Schoolcraft group home will not be fought

staff writer

A group home proposed for Schoolcraft Road in Plymouth Township likely will be built, thanks to an about-face by the township board.

During a public hearing earlier this month, the board appeared to be moving towards denying the home a building permit.

That stance changed Tuesday night with a 4-2 vote to proceed with issuing the permit. Supervisor Maurice Breen and Trustee Andy Pruner voted no. Treasurer Mary Brooks was absent.

The placement division of the state mental health department, Wayne Community Living Services (WCLS), has applied for a building permit to start construction of a barrier-free home at 42455 Schoolcraft. WCLS plans to have six mentally retarded individuals live in the house, four of whom can be confined to wheelchairs thanks to the barrier-free construction. The home will be leased to Enhance Inc. to operate.

At the Jan. 8 public hearing, the board told the building department to withhold a building permit while Town-ship Attorney Brian James checks the validity of fire safety rules provided by WCLS. The rules are needed by the building department as guidelines for betweeen the state and municipalities over group home placement.

Public Act 218 of 1979, which allows the state to bypass local restrictions, calls for the state fire safety board to develop a set of rules for construction.

Those rules haven't been approved by the state fire board, James said at the Jan. 8 meeting. He said the state board was in the process of developing and approving the fire safety rules.

Jerry Phey, in charge of WCLS development, provided the township with IN THE PAST, no community has re- a set of rules his department has been jected a group home for failing to meet using in the interim. Phey said they state fire rules. Had Plymouth Town- would comply with either those rules ship elected to do so, it would have or the township's rules - which ever were more stringent.

James said the township could enforce its own fire-safety rules and then find out, once the state approves rules, that the state rules are more stringent.

The fire rule approach in opposing a group home hasn't been tried. Currently four group home appeals are before the Michigan Supreme Court. Each of those appeals center on questions about the state's right to bypass local zoning and deed restrictions.

If the township denied a building permit because of the fire rules, a new question would have been posed. The fire safety debate centers on the state's failure to fulfill the obligations of the licensing act, rather than state consti-

The fire-rule question was the "original reason the administration brought this before the board, there is a technical point which hasn't been fulfilled." Breen said would be to have a building permit de-nial upheld. Phey earlier told the board his department would file a lawsuit if a building permit was denied.

"Not very good," said James. The cities of Livonia and Southfield, which have the appeals before the Supreme Court, are fighting an uphill battle. The cities were ruled against by all of the lower courts.

"There's no point in denying a permit if our chances are not good in court,"

During the Jan. 8 public hearing Munfakh asked, "How will the building department issue a permit when there are no fire safety standards to check

Prisoner cap sought; Blanchard eyes funding

By Tim Richard and Gary M. Cates staff writers

Plymouth and Northville townships called Tuesday night for the state legislature to cap the number of prisoners In their area, just one day before Gov. James J. Blanchard announced his plans to fund the construction of six prisons in Michigan.

In a joint resolution, trustees from both communities said they were "inalterably opposed to the siting of any additional prison, penal institution or correctional facility of any type within their territorial limits.

In the event additional prisons are placed in the townships, the trustees called for state lawmakers to address several concerns, including a cap on the total number of inmates.

Sites along Five Mile Road, the townships' shared borderline, have been targeted for prisons.

BLANCHARD addressed the crime and prison problem in his third State of the State address Wednesday night. He announced persons convicted of state crimes will help pay for six new state

"We're thinking of a $10 surcharge on top of the fine someone might pay for a major offense like a drunk-driving conviction," state Treasurer Robert Bowman said last week in a budget briefing for reporters.

Those fines would raise between $3 million and $8 million. That would support $75 million of bonds," said Bowman, a former Wall Street bond expert.

Bowman said the state is eyeing a $200-million bond issue to build a halfdozen 550-bed prototype prisons at $35million apiece.

Blanchard will dip into the general fund to support the remaining $125 million in bonds that isn't covered by surcharges on court fines.

He was unable to say at what "threshold" the state would begin charging the $10 surcharge. Bowman said the state plans to lease the Detroit House of Correction (DeHo-Co) site in Plymouth Township until it can buy the land and build a prison. The state has begun construction of a prison, called the Scott Regional Prison, in Northville Township. PLYMOUTH AND Northville townships are expected to put up a ferocious political and perhaps legal battle over the prospect of more state institutions on what they view as prime industrial and residential land.

Their joint resolution called for legislation to cap the number of prisoners in their area at 1,375: 550 at Scott, 500 at DeHoCo, and 325 at the adjacent Phoenix Correctional Facility in Northville Township.

They also asked the legislature to specifically budget $15 million for the renovation of DeHoCo, as well as asking that their residents be given preference in hiring for the facilities. The resolution also calls for the legislature to adopt a "mandated ban on any additional public institutions, state or county. . . in the townships." Also called for is a "legislative and/ or administrative provision to the necessary road improvements needed to handle the increased traffic occasioned by the location of up to three correctional facilities within a few hundred vards of each other."

Some of the other points in the resolution call for:

· "Immediate approval of the Michigan Department of Corrections Comprehensive Plan for Correctional Facilities to assure local site plan input in correctional facility locations so that concerns over the health, safety, welfare and economic impact may be ad-

· "Immediate release of the promised public lands at the Plymouth State Home site in Northville Township by sale to private developers."

• "That an appropriate transfer mechanism be adopted to facilitate the development, public or private, of all

City of Detroit-owned land not absolutely required for institutional development in a manner consonant with the master plans of the Township of Northville and the Charter Township of Plymouth for economic development

BLANCHARD'S message, delivered to the Legislature last week, asked for five new regional prisons and a maximum-security institution.

"The program will enable us to take thousands of dangerous criminals off the streets," he said.

"I will also recommend new funding for corrections personnel and equipment for prison expansion.

"In addition, I will propose that new fees levied on those convicted of state crimes be earmarked to offset the cost of constructing and operating prisons. It is critical that these steps be taken expeditiously in order to ensure that no criminal is released from a Michigan prison prematurely."

State budget director Robert Naftaly said "educating the communities" will be necessary to get them to accept prison sites. "Only one inmate escaped from our prisons last year. There is more fear than danger in prisons."

Part of the $15 million the townships want budgeted for DeHoCo is intended to go for increased security. According to 35th District Court officials, some 150 DeHoCo inmates are charged with escape each year.

THE GOVERNOR proposed complete repeal of the 1980 Emergency Powers Act, which requires early release of inmates when state prison overcrowding occurs. State prison capacity is rated at about 13,000 inmates.

Originally designed as a temporary, stopgap measure, it has been triggered nine times in just four years and resulted in the reduction of sentences for half of all felons released since 1981," Blanchard said. "Some felons actually served less than half the minimum sentence for their crimes.

"Clearly, the Emergency Powers Act has become a revolving door for criminals and undermined the credibility and effectiveness of the system."

THE PRELIMINARY plan was developed by Police Chief Carl Berry and police consultant Robert Parsons.

The township board decided last year to move toward forming its own department by the time a shared-services agreement with Plymouth expires. That contract, with an annual cost of $467,000, expires June 30, 1985.

Although budget and facility information wasn't included in the material released Friday, a project timetable hinted of some plans The timetable calls for approval of

These three white dachshund pupe stand out in a crowd like a sore thumb. In fact, Robert Beel of Plymouth Township says he's been told it's rare for three pure-white dachshunds to be found in the same litter. A quick check of veterinarians who deal with the breed suggests that even one white pup in a litter is unusual. While there was some suspicion that the pups may be albino, they had regular eye color. The pure-white color is a recognized mutation in some coilie breeds, but these pupe rarely survive long after birth. While the vets who were polled didn't examine the Plymouth mini dachshunds, they had no doubts about their rarity. Beal, who raises dachshunds, lives near Ann Arbor Trail and Haggerty.

Negotiating a loan from banker Floyd Kehrl

When Louis Norman was a student in Plymouth High School in the late 1920s, he studied art under Gladys Schrader, sister of Bud Schrader and daughter of Frederick Schrader, founder of the Schrader Funeral Home. Louis liked art and has had a leaning toward draw-

When he still was in school, Louis began lettering signs for local real estate dealers. He has made many other signs over the years, most of which have been presented gratis to local organiza-

most recently, for the Salvation Army to identify its new building on S. Main Street. Norman also has tried his hand at oils and water colors. But he especially likes to do pen and ink drawings.

NORMAN REMEMBERS that his first job as a boy was for the Eckles Coal and Lumber Co. in Old Village.

"I still call it lower town," he says. Later, he worked at two of Henry Ford's village industry plants - the one at Newburgh and the one at Waterford, a few miles north of Plymouth. But he wanted to have a business of his own and that's how he got into excavat-

Back in Plymouth, his father told him to go see Floyd Kehrl who managed the "little bank" on Penniman Av-

The time to catch Mr. Kehrl in his office was early in the morning," says Norman, "so I was there at 8 a.m. I was scared to talk to him, but I wanted that bulldozer. When he came in, he looked at me and said: what do you want? I said, I want a loan. What for, he asked. I want to buy a bulldozer, I said. I have heard a lot of stories about banker Floyd Kehrl since I began writing about Plymouth history 18 years ago. In some of them, Kehrl emerges as a hard-headed businessman not untook delight in foreclosing on the old

But Louis Norman's experience with Kehrl demonstrates, once again, that truth is elusive — in this instance, at least, Floyd Kehrl was a pussy-cat.

NORMAN'S BULLDOZER was delivered in the winter.

Because of bad weather, the seller had to rush back to Kalamazoo. He had only time to show Louis how to start the engine. Louis practiced using the machine by grading piles of snow in his driveway. He also got some instructions from an experienced buildozer operator who worked for Matt Powell.

Louis was then working at the Ford Waterford plant. His boss was a tough Swede but, Louis emphasizes, "one of the fairest men you ever met." A few weeks after he got the bulldozer, Louis decided to take two weeks off to do some excavating. Why do you want two weeks off, asked the boss. Louis was evasive. I know you just bought a buildozer, said the boss. Okay, you can have the two weeks off, but don't bother to come back. "You're fired."

"I didn't know what to do," says Louis. "Here I was with a $7,000 debt and no job." Just as I was walking out of the door, the boss called out to me: "Louis, try that excavating work for a few weeks to see if you can make a living at it. If you can't, come back. Your job will still be waiting for you."

Norman spent the next 30 years grading, digging foundations, doing other excavating. In the late 1940s and early 1950s, before the city bought its own snow removal equipment, he plowed the city streets. On mornings when the snow was deep, his instruction from city engineer Stan Besse was to begin plowing at Ed Hough's house on Ann Arbor Trail and to clear the streets from there to the Daisy plant so Hough could get to

Louis Norman retired from his excavation business about 10 years ago. He and Betty live on Ann Arbor Trail, east of Lilley, in a brick house on property that one of Betty's ancestors bought in the 1860s. A sign on the front lawn reads: "Michigan Centennial Farm. Owned by people of the same name for over 100 years."

Good news for clothing bank

We have some good news from the Plymouth-Canton Clothing Bank. In the fall we were in need of volunteers to help sort, size and assist our customers. The Plymouth and Canton Observers and the Community Crier were most helpful in running articles concerning

As a result we would like to introduce you to Virginia Kocik, Margaret Schroeder, Janet Pierangelino and Louise Stern. They are very caring and hard workers - thank you ladies. I would like to thank Helen Decker who has been with us for six years and has taken charge of the Clothing Bank during my absence and is doing a great job. Helen's husband Dick is the Treasurer for the Clothing Bank, and they both are very caring people. Pat Zaidel and Lee Campbell have been with us three years and continue to help out when their schedules allow it.

As you know we have many fine people in our schools and in the community who donate funds, used clothing and some new items such as socks, underwear, hats and mittens. We would like to list some of those that have helped

Reactions to the written word Sermon article evokes words from Rev. Hess

When a fellow sits down in front of his typewriter ready to proceed with the task of producing the scheduled piece for the press, the question comes to mind:

Where will it land and who will read it or what will become of it?

These are intriguing questions but over the years The Stroller has enjoyed some unusual surprises

ONE OF THE most surprising happened almost half a century ago when he covered the speedboat races on the Detroit River when Gar Wood was winning the famous Harmsworth Trophy

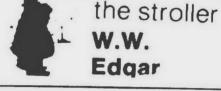

One day when he came to the office there was a letter at his desk. It was addressed to him and it came from the president of the Flat Motor Co. in Italy. It was a friendly letter telling him that he had made an unfortunate mistake in describing the Italian motor.

Can you imagine that? It was thrilling just to learn that a story that was written in the dock at the Detroit Yacht Club had found its way to Italy and a man of high rank in the motor industry had taken the time to write him.

It was a thrill. But that is what happens to anyone who writes for the press. It was a letter that has often come to mind week after week when it comes time to write a column.

MANY YEARS have passed since. Today comes a letter that was just as surprising - from the Rev. Bartlett L. Hess, pastor of the Ward Presbyterian Church in Livonia. Over the years Rev. Hess has gained a high place in his profession. So it was surprising just to see the envelope, even before he opened it to read the letter

Several weeks ago The Stroller had occasion to chat with another minister who informed him that preparing for a sermon each week about a story that was thousands of years old was the toughest job in the world. It so happened Rev. Hess read that bit in the paper and he graciously took the time to write to give his view on the subject. And The Stroller is pleased to pass his message along to you. It read:

"On Thursday, Dec. 13, 1984 you wrote an article entitled 'What is the hardest job in the world?' It dealt with the preparation of sermons by a pastor for each Sunday morning.

'Of all the responsibilities that I have as minister, one of the most enjoyable is to prepare a sermon for each Sunday morning. The wealth in the Scriptures opens new insights constant-When one matches the Scriptures with human life he finds endless vistas of understanding.

"I plan niy sermons a year in advance; usually by taking certain portions of Scripture and observing the special seasons of the church year. Though I have preached on certain portions of the Bible many times, I never fail to find new ideas and applications.

"For me to be deprived of the opportunity to preach each week would be the greatest loss. Furthermore, when the word of God is preached under the direction of the Holy Spirit lives are

"Yes, preaching challenges everything that is in a man, but also rewards exceedingly. See you in church.'

Cordially yours, Bartlett L. Hess

Thanks, Reverend, it was a thrill to hear from you and you now have taken a special place in the mind and memories of The Stroller. My recent column couldn't have fallen into better hands

Can you imagine not worrying about cancer?

The choice is up to you: Cancer doesn't have to mean death, disfigurement or destruction of your family. Cancer can be the most curable of all serious diseases, with early detection.

That's why we've designed the only medical center dedicated exclusively to early cancer detection—with every cancer screening test all under one roof: The American Cancer Detection Centers.

A cancer detection exam just makes good health sense — like routine dental check-ups.

That's why the American Cancer Society recommends a cancer detection exam at least once a year for all men and women over forty, and at least every three years for everyone between twenty and forty.

It's always been a fact of life, early cancer detection — before the traditional symptom and warning signs appear — simply increases your chances of living.

So stop worrying about cancer now! Make your choice today. Call 851-2800 or mail in coupon below. We're located in the Forest Park Complex: 31410 Northwestern Highway in Farmington Hills. We accept most major insurance plans. Extended Hours, Saturdays & Family Plans Available.

MENU FROM NORMANDY--FRANCE'S "GRANDE POMME"

It is described as a painter's landscape. Certainly the province of Normandy has been a magnet for artists for centuries. It is idyllic -- lush, green pastures dotted with apple orchards, which, in spring, are festooned with pink and white blossoms, and everywhere cream-and-sepia-dappled cows graze contentedly. One rosy-cheeked, blue-eyed farmer archly summed up Norman life style as follows: "We have nothing to do the grass grows by itself and the apple falls by itself."

Loosely translated, that means milk and cream and apples in abundance. And also, cheese, cider and Calvados. Eating in Normandy is a trencherman's dream. Its regional cuisme is justly famous throughout the world. It is based on cream and perfumed with apples.

Long before the Romans swept through Gaul, apple trees bloomed in Normandy Cider has been produced since the early Middle Ages A 1553 document proves cider was being distilled to make apple "brandy" by that time. Today we know it as Calvados. Actually the name is Spanish in origin. In 1588, when Phillip II of Span's great armada was en route to vanquish England, one mighty galleon foundered off the coast of Normandy. The slip was called "El Calvador" which, in its Gallie form, became the name of this coastal area particularly known for apple orchards

Appreciation for Calvados spread beyond its native Normands right after World War I. A generation later, allied troops fresh from victory on the Normandy beachheads jubilantly celebrated with the regional spirit. But it was only about 10 years ago that Calvados established its own beachhead in the U.S. It is steadily winning new friends In 1983 a total of 21,000 gallons were imported from France

A fiery, flavorful spirit that tops off any meal with great panache. Calvados is classically served in a suffer to be warmed in the palm of the hand. Or, popular with Americans, at the beginning of an evening, it can be served on the rocks. In Normandy there is a custom called le frou normand," a fot of Calvados between courses to prepare a hole "tron" for what is to follow

All Calvados is produced according to a formula established by French law. After the apple harvest, eider is made from the pince of tart acidic apples - not the same as the eating varieties. The new cider, designated to become Calvados, ferments for about a month, then it is distilled. In 40 of the 11 Calvados producing districts, the method is single distillation, as in Armagnac. In the eleventh district, the Pays d'Auge, the method is the same as in Cognac, double distillation in pot stills. The Pays d'Auge Calvados accounts for most of what is

Aging is not as important as for example in Cognac because the end product must retain some of its apple taste. But minimum age stipulations respare that the brandy remain in oak casks at least two years. In general, most Calvados is older than that, but the mellow atoma of apples never diminishes. This is one reason Calvados is as welcome in the kitchen as on the aperitif tray.

Our menu is inspired entirely by the fare offered daily in every auberge in Normandy , whether three star or no star. These dishes can even be found on the dining table of a typical Norman farmhouse Fish and seafood are staples of the Norman diet, and mussels are often presented as a first course. Moules Dieppoise are delicious and simple to prepare — equally delicious when served in cream as a main course. Reast pork lends itself perfectly to a blending of a trio of traditional Norman ingredients—cider, apples and Calvados. And the addition of whole omous provides just the right touch of piquancy to the sweettart apple flavors. Alternate main courses tres Normand are either grilled duckling or yeal kidness.

After a cheese course that in keeping with our inspiration, features fromage from the heartland of Normandy Camembert Pont If vegue and Bullat Savarin the dessert spectacular is a Charlotte any Pointnes. Again the succulent fruits are appropriately yet subtly perfumed with Calvados. Their after the last crumb, when cups of aromatic coffer are passed what could be better than a glass of Calvados warming in your hand. And perchance a fantasy of a small arberge in Normandy with a view outside the window of green mead avs and apple blossoms sturing in the breeze

Maple syrup is scarce, but it's worth the search.

The history of food is rife with ironies. Foods which today are commonplace were delicacies decades or centuries ago. Equally, today's rarities born of diminishing supply or simply the advent of convenience foods and supermarket shopping - were yesterday's staples.

Maple syrup, an intrinsic part of our ancestors' pantry, is a case in point. Before sugar was available on the North American continent, sweetening was effected by means of two foods honey, gleaned from the hives of bees imported from Europe, and maple syrup, which originated in North Amer-

Today, honey is enjoying a resurgence of popularity because of the interest in "natural" foods; however, maple syrup, which is an extremely labor-intensive product and is produced in only a relatively small area of the U.S. and Canada, has become both costly and hard to come by.

The sweetener upon which past generations of Americans relied (our colonial forebears consumed four times the amount of maple syrup we do today. and it remained the foremost sweetener in the northeastern part of the continent till the end of the 19th century) is now a scarcity.

Yet, it is eminently well worth seeking out for its unique flavor (popular pancake syrups which are largely composed of corn syrup are not adequate substitutes), and for the special touch it adds, not only to freshly made pancakes and waifles, but as a cooking ingredient as well.

IN FACT, it was originally utilized in precisely that way, by the native American Indians for whom maple sugar was not simply their only sweetener, but virtually their only fla-

When the European settlers first arrived in North America, they discovered the native Americans freely tapping sugar maple and black maple trees for sap (in itself not particularly sweet, since it is largely water) which could be boiled down to become maple syrup and maple rugar.

The Indians willingly taught the settlers how to do this, ensuring the settlers a free and plentiful source of sweetener for baking and cooking.

Much of the uniqueness of maple syrup derives from the specific conditions needed to produce it. Climatic requirements have turned maple syrup into a product of a small geographic area - namely the northeastern United States and t e Canadian provinces of Quebec and Ontario - and all attempts to coddle the maple tree into yielding the precious sap in other regions have been a signal failure.

This is because the maple tree requires a long period of cool weather (usually the late winter through early spring) during which the day temperatures remain above freezing while night-time temperatures dip below the freezing mark.

The uncertainty of how long this syndrome will persist each year results in a maple syrup output which can vary greatly from spring to spring, with maple syrup seasons as short as a week and as long as six weeks.

"SUGARING OFF" occurs, therefore, in the spring, and to country people serves as a harbinger of warm weather to come and as a reason for celebration.

The sap which is boiled down to make maple syrup and sugar is not the maple tree's ordinary sap, but a special secretion whose purpose mystifies bo-

This sap is extracted with great care (the native Americans used a tomahawk to gain access to it; the early colonists used wooden spouts, while today metal spouts are used) and gathered in buckets for boiling over hot oil or wood fires. Maple syrup truly inspires a multitude of uses - its culinary impact is by no means limited to breakfast fare. Dixie and Norman Jewison (he's the director whose films include "The Russians Are Coming," "The Thomas sians Are Coming," "The Thomas Crown Affair" and "Fiddler on the Roof") have a home among the Canadian woods at Caledon East in Ontario, where they produce maple syrup under the label "Putney Health Farms."

They suggest using maple syrup in the following ways: as a glaze for baked ham or poultry, to flavor "blender" drinks such as milkshakes, as a The average tree will yield approxi- sauce for crepes or ice cream, to marinate smoked pork chops.

Don't skip breakfast, tailor it to your needs

No time for breakfast? Nonsense! Breakfast can be tailored to fit any schedule and any budget.

The benefits of a good breakfast are threefold. Breakfast refuels the body after a night's sleep, providing the energy and stamina needed to perform well at work, school and play. Breakfast supplies significant amounts of Vitamin C, riboflavin and calcium, three important nutrients which you might not get enough of in other meals if you're a breakfast skipper. And breakfast helps discourage prelunch snacking which can add unwanted pounds.

While breakfast should supply onequarter to one-third of the day's nutrients and calories, breakfast food doesn't have to be traditional fare. Cheese pizza and an orange can be just as nutritious as juice, eggs and toast. The key is always including a good source of vitamin C, wholegrain cereal or bread and at least one protein-rich food such as meat, cheese, peanut butter, nuts, eggs, yogurt or Breakfast doesn't have to be elaborate to be nutritious, either. Many breakfast foods require little preparation or can be prepared the night before. Strawberry Summer Breakfast, a cool and creamy make-ahead fruit and cereal combo, features foods from three of the Basic Four Food Groups. Fresh strawberries and orange or pineapple juice contribute a healthy helping of vitamin C, while a one ounce serving of rolled oats supnine minerals as well as water-soluble dietary fiber. As an added bonus. wholegrain oats contain no cholesterol and almost no sugar or salt.

STRAWBERRY SUMMER BREAK-PAST

4 cup coarsely chopped auto 2 thep. brown sugar

Combine all ingredients; mix well. Cover, refrigerate at least 8 hours or overnight. Mix well before serving. Serve with milk, if desired.

A SANDWICH is another quick-tofix breakfast which is as good for you as delicious. Bagels, corn bread, English muffins, pita bread, biscuits, tortillas and waffles are a tasty change of pace from plain bread and can be filled with a variety of healthful ingredients. Try layering cheese, tomato and crumbled cooked bacob between two waffles. Or, stuff chicken salad and fresh pineapple cubes into whole wheat pita bread. "Planned over" meat, eggs, fruit and vegetables are other nutritious and economical choices.

Ellie Graham

THE GREETING is one day late, but here's a very happy hirthday wish to Grace Burley. Grace marked her 90th birthday Sunday, Jan. 27.

Her doctor calls her "Amazing Grace," for good reason. Since her retirement from Ford Motor Co., she has continued a very active life. Grace is an Avon Lady and still makes house calls. She is a charter member and chaplain of the Mayflower-Lt. Gamble VFW Post Auxiliary. She broke a leg a year ago and was in the hospital and then a nursing home. She was unable to take part in the post's bowlathon. But she is going out to the bowling alley to try again, in hope that she can participate in this year's benefit bowlathon.

"She is a very good sport and takes most things pretty much in stride. She attends all the parties and really enjoys dancing. She can 'shake it' with the best of them," said Eileen Williams.

SHE IS A GREAT Tiger fan and always goes along when a group trip is planned to a game at Tiger Stadium.

"She played baseball, too," said Ida Nairn. "I have a picture of her wearing a baseball cap and pitching. It was taken just a few years ago — she must have been 87 at the time. She is a participator."

They say Grace was dancing up a storm earlier this month at the VFW Post. The occasion was a birthday party for all the members born in the month of January.

GRACE AND Chester Burley moved to Plymouth in the early 1920a. They had four children — Robert, Herbert, Harold and Jane (Diekman). Robert, Jane and her husband are deceased.

Grace recalls the days when her children were home and she never knew until they came downstairs in the morning how many she'd have for breakfast.

Her home was a gathering place for her children's friends.

Ida said she remembers Grace "wheeling up in her big Terraplane" to give her children and their friends a ride home from the high school.

Many happy returns, Grace. You are an inspiration and a joy to your many friends.

NOW THE QUESTION arises: Who made the Terraplane? Jim Nairn says Hudson Motor Car Co. For some reason or other, I think it was an Essex.

THE CANTON Historical Society has an interesting program coming up, according to Mary Dingeldey. Mary says she's pinchhitting for Bart Berg, who was hospitalized for tests.

The society is sponsoring the first showing of the film, "Reflections on Being Governor: The Milliken Years," narrated by Charlton Heston. The story on the location of markers of past Michigan governors was compiled by Jerry Roe, a member of the Michigan Historical Commission.

The program will be at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Feb. 15 at Cherry Hill Free Methodist Church, 44815 Cherry Hill Road, east of Canton Center. Admission is $5 at the door or reservations can be made in advance by calling Mary, 495-0509. Proceeds will go to the Canton Historical Society.

BILL AND MARIE Norman, former Plymouth residents, entertained a group of Michiganders over the holiday season at their Arizona home. Among them was Vern Schmidt, who now lives in Sun City. Vern saw the Normans' copy of the book prepared for the Plymouth High School Class of 1939 45-year reunion

He was fascinated. Born in Plymouth, Vern was within three months of graduating with the class when his father changed employment and they moved. His first question - at the open house - was "How can I get one of

Rehearsals in full swing for the follies

Tickets for the arts council's 1985 musical revue will go on sale at 10 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 30, in the Mayflower Hotel. Reserved seats for the Feb. 8 and 9 presentations of "Footlights and Footlishness" are $7. Balcony and student tickets are $5. Bob Berkson, director for Cargill Productions, New York, was introduced to the community at a meet-the-director party at Pioneer Middle School. It was a fun night with skits, hors d'oeuvres, and signuss for the show. From now until the curtain signups for the show. From now until the curtain rises at 8 p.m. Friday, Feb. 8, it will be all hard work as the chorus lines — dancers, singers, solists and skit players — practice, practice practice.

The director has a little more than two weeks from the time he hits town to produce a hit.

DEE SCHULTE has designed the program for Plymouth Community Arts Council's fourth follies.

Judy Love and Cindy Merrifield are in charge of ticket sales. Shirley Peters and Jackie Stack are handling publicity and Faye Leggett is in charge of Sharon Belobraidich, assisted by Jan Gattoni and Barb Zarow, has lined up the local talent for show. There are practices every night at Pioneer Middie School and every morning at First United Presbyterian Church.

Muscles will ache and families will eat out for the duration, as everyone gets caught up in the show business fever.

When the footlights dim and applause has died away, they'll all agree that the follies are sure cure for mid-winter doldrums.

Proceeds from the revue fund the arts council's projects in the community.

The crowd gathers at Pioneer Middle School to meet the director and sign up for their parts in the nusical revue.

At least that is the warning passed along by the Farmer's Almanac which is considered the best of all forecasters.

Paging through the almanac for the months of January and February, you learn that the snow we have had in the past week was forecast. But with that forecast came the word that February will have temperatures below average.

The snow will be heavy in the western part of the lower lakes during the first week and this will be followed by a heavy snow storm around Feb. 12-15.

THEN THERE will be a partial clearing, but a heavy snow is predicted by the Feb. 19-22 period. So while President Reagan's Inauguration was dimmed by the snow and cold weather in the nation's capital, the almanac predicts that there will be a snow storm for Washington's Birthday turning to severe cold by the end of the

So while the snow has been a buga-boo for the winter months the rain and thunderstorms will play a leading role during the summer.

The college football players can take note that it will be warm at the end of August when their hard work is sched-uled. Then in September there will be more rain with cold weather setting in at the end of the month.

And with all this rain and snow during the year there will always be a fear of broken water mains. That was the case in Plymouth right after the ice festival and the snow when there were main breaks — large mains — on both Starkweather and Sheldon roads.

the movies

Dan Greenberg

'Passage to India' boldly recaptures time of British rule

David Lean's "Passage to India" is a rich visual experience that ranks with his earlier epic films, "Dr. Zhivago," "Lawrence of Arabia" and "The Bridge on the River Kwai."

In those three films Lean captured heroic moments in exotic times and places. He does so again in "Passage," based on E.M. Forster's novel set in British India of the '20s.

A young, adventurous Englishwoman, Adela Quested (Judy Davis), travels to India as friend and companion to Mrs. Moore (Dame Peggy Ashcroft), mother of Ronny Heaslop (Nigel Havers), British Magistrate in Chandrapore, a fictitious Indian city in Forster's novel. Ronny is romantically involved with Adela.

The film was shot on location in the southern Indian city of Bangalore and in northern India, the Kashmir surrounded by the Himalayas. Among other reasons, Lean chose Bangalore because of its proximity to the Dharwars where the film's pivotal scenes about the Caves of Marabar were filmed.

ADELA'S ADVENTUROUS spirit leads to those caves. In spite of her romantic attachment to Magistrate Heaslop, the restrictive attitudes of the British community in India and her repressed sexuality, perhaps because of the last, she explores the "real" India.

Adela's interest in India outside the British compound leads first to Richard Fielding (James Fox), headmaster of the British College in Chandrapore. Fielding deals with people as people, not as stereotypical categories. Among his friends are Hindu teacher/ holy man Godbole (Sir Alec Guiness) and Moslem physician Dr Aziz (Victor Banerjee). Fielding introduces Adela to them.

Dr. Aziz, a sexually unfulfilled widower, is subservient and ser-Britishers. He is eager to please and overwhelmed when Adela accepts his invitation to a picnic at the Caves of Marabar

Clearly both have overstepped accepted boundaries and must suffer for their transgressions. As in the novel, what occurs in the caves is ambiguous, but Aziz is charged with rape and the ensuing politicizing of his trial changes everyone's life.

There is no question but that Dr. Aziz had plenty of reason to become bitter because of his treatment by the British, but dramatically his conversion to Indian activism is too abrupt "PASSAGE TO INDIA" is a long (165-minute) but rewarding visual and dramatic experience. Lean's direction and editing paint rich canvases of Indian life under the British Raj. To some extent the British characters are overstereotyped in their insensitivity. but it was the quality of aloofness that enabled the English to maintain their power and culture when vastly outnumbered by subject peoples

Ernest Day's cinematography fills the screen with brilliant images that portray a beautiful, though sanitized, India — the British storybook India rather than the squalor and dirt we know exists. In this case it works because that's what this story is all about, the romantic, historical attitude of the British to their empire.

The acting by the entire company is a marvelous ensemble presentation. While I may quibble with the unidimensional aloofness and insensitivity of most of the Britishers, that was their technique to conquer the world and avoid going "native." That the actors portray extremely well, particularly Michael Culver as Superin-

As for the more sensitive English, Dame Peggy Ashcroft is, as always, superb James Fox, with a dashing. Douglas Fairbanks appearence, is warm, human and sensitive in his personal relation-

The principals, Judy Davis and Victor Banerjee, are fine, realistic characterizations, particularly Davis whose subtle style with Lean's direction and Day's closeups enables her to convey troubled emotions with small gestures, lip quivers and brief glances

"Passage to India" is romantic, historical, visually brilliant and a rewarding film experience.

Victor Banerjee is Dr. Aziz, who is charged with rape after he and Adels visit the Caves of Maraber.

Grape for red wine holds promise

Regular readers of this column know that I have increasingly become enthusiastic about the efforts of several of our Michigan wineries. Especially favorable comments have been made about the recent releases of the Leelanau County wineries (Mawby, Good Harbor and Leelanau Ltd.), our own Seven Lakes and, of course, Tabor Hill on occas

Nearly all the statements have been about white wines, the marvelous things being done with the vignoles, seyval and vidal grapes, all hybrids. Of the red varietals little has been said because of the poor quality of the wines made from foch and baco, our chief red hybrids.

The viticultural conditions are too severe to permit proper ripening of these varietals anyplace in our state. The one small exception has been occasional efforts with chancellor, but those have been few. The caveat has been obvious: Avoid Michigan

All of that may be undergoing a change, howev-

There is a grape, new to me until recently, that is exceptional and holds a great deal of promise for the future. That is the chambourcin.

UNFORTUNATELY, this is one of those good news/bad news situations. The good news is that this grape can produce excellent red wine. The bad news is that you can't get it. Not yet, anyway, unless you drive to Kalamazoo or some Ohio wineries.

This is the story, and I am indebted to those fine writers Ray and Eleanor Heald of the Ann Arbor News for much of this.

There is presently but one commercial, bearing plot of chambourcin in the state, one on "the high-est hill in Van Buren County" (how's that for dis-tinction!) at the Lawton Ridge Vineyards. The en-tire crop in '82 and '83 was sold to the St. Julian Winery in Paw Paw. Only modest amounts were made in each year.

St. Julian in turn sold its entire production to the restaurant Oakley's at the Haymarket in downtown Kalamasoe. None to be had at the winery. So, if you want to try this, your path is obvious. (Or get a friend to get you a bottle, as I did. Thanks, Bev.)

The '82 vintage is currently being poured the the '83 will come up next. There is no '84 crop in the wings, but that is another story.

THE WINE IS likened by its makers to a rich beaujolais, a fair description. It could also be compared to a decent California pinot noir. It develops deep color, has a fine bouquet and lovely fresh fruit. It shows real aging potential interestingly, even though it has only 11 percent alcohol.:

But help is on the way. Diverse plantings of the grape are occurring from Texas through South Carolina, with principle efforts in Ohio and Pennsyl-

The various plots throughout our state are just this year coming into bearing and the grapes are being sold off to home winemakers. The commercial potential here is small, and it is worse in New York where the grape does not do at all well.

But in the over-increasing viticultural area along the southern shore of Lake Erie, there is much potential and more action. Last fall a testing wee held.

tential and more action. Last fall a tasting was held at which 30 different chambourcins were most of them from this region. The judges reported at least 18 of these were excellent and representa-tive efforts. From such events as this, winemakers take great encouragement

Deja vu! Canton pins Salem

By Chris McCosky staff writer

Jim Malson knew exactly what was expected of him.

Monday, January 28, 1985 O&E

The Plymouth Canton 294-pound heavyweight wrestler looked at the scoreboard prior to his bout with Plymouth Salem's Marc Cygan. It showed Salem ahead 29-25. Maison's mission was clear: win by a pin or major decision and win the meet.

Two minutes and 43 seconds later, Malson's meaty arms were raised above his head in triumph. He was mobbed by his teammates. Cygan lay prostrate on the mat, defeated.

Malson's pin gave Canton a shocking come-from-behind 31-29 victory Thursday night over the rival Rocks, and it provided a most fitting climax to a dramatic night of wrestling.

For Malson, though, the heroics were just part of his job.

"I did it last year, four times," Malson said. "Four times the meet came down to me and four times I came through. I'm not about to stop now."

BUT, WHAT about the pressure, Jim? Surely your nerves were a little frayed?

"No. I'm getting kind of used to it," the likeable big man said. "It's a great feeling, though."

It must have been. Malson trailed after the first 2-minute period, 4-1. But, early in the second period, he rolled over Cygan (who weighs some 60 pounds less than Malson) like a steamroller and flattened him to the mat.

Though Malson was the hero, several teammates and few intangible factors set the stage.

"In all fairness to Salem," said a modest Canton coach Rick Menoch afterwards, "their 198-pounder was out and that made a big difference."

heavyweight, Salem had a comfortable 29-19 lead.

But Salem's 198-pounder, Brian Johnson, was ruled academically ineli- us," said Menoch. "That's about all I gible. As a result, Canton's Ernie can say." Krumm scored a fast 54-second pin over Pete Zorney, a junior varsity wrestler. That allowed Canton back into contention.

Krumm and Johnson were 1-1 against each other this season.

"I'D LIKE to say that this wasn't our team, but I guess this is our team now," said Salem coach Ron Krueger. "You With two matches left, 198 and can't take anything away from Canton.

You can't blame Krueger if he felt a tinge of deja vu Thursday night. The loss was very reminiscent of last year's Canton victory over Salem. The Rocks built up a big lead through the light and middle weights, only to see it disappear in the upper weights.

"I though after last year the kids would be sky high for this meet," Krueger said. "But I guess we just can't get up to wrestle Canton."

And, like last year, Tim Birely was a thorn in Salem's side. Last year, he battled Salem's Rick Vershave to a tie a major and moral victory for the Chiefs. This year be battled Kevin Freeman to a 2-2 tie at 119. Freeman had never lost to Birely.

Canton had a surprise waiting for the Rocks even before the meet started. Menoch announced that Jeff Condit would be wrestling at 105. Condit, who was one of the area's best at 105 as a sophomore last year, had opted not to wrestle this year. But, he changed his mind. With very little time for preparation, Condit outpointed Salem's Tim

The large crowd in the Salem gym was treated to some thrilling matches. The meet featured marvelouly skilled wrestlers like the Dameron brothers, Dennis at 98 and Dave at 126, both pinning their opponents and Eric Retting pinning his man at 155 in 1:42. For Canton, there was Dave Dunford, whipping his opponent 21-1 at 112 and Jay Pollard sticking his foe in just 59 seconds. And there were the dogfights.

Dave Dameron (on top in a match earlier this season) helped Salem to an early lead against Canton Thursday.

Salem's Bill Morely had all he could handle in Jim Parks at 138. Parks had Morely on his back much of the match and led at one point 4-0. But Morely, in a matter of seconds, reeled off 5 straight points in the second period and the 5-4 count stood up.

The Andy Ward-Scott Tasker match at 145 was billed as the bout of the meet and it lived up to expectations. Tasker led 2-1 with just 27 seconds left about."

in the match. But Ward scored 3 quick points to take a 4-2 lead. Tasker got one back in the closing seconds but time ran out.

ANYONE WHO missed this meet really missed out on seeing how exciting the wrestling is in the Plymouth-Canton area," Menoch said. "Those that

Greg Wolff scored two of Salem's three second- good as the Rocks could do against powerful place finishes Thursday night, which was as Livonia Stevenson.

An era has ended. But is another poised and ready to spring up and replace the fallen empire?

Only time can answer whether Livonia Stevenson's swimmers can construct a dynasty as impressive as the one Chuck Olson built at Plymouth Saum, particularly with the admittance of a strong North Farmington team into the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) next year.

But last Thursday, the youth-oriented Spartans looked every bit like a power coming of age, sweeping every first place in routing the Rocks 120-52 in the Salem pool.

The win kept Stevenson unbeaten in the WLAA and a shoo-in for the Lakes Division title. And the best just might be in the future. The Spartans have only 5 seniors, with 9 juniors, 10 sophomores and 7 freshmen.

THE SALEM meet was domination pure and simple, and it ended the stranglehold the Rocks' have had on the top spot in the WLAA since the circuit formed. It was the first-ever league loss for the Rocks after 19 straight vic-

"This meant everything for us," said Stevenson coach Doug Buckler, who bested Olson for the first time in dual meet competition. "We're going to build big from this.

"We swam well tonight, but we can do better at league. You saw a bunch of psyched-up swimmers out there. There were a lot of mental swims tonight. But by the league meet, we'll be mentally and physically ready."

THAT'S OMINOUS news for the rest of the WLAA. Olson was impressed with Stevenson's strength Thursday, admitting that "some of their times are what we were shooting for at the league meet.

"They're very impressive. I knew we were behind but not that far behind.

Ministrelli, a senior, outdueled Salem's Greg Wolff in both the 200 and 500 freestyles. Ministrelli was clocked at 1:51.39 to Wolff's 1:51.96 in the 200, and the Spartan won the 500 in 5:02.45 to edge Wolff, who was a touch behind in 5:02.66 in the best race of the night.

Hawks stone frigid Chiefs

By C.J. Risek staff writer

And you thought the weather was colc You should have seen Plymouth Canton's basketball team Friday night. Cold? Nah - Farmington Harrison's shooters were cold. They hit just 19 of 46 floor shots, a meager .413 percent.

Canton's offensive performance signalled the coming of another ice age. The Ice Man Cometh? Heck, he drove the Canton bus to Harrison.

THE FINAL score was Harrison 44, Canton 29. But don't be misled: The frontrunning Hawks had this one wrapped up by the end of the third quarter, despite their own offensive ineffectivene is that "defense creates offense." It did for the Hawks Friday, but all too often they couldn't finish the play. Harrison gave the ball back to Canton with 26 turnovers, so their offensive play wasn't so sparkling, either.

But it was better than the Chiefs. Ken George canned 3 straight long jumpers over the Canton zone in the opening quarter to belp Harrison to a

IN THE SECOND quarter, Harrison made just 1 of 10 floor shots - and still led 16-9, because Canton was good on only 2 of 8.

An 8-0 Harrison spurt to start the third quarter put the Hawks in charge, 24-9. Joel Mies' basket earned Canton its 10th and 11th points — with 3:27 left in the period. The Chiefs were 2 of 9 from the field in the third, bringing their total at that point to 6 of 28.

Leading scorers were hard to find: John Miller finished with 12 points and 3 assists for Harrison, with George scoring 8 points and dishing out 4 assists. Vince Enright collected 7 points, 13 boards and 3 steals.

The leader for Canton was Matt Levesque, who came off the bench to hit consecutive 3-point plays in the final 2 minutes. He had 6 for the game.

HOWEVER IT looked - as Teachman described it, "The guys in the stands in togas were dressed appropriately," - it was another win for Harrison. The Hawks are starting to make a mockery of the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) Western Division race. They're 6-1, 3 games up on second-place Livonia Churchill.

Canton is 3-7 overall and 2-5 in the WLAA, having lost its last 5 games. So is Teachman starting to look

McIntyre's 46 burns Borgess

John McIntyre stole the ball at the Bishop Borgess free throw line. As he crossed halfcourt the Catholic Central crowd rose in unison.

"Dunk, dunk, dunk," they chanted. McIntyre began his ascent toward the basket maybe two or three feet inside the free throw line. He reached the apex of his leap and the rim simultaneously. With two Borgess players pestering, John McIntyre, to the absolute delight of the jam-packed Borgess gym, slammed the ball through the hoop and was fouled

Recruiting war heats up over Miller

staff writer

It's to nobody's surprise that Farmington Harrison's John Miller is Observerland's most heavily recruited football player.

The state's No. 1 blue-chipper is being courted by five major college football powers. It appears that Michigan State and Michigan have the inside track. The all-purpose back, however, has already visited Ohio State and Penn State and plans on seeing Pitts-burgh before the Wednesday, Feb. 13,

Because of his abilities on and off the football field, Miller has been getting a lot of attention lately.

MSU coach George Peries and De-troit Tiger Kirk Gibson peid a visit to one of Miller's basketball games last week. Michigan coach Bo Schembechler, meanwhile, flew in by helicopter to see Miller practice, courtesy of Tiger owner Tom Monaghan.

Ocelots prevail in OT thriller

With its top three scorers on the bench, Schoolcraft College's women's basketball team got a lift from reserves Amy Brow and Rhonda Lancaster in toppling Alpena 71-63 in overtime Friday at Alpena.

Kim Chandler and Caryn Lamb both fouled out for Schoolcraft in regulation, leaving the player-short Ocelots with no other reserves to summon. When Missy Aiken followed them to the bench with 2:30 remaining in the overtime, Schoolcraft was forced to play with just four players.

This could be the start of something big. Just listen to Schoolcraft College men's basketball coach Rocky Watkins. Watkins called the Ocelots' 61-51 win over Macomb CC last week "our best game of the season." "We're a pre-forminantly freshman team, but now we're learning what it takes to win on the college level," said Watkins. "We're doing the things that are necessary to win."

It was Schoolcraft's third straight victory. The Ocelots are 10-12 overall and 3-3 in the Eastern Conference.

Depth is no longer a problem with Ocelots now that two of the team's leading scorers, Harold Hartin and James Orr, have returned.
