Out with the old and in with the new

Midnight Monday the history books will be closed on 1984, a year marked by growth in the Plymouth community.

The growth came in different forms to different areas of the community, mostly spurred by a larger, national recovery in the economy.

In the City of Plymouth, growth came in the form of new buildings and facilities. The city appeared to be growing in leaps and bounds.

The administration and City Commission, led by David Pugh, who became mayor in January, oversaw the construction of the Central Parking Lot deck and adjacent Catherine McCauley Health Center. A few blocks away from the deck an addition was built on the Dunning-Hough Library.

Elsewhere, shops and office buildings popped up throughout the downtown area. The Municipal Building Authority, Downtown Development Authority and city building department were kept busy with all the work.

"It was very rewarding to see all of that happen," said City Manager Henry Graper.

But the construction wasn't limited to the city. Development in the township appears to be heading for all-time highs.

The many new shopping and office centers along Ann Arbor Road are evidence of the increased building activity. Interest and development in the Metro West Industrial Park continued to grow throughout the year.

The workload increased to the point the township hired a full-time planning director to spearhead activities. Construction even took place at Township Hall, which was expanded and renovated.

The number of residential building permits in the township also soared as evidence of a growing number of residents.

"During 1984 we maintained the same level of services at the same tax rate, so that no one was the victim of inflation," Township Supervisor Maurice Breen said.

PLYMOUTH'S FESTIVALS grew in size and attendance during 1984.

January's Ice Sculpture Spectacular, the second time for the event, truly became a major event. Chefs from near and far came to Plymouth to compete and the event received national coverage as record crowds braved the cold to wander through the winter wonderland.

The annual Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival in July recorded one of its best years. Thousands descended on Plymouth Township Park to watch the 40 balloon pilots fly their machines.

And the grand daddy of them all, the Fall Festival, was heading for the record books until bad weather interfered.

The September event saw its largest crowds ever the first three days. However, Sunday's annual Rotary Chicken Barbecue, scheduled for the fourth day, was rained out — thus putting the damper on all hopes for a record four-day turnout.

1984 ALSO WAS an election year, which meant changes for the school board and township board.

Flossie Tonda, after many years of service on the board, decided to resign for personal reasons before the June annual election. In that election, board president Glenn Schroeder was defeated and newcomers Nancy Quinn and Les Walker were elected.

In the fall, another new face was added to the board when veteran Tom Yack resigned for personal reasons and Dean Swartzweiler was nominated to fill his position.

As the big red ball descends on Time Square in New York City, questions surface about what the new year will bring.

Closer to home, one of those questions is what 1985 will bring for the Plymouth community?

More of the same, only better, is the answer officials offer.

"I'm looking forward to 1985. I think it's going to be a year of transition," said Roland Thomas, president of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

"It's part of the evolutionary process we all go through. We hope to keep things on an even keel and moving forward," Thomas said.

The school district will attempt a millage renewal during 1985, as well as a bond issue, he said.

"Budgetwise, we will be in pretty good shape for the '85-'86 school year. We, for the most part, have our labor contracts in place for '85-'86. We've recovered from the labor strike of 1983 and morale is high.

"I think it's going to be a good year. We will continue forward with quiet change as we look at such things as the middle school 6-period day which we went to in '84," he said.

LIKewise, City Manager Henry Graper anticipates 1985 will be a good year.

"We should see more development in town," he said. "There will be some projects taking place which I'm not at liberty to announce right now, but we should see a 6-10 percent growth in the state equalized valuation (SEV) in the city."

The rise will come through increased market values as well as construction, he said.

"The construction will be non-tax-able projects which should help the city budget."

Among the top items for 1985, "re-designing the police department and an economic summit with developers."

As Plymouth Township moves toward its own department in July 1985, Graper said the city will restructure the police department.

"The budget this year will be interesting and a difficult experience to put together with the police situation, as well as covering increased costs we see on the horizon," Graper said.

"About February or so, the mayor and I will be meeting with 15 developers who represent the largest single holdings in town," he said of the economic summit.

"We will try to spur their interests in sites around town."

Graper foresees successful festivals and events in town. The ice festival should be "fantastic," along with good turnouts at the balloon and fall festivals, he said.

"This is the second year of an upswing in the economy and we will be doing some things differently than in the past at the festivals."

SOME DECISIONS are in store in Plymouth Township, according to Supervisor Maurice Breen.

Services have been kept at an even level but the time has come for the township to decide if there should be an increase in services, he said.

"We have went the past few years without a tax-rate increase," he said. "As long as there is economic growth we can continue at the same level without tax increases but the time has come to look at increasing services."

Breen said while services haven't increased the population and workload have.

Burglars on rampage in Old Village

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

Christmas wasn't quite as merry for several Plymouth business owners who were hit by burglars last weekend.

At least 10 break-ins were reported to police Monday morning, all at commercial buildings.

"It's possible they're related, but it could be two different persons or groups," said Lt. Robert Commire.

"Apparently they were after cash. They went right past television sets and radios but they didn't really get that much cash," Commire said.

More than likely the suspect or suspects needed money to purchase drugs.

"It seems to go that way from past experience," he said.

The break-ins were discovered as shop owners went to work Monday morning.

The worst hit area appears to be in Plymouth's Old Village section. The others were in the downtown area and one was in Plymouth Township.

BUSINESSES REPORTING break-ins over the weekend included:

- Lotties Beauty Salon, 450 Forest Avenue. A brick was thrown through a back door window. No cash was taken but there was an estimated $50 in damages.

- Town & Country Bakery, 849 Penningman Avenue. Entry was gained by breaking the front door jam. No money was left in the building. There was an estimated $50 worth of damages.

- Havilla and Pietila Insurance, 710 N. Mill. Apparently the culprits threw a rock through a window, unlocked it and crawled in. Nothing was taken or disturbed and there was an estimated $100 in damages.

- Shelley's Chicken, 542 Starkweather. Entry was gained after a rock was thrown through a front window. The culprits took $25 in cash and did another $60 in damages.

- DeCut Hair Salon, 42291 Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth Township. After smashing out the business' glass door, the culprits stole a cash box containing $150. Damages were estimated at $250.

- Old Village Hair Station, 950 Starkweather. The culprits pried open a door, even though it had a deadbolt lock. They apparently bent the door and frame. Nothing was reported stolen and damages were estimated at $400.

- Dave's Carpet Cleaning, 640 Starkweather. After gaining access to the building, the culprits were able to enter several businesses through a common back room, including the Rainbow Resale Shop.

Nothing was reported stolen from either of those businesses. Reports weren't available on two other shops in the building, which were hit.

Have you seen this dog? Woody, a silver teapod poodle, has been missing since August, when he disappeared from a van parked in Northville. Woody's owner is offering a reward. Call Bernice Slanaker at 721-0656.

Dog lost nearby

Has anyone out there seen Woody?
 That's the question Alice Schilinski has been asking for months now, since Woody, her little silver teapod poodle, disappeared from her husband's van. Schilinski has never stopped missing her pet, and recently contacted the Observer hoping someone will provide some information about Woody.
 The Schilinski family lives in Arizona, but visited relatives in Michigan last summer. On Aug. 1, Schilinski's husband parked his van outside a secretary of state's office in Northville and entered the building, leaving Woody in the van. When Mr. Schilinski returned, the dog was missing.
 "My husband was inside two minutes," said Alice, who again was visiting area relatives over the Christmas holidays. "I think maybe Woody thought he was going to get me and slipped out."
 WOODY WAS wearing a tag that bore the family name, street address and telephone number. But the tag didn't include the area code and didn't say that the address is in Arizona.
 About three weeks after Woody disappeared, someone called a Schilinski who lives in the area, apparently after looking up the name in a phone book. This Schilinski was related to Mr. Schilinski but didn't know about the dog.
 Schilinski has taken out ads in the local paper, and now is offering a $100 reward. Anyone with any information is asked to contact Bernice Slanaker of Westland, at 721-0656.

REYE SYNDROME

Reye syndrome is a rare but dangerous condition that can develop from flu or chicken pox. It occurs mainly in children under 16, usually when they appear to be recovering. Watch for these signs:

- Persistent vomiting
- Fatigue
- Confusion and belligerence.

If your child displays any of these symptoms, consult a doctor immediately.

Some studies indicate that there may be an association between the use of aspirin for flu and chicken pox and the development of Reye syndrome. Further studies are being conducted on this possibility. In the meantime, the U.S. Surgeon General suggests that you check with your doctor before using aspirin or any medication when your child has flu or chicken pox.

How suburbanites view downtown Detroit

Residents relate feelings of fear, hope, excitement

By Arlene Funke
special writer

Martha Schultz of Plymouth seldom ventures into Detroit. Most of her shopping and recreational needs are met in her own town and in neighboring suburbs.

Gary Kerr of Redford, on the other hand, several times a year seeks the excitement of Detroit's sports arenas and Greektown restaurants.

The post-World Series violence, reports of crime and Devil's Night fires have sparked much discussion on Detroit.

A reporter recently asked several suburban residents the question: "What do you do in Detroit, if anything?" Depending on who is talking, Detroit evokes feelings of fear, indifference, excitement and promise.

Robert Czapiewski of Garden City, lived in Detroit as recently as three years ago. Others have lived much or all of their lives in the suburbs. Of those who go to Detroit, most mention the riverfront and downtown areas as favorite spots, including Hart Plaza and the Renaissance Center.

"Really, I just don't go downtown because everything is here," said Martha Schultz, a medical assistant who lives in Plymouth. Schultz has lived in Plymouth since the age of 7 when her family moved north from Tennessee.

"I shop in Plymouth, at Westland Shopping Center and at Twelve Oaks in Novi," said Schultz, 41.

"I don't go shopping alone, and I don't go shopping at night. I guess I'm too frightened. There is too much craziness going on."

SCHULTZ AND her husband, Dan, a maintenance worker at Packaging Corp. of America in Plymouth, enjoy taking their two sons to museums and sporting events in Ann Arbor.

"No one I know wants to go (downtown)," Schultz added. "Fear of crime is always at the back of your mind. I have been to RenCen for lunch. It has always been with a group."

Dan Schultz, 34, a graduate of Thurston High School in Redford, went downtown for some of the free activities during the Grand Prix auto race last summer and he enjoys the riverfront and Belle Isle.

"I don't have any bad feelings about Detroit," he said. "It's just being realistic about the situation and being cautious. I don't want to go downtown after dark — not so much out of fear, but not knowing my way around."

Gary Kerr grew up in Garden City and Westland, graduating in 1966 from John Glenn High School. He and his wife, Diane, a 1969 graduate of Franklin High School in Livonia, enjoy attending concerts in Joe Louis Arena. Sometimes Kerr and his male friends attend sporting events in Detroit, followed by dinner in Greektown, east of the downtown shopping district.

"Greektown is a fun place to go," said Kerr, 37, a stock picker at General Motors Parts Division in Ypsilanti. "It's always busy, no matter what time it is. It's fun to go, and the food is good."

Kerr finds the downtown area "fairly safe. I've had no bad experience."

CZAPIEWSKI, a 30-year-old certified public accountant, moved to Garden City three years ago. He had previously lived with his father in a quiet west Detroit neighborhood.

He must often go to the various sections of Detroit (not downtown) to meet with clients.

"I go into areas where I am sure people are afraid, but I'm not." He has never been a crime victim.

Czapiewski and his wife, Gina, who hails from Texas, enjoy the summer ethnic festivals at Hart Plaza. A secretary-bookkeeper and college student, Gina hopes to attend a ballet this Christmas season and she enjoys visiting museums.

"I don't shop at RenCen," she added. "It's inconvenient. Crime is in every large city. I think it's more publicized here."

Also attracted by Detroit's culture is Carole Fugate, a 45-year-old Livonia homemaker. In previous years, she and husband, Charles, an executive for a drug store chain, have had season tickets to the Hilberry Theatre at Wayne State University. The couple enjoy dining at the Lansdowne, Detroit's new floating restaurant, and at Joe Muer's seafood restaurant.

DAN DEAN/staff photographer

Late last Friday afternoon only a few pedestrians were out in the rain near Jefferson and Shelby streets in downtown Detroit. As dusk begins to fall, fog envelopes the Renaissance Center.

"We always take friends from out of town to RenCen and Greektown," Fugate said. "We always go downtown at Christmas and look at the lights. The RenCen has a spectacular view. We don't really shop. We park where it's well-guarded and lighted. We're not foolish."

UNLIKE THE others, Kathleen Edelmayer of Redford, and Pat Milovich of Canton, enjoy downtown shopping.

Edelmayer, a junior at Wayne State University, works part-time delivering attorney's briefs to the City-County Building downtown. She meets a friend for lunch, followed by browsing in the RenCen shops or along Woodward, "mainly because I'm down there anyway."

Disadvantages are the confusing layout of RenCen, and uneasiness about using isolated public restrooms devoid of other people, but Edelmayer ultimately finds downtown a "neat place."

"There is a little bit of everything going on," said Edelmayer, 20. "It has a beauty of its own. More and more stores are going out of business, and what (downtown) used to be isn't going to be. They haven't overcome racial bias. I think that's stupid."

Pat Milovich, who grew up in Detroit, has lived in Canton since 1975. She holds fond memories of Christmas shopping at Hudson's downtown. When that closed, she switched her allegiance to the RenCen shops.

"If you want something unusual, that's the place to go," said Milovich, 38, a clerk-typist for the Canton Police Department. For convenience, she shops at suburban malls.

A divorced mother of two, Milovich belongs to a singles club which takes outings to downtown restaurants. She also enjoys attending plays at the Fisher Theater, business conferences and Cobo Hall, and ethnic festivals at Hart Plaza.

The post-World Series violence was a "one-time thing," and "not indicative of what you find down there," according to Milovich.

Downtown is a "vital part of the city during the day," Milovich said.

"I like to go downtown. One of the problems is, I have trouble finding people who want to go there."

"I don't have any bad feelings about Detroit. It's just being realistic about the situation and being cautious. I don't want to go downtown after dark — not so much out of fear, but not knowing my way around."

-Dan Schultz

Image conscious

It is vital to Detroit's prosperity

A good, positive image is vital to a city's prosperity and well-being.

"The national image of a city is very important," said Peggy Brody, media relations manager for the Metropolitan Detroit Convention and Visitors Bureau in Detroit.

"Any negative image, we have to deal with it. We have to be concerned about how we look nationally," she added.

From the convention bureau's perspective, the entire region, not just the Detroit core city, share in this image. The bureau works to attract conventions and trade shows to communities in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

This non-profit civic association promotes restaurants, hotels, exhibit space and activities throughout the city and suburbs.

Last year, 602 conventions came to the tri-county area. A total of 839,590 convention visitors spent $133 million, according to convention bureau records.

Good people can overcome bad impressions caused by a few nasty individuals, Brody said.

When a group of Indiana senior citizens on tour were terrorized in the aftermath of the World Series victory,

"The national image of a city is very important. Any negative image, we have to deal with it. We have to be concerned about how we look nationally."

- Peggy Brody, convention bureau residents were outraged.

Residents joined with radio station WXYT and officials and staff at the Westin Hotel to bring the Indiana folks back to Detroit for a more pleasant visit.

"We did see, they did come back," Brody said. "Locally, I think that did a lot for the people."

Turn-around story—the Plymouth Credit Union

Part I

"When on Nov. 9, 1957, I called in the press to tell them Daisy was to move from Plymouth to Rogers, Ark.," wrote Cass Hough, "there was a stunned silence for a minute or two, and then a barrage of questions."

That's from Hough's book, "It's a Daisy," published in 1976.

The president of the Daisy Manufacturing Co. wasn't surprised at the reaction to his announcement. You don't uproot a manufacturing plant that has been a landmark, and the community's largest employer, for more than 70 years without prompting lots of questions.

Hough fielded many of them in his book, but did not touch on one which certainly surfaced long before April 30, 1958, when the Daisy plant closed. The question: "What's going to happen to the Daisy Credit Union?"

WHEN DAISY was preparing to move there were 757 people on the factory payroll.

Hough said only 360 of them lived in Plymouth. Of this 360, only 95 Plymouth residents made the move to Rogers. Like the 265 local employees who chose not to follow Daisy to Arkansas, the Daisy Credit Union remained in Plymouth.

The credit union had been established by the firm's employees six years before. In his book, Hough noted that the company not only approved of the employees effort but went out of its way to cooperate with the credit union's loan committee.

"The company encouraged the employees to apply for a federal credit union charter," he wrote. "Their application was approved and charter No. 7275 was granted to the Daisy Employees Federal Credit Union on May 10, 1951."

"The company was delighted to furnish the credit union space for its administrative purposes, and help in every way that it could, realizing that in many instances, because the loan committee of the credit union knew the employees better than did any bank, loans could and would be made that might otherwise not be available to the employees through a bank."

past & present

By the end of 1951, the Daisy Credit Union had 214 members. Cass Hough's secretary, Gwen Baxter, was the first treasurer of the organization. She was followed by David Baker, then Beatrice Foster. In 1952, Edgar Peck, a relative of Charley Bennett, then president of Daisy, was named treasurer and held that post through 1957.

An annual meeting in January 1957, a year before Daisy moved, Frank Heike, the credit union's president, announced that the organization had assets of more than $220,000. Some $640,000 had been loaned since the credit union's start six years earlier.

THE DEPARTURE of Daisy in 1958 created two problems for its employees' credit union.

One was to find new quarters. The other was to surmount the financial situation caused by withdrawals on the part of members who were headed for Arkansas.

Ralph Lorenz, owner of the Mayflower Hotel, remembers what happened next.

"The Daisy was leaving town and moving to Arkansas, taking many of their employees with them. This caused a withdrawal of funds from the credit union and soon it was to be the end of the rope because there were no funds available to meet the withdrawals.

"Ed Hough (who had preceded his son Cass as president of Daisy) asked me to help select a board of directors, and he would assure all of them that not one of his employees was to lose a single dollar. He personally would make up any deficit caused by the rapid withdrawals.

"In rounding up a board, I asked Carl Shear, former mayor and businessman, and Chester Tidwell, a young man in the insurance business. There also were others on the board. We met and found the balance sheet rather out of balance, so in no way could the demand of the credit union be met.

"Several meetings were held and Mr. Hough's plans were exposed to other board members. Two men from the Michigan Credit Union League appeared and offered to show us the way to salvation.

"One of them was George Lawton, who offered to come forward with many solutions — particularly if the charter could be changed to a local community charter. The credit union could become an asset to Plymouth, Lawton told us. We were impressed with Lawton and the directors decided to offer him the job as manager of the new Plymouth Credit Union."

FROM THAT difficult situation 27 years ago there developed through the hard work and financial ingenuity of George Lawton, backed by a number of local business people, a business success of the highest order.

By means of faith, perseverance and lots of elbow grease, what had been the Daisy Credit Union was not only turned from the brink but went on to prosper as a community enterprise. In so doing, it helped many in Plymouth to do the same.

When Daisy closed its plant in the spring of 1958 and spent three quarters of a million dollars to ship 38 carloads and 71 truckloads of the firm's machinery to Arkansas, the Daisy Employees' Federal Credit Union had 231 members, a disturbed balance sheet and assets of $134,514. Since then, its successor, the Plymouth Community Federal Credit Union, has become one of the area's largest financial institutions with over 19,000 members, $50 million in assets and considerable depth in reserves.

Stroller dusts off his crystal ball

When that pious old man with the white whiskers and the scythe places the minute hand on his clock to the bewitching hour of midnight on New Year's Eve, you will hear the beating of drums, the sound of music, the crack of fireworks in the sky, the piercing shots of a rifle, and the blasts of all sorts of noisemakers that are used to bid goodbye to the old year and the welcoming of the new.

For those who remain indoors looking at their television you will hear them yell, "there she goes," when the ball is dropped from Times Square in New York. It is that moment when the last sheet is taken from the old calendar and the new one of the new year is set before your eyes.

And as those fleeting minutes go by, you will still hear the dimming sounds in the distance and know that you have passed another milestone on life's journey.

AND AS THAT moment arrives you are bound to be asked:

"What kind of a year do you think 1985 will be?" It's a natural question and while we cannot be sure just what lies ahead we already have some signs that it will be an exciting year.

In recent months we have seen and read of a heart transplant — something that was seemingly impossible only a few short months ago. We have activity in the sky with the latest planes flying their way in travel like no one ever dreamed when the Wright Brothers designed the first plane. With them will come a further reduction of rail travel and it will seem like a new world.

You will see a change in industry with robots

the stroller
W.W. Edgar

taking the place of men and women on all sorts of jobs. And you'll see our auto industry turned into a world affair with the parts being made overseas and then assembled over here. It will be a queer sort of world. But the signs already point that way.

You'll see many things in the medical profession and maybe we'll see the end of the frightful pain which now is recorded as the aftermath of shingles and one of the worst pains a mortal can suffer.

THERE ARE many ideal things that already have showed signs of reality in the new year. Even our eating habits might be changed.

And with the increase in population, you'll see a change in the way of living. There will be fewer single homes. In their place will come the condominiums that not only provide living space but make better use of the ground available in the residential areas.

It may seem possible that the right methods are being taken to decrease the national deficit and make living a little more pleasant. With this will come great changes in the financial world and our dollar will become much stronger.

Along with all of these we might see the return of the family dinner on weekends and holidays. They once were the lifeblood of the land. And as these things happen, living will become more pleasant and we may not have countries across the ocean trying to belittle the American way of life and cheapen our military ability.

We have had changes before but none to compare with what lies ahead.

It will be a fight for the younger generation to meet, but the opportunity will be there.

In the years gone by, we've had slavery, a depression where even the rich men of the country stood on the street corners selling apples. But we survived them all. So, nothing faces us that can't be beaten.

We could be well on our way to peace in the entire world — if we really try.

A CAUSE WORTHY OF YOUR SUPPORT
The citizens of Michigan can be proud of the work being done by its physicians in the area of arthritis research. Studies underway at state medical centers include investigations into: the chemical reactions that control the regeneration of cells lining joints; the cause for the development of muscle inflammation in the immune complex disease polymyositis; and analysis, at the molecular level, of how cells regulate their response to invasion by foreign proteins.
The Michigan Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation is a leader in the area of arthritis care; its self-help programs have provided a model for the nation. The foundation has helped hundreds of people with arthritis to learn how to efficiently use their muscles and joints and to conserve their muscle power despite the burden of arthritis.
The physicians and arthritis foundation staff need your support just as people with arthritis need physician and arthritis foundation assistance. At this time when charity is uppermost in our minds remember the Arthritis Foundation. Donations can be sent to:

ARM AND SHOULDER PAIN
Neck strain from poor posture, or from an accident of some kind, can result in a variety of shoulder, arm or hand problems, with accompanying pain. The cause is often an irritation or "pinching" of the large nerves in the neck as they leave the spine and extend into the extremities. An understanding of these conditions can help you avoid problems and suffering.

Growth a highlight here of 1984

New faces also will appear at the administrative level as John Telford took another job and the board named Plymouth Canton High Principal Kent Buikema as the new executive director for secondary education. The board is now searching for a new principal for Canton High.

Dave Dursam left as assistant director for community education with Sharon Stroom named as replacement. Carl Battishill resigned as assistant band director at the high schools to take a job with West Bloomfield Schools and Fred Thomann ended his long career as head basketball coach for the boys team to become girls cage head coach at Plymouth Salem High.

The August primary really settled township races as no Democrats ran for elected positions.

Political newcomer Mary Brooks beat veteran Trustee Barbara Lynch in a surprising race for township treasurer. That seat was vacated by Joe West, who decided to retire after a long stint in township government.

Longtime Trustee Lee Fidge also decided not to run for re-election and two new faces came on the board — Abe Munfakh and Jim Irvine.

Judge Dunbar Davis, for whom the 35th District Court building is named, retired. In the hottest local race of '84, former Northville Township Supervisor John MacDonald beat former Canton Supervisor Robert Greenstein for Davis' seat.

Davis, ending a long and distinguished career, was honored at numerous parties and tributes.

THERE WAS growth in the school district during this year.

After being closed as an elementary school, Starkweather was reopened during 1984 as an adult education center — the first of its kind for the district. The center offers a variety of credit and non-credit classes for those seeking a high school diploma as well as those already graduated.

After years of enrollment decline in the late '70s and early '80s the pupil count edged up slightly in 1984. General state aid, for the first time in recent years, actually increased this year and there were no executive-order cut-backs during the year.

The stabilization in state income sources, and the increase in student enrollment, resulted in an increase in staffing so that almost all laid-off certified staff eligible for recall have been called back to their jobs.

The school district completed an energy audit and is selling bonds for a wide variety of energy-saving construction projects districtwide.

Another important financial highlight of 1984 came in October when voters approved a tax proposal for an additional 1.75 mills.

1984 was a big year also for the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Marching Band as the high school musicians went undefeated in competition throughout the year and capped the season by capturing the state title at home.

The school refined its attendance policy and expanded its substance abuse policies to include the elementary level. Administrators, teachers and staff members continue to refine Goal Based Curriculum and Zero Based budgeting programs.

City hit by rash of B&Es

Gino's Pizza, 40504 Ann Arbor Trail. A cinder block was thrown through the business' front door. Apparently entry wasn't gained, although there was an estimated $200 in damages.

Headstart, 412 N. Main. Entry was gained by breaking the glass in a door. The culprits stole $25 in cash.

POLICE ARE continuing their investigation of the break-ins and ask anyone who may have observed something related to the crimes to call Commire at 453-8600.

Commire encourages business owners to avoid leaving cash in their buildings and to make sure doors and windows are locked.

If cash is needed to open the shop in the morning, Commire suggests the person who opens the store take a cash bag home rather than leaving it in the building overnight.

Shop owners also should consider installing "double-keyed" deadbolt locks on doors with glass, he said. By doing so, the possibilities of having someone break the glass to unlock a door are reduced.

85: Restructuring services

"In the next 12 months the township board, and therefore township residents, will be considering the level of services with which they're comfortable."

Two of the major areas to be addressed will be police service and the library.

"The start up of a police department will be of some magnitude to the township," he said.

Trustees also have raised the issue of a district library to replace the current shared services with the City of Plymouth.

"Actually 1984 has generated most of the questions to be addressed during 1985."

Breen also sees '85 as a year of continued economic growth.

"There's a lot of projects on the drawing board, and we have no reason to believe that's not going to continue," he said.

If you still believe in me, save me.

For nearly a hundred years, the Statue of Liberty has stood on the edge of the New World, America's most powerful symbol of freedom and hope. Today the ravages of almost a century of weather and pollution have left their marks. Corrosion has eaten away at the iron framework. New holes continue to appear in the copper sheets that form the exterior.

Less than a mile away, on Ellis Island where the ancestors of nearly half of all Americans first stepped onto American soil, the Great Hall of the Immigration Center is a hollow ruin. Rooms are vandalized, passageways overgrown with vegetation, walls crumbling in decay.

Inspiring plans have been developed to restore the Statue and to create at Ellis Island a living monument to the ethnic diversity of this country of immigrants. But unless restoration is begun now, ceremonies marking the hundredth anniversaries of these two landmarks in America's heritage could be held in commemoration of national treasures that no longer exist. Sections of the statue have already been declared unsafe and closed to visitors. The 230 million dollars needed to carry out the work is needed now.

All of the money must come from private donations; the federal government is not raising the funds. This is consistent with the origins of the Statue. The French people themselves paid for its creation. And thousands of American school children contributed to its construction and to the pedestal.

The Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Centennial Commission appointed by President Reagan is asking every American business, every American citizen to join in raising these funds. The torch of liberty is everyone's to cherish. Could we hold up our heads as Americans if we allowed the time to come when she can no longer hold up hers?

One hundred years ago school children gave their pennies to put her up. Your dollars can keep her from falling down.

'Starman' brings out the best in us

"Starman" has been dismissed somewhat off-handedly as "E.T." for adults. That is a mistaken interpretation of director John Carpenter's very well-made and entertaining film.

When the Starman (Jeff Bridges) approaches earth, having learned earth languages from the U.N. Secretary-General's welcome broadcast to extra-terrestrials from the Voyager II Space Probe, he is promptly shot down by the accurate but xenophobic rocketry of the U.S. Air Force and a shadowy government bureau for extra-terrestrial contact.

THE ALIEN'S craft crashes near the isolated Wisconsin home of recently widowed Jenny Hayden (Karen Allen) and the alien clones himself to look like her dead husband. This provides quite a shock to the widow Hayden.

The alien has three days to rendezvous with his mother ship at Meteor Crater in Arizona. Much against her will, Jenny drives him to Arizona. They are pursued by the hordes of officialdom, led by government agent George Fox — actor Richard Jaeckel at his bureaucratic best.

THE REAL charm of "Starman" is not the plot line but the way in which the story is told and the sprightly and whimsical ways in which Jenny and the alien interact during their 2,000-mile odyssey.

Jenny's initial shock and fear turn to love and concern as this alien being who resembles her dead husband learns to interact with humans and as he

the movies
Dan Greenberg

expresses the best of human attributes: love and concern for one's fellow creatures.

Jenny Hayden and the alien Starman are warm, caring individuals whose relationship blossoms under stress.

The realistic understatement of their difficult journey and Jenny's shock in coming to grips with such an unusual situation project more natural human characters than we usually see on screen, particularly in science fiction.

UNLIKE "DUNE" and "2010," "Starman" wisely confines most of its visual displays to lighting shifts. It is not at all remarkable that contemporary audiences recognize a pulsating bluish-white light as indicative of something supernatural.

Such a visual technique is particularly effective when the actors project a realistic sense of character. In "Starman" Jeff Bridges does it with a vaguely middle-European accent and a halting delivery, as if he were in shock.

This is quite appropriate under the circumstances, with his having crash-landed and assumed a new body.

"STARMAN" also features some intelligent and nicely understated discussion of the human role in the vastness of the universe. One government agent is more interested in learning about extra-terrestrials than in capturing them.

He effectively conveys his enthusiasm for investigating the universe's potential, as opposed to the others' mania to control.

"Starman," "Dune" and "2010," among the leading current sci-fi films, are motivated by the messianic message of the season. All three present the Christian message of peace on earth through the good offices of a super being.

In "Dune" and "Starman" the messiah is procreated in a supernatural situation but born of woman. Particularly in "Starman" the parallels to Christ's story are very close. In both cases, orthodox Christianity may be offended but, in "Starman," there is a redeeming feature.

THE WARMTH, humor and realism of "Starman" provide pleasant entertainment and a positive message about the best characteristics of humanity and other creatures as well. "Starman" should brighten your holiday season.

Best wishes for a healthy, peaceful New Year!

Karen Allen is kidnapped by the alien, Jeff Bridges, and forced to drive him to Arizona's Meteor Crater. Along their 2,000-mile odyssey, however, they fall in love in "Starman."

Karen Allen and Jeff Bridges star in "Starman," director John Carpenter's film about a friendly alien who accepts the Voyager II Space Probe's invitation to visit earth. The film, rated PG, is at neighborhood theaters.

NEVER AN OLD year ends without some looking back, some retrospection. All periods of time bring their ups and downs, their pluses and minuses — take it a day at a time or a full year. That's life.

Looking around the community there are many people in my plus column. And to them goes a big thank you and wishes for a very Happy New Year.

The Plymouth Community Chorus is one of the biggest success stories around. What a pleasure it has been to watch it grow to a 130-voice with three Christmas concerts to accommodate its fans. Happy New Year to Bill Grimmer, who led the chorus in its early days, and to Mike Gross, who brought it to its glorious maturity. The lovely Carol Chen, accompanist for many years, should share the accolades, although she left the chorus this year. To those good friends, Mickey Kivell, who keeps us posted on chorus activities, and her cohort, Sue Warmbier, all the very best in 1985.

AND SPEAKING of friends, Ruth Barney deserves a dozen red roses for the sheer spunk award. She keeps everyone going, no matter how she feels. Those wonderful people Fran and Doug Kerr, Al O'Dell, Jack Wilcox, Wanda and Joe Krause rate a shining new year.

When it comes to counting my blessings, neighbors like Vi and Curtis Powell and Sharon and Bruce Barow are at the top of the list. A very good new year to all of you, and Jody and Paul, too.

OUR ARTS COUNCIL friends had another super year. With the follies coming up in February, 1985 promises to be a busy one. Signing up for a spot on a chorus line is a pleasant way to shed that extra holiday poundage. All the best to Doris Chatterley, Janet Campbell, Rosemarie Kramer, Therese Gall and all the rest of the PCAcers. I could fill a whole column with your names.

The Symphony Leaguers rate special recognition for keeping the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra going. Their fund-raisers not only support the orchestra, they add to the social and cultural life of the community. Happy New Year to board members Lara Hanshu, Shirley Wold, Judy Morgan, Cindy Merrifield, Carole Brandt, Martha Morrison, Marcia Barker, Ann Waite, Linda Anderson, Joyce Dorwaldt, Eleanor Shevlin and Pat Centofanti. To every group chair and every member of the league, all the very best.

THE BUSINESS and Professional Women of both Canton and Plymouth make outstanding contributions to their communities. To all of you, a great new year.

To Nancy Vernon, Pat Dunbeck, Ann Nelswander, Barb Greaney, Marilyn Johnson, Diane Coleman and all the members of the local branch of the American Association of University Women, a Happy New Year. For the AAUW, every year is play year. In 1985, it will be "Peter Pan" with Cathy Fife in the lead role, Sharon Belobradich as the wicked Captain Hook, and Becky Copenhaver as Wendy. And their stupendous used book sale is a year 'round project.

What would we do without these volunteers?

The League of Women Voters had an especially busy year because of the presidential elections. Have a good new year and, hopefully, an opportunity to rest on your laurels.

THE COMMUNITY'S oldest service club, the Woman's Club of Plymouth, continues its important role in the area. Happy New Year K.C. Mueller, Carole Hackett, Mary Childs, Elizabeth Holmes, Rita Maly, Evelyn LeFever, Linda Pawling, June McKenny and all the ladies of the club.

When it comes to club newsletters, Bruce Richard ranks high as an editor of both the Plymouth Historical Society and Plymouth Lions Club publications. Happy New Year Bruce and Doris. And all the best to those people who preserve their community's past, Dorothy West at the Canton Historical Museum, and Barb Saunders, Ruth Jacobs, Margaret Kidston, Betty Childs, and all the rest of you at the Plymouth Historical Museum.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Someone teeped a high school swim coach's front yard and decorated it with campaign signs. whether or not publishing the picture would encourage the perpetrators — so it was set aside. At the time, there was some discussion as to

Who are they? This picture was sent from Crawford, Neb., with no explanation or details about the wedding.

Exclusive: Previously unpublished pictures

NOT EVERY shot taken by a news photographer is published. In fact, the photographer does not print a major percentage of shots taken.

When an assignment calls for a single picture, Bill Bresler probably will shoot several. After processing his negatives, he selects the best one for printing. Sometimes he'll finish two, a horizontal and a vertical, giving an editor a choice when laying out a page.

When he has an assignment to shoot a picture page, he may take a roll of 36 or more. Again, he makes selections from the negatives and does not print every frame. There are occasions when an editor asks for three pictures and then can use only one or two.

PARENTS sometimes are disappointed when their children are photographed at a community or school event and the picture never appears in the paper. This is because the photographer does not approve of the quality of the negative. Or, it may be that the photographer has caught the subject in an unflattering pose and publication would be an embarrassment.

And there are times when perfectly good pictures do not make it into the newspaper. Sometimes it is the photographer's favorite shot.

THE PHOTOGRAPHS on this page were not published for various reasons. But some people are packrats by nature, and can't throw them away.

All were taken in 1984, except the one of Jo Hulce and granddaughter, Maggie, which was taken by Gary Caskey several years ago at an arts and crafts show.

Marilyn Whittaker (left) and Nancy Sharp obviously are displaying the perfect reactions to a perfectly lovely grandchild. But pictures of artists and craftsmen must have had priority over this meeting when it came to publication.

GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

RICK SMITH/photographer

Class reunion pictures always are fun to publish. But there wasn't room on the page for this shot of the Plymouth High School Class of 1954.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

This was a case of too many good pictures. The photographer was shooting a picture page of the summer Bible school session at First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth. There were too many things going on in the Biblical times village set up on the church grounds. This great shot of one of Tribes of Israel at morning prayer in their tent did not make it. Sometimes a wide choice of excellent photographs can be a problem.

Holiday cheer: a look at 1984

EVERYBODY ELSE on the sports staff has had their say at the end of 1984, so here goes some New Year's Resolutions for myself and Observerland sportsters.

There's been a lot of criticism of referees during the past year. Now it's time to praise some of the better ones.

I wish Garden City's Bob Dropp would win a state baseball title the way Emil Majeski did at Thurston last year.

I haven't seen the Stevenson basketball team yet, but I hope they're playing with the enthusiasm of a Magic Johnson.

You've got to feel for Plymouth Salem boys basketball coach Bob Brodie, who took over for Fred Thomann. It's quite an adjustment and I hope the people at Salem realize that. The fans have to have patience.

With the closing of Bentley, hopefully Tom Lang will be coaching a varsity girls basketball team soon in Livonia. He should be a No. 1 priority when a vacancy appears.

AFTER BEING NO. 2 in the state last year, the Stevenson girls volleyball team should have only one thing on their minds this year: No. 1.

I hope the Farmington Harrison fans support their football team next year like they have the past four years with John Miller.

Tom Niemi honored his two-year commitment at Livonia Bentley so I hope he goes out a winner (he's 2-2 so far). Then I hope he's a No. 1 priority in Livonia when a boys basketball coaching vacancy appears.

Farmington's football team shouldn't rest on a 6-3 season. The Falcons can be better in 1985.

Hope to see Mike Teachman's Harrison basketball team challenging for the Western Division side of the Western Lakes Conference. That victory over Salem could do wonders.

Wouldn't it be nice to see Bentley go out a winner and capture a team state title? Is the girls soccer team listening?

How about Livonia's Al Ifrate (and Toronto Maple Leaf) on the All-NHL Rookie Team?

NOW FOR some of the crimes, disappointments and oddities of 1984.

How could Observerland football coaches leave off Catholic Central wide receiver Ron Wandzel, Bentley safety Pat Schnieder, and Franklin lineman Doug Sutter from the All-Observer first team? Show 'em in college, fellas!

More sadly, a Garden City football team went 7-2 and didn't place anybody on the first team, and only one on the second team.

The biggest heist of the year, however, was the way the Western Lakes Conference raided the Northwest Suburban League, excluding Garden City and Redford Union. Enough said.

It was sad to hear that two Thurston softball players were fighting on the on-deck circle in a game last spring.

It was sad to see that Redford Bishop Borgess and Farmington Harrison couldn't win a girls basketball game. Hang in there, Mike Resmer and Gary Sine.

It was also disappointing to see a talented John Glenn girls basketball team lose in the first round of the districts.

What a crime to see such well respected coaches Fred Thomann, Brian Gilles and Tom Williams step down in Plymouth because the administrators wouldn't give them the support they needed.

Wasn't it ridiculous to watch the state high school football playoffs being played in the mud?

It was sad to see that All-Observer running back Fred Owens play only three games his senior year after going down with a knee injury.

It was a crime that Bishop Borgess guard Joe Gregory was left off the first team in the All-Observer balloting for boys basketball.

ENOUGH ABOUT the bad things. How about the good things that came my way.

Watching little David Lee of Garden City battling the giants on the football field was something to behold.

What nice touch having the Observer-Eccentric All-Star Girls Soccer Game for the second straight year, even without a P.A. system.

What a job Fred Owens, Chuck Gregory and Co. put on at the Observerland Track Relays. Hats off also to Fred Price and his Churchill staff for running the meet.

It was great to watch a girls basketball team overachieve like the Franklin girls basketball team did. I'll take people like Jill Phillips, Carolyn Smith, Gayle Cheadle, Kris Lovich and Tracy Lectka on my team any time.

What about the job Tim Newman turned in as girls basketball coach at Franklin? Not bad for a young coach.

And how about Andy Rama, the CC sharpshooter in soccer? What a great season he turned in, capped by a berth in the prestigious Dapper Dan Classic.

WHAT A GREAT decision Schoolcraft's Carlos Briggs (the nation's leading junior college scorer) made by going to Baylor. The Bears, 5-23 last year, are 7-1 with Briggs, who leads the Southwest Conference in scoring at 23 points per game.

You've got to admire the way the Stevenson boys soccer team conducted themselves after losing a heartbreaking game to Troy Athens in the state finals.

Hats off to Sherrie Sudek of Stevenson, Observerland's lone state champion in girls swimming.

Ex-All American still winning

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

"Hello, is Paul Petersen home, please?"
"No, Paul won't be back till later on tonight. He's out skiing."

Skiing?
Paul Petersen, the most successful swimmer ever to come out of Plymouth Canton High, out skiing?

What's going on? Last time we checked, Paul was swimming for Indiana University — perhaps the most prestigious swim school in the land.

What in the world is he doing skiing in the middle of swim season?

The answer was simple. Paul Petersen the swimmer no longer swims. He skis, he lifts weights, but more importantly, he studies — he's finishing up his undergraduate studies at IU.

Perhaps at this time next year we'll be calling him Paul Petersen, the investment broker (he's a finance major) or Paul Petersen, the would-be dentist (he's applying for dental school).

For certain, though, Paul Petersen is not your average run-of-the-mill 22-year-old college senior.

HE GREETES you with a warm smile and a firm handshake. His appearance is that of a corporate executive on his day off. He wears designer jeans, shirt and sweater upon his stocky, muscular physique. His serious, alert expression and receding hairline seem to contradict his actual age. There is a look of maturity about him, a look of success.

Indeed, he is mature beyond his years. And, he has known success in nearly every phase of those years.

Yet, he has also tasted failure and disappointment. He shrugs those off with a simple, "I'd rather not dwell on that."

In 1972, at age 10, Petersen set a national AAU swim record in the 100-yard breaststroke. At age 12, he retained his No. 1 national ranking in the breaststroke, as well as gaining national rankings in every other event.

"When I first got there it was hard. I wasn't winning the races. That was different. It was kind of an eye-opener. It made me realize how much harder I had to work. But I was up to it."

— Paul Petersen
ex-IU swimmer

His success continued in high school. In his junior year he was state champ in two events, the 100 butterfly and the 100 breaststroke. He was named All-American in the breaststroke. He led the Chiefs to Western Six championships in both his junior and senior seasons.

His prep achievements weren't limited to the pool. He excelled in the classroom as well. He was named the top scholar-athlete in 1980, his senior year.

PETERSEN COULD have gone to any college he wanted. Scholarship offers were numerous. But, he chose Indiana University, a school that did not offer him a scholarship. Why? Because IU was the best.

"Of course, they have the great tradition," he said. "Coach Doc Counsilman, the best coach in the country, recruited me out of high school. I like the campus, I liked the school and I liked the swim program. It was everything I envisioned college to be like."

Not such a tough choice after all, was it? But the adjustment it forced upon Petersen was intense. He had been the star all his life. Suddenly, he was one of 40 others trying to make a swim team.

"When I first got there it was hard," he said. "I would make all the workouts, but I wasn't winning the races. That was different. It was kind of an eye-opener. It made me realize how much harder I had to work. But, I was up to it."

It took just two months before Petersen was swimming with IU's best.

"When I say I was able to keep up, I mean, everybody on the team is capable of winning a Big 10 championship. That's how tough everybody is," he said.

Petersen never became the "star" at IU. He never expected to. He was just one of 40 guys on the IU swim team. In fact, although the team was Big 10 runner-up in his freshman and sophomore years and champions in his junior year, he never swam in the Big 10 conference meet.

"THAT'S KIND of a strange thing. The Big 10 allows each team to take just 16 swimmers to the league meet. I think it's a bad rule. Anyway, the coach never chose me."

Disappointed? Sure. Bitter? No way.

"Even though I never swam at the big meet, I was still part of the team," he said. And saying you swam at IU is the equivalent to saying you played basketball at UCLA under John Wooden.

"I was able to swim with some of the best swimmers in the world," he said. "I have no regrets at all. I'm just happy I was able to be on the team."

Yet, Petersen left the swim team after his junior year. He was nearing the end of his undergraduate studies in finance and he had begun to take on a pre-dentistry curriculum on top of it. He was beginning to doubt whether he could devote all the time needed for both his studies and his swimming.

"You can't make a living from swimming and I knew that," he said. "I was at school to get an education. That was my top priority."

STILL, HE began the season with the team. He had hurt his knee playing intramural football and it began to nag him, slow him down. He decided to give up swimming.

"Yeah, it was tough to give it up. I had been swimming since I was seven," he said. "But, I keep active. I don't miss it too much. I certainly don't miss getting up at 6 a.m. for workouts. I do miss winning, though. I miss the feeling of getting psyched for the big meet and winning."

Paul Petersen could have gone to any other school in the Midwest and been a star. He could have gone to any other Big 10 school and competed in the conference meet. But, he chose to attend IU — and, without fanfare, without headlines, without winning a Big 10 championship, he has groomed himself for a successful career. Paul Petersen, the ex-swimmer, has done all right.

"I'll see you guys later," he said. "I'm leaving tomorrow for Vail (Colorado). Going skiing."

CC humiliated in tournament

By Brad Emons
staff writer

It had to be a sleepless, restless Thursday night at the Sheraton Hotel for the Redford Catholic Central basketball team.

The Shamrocks rode into the Lansing Eastern Holiday Tournament with high hopes and a perfect 3-0 record. And surely the Shamrocks would be meeting either host Lansing Eastern or perennial Ohio power Toledo St. Francis in Friday's championship game.

But coach Bernie Holowicki and his CC cagers found little comfort in Capitol City as Okemos handed the Shamrocks a humiliating 88-41 defeat.

Longtime CC followers may be hard pressed to find the last time their basketball team was beaten by 47 points.

"This is the worst defeat since I've been here at Catholic Central and maybe the worst I've ever had in coaching," said a distraught Holowicki. "CC is a proud school and I'm a proud coach, but some guys who wore the jersey didn't play tonight."

IT'S NOT that CC took Okemos lightly. The Chieftains have a pretty good track record, winning two Class B championships under the expert coaching of Stan Stoiz.

"We came in with a purpose because we were playing a much publicized team and a much publicized player (John McIntyre)," said Stoiz. "We played under control. We showed good poise and good patience, and we had good shot selection."

"The more the game went on, the more we were able to run."

Okemos tore apart CC's vaunted match-up zone defense with steady ball-handling, pinpoint passing and deadly shooting.

The Chieftains, who had no special defense planned for the high scoring McIntyre, led 18-8 after one quarter and 33-14 at the half.

Okemos continually broke CC's full-court press in the third quarter to build an incredible 64-32 lead.

Even with the benchwarmers playing most of the fourth quarter, Okemos outscored the Shamrocks, 23-9.

"WE DIDN'T REBOUND a lick," Holowicki said. "The referees told me afterwards that we were the poorest basketball team they've seen. The biggest thing is that there was no hunger element.

"They beat us in every phase of the game. We've always done well in the match-up (defense), but we didn't have people in the spots. We let the ball get inside."

Nine players scored for Okemos, led by 6-foot-4 forward Scott Schewe, who paced all scorers with 20 points. Rich Holden, a 6-4 junior making his first start, added 15. Scott Layman and guard Tim Kirksey added 13 and 10, respectively.

Okemos showed its proficiency in the shooting department, hitting 32 of 41 free throws. Schewe was 12 of 12.

Although the University of Detroit-bound McIntyre led CC with 14 points, 15 below his scoring norm, it was probably his worst outing as a prep player as he made just 7 of 22 shots from the floor.

But the 6-4 senior was not alone in futility as his teammates, with the exception of reserve Kevin Rukat (8 points), seemed equally troubled, making bad decisions and blowing easy shots.

"WE'RE going to have to reassess some things," said Holowicki. "I'm embarrassed. I just hope I don't sound as bad as I do."

Adding insult to injury, Okemos came into the game with losses to Class B Durand and Class C Lansing Catholic Central, and was missing its leading scorer, Bill Rails.

"I was absolutely shocked by the score," said Stoiz. "We were just hoping to have a good game, but the kids came to win."

"This is the first game where we've played zone. But I'm determined that we've got to play man-to-man at some point during the season."

"We're young, and we're just not there yet. But we played well tonight. I think we'll jell by January."

The ways things went Thursday night, January came early for Okemos.

Business, not athletes, score with NCAA

I ALWAYS FIGURED the reason for a government's existence was not to rule the masses but to protect them from themselves. Someone or something has to keep the clever few from exploiting the common folk. That's why we have all those governing bodies floating around, recognized only by letters: NATO, OPEC, NOW, INTERPOL, CIA, FBI, SEMTA and so on.

Since sports is a microcosm of the real world, it, too, has its share of properly initiated governments: USOC, NASCAR, NFL, AL, NL, NBA, NHL, NASL, USFL, MHSAA — the list is exhausting.

These athletic agencies were created to regulate. They make rules so that no one takes unfair advantage of a fellow member.

Two such rival agencies are the NCAA — the National Collegiate Athletic Association, if you didn't know — and the NAIA, or National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Both have written rules all members must adhere to. But there are differences — notable differences.

SIZE IS the most obvious. The NCAA is big enough to be subdivided (by Roman numerals, yet) into Divisions I, II and III. Division I includes the name schools, which are big enough to once again be identified merely by capital letters: UCLA, U-M, MSU, USC, etc.

The NAIA does not attempt to compete with Division I. It can, however, make up the NCAA's Divisions II and III.

And the NAIA does pretty well, because its rules are not as rigidly structured as the NCAA's.

"I like to use the term 'more reasonable,'" said Tim Domke, coach of Orchard Lake St. Mary's men's basketball team. Domke has seen both sides. As a University of Detroit assistant he recruited in the NCAA's Division I. St. Mary's currently competes in the NAIA.

The basic difference between the NCAA and the NAIA is approach. The administrators of the NCAA run it like a business. Integrity is the cornerstone. These administrators are educators, remember, the highest-minded in the land. Athletics should bask their institutions in limelight.

BUT THE LIMELIGHT shines with greater intensity upon winners. That sets up a conflict between integrity and winning. When winning starts to take precedence, the NCAA must answer.

Winning means money, and while integrity sounds nice it can't fill a stadium with paying customers.

The NCAA uses integrity as the foundation to its rulemaking. It uses investigators to enforce them.

The NAIA has no investigators. It doesn't need any because there's not enough money at stake for people to cheat.

Which frees the NAIA to be run, not from a business approach but with the student in mind.

There's a lot the NCAA could learn from the NAIA.

"The NAIA," Domke explained, "takes the approach of not making rules it can't enforce. That's a philosophy I really like. The NCAA has a lot of nitpicky rules it can't enforce."

"I think the NAIA is fairer to the student as an individual. They work to benefit the student."

For example, the NCAA's rule governing eligibility — that an athlete must complete his four years of competition within a five-year, 10-semester span — is both difficult to determine and not always fair to the student.

The NAIA simply gives a student 10 semesters for four years of eligibility, whenever those semesters are fulfilled.

Mark Sulek took advantage of the NAIA's ruling. Sulek first attended Oakland University, then transferred to Michigan. He didn't play basketball at U-M and quit after a semester to take a job at Chrysler.

After two years at Chrysler, Sulek was laid off. He decided to go back to school and play basketball. He enrolled at St. Mary's, where he had three years of eligibility remaining. At an NCAA institution, he would not have had any.

"Think about it, logically," Domke asked. "Why should he be punished?"

AT ST. MARY'S, Sulek, a 6-foot-7 forward, earned NAIA All-America status both on the court and academically. He graduated in 1982, at the age of 27.

"He's the perfect example of a person who used basketball to improve himself," said Domke. Sulek is currently employed as a chemist at the GM Tech Center.

Other NCAA laws, like the one year of ineligibility imposed upon athletes who transfer, are deliberately designed to discourage. It never considers the athlete's well-being. The NAIA has a one-semester wait period for transfers, meaning they will miss only part of a season.

The NAIA does not set opening dates for the start of basketball season. The NCAA's opening dates for practice are "baloney," according to Domke. "Every school circumvents it. They all have basketball 'classes' and conditioning 'classes.'"

It's just one of the dozens of rules the NCAA must attempt to enforce. And enforce them it must, because, as Domke observed, "As long as a coach gets fired for not winning, it's a business."

The pressure to win isn't as severe in the NAIA. NAIA schools choose to obey the rules because the guidelines are more workable than the NCAA's.

When rules are changed in the NCAA, member schools don't weigh the merits. They search for loopholes.

Domke summed it up best: "When a new rule comes out, their first thought is, 'How can I get around it?' It's just like tax laws."

Ex-Farmington AD honored

John Cotton may have retired as the Farmington Public School District athletic director, but the honors keep rolling in.

The Michigan High School Athletic Association has named Cotton, along with Robert James of Warren, as recipients of the Charles E. Forsythe Award.

The award, designated by Michigan high schools and the MHSAA representative council, is given to those who have made "outstanding contributions in terms of service to the interscholastic athletic program in Michigan."

Cotton, certainly, fits the bill. He guided the course of Farmington athletics from 1956 to 1983. He was a founding board member of the Michigan Interscholastic Athletic Administrators' Association, the Michigan Fellowship of Christian Athletes and the Farmington YMCA.

IN 1975, Cotton was named the Athletic Director of the Year by the state of Michigan, and in 1976 he was elected to the Coaches Hall of Fame by the state's coaches association.

He was also inducted into the Athletic Hall of Fame at Wayne State University.

He retired from the district in 1983. The Forsythe Award was initiated in 1978. Cotton and James will receive their awards at halftime of the Class A championship boys basketball game Saturday, March 23 at Crisler Arena in Ann Arbor.

A Parade of Festive Foods for NEW YEAR'S DAY

Strike up the band! Bring in the clowns. It's a parade of recipes to enjoy at home while watching the Tournament of Roses Parade and championship football games on New Year's Day.

One of the many spectacular entries in the upcoming televised parade will be the float pictured here, themed Mardi Gras. With its marvelous food traditions and merry carnival atmosphere, Mardi Gras also becomes a great theme for a New Year's party.

Your home mirrors the French Quarter when you add Dixieland music and gay streamers in traditional Mardi Gras colors of green, gold and purple. For the party menu, these festive recipes fit right into the mood, whether you're planning a brunch feast, a grand buffet or supper snacks.

All feature yogurt for a unique flavor twist, a creamy smooth texture and always delightful versatility.

French Toast with Yogurt Sauce

The French created the toast, and they popularized yogurt in Europe. But you can take credit for pairing these foods in this appetizing brunch dish. It's perfect for the New Year's festivities or any week end brunch year around.

- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 tablespoon granulated sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 4 eggs
- 1/4 cup vegetable oil
- 12 slices day-old French bread, 3/4 inch thick
- Powdered sugar
- 2 cups sliced fresh or frozen (thawed) strawberries
- Yogurt Sauce (below)

Beat milk, granulated sugar, salt and eggs with fork until smooth. Heat 2 tablespoons of the oil in 10-inch skillet over medium heat until hot. Dip bread into egg mixture, cook 6 slices at a time until golden brown, about 4 minutes on each side. Repeat with remaining oil and bread slices. Sprinkle with powdered sugar. Top with sliced strawberries. Serve with Yogurt Sauce. 6 servings

Yogurt Sauce

- 2 cartons (6 ounces each) Original strawberry or raspberry yogurt or Custard Style strawberry or raspberry yogurt
 - 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
 - 1/2 teaspoon almond extract
- Heat all ingredients over low heat until warm.
- High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): No adjustments are necessary.

Yogurt Floats

What better way to watch the Tournament of Roses Parade than with a float of your own. This one is made with yogurt and frozen whipped topping for a uniquely refreshing taste and creamy smooth texture.

- Fold 4 cartons (6 ounces each) Original yogurt (any fruit flavor) or Custard Style yogurt or Breakfast Yogurt (any fruit flavor) into 4 cups frozen (thawed) whipped topping. Pour into square baking dish, 8 x 8 x 2 inches. Cover and freeze until firm, at least 4 hours.
- Before serving, remove from freezer and let stand 15 minutes. Scoop into 6 tall glasses, fill glasses with sparkling water. Serve immediately. 6 servings.
- High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): No adjustments are necessary.

Yogurt Pound Cake

This colorful cake is reminiscent of the ring-shaped King's Cake, a specialty of the Mardi Gras Carnival season. Tiny party favors are tied to narrow ribbon streamers, which are tucked securely under the cake, creating a dessert centerpiece that is as charming as it is delicious.

- 1/2 cup sliced almonds
- 2-1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 cups sugar
- 3-1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 cartons (6 ounces each) Original yogurt (any fruit flavor) or Custard Style yogurt or Breakfast Yogurt (any fruit flavor)
- 1 cup margarine or butter, softened
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 4 eggs

Heat oven to 350°. Grease and flour 12-cup bundt cake pan. Sprinkle almonds over bottom of pan. Mix remaining ingredients in large bowl on low speed, scraping bowl constantly, 30 seconds. Beat on medium speed, scraping bowl occasionally, 2 minutes. Pour into pan. Bake until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean, 55 to 65 minutes. Cool 10 minutes; invert on wire rack or heatproof serving plate. Remove pan; cool cake completely.

High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): Heat oven to 375°. Very generously grease and flour pan. Decrease sugar to 1-1/2 cups and baking powder to 2-3/4 teaspoons. Bake 50 to 55 minutes.

Strawberry Mousse

Light and luscious, this rosy-colored dessert makes a fitting finale for a Tournament of Roses Parade Party. So easy to prepare, Strawberry Mousse will be a favorite for everyday meals as well as special affairs.

Pour 1/2 cup boiling water on 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin in small bowl; stir until gelatin is dissolved, about 4 minutes. Pour 4 cartons (6 ounces each) Original strawberry or raspberry yogurt or Custard Style strawberry or raspberry yogurt from Yoplait into medium bowl. Stir gelatin mixture into yogurt. Fold in 1-1/2 cups chopped fresh or frozen (thawed) strawberries and 1 cup frozen (thawed) whipped topping. Pour into 8 dessert dishes. Refrigerate uncovered until firm, about 3 hours. Garnish with strawberries if desired. 8 servings.

High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): No adjustments are necessary.

Don't be in the kitchen while your guests are enjoying themselves in your living room. Plan your New Year's open house around a trio of creamy dips that are done ahead quickly and serve themselves right after the door bell rings.

Chili, curry and tomato-cheese offer great flavor and the touches of color that will brighten up your coffee table and bring everyone together where the food is.

Then relax, the party's swinging and there's plenty of time for you to have a good time too.

Freeze foods ahead for quick, easy preparation

If you are feeling overwhelmed by the prospect of frantic holiday cooking and baking, be sure to consider the ways that your freezer can be put to use. By observing several simple tips, frozen foods can be as delicious when defrosted as when first prepared.

Since foods containing such spices as pepper, onion and cloves undergo flavor changes during freezing, it is always best to season only lightly before freezing and then adjust flavoring during reheating.

All packages should be tightly wrapped and sealed to prevent air from coming in contact with the food, which would alter its texture and flavor. After wrapping tightly, label and date each package so that the longest-stored food can be used first.

Preparing double batches of main courses and freezing meals or individual-sized portions is a commonly used means of streamlining food preparation, but it is far from being the only time-saving freezer use.

It may be beneficial to freeze desserts and breads which can then be heated and served with little fuss and no mess.

IF YOUR holiday baking plans include several batches of cookies, try rolling unbaked dough into sausage-shaped rolls, wrapping them in foil and freezing them.

When you want freshly baked cookies, just place the dough in the refrigerator, allow it to soften slightly, slice, and bake. This procedure will work for all dough containing at least 1/4 pound of fat to each pound of flour.

When using a soft dough, simply pipe the cookies onto a baking tray, place in the freezer for about one hour and, when frozen, place in plastic bags for storage. These cookies can be baked straight from the freezer.

Unfrosted cakes can be frozen for up to three or four months, and buttercream frostings have a comparable freezer lifespan.

The frosting should be allowed to thaw at room temperature; an eight-ounce portion will take between two and three hours to return to spreading consistency.

Bread, whether baked or unbaked, can also be frozen satisfactorily. Sliced loaves can go directly from freezer to toaster, while whole baked loaves should be allowed to defrost in their own packaging for three to six hours, depending on size.

Unbaked dough can be frozen unrisen for up to three months if tightly sealed in a lightly greased plastic bag. To bake, simply unseal bag, tie loosely and thaw at room temperature for five to six hours.

KEEP IN mind that individual ingredients can also be frozen. Unsalted butter can be stored in the freezer for six months, but because salt speeds up rancidity, salted butter should be frozen for no more than three months.

By fully utilizing your freezer, you can provide the customary seasonal treats, while alleviating the usual holiday rush.

Industry leads in auto safety

Automotive safety was not invented in Washington, despite all the talk of recent years. Safety has long been a concern of the automotive industry, long before federal standards were initiated, says the Automotive Information Council (AIC).

In fact, says the AIC, 15 of the first 20 federal automotive safety standards were adaptations of industry standards for safety features manufacturers were already installing, or they were based on industry-sponsored research.

Long before federal standards were even written, the manufacturers were demonstrating leadership in the field of traffic safety by improving vehicle design.

Back in 1900, when cars were still "horseless carriages," the steering wheel replaced the rudder-like steering stick, adding safety as well as convenience.

In the next decade came the all-steel body, rearview mirror, shock absorbers and the electric horn.

STEEL WHEELS, two-beam headlights, laminated windshield glass, four-wheel hydraulic brakes, balloon tires and windshield wipers revolutionized vehicles produced in the '20s.

The '30s brought improved steering gears, power brakes, defroster and sealed-beam headlamps; while the '40s introduced double hood latches, padded instrument panels and self-adjusting brakes. An innovation early in this period was the turn signal — a wonderful improvement over the practice of hanging one's arm out the window to indicate a change in direction.

As the automobile population mushroomed in the post-war '50s, safety became an even more important factor. Seat belts, head restraints, energy-absorbing steering wheels and impact-resistant door latches were added.

Seat belts, improved door latch mechanisms and safer windshields are good examples of the industry's original approach toward solving major safety problems — without regulation.

Safety studies have consistently demonstrated that people are injured or killed when they are thrown from their vehicles in an accident or into the windshield or other interior car surface.

The simplest solution is to keep the person in the car and away from the windshield. The best way to accomplish this was with restraint systems. But, many people won't wear belts, so vehicles were designed to lessen injuries in other ways like improved door latch mechanisms and safety windshields.

THE EARLIEST safety standards have also proven to be the most valuable.

In the detailed report, the U.S. government said motor vehicle safety standards implemented between 1966 and 1970 saved 23,230 lives between 1966 and 1974. There was little, if any, further improvement in lives saved from additional standards imposed on 1971 to 1973 model cars, according to the study's findings.

Vehicle design technology has increased in recent years so that the new smaller cars make more efficient use of structure and energy management than was possible before. The use of computers and computer programs developed over the past decade has aided domestic manufacturers in the effort.
