Federal funds to aid city

By Marie Chestney staff writer

Thanks to the federal government, an old, dilapidated water pump house in Old Village will be getting a face-lift this year.

The transformation of the rundown pump house into modern offices for the Old Village Association is one of the projects approved Monday when the Plymouth City Commission approved spending a minimum of $71,000 in 1984 in U.S. community development block grant money.

The city expects to get from $71,000 to $80,000 from the federal program this year. The exact figure, said grant coordinator Paul Sincock, depends on how much surplus money is turned in by cities participating in block grant programs in previous years.

In 1983, the city received $80,000 under the program. More than half of the money was used to renovate fire station No. 2 into a home for the ambulance service.

The city originally proposed using $51,500 of this year's grant to renovate the DPW yard. But the Wayne County office, which administers block grant funds, ruled the city could not spend the federal funds on the yard because the money cannot be used for any public building except by the fire department. Some $6,500 was allocated for the yard in 1983.

THE DPW'S loss, therefore, becomes the Old Village's gain.

Somewhere between $31,500 and $38,000 of this year's funds will be used for new street lights, trees and promotional projects in the village. This includes fixing up the pump house for offices for the village's association, which is composed mostly of businesspeople. The pump house was used when the city had its own water system, but fell into disrepair after it was struck by

Block grant funds primarily are intended to benefit low- and moderateincome people or to meet emergency community needs. Sincock said the Old Village area is the only area in Plymbuth which has a concentration of lowto-moderate-income people. The village is west of the railroad tracks,

The city intends to set aside a portion of the Old Village funds for promotional purposes.

"This gives us a flexibility factor," Sincock said. "We can assist them in the economic development of their area, bringing in shoppers or helping landlords develop the area.'

WITH SOME of its 1983 funds, the city bought a van to transport seniors. About $17,000 of this year's money will be used to pay for a driver and maintenance for the van.

K van or pick-up will be bought to transport workers in the senior citizens chore program, a free program in which seniors get their lawn mowed in the summer and their sidewalks shoveled in the winter by mostly high school and college students. The program is funded by the Out County Area Agency on Aging. About $12,500 will be used to pay for the van.

SOME $1,900 has been set aside to help Canton launch its new therapeutic recreation program, a program provid-ing recreational activities to physically and mentally impaired people of all

Board tells why school will close

A sensitive subject drew dozens to the Plymouth-Canton school board meeting at Tanger Elementary School Monday night. So delicate was the topic that it never was stated per se. The agenda read, "Change in use of Starkweather School for 1984-85 school year." Discussion was introduced as combining Starkweather and Tanger schools."

But the bottom line? Starkweather Elementary School will close at the end of this school year. It's virtually assured school board members will approve the action at Monday's session.

Officials gave teachers, students and parents - many of them puzzled and upset - numerous reasons for recommending the move, which will affect hundreds of students.

THE REASONS include:

 housing patterns and declining enrollment, particularly in the area surrounding Tanger and Starkweather long-term district needs;

 cost effectiveness; and · a below-optimum number of students at Starkweather and Tanger thatcurrently forces the grouping together of students who otherwise would be separated for behaviorial or social rea-

Shirley Spaniel, executive director of student population at Tanger would mean more support services, such as library availability and reading ser-

Savings will be realized on expenses presently incurred for cafeteria workers, aides and crossing guards, she add-

"Also, we would like to have a fulltime administrator available to boys and girls at all times. From a supervision standpoint, consolidating enrollments makes the most sense," she said. Presently, Carrol Nichols is principal of both Starkweather and Tanger.

Student enrollment for next year is projected to be 347 at Tanger and 469 at Farrand.

According to the proposal:

 students living in Honeytree and Stoneybrook Apartments and the area extending to the C&O railroad track will remain at Tanger. Students in the current Tanger attendance area excluding Honeytree and Stoneybrook numbering about 100 - will go to Far-

• 12 youngsters residing in an area bounded by Ann Arbor Trail, Main Street, and the C&O railroad track will be moved from Starkweather to Smith. • 180 Starkweather students will be transferred to Tanger.

 Students whose homes are located off Five Mile Road will attend Farrand. Transfers elsewhere in the district are planned: All Isbister sixth graders (93 students) will be trans-ferred to Pioneer. Students who live in Brentwood Estates, a new subdivision bounded by Ford, Saltz, Oakley and Aberdeen, will go to Isbister.

Dr. John Hoben, superintendent, said as the population moves further south, Tanger will probably close.

"We projected Tanger and Starkweather would close at the end of this year," he said. "We're attempting to get more stability with this move. That is the basic rationale involved in picking Tanger kids to go to Farrand."

OFFICIALS attempted to field an arsenal of questions fired at them by the audience.

A Union Street resident said, "If you want to do this, you can. But I don't believe your concern is the students. I believe it's money. How do you explain to your child the reasons why he's one of 12 students who are going somewhere else? How does that fit in?'

Spaniel answered that the area is contingent to Smith School boundaries, and that change is intended to achieve stability over the long term.

A Riverside resident said he was 'very upset kids are not being taken to the first or second nearest school. "I'm concerned about my daughter

Home security system still far off

By Ariene Funke staff writer

The ADT security firm has decided promised security service in the next few months.

But Steve Larson, Canton trustee, recently was informed ADT has bowed out for financial reasons. That information came from Peter Newell, a senior vice president for Capital Cities Corp., which owns Omnicom.

Larson, a member of Canton's cable advisory committee, recently asked Newell to make a progress report to Canton's board of trustees on the cable home-security system. Omnicom, which has franchise agreements with Canton, Plymouth and Northville, has promised optional home security for these communities, but the system never has been implemented.

"I'm not willing to let this die," Larson said. "Pete (Newell) is going to other security systems in the country to see if the response is the same."

ADT, SAID to be the oldest and largest security firm in the country, is currently testing a wireless home security system which transmits over radio frequency. According to Larson, the firm will continue testing in White Plains, N.Y., and not expand into any other markets for now.

The failure of Omnicom and ADT to reach agreement "doesn't bode well" for implementation of the home security service in the near future, Larson

The proposed security plan, as inagainst joining with Omnicom Cablevi- cluded in the franchise agreements, sion to provide home security for local calls for burglar and fire alarms, as well as medical alert. The ADT propos-Omnicom had hoped to form a joint all had called for a wireless unit in the which could transmit emergency calls over radio frequency.

The calls would go through Omnicom cable lines to ADT who would, in turn. call the police, fire or emergency medical service.

Newell recently told Canton officials he has been unable to find a security firm capable or willing to provide the service at an affordable cost.

While Newell had projected a cost of $695 for installation, and around $20 per month to monitor the system, other companies were pegging costs in the $2,000-$3,000 range, he said.

ACCORDING TO Larson, many firms are reluctant to risk a costly lawsuit, in the event the equipment or system fails during a call for help. Newell has acknowledged cost and liability are

Larson, while admitting the proposed home security plan is largely ex-perimental, and a "huge job," believes Omnicom has not moved fast enough to fulfill its agreement. The existing system is built to accept a two-way plan, and could use ADT equipment, according to Larson. "All you need is a magic box in our house that can electronically inquire, Is everything okay?

"But Omnicom would have to take a greater role than they want," Larson said. "You have to have a foolproof system, or as nearly foolproof as you can. The liability is what is getting them nervous."

Rick Coleman, Omnicom general manager, pointed out that there are no cable-firm home security systems in operation in the metropolitan area, and few in the country. He believes the market for such service is small.

"The market isn't really there," Coleman said. "It has to be economically viable for both the cable company and the security firm. It isn't easy.'

ANOTHER OPTION, which Larson calls a "remote possibility," would be for the cable system to be hooked into the township's proposed central policefire dispatch system. That joint system is expected to be established when a new police station is built in the next year or so.

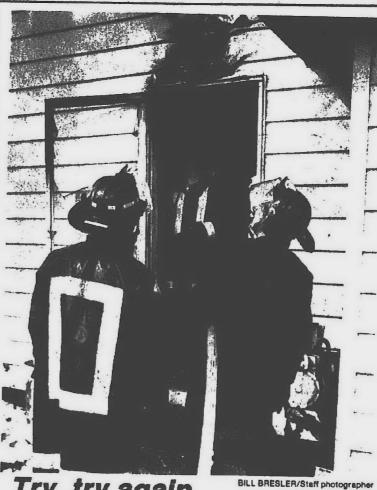

"I don't want the township (to assume responsibility) but if that's what it takes . . .," Larson said.

Larson said he wants more discussions with the police and fire departments and the township board before proceeding on such a plan. "It may ultimately be the only way to get the service," Larson said. "There is going to be a price tag, there is no question " Clerk John Flodin expressed skepticism about the feasibility of such a "If private industry can't do it, how Township fire chief Larry Groth said the home was stripped of furniture and its owner, a Canton resident, was "starting from scratch" in fixing it up when the fire broke out. The chief reported about $5,000 damage to the home, much of it in building materials stored inside. "The owner said he was going to start all over is being planned for late summer.

The idea of an Indian Pow-Wow Day was conceived after it was noted that there is a historial marker on Wayne Road to mark the area in which his bones are scattered.

A few Plymouth residents who noted the marker thought while the bones could not be removed, it would be good to produce a marker to honor the chief who fought many of his battles in the Plymouth area.

The group studying the plan first thought of a regular Indian Pow-Wow with all the trimmings. This would be a few days of celebration with several tribes of Indians on the scene. Because this would require a large area, the only place it could held was Central Middle School or Plymouth Township Park. The alternative would be to contact the Indian group and arrange to have

Members of the committee working on the plan believe that because corn was one of the Indians chief products, it would be fitting to mark the opening of the sweet corn season with the birthday party for Chief Tonquish.

Those who suggested the original idea believe that while Tonquish Creek and Tonquish Manor are names in the chief's honor, there is nothing done to honor him personally. Thus the idea of a birthday party was born.

Besides the Indian Heritage Day, there will be the unveiling of a wood carving of the chief. The unveiling is slated for the downtown area, possibly Kellogg Park.

The group working on the program is in touch with Stan Thomas, who represents one of the organized Indian gatherings in southeast Michigan. The group wants to see if this program can be established, what the cost would be. and how to arrange for a major spon-

Back taxes spur city rescue plan

By Marie Chestney staff writer

The city of Plymouth has offered to lend a helping hand to a Mill Street company struggling to pay off its debts in U.S. Bankruptcy Court.

The company, Bathey Manufacturing, 100 S. Mill, owes the city $59,595 in back taxes. In early 1983 the company, which still is operating, filed for reorganization under Chapter 11 in the Eastern District bankruptcy court.

Instead of stretching payments over 56 months to the city, as ordered by the court, the city has asked the company to sell eighth-tenths of an acre owned by the company. The land is behind the company on the northern tip of its property, near Amelia, Mill and the C & O Railroad tracks.

The city, in turn, would sell the land (zoned heavy industrial) and pay off the company's tax bill, said City Manager

Henry Graper. Graper highlighted the proposal at Monday's City Commission meeting, saying the proposal had been made by letter that day and that the company had 10 days to respond. Assistant city attorney Ronald Lowe gave several reasons the swap would help the company.

"THEY WILL no longer owe the $59,000; it would be a wash-out," Lowe said. "They are now in reorganization and have to make payments to us. Next year, at tax time, there would be no further liability for taxes on that property. And this would help them with their cash-flow problem. It will do away with some of their debt."

The arrangement would have to be approved by the court, Lowe said, adding that the company still would be liable for any back taxes owed to Wayne County or other taxing units.

Since February, the city has been waiting for the company to come up with a payment plan, Lowe said.

If the swap went through, the city would immediately try to sell the land, possibly to a nearby business for extra parking, Graper said. Lowe said the proposal was briefly discussed recently with company presience and medical degrees from University of Michdent, Wendell Flynn. He was elected to membership in the American Association, Wayne County Medical Society, Michigan State Medical Society, Detroit Ophthamologimissing her bus, especially in light of the problem in Detroit lately with school girls being raped. Are you going to walk her home? I think these boundaries are not drawn properly."

"In developing boundaries, there is always a problem," responded Glenn Schroeder, school board president. "We don't always make everyone happy. You're probably speaking of Allen . We're forced to bring kids from the south end into the north end."

"Why take the ones from the south and move them all the way to the horth? Why not move them all a little bit?" asked the parent.

"The important question is that over a long period of time, if our enrollment continues to drop by 200 or 300 at a time . . . we may be able to reconstruct our grade organization so that high school will be four years, and middle school three years," said Michael Homes, assistant superintendent of instruction.

"We need to look at attendance patterns at all 13 schools. If we undertake major change, and enrollment changes two or three years later, we would be doing the same thing all over. We're trying to get a good look at what our enrollment change is going to be, and we have to do it in parts."

Added Schroeder: "We do employ aides to make sure kids get on the right TANGER PRINCIPAL Nichols said. 'We are prepared to make it one of our prime goals to make sure kids get here in the morning and get home at night."

"I had a kid walking to school without a single safety patrol boy - so don't give me that stuff," said a Mayflower Co-op resident. "Maybe you're not doing this to pick on lower town, but that's the way it looks.

Starkweather is the only school you want to close. Starkweather's principal is the only one you want to pull out. I don't care what you do with Starkweather, it's just a bunch of cold walls - it's not even a school any more. But don't mess with lower town

NOTED FOR its Early American architecture and furnishings, Dearborn Inn has long been a favorite stop for travelers and history buffs and was one of the world's first airport hotels.

It was opened in 1931 by the late Henry Ford, founder of the auto company, to accommodate air passengers at his nearby airfield, now a company test track.

The influences shaping Lincoln

About 190 years ago Luther Lincoln, one of the founding fathers and first mill owner of Plymouth, Mich., came into this troubled world and to the beautiful Lincoln mill farm on the Mill River near Taunton, Mass. The date was Oct. 19, 1794. Read the Observer for Dec. 29 and Jan. 19 for the genealogy of the Lincoln family and the story of Luther's birth.

Among the traditions of the Lincoln family — the handed-down folklore that is a part of every family's aculturization — may have been old stories about grandfather Thomas Lincoln and the mill.

One of the family tales revealed how in 1675 Thomas Lincoln and other local leaders negotiated a peace settlement with King Philip, the Indian chieftain who had declared war on all of white New England. The treaty hammered out at Lincoln's mill slowed the impetuous Philip for only a short time about six months. But when Philip returned to the warpath his pace was more cautious. The Lincoln Mill Treaty probably paved the way toward the fi-

THE LANDMARK Lincoln mill served the community for almost two Solidly built of rugged old oak and other hardwoods, it was regarded by the people both as a mill and a meeting place. In emergenices it served as a blockhouse for those working nearby. Those who have been following this series may recall that the mill had been built about 1652 by great-great-grandfather Lincoln who was called Thomas, the miller, to distinguish him from three other Thomas Lincolns in the Hingham area. They were: Thomas, the cooper; Thomas, the husbandman; and Thomas, the weaver. All were believed to have been related.

When Luther's Thomas left Hingham in 1652 he may have been seeking a more independent identity as well as more opportunities for the milling business. At the time he moved to Bristol County it still was a part of the old home base, the Pilgrim county of Plymouth.

The histories of that early period devote many pages to King Philip's war and many mention the Lincoln mill. Probably we cannot approach an understanding of this early time and its people withou a survey of the Indian troubles of that time and place.

FOR 50 YEARS the Plymouth Colony had enjoyed a peaceful coexistence with Chief Massasoit, ruler of the Wampanoags who lived between Taunton and Plymouth.

Massasoit also was the chief sagamore and overlord of the Indians on Cape Cod and all around Massachusetts The Pilgrims also were befriended by Squanto, Samoset, Hobamack, and others. Governor William Bradford in his journal calls Squanto a "special instrument sent of God for their good, beyond their education."

One day Squanto walked the corn field with Captain Myles Standish and others showing them how to fertilize the soil with alewives (herring). Using an alewive in each hill of maize. This idea probably was new to the Pilgrims.

Bradford states that Squanto also was their pilot, "bringing us to un-known places for our profit." Other Indians showed them how to make a deer trap, and revealed where the best clams were, and where the fish were

The truth is that our forefathers probably would have starved to death that first winter without the help and guidance of their Indian friends. Let us not forget that.

Chief Massasoit kept the peace for more than 50 years. He was an amiable, intelligent sagamore with confidence in the white man's purpose. However, this long span of peace largely may be attributed to the leaders of the Plymouth Colony itself. The men who wrote the Mayflower Compact were diplomats in thier own right. Gentlemen like Bradford, William Brewster, Capt. Standish, Stephen Hopkins, and the rest seemed to know intuitively how to deal with the Indian mind.

ONE DAY Chief Massasoit practiced a little diplomacy on his own.

He requested an audience with the Plymouth Court. He brought his two oldest sons. Wamsutta and Metacom, and asked the honorable court to change his sons names to English ones. With all due respect, and a lengthy time for a ponderous discussion, the Plymouth Court recalled the ancient kings of Macedon. They named Wam-sutta Alexander, and Metacom became

The genesis of these ancient names was explained to Massasoit and he seemed well pleased with the court's decision. The old chief must have been aware of the tremendous energy and the fierce, implacable anger in his sons. He probably hoped that by anglicizing their names they would become more acceptable to the English and more conforming in their life styles.

Massasoit held them with a firm leash as long as he lived. He attributed thier tendency toward rebellion to the spirit of youth. It has been said that he often prayed to his gods to help keep his sons within bounds. However, within a month of his death in 1661, all hell broke loose.

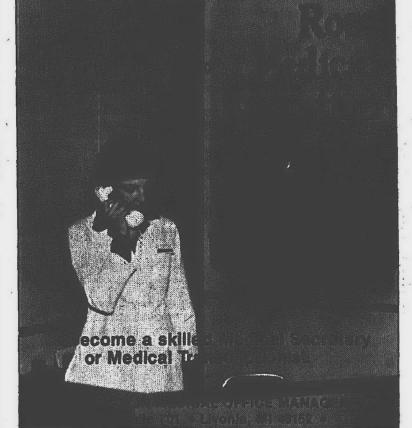

Wamsutta, the older son, succeeded is father and went to Plymouth with his brother Metacom to confirm a new treaty with the Pilgrims and to have their English names confirmed again.

A few months later it was learned that Alexander (Wamsutta) was plotting against the Pilgrims. So he was confronted at his hunting lodge near Taunton by Major Joseph Winslow and 10 armed men who commanded him at pistol point to return to Plymouth.

While incarcerated in the Plymouth gaol he contracted a fever and suddenly died. This mysterious demise never has been entirely explained by the historians of that era. Alexander's 24year-old brother, Philip, called his death "murder." Philip's rage, although somewhat concealed, knew no bounds. He vowed revenge, and he prepared for war.

(Part II of this series will continue Thursday with Philip's quest for

IN AN interview after the Commi sion meeting, Mack said Lucas' veto could hurt the executive's own cause trying to sell the hospital, which the county is subsidizing at the rate of $15 million a year.

Mack said the section requiring Commission approval of any reduction in hospital services would be done by a simple, one-step resolution. Without that section, he added, the ordinance would have to be amended through a more cumbersome committee and public hearing procedure.

Foreign language study best begun at early age

READING THROUGH the reams of material steadily gushing forth from local, state and federal educational officials, one wonders if the money spent on studies isn't sometimes wasted.

Early this year, Phillip Runkel, state superintendent of public instruction, is-sued a report called "Better Education for Michigan Citizens: A Blueprint for Action - The Michigan State Board of Education Plan." It was adopted by the elected state board.

Included are policy positions on im-proving learning, creating a learning en-vironment, strengthening the educational profession, and delivering educational services. Writers point out that the cooperation of "educators, parents, citizens, students, local school boards, business, in-dustry and all levels of government" are required for it to work. Adequate time, planning and money also are needed. A tall order, it would seem.

AMONG THE report's recommendations is a particularly laudable one: upscaling foreign language education.

Michigan's State Board of Education advises "every school district to develop a foreign language program at the elementary level to enable students to acquire or maintain knowledge and skills in languages other than English, consistent with personal experiences, interests and tal-

Districts also should "develop goals and objectives based on communications, global understanding, and foreign language proficiency."

Further, Runkel states, local districts should be encouraged to instruct students in "languages not commonly taught in the schools, but native to the countries with which the United States deals economically, such as Asian, Russian and Arabic

So it was disheartening to read recently the Plymouth-Canton school board's statements concerning the middle school day, currently being revised.

TIMES ARE a changing.

"FOREIGN LANGUAGE was not proposed as an elective for ninth graders because the number of students signing up could mean that some schools may offer a certain foreign language while others may not. It was observed that the student who goes for six academic classes in the ninth grade may affect the performing arts' program," our officials say.

guage occurs in the years before we enter high school.

AS U.S. industry attempts to make inroads into an ever-growing, competitive world market, our ineptitude in foreign language grows embarrassingly apparent. American business people travel to the Orient and to Europe, totally dependent upon their hosts' ability to communicate in our tongue.

Through our schools and communities, we ought to be equipping our young people with skills they need to succeed in life whether success be defined as the securing of employment in the international arena or the gaining of cultural awareness and understanding necessary for us to live peacably among the people with whom we share this planet.

Deterrent to drunk driving?

year, innocent people die at the hands of dle a car even after several drinks? drunk drivers. Possibly the tragedy has touched you, whether it be a friend, acquaintance, or loved one who died. The problem is not isolated; it has reached national proportions. Last year, President Ropald Reagan listed drunk driving as one of his administration's top priorities. Locally, the number of patrols for drunk drivers has been increased.

Some people are discussing using sobriety checklanes in Michigan. The idea appears to be a solution to the ugly problem. However, not all would agree - opposition to sobriety checklanes is increasing.

STATE SEN. Basil Brown, D-Highland Park, has introduced legislation that would allow the Michigan State Police to conduct such checklanes. Earlier this week, the final public hearings were held on the proposal.

State lawmakers expect the checklane issue to become hot. Already the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) has taken a position against police checklanes.

Opponents of the measure would have us believe sober drivers would be harassed. These opponents paint images that instill fear. Imagine, they say, driving down a dark stretch of road and encountering flashing lights, stopped cars, and interro-

DRUNK DRIVING IS a problem. Each drink and can drive - those who can han-

These are the drivers who don't worry about alcohol patrols; they don't weave, they don't run red lights.

Yet when encountering a difficult situation, these are the drivers whose reflexes are slower. These are the drivers whose judgment may be a bit off.

Enter now the risk of a random roadblock. No longer does it matter if a driver can drink and still handle his or her car. There is a risk - "What if I run into a sobriety checklane?"

With the tougher drunk driving laws, that is a risk many drivers wouldn't be willing to take.

THE STATE OF Maryland has such a program.

Opponents point to the low percentage of arrests as an indication of its failure. However, a low percentage of arrests could be an indication of success.

Quite possibly the fear of running into a checklane has cut down on the number of drivers who hit the road after drinking. Credit it to the element of risk.

The Maryland program averages one arrest for every 154 cars that pass through a checklane. As a law enforcement tool, the program may not produce the high number of arrests like a satura-

But, as a deterrent, the program seems to be a success. A Maryland police spokesman recently told a reporter that 31 fewer traffic fatalities were experienced in a nine-county area using check-lanes since the start of the year.

lanes since the start of the year.

Inconveniencing motorists for less than one minute to go through a checklane seems a small price for saving 31 lives.

Although some would have us view a cliecklane as a form of harastment, the reality in Maryland proves different.

Most drivers never get out of their car when stopped. For most, the stop involves rolling down a window and talking with an officer for no more than 30 seconds. No rudeness, no strip-searches and no Gestapo (settics.

now work outside of the home. The implications are too involved to describe in a few words. But consider just one aspect - grocery shopping. As I looked around my suburban grocery market on Saturday morning, I noticed that more than half of the other shoppers were men. I couldn't help but think how different that was compared to when I went to the grocery store with my mother about 30 years ago. All shoppers were women then. One night-club comedian tells the joke, "It's easy to tell the difference between single and married men at the grocery store. The single guys have the pizza, Twinkies and six-pack of beer in their baskets. Married men have a list, and they're checking it carefully. They know if they don't bring the right stuff home, their wives will kick them in the rear and send trying to hit the stockboy.

After the old man had been restrained, I asked the stockboy what had happened.

"Every time he comes in, he asks me if the pears are soft," the stockboy said. "When he walked in today and approached me, I said, 'Soft pears,' and it made him

A novice grocery shopper learns nothing is as simple as it seems.

On Saturday, my grocery list said, 'eggs." That seemed easy enough. But there's nothing called just "eggs." I could find "jumbo eggs," "extra-large eggs," "grade-A eggs," "grade A-A eggs" and "medium eggs." (I selected extra-large

Another item was "sour cream." But all I could find was "cultured sour cream" or "homogenized sour cream." Was "sour cream" in a different area? (A woman shopper advised that "cultured sour cream" was what I was looking for.)

IT'S HARD to tell what is on sale at the grocery. Many manufacturers put a label

"sale" with a price on their products. Then the store puts a lower price sticker on the shelf and calls that a "sale." Signs on the walls say that every-day low prices at this store beat the sales at every other store. So what's a sale price?

Finally, it takes savvy to get into the right checkout lane. The goal is find the fastest lane.

While I waited in line, I saw a woman walk behind a closed check-out counter. She put several items on it.

I hesitated. I didn't want to rush over and lose my spot in my line. Other shoppers ran over. They knew something I

A few minutes later, they were being checked out and I was still waiting in line.

WHEN I GOT home, it was time for my grade. I did fine in buying everything on the list - my checkmarks had worked.

However, improvements were needed. It was a mistake to buy tomatoes in a package. Those are picked early and ripened artificially, while separate tomatoes are ripened on the vine. Packaged tomatoes are not as juicy.

Twist of fate in Louis' career

HOW TIME flies.

It just doesn't seem possible that 50 years have slipped by since Joe Louis, then the top performer in the Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament at the Olympia, turned professional. Yet we know that he did and went on to become one of the greatest heavyweight champions of all time.

But if Nate Lewis, the veteran matchmaker at Olympia, hadn't overslept, Joe may never have had the chance to win the

In fact, he invited The Stroller to attend a meeting to decide on a trainer for the young fellow, who had been nicknamed the Brown Bomber.

ONCE JACK Blackburn, an old-time lightweight, had been chosen to train Joe, Roxborough confided that he did not have time to manage the young fighter and that he was thinking of turning him over to the Norris group in Chicago which had han-dled Joe very nicely when he fought there

The invitation was sent over, and Norris made arrangements for Roxborough to meet Nate Lewis, the Olympia match-maker, at the Leland Hotel the next day. Now Nate was a grand fellow and knew boxing; but on this day he overslept and kept Roxborough waiting. Irked, Roxbor-ough left. But he was in a quandary.

The rest is history. Joe was matched next with Primo Carnera for his New York debut in 1935, and he stopped the giant Italian.

The vote left intact a proposal that both houses approve any lengthy agricultural embargo imposed by a president to punish an enemy nation. The proposal is part of an exports bill ($979) that seeks to harmonize America's trade and foreign policies. The bill was headed for final passage.

Farm interests cited former President Jimmy Carter's 1980 embargo of grain sales to the Soviet Union. They said it failed to remedy the Soviets' invasion of Afghanistan but cost farmers and branded the United States as an unreliable supplier.

Sponsor John Heinz, R-Pa., said the amendment was necessary to prevent "a congresssional intrusion into the foreign policy area."

Reader blasts sports writer

Was Chris McCosky hired to be a sport writer or a sit-down comedienne?

His column in the Feb. 27 Observer was the most outlandish and feeble attempt at journalism I have read in your newspaper since we subscribed to it

It appears your Mr. McCosky cannot take any form of criticism since he takes a very defensive, sarcastic posi-tion against Salem fans.

I wonder what Mr. McCosky and your paper would print if you both knew Canton's feelings on the lack of coverage they've received over the

Permit us to point out a few statistics to you. On Jan. 27, Canton's basketball team beat Salem 52-47; howver, the Observer article made Salem the winner by its coverage

Your Brad Emons referred to Canton's win as "overachievers." Why? Because they beat Salem, they're overachievers?

On Feb. 27, Canton basketball team beat Bentley 71-59 in the first round of the playoffs and Salem lost to Churchill 13-12 the same night. Dare we point out to you the coverage of those two

There were 152 lines written about Salem's loss and 30 lines written for Canton's win. Who are you trying to Did Mr. McCosky write both those articles? His byline is printed only un-der Salem's article—to appease the Salem fans perhaps?

I am not even a parent to Canton's basketball team but I am incensed. We read the coverage of these games. Your Mr. McCosky states (referring to Canton) "a team with limited talent, limited depth, no height, having to play at the top of its game at all times in order to win . .," clearly shows that Mr. McCosky is definitely a nearsighted re-porter who obviously does not proofread what he writes. Otherwise, he wouldn't make these ignorant state-

Can you imagine how the Canton players feel when they read this gar-bage? No wonder they're winners. They probably pretend that basketball is your sportswriter face.

We suggest your paper, in the future, utilize more perceptive, intelligent and talented reporters to cover the Canton-Salem events. Otherwise your Canton athletic fans are going to become so disgusted with your one-sided reporting, they will probably subscribe to other newspapers and reporters who print realistic and truthful coverage without juvenile and amateurish reporters covering these events.

The Canton kids, be they athletic or support squads (cheerleader and chiefettes) compete against each other every year to make the team or squad because they believe they are winners. It's too bad and so sad you don't print

Both schools have excellent teams and squads so why don't print it as it is. Mr. and Mrs. P. Dyas, Congratulations, Graduates!

Appreciate news coverage

To the editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for printing the articles on vocational education that appeared in the Observer during Vocational Educa-tion Week early in February.

Both the photos as well as the articles were outstanding and reflecting th caring and concern that you and the Observer Newspapers have demonstrated for the last 14 years that I have been associated with the Plymouth community and the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

It has been my experience that the staff of the Observer Newspaper al-ways has conducted itself in a professional and responsible manner while adhering to the highest standards in our local print media.

Again, thanks for your efforts.

Tax breaks for busine wealthy individuals came under intense fire from a panel of local Demo-cratic leaders Saturday at Schoolcraft College

"It's not where we tax. It's where we don't tax," said state Sen. Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor. She singled out the state's Single Business Tax (SBT) as "generating (only) 53 percent of what it could" because of loopholes.

Howard Young, a UAW economist and consultant, said that at the federal level, the Individual Retirement Account costs the government $15 billion in revenue, "and it's not going to lower or middle income people." People who set up an IRA may deduct payments up to $2,000 for an individual or $2,250 per couple from taxable income.

YOUNG CALLED IRA and the allsavers certificates "time bombs in the tax system."

Pollack and Young were participants in a day-long conference sponsored by the Wayne 2nd Congressional District to discuss issues affecting the country.

The "Issues '84" seminar featured panel discussions on economics, education, U.S. involvement in the Middle East and the "nuclear threat."

Representatives of various presidential candidates spoke at the last after-

Citing polls that showed unemployment and the Reagan Administration's

"The issue in November is, is this one country where we take an interest in each other? Or is it everybody for him. self? It's too easy to knock government. . but we'd he a lot worse off without it."

POLLACK AGREED, saying the theme of the new Senate Republican leadership in Lansing is that "government is the enemy.

She added, "And I'm very concerned the public just might buy it."

A first-term legislator, Pollack, a former Washtenaw Community College instructor, said that in her first year she was "surprised at the strength of special internet ground." special interest groups.

"And it's not labor and the big corporations. It's the smaller business interest groups. Their strength is enor-

Her second strong impression was that "Republicans don't mind spending. They just don't like raising revenue."

As examples, she cited Republicansponsored bills which would exempt the food processing industry from the SBT and spend $140 million more for education without saying where the funds would come from.

"EVERYBODY hates taxes," agreed S. Martin Taylor, director of the state Department of Labor and the Michigan Employment Security Commission in the Blanchard Administration. "The notion that somehow you can make all these cuts and do it with eliminating waste and mismanagement is uiter bs. It just is not there."

Eugene Ruthy, commissioner of the state Pinancial Institutions Bureau, blistered the Reagan deficit hudget, saying its chief ill effects wouldn't be feet until after the 1984 presidential felt until after the 1984 presidential

There is fair unanimity amo economists that the deficit will gen erate a great increase in interest rates," said Kuthy, an Orchard Lake resident, lawyer, former accounting firm consultant and sometime teacher of business and government regulation courses at the University of Michigan.

High interest rates will hamper the recovery of credit-sensitive automobile sales, he said. Businesses will be unable to predict their debt service charges if, as he expects, variable rate loans spread in the business world.

KUTHY PREDICTED "a severe shortage of mortgage availability" by 1985 if the deficit isn't brought under

Despite the current economic recovery, he predicted even more bank failures in 1984 than in 1983, which saw "more bank failures in the U.S. than in any year since the Great Depression." The reason is that banks have been left in a weakened position by the reces-

Kuthy called bank failures worse than ordinary business failures because "bank depositors are not investors. They expect to rent their money out for awhile and get it back."

THE INTERNATIONAL convention of Girl Scouts and Girl Guides planned for this summer in the United States has inspired the local Scouts and their leaders. They have come up with some tremendous global and local projects. Leaders Darlene Severson, Sharon Michelson and Verna George are coordinating a project to benefit their local communities.

Girl Scouts and Brownies are contributing items that cannot be purchased with food stamps. And when you think about it, there are many necessities of life that cannot be bought with the stamps.

For instance, hard cash has to be paid for toilet paper, aluminum foil, paper towels, tissues, trash bags and school items. Hygiene products like soap, toothpaste, tooth brushes, feminine items and so on are not eligible food stamp purchases. Laundry soap, heavy duty cleansers like Comet and Lysol, and many other things are on the list of forbidden items.

The Plymouth Salvation Army, which serves the Plymouth-Canton-Northville area, is accepting the donations. All the troops will take their collections to the Salvation Army on Main Street south of Ann Arbor Road during Girl Scout Week, March 11-17.

Somehow, we always think of food donations for the disadvantaged, but a tube of toothpaste, a cake of soap or a box of tissues can be a top priority item.

THE WOMEN'S Association at First Presbyterian Church is starting another Dynamic Aerobics class. Proceeds from the last session went to "The Warm Coat Program" to help American Indians in North Dakota and Arizona.

WILLIAM T. SKINNER of Plymouth has been nominated to the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., by U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth. While the congressman makes the nominations to the Naval, Military and Air Force academies, the institutions make all final decisions

CAROL AND ERIC Nordell have another Old Inn Antique Show coming up at Dearborn Inn. The dates of the three-day show and sale are March 16-18. Maid of Erin

Maureen O'Sullivan Hayes reigns on St. Patrick's Day

By Elinor Graham staff writer

Maureen O'Sullivan Hayes of N. Main Street, Plymouth is the United Irish Societies' 1984 Maid of Erin. She was selected by a panel of judges in a competition at the Gaelic League in Detroit. Former Plymouth resident Deirdre Holland of Farmington Hills was first runner-up and Colleen O'Connor, a student at Plymouth Salem High School, was second runner-up.

The Maid of Erin will reign as queen of the St. Patrick's Day Parade Sunday. She has been invited by Michigan Gov. James Blanchard to attend a special reception and will appear on the Kelly & Company television show. For one year, she will have the Maid of Erin trophy, which is dedicated to the memory of Jerome Cavanagh, former may-

THEY WILL fly to London and spend five days with relatives there before taking a ferry to Ireland. They will have two weeks in Ireland, making their headquarters with family in the Cork and Kerry areas before flying home from Shannon.

This will be Maureen's second trip to Ireland. The whole family went over for a visit when she was 2.

'We're Irish as far back as we can go. My parents were born here but all my grandparents were born in Ireland," she said. Her dimples, sparkling eyes and wit belie her Irish heritage. The combination makes her the classic example, the perfect Maid of Erin.

MAUREEN HAYES graduated from Plymouth Salem High School 1983. She attends Schoolcraft College where she is in her second year of business finance studies. She also holds down two jobs.

This very busy 18-year-old has classes 8-11 a.m., works for the Communication Workers of America on Main Street from noon to 5 p.m., then scoots down to H&R Block on Main Street to her position as a receptionist. This semester she also has night classes on Mondays and Wednesdays.

As she dashed away from a picturetaking session, trophy under one arm and gown, cape and sash over the other, she said, "See that green car in the parking lot? That's mine. See the dents? I call it Belfast because it's bombed on all four corners."

Candidates for the Maid of Erin title were interviewed and questioned by the judges. They also had to give a talk. "I knew they'd expect me to be funny so I was very serious, at first. I described the history of the Claddagh ring — the Irish ring with two hands holding the heart. I left the humor until the last."

She said she thought she had a chance of winning until the last candidate. "She sang, and she had the most beautiful voice. I knew I was out of it."

She was completely surprised when she was named Maid of Erin. "I heard later that it was my interview that won," she said.

What does she do in her spare time? She thoroughly enjoys a game of Peace: Sesquicentennial Ball is Saturday

So, Canton, are you ready to put to test all the day-to-day petty silliness that threatens to tear this community apart? Or, at the very least, put it

How about a clean slate for all? Come on, you'll feel better in the morning if you do. Let's have a BIG party to get this bright friendly future off to a sparkling start.

I have an idea! How about trying to rent the U.A.W. Hall on Michigan Avenue. We could, I'm sure, get a decent price. I mean after all, it's for the community. Then we could get a band. We'll give The Moods a call and see if they can provide live music. Then we'll get some food. I suggest a big buffet so everyone will have enough to eat. As a Imatter of fact, since we are trying to bring everybody together and make everyone happy, how about serving three different types of meat? Yes, that is perfect, a real breakthrough in human little details that make a party.

Now, since some people could arrive late, or early, perhaps we should plan on some hors d'oeuvres - yes - hot hors d'oeuvres. I love it! What a great party mind I have. Wait a minute, better include some cold hors d'oeuvres, just in case it runs late.

There, that should do it.

HOW COULD I forget the soda pop? Everyone knows you can't have a party without pop. Now that I think about it, some people like something a little stronger and this IS an ecumenical party. So we'll have to offer an open bar, a cash bar could get people annoved. The open bar is the only way.

OK. Now for the date. I think as soon as possible is imperative. It must be a feeling friendly towards each other in period costumes. We could give a they can stay late and get to know each other. How about March 10? We should have something to remember it by, like a special medallion, a one-time issue, Only those attending the party can get one. What a great idea!

Lets see, have we got it all? Food, drinks, live music to boogie down. How about square dancing? Suppose we can get some quick lessons from the Canton Wheels and really get the party rockweekend so if people actually start ing? Maybe some residents will come prize for the best costume. Perhaps we could even get some local merchants to donate some prizes. This party is really rolling, and it would have taken a committee months to do'this.

WELL CANTON, how about it? Our community, believe it or not, has been in a crisis period too long. We don't have to remain that way.

During the big building boom, there was some reason. We were growing too fast for our ideas. The new residents 981-6354 50,000 strong. If you take a minute to think about it,

But we are here, and here we'll have to stay. And in case you haven't noticed, the boom banged! We are now a stable community approximately while the older residents liked it just we are just repeating history. Just as when the Potawatomi Indians led by Chief Tonquish were the oldtimers and the new settlers were taking away their land and their means of support. The government seemed to favor the new settlers (ancestors of today's oldtimers) and forgot what was good for the former residents. Just change the names and dates, the situation remains the same. What was once a simple community of Potawatomi getting along real friendly, was being changed into a strictly governed-by-the-book "thriving community."

JUST A THOUGHT, but yesterday, March 7, was the beginning of our yearlong party. This coming Saturday is the big dinner dance, a Sesquicentennial Ball to be exact. So grab your partner and come on over to the U.A.W. Hall. Admission is only $17.50 each. You don't have to be in costume, you just have to be there. And don't think that this gets you out of coming to my picnic in July.

WELL THEY did it!

If you haven't heard, the Rockettes blasted off and roared to second place in the state finals. We have a real special squad that we can be proud of (as if we weren't already). For the record, our squad received a total score of 39.7856 out of a possible 40. The difference between the Rockettes and first place was .0001. Now that's a close call! Congratulations, Rockettes. And It will be fantastic, if you're there.

congratulations to all the parents, siblings and friends who supported them.

I told you once before about the final fling the Rockettes have every year. Well, the time is upon us. The squad will give only two performances of "Rockin' in Unison" in Plymouth Salem Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. March 9 and 10. The very reasonable price is only $2.50 in advance and $3 at the door. You won't want to miss the show with new costumes, all different with lots of flashy sparklies, on colorful satin. It will be a full, variety-packed evening, with all 17 girls performing.

Get set for singing and comedy and Mr. Crespo. They tell me you'll know about Mr. Crespo! Joining the lovely Rockettes will be in the neighborhood of 35 other faces including live break dancing. (I know how many things I would break if I tried it!) Musical entertainment will be provided by the popular group, Skyline. Our very own Christina Branham will treat us to a sample of her prize-winning dancing style. You may remember Chris won the best dancer award at the summer training camp. What we didn't know was Chris also won an award even more valuable - Most Congenial. Congratulations on that, Chris.

Congratulations and thank you again: Rockettes Deanna Miller, Sally Nitchman, De Anna Park, Jill Swisher, Christina Branaman, Nancy Timbermann, Leslie Lynch, Jenny Wells, Lenore Gibson, Tracy Greenhalge, Julie Taylor, Renee Shreda, Renay Kwasny, Yevette Kalvenas, Dawn Marcinkiewicz, co-captains Elaine Willis and Marni Plichta, and your sponsor, Ronda Pretzlaff. To all, "Break-a-leg." That's show-biz talk for good luck.

Please come to the Sesquicentennial. A lot of people worked very hard for a long time to make our dream a reality.

That's the opinion of repre of a new toy company called Praise

Modern toys stress violence, sex, and Satanism, they said.

But the Atlanta-based company has come up with its own answers to G.I. Joe, Barbie, and Dungeons and Dragons — a little Faith, Hope, Joy and

The latter are the names Praise Unlimited has given to its first line of toys, its Praise Dolls.

The idea is to offer a religious alternative to the products of regular toy companies, said Cheryl Richards of Livonia, the firm's Wayne County divianal director.

"In the toy world up to now I don't really believe there's been a Christian alternative," Richards said.

WHEN SQUEEZED, the curly haired Praise Dolls sing or talk, giving religious messages such as "Jesus loves me" or "Did you know God loves you?" Interchangeable records provide dif-ferent phrases. The dolls also come in versions that are applicable to different faiths or that speak other languages, such as Spanish

And for every one of the 21-inch dolls sold, a smaller, 16-inch version of the same doll is given free to an underprivileged child through the company's "friendship program," Richards said.

A dozen more toys are planned, including Judah the Christian soldier for boys, Noah's Ark, a talking telephone, and a Fruit of the Spirit ball. "Every toy they come out with has to teach a Bible principle or have a Chris-tian significance," Richards said. Charles and Sue Fust, Praise Unlimited's founders, will be appearing in the Detroit area this Thursday through Saturday, Richards said. They will be talking about what they consider the "evils" of the toy industry and the advantages of their products.

BESIDES appearances on WXYZ-TV's "Kelly and Co." at 9 a.m. Friday, and on various local religious radio stations Friday afternoon, the Rusts have scheduled a special Toy Awareness Rally for Thursday night. They will have a press conference at 5 p.m., followed by the rally at 7 p.m. in Room H of the Dearborn Hyatt Regency.

The rally will feature a slide presentation on the effects of regular toys and the alternative offered by Praise Un-

"I want Detroit to hear all of the startling facts about the emotional and physical abuse children are receiving from violent, Satanic and sex-oriented toys," Richards said.

"They've got quite a story to tell about Barbie," said Richards' husband Dave, the minister of music at Fairlane Assembly in Dearborn Heights. "The maker of Barbie and other toys, disa-grees with Praise Unlimited's negative sment of Barbie and toys in gener-

"Barbie recently celebrated her 25th anniversary, and we feel the reason why is that both parents and children want the doll are the many good bene-fits associated with Barbie," Kennedy

"Barbie was an astronaut 20 years before Sally Ride," she said.

MATTEL ALSO puts out an action toy for boys called Masters of the Universe. Kennedy said that toy stresses fantasy, adventure and the triumph of good over evil, not violence.

"As a toy company, we try to come out with toys in different areas that are not only entertaining but also have some kind of benefit," Kennedy said.

She added that she had never heard the story that one of Barbie's co-originators had turned against his creation.

co-originator of Barbie will not even let his grandchildren have a Barbie.

"It's the feeling of Praise Unlimited that when a child gets a Barbie, she sees this trim, nice-busted doll, and there are things that does to a child and things that it leads to in the future."

But Kathy Kennedy, a spokeswoman for Mattel Inc. of Hawthorne, Calif., maker of Barbie and other toys, disa

"There was no pressure put on me at all, and I think I was very shocked by that," Richards said. "I could see they were genuine, not out to make so much money but out to change the toy market and help the underprivileged."

SINCE THEN, Richards has sold 100 of the dolls and her family has sold even more, making them No. 2 in family sales nationally for the firm. The dolls are sold through Praise Parties, a toy sale equivalent of a Tupperware party, and in church bookstores.

The larger dolls sell for $75, the smaller ones for $55.

Anyone interested in buying or selling the dolls may attend a special "op-portunity meeting" 1-5 pm. Saturday at the Fairlane Inn, 21430 Michigan Ave., Dearborn, Richards said. The Fusts also will appear at that meeting. At 9 a.m. Saturday, some of the 16-inch dolls will be distributed to children at the Living Centers Inc. children's home in Taylor.

Broken contracts symptom of deeper malady

After hearing the judge decree that Billy Sims should play for Detroit, Jerry Argovitz said he would write his contracts on toilet paper. Labor unions might agree after hearing the Supreme Court's ruling on the status of labor contracts during bankruptcy proceed-

Certainly clergy are wondering over the permanence of agreements and promises between consenting adults as the number of divorces increase.

It's difficult to assign this new phenomenon to any one of the "10 new directions transforming our lives" as the book "Megatrends" unfolds them. Perhaps that is an important clue in composing our response.

If more and more people are breaking contracts, promises or agreements whenever they feel compelled to do so, then we need to remember how fragile the thread of trust is and how valuable it becomes in community order.

Broken contracts, suspended labor agreements and broken marriages are symptoms of a deeper malady. The moral perspectives

Rev. Charles Erickson

rocess of interaction for mutual benefit has turned into a struggle for selfway, the efforts for mutual enrichment

SOME CRITICS would suggest that "modernism" is to blame for this flaw in public life. Modernism has given us high tech and unparalleled success in the production and exchange of goods. We can make things we have never heard of before and we can market and sell them anywhere. But we have become separated from one another and we do not trust each other. Modernism should not be blamed en-today. Contracts were composed long before modernism took root and conadvancement. At some point along the tracts were conceived precisely because the potential for dissolution was recognized. Contracts were written because it was possible that two consenting parties might not be able to keep the original intent.

I do not know what Jerry Argovitiz or the labor unions intend to do in the process of future contracts, but I do now that whenever I am called on to participate in the community ordering of marriage, I feel the great responsibility to share the potential of its abuse as well as its use in public life. It is not enough to want to live together forevtirely for the breakdown of contracts er. It is important to recognize the capacity we all have to turn aside from a common good to a strictly selfish one.

This makes the marriage "contract" an unfolding process. A marriage "contract" is never signed, sealed and then ignored. A marriage relationship is the deliberate intention of both parities to mutually support and affirm each other for the realization of their responsibilities and fulfillmeht of God's

A NUMBER OF marriages I conducted before God and for the state of Michigan have ended in divorce. Upon reflection, it has not been particularly difficult to trace these divorces back to their beginnings. What has been impossible to this date is to predict what effect on the marriage relationship, specific actions create. Being aware of its fragile nature should give those reponsible for composing contracts a concern and care for the parties involved. If there is no care or concern, there is no common unit, and if there is no community, there is no life. That is even a worse state than broken contracts.

Larry Smith, 24, and Timmy Wilson, 21, were arraigned before 35th District Court Judge James Garber on a charge of breaking and entering. A not-guilty plea was entered for them, and a $10,000 bond set for each. Bond was not posted Monday. An exam will be held Monday before Judge Dunbar Davis.

Police said they caught Smith coming out of the store at 5:30 a.m. Sunday after police had gone to the store in response to a burglar alarm. Wilson was arrested moments later at the Clock Restaurant, 9468 S. Main. A third man seen running from the store was not caught and still remains unidentified.

Rocks win, Chiefs burned at buzzer

Hot Salem outguns revved-up Rockets

staff writer

The Plymouth Salem offense, which took a mid-season sabbatical, has returned. And not a moment too soon. The Rock cagers needed every ounce of offense it could muster Wednesday night to outlast the fired-up Rockets first-round contest in the state Class A district tournament at Canton High OK, you want offense, you got it. Erich Hartnett scored 23 points, Jeff Ar-nold 22 and Rick Berberet 20 to pace the Rocks to a 74-64 victory.

"We knew John Glenn could score points," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "We didn't expect to be in a 40 or 50 point game tonight. We knew we had to score to beat them."

John Glenn, the champions of the Northwest Suburban League, put on a gutsy display, coming back several game. times from deep deficits. After Glenn's guard tandem of Jeff Hawley and Mike Baydarian gave the Rock nal three minutes. The game ended on defense fits throughout the contest. In the first half, Hawley had the hot hand scoring 11 points (he finished with 15). In the second half, it was Baydarian who scored 10 to finish with 20.

But, the Rock defense accomplished 20 points its main objective - it shut down the Rocket fastbreak.

with the running game," Thomann said. 'We decided we weren't going to get beat by the running game again."

Said Davis: "The boards were part of that. Salem plays very physical and kept us off the boards in that first half. We didn't run the ball the way we would have liked."

Northville rally ends Canton's title hopes

staff writer

Destiny's road, the path that has led the Plymouth Canton basketball team to division and league championships, came to a halt short of a state district title Wednesday night.

Northville ousted the Chiefs 52-50 on a shot that appeared to have been taken after the final buzzer had sounded.

With 38 seconds left and the score tied at 50, the Chiefs worked for the last shot. Senior guard Mark Bennett's pass intended for Kevin Hawkins was intercepted by Northville's Bob Pegrum. With six seconds left, Northville called timeout.

Steve Frellick broke free of the Chief press and found Steve Schrader alone underneath the hoop. Schrader's shot, however, missed badly and the clock showed no time remaining. But, because of the near hysteria of the crowd, the buzzer wasn't heard and Schrader ripped the rebound out of Bennett's minutes. clutches and threw in the shot.

TO THE DISMAY of the jammedpacked crowd at the Canton gym, referee Larry Casey signaled that the shot was good and the game over.

"I saw what I saw and that was it. I don't have any other comment to make," Casey said after the game.

It was a tough way for the Chiefs to end the finest season in its history, but coach Dave Van Wagoner wasn't making any excuses for his team.

"I didn't see the shot. People were jumping in front of me. But, to be honest with you, we came out flat tonight," he said. "We played our fifth emotional game in a row now, and we just didn't have it in us to get one more. It was just not our night. Those things happen in basketball."

It had been a season where nearly every break had gone Canton's way, especially in those last five games Van Wagoner mentioned. But, against Northville, fate turned away from the Chiefs. Shots that have fallen all year for Canton, suddenly rimmed the hoop and fell away in the fourth quarter. Passes that have been on the money all year were suddenly being picked off.

Canton, after a listless first-half performance that left the Chiefs a point behind 24-23, got its game going in the third quarter.

BENNETT, A multi-talented player who experienced a rare off night, began penetrating and dishing off assists. Sharpshooter Gary Thomas, hitting two of five entering the third quarter, got hot and hit four in a row. Mike Jennings and Jim Schlicker contributed key hoops and rebounds and Canton had itself a 42-39 lead entering the final eight

That's when things began to sour.

Canton went cold in the fourth quarter, hitting two of eight shots. They also committed five lethal turnovers. Northville, who had success inside all game, began kicking it in to Schrader who responed with seven points, six in the final two minutes, including the controversial game-winner.

Schrader finished with 24 points to lead all scorers. Dan Nielsen added 10. For Canton, Thomas scored 17, Schlicker 13 and Jennings 11. Jennings gave the Chiefs a tireless effort underneath both baskets, as did Hawkins and Eli Rogers.

Bennett dished out nine assists, but he took just three shots from the floor, no free throws and didn't score a point.

Chiefs jolt Wayne

By Chris McCosky staff writer

The Chiefs have just about taken the c-a-n-t out of Canton. There doesn't seem to be a team the

On the heels of their first-ever Western Lakes championship win last Friday, the Chiefs stunned heavily favored Wayne Memorial, 56-55, to open the state Class A district basketball tournament at

"We feel we are a pretty good basketball team," said Dave Van Wagoner, who said that it's about time people start recognizing that fact. "We proved some of the local prognosticators wrong here to-

Wayne was picked by most, including this newspaper, to win the Canton district. But, senior Mark Bennett and company pulled off another in a season-long series of Canton upsets.

BENNETT, AFTER his team had trailed by three with 38 seconds left, hit two clutch free throws with eight seconds left to give the Chiefs the win. He had missed two consecutive free throws before hitting the game winner.

"'Just don't miss them,' that's all I thought about." Bennett said Canton trailed 41-36 entering the final period. The Chiefs had maintained a slim three-point lead throughout much of the first half, but Wayne began to flex its muscle in the third quarter. Keith Strickland drained two jumpers within the first 30 seconds of the third quarter to put the Zebras ahead, 27-26. He finished with 10 in the quarter, including a fantastic double-pump slam Strickland wound up with a game-high 18 points. Wayne's 6-foot-6 center Pollis Robertson chipped in 14 and blocked seven Canton shots.

dunk at the buzzer to give Wayne its five-point

Canton, aided by some questionable officiating and some outstanding play from junior Jim Schlicker, sharpshooter Gary Thomas, Bennett and Elijah Rogers, began to creep back into contention.

Schlicker, who scored eight fourth-quarter points, hit a pair of jumpers to tie the game at 49 and again at 51 with 2:10 left to play.

Before that, Robertson stuffed a shot over Rogers that would have given Wayne a five-point lead, but the official called Robertson for traveling and mullified the hoop. Wayne coach Chuck Henry was A BASKET by Strickland put Wayne back in front. And the Zebras looked to have the game won when Kevin Dailey hit a pair of free throws with 38 seconds left. Canton trailed at that point, 65-52.

Bennett drove the length of the floor and dished to Rogers for a layup. Then Wayne's Howard Flo-wers was fouled with 22 seconds left. He missed the front end of the one-and-one.

nett again drove the length of the floor. He found Thomas alone in the corner, but Thomas' jumper fell short. Bennett, though, was fouled going after the rebound. He brought the large Canton house down by making both free throws. The enthusiastic crowd went wild, but the celebration was nearly premature.

With less than eight seconds left in the game, Flowers drove virtually uncontested through the lane. His layup rolled off the rim and into the clutches of Thomas.

Henry, however, felt his player was fouled on the

"That was a gutless call," Henry said motioning "They call a foul on the other end when we box out. and then on this end they don't call anything. It's a shame. It shouldn't happen this way in a state tour-

But, Henry knew there was another factor in his team's loss - their inability to take advantage of their size and work the ball inside.

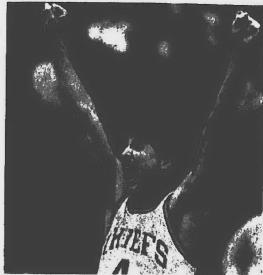

"We did a very poor job of getting the ball inside in the first half. That is what I thought we'd be able to do against them. I certainly didn't expect to score just 23 points in the first half," he said.

SAID VAN WAGONER: "Again, that was our game plan. We wanted to dig down inside and pack in our 3-2 zone and force them to shoot from the

Another factor detrimental to the Zebras was an injury to starting guard Tony Strickland. He played only about five minutes of the game.

Canton got a strong game from Schlicker. He led the Chiefs with 16 points. Thomas had 13 and Bennett 11. Bennett also had nine assists. Mike Jennings, Schlicker and Rogers did a excellent job of rebounding against the taller Zebras.

While Canton (16-5) advanced in the tournament, Wayne's season came to an abrupt halt. The team finished with a 15-6 record.

A PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL FLASHBACK

Just one year ago this week, Plymouth Salem beat Livonia Stevenson 67-70 to capture the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLLA) title at Salem. The trimuph made the Rocks the first-ever WLAA basketball champions. Both Stevenson and Salem came into the contest with 17-2 overall records and 14-1 league marks. The only WLAA losses on their records came in games against each other. "What it came down to was our eight against their five," said Rock coach Fred Thomann. "It seems everyone we went to on the bench contributed." John Cohen scored 16 points, all in the last two quarters, Dave Houle had 15, Marvin Zurek scored 11, and Glenn Medalle and Matt Broderick netted 10 apiece.

The U.S. team took heavy criticism for their performance at Sarajevo.

"It was a great experience for my husband and I," said Alice Iafrate, the boy's mother. "The media was a little rough, but it was a great experience and we're happy for Al."

U.S. coach Lou Vairo, who learned his trade on the streets of Brooklyn, took the brunt of the criticism.

"Some of the press got down on us," said young Al. "I didn't read too many stories. I don't get too upset about those

"Maybe something that stood out is that we got criticized. I know I was criticized by the coach.'

IAFRATE added that everyone "might have expected too much.

for the league playoffs, have five Americans on the team, four from Michigan. Two Belleville players, Jim Andonoff of Warren and Mike Vellucci of Farmington, were teammates of Iafrate when the Compuware Midgets won the national title two years ago.

"As far as the skating goes there's not much difference and I was kind of surprised," lafrate said. "But the difference from Olympic hockey to here is the stick handling and passing.
"It's a lot rougher here, but it's not as bad as everyone says. There are fights. If you're looking for it, you'll get it. There are goons, but the league has really changed over the past few years. There are a lot of good hockey play-

Through correspondence courses, Iafrate is finishing up his high school requirements and should be able to take part in commencement exercises have treated me well," he said. "I just sent back my exams. I was taking four classes. Here I'm taking three classes to graduate."

Iafrate feels at home on the ice as "This is totally different (than the

"On the U.S. team you kind of felt restricted, but the coach (Vairo) told us what he wanted from the start - get the puck to the forwards.

"HERE, I FEEL more comfortable and I'm more confident. I like it here. Everywhere the crowds are great, and (3,000 average) in the league."

The OHA playoffs begin March 20 and by that time lafrate will have played nearly 80 games.

"I feel better than I thought," Iafrate said. "I've played over 70 games, but not all against pros and world-class players. I've been lucky. I haven't really had a serious injury.

Eagles sharp in loss

The Plymouth Christian basketball lost its game against Ann Arbor Greenhills Tuesday night 46-41 but coach Butch DeRenzo was happy with his team's performance.

"Overall, I was very pleased with the effort tonight," he said. "We didn't get much offense, but defensively, we played a great man-to-man. They are much bigger than us, but we played an aggressive man-to-man for three and a half quarters. The kids did a great job."

The Eagles, down by as many as 14 in the fourth quarter, pulled within three several times. They could get no

Rod Windle and Lane Lambert scored 10 points apiece to lead the Eagles. Mark Doughtery led all scorers with 15 for Greenhills.

The Eagles (6-14) will play at Southfield Christian in the state Class D tournament at 8 p.m. Friday.

Canton wins division gymnastics crown

By Chris McCosky staff writer

North Farmington gymnastics coach Mary Johnesee-Glitz wore a pin on the lapel of her blazer Saturday that read 10.0. Though none of her gymnasts earned such a score, the team's effort, to her, was indeed perfect.

The Raiders, with individual brilliance and powerful team depth, overmatched their opposition to win the Western Lakes Activities Association and the Lakes Division championships.

North amassed 131.70 points, its highest score of the season, to win the title. It was the seventh consecutive league title for the Raiders, five straight in the old Northwest Suburban League and the last two in the WLAA.

Plymouth Canton earned 125.10 points to place second overall and win the Western Division title over thirdplace Farmington Harrison (121.25).

NORTHVILLE, with a healthy Cathy Heitert, surprised Plymouth Salem besting the Rocks 120.50-120.25 to take fourth place. Farmington placed sixth, with Walled Lake Western seventh and Walled Lake Central eighth.

North was the heavy favorite to win the league title, but to Glitz, the winning wasn't at all anti-climatic.

"I was extremely pleased we did so well," said the veteran coach. "It was our highest score of the season. I think we are peaking at the right time, and that's very important. You know, this was only the second time all season I had my complete lineup competing at the same time.'

Because of the Raiders' phenomenal depth, injuries and illnesses to top performers went virtually unnoticed. With key people out of the lineup, the Raiders managed to average in the mid-tohigh 120s and earn a 12-4 dual-meet four of the top-10 finishers in all around were from North - Dona Kebrdle and Eileen Murtaugh (tied for third with 33.40 points), Sharon Shiffra (seventh with 32.85) and Lucine Toroyan (ninth with 32.05).

An example of the Raiders' depth:

The real battle of the day was for second place and the Western Division title between Canton and Harrison.

Harrison, ranked No. 2 in Observerland behind North much of the year, was seeking its first-ever division title. But, after a good score on vault (32.40). the Hawks stumbled on uneven parallel bars (29.15) and balance beam (28.60).

CANTON, LED by a superlative effort from senior Linda Beale, scored in the 30s in all four events.

"Both fortunately and unfortunately, everything came out as I predicted," said Canton coach John Cunningham. "Our performance was definitely pleasing. We were six points behind North, though. I would have liked to make that a bit closer."

Beale, with 34.10 points, won allaround honors. She scored an 8.90 on vault, 8.40 on bars, 8.25 on beam, and 8.55 on floor exercise. Ironically, none of those scores were first-place scores. though she was the Western Division champion on beam and floor.

North's Kebrdle was the Lakes Division all-around medalist.

The highest score of the day was earned by North's Shiffra, who scored a 9.10 on vault to win the Lakes and overall medals in that event. Kebrdle and Harrison freshman Tracey Solomon each gained 9.0s on the vault. Solomon won the Western Division

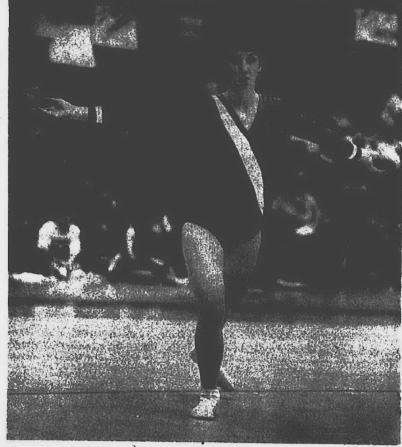

On bars, Northville's Heitert, injured for most of the season, won overall and Western Division honors with an 8.90. Farmington's Katie MacIntosh won the Lakes Division medal with an 8.35.

SALEM'S BETH Rafail was the overall and Lakes Division winner on balance beam, scoring 8.55, just better-ing the 8.50 earned by North's Mur-taugh. Beale was the Western Division

Kebrdle took overall and Lakes Division medals on floor exercise scoring 8.60, bettering Beale's Western Divi-sion medal-winning mark of 8.55.

As good as the scores were Saturday, there is strong indication that things will be better next year. Six of the top 10 performers Saturday were underclassmen - two freshman, two sophomores and two juniors.

The next performance date for many area gymnasts will be this Saturday at state regional competition. Plymouth Canton and Salem will headed to the Jackson Regional, while Farmington's Katie MacIntosh and Karen Devine, North Farmington and Harrison will be competing at the Troy Athens Region-

Area bowlers gain national exposure

Bob Chamberlain and Bob Goike, two members of the all-star league, caused the national spotlight to be focused on the Detroit area over the past week - and the names now are known nationwide.

On national TV Saturday, Chamberlain, a member of the Stroh team, scored a major upset when he bowled his way to the national pro championship in Toledo. Only a few nights before, Golke, a member of the Lodge Lanes of Belleville, set a record to take the lead in the all-events in the ABC tourney at Reno, Nevada.

In winning the national title, Chamberlain earned $38,000, the most any Detroit bowler ever won in a single event. Goike stands a good chance of winning the ABC title, even though he was to wait until the tourney closes. He put together series of 672 in the team event, 710 in the doubles and 760 in 2142.

TOURNEMANT Donna Tencola lead her "gangster" team to the lead in the women's city tournament at Cloverlanes with a handicap score of 3071. The team rolled an actual 2432 on its home lanes.

WONDERLAND Two more members were inducted in to the 700 club when Mark Hammel rolled a 710 in the classic, and Rod Garadoglia posted a 740 in the senior house league.

MERRI-BOWL George Platukas added his name on the membership role of the 700 club when he fired a 736 series in the handicappers league. The

in the pocket by W.W. Edgar high game of the week was a 276 by Tom Koebel in the guys and dolls loop.

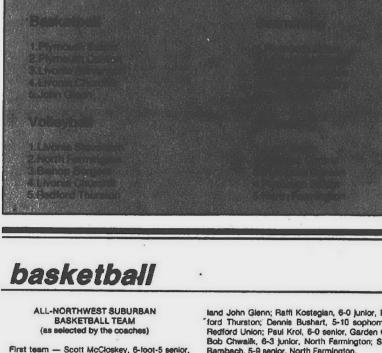

WOODLAND LANES Jack Smerdon had a 289 in 746 to take scoring honors of the week. Other good showings were made by Bob Hardy with a 279 in 654 and and Ken Kilbit with 253 in 634.

WESTLAND BOWL There was a great finish in the Monday morning men's league when only three pins seperated the two leaders and both qualified for the 700 club. Kevin Tracy was top man with 706. Bob Kwith had a 252

COUNTRY LANES Norm Dorenson reached his life's ambition when he rolled a 289 in a 707 series. Al Kief barely missed the barrier breaker with GARDEN LANES Mike Kalema couldn't stand prosperity after bowling a 264 game slumped to 189 and thus missed the 700 club by two pins with a 698. Mark Hefner was another who barely missed. He wound up with a 693.

BEL-AIRE Tim Detherage continued the pace of the classic of one 700 series a week when he came through with a 289 in 719 to take the honor. Larry Franz was not far behind with a 693.

March: the best of times for planning trips

Time for skiing or spring travel

March is the month when winter-lovers look around for more snow while sun-lovers look forward to spring. Either way, now is the moment. Grab your winter pleasure before the snow melts. Plan your spring trips to coincide with traditional spring activities warming up all over the country.

March madness is still very visible on the ski slopes. Kawartha Peaks and Devils Elbow, in the Bethany area of Ontario, are planning costume parties on the slopes March 11 and 18 respectively. At Collingwood's Blue Mountain they call it 7-Up Mad-

Barrie, Ontario, holds a Stars Under the Stars March 10 to raise money for cystic fibrosis research. Skiers will ski all night. If you are lucky, you might find yourself skiing close to a spring maple-sugar operation. Contact Tourism Canada, 1900 First Federal Building, Detroit 48226 or telephone 963-8686 for information.

GUELPH, ONTARIO, is not far from these snow-happy places, but in Guelph they are thinking spring. The Guelph Spring Festival will be April 27 to May 13 in an explosion of music and theater.

Ask Tourism Canada for a brochure on the exciting list of events: the opera "Orpheus and Euridice," the Oxford String Quartet, the National Arts Centre Orchestra, Toronto Mendelssohn Youth Choir, 78th Fraser Highlanders Pipe Band and more, including many fine individual artists. Additional artistic events are scheduled for May 31 through June 4.

GOING SOUTH will get you into spring faster. The whole month of March is Springfest '84 on Hilton Head Island, S. C. April 26, 27, 28 are the dates of A Night In Old Savannah half an hour's drive away in Savannah, Ga. Savannah's festival celebrates 25 ethnic cultures in Coastal Georgia.

Johnson Square is one of the 24 original squares built in the city, 20 of which have been saved and restored by Historic Savannah Inc. For information, contact P.O. Box 9389, Savannah, GA. 31412.

ST AUGUSTINE Restoration Foundation Inc. is sponsoring a film called "St. Augustine 1576," to be shown in a new twin theater in St. Augustine, but nobody seems to know when it will open. It was scheduled for January, and again for March, and the Founda-tion now says that it will probably be around April 1. Don't hold your breath, but if you are going to St. Augustine anyway, check it out.

TWO BANDS OF THE CHEROKEE nation will meet in Tennessee for the first time since they were removed forcibly in 1838 to Oklahoma and North Carolina on what has been called the Trail of Tears.

On April 6 and 7, Chief Ross Swimmer of the western nation and Chief Robert S. Youngdeer of the eastern nation will conduct council meetings with about 100 delegates from each of the two groups.

Several public events are planned, includ-

Got a yen to sing? Nashville is waiting

Is there anyone alive who hasn't belted out a great tune in the shower or sung along with the radio and thought, "If I just had the band and the background singers, I could be as good as any of them?"

If you have ever had that dream, your chance at stardom may have arrived. Country Crossroads Recording Studio, a new attraction on Music Row in Nashville, give anyone the opportunity to make a professional-quality recording.

Sound engineers provide instructions through headphones in private booths. Practice sessions are allowed, although there is a time limit. There is also a "helper voice" on

Since the Studio opened its doors to the public it has been used by some professional singers and musicians and a number of serious singers who have recorded demonstration songs for use in approaching the big-label re-cording executives located in nearby offices. Look for ways to save on taxes

The deadline for filing 1983 tax returns is April 15. This four-part article will suggest ways to save on '83 re-

Here are several ways of identifying incomes that are not taxable.

BENEFITS - Social Security payments received in 1982 are tax-free. Also untaxed are veteran's benefits, the part of a pension that is a return of what you put in, most death pay-outs from insurance, worker's compensation benefits and most scholarships which are not pay for work.

You may be taxed on part or all of unemployment compensation if you had other income. Jobless pay is exempt only if your adjusted gross income plus the jobless pay and other income totals no more than $18,000 on a joint return.

benefit. Also, untaxed are employer payments for group term life insurance up to $50,000.

MARRIAGE PENALTY - Working couples will receive a bigger break for 1983. Ten percent of the lower-paid spouse's earnings — after deductions for an Individual Retirement Account - can be excluded from taxation up to DIVIDENDS - Up to $200 of stock dividends are tax-free on joint returns. The exclusion applies to mutual funds that hold stock, but not to dividends paid by money-market funds. Public utility investors can receive a break by reinvesting 1982 dividends in more utility shares.

In approved plans, up to $1,500 may be excluded on a joint return. If you meet the rules, tax is not due until the new shares are sold, and then at the premiums still are a tax-free fringe low, long-term capital-gains rate if held for more than one year.

REBATES - Dividends on insurance policies are not income. They usually are a rebate on premiums and are not taxable. But interest earned on dividends left with the insurance company is taxable.

A refund received on last year's state income tax may not be taxable. It is taxable only if previously claimed as a federal deduction.

INTEREST - All interest income is not taxable. For example, holders of treasury bills report interest when the bills mature. The cash received after buying a bill is a refund on the purchase price and is not considered in-

Interest earned on certificates of deposit at banks and savings institutions is not taxed until it is credited to an account and can be withdrawn without penalty.

There is a choice on earnings from U.S. Series E and EE Savings Bonds. Most people let the interest build up and report it when the bonds are cashed in. But interest can be reported each year as it is earned - a strategy which often is beneficial for children who own bonds and have little taxable

Puppeteers play Youtheatre

"The Cat Who Went to Heaven" will be performed for Detroit Youtheatre's "Something Every Saturday" audiences by Ohio's Piper Puppets at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday at the Detroit Institute of Tickets at $3 for children and adults may be purchased at the art institute ticket office or at the door. For ticket information, call the museum office, 832-2730, during regular business hours.

The play was suggested by Elizabeth Coatsworth's book, published in 1930 and awarded the Newberry Medal. The Piper's performances tell the story of a young brother and sister whose prejudice gives way to forgiveness and understanding after they lose a beloved pet.

The Piper puppeteers remain in full view of the audience. The troupe employs marionettes that are half lifesize and live voice characterizations.

The Youtheatre show is designed for those 5 years of age and older. Children younger than 5 years will not be admitted to the theater.

Alvin again

Director stars in musical hit 'I Love My Wife'

See review of "I Love My Wife" on next page

By Ethel Simmons

SANDY-HAIRED, brown-eyed James Seymour, who has a winsome smile that shows his front teeth, looks perfectly cast as Alvin, the young husband in "I Love My Wife," at the Birmingham Theatre.

He ought to look and act the part. After all, he has played it on Broadway and in Chicago, but he only stepped into the role for this production when "Rifleman" star Johnny Crawford bowed out, due to "artistic differences," during rehearsals in New York.

Jim Seymour was and still is director of the Birmingham show, and his biggest disappointment about having to fill in onstage seems to be that, "I won't get to see the show."

Everyone's been telling me it looks good," he said backstage last week, the day before the show opened the first preview of its four-week run.

LIKE THE naive character, Alvin, whom he plays in "I Love My Wife," Seymour is from Trenton, N.J. There, perhaps, the similarity ends. The multitalented Seymour, who is primarily an actor, has been enjoying his change of pace as director. During the interview, his mind-set seemed more that of someone behind the scenes than of a star-conscious performer.

"This isn't my dressing room," he said unconcerned, as he sat down to talk in what is traditionally the "star dressing room" at the Birmingham Theatre. The role of Alvin is the pivotal, main role around which the show revolves.

Seymour looks somewhat like Bobby Morse (from "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying.") "A young Bobby Morse," he acceded, reminding that time has passed and Morse is prob'I'm expecting a son or daughter — in July. I feel more comfortable in the father role.'

ably in his 50s now. Seymour's looks have also been compared to "a young Richard Basehart," and he appears to prefer the comparison to this more serious actor.

Back in the 1970s he did a Stroh's commercial, playing a young man who impressed his date's father by asking for that brand of beer.

Fresh-faced is perhaps behind him. In TV commercials, he is being cast as "the young father — at least lately, as the lines creep up. I am 35," he said.

NO LINES are visible on his stillboyish face, but Seymour is maturing with apparent ease. "I'm expecting a son — or daughter — in July. I feel more comfortable in the father role."

Married to actress Libby McNeill, he recently moved back to New Jersey, living in Short Hills, which is part of Milburn. "The community is really a bedroom community for New York," he

The couple met at a theater in North Carolina which she had started with a number of other people. "I was a guest artist in 'Whose Life Is It Anyway,'" he said. "She had the lead in one of the "Texas Trilogies.'" show the actor has directed. He directed "All the Way Home" at the Ensemble Studio Theatre in New York and took the show to the Peterborough (N.H.) Players, "one of the oldest summer theaters in the country."

He also taught at Colorado College, directed a student production of "HotL Baltimore" at Franklin Pierce College in New Hampshire and directed "Krapp's Last Tape" at the Museum School of Boston.

Seymour's second off-Broadway show was "Small Craft Warnings," a production that saw him playing both a role onstage as the pickup Bobby and later behind-the-scenes as stage manager. "Small Craft Warnings" is proba-bly the best-known of the later work by playwright Tennessee Williams, who died just about a year ago.

To keep the show going, Williams appeared in the cast and Seymour remembers when, as stage manager, he had to shush Williams for being noisy backstage. "How do you go tell Tennessee Williams to be quiet during his own play?" he said.

Seymour recalled that Williams "loved to mingle with people" and also that he was "incredibly sensitive." "He came into the dressing room in tears one day because a stranger had insulted him on the street."

HE BELIEVES Williams' strength as a playwright stemmed from a lack of protective armor that most people have built up. "What was so wonderful was that he could put that pain on pa-

Performing a powerful Saint-Saens "Concerto No. 3 for Violin," Synnestvedt won out over 79 other contestants, selected by a committee of eight tape judges and three finals adjudicators.

Synnestvedt came to Michigan to compete in the competition from Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia where she is a student and concertmistress with the Curtis Orchestra.

HER PLAYING is purposeful and directed. She was in full command of every run, every trill, every technical device during the 1880 violin concerto. One of the most beautiful moments of the concert came at the end of the second movement when she softened her tone and duoed with principal clarinet-

Synnestvedt also is a musician who understands the importance of the visual aspect of performing. Her red dress and blond hair made her presentation even more pleasing, though such things should really have no bearing on a fine performance.

As a violinist, Synnestvedt has outstanding qualities in musicianship.

The second-place award, the Oliver H. Wagner Memorial Award of $750, was given to pianist William Ransom, a doctoral student at the University of Michigan on scholarship with Theodore

THEN I understood. Ransom is extremely lyrical with the tender passages in Chopin. He is able to change pace quickly, alternate emotional expressions and move from one rhythm to another with no alteration of the overall feeling of the composition. His style is light, airy and then powerful, always clear but with a rapid facility that is easy and comfortable.

He performs with feeling.

A $500 prize and third place was awarded to flutist Jeffery Zook. He is a student at the University of Michigan School of Music and has won numerous scholarships and awards. Zook is a highly energetic performer and is skilled in his playing.

Weak lyrics, a generally lackluster score and an inane plot make it an uphill battle for the talented cast members of "I Love My Wife," current production at the Birmingham Theatre.

Although the director and principal players cannot be faulted and do manage a few shining moments, they are not enough to redeem the show.

The Michael Stewart-Cy Coleman musical comedy is about two young married couples, lifelong friends, who aspire to broaden their horizons and become swingers. When push comes to shove (and various other attempted positions), the foursome's sexual escapades fall flat. Even in these liberated times, everyone is not cut out to be a swinger, the show suggests. Nor is every one-gag plotline meant Wally (Mark Jacoby) convinces his pal Alvin (James Seymour) that three in bed is better than two. Alvin then must convince his reluctant wife Cleo (Marcia McClain). Should it be two males and one female or two females and one male? Wally ends their indecision by suggesting they expand to a foursome. That leaves Wally to break the news to his outraged wife Monica (Jacqueline Reilly).

WHEN THE pre-appointed time arrives, Alvin invents all sorts of delaying tactics. The others finally shut him up, and Wally pulls out his new swingers' sex manual. The latter doesn't work too well, and neither do Wally and Alvin.

Whenever one of the principals breaks into song, a four-man combo of their old pals wanders out to provide musical accompaniment, sometimes mercifully drowning out the lyrics. The running gag is Meadow Brook Theatre's production of "The Heiress" is true to the genius of Henry James. The drama rises above drawing-room melodrama to tell a tale rich in the psychology of what shapes character.

The play by Ruth and Augustus Goetz is based on James' 1880s novel Washington Square.". "The Heiress" is an entertaining period soap opera complete with an autocratic father, young lovers planning a midnight elopement and a widowed aunt who fuels their romance.

Performances of Brook has an engaging, if frivolous story.

Thanks to James' understanding of the com-plexities of human motivation, "The Heiress" rises above the soap bubhles to tell us something about love and cruelty, loss and vengeance.

SET AMONG proper New York society, "The Heiress" describes the genteel world of the rich in 1850. It's a time when ladies' voluminous skirts swaved in wire-rigged gracefulness and when society prized beautiful women as ornaments. Costumes for Meadow Brook's Washington Square ladies are sumptuous and lovely.

Catherine, a plain girl with an unflattering severe hairdo, is a misfit. With the exception of her needlework, she fails miserably in the ladylike social graces. She's too shy to chatter with femi-

Her matchmaking aunt, admirably played by Jillian Lindig, delights in romance. Maureen McDevitt, who plays Catherine's twittery bright cousin Marian, is the beauty who's everything Catherine's not.

These ladies balance the grave Catherine and her father and give a liveliness to the drawing room drama that's directed with stylized reserve by Terence Kil-burn. As the poor, struggling widow-in-a-bonnet, Bethany Carpenter projects such honesty that the character doesn't seem like the stereotype it could so easily be.

Dr. Sloper objects to the match, of course, because he sees that Townsend is a selfish, opportunist after Catherine's money. The truth of that fact outweighs any regard for Catherine's feelings and for the possibility that Morris may be her

Roger Moore's best James Bond film is "The Spy Who Loved Me," co-starring Barbara Bach, Richard Kiel and Curt Jurgens. Bach, as Moore's Soviet counterpart, is the key. While prior 007 films lagged behind the times, Bach's portrayal of a sultry and sophisticated Russian agent propelled this picture into the age of the Equal Rights and Amendment. In fact, subsequent Bond films have only regressed. Kiel, too, as the metal-mouthed Jaws, is a wonderful bad guy, and Jurgins is perfect as the evil mastermind. Bernard Lee also

BILL BRESLER staff photographer

Globetrotting with a camera Photographer Bob Webber shows us the world

By Mary Klemic staff writer

You may never have the chance to travel around the world in 80 days, as did fictional character Phileas Fogg. But in a way you can make a similar trip in some 80 seconds.

That is, if you visit Frame Works in Plymouth now through March 28. The shop, at 833 Penniman, is featuring an International Photographic Exhibit by Robert Webber. Included in the exhibit are photographs taken from North America, Latin America and Emogra

There is a mountain in Switzerland. Here is a guard in London, England. In that row you see the Tower of Pisa. Look in this row and you're watching sheep graze in Pennsylvania.

"ANYBODY CAN learn how to use a camera, but you have to recognize a picture when you see it," said Webber,

"You should look for something with a center of interest. It's a matter of personal tastes as to what you like to Webber became interested in photography while he was in the Navy. He founded a camera shop and studio in Northville in 1965. Now semi-retired, Webber travels around the world looking for subjects to photograph six months a year, he says. He and wife Betty have written about their journeys and given slide show presentations on the subject.

"I've had my lucky shots," Webber said. "I happened to catch a Canadian goose with water on its back just right for one picture. But I've been known to wait an hour and a half for the weather to clear to get what I want. My wife is getting used to that. I might drive all day and take one picture of a red barn."

IN THE display are scenes from Normandy, Holland, Portugal, Canada and the Italian, French and Spanish Riveria, among other places. There are local shots, too, including those taken on Michigan college campuses and in Plymouth.

Many of the pictures have to do with water, boats or some other nautical theme. Among these are shots of a lighthouse on a rocky slope, colorful boats in front of old white structures along a coast in Spain and white gulls flocking behind fishermen. Webber admits having a certain fondness for this

"We try to keep to the coastlines," he said. "We like the small seaport cities." But Webber adds that he photographs "just about anything." He once chartered a helicopter to take aerial photographs of Detroit. Two of his favorite pictures are of a church at Mont barn in Canada.

"I'm an architectural nut," Webber said. "I like architecture."

MANY OF Webber's photographs have a story behind them. When he took a picture of a scene in Zumatt, located in the southern part of Switzerland, he and his wife ran into the only person they knew in Europe. The man in the shot entitled "Goose and Friend," taken in Denmark, didn't know he would be included in the picture.

Webber took a course in portraiture and attended photography seminars, but most of his photographer's knowledge came through experience, he says.

"I bought my first camera when I was in the Navy," Webber said. "I took primarily family pictures. Then I joined the Photographic Guild of Detroit. The competition makes you get out and take pictures, and I learned a

"I would advise would-be photographers to join a good camera club," he added. "It will get you started. Most of them have instructional classes and competition among members. Part of the club is going on assignments, so you take pictures you might not take other-

WEBBER MAJORED in math and English at Albion College. He joined the Detroit diesel engine division of General Motors in 1946. Webber later worked as production control manager for a diesel engine and farm tractorfirm, procedures supervisor at Willow Run for the Kaiser-Fraiser Corp. In 1953, he became an organization analyst for the Ford Motor Co. He has been president of the Plymouth Symphony Society and the Northville Chamber of Commerce.

"My love of photography took me from big business to small business,"

"I like the fact that you got some-thing to show for your work," he said. "I still get excited about seeing a roll of film as it's developed."

Webber, who has been to all but four U.S. states, wants to visit England again to photograph the ice skating pair of Jayne Torvill and Christopher Dean who won a gold medal at the Winter Olympics in Sarajevo. He has never seen Australia and New Zealand and hopes to visit those places someday.

The Webbers' 1982 motor trip through Europe cost them $55 a day. They wrote about how they kept their travel costs down and offered the reports for sale.

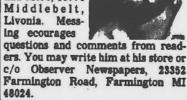

"We met a lot of nice people who told us what to see," Robert Webber said. "So we saw a lot of museums and things the tour buses never stop at. We learned some unknown history by visit-

How to save art for posterity

This is another in a series of lessons on art and drawing by special columnist David Messing. He has taught for eight years and operates an art store, Art Store and More, 18774 Middlebelt, Livonia. Messing ecourages

By David Messing special writer

I am 36 and aging fast.

Just look at my photo. Really this photo in the paper doesn't do my eye bags justice. They are much bigger and darker. I am already into the corrective combing stage and hate to go out on windy days. Even my beard is turning white. I know it is just a few white hairs here and there, but it is getting a little painful plucking them out everyday. One friend said a white beard is very distinguished. But I'm only 36, I want to be cute, not distinguished.

I have always been relatively uncon-Grand about my age until I became "28ish" and "29ish," then I began to worry about the "big three-0." As a matter of fact I had a traumatic experience at that time in my life. I always got confused about my age. Since I needed a pencil and scratch pad to figure it out, I never took the time to calculate my correct age. So when I thought I was 28 getting close to 30, I was shocked to discover I was already 29 turning 30.

At my own birthday party, I couldn't believe it when my wife put 30 candles on the cake. I still feel that I lost a year somewhere back then.

SINCE WE can do nothing to halt the passing of time, it is a particular blessing to be an artist. Certainly any work of art outlasts its creator. How inspiring to think that an expression in the form of art whether it be in drawing, painting, sculpture or writing can clearly speak long after the voice of the artist is silenced. This thought adds a little weight to those many quick sketches most artist have laying around. Indeed a significant percentage of art works we frame at the art store are cherished pieces, perhaps only casually observed during the artist's lifetime. For this reason I feel it is of particular importance that your choice of paper and media be of a good quality so that your works of art will hold up to the passage of time.

This week we framed a pencil drawing done in 1977. It is hard to believe that in just seven years this paper had drastically yellowed and even cracked in some areas. When you consider the time spent doing any work of art it would be a shame if it turned out beautifully and was on an inferior grade of paper. If this happens, you can always transfer your drawing to better paper. The best way to approach this, however, is to do a rough sketch on bond, layout or poster paper. When you have established all the critical areas transfer (by rubbing graphite on the back of your drawing) the main shapes to a good quality paper. High rag or 100 percent rag paper has a good chance of staying white over the passing of time. I had better go to a question to change the subject before this sounds like a life insurance commercial.

Q: My name is Janice and I am having a difficult time drawing this idea I have of a man holding up the world, similar to Atlas. Would an anatomy class belp me.

A: As you probably already know. Janice, people are very difficult to draw. If you draw them even a little out of proportion or imperfect it is very noticeable. Within a year, my personal goal of having a studio class concentrating on anatomy will come true. There is too much about anatomy to touch on here. I have scratched the surface a little in a couple previous articles. I will say this, it is very important to look closely and study the shapes and how they relate to each other and you will have an easier time drawing.

Remember to spend as much time studying the shape as you do sketching slammed her drawing down on the art it. Make it clear in your mind before you even attempt to make a visual ex-

I think of my 5-year-old son, Adam. Now there is a kid who knows how to look at shapes. All those cute stuffed toys and animals he plays with all day seem to scare him at night, when it is bed time. Before we are allowed to leave his room, we must turn Cookie Monster and the other 12 Sesame Street toys, so they face the wall, because the large eyes scare him at night. Anything that has a threatening sillouette must be put on the floor. It is very common to hear his little voice, somewhat irritated, as it pierces the night's silence, "Hey you guys forgot to turn Big Bird around.

Thank-you: Many people have taken time to write letters asking questions and complimenting the Artifacts column. Others have made a trip to the Art Store to introduce themselves and there express their favorable opinion of the column. Please accept my thankyou to the many nice people who have cheered this article on for 35 weeks. Circular File: "You said anything can be fixed, now fix this drawing before I throw it away" said Bella, as she table.

She had a beautifully drawn picture of an opossum in a tree. The problem was that you couldn't make out the structure of the opossom because it is so furry. This problem was easilyl corrected by adding heavily sheded areas to show the structure of the animal. After the structure was established, Bella added a fine lines here and there to give it the hairy texture. The proper approach to drawing furry, fluffy or hair covered animals is to always develop the structure first. Then define the planes and shapes of bone and muscle. Then and only then add the finishing details. Sometimes the strokes of hair or fur will completely cover up the structure you may have struggled to produce. But that structure is critical because it supports the finishing details and adds a lifelike quality to your animal renderings. Some animals have very short hair which because of its shiny texture emphasizes the bone and muscle structure. A horse, for example, is a study in bone, muscle and proportion. The fact that a horse even has hair is only evident in that it has a shiny coat, which wonderfully bends light and shadow to emphasize its massive structure.
