City eyes truck ban on Trail

Residents would like to have truck traffic banned on Ann Arbor Trail from Main to Sheldon.

The city has discovered, however, that Ann Arbor Trail officially is designated as a truck route and trucks have a legal right to use the road.

The city administration has asked the Michigan Department of Transporation (MDOT) whether the designation could be changed and still is awaiting Meanwhile, a group of about eight residents on Ann Arbor Trail also is asking the city to crack down on speeding motorists in the residential stretch of the Trail.

Monday night City Manager Henry Graper promised to send a police radar unit into the area to slow down vehicles. He also turned over to the residents a study done by the police department of traffic speeds along Ann Arbor

That study had been referred to in a letter Graper sent earlier to the residents regarding the speed of traffic and the banning of truck traffic.

Graper had told residents Ann Arbor Trail officially was a truck route, even though a sign is posted that trucks aren't allowed. The sign was put up to discourage truck traffic, said the city manager, but legally the city cannot prevent trucks from using the route.

The study indicated that maffic averaged of might the same and the same and the same areas. in that section is posted with a limit of 25 mph. Some 2.3 percent of the vehicles checked were clocked in excess of 40 mph. The check also counted one truck using that section of the road every 10 minutes.

Residents told the city commission Monday night that an "average" of 30 mph indicated a problem as there had to be a significant number of motorists driving faster than 30 mph.

Graper commented that 5 mph over the limit was not excessive as police usually would not ticket a motorist who was exceeding the limit by only 5 mph. Mayor David Pugh noted that cars speed, too, not just trucks. "We'll put a car down there at times to enforce the speed limit," said Graper, "but we can't have a car parked there at all times."

City Engineer Ken West said that Ann Arbor Trail has been designated as a federal urban route since the early

Starkweather: home away from home

By Marie Chestney staff writer

Two years ago, just before school let out for the summer, a custodian unlocked a door at Starkweather Elementary School and walked in on a mess.

Clocks, torn from walls, lay smashed on the floor. Ceiling tiles had been pierced and ripped out. Typewriters and other office equipment had been thrown on the floors. And the floors were littered with broken glass.

In the words of one school employee, the staff greeted the act-of-thieveryturned-into-vandalism with tears. But that same staff - from principal to mently shook their heads when someone suggested the vandals were students, or former students, at the school.

"Fingers were pointed at the students. People were saying, 'the kids from your school did this,' " recalled Phillip Radant, a third-grade teacher at Starkweather. 'But we said, 'not our they know well the f kids.' Our kids are capable of doing this, but they didn't. We knew our kids had concern and care for that build-

And the staff was right. The vandals, police later determined, were in no way connected to the school.

IT'S THAT kind of pride and loyalty which describes the feelings of those close to Starkweather, a 57-year-old school in Old Village scheduled to close as a kindergarten to 6th grade instruction center when school ends in June.

But if you think those feelings of pride and loyalty are merely for an old, brick school building, your're wrong. Nobody who knows Starkweather thinks of it as just a school or building.

To the Old Village neighborhood, and to staff and students past and present, Starkweather is a close and treasured member of the family. Teachers know well the students they teach because they know well the families the students come from.

Many teachers are teaching the second - and even third - generation of the same family. Teachers come, and they never want to leave. Students one day have to leave, but it's a parting tinged with sadness.

Starkweather is the kind of school one retired teacher affectionately called as comfortable as "an old shoe."

"It's more than just a school where students go to learn," said John Howe, who was principal for 13 years at Starkweather before moving to the same spot at Fiegel Elementary. "It's the focal point of the neighborhood. And it takes time to build that kind of a feeling. It's the place that takes care of the 'little insignificant' things - the place to go if you need shoes, glasses, clothing, medical advice, counseling,

Arrests climb in crackdown

Third in a series of articles on problems caused by drunk drivers. By Marie Chestney staff writer

Despite extra patrols on the roads and a crackdown by police armed with a new state law, some drivers still are bound and determined to mix drinking and driving and take a chance on not getting caught.

Take the 27-year-old Warren man who was partying at the Plymouth Hilton late Saturday night. This man was arrested at 3:30 a.m. Sunday morning for driving drunk down Northville Road in Plymouth.

The arrest came despite a warning earlier from Plymouth Police that he was not to drive himself home. A security officer had called police to the hotel when the man, apparently intoxicated, became loud and boisterous.

The man, ignoring the officer's warning, didn't get far down Northville Road before he was stopped and arrested for drunk driving.

The Warren man's arrest was one of five for drunk driving made Saturday night and early Sunday morning by Plymouth Police. In fact, in that one night, police arrested more drunks in the city and township than they did during the whole month of February 1983, when they only arrrested four.

DRUNK DRIVING arrests throughout Wayne County have shot up in the last few months.

You can pin the blame (or the honors) for the surge in arrests on two innovations launched in 1983. Both were designed to keep drunks off the streets and in their homes.

One of the innovations has something in common with a popular television program. Its official name is the Alcohol Enforcement Program (AEP), administered by the Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning and formed by 36 local police departments, the Wayne County's Sheriff's Department and State Police.

But police call it simply "the A-Team.

Last Nov. 1, the 36 communities started using funds from a $400,000 federal grant to beef up police patrols - "A-Teams" - during peak drinkingand-driving hours. Monies from the grant pay for the salaries of officers who volunteer to ride duty during the peak times, often Friday and Saturday nights.

Statistics for the first four months of AEP show that the teams have made more than 550 drunk driving arrests in the county "that wouldn't have been made without the program," said Gar-den City Police Chief Charles Wilmoth, head of the program.

The "A-Team" arrests, Wilmoth said, are in addition to more than 500 drunk driving arrests recorded during the same period by regular police patrols.

THE SECOND innovation was the launching last April 1 of a stricter drunk driving law, passed by the Michigan Legislature.

The new law gave police departments extra tools to work with in their crackdown on drunk drivers and brought numerous changes in the way such drivers are arrested, charged, tried and sentenced.

One of the handiest of the extra tools now used by police is the portable Breathalyzer. It's also one of the effective against a driver suspected drinking.

The portable machine, carried in the senior car on patrol in the city of Plym outh, Plymouth Township and Canton, allows on-the-spot testing of a driver an officer suspects has been drinking.

Police no longer have to give various.

sobriety tests, guess whether the driver is drunk enough to warrant a trip to the station, and take the hour or so required to have the driver tested at the station on standard equipment.

"Before, to go to court, an officer must have observed a car driving in a manner the officer deemed improper said Bob Henry, who coordinates the "A-Team" task force for Plymouth, Northville, and Plymouth, Canton and Northville townships.

"Then, he administered various sobriety tests. Now, even if he just smells a small odor, he can get him to blow on the portable Breathalyzer."

NOW, IF AN officer has good reason, such as a broken headlight or an improper turn, to stop a driver and he detects alcohol, he can demand the driver breathe into the portable machine.

The test takes about five minutes, and the machine is driven over to the spot where the driver has been stopped. The portable machine has to register

drinking driver

0.10 percent before the driver can be slapped with a drunk driving charge. The field test is then buttressed with another test, given at the station.

But, under the new law, the court accepts the test given at the station as primae facie" evidence that the person was drunk. All guess work has been taken out of the arrest. And, to further document the drunk driving charge, police continue to give simple field sobriety tests.

"We used to let the borderlines go; it took too much time to bring them in for a test," Henry said. "Now, with the portable breathalyzer, we arrest

Under the old law, a driver with a 0.10 percent test reading was only presumed to be drunk. It was up to the prosecution, using such evidence as er-ratic driving, slurred speech and staggering, to prove the charge.

The new law also requires at least a 90-day automatic suspension of a motorist's driver's license if the person is convicted. It gives stricter penalties for persons convicted of impaired driving and for refusing to take a breath

To be charged with impaired driving, a person's test reading must be from 0.07 percent to 0.10 percent.
"It's not very often that a driver will refuse to take the test," Henry said. "If they call an attorney, he will tell them to take the test. You can fight the reading on the Breathalyzer easier than you can fight a refusal. An attorney can always cast doubt on the Breathalyzer operator's ability or say something was wrong with the instrument."

HENRY IS ONE of three Plymouth officers who ride as the "A-Team" on Friday and Saturday nights.

Presidential hopeful Gary Hart won the 2nd Congressional District over front-runner Walter Mondale during last Saturday's Democratic caucus but Mondale was an easy winner in the 15th and 17th districts.

Detailed caucus-by-caucus results were still unavailable from Democratic State Central Committee headquarters as of late Tuesday.

Statewide, Mondale, former vice president who was heavily backed by organized labor, received 49.21 percent of the vote and won 55 of the 93 Democratic National Convention delegates from Michigan. Hart, senator from Colorado, received 31.27 percent of the vote, enough for 32 delegates. The Rev. Jesse Jackson received 16.26 percent and eight delegates.

Raw vote totals statewide were: Mondale 66,555, Hart 42,293, Jackson $1,994, and a scattering of 558 for dropouts John Glenn of Ohio and George McGovern of South Dakota or to the "uncommitted" column.

In area results: • 2nd Congressional District -Mondale 3,752 votes, 33.04 percent, two delegates. Hart 5,644 votes, 49.7 percent, three delegates. Jackson 1,813 votes, 15.97 percent, no delegates.

Student selected honored employee

Educational Park (CEP) has been named employee of the month for a division including some 19 stores.

Kip Schoenborn was named divisional employee of the month for January by Kinney Shoes. Earlier he had been named employee of the month for January at the local Kin-ney store in New Towne Plaza at Ford and Sheldon Roads in Canton.

"This is a fantastic honor and the first time Canton has been represented this year," says Robert Burr, manager of Canton Kinney Shoes. "This is the first time ever that a part-time employee has been choed and conscientious young man he has ever supervised. "This young man always gives 110 percent toward any project assigned, be it sales, stock or store maintenance.

"Kip's sales book, accessory percent and selling cost has been consistently excellent. When this store was running without an assistant manager during a peak week, following Christmas, Kip stepped in and literally filled the void."

Schoenborn also was named employee of the year last year for Canton Kinney Shoes. He is a student enrolled in the cooperative education program at CEP and has worked with Byron Richardson, coordinator of Occupational Training Programs at the CEP.

Bills give privacy to boards

staff writer

A state House of Representatives committee has approved and sent to the House floor two bills to allow governing boards more privacy under the Open Meetings Act.

The House Towns and Counties Committee last week gave 8-0 approval to House Bill 5219, allowing closed-door performance evaluations of such hired officials as city managers, school superintendents and college presidents. It is sponsored by the committee chairman, Rep. Richard Fitzpatrick, D-Bat-

The committee also gave 8-0 approval to House Bill 4850, which allows governing boards to meet in private homes as long as they advertise the meeting as open to the public.

The bill was sponsored by Rep. Willis Bullard, R-Milford. He said some upper peninsula townships shut down their meeting halls for the winter. The bill, if it becomes law, would apply statewide.

NO ACTION was taken yet on the most controversial of a package of Open Meetings Act amendments -House Bill 4849 by Bullard allowing governing boards to hold closed-door meetings with their attorneys whenever a lawsuit is threatened.

Bullard said his Milford Township was spending $80,000 a year on attorneys' fees, 90 percent in zoning cases, but many could have been settled quickly if closed meetings were allowed early in the proceedings.

His view was supported by Michael Karwoski of the State Bar Association. "Once pleadings have been filed, par-ties have a tendency to become intransigent," said Karwoski.

But Rep. John Cherry, D-Clio, said allowing closed-door sessions for "threatened" lawsuits would "open the floodgates for private sessions."

Other committee questions and re-marks indicated members were unlikely to approve HB 4849 as easily as the other bills were reported out.

Three committee members were absent from the session, including Rep. Ruth McNamee, R-Birmingham, the only member from the Observer & Ec-

The current law allows closed-door sessions only for charges or disciplinary proceedings. Fitzpatrick's bill would wipe out the effect of the court ruling. A 1980 version of the bill was vetoed by then-Gov. William G. Milliken. A 1982 version was passed by the state Senate but stalled in the House.

Tom Bernthal, representing the Michigan Community Colleges Association, said "performance evaluations would be more meaningful" if done in closed sessions.

Kathleen Strauss, representing the Michigan Association of School Boards, said closed-door sessions "make it possible for us to do a better job . . . The discussion can be more open and honest" than the written report, which would still have to be made public.

Rep. Jelt Sietsema, D-Grand Rapids said, "I don't see where there's a problem. I don't think school boards are

But Sietsema reversed himself on the vote, supporting the bill. THOMAS NORDBERG, a Lans attorney for various local governing boards, said the problem for school boards is, "When does an evaluation be

"It's cheaper to do it in closed season than to violate the employee's rights," Nordberg said.

Under questioning by a committee member, Nordberg said a school board

Chief Master Sgt. Brian Bowman, euphonium, and Master Sgt. Victor Bowman, cornet, will perform the U.F. Carvalho arrangement of "Cousins" and on alternate nights Gabriel will feature Chief Master Sgt. James Scott, saxophone, performing Floyd E. Werle's "The Story of the Saxophone."

GABRIEL IS one of the world's most widely traveled directors, having conducted concerts in all 50 of the United States and in 45 countries throughout

On Oct. 1, 1970, when he was promoted to the rank of colonel, he became the youngest musician in the military to attain that grade. Since becoming commander, Gabriel has instituted a new tour concept of presenting concerts free as a public service.

Since he has become conductor, the band has made four appearances on the Mike Douglas Show and presented a nationally televised 4th of July concert. Gabriel is the only active Air Force musician to hold the Legion of Merit; one of the nation's highest peacetime Gabriel first entered the military in 1943, served as combat machine gunner with the 29th Infantry Divisin in the European Theatre in World War II. He was discharged in 1946 and earned a degree in music at Ithaca College, New York, before re-entering the service in 1951 as a warrant officer and bandleader. He assumed his present position in 1964.

We have all your IRA answers.

"I'm going to retire in 20 years-no sense starting an IRA now... right?"

Wrong.

Start now with an annual $2,000 contribution to a Down River Federal Savings Individual Retirement Account and, at the end of 20 years, you'll have an extra $132,049" to play with!

$132.049 isn't bad when you stop to think that it means less than $39 a week to make a $2.000 a year contribution into your IRA. That's a lot less than many people spend on entertainment!

And, you'll be creating a solid. secure addition to your future. Here's a pleasant bonus: That $2,000 a year is deducted from your income - and the taxes you'd normally pay on it and the interest earned are deferred. Here's your first step: Visit or call any of our 24 neighborly offices. In the Downriver area call 285:1010; Northwest area 477-9340 and in the Monroe area 243-66(X). Need a loan to finance your IRA?

'A Team' shows effectiveness

Saturday at 11:30 p.m. officers saw an '83 Re-nault straddling both lanes of Main near Byron in Plymouth before the car swerved onto the shoulder of the road. The arrested 21-year-old Plymouth resident had an open beer can in his car and blew 0.10 on the Breathalyzer.

At 1:30 a.m., they spotted a '79 Chevrolet east-bound on Joy at Main in Plymouth that had its bright lights blinking on and off constantly. The car also went onto the road's shoulder and back again before being stopped. The 25-year-old Canton wom-an driving the car blew 0.19 on the machine.

And, at 2:50 a.m. on Michigan Avenue near Canton Center, a '74 Plymouth swerved back and forth across the center lane and onto the shoulder of the road before being stopped. The 23-year-old Canton driver blew 0.13.

Stopping these drunk drivers weekend after weekend is how Henry's "A-Team" uses its $36,000 in AEP funds. Each community in his district -Canton, Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth,

THE 'A-TEAM' figured Friday and Saturday nights were the best time to catch drunk drivers in the five-community area.

McCauley seeks Dem bid for Congress

Mike McCauley, a teacher at Plymouth Canton High School since 1971, has announced his candidacy for U.S. Congress in the 2nd District on the Democratic ticket.

He is seeking the seat held by incumbent Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth. The 2nd District includes Plymouth, Livonia and Northville in western Wayne County, Hillsdale County, and parts of Washtenaw, Jackson and Branch coun-

"The time has come for new leadership in the 2nd District," said McCauley. "What has Carl Pursell ever done for this district?

"In a time of high unemployment, dwindling funds for education, inefficiency in government spending and, most importantly, confused priorities, the 2nd District has been hit hard and needs strong and dedicated leadership in Washington to turn things around."

MCCAULEY SAID that Pursell has not made good use of the eight years he has spent as congressman for the district. "In the past three years more than 315,000 people have left Michigan because of dwindling opportunity. What has Pursell done in the last year to improve the 2nd District, to ease the pain of unemployment or increased government deficits or better education for the youth of Michigan?

Of the 9,321 bills introduced in the 98th Congress, Pursell sponsored only four of them. None of his sponsored bills had an effect on the major problems of Michigan - employment, education and inefficiency in government

"The bills he sponsored included the Good Samaritan Act; the second bill concerned non-profit service clubs qualifying for third-class postal rates; the third was an amendment to the In/ ternal Revenue Code of 1954; and the fourth was the year of the secretary designation. All of these bills have a place in the American legislative process, but I believe there are more pressing issues that must be dealt with," said McCauley.

"In the area of education, Pursell voted down more than $16 billion worth of legislation that would have improved America's public schools. Pursell also voted for the MX missile and a $249.8 billion defense appropriation bill.

"Because the 2nd District hasn't had effective leadership in Congress, Michigan has slipped from 25th to 47th of the 50 states in receiving contracts."

WHAT THE 2nd District needs, said McCauley, is a congressman who has his priorities straight, one who is willing to invest in youth and education, not inefficient military spending.

McCauley said that Rep. Pursell once said, "Show me a good athlete and I'll show you a good legislator. A lot of the same rules apply in Congress." McCauley, two-time Observerland coach of the year for women's varsity basketball and a former Michigan State University football player, says

"If we can bring management, labor and government together to work as a team, then the 2nd District, Michigan, and aff America can begin to rebuild the way it should have years ago," said McCauley. "What we need is a team player to make all this possible."

Born in Detroit in 1948, McCauley graduated from Livonia Bentley High in 1967 - a letter winner in three sports and member of the Bentley Concert Choir.

At MSU he majored in political science and earned a teaching certificate in social studies in 1971. While in lege, he was on the Spartan for team, coached eighth grade bask and worked in an alternative edit project.

He has taught for Plymouth Cante
Community Schools for the past years. At Canton High, he teaches h tory, government, civics, psycholog and minorities. Besides teachin McCauley has been a painting confra tor for the past 14 years in the Plyn outh, Ann Arbor area.

In 1973 McCauley earned a master degree in special education from Es ern Michigan University, and in 196 enrolled in his doctorate program is health education at the University Michigan. He has spent 11 years coat

"When kids come to school without breakfast, they can go to the kitchen and get something to eat. When a child is hungry, he's not ready to learn."

HOWE ADMITTED most of the above is not a school's job.

"But that explains our uniqueness," he went on. "We're family oriented. Our teachers are involved in the families and their day-to-day living. The kids here are greatly loved by their parents. But these parents have social and economic needs. Our teachers have familiarity with these needs. Kids can come in early if their parents have to work, or stay later in the afternoon."

Starkweather serves an area which has the highest concentration of lowincome residents in Plymouth. Because of this, some of its programs are federally funded. With the closing of the school, most of its students will be going to Tanger in September.

From her retirement home in Grand Haven, and in recalling her 19 years as principal at Starkweather, the first word Mildred Field used to describe the school was "families." Field, after whom Field Elementary in Canton was named, retired in 1972 and Howe took over the reins.

"Families were very much a part of our school," she said. "Parents were always welcome to come in and talk. We knew the oldest child down to the youngest, and then we taught their chil-dren. It was a community where kids knew all the other kids and played together. And the parents were all friends. It was that oneness to the community which made it special."

Norma McMullen, who lives on Castor, started the McMullen family's trek to Starkweather in 1927 when the school first opened. She was 7 years old

"SOME TEACHERS were meant to teach - it seems a lot of them who were meant to teach have been at Starkweather," Mrs. McMullen said. "They really had some great teachers, some dedicated women. Elizabeth Donnelly, who retired from Starkweather in 1976 after 21 years of teaching, got her first taste of the school in 1932. She taught there one year, and then was transferred to Central. She came back years later, first as a substitute teacher, then full time.

Donnelly called Starkweather her 'home away from home."

"It got to be like an old shoe, all broken in. I knew substitutes who would say they felt warmth as soon as they came into the building."

Marian Owens, a lifelong Plymouth resident and secretary at the school for 17 years, described the school as one with a "great deal of humbleness."

"They care about each other, the children, the staff members. If there is need, they pitch right in."

Radant started his teaching career 17 years ago at Starkweather and never left. He called the school the "hub" of the Old Village community because of its spirit of cooperation and close-

Drivers training s on the decline

THE NUMBER OF high school students in Michigan taking driver education is on

From Sept. 1, 1982, to Oct. 31, 1983, the number of high schoolers enrolled in driver's ed has declined by more than 10,000. The total number of student drivers was 132,070 in fiscal 1982-83 compared to 142,422 in fiscal '81-82, according to the Michigan Department of Education.

Although student enrollment has been declining over the past several years in Michigan, this drop in driver ed participation represents a substantial change in the

Although public school driver's ed enrollment has been steadily going down, the number of students taking the course from a commercial or professional driving school has remained about the same.

The Department of Education doesn't give any specific reason for the decline but it does note that state reimbursement to local school districts in support of the program represented 54 percent of overall program cost, compared to 50 per cent the previous year. Per pupil reimbursements, however, dropped from $42.29 to local districts range from $420 per pupil at Republic Michigamme to a low of $19.62 in White Cloud. Cost is related directly to when and how the program is provided; the regular school day program, for instance, is more expensive to offer than a summer program.

The Department of Education will give districts special approval to operate under the newer, cost-effective programs. Some 193 districts have received such approval to date.

It's unlikely the state will increase its funding for driver's ed. If we wish to increase safety on the highways, we should either explore cost-saving measures at the public school level or look entirely to the private sector to train young people to

Right now Michigan appears to be in a transition stage of swaying between public and private driver education. A shift should be made by design, not by accident.

Drunk-driving toll drops

The real tragedy of public wailing over group homes is the scars left on the community, the families of the retarded, and the retarded themselves.

We have yet to see anywhere in the Constitution where it says retarded persons have fewer rights. They have just as much right to live where they want as the next guy. Being retarded is not a crime. Despite what some people may believe, condition of birth is simply genetics at work. Some people are born white, some black, others Oriental. And some are born retarded. None of the above had control over their birth. None should be penalized

As for those who threaten to move out if the group home is put in — good riddance.

ON A TYPICAL Saturday morning, I passed through a busy intersection on the way to the library. When I got out of my car, I heard a loud pop — it sounded like a firecracker — at the intersection. Looking back, I could tell an automobile accident had taken place.

I gave the incident little thought until I picked up Sunday's paper. A news story said a man had been killed — my former neighbor. He had followed me through the intersection by two minutes. A woman had failed to stop for a red light and had hit the side of his car.

Shaken, I realized I had come close to being the victim.

I DO NOT KNOW if the reckless driver had been drinking. Perhaps not, since it was in the morning But national safety experts estimate that more than half of the people killed in auto fatalities are victims of drunk drivers. That means drunk driving accounts for approximately 26,000 deaths every Among many people appalled by the devastating effects of drunk driving, the most visible group is MADD (Mothers Against Drunk Driving). A national organization with many local chapters in Oakland and Wayne counties, MADD is a rare group because it has achieved results.

Pressured by MADD and other groups, the Michigan Legislature has approved several measures to crack down on drunk drivers. Next week will be the first anniversary of these laws, which went into effect March 30.

The laws call for suspending a driver's license for six months for a first conviction of drunk driving. In addition, they permit on-site preliminary breath tests so police officer can determine if he has cause to arrest a driver.

Several other programs were started in Wayne and Oakland counties, including patroling high-accident-rate areas with special alcohol-enforcement teams.

RESULTS ARE good.

According to the Traffic Improvement Association (TIA) of Oakland County, 1983 traffic deaths in that county were the lowest in 21 years - 111 in 1983 compared to 151 deaths in 1982.

TIA reports the following cities had traffic-fatality decreases in 1983 compared to 1982: Bloomfield Hills, 1 (from 2); Birmingham, 0 (from 2); Farmington Hills, 10 (from 13) and Southfield, 2 (from 11). Troy stayed the same with 10 fatalities in each year.

Several communities went up from 1983 compared to 1982, including: Beverly Hills, 1 (from 0); Bloomfield Township, 9 (from 0); Lathrup Village, 2 (from 1); Rochester, 1 (from 0); and West Bloomfield Township 3 (from 2).

TIA also reports that the number of fatalities involving alcohol in Oakland County was down 33 percent from 1982.

Nevertheless, more must be done. MADD chaters try to stop alcohol-related traffic deaths by seeking tough enforcement of laws and educating drivers with drinking problems.

Local volunteers like Canton's Ralph Shufeldt have devoted many hours to monitoring court cases to make sure drunk drivers are punished. But after a while, even the most enthusiastic volunteer can run out of time.

We need to find people who have the time to devote to court monitoring, such as retired people or housewives," he said. A SADD (Students Against Driving Drunk) chapter also has been organized to reduce teen drunk driving.

Those wishing to find out more about MADD should call 476-8344.

When we are behind the wheel of a car, there's little we can do to protect ourselves from other drivers. I was reminded of that on Saturday morning.

Blood supply is safe; need for donors great

THE BLOOD SUPPLY of the American Red Cross is safe for public use.

That word was issued recently by Southeastern Michigan Red Cross Blood Services in reaction to information linking AIDS with blood transfusions. The Red Cross stressed that at most one person in a million risks contacting AIDS following a blood transfusion.

Dr. William Shafer, a hematology specialist and regional blood services director, points out that risks occur with every blood transfusion. The risk of hepatitis is perhaps 5 to 7 percent of all patients who receive blood transfusions, he says, and the risk of contacting malaria following blood transusions is one in a million. No one talks about contacting malaria, he says, yet the public is fearful of contacting AIDS even though the risk is the same as it is for malaria.

Nationwide only 18 cases of transfusion-transmitted AIDS has been reported by the Center for Disease Control. The center investigated seven of those cases and believes each of the vidtims received transfusions from at least-one high risk donor. A total of eight high risk donors have been identified.

House committee approves bills allowing more private meetings

By Tim Richard staff writer

A state House of Representatives committee has approved and sent to the House floor two bills to allow governing boards more privacy-under the Open Meetings Act.

The House Towns and Counties Committee last week gave 8-0 approval to House Bill 5219, allowing closed-door performance evaluations of such hired officials as city managers, school superintendents and college presidents. It s sponsored by the committee chairman, Rep. Richard Fitspatrick, D-Battle Creek.

The committee also gave 8-0 approval to House Bill 4850, which allows governing boards to meet in private homes as long as they advertise the meeting as open to the public.

The bill was sponsored by Rep. Willis Bullard, R-Milford. He said some upper peninsila townships shut down their meeting halls for the winter. The bill, if it becomes law, would apply statewide.

NO ACTION was taken yet on the most controversial of a package of Open Meetings Act amendments
- House Bill 4849 by Bullard allowing governing boards to hold closed-door meetings with their attorneys whenever a lawsuit is threatened.

Current law allows closed-door meetings only when a lawsuit has actually been filed and where open discussion might have a detrimental financial effect on its settlement.

Bullard said his Milford Township was spending $30,000 a year on attorney's fees, 90 percent in zoning cases, but many could have been settled quickly if closed meetings were allowed early in the proceedings.

His view was supported by Michael Karwoski of the State Bar Association. "Once pleadings have been filed, parties have a tendency to become intransigent," said Karwoski.

gent, said karwoski.

But Rep. John Cherry, D-Clio, said allowing closed-door sessions for "threatened" lawsuits would "open the floodgates for private sessions."

Other committee questions and remarks indicated members were unlikely to approve HB 4849 as easily as the other bills were reported out.

Computer program set at Schoolcraft

Computer educators will have a one-day seminar April 4 at Schoolcraft College.

The seminar will offer participants an opportunity to increase professional knowledge and teaching skills and to exchangeldeas with other educators.

Co-sponsored by "Interface: The Computer Education Quarterly," the prgram features Randolph Johnston as key speaker. He is the author of "Computers: An Introduction."

Cost is $45. Seven continuing education hours are awarded upon completion.

Information is avialable from Keith Burton at Schoolcraft, 591-6400, ext. 573.

Rep. John Cherry, D-Glio, said allowing closed-door sessions for 'threatened' lawsuits would 'open the floodgates for private sessions.'

Three committee members were absent from the session, including Rep. Ruth McNamee, R-Birmingham, the only member from the Observer & Eccentric area.

SPOKESPERSONS for local government organizations lobbied and for HB 5219 allowing closed-door performance evaluations of hired officials.

The current law allows closed-door sessions only for charges or disciplinary proceedings. A state Court of Appeals ruling against the board of Henry Ford Community College said a performance evaluation is far different from a disciplinary proceeding and must be done in open session because of the public interest.

Fitzpatrick's bill would wipe out the effect of the court ruling. A 1980 version of the bill was vetoed by then-Gov. William G. Milliken. A 1982 version was passed by the state Senate but stalled in the House.

Tom Bernthal, representing the Michigan Community Colleges Association, said "performance evaluations would be more meaningful" if done in closed sessions.

Kathleen Strauss, representing the Michigan Association of School Boards, and closed-door session "make it possible fragus to do a better job. . The discussion can be more been and honest"than the written report, which would still have to be made public.

Rep. Jeff Sietsems, D. Grand Rapids, said, "I don't see where there's a problem. I don't think teheol boards are running the district. They are 'yes' persons for the administration, The administration runs the district."

But Sietsema reversed himself on the vote, supporting the bill.

THOMAS NORDBERG, a Lansing attorney for various local governing boards, said the problem for school boards is, "When does an evaluation become a complaint"

Nordberg said boards are torn by the requirement, on one side, to protect an employee's right and on the other by the open meetings requirement.

"It's cheaper to do it in closed session than to violate the employee's rights," Nordberg said. Under questioning by a committee member, Nord-

Under questioning by a committee member, Nordberg said a school board member's comment that a superintendent shouldn't have called a "snow day" should be construed as a complaint and dealt with in closed session.

"You don't have open and frank discussion in public meetings," Nordberg said.

lic meetings," Nordberg said.

Bradford G. White, editor of Michigan All Media
News, a Lansing newsletter, said passage of HB 5219 would make the Open Meetings Act "more than 50 percent ineffective."

White said that as exceptions allowing closed meetings are added to the law, the number of topics discussed in closed sessions "tends to increase in a geometric progression."

To the editor:

I would like to thank the Observer for publishing the "roll call report" each week.

This summary, of how area members of Congress vote on the various bills, helps me to know elected officials are doing (or not doing) their job, a valuable guide, particularly in an election year.

For example, I wrote letters concerning aid for starving Africans, which is experiencing one of the worst famines in history, and Senator Levin and Congressman Pursell voted "yes" to send U.S. assistance, $150 million in emergency food supplies.

I urge all your readers to develop the habit of studying the "roll call report" to strengthen their political conscious-

Talent does not grow in fields

To the editor:

Imagine that, after a careful examination by your doctor, he informs you that you will shortly die from some disease that is almost never curable. What would you do?

You would, of course, seek the very best medical care available. You would want to be treated by the most intelligent, qualified and skilled doctors on the planet. Nothing less than the best of the best would do because this is, after all, a life and death matter.

But where do you think the brightest and most capable doctors come from? Where does one find those who make major advances in medicine and other

These people do not grow on trees and, despite popular hope, they do not develop spontaneously.

These people have to be developed with an educational program suited to constantly challenging and building their talents. If a person is going to push back the frontiers of medicine to save your life, he needs the tools of a superior education to do it.

feel that the interaction of bright students among themselves serves to greatly enhance the learning process.

Gifted education is not elitism, rather it is simply providing an educa-tion appropriate to the needs of a certain segment of our student population, much as we have done for years for students with learning disabilities.

Yes, a magnet center for the middle school TAG program will cost some ex-tra money, but if we're willing to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars for athletic facilities, couldn't we spare a few thousand dollars to at least try to develop the minds which could someday save our very lives?

people who believe that the most important thing is trying to prevent nuclear war and the end of all life — perhaps our world as we know it.

That to us is the best way to "save our children's futures." May I suggest, as a first step in balancing the federal budget, a reduction in nuclear armament spending. Studies have shown that civilian spending creates many more jobs per billion dollars than mili-

IT'S ALWAYS a pleasure to hear from former residents. This recent letter from John Bramlett in Little Rock, Ark. bears sharing. John would like to get in touch with some of his old friends. He is now assistant vice president, investments, of the Worthen Bank & Trust Company, N.A., Little Rock.

Here's his letter: "My name is John Bramlett. I lived in Plymouth from 1954 through early 1960, when my parents moved back to Arkansas during the year I was a fifth grade student at Gallimore Elementary School. Prior to that, I was a student at Bird School. When I attended Bird, my parents lived on Arthur Street. Later we moved out on Warren Road where I attended Gallimore.

"Last summer I had an opportunity to do something that I have wanted to do for years. I returned to Plymouth to see for myself how much things had changed. Surprisingly, the downtown area was still pretty much the same, while the outlying areas around Plymouth were, in some cases, totally changed. The main thing I found to be consistent with my fond memories of your town was the friendly, wholesome small-town environment I remember as a child.

When I came there with my family, the people we came in contact with were very courteous and polite, particularly with me since I kept asking everyone, 'What did that business over there used to be in the early '60s?' In most cases, the citizens I talked to were either too young to remember or didn't live in Plymouth during the years we lived there.

"At any rate, the trip was enjoyable in every way. My wife, who has had limited exposure to people and places outside Arkansas, found that I was not mistaken about how nice the town and the people could be. My children finally had a chance to see some of the many things I had told them about over the years, for example: where I had lived and gone to school, and a REAL CLOVERDALE ICE CREAM! Believe me, there's none better anywhere. Ask my kids!

"My only disappointment was that there was absolutely nowhere to start to locate any of the old friends I had more than 20 years o. I looked for several na the phone book but to no avail. I started several times to go up to houses and inquire but in several cases, the mail box had a different name. And to compound matters, I could not remember the names of the parents of most of those children. For example, one of my closest friends when I lived on Arthur Street was Calvin Hedrick. His parents and his sister, Beth, put up with me a lot as a kid. But I don't know where to find them. I did visit them during my only other trip back to Plymouth, but that was in 1965.

"I also remember many of my old classmates at Gallimore when I was a fifth grader in Mrs. Bloxsom's room. Some of their names were Gary Taylor, Craig Zorn, Danny Ray and Phillip Daley. But to try and contact these people in the few hours I was in town was impossible.

"I plan to make another trip to Plymouth and I certainly will not wait 20 years this time. I would appreciate it if you would print this letter or a segment of it in the hope that some of the people I mentioned might see it and share their addresses with me so we might eventually see each other again.

"It was frustrating as a child to leave all the friends I had grown up with and to leave the town I had called home as long as I could remember. It is equally frustrating at 34 years of age not to be able to find out what has happened to all those people. I know the town is alive and well, and I hope it always stays basically the same because Plymouth is truly a beautiful place

Bargains galore at birthday sale

Spring is here and with it comes the annual birthday sale at the Art Rental Gallery on the second floor of Dunning-Hough Library. The gallery sale is timed to the season. The acquisition of a new piece of art may be the needed inspiration to launch a spring cleaning or decorating project.

The ninth annual birthday party and sale will begin at 9 a.m. Wednesday, March 28, and remain open until the library closes. Everything in the gallery except the permanent collection and purchases made in 1983 will be priced for sale. More than 100 framed works have been priced from $10 and up. About 50 of these are marked at $50

Michigan artists Scott Hartley, Rick Burger, Doreen Lawton, Ann Dase Loveland, Donna Beaubien and Tom Hale will have original works in the birthday sale. Reproductions include paintings by Charles Wysocki, Georgia

O'Keefe, Claude Monet, Winslow Homer and Marc Chagall.

SOME UNFRAMED works will be available this year including serigraphs, embossings and photographs. Once again, a silent auction will be offered with six works going to the highest bidder.

Rental fees up to $12 may be deducted from the already low purchase pric-

Refreshments will be served and prizes of two months' free rental will be awarded. Those interested in a new work of art for home or office are urged to visit the gallery ahead of time and do their browsing before the sale.

THE PLYMOUTH Community Arts Council opened the Art Rental Gallery in the spring of 1975.

The first anniversary was celebrated

March 24, 1976, with a birthday sale. At that time, Joyce Foust, who chaired the gallery project, announced that 26 selected pieces would be offered at bargain prices.

The gallery collection has grown and more and more residents have taken advantage of the rental policy for both their homes and their offices.

Sale prices will be in effect only on March 28

Before everyone forgets all the good done by the unifying ball, let me explain. They didn't intend to have their party on the same day. What happened was this. They planned an innocent St. Patrick's Day celebration but the band they wanted couldn't make it March 17. So they had it a week early. They had their hearts set on having Cyntax play for the party and by the time they realized the date conflicted with the Sesquicentennial Ball, it was too late. For those of you who were at the Canton New-comers St. Patrick's day party, no hard feelings. You didn't do anything to sabotage our big party and we hope you can make the next event. But remember, if you do this again at the Bicentennial Ball, we may become suspicious.

I always thought that was unfair. By the time you were familiar enough with the area to learn about the club, you had been here too long to join.

Well you can join now and you might make it in time to catch the progressive dinner, their next scheduled event. They plan to have the same band and then it's back to dance, dance, dance. Call Lana for information, 981-2271.

tionally known planist often referred to KOCHANSKI received his training as the "people's pianist", will play music by Liszt, Chopin and others at Churchill High Auditorium on Friday, March 30, at 7:30 p.m. The Churchill Auditorium is on Newburgh Road, south of Ann Arbor Road, in Livonia. Ticket prices range from $3 to $7 for the non-profit performance sponsored by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Kochanski, a Mormon, travels everywhere with a nine-foot grand piano; and when he plays, adults as well as children gather around him. When he gave his first concert at the age of 12, he noticed that there were few in the audience other than socially prominent adults. Since then, his goal has been to share his musical love with anyone who will listen.

Concert tickets are on sale at Useful Uniques Shop, 557 N. Mill Street, Plymouth, 459-6767; Evola Music Store, 2184 Telegraph, Bloomfield Hills, or through at the Juilliard School of Music in New York City and has performed in large cities and small towns throughout the world. He talks with the audience and shares with them some of his musical knowledge.

Kochanski encourages families to attend his concerts, including children 6 and older. Sometimes he invites the children to join him on stage while he performs music selected especially for

Some children, who have never seen a concert grand piano, often get up on tiptoe to peer inside. Fascinated, they love to watch little hammers hitting the strings as Kochanski's fingers sweep across the keyboard. Their questions delight Kochanski.

He often spends his entire intermission visiting with children. When one youngster asked: "What is your favorite rock group?" Kochanski pondered a Poland.

moment and replied: "Mount Rushmore.

KOCHANSKI'S desire to share with others is not confined to the concert hall. He is founder of the "Adopt a Polish Family" program, which enables American families to share their good fortune with needy families in Poland.

To date, 18,000 American families have adopted families in Poland. According to Kochanski, 25 percent of the Polish population has perished at the hands of tyrannical governments. Many helped by his program are survivors of Nazi concentration camps.

For his humanitarian efforts, the Polish representatives in London, England, awarded Kochanski their highest civilian honor - a Knighthood in the Order of Polonia Resrituta.

In 1982, Pope John Paul II invited Kochanski to Rome for a performance and personal visit. He has also performed for Archbishop Jozef Glemp in

Is justice simply locking them up?

Vincent Chin's funeral has long since come and gone but the scars remain. Even though many who were enraged over his violent death have forgoten his name, the case is not closed. The leniency of the sentence received by his attackers has enraged many more. But even some of those have lost interest. To refresh our memory, Chin, who was of Asian descent, was violently murdered in Highland Park. His attackers were given probation, a sen-tence which provoked disbelief and an-

Although the entire event has slid off the front pages, the questions surrounding the matter cannot be allowed to go away. Many are asking for justice and their request cannot be denied.

THE REAL question, however,is: In what does that justice consist? For some, it is simply a matter of resentencing — "throw the book at them."
While such a solution may seem simple, it may do little more than to serve engeance and ignore justice.

Real justice far more than an eye for an eye. It is the process of making vors have fallen victim? To suggest an alternative is not to condone the violence. Neither is it to coddle those who kill. Rather, it is to seek a way to make things right, not tire community that continues to live in fear of they very violence it produc-

When our own systems can provide scapegoats for their own mistakes, there will always be those who will pick up the hammer, or the gun, or the bat, or whatever other means they choose, to take out their anger.

Perhaps far more important than time in prison to read books and make license plates is a program for education in the realities of labor and racism. There are not very many programs available in our prsons which will put less dangerous persons back on our streets. Why not an enforced educa-

WAYS TO HELP the violently inclined to deal with their drug problems (alcohol and otherwise) may be more conducive to making things right than pre-parole time in a cell. Help in dealing with anger may also provide greater security for the community than systems destined to increase it.

And what about Chin's survivors? Admitting that no proposal can take away their grief or bring back their loved one, what might help them to live less painfully? More does not return the dead. However, it would seem that if the killers were made to work for the benefit of the victimized there might be some sense of evening the scales and 1983 taxes is to offset taxes dollar-fordollar by obtaining tax credits. Here are some pointers.

Look for tax credits

CHILD CARE. Working couples and single parents who must pay for child care so they can hold a job can get help from the IRS. Depending on your income, you can get a credit of 20-30 percent of the care cost, limited to expenses of $2,400 for one child under age 15 and $4,800 for two or more. The credit also covers care for a disabled spouse or a dependant of any age if disabled. The care does not have to be in your home, and you can hire a family member as long as he or she is not a dependant or one of your children younger than 19. You should note that the credit cannot be based on expenses larger than your compensation.

SOCIAL SECURITY. If you worked for more than one employer in 1983, too much Social Securty tax may have been withheld from your pay. Claim a credit for any excess over $2,391.90.

ENERGY. Even though you previously accumulated the maximum $300 credit for adding insulation, storm windows and other energy-saving items to your home, you can start fresh if you moved into another house last year. The credit is 15 percent of the first $2,000 in outlays on a principal residence built before April 20, 1977. Another credit is for 40 percent of the first $10,000 spent on solar and other renewable energy equipment, regardless of when the home was built. Even if you do not claim deductions or credits, you can still save tax.

finances and you Sid Mittra

MOVING. You may be able to cut taxable income by subtracting moving costs if you changed jobs. Included can be up to $1,500 for house-hunting and temporary living expenses.

IRAs. Until April 15 you can make a deposit to an IRA for 1983 and get a tax break for that year. If your spouse was not employed, you can put a total of up to $2,250 into IRAs for both of you. If both spouses work, each can put in up to $2,000.

INCOME AVERAGING. If your 1983 income jumped sharply over the average for the previous four years, you may save by using a procedure that lets you treat part of 1983's income as if it were earned over five years. This reduces the burden of being in a higher tax bracket. A single person whose taxable income rose steadily from $12,000 to $38,000 over five years could save $534 by averaging.

CHARITABLE GIFTS. People who do not itemize can still get a small deduction for donations. For 1983, it is up to 25 percent of the first $100, but because of the way most tax is levied in steps, that may not cut your tax bill.

BUSINESS TRAVEL. If you traveled on your job and were not reimbursed, you can write off the cost. Also covered may be travel to look for a new post. If you used your car, you can typically deduct 20.5 cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles a year and 11 cents a mile after that. Or claim actual costs, including insurance, depreciation and upkeep. In addition, you can claim an investment credit if you bought a me and suggested I sell my Texaco. I had owned it for several years and had paid $30 a share for it.

It had gone up as high as $54 and then was way back down to $30 when my broker called.

I was getting a good dividend, about 10 percent on my investment, but the broker befleved the company was going nowhere and said he thought I would be better off in something else.

I sold the stock at less than I paid for it, and now in a few months, it is selling for almost twice what I sold it for. I feel like I have made a terrible mistake.

How could I have foreseen what has happened and protected myself from such a mistake?

I wouldn't blame yourself or your broker too much in this particular situation. The recent speculative activity in Texaco is a result of the company's recent purchase of Getty Oil.

For several years, Texaco has been criticized for not doing more to replace the oil reserves it has been us-

I think it was logical to expect that the company would do something to will be good.

would be a dramatic move like the $10 billion purchase of Getty Oil or a more prosaic move to greater drilling and exploration, no outsider would have any way of knowing.

WHEN YOU SOLD Texaco, there had been a long period when Texaco had not seemed to keep pace with the rest of the oil industry. It had made some management changes and acknowledged its problems, but it was difficult for the outsider to see much hope for the kind of development that has taken place.

This gets us back to the fact that one of the most effective things the investor can do is increase his opportunity on the upside is to spread his money over a number of holdings.

It is important to select every stock that you own, where your goal is a price increase, on the basis of its having had a record of increasing sales and earnings per share at an above average rate for several years.

There is no guarantee each will continue to grow and its price go up, but where you have spread your money over four or five stocks, there is a better chance that one will do quite well, and your average performance

Oh Rio! What more could a vacationer ask?

Travel bargain of the century

'Oh Rio! We're flying down to Rio! Rio de Janeiro ta de dum de de

The words have dimmed but the mystique lingers on. Curled into my seat on Pan Am's finest, waiting for dawn and that legendary harbor to come into view, I thought of the old Astaire-Rogers movie song and wondered if I should have taken samba lessons.

Today it is more than the essence of an exciting journey, Brazil is the travel bargain of the century. Since devaluation of the cruzeiro, rooms at luxury hotels go for as little as $65 for two with breakfast, dinner in chic restaurants for $10, a leather purse for $8. U.S. tour brokers offer special tour rates. Brazil offers an "Airpass" plan to cut inter-city costs.

Planes from North America arrive from the wrong direction for airborne glimpses of Rio's famous harbor, but it is a fleeting disappointment. On the winding drive from the airport, every vista is a stunner, even with metropolitan clutter pushing toward you. Such matters are over-powered by views of forest-draped rock or by the emerald inlets of the Atlantic Ocean.

With 5-million inhabitants, Rio tumbles out from between these strange hills with a lava flow of city that erupted ten miles inland and spread for fifteen miles along the coast.

Exploring the city begins with a two-stage cable-car ride to the top of Sugar Loaf Mountain, named for its resemblance to the cone-shaped molds used to form "loaves" of sugar from boiled

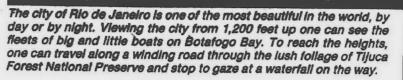

Sugar Loaf's "foothill" rises to nearly 700 feet above the harbor, and you don't see how the view can get much better. Walks with comforting walls lead to picnic areas, a children's theater and restaurant. Rio's symphony has played up here; wedding receptions are big business.

It gets very quiet on top of Sugar Loaf, the way it does at the edge of the Grand Canyon. About 1,200 feet above the water, with Botafogo Bay, fleets of big and little boats, beaches and Sao Sabastiao do Río de Janeiro — Rio's full name — spread out below. Cameras click, talking stops, until someone, runs out of film. (Sold here at pinnacle)

I gazed until the sun dropped behind distant mountains and the city lights eased on. It would be easier to define; love than to describe the grand panorama. Buy postcards, they are the last resort for the speechless. Rio was established in 1567 on nearby Castelo Hill as a walled fortresstown to guard the harbor. You can take a trolley car to the oldest sections. of the city, called San Teresa. The colonial buildings and cobblestone walks have an aura of their own.

THE HIGHEST ride around is the trip to Corcovado, site of the enormous statue of Christ the Redeemer. Guides love to tell you how this 100-foot colossus weighs over 1,000 tons, that the distance between outstretched fingertips is more than 80 feet and that each hand weighs about 57 tons.

Revealed, then obscured, by passing clouds, the patient image on the 3,000foot mountaintop stands surrounded by powerful spotlights for night-time illumination. It is a beacon with a different message for every viewer.

Corcavado can be climbed by cog train, on hiking trails, or by a winding road through Tijuca Forest National Preserve. You can't go to Brazil with-out visiting the jungle, even one that has a restaurant next to a thunderous waterfall. Towering trees shrouded in mist and vines and the smell of deep foliage are both serene and forbidding. Impatiens, a garden favorite at home, provides the color contrast. This is its native turf.

Twenty minutes and some splendid vistas later you can be downtown, ready to go to one of Rio's 21 museums, including the Carmen Miranda collection, or to the Botanical Gardens. The Quinta da Boa Vista Museum was once the official residence of Brazil's Imperial family. It is now the site of an art gallery and Rio's zoo.

Sun lovers postpone everything in favor of a spot on the beach.

To those who live in pursuit of better beaches and frothier surf, Rio is the promised sand. Twenty long, wide and golden playgrounds line the coast, their soft acres alive with bathers, ball games and squinting gawkers. It's a tropic sun down there.

SIDEWALKS OF vivid black-and-white stone separate the beach from the boulevard with its miles of shops, hotels and bars. Mid-day action stops for a "chopinho". . . small draft beer favored by the Cariocas, i.e. Rio resi-Spain and "Kiss") presides over Impanema, where "the girl from" is from.

That's a short sampling from a long list of classy digs now within budget range of middle American dreamers. Famed jeweler H. Sterns, whose shops grace the best lobbies, has a workshop just a short stroll from the Caesar Park. Since gems are a prime Brazilian resource, I went to watch rough stones cut, buffed and mounted. I was then ushered to a quiet corner of the elegant, well-guarded salesroom, seated, and asked what I would like to try on. The suave, regal approach has made Sterns a top seller . . . although they drew a blank with me. For the serious shopper, however, high fashion baubles go for half of home prices.

My coins went to humbler purses. Rio's swarming outdoor markets, held every weekend throughout the city, are stacked with hats, hammocks, framed butterflies and baskets. Best buys seem to be leather goods, lace, ceramics and verse types of royalty as the King of indigenous art.

Price of jall keeps rising

By Tim Richard staff writer

A Wayne County commissioner publicly is warning that the new county jail will have cost overruns "in the millions of dollars."

"This is the beginning, not the end," said Commissioner John Hertel, D-Harper Woods, as the county commission sent to committee County Executive William Lucas' request for approval of a $222,000 contract change

Instead of approving it, however, the commission last week referred the request to the public safety committee headed by Mary Dumas, R-Livonia but not before blistering Lucas and the now defunct Board of Auditors for cost overruns.

"YOU'RE GOING to be asked to make changes and additions because 1) the jail was not planned properly and 2) changes weren't made on a timely basis," said Hertel, who returned to the commission in 1983 after two terms in the state Senate.

"It was planned as a trusty jail. But it's going to hold the most dangerous prisoners," he said. The Andrew C. Baird Detention Center, as the new jail will be known, was built from proceeds of a one-mill property tax approved by voters in 1976. Its opening date has been delayed repeatedly.

It was the second time in two meetings that Hertel, a strong supporter of the county executive system, had delivered blistering criticisms of the administration. Lucas was sheriff during the years the new jail was being planned and built.

DUMAS CHARGED the former Board of Auditors, which was replaced in 1983 by the county executive, failed to notify the county commission of cost overruns and change orders.

Barton Malow Construction Co. is general contractor. Changes in the $222,000 contract call for unspecified kitchen work, an enlarged generator pad, new fixtures in several rooms, a changed feeder for X-ray equipment, a concrete floor-sealer, resilient tile and floor markings for the 13th floor closed exercise room, concealing of exposed sprin-klers on the third oor, and removal and replacement of asphalt around the jail building.

The work reportedly was completed Jan. 31, and the county commission is being asked to approve payment. Hertel said he would vote against paying Auditor General Lester Robinson told commissioners the jail millage was exhausted, indicating the payment would have to come from the general fund operating budget.

LUCAS WAS criticized again over his veto of a commission ordinance defining time limits on approval of his appointments. Commissioner Milton Mack, D-Wayne, usually one of the executive's strong supporters, said Lucas' message was invalid because it wasn't sent within 10 days of the ordinance's passage. "He sent it over on the 11th day," said Mack, an attorney. The commission requested a corporation counsel's opinion on the validity of the Lucas veto mes-

Michigan National reports a net loss

Michigan National Corp., bank holding company headquartered in Bloomfield Hills, says it will report a net loss of about $3 million to $6 million compared to an earlier statement that its net income would be $15.9 million.

The bank company cited recent regulatory agency examinations conducted as of Dec. 31, 1983, of all its bank and non-bank subsidiaries. But the company predicts healthy earnings during MNC will report a net loss for 1983 instead of the unaudited net income of $15.9 million reported on Jan. 27.

The 1983 net loss includes $7.7 million that Michigan National Bank, a subsidiary, added to its reserve for possible energy-loan losses in February in response to the preliminary conclusions of regulatory examinations.

Abnormal charges to earnings in 1982 and 1983 have occurred due to loan losses in the Michigan National Bank energy-loan portfolio, according to Stanford C. Stoddard, Michigan National Corp. president.

These loans now approximate $75 million or 1.5 percent of the $5-billion consolidated-loan portfolio. Approxi-mately 50 percent of the energy portfolio is accruing interest, and management believes these loans will perform satisfactorily, he said.

Stoddard said the bank's management is "confident that this revision reflects the company's loan-loss exposure as of year-end 1983.

"Deloitte, Haskins & Sells, the company's independent public accountants, are satisfied with the adequacy of the company's loan-loss provisions. Management anticipates that future loan losses will approximate normal histori-

Finding jobs for wives is only 1 problem in attracting industry

One of the questions executives ask before agreeing to a corporate transfer is, "Where will my wife work?"

Charlotte Doud, who is vice president for economic development of the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce, makes it her business to be able to answer that question.

Finding professional jobs for spouses is one of the metropolitan area's longrange problems in its attempts to lure industry. Doud said. She is the chamber's liaison to the Business Attraction and Expansion Council of southeast Michigan.

BAEC is a partnership of the chamber, Detroit Edison Co., Southeast Michigan Council of Governments and the state Commerce Department.

The problem of finding jobs for a spouse, usually the wife, is not to be underestimated, Doud advises. "Our region is very, very low in women managers and executives," she said.

According to a BAEC report on the region, other long-range problems in luring industry are these:

• Lack of entrepreneurship - Jobs have evolved from the giant auto industry with its giant plants. While this creates a pool of skilled labor, it leaves the region short of people who can start companies. Doud said

• Medical center - How can the region build on its medical center resource to attract the kinds of non-local patients that patronize the Sloan-Kettering Institute in New York or Johns Hopkins in Baltimore?

• Brain drain - Michigan's colleges and universities educate bright young people who must move to other states to get jobs.

• Basic services - Lack of mass transit; problems in some public

SOUTHEAST MICHIGAN, in the chamber's thinking, must look to 1) expansion of existing small industry and 2) lure new industry to make up for the long-range loss of jobs in the heavily

One of the problems in attracting industry is the 'brain drain' - Michigan's colleges and universities educate bright young people who must move to other states to automated auto industry.

"Plants that employ 3,000 to 6,000 are probably a thing of the past," Doud

BAEC is a 21/2-year-old effort of the four partners. In that time, it has identified robotics, automobiles, food processing and filmmaking as top prospects for short-term business expan-

Now it is looking at the 20-year road and long-term issues

WHAT HAS BAEC accomplished?

"The data base has been established," Doud replied. "We have 26 million square feet of commercial and industrial space and 19,000 acres of green field sites." The list of regional assets includes 628 office buildings and 150 industrial parks.

Without taking specific credit for any development, BAEC lists these clients as expanding business in the region: Memory Computer Ltd. of Dublin (100 jobs now, 300 later), Air Florida (expanded service), Buy Rite (150 jobs), Coca-Cola (300 retained jobs), GM Fanuc (250 jobs), Midwest Telecommunication (125 jobs) and so on.

It adds up to $630 million in new investment in the seven-county region and 8,400 jobs - 3,900 retained and 4,500 new ones, two-thirds in service

DIPLOMACY is a key ingredient in Doud's job.

"We have an overabundance of economic development oorganizations," she said, "and for some people it becomes a 'turf' issue.'

But she's quick to assure that the Greater Detroit Chamber has no interest in trodding on someone else's turf.

It's not always easy. "Oakland County sees us as trying to steer everybody to Detroit. Detroit sees us as trying to steer everyone to Oakland County. Can't they see us as the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce?"

POLITICAL DIPLOMACY is part of Doud' background, which includes a degree in urban policy development from Michigan State University in 1978.

Prior to joining the chamber two years ago, she was a special assistant in the Office of Intergovernmental Relations in the state Department of Management and Budget in Lansing. While there, she worked on such projects as the Chrysler loan package and the General Motors Detroit-Hamtramck plant.

JACK STEINER, chamber research director, reported that 19 new foreignbased firms employing nearly 1,300 were added to the 1983 Guide to International Investment in Greater Detroit.

"This brings the total list to 16 natiens, more than 175 companies and nearly 20,000 jobs represented by foreign companies operating in metro Detroit," Steiner wrote in the chamber's magazine last fall.

These range from the German-owned Budd Co., with 5,000 jobs in Troy, to the Belgian-owned Wheeling Trueing Tool Co. with one person in a Future foreseen in a soccer ball

VERY FEW MINUTES the television would demand attention. Crowds erupted into frenzied screams on the screen as a man in a striped shirt and short pants would, in one smooth sweep of his foot, effortlessly bury the ball into the far corner of the net 30 yards away.

The sudden crowd outbursts on television interrupted often, but Nick O'Shea greeted each one with the familiarity of an old acquaintance.

"Some of these highlights are just great," said the former Oakland University soccer star of the rented videotape. "Some of the saves . . . But these guys make mistakes, too.

"Look at that," he said, pointing at the TV as a shot dribbled through the goalie's arms. "A first-division goalie, and he lets a shot like that go through. The only difference between these players and Division II or III players is that they make the spectacular play more often."

NICK O'SHEA is a soccer player, first and last. He has been since he started playing at Schoolcraft College five years ago. He was a star midfielder at OU, helping the team reach the NCAA Division II semifinals before losing to Seattle-Pacific 1-0 last November.

"I wouldn't have minded if we'd lost at fullstrength," O'Shea said. The Pioneers were without one starter and their top scorer was ill. That gave Pacific the victory and led to a Division II crown.

It was a tough loss for O'Shea, a senior. His collegiate playing days were over. But his soccer days were not.

BECAUSE FOR O'SHEA, soccer has transcended goals established by college athletes in other sports. Get a college degree, maybe try coaching on the side after graduation — that's not all there is for O'Shea. There are other alternatives.

Since that start in soccer (at a friend's suggestion) at Schoolcraft five years ago, O'Shea's career has taken him from the steamy pitches of summer leagues to the plasticized turf of winter indoor games; from the practice field at OU to the playing fields in Ireland; from not-good-enough in England to standout in the United States.

And now he's stretching that soccer career another step.

ON A DAY more revered by the Irish than Christmas is by children, the Irish-descended O'Shea invited the most prestigious Irishman he could find to his grand opening.

On Saturday - St. Patrick's Day - O'Shea had Livonia mayor Ed McNamara attend the grand opening of his newest enterprise: the Soccer Store and More.

It's a small shop, not far from Livonia City Hall. And like O'Shea himself, its central focus is soccer. "I got the idea when I was in Ireland," he explained, referring to a seven-month stay in the British Isles that allowed him to hone his soccer skills. "I went in and talked to the O'Neill distributor to see if he would be interested in supplying me. He said it would be no problem." O'Shea wanted to open the store when he got back, but "I found out I had two years of elgibility left, so I went to Oakland." When last season ended he decided to put his store idea into motion. O'Shea hasn't graduated yet, but plans on returning to get his degree. When he'll find the time is purely speculative. He's got more than enough to keep him busy.

FOR OPENERS, he may get a shot at professional soccer in Oklahoma. He's waiting for a tryout date.

He stays in shape by playing an average of three games a week for various teams. He's a member of the Ukranians, a team dominated by OU players that has won two straight outdoor and three consecutive indoor titles in the Michigan Soccer

Should the Ukranians win the state outdoor title, O'Shea will go on the road with them in their pursuit of a national championship. When he's not playing, he officiates games.

"And I'm still gaining weight," he said, his ever-present grin flashing. Not to be forgotten are the various camps and clinics O'Shea runs. "I like working with the kids," he said. Besides those in Farmington, Livonia and at Schoolcraft, he has his own eight-session camp, with 30 youths per session. And then there's the store, which his father helped finance and his brothers, Brian and Dan, both Schoolcraft soccer players, help run.

THE TELEVISION SCREEN switched to replays of the last World Cup. Brian and Dan were there, and all three O'Shea brothers peered at the screen, taking turns identifying the Reggie Jacksons and

Dr. Js of the soccer world. It seemed never-ending, that stream of soccer replays. Just as Nick O'Shea's future seems hopelessly intertwined with a sport worshipped in countries, but not ours. If there is a pat to success through soccer, he'll find it — somewhere.

Linda Beale, in her final gymnastics performance, placed higher in state competi-

Beale shines in final show

staff writer

Linda Beale's performance last Friday and Saturday at the state Class A gymnastics meet was her last.

And the talented Plymouth Canton senior, who has said she will not compete in gymnastics beyond high school, bowed out most gracefully.

Beale placed higher in state competition than any gymnast in the school district's history. She won a sixth-place medal in the balance beam, scoring 16.95 in two performances. She scored 8.4 on Friday and 8.55 Saturday.

Beale also placed 11th in the allaround scoring with a 33.9. That is also the highest place ever awarded to a Plymouth-Canton district gymnast. She scored 8.68 on vault (18th place), 8.35 on uneven parallel bars (19th place) and 8.55 on floor exercise (23rd place).

Complete results of the state meet

"LINDA SCORED the best she could have," said Canton coach John Cunningham. "She had an exceptional day. On beam, her second-day performance was almost flawless. To find a mistake you would really have to work. She made a grand exit.'

Cunningham said Beale plans to attend Notre Dame next fall. The university does not sponsor a gymnastics

"She has expressed the feeling that she has had enough of gymnastics," Cunningham said. "I can't control it beyond this point. The only disappointment to me is to see that much talent leave the sport. She was the most consistent performer I've ever had. And her's was not a consistency of mediocrity. Her's was a consistency of Excellence indeed. Beale holds or shares every gymnastic record at Canton. That's quite an accomplishment considering the wealth of talent Cunningham has produced at the school.

"I just think that if I stayed in gymnastics, I wouldn't improve much over what I can do now," Beale said.

BEALE, A 3.9 student, said she has

When asked about her final performance, Beale said, "I didn't expect to fibish that high. But then, I always onderestimate my potential. That's what people tell me, anyway. Really, I did not expect to finish that high."

Another Cunningham-produced Calent competed at the state meet Saturday. Pam Modson, Farmington Hills Our Lady of Mercy's one-woman team, scored an 8.35 on vault (29th place) and 8.28 on floor (33rd place).

"Pam had a fall on floor, otherwise she would have placed ninth. She fell and finished 33rd. That's how little separated these performers," Cunningham team's late fade and abrupt ouster

When you think of Canton baseball teams, you think in terms of power hitters, right? You should. Canton teams generally average no less than 30 home runs per season.

"We don't have the luxury of all those home run hitters this year," Crissey said. "This crew can hit well. They make good contact. But, they don't really hit for a lot of power. We are going to have to work with the short hits and running game. We'll have to punch and judy the other teams to death this

IT'S ALSO strange, Crissey said, that his team will have nine seniors on the

"We've never had this many seniors. Conceivably, we could start nine seniors," he said.

There's something else this team offers that few other Canton teams have been able to. The returning pitching staff won 11 ballgames for the Chiefs last year. Crissey said the last time he can remember having that much pitching talent returning was in 1978 when Scott Dawson led the mound corps.

Senior Mark Bennett leads the returning pitchers. He is joined with junior Buckey Blake and senior Scott

Among the juniors fighting for some playing time are: Mike Clark, a transfer from Catholic Central who can pitch and play shortstop; Duane Bennett, no relation to Mark, who can play third and catch; and Jeff Rummel who is a swift-footed outfielder.

The key word in the Chiefs' camp has been dedication. And there's good reason for that. Crissey feels that the success his teams have had, may have spoiled some of the players.

"We got off and running real good last year," Crissey said. "We were 6-0 and then all of a sudden some of the kids kind of quit working. And that's just suicide in sports.

"But Patty handled it real well. Whenever I turned around and said, 'Patty, let's go,' she would be out there giving her all."

WEIDMAN ADMITTED THAT "It was hard to accept at times. But it wasn't as if I had started in the past and was on the bench this year. I was always the sixth person on the team."

Though she rarely started, Weidman's senior season was her best as a Chippewa. The 6-foot-1 center saw action in all 30 games, averaging 8.2 points and 4.5 rebounds. Against Miami of Ohio, Weidman registered a careerhigh 22 points.

Other goal scorers for the Royals included Larry DePalma, who also had four assists, Dave Bramble and Scott Korowin.

"It was a real shootout," said Royals coach Lyle Miller. "It was a good game — up-and-down — and our goalie, Craig Mooney, played very well. "I was happy to get the win. Fraser has been a

Rocks show class in loss

S THE LARGE crowd was gathering last Sat-urday night to witness the presumed mas-sacre of the Plymouth Salem basketball team, I sat along press row with a reporter from the Ypsilanti Press.

The Rocks were taking on Detroit Southwestern in the state Class A regional championship at EMU's Bowen Fieldhouse.

"Salem's going to get killed," said he.
"I'm not so sure. A lot depends on how Rick Berberet plays. If he plays like he did Thursday night (against Taylor Truman), you may be right," said I.

This Ypsi guy had seen Salem play twice. He saw them play like zombies against Ypsilanti, and he saw them play like donkeys against Truman. Obviously, he was none too impressed with the Rocks.

HE HADN'T seen them play a flawless game against Southfield. He hadn't seen how they destroyed a good Livonia Stevenson team twice. He had no way of knowing how good this Salem team could play. And, he didn't understand that Fred Thomann-coached basketball teams rarely get blown away in important ballgames.

"Remember against Ypsi," said my Ypsi buddy,
"Salem couldn't handle their speed? Well, Southwestern is twice as fast as Ypsi. Salem will get slaughtered."

"I'm not saying they will win, but I think you are going to see a better game than you think," I said.
"How can you say that? I can't believe Salem is 20-3. That league must be terrible over there. Ann Arbor Pioneer would probably clean up in the Western Lakes, and they were terrible out

"You haven't seen Salem play enough. They are a smart team and, believe it or not, they can score. They were averaging more than 65 points per game prior to the Ypsi game. Plus, they play a tough man-to-man defense. If they come out and play, they will give Southwestern a battle," I said.
"Southwestern will be too quick for them," said

Mr. Ypsi. ·

"Like I said, it all depends on Berberet. He will be the key to breaking Southwestern's press. He's big, he sees the whole court and he's an outstanding passer. The reason they had trouble with Ypsi was because the Salem guards couldn't get the ball to Rick in the middle," I said.

"OK, I'LL tell you what. I'll give you Salem and 20 points," he said. 'You're on."

It was like taking candy from a baby. The Rocks came out with fire in their eyes and played probably their best half of the season. They were down by four at the half, but they had the crowd rocking.

At the start of the second quarter, Salem was down by a basket after Erich Hartnett had hit two jumpers to close out the first quarter. The Rocks forced a turnover, and Jeff Arnold hit LeSean Haygood with a long pass. Haygood made one dribble to the hoop and threw down a defiant jam in the face of Southwestern's Sam Sillman and was fouled. Haygood converted the three-point play, and Salem was in the lead. The old fieldhouse was shaking.

"This isn't the same Salem team I've seen," said the more-humble Ypsi reporter.

On Salem's next possession, Berberet and Hartnett again lit up the crowd. This time, Berberet hit Hartnett with a Magic Johnson-like behind-theback pass. Hartnett took the pass, went baseline and threw in a reverse layup, using the rim to screen Southwestern big man Clarence Jones. It was pretty stuff.

Pitching keys Canton team

"When you've done what we've done, and had the type of success that our program has had, sometimes the kids come into the program expecting to win automatically. They tend to forget how hard we had to work to get to get to where we are."

THE CHIEFS' success is easily documented. In the last 10 years, the team is 200-59. They have won eight league championships. Three-years ago the team was 23-6 and was ousted in the state semifinals. Two years ago they were 25-5 and were ousted in the state finals.

Last year Crissey feels all the success may have spoiled the Chiefs. They finished 17-7 overall and were the Western Lakes and Western Division champs. They were beaten by Northville, a team they beat twice during the season, in the first round of the districts.

"This is a good group of kids. They played Connie Mack ball this summer and came within one game of making it to the Connie Mack World Series. But, you know, this group has yet to win a single game for Canton by themselves," Crissey said.

His point is well taken. If they work hard and don't take things for granted, they can be successful. If not, they could be in trouble.

"The degree of their dedication and commitment will determine the success of this ball club," Crissey said

Chris McCosky

BERBERET WAS terrific in that first half. In a two-minute stretch of the first quarter he drained three-straight long-range jumpers. He was physical inside, he was aggressive on defense — he played as well as Rick Berberet can play.

I was glad for Berberet. He had been taking an awful lot of abuse from the less-than-cla Southwestern crowd. They were calling the 6-foot-6, 220-pound center things like, "Dough-boy" and "Rhino." Berberet heard them. He's the type of kid who is sensitive to those kinds of things. But, the crowd seemed to turn him on. He responded with 12 points, six rebounds and four assists. As if to say, "In your face," to the crowd.

Hartnett also responded, but to a different type of pressure. The pressure on Erich was: Are you a good enough ballhandler and perimeter shooter to play guard beyond high school? He hit five of eight shots from the floor and despite seven turnovers, handled the Southwestern pressure very well.

His play especially impressed college coaches
Glen Donahue from Highland Park Community College and Rocky Watkins from Schoolcraft. Both would like very much to employ Hartnett's services next year.

Scott Jurek also impressed a lot of people at Eastern Michigan Saturday, and not necessarily for his his basketball skills.

"He's just such a great competitor," said EMU football coach Jim Harkema. "We are delighted to have him in our program."

Jurek has signed a letter of intent to attend EMU next fall on a football scholarship.

A STRANGE thing happened in the third quarter. After Salem scored four unanswered points to tie the game, Southwestern reeled off 10 straight points so fast Superman would have been envious.

That spurt told everyone that Salem would not win the game. It told my Ypsl friend that he was going to win the bet.

"You want to double the bet?" he said with a wry

His gloating increased when Southwestern went up by 24 points with 3:13 left to play. But, I didn't give up. And neither did the Rocks. Led by junior Mike White, the Rocks scored the last 13 points of the game. White scored seven points during that span, enabling me to win my bet. The Rocks lost 67-

The Rocks walked out of the gym Saturday with heads held deservedly high. They were Observerland's best basketball team in 1984, and they showed many doubters Saturday that that was no fluke. The team, with its 21-4 record, should be remembered as one of Thomann's best teams.

As for Mike White, when you turn 21 remind me to buy you a beer.

Roop goes the distance

Kick boxer retains crown in title bout

staff writer

Kerry Roop's fourth title defense of the United States PKA Heavyweight full-contact karate championship went nearly as planned, but the Rochester kickboxer was concerned about the number of standing eight counts given to challenger Neil Sin-

Roop, who scored a unanimous nine-round decision over Singleton Saturday during the Toughman competition, had the challenger in trouble throughout the fight, but standing eights allowed Singleton to regroup.

"I didn't want it to go nine rounds, but I didn't want to stop him early, either," said Roop, who improved his record to 27-8 and 6-0 as a heavyweight. "By the fifth round, I knew I couldn't hurt him, so I decided, 'Let's go the distance.'

"I THOUGHT I could have put him away in the ninth round, but the referee gave him two standing eight counts to save him. In my last fight, there were seven standing eight counts. Against Singleton, they gave him three, and they were ready to give him another at the end of the fight — and this is a title fight.

"I think they should step in to see if he's still alive, but not to save him (from a knockout)," Roop added. "I they're taking it too far. I believe I could have knocked him out, but the referee kept stepping in."

Although Roop may have disagreed with the referee, he had little argument with the judges. Roop pitched a shutout on two cards (90-81) and had a clear edge on the

In his previous defenses, Roop has won before the bout reached the fifth round. Going into the Singleton fight, he planned on getting a workout.

"It went real well," said the 33-year-old champion. "Because of my age, I was concerned about how I'd do in the later rounds, but in the last couple of rounds, I came on real strong. My age didn't get to me at all. I needed the work."

ROOP, WHO had not gone nine rounds since 1979, will have a 12round fight Saturday, May 12, when he challenges Brad Hefton for the PKA World Heavyweight title in Rockford, Ill. In preparation for the bout, Roop will take on Chris Doyle in a non-title fight Saturday, April 14, at the Main Act in Roseville. Doyle, a 6-foot-6, 220-pound super heavyweight, is ranked ninth in his

"I need to fight a taller guy to get me ready for the world title fight,"

Kerry Roop worked hard in preparation for his kick boxing title defense. The Rochester boxer went the distance.

There's no place like Cloverlanes for Norma Jean

Norma Jean Kikorski became a firm believer that there is an advantage in bowling on one's home lanes over the past week end, when she took the singles lead in the women's city tournament at Cloverlanes.

Carrying a 136 average she rolled a 596 series and with her "spot" of 153 pins, she posted a 749 that could stand the rest of the way.

The only other change on the Cloverlane alleys came in the team event where the Lady Titans of Wy-Recreation posted a 3227 series that included a 495 pin "spot."

PLAZA LANES - It isn't often that a bowler can lead both top leagues in any given establishment. But that is what Dave Kauppi did at Plaza Lanes last week. He paced the business and industrial loop with a 637 then came back with a 706 series to show the way in the pin-buster circuit.

BEL-AIRE - Three new members were inducted into the 700 club when Larry Franz paced the classic with 747 and was followed by Lynn Lewis with 730 and Ken Marelich with 703.

Mark Leborritz an 11-year-old with a 129 average, rolled a 254 game in the youth, league and picked up eight strikes in a row.

WOODLAND - Kert Fatherree of the Ford Parts league, earned a place with the elite when he had games of 255 and 254 in a 703 series. Meanwhile, Bob Parker missed the 700 club by a single pin when he open with 288 and had to settle for 699.

in the pocket by W.W. Edgar

WESTLAND - Mike Brower wrote his name in capital letters in the Monday-morning league when he had games of 267 and 256 in a 712 series. In the Seniors loop Leo Kezer closed with 245 for 682 to set the pace and in the all-star circuit Steve Stevens was top man with 650 one pin more than Dave MERRI-BOWL - Vince Vacca pulled a real surprise when he rolled a closing game of 300 to post a 746 series. It was high for the week in the house as Tony Przytulski, with a 165 average, could do no better than 696 in the senior delights league. Cindy Smith, with a 150 average, fashioned a 605 in the women's league.

GARDEN LANES - Frank Bolinger won a close duel with Lynn Lewis and Jay Bierkamp in the St. Linus loop when he posted a 617 to beat his two rivals who deadlocked at 614 for sec-

SUPER BOWL - Ron Taylor opened with a 289 but had to be content with a 690 to lead the mixer league. Meanwhile Robin Lemon showed the way in the ladies evening league with a 234 in 647.

aying awake until 5 in the morning to itch the late, late show is a thing of e past now.

After four years of scanning the rwaves — from channels 2 to 62, and cluding out-of-state stations 11, 13, , 42 and 54 when atmospheric condi-ons permit — one develops a pretty n sense of the state of movies on TV the Detroit area, and that's what this niversary column is about.

DETROIT'S TV stations - 2, 4, 7, 9, , 50, 62 and occasionally 56 - run ne 200 hours of movies each week. If u have cable, the number of films on I is infinite — or seems so, at least. But let's stick with commercial TV, re Ch. 50 remains, as its slogan inits, Detroit's TV movie station. Ch. in fact, has gotten better in recent boths, first with its selection of reat and occasionally first-run films ich as "The Howling") at 8 week-this and, second, with its addition by attraction of Sonny Eliot from its 1 als and everything else for the umpteenth runnings of "Ironside," "Marcus Welby, M.D." and "The Rockford Files." That must be what station manager Joe Flynn calls creative program-

Ch. 62 used to be a favorite in these quarters. Among some terrible imports one could usually find a classic Republic Pictures film with John Wayne, Roy Rogers or Gabby Hayes. The only problem is that the same Republic Pictures films keep popping up month after month on Ch. 62, which must have a limited film library.

That leaves channels 4 and 7, whose hearts just aren't in the TV movie game. Both schedule late night films, but Ch. 4's usually deal with beach bums, surfers or custom van freaks, while Ch. 7 relies heavily on old ABC movie-of-the-week retreads.

THE STATE of movies on Detroit TV, then, is sad. Ch. 50 remains far and away the feader, with everyone else a poor second. But even Ch. 50 ignoresia prime TV movie time slot and fills its airwaves instead with Fied Sanford, Benny Hill and the Three Stooges.

Apparently the days of the 11:30 p.m. movie are gone forever.

PAGHETTI" HAS BEEN around there's something else.

a long time - but "pasta," now "Some people have never even heard of pasta," declared Canton resident John Elstro, manager of Sanders serves up both pasta and pizza. To make sure pasta gets to the table hot, Mama & Pasta's has an order taker at the table and a runner, who brings the food.

Chuck Muer's very first Mama & Pasta's restaurant in Wayne. The emphasis at this prototype restaurant, which gets away from Muer's seafood image, is "fresh food and drink, not Italian food."

But many customers were disappointed when they couldn't find the traditional Italian dish of lasagna and the American creation, pizza, on the menu. Daily specials now include nonlayered lasagna, made up fresh for each individual order and served in a saute pan, as well as pizza. "Within two weeks, lasagna was our

No. 1 seller," Elstro said. A sketch on the bottom of the menu, showing different Italian pastas, or noodles, also had some customers expecting to order their choice of any of these for various dishes.

THE LINGUINE, described as "flat spaghetti;" congheglie, "shells;" fettucine, "wide ribbons;" lasagna, "rippled sheets;" fusilli, "curled spaghetti," and manicotti, "muffs," are all pictured. Most are available in specific dishes. All Charley's eateries have "pasta machines" turning out linguini as at Mama & Pasta's. Different molds can fashion the many sizes and shapes of pasta, including wide fettucini and even wider lasagna noodles.

Four choices of sauces are offered on the "Homemade Pasta" section of the luncheon menu. There's white clam sauce, red clam sauce (with tomato), primavera (with vegetables) and meat sauce. The dinner menu adds Provencale (tomato-wine), Mediterranean red sauce (zesty) and diablo (spicy). Customers also may request meatballs or Italian sausage

"White clam linguine is our No. 1 best-seller companywide," said Elstro. The Muer seafood restaurants and family taverns feature some pasta dishes, forerunner of the Mama and Pasta's

White linguini, made with egg noodles, or green linguini, made with spinach noodles, are both offered at Mama

Lunch also features a cold pasta dish, Mama's Pasta Salad, combining chicken, harn, cheeses and vegetables with chilled homemade pasta.

THE DINNER menu has nightly pas ta specials, which offer a wider range of selection for tasty entrees. Each night there's one of these: Antipasto Fettucini (salami, tuna and cheese), Fettucine Carbonara (with bacon and ham), Pasta Pesca (Boston scrod and whole wheat linguini), Chicken and Artichoke Pasta and Linguine Shrimp Casino (including fresh spinach), plus a changing Sunday special.

For anyone who doesn't like - or want — pasta, the menu also has chicken, fish, beef and steaks.

Like any new restaurant concept, Mama & Pasta's is adapting to its customers' tastes and needs. But it looks like another winner for the phenomenally successful entrepreneur Chuck Muer. The second Mama & Pasta's is expected to open the second week of June at the corner of Schoolcraft and Merriman, Livonia.

IN ANOTHER part of the metropolitan area, a restaurant in the Maple House chain is the prototype for a trendy kind of place that includes new pasta dishes among its lighter meals.

Now called Cafe Pastels, the former Maple House at Maple and Coolidge in Troy has an art-deco decor by Aleksis Lahti and a menu offering hot and cold pasta prepared in the style of nouvelle

By Avigdor Zaromp special writer

The quest for a satisfactory variety in musical programs is a formidable challenge.

The concept of the "standard repertoire" is frequently sneered at. Attempts to find acceptable substitutes abound. While such attempts are sometimes welcome, the urge and longing for "home" is always there. In par-

The solo violinist was Elmer Oliveira, who, among other impressive achievements, won the Gold Medal in the 1978 Tchaikovsky competition

While it might be too early to question the wisdom of scheduling the same two compositions for October and December this year as part of the plans for next season, the present performance was a pure joy.

VIRTUOSITY is another term with negative connotation with respect to musical performance. However, there is nothing wrong with virtuosity if it is used in the service of artistic ends.

This was the case in Oliveira's performance on this occasion.

Complete 'War Requiem' to be presented

For the first time in 15 years, Michigan audiences will see a complete performance of Benjamin Britten's "War Requiem" by 300 vocal and orchestral

"My subject is war and the pity of war. The poetry is in the pity," said Bradley Bloom, quoting poet Wilfred Owen, who wrote the text.

Bloom, director of choral activities at Schoolcraft College in Livonia, will conduct three soloists, the Schoolcraft Chorale, the Ann Arbor Cantata Singers, the Kenneth Jewell Chorale, the Boys Choir of Christ Church Grosse Pointe, the Grand Rapids Symphony Orchestra and its Chamber Orchestra, comprised of the first chair players.

"WAR REQUIEM will be heard at 8 p.m. Monday, March 26, in Detroit's Orchestra Hall, 93711 Woodward. Advance tickets are available from the box office at 833-3700. Prices are $7,

The University of Michigan's 1964 erformance was only the second in the U.S., Bloom said. It was followed a few years later by a Robert Shaw performance at Meadow Brook.

Britten composed "War Requiem" in 1962 for the consecration of the rebuilt Coventry Cathedral, which stands next to the ruins of the Gothic structure destroyed by German bombs in World

"THIS IS one of the most significant compositions of the 20th century. In the opinion of many, it is probably Britten's most profound and dramatic work," said Bloom, who has been rehearsing it since January.

"Although it's a modern work, the music is extremely palatable, dramatic and moving. This is due in great part to Britten's ability to infuse the Owen poetry into the traditional Mass for the

Art club thrives in Garden City

staff writer

Dallas McKennon enjoyed being active in artistic clubs. But the Garden City resident felt something was miss-

"I couldn't see a reason why a small community couldn't have a cultural organization like the larger ones do," she said. "Part of the things that you do is help the community. It got to the point that I said, 'Why couldn't these things be done in my community?' "

As a result, McKennon and Joanne Blacker formed the Garden City Fine Arts Association almost two years ago. The group offers a variety of activities and events for those who work with and/or appreciate art.

"We're discovering a lot of people in this area paint," said McKennon, association president. "If they knew there was a place to go to associate with other artists and exchange ideas, maybe see a film on technique . . . Once you become involved and people are aware, they can reach out and touch someone a little."

"We are a serious group. We're not a group of hobbyists," said Blacker, program director for the association.

"A lot of people like the club atmosphere," she said. "They get together with people who are interested in the same things. We try to take in all the

THE ASSOCIATION meets at the Maplewood Community Center, on Maplewood near Merriman between Warren and Ford roads in Garden City, on the first Wednesday of every month except July and August. Members may see demonstrations or hold exhibits or critiques of their work. Films from the Garden City Library may be shown.

Members also take field trips to such places as the Detroit Institute of Arts.

"We try to have everything," Blacker said. "We have people interested in all

"We have different things happening," she added. "During the Halloween season, we got together and judged a pumpkin-painting contest for school-

We will be having a professor coming from Henry Ford Community College who will do a critique and will give information on painting pictures. That's a very important one."

THE "PALETTE Pals" of the group meet from 7:30-9:30 p.m. Mondays to paint together. Sometimes they meet in the Maplewood center. When the weather is nice, they may gather along Hines Drive, Blacker says.

"That's something extra," Blacker said. "Painting can get kind of lonely, and you don't have inspiration when vou paint alone. (Hines Drive) is picturesque. We've painted Newburgh Lake. It's a lot of fun, too.

"That's the frosting on the cake for our club," she added. "It's unique for clubs in our area. We're amateurs who love art and just paint to our hearts'

"Every couple of months we ask people to bring in paintings of their own, maybe all landscapes or all pen-andink works, and we talk about them," McKennon said. "It's fascinating to see. You begin to associate with people more when you see the work that they've done. It makes the bond a little closer. You think, 'We have something in common we can talk about.' It's not just abstract. It's a little more person-

THE ASSOCIATION now has 46 members of all ages. Most of them are from Garden City, but others live in Westland, Redford, Dearborn and other communities.

The membership fee for the association is $10 a year, which includes the price of field trips and the group's newsletter.

A $900 donation from a Bicentennial Art Committee helped start things going in the association. The fine-arts group is enjoying a good reputation, but would like to expand and offer such things as scholarships and senior citizens activities, representatives say.

"I'm really happy to see it's gone as well as it has," McKennon said. "The Friends of the Library have been very supportive right from the beginning. If more people were aware, I think that it

"I'm so proud of this bunch I could bust," she added. "One or two people can't do it all. They've really been an organization that has worked for it-

WHAT IS the group's response to someone who thinks a fine arts association isn't necessary for a community?

"I would be rather disappointed in them," Blacker said. "I think that it helps the community to grow. Artists are always beneficial to the area. They put a glow in the community. I think they can be proud of what we do have."

"Garden City has a drama group, and a writers' group is beginning," McKen-non said. "It doesn't hurt to have these cultural things. We need support from other people as well.

Even artists must paint signs — sometimes

This is another in a series of lessons on art and drawing by special columnist David Messing. He has taught for eight years and operates an art store, Art Store and More,

By David Messing special writer

Solomon in the Bible asked many questions in his search for wisdom and understanding. I too, ask many questions though they seem simple com-pared to Solomon's. For instance: What are those little things in taploca pudding? What do they really put into eggrolls? Do solicitors ever read "no solicitor" signs? How do they put stripes in toothpaste?

I also wonder how the ozone layer is doing now that I stopped using aerosol cans. And where is the bathroom in those little photomat buildings? One of my son's, (when 5 years old) asked, "If orphans don't have parents, then how did they get borned?"

Well, here is an interesting question, whoever said that an artist can paint signs? Let me take this occasion to officially state that 991/2 percent of artists can not, do not, and would not paint a sign, if it were not for our pride or the money. Most people assume that an artist can paint signs more easily than draw. Just by looking at our signatures they should know that this is quite the

PRIDE ALONE forced me into my first few signs. Someone would say Boy you're really a good artist. So I know you would have no problem with a quick sign for my club." With a toothy grin I would say, "Sure, no prob-Then for the next six hours I would hide in my bedroom trying to get the two O's in "moose" to look the

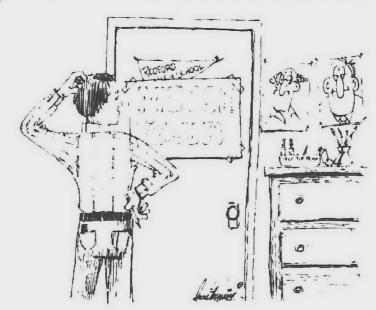

Carefully I would outline my sign in felt tip pens and then begin slowly filling in the letters, praying my felt tip pen would not dry up. Overcome by the felt tip fumes I would stumble out of my room looking much like Casper the Ghost. Then delivering my sign with a confident smile I would say "Oh yeah, I just knocked it out today, no big deal

. for an artist." After struggling for years with signs I found that there is another good motivation other than pride alone. Money. You know that stuff that separates the "starving" from the "artist." Usually signs are commissioned from businesses and the word business has two dollar

Here is a good example. I recently painted a sign on canvas that required little artistic talent. The customer was very happy and thought $350 was a very reasonable fee. I could pour my heart and soul into one of my animal paintings and in order to receive $350 I would have to throw into the deal a year of free car washing. It doesn't seem fair, but that is the way it is. Most paintings hover between agony and ecstasy until the finishing touch is applied and the visual expression is complete. Ventilated and satisfied, we artist look upon the creation and smile, forgetting all about the effort spent to produce it. It is truly a shame that this artistic effort is not appreciated financially as is a sign that is merely as they say, "knocked out."

LET ME quickly say that I am by no means discounting the sign painter. I, more than most artists, appreciate the art of sign painting. Because, I have struggled over "O's" labored with a "B" and practically lost my sanity over an "S," believe me I appreciate the ability of a sign painter. Since most artists are not sign painters (and by the way, most sign painters are not artists) I would like to give you some tips for your inevitable, first sign commission.

The most common sign order would probably be paper signs or "banners." Now there are two types of paper signs. The first type is what is called "meat market" signs. You have all seem these. They are loosely and boldly painted signs that might read "HAM

SPECIAL." Then a price per pound. These signs are painted with a wide hair brush or more recently with the inexpensive foam rubber brushes. The paint used is simply a water base tempra thinned down. If you look closely at meat market signs you will see that the water based paint has caused the banner paper to ripple. This type of sign is inexpensive and is only intended to be used for a week or so.

The next type of paper sign is more commonly seen where stores require a better quality semi-permanent window sign. Here, the sign painter lays out the sign on the paper with a vine charcoal stick. Any mistakes or unwanted guide lines can be easily removed by rubbing them with a chamois. So even us artists can "work up" or should I say "sweat up," a pretty decent layout without anyone knowing how many attempts it took. Now with the charcoal layout accurately completed, all you need to do is paint perfect lines with a floppy brush. Sound hard? That's right I am not even going to try to make it sound easy. On the better paper signs you must use oil base poster paints.

"ONE SHOT" is very good quality paint and with the fluid stroke of some letters all you have is one shot. Oil base paint does not cause the paper to rip-ple, is truly opaque and is less likely to fade in the sunlight. After you have painted your letters, wait about a half hour for the paint to dry then clean the sign of any vine charcoal guidelines with your chamois.

If you are an artist who sometimes does a sign or two, the brush you need is an "ox hair single stroke lettering brush." If you find you are doing more and more signs, then you need a "lettering quille brush." A lettering quille requires time, patience and practice to master. Wait a minute! I have given it time, patience and practice and still I haven't mastered it. Make that "much time, patience and prac-

In lettering I always recommend that you use a brush about one half the size of the stroke of the letter. For example, if the letter "I" is one inch wide then us as brush about a half inch wide. This way you are only concerned with controlling one side of brush as you try to follow your guidelines. Then go to the other side of the letter and there again carefully try to follow your guideline. Only as you become more accomplished at sign painting can you do what is called single stroke lettering. Which is one stroke with the proper

Well, I think we will have to pick up next week where we are leaving off this week. So stay tuned for more tips on sign painting from an artist who hates painting signs.
