan only costs you 9 percent because the government is subsidizing you."

"Then you take the depreciation on the property (from renting), and that offsets your ordinary income, and you don't have to pay income taxes."

"Where can you get such a fantastic situation? There's nothing that holds a candle to real estate."

LOWRY SAYS he and his wife, Darlene, have bought and sold $6 million in property this year. In their busiest year, 1969, they bought and sold 38 separate pieces of property; their investments now range from Pennsylvania to California.

There is the big house in Lake Tahoe, Nev., the trusts for their children (one of the tricks of the trade is to sell items from the parents' portfolio to the kids' trusts; when Mom and Dad die, Uncle Sam doesn't get any of it — "Hey, we're just doing what the Kennedys and Rockefellers did," says Lowry), a newsletter, a newspaper (Lowry Leader), the seminars and the books (another is planned for 1986) and their excellent reviews (Kirkus Reviews, New York Times).

All that grew out of the humblest of beginnings. Lowry was born in Ontario. When he was 8, his dad left home, his mother died, and he was shuttled off to a series of orphanages and foster homes.

"I was a reject in foster homes," said Lowry. "They didn't like me. I was on trial."

When he was old enough, he got a job as a laborer in a factory, then was business talk

a stockboy, then butcher in a super-market.

In 1963, he and his wife left for the promised land of California and a job that supposedly was waiting for him. They arrived broke, found the job no longer existed and were offered welfare. They turned that down, Darlene found work as a bank teller and they were on their way.

"What's really interesting about America, (it's) the land of the free, there's no question about it," said Lowry. He bought his first piece of property in 1964, a run-down place in Oakland, Calif., with four units upstairs and two down. He turned the one-bedroom units into two-bedroom apartments and raised the rent; the real-estate machine's engine began to fire.

LOWRY BEGAN his seminars in 1972. Since then he or his associates have taught more than 200,000 students. There are 72,000 on the mailing list for his newsletter. There are 102 clubs nationwide, clubs whose members are graduates of his weekend seminars and who pay dues of $15 a year to stay in touch with Lowry and his latest methods.

Not all of Lowry's teachings involve tax laws, depreciation and creative financing. There are simple, practical tips, too.

Such as: don't drive a nice car or wear a suit when scouting neighborhoods for bargains; keep a $100 bill on the outside of your money to impress bankers; instead of hiring a designer, call Sherwin Williams for free color co-ordinating on a building you are thinking of painting; spread repairs out to maximum deductions; worry more about terms than price; rent to singles to achieve tenant turnover.

It's all in the book, which costs $16.95. According to Kirkus reviews, it "offers a practical and adaptable (if occasionally mean-spirited) plan of action for the 1980s. . . . Altogether: a substantive effort that far outstrips such flashy, quick-buck rivals as Robert Allen's 'Creating Wealth.'"

(Information on Lowry's seminars may be obtained by writing The Lowry Group, 3390 Duesenberg Dr., Westlake Village, Ca., 91362.

Yard equipment shop's foe: not enough snow to blow

By W.W. Edgar
staff writer

Leaning forward at his desk looking over a floor filled with snow blowers Bill Saxton solemnly said, "I don't want to make any enemies or disrupt friendships, but I sure wish we will have a lot of snow this winter."

"I am not wishing for a blizzard. That would be terrible. What I would like to see is a few snow falls of a few inches early in the season."

Saxton had good reason to speak as he did for he never will forget last winter. Just when he expected the sale of snowblowers to rise last December the market went to zero and he had a floor filled with them.

At the time he smiled just a bit, explaining that his loss would not be too bad inasmuch as he would not have to order a stockpile for this winter.

Now he has the blowers on hand, along with some of the latest models and he sits and hopes that there will be just enough snow to keep the market moving.

As he looked over the rows of blowers he recalled that the winter of '79 was the garden center's best in history. It was the year he sold 800 blowers . . . an amount almost unheard of up to that time.

"We had two good years before that so when the winter of '79 came along every one wanted to be prepared for blowing instead of shoveling.

"YOU KNOW, this is a funny business. You have to be prepared and you would like to have your sales almost completed by mid-December. That's why I am wishing for a rather heavy snowfall early in the season. If we get it early, it is a sure sign that our sales will rise. Anything after mid-December is a gamble."

As he discussed prospects he recalled one of the good breaks he got along the way.

"Several years ago Chicago had a terrible blizzard and we had very little snow. As a result there was a shortage of blowers over there and we were called up for help. We gladly agreed. We loaded up our largest truck and sent 100 blowers over there and our two boys drove the truck. Otherwise we would have been stuck with them."

Ordinarily a stock pile of 200 blowers is kept on display or readily available. In ordinary years this number is not too much to sell. Years like '79, when sold 800, are just a sort of fluke.

Aside from the snow blowers he is forced to gamble with chain saws and there is an entire aisle filled with them. "You never know when a good wind storm will hit and you have to be ready.

Robbers take cash, tie up store cashier

Armed robbers stole more than $1,100 in cash early Monday morning from the Quik-Pik store at 9450 Lilley Road.

According to Plymouth police, two men entered the store around 3:15 a.m. brandishing a handgun.

The man with the gun ordered a 20-year-old Plymouth man working at the store to go into the back room, police said.

The other man took the employee into the store's back room and tied his hands to a restroom door, while the armed suspect apparently emptied the cash drawer and floor safe.

The armed suspect was described as a white male, about 22 years old, five feet 10 inches tall, 165 pounds, brown medium length hair, clean shaven, wearing blue jeans and a blue jean jacket.

The unarmed suspect was described as a white male, about 17 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall, 150 pounds, brown long hair, mustache, ruddy complexion and freckles, wearing blue jeans, blue jean winter coat, blue ski hat and blue gloves.

Anyone with information regarding the robbery are asked to call the Plymouth police at 453-8600.

roll call report

Grenada tops Congress' agenda

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Oct. 27 through Nov. 2.

HOUSE

GRENADA: The House voted, 403 for and 23 against, to apply the 1973 War Powers Act to the recent U.S. invasion of Grenada, thus demanding that President Reagan remove all troops from the Caribbean island by Dec. 24 or seek an extension of the deadline.

The Senate was expected to follow suit and make the deadline official. It voted once for withdrawal by Dec. 24 (below), but later voided that decision.

Among House members voting yes were both supporters and critics of the invasion.

Most members voting no supported the military action and did not want to limit the president's options for bringing it to an end.

Voting yes: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Dennis Hertel, D-Detroit, William Ford, D-Taylor, Sander Levin, D-Southfield and William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

MARKETING FOOD: The House rejected, 97 for and 319 against, an amendment to weaken the federal "marketing orders" that restrict growers in their selling of oranges, lemons and certain other foods.

Backers said the amendment was pro-consumer because the orders covering 47 crops artificially boost prices to the unfair advantage of agribusiness. Opponents said the regulatory structure protects growers through boom-and-bust cycles and helps consumers by insuring a stable supply of perishable foods.

The amendment sought to retain the Office of Management and Budget's power to recommend abolition of a given order.

The overall bill (HR 4139) was sent to the Senate, where a move also is afoot to remove the OMB's power over marketing orders.

Supporter George Miller, D-Calif., said marketing orders are "price-fixing" and the agriculture community has gotten the government to go along with it.

Opponent George Brown, D-Calif., said the orders are used "not to exploit the consumer, but to ensure... the orderly marketing of a high quality product."

Members voting yes were opponents of marketing orders.

Voting yes: Pursell, Levin and Broomfield.

Voting no: Hertel and Ford.

LEBANON: By a vote of 153 for and 274 against, the House refused to force the withdrawal of U.S. Marines from Lebanon by cutting off funds for the operation.

Killed by the vote was an amendment to the fiscal 1984 defense appropriations bill that sought to end funding for the Lebanon deployment next March 1. The $237 billion Pentagon spending measure (HR 4185) later was sent to the Senate.

Supporter Barbara Kennelly, D-Conn., said "I differ with the president of the United States. I do not agree with his placement of our troops in Lebanon."

Opponent Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., said removing the troops would trigger "the renewal of a savage civil war in Lebanon, with anti-government forces aided and abetted by Syria."

Members voting yes wanted the marines in Lebanon brought home by March, 1984.

Voting yes: Hertel and Ford.

Voting no: Pursell, Levin and Broomfield.

Counselor at new clinic

A court battle between an insurer and her former employer has placed "counselor Sandy" in real jam.

State certified social worker Sandy Prochazka worked with Midwest Mental Health Clinic in Plymouth until September when the clinic lost a four-year legal fight with Blue Cross, Blue Shield.

As the clinic left no forwarding address or phone number, those trying to reach Prochazka have been out of luck.

Prochazka, who works with adults, adolescents and families providing "therapy for normal people with unusual stresses in their lives" has set up practice at Canton Mental Health Services, 8526 N. Canton Center Road in Canton.

Interested persons may make appointments days, evenings and some Saturdays by calling 459-6580.

Also offered are assertiveness classes and self-esteem support groups for people wishing to grow emotionally; marriage and divorce counseling; and child custody evaluations.

Affiliated with the Catherine McAuley Health Center/Mental Health Unit of Ann Arbor, the clinic also offers outpatient treatment for individuals, families and couples, and provides information on mental health services to the community.

Mental health services for persons and their families following hospital discharge also are available.

Alcohol series to be offered

A six-part series on alcohol and alcoholism will be offered beginning Wednesday, Nov. 16, by Plymouth Family Service.

Topics will include attitudes, physiological effects of alcohol, and the symptoms and phases of alcoholism with special emphasis on alcohol and the family.

The family emphasis will stress what happens to family members who are caught up in an alcoholic family system and how to get help.

The series will be presented through diagrams, films, discussions, and lecture.

The series will be held from 6:30-8:30 p.m. Wednesday. Anyone interested may call Plymouth Family Service at 453-0890 for information on location or other information.

Cost of the series is $15 per person or $20 per couple or per family. Enrollment is limited.

Anyone who is or has been concerned or uncomfortable with their own drinking or that of a family member should benefit from attending the series, says Executive Director David Breeden, as well as anyone who grew up in a home where there was a problematic alcohol use.

Plymouth Family Service, besides offering the alcohol awareness series, also provides on-going individual, marital and family counseling.

Kiwanis Club returns to air

The Plymouth Kiwanis Club is returning to the air on WSDP (88.1 FM), the student-operated radio station at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

Last school year the service group produced "Good News From Kiwanis," a daily program which featured news and information of a positive nature.

The club's program this year, "Kiwanis Keynotes," will air on alternating Thursdays beginning Nov. 10 at 4:40 p.m. and will focus on news and information associated with the Kiwanis Club of Plymouth.

The program is being coordinated by club member Ron Hanson of Plymouth, a group supervisor for Winkelman's. Hanson will be assisted by Bill Leonard of Plymouth and other club members who will produce and appear as talent on the program.

Hanson said the main purpose of "Kiwanis Keynotes" is to make the community aware of organizations serving Plymouth-Canton.

"It is a pleasure to again have the Kiwanis Club of Plymouth involved with WSDP," says Andy Melin, station manager. "The club and its members provide valuable services to our community which is reflected by their continued commitment to WSDP."

Cares about pesticide use

To the editor:

I am deeply concerned about the policy of the U.S. government which continues to allow the export of certain pesticides to lesser-developed countries, even though we have outlawed the use of these highly dangerous products in the U.S.

This double-standard for ecological and health concerns aboard must be challenged and corrected if we are to protect the environment for all humankind.

I wish to ask for the support of your newspaper, through editorial or news coverage, in focusing attention on this most critical issue.

As a member of the National Audubon Society and a counselor at Plymouth Salem High School, I am pleased to tell you that our organization is prepared to assist you with background information on this particular issue.

Joint effort: Police departments combat drunkenness

LAW ENFORCEMENT agencies deserve a pat on the back for the recently announced expansion of law enforcement efforts to target drunk drivers.

Local police chiefs worked through the Downriver and Western Wayne County Traffic Officers Association, with a friendly assist from Wayne Sheriff Robert Ficano and the Michigan State Police, to muster up a $400,000 federal grant to put more patrol cars on the road and arrest more drunk drivers.

In Plymouth, at least four officers have volunteered to take part in the program. The Canton Police Department plans to devote six officers to the alcohol enforcement shifts.

It's about time, of course. Oakland County has had such a program going for two years, through the Traffic Improvement Association (TIA) and Sheriff Johannes Spreen.

THE IDEA is simplicity itself.

You get a State Police computer printout of roads where lots of drink-related accidents occur, you deploy your police cars there at the proper times, and you use the extra federal dollars to pay for it.

You also let the drunk drivers know exactly where and when you will be watching. This will be no surprise to drunk drivers. You tell 'em you know who they are, where they drive, and when they drive.

And then you catch them.

When you catch them, you may have portable breathalyzers in the patrol cars to do preliminary checks.

You also let the judges in on the plan. If judges know there are going to be a lot more arrests because society considers drunk driving a high priority problem, they are likely to pass sentences accordingly.

OUR SOCIETY likes its drinks; at least, that seems clear from watching television and scanning slick advertisements.

Any effort to go "dry" is doomed, as the history of Prohibition demonstrated.

Our society also likes its personal passenger vehicles. Not even the most exuberant fan of public transit dreams of taking many cars off the road.

But drinking and driving don't have to mix.

We can modify human behavior even if we can't change human nature. People can be shown it's wise to wait until they get home before having a drink. Groups can be shown it's smart to agree that one party-goer will stick to pop so that he/she is fit to drive the others home.

In this area, the Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) chapter meeting in Geneva Presbyterian Church in Canton have helped increase public awareness that mixing drinking and driving is a serious social problem which demands attention.

That attention is now being given by the police departments in Plymouth and Canton. With the help of the federal funds, the local police departments hope to: reduce alcohol related crashes by 25 percent; increase drunk driving enforcement by 200 hours a month; establish a public awareness program; and, enforce the law against not only the "flagrantly drunk driver" but also against the "even more dangerous driver" with blood alcohol content from 0.10 to 0.15 percent. (The difference, of course, is one knows he cannot drive while the other falsely believes he can).

The Observer supports the efforts being made and salute the police agencies for their involvement.

Credit in the wrong places

IS YOUR mail running like mine? This fall I've been receiving a lot of missives that begin like this:

"Did you ever notice how Xtra expenses always seem to crop up this time of year . . . for back-to-school items, preparations for fall and winter, and even a little pre-season holiday shopping like microwave ovens, or home entertainment units such as stereos, video games and computers?"

"Now Michigan Bankard has an Xtra credit line to help handle those Xtra expenses today — and pay for them without using or affecting your regular Visa and/or Mastercard revolving credit line. We call this Xtra credit line 'XTRALINE' and it's available to you at over 2,500 merchant locations throughout the state of Michigan

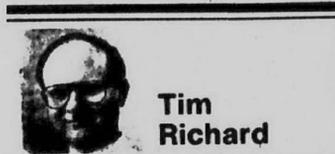

Or this:

"Now, because of your excellent credit record, you are entitled to the prestigious Citicorp Diners Club Card without completing the long, detailed application usually required.

"In fact, you have already been approved for Citicorp Diners Club membership. Just accurately complete, sign and return the enclosed Membership Form, and meet our minimum income requirement, and your Card will automatically be issued!"

AND ALL ALONG I thought the United States of America had a capital shortage.

I was under the impression the federal government, with the massive debts that even Ronald Reagan is making more massive, was out there soaking up all the capital.

I had the notion, from Prof. David Brophy at the University of Michigan Business School, that venture capital firms were few and far between in this state, and that a lot of effort was needed to put inventors in touch with investors.

I had the feeling, from Jean Paluzzi and the National Association of Women Business Owners, that loans were tough for female entrepreneurs to get unless they had a husband (preferably) or a male accountant (acceptable) along to talk to the bank officer.

I believed the black businessman, testifying before the state Senate Economic Development Committee, that blacks had a tough time getting financial support. I thought I recollected that blacks wanted a share of Gov. James J. Blanchard's Michigan Strategic Fund funneled to black businesses because it was so difficult for them to get loans.

I had the idea Michigan was known as a capital short state, from one of those innumerable studies of the economy, and that NBD stood for "No Big Deals."

Wow, was I ever wrong.

FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS are bombarding me with junk mail to urge me to use credit to buy such consumer items as microwave ovens, home entertainment units, stereos, video games and home computers or blow big wads dining out, buying flight insurance and staying in overpriced motels at airports.

Little do they realize my 11-year-old Magnavox just needs a new needle every 10,000 records, my banjo repairs are cheap, and my idea of a luxurious vacation is camping in a tent in the mountains with a poodle to share my sleeping bag on cold nights.

But apparently there are growing numbers of inventors, potential boutique operators and would-be barbecue restaurateurs who would like some kind of backing from their friendly local financial institutions.

Not to mention scads of young couples who would like to buy a house and call it home, if only the interest rates would come down.

One reaches the inescapable conclusion that there is plenty of capital floating around, but financial institutions are offering it to people who don't need it.

Footnote: After writing this, I heard W. Michael Blumenthal, former Treasury secretary and now board chairman at Burroughs Corp., say that the United States is "the most consumption-oriented and least savings-oriented economy in the free world." He is correct, and I think our financial institutions should share part of the blame.

Fascinating champs? Londes and Banks

FROM FAR-OFF California came a most interesting letter the other morning. It was from a former resident of The Stroller's home town in the Pennsylvania Dutch Country who recently had paid a visit "back home."

After explaining his identity, he asked this unusual question:

"In your many trips down Memory Lane, who were the most fascinating champions you ever met? I don't mean just interesting, I mean fascinating characters?"

Well, that was a rare question, but it didn't take long to sort the interesting from the fascinating. And when he had taken another stroll down the lane, he came up with two selections that may be surprising.

Sure, he had chatted with fellows like Jack Dempsey, Mickey Cochrane, Gar Wood, Walter Hagen and a host of others. But the most fascinating never donned a boxing glove, punted a football or rode in a speedboat.

Who were the two?

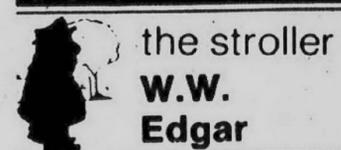

DON'T BE SHOCKED, but after a great deal of thought, The Stroller selected Jim Londes, the Golden Greek wrestling champion, and Newell Banks, who ruled the world of checkers for years.

Usually, out of the ring there is nothing fascinating about a wrestler. But Londes was different. He was a highly intelligent fellow and a great conversationalist. But the most fascinating thing was some of his customs.

For instance, he wouldn't think about drinking anything other than goat's milk while training for a bout. He often had trouble getting it, but somehow, he managed to have a sufficient supply when he came to Detroit.

And he was a great debater when it came to answering the charge that pro wrestling was a fraud, in that many matches were fixed.

Then came one afternoon when we were chatting, and The Stroller argued he could tell just about when the bout the next night would be finished.

the stroller
W.W. Edgar

Londes winced a bit at the claim. But The Stroller told him the bout would end about 10 minutes to 11 o'clock. Sure enough, it ended at nine minutes before the hour.

Yet Londes claimed it was on the level. That was part of the fascination.

BANKS WAS a different type. He never argued, but his training methods were far different.

He gloried in checkers matches while being blindfolded. Sometimes these took several hours. So he walked a lot and read a lot to get his legs and eyes in condition.

Then, starting the day before a match, he would eat nothing but Spanish onions — "just to keep my eyes sharp."

Came a night when he was engaged in a blindfolded match against 16 opponents. When The Stroller arrived on the scene, Banks was in another room. "I'll stay in here instead of being blindfolded," he said.

WHEN HIS TURN came to move the checkers, he walked up and down the long tables eyeing and studying each board. Arriving at a board in the middle of the long row, he looked at his opponent and very calmly said:

"You have made two moves. Which do you want to keep?"

The opponent was stunned. Finally he admitted he had played a trick and was caught.

"You see," Banks said, "that's the reason for needing sharp eyes, and there's no better way to get them than to eat Spanish onions the day before a match and for dinner on the evening of the competition."

Private schools recruiting

A BATTLE IS being waged now in schools throughout this area. It's not a fight with a football archrival or for more tax dollars. But it's a battle for the minds and hearts of 13-year-olds.

I'm talking about the recruiting of eighth graders by private secondary schools. Many outstanding private schools in the Detroit suburbs are competing for those students.

To name just a few, they are: Ladywood in Livonia, Detroit Country Day in Beverly Hills, Roper in Bloomfield Hills, Detroit Catholic Central in Redford and Our Lady of Mercy in Farmington.

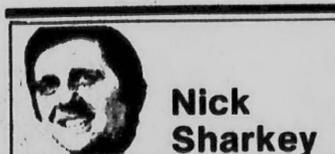

Fall is the peak season for student recruiting. This is the time when parents and children must make a decision about the next four years.

Because there are fewer young people of school age, the competition becomes fiercer.

Tactics in the battle include: slick brochures, open houses at secondary schools, school administrators' "visits" to eighth-grade classrooms and receptions for prospective students.

It's called the free enterprise system.

AS A PARENT, I am in the midst of evaluating the schools available. It's not easy, since the caliber of the schools is very high.

Nick Sharkey

During the past few weeks, I have been exposed to many different high school sales techniques. They have ranged from the hard sell — "Your child can get an education cheaper at another school, but how can you put a price on a lifetime investment?" to the soft sell — "Select the school where your child will be happiest. If he/she is not happy, then he/she will not succeed."

I've been told to look at facilities — "Our computer center is fully equipped for the high-tech future."

I've heard boasting about curriculum — "We require four years of science and math, which will get your child into a top college."

I've been told about the teachers — "Check out their credentials, and you'll find 85 percent have master's degrees."

SELECTING THE "right" school is no easy task.

An open house gives insight into the school's philosophy and the views of top administrators. A visit to the school during the school day can tell how students respond to their teachers. A high school football game gives an indication of school spirit.

Attracting the parent and student is only the beginning of the courtship. The better secondary schools require entrance examinations. They check the grade school records of prospective students. They get recommendations from eighth-grade teachers.

The best schools turn down many students who apply. But even they must recruit, so they get the top eighth-grade students.

Entrance examinations are usually taken in November. By the end of January, the school lets the student know if he/she is accepted. A few weeks later, the eighth grader must formally commit to the high school.

AS DECISION TIME gets closer, I've finally made up my mind about the school. But I haven't told my son because he's still debating the merits of the finalists. Hopefully, he will come to the same conclusion.

Who will win if we disagree? Don't ask. I'm just glad the first phase of selecting a high school is almost over. I'll worry about that another day.

A generation soft on math

Emerging occupational areas in high technology demand a strong background in mathematics and the sciences.

However, a recent study conducted by the Michigan chapter of the American Association of University Women found the number of students taking math courses declined sharply after completion of algebra in high school.

In addition, the National Science Foundation (NSF) recently documented data from a number of sources indicating a decline in student achievement in both mathematics and science.

NSF based its findings upon the following trends:

- Science achievement scores of U.S. 17-year-olds as measured in three national assessments of science.
- Mathematics scores of 17-year-olds as measured in two national assessments of mathematics. The decline was especially severe in the areas of problem solving and applications of mathematics.
- Mathematical and verbal scholastic aptitude tests (SAT) scores of students over an 18 year period through 1980.
- Students prepared for post-secondary study.

REMEDIAL MATHEMATICS enrollments at four-year institutions of higher education increased 72 percent between 1975 and 1980, while total student enrollments increased by only 7 percent.

At public four-year colleges, 25 percent of the mathematics courses are remedial; at community college, 42 percent are remedial.

The NSF study declared, "As many as one-third of U.S. secondary schools do not offer sufficient mathematics to qualify their graduates for admission to accredited engineering schools."

Only one-third of the 21,000 U.S. high schools teach calculus, and fewer than one-third offer physics courses.

BESIDES INSTRUCTION in mathematics and sciences, appropriate courses in modern technology also are not available.

Few systematic attempts are made to integrate learning in mathematics, science and technology.

high tech
Ronald R. Watcke

As a result, little coherent preparation is offered for the disciplinary courses encountered for the first time in the ninth and 10th grades (usually earth science and biology).

This condition is particularly unfortunate because a wealth of data supports the conclusion that students who dislike mathematics and science courses in the early grades, or who receive inadequate instruction in those grades, are unlikely to participate effectively in upper level courses.

We appear to be raising a generation of Americans, many of whom lack the understanding and the skills necessary to participate fully in the technological world in which they live and work.

This phenomenon is occurring at a time when the nation is experiencing unprecedented growth and development in highly technological areas.

SOME OBSERVERS have stated that we are in the process of developing two societies — one which is technologically literate and one society which is not. To interrupt this trend, the National Science Foundation recommends the following three goals for educational systems.

1. To continue to develop and broaden the pool of students who are well prepared and highly motivated for advanced careers in mathematics, science and engineering;

2. To widen the range of high-quality educational offerings in mathematics, science and technology at all grade levels so more students will be prepared for, and thus have greater options to choose among, technically oriented careers and professions.

3. To increase the general mathematics, science and technology literacy of all citizens for life, work and full participation in the society of the future.

During the 1980s, the revolution in technology will create some 15 million new jobs, many of them in occupations and careers that didn't even exist 10 years ago.

Businesses and industry are changing the way they perform tasks dramatically with the infusion of new technology. Many of the old occupations are becoming unrecognizable while others are disappearing altogether. At the same time, many new occupational classifications are replacing the old familiar jobs.

This chart shows how American high school students tend to quit taking mathematics courses once they complete algebra.

Come January 1, you'll still get through to Edna in Engadine or your mom next door... as quickly and efficiently as ever.

You've probably heard about the sweeping changes taking place in the telephone industry, and maybe you've been wondering just how they'll affect the telephone service in your home or in your business.

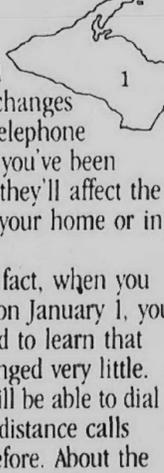

As a matter of fact, when you pick up your phone on January 1, you may be very surprised to learn that your service has changed very little. For one thing, you will be able to dial your local and long distance calls exactly as you did before. About the only immediate change will be how your calls are billed. That's where LATAs come in.

LATA is a new word to all of us. It stands for "Local Access Transport Area." In Michigan there will be five LATAs (which happen to closely approximate our Area Codes—see map). For now, the important thing about LATAs is this:

Starting January 1, 1984, whenever you place a local or long distance call within the LATA in which you live, you will be billed for that call by Michigan Bell, if Michigan Bell is your carrier. When you place a call from your LATA to another LATA in Michigan or elsewhere, you will be billed by another long distance carrier. Some carriers may elect to have Michigan Bell include their charges in the bill Michigan Bell sends you. Others may not, and will bill you directly. We'll be telling you more about LATAs and other calling information as the details unfold.

So, as the expression goes—"not to worry." You'll still have your phone service—as good as ever—because we're working to make the changes in your phone company better changes for you. After all...

IT'S AT&T WE'RE SEPARATING FROM... NOT YOU.

Facts down the line.
Because your telephone business office is busily engaged in normal, day-to-day telephone service matters, we are providing this toll free number as a source for answers to the questions you may have about your changing telephone company. We also suggest that you watch for our informational messages in your newspapers and in your monthly telephone bills. 1 800 555-5000

Thanks to the football friends

To the editor:
Plymouth-Canton Lions Jr. Football League would like to acknowledge the following for their much appreciated support this season; first of all thanks to all our wonderful parents who were so very supportive this year. Special thanks to the Traffic Jam Car Stereo, Gas & Go station and the Sheldon Mobil Gas Station for the use of all that water for our very successful car washes.

Thanks to Bob Card, owner of Canton's own McDonalds on Ford Rd., and Linda Salvadore his terrific P.R. lady, for all their support with setting up recognition day and for our great pancake dinner.

Thanks to Omnicom for showing all our games on TV... I only hope Monty Clark got to see all our Lions victories... Also for filming our cheerleading seminar on Nov. 4. Thanks Omnicom.

Many thanks to our fine Canton Police Department for escorting us through the streets of Canton and Plymouth for our homecoming parade. It was the best parade ever.

Special thanks to the Canton Observer for all your fine coverage of our games especially the great coverage of our "Country Western" homecoming.

To Sam Durante of the Tin Lizzie in Belleville, for all those great dinner contributions, many thanks.

The Lions had a very successful season this year and your community support was greatly appreciated. Many thanks to all. Plymouth-Canton Lions Board of Directors, Barb Timmerman, Battle of bands a team effort

To the editor:
An open letter to our community. It is sometimes difficult to adequately thank those responsible for making an event happen successfully. On October 22, 1983, we hosted the Michigan Competing Band Directors Association's Championship Competition. Thirty bands converged in the Centennial Educational Park to play — that's over 3000 musicians. In spite of the continuous downpour, the show was a fantastic success. The spirit and enthusiasm were high. It went so well because of the input of the following people or groups.

1. Local businesses from Plymouth and Canton;
2. Plymouth Canton Community Schools and their staffs including principals, custodians, teachers, cafeteria personnel, groundspeople and audiovisual people, stage crew and secretaries;
3. The governmental units of Canton Township, Plymouth Township and City of Plymouth;
4. Both the Observer & Eccentric and Community Crier Newspapers;
5. The Detroit Free Press and Channel 7;
6. Media Productions and Omnicom Civilians;
7. The many boosters both local and statewide;

8. The directors and instructors for all the bands;

9. And, of course, the band members who played so well and their parents who worked so hard.

The overall effort was truly representative of our fine community and its commitment to education's excellence.

Dave Artley, President, Plymouth-Canton Music Boosters,

Penn & Box earn praise

To the editor:
Congratulations, applause, appreciation and gratitude are due Lauren Turnbow of the Penn Theatre and Chip Falcusan of the Box Bar and Grill for the tremendous Halloween parties they sponsored for the children of the Plymouth community.

Superlatives are insufficient to describe the planning and organizing that went into the festivities. It was unbelievable.

Popcorn, pop, awards, cartoons and balloons for all who attended far surpassed mere public relations intentions.

Community recognition is due these two local business people for the work and energy involved in these parties.

Thanks for the great fun.

MARTY CYGON, whose son plays football for Plymouth Salem High School, was a winner in the Big 50-50 fund-raiser sponsored by the Blue Chapter of the CEP Athletic Boosters Club. His name was picked at the Northville-Salem football game.

Last week, Ivan Cindrich, a baseball parent, was the winner. Cost is just $10 for a chance to win. Ask a coach about the tickets.

LISA USHER, president of Usher & Company advertising, was named by New Mexico Business Journal as one of the 10 best dressed business women in New Mexico. The selection, based on mailed ballots, asked for evaluations of business women based on overall appearance, professionalism and individuality.

Lisa Usher has been president of Usher & Company since it incorporated about three years ago. She is a graduate of Kendall School of Design, Grand Rapids, and Plymouth Salem High School in 1973. Lisa and her husband, Arthur Usher moved to Albuquerque in 1978. The advertising company has experienced a 400 percent growth in the past year and is moving into larger offices.

SEVERAL LOCAL residents were among the 1,200 special blood donors honored by Southeastern Michigan Red Cross Blood Services at the seventh annual Pheresis recognition reception.

The special blood donors were Donald Keller Jr., Mark Kramp, Ray Roberts Jr., Thomas Hinks, Gloria Ramirez, Paul Toth, Kenlyn Hobley, Kames Hobley, Louis Bidolli, Michael Gregory and Joseph Mehal.

During the pheresis procedure, blood is drawn from a donor and circulated through a machine to remove only a certain component, either plasma, platelets or white cells. The remaining components are then returned to the donor's blood stream. The procedure takes between 90 minutes and 2 1/2 hours. The platelets, necessary for clotting, are used by patients with leukemia and those undergoing chemotherapy for cancer. White cells are needed by patients whose bodies are not producing enough of these cells to fight bacteria infections. Pheresis also provides plasma which contains clotting and infection-fighting factors required by shock and burn patients.

For information about becoming a pheresis donor, call the recruitment office, 494-2787.

BPW to recognize firms supportive of women workers

Working women in the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township have an opportunity to nominate their employer for recognition. The Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club is looking for area businesses that have been supportive of their women employees.

Ideally, the support envisioned will help create an environment through which the employee can develop her fullest potential. This increased potential, in turn, benefits the employer as well as the employee.

The club suggests the following criteria for selection.

Any firm that has: exhibited sensitivity to the needs of its female employees; provided outstanding opportunities for upward mobility and additional training for female employees; provided opportunity to develop a new talent; provided support for dependent care; established liberal parental leave policies; upgraded pension plans for female employees.

ONE, OR ANY combination of the above, would qualify a local company for recognition.

Examples of the types of programs the BPW is interested in highlighting are:

- Special child care, flextime, extended maternity leave, and other arrangements which make it possible for a working woman to integrate a successful career with specific household responsibilities.

- Programs within the company that go beyond hiring, that provide avenues to foster women's participation in all phases of company life; to provide the employee with support groups, a mentor and other positive reinforcements. Any measures which mandate an effort not only to hire women, but to make them part of the company with a view to their future development.

The Plymouth BPW is unaware of any such programs in the Plymouth/Plymouth Township area. The membership is requesting any area woman who has been part of such a program contact the club with this information. Call Joanne Delaney, club president, 455-5171.

Girl Scouts host Girl Guide troop

Girl Scouts and Girl Guides spent a weekend together and everyone had a wonderful time.

Junior Troop 216 from Allen Elementary School spent a day in London, Ontario in June, visiting their Canadian counterparts, a troop of Girl Guides.

The Scouts invited the Guides to come visit them in the fall and they came the last weekend in October. Thirty-one Guides, ages 9 to 14, came by school bus. They were met at the Ambassador Bridge by Darlene Severson, Scout leader, who led them to Camp Linden. Each Guide was paired with a Scout and by the time they had snacks it was 11 p.m. and bedtime.

The Guides were impressed by the camp and its lodges. The Guiders, as their leaders are called, said they wished they had something like the camp.

SATURDAY was busy after a 7 a.m. rise and shine. They had a flag ceremony before breakfast. They worked on badges, hiked and then had a birthday party lunch. Ruth Hoon baked two birthday cakes for the occasion in honor of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council's 25th anniversary.

Pat Levos, president of the council, and Peggy Seery, area association chairman, were guests for lunch. They gave each of the Guides a Girl Scout calendar, Girl Scout cookies and a copy of their water poem.

The Junior Scouts gave their guests a Huron Valley 25th birthday patch, a Plymouth pin, a welcome to Michigan pin and paper and pins from Plymouth Township. Congressman Carl Pursell donated pens from the U.S. House of Representatives. The adult Guides received whistles.

Games and crafts took up Saturday afternoon and dinner preparations — hot dogs and salad bar — began at 5:30 p.m. They had free time before they built their campfire. Bed time was 10 p.m. and they were supposed to be asleep by 11.

GIRL SCOUT leaders Severson, Hoon and Donna Gleason were assisted by parents Kathy Lynch, Cheryl O'Donnell and Sue McBee.

Guide leaders were Elizabeth Fenton and Donna Thomas, assisted by by Guiders Lori Bach, Margaret Montgomery and Chris Riley. Cheryl Sutherland, who drove the school bus, joined in the spirit of the visit with everyone else.

They were up at 7 Sunday morning, and after breakfast, packing, final clean-up and swaps, they said farewell to Camp Linden and their new friends.

Both the Guides and their leaders had expressed a hope that they could do some shopping before they went home. So they came to Plymouth where they stopped at the Rainbow Shop to buy souvenirs — the perfect ending for their trip to "The States."

Guiders Marg Montgomery (left) and Lori Bach enjoy the shopping spree as much as their Guides.

Decisions, decisions is the problem for Canadian Girl Guide Angela Thomas.

MARYLOU JOHNSON/photographs

Winner of year gave it 'everything she had'

She's here, there, she's everywhere! Not too long ago nobody knew how long she would even be, but thank heaven, she is here and many are the better for it.

Who is she, you ask? Well, she's Mary Dingledey, winner of the very first "Winner of the year" award to be given by Canton Township. And well-deserving of it, too, I might add.

In November 1980, Mary, her friends and family discovered that Mary had leukemia. The prognosis for leukemia is often bleak, but Mary refused to accept that and went to work on the long, hard fight to beat the prognosis and turn her life around. In July of 1981, Mary received a bone marrow transplant from her sister. With time and work, and the prayers of many, Mary did just that.

Mary never was a shrinking violet when it came to doing what she felt needed to be done. As a matter of fact, she was running for township trustee, when the disease first reared its ugly head. She already had served on the Canton Chamber of Commerce. She was secretary for the Canton Historical Society. But that is not why you become a Canton Township "Winner of the Year."

To gain that honor, you must face defeat — or seeming defeat — and take what it gives you. Then get, climb, or crawl back up, and give it all you've got.

Mary has organized the annual Canton Blood Drive, founded the Western Wayne County Chapter of the Childrens Leukemia Foundation, is program director for Canton Business and Professional Women, is an active counselor for the Childrens Leukemia Foundation, (counseling people young and old, who have discovered they have the disease). And if that's not enough, she is the chairwoman for our Canton Sesqui-centennial Committee.

Mary will be the first to admit, let me change that to announce, that she did not do any of this alone, nor does she today do any of this alone. It comes with lots and lots of good, strong, loving friends as well as a family that most people only hope for.

I not talking about mushy family that cries together, and wines together, (although there was plenty of that), but a family that carries on, and says if you're going to do it, do it. Oh they'll pick her up if she falters, but doggone it, she'd better at least get up and try. Let me reward that, she'd better do it.

Mary tells me that certain medications, along with the disease, sometimes made her downright nasty. That's the word for it. But there they were, sometimes pampering her, when she really needed it. All the while trying to judge the best they could the times that she needed a good swift jolt, a sharp "cool it kid, we're all in this together."

Then there was the P.M.A., Mary won't let you forget the P.M.A. Positive Mental Attitude. Without it you couldn't play cards with her or even get into her hospital room.

If you gather I like the lady, you're right. I marvel at her strength, compassion, and the amount of people who draw near to give to her, but more to gain from her, spirit, strength and to share a love for each other and life. I could never mention the many friends and relatives that are a big part of Mary. But I'll never make it through the next week alive if I don't mention her immediate family, husband Jake, (super of Canton D.P.W.); Teresa, 22; Doug, 19; and Carol, the youngest at 17 and a real doll.

Canton chatter
Sandy Preblich
981-6354

The award was a complete surprise, and as Mary put it "I was totally surprised, shocked." Her family and friends had kept the secret for three weeks. Mary was pleased to see her children had finally gotten the message and become civic minded as they decided to attend a Canton Board Meeting, as Mary usually does. Mary admits she was not too bright to miss so many signs, like the number of friends of hers that had come that day, and the fact that nobody could find an agenda. But then, that has happened before. She should have added it all up, but then she wasn't even thinking "trickery." Congratulations, Mary.

NEW IN THE area, and long overdue I might add, is the craft co-op bazaar. I know you have heard of a bazaar, but usually it is for a non-profit organization.

I don't advertise every profit-making venture Cantonites get into, but I think the idea is a good one and I'd like to pass it on. You simply get a group of your talented friends, and each of you starts doing what you do best until you have a nice variety of handmade articles ready to go.

In this case, they have it very well organized, as they should, this is their fifth bazaar, their third Christmas bazaar.

Here are some hints on how it works. Right now they have 28 people in the group. There is an entrance fee, and everyone must work a two-hour shift at the bazaar and bring some homemade cookies. They serve coffee, tea and homemade cookies. Everything must be homemade. The bazaar will run for three days but you can well imagine the hours of work that must go into the preparation. But then, if you know that you're all going to sell your goods together, maybe you could have "making circles" the way our mothers had "sewing circles" and enjoy the preparation time. Then, at the end, you and your friends have some money for your own Christmas shopping.

Some of the articles to be sold at this bazaar are pottery, stained glass wind-chimes, folk art, macramé, Christmas ornaments, toys, pine cone wreaths and beautiful dolls. Prices range from $1 to $80, and there are things for children to purchase as well as candy canes for a treat.

It seems like a year's worth of fun in preparation — a lot more productive than a bridge game — shared time, along with a chance to learn a new craft from a friendly expert free.

So maybe you should think about starting your own. Keep donating to the church bazaar, but put in a little more time and make some Christmas money too.

If you would like to see this particular bazaar and get a look at success in action, the address is 44287 Harsdale near Cherry Hill and Sheldon Nov. 18, 19, 20, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and noon to 4 p.m., respectively. They tell me new supplies come out every day so don't think it will all be gone Sunday. For information, call 981-1427.

IF YOU HAVE a different idea for Christmas, give me a call and I'll pass it on. Don't forget the "Single Touch" birthday party with Kathy Freece and J.P. McCarthy at the Mayflower Meeting House tomorrow night, Friday, Nov. 11. I'll be there and I'm definitely not single. But what the heck, Kathy says, "Everyone c'mon down." See you there.

Hypnotist entertains Town Hall audience

Jim Hoke, hypnotist and author, was guest speaker at the second of the 1983-84 Plymouth Town Hall Series. After the lecture in the Penn Theater, his audience had an opportunity to question him at the celebrity luncheon in the Mayflower Meeting House.

Hoke said, "Women are more emotional than men are allowed to be. They treat their emotions orally. They eat, smoke, drink, chew gum — it begins when they are first born and they continue to seek oral gratification. Some smoke instead of eating to kill their appetite."

jects for hypnosis than men. "With hypnosis, you become a non-smoker." He said it was much simpler than trying to stop by yourself. "You sleep in so you won't smoke, you go to bed early so you won't smoke. Your personality goes to pot."

make housekeeping and cleaning pleasant?" was one of the questions. Hoke responded, "You can reprogram your attitude. Get something new for the house to give you a lift. Or work one day a week at something you enjoy and pay someone to clean your house. They may not like housecleaning either. With them, it's a case of deferred gratification — 'As soon as I clean this house, I'll get my money.'" Town Hall speakers usually are asked about their personal life and Hoke was no exception. Yes, he is married. Yes, he has a 16-year-old son.

Hoke was asked what conditions respond to hypnosis and he replied, "Anything emotional." He said half the people in the world are natural subjects for hypnosis. Hypnosis can improve retention and recall, he said.

JIM JAGDFELD/staff photographer

Hypnotist Jim Hoke discussed their experience of being hypnotized with Betty Szilagyi, Gwen Ray and Laurie Hoggatt.

This is his fourth marriage and very successful. "Joy has her own car, her own money and her own life. She is an entertainer."

One of the written questions was, "Suppose that under hypnosis you were asked to do something you would never do?"

"DO YOU HAVE hangups you can't control?" he was asked. "Yes, eating control," he responded. "I'm eating less and have started an exercise program. I'm working out one day a week."

He said everyone can assume and practice the right attitude. Hoke suggested that each person think of someone they admire very much, then list the qualities that makes this person admirable. "The qualities are enthusiasm, courage, loving, sensitivity, giving. These are attitudes, not God-given talents. Attitudes can be assumed and practiced."

TRY TELLING THESE PEOPLE THAT CANCER IS UNBEATABLE

Everyone in this picture shares something in common. They've all had cancer, and are leading happy, normal lives. Through progress in treatment, knowing the risks and early detection, over two million individuals have survived cancer. But most people don't know that. They still think cancer is unbeatable. A fact which over two million people would like to dispute.

How you live may save your life.

Making a dent

Small center collects food, clothing in a big way

Everyday food, clothing, kitchen utensils, bedding, furniture pour into the Plymouth Seventh Day Adventist Church in Plymouth. It doesn't stay long. Too many people need it.

Under the guidance of Irene Peterson, director of the Community Services Center of the church, these items are directed to those in the community and outside.

The demand continues, so she is asking the community for donations of children's clothing which is desperately needed, along with food, toys, clothing for all ages, shoes, household items, baby cribs, furniture, bedding and dishes.

She also would be happy to accept money and your time. Volunteers are needed to help at the center, 4295 Napier, Plymouth, which is open 9 a.m. to noon Mondays for deliveries.

PETERSON'S annual report revealed the donated items have fed and clothed more than 17 families in the Plymouth-Canton area, and helped many others as well.

Full of energy and enthusiasm, Peterson was appointed by the church to meet the needs of the community through the center. Her van has been loaded almost each day this year with donated items which have been distributed to victims of house fires, and to homes for the mentally retarded and elderly.

Her assistants Jeanine Lynch, Karen Marsh and Shirley Henning have sent donations and packed more than 100 boxes of clothing which were sent to the Seventh Day Adventist World Services.

They have also packed and sent over 700 pieces of clothing to a poor village in Poland.

When a church member visited a former Plymouth teacher in South Carolina, he found many of the school children in need of shoes, clothing and textbooks. Peterson managed to collect a truckload of supplies which was sent to South Carolina last month.

More is being collected for another trip to be made in November.

What is it for you? The job? The boss? Traffic? Bills? Pills? Family? Deadlines? Quotas? Getting on top? Or just staying afloat? Are there more conflicting demands in one day than you'd rather face in one week?

This pressurized pace of life can come from your own inner push for recognition and achievement. Or, it can be the result of those outer prodding demands.

You may not be able to alter your schedule or situation. But you can change the way you look at it, deal with it, live through it, and rise above it. Our people are realizing that an inner center of calm and serenity is available. What Jesus said about testing peace that nothing can take away makes a lot of sense.

We all have pressure — but do you have peace?

Duty calls, but God's call is transcendent moral perspectives

bly wondered whether this was really what they had sought after. Often the arrival is much less important than the journey. The belief which arose from such an experience was that the people felt they were "called out."

Albert Schweitzer felt that he was called out of the comfortable successes of his life to an unknown corner of Africa. In this unknown corner of the world, he learned many things about life and about himself.

flow not out of our own motivations but out of a call from One who is beyond and above all. This is what religious people call the transcendent dimension of life.

In an ultimate sense, this call is to go into the unknown. In so doing, it requires that we have faith. Such a call may be identified with the word "God" or it may not.

It is in the transcendent call to go out into the unknown that we learn to live out our faith. In the midst of such a journey, we see rare sights, we are tested by unexpected circumstances.

A friend of mine is going on this Haiti work project. He says he is not sure why he is going. On the deeper level of life this is the truth. When we venture out in response to a call that has this transcendent quality, we are not sure why we go.

ALBERT SCHWEITZER said that he went to Africa because of the story of Dives and Lazarus. This is a story of a poor man who asks for food from the rich man. This story, however, was only the vehicle of the call to leave the known and venture out into the unknown.

Those who see such a story reflected in the stories of the past call this the "hero journey." Whatever we call it, it is the consistent thread of persons being led out to transform this world

Take losses to offset stock market profits

With next April's tax-filing deadline still several months away, it is all too easy to neglect some tax-cutting moves that you would have to make in the next few weeks — before 1983 ends.

Thanks to the likelihood of profits from the advancing stock market — and a new wrinkle that widens the reach of the "alternative minimum tax" — you may have to do some more sophisticated maneuvering.

In the TEFRA, Congress made certain changes in the tax laws that require you to figure your taxes two ways and pay according to whichever one shows you owe the most. It is known as the alternative minimum tax.

HERE IS HOW the tax law might affect you. Until this year, if you exercised an option to buy 5,000 shares of your company's stock at $10.00 each, when the market price was $110,000, you paid no tax on the immediate bargain element of $500,000.

And what if you were also lucky enough to have big depreciation deductions on a real estate investment, enough to reduce your 1983 tax liability to near zero?

Unfortunately, the picture has changed, and you must also figure your tax bite under the expanded alternative minimum tax.

Because your stock option's bargain element is a preference item, you end up owing $92,000 to Uncle Sam.

AND IF YOUR stock plunges next year, you can wind up having paid tax finances and you

on a paper profit you will never realize. Obviously, if you are in a position to exercise a stock option in 1983, you should gather your records and compute your tax bite before deciding whether to acquire the stock now — or if you would save by waiting until 1984. It is possible that not every stock you bought in 1983 rose in value. There may be some real tax benefits if you sell the losers before the end of the year.

The reason is that short-term capital losses that result from assets that have been held less than one year are fully deductible first, against short-term capital gains, then against long-term capital gains, and then against a maximum of $3,000 worth of regular income.

YOU SHOULD ALSO carefully examine the stock you bought only a few months ago that may have increased substantially in value, but that you suspect is reaching a plateau.

Selling will produce a health gain — and heavy taxes, too. So check your portfolio for a bond that you have held for 10 or 15 years, one that is paying a low rate of interest and has a depressed value in today's market.

You can sell it for a long-term capital loss.

Ordinarily, if you are trying to offset regular income, a long-term loss is not as good as a short-term loss. The tax laws require you to have two dollars worth of long-term loss to offset every one dollar of your salary. But it can offset the short-term stock game, dollar for dollar. Selling both the bond and the stock can put you in a position of profit without a big tax liability.

SEMINAR: The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and I will conduct our next financial planning seminar Wednesday, Dec. 7, 1983, from 8-9:30 p.m. at the Michigan State University Management Education Center, Troy. Topics will include year-end tax planning, tax shelters, retirement and comprehensive planning. The seminar is free, but registration is required. For more details, call 643-8888.

Sid Mittra is president of Coordinated Financial Planning Inc. in Troy and a professor of management at Oakland University in Rochester.

Comfortable risk best

today's investor

Thomas E. O'Hara

of the National Association of Investment Clubs

Although the rate of inflation is down substantially from what we had two or three years ago, it is still present.

YOU MAY PROTECT the number of dollars you have, but you can't stop the fact that what it will buy keeps shrinking. It's an amazing fact, but the purchasing power of $1 in 1940 is now only 14 cents.

If you maintained the same cash from 1940 to the present, you would have had no risk as far as the number of dollars is concerned. But the automobile you could have bought then for $1,000 would probably now cost you $10,000.

Your dollars would buy you a tenth of what they bought in 1940. That is purchasing power risk.

ON THE OTHER hand, the value of the stocks in the Dow-Jones Industrial Averages in the same 43-year period has gone from about 150 to over 1,200. The person who had his money in those stocks now would be able to buy just about as much as he could have 40 years ago, excluding taxes.

The record suggests that you really have less risk in holding a good group of stocks than you do in holding cash. However, the value of stocks fluctuates continually, and a person has to understand them to be comfortable emotionally when their money is in stocks.

To gain that understanding, it is helpful to start early in life to acquire a small amount of stock and get used to the way it acts. As time goes on and your understanding increases, you can increase your holdings.

By retirement age, you will be comfortable with a substantial part of our assets in stocks.

Thomas E. O'Hara of Bloomfield Hills is chairman of the board of trustees of the National Association of Investment Clubs and editor of Better Investing magazine. O'Hara welcomes questions and comments but will answer them only through this column.

I am not comfortable when I have my money at risk. To make sure that I do not have any risk, I have all of my money, except my retirement plan (I am retired) in annuities, in bank accounts and in certificates of deposit.

I have a friend who continually chides me for not putting part of my money in stocks. She says the risk is not that great and that I am losing the opportunity for my money to grow and give me more income. What would you advise?

Being comfortable with your investments is very important, and I don't think I would advise anyone at retirement age, as you say you are, to try to change his or her attitude towards investment risk.

You sound to me like you are in pretty good financial shape, and at this stage of life, it is better that you feel secure than be worried about an adjustment to a different way of thinking.

But I would like to say something for the benefit of the large number of people who are still in their forties or early fifties and have a fear of risk as you have.

IT IS IMPORTANT to plan for the future. Having a proper understanding of risk is basic to doing a good job of building an adequate retirement.

It is important to understand that having your money in cash doesn't free you from risk. Cash is subject to a risk called purchasing power risk.

Special day in Bahamas—Remembrance Day

Day to honor the fallen has ceremonial tradition

Friday, November 11, is Veteran's Day. It used to be called Armistice Day because the World War One armistice was signed on Nov. 11, 1918. In the Bahamas they call it Remembrance Day. Whatever you call it, it has the same theme: remembering those who have died for their country in war.

I was in the Bahamas last year when they held their annual Remembrance Day services. Other travelers will be there this year, stopping for a poignant hour in the middle of a warm-weather vacation to honor the men and women who went to war. This year, as we remember the war dead from Lebanon and Grenada, seems an appropriate time to share that experience.

I was on a balcony looking down past the white helmets and the red-and-white striped jackets of the Royal Bahamian Police Force when the Remembrance Day ceremonies began around the cenotaph in the Garden of Remembrance.

Palm trees made a fringed skyline against the buildings of downtown Nassau, framing the green grass, the flower gardens and the people beginning to converge from all directions.

THE BAND was below us, brass instruments gleaming, playing a slow march while the dignitaries gathered on the lawn. The officials wore dark suits and long-sleeved dresses in spite of the hot day. From the street, we heard the sound of approaching drums as the first contingent of schoolgirls rounded the corner in dark suits and white blouses. The sound of drums got louder as the uniform band appeared, the drummers' arms rising and falling rhythmically in the heat.

The grass on either side of the lawn

1-of-a-kind traveler Iris Jones contributing travel editor began to clutter: boy scouts with their ties askew, girls in paddy green skirts and caps, nursing students, mothers in flowered hats, toddlers trying to stand still in their stiff Sunday shoes.

A big old man in a grey suit and a black hat, his hair a curly white mop over a solemn black face, appeared on the balcony behind me. He had a lot of memories on his face as he looked down on the gathering group below.

AS WE WATCHED, a single white-uniformed soldier stood at parade rest at each of the four corners of the cenotaph.

There was complete silence, even among the children in their stiff Sunday shoes, as a black limousine parked at the end of the walk and the Governor General arrived. Out of the silence a booming voice began the familiar words: "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

After the first hymn, and the reading of the first lesson, the girls in the green caps begin to collapse in untidy little heaps in front of the now-silent drums, hugging their knees in their efforts to sit still. The small children at the edge of the crowd began to get restless.

By the third lesson even the woman

The Garden of Remembrance in Nassau (far right) is a solemn sight as it fills with silent soldiers, sailors, school children, government workers, civilians and all manners of Bahamians who gather to honor fellow countrymen killed in conflict. The Governor General (above) lays a wreath at the cenotaph, an empty tomb that was built in honor of the fallen.

in the mauve silk dress and matching veil had placed her hymn book on the grass. The guard of honor stood with bent heads at each corner of the cenotaph. The old man behind me, hot as he was, never relaxed his stance or took his eyes off the wreaths being placed around the cenotaph below.

FINALLY the soldier with the leopard skin over his shoulder blew the final trumpet. There was two minutes silence. The band played "Day is Done." There were the last unbearable moments of Auld Lang Syne.

I saw a collage of faces in the Sunday afternoon sun: the Governor General, the dignitaries laying wreaths, the armed services representatives with their arms flung in salute, black faces, white faces, old faces, children, business suits, uniforms, all dark shapes against a green lawn, all surrounded by the colored Sunday clothes of the on-lookers.

The band rose, still playing music, and the old man's voice behind me rose in song, softly at first, and then louder: "lest we forget, lest we forget..."

After the national anthem, the crowd diminished, the dignitaries left, but the honor guard remained, still at attention around the flower-bedecked memorial to the dead.

We thought it was over, but there was one final touch. Pipers led the crowd downhill to St. George's wharf where they threw memorial flowers into the sea, singing softly as the wreaths and bouquets floated gently between the Straw Market and the cruise ships.

If you are ever in the Bahamas in November, Remembrance Day ceremonies are held on the Sunday following November 11.

From the balcony, the travel writer observed the white helmets and the red-and-white striped jackets of the Royal Bahamian Police Force as the band members played during the Remembrance Day ceremonies in the Garden of Remembrance.

Football fun: play for pain

THERE'S THIS THING we humans have with pain. What psychologists might call a love/hate relationship. Perhaps the highest paid group of professional people on the face of this planet are those entrusted with our health. They spend most of their adult lives training and searching for ways to help us live longer without the burden of pain. I can tell you now, they're working toward the wrong goal. Instead of trying to curb pain, they should try to cure the human attraction to it. Maybe that's why the oath doctors take is so Hippocratical.

People just don't make sense. All that money spent to stay physically well, and on insurance to insure staying physically well. Then we go out and purposely subject ourselves to pain.

NOW, IN SOME cases there may be a semblance of logic to this. I mean, if a guy is getting something of worth for risking his physical well-being, it's understandable.

Take professional athletes, for instance. They get paid lots of money for playing games meant for kids. They inflict and absorb their fair share of pain, but they are normally remunerated handsomely.

And amateur athletes? Well, they do have dreams. Play hard enough, work hard enough and get a college scholarship or maybe a pro contract.

I GUESS THE GUYS I can't understand are those living in a Michelob Light commercial. The guys that sacrifice anything because a beer is at stake. Or just pride.

Every Saturday morning during the fall, men fitting the above description gather behind the old Pierce School in Birmingham to knock heads. It's organized, mind (?) you. It's called the Michigan State Flag Football League.

The Birmingham league is open to any team that wants to pay the $225 entry fee. They've even got a state championship series scheduled.

A dozen teams from six leagues throughout the state — Southfield, too, sponsors a league — will play a double-elimination tournament, with the championship game scheduled for Nov. 20 at Birmingham Groves. Top teams from the Southfield and Birmingham circuits (both are in their playoffs at present) will take part.

Plymouth sponsors a football league, but it's touch football. Instead of ripping a nylon strap from a player's belt to make a tackle (as in flag football), in touch football you just touch a player with one hand and he's down. Play is stopped.

IT ALL SOUNDS reasonable. There are plenty of rules to prevent over-active play in both flag and touch. No fumbles. Head slaps. Nose twisting. Nothing like that.

But that doesn't mean it doesn't happen. Who's to say what's aggressive and what's over-aggressive? Not everybody plays for pain, mind you. Some play for the competitiveness. The thrill of victory. They probably don't even like pain or aggressive play.

Quarterbacks, for instance. Still, the risk of physical debilitation should make some of these guys think twice. And for what?

Compare these football standards:

- Pro and college players are coddled and pampered by the media and play their games in front of huge crowds and TV audiences. Recreation players? They play on a back lot in front of a handful of wives and friends — and maybe one newspaperman crazy enough to go and watch.

- Pro and college players wear first-rate equipment, cushioning the blows delivered and taken. Recreation players are forbidden padding. The smack you hear on every play is flesh on flesh, cushioned by nothing more than a sweatshirt.

- Pro and college players compete on artificial turf, sometimes in the comfort of the great indoors. Recreation players — let me relate this: On one recent Saturday morning I awoke, peeked outside and went back to bed. The rain poured down like out of a Morton's salt box, and it was so cold the Know what? I never drove my three seater and those guys were playing anyway.

- Pro and college players get money or a free education for risking their bodies. Should something happen, the finest doctors in the land are called in. Recreation players pay to play. If they get hurt and miss work, their bosses give them dirty looks. Or something worse.

RECREATION FOOTBALL isn't blossoming everywhere. In Farmington, the sport was dropped due to a lack of interest. Maybe getting up at 8 a.m. on Saturdays didn't appeal to many.

Other communities dropped the sport for economic reasons. With cutbacks in police forces, these areas couldn't afford to have cops making constant runs over to the playing field to break up fights.

But in Birmingham, the move is toward expansion to two flag leagues next year. Teams were turned away this season.

I guess all this reminds me of that vintage Dick Butkus story. When an interviewer asked the old Chicago Bear linebacker what he did for fun, he said he enjoyed movies.

Then he recalled a horror movie in which a victim's head rolled down a flight of steps. Often, Butkus said, he dreamed of doing something similar to a running back.

All for the love of sport. Call in the psychologist

Warriors stop Salem

By Brad Emons
staff writer

A new champion will be crowned in Western Lakes girls' basketball.

Walled Lake Western saw to that Tuesday night, holding off defending league champion Plymouth Salem, 29-26.

Western, sporting an 18-0 record, meets Livonia Bentley (16-2) for the championship Friday night in Walled Lake.

The determined Rocks played well enough defensively, but were unable to shake loose offensively against Western, led by 6-foot-3 junior center Val Hall.

Unlike the first meeting earlier this season, which Western won by 14 points, Salem had its chances to win.

"We wanted to control the tempo and we did," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "We wanted to challenge their big players at the basket, but there was a reluctance at times because of the 6-3 girl. When we did challenge we had good opportunities."

ALTHOUGH Hall scored just five points, her presence was felt underneath.

She grabbed 14 rebounds and sealed the victory, blocking Fran Whittaker's attempt at a reverse layup with 31 seconds remaining that could have put the Rocks even.

Western's Nancy Leach then was fouled and made one free throw with four seconds remaining to end the suspense.

"The defense was something else on both sides," said Western coach Tom Stiener. "Right from the start we stressed defense. We pride ourselves on defense just like they do."

The Warriors, however, had a little more scoring punch.

Sherri Davis, who scored 10 points to share game-high honors with Salem's Pam McBride, got loose for two key baskets off back-door cuts in the final quarter.

Western also made 11 of 18 free throws compared with Salem's four of nine.

THOMANN, protesting a blocking call, was hit with a technical foul with 6:36 to play and Barb Watts stepped to the line, making both shots to give the Warriors a 24-20 lead.

But Salem pulled within two, 28-26 on Whittaker's basket with 1:12 remaining. The Rocks then caused a Western turnover, but couldn't buy the equalizer.

"We hit some perimeter shots and that was a key to the game," Stiener said. "We had some people step in and make the shots."

"And I thought we kept our composure well under pressure."

Using a patient, ball-control offense, Salem jumped out to a 10-5 first quarter advantage as McBride and Dawn Johnson combined for eight points. (Johnson finished with nine points).

The Rocks, however, went stone cold in the second quarter, scoring just two points, both on free throws.

"IN THE FIRST quarter we had the court spread good enough, but then they made a few adjustments defensively," Thomann said. "In the second quarter we had some great scoring chances, but we just didn't put them down."

Western enjoyed a five-point lead in the third quarter, but Salem finished the period trailing by only two, 22-20, thanks to McBride's six points.

"We have to take this game and go from here," said Thomann. "The season doesn't stop here."

"There are some disappointed people, but I look at our players and they accepted the challenge."

"The talent is as good as any in the league, but we were beat twice by Walled Lake Western — we were just beat by a better basketball team I'd say. Maybe somewhere down the line we'll get another chance to play them."

Kim Majeske (left) and Gwen Cirbes, 12 and 13 years old respectively, have their sights set on a national figure skating title. The pair skate out of the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Skaters stalk titles

By C.J. Risak

Need an example of what sports can do for the youth of our country? Check out Gwen Cirbes and Kim Mojeski.

They're figure skaters. And they're good at what they do. At the Eastern Great Lakes Regional in Cleveland, Ohio, last week, Cirbes placed third in novice singles and Mojeski was second in intermediate singles.

Both showed considerable poise in an interview Tuesday at the Plymouth Cultural Center Ice Arena, where they train four hours a day, six days a week. They answered questions clearly and directly — something of a novelty in this profession.

But, then again, Gwen Cirbes is just 13. And Kim Majeske is only 12.

FEW GIRLS their age could handle such a thing as a newspaper interview without getting flustered. Few people any age can.

It didn't bother Gwen or Kim. That's the kind of poise sports can teach.

"I went into open skating through the parks and recreation program," Gwen, an eighth grader at Central Middle School, said.

"My older sister got me interested," answered Kim, who is in seventh grade at Dearborn Riverside.

Another benefit of an athletic career? Discipline.

working out for four hours. Kim joins her twice a week in the morning, then sacrifices her afternoons for workouts.

Kim's schedule doesn't interfere with her classwork. For Gwen, "They have to arrange my schedules because I go in late" due to a long morning practice.

The rigorous schedule doesn't bother either girl. "I don't really get sick of it," Gwen said. "Well, maybe practicing the old stuff a little. But we're always learning a lot of new things."

"It's really a lot of fun," Kim added.

THEIR IMPRESSIVE performances in the regionals qualified them for the Midwestern Championships Nov. 30 to Dec. 3 in Minneapolis, Minn. The top three (a group of 12 competed) in each of four regionals qualified.

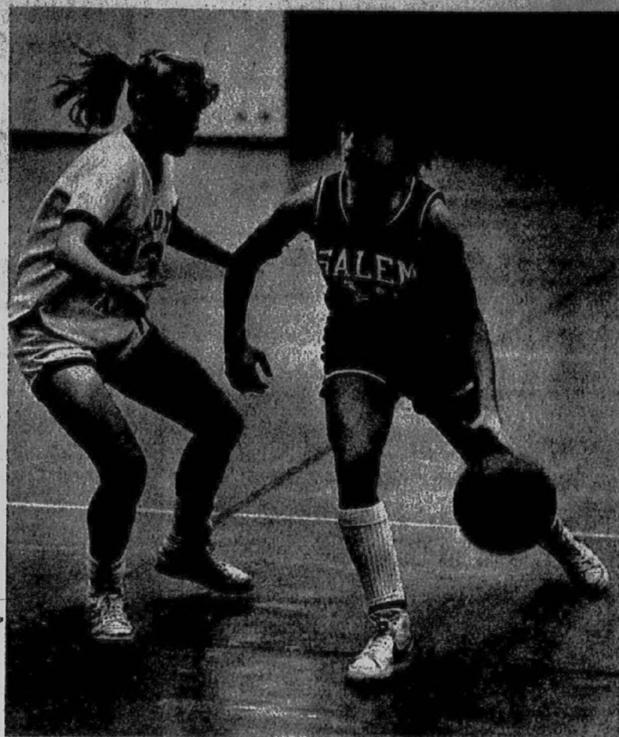

Intermediate competition ends at the Midwesterns, so that's it for Kim. Should Gwen place in the top three, she would qualify for the nationals.

Both girls need to pass a certain number of tests to move up in quality of competition. Gwen's next jump would be to juniors; Kim's would be to novice.

Neither is certain if they'll make a jump next year. Part of the decision certainly will be made by their coach of nearly three years, Teresa Romano.

"We'll just keep going and see what we can do," said Gwen matter-of-factly.

Both girls smiled easily, without a blush or giggle between them.

Last shot misses — Canton falls

Amy Brow's basket with 25 seconds left to play proved to be the game-winner Tuesday as Livonia Churchill nipped Plymouth Canton, 44-42 at Canton.

Canton led 18-14 at the half but fell back by seven when Churchill exploded with a 19-8 scoring surge in the third quarter. The Chargers went up by four, 44-40, on Brow's basket but Canton scored quickly to narrow the gap to two.

The Chiefs then forced a turnover with 15 seconds remaining as a Churchill player stepped out of bounds with the ball. Canton worked for an open shot but ended up launching a 20-foot jumper at the buzzer that missed.

"We had a good defensive effort on that last shot," said Churchill coach Roger Springsteen. "We changed some things and I think that confused them."

Patti Schmidt led the winners with 14 points. Brow had nine and Ladonna Sevakis contributed eight, all in the third quarter rally, to go with eight rebounds.

Lisa Russell topped Canton with 14 points. Lou Ann Hamblin chipped in with 12.

Canton, now 6-11, hosts winless Farmington Harrison at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Churchill is 7-11 for the season.

LUTHERAN NW 36, PLY. CHRISTIAN 30; Plymouth Christian adjusted to every defense

Farmington Lutheran Northwest threw up against it — except the last, in losing Tuesday at Northwest.

"They played us man-to-man and we played that fine, they played us zone and we played that fine," said Christian coach Jeff Cook. "Then they went to a triangle-and-two and we adjusted but didn't execute well."

"We took shots that weren't as good as against their other defenses. They made it difficult to get the ball into Debbie Van Hoose's hands. It was definitely a game we should have won."

Since Van Hoose is the team's leading scorer, that spelled trouble. Christian tied it at the half at 18-all, but fell behind by six after three quarters and never recouped.

Van Hoose netted 12 points to top the Eagles. Colleen Carroll and Valerie Andries each added six. Julie Mueller scored 16 to lead Northwest.

The loss dropped Christian to 4-7 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference (MIAC) and 7-11 overall.

At the MIAC coaches' meeting Monday, Van Hoose and Kim Allen were named to the All-League second team. Andries earned honorable mention accolades.

The two teams meet again at Pioneer Middle School Friday.

Curtain falls on good-bad '83 grid year

Quarterback Mark Tindall had an outstanding season. He rushed for 551 yards, passed for 558 yards, and caught two passes for 15 yards. He scored five touchdowns rushing, threw for seven touchdowns, and caught a pass for a TD.

By Chris McCosky

The football season is over. The Plymouth Salem Rocks finished fourth in their region. They will not be in the playoffs.

But nobody in their right mind is going to say Salem had a bad year. The Rocks finished 8-1, second to Walled Lake Central in the Western Lakes Lakes Division. An 8-1 season is far better than many people, including coach Tom Moshimer, thought the team was capable of.

For the Plymouth-Canton Chiefs, the disappointments started before the season began and continued until the final gun sounded.

Salem began the season shocking a highly-touted North Farmington team. The next week they came within 20 yards of getting upset by Plymouth Canton.

IN WEEK THREE, Salem looked unbeatable in a rout against Stevenson. The next week, the Rocks were almost defeated by Livonia Churchill.

The Churchill game would be the last bad ballgame the Rocks would play.

They walloped Farmington and Livonia Bentley. Then came the heartbreaker. The loss to Walled Lake Central. Though totally outplayed, the Vikings scrambled from a 10-point fourth-quarter deficit to pull out the win.

The Rocks would roll over their last two opponents, Northville and Redford Union, but the damage incurred in the Central loss was irreparable.

Moshimer let his team know how he felt about their season after last week's finale. There were tears in his eyes when he told them how proud he was of their performance.

"This has been the most fun I've had coaching in 25 years as a high school coach. This ranks as one of the most enjoyable seasons I've had," he said.

SCOTT JUREK, MARK Tindall, and David Bunch. These three senior Rocks compiled impressive stats over the 1983 season.

Jurek, in addition to being the team's second leading tackler, carried the ball 150 times for 821 yards. He scored nine touchdowns and three two-point conversions. In his career at Salem, Jurek has football

gained 1,573 yards and scored 20 TDs.

Tindall rushed for 551 yards and five touchdowns, completed 27 of 64 passes for another 558 yards and seven touchdowns. He also caught two passes for 55 yards and a touchdown. In total, Tindall amassed over 1,200 yards for Salem and was involved in 15 scores.

Bunch was just about everywhere on defense. In the seven games he appeared in prior to the RU game (he was injured and didn't play against Bentley), Bunch made 30 solo tackles, had 55 assists, four quarterback sacks and three interceptions. Salem outscored its opponents 238-106 in 1983.

FOR CANTON, the season was a mess. Before the season began, coach Rich Barr learned that nine players who were expected back, would not be there for various reasons. Among those nine was Bob Wasczenski, the All-League receiver/safety who transferred to Farmington Harrison.

"It was a combination of things," Barr said. "Not having the kids come out meant that we had to make a lot of changes. And we really were left without a lot of depth. The losses just seemed to compound everything."

An injury to Paul Fletcher, Canton's best lineman, in mid-season was the clincher for the Chiefs. Canton played tough its first two games, but lost to Bentley and Salem. After that, things seemed to snowball. After seven straight losses, the Chiefs won their first, and only, game of the year against Farmington.

A lack of a passing attack hindered the Chiefs. They gained 1,174 yards on the ground, but only 474 through the air.

ROD BOYD was the leading rusher for the Chiefs with 496 yards in 115 tries. He scored one TD. Rodney Williams gained 396 yards in 96 tries with two TDs.

Jim Kaske was the most productive Chief in terms of points. He scored a touchdown and had nine extra points for 15 points.

Dave Szary was the leading tackler with 12 solos, 44 first hits and 27 second hits. He also recovered three fumbles.

"Sure, I'm disappointed that we only won one game," Barr said. "Even though we were in every game except two. It's just whatever happened, happened."

Next year? Canton will have a quarterback battle between Tony Aiken and David Knapp, both talented players. But the question again will be the line.

Salem will graduate 23 seniors off the 1983 team. Bunch, Tindall and Jurek are included in that group. It looks like Moshimer will have his work cut out for him again next year.

Canton swimmers eye best season in history

Janie Johnson, one of Plymouth-Canton's pre-swimmers, showed up before last Thursday's regional meet against Northville and informed coach Hookman that she was ill and unable to compete. He figured we would win by seven or eight with Ginnie. Without her, I didn't think we had a chance," Wellman said.

Wellman didn't know how good Margaret Gilligan was going to perform. Or Kelly Kirk, or Kim Elliott, or Massey.

The Canton team came through to lead the way to a 91-81 victory against the Mustangs.

MARGARET SWAM was the best she has all season. "Getting ready for the league meet," Wellman gilligan won the 200-yard freestyle with a time of 2:31.6. She also won the 500-free in her best time of 5:38.0.

Kim Massey was also a double-winner for the team. She broke her own varsity record in the 50-yard with a 26.19. She set the previous mark this year with a 26.3. Massey also won the 100-free with a 58.0.

Canton divers went one-two-three. Cindy swimming

Sherwood amassed 193.15 points, Shawn Neville tallied 190.9 and Megan McGow had 144.5.

The other Chief first came in the 400-free relay. Gilligan, Juli Zantop, Michelle Stackpoole and Massey swam a 4:11.9.

THE KEY to the win, Wellman said, was the performances of Kirk and Elliott.

Kirk took second in the 200-individual medley (2:31.8) and the 100-backstroke (1:10.7). Elliott took second in the 100-breaststroke (1:15.3) and third in the 200-IM (2:34.1).

"This was an important win for us," Wellman said. "We have only lost one dual meet in the league and we are 7-1. If we beat Livonia Churchill Thursday, we will have our best record of any swim team, boys or girls, in the school's history."

Canton is 9-2 overall this season.

Prep season ends for grid pickers

The prep football season is officially over for thirty-two teams from across the state will participate in post-season play, culminating in the championship finals in each of the four classes Saturday, Nov. 26 at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Tickets, $3.50 per session (Class D-A and Class C) can be purchased in advance for the championship by sending a check to Michigan High School Athletic Association, Inc., 1019 Trowbridge Road, Lansing, MI, 48823-9990; or the Pontiac Silverdome, 1200 Featherstone Drive, Pontiac Area fans can get a glimpse of regional Class B playoff action as Dearborn Heights Robichaud (9-0) and Saline (9-0) tangle at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Westland John Glenn High School.

As for predictions, both Brad Emons and Chris McCosky ended the final week with 11-2 records. Emons won with an overall season record of 83-30, compared with McCosky's 75-38 mark (not bad for a rookie).

Ocelot spikers set for region tourney

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

How well Schoolcraft College's volleyball team fares in the NJCAA Region 12 Championships this weekend will depend largely on its ability to reach a level of play it has been able to attain only on occasion this season.

In short, the Ocelots have to be good — consistently. "I'm sure not counting us out," said Schoolcraft coach Joe Jandasek.

"We're going to have to play steady. We've got the capability to play with anybody if we play aggressively consistently. "By aggressive, I mean we have to take charge at the net and keep pressure on our opponents. We've been playing too conservatively, a kind of 'see if you can do the job without pressing to the limit' attitude. We can't do that because it gives our opponent the opportunity to come back."

SCHOOLCRAFT WILL OPEN the 14-team, double-elimination tournament at 9 a.m. Friday at Schoolcraft, which is hosting the tournament.

The Friday morning match is against Grand Rapids Community College. Cuyahoga East Community College from Cleveland will play Kalamazoo Valley CC in the other 9 a.m. contest.

The Schoolcraft/Grand Rapids winner will play Lakeland (Ohio) at 1:30 p.m. Friday. Jandasek figured Lake Michigan, a nationally-ranked team, to be one of the favorites.

Other community college teams competing are Henry Ford, the Eastern Conference champion; Muskegon, Lansing, Southwestern Michigan, Vincennes (Ind.), Kellogg, Sinclair (Ohio) and Mott.

Saturday the tournament resumes at 9 a.m., with the championship match slated for 8 p.m. and, if another match is needed, 10 p.m.

SCHOOLCRAFT TUNED UP for the regionals by playing in the 15-team Can-Am Tournament at the University of Windsor last weekend. It was not one of Ocelots' best performances. They won just two of eight pool play games, splitting with Brock (Ont.) University and Lake Superior State.

In the consolation tournament, Schoolcraft topped Lansing, 15-11, 15-11, then "played well for the first nine points" Jandasek said against Waterloo (Ont.) College before "really letting up" and losing, 15-9, 15-1. Oakland University eventually won the championship, beating Grand Valley.

Jandasek singled out the performances of setters Beth Wesman of Livonia Churchill and Tina Boll of Ida for consistently solid performances.

Last Tuesday (Nov. 1), Schoolcraft wound up its Eastern Conference season with a tight, five-game victory over Mott, 16-14, 16-18, 15-13, 13-15, 15-11, at Mott. The victory assured Schoolcraft of at least a tie for second place behind unbeaten Henry Ford (8-0) with a 5-3 mark.

S'craft title hopes ride high

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Good things happen when a team wins.

Like awards and honors and post-season tournament berths. All of which started rolling toward Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team this week.

Ocelot coach Larry Christoff was voted Region 12 Coach of the Year for the second-straight season and for the third time in the six years such an honor has been awarded. The balloting was completed Monday night at a meeting of region coaches.

In addition, Schoolcraft sophomore Jim King was the top vote-getter in a coaches' ballot for region players to be submitted for All-American accolades. King and teammates Doug Marshall and Manny Murua were named to the All-Region first team, while Hashim Aldabal and Dan O'Shea were chosen to the second squad.

SCHOOLCRAFT, WHICH won the region title with a 7-1 mark, will play in the NJCAA Inter-Regional tournament against Lewis and Clark College, the Region 24 (southern Illinois) representative, at 1 p.m. Saturday at Triton College in River Grove, Ill.

The winner plays in Sunday's 11 a.m. championship contest against the Bethany Lutheran of Minnesota-DuPage winner.

Victory in the Inter-Regional means a trip to the NJCAA national tournament in Trenton, N.J., Thanksgiving weekend. Eight teams will vie for the title in the double-elimination nationals.

Lewis and Clark was the region champ a year ago, beating Macomb CC in the finals, 1-0. Christoff called his first-round opponents "basically a good passing team. That's their style."

AS FAR AS SCOUTING Lewis and Clark, Christoff explained that wasn't his style.

"I'll watch a game but rarely will I base my strategy on that," the Schoolcraft coach said. "You never know if a kid is having a good game or if he'll even play against you. You could aim your practices at stopping one player and he might not even play. That would ruin a whole week's worth of work."

Christoff's strategy is formed in the first three to five minutes of the game, a span he called "critical. I determine weaknesses and strengths and then make the necessary adjustments."

"Few coaches are outcoached. Players and how well they're coached in team concept determine the outcome."

Christoff is entering the tournament with high hopes, partially based on strong practices during the last week. The game will be played on Triton's artificial turf, a surface Schoolcraft's players have not played a game on this season. However, they did get some practice time on the much faster surface at an indoor arena in Farmington last week.

CHRISTOFF CALLED his selection as Coach of the Year "a great honor, not so much for me but for the whole program. For the program to be successful, it needs support like I get from (athletic director) Marv Gans."

Christoff called King, a Livonia Franklin grad who played fullback-midfield for Schoolcraft, as the one who "initiated the attack for us and had to play back on defense, too." King and Marshall, who was the team's top goal-scorer with 18, are two of only three sophomores on the squad.

Kickers get respect

Three straight losses in national tournament play may not sound like anything to be proud of.

Yet consider that Schoolcraft College's women's soccer squad is in its first season, that it is the only two-year college team of its kind in the region (which is why the Ocelots earned a berth in the NJCAA tournament — by default), and that the roster and practices fluctuated much of the season — and just surviving through nationals is good reason for optimism.

Schoolcraft, which finished its regular season with a 3-3-1 mark, absorbed a 7-1 pasting in its first game at the nationals to Morrisville (N.Y.), top-ranked nationally among junior colleges. The eight-team tourney was played at Essex Community College in Baltimore last weekend.

"After that game some opposing coaches felt, 'Should they be in the tournament?'" Schoolcraft coach Ed Dudek said.

SCHOOLCRAFT SHOWED its detractors it did belong by staying close to its next two foes. The Ocelots lost to Nassau (N.Y.) in their second game, 2-0, and to Florissant (St. Louis) in their third by a narrow, 2-1 margin.

"That last game could have gone either way," Dudek said. "Before the game, people were saying maybe we should be dropped, that the selection process should be changed. "After that (Florissant) game, they decided to keep the format for another year. I think we impressed them, showed them that players from this area do have good skills."

Dudek is hoping the sport will transcend from its present club level to varsity next year. "I can really recruit if we do (go varsity)," Dudek said.

Big debts, low savings threaten the recovery

By Tim Richard
Staff writer

America's economy will rebound in the next year, but long-term recovery seriously endangered by the mounting federal debt, according to W. Michael Blumenthal, board chairman of Burroughs Corp.

"If we want to get the budget in shape, you can't do it by cutting waste. You can't do it by cutting defense. It must be a package deal. Every element must make a contribution," said the former treasury secretary under Jimmy Carter.

HE AND OTHER former treasury chiefs — Democrats and Republicans — are urging national leaders not only to cut spending but to raise consumption taxes and encourage savings.

"Our savings are not growing. We have the most consumption-oriented economy and the least savings-oriented economy in the free world," Blumenthal said.

The former college economics instructor Monday addressed the Detroit Economic Club and guests from Lawrence Institute of Technology, the University of Michigan and Southfield public schools.

"THE SAVINGS pool is too small to continue the recovery," said Blumenthal, blaming a projected series of $200 billion-a-year deficits for soaking up 51 percent of available savings this year, 57 percent in 1984 and 55 percent in 1985.

In normal recoveries, he said, government debt absorbs 30 and 21 percent of savings in the second and third years of recovery.

Besides eating up savings, how are federal deficits hurting the economy?

Blumenthal said deficits keep interest rates high, luring in foreign currencies. This generates a demand for U.S. dollars, keeping the dollar's price high.

A COSTLY DOLLAR raises the price of American exports and lowers the prices of imports — particularly Japanese autos.

"The dollar is over-valued by 20 to 25 percent," Blumenthal said. "Cut demand for the dollar, and the yen will go up. You won't need to worry about quotas and (domestic) content legislation."

He said the trade deficit of $70 billion this year, rising to an expected $100 billion next year, would cost American labor 2 1/2 to 3 million jobs.

Moreover, if developing countries default on their debts — $750 billion and rising — some American banks, which hold much of it, could go out of business, he added.

W. Michael Blumenthal

"WHY CAN'T political leaders act?" asked Blumenthal. He answered his own question: "Politics, politics, politics."

"To get the budget in shape requires difficult decisions that will not be pleasing to voters. Everyone is dug in. Everyone is engaged in codified double-talk."

"The president says taxes must go down and defense must go up."

"Liberals say their kind of spending should not be reduced and certain taxes should go up. Privately, all know action must be taken."

BLUMENTHAL advocated:

- Holding the line on civil service and military pensions. A federal employee with 30 years seniority can retire on 80 percent of his last pay while a similar employee in private industry draws 50 percent.

- Putting a lid on medicare, whose increases he described as "astronomical."

- Holding down on social security because "we cannot afford 100 percent indexing" (tying benefits to the consumer price index).

- Placing a value-added tax on consumption, raising revenue and relieving the income tax's pressure on savings and capital gains. To those who raise a liberal eyebrow at consumption taxes, Blumenthal replied "it's possible to have progressiveness by exempting food."
- Closing unspecified "loopholes" in the income tax.
- Taxing energy in an unspecified way.

U.F. Torch Drive nears 45% mark

United Foundation Torch Drive volunteers announced today that $20.2 million, or 44.9 percent of this year's $45 million goal, has been raised to date.

The announcement was made at the second report meeting at the Book Cadillac Hotel by Torch Drive general chairman Thomas F. Russell, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Federal-Mogul Corp.

Representing the metropolitan Detroit-area banks and financial institutions, Michigan National Bank of Detroit president Andrew Brodun reported contributions of nearly $2.4 million, or 100.1 percent of quota.

ADDRESSING more than 350 volunteers, Brodun said, "In these difficult times, the banking and financial institutions have once again demonstrated their concern for the residents of the metropolitan Detroit area and are reporting significant increases from their 1982 gifts. Their outstanding support of Blumenthal said he has "absolutely no interest or intention" of seeking elective or appointive federal office. "I've been there twice." He plans to stay at Burroughs until his retirement in seven years.

Besides serving as treasury secretary, he was once in economic affairs in the State Department and in the mid-1970s was being pushed for a Democratic Senate run.

the 1983 Torch Drive will help meet the increased needs of our community."

Reports from four campaign units showed:

- Industrial Unit — $2.7 million, 53.9 percent of quota.
- Commercial Unit — $3.5 million, 51 percent.
- Service Unit — nearly $3 million, 45.1 percent.
- Schools, Government and Professions Unit — $2.2 million, 49.2 percent.

WINNERS OF the 1983 Communications Contest were announced.

Receiving top awards for their winning entries were Burroughs Corp., Detroit Diesel Allison, the Detroit Police Department, and Michigan Bell Telephone.

Cost for all report luncheons are met through the UF's meeting sponsorship pool.

Locally produced albums don't bring fame, fortune

By James Windell
special writer

THE CLOSEST THING to Nirvana, if you're a musician, is your own album. Right?

And if you've got that well-produced album, you're on your way to a best-selling record. Right again?

It ain't necessarily so. Local musicians who have produced their own albums have found the way to fame and riches in the music industry is not exactly paved with vinyl.

Sheila Landis can attest to this. A singer and songwriter with outstanding talent, Sheila Landis has just produced and released her fourth album ("Singer/Songwriter") on her own Shelan label. But she's not making a lot of money from the sale of her albums and neither are they bringing her and her band the kind of steady work she enjoys.

"I think as I keep making albums they become less important to me," said Landis, a Rochester resident.

AFTER GIVING her first album the greatest push because she was riding on great hope and enthusiasm at the time, she now adopts a different attitude toward the making of records.

"In the beginning I had all my hopes so high and essentially nothing happened," she said. "So now I just do them as sort of a hobby." A hobby, she added, that costs her about the price of a car each year.

That translates into about $3,000 each year she records an album. Other musicians may spend up to $30,000 to record an album.

"I'm very realistic because I don't expect anything to happen with my albums," Farmington Hills reeds player Larry Nozero conceded.

A musician with a large Detroit-area following and successful appearances at last summer's Montreux-Detroit International Jazz Festival, Nozero said he doesn't record his own albums for profit.

"You always want to recoup your costs," said Nozero, who recently released "Up to Your Neck" on his own Larcon label. "But you have to be realistic about what your potential is."

NOZERO IS well aware of what his potential is. After appearing as a sideman and studio musician on hit singles and albums for other people while building a following with his own jazz group, Nozero can reasonably expect to sell several thousand albums locally.

It's getting the album in record stores outside Detroit that presents the greatest problem after an album is finished, however.

"Finding distribution for a small label is very, very difficult," Nozero said. "Often it's not worth it for big record distributors to deal with a small independent label and deal in terms of 500 records."

If distribution of an album is a major problem after a record is finished, the economics of producing an album from the start tends to be prohibitively expensive for most musicians and bandleaders.

"I just save the money through the working gigs," said Landis, "and when I've got wad of four or five thousand saved, then I hire musicians, rehearse and go into the studio."

With the experience of four albums behind her, Landis reports the largest amount of money goes to the musicians she hires to play on the album. Musicians who work in a studio must be paid union scale during a session.

THEN, THE COST of a sound studio can range from $50 to $175 an hour. That cost could soar into the thousands of dollars with actual recording time, overdubbing, mixing and assembling the final tape.

The next chunk of money goes to the pressing plant where the master tape is converted into a vinyl disc. On top of these costs are expenses related to promotion and distribution.

Detroit's Wendell Harrison, a top-notch reed player who has fronted a successful jazz group for years, has put out six of his own albums. His last record, released in 1982, was "Organic Dreams" on his own Wenh Records label.

"You've got to sell albums if you're going to stay alive," said Harrison, who years ago formed Rebirth, Inc., a non-profit organization to deal with his recordings and promotion.

"To get any kind of club or concert work, you got to have an album out there — whether it's selling or not," he said.

Harrison presses as many albums as he can afford — which may be as few as one, up to 2,000. "We then try to keep them in print as long as the people want them," he said. When the demand is depleted, he records a new album.

ALTHOUGH HE, like many local musicians, has a new record project in mind most of the time, recording plans often get shoved aside when the demands of reality intrude. "Records spend money," he quipped, "while concerts and tours pay the bills."

John Katalenic, a pianist who lives outside of Redford in northwest Detroit, recently recorded and released his Katalenic-Kwek Band on his own Great Dane Records label.

This was a more expensive recording project than most because he and saxophonist Gary Kwek front a big band. Katalenic hopes the record ("Morning Sun") serves some purposes.

"The benefits of an album are that it gives you more exposure and a chance to get in the real game," Katalenic said.

The real game, as defined by Katalenic, is national distribution of an album and being able to book tours outside your hometown.

But musicians who record on their own label, and therefore qualify as small independent record companies, are not equipped to distribute nationally.

Reeds player Larry Nozero relaxes in the studio of his home in Farmington Hills. Nozero's newest album is "Up to Your Neck." Records by the local artists named in the story are available at Harmony House Records & Tapes, as well as some other record outlets.

WHAT'S IT WORTH?
A ratings guide to the movies

Bad	$1
Fair	$2
Good	$3
Excellent	$4

"Caddyshack" (1980), 9 p.m. Friday on Ch. 4. Originally 99 minutes.

This is the week for 1980 films, starting with "Caddyshack," a callow comedy from the "destruction is funny" school of humor. Rodney Dangerfield manages a few zingers and Ted Knight is a fine comic foil, but Bill Murray is wasted and Chevy Chase, as always, seems out of place. Some recent comedies — Mel Brooks' "Blazing Saddles," for one — with a little editing, have come off better on TV than they fared on the big screen, though. So there's hope, however slim.

Rating: $2.70.

"9 to 5" (1980), 9 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 2. Originally 110 minutes.

There's no hope for "9 to 5," the would-be secretary's liberation film that takes three down-trodden working girls and subjects them to the humiliating paces popularized by Lucille Ball's "scatterbrained dame" school of humor. Dabney Coleman, a wonderful comic actor, can't even right this mess of a picture that begins with one good idea and doesn't know where to go from there. Jane Fonda, Lily Tomlin and Dolly Parton co-star.

Rating: $1.98.

"Airplane" (1980), 9 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 4. Originally 88 minutes.

Could "Airplane" be the funniest film of the past few years? It may be, which says as much about the state of comedy films as it does about this hit-and-miss laughter. "Airplane" certainly has its moments — dozens of them — many provided by the offbeat performances of Leslie Nielsen, Lloyd Bridges, Robert Stack and Peter Graves.

Robert Hayes and Julie Hagerty also star in this takeoff on airplane disaster films that rates high on both the laugh and groan meters.

Rating: $3.

"2001: A Space Odyssey" (1968), 8 p.m. Friday on Ch. 50. Originally 139 minutes.

No discourse here — just a recommendation: See Stanley Kubrick's "2001." Note its subtle wit, the overwhelming irony and watch for clues, or links, that explain the mysterious ending. Keir Dullea and Gary Lockwood co-star.

Rating: $3.50.

"The Professionals" (1966), 12:30 Tuesday night on Ch. 7. Originally 117 minutes.

Lee Marvin, Burt Lancaster, Robert Ryan, Jack Palance, Woody Strode and Claudia Cardinale propel this western adventure beyond the realm of standard, shoot-'em-up, cowboy fare. A clever plot twist at the midway point assures continued interest.

Rating: $2.90.

Detroit Rep does Polish play

"Valesa, a Nightmare," a new play recently smuggled out of Poland, continues through Sunday, Dec. 17, at the Detroit Repertory Theatre, 13103 Woodrow Wilson, Detroit.

Performances are 8:30 p.m. Thursdays-Saturdays and 7:30 p.m. Sundays. For ticket information, call 868-1347.

"Valesa" is a docu-drama that deals with the effects of martial law in Poland, Lech Walesa's influence and the indomitable spirit of the Polish people, particularly the workers.

The play was written by Jerzy Tymicki, translated and adapted by Maya and Jeffrey Haddow. "Valesa" is directed by Bruce E. Millan, the repertory's artistic director.

Silent 'Don Juan' screened

Modern audiences will be able to see the 1926 silent-era classic "Don Juan" presented in grand 1920s style at 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 12, at the Michigan Theater in Ann Arbor.

General admission tickets are $8.50. There is a $2 discount for students, senior citizens and Michigan Theater members. For more information, call 668-8397.

'Forty Carats' ought to dazzle but doesn't

Performances of the Plymouth Theatre Guild production of "Forty Carats" continue at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday at Central Middle School at the corners of Church and Main streets in downtown Plymouth. For ticket information call Ann Schaffer at 453-7505 or Robin Galick at 261-2875.

By Victoria Diaz special writer

Although a few parts of it manage to sparkle, much of the Plymouth Theatre Guild's recent production of Jay Allen's "Forty Carats" seems in need of some vigorous polishing.

review

The two-act comedy, directed by Al LaCroix, focuses on the May-December romance of a 40-year-old New York divorcee, Ann Stanley, and her 22-year-old beau, Peter Latham.

Individually, Marie-Louise Capote as Ann and David Ide as Peter are capable enough in the delivery of their lines. But as a couple these two don't always appear to be genuinely drawn to each other in their actions.

Most of the time, when Ide kisses Capote, for instance, it's so quick and perfunctory, he makes it look as if he were performing some kind of unpleasant but necessary duty. With only a couple of exceptions, there's no lingering whatsoever, no discernible tenderness or warmth, no apparent romantic spark all around.

SINCE THE play itself is centered around a strong attraction these two are supposed to have for each other, what's left when this attraction often just doesn't seem to really exist? Not a lot.

One bright spot is Gail Mesner, cast as Ann's outspoken and eccentric mother, Maud Hayes. Parading around in her cock-eyed costumes and delivering her own brand of advice in a quirky voice that is comical in itself, she threatens to steal every scene in which she appears.

Karen Wendt, in a minor role as Peter's mother, Christine, is also impressive. Besides being exquisitely rich, thin and blonde, Wendt's character is also warmly human and surprisingly funny.

Tobin Hissong is appropriately goateous, and ultimately endearing, as Ann's part-time ex-husband Billy Boylan.

Laurel Twichell as Ann's daughter,

Trina; Wayne Belzer as Trina's wealthy, middle-aged suitor, Eddy, and Donna Barnes, who plays Ann's secretary, Mrs. Margolin, seem miscast.

The sets, regrettably, don't add to the production. They're inappropriately chintzy and unattractive. Moving them around between scenes presents an even bigger problem than their appearance.

SCENE CHANGES take too long, eventually become a tiresome distraction and manage to slow the pace of the play significantly.

Makeup seems carelessly applied. The gray in Hissong's hair, for instance, looks as if it had been applied with a large brush, dipped in a bucket of aluminum paint. Besides looking downright absurd, it is maddeningly distracting.

In addition, Mesner, because of some heavy-handed attempts to make her face look older, appears instead to be suffering from a bad case of five o'clock shadow.

Allen's "Forty Carats" is a strong, well-wrought play, with some very funny lines, and some believable, endearing — even memorable — characters. It's regrettable that, with such promising material, this version of it doesn't shine just a little brighter.

Michigan Opera Theater breathes life into gothic tale

By Mary Jane Doerr special writer

"Faust" hasn't been a popular opera in the United States for a number of decades.

Although it was the first production of the Metropolitan Opera a century ago and is still enjoyed in Europe, American audiences tend to be jaded in respect to the simplistic religious theme of the story.

The Michigan Opera Theater (MOT) production at the Music Hall is an enlivened version of this dark and dreary Gothic tale, adding humor to the interpretation of the devil Mephistopheles, visual drama to accompany the music during the scene in hell, and innovative staging that doesn't follow the traditional "Faust" productions.

The result is a high-quality blend of music and theatrics that doesn't back away from the opera's biblical theme but brings the chorus on stage to visualize the conflict between Good and

review

Evil, dramatizes hell in sexually explicit terms, and gives a contemporary conception to the final scene that exemplifies the meaning of the opera. Bernard Uzan is responsible for this creativity.

The show has a little bit of everything: quality singing, lots of movement in the chorus, humor, passion and a combination of the traditional staging we expect in opera and some non-traditional staging we aren't expecting.

MUSICALLY SPEAKING, on Friday evening tenor Vinson Cole was brilliant in his "Salut! demeure chaste et pure" (and throughout the evening) and was equally matched by conductor Willie Anthony Waters, who always seems to turn in a high-quality performance from the MOT orchestra.

Suzanne Action's well trained MOT chorus was vital and strong both evenings and a credit to her and MOT.

On Friday, opening night, Marguerite was sung by film star "Diva" Wilhelmina Fernandez, whose career has taken off since that new wave film. She has two records soon to be released and will sing in Paris again this year. Her debut at the New York City Opera was postponed because of a strike.

But, Fernandez should pick her parts carefully. She is a powerful actress and has great dramatic qualities, as she aptly demonstrated in the final prison scene and in her passionate love duet with Cole, but Marguerite is too sweet a part for the harshness in her tone. Mephistopheles has been portrayed as diabolical and vulgar with no likeable aspects. MOT stage director Bernard Uzan has given him a humorous side, particularly in the duo between Mephistopheles and Marthe in Act II. Both nights Mario Pratinicki made a favorable impression as Marthe.

BOTH JOHN Cheek in Friday's cast and James Butler in Saturday's carried out Uzan's intentions. Cheek was solid in both his singing and acting and almost debonair as the devil — if that is possible. Butler is robust, forceful and crude in his delivery with his powerful and expressive bass voice.

Especially for those who have seen a more serious and traditional Mephistopheles, this interpretation gives relief to the story.

'Finally!'

Affordable arts and crafts

By Mary Klemic
staff writer

For what looks like a quiet, unimposing business, the Penniman Showcase of Art and Crafts already has made quite an impression since it opened in mid-October.

Owner Scott Smith and his partner, Tony Guerriero, show a visitor a guest book containing rave reviews from others who have stopped in at their establishment at 827 Penniman, just off Main in Plymouth. Many of the written comments said "Finally!" or "Lovely!" or express similar sentiments. And, the partners said, already every artist in the showcase has sold at least one work.

"We've had a tremendous response," Smith said. "There has been nothing but positive comments.

"There's an element of surprise when people come in here," he said. "It may look expensive, but it isn't. It feels very warm and comfortable.

"Here you can get a gift, box, bow and card for under $20. So few people realize that art is so affordable."

SMITH RESEARCHED and started the showcase out of his interest in art. He holds two degrees in design and a certificate in art origin from the Pratt Institute in New York.

The idea behind the Penniman Showcase is to take away the intimidation many persons feel when they go into a gallery, Smith said. He describes the showcase as a combination of an art gallery and retail and service businesses.

"You cannot go anywhere and buy something decent for $100," Smith said. "We offer the finest at a very moderate, affordable price, and you can feel like you're a Rockefeller when you come in here."

Along with fine arts, Penniman Showcase offers such crafts as basketry, wool rugs, sculptures, pottery, jewelry, kiln-fired glass, laminated wood, weavings, blown glass, porcelain and photography.

SERVICES OFFERED by the showcase include boxes and bows and layaway. Penniman representatives also are available to work with decorators, speak to organizations and invite art students to the establishment. Smith hopes to start a bridal registry and educational workshops on art next year.

Prices at Penniman Showcase begin at $3 and average less than $40, according to Smith. Jewelry starts at less than $10 and goes up to $100. The prices for pottery average $15 to $20.

"It gives the average person a chance to buy art at a reasonable price," Guerriero said.

Smith is proud of the fact that the showcase's displays are made up of American art by both local and national artists. Artists are encouraged to bring work into the showcase.

"We're always open to new work," Smith said. "We're very willing to see anyone's work."

THE PENNIMAN Showcase will take special orders, such as portraits, or items redone in a different color or pattern.

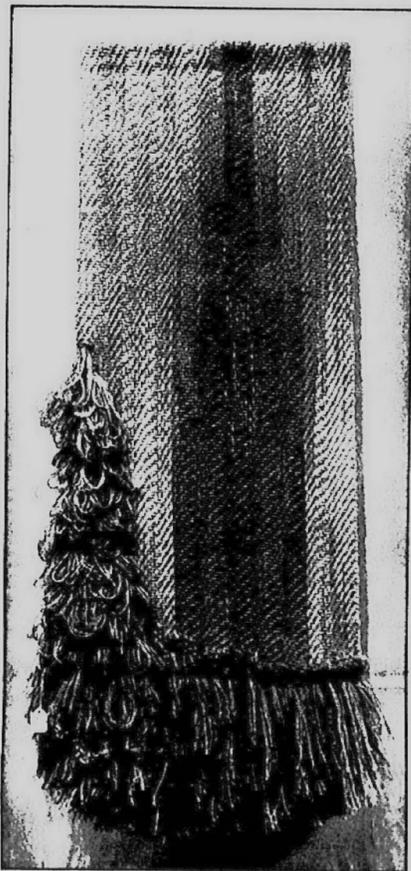

"Everything is a one-of-a-kind original," Smith said. "That's our nice feature. It's an art show every day.

"Everytime you come on in, you can see something you never saw before."

Unusual items at the showcase include Christmas ornaments and glass plates that resemble watermelon slices. Porcelain and stoneware are the more popular works, Smith said.

Penniman Showcase is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Fridays, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays, and noon to 5 p.m. Sundays. Special holiday hours of 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on weekdays will begin later this month.

"People can just come in to browse, and enjoy the beautiful art produced by American artists," Guerriero said. "That's our concept."

JIM JAGDFELD/staff photographer

Visitors to the Penniman Showcase are encouraged to "feel like a Rockefeller" as they browse among the fine arts and crafts on display (below). A variety of arts and crafts, including this wall hanging (above), are on display at the Plymouth shop owned by Scott Smith and Tony Guerriero.

'Cricket' contest clicks

This is another in a series of lessons on art and drawing by special columnist David Messing. He has taught for eight years and operates an art store, Art Store and More, 18774 Middlebelt, Livonia. Messing encourages questions and comments from readers. You may write him at his store or c/o Observer Newspapers, 23352 Farmington Road, Farmington MI 48024.

By David Messing
special writer

A month or so ago I announced that I was having a contest. Anyone could enter. You were supposed to come up with a logo and symbol for a fictitious jean company called "Crickets."

I asked that the art work be camera-ready. The entries were to be in by Oct. 29.

Well, it's over. After looking carefully at each entry, I have put the results in today's Artifacts. I hope you enjoy reading about the contest, even if you didn't enter.

Art contests are like learning patience. You don't gain patience until you are pushed to the end of the patience you already possess. There you have the choice to re-evaluate and grow in patience or simply lose your patience and become upset.

When you win an art contest you possess the winning prize and enjoy the moment greatly. But it seems to me that you learn more from losing than you do from winning.

Of course, everyone is different, but when I win or do well in a contest I think "yeah! For my next painting I will do..." On the other hand if I lose or show poorly, I ask myself, "Did I over-paint, or under-paint, did I over-express or understate, was I too bold or too vague, etc.?" So the art contest is like patience. If you win, you are happy. If you lose, you can win by learning to re-evaluate yourself.

BUT LET'S TALK about a winner. David Brichford is a winner. David is 25 years old, tall and sports a handsome beard (of course, his beard isn't as nice as mine, but it looks good on him). David has (take a deep breath) a bachelor of science degree in architecture from Lawrence Institute of Technology, 1980.

He must be pretty versatile because he is doing engineering drafting for Diclemante-Siegel Engineering firm. David admits that drafting is rather boring and wishes to move more into the area of design in architecture. However, with the building trade depressed as it is, David's architectural goals are temporarily on hold.

But the Lord never closes a door without at least opening a window somewhere. So David is finding a new love, which is commercial design. He told me that in architectural design, you are constrained by codes, and in advertising design you are free to do whatever looks good.

So David is attending classes at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit. There he hopes to make his already-excellent portfolio a little more commercial looking.

Let's look at the winning design. The stitching bordering the pocket breaks to form the outline of the grass, and on the tallest blade of grass sits a very clean and stylized cricket. It is no accident that the shorter blade of grass slowly leads your eye towards the symbol.

"SOMEWHERE BETWEEN" concept and rendering, the logo shrunk to become a little too small on the pocket design," David admits.

But what a logo! In designing a logo you try to capture the feeling or cognition of the name. To me David's cricket logo looks somewhat oriental, which conveys a "kung-fu in blue jeans" feeling. Or at the risk of being too biological, the strokes comprising the letters make me think of an insect's legs.

The execution of the lettering is excellent. Notice that the first C and the second C are identical. The illustration accompanying the pocket design is done with half-tone screens, pen and ink. Truly a piece of (camera-ready) art. If a picture is worth a thousand words then I will take a break and let you look at David Brichford's art work.

Now before some of you get severely hummed, I know what you are thinking "It's not fair to compare my work to David's because he has a degree in design."

If I have learned anything in business it is to apologize. I say "I'm sorry" all the time. If I am out of certain stock or late framing a picture or even behind in my work, I always must say "I am sorry."

I even apologize for things I have no control over, like unemployment, inflation and poor weather. "I'm very sorry."

But I am really sorry about not dividing this contest into age groups. Some middle schools made the cricket contest part of their lessons. I had some entries from high schools and some from adults or young adults. So I will offer another contest in a couple of weeks and there will be three divisions. Again, I'm really sorry.

I WOULD LIKE to mention, however, when it comes to ideas, Central Middle School in Plymouth is loaded with 'em. Greta Schnurstein wasn't content to use bugs for the symbol. She chose to use the game for her symbol. Her pocket design was two cricket paddles crossed. Below she added copy reading "it's not just a game anymore."

Joann Bitale came up with a pleasing and usable design. Joann's design was four diagonal lines with a little cricket on one of them, but it worked well.

Tammy or Tommy Brown had a good concept with a cricket jumping into a folded pair of jeans with the copy underneath reading, "Jump into Crickets." This kid has got to become an artist because the signature is already illegible.

In designing a logo, sometimes the type face that best fits the name is unexplainable. It just looks good. So it is with Laura Zoltowski's cricket logo design. It is kind of angular and pointy and sort of straightish yet it conveys a feeling... a cricket feeling.

Carrie Calhoun came up with a convincing looking "CJ" stitch design and a nice placement of the logo.

Brenda Barta came so close to what I imagined for this contest that I would like to award her a $10 gift certificate and an Art Store & More T-shirt.

Her design has a cricket jumping onto the pocket from the left and off to the right. Here the lines of his bounce become small as he comes to rest on the sewn tag on the right pocket. Very good, Brenda.

ASIDE FROM the winning entry, the three best illustrated designs would be those of Diane Geis of Northville, Barbara Gosney of Garden City and Grant Carmichael, a student at Central. Also, thank you for the many good entries from Ladywood High School. The students of Ladywood had very interesting designs and clever copy to go with them. Now don't forget to look for the next contest.

One last note I would like to end this article on. I once golfed with my uncle... once. His ability in the game is too far above mine.

When I drove the ball I had the sometimes-good, sometimes-bad aspect of seeing where the ball landed. When Uncle Clair drives the ball, his tee usually lands somewhere in the vicinity of my ball. His ball, though out of sight, will assuredly be in the middle of the fairway.

After a few holes with my uncle, I feel like my clubs are those giant fluorescent plastic golf clubs for little kids. Instead of reaching for, and learning from, his excellence, I quit trying. Don't let this happen to you in art.

Quitting is a decision only you can make; it is not forced on you. So look at David's design and illustration. Even if he is more educated or shows greater ability than you, this is an opportunity to grow.

Instead of running, start reaching; instead of quitting, keep competing. As a matter of fact, I'm even going to try golfing with my uncle again... so long as he buys and goes halves on the cart.

ASK YOUR REALTOR

TONY GARRISI GAIL HODGE

Q. With Winter coming why should we market our home now? Mrs. M. Westland

Q. Our marketing agreement just lapsed. Our Realtor says we should renew our contract now. We are thinking of waiting until spring. Why do you suggest? M/M T. Garden City

A. Many people do believe that this is an improper time of the year and take their homes off the market. However, this is one of the reasons why you would have the advantage, because there is less competition. Many serious buyers make use of their holiday time to shop for homes. With interest rates dropping, even more buyers will be looking. And remember, at no other time of the year does your home take on that special holiday glow. A definite selling advantage!

A. No one ever knows what the future will bring, the time to act is NOW.

Thinking of selling your home? Market yours with Gail Hodge & Tony Garrisi and deal with Michigan's Largest Real Estate Company. We offer Equity advances, Trades, and Nationwide Relocation as just a few of our many services. Readers may address their Real Estate questions to Gail or Tony by writing c/o Real Estate One, 350 15 Ford Road, Westland, MI 48185. All questions will be answered. Tipping the balance

'High key,' 'low key' shots can be exciting

Most photographs that we are accustomed to seeing contain an even range of tones from light to dark. But by being creative and deliberately tipping the balance toward either extreme, you can produce exciting, unusual pictures. Tones that are predominately on the light side throughout the entire image will result in what is called a "high key" shot. Just the opposite, if dark tones dominate the photograph, we have a "low key" picture. For an effective high key shot, you should select a subject that is light in color, and, if in a controlled situation, use a light background and arrange the lighting so that there are very few shadows. Small patches of dark tones are acceptable, even important in that they will keep a high key picture from looking washed out and pale.

Some common outdoor high key subjects are sand dunes or a freshly fallen snow. Inside, you can be more creative. Try shooting white objects such as eggs or even crumpled paper against a white background. Portraits taken in front of a light backdrop also can be classified as high key.

photography

PROPER EXPOSURE is essential to get quality high key results, but a little camera expertise is required. Because the majority of the subject area will be light in tonality and will reflect most of the light striking it, your camera's meter will be "fooled" and you'll get an underexposed shot. Solution: Take the meter reading off either an 18 percent gray card or, more easily, off the back of your hand. This way, your exposure will be correct and you'll obtain a rich, high key print.

Low key pictures are opposite high key in that the dark tones dominate. Outdoors, the dark skies often seen after a storm will reward you with a strong, low key landscape shot. Or an abundance of dark foliage can provide the necessary background for that low key image. Dramatic lighting combined with a dark background also will produce portraits with mood and impact.

AS IN HIGH key shots, exposure can be tricky because the dark tones will "tell" the meter to open up and, as a result, you'll overexpose the film. So, here too, use a gray card or your hand for correct readings. In fact, in all high key and low key shots, bracket your exposures slightly to be assured of getting an optimum print.

With the right subject, some thought, and a little creativity, high key and low key techniques will add exciting images to your photo portfolio.

Music Hall goal: $330,000

F. James McDonald, president of General Motors Corp., will head up Music Hall Center's 1983-84 corporate campaign for operating fund contributions.

Under McDonald's leadership, Music Hall Center hopes to raise $330,000 to support the non-profit organization's presentations of dance, family and musical events.

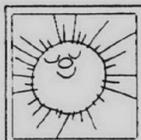

Music Hall recently completed its 10th season of programming in the downtown theatre.

Built in 1928 by Matilda Dodge Wilson, it is recognized as an historical landmark. A fund-raising campaign to support interior restoration recently raised more than $100,000 for renovated auditorium seats and a new stage curtain.

McDonald succeeds Thomas B. Adams, chairman of Campbell-Ewald Co., who chaired the 1982-83 corporate fundraising drive.

McDonald has been president and chief operating officer of General Motors since February, 1981. His many cultural and civic affiliations include directorships on the boards of the H.J. Heinz Co., the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association, Economic Club of Detroit and Up with People, a non-profit educational and cultural organization.
