Police union protests chief's resignation

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

Plymouth Police Chief Ralph White's resignation has touched off a battle between the ranks of the department and city hall.

The Plymouth Police Officers Association (PPOA) Monday night charged that City Manager Henry Graper forced White's demotion. The union asked the city commission to reinstate White.

Announcing White's resignation Friday, Graper said the chief requested to be returned to the command ranks because of the stress related to the chief's position. He said the move wasn't a forced demotion.

"Ralph asked to be relieved and I accommodated his request," Graper said.

White declined comment on whether Graper's account was correct.

"Let's just put it this way, it was part of a working agreement I had with Mr. Graper that at his discretion or at my discretion I could return to my last comparable position," White said.

Did township review play in White's move?

"I will remain as acting head of this agency until a new chief is hired or for 60 days, whichever comes first," he said.

SPEAKING AT Monday night's regular commission meeting, union president Mike Gardner pointed to the police service contract with Plymouth Township as the source of problems.

"The time has now come for the residents to clearly understand the relationship between the township and the city of Plymouth regarding police protection," Gardner said.

Currently the city and township are in the second half of a two-year contract for shared police. The township's $467,000 a year contract with the city ends next July.

Gardner said the contract was supposed to benefit the department while eliminating duplication and reducing costs.

"The results of the contract, in reality, are less police officers, double the workload, lower department morale and no direct leadership from one police chief," he said.

"Ralph White is the named police chief, but in reality has little or no authority."

Gardner accused Graper of saying Township Police Chief Carl Berry "still runs the police department."

Graper denies Gardner's account of their conversation.

"I never made the statement that Carl Berry still ran the department. I just said that Carl Berry administered the contract," Graper said.

Gardner believes the comment quite possibly led to White's resignation. The union president said he passed the comment along to White.

"Why would we want to make this up? What reason could we possibly have had to lie? It's just that we will not be victimized anymore," he said.

ALTHOUGH WHITE refused to comment on the reasoning behind his resignation, a recent review of the contracted services by the township may have been a factor.

"A traditional policeman sometimes has trouble managing contracts and has trouble accepting someone sitting down and evaluating their department," Graper said.

The city manager recently met with Township Supervisor Maurice Breen to review the police service.

"I have had some discussions with Maurice as far as some things we are doing or not doing, but those discussions take place on a three month basis anyways," Graper said.

The discussions take place on a continuing basis, according to Breen.

"In the most general terms you say it is a performance review," Breen said.

How did the department fair?

"As always, they're doing their job," Breen said.

GRAPER CONFIRMED speculation

Monday that he may appoint a director of public safety instead of a police chief.

"I am in the process of writing the job description now. I think anyone who is interested in the job better be willing to live with the concept of public safety, as well as being directly involved with contract management," he said.

The city manager believes that with White stepping down and with the fire department having an acting chief, "now would be the proper time for a public safety director."

He plans to ask the city commission for a decision, for or against public safety, in the near future.

Former Fire Chief Roy Hall coordinated the writing of a public safety plan for the city prior to retiring.

Graper said he has talked to the township about public safety.

"Maurie said as long as it doesn't affect the contract there wouldn't be any problems."

Local delegates offer opinions on Ferraro

By Tim Richard
staff writer

SAN FRANCISCO — To many, a woman on the Democratic ticket was cause for cheers.

But what do Michigan delegates to the Democratic National Convention have to say about U.S. Rep. Geraldine Ferraro, the third-term lawmaker from Queens who is to be Walter Mondale's vice presidential running mate?

Several area representatives who worked with Ferraro on congressional committees offered their assessments of her.

"Hard-headed common sense," was the description offered by U.S. Rep. Sander Levin, D-Southfield, whose 17th District includes Redford Township.

"Bright. Peppy. Imaginative. Sensible. She has a sense of commitment based on day-to-day realities."

"There wasn't a lot of theory in her life. It's day-to-day practicality," Levin said.

Levin, in his first term in Washington, served with Ferraro on a committee which produced a pair of books on House Democratic policy. "It was heavily relied on by congressional candidates," he said.

"THEY WOULD love her in my district," said U.S. Rep. William D. Ford, D-Taylor, whose 15th District includes Garden City, Westland and Canton.

"She would run well. Her district is like mine — blue collar working class. They might have been a little afraid of Diane Feinstein (San Francisco mayor)."

As chairman of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, Ford worked directly with Ferraro, who was a member and subcommittee chairwoman. "She worked to protect federal employees' health and pension benefits from Reagan budget cuts," he said.

"If they're waiting to see a flippy caricature of a feminist, they're wrong. She gets things done. Not posturing. She gets things done."

"She's much like (Lt. Gov.) Martha Griffiths. There are other women in Congress who talk more but who get less done. Martha Griffiths worked 20 years to maneuver ERA through the House, and nobody every thought of her as a radical feminist," Ford said.

Congressional Quarterly, a magazine watchdog over Congress, characterizes Ferraro as "a brassy, irreverent woman... (who) gravitated to women's issues."

FERRARO'S VOTING record is rated in the mid-70s by Americans for Democratic Action and the high 80s by the AFL-CIO.

Two educator-politicians, Gail Nolin of Pontiac and Keith Geiger, formerly of Livonia, said, "I didn't know that" when told Ferraro had voted against creating the U.S. Department of Education.

But Geiger, former Stevenson High teacher who is now a vice president of the National Education Association, thought he had an answer.

"Where does she come from? New York. The American Federation of Teachers (which organizes New York City schools) was opposed to the establishment of the Department of Education. I don't think her vote reflects on her commitment to education."

"I SERVED with her in Congress," Gov. James J. Blanchard said with undisguised pride.

"I personally solicited her vote on the Chrysler loan package, and she gave it, unhesitatingly," said Blanchard, former 18th District congressman from eastern Oakland County.

Conceding Ferraro lacks Republican Vice President George Bush's diplomatic credentials, several Michiganders said she makes up for it in other ways.

"Experience is a funny thing," said Mondale delegate Alan Heimkamp, a Livonia lawyer. "She's had some experiences that Bush can't offer."

Mary Ryan Taras of Birmingham, a Mondale delegate, agreed. "One dealt with the United Nations (Bush). The other juggled family, career and politics."

"Philosophically, she believes in the kind of things I believe in," Taras said.

REP. DENNIS HERTEL, D-Harper Woods, whose sprawling 14th Congressional District includes part of Troy, is impressed by her efficiency.

"She's kind of independent. Not a doctrinaire liberal."

"She's done a lot of work on senior citizens problems," said Hertel, who served with her on the Select Committee on Aging.

"She's very nice, very well organized, very much to the point."

"She's not a speechmaker. She's an inside player. She's very efficient in how she uses her energy."

Hertel said the Mondale staff contacted him last month on potential running mates. He gave them the names of Geraldine Ferraro and Rep. Lindy Boggs of Louisiana.

Hertel was also impressed by how Ferraro took the pressure of publicity during the weeks her name was under consideration by Mondale.

"It was an intense period. She held up well. I asked her in the cloakroom, 'Isn't it a lot of pressure?'"

"She said, 'I love every minute of it.'"

Hertel credits her with being able to change her mind quickly when she has been wrong, before the results can be embarrassing.

One example came when she chaired the platform committee and suggested that the campaign document be so bland that it need not include the Equal Rights Amendment. The second came when she offered to let her name be used in case Mondale selected a man and feminists tried to nominate a woman from the floor.

Both times Ferraro changed her mind within hours, he said. Mondale would have looked better if he had been able to change his mind so quickly on the choice of Bert Lance as Democratic national chairman, Hertel said.

This could be it — the final agreements for the $110 million Son of Supersewer project. But chances are its just another hurdle.

The Wayne County Department of Public Works recently sent out documents billed as the final service agreements for the North Huron Valley-Rouge Valley Wastewater Project.

Public works director Duane Egeland requested communities sign the 26-page agreement by July 27 to insure 75-percent federal grant funding for the massive sewer project. Construction must start by Oct. 1 to obtain the 75-percent funds.

But a lawsuit filed by Canton and Plymouth townships threatens the grant funding, as well as the entire project. The townships are seeking repayment for money they pumped into the original Supersewer plans, and assurances that the Son of Supersewer project will work.

Those legal proceedings started earlier this month in Wayne County Circuit Court. Judge Sharon Finch gave the townships until Monday to amend their pleadings to clarify some language.

Settlement of the lawsuit is needed before either the north or south Huron (a scaled-down version of Supersewer for downriver communities) projects can be built.

WITH THE litigation pending, Canton Township trustees delayed action on the service agreement last week.

Plymouth Township trustees will have the agreements on the agenda for their July 24 meeting.

If signed, the agreements commit the municipality to the sewer project — both for construction and use after completed. As far as construction costs, estimates place Canton's share at $8.9 million and Plymouth Township's at $1.9 million.

Geraldine Ferraro, flanked by Walter Mondale and Bella Abzug, waves to the crowd at a fund-raiser for women candidates during the Democratic National Convention.

Signing for Supersewer

Lawsuit may postpone construction, threatens grants

More important than the cost estimate is the percentage figure assigned to communities, because the costs may run higher. In that event, Canton would be assigned 27.48 percent of total local costs and Plymouth Township would be obligated for 5.93 percent.

User cost figures, reflecting how much residential and commercial sewer bills will increase once the system is in use, are being calculated by both communities.

Once completed, the sewer system would provide an additional 28.10 cubic feet per second (cfs) capacity for Canton and 13.23 cfs for Plymouth Township. The existing capacities for Canton and Plymouth Township are 14.37 cfs and 9.6 cfs, respectively.

One fear, expressed by Canton Trustee Robert Padget, is that federal grant money may run out before the project is completed — especially because the project has been broken into three phases.

"If the federal money is approved for phase one and two, and not for three, are costs shared so that we all participate equally in the blessing of federal dollars so that we don't get left holding the bag?" Padget said.

"Yes," said Canton finance director Mike Gorman. "Everyone will pick up a percentage of the final phase, should we be without federal money."

IF THE agreements are signed by all 17 participating communities, and the lawsuit is resolved, the project theoretically would be ready to construct.

The two townships reportedly are close to a settlement with the defendants, which includes several downriver communities (proceeding with the south Huron project), Wayne County, and the state of Michigan.

"They have met many of the assurances we wanted," said Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen. "The only two things left are the return of Supersewer planning money, and secondly, assurances from the city of Detroit that they can treat the additional capacity."

The additional sewage lines will be connected to the Detroit wastewater treatment plant.

"We've insisted that everything be in writing," said Canton Township Supervisor James Poole. "We're not home yet, but it looks like we're rounding third. If we have all our answers, we might be able to make a decision."

"At last the taxpayers in Canton and Plymouth townships will know what they are getting and how much they have to pay for it," Poole said.

"It boils down to, 'Hey folks, we aren't going to join your little toilet society until we know how much it costs.'"

AN ATTORNEY for Brownstown Township, one of the defendants, said they will request an accelerated hearing so both the north and south Huron projects can be started.

As long as the litigation is pending, Brownstown attorney William DeBiasi said bonds can't be sold for either project — thus jeopardizing the construction starting deadline for federal grant funds.

"We're sympathetic to what happened with Canton and Plymouth townships when Supersewer was split into the north and south Huron projects," he said.

"It's a problem, but we don't want to be screwed because of their problem is what it boils down to."

Both projects face the Oct. 1 starting deadline. Otherwise the 75-percent federal funding will be reduced to 55 percent.

"The reduction to 55 percent would increase the local share and make it almost impossible for the communities to handle it," DeBiasi said.

CEP students participate in Middle East drama

The Arab-Israeli conflict recently became a living experience for 15 Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP) students and their teacher, Robert Thams of Plymouth Canton High School.

Through modern computer technology students at Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem high schools were linked with students from 13 other Michigan schools to stimulate the political behavior of nations involved in the Middle East crisis.

Students were cast in the roles of world leaders and were given the chance to make political and diplomatic decisions which created and shaped the simulated course of Middle East affairs.

The students, who participated in the simulation during April and May, were organized in school teams. Each team represented a country involved in the conflict.

Students played the roles of high level officials and in these roles engaged in diplomatic negotiations as they worked toward their country's goals.

Edgar Taylor, director of the "International Conflict Simulation" project, and other faculty at University of Michigan School of Education provided materials and guidance for the exercise.

WSU sets registration

Wayne State University (WSU) will hold early fall registration from Monday through Wednesday, Aug. 1, in the Administrative Services Building, located on Cass south of I-94 in Detroit.

Registration hours will be 8:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. on Mondays and Thursdays, and 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

WSU will not raise tuition rates this fall except for medicine and law students. There is a reduced tuition rate for students who are 60 or older.

Day and evening classes will be held at centers in Birmingham, Southfield, Southgate, Detroit, East Detroit, Sterling Heights, and at the main campus in Detroit's cultural center.

Students should first call the Registration Office at 577-3550.

'Life is what you make it' is creed of elderly

By W.W. Edger
staff writer

When you reach age 95 the remainder of your life can be anything you make it.

That, at least, is the opinion of the three oldest residents of Tonquish Creek Manor who report they are enjoying these days along the historic old creek.

This trio includes Mrs. Ella Mae Fisher, Mrs. Alberta Mae Crum and Mrs. Betty Vernon who are looking forward and not doting in their oncoming years.

Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Crum have been residents of the Manor since it opened 14 years ago while Mrs. Vernon has been a resident for only two years. But life for them goes in a most interesting way.

Mrs. Fisher enjoys all of the activities at the Manor, but enjoys spending most of her time with a good book or looking at television and seldom leaves the building.

"I enjoy my reading," she said, "and a good book is like a good friend. And I enjoy the television to keep up with the activities in the world.

"I have no desire to visit the business district. I go out only when it is necessary. Instead I am very comfortable here and the pleasant surroundings make life all the better at my age."

Mrs. Crum is the most active of the trio and never misses a chance to be of help — even to serve the other residenis during the coffee break. She also retains a good sense of humor that she developed in her home area of Pittsburg where she was head of a society at the University of Pittsburgh.

"When you use my name in the paper," she cautioned, "please don't a 'b' at the end of my name. My husband never liked that when he was living."

Mrs. Crum came to the Manor in an unusual way. She was on a visit with some friends and when she visited the Manor she liked it so much she arranged to become a resident and has been there since it opened 14 years ago.

"I don't see any sense loping around here, just wondering what is going to happen, so I just get into every activity we have. And the programs are just fine. In fact, I am enjoying every day of my life and hope to continue in that fashion.

Mrs. Vernon, who enjoys her old age, and is a devotee of the card games, said that she likes the Manor because the heat bothers her and doesn't put her in a mood to greet visitors.

But when the heat subsides, she lives very quietly, hoping that the time will come when she gets acquainted with the other residents and can engage in the activities that keep them interested.

There are all manner of activities, indoor and out, and one of the most favorites is the church service every Thursday night.

These services attract most every resident and many of them look forward to them with the hope that the prayers will aid them the rest of life's journey.

West anticipates eventual one-city

By W.W. Edger
staff writer

"I won't live to see it and neither will you, but the day is coming when the Plymouth community will be one big city."

The speaker was Joe West, Plymouth Township treasurer who is retiring from his position at the end of the current term.

He had just looked over the report of the building departments of both the township and the city and, noting the growth of the township and its prospects for the future, he emphasized, "It's bound to happen because we can grow and the city can't."

FOR YEARS there have been many discussions of linking the two areas into one for supposedly the benefit of all, but nothing ever came of them.

Now, with the recession and so-called "damaged economy" improving the subject has come up again and West is certain that it is bound to happen.

"It all hinges on the tax bills," West explained. "It is certain that the township will have to raise its tax rate to take care of the population growth and handle the other areas that will make up the city."

"By the same reasoning," he continued, "the city, because of its smaller size, will have to lower its taxes to compete with us. When that happens and the tax rates are about the same in each area, there will be no reason to remain separated."

He intimated that he would like to live long enough to see the two areas combined and thus end much of the debates that take place at times.

ON THE SAME day West talked of one-city, Supervisor Maurice Breen in his office predicted that the time was not too distant when the township will have a population of 50,000 — almost four times what it is today.

And with that increase there will not only be residential growth, but industrial and commercial growth will take place.

Breen pointed out that the township is ideally situated with expressways both east-west and north-south and that there is plenty of attractive property available.

When asked about the possibility of one big city encompassing the entire Plymouth area he just smiled his now famous wry smile.

Louie Norman of Plymouth shows the sign he made for the new Plymouth Salvation Army Corps headquarters.

Lou Norman completes another 'labor of love'

By W.W. Edger
staff writer

Living in retirement has been anything but boring to Louie Norman who spends most of his time in the small carpenter shop behind his home on Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth.

He enjoys nothing better than doing special jobs for government buildings and is always willing to offer his services when any organization needs help.

Many of his works of art are seen on the Cultural Center where he helped Clarence Moore set up the Plymouth Hall of Fame. It has drawn comment from all of those who have seen it, because it is so different. He also helped with the building of Main Street in the Plymouth Historical Museum and that was a man-sized job for he and Moore. But they did it — and on time.

For his own pastime he recently carved two wild turkeys for decoys when he goes hunting up north. And when he has them prepared and painted for outdoors, they look like real wild turkeys in his yard.

His latest work has been installed at the new home of the Salvation Army on S. Main Street in Plymouth and it already has caught the eyes of the passers-by.

This offering is a huge identification sign with lettering also was done by Norman.

When he talks about these things he smiles and simply says, "It was a labor of love."

On these summer days when he isn't occupied in his carpenter shop, he takes great pride in recalling the days when the land around his home, and as far as one could see, was farmland. He knows every nick and corner of the area and can reel off the names of the people who owned the lots.

As he reels off the names, he can tell you who bought the lots and when they were sold.

But it is work in the carpenter shop that helps him from becoming bored — except for the time he spends during hunting season with his wild turkey decoys in northern Michigan.

One of the features of his wooden art work is that nothing is too large or too small. He enjoys repairing drawer of a cabinet just as much as he glories in carving a turkey decoy.

And aside from his work his greatest pleasure comes from the fact that the various organizations and members of the centers are well pleased with his contributions.

The Plymouth Salvation Army is the latest and Capt. William Hartson was one of the most pleased as he wanted something out of the ordinary for the new building.

He got it.

And Norman made it in the little carpenter shop in the rear of his home to help him escape the boredom of retirement.

O'Neill seeks nomination for county commissioner

Hugh Patrick O'Neill of Livonia is seeking the Republican nomination to the Wayne County Board of Commissioners from the 10th District.

The district includes Livonia, Plymouth and Northville.

O'Neill is the president of A-Alert Security Services Inc. of Livonia. He has lived in Livonia for 27 years. He graduated from Catholic Central High School and attended University of Detroit. For 10 years, he served as director of civil defense and chief of the auxiliary police in Livonia.

In a press release announcing his candidacy, O'Neill said his business experience will bring a "long overdue business perspective to the board of commissioners."

"I ALSO BELIEVE there is a need for a new voice in county government with a business background and ability to make the hard business decisions needed to control cost and improve efficiency," stated O'Neill.

"The new charter has introduced new problems that require innovative and aggressive leadership to resolve. My experience and background will allow me to act on these issues in a highly constructive manner for the benefit of the communities of western Wayne County."

O'Neill said residents in the 10th District pay too much in taxes and get too little in services.

"A spokesman is needed to carry the suburban torch to the county board," O'Neill said.

O'Neill said the two most important problems facing Wayne County are Wayne County General Hospital, and ending waste and inefficiency in county government.

O'NEILL SAID the board needs to work with the chief executive to avoid duplication of efforts, overlapping job assignments and other unnecessary and costly inefficiencies.

He believes residents older than 65 who have paid taxes in the county for at least 20 years should be exempt from county taxation.

O'Neill is president of the Birchwood Farms Civic Association. He is a member of the Knights of Columbus, the Livonia Heart Fund, Polak-Legion of American Veterans and Holy Trinity Shrine of the Green.

O'Neill will face off in the Aug. 7 primary against incumbent Mary Dumas and challenger Elaine Tuttle. The winner of the Aug. 7 race will face Laura Toy, a Schoolcraft College trustee who is unopposed in her bid for the Democratic nomination from the 10th District.

Burglar tries to kill woman

Police are investigating an attempted murder, assault and breaking and entering that occurred in the 7500 block of Thornwood early Sunday.

Ella Marie Fisher, 32, is reported in critical condition at an undisclosed hospital. Her husband Charles Fisher, 43, was taken to Oakwood Hospital Canton Center where he refused treatment for head and leg injuries, according to Canton acting-Lt. Alex Wilson.

Mr. Fisher, 43, told police he found his wife tied up and gagged with tape, lying face down on the floor of their Canton home shortly before 2 a.m., of-ficers said.

Police have no suspects and know of no motive in the case.

Mr. Fisher told police he was in bed in his home near Warren and Napier roads when he thought he heard his wife returning from work about midnight. He said he went downstairs to investigate when he was hit on the head from behind. When he came to, he realized he'd been tied up, Fisher told police. After releasing himself, Fisher went downstairs, found his wife and called police.

Mrs. Fisher was given oxygen and transported to Oakwood Hospital Canton Center. After her condition was stabilized, she was transferred to a full-service hospital. She was comatose as of yesterday.

The chances of her regaining consciousness are thought to be slim, according to police. "She had been deprived of oxygen for a considerable amount of time because of the tape," Wilson said.

At the scene, Canton police collected evidence that is being analyzed at the Michigan State Police crime lab.

Mr. Fisher, a microbiologist, reported his truck missing from the driveway after Sunday's incident. Detroit police officers later recovered the vehicle, which is being checked for fingerprints at the Canton police station. The truck's ignition is intact, Wilson said.

The Fishers recently moved to Canton from Mississippi. They have been married for five years.

Cyprus Gardens owner decides to call it quits

By Margaret Neubacher
Staff writer

Steve Stylianou called it quits last week.

After nine years in the restaurant business here, Stylianou is broke and discouraged.

His Cyprus Gardens Restaurant, in Harvard Square Plaza at Ford and Sheldon roads, was the first sit-down ethnic restaurant to open in Canton in 1976.

The restaurant, specializing in Greek food, quickly became an established gathering place for local politicians and service organizations, police and firefighters.

"Business was good for the first couple years," said Stylianou, who then was able to move his wife and five children to a new house in Canton.

But a combination of factors were working against Stylianou and his business began losing money.

Today Stylianou is $150,000 in debt.

His Canton home has been foreclosed and he often has had utilities turned off at his restaurant after failing to pay bills.

Stylianou, 39, is frustrated by his failure because what eventually drove him out of business is something he had no control over, he says.

"I'm making a big thing out of this because I want other small businesses in the township to sit up and take note," said Stylianou, who is unsure about his next move.

THE GREEK-BORN Stylianou came to America in 1968 after graduating from an international cooking school in England. After serving as chef for eight years in the Athena Cafe and Town Grill in Dearborn, he ventured out on his own.

"I came to Canton hoping the area would grow," recalls Stylianou, who remembers Canton being primarily undeveloped farmland at the time.

He signed a lease with New York's Ahyman Management Co., which said his would be the only restaurant in the Harvard Square Plaza.

When the business started, Stylianou offered both restaurant service and banquet facilities, live music and happy hour specials.

"I advertised in local papers, the yellow pages, and was in Metro Passbooks. I settled down here and got involved in the community," Stylianou recalls.

But despite those efforts, his business began to slump.

"Looking back now I feel unlucky coming to this shopping center," Stylianou said.

"The owners of this plaza have done nothing to promote business here," he continued. "With no promotions, little business and rents that are too high, shops have gone out of business. I've lost track now of how many."

Geri Hames, manager of Radio Shack, also in Harvard Square, shares many of Stylianou's sentiments about the management.

Radio Shack and Cyprus Gardens were among the first businesses to sign leases in the Harvard Square, which has space for 36 stores.

"This place has been a big question mark since the day it opened," said Hames. "There are storefronts that have never been leased and a lot more that have become vacant over the years."

STOREFRONTS ON either side of Cyprus Gardens have been vacant for the past 3 1/2 years.

"There are two other businesses here that may close soon," Hames said.

Kroger, the largest store in the Square, may not last long either. The grocery store chain, currently negotiating a contract with union employees, has threatened to pull out of the state unless large wage concessions are made.

Hames hints that Radio Shack is considering other locations in the area.

Both Hames and Stylianou agree that business can be good in Canton. "Business in the K mart Plaza across the street is booming. Their parking lot is always crowded," Stylianou said. "Looks like you could land a plane in our parking lot."

There are other explanations for the demise of Cyprus Gardens, now called Steve's Place.

Bob Malek of the Canton Chamber of Commerce points out that the restaurant business is among the hardest to survive in.

"The competition is tough," Malek said. Stylianou did battle with a restaurant in Kroger's, K mart and Meijer's Thrifty Acres just down the road. The Baker's Square eatery and a Chinese restaurant also opened in Harvard Square. In addition, a variety of fast-food and chain restaurants line both sides of Ford Road.

Dave Markosky, owner of Hair Safari on Ford Road, blames the failure on Canton business people.

"The restaurant closing hurts all of us. I feel businesspeople in Canton don't look out for fellow businessmen. A little more of that and we wouldn't have closings like Steve's," Markosky said.

Stylianou blames the local government officials.

"Why have they allowed other shopping centers to get started without paying attention to what's going on here?" asked Stylianou.

About 65 percent of Canton businesses are retail, according to Malek.

"It's tough for the small retailer wherever they are. A lot of residents here shop outside of Canton," Malek said.

Two hundred friends showed up Sunday at Steve's to say their goodbyes and wish Stylianou well.

"It was a very sad thing for me," Stylianou said. "I really like the people here and I'm sorry to leave."

Police seek armed rape suspect

Police are searching for the man who raped an 18-year-old Plymouth Township woman while holding her at gunpoint Friday evening.

The man grabbed the woman as she closed up her home for the evening, shortly after 10 p.m.

The man, armed with a blue-steel handgun, pushed his way in as the woman closed the door to her house, located in the subdivision between Sheldon, Canton Center, Joy and Ann Arbor Trail.

According to police reports, the man said, "Don't scream or I'll shoot you."

The suspect then took the woman into a bedroom and raped her, while pointing the gun at her, police said. He fled on foot.

The man was described as white, in his late teens to early 20s, 6-foot 2-inches, thin muscular build, tanned skin, bleach blond hair (short on the top, above the ears and collar length in the back), blue eyes, sunburnt nose (somewhat turned up), wearing a gold cross earring in his right ear, a dark T-shirt, jeans, and red high-top tennis shoes.

The woman also said the man had a slightly deformed or flat left ear, grease under his fingernails and a dark mole on his left lower side.

Anyone with information about someone meeting the above description should call Plymouth police at 453-8600.

Baseball weekend: It's all in the cards

Baseball fever is raging. But it's not all at the corner of Michigan and Trumbull.

A different kind of fever can be experienced this weekend at the 15th annual Sports Collectors Show at the Plymouth Hilton. It is better known as a baseball card convention.

If you've never been to one, you're missing something. Anyone with any interest in baseball will have a great time.

For a modest $1 you will be admitted to the ballroom of the Plymouth Hilton. You will find dealers standing behind rows of tables with all their wares displayed. The Plymouth show is the largest held in the Middle West every year.

Dealers will be trading/selling much more than baseball cards. They will have uniforms, bats, balls, jerseys, magazines, programs, posters, hats and schedules.

Most dealers are friendly and willing to share their expertise. Sure some are trying to make some money to cover their expenses in attending, but most are in it for the fun.

SO WHY DOES someone get involved in sports memorabilia collecting?

Take Harold Bussey, an optometrist and president of the Southfield School Board. His conservative appearance belies his sports fanaticism.

Of his extensive baseball collection, he says, "It is my tranquilizer. It is my source of relaxation from pressure."

Bussey is going to take off work Friday and will arrive at the show at about 11 a.m. Twelve hours later he hopes to have some new bats, balls and uniforms to add to his collection.

"I enjoy talking to the dealers since I only get to see most of them once a year," he said.

Of the 400-some dealers who will be in Plymouth, Bussey said about 350 are doing it as a hobby. For the remainder, it's a fulltime business.

"If a kid came up to 90 percent of the dealers and said he didn't have any money but wanted a card, they'd give the kid the card," he said. "Most of them are like me — they're losing money but having a great time."

"I live for the day when I will receive a call and a voice will say, 'I've got a Ty Cobb bat in my basement. Would you like to buy it?'"

THE PLYMOUTH convention will be my third. I have a son who is an avid baseball card collector.

I must confess he doesn't have to do much arm twisting to talk me into taking him. I collected baseball cards about 30 years ago. Unlike most adults I never threw my cards away.

Baseball card collecting is very different today than when I was a kid. I used my cards extensively by playing imaginary games and memorizing every word on the back. I remember one game where I would flip my cards against a wall. Another boy would do the same. Whoever flipped his card on top of the other boy's would pick up all the cards.

Today it's more sophisticated. Baseball cards are considered an "investment." Books and magazines are published telling collectors the value of every card.

A valuable card must be in mint condition, meaning no dented corners nor writing on the back. No kid today would play games with his cards like I did. Kids today collect entire "sets", or every card put out in a year. They can buy a new set for $16-17 and not have worry about collecting cards by individual packs (15 cards for 30 cents now, 7 cards for 5 cents in my day).

I'm glad I collected cards in a more relaxed time. Some kids today talk like investment advisers: Should I put my money in market certificates or baseball cards?

But no matter what era, collecting baseball cards has always been fun. That's why I'll be at the Plymouth Hilton this weekend.

Much ado about not much

SAN FRANCISCO — Talk about an elephant giving birth to a gnat, and you have this week's Democratic National Convention.

Ditto the 1984 Republican National Convention. Ditto 1976 and 1980 national conventions.

This is not to belittle the august nominees. Rather, it is to suggest that the parties don't need a week to do a half-day's work.

CONSIDER THE sheer size of this week's conclave in San Francisco — something like 4,000 delegates. That is little more than the number of delegates who will attend the Michigan Democratic State Convention in Detroit next month.

But the Michigan Democratic State Convention will adopt a platform and nominate candidates for the state Supreme Court and eight educational posts — 10 in all. Two years ago they also nominated candidates for lieutenant governor, secretary of state and attorney general — a platform and a total of 13 candidates. And the state convention did it all in two days.

Their inefficient national convention, however, is eating up four days to nominate two candidates and adopt a platform. At this writing, the result is a foregone conclusion.

Tim Richard

Republicans will send 3,000 delegates to Dallas for a week to nominate two candidates, and again the result is a foregone conclusion. At the state level, however, the same number of delegates will pick 10 candidates on a Friday night and a Saturday in early September, but the process will be exciting, and the results in doubt.

UNTIL THE 1950s, national conventions were truly deliberative affairs, with vote-trading and job-promising. It often took a full week to do the work.

No more. Today primaries, computer tallies and the high cost of running a campaign assure the field will be pared down to one no later than the end of June.

Why, then, hold a weeklong convention to do the job a weekend convention could handle?

In this high-tech age, there's no need even to bring 3,000 or 4,000 delegates, 12,000-15,000 newspeople plus assorted hangers-on and lobbyists together at a cost of $60 million (the hotel where the Michigan delegation is staying costs $180 a night, advance payment mandatory, no refunds upon cancellation). Instead, delegates could go to their state capitals, hear nominating speeches by television, vote by pressing a button — and get it over in a single afternoon.

And they could forget the platform because, while it stirs a lot of debate, no one reads platforms one day after they're adopted. Anyway, the platform is not what the committees and delegates say it is; the platform is what the nominee's pollster, research staff and speech writer say it is.

WELL, YOU will answer, aren't conventions spectacular television shows?

Not any more. The parties would like them to be, and pander to TV crews in the most fawning way. They would like gavel-to-gavel, prime-time coverage of their orations, intelligent or indifferent. But they aren't getting it.

The networks are declining to be the conduits for propaganda and are cutting off the orators for floor interviews. The viewers are switching to sports and R-rated cable movies, anyway.

We really ought to do away with this antiquated extravaganza.

discover Michigan by Bill Stockwell

DID YOU KNOW that early settlers in Detroit who wanted land to settle on went northward on Military Road, which is now Woodward Avenue? Traveling as far as what is now McNichols, they reached a well-known inn run by an unattractive woman known as "Mother Handsome." To go further was to encounter deep mud and quicksand, so the travelers stayed at the inn. They preferred even "Mother Handsome" to the perils of early Michigan.

September is month for Tiger predictions

THESE ARE the days when The Stroller pays the penalty for having been a major leagues baseball writer during his travels along the journalistic highway.

It seems no matter where he goes — even in church — he is asked, "What about those Tigers?"

And every time he is asked, his thoughts go back to the days when the late Frank J. Navin, one of the smoothest of all baseball owners, was the head man of the Detroit baseball club.

Navin was a gambler — from horses to baseball players — but was regarded as one of the smoothest operators and always kept a cool head, no matter what was taking place on the field.

IF HE WERE living today and were asked, "What about those Tigers?" he no doubt would answer, "I'll tell you in September."

He never took any long chances. Even though the present Tigers seem to have the edge in the vital statistics, he would never let you know that he thought they would win. He always would say, "See me in September . . ." meaning when the baseball season was nearing its finish.

And he very seldom missed. He had the uncanny ability to beware of taking things for granted — an ailment that has gripped many of the baseball fans at the moment.

The Stroller was impressed with Frank J. Navin from their first meeting. It was in the stadium before a game, and Navin asked what he thought of one of the visiting outfielders.

"He's another Ty Cobb," this visitor said.

Navin just grinned and answered, "See me 30 years from now."

What he meant was simply that Ty Cobb, the greatest of all the Tigers, had been a star for more than 30 years, and no youngster ever should be compared to Cobb in his first couple times around the circuit.

OF ALL the outfielders who were compared to Cobb as having a chance to reach all-time stardom, two were members of the New York Yankees: Joe DiMaggio and Mickey Mantle.

It so happens that, on the side, Navin one day murmured to a friend, "They could make it if they are lucky."

Well, they had the luck, and their names will live long in major league baseball. But for the present Tigers, The Stroller feels like Navin and always answers, "See me in September."

When the Tigers got away to the fantastic start this spring, he was reminded of one of Navin's choice remarks: "All trains look fast going by poles."

WITH THE seven-game lead the Tigers had as the second half of the season got under way, they could play 500 ball and still win the pennant — unless something unusual occurs. It looks just that simple.

But with two ailing pitchers and the loss of a star outfielder, luck seems to be breaking against them.

So, with that in mind, when The Stroller is asked, "What about those Tigers?" he must borrow Navin's pet saying, "See me in September."

At least that's playing it safe.

DEMOCRATIC political conventions aren't what they used to be. Ever since the process of electing delegates was reformed and since primaries took over as the main mechanism for selecting candidates, the conventions have become boring affairs.

Where are the intrigues, the deals, the hastily formed coalitions of power brokers? Where are the bosses who commanded entire delegations and were courted by office seekers as if they were majestic potentates?

Where is the likes of Boss Richard Daly who kept presidential aspirants on pins and needles as he controlled the entire Illinois delegation with a few baleful stares? Where is the sinister Carmine de Sapio with his dark glasses injecting his Tammany Hall influence into major decisions?

CONVENTIONS used to be dominated by men, longtime political workers who knew the score and when to switch sides. The outcome was often in doubt. Now the Dem convention is half women and it seems like every other delegate is a teacher from somewhere. The pragmatists are losing ground to the idealists. The results are preordained.

In the old days Cronkite, Huntley & Brinkley and Chancellor pointed out the major domos of power in each delegation. The explanations, the maneuvering, the lessons in political science went on from morning to night.

Bob Wisler

The conventions are now so boring that TV only bothers to cover a few hours at night. The candidates are known before the convention begins. Their lives have been detailed in every newspaper and magazine in the country.

And still the news organizations feel we should know more. The news people outnumber delegates almost three to one. Time on the convention floor is limited. The reporters have to scramble to even get near delegates. They end up interviewing each other and telling us what newspaper reporters think of San Francisco.

Conventions no longer serve the purpose of selecting candidates and forging platforms. They are held only to provide demonstrations. The party hopes that its staged demonstration will coalesce momentum behind the candidates, that party loyalists will feel compelled to work hard for the candidates, that independent and mind-not-made-up TV viewers will get a favorable impression of the candidates and the standard they bear.

EVERY GROUP, organized or not, realizes innately the potential for staging its own demonstration within the major demonstration. We have had the spectacle of the anti-war demonstrations at the convention in Chicago and now demonstrations of gays demanding a rightful place within the party spectrum.

The trends will continue. Perhaps the next Democratic convention will have more flash and even less substance. The future is in candidate selection by primaries. One super primary day could select the standard bearer of the future.

The winning presidential candidate will interview a select list of 100 VP candidates. The candidate will then announce another woman. There's no going back now.

Of course, there will be greater pressure on the part of gays for their rightful place and perhaps demonstrations by a coalition of minority groups — Hispanic, defrocked ministers, clerics for peace, etc.

There will be more TV cameras and reporters tromping over each other to interview delegates and even less success. Newspapers will report even more trivia about convention halls, telephone lines, hotel accommodations, problems encountered by themselves and other reporters.

The spectacle will continue. The majority of the public will continue to prefer night-time soaps to watching a political convention. The networks will oblige the public. Majority rules. It is the Democratic way.

Why 4 days? To put it all together

Work, fun, pageantry, bonding

By Tim Richard
staff writer

SAN FRANCISCO — Even if the Mondale-Ferraro outcome of the Democratic National Convention seems cut-and-dried, there's a lot of work to do, local delegates say.

"It's important for the party to be together," said Laurence Deitch, Birmingham attorney and Mondale supporter.

"I'm very active in fund-raising, and I have a lot of meetings and planning sessions to attend here," said the 36-year-old-at-large alternate.

He and other delegates acknowledge it's technically possible to hold a national convention in a single day through electronic communications. It's even possible delegates wouldn't have to leave their home states to cast votes for presidential nominees and on platform planks.

But they are emphatic they don't want to do it that way. They like the four-day national convention.

FOR MILLIE Rowison, Redford Township delegate for Gary Hart, the platform is all important.

"War and peace. The nuclear freeze. Defense spending. That's why I came," said the long-time Booster Club member and unionist.

Rowison said she would vote for the minority planks offered on the convention floor — four by Rev. Jesse Jackson and one by Sen. Gary Hart, Mondale's unsuccessful rivals for the presidential nomination.

"I'm going to vote for all — with gusto," said the peppery delegate, who refused to list her age on the party's biographical form.

As she sat through a two-hour caucus of the Michigan delegation Tuesday morning, she made no speeches. But on her left arms was a blue ribbon — her clear statement that she supports a freeze on nuclear weapons.

And without a national gathering, she might not have had a chance to attend San Francisco Mayor Dianne Feinstein's party for delegates — "such diversified music and entertainment."

DONALD TUCKER, attending his fourth convention, said it is still wise to schedule a four-day convention, even though it has been decades since it took more than one evening to nominate a presidential candidate.

"It's very foreseeable there could be a lot of fights. You have the presidential nomination. There's a real possibility a convention could not be so well defined as this.

"You'd have the vice presidential nomination afterward.

"There's the structuring of the Democratic National Committee to be done.

"There's the platform. It could be a lot of test votes for candidates.

"In a close convention, there could be fights over credentials and even rules.

"We didn't know two years ago (when the convention was planned) there would be no fights. Who knew?"

At 37, the Franklin Village resident is a national convention veteran. In 1972 he was McGovern chairman for the state; in '76, a Udall alternate; in '80 a Kennedy delegate and member of the rules committee; and this year, for the first time, he is backing the winner, Mondale.

"IT'S PAGEANTRY. It's like opera," said Mary Ryan Taras, Birmingham teacher and Mondale delegate from the 18th Congressional District.

"These delegates have all come here because they went through a political process," she said, gesturing to the 3,900 other Democrats cheering former President Jimmy Carter's Monday night address.

"The Democratic Party is broad-based. This (convention) is part of the bonding and commitment."

THERE ARE bread-and-butter kinds of business to do, too. The Michigan delegation had visits from two members of the Mondale family — wife Joan and son Ted.

"Your vote for Walter Mondale meant the world to us," said Mrs. Mondale. "We made a profound step forward with the Michigan vote."

The former vice president had just been beaten in the New Hampshire primary by Sen. Gary Hart, and there was fear his campaign, despite its strong organization, might falter.

"I will never forget the trip to Michigan the day after the New Hampshire primary. I went to Dearborn. There were 600 women there. You believed in Fritz Mondale, and you let me know it," said Mrs. Mondale as she received an almost unanimous standing ovation from the state that gave her husband a 5-3 victory margin in the March 17 presidential preference caucuses.

She said the Mondale children and the Ferraro children all want to take time off from college and other day-to-day life to campaign for the Democratic ticket this fall.

The Michigan delegation loved it.

His wife, Linda, is the daughter of Stanislaw and Helen B. Samsonow of Forest Street in Plymouth.

● RECEIVES HONOR

Air Force Airman 1st Class Jimmie D. Lovelady, son of Sharon Lovelady of Porteridge in Canton, and Jerry W. Lovelady of Westland, has been chosen outstanding administrator of the year for the Strategic Air Command.

Lovelady was selected in competition among contemporaries for exemplary duty performance and military professionalism.

Selection was based on job knowledge, leadership abilities and management of resources. Also considered were military standards of dress, appearance and conduct, self-improvement in furthering education, and involvement in community programs.

He is chief clerk, Headquarters Squadron Section with the 4392nd Aerospace Support Group.

● NEW ASSIGNMENT

Air Force Sgt. Michael R. Dallago, son of Yvonne and Roy Dallago of Oregon Trallin Plymouth, has arrived for duty at Andersen Air Force Base in Guam.

Dallago, a jet engine mechanic with the 43rd Field Maintenance Squadron, was previously assigned at Reese Air Force Base, Texas.

THOSE 18- TO 21-year-olds who have been unable to find summer employment may be unaware that Michigan Youth Corps jobs are available — immediately available, that is.

Residents of the Plymouth, Canton and Northville communities are eligible to participate in the state-funded project which is financed by labor and education in a 50-50 ratio.

Regulations stipulate that the Youth Corps people work only for non-profit organizations. There is a ceiling of 32 working hours a week on the Monday through Thursday jobs. The pay is set at $3.25 an hour.

There are indoor and outdoor jobs available with parks and recreation departments, libraries, school board offices. A Youth Corps employee may be doing maintenance work on a golf course or clerical work in an office.

The positions have been arranged by the local corps office at Plymouth Salem High School. For more information, call Kevin Stemberger at 451-6254, between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday-Friday.

It's not big pay but, in six or seven weeks, students should be able to accrue a nice little nest egg before they go back to school. And all the placements are local.

A NUMBER OF young people from here spent two weeks in the beautiful Manistee National Forest north of Muskegon. They were furthering their musical skills at Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp at its first summer session. While they were in camp, baritone William Warfield was there for a concert.

Concert-goers will recall his appearance with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra a few years ago. For many, the highlight of his guest appearance was hearing his incomparable rendition of "Ol' Man River."

The first camp was primarily for middle school students. In attendance were: James Gross, orchestra major, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gross; Jason Kraynek, orchestra major, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Kraynek; Joyce Odom, dance major, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Odom; Tamara Hechlik, band major, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Hechlik; and Emily Zinn, orchestra major, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Zinn.

DIANE KIMBALL opened the Plymouth Community Arts Council's noontime music-in-the-park series. She entertained with her hammered dulcimer from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 18, providing a pleasant interlude of music for those who eat their lunch in Kellogg Park.

Diane said the dulcimer, often considered native to the Appalachian hill country, goes back thousands of years to Persia.

"It has cousins all over the world," she said, adding that it was predecessor of the piano.

She played folk songs, Irish ballads, popular and some classical music in her mini-concert for the Kellogg Park brown baggers.

Diane's interest in the dulcimer prompted her to invite other folk musicians to join her. The group has grown in membership and they meet in each others' homes. Sometimes they have as many as eight or nine people.

Among the regulars are young Don Davies, whom she describes as a whiz on the banjo. The versatile Art Durow, science teacher at Plymouth Salem High School, plays banjo, mandolin, bass and harmonica. Judy Plester, music teacher at Central Middle School, plays the fiddle.

"The last time we met, we did 'Swing Low, Sweet Chariot,' and we sounded good. We've been invited to do our first gig — at a picnic," Diane said. And she has been asked to play at a friend's wedding.

MEG RUBY of Plymouth attended the first session of the University of Michigan's All-State Program at Interlochen Arts Academy. At the closing concert, Meg heard the good news that she had been awarded a scholarship to return next summer to the All State piano program.

AAUW officers

Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women has elected officers for the 1984-85 season. Pat Dunbeck, recording secretary, standing left, is recording secretary; Ann Neiswander, treasurer; Nancy Vernon, treasurer; Barb Greanya, program vice president; Marilyn Johnson, seated left, corresponding secretary; and Diane Coleman, membership vice president.

50 years of love in bloom for Feduses

By Marie McGee
staff writer

DORIS FEDUS doesn't remember the first time her husband Rudy donned the black beret that has become his trademark.

But after 50 years of marriage, things can become a little fuzzy.

What she does remember is that her life with Livonia's most famous gardener has been far from dull.

In fact, there were times when the excitement was more than she could bear.

The pun is intended because one of the incidents involved a bear — a 300-pound black bear that threatened them and two of their youngsters while they lived in a small trailer in the wilds of northern Michigan in the early days of their marriage.

"Rudy — in his bare feet and pajamas — went out in the night and shot it after it came too close to the trailer," she said.

"I can still hear the roaring sound of that dying bear. I'll never forget that sound," she said.

ANOTHER ONE of those almost-too-exciting incidents occurred in the wilds of Peru cruising down a murky tributary of the Amazon River with its swift currents, whirlpools, sudden waterfalls and schools of piranhas.

A terrified Doris Fedus pleaded with the Indian guide piloting their boat — who was intent on racing with another boat — to slow down. "I was so afraid we were going to tip over. I didn't think I was going to get back alive," she said. Later they fished for the man-eating piranhas, using a bird the guide shot as bait.

She still shudders when she recalls the wild bus ride through the Andes mountains on that same trip. The view was breathtaking, but so was the sheer drop down the mountainside from any point of the narrow mountain road. Traffic was supposed to be one way, but ever so often a big truck would show up, she said, forcing the bus to the cliffside of the road.

"Never again," she vowed.

Both incidents are part of the 50 years of a marriage that began back in the Great Depression when both were students at Eastern Michigan University. "Only it was called Michigan Normal in those days," she said.

Both were studying to become teachers — she of early elementary grades and he in fine arts.

"I had a date with Doris' sister Erna, but she got ill so she sent Doris," recalled Fedus. He returned the favor by introducing Erna to a fellow classmate, Arnie Kangas. Eventually they all married — the Feduses on July 6 and the Kangases within a few weeks of them.

IN FACT, some of the fun of the Fedus' 50th anniversary celebration was shared by Erna and Arnie Kangas as well as the two sisters' brother Chrispen Hammond and his wife, Eleanor of Northville. The Hammonds were also married about the same time.

The celebration was in Petoskey where two of the Fedus' three sons, Andy and Bill, reside and operate a large printing business. A third son, Conrad, lives at home and is employed by the state. Their daughter Sally lives in Ann Arbor where she is a vocational rehabilitation coordinator for the state of Michigan.

Some of Doris Fedus' adventures stem from her daughter Sally's four-year commitment to the Peace Corps. Together the mother and daughter have toured Bolivia and other parts of the world when Sally left South America for an assignment as assistant to the director of the Peace Corps in the Philippines.

MEMORIES OF the early days of her marriage still are vivid to Doris Fedus. The Depression made it impossible to get a job, she said. Instead, she worked in the drug store that her father owned for 50 years on Michigan Avenue in Detroit after she graduated.

The Depression also made it impossible for her husband to find work as an art teacher. Instead, he took a job in the St. Ignace area as an educational advisor with the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC).

The couple moved into a home-made trailer in the wilderness near Newberry. The first two years brought Andy and Bill.

"I had to melt snow to give the children a bath," she recalled. "Then I would use the water to scrub the floor. I'd wash diapers and then carry them down to the lake (Perch) to rinse them."

The other two babies followed when the couple returned to "civilization." All four children are a year apart and were born on succeeding months of January through April.

THEIR MOVE to Livonia hardly brought an end to "roughing it." It continued as the couple built their own home on Lamont Street in the southwest sector of the city.

Fedus, by that time, was employed as a hydraulic journeyman with the Ford Motor Co. He designed and built the brick home on three acres and slowly turned a sandy trail dotted with wild strawberries, sumac and sand burrs into a paradise of rare flowers, trees and shrubs.

A self-taught horticulturist, Rudy Fedus has achieved statewide recognition for his volunteer work in gardening at Cranbrook in Birmingham and at Greenmead in Livonia.

"It was like camping out again," she said, of those early days when the house was being built.

Ironically, she added, "We pay more taxes for the property today than we originally paid for all 18 lots."

Her husband dug the basement himself and scrounged for building supplies. The windows, for instance, in their living room, she said, are beveled glass beauties from the old Masonic Temple in Detroit.

When her children became school-age, Doris Fedus decided to do something with the state-limited degree she had earned from Eastern. It meant going back to Wayne State University to upgrade her skills.

"I don't know how I did it," she said. "I was teaching, going to school nights, studying — and taking care of a family and that included ironing about 30 shirts a week."

HER FIRST teaching assignment was at now closed Stark Elementary School. That was followed by about 20 years at Rosedale Elementary where she taught kindergarten.

The pace has slowed since her retirement in 1972 — but not a whole lot.

She keeps busy with hobbies of stained glass and other hand crafts and volunteer activities that include being a tour guide in Hill House Museum at Greenmead, Livonia's historical site. She's a long-time Red Cross volunteer and also helps at Schoolcraft College in the learning assistance center. Her husband retired 18 years ago.

"I could write a book," she said, her blue eyes twinkling. "She sets the pace," said her husband. "She's never idle. She makes me feel guilty."

Subdivisions plan a gigantic garage sale

Coming to you right here in Canton is the Carriage Hills Homeowners Association garage sale.

Now if I can only remember to sell rather than buy. This sale will involve the entire subdivision. You say you like four-family garage sales? Well folks, we have a REALLY BIG SALE right here in Canton. Why am I so excited? It could be because it is right here in my neighborhood.

So you'll be able to find the Carriage Hills Subdivisions, I'll try to explain. I never realized how difficult it is to describe where we are till now, but here goes: West of Sheldon we have Subs 3 and 5. They are bordered by Devonshire Drive, Bostonhill Lane, Hanford and Sheldon, also Hanford, Porteridge Lane, Westminister Way and Sheldon respectively. East of Sheldon, we have Subs 1, 2, and 6 which basically run both sides of Hanford from Sheldon to Morton Taylor, North Umlerland Circle and Clampton Court to Westminister Way, and Beaufort and Runnymede Drive.

Now for the tricky part, south of Warren, east of Morton Taylor but only to Bunker Hill Lane, down to Barchester and back around Paul Revere to Creekview right into and including Carriage Hills Drive (finally the name of the subs). Right in there is Sub 4. Those, my patient friends, are the easy (?) to follow directions to the Carriage Hills Homeowners Association garage sale.

THERE, THAT wasn't so bad was it? I know it was, but the streets are crooked and all east and west and everything. Try it sometime!

Let's go on to the dates. This fantastic sale is set for Aug. 2-4, and preparing for your basic Michigan weather, rain dates are Aug. 9-11. So I'll see you then.

I am somewhere in that easily defined area. I'll give you a hint, they call it the "Kool-Aid House."

You just pull up and start walking through the subdivision. These sales are great because there are so many homes selling you just keep on walking and enjoy. One bad part is you run out of funds on the first street or two and then fall in love with something further down the line.

So start saving those pennies. If I can get my garage cleaned out, and my stuff collected, and have a decent interval of time to say my goodbyes to my treasures, I might even make it this year.

Can you imagine how much junk — or treasure — I have collected? I have four children. I have been married for 20-something years. I am a known pack rat, and from my childhood I carry scars of being one of seven children. I save everything!

I was the oldest girl. It was my responsibility, to borrow a phrase, to "Be Prepared." I know someone, someday, somewhere, may need "whatever" and I, Sandy, older sister, must have it somewhere! So, I saved it! I save everything. Of course, by the time I find it, they may not need it. But at least I'll have it for the next time.

NOW ON TO the Sesquicentennial Picnic. We missed it!

Maybe missed is a poor choice of words. Actually, lack of interest played a big part in the lack of picnic. I think we were all exhausted, perhaps a better term would be satisfied with our terrific Country Festival. I would rather believe that, than to think there was a lack of interest or enthusiasm on the part of our residents.

Canton chatter

Sandy Preblich

I must tell you, though, that the picnic was to have been very different from the festival. It was to be an old-fashioned family picnic provided by funds raised by other Sesquicentennial events. Maybe some other time, but for now, how about some enthusiasm for our already-on-the-market Sesquicentennials? This is really a one-time-only deal, and since some of the items have been out since last Christmas, I think you'd better get yours now.

HOW ABOUT the cookbook containing recipes from all over the Canton Community? It includes some of Canton's previous supervisors' favorite recipes generously donated by their families. Actually if you read just the names of the donors, it reads like a "Who's Who" in Canton.

The book sells for only $4 and a new recipe now and then never hurt anybody. Call Tillie Schultz, 453-6084, Mary Dingley, 495-0509, or me, 981-6354. Remember they make fantastic gifts. Now would be a great time to stock up on a few extra gifts for Christmas, for the aunt that comes in at the last minute, or perhaps an old neighbor.

DID YOU KNOW that the Sesquicentennial plates are ready? You may buy them one at a time, or all together. There are three plates in the set, priced at $10 per plate. And they are beautiful. Each plate has a different picture — the Historical Museum, Cherry Hill Methodist Church, and, to span the years from then to now, our new Administration Building. There is a limited supply of the numbered sets at $30 per plate — collector's items. Art Winkel, our fire marshal, is in charge of plates, but you also can contact Mary, 495-0509, or me, 981-6354.

Last but not least, is the latest Sesquicentennial remembrance — the Commemorative Book. If you haven't had a chance to see it, please take a minute, drop by the township offices and take a look.

This book covers Canton's past with loads of pictures, stories and information on everything. It is bound in a beautiful white leather-like cover. I'm hoping my children will be asked to do a report on Canton's past. They will have more information than they could possibly use in a series of reports.

For only $5, it's a piece of history to last forever. And how nice for each child to have his own copy. They will be able to show their children the history of the community where they grew up, and tell of how they were there the year Canton celebrated its 150th birthday. The history is a true labor of love by Mary Perna and her entire crew. There is no way to thank them for all the time they put in.

Perhaps I could give you an idea of what they have accomplished. Try to imagine getting out your grandmother's old pictures, no matter what condition they are in. Try to put them in order, with names, descriptions and a suitable story to back up each and every explanation she AND your Aunt Mary give you.

Then package it, and try to market it within your family so that nobody will ever forget how it all began. While you and I are living from day to day and trying to hang in there, our children are living their history, to be told to their grandchildren. Perhaps this book could help them explain where they came in.

IN SHORT, let's try and support the Sesquicentennial right to the end, and get a full year's worth of partying. Call if we can help you obtain any items, and keep watching for more Sesqui events. Watch for the Sesquicentennial Treasure Isle Auction, scheduled for Sept. 28 and 29 on Omnicom. This promises to be great.

The ground work is done and in great shape. Everyone on the committee is excited as this promises to be a lot of fun for everyone and a chance to involve loads of people and some of our neighbors too! The auction committee, headed by Suzanne Skubick of Omnicom, is going strong and we are all looking forward to some real big-time, hometown fun!

DON'T FORGET Dearie Days this weekend in Plymouth's Old Village. And watch for the subdivision garage sale. Call about Sesqui items, remember after Dec. 31 the celebration will be over.

Let me know what you or your kids are doing.

I'm still tiling my bathroom. You must be having more fun than I! What are you doing?

Hospice care courses scheduled

Three courses in hospice care will be offered at Madonna College, Livonia, in the fall term.

"Fundamental Concepts in Hospice Care," will meet on Mondays 3:30-6:30 p.m. It will be taught by Sr. Cecilia Eagen, director of the hospice care program. This course emphasizes the philosophy of care of the hospice movement, covers its history and reveals recent studies done in the hospice field.

A second course, "Psychosocial Aspects of Hospice Care," will be held on Wednesdays 7-10 p.m. Counseling techniques will be taught and consideration will be given to bereavement, especially the child and adolescent. Mental health aspects such as patient anxiety and employee stress will be treated.

On Tuesday afternoons, "Comfort and Care for the Hospice Client," will meet 1-4 p.m. In this course, the physical aspects of therapeutic interventions will be taught. These include pain and symptom control in the practice of palliative care, comfort measures performed for the debilitated and incapacitated patient and commonly occurring pathologies.

MADONNA COLLEGE has initiated what is believed to be the first college curriculum in Hospice Care. This program continues a long tradition of academic programs in the "helping" professions and integrates learning from three Madonna departments — nursing, gerontology and social work — into a new area of study.

Professionals and volunteers interested in the Madonna hospice care program can earn a Certificate of Achievement for 30 semester hours of course work. Students majoring in other human service areas may earn an academic minor in hospice care with 20 semester hours.

Information about enrollment in the program may be obtained by calling the Madonna College nursing department, 591-5155. Madonna College is at the intersection of I-96 and Levan, Livonia.

Freiman-Hartel

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Freiman of Haggerty Road, Plymouth announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen, to John W. Hartel of Grand Rapids, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hartel of Burroughs, Plymouth. The bride-elect graduated from Plymouth Canton High School in 1977 and attends Kendall School of Design in Grand Rapids where she is employed by Lear-Siegler Inc. Her fiance is a 1973 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School and a 1978 graduate of Grand Valley State College. He is employed by Vari-Tech Co. in Grand Rapids.

They are planning an August wedding at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Travels lead to high adventure

Panning for gold in Wyoming, exploring Chesapeake Bay marshland by canoe, visiting ancient Indian cave dwellings in New Mexico. Three local Girl Scouts headed east, west and southwest this summer to take part in Wilder Opportunities, sponsored nationally by the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. The three were selected from applicants throughout the United States.

Sarah Lynn Underwood participated in the Western Saddlebags event in Ten Sleep, Wyo. where she experienced true western living. She learned about leather making, panning for gold and old-fashioned square dancing. The 38 scouts at Girl Scout National Center West saw how a Wyoming ranch operates and cheered their favorite riders at a rodeo.

For more than two weeks, they hiked, camped and rode horses. "I enjoy camping and this gave me a wonderful opportunity to see the West," said Sarah. She is a member of Cadette Troop 533 and has completed seventh grade at Central Middle School. Her parents are Timothy and Theodora Underwood of Canton Township. Sarah enjoys sports and plays the piano.

ELLEN SEERY returned Monday after 20 days in the Chesapeake Bay area. Her group, "Water Is Fundamental," stayed at a camp and explored careers in the field of marine science.

They learned to operate equipment on board an oceanographic vessel, explored marshland by canoe, collected organisms in a seine net, dug for fossils, and went beachcombing. They took a day cruise to Tangier Island and Hampton Roads Harbor, constructed a crabpot and had crab races.

They studied seamanship, and learned about nautical charts, tides, the compass, humidity, barometric pressure and weather. There was boating, swimming, fishing and crabbing. They visited a seafood plant, took a sightseeing trip to Washington, D.C. and to the Baltimore Aquarium.

Ellen's parents are Frank and Peggy Seery of Canton. She belongs to Senior Troop 501, has completed her junior year at Plymouth Salem High School where she was on the forensic team. She is copy counseling editor for the school paper and is active in St. John Neumann Church.

JULIE ROBINSON is attending "Roadrunner Rambles," sponsored by the Sangre de Cristo Girl Scout Council with headquarters in Santa Fe, N.M.

She will be ramblings through the high country of northern New Mexico, through ancient Indian cave dwellings and pueblos, visiting the Atomic City of Los Alamos, learning about historic Spanish villages and the oldest capital city in the United States.

The Scouts will a rodeo in Santa Fe — the City Different — go behind the scenes of the Santa Fe Opera and visit the folk art museum. They also are scheduled for river rafting, hiking, horseback riding and rockhounding. They will attend a chuckwagon barbecue on a cattle ranch, make adobe bricks, and learn about New Mexican crafts.

Julie is the daughter of Fred and Maureen Robinson of Plymouth. She has completed ninth grade at Ladywood High School where she is in the chamber orchestra and jazz band. She plays the piano and is a member of the National Fraternity of Student Musicians. She will return from New Mexico this weekend.

Cabrera-Bost

Deborah Rene Bost and Joseph Cabrera exchanged marriage vows June 23 in St. Michael Lutheran Church, Canton Township. The Rev. Jerry Yarnell officiated. The bride, a Canton resident, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bost of Marion, Ohio. The bridegroom is the son of Lillian Cabrera of Dearborn. The bride wore her mother's chantilly lace over satin wedding gown. Panels of ruffled tiers of netting extended into a chapel train. She carried a bouquet of silk roses, carnations and stephanotis.

Libby Bost, the bride's sister was maid of honor and Sandie Huber and Mary Brown were bridesmaids. The attendants' pale pink gowns were made of organza over taffeta and trimmed with white lace. They carried white fans trimmed with pink roses and carnations.

Jesse Cabrera was best man for his brother. John Huber and Jim Miller were ushers.

After a wedding reception at Leright's Banquet hall in Westland, the couple traveled to Myrtle Beach, S.C. Their home will be in Canton Township.

Academics, dinosaurs summer courses begin

The second session of the academic summer school for grades 1-8 will meet daily, July 30 through Aug. 17 at New Morning School in Plymouth Township. An individualized program will be developed for each student by Suann Dibble, instructor. Reading, writing, math and study skills will be included.

Students in grades 5-8 meet from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Grades 1-5 meet 8-10 a.m. Class size is limited to 10 children and a teacher's aide will as-ist.

A class on dinosaurs for children 4-7, an age group fascinated by prehistoric monsters, will meet 9-11 a.m. Tuesday and Thursday mornings July 31 to Aug. 16. Instructor Carol Palk, lower elementary teacher at New Morning, will limit enrollment. The class will measure dinosaurs, read and make books and models. A field trip is planned.

For registration information, call Peggy Kleinhenn, 420-0525.

Clowns, puppet visit vacation Bible school

A bright-eyed, smiling little guy wearing freckles and tennis shoes is coming to Canton Free Methodist Church. He will be there to greet the boys and girls at Vacation Bible School every day during the week of July 30 to Aug. 3.

His name is Cecil and he is a puppet. Cecil will make daily appearances at the Bible school, or the "Wonder Fair" featuring "God's Wonderful Surprises." A couple of colorful clowns, "Curly" and "Blowsey," will help Cecil.

The "Wonder Fair" offers a full day of fun and learning activities for children from age 4 through students who will be entering eighth grade in the fall. It will be in session from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Students are asked to bring a sack lunch every day. The church will provide a free beverage for everyone.

The week of learning and growing will culminate at 6 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 5, with a special Bible school program at the Canton Free Methodist Church, 44815 Cherry Hill Road. For more information about the "Wonder Fair," please call the church office, 981-5350, or Pastor C. Harold Weiman's home, 453-7366.

new voices

Extend life of flowers

Flowers bought from a florist or cut in your garden don't have to be here today and gone tomorrow. You can extend their vase life with a little special care.

Horticulturists at Michigan State University advise cutting garden flowers early in the morning or late in the evening, when they are crisp with water. During the heat of the day, they lose water through transpiration faster than their roots can replace it and may be wilted.

Select flowers that are not yet in full bloom or past it, and cut them with a sharp knife or shears. Avoid tearing or smashing the stems — this can interfere with water uptake.

Carry a container of warm water to the garden and place flowers in it immediately after cutting. Cut flower stems exposed to the air tend to get air bubbles in the passages through which water moves. These bubbles may block the uptake of water.

How to submit news items to newspaper

News of clubs, service organizations, engagements, weddings and wedding anniversaries are printed without cost in the Suburban Life Section of the Plymouth Observer and Canton Observer newspapers.

News items may be dropped off or mailed to the office at 489 S. Main St., Plymouth 48170. Special forms are available for club news, engagements, weddings and 50th wedding anniversary announcements.

Black and white pictures are preferred as they reproduce more clearly than color photos. A self-addressed, stamped envelope assures return of the pictures, or, they can be picked up at the office a week after they have been published. Mail should be addressed to the attention of Elinor Graham, Suburban Life editor.

Activities of more major scope than regular club meetings may warrant more extensive coverage and a photograph. Call the newspaper, 459-2700, well in advance of the event to permit scheduling a photograph.

Breaking news stories (and we appreciate telephone calls on these) like fires, accidents, etc., receive on-the-spot coverage.

Other events, planned in advance, should be announced a week or so before the actual date.

Flight toward freedom — a Salvadoran speaks out

By Julie R. Nelson
special writer

MIGUEL HAD four choices. He could join the El Salvadoran National Army, engaged in the killing of village peasants like himself. He could refuse to enlist and be assassinated. He could go into the mountains with the leftist guerilla opposition forces. Or, he could flee El Salvador.

Miguel, 23, chose the latter of the four negatives, hoping to obtain political asylum in the U. S. and end the violence for himself.

"I was one of the workers who volunteered to help in the refugee camp," Miguel said. "One day we were told by a political prisoner, who had been released, that she heard that the young people volunteering time to the church refugees were the next ones to be captured. I left the country in December of last year."

His escape was aided by several Americans, including a Methodist Church lay person. But in attempting to enter the United States from Mexico, in December 1983, he was arrested with his companions and turned over to U. S. immigration authorities in Texas. He faces a July 24 hearing in a Texas court on charges of entering the country illegally. He and his companions were the first El Salvadorans to be prosecuted for failing to turn state's evidence against the Americans who helped them enter the U. S.

MIGUEL — NOT HIS real name — spoke of his experiences at Sword of the Spirit Lutheran Church in Livonia last week. Earlier, he and a female companion spoke at several seminars on Latin American at the national convention of the American Lutheran Church Women held in Detroit.

The Livonia appearance was arranged by Rev. Bill Dexheimer, a Lutheran minister who is mission developer for the Hispanic Ministry for the American Lutheran Church in southwest Detroit.

Dexheimer acted as Miguel's translator. Miguel talked of the conditions in El Salvador and described his own personal flight as a church member and refugee in his own country.

"Most people come to a refugee camp with 10-12 children," he said. "Only two probably are their real children — the rest orphans. A question you might ask, then, is where are the parents of those children? The parents of those children were assassinated by the military in my country."

A question you might still ask is why? The answer is buried deep in the country's volatile history, Miguel explained.

IT IS IRONIC that El Salvador literally means "The Savior," because since 1735, the country's peasants have been the victims of violence induced by political unrest.

"The name of the popular front in El Salvador today takes its name from the leader of the 1932 revolt.

"Farabundo Marti was the peasant leader who asked the government for a measure of justice for the people," said Miguel.

Thirty thousand peasants were massacred within three days of the request. "So after that," he continued, "groups were formed, but they were clandestine."

The 1932 massacre was the beginning of the underground movement, consisting of peasants, workers and students. They are known today, he explained, as the opposition forces. Most of them are starving, living on salt and tortillas, Miguel said, and the blood continues to be spilled.

"In 1975, there was a demonstration of 10,000 students from the area of National University. They were asking for justice . . . after 20 minutes, the army started firing; it was horrible scene of death. About 1,500 died.

"I REMEMBER WHEN the firemen came and washed away the blood from the streets," Miguel said. "They came with garbage trucks and picked up the bodies and threw them in."

He named Roberto d'Aubisson, current leader of the far right National Republican Alliance, as the one in charge of the "cleanup" operations.

"For being subversive," Miguel said, "the death squad salutes you."

There is another reason for the violence, he believes. "It was because of the so-called 14 families who own most of the land who are not in accord with the idea of land reform — dividing the land among the poor people.

"I believe myself that they made an

— Bill Dexheimer

director, Hispanic Ministry of Southwest Detroit agreement between themselves and d'Aubisson and the death squad activities started increasing," Miguel said.

His own battles in the U. S. have been more subtle.

After the arrest, he found "there is the same repression against Central Americans that I have lived with in my own country."

"I have been treated badly," he said. "We had 13 hours of interrogation. The authorities told us if we told them all the information they wanted, they would give us political asylum. They wanted to know who helped us and gave us sanctuary. It's logical that I was not going to be a traitor and give in to what they said they would do for us," Miguel said.

INSTEAD OF COOPERATING by naming those who helped him, Miguel spent four days in jail. He no longer wishes to obtain political asylum here.

The Texas court could decide to deport him.

Many of the 40,000 Salvadorans the United States has deported have later been killed.

"If I go back, I'll be arrested at the airport and then assassinated," he said. "The conditions there now do not permit me to return. If I ever did return, it would not be by airplane. I would cross over the border through the mountains."

Miguel said he came to the U. S. because of a 1980 law, allowing political prisoners or those fleeing persecution refuge in the America.

"The same people who write war policy have control over aliens," Dexheimer said. "The State Department would have to admit that a war is going on there. Our current policy in El Salvador is at odds with the 1980 law."

If he does return to El Salvador, Miguel said it would be likely that he would join the opposition forces. History has shown him that families have no way to protect themselves from being killed, and they have to pull together to help each other.

HE VOLUNTEERED time at a refugee camp to help the survivors of the massacred villages. The army generally leaves these camps alone.

Well, almost always. "Once the soldiers came to St. Joseph's camp. The children climbed on top of the roofs and took strips of metal and shook them to make a great noise," Miguel said.

"It was scandal — thousands of refugees there making all this noise and everyone outside the camp knew that soldiers were coming in."

He grinned as he said softly, "So the soldiers left."

One member of the audience asked Miguel if he thought the Communists would take control of El Salvador if the peasants won — something the United States fears will happen.

"One thing I want to make clear," he said. "Cubans and Russians do not fight in El Salvador. It is the Salvadoreans who are in combat." And then almost satirically, he added: "And if helping people makes me a Communist, then I guess I am a Communist."

"Miguel" did not reveal his name to anyone, including the FBI, for fear that once his identity is known to the El Salvadoran authorities, the remainder of his family in El Salvador will be assassinated. Both his father and sister have already been murdered, he said.

A sparse audience heard the address, but "even if we could only get one person to hear the story tonight, I figured it would be worth it," said Dexheimer, who did missionary work in El Salvador before his assignment in Detroit. "Most Americans understand so little" about the El Salvador situation.

erans about what is happening in Central America and to pointing up ways to help.

Miguel is back in Texas awaiting trial. He does have a fifth choice. Interestingly, he can go to Canada and obtain "a letter of refugee" which would allow him to remain in Canada with refugee status.

"But, as you can see," Dexheimer said, "Miguel is not one to take the easy way out."

Miguel does not want freedom for himself.

"The best dream I could have would be to see my country free. I believe this is the dream of all young people in exile."

Holy Trinity, Epiphany Lutheran churches merge

The Lutheran Church of the Epiphany in Northville Township has announced it will merge with Holy Trinity Lutheran Church of Livonia.

The first worship after consolidation will be held Sunday, July 29, at Holy Trinity, 39020 Five Mile.

Epiphany began when Pastor Charles Holland gathered a small group of people together for their first worship in the old VFW Hall in Plymouth. From that beginning, the congregation grew into its present home at 41390 Five Mile, Northville Township. Epiphany has been served in succession by Pastors John W. Miller, David Strang, Fred Prezioso and Gene Parker. Consolidation plans were finalized under present Pastor Richard Hofmann.

A YEAR AGO, the congregation began an intensive study of its mission and concluded that it would best serve as part of a larger church body. Discussions were initiated early this year with Holy Trinity.

The merger will provide an endowment fund for outreach projects to be determined by the Mission Committee of the new congregation, a church spokesman said.

Friends and former members of Epiphany are invited to the concluding worship at Epiphany at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, July 22. Holy Communion will be celebrated as part of the thanksgiving for the years of service by the church.

Parishioners won't be the only thing moving, however. The three white crosses that have been a beacon on Five Mile since the church began holding services there will be moved and placed in front of Holy Trinity.

The merger marks the second this year involving Lutheran churches. Earlier this year, All Saints Lutheran Church of Livonia and Holy Cross Lutheran Church of Westland merged. The two groups selected Resurrection Lutheran Church as the name of the new church. It is located in the All Saints church, 8850 Newburgh Road, Livonia.

Christian duties in an election year

It's that time of year again. Time to review and study issues. Time to become acquainted with candidates. Time even to get involved and work for the ones you want to win.

Churches, synagogues and temples will generally restrict their political activity to the sharing of information and the encouragement of citizen participation . . . except, perhaps in issues such as abortion, capital punishment, prayer in public schools etc.

The general assumption is that people (citizens) are responsible for their own votes (except in the issues mentioned above) and they have the right and duty to exercise their responsibility and be accountable for it.

HAVING the churches, synagogues and temples encourage participation in the political process has become standard election year rhetoric. Even having them examine political programming for its sensitivity to the human condition and experience has developed into acceptable activity.

Election-year activity for churches, synagogues and temples in 1984 might well take a different course . . . especially in view of recent events. Instead of assuming a "watchdog" posture of responsibility for the moral guidance and critique of our public order, we could learn how the experience of life in the public arena can shape and mould responsible behaviour.

For the majority of citizens, the Bible contains the "answers to all the problems that face us today." President Reagan made a statement representative of this perspective in designating 1983 as the year of the Bible and most would agree with him. But the use of the Bible goes beyond problem solving. The Bible is also regarded as the guide for all responsible behavior.

SO WHAT made Walter Mondale choose a woman as his running mate? If the ordination of women has been successfully resisted on Scriptural grounds by a goodly number of religious bodies in the United States, how does the political order justify nominating women on a par with men? It's really very simple. Wisdom and truth come to us in many ways. This does not demean Holy Scriptures. It only acknowledges the freedom of God to speak to us in other ways. God's presence and action in the world is not restricted to the religious faith or denominational body of your choice.

Encouraging the general populace to participate in the political process because it is one of our precious gifts of freedom in God's world is surely an important election year activity for our churches, synagogues and temples.

Learning from the political process that responsibility for the care of God's world requires an ever constant attention and response to the changing and expanding sense of community is equally as important.

Memphis on the Mississippi River is a stopping place on the way to the World's Fair in New Orleans. City fathers are reviving Beale Street — 'the birthplace of the blues' — with new restaurants, shops, clubs, theaters and music.

Born again Memphis pumps life into downtown area

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Old Man River is rolling along on its way downstream to the World's Fair site at New Orleans. As it curves past Chickasaw Bluff in Memphis it washes the new Mud Island complex, detours under the monorail that connects Mud Island to downtown, makes a scenic backdrop for a paddlewheel tour boat and washes the foot of Beale Street.

Listen and you will hear music from Beale Street, although it's not necessarily the blues. Memphis has been trying to renovate the birthplace of the blues, the street that changed the direction of American music, for 15 years. Last fall it opened two blocks of a three-block renovation project on Beale Street; next year it will open the third block.

At the moment, the setting sun side-lights the restaurants and cafes, the break dancers twirling to their own music, the guitar player in W.C. Handy Park, and all those locals and tourists pouring down the rebuilt brick street looking for music.

What they hear may be blues, swing, country, rock, pop. It's all music to the ears of city fathers who have worked hard to lure tourists back to this historic city on the Mississippi. This year Memphis is a popular stopping place on the way to the World's Fair.

IT WAS Old Man River that brought explorers, settlers and merchants to this cotton center of the south, and it was ole Miss that made a mud island out of a gunboat stuck off the Memphis shore during the Civil War.

Take a monorail to Mud Island now and you can wade down a scale model of the Mississippi, or check out the history of the society and its music in the Mud Island museum.

You'll see another aspect of Memphis history in brick, stone and polished wood if you tour the city's restored Victorian district. If you prefer the flesh and blood version talk to May Landstreet, a volunteer whose smiling presence can often be found in the Fontaine House.

May's father was a carriage builder from Kentucky who came to Memphis about 1860 because he was sure that Tennessee would never outlaw slavery. Within a decade he lost everything.

MAY CAN also tell you about her husband's grandparents who were met with shotguns when they tried to get off the boat during the Yellow Fever epidemic of the 1870s. That epidemic killed 5,000 Memphians, wiping out its charter as a city.

The new Beale Street features music and entertainment in a number of new places. One is the Club Handy & W.C.'s Cafe named after W.C. Handy who wrote the Beale Street Blues and the St. Louis Blues. The second story balcony area allows listening to music from inside or from other clubs in the area. Down the street, the Fred Ford-Honeymoon Garner Trio (below) performs jazz at the Old Daisy Theatre. The new renovated Beale Street is a few blocks from the river, within a few minutes walk of any of the downtown business and shopping streets.

May's ancestors would be amazed to know that Memphis' most popular tourist attractions nowadays are Grace-land, home of the late Elvis Presley, and Beale Street, where a trained black musician called W.C. Handy gave birth to the blues early in the 20th century.

The new renovated Beale Street is a few blocks from the river, within a few minutes walk of any of the downtown business and shopping streets. From the top of the historic Peabody Hotel two blocks away on Union Avenue, you can see the new section of Beale Street between the downtown parking lots and the historic old Beale Street Baptist Church.

The not-yet-renovated third block shows you what the street looked like a year or two ago, crumbling old buildings sagging over the street.

THE RENOVATED area has a new polished look, from the restaurants, shops and music clubs past the Old Daisy and New Daisy theaters to the lighted benches of W.C. Handy Park.

The street is closed off to cars so there are always a lot of people, young and old, strolling and strumming down the brick road. Elkington and Keltner, the developers who finally succeeded in finishing this project, did so for two important reasons.

They did not try to restore it to the old days, so they could renovate old buildings and add new ones. They gave the street musical rather than a shopping theme; so music comes out of every doorway and arcade as the night progresses.

The best way to get a feel for the old days is to watch the impressive multimedia show at the Old Daisy Theater, where the Center for Southern Folklore is dedicated to preserving the cultural life of earlier times.

HERE YOU will see that black music began in the fields of the cotton plantations, where spirituals, work songs and field hollers began to blend into a uniquely American music late in the 19th century.

W.C. Handy spent only 10 years here, but he managed to forge a new musical style out of that early folk sound. He was known at the time as the man who wrote a campaign song for a local white politician, but he is known now as the composer of the Beale Street Blues and the St. Louis Blues.

The pictures in the Old Daisy show you the marketplace that dominated Beale Street by day, and the night-time world of gaming tables, music clubs and street life early in this century.

It was a carnival starring Little Ora, the best pickpocket between Memphis and New Orleans; Machine Gun Kelly, who peddled bootleg whiskey from a basket; jug bands in the park; a medicine show on the street; a wandering musician playing for pennies.

On any weekend this summer you'll find the crowds beginning to gather in late afternoon. A blues band might be playing in the park. The break dancers are out early. Diners sit on the second-floor balcony of the W.C. Handy Cafe or listen to the pianist or the singing waiters at Memories.

By 9 p.m. the nightly stage presentation has started at the Old Daisy. Charlie Rich might be on stage at the New Daisy. Sandy Carol will be playing at Lafayette's Corner. The quiet pianist will be playing the blues in the back room of Kublai Kahn's Oriental Restaurant. Somebody is sure to be blowing a horn in one of the little arcades.

Some people in Memphis call all this the rebirth of the blues, but that's not really what it is. It's the rebirth of an historic downtown area that has been through a lot of American history here by the Mississippi River.

Fort Wayne Flyer ready to roll

The largest and most powerful steam locomotive in the eastern United States, Norfolk & Western Railroad's No. 611, will make its first visit to Detroit on Saturday, July 28, and Sunday, July 29.

The streamlined, gleaming black, maroon and gold Class J 4-8-4 Northern type will power the Fort Wayne Flyer on two day-long train excursions between Detroit and Fort Wayne, Ind., sponsored by the Bluewater Michigan Chapter of the National Railway Historical Society.

No. 611 is one of fewer than 10 such restored steam locomotives in high-speed service today. It is the most modern steamer in operation having been built by Norfolk & Western's Roanoke, Va., shops in 1960. It develops 5,000 horsepower while capable of speeds up to 110 mph.

THE FORT WAYNE Flyer will start each day in Allen Park and travel 90 miles to Montpelier, Ohio, where passengers may detrain to enjoy six hours of small-town hospitality in the farming and railroad center situated among the rich farmlands of northwestern Ohio.

Passengers staying aboard the Fort Wayne Flyer and those getting on at Montpelier will travel another 50 miles to Fort Wayne, where No. 611 will be turned for the trip back to Montpelier and Detroit. There will be about one hour to detrain in Fort Wayne.

The train will consist of both air-conditioned and open-window coaches. The latter are for passengers preferring the smell of steam locomotive coal smoke.

There will be first class luxury lounge cars whose premium fare includes breakfast, lunch and a roast beef supper all served aboard the Bluewater Michigan Chapter's dining car, the "Lake Michi-

THE SCHEDULE, which is the same both Saturday and Sunday, calls for departure from Allen Park at 8 a.m., returning at 8 p.m. The Ft. Wayne Flyer arrives in Montpelier at 11:15 a.m. and Ft. Wayne at 12:45 p.m. The return to Montpelier is 3:45 p.m., departing there at 5:45 p.m.

On Saturday only, there is a stop in Milan at 9 a.m. and 7:15 p.m. on the return. On Sunday only, the Flyer stops in Adrian at 9:30 a.m. and returns at 6:45 p.m.

Round-trip coach fares from Detroit to Montpelier are $39 for adults and $32 for children ages 6 through 12. The Detroit to Ft. Wayne round trip coach fares are $59 for adults and $39 for children. All first-class fares are $98 regardless of boarding point or destination. The Saturday-only Detroit-to-Milan round trip is $17 for adults and $14 for children. On Sunday, the adult and children fares between Detroit and Adrian are $26 and $21, respectively.

For more information or to order tickets, send a stamped self-addressed return envelope to the Bluewater Michigan Chapter, P.O. Box 2967, Royal Oak 48068, or telephone 678-1610 or 264-3111. Tickets are also being sold at the Train Center of Birmingham, 1880 S. Woodward, and the Plymouth Yard Hobbies & Gifts, 904 Starkweather in Plymouth.

The City of Southfield Tours will sponsor a three-day trip to Toronto, Ontario, Sept. 14-16 to coincide with the visit of Pope John Paul II.

Participants will have the opportunity to see the pope and to witness a papal mass. The price of $250 includes two nights at the Plaza II Hotel, three dinners, two breakfasts, transportation by deluxe motorcoach and an arrival cocktail party. Six cash prizes will be awarded en route.

For information or reservations, call the Southfield Cultural Arts Division of the parks and recreation department at 354-4717, or write Southfield Tours, Harriet Sigel, 26000 Evergreen, Southfield MI 48076.

Monroe, Michigan in Monroe County will be the site of the Sixth Annual Old Frenchtown Days July 21-22 featuring demonstrations of life as it was some 200 years ago.

There will be twice daily re-enactments of a Revolutionary War battle, an encampment of military and militia, voyageurs racing canoes on the Raisin River, 18th Century French and English music.

Will is part of your investment plan

By Sid Mitra with Mari Kulkowski
special writer

Who needs it?

Almost everybody needs a will. If you have property, you need a will if you want to distribute it according to your own wishes.

Moreover, with a will you can name the person who will administer your estate and a guardian to bring up your children if you and your spouse die while they are still minors.

You can also use a will to create trusts for your spouse, children and others to protect them against the loss of assets that might result from their inexperience.

What happens to assets if you die without a will?

If your assets are made up of a jointly owned house, joint bank and other accounts, life insurance policies with named beneficiaries and a pension and profit-sharing plan with the beneficiary listed, there may not be much to distribute in a will. Moreover, some people create trusts during their lifetime that direct the disposition of their assets at death.

In those cases, dying without a will wouldn't be very much different from dying with a will, at least as far as how your assets are distributed.

But, assuming that you have property in your own name and it is not passing through others automatically, then the law in Michigan will decide where the property goes.

The state of Michigan will, in effect, draw up a will for you.

and you
Sid

What are some of the essentials of a good will?

You start off, of course, saying who you are. Sometimes people include the phrase "being of sound mind." But if you aren't of sound mind, saying so does not make any difference.

You also revoke all prior wills and codicils, which are changes you make to an existing will.

A lot of people list specific requests: "I give my gold cuff links to my son." People sometimes allocate specific amounts of money: "I give $5,000 to my former secretary and $5,000 to ABC charity."

Finally, you typically get to the big item, where you give whatever is remaining, either in whole or in part, to your wife, children or other relatives and friends — and charities.

You have to be careful, though, because the value of your estate can go up or down between the time you write the will and when you die. If your will left some people fixed amounts and others a percentage of the remainder, some may end up getting a lot more or less than you intended.

How much does it cost to have a will drawn up?

It varies greatly. There are legal clinics in some places that will do a very simple one for $50. If it gets really complicated, you could spend several thousand dollars, maybe even $5,000 or $10,000 if it's part of an overall financial and estate plan.

Just drawing up the will is relatively easy. It's deciding the best way to structure your overall estate and financial plan that is hard.

A will is only part of the picture. It should be coordinated with your insurance, your property and investments and other items, such as, say, a pension plan.

Are there legal restraints on how you split your assets?

Yes. As one example, society generally frowns upon your disinheriting a spouse, so your spouse typically has what is known as an elective share. If he or she gets a smaller share in the will than the state law allows, the spouse can claim more.

Depending on the state, the minimum may be anywhere between about a third and a half of the estate, either outright or through a trust agreement.

There can, however, be a prenuptial agreement in which a spouse, often in a second marriage, gives up some inheritance rights.

How is joint ownership of property handled?

In a typical joint ownership, the surviving owner gets everything. That's one reason joint-ownership arrangements should be handled carefully.

During your life, you can change a will, but if something is put in joint tenancy, you often give up control.

There are a number of complex tax considerations — your surviving spouse, for instance, might pay more tax on a sale if property were held jointly.

How do you go about changing a will?

How not to change a will is to simply write in a change. You will either invalidate the entire will or fail to make any legal change.

There are two proper ways to change your will. One is to create a new one that includes the change. The other is to add a codicil to the existing will.

When should you review a will?

It's not just a question of reviewing your will; it's a question of keeping your entire estate plan up to date.

You have to constantly review your marital situation, job, investments, family, state of residence and business. Any significant change in your financial or personal life can be a reason for review.

Changes in the law also can require a change in your will.

Sid Mitra is professor of economics and management at Oakland University and president of Coordinated Financial Planning Inc.

You won't find a better value than a Xerox used copier or used Memorywriter typewriter. Because what made them great when they were new is still making them great.

Our used copiers can:

- Copy on plain, ordinary paper.
- Reduce.
- Handle oversize documents.
- Give you 20 copies per minute.

Our used Xerox 610 Memorywriter typewriter lets you:

- Make revisions instantly without retyping entire pages.
- Store addresses and often-used phrases.
- Upgrade as your needs change.

All machines come with a 30-day, limited warranty and are eligible for Xerox service plans.

So hurry down. Or call 800-847-7811. In New York State call 1-800-847-7800.

And see why a Xerox used deal is probably better than the deals you're used to.

Quaint customs mark lives of early Detroiters

Among the household customs of early Detroit was the extensive use of the attic or garret for food storage.

Strings of dried fruit, bags of medicinal herbs and savory, garlands of pumpkins, bunches of onions, and sprigs of garlic and other edible roots adorned the attic walls.

Garlic was most highly regarded as a shield against diseases, a preventative of cholera and other scourges of that early day. At one period cholera in Detroit was so bad that the entire town was quarantined.

In 1832 they were burning pitch in the streets, and the old French carts rumbled every night with the bodies of the dead on the way to a secret burial in the country. Father Gabriel Richard came down with the dread disease and died. He gave his life to succor the poor, unfortunate victims of this terrible affliction.

At this time the residents of Ypsilanti and several other hamlets outside of Detroit posted armed guards outside barricades in the road and shot on sight anyone so foolish as to dare to venture into their town. Fear of the cholera was rampant everywhere, and hundreds died.

REFRIGERATION was unknown to the early settler.

Fortunately game was plentiful. Meats were kept salted in large baskets and lowered into the ground in a deep hole or well.

Drinking water in early Detroit was brought from the river in large buckets and placed in these holes. Each little farm's well had a wooden framework from which was suspended ropes tied to iron hooks. These hooks held baskets of various stored foods, including pails of butter and cream, baskets of fresh meat and venison, and other staples of their diet.

Most early kitchens had clotheslines spread across the ceiling near the hearth where they dried old sacks used for dish towels and their usual wash day garments were sometimes left to hang there until used.

Closest space almost was non-existent; however the attic was a storage place as well as large bureaus in the bedrooms. A French armoire was a sight to behold, usually jam-packed with all sorts of garments for all seasons.

WASH DAY ON the river was a social event where gossip was exchanged and "telegraphed" from dock to dock.

Everyone "tuned in" to the latest rumor, the soap opera of the day, and what passed for news at that time. The gossip accompanied their stories with the staccato beat of a wooden mallet (la lessive) and punctuated their chatter with vigorous pounding of the wooden dock.

The clothes which survived this rough treatment were constantly being repaired by the thrifty French housewives. In fact, much of her day was spent at the spinning wheel where she produced a kind of "linsey-wooley" which later was made into cloth.

Good dresses were imported from Montreal, Quebec, or Paris. During the long winters children sometimes were employed making straw hats, a favorite headpiece of the summertime.

THE GROUNDS NEAR the little houses along the river usually were protected by pickets of red cedar 10 or 12 feet high.

These served as stockade protection in war times as well as a fence against the hungry wolves which roamed freely. Old journals of that time indicate that some of these fences still were in existence as late as 1840.

Another feature of the early days which has disappeared was the windmill. At one time this picturesque, useful farm's tool was visible every few miles along the river's shore. Many of them were in operation until well into the 1830s.

One of the features of the landscape was the unusually beautiful French pear trees. The papers of old residents testify that some of these trees had trunks more than nine feet in diameter and their fruit was delicious.

The quality of the Detroit pear was regarded as unique. Fruit of such great taste was unknown outside of Normandy. Many of these trees thrived along the Detroit River, and they also were founded in abundance along the River Raisin at Monroe. (Are there any des-

Another feature of life on the river was the festival associated with white fishing which occurred about the middle of October. The festival was anticipated with deep pleasure by everyone.

Seines were used extensively and the fish were abundant and tasty. It was an interesting sight. The boats left the shore with nets piled high and coiled carefully in the bow. When the channel bank was reached they were quickly dropped into the swift current and then dragged across to the nearby land.

As the nets floated along the white fish were tossed on the beach where they were quickly gathered to make a festive bouillabaisse for the celebrants. This event was followed by a community dance which lasted into the night.

Party, concert honor Detroit

A free, old-fashioned birthday party and evening concert Sunday at Historic Fort Wayne in Detroit will help the city of Detroit celebrate its 283rd birthday July 24.

The day's continuous activities will begin at 2 p.m. and will feature music, dancing, Mona and "Hot Fudge" puppets, races, games and contests. Only food products made in Detroit will be served.

A band concert will highlight the festivities, and free birthday cake will be served during intermission to the first 500 guests. A special guest, former Detroit Lion Ron Kramer, will help honor all individuals attending who were born on July 24.

Students test well

Some 54 Centennial Educational Park (CEP) students took Advanced Placement (AP) tests this spring. Advanced Placement is a program of college level courses and/or examinations for secondary school students.

More than 90 percent of the nation's colleges which most AP candidates attend give credit and/or advanced placement to students whose AP examination grades are considered acceptable.

Only 23 percent of the nation's secondary schools offer some AP work.

The exams are graded one through five with five being "excellently well qualified," four being "well qualified," three being "qualified," and so on.

Plymouth-Canton students who achieved a score of five on a test were Da-Ming He, Jeffrey Stillson, Gale Tang, Terry Tang, and Mary Yachter.

CEP students took AP tests in American history, biology, chemistry, French, German, calculus and physics.

Mondale's 'friends' enjoy choicest digs

By Tom Richard
staff writer

SAN FRANCISCO — Michigan Democrats attending the 39th national convention are housed in the Meridien Hotel, the city's newest, most luxurious and probably most expensive.

It is also the headquarters hotel of presidential nominee Walter Mondale and his running mate, Rep. Geraldine Ferraro.

Hoe did it happen?

"It was part draw and park luck," explained Rick Wiener, the 37-year-old state chairman attending his first national conclave.

"We drew a high number (among state delegations). We were given a list and just assigned here."

He surveyed the surroundings. "Not too bad. Sometimes life treats one well," he said.

TED MONDALE, the standard bearer's son, provided one clue. Saying hello to the Michiganders Monday morning, he recalled the Wolverine state had provided his father a critical victory on March 17 when the Hart bandwagon was going strong.

"They say my father's an old-time politician," Ted said. "The beauty of that is that old-time politicians don't forget their friends."

NO NEED to worry about finding a shuttlebus, a costly cab or a cable car schedule to get to "work." The underground Moscone Center is a half-block away.

Our room overlooks the Moscone Center and the adjacent parking lot, where all the assembled selected nonconformists can do their various things. They can't bother the delegates, who are free to gawk or move on, whatever their pleasure.

FOR MANY of the party faithful, a national convention is a place to take a vacation. Not this year.

The Moscone Center is tiny, by convention hall standards, and credentials (tickets) for friends of the party are few.

"We have only 31 passes," chairman Wiener told his 155-member delegation. "Nineteen will be awarded by lottery at 3 p.m. each day. The other 12 I have the dubious honor of distributing. I already have 50 requests."

Just to make sure the chairman's 12 were spread around fairly, the delegation voted that the list of recipients be displayed on the bulletin board.

THE MERIDIEN is French-owned with a continental air. Meeting rooms are named for wines. Michigan meets in the Sauterne Room.

They say the help are all at least bilingual, or even multi-lingual, but my own foreign languages are too rusty to verify this.

The manager is called the concierge. The book of guest services is in English, French, Spanish and Chinese.

The bars of soap aren't Dove or Lifeboy but carved, scented French soaps. A complimentary bottle of wine — Macon Blanc, 1983 — awaits each guest. The room comes equipped with gold-stamped bath gel, shampoo and body lotion.

Price is $180 a day, or almost $1,000 for two for the convention, paid in advance, and no refunds if you cancel.

Breakfast from room service is $10.75 for juice, two eggs, bacon, toast and coffee. If you're from Battle Creek and are loyal to corn flakes, it's $3.

For dinner there's a rib eye at $16.50, chef salad at $8.50 and French onion soup at $4.25. A bottle of Johnny Walker Red will cost the expense account $36; McMaster's and Grand MacNish aren't listed.

"My wife and I are Egg McMuffin fans," confessed Alan Heimkamp, 32-year-old budget conscious Livonia attorney and Mondale delegate.

The McDonald's a few blocks away was charging back-home prices, though the orange juice was from Florida.

At the Democratic National Convention, Michigan Democratic chairman Rick Wiener (in sweatshirt) exchanges pleasantries and strategies with Frank Kelley (left) and state AFL-CIO president Sam Fishman (center). The man looking over Kelley's shoulder and the delegate behind Wiener were not identified.

Method in madhouse

Computers, 'whips' keep Dems informed

SAN FRANCISCO — To the television watcher, the numbers flash on a screen, and the votes of the Democratic National Convention are history.

On the crowded, noisy floor of the Moscone Center here, a roll call is an intricate process.

"You see those funny TV sets in front of us?" said Rick Wiener, state chairman and leader of the Michigan delegation. "Those are computer telephone voting machines."

WHEN VOTES on platform issues are to be reported, Wiener and four young staff members canvass the delegation.

"Every delegate has an assigned seat," he said. "The staff will go up and down each row and count. You can vote only yes, no or abstention. There are about 14 or 15 rows."

"When the vote is tabulated, I punch it into the machine. It's a user-friendly machine (easy to operate)," he smiled.

Looking over his shoulder are the leaders of each of three groups of delegates: Ellen Globokar, an aide to Gov. James J. Blanchard for the 78 Mondale troops; George Wahr Sallade, Ann Arbor attorney for the 49-member Hart contingent; and Joel Ferguson, Lansing, for the nine Jackson votes.

A NETWORK of "whips" spreads the word from candidate's headquarters to the delegates. "I'm a deputy state whip for Mondale," said Mary Ryan Taras, social studies teacher from Birmingham.

Taras covers 16 suburban and outstate congressional districts. A second deputy whip covers the 1st and 13th Congressional Districts (Detroit) and the at-large delegates.

One of the regional whips is Alan Helmkamp, Livonia attorney attending his first convention.

"Our job is not only to spread information, but to understand what's going on. We get facts. We tell what Mondale headquarters' position is. We kill rumors."

From convention page to governor in 20 years

SAN FRANCISCO — The crowded 1984 Democratic National Convention in the cramped Moscone Center has put a damper on attendance and cramped the style of young volunteers.

College students used to find work as pages and "gofers." This year the pickings are slim, as are the numbers of tickets for guests.

"I was a page 20 years ago at Atlantic City," said a man who has since become governor.

"I begged, borrowed and stole my way in," said James J. Blanchard, a 21-year-old Michigan State student at the time Lyndon B. Johnson was nominated.

"I can remember when Jim Blanchard snuck into that convention. I helped him get in," laughed Attorney General Frank J. Kelley.

When Blanchard got out of Minnesota Law School, Kelley gave him a job as an assistant attorney general serving several departments of state government. Blanchard parlayed the job into four terms in Congress and the governor's chair.

First there is a 30-minute lineup to get floor passes. A floor pass is good only for 20 minutes. It takes 12 minutes to walk to the delegation and back.

Thus, in 50 working minutes, a reporter can get a maximum of eight minutes with the delegation.

Running or even walking fast is impossible in the tightly-packed rows.

A freelance San Francisco writer, standing in a long line, said, "I'm through being mad. Now I'm going to throw a tantrum in Moscone. It won't do any good, but I'll feel better."

Television crews have fewer complaints — the convention is designed almost entirely for television prime time — but they do have problems.

One cameraman continually had to ask passersby to walk gently because their footfalls on the wooden floor were jiggling his camera.

But there's no question which medium is favored. Delegates were asked not to read newspapers during convention sessions because on TV they would look bored.

COMPLAINTS about the Moscone Center from the press corps have been loud and harsh, according to the San Francisco Examiner.

Although it's the size of three football fields, the Moscone Center was intended as an exhibition hall rather than as an arena. "You can't see the podium," was a familiar lament.

Rick Wiener, Democratic state chairman, wouldn't knock San Francisco's new center, but he bluntly said Cobo Hall is better and would relish holding the 1988 national convention there.

Teen-aged "security officers" abound, freely telling reporters where they can't go but unable to explain what areas are open to which kinds of passes. The Michigan delegation is particularly tough to

Eastern betrayed by 'noble' MAC leaders

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, I give you the presidents of our esteemed institutions of higher education, collectively known as the Mid-American Conference — MAC for short.

Let's give them a hand, shall we? The intellectuals who rule over our colleges, brightening and enlightening the youth of today and leaders of tomorrow.

Yes, ladies and gentlemen, we have reason to be proud of the men who preside over Miami of Ohio, Northern Illinois, Toledo, Ohio University, Bowling Green, Kent State, Ball State, Central Michigan and Western Michigan. They have shown their true colors, the noble stuff they are made of.

Wait one moment, you ask? Something's amiss? A university is absent from the above list of MAC schools?

What has happened to Eastern Michigan University?

LIMBO. THAT'S what has happened to EMU. Thanks to their valiant MAC cohorts, the Hurons have been put in limbo. And they have about two weeks — until Aug. 1 — to determine their own fate.

Yes, dear friends, these MAC leaders displayed wisdom and generosity rare in this day and age by granting EMU a choice:

Either drop football or get out.

Sweet fellows, aren't they? They needed a sacrificial lamb to maintain their football ranking as an NCAA Division 1A conference, so with an inspiring display of Christianity that would make a Judas proud, seven noble MAC members ganged up on Eastern and demanded its ouster Monday.

One option remained: EMU must drop football. What prompted this was fear and greed: Fear that the conference would lose its Division 1A ranking, and greed for the money, glamour and importance the MAC presidents attached to it.

THE FEAR was kindled at the May 19 MAC meeting. According to NCAA standards, to qualify for Division 1A football — with the big boys like Michigan and Notre Dame — a majority of the conference's 10 schools must average 17,000 fans per game.

Six MAC teams did last year, but one of those — Western — could not guarantee it would repeat this season. Panicky, the MAC presidents figured the only way to assure they wouldn't lose their precious standing was to drop one team.

At Monday's MAC meeting, they chose Eastern. Why Eastern instead of the other three schools with poor attendance (Ohio, Kent State and Ball State)? Good question. And MAC commissioner Jim Lessig had an eloquent answer: "There is no comment and there will be no comment."

Three conceivable reasons are EMU's poor attendance, poor record (1-10 last season) and its short tie with the MAC (a member since 1971). None of the other three combine those factors like EMU.

WHY DIVISION 1A? Dreams of grandeur, it seems. MAC schools have always dreamed of battling the Oklahomas and Penn States on the gridiron. Big-time football greatly enhances any institution of higher education — right?

And let's not forget greed. The Supreme Court threw out the NCAA's television package, meaning schools could negotiate TV contracts for themselves. The MAC has done so, signing a two-year, 24-game pact with Sportstime of St. Louis for nearly $600,000. It's a deal MAC officials say would never have happened without a 1A ranking.

So they dumped Eastern — for about $30,000 a year per school. Prices sure have risen since Judas collected his 12 pieces of silver in betrayal money.

The Hurons don't have to leave the conference entirely. The MAC presidents, no doubt moved to pity the poor Hurons, decided to allow EMU's other 21 varsity sports (more than any other conference school) to remain. They insured this by changing the conference bylaws, dropping a clause that said all schools must play football.

Of course, there's no way to be sure that these men of honor might not reinstate that rule in a year or so, should Eastern officials choose to drop football and stay in the conference.

ONE QUESTION remains. What about the kids? Guys like Dan Cohen (a North Farmington grad), Scott Niemiec (Redford Catholic Central) and Pat Bridge (Redford Union), now in their senior seasons; Frank Helmstetter (Rochester Adams), Scott Jurek (Plymouth Salem), Bill Kupp (Bloomfield Hills Lahser) and Rick Puler (CC), all freshmen just starting at Eastern; and John Widmer (CC), Mike Skiver (Redford St. Agatha), Tom Redilla (RU), Brett Petersmark (West Bloomfield) and Dale Boone (Westland John Glenn), all in mid-career.

What happens to them? Coach Jack Harkema doesn't know: "I'm concerned about our football players at this point," the second-year man admits. What he wants is clear: "We're going to fight like hell to convince the administration to keep football and drop out of the conference."

Then what happens to the athletes in other sports who came to Eastern to do battle in the MAC? It makes for a difficult decision, without much time to consider. As Harkema pointed out, "I'm just upset they left us just two weeks to decide the fate of a 91-year-old program."

That's the way of such gentlemen. They force the issue, but leave the final, ugly verdict — either drop football or drop out of the MAC — to be rendered by people already pushed into a corner.

I know what my decision would be. Leave gentlemen with such lofty ideals to themselves — they deserve each other.

Select team invades S'craft

By Brad Emons
staff writer

The Michigan AAU basketball team has something to prove.

Beginning Monday at Schoolcraft College, the state's top cagers will take on the 7-Up National Select Team, a highly touted group of high school blue chippers from across the country.

The two-game series concludes Wednesday night at U-D's Cailhan Hall.

Players from the 7-Up squad arrive tomorrow and begin a regimented six-day training schedule Saturday.

After the two-game exhibition series, the 7-Up cagers, in effect our Junior Olympic Team, will travel to Europe to play tournaments in Spain and Yugoslavia.

"Our players feel there's a lot at stake," said Michigan AAU coach Rocky Watkins, appearing on CKLW's Sports Talk show last week. "Our state reputation is on the line."

THE MICHIGAN AAU quintet clashes with a national team that boasts seven players who stand 6 feet, 7 inches or better. Michigan's tallest player is 6-8 Ben Morton of Detroit DePorres.

The national team features such stars as Indiana-bound Delray Brooks, one of two high school players invited to the U.S. Olympic Basketball Trials; 6-11 Californian Robert Lock, one of Kentucky's top recruits; and Denver's Craig Jackson, bound for UCLA (see player profiles).

Watkins will rely on the state's top high school players, but so far the Michigan team has come up short in two AAU tourneys.

This is the first time in six years that Michigan did not qualify for the National AAU Tourney in Jacksonville, Fla.

The Michigan squad finished fourth in the Midwest Zone Tournament in April in Anderson, Ind., losing 140-129 to the host team comprised of Brooks and Purdue-bound Troy Lewis, also on the 7-Up squad.

MICHIGAN THEN was eliminated from at-large consideration for the national tournament after losing in the

WHAT: Two-game exhibition series featuring the nation's top high school players, the 7-Up Select Team, versus the Michigan AAU squad.

WHEN: 5 and 7 p.m. Monday, July 23 at Schoolcraft College; 5 and 7 p.m. Wednesday, July 25 at University of Detroit's Cailhan Hall.

WHY: Schoolcraft College will be the site of a six-day training camp to prepare the 7-Up National Select Team for tournaments in Spain and Yugoslavia later this month.

HOSTS: The 7-Up Corp., Schoolcraft Community College and the National AAU.

TICKETS: $5 in advance, can be purchased at Schoolcraft College (July 23 game) and U-D's Cailhan Hall Box Office (July 25 game); $7 at the door. For more information, call 591-6400, Ext. 480.

DELRAY BROOKS

A 6-4 guard from Michigan City, Ind. (Rogers), Brooks signed with Indiana University. He was one of two players invited to the U.S. Olympic Trials. A consensus first-team high school All-American, Brooks averaged 33.4 points and shot 57 percent from the floor this season. The state's No. 5 all-time leading scorer, Brooks also excelled in the classroom with a 3.23 grade point.

Boston Shootout held in June.

But despite the Michigan team's failings, Watkins vows: "We won't let the Michigan fans down."

"We've been through quite a selection process ourselves," Watkins said. "We've been together for a few games now, and we intend to play the game from the middle of the floor and we intend to score from our defensive set-ups."

Watkins will most likely start 6-7 Tony Holfield of Oak Park at center, Michigan's Mr. Basketball Demetreus Gore at one forward and 6-7 Clarence Jones of Detroit Southwestern at the other forward.

Pontiac Central's Eli Parker, a pleasant surprise for the AAU squad, will be at one guard. The other guard could well be Jackson's Gary Thompkins or maybe Catholic Central junior John McIntyre. Another possibility is U-D recruit Archie Tullios of Saginaw.

THE GAMES most likely will be played at an up-tempo pace.

7-Up Select coach Bobby Bowman likes to play a transition style of ball. He was formerly an assistant coach six years at Southwestern Louisiana and is now the head coach of the Sarasota Stingers of the Continental Basketball Association.

The 7-Up team will hold two practices per day beginning Saturday at Schoolcraft, but workouts are not open to the public. The team will be headquartered at the Plymouth Hilton.

Plenty of tickets are available for the Monday night clash. For more information, call 591-2300, ext. 480.

The nation's elite

DANNY FERRY

The 6-11, 235-pound DeMatha High School (Washington, D.C.) standout is the only junior on the squad. Ferry averaged 17 points and 12 rebounds as DeMatha posted a 29-2 record en route to a No. 1 ranking in USA Today. He is the son of former St. Louis University All-American and ex-Piston Bob Ferry, now the general manager of the NBA Washington Bullets.

CRAIG JACKSON

The 6-8, 195-pound senior from Denver's Mosbelle High School signed with UCLA after leading his team to a 22-0 record and the Class 4A Colorado state championship. Jackson also carried a perfect 4.0 grade point and was selected as an Academic All-American. He was also named to the McDonald's All-American Dream Team.

JOHN JOHNSON

The 5-11, 160-pound guard from the Bronx signed with 1984 NCAA Final Four entry Virginia. Johnson averaged 19.8 points and grabbed eight assists per game as Tolerline High School posted a 20-8 record. He was a Converse All-American and was a four-year all-division pick in New York. This season he was All-City in the New York Post and Daily News.

BILLY KING

King, a 6-7, 195-pound forward from Sterling, Va. (Park View) signed a national letter-of-intent with Atlantic Coast Conference power Duke. He led his team to a 20-3 record as he averaged 20.4 points and 13.3 rebounds per game as a senior. He was also a fifth-team Street & Smith All-America and was a first-team Washington Post All-Metro choice.

ANDREW LANG

An early signee with Southwestern Conference power Arkansas, the 6-10, 225 Lang averaged 21.9 points and 14 rebounds per game as Pine Bluff, Ark. (Dollarway) finished with a 20-8 record en route to the state semifinals. This season he appeared in such post-season games as the Dapper Dan and seventh annual McDonald's East-West classics.

TROY LEWIS

The 6-4½, 185-pound guard signed with Big 10 runner-up Purdue after ranking in the nation's top 10 scoring list with a 35.5 point average for the Anderson, Ind. Indians. In the two-game Indiana state finals, Lewis set a record with 76 points. He was Indiana's co-Mr. Basketball with Brooks and was named to several All-American teams.

ROBERT LOCK

The 6-11, 225-pound Reedley, Calif. native will attend the University of Kentucky this fall. As a high school senior, Lock averaged 22 points and 15 rebounds per game in leading his team to a 22-4 record. He was a third-team Parade All-American and fourth-team Street & Smith All-America. Lock was also a four-time All-West Yosemite selection.

AL LORENZEN

Lorenzen made one of the earliest college verbal commitments ever when he chose Iowa his junior year. The 6-9, 225-pound Cedar Rapids, Iowa (Kennedy) standout led his team to the Class AAA state title for the first time in 12 years averaging 21.2 points and 10.2 rebounds per game en route to a 22-3 record. He was also Iowa's Mr. Basketball.

LEONARD TAYLOR

Recruited heavily by NCAA runner-up Houston, the 6-8, 210-pound forward from Lennox, Calif. (St. Bernard) opted for the University of California-Berkeley instead. During his senior year, Taylor averaged 30 points and 12 rebounds per game on a team that had six players earn major college scholarships. He was a fourth-team Parade All-American.

RAMON TRICE

A 6-7, 160-pound guard, Trice averaged 18.8 points and eight rebounds per game for Vashon High School in St. Louis, Mo. He signed a national letter-of-intent with 1983 NIT champion Fresno State. Trice was also the recipient of Vashon's scholar-athlete award. He was also named to the St. Louis All-Metro squad.

Michigan, 7-Up rosters

MICHIGAN AAU BASKETBALL ROSTER

Guards: Archie Tullios, 6-1, Saginaw Buena Vista (Detroit); Gary Thompkins, 6-3, Jackson (Iowa State); John McIntyre, 6-4, Redford Catholic Central (Junior); Terence Greene, 6-3, Flint Central (Junior); Eli Parker, 6-4, Pontiac Central (Iowa State).

Forwards: Demetreus Gore, 6-5, Detroit Chadsey (Pittsburgh); Glyn Blackwell, 6-4, Highland Park (Illinois); Chuck King, 6-5, Lapeer East (Eastern Michigan); Tom Domako, 6-7, Livonia Stevenson (Montana State); Jeff Grayer, 6-5, Flint Northwestern (Iowa State); Clarence Jones, 6-7, Detroit Southwestern (Iowa).

Centers: Tony Holfield, 6-7, Oak Park (Illinois State); Ben Morton, 6-8, Detroit St. Martin DePorres (Illinois State).

7-UP SELECT ROSTER

Guards: John Johnson, 5-11, Bronx (N.Y.); Tolentine, Ramon Trice, 6-2, St. Louis (Mo.); Vashon; Jeff Moe, 6-3, Indianapolis (Ind.); Brebeuf, Troy Lewis, 6-4½, Anderson (Ind.); Delray Brooks, 6-4, Michigan City (Ind.) Rogers.

Forwards: Craig Jackson, 6-8, Denver (Colo.); Montello; Billy King, 6-7, Sterling (Va.); Park View; Leonard Taylor, 6-8, Lennox (Calif.); St. Bernard; Al Lorenzen, 6-9, Cedar Rapids (Iowa) Kennedy.

Centers: Andrew Lang, 6-10, Pine Bluff (Ark.); Dollarway; Robert Lock, 6-11, Reedley (Calif.); Danny Ferry, 6-11, Bowie (Md.); DeMatha H.S.

Coaches: Bobby Bowman, head coach, Sarasota Stingers of the Continental Basketball Association (CBA); Jack Coit, assistant, St. Petersburg (Fla.) H.S.; Dave Spiro, assistant, Lakeland (Fla.); Kathleen H.S.

JEFF MOE

The 6-3, 185-pound guard reminds many of former Piston Johnny Mengelt with his aggressive style of play. Headed for Iowa along with Lorenzen, Moe averaged 25.5 points and 6.2 rebounds per game for Brebeuf High School in Indianapolis, Ind. In June, Moe played for the Indiana All-Stars in the annual Indiana-Kentucky basketball series.

Redford Caesars roars into 1st place

By Robert McElhanev
special writer

Redford Little Caesars manager John Moraitis gave his red-hot club an inspirational pep talk just before his team's game with Livonia Adray Sunday at Ford Field.

First place was on the line in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League (LCBL).

"We've beaten Adray three straight," Moraitis said, "But momentum won't get us runs. We've got to perform on the field."

Moraitis' inspirational speech did wonders as his team responded by hanging out 12 hits in a 3-2 triumph over Livonia, which relinquished first place for the first time this season.

It was Caesars' fourth straight win over the defending league champs, and their 10th straight victory and 13th triumph in their last 14 games.

Caesars leads by a half-game with three left to play (see standings). The two teams meet again at 6:15 p.m. Friday at Ford.

"CAESARS has great coaches and they're the favored team," said Adray manager Ron Hellier. "They have the momentum."

Moraitis, along with his son, third base coach Bob Moraitis, were upset by a previous Observer article that said Adray appeared well on its way again to Johnstown, Pa. for the AAABA Tournament.

"That angered us and it pumped the kids up," they added.

Caesars took a 3-0 lead in the first inning. Tyrone Gaines led off with a single and stole second. Don Taylor bunted safely when Adray pitcher Jay Bobel (3-3) slipped on the play. Carl Novick brought Gaines home with a single, and then Dave Cooper singled past shortstop Randy Baringer to score Taylor. John Rogers then followed with another single to make it three runs.

baseball

ADRAY cut the lead to 3-2 in the top of the second as successive singles by Don Dombey, Mike MacDonald and Dave Austin produced one run. MacDonald scored the other run when he went from second to home on two wild pitches by Caesar pitcher Todd Wallace.

In the bottom of the inning, Caesars put on a hitting clinic, scoring five runs.

Bobel was lifted in favor of Bob Warren, who gave up a walk to Novick followed by a Cooper single.

Rogers kept up the assault with a two-run single, scoring Taylor and Novick as Cooper moved to second and eventually scored on Wallace's single.

Adray catcher John Judge and Cooper then shoved at each other near the plate after the fifth run crossed home, emptying both dugouts. The umpires, however, quickly restored order.

WALLACE went the distance for Caesars, allowing just four hits in raising his record to 5-1. He walked four and fanned three.

Friday's showdown, the regular season finale for both teams, should determine the league champion and give the winning team momentum for the upcoming league playoffs, which begin Wednesday.

"We've got to get in gear," said Hellier, whose team has been on a tallipin ever since beating the Canadian Olympic squad. "We're the underdog now and that might help."

● CORRECTION

Physical examinations for athletes at Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Township originally scheduled for 5:30 p.m. Monday, July 23 and Tuesday, July 24 have been canceled.

The examinations have been rescheduled on the following dates: Monday Aug. 20 and Tuesday Aug. 21 — both at 5:30 p.m. at Plymouth Salem's second floor commons.

The Monday session is for male athletes, except for football players. The Tuesday session is for all female athletes.

There is a $8 fee. The physicals are for athletes competing in fall, winter and spring sports.

● CANTON KICKERS WIN

The Canton Kickers, a boys under-14 traveling select team, won the Northern Michigan Soccer Tournament in Petoskey last weekend.

The team, coached by Don Koontz, beat Sault Ste. Marie 9-1, the Downriver Olympians 8-0, Sault Ste. Marie again, 5-1 and then Canada in a 4-3 shootout to win the title.

● EAGLES TIE

The Plymouth-Canton American Eagles played William Penn to a 0-0 tie Sunday in the Great Lakes Mens Soccer League.

● HI KARATE

The Isshinryu Grand National Karate Tournament is scheduled for noon Saturday, July 21 at Canton High School's Phase III gym.

The tournament will feature some of the best performers in the world, including Steve Armstrong, a 10th degree black belt.

Competition will range in age groups from mini pee wee to heavyweight black belt.

The fee for 10 weeks of class is $35. The instructor is Sam Santilli, a fifth-degree master.

Registration takes place at 8 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays.

The contest, open to anyone, will feature people modeling their worst sneakers in front of a panel of judges. Finalists will have to perform a simple talent to prove the shoe is usable.

Sneakers should be worn from use — not abuse — warns Canton recreation director Bob Dates. Registration will be at 8:00 a.m. the day of the contest. Call 397-1000 for more information.

● KARATE CLASSES

Isshinryu karate classes are held every Wednesday and Thursday at the Canton Township Recreation Center, 44237 Michigan Avenue.

United squad eyes regional title

By Brad Emons
staff writer

The Livonia Hawks bill themselves as the "FLIP Rowdies of the future."

A girls under 16 team, the Hawks will represent Michigan this weekend in the Coca-Cola Midwest Regional Soccer Tournament at Schoolcraft College and Bicentennial Park.

The event kicks off Saturday with 70 teams from 11 different states — Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska — vying for boys and girls under 16, under 14 and under 12 division titles.

The Hawks, a team comprised of the some of the top high school underclassmen in the area, hope to follow the lead of the Rowdies, who captured girls under 19 Midwest regional crown three weeks ago at Schoolcraft.

The future, however, may be now for the Hawks. They won the Michigan state championship and the Midland Invitational (outscored the opposition 15-1) in June. They went on to finish second in the Fourth of July Wolverine V tournament at Schoolcraft.

THE HAWKS were edged by the Coca-Cola Soccer Club of St. Louis, 2-1, in the championship game of the Wolverine.

Missing numerous scoring opportunities, the Hawks' only goal came on a cross from Kim Montgomery to Jennifer Flowers in the second half.

In the semifinals of the Wolverine, the Hawks beat the Cincinnati Celtics, 2-0, on goals by Flowers and Montgomery. Dana Dugan assisted on the Montgomery goal.

The Hawks may well meet up again with the Ohio state champions, the Cincinnati Cardinals, who they beat 1-0 in the quarterfinals at Wolverine thanks to the superb goaltending of Shannon Moore and Lynne Shelly.

Soccer

"This team has been together since the under 12's," said Don Montgomery, the Hawks' spokesman. "We won the Wolverine II (in 1981) and we've been second two years in a row."

"In the fall season we tied for first in the Bonanza League with the Troy Netics. This team has a good record over the years."

OTHER MEMBERS of the Hawks include Shari Acetelli, Jackie Berry, Beckie Demetriou, Christie Green, Rosemary Hally, Andria Horn, Jamie Kubacki, Mary Palloni, Kris Schultz, Erica Skorpan, Amy Weber and Pam Webster.

Joining the Hawks as Michigan champions in the Midwest Regional are: Warren Capathia Kickers, boys under 16; Troy United, boys under 14; Vardar III, boys under 12; WSSL Stingers, girls under 14; and the WSSL United, girls under 12.

The championship matches begin at 10:30 a.m. Monday. Each age division, featuring 12 teams, will be divided into three groups of four. Each group winner and one semifinal round.

As part of the big weekend, there will be an entertainment and games night beginning at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at Schoolcraft's Waterman Center.

Admission is $1 as 10 prizes will be raffled, including a $1,000 home computer, donated by the G&M Data Corp. of Southfield.

WHAT: Midwest Regional Soccer Tournament for boys and girls under 16, 14 and 12. Sponsored by Coca-Cola and sanctioned by the U.S. Youth Soccer Association and hosted by Michigan State Youth Soccer Association.

WHERE: Schoolcraft College and Bicentennial Park in Livonia.

WHEN: All day Saturday and Sunday, 10-30

WHO: Some 70 teams from 11 different states.

ALSO: Opening ceremonies with presentation of state flags at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Northville High School; "Saturday Night Live" festival at 7:30 p.m. at Schoolcraft's Waterman Campus Center ($1 per person).

ADMISSION: Opening ceremonies, free; each day, $1 parking.

Rowdies seek national crown

For the first time, a Michigan under-19 women's soccer team will be represented in the National Youth Challenge Cup tournament sponsored by the United States Youth Soccer Association.

The FLIP Rowdies, a team comprised of players from Farmington, Livonia and Plymouth, will be one of four teams in the tournament being played this weekend in St. Louis.

The Rowdies, 18-0-1 this season, won a berth in the national tourney by capturing the Midwest Regional Soccer Tournament held at Schoolcraft Community College last month.

"Our original goal this season was to get to the national tournament," said coach Dave Lussier. "Now that we are there, I guess we have to reassess the goal. We will be going there to win it."

THE ROWDIES became the first Michigan contingent to make it to the nationals, not because of a lack of talent in the past. Rather, the regional qualifying tournament has always conflicted with the Michigan high school girls soccer season. This year, the USY-SA agreed to move the regional tournament back one week.

The Rowdies join teams from Dallas,

Seattle and Fairfax, Va. in the tournament, which will be played in a brand-new $3 million soccer complex erected by the Anheuser Busch Co.

The Rowdies drew Seattle in their Saturday opener. The championship match will be played Sunday night.

The Rowdies are Sue Ferguson (Farmington), Kim Paterson, Cheryl Galindo, Chris Lussier, Doreen Dudek, Pam Craigie, Lori Engel, Terri Groat, Andrea Bokos, Jennifer Huegll and Danielle Montroy (Livonia), and Colleen O'Connor, Margie Wangbichler, Kim Reeves, Annette Ruggiero, Lisa Russell and Shelly Staszal (Plymouth-Canton).

Dameron 2nd in nation

Team Michigan, a Computware-sponsored wrestling squad, made a strong showing at the AAU Junior Olympic National Wrestling Tournament held Saturday in Indianapolis.

The team took first place in the advanced classification (for 15- and 16-year-old wrestlers).

Leading the squad were local wrestlers David Dameron (Plymouth Salem), Dan Parilo (Farmington) and Jason Wiebeck (Livonia and Catholic Central) — all of whom placed at the national tourney.

Parilo was the national heavyweight champion Saturday. He was also the regional champ.

Dameron, wrestling at 130 pounds, took second at Indianapolis. He qualified for the nationals with a second place finish in the regional tourney.

Wiebeck, 112 pounds, placed third in the nationals after winning the regional title.

Build game on iron play

This, my second in a series on how to improve your golf game, concerns iron play.

On almost any golf hole, an iron club will most likely be used. Iron play is

- Long irons, which are the two, three and four clubs (and the one iron for the very confident golfer);
- Middle irons, or numbers five, six and seven;
- And short irons, which are the eight and nine and the pitching wedge.

All iron shots should be struck on a descending blow (on the downswing), meaning the ball position is of the utmost importance. For long irons play the ball slightly left of center and maintain an even tempo throughout the swing.

Most high handicap golfers lack confidence that the loft on the club will pick up the ball. They want to help the club get the ball in the air. Consequently, their swing becomes jerky and forced.

FOR MEDIUM IRONS, play the ball in the center of the stance, using slightly more work. Feet should be square to the intended line of flight.

For short irons, play the ball slightly to the right of center. This position will seem closer to the right foot, mainly because the stance is narrower than that taken for long iron shots.

Also, the left foot may be withdrawn slightly from the intended line of flight. It is most important to remember middle and short irons are primarily direction shots. So, instead of forcing or slugging a six iron, take out a five and swing smoothly at your target. Hit smooth — don't try to overhit the shot.

Keep the blade square to the intended line of flight, so that, even if you mis-hit, it will stay on the correct line toward the target. All solidly hit irons will have backspin, due to the descending stroke the ball is struck with and the follow-through.

One final note: On a windy day, use one club length more when hitting into the wind and one club length less when hitting against the wind.

Gary Whitener is golf pro at Whispering Willows Golf Course in Livonia, the site of the Observer & Eccentric Men's and Women's golf tournaments. Whitener is also secretary of the Michigan PGA. His golf column will appear weekly in the O&E sports pages.

Craiger wins 7th straight

Canton Craiger, Canton's entry in the Little Caesar's Amateur Baseball League (15-16), is quietly taking charge in the Mickey Mantle league.

The club has now won seven straight to lift its record to 14-3. They are currently tied for second in the league, just a game back of the leader.

On Sunday, Craiger used a bases-loaded triple from Mark Stevens in the seventh inning to beat North Farmington 11-7. Mike Clark got the win. Tony Aiken went 2-for-3 with a pair of RBI and Dan Young knocked in a pair with a single.

On Saturday, Canton got a superb pitching performance from Catholic Central-bound Mark Percha to down Walled Lake 2-1. Percha went seven innings, fanned eight and allowed just three hits.

2nd Distance Classic on go

The second Plymouth Distance Classic — a mile and an 8K roadrace run through the streets of Plymouth — is set for Sunday Aug. 12.

Last year's inaugural event, sponsored by Growth Works, Inc. and Henry Ford Hospital's Plymouth Center, was a huge success attracting more than 500 runners.

Run organizer Mike Spitz, Canton High School track coach and a counselor at Growth Works, hopes this year's event will be an even greater success.

The one mile fun run will begin at 8 a.m. The 8K (4.98 miles) will start at 8:30.

Certification of the Plymouth 8K course is pending from the Athletic Congress.

ADVANCE REGISTRATION is already under way, and will continue through Aug. 6. Advance registration fee is $8 for the 8K and $5 for the fun run. All advanced registrants will receive a tank-top running shirt.

All proceeds go to Growth Works, a Plymouth social agency that provides counseling, alternative education and job training to area youth.

Completed entry forms and fees may be mailed to Growth Works, Plymouth Distance Classic, P.O. Box 115, Plymouth 48170.

The race will feature 11 age categories for both male and female runners (14-under through 60 and over).

Love in the afternoon — Livonia-style

By Teri Benas
staff writer

The shoppers in the Livonia Mall had plenty of advice for Dr. Seneca Beaulac last week when New York actor John Gabriel stopped in to sign a few autographs and promote a new business venture.

"I think he looks too skinny," concluded one woman, loaded with purchases made at the bustling sidewalk sales that day in the mall. Her friend agreed. "He looks better on TV," she said upon eyeing the tall, very tanned and very lean actor.

Appearance aside, though, most of the shoppers were concerned about the good doctor's "love life" on "Ryan's Hope," the ABC soap opera he's starred in the past nine years. The biggest lament in Livonia land was that while most characters in the steamy soap opera world are falling in love and falling into bed, Beaulac is sidelined where the action's concerned.

"He should have more affairs," said 14-year-old Donna Iacovacci of Detroit confiding in her mother's presence that she was a "closest" soap watcher until she bought her own TV.

"He's very seldom on right now," said LaDeen Williams of Livonia. "I'm trying to think if there's an uneven girl on the show for Seneca) but they all seem to be taken up."

"He needs to get away from the clutches of Jillian," surmised Novi resident Fran Caruso, 59, speaking about another RH character and Seneca's longstanding love interest.

"Frank (Jillian's long-standing love interest on the show) is a wimp. She should grab Seneca; he's a strong character."

GABRIEL'S day started at 5 a.m. when he got up to make personal appearances on "Kelly and Co." and "Sonya" before moving on to the Livonia Mall. From there, he was shuffled into a long black limousine and whisked to Troy, where he had lunch at Uptown Charlie's before doing it all over again at the Oakland Mall. He had arrived in Detroit the previous night and had dinner in Greektown's New Hellas, which he found "quite wonderful."

The reason for the Detroit day-tour was to promote "Soap Opera Update" which began airing on WOMC-radio in Detroit last month. With Gabriel as its host, the program is heard 10:50 a.m. and 4:50 p.m. weekdays.

Another new venture in the wind are some television spots he will co-host with his wife, Sandy Gabriel, called "Trivia with John and Sandy." The 30-second spots will probably air here in the fall, he said. He likens the pairing with his wife of 16 years to a "Burns and Allen format." Sandy Gabriel is a soap-star in her own right, playing the character of "Edna" on "All My Children," another ABC soap.

For background, Gabriel's career began under contract for Fox Studios during which time the young actor starred in such movies as "The Hunters" and "The Story of Ruth." Sixteen years ago he returned to New York, his birthplace, and performed in a number of notable Broadway shows. To this day, he still makes singing appearances in clubs across the country. Then, his agent suggested he audition for a 13-day job on "Love of Life" that turned into a three-year stint and "I decided I liked it," Gabriel said.

WHILE Gabriel is branching out into other work now, he has no plans to leave "Ryan's Hope" for the moment. He recently signed a two-year contract, he said.

As for what's happening or not happening with his character, Gabriel appeared undisturbed when he explained: "Right now there's a lot of new characters coming on the show, becoming established, so some of the regulars are on (the side) a bit, but all that changes. Right now I'm (meaning Dr. Beaulac) dealing with Delia and trying to expose her in her involvement in causing her husband's heart attack." Meanwhile, the shoppers and business people in the mall last week seemed to enjoy have a "celebrity" around, particularly one who so patiently and politely autographed and addressed scores of publicity photos.

"I think they should do this more often," said Virginia Blaszczuk, 52, of Farmington Hills. "The mall is too blah, it needs excitement." Assistant marketing director Debbie Wannamakker said it's been five years "since we had one (celebrity) out. I think we'll be bringing in a Tiger player next. We'll also be having Zippy the Chimp for our next sidewalk sales."

'Chapter Two' missing spark

"Chapter Two" continues at the Farmington Players Barn Theater, 32332 W. 12 Mile, Farmington Hills, at 7:30 p.m. today, and 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday. For ticket information, call 553-0616.

By Barbara Michale

"Chapter Two" is not Neil Simon's funniest play, but it has its share of witty Simon one-liners that audiences lay up. The production by the Farmington Players is a satisfactory rendition and features excellent supporting cast members.

The play, which is autobiographical, begins shortly after the death of Simon's wife and chronicles his whirlwind courtship and marriage to his second wife, actress Marsha Mason. In "Chapter Two," Simon is mystery writer George Schneider (played by Jack Grulke) and Mason is actress Jennie Malone (Linda Findler).

Propelled into blind dates by his aggressive brother, Leo (Joseph Haynes), George is most reluctant to re-enter the mating game. Through a phone number, mix up, he unintentionally contacts his brother's latest recommendation, Jennie.

Her marriage having just ended in divorce, Jennie, too, is hesitant to date. Two weeks later they are married.

George is torn between his new-found delight

review

in Jennie and a nagging guilt that he is betraying the memory of the first wife he loved so dearly. He rushes head-long into marriage against his brother's advice, but once married, he becomes surly and flees from happiness.

GRULKE is a pleasant actor, convincing when he first shyly meets Jennie or succumbs to his overwhelming grief but never quite at ease with his many glib one-liners.

Finder is a competent Jennie but seems to strive too hard for witty repartee. Simon chivalrously places all the blame for his marriage's early difficulties on himself and portrays Jennie as almost saintly in her love and understanding; it is hard to breathe life into saints.

Haynes is marvelous as Leo, the smooth, fast-talking New York public relations man. His timing and vocal inflections are perfect. Leo gets some of the choicest lines, and Haynes delivers them with great polish.

As Faye, Jennie's closest friend, Mary Ellen Carraway is a superb supporting player. Unhappy in her own marriage, Faye hopes to match Jennie with the kind of man Faye wishes she had. Ward does a fine job with Faye's brittle, self-deprecating humor.

Director Mary Ellen Carraway never quite gets the sparks flying between the principals. It might have helped to change to a summer setting and spare the actors from woolen sweaters and heavy coats in the non-air-conditioned barn theater. (It was warm but not unbearable.)

Nevertheless, Simon is always dependable for an evening of laughter, and "Chapter Two" also adds poignant insight into the playwright's personal grief.

second runs Tom Panzenhagen

"The Sentinel" (1977), 11:45 p.m. Saturday on Ch. 7. Originally 90 minutes. TV time slot: 110 minutes.

Terrifying is the word for "The Sentinel," a haunting film set in a gothic, Brooklyn Heights brownstone. Cristina Raines stars as the bedeviled tenant. A fine supporting cast includes Alan Alda, Ava Gardner, Edmund O'Brien, Burgess Meredith, Christopher Walken, Chris Sarandon, Jose Ferrer, Arthur Kennedy and Sylvia Miles.

"Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" (1939), 1 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 50. Originally 129 minutes. TV time slot: 180 minutes.

Frank Capra didn't make movies, a lot of people say. He made dreams. If that's the case, "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" is a bad dream — not a bad movie necessarily, but a bad dream full of hyperbole. It's so overwrought with evil and duplicity, regret, retribution and, ultimately, patriotic zeal that from time to time you want to force your eyes open and end it all. Capra certainly wasn't subtle, and this is his least subtle work. James Stewart, Jean Arthur, Claude Rains, and Edward Arnold star. Rating: $3.10.

"To Be or Not to Be" (1942), 1:45 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 2. Originally 99 minutes. TV time slot: 105 minutes.

Film buffs, take note: The original "To Be or Not to Be," directed by Ernst Lubitsch, gets a rare TV shot this week. Mel Brooks' 1983 remake of the film about an acting troupe in World War II Poland received generally good reviews, but many critics said it didn't stand up to the original. So here's our chance to compare. Jack Benny, Carole Lombard, Robert Stack, Sig Ruman and Helmut Dantine star. Unrated.

Comedy Jam at Fisher Friday

Mike Binder is bringing his brash, innovative Detroit Comedy Jam back to the metro area for two shows at 8 and 10:30 p.m. Friday at Detroit's Fisher Theater.

"We're making a movie — full-blown — and we're really doing a thing here," Binder said. He described the movie as "a documentary concert film, like 'The Last Waltz,' only about comedians."

Appearing with Binder will be Paul Rodrigues of the short-lived TV series "a.k.a. Pablo," Howie Mandel of "St. Elsewhere" and Dave Coulier of Warner Amex's "Out of Control." The multi-media, two-hour concert also features the Comedy Jam Band.

"I want to make this a huge thing in Detroit every year," Binder said of the comedy jam, which he created and hosts.

Tickets at $14 are available at the Fisher Theatre box office, phone 872-1000, and all Ticket World outlets.

Nature Couple's photos come in close

By Mary Klemic
staff writer

When it comes to photography, Gary and Peggy Brewer both say they are "more comfortable behind the lens than in front of it."

But the Livonia couple seemed at ease talking about the topic with visitors recently. Some more attention will be focused on the Brewers' photography as their first exhibit is under way now through Aug. 1 at Gallery V. Gallery V is on the fifth floor of the Livonia City Hall, near Five Mile and Farmington roads.

Called "A Patchwork of Places," the display features 18 color photographs of primarily nature subjects. These include maple leaves, lilies, a fern, a waterfall and a sunset. They were taken at the Japanese Tea Garden in San Francisco, the Grand Tetons in Wyoming, Canada, Kentucky, Colorado, Florida, Greenfield Village and Cranbrook's Japanese Garden in Birmingham, among other places. Many of the photos were taken while the Brewers were on vacation.

"NATURE IS what interests us the most," Peggy said. "We travel quite a bit."

"My camera gets packed first, and then my clothes," Gary said.

Photo subjects can be almost anything from a river to a country basket, the Brewers said.

"It's just what is attractive, what attracts your eye," Peggy said. "We like to go hiking. We tend to stay in national parks and go on hikes. Vegetation and flowers attract me."

"I look for patterns, for an unusual way that the light is hitting the subject," Gary said. "I look for things that aren't really obvious, that you don't usually see."

aren't really obvious, that you don't usually see."

BOTH GARY and Peggy have been photographers for more than 12 years. Peggy, a personnel officer with Manufacturers Bank, caught the shutter bug when she worked on a company publication and had to take pictures for it.

"I thought, 'I'll never learn all these numbers and buttons,'" she said with a laugh.

Gary, a supervisor with the Ford Motor Co., said he had been interested in photography for "a long time. I took a class in college, and it all started from there."

Since that time, the Brewers have joined camera clubs and taken classes. Their photographs have received warm receptions. Some six years ago, the couple put together a slide show called "Mudflats to Mountaintops" and presented it at the Henry Ford Centennial Library in Dearborn.

"About 250 people came out, more than just our relatives," Peggy said. "It was set to music, a big production."

OTHER WORKS were sold and now hang in offices. Prints measure 11-by-14 (16-by-20, matted) and sell for $75. The Brewers accept custom orders.

"We could put together any subject or coloration someone's interested in," Peggy said. "It's very easy to do. We try to get the matting to match the print."

Photography is now a leisure-time activity for the Brewers, one that was interrupted when they moved into their new house. But it isn't one they take lightly. Gary develops black-and-white photos in his own darkroom. He built a display for slides and is working out a computer program to help keep track of the myriad shots taken. Some photographs hang on the walls of their house.

"I think of it as a retirement sort of activity. That seems like a long ways away," Peggy said. "I think some of the fun would be taken out of it if I did it for a living."

"It'd be a great second career," Gary said. "Just shoot when and where you want."

THE COUPLE uses two cameras — a Canon for Gary and a Nikon for Peggy.

"It worked out better this way," Gary said, smiling. "We can use two at the same time. If I want to buy a new lens, I don't get any argument."

"He only recently talked me into carrying a tripod," Peggy said.

Peggy sees photography as a way of communication and likes that aspect of it, she said.

"I just like to look at beautiful things," Peggy said. "Maybe evoke in them (the viewers) what the subject evoked in me."

Student enthusiasm is greatest reward

This is another in a series of lessons on art and drawing by special columnist David Messing.

He has taught for eight years and operates an art store, Art Store and More, 18774 Middlebelt, Livonia. Messing encourages questions and comments from readers. You may write him at his store or c/o Observer Newspapers, 23352 Farmington Road, Farmington MI 48024.

By David Messing
special writer

This article is mostly questions and answers, but first I want to again thank the many readers who have taken time to write or stop in the store. I deeply appreciate your backing and your comments and questions.

Perhaps one of my favorite scenes is when a red-faced teen stands next to his or her parents who are bragging about the abilities of their gifted offspring. I am always flattered that parents would want their teens to study at our facility. All of us at the Art Store have worked hard to reduce the waiting list. I feel a sense of emergency with pre-college teens trying to get into classes and have placed most all that were on the waiting list. Hopefully, soon after the first of the year our store and school will triple in size and increase our capacity to over 500 students a week. So be patient with us please.

artifacts

I really enjoy spreading pigment across a canvas, and I am intrigued as shades and textures are created with pen and ink. I am also pleased as I push and move clay around until a three-dimensional image appears. But nothing can match the sparkle in a student's eye, as enthusiasm, ability and inspiration are directed towards artistic expression. The young may be encouraged to pursue a career in the field of art, the adults to a commitment to draw and the elderly to a lasting visual expression. I am fulfilled by their success, because I draw or paint through the students. Just as in planting a garden there are many variables over which you have no control, still you can take some credit over the successful plant even if you only patted the earth over the tender seed.

QUESTION: I am in my early 20s, I am very artistic and am very frustrated because I am bored doing a 40 hour a week job that requires no ability.

ANSWER: Last week I mentioned my own personal frustration of being very busy in the field of commercial art, teaching and selling art supplies and still not finding time to do the type of artwork I want to do. On one side of the scale is earning a living, on the other is self expression and artistic goals. As earning a living requires less of my time I will fill the gap with artistic expression and creativity. But until that day, I will work hard at my business and not forget to commit some time to my own artistic expression. The scale must be balanced between business and art.

Regardless of what your "business" is, a housewife, hourly or white collar worker. If you possess artistic ability, it is critical that you use it, lest you become artistically stifled and unfulfilled. On the other hand, if you are not earning a living but are artistically active, you risk becoming artistically minded but of no earthly good.

So if you are trying to find a balance between business and art, don't be frustrated. Even if your particular business is uncreative, you can at least look forward to your committed time of the day or week when you indulge yourself in creative expression.

Here is a good example: Bob Parrish and I have become good friends through the Art Store. He always is in buying supplies, and when I am there I always enjoy asking him what this week's project happens to be. One week he is restoring a mural, another week he is entering a duck stamp contest.

Then he is off to a duck carvers show, meanwhile Dave Messing is Livonia bound doing commercial art with deadlines to meet, and art classes to teach. Hey! Bob even wears a barrel. One day his wife was in the store, so I asked, "Where is Bob this week?" With an art widow's grin she said, "some duck show in Canada." Finally I blurted out, "Boy I envy that guy." "Oh, really," his wife said. "Yeah . . . he seems so fulfilled. You know, he does all the media, goes to shows and stuff" (ain't I articulate). Proud of her husband she said,

"Yes . . . but do you know that's really funny you would say that, because Bob is envious of you, being surrounded by artists, students and all the different art materials at your disposal." So Bob, I guess our scales are in perfect balance.

In answer to the question, I believe every form of earning a living at some point becomes a "J O B." Maybe even something as noble as brain surgery can become "just another job." Please turn to Page 4

Institute of Arts turns 100 next year

In April, 1985, the Detroit Institute of Arts will begin a special yearlong celebration to honor its 100th anniversary.

The centennial program, titled "The Celebration of Excellence," will encompass all areas of the museum and include major exhibitions, performing arts presentations, art commissions and one-time events, special educational programs and publications.

Among the highlights of the centennial year will be an exhibition exploring automotive design and its impact on American art, a major international loan exhibition devoted to Italian Renaissance sculpture, an exhibition of works by contemporary painter Romare Bearden and retrospectives of the works of Mexican artist Diego Rivera and French painter Francois Boucher.

During the centennial, the Detroit Institute of Arts (DIA) will also highlight its own collection, one of the finest and most comprehensive in the U.S., and tour special exhibitions based on its holdings throughout the state of Michigan.

Joseph L. Hudson Jr., president of the Arts Commission of the City of Detroit which supervises the museum, said, "The yearlong centennial program provides the Detroit Institute of Arts with the opportunity to celebrate the achievements of the past 100 years and build excitement and momentum for the next 100."

The DIA's premiere centennial exhibition, "Automobile and Culture — Detroit Style," will open in June, 1985. This exhibition is made possible through the support of Time magazine. Walter B. Ford II, president, Founders Society Detroit Institute of Arts, said, "We are extremely gratified at the major commitment Time has made to our year of celebration. Their generous support will help guarantee that our centennial is truly a year of achievement and excellence."

Ralph P. Davidson, chairman of Time Inc. and also chairman of the Business Committee for the Arts, said, "We are enormously impressed with the extraordinary group of exhibitions and activities that the DIA has developed for the celebration of its Centennial year."

"We hope that many corporations throughout the country will assist with the funding of this unique and far-reaching endeavor. On behalf of my own corporation, Time Inc., we are extremely pleased to participate in 'The Celebration of Excellence' through our sponsorship of the exhibition 'Automobile and Culture — Detroit Style' as well as other projects which will be announced in the near future."

Founded in 1885, the Detroit Institute of Arts is the largest municipally owned museum in the U.S.

Its permanent collection encompasses virtually every period of art and archaeology and major world cultures, and includes: The largest collection of German Expressionism in the U.S., the third largest collection of Renaissance works outside of Europe and the largest collection of Native American art in North America.

The Detroit Institute of Arts has recently co-organized "Design in America: The Cranbrook Vision 1925-1950," which opened at The Metropolitan Museum of Art last April continuing to London and Helsinki.

Other major DIA-organized exhibitions currently on tour include "Between Continents/Between Seas: Pre-Columbian Art of Costa Rica," and "Treasures of Ancient Nigeria."

The DIA also houses a 1,200-seat auditorium-theater in which the Department of Performing Arts presents film, music and theater throughout the year.

The museum recently opened its new Albert and Peggy deSalle Gallery of Photography as well as the newly designed Asian galleries.

A new gallery devoted to Pre-Columbian art also is being planned. The DIA has a major 75,000-volume research library and houses an office of the Archives of American Art.

"Automobile and Fox Hunt" by Umberto Boccioni is one of the art works in the "Automobile and Culture — Detroit Style" exhibit scheduled for the Detroit Institute of Arts centennial in 1985.

'Sundog': great reading, serious theme

"Sundog," Jim Harrison; Dutton/Seymour Lawrence, $15.95
By Donna Orendorf
special writer

You don't have to know that Jim Harrison lives up north to figure out that he comes from Michigan. His new novel, "Sundog," captures the ambience of the U.P. with a precision that marks him a native.

It's not just his knowledge of the people up there, it's his understanding of the physical territory — the shrinking pine forests, the animals and fish, and, most of all, the fluid, frigid rivers — that makes his rendering authentic.

"Sundog" is the kind of novel Henry David Thoreau might have written if, instead of "Walden," he had written a novel.

It addresses the same "quiet lives of desperation" that troubled Thoreau. Only in this book, the problem is tackled by Robert Corvus Strang, the "Sundog" of the title and Harrison's protagonist.

A CURIOUS man in an incurious world, he laments that "most people never know more than vaguely where they are either in time or in the scheme of things."

It is a serious theme in an earnest book, but Harrison is too good a craftsman to let his message interfere with his story. Like the best of novels, "Sundog" entertains as it informs, drawing strength from Harrison's narrative skills, his poet's gift for words, and his biting, self-deprecatory humor.

The book is written in the "as told to" form, with Strang — a maverick American foreman who engineers dam projects all over the world — telling his life story to a novelist, identified in the frontispiece as Jim Harrison.

Because Harrison introduces his real name into his fictional world, the reader can't help but wonder if the story is autobiographical. Certainly, salient features of the flesh-and-blood Harrison and the fictional Harrison are the same — their physical build, their ironic view of life, their affinity for good cooking.

tion begins is impossible to say — and probably immaterial.

Still, it's safe to assume that Harrison's recent brush with fortune and fame (an experience that left him over- vated and deeply in debt) had a lot to do with the novelist he created. This character is overweight and into pills, more insecure than an orphaned child, and desperate for commitment to something.

When he hears about a self-reliant foreman who's gone home to Michigan to recover from a 300-foot fall down the side of a dam, he decides to pursue the story.

THE FOREMAN is a misfit, self-educated, unconcerned with material wealth, deeply committed to his work. He is also an epileptic, afflicted during a U.P. thunderstorm when his fishing boat was struck by lightning.

With medication, Strang's seizures are under control, but toward the end of a Venezuelan project his medication runs out and — rather than miss work — he takes a dangerous medicinal herb, prescribed by a native.

The herb triggers an attack of vertigo that catapults Strang over the side of the dam. Later he learns that the remedy induces mental confusion, varying degrees of paralysis, and, sometimes, even death. In combination with his epilepsy and his injuries from the fall, it leaves Strang a physical wreck, a man who looks "totally 'used' by life," according to the novelist.

When the two men meet, Strang can't even stand up without a walker and his speech is sometimes scrambled. Amazingly, he is optimistic about returning to his work. With his stepdaughter Eulla's help, he goes swimming in the river and crawling through the woods in hopes that he can re-pattern his brain for walking.

"I do the crawling because it's the only work at hand," Strang explains, "and I'm a worker and it's my only chance to get back to my real work."

In the face of such commitment, the novelist takes a closer look at his life and begins his own healing process. In his long journey back to mental health, the novelist recaptures the "fluidity and grace" of fully realized existence.

Since the novelist was born in Marquette, his journey to Strang's cabin in the U.P. is also a return to his boyhood territory. The real Harrison makes the most of his circumstance, hinting obliquely that the two main characters' lives may already have been linked without them ever knowing it.

It is the kind of unanswerable question Harrison likes to raise. Similar, in fact, to the story's ending. As the novelist confesses at the start of the book, he doesn't know whether or not Strang is still alive.

AFRAID of being hospitalized, the foreman — a night-swimmer since his youth — has slipped into the river and disappeared into the darkness. There are indications that he swam to a truck that Eulla had waiting for him, but we never find out for certain if that happened. What we do know is the ending the novelist imagines for Strang and that is indeed victorious.

As in most good stories, there's a romantic interest as well. When the novelist meets Eulla — an exotic Costa Rican with plenty of Latin charm — he won't let himself fall in love, remembering the year he wasted on an affair with another Latina.

But instead of settling for what she can get (in this case, recreational sex), Eulla calls his bluff and makes him humble. The scenes between these lovers are some of the most comical in the book, but they are also the most dense with meaning.

Harrison cuts to the heart of the tension between women and men. And if the writing is masculine, it is not the macho propaganda of which he has been accused. Eulla is recognized as an independent force, probably as strong as the men she encounters.

When a story works on as many levels as this one does, it's hard to cover all the bases. I leave it to scholars to discuss the symbolism of the water that "never stops" and provides Strang, a preacher's son, the "incredible sweet feeling I once got from religion."

They too can tackle the Oedipal conflict that reverberates between the lines, an accomplished ending of a primal desire that lends credence to Harrison's reputation as a mythmaker.

Fortunately, you don't have to plumb those depths to appreciate "Sundog." It's not just good art — it's great reading.

Save your child's sight

Could your child be clueing you that he or she has trouble seeing? Some signs may be excessive rubbing of the eyes, shutting one eye, difficulty with close work, frequent blinking, squinting or frowning, and recurring styes.

Selling a cartoon

haps two surgeons over a coffee, could be heard saying, "Well, I got one more head than I'm off for the rest of the day."

QUESTION: I am interested in submitting a "one box" style cartoon to a magazine for monthly printing, what size should it be? What paper should I do it on? Can I use felt tip markers?

ANSWER: First I want to thank you, Gloria, for your very nice letter. Secondly, I would like to encourage you to send your cartoon idea to the magazine. When I was 19, I did the same thing and my first reply was a freelance cartoon commission that spread to four other magazines and lasted for six years. By reaching that goal, I was encouraged to set new goals. The problem with many is that they forget to set new goals when they reach their original goal. Perhaps this condition is what prompted the phrase, "If your aim is nothing you'll hit it every time." So here is how to make a hit at that magazine.

First do your cartoon about 8-by-10. It will no doubt be greatly reduced if it is printed so keep your lines and shades clear so that it does not darken up too much in the process. I recommend you use hot press or cold press illustration board. In my early cartoons I used markers and upon return of the originals, I noticed how the ghost image of one would be transferred to the other in the mail so I recommend Higgins black magic ink for your nib or technical pen. I prefer ink wash for the shading, but I have also used zipatone screens on many of my cartoons. Send in four or more of your cartoon ideas so they can see how your style will develop into a usable asset to their magazine. You as the artist have the right to copyright them yourself. Merely put a "c" in a small circle next to your name in the cartoon box. My first printed cartoon was published in Campus Life Magazine which was also printed in 14 countries and my name wasn't with the cartoon. I didn't sign right next to it, or in the cartoon box.

Magazines are very honorable and will not try to cheat you out of your cartoons. As a matter of fact, on a few occasions I have received royalty checks from reprints of my cartoons from magazines of which I have never even heard.

If you have any other questions about this matter call me at the Art Store or make an appointment to see me. Good Luck! Let me know how it works out.

Art of seals is exhibit theme

Kings, priests and merchants all made their respective imprints in history with seals, most of which were only an inch or two in diameter.

Seals and seal impressions ranging in date from around 3500 B.C. to the present are on display in the exhibition, "The Art of Seals," now through Aug. 5 at the Kelsey Museum of Ancient and Medieval Archaeology at the University of Michigan-Ann Arbor.

The U-M exhibition, related to a long-term research project on seals that display curator Margaret Cool Root is conducting, brings together objects from seven university collections.

ADDED DIMENSIONS of the show, open to the public without charge, are a hands-on section where visitors can experiment making their own seal impressions on paper or foil, and a section featuring the contemporary uses of seals and stamps on such items as soaps, candles, cookies and ceramics. Although designed especially for children, this area has appeal for all ages.

Museum hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesdays through Fridays and 1-4 p.m. on weekends. Guided tours may be arranged by contacting the museum office at 764-9304.
