Deputies to help on Ann Arbor Road

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

A new procedure for handling traffic accidents on Ann Arbor Road has been implemented by the Plymouth Police Department.

All minor accidents are being turned over to the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, according to Police Chief Ralph White.

Since Jan. 5, the sheriff's secondary road patrol has been dispatched to accidents on Ann Arbor Road at the request of the Plymouth department.

Plymouth police are continuing to respond to injury accidents and accidents blocking traffic, as in the past.

In the case of unknown injuries at an accident, White said Plymouth officers will respond and then decide whether to call the sheriff's department to handle the paperwork.

The shift in responsibilities is due to manpower limitations within the local police department, White said.

"If we had a lot of cops, then we probably wouldn't be looking into this," he said.

"By doing things this way, we try to place our officers in the neighborhoods and keep them free to answer other types of calls."

THE PLYMOUTH Police Department has 19 officers, divided into three shifts, to provide services in the city and township. Included in the 19 are detectives and supervisory personnel.

Although the department is reluctant to release the number of officers on the road per shift, there are times that as few as two officers are working a shift.

On rare occasions, the sheriff's department and state police have had to handle Plymouth calls because all the city's officers were tied up on a traffic accident.

The average traffic accident, according to White, will involve an officer up for 45 minutes — making that officer unavailable to respond to other calls.

Township Police Chief Carl Berry said it makes more sense to have the sheriff's department handle traffic matters than answering calls.

The sheriff contracts with the state for funding of the secondary road patrol unit calls, Berry said.

"THE SHERIFF'S department has handled accidents on Ann Arbor Road in the past. The only difference now is that we can get them out here right through dispatch," he said.

"I know they covered accidents in the past because, when I was in the city, I called them myself. The only problem was that their dispatch was in Detroit then and they were going through a transition.

"It was harder to get hold of them. But now, with their secondary road dispatch in Westland, there's no problem getting a car dispatched," Berry said.

"If a police agency is paid to do a job, I agree that they should do that job, such as covering secondary roads.

"By using Wayne County's secondary road unit on Ann Arbor Road, the local police have a better opportunity to answer other calls and citizen complaints."

ANN ARBOR ROAD has the highest number of accidents of all the roads the Plymouth police handle.

In 1983, some 250 accidents occurred on Ann Arbor Road between Sheldon and I-275. This compares to a department total of some 770 accidents for the same period.

Using White's average of 45 minutes per accident, Plymouth officers spent more than 185 hours covering accidents on Ann Arbor Road during 1983. By utilizing the sheriff's department, White hopes to reduce that number during 1984.

"The concept appears to be working, from all the reports I've received," said Sheriff Robert Ficano.

The response time and availability of secondary road patrol cars has been good, Ficano said.

"So far it does not appear to be a problem. If response time and available cars become a problem, we will have to work something out. But so far it's been working fine," he said.

Survey shows student radio tuned in often

By Emory Daniels
staff writer

The student radio station at Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP) attracts some 11,000 listeners each week.

That was one of the survey findings which surprised the staff of WSDP (88.1 FM) when they received the results of a phone survey taken during the first two weeks of November.

Another surprise was that listeners preferred music to local news and sports.

WSDP broadcasts more than 70 hours per week from 7:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday throughout the school year. To find out about who its listeners are and what they are listening to, the staff conducted the phone survey last fall — the second survey taken by the station in its 12-year history.

PHONE NUMBERS were selected randomly by computer, says Station Manager Andrew Melin, and more than 400 valid surveys were completed.

Some 25 student staff volunteers made the calls on five randomly selected evenings 7-9 p.m. The results, said Melin, are 95-percent accurate for the Plymouth-Canton population of more than 80,000.

The survey showed that 98 percent of Plymouth-Canton residents own an FM radio. Of the 41 percent who have listened to a non-commercial radio station, 30 percent have listened to WSDP.

"The most important factor is the slight differentiation between non-commercial listenership and WSDP listening," said Melin. "This indicates how few people actually listen to non-commercial radio and how WSDP listenership is comparable to general non-commercial listenership."

Of those who don't listen to WSDP, 64 percent said the reason was because they didn't know it existed. That shows, says Melin, that "there is a need to promote WSDP to area residents."

When non-listeners were asked what types of programs would interest them, 37 percent said music, 20 percent said local news, 12 percent local sports and 4 percent special remotes (art festival, Canton Country Festival). For listeners, 36 percent preferred music programs, 19 percent local sports, 18 percent local news, 15 percent announcements of community events, and 12 percent special remotes.

ANOTHER SURPRISE was the time of day most listeners tuned into WSDP.

Nationwide most people listen to the radio most often during the morning hours. Of the total viewers, 50 percent listen to WSDP during the evening hours.

"The reason may be WSDP's progressive music format at night, which

'The survey showed we have more community involvement than we realized, and justifies the existence of WSDP because it has importance to residents.'

— Andrew Melin

appeals to a younger audience generally available to listen in the evening," said Melin. "In addition, many of WSDP's special programs are broadcast at night."

When listeners were asked how often they tuned into WSDP, 38 percent said one or two times a month, 20 percent two to three times a week, and 12 percent said they did every day. "When these percentages are computed into numbers," explained Melin, "WSDP has about 4,000 listeners daily, 11,000 weekly and 20,000 monthly."

When asked how they heard about WSDP, 35 percent said by word of mouth and 14 percent said by seeing the program listings in the local newspapers.

"It was pleasing to discover how effective WSDP's program listings, published weekly in the Plymouth Observer, Canton Observer and Community Crier have been since initiated 16 months ago," said Melin.

When listeners were asked what their musical preferences were some 29 percent preferred rock music, 21 percent easy listening, 14 percent new music and 12 percent country. Jazz and classical music tied at 9 percent.

One of the major findings, Melin stressed, was the balanced listenership by age. Before the survey, he said, WSDP felt the station appealed primarily to listeners ages 13-34 but found out in the survey that there are just as many listeners ages 35-50 and that its audience over age 50 is substantial.

Melin said he received a great deal of assistance on the computer work from Dave Rodwell and that Richard Egli provided assistance on the wording of the questionnaire.

"The survey showed we have more community involvement than we realized," Melin said, "and justifies the existence of WSDP because it has importance to residents."

"We are now looking at what we can do to make non-listeners aware we exist. We are planning to do more remote broadcasts at special events which should build community awareness."

He hopes to take another survey next fall and repeat the survey annually.

Cable brings positives into play

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Homework doesn't have to be a dirty word for kids — or parents.

That's the message behind a cable-television show designed, written and presented by Redford Union Day Treatment Program employees, Alex Martinez, a social worker, and Marian Nelson, a special education teacher.

The program will be aired by Omnicon Cablevision this week on Channel 15 at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, at 2 p.m. Thursday, and at 1 p.m. Saturday.

"Homework has a negative connotation, and we're trying to make changes so it can have a positive effect on the family," Nelson said.

After three months of researching and organizing ideas, they decided the dreaded feeling usually associated with homework had to go. The first step was to shed a different light on the subject by referring to homework as "night assignment."

"In the program we consistently try to use different terms, so homework will become a more positive thinking idea," Nelson said.

SETTING ASIDE at least a half hour a day for the child to sit at a desk, with proper lighting to study, was a major point emphasized in the tape.

The time should be convenient for each family member, because during this period the rest of the house should be quiet and conducive to concentrating.

Televisions and stereo sets should be turned off, and parents should try to busy themselves with tasks that make the least amount of noise like reading or balancing the check book, Nelson said.

On nights that the child is not assigned homework the family should still set aside that time to use together constructively. Nelson suggests working on a stamp or coin collection, deciding on a pet or choosing a vacation.

"People are hustling and bustling with the moms and dads working. Everybody is going different places," Nelson said. "This will bring the family together to be more harmonious for a half hour a day."

This time also gives parents an opportunity to determine where their children are in the learning process, and to find out about problems the children had during the day.

Martinez emphasizes the mental health aspect associated with homework and the importance of occupying certain hours a day for planned family activity.

They emphasize that homework is necessary, because children need the time to practice different skills. It also encourages responsibility, because the student must take the assignment home and have it completed the next day.

HOMEWORK IS often a necessity when students are unable to complete an assignment during school hours, and want to expand on a creative idea.

Ether Hulsing (left), Plymouth Township clerk, joined Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen and the 2,000-plus members of the Michigan Township Association (MTA) at its convention last week. The annual educational seminar at the Dearborn Hyatt Regency Hotel attracted officials from as far away as the Upper Peninsula's Ironwood Township, and as well known as Gov. James Blanchard. Debates and caucuses on the Open Meetings Act, annexation, recalls, reapportionment, revenue sharing, and even cemetery record keeping highlighted the agenda. Hulsing attended because the convention enables her to "pick up new techniques and publications that will help me in my duties as clerk." City asking flood plain permit

staff writer

The city of Plymouth has applied for a permit to build a municipal parking deck in the Tonquish Creek floodplain.

The parking deck, to be built in the Central Parking Lot, is part of a multimillion-dollar medical clinic and parking project being undertaken by the city and the Huron Arbor Corp., a subsidiary of St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor.

The city's request for the floodplain permit follows reports last week that the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) would halt construction if a permit wasn't obtained.

"Initially I was told by the DNR that a permit wasn't needed," said City Manager Henry Graper.

Graper verified that a permit was needed Thursday, and sent City Engineer Ken West to Lansing Friday with the construction plans and application.

"It's really a formality with them to get the permit, and I was told we should have no problem getting it. We should have the permit within a week," Graper said Friday.

"There should be no delay in the construction," he said.

DANIEL MORGAN, chief of the DNR's Technical Programs Water Management Division, told the Observer last week that the city hadn't applied for a floodplain permit.

Although the two-story medical clinic proposed for Harvey and Ann Arbor Trail is out of the Tonquish floodplain, Morgan said a permit was required for the adjacent $1-million parking deck.

Without the permit, Morgan said the DNR would halt construction.

Because a parking deck is an elevated structure which most likely won't interfere with the flow of flood waters, Morgan indicated obtaining a permit wouldn't be a problem.

Any form of construction, including elevated structures, in a floodplain requires DNR approval, according to Morgan.

As part of the DNR's approval process, he said compliance with local ordinances is reviewed. In Plymouth's case, Morgan said a waiver from the City Commission would be required for an ordinance which prohibits any construction in floodplains.

That ordinance was established in 1981 as part of the city's involvement in the national flood insurance program.

Cable expands local offerings

Cable television programming hours on local access channels will be expanded starting today.

"We have reached another milestone in community programming here at Omnicom," said Suzanne Skubick, community affairs and programming director.

Community programming will begin an hour earlier on both Channels 8 and 15 - with Channel 8 starting at 7 p.m. Monday through Friday and Channel 15 starting at 2 p.m. Monday through Friday.

"Viewers should check listings in the paper, and on Channels 8 and 15 to note some changes in the days and times of their favorite shows," Skubick said.

"Viewers also will notice that we have added a few new shows to our regular lineup," she said.

Leading off the new shows are two from the Plymouth-Canton high schools.

The first show, "State Marching Band Competition," was produced by school media man Mark Even. The show features tapes of the marching band competition last October.

The band competition show can be seen on Channel 15 at 2:30 p.m. Tuesdays and 7 p.m. Thursdays.

The other school-related program is "Human Images," produced by the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park Psychology Club. The first in the series deals with anorexia and later shows will concern death and dying.

"Human Images" can be seen on Channel 15 at 7 p.m. Tuesdays and 2:30 p.m. Thursdays.

Another new show, "The Food Chain," will debut on Channel 8 at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday nights. The show is a nutrition program being produced at Omnicom in cooperation with Eastern Michigan University.

Students learn skills with payoffs in jobs

The Lunch Box at Plymouth Salem High School is a popular eating spot many faculty members of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. Located on the first floor of Salem High, it is operated by the food service class.

Demands on the kitchen are great. A new menu is planned each day of operation — from 10:30-11:30 a.m. Tuesday through Friday.

Students also prepare for special event celebration such as Christmas, Easter, Thanksgiving, etc., when a full-course meal is planned, cooked, and served buffet style to faculty and guests by reservation.

STUDENTS RECEIVE on-the-job training backed up by classroom work with instructor Casey Gary and vocational technician Bonnie Kline supervising.

Commercial Foods II is a two-year program where students learn employable skills and gain acceptance in the community through the cooperative training program where they receive credit while earning wages in private industry at the same time.

Some of the participating businesses in the co-op effort include Plymouth Hilton, York Steak House in Westland, Arthur Treachers, Cozy Cafe, Taco Bell, Wendy's and Elias Big Boy in Plymouth, Chi-Chi's in Livonia, Elias Big Boy, Hardees, Burger King, and Steve's in Canton.

The two-hour block vocational class alone allows students with learning disabilities to participate and find career success with the individualized type of instructional development and the support services they receive.

THIS YEAR WAS a first for Amy Sidorsky and Anita Mefford, who entered the ice carving spectacular sponsored by the city of Plymouth and Mayflower Hotel.

"Fantastic," said Amy, "The opportunity is one of the neatest experiences I ever had. It enabled me to look inside myself and see a new perspective of my capabilities."

Harold Gaertner, director of career and vocational education, comments: "Why is it necessary for skill training? Michigan is concerned about productivity and putting people back to work. Vocational education is answering the call."

"For Michigan, that means the opportunity to attain the skilled, productive work force which is essential for its growth."

The commercial foods program will be among many which will be showcased during Vocational Education Week, Feb. 12-18, at Plymouth Centennial Educational Park.

Historic church records escaped 1936 fire

(Part 1)

On a cold day in January 1936 the Rev. Walter Nichol drove past his church facing the high school in downtown Plymouth. Glancing up he saw smoke seeping through the edges of the church roof. Nichol rushed into the church and found the interior of the church in flames. The fire seemed to be in the basement. He grabbed the door of the boiler room just as its glass panel exploded. Fragments hit him in the face.

Nichol ran to nearby city hall and gave the alarm to Chief of Police Vaughn Smith. Within minutes firefighters were battling the blaze. For almost an hour, flames were confined to the church basement. Then the pressure of gas and smoke blew a section of the roof high into the air. Within two hours, the First Presbyterian Church was in ruins, despite joint efforts of the firefighters from Plymouth, Northville and the Detroit House of Correction.

THERE WERE THREE fortuitous circumstances.

The Rev. Nichol was not seriously injured. The church lectern and Bible were found intact amid the ruins of the 87-year-old landmark (a fact later recorded in one of Robert L. Ripley's "Believe-It-or-Not" cartoons). And the minutes of the Session, dating from 1833, and of the Trustees, dating from 1833, escaped destruction. They were in Nichol's home at the time of the fire.

These records are the source of most, but not all, of the information in this history of the church whose members have worshipped at the same site — 701 Church Street, opposite Adams — for almost 150 years.

past and present
Sam Hudson

The first meeting of what was to become the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth took place on Feb. 23, 1833, the year Cardinal John Newman wrote "Lead, kindly Light." It was the year the American Anti-Slavery Society was formed and Chicago was organized as a village. The President of the United States was Andrew Jackson.

THE MEETING occurred 13 years after the founding in Monroe of the first Presbyterian church organized in Michigan.

It was eight years after William Starkweather built the first home in the village on the site of the present Hotel Mayflower. It was four years before Michigan was admitted to the Union. It gave the Plymouth church the distinction of being one of the 16 pioneer churches in the original Detroit Presbytery.

The participants gathered at the home of Ira Bronson who had been a member of the Presbyterian Church in Detroit. Bronson is said to have lived "at the first four corners west of town on a farm which subsequently belonged to Gideon Durfee." Durfee's farm was at the junction of Sutton and Moreland (today's Penniman and Sheldon Road). The farmhouse, just northeast of the corner, now is occupied by Phillip Haddad.

Sutton was changed to Penniman in 1910. Moreland was a dirt road that ran north and south, past the Bronson farm before Sheldon was extended.

FIFTY-ONE years after the Presbyterians held their first meeting here, a daughter of Iran Bronson, Mrs. E.M. Stewart of Michigan Center, wrote to church-member Ira M. Hough recalling the meeting. "It was held in an unfinished chamber of my father's house," she wrote. "It being the largest room then available. I was present at the organization but did not unite with the church till about a year afterward when meetings were held in the school-house."

Ira Mason Wead, one of the earliest missionaries to come to Michigan, was born in Vermont. He graduated from Andover Theological Seminary in 1829 and was pastor of the Ypsilanti Church from 1830 to 1847. He died in Ypsilanti in 1871 at age 67.

ERIE PRINCE was one of five ministers of the Presbytery of Detroit when it was organized in 1827.

Prince served the Farmington Church beginning in that year. In 1829, he organized the Northville and Farmington churches until 1831. In that year, he organized the South Lyon Church.

President's address falls on receptive ears

By W.W. Edgar
staff writer

If President Reagan had walked down Main Street or Ann Arbor Road over the weekend he would have been besieged with questions regarding several of the statements he made in his State of the Union address Wednesday night.

While most of the people — Republicans and Democrats alike — were sincere in their praise of his 45-minute address to Congress, they were anxious to get answers to these questions:

Why are you so stubborn about bringing the Marines back from Lebanon and what do you mean by a "down payment" on the national debt that is now nearing a trillion dollars.

Prior to his speech President Reagan had a verbal battle with House Speaker Tip O'Neill over the Marines issue.

REPORTEDLY, O'NEILL demanded that the Marines be brought home immediately and not run the risk of being victims of terrorist brutality. But Reagan stood firm, explaining that bringing the Marines home now would have the appearance of giving in to the terrorists. That's the last thing he wanted.

But residents feel, according to those interviewed, that the young Marines should not be made targets and possibly lose their lives.

At the luncheon table on Thursday, with the speech still on their minds, the Democrats were loud in their praise of his speech because he asked Democrats help to solve some of the major problems and not fight his policies.

"I am a Democrat," one of them said, "but I have to hand it to him — he made a good speech. Now, if we only had the answers to those important questions."

THOSE REMARKS falling on the ears of a staunch Republican brought this explanation of the down payment on the deficit the country is facing.

"What the President is trying to do is make a payment, just as you and I would in meeting our bills, to reduce the total. That would have a double effect. It would reduce the size of the deficit, but it would save us a great amount of interest each year. And when you have a deficit that large, the interest one could save would be quite high."

Another Republican on Ann Arbor Road said, "I am wondering what kind of medicine would require being made in orbit that couldn't be made down on the ground." Reagan said he wants to build the station in outer space for life-saving medicine not available now.

Opinions are to be shared

Opinions and ideas are most fertile when shared with others.

That's why the Plymouth Observer encourages its readers to share their views with others by making use of the From Our Readers column.

While the Observer expresses its opinions on the editorial page, we always leave space open for our readers to express their ideas.

Submitting a letter to the editor for publication is rather easy. We ask that letters be typewritten or printed legibly, 300 words or less, signed, and include the address of the sender.

Names will be withheld only for the best of reasons and the decision to do so will be made by the editor.

Letters may be mailed or hand-delivered to our news office at 461 S. Main, Plymouth 48170.

Do you want a productive, functional office, that promotes work efficiency and raises employee morale?
Redford Office Products will show you how!
We know how important the work environment is and understand how to get it working at its best. We also believe interior design is a personal matter. Only you can provide us with the basic ingredients for a "functional" design — your individual tastes, your present possessions, your needs and work patterns. Whether your job entails a new furnishing or a blending of old with new, we can provide you with a professional touch in space planning, color selection, and ideas. Furnishings, carpeting, wallcoverings, fabrics, window treatments, repainting and accessories from our quality sources will make your current project a beautiful reality.
Our design service is available to you at no charge provided you make your "interior purchases" through us. Our Interior Designer, Irene McClure, ASID will help you save time while giving you both function and aesthetics at a price you can't afford to pass up. We look forward to working with you.

CEP musicians on tour in south

Travel has become a way of life for high school band members at Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP). The 74 members of the band are going on concert tour the first week in February which will include performances in Nashville, Yazoo City, Mo.; and Ruston, La.

Climax of the tour will be a concert on Friday, Feb. 3, at the ARK-LA-TEX Band Conference, sponsored by Louisiana Tech University at Ruston.

EN ROUTE SOUTH Bandmaster James R. Griffith will have conducted his students in the same program at Nashville on Wednesday night and at Yazoo City Thursday.

While the main purpose of the trip is built around the stage performances, the sidights undoubtedly will hold matching interest for the Canton and Plymouth high schoolers who have paid all costs of this tour themselves.

Traveling on chartered buses after departing Plymouth early Wednesday morning, they will be guests in the homes of John Overton High School band students that night and in the homes of Yazoo City handsmen Thursday night.

Their base for Friday's overnight stop will be Ruston, where again similarly music-minded students and families will be the hosts as the band points toward its performance at Louisiana Tech.

The trip home will be highlighted by attendance at the Grand Ole Opry at Nashville on Saturday night. They are due back in Plymouth at 9 p.m. Sunday.

LAST SPRING the Plymouth Symphony Band presented concerts in Traverse City, Kingsley, Leland and at the internationally known Interlochen Arts Academy.

Since 1957, under Griffith's baton, the symphony band has won 40 first division ratings (Michigan's highest) in district and state festivals.

In recent years, it has performed twice at the Midwest National Band Conductors Clinic at Chicago, the Southern Conductors Clinic at the University of Southern Mississippi, the Southeastern United States Concert Band Clinic at Troy State University in Troy, Ala., and the Western International Band Clinic at San Jose.

The CEP Marching Band has marched in the Orange Bowl parade at Miami and the Rose Parade at Pasadena as well as winning many local and regional marching contests.

In all, Plymouth-Canton maintains four bands at the CEP — the symphony, concert, jazz, and marching bands.

The program in each of the concerts on the southern tour is: "Glory of the Yankee Navy March" by Sousa, "American Holiday Overture" by Werle, "Sea Songs" by Knox, "Variants on a Medieval Tune" by della Jota, "Symphony for Band" by Blikk, and "Columbia Broadway Festival" by Werle.

COMPUTER LEARNING CENTER
COLLEGE OF LIFELONG LEARNING in SOUTHFIELD

Wayne State University's Computer Learning Center emphasizes a one student - one machine approach to computer training. The learning center contains twenty-five state of the art microcomputers. By limiting our class size to twenty-five, we have created an environment that gives each student exclusive, hands-on use of a computer from the very first hour of a class or seminar.

HEALTH COSTS

One of the major concerns of Americans today is the cost of health care. The average American spends 10% of his annual income just on health care. There are over 25 million operations performed every year in America—one operation for every ten people or an operation on every American every ten years. The cost of these operations is staggering. It is estimated that the total cost of health care in the United States is over $100 billion a year. This is a staggering sum of money. It is a sum of money that is being spent on health care for people who are not even sick. It is a sum of money that is being spent on health care for people who are not even dying. It is a sum of money that is being spent on health care for people who are not even suffering. It is a sum of money that is being spent on health care for people who are not even in pain. It is a sum of money that is being spent on health care for people who are not even in need of it. It is a sum of money that is being spent on health care for people who are not even aware of it. It is a sum of money that is being spent on health care for people who are not even thinking about it. It is a sum of money that is being spent on health care for people who are not even feeling it. It is a sum of money that is being spent on health care for people who are not even knowing it. It is a sum of money that is being spent on health care for people who are not even realizing it. It is a sum of money that is being spent on health care for people who are not even understanding it. It is a sum of money that is being spent on health care for people who are not even accepting it. It is a sum of money that is being spent on health care for people who are not even questioning it. It is a sum of money that is being spent on health care for people who are not even challenging it. It is a sum of money that is being spent on health care for people who are not even doubting it. It is a sum of money that is being spent on health care for people who are not even denying it. SEAFOOD AND RICE ...an historic combination

As early immigrants settled along the oceans and waterways of America, seafood became an important part of their diets. Rice, a familiar staple from their native cuisines, was planted for the family table. The combination of seafood and rice was a natural, one with strong influence on the development of American cuisine.

Today virtually all of the rice consumed in the United States is grown in the fertile states of Arkansas, California, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri and Texas. From the icy waters of Alaska come many varieties of succulent seafood that are now available nationwide. Rice and seafood from Alaska are both exported around the world as well.

Alaska seafood is an important source of high-quality protein and provides valuable vitamins and minerals as well as the light satisfying flavors today's cooks seek. Rice too, provides essential nutrients. In addition to being the world's most versatile grain, it is an excellent source of complex carbohydrates and supplies several of the B vitamins. Being low in cost, it will extend and enhance any meal.

The light and delicate flavor of seafood from Alaska calls for a complementary accompaniment, and rice is perfect. Whether plain, buttered, or seasoned with lemon, dill or other seasonings, rice accents but never overpowers a seafood entree.

High in flavor and enjoyment, the historic combination of rice and seafood can also be relatively low in calories, fat and cholesterol—a boon to health-conscious, modern-day consumers.

PAN-FRIED-SALMON

- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 2 tablespoons water
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 6 (3 to 4 ounces each) Alaska salmon fillets or (about 6 ounces each) Alaska salmon steaks, thawed if necessary
- 2 tablespoons oil

Combine flour, salt and pepper. Beat water into eggs. Roll salmon in seasoned flour, dip in egg mixture, roll again in seasoned flour, shaking off excess. Pan-fry on both sides in hot oil until salmon flakes easily when tested with a fork. Allow about 10 minutes total cooking time per inch of thickness.

Makes 6 servings.

RICE MEDLEY

- 1 cup uncooked rice
- 2 cups chicken broth
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3/4 cup each chopped celery, onions, and green pepper
- Salt and ground black pepper

Measure rice and broth into 2 to 3-quart saucepan. Bring to a boil; stir once or twice. Lower heat, cover, and simmer about 15 minutes or until rice is tender and liquid is absorbed. Meanwhile, melt butter in skillet. Add celery, onions, and green pepper. Cook until tender crisp. Stir into hot rice. Season to taste.

Makes 6 servings.

ALGERIAN FISH RING

- 1-1/2 pounds Alaska cod, pollock or rockfish fillets,* thawed if necessary
- Salt
- Paprika
- 1/2 cup chopped onions
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped spinach, thawed
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon each dill weed and seasoned pepper
- 3 cups hot cooked rice
- 1/2 cup each dairy sour cream and finely crumbled feta cheese
- Cherry tomatoes and parsley sprigs, optional

Sprinkle fish lightly with salt and generously with paprika. In large skillet cook onions in 1 tablespoon butter over medium heat until soft but not brown. Add garlic. Squeeze excess moisture from spinach; add to skillet. Stir in lemon juice, dill, and pepper. Remove from heat; add rice, sour cream, and cheese. Mix well. Melt remaining butter; brush inside of 6-cup ring mold. Arrange fillets in mold with small ends at center of ring and wide ends and any overhang at outer rim. Fish will not cover entire surface of mold; leave equal space between fillets. Fill with rice mixture. Fold ends of fish over top of rice. Cover with heavy-duty foil. Set in pan to catch drippings. Bake at 350° F. 40 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Invert onto heated serving plate. Fill center with cherry tomatoes and parsley sprigs.

Makes 6 servings.

*If fish is thicker than 1/2-inch, slice in half horizontally while still partially frozen.

Sour half-and-half can be substituted.

WEST COAST SEAFOOD GUMBO

(NOT ILLUSTRATED)

- 2 tablespoons oil
- 1/4 cup flour
- 1 cup each chopped onions, celery and green pepper
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen cut okra, thawed (optional)
- 1 can (14-1/2 to 16 ounces) tomatoes
- 1 quart chicken broth or water
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 bay leaf
- 1/4 teaspoon each ground black and red pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme, crushed
- 1 pound boned Alaska halibut, thawed if necessary, cut into 1-inch pieces
- 1 pound Alaska Snow crab clusters*, thawed if necessary, cut into serving-sized pieces
- Salt
- 1 teaspoon gumbo filé, if okra is not used
- 3 to 4 cups hot cooked rice

Heat oil in large non-iron skillet. Add flour; cook and stir over medium heat until a rich brown. Do not let flour burn. Reduce heat to medium low. Add onion, celery, green pepper, and okra. Cook and stir until onion is tender but not brown. Add tomatoes, broth, garlic and seasonings. Bring to a boil. Lower heat and simmer, uncovered, 1 hour. Add Alaska halibut and Alaska Snow crab. Cook 10 minutes. Salt to taste. Remove bay leaf. Stir filé into gumbo just before serving. Ladle gumbo into bowls and top each with a mound of rice.

Makes 6 servings.

*If desired, remove meat from legs and claws and add meat only to gumbo.

CANNED SALMON TOSTADAS

- 1 can (15-1/2 ounces) salmon
- 1 can (4 ounces) diced green chiles
- Dairy sour cream
- Salt
- Hot pepper sauce (optional)
- 6 crisp fried corn tortillas
- 6 cups shredded iceberg lettuce
- 2 tomatoes, chopped
- 1/2 cup sliced green onions, including tops
- 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
- Picante sauce or green chiles salsa

Drain salmon; break into large chunks. Toss with green chiles and 1/4 cup sour cream. Season with salt and hot pepper sauce. Place tortillas on individual plates; top with lettuce. Layer salmon mixture, tomatoes, onions, and cheese onto lettuce. Garnish with sour cream. Serve with picante sauce.

Makes 6 servings.

ROLLED SALMON TORTILLAS (ENVUELTOS):

Heat 6 large or 12 small flour tortillas (tortillas de harina) on a griddle or over a low flame until soft and pliable. Wrap in a clean napkin to keep warm. Or cover with damp paper towels, wrap in foil, and heat in oven until soft. Place equal amounts of salmon filling in middle of each tortilla; roll. Top with lettuce, tomatoes, onions, and cheese. Garnish with sour cream. Serve with picante sauce.

Makes 6 servings.

FIESTA RICE

- 1 cup uncooked rice
- 1-1/2 teaspoons chili powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 cups beef broth
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
- 1/2 cup each chopped onions and green pepper

Combine rice, seasonings, broth, and 1 tablespoon butter in 2 to 3-quart saucepan. Bring to a boil; stir once or twice. Lower heat, cover, and simmer 15 minutes, or until rice is tender and liquid is absorbed. Meanwhile, melt remaining butter in skillet. Add onions and green pepper. Cook just until tender crisp. Stir into hot rice.

Makes 6 servings.

Combine & check out weekly beer specials!

Teen-agers can entertain easily with a brunch

If your teen-agers are at the supermarket doing the weekly shopping, or in the kitchen making lasagna, they're part of a new trend. Recent studies indicate that seven out of 10 teen-agers shop for food while nine out of 10 teen-agers girls prepare or help prepare meals. High on the popularity list for teen cooks is the weekend brunch. Why? Because brunch is a fun and economical way to entertain friends.

For both novice and experienced teen cooks, a successful brunch requires planning and organization. And, when it comes to planning a menu, simplicity is the key. Fruit or juice, an easy-to-prepare main dish with one accompaniment, a hot bread and a beverage will take care of the basic four food groups while allowing plenty of room for creativity. At a loss for ideas? Cookbooks, magazines and newspaper food pages are filled with recipes and serving ideas.

Before dashing out to the supermarket to buy groceries, it's a good idea for your young cooks to do a little homework. Advise them to check weekly newspaper food advertisements when selecting a menu and incorporate seasonal specials. Foods which are "in season" cost less than their out-of-season counterparts. Young cooks should also prepare a shopping list. Checking cupboards, refrigerator and freezer for ingredients already "on hand" can save time and money later.

At the supermarket, budget-conscious teens will stick to their shopping lists to avoid costly impulse purchases. They will also compare the price of the same food in its fresh, frozen and canned forms and take advantage of unit pricing. Sometimes the unit price can be found on the shelf beneath the item. If not, it can be quickly calculated by dividing the price of the item by the number of ounces or pounds it contains.

When selecting convenience food products, teens should consider both unit price and the cost of convenience. The time-savings afforded by some convenience food products may be worth the added pennies.

A convenience pancake mix takes most of the work out of preparing Apple Cinnamon Pancakes. The mix already contains all the ingredients needed for light, fluffy pancakes. All the cook adds is water. Gentle mixing and one flip on the griddle will ensure perfect pancakes every time. Apple syrup is the perfect topping, and maple-flavored table syrup keeps preparation chores to a minimum.

APPLE CINNAMON PANCAKES

- Apple Syrup:
- 1 cup syrup
- 1 medium apple, coarsely chopped
- ¼ cup margarine
- Pancakes:
- 2 cups buttermilk complete pancake and waffle mix
- 1 ½ cups water
- 1 tsp cinnamon

Heat griddle over medium-high heat

(375° electric griddle). Grease lightly. For apple syrup, bring syrup to a boil in heavy saucepan. Cover; simmer 5 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in apple and margarine. Keep warm until ready to serve. For pancakes, combine all ingredients in medium bowl; stir until batter is fairly smooth. Pour scant ¼ cup batter for each pancake onto hot, prepared griddle. Turn when pancakes begin to rise and edges look cooked. Turn only once. Serve with syrup and margarine, if desired. Makes four servings.

*Substitute up to ¼ cup liquid from canned peaches for equal amount of water, if desired.
VARIATION: Substitute ½ cup canned fruit cocktail for peaches. Prepare as recipe directs.

WHETHER THE menu stars pancakes hot off the griddle or a do-ahead casserole, remind teen cooks to take a few minutes and make a preparation schedule. The benefits are twofold. The pancakes and sausage will be ready at the same time. And, the cook will be able to spend more time with guests and less time in the kitchen. With recipes in hand, it's easy to jot down each preparation step on a piece of paper.

Some recipes may be prepared days or even weeks ahead of time and refrigerated or frozen. Casseroles, molded salads and yeast breads are good examples. Preparation of last-minute menu items will be less of a chore if ingredients are gathered the night before and refrigerated in covered containers. Advise your teen host that this also is a good time to remove frozen foods from the freezer and set the table. All that's needed the next day is to prepare and heat foods as needed, then relax and join in the fun.

Mexican food a star at Epcot

I was quite surprised during a visit to Disney World's Epcot Center in Central Florida to find authentic Mexican food. I must admit it was better than some meals I've eaten south of the border.

The World Showcase features nine nations in their respective settings — streets or plazas — with many fine restaurants oozing with atmosphere and excellent food.

The San Angel Inn Restaurant serves a Mexican plate that includes chilies rellenos, cheese-stuffed peppers with a red sauce, and chicken enchiladas, topped with a green sauce. It's superb.

Mexican food remains popular with our readers. You don't seem to get enough of it. I can't blame you.

"How could you!" wrote Joan R. Smithe of Salina, Kan. "You (gave) the recipe for chicken enchiladas — which I intend to try — but you also mention your wife's favorite cheese and onion enchiladas, BUT YOU DIDN'T GIVE THE RECIPE!!!"

"I drooled just reading about them and how you 'gorge' yourself on them. So would all the rest of us like to gorge ourselves — so, come on, give us the recipe. Also any other recipes that you gorge yourself on, Mexican or otherwise."

This recipe's for you.

ANITA'S CHEESE AND ONION ENCHILADAS

- 1 pkg. (10 oz.) Longhorn-style medium Cheddar cheese
- 1 red onion
- ½ cup cooking oil
- 2 tbsp. chili powder
- ¼ tsp. salt
- 2 tbsp. all-purpose flour
- 2 cups water
- 8 corn tortillas

Shred cheese, chop onion, combine and set aside. In large skillet, heat ¼ cup oil on medium, stir in chili powder and salt, combine flour and 1 cup water and stir in, add 1 cup water, let come to boil and cook 8 to 10 minutes, occasionally stirring. In small skillet, heat ¼ cup oil on medium. Place tortillas one at a time in chili mixture, simmer 30 seconds, remove to hot oil, simmer 30 seconds and stack on plate. Put small amount of cheese-onion filling in center of each tortilla, roll up, place in single layer in 2-quart casserole, top all with remaining filling, then chili mixture and heat through in 350-degree oven 5 minutes. Serves 3-4.

When rockin' little baby was a rest

By Kathy Parrish
staff writer

HISTORIANS say living in colonial America was tough.

You really don't realize how tough until you've peeled, chopped, kneaded and stirred for a whole morning. And lunch is done just in time to start dinner.

"Well, I'm gonna rock the baby for awhile," sighed one weary 20th-century schoolteacher after churning butter for what seemed like hours in the dimly lit kitchen of Greenfield Village's Clinton Inn.

Determined to find out for themselves — and their students — what life was like in early America, 30 area schoolteachers are spending two semesters studying at the Dearborn site.

Meeting in historic homes, members of the Oakland University education class learn about early transportation, food and shelter. Then they try their hands at skills like fireplace cooking, candle dipping, spinning and soap making.

"Most history is just out of a textbook. It's too bad," said Jim English, who teaches social studies, American and world history at Livonia Franklin High School.

"If they could do this, even high school kids would really come alive."

SINCE 1972, more than 450 college students have taken the graduate course geared toward teachers. The course is never Preparing the ingredients is a great deal of the work.

Preparing old-fashioned burgoo over an open fire takes the whole morning. Redford resident Margaret English and fellow Hazel Park teacher Violet Cox carefully add ingredients to the veal and chicken dish.

advertised, but word of mouth fills each section.

The unusual program grew out of a desire to make teachers aware of Edison Institute's many resources.

"Teachers were taking kids there, but without a focus," said education professor Roderic E. Righter, who supervises O.U. student teachers.

"Field trips there were just a day away from school."

Working with David T. Glick, Edison Institute's vice president for education, the OU professor set up a program that offers lectures, study groups and even field trips. Students travel to Detroit Harbor Terminal, the Norfolk and Western Terminal in Bellevue, Ohio, Meadow Brook Hall and Willow Run.

MOST TAKE the classes for graduate credit (which will bring them higher salaries) or because history is their teaching field. But about half are post master's students who just want to take the course.

"How they use the information is entirely up to them. Teachers are professionals there to get information and they can use it as they see fit," Righter said.

Most students praise the course, especially the opportunity to try things like weaving, candle dipping and molding, and soap making.

"You're not just reading a book. You're walking through the book," said Mary Ann Berkesch, a third grade teacher on maternity leave from St. Paul Lutheran School in Farmington Hills.

"That's what learning is: experiencing things."

Bloomfield Hills resident Evelyn Buchanan, who teaches business and basic education in Pontiac, takes the class for recertification to teach in elementary school. And she passes ideas from it on to co-workers.

"You never know the way they switch teachers what you'll be doing next," she said.

A FAVORITE ACTIVITY is the day-long fireplace cooking session run by Margaret Taylor Chalmers, a longtime village employee who helps them prepare lunch from scratch. A native of Scotland, whose mother and grandmother both were professional cooks, Chalmers works with her daughter Kerry.

"Where's the garbage disposal?" is a typical concern as the teachers trade microwave ovens for a fire they need to fan themselves.

"Get your hands in there, ladies. You can't feel dough through a wooden spoon," instructs Chalmers as the students make clothe pudding. Many already have used some of the projects in their own classrooms.

Birmingham teacher Diane McDaniel made applehead dolls and Moravian stars with her fourth grade students at Quarton School.

"We don't need to write research papers anymore," said McDaniel, who is working on a master's in elementary education.

"We need things we can use with kids."

In charge of kneading the bread was Birmingham resident Rosemary Righter, who teaches social studies and physical education at Akiva Hebrew Day School in Lathrup Village.

Fanning the fire so air will go through it has singed the bottom of Kerry Chalmers's dress and apron.

Redford resident James English removes pudding which he cooked over the fire.

THE ROLE OF TENSION AND FATIGUE IN ARTHRITIS

It is often thought that tension and fatigue can set off an attack of arthritis. In my experience the reverse is much more common: It is the attack of arthritis that leads to tension and fatigue.

Once an arthritis attack begins, the individual becomes tense, anticipating pain and the disruption of usual activities. Fatigue sets in rapidly because the surrounding muscles are under a strain stemming from their attempt to protect the inflamed areas.

Uninvolved joints and muscles are burdened as the body places more demands on them in order to compensate for the work loss by involved joints. This further strain only leads to more exhaustion and concern for the individual.

The best way to prevent this spiral of disability is for the individual to make use of heat and rest to the fullest extent possible. These treatments can be used repeatedly and their amounts varied as needed. No drug now available has such flexibility.

CHOOSING AN ACCOUNTANT

Who'll prepare your tax return this year? It's time to start choosing a professional, and to undertake the planning that may help you shelter some of your income from taxes.

If your income is fairly straightforward and deductible expenses minimal, you might satisfactorily use a short-form return and do it yourself or with the help of a tax preparer. But with more income, and more deductions, as the return becomes more complicated, you're going to want a tax professional.

Why? Because it's worth the difference to put your tax return in the hands of someone with the knowledge to find every likely loophole, and the experience to know which are acceptable. And as you reach the higher brackets, you'll get the advice you need on sheltering some income from taxes.

Some free help is available from the IRS. Revenue employees will answer your questions (but the tax court has challenged some of their answers) and prepare the simplest returns. There are also independent and chain tax preparers who pop up at tax season. Their workers may not be experienced enough to catch all legal deductions.

A certified public accountant can handle most complex returns and are familiar with shelters and investing. His or her tax know-how can save you more than the fee.

How do you choose a professional? Recommendations from satisfied clientele are one way, as are referrals from lawyers. Once a relationship is entered, the client will find his accountant helpful in making financial decisions all year round.

INCOME TAX

We're a local organization. Even though we served more than 3,000 clients last year we haven't forgotten that every client is an individual and that each individual deserves the best service we can provide.

When we sign a tax return that we've prepared, we're proud of having done the best possible job for you. When you see our signature on your tax return you can be sure that:

1. The counselor who prepared your return was competent and thoroughly experienced in tax matters.
2. You have received the maximum legal deductions and the minimum legal tax.
3. Your tax return has received all the time and attention that was necessary to do a proper job.
4. Your tax return has been double-checked for both accuracy and tax saving possibilities.
5. Your return has been handled in a confidential manner.

Call us for a free tax organizer and fee schedule. Our fees are often less than the highly advertised tax firms.

Call us. We understand small businesses, personal and corporate tax returns. Computerized bookkeeping and payroll, tax planning systems.

Guidebook on fun was fun for editor

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

West Bloomfield resident Dick Parker, who is one of the editors of the fifth edition of the Detroit Guide, said putting the guidebook together was mostly a labor of love.

"It's been selling very well, in the more affluent areas," he said. Despite good sales, said Parker, the editors have worked on the book more for the joy of it than financial reward, which is slight.

The large 475-page paperback is written in a sassy style and covers just about every aspect of fun and games in metropolitan Detroit. Its capsule descriptions give the lowdown on where to go and what to do, at bars and restaurants, clubs, museums, galleries, theaters, shops and sports arenas.

The book is chatty, readable and tells you what's good and bad about places, even those with big followings. Restaurants are rated, with stars, for the first time in this edition.

PARKER WORKED on the first edition of the guidebook, originally published in 1970 and updated in two subsequent printings. Martin Fischhoff did the 1974 edition himself. It had two printings. The editors, who include John W. Grant, began to gather information in 1980 for the fifth edition.

The Detroit Guide at $8.95 is available in area bookstores and drugstores including Perry's and Shaper's.

Parker said changes listed in the new guidebook include "a greater variety of continental-type restaurants than there used to be." He said Detroit's ethnic eateries are still around in great number but today there are more Middle Eastern ones.

Parker also noted the arts are expanding. "In 1974, there was only one resident live theater in Detroit. Now there are five or six," he said. "On the music scene, jazz has expanded and there are at least a dozen different clubs. The number of art galleries has exploded."

Fischhoff, a public relations executive, is publisher of the Detroit Guide; Grant, fulltime editor on the book. Both Fischhoff and Grant are Detroit residents. Both worked with Parker in the late 1960s on the student newspaper, the South End, at Wayne State University in Detroit.

Detroit Library scene of marathon kickoff

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra DSO — WQRS Radio marathon kickoff party at the main branch of the Detroit Public Library will be held from 7 p.m. to midnight, Friday, Feb. 3.

Musical interludes provided by DSO musicians and others will be presented throughout the early part of the evening in selected rooms of the library.

Featured will be a bassoon trio, horn, marimba and cello quartets, flute, oboe and vocal jazz ensembles, as well as solo instruments.

The orchestra's new music director, Maestro Gunther Herbig, will make an appearance and there will be a celebrity auction, a hat judging contest and dancing to Chet Bogan's Wolverine Jazz Band with vocalist Dixie Belle.

Food and desserts prepared by the Gnome restaurant will be served throughout the evening. There will be ash bar and valet parking.

Cost for the evening is $20. Tickets are available at Ticket/World, CTC outlets and Ford Auditorium box office.

Proceeds will go toward the 1984 DSO-WQRS Marathon to underwrite the Detroit Symphony Orchestra Outreach, education and youth programs.

Cynthia Phelps, violist, took first place in the Oakway Symphony Young Artists Competition.

Oakway names winning artists

A 23-year-old Ann Arbor violist who moved a judge to write, "You don't tackle Bartok unless you play it like this," has been named first-place winner in the Oakway Symphony Young Artists Competition at Madonna College in Livonia. She is Cynthia Phelps, University of Michigan student, who won $1,000 in the competition funded by the Michigan Foundation for the Arts.

Other winners in the $3,000 competition are:

Jay Paul Bertolet, tuba, second prize: $750. A resident of Royal Oak, Bertolet also is a U-M student.

Juilliard student violinist Kelly Leon was named the $750 third-prize winner. She is a resident of Grosse Pointe Farms.

Flutist Andrea Kast of Bloomfield Hills was awarded the fourth prize of $500. She is a Northwestern University student.

For the first time this year, Oakway Symphony presented a monetary award of $100 to a deserving musician. The award, named in memory of Nelda Clausen DiBlasi, was presented to 13-year-old violinist Tony Cross of Grosse Pointe.

All competition winners, selected from a field of 35 entrants, will perform at 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 19, with the Oakway Symphony at Harrison High School in Farmington Hills. Baton will be under the direction of Francesco DiBlasi, conductor and music director.

'Father Dreams' continues

Performances of "Father Dreams" by Mary Gallagher continue Fridays-Sundays through Feb. 18 at the Fourth Street Playhouse, 301 W. Fourth, Royal Oak.

Performances are at 8:30 p.m. Fridays, 6 and 9 p.m. Saturdays and 7:30 p.m. Sundays. For ticket information, call 543-3666, 1-10 p.m.

"Father Dreams" is a play about a family desperately trying to cope with the long mental illness of the father. Through his dreams and memories, often humorous, a son struggles to overcome his fears and expectations about his father's sanity and his own.

Playwright Gallagher's other plays, including "Chocolate Cake," "Fly Away Home" and "Little Bird," have been produced at Actors Theatre of Louisville, the American Conservatory Theatre in San Francisco and the Loretto-Hilton Repertory in St. Louis.

Gallagher is also an actress. She played Annie in the "77-78" Meadow Brook season production of "The Norman Conquests" and performed in New York City and at the Barter Theatre in Virginia.

Woody Allen underplays the character of a loser, a New York theatrical agent with unsuccessful clients, who gets a chance to direct a onetime-popular singer's comeback, in "Broadway Danny Rose."

what's at the movies

BIG CHILL (R). College friends from the 1940s sit around feeling guilty.

BROADWAY DANNY ROSE (PG). Excellent, warm comedy with Woody Allen and Mia Farrow. No need to worry about taking the kids.

CHRISTINE (R). Hell hath no fury like a repossessed '58 Plymouth.

GORKY PARK (R). Slick murder mystery set in Moscow. Good entertainment.

LIQUID SKY (R). Aliens searching for ecstasy.

THE MAN WHO LOVED WOMEN (R). Ego-tripping with macho-man Burt Reynolds

NEVER CRY WOLF (PG). Beautifully photographed tale of Arctic wolves watched by dippy biologist.

SCARFACE (R). Al Pacino in violent gangland story.

SILKWOOD (R). Meryl Streep, Kurt Russell and Cher in moving story about Karen Silkwood, plutonium poisoning and union politics.

SUDDEN IMPACT (R). Clint Eastwood as Dirty Harry is at it again.

TERMS OF ENDEARMENT (PG). Shirley MacLaine and Debra Winger in well done tear-jerker about mother-daughter relationships. Jack Nicholson is excellent in support.

TWO OF A KIND (PG). Olivia Newton-John and John Travolta in supposed comedy-romance. Twenty-four karat plastic.

VERTIGO (PG). Classic Hitchcock thriller with James Stewart and Kim Novak.

YENTL (PG). Barbra Streisand as girl who "becomes" boy in pre-World War I Eastern European Jewish community. Streisand's singing is inappropriate. Otherwise OK.

Woody Allen's 'Broadway Danny' has strong spirit

"Broadway Danny Rose," Woody Allen's latest film, is a powerful example of the impact black-and-white film can have. Allen, who of late has been staging a one-man crusade to re-establish the primacy of black and white, has delivered a touching example of the human spirit at its finest moment.

The footage, as photographed by Gordon Willis, evokes the basic, elemental qualities of human experience: Manhattan, any metropolis really, drab on a rainy autumn day, the unique quality of sand and water at the shoreline and the simplicity of hope.

There's also a tremendous nostalgic quality to the soft black and white, 1950ish view of Manhattan. But it could be anytime, any huge city where people came to struggle to get their names in lights.

"Broadway Danny Rose" is pure Runyonesque Manhattan, a beautiful example of the little guy just barely surviving. Like Chaplin, Broadway Danny (Woody Allen) has the strength of people everywhere. They refuse to surrender their humanity. They refuse to quit trying.

THE STORY is a simple one. A group of New York comics is sitting around a delicatessen telling stories. One starts a long, involved story about Broadway Danny Rose and the time he got involved with a Mafia lady, Tina Vitale (Mia Farrow).

To appreciate that mismatch, you have to understand Broadway Danny Rose. Himself a loser, an unsuccessful theatrical agent (I'm in theatrical management.), he believes anyone and everyone can achieve the Broadway dream: "Your name in lights, your career really starting to move." But his clients are cripples — a ventriloquist who stutters, a blind xylophonist, a balloon-folding act and a lady with a parrot. Other acts that he had managed left him for slicker agents when they achieved success. But Broadway Danny always has hope.

A NEW ray of hope, client Lou Canova (Nick Apollo Forte), a has-been singer from the 1950s, suddenly is caught up in the nostalgia craze. Danny was right. His career is finally taking off. Even Milton Berle (himself) is interested and shows up with Howard Cosell (himself) at a big Waldorf show.

Canova's marriage, unfortunately, has gone sour and he's got a girlfriend, Tina Vitale, widow of low-level Mafia hood Carmen Vitale — "They shot him in the eyes."

Lou is so taken with her and so nervous that he can't do a show unless she's present.

Since Lou's wife will also be at the Waldorf, Broadway Danny pretends that Tina is his date. Comic complications ensue when Tina and Lou fight prior to the show. She runs off to the New Jersey estate of Mafia figures, one of whom loves Tina and writes her poems.

BUT SHE REJECTS him and his mother swears vengeance, sending two brothers to do the dirty deed on Broadway Danny who is mistakenly accused of alienating her affections.

One of the film's attractions is that seemingly complex plot line is easily and humorously visualized on the screen. All that and more is well-packed into 90 minutes of good, inoffensive, nonviolent comedy.

Even with his familiar New York, wisecracking delivery and nervous hand gestures, Woody Allen manages to underplay Broadway Danny so that the really significant moments are quiet and touching. They remind us of the very best the human spirit has to offer: Hope for the future and the will to survive.

In the end, Broadway Danny has the strength to reject further abuse and the romantic inclination to take a chance on the future.

Mia Farrow follows Allen's direction and underplays Tina so that it is clear her slick and sleazy blonde exterior hides an insecure interior decorator longing for recognition and hope. Using simple, natural action rather than artificial histrionics, Farrow projects the lost, fading blonde fearful she has nothing to offer but her exterior.

"Broadway Danny Rose" touches our very best sensibilities with a warm, humorous story about a little guy trying to survive.

Mia Farrow, as Tina Vitale, a Mafia hood's widow who gets involved with Danny and his client, also keeps her portrayal at a low key.

It's 'Hail to the Chiefs' — 52-47

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Gary Thomas looks for help from a Canton teammate while Salem's Scott Jurek applies the pressure. The Chiefs handled their Salem counterparts, 52-47.

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

There was magic in the air. You could feel it even during the junior varsity game as both bleachers steadily filled to capacity. Plymouth Canton coach Dave Van Wagoner said he felt electricity in the locker room among his players before the game.

And that electricity stayed with the Chiefs for four quarters of frenzied basketball Friday night as they zapped backyard rival Plymouth Salem, 52-47, in one of the most exciting games ever played at Phase III.

The Chiefs kept the Rocks' scoring machine off balance and at bay by switching between a menacing 3-2 zone and a quick man-to-man defense. The Rocks were unable to get into any type of flow offensively.

Offensively, the Chiefs were led by the all-around talents of Mark Bennett. He scored (12 points), he dished off (10 assists), and he rebounded (seven rebounds). Most importantly, he intelligently controlled the tempo of the game and made the clutch defensive plays down the stretch.

"WE ARE very happy. We beat a very good team tonight," said Van Wagoner, still shaken by the excitement. "We played defense with a lot of intensity and we switched up constantly to keep them off balance. We knew they were a very fine offensive team."

Salem coach Fred Thomann said simply — give credit where credit is due.

"It's been a heck of a week for us," Thomann said. "We went to Ypsi and didn't play well at all. Then we came in here and we played, I thought, very hard. But, Canton played better. They shot well, played good 'D', and changed defenses effectively. Our recognition wasn't what it should have been, but give Canton credit. The Chiefs are rolling."

The game, in a nut shell, came down to this: Canton made the most of its chances, Salem didn't.

The Chiefs started strong. They made their first four shots of the game to take an early 8-2 lead — a lead Salem would never regain.

Senior guard Gary Thomas made his first three shots en route to an eight-point first half. He finished with 12 points, Salem doing a good job denying the dead-eyed shooter the ball in the second half.

It was a one-point game through much of the first half. The Rocks had seven chances to take the lead in the second quarter and failed. Canton finished the half like they started it, with an 8-2 spurt, to lead 24-17.

TOWARD THE end of the half, Van

Wagoner had Bennett, his point guard, post low underneath the hoop. The method worked as he scored the final six points of the half, two free throws and two tip-in baskets.

The Rocks made a run at the Chiefs to begin the third quarter. Baskets by Erich Hartnett (who lead the team with 16 points and eight rebounds), Scott Jurek and LeSean Haygood pulled the Rocks within one with 5:37 left. Haygood was fouled on his hoop, but missed the free throw that would have tied it.

Canton went on to score in its next six possessions to go back up, 36-27.

The Rocks, aided by a bizarre technical foul, made another run at the Chiefs. After Haygood followed a miss with an easy lay-in, the referee called a technical foul on Thomas. No one was really sure why, apparently it was a language call.

Still the Rocks didn't take advantage. They missed the tech, and they missed two jumpers off the possession.

Hartnett pulled Salem within two with a jumper and a pair of free throws. With 4:48 left in the game, Canton led 38-36.

IT NEVER got closer than the two-point margin. Salem had three chances to tie the game. Steals by Bennett thwarted two possessions and a miss nullified the third.

On that miss, Salem's 6-foot-6 center Rick Berberet picked up his fifth and final foul going after the rebound. There was 2:10 left in the game.

Both teams fought and scratched right to the buzzer, but Canton, with clutch free throws by Bennett, Thomas and Kevin Hawkins, were able to hold off the Rocks.

Besides Hartnett's 16, Salem had no one else in double figures. Jeff Arnold scored nine.

Salem's team scoring average has fallen dramatically from its potent 85 points per game. Thomann said the blame for that goes to the defenses the Rocks have faced in the last two games.

"The defense does things to stop the offense. It's not your guys' fault. You step out to play your game and the defense makes you change. They take your game away. Now, it's our job to make adjustments on the floor. If we don't adjust, then we got to go back into the gym and work on some things," he said.

ON THE other side, the Chiefs played a near-perfect game. They got 12 points from Bennett and Thomas, 10 from Hawkins and nine from Jim Schlicker.

"We are a very good team. I think we proved that tonight," said Van Wagoner. "And if there are any doubters, then we'll just have to see when we get them on the court."

Canton (7-2 in the Western Lakes and 9-3 overall) take over sole possession of first place in the Western Division. Churchill, who had been tied with the Chiefs, lost to Stevenson 55-53 Friday.

Salem (7-1 in the league, 9-2 overall) are still two games ahead of Stevenson in the Lakes.

Chris McCosky

Crowd, spirit abound and the AD's happy

JOHN SANDMANN was all smiles.

I had never seen the man smile as much as he did last Friday night. The Canton gym was crammed full of students, parents and faculty members. The fans were enthusiastic, they were loud and they were having a great time. They were all treated to a fantastic basketball game between two very good teams.

"The ticket counter asked me if he should stop selling tickets," said Sandmann, the Plymouth-Canton athletic director. "I said, 'Heck no, let everybody in.'"

It must have been like a dream come true for this man. He has longed for the student body and community to come out and support the Canton and Salem athletic teams. He got his wish Friday.

The spirit demonstrated by both student bodies was electric. It began Friday afternoon. Sandmann orchestrated a daring joint pep assembly, pitting the Canton and Salem student bodies against each other at Phase III. The students were charged up and there were no incidents of ugliness. And the spirit carried over to the ballgame.

Late in the game, Canton football standout Paul Fletcher stood up and led a cheer. He had the whole red-and-white side rocking. It was beautiful.

ON THE OTHER side, football players Chris Hymes and Rusty Watson were on the floor leading the cheers for the blue and white.

It was a wild night. And I was glad to see Sandmann smiling. The man, regardless of what you might think about him, cares deeply about his program. I hope the enthusiasm and spirit carries over into the other home games. I hope it wasn't just a Canton-Salem experience.

Odds and ends about The game:

• Tell me, is Canton the best team in the park?

I wouldn't go quite that far. Certainly they were last Friday. Overall, I still believe Salem is the better team.

Here's why: Canton played near-perfect basketball Friday. They played near-perfect when they beat Stevenson. Because of their lack of depth and size, the Chiefs have to play near-perfect basketball to win, regardless of their opponent. They let down against Churchill and lost. They let down against Walled Lake Western and lost. They let down against Harrison and damn near lost.

It is awfully tough to keep up such a high level of intensity throughout a 20-plus game schedule, and that's what Canton has to do to win.

THE IMPORTANT thing is not whether Canton is better than Salem, or vice versa, the important thing is that the Chiefs are now on the same plateau with the Rocks. There is more than just one team at the park. And that's what Dave Van Wagoner has been telling us all along.

• The battle of the guards was won by Canton, this time.

Mark Bennett is a joy to watch on the basketball court. He was magnificent against the Rocks. He capped off his night by picking Salem's Erich Hartnett clean late in the game. The Rocks were down by just two at the time. Bennett was fouled at the other end and hit both free throws. He subsequently hit a pair of jumpers down the stretch to ice the win. The man is a force inside and on the perimeter. He penetrates better than most and when the game is on the line, he is unflappable. The man is All-Area material in a guard-enriched area.

• QUOTES THAT didn't get in the main story:

"This is the biggest win of my career. And I think, without a doubt, it was the team's biggest win, too," said Van Wagoner.

"We are still a solid team. What has happened is that people see now that we are not an invincible team. We are not an awesome team... It is no disgrace to lose two in a row. It's how you come back that counts," said Fred Thomann.

Don't take his words lightly. He said basically the same thing after his girls basketball team lost two in a row, and they finished on a tear.

• Last thought. Thomann mentioned this after the game, and I had been thinking it since the Ypsi debacle: The Rocks miss Barry Bell more than I or anyone except Thomann thought they ever would. Bell solidifies Salem's backcourt. With him in the lineup, the Rocks were machine-like offensively. Without him, they are out of killer. He is a key ingredient on the Rock team.

Remember this: Salem and Canton will most likely lock horns in the districts. If last Friday's game was a major battle, the district game will be an all-out war. I can't wait.

Gymnast Modson goes it alone

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

LAST YEAR Plymouth Salem listed among its few gymnastics victories a win over Farmington Hills Our Lady of Mercy. Farmington Harrison did the same.

Pam Modson just laughed. Modson is Mercy's gymnastics team. If you could get a copy of Mercy's gymnastics team roster, it would read like this:

Coach: John Cunningham
Players: Pam Modson

So don't blame Modson for laughing when teams boast of beating Mercy. It is kind of funny — in a ridiculous sort of way.

CUNNINGHAM HAS been the gymnastics coach at Plymouth Canton for five years. His years at Canton have been tremendously successful.

He has been Pam Modson's coach since she was seven. His years with Modson have also been very successful.

He began coaching gymnastics through the Plymouth parks and recreation department in 1968. He also coached at the Michigan Academy for Gymnastics and other United States Gymnastics Federation (USGF)-sponsored centers.

It was in Plymouth that Cunningham first began coaching Modson and another young and promising gymnast, Linda Beale.

Beale is Cunningham's ace at Canton. Modson and Beale are close friends and fierce competitors — always have been.

Modson was a state vaulting champ at age nine. Beale and Modson qualified for the USGF state championships when they were 14 and 18 year olds. Cunningham was their coach the whole time.

But, when it became time to move into high school, there was a split. Cunningham decided he'd move from "club" coaching into high school coaching. Beale went with him. Modson, who would have gone to Plymouth Salem, opted to go to Mercy, a private school.

"HER DECISION to go to Mercy had nothing to do with gymnastics," said Cunningham. "I always entertained the thought that if she had gone to public school, I could have coerced her onto my team. But, she opted to stay in club gymnastics."

Modson said that getting a private education was foremost in her decision to go to Mercy. But, she thought about gymnastics, too.

"When I was in eighth grade and considering going to Mercy, they had a gymnastics team. I thought, 'Hey, this is great. I'll get to do both.' But the team fell through."

When asked if going to Salem instead of Canton, where Cunningham was, had anything to do with choosing Mercy, Modson said, "It was a factor. But, private education was important to me."

Modson performed in club gymnastics through her freshman and sophomore years at Mercy, while Beale refined her skills on a team level for Cunningham at Canton.

Last year, all three were reunited.

The Michigan High School Athletic Association ruled that coaches can coach more than one team, as long as the team consisted of six or less players. Mercy agreed to declare a gymnastics team for Modson with Cunningham as the coach.

"The idea was, the MHSAA didn't want to let that kind of talent smolder away just because a school doesn't support a team," Cunningham said.

SO FOR THE last two years, Modson

Rocks, Chiefs winners

The Plymouth Salem swim team, rated No. 2 in Observerland, continues to mow down its Western Lakes opponents.

Thursday night the Rocks bolted by Livonia Churchill, 115-57. It was the Rocks fifth-straight, league dual-meet win, they are 5-0, and their seventh win in eight meets on the year.

"We swam about where we've been since Christmas," said coach Chuck Olson. "There was nothing outstanding. We were just consistent. Maybe next week we'll take some drops (in times)."

The Rocks captured eight of the 11 events in the meet, including both relays.

Erik Kleinsmith was a double winner for the Rocks. He took firsts in the 200-yard freestyle (1:51.8) and in the 100-freestyle (50.4).

Kleinsmith also anchored the victorious 400-freestyle relay. He, along with teammates Chuck Udy, Rich Hornby, and Gregg Wolff swam a 3:38.1.

The Rocks 200-medley relay team of Mike Harwood, David Workman, Scott Anderson, and Bob Bowling won in 1:46.3.

Wolff was a winner in the 500-free with a 5:16.2. Bowling won the 50-free in 22.9. Don Harwood captured the 100-backstroke with a 1:01.6.

The diving competition went to Salem's Bob Longridge. His point total wasn't available.

Churchill got a double win from Eric Baird. He took the 200-individual medley (2:12.4) and the 100-backstroke (1:04.3).

Salem will travel to Brighton Tuesday in a non-league meet.

PLYMOUTH CANTON defeated a suspension-ridden Livonia Bentley team, 131-41 Thursday night.

All but six Bulldog swimmers were suspended from the team indefinitely for disciplinary reasons.

Joe McBratnie and John Ahrens were double winners for the Chiefs.

McBratnie won the 200-IM in 2:19.63 and the 100-breaststroke in 1:07.02. Ahrens took the 200-freestyle (2:02.65) and the 500-free (5:37.54).

Dave Roberts broke his own freshman record with a 1:03.68 in the 100-backstroke.

Jim Luce won the 100 butterfly in 1:04.55 and Andy Flower won the diving with 200.20 points.

Canton also captured the 200-medley relay. Roberts, Gabe Krawzak, McBratnie and Jim Walker swam a 1:56.61.

Canton (2-2 in the league, 3-4 overall) will host Redford Thurston Thursday.

Canton qualifies for regional Plymouth Canton's gymnasts are in the state regional meet.

The Chief girls posted their fourth consecutive qualifying score of the year Wednesday in a 117.4-111.1 victory over Wayne Memorial.

Canton, now 3-1 in dual meets, was led by Linda Beale, who swept all four events.

Beale, a senior, captured the vault (8.5), uneven bars (7.9), balance beam (7.75) and floor exercise (8.0) en route to all-around honors.

"There were some awfully strange gymnastics

scores," said Canton coach John Cunningham. "I had to explain to the kids that the judging won't always be consistent."

"We were much-improved over Monday (a 117.55-99.7 win over Walled Lake Western), but we lowered our score."

Annette Bryce grabbed a trio of seconds for the Chiefs — vault, 8.0; bars, 7.65; and floor exercise, 8.0. She was also third on beam (7.05).

OTHER CANTON gymnasts earning places included Helene Zahn, fourth, vault, 6.75, and sixth, beam, 6.6; Lisa Lovich, third, floor exercise, 7.75; Megan McGow, bars, 7.2.

"Our performances have improved with every meet," Cunningham said, "but tonight our scores were so depressed that I was shocked we had as many as we did. If we had lost, I'd have been very upset."

The Observer's top-ranked team, North Farmington, travels tonight to meet the Chiefs, who are rated No. 2.

Modson goes solo

has worked out with Cunningham and Canton, (not exactly at the same time because of MHSAA rules, but close), she performs at all Canton's dual meets as Farmington Hills Mercy — as Modson says, she's kind of adopted Canton as her team.

And, perhaps most important, Modson and Beale remain close friends.

"The competitiveness is there between them, but it's a friendly competition. They root for each other and they are not upset by each other's success," Cunningham said.

"I really like Linda," said Modson. "Sometimes she's even in a good mood for more than a week. Oh, she's going to kill me for that."

But, the subject of recognition is tender to Modson. Because she has been more or less an individual in a team sport, her accomplishments have often been overlooked. Most people at Mercy aren't even aware of what she does. Beale's achievements, because she is part of the Canton team, have been better publicized.

"I'd like to have a team," Modson said. "There's more recognition of it, and I think a lot of times I'm seen as being in it just for myself. I don't like it to sound like that."

Modson doesn't begrudge Beale her publicity, though.

"I'M HAPPY for Linda. She's deserved all she's got. It's not her fault. It's just the way it happened," she said.

Modson's scores are just a shade lower than Beale's. Cunningham said in all-around performance, Beale scores about one point higher.

This season, Modson has qualified for the state regional meet in the floor exercise and the vault. She is one score above 7.2 away from qualifying in the uneven parallel bars, and two away from qualifying in the balance beam.

Her top scores thus far this season are: 8.75 in the floor, 7.8 on the bars, 7.8 on the beam, and 8.65 on the vault.

As an individual, Modson is a stand-out. Her scores indicate that. But, how does she cope with being so isolated?

Cunningham best explained it this way: "Gymnastics is a spotlight team sport. You do your thing and you are contributing to the team, but when you are doing it, nobody else is up there but you. If you fall down on the court in basketball, it may go unnoticed, but if you fall off the beam, everyone knows it."

While gymnastics is a team sport, it is still very much an individual sport.

"SAID MODSON: "Gymnastics is an individual sport. Only high school gymnastics brings out the team aspect, and I think that's very good. When I was in USGF, I was just there for myself. I guess I've been kind of born and bred on it. It's nothing different for me."

While Beale has said she will not continue in gymnastics after high school, Modson is unsure. College is for sure — she will attend the University of Michigan. But, as for gymnastics...

"I really don't know, right now. It would be nice to be on the team. It would give you a sense of belonging, but I'm afraid I'd be too busy, being a freshman and everything."

Cunningham would love to see both his girls perform on the college level.

"I started with them when they were gangly little kids, so awkward and wiry. Then they become more refined, they gained finesse. Suddenly, this gangly kid has become a woman with so much grace and style and you say, 'Isn't that beautiful.' Then to have them say, 'That's it, we've had enough.' Well, that's kind of hard."

Cunningham is friends with an assistant gymnastics coach at U-M. He'll see what he can do for Modson.

In the meantime, Modson will go on preparing for the state meet, where individual achievements receive supreme acclaim. Until then, she will remain a gymnast without a team; or, if you prefer: a gymnast with two teams.

NATIONAL HONOR

Pam Austin, a student at Pioneer Middle School, has won a 1984 United States National Award in Physical Education.

Austin, daughter of Jim and Arlene Austin, was nominated for the award by Pioneer physical education teacher Lynn Sandmann.

Only 10 percent of all American high school students receive such acclaim.

Austin, a former Observer carrier of the month, has been active in a variety of sports, including the Canton Soccer Club, Plymouth-Canton Junior Basketball, and Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball, where she has been an all-star for three years. She has been a member of Pioneer's swim and baseball teams.

Austin will appear in the nationally published United States Achievement Academy's official yearbook.

STEELER NEWS

David Bryant is the new president of the Plymouth-Canton Steelers Junior League Football Organization, replacing Drew Rentz.

Here's how the other executive board seats were filled: Larry Allman, vice president of financial affairs; Bob Kowalski and Chuck Burlison, vice presidents of public relations; Tammy Brand, unit director; Dean Swartzwelter, treasurer, and Betty Plunkett and Nancy Rentz, secretaries.

REC SOCCER

There's still time to sign up for the Plymouth Recreation Department's spring soccer season. More than 1,000 people participated in this program last year.

The season includes a preseason tournament and eight regular season games — the season runs from April to early June.

Registration will take place from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., until Feb. 3 at the Plymouth Cultural Center. Anyone 6-18 years of age can participate. The $20 fee includes jersey and socks. Birth certificates are required for new registrants. Call 455-6620 for more information.

CROSS COUNTRY SKI

Canton parks and rec is again offering cross country ski clinics, but this year, the facilities will be much improved.

Maybury State Park, (Eight Mile, west of Beck just 10 minutes from Canton) will be the site of the clinics.

Two more clinics will be offered: Wednesday Feb. 1, and Thursday Feb. 16. Each class runs from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

The $6 fee, $4 if you have your own equipment, includes lessons by certified instructors from Sportventure, skis, boots, poles, a short lecture and plenty of ski time.

You must register at least two days prior to the clinic. Call 397-1000 for registration details.

Madonna cagers win

What happens when a basketball team's defense dominates its opponent is what happened to William Tyndale College of Farmington Tuesday.

Madonna College's defense forced Tyndale mistakes which resulted in easy transition baskets and an 83-67 Madonna homecourt victory.

"We played some fine defensive basketball, and that caused a lot of offensive chances for us," said Madonna coach Ray Sobocinski.

Madonna rolled to a 41-23 halftime advantage and was never threatened as the Livonia school won for the first time in four outings.

Tony Sebastian scored 23 points and nabbed 11 rebounds for the winners. Brad Johnson added 21 and Dave Hammerschmidt grabbed 11 rebounds.

But Sobocinski called guard Gerard Thomas "the catalyst" behind the win. Thomas played a strong game at both ends of the court, scoring 14 points and dishing out 11 assists while making six steals.

Dave Routledge's 25 points topped Tyndale.

BASKETBALL NOTES . . . Local cage stars will be featured in a college basketball doubleheader at the Pontiac Silverdome Sunday, Feb. 26, prior to the Detroit Pistons-Cleveland Cavaliers contest.

Madonna College of Livonia will have teams in both games. In the 3 p.m. opener, the Madonna women will meet the University of Michigan-Dearborn, whose high scorer is Diane Convery of Redford (12.8 points). At 5 p.m. Madonna's men's team faces Marygrove College.

Tickets, available at any of the three schools or at the Silverdome, will include the Piston game.

Nordic racers slide, glide to glory

By Rich Swenson
staff writer

Who were those crazy people decked out in black and silver uniforms striding through Hines Park last fall on what appeared to be skis on wheels?

They were members of the Maybury Nordic ski racing team and they weren't doing anything strange at all — just good, hard training for the upcoming ski season.

Recognized as the best cross country ski racing team in the metropolitan Detroit area, Maybury team members work out year round to keep the competitive edge that has earned them their fine reputation.

One of their secrets is a unique conditioning program using skis with rollers attached (Roller Skis) that allow the skiers to stay in shape throughout the year — with or without snow.

And the technique has turned the heads of more than one curious onlooker.

"A LOT OF people have asked us who we are and what we are doing," team member John Gravin said. "We just tell them that we are the best cross country ski racing team around."

The season has arrived, and the training has paid off.

The 15-member team, coached by Tom Barry, includes three women skiers. Now in its second full season of racing, Maybury competes in the Michigan Cup Series, a group of nine races ranging from 10 kilometers (6.2 miles) to 50 kilometers (31 miles) in distance. Its home course is Maybury State Park in Northville.

After the first four races, the team has performed well and stands a good chance of winning the overall team championship.

people in sports

"We've done very well so far," Gravin said. "We've had someone in the top three in every race."

Greg Taylor of Garden City won the first race Dec. 17 and has added two fourth place finishes, including one in last weekend's Grand Traverse race.

GRAVLIN HAS a fifth and two ninth place finishes to his credit.

The women's team, made up of Cindy Hayes, Marianne Barry and Nancy Simpson, has only raced once so far this season, but their effort was impressive. Hayes placed third, Barry crossed the line sixth and Simpson finished a respectable ninth.

"I think we have three of the top women racers around," Gravin said.

The Michigan Cup is modeled after the World Cup (downhill skiing) series and uses a similar scoring system. Points are given to the top 20 finishers and are accumulated at season's end to determine both individual and team champions.

Most of the races are held on northern Michigan courses near Traverse City, Boyne Mountain and Battle Creek, but the long distances don't seem to bother the racers.

"There's a lot of traveling involved," Gravin said. "But it's well worth it. Racing is sheer enjoyment and excitement."

GRAVLIN, a Plymouth resident who was recently named varsity baseball coach at Plymouth Salem, became interested in cross country skiing three years ago after looking for a winter sport to keep in shape.

"It's the best form of exercise there is," he said. "It's very strenuous. Skiing 55 kilometers is like running a marathon."

Likening Nordic skiing to cross country or marathon running, Gravin said skiers must move up, over and down hills and through woods.

"Endurance is vitally important in both," he said. "But there are distinct differences. Cross country skiing requires more upper body strength. You use your upper body 40 to 60 percent of the time."

"There is also much less pounding in cross country skiing," he added. "It's much less demanding on the body than running, and there are far less injuries."

Typical Nordic skis are about 200 centimeters in length and less than two inches in width, and you'd be surprised how fast a well conditioned racer can ski.

"PEOPLE ON this team are good, fast skiers," Gravin said. "A good racer can ski a little faster than he can run."

After the team completes the Michigan Cup series, it plans to compete Feb. 11 in the North American VASA in Traverse City, the "World Series" of Nordic skiing.

More than 1,500 skiers participated in the 30- and 60-kilometer races held last year, and even more are expected to enter this season.

Lady Ocelots hammer Ford

By C.J. Rieak
staff writer

Good at the beginning, good in the middle, good at the end — what more can a basketball coach ask for?

Just a win, and Schoolcraft College women's basketball coach Ed Kavanaugh got all of that Friday as the Ocelots first dismantled then destroyed Henry Ford Community College, 71-55, at Schoolcraft.

The score was not a good indicator of how one-sided this game really was. Schoolcraft roared to a 10-0 lead at the outset, outpointed Henry Ford 8-2 to start the second half and finished with a 20-10 spree to make the contest a runaway.

"IT WAS A VERY big win," said Kavanaugh, whose team is the only one to complete the first half of the Eastern Conference season undefeated. "I thought we played a good 30 (out of 40) minutes."

"We had a couple of letdowns, but that'll happen when you get out to a big lead."

There were few times during the evening when Schoolcraft didn't enjoy a large advantage. Cathi Hengy, the sharpshooting guard from Redford Union, scored six of the Ocelots' first 10 points, her third basket coming with 15:04 to play in the opening half.

Only once did the Hawks crack that 10-point bulge during the rest of the game: on a Cathy Baringhaus (from Livonia Franklin) bucket with 4:30 to go in the first half. That made it 28-19. Schoolcraft then went on a 7-2 tear over the next 2 1/2 minutes, and by half led comfortably, 37-25.

HENGY AND ANN LUKENS, a Livonia Ladywood grad, each bagged a dozen points in the first half for the Ocelots. Hengy finished with 18 on nine-of-16 shooting from the floor.

Lukens ended with 16 points and added 10 rebounds and six assists from her guard position.

Pam Hawkins hit a short jumper to get Henry Ford to within 10, 51-41, with 8:05 to play in the game but Schoolcraft again answered the challenge strongly, rattling off 10 straight points, four by Walled Lake Central grad Caryn Lamb.

Lamb finished with eight points and 12 rebounds. Missy Aiken, from Plymouth Canton, turned in a strong game off the bench, pouring in 16 points and hauling down 10 rebounds. Karen Swereski added 10 points and nine rebounds.

THE OCELOTS enjoyed a huge advantage on the boards, outrebounding Henry Ford 56-38.

Pam Hawkins' 14 points was best for Henry Ford. Julie Wilga, from Livonia Franklin, contributed 13 and Ann Plaza had 12.

The win was Schoolcraft's seventh straight. The Ocelots are 5-0 in conference play, two games ahead of Oakland CC, Mott and Henry Ford, and 11-5 overall.

"This is the first time ever a Schoolcraft girls' team has been on top (at this stage of the season)," Kavanaugh said. "What we have to do now is maintain our intensity the rest of the league season."

"We played four good teams early in the season and, even though we lost all four, that type of competition is paying off now."

WEDNESDAY, THE OCELOTS escaped with a 64-62 at Mott when Aiken canned a pair of free throws with nine seconds to play. That put Schoolcraft up by four and made Mott's final basket at the buzzer meaningless.

It was a tight struggle throughout, with the Ocelots never ahead by more than six. Mott led at the half, 28-27.

Aiken finished with 13 points. Swereski was high scorer with 16. Lukens had 11 and Hengy nine, as Mott went into a zone and overplayed the guards.

"That opened up things in the middle," Kavanaugh said, and Aiken and Swereski took advantage.

Schoolcraft opened the week with a 79-40 rout of Madonna Tuesday, with Hengy and Lukens getting 20 points apiece, Jenny Nowicki 12 and Lamb 11. Jeanne Cummings had 19 for Madonna and Lisa Borchanian had 10. Cathi Hengy

Canton falls to Falcons

Everyone kept saying, "Watch out for Farmington, they've got some tough wrestlers. They can hurt you."

Yet, the Falcons weren't winning many meets. Going into Thursday's meet against league-leading Canton, the Falcons were just 2-5 on the season.

They finally got credence to all the warnings. The Falcons jolted previously undefeated Canton, 37-36, in front of a charged-up Parents' Night crowd at Farmington High. Canton is ranked No. 3 in Observerland.

"We really flexed our muscle," said Falcon coach Barry Walsh after the win. "I don't know if it was the added emotion from the Parents' Night or what, but we started hot and carried it right through."

THE FALCONS' victory is even more startling considering they voided three weight classes. The Chiefs earned uncontested victories at 112 pounds, 119-pounds and at heavyweight.

After the first four matches, Canton led 18-4. Farmington's Dave Hovey (15-4), one of the area's best little weights, decisioned Jeff Condit (19-11) 9-0 to begin the meet.

Canton responded with a pin at 105. Dave Dunford felled Paul Moon in 2:49. Then Heath Smith (112) and Todd Gattoni (119), two of Canton's most formidable wrestlers, won without contest.

The Falcons came back with two straight pins. Darrell Tharnish nailed Johnny Allmand in 3:25 at 126, and Rob Anglin stuck Roy Echeurri, a last-minute replacement for Jim Parks who was ill, in 1:28.

Tim Collins got a pin back for Canton at 138. Collins, the winningest wrestler in Canton history, got Jeff Jankowski to fall in 1:05.

Then Canton got a bad break. At 145, Farmington's Dave Cunningham was awarded a default over Larry Janiga. The match was tied at 2-2 when Janiga (17-8-1) got a cut above his eye. The injury was sufficient to stop the match.

Canton's Scott Tasker came back at 155 to pin Scott Martinuzzi (1-43), but it was all Farmington after that.

AT 167, Ab Hazen (24-1) stuck Wein Young in 3:10. John Augustin did the same to Eric Krumm at 185, only he did it in just 50 seconds.

And when big Dan Parilo blanked Keith Keskes 6-0 at 198, it didn't matter that the Falcons voided heavyweight. The meet was theirs.

"I'm real pleased," said Walsh, who has had a bit of a struggle this year. "We are wrestling real well now. Our goal was to learn throughout the season and get ready for the league meet at the end. We are showing some people something."

The Falcons will travel to Detroit Country Day tomorrow for meets against DCD and Milford. Canton (6-1 in the North Lakes, 6-3 overall) travel to Northville Thursday.
