Lawsuit calls foster-care home 'unsafe'

By Marie Chestney
staff writer

In a lawsuit filed March 23 in Wayne County Circuit Court, Plymouth Township called unsafe a home the state wants to turn into a foster care facility for six adults.

The home, which would be the first of its kind for the township, is at 46511 Betty Hill.

The lawsuit, assigned to Wayne Circuit Judge Richard Dunn, cites 11 reasons why the township wants the court to override the Michigan Department of Social Service's (DSS) desire to turn the home, owned by Thomas Cape, into an adult foster care facility.

After the state proposed the facility, called the Mari Care Center, in September, it was opposed by the Glenview Homeowners Association.

But the first reason named in the lawsuit is the home's "numerous and serious" violations of the township's fire code.

"The violations constitute a dangerous condition and render the proposed facility unsafe at this time for occupancy," the lawsuit states.

Township supervisor Maurice Breen said the township has not approved occupancy of the home because it does not meet fire code requirements.

An inspection of the home on Sept. 13 by Joseph Attard, the township's chief building official, showed there was only one exit from a second-floor addition to the home.

"THE RESIDENCE is certainly not ready to house six elderly people, let alone the occupants that now reside there," wrote Attard in a letter to the township Board of Trustees.

"Several items are of great concern to me. Since there is only one means of egress from the new upstairs addition, other means of exiting should be required in the event of a fire blocking the way out."

The lawsuit states that the Bureau of Regulatory Services of DSS does not require a formal inspection of an adult foster care facility to determine compliance with local fire codes prior to the issuance of a license. Nor, the lawsuit states, has the State Fire Safety Board adopted fire prevention and safety rules for the group homes. Until it does, the lawsuit maintains, local fire rules must apply.

"Since there are no rules which have been adopted, there are no reasonable standards adequately ensuring the safety of the proposed facility in Plymouth Township," the lawsuit states.

"Safety and prudence demand that some set of rules ensuring the adequate safety and protection of the proposed adult foster care facility residents be applied and that the Charter Township of Plymouth Fire Code should be applied pending adoption of uniform rules by the State Fire Safety Board."

AMONG OTHER things, the lawsuit also alleges that the public act authorizing the setting up of adult foster care facilities is both unconstitutional and unconstitutionally vague.

The lawsuit maintains that the licensee of the home must be a member of the household and an occupant of the home.

In related news, Wayne Community Living Services, a division of the Department of Mental Health, has told the township it plans to open a group home for six adults with mental retardation at 14141 Eckles Road.

Administrator for the home is Ray Roberts, executive director of R. Roberts Residential Services Inc. The company has applied to DSS for a license to operate the home.

Therapist shortage hits school district

By Sharon Dargay
and Jean Adamczak
staff writers

Good physical therapists are hard to find — and keep.

That's what some parents and administrators in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools discovered over the past 15 months.

Parents of 27 youngsters who receive therapy through "outreach" programs offered by the Wayne-Westland school district have complained to the state about lapses in service at least three times during that period.

The problem occurred when therapists left the program and Wayne-Westland couldn't find replacements fast enough.

"That is exactly what the issue is — a shortage," says Ray Rafford, assistant superintendent for student relations at Wayne-Westland.

"We had a verbal agreement with someone who was going to take the physical therapist position in the beginning and they just backed out at the last minute." Based on this verbal commitment, Rafford says a letter was sent to parents informing them the position had been filled. Everything backfired when the person decided to take another position.

COMPLAINTS are aimed at the Plymouth-Canton Schools, although Wayne-Westland Schools provide the service to the district and about 11 other Wayne County school systems. Wayne-Westland is reimbursed with funds raised by a countywide special education tax in return for running "center-based" programs for other districts.

The Plymouth-Canton school board is reluctant to hire its own therapist for the youngsters because it won't be reimbursed.

"I went to the board two weeks ago to let them know what the situation was," said Edwin Page, Plymouth-Canton special education director. "We're the ultimate ones responsible. We're obligated to provide physical therapy. But their response was we're not going to put money into something when Wayne-Westland is supposed to do it. Center programs are funded 100 percent out of the one mill collected for special education."

He suggested hiring a paraprofessional to aid the district's own physical therapist, who currently works with preschool youngsters.

"We could cover ourselves and not get caught in that dilemma. But the bottom line was that we couldn't spend it. Wayne-Westland is saying it can't do it."

"We're situated here, caught in the middle. It's a kind of Catch-22."

Wayne County Intermediate Schools investigates each complaint and reports its findings to the state, which makes the final decision in each case.

"Part of the difficulty we encounter in the county is that their relationship to us is as a monitor and compliance enforcer," Page added. "They say 'you're liable.' But the county plan says that outreach is provided through center programs. We've tried to get the county to let us hire a therapist and reimburse us through the one mill, but they've successfully avoided the subject."

THE MOST RECENT complaint, filed last month, was resolved when Wayne-Westland hired a therapist to service the Plymouth-Canton youngsters. The person came out of early retirement to fill the position part time, and will leave when the school year ends in June.

The therapist has been on the job for nearly two weeks, but if the investigation is under way, Page will be required to respond. He said the process involves "a great amount of time and paperwork," for local administrators.

Harry Salsinger, public relations director for the intermediate district, said most complaints are resolved amicably between parents and local administrators.

"We may find the services are adequate or not. I don't recall if there was anything earth shattering about this one."

But Page said the situation can pit parents against administrators. He pointed out that he understands their frustration over lack of service, but can't help resolve the problem.

"Our parents are pretty sophisticated. They know their rights," he said. "But physical therapists are as scarce as hounds' teeth. Other outreach programs provide teachers, hearing consultants, vision consultants. This is happening only in the area of physical therapy. It's a very competitive field. They're in high demand and paid top salaries."

Rafford agrees. "If there is anyone out there who is a physical therapist and wants to work, please let us know."

Rafford is serious about his plea for physical therapists. "I don't mean to be flippant about it, but that is the reality of the situation," he said.

A spokeswoman for Wayne State University's physical therapy program agreed that therapists are in short supply. She said that although Wayne State graduates find jobs with school districts, many are lured to hospitals, clinics and private practices.

"There sure is a shortage. And the thing is, most of them make $22,000 annually right out of school."

Page wasn't sure what the district will do if the problem recurs. In the past, Wayne-Westland has hired a replacement before the state ordered Plymouth-Canton to dip into its own funds.

"If it happens again," said Page, "I guess we go back to the drawing board."

Gone, but hardly missed

Some rusting eyesores disappeared from the corner of Theodore and Main last week when a crane came to haul away six long-empty fuel tanks. The tanks, remnants of a long-defunct business, once belonged to a company which operated a fuel business on the site. The vacant lot is next to Chuck's service station and across the railroad tracks from the Granery restaurant, formerly McLaren Coal and Oil yard.

Firm seeks tax break

By Marie Chestney
staff writer

If it gets a tax break from Plymouth Township and the go-ahead to move from Livonia, an Atlanta-based printing firm plans to become the newest business in Metro West Industrial Park. The 200-acre park is north of M-14 off Sheldon.

John H. Harland Co.'s move from its leased plant at 13455 Stamford in Livonia to a 3.8-acre site in the township hinges on the company's request for tax relief under Public Act 198. The act allows the company's building and furnishings to be taxed at 50 percent of their value for a period up to 13 years.

The move also hinges, under the act, on the company getting Livonia's permission to leave. The purpose of the requirement is to prevent one community from pirating jobs from another. Livonia city planner John Nagy said the city "honors most requests" from companies asking to leave.

A public hearing to set up an industrial development district under the act, the first step in the tax relief process, has been set for April 24 before the township Board of Trustees.

If tax relief is given, the company plans to have its 24,000-square-foot manufacturing facility in the industrial park in full operation by November. Harland also plans a 20,000-square-foot addition some time in the future.

The company prints checks, deposit tickets and other computer-read forms and sells them to financial institutions throughout the U.S.

DONALD VOSHALL, Harland vice president, estimates the new facility — which is more than double the company's present Livonia site — will create up to 40 additional jobs within three years.

The company now employs 46 employees in Livonia.

"The company considers the property tax relief provided for by Act 198 as a vital incentive for the transfer of its Livonia facilities to the township and for the expansion of its current Michigan operations," said Voshall.

"Development of the project would serve the interests of the township in contributing to the level of employment in the township, and in increasing the industrial tax base of the township in the long-term."

If given, the tax relief would apply to the new building, site improvements and new machinery and furnishings acquired for the new building. It would not be given for the cost of the land or any equipment, machinery or inventory transferred from the Livonia plant.

In 1982, the township board established an industrial development district under Act 198 for the entire industrial park. The park, under development by Robert DeMattia, has more than 100 sites waiting to be developed.

Shortage upsets parents

By Jean Adamczak
staff writer

There's a shortage of physical therapists in the Wayne-Westland School District, according to Sue McBride, director of orthopedic education for the Wayne-Westland school district. "I don't really know why," McBride said.

Her comments highlight a problem between the Wayne-Westland and Plymouth-Canton school districts concerning a lack of physical therapists for the schools' outreach program. (See related story.)

"That's exactly what the issue is — a shortage," said Ray Rafford, assistant superintendent for student relations at Wayne-Westland.

McBride, a 13-year veteran at Wayne-Westland, said people do not fully understand the bind she is in.

"People are upset because they know their children aren't getting the therapy they should and I am upset too, but I really am working at finding someone to fill the positions," she said.

There is one full- and one part-time physical therapist position to be filled immediately and one full-time position to be filled for the fall.

"It's unreal," McBride said. "I know people don't believe this, it's so unusual to find such a shortage when everything else is overloaded with job applicants."

WAYNE-WESTLAND physical therapists work with children in self-contained programs like the severely mentally impaired program, early intervention program and the Outreach Program.

The Outreach Program services students with some physical impairment who need some degree of support but are not impaired enough to be in a self-contained program. Children from 13 districts, including Plymouth-Canton, are enrolled in this program.

McBride, who supervises all therapists who work in the physically impaired programs, said some of her staff have left jobs at Wayne-Westland for jobs with more responsibility, such as supervisory positions.

"My staff is quite young," McBride said. "Husbands get transferred out of the area and take their families with them. The therapists just give me their notice, resign from the job and leave."

Due to high demand and short supply of therapists, Wayne-Westland doesn't have a monopoly on the physical therapist shortage, McBride said.

"We are not the only ones having this difficulty. Wayne County Intermediate School District is and, by the look of the want ads in the Sunday papers, so are many of the hospitals in the Detroit area."

McBride is utilizing all available sources in her search for physical therapists but has struck out every time. She contacted all three universities in Michigan which have physical therapy programs (Oakland University, Wayne State University and University of Michigan), and so far nothing has surfaced.

"I am trying everything I can think of, including putting ads in newspapers and in physical therapy journals. I am even trying word-of-mouth now," she added.

Her problem is compounded by the fact that many physical therapists prefer to work with adults and are disinclined to teaching children.

"Some people prefer working with adults as opposed to working with children who are born with an illness, like cerebral palsy," McBride said.

In spite of everything, McBride's outlook is not as dismal as one would expect after such a frustrating search.

"I'm being very positive about this," she said firmly. "I will get someone here, full-time, before fall."

State goal: 'hands on' computer literacy

"Better Education for Michigan Citizens: A Blueprint for Action" was recently adopted by the State Board of Education.

The "blueprint" includes three basic areas of concern: 1) school improvements, 2) recommendations to local and intermediate school districts, the governor, Legislature and institutions of higher education and 3) recent actions of the State Board of Education.

Each area included several key assumptions related to science and technology. In their recommendations to local and intermediate school districts, the state board recommended that two years of mathematics, including at least one course covering algebraic concepts, be required of all students.

The state board also recommended two years of science.

Furthermore, the state board recommended one-half year of "hands on" computer education to be taught in all Michigan public schools.

THE STATE'S study found that 28 percent of Michigan students took a course in computer education, and 86 percent of the Michigan public surveyed favored requiring a course in computer science/literacy.

The board also recommended one additional year of math — including algebra, geometry, advanced algebra and trigonometry — for students planning to go on to a four-year college or university. This would be in addition to biology, chemistry and physics.

Ronald R. Watcke

As part of the plan, the State Board of Education will take actions to improve the quality of textbooks and instructional materials by assisting local staffs in assessing instructional materials, including computer software.

Furthermore, the state board will establish a set of standards for science and laboratory equipment in both elementary and secondary schools.

high school completion. The state will set standards for the certification of teachers of computer literacy and computer science, as well as standards for certification of all teachers in the use of computers.

The state board plans to provide training for teachers in classroom applications of computer technology and for administrators in educational management positions.

It was further recommended that the state board evaluate the levels of computer literacy within the state and recommend to the governor and Legislature a proposal for funding computer software, training and equipment.

IN THE AREA of computer technology, the state board will serve as a resource center for Michigan educators to review and preview instructional software.

In addition, the state will define minimum competencies in computer literacy for those students who seek employment in technology, as well as for Lastly, the State Board of Education is developing performance objectives and materials for computer literacy education.

dations sound, I believe they fail to go far enough.

If the state of Michigan and its public education program are to remain at the forefront of providing the highest quality of education to the citizenry, then the State Board of Education must assert itself as a progressive change agent interested in the future as well as the present. The commitment must be made if Michigan is successfully to compete in attracting high technology industries to the state.

Energy money still available

Grant monies still are available to homeowners for energy conservation measures.

Paul J. Sincok, federal program coordinator for the city of Plymouth, explains that the program allows residents to qualify for up to $1,250.

The grant is not a loan, he stresses.

The program uses home energy audits completed by either Detroit Edison or Consumers Power Co.

Income levels are based on 1983 household income and can be as high as $46,200 to qualify for monies under the program.

Just about any type of energy improvement qualifies, says Sincok, including insulation, new heating plants, new windows and doors. Anyone interested in more information may contact Sincok at 453-1234, Ext. 24.

Helmkamp is Dem delegate

By Tim Richard
staff writer

"Twelve years go fast," said Alan C. Helmkamp, whose loyalty to Democratic candidates for that length of time paid off Saturday.

The 2nd Congressional District Democratic convention picked the 32-year-old Livonia lawyer to attend the 1984 national convention in San Francisco as a delegate for presidential candidate Walter Mondale.

"The name of the game was getting your bodies out," said Helmkamp, who seemed a little amazed at his 2-to-1 victory margin over three other candidates. It will be his first national convention.

THE WASHTENAW County contingent backed a favorite son, Ann Arbor attorney Elmer White, with 32 votes. W. Michael Blumenthal, former U.S. Treasury secretary and now board chairman of Burroughs Corp., and Albert Tavarozzi of Plymouth each received 1.92 votes from the Mondale caucus.

Helmkamp indeed had his bodies out — a total of 74.2 votes, including most of the Wayne County contingent, and unanimous support from Jackson, Lenawee and Hillsdale counties. (Branch County failed to send anyone to the convention.)

Helmkamp said some early support lined up behind Blumenthal, who served in the Jimmy Carter cabinet at the time Mondale was vice president.

Alan C. Helmkamp
first-time delegate

The support evaporated, and Blumenthal didn't attend the convention.

Helmkamp had headed Mondale's effort in Livonia for the March 17 presidential preference caucus.

"I've met Mondale many times at party functions and fund-raisers," he said. "Mondale has been to Livonia three times, most recently at the Holiday home for the Blanchard campaign."

HELMKAMP WAS the only western Wayne County Democrat to win a slot from the 2nd Congressional District in Saturday's 3 1/2-hour convention. The gathering picked two Mondale delegates and an alternate and three Hart delegates and an alternate. Others:

- Shirley McMurtrie, Jackson — the other Mondale delegate. A staff member for the Michigan AFL-CIO, McMurtrie is editor of the Jackson Labor News and has been politically active four years.

- Ridgeway Scott, Ann Arbor — delegate for Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado. Scott is a professor of mathematics at the University of Michigan.

- Elizabeth Davenport, Ann Arbor — delegate for Hart. Davenport is a retired University of Michigan administrator. She was co-chair of the state Hart campaign.

- Sheila Mae Rowlinson, Tipton — delegate for Hart. She was Ann Arbor office manager for the Hart campaign.

The Mondale delegate will be Gwendolyn Dalton of Chelsea. The Hart alternate will be Steve Winkelman, University of Michigan student living in Ann Arbor, and a former Birmingham resident.

ASKED WHAT started him in politics, Helmkamp quipped: "Probably Richard Nixon." He said it was Nixon's conduct of the Vietnam war that made him a Democrat.

He went on, "When I went to Stevenson High School, I was more conservative. Then I went to the University of Michigan. I worked in three different states for (Sen. George) McGovern for president in 1972."

That year Helmkamp also helped in the unsuccessful congressional campaign of state Rep. Marvin Stempfen, now a Wayne County circuit judge. After earning his B.A. from U-M in 1974, Helmkamp worked three years as an attorney's assistant in the Stempfen law office before earning his law degree with honors from Wayne State University in 1977.

During summers, Helmkamp earned college expenses by working in auto plants and an ink factory. He held memberships in two unions — the UAW and the Detroit Printing Pressmen.

In 1980 Helmkamp backed the unsuccessful candidacy of Robert A. Ficano for state representative. Ficano, now Wayne County sheriff, returned the favor Saturday by withdrawing as a candidate for national convention delegate in favor of Helmkamp.

ONLY ONCE did Helmkamp take a fly at elective office. He was a nominee for Livonia City Council in 1975. Besides McGovern, he supported Carter for president all the way in 1976, Edward M. Kennedy and then Carter in 1980.

"Now I prefer to support candidates and positions," he said. "My family is number one, my law practice is number two."

Wife Susan is a parochial school teacher, professional violinist and singer.

His trip to San Francisco July 17-20 won't be cheap. "You'll be responsible for paying your own way and your own food," said Orville Tungate, Wayne-2nd District chairman who helped handle credentials and rules for the district convention.

A field worker for the Democratic State Central Committee said the party was working on a reasonable charter flight for the convention but that the hotel might cost $200 a night double occupancy.

Said Helmkamp: "I'm planning to take my wife. I haven't had a vacation in two years, and we'll take a few extra days out there."

As for the cost, he grinned, "I may have to finance it."

George Wahr Salade, 2nd District Democratic chairman, discusses convention procedures with Elizabeth Davenport of Ann Arbor. Both were in the Gary Hart camp. Davenport will be a Hart delegate to the national convention in San Francisco.

Students win medals in state cooking contest

There are as many good cooks as there are, well, peas in a pod in the Wayne-Westland and Plymouth-Canton school districts.

Students from both districts brought home impressive wins in the annual Culinary Arts Salon sponsored by the Michigan Restaurant Competition last weekend.

In the Wayne-Westland school district, which includes a portion of Canton Township, students brought back 12 medals and four honorable mentions. In Plymouth-Canton, two medals took up residence in the district.

Carey Gary, whose husband, Jon, heads the culinary arts program in Wayne-Westland, teaches commercial foods at Plymouth Salem High School. "There are talented people at every end of Canton," said Pat Bunnell, laughing.

Bunnell has been an instructor in the Wayne-Westland district for 14 years, first operating the Blue and Gold Room at Wayne Memorial High School and most recently teaching at the William D. Ford Vocational Technical Center in Wayne-Westland.

She credits students' baking successes to Arlitta Dock, a teacher's assistant whom Bunnell said is "very knowledgeable and gives the students a great deal of encouragement and advice."

THREE GOLD medals were won by Wayne-Westland students Nahdene Beadle, Vicky Bertshinger and Don Cudahy, all seniors.

Beadle's entry consisted of two breadbaskets actually made from bread dough and containing a variety of quick and yeast breads.

Bertshinger and Cudahy both won with cake entries. Bertshinger's cake was frosted in light chocolate offset by dark chocolate roses. Cudahy's creation was an octagonal cake with hand-shaped roses on top.

Two students from Wayne-Westland and one from Plymouth Salem took home silver medals.

Rodney Klinebriel, a senior from Wayne-Westland, took two silver medals for a restaurant table for four, which included place settings with separate dinners for each, and a galantine hors d'oeuvre.

Karen Przybylowicz, enrolled in Wayne-Westland's adult education program, won a silver for a basket made of bread dough and filled with an arrangement of vegetables carved in the shapes of flowers.

Senior Amy Sidorsky from Plymouth Salem also was a winner of a silver medal.

lem for his pastry entry and six students from Wayne-Westland.

Seniors Julie Hyslop, Kris Jarman, Scott Grabiec, Laurie Anthony and Bertshinger, and junior Teresa Bryant were responsible for the bronze medal entries.

Hyslop, Anthony and Grabiec won for the entries in the hors d'oeuvre category. Bunnell explained that those entries must consist of differently shaped and colored appetizers displayed on a mirror, which she said students spend lots of time polishing. Anthony's entry consisted of hor d'oeuvres, which were fitted together to form the shape of a butterfly, placed on toast and then on the mirror, Bunnell said. She added that colors and textures are important, and that Anthony used caviar for the black portion of the butterfly.

Bryant and Jarman both won with cakes, and Bertshinger won with petits fours. Bryant's cake displayed roses hand-shaped out of fondant.

HONORABLE MENTIONS were won by Wayne-Westland students Tracey McNew, Rob Mohrlock, Pat Brunson and Greg Dolby.

Bunnell and Gary said they are unsure whether students will continue on to competition in Chicago, where they would be competing primarily with college students.

"It takes a terrific commitment of the individual student, and no one has yet said they are willing to do it," Bunnell explained. "It takes two entries, and the amount of time and type of competition takes hours and hours of time."

Voter turn-out vital — McCauley

Voter turn-out in the 2nd Congressional District will help determine how much of a race the incumbent will face.

That view was expressed recently at fund-raisers in Plymouth and Ann Arbor by Mike McCauley, a teacher at Plymouth Canton High School who is seeking the 2nd District Democratic nomination.

"In the last election about 160,000 people voted," said McCauley. "This is only about 50 percent of the presidential voting-age citizens in the 2nd District. If 20,000 or 30,000 more voters show up for the next presidential election, I believe the incumbent will be in for a race."

Nell Staebler and Wayne County Sheriff Bob Ficano applauded McCauley for his courage and attributes in seeking the 2nd District seat. "I have seen few candidates in all my years with as much enthusiasm and strength of purpose," said Staebler at the fund-raiser.

In a speech to the guests, McCauley called for new leadership in the 2nd District which includes Livonia, Plymouth, Northville, and parts of Wash-tenaw, Hillsdale and Lenawee counties.

"Michigan receives less than 69 cents for every dollar it gives to the federal government," said McCauley. "How can this be? We deserve more than that."

"What we do know is that our congressman spent $31,000 on expenses in the first three months of 1983 commuting from Washington to Plymouth."

This is absolutely deplorable. This incumbent has missed 25 percent of the House Appropriations votes in 1983.

"This district needs a congressman who is willing to work with every ounce of strength to better the lives of those he represents."

This contract saves lives

A major multimedia education effort to fight teen-age drunk driving has been launched by a coalition of pro-football players, educators, students and the liquor industry.

The campaign is aimed at stimulating what is termed "the most effective, untapped weapon against drunk driving" — the American family.

Centerpiece of the campaign is a "Contract for life," developed by Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD), a Massachusetts-based network of students in some 6,000 high schools coast to coast.

The Contract calls on parents and teen-agers to agree that either may call home for help at any time if they or their driver has had too much to drink to drive safely.

According to Robert Anastas, SADD founder, "communities where the Contract has been widely used have seen a noticeable reduction in teen-age highway deaths."

DISCUS spokesmen point out that "teachers, police, judges and jailers all play an important role in stopping drunk driving but they can't do the whole job. Families are the cornerstone of our social structure and must play a more active role in solving the problem."

The liquor industry has pledged to send a Contract to every American family asking for one. To obtain a copy, write to SADD Contract, Corbin Plaza, Marlboro, Mass. 01752.

Jumping for heart

The Michigan Heart Association has had a major fund raiser this month as middle school students throughout the area participated in a jump rope marathon to raise money for heart research. Among the participants were Rick Wilson's physical education students at West Middle and Doris Pipken's gym students at East Middle. East Middle students shown above are (from left) Samitha Tolbert, LaVerne Bowe, and Barb Brewer.

Responds to Eagle's view

To the editor:
This letter is written in regards to Fred Eagle's letter published on April 2, 1984.

As a former music student of James Griffith's, I believe I can understand why he hesitates to participate in the 4th of July Parade. Mr. Griffith does not do things half-heartedly, nor does he accept that from his students. Whether it's a state band festival or a marching band competition, he prepares and goes to win. My point is, I believe if Mr. Griffith thought that he could make a decent showing, he would.

The fact is, it would be very difficult to round up all the students almost a month after school's out (or graduation for some). Between summer job schedules and family vacations, I think it would be too hard to get enough people to show up.

Yes, Mr. Eagle, the students participating in marching band do show up in August for band camp. Do you know when in August? The week before school starts. By then most families have returned from vacations and summer jobs are almost over.

Please don't make it sound like the band doesn't participate in any events. They perform in the annual Fall Festival and in the Memorial Day Parade. Last year the band also marched in the Canton Country Festival Parade. The parade was more than a mile long and the temperature was in the high 80s. Many members nearly passed out.

The marching band has made a good reputation for Plymouth through all the competitions and festivals they've entered. They work very hard at what they do, so please don't make them, and especially Mr. Griffith, sound like they're too lazy to do anything for Plymouth or their country.

Consolidation not necessary, Graper says

(Part 5)

City manager Henry Graper says he would like to see more people living in downtown Plymouth, perhaps in condominiums or apartments. He also notes: "We have 25 to 30 vacant lots on which homes could be built. We have three pieces of industrial property to market. Old Village needs some renovation, and an effort must be made to make it cohere with the rest of the city."

What about the railroad grade crossings that ring the city? Graper admits they are a problem, but not a major one. Where would he put a grade separation if he had the money?

"Although Main Street has often been mentioned," he responds, "that would be the most expensive place to put it. Many of the commercial buildings along the way would have to be purchased and destroyed. One alternative would be to go under the railroad near the Adistra building. Motorists could use that underpass at times when the Main Street crossing is tied up. Even that might cost 2 1/2 to 3 million dollars."

UNLIKE SOME OF his predecessors, including Fred Yockey, Graper doesn't think a merger between the city and the township is either inevitable or even desirable.

"If I thought most residents were for merger, I would work with township officials to try to bring it about. But I don't think most of the city residents want merger."

"Right now they have a small, cohesive city with a central business district and a unique small-town character of its own. A combined city and township would result in a city of approximately 50,000 covering an 18- to 20-square-mile area."

"In that event, officials would have to consider the needs of the entire area, not just our present 2.27-square-mile area. Commerce would tend to spread out. Cohesion would be lost and the downtown business area might suffer as it has in other communities."

What does he consider the ideal size for a city? Graper says he would not like to manage a city with more than 50,000 inhabitants. He likes the personal contact that managing a small city makes possible.

"Managers of large cities need large staffs. As a result the manager finds himself isolated from the main issues. And managers of big cities have to dissipate much of their time and energy in front of radio and TV microphones defending their decisions of the previous day."

GRAPER SAYS HE learned at his mother's knee not to be afraid of hard work.

When he was 8, she encouraged him to deliver newspapers, engraining the work habit. In various stages of his life he has operated a punch press, driven a past and present

fork-lift truck, worked in a car dealership and in a drug store. He also has been a master butcher and a mine worker, and holds union cards in both occupations.

Another influence was a dean who taught him history at Lambuth College. "Dean Eagle used to tell us the only thing needed for a successful life is native ability and the willingness to work."

Graper says he also has learned something from three close brushes with death. He was given the last rites and not expected to live on two occasions. One was when he was hit by a car when he was 6. The other was some years later when he almost died as a result of an appendix operation. The third was in 1969 when he came close to death from an auto accident in Tennessee.

While recovering from that accident, he began to realize that his priorities were wrong: He was placing too much importance on making money — devoting too little time to his family. That was when he severed his relationship with a financial consulting firm, which required much travelling, and applied at Dowagiac to be city manager.

Mrs. Graper is named Leanne. Their children are Henry, age 18, and Michael, age 9.

Graper is a member of the Plymouth Rotary Club, the Municipal Financial Officer's Association, the International Association of City Managers and the Western County Conference of Governments. He is on the Health Insurance and the Finance and Taxation committees of the Michigan Municipal League. He represents all of Wayne County (except Detroit) as a member of the Detroit Water Board.

WHAT WOULD HE choose if cast away on a desert island and could have only one book? "The Bible," he says. "I had to read it in college as part of my history work. I found it fascinating."

Graper manages a city of 10,000 people. It has 71 fulltime and 40 part-time employees. Of the total tax rate of $85.07, which includes city, county and school, the city portion is $17.25 per thousand.

The mail often brings many surprises

Requests for dandelion recipes

One of the most interesting things about writing for the public prints is the mail a fellow gets each morning. One never knows if it is a crank letter or one of praise. And more often than not it is a request for information.

This is true of The Stroller's mail because he has been strolling along the trail for more than six decades.

For instance the other morning the mail brought an unusual request. It was for the recipe of the sour dressing The Stroller's mother used when we had dandelion for a meal back home in the Dutch Country.

Mother is long gone and she never left any written recipes. In fact, she sent The Stroller her recipe for chocolate cake some years ago and it is still a laugh. In the recipe she wrote, "use a pinch of this and pinch of that and mix it until it feels right." Then she closed with this suggestion: "use two eggs if they are cheap and one if they are dear."

SO THERE is no written recipe for the dandelion dressing.

In the letter the other morning the writer wrote, "Now that dandelion season is close at hand, I remember you writing some time ago that your mother used what you called a German sour dressing. I would love to have it. In fact, I was surprised that you folks picked dandelion even along the railroad tracks back in Pennsylvania. So, I'd love to try it with the dressing you folks had."

Well, inasmuch as she never had it in written form, The Stroller can only guess and try to remember — even by sight.

First, when we brought what she called a "mess" of dandelion, she washed it very good. Then she left it soak a short time. When she thought it ready for the table she placed it in the center and then brought on the dressing.

So far as The Stroller can remember she used a small bowl and started with some form of sharp mustard. Then she took out the vinegar jar and sprayed it well into the mustard. Then she added bits of fried bacon and then stirred it until it would flow. When she placed that on the table we reached for it and we went on enjoying one of our special spring meals — dandelion and mashed potatoes.

The combination of the mustard (if that was what it was) and the vinegar served the same purpose as the popular oil and vinegar dressing of today — or in some cases the Italian dressing. At any rate, we youngsters were raised on it.

Aside from enjoying the dandelion

the stroller

W.W.

Edgar

for a meal The Stroller took a liking to dandelion because it started him on a business career.

Early in the spring we would take a walk after school. We headed for the country and the dirt roads. Usually on the banks were grass patches and most of them had dandelions. We would pick them and then sell them to the neighbors.

Two big handfuls of the precious dandelion constituted a mess and we always got 15 cents a mess. A fellow could pick several messes after school and the money usually came in handy for the movies and down to the ice cream parlor for a soda. And this money never came out of our family budget.

It was The Stroller's first experience in business. But now he wishes he would have the official ingredients for his mother's sour dressing. Maybe he could start a new business sideline when the dandelion starts to raise its leaf toward the sun, and spring is officially here.

Easy Elegance For Easter

Welcome Easter with springtime flair by creating a fabulous feast for your family. Your special dinner can be elegant yet easy when you fix time-saving dishes in advance, and add colorful touches to the menu and table decor.

Get into the spirit of spring early by making a Braided Bread Basket. The golden basket makes a unique centerpiece or a great gift when visiting family and friends. Made with fresh bread dough, the basket becomes a fun family project when you plan a bread-baking day in the kitchen; let everyone lend a hand. Make it weeks in advance and seal for a lasting treasure.

Fill the basket with lovely pastel-colored Easter eggs, or Crispie Speckled Eggs, an easy-to-make crispy-mallow treat. Flecked with bright colors of chopped "M&M's" plain chocolate candies, these delights are the perfect addition to any Easter basket. The kids will have fun shaping the no-bake treats that combine their favorite flavors—chocolate, marshmallow and peanut butter. For a finishing touch, add a sprinkling of "M&M's" Peanut Chocolate Candies, reminiscent of brightly colored miniature eggs!

Put a convenient twist on the traditional entree by serving Elegantly Easy Ham. Have a boneless ham half or canned ham sliced and tied at the grocery store. This ham is as easy on the budget as it is convenient. You'll get more servings per pound because the bone and fat are removed. Basted with a glistening glaze of mustard and currant jelly, the pre-sliced ham looks beautifully scored. When untied, it falls into evenly sliced servings.

Broccoli Bouquets, topped with delicate lemon peel slivers, surround the ham with spring freshness. For added zest, serve this seasonal vegetable with tangy lemon butter.

Fresh mixed greens and mushrooms combine for Sesame Spring Salad, made extra special with an easy to prepare dressing. The "better-than-store-bought" dressing delivers a sweet, tangy taste with a touch of toasted sesame seeds.

For a dramatic finale, serve Ice Cream Cloud Cake—a spectacular frosty dessert made with ice cream and prepared pound cake slices. A delicate hint of almond and chopped multi-colored milk chocolate candies add surprise flavor and crunch to the marbled layers of pink and green ice cream. You can make this cool and creamy dessert up to two weeks in advance, providing it is wrapped securely before freezing. Frost with fresh whipped cream just before serving for a heavenly dessert sensation.

ELEGANTLY EASY HAM

1 jar (12 oz.) currant jelly 4 to 5 lb. boneless fully cooked ham half, sliced and tied*

1 1/4 cup prepared mustard
Combine jelly and mustard in small saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring until jelly is melted and mixture is blended, keep warm. Place ham on rack in shallow roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer, placing tip in center of thickest part of meat. Bake at 350° F. about 1-1/4 to 1-1/2 hours or until internal temperature reaches 130° F. to 140° F., basting ham every 15 to 20 minutes during baking with glaze. Remove tie, place on serving platter. Arrange broccoli around ham. Serve ham with remaining warm glaze. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

*Note: Have ham sliced 1/4-inch thick or to thickness desired and tied at grocery store.

BROCCOLI BOUQUETS

2 lb. broccoli, trimmed and separated 1 1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Place broccoli in 1 cup salted boiling water in 3-qt. heavy saucepan. Cover; cook 6 to 8 minutes or until crisp-tender. Drain. Combine butter and lemon juice; spoon over broccoli. Arrange broccoli around ham on platter. Garnish with lemon, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Variation: Substitute 2 pkgs. (10-oz. each) frozen broccoli spears, cooked according to package directions, for fresh broccoli.

SESAME SPRING SALAD

(Not Shown)

Dressing	1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/3 cup vegetable oil	1 small garlic clove, minced
2 tablespoons toasted sesame seeds	Salad
1 tablespoon lemon juice	2 qt. torn spinach
1 tablespoon vinegar	1 qt. torn Boston, bibb or leaf lettuce
1 teaspoon sugar	1/4 lb. mushrooms, sliced
1/2 teaspoon salt	2 tablespoons green onion slices

For dressing, combine oil, sesame seeds, lemon juice, vinegar, sugar, salt, pepper and garlic; mix well. Chill.

For salad, combine spinach, lettuce, mushrooms and onion; toss lightly. Serve with dressing. Makes 8 servings.

ICE CREAM CLOUD CAKE

1 1/2 lb. pound cake, cut into 1 1/4-inch thick slices	3/4 cup chopped Plain Chocolate Candies, frozen
1 2 gal. vanilla ice cream	4 to 5 drops red food coloring
1 2 teaspoon almond extract	1 cup heavy cream
8 to 10 drops green food coloring	1 1/4 cup sifted confectioners' sugar

Line a 2-qt. metal bowl with aluminum foil or plastic wrap. Line bowl with enough cake slices to cover bottom and sides, fitting snugly. Reserve remaining cake slices. Divide ice cream in half; return 1 portion to freezer until ready to use. Combine 1 portion ice cream with extract and green food coloring in large bowl, mixing until thick and of spoonable consistency. (Return to freezer if mixture becomes too soft or slightly melted.) Add candies, stirring only enough to distribute evenly. Combine reserved ice cream portion with red food coloring. Spoon small amounts of each color ice cream into cake-lined bowl, swirl slightly to create marbled effect. Place reserved cake slices on top of ice cream to cover completely. Cover securely with foil; freeze overnight. One hour before serving, unmold onto freezer-safe serving plate. Beat heavy cream with sugar until whipped; frost cake. Garnish with toasted coconut, if desired. Freeze until serving time. Cut into wedges to serve. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

CRISPIE SPECKLED EGGS

1 jar (7 to 7-1/2 oz.) marshmallow creme (about 2 cups)	3 cups crisp rice cereal
1/4 cup peanut butter	1 cup chopped Plain Chocolate Candies
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

Combine marshmallow creme, peanut butter and butter; mix until well blended. Add combined cereal and candies; mix well. With greased fingers, shape to form 1-1/4-inch balls. Form into egg shapes. Place in small paper baking muffin cups. Chill 30 minutes to set. Store tightly covered in refrigerator or in cool, dry place. Makes about 1-1/2 to 2 dozen eggs.

BRAIDED BREAD BASKET

2 pkgs. active dry yeast	2 teaspoons salt
1-1/2 cups warm water (105° F. to 115° F.)	4 to 4-1/2 cups unsifted flour
1-1/2 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened	1 egg, beaten
2 teaspoons sugar	1 tablespoon milk
	Clear shellac
	4 small round wooden picks

Sprinkle yeast over water in warm bowl; stir until dissolved. Add butter, sugar, salt and 1-1/2 cups flour; beat until smooth. Add enough additional flour to make a stiff dough. Knead on lightly floured board 8 to 10 minutes until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl; turn to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place about 45 minutes or until doubled in size. While dough is rising, cut four 10 x 3-inch strips of foil. Place strips on 10-inch wide cooling rack to form a 10-inch square. Invert 1-1/2 qt. glass bowl or casserole about 7-inches wide and 3-1/2 inches deep onto center of foil square. Generously grease bowl and foil strips.

To make basket, punch dough down; divide into 14 pieces. Cover tightly; refrigerate 1 hour. Roll 12 of the 14 pieces into 28-inch long ropes. Reserve remaining 2 pieces for handle in refrigerator. Using the 12 ropes, form 6 twists by twisting 2 ropes together. Wrap twists around bowl, pinching ends of dough together to seal forming a continuous rope; cover entire surface of bowl. Cover with towel; let rise in warm place about 30 minutes or until doubled in size. Brush combined egg and milk on dough. Place wire rack directly on center oven rack. Bake at 400° F. for 10 minutes. Brush again with egg mixture; continue baking 10 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Cool 15 minutes on bowl. Remove basket from bowl; turn right side up on rack. Brush egg mixture on top and inside of basket. Wrap outside of basket with foil to prevent further browning. Bake at 400° F. for 15 minutes or until golden brown. Remove foil; cool thoroughly.

To make handle, invert same bowl, cleaned, onto center of foil square on rack. Generously grease bowl and foil. Roll reserved 2 pieces of dough into 14-inch ropes. Twist ropes together; place over bowl with ends touching foil. Cover with towel; let rise in warm place about 30 minutes or until doubled in size. Brush with egg mixture; bake at 400° F. for 10 minutes. Brush again with egg mixture; continue baking 10 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Cool slightly on bowl. Remove handle from bowl; cool thoroughly.

To complete basket, spray or paint entire basket (inside and out) and handle, with shellac; let dry. Basket is no longer edible. To attach handle to basket, insert two picks on each side 1/2-inch apart into basket at opposite ends. Place handle ends through picks to stand securely. Makes one 13 x 8-inch basket.

This corn bread will make your mouth water

Two words make my mouth water: corn bread. I don't need a plate of soul food or fried chicken to enjoy corn bread. I don't need an excuse to eat it alone, just slightly buttered. When a friend said she had a recipe for corn bread that included sour cream, I coaxed her into making a batch right on the spot — we were in the kitchen. I've prepared several kinds, including one made with olives. But my favorite is baked in a skillet, featuring crumbled bacon and buttermilk. Why not share your favorite recipe with all of us.

SOUR CREAM CORN BREAD
1 cup yellow corn meal
1 tsp. salt
1 can (8 oz.) cream-style corn
1 container (8 oz.) sour cream
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1/2 cup cooking oil
2 tsp. baking powder

Combine all ingredients and pour into greased 2-quart baking pan. Bake in 350-degree oven 25 to 30 minutes, until golden brown. Let cool briefly and cut into 12 serving pieces. SKILLET CORN BREAD

1 cup all-purpose flour
3 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. sugar
1 1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. black pepper
1 cup yellow corn meal
1 tsp. instant minced onion
3 slices bacon
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup buttermilk

In large mixing bowl, sift flour with baking powder, sugar, salt and pepper. Stir in corn meal and onion. In heavy 10-inch skillet, cook bacon until crisp, drain, crumble and stir into mixture. Add eggs and buttermilk, stir just to moisten all ingredients and turn into bacon drippings in skillet. Place skillet in preheated 425-degree oven about 4 inches from broiler, bake about 12 minutes, until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Raise heat to broil, brown about 4 minutes until crusty, remove skillet with pot holder, cut into 8 wedges and serve warm.

Check before using

No package can be considered tamper-proof.

David Woodruff of RJR Archer, a packaging producer, says that protective wrappings, seals or liners made of plastic or foil only serve as evidence that a container hasn't been opened.

Before using a product, consumers should examine packages carefully, asking themselves the following questions:

- Is the package crushed, ripped or damaged in any way?
 - Have wrappings or protective bands been torn or removed?
 - Are the seals intact around or beneath the lids of bottles and jars?
- If in doubt, return the product unused, Woodruff advises.

Speech pathologist Candace Simon works with a Farmington East Middle School eighth grader in the fluency program that won her a state award. RANDY BORST/staff photographer

S-S-Stuttering Approach offers cure for embarrassing habit

By Tom Beer
staff writer

CANDACE SIMON feels about stuttering the way Dr. Walter Reed felt about yellow fever.

Simon, a pathologist who serves the Farmington Public Schools, would like to see stuttering, an embarrassment to millions of children and adults, cured — not just controlled, as the present logic preaches.

Using the relatively new idea of "teaching fluency rather than teaching controlled stuttering," Simon is working with a handful of Farmington students. And she feels that if they'll just do as Simon says, they'll no longer be plagued by his mysterious malady.

"Before, it was, very honestly, a hit-or-miss thing," said Simon, who has spent seven years trying to solve speech problems of Farmington Public School youngsters.

"There was no expert on stuttering. We all took our own case loads, and you were only able to see the stutterers possibly twice a week for 30 minutes in a group situation. It really did not solve the stuttering problem for anyone."

Part of the new regimen involves seeing the stutterers longer (two hours a week) and individually. And the therapy itself has changed.

"The new therapy is teaching fluency, not controlled stuttering," Simon said. Understanding this "new therapy" — called the Stutter-Free Speech Program — means understanding the causes of the problem of stuttering, according to Simon.

THERE ARE AS many theories about the cause of stuttering "as there are speech pathologists to study them," Simon said. But most experts agree that the problem has its roots in early childhood.

"What we can sort of deduce now is that something occurred to the child's breathing pattern at an early age," Simon said. "Every child between the ages of 3 and 5 goes through some kind of disfluent state."

"At that age, they have about 3 zillion words in their brains that they just want to say, but their mouths just aren't old enough to say them. They have the messages they want to get across, but they don't have the coordination to get them out."

Stutterers simply get stuck in that stage, Simon said. Along with the embarrassment comes the fear: "Am I going to be able to get the next word out?"

"Stuttering is when, for who knows what reason, the person . . . cannot get the sounds out," Simon said. "They become disfluent. They start repeating sounds. They start prolonging sounds. And, suddenly, the words get caught in their throats and they can't get them out."

Part of the problem is what Simon calls "the unreliability of it."

Said she, "Sometimes he (for some unknown reason the problem is more prevalent in boys and men) will stutter; sometimes he'll be fluent. It will be like he has no problem."

"But he doesn't know. There's always the thought in his head, 'Will I be able to get the next word out?'"

Often, the problem affects the stutterer's ability to learn, and that's where speech pathologist Simon comes in. She sees many children who can't afford

"The new therapy is teaching fluency, not controlled stuttering." — Candace Simon, speech pathologist private care. If the child can't open his mouth and talk clearly, if he has the anxiety about being laughed at when he opens his mouth to speak, if he's not sure that anything will come out when he tries to talk, of course, he'll have trouble learning."

AND NOW A BIT about the mechanics of speaking. Two muscles vibrating in the throat turn breath into sound. Understanding that is the key to understanding the new therapy.

"With the finest speaker, what occurs is that those two muscles (vocal chords) are vibrating continuously," Simon said. "A stutterer almost never has a problem when he sings because his voice is always on, the muscles are always vibrating."

"When a stutterer talks, because he has these slight pauses between words, the muscles start and stop. It's like turning a light switch on and off."

Successful therapy with the Stutter-Free Speech Program involves "teaching the stutterers to keep their voices going" and increase "breath support" so that they have enough breath to keep the two throat muscles going, Simon said.

THE STUTTER-FREE Speech Program was developed by Dr. David Daley, a Livonia speech pathologist with ties to the University of Michigan, whom Simon calls "the biggest name in stutter therapy in this area." Simon and Daley operate a practice together at 19228 Farmington Road.

Simon applies the same therapy to the adults in her private practice as uses in the Farmington Public Schools. And she's overjoyed when there are successes to report. One involved a patient she had in private practice.

"I had one woman in her 50s say to me, 'Candy, you know what happened to me last night? I was actually able to order what I wanted for dinner in a restaurant.'"

Memorial concert to feature saxophone, piano, soprano

A memorial concert featuring saxophonist Don Sinta will be held next month in memory of Charles (Chuck) W. Heidt.

The concert will begin at 4 p.m. Sunday, May 13, in the Plymouth Canton High Little Theatre. Proceeds of the concert will be used to endow the principal cello chair of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra.

Joining Sinta will be Brian Connelly, pianist, and Connie Barrons, soprano.

Heidt, former president of First National Bank of Plymouth, died at age 46 in January 1983 while undergoing open heart surgery in St. Joseph Hospital, Ann Arbor. Earlier he had spent 14 years with National Bank of Detroit. At the time of his death he was chief executive officer of Document Processing Company, organized in Plymouth and then relocated in Farmington.

SINTA PLAYED for Heidt's memorial service last year.

He was impressed with the Plymouth community and he agreed to perform a special memorial concert, explained Heidt's widow, Connie.

An endowment for the Plymouth Symphony's cello chair was chosen as a memorial, she explained, because: "Chuck discovered the cello as a young boy and an instant love affair took place. He seriously pursued his study of the instrument, including majoring in music at Cass Technical High School. Although a career in business eventually superseded his musical endeavors, Chuck's love of music and, in particular the cello, remained strong."

After a stint with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Sinta became a faculty member at Ithaca College in New York and then at the Hartt College of Music in Connecticut. In 1974 Sinta succeeded his longtime teacher, Larry Teal, as professor of saxophone at University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

An active recitalist and clinician, last

Charles W. Heidt

Tickets for the concert may be obtained at Beitner's Jewelry on Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth for a donation of $25. A patron donation of $100 includes two tickets. Checks may be made payable to the Plymouth Symphony Society-Heidt Fund. The donation is tax deductible.

CONNELLY, a graduate of the University of Michigan where he studied with Gyorgy Sandor and Theodore Letvin, was a first place winner in the first Plymouth Symphony Society Young Artist Competition last year.

Active as a soloist and chamber musician, Connelly performs a broad repertoire of works from Bach to Boulez.

A member of the faculty of the Flint Institute of Music, he has appeared as a guest artist in the Eurotreff, Glen Allen, and SYZYGY festivals.

Ann Arbor audiences are familiar with Mr. Barron's versatile performances from Susanna in the "Marriage of Figaro" to dancing the title role in "Sweet Charity."

Barron has toured with the USO, performing in Thailand and Vietnam, and has sung in Quito, Ecuador. She played the leading role in Berthold Brecht's "The Good Person of Szechuan."

In 1979 Barron sang the premiere performance of "Cree Songs to the Newborn" in Carnegie Recital Hall. The work was written especially for her.

In "A Time For Singing" she linked up with Connelly as he accompanied her on the piano while she sang songs of the '30s.

She has appeared as soloist for the Plymouth Chamber Orchestra, Ann Arbor Chamber Orchestra, and has performed at Toledo Museum, Carnegie Recital Hall, Flint Institute of Arts, Detroit Institute of Arts, Renaissance Center, and at Niagara Falls.

Easter Greetings

The Canton Jaycettes sponsored their Spring Craft Fair April 13 and 14 in the New Towne Plaza at Ford and Sheldon. The Easter Bunny was there too, handing out goodies to the children. The fair featured 25 crafts including silk flowers, folk art, candlewicking, homemade dolls and baked goods. In addition to the craft fair, the Jaycettes also sponsored "Canton's Cutest Baby Photo Contest" with proceeds from this event going to aid Sudden Infant Death Syndrome research. Winners of the contest received a $50 savings bond or savings account, a Care Bear and free dinner for two at Mr. Steak or Steve's Restaurant in Canton.

The Jaycettes organize two craft fairs each year and are involved with numerous volunteer organizations in the community and state. They recently voted to change their name to the Canton Jaycee Women. They are a leadership training organization open to any young woman ages 18-35. In the picture above, Jaycette President Lana Olson holds up a sagging ear of the Easter Bunny. They are riding in Santa Gene Reeve's 1982 Cadillac convertible.

Benjamin Franklin designed many of the devices and vignettes used on the Continental currency notes and printed currency for the colony of New Jersey. He was so busy making paper money that he inserted a Want Ad in the Philadelphia Pennsylvania Gazette in 1736. Berberet outduels Hawks

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

Plymouth Salem's formula for success so far this young baseball season has been simple: outstanding pitching and timely hitting.

The Rocks used that formula Wednesday to win their third straight game, taking a 3-2 decision from Farmington Harrison.

Senior Rick Berberet provided the pitching for the Rocks, while Ken Harmon and Scott Anderson provided the timely hits.

The game, played on a brilliant spring afternoon at Salem's park, featured an interesting duel between two tough pitchers — Salem's Berberet and Harrison's Bob Wasczenski, a transfer from Plymouth Canton.

Berberet is an imposing and intelligent pitcher. His 6-foot-6 frame is intimidating, but what makes him doubly effective is his ability to spot his pitches. He moves the ball in, out, up and down with excellent control and good velocity.

WASCZENSKI IS completely different. He throws with major league velocity. Where Berberet will finesse you, Wasczenski will flat-out blow it by you. But, Wasczenski's control is shaky and that's what led to his downfall Wednesday.

Berberet threw 111 pitches to Wasczenski's 120, and down the stretch, Berberet was the stronger pitcher.

Berberet allowed six hits, one walk and only one earned run. He struck out eight. Wasczenski went 6 1/2, allowed four hits, walked four, hit one and allowed two earned runs. He fanned six.

"The difference, really, was that Waz had to throw more pitches than Berberet," Salem coach John Gravlin. "Berberet just keep getting stronger as the game wore on. He had a super day, as did Kenny (Harmon) and Scott (Anderson)."

Salem scored the winning run in the bottom of the sixth inning. With the score tied 2-2, Anderson led off with a line-shot double up the alley in left center.

GRAVLIN TOOK a chance and let Tim Robinson swing away instead of having him sacrifice the potential go-ahead run to third. Robinson flied out to center field for the first out.

But Harmon, the next Rock hitter, rescued Anderson from second with a rope to right center. It was Harmon's second hit of the day and both were shots.

Harrison threatened to tie the game in the top of the seventh, thanks to some daring strategy by coach John Herrington. With two out, Brian Smolinski got his second hit off Berberet. With the count 1-2 on Scott Gliniski, Herrington flashed the steal sign to Smolinski — while the Hawk crowd held its breath, Smolinski slid safely into second and the tying run was in scoring position.

Berberet, ahead of Gliniski, made no mistake and got the hard-hitting senior to pop to third.

"Basically, I was pleased with our performance," Herrington said. "Our defense was good and the pitching, overall, was good. Our hitting is weak, that's going to be a problem for us."

HARRISON SQUANDERED several opportunities to put the game out of reach. After a walk, two wild pitches and a throwing error by Wasczenski allowed Salem to go ahead 1-0, the Hawks rallied for two in the second.

Canton hit parade buries Vikings

Most area baseball teams have found the hits hard to come by so far this young season.

Not the Plymouth Canton Chiefs.

The Chiefs opened their 1984 campaign Wednesday burying Walled Lake Central in a flurry of base hits. They scored five times in the first inning and skated to a 7-1 victory.

"We hit the ball hard and often, and with that I was fairly pleased," said

baseball

Canton coach Fred Crissey. "We only had four hitters strike out and a minimum of four line-drive outs that were hit right at someone — and those kinds of things have a tendency of evening out."

Jim Dillon and Tim Collins led the 13-hit Canton attack banging out three hits apiece. Dillon had a double while Collins roped a double and a triple. Jeff Wittner had two hits including a lead off double in the first that ignited the Chiefs' five-run outburst.

Wittner doubled. Sean Goulet singled him to third and John Longridge singled to score Wittner. Collins then tripled in two. After Dillon was hit by a pitch and moved to second on a fielder's choice, Dan Martin singled to knock in the fourth and fifth runs of the first inning.

SCOTT FORD was the starter and winner for the Chiefs. He worked the first four innings and gave up one run on just two hits. He walked two and struck out five. Buckley Blake finished for Canton, working three no-hit innings.

The Chiefs added insurance runs in the third on a double by Collins and a single by Dillon; and another in the seventh on a double by Dillon and single by Mark Kinsel.

The Chiefs host Farmington today.

Chiefs whip Dogs, Rocks fall

The Plymouth Canton girls track team showed strength in virtually every area in its season opener Thursday against Livonia Bentley, winning the meet easily, 77 1/2-50 1/2.

The Chiefs got good performances in the field events, the sprints, distance events and the relays — when you can get that kind of balance, you'll win track meets.

Carolyn Nagy had a big day. She won two individual events and anchored two first-place relays. She took first in the high jump (4-11) and the 440-yard dash (1:07.09).

Nagy teamed with Kim Wood, Lori Schauder, and Jennifer Gansler to win the 880-yard relay in 1:59.4. She then teamed with Wood, Gansler and Cheri Remer to win the mile relay in 4:41.4.

girls track

Remer got the Chiefs a big win in the 110-yard high hurdles with her time of 18.89.

In the sprints, Kim Bennett took the 100-yard dash in 12.61 and Wood won the 220-yard dash in 29.19.

Marie Jarosz and Tory Barger came through in the distance runs for Canton. Jarosz ran a 6:15.5 to take the mile run and Barger went 13:38.7 to win the 2-mile run.

Michele Adams pulled a first place out of the long-jump event, earning a 14-3/4.

Canton also won the 2-mile relay with Barger, Mary Kay Pavol, Jan Alvarado and Jarosz competing (time was unavailable).

Canton will try to make it two straight Wednesday as they host Livonia Churchill.

PLYMOUTH SALEM would just as soon forget about its season opener.

The Rocks opened against powerful Dearborn Wednesday without the services of co-captain Dawn Johnson. Johnson, a four-event standout for the Rocks, injured her hip and could only compete in one relay.

As a result, Dearborn ran past the Rocks 90-38.

The other Rock co-captains, Kelly Bemiss and Mary Beth Weast, provided the Rocks with most of their points. Bemiss won the long jump with a 15-10 1/2 and Weast won the 440-yard dash in 1:05.2 and took second in the discus with a toss of 92-0.

Weast and Bemiss combined with Nancy Smith and Johnson to win the 880-yard relay in 1:52.5.

Trish Donnelly provided the only other first for Salem, winning the 2-mile run in 13:09.0.

Johnson is expected to be out of action at least a week. She'll miss Salem's meet at Livonia Stevenson tomorrow.

Salem wins in final relay

It all came down to the final event — the mile relay.

Karl Gansler, Marc Tindall, Jeff Arnold and Brian Neuhardt — competitors who had kept the Plymouth Salem boys' track team in contention throughout Wednesday's meet against powerful Dearborn — came through again.

The quartet combined for a 3:41.12 in the mile relay to give the Rocks a 69-68 win in their first meet of the season.

"It's always nice to beat a team like Dearborn," said Salem coach Gary Balconi. "They have always had fine teams. We've only beaten them twice in the last 10 years."

THE ROCKS got some outstanding individual performances:

• Mike White. The speedy junior won three events for Salem. He won the long jump with a 20-4 1/2, and he won both hurdles, the 120-yard high (15.87) and the 330-yard low (41.14). He also gave the Rocks a lift by placing second to teammate Erich Hartnett in the high jump. Hartnett went 6-0.

• Neuhardt. Besides anchoring the mile relay, the freshman also won the 100-yard dash (10.55) and the 220-yard dash (41.14).

boys track

• Gansler. The co-captain won the 440-dash in 53.92, plus ran legs on the victorious 880-yard and mile relay teams.

"We had some fine individual performances, but really it was a total team effort," Balconi said. "It came down to the mile relay, but had we have missed any points along the way, we'd have lost the meet."

Balconi praised the efforts of his tri-captains, Arnold, Tindall and Gansler, as well as White and Neuhardt.

Salem's 880-yard relay team — John Nelson, Gansler, Rob Schoenburger and Tindall — won with a 1:36.65.

Doug Spencer took first in the discus with a toss of 131-6.

The Rocks will host Livonia Stevenson Tuesday. It will be the Rocks first Western Lakes dual contest.

TRACK NOTES: Other scores around the Western Lakes: Farmington 76, Livonia Churchill 61 (Churchill's Dave Mize won the discus with a throw of 165-11); Farmington Harrison 110, Liv. Clarenceville 27.

Park kickers' fun spoiled by N'ville

It was a relatively easy week, with one exception, for the Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem girls soccer teams.

On Wednesday, Canton routed North Farmington 9-1.

Lisa Russell led the offensive blitz with four goals. Kim Reeves added two and Kendra Whitely, Beth Frigge, and Kelly Lowers tallied one apiece.

Margie Wangbichler, Lisa Goff, Carol Kleinsmith, Nancy Gray, Lori Engel, Elaine Geisler and Lowers each added assists.

Alice Shobe contributed excellent midfield play for the Chiefs.

It was a little different story for the soccer

Chiefs on Friday. Northville handed the Chiefs their first loss in a hard-fought 4-2 contest.

Whitely and Russell scored for Canton. Reeves earned an assist.

The game was played primarily in the midfield. Northville got 12 shots on goalie Carol Kleinsmith, while the Chiefs countered with just eight on the Northville netminder.

"It was a very physical game," said

Canton coach Mike Morgan. "I was a little disappointed in the referee set-up. I thought if there was more control we might have been in a better position to win the game."

Only one referee showed up to work the game.

Beth Frigge played an outstanding game in the midfield for Canton.

The Chiefs (2-1) travel to Farmington today.

Rock bats boom in opener

Three runs in the first inning, seven in the second and the Plymouth Salem girls softball team was off and running. When the dust cleared from the Farmington Harrison diamond last Wednesday, the Rocks had defeated the Hawks 15-4 in its season opener.

"Salem, boy, they can really hit the ball," said Harrison coach Mike Teachman. "Right through the order, they all hit the ball hard."

The Rocks pounded out 13 hits off

softball

two Hawk pitchers and were the recipients of 12 walks.

Denise Tackett led the Rocks' hit barrage with three including a triple and three RBI. Cindy Runge, Leslie Culver and Patti Maslak contributed two hits apiece. Maslak knocked in a pair of runs with a double.

Sue Carlson got the win for Salem, pitching a complete game, allowing nine hits and two walks. She struck out three.

Michele Vogl (1-1) took the loss for the Hawks. Kim Geiar, Sandy Turnquist and Karen Sklar each had two hits for Harrison.

Collette Cashin had a big day behind the plate for Harrison. She gunned down three of the four Rocks who attempted to steal off her.

The Rocks will host Walled Lake Western today and Livonia Stevenson Wednesday.

Rocks beat Hawks

A walk to Mike Colovos and a double by DJ Murray set the table for Mike Inch who blooped a single over Salem's drawn-in infield to score Colovos. With runners on second and third, Berberet had Inch picked off second. Murray broke for the plate from third and Rock third baseman Tom Moore's throw sailed over catcher Anderson's head - 2-1 Harrison.

The Hawks stranded five men in scoring position between the second and fifth innings. In the fourth, they had runners on first and second with one out, then second and third with two outs, but failed to score.

the runners with a ground out, Pat Walsh came through with a single to left.

GLINSKI SHOWED his powerful left arm again in the sixth. After the Rocks scored the go-ahead run, Gliniski relieved Wasczenski and struck out the two batters he faced.

"It was a nice game for us," said Gravlin, who has his team 3-0 in his first season. "We've won three one-run, late-inning games now. Those things can really build our confidence. I'd like to see us score more runs though."

It was Harrison's season opener. "I'll tell you, this league (Western Lakes) is going to be tough," Gravlin said. "I don't see any weak links. I'm real glad we don't play Harrison again. They are a good team."

Benjamin Franklin designed many of the devices and vignettes used on the Continental currency notes and printed currency for the colony of New Jersey. He was so busy making paper money that he inserted a Want Ad in the Philadelphia Pennsylvania Gazette in 1736. "The Printer hopes irregular Publication of the Paper will be excused a few times by his Town Readers, on consideration of his being at Burlington with the Press, laboring for the Publick Good to make Money more plentiful."

Briggs' choice angers Smokey Gaines

By Brad Emone
staff writer

Carlos Briggs woke up early Thursday morning and decided he would attend Baylor University.

That was after the nation's leading scorer had spent a tumultuous night trying to determine where he should take his basketball talents.

"When I left his house Wednesday night he was going to San Diego State," said elated Baylor assistant coach Joe Proctor. "I was told to catch the earliest flight home. When the head coach (Jim Haller) hears about this, he's going to hit the floor."

Briggs, who put Schoolcraft College on the map with his extraordinary ability, signed a national letter-of-intent with Baylor Thursday in the office of Schoolcraft President Richard McDowell. (Baylor is in Waco, Texas.)

"I was seconds away from signing with San Diego," said Briggs, a guard who averaged 33 points per game this season. "I had the pen in my hand."

THE STAR GUARD changed his mind when Proctor intervened Wednesday night at the Briggs home in Detroit. Proctor asked Briggs "for 15 minutes of his time," according to Schoolcraft coach Rocky Watkins. After the two had met privately outside his home, Briggs returned inside and informed San Diego coach Dave "Smokey" Gaines that he wanted to wait until Thursday morning to sign.

Gaines flew in Wednesday from the Tulsa, Okla., anticipating the signing of Briggs, but left with a blank form. He was just short of fuming.

"When he (Briggs) came out after talking with Proctor, he was a totally different kid," said Gaines. "I passed up a trip to Hawaii to meet with some NBA general managers concerning Michael Cage (San Diego's All-American forward) because he (Briggs) said he wanted to come and was ready to sign. He called my assistant (Mike Brunker) at 5 (a.m. Wednesday) in the morning."

"I'm not knocking Baylor, but tell me to come to town and then choose them over us — that's the worst situation I've had to deal with in 13 years of coaching."

"I've gotten players like Moses Malone, Kenny Carr and Ennis Whatley to visit where I've coached and even though they didn't come, we've maintained a good relationship. This really hurts me."

SAN DIEGO is currently on probation by the NCAA for recruiting violations. The school was prohibited from playing in any post-season tournaments this season and TV appearances were restricted.

"The reason why I chose Baylor was because of what they wanted for me after basketball was over," said Briggs, a Benedictine High School product. "They'll see to it that I'll get my degree, even after basketball. The job opportunities were also a factor in my decision."

Briggs, interested in communications and business, narrowed his choice down to four schools — Baylor, San Diego State, Iowa and Central Michigan.

He politely turned down Iowa after head coach George Raveling failed to make a visit this week to the Briggs' home in Detroit.

Haller visited Briggs and his family on Sunday. Proctor, meanwhile, made trips to see Briggs on three different occasions.

"When I first saw Carlos play (at the state tournament), I saw the talent and I couldn't believe it," Proctor said. "I liked him as a person and it's going to be fun coaching him."

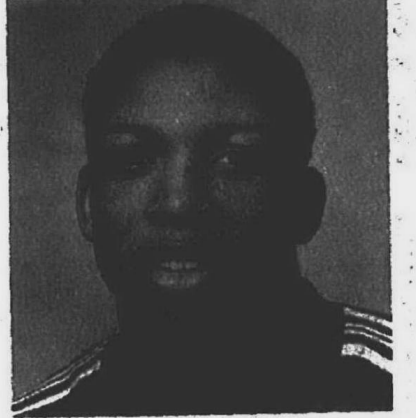

PROCTOR SAID that Briggs, a 6-footer with great speed and leaping ability, is going to fill the point-guard slot.

"He kind of reminds me of Vinnie Johnson (ex-Baylor star now with the Detroit Pistons), but he's better with the ball in his hands," Proctor said. "I think he'll do tremendous things for us. People will come out to watch him play."

Baylor, a member of the tough Southwest Conference, suffered through an 8-23 season.

On Wednesday, Baylor signed three high school players including Johnson's brother Eric, New York City's Player of the Year; and Frank Williams, a 6-9 forward, and Michael Williams, a 6-1 guard. Both are from Dallas. But Thursday's catch may have been the biggest of all.

Bentley cage star picks EMU

By Brad Emone
staff writer

Jim Boyce may have found a diamond in the rough.

On Wednesday, the Eastern Michigan University basketball coach signed Livonia Bentley's 6-foot-8 center Phil Graczyk to a national letter-of-intent. The All-Observer pick made his decision Monday. It was then announced publicly by Bentley coach Tom Niemi at the team's awards banquet on Tuesday night.

"I was recruited mostly by Division II schools, but I wanted a chance to play Division I," said Graczyk, who averaged 17 points and 17 rebounds per game for the district-champion Bulldogs. "But I didn't want to go to one where I would be overlooked."

That's why EMU fit the bill. "We needed some size," said Boyce, who just completed his fifth season. "We got in on Phil late. It was only the last three weeks that we contacted him."

"We liked the fact that Phil can run, handle the ball, jump and face the basket. He's definitely a Division I player and can play in the MAC (Mid-American Conference).

"I'm going to play him next year. We're not going to red-shirt him. The sky's the limit."

BOYCE has recruited the Observer & Eccentric coverage area heavily during the past two years.

Last season, EMU signed O&E standouts Mike McCaskill of Southfield, Lewis Scott of Redford Bishop Borgess, Paul Grzulis of Westland John Glenn and Stan Heath of Redford Catholic Central. Heath and Grzulis were red-shirted (sat out) last year.

"I've made some mistakes, recruiting-wise, in the past," Boyce said. "I'm going after a different kind of kid. I've got smarter kids to fit what I want to do. Before, I was only looking at the slam dunkers."

Scott, an honor student like Graczyk, had a part in the Bentley center's decision.

"There was a lot of influence by the players," said Graczyk. "They were all really friendly, and they have good players in every way."

"I liked the facility and the coaches. Right now I'm leaning toward computers or something in the business field."

PODIATRIST

TREATING ATHLETE'S FOOT

QUESTION: I have a wicked case of athlete's foot that I can't seem to shake. I've tried everything: washing frequently, changing my socks two or three times a day, and various foot powders. What else can I do?

ANSWER: First of all, you have to determine if what you have is REALLY athlete's foot. Psoriasis or certain bacterial infections may display some of the same symptoms. Your podiatrist can easily discover whether or not you are suffering from the fungal infection known as athlete's foot. The doctor may then prescribe proper medication, plus effective foot hygiene. In addition, excessive foot perspiration often aggravates the condition, for which specific medication can be prescribed.

Another winery comes to Napa

And still the new Napa wineries come. Ten years ago there were fewer than 50 of them. Today something in excess of 125 are bonded producers.

The newest names are today just names: Dunn, LaJota, Boswell, Cain, Pina Cellars, Sage Canyon, the list goes on. Five years ago there were such names that are today well-known and respected: Buehler, Duckhorn, Pecota, Flora Springs, Grgich Hills, Pine Ridge, Acacia and more. Ten years ago we did not know Burgess, Domaine Chandon, Diamond Creek, Chateau Montelena, Sterling, Raymond.

The American competitive system at work!

Occasionally, one of the new wineries bursts upon the scene and, almost overnight, is established and placed in the market. This usually can occur when certain conditions are present — wine of great quality, strong promotional effort and good pedigree being most important.

Recently, another Napa winery has burst forth.

CHATEAU BOUCHANE is in the cool region of Southern Napa known as the Carneros, home of some of the best chardonnay and pinot noir grapes in all of California. Some months ago Bouchane released a 1982 sauvignon blanc, and the wine has received excellent reviews. But it is for pinot noir and chardonnay that the winery is to be known. Bouchane will, in time, reach some 6,000 cases of chardonnay and twice that of pinot noir.

Tasted recently at a promotional event were the two 1982 chardonnays, one from Napa, the other from Alexander Valley. The former was a full, complex, muscular thing, well worth its projected price (in the $15-$17 range). The 1981 pinot noir, from the esteemed Winery Lake Vineyard, is a deep, earthy wine that well fits the classic definition of great burgundy, "character with politeness."

Bouchane is clearly aimed at the market its neighbor Acacia now holds. In my judgment, based wine

on three samples, Bouchane has succeeded, especially with the pinot noir.

If brains, talent, money and ambition lead to success, and the combination is tough to beat, Bouchane is a name worth learning now. It is here for the long haul, with a technically excellent winery facility, marvelous grapes, lots of money to promote itself, and, most essential, one of the best winemakers in California, Jerry Luper.

HE HAS MADE his mark the last 12 years with but two stops: Freemark Abbey and Chateau Montelena. When he joined Bouchane two years ago it was certain something would happen there. Luper is top-flight and makes one fine wine, and chardonnay is his favorite white ("It has the least natural fruit flavor of all the noble whites and because of that it is a winemaker's wine").

There is yet another facet of the Bouchane saga, one seen by some as even more significant. At the same facility, beginning with the 1982 crush, Jerry Luper also has made a cabernet sauvignon, one designed to be marketed under his own name as a private reserve.

The wine, also tasted recently, is a lovely thing with lush fruit and soft tannins. Early indications are that this will be a highly esteemed wine when it is released.

But the most unusual aspect of this release is the marketing strategy that Luper has adopted. The wines will only be sold as a three-vintage package from the winery, two cases of each. Customers, then, will need to "futures" buy six cases at $180 the case, paid for over three years covering the '82-'84 vintages. The subscription package is set up through retailers across the country. Half of it has already been sold.

WHILE BOUCHANE wines will all in time be Estate Bottled, the Luper cabernet grapes will come from Rutherford, a blend of cabernet sauvignon and cabernet franc. The location is perfect: Rutherford is the home of the Beaulieu Latours, Inglenook Cask and Joe Heitz cabernets.

Bouchane and Luper (plus all that money), a most promising team.

Rick Springfield makes his motion picture debut as rock 'n' roll star Jamie Roberts in "Hard to Hold."

the movies
Dan Greenberg

Newest teen entry misses on all counts

The plague of summer teen movies, with heavy emphasis on rock music, hit early this year as Hollywood moved to take advantage of record attendance. "Hard to Hold," which may not make it to May, is a new entry in the box-office sweepstakes.

The film lacks the extended music and dancing sequences that make "Footloose" successful. The early run at box-office success of "Police Academy" ($20 million in 10 days) shows that audiences appreciate fast-paced comedy. "Hard to Hold" doesn't compete in that arena.

Rather, the movie is a dreary attempt to win the affections of teen rock music enthusiasts with semi-soft rock music that won't offend adults who also dig old-fashioned romantic musicals. Old-time romance and rock music don't fit in one package.

The closing 34 minutes (it seemed longer) was such slow-paced, boring romantic melodrama that I was ready for the closing rock number, ready to clap and dance in the aisles to release boredom's frustrations.

BUT THE NUMBER was over before I hit the aisle. Back to my seat and the closing moments of maudlin melodrama.

The story is older than the movies. The traveling man meets the girl in residence. This time it's rock star Jamie Roberts (Rick Springfield) madly in love with special ed teacher Diana Lawson (Janet Eiber). They have a rapturous affair after he smashes her car (they have to meet somehow) and she becomes convinced he doesn't have herpes.

But there are complications. He's already got a girl in the band, songwriter Nicky Nides (Patti Hansen), and teacher Diana is attached to her father, Johny Lawson (Albert Salmi), a widower and longshoreman who wanted to go down to the sea in ships but stayed home in his cups to raise his daughter. Naturally, she can't leave home to go on the road with her hero, even after Dad dies.

So there you have it, friends, Dimestore Freud at its worst. Of course, rock star Robert's romantic agony upsets his music and the show doesn't go on. His lovesick posturings continue as Nicky Nides wants to play music and bedroom but James Roberts only has eyes for Teach.

That creates a bit of dramatic tension, but not enough to hold audience interest. Rick Springfield may have a spot in the Top 40 but his future as a romantic lead in movies seems dim, even if better material is available.

JANET EILBER manages to rise above Plot No. 101. She looks and acts the charming San Francisco lady, a la Gene Tierney, and creates as much character as possible under the circumstances.

San Francisco, by the way, with its posh street and cafe scenes, is an unlikely place to set such a film. Certainly rock stars play S.F. and stay at the Fairmont but that marginal sophistication is insufficient to attract mature audiences, particularly when the film's conventional romance is so simple-minded.

Simple-minded, even maudlin romanticism, of course, was not the intent. Director Larry Pearce claims "Hard to Hold" is a romance set in America's most romantic city. But it comes across much like a letter to Dear Abby, one she was wise enough not to answer.

As a rock musical "Hard to Hold" lacks enough musical presentation to interest rock fans. There are only six minutes of actual concert performance plus some rehearsal sessions and a new-wave-club sequence. Concert numbers were done in the Los Angeles Sports Arena with more than 10,000 spectators at a free concert staged for this film.

All that effort wasn't worth the final result and "Hard to Hold" is easy to leave.

Patti Hansen is Nicky Nides, a songwriter who is the rock star's ex-girlfriend.
