Blue ribbon panel eyes ways to cut red ink

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

A special Blue Ribbon Study Committee has recommended that Plymouth's budget cuts not be limited to the police department in an attempt to make up lost revenue.

The committee, appointed last month in the wake of Plymouth Township's decision to terminate a $467,000-a-year contract for police services, reported to the City Commission Monday night.

"With regard to the disbursement of funds received from Plymouth Township, it was determined that the entire amount has been placed into the general fund and it is impossible to determine exactly where the funds were expended," said Mayor Pro Tem William Robinson, committee chairman.

"It was also determined that although the police department benefited indirectly from these funds, the entire city operation also benefited, and thus, the police department budget should not bear the entire burden resulting from the loss of these funds," Robinson said.

The committee, which included members of the City Commission, administration and Plymouth Police Officers Association (PPOA), was charged with addressing several questions raised by the police union — including what happened to the money from the township contract.

Besides addressing the disbursement of funds, the committee reported back with several suggestions for making up the lost revenue.

AFTER REVIEWING city budgets going back to the 1979-80 fiscal year, the committee reported its findings in regard to revenue and expenditure percentages.

Overall, the police expenditures remained relatively constant after the first year of the shared service contract, even though the contract revenues increased.

cal year 1979-80 — public safety expenditures represented 28 percent of the city budget. Public safety includes police and fire.

In fiscal 1980-81 the contract was initiated, at an annual cost of $103,500. The contract represented 2.56 percent of the city revenues, while the public safety costs went to 28.9 percent of city expenditures. The police budget in 1980-81 was $675,645.

In fiscal 1981-82 the contract rose to $354,846, or 7.5 percent of total revenues. Police expenditures went to $846,109, and public safety represented 30.7 percent of total expenditures.

In fiscal 1982-83 the contract went to $423,140, or 9.1 percent of total revenues. Police expenditures were $877,496, and public safety fell to 29.8 percent of the expenditures.

In fiscal 1983-84 the contract rose to $440,165, or 9.2 percent of total revenues. Police expenditures went to $900,844, and public safety went up to 30.1 percent of total expenditures.

The 1985 budget projects the contract at $437,000, while police expenditures are budgeted at $892,335. Obviously, actual costs and percentages of the total won't be available until the 1984-85 fiscal year ends in June.

AS FOR savings, the committee recommended several ways to cut the budget for a total of $110,000. Those reductions include:

- A reduction in police overtime, estimated to save $50,000 a year. This would involve cutting surveillance, restructuring the department to four teams which would work 12-hour shifts, and appointing a court officer from within the department.

- Cutting the amount of supplies purchased by the department, estimated to save $5,000 a year. This could be done relatively easily due to the smaller area being patrolled.

- Reducing the amount spent on prisoner lodging, estimated to save $5,000 a year. This is another natural reduction due to the smaller patrol area.

- Reduction in the rentals account for police vehicles, estimated to save $30,000 a year. This would require a smaller fleet, which Robinson said could be accomplished without the township contract.

"Not tearing through the bumpy roads in the township will reduce the wear and tear on the cars so we don't need as many," he said.

- Reductions in medical insurance costs as a result of voluntary enrollment by all city employees in a Health Maintenance Organization (HMO) plan, estimated to save $20,000 a year. Also, employees who are covered by a spouse's insurance would be offered monetary incentives to opt out of the city's insurance, as well as negotiating with employees eligible to receive Medicaid.

Hockey player dies in mishap

City officials believe nothing could have been done to prevent a 19-year-old hockey player's fatal injury Friday night at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

"We've reviewed a video tape of the incident. It was just a freak accident," recreation director Chuck Skene said Monday night at a pre-City Commission meeting.

Omnicom Cablevision was at the ice arena Friday night, taping the Michigan Amateur Hockey Association Junior C State Championship Tournament.

It was during the first game, between the Plymouth Junior C team and the Sterling Heights USA Arena Jets, that Mike Grosfield of Shelby Township crashed head-first into the boards and broke his neck. He died Saturday at the University of Michigan Medical Center's Mott Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Weekend reports about the incident said that Grosfield, a Jets player, had been checked into the boards by a Plymouth player.

"There was no check involved. No Plymouth player touched him," Skene said.

"He went to make a check on a Plymouth player, went off balance, and went into the boards head first," he said. "If a Plymouth player touched him, it was because he grazed the player as he went by."

Skene told city commissioners that if Grosfield had successfully checked the Plymouth player, he most likely would have been called for charging — due to the speed at which Grosfield was moving.

Grosfield was wearing a helmet and face mask, as required by state rules, Skene said.

THE GAME action was stopped after Grosfield hit the boards.

Emergency personnel responded to the ice arena and transported him to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia. From there he was taken by helicopter to Mott Hospital.

His teammates paused for a prayer and completed the game.

According to family members, Grosfield severed his spinal cord. His father, Donald, is a Jets manager and was on the bench Friday night. He saw the incident and later told a reporter his son said he couldn't breathe or move.

Saturday the family made the decision to take Grosfield off a respirator. He died some 10 minutes later.

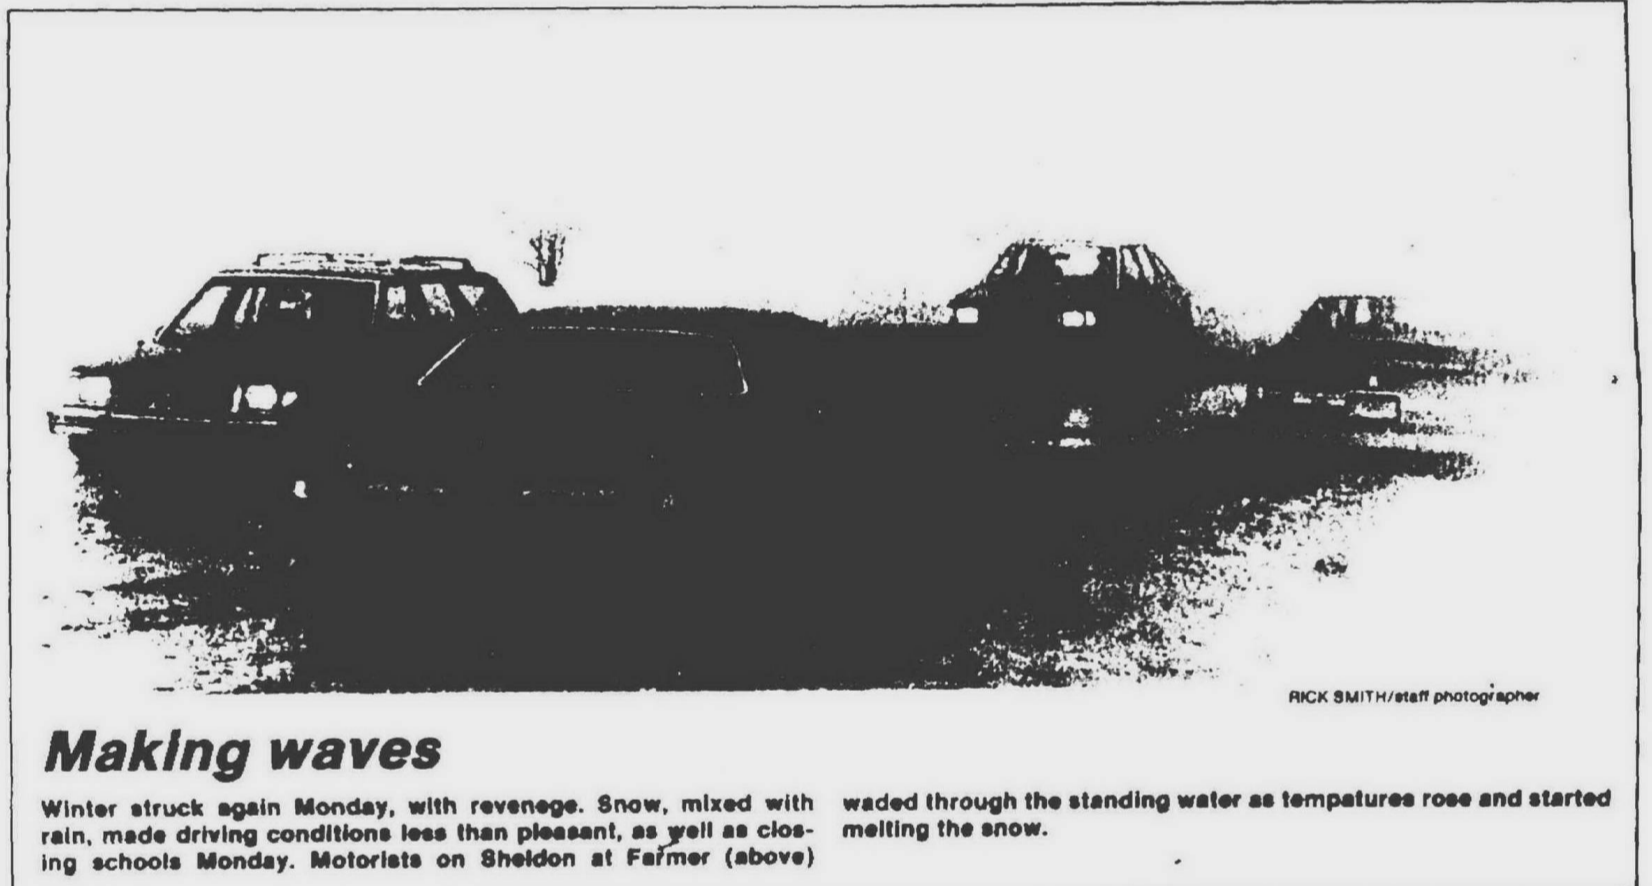

Grosfield, also a business student at Macomb County Community College, started playing hockey at age 14. Friends said he loved the game and spent most of his free time on the ice.

His father, who got involved in hockey because of his son, said it's a good sport and that he hoped the accident wouldn't discourage other players.

Skene, who has managed the ice arena for 11 years, said this was the first serious accident he has seen on the ice.

Services for Grosfield were held Wednesday in St. Kieran Roman Catholic Church in Utica.

Besides his father, other survivors include mother, Elizabeth, sister, Beth, brothers, Robert and Mark, and grandmothers, Louise Grosfield and Elizabeth Shamaghan.

Bonds sought to remove asbestos

By M.B. Dillon Ward
staff writer

Mention freshman legislator James Kosteva, D-Canton, in a Van Buren school and you're likely to have mentioned a friend.

State Rep. Kosteva — whose 37th

District includes the school districts of Plymouth-Canton, Wayne-Westland and Van Buren — has introduced a package of bills which would allow school districts to use the state bond bank to remove asbestos in school buildings.

"Friable" asbestos — the kind that can be crumbled — has been identified as a carcinogen by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

"The new shared-credit program will enable us to issue state bonds on behalf of local school districts to pay for removal of school asbestos," said Kosteva.

"Such bonds should save school districts money through lower interest and issuance costs and provide them with an incentive to move quickly to remove this hazard."

Kosteva's proposals — currently in committee — would take advantage of the state's improved credit rating and amend laws to make available loans to school districts for bond repayments.

The EPA has begun fining school boards that have not obeyed federal regulations that require the surveying of all school buildings for asbestos, and the notification of teachers and parents of pupils when asbestos is found, Kosteva said.

NEITHER PLYMOUTH-CANTON nor Wayne-Westland schools are saddled with the costly burden of removing or covering friable asbestos, used before 1976 for insulating and fireproofing.

"We pounced upon it with great dexterity back in July, 1979," said Rich LeBlanc, Plymouth-Canton supervisor of operations and maintenance. "This district and others stayed right on top of it from the beginning."

Wayne-Westland Schools likewise "have done a great bit of work going back to 1977, '79," at a cost of about $82,000, said Thomas Blacklock, district deputy superintendent.

Van Buren, whose voters have defeated several millages in recent years, hasn't been as lucky.

"IT'S A nightmare I inherited," said Ed Randolph, supervisor of buildings

Cops hop to pop chop shops

Automobile thieves continue to plague Plymouth

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

In the old days they used to hang horse thieves. If someone showed up in town with a stolen horse, the townsfolk would reach for the rope.

Today things have changed. Horses have been replaced by automobiles and the rope has been traded in for a stint in the state pokey. But the problem of theft remains.

The lawmen of yesteryear had an advantage over today's police officers. A stolen horse was easy to identify — there weren't any "chop shops."

Today's officers usually find only the remains of a stolen car, with the valuable items stripped and sold.

"We don't recover that many stolen cars in Plymouth," said Lt. Robert Commire. "What's left of them we usually find in Detroit."

NONETHELESS, automobile theft is an increasing problem for police.

Last year alone, some 84 cars and trucks were taken from the Plymouth area — 62 from Plymouth Township and 22 from Plymouth.

The figures for the first two months of 1985 show the rate is increasing. Already 20 vehicles have been reported stolen — 14 from the township and six from the city. It equates to an average of 10 per month, compared to last year's average of seven per month.

And, as the cars disappear, unwanted auto parts find their way back to vacant fields and remote roads around Plymouth. The number of parts scattered around the area leads some to believe a chop shop is operating close by.

"It doesn't really mean a chop shop is near this area. You'll find auto parts all around — on the side roads to the railroad tracks and in fields," Commire said.

"On the whole, most of our thefts are being done by people coming out of Detroit because that's where we find them," Commire said.

UNLIKE THE problem with stolen wheel covers and radar detectors, Det. Mike Gardner said stolen auto parts many times work their way back into the market through legitimate sources.

One local auto dealer recently found he was buying car radios (through a legitimate source) that he had reported as stolen, Gardner said.

"Identification is the problem," Gardner said. Many of the auto parts aren't stamped with the vehicle number, making it virtually impossible to identify them as stolen when they get back into the market.

Automakers are planning to stamp vehicle identification numbers on the major parts in the coming years, Gardner said that practice should help with the theft problem.

"When we find a car it's usually the body — just the shell basically," Commire said. "The engine, the transmission, the seats and the fenders usually are gone."

Usually a car is stolen because there is a specific need for the parts, Commire said.

"These chop shops have gotten sophisticated enough that they even steal them by color."

"Typically they go for the upper cost vehicles and Camaros and Trans Ams. We get a lot of Buicks, Oldsmobiles and Cadillacs taken, and some Ford products," he said.

THE MAJORITY of Plymouth's auto thefts occur in business parking lots, and usually involve 1980 and newer models.

During January, the following vehicles were stolen: three Buicks, '81, '82 and '84; two '82 Chevrolet Camaro Z38s; two Chryslers, '84 and '85; one '82 Cadillac; one '80 Chevrolet; and a '77

Chevrolet El Camino.

During February, the following were stolen: three Pontiacs, two '82s and an '84, two Chevrolets, a '77 Malibu and an '81 Chevette; one '81 Cadillac; one '84 Buick; one '83 Oldsmobile; and two '78 pickup trucks, a Ford and a Chevrolet.

To protect against theft, Commire and Gardner remind motorists to lock their doors and take their keys.

Also, as was suggested to protect against wheel cover and radar detector theft, Gardner said to park in areas which receive the most foot traffic. At night time he also suggests well-lighted areas.

Alarms and ignition "kill switches" are another good means of protecting your investment, he said.

The best way to battle theft is to reduce the opportunity for it to occur, Gardner said. By parking in conspicuous areas, the thief is forced to take a greater risk when trying to steal the car — make the thief be seen.

"The majority of the thefts involve blowing a window out with a pellet gun," Commire said.

Also, both officers encourage residents to report anything or anybody in a parking lot that appears to be suspicious.

OL Schools celebrate centennial

Campus reaches out to community

EVEN THOUGH the Orchard Lake Schools are 100 years old this year, few people know anything about them or their grounds on the east shore of Orchard Lake.

The Rev. Jim Mazurek, chairman of the schools' centennial celebration, realizes the schools suffer from an identity crisis. That's why many centennial festivities are geared toward bringing together alumni, friends, visitors and neighbors of the schools.

"It's an opportunity to come out here and say 'wow,'" Mazurek said. "Alumni need to experience that because they may be living out of a framework of what it was like in 1945 or 1961. And members of the community who say 'We don't know what's out there' will have an opportunity to learn more about us."

For the record, Orchard Lake Schools is the umbrella name under which three schools — St. Mary's Preparatory, St. Mary's College and SS. Cyril and Methodius Seminary — operate.

"It's hard to keep clear," Mazurek conceded, "because while each school is distinct, they are sister schools. They help one another, share faculty, the library and a dining hall. But most constituents identify only with the seminary."

THE SEMINARY, a Roman Catholic seminary and graduate school of theology, prepares men for the priesthood, and it offers a variety of programs to prepare men and women, both religious and lay, for pastoral ministry and religious education.

The Polish Seminary, forerunner of Orchard Lake Schools and SS. Cyril and Methodius Seminary, was founded by the Rev. Joseph Dabrowski 100 years ago. The cornerstone of the original building on St. Aubin and Forest on Detroit's east side was laid in July 1885.

Dabrowski, according to a Detroit Free Press article dated July 23, 1885, said at the time: "I have in view the education of the Polish candidates for the priesthood and the education of others. . . . We Poles have the right to enjoy complete liberty in this country, but liberty cannot be enjoyed fully by uneducated people."

TWENTY-FOUR YEARS later, in 1909, the seminary transferred to Orchard Lake, occupying the grounds of the former Michigan Military Academy.

"It was a bold move in those days because there was nothing out here then," Mazurek said.

The seminary that stands on the 60-acre grounds of Orchard Lake Schools was built in 1914-15. Twenty-one men are preparing for the priesthood there this year. Forty-four others are involved in graduate studies.

The seminary still trains priests to serve the needs of Polish-American communities — "If we ever lose that, we have no reason to be here," Mazurek said.

"But you don't have to be Polish to attend," he added.

ST. MARY'S College is a four-year, co-educational, Catholic liberal arts college. It offers bachelor of arts, science and business administration degrees, and 264 students are enrolled there this year.

"The college has gone 50-50 commuter in the last few years, and we're getting more adult education students," Mazurek said.

St. Mary's Preparatory is a boarding school that offers a four-year program for boys in pre-college studies. It has 195 students.

Starting in the fall, a day-only option (no boarding) will be offered. "That's an example of how we're reaching out more to the community," Mazurek said.

All disciplines include studies in ethics, said Judy Holmes, the schools' public relations director. "That way we provide a bridge between one's religious convictions and the work-a-day world."

The schools operate on a $3 million annual budget, more than half of which is derived from contributions.

Mazurek said, "The seminary is the principle — but not the exclusive — reason contributors send donations." But all funds, unless earmarked for a specific purpose, are distributed among the three schools, he added.

THE HIGHLIGHT of yearlong centennial events (see accompanying story), Mazurek said, will come Thursday, July 25.

An outdoor Mass will be celebrated that day by Archbishop of Detroit Edmund Szoka. All American and Polish bishops — about 440 of them — have been invited to attend, as have alumni, friends and neighbors.

"The celebration will bring people from all over the country," Mazurek said. "The hotbeds of Polish-American communities — Buffalo, Syracuse, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Chicago — have been very loyal to us."

"The Archbishop of Detroit has personally written and invited the bishops — and asked them to consider in the future sending students from their diocese to attend Orchard Lake Schools," Mazurek said.

THE PRIMATE of Poland, Jozef Cardinal Glemp, has been invited, and "we hope he will be here for the 25th," Mazurek said.

"It depends on conditions (in Poland) at the time. If he feels he can leave and get back in, he'll come, but we may not know until right before (July 25)."

Archbishop of Philadelphia John Cardinal Kroll, the highest ranking Orchard Lake Schools alumnus, will be on hand. And Pio Laghi, "the representative of the Holy Father, will bring special greetings."

"But we do not anticipate in anyway" that Pope John Paul II will attend, Mazurek said. "If it happened, we'd be as surprised as anyone."

The Pope visited the Orchard Lake campus twice before his installation, in 1969 and 1976, Mazurek noted.

Mass highlights festivities of century-old institution

MANY EVENTS are scheduled throughout 1985 to commemorate 100 years of Orchard Lake Schools.

The biggest event, the centennial observance, is Thursday, July 25. An outdoor Mass will be celebrated with Archbishop of Detroit Edmund Szoka presiding.

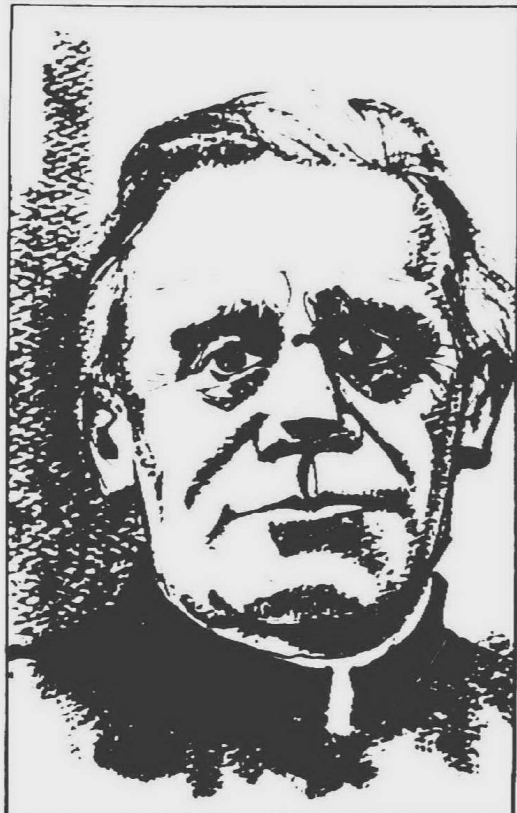

The Primate of Poland, Josef Cardinal Glemp, is expected to attend depending "on conditions at the time (in Poland)," said the Rev. Jim Mazurek, centennial chairman.

All, or about 350, American bishops have been invited to attend, and thousands of alumni and friends of the schools will be on hand, Mazurek said. A banquet will follow.

Here is a list of other important events. For a complete list and more information on all events, call Judy Holmes, director of public relations, at 682-1885.

Salt substitute suggested for clearing the streets

By W.W. Edger
staff writer

The bill now pending in the state Legislature that was introduced by two members from the Upper Peninsula to ban the use of salt on the streets and roads during the winter weather meets with little enthusiasm by the people in the Plymouth area.

According to the bill the use of salt is dangerous to health because it sinks into the ground and eventually helps to destroy the water. The bill also claimed that salt poisons the entire water system and that sand could be used as a substitute at a much lower cost.

It was pointed out that the salt now costs close to $30 a ton compared to $5 for sand. This, the lawmakers said, would save taxpayers a lot of money aside from protecting health.

THESE ARGUMENTS created little enthusiasm in Plymouth.

For instance, Plymouth Township Clerk Esther Hulsing explained that the township salts only the intersections and the state and county take care of the roads.

"We wouldn't be saving much money," she said, "and, after all, our doctors want to use a bit of salt to keep our health. So, I would suggest that we retain the salt, but like our doctors say, it should be used sparingly."

Plymouth City Manager Henry Graper pointed out that the city used 949 tons of salt during this winter at a cost of $19.84 a ton. While sand might cost only half as much, he added, it would clog the drains and cost just as much to keep the drains cleaned.

Graper wondered what could be used as a good substitute that wouldn't cause any extra expense or extra work. He had little hope that sand would be suitable.

"We might wind up with clogged sewers and that would cause as much trouble as the use of salt."

JACK WILCOX, a resident who has weathered many winters in the city, is not opposed to a substitute, but wouldn't favor the use of sand.

"The only ones who would like the sand are the cats and they would just make a big sand box out of our streets. That wouldn't help things at all."

"Our main trouble down here is ice," said Ken Way, the city treasurer/assessor. "That's different than the Upper Peninsula where they deal mostly with snow. They don't have to fight the ice like we do."

Way would favor a substitute for salt if it did the job. But as matters stand now, we will have to get along with salt, but probably it should be used sparingly.

MARY BROOKS, Plymouth Township Treasurer, felt much the same. "While it doesn't cost us much in the township to keep the intersections clean, I still think the salt should be used sparingly until something better comes along."

So, if the rest of the state feels like the residents in the Plymouth area, there is little hope of the bill passing if it ever comes to a vote.

Bank branch now is open

Michigan National Bank-West Metro officially has opened its new branch offices on Ann Arbor Road at Haggerty in Plymouth Township.

A ribbon-cutting ceremony held last week was attended by Township Clerk Esther Hulsing and Township Treasurer Mary Brooks.

The manager of the new branch is Gregory Knoph who has been with Michigan National for 15 years, 10 as a branch manager. Knoph is active with the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

Michigan National Bank-West Metro, which has 17 branch offices in Plymouth, Canton, Northville and Livonia, is a subsidiary of the Michigan National Corp.

Other suggestions were made to negotiate concessions with the police union, offer early retirement (estimated to save $100,000 a year), hire a police chief from within the department (a $55,000 a year savings), implement a city hiring freeze, ask residents for a one-mill property tax increase, and ask for concessions from other departments.

"WE BELIEVE the report speaks for itself," said Mike Gardner, police union president.

"We were very pleased with the interest and sincerity of everyone who went into the committee," he said.

Robinson echoed Gardner's comment, commending the police representatives.

"They realize the problem and they sat down with an open mind, just as we did, and wanted to solve the problem," Robinson said.

"I wasn't exactly sure what the focus of the committee would be when we went into it. The committee addressed all the aspects of the questions we raised," Gardner said. "I was satisfied with the language in the report."

"It's a matter of speculation what departments of the city would benefit greater from the police contract funds."

City Manager Henry Graper and his bargaining team were scheduled to meet with the police union yesterday to discuss the labor contract.

"We are not going to open up the contract unless we mutually agree to the terms of opening up the contract," Gardner said.

"We are not opening up the contract for the sole purpose of granting concessions. We are going in with the intention of exploring the possibilities of concessions; however concessions are one part of the whole picture."

State bonds sought for school asbestos removal and grounds for the Van Buren district, which extends into southwest Canton.

"The whole deal has got me angry. I was a little boy when this (asbestos) was going in. No one (informed about the dangers of asbestos) was around then. Now with this job I'm responsible for getting rid and control of it."

"We have 18 buildings, and all but three have (asbestos)," added Randolph. "This has been going on for three or four years, and it just gets to you. There are other things that need taking care of."

Asbestos is abundant in false ceilings and boiler rooms in Belleville High School, a 60-year-old building, "so we have to find the old drawings and spec work," he said.

"It's terrible. People can't get mad at the asbestos manufacturer, so they get mad at the administration, saying, 'Take care of this, or else.'"

SO FAR, Van Buren schools have spent $10,000 on air testing and encapsulating asbestos "and we're not even near finished," said Randolph.

Encapsulated, or covered asbestos — such as that commonly found in floor tile — is not carcinogenic, according to the EPA.

Randolph lauds Kostova's proposal. "Kostova's action is absolutely welcome. I just wish it didn't take so much time," said Randolph, who said he spends "half my time filling out legal forms on asbestos."

The asbestos situation in Van Buren presents "no reason to panic," cautioned Randolph, adding that asbestos is so plentiful in the environment that "it's part of our society."

"If people read, learn and are educated, they'll understand. If asbestos-insulated surfaces are handled right and treated right, there's no problem."

Friable asbestos that is wet is not hazardous. Protective clothing can be worn to safeguard workers who must handle friable asbestos.

PLYMOUTH-CANTON schools first removed asbestos in 1979 after it was "found in certain places at Central Middle School," said LeBlanc.

A second wave of more sophisticated testing in Plymouth-Canton revealed "there was no friable asbestos prevalent," he added.

The district is going the extra mile, said LeBlanc, who suspects "every building in Plymouth has asbestos, whether it's a school building or not."

"We're doing it one more time. We're bringing in a high-caliber state-recognized company" to test, using the best technology available, he said.

Pipes and boilers now are rewrapped with fiberglass. Areas containing asbestos fibers that could become airborne (and inhaled) are marked and recorded, said LeBlanc.

"Our workers are informed that if asbestos is obvious in any area they go into to get a hold of us and we'll get a hold of them," he added.

"People are well-aware of what's going on. The more educated people are in the district, the better off we are," said LeBlanc, who has attended asbestos seminars.

WHILE WAYNE-Westland schools presently are able to "meet all (federal) regulations," he welcomes the news" of Kostova's bill, said Blacklock.

"As in most schools, we have asbestos that is in perfectly good shape. I think it's going to be a question of some sort of abatement program to make sure it stays in good shape, or to remove it," he said.

Wayne-Westland, which is "exploring the possibility" of litigation against an asbestos manufacturer, has "completely removed some ceiling areas, pipes and boilers," added Blacklock.

Like Plymouth-Canton, Wayne-Westland has tested extensively for asbestos in its 20 buildings and plans to use the most advanced methods available in future tests.

Less-fortunate Van Buren Schools have plenty of company throughout the state.

"Michigan's Department of Education has identified more than 500 school buildings in the state that contain more than 1,000,000 square feet of potentially harmful asbestos," said Kostova.

After five or six years, the Van Buren district finally adopted a millage — heralding good news for those concerned about both academics and asbestos.

How to run for school bd

Any resident of Canton or Plymouth interested in serving on the school board has about one month to pick up, circulate and return nominating petitions.

The deadline to file nominating petitions is 4 p.m. Monday, April 8, with the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education office at 454 S. Harvey in Plymouth.

In the June 10 school board election, residents will be voting to fill one four-year term and one two-year term.

The one position is held by David Arley of Canton, who is vice president of the board, and the other by trustee Dean Swartzwelder of Plymouth Township who was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Tom Yack of Canton.

Nominating petition forms are available from the Board of Education office. Petitions may be picked up or returned from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

Each petition must contain a minimum of 20 valid signatures, a figure based on the number of voters in the last school election. The last day on which a potential candidate can withdraw from the ballot is 4 p.m. Thursday, April 11.

For more election information, call 451-4422.

RICK SMITH/staff photographer

Honored for art

Five students at Plymouth Salem High recently received art awards, ranging from blue ribbon to certificates of merit, from the Michigan Chapter of the Scholastic Art Awards. More than 8,000 pieces of art were entered in categories ranging from drawing, painting and sculpture to ceramics, jewelry and graphic designs. Some 1,200 pieces of art were selected to be exhibited for two weeks, ending Sunday, at Tel-12 Mall in Southfield. The Blue Ribbon winner from Salem was Topher Crowder (above), a junior. Gold Key winners were Barb Wilson, Pat Arella and Crowder while certificate of merit winners were Lisa Castrodale, Crowder, and Debbie Starr. As winner of the Blue Ribbon, the highest award given, Crowder's work will be entered in national competition in New York City. Kris Darby is the art teacher at Salem.

PLEASE HELP US...

WE NEED YOU!

Our never-ending THANKS to all the many animal lovers who opened up their hearts and helped us save our shelter...for now.

The DANGER of losing our home is not over yet! Our monthly mortgage continues and a balance payment of $55,000 is due soon.

Our home is a SAFE house for animals because we have a "NO DESTROY" policy: EVERY ANIMAL BROUGHT TO US STAYS HERE UNTIL A NEW HOME CAN BE FOUND.

This means that feeding, caring for and sometimes nursing back to health some 500 cats and dogs daily is EXTREMELY COSTLY.

Will you help keep all of our kittens, puppies, cats and dogs alive and well?

WE NEED YOUR HELP NOW!!!

Your dollars, few or many, will make the difference between our LIVING OR DYING.

PLEASE HELP US...THANK YOU!

STATE TAX GUIDE

The Michigan Taxpayer's Guide, a booklet with helpful hints on filling out this year's tax forms, is available at post offices and banks, or by writing State Rep. Gerald Law, State Capitol, Lansing 48909 or calling Law at 1-517-373-3816. The guide contains information on property taxes, the property tax credit, the Michigan income tax, the single business tax and other tax-related subjects.

RIDE WITH US

Plymouth Area Citizen's Team (PACT) is looking for new members. Take a ride with a PACT member and see how the team of volunteers works. For more information call 455-5396.

WEATHER SPOTTERS

Training meetings are held from 9 a.m. to noon on the fourth Saturday of each month at Plymouth Township Hall, Mill at Ann Arbor Road. Volunteers are trained by the Plymouth Township Office of Emergency Preparedness as severe weather spotters. As part of the area's early warning system, the volunteers are trained to spot and report emergency weather situations such as tornadoes, severe wind or hail storms.

SNOW REMOVAL

The Plymouth Post Office asks businesses and residents to help prevent slips, trips and falls by letter carriers due to the snow and ice by clearing and salting the pathways to mail receptacles. Carriers will make every effort to deliver the mail but if the approach to a letter box is obstructed by snow and ice, delivery may not be possible.

The City of Plymouth reminds residents that they must remove the snow and ice from their sidewalks within 24 hours after a snowfall. Failure to do so may result in the DPW cleaning the walks at a cost of $40 per hour with a one-hour minimum.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS

Special Olympics, an international program of physical fitness, sport training and athletic competition for mentally impaired children and adults, is being formed in the Plymouth-Canton area. Anyone interested in participating should contact a representative of the Special Education Parent Advisory Committee (SEFAC) at 455-7684 or 420-0509.

ON-THE-JOB TRAINING

The employment program of the Wayne County Office on Aging now is accepting applications for on-the-job training programs. The programs include on-the-job training with pay for a variety of positions in such fields as health care, sales, secretarial, clerical and maintenance. Assistance is provided for job search skills, resume writing, interview techniques, self-confidence building, and goal setting. Eligibility criteria includes age 55 or older, low income, resident of Wayne County (excluding downriver and Detroit). For information, contact Herbert Alexander or Larry Gentile at 467-3454.

SOAPSTONE CARVING

A rare soapstone collection is on exhibit through April 24 at the Plymouth Historical Museum, 155 S. Main at Church. Soapstone carving, a "cottage industry" of China passed down from one generation to the next, dates back to the Sung Dynasty (960-1279 A.D.). Also on exhibit is the museum's ivory collection (also carved in China); rocks, minerals and fossils displayed by the Plymouth Rock and Mineral Society; and children's chairs (1800s) including highchairs, rocking chairs, and potty chairs. The museum is open from 1-4 p.m. Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. Admission.

CANTON HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Canton Historical Society meets the second Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in the Canton Historical Society Museum on Canton Center Road at Proctor.

WANTED: PARENT & CHILD

The "Y" Indian Guide program involves tribes of 3-8 parents with their children meeting on a rotating basis doing crafts, games or songs. Tribal outings and group Federation outings are held on a regular basis and includes three campouts, tours of points of interest, and skating. The tribes consists of different combinations of fathers-sons, fathers-daughters, mothers-sons, mothers-daughters according to age groups. The program includes a membership in the Plymouth Community Family YMCA. For more information call the Y at 453-2904.

BLOOD PRESSURE CHECKS

Free blood pressure checks are offered by members of the Volunteer Guild of Oakwood Hospital Canton Center 6-8 p.m. each Tuesday in the main lobby of the hospital at Warren and Canton Center Roads in Canton.

CPR CLASS

CPR Heart Saver classes are taught the second Monday of each month at 7 p.m. in Oakwood Hospital Canton Center, Warren at Canton Center Road. This course covers one-person CPR on an adult, and what to do for a person with an obstructed airway.

MINOR HOME REPAIRS

The Conference of Western Wayne Minor Home Repair Program has been funded through Senior Alliance Inc. for fiscal year 1985. The program assists persons 60 and older and owning their home with minor home repair tasks. For information, call 525-8690.

Appreciates story on TAG

To the editor:

Plymouth Canton Association for the Academically Talented (PCAAT) wishes to express its appreciation for the feature on the school district's Talented and Gifted (TAG) Program carried in the Canton and Plymouth Observer Newspapers.

Informative journalism like that makes a significant contribution toward increased public awareness. It promotes community harmony by providing information which reduces people's apprehensions and objections about a program they may not understand.

It also gives the program greatly increased credibility by showing it is supported by a responsible and credible organization in the community — the Observer Newspapers.

School hotline

Information about the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools is available by calling the school hotline at 453-0271, by tuning in Channel 11 on cable television, by calling the school district at 453-0200 or writing Information Services, 454 S. Harvey, Plymouth 48170.

District honors its creative writers

A group of young writers have been awarded Laureate Prizes for Literature by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Laureate prize medals and bookplates were presented recently to the students by members of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education at a special ceremony in Canton Township Hall.

To encourage and recognize excellence in writing, the districtwide Laureate Prizes were created four years ago by the Laureate Committee which is composed of six of the district's learning specialists.

The prizes are an outgrowth of the Young Author's Conference.

The best books are judged by building Laureate Committees in search of Laureate winners. These winning books are published in the annual Laureate Anthology along with the names of those students receiving honorable mention and runner-up prizes.

COPIES OF the anthology are placed in each elementary library so that the writings can serve as models of excellence for other students.

The Laureate Prize winners will be interviewed by board members and principals about their books and future plans. Their teachers will be honored this year with special pins as an author's mentor.

A special Laureate Award was given this year to Anne Whalen for her book of poetry, "Rhyme and Reason."

Winners in the primary division are: Michelle Cronan, Field Elementary; Ben Davidson, Field Elementary; Tami Filas, Miller Elementary. Intermediate winners were: Josh Anderson, Allen Elementary; Mark Madrilejo, Allen Elementary; and Emmy Rosenberger, Smith Elementary.

Authors judged as runners-up are: Jeffrey Martin, Anne Marie Wilson, Jessica Curtin, Carl Hathaway, Matt Homes, Amy Sabo, Meg Strickland, and Geoff Eisenlord.

Authors judged to be honorable mention winners are: Bobby Soule, Stacy Wluthoff, Sara, Zeuty, Taylor Fears, Corey Lindabury, Meghan Lynch, Toby Russell, Elizabeth Rea, Mark Ferris, Vipul R. Panchal, Heather Kaye, Julian Sell, and Andrew Hellman.

At the special ceremony winners were interviewed by school board members and principals about their books and future plans. Their teachers will be honored this year with special pins as author's mentors.

Members of the Laureate Board is Luan Brownlee, chair; Tina Powell, jury chair; Paula Holmes, editor, Laureate Anthology; Irene Finkbeiner, awards chair and budget chair; Vada Starr, corresponding secretary; and Barbara Schoolmeesters, publicity chair. Claudia Nesbitt was involved in the printing and donation of bookplate awards and Janet Woodring was the Anthology typist.

Prison plan would lock up valuable land

Others should shoulder some burden

THE STATE OF Michigan, because of a lack of planning in the past, now is on a crash program to build prisons and seems bent on taking the more expedient, rather than the most sensible, approach.

In recent years, the state has gotten tough on criminals with handguns, repeat offenders, drunk drivers and other classes of crime by calling for mandatory imprisonment and/or lengthening the time spent in prison.

Such moves, of course, require more prison space. But lawmakers, bent on creating a tough-on-crime appearance for constituents at election-time, weren't particularly concerned about the mundane and practical questions of where additional jail cells would be built.

Now the Legislature is operating in a "crisis" mode and is reaching for the cheapest and fastest method of coming up with more prison space. Instead of seeking a rational plan to meet the "crisis," the state reacted like an octopus — grabbing at whatever vacant buildings might be available.

ONE GRAB was at the Detroit House of Corrections (DeHoCo) at Five Mile and Sheldon in Plymouth Township.

Another grab at one of the vacant buildings at Eloise — too old and expensive for Wayne County to use for the medical and mental health needs of the poor, but now considered prime property for prisons by the state.

Particularly disturbing is the state's frantic desire to grab up the DeHoCo site for a state prison. That scheme should be derailed quickly, and for several reasons.

• First, the Plymouth-Northville community (particularly the four-corners of 5 Mile and Sheldon) has absorbed more than its share of government institutions and other non-taxable uses over the years — the TB sanatorium, state mental hospital, children's hospital, racing track, seminary, etc. Few communities in the region have so much acreage off the tax rolls to help meet the needs of society at-large.

• Second, the Phoenix Correctional Facility, originally billed as a temporary prison, already is operating at Five Mile and Sheldon and the Scott Correctional Facility is under construction. To have three prisons at the same intersection is ridiculous.

A large inmate concentration within a small geographical area has proven impractical, as evidenced at the state's Jackson facilities.

• Third, the area itself is not best suited for government institutions. The land is far too valuable to have tax-exempt status and to keep such large tracts off the tax rolls is an inefficient use of land.

Being near a railroad and two expressways (M-14 and I-275), the DeHoCo site is prime industrial property and if so developed, would financially benefit Plymouth Township, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, Wayne County, and Schoolcraft College to name just a few taxing units. No municipal planner in his right mind would ever recommend that such prime industrial land be made tax-exempt, but that has been the case for years and is exactly what the state proposes to continue far into the future.

In general the northwest section of Plymouth Township and northeast section of Northville Township represent some of the prime residential land in the area. Land values tend to rise as you go from north to south and from east to west. Follow these lines out from the center of Detroit and close to where the dollar sign gets the largest, and that's where the state proposes to keep land off the tax rolls.

From a planning and fiscal standpoint, such a proposal can be forgiven only as a byproduct of reacting to crisis.

The land has been wasted long enough. Now is a good time to put it to use.

DETROIT COULD, by selling the DeHoCo site to a private developer, receive a sizeable hunk of change.

By selling DeHoCo, Detroit not only would receive millions of dollars to better its financial position, but also could unload the site and prison operation which has been an albatross around its neck.

Detroit has agreed to a new prison within its city limits. Plymouth-Northville will have two prisons, not counting DeHoCo. These communities are doing their share. They should collectively tell the state to find a city or township with a low proportion of exempt land on its tax roll and build a prison there.

Detroit, Plymouth and Northville all have shouldered their social burdens, and now it's time to pass that privilege to another municipality. Certainly there must be another town or two where a prison can be built. Are there really only three such communities in the state?

Unfortunately, logic will not entirely prevail given the present conditions. The state is backed into a corner and very likely will be unable to box its way out unless relief is provided by Detroit, Plymouth-Northville, and Westland. But that "temporary" relief in time of "crisis" should not be permanent.

Since the critical need now is only for jail cells, Detroit could lease cells at DeHoCo to the state for prison use for a contracted period of time — say five years — until adequate prison facilities are built elsewhere.

Such temporary use would require only that the actual prison building is utilized. The acres and acres of land on the DeHoCo site could then be sold by Detroit and developed industrially or residentially, and be placed on the tax rolls where the land rightfully belongs. When jails are built elsewhere, the DeHoCo building could be razed and the remaining property sold for its best use.

IF SUCH A STEP were taken, the state should invest the necessary money to make the building safe for maximum security prisoners.

To state the current prisoners "escape" from DeHoCo is an exaggeration — they simply walk away, almost at will. If the state were to take over the prison, money would have to be spent to make the building secure. To fail to do so would endanger the safety of a large number of nearby residents — something the state clearly has no right to do.

The Observer takes the position that the DeHoCo site is too valuable in the 1980s to be used for a prison and should be developed to its best use and placed on the tax rolls. As a temporary measure, we would agree to the building being used as a prison but only if money is spent to make it secure and only if the large tract of DeHoCo land is sold off immediately.

The sale would be a good faith pledge by the state to residents that it clearly does not intend to permanently keep prisoners at the intersection — a commitment which must be made if Plymouth-Northville is going to be part of any "bail-out" effort to rescue the state from its lack of planning.

It is far too easy to cry for law and order, and then fight when a prison is proposed in your town. We do not do so. We simply say — we have done our share! Let the state now do what is sensible, not what is expedient.

Political spending has gone overboard

THE CURRENT round of spending for the state Senate seat in Grand Rapids again points out the need for putting some kind of limit on campaign spending.

The principals seeking the 32nd District seat vacated when Paul Henry was elected to Congress have already spent $160,000. Experts think that the Democrats and Republicans will spend up to $500,000 to win the special election set to fill the vacancy.

Admittedly, this is a key seat. If the Democrats win it, they can regain control of the state Senate, lost in the voter rebellion following the income tax increase.

The Republicans want desperately to hang onto the seat to control the one area of state government where they have the power. Democrats have a handy margin in the state House to help Democratic governor James Blanchard.

EVEN SO, $500,000 to merely elect a state senator is way too much. That kind of spending only ensures that residents of the 32nd District area around Grand Rapids will be subjected to a numbing barrage of campaign literature and radio television and newspaper advertisements.

The ads seldom deal with any serious reflection of issues or qualifications and the repetition of slogans, slurs and innuendos is mind-bending. Think back to the deluge of TV ads which arrived one every few minutes during the weeks and days preceding the November general election.

The current no-limit spending practice almost ensures that the candidate with the ability to raise the most funds will rely on advertising methods and avoid or minimize sticking to discussion in public forums of the possible issues and qualifications.

Bob Wisler

INCUMBENTS USUALLY have the hammer when it comes to wringing campaign contributions out of possible donors. Witness the $1 million recently raised by Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, which virtually guarantees that no serious candidate will attempt to debate the issues with Young. If there were a limit on spending for a particular race, a qualified candidate might think about challenging the popular mayor, even for the value of making points in public forums.

The practice of extracting every last contribution possible out of a community also helps ensure incumbents that they will face no challenges in an election.

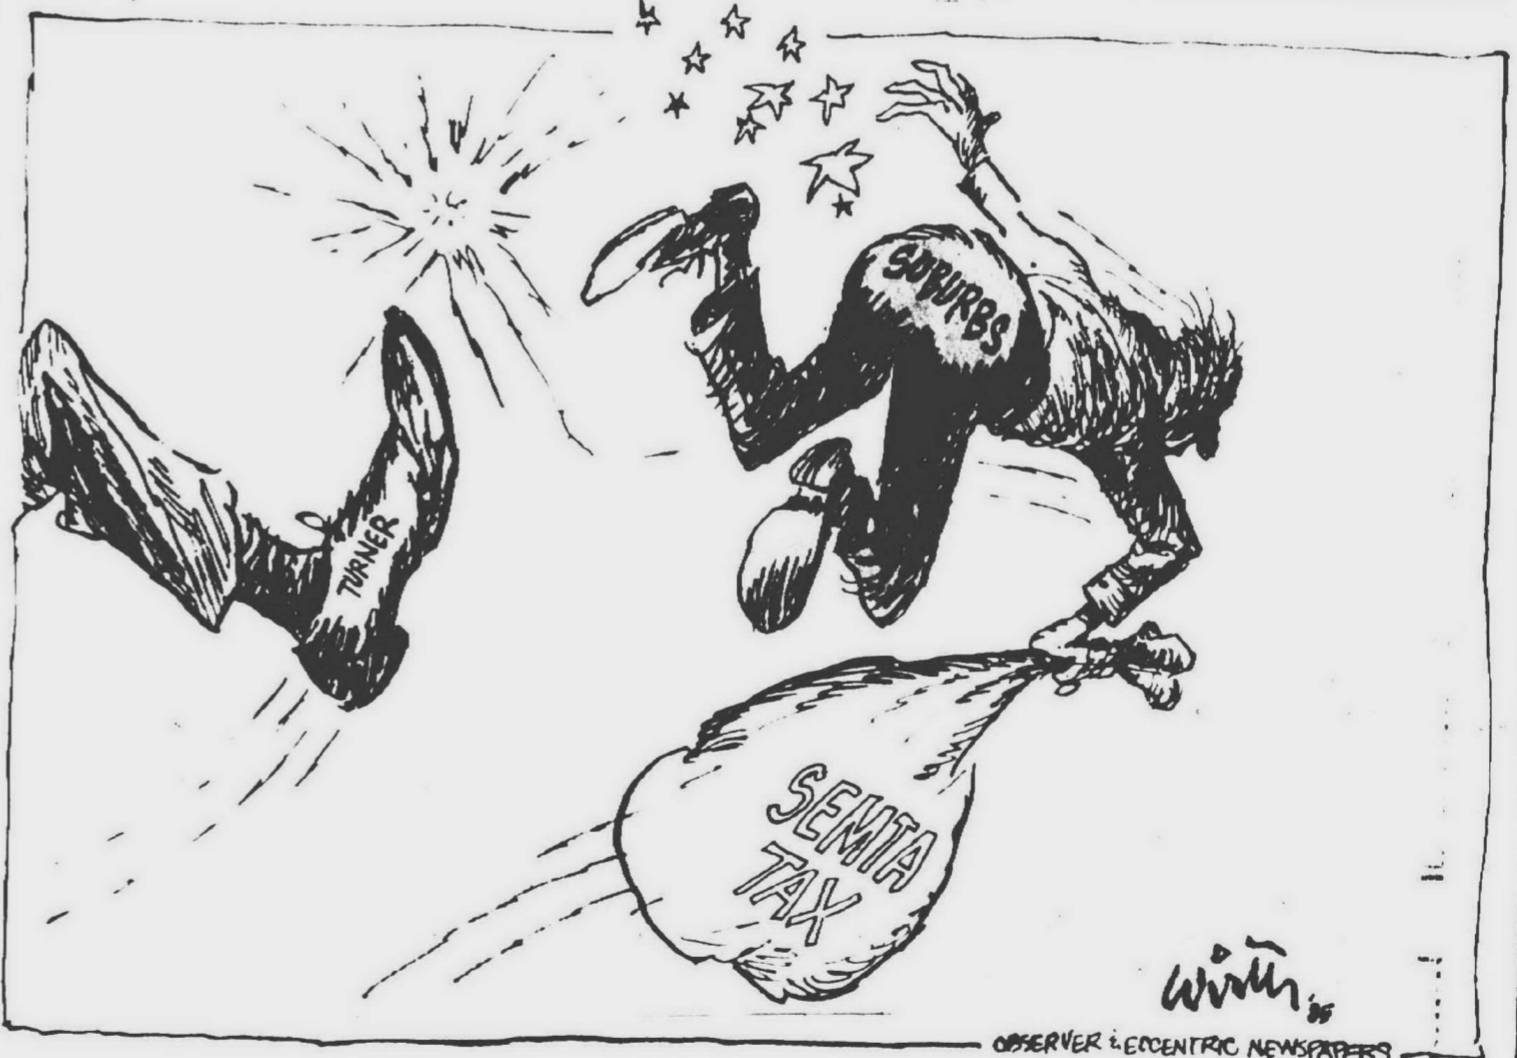

AND WHAT do officeholders do with funds that aren't spent — assuming there are any? They transfer the money to an officeholders expense account, commonly known as slush fund, so that they can make contributions to other candidates' campaign funds and buy football and baseball tickets with which they try to make friends and influence people.

Of course, some officeholders who have the advantage of the law can when they leave office put the money into their own bank accounts. Members of Congress who were first elected before 1980 may take their campaign funds with them when they return, as long as they declare it as income and pay taxes on it.

Former U.S. Rep. Marvin Esch who represented the 2nd District — which included Livonia, Plymouth and Northville — converted a small fortune in campaign funds into his own funds after losing his unsuccessful race for the U.S. Senate in 1978.

ACCORDING TO press reports, U.S. Rep. William Broomfield of Birmingham, who has no trouble being elected every two years and therefore need not strain his campaign fund, has some $319,000 in unused funds.

An aide said that Broomfield does not have plans to retire and make personal use of the funds, even though he could, and plans to run for re-election in 1986. Not a bad idea, considering that he could add to his campaign fund total in the next two years.

SEMTA takes another jolt

TOM TURNER is supposed to be an astute politician. Usually a fellow doesn't become president of the metropolitan AFL-CIO by being dumb. And typically he doesn't twice become board chairman of the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority unless he has moxie.

But Turner's decision to bounce three suburban Wayne County members from the SEMTA board must strike one as — well, obtuse.

Look at it this way. The battle over who has power to make those appointments — the Wayne County executive or the suburban county commissioners — isn't Tom Turner's battle. The only thing Turner can do by mixing into it is aggravate one group of taxpayers.

And at this point in history, SEMTA needs all the help it can get.

SEMTA IS in deep, deep trouble — deeper than the cement posts that are supposed to hold the People Mover.

Since 1982 the seven-county public transit authority has had to eliminate its commuter train service, make deep gashees in its bus service, decimate its downtown staff.

If President Reagan's budget is adopted, it will have no federal operating subsidies after Sept. 30, and SEMTA literally may have to close up shop. That would leave the region in the same shape it was in back in 1966, before SEMTA was created to absorb rickety, deficit-ridden, private bus lines.

SEMTA officials have been talking for at least two years about having their own dedicated tax, much like the metroparks and community colleges. Top candidate is a one-cent increase in the sales tax.

To give SEMTA that badly-needed underpinning, the Michigan Legislature would have to place a constitutional amendment on the ballot, and voters would have to approve it. Let us not even get into the question of the public mood at this point.

Clearly, it is destructive for SEMTA's chances if its chairman kicks one bloc of voters in the pants.

SUBURBAN WAYNE County commissioners contend, with much logic, that they have authority to appoint SEMTA board members. They appointed three, including Commissioner Richard Manning of Redford and Garden City Mayor Vincent Fordell, and in January SEMTA seated them without controversy.

County Executive William Lucas contends, with a bit less logic, that he has authority under the charter to appoint SEMTA board members. That in itself isn't bad except for Lucas' compounded blunders.

First, he is a Detroit resident, and these SEMTA directors are supposed to be suburban choices.

Second, his nominees could never have been ratified without Detroit commission votes.

Third, Lucas never even tried to negotiate a compromise with suburban commissioners by agreeing on the same slate of SEMTA directors and letting a court decide the legal technicality of who has authority to appoint in a friendly case.

AS BOARD chairman of SEMTA, Turner would have been politically wise to play it cool, listen to the attorney's advice and let the Wayne County factions battle it out among themselves. Instead, he chose, unilaterally, to seat the Lucas delegation.

By the way, Turner himself is a Detroit resident, appointed by Detroit Mayor Coleman Young.

How's that for suburbanites' being politically disenfranchised? Sounds like the water board battle all over again.

discover Michigan

MICHIGAN STATE University was established by an act of the Legislature in 1855. It created the Agricultural College of the State of Michigan and appropriated "22 sections of Salt Spring Lands for its support and maintenance."

The Legislature allocated $40,000 to carry the college through its first two years of operation.

MSU was the first agricultural college in the nation and the prototype for 69 land-grant institutions later established under an 1862 federal act.

Today MSU has more than 20,000 students, 200 program of instruction and a faculty of more than 3,500 in 14 operating colleges.

roll call report

Area congressmen OK farm aid

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Feb. 23 through Feb. 28.

HOUSE
AID TO FARMERS — By a vote of 316 for and 163 against, the House approved emergency financial aid to tens of thousands of American farmers, many of whom say they will go bankrupt if not immediately bailed out of their credit problems by the government.

President Reagan has threatened to veto the bill as a budget-buster. The administration says it will cost at least $1.6 billion over the next two years. The Congressional Budget Office estimates the cost at $455 million over five years.

The bill (HR 1035) provides an additional $3 billion in loan guarantees to farmers who need the federal backing to continue borrowing. Also, it permits farmers to get half of their price-support loans on this year's crop, up to $50,000, before spring planting.

Among other provisions, the bill induces banks to offer lower interest rates on federally-guaranteed loans, and makes it easier for farmers in certain areas to obtain low-interest Farmers Home Administration disaster loans.

Supporter Thomas Coleman, R-Mo., said "this is not just a farm bill" because "almost 23 million people in this country depend for their job directly or indirectly on agriculture and agriculture."

Opponent Dolbert Latta, R-Ohio, said the bill would worsen the federal deficit, thus contributing to the high interest rates and strong dollar that have injured farm exports.

Members voting yes favored the bill. Voting yes: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, William Ford, D-Taylor, Sander Levin, D-Southfield.

AID TO FAMINE COUNTRIES — The House passed, 391 for and 35 against, and sent to the Senate a bill (HR-1096) authorizing $176 million in emergency, non-food aid to African nations beset by famine.

In part, the fiscal 1985 outlay would fund programs to upgrade health care and to monitor the distribution of emergency food supplies to starving Africans. Food aid is being provided in separate legislation.

"This is not just an African crisis," said sponsor Howard Wolpe, D-Michigan. "It is a human crisis encompassing us all."

No opponent spoke during floor debate. Members voting yes favored the special aid to Africa.

Voting yes: Pursell, Hertel, William Ford, Levin, Broomfield.

Voting no: none.

SENATE

AID TO FARMERS — By a vote of 64 for and 45 against, the Senate approved a bailout program for hard-pressed farmers that was essentially the same as the rescue package approved by the House (above).

Among its key features, the Senate legislation increases federal loan guarantees for farmers and releases a portion of Commodity Credit Corporation in advance of spring planting. Also, it helps banks subsidize interest rates on certain federally-guaranteed farm loans.

The Senate plan was attached to an African famine relief bill (HR-1096) that later was passed and sent to conference with the House.

Supporter James Eron, D-Neb., called the bill "a Band-aid approach at best" that amounts to "providing some loan money to help people out of a particularly critical situation."

Opponent Robert Dole, R-Kan., said approval of the legislation would "signal that we really do not care about deficit reduction."

Senators voting yes favored the rescue plan for farmers.

Voting yes: Carl Levin, Donald Riegle.

FARMER AID & DEFICIT — The Senate rejected, 43 for and 55 against, an amendment to prevent the farm rescue plan (above) from taking effect if it would increase the federal deficit.

Estimates are that the House and Senate versions of the legislation would cost between $485 million and several billion dollars over several years.

Sponsor Phil Gramm, R-Tex., said "in this amendment I give members an opportunity to say where they stand on the deficit."

Opponent David Pryor, D-Ark., noted that the farm aid was included in a $175 million African famine relief measure. He said it would be wrong to increase the deficit in behalf of Africans while refusing to increase it for American farmers.

Senators voting no wanted the farm aid to be spent despite its impact on the federal deficit.

Voting no: Levin, Riegle.

SOCIAL EVENT of the Idea of March is the sixth annual banquet of the Men's Over-40 Half-Court Basketball League. The eight teams in the league finished play Wednesday night. They will top off the season, as usual, with a gathering at the Box Bar.

More than 60 athletes are expected to attend the event at the Ann Arbor Trail pub-on-the-park in downtown Plymouth. They will dine on 'burgers and beer — a menu that has become a tradition at their banquets. After-dinner speakers will be Bob Thornbladh, former University of Michigan football player, and Al Renfrew, ticket manager for U-M sporting events. Bob played both basketball and football at Plymouth High School, and now coaches receivers for Bo Schemberchler.

Don Massey is president of the half-court basketball group. The players, ranging in age from 40 to 61, play three-on-three. Bill Emons of Livonia is the senior member of the league.

WITH THEIR SEASON over, the cagers' interests turn to the college tournaments. More than 35 locals are heading for the NCAA tournaments in Dayton and South Bend. They will see 12 games in four days and are hoping to see the Wolverines in action.

SHARON DERRY has been promoted to assistant director of public relations at Saratoga Community Hospital in Detroit. Sharon, a Plymouth resident, has been at Saratoga as publications coordinator, since January 1984.

She is responsible for all internal public relations including writing and producing the employee newsletter, other publications, promotions and publicity for the hospital.

As Sharon Staron, she was our original Canton Chatter columnist. She wrote the weekly column for the Plymouth and Canton Observers for more than 2 1/2 years.

She received her bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan. Sharon was advertising copywriter for Cunningham Drugs, text editor for the Highway Research Institute in Ann Arbor, and freelance writer for the Detroit Free Press and the Renaissance Club in Detroit.

Congratulations, Sharon. AN APOLOGETIC loops from the Plymouth Community Chorus.

The Greek Pasta Salad recipe in their cookbook, "All Our Best," omitted an important ingredient. If you have the book, add one pound of feta cheese to the recipe on page 26. "All Our Best" is available at Plymouth Book World on Forest Avenue. It sells for $7.95.

THE WOMAN'S Club of Plymouth marked its 92nd anniversary last week at a meeting in First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth.

Nine past presidents of the community's oldest service organization were honored at the birthday celebration. They were Mrs. Kenneth Hulsing, Mrs. Leslie Daniel, Mrs. Ray Barber, Mrs. Roswell Tanger, Mrs. Robert Willette, Mrs. Charles E. Childs, Mrs. Charles F. Lang, Mrs. William Loesch and Mrs. Robert Pawling.

PEGGY MCINTOSH'S score of 5,480 was high at last Thursday's party bridge games in the Plymouth Cultural Center. Alice Missler was second with 5,390.

THE YMCA of Western Wayne County honored its friends and outstanding associates recently at its annual meeting.

Outstanding service awards were presented to Ann Raub of the Canton YW Women and to Mary Brueck of New Horizons. The New Horizons Club of Canton also received a monogrammed silver tray for the 1985 New Member of the Family Award.

Scholarship ball fetes 27 outstanding seniors

The Woman's Club of Plymouth will honor 27 exceptional high school seniors Saturday evening at the club's third annual Invitational Scholarship Ball. The dinner, awards ceremony and dance will be in the Mayflower Meeting House.

Scholarship finalists, their escorts or dates, their families, Woman's Club members and residents of the city of Plymouth and Canton and Plymouth townships will be on hand for the formal awards presentations. Mrs. Laurence H. Mueller, club president, and Mrs. Vern Hackett, first vice president, will announce the winners and make the presentations. They are co-chairs of the scholarship ball for the third year.

The finalists and their dates are guests of the Woman's Club for the ball. Admission is $25 per person. The ball is supported by the Observer Newspapers, the Mayflower Hotel and the business community.

DEADLINE FOR applications was Feb. 14. Club members said they were awed by this year's response. After almost begging for candidates in other years, they had more than 50 applicants this year.

And the caliber of the students made the selection process almost an impossible task.

Outside activities, including jobs, sports and volunteer work, were considered along with scholastic honors and school offices. The number of applicants was narrowed to 27 candidates, who will graduate in June from either Plymouth Salem and Canton high schools, Ladywood High School or Plymouth Christian Academy. All are residents of the Plymouth-Canton community.

THE APPLICATION forms read like a "Who's Who of High School Grads."

The judges had to choose from candidates whose attributes include:

- An all-A average during four years of high school, four years in band program, member of the Plymouth Community Band, worked as newspaper carrier and secretary.

- A 3.5 average, president of National Honor Society, works 40 hours a week, active in church, co-chair of Homecoming Committee.

- Class president, coaches girls' softball, played football, involved in drama.

- All-A average, assistant Scoutmaster, Eagle Scout, cross-country, tutoring.

- Varsity football (all-league honorable mention), top member of church choir, almost all-A in academics except for one B-plus.

- Described, in part, by teacher in recommendation as "blend of Franny Glass, Martin Luther, Margaret Mead and Nancy Drew."

THE CANDIDATES combine academic achievement with enthusiasm for sports, the arts, church and community service. Many hold down part-time jobs. Their energy is amazing.

Their goals in life are practical and commendable:

- Degree in political science and then a graduate degree in law — someday hope to serve in the political arena.
- An MBA, then banking and finance. Business is my goal.

- An aerospace engineer with a master's degree in business administration while working for a large company like Rockwell International or Ford Aerospace.

- Hospital administration after I receive my degree in business administration.

- Elementary education, a reading specialist.

- Either electrical or aerospace engineer — will continue German studies and take another language, maybe Russian, Italian or Arabic.

- Tele-communications, disc jockey, further along own my own radio station.

- A career in corporate or contract law.

- International business with at least one year of college abroad to broaden chances of a bilingual job.

- A degree in medicine and later a pediatrician with a private practice.

- A research physician at a university hospital, possibly doing some teaching, eventually becoming an astronaut with the NASA space program.

Pay equity, comparable worth issues alive and well

By Richard Lech
staff writer

MICHIGAN LT Gov Martha Griffiths said pay equity and comparable worth are alive and well as issues, despite opposition from the Reagan administration.

Griffiths said that even though the U.S. attorney general may not be initiating lawsuits on those issues, other attorneys are picking up the slack.

"It doesn't really matter so much anymore whether the attorney general starts these suits because there are a lot of hungry lawyers out there who will start these suits. It is a very good field of legal activity today," Griffiths told the Detroit chapter of Women in Communications Inc. (WICI) at the Dearborn Inn last Thursday night.

TO BACK up her assertion, Griffiths cited a number of pay equity and comparable worth lawsuits that have been settled recently or are in progress.

Household Finance Corp. for instance, recently settled a lawsuit by agreeing it will not discriminate on the basis of sex or marital status. The corporation had been turning down a number of loan applicants because they are single and women, Griffiths said.

Allstate Insurance Co. agreed to pay $5 million to 3,100 women employees for "violating the 1964 Civil Rights Act" by giving the women a starting salary less than that of men, she said.

Griffiths recalled she once wrote and asked about the airline's policy and was told that the no-marriage rule was a "bonafide occupational exception." The airline said its stewardesses must be "young, attractive and single."

"What are you running," Griffiths wrote back, "an airline or a whorehouse?"

Griffiths also cited a number of other lawsuits, including the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision forcing the Jaycees to admit women members.

Griffiths said the high court also may soon be making the ultimate decision on the issue of equal pay when it considers an appeal by the state of Washington. Washington could be forced to pay $1 billion or more to women governmental employees if a sex equity decision made by a lower court is upheld.

Griffiths said if the Supreme Court decides in favor of the employees, a major precedent would be established.

"It would change the history of this country, and it would change the history of the women's movement."

She said the state government of Michigan also has some sex equity problems.

In September 1984, she noted, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, the state's largest union of government workers, filed a lawsuit in federal district court to force the state to pay its women the same as men. Studies showed that women were paid 21 percent less for comparable jobs.

"Now the truth is, of course, that Michigan is much better than any other state," Griffiths said. In some states the difference is as high as 40 percent, she said.

SIX MONTHS ago, she said, the governor's office started issuing report cards to the various state departments rating their performance on sex equity and affirmative action issues.

The report cards generated grumbling and "excuses" from the departments involved, but the "interesting thing is you can see they are improving," she said.

She said the Blanchard administration has taken steps to help women and minority small business owners. Those include an ombudsman's office to answer business owners' questions and a Small Business Assistance Center Program with offices across the state providing expertise to small business owners.

In general, Griffiths said, the status of women has improved in recent years and will continue to improve.

Guild recruiting volunteers

The Oakwood Hospital Guild is looking for volunteers for its Canton Center this spring. The facility on Canton Center Road has served the Plymouth-Canton Community for 3 1/2 years and has 29 guild volunteers.

The Oakwood Canton Center is a primary care medical facility with a 24-hour emergency department.

Christine McCuen, director of volunteer service, said, "Our volunteers are trained to conduct cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) classes, perform blood pressure checkups, instruct baby-sitting classes, file medical records and assist in the emergency room."

Volunteers assist the medical staff with paper work and escort patients to examining rooms, X-ray and the pharmacy. They act as hostesses for health education programs and telephone patients at home as a reminder of appointments.

MILLIE FAWCETT of Canton, who chairs the local volunteer group, said fund raising is another guild activity.

"Every organization needs something that isn't in the budget and when guild members see needs, we want to help out," she said.

"We have an annual rummage sale and a Christmas bazaar. The proceeds of these events and activities have contributed to the purchase of audiovisual equipment, a portable blood pressure cuff, and CPR instruction equipment."

Volunteers participate in the annual "Project Health-O-Rama." Free health tests, designed to detect disease in initial stages of development, are offered to the community. This year, the tests will be offered 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, March 18 and 19 at Starkweather Community Education Center, 550 Holbrook, Plymouth. Last year, approximately 500 were tested.

Joan Petroske, clinical manager, said volunteering at a health care center offers opportunities to people considering careers in health care.

"FIRST-HAND observations can make decisions easier. If a person is considering a career as a nurse, medical records technician, laboratory or X-ray technologist, medical secretary, for example, volunteering is good way to see if that career meets one's expectations," said Petroske.

"And listing volunteering as a community activity on a resume looks good to a prospective employer."

Those interested in volunteer service may call 459-7030 or stop at the center any time during regular working hours. Petroske or another member of the staff would be happy to answer questions.

"Now that Sue's here at Harper, we all feel better!"

"Sue's doctor came to Harper when he had cancer.
I think that says a lot!"

Some say there are no choices when it comes to cancer. Fate deals all the cards. But that's not entirely true. Patients make choices every step of the way from prevention through recovery. Regular check-ups and frequent self-examinations are choices of prevention. Selection of a personal physician and electing timely treatment after diagnosis are recovery choices. And the correct choice regarding hospitalization may be a matter of life or death.

As a participating organization in America's program of twenty Comprehensive Cancer Centers, Harper Hospital provides scientific and clinical leadership in the organized fight against cancer. Cancer patients who choose to be treated at Harper are assured of receiving one of the most complete and scientifically aggressive cancer treatment programs available anywhere in the world. Knowing about Harper Hospital and its cancer program may be the most important thing in your life.

For immediate information about Harper Hospital and its cancer program, ask your doctor or call 494-9564. Harper Hospital is affiliated with the School of Medicine, Wayne State University, and the Medical Center in delivering world class quality health care.

Spring crafts show in time for Easter

Shelley Oxley

Shannon Ballard

The annual spring arts and crafts in the Plymouth Cultural Center will feature hand-painted and calico eggs, homemade candy and stuffed toys — all in time for Easter giving.

More than 75 exhibitors from all over the state will sell their hand-crafted at the three-day show which opens at 11 a.m. Friday. Hours are 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday, March 8 and 9, and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, March 9. Admission and parking are free.

This is the ninth annual spring show sponsored by the Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department. Carol Donnelly and Tom Willette are show directors.

"This year's show will be taped by Omnivision Cablevision for the first time," said Willette. "They will be taping Saturday and interviewing some of the exhibitors."

THE DIRECTORS are welcoming back some of the more noteworthy exhibitors from out-state. Among them is Will Shomin of Petosky with his impressive wood pieces.

Newcomer to the spring show is Alice Landis of Traverse City with her hand-crafted jewelry.

As usual, the Plymouth-Canton area will be well represented. Local exhibitors are: Sherri Tutor, hand-painted and calico eggs; Lorraine Justice, dried and silk flowers; Ruth Riedale and Shannon Dixon, ceramics and tile painting; Judy Cruz, soft sculpture; Lorraine Boxberger, cross stitch; Don Hay, woodworking; and Doris White, driftwood houses.

Virginia McGraw will have wreaths;

Diane Bradley, fabric crafts; Gail Merrah, soft sculpture; Sherry Lough, pine shelves and folk art; Charlene Cruz, silk and dried flowers; Dona Douglas, porcelain thimbles; Debra Defert, dolls and décor; Debbie Powers, ceramics; Phyllis Allinger and Linda Markovits, hand-crafted jewelry; Laura Abernathy, lace net darning; Joan Knoeri, stocking critters.

Kathi Bejma will offer her hand-crafted pine furniture; Nancy Lemki, tile painting; Dorothy Bingham, porcelain dolls; Linda Anderson, homemade candy; Tom Lalek, country furniture; and Connie Lish, custom knitting.

Donnelly and Willette say they feel this is one of the finest shows in the Detroit area. For more information call the recreation department, 455-6420.

Dona Douglas of Plymouth will have her hand-painted porcelain thimbles at the show.

Academy students win essay contest

Two students at the Plymouth Christian Academy were first-place winners in an essay contest arranged by the Daughters of the American Revolution. Shelley Oxley, eighth grader, and Shannon Ballard, fifth grader, were awarded first place in the contest sponsored by the DAR Quakertown Chapter of Farmington.

Essay topic was "The Statue of Liberty, The Lady with the Lamp." It was open to students in grades five through eight.

The students, their parents and teachers were honored at a chapter meeting in the Farmington Hills Branch Library. DAR members and guests saw a slide presentation concerning the background and restoration of the Statue of Liberty.

Mrs. Neil W. Huard, regent, and Mrs. C. Harold Dolph, essay chairman, presented awards to the winners.

Second place certificates were presented to Christian Academy students, Michael Kotonas, eighth grader, and Allison Fyke, fifth grader.

Karen Casady of Canton was elected to the board of directors for a three-year term.

AMONG THE 80 exhibitors at Sunday's art fair at Roma's of Garden City will be Jill Lazarus of Plymouth with her wooden country accents and stenciling on fabric.

Canton Township artists in the show are: Connie Kish, personalized knitting; Letta Woods, hand-crafted candles; George Durham, clay sculptures; and Marje Altobello, macrame.

PCAC sets March 22 deadline for scholarship applications

The Plymouth Community Arts Council has announced the deadline for two scholarships available to students who live in the Plymouth-Canton community. Applications must be submitted by March 22 for the JWH Scholarship and the Jeanet M. Allison Memorial Scholarship Fund.

The JWH Scholarship is awarded annually in honor of PCAC founder, Joanne Winkleman Hulce. The grant fulfills one of the arts council's goals — "to encourage and help individuals in pursuing a career in the arts."

The $500 award goes to a senior who shows promise in an artistic field and wishes further education in that field.

A committee of judges with backgrounds in various art fields will consider applicants in the categories of painting, ceramics, dance, design, graphics, drama, photography, sculpture, textiles, instrumental and vocal music, and literary arts.

HIGH SCHOOL seniors, Plymouth-Canton community residents who are qualified, may apply.

They are asked to write a letter, including name, address and telephone number. Give background in artistic field, plans for continuing education, and a personal profile explaining qualifications for the award. Two letters of recommendation from a teacher and another person closely associated with the applicant's artistic ability, and two representative pieces of work are required.

Performing artists should be prepared to perform for the judges.

Applications can be mailed to the Plymouth Community Arts Council, JWH Award, 332 S. Main Street, Plymouth, Mich. 48170. Finalists will be interviewed the week after the March 22 deadline.

Interested seniors are urged to inquire at the counseling office of their high school or call the PCAC office, 455-5260, 9 a.m. to noon Monday through Thursday, for more information.

THE JEANET M. Allison Memorial Scholarship Fund is for Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp. The arts council has $400 available for the use of students in-grade levels 7-12 who will attend the camp in 1985.

These grants will be offered in art, dance, music and theatre. Applicants will be juried by a panel of qualified judges and will be judged on talent, neatness and interest.

Art students are asked to submit three samples of their best work. These should be brought to the PCAC office, 332 S. Main, Plymouth, above John Smith's, between 9 a.m. and noon, weekdays and 3-5 p.m. Friday, March 22. Art work may be picked up at the PCAC office starting April 15 or call for an appointment.

Music, dance and drama auditions will be scheduled after the applications have been received. A letter of recommendation from a teacher or someone familiar with the student's work is required.

For more information or an application students should call the PCAC office or talk to the music, art or gym teacher in his/her school.

Church-state separation needed

This season has been set aside in American society for emphasis on the ideal of brotherhood and inter-religious understanding. It is important that our Christian friends and neighbors understand the Jewish commitment to a secular state, which has been the foundation of our rights and the most effective guarantee of our society. A secular state makes pluralism possible.

Each of the religious groups in the United States has a core of distinctive beliefs, values and the historical symbols which express the unique spiritual heritage of its faith community. The recognition of these differentiated historical-religious values shared by a religious group may be called pluralism.

In a pluralistic society, Catholics, Protestants and Jews seek to affect public policy by the light of their own religious doctrines, institutional needs, denominational aspirations or standards of moral judgment. Each religious group seeks to prevail upon government and the public to accept particular values as normative.

IN THIS PROCESS, alliances will be formed among groups with kindred interests. But more often than not, inter-religious relations occasionally will be marked by tension and competition with respect to important public issues

moral perspectives

on which religious groups differ.

The following are some of the issues in which the creative tensions of religious pluralism are manifest: federal aid for parochial schools, abortion, obscenity and censorship, Israel, Zionism and the Arabs, the secularization of the public schools, prayer in the public schools, Sunday blue laws, legalized gambling.

Throughout Western civilization there have been impositions upon Jews, as a minority, in practically every country in which they have lived. They shudder at the suggestion that there ought to be an inter-relatedness between religion and government, between church and state.

Even in America, the Jew today suffers what he considers unconscionable intrusions upon his religious liberty. His children are asked to sing Christmas carols in December. Or if a Bible class is conducted on school property, as it is in several states, the Jewish child in these communities may have the option of either sitting in the cloakroom or in the principal's office. If the Jew observes the Sabbath on the seventh day, he may undergo certain privations.

No wonder that the Jew presses for an absolute separation of church and state. Frankly, he trusts a secular more than a Christianized state.

THE JEW SEES, in a pluralistic society, the following view:

The state may not provide advantage for one religious group as against another nor compel religious belief or practice, nor serve the sectarian purposes of any one religion. Indeed, the state should recognize the rights of individuals who hold no belief.

American Jews have opposed the granting of public funds in support of church activity. This position represents a prudential judgment that the well-being of religions requires such a prohibition.

American Jews have come to a conclusion that religious freedom is not a luxury but a necessity. When a state depends upon the consent of its inhabitants, those who group themselves must give voluntarily in order to maintain their religious institutions, then they involve themselves more intensively in their religion.

In America, religion has achieved a status in society and has become a force in our lives because we have had to support it ourselves rather than share that responsibility with government.

AS JEWS, WE are deeply concerned about, and we shall oppose any attempt to introduce prayer or religious celebration in the public schools or to allow sectarian groups to meet in the public schools during the school day. We also view with disapproval the effort by religious groups to impose their views on others by the use of political power.

In a pluralistic society, the church (or synagogue) should make its case for law and the civic order, not by invoking its spiritual authority or by exercising political power. Rather, through persuasion and reason, it must demonstrate the moral strength of its position and through such demonstration, win the free consent of the public.

Drama workshop is Saturday

British actor Nigel Goodwin will conduct a seminar Saturday on Christian drama sponsored by the Trinity House Players at Trinity Baptist Church, 14800 Middlebelt, Livonia.

Goodwin studied at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts in England. He has worked in film, television and theater. In 1971 he helped found — and for 20 years directed — the Arts Centre Group in London. This is an organization of Christians professionally in-involved in all areas of the arts and media. The group grew throughout the 1970s to its present membership of over 800.

In 1982, Goodwin helped establish Genesis Arts which has enabled him to continue his drama ministry throughout the world.

His appearance in Livonia is open to the public. The fee is $8 for the seminar and an additional $1.00 for lunch. The morning sessions from 10:30 a.m. to noon will focus on "Christ the Artist — Christian Involvement in the Arts." After a lunch break, participants will discuss "A View for Drama — To Be or Not To Be." In the evening, Goodwin will present a dramatic performance.

To register for the Saturday seminar, call 444-6963. Registrations will also be taken at the door at 10:15 a.m. Baby-sitting will be provided with advance notice.

Middle-East tour offered

A two-week tour of Greece, Israel and Egypt is being offered by Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church of Livonia. The trip, June 13-27, will be escorted by Rosedale pastor Gerald R. Cob-

Sea World gets ready for penguin invasion

I GO TO a lot of travel shows but I seldom have as much fun as I did at the Michigan Inn in Southfield last week when Sea World came to town. The star of the evening was Frank Todd, the scientist who established the first penguin colony in the northern hemisphere, at Sea World in San Diego. A second colony will open May 18 at Sea World in Aurora, Ohio.

Iris Jones
travel writer

The Penguin Encounter, a 1,500-square-foot exhibit area built into a cliff adjacent to the Shamu Stadium, is more than just a new theme park exhibit. It is a recreation of Antarctic living conditions, where 120 Antarctic penguins will live and breed while you and the research scientists watch.

Todd, who is corporate curator of birds for Sea World Inc. and a senior research fellow for the Hubbs/Sea World Research Institute in San Diego, acquired his interest in exotic birds while growing up in Panama as the son of a U.S. Army engineer.

"Actually, my first love was snakes," he said. "I knew by the time I was 3 what I wanted to do with my life. The first thing a budding biologist runs into while crawling on hands and knees is a snake."

HE STUDIED at the University of Montana in Missoula, did graduate work at California State University at Long Beach, and was curator of birds at the Los Angeles Zoo when Sea World founder George Millay lured him to Sea World in San Diego in 1972.

His specialty was tropical birds, but he was well known as an expert in bird breeding when the National Science Penguins at Sea World in San Diego are happy at feeding time. Sea World in Aurora, Ohio, will have more than 100 living in a $3.2 million exhibit and science center. It will open in May.

Sea World of Ohio animal care specialist Laura Dennis syringe-feeds a newly hatched 10-ounce macaroni penguin.

birds at Sea World of San Diego. Their first macaroni penguin hatched aboard the Lear jet bringing them home over the Andes.

The midwestern payoff for all this activity will be a new 1,500-square-foot exhibit, a recreation of the Antarctic landscape, where Adelle, Chinstrap, Emperor, Gentoo, Macaroni and Rockhopper penguins will live and breed while you watch them from a moving walkway that follows 70 feet of tempered-glass window.

MORE THAN 5,000 pounds of fresh snow will be manufactured every day to make the penguins feel at home. Twelve Antarctic shore birds will inhabit the facility. A series of technological miracles will make it all work.

A second viewing area is being built on an upper level, where you can sit in a comfortable chair and watch either the penguins or television depictions of Antarctic life.

Why would the National Science Foundation have funded these expeditions (Sea World took over the costs after they got home)? These two Sea World facilities give scientists a rare opportunity to study penguins in a "natural habitat" without actually going to the Antarctic and it gives you and me a rare opportunity to see these wonderful flightless birds in a "home" setting.

For more information, contact Sea World, 1100 Sea World Drive, Aurora, Ohio 44202 or call (216) 562-7498. Sea World is open May 18 through Labor Day. The Penguin Encounter, like all Sea World attractions, is included in the admission price: $11.95 for adults, $10.95 for children.

Foundation asked him the following question: Could a penguin colony be established in the United States?

"I didn't know but I said I'd go to Antarctica and find out," Todd said. It was the first of several expeditions to study, collect, transport and breed penguins for the first colony of Antarctic penguins ever established outside Antarctica.

"Penguins are birds, not mammals or headwaiters," Todd said. "There are 17 species, all living south of the equator, probably because there are no real predators in the Antarctic as there are in the Arctic.

"NONE OF them can fly but they can leap six feet out of the water to breed and molt on land in summer. They look comical ashore because they are designed for underwater life, and nature had to sacrifice something for that."

When Todd decided that a U.S. colony was feasible, the expedition collected adult Adelle penguins before their eggs were hatched so that Sea World would have a head start on new generations.

Adelies are the species people usually think of when they think of penguins: 2-feet high, about 10 pounds, with white eye rings, white breasts and long bushy tails. Adelies and Emperor Penguins are only found in coastal Antarctica.

Penguins are used to feeding underwater, so Todd's first task was to gather them together on the polar ice and train them to eat out of water. They took them "home" to San Diego in a C-141 plane with a cargo hold chilled to 30 below zero for penguin comfort.

TODD KNEW that the birds were used to breeding on rough stones, the only available nesting material in the Antarctic, so he brought along 10,000 lbs. of antarctic stone for their new breeding ground.

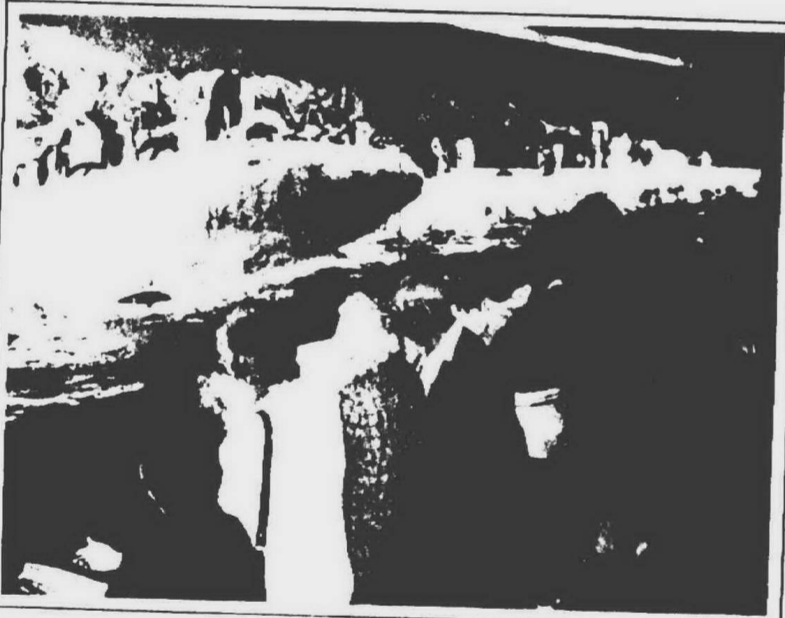

Penguins usually lay two eggs, but may raise only one, so the scientists took one of the newly laid eggs for the incubator and left the second for momma to hatch inside the freezer.

The next act in the magic show was to go back for the Emperor penguins, the 4-foot-high monarchs of the species which could not be moved out of Antarctica, where they are used to 60-below-zero in summer and 100-mile-an-hour winds. The male Emperor penguin goes without food for up to four months while he incubates the young on his feet.

TODD COULDN'T bring the Emperors home, so he brought home some of their eggs, and hatched them in California, where the chicks learned to live from birth in a new environment. The first new penguin colony was opened to public view in 1982 in San Diego.

Last fall, Todd traveled to the Straits of Magellan with Stan Searles, curator of mammals and birds at Sea World Ohio and Scott Drieschman, curator of

There's nothing like a penguin exhibit to draw a crowd. The more than 100 penguins representing six species will have 350 square feet of water surface (water kept at 39 degrees) to romp around in.

Lowbrow remarks cloud CEP crisis

EVERY ONCE in a while I read something so stupid, so grounded in absurdity, so totally off base, that I just can't laugh it off.

This happened last week when someone showed me an article written in the town's tabloid. This tabloid, it should be explained, is something of a para-newspaper — almost a real newspaper, but not quite.

This article dealt with a very real and serious problem facing the future of both the athletic program and the quality of education within the Plymouth-Canton Community School District.

The problem is a completely out-dated system called random selection — a system whereby a computer decides which of the two high schools, Canton or Salem, students will attend.

OPPOSITION TO random selection has been present since 1973, when the system was initiated. The opposition in the last two years has grown more and more outspoken as the obvious problems have become more evident.

Things came to somewhat of a head a couple of Monday's ago at a meeting of the school board. Several coaches approached the board in an attempt to make the members aware of what random selection was doing to the families within the district and what affect it was having on the athletic program.

Two Salem coaches, Ron Krueger and Chuck Olson, asked that random selection be waived for children of Centennial Educational Park staff members. Both Olson and Krueger have children about to come into the high school. Both children have chipped out to Canton and would compete against their fathers.

"I am now being faced with a definite conflict of interest," Krueger said in a letter to the board. "Choose my son over my team or my team over my son."

Should anyone in a country where freedom is paramount have to make such a choice?

The board, thanks to the support of some newly elected members headed by Dean Swartzwelder, was moved by the coaches' presentation. The board decided to take another look at random selection, maybe it was time for revision.

WELL, A reporter from the town's tabloid sat through all this and decided to write a column. No problem. Everyone's entitled to their opinion, even if it isn't the same as yours or mine.

But an opinion is supposed to be based on facts. None were evident in the column filed in the town's tabloid.

You see, the reporter chose to take shots at the coaches. However, the reporter is absolutely ignorant of what coaches do. It appears obvious that the reporter is naive about the important role coaches play in the development of young people.

The lead of the column suggested that the school board be "lined up and shot" if it gave in to the coaches' wishes. Obviously, this reporter is a graduate of the Idi Amin School of Journalism. The reporter from the town's tabloid went on to suggest that the only reason these coaches are putting up a fuss is because they may lose a few more seats.

How utterly absurd. These men, Krueger, Olson, Wayne Sparkman, Gary Balcom, Brian Gilles, Tom Williams, all of whom have challenged random selection, are human beings first and coaches second. They are family men who would like the opportunity to coach their own children, or at least not be put into the uncomfortable position of coaching another person to defeat their kid.

FAMILIES ARE being divided because of random selection. That is the bare fact of the matter. Ask Salem assistant football coach John Campbell about it. He and his son, a Canton football player, were at war with each other for a too-long period of time.

Somebody tell me why athletics is the only aspect of CEP life that is strictly segregated. Canton-Salem? Everything else within the CEP is combined.

Thus, when the town's tabloid reporter asks, "Do we have math teachers demanding their kids be sent to the same school they're at?" the answer is, of course not. Math teachers' kids can be in their parents' classroom because there isn't a Canton-Salem division for math classes.

You know, the more I think of it, the attitudes reflected in that column reminded me of school superintendent Dr. John Hoben's attitude on the matter.

Hoben, as everyone should know by now, is the staunchest supporter of random selection. So, it was rather shocking to read where he is going to chair a committee designed to study the proposed changes to the random selection system.

THEN I thought about it. Hoben, always shutting down those opposed to random selection fearing a change in the system would be an indictment against him for instituting it in the first place, agreed to chair a committee to review the system. Smells of a smoke screen to me.

I hope I'm wrong. Changes need to be made. I have always maintained that the board should combine Canton and Salem. But, since that's not likely to happen, at least do away with random selection and go back to a boundary system. The boundaries are much more stable now than in 1973. But, if that's also deemed impossible, at least modify the system as suggested by the coaches and Swartzwelder.

P.S. Ron Krueger is enrolling his son Lee at Catholic Central and is seriously considering resigning as Salem's wrestling coach.

Gritty Rocks fall in 2 overtimes

By Chris McCosky staff writer

Congress doesn't award medals of honor to high school basketball teams. But if it did, Plymouth Salem would have earned one last night.

Overstated? Consider this: The Rocks took on Wayne Memorial, Observerland's No. 1 team with a 19-1 record coming in, exactly one night after scrapping for 32 minutes with arch rival Plymouth Canton in a 52-50 victory Tuesday night.

Add to that the pressure of a single-elimination state Class A district tournament and you'll agree the Rocks were up against it Wednesday.

Still, the Rocks went two overtime periods before finally, begrudgingly bowing to a gallant Wayne team, 60-58.

"Plymouth Salem gets all the accolades but we get to play in the district championship," said Wayne head coach Chuck Henry.

Wayne, now 20-1, will play Northville at 7:30 Friday night at Salem. Northville upset Westland John Glenn in their semifinal game Wednesday 72-65. Friday's winner will advance to the regional tournament at Eastern Michigan University.

"The kids can be proud," said Salem coach Bob Brodie. "There's no reason to hang heads for losing this one. It sure would have been nice to get the 'W' though."

THE WIN was there for the taking several times for both teams, but in the end, it was Wayne's Mark Robinson who stepped up and grabbed it.

After Salem's Eric Sovine hit a clutch free throw with nine seconds left in the second overtime to tie things at 58, Wayne worked the ball down the court in a hurry. Robinson, just a sophomore, took the ball on the baseline, made one move to the basket and coolly drained a 10-footer as the buzzer sounded.

It was Robinson's second chance at being a hero. He buried a jumper with seven seconds left in regulation, but Sovine foiled him by taking the ball the length of the floor and hitting a pretty layup just ahead of the buzzer to send the game into OT.

"Salem played an exceptional game," Henry said. "They did a great job of controlling the tempo. Bob Brodie did a great job coaching tonight."

Howard Flowers led Wayne with 20 points. Robinson scored 14 and Pollis Robertson added 14 points and 12 rebounds.

For Salem, whose season ends with 13-9 record, Sovine finished with 16 points, Mike White added 12 and LeSean Haygood scored 10 and grabbed 12 rebounds before fouling out in the first OT.

JOHN GLENN'S season ended on a bitter note. Losing to Northville hurt, surely, but the manner in which it lost was doubly tough to take.

The Rockets (11-10) led 19-8 late in the first quarter and looked poised to run Northville out.

Steadily, the bigger, stronger Northville team wore Glenn down. Northville outscored Glenn 23-16 in the final quarter. Glenn went ice cold from the floor hitting 6 of 28 shots.

Northville (10-11) was led by Don Norton's 18 points. Mike Hilfinger scored 18, Greg Wendel 15 and John Storm 14.

Mike Baydarian led Glenn with 27 points. Steve Hawley added 11.

Rocks hold off Chiefs again

By Scott Adler staff writer

Dave VanWagoner wore his sweatshirt to the Canton-Salem district basketball matchup Tuesday for good reason.

The usually low-key Canton coach looked like he was in an aerobics class along the sidelines, jumping, clapping and cheering his team on in a typically intense battle between the Plymouth rivals.

But in the end it was the Rocks who showed the Chiefs "How," draining 4 of 4 free throws in the final minute to secure a narrow, 52-50 victory.

Once again, emotion was the great equalizer, pushing an undermanned Canton squad to an outstanding performance against the more powerful Rocks.

Neither coach was surprised at how close the final outcome was.

"We knew it would be tough," Salem coach Bob Brodie said. "We expected it to be close. Canton is scrappy and didn't want to lose three (times to Salem) in one year. They took us to the limit."

Said VanWagoner: "I knew it would be a 1 or 2 point game. We played as hard and as smart as we could, but we didn't win. But win or lose, it's the mental and physical effort that counts. I'm proud of my team."

Jackie Huff's eighth place all-around finish and teammate Beth Raffal's third place finish helped the Plymouth Salem gymnastics team to its first division title Saturday in the Western Lakes meet. The details are on page 5C.

Wrestlers come up dry at state meet

Alas, no champions.

Twenty-one Observerland wrestlers competed Saturday in the Class A state wrestling meet at Grand Valley State College and for the first time in several years, no one came home a champion.

But there were several solid performances and one sterling team showing. Livonia Bentley, a team that won only 3 dual meets all season, scored 43 points Saturday to place 7th in the state. (Temperance-Bedford won the state title with 115 points, Hazel Park was 2nd with 102 5.)

Bentley sent 3 wrestlers to Grand Valley, and 2 of them made it to the finals. Salem Yaffai, wrestling at 105, lost the title to Bedford's Doug Harper, 8-2. No shame though for Yaffai, Harper has won 102 consecutive matches in his career.

MARK ZENAS (185) was also a runner-up. He was edged by Bedford's Jeff Kaminski, 8-7. Kaminski beat Zenas 17-6 in the regional finale. Zenas finishes his season with a 44-2 record.

Anwar Yaffai, the 3rd Bulldog competing, won 2 matches at state and did not place.

Three other Observerland wrestlers made it to the finals. Westland John Glenn's Dan Gibson (126) was ousted by Sam Amine from Warren Lincoln, 4-3. Wayne Memorial's Tim Mitchell (138) was pinned by Pat Boyd of Mount Pleasant.

Farmington's Ab Hazen (167) lost a nailbiter, 7-4, to Brighton's Mike Baker.

Plymouth Salem's Dave Dameron placed 5th at 119. His younger brother, Dennis, placed 7th at 98. Wayne's Ed Fowler placed 5th at 132 and Farmington's Dave Hovey placed 6th at 105.

Rocks take division title

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

It is a rare and precious occasion when an athletic performance can produce goose-bumps on the arms of the spectators.

Barrie Muzbeck provided those watching the Western Lakes league gymnastics meet with enough goose-bumps to last an eternity Saturday.

The Walled Lake Western senior gymnast put her world-class talent on display at North Farmington, electrifying the crowd and dominating the field of competitors. She won all four events, scoring 9.5 on vault (using a breathtaking Trukahara), 9.85 on uneven bars, 9.25 on balance beam and a 9.5 on floor exercise.

Those scores gave her an all-around total of 37.90, 3.4 points higher than the next competitor.

"Oh, darn," Muzbeck exclaimed half seriously after getting her all-around score. "My goal was to score 38 all-around."

Muzbeck's brilliance, though, was only part of Saturday's excitement.

NORTH FARMINGTON, for the eighth straight year, won the league championship. But it was a struggle. After two events, North carried a slim 2 lead over Western. After three events, the lead was just .75.

"I wasn't too worried at that point because Western had bars left to do. I knew what they were capable of," said successful North coach Mary Giltz. "Our girls knew what they had to do on floor and they really came through when they had to."

Indeed, North, led by Eileen Murtaugh's 8.8 and Lucine Toroyan's 8.8, scored 33.50 on floor. Meanwhile, Western scored just 30.30 on bars.

"Walled Lake Western did a very nice job, and not just Barrie," Giltz said. "Their other kids did well, too."

North placed three gymnasts in the top 10 all-around and four in the top 12. Murtaugh was the Lakes Division all-around champ with 34.50. Toroyan placed sixth all-around (33.35), Kara Karhu 10th (32.15) and Lisa Brundie 12th (31.50).

OK, so much for excitement. How about some surprises. Farmington Harrison, 9-3 on the dual meet season losing to both Western and Salem, turned on the juices Saturday to gain a tie with Western for the Western Division championship with a superb 128.10 team score.

"We were just awesome today," said Hawk coach Linda Perkins, fighting back the tears. "We've really started to come together. We're working harder at practice and the girls have a lot more confidence."

TRACY SOLOMON was the top scorer for Harrison, amassing a 33.55 all-around score (fourth best) and winning the Western Division ribbon on floor (8.55). Jill Birsa (31.80 all-around) and Jody Solomon (31.25) also contributed mightily to Harrison's performance.

The Hawks scored team beats on bars (32.15), beam (32.30) and floor (32.25).

The other surprise was supplied by Plymouth Salem. The Rocks placed fourth overall in the meet with a 125.30 team score. Not an overly fantastic accomplishment but good enough to give them the Lakes Division crown.

"Everything's copacetic," said Salem coach Kathi Kinsella, who celebrated her 27th birthday Saturday. "It seems like all the other teams here have improved and we have pretty much stayed the same."

The Rocks were led by Beth Raffal, third all-around with 33.70, and Jackie Huff, eighth all-around with 32.90. Raffal garnered Lakes Division ribbons in vault (8.85) and floor (8.85), while Huff, still nursing a sore ankle, won division honors on beam (8.90).

AFTER ALL the goose-bumps, excitement and surprises, what else could this meet provide? How about some good old-fashioned grit.

That element was supplied by Farmington's Katie Macintosh. The personable senior suffered what was believed to be a stress fracture in her leg warming-up prior to the meet.

But, Macintosh, taped like a mummy, using ice packs between routines and limping noticeably, managed to score 33.0 all-around, seventh best. She scored 8.20 on vault, 8.45 on bars (despite a frightening fall off her dismount), 7.90 on beam and 8.45 on floor.

So, after eight consecutive league titles, is North Farmington getting tired of its success? Hardly.

"Hey, I don't take anything for granted," Giltz said. "This meet was very exciting. You had some teams really going after each other. Walled Lake Western, Salem, Harrison, they all had something to prove to each other. You have to be on to win a league meet."

The bad news for the rest of the Western Lakes is this: North Farmington returns all four of its top all-around gymnasts next year.

New improved IRA gives you more flexibility

By Sid Mitra
special writer

Our client, Betty, was convinced that the best time to invest in an IRA is April 15 of the following year, so she could have use of that money until she is forced to and it over to a trustee.

Another client, John, felt pretty much the same way. This is clearly a wrong argument, because it is based on a misunderstanding of the tax-deferred nature of an IRA investment.

THE TIME IS NOW

An IRA investment has two components: the principal you invest and the interest earned on this principal. You are, of course, allowed to deduct the principal from your taxable income for any given year.

But more importantly, the interest earned during that year is tax-deferred so the tax you would have paid on this interest in fact works for you.

Consequently, the sooner you invest in an IRA, the more interest is tax-deferred, and the better off you are. Hence the time to invest your 1985 IRA money is now.

DIVIDING UP YOUR IRA DEPOSITS

This year, when you invest in a tax-deferred IRA — $2,000 for a wage-earner and $250 for a non-working spouse — you may want to take advantage of a little-noticed aspect of the regulations.

Under current rules, you no longer need to deposit $2,000 in the breadwinner's account and the meager balance in that of the non-working spouse. You can split the money in two accounts any way you want, so long as one of the accounts gets no more than $2,000.

A factor to take into account is the age of both spouses. If, for example, a husband's wife is not working and she is somewhat younger than he is, it can make sense to put the maximum $2,000 into her account — providing that the couple can afford to live for a while on the husband's pension from his employer, Social Security, or other income.

SINCE YOU must begin drawing from your IRA at age 70½, this tactic can effectively delay distribution of the IRA money for several additional years — until the wife reaches that age — while the money continues to accumulate tax-free interest. This way, the spouse will have the larger nest egg later on.

In a case where you have a sizable lump sum from a pension fund to roll over into an IRA, it is appropriate to aim for long-term certificates of deposit that offer the highest interest, even if you feel sure you will want to withdraw money before the five-year or 10-year CDs mature.

BUT WHAT about the threat of an early withdrawal penalty? No penalty can be imposed on the termination of certificates in an IRA account owned by a person aged 59½ or older.

Because the yield on long-term certificates can be 2 percent or more than the yield on short-term ones, choosing CDs with the longest maturity provides a unique opportunity for maximum yield with flexibility.

EDUCATIONAL SEMINAR: The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and the Coordinated Financial Planning staff will conduct a seminar 7-10 p.m. Tuesday, March 12, at the Baldwin Library, 351 Martin St., Birmingham. This seminar will cover: strategic planning (comprehensive and retirement planning); tactical planning (insurance, taxes, education, wills); and product planning (mutual funds, stocks and bonds, real estate and oil and gas tax shelters). An out-of-town investment specialist will discuss a specific tax shelter. The seminar is free, but registration is required. For more details, call 643-8888.

Sharing 200 actors work together to make TAP shows hits

By Gail Walsh

ALL ACTORS require the gift of sharing to become a member of TAP Ltd., a Michigan touring company, based in Farmington Hills, which performs everything from musical revues to psychodramas.

Founder-director-producer Michael J. Klier said of his 200-member company, which is beginning its 11th year, "We are out for the company to work together, not to make a star. We show up as the people who have an opportunity to share with you."

Klier believes if he shares honesty and trust with his performers, then the performers will in turn share their honesty and trust with the audience.

The full company doesn't necessarily all perform at the same time, Klier explained. More often it's a case of several smaller groups performing in various shows throughout the area.

THE COMPANY CAN perform popular Broadway tunes or it can create a show to fit the needs of the customer, Klier said. For example, AutoWorld in Flint wanted a show about cars, so Klier created "Shake, Rattle and Roll."

One of TAP's trademarks is friendliness. The actors greet each individual in the audience after every show.

"We are people-oriented and we want to know who shared their time with us. We're good enough that we don't have to hide behind the stage," he said.

Interaction with the audience is another TAP specialty.

The shows include a game called "Guess That Number" or "Buy You a Drink" in which a prize is given away by the sponsoring establishment to the person who correctly guesses the name of a song after hearing the introduction. Klier said the biggest prize given away was a trip to Brazil during a fund-raiser.

Broadway is what will be featured when the group performs in Livonia on Thursday, March 28, at a fund-raiser sponsored by the Women's Advisory Committee of the Schoolcraft College Women's Resource Center.

IN ADDITION TO house parties and children's theater, the company also performs at rehearsal dinners and wedding receptions. Klier said, "The key theme we push is love," with shows that are as pretty as they are hilarious. "We always have fun when we work," he said.

Klier notes a trend in audience preference for older music, especially that from the '30s and '40s with Gershwin, Porter and Berlin among the more popular composers. "Broadway is always hot," he said.

And Broadway is what will be featured when the group performs in Livonia on Thursday, March 28, at a fund-raiser sponsored by the Women's Advisory Committee of the Schoolcraft College Women's Resource Center.

Although light musical revues represent the company's major offerings, the company also presents serious productions on topics such as substance abuse and teen-age drinking.

One psychodrama called "Who Says I Can't..." deals with teen-age alcoholism.

KLIER IS A graduate of the University of Detroit with a degree in theater. He spent six weeks at the University of Dublin in 1972 as English acting coach for the school's production of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf," by Edward Albee.

Commenting on the experience, Klier said, "The art of the theater is a universal language where the rules are the same. If you believe in something, then the audience must."

In addition to his work with the Theatre of the Arts Production — otherwise known as TAP — Klier teaches greenhouse and landscaping classes. He said, "Art and nature have a lot in common. Any director worth his salt will take notice of that and also be able to put it on the stage."

Klier recently spent eight weeks directing a patriotic musical revue performed by 22 10-year-olds who went to France for three weeks on an exchange program.

"WHEN I FIRST met these kids, they couldn't sing or dance and they did not want to learn either," he said. But they had to learn because a performance was a requirement of the trip.

Klier said he felt the best way to go about it was to treat the children as if they were adults, using a sense of humor and sharing.

The previously disinterested children rewarded Klier by presenting him with a plaque and poem they wrote to express their gratitude before leaving the country.

"They learned a great deal during that time but I probably learned more

RANDY BORST/staff photographer

TAP Ltd. principals actress Elizabeth Porter (left), piano player Rebecca Klier and director Michael Klier run through a number that will be done when the group performs at a fund-raiser March 28 in Livonia.

If you believe in the people, you work and give to them. Then they will always give back to you," he said.

Klier and Robert Leider of Southfield collaborate on all theatrical material, with Klier's wife Rebecca responsible for all the musical scores.

REBECCA KLIER IS a Joplin, Mo., native and a graduate of John Brown University in Arkansas where she majored in piano. She teaches music and drama at West Maple Middle School in Birmingham.

TAP Ltd. actress Elizabeth Porter of Detroit, a graduate of the American Academy of Arts in New York, who calls herself the "Queen of Tap," said of Klier: "Michael treats people as human beings. He is both friend and employer."

Klier, Rebecca and Porter all agree TAP shows represent "as wholesome and clean entertainment as you can get without being corny." There is nothing off-color in the shows "and you can always bring the kids."

In fact, 12-year-old Trey Klier attends all the shows. He appears to be following his parents' example by receiving a part in Detroit Country Day's production, "A Is for Apple."

When asked if he would like to pursue a career in theater, he said, "I don't think so. I want to lead a normal life, plus I'm having enough troubles with algebra."

Leo Buscaglia to talk in Detroit appearance

Public television personality Leo Buscaglia will be presented by WTVS, Channel 56, at 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 2, at Masonic Temple in Detroit.

Tickets for Buscaglia's only appearance in Detroit are $15 and $10 per person and are available at Ticket World and the Masonic Temple box office. Proceeds from the lecture will go to Buscaglia's Felice Foundation and WTVS, Detroit's public television station.

Buscaglia is an educator and author. He is professor of education at the University of Southern California, where his class "Love 1A" brought him public attention in the late 1970s. Buscaglia's newest book, "Loving Each Other,"

Annual Shrine Circus coming to Detroit

Detroit's Moslem Temple will present the 77th annual Shrine Circus Friday, March 15, through Sunday, March 31, at the Michigan State Fairgrounds in Detroit.

Animal acts abound in the two-hour-plus performance and include Katina and her Poodles, the Fossats and their three rings of chimpanzees, dressage riding of Nellie Hanneford and Yvonne Cristiani, 14 lions and tigers of Alan Gold, and Hanneford horses and elephants.

In addition to animal performers, acts include Laura Armandis on her high-swinging trapeze, the Flying Gnomes featuring triple-comersanting Julio, the illusions of Senor Rai, and Captain Christopher Munoz.

New this year are four production numbers including a welcome-to-the-circus opening number, an aerial ballet tribute to America's firemen, re-creation of the legend of King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table, and a Salute to America to close the show.

second runs Tom Panzenhagen

"North by Northwest" (1959), R p.m. Saturday on Ch. 50. Originally 136 minutes. TV time slot: 150 minutes.

Can you think of a better Alfred Hitchcock movie? "North by Northwest" has everything going for it: Cary Grant's unparalleled charm, wit and easily conveyed senses of mischief and peril, Eva Marie Saint's cool and calculating disposition, James Mason's menace, Leo G. Carroll's composure, a riveting script by Ernest Lehman, rousing musical score by Bernard Herrmann, and a spine-tingling finale atop Mount Rushmore. Sit back and enjoy but look for one thing: Measure the elapsed time from the finale's most-piercing jolts to the movie's final frame. You'll find it takes about 15 seconds — a lesson to moviemakers who feel compelled to provide protracted denouements. Hitchcock himself occasionally was guilty of that (see "Psycho," for instance), but he makes no mistakes in this near-perfect picture. Rating: $3.95.

"The Sunshine Boys" (1975), 12:15 Sunday night on Ch. 7. Originally 111 minutes. TV time slot: 135 minutes.

Neil Simon's rarely at his best when his comedy contains an undercurrent of commentary on the human condition. His more recent works — "I Ought to be in Pictures" (with Walter Matthau) and "Only When I Laugh" (with Marsha Mason and Kristie McNichol) — lean in that direction, and they are disasters. But "The Sunshine Boys," about cantankerous ex-vaudevillians, gets away with it. George Burns and Walter Matthau are wonderful as aged comics who can't enjoy life without frequent injections of torment and remorse. They can't live with each other or apart, with their memories or without. Co-star Richard Benjamin provides the perfect foil for the boys' shenanigans. Lee Meredith and Howard Hesseman also co-star. Rating: $3.35.

"The Wrecking Crew" (1969), 12:30 Monday night on Ch. 7. Originally 105 minutes. TV time slot: 135 minutes.

If, like a lot of people, you've managed to avoid Dean Martin movies — and especially his Matt Helm series of spy spoofs — congratulations. You haven't missed much. But prepare yourself for a shock: "The Wrecking Crew" isn't bad. It is the last of four Matt Helm movies and the second directed by Phil Karlson. So it prospers from experience, and it offers a bounteous supporting cast — namely, Elke Sommer, Sharon Tate, Tina Louise and Nancy Kwan. Don't expect trenchant social satire, but "The Wrecking Crew" is good for a few yucks. Rating: $2.85.

Launces, Gurwin tell secrets of their success

By Cathie Brodtkorb
Special writer

JIMMY LAUNCE AND Nancy Gurwin are two enduring producers of dinner theater in metropolitan Detroit who have chalked up an impressive number of hit shows through the years.

"They specialize in choosing and staging productions that, like a good cognac or a classic dessert, end the evening with a smile and send theatergoers home whistling a tune from the show or laughing over a choice punch line. To what behind-the-scenes secrets do they credit their success?"

Nancy Gurwin of Nancy Gurwin Dinner Theatre and Jimmy and Brigitte Launce of Jimmy Launce Productions credit hard work. They've put in hundreds of 14-16 hour days attending to the multiple details that make good shows. Their diligence has paid off with recognition and an increasing number of full houses.

They consider selecting the right plays crucial to success, and both companies favor tried and true plays that made it on Broadway. They are, after all, in the business of giving people what they want, and what dinner theater patrons want is entertaining fare that has proven appeal.

GURWIN SPECIALIZES in toe-tapping Broadway musicals, one of the few theaters in town that does, and the Launces find that their audiences favor sophisticated comedies and mysteries with circuitous plots.

Gurwin, who lives in Southfield, has been doing dinner theater in the Detroit area for nine years at five different restaurant locations. Since last September, the theater company has been working at the Allen Park Motor Lodge.

For 10 years the Jimmy Launces of Farmington Hills have been pleasing audiences at the Somerset Dinner Theatre at Somerset Mall in Troy. The dinner theater celebrated its 10th anniversary there Jan. 6. Two and a half years ago Jimmy Launce Productions expanded to a second location in the club at the Hyatt Regency-Dearborn.

Successful dinner theater depends on good food service in a pleasant environment as well as on an entertaining theater production. Finding the right restaurant is essential.

"Dinner theater seems to go best in the suburbs," said Gurwin, who began at the Botsford Inn in Farmington Hills nine years ago, playing in "I Do, I Do" with Phil Marcus Esner. Through the years she also has staged shows at Vittorio's in Livonia, the Paradiso in Detroit and Alvaro's in Royal Oak.

"IT'S DIFFICULT to find facilities to accommodate the lighting and large sets we need to do musicals," she said. "And the restaurant must be committed to having the theater."

Commitment includes agreeing not to book prime nights for other events. She is pleased that Friday and Saturday nights are guaranteed in her contract with the Allen Park Motor Lodge and that the lodge's management came to her expressing interest in presenting her dinner theater.

"The Fantasticks," a musical directed by Edgar A. Guest of Birmingham, is playing there through March and will be followed by "Guys and Dolls."

"People like to come to a nice, secure area with ample parking," Brigitte Launce said. She credits part of Somerset Dinner Theater's success with its ideal location. "It's been good for us and it also attracts traffic to the mall."

The price tag for dinner and an evening's theater entertainment is moderate. "For only $18.95 per person, theatergoers enjoy a complete buffet dinner from Alfred's restaurant in the mall, plus theater and all taxes and gratuities," she said. "People like the package-type entertainment. We're giving good theater at a lower price than many other professional theaters in town."

"CHEATERS," a comedy/farce about the tangled love relationships between a young couple and their two sets of parents, will play at Somerset through April. At the Hyatt, theatergoers can choose between two theater/meal packages or a cocktail/theater option. Agatha Christie's "The Mousetrap" runs through May.

Even in glamorous show business, there are headaches the audience seldom sees. Gurwin remembers water pipes broke when she did "Once Upon a Mattress" at Alvaro's. The set was ruined and costumes were soaked.

"And in this business," she said, "the costs can be outrageous." To do "South Pacific," she must pay $125 in royalties for each performance of the musical. On top of that, she must invest $1,000 initially to get the music for the band.

Her formula for success includes getting the best possible talent to stage productions. More than half the actors and actresses who audition for parts hold full-time jobs, so rehearsals must be scheduled for evenings and weekends.

Brigitte Launce insisted, "Detroit has excellent talent" and disagrees with those who assume that metro-Detroit actors and actresses aren't on a par with those on both coasts. She shares credit for the success of Jimmy Launce Productions with the talent in front of the footlights and with the indispensable crews behind the scenes.

"We try to pick fresh shows," she said, "and we seldom repeat shows or take the same show to our other location." Jimmy Launce Productions also changes shows at each location approximately every three months in order to keep audiences coming to see the newest offering.

At dinner before the show at Somerset, with stage in background, are Dorothy Lubera (left) and Rose Ponke, both of Warren; Tina Ponke of Mt. Clemens, and Cherry Vegotta of Lake Orion.

New interest in lute keeps master maker busy

By Mary Klemic
staff writer

Among the violins and guitars hanging on one wall in James North's Plymouth home is another type of stringed instrument, one with a wider neck and many more strings and a shape like that of half a pear.

It is a lute. And the instrument, popular more than three centuries ago, is finding renewed acceptance in this country.

North, one of the few master-trained luthiers (lute makers) in the United States, has been making lutes for eight years now. He receives more orders for those instruments than he does for making or restoring guitars, violins, mandolins and banjos, thanks in part to such groups as Rochester's Lutes in Michigan Society, he says.

"The lute was as popular as the guitar is today," North said. "As some of the great old (lute) masters died away, the quality (of lutes) dropped and they became harder to play. People cursed it."

"Being able to express (music) on authentic instruments is the fashionable thing for musicians today, without a doubt."

NORTH'S FATHER and grandfather both were woodworkers and musicians. North completed formal training in Arizona and went on to study with master luthier Jacob Vande Geest in Switzerland.

"He is definitely the contemporary father of the lute today," North said. "He was at the forefront 10 years ago when the lute was resurging very strongly in Europe."

Of the 12 luthiers North estimates work in the United States, only he and one other have been trained by a master, he says.

"You have to go for at least five years of technical training, another five or six after that," North said. "You could go (to study) the violin alone for the same amount of time. It's kind of like those people who have that desire to be nurses and doctors. They really put everything into it. This is kind of the same sort of thing. It takes the same dedication and devotion as the other professions."

Even now North thinks he has more to learn. He hopes to return to Europe, to study lute authenticity and restoration at four or five major museums there, and would like to make harps in the future.

NORTH MAKES three different types of lutes: the 24-string baroque lute, which dates from around 1670-90; the 19-string renaissance lute, from the 1500s to 1670; and the 15-string eight-course lute, which preceded the renaissance lute.

North's lutes are built according to the style of the period. He uses imported wood, which he finds leads to a sweeter tone than American wood: spruce and maple from Germany (for the soundboard and back, respectively), rosewood from India or Brazil (for the fingerboard, near the tuning pegs) and ebony from India or Africa (also for the fingerboard). The strings are made of nylon.

It takes North one to two weeks to make an instrument from start to finish. After ordering the wood, he draws up a master design, then takes measurements of the player's hand. He cuts the wood in his workshop garage, working with as many hand tools as possible, often using a wooden bench from Europe.

The top of the lute is one piece. If North makes a mistake while carving it, the entire top must be made over again.

North uses a lute finish, a blend of beeswax and turpentine, instead of a varnish to waterproof and protect the instrument. He asks that the customer return at least once a year to have it cleaned and adjusted.

"A fine instrument has to be seen to once a year, like a fine car," North said.

PRICE RANGES for North's work include $50 to $100 for mandolins, and $400 to $1,500 for guitars, lutes and violins. Upon commission, the price is adjusted to accommodate the customer's needs and wants. North offers a less-detailed student model for beginners.

"I offer a little bit more personal attention to detail," he said. "They are fully warranted. I deal as best I can with the fine aspects of instruments."

Many of the lute orders North receives are from guitarists who want to add to their musical range, he says. He suggests that anyone seeking information on where to learn the lute contact Lyle Nordstrom at Oakland University in Rochester.

The neck of a guitar is carved by James North's experienced hands.

The trouble with toys nowadays is that they don't break. Most of them are made so nice, especially the Fisher Price toys.

So what are you going to do with perfectly good toys when your child outgrows them? Well, we stack them on shelves and save them either for the next child to come along or for the "great garage sale" that has yet to happen after three years of planning.

For 15 years we have saved all the toys, bionic men and action figures. We have every weeble that ever wobbled and now we own every muscle-bound super hero known to man. Between the three boys there has been years of fun and most of it is now stored in Adam's room. Well, when Adam had some friends over, someone discovered the hidden treasure of toys and someone unearthed every single one of them.

When I saw Adam's room, it was as if the past 15 years flashed before my eyes. "Oh, wow," I said, "who got all these toys off the shelves in the closet?"

Instantly five halos popped out and glowed brightly over each little head. So later after the company left I asked Adam, "who emptied out all those toys?" To which he said, "Gee, Dad, nobody did, it just kinda happened."

Well, that is the way color is with me, it just kind of happens. When I sit down to paint I have all my colors out and I just mix them and the color I want just kind of happens. So for me to teach color I have to imagine to myself what I would do to get the color my student wants to find.

Every so often, someone will call the store and ask me some horribly technical color question. So I quickly fumble under the counter and pull out my trusty $2.50 color computer and wildly spin the colors around until something looks good. Then I calmly quote the sometimes-lengthy list of colors needed to answer the caller's question, as if I knew it all along.

PROBABLY THE most-often asked question is, "What colors do you mix to make a good flesh color?" The best answer is also a question of "whose flesh are you painting?"

Of course flesh ranges from the yellow of the Orient to the blue-blacks of Africa. For most people the color they are seeking is somewhere in the combination of the complementary colors. Permanent green-light and Cadmium red medium. Now this combination will result with intense colors ranging from rich reddish brown to very bright red.

So to achieve the lighter colors of flesh you must tint or add white to the various mixtures. Imagine your original mixture of red and green was divided into eight separate steps between them. Then imagine three tinted colors above each of your mixed colors. This would allow you 32 colors all of which could be considered as a flesh color.

There is however an easier way to achieve flesh colors. When you add white to several earth colors you can come up with some instant flesh colors. Indian red tints to a pinkish flesh color while Mars red tints to a paler pink.

Burnt Sienna tints to a yellowish flesh and Venetian red tints to what most people would call a portrait flesh color. Now to yellow up any of these colors you can mix in tinted red sienna or yellow ochre.

To add some bluish to flesh mix in tinted vermilion. Burnt umber is a deep grayish brown that also tints nicely and to shade colors you can, of course, add in some grays to cool off your shaded areas. Perhaps as you may already know, there are probably a hundred books on portrait painting and each are loaded with tips.

But after limited investigation of a few of them, you will find that the best thing to do is put down the books and get out your paints and "kinda let it happen" and it will happen. You will come up with just the right color and your own recipes for it. Who knows, maybe you will even write a book someday.

Why not? A hundred and one books on portraits won't hurt anybody.

ARTIFOLKS: Bob Parrish from Livonia was to me at first just a good customer, but over the years he has grown to become a friend of mine. Bob came into the store to see what I thought of his painting for the up-and-coming Duck stamp contest.

He had several sheets of acetate over a beautiful painting of two ducks in the water. Bob then asked, "How do the reads look?" As he pulled off each sheet of acetate, the reads changed in their numbers and density. You see after investing hours of detailed painting on the ducks, water and background, he wasn't about to paint the final foreground reads without trying several approaches on acetate.

When the acetate laid flat on the painting, it looked just like part of the painting and allowed us the opportunity to discuss the look of each. This step takes away the "here goes nothing" approach that some people have out of frustration. Which usually causes a halting tentative stroke of the brush that most often shows. Thanks, Bob, for the tip and don't you folks forget it next time you come to a sudden halt on your painting.

James Dean still touches the heart of adolescence

James Dean. A couple weeks ago, "Rebel Without a Cause" was shown on television. I catch it whenever I can. It's a reminder of how intense adolescent emotions can be.

When I need that kind of emotional fix, I turn to Dean. J.D. Salinger and mid-'60s Bob Dylan. Lately, I've been nostalgia-gliding on all three.

The movie screens are currently glutted with teen-age, high school movies intended to draw in the primary movie audience and generate a few record sales with a soundtrack LP. None of them create quite the power of "Rebel" and none of them have a Dean.

JAMES DEAN is an unusual figure in movie history. His fragile-tough, man-boy intensity is there for us in only three movies. He died a romantic death, cutting through the late afternoon at 100 miles an hour in a sportscar, racing to an early end. Ever since that September day in 1955, people have been trying to analyze his appeal, actors have tried to imitate his style (no one ever has) and adolescents have found a true embodiment of their emotions.

"Rebel" and "East of Eden" are the Dean legacy. In each, he is a tortured young man seeking affirmation and acceptance from a remote father. In the first film, the father is too weak; in the second, he is too strong.

Hugh Gallagher

Some argue that Dean couldn't act. It's a meaningless argument. No actor ever gave so forcefully or achieved such empathy. His thin, triangular face projected both anguish and quiet strength in "Rebel" as he moved from the drunken, rejected teen-ager at the beginning to the surrogate father for Sal Mineo at the end. Like Robert De Niro, Dean also suggested a dangerous side, but deeply repressed.

Marlon Brando was the other "rebel" actor of the period. But Brando was more polished. He was playing a part, even when he was most intense. His characters were more brutal, never suggesting the vulnerability of Dean. Even Terry Malloy in "On the Waterfront" is a street tough in ways that Dean never is.

Then, too, Brando lived. He went on to star in fey comedies and bokum westerns and costume dramas. He won an Oscar for playing an Italian grandfather. He grew fat.

DEAN IS frozen in time. If he wasn't like the characters he played, it doesn't matter. All we know of Dean is there on the screen. His death, so in character, preserved him in adolescence. He is as immutable as Holden Caulfield. And we suffer and laugh with him with each reshowing.

"Rebel" was important because it was not about slum kids fighting the world as in "Blackboard Jungle" (made about the same time). It was about suburban kids with more subtle problems. It was the flip side of Andy Hardy. The psychology seems too pat in retrospect. The failed parents are too cardboard (even when well acted, as in the case of Jim Backus as Dean's weak-kneed father). But that is easily overlooked because Dean, Natalie Wood and Sal Mineo give such fire-charged performances. Director Nicholas Ray gave the film the right tone, quiet after a storm.

Adolescence hasn't changed that much. The same fears, pressures and alienation exist. If "Rebel" was flawed, it came very close to understanding.

Spring festival at the Institute

"Arts and Flowers: A Festival of Spring" will be held May 7-10 in honor of the centennial of the Detroit Institute of Arts.

The festival, more than two years in the planning, represents the efforts and desires of more than 600 volunteers and more than 70 community service organizations. For information, call the Founders Society Development Department at 833-7969.

Free festival events at the Institute of Arts include invitational flower arrangements, special exhibits and an exhibition of Michigan artists' "Arts and Flowers" poster competition.

THE ARTS and Flowers Festival preview party, 6-9 p.m. Tuesday, May 7, offers a rare evening opening of the entire museum, along with cocktails, buffet supper, music and informal modeling by Jacobson's. Tickets are $30 per person.

Featured at the preview party will be flower masterpieces arranged by Federated Garden Club members to complement 50 paintings and sculptures included in a major centennial exhibition; an array of floral arrangements by prominent Michigan political, business, cultural, sports and entertainment personalities; and special paintings and displays by members of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association.

Each day Wednesday through Friday will include a luncheon and fashion show in the South Court, 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m., and a guided tour of art and flowers in the Woodward Lobby, 11:30 a.m. through 2 p.m. An informal showing of spring/summer collections, courtesy of Jacobson's, will be presented. Tickets are $25 per person per day.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 8 is American Heritage Day. Charles W. Cares, professor of landscape architecture and director of Nichols Arboretum at the University of Michigan, will present a slide lecture, "Historic Garden Renovation and Restoration," at 10 a.m. in Lecture Hall.

At 2:15 p.m. in Lecture Hall, Dorothy Temple, chief floral designer of the White House in Washington, D.C., will give a slide lecture and demonstration on "Flower Arranging in the White House."

Thursday, May 9, is World Culture Day. Constantine V. Micuda, AIA will give a slide lecture at 10 a.m. in Lecture Hall. Micuda is consulting architect of the Pontiac Silverdome and president of Micuda Associates Inc. in Pontiac. His lecture is entitled, "Architecture and the Related Arts."

A lecture-demonstration, "Art and Flowers at the Metropolitan," will be presented at 2:15 p.m. in Lecture Hall by Chris Giftos, activities director and chief exhibition and floral designer at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

FRIDAY, MAY 10, is Michigan Day. At 10 a.m., landscape architect and lecturer Jack A. Drew, president of Jack Drew & Associates in Haslett, Mich., will present a slide lecture. The lecture, "The Home Landscape: Plants and Design," will take place in Lecture Hall.

Martha Stewart will give a lecture-demonstration, "The Garden in Home Entertaining," at 2:15 p.m. in Lecture Hall. Stewart is a lecturer, author of "Entertaining," and contributing editor and consultant to House Beautiful, Cuisine, House and Garden and the New York Times.

Try architecture — just for fun

Amateur photographers often think about dabbling in architectural photography with its sophisticated view cameras and perspective control. Then many get cold feet and end up shooting the kids in the backyard again.

Well, just remember, you're not shooting for Architectural Digest and many exciting and refreshing pictures can be yours with the equipment you currently own if you keep a keen eye open for the numerous structures you encounter every day.

THE METROPOLITAN area is full of varied architectural subjects from the dynamic Renaissance Center to the old barn on a decaying farm.

Greenfield Village and Cranbrook offer endless opportunities and because Michigan enjoys the four seasons, each architectural subject presents itself in a different mood at different times of the year.

Architectural photography is an excellent subject with which to experiment with abstracts. Imagine how creative you can be with the steel grid-work in a building under construction or with a pattern of textured brick-work!

Don't overlook details such as a single window, an unusual doorway, or a rocker on a picturesque front porch. Remember, a detail helps "tell the story" of the whole.

As in most photography, morning and afternoon light will give maximum impact to your shots. And don't forget night-time photos of floodlit buildings and fountains create an entirely different mood.

You may be asking about distortion in architectural photography. Don't worry, only the pros are concerned with this. On the contrary, distortion in buildings and other structures can add a certain mystique to your shot.

Distortion can give your picture a special aesthetic quality not present in professional architectural photography.

©1985 Monte Nagler

Careful composition enabled Monte Nagler to produce this exciting pattern of windows in the old Virginia City, Nevada, schoolhouse. The building is still in use today. This photograph, along with dozens of others is part of Monte Nagler's exhibit at Somerset Mall, Troy, through March 16. He will be at the mall 7-8 p.m. today and tomorrow to discuss his work.

Nagler exhibits works

An exhibit of photographs by Monte Nagler will be at Somerset Mall of Troy March 7-16.

Nagler, photography columnist for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, photography teacher in Farmington Hills and freelance writer and photographer, is represented locally by Haksted Gallery of Birmingham and also has work in galleries in other states.

Nagler, who has a master's degree in business administration from the University of Michigan, has had two previous careers, one as a car designer and another as owner of his own business.

There will be two receptions to meet the artist: 7-9 p.m. Thursday and Friday, March 7 and 8.

The mall is at Coolidge and Big Beaver, Troy.

'Requiem' ranks high

By Avigdor Zaromp
special writer

The number of events is at its peak this season. When notified of yet another program, this one by the Scandinavian Symphony Orchestra, my initial inclination was to decline. Then I noted the work to be performed was the Verdi Requiem, no less.

The last live performance that I'd heard of this was last season with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and the Kenneth Jewell Chorale under Gary Bertini.

Surely, I thought, this performance couldn't possibly compete with that. I was all prepared for a more relaxed artistic standard.

Yet, the concert held last Sunday at Southfield High School Auditorium offered yet another proof of the old cliché, "you can't judge a book by its cover."

THIS isn't meant to tarnish the image of the participants — the Scandinavian Symphony Orchestra, the Dearborn Community Chorale and the Schoolcraft Choir. It means one expects more from a major symphony orchestra than a community orchestra.

This performance was a tribute to the late Valter Poole, who was associate conductor of the Detroit Symphony and later became associated with several local orchestras, including the Scandinavian.

Considering the quality of this concert, Mr. Poole could have hardly asked for a more worthy tribute if he had been there to hear it.

The large, wide auditorium offered good acoustics for the combined large choir, arranged on stage in a semi-circle. The individual performers were Douglas Morrison, conductor; Riva Capellari, soprano; Rosalie Tucker, mezzo-soprano; Gordon Finlay, tenor; and Thomas J. Murphy, bass.

As a rule, I try to avoid comparing one performance with another. One thing, though, should be said. If I were presented with random samples of recordings of this performance and the one with the Detroit Symphony, assuming enough time had elapsed to make individual voice recognition impossible, I would never guess which is which, relying on quality alone.

Only in a couple of instances did some amateurish elements sneak in — one was the bad intonation of the strings at the beginning of the Offertorio.

Other than that, an uncompromised high professional standard was the rule.

THE SOLOISTS, each one of them, displayed excellent singing. The choir sounded solid and cohesive. It went beyond effective noisemaking in the Dies Irae, the part that usually grabs the most attention.

There was impressive unison singing in the Agnus Dei and a distinguished polyphonic presentation in the final section of Libera Me.
