Board nears decision on 6-period school day

By Margaret Neubacher staff writer

After spending most of a 31/2-hour study session discussing a six-period middle school day, Plymouth Canton Board of Education members left the meeting still divided on the issue.

They vote on it at the Monday, March 12, regular meeting.

Dr. John Telford, executive director of secondary education and chairman of the Six-Period Day Curriculum Committee, presented three options for the board's consideration.

Telford asked the board to bear in mind that the 16-member committee of teachers and administrators had completed its final recommendations in only six meetings. "Due to the short time frame, it is hoped that the curriculum option seis the same in all three options. Students have no electives and are required to take the following: 40 weeks English, social studies, math, science; 20 weeks physical education; 10 weeks computer, art, music, industrial arts, skills for living, or health.

The first and preferred option for eighth graders contains no electives and requires: 40 weeks English, social studies, math, science; 20 weeks physical education; 10 weeks computer, art, careers, industrial arts, skills for living, or health.

The second options drops "careers" and replaces it with music for 10 weeks. The third, and least preferred option, drops music and requires 20

After a lengthy discussion, trustee Elaine Kirchgatter openly supported the plan as presented.

"I feel the additional time we are now able to give the basics far outweighs the relatively minor concerns of what kid is able to take shop or home economics,"Kirchgatter said. In the six-period day, classes will be 55 minutes long, eight minutes longer than the present seven-period classes. Dr. Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction, pointed out that teachers would be able to better cover course objectives with the additional Board President Glenn Schroeder made clear his intentions to accept the curriculum proposal as presented, and told board members he expected to hear from them if they felt differently.

Trustee Thomas Yack said he would let Schroeder know his feelings when he voted. No other board member, with the exception of Kirchgatter, made their feelings about the six-period day plans very clear.

THE CURRICULUM committee also was charged with scheduling provisions for a six-period day. It listed three scheduling concerns: lunch periods, adequate staffing, and sixth grade sched-

Regarding staffing, Superintendent Dr. John Hoben explained, "If you are willing to go with free choice, and are willing to accept classes of 12 or 18, staff needs are going to balloon up.

This is my major budgetary concern.' The committee was not able to resolve lunch hour scheduling and presented the pros and cons of split and non-split lunch hours.

Mentioned in the report of the sixperiod day committee, was the fact that developmental reading would make up 5-6 weeks of the seventh and eighth grade language arts curriculum.

The report went on to say that remedial reading would be continued as part of the middle school program. Also, seventh and eight grade students electing performing arts could eliminate four 10-week classes, or two 10-week classes and 20 weeks of physical education with permission from the princi-

MEA to hear charges by censured teachers

A hearing has been scheduled on the union's right to reprimand or discipline its non-striking members.

The Michigan Education Association (MEA) Board of Reference has set a hearing for Saturday, March 3, in Lansing to hear complaints against the Plymouth-Canton Education Associa-

At issue is Resolution No. 1, adopted last October by the PCEA Executive Board, criticizing some 55 members who reported for work during last fall's strike. The resolution also bars the nonstriking teachers from holding any elected or appointed office in the PCEA for the life of the contract.

The non-striking teachers involved argue the strike was not only illegal but also improper as a master agreement, including a no-strike clause, was in effect when the walk-out occurred.

The censured teachers unsuccessful ly asked that the resolution be rescinded and an apology issued. The group then hired an attorney, David Kallman of Lansing, to represent them.

Kallman, in turn, has filed charges against the officers of the PCEA for violating its bylaws because of the way it took action against the non-strikers. Kallman also has unsuccessfully sought rescinding of the resolution.

There are sanctions which the MEA provides for, and we are making some charges and asking for those sanctions from the Board of Reference," Kallman said earlier this week. (The Board of Reference is the union's judicial arm to handle disputes between members and their union.)

We are proceeding now toward hearing. We have not been given many options to settle the differences beforehand, so we will take this as far as we

CHARLES "TRAV" GRIFFIN, MEA executive director for teacher unions in this area, stresses that the hearing will be on the charges Kallman has filed, not on the PCEA's resolution.

"Kallman has assumed the resolution represents some type of formal charges against his clients," Griffin said Monday. "But the PCEA Execu-charge, only a resolution."

Ruling expected March 1

Because Kallman has filed charges against the PCEA, Griffin said, the matter now falls under the jurisdiction of the state Board of Reference and as an area director he is barred from participating in any official capacity.

As a result the PCEA officers will have to arrange to hire their own representative or attorney, he added. On Nov. 25 Kallman sent a letter to Mickey Edell, president of the PCEA, asking that Resolution No. 1 be rescinded and expunged from the record at all levels of the union.

'In the past the PCEA Roard has always followed a no-reprisals policy once the strike ended. This is the first time members have been censured after a strike.'

> — David Kaliman Attorney

The resolution violates the union's own bylaws as well as its master agreement with the school district, Kallman wrote Edell. "It is clear that the PCEA Executive Board has absolutely no authority to censure members or suspend members' rights. This power resides completely within your judicial structure, which is the Board of

If the PCEA is interested in due process and equal protection of the law, wrote Kallman, its officers would rescind the resolution and institute charges against the 50-55 non-striking teachers before the Board of Reference so a proper hearing could be held. "Your refusal to do this indicates a complete disregard and disrespect for your own legally adopted rules and tive Board does not consider it a procedures. My clients expect such recission and expungement to be disseminated in exactly the same manner as the original resolution."

Kallman said he never heard back from the PCEA but did receive a phone call from Griffin indicating he should proceed toward a hearing if he wished. Griffin said he indicated that because charges were made by Kallman against the PCEA leadership the only choice that remained was to go to hear-teachers. The executive board did not take any action against the coaches and band leaders who continue to provide services during the strike, he added, and took no action against other teachers who refused to picket or who taught at home during the illegal strike.

Kallman is asking the MEA Board of Reference to: Adopt a formal censure of the PCEA Executive Board; fine each board member one year's dues to be paid to the PCEA; removal from office of all executive board members and from their union offices; suspension of the board members' right to hold any elective position for two years; and suspension of executive board member's union membership for two years.

Freeway sniping suspect arrested

A series of snipings at motorists along the Jeffries Freeway in Livonia around midnight Saturday has led to the arrest of a 27-year-old Plymouth

The man, Mark Cox, is also a suspect in a shooting shortly after midnight of two customers at Nitro, a dancing spot at the I-96-Telegraph intersection in Detroit. Detroit police are currently investigating the incident, in which a bullet was fired through a window into the 🤊 nightclub, injuring a man and woman.
The shooting took place at 12:30 a.m.
Sunday, minutes after the snipings on

County reaches hospital accord

A compromise ordinance to govern Wayne County General Hospital in Westland has won 11-2 approval of the county commission and seems less like to be vetoed by County Executive Wil-

Two earlier versions were vetoed by Lucas, who objected to the commission's trying to hold onto authority to select a hospital governing board.

The commission was unable to put together 10 votes to override the vetoes and made a third attempt after direct negotiations with the executive.

The commission approved the ordinance after accepting amendments proposed by commissioner Mary E. Dumas, R-Livonia.

Her amendments would refine the executive's authority to appoint a board of institutions and would limit commission authority over hospital affairs to budget appropriations and approval of any sale, lease or reduction of AREA COMMISSIONERS voting for the ordinance were Dumas; Kay Beard, D-Inkster, whose district includes the hospital; and Milton Mack, D-Wayne.

Opposed were two east side commis-- John Hertel, D-Harner Woods, and Stanley Rozycki, D-Detroit. Richard Manning, D-Redford, was Hertel said the Dumas amendments improved the ordinance but nevertheless strengthened a "questionable need to keep the hospital." Hertel agreed with Lucas that it should be sold.

Hertel also said the hospital doen't serve northeast Wayne County, whose residents share in the $15 million annu-

THE THREE dental hygienists are making a special effort in February to visit elementary schools as this is Dental Health Month.

"This month we will go to 10 different schools," said McDonell, "talking to more than 400 children and more than 100 adults.

"We try to convey general informa-tion. With the children we gear to the age level. Basically we familiarize them them with general dental terms, we discuss decay, plaque, brushing, going to the dentist, etcetera."

"We also show each individual where they need to brush better," said Malhoit, "With the adults we discuss oral hygiene importance to both them-selves and to their children, the process of decay and gum disease, and we try to answer questions they might have.'

The hygienists currently have a dis-play in the showcase at the Canton Public Library, featuring a "Dragnet" type story to get across some basic dental health information.

"Our community service extends throughout the year," said Fry. "Some of our other activities are hosting. We will host office tours for Scout groups and other organizations, and the doctors will go out and talk to sports organizations about the importance of mouth guards and dental safety."

Omnicom Cablevision's longpromised home-security system may be available to local subscribers by early summer.

Plans call for Omnicom to enter a oint venture with the giant ADT security firm to provide affordable home security to its subscribers in Canton. Plymouth and Northville, Omnicom had promised optional home security in its franchise agreements with the communities, but the system never has been implemented.

"I'm getting really - a cross between angry and frustrated - with the progress that has been made in bringing this to the people," said Canton

Larson is a member of Canton's cable-advisory committee, which recently asked Omnicom spokesman Peter Newell to make a report to Canton's Township Board.

Since Omnicom has the same system for Canton, Plymouth and Northville, the security service would be available to all its local subscribers.

According to police reports, burgla-ries and larcenies are increasing. Police in both Plymouth and Canton recently have established goals to beef up neighborhood watch and crime prevention programs.

Newell is projecting the installation of for such a wireless unit at $695, with a $22 monthly monitoring fee. Hard-wire systems cost an estimated $2,000-$3,000, according to Newell.

"The original plan was for Omnicom to form a security business," Newell said. "It was my conclusion that would be unwise. We decided to take a different systems."

The service would be available to subscribers within 90 days after Omnicom reaches agreement with ADT, Omnicom Cablevision, a division of Capital Cities Communications, has been providing local cable-TV pro-gramming in Plymouth, Canton and Northville for a little more than two years. Security services were to be available by July 1983.

After extensive research, it was determined a joint venture with an existing security firm would be the most feasible plan, said Newell, Capital Cities senior vice president. The 108-yearold ADT firm, said to be the largest in the security field was chosen after discussions with several other firms, according to Newell.

"Omnicom and other cable companies understand they aren't security firms," Martin added. "Omnicom is the bridging point" between the home and the security firm:

Larson expressed reservations about Omnicom's "good-faith effort" and the new deadline. He said the firm has not been forthcoming with information about the security service unless the local officials demand it.

"Most of the people who are sub-scribers to Omnicom aren't even aware it is on the drawing board or in the franchise agreement," Larson said.

They (Omnicom) have an absolute commitment to do it," Larson added. 'Maybe he is hoping with the next board (after the November election) he can start with zero again. And when you get right down to it, there is little we can do about it."

Lucas signs contract for sewer design work

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

Another chapter was written Monday afternoon in the decade-old saga of Supersewer, or as now sub-titled, Son of Supersewer.

After years of planning, political fighting and broken promises, the twisting tale of the multi-million-dollar sewer system is becoming a reality, according to Wayne County Executive sign documents for Son of Super Sewer.

A series of job-hunting workshops will be offered during March and April

by Schoolcraft College's Career Plan-

Workshops are designed to give confidence to both the novice and laid-off person looking for work. They will be conducted in the conference room on the lower level of the Waterman Campus Center. The campus is at 18600

ning and Placement Center.

Job-hunting workshops

While signing a contract to pay for the final engineering of the project Monday, Lucas announced construction of the joint North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley sewer project will begin April 1. Last year a governor's task force split Supersewer into two separate sewer projects, the South Huron Valley and the North Huron Valley.

While the south end (mostly downriver communities) continues with a scaled-down version of Supersewer, the north end (mostly western Wayne County communities) has developed plans to increase sewer capacity to the Detroit wastewater treatment plant.

Along with increasing sewage capacity, the North Huron Valley project will correct pollution problems with the existing Rouge Valley sewer system.

HOWEVER, LUCAS' announcement precedes the signing of financing agreements from all 17 communities involved in the North Huron Valley project, and confirmation of 75-percent federal-grant funding for the construc-

Unaccounted for in Monday's an-nouncement by Lucas was the source of funding for the April 1 construction start up. The contract the county executive signed with Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen only pro-vides funding for the final design work.

Breen recently received a $3.8-million cash advance from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to complete the design work. Final design plans must be submitted to the DNR by July 1 to apply for 75-per-cent federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) grant funding of the

The North Huron Valley project is expected to cost some $110 million, with the cash advance being subtracted from the 75-percent federal-grant money. The remaining 25 percent of the construction costs will be allocated to the 17 communites, based on each com-munity's perceived benefit from the

The contract signed Monday in Plymouth Township calls for passing $1.9 million of the cash advance through the county to Wade, Trim and Associates of Taylor.

"After all the years that this thing has bumped around, it is finally nice to get it started," Lucas said.

"This thing has stayed in limbo for a great number of years. All of us who are involved with today's signing felt there was need to move this ahead, and it involved compromise on everyone's part to get to this point," he said.

LUCAS IS CORRECT, compromise

reportedly was needed.
Initially, Breen and the county argued over who should receive the cash advance from the DNR. After several months of negotiations and threatened litigation, it finally was agreed Plymouth Township would receive and administer the money — while contract-ing with the county for the final design

Wade Trim will design all the Wayne County segments, exclusive of the De-troit components, according to Bob Agreements for the Detroit design work, and the Oakland County work (a small portion of the project is in Oakland County), still must be hammered out, Breen said.

Although his engineering firm only has four months to complete final plans for the first project segment, Wade said the work will be completed by Our date is July 1, and we will have the plans by then one way or the other," he said.

To receive federal grant funding, only one segment of the project must have completed engineering plans by Oct. 1— the date the grant application must be submitted. The remaining segment of the control ments will be "grandfathered"

P loses bid for more committee slots

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the days before the presidential birthday recess.

PARTY CLASH - By a vote of 153 for and 237 against, the House rejected a move to allocate committee and subcommittee slots to Republicans in the same proportion as they hold seats in the 435-member House. The vote occurred during debate on House Resolu-

Democrats, who control the House and write its rules, allow Republicans a limited number of seats on each panel. Although the GOP accounts for about 38 percent of the overall House membership, its representation on committees averages below 38 percent.

Republicans say this enables Democrats to kill in committee many bills that would succeed if debated on the floor in full public view. They say that with their own membership on a given panel plus support of conservative Deomcrats, they could salvage many of their major bills.

Critics say too many state prisoners abuse it and clog the courts by filing endless habeas corpus appeals with federal judges. Because a constitution-al question is at stake, federal courts must hear the appeals.

In part, this bill places a statute of

"We may not be in the building for a few weeks," Smith said, "but Michigan National is pleased to have found a place in Plymouth."

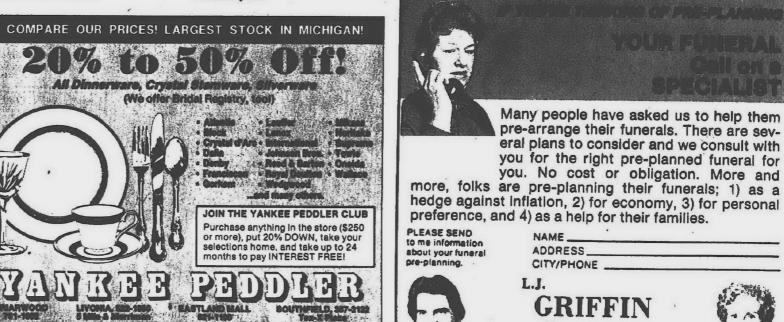

The 24-hour bank is a relatively new banking facility which will be what is officially called a Walk Up Bank where one can deposit or withdraw funds at any time. The facility has become popular in other areas and no doubt will be an asset, according to Smith.

The First of America Bank in Lorenz Square was originally the First National of Plymouth when it was organized

High schoolers need own lobby

T THE ELEMENTARY level, parent-teacher groups are almost a fourth branch of government in Plymouth-Canton Community

Even more so, parent advisory councils exert great pressure as lobbyists for stu-dents at the middle school level.

But at the high school level, no such cohesive group exists. Oh, the students do have the student council, Executive Foturn, National Honor Society and similar groups to speak up for their concerns. Teachers have the union to watch out for their interests. But teachers and students don't always act in a coordinated manner. and most often parents are left drifting unorganized, ignored, muddled.

That's why the Observer takes some interest in a current effort to organize a Parent Teacher Group at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP). The idea certainly has merit and ought to have a chance to get started.

By the nature of the beast, though, survival is questionable unless parents make an extra effort to get invovled. They must decide such a group is needed and choose to remain involved for at least a year to give the group a chance to organize and become effective.

Why is such a group necessary?

THE FOUNDERS cite two reasons, both of which have merit.

First is the need for parental involve-ment at the high school level. Certainly high schoolers do not need the same kind of involvement from mom and dad as they received in the early grades, but they still need assurance their parents care about their academic and social growth at the CEP. Beyond caring, it's also helpful for students to know that their parents understand how their life is at the Park - no easy task for the uninitiated.

This relates to the second goal of the group - to have timely programs for parents which draw them into the CEP and help them understand the system. Just learning how to walk around the two schools, plus the music/phys ed phase, and find where classrooms, libraries, and other learning centers are located would be valuable knowledge to obtain. (If you are interested, at this point, call Cindy Burnstein, Plymouth resident and CEP teacher, at 459-9435 after 5 p.m.)

These are both worthy goals, and big enough bites for a fledging group. If enough parents and staff members show an interest and the group really gets off the ground, there are other valuable functions which could be assumed.

AS ALLUDED TO at the beginning of this editorial, high school students also need a lobbying/watchdog group to look after their specific interests and, if necessary, storm the Park administration, central administration or school board to make sure the CEP viewpoint is under-

It would be helpful to both high school principals to be approached by a "united front" of students, parents and faculty members when dealing with broad issues which affect the entire student body. Likewise, communication with central administrators and/or the school board would be much easier if it were known the group spoke for a broad constituency.

And, politically, there always is power in numbers. At CEP now, there is only a collection of special interest groups (band, athletics, language students, journalists, etc.) watching out for their areas of concern. Even groups like student council or Executive Forum are not equipped to represent the views of parents or faculty, just as the teachers' union cannot function as the representative of students at the Park.

A PARENT-STAFF organization could provide a valuable service to the community by functioning as a coordinating committee. The Park administration now is involved in this function, but it's a need which also could involve a parent-teacher

Would it be possible for all fund-raising plans of all CEP groups to be channeled through the parent-teacher group? Maybe a schedule could be established so the community was not bombarded over a weekend with all kinds of requests to buy candy, calendars, candles, cookies, cards, etc. Maybe creative fund-raising ideas could be shared and all groups benefit.

There would be some benefit if band parents could be drawn to a meeting to hear the athletic director give a talk on the needs of his department, and vice ver-

It would be helpful to have other speakers, such as experts to advise parents on how to finance college education.

Hopefully, these suggestions are enough to whet the appetite of CEP parents. If you still are interested, at this point, call Cindy Burnstein at 459-9435 after

New phase for drug educat

DRUG ABUSE education for youth has gone through many stages.

In the 1950s, virtually no instruction was given. After LSD, speed and other mind-altering drugs came along in the late 1960s, the early 1970s were full of stong warnings about overdose and "tripping out."

After that, fear of drug excess seemed to die. Hallucinogens were replaced by the more socially acceptable alcohol. Some today even question if there is a drug

YES, WE HAVE a drug problem — it's just in a different form.

John Farrar is director of the Community Commission on Drug Abuse, an agency which conducts alcohol abuse programs at three sites in Livonia and Westland. In a recent interview, he said drug abuse is more subtle because young persons experiment less with such exotic drugs as LSD and PCP.

"Now we've got Miller beer, and we're talking about what 'good kids' are doing on weekends," he said. Many teens are 'incubating alcoholism."

Others have noted a dramatic change in the availability of drugs.

"In the late 1960s, I remember when you could buy an ounce or two of marijuana on the streets," said Sgt. Larry Squires, a narcotics expert with the Westland police. "Now within one mile of John Glenn High School in any direction, there isn't a drug on the street that you can't buy."

UNFORTUNATELY, AS fear of drug abuse among young persons has subsided, so has parental interest.

I recently went to a program on drug abuse for parents. More teachers and police officers attended than parents.

In November about 80 such meetings were held throughout the metropolitan television show, "The Chemical People."

Only about 25 attended one for Westland and Canton Township parents. Organizers were not disheartened. "Alcoholics Anonymous started with two people," said Don Hardin, a Westland resident who is a substance abuse counselor with Local 163 at GM's Detroit Diesel plant.

Out of the Westland meeting, a task force on drug abuse was organized. Its next public meeting will be at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, March 13, at John Glenn.

A GOOD SIGN came in a recent study by the University of Michigan Institute for Social Research.

A national survey of 17,000 high school seniors indicated use of marijuana and other illicit drugs declined in 1983. It noted the overall decline is "an encouraging sign that the downturn, which began in the past couple of years, is real and con-

But the study also showed that the majority of the seniors had experimented with drugs. And an "alarming" 41 percent had taken five or more drinks in a row during the two weeks prior to the survey.

Campaign mill gets early prime

Even though election time still is a ways off, campaign committees already are gearing up for November.

In Plymouth Township there's good-news and possibly bad news for voters. And that's not to mention the interesting news being generated by the rumor mill.

First the good news.

Plymouth Township Supervisor Mau-rice Breen will run for re-election. Although he formally hasn't announced, Breen disclosed this week he will run for supervisor rather than 35th District Court

Despite speculation the supervisor would file pelitions for both positions, current plans in the Breen camp call for staying out of the judge's race altogether.

That's good news for judge hopeful John MacDonald of Northville Township, as well as the residents of Plymouth Township.

Silver forexyone wouldn't agree with the same of the s

Lee Fidge will not seek re-election as a trustee. Based on her recent resignation from the Rouge River Watershed Council, and her husband's consideration of retirement from county government, rumor has it she might leave the township. She hasn't announced her intentions. She did tell me she plans to be "active" in the upcoming elections. However, "active" could mean different things, ranging from campaigning for someone to running for a different office.

As with Breen, although everyone might not agree with Fidge's methods, all would have to agree she plays an important role on the township board.

This leads to the interesting news for township voters.

Consider now two other members of the board, Clerk Esther Hulsing and Treasur-er Joe West. Could these two he considering retiring from government?

Both have been politically active for years, and very possibly could be toying with the idea of not seeking re-election. If this is the case, some interesting policying for position could jake bless.

Let's not forget our health while in pursuing 'New Basics'

(The following guest column was written by Dr. E.J. McClendon of Plymouth Township, professor of health education at University of Michigan and member of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.)

"No knowledge is more crucial than knowledge about health. Without it, no other life goal can be successfully achieved. Therefore, all students should study health, learning about the human body, how it changes over the life cycle, what nourishes it and diminishes it, and how a healthy body contributes to emo-tional well-being."

The above statement, a curriculum goal of the Michigan Association of School of the Michigan Association of School Beards, suggests that health education should not be overlooked in pursuit of the "New Basics" prioritized by the National Commission on Excellence in Education. Veither should the importance of health education be minimized by Plymosth-Ganton curriculum planners developing subjects for middle school students for the -period day beginning in the fall.

properly addressed in the curriculum through planned health instruction.

It must follow that the strong commitment parents reportedly have to their schools includes an expectation that these will be dealt with. Surely they would expect this to be one of the characteristics of excellence. Is it not possible that a society beset by threats of nuclear war, conflicts over social and moral values and economic uncertantities needs good mental and physical health as an asset to learning, more than it needs a curriculum organized around labels in English, mathematics, science and social studies?

These conditions erode mental health yet must rely on an unevenly distributed health care system for remediation, if no liealth education program is in place. This must surely work against effective learning more than would a curriculum whose labels differ from those of the college preparation curriculum of yesteryear. Technology already is radically ransforming occupations in health care, nedical science, food processing, energy roduction and many others. In light of this, does it not follow that we need more, not fewer people, who come out of school "health literate" and that the introduction to these new technologies should be done

THE QUALITY OF mental and physical health (and often these are determined to level of learning about health decimals the greatest stage indicator of about and readiness to learn.

lèarn. High expectations have been shown to be the trigger to launch high performance in learning. But the individual who lacks his health may surrender to the challenge if he lacks the physical energy and emotional stability to focus his talents. The school which presents challenges that exceed the individual's health potential erects barriers rather than stimulating achievement.

A society that values learning as a tool for adaptation to a changing world also must value the means of the learning which is founded in the health of the learner. To raise expectations which cannot be met produces apathy not achieve-

Ernest L. Boyer writes for the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching that every student should be taught by a qualified health teacher and not have health assigned to physical education teachers who have little interest and limited preparation in the field. I assert that there is no more similarity between health education and physical education than there is between English and world history!

The school is the appropriate place for youth to learn to promote, preserve and protect their own health, and a trained health education instructor is the most logical facilatator. It still is true that the quality of learning is a direct function of the quality of health.

Could those who seek excellence in edu cation possibly acknowledge that nothing is more basic to excellence in learning than health?

Blanchard OKs switch; state to build new prison

A five-month battle over the location of a prison site in Northville Township has ended in a victory for local officials.

Gov. James J. Blanchard announced construction of the regional corrections facility. will continue at Pive Mile and Beck Road, in the western part of the township.

The state will drop plans to revamp the Plymputh Center for Human Development property on the northwest corner of Pive Mile and Sheldon — a plan bitterly opposed by local and Wayne County officials.

"This action balances the urgent need to expand our prison capacity with the legitimate, but competing, interest in local development projects that increase the community's tax base," Blanchard said.

"We are very pleased that the governor is sensitive to the problems of the Northville/Plymouth area and has seen fit to henor a commitment made by the previous administration to restrict the prison site to the far western edge of the township," said Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville.

State officials earlier had targeted the Beck Road site for construction of a prototype medium-security prison and started preliminary work.

Last year, however, officials from the state Corrections Department proposed abandoning the new construction site in fayor of renovating the existing building, which is due to be closed.

"JUST SAVING construction costs is not a good enough reason to break a commit-ment to the local governments — especial-ly on sensitive issues such as prisons and mental health facilities," said Rep. Gerald

"The real thing with the prison problem is that the state made a commitment to a community as far as a site, and they have to live up to that commitment," Law said.

IN A STATEMENT released Thursday, Governor Blanchard said, "I am pleased to receive the recommendation to abandon plans to convert the former Plymouth Development Center for use as a prison.

"The economic impact information, which I requested, has shown that a long-

Library view is gratifying

To the editor:

We read with great interest the recent informa-tion that Centennial Educational Park (CEP) graduates rated library services at the Park (CEP) graduates rated library services at the Park very high in their evaluation of their high school education, as reported by the American College Testing (ACT).

This is very gratifying to learn! And it attests to the importance of professionally trained, qualified, and certified teaching library media specialists, and the presence of experienced adult support staff

Good library services don't just happen. Modern school librarianship is a rapidly evolving, creative undertaking, requiring ample funding and staffing. At CEP, services are being rendered of diverse nature, in keeping with the modern high school curriculum which completely experiences. culum which emphasizes educational experiences of many types. The school library is charged with meeting those needs.

At CEP we are fortunate to have professionals with a minimum of a master's degree in library science from an accredited university library school, subject specialties, and certification, plus years of accumulated experiences.

In these days of shrinking budgets, the giving of exemplary services becomes more and more difficult. To make maximum use of money and matericult. To make maximum use of money and materials calls for professional expertise. We aspire to excellence and shall continue to do so.

Don't collect Campbell labels

The school/library collection of Campbell Soup labels for audio-visual equipment in our community promotes social injustice.

Farmworkers experience the most deprived conditions of any group of workers in our country: poverty-level income, unsanitary labor camps, high infant-mortality rates, and a life-expectancy of 49 years. These farmworkers need to have a voice through labor organizing and collective bargaining.

By boycotting Campbell's products, you will help others to a better life. By purchasing cheaper, competitive brands, the money difference saved could buy equipment at less expense from a store.

All 26 OF the First Lady inaugural ball gowns in the Seely-Deer collection will be in the Woman's Club fashion show Wednesday. Until Monday, they were going with 25. The only one missing was Abigail Fillmore's lavender satin gown. Sue Ann Eberlein will model the gown that has the smallest waistline of them

Abigail was 52 when her husband, Millard Fillmore, became president of the United States in 1850. Her inaugural gown was fashioned to emphasize her petite figure. Embroidery on the skirt was more concentrated toward the hemline which was finished with ruching of the same lavender satin as the dress. Silk net softened the bustline. and she wore a shawl of handmade lace over her shoulders.

As Mary Childs said, it would not seem right to leave out Mrs. Fillmore in a Plymouth Woman's Club luncheon/fashion show. The Fillmores have a Plymouth connection; Millard Fillmore was Lloyd Fillmore's great-great-uncle (his grandfather's uncle).

Lloyd Fillmore was a longtime Plymouth resident, and his widow, Mary, has family mementos of President Fillmore's years in the White House.

She has the guitar that he packed to take to Washington when they moved from Buffalo and two vases that they used in the White House. She also has President Fillmore's father's cane.

Mary will be at the luncheon and fashion show in the Mayflower Meeting House and is looking forward to seeing all the inaugural ball gowns, especially Abigail what we're about from a slightly less serious point of view," according to WRC director Virginia Wilhelm,

Part of the new lightheartedness is centered around an informative luncheon series that was inaugurated last

It's already an overwhelming success, reports Wilhelm.

The setting is the college's incompar-

Community merchants present 'a lovely afternoon'

How about some fun, fun, fun? Remember a little while back when I told you about the bridal fashion show that several of our merchants were presenting? Well the time is drawing near, so here is the update I promised you. The show was put together by Rose Catering and promises to be a lovely afternoon.

As I mentioned before, if it can be found in the Plymouth-Canton community, it will be there.

A couple of terrific points about this lovely affair are the price, only $2 in advance or $3 at the door, and the participating businesses. The businesses are right here in our community, promoting our community and, naturally. many of the owners and employees live in our community.

Let me start with one many of you will be familiar with — Beginnings Bridal Shop. They promise a beautiful array of gowns including bridesmaids, flower girls, junior bridesmaids and even some for the mother of the bride and the reason for the show, the always-beautiful bride.

But that's not all! For those of you who just like to stare at gorgeous gowns, how about some prom dresses fit for a princess? They'll all be there, thanks to the efforts of Beginnings Bridal and other community men But we would never desert the bride. On hand for more fun gazing, "En-chante" will show off some of their prettiest lingerie, perfect for making that wonderful day seem like a dream and the bride like a princess.

OTHER LOCAL merchants, like 0 & D Bush Jewelers, will be on hand to advise you on their specialty, how to pick that lasting remembrance.

And last it will. My rings were out just this past year, and I never took them off. I told my husband that it meant he could never divorce me, ("If the rings wear out while on the bride's hand, the marriage can never be broken.") I don't know if he believed me, but I got a new ring for Christmas. I guess he figured that if he was stuck with me, he might as well start replacing the broken parts.

What wedding would be complete without flowers? Our very own Sparr's Flowers will be there to spruce up the entire affair. The list goes on: the Engraving Connection for the perfect monogram and keepsake gifts for the bridal attendants; Paris Bakers for the cake to end all cakes; Valente's Formal Wear, always the perfect touch.

I SAID FROM top to bottom, so how bout Mayflower and Co. Salon and Great Shape Salon and Spa, for perfect grooming of the entire wedding party? And to remember it all, for your table top or to carry in your wallet, Rawlinson Photography will show you how to change that beautiful moment to a lasting memory. For those start-to-finish, ever-miss-a-move memories,for the times when you have a little time to sit back and remember, V.I.S. Video, Wedding Specialists, will show us how it's

All in all, this promises to be a beautiful afternoon, with nothing but fun and relaxation for everyone. The cost is very reasonable so why not dash over to one of these merchants and buy your ticket. Remember, only $2 in advance or $3 at the door. Let me not forget to mention the refreshments and door prizes that will add to the fun. Call 453-2980 for information. The date is 2 p.m. Sunday, Plymouth Cultural Center.

SOME QUICK congratulations.

Happy birthday to two terrific people who I just happen to know intimately and refer to fondly as Excedrin Headaches No. 1 and 3. They are Brian Preblich and Cathy Preblich, two of the 'fearsome foursome" that keep me too busy to ponder the popular question, "Who am I?" Thanks kids, you keep me together.

Also on the congratulations list for this week are Stanley and Elenor Roman, who are celebrating their 29th year together. Having returned home from a peaceful second honeymoon at Niagara Falls, the Romans never have time to ponder the "Who are I?" question, either. They share their lives with their three terrific daughters, two sonsin-law and two grandchildren - Debble and Mike Lang, proud parents of Erin and Sarah; Linda and Bob Whiteaker; and last but not least, Veronica, who attends Plymouth Salem

I KNOW WE giggled a lot, but if you missed last week's Township Board Reruns, on Omnicom, you missed a very proud moment for three of Can-ton's happlest citizens.

We didn't know why we had been summoned. But when you get a call from the supervisor's office, and they say he asks you to attend, you go. We all were pretty sure we hadn't done anything wrong so, what the heek, we went, Ginny Eades, "The Letter Writ-er," Kathy Freece, former Chatter writer now on "Single Touch," and Sandy Preblich, present Chatter columnist.

It seems a little awkward to write this but it wouldn't be fair not to tell you about Ginny and Kathy, so I might as well include myself.

On with the story. The award we received was for "reporting events and human interest stories to and about the Canton Community." I think it important that you understand that even though the writing we do is a paid position, the cable shows we each host on cable television are done as community service, or as my husband is fond of saying "another volunteer position." You see Ginny, along with writing "The Letter Writer" and "Canton Contact," joined Omnicom this past year with a program along the same lines as the column, called "The Letter Writer." Kathy has just celebrated her first anniversary on cable TV doing "Single Touch" with information about places and things for singles. Me? Well I've been doing the "Sandy" show for more than two years, and have just started another show "Canton Update" with Supervisor James Poole and other township officials and employees.

WHEN YOU'RE with the Lions, or Jaycees, or B.P.W. everyone knows

But for some reason when your a TV host, they think you're paid. (Why do you suppose they think that?)

Our warmest thanks go to the Canton Township trustees for their kind thoughts and understanding about our efforts. It's nice to know you understand we are not professionals. We are just what this paper says in the cable listings, "Neighbors and Cable." And we do try. Oh we fail now and then, but

ON A FINAL note: This was the hardest column I have ever written. Yik! You would think a subject I knew so well would be easy.

See you next week, with nothing

Shellys wed 50 years

Joseph and Gerde Shelly of Westland celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Feb. 5 at a party hosted by their children. Eighty-five friends and relatives attended the dinner party in Garden City Roma Hall. Party planners were Geri and Larry Wojcik of Canton Township, Donald Shelly of Farmington, and Ken and Ann Shelly of Walled Lake.

Among the guests were their grandchildren, Shelley and Chris Paros of Farmington Hills, Pamela and Cynthia Wojcik of Canton, and William, Danielle, Stacy and Matthew Shelly of Walled Lake. Grandson Keith Shelly and his wife, Lisa, of Hawaii and greatgrandchildren Christina and George Paros were unable to attend.

Joseph Shelly and Gerde Rucinski met 52 years ago at a roller rink in Detroit. Marie Ruch and Clarence Thompson, who were with them when they met, attended the 50th anniversary party. The Shellys renewed their wedding vows Feb. 10 at a mass at St. Raphael Catholic Church. They were married Feb. 10, 1934 in Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church, Detroit.

Gerde and Joseph Shelly

Joseph Shelly retired after working for Chrysler Corp. for more than 40 years. He and Gerde are active in the Westland Senior Citizens organization and the Wayne Civic League.

Blimey — here's 'Oliver'

Rosedale stages its 15th musical

HE YELLS. They move. What that signifies is that it's showtime at Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church in Livonia and director Martha Kuykendall is once again maintaining law and order from the director's chair that was a gift from the cast of several productions ago.

It aptly sums up the discipline she maintains. It says "Yes Ma'm, Mrs. Kuykendall." When she gives an order, that's how the individual cast book - and the cast follows members are expected to respond. It's all done in fun, of course. This is the 15th year that Rosedale and Kuykendall have teamed up to put on a Broadway-style musical.

This year's show will be "Oliver" based on the novel "Oliver Twist" by Charles Dickens.

AND EUYKENDALL'S directorial approach has not wavered one lota in all the years she has been in charge of the sho stage directions come across loud and clear. The cast is prodded and cajoled - sometimes threatened and the result is a production that is a real crowd-pleaser.

This one will be particularly appealing, Kuykendall promise because of the number of young people in the cast who cavort al as street urchins and pickpockets. A lively musical score — right up music teacher Kuykendall's alley makes it doubly entertaining. As in previous years, three performances have been scheduled Friday-Sunday, March 2-4, at the church, 9601 Hubbard. Performances Friday and Saturday are at 8 p.m, Sunday matinee is at 4

The public is invited to attend. To reserve tickets, call 422-0494. Price is $4 for adults and $2 for students.

Andy Phelps gets some help in achieving the threadbare look of a street urchin from scissor-wielding Cindy Phelps.

Things get a little rough between John Pheips of Livonia as Bill Sikes and Laurie Blackmore of Garden City as Nancy.

A motely crew of orphans and pickpockets help liven up the production that will be staged March 2-4.

What is spiritual revival?

In recent speeches, President Reagan has said he believes there is a need for "a spiritual revival in this country." For Reagan, this means "for people to believe again the things they once believed in."

Authentic revival of faith only comes when old truths find new challenges. We cannot go back and dig up the past, dust it off and present it for the future. The world changes. We change. Religious conviction can only be vital when it speaks to the present circumstances.

Recently I spent almost three weeks in a Third World Nation. The religion in that country preserves the past. I also found evidence that some forms of religion were drawing from the past and preparing people for the future.

RELIGION NEEDS to be rooted in the experience of a people. Henri Nouwen in his Latin American Journal "Gracias" says that we must look for a native spiriturality in the common people and help them to express this in their religious life. This means relating the old foundations of faith to the new

I agree with President Reagan. There is a deep spiritual hunger in our society. He might disagree with me when I describe the nature of this hun-

moral perspectives

Rev. David Strong I believe that America feels a hunger in which to live. Political freedom is and fear. not the only thing at issue. Everyone in the world has a right to share in the world's resources. We are not content to be rich in a poor world. We desire to be loving, generous and grateful neighbors. We want to give. AMERICANS are spiritually disturbed by our arms race for we would like to believe that we can love our neighbors. We are frustrate by those leaders who continually warn us of the evils of the Soviets and all in league with them. Our hope that somehow America can help make a gift of peace and friendship to the world is buried by the pentagon.

We yearn to again be generous and loving, to grasp again a program such as the Peace Corps. We cannot revive a religion which ignores the conditiion of the rest of the world. We cannot revive to help the world become a better place a religion which is subservient to hate

WE CANNOT revive a religion that places emphasis simply upon individual morality. We cannot worship God as Father without recognizing that all the people on the earth are his children.

Our world has become a global village. Any revival of religion must take into account both our unique heritage of spirituality and God's whole family upon the earth. If God is our father, are we not then all brothers and sisters? Some years ago a book was written with the title 'You God Is Too Small."

Our vision of God has grown as our vision of the world has grown. Only a revival of religion which will take into consideration our particular heritages and the visions of one Father of all, creator of the universe will emerge as vital in our time.

'Focus on Family' film series set

A film series featuring Dr. James Dobson, a psychologist specializing in family counseling, will be shown at St. Timothy Presbyterian Church, 16700 Newburgh Road, Livonia at 6:30 p.m. Sundays, March 4-April 15.

Entitled "Focus on the Family," the resentations were filmed live during his family life seminars. The films include: "The Strong-Willed Child,"
"Shaping the Will Without Breaking the Spirit," "Christian Fathering," "Preparing for Adolescence," and "What Wives Wish Their Husbands Knew About Women."

Senate bill ends car tax break

Used-car dealers went to the Michigan Legislature seeking the same tax break which new-car dealers had won. Instead, the Legislature is about to repeal the break entirely.

In a 25-10 vote, the state Senate last week passed Senate Bill 613 to repeal the "sales tax on the difference" law effective at the end of March.

The bill was sent to the House of Representatives. Gov. James J. Blanchard has promised to sign it.

"I WAS against it. We had passed that law as an incentive to people to buy new cars," said Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, the only area senator to oppose the bill.

ator to oppose the bill.

"The whole thing was a mistake from the beginning," said Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, who supported the repeal bill. "We were pulling at straws when he passed it — anything to help car sales."

Supporting it were Republicans Geake, Richard Fessler of West Bloomfield and Rudy Nichols of Waterford, along with Democrats Faxon, William Faust of Westland, Jack Faxon of Farmington Hills and Patrick McCollough of Dearborn. Excused from the session was Doug Cruce, R-Troy.

BEFORE JAN. 1 and after March 31, Michigan's 4 percent sales tax is to be applied to the entire retail purchase price of a new car, trailer or boat. For example, on a car priced at $10,000, buyer would pay $400 sales tax. In 1982 the Legislature passed a law

In 1982 the Legislature passed a law applying the tax to the difference between the new-car price and the value of a trade-in. Thus, a buyer of a $10,000 new car who traded in his old car for $4,000 would pay a tax on $6,000 — or only $240.

Used-car dealers complained. A motorist couldn't sell his old car to them and buy a new car without suffering a $160 tax penalty.

After failing in a court challenged, the used-car dealers went back to the Legislature. The original version of SB 613 provided that a used-car dealer could issue the motorist a voucher for his old car. The voucher would have allowed the motorist to be taxed on the $6,000 difference between the two pric-

BUT THE Senate majority argued that extending the tax break would cost the state $85 million in revenue, harming local governments and school districts.

So instead of giving the tax break to both new and used car dealers, the Senate opted to take it away from both.

"The used-car dealers are satisfied they have removed an inequity that was putting them out of business," said Faxon

But the effect will be to raise taxes. Said conservative Sen. Alan Cropsey, R-DeWitt: "I don't think we've learned a single thing in the last year of recalls."

Career plan tests offered at S'craft

The American College Testing (ACT) Career Planning Program will be 6-9 p.m. Monday, March 5, on the Schoolcraft College campus.

Geared to adults who are thinking about going to college or about a new career, the program consists of a series of questions and short tests that summarize and interpret an individual's responses in a report. The interpretation helps identify job skills, assess interests and identify appropriate career clusters.

With the report is a booklet "Planning Your Career," which shows how to use the results as the starting point in career planning.

For information or a reservation, contact the Schoolcraft counseling office at 591-6400, Ext. 312. Fee is $20.

Before you subject your baby to the risk of 2 or 3 years of burning, itching skin from using disposable diapers

The alternative is pure and simple, and better for babies: diapers made of 100% cotton cloth. Cotton, unlike disposables, contains no petrochemicals of any kind. Cotton is, of course, naturally soft, absorbent and breathable.

Millions of dollars are being spent on advertising to make people believe that disposables are convenients. But the constant need to go out and buy more and more disposables, daily or weekly, for a period of years, is not convenient.

What is truly convenient is to use a professional diaper delivery service to do all the work for you.

You should know that parents are now starting to rebel against disposables and

You should know that parents are now starting to rebel against disposables and are returning to pure cotton diapers. Because it just doesn't make sense to subject a baby to increased risk of suffering from skin rash.

Disposable diapers may be easier on parents, but cotton diapers are easier on babies.

PROFESSIONAL FILM DEVELOPING WHILE YOU SHOP!

Now at Meijer®, our One-Hour Photo Lab, located in the Photo Department. Professional film developing and printing of your 110, 126, 35mm and disc color print film (C-41) while you shop, in one hour or less. We return your prints on quality Kodak paper for a good look.

We know that you take extra care in your picture-taking, and we'll exercise the same care in developing and printing your color print film at our One-Hour Photo Lab. Our lab technicians are specially trained to bring out the best in your color pictures. To help you get the most out of your pictures, we print them on professional size 4 inch Kodak paper. This gives you a picture that's bigger, brighter, more colorful and 37 percent larger than standard size prints.

We also individually sleeve your negatives and package your pictures in an attractive vinyl wallet. Our photo lab technicians are on hand to answer any questions you might have about your pictures or the photo-finishing equipment that we use.

We'll do all of this for only 13¢ per print plus a developing charge. Reprints of your favorite pictures are 30¢, and 5x7 enlargements can be done overnight for only $1.87.

To introduce you to our new Meijer® One-hour Photo Lab, we'd like you to use this coupon and save $1 off of the developing and printing price of any original roll or disc of color print film (C-41). We're sure you'll be delighted with the results. But don't delay, the coupon expires March 15, 1984.

Halting the 'homers: Set tough standards

UPPOSE ALL YOU had to do to get a driver's license was send in five bucks in care of Dick Austin, Secretary of State, then take an open-book test.

The highways of Michigan would make Guyana look like a minor tragedy. I know I'd give up driving and start supporting mass transit — preferrably in M-1 tanks.

The point is you got to have the right kind of training if you're going to perform properly, whether it be driving a car, building a skyscraper or even officiating basketball games. Now, if you ask basketball coaches about officials you'll find two things: one, they think they

BUT THEY ARE right about one thing. Officials are not trained for their jobs. They can receive their accredition via the same method mentioned above: send in five bucks to the MHSAA, take an open-book test and, voila, they can referee Friday's see them in a fair light, and two, they usually don't.

Thank heaven that rarely happens. Still, officials in this state get most of their training on-the-job, starting with grade school and junior high games and moving up to high school contests.

Some learn their lessons better than others.

Those, as Southfield coach Greg Sliwka says, "can't be influenced so they aren't around very long. They go on to the colleges or even the pros."

But it can be a long, tough ladder to climb to reach the upper echelons of officialdom. And there are coaches who believe some officials will pull strings to reach that top rung a bit faster. That, coaches say, is one reason they get

HOMERING, BY DEFINITION, is having the calls go to the home team. Coaches say it happens all the time. Officials disagree.

Tom Negochian says his North Farmington team got homered by officials in a 50-44 loss at Redford.

Thurston Feb. 10. North took three free throws. Thurston took 17. Sliwka says his team was homered last year in a three-point loss at Lansing Eastern. He says the only way to battle such a thing is by "manipulating

"I've manipulated them into making calls my way. I do what I have to do. Not that I necessarily like it, but once I have a guy listening to me, I have to take advantage of it."

Sliwka does it, he says, because there "are two things to consider (with officials): how much they are influenced first by the home crowd atmosphere and second by the coaches."

Good officials won't be influenced, and those are the kind Sliwka likes.

worked his way up from CYO and local high achool games to the Big Ten, says coaches "are in another world. They're not objective.

"If the fouls are 8-1, I don't keep track of that.

Heck, I have enough things to worry about."

Officials get the blame, Kavulich said, when play gets ragged and free throws start mounting. Poor officiating is less to blame than poor play. When the talent on the court is lacking, whistles blow more Dennis Bostwick, a high school official from Dennis Bostwick, a high school official from Garden City, agrees. "I never thought about the effect of a call on a game, ever," he said. "I never heard an athletic director imply that "The calls better go my way or you won't be back."

But Bostwick admits there are officials "who are concerned about their schedule, and they feel they have to impress the right people. But I think they do it by rubbing elliows with ADs, not by homering."

THE QUESTION is how to stop whatever homering exists and improve officiating.

Many Northwest Suburban League coaches are leaning toward a suggestion made last year by Negoshian: a staff of approved officials for league games. That should eliminate homering, since the same officials will retate between games. It's a method the Detroit Public School League (PSL) has found to be successful. Clinics between officials and teams, and Kavalich, who evaluates performance, and officials are held before each season. New officials are rated in the St. Cecilia summer league program.

"There is no question it is better for everyone concerned," said Bostwick, who is a PSL official. "It allows the officials up adjust to that league's style of altry," which being them make calls with consistency.

Salem is favored in

staff writer

It's pretty much agreed that Plymouth Salem is favored to repeat its Western Lakes Conference playoff championship.

But beskethell in these parts has been funny in a lot of respects. So funny in fact that the team with the best record during conference play (Salem) won't host a first-round game. Instead, the Western won't host a first-round game. Instead, the Western Division schools play host in the opening round, beginning tonight when Livonia Stevenson (13-4) travels to Northville (11-5). The other three match-ups are slated for Friday: Plymouth Salem (15-2) at Livonia Churchill (10-7), Livonia Bentley (6-11) at Plymouth Canton (13-5), and Walled Lake Central (11-6) at Walled Lake Western (9-8).

"Saletn is definitely the favorite. Then, I think, there are three or four teams that fall in after," said coach Dave Van Wassener, whose Canton beam said coach Dave Van Wagoner, whose Canton team handed Salem its only loss in conference play.

"But right now, though, we have to think about Bentley," he added. "It is very difficult to beat a team three times in one season."

IN THE LAST meeting, Canton rallied in the fi-nal three minutes to top Bentley, 61-59. That night, the Chiefs did a job on Bentley's improving 6-foot-8 center Phil Graczyk, who is being courted by a number of Division II and Mid-American Conference schools.

"A 6-8 player gives us trouble," said Van Wagoner, whose tallest starter is 6-2. "And Graczyk is a fine player, as is John White, but we haven't lost at home this year.

"Ell Rogers and Revin Hawkins have done a good job on Graczyk this year."

Salem, meanwhile, must play at Churchill for the first time this year. The Rocks won handily in an earlier maeting, 57-44.

"Obviously the first game is important," said Salem; check Fred Thomann. "You've got to win it in that review.

"We remark Churchill because they've played same good games over the years. They have players was can store. We're going to try to take away their raythm. Their whole game is based on the limit break and the outside jumper."

A PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL FLASHBACK

In February of 1976, rated for just one week in most of the popularity polls as the No. 1 Class A basketball team in Michigan, the Rocks tasted defeat for the first time as Believille's Tigers posted a 63-57 triumph. Nonetheless, Salem, which is now 16-1 overall, still leads the Suburban 8 in its drive toward a 3rd straight undisputed championship with a 10-1 mark. "They beat us square up," admitted coach Fred Thomann of the Rocks, as he avoided offering any form of alibi. Believille astounded the packed house by racing to a 13-0 lead in the first 5 minutes and from then on it was all up hill for the Plymouth troops. High scorers for Salem were two brothers, all-stater Jim and Tom Eilinghousen, Mike Primeau and Brian Wolcott.

For Chris Gilles, it's 'On Wisconsin'

By Chris McCosky staff writer

THEN CHRIS GILLES decided to forgo her final season of high school tennis last fall, some said it would hart her chances of getting a college tennis scholarship.

Gilles, a nationally-ranked junior amateur, will graduate from Plymouth Salem in June. She was one of the most sought-after tennis prospects in the midwest, if not in the nation.

Twenty-three universities extended offers to Gilles, and that doesn't include schools in the Southwest and on the West Coast that she ruled out from the beginning because of the distance. Of the 23 offers, five were from nationally ranked schools.

Gilles, intelligent and hard-working both in the classroom (3.9 grade point average) and on the court, narrowed her choices from 23 to seven: University of Michigan, Michigan State, Clemson, University of Wisconsin, Northwestern, Duke and Indiana.

Michigan and Michigan State were ruled out early, much to Brian Gilles' chagrin. Brian, Chris' father and former Salem baseball coach, is an MSU that the MSU athletic department hadn't made a commitment to the tennis program. I would have loved for her to go there. But, they care about three sports at State: baseball, football and basketball."

Instead. Chris chose the last school her parents had expected her to: Wisconsin. She will sign a letter-of-intent to attend the university in April.

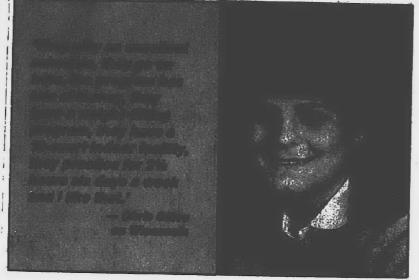

They play an excellent schedule, they go on trips, the program has lots of money, they have a weight-lifting program, they have a 12-court indoor facility, they practice for 21/2 hours six days a week and I like that," Chris said. She could have gone on a lot longer telling what she liked about the Badgers' program. It seems the Wisconsin program was developed with Chris Gilles in mind. "Before we visited there," said Chris' mother, Candy Gilles, "we said no way are you going there. We didn't even have an open mind when we visited. We just went for Chris, just to get it out of What they found when they got there was a young, energetic coach putting together a solid women's tennis program with the complete support of the administration.

SAID BRIAN: "It was like, what can "SHE LIKED the school (MSU), the we say. Everything was there for Chris:

mean, there wasn't anything lacking. We had been thinking about colleges for two years now, about the kinds of things she was looking for. Then all of a sudden, there it was."

Ferguson refers to Gilles as her "blue-chip prospect." Despite Gilles' verbal commitment, she will not be an Wisconsin has also gotten a verbal commitment from another top-ranked junior amateur, Chris Yahr, a Wisconsin native. Ferguson said the Badgers have, and have had, enough depth to be a national contender, but they have lacked the talented individual performers needed to put them over the top.

With Gilles and Yahr, Ferguson believes her team should at last crack the nation's top 20.

"YES, BOTH should step in and immediately help us. I expect them to be among our top players."

One of the things Gilles liked about Ferguson's program was its stringent

"Their practices are 21/2 hours long and they are tightly supervised," Gilles said. "I like having someone push me."

Ferguson will see to it Gilles is pushed. Wisconsin practices six days a week in the fall, and five during the season. On the sixth day, the team meets and goes over charts and match films. Practices include weight-lifting, agility drills, sprints, and a mile run which must be done under seven min-

Ward, at 145, placed fourth; and Eric Retting, at 167, placed third. North Farmington will be represent-ed at the regional meet by four grapplers. Todd Brown placed third at 119, James Benda placed third at 126, Rob Benda was fourth at 167, and Brian Hood was second at 185.

For Farmington, Ab Hazen placed second at 167, Dan Parilo third at 198 and Dave Hovey third at 98. All will Wrestling will begin at 10:30 a.m. Trenton Saturday.

Rocks favored in Churchill, meanwhile, must regroup after losing to 4-14 Livonia Franklin on Tuesday, 72-64.

The Stevenson-Northville matchup is the most intriguing of the four.

son and Salem have already won there

"If you don't take away certain things they'll hurt you," warned Steven-son coach George Van Wagoner, refer-ring to the outside shooting of Bob Pe-grum and the Northville's inside game.

"We played them before on their floor and beat them because we played together in the second half."

The semifinals will be played Tuesday with the champions

Canton coach John Cunningham felt his team should win by four or five points. His assessment

"Even though Salem's scores have been higher, the teams they have met also have scored high. That told me that we could win on a per-girl basis," Cunningham said. "For example, I figured Linda was two points better than Beth Rafail and our fourth person was also better. The middle people were about equal. And that's about how it came RAFAIL SCORED 32.20 all-around. She placed third on vault (8.2), third on bars (7.4), second on beam (8.35) and second on floor exercise (8.25).

Modson eyes state

While most gymnastics teams are preparing for a league meet, Farmington Hills Our Lady of Mercy continues to push toward the March 10 state regional meet

Mercy's "team," of course, consists of just Pam Modson. The energetic senior continues to delight crowds with her constantly improving routines. She competes at all Plymouth Canton meets. Her coach, John Cunningham, is also the Chiefs' coach. At Monday's meet against Plymouth Salem, Modson, a Plymouth native who would have gone to Salem had she chosen to attend public school, scored an 8.75 on vault, 8.1 on uneven parallel bars, 7.75 on balance beam and 8.55 on floor exercise.

There will be a meeting of the Plymouth Canton girls varsity soccer team at 6 p.m. Monday, Feb. 27, at Canton

High School. New head coach Mike Morgan urges all interested players, grades 9-12, to attend, and if possible, to have their physical exams complet-

Eagles win 2 in row

Plymouth Christian coach Butch DeRenzo has tried all season to make his team believe that defense wins basketball games.

The lesson may have finally hit home Tuesday night as the Eagles won their second straight game, taking Farmington Hills Lutheran Northwest 54-28.

We've won two straight," said a happy DeRenzo. "That feels nice for a change. The defense held them to 28 points and our offense is predicated on our defense."

The Eagles built up a 27-14 lead by halftime and never looked back. All doubt was erased when Plymouth went on a 13-4 scoring spree in the third quarter.

"Our full court pressure is paying off," DeRenzo said. "That's the big key for us: using our quickness and limiting the other team to just one shot."

Rod Windle led the Eagles with 15 points and Pat McCarthy added 10. David Lehl led Northwest with nine

The Eagles are 3-8 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference, 5-12 overall. Northwest is 0-10 in the conference, 1-10 overall.

For more information, call Morgan at 420-0063.

DIRECTORS SOUGHT

The Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League needs directors for its 1984 girls summer softball program.

More than 500 girls, ages 7-15, will be unable to participate without volunteer league directors who are willing to help coordinate league activities.

Interested volunteers should sign up prior to the March 17 registration deadline. Interested volunteers should call Rich Madsen at 420-0223, Editor's note: This story was inadvertently omitted from Monday's Observer. It appears here in its entirety. We regret the error.

Like a fighter warily but steadily stalking an opponent, Plymouth Salem's basketball team boxed Walled Lake Central into a corner last Friday night before hammering out a 56-39 victory at Central.

The Rocks started fast, nearly earning a quick

KO by outscoring Central 16-8 in the opening quarter. But the Vikings regrouped and Salem wavered in the second, its lead cut to 24-20 at the half.

In the third the Rocks had Central on the ropes, all but finished. They had outpointed the home team by an 18-12 margin, and they ended it strongly with a 14-10 fourth period.

"We kind of had an edge in the game early," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "They came back at us, then we spread it out again.

They've won a lot of big games over there," he added, noting Central's homecourt wins over Livo-nia Stevenson, Plymouth Canton and Walled Lake

BUT THE VIKES were no match for heavy-weight Salem, the best in the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) with a 12-1 record (15-2 overall). The Rocks, the defending league champions, will open the WLAA tournament at Livonia Churchill Friday.

Rick Berberet enjoyed his finest scoring game of the season, pouring in a balanced 26 points: six in each of the first three quarters and eight in the last. Jeff Arnold added some hot outside shooting, popping in 16 points, including 10 in the third quarter. Erich Hartnett finished with eight.

The Rocks were without point guard Barry Bell, who was ruled inelgible because of grades last Chris Owens topped Central (11-6 overall, 7-6 in the WLAA) with 12 points. Scott Norris contributed

"When you're 15-2 with 12 wins in 13 conference. games, I'd say you're in pretty good shape," Thorrmann said of his team's readiness for the upcoming WLAA playoffs. He added that seven of the eight teams shooting for the title have at least nine wins

"That tells you the teams in this league have: done pretty well in non-league games," he said. And the team they'll be aiming for, in particular, is the favorite - Salem.

PLY. CHRIST. 63, JACK. BAPTIST 40: Plymouth Christian used a 2-2-1 zone press defense to. cause a bevy of Jackson Baptist turnovers Friday at Pioneer Middle School, resulting in the Eagles' fourth triumph in 16 games this season.

The fired-up Christian team jumped all over their adversaries from the opening tip and raced to a 22-12 lead after one quarter. The Eagles, playing their finest game of the season, led by 11 at the half and then blasted Jackson with an 18-2 third quar-

Sophomore guard Rod Windle collected 19 points. nine rebounds and six assists to pace the winners. Pat McCarthy also had 19 points and grabbed 10. rebounds. David Cadaret netted 12 points.

Lonnie Cooper notched 16 points for Jackson Baptist, which fell to 3-11.

Why hold municipals?

The default in 1983 of the $2.25 billion of municipal bonds issued by the Washington Public Power Supply Systems tem - or "Whoops" - sent shock waves through the tax-exempt securi-ties market. Nevertheless, the municipal bonds market is still safe and sound. In a two-part article, we will critically evaluate this market.

What are municipal bonds? They are the debt obligations of towns, cities and states or authorities established by them. Many people call them "tax-ex-empts." By whatever name, the obligations are paid off by taxes or by revenues from projects built by the com-

Why do people buy them? Primarily because the interest is free from federal income tax. The bonds are usually exempt, too, from state and local taxes in the area in which they are issued. For instance, if you are a resident of Michigan and buy a municipal bond issued in this state, you pay no taxes on the interest. But if you buy a California bond, you will owe state of Michigan taxes and probably local taxes as well.

finances and you

Mittra

In either case, you would have to pay a capital-gains tax on the profit if you sold the bond for more than you paid

How do yields for municipals compare with those for other types of bonds? As a result of the tax break on interest, municipals carry lower yields than do comparable corporate bonds or even U.S. Treasury issues, which are abject to federal tax. In recent times, long-term tax-exempts have returned approximately 7.5 percent on average. By comparison, long-term corporate issues have yielded about 11.8 percent on average, and a treasury bond 11.6 per-

Does that make tax-exempts attractive for all investors? Not necessarily. Some investment advisers suggest that people consider municipal bonds only if they have income taxed at more than they have income taxed at more than 30 percent. If you are in the 30 percent tax bracket, buying a long-term municipal bond yielding 9.79 percent is the equivalent of receiving taxable interest of 14 percent. If you are in the top 50 percent bracket, 9.79 percent tax-free is the same as a taxable yield of 29.6

Is there more than one type of municipal bond? Generally, there are two major types of securities: General-obligation bonds and revenue bonds. Today, nearly 70 percent of all bonds is good and province bonds. sued are revenue bonds. These are bonds on which the interest and principal are paid from the receipts of the facility built from the bonds, such as toll roads, electric-generating facilities, bridges and airports. On generalobligation bonds, the interest and principal are paid from tax revenues

The many faces of gold would like to own some gold. Would you please tell me the different ways an individual could invest in gold? I have a friend who says there is a big question as to whether gold is an inestment for most people

There are four principal ways an in-dividual can invest in gold:

shares in a gold mining company,

e coins.

• bullion and e futures.

A fifth way is in jewelry or artifacts. However, that means there is an added cost of workmanship on the buy side and more difficulty in finding a buyer on the sale side.

Holding shares in a gold mine has an additional risk, in that profitability depends not only on the price of gold, but on the quality of the management run-ning the organization, which determines how profitable the organization

Gold coins have been a traditional, and perhaps the most common, way of owning gold. Coins typically sell for a premium over their intrinsic gold conof the National Association of Investment Clubs

While bullion will be marked as to its fineness and weight — and coins have a stated value, the problem of coun-terfeiting and other alterations is ever present. This means that when you want to sell; the fineness and weight will likely hve to be certified.

LIKE ANY investment, gold is not likely to be profitable unless its price goes up. Gold sold for a little more than $800 an ounce in 1978, dropped to $300 an ounce in mid-1982, rose to $500 in early 1983, and recently has been in the $370-$380 range.

The price of gold is about 2½ times more than the Index of Producer Prices since 1968. Some people use this fact to suggest that gold is over-priced and may not advance much for a number of

HE CONCERT PLANIST really has it made. Bathed in a spotlight he walks on stage to applause, plays in front of an attentive audience and departs with the aounds of appreciative clapping ringing

But a cocktail planist? Ah, now that's another matter.

He plays in a corner of a restaurant or lounge and competes with dinner, clinking glasses, lovers cooing and requests for obscure songs.

That's a tall order for a talented entertainer. But several area planists fill that order very nicely, thank you. In fact, metropolitan Detroit has been sed with some of the finest planists over the years — planists who have made those cocktail hours just a little more pleasant.

I try to get people to like me as a person more than as a musician. You have to offer people something in order to bring them

- Tom Altenburg

DEAN OF THE cocktail entertainers is Ernie Swan, who has worked for 20 years at the Pontchartrain Hotel's years at the routemant and Seeley Salamander Bar in Detroit. Bob Seeley has been a regular at Charley's Crab in Troy, where he pounds out the boogle and ragtime as well as anybody in the

WHAT HE OFFERS is friendship and it's usually through his piano that he cements the bond. A self-taught pianist, Altenburg takes notice of requ for songs that are new to him. He finds the record and learns the song so that the next time it's requested he's ready.

"I enjoy doing that," he says, and he seems sincere. When he's ensconced behind the plano bar at the Roman Terrace, his music and his personable patter with customers takes on the honesty of someone who enjoys what he's

'I just love the people. The people are as much a part of my life as my music.'

- Margie Hewett

"I like to work with people around me," he explains, comparing himself to his brother, who is a talented composer in Los Angeles. "I like to feel the music and I like the feeling I get when I see, by a tear in the eye, that I've put a song

Friendliness with the customers in the Trophy Lounge inside the Troy Hilton is what marks the entertainment style of planist Jimmy Dixon.

A fixture in the lounge for four ears. Dixon has a jazz-oriented style that blends with his amiable personality to create a warm, friendly atmos-

HIS FRIENDLINESS with the customers is as much a part of him as is the ease with which his experienced fingers glide through a standard like The Nearness of You."

"What makes me feel good," says Dixon, "is the repeat. The people who come back regularly - even from a long distance - to hear you play."

For Margie Hewett at Redford's Harold's Bar & Lounge, it's the same thing. She draws her inspiration from the friends she has made over the years behind the piano bar.

In Harold's, at 25524 Five Mile Road, the people who sit around the piano bar on a weekend night are more like a family than a disparate group of strangers. What brings them together is the woman behind the piano bar who's been signing on with "Margy" for

"I just love the people," says Hewett, woman who studied classical plano before turning to popular music dec-ades ago in order to earn a living. "The people are as much a part of my life as my music."

LIKE ALTENBURG, Hewett isn't offended by being called a cocktail pianist - although Altenburg likes to think of himself as a "piano-bar specialist." Both pianists are well aware of their function. Hewett knows she's there to entertain the customers and to bring back the regulars and she does that through her excellent piano technique and her love of the people she Altenburg puts it another way.

"I'm there for creating a mood and an atmosphere," he says. "But if some-one turns around and listens to one of their favorite songs, that's all right

Entertainer Margie Hewett is a longtime favorite at the plano bar at Harold's in Redford.

Artists find satisfaction in working with clay

By Mary Klemic staff writer

Barbara Gibson uses such words as "incredible" and "wonderful" when she talks about it. Gawaine Dart isn't any less enthusiastic. "Magical" is among his words on the subject.

What the two award-winning artists are talking about can be stoneware, pottery or ceramics. The years that they have spent designing their own artwork in those fields haven't diminished the excitement they get from it. Both do their creative work at school facilities and at home studios.

"IT'S SO diversified. It's never boring," said Gibson, who lives with her family in Livonia. "Every day when I open the kiln it's like Christmas. Sometimes I won't like what I see, and other times what I see is so wonderful I ask myself, 'Where did that come from?'"

"It's a very tactile medium, very responsive," said Dart, a Canton resident who teaches ceramics at Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn. "This pens when you're at the potter's wheel. You are able to control it. It allows you to do just what you want."

Gibson and Dart are among the 71 artists/potters participating in Michigan Ceramics '84, the seventh annual gan Ceramics '84, the seventh annual statewide juried exhibition of professional ceramic work.

The exhibition, sponsored by the Michigan Potters' Association (MPA), is taking place now through March 2 at the Detroit Artists' Market, 1452 Randelph in Potterit dolph in Detroit.

GIBSON, WHO has been working with and studying pottery for 10 years, has taken the art to new heights, as when she made chimney caps weighing 80 pounds each (300 pounds each with molds) for 80 Fairlane condominiums in Dearborn. And it has brought her a little history, as when she received an offer to help in the restoration of old buildings in Macon, Ga.

"Clay is so wonderful. It's real interesting," Gibson said. "You can do anything with it as floors walls outside "The students are always very helpful," said Dart, who earned degrees from Eastern Michigan University and Wayne State University. "We sort of discover things together. The work helps me with my own work. Teaching has been very beneficial."

"CONSTANT MOVEMENT" is an important part of Gibson's artwork, she says. She tries to incorporate the idea of movement in her art.

"It's more than a bowl on a base," Gibson said of one style. "All of the sides are different. You can look around and under it, and not just have it sitting on a base.

"I don't want it to be predictable. I like it to have surprises," she said.
In a "salt firing" process used with some of her works, Gibson induces rock salt into the kiln. The salt becomes vapor and reacts with a substance in the clay, giving the pottery a texture like that of an orange peel.

The artist makes her own material.
Once she used red clay she dug while visiting in Georgia.

"That was exciting to do," Gibson said. "The clay was so red it was just

"There is a red glaze in the piece that would have been green if it had been in an electric kiln," Dart said. "In some cases, a soft green glaze would have been a muddy yellow. It's an almost magical color change, more rich and lustrous."

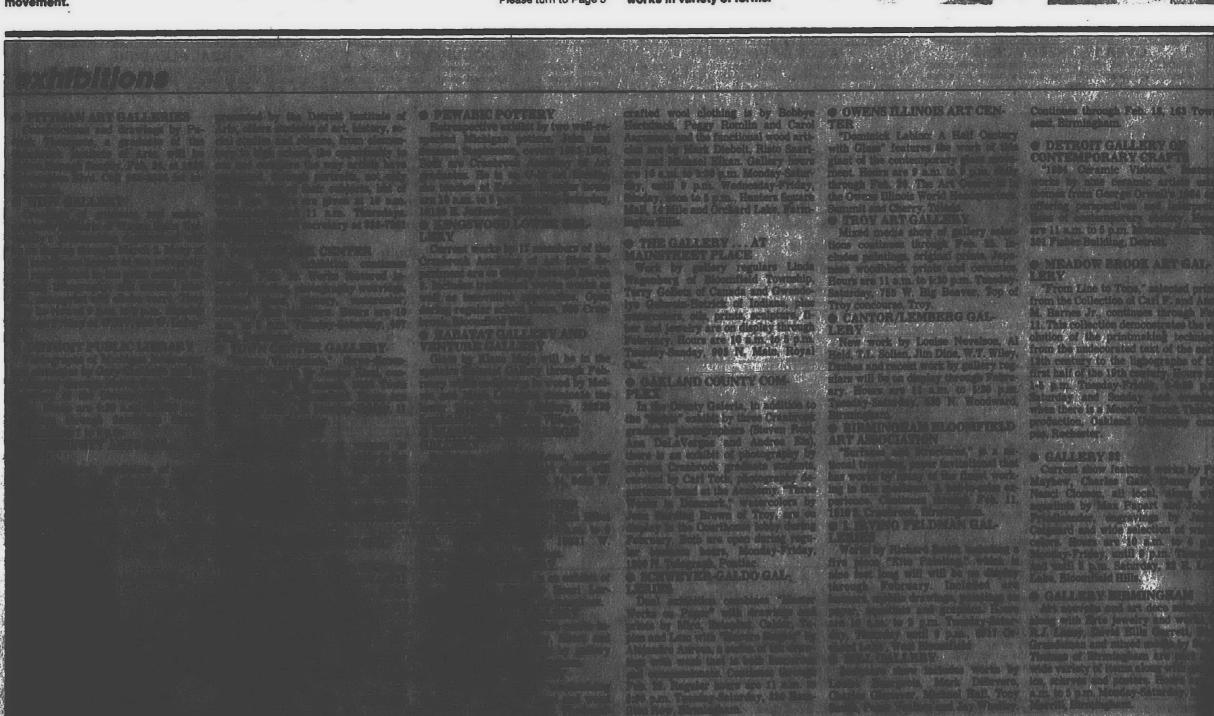

Gibson's work has appeared at sever-al exhibits and art fairs in Michigan and around the country. Dart's work has been seen at MPA shows and in area galleries, and featured in a number of one-person shows.

shots where the subject is "frozen" at the peak of the action. And, of course, there's nothing wrong with depicting subjects in this way.

But if we could intentionally blur the subject or the background to produce a feeling of motion imagine the exciting results. After all, being creative as a photographer means that there may be times you'll want to transcend the face value of your subject and instead bring out its true essence.

You can do this with action shots using a technique called panning. In short, panning means followng the action through the viewfinder of the camera and then shooting at a slower shutter speed than that required to stop the action.

Here's how it's done. Prefocus on a spot in front of you where you'll want to make your final exposure. Stand firmly with the upper part of your body twisted in the direction from which the action will come.

FOLLOW THE subject with your camera as soon as it's visible in the viewfinder much like a marksman will follow a moving target. When it reaches your preselected spot, gently squeeze the shutter release and continue following the subject through the camera as a sort of "follow-through."

Keep in mind that your movement before, during and after the release of the shutter should be one continuous,

What shutter speed should you use? A good rule to apply is to select a speed two increments slower than that required to freeze the action. For example, to take a pan shot of a speeding you would use 1/500 second).

To give a feeling of motion to a moving blcycle, try 1/30 second. For a walking individual, use 1/15 second. Remember that the slower the shutter speed the more blur will appear in the finished picture.

Practice makes perfect. Before releasing the shutter, try following the action several times in order to get the rhythm of the motion. If you do, chances are you'll be rewarded with that special pan shot of which you can be truly

Probably the poorest investment of my married life was new carpeting for my boys' bedrooms.

The new carpeting is now hidden under He-man action figures, stuffed animals, stereos, weights and last weeks sweatshirts! Adam's bedroom looks like a Fisher-Price warehouse. Kevin's bedroom is so cluttered that this year we hid his Christmas gifts in his room under last years computer toys. But in Scott's room I must admit there are patchy clearings here and there where you can actually see the carpeting. I know about how much I can expect when it comes to clean-up time. I wouldn't say "clean up your room." These rooms couldn't really be cleaned unless you could drive a read grader through them.

WHEN I want them to work on their rooms, I say, "Just try to find the floor, guys." Their excuses are classics. For example: "Oh sure Dad, but you know that class that I'm doin' real good in? Well we are having a test tomorrow and I would love to study for it today." Or, "Sure Dad, but. . I'm residing this really interesting chapter in the Rible really interesting chapter in the Bible where St. Paul is talking about patience." Adam's excuses are not yet as creative, he-just asks, "Can I wait until after Sesame Street is over?" I am sure, however, he knows that Sesame Street runs for about six hours.

"Like father like son" they say. I have an excuse or two up my sleeve also. One main goal of the Artifacts column is to answer questions from readers, and believe me there are plenty of them. I'm going to answer every one, but . . . I also want to write about tachnique new products and the new technique, new products and the psychology of the artist. Now do you see where my boys get their great excuses from? So without any more excuses, I romise, I will begin answering questions every week.

Every once in a while someone will sk a question that I could write a book

Steve asks: "Do you ever get to the place in your artwork where you are ure every work will be a success?'

I am happy to say "No" I haven't reached that point and I hope I never do. If I reached that point my art would ecome a science. A science has a predictable outcome. Art is wonderfully unpredictable. Art is an expression of the spirit, mind and body of the individual. Because art is an individual expression altered by the spirit, mind and body, it is subject to error. Any error in the work can however, be corrected.

FOR EXAMPLE, the spirit could inspire the mind to express a feeling. Now that expression in the artwork could be plagued with errors, but failure only comes about when the work is abandoned. Success or failure is a decision which only the artist can make. Since any errors can be corrected by the artist or even by the artist's teacher, then every work of art has the potential of being successful. And indeed the possibilities of failure seem to sharpen the skills of the artist and therefore increase the odds for a successful work of art.

Probably the closest art form to a science would be craft. Usually it is a uaranteed success, but in my opinion falls short of a work of art. Several weeks ago I was flicking through the channels on the television and one station showed a woman teaching how to paint roses. She said, "All you need is this No. 2 rose pedal brush. You simply dip it in pink paint then set the brush on your canvas and when you lift it off the canvas flick it to the right. Now just repeat this many times rotating the canvas in a circle and you have a beautiful rose." And it was a beautiful rose! But it was a crafty approach and ne-glected the individual structure of each pedal which lends to the total beauty of

I love to look close at the simple things in nature because there will undoubtedly be an inner complexity of which I was not aware. Now don't misunderstand me. I love crafts. As a break from art work I enjoy the guaranteed success rate of crafts. Crafts have been the stepping stone for many who later succeed in art. So don't be frustrated by your mental hills and valleys when creating a work of art. These hills and valleys are only mental checks from your mind to help you physically create an expression per-haps inititated in your spirit.

Tom asks, "We want to put a dormer on our home but before we do the work we would like to see what it might look like. The builders are no help and the architects are too expensive. Where do

MOST STUDENTS of art can render a convincing looking elevation of a missions. But I do have some advice for fee of $25. Simply supply them or whomever with some photos of the existing house and a description or rough sketch of what the dormer would look like. Before undertaking a several thousand dollar addition, you are smart to invest a few dollars to see what you are getting into.

We also are presently putting on a large addition to our home. I even paid an architect to draw up all the plans. The wood was delivered and the carpenters (my relatives) were to come at 9 a.m. but I awoke at 7 a.m. with a brainstorm. So instead of building my addition from the beautifully drawn architects plans, they worked from my artist sketch. They were not exactly thrilled but I am very happy with the last minute change. Elizabeth asks, "I am writing for advice about my son. He hasn't had a job since he quit college several years ago. He majored in art for three years. What can he do with his training? Can you offer him a job?"

A: Since we have over 200 art students when it comes time that we need help or artistic services we look first to our students for employment or comhouse. My students have a minimum your son. The door of opportunity has many shapes and sizes. Sometimes it is so big that you are afraid to walk through it. Sometimes, the door is so small you have to crawl through it. The real problem with opportunity is that it is not often recognize Gordon was in the store this week. When I asked him how school was. going, he beamed with joy. "Dave" he said, "I just got a full-time job as an artist." Now Gordon has taken one semester in art school and had no business applying for a job with one of the nation's biggest companies. How did he think he could ever beat out all those applicants with degrees in art? Gordon got the job because he presented the best portfolio. In the field of art, you may have an armful of degrees, but if you can't draw you don't get hired. In Gordon's case the door of opportunity was perhaps a side door with an automatic door opener but he recognized it and succeeded

Elizabeth, your son has no less limitations than Gordon. So encourage him to build the best portfolio he can. One of my earlier Artifacts had an outline for possible entrees for a good portfolio. So when the opportunity arises and he recognizes it, he will be some-
