Medical dumpster raids end

The concern of doctors, neighbors and county officicals about the safe and proper disposal of used medical supplies may not be enough to keep area children from trespassing where they shouldn't.

"But why anyone would want to play in a dumpster, I don't know," one local dentist said.

Joseph Smulsky, a dentist who manages the north side of the Canton Professional Park on Canton Center Road and who has offices in the commercial condominium complex, said that complaints to the police department and the Wayne County Health Department about children getting into and removing trash from dumpsters at the park have been made repeatedly over the past year and a half. "I personally have chased kids away from the dumpsters," he said.

"It's a problem, and I understand parents' concern, but we can't make it completely childproof," Smulsky said.

NEIGHBORS' CONCERNS about the children playing with discarded syringes, needles, test tubes and Petri dishes may be calmed somewhat by the recent welding shut of side doors on the dumpsters in an attempt to make them "more childproof," Smulsky said.

Acting on a complaint from the township ordinance department, Gerald Schwartz, a public health sanitarian with the Wayne County Health Department, advised Smulsky that "we must make these doors less accessible"

Thanksgiving hunger: then and now

Hunger was a problem for our country's early settlers but the Pilgrims avoided starvation because of the generosity of the Native Americans who gave from their bounty. In commemoration of the Pilgrim and Indian sharing in that first feast, we now celebrate Thanksgiving. But, for many in Plymouth-Canton and nearby communities, hunger still is a reality. Report due tonight on CEMS

Mayor to review study findings for Commission

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

Community EMS has maintained an average response time of between 3.85 and 5.7 minutes since becoming the City of Plymouth's appointed rescue service earlier this year.

City officials appointed CEMS as first-responder to cut the operating costs and liability associated with the city's fire department rescue unit.

CEMS is supposed to provide the city with paramedics and advanced life support (ALS) service — as opposed to the fire department's emergency medical technicians (EMT) operating a basic life support unit.

But CEMS, a subsidiary of Botsford Hospital in Farmington Hills, has come under fire recently after it was unable to contact its paramedics for an Oct. 22 heart attack run.

"They've saved some lives since they've been in town," said City Manager Henry Graper.

"You have one bad situation and immediately they get crucified. They are a private ambulance company with outstanding qualifications — someone dies and they get investigated," Graper aid. Mayor David Pugh, Graper, Commissioner William Robertson, Acting Fire Chief Al Matthews and former Fire Chief Roy Hall met Wednesday night with officials from CEMS.

Pugh described the meeting as a "fact-finding" session and said he will give a full report to the City Commission at tonight's meeting. A representative from CEMS will be present to answer questions.

The mayor said the group reviewed CEMS' service to the city, proposed policy changes by the company, procedural changes by the city and discussed what alternatives were available.

BASED ON figures supplied by CEMS, the ambulance company handled 218 emergency medical calls from March to September.

The company's response times are based on a computer-logged punch card system, said Greg Beauchemin, CEMS director of operations.

CEMS' overall average for Plymouth is in the four-minute range, he said, making it the best average for any of the communities CEMS serves.

Beauchemin recently supplied the Observer with a month-by-month breakdown of the average response times in Plymouth.

In minutes they are: March, 3.85;

April, 4.83; May, 4.48; June, 4.50; July,

5.7; August, 4.92; and September, 4.19.
The July average includes three runs where the vehicles were delayed by a train, Beauchemin said. The response time for those three runs were 12, 8 and 11 minutes.

"Response-time average without train delays for the month of July is 4.73 minutes," he said.

"Eight of these 218 calls (used to calculate the monthly averages) had a response time equal to, or greater than, 10 minutes, which represents 3.7 percent of the calls," Beauchemin said.

The city fire department rescue service maintained an average response time of two to three minutes, according to Al Matthews, acting fire chief.

In 1983, the city rescue unit made a total of 546 emergency responses—transporting patients on 378 of the calls, Matthews said.

SINCE BECOMING first-responder, CEMS has had to rely on the Plymouth Township fire rescue crew to answer calls seven times.

Because of a communication problem, township firefighters waited at the scene for what they thought was a CEMS advanced life support unit. Instead, 17 minutes after the initial call, CEMS arrived with a basic life support unit. The patient was pronounced dead on arrival to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia. Following the Oct. 22 run, Beauchemin said Plymouth Township had backed up CEMS only two other times. City and township records show seven assists by the township.

Four of the assists were requested by someone other than CEMS — twice by the Plymouth Police, once by the Plymouth Fire Department and once by a civilian. The other three times, CEMS requested the township's assist-

Under city procedure, CEMS is supposed to notify the township if it can't handle a call. Beauchemin told the Observer that if CEMS didn't make the request to the township, his company didn't receive the call and doesn't have a record of it.

THE FOLLOWING is a list of calls

o July 3, a run to Sheldon and Farmer requested by the police department. CEMS was on a prior run and

July 26, a CPR run to Parkview requested by a police officer. CEMS estimated a seven-minute response;
 CEMS and the township arrived at the same time.

 Aug. 20, a run to Burroughs Street requested by CEMS. No explanation.

 Aug. 25, a run to Haggerty requested by CEMS. CEMS couldn't get its vehicle started.

 Sept. 25, a run to an accident at Ann Arbor Road and Marlowe requested by a resident. The resident called the township rather than the city.

 Oct. 19, a run to the Central Parking Lot deck requested by the city fire department. CEMS was delayed by nine minutes.

 Oct. 22, a run to the railroad yard requested by CEMS. CEMS couldn't contact its crew.
 During 1983 there were no calls made to the township for rescue assists in the city. In 1982 there were four calls for rescue assistance.

'Cost of diploma to rise

It looks like the Plymouth Canton and Salem classes of 1989, and those that follow, will have it tougher than the current crop of high schoolers when it comes to satisfying graduation requirements.

Responding to the recommendation of Phillip E. Runkel, state Superintendent of Schools, the Plymouth Canton school board approved for first posting a more stringent set of requirements Monday night. The plan would lessen elective options, mandate more academic classes and include ninth-grade classes as part of the high school curriculum.

Since 1981-82, ninth-graders in the Plymouth-Canton district have attended middle school — not high school — making direct comparisons to state guidelines difficult. But before that, 20 credits were required for four-year students to graduate. Under the proposed plan, students must earn 22 credits in grades nine-12.

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS of the proposal include:

• Increasing English requirements from 2½ credits to four, as recommended by the state. (Included under "communication skills" are classes in reading, grammar, literature, writing, speaking, listening and critical thinking.)

 Upping math requirements from one to two credits. The state advises that at least one course cover algebraic concepts.

concepts.

• Increasing from one to two credits the science requirement. State officials recommend that both biological and physical sciences be included.

• Increasing the social studies minimum from 1½ to 2½ credits. It's recommended that three years of social studies including government, history, economics, cultural and ethnic studies, geography, law-related and critical thinking classes be mandatory.

Half a year of "hands-on" computer education is encouraged by the state, but not included in the district's high school requirements. The district justifies this due to lack of equipment plus the fact that a unit of computer education is required at the middle school level.

• Currently, one year of health and/or physical education is required, in accordance with state guidelines. While the proposed requirement specified two credits — a semester of health and 1½ years of physical education, the board after some discussion agreed to reduce it by half a credit. Proposed is a semester each in swimming, physical education and health.

THE STATE recommends that two years or more in one or a combination of these areas be required: foreign language, fine or performing arts and vocational education or practical arts.

The district presently requires one credit in "human skills," which include social studies, business education, skills for living, science, alternative education, foreign language, fine or performing arts, vocational-technical education or practical arts. The district is increasing its requirement from one to two human-skills credits.

Before grade restructuring, 81/2 of the required 20 credits were required and 111/2 elective.

Trial begins on civil rights case

A seven-woman jury trial began last week in 35th District Court to determine the outcome of a lawsuit dating from 1978 involving a Canton horse breeder, Canton Township, its animal control officer and two Canton newspapers.

The plaintiff, Bobby Joe Walton, operated a horse breeding and boarding facility for retired race horses at a farm on Geddes Road. In the lawsuit, he is demanding reasonable compensation for alleged civil rights violations, interference with business relations and trespassing.

Named as defendants in the suit are John Swalley, then Canton Township's dog warden; former Supervisor Harold Stein; Police Chief Jerry Cox; Suburban Communications Corp.; the Canton Observer; Observer photographer Gary Caskey; and Associated Newspapers and its newpaper, the Canton Eagle.

Trespassing charged

DISTRICT JUDGE Dunbar Davis is hearing the case which, barring a settlement, is expected to last at least another two weeks, according to the attorneys.

Seeking damages of more than $30,000, Walton alleges that the defendants trespassed repeatedly on his fenced-in property while investigating a cruelty to animals charge by the Michigan Humane Society.

Walton says the warrantless intrusions were a violation of his civil rights as guaranteed by the Fourth Amendment of the Constitution and that as a result of the newspaper coverage the story received, his reputation was diminished and his business suffered.

Walton was charged with cruelty to animals in 1978 by the humane society after a neighbor reported suspicions of lack of proper feed, water and housing for the 24 horses boarded at Walton's farm.

The Canton Observer ran two articles and photographs on the story, one in July 1978 reporting the cruelty charges and one in August of that year, an account of Walton's plea bargaining proceedings.

Walton, a Plymouth resident, still operates the business on Geddes Road boarding about six hors es, according to his attorney, James Kohl.

$75,000 gift for Community Fund

The climate-control division of Ford Motor Co., Sheldon Road Plant, has made a contribution of $69,059 from its employees and a $5,000 corporate gift to the Plymouth Community Fund — United Way. One of the agencies receiving Fund dollars is the Plymouth Salvation Army which will be distributing to local families food donated by residents, organizations like the Goodfellows, and businesses like Ford and its employees. Among those helping the Salvation Army is Omnicom Cablevision which is telecasting a telethon on Dec. 8 to collect food. Contributions to the telethon food drive can be made by calling Maria Holmes, organizer at Omnicom, at 459-7335, or to the Salvation Army by calling 453-5465. SEMTA tables tax request

By Kathy Parrish staff writer

Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) has put off asking voters to increase the state income tax.

SEMTA's board of directors Tuesday tabled a controversial resolution calling on the state Legislature to put a transportation tax on next year's November ballot.

If approved by voters, it would amend the Michigan Constitution to raise the state sales tax from four cents to five cents per dollar. The extra penny would help fund SEMTA and public transit and road improvements in the 76 counties not served by the transportation authority. "Not enough people have had a chance to evalu ate and discuss the issue," explained SEMTA board member Philip W. Dondero, who moved to table the resolution. The manager of Oakland County's Planning Division, Dondero represents the Oakland County Board of Commissioners on SEMTA's

"I know Oakland County commissioners will want to examine it carefully.

THE SALES TAX resolution was just one of the controversial issues discussed during Tuesday's SEMTA meeting. Commissioners approved shifting money to the Downtown People Mover from other SEMTA projects. The $30 million transfer includes $7 million slated for planning of the proposed Woodward Avenue light rail which would run from downtown Detroit to the Pontiac Silverdome.

SEMTA staff revealed that the Downtown People Mover is now expected to cost at least $183.8 million - a "cost growth" of $46.3 million over the original projected cost of $137.5 million

The project could rise to more than $200 million under a "worst case" set of circumstances, said acting manager Albert Martin.

"THE PRESS calls it cost overruns. We don't," said SEMTA board chairman Dewitt J. Henry, who said the authority knew from the project's onset that the costs would escalate. He attributed much of the cost to improvements and additions to the elevated rail system which loops around downtown Detroit.

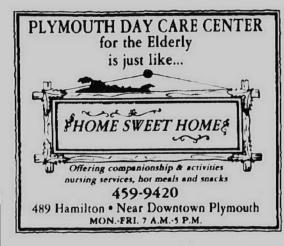

"There are a lot of good reasons for us changing the project. I think we'll end up with a much better project in the end."

But SEMTA board member Diana Kolakowski, who voted against the shifts, objected to the es-

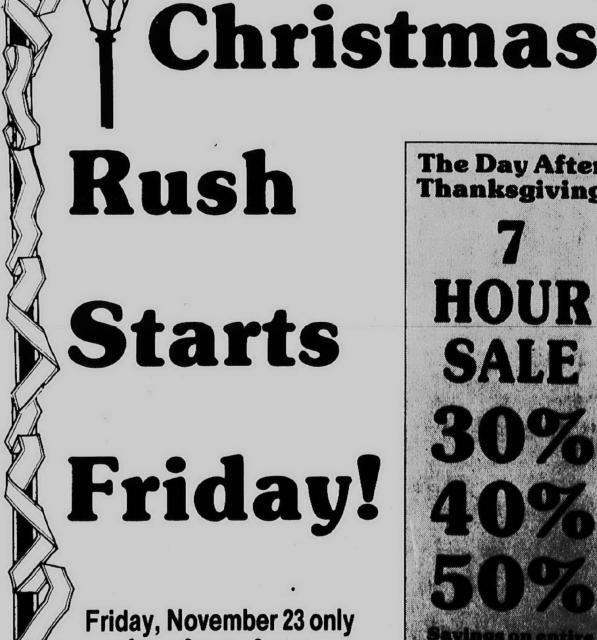

'It sounds like we're saying there's no end to this. For months I've been trying to get costs on this,"

"It just seems to keep escalating."

Martin said his staff is "trying to reach a realistic final cost. We hope to be able to do that within the next couple of weeks."

DECEMBER 1983. Community groups continue efforts to feed the unemployed. Good Hope Lutheran in Garden City operates a soup kitchen; Operation Breadbasket supplements food distribution in Westland.

NOVEMBER 1984. Unemployment levels drop. The need for food continues, but community interest drops off. Federal funds for food boxes stop flowing in July. Operation Breadbasket is broke.

Once an emergency, the need for food is still at a crisis level for young families whose breadwinner is out of work, for single heads of households and for the elderly.

In Redford Township, current levels of food distribution are still well above 1982 rates when a statewide emergency was declared. Average distributions were 219 households for 592 people in 1982, 414 households with 1,164 people in 1983, and 367 households with 897 people in 1984.

There still is a hardcore group of people who can use whatever help is available," said Sid Blitz of Redford's home services department.

Most are young families with four or fewer children, according to Faye Ross, director of the program. An increase in the number of single-parent households has been "dramatic." "It's kind of scary when you see the pay they're getting," she said.

WHILE THE demand for food has leveled off or dropped, so have donations, say area food distributors.

"We sure could use any donations of food we can get," said Al Hatcher, di-rector of the Wayne Metro Community Services, which handles distribution of surplus and federal food boxes to local communities.

The organization was an outgrowth of the anti-poverty program. It now funnels federal surplus food to local communities and applies for Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) grants to buy food boxes for "The food boxes are good, but when we're not into that program, we rely on donated goods," Hatch said.

THE LAST FEMA grant ended in July. Another one expected to begin soon will distribute as many as 16,000 boxes of food by July 1985, Hatch said.

Those who receive it must qualify according to income guidelines. Maximum income for a family of 4 receiving a food box is $12,750 yearly. For surplus food, the maximum yearly income is $13,260 for that same family.

"Lots of people who are eligible we've never gotten to," Hatch said. For one thing, there is the amount of the surplus. We never get enough."

Distribution problems also make it "impossible" to reach all who could receive it, he added.

USING SURPLUS FOOD distribution as a measure, the hardest hit communities in western Wayne County are Dearborn, Inkster, Westland and Romulus.

Westland distributes surplus food monthly to about 1,400 families, according to Gene Hudson, community development programs director.

While the "need isn't what it used to be," there are still those who need help during a six-week transition period between expiration of unemployment benefits and the start of welfare pro-

Donations and canned goods collected from barrels placed throughout the city have dwindled. Now the group is conducting fund-raisers and hoping for a FEMA grant.

Halt put on medical dumpster raids

Welding the door shut, thus making them top-loading dumpsters, is the extent of what can be done "short of putting locks on the dumpsters," Smulsky

Because of the weight of the doors on top of the dumpsters, one side of the top must be left open to facilitate trash-dumping by the offices' employees, Smulsky said.

Schwartz said the top has to remain open, because "if we make it any harder for the tenant (to dispose trash) it'll end up on the ground.'

Smulsky said "they (children) would have to climb up over the top" to get something out of the 5-foot-high receptacles."It's trespassing as it is. Kids shouldn't be playing there," Smulsky

Schwartz said he is pleased with Smulsky's "very good response" and that he is satisfied that everything that can be done has been, but said "no matter what you do, if they (the children) want to get into it they will."

ON THREE OR FOUR occasions, and once as recently as Oct. 2, Smulsky said he has written letters to the other office owners in the park asking them "not to dispose of anything that would be hazardous" if obtained by children. Smulsky recommended in the latest letter to the owners, mostly dentists and doctors, in the park that all employees of the offices be informed of the situation because "A lot of times it's not them, but people that work for them," Smulksy said.

Also recommended were dumping sample medicines down the drain and waiting until Tuesday morning, the regular trash pick-up day, to dispose of syringes, needles and other potentially harmful items, Smulsky said.

TOWNSHIP SUPERVISOR James Poole said there are no legal guidelines for the disposal of the used medical supplies and that he has checked with the state and county health departments to confirm that.

When the situation was first brought to his attention about a year and a half ago, Poole said he wrote approximately 150 letters, to every medical office in the township asking for their cooperation in cleaning up the problem.

According to Dr. Val Vangieson with the environmental health division of the Wayne County Health Department, disposal regulations for medical supplies are effective only after they reach the dumping stage, at which point they must be placed in a sanitary

Up until that time, the sanitation division of the health department will investigate complaints of improper disposal and make recommendations as necessary, Vangieson said.

The health department recommends that medical facilities sterilize used laboratory supplies such as Petri dishes and test tubes before disposal. The beveled edge of needles in syringes should be chopped off, Vangieson said.

To pose the least health hazard, Vangieson recommends placing the used medical supplies in the dumpster as close to pickup time as possible.

Vangieson said "most physicians take care of it (proper disposal) themselves because they don't want to be

Graduation requirements

Of the proposed 22 required credits, 141/2 will be required (as the state recommends) and 71/2 elective. The state offers no guidelines as to total number of credits, or the number of electives.

Presently, seven of the required 15 credits are electives.

In Runkel's recently issued guidelines entitled "Blueprint for Action" he said, "Michigan has had a long, accepted tradition of local control over school programs with few state requirements for graduation. Each local district should continue to have jurisdiction over its total curriculum but it seems clear now that the time has come to require by state law certain standards to ensure that every student, no matter in which district he or she lives, has an equal chance to learn the demanding KENT BUIKEMA, Plymouth Canton principal, called the stiffer requirements "a reflection of what the state is recommending, of the good parts of the 'Nation at Risk' study, and of what society is telling us. They want schools to require more of students.

'I don't think we're making it so difficult that students cannot branch off and take electives of interest. This does require more of kids, but it's attainable," he added.

Buikema, who served on the commit-tee which drafted the plan, calls the new requirements "realistic, but not ideal. Ideally, we would have no graduation requirements. We'd work with each child to figure out what would be best for that individual student.

Lawmakers shrink at tax-hike request

By Tim Richard staff writer

Horrors! A one-cent increase in the sales tax?

Key suburban members of the Michigan Legislature recoiled last week at a suggestion by the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority that voters be asked to lift the sales from 4 percent to 5, earmarking the extra penny for roads and public transportation.

They gave three reasons:

• Voters are in no mood to pass it.

• Even if voters passed it, many legislators would rather spend the new $500 million a year on education or property tax relief, not transportation.

 SEMTA looks bad with its 50 percent construction cost overruns on its Downtown People Mover project in De-

THE STATE constitution fixes the sales/use tax rate at four percent. The Legislature would have to place a constutional amendment on the ballot. SEMTA administrators suggest Noother cities hold mayoral elections then. Other cities and townships would have to conduct a special election.

vember of 1985. Detroit and a few

"They're wasting their time and somebody's money holding it," said state Rep. W.V. (Sandy) Brotherton, R-Farmington, who has been supportive of SEMTA i the past. "Statewide, I can't see it passing. If it were in three counties or seven counties — maybe." counties or seven counties — maybe."

"I'd like to put it on the ballot," said state Sen. Gilbert DiNello, D-East Detroit, "but I would want to earmark the money for education and reduce the income tax. We can scrounge elsewhere for money for transportation."

"PEOPLE WANT a more conservative government in Michigan," said Sen. Rick Fessler, R-West Blomfield, chairs the Senate committee through which public transportation programs must pass.

"There's a hesitancy here even to increase fees," Fessler said.

The Legislature would have to wrestle with several problems before putting such a proposal on the ballot, he went on. One would be how to distribute the $500 million or more in new revenue between roads, public transportation and freight transportation. The other would be how to distribute the public transit portion around the state.

Fessler, too, leaned toward earmarking the money toward education rather than transportation.

FESSLER IS appalled at what he sees as SEMTA's lack of quality control over the first phase of its people mover project in Detroit.

"They have a 50 percent cost overrun now - from the original $132 million to $200 million — and the project is only in its first phase. Basically, it's the simplest part of the job, and they've screwed it up badly. It's an aboveground, semi-simple task — not one of the most difficult engineerig projects in the world," he said.
Fessler cited SEMTA's finding defects in the majority of the cement beams which will raise the electric cars on a 2.9-mile route above city

"Now they come to us and say, 'Give us the power to tax.' The people mover is making them look bad. That could torpedo any hope they have," said Fessler, who originally was a strong supporter of the people mover.

ONLY IF SEMTA drops all talk of an underground rapid transit line alias "subway" - would state Sen. Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford, consider the plan.

"Rail transit systems are a thing of the past. Autos have supplanted the need for transit," said Nichols, who won his seat when a Democratic senator was recalled earlier this year for supporting an income tax increase.

Nichols, whose district includes the Rochester area, saw trouble if the Legislature considered earmarking part of the sales tax for transportation. "All kinds of groups will want to have ear-marked funds," he predicted.

"I might support earmarking for education," said Nichols, a member of the Appropriations Committee. Nevertheless, he dislikes the general idea of dedicating a tax to a particular spending function, noting the 1963 Michigan Constitution attempted to do away with earmarking.

SEN. R. ROBERT Geake, R-Northville, looked askance at the suggestion of holding a special election in November of 1985. Detroit's mayoral election will be held then, assuring a large turnout in at least that city.

"With a small turnout (in other areas), there are a disproporti number of special interest vo Geake said. "Generally, the people have a vested interst would vote.

"The special iterests would have their mailing lists and telephone lists. The average voter may not realise there's an important issue on the bal-

Students and their parents are going to be polled to determine whether renting Ann Arbor's Hill Auditorium would be preferable to the current arrange-

Graduation ceremonies traditionally have been held on the football field at Centennial Educational Park (CEP), or in Salem's auditorium - capacity 1,200 - in case of rain.

"Many schools are doing it (renting large facilities) for better control, and because of cost. You can rent Hill (which holds 4,173) for $700. By the time you move chairs and make all the other arrangements, it's more costly It's possible there'll be a change of than that (at CEP)," said Richard Egli, district community relations director.

"Also, having it inside would make it seem like a more solemn occasion. It would be a different place from where students have been every day and give additional import to the occasion.

Capacity still would present difficulties, should the district lease Hill Auditorium. Graduation would have to be held in two sessions on the same day. But ceremonies in Salem's auditorium 'have been a real problem,' Egli said.

Students will be polled at school, and parents may be called to see whether there's support for the plan.

"What we're trying to prevent is putting ourselves into a position where we have people saying, 'Oh, they're deciding to do this, and then asking us if it's okay," Egli said.

What are votes for all hopefuls?

Thanks for the coverage of the recent election in the Plymouth Observer newspaper. I have a suggestion that I feel would make the election coverage your readers with a real interest in politics. even better and more enjoyable for

I would like to see a complete printout in the Plymouth Observer in tabular form (as a spreadsheet) showing the number of votes for every candidate and listing all candidates that appeared on the Michigan ballot.

Many people seem to find it hard to believe but not every person votes for either the Republican or Democratic parties. This election I split my vote between the major parties and also voted for some very minor party candidates. I would like to see my votes listed to make sure that the government even bothers to count any votes for independent candidates. It invovles a lot of work for many people getting signatures to even insure us that small political parties are listed on the Michigan

It is an unfortunate fact that in the Soviet Union there is only one party to vote for, the Community Party. In America we have only one party too, but we have two of them — the Republicans and the Democrats (the tax and

Perhaps why we don't have 98 per-cent of the people voting in America is because they can't see any real difference between the political parties. For no matter if it's a Republican or Democrat in the White House still our taxes go up, the government builds more atomic weapons, there is unemployment, etc., and neither party does any-thing but talk about the problems.

I feel that minor political parties with their alternate points of view should receive wider publicity in our free press, thus making the average American aware that there are real choices available in our free democrat-

Geake, whose 6th District includes Livonia, Plymouth, Redford, Canton and Northville, is chairman of the Senate subcommittee which oversees state spending for social services.

Geake hopes the Michigan House will act on the bill before the legislative session ends in December.

"This is a crucial bill that stands to save Michigan a million dollars a year. I hope the House leadership will take that into account in their actions over the next month.

GEAKE'S BILL (SB 862) essentially builds competition into the system by directing the state to accept bids before contracting with agencies to distribute foods stamps. There are 421,645 households and 1,018,350 individuals on foods stamps in Michigan.

The bill would affect the 17 most populous counties, or about 85 percent of the recipients. Food stamps are mailed to the other 15 percent who live in ru-ral or inaccessible areas.

Under the Geake bill, contracts to distribute food stamps would be grant-ed on the basis of cost and ability to provide protection for the consumer.

The contracts would be granted on a one-year basis, renewable with allowances for inflation, for four consecutive years. The contracts would be re-bid after five years.

"This would be the first competitivebid law in the country if it passes," said Geake. "I believe it could ultimately serve as a model for other states and save millions of dollars nationwide."

WITH DISTRIBUTORS like the post office and certain community action agencies, the cost of food stamp distribution is higher than it would be in a competitive areana, says Geake.

The post office, for example, charges $1.72 per transaction and the agencies average $1.10. Bid prices are expected to range from 76 to 95 cents per transaction, said Geake, averaging about 86

Each 10-cent reduction in the state average will save the state nearly $500,000 annually.

Another major cost savings built into the proposal is a reduction in state liability for losses and theft. Those who are awarded the bids will be required to take out insurance on the value of the food stamps they handle. The state loses about $500,000 a year in lost, destroyed, embezzled, and stolen food

FINALLY, A NUMBER of protections for the food stamp recipients are built into the bill. Any agency awarded a distributorship contract must provide a site that is barrier-free and accessible to the handicapped, and within 1,000 feet of a bus route or other public transportation line.

Distributors also must provide securiity measures, operate within local health, building, and zoning ordinances, and keep the site open not less than 160 hours a month. In addition, to assure fair trade practices and protect recipients against price gouging, no distributor will be allowed to maintain a financial or business relationship with, share or adjoin retail space with, a retail food estab-

Coverage meant lot to players To the editor:

On behalf of the players, cheerleaders, staff and parents of the Plymouth-Canton Steelers Junior Football Unit, I would like to extend our thanks to the Observer for its coverage of our games this past season.

Your weekly reports of our game results meant a lot to the Steelers. We appreciate your continued interest in our program every year. We had a very successful season, and the coverage you provided for our community was important to all of us. We especially wish to thank you for the pictorial coverage you gave us for our homecoming this year. It was terrific.

DR. WEISS COLD HANDS IN ARTHRITIS

Many people note that with the onset of arthritis, their hands exhibit a sensitivity to the cold. The fingers become painful, numb, and may blanch when exposed to cold; for some people, entering an air-condition room can initiate an attack. This disorder is called Raynaud's Phenomenon" in honor of the Frenchman who first brought attention to the association of arthritis and the cold.

This response of the hands occurs because of spasm of the small arteries bringing blood to the lingers. The spasm prevents the usual flow of blood Into the hand, and this lack of blood supply brings on the discomfort and color change that characterizes "Raynaud's Phenomenon."

The sensitivity to cold exhibited by the blood vessels is thought to be the result of the deposition of arthritis related antibodies onto the inner lining of the arteries. In turn, by means not yet understood, these antibodies make the blood vessels clamp-down in the presence of ians have tried a number of drugs in the attempt to prevent such spasm; to date no drug therapy has achieved consistent results. Fortunately, in most cases, wearing heavy gloves and keeping the hands out of the cold provides satisfactory relief.

Presbyterians called Walter Nichol in 1926

(Part 20

Two of the advertisements in the Jan. 2, 1925, issue of the Plymouth Mail were placed by prominent Presbyteri-

One of them, by Clarence Stevens, offered to tune pianos. Stevens was then tuner for the Ypsilanti Conservatory of Music. The other, by Kate Allen, indicated that the feature at her movie theater on Jan. 4 would be Mary Pickford in "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall."

In October 1925, the church held a farewell reception for the Rev. S. Conger Hathaway and his family. He had accepted a call from the Ypsilanti Church because of the educational advantages for his children that would be provided by the Normal School (now Eastern Michigan University).

Hathaway's daughter, Mrs. Alica Scheffler, still lives in Ypsilanti. Through her I was able to obtain a brief account of her father's life written by her brother, Stephen C. Hathaway Jr., as a foreword to a proposed book of poems written by Hathaway.

Hathaway remained pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Ypsilanti until 1929 when he was called as minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Albion. Later, he served as minister at Presbyterian churches in Hastings and Brooklyn, Mich. He retired to Battle Creek in 1946 where he served as chaplain of the Battle Creek Sanitarium.

Hathaway's greatest pleasure, other than his family and church, notes his son, was in literature and foreign languages. "He was proficient in Latin, Hebrew, Greek and German and loved to study scripture in the original tongues as well as quote poetic passages or sing in German when an appropriate occasion arose. In his early years, he also enjoyed playing the lute, organ, piano and violin."

The Rev. S. Conger Hathaway, a renaissance man by today's standards, died in 1963 at the age of 82.

BACK TO MUNDANE matters in December 1925 when it was reported that the telephone company was charging the church $2.88 a month for services as a business place, church Treasurer W.R. Shaw suggested that the trustees ask for a cheaper rate as a church.

The Presbyterian Church's next minister was the Rev. Walter Nichol to whom a call was issued on Jan. 12, 1926. There were probably times during the 17 years that followed when Walter Nichol wondered whether he had been chosen to live out the allegory of Christian in John Bunyan's "The Pilgrim's Progress."

Like Christian, Nichol had more than his share of challenges. They included the economic problems of the 1930s, the disastrous fire that levelled the church in 1936, the financing and building of a new church, the beginning of the second World War, and the health problem that forced him to retire at the peak of his ministerial career.

Like Christian, Nichol came through it all with flying colors, and is remembered with respect and affection by all who were members of the church during his ministry. Nichol was to be paid $3,000 a year, get one month's vacation, and have the use of the manse. When the family arrived at the manse near the end of January, they were met by Irma Kaiser and Lillian Roewho extended them a warm greeting and helped them to settle in.

In addition to the minister there was his wife, Anna, and their five children: David, Catherin, Margaret Jean, and twins, Christine and Elizabeth. Elizabeth Nichol, who married the late David Mather, still is active in the church and is a member of the 150th Anniversary Steering Committee appointed by the session in 1982.

NICHOL WAS BORN in Grey County, Ontario, in 1875. He received his master's degree from the University of Marburg and Berlin.

After his ordination on Oct. 30, 1907, he was pastor of St. Mary's and Dundas, Ontario, before moving to Ecorse, where he was minister from 1921 to 1926. He and Anna M. Cummins of Conneaut, Ohio, were married in 1911.

Nichol was installed as minster of the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth on Feb. 18, inaugurating one of the church's most outstanding pastorates.

On March 1, a few week's after he arrived, the church budget was announced as $6,336, of which $3,000 was allocated for his salary, $950 for benevolences and $400 for music. As the nation drifted into the stock market crash of 1929 and the economic malaise of the 1930s, Nichol was to find his takehome pay diminishing instead of increasing.

On the bright side, however, was the decision of the trustees on July 10, 1927, to participate in the New Pension Plan which the board of Ministerial Relief of the Presbyterian Church of the U.S.A. had just put into operation.

Why red hair caused a stir 87 years ago

There was a hot time in the little frame house back in the Pennsylvania Dutch country 87 years ago today.

This was the morning The Stroller first saw the light of day, and his entry into the world caused quite a commotion from what the folks say.

The reason for the excitement was not only that he was the first grand-child but that he had red hair. There were no red-haired folks in the family. But, as the story was handed down through the years, Mother finally spoke up and ended an argument by saying "Oh, my father has a red-haired goatee."

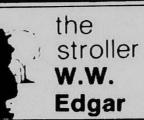

THAT ENDED the argument in the morning but, so the story goes, there was another in the evening when Mother's father came to visit.

Everyone knew him as Col. Frank H. Wilson, an officer in the Grand Army of the Republic. During the visit he asked mother, "What are you going to call him?" and Mother answered, "William Edgar, just like his father's name."

With that the old Colonel arose and said, "Hell, aren't we going to have any part of him?" This caused another commotion that finally was settled when Mother hung her maiden name in front of the "William Edgar" and his baptism certificate reads "Wilson William Edgar." But what a morning that was and Mother always delighted in telling it — especially when the members of her family came to visit.

EVERY ANNIVERSARY of that morning when old Father Time, the gent with the scythe visited, that story is told, and each visit has left something to remember it by.

It so happened that the morning the little red-haired boy was born was Mother's birthday, too. She was 21, so we always celebrated together until she was called to her resting place.

One of these visits from Father Time has left especially fond memories. It was the morning The Stroller reached his 21st birthday. At the breakfast table he said, "Mother, this is a great day for both of us. Today is the only day in your life that you will be twice as old as I am."

She pondered a moment, then answered: "You're wrong. When you are 42 years old, I will be 84." This caused a smile around the table as the girls called her attention to the fact that her figuring was wrong — that when The Stroller was 42 she would be only 63 years old.

BUT THAT morning also has some fonder memories. It was the morning that she presented The Stroller with a gold watch.

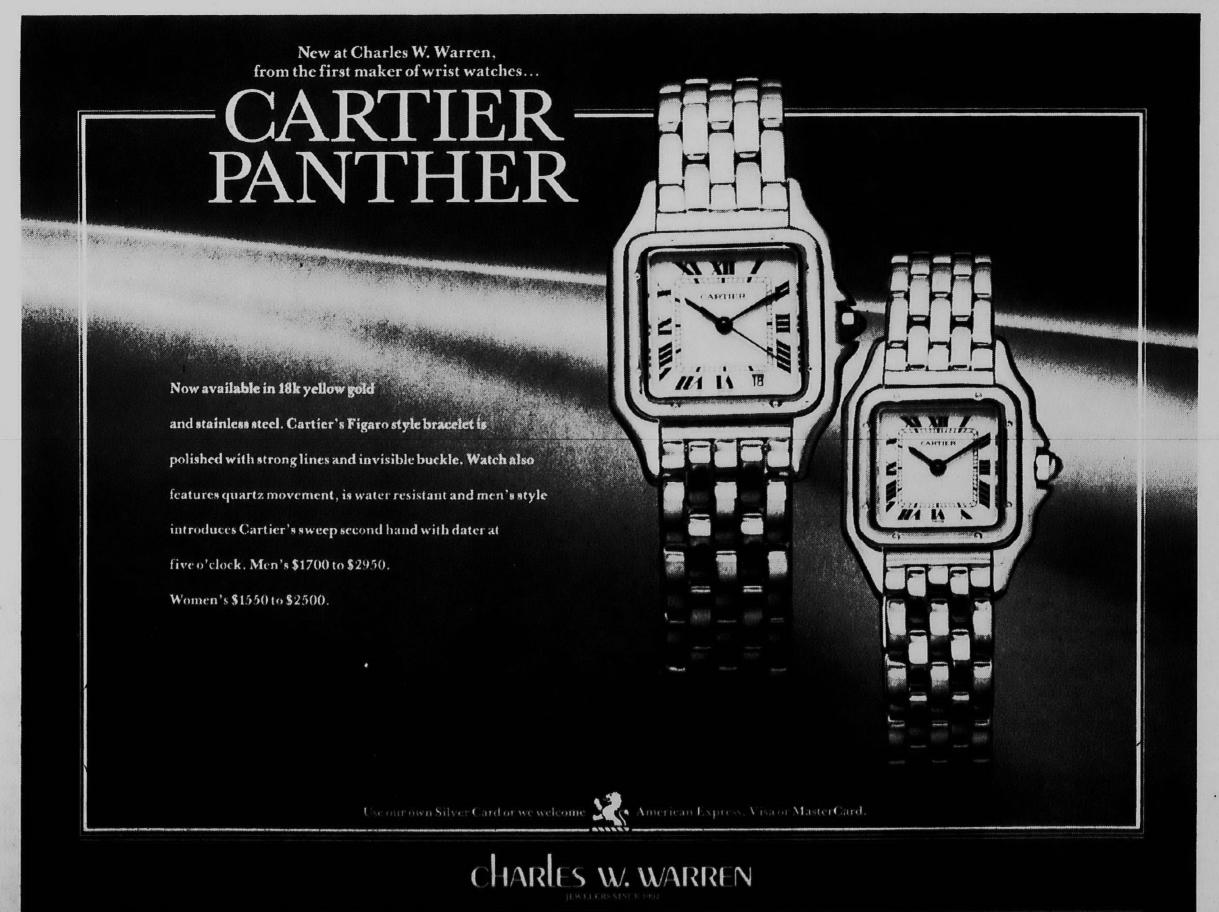

The gold watch had been promised him when he graduated. That day never came, so she substituted and gave it when he reached his voting age. But that was a great day to remember, too.

Now the Old Gent with the scythe is due to visit again, and this should be a memorable one, too. Mother long has been in her resting place, but she will be in our minds all day.

The visits with the Old Gent always have been interesting. This time, there will be a serious invitation to return again. Life has been kind to The Stroller since that day 87 years ago, and he only hopes the Old Gent will be back again for a nice visit.

IT IS not everyone who can enjoy these visits with Father Time over so many years. But The Stroller has enjoyed them so much he doesn't want them to end.

In fact, he has invited him back to help celebrate the century mark. He doesn't want to feel selfish, but life has been so grand he'd like to continue for a good many more years.

Young marrieds cut use of alcohol, drugs

Young people really do "settle down" after they get married.

They drink less and use less marijuana or other illicit druga, according to a University of Michigan study.

But those who continue to live with parents do not show such moderation in their use of drugs. Researchers also found above-average drug use among young people cohabiting with a person of the opposite sex.

These findings are based on a long-term nationwide study by the U-M In-stitute for Social Research (ISR), in which high school seniors are surveyed each year and their experiences after graduation studied through mail ques-

AS HIGH school seniors, about half of the males and 30 percent of the fe-males reported having five or more drinks in a row at least once during the two weeks prior to the survey.

But among those who had married one to three years after graduation, 12 percent fewer were drinking that much. Use of marijuna and of other illigit drugg also showed a clear fewer was a clear fewer was a clear fewer was a clear fewer was a clear fewer as the state of the illicit drugs also showed a clear drop among those who had married.

Young people who continued to live with their parents showed little overall change. Those in most other living arrangements were likely to show some increase in heavy drinking, and in the use of marijuana and other illicit drugs.

The findings were reported by ISR social psychologists Jerald G. Bachman, Patrick M. O'Malley, and Lloyd D. Johnston in a recent issue of the Journal of Personality and Social Psychology, published by the American Psychological Association.

THEIR REPORT is based on data from more than 7,000 graduates of high school classes of 1975 through 1979. It examines drug use during the first three years after high school, usually a period of important transitions in liv-ing arrangements, education and occupational status.

A valuable feature of the study, Bachman explained, is that it surveyed young people both before and after they left high school.

"When they were seniors," he point-ed out, "there was little difference, on average, between those who soon would marry, those who would continue to live with their parents, and those who would choose other living arrangements. The shifts in drug use became evident only after the changes in marital status and living arrangements.

One important exception to the pattern involves the ralatively small number of graduates who were living with a partner of the opposite sex.
"Unlike the marrieds," the researchers reported, "those who were cohabit-ing did not show an overall drop in drug use. Even while they were high school seniors, these individuals were far above average in their use of alco-hol and illicit drugs, and after they be-came cohabitants, their levels of use remained quite high."

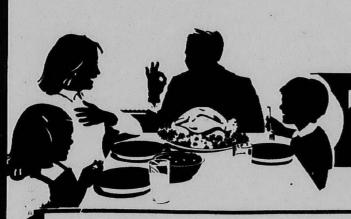

BACHMAN, O'MALLEY and John-

They found that most who smoked regularly during high school continued to smoke afterward, although many said they wished they could stop. Unlike the findings for alcohol and marichanges in living arrange any changes smoking.

The U-M researchers suggest that this is because cigarette smoking is a particularly addictive form of drug use. Those who continue to smoke by the end of high school do so because they are "hooked."

Thanksgiving Feast Updated With Time-Saving Sched

mong American holidays, Thanksgiving tops them all for amount of time spent in the kitchen. Everyone cherishes memories of the Thanksgiving table filled with traditional foods. Never mind that it took all day, and a long lard day at that, to get it ready for the table. Times have changed. People still want a traditional feast, yet have less time to devote to it.

One key to putting together an easier holiday feast is to plan well ahead and especially to prepare ahead, not only the food, but everything involved with it.

The turkey, especially if frozen, has to be bought in advance, allowing 2 to 3 days for it to defrost in the refrigerator. The day before Thanksqiving make the stock for the gravy and prepare the giblets. At the same time dig out the gravy boat and polish the ladle. Assemble all the gravy seasonings, and the corn starch for

If cranberry relish or sauce is to be homemade, make it ahead; they both keep well when refrigerated. The Corn Relish suggested here can be made as much as a Plan to trim the vegetables before Thanksgiving. Prepare raw vegetable relishes and refrigerator store them in tightly-closed plastic bags. For the Vegetable Casserole recipe given here, prepare and pre-cook the vegetables and place them in the casserole; make the crumb topping and pop it into a plastic storage bag. Even the dry ingredients for the casserole sauce can be mixed in the saucepan, all ready to be finished on Thanksgiving. When paring down time, it even makes sense to pre-squeeze the lemon for the sauce and chop the parsley. Store in

For the Butterscotch Yams, cook the yams a day or two in advance and arrange them in a casserole dish. Prepare the butterscotch sauce Thanksgiving morning using the ingredients assembled ahead. Since the Butterscotch Yams and Vegetable Casserole take no more than 30 minutes in the oven they can go in after the turkey comes out. Carving is easier when the roasted turkey has stood for $20\ to\ 30$ minutes out of the oven.

A dessert that has emerged recently as the quintessential Thanksgiving pie is the all American pecan pie. It is easy to make, can be made and stored up to two days in a cool place. For longer storage, make room in the refrigerator. And for people who are asked to "bring dessert" to a shared Thanksgiving meal, pecan pie is ideal. Happy Thanksgiving. This year, make it festive, but make it easier on the cook.

Holiday Turkey

If turkey is frozen, thaw following directions given. Remove thawed turkey from plastic wrap and neck and giblets from body cavities. Rinse turkey with cold water and pat dry, tuck legs into hock lock or under skin band, turn wing tips "akimbo" under back and skewer neck skin to back. Place turkey breast-side up on rack in shallow open roasting pan. Place a "tent" of foil loosely over turkey to prevent over-browning. Foil may be removed during the last half hour for a final browning.

Approximate Roasting Time in 325°F Oven

Weight	Unstuffed	Stuffed
8 to 12 lbs.	3 to 4 hours	4 to 5 hours
12 to 16 lbs.	3-1/2 to 5 hours	4-1/2 to 6 hours
16 to 20 lbs.	4-1/2 to 6 hours	5-1/2 to 7 hours
20 to 24 lbs.	5-1/2 to 6-1/2 hours	6-1/2 to 7-1/2 hours

Turkey is done when meat thermometer inserted into the thickest part of thigh, next to body, registers 180°F. Thermometer should not touch bone. Other tests for doneness: Turkey is ready if the leg joint moves freely or long-tined fork is inserted into thickest part of drumstick and juices run clear. Let turkey stand at room temperature for 20 to 30 minutes for easier carving. Make gravy while turkey rests.

Giblet Gravy

giving plus gravy to serve with leftovers. Making gravy with corn starch is practically foolproof, easy for beginners. Note the two methods. Each gives a gravy that is smooth and light without a floury taste.

Turkey giblets and neck 10 cups water

3 onions, peeled. quartered

3 ribs celery, cut into pieces

2 carrots, peeled, cut into pieces

2 bay leaves

1/3 cup turkey pan drippings 1/2 cup corn starch

1 tablespoon salt

cubes

In 5-quart saucepot stir together turkey giblets and neck, water, onion, celery, carrots, salt, bouillon cubes and bay leaves. Bring to boil: reduce heat. Remove liver after 20-25 minutes: reserve. Simmer 1 hour or until liquid is reduced by half. Strain broth; set aside. Chop and refrigerate giblets, neck and liver. Pour drippings from roasting pan in which turkey was cooked into large measuring cup leaving only brown particles in pan. Allow to stand several minutes until fat drippings separate from turkey juices. Return 1/3 cup fat drippings to pan; discard remaining fat drippings. Add reserved broth to turkey juices to equal 5 cups. Sprinkle corn starch into drippings. Stir and cook over medium heat just until well blended; remove from heat. Gradually stir in broth. Return to heat. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat, stirring up brown bits from bottom of pan; boil 1 minute. Add giblets and liver; heat until hot. Makes 5 cups.

Alternate Method: Follow recipe for Giblet Gravy. Return 1/3 cup fat drippings and 4-1/2 cups turkey juices and broth to roasting pan. Stir together corn starch and remaining 1/2 cup turkey broth until smooth; add to roasting pan. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat, stirring up brown bits from bottom of pan and boil 1 minute. Add giblets and liver; heat until hot. Makes 5 cups.

Gradually stir in milk until smooth, Add margarine. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Remove from heat; stir in lemon juice and parsley. Spoon over vegetables. Sprinkle with Crumb Topping. Bake in 350°F oven 25 to 30 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Makes

Crumb Topping: In small bowl stir together 3/4 cup soft bread crumbs, 1/3 cup grated Parmesan cheese, 3 tablespoons chopped parsley and 2 tablespoons corn oil margarine, melted. Makes about

Butterscotch Yams

6 medium-size yams, cooked, 1/4 cup heavy cream peeled, halved

1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar

3 tablespoons corn oil margarine

1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 cup dark corn syrup Arrange yams in single layer in shallow baking dish or pan. Bake in 350°F oven 15 minutes. In heavy 2-quart saucepan stir together sugar, corn syrup, cream, margarine and salt. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 5 minutes. Pour over yams. Bake, basting twice, 15 minutes longer. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Classic Pecan Pie

Pecan Pie, often called Karo pie, has its roots deep in America. For the traditional pie make it with dark corn syrup and granulated or light brown sugar. For a lighter, still flavorful pie, use light corn syrup and granulated sugar. Note that this recipe is easy to remember. therefore easy to pass along to family and friends.

3 eggs, slightly beaten

margarine, melted

1 cup sugar

teaspoon vanilla

1 cup pecans

1 cup light or dark corn syrup 1 unbaked (9-inch) pastry shell 1 tablespoon corn oil

In medium bowl stir together eggs, sugar, corn syrup, margarine and vanilla until well blended. Stir in pecans. Pour into pastry shell. Bake in 350°F oven 50 to 60 minutes or until knife inserted halfway

Forget about the eels, stuff a turkey instead

If Benjamin Franklin had had his way, we might be stuffing an eagle instead of a turkey for Thanksgiving.

Franklin wanted the turkey to be the national emblem. He was outvoted, but evidence of his influence can be seen on the stenciled walls of historic New England houses. The turkey doesn't look bad in his patriotic pose.

Franklin is credited with the first electric cooking experiment, performed on the banks of the Schuylkill River in Philadelphia in 1749. In a letter that April 29 to Peter Collinson, he

"A turkey is to be killed for our dinner by the electrical shock and roasted by the electrical jack, before a fire, kindled by the electrified bottle . . ."

If the Plymouth Colony's first Thanksgiving had been reported accurately from the beginning, we might be eating eel instead of turkey on the traditional holiday.

"THE PLYMOUTH people, who were mostly lower or lower middle class in English society, were not very good hunters. It's not likely they were able to get any turkeys for that first Thanksgiving," says Dr. Eldon Turner, colonial history professor at the University of Florida. "Although plentiful, the turkey was not easy to hunt."

James Deetz, anthropology professor at the University of California, who spent 20 years at the first settlers' plantation at Plymouth, Mass., says: 'In 20 sites we excavated, we found only one turkey bone."

Turner and Deetz agree that the Pilgrims dined on eel, which were abundant in the creek near the settlement. "And while pumpkin was grown," Deetz says, "it wasn't used for pie, but

Scratch cranberries, too. The Pilgrims didn't have sugar to make cranberry sauce, Deetz says. They did enjoy wild plums, plus duck, goose, venison

Michigan potatoes regaining their market position

Michigan's potato industry has been growing the past few years — so much so that it is no longer the 11th largest potato producing state in the nation.

Recently published federal statistics show that Michigan has moved up in the rankings and is listed as No. 9.

'This year 58,000 acres in Michigan have been planted in potatoes," said Roy H. Kaschyk, executive director of the Michigan Potato Industry Commission in Lansing. "That's quite a jump. Not too many years ago there were only about 37,500 acres of potatoes in Michigan."

That low point was about one-tenth the acreage of Michigan's record year, 1895, when 374,000 acres were planted. Around the turn of the century Michigan was one of the leading three or four states in acreage and production year after year and some years was ranked No. 2 in those categories.

DURING THE Depression, Michigan was still producing about as many potatoes annually as a third of a century earlier, on roughly the same amount of

But after World War II the state's potato industry went into a decline, failing to stay up to date as other states became more aggressive in their potato production and marketing. Gradually, however, Kaschyk said, leaders in the Michigan industry realized they were losing their markets and recognized the need for a more progressive approach.

This attitude led to the creation of the Michigan Potato Industry Commission in 1970, funded by growers and shippers to promote Michigan potatoes and support research to improve productivity and quality.

The research investment of the Commission has paid rich dividends, he reports. In 1982 the average yield in Michigan was 260 hundredweights of potatoes per acre, approximately twice what the typical yield was in the 1950s.

Cupcakes travel well

Surprise the brown-baggers in your family by tucking in a special dessert Walnut Brownie Cupcakes.

Made with chocolate and walnuts, these cupcakes travel well to school or work when left plain or sprinkled lightly with powdered sugar.

WALNUT BROWNIE CUPCAKES 2 1-oz. squares unsweetened chocolate 1% cups all-purpose flour

2 tsp. baking powder 1/4 tsp. salt

3 cup butter or margarine, softened 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar

2 eggs 1 tsp. vanilla

3 cup milk

% cup chopped walnuts

Melt chocolate over hot water; cool. Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Cream butter with sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Mix in vanilla and chocolate. Blend in flour mixture alternately with milk. Stir in walnuts. Spoon batter into 21/2-inch muffin pans lined with paper cupcake liners, filling about 3/5 full. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes or just until cake tops spring back when touched lightly. Cool on wire racks. Makes about 18 cupcakes. If desired, frost with a chocolate buttercream frosting and top with walnut halves and large

THE MICHIGAN potato crop in 1982 totaled 1.28-billion pounds. Last year, with slightly less favorable growing weather, production fell slightly to just over 1.20 billion pounds.

But that's still more than one-half the production of 1904, Michigan's record year, and the figure was achieved on about one-sixth the potato acreage of the early 1900s.

The more than 1.20-billion pounds in each of the last two years have vaulted Michigan ahead of such well-known potato states as Minnesota and New York, which had previously ranked No. 9 and No. 10 respectively in production.

Michigan now holds the No. 9 spot both in production and acreage. In the latter category it might move even higher, Kaschyk pointed out, since this year Michigan's 58,000 acres of plantings just trail Colorado's 59,300 acres and California's 58,800.

Of Michigan's 58,000 acres, 12,000 were planted in summer potatoes, a figure surpassed only by Virginia. Last year Michigan ranked No. 3 in production of summer potatoes, with 2.183million hundredweights, just behind Texas' 2.232-million hundredweights. California was the leader, with 2.56million hundredweights.

MICHIGAN'S ACREAGE in summer potatoes has been increasing, Kaschyk said, because growers are able to produce such a high-quality potato and the demand for these new, tender delicacies is strong each summer.

Bay County is the leading producer of summer potatoes, while sizeable production also comes from Montcalm County. Montcalm is the largest potato-growing county in the state. Other concentrated areas, besides Bay County, include Presque Isle, and Alpena Counties, and Antrim and Otsego Counties, all in the Lower Peninsula; Monroe County, and Allegan County in the southern part of the state; and scattered pockets in the Upper Peninsula, primarily in the western half.

Most of Michigan's production of seed potatoes comes from the Upper Peninsula and the northern Lower Peninsula.

The seed-potato industry is one of Michigan's strengths, Kaschyk said, but there is also an expanding processing sector. There are six potato-chip companies in the state as well as three firms that make french fries and assorted other potato specialties.

About 28,000 acres are devoted to potatoes grown for consumers in the

EACH ONE of the segments of the Michigan potato industry has been a positive factor in its revival, Kaschyk

Each one of the segments of the Michigan potato industry has been a positive factor in its revival, Kaschyk said. Each also contributes members to the Commission. Members are nominated by growers and are appointed by the governor, with a maximum term of service of six years, thus creating a continual introduction of new ideas and fresh perspectives among the leader-

As the Michigan potato industry continues to expand, it plays an important role in state and local economies, Kaschyk said.

Production costs are estimated at about $1,200 per acre, mostly in supplies purchased locally, such as equipment, pest controls and fertilizers. As much as $70 million is pumped into the local economies in potato regions each year, and this money is turned over several times by the suppliers, through wages and taxes they pay as well as their own expenditures in doing busi-

Since both fresh and processed Michigan potatoes are sold throughout the eastern third of the nation, out-of-state sales bolster Michigan's balance of

THE POTATO industry also contributes significantly to employment in Michigan. The state's nearly 400 potato growers not only hire on-farm workers, but create a demand for additional employment in the marketing, transportation and retailing of their crops. Processors also employ large numbers of workers. There are about 500 employees at the Greenville plant of Ore-Ida Foods Inc., and some 200 at Mid-America Potato Co. Inc., Grand Rapids. Another french-fry processor, Superior Potato Co. of Cornell provides jobs in the central Upper Peninsula, an area of chronically high unemploy-

BERNICE Lawrence reports a good turnout for the first meeting of the Pink Rose Sunday Brunch group. Seventeen women sat together at a long table for Sunday brunch at the Mayflower Nov. 11.

They agreed to become a nonprofit charitable organization. Their goal would be to raise funds, by means of garage and bake sales, to contribute to a local mother in need of financial medical support.

Bernice is founder of the Pink Rose Sunday Brunch. She describes it as "a new organization of women which maintains a social atmosphere with a significant purpose - the commemoration of our mothers, whether living or deceased."

Talks with other women encouraged Bernice in organizing the group. As immediate pastpresident of the Vivians Club, women's organization of the Plymouth Elks Lodge, she had many contacts.

The Pink Rose is open to all women 18 and over. There are no dues and members may attend the brunch at their convenience. Guests will be welcomed.

"We meet at noon the second Sunday of each month in the Governor Bradford Room of the Mayflower Meeting House. It was not available for our first meeting. Our next brunch is scheduled for noon Sunday, Dec. 9," Bernice said.

She suggested early reservations as maximum capacity is 60.

All brunch reservations are placed with the Mayflower Meeting House banquet coordinator, 453-1620. Women also may call Bernice, 453-5842.

She said, "Some members are bringing their mother and grandmother. For the rest of us, it will be a time to recall our mothers' special talents, skills and personalities - the individuals they

Women need greater say in medical treatment

special writer

What every woman in her audience wanted to know and was not afraid to ask was answered by Dr. Paula Kim at the recent Women's Health Day sponsored by Oakwood Hospital at the Dearborn Hyatt Regency Hotel.

In forthright remarks Kim, who is assistant director of medical education at Oakwood Hospital, urged women to educate themselves on such matters as doctor-patient communication, medical tests and

In a sense, it was a consciousness-raising session to give women the confidence and information they need to have a greater say in their medical treatment.

Doctors have made most of the decisions in the past, and patients accepted them, Kim said. "But today things are different. People are much more discriminating about the health care they are looking

THE EVOLUTION of technology has led to new options and difficult choices. Patients must participate in decision making, and they

"True, doctors know more about medical problems than you do," she continued. "But you are an expert on your own body and value system. You are the one who ultimately decides to be healthy or sick."

But doctor-patient communication can sometimes be a problem. "Your tests are grossly negative," was an example Kim gave of doctor communication to a patient that didn't work. "It meant she passed her tests with flying colors. But the patient was insulted. It didn't sound good to her.'

CLARIFY YOUR understanding of what the doctor told you. Repeat it back to him or her and ask if that is what he meant. Ask, it's your right to know, she stressed. Ask for instructions to be written

Be as good a scientist as he is, was her next piece of advice. Jot down your symptoms and what makes them better or worse, and what time of the day or month they occurred. That is what the doctor

Know what tests you've already had. Jot down what the test was, the results and which doctor's office has the results. "It will save you having extra tests you don't need," noted the physician.

"Always let the doctor know if there is a chance you are pregnant," she said. "Often doctors forget to ask this when prescribing a test or treatment. Yet this could have a big effect on you. "Let him know your family history. Many in their hurry don't ask what Grandma had. Make sure the doctor is aware of this. Let him know if you are under stress, if there's a family crisis at home. Your main caretaker should know if things are going on."

An educated patient should also learn about procedures and tests. Usually, Kim noted, there is some risk to every test. Learn the good and bad things about them.

Also discover all the options, including not having tests or surgery. "Often doctors don't remember or don't choose to go over that," she commented. In the case of breast cancer it would be wise to find a physician well versed in all options.

Some doctors don't mention that a natural birth might be possible after a Cesarean section. "They don't want to do it, it's not the way they were trained," she explained. "Doctors are stick-in-the-muds some times and want to do it one way."

FIND OUT the costs of tests because some are not covered by

Learn all you can about medications.

"Any drug, even aspirin, taken in large enough quantities is a poison," said Kim. "Any drug can cause side effects. Ask what the drug is and why you are on it. What are the possible side effects and risks? What drugs or medications might it interact with?"

The doctor should be informed of any over-the-counter drugs you are taking like laxatives or milk of magnesia. They can affect whether or not his treatment will work. Taking an anti-acid can neutralize the antibiotic, tetracycline.

Ask if the medication is contraindicated if you are pregnant. "You should know if this can hurt your baby," she warned. "Many times doctors don't think of this."

Kim asked the women in her audience to learn the name of their medicine as well as the correct dosage. She recalled a patient who received a prescription with what she knew to be the wrong dosage. She returned to have it corrected.

Before the speaker moved on to a detailed dissection of medical tests, she paused to offer a reminder.

"Please remember that doctors, too, are people," she said. "They have days when they are more gregarious and empathetic than others. They could have had a fight with their spouse or been up all night with a sick child.

"If you get the brush off or are not satisfied, don't give up on him or her. He wants you to understand. If you don't understand you won't take the treatment and get better. Call back and say you are dissatis-fied. Ask more questions. Most doctors don't take that as an insult, or they shouldn't. They should be glad you are concerned."

SCREENING TESTS are usually done on smeone who is healthy. They are useful because often if a problem is found early enough it can be cured. They are usually safe, fairly inexpensive and usually

But tests can be wrong, observed Kim. If you get an abnormal result, screen it with a doctor who knows your medical history. Mammograms are wrong 10-15 percent of the time. You need to have a thorough examination by a doctor along with it.

Sometimes tests don't come out right because instructions aren't followed carefully. A patient might eat just before a test. Blood for a cholesterol test should be drawn after a 12-hour fast. If you made a mistake about this, let the doctor know so he doesn't misinterpret

If you are on a certain medication, it might also change results. Let

Why is cancer screening important to you? It is because cancer is the number one cause of death for people between the ages 25-44. The most common in women is breast cancer followed in order by cancer of the colon/rectum, uterus, lungs and ovaries.

The speaker suggested yearly mammograms for those in families with a history of breast, uterus, colon, ovary or stomach cancer. The tests for colon cancer look for blood in the stool and polyps in the colon. Polyps can occur long before the cancer shows itself, and they can be snipped out.

octor-patient communicate better

To test for bleeding stools, a cardboard apparatus is sent home with the patient by which he can mail in stool specimens. The test for polyps is called a sigmoidoscopy. A sigmoidoscope with a tiny flashlight at the end is directed up the colon.

Good news was brought by the speaker when she said this instrument is now softer and more flexible, and therefore more comfortable for the patient. The benefit of this procedure is a more accurate diagnosis of polyps in the colon.

The American Cancer Society recommends starting this test about the age of 50. Have two one year apart, and after that one every three years.

THE SOCIETY also suggests that a Pap test, to discover cancer of the uterus, only needs to be done every three years if a patient has already had two negative ones.

I have a problem with this," reported Kim. "So do a lot of gynecologists. You need a breast exam every year and you need your ovaries and uterus checked each year. While in the office why not have a Pap smear. It will only cost you another $9.

"Frankly Pap tests are not always that accurate. A study on women diagnosed as having cancer of the cervix revealed that 27 percent of them had normal Pap smears the year before.

"I'd still recommend it every 3-5 years even if you don't have a uterus and cervix just to have the lining of the vagina scraped. So in my book while there, do a Pap. I want it. But there is disagreement about it."

She added that doctors may want to do a Pap to see how much estrogen level is in the cells, if the woman is on hormone therapy. "It will tell the doctor whether the hormone dosage is

There is no good test for ovarian cancer, which is the fourth leading cause of death for women, said Kim. The only way to check them is through a manual exam by a doctor. If he feels enlarged ovaries or any ovaries after menopause, there is something to worry

By 1985 there is a good chance that lung cancer will overtake breast cancer as the most common cancer for women. But don't count on a chest Xray to find it.

'By the time it is visible on an X-ray, it will be far enough along so that your treatment or ultimate survival chances won't change. A yearly X-ray may not be something you should do. It is not a good screening test. So stop smoking. It's cheaper than an X-ray.

Heart disease is the number one cause of death in women over 44. There are a number of useful tests in connection with heart problems, such as blood pressure screening and cholesterol

"People with high blood pressure have more strokes, heart attacks and hardening of the arteries," remarked the physician, who is clinical assistant professor of family medicine at Wayne State University.

In addition to favoring blood pressure screening, she urged her listeners to have their cholesterol and triclycerides tested. The cholesterol test should be below 180.

"You lower your cholesterol by 10 percent and it will decrease the chance of coronary artery disease by 20 percent," she said. "That's a bargain."

"Should we ask how many rads we're getting in an x-ray?" queried a conference participant, who added that many X-ray technicians seem to be unable to answer this question.

"They may not know," was the reply. "It's a good thing for you to know. Ide-ally we should all be able to walk in and ask how many rads we are getting. A chest X-ray front and lateral totals about one-tenth a rad. A mammogram should be under half a rad.

"In some cases if you go to a place where they do a lot of X-rays like the Cancer Society or a big hospital where they have to keep the equipment in tiptop shape and have modern machines, you may get a mammogram for only .03 rads.

"It depends on where you go and who is doing it and what machine they've got. You have every right to know that. If you get someplace and they tell you that you'll get over a rad for a mam-mogram, I wouldn't let them near me.

'I think the most tactful thing to do would be to refuse for that day, and ask your doctor to find out about it for you. Your doctor should be your advocate."

WALKER STREET, STREET,

Low fan support lifts athlete's ire

RAN WHITTAKER is an outstanding athlete at Plymouth Salem. She is a standout in three sports - basketball, volleyball and soccer.

She is also an intelligent, thoughtful person and from time to time she'll send her thoughts along to me in a letter. Her latest letter was especially intriguing and heartfelt.

At the risk of embarrassing her, I'll share some of her comments with you:

"OK, listen — if you will.

"How about in the fall having volleyball (only varsity), JV girls and boys basketball, JV and varsity football, cross country, boys soccer and tennis. Then in the winter, have varsity girls and varsity basketball.

"That way, we'll have volleyball in the fall (like it is all over the country) and girls basketball in the winter (like it is all over the country). The girls would play before the boys on Tuesday and Friday, therefore getting a better crowd.

You see, what prompted Fran to write this letter was the absolute pitiful crowds that came out (rather, didn't come out) to see the her and her Rock teammates play this season.

I'VE MADE an issue of this before. The fan support of Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton athletics is disgusting - especially to those who work so doggedly to make the programs successful, namely the coaches and players like Whittaker.

Last Tuesday, Salem played host to Livonia Bentley in the Western Lakes semifinals. It was a big game between two fierce rivals. In the stands, and I actually made a rough count, were all of 60 people. More came in later, but one segment of the crowd made up of Salem baseball players, left at

Superintendent of schools Dr. John Hoben was one of those 60 in attendance. I hope he got the idea that something was painfully wrong - but I doubt

Fran Whittaker realized that something was wrong.

"(Under her proposed athletic schedule) the crowd would be much larger, giving the kids a better sense of self-worth. And, it would incorporate much more school spirit into the game. How about that?

The girls and boys at each level are generally in the same grade and there would be so much camaraderie throughout."

Fran makes some very valid suggestions. Unfortunately, her proposed system wouldn't work. It's not very practical. Some football players also play JV basketball. Some volleyball players also play JV basketball. Gym space would be tight in the fall. Coaches would have a problem in separating their total programs, etc., etc.

BUT, FRAN'S other point is right on the mark. Something should be done to curb the apathy that surrounds the athletic program.

Obviously, when it gets to the point where the players themselves are embarrassed, the situation deserves some attention. But, what can be done?

My answer before was to combine the schools. People scoffed. "The educational park system works in the best interest of all students, athletes included," they said. "It provides a greater opportunity for a great number of students and student-athletes."

Well, all I can say is that the same opportunities will be there for the same number of kids if the two high schools combine. Only everything would be

"OH, BUT if you combine schools, a lot of kids won't get the chance to play varsity sports," was a common complaint of those opposed to one high

Nonsense. Do you really believe that everyone who wants to play a varsity sport at Canton and Salem is able to?

If the schools combined, a huge intramural athletic program could easily be developed that would give everyone an opportunity to compete in athletics, bar none. And if you scoff at intramural athletics, pay a visit to the intramural facility at Eastern Michigan University. You'll see the importance and the success of intramural athletics.

Certainly, combining the schools would have little effect on academics. Nothing, really, would

Hasn't anyone noticed the strange hypocrisy of the CEP band? Here is the one element of the Salem-Canton high school community that dares to combine efforts. And guess what? The band is the best in the state. And the Plymouth-Canton administration, while condemning any talk of combining schools, is the first to heap praise on

LET'S COMBINE everything. Let's be the best we can be — not just in sports, but in every phase of high school education.

Otherwise, it's all going to cave in. Evidence of a collapse is already occuring - ridiculously poor attendance at athletic events, coaches quiting, declining numbers of student-athletes, athletes becoming as apathetic about their teams as the fans, uneven balance of athletic talent between the two schools — the list is rapidly growing.

Believe this: if the athletic programs crumble, so too will the quality of education. Thanks for the letter, Fran.

Brodie accepts the challenge

staff writer

As the boys basketball coach at Plymouth Salem for 12 seasons, Fred Thomann won 227 games and lost but 49. His teams brought to Salem nine league titles, seven district titles and a regional title. His teams never had a losing season.

Into those shoes stepped Bob Brodie. Brodie, an assistant to Thomann since 1978, was given the boys basketball job at Salem last spring when Thomann resigned. "I was very happy to take the job," said Brodie. "But those are some big shoes to fill. I will never be able to fill them. All I can do is do the best job I can.'

That is typical Bob Brodie talk. He is a softspoken man, with a somewhat self-effacing manner. His youthful, athletic physical appearance and his shy modesty often belittle the intense seriousness that burns within.

IT HAS LONG been his desire to coach basketball at the varsity level. He was smart enough upon his graduation from Central Michigan University in 1975 to know that he would have to pay his dues. He knew he had plenty to learn.

He was an all-state player at Flat Rock High School, and he played some at Central. (He played baseball for the most part at CMU.) But playing the game doesn't automatically qualify you to coach it.

Brodie took his first teaching job at River Rouge. There he learned a few coaching lessons from a master — Lofton Green. The next year he coached at Grosse Ile.

Then in 1977 he was hired into the Plymouth-Canton school district and took over the

'All I wanted to make sure from (Fred Thomann) was that he was getting out because he wanted to and not because of anything else."

> - Bob Brodie new Salem basketball coach freshman program at Salem the following year. He moved up to junior varsity in 1981.

"I've been able to learn from some pretty good coaches," Brodie said.

Brodie is also an assistant to football coach Tom Moshimer and, at one point last year, he was being touted to replace Brian Gilles as the varsity baseball coach at Salem.

"Basketball was my first love," he said. "I just like the game too much and I wasn't ready to give it up. If I took the baseball job, I wouldn't have been able to stay with basket-

It proved to be a wise decision for him.

BOB BRODIE has proven to be a very successful coach within Thomann's structure. Thus, when Thomann resigned, the man that he recommended as his replacement was Bro-

You don't have to search very far to find evidence of Brodie's coaching ability. Last season he inherited a junior varsity team with virtually no organized basketball experience. It was the first wave of players affected by the lack of middle school or ninth grade programs within the Plymouth-Canton district.

Early in the season, Brodie's group took its lumps. It got thoroughly trounced by Southfield in the opener. The team was a shaky 4-4 after eight games.

Then they started coming on. The team finished with 14-6 record and was as solid and as poised a JV unit as you'd want to see.

Brodie is no longer a coach within someone else's system. His system now reigns at Salem. What will that system be like?

"Very similar to Fred's," he said. "When I was coaching with Lofton Green and at Grosse Ile, I believed in a man-to-man defense and the motion offense. I brought those with me to Salem and they were the same things

BUT THERE will be differences, some rather major. For one, the word zone is in Brodie's basketball vocabulary.

"Oh, you may see us play zone from time to time. We will live by our man-to-man, but sometimes, if the situation calls for it, we'll go

Brodie also likes to play an up-tempo game. But, he adds quickly, everything is predicated on what type of players he has in a given sea-

"This is a public school. We can't recruit players. We have to go with what we have. should feel very fortunate.

This season we don't have a lot of size, so maybe we'll run more. In other years, maybe we won't be able to," he said.

Taking over a job from someone as successful as Thomann is tough. But Brodle's job was made doubly tough by the circumstances surrounding Thomann's resignation and by the fact that Thomann, as a teacher and girls basketball coach, is still very much a part of the Salem athletic scene.

None of the above worries Brodie.

Thomann resigned because of a long dispute with the district administration. The dispute involved all coaches within the district, and the coaches were in agreement with Tho-

"I DIDN'T talk to Fred much about that (the dispute)," Brodie said. "All I wanted to make sure from him was that he was getting out because he wanted to and not because of anything else."

Thomann assured him that it was time for him to step down and he urged Brodie to go after the job.

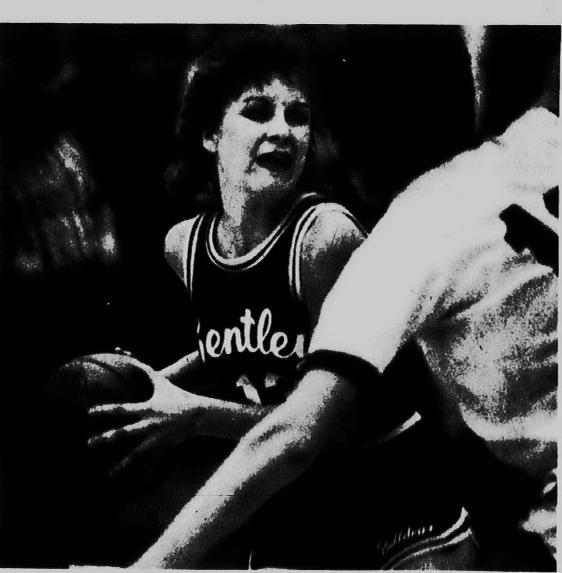

And Brodie couldn't be happier that Thomann is still around.

"I still plan to go to Fred, with all his experience, and ask him for help from time to time," he said. Brodie said his main objective as a coach is to get the most he possibly can from his players. And to do that, he doesn't mind using all the resources available to him - Thomann included.

In most cases, to lose a coach of Thomann's stature means a certain decline in that program. If that happens at Salem, it will not be because of coaching. And for that, Salem

Western wins WLAA crown

Bentley's Amy Weber gets hemmed in by the Walled Lake Western defense in Friday night's Western Lakes title game won by Western.

By Chris McCosky staff writer

> Before taking the floor Friday night in the Western Lakes conference championship game, Walled Lake Western gathered in front of its bench. The players grasped hands. The last words spoken before breaking the huddle were

"Not like last year."

Not like last year indeed. The only game and last year's were the teams -Western and Livonia Bentley.

Last year, the Bentley girls basketball team pulled off a stunning upset at Western. This year, Western made like a tank and rolled over Bentley, 55-29, to win its first-ever league title.

In all fairness, the final score is an exaggeration of Western's actual dominance in the game. For three quarters, the much smaller, undermanned Bulldogs gave Western all it could handle.

THE BULLDOGS came into the Western gym riding the crest of its most impressive performance of the season. On Tuesday, Bentley throttled tournament-favorite Plymouth Salem

To beat Salem, Bentley coach Tom Lang deployed a badgering zone defense and an aggressive offense that looked to drive to the basket at every opportunity.

Lang deployed the same tactics against Western and they worked -

Defensively, Bentley's zone did a credible job stopping Western's 6-foot-3 center Val Hall for the first three quarters. She scored just eight points and grabbed but five rebounds - not much production from one who carries at least a 7-inch height advantage over the tallest Bentley player.

Offensively, Sheri Wolfe, Amy Weber and Lonnie Payne dashed and slashed their way through the Warrior defense. They got easy shots, just like they did against Salem, but this time the shots missed their mark.

"I thought that we just didn't take advantage of our offensive opportunities in the first half, especially our free throws," Lang said. "I really felt we should have been ahead at halftime." Bentley made just three of its 25 shots from the floor in the first half, and just 6 of 15 free throws. Still, the Bulldogs trailed just 17-12. THE SHOTS began to fall in the third quarter. Kelly Kowalski began finding the range from the outside and Marianne Bragiel came off the bench and hit some key buckets inside.

Bentley got within two, 21-19, on Kowalski's seven straight points.

But, the game, for all intents and purposes, ended with just four seconds left in the quarter. Payne, Bentley's guts and glue, picked up her fourth

Barb Watts hit two free throws to put Western up by seven. Then, with Payne on the bench, the Warriors ran off eight unanswered points to begin the final quarter.

Payne, reinstated, immediately fouled out.

Western outscored Bentley 24-5 in the final quarter. Hall scored 10 points in the quarter to give her a game-high 18. Carol Croll added 10 for Western Kowalski and Bragiel each scored eight to pace Bentley who finish the regular season at 11-8.

Stevenson gets revenge on Rocks

staff writer

Could call it WLAA War, III, I suppose. It was, after all, the third time this season the Plymouth Salem and Livonia Stevenson girls basketball teams battled. It was also for third place in the WLAA the Western Lakes Activities Association.

And it was a war - make no mistake about it. If these two teams happen to meet again in a state tournament game, my advice is to wear a helmet. The game was a record, too: For the first time in its history, Stevenson came out on top, besting the homecourt Rocks 51-43. The Spartans, who finished 14-6, had the size and used it to great advantage. If anyone doubted that there's something to be learned from losing, please take note:

"We started the year thinking no way could we press Plymouth Salem," said Stevenson coach Wayne Henry. "But we found out in the last half of that second game that we could."

THE SPARTANS lost both previous meetings with Salem, and in the second game trailed by 19 at the half before a second-half press pulled them to within 2.

Henry learned his lesson. He started Friday's game pressing Salem, and although it allowed some easy baskets, it also earned Stevenson its share of turnovers.

The Rocks (16-4) got rolling early. A pair of Dena Head steals ignited a 10-2 game-opening spurt. Fran Whittaker accounted for 6 of those

But Whittaker also drew 3 personal fouls in the first quarter, and that bothered Salem when it came time to break the press. Stevenson rallied to outscore the Rocks 9-2 and cut the lead to 14-11 after a quarter.

From then on it was a seesaw battle. Stevenson grabbed the lead late in the second quarter and led 26-24 at the half. Eventually the Spartans built an 8-point bulge, but Salem narrowed that to 3 going into the final quar-

The Rocks got back on top on a Kendra Hostynski basket with 1:39 to go. But Mary Kay Hussey scored from underneath to give the advantage back to Stevenson, 42-41.

WHEN SALEM followed with a turnover, the game boiled down to free throw shooting. The Rocks sent Stevenson to the line 10 times in the final 52 seconds. The Spartans made 9.

Salem coach Fred Thomann made no excuses. "I thought we played hard enough, played well enough, to win it. In the Bentley game (which Salem lost last Tuesday) we didn't play that way."

Lisa Bokovoy poured in a game-high 21 points for Stevenson, with Joan Frysinger adding 11. Head had 12 to top Salem, with Whittaker contributing 10 and Reggie Rejesti

CANTON 37, W.L. CENTRAL 33: Beth Frigge bagged 20 points, including 8 in the final quarter, to push Plymouth Canton past Walled Lake Central Friday at Canton. Frigge proved to be the only offensive threat for the Chiefs, who are now 11-8. Canton blistered Central (2-17) with an 11-2 second quarter to go up by 9 at the half.

But the Vikings pulled to within 3 after three quarters and to within 1 midway through the fourth. Frigge's 8 lastquarter points were the Chiefs salva-

"No one else was hitting," said coach John Mulroy. "In the second quarter I told (Frigge), When they swing the ball back to you, if no one's on you pull up and take the jump shot.'

"Fortunately she listened to me." Laura Darby added 7 for the Chiefs. Pam Fitzgerald led Central with 12.

New OU coach casts gloomy outlook

By C.J. Risak staff writer

One by one, the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (GLIAC) men's basketball coaches stepped to the podium to say glowing - or at - things about least semi-positive their teams.

"I think we're better right now than we were at any time last year," said Bob Eldridge of Lake Superior State.

We have good quickness, senior experience and maturity," was how Bob Pratt of Saginaw Valley State described his squad, adding, "The quality of our guard play is the best we've had. And we have good depth."

Pat Miller of Northwood Institute was pleased that he had "everybody back that finished the season with the exception of Mike Hardin - four start-

Even Bill Gappy, whose Michigan Tech team was picked to finish in the GLIAC cellar in the coaches' poll, commented, "We have no where to go but OAKLAND UNIVERSITY first-year

coach Greg Kampe heard all this at the GLIAC meeting. His remarks were a trifle more disparaging. 'Oakland University has never had a winning season in the GLIAC," he said. "Obviously we don't have the talent other teams possess. I'm not happy with what I've seen so far. "We're not big and we're not quick.

We've got two starters over 6-5. Is that what to expect from OU this season? Or is Kampe sandbagging, downplaying his team's chances so that no one expects too much from the Pioneers this season? After all, the fewer the expectations, the fewer the disappointments.

Both are true — partially. OU is small; as Kampe said, "Right now, my starters would be Rob Skinner, Craig Tonti and Chris Howze as the little guys, and Randy Strunk and Walt Dixon as the big guys."

SKINNER AND TONTI are 6-foot-2, Howze is 6-3. Strunk is 6-61/2 and Dixon

But, of those five, Skinner is a solid point guard and defensive player. Howze is quick and fast and a good scorer at small forward. Tonti has impressed Kampe with his outside shooting and Dixon, a transfer from University of Detroit, has the ability to be a strong rebounder. It's been two weeks since that GLI-AC coaches conference and Kampe has tempered his views - somewhat.

"We're very small and not very fast," he reiterated, then added, "but we're playing hard and we're much improved on defense. We're understanding our defensive concepts better. "Our starting five have been picked because of their defensive abilities."

KAMPE WAS also quick to point out that those five may not be the starters on opening day (Sunday at Western Michigan). Three freshmen — 6-foot guard Scott Bittinger, 6-6 forward Pete Schihl and 6-3 swingman Rob Alvin, a Birmingham Groves grad - together with 6-4 sophomore forward Jenny Vrij will all get a long look during the nonleague schedule.

"I strongly intend during the first seven games to look at those starting five and the next four," said Kampe.

Alvin and Bittinger, both recruited by Kampe, look to be good shooters who need work on defense. Schihl was one big player - Kampe divides his squad not by forward, center and guard, but by "big guys and little guys" Kampe was hoping might deliver this season, despite his freshman sta-

But Schihl has been bothered by a se-

Ex-RU star still on run

For the second straight year, Angie Mogielski sprinted to NJCAA All-America honors in cross country. Only this time, the Redford Union grad has something even greater to celebrate.

Mogielski and her Macomb Community College teammates sped to the NJCAA championship Saturday, easily outdistancing runner-up Golden Valley Lutheran of Minnesota in the NJCAA finals at Twin Falls, Ida-

Archer switched again; MSU needs rebounding

staff writer

Nothing much ever stays the same, as Kim Archer is discovering now that she's a sophomore at Michigan State.

To describe Archer's freshman year on MSU's women's basketball team as merely "interesting" wouldn't do it justice. Educational wouldn't be extreme enough, either.

Archer began the season as the starting power forward, quite an accomplishment for a freshman but not surprising for Archer, an All-Stater at Livonia Bentley in both basketball and

She didn't stay there long, however. Injuries riddled the Spartans' group of guards, and by midseason Archer was switched - from power forward to

SHE PROVED she could handle either position. Archer finished with a 9.4 points per game average (on .519 percent shooting from the floor), 8.4 re-bounds, and led the team in assists (106) and steals (54).

She also had a triple-double, reaching double figures in three categories, against Northwestern with 16 points, 10 rebounds and 10 assists.

That was last year. This year Archer will be back at forward, and it looks like it'll be a lot rougher.

"I think that's my normal position," said the 5-foot-11 former Bulldog who, with her Spartan teammates, returned to Bentley for an intra-squad game

MSU, which went 18-10 overall and 10-8 in the Big Ten in 1983, has lost just one player. NSL gets new life

By Judith Doner Berne staff writer

It looks like the Northwest Suburban League (NSL) will continue — but with-out Thurston High School which has found a new athletic home.

Seven schools have reportedly indicated interest in joining the league, which will lose four of six schools next

The most recent resignation came Thursday from Thurston — the league's only Class B school. Thurston will join the Tri-River league, principal Jack Harms said.

The other NSL schools, North Farmnia Franklin, will join the Western fied. Lakes Activities Association next fall.

The two schools which are left -Redford Union and Garden City - will meet with officials from Dearborn Edsel Ford, Dearborn and Woodhaven high schools as soon as possible, RU Principal Dr. Robert Schramke said re-

Thurston, which dropped from Class A to Class B about a year ago when its enrollment dipped below 1,180, will play against schools more its size.

The Tri-River league is composed of six Class B, one small Class A and a Class C school. They are: Allen Park, Annapolis, Cherry Hill, Crestwood, Taylor Kennedy, Melvindale, Riverside and Southgate Anderson.

Thurston will take the place of Riverside, the only Class C school, which has reportedly withdrawn so it can play against other schools with similar enrollments.

The next year, Cherry Hill will withdraw because it is merging with the Wayne-Westland school district. Then the league will have to hunt up a replacement, Harms said.

At the same time, Thurston plans to keep up its association with its traditional rivals, by maintaining non-athletic activities such as student exchanges and leadership conferences.

Those non-athletic activities are also important to RU and Garden City, Schramke said. Before accepting Dearborn, Dearborn Edsel Ford or Woodhaven, they will check those schools full sports program, facilities and student activities.

Ford Employees:

DON'T SETTLE FOR LESS THAN THE HEALTH CARE LEADER.

BLUE CROSS AND BLUE SHIELD OF MICHIGAN.

It's been the leader for 45 years, giving its members:

- The most recognized health care card in the world.
- Paid covered services anywhere in Michigan from any of
 - -over 215 hospitals.
 - -13,500 physicians.
 - -6,500 dentists.
- -over 2,000 pharmacies.
- Coverage wherever you go around the world.

LOOKING FOR AN HIMO?

For the first time, Ford employees are being offered Health Care Network, one of the statewide network of seven HMO's affiliated with Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan.

■ Health Care Network serves all of Wayne, Oakland, Macomb

and Washtenaw counties.

■ Health Care Network provides the choice of your own private practice physician from a list of 500, and Health Care Network is accepted at 75 participating area hospitals.

■ Members needing services while travelling outstate can receive them at any of the six other Blues-affiliated HMO's statewide.

Health Care Network's I.D. card gives you the peace of mind of being a member of the Blue Cross and Blue Shield family.

MEDICARE PLUS. HEALTH CARE NETWORK SAVINGS FOR RETIREES.

Retirees can receive additional services with no Medicare copayments or deductibles.

■ Medicare Plus covers office visits, unlimited hospitalization, emergency and home care.

■ Check your Health Care
Network representative for further Medicare Plus information.

The choice is simple. Entrust your family's health care to the leaders—Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan, or Health Care Network.

WHICHEVER YOU CHOOSE, YOU JUST CAN'T LOSE.

Traditional coverage from the Blues, or HMO coverage from Health Care Network. Both carry the international Blue Cross and Blue Shield symbols of health care leadership.

Phony is the word for teen romance in soap-opera style

Billy Joel sings: "Don't go trying some new fashion. Don't change the color of your hair . . . I like you just the way you are."

Kristy McNichol plays a heroine who isn't true to herself when she fakes an injury in "Just the Way You Are," a film as phony as

"JTWYA" opens on a pleasantly audacious note. If they it had maintained the happy, brassy Broadway quality, it would have been a fine, funny film. But no such luck.

Too quickly, Kristy and crew descend into a gooey swamp of romantic claptrap. Heavy-handed, uneven romantic moralizing may work in a three-minute Billy Joel song. It doesn't work in a

SUSAN BELANGER (McNichol) is a promising young concert flutist, currently playing with the Ballet Orchestra. Susan wears a leg brace becaue of a childhood illness, and that's the crux of the film's dramatic conflict.

The brace bothers Susan to the psychological extreme. She perceives a materialistic world where appearances count for everything and the brace destroys her success potential.

Never mind she has a promising musical career. Never mind that Frank, handsome young stockbroker on the way up, wants to marry her and care for her.

Never mind that Sam and Frank and Jack and Ski Hunk and every guy she meets drags her, uncomplaining, off to bed. Some of their ardor cools when it comes to removing the brace, but on the whole she can't complain.

HER BEST FRIEND, a Cher look-alike and act-alike, doesn't do nearly as well. She, too, is horny and talented (a ballerina) but flatchested - sorry, it's all over for her in this materialistic, adolescent world where appearances count for everything. The boys reject Susan's girlfriend but go for Susan.

Before the plane leaves for a European concert tour, there's a short detour for Susan to say goodbye to Mom and Dad. As with most youth-market-oriented films, parents are annoyances that, at best, must be placated out of some primordial sense of guilt. (They raised you and fed you and loved you and did their best, but it wasn't enough.)

Once the guilt is placated, however, you're free to do whatever feels good, however destructive it might be.

SUSAN QUITS her concert tour and runs on up to a slick French ski resort where her intellectual caliber (and the film's) is amply demonstrated by her childish glee when the French desk clerk fails to find a reservation in the name of "Susan Belanger" but does find one for "Soo-zan Bell-an-jay."

Since Susan isn't content just the way she is, she goes to the ski clinic and has her leg brace replaced with a cast. Although the doctor is against it medically, his Gallic sense of romance wins

Naturally, casts are elegant at ski resorts, and Susan is off on an ever-greater social/romantic whirl.

By some magical alchemy of motion picture romanticism and youthful hypocrisy, limping from a ski injury is attractive while limping from a childhood illness isn't.

I severly distrust movies that pander to materialistic viewpoints and the need for instant gra tification. "JTWYA's" slow, soapy plot development doesn't help either.

It just isn't true to its own self - or anything, for tht matter.

Devil vs. God

Comedian George Burns gets a chance to play both lead roles in "Oh, God! You Devil." (Above) the Devil, dressed in sartorial splendor, puffs away on a cigar, just like actor Burns. (Below) playing God, Burns relaxes in casual wear, to enjoy a game of cards. The movie is at Detroit area movie theaters.

Stroller takes his lump

By W.W. Edgar staff writer

Each year as the Christmas season rolls around The Stroller can't help taking a trip down memory lane to the Christmas of his life that he cried most of the day.

It came about in the most unusual man-

You see, our little town was adjacent to the Pennsylvania coal regions and the chunks of anthracite were used in many fashions. The most unusual use came at yuletide when we youngsters were warned that if we didn't behave Santa Claus may place some coal in your stocking.

For some years The Stroller had listened to this warning - but he never heard any of his playmates tell of getting a chunk of coal from Santa Claus.

THEN CAME the one Christmas he never will forget. He had been invited to deliver a speech in the little white church on the hill and nothing pleased him better.

For several weeks he had studied his speech, knowing that his Mother would be among the listeners and he wanted to please her.

As the hour approached the snow started to fall and Mother decided that no snow could stop us. So off we went and when the time came we walked up the aisle and The Stroller was taken up to the platform in front of the pulpit.

Fortunately the speech was delivered without a hitch and when we got home with the box of candy and the big orange that the church gave all Sunday School students, Mother said: "Son, you did real good tonight, and I am sure Santa Claus CONTRACTOR OF THE PROPERTY OF

Then she watched us hang up our stockings. We didn't have a fireplace, so we hung them on the wall just inside the front door. They were placed carefully, and we even asked Mother to keep the door open so Santa could get in easily.

The Christmas spirit had gripped all of us, and we were off to bed with the thought that Christmas Day was going to be great with the gifts from Santa.

As we came down the stairs the girls started laughing as they raced for their stockings and saw the orange and the box of candy at the bottom.

When the young Stroller looked for his stocking, it was still hanging there - but he couldn't see the orange or the box of

Up close, he saw that it was a clunk of coal at the bottom - no orange or candy, just the dirty black coal. He burst into tears. It was the sign that Santa thought he had been a bad boy. And now he must suffer. And what suffering it was. He just couldn't believe that he had been had dur

Show in the Plymouth Cul-

This will mark the 11th year in a row the recreation department has had its Christmas Show. The first show was held in 1974 with only 70 exhibitors. Over the years a second show had to be added because of the demand for applications.

Now each show has more than 75 exhibitors and a long waiting list for future shows. Attendance also has grown each year - last year's crowds were estimated at about 5,000 per weekend, and crowds of similar size are expected this year.

THE SHOWS draw crafters from all over the state. Will Shomin and his pieces of pottery.

Not all cratters are from outside this area, though. Edith Reimnes and Joan Pobursky from Garden City will be in the first show displaying their baby-sewn bags, quilts and blankets. Frank Yankee, a jeweler with 22 years experience from Farmington Hills, also will be in the first show. He makes beautiful hand-crafted gold jewelry in many unique designs.

Evelyn Griffin from Canton will be in the second show with her handpainted porcelain dolls by the famous artist Dora. Griffin makes all the clothing. Some of the dolls she displays are bride dolls, Shirley Temples and Little Johns.

Marge Stacey of Plymouth, a new-comer to the shows, will be in the second show with a variety of potpourris used for room fresheners, personal care, suitcases, drawers and repellents in many shapes and sizes.

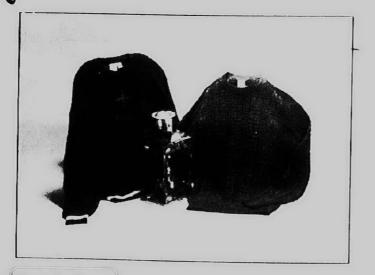

Daisy Raisigel, a cafeteria worker, ter will sponsor the event again this looks at some of the arts and crafts holiday season, Nov. 23-25 and Nov. which were available at last year's 30-Dec. 2. show. The Plymouth Cultural Cen-

TV feeds the greed of young consumers

Every year, as surely as the snow comes in December, my kids are assailed by a dazzling array of timely commercials which transform them into greedy little monsters whose every sentence begin with "I want a . . ."

It's taken me years to explain to them that the lively background music and the gleeful children that they hear and see on the television screen do not come with the toy being advertised. Take away the cute little tune and the captivating camera angles that accompany it, and that plastic bowling ball with feet wouldn't be quite as delightful and amusing as it appears to be.

It's a complicated concept, I confess, but after years of drilling it into them (and thousands of dollars spent), I think my kids have come to the realization that there are no sound effects or backgrond music in real life. The toys are never quite as exciting on our kitchen floor as they are on T.V.

It takes more than a spirited little tune to turn their young heads these days, but they still know quality when they see it, and when they see it, they want it!

Jim, my 8-year-old, went into great detail the other day 'describing to me a toy that he wanted for Christmas. I'd never heard of this particular toy and Jim's description was rather long and complicated. This, of course, was not surprising to me because anything that Jim attempts to describe comes out rather long and complicated. But he's a good kid and I decided if he wanted it that badly, I'd be sure and get it for him.

When I found the item in my trusty catalog, it was listed for $69.99. Can you believe it! Anything that costs $69.99 should be banned from being advertised on daytime television. Only the rich can afford to spend that kind of money on one toy, and they're not watching television during the day. The kids are in boarding school and the parents are probably touring France.

It would be a great deal of help to us all

It would be a great deal of help to us all if those brightly colored and entertaining commercials would take a moment or two to, at least, give us a hint at the price of the item. They don't have to be real specific. They could say something like "Sells for under $10," or "This one's between $10 and $20."

All too often, though, these joyous occasions are marred by tragic accidents, such as choking.

Choking is the leading cause of accidental death in the home among children younger than 6.

Occurring most often between the Halloween and Christmas holidays, choking claims the lives of almost 2,000 children each year. It has been estimated 87 percent of these cases are a result of carelessness.

To help prevent these hearthreaking and needless accidents, the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan is offering its annual Aspiration Program to area nursery, preschool and daycare tachers. Individual brochures and worksheets are available to parents for home use Specially designed kits, consisting of posters, worksheets, cutouts and a teaching guide, will be sent to teachers to help them educate children on the importance of proper eating habits and safe play.

A brochure with guidelines for parents will be included in the kit to reinforce the lesson and offer tips on how to guard against choking at home.

"The concept behind the program," says Carol Cohen, program coordinator of Child Lung Health at the Lung Association, "is for the preschool child to receive the information from someone he/she has an established rapport with, in hopes that the lesson will have a more lasting impact."

Anyone wanting more information on the Aspiration Program and its "Keep Our Children From Choking" teaching kit, or any one of the Lung Association's more than 40 free community services, call 961-1697.

Food drive's goal: baskets full of love

A special food drive is being conducted by the Salvation Army in cooperation with Omnicom Cable.

The food drive was launched on Nov. 8 at Burroughs Corp. on Plymouth Road.

More than 1,100 employees donated about 2,000 cans of food to mark the official start of a program called "Baskets Filled With Love."

With Love."

The drive will culminate in a daylong telethon on Omnicom's Channel 8 in early December. The drive is being spearheaded by Omnicom executive producer Maria Holmes, associate producer Kathleen Mueller and Salvation Army Lt. Larry nesses participating to help feed hungry and needy persons in Canton, Plymouth, Northville and Belleville.

Other businesses already signed up to donate canned goods include Ford Motor Co., Spartan Foods, K mart Corp., Del's Department Store, Chathams, Hamlet Food Mart, Great Scott, Krogers, Miesel-Sysco Food Service, PYA Monarch Food Service and many more

The telethon organizers also plan to have area schools plus Girl Scouts and Brownies and Boy Scouts, plus service organiztions, participate the day of the

The actual telethon will start at noon on Saturday, Dec. 8, and will last "for however long we have folks coming in to donate their cans of food or calling on phones to pledge money for purchasing food," said Holmes. "The telethon promises lots of fun and entertainment with visits from ce-lebrities including Santa and David Lewis of the Detroit Lions."

Holmes said residents can start donating canned goods right away by dropping off cans at Omnicom's office at 8465 Ron-

"We hope that those businesses who have not yet signed up will call and join in this special drive. All food collected along with money donated to purchase food will be used right here in our own communities," said Holmes. Holmes and Mueller can be reached at 459-7335 or 459-7331.

Familiar words heard so often during the holiday season. Words that turn our attention back almost 2,000 years to that crisp starlit night in Bethlehem. Words of a time gone by.

As those shepherds sat on the hillside.

History remembers those shepherds as the first to celebrate Jesus' manger birth. Songs and plays to this date still recount those joyous words spoken to them by the

with their mother downriver. Butch's fa-ther worked for years at the local steel mill, earning a meager wage. Yet the tiny ncome was enough to keep the family happy — though it meant sometimes going to bed hungry and not having the best of clothes.

As fate would have it, one day Butch's father died at the mill. The supervisor told Butch's family it was a heart attack and that he went fast. Despite the great loss, Butch's older brothers pitched in to help the family make ends meet, though none ever complained about their lot in life. But what impressed me the most was the Christmas Butch was chosen to be a shep-herd in the church's Christmas play.

WHILE OTHERS begged to be Mary or Joseph, Butch quietly whispered he wanted to be a shepherd.

He didn't plead to be the star; he just wanted to be in the play. While the others bid for the lead roles, Butch anxiously waited for his Sunday School teacher to ask who wanted to be a shepherd.

When she finally asked, Butch's hand shot up like a rocket. His hand was accompanied with "ooo's" and "ahhh's," as he wiggled to get his hand higher than anyThe Sunday School teacher smiled and nodded. "OK Butch, you'll be a shepherd."

YOU WOULD have thought she gave him a pot of gold.

Butch was so excited he couldn't wait to get home and tell mom. He always wanted to be in the Christmas play.

At the time, nobody knew how important it was for Butch to be in the Christmas play. Butch was very ill, and I still believe ehow, someway, he thought that might

At last the big day came — Christmas Eve. Butch would be the shepherd that night, but something happened that morn-

The reply came back that he was still in bed. Quickly his mother ran into the bed-room. There was Butch, his body shaking with a fever, his teeth chattering.

It was quiet in the house that day as the doctor came. Butch's mother went in with the doctor while the family and a handful of friends sat around the fireplace. No one spoke.

Everyone's eyes focused on the flames in the fireplace. Around the room were the Christmas preparations, humble but full

There wasn't a dry eye in the house when she looked back up and spoke again.

"We all know how much Butch wanted to be a shepherd tonight," she said. "But he's gone now to be part of a much greater flock with the true shepherd. Let's not cry out of sadness but joy."

At first I didn't understand her words.

But now, several years later, I know what she meant. Butch was much better off.

Holiday hotline

'Tis the season to be jolly, but not everyone is.

In fact, holiday depression affects many people.

Even those of us who readily cope with day-to-day frustrations and upsets may have trouble dealing with the chance of spending a holiday alone, with not having enough money for all the gifts on the shopping list, with going to party after party and not suc-cumbing to alcohol.

To help people avoid the holiday blues, or to shake it if you're already feeling "down," Henry Ford Hospi-tal's Health Care Hotline for November and December offers five simple but effective suggestions. The Hotline, a recorded message, can be heard 24 hours a day beginning Nov. 1, by calling 876-7100. The Hotline message was compiled from information provided by the hospital's department of psychiatry and chemical dependency.

As the Hotline explains, alcohol (to which many holiday party-goers turn to lift their spirits) is really a depressant. The Hotline offers a suggestion: Try a "people's high," a boost just from spending time with good friends and sharing the excitement of the season.

The Health Care Hotline is a public service of Henry Ford Hospital, including its medical clinic on South Main Street in Plymouth.

SYMPHONY BALL

The Crescendo Group of the Plymouth Symphony League will present "A Victorian Christmas Ball" on Dec. 1 at the Plymouth Hilton Inn ballroom. y, of Canton's Christmas season officially gets under way at 7 p.m., Monday, Dec. 3, with the lighting of township's tannenbaum at the Administration Building, 1150 S. Canton Center Road. Outside, Canton seniors' Kitchen Band will lead holiday revelers singing and playing Christmas carols. About that time,

Mr. S. Claus of the North Pole is expected to pull up in his sleigh, supplied with "goody packets" for good girls and boys. Inside, folks will warm up with hot chocolate and other refreshments, and trim a second tree with ornaments they've made or donated.

How to send holiday cheer to the military

The First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth again is a collection point for Christmas mail to our military men and women postage free.

Christmas cards and letters may be deposited in the church's office lobby drop-

box. The mail deadline is Friday.

Local church and school children are being asked to contribute to the community's cards.
Last year's collection of more than 600 cards went to Marines in Beirut. This year's will be sent to ships in the Gulf of Oman off the coast of Iran.

Envelopes should be addressed "To a Sailor" and sign your name. If you wish, include your mailing address so that you may receive return correspondence.

Petty Officer 1st Class Conrad Thorpe of the Plymouth Naval Recruiting Station has compiled a mailing list of a few ships under sail in several areas of the world. The list is posted in the lobby of the First Presbyterian Church on Church Street just west of Main Street.

If you would like to send your cards to a specific ship, check the list and address your envelope accordingly. Thorpe also has a drop-box at the recruiting station on Penniman Avenue west of Main.

earning the ropes

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

Each Christmas you learn something — whether it's something you'd like to do for future Christmases or something you'd just as soon never experience again in your life.

Last year I learned I'd never like to ex-perience that spray-on snow stuff again. It wasn't bad going on the windows, but it was a bear to scrape off.

Anyway, I'm bracing myself until I find out what lesson is in store this Christmas. For myself and wife Debbie this will be the first holiday season in our own home.

I'm bracing because I expect the experience to be fairly enjoyable, much like I expected that spray-on snow stuff to be enjoyable last year.

Our home already has been one very big learning experience

I've learned about plumbing, painting, wiring and wall repair, while Debbie has learned about Liquid Drano, washing paint brushes, buying fuses and living with plaster cracks.

Shortly after we got married I expounded on my ideas about Christmas at a family get-together. No elaborate decorations, no trees, and especially, no frilly do-dads, I said.

The older, more experienced male relatives assured me, "You'll learn."

NEEDLESS TO say, that first Christmas in our apartment was a learning experience. Debbie is quite a teacher.

I learned there is no limit to the amount of decorations one can own. I learned Christmas trees really aren't that bad. And I learned that, well, everybody has frilly do-dads.

SERVING YOU SINCE 1928

How did this new outlook on Christmas come about? Debbie, in her infinite wisdom, knew how to handle me.

The decorations were there before I could say anything. Seems she ordered them quite awhile back. Same goes for the frilly do-dads — already bought or donated by a relative.

The tree is a different story. She waited for a slight snow fall and trotted me off to the store.
"Oh, look at the trees," she said.

We agreed to a compromise. She got a moderate-sized tree and I got that spray-on snow stuff and a set of stencils. You already know who got the better part of

Now we have the house. More places for decorations, room for a larger tree, and worst of all, more nooks and crannies for those frilly do-dads.

ACTUALLY, I think Christmas can be rather nice in our house, although I wouldn't admit it to Debbie — you have to keep your bargaining chips.

I'm toying with the idea of lights on the outside, a wreath on the door, and best of all, stockings hung by the fireplace. The apartment didn't have a fireplace, and a wreath would have been tacky looking on

I know Debbie has a few ideas of her own. I'm hoping a couple of them are lights on the outside and a wreath on the door — that way, it's her idea instead of mine when we seek a compromise.

What scares me, though, are the stockings by the fireplace. Debbie's not big on socks, let alone hanging them up.

Teddy bears for tots

Christmas came early for about 30 handicapped youngsters recently when they were presented with "Radar" Teddy Bears at the Masonic Temple in Plymouth by members of the Michigan Chapter of the Paralyzed Veterans of America (PVA).

Also participating in the party were clowns and other members of the Shriners of Southeastern Michigan.

The "Radar" Teddy Bear presentation was part of National PVA "Bear Hug"

Day observed last month by PVA chapters across the country. The Radar Bear has become the unofficial PVA mascot and is being promoted with the help of "MASH" actor Carr "Badar" Purchast actor Gary "Radar" Burghoff.

One of Burghoff's cousins is a veteran confined to a wheelchair because of spinal cord injury. "His personal courage and hope for a cure has helped carry him—and other veterans—through," said Burghoff. "So I decided to make a donation of hope for every (Reder' Todde). hope, for every 'Radar' Teddy Bear sold in 1984, to the Paralyzed Veterans of Ameri-ca — an organization that has worked for 38 years to give its thousands of members a real sense of self-worth."

In addition to the Burgoff donation, 20th Century Fox and the manufacturer of the Teddy bear (Allando of California) also will donate a portion of their profits to the veterans' organization.

Our goal is to bring smiles to the faces of special children from coast-to-coast," said R. Jack Powell, executive director of the PVA. "Many PVA chapters across the nation will join in donating 'Radar' Teddy Bears to their local children's hospitals and organizations

Bear Hug Day in October was an opportunity for us to brighten the day for these deserving youngsters, and also is a chance for us to call attention to the various children's hospitals across the country for the fine medical care and rehabilita-tion services they provide to children."

In Plymouth the PAV passed out Radar bears to handicapped children in conjunc-tion with a special Mini-Clinic conducted to screen for eligibility for admission of crippled or burned children to Shriners Hospitals. The clinic was conducted by Plymouth Rock No. 47, William Perrett 524, Tyrian No. 500 (all Masonic lodges), and Livonia Shrine Club.

The PAV members handed out Radar bears to some of the children who came to the Masonic Temple on Penniman Avenue for the mini-clinic

In Plymouth the volunteers to ring bells are members of local service clubs, each of which is assigned a weekend to collect funds for the corps.

This Saturday, for instance, the Plymouth-Canton Civitans and the Junior Civitans will be ringing the bells and manning the buckets for the Salvation Army.

On the weekend of Nov. 30 to Dec. 1, members of the Rotary Club of Plymouth will be seen throughout the Plymouth community while the Canton Kiwanis and Plymouth Kiwanis clubs will be out in full force Dec. 7-8. Canton Rotary will provide the volunteers for the weekend of Dec. 21-

All money donated to Bell Ringers goes directly to the Salvation Army and is used to meet the needs of families and individuals in Canton, Plymouth, and Northville.

THE SALVATION Army, located on Main Street just south of Ann Arbor Road, has come to be associated with assistance to needy families, the homeless, the al-coholic, and to others in despair at Christ-

The Salvation Army is a religious and charitable organization founded by William Booth, a Methodist minister, in 1865.

The familiar blue uniforms identified with the Salvation Army are symbolic of its quasi-military pattern.

Followers of the Salvationist faith are soldiers and the ordained ministers who devote their lives to the organization's humanitarian pursuits hold officers' rank.

Salvationists believe that they can best serve God by providing practical assistance to the needy. Among the many programs that have grown out of that belief are shelters for the homeless, adult rehabilitation centers, day care centers, hospitals, housing for the elderly, feeding programs, emergency disaster serivces, and summer camps.

Despite these on-going services, Christmas remains the most demanding time of year for the Salvation Army. Last year more than four million people received seasonal assistance from the Army nation-

Lt. Col. Harold E. Shoults, divisional commanding officer for the Salvation Army of the eastern half of Michigan, comments: "There still is a great need in our communities. We hope to provide food and baskets and vouchers to thousands of families, toys for children and hundreds of visitations to shut-ins and hospital patients through out League of Mercy volunteers. That will be suite a challenging as teers. That will be quite a challenging assignment but, with the Lord's blessing, we hope to reach all who need our help."
