Bars make '1 for the road' a cab ride

By Marie Chestney staff writer

Fifth in a series of articles on problems caused by drunk drivers.

Bar owners are in business to push drinks and make money and don't much care about customers who might stagger out of their place at midnight.

If you believe that, you haven't talked to a bar owner lately.

For starters, there's the problem of legal liability. Dogging every owner of a Class C liquor license is the threat of a civil lawsuit which might be filed if a customer should have an accident following a drinking bout at his establishment. If the drinker kills or injures someone while driving home, the last bar to serve that drinker can be sued.

"Civil lawsuits put restraints on bars and restaurants," said Plymouth police officer Bob Henry, who coordinates a police task force against drunk drivers in Plymouth, Northville, and Plymouth, Canton and Northville townships. 'They are most careful because of that. They are careful in asking for I.D. In fact, we have more problems with party stores than we do with bars."

BUT BAR owners talk of a deeper responsibility to customers, a responsibility which goes way beyond the threat of a lawsuit.

Tom Booth, general manager of the Steak and Ale Restaurant at I-275 and Ann Arbor Road, called it a "moral responsibility to get guests safely home."

drinking driver

"It's a really big responsibility—to serve liquor," he said. "You can put someone in a state where they can kill someone. Taking care of our customers is a big priority to us."

Added Chip Falcsan, owner of the Box Bar at 777 West Ann Arbor Trail: "I would like to see more public awareness of the drunken driving problem, but sometimes it takes a real tragedy to wake people up. Class C places take some of the heat, and rightly so. They need policing. If you don't police us, a lot will be served who shouldn't because we want to get the money.'

of three local establishments - the Steak and Ale, the Box Bar, and Sheehan's on the Green, 39500 Five Mile - how they spotted and dealt with a customer who has consumed too much. Here are their answers.

STEAK AND ALE

A sign on a wall inside the Steak and Ale reads: "Friends don't let their drunk friends drive." Printed underneath the sign is the phone number of a Plymouth cab company.

Also scattered on walls inside the restaurant are signs reminding employees of a promise they signed the day they were hired: "We ask that you maintain a high level of awareness about customers who may be drinking excessively, bringing all potential problems to management's attention immediately.

Underneath is printed management's promise in return: "We commit to personally handling any and all liquor-related problems with our guests.'

"If someone drinks four drinks in one hour, management wants to know," said Booth, a Canton resident. "We might not necessarily do anything, especially if the person doesn't show visible signs of intoxication. But we want to know so we can watch him."

At the Steak and Ale, the waitresses and bartenders are required by a signed statement put in their personnel file to tell a manager about a potential problem drinker. But at what point does a potential problem turn into a legitimate problem?

ALL THREE managers interviewed agreed that's a tough question to answer because there's a different answer for each individual.

The answer depends on how much a person weighs, how much he has eaten while drinking, how far apart the drinks were spaced. An answer can start emerging when a drinker walks, talks or acts.

'If someone has had up to eight-nine drinks, we tell them, 'that's enough,' "Booth said. "If someone orders 10 shooters - his aim is to get drunk and we don't want him here.

"For their own protection," some three-four customers are cut off from liquor at the restaurant every night,

New York Stock Exchange

Before filling out a 'Stock Market Game, computer card, team captain Bill Pry looks over the previous day's stock market listings in the newspaper. It's a task done each week while Lowell Middle School sixth graders compete in the state-wide game.

Stock market whizzes on rise

By Marie Chestney staff writer

Ken Wood and his teammates know well the dizzy highs and crashing lows which can go with playing the stock

Two weeks ago by buying a lot of different stocks which happened to be on the rise, Wood's team was not only No. 1 in the "Stock Market Game" at Lowell Middle School, but it was between fourth and fifth place among the 147 schools now playing the game statewide.

The game, which is a real-life simulation of how the stock market works, is sanctioned by the Securities Industry Association and the New York Stock Exchange. In Michigan, game players are plugged into computers at Eastern Michigan University.

Just a couple of weeks into the game, Wood's team had parlayed the $100,000 make-believe cash it had on hand into an investment worth close to $140,000. With plotting and cunning, and a keen eye on the daily newspaper stock ratings, the team was far above Lowell's second-place team which still hadn't gone much beyond the initial $100,000 given to them to start with.

AND THEN came the crash. Let's let teammate Leonard Bowe, a Lowell sixth grader in Louise Douglas' business education class at Lowell, tell what happened. "We bought a lot of different kinds of stocks which were rising," Leonard said, jumping to his team's defense when it was noted Wood's team was dead last among the eight teams participating in the Lowell game. All team members are students in Douglas' two business classes

'We made between $30,000 and $40,000 dollars and we were between fourth and fifth place in the whole state. We were happy, thinking we had great stock. "And then we found out Ken Wood wrote down the wrong number on the computer card sent to EMU and the stock was given to another school. We went down the drain because of a wrong number."

And then Leonard added words which helped explain the meaning behind the game.

"Common sense tells you not to mess with money. Money is man's best

THE LAST-PLACE team's first plunge into the world of high finance turned out to be a disaster.

But the disaster was not for real, and it was all part of the underlying reason for the game - to show students how the laws of economics and the stock and financial markets work. The student teams at Lowell are now halfway through the game. Cash prizes will be awarded to the top three teams statewide who finish the present game.

Invented in Canada and played in universities and schools across the U.S., the Stock Market Game starts off with $100,000 given to each team. Team members read the daily closing price of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange and, guided by those prices. decide whether to buy, sell or stand

The goal of the game is to make as much money as possible beyond the initial $100,000. The game emphasizes short-term buying and selling, but players also can borrow cash and can even take the far riskier course of selling his grandmother told him to buy Gulf Oil. Shannon Gregory said she got a great tip from her mother, but couldn't use it because the stock was preferred and not common.

And, of course, the students get great tips just from reading the daily newspaper. They now are adept at deciphering the line of small figures which show iide each stock listed in the paper. Instead of unintelligible numbers, those figures now tell them what's happening in the stock market and give them hints on what to do next.

Douglas said she heard about the game when taking a class at EMU.

The stock market is the thermometer of our economy," she said. "Just teaching about it from a book is not that interesting. It doesn't stick with the kids. With this game, they get more involved, more excited and get a feel

Cantonite nominated for road commission

By M.B. Dillon Ward staff writer

If dusty roads in Canton prove to be as hot an issue this summer as they were last, residents may find an especially sympathetic ear on the Wayne County Road Commission - if County Executive William Lucas' latest appointment is approved by the Board of County Commissioners.

Canton resident Dale Smith, 43, was named Friday as the county executive's eighth nominee to fill one of two remaining seats on the Wayne County Road Commission. So far, only the appointment of Detroit's Janice Frazier has been confirmed.

See related story on page 5A. Smith, full-time financial secretary for UAW Local 900 in Wayne, was contacted a week and a half ago by County Commissioner Milt Mack, whose district includes Canton.

"He called me and said they wanted an active Democrat from out this way, and also someone with labor," said Smith, a Mayfield, Ky., native who has lived on Alton in the Holiday Park subdivision since 1967

"I was surprised. I never dreamed of it or anything. I'd been keeping up with what's been going on in the papers, but I hadn't really thought about it (serving the road commission) 'til they called Smith asked "for a couple of days to think about it.

"I decided well yes, I would very much like to get involved. I think maybe we could do something. I'd give it 100 percent."

If confirmed, Smith would earn about $10,000 per year serving the road commission, a body Lucas is seeking to abolish. Under his plan, the commission would be consolidated with county gov-

SMITH DOESN'T mind the fact his post could be abolished.

Whatever is best for Wayne County, we should be looking at that. A lot of things that have gone on haven't worked. If this will stop payless paydays and put Wayne County back in the black, then great," said Smith, an active Canton Democratic Club member.

Smith expects to be interviewed by county commissioners sometime in the next week or two, however "nothing is definite yet," he said. "I don't know (what chances of confirmation will be). I'm hoping 100 percent.

Smith said that since assuming his union post three years ago, he's been responsible for finances related to property and buildings, and for dues and income for Local 900 - comprised of 4,400 Ford Wayne Assembly Plant workers, 800 laid off workers, and 1,000 retirees. He earned 19 years seniority with Ford in air tool repair at Last January, Smith journeyed to Washington as a regional delegate with the UAW National Community Action Program, (CAP). Smith and others met with area congressmen to discuss labor issues, get updates on pending legislation, and drum up support for presidential candidate Walter Mondale. CAP holds the Washington conference annu-

Reward offered in school arson

A reward of up to $2,000 is being offered for information exposing the arsonist who in late March set fire to Farrand Elementary School on Greenbriar in LakePointe subdivision.

The fire, which apparently started when someone put a flame to a highly flammable Plexiglas window, caused an estimated $10,000 to $15,000 in damages to a sixth-grade room in the

The reward is being offered through the Michigan Arson Reward Program and will be given for information leading to the arrest and/or conviction of the arsonist. The program is run through the fire marshal's division of the Michigan State Police.

Anyone with information should call the program collect at 1-517-322-0469; the Plymouth Police Department at 453-8600; or the Plymouth Township Fire Department at 453-2546.

We want to find the person responsible to determine financial responsibility and to have restitution imposed on the person involved," said Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry. "If he's over 12, we also want to get that person into the juvenile court system."

THE BLAZE broke out at 1:10 a.m.

The fire itself was confined to the inside and outside area around the window, and three-to-four feet of ceiling tile near the window. But a lot of interior damaged occured because the window was made of Plexiglas.

"When intense heat is applied to Plexiglas, it reaches a flash point and burns vigorously," said Farrand principal Earl Gibson. "And when plastic burns, it leaves a residue which covers everything. The walls had to be washed, sealed and repainted due to the residue. It covered bulletin boards, chalkboards, books - we couldn't clean them.

Because of the residue, the room also needs new room lights and a new ceil-

Heat from the fire peeled a formica counter top from its wood base, smoke damaged the walls of a nearby bathroom and water destroyed most of the educational materials stored in the

Gibson estimated it would take another two weeks for the room to be repaired. The fire disrupted three school programs which took place in the room, including Ronald Beier's sixthgrade classroom.

Berry said he hoped the arson reward would be as successful as a previous reward offered when Central and Starkweather schools were broken into. The reward led to the arrest of the person responsible for both break-ins, Ber-

The fire did give Beier's students an unexpected bonus. All the youngsters got a passing grade for science reports due on the Friday before the fire. Because of water and fire damage, Beier was unable to tell who had passed in a report and who hadn't.

Why the band is not available

I would like to address this letter to your readers rather than try to reach the co-chairman of the 4th of July Parade put on by the Jaycees.

Every year they have a different parade chairman and every year they are given the explanation of why the PCEP Marching Band cannot participate in their "big" parade, and every year it just doesn't seem to get through.

Consequently, for the information of your readers, the reasons for the nonparticipation of the band are:

• All 175 uniforms have to be turned in at the end of the school year and accounted for, cleaned and repaired for the next season;

· Many students attend music camps over the summer and are unable to come home;

· Many other students have family vacations planned many miles away from here and can't come home for one

• The band director, James Griffith (not "Griffiths" as the letter writer spelled his name) has employment away from the area for the summer,

• The last, and most important reason, is that the reputation of the PCEP Marching Band has taken years of hard work and the effort of many people to build it to where it is today - one of the best in the state of Michigan. A small, scattered number of band members that would show up would undoubtedly be unbalanced instrumentwise and would do a great disservice to the reputation of the band as strangers to our town would assume that small group was the same band they had heard about. That wouldn't be fair to any of the former or present band members

As a former band parent, I resent every year the crybaby tactics of the Plymouth Jaycees trying to imply our band is less than patriotic because they won't drop everything to rush back to Plymouth to march in their parade. I'm sure your readers will be able to comprehend these reasons and understand what a few people seem unable to do!

(Don't most kids come "out of the woodwork" the week before school to get ready for it? That's when band camp is held!)

Group lobbying Pursell on upcoming MX vote

When Congress votes this spring on whether to fund continued MX missile production, U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-

Plymouth, may play a decisive role. Pursell is one of 26 congressmen who appears undecided on the issue, says Gloria Pappas of Plymouth, a member of the Peace Center at the Newman House at Schoolcraft College and active in western Wayne County anti-nuclear power groups. "And with a very close vote expected," she said, "Pursell and a handful of others hold the keys to the most important weapons policy decision of 1984.

Production of the first 21 MXs began this year after a narrow House victory (217-208) for President Regan's MX request last November. Since that vote, MX oppositon has continued to build,

MANY CONGRESSMEN who voted for the MX last year in exchange for administration promises of a U.S.-Soviet arms control agreement are reconsidering their support. Now that negotiations have ceased, said Pappas, an agreement is no more likely today than it was last November

"And with the federal deficit soaring above $180 billion, many members are eyeing the Pentagon weapons requests more critically. In addition, all the Democratic presidential candidates have stated their opposition to the MX.

The May MX vote will be in the form of an amendment to fiscal year '85 Department of Defense authorization bill. The amendment, if approved, would halt MX production by deleting from the authorization the $3.2 billion the President has requested to build 40 more missiles. If the amendment passes, she said, it will be the first time a nuclear weapon already in production has been stopped.

Pursell will face heavy pressure from the White House to vote for the MX, said Pappas, but a large coalition of religious, labor, environmental, and arms control groups will urge him to vote against the MX.

Brian Larkin of the Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy (SANE), one of hte national organizations opposed to the MX, adds: "If the MX is to be stopped, however, it is essential that individual voters in these 26 key districts write and call their representatives and stress the importance of stopping the MX now.

Going door-to-door in the Plymouth area SANE thus far has collected more than 650 signatures on petitions stating opposition to the MX program and some 100 postcards to be sent to Rep.

Snapperettes

Cheerleaders keep school spirit at a peak

Starkweather Principal Carrol Nichols congratulates kindergartners awarded for good citizenship at a school assembly.

OVE OVER, Michael Jackson. Starkweather's Snapperform perettes "Thriller" dance routine that would knock your glove off.

Comprised of 15 fifth and sixth grade students and directed by teacher Karen Huddas, the Snapperettes are the Plymouth-Canton school district's only elementary school cheerleading squad. The group does dance routines and cheers for school assemblies, the Canton Country Festival, Plymouth's student artfest, and marches in the Memorial Day parade.

Monday, Snapperettes entertained at one of Starkweather's citizen award assemblies - held monthly to build morale and honor students with "good citizen" and "improved citizen" awards. "You have to go when the spirit says go! You have to fight when the spirit says fight! You have to win when the spirit says win! Go! Fight! Win!"

That Snapperette cry sounded loud and clear at a Starkweather all-star basketball game Wednesday, in which fifth and sixth grade boys challenged the "all-star" teachers. The Snapperettes are planning to energize fans and players at the school's next athletic event - a softball game.

HUDDAS HAS been a savior of sorts for the Snapperettes.

"There have been cheerleaders at Starkweather for many years. But for a while, they were unsupervised, and the girls did it themselves

"Last year I decided to get involved and sponsored them, mainly because they needed some direction," said Huddas, a resource room teacher at

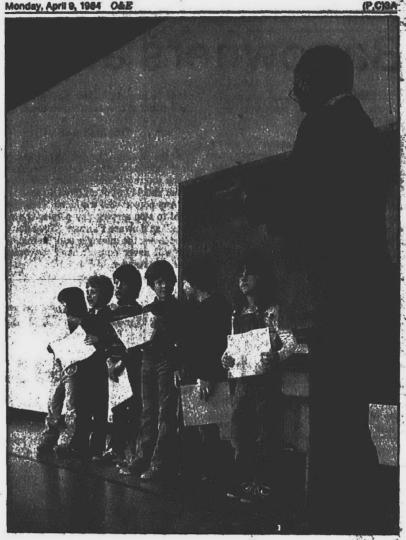

Since last year, Huddas has worked with the girls two hours per week for which she isn't paid — while the cheerleaders invest additional time during recess and other free periods to

"I just really enjoy working with - I'm going to miss them. I just hope they can pick up somewhere else," added Huddas.

Starkweather is slated to close at the end of the school year and students will be transferred as part of the district's plan to accommodate shifts in enrollment and population.

"It's kind of sad this time of year. We're looking forward to a new situation, but you always feel bad we are going to be closing," said Huddas.

The Snapperettes already are at work choreographing a "farewell to Starkweather School's Snapperettes, the only elementary school cheerleading squad in the Plymouth-Canton district, will be disbanded in June when Starkweather is expected to close.

Bar owners are cautious about serving alcohol

Booth said. And the customers don't take the cut-off lightly.

"Most get very defensive. A man's ego is so big he can't take another man telling him he can't hold his liquor. They get upset. They don't like to admit they are drunk and it's hard to win an argument with a drunk. But we try to tell them as diplomatically as possible we are concerned about their safe-

Sometimes the police are called; sometimes a cab is called. It all depends on how drunk the person is and the amount of cooperation he shows.

THE BOX BAR

At the Box Bar, the employee has the final say in whether a customer has drunk too much and whether that customer should be cut off from drinks.

"Any person who works here has the right to stop serving any person at any time," said owner Falcsan. "They don't have to ask the manager and the manager will never countermand the waitress or bartender.

"The employee has to have that freedom and know management will back them up. They have no fear that because it's the owner's friend, the manager's relative, a city commissioner or a police officer that they have to keep serving. They know they won't get into trouble if they cut someone off. They have to know that."

At the Box Bar, Falcsan said, the customer is always right when it comes to food and service. "But with liquor and conduct, the house and employees are always right," he added.

Falcsan, too, agreed, an arbitrary drinking limit can't be set. As a nondrinker, he said he starts to lose coordination after two drinks, while someone else can be calm after 10.

"IT DEPENDS on size, weight, sleep, emotional strain, medication, drugs, these are all factors which come into Falcsan agreed it was a 'daily problem' for Class 'C' businesses to have to cut someone off from his supply of liquor. And, like Booth, he also agreed it was a touchy situation.

"Some take it well, but most don't. You can't reason with a drunk and the fact they have had too much to drink shows they have lost their judgment. They'll say, 'I'm spending money, I can do what I want.'

people seemed to have more problems with drunken customers, Falcsan believed. But he added: "A drunk is a drunk and it cuts across all social and economic lines.'

Businesses which catered to younger

Falcsan said he thought the mixture of liquor plus inexperience at driving was lethal to those under 23.

SHEEHAN'S ON THE GREEN

Larry Sheehan described his Plymouth Township bar and eatery as a "neighborhood" place where the "regulars" know they will be asked to switch to coffee or Coke if management thinks they've drunk too much.

And he's happy his place is small enough that he can keep tabs on his

'We have a friendly neighborhood relationship, where people stop in to eat as well as drink," he said. "I don't know how the big places manage. With larger crowds, you lose control. Here, we are one-to-one, with lots of eye and verbal contact."

Burglars enter VFW & KofC halls

One way to keep alcohol from being absorbed faster, said Sheehan, is to serve lots of munchie-type food, such as popcorn. He keeps his kitchen open till 1:30 a.m., instead of closing around midnight.

And when he has to tell a customer to lay off alcohol, Sheehan said he approaches that person as a friend."

That's because he'll get his dander up if I tell him what to do. So I tell him as a friend, not an enemy. We'll cut off. but not in a derogatory way. We'll tell them to stick around, we're having fun, but to change what they are drinking. And we find they're receptive to this."

On St. Patrick's Day, due to the huge number of customers who come in, Sheehan said he does lose control over the crowd. Because of that, he hires a local cab company to take home free - customers who have had too much.

Due to waitress shift changes, Sheehan said he found it "impractical" to count customer drinks.

With that knowledge he went out into the work a day world and, fortunately, found it a success from the start.

A recent break-in at the Knights of Columbus hall kept Monday's thieves from getting much money because vending machines broken during that break-in had not yet been repaired, Berghoff said.

But in their search for money, the thieves knocked a hole in a doorwall and destroyed four doors.

"It was a lot of effort for what they got," Berghoff said, adding that the only items reported missing were a $100 radio owned by an employee and "a few" coins from a cigarette vending machine

In the VFW break-in, thieves stole three rifles, a tape recorder and coins and cigarettes from vending machines.

Here, too, rooms were ransacked, several doors damaged and ceiling tiles removed to get into offices. A liquor cabinet was forced open, but no bottles were reported stolen, Berghoff said.

Plans are well under way for the 1984 Fourth of July celebration in Plymouth.

This year's parade will be the largest in the his-tory of the Plymouth-Canton community, says parade co-chairman Fred

ATRIT!

The nomination followed on the heels of county commission rejection of a candidate who proved to be anathema to several unions.

Ernest Nagy, publisher of Mellus Newspapers, was Lucas' seventh nominee for the road commission, which runs the road commission division of county government.

The county commission has approved only one of Lucas' nominations for the job in the last several Nagy was on hand Thursday to be questioned by commissioners and criticized severely by union officials representing the UAW, AFL-CIO and the Newpaper Guild Local 22.

THEY CONTENDED that Nagy was extremely anti-union and replaced striking editorial staff members with non-union employees during a negotiation impasse in 1978.

"We believe Nagy lacks the sensitivity and compassion to minister to the needs of the people of Wayne County," said Don Kummer, administrative officer of the Newspaper Guild Local. "We believe he would bend and break public law and policy for his own benefit."

The commissioners, though, moved to reject Nagy even before hearing the union officials speak against his appointment.

Smith, who is financial director of Local 900, is likely to receive much more favorable consideration and could become the second person confirmed for the three-member road commission.

LUCAS HAS been trying to appoint three road commissioners since he took office in January 1983. The three commissioners in office at the time fought Lucas' efforts to replace them in a series of court battles which took a year to resolve.

A circuit court judge and an appeals court panel ruled that Lucas had the right to fire those road commissioners and replace them with three new ones. The state supreme court refused to consider arguments that Lucas did not have the authority to oust the old commissioners.

Lucas at one time proposed an "interim" board of commissioners. The county commission refused to approve them. Opponents said there was no provision in the county charter for interim appointees.

The executive also named three permanent members - Janice Frazier, a businesswoman who has been on Lucas' staff for a year; Curt Boller, Brownstown Township supervisor, and Maryanne Banks, a Romulus councilwoman.

The board confirmed Frazier but balked at approving Boller or Banks. Commission leaders said there were conflict of interest problems because of Boller being a supervisor and Banks a councilwoman in Romulus.

A LUCAS AIDE said the excutive will continue to push until he has three members approved to run

Drugs that stop development of inflammation in joints work by preventing production of prostaglandin. the road commission.

"We're going to keep submitting names until we get somebody — every week if necessary," said Bill Johnson, Lucas's press secretary.

"It's all just politics. The commissioners are just playing games. In the meantime, they're holding up the effective performance and activities of the ion. Frazier can't serve by herself," Road Commis Johnson said.

The vote Thursday to reject Nagy was 12-0. Commissioners Joseph Jurkiewicz (D-Taylor) and William Suzore (D-Lincoln Park) abstained. They serve areas which includes communities in which Meillus newspapers are circulated - Allen Park, Ecorse, Lincoln Park, Melvindale, Southgate and Taylor.

Lucas submitted Nagy for confirmation March 28, citing Nagy's civic contributions.

The executive apparently was unaware that Nagy had a reputation as an anti-union publisher. Johnson said Lucas learned of possible problems with Nagy's appointment from media accounts.

JOHNSON SAID that Lucas talked to Nagy and became "satisfied that Nagy's handling of that la-bor matter wouldn't affect his performance as a road commissioner."

"That (the problem in 1978) should not have been a major factor in his approval or rejection for the position," Johnson said. "He's demonstrated his civic commitment."

Nagy said in his defense that after an agreement to end the strike at Mellus Newspapers in 1978, employees were offered their jobs back and those who didn't return were reimbursed.

County Commissioner Edward Plawecki. D-Dearborn Heights, asked Nagy if he believes public employees have a right to organize and bargain collectively.

"Yes I do," Nagy replied.

Graper has Plymouth changing with the times

(Part 4)

Plymouth has had no form of public transportation from one part of the city to another since the days when Harry Robinson's horse-drawn coach plied between the hotel and the railroad station. Until recently, that is.

To meet the need, and at the same time to provide an attention-getter of the tourist type, City Manager Henry Graper persuaded the Plymouth Rotary Foundation, the Chamber of Commerce and others to help finance a double-decker British bus which provides scheduled service and is available for leasing by groups.

Graper was the man behind the City Commission's efforts during the recession to cut expenses on the one hand and to bolster the local economy by attracting more people to the area. As a result, fewer shops closed in Plymouth than might have been expected.

To encourage more shopping in Plymouth, the city removed parking meters from Main, Penniman, Forest and Ann Arbor Trail where 2-hour parking now is permitted. To obtain additional parking spaces, Penniman and Forest Avenues were made one-way streets in the business area.

Aware that some who live in residential areas might wonder whether efforts to keep the business section viable were being made at their expense, Graper recommended a special business area tax to the City Commission. He says it ensures that any major development in the commercial sector will not be paid for by those who live in residential areas.

Doesn't this take away from the total tax base? Little, if any, responds Graper. "It represents only $12 million of the city's total valuation of $147 mil-

GRAPER IS convinced that Plymouth needs 25 to 30 thousand more people visiting the area to keep the business district healthy.

His efforts to get St. Joseph Hospital to build a facility here are part of that premise. The building, soon to go up at Ann Arbor Trail and Harvey Street, should draw about 30,000 patients to the area per year. And Graper believes the new branch of the Henry Ford Hospital, now in operation on Main Street, will draw an additional 10,000 to 15,000

He says the city must continually attract new shoppers just to offset the effects of inflation. "You keep ahead of inflation," he says, "or you have to cut

Not surprisingly, there has been resistance in some quarters to some of Graper's changes. Change affects people in different ways: some like it, some don't. And change to meet changing conditions is second nature to Henry Graper. The people of Dowagiac learned that during the nine years he was their city manager.

A clue to his frame of mind can be found in his response to the question, what book have you read recently? "Megatrends," he replied. That's a book by John Naisbitt that analyzes the political, societal and economic currents that will shape our future. It includes predictions about America in the next ten years based on an exami-nation of conditions today.

During the same period, programs were advanced to bring more shoppers to town. Fortunately, according to current economic thinking, the recession was a short one, only three years. Understandably, those who are still out of work may not agree with that conclu-

Graper believes the city has two major assets. One is its cohesive downtown area with its park, theatre, hotel, post office, 140 shops and 1,500 parking spaces all within a short distance of each other. The other is the community's well-kept homes.

'You can tell by looking at them that the people of Plymouth have civic pride," says Henry Graper.

ong overdue apology is given

Far back in the paper where only the smallest of type is used, a four-line item appeared the other morning, and it brought back memories of the most provocative moment in the history of the Olympic Games.

It read "The officials in Berlin, Germany, have agreed to the renaming of the entrance into the stadium as The Jesse Owens Boulevard.'

It was simple enough. But, officially it was Germany's apology, after all these years, for the snubbing Owens received when Adolph Hitler refused to appear on the official stand to present Owens with the four gold medals he had won in the greatest burst of ability shown during the games.

The present generation may not recall Jesse Owens, but he was a black athlete who attended Ohio State University and by the time of the Olympic Games was looked upon as the world's fastest human.

AT THE time there was plenty of discussion around the athletic world concerning the entrance of black athletes to the big games.

In fact the discussion became so great and widespread that the late Willis Ward, a former judge of Probate Court who was one of the University of Michigan's black athletes, refused to make the trip after being named to the American team.

Owens went to Berlin because he was eager to have an Olympic Gold Medal among his trophies. He succeeded in winning four of them and proved to the world that he was one of the fastest humans. He appeared in all the sprints, but also competed in the broad jump.

And he won the top medal in all of

But when it came to the moment of the presentations and the colorful ceremony, Hitler was no where to be found. Hitler snubbed the most outstanding athlete in the games and the world received with horror the news of the

And it left a lasting scar on Owens.

Several years ago Jesse was one of the honored guests at the annual sports dinner at the Meadowbrook Country Club and The Stroller had the privilege of talking with him for some time during the evening.

There never was a finer gentleman than Jesse Owens and as an athlete he left his mark on the athletic world.

ONE OF the unforgettable moments The Stroller had with him was at the Big Ten track championships in Ann Arbor and it still provokes a laugh. He had just finished his turn in the broad jump (now referred to as the long jump) and picked himself up out of the pit. Noticing the late Ralph Young, one of the officials on the sideline, he said to him "Mr. Young, I wish you were an inch taller." The Stroller was within hearing distance and he heard Jesse explain that he used Young's height as his mark for the big leap and had just missed a new and better mark. "If you had been an inch taller," he added, "my leap would have been a great one.

That was Jesse Owens, and he richly deserves the honor, belated as it may be, of having Germany apologize to him by renaming the entrance passage into the Olympic stadium as the Jesse

Let's start the party!

Gourmet hors d'oeuvres are simple to make.

Hors d'oeuvres.

For a hostess planning a party, that word can be a little overwhelming. Entertaining with flair demands more of a dazzling start than cheese and crackers. But with today's busy schedules, hors d'oeuvres may be the first casualty of a party.

Hors d'oeuvres don't have to be time-consuming and tedious to prepare. The key to appetizers that look - and taste - like you fussed for hours is to use prepared food as a starting point.

European-trained Rene Arend, product development chef at McDonald's Corporation, suggests using his newest creation, Chicken McNuggets, as a party starter. "Lightly breaded boneless chicken is very subtle - but flavorful - and a party favorite when served with quick homemade sauces," he says.

Chef Rene was born in Luxembourg and trained in Strasbourg, France. His European training has made him an expert in elaborate party planning. Designing high-quality recipes that can be prepared quickly in McDonalds restaurants developed Chef Rene's skill in maximizing kitchen efficien-

Sauces can add that gourmet touch to hors d'oeuvres. Start with 20-piece portions of Chicken McNuggets and serve with a variety of sauces.

The sauce is everything Chef Rene believes "la sauce c'est tout" - the sauce is everything. "Sauce-making is the most important phase of cooking," he says. "A sauce gives your fooc the taste and appearance you want, and that personal touch makes your cooking different from everyone else's."

In preparing sauces, Chel Rene holds there is a secret to sauce creativity. "The one simple step required as you cook is to taste your own cooking - often Then you add spices according to your personal taste."

As to the art of seasoning sauces, Chef Rene says, "you shouldn't be able to identify the spices used; spices only are added to enhance the flavor."

A tart and tangy cranberry sauce with a hint of orange add: a delightfully festive flavor to tender chunks of chicken. To add an international flair to your party, serve a taste of India curry sauce. Or serve cheese fondue, an all-time favorite for elegant party giving. These quick and easy sauce recipes were specially created by Chef Rene to make your hors d'oeuvres table tempting and delicious, but simple to prepare.

Enjoy your own party

"Party giving should, above all, be enjoyable," says Chef Rene. "Practice creative efficiency by selecting recipes that allow you to serve your guests the best, without a great deal of effort. These sauces can be made ahead of time in minutes, with Chicken McNuggets as your starting point. You spend less time in the kitchen and more time entertaining - the goal of all outstanding hosts and hostesses."

By combining Rene's cooking and yours, hors d'oeuvres can set your party off to a great

Rene Arend: The people's chef

Rene Arend, a gourmet chef who has pleased the palates of famous people like Sophia Loren, Elizabeth Taylor, Cary Grant, Queen Elizabeth of England and the King of Belgium, now brings his gourmet touch to more than 11 million "guests" a day in McDonald's restaurants around the world.

Chef Rene, McDonald's product development chef, was born in a northern Luxembourg village. He took three years of intensive kitchen and restaurant training at the College Technique Hotelier de Strasbourg, where he graduated first in his class.

After holding several professional positions in Europe, Chef Rene arrived in the United States to work at Chicago's Drake Hotel. In 1962, Rene moved to the Whitehall Club, an exclusive Chicago dining club, where he met a frequent patron, McDonald's founder Ray Kroc. Kroc admired Chef Rene's culinary talents and experience and was convinced that a fine chef could make important contributions 10 McDonald's

"At first," Chef Rene says, "I wasn't interested. I told Mr. Kroc, 'I am not a hamburger man.' But Ray Kroc's persistence and his idea of broadening McDonald's menu intrigued me. 'Why not,' I asked myself, 'apply my training to reach millions of people?'"

Chef Rene joined McDonald's in 1976. He directs food research, development and technology in McDonald's Oak Brook, IL kitchens. He is responsible for the development of McDonald's menu items.

"It took the first few years to get used to such a company," Chef Rene confides, "but, little by little, I see the fruits of my labor and I get more confident. It is very satisfying to know so many people enjoy my recipes every day, and it is a challenge to develop new ideas to please them."

Chef Rene's personal taste and expertise in sauce making has been adapted to products found on McDonald's menus. His newest creation, Chicken McNuggets, is offered with a choice of mustard, sweetand-sour or barbecue sauce, or with honey.

Chef Rene has compiled a collection of basic sauce recipes in a cookbooklet, "Creating Your Own Secret Sauces." Single copies are available free of charge by writing to Chef Rene's Sauces, McDonald's, P.O. Box 11189, Chicago, 1L 60611.

"The important basics found in this booklet illustrate how fast and easy sauce making can be," said Chef Rene. "I want to put to rest the common misconception that making sauces is difficult."

Chef Rene's special sauces

Curry Sauce

I cup prepared mayonnaise

1 tbl. curry powder 12 tbl. catsup

15 thl. chopped chutney 14 tsp. applesauce

Add curry powder to mayonnaise and mix well. Add remaining ingredients to the mixture; again mix well. Make this sauce one day ahead to allow the curry to blend with the sauce. Makes about one cup.

Floridian salad is served with a tangy becon-mustard dressing.

2 crisp salad ideas to brighten meals

Having crisp garden salads with bright dressings during the winter and spring months is a treat. Florida now ships several types of lettuce, from ice-berg to leaf, Bibb and Boston. Along with radishes and other crisp vegeta-bles, there are plenty of ingredients for good salads right now.

Our photo recipe shows a crisp Floridian salad with a tangy Bacon-Mus-tard Dressing. The salad ingredients are prepared and refrigerated ahead of time; all you need to do is make the bacon dressing a few minutes before serving. It's an old-fashioned sweetand-sour dressing, with the crumbled bacon stirred in at the last minute to retain texture. When this salad is served with a bowl of fresh tomato or corn chowder and some crusty bread and cheese it makes a satisfying meal.

Florida Spring Salad with Creamy Green Dressing is another bright idea.
Again, the greens are washed and chilled ahead of time (wrapping the greens with damp paper towels assures crispness). An herb-y dressing — which can also be made ahead — is done in the electric blender with an egg yolk added for creaminess; the green color comes from a blending of sliced scal-

I had doubts about combining yogurt and chicken, but then once I frowned on sour cream and fried eggplant.

Yogurt chicken turned out a pleasant surprise on two fronts: dietwise and palatewise.

Skinless chicken means less calories. No salt is good news for those watching their blood pressure.

But if you're not on a special diet, a little salt and black pepper can be stirred into the yogurt before applying it to the chicken. Some minced garlic can be added, too.

Handmade thimbles are works of art

Dona Douglas' porcelain bisque thimbles are collector's items, yet practical. Each hand-painted thimble is a miniature work of art. Each is decorated with a hand-painted scene — birds, flowers, barns, seasonal landscapes. Once in awhile you see them at craft sales, in an exclusive gift catalogue or shop. The nearest outlet is the gift shop in the Plymouth Historical Museum.

When she started making thimbles in 1977, she was full of enthusiasm, hoping they would be a salable item. She never dreamed that the time would come when she couldn't keep up with the demand.

Making a thimble from scratch involves pouring liquid percelain into a mold, firing it in a kiln. It comes out like rough cement. Lips are taken off, the top is etched, it is hand-burnished until it is satiny to the touch. Then comes the painting.

"I love detail. I enjoy painting them. No two were alike in the first 480 I made," said Douglas.

THE THIMBLES were in Wayside Gift 1978. Dona had grown up in Plymouth. Al-though she and her husband, Harold, moved away, Wayside was one of the first shops to carry her thimbles.

The thimbles went from Michigan to Ohio and Indiana. Soon they were sold all over the country. There was a mail order business when the thimbles appeared in collectors cat-

"We made thimble racks for a number of years. I was making 12 thimbles a day, seven days a week and we couldn't keep up," she

After being away for 10 years, Dona and Harold Douglas and their family moved back to Plymouth. They had decided to slow down the thimble business and relax. Dona has other hobbies. She enjoys painting on canvas and doing freehand drawing. She enjoys doing calligraphy and having time to do some vol-unteer work at the historical museum.

She still makes thimbles, and when Ruth Jacobs saw them, she wanted some for the museum gift shop.

Jacobs specializes in offering exceptional home crafts in the shop — old crafts of dollmaking, tinsmithing, and wood working. Bruce Richard's beautiful Shaker boxes show the pride of craftsmanship.

"I decided to go on my own again, just go to art fairs, and have them at the museum," said Dona Douglas. She says she has some standards that are consistent sellers. She paints nine varieties of birds, flowers, squir-

Michael Douglas and Kathleen Turner costar "Romancing the Stone," a romantic adventure-comedy from an original screnplay by Diane Thomas. Filming was in Mexico for the story set in South America, about a romance novelist who gets invovied in a hunt for a gemstone treasure.

Candy tastes good, and light films offer that same pleasure

Popular, successful films make money because they provide an entertaining hour or two of excitement and relaxation. They provide escape from the humdrum monotony of daily living. Audiences pay well (and often several times) for the simple pleasures of musicals, westerns, adventures, love stories and sci-fi fantasies.

Most popular and financially successful films are light and fluffy but thin up top, as the million-plus daily box office-grosses for 'Footloose" and "Splash" testify. Sometimes serious movies strike a general concern and become popular, as did "The China Syn-

Or, a very well-made movie dealing with serious social questions entertains and becomes critically successful and important box office, as "One Flew Over the Cuckob's Nest" did.

Mike Douglas (Kirk's immediately recognizable son) produced both and starred in the former. This time out, in "Romancing the Stone," Douglas is going strictly for the jellybeans. He's turned out a tasty one but unfortunately it has Godiva Chocolate pretensions.

THE FILM HAS a clever premise, is lots of fun to watch but lacks some of the exciting flavor one expects from first-class can-

"Romancing the Stone" is the story of prissy, retiring New York romantic novelsit Joan Wilder (Kathleen Turner). Though a successful writer, her personal life largely is limited to fantasies such as those she writes. Her friend and agent, Gloria (Holland Taylor) describes her as the girl who gets sick riding the escalator at Suddenly, Joan Wilder is swept up in a mystery-adventure akin to those she writes. Her sister Elaine (Mary Ellen Trainor) is kidnapped by two semi-competent, unlikely named thugs, Ralph and Ira (Danny DeVito and Zack Norman). Naturally, there is a treasure map at the bottom of the whole mess.

Our heroine, Joan, must deliver the map to a town in Colombia to save her sister, and with the roar of jet engines she is quickly plunged into all the danger and excitement of jungle living.

Her first major problem is escaping the evil Colombian Colonel Zolo (Manuel Ojeda), who also wants the treasure map. That's easily accomplished when the hero of her novels and personal fantasles, Jack Colton (Michael Douglas), appears silhouetted against the sky, furiously pumping bullets from his Winchester 12 gauge.

AFTER MANY adventures, and one love scene where they both look uncomfortable (it's not the position for small talk), Jack and Joan sail away down Lexington Avenue, or whatever New York street was used for the cutesy gag ending.

"Romancing the Stone" will probably be another box-office success because it does provide 101 minutes of easy entertainment. However, the film falls short of the tongue-in-cheek thrills that made "Raiders of the Lost Ark" so successful.

"Romancing" is all too predictable, easy and self-conscious. Douglas tries too hard to be cool, indifferent and macho. The longtime movie stereotype of the lonely, strong silent type about to be warmed and humanized by the leading lady needs to be played with less obvious attention to the camera.

Turner's transition from prissy novelist to knife-wielding adventuress is clever but too rapidly achieved for the film to flow

Only Mexican star Manuel Ojeda as Colonel Zolo plays the joke with the necessary unharried indifference. His apparently serious manner is convincing as if to say, "For enough pesoes I'll play along with this gringo joke, but it doesn't matter.'

DANNY DE VITO and Zack Norman, particularly the former, bumble through their incompetent hoodlum routine pretty well. DeVito played it for laughs and gets quite a few but doesn't seem to be unwound enough to enjoy the joke.

"Romancing the Stone" is rated PG mainly because of - well, I'm not sure any more what "parental guidance" means, at least not in terms of the movies.

During the last quarter century, the acceptable standards for public behavior have changed dramatically. The civil rights and consumer movements, a long series of First Amendment decisions and many other dramatic changes in the world have led to contem-

Just what does "parental guidance" mean in terms of an enter-taining film like "Romancing"? The one nude scene hardly merits mention these days, other than to note that they look uncomfort-able and the images lack passion. But what does a parent tell the

The Rating Code also supposedly warns parents that they need to guide their children through violent episodes.

"OKAY, LISTEN, Son, don't have bad dreams when you see the mechanical alligator bite off the bad colonel's hand. After all, he was a bad man and it's just a fake, movie special-effect, you

Does that help the kids dream sweet dreams of childhood? Wouldn't it be just as well to let their imaginations work, as in the case when Colonel Zolo falls into the alligator pit? Why supply them with gross images to build upon in their minds.

But, then again, the moviemakers are only giving the public what it wants. Conclusion: Jelly beans will rot your teeth but they sure taste good, even when they're a blue-light special.

'Anne Frank' production shines

The play "Anne Frank" by Meyer Levin, presented by the Actors Alliance Theatre Company, continues at 8:30 p.m. Fridays-Saturdays and 6:30 p.m. Sundays through April 15 at Lycee International, Evergreen and 13 Mile roads, Southfield. For ticket information, call the box office at 642-1326.

By Cathie Breidenbach

With an excellent cast and restrained fine directing, the Actor's Alliance Theater Company's production of "Anne Frank" makes her poignant story come alive for another generation.

More than 20 years ago, Anne's diary was required reading in many English classes and the war-baby generation knew her as a friend. Seeing the the-ater-in-the-round revival of "Anne Frank" by the Actors Alliance Company is like meeting a never-forgotten old friend after many years. Surely those learning her story for the first time will find it as memorable.

The play tells of eight people, Dutch and German Jews, cooped up for two years in a secret attic in Amsterdam. Outside their hiding place, Nazi madness goose-stepped through Europe rounding up Jews for the concentration Young Shirleyann Kaladjian is a radiant Anne. She captures the effervescent 13-year-old who is part precocious kid with a mouth that gets her in frequent trouble, part ardent idealist and all adolescent. Kaladjian is a sophomore at Wayne State who succeeds in looking, sounding and moving like a girl on the leading edge of adolescence.

NOT SINCE "Watch on the Rhine" at the Attic Theatre has David Fox had a part that showcases his centered calm as well as his role as Mr. Frank. He plays with uncommon sensitivity men whose essential decency goes so deep that not even global catastrophes sway them from a sure knowledge of what is worthy and what is not.

Director Yolanda Fleischer seems to cast with a sixth sense that knows which actors can make characters come to life. She gets solid performances from Carol Lempert as Margot and Hamid Dana as Dr. Dussel, as well as from Carl Knisely as Mr. Van Daan and Karen Moore as Mrs. Frank

Peggy Thorpe is fine as the material-istic, bickering Mrs. Van Daan and Mi-chael Mendelson is convincing as Peter, the young man who feels hemmed in by adults as he struggles to grow up and to understand what being Jewish

The Meyer Levin script used for the Actor Alliance production is actually the original one sanctioned by Otto Frank. It was later suppressed in favor of the version that ran successfully on Broadway and capped the Pulitzer

The Broadway version minimized the Jewishness of the story, presumably to stress universal truths. The script by Levin preserves the Jewishness of the people waiting out the war in the hiding place.

THEY LIGHT a menorah and say Hebrew prayers around the Hanukkah table. Margot, Anne's older sister, talks of migrating to Palestine when the war is over because she feels nowhere else will ever again feel like home.

The Levin script gives these people the dignity of knowing who they are at a time when Hitler's madness was trying to rob Jews all over Europe of their dignity.

The resilience of the characters and their story far outweighs moments when the script is too preachy and the occasional lines sound too stiff and literary for anyone to say.

Fleischer respects her characters without making them goody-goody martyrs, and she avoids theatrical effects that would have shifted the focus of the quiet story. Life in the cramped hiding place demanded daily discipline, compromise and sacrifice. Day followed dreary day punctuated only by air raids and fear of capture.

"Anne Frank" reminds us that although human dignity and goodness is all too vulnerable in a callous world, it speaks anew to each generation.

Michael Mendelson is Peter and Shirleyann Kaladjian is Anne in "Anne Frank" at the Actors Alliance.

Victorian play to be presented

"London Assurance," the most popular comedy of the Victoria era, will be presented by the University Players of the University of Michigan Department of Theatre and Drama Wednesday-Sunday. April 11-15, at the Power Center for the Performing Arts in Ann Arbor.

Performances will be at 8 p.m., except for a Sunday matinee at 2 p.m. Tickets are available at the Professional Theatre Program Ticket Office in the Michigan League Building. For ticket information, call 764-0450.

"London Assurance" was written in 1841 by Dion L. Boucicault. The play received a major revival 10 years ago when it was added to the repertoire of the Royal Shakespeare Company.

The University Players will use Ronald Eyre's two-act adaptation of the original. Richard Burgwin, a member of the performance faculty of the Department of Theatre and Drama, will direct "London Assurance."

Canton grad McMurry on to WSU

By C.J. Risak staff writer

Melissa McMurray always hoped to make a big splash on the collegiate athletic scene. She figured she'd make that splash as — how else — a swimmer. McMurray, a 1982 Plymouth Canton graduate, has seen half her dream come true. She's making her mark in collegiate athletics. But not in swimming - in volleyball.

McMurray followed a shining twoyear stay at Schoolcraft College by signing a letter of intent to attend and play volleyball for Wayne State Uni-

"I never thought I'd do anything in volleyball," said McMurray of her days at Canton. "I thought I would in swimming. The reason I started playing volleyball was to stay in shape for swimming during the offseason.

"Then I found out I liked volleyball

McMURRAY, WHO at 5-foot-9 will fill the outside hitter role for the Tartars, did not refine her volleyball skills until she enrolled at Schoolcraft and came under the tutelage of then-coach Mike O'Toole.

"I knew the skills," said McMurray. "He just made me a really good play-

O'Toole showed McMurray aspects of the game she never knew existed, like four-hour long practices and a zeal to make every play to perfection. Under O'Toole's guidance, Schoolcraft swept to the NJCAA national finals before losing in 1982, McMurray's freshman season.

McMurray was one of two freshmen to see playing time that year. Now, she's one of five team members to earn volleyball a college scholarship for volleyball.

LAST SEASON under new coach Joe Jandasek, McMurray earned All-State honors and was chosen to the All-Region 12 second team for Schoolcraft. But that's not what got her a full-ride scholarship to Wayne State. ....

"I went to a co-ed tournament at-Wayne State," she recalled, "and I played against the Wayne State assistant coach. He liked me and told the coach (Terry Drake) to come out and see me play.'

Drake, too, liked what she saw and offered McMurray a scholarship. Clemson and Oakland University were both interested in her as well, but Wayne State won out.

"They offered me the most, plus it's a good academic school," McMurray said of her choice. "If I'm going to be in school and get it paid for, I might as well go with the best."

McMURRAY FIGURES to be a starter for the Tartars, who finished third in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference last season.

"I'm a junior, I should start," she said confidently. "It's a position they need to fill, plus I have two years of (college) experience. So they should to just the playing court. Over the winter she coached the Canton junior varsity team, an experience she called "a

"It was real interesting. I can remember the coach telling me a zillion times what to do, and it never sunk in. Now that I'm doing the telling, it's a whole different (perspective)."

She still works out in volleyball scrimmages to stay in shape and plans on playing in a Junior Olympic Tournament with some Schoolcraft players in Chicago this summer.

Come August, McMurray will begin a new part of her life as a Tartar volleyball player, an experience she is looking forward to.

"I'm excited to live on my own," she said, smiling, then adding, "But not too

New year, new hopes, new Tiger song

By Chris McCosky staff writer

> We're all behind our baseball team, Go get 'em Tigers

ET'S FACE it. We need a new Detroit Tiger fight song. "Go Get 'em Tigers" has been with us since 1968, and frankly, it's getting old. That song is, and will forever be, associated with Willie Horton, Denny McLain, Mickey Lolich, Al Kaline and the rest of our '68 heros.

Granted, it still induces goose bumps just like the reruns of the '68 series. But, let's stop living in the past. It's 1984, and we have a new breed on Bengal on our hands. And this new breed seems to be clawing its way toward another world series.

Most post-1968 Tiger teams have not inspired, or deserved, a new fight song. With the exception of Mark Fidrych in 1976, the Tigers barely inspired

That changed last season as the Tigers made a serious run at the American League's Eastern Divi-

SUDDENLY, PENNANT fever gripped Tiger Country. Whenever that happens, songwriters come out of the woodwork and pen little ditties about the local team. Last season was no exception. Remember "Talkin' Baseball"? It was written by Terry Cashman a few years back. It became almost like baseball's anthem. Well, Cashman, never afraid of making a few extra bucks, took his song and localized it. Instead of "Willie, Mickey and the Duke," Cashman sang about, "Tiger baseball, the Motor City's team."

It was nice, but that was outdated even last year. He sings about Champ Summers and a bunch of other ex-Tigers. The best Tiger song of last season was by the Dick The Bruiser Band - George Baier and his WRIF crew. It was sung by Baier's character George Swell (aka George Kell), to the tune of Po-lice's hit "I'll Be Watching You." That, too, has become dated. Players like John Wockenfuss, Glenn Wilson, Lynn Jones, Enos Cabell and Rick Leach are no longer Tigers. So, here we are, at the beginning of another Tiger baseball season and the Tigers are expected to challenge once again for the American League East title. Well, where's the darn fight song?

NOT TO worry. A couple of local fellows have taken care of the problem. By now you've probably heard the tune on the radio. It's called "Tiger Tiger." The song has an upbeat tempo similar to "Eye of the Tiger." In fact, the singer on "Tiger Tiger" sounds like the guy in the band Survivor that sang "Eye of the Tiger"

> Tiger, Tiger baseball team Reaching for that pennant dream

The song was written and produced by Dan Yes-

people in sports

sian of the Farmington Hills-based Dan Yessian and Associates Inc. The lyrics were penned by another Farmington Hills man - one Ernie Harwell.

Soon we'll be hearing cheers or boos Telling us if they win or lose We know for certain when they score We're going to hear those Tigers roar

Harwell you know. He's the Hall-of-Fame voice of the Tigers. His voice, to those of us who grew up around here, is synonimous with baseball. He is the voice of our most pleasant memories. But there is a side to this man few are aware of. Few know about Ernie Harwell the songwriter. Harwell has written songs for such talents as B.J. Thomas, Jose Feliciano and, believe it or not, Mitch

As for Yessian, well, you may not know him, but you probably know some of his work. The West Bloomfield man has been writing, producing and performing gag songs and jingles since 1971.

Some of Yessian's productions include "Elizabeth Taylor Thighs," "Doughnuts Make My Brown Eyes Blue" and his latest gag hit, "Where's the Beef?" Yessian has also penned, produced and performed the Detroit Red Wings' "Come On Wings, Let's Fly" and the Michigan Panthers' "Another Cat In Town."

HARWELL AND YESSIAN had combined talents on a number of songs prior to "Tiger Tiger." They combined on a song for Feliciano called "Crowd Pleaser," which was recorded but never put on an album — "There's an awful lot of politics involved in this business," Yessian said.

"Tiger Tiger" was put together at the end of last

"We came up with 'Tiger Tiger' at the tail end of last season," Yessian said. "By that time, it was really too late to release it. We decided we'd go ahead and finish it in the studio, have it mastered and have it ready for the upcoming season."

The song originated in Harwell's voluminous portfolio of lyrics. Yessian took the lyrics and masterfully molded them into song.

"The real motivation for "Tiger Tiger' came because there was this old 'Go Get 'em Tigers' thing at has been around for ages. We were looking for more of a contemporary sound. "The song was written for the fans. Detroit is very supportive of its teams, and these people in this town have been beaten down on their heads

"I mean, you go to the ball park or any athletic arena and it's like a crowd of masochists. Thank goodness the teams are finally starting to do something. There's something to get excited about."

best piece of music there is, you are wanting to do the best you can.

"We've tried to capture that feeling in a piece of music - a piece of music that says this is generic to the way one would feel about going after something, about heading for the eye of the tiger." Yes sir, I think we have a new Detroit Tiger fight song on our hands. Now let's hope the '84 Tigers prove worthy of it.

> Tiger, Tiger baseball team Reaching for that pennant dream Tigers, Detroit Tigers, My Tigers baseball team!
