3rd ice festival's more than another chip off ole block

More than 200 tons of ice will be delivered to Plymouth for the third annual Ice Sculpture Spectacular Friday-Sunday, Jan. 11-13.

The spectacular recently was named to the list of "Top 100 Events in North America" by the American Bus Association (ABA). The event is listed with other national attractions such as the Sugar Bowl, Rose Bowl and Indianapolis 500.

This year's ice-carving festival, considered the largest ice-carving event in North America, is the first "Top 100 Event" in 1985. It has attracted international chefs who will display their ice-carving talents during Saturday's competition.

THE ICE SHOW is expected to draw more than 100,000 people to the Plymouth community that weekend.

Student and professional chefs will compete for three $1,250 college scholarships, donated by Miesel/Sysco Food Service Co. Miesel/Sysco is the prime sponsor of this year's show.

Professional chefs will compete for trips to London, England, on British Airways and to Florida on Eastern Airlines. Last year's professional winner was Chef Steve Galluzi from Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas. He carved a swinging sculpture featuring several birds.

The Plymouth Ice Sculpture will feature more than 250 ice sculptures lining the streets of downtown Plymouth. About 1,000 blocks of ice, weighing 400-440 pounds each, will be used to create the ice designs.

It takes about 90 gallons of water to produce one 400-pound ice block, according to Jim Ryder, manager of Midwest Ice Co. of Detroit which supplies the ice for the event.

That means about 90,000 gallons of water will be frozen in preparation for the event.

THE ICE-CARVING show in Kellogg Park has grown in the past three years.

"When we first started this event it drew a lot of people from the local area," said Scott Lorenz, general manager of the Mayflower Hotel and co-chairman of the event.

"But now we will attract people from across the nation because of the ABA award."

Henry Graper, Plymouth City Manager, considers the ice spectacular a major highlight of his continued effort to promote Plymouth. "Plymouth is so unique in itself and its location," said Graper, who also is co-chairman.

"Plymouth is a statewide attraction, but when you add the ice event the community becomes a national attraction."

ACTIVITIES WILL begin Wednesday, Jan. 9, when more than 200 individual ice sculptures, each hand carved by experienced chefs, will be displayed along Kellogg Park.

On Friday, Jan. 11, an "Ice Affair" will begin at 6 p.m. The dinner/buffet will be held in the Mayflower Meeting House at a cost of $10.95 per person.

From 6 p.m. to midnight Friday, Jan. 11, visitors can take an after-dinner stroll through Kellogg Park and check the progress of the ice sculptors as they work into the night on their creations. All the sculptures will be lit by colored lights.

From 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 12, students and professional chefs will compete for scholarships and prizes at the ice-carving event. Competition will be at The Gathering, on the Penniman Avenue side of Kellogg Park. From 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. will be a Make-a-Sandwich buffet at the Meeting House. Soup and dessert will be included in the $5.95 price.

And then from 8 p.m. to midnight Saturday will be the "Ice Caper," an evening of fun and dancing at The Meeting House at $5 per person. Ice-carving winners will be announced at this time.

From 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 13, will be the Ice Brunch at the Meeting House with an assortment of breakfast and lunch items at $8.50 per person.

From 11 a.m. to dusk the sculptures will be on display in Kellogg Park. Student and professional sculptors will be on hand to answer questions.

Then from 8:30 a.m. to dusk on Monday, Jan. 14, persons are invited to take a self-guided tour through the downtown streets of Plymouth to see the finished sculptures without having to battle crowds. The carvings will be displayed one week after the spectacular, weather permitting.

Amy Sidorsky of Salem Culinary Arts worked last year on "George and Martha Wilcox," her ice carving of the sea monsters of Wilcox Lake.

After last year's ice festival the streets of downtown Plymouth were lined with the finished products. This year's festival has been added to the list of the top 100 events in North America.

County offices closed

Many Wayne County offices will be closed through the holidays until Jan. 2, according to County Executive William Lucas.

The health department will be closed through the holidays.

County Treasurer Raymond Wojtowicz's office in the City-Council Building will be open during usual business hours today and Friday.

Court-related functions of the county clerk's office will remain open today and Friday. Marriage licenses and burial certificates will be issued on an emergency basis only.

Safes cracked at dealerships

Burglars broke into safes at two Ann Arbor Road car dealerships last week and stole an undetermined amount of cash and checks.

The dealerships, Fox Hills Chrysler and Dick Scott Buick, are across the street from each other at Ann Arbor Road and Lilley.

Fox Hills, 111 W. Ann Arbor Road, was broken into between 9 p.m. Thursday and 6:30 a.m. Friday, according to Plymouth Police reports.

Apparently the perpetrators entered through a southside service door; however police found no evidence of a forced entry. Once inside they used the dealership's torch and tools to cut open a safe.

Several desks also were broken into. The exact amount of cash and other items taken was undetermined at the time of the police report.

Dick Scott Buick, 200 Ann Arbor Road, was broken into between 8:05 p.m. Thursday and 6:50 a.m. Friday, according to police reports.

The perpetrators apparently entered through a door, which they forced open, the report states. Once inside, they forced their way into the dealership's office area.

The steel door to the dealership's wall safe was pried open and the suspects stole a cash box and a case of whiskey. The whiskey was valued at $120, while the cash box contained an undetermined amount of cash and checks.

Police estimated the damage to the doors and safe at $330.

BOTH BURGLARIES were reported to police early Friday morning when employees reported to work and discovered the damage.

As of Monday, police hadn't made any arrests in connection with the burglaries but were continuing their investigations.

The break-ins came in the wake of increased crime at area dealerships — mostly linked to the controversy surrounding Saturday openings.

Another local dealership, Blackwell Ford on Plymouth Road, earlier reported vandalism to its vehicles after it ran advertisements announcing Saturday hours.

Last week the Federal Trade Commission announced it was taking action against metropolitan dealership association members for alleged conspiracy to prohibit Saturday hours.

However, Dick Scott and Fox Hills currently don't have Saturday hours.

Partiers told shape up or ship out

A handful of Vic Tanny members left the Plymouth Township club on Ann Arbor Road Friday morning grumbling about its management being a "Scrooge."

Manager Danny Eckout, the focus of the grumbling, said he put the kibosh on the group's Christmas party because they didn't follow procedures, and "rules are rules."

But, regardless of who was right and who was wrong, there was a happy ending. The residents at Tonquish Manor were the recipients of the holiday goodies.

"I'm part of a 6:30 a.m. aerobics class that meets everyday," said Sharon Thomas, Plymouth's senior citizen housing director.

"For the last couple of years we've had a little 15-minute party at the end of our last workout before Christmas. This year they said we couldn't bring the food or drink in," Thomas said.

"They ended up calling the cops on us, can you believe that?" she said.

Eckout believes it because he had to make the call.

"We don't allow food in the club, period," Eckout said. "They didn't ask for permission and the facts are the facts."

"If they had asked us for permission we would have been glad to set it up in the lobby for them. Hey, we're not Scrooges over here," he said.

THOMAS SAID the group brought the food in at the end of the session.

"We had a fresh-fruit tray, some cheese and crackers, Christmas cookies, orange juice and a couple bottles of champagne," she said.

"They said we couldn't do it, and we said 'just turn your backs for a few minutes, we do it every year.'"

"Some guy really got violent. We told him to call his manager. He said he wanted our names and that we would have to find a new place to work out," she said.

"They told us we could have it, but it would have to be in the parking lot."

"We just went ahead with it, and they called the cops on us."

Eckout said he couldn't allow one group to break the rules without then letting other groups

Parked along the side of Theodore Street at the Main Street crossing in Plymouth, the C&O Railroad's "Santa Special" was a big hit last weekend. Climbing aboard the engine (below) to see a train from the inside are Dorothy Brock, leading the way; Pete Pellerito (holding 2-year-old Sam); and Lisa Pellerito, following.

Santa rode the rail into Plymouth

THE C&O Railroad brought its "Santa Special" into Plymouth last weekend.

The Special, consisting of an engine, caboose and safety exhibit car, parked on the tracks along the side of Theodore at the Main Street crossing. It was the railroad company's first time to put together such an event, and it appeared to be a big hit.

Families from Plymouth, Canton, and as far away as Milford came into town to visit Santa and the C&O workers.

Visitors were shown the inside of the engine cab, the caboose, and learned about train safety in the safety car. Some of the younger visitors even got to blow the horn on the big diesel engine.

And, of course, the little ones were able to give Santa their last minute orders for Christmas gifts.

Undoubtedly, with such a good response the railroad will bring Santa in on the rail again next year.

Sitting in the caboose, visitors to the C&O Santa Special enjoyed hot chocolate and cookies. The caboose was used as a safety exhibit car so the kids, as well as moms and dads, could learn a bit about train safety.

Health center becomes city's gift

By W.W. Edger
staff writer

Wrapped in more than 600 yards of red ribbon with a bow that is six feet in diameter, the Huron-Arbor Health Center at Ann Arbor Trail and Harvey is the largest gift ever decorated in the city.

With all the decoration that required experts in holiday trimming, the building will be officially dedicated on Jan. 13 followed by an open house the next day.

The decoration which contains a sign, "Good Health - A Precious Gift," will be kept in place until the dedication and then it will be turned over as another important part of the downtown business section.

ASIDE FROM being a health center the building features office space for private practice physicians from St. Joseph and Mercywood hospitals in medicine, surgery, orthopedic, dermatology, psychiatry and other primary care specialty and subspecialty areas.

Aside from these features, the building also houses minor emergency services, occupational therapy, health promotion activities and the Plymouth-Canton Mental Health Services.

The building is affiliated with Catherine McAuley Health Center in Ann Arbor. And all physicians have Catherine McAuley Health Center medical staff privileges.

The dedication will have a two-part program. The official ceremony, weather permitting, will be held when the ribbon is cut at the building.

THIS WILL be preceded by a special dinner party at the Mayflower Meeting House on the previous evening.

The health center is the second such facility to locate in the downtown business section within the past year. Ford Hospital opened a clinic on Main Street next to the old Plymouth Mail Building.

With these two and all the specialties offered Plymouth now becomes an important medical center in the western Wayne County area.

It will be handy for local doctors who work with St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor.

The public is invited to attend the ribbon cutting and the official opening which will include an open house so visitors can get a close-up view of the latest facilities in the medical profession.

Plans are being made for an open house Thursday, Jan. 14 at the Huron-Arbor medical center at Harvey and Ann Arbor Trail in downtown Plymouth. To "announce" the near-completion of the facility, the center recently wrapped a large red ribbon with bow around the building as a holiday gift to the community.

Best seller list's amongst best read

By W.W. Edger
staff writer

For years the people in the Plymouth community have been considered the best read in this area.

And now with the community enlarging its library that honor still holds.

This past week officials at Dunning-Hough Library revealed that there is a great demand for the best sellers, and the demand keeps growing.

"When the best-seller list is printed in the New York Times," said one librarian, "we have a run the next morning and we have as many as 50 calls in the morning. There isn't anything like it in other sections."

It is the same at The Little Professor on the Park, the new book store on Main Street opposite Kellogg Park.

"We are surprised at the demand we have for books," the management said, "and it is surprising that the best sellers demand is the best we have since opening the business."

"Sure, we have a nice demand for all books, with the possible exception of Westerns, but the best sellers top the list."

AT THIS TIME of year, when books are given as gifts, the demand becomes all the greater.

The two in greatest demand are Danielle Steele's "Full Circle" and Andrew Greeley's "Ascent Into Hell" and "Lord of the Dance."

Close behind the best sellers, at both the library and book store, are the men's demands for business books and how to make money.

"Many patrons are looking for ways and means to go into some sort of business," a librarian said, "and they come to the library to get the books that will help them reach a decision. The demand is greater now than ever."

At the Little Professor there is a great demand for books on the State of Michigan.

Next in line come literary classics, mythology, movies and books on trivia. Heading the list is the Lee Iacocca biography.

At the library the men's interest has turned to reading the reports from the major stock exchanges.

Children are following their parents in interest and close to 3,000 children pay a visit each week. Meanwhile the average call for books at the main library is 3,000 per week. And more persons are making use of the reading rooms in the renovated building.

The shift in the country's economy is playing a major part in the demands made on the libraries. There is a run on the volumes which deal with the making of money, and there is no let up.

The run on the main library is growing now that the renovation of the indoors is completed. The entrance is now in the rear of the building instead of the front, and the interest keeps growing as further proof that the residents of the Plymouth community are the best read in this region.

Nurse writes on rescue care

To the editor:

I have been reading with great interest the controversy of the paramedics vs. fire department ambulances.

I work as a registered nurse in the Emergency Department of a large teaching hospital in Ann Arbor and I live in Canton Township. Although the greatest majority of the patients we treat in the ED are transported via private ambulance companies like Community EMS, we do receive some patients via fire department ambulances. The difference in care is remarkable!

It has been my experience, I'm sad to say, that patients have arrived in the ED in cardiac arrest and CPR had not been started by the fire department EMT's. This was not a one-time only experience either. The prognosis for these patients, needless to say, is poor.

Paramedics can, on the other hand, begin lifesaving treatment immediately at the scene. This is under direct radio contact with an Emergency Department physician.

A critically ill or injured person cannot afford to wait! Just as I would not want a hair-stylist to respond to a house fire, neither would I want a fireman to respond to a medical emergency.

I am appalled that these professionals who are trying to save lives are treated so poorly! Let's support the firemen in their jobs and the paramedics in theirs and be grateful that they are both around. Someone you love may need pre-hospital Advanced Life Support someday, and then you'll find out how valuable these people really are!!

Students learn about child care at Kiddie Kampus

By Minal Hajratwala
special writer

Santa and his reindeer dance on the wall, a flower frames the clock and a big paper clown guards the bathrooms. Where are you? At Kiddie Kampus, of course.

Kiddie Kampus, the preschool center at Plymouth Canton High School, is a "laboratory school," according to Sue Visser, child care teacher.

The preschool is a part of the vocational education program that child-care students work in. It was started 10 years ago when the vocational education program was begun.

Visser has worked in the center since it opened, although she was the nursery school teacher, not the child-care teacher then. Mary Beth Koss was the first child-care teacher.

THE PRESCHOOLERS, ages 3-5, are at the preschool two days a week, two hours a day for 17 weeks (which is one semester).

The cost is $138, which comes to about $2 an hour. It is mainly to pay for "things that get used up, like paper, snacks, crayons, etc.," said Visser. "They don't have to pay for teachers' salaries, utility bills, and things like that, which is why it's so low."

Visser says that she has only junior and senior girls in her two child-care classes. Each class has 20 students. The prerequisite is the one-year "Living with Children" course.

Child care is a yearlong, two-credit class. The students work directly with the preschoolers every other week. Students who are not "on the floor" for a particular week are in the "Observation Room."

From the Observation Room students can watch the preschoolers through one-way glass. They look for behavioral patterns and development according to Joan West, child-care student. Usually 10 students are observing and 10 are "on the floor."

When the children first get to the preschool they form small groups where they do "small-group activities," said West. Then they have discovery time which is about 1 1/2 hours when they can do whatever they want.

Next is circle time when youngsters sit in a big circle and sing songs. The last 15 minutes are story time.

eight sections that the children can go to during discovery time.

Library, snack table, learning games (Leggo, Scrabble), floor games (building blocks, etc.), playhouse and science each are taken care of by one student.

"In science," said Visser, "we just work with their five senses. For example, we just did one with blowing into glasses with water in them to hear the different sounds."

The other two sections are messy art (finger painting, easel painting) and special table which is "unmessy art, anything not involving paint," according to Visser. These are run by two students each.

There are four groups of 20 preschoolers. Mary Luick, mother of 4-year-old Katie and teacher at Pioneer Middle School, said she is "very impressed with the program" because "the student to teacher ratio is so much lower than other preschools. . . . Katie loves it! She has a wonderful relationship with the teachers and so do I.

"Lois Santer (nursery school teacher) and Mrs. Visser are to be commended. They're doing a great job."

Katie says her favorite thing to do at nursery school is "just play."

Four-year-old Joe Brodie says he likes to "make Christmas trees," one of the activities at special table.

Kay Stafford, whose 4 1/2-year-old daughter Julie attends Kiddie Kampus, says, "It's amazing what they do. . . . getting all those squiggly-wiggly kids to sit still. . . . Julie gets so much out of it, I just wish she could stay next year too instead of going to kindergarten."

THE CHILD CARE students are not just baby sitters.

"We plan different activities with the high school students. . . . For example, next week the Jolly Old Gent is coming to visit," said Visser. "We try to select a cross-section of children to expose them to all different kinds of children."

The preschool's main purpose for the children is not to make them intelligent, but rather to teach them how to behave with and react to other people, said Visser.

"Our philosophy is that a child's business is to play. Our goal is to make the child feel good about himself, have a positive feeling toward school, be independent, learn to share and learn to take directions from adults."

"The main thing is to feel good about himself. If you feel good about yourself, you'll be successful."

Jean Kolod, mother of 5-year-old Meredith, says Kiddie Kampus is "definitely the best preschool in the area. I'm more than satisfied. I'm just delighted I could get her in again. It's such an excellent program I wanted her in it again this year. She enjoys it very much."

Visser says, "I get a lot of satisfaction from this job. I love to see them change and grow, usually for the better. I think I have the best of both worlds — the high school kids and the preschoolers."

Songs for seniors

Chorus members from West Middle School caroled at Tonquish Creek Manor Friday. Alice Snyder (in the wheelchair) listens as the students sing "Joy to the World." Tonquish Creek Manor is the city of Plymouth's senior citizen housing complex on Sheridan Street.

Club members don't party

"We asked them not to do it, and they went ahead and did it. I wish they wouldn't have out of respect for us and respect for the club," he said. "It wasn't up to me, it came from a little higher up."

Because the group had champagne, Eckout wasn't certain if open alcohol in the club could have caused legal problems.

Thomas said Vic Tanny's sponsored its own champagne open house in the past, and that her group has had champagne at previous Christmas parties.

"We've done it every year. In years past the staff has come up and toasted with us," she said.

Township Police Chief Carl Berry said alcohol in the club is legally permissible if it's a private party, but the decision is up to the club management.

PLYMOUTH POLICE didn't confront the group because a staff member told them the group had left — even though they still were upstairs.

Consequently, the officers didn't file a report on the incident.

"As far as I'm concerned, the matter is over," Eckout said. "We have the names of those who were involved, and we're still debating on it. It's my hope that everyone just forgets it."

Does the group plan to go back after the holidays?

"Oh, we're going back," Thomas said. "Everybody pays their membership dues and the 6:30 class has been going since the club started."

U-M offers classes

Many off-campus credit courses will be offered in Dearborn, Detroit and Royal Oak this winter by the University of Michigan. Classes begin the week of Jan. 7.

Thirty-five courses are slated for the U-M-Dearborn campus. These include offerings from the School of Social Work, as well as courses in business administration, computer and information science, industrial and systems engineering, education, mathematics, microcomputers for teachers, psychology, sociology, library science; a bilingual administration program and child development associate programs. In Detroit, a social work course in primary associations, families, groups and social roles will be taught at the Rackham Educational Memorial Building.

In Royal Oak, an education course in applied group dynamics will be taught at the Springwood Center.

A complete listing of the courses and a registration form are available from the U-M Extension Service, 200 Hill, Ann Arbor, 48109-3297, or by calling 764-5310 weekdays during business hours.

Pardon us, while we indulge in a public display of affection.

We can't help ourselves.

It's all because our "Carriers of the Year" deliver. That may sound like a corny pun, but not only do these 12 young people deliver your hometown news twice each week, rain, snow or shine, they deliver some good, hard work behind the scenes.

Carriers of the Year win their laurels by settling their accounts promptly, organizing their route books neatly and keeping them up to date.

We consider their length of service and the amount of their collections. They also have to have earned the title of "Carrier of the Month."

Sound easy? You bet it's not. These young people represent diligence, character and the kind of commitment to work that will make the difference in whatever they choose to do with their lives.

To say "Thanks" we've given each of them an engraved trophy, congratulated them with a dinner and printed their pictures in the newspaper they deliver so well. And we've enjoyed every minute of it.

Because Christmas and New Year's fall on Tuesday this year, you'll find us at your home on the Saturday before each holiday (instead of Monday).

This means our carriers will spend Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve with their families.

This means your local business people can let you know about last minute

Christmas gifts and specials in time for you to take advantage of them (the gifts, not the merchants).

This means you can do the same with our Classified section--place an advertisement or respond to one before the holiday.

And, finally, this means a few temporary changes in our deadlines:

Drinkers can get friendly ride home

Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve party-goers can get a ride home from a friendly sheriff's road patrol officer, Sheriff Robert A. Ficano said.

His "Give A Friend A Ride" program will serve Garden City, Livonia, Plymouth, Redford Township and Westland.

"Any citizen who feels he should not be behind the wheel due to insobriety should call the Wayne County sheriff's patrol at 721-2222," Ficano said.

"Depending on the citizen's location, every effort will be made on behalf of the Sheriff's Department and local police departments to Give A Friend A Ride," he said.

Garden City Police Chief Charles Wilmoth said local departments will cooperate in the effort.

DRUNK DRIVERS who are arrested, however, may not wind up in jail but in the Volunteers of America headquarters, County Executive William Lucas said.

Lucas said he contracted with VOA to lock up drunk drivers in the VOA headquarters at 6060 Rivard, Detroit. Offenders must pay $31 of the $48-per-day rate the county will be charged.

"We have been searching for ways to take drunk drivers off the streets without using up county jail space," Lucas said. "Additionally, those guilty of operating under the influence will receive alcohol abuse rehabilitation."

A SHERIFF'S Chaplain Corps will soon be assisting sheriff's deputies under a program approved by the Wayne County Commission.

The Chaplain Corps would be established as a non-profit corporation and recruit clergy from many faiths to volunteer for minimum 2-hour blocks of time, according to Commissioner Mary E. Dumas of Livonia.

Chaplains would dress in uniform blazer and trousers or skirt and have identifying patches and name tags.

Dumas said the chaplains would assist in the notification of families of persons who have been injured or killed, counsel officers and families during personal or family crises, assist with threatened suicides, help in dealing with barricaded gunmen and assist in domestic disputes.

● DONALD NELSON

Donald Nelson, son of Vi and Donald Nelson of Warren Road, Canton, is among 22 charter members of Sigma Chi international fraternity at Alma College. Nelson, a 1982 graduate of Plymouth Canton High, is majoring in computer science at Alma.

● DEPAUW ENROLLEES

David J. McGrath of Hanford, Canton, and a graduate of Plymouth Canton High, and Kenneth R. Jennison of Glenview Dr., Plymouth, a graduate of Interlochen Academy, are enrolled this semester at DePauw University in Greencastle, Ind.

● TAMARA BUDLONG

Tamara Budlong, daughter of Judith and Robert Budlong of Old Salem, Plymouth, has been named to the health advisory committee and to the student support group at Alma College. She is a 1984 graduate of Plymouth Canton High.

The student support group helps prospective students make decisions about attending Alma. The students act as hosts/hostesses for Alma's admissions office, giving tours to prospective students, making phone calls, participating in student panels, and writing letters.

The student health advisory committee advises the director of health services and provides health-related information to the Alma campus. The committee also helps operate a blood pressure clinic, annual health fair, sponsors a road run during homecoming, and assists in blood drives on the campus.

● LESLIE BUBLIN

Leslie Bublin, daughter of Darlene and Charles Bublin of Plymouth, recently was selected for the 1985 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

A graduate of Plymouth Canton high in 1979, she is a senior in metallurgical engineering at Michigan Technological University. Besides being a full-time student, she also is a member of the Michigan Tech Student Foundation, the American Society of Metals, the National Society of Professional Engineers, the photography club, and the gymnastics club.

She also is a cheerleader and supervisor of the MTU community gymnastics program. She was second runner-up in the 1983 Winter Carnival Queen competition.

● KALLIE BILA

Kallie Bila, daughter of Sally and Dennis Bila of Plymouth, has been named news editor of Central Michigan Life, the student newspaper at Central Michigan University. Bila is a senior and journalism major at Central. As news editor she oversees the staff's editors.

● DARLA BACKSTROM

Darla Backstrom of Worthington, Canton, is a member of the 1984-85 Gold Company, the jazz show vocal entertainment ensemble at Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo.

Backstrom, a soprano, is a senior majoring in communication arts and sciences. The 16-member student ensemble and small back-up combo is one of seven vocal ensembles at Western. Gold Company performs in every style from vocal jazz and Broadway tunes to hits of today.

● LISA PREDDY

Lisa L. Preddy, daughter of Maryelyn and Robert Preddy of Copeland, Canton, was one of 11 students admitted to the Honors College during the fall term at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

A 1983 graduate of Plymouth Salem High, she is a sophomore at MSU majoring in communications. Admission to the Honors College is open to students who have demonstrated outstanding scholastic ability. Students in the Honors College may enroll in graduate courses, independent study projects, or special honors courses.

● KALAMAZOO HONOREES

The following Plymouth residents were among those named to the dean's list for the fall quarter at Kalamazoo College: Thomas P. Petroff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Petroff of Wilding; and John W. Retting, son of Dr. and Mrs. Roy C. Retting of Southworth.

● AT CAMBRIDGE

Steven Sambrone, son of Marvel and Vito Sambrone of Plymouth and a political science major at Central Michigan University, is attending Cambridge University in England for the fall semester.

● GREG CARMER

Greg Carmer, son of Kathy and Dwayne Carmer of Plymouth, recently was elected to the 1984 Homecoming Court at Spring Arbor College, Spring Arbor, Mich. He is a junior majoring in social science.

● REBECCA HAYES

Rebecca L. Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hayes of Plymouth, has been named to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. She is a senior majoring in international business at Mars Hill College in North Carolina.

She is a member of the Business Honor Club, Christian Student Movement Executive Council, New Beginning Singers, and Delta Gamma Sorority.

● WARNER FRAZER

Warner A. Frazer of Plymouth received a BS in mechanical engineering degree at fall commencement exercises held recently at Michigan Technological University.

● JENNISON INITIATED

Kenneth R. Jennison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jennison of Glenview Dr., Plymouth, has been initiated into the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi, at DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind.

A graduate of Interlochen Academy, he is one of eight DePauw students initiated. The DePauw chapter of the society is the first Sigma Delta Chi chapter established in the nation. It was founded in 1909 and is the home of the Indiana Journalism Hall of Fame.

● JULIE MACISAAC

Julie MacIsaac, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacIsaac of Arthur, Plymouth, recently participated in the annual Festival of Lessons and Carols at Albion College. It was a joint celebration of the college and community sesquicentennials. A 1983 graduate of Plymouth Salem High, she sings soprano in the Albion choir and is a sophomore English and economics and management major.

● SUSAN MYRTLE

Susan M. Myrtle of Greenbriar, Plymouth, has graduated with a bachelor of fine arts degree from Western Michigan University at the end of the summer session.

Michael Galliers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Galliers of Plymouth, Salem High graduate and freshman at Hillsdale, pledged Delta Sigma Phi;

Kevin Kral, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kral of Plymouth, Detroit Catholic Central High graduate and sophomore at Hillsdale, pledged Delta Sigma Phi; and, Keith Urban, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McSurely of Canton, a graduate of Salem High and Hillsdale sophomore, pledged Delta Sigma Phi.

Plans are being made for an open house Thursday, Jan. 14 at the Huron-Arbor medical center at Harvey and Ann Arbor Trail in downtown Plymouth. To "announce" the near-completion of the facility, the center recently wrapped a large red ribbon with bow around the building as a holiday gift to the community.

HOLIDAY DISPLAYS

A Victorian Christmas is the theme at the Plymouth Historical Museum, 155 S. Main, Plymouth, through Jan. 6. Surrounding the museum's wonderful old village, circa 1920s, are trees decorated by Plymouth florists; also on display are antique dolls and trains. Exquisite old dolls from 1873, the 1890s and an unusual doll from the 1880s with a waxed head and eyes without pupils are among those exhibited. Along with trains of Standard Gauge, HO and .027 gauge, a collection of depots is on display. The Plymouth Historical Museum is open 1-4 p.m. Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. An admission is charged.

VETERAN BENEFITS

Plymouth Passage-Gayde American Legion Post 391 reminds any veteran or widow receiving a non-service connected pension to return the annual Income Questionnaire Card to the Veterans Administration by Jan. 1. Failure to do so could result in a delay in monthly benefit checks. The card was mailed to pensioners by the VA around Nov. 1. Anyone wanting assistance may contact Post Service Officer Don Hartley at 459-2914. There is no charge for the assistance.

SENIOR NUTRITION PROGRAMS

Out-Wayne County Human Services Inc. provides to senior citizens age 60 or older, or to the spouse of a persons 60 or older, a hot noon meal five days a week for a suggested donation of $1. Menus include such items as roast beef, chop suey, chicken, vegetables, fruit, and desserts.

Home delivered meals also are provided for seniors who are homebound. Volunteers deliver the meals directly to the client. Reservations for meals must be made 24 hours in advance. For further information, or if you are interested in volunteering to deliver home meals, call 422-2602. The Senior Nutrition Program sites in this area are:

Canton Township Recreation Center, 44237 Michigan Avenue, Canton 48188; Tonquish Creek Manor, 1160 Sheridan, Plymouth 48170.

MINOR HOME REPAIRS

The Conference of Western Wayne Minor Home Repair Program has been funded through Senior Alliance Inc., for fiscal year 1985. The program assists persons 60 and older and owning their home with minor home repair tasks. For information, call 525-8690.

HELPING ADULTS READ

Plymouth-Canton Community Education can help adults read. For more information about Adult Basic Education (ABE), call 451-6555 or 451-6660. Open enrollment. Students can begin classes at any time.

NEW HORIZONS

New Horizons, a sharing exchange for mothers, will meet the second and fourth Fridays of each month 9:30-11:30 a.m. at Faith Moravian Community Church, 46001 Warren west of Canton Center Road. For information, call Mary at 455-8221.

CRISIS COUNSELING

If you want help in solving a problem, are looking for a referral, or need information about drugs or alcohol, counselors at Turning Point Counseling and Crisis Intervention Center can help you. Counselors are available 8:30-10:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Other hours are available by appointment. Phone 455-4900.

Turning Point is a non-profit community service of Growth Works Inc. which offers crisis intervention and counseling.

STUDENT OF MONTH

The Plymouth Elks will be honoring a student of the month for January, February, March and April (and in May a student of the year). Students may apply or may be nominated by another student, teacher or member of the community. Students will be selected on the basis of any of the following: achievement, character, leadership, service, citizenship or scholarship.

Applications for the January Student of the Month may be picked up at the counseling offices at Plymouth Canton High and Plymouth Salem High or at the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education office at 454 S. Harvey.

BEGINNING STRING CLASS

The beginning string class for students grades 4-6 will meet 6:30 p.m. each Tuesday in the music room of Plymouth Salem High. Janita Hauk, string specialist at Madonna College and Ladywood High School, will be teaching the beginner lessons for violin, viola, cello and string bass. Tuition for the group lessons will be $50 for the 1984-85 school year. Some instruments will be available at a moderate rental fee.

GREEK LANGUAGE LESSONS

Adult Greek language lessons are 7-9 p.m. Thursdays at Nativity of the Virgin Mary Greek Orthodox Church, 39851 Five Mile, Plymouth. For more information, contact Debbie Anderson at 420-0131.

STATUE OF LIBERTY DRIVE

Miller Elementary School is conducting a Kellogg's box-top drive through the end of the school year to raise money for the Statue of Liberty restoration. Kellogg will contribute money to the Statue of Liberty fund for every box top collected. The drive is open to all contributors. A special box is at the school for the box tops. The school will receive a plaque if they collect 5,000 or more box tops.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS

Special Olympics, an international program of physical fitness, sport training and athletic competition for mentally impaired children and adults, is being formed in the Plymouth-Canton area. Anyone interested in participating should contact a representative of the Special Education Parent Advisory Committee (SEPAC) at 455-7684 or 420-0509.

GARBAGE BAGS

Heavy-duty garbage bags are available at $11 for a box of 100 from the City of Plymouth at either the Fire Department or the DPW office.

HEARTSAVER COURSE

A CPR heartsaver course will be offered beginning 7 p.m. the second Monday of each month at Oakwood Hospital's Canton Center, 7300 Canton Center Road at Warren. To register, phone 4yerian Thrift Shop on East Liberty in Old Village, Plymouth, is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursdays. Donations of used clothes and small household appliances are welcomed 9-11 a.m. Tuesdays or 10-4 Thursdays. All proceeds go to missions.

CITRUS FRUIT SALE

Fresh citrus fruit from Florida will be arriving this month for customers of the annual education fund project of the Plymouth SDA Church School. The fruit, trucked in from Indian River, Fla., is navel or temple oranges or grapefruit. Also sold will be boxes of apples and varieties of nuts and seeds. The fruit will be sold only one day of each month — usually on a Monday. Orders should be made during the first week of each month by calling 981-3423 or 455-4508. These phone numbers can give you information or add your name to the mailing list. The fruit is delivered to Lilley and Ford Road through March 1985.

SPECIAL EDUCATION SERVICES

Preprimary special education services for children 6 and younger are available through Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. If you have a child who may be mentally or emotionally impaired, have a physical or visual disability, or a hearing or speech impairment or learning disability, call the Infant and Preschool Special Education Program at Farrand Elementary School, 451-6610, for information.

PLYMOUTH CHILDREN'S NURSERY

Plymouth Children's Nursery has a few openings for 4-year-olds in its Tuesday-Thursday afternoon class. The nursery school is a cooperative preschool for 3- and 4-year-olds located on the corner of Warren and Haggerty roads in Canton. For information, call Pam at 459-7160 or Amy at 459-3235.

RAINBOW CHILD CARE

The Friendly Rainbow Child Care & Learning Center has openings for children ages 2 1/2 to 12. The center, at 42290 Five Mile at Bradner in Plymouth, provides child care, preschool experiences, drop-in and after school programs. Experiences are varied according to age and ability. For information, call Janet Masori at 420-0495.

Our colleges Everyone sees state role differently

EVERY NEWS story about the report of Gov. Blanchard's Commission on the Future of Higher Education is different. That is because its recommendations are many and far-reaching.

Everyone who reads it has a different view on what is important — soaring tuitions to some, academic standards to another, local flexibility to someone else. Pity the poor reader wading through it all!

On today's editorial page, we present the views of three chief administrators of nearby colleges attended by local people. Each agrees with much of the commission report. Each strongly dissents on some points.

LET US TRY to summarize the commission's thinking:

Michigan has long had an excellent system of research universities, general colleges and community colleges. Over the years, however, state aid has shriveled, largely due to demands for social services. Student tuitions have skyrocketed.

Enrollments are shrinking and will shrink even more. Scarce state resources must be focused more sharply, not scattered about. Someone must do that focusing — and since there is no "super board" over higher education, the governor and legislature must do it.

Meanwhile, everyone wants excellence — in research, in teaching, in learning the basics. Once the "basics" were known as the Three R's — reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic. Today they are the "core" curriculum and include 1) communication skills, 2) mathematics, 3) sciences, 4) social science and history, 4) foreign language and 5) computer literacy.

Two-year colleges are full partners

By Richard McDowell
president, Schoolcraft College

WE AT Schoolcraft College are pleased with the overall report of the Governor's Commission on the Future of Higher Education. We think many of the recommendations, if adopted, will strengthen higher education and provide additional opportunities for students to have access to a college education.

We are particularly pleased with the attention community colleges receive as a full partner with four-year colleges in providing people educational programs and services.

Of significant importance is the mission assigned to community colleges to have primary responsibility for providing adult job training, technical instruction and employee upgrading. This recommendation is of interest because Schoolcraft College has been able to provide specialized training programs at on-site locations for approximately 2,000 employees from 25 companies over the past two years.

The commission recommends that community colleges' mission should continue to provide a broadly based core curriculum, as well as remedial education and continuing education opportunities for adults. In defining this mission, the commission recognizes the comprehensiveness of community colleges.

THE COMMISSION recommends the creation of an $8 million student financial aid program aimed at unemployed adults which "would be particularly supportive of the job training mandate of the community college."

The commission recognizes the need for community colleges to receive funds for equipment replacement, facility maintenance and renovations, recognizing that community colleges have not received capital outlay funds for these purposes in the past.

The feeling is almost universal that high schools, community colleges and four-year colleges must build a solid "core" of academic basics into all programs.

THE GOVERNOR'S commission has outlined an agenda for state government action. Here is its own summary:

- Affordable education, stabilized tuition, more financial aid to qualified students.
 - Specified missions for each institution, ending duplication.
 - New state funding policies focusing on those missions and tied to enrollments.
 - New college admission standards emphasizing "core" curriculum.
 - Private and foundation funding to supplement scarce state funds.
 - Affirmative action and outreach to minorities, handicappers, women, older and part-time students.
 - A data profile on both public and private education — enrollment trends, programs, finances, occupational supplies and demands.
 - Community college responsibility for job training, retraining displaced workers and college remedial education.
 - Channels to transfer innovation and technology from campus to industry.
 - A Washington lobbyist for higher education.
 - Cooperative arrangements between campuses to make the most of library, classroom and physical resources.
 - A strict limit on most new campus construction; exceptions only where a project can contribute to the state's overall economic well-being.
- Higher education clearly will be the top Michigan issue of 1985.

The commission realizes that it is in the state's interest to maintain the valuable resources of these campuses and that local property taxpayers cannot be expected to foot the bill for all community colleges' capital outlay funding.

We hope that within this framework, opportunities continue to exist for community colleges to find creative uses for under-utilized public school facilities as Schoolcraft is doing in Garden City.

OUR BOARD of trustees supports the commission's recommendation of strong presidential leadership.

At our college, we have experienced, with full support of the board of trustees, the freedom to explore many options to develop programs and services for students. Faculty and staff have played an active role in the participation of planning and the implementation of those programs.

These efforts have resulted in significant progress for Schoolcraft College.

SOME CAUTIONS are to be noted. One concern is that in an attempt to promote program efficiency, a cumbersome approval process should not be implemented. This would prevent colleges from responding quickly to meet people's needs.

A strength of community colleges is the rapid response to unique requests, particularly from business and industry. It is hoped that a remedy to one problem does not create a new one.

Community colleges, on the other hand, have contributed significantly to the economic revitalization of Michigan by helping adults gain employment skills or become retrained in new skill areas. Community colleges have helped attract new businesses by being available to train their work forces.

We also have helped existing businesses expand. We look forward to continuing to help promote the economic development of Michigan.

THE COMMISSION indicates that "educational excellence is a proud Michigan tradition" and "that the commission has been encouraged and gratified to learn just how deep and widespread the state's commitment to maintaining that tradition."

Don't stifle small schools

By Joseph Champagne
president, Oakland University

GENERALLY REGARDED as one of the finest in the United States, Michigan's system of higher education is suffering from our state's fiscal problems.

While the report of the governor's commission has many praiseworthy features, it also fails in many respects.

On the positive side, it calls for long-needed higher education improvements. It emphasizes that good public higher education must be affordable and accessible to the people, high in quality and relevant.

It must contribute to intellectual richness, and to the nature and quality of economic life. It focuses on the need for this state to invest more heavily in its human resources.

BUT THE REPORT fails to recognize the positive accomplishments of the individual institutions and could deter their creativity.

Champagne

I take exception to its recommendation of a five-tier classification for higher education: 1) nationally recognized research universities, 2) general state universities, 3) regional state colleges (OU), 4) technical colleges (Ferris, Lake Superior) and 5) community colleges.

I would not dispute a system which recognizes the University of Michigan as the flagship state university, flanked by Wayne State and Michigan State.

Beyond that I would categorize all other four-year institutions as what they really are — the state college and university network, pure and simple. Finally, there exists the system of community colleges.

This three-fold classification is publicly understandable and politically defensible. Why go into an elaborate, confusing, ill-conceived, five-tiered scheme?

THE REPORT FAILS to acknowledge the vital importance of the 12 smaller state colleges and universities to economic development. It implies the economic role is the sacred territory of a select few universities.

I categorically disagree with this elitist philosophy. The distinction between technology development and economic development has clearly eluded the commission.

Many smaller universities foster economic growth in their regions. If fully implemented, this report has the potential to stifle their momentum. Witness Oakland University's contribution through the creation of the Oakland Technology Park.

All colleges and universities must be full partners in economic development, but a few will and should take the leadership in technology development.

THE REPORT also calls for a return to enrollment-driven funding, but fails to point out the urgency of this need.

At present, a number of universities are funded for thousands of students that do not exist because of their enrollment declines. Several other institutions are not funded for students that do exist on their campuses.

This report should have recommended immediate catch-up funding for those under-funded institutions.

THE REPORT recommends no new construction of facilities unless they meet certain guidelines.

What is more essential to a university than an adequate library? I know of one university not included in the recommendations that has no library building!

Additionally, Oakland University's library was designed for 4,800 students, but its student body approximates 12,000. For nearly 10 years, OU has been requesting funds to expand the Kresge Library. While the state has approved the project, it never has approved the funds.

The report is a very good beginning, but only that.

State report 'vague' to UM-D

From the University of Michigan-Dearborn news service.

UM-D CHANCELLOR William A. Jenkins termed the report of the Governor's Commission on Higher Education "somewhat vague" in its application to regional universities.

And he underscored that the report called for no campus closings — a widespread interpretation. Some political observers are reading the report to mean shutting down some campuses such as UM-Dearborn.

"The report does not specifically call for any closings," he said, "and it would be inappropriate to implement its recommendations on that false assumption."

"Ultimately, the governor and the Legislature must act before any of the recommendations can be fulfilled," Jenkins said.

WHILE ENDORSING most of the general findings of the report, Jenkins said it over-emphasized universities' contributions to economic development.

"The report places a heavy emphasis on the role of higher education as an instrument for directly obtaining economic recovery and economic growth in Michigan," Jenkins said.

"While this is an important element in the missions of our colleges and universities, the report seems to neglect the equally important aspect of having an educated citizenry for reasons other than the state's economic health," the U-M-D chancellor said.

In addition, Jenkins said, the emphasis on economic development focuses primarily on the state's "Big Three" research campuses — U-M's Ann Arbor campus, Wayne State University and Michigan State University. "The report spells out in some detail the role which these institutions should play in the system. For the other 12 four-year campuses, including UM-D, the report is somewhat vague."

The report makes several good points and has a few weaknesses, Jenkins said.

THE STRENGTHS include:

- A needed focus on the public higher education system in the state.
- A discussion on the concern for access to higher education, although this discussion is "not strong enough."

Jenkins

• The linking of access with quality. While these two questions are not similar, they must be considered at the same time.

• The need for the state to give more tax money to colleges, thereby keeping down costs for students.

• The recognition of the state's obligation to pay for maintaining physical plants, to increase the number and size of scholarships, and to buy new equipment.

JENKINS TERMED the commission's recommendation to stabilize tuition by limiting increases to the cost of living a "self-delusion which fails to recognize the scope of the financial pressures facing Michigan's public institutions."

The chancellor also criticized the report for not addressing the problem of faculty salaries. "If we are to recruit and retain the very best minds, then the state must recognize its obligation to fund our campuses so that we may compete nationally for the best faculty," he said.

Jenkins said he was pleased that the commission did not recommend a state-wide coordinating board for higher education. That, he said, would be another bureaucratic layer for institutional executives to contend with, and it would deliver no obvious benefits.

UM-D to broadcast series on life's 'seasons'

The University of Michigan-Dearborn, in conjunction with a Pittsburgh public television station, has received a $2.15 million grant from the Annenberg/Corp. for Public Broadcasting to produce a television and radio series on the psychological "seasons" of human life.

"Instead of studying child psychology and adolescence, or aging as separate entities, the whole life-span is viewed in a single glance," said Dr. John Kotre, project coordinator.

The UM-Dearborn psychology professor said the project will include production of an undergraduate credit course for national television and radio distribution, and a series of five prime-time national television programs.

Production is scheduled to begin early in 1985, with release scheduled for 1987.

"THE PROJECT addresses the fact that our population is becoming less youthful and more mature. It provides a unique educational opportunity for both the general-interest public, as well as those interested in formal, academic credit," he added.

It is the largest foundation grant received by UM-D, which is celebrating its 25th anniversary this year.

UM-D Chancellor William A. Jenkins said, "The grant recognizes the quality of UM-D's teaching and research in a field of importance to the American public."

"This project enhances UM-D's role of extending its academic offerings beyond the classroom, and is in keeping with one of its institutional missions of serving non-traditional students," Jenkins added.

VIDEO PRODUCTION will be handled by WQED-TV in Pittsburgh. The television specials will take a chronological approach to the life course, presenting human development from conception to death.

The U-M Media Resources Center (Michigan Media) on the university's Ann Arbor campus will produce 20 radio programs that follow from the television specials and take a topical approach to the life course.

Each radio program will deal with a theme, such as intelligence or sexuality, from the beginning to the end of life. Hazen Schumacher, director of Michigan Media, will serve as executive producer.

"The project represents a significant step for U-M's Media Resources Center (Michigan Media) in its attempts to seek national funding for the production of instructional media materials," said George Williams, Michigan Media's associate director and audio manager for the project.

"This is the first Annenberg/CPB grant to fund both audio and video materials in the same project, and could well be a model for other national programs of this type," Williams added.

OTHER MATERIALS will be created by UM-D in collaboration with a national publisher. These include the revision of a text on life-span psychology, a programed student study guide, an instructor's manual and a bank of assignments and test items suitable for microcomputer interaction.

The project has two goals, according to Kotre.

First is to provide materials for "distant" learners seeking academic credit. The five-part series, he noted, will give the academic course visibility and prestige, as well as informing potential students where they can go for more.

Second is to enlighten the general public who are not interested in course credit. KOTRE HOLDS a doctorate in social psychology from the University of Chicago and has been a member of the UM-D faculty since 1972.

He is the author of four books, the most recent of which is "Outliving the Self: Generativity and the Interpretation of Lives" (the John Hopkins University Press).

Kotre's introductory psychology and attitudes and social behavior courses at UM-D are offered through videotaped lectures and class discussions. The courses are available through a number of Detroit-area cable networks.

Ringing in New Year

WELL, HERE we are again when we must usher in a new year, and no holiday in the year has been greeted with as many varieties of celebrations.

Down through the years, there have been all sorts of parades, whistle blowing, social events, home parties and bell ringings into the wee hours of the morning.

For years, with the coming of television, many folks just sat and waited to hear Guy Lombardo and his orchestra play all the favorites pieces until it was time to drop the ball from the top of a building in New York's Times Square.

Unlike Christmas, where the main celebration comes with the arrival of Santa Claus, there is no single person who becomes the center of tooting of horns, the marching of university bands or the major neighborhood parties.

the stroller
W.W. Edgar

YET, WHEN he looks back through the years, the one celebration that The Stroller likes best — and always thinks of as midnight approaches — was the program in our little white church on the hill back home.

While there was always a plan to ring the church bell and we enjoyed going to the belfry to help pull on the rope, it was the minutes before that stick in memory.

We always had what was called "Night Watch" services, and the main auditorium of the house of worship was filled while waiting the big moment.

There was little preaching. Instead, the choir did more than double duty with appropriate anthems. But all the while, our eyes were on the clock. Tension grew as moments slipped by.

WITH ABOUT two or three minutes to go, the pastor arose and motioned to the gathering to stand as the time had arrived to bid good-bye to the old year and welcome in the new.

At the signal, we held hands in each pew, even in the side section of the church, and as the organist hit the keys, we sang "Blessed Be the Tie That Binds."

With a minute to go, the men and boys raced for the belfry to help pull on the rope to ring the church bell and let the community know that the New Year had arrived. It was a touching time, one that has lived in memory.

WITH THE thought that the ringing of a bell was the proper way to usher in the new twelve-month, The Stroller made certain there was a bell in his back yard when the little white house with the green shutters was built when he moved to what was then called "the country" outside Detroit.

It was an old farm bell that was brought back from a trip to the East and placed not too far from the back door. On New Year's Eve, the neighbors and friends were invited in to take their turn at the bell.

We'd gather at the post and hold the bell rope until the signal of the coming of the New Year had arrived, and then we'd take turns pulling the rope.

One year, The Stroller's dear old mother was with us, and she thoroughly enjoyed the bell ringing, just as The Stroller still does every year.

So, if you hear the ringing of the old cow bell, you'll know it is the Pennsylvania Dutchman's way of ushering in the new page on the calendar.

And a Happy New Year to you!

THE SALVATION Army bell-ringers are silent until next year and the red kettles' bounty has brought Christmas cheer to hundreds of families.

The Woman's Club mitten tree has been dismantled and its decorations of mittens and scarves distributed by the Salvation Army. When Fran Lang gathered up the mittens early last week, she counted 85 pairs as well as scarves. Members of the club also donated canned foods at their December meeting.

Senior citizens and other clubs contribute canned and non-perishable foods year round, for the SA does not limit its caring to the Christmas season. Like the Goodfellows, their holiday spirit extends 12 months of the year.

To all those good people, a Happy New Year. The world would be a sorry place without you.

EACH YEAR, the Christmas Tree is an event, a happening. As long as I can totter around, I hope to have a Christmas tree — a blending of all the Christmases past.

It's a small tree this year but it holds a lot of memories. An angel, clad in green burlap and holding a star, is at the top. This is the first time she's been promoted to starring position, among what we refer to as the "heavenly host." There are corn-husk angels, straw angels and a pressed tin Madonna and child from Mexico. The straw angels were made by Helynn Caplin, years ago, after she had taken a course in straw crafts. One has a wing sined by a candle. Many Christmases ago. And her halo slips to a jaunty angle over one eye. Helynn's angels bring warm memories of a good friend.

A couple of red cardinals share the uppermost branches with the heavenly host and so does Winnie the Pooh. Pooh Bear has a wire attached to one wrist. At the other end of the wire is a small gold ball that represents a balloon, holding him aloft. A fuzzy bee, representing Pooh's honey tree, has to be placed near the balloon. The whole thing is a hanger from the year we made papier mache ornaments and a grandson, now 15, was in a Winnie-the-Pooh stage. The gingerbread man was made at the same time.

We inherited the glass bells and Santa Claus from Grandpa and Grandpa. They are probably the oldest on the tree. I remember them on the tree at home before I was married.

The most elegant ornament is a green velvet and gold egg decorated by Iva Crane, at least 18 years ago. The lion, Santa Claus and horse are from a cookie dough ornament venture — can't remember how long ago.

Of more recent vintage are an icicle and a ball, made by Don Schneider, local glass-blower. The tin Santa Claus in the tin blimp is not old, but he's a keeper.

New this year is little wicker basket filled with Christmas greens and a little cardinal. It was the perfect solution, the perfect touch, for the inevitable problem spot on the tree. Nothing looked right there until I tried Carole Brandt's basket.

There's the red and silver ornament from an Observer Christmas party and hand-lettered "Odd-Ball '69" by Glenn Merrillat. And there are wooden ornaments hand-painted by daughter-in-law Andrea.

Put them all together and they spell Christmas. I'll be making little changes, here and there, until it's time to take down the tree.

CHORAL EXPRESSION, the Plymouth Community Chorus's small ensemble, has had a busy holiday season.

In one week they sang Christmas songs at Hillside Inn, Wayne-Westland Ford Vocational School and Meadowbrook Country Club. The ensemble, under the direction of Mike Gross, entertains where space could not accommodate the full 130-member chorus. Proceeds from these engagements goes to the chorus scholarship fund. For more information about the ensemble, who can make beautiful music to suit any occasion, call 455-4080, or write to: Plymouth Community Chorus, P.O. Box 217, Plymouth, Mich. 48170.

The chorus will give one $500 scholarship to a graduating high school senior and two $250 scholarships to students in junior and senior high schools.

Wing and a prayer

Spunky nun raises millions for Madonna

Acknowledging that prayer helps, Sister Mary Lauriana, vice president for development at Madonna College in Livonia, knows that success in fund-raising also takes hard work and lots of friends.

Among the many women fund-raisers for service organizations, colleges and other agencies in the metropolitan Detroit area, Sister Lauriana believes she is the only one who is a nun.

As the principal fund-raising officer at the Livonia college for the past 10 years, she has raised millions of dollars for developing academic programs, new facilities and improved student support services.

Her greatest recent success was the completion of a $4.1 million goal for a new library, raised in less than two years while the Detroit area was suffering a depression.

"WHEN THE BOARD of trustees approved the construction of a new library and academic facilities, I couldn't even imagine raising one million dollars in three years, let alone $4.9 million," she mused. "But the money came in two years for the library and from voluntary support."

Since beginning her duties in the development office in 1975, the Felician nun has developed more than 28 major proposals for grants and corporate gifts totaling millions of dollars. Her current concern is $600,000 of the targeted $4.9 million which remains to be funded.

Quite a responsibility. Quite an achievement. How does the spunky lady view her success?

"There's a lot to be done, and so much of it has to be delegated. My staff and our volunteers have been wonderful. I couldn't do it without them," she said, and quickly added with a twinkle in her eye, "Let's not forget the Lord. Unless the Lord helps build the day and helps build the house, we can't go on."

Sister Lauriana begins each day with mass and prayer.

"I LIKE TO GIVE the Lord all the time I possibly can," she said.

She arrives at her office at 8:30 a.m. and organizes her day before beginning her schedule of assignments.

"A lot depends on what time of year it is," she said. "The project of the day could be writing proposals for government grants or corporate and foundation gifts, doing research, keeping appointments with business executives or working on campus fund-raising projects such as dinners, bingo, recognition of donors and volunteers or organizing annual campaigns."

Early in the fall, the development office begins preparing for the Michigan Colleges Foundation campaign which is part of the annual series of fall fund-raising events, along with the Phonathon and the Annual Fund Campaign.

"All of the campaigns are preceded by direct mail solicitation which is quite a job in itself, Sister Lauriana explained. She continued to say that gifts from donors, grants and fund-raising activities contribute to 30 percent of the revenue needed by the college to continue to operate. Tuition covers only 70 percent of the actual budget.

The days work themselves into evenings with that time spent in meetings and attending to various public relations duties.

"IT'S IMPORTANT to make friends, and evenings are best for that," she said.

Sitting in her sunny office, amid a stack of papers and mementos, Sister Lauriana smilingly recalls the many people and companies who have helped. Names such as Bendix, Michigan Bell, Ex-Cell-O, Ford, General Motors, Hearst, Hilton, Kresge, Shapero, Skillman and Upjohn are among the major benefactors whose names appear on a commemorative plaque in the new library and media center.

An estimated 105 Detroit area business leaders and 100 individual volunteers also contributed time and talent to Madonna's successful development program.

Sister Lauriana admits that she has become skilled as a fund-raiser because other successful people have shared their techniques with her. She also reads regularly all current literature on the topic and has attended the training sessions of the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education and the National Society of Fund Raising Executives. She is often sought out now to share her own expertise with others as she did recently in conducting a seminar in Buffalo.

She has not always been a fund-raiser.

Born in Gaylord, and herself a graduate of Madonna College, she obtained her master's and doctorate degrees in education from Fordham University. She began her teaching career in the Detroit and Saginaw Catholic school system, (including St. Michael's in Livonia and St. Valentine's in Redford), teaching all subjects, but retaining a penchant for history, her undergraduate major.

She has gained recognition for her work in the Detroit Archdiocese from 1958 to 1969 and for her contribution to the field of reading and related programs. She has 14 publications to her credit.

CONCURRENT WITH holding a position in the Archdiocesan Office, she was professor of education and in 1985 became academic dean of Madonna College. During the time as dean, Madonna College became a coeducational institution. With the assistance of Sister Danatha, the president, seven new programs were developed: Criminal Justice, Business Administration, Interpreting and Sign Language, Fire Protection and Occupational Safety, Radiologic Technology, Emergency Medical Technology, Gerontology, and bachelor of science in nursing completion program for registered nurses.

After 45 years of religious life, she still wears the habit of the Felician sisters. Although she has sisters and brothers, she also likes to think of the Felicians as her family and Madonna College as her home.

She will be taking a sabbatical next semester to take classes on ethics related to business and theology classes at her alma mater, Fordham University, indicating that the spiritual life is still central in her life in spite of being in the highly competitive field such as fund raising.

She leans forward and says intently, "Unless the Lord builds a house, he labors in vain who builds it."

Cherry Bowl big day for Army grads

For West Point alumni in the community, Saturday's Cherry Bowl was a social as well as a sporting event. They didn't have much planning time, but the Army came through. They gave their down-East comrades a taste of mid-Western hospitality.

Cadets who came to the game at the Silver Dome were surprised at friendly invitations to join Michigan State fans at tailgate parties in the parking lots.

Jim and Jo Ann Kohler and Tim and Jane Brown of Canton went to the game. The men are Army alumni, class of '68.

Greg and Shirley Wold of Plymouth Township and sons Greg and Eric attended the game and the reception for the superintendent. Laura Wold, 77, came in from Chicago to attend the event with her son and family. She has two sons who are West Point graduates.

JOHN DICKERSON of Livonia, recording secretary and member of the West Point Alumni Association Board, said the Army cheering section was outnumbered about 20-1. Dickerson was involved in planning the "Soop's" reception for Lt. Gen. Willard Scott and Brig. Gen. Fred Smith, West Point commandant.

"The Army team was staying at the Troy Hilton and MSU at the Northfield Hilton, but when we planned the reception, the only place that had enough room was the Northfield Hilton," Dickerson said.

"When we took posters over Saturday morning for the party, we were in Michigan State headquarters."

There were a few negative comments about the posters, but no problems. And everything was in place when they returned for the reception.

"ALL THE EASTERNERS were impressed with the friendly people in Michigan," Dickerson said.

"The Army Band was not at the game, but the Michigan State Band did a wonderful job on the Army fight song and put on a spectacular half-time performance."

The Army team did not attend the reception and dinner that followed.

"They had their own party set up after the game — a lot more fun than that being with the old grads."

Shirley Wold had no problem with what to wear to a football game and then a reception for the superintendent.

"First of all, you wear black and gold. I'm wearing a black skirt and a gold blouse. I'll add a scarf and jewelry for the reception."

The men sported large A's on their lapels.

Army alumni were delighted when their football team was invited to the Cherry Bowl. Winning was frosting on the cake, or, ice cream on their cherry pie.

Alumni hosted a reception for Lt. Gen. Willard Scott, superintendent of the United States Military Academy, after the game. Eric Wold, (left) and brother Greg Wold, 13, prepare a banner for the Cherry Bowl, hoping television cameramen will take note.

We celebrate our 150th year

The year started with most of the movers and shakers in our township resolving to diet.

All of our leaders had high hopes for the township, and were ready and excited about putting on a Sesquicentennial party second to none. Everybody had the Christmas spirit and Junior Girl Scout Troop 333 had taken that spirit to Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor, taking small gifts, Christmas party favors and lots of cheer.

The Newcomers were gearing up for a year of fun and wanted us to know about it as they invited everyone — new and longtime residents — to join in and attend a meeting.

Our recreation department wasted no time in getting the fun started as they announced a ski trip for teens.

THE SEARCH was on as the Lions Club sought homes for exchange students coming in for a six-week stay. This I personally recommend to everyone, at least once.

The Canton Business and Professional Women's Club was searching, too. They were searching for the new Young Career Woman to represent Canton. And the Canton Recreation department was searching for some fun people to come out for the Annual Groundhog Day Classic, the slo-pitch softball tournament.

Success? We had it all year long. Remember M.J. Ewald as he smashed records right and left during the Pepsi Hot Shot competition? How about the Plymouth Salem Rockettes who won the Mid-American Pom Pon Competition, beating out arch rival Livonia Churchill?

We had our first community-oriented bridal fashion show sponsored by Rose Catering, which I was proud to be a part of as emcee of this exciting event.

THEN, THE WARNING came —

Canton chatter

Sandy Preblich

start getting your costumes ready for the Sesquicentennial Ball. And I sent out feelers for my Sesqui Picnic committee, later to be known as a disaster.

It was about at this point that our life went wacky. Remember when my husband broke his shoulder? Let me just say this: "Please shovel your walks!"

We gave a happy birthday cheer to the leap year babies and started to prepare for the Plymouth Lions Club Las Vegas Night. We all made last-minute plans for the big Founder's Day celebration at Township Hall.

Finally, the time had come and the Founder's Day party was a huge success. More than 2,000 people were there. It was wall-to-wall people with standing room only, as can be seen in the Omnicom reruns.

THEN CAME THE ball. What an evening!

We had our Sesquicentennial dresses flowing all over the room as we danced and ate and visited with everybody. Peace reigned supreme over our community that night and for one glorious evening we just sat back and had fun. This, too, can be found on cable reruns.

Kent Lawrence, son of Art and Sue Lawrence, graduated from Michigan State University and went on to his first job at Indiana Department of National Resources. The Newcomers Club had its St. Patrick's Day Party, and we began preparing for our Sesquicentennial Kite Flying Contest. We congratulated with pride Brownie Troop 326 for its collection of 2,318 pairs of used eyeglasses for donation to the "eyes for the needy" program.

We received an update on former Canton Chatter writer Kathy Freece as she was about to begin a whole new lifestyle with an up-coming marriage to Jay Healey and a new job at McDonald Ford selling trucks!

The Canton Historical Society reminded us to sign up to receive its newsletter with Bart Berg at 495-0811. It was about this time that the Canton Senior Citizen group was wrapping up its volleyball season just in time to start softball practice.

We heard a plea from the volunteer citizens groups working with the Dion Nursing Home for any musician to come and play for them, and for anyone interested to join the committee.

THE RECREATION department was preparing for the annual Easter Egg Hunt, and we pleaded with the community for some assistance with the Canton Country Festival and Parade. The same people do it every year and could stand a summer off!

The Sesquicentennial Fashion Show and Luncheon was drawing near, and the Canton Seniors put on the most fantastic follies ever, and we once again took advantage of Health-o-Rama.

The Canton Historical Society announced the approaching carnival and that Du Mouchelles once again would be available for appraisals. Friends of the Canton Library prepared for the used-book sale. Canton Center Animal Hospital and Dan's Pet Shop volunteered to take in any unwanted animals received as Easter gifts.

The French Classes at C.E.P. take off for Paris and parts beyond.

The Children's Leukemia Fund prepares for its annual blood drive, and I pass my one-year anniversary as Chatter writer.

County Executive Bill Lucas makes one of several visits to our local cable studio to appear on my show, "Sandy," and answer all your questions. Daughter Tammi has a birthday and Rusty Johnson, son of Russ Johnson owner of the popular "Rusty Nail," graduates from Eastern Michigan University in computer systems. Palmer Hobby and Crafts takes a chance on Canton and opens up by K mart.

Walk for Recreation is upon us, the used-book sale, the appraisal session, the fashion show, the Newcomers Couples bowling party, and the 4-H club auction all in one weekend!

Keeping things rolling we started talking about the second International Soccer Tournament which had grown from 98 teams to 132 teams. The search began for a Grand Marshal for the Canton Country Festival Parade.

AFTER A RAINY Mother's Day, came Fix-Up Week and time to get the gardens ready for the Sesquicentennial flowers. Impatiens were being stocked in great numbers by the Historical Society for sale at its annual flower sale in conjunction with the Rotary Rummage Sale.

The library was sponsoring a contest to guess the date and time the millionth book would be borrowed. Plymouth Canton High School was the site of the return of the Science Fair participation of grades 4, 5 and 6 and Bird and Allen schools joined forces.

Canton marked its 150th anniversary in a yearlong celebration, and a medal was struck for the occasion.

A program for latch-key kids will be offered at four Westland elementary schools starting Monday, Jan. 7.

The before- and after-school care program will be offered to pupils at Jefferson, Lincoln, P.D. Graham and Walker schools.

Sponsored by the Wayne-Westland YMCA, the program is run 7:30-9 a.m. and 3:30-6:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The cost is $15 a week for both the morning and afternoon sessions, $7.50 a week for just the morning sessions, $12 a week for just the afternoon sessions, and $1 per hour on an individual-session basis.

The children will participate in gym, crafts, games, songs, discussions, and studying. A snack will be offered during the afternoon session.

To register, stop in the Y at 827 S. Wayne Road, one block south of Cherry Hill. Or call the Y at 721-7044.

moral perspectives

Rev. David Strong

Will computers lead to moral ends?

I have resisted my friends' urgings to buy a computer. I suppose this categorizes me as a backward, over-40 type. I am not yet convinced that a personal computer will make my life any better. My friends still sound like they have simply jumped on the bandwagon of personal computers. One day I may repent and join them.

Computers still have the ring of George Orwell's "1984" for me. They are used to guide the missiles, and they track down errant people. I still wonder how much information is on file about my life in several computer banks.

Then there are the computer games. Most of these focus upon killing space invaders and earthly enemies. I suppose someone argues that they are a good way to siphon off childhood aggression. I think they make war and killing more palatable.

TWO COMPUTER designers and writers may provide a first glimmer of hope for me in an otherwise threatening technology.

A computer-game designer, Tom Snyder, has developed a new peace-oriented game, The Other Side. It vaguely represents the challenge that the United States and the Soviet Union face in insuring mutual survival. Snyder began the project after watching the TV film "The Day After," which portrayed the aftermath of a nuclear war.

The game is designed to reproduce the political, moral and economic factors that lead toward either war or peaceful co-existence. The goal of the game is to build bridges between the two enemies.

Then there is Stewart Brand, author of "Whole Earth Catalogue," who believes the computer is a tool that empowers the individual. I have always believed the opposite, until I thought for a few moments about the role of hackers. Brand calls the personal computer a "mind tool."

My friends who have personal computers still hope that I may repent and believe. I am waiting for morally constructive uses to evolve.

church bulletin

CLARENCEVILLE UNITED METHODIST

Actor Frank Roughton Harvey will present two evenings of drama on Sunday and Monday, Dec. 30 and 31. Harvey directs and plays the role of Jesus Christ in the Cambridge Passion Play in Cambridge, Ohio. He also has presented Biblical dramas in churches and conventions around the world.

He will present King David in full costume at 7 p.m. Sunday. The New Year's Eve watchnight service will begin with a potluck dinner and song service at 8 p.m. Harvey and the congregation will re-enact the Last Supper from 10 p.m. to midnight, with a Communion service.

The church is on Middlebelt, one block south of Eight Mile Road, Livonia.

WARD PRESBYTERIAN

A full evening of activities is planned for New Year's Eve at Ward Presbyterian Church in Livonia. Dinner, by reservation only, will be served at 6:30 p.m., with hors d'oeuvres being served at 6 p.m. The remainder of the evening's events will be open to the public free of charge.

A praise and Communion service will take place at 9 p.m. in Knox Hall. This will be followed at 10 p.m. by a sacred concert with vocal soloist Carol Bleich and pianist Gordon Bleich in the sanctuary. A candlelight watchnight service will be at 11 p.m. in the sanctuary. Dr. Bartlett L. Hess will speak on "New Life for the New Year."

Junior high youth activities will be from 3 p.m. to midnight, senior high, from 4:30 p.m. to 7:30 a.m. Activities will include bowling, roller skating, volleyball, racquetball, and a hayride. A concert by Jubal will highlight the evening.

LAESTADIAN

Lauri Hakso of Longview, Wash., will be the guest speaker at Christmas-New Year's services at the Detroit Laestadian Congregation, 290 Fairground, Plymouth. The services will be at 7:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Dec. 27 and 28.

UNITY OF LIVONIA

The Unity Social-Lites will have a New Year's Eve celebration, starting with punch and hors d'oeuvres at 6:30 p.m. Dinner will be at 7:30 p.m., followed by a concert by Judy Gray Blumenthal 9-11 p.m.

The church's high watch service will be from 11:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. in the sanctuary. Minister Gene Sorensen will speak on "The New Positive You."

FAIRLANE ASSEMBLY

Ed Louton, an Assemblies of God missionary to South Africa, will be the guest speaker at the 8:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. worship services Sunday, Jan. 6, at Fairlane Assembly, 22575 Ann Arbor Trail, Dearborn Heights. Slides of South Africa will be shown during the missions services.

Louton and his wife, Barbara, were active in evangelism, church planting, and Bible school teaching in Cape Town during their past tour of missionary service. Louton has been a missionary since 1958. He is a graduate of South African Bible Institute.

Christian Science has video meeting

For the first time, Christian Scientists on four continents recently gathered simultaneously for a satellite-transmitted video conference.

Plymouth-Canton area Christian Scientists congregated in Detroit for the broadcast on Dec. 8.

"To live for all mankind," the meeting's theme, was taken from the writings of Mary Baker Eddy, who founded the denomination in 1879.

Church members from 3,000 congregations gathered simultaneously in churches and convention centers in 140 cities for the broadcast. The denomination's mother church in Boston was the meeting's focal point.

Harvey W. Wood, from the church's five-member board of directors, introduced the video conference.

A panel of reporters from The Christian Science Monitor joined the meeting via satellite from the Old Royal Observatory in Greenwich, England. The panel discussed a broad range of issues, including the nuclear arms race.

In Boston, the panel was joined by Monitor editor Katherine W. Fanning and Allison W. Phinney Jr., editor of the monthly Christian Science Journal and other church publications. Simultaneous translation of the conference was handled by church and

United Nations translators in Spanish, German, Danish, French, Swedish, Italian and Portuguese.

Program is offered for single parents

The Women's Resource Center is offering a program for single parents and displaced homemakers. Classes and seminars will be offered in parenting, individual needs, employment search and assertiveness. An orientation meeting will be from 10 a.m. to noon, Tuesday, Jan. 8, at the center.

Tuition assistance will be discussed. Child care is available for those who qualify. For more information, call the single parent coordinator, Faye Driscoll, at 591-6400, Ext. 431.

Going to bat for the needy

Last spring the residents of Middlebelt Nursing Centre went to bat for a group of young baseball players who needed a sponsor. They contributed the money to sponsor the Little League team with their own funds. When Christmas rolled around, they went to bat for another group — several needy families. Collection bins were set up in the centre for food donations and cash donations were also accepted. After it was all over, the residents collected two large boxes full of food plus $150 in cash. The centre's resident council donated two turkeys from funds, earned through various fund-raisers, including an arts-crafts fair. Shown going through the food collected are Kathy McNamara (left) of Westland, director of activities; Dorothy Sowersby, vice president of the resident council and chairman of the food basket committee; Cindy Minard of Livonia, an aide; Marybelle Humphrey, secretary of the resident council; and Liz Kelley of Livonia, an aide.

State gets tough on child support

By Kathy Parrish
staff writer

Michigan Department of Social Services (DSS) has a national reputation for tracking down parents who don't pay child support.

But leading the country in collections isn't enough. With the help of new federal laws, the agency hopes to do even more.

Previously able to collect only on behalf of public welfare recipients, DSS now can help any Michigan resident obtain child support.

"We'd like to see a child support order issued for every child in Michigan not living with both parents," said Kathy Capps, DSS resources program analyst.

"I don't think we'll reach that ideal. But hopefully, we'll be able to reach more and more families."

SINCE 1972, DSS has been working with public welfare recipients to collect child support payments.

The agency helps recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children (ADC) identify and locate absent parents, get and enforce court orders for child support and collect payments.

The Child Support Unit also helps mothers establish legal paternity through blood tests. Once paternity is established, child support can be obtained from the father.

"Blood tests are very accurate and are now admissible in court," said Capps. "A man has to be pretty slick to avoid legal responsibility."

OPERATING OUT of every Michigan county, Michigan's Office of Child Support tops the states in administrative cost efficiency.

It collects $2.36 in child support payments for every administrative dollar spent. The national average is $1.27 collected for each administrative dollar spent.

Michigan also is first in the total amount of child support payments collected. For fiscal year 1984, statewide gross collections were nearly $110 million — a 9-percent increase over fiscal year 1983.

In Wayne County, fiscal 1984 gross collections were $33 million — a 14-percent increase over the previous year.

"WE'RE THE FLAGSHIP program for the nation. Other states come here to see what we do," said Capps. "The program we have here is working and working well."

But the passage this spring of the Deficit Reduction Act of 1984 has allowed DSS to provide services to custodial parents not receiving welfare.

Anyone who needs help collecting child support can now work with one of the support specialists stationed at local DSS offices.

At no cost, support specialists will help custodial parents — male or female — obtain child support taken out of paychecks or withheld from income tax refunds.

"About 97 percent of the clients are women, but we're an equal opportunity agency," explained Capps.

In the near future, the agency will also be able to put a lien on property or securities and intercept unemployment checks to obtain support.

DSS HOPES to help a whole segment of the population it never served before.

"We're trying to reach parents out there who are struggling to make it without aid," said Capps. She believes many have just given up on child support because of frustrating experiences with the courts.

"People become discouraged and just drop out. Only the very adamant get through the system," she added.

"We're trying to help them."

AT THIS point, DSS is trying to find out just what the needs are.

"We're offering the services that exist and want to see what other concerns there are. Right now we just don't know," said Capps.

"Our mandate is to put financial responsibility back on the people it rightfully belongs to and provide financial security to these children."

Information about child support services can be obtained by writing the Wayne County Unit of Michigan Department of Social Services Office of Child Support, Michigan Plaza, Suite 1961, 1200 Sixth, Detroit 48226 or by telephoning 256-1026.

ALL IRAs ARE NOT CREATED EQUAL.

SO WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

The difference is the yield at Security Bank and Trust.

Because at Security Bank & Trust we don't just add interest to your IRA account at the end of the year the way many other banks and financial institutions do. With compounding, we add earned interest to your principal every month or every quarter depending on the certificate maturity you choose. That means your retirement fund builds up faster and actually yields more than other funds paying the same rate at simple interest.

In addition, Security Bank & Trust provides a wide range of retirement accounts with maturities from 3-120 months and also the flexibility of a fixed or variable rate account permitting regular deposits for as little as $25.

Security Bank & Trust's IRA provides you with a tax-deferred retirement program to supplement your Social Security benefits, while providing a tax deduction in the current year.

If you qualify, Security Bank & Trust can also provide a loan to help you fund your IRA in full, now. But remember, when investing in any IRA, federal law requires substantial forfeitures of interest when withdrawing funds before maturity or before you reach age 59½. There may be substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal.

Term	Annual Percentage Rate*	Effective Annual Yield (%)

Chiefs 2nd at GC tourney

By Brad Emons staff writer

This was supposed to be Garden City's year in wrestling, but it may take awhile.

The Cougars, who lost only three to graduation from a team that won 16 dual meets, were expected to win their own Christmas Invitational on Saturday.

Gibraltar Carlson, however, won the 20th annual event for the third consecutive year with 155 points followed by Plymouth Canton (144), Novi (143), New Boston Huron (141) and the host team (108). (The meet drew 17 teams).

"Our team has been decimated by injuries," said hoarse-throated GC coach Dean Shipman. "I knew when Carlson came in that they would be right there."

"I thought we wrestled pretty good with what we had on the mat."

When Shipman gets everybody healthy, Garden City may have a shot at breaking Westland John Glenn's two-decade strangle-hold on Northwest Suburban League titles.

"We hope to get our lineup ready by January 10th (when GC hosts Glenn)," Shipman said. "Glenn is still the king, but I think we can challenge them. We can still be a good team."

ON SATURDAY, GC wrestled without district champ Tom Mack (126 pounds), who was out with the flu. Another GC contender, Mike Howell (145), was less than 100 percent. Second in the district last year, Howell settled for sixth place, practicing just two days prior to the meet after being out with the flu.

Three other Cougar regulars missed the meet, including Herbie Herge (119), who won 20 matches last year, and Mark Smola (132).

Herge hasn't wrestled yet this year because of knee surgery, but is expected back next month. Smola, meanwhile, bruised his spleen and is likely out for the season, according to Shipman.

"I think if we'd have had Mack and Howell healthy, we could have been in trophy range (first, second or third)," said the GC coach.

Garden City's only finalist was Scott Purr, who lost to 198-pound final to Livonia Stevenson's Chuck Arakelian, a pin in 3:23.

Other GC wrestlers who placed included Ed Miller, heavyweight, third; and Todd Bulmer, 155, fourth.

Livonia native Mike Donnelly is anxious for his MSU hockey team to compete in the Great Lakes Invitational Tournament this weekend at Joe Louis.

MSU hungry for GLIT title

By Scott Adler staff writer

It is perhaps an arguable point that the Michigan State Spartans play better hockey in Joe Louis Arena than the Detroit Red Wings, but . . . the Red Wings would probably be the only ones arguing.

For the past two years, the Spartans have dismantled opponent after opponent at Joe Louis, be it in the Central Collegiate Hockey Association (CCHA) playoffs or the Great Lakes Invitational Tournament (GLIT) and this year appears to be no different.

MSU heads into the GLIT, Dec. 28-29, heavy favorites to win the title for the third straight year. The other teams in the four-team tourney are Michigan Tech, University of Michigan and Bowling Green.

The Spartans beat Michigan Tech in each of the last two finals. In 1983, MSU downed Tech, 6-2. In 1982, MSU took the title with a 5-3 win.

"I hope Tech makes it to the finals along with us," Spartan defenseman Don McSween said. "We haven't played Tech yet this year but we've beaten them 6 of the last 7 times we've played them."

McSween, a sophomore from Plymouth, said his Spartan teammates like to play in Joe Louis.

"It's our home away from home, so to speak," he said.

MSU JUNIOR MIKE Donnelly agrees.

"I don't want to jinx myself," the Livonia native said, "but we seem to play awfully well down there. It's definitely one of the high points of the season."

Donnelly doesn't seem to think that the increase in hometown fans from 6,200 at Munn Arena to 20,000-plus in Joe Louis has that great an impact on the Spartans.

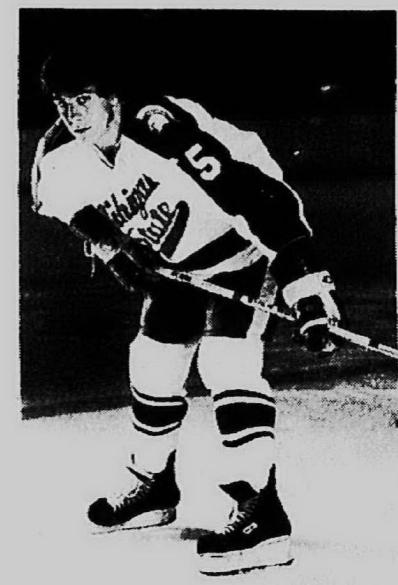

"It's exciting (to play in front of 20,000 fans) but after the puck drops you don't think about all the fans," he said.

Despite the presence of defending national champ Bowling Green, which is struggling because of graduation losses, the Spartans are confident they'll emerge victorious.

"We're off to a good start," McSween said of the 16-3 Spartans. "At first we were living off of last year's glory, but now when we're playing well, no one can touch us."

MSU started out slowly, suffering early season defeats to Western Michigan and Ferris State, so the Spartans 16-3 record hasn't come as easy as it may seem, according to Donnelly.

Don McSween of Plymouth is having another solid year at MSU.

Was '84 a boring year? Nope, people made it fun

VERY GOOD friend of mine once asked me how I could stand writing about high school sports all the time.

"Man, it's got to be the most boring thing in the world. So and so beat so and so by such and such a score. Blah, blah, blah."

Well, if that's all sports were about — who won and who lost — then, yes, it would get boring.

But sports are about people. The people who play and those who can't, the people who coach and those who won't. People are never boring and neither is my job.

Thus, as I sit here in hopes of sharing my memories of the 1984 sports year with you, my thoughts are drawn toward the people I've met, those who make what I do interesting.

KELLY DAVIDSON: Kelly, a Farmington Harrison senior, has been one of the state's premier tennis players the past three years. But last summer she learned a painful but very valuable lesson. She learned that there was plenty more to life than tennis. As a result of that revelation, she came to enjoy her life and tennis a lot more.

FRED CRISSEY: This, in my opinion, is a great man. Officially, he is Plymouth Canton's baseball coach. But, to many, many young men, he's a heck of a lot more than that. He has taken numerous troubled kids, kids that had been labeled degenerates and delinquents, and given them a sense of direction and self worth through baseball. And, at the same time, transformed them into pretty fair ballplayers. A special person.

JOE CLINTON: My Huron buddy. Joe coaches a little girls basketball at Troy Athens and I got to know him through Jim Hughes, sports editor of the Troy and Rochester Eccentrics. A funny, funny guy (but looks aren't everything) who, with his witty, poignant quotes, is a sports writer's delight.

ALEX GRAMMAS: I got to talking to this man while waiting to interview Sparky Anderson before a Tiger game last summer. (Don't you hate a name dropper. I feel like Carol T.) I was doing a freelance story for a Cincinnati-based magazine, if you must know. Anyway, he was sitting in the dugout. He says: "Hey, you want to play in the big leagues? You can. All you've gotta do is walk into Sparky's office and demand a tryout. He can't refuse you a tryout. Go ahead, I mean it." He did, too. Tough break for me, I passed by baseball prime a few years ago.

Chris McCosky

ELIZABETH BONELLO: I get kidded a lot for writing about Liz all the time, especially by Free Press sports writer Mick McCabe (name dropping again). But, Liz is a very special person. She's the scorekeeper for the Farmington Hills Mercy basketball team and one of the nicest, warmest people in the world. She represents everything I like about high school sports — her unbridled enthusiasm, her devotion to her team, her joy when Mercy wins, her tearful mourning when they lose. There is a purity and a spontaneity about Liz and her emotions that, to me, reflects the beauty of prep and amateur athletics. I will miss this young lady a bunch next year.

MICK MCCABE: I've got to tell you this story. After Plymouth Salem nearly upset Mercy in the state quarterfinals, a crowd of reporters approached Mercy coach Larry Baker. "This is my father," Baker said. "He'll be answering all your questions." Free Press reporter McCabe replied: "Maybe he should have coached for you, too." Hilarious. You've got to know Mick. He's the only person who could say that, at that time, and get away with it. The reason he can is because he is respected, and rightfully so. The man is the expert on prep sports. He has half the space to work with than the Detroit News, and still blows them away. He's the best — except in Observerland and Eccentricville, we kick his butt here.

JOHN VAN WAGONER: John is the father of Canton basketball coach Dave Van Wagoner and the reigning toastmaster general of Plymouth. He, really, is a fountain of wisdom. He is quick with a quote or an anecdote — his gift is that he makes people feel good about themselves. He is also a valuable supporter of the Plymouth Canton and Salem sports programs.

Shoot, there are so many super people that I have had the privilege of meeting and working with, I could fill this whole page. Don't worry, I have no intention of doing that. Suffice to say, 1984 was fun and that's your fault. What do you say we all get together next year and do it again?

Good times, regrets of 1984

CHECKING MY rearview mirror, I can see I had great fortune during the past year. I witnessed the Tigers' American League and World Series clinchers; I saw a Detroit Grand Prix that only a handful of Formula One cars managed to finish; and I covered the first-ever Cherry Bowl.

C.J. Risak

Spectacular events, each one. Then, why is it that when someone asks me what sticks in my mind from this sports year, my first thought is of John Miller?

I guess it was the build-up, the hype. For three years I heard stories from fans and writers alike of Miller's prowess on a football field.

I ACTUALLY saw Miller play twice. The first came during Farmington Harrison's preseason drills before his sophomore season. It was sunny and hot, and coach John Herrington had his troops practicing in pads for the first time.

The Hawks had lost quite a bit, Herrington was saying, with only one real starter back. Could be a tough season ahead, he said. Rebuilding, he said.

While he talked, I watched his Hawks execute a middle screen pass with near perfection. The quarterback rolled right and fired the ball to No. 44, who slid easily behind a wall of blockers and ran upfield about 15 yards before being touched by a defender.

Middle screens, on opening day of practice with pads? For most teams, if the quarterback can find his running backs with a hand-off in the first practice session, coaches are satisfied. I remember thinking, "There's something special about this Harrison team." Herrington clued me in: "That No. 44, he's going to be a good one."

LESS THAN three months later, Miller proved Herrington right. He was instrumental in the Hawks first-ever Class A football championship.

They won it by beating Dearborn Edsel Ford in the finals in what has been called the best-ever Class A title tilt.

How ironic that the only time I saw Miller play in game conditions was the final contest of his prep career. I witnessed the beginning of his career and the end.

The last was also the worst. Miller and Harrison had a terrible day in the mud of Pontiac's Wisner Stadium against Edsel Ford. Miller managed less than 60 yards rushing and the Hawks lost for just the second time in his three-year career. Both were in the mud.

As much as I'll treasure the sight of Kirk Gibson belting two homers in the Series final, I'll always regret not seeing John Miller performing on a dry field, when he was at his best.

Canton matmen 2nd

PLYMOUTH CANTON, second place overall in the team standings, got second place finishes from Jim Malson (heavyweight) and Dave Dunford (112). Other Canton wrestlers that placed included Tim Birely, 119, third; Frank Drabek, 126, fourth; Scott Tasker, 145, fourth; and Mike Graczyk, 185, third.

Another Observerland school, Livonia Churchill, finished 12th overall. Gaining places for Churchill were John Parr, 119, fourth; Dave Dudek, 138, third; and Brian Clemens, 155, fourth.

The revenge of the Eagle: RU cagers best Thurston Eagles never forget.

One year ago, the Redford Union basketball team was winless and down on its luck until it beat Redford Thurston for its only win of the season.

Thursday, Thurston returned the favor, breaking a four-game losing streak at RU's expense, 65-62, on the Panthers' home court.

RU led with three minutes left in the game when the Eagles' senior guard Scott Filipiak made two steals and scored twice to give Thurston the lead.

Thurston used a box-and-one to defense RU's high-scoring Dennis Bushart and the results were positive. Bushart, being hawked by Dan Ramos and Pierce Moran, finished with 19 points.

"Any time you can beat a team with good players like Bushart and (Raffi) Kostegian, it's satisfying," first-year coach Mike Schuette said. "Our kids are getting a lot more confidence."

Filipiak finished with 15 points, 8 in the final quarter. Tony Sokol added 13 and Brian Wojtkowski scored 11 points for the winners.

Jeff Frelich came off the bench and scored 8 points and grabbed 12 rebounds for the Eagles. Thurston is 1-4 overall and RU is 3-2.

DIVINE CHILD 79, BISHOP BORGESS 53: At Dearborn, Divine Child used a balanced attack to whip Redford Bishop Borgess Thursday.

The Falcons outscored Borgess 21-9 in the final quarter.

Mike Sevrynyck paced the Falcons with 18 points.

Joe Gregory topped all scorers with 27 points for Borgess (3-1).

BUT THERE are other, more pleasant memories.

I'll remember the basketball duels Birmingham Brother Rice's B.J. Armstrong and Redford Catholic Central's John McIntyre have waged the last two years, with at least two more meetings remaining.

I'll remember a packed Schoolcraft College gymnasium, all on hand for a girls basketball game, a classic pitting Farmington Mercy against Livonia Ladywood.

I'll remember seeing the final in a long, sparkling line of victories for Livonia Bentley's girls basketball team. Tom Lang's quick Bulldog squad upset Livonia Stevenson in the district tournament before losing to Mercy.

I'll remember the outstanding individual talents of seniors like Rice's Allen Szydowski and Mike Farr, North Farmington's Lisa Mummert, Mercy's Mary Rosowski and Annette Ruggiero, Ladywood's Char Govan and Emily Wagner, Stevenson's Lisa Bokovoy and Southfield-Lathrup's Doe Elrod.

And I'll remember, as 1985 looms, that if my good fortune continues I just might get to see returning stars, like Plymouth Salem's Dena Head and Southfield's Torin Dorn, reach the same spectacular success.

Plymouth's McSween fends off sophomore jinx

"IT REALLY HASN'T been that easy," Donnelly said. "I think the thing that sets this (year's) team apart from last year is experience. Experience is the difference. We just wear teams down."

Both Donnelly and McSween are having good years, even if they, too, started a little slowly.

Donnelly has scored 11 goals so far this season, 7 in the last 6 games. He scored 19 goals last year.

McSween's goal production has been off from last year, but his point totals suggest he's avoiding the "sophomore jinx" so common after having an outstanding freshman year. He scored 10 goals last season and has netted only 1 so far, but he has totaled 12 points.

"I'm not worried about the goals," he said. "They'll come. What's important is that I'm playing good defense. And I think I am."

CC grads may clash in GLIT

Paul Kobylarz and Joe Hamway, graduates of Redford Catholic Central, are two more local players who will take to the ice Dec. 28-29 in the Great Lakes Invitational Hockey Tournament.

Kobylarz, a senior right wing from U-M, and Hamway, a freshman forward from MSU, will square off in Joe Louis Arena as MSU defends its two-time title.

Kobylarz is a native of Livonia and has scored 18 career goals as a Wolverine. He's a fast starter who has made a habit of scoring opening goals for U-M. Eight of his career goals have been the first U-M goals scored in a game.

Prior to his career as a Wolverine, Kobylarz played in the 1982 National Sports festival.

Hamway, brother of former Spartan star forward Mark, is a hard-nosed player who was MVP of his CC team. Hamway was also a first team all-stater his junior and senior seasons in high school. He is a Redford native.

Wasczenski grab is lone spark for MSU

By Marty Budner
staff writer

Michigan State University didn't muster much offense in the first-ever Cherry Bowl Saturday at the Pontiac Silverdome.

So, it was with bittersweet consolation that Bob Wasczenski and Dave Yarema accepted the post-game ritual of meeting with the media.

Wasczenski, the freshman flanker from Farmington Hills, was happy to relive the heroics of scoring the Spartans' lone touchdown, but understandably was disappointed with the 10-6 loss. Yarema, who led Birmingham Brother Rice to the 1980 class A state championship, was simply dejected.

Wasczenski caught the 36-yard pass from Yarema at 10:41 of the fourth quarter. The 6-foot-4, 199-pound receiver darted down the left sideline, stepped back to catch the pass in front of two Army defenders, then lunged into the end zone.

It wasn't pretty, but it reduced the deficit and gave the Spartans some momentum.

UNFORTUNATELY, Michigan State, appearing in its first bowl game since a 14-12 loss to UCLA in the 1986 Rose Bowl, failed to generate any more scoring threats.

It was a contrasting game for the two fighting Spartans with strong Oakland County connections.

Yarema, a sophomore who started all 12 of MSU's games, certainly had better days this season. He completed 11 of 25 passes — most of them in the fourth quarter, but had three interceptions and was sacked six times.

Wasczenski was simply happy to play. And he made the most of it.

Playing in place of a suspended teammate, Wasczenski doubled his season output for receptions.

He outmaneuvered Army defenders for two consecutive fourth-quarter receptions totaling 54 yards. Wasczenski's first grab was good for an 18-yard gain across the middle just prior to the touchdown catch.

"Dave and me were practicing all week, but we weren't planning any two-deep zone coverages. That's what they were giving us," said Wasczenski, who had caught only one other pass this season (good for 41 yards against Wisconsin).

"We couldn't get open down the middle and we were planning on more blitzes which they didn't do," he said. "We had to adjust to crossing patterns and take different steps to attack their defense."

WASCZENSKI, who transferred to Harrison for his senior year after playing at Plymouth Canton, is satisfied after completing his first year of collegiate football.

"Playing at Michigan State is a great experience in itself," said Wasczenski. "It was a tremendous thrill for me (to play in the Cherry Bowl), especially because of our 6-5 record."

"Not that we didn't deserve it, because we did," he said. "But, I'm satisfied. After playing on a winning team at Harrison, I'm glad to be part of this at MSU."

Wasczenski and Yarema may be names heard for a few more years at Michigan State.

JERRY ZOLYNSKY

Bob Wasczenski, ex of both Farmington Harrison and Plymouth Canton, was one of the few MSU bright spots in Saturday's Cherry Bowl.

Pros next step for U-M's Bean?

By Scott Adler
staff writer

Oh, what Vince Bean could have done for Brigham Young University. Or to BYU, if he only had the chance.

Some say Bean, a 1980 Southfield High School grad, could have been the big-play man for the University of Michigan this season from his wide receiver spot but was never really afforded the opportunity. Some say he could have caught twice as many passes in his five years at U-M if the Wolverines ever threw the ball.

Despite his ranking as the No. 4 all-time receiver in U-M history with 93 receptions, Bean was never used as often as his fans would have liked.

A self-proclaimed possession receiver, Bean caught 26 passes for 399 yards (a 15.3 average) and 2 touchdowns this year. He gained a total of 1,514 yards in his career with 7 touchdowns. He averaged 16.3 yards per catch.

"I'm more of a possession-type receiver than a constant deep threat," he said. "But (in the Holiday Bowl) BYU challenged us to throw it deep and I wish we would've (thrown deep) more than once."

The Wolverines suffered yet another bowl defeat last week, this time at the hands of top-ranked BYU in San Diego, 24-17. In that game, Bean grabbed 3 passes for 46 yards.

ACCORDING TO BEAN, there was added pressure on U-M to perform well in the Holiday Bowl because of its regular season record of 8-5.

"With our record in bowl games, there's always pressure, especially this year with our (regular season) record," Bean said. "It did have more meaning this year because we had something to prove; that we belonged there."

Even though the Wolverines gave the Cougars a tough battle, Bean was still disappointed with the loss.

"I felt we were going to win the game," he said. "Even if we would've lost by one point, it would have been disappointing. The problem this year was we gave everybody a battle to the wire, we just came up short all the time."

"I think they're No. 1," Bean added about BYU. "Not just because they beat us, but because they won all their games. They're undefeated."

What does the future hold for Bean, whose stats are impressive, despite playing for a running team?

"I haven't heard from any (NFL) teams directly, but I've talked to a lot of agents," Bean said. "How high I'll be drafted, I don't know. I definitely want to teach, but I don't think it's in my plans right out of college."

BEAN SAID he'd rather play in the NFL than the USFL because "it'd be a lot more convenient."

"In the USFL, I'd have to miss (outdoor) track and not get my degree before I started playing," he said. "I really want to get my degree (health and physical education)."

Bobbitt keys MSU 'D'

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Paul Bobbitt knew his job. "It depended on what kind of option they ran toward me," said the Michigan State strong safety of the Army wishbone offense. "Basically, they ran the crack and load option, which is the quarterback and running back without lead blockers. I just covered the running back.

"I think we did handle it real well. It was as good as you can handle a wishbone. They're going to get two or three yards."

The Spartans were indeed rough defensively against the No. 1 rushing team in the nation, limiting the Cadets to 256 yards (they averaged 345.3 yards per game) in 71 running plays, or 3.6 yards-per-carry. But it was Army that came out on top on the scoreboard, 10-6, in the first-ever Cherry Bowl.

The MSU defense could hardly be faulted for the loss. The Cadets had 15 more offensive plays, thanks in part to five Spartan turnovers (Army lost the ball twice).

BUT THAT'S not unusual. MSU's opponents averaged 19 more plays per game during the season.

That put a lot of pressure on the Spartan defenders. They responded to the challenge, however, earning a great deal of credit for the team's bowl invite.

In the minds of MSU backers, the Spartan turnaround after a 1-3 start came at Ann Arbor Oct. 6, when they upset Michigan 19-7. But the week before, the defense bottled up Purdue in a 13-10 loss. And on Oct. 20, the same defenders limited Heisman Trophy runner-up Keith Byars to 121 yards rushing on 40 carries in a 23-20 loss to Big Ten champ Ohio State.

"We tightened up," said Bobbitt, a sophomore athletically and a Southfield-Lathrup graduate. "As the season progressed, our defense became more aware of the scheme.

"Organization, responsibility, discipline play a big part in our defense. After a while, we were able to control the run and pass just a little bit better."

ARMY'S WISHBONE attack was the first such offense MSU faced this season, but the Spartans effectively stuffed it. Army got just two first downs in the opening quarter and six in the first half. Its only touchdown was the result of a 46-yard drive, set up by a Dave Yarema fumble.

"We were putting them in a situation where it was second down and long," explained Bobbitt. The Spartan safety also thought the defense forced a few more Cadet fumbles than they were credited for.

"They did have a few others we got cheated out of," Bobbitt said. "The refs called it the way they saw it. Unfortunately, they didn't call it for MSU."

What yards Army did gain with its option attack were, for the most part, away from Bobbitt. The Cadets either ran to the short side of the field — Bobbitt was positioned on the wide side — or quarterback Nate Sassaman kept the ball rather than risk a pitch to the back Bobbitt shadowed. Sassaman was the leading rusher in the game with 136 yards on 28 carries.

"I sort of predicted it would be like that," Bobbitt said, "because they run (the option) to the short side most of ten."

DESPITE ARMY'S No. 1 national ranking in rushing offense, Bobbitt was unimpressed.

"Statistically, they were the No. 1 rushing team, but I think it was the competition they played that made them No. 1," he said. Army's biggest rushing days came against Colgate (441 yards), Harvard (381), Montana (628) and Navy (432).

Still, it was Army that won, spoiling MSU's first bowl appearance in 19 years.

Krumm learns a lesson

By Marty Budner
staff writer

It was a combination pre-Christmas/birthday bash for Todd Krumm over the weekend.

Everything, you could almost say, was a bowl of cherries for Michigan State University's fine freshman "in waiting."

Although his only playing time was running downfield to cover two Rolf Mojsiejko kick offs that traveled out of the end zone, Krumm nevertheless enjoyed his participation in the inaugural Cherry Bowl Saturday at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Army, performing with the precision-like style of the ground troops that invaded Normandy, knocked off the Spartans, 10-6, before some 60,000 fans at the stadium and a nationwide audience that watched via cable.

The weeklong hoopla which accompanies a bowl game, plus the pre-game pageantry of music, floats, queens and cadets, was marvelous for Krumm. His only disappointment was the loss.

"It was exciting. You hear about all the treatment players are given at bowl games and that's what happened to us," said Krumm, who will turn 19 tomorrow (Dec. 28). "Everything was first class."

KRUMM WAS a highly regarded three-sport athlete at West Bloomfield High School. Although he was an outstanding football player, and enjoyed basketball, baseball was perhaps his favorite prep sport.

But Krumm was recruited by MSU people in sports

coach George Perles for his gridiron talents, with the sideline assurance he could play baseball if he so desired.

Krumm was listed on Spartan depth charts as the backup to All-Conference free safety Phil Parker, who was named the Cherry Bowl's defensive player of the game.

With Parker as a starter, it virtually was impossible for Krumm to crack the starting lineup. Still he managed to make the traveling squad and was even pressed into service late in the season as a punt-return man.

Krumm, (6-foot-1, 195 pounds) ran back five punts for 23 yards (4.6 average). He appeared in six games and was credited with one solo tackle.

Krumm knew his first year would be a total learning experience with limited playing time. Being Parker's understudy only added to the education.

"He's (Parker) a hard-nosed player with a big heart," said Krumm. "When I see how hard he plays that inspires me. He's made me a better player."

"Coach Perles' philosophy is to never put someone into a situation where you're going to have something bad happen to you. I understood that, unless you're someone like Lorenzo White (MSU's fleet freshman tailback), the freshmen wouldn't be playing that much."

"I experienced Big-10 football and the pressure situations that it involves — no matter how small they were for me," he said. "It was the kind of year where I got a good feel for football, and I had a good example to follow."

SURPRISINGLY, while the Cherry Bowl was sweet, Krumm's personal season highlight was MSU's victory over state rival Michigan Oct. 6 in Ann Arbor. Michigan State's defense played superb and the 19-7 triumph was its first over U-M since 1978.

"All my life I had been a Michigan fan — I grew up Maize and Blue," said Krumm. "But, just being inside the stadium with 100,000 people was incredible."

"We were the underdogs and we stuck it to 'em. I liked the team attitude going into the game — everybody was together. It was great being a part of that atmosphere."

Parker is listed as a junior, which means Krumm's role as a reserve may not change next season. Krumm understands the situation and remains team-oriented all the way.

"I'm hoping to fit into another defensive position. All I want is a chance to participate and help the program," he said. "I want to be successful right along with the program."

"I want to be at my peak while the team is at its peak," he said.

Jennifer Reault: courteous champion

By Kevin Byrnes
staff writer

At times, the concept of "sportsmanship" seems to have fallen out of the professional tennis circuit dictionary. Whether it's harping at an umpire over a call, or responding to an overbearing fan, verbal exchanges on the court have become as commonplace as the baseball rhubarb.

However, Livonia Bentley graduate Jennifer Reault doesn't play to that beat and her actions on the court haven't gone unnoticed.

Reault, a freshman player at the University of South Carolina, was the recipient of the Jean and Jerry Hoxie Memorial Award given to a male or female that exemplifies the best "all-around player" from the Southeastern Michigan Tennis Association (SEMTEA) circuit.

The players were selected by SEMTEA and were not nominated. No balloting took place. A committee, selected by the SEMTEA president, made the choice.

THE CRITERIA included: sportsmanship, player achievement, courtesy to fellow players and involvement in activities outside of tennis. Reault, who played both singles and doubles for the Gamecocks, was happy with the selection.

"I feel good about it," said Reault from her dorm room on campus.

But the freshman wasn't about to continue patting herself on the back. She wanted to talk more about the Gamecock tennis program, or even the recent success of the South Carolina football team.

Regardless, Jennifer's dad Jack, a Livonia realtor, knew her feelings about the award.

"I knew she was very happy about it," he said. "A lot of girls at her age had money behind them, but Jennifer was limited. And when she did better than the other girls, she suffered some verbal abuse."

But Jack Reault emphasized that he and his wife Hilda weren't going to tolerate bad behavior from their daughter on the court. And the warning didn't fall on deaf ears.

REULT WAS courted by a host of colleges, but narrowed her choices to five schools (Wichita State, Clemson, Florida State, Auburn and South Carolina) before settling on SC.

Coach Arlo Elkins, in the process of an ambitious recruiting season, was glad to land a player of Reault's caliber.

"She's done well, but freshmen are freshmen until they're sophomores," said Elkins, sounding more like former basketball coach turned commentator Al McGuire. "We had some injuries in the fall and she (Jennifer) was out of position. I wanted to play her lower (Reault played No. 3 and 5 singles and No. 1 doubles), but the experience she gained will help this spring."

Reault finished 7-5 in singles play despite a sore left shoulder which made serving and hitting a two-hand backhand difficult.

DESPITE the struggle, Reault's high point came when she was selected to play in the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association qualifier. She won her first-round singles match, but lost in the second round to the No. 1 player from Clemson.

Reault, however, put the team ahead of personal ambition. It's something you expect from a Hoxie Award winner.

"The overall high point for me was representing the University of South Carolina at No. 3 singles and No. 1 doubles," she said.

Jean and Jerry Hoxie were instrumental in the development of the modern-day junior circuit. The couple, who hailed from Hamtramck, helped produce numerous players. Among those was Elkins, an ex-touring pro who benefitted from Hoxies' instruction in college.

However, the Hoxies' real contribution came in the form of developing junior tennis when the game was not in vogue.

"JEAN WAS a real tough cookie — a leader," said Hilda Reault. "Very few people were involved (in junior tennis), but she used to go to Ford Motor Co. and beg or borrow for money," she said with a laugh.

But one of many to benefit from Jean Hoxie's work was Jennifer Reault. With the Hoxie Award nestled somewhere in her bedroom at home, Reault looks forward to the coming spring season.

"I'm working on tennis five days a week, and I'm giving all I've got," she said.

Sounds like something the late Jean Hoxie would have said.

Cancer is often curable. The fear of cancer is often fatal.

If you're afraid of cancer, you're not alone. But some people are so afraid that they won't go to the doctor when they suspect something's wrong.

They're afraid the doctor might "find something." This kind of fear can prevent them from discovering cancer in the early stages when it is most often curable.

These people run the risk of letting cancer scare them to death.

Thanks

By Sid Mittra
special writer

On this joyous occasion, I would like to express my sincere thanks to several people who have made the writing of this column a valuable experience for me.

First, I express my gratitude to you. This year, the number of people who critically read this column has increased dramatically, as is evidenced by the large number of letters, telephone calls and suggestions we have received. This not only supplies me with suggestions for topics to cover, but also provides the impetus I need to produce a column of high quality.

Second, I must thank the editor of this column. Always remaining behind the scene, he critically reads every column. Even more important, he makes changes whenever he believes he can improve the clarity of the topic and never fails to challenge a point of view if it appears weak or contradictory.

Third, I should like to thank Dr. Ronald Horwitz, dean of the school of economics and management at Oakland University, who generously provides me with both the encouragement and the opportunity so I may engage in this academic activity.

I would like to end this column with an advice to you which I understand has become fairly well known in this community. During the coming year, please take the time to ensure that your financial house is in order. You can do so by analyzing each of the seven critical areas specified below:

- R Risk management planning
- E Educational funding planning
- T Tax planning
- I Investment planning
- R Retirement planning
- E Estate planning
- D Desired financial independence planning

Wishing you a happy new year.

Power

Melvin Kaleva of Garden City, a truck driver for E&L Transport Co., received a driver-of-the-month award from the Michigan Trucking Association. The award makes him eligible to compete for Driver of the Year honors, to be announced in February. To be entered in the Driver of the Year competition, a driver must be recommended by his company's safety director. Drivers considered for the honor must first possess an outstanding safe driving record.

Sarah Goddard Power was re-elected to a three-year term as a director of the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Please submit black-and-white photographs, if possible, for inclusion in the business people column. While we value the receipt of photographs, we are unable to use every photograph submitted.

Dividends build nest egg

I am in my mid-forties and have just come into $100,000. I have a house and other savings, and we are getting along well.

Would you suggest how I could invest this money so that in 10 to 12 years it might be a major asset and able to greatly enhance our standard of living?

You are in a very nice position. A person in a similar situation recently wrote a letter to Ralph L. Seger Jr., who writes a column for "Better Investing" magazine, and the answer Seger gave is appropriate for you.

Seger pointed out that your money will grow faster if taxes can be kept to a minimum, so he suggested the best course would be to invest in stocks where the corporations were reinvesting most of their earnings and using them to grow.

This means that the shareholders don't get much in the way of dividends, but the growth in the companies may well be reflected in an increase in the price of their stock.

THIS MEANS your income will tend more to be in capital gains where the tax is on 40 percent of gains rather than on fully taxable dividends.

The kind of company you want to look for is one that is earning 15 percent or better per year on invested capital and paying out 30 percent or less of its earnings in dividends. If the company is growing at a good rate, it will be earning you more profit on the retained earnings, and this should cause the price of the stock to advance.

today's investor

Thomas E. O'Hara

of the National Association of Investors Corp.

SEGER SELECTED nine stocks that have these characteristics and also are rated by Value Line as being of good quality and having low risk.

He suggests equal investments in each of the following stocks: AMP Inc., Hospital Corp. of America, Pfizer, Longs Drug Stores, Andrew Corp., IBM, Lawson Products, Loctite, and Abbott Labs.

Note that the average rate of earnings on equity is 19.2 percent and the average payout in dividends of earnings is 28.1 percent.

This means that of the 19.2 percent earnings, 71.9 percent (100-28.1 percent) of earnings is being reinvested each year.

This means there is a good chance the value of these securities would almost double in five years. In five years, your 100,000 would be worth $200,000.

There is no guarantee of course, but the possibility is there.

Thomas E. O'Hara of Bloomfield Hills is chairman of the board of trustees of the National Association of Investors Corp. and editor of Better Investing magazine. O'Hara welcomes questions and comments but will answer them only through this column.

"Presenting pop music to please a lot of people never worked for me," he says. "I have to please myself." Wendell Harrison and Friends features Pamela Wise. Harrison will be at Bricks Nite Spot, 10015 Chalmers (a block south of East Outer Drive), Detroit, Fridays and Saturdays until the end of January. For more information, call 839-2240.

AN ALBUM is very important to a local group's image and pianist Andrea Cheolas, a Troy resident, is well aware of this fact of musical life.

She's been writing songs for her debut album and talking about it for a couple of years. Now, however, the attractive jazz keyboard player who leads a trio says she's finally ready.

"This album has been in process for a long time," said Cheolas, "but I'm finally going to do it."

The album will be recorded this winter in Jack Brokensha's West Bloomfield studio and will include her own tunes.

In the meantime, her Andrea Cheolas Jazz Plus Trio plays Thursdays through Saturdays at Sir Charles Pub in Royal Oak. In her trio are her husband, Chris Snyder, who plays electric and acoustic bass, and Max Kolomitz on drums.

Cheolas' musical style has shown steady growth over the past few years. Her keyboard technique has more strength and flair and her use of the electric keyboard gives the trio an orchestral sound.

She also sings, a new addition to her repertoire, and while she does both standards and originals, her surprisingly strong voice scats solos on top of her keyboard solos.

While Cheolas is no sultry, hard-boiled jazz singer or musician — she still looks like a young girl who wandered into the club, rather than the leader of a jazz group — make no mistake about her music.

Her trio is as hot as the sauce on the Mexican egg rolls which the Sir Charles Pub serves. When the trio takes a jazz classic like "It Don't Mean a Thing if it Ain't Got That Swing" (and what other fusion group in town would think of using this old bebop vehicle?), she and her two accompanists play the heck out of it.

For more information about Andrea Cheolas and her Jazz Plus Trio, call 541-9593. The Sir Charles Pub is on Woodward at Eleven Mile Road.

THE SUCCESSFUL Brunch With Bach series at the Detroit Institute of Arts has been doing very well, thank you, for many years. And even though they start their new year with the popular and comedic eighth Semi-Annual P.D.Q. Bach Festival on Sunday, Jan. 6, it doesn't mean that they don't get some interesting telephone calls.

"People call asking for information about Breakfast with Bach, Brunch with Bach, Breakfast with Brunch, Brunch with brack, as well as Bach with Brunch," said Gregg Bloomfield, director of the Music Department at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

"There are a lot of people who want to come to Brunch with Bach who haven't the foggiest notion who Bach is," Bloomfield said.

Andrea Cheolas and her band, the Jazz Plus Trio, perform Thursdays-Saturdays at Sir Charles Pub in Royal Oak. The group also will record an album this winter featuring Cheolas' original tunes.

Bugs 'Gangster' Beddow funks at Baker's

HIS NAME recalls the gangsters of the 1930s. In fact, as a teen-ager and Dixieland musician at Birmingham Groves High School, he was known as Bugs, the Gangster of the Trombone.

Now he's just Bugs Beddow, the trombone-playing leader of one of the area's best jazz groups. The band has been featured at Baker's Keyboard Lounge and at the Montreux Detroit Kool Jazz Festival.

With his first album, which has been out about a year, doing very well locally, Beddow is planning a European tour. "It's time to send a trombone player over there to represent Detroit," says Beddow, 30, an Oak Park resident.

Beddow is planning his second album. "I'm not sure of the name of the album yet," he concedes, "but I've got one tune written already."

That tune is called "Bugs Funked Egypt." "It's a whimsical, funky song," says Beddow, "and it's another indication of the kind of energy we put forth every time we play."

Beddow plays Thursday through Saturdays at Murdock's in Rochester, 2086 Crooks, beginning at 8:30 p.m. Beddow and his band also will play at Murdock's on New Year's Eve. For more information, call 852-0550.

Bugs Beddow (seated below) is flanked by members of his band — Robert Cote (left), Steve Bostick, Robert Tye and Skeeto. They play at Murdock's in Rochester through New Year's Eve.

WHEN MARK Barnowski — one of the members of the Birmingham-based family group of seven brothers and sisters who make up Relation — was on the nationwide TV program "Star Search," he went head-to-head against Sam Harris.

Harris won and his career is booming. But Relation and Barnowski aren't doing so badly either.

They've just released their second album, called "Only a Heart Away," which was produced by Kim Fowley and David Carr and recorded in Los Angeles.

Made up of tunes that will undoubtedly get Top 40 and Adult Contemporary airplay, this is some of the best material to come from Relation.

The group is finding the initial sales going very well. "We did a couple of songs and went in to sign autographs," says Barnowski about a promotion at Tel-Twelve Mall in Southfield recently. "And the store sold every album it had."

"Only a Heart Away" is available at many local record stores.

ANOTHER VETERAN local group with a new album is one led by Wendell Harrison. Called "Reawakening," the album is the sixth that Harrison has self-produced and sold both locally and internationally.

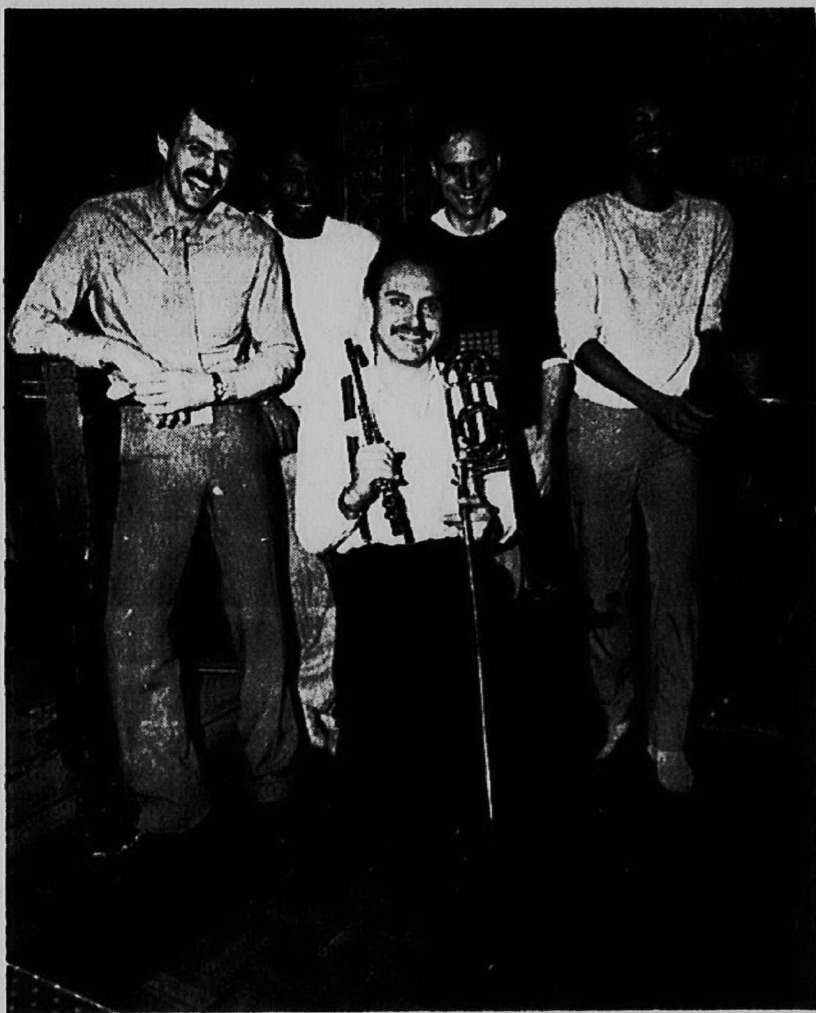

photos by ELIZABETH CARNEGIE

Bugs Beddow also plays the flute, but in high school he was known as the Gangster of the Trombone.

Harrison, who plans a tour of Europe next summer, finds he has fans in such places as Germany, Switzerland and Japan.

A saxophone player who's played with jazz stars of the caliber of Eddie Harris and Leon Thomas, Harrison says he "just a jazz musician."

second runs
Tom Panzenhagen

"She Wore a Yellow Ribbon" (1949), 11:30 p.m. Friday on Ch. 2. Originally 103 minutes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

"She Wore a Yellow Ribbon" — the second film in director John Ford's cavalry trilogy but the one set last in time — finds John Wayne about to retire from the army. Wayne, in heavy makeup and with added paunch, gives the most tender performance of his career. Ford standbys Victor McLaglen (similarly made up), Ben Johnson and Harry Carey Jr. complete the military ensemble, and John Agar, Joanne Dru and Mildred Natwick also co-star. Ford's at his best when making films about military life; unfortunately, each film in his cavalry trilogy ("Fort Apache," "She Wore a Yellow Ribbon" and "Rio Grande") is increasingly weighted by sentimentality. At least the sentiment in the middle film finds an apt outlet in scenes involving Wayne's impending retirement.
Rating: $3.40.

"At the Earth's Core" (1976), 2:40 Friday night on Ch. 7. Originally 90 minutes. TV time slot: 115 minutes.

Quickly now: Name Doug McClure's greatest films. We're waiting. . . . If "At the Earth's Core" and then a series of blanks came to mind, join the crowd. McClure has not had the most distinguished of careers. With his success on TV with "The Virginian" (1964-69) came such forgettable films as "Beau Geste" and "King's Pirate" — drab costume epics in an age when movies were becoming less fanciful and more realistic. "At the Earth's Core" is an imaginative film which, due to a small budget, requires a good deal of imagination from viewers in the special effects department. Still, it's enjoyable film, although not worth waiting up for. Program the VCR instead.

Rating: $2.65.

"Close Encounters of the Third Kind" (1977), 8 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 7. Originally 135 minutes. TV time slot: 180 minutes.

Of all the blockbuster films from directors George Lucas and Steven Spielberg in the last eight years, the latter's "Close Encounters of the Third Kind" is the worst. (Lucas' "The Empire Strikes Back" is a close second, however.) From a pompous, ambiguous beginning to its self-indulgent finale, "Close Encounters of the Third Kind" is a tiresome hodgepodge of family turmoil and endless pursuits. Only some genuinely breathtaking special effects near the beginning of the film make this picture worth looking in on at all. Richard Dreyfuss stars (and overacts excruciatingly), along with Melinda Dillon, Teri Garr and the late Francois Truffaut. Hyped as a classic in its day, "Close Encounters of the Third Kind" does not stand the test of time.

because you can't always put the pieces back together.

"All the king's horses and all the king's men couldn't . . ." And maybe no one can after the real harm's been done.

We're talking about child abuse. After the fact is often too late. That's why the Children's Trust Fund is different. We help before it starts . . . before it's too late . . . before the damage is done.

How? Through programs that provide services and support to families. Educational programs that teach children and adolescents how to protect themselves from child abuse.

Counseling programs that help parents understand and adapt to children's needs.

Programs that provide safe supervision for children in private day care centers.

But it's not enough. To continue and expand these programs we need your help . . . your voluntary contributions.

If you've ever heard a story about child abuse and said to yourself, "That's awful but what can anyone do?" this is your opportunity. Special legislation allows us to collect donations through the Michigan State Income Tax Form. You can just contribute a small amount when you do your taxes. It couldn't be easier . . . or more needed. So, remember us this tax season.

Or send your donation to: The Children's Trust Fund for the prevention of child abuse, P.O. Box 30026, Lansing, Michigan 48909 . . . before any real harm is done.

Chamber players give memorable concert

By Ruth Zaromp
Special writer

The recent program by the Renaissance City Chamber Players (RCCP) at Orchestra Hall proved to be rewarding and enjoyable. In addition to the overall impressive performance, one could favor the talents of Italo Babini, principal cello of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, who was the soloist.

The evening opened with Corelli's Concerto Grosso in G, No. 3, the "Christmas Concerto." The highlight in this was the moment of transference from the allegro to the pastorale where one's attention was aroused by the smoothness in the "change of gears."

There was a sensual peak with warmth and beauty in the pastorale. Although a relatively slow movement, in it, the musicians managed to carry the audience into a realm that is perhaps too beautiful for reality. It is a work such as this that underscores Corelli's significance.

Babini, nicknamed "the great" in our household, followed with Bach's "Adagio." This relatively short piece maintained the feeling of sensuality and beauty of the pastorale movement of the Corelli work.

IT IS a notable benefit that the RCCP features Babini as a soloist in its programs. He is a truly great artist who has all of the qualifications for a solo career but has opted instead for vocational stability. Babini continued as soloist in Tartini's Concerto in A.

The highlight of the evening came after intermission in the Shostakovich Chamber Symphony, Op. 110. Built along the lines of his String Quartet No.

8, it starts out with a slow movement followed with the allegro molto which portrays agitation with the folk type melodies permeating it. The allegretto continues with the presentation of melodies but with less agitation, but the tension was still noticeable, portrayed in part by the shortened notes.

In the two slower movements, marked largo, the cellos provided the principal tone, dark, but rich.

The work is based on a four note theme, D, E flat, C, B, which are the composer's initials, DSCH, in the German notation. This is a device that he also used in other works, among them the Symphony No. 10.

The audience was requested to refrain from applause following this performance as this work "allows us to experience a world of chilling isolation, a world of spiritual hunger and hopeless despair, a freedomless and joyless world," to quote from the program notes by Misha Rachlevsky, artistic director.

However, not to applaud was an effort, for the beauty of this piece was impressive and one would have wanted to stand up and cheer for the sublime talents of the composer as well as for the excellence of the performance.

TO CONCLUDE the program, the ensemble played Bach's Contrapunct No. 1 from the "Art of the Fugue" and it was a string ensemble performance of rare quality. The violins offered a sense of delicacy whereas the bass provided the lower tones in a mode that conveyed the organ's depth and beauty.

Christmas continues at Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village through Dec. 31. The historic homes and buildings are decorated in ways appropriate to the season and numerous craft and cooking activities are demonstrated. Here children see a turn-of-the-century Christmas at the Wright brothers' family homestead.

Michiganians seek warm-weather trips

A respite at a Michigan ski lodge continues to be a favored holiday activity, but more travelers are opting to fly to warm-weather destinations compared to the last Christmas/New Year's period, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Airline travel is up an average 10 percent while holiday bookings at Michigan ski lodges are about even with last year," said Auto Club Travel Operations Manager Jim Drury.

Air carriers report Florida and the Caribbean are the most popular holiday destinations. The most heavily booked days are the Friday through Sunday before Christmas (Dec. 21-23) and the Saturday and Sunday after New Year's (Jan. 5-6). Best days for travel include Dec. 17-19, 25-27 and Jan. 1 and 3.

"Despite a slow start, operators are optimistic that with good snowfall, ski revenue this season will rise at least 5 percent over last season's $134 million total," said Drury.

An Auto Club survey shows holiday business is crucial to a successful season. Thirty respondents reported they take in one-third of the season's profits during the year-end holidays.

MICHIGANIANS SHOULD find space available at most of the state's 17 ski facilities with overnight accommodations. The most heavily booked period is between Dec. 26 and Jan. 2 when six resorts surveyed by the Auto Club have capacity reservations.

Accommodations are available for the New Year's holiday at West Michigan's Boyne Mountain near Harbor Springs, Caberfae near Cadillac, Crystal Mt. near Thompsonville, Hilton Shanty Creek at Bellaire, Nub's Nob near Harbor Springs and Schuss Mt. near Mancelona. Boyne Highlands is filled Dec. 28 through Jan. 1.

Most East Michigan lodges have space throughout the holidays, except Tyrolean Ski Resort near Gaylord from Dec. 26 to Jan. 1 and Sylvan Resort near Gaylord from Dec. 26 to Jan. 2.

All Upper Peninsula facilities with overnight lodging have Christmas and New Year's vacancies except Indianhead near Wakefield, which is filled Dec. 28-31.

Vacationers planning lodge visits should make reservations as soon as possible.

The Michigan Department of Transportation estimates that mileage driven in the state is up about 4 percent compared to last year, a trend that should continue over the year-end holi-

How to make late air reservations

How do you get an airline reservation when you didn't plan in advance, you're in the middle of a busy holiday season and all you can afford is the discount fare. If you walk into a busy travel agent's office, or make one call to an airline, you probably can't. But the judicious use of a little creative problem solving will do wonders in this area.

Example: My son and his wife decided at the last minute to fly home from New York to Detroit for the New Year's weekend. They wanted those highly advertised $45 one-way fares, or at least a good discount fare, but they weren't at all sure that they could get a reservation at any price.

It's holiday season, one of the busiest air traffic times of the year, so it would be easy to assume that there are no flights available and give up before you start. "We'll never get a reservation now, we might as well not bother."

They know better, and so do I, so they'll be in tonight on a Northwest flight while other potential travelers stay home. Let's talk about how to find a difficult reservation in spite of the odds.

FIRST OF all, never assume. Lots of airplane seats fly empty even during holiday times because too many people assume those seats won't be available. Your travel agent can help, but have pity on that very overworked professional. Tell him or her the truth and promise to buy your ticket from the agency even if you find your own flight.

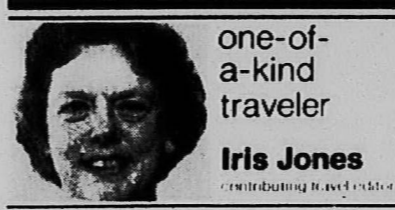

What I would do, for example, is say "Hi Kay, I'm looking for the impossible, and you should tell me whether you have time to find it for me or whether I should help you. I want a $45 ticket from Newark Dec. 27, going back Dec. 30. I know that might be tough. Do you want to try it or are you too busy to make all those phone calls. I'll do some of the calling, and buy my ticket from you anyway, if you can't do it the first time around."

Some people might object to that. After all, a travel agent is there to serve you and a good one will go to work on your behalf. But the reality is that they make very little on a $45 fare, they may not get one right away and they really don't have time to make 25 phone calls, which is what you may have to do to get it yourself.

If you're a good customer, or you call a good agent, they'll certainly try for it, but don't settle for a "no" answer. Go to work on your own.

This is what I do. I call and find out what airlines fly to the destination, in this case New York Air, Northwest and People's Express fly between Detroit and Newark. American and Republic fly to LaGuardia Airport and Pan Am, TWA and Northwest have a few flights to Kennedy Airport. Of those three New York airports, I prefer Newark because my son lives nearby and the lowest fares are usually to that airport.

STEP TWO: I called New York Air and asked for all scheduled flights on the days in question. Not the available

one-of-a-kind traveler

flights, but all of them. (If I don't know the travel date I write down the daily and weekend flight times for later use and get general price information: but that's when I can do advance planning which isn't the case here).

After I get the scheduled flights, I asked which could be purchased at the $45 discount price. At New York Air that's all day Saturday, until 2 p.m. Sunday and on certain flights midweek. Now the question: "What's available?" The $45 flights were sold out, but the $85 flights were available. The return date, Dec. 30, was sold out all day.

Okay. Now I have some basic information. I can book two seats on a $65 flight from Newark to Detroit and cancel if something better comes along but PLEASE REMEMBER THIS: people who book and don't cancel flights are the main cause of overbooked planes that end up flying half empty, putting airlines out of business and threatening our travel service.

Next, I called Northwest. They have a 5:55 p.m. flight on the 27th and I was lucky, there were still two seats at the $45 rate. I booked them and immediately canceled the New York Air flight. It is illegal to hold two flights under the same name at the same time; what people do is book them under different names, but read the paragraph above again before you even consider that.

Northwest was also booked, except in first class (for $99) on the return date, so my next call was to People's Express. You can fly for $45 on Saturday or Sunday, or on certain late flights midweek on People's Express. They were also booked up for Dec. 30, so it was time to go to step three: finding a cancellation.

The reservations clerks will tell you if there is a waiting list and how long it is. They'll also tell you the best times to learn of a cancellation before somebody else does. People's Express did so cheerfully.

Their reservations phone is in Omaha, Neb., (you often call a local number, as I did here, and reach a reservations desk in another city). The travel agents start calling about 7:30 a.m. from the east (that's 8:30 our time) so your chances improve if you call before they do.

They start canceling flights mid-morning, and businessmen and vacationers often cancel after the day's work is done. That means you should call before 8:30 a.m., at noon and about 6:30 p.m. to get first crack at cancellations.

I made a Dec. 31 return flight reservation at $65, just to be sure that they could get home somehow, and set my timer to call People's Express regularly for possible Dec. 30 cancellations. I knew from experience that I would probably get one.

MEANTIME, I did not ignore my other options. New York Air's waiting list was so long for Dec. 30 it was a ready closed. I suddenly realized that had not asked Northwest about their waiting list so I called them back and lo and behold, they had a cancellation in the previous hour and had two seats available for Dec. 30.

It took me some time, but there was with my discount reservation bought at the last minute during peak holiday season. It can be done. (If I hadn't hit the jackpot, I would have started calling the airlines that fly into La Guardia).

Was it worth it? The tickets we bought cost $90 round-trip or $180 for two people. The regular American Airlines fare to New York is $333 round-trip or $666 for two. New York Air, Northwest and People's Express charge $65 one way for coach fare in peak times so that would have cost only $20 more each way, but that's still an $80 saving. You tell me whether it's worth it.

REYE SYNDROME

Reye syndrome is a rare but dangerous condition that can develop from flu or chicken pox. It occurs mainly in children under 16, usually when they appear to be recovering. Watch for these signs:

- Persistent vomiting
- Fatigue
- Confusion and belligerence.

If your child displays any of these symptoms, consult a doctor immediately.

Some studies indicate that there may be an association between the use of aspirin for flu and chicken pox and the development of Reye syndrome. Further studies are being conducted on this possibility. In the meantime, the U.S. Surgeon General suggests that you check with your doctor before using aspirin or any medication when your child has flu or chicken pox.

Community symphonies

Great music can be found in your town

By Mary Klemic
staff writer

Many music lovers need look no further than their own backyards for the orchestra performances they crave.

Community symphonies and orchestras are found throughout the United States, weathering the storms of poor economies and competition from other cities that may threaten from the horizon.

"Any town that is a town at all has to have cultural (activities)," said conductor Carl Karapetian, one of the persons who recently put together the Greater Michigan Symphony Orchestra. The orchestra will be made up entirely of professional musicians.

He estimates there are about 2,000 community orchestras of all calibers in the United States. These range from orchestras in smaller communities, with fiscal responsibilities of up to $50,000, to those in major cities, with finances of $1 million to $15 million.

BUT THERE are some clouds overhead, such as how to attract and maintain an audience of all age groups, and how to pay for the concerts.

"We never get as many people as we would like," said Suzanne McClellan, trustee of the Redford Civic Symphony.

The symphony's membership population has been on the rise for the last four or five years, according to McClellan. Students and civic groups are asked to serve at the four concerts the symphony gives each year, she said. The symphony rehearses in school buildings free of charge.

The Music Performers Trust Fund, established by the American Federation of Musicians, provides half of the Redford Civic Symphony concert costs. If a local community orchestra contains some union musicians, and does not charge admission to its concerts, it may contact the organization's main headquarters to ask for the funds.

Membership dues are necessary. In Redford, they range from $5 (individual) to $20 (organizations and businesses).

EACH LOCAL orchestra offers something different.

This year, the Greater Michigan Symphony Orchestra will present five concerts. Beginning in October, it will have one program a month at the Mai Kai Theater in Livonia. The orchestra will offer instruction in music, something that is needed, according to Karapetian.

"Music is the most attractive of human achievements," he said. "Everyone likes it. But you don't have the vague idea of what happens. It has become one of those grand mysteries. Everyone is in a state of ignorance, and it's not blissful, either."

"People have a suspicion and a sense of dis-ease when they approach music. They really don't know what's happening."

TO GENERATE more interest, the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra began a musicale series of three concerts a season, in addition to its regular six concerts.

"We feel like that's beginning to catch on," said Rex Hatt, first vice president of the orchestra.

"We're one of the few in the State of Michigan that has never operated in the red," he said. "This is because of community involvement, an orchestra with the feeling they can work together and make good music."

The Oakway Symphony Orchestra presents six concert performances a year, and offers young musicians the chance to compete for cash awards and to perform as solo artists.

"The more we play, the more interest we have," said Francesco DiBlasi, music director and conductor.

Redford's symphony features "semi-professional" musicians, residents who may have taken up an instrument after some years to play for the sheer enjoyment. One such person is Winston Churchill, president of the symphony's music society, which he calls its "financial arm."

"I hadn't played (violin) for 15 years until I joined in 1959," he said. "The bulk of the civic orchestra plays for the fun of it."

RAIN COULD fall in the form of competition from other local orchestras.

"The only problem with civic-type orchestras in the metro Detroit area is you have that competition with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra," Churchill said. "You get on the freeway for 10 or 15 minutes (to get to) the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. I don't think there's any comparison between the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and local. They're all professionals. We make mistakes. We're a semi-professional team." "Sometimes competition is good," Hatt said. "If you don't have any competition, there's a tendency to grab onto the status quo."

Dedicated persons are important ingredients in making community music.

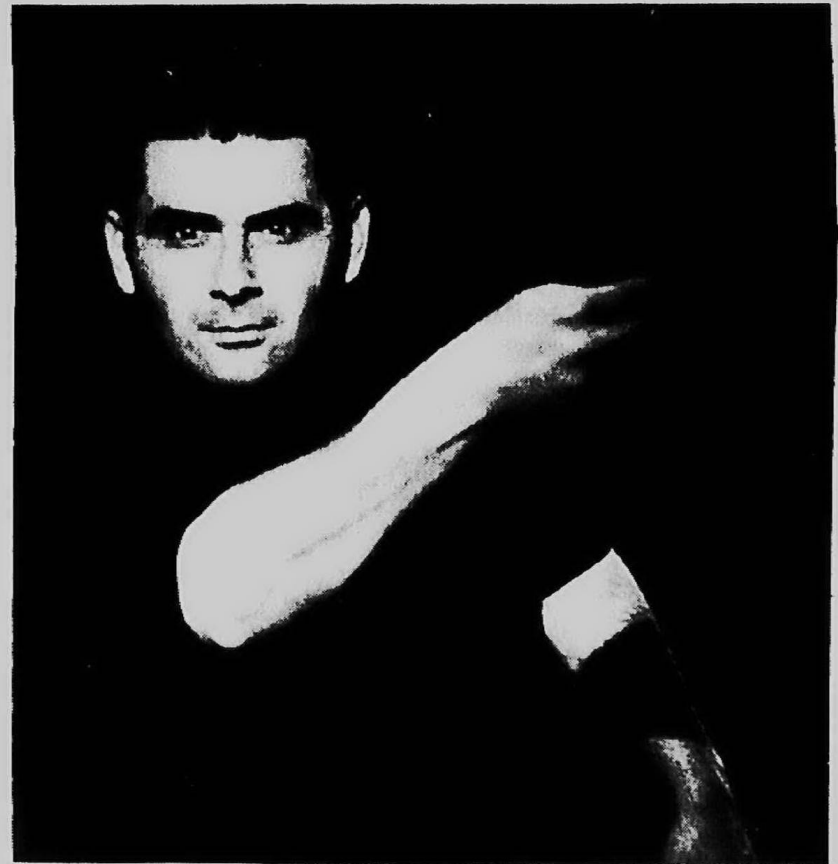

"You have to have people who first of all care about the community, are really, truly concerned," Karapetian said. "There is a segment of the community starving for this sort of cultural opportunity."

BESIDES WORKERS who understand an orchestra's needs, funds are essential. The Redford symphony spends more than $100 for postage alone, and it costs $150 to rent one score of music, according to Churchill.

"In any community you're always going to have the problem of raising money," Karapetian said. "In Europe, you have a different picture. Most of the important organizations are federally funded."

"If you don't have an extra good music director and money you're going to be in big trouble."

"It's mind-boggling, what they would need," Hatt said. "You have to have the backing of the citizenry, a couple people who are really interested and could organize, a good conductor."

Carl Karapetian puts drama into his conducting. Karapetian is one of the organizers of a new Michigan symphony.

Now is time to open gift of art ability

Well, by now people across America are sitting around in an "after Christmas stupor" wondering what they're going to do with their gifts. Grandma is wondering how she managed to get three identical sets of bath powder from three different grandchildren. Grandpa's been wondering for two days now, how to set the time on his new digital wrist watch. Moms and wives are wondering how they are going to be able to return items without hurting anyone's feelings. And last of all and certainly least, Dads and husbands are sitting in their new robes, pajamas and slippers still wondering how to put together the toys Santa brought their children.

All in all, there is nothing like Christmas. For the young, Christmas is a fantasy to experience and for the old it is a treasure chest of memories. For the middle-aged, Christmas is a time to share their children's fantasy yet it is also a singular coin for their future treasure chest of memories. One of the coins in my treasure chest is the "Santa's Secret Shop," at the Cleveland Elementary School, where my children attended. I appreciate all of the socks, ties, shirts, pants, cologne and tools etc. bought in the name of the kids by my wife Sandy.

But I will always remember and smile when I think of the gifts my boys, as little tots, bought at the "Santa Secret Shop." Without the prompting and urging of adults, the little school children browse and try to find the perfect gift for Mom and Dad. Imagine all those little boys with real paper money wadded up tight in their fat little hands. And those little ladies who may have for the first time actually needed their petite purse to carry the money they were entrusted with.

SCOTT FOR example, bought me a genuine plastic replica of a knight in not so shining armor. And I'll never forget the little silver painted plastic dog Kevin gave his mother. This was a real treasure because it had purple rhinestones for eyes. Why I remember it so clearly, is that when Sandy opened the box and lifted the little dog out, one of the eyes popped off right while she was saying how beautiful it was. We had all we could do to keep from laughing. Our gifts from the children over the years range from bowling pin nail clippers and life saver key chains, to hot pads and plastic jewelry. But I'll tell you one thing, you could never separate the little gifts from all the love. And the showing of love is in the giving more than the gift itself.

Perhaps one of the greatest gifts that many are given is a gift that is often overlooked; the gift of art, which is first a gift of sensitivity. Then the sensitivity is brought forth in artistic expression. What a versatile gift.

One finds expression in clay and another by painting, still another finds ventilation in prose or rhyme, one in dancing, another in acting, one must sing while another finds an empty page a challenge for his or her writing abilities. What a shame that most overlook their gift.

Imagine your feelings if the one to whom you have given gifts refused to open them because they didn't believe it was for them. Truly the joy of giving is multiplied when that is given is appreciated. Many of you reading this article have barely tugged at the ribbon of your gift. While others have opened up and enjoyed the expression that any art form offers. Of all the arts, the one of two dimensional and three dimensional representation gives you a second chance. By that, I mean, even if you haven't opened your gift of art ability or further developed your art for many years, it is still not too late to start.

Fortunately our gifts from God require no batteries and come without assembly instructions. Often new students of mine will whisper to me, "I haven't drawn for 30 years, but I used to be pretty good in high school."

What they are pleased to find is that when their gift of art ability was re-opened it was untarnished by its many dormant years. I mentioned earlier that the gift of art ability is first a gift of sensitivity.

PERHAPS IT is a gift within a gift. Like I once opened a small package and found it was a new wallet. But when I opened the wallet I found a ten dollar bill inside. Art ability without sensitivity is just a display of technical skill. But art ability inspired by sensitivity is truly an expression of the artist. So sensitivity and the ability to express it, is truly a wonderful gift. Sensitivity to what? Maybe you are fascinated with the beauty and inner beauty of flowers, then you should express it in paint or pastel. Perhaps you are sensitive to the functional beauty and sometimes ugliness of wildlife, then show your fascination on paper or canvas. What if it is the human body or face that captivates you, then you have a responsibility to express yourself, however you are able. Sculpture may be your best means of expression.

So wherever your interest, whatever your media, express yourself through it and thank God for the gift.

Now often a gift we receive requires that we learn how to use it. Of course art ability requires instruction for improvement. Even the few "gifted" artists out there require technical training to better use their gift. The gift of the "gifted" is, that they already see and feel and know what they would like to say in their art, but they still need to learn how to show it. The "gifted" are few and far between. I'm talking to you, the lady who has for 20 years laid your gift on the shelf and you sir, the man who has been working overtime and couldn't find the time to use your gift. I'm talking to the teen-ager whose busy life of school and dating leaves you little time to draw. At least this week when most people are off from their normal routine take a first or perhaps a second look at your gift of art ability.

To take effective photographs such as this one by Monte Nagler, your camera gear should be kept in top-notch condition. It means you are ready to react to good photo opportunities wherever you find them — even in spooky old houses.

1985 is just around the corner and some of your New Year resolutions should include your photography.

For those of you lucky enough to find a new camera, lens or flash under the Christmas tree, resolve to thoroughly read the instruction manual to familiarize yourself with all controls and functions.

Now is a good time to make sure all your photographic equipment is in good working condition and that all batteries are fresh.

Check into an insurance policy for your camera gear. Premiums are inexpensive when compared with the financial and emotional losses if a camera were stolen or lost.

Resolve to take a photography class in 1985 to improve your knowledge. A visit to the many fine photography galleries in the area will be an exciting and rewarding experience. Don't forget the Peggy and Albert deSalle Photography Gallery at Detroit Institute of Arts.

Take some of your best shots, have them matted and framed and get them up on the wall. Living with photographs will inspire you to go out and take more.

This leads to the most important resolution — take more pictures this year including shots of subjects different than you are used to. Look deeper through the viewfinder, and become tuned to your inner feelings and what you're trying to say with your photograph.

To all of my readers, students, and friends warm holiday greetings and good wishes for a photo-filled 1985.

MOT concludes successful season

By Mary Jane Doerr
special writer

Ghena Dimitrova will be making her U.S. debut in "Turandot" with the Michigan Opera Theatre (MOT) on March 5 and 8, 1986.

The announcement was made at the annual trustee dinner and general director's reception at the Detroit Athletic Club earlier this month, by David DiChiera, general director of MOT. It came prematurely because the news had already leaked out and a New York Time Magazine feature story about Dimitrova was published in November.

Bulgarian soprano Dimitrova is being compared to the world's greatest voices such as Maria Callas, Renata Tebaldi and Birgit Nilsson. Like so many of those singers, she is making her New York Metropolitan Opera debut late in her career in 1987 singing in "Turandot," a year after her MOT appearance.

DiChiera compared Dimitrova's voice to the magnitude of Nilsson's with the quality of Tebaldi's. Last year in New York, her concert version of "Nabucco" received a wild reception. DiChiera failed to mention that Dimitrova was seen last fall on a telecast of her "Turandot" appearance in Verona, Italy.

TV doesn't capture the grandeur of the voice, but her performance was impressive.

Lynn Townsend, chairman of the MOT board of trustees, officiated at a brief business meeting at the Detroit Athletic Club dinner reception during which treasurer Cameron B. Duncan gave a short financial report. He noted the working capital reserve from 1983 to 1984 went from a negative $40,000 to more than $300,000 and cited cuts in expenses of $40,000, excess of $80,000 more than expected from state funding and Cleo Laine's box office success in "A Little Night Music" ($80,000 more than expected) as the reasons for the increase in funds.

Laine brought in the biggest box office in MOT's history with her appearance.

DiChiera gave a report of this season's productions. The sets for "The Merry Widow," purchased for MOT through a gift from Mrs. Charles Endicott, were being rented by opera companies in Dayton and Milwaukee and possibly the Chicago Lyric Opera.

MOT is only the third company in the country to produce "Sweeney Todd," after New York City Opera and Houston Grand Opera. DiChiera noted Judy Kaye's success in the leading role here in Detroit resulted in other opera companies considering her for the role.

The number of subscribers this season reached an all-time high of 5,700. In 1982-83, the number of subscribers was 3,500. It rose 30 percent to 4,300 for the 1983-84 season and another 30 percent this past year.

Townsend, announced the re-election of the board officers: Robert E. Dewar, chairman; David DiChiera, president; Cameron B. Duncan, treasurer; and J. Addison Bartush, secretary.

The 15 new trustees are: Mr. and Mrs. Bennet E. Bidwell, Bloomfield Hills; Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Cascio, Farmington Hills; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Catalo, Clarkston; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Fisher Jr., Grosse Pointe; David Gamble, Harper Woods; Dr. and Mrs. Alan T. Hennessey, Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Martin, Bloomfield Hills; and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schneidewind.

Bennett E. Bidwell and Richard Cascio will join the MOT board of directors who are Robyn Arrington, Donald J. Atwood, Mrs. Donal C. Austin, J. Addison Bartush, John A. Betti, Mrs. Avern L. Cohn, John W. Day, Robert E. Dewar, David DiChiera, Frank W. Donovan, Mrs. Charles M. Endicott, Oliver Fretter, Mrs. Roger Fridholm, H. James Gram, John C. Griffin, Lee Hanson, David B. Hermelin, Mrs. William E. Johnson, Mrs. Charles Kessler, Walton A. Lewis, Julius L. Pallone, Andrew M. Savel, Arthur R. Seder, Jr., Mrs. Richard D. Starkweather, Frank D. Stella, C. Thomas Toppin, Robert C. Vanderkloot, Mrs. William P. Vittoe, Mrs. Sam B. Williams, Donald E. Young and Morton Zieve.

The evening climaxed when David DiChiera took the part of Tamina in a scene from "Magic Flute" where the three ladies for the Queen of the Night (sung by MOT apprentices Ruth Jacobson, Jill Leaseure, Claritha Buggs) sang about Tamina's handsome features.

Buggs, Sharon Bennett and Eric Johnson entertained the audience with solos. Buggs and Bennett were recent winners in the Detroit Grand Opera auditions.
