Teens gather at Kellogg Park on a humid summer night.

Where do you go for fun on a warm summer night when you're between the ages of 13 and 20 and live in the Plymouth-Canton community?

You don't want to stay at home to congregate," said Plymouth Police Lt. Dan Carpenter. "As long as they can do it reasonably, that's great.

"The other night I was out here and some guy came running through and busted one of those globes on the lights. Me and my buddles were going to go after him . . . but we didn't want to start any trouble," he said. Others shouted for some drivers on Penniman to slow down, while that no one is laying around drunk or needing help."

the police completely close it down. Then I'll just have to find another place to go until they close that," a Plymouth teen-ager said.

Plymouth Township residents op-posed to a proposed shopping center at. Ann Arbor Road and Haggeriy have won their first battle.

The township planning commission voted unanimously last week not to recommend the needed rezoning the shopping center. The soning ing for now moves to the Wayne County Plan-ning Commission and then to the township board of trustees for a final deciis approved The parcel is on the northwest side of the Ann Arbor Road/Haggerty intersection with limited frontage on Ann Arbor Road as well as access to Haggerty. The land backs up to residential property and completely surrounds a row of homes on the west side of Haggerty. Selective hopes to build a 150,000 square-foot shopping center, expected to cost about $10 million, according to spokesman Michael Horowitz

Their recommendation is made for the township board, which must make the ultimate decision on the request. Prior to Wednesday night's public hearing, a petition with 430 signatures was filed in opposition to the resoning was filed in opposite. with mom and dad but you're not old enough to enjoy the adult night spots around town. So you head to Kellogg Park.

Night after night teen-agers gather at the downtown Plymouth park as they have in years past.

Like those who preceded them, today's "younger set" comes to the park by foot, on bikes and in cars. They gather to talk, have fun, and see each other.

WHAT IS DIFFERENT from years past is the feeling of mutual respect between the park-goers and the officers who police the park. "It's a good, cheap place for them

Carpenter said the teens police themselves. He said they know the police could get tough with them if they get out of line.

We respect one another's position. In some cities the police tell kids to move and if they don't, they hit them with a club. That's not the way we do things out here," he said.

A RECENT visit to the park revealed that the teen-agers know the rules and know the police have a job to do when they enforce those rules. "They're just doing their job," said one park-goer from Livonia. He said it's only a few at the park who his born to "shut-up."

Most of the activity at the park centered on talking with friends, possibly smoking a cigarette and watching the cars pass on Penniman, or listening to music and playing Frisbee.

There was some alcohol, but no one appeared to be drinking excessively. Most of those approached were friendly and anxious to discuss the park.

"There's some alcohol around here, but the kids drinking it aren't out of control," another park-goer said. "You can look around and see e to m narco rests in the park," Carpenter said. 'The narcotics aren't out there now.

We get an occasional open liquor violation. But out at the park it's mostly local kids just getting togeth-PT.

Kellogg Park is a better place for teen-agers to go than other local spots, he said. An example is the field off Ridge Road in Plymouth Township.

Carpenter said the trails out in that field make it a very dangerous spot.

FOOT HEALTH TODAY

WALKING YOUNG

QUESTION: My wife says I walk much older than my years. Does a person's walk change as he gets older?

ANSWER: It's often not a matter of age but a physical condition, including the condition of your feet. If your feet are causing you discomfort or pain, your gait may make you look older than your years. By the same token, even an older person, if his body and feet are in good condition, can seem much younger. Walking with a spring to your feet, with a jaunty rhythm and ease, is to walk young. It can also make you feel young. Almost all foot problems can be overcome. You may have a tendency toward hammertoes or bunions, for example, but that doesn't mean you have to live with them. Your podiatrist can treat you for these and other conditions.

"There was a death out there last year," he said. "That's state land now and we go out and patrol it. Anyone we find out there is trespassing and they are ticketed."

Another hot spot not encouraged is the Burroughs parking lot on Plymouth Road.

"On graduation night there were a lot of kids out there and one kid got hit in the head with a beer bottle," he said.

KEEPING KELLOGG Park under control didn't come without some grief, however.

Carpenter said the police have written quite a few tickets to enforce and establish the closing time. They also have done some plainclothes work.

A total of 18 tickets have been written thus far this month in the park and on adjacent Main Street. Eleven of the tickets were for consuming alcohol in the park, two for possession of alcohol by minors, and five for such items as drunk driving, playing music too loud, urinating in public, and open alcohol in a car.

Most of the tickets were written for Canton and Plymouth residents, with several for residents from Redford. Garden City, Livonia and Farmington Hills. Almost all the tickets were written after 11 p.m. - after police close the park.

"Kids being kids, we realize they get involved in some things up there. They smoke grass up there and we know it," Carpenter said. "If we see it, we do something about it. But the kids are not dumb - they hide it."

Yet Carpenter, also the department's youth officer, says the opportunities available to teen-agers in the park aren't any different than those they face elsewhere, including the schools.

As parents we must teach them and guide them and hope they make good decisions in life.

Drunk arrests drop

Canton drunk driving arrests dropped 60 percent in July from June totals, according to figures recently released by the Police Department.

Thirty-eight citations were issued for drunk driving in July. In June, 60 were written.

Reasons for the decrease are twofold, said Police Chief Jerry Cox. "Right now seven people are off on sick leave or vacation and we ran out of grant money for the program," said

The State Office of Highway Planning and Safety provides grant money for drunk driving arrest programs. Canton receives its share of the annual grant through Wayne County. 'The money is used for staff overtime, gas, and oil," said Canton Grants Coordinator Terry Carroll.

Canton should receive its 1985 grant shortly after the first of October, according to Carroll.

"As an area gets identified as a retail area, the better the whole area becomes."

PLANNING COMMISSION decisions also were made on two other rezoning requests Wednesday night.

The commission voted not to recommend commercial zoning for another Ann Arbor Road site, while recommending industrial zoning for a Beck Road parcel.

The other Ann Arbor Road land is west of Sheldon, across from the Big Boy Restaurant. The land is owned by Margaret Wilson and currently is zoned for multiple family residences.

Wilson is seeking general commer-cial zoning to build retail shops. The planning commission, however, be-lieves the rezoning wouldn't be a good idea because the land backs up to resi-dential properties. Typically the com-mission desires a "buffer" between commercial and residential properties. The commission did recommend industrial zoning for a 52-acre Beck Road parcel at M-14 currently zoned for single-family residences. The Marcello and Silvio Building Co.

of Garden City hopes to build a research park on the site. Plans call for 12 buildings of varying sizes from 6,400 to 50,000 square feet.

'Lifeline' electric rates put on hold

By Penny Wright special writer

A state effort to end so-called "Lifeline" electricity rates has been placed on hold, at least until fall, by the Michigan Public Service Commission

Attorney General Frank Kelley, the only intervenor in the PSC rate case, asked the delay in order to study a tentative rate agreement reached by the PSC staff and Detroit Edison Co.

Under Lifeline, electric customers are charged a lower kilowatt hour rate for basic household service. The plan is intended to promote energy conservation by charging high-user households higher rates.

"The attorney general contends that the proposed rate changes would promote more electric usage, not conservation," said Hugh Anderson, who represented Kelley's office in PSC hearings. "Detroit Edison is still dominated by engineer types whose work ethic is to build power plants.

THE HEARINGS began Aug. 8. They are scheduled to resume Sept. 11.

First adopted by Detroit Edison at the direction of the Michigan Legislature and PSC in September of 1981, Lifelane rates depart from the previous flat-rate structure. They based the amount paid for electricity on the number of permanent residents in a household and the amount of electricity used. According to PSC staff member Jane Ashley, the proposed rate changes make possible a fairer distribution of costs related to providing electrical power to Detroit Edison's 1.5million residential customers.

She said the final PSC decision will not result in higher total revenues for Edison, but more likely result in some customers paying more while others pay less.

ASHLEY DESCRIBED the proposed rate structure as including:

• A minimum service charge of 13 cents per day for basic costs of meter, billing and line service.

• A modified inverted rate structure which would charge a certain price for the first $10 kilowatt hours (kwh) used per month. If more than 510 kwh are used, the price would go up a half-cent.

• Use of family size to determine rates would be discontinued. Critics charge the practice invades privacy.

· Senior citizens would have residential rate options for water, space heating and central air conditioning. Ashley said the "inverted" rate - where slight penalty for higher electrical consumption in contrast to Lifeline rates.

Asked if that would encourage conserva-tion, the PSC staffer answered, "The strongest signal is what the total bill reads."

CURRENT LIFELINE rates, approved March $1, 1981 by the PSC, are broken into two categories. They are:

• Two residents or fewer - 6.56 cents for each of the first 12 kwh, 9.94 cents for each of the next nine kwh, and 13.35 cents for anything more than 21 kwh.

• Three or more residents - 6.56 cents for each of the first 17 kwh, 9.94 for each of the next 10 kwh, and 13.35 cent for anything over 27 kwh.

Major criticism of current rates comes from high users who complain that the "tailblock" - the highest consumption rate - is too steep.

DETROIT EDISON officials point out that the severe rise in rates at the tailblock is the steepest in the nation. Edison doesn't believe the structure has produduced the intended effect

"The original intent of Lifeline rate structure was to foster conservation and help low-income families," said Allan Pert, director of customer relations services at Detroit Edison.

"The structure did not recognize that there are valid reasons for large consumption for certain c

Pert cited a study of 600 welfare families which showed public-assistance households used more than 604 kwh per month. In con-trast, average non-welfare families used only 500 kwh per month.

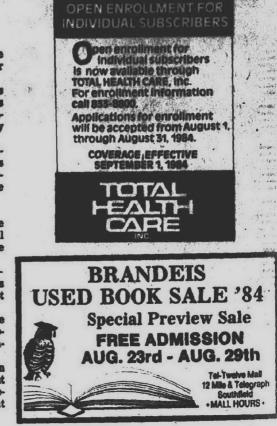

Reasons for the difference: Welfare recipients usually live in poorly insulated homes and cannot afford to go out so often. "Lowerincome people spend more time in the home and consume more electricity," Pert said.

THE MICHIGAN Legislature prompted the new look at Lifeline when it passed, on April 12, PA 139, a mandatory requirement that the PSC set a Lifeline rate structure.

Now the PSC can set any rate structure even Lifeline - as long as that rate promotes energy conservation and is based on the cost of providing service.

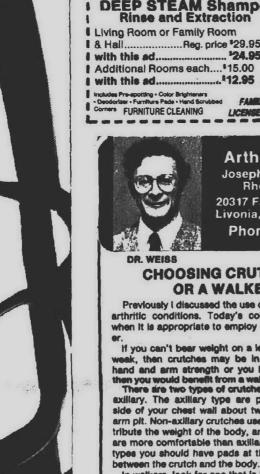

Anderson of the attorney general's office said Detroit Edison doesn't have proof its proposed rate structure will promote conservation

"Interestingly," Anderson said, "Edison in other rate cases has shown that significant conservation has been brought about by Lifeline rates. Now, are they trying to tell us that those studies are a fraud?"

Elephants tested bridges when circus arrived

(Part 3)

In his paper about boyhood on the family farm west of Plymouth, Charles Root Jr. said his grandfather told him that circuses travelled along Ann Arbor Road after the Civil War, putting on performances at various stops between Detroit, Ann Arbor and Jackson. When the circus travelled from town to town, the elephants always led the caravan. If they refused to cross a bridge, that bridge was considered unsafe and had to be shored up with timbers and then elephant-tested again before the heavy wagons were drawn over.

"One year when the circus was going past the Root farm, it stopped overnight, camping in a field across the road. The elephants got loose, went into a farmer's barn and ate up all the oats he had in the bins."

ROOT'S FATHER told him that an electric interurban line was almost built between Plymouth and Ann Arbor.

"In 1901, Harry Boland, superintendent of the Suburban Electric Railroad lines, started to build a trolley car line after buying land from farmers and moving their buildings back from the proposed right of way.

"A huge pile of ties was unloaded beside the Pere Marquette Railroad tracks a short distance south of Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth. All the farmers were very enthusiastic about this. One of them, Will Burrell, who owned a sawmill and a threshing outfit, bought 17 acres of land on the southeast corner of Gotfredson Road and Ann Arbor Road and built a barn there. The Boland interurban line never materialized so Burrell sold the property."

How Detroit lost its Olympic bid

Like countless thousands of others who kept their eyes focused on the television screen while the Summer Olympics were in progress, each time the action turned to the Coliseum, The Stroller wondered how such an amphitheater would fit into downtown Detroit. Dreaming?

No. It may not be remembered by the present generation but such an amphitheater was headed for Detroit and would have been built for the summer games in 1968, if the executive committee of the United States Olympic Committee hadn't made one of its political moves and counted Detroit out after it had been named as the bidding city.

In 1967, the Detroit bid for the summer games was made and Detroit seemed assured that the Moto start the ball rolling, he presented the present fieldhouse to Wayne State.

Along with these plans, good use was found for the State Fairgrounds for the equestrian events and the Detroit River was only a few blocks away for the boating events.

Then came the jolt.

Without a bit of warning Mayor Cavanagh was on information furnished by an unsportsmanshiplike competitor - the city of Los Angeles and the state of California. He added that Detroit and Michigan would carry out all commitments to act as host of the games. But his plea went unheeded.

Can you imagine what Detroit would be like if the plea had been honored? We would have a giant stadium in downtown Detroit. There would have been no need to build the Silverdome in Pontiac and all the Detroit teams - including the Lions and Pistons - would sitll be playing before the "home" folks.

Nothing would have been the same once the games were held here.

But the Olympic Committee long has been noted for unusual decisions and the spurning of Detroit after it had been named the bid city is one of the worst in Olympic history.

Superior Grange Band which was organized in 1885. Band members practiced in the basement of the Free Church that stood at the corner of Gotfredson and Ford Roads. They played at county fairs, celebrations and on other occasions

Today on the site where Augustus Root built his log cabin in the 1830s on Ann Arbor Road, seven miles west of Plymouth, stands a large white farm house. The front part was built in the 1880s from timber cut from the Root property. The back part and an attached garage were built in 1932.

Behind the house is a hip-roof barn built in 1938. Most of the timber used in its construction was cut on the farm or salvaged from old barns that once stood nearby.

WHEN HE WROTE his paper, Charles Root and his wife Doris owned the farm. That was in 1967.

Across the road from it was another Centennial Farm, then owned by his uncle (John C. Root) who died that year. The two farms had been one until the death of Root's grandfather. At that time they were divided between Root's father and his brother John.

Boyhood memories came to Root as he sat at his typewriter. "I have lived through the great transition from the horse and buggy age to the jet age," he wrote. "When I was 8 years old I drove a team of horses on a spring-tooth harrow and on a wooden roller to fit the ground for planting crops.

"At haying time I drove old Dolly as she pulled on the long rope that moved the hay fork, with its bundle of hay, from the wagon up to the hay-car on its track under the peak of the barn roof.

'When Dad yelled 'all right!' I would cluck my tongue loudly and snap the reins on the old mare's rump and keep her going until Dad yelled 'Who-a-a!' Mother used to drive to Plymouth in our horse-drawn buggy before we got our first Model T Ford. I can remember her driving me in the horse and buggy to an eye doctor in Ann Arbor, which took all day. We got home after nightfall in a soaking rainstorm."

Ann Arbor was a dirt thoroughfare when Root was a boy about 1920. It was dusty in summer, muddy and full of deep chuck holes in the fall and spring, and passable only by team and bobsled, or one-horse sleigh, with jingle bells, in winter.

Ann Arbor Road was finally paved, with the help of labor from Jackson Prison. "While watching the first cars whiz by on the new pavement one Sunday, my father told visitors that his father had sat on the front porch back in the 1890s with a neighbor who remarked: 'Curran, some day you will see a buggy going along that road without a horse.' My grandfather shook his head, laughed and said he didn't think

My thanks to Charles Root for permission to use his paper. Today, the Roots live in Florida, miles and miles away from the ancestral home which they sold 17 years ago. But Root still remembers with nostalgia his boyhood days on the farm. And Doris Root recalls with pleasure their days in Plymouth schools and the home they once lived in on Ann Street.

Are ugly people bad? Why dodge them?

Those of us who were not fortunate enough to be born a perfect "10" are taught to take consolation in the old adage that "Beauty is only skin deep." It's a comforting thought - but do we really believe it?

Our attitudes when encountering people who are physically attractive and people who are physically de-formed suggest that, down deep, we be-lieve that outer appearance is a good indication of what the inner person is really like.

We have a tendency to assume that beautiful people are virtuous and com-petent, that deformed individuals are omehow defective and different.

RESEARCHERS from Gettysburg College recently studied the attitudes of 124 college students toward female rape victims. Students consistently indicated that the unattractive women were more responsible for the assault than were the attractive victims.

Students tended to judge the unst-tractive women's dress and behavior to be provocative. Research participants also were more inclined to see personality flaws in the unattractive victims than in their attractive counterparts.

Although male students were more biased than female students, both sexes displayed the general tendency to attribute innocence to the attractive vic-

In addition to demonstrating a subtle blas against the unattractive, this study also underscores some problems encountered in our legal system when a rape victim presses charges against her assailant.

Is it possible that a jury tends to be less convinced about a rapist's guilt when the victim is unattractive? Will a jury tend to be more inclined to find a defendant guilty if the victim is attractive because, "how could this beautiful young woman possibly lie about something so hideous?''

HOW WOULD you react if a person with a permanent disfigurement of the face stood next to you at a bus stop? Would your reaction be any different if the person's disfigurement were obviously temporary, perhaps scars and bruises as the result of a recent accident?

Remember, now, beauty - or the lack of it — is only skin deep. Well, if you're similar to the 450 London pedestrians recently observed by British researchers, you probably would try to keep a distance from the disfigured person, especially if the per-son were permanently disfigured. In the British study, pedestrians on a busy street were observed as they stood alongside one of three people; ei-ther a person with a birthmark under the right eye, a person with sparring and bruising under the right eye, or a person with no disfigurement. The pedestrians stood an average of 39 inches from the person with the birthmark, 31 inches from the scarred and bruised person and 22 inches from the undisfigured person.

the undisfigured person. The pedestrians tended to stand on the left side of the disfigured persons (the normal side) more often than when standing next to the undisfigured person. Those pedestrians who did stand on the disfigured side maintained an even greater distance than the averages reported above.

I ASSUME that most of these London pedestrians did not fear that the deforIt app bout th uty may be only skin deep, exists within most of us a subti fice favoring the attractive. This quirk of human nature is unfortunated for it may easily blind us to the true and lasting beauty that may exist within any person.

Shopping Cart Suburban life inside suburban life inside Monday, August 20, 1984 O&E BAG YOUR LUNCH

If you packed a lunch today, you're not alone. Brown bagging has become a "hot" trend. In fact, statistics show that approximately nine million brown bag lunches are consumed in this country each year!

Given the current interest in nutrition and fitness, not to mention time and money, it's not hard to figure out why so many people of all ages and 'lifestyles - are carrying brown bags. By packing their own lunches, people have much greater control over what they eat at the midday meal.

Nutrition experts recommend that we eat a wide variety of foods from each of the six major food groups each day. Adults need four servings each day from the CEREAL/BREAD group; two servings from the MEAT/POUL-TRY/FISH/EGGS/LEGUMES/ NUTS group; two servings from the DAIRY PRODUCTS group; two servings from the VEGE-TABLES group; two servings from the FRUITS group; and one serving (one tablespoon) from the OILS/FATS/MARGARINES group. Keep in mind, however, that the recommended number of servings differs with age, lifestyle and physical activity.

Children, because they are growing, need more basic nutrients in relation to body weight than adults. The adolescent years often bring the demands of increased activity and rapidly-accelerated growth. Thus, sound eating habits are especially important during the teen years. Teenage girls, often preoccupied with weight control, may be deficient in iron, calcium and other nutrients. For the sake of future health, it is important that they consume a diet that meets their individual dietary needs.

Dieters need to choose wisely from the various food groups to be sure that the fewer calories they're eating still provide a wide assortment of essential nutrients in their diets. Busy working folk and active homemakers alike, pressured by demanding schedules, should pay particular heed to well-balanced diets to ensure the stamina they need to match their fast-paced lifestyles.

Since nutritionists recommend that lunch make up one-third of the daily nutritional quota, what goes into that brown bag is very important. It's easy to see why the time-honored sandwich is the basis of most carried lunches. It combines good-for-you, mixedgrain bread with meats or other protein foods, vegetables, fruits and cheeses or other dairy products needed for a well-balanced diet.

And the bread is more than just packaging. Mixed-grain bread contributes important nutrients to the diet, including complex carbohydrates, B-vitamins, protein, iron, phosphorous and calcium, as well as dietary fiber.

Each of the sandwich recipes and menus included here is unique, designed to meet the nutritional requirements and taste preferences of a specific age or lifestyle group. School kids, teenagers, dieters and busy execs there's something here for almost everyone.

For a booklet of great sandwich recipes and brown bag tips, send a self-addressed, stamped, business-size envelope to: Roman Meal Company, Department BC-2, P.O. Box 11126, Tacoma, WA 98411-0126

Bored with barbecue? Perk up with cold crab soup

If you consider hearty, rich soup a perfect and satisfying meal for the cold weather, you are absolutely right. But what about summer, and the glorious warm weather it brings?

Although stew and other hearty concoctions may be ideal for the winter months, they seem both unappealing and too heavy for the warm months of summer. But for a variation on a great idea, why not try chilled or iced soups that are both refreshing and innovative, and light enough for the warmest summer evening!

Soups, while nutritious and filling, also provide a creative culinary breather for the warm-weather cook who is probably already tired of the summer barbecue repertoire.

Most chilled soups require only minimal cooking time, and the advance preparations necessary to complete the recipes are swift.

The appealing combination of simple yet diversified recipes makes chilled soup a welcome newcomer to summer menu options. While adding something new, they are also a fresh outlet for luscious summer fruits and vegetables and different shellfish as well.

The recipe for Cold Crab Soup, reproduced from "The Star of Texas Cookbook" (Doubleday & Company Inc.) compiled by the Junior League of Houston, is by far one of the easiest of chilled soup recipes. This soup requires no cooking time, and the combination of crab meat and buttermilk with fresh dill makes it lusciously flavorful and a perfect first course for even the most elegant dinner party.

COLD CRAB SOUP 1 tbsp. dry mustard 1 quart buttermilk 1 tbsp. chopped fresh dill or ½ tsp. dried dill 1 tbsp. salt 1 tbsp. sugar 1 lb. fresh lump crab meat, drained and picked 1 cup shredded cucumber for garnish Paprika for garnish

Mix mustard with a little buttermilk until blended. Add dill, salt, sugar, and remaining buttermilk. Add crab meat and mix in gently to retain lumps. Chill for several hours. Garnish with cucumber and sprinkle with paprika. Serves 6.

THE RECIPE below for Chilled Fresh Tomato Soup, reproduced from "Cooking with Bon Appetit: Soups and Salads" (Knapp Press), is a lighter version of a cool weather favorite. It is ideal to serve as a vegetarian dish for vegetable stock serves as the soup's base.

CHILLED FRESH TOMATO SOUP 2 tbsp. olive oil 1 medium onion, sliced 1 medium carrot, sliced

<sup>1/3</sup> cup chopped fresh parsley 2 garlic cloves, mashed 4 large ripe tomatoes, peeled, cored and chopped 1 sprig fresh basil

1 tsp. salt 2 cups vegetable stock

Lemon or lime wedges

Heat oil in medium saucepan over medium-high heat. Add onion, carrot, parsley and garlic and saute until wellsoftened. Transfer to food processor or blender with tomato, herbs and salt; puree. Add vegetable stock and mix well. Cover and chill thoroughly. Serve with lemon or lime wedges.

Puree can be put through wire strainer for a soup with smoother consistency.

IF THE chilled soup recipe for which you are looking needs to be more filling, to serve as a main course for family or guests, there are many alter-natives available.

According to Yvonne Young Tarr au-thor of "New York Times Bread & Soup Cookbook," delicious soups can be made with 10 minutes of preparation.

Tarr offers her own secret for successful soups: substitution. She reminds readers to take advantage of all available food, pre-prepared, frozen or canned; anything you find and make use of, will add to your cooking. The importance of imagination is essential.

The following recipe, for Cold Guacamole Soup, reproduced from "The New York Times Bread & Soup Cookbook," makes use of her advice for using leftovers or whatever you have available to you.

COLD GUACAMOLE SOUP 2 large ripe avocados 5 cups chicken broth 1% tbsp. mayonnaise 2 cups heavy cream 34 cup ripe tomatoes peeled, seeded and coarsely chopped 1 tsp. chili powder 10 drops tabasco sauce 2 tbsp. lemon juice

Peel, seed and chop avocados. Reserve ¾ cup. Place pit and lemon juice in the cup and refrigerate. Place remaining chopped avocado in blender container with ¼ cup chicken broth. Blend until smooth, stopping occasionally to push contents down against blades. Add the remaining chicken broth and mix thoroughly. Place in a glass or enamel pot and bring slowly to a boil. Lower flame immediately and simmer over very low flame for 5 minutes. Cool. Meanwhile peel, seed and chop the tomatoes and peel and chop onions.Refrigerate. In a small bowl add the cream, a bit at a time, to themayonnaise, stirring until smooth. Add the mayonnaise-cream mixture to the cooled avocado soup and chill well. Just prior to serving, stir in remaining ingredients including reserved chopped avocado with pit removed. Serve very cold, garnished with Lemon Ice Cube.

ALSO FROM Tarr's books is this recipe for refreshing Strawberry, Lemon or Lime Ice Cube.

STRAWBERRY, LEMON OR LIMI ICE CUBES

Strawberry This lemon on slices Thin lime slices Water

Place water in ice cube trays. Tuck a strawberry or slice of fruit in each compartment. Freeze, Serve in Colc Soups.

ANOTHER APPEALING choice for chilled soups prompts a selection from fruit. While both naturally sweet and refreshing, they also allow you to take advantage of the fresh fruit crops whose availability is also at peak dur ing the summer months.

A wonderful and almost dessert-like soup is the following recipe for Cole Strawberry Soup. Served elegantly in a champagne "flute" glass, it makes a wonderful appetizer or even a rich and creamy dessert! The recipe is from 'Great American Cooking Schools Soups & Salads" (Irena Chalmers Cook books Inc.) by Sandi Cooper.

COLD STRAWBERRY SOUP Sugar syrup made from 1/2 cup water and 1/2 cup sugar, heated until the sugar has completely dissolved 4 cups fresh, ripe, cold strawberries 2 cups Rhine wine, chilled Grated zest of two lemons 2 tsp. Angostura bitters Decoration: 1 cup plain yogurt 8 tiny rose geranium leaves or 8 fresh mint leaves Prepare the sugar syrup and allow it to cool. Refrigerate. Puree the cold strawberries in a food processor or blender. Add the remaining ingredients to the processor and blend. Add the cold sugar syrup and blend again.

Serve this soup in an iced champagne "flute" with a tiny fillip (½ tablespoon) of yogurt floating on top. Decorate the yogurt with the fresh leaves.

Once you add chilled soups to your summer menu as an appetizer, main course or even dessert, you will find their ease amd refreshment essential elements in summer entertaining.

An old idea whose time has returned

Packaging produce for consumers has come full cycle. When I was a youngster, you had to fend for yourself: scoop up the vegetables and plop them in faithful brown bags. I do recall that at some grocery stores there was a produce person who did the weighing and marking up.

Not long ago some marketing genius decided loose was out and prepackaging was in. Enter cellophane and the Styrofoam container.

All the world loves a lover and pancakes. The French have their crepes,

To accompany the pancakes, brew up a pot of tea, using high quality tea and following these simple but essential rules: First, bring freshly drawn cold water to a full, rolling boil. Then, warm the teapot by filling it with hot water. After a couple of minutes, empty out the water and put one teabag or one teaspoon of loose tea into the pot. Pour the boiling water (about 51/2 ounces per serving) over the tea. Cover the teapot and let stand for three to five minutes.

Farm kids, city kids, township kids — the annual fair at Belleville is a time of reckoning for 4-H Club members. It's a time kids show how they can cope with the old skills of livestock raising, cooking, baking, gardening, working with their hands. They are rewarded for their efforts with ribbons and trophies at the fair. Some day they will discover that the real rewards are what they learned in the process

Financial rewards come the evening of the livestock auction. And when they figure out the cost of the feed and the hours of work as opposed to the selling price of their animal or poultry, they have a new appreciation for the farmers of the country. Doug Campbell's grand champion pen lamb was sold for 85 cents a pound. His individual grand champion brought $2.

Scott Fitzgerald's two chickens went for $12.50 each and his turkey for $17.50. His reserve individual grand champion lamb was sold for $1.55 per pound. Top bid for Sean Fitzgerald's turkey was $10 and his lamb went for $1 per pound.

Joy Kirchgatter's two sheep were auctioned off at $1.25 per pound. Sister Jill Kirchgatter received top price, $3.25 per pound for one lamb and $1.45 for another.

On the road Plan for safety when preparing for vacation

The car is loaded to the gills with everything but grandma's china, and you and your spouse are busy cross-exam-ining each other about having enough money for the trip, whether the base-ment door was locked, and if the paperboy was given the word to stop deliv-

The kids are arguing over who gets to sit by a window and stepping on each other's toes to put the first scuff marks on their new sneakers. But eventually everything is as ready as it ever will be, and you back down the driveway and set a course for the vacation that seemed like it would never come. But in the excitement to get away from it all, some people forget that there are important differences between local driving and vacation driving. Trips around town are not the same as driving long distances on interstate highways in parts of the country that are not familiar to you, the National High-way Traffic Safety Administration says. Your vacation shouldn't begin until you have first prepared your car for the trip. Start your preparations at least a couple of weeks before you plan to leave. Preparing your car or van is as important as preparing yourself.

If your trip is to be a long one, make sure the engine is properly tuned. This initial expense can save you big dollars and hassles on the road. Vehicles in top running shape are not likely to break down in places where machanics aren't nearby. A tuneup before you leave can also improve performance and fuel economy.

There's some extra equipment you might want to take along for emergencies. Included are a tool kit, flares, flashlight and extra batteries, an extra quart of motor oil, a five-gallon empty gasoline can, replacement drive belts and a container of fresh water for the radiator.

Test the brakes to see if they need adjusting. Change the oil and air filters if necessary. Radiators and coolant, drive belts, wiper blades, heating and air conditioning systems, as well as the exhaust system, should all be inspected and serviced as necessary.

Be sure to check the tires for tread and pressure. Badly worn tires are dangerous and should be replaced. With the family, plus luggage and other equip-ment, your car and tires may be loaded

You can find a tire inflation information placard or sticker on the car door post or inside the glove compartment door, or check your owner's manual. Don't forget to check the pressure of your spare tire in case you need it.

FOR THE TRIP itself - wear your seat belts. They will also give you peace of mind knowing that you are giving yourself and your family the best protection available in the event of a crash or sudden high speed stop.

• Small children should be properly buckled into a safety seat. Forty-six states now have laws requiring them for children under certain ages, and chances are that you will pass through one or more of these states.

Second, keep in mind that speed limits should be carefully observed for both highway and city driving.

Take time to plan the day's travel and repeat the process every night during the trip. Choose a set number of miles or hours to travel and plan to stop on schedule to prevent fatigue. Experts agree that six hours a day.or 300 miles - whichever comes first - is a reasonable day's drive. After that, reflexes and alertness diminish significantly.

Plan to stop frequently to rest. You'll help prevent highway hypnosis, that drowzy feeling that most of us have experienced behind the wheel at one time or another. As mile turns into endless mile on a turnpike, your mind tends to go to sleep. It's difficult to fight off this lulling of your senses, and periodic stops are the best antidote.

Flat tires are a nuisance, but they happen to everyone sooner or later. If you have a puncture or a blowout, pull off the road completely to change it

, the further off the road the better. At night, put flares out at least 100 feet behind your car and turn on your emergency flashers. If there is not enough room to park safely on the shoulder, drive slowly to the closest safe area out of traffic. This may ruin the flat tire, but your safety is worth the price.

A few other tips to cover special situations should be mentioned. Driving in to capacity. Inflate your tires to the maximum inflation pressure recom-mended by the vehicle manufacturer. teens for your family and your car. teens for your family and your car. Make sure the radiator and battery are full. and watch the temperature gauge on the dashboard carefully . . , it's of-ten the first sign of impending trouble. And don't take a chance on running out of gas. Especially if you are in rural or remote areas, keep a fuel reserve of about 100 miles - that could be as much as half a tank on some cars. Top off the tank frequently rather than driving until the tank is almost empty before refilling.

Another item on this checklist of safety tips for summer travellers is to avoid burns to children. On hot summer days, sunlight passing through the win-dows of a closed car can heat metal parts such as safety belt buckles and vinyl seats sufficiently to cause discomfort, burning, or even blistering of the exposed skin of an infant or oung child. When the outside temperature is 79 degrees, sunlight can heat the vinyl seat in a closed car to 192 derees. The best way to protect children from such burns is to test the temperature of a seat before putting your child on it. Better yet, cover the car seats or child safety seats with a light colored blanket or towel. Try to acquire the habit of looking for a shady spot to park your car when you stop.

Take time to plan the day's travel and repeat the process every night during the trip. Choose a set number of miles or hours to travel and plan to stop on schedule to prevent fatigue. Experts agree that six hours a day or 300 miles --- whichever comes first — is a reasonable day's drive. After that, reflexes and alertness diminish significantly.

Have no reservations about airline services

The traveler who requires a salt-free diet, the musician who travels with an instrument and the wheelchair-bound person are some of the passengers who can receive special services from most airlines

"While many airlines provide extra services to make trips more enjoyable, passengers usually must request these courtesies in advance," says Charles Lentz, Auto Club of Michigan travel sales and promotions manager.

Travelers can check with their travel agent or airline for arrangements regarding meals, seating and other spe-cial benefits. "Most major airlines serving food also offer a variety of special meals," Lentz adds.

Optional meals commonly available include salt-free, vegetarian, low-cho-lesterol and low-calorie foods and meals for diabetics. Special children's meals often are available.

Passengers wanting to arrange a special meal should order it when making flight reservations or purchasing tickets. They should confirm with their travel agent or airline 24 hours before take-off to be sure that the computer has logged the order.

IN ADDITION to arranging convenient seating for handicapped or elderly passengaers, airlines will "pre-board" such passengers prior to others to ensure maximum comfort.

For someone needing a wheelchair, personnel can order one at both the point of departure and the point of destination. A passenger's per-sonal wheelchair will be checked free with luggage.

Seeing Eye dogs and guide dogs for the deaf are permitted on board with their owners free of charge.

Musicians can use an option offered by most major airlines. For example, a bass player may purchase the seat next to his own for his bass at half price. Large people sometimes buy the second seat at half price for more comfort.

AIRLINES MAKE special provisions for children unaccompanied by adults. Generally, children ages 5 through 7 years may travel on one carrier. Those 8 and older can be booked for travel involving transfers to more than one airline. Those planning a trip for a child should contact their travel agent or airline for specific information.

For a young traveler, an airline places in its computer the child's age, name, and telephone number of the party bringing him or her to the airport. The same information is entered for those meeting the child at his or her destination.

Flight attendants are instructed to turn any minor children traveling alone over to an airline representative at the destination point. That repre-sentative is responsible for seeing that the child is released only to the proper

Most airlines provide these services automatically for all children ages 5 to " 11. Similar services are provided on request only for those 12 through 15.

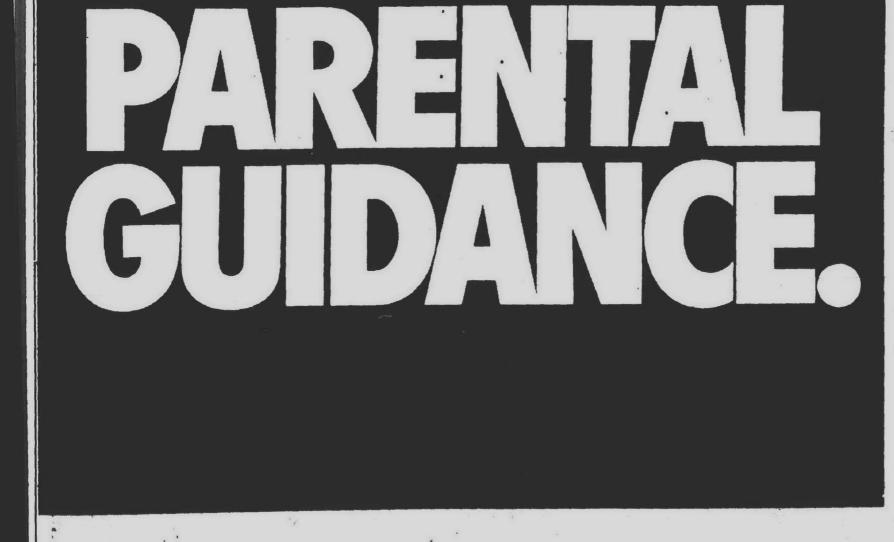

AN ANIMAL can be checked as baggage if it is in an approved container. A allowed to accompany their owners in the passenger cabin.

Pets must be small enough to fit into a carry-on "pet liner" that can be placed under the seat in front of the owner. The pet must remain in the container throughout the flight.

Airlines will check two pieces of lug-gage, one large and one medium-sized, for each passenger. A third piece can be checked free or be carried on if it is small enough to fit under the seat.

AIRLINES ALSO handle golf clubs, bicycles, surfboards, skis, fishing rods and other types of sporting gear. Since charges vary by item and special boxes are available for certain items, passengers should check in advance for specific information about transporting equipment.

"Passengers should remember that a domestic airline's maximum liability for baggage is $750 per ticketed pas-senger," adds Lentz. "Excess valuation insurance can be purchased for an additional price."

Are coaches misbehaving?

By Rich Swenson staff writer

Bad behavior by coaches is the biggest obstacle to good sportmanship in athletic events, according to a recent survey of sports officials.

The survey, conducted by Miller Lite, was given to the 250 members of the National Association of Sports Officials that attended their national convention last month in Las Vegas.

According to the survey, more than 60 percent of the officials polled believe the demeanor of coaches is a major impediment to good sportsmanship. Another 50 percent were "personally disturbed" by the behavior of coaches and other bench personnel.

In fact, most of the officials said the disorderly conduct of coaches is far more negative than athletes fighting with themselves or with officials.

LOCAL COACHES were given a chance to respond to the officials' assessment

"I hate to be looked at as a negative influence to the kids I work with," said Livonia Bentley girls basketball coach Tom Lang. "We spend many hours preparing our kids for a contest. At times, coaches step beyond their bounds, but so do officials.

Salem coach

Most of the officials working our games are pretty good, but when they're not, we have to get on them. The only thing that really bothers me is when an official blows a call and won't admit it."

Rochester High's Mike VanDam coaches both baseball and basketball at the varsity level, so he's seen officials in action both on the gridiron and on the diamond.

"Some coaches are outlandish, intense and vocal," he said. "But coaching is more than just a hobby. Coaches and officials look at the game from different perspectives

"THE GAME IS much more important to coaches. For officials, it's just another game - another two hours on the job

"Officials can be intimidated by coach's actions if they allow themselves to. The poor official listens too much and doesn't watch enough."

Plymouth Salem's Fred Thomann has coached both boys and girls basketball. His major concern is the mental and physical conditioning of the referee

"If officials did a better job of preparing themselves for games, there would be much less criticism from coaches," he said. "Sometimes, officials just don't get up for our contests.

"As a coach, I have to challenge officials to make the right calls. If they're not doing the job, you have to let them know THOMANN SAID that many basketball officials are out of shape and unable to position themselves properly to make the call. He believes many of them use the girls season to get themselve ready for the boys. "It's their responsibility to be ready to work all games," he said.

West Bloomfield athletic director and football coach Dominic Livedoti used to officiate during his college days, but he agrees with Thomann. What is disruptive behavior? I never question the eyes of an official. When I do object to something, it's usually whether an official is in the right position."

ESPECT. Aretha Franklin sang about it in the mid 1970s. It has now become the battle cry of the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association as it commences its 96th football season.

America's oldest collegiate conference, founded in 1888, has been looked upon as a weak sister by the nation's other Division III leagues. Only twice in the 11-year the NCAA Division III national championship has the MIAA football champion been invited to post-season play.

There's no way this league will be left out now," Labadie said.

With that, spirits were high among the coaches at the MIAA's annual preseason media day Thursday at Olivet College. The coaches' consensus was that Hope would win the title, followed by Adrian, Albion, Alma, Olivet and Kalamazoo.

Here's a brief composite of the MIAA teams with special attention paid to the players from the Observer & Eccentric area.

Flint district action

By Brad Emons staff writer

Glenn Murdock, manager of Don Foss, Redford Union's entry in the summer Connie Mack baseball circuit, claims James Coburn and the American Amateur Baseball Congress (AABC) have a lot in common.

The RU manager was crying "In Like Flint," after last week's regional baseball production in Buick Town.

"It's getting so bad that I'm going to put a team in the Senior Babe Ruth next year," said Murdock. "I'm never going back to the AABC. You just can't go to Flint or Saginaw and win."

Murdock has requested an investigation into the way the draw was made by the Flint tournament committee for the double-elimination event.

An eight-team draw was set up by the committee, but two teams failed to show, according to tournament director Tom Cole, who is viewed sarcastically by the RU team as "Our Man Flint.

"Instead of redrawing the bracket, the committee chose to play the six remaining teams in an eight-team bracket," said Murdock, who fired a letter of complaint to Redford-Adray league director, Stu Rose. "This was a mistake that led to a very unfair situation."

MURDOCK'S beef is that four of the teams, all from Flint, received either first or second round byes, while Foss and a team from Macomb County were forced to play four games in less than 48 hours.

Foss, which qualified for the regional by finishing second in the Redford-Adray circuit, won its first two games on the opening day of play but lost the next two the following day, 9-3, to Flint Carpets, the eventual champion; and 14-8 to Flint Grossi's. (The winner advanced to the state AABC tournament in Marshall. The state champion goes to the Connie Mack national tournament in Farmington, N.M.)

"The two Flint teams were given byes in the first round and the two other Flint teams got byes in the second round," according to the letter Murdock wrote. "Neither my team nor baseball the Macomb team got a chance at getting a bye.

"When round three began, the four Flint teams had only played one game and the Macomb team and my team had already played two each."

MURDOCK said he made repeated efforts to have Cole redraw the tournament, but those attempts failed.

"I am convinced that Mr. Cole had absolutely no concern with being fair to all the teams in this tournament," said the RU manager.

But Cole offers a different story, saying he followed AABC rules.

The one team called me at 4:30 p.m. the day before and said they wouldn't be able to come," he explained.

"Then the other team from the Little Caesar's League didn't show for game the next morning. They didn't have the courtesy to call.

"This is the first time since I can remember that a team didn't show for our tournament."

Cole said that AABC rules do not permit a redrawing.

"IF HE (Murdock) would have reviewed the rule book coming in he would have understood," Cole added. "Those were forfeits (victories) and not byes that the Flint teams got. It just happened that the our teams (from Flint) drew the teams that didn't show. You play the tourney by rounds."

Cole, however, admitted that he made a mistake in using the word "bye" in his discussions at the tournament site with Murdock.

"I never said forfeit, but I followed the rules and I talked with Joe Cooper (the state AABC president)," Cole said. Check with him.

"I'm proud of the facilities we have and the way things have been run here."

Cooper, who resides in Marshall, could not be reached for comment.

"This league is on a national level." Adrian College head football coach Ron Labadie said. "We are in by far the tougest region in the country.

Labadie's team won the MIAA last year and gained a berth in the postseason tournament. Though they lost, 22-21, to eventual Division III champs Augustana, Adrian's performance brought long overdue respect to the MIAA.

This year, the MIAA champ should easily win a playoff berth. The NCAA has extended the field from eight to 16 teams.

FARMINGTON Harrison grid coach John Herrington has been satisfied with the officiating of his team's games over the years, but he's also disturbed with the findings of the survey.

"Last year, we had a controversial call (offsides) that cost us a victory, but it was a judgment call. You'll never see any of our kids (Harrison) arguing with an officials. On the whole, the officiating has been pretty good."

When judging themselves, 24 percent of the officials said they were swayed "some" or "a great deal" by fan reac-. tion. Seventy-four percent said they were influenced "little" or "not at all."

The officials conceded that they're all guilty of making bad calls in game situations. But only 22 percent believed that officials, after making their mistake, compensate by making an intentional offsetting judgment. The majori-ty (78 percent) said they "seldom" or "almost never" try to make up for their mistake.

Prince, 'Purple Rain' sing familiar refrain

"Purple Rain" fits the age-old pattern of Hollywood show-biz musicals: The plot and acting are minimal and the song and dance is what it's all about. If you like the musical style at hand, you'll like the movie. If you don't, you won't. I'm in the latter category.

I don't like rock music (or, as a usually reliable source informs me, "funk" music) so I didn't like "Purple Rain" even though it is well-done.

As with most Hollywood musicals, the plot, characters and acting are very limited. Any time there is the threat of character development or plot complications, they break into song and dance.

That's the accepted convention and the show must go on, with one contemporary addition. In addition to song and dance used to avoid the story line, occasionally the principals take off their clothes to avoid serious dramatic development.

In the case of the heroine, Apollonia (Apollonia Kotero), that's not all bad since neither her singing nor acting hold nearly as much promise as her physical attributes.

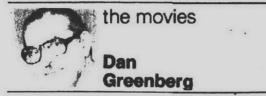

AS IS THE USUAL case, the heroine comes to the big city to "make it big in show biz," which these days is rock music. "I want to have a career."

Apollonia falls in love with another rising star, The Kid (Prince), who has numerous psychological problems because his father (Clarence Williams) beats his mother (Olga Karlatos) when they're not drinking and loving. Naturally, problems result from the father's failed musical career and whether or not he and his wife have had enough faith in one another.

There's a lot of murky, dimestore Freud about their mixed marriage (he's black and she's Italian) to complete The Kid's troubled home life.

Predictably, The Kid starts slapping Apollonia, because Hollywood learned from Freud: "Like father, like son." And so the story goes.

Fortunately, there's not much story and the nearly two-hour movie is filled with one well-filmed rock number after another. It's rather like watching MTV with the numbers linked by common performers and a continuous story line in one locale.

THE PRODUCTION is well designed and presents visual treats for those who enjoy the rock scene. Costumers Marie-France, Lewis & Vaughn, plus production designer Ward Preston ("Airplane" and "That Championship Season") and set decorator, Emmy winner Anne McCauley ("Eleanor and Franklin," "Star 80," "Nine to Five" and "Modern Problems") deserve credit.

Great care obviously was taken to costume and make-up rock concert audiences in a variety of rock, punk, funk and reggae get-ups that are interesting and visually attractive, even to these more traditional eyes.

Much to the film's credit, the production staff successfully met the challenge of cutting a film to rock music. Lighting designer Roy Bennett, who tours with Prince, and cinematographer Don Thorin worked closely with co-editor Ken Robinson and writer-editor-director Albert Magnoli.

Properly, in this case, they disregarded conventional continuity of time and place in favor of the pace and rhythm of the rock music played. Without concerning themselves about the logic of Without concerning themselves about the logic of getting from point A to point B, they followed the flow and intensity of the music in their editing patterns. Rock music is loud and unconventional and very close to its devotees. So, in "Purple Rain," the visuals are close-up and the images are intensely patterned.

That kind of reinforcement gives "Purple Rain" great impact.

None of this fine production design, cinematography or editing will mean much to you, however, if you don't like the music. Thus it always was with the Hollywood musical.

Apolionia Kotero costars with rock star. Prince in "Purple Rain," the story of a mixed-up musician and a girl who comes to the big city insearch of a career.

(R.W.G.

In his first movie, rock star Prince stars as a musician whose personal problems are both a hindrance and an inspiration to his professional career.
