Debate flies with Republic

By Marie Chestney and Gary M. Cates staff writers

Announcement of Republic Airlines' recent decision to locate a regional ticket reservation center in Livonia has met with mixed reaction from Plymouth community leaders.

The center, to be built by Aug. 1 at the Six Mile-Haggerty intersection, is part of a massive, two-part expansion and hiring project now under way at Republic, one of the largest airlines serving the metropolitan Detroit area.

When completed, the project is expected to create an estimated 1,200 new jobs for many low-income and unemployed workers in western Wayne County.

Nine-hundred of those jobs will be at the airport; the remaining 300 in Livonia. Another 1,000 workers are expected to be transferred into the Detroit area from other Republic operations in Georgia and Michigan.

'I was a bit disappointed we didn't get the opportunity to make a presentation to the company in regard to site location.'

— Maurice Breen township supervisor

Republic's move to Livonia hinges on tonight's expected rezoning of 22 acres owned by Farmington Hills developer James Blain. Blain, in turn, will sell eight of the rezoned acres to Republic for its one-story, 54,000-square-foot reservations center.

"IF WE don't act, the center goes someplace else," said John Nagy, Livonia's city planner. "We indicated a willingness to accelerate the rezoning process. We aggressively pursued Republic."

Nagy and Livonia Mayor Edward H. McNamara heavily lobbied Republic to build its center in Livonia. Other sites under consideration were in Taylor, Monroe and Westland.

The center is a consolidation of Republic's East Coast ticket servicing operations, now based in Atlanta.

In a reversal of a business exodus to the South now plaguing the state, many Atlanta-based employees will be offered transfers to Livonia once the center is built.

Republic now has a small reservation center with 175 employees in Taylor, according to Greg Pitoniak, managing director of the Wayne County Economic Development Corp.

"For Livonia to offer industrial revenue bonds or tax abatement, state law says that if 20 or more jobs are shifted, the 'losing' city must consent," Pitoniak said.

Tuesday, Taylor gave its permission for the airline to transfer up to 200 employees out of the downriver community. The airline needed the city's permission in order to get industrial revenue bonds or tax abatement in Livonia.

THE BOARD of the Wayne EDC gave unanimous approval recently to a resolution of inducement — the first step in the authorization of industrial development bonds.

Also offered as an inducement was a $1.5 million Wayne County Private Industry Council (PIC) grant to pay training costs.

Cartoonist draws on politicians

If a successful caricature relies on the artist's wickered nature taking over, then former president Richard Nixon is truly God's gift to editorial cartoonists.

Detroit News editorial cartoonist Draper Hill demonstrated to students at Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem high schools how a politician like Nixon could be transformed into a formula drawing by elongating the head, stretching the nose out horizontally, and hanging the rest of the face underneath the eyes.

"In a caricature, the person's features are intensified. The answer isn't to draw a grotesque nose to be weird, but to melt down the face and rebuild," Hill explained, speaking in honor of National Library Week.

Hill picks the subjects for his cartoons by reading both Detroit daily newspapers and the New York Times.

Trustees to act on gem ordinance

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

An ordinance designed to regulate the sale of gems and precious metals in Plymouth Township will be up for final approval at Tuesday night's trustee meeting.

If passed, the ordinance will require all precious metal and gem dealers to obtain a certificate of registration before conducting business in the township.

Licensed dealers then would have to report all precious metal and gem transactions to the police department. The ordinance is being sought by Police Chief Carl Berry.

Maintaining records of precious item transactions is needed to help police in tracking stolen property, according to Berry.

"Livonia has had an ordinance like this on the books for some time and the City of Plymouth recently enacted one," Berry said at the first reading last month.

Besides recording transactions, dealers would be required to hold a precious item for 10 working days before altering or selling it. This would allow officers to review the item in the event they believe it is stolen, according to Berry.

ALSO PROHIBITED by the ordinance would be receiving or purchasing a precious item from anybody who is less than 18 or is known to the dealer to have been convicted of theft or possession of stolen property within the preceding five years.

A majority of the proposed ordinance language was derived from a state law aimed at the same thing, according to Brian James, township attorney.

"The reason why we need a township ordinance addressing the same thing is that the state has assigned it the lowest priority for licensing," James said at the first reading.

Under a township ordinance, violators would be prosecuted through the township attorney's office. Prosecution, under the state law, is left up to the county prosecutor, James said.

The board is expected to approve the ordinance at the meeting, which starts at 7:30 p.m. in the meeting room at Township Hall, the corner of Ann Arbor Road and Mill Street.

ALSO ON on the agenda for Tuesday night's meeting is a public hearing for an industrial development project.

The hearing will be held for input on Galaxy Precision Machining's request

Dairy King's a 'castle'

By W.W. Edgar staff writer

A 10-year old dream has come to life in Plymouth's downtown business section.

For a decade, Milford resident Tom Laing has dreamed of the day when he could transform the old Dairy King on Main Street, across from City Hall, into a modern looking eatery.

Not only will it be a dream come true when the remodeled store opens but it will mark the rebirth of the old ice cream parlor that was the favorite of the older generation when Laing was young.

UNDER THE new multiple-peaked roof, there will be the same soft dip ice cream that has been available for some years, along with a small room in the rear where lunch will be served. The dining area can seat up to 20 people.

Further back on the property will be a small picnic grounds and a place for the soft dip customers to sit in their cars and enjoy the cones.

"I have dreamed about a place like this" Laing said with a gleam in his eye last week, "and at last I will be able to care for the type of place I always wanted."

"While we are one of the last businesses on Main Street to modernize, we now will have what can be called a modern ice cream store of the latest design."

THE DESIGN wasn't Laing's. Instead, it was done by architect David Schaff, whose office is directly across the street in the Baker House.

"I suppose," Laing said, "when they renovated that old house, they tired of me over here with the old store. So he came up with the design that has the place looking much like a castle. And it will be a nice stop right in the heart of town."

While the main business will be ice cream sales — both soft and hard dip attention is going to be paid to the sandwich room where all sorts of sandwiches can be ordered along with fresh soup that Laing's wife will make each day.

Loss mourned; Berg dies at 73

Hagbard (Bart) J. Berg, who came to be respected as a giant in the Canton Township community after moving here in 1941 from Dearborn, died early Friday, Berg, 73, had been hospitalized after suffering a recent heart attack.

Memorial services were held Sunday at Geneva Presbyterian Church in Canton. Berg is survived by his wife Bonnie McEwen Berg, children Lyle, 33, and Daryl, 32, both of Canton, Karen Berg Hertz, 30, of Boca Raton, Fla., Kenneth, 27, of Dearborn, and Barry, 24, of Hawaii, and brother Christian Berg of Hawaii.

The family asks that donations be made in Berg's name to the Canton Historical Society or to charities of the donor's choice.

Berg, who owned Bart's Nursery on Michigan Avenue and served as president of the Canton Historical Commission, was one of eight children born to Danish parents in Menominee in the Upper Peninsula. Canton loses one of its 'founding fathers'

By M.B. Dillon Ward
staff writer

News of Bart Berg's death Friday prompted an outpouring of warm words and high praise from Canton officials and community leaders, and from Berg's many friends and admirers.

Berg, 73, died in Ypsilanti's Beyer Memorial Hospital after suffering heart trouble in recent months.

In 44 years in Canton Township, Berg touched the lives of many. A firm believer in personally contributing to the betterment of his community, the Menominee native was a key player in the establishment and development of the Canton Township Planning Commission, the Canton Chamber of Commerce, the Canton Historical Society, the Canton Rotary Club, Canton's Sesquicentennial Committee and numerous other organizations.

He was elected to the Wayne County charter commission that proposed the position of chief executive several years ago. A Republican, Berg unsuccessfully ran for the offices of state senator and township treasurer earlier in his career.

He was a charter member and an elder of Dearborn's Cherry Hill United Presbyterian Church and an elder of Westminster Presbyterian Church in Ann Arbor.

Among his many accomplishments was the establishment in 1949 of national Mental Health Week, designated by President Harry Truman who met personally with Berg, who proposed and garnered nationwide support for the idea.

Several township leaders shared their thoughts about Bart Berg with the Observer Friday:

State Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton: "We've lost a good friend."

"Bart took community organizations like the Rotary, Chamber and the Jaycees, brought them out of the dark and on to stable ground. He was one of the principal factors operating for organizations in the community."

"If Canton had a Mt. Rushmore, we'd have to sculpt his face next to (the late Canton Clerk) John Flodin's. We've lost two of our 'founding fathers,' so to speak."

Mary Dingeldey, Canton Sesquicentennial Committee chairperson and community leader: "Up until the last minute, Bart was wheeling and dealing. A lot of times he was unorthodox in his approach. He'd say, 'Don't ask and then they don't say no. Just get it done.'"

"He used to holler at me because I had a bad temper. I didn't like him when I first met him working with the Chamber. We laughed about that later. He used to teach me that I needed to 'Step on someone's toes without messing up their shine."

"He was a little like John Flodin. He had an excellent sense of humor. He was a scrapper and a street fighter. He was a never-ending source for anything you needed to know."

"I don't know anyone who didn't like Bart Berg. The ones who didn't, didn't know him. I loved that man."

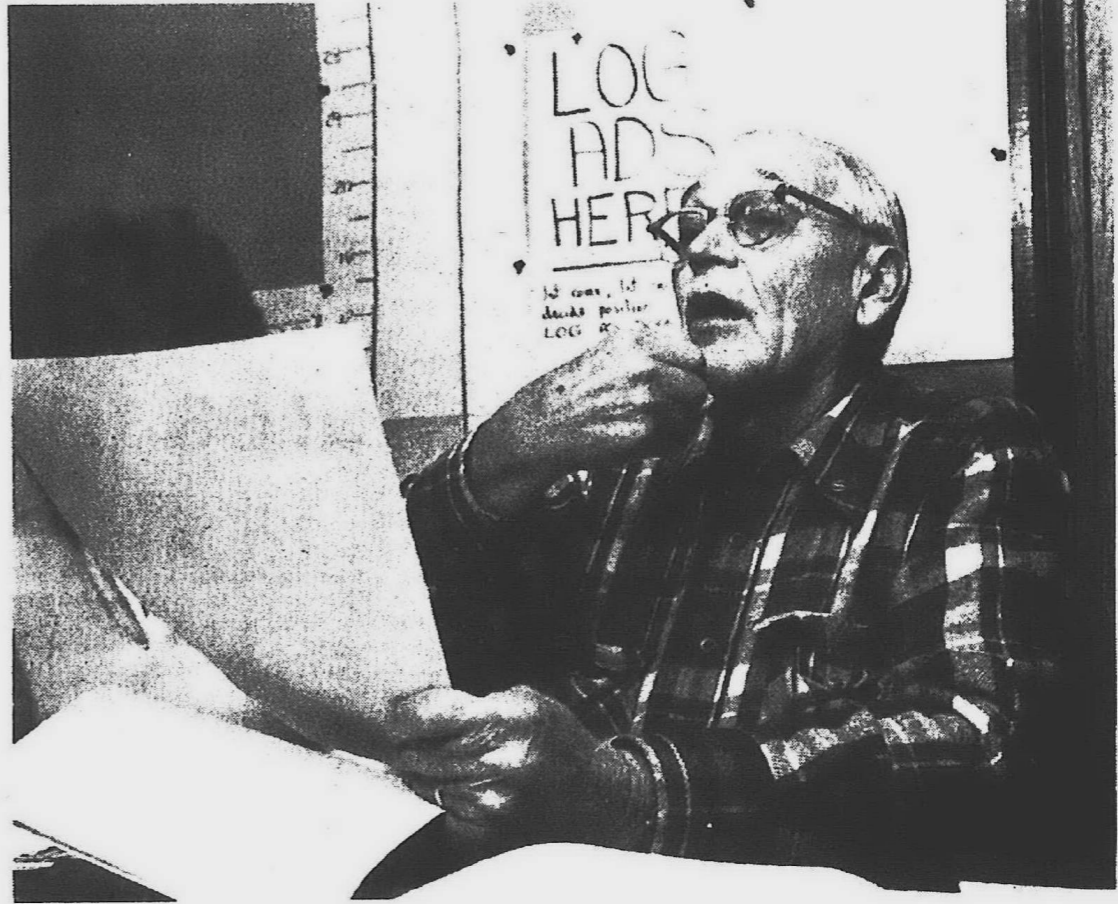

Robert Padgett, Canton trustee: Bart was a very close friend and a man whom I respected, liked and admired. I valued his advice. Bart was a rare individual who more than most had the facility for getting things done. What was somewhat unique about him was not only did he get things done, but he didn't really care who got the credit for it.

"He made a lot of very, very valuable contributions. He's what brought the Historical Society the last few Bart Berg's keen appreciation for local history was brought home often to members of the Canton Historical Commission, whom he served as president until recently when illness prevented him from carrying out his duties.

Staging Canton's yearlong sesquicentennial celebration seemed an easy task to Bart Berg, who assisted with its planning in 1983.

Residents of Canton and Plymouth paid a final tribute to one of their greats at memorial services yesterday for community leader Bart Berg, who died Friday. It was a tuxedoed Berg who in March 1984 launched festivities at Canton Township's Sesquicentennial Ball with his "Salute to Canton."

Bart Berg believed in leaving his mark on roads he walked grocery store and later a restaurant in 1948. Two years later he married the hostess/cashier at Bart's Fish and Chips, Bonnie McEwen, who "did everything except mop the floor."

Even then, Berg had a long history of contributing to his community. Born of personal tragedy in 1946, his idea of establishing a national mental health week took hold.

Dearborn held the first Mental Health Week shortly after Easter 1947. In 1948, it was celebrated statewide, and in April 1949, President Harry S. Truman — who met personally with Berg — proclaimed the first national week for mental health. Every state participated, and it was largely through the efforts of Berg, who wrote to all 48 state governors and to every state junior chamber of commerce.

Within six months, 23 governors, including Earl Warren of California, Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Frank Lausche of Ohio, had announced their support for the movement.

IT WAS BERG'S self-appointed task as officer of the national, state and local mental health associations to keep people mindful of the mentally ill when he toured the country as co-chairman of the U.S. Jaycee Public Health Committee.

"I think I was the first one to coin the phrase, 'the warehousing of human souls,'" Berg said in a 1981 interview.

"I wanted to see more treatment for these people instead of merely segregating and housing them. I wanted better understanding and better care," added Berg, who said his biggest battles were fought against fear and ignorance.

Berg, who'd also been active with the Dearborn and Belleville Rotary Clubs, put his experience and talent to work in Canton.

He was instrumental in founding Canton's Chamber of Commerce, which he served as program chairman, and the Canton Rotary. His involvement with Rotary International dates back almost 50 years, according to Bonnie Berg.

"Ten years before Canton ever had a planning commission, Bart was the one who said our township needed it so we could grow in the right direction," said Mrs. Berg.

"Supervisor Phil Dingeldey, and (longtime Canton Clerk) John Flodin said, 'Well, yes, we should have it,' and appointed him. He served on it for 20 years."

"BART'S PHILOSOPHY in life was always to leave something behind so that people will know you have walked here. Do things for other people," she said.

Berg followed his own advice. He used to say he'd been "retired, but tired for the last two years." Yet Berg was busy with community activities right up to the end. He was to have met last Friday at Wayne State University with representatives from the Michigan Historical Commission which is organizing the state's sesquicentennial celebration.

"They wanted to know what we had done with Canton's sesquicentennial and with our own historical society," said Mrs. Berg. Because of Berg's efforts, a Historical Commission official is to address an upcoming Canton Historical Society meeting and show an acclaimed film on the Milliken years. Last summer, despite political opposition, Berg and Canton's Roy Schultz erected a pavilion to house antique farm implements at the historical museum.

One of Berg's last wishes is to reach fruition, thanks to the Canton Sesquicentennial Committee.

"The next thing on his agenda was to start designating all the centennial homes in Canton with yardmarkers and bronze plaques," said Mrs. Berg. "We have a lot of wonderful people in this area, some of whom have been here for 75 years, yet you'd never know they were here. They stick together, and those are the kinds of people Bart thought should be recognized."

At a sesquicentennial get-together Wednesday evening, the committee donated $2,500 to Berg's project.

"It's one of the things he would be proudest of," said Mary Dingeldey, sesquicentennial committee chairperson. "I hope now the plaques can be engraved in memory of him. If anyone else did on purpose what Bart did by accident, they'd be doing more than their share. We're really going to miss him."

'If anyone else did on purpose what Bart did by accident, they'd be doing more than their share. We're really going to miss him.'

Mixed emotions fly over where Republic landed

Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen, also vice chairman of the PIC, said the money only can be used for training workers from the Wayne County PIC service area, which excludes downriver and Detroit.

"This is something that has been in existence for some time," Breen said Friday, in regard to Republic's announcement. "The applications have been available for a month now."

Although he is pleased Republic is locating close to Plymouth Township, Breen isn't totally happy with the way things were handled.

"I was a bit disappointed we didn't get the opportunity to make a presentation to the company in regard to site location," he said.

Likewise, Plymouth City Manager Henry Graper said he wasn't provided the opportunity to discuss locations with Republic. The city manager said Plymouth probably doesn't have a site to land the project but he "would have liked to assist Maurice in getting them in the township."

REPUBLIC FIRST tried to buy land for its center from Schoolcraft College. College President Richard McDowell said the school had no policy set at the time for the sale of college land, so Republic turned its eyes southward to the Six Mile-Haggerty development.

"They had a fast time line, and we couldn't get a study of the college's land done fast enough," McDowell said.

The inability for Schoolcraft College to act quickly enough in selling some of its land apparently led Republic to the other site. The airline first considered land on the extreme southeast part of the college, close to the I-275 intersection.

"The (college) land was not on the tax rolls," Nagy said. "Republic would have developed it and put it on the tax rolls. The site would have had little impact on nearby areas. It's low and marshy."

McDowell said Republic contacted the college on Thursday and wanted an answer the following week. He said the airline made "no proposal or gave a dollar figure."

"They were on a faster time line than we were able to meet," McDowell said. "We couldn't release land we might need later on. The needs of the college come first."

Pitoniak said the airline's fast building plans were due to the company's decision in early March to close down its Atlanta operations.

"They gave notice to the employees in Atlanta and that creates a morale problem," Pitoniak said. "When your primary sales people are reservation clerks and their morale is low, it affects sales. So they must move quickly. Every day of delay costs them money. They picked Livonia because of its willingness to act swiftly and not be bureaucratic."

IN WHAT Nagy called the fastest approval process he has ever seen in the city, the Livonia City Council has called tonight's special session to OK the rezoning and set the wheels in motion for tax and financing aid for Republic.

The airline hopes to get site plan approval from the city Wednesday and begin digging in the ground at its new site Thursday.

"This is the fastest building process I've ever seen here," said an exhausted Nagy, who had been scouting out possible sites in the city ever since Republic expressed interest in moving there a few weeks ago.

"We promised them an accelerated process and a willingness to accommodate them."

Livonia Council President Robert Bishop said he saw no major obstacle to the rezoning or to Republic getting site plan approval.

Those wishing to apply for Republic jobs should mail a resume to Wayne County Private Industry Corp., Box 51085, Livonia 48151.

Because phone contact is the key to Republic's airlines, Pitoniak said the airline will be looking for employees who can both work with computers and be pleasant over the telephone.

City's rooted in tree program

By Scot Peacock
staff writer

The greening of Plymouth will be celebrated as Arbor Week gets under way Monday. Public tree-planting ceremonies at several schools and the planting of trees along Main Street will commemorate the week.

Arbor Day ceremonies will be held at 9 a.m. Monday at Smith Elementary School, 10 a.m. at East Middle School, and 11 a.m. at Central Middle School. The city also is planning to plant Moraine Locust and Crimson King trees Tuesday along Main Street.

Officially proclaimed a holiday in 1883 by the state of Nebraska, Arbor Day commemorates the birthday of Sterling Morton, a former Detroit who pioneered his way to Nebraska in the 1850s, popularized the tradition of planting trees.

Encountering flat, treeless land in Nebraska, Morton started planting trees around his home. In 1872, he used his influence as editor of the first Nebraskan newspaper to initiate a drive in which one million trees were planted.

Eventually, other states adopted the Arbor Day tradition.

IN RECOGNITION for year-round tree planting and preservation activities, Plymouth has received a plaque from Tree City, U.S.A., the "home" of Arbor Day in Nebraska.

To receive recognition, the city has to spend $1 per capita on a forestry program, establish tree ordinances, and must hold a public tree-planting.

The mayor also must appoint a tree board. Plymouth's board consists of DPW Director Ken Vogras, Recreation Director Chuck Skene, City Commissioner Mary Childs, and resident Jack Wilcox.

Plymouth is in its fourth year of making trees available to residents. For $25 the city will plant a tree anywhere in the city between the street and the sidewalk, then fertilize and trim it. More than 100 trees were planted last year.

"Besides adding value to property, trees add beauty to the community as a whole," Childs said.

Vogras stressed fall planting for residents interested in trees.

Cartoonist captures the politicians

After he decides what his position is on the topic, he thinks of an idea that will work visually.

"The drawing time is the least problem," Hill said. When he starts on an editorial cartoon, he makes a pencil sketch on chemically treated paper that allows him to later paint in areas where grey shading is needed. Usually, he offers several versions from which one will be selected.

"The editorial policy is not rigid. I'm not asked to do a cartoon that I don't believe in, but the paper is not obligated to use any cartoon I give them."

A graduate of Harvard University, Hill also studied under a Fulbright Grant at the Slade School of Fine Arts, University College, London, England.

He emphasized the importance of a political cartoonist knowing literature, history and current events.

"You have to start caring about what's going on in the world to form opinions," he said.

dream come true that they are planning to move from Milford and will have their own home in Plymouth.

"Our picnic area outside, along with the large parking lot, will be for the benefit of the soft dip customers who had been forced to stand around or sit on the curb," Laing said.

"Now they will have room to enjoy their ice cream in comfort."

to establish an Industrial Development District under Public Act 198 of 1974. Once the district is established, the company can request 12 years of 50 percent property tax abatement for an addition to the 41150 Joy Road plant.

The board is expected to set a May 14 public hearing date for the abatement request.

Trustees also will be asked to authorize bids for a tax appraisal maintenance contract, bids for a janitorial services contract, as well as accepting bids on the completion of the police station at the Township Hall complex.

WHEN GOLD DOESN'T WORK

Readers of this column know that in rheumatoid arthritis, aspirin is the first choice of treatment. If aspirin alone doesn't provide control, then gold is added. However, if joint pain, swelling, loss of mobility and undue fatigue continue, it means that gold has failed.

There are a number of drugs that can take its place. These alternatives usually are not used before gold because they are not as safe or reliable in their effect. The most popular alternative is penicillamine, a drug that is distantly related to the antibiotic penicillin but does not share any of its uses or allergies. Other drugs that are instituted when gold fails include a number of anti-cancer medications such as methotrexate, cytoxan, and azathioprine. These agents are used cautiously as their side effects include hair loss, prolonged nausea, and profound white blood cell loss.

Keep in mind that gold or its alternatives do not replace aspirin, it remains the foundation upon which other therapy is adapted or added.

● VETERANS PROGRAM EXTENDED

Area Vietnam era and disabled veterans should be aware of recent changes affecting the Veterans Readjustment Appointments (VRA) program. VRA is a federal hiring program providing special, non-competitive hiring of these veterans. Originally scheduled to expire Sept. 30, 1984, the program has been extended through Sept. 30, 1986, through passage of the Veterans Benefits Improvement Act (PL 98-543). It is not expected that the VRA program will be extended beyond that date.

In addition to extending the program, PL 98-543 raised the entry grade level maximum from GS/WG-7 to GS/WG-9 and also provided limited appeal rights during the first year of appointment. A Vietnam era or disabled veteran who has completed no more than 14 years of education may qualify for a VRA. (This restriction may be waived for disabled veterans). For further information, interested veterans may call the local American Legion hotline at 453-9494 and leave a message regarding information desired.

Township has developed under Supervisor Breen

(Part 10)

My previous column touched on major developments in Plymouth Township since Maurice Breen became supervisor in 1980.

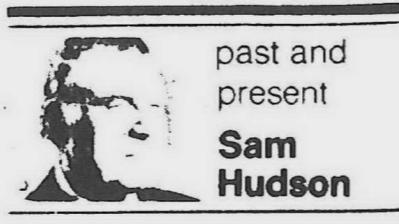

Other achievements during his administration include: the installation, in 1982, of an automated telephone system at Township Hall; the computerization of voter registration, water billing and accounting practices; and the consolidation of rubbish removal services which cut township residents costs in half.

In 1983, a water and sewer building was constructed, a system of Neighborhood Watch groups was implemented, and a township newsletter begun. In 1984, building activity in the township was promoted when an Economic Development Corp. was established.

ASIDE FROM contracting with the City of Plymouth for police service, Plymouth Township is engaged in other joint activities.

The local court system, senior citizen programs and the recent addition to the Dunning-Hough Library are all joint township and city projects.

Other examples of shared services are: the electrical inspections performed by the township's building department for the cities of Plymouth and Northville; the contract which the township has with Canton Township for heating and plumbing inspections; a first paid fire chief came in the 1960s. The chief today is Larry Groth. The past and present

fire department was composed of volunteers until 1968.

THE POPULATION of Plymouth Township has more than tripled in the past 25 years.

The figure was 2,270 in 1940; 4,945 in 1950; 8,364 in 1960 and about 26,000 in 1985.

Meantime, the City of Plymouth, which has seen a remarkable growth in commercial establishments during recent years, has been growing smaller in terms of those who live within its boundaries. In 1970, the city had a population of 11,758. Today the figure is barely 10,000.

There are many in the township who would like it to stay the way it is — primarily a residential community with plenty of open spaces and pleasant surroundings.

But the ideal often clashes with reality. The growth pattern was probably set just prior to World War II when industry began to move in.

Today, the township is a mix of manufacturing, commercial and residential areas. Four manufacturing plants are among the top taxpayers in the township, which has a current tax rate of 4.3 mills.

The ten largest township taxpayers, in order of their contribution to the tax coffers, are: Ford, Burroughs, Spartan Stores, the Plymouth Hilton Hotel, Plymouth Industrial Center (the old Evans Products complex), Federal Pipe and Steel, Howmet Turbine Components Corp., Plymouth Heritage Apartments, LakePointe Apartments, and the K mart Corp.

The challenge today, says Supervisor Breen, is to use available land for manufacturing, commercial and residential purposes in such a way that the community continues to remain attractive. The demand for services is bound to increase. The job of the township board and administration is to provide those services at the lowest possible tax rate.

IN ADDITION to administering the township, Breen has been president of the Wayne County Association of Township Supervisors, chairman of the Plymouth Township Economic Development Corp., a board member of the Wayne Metro Community Service Association, and a member of the Wayne County Association of Assessing Officers.

Breen chaired the District Court Advisory Committee that got the district courthouse built at no tax cost to the community. He is vice chairman of the Wayne County Private Industry Council, and fund administrator for the Plymouth Township Self-insured Municipal Risk Group.

Breen also is administrator for a $3.5 million cash advance fund for the development of system improvements for the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley Sanitary Sewer System, and current chairman of the Conference of Western Wayne, a group of communities working together to improve municipal services.

Breen was an officer of the Plymouth Jaycees from 1962 to 1968, and currently holds memberships in the Elks, Knights of Columbus, Plymouth AMVETS, and the Plymouth Kiwanis Club.

His wife, Mary, is assistant principal at Livonia Stevenson High School and also is a member of the Board of Trustees of Schoolcraft College.

tees of Schoolcraft College.

The Breens met at Wayne State University. The names of their three grown children — Melinda, Maurice and Moira — prompt one to wonder whether Maurie and Mary were raised on M & Ms.

WILL THERE EVER be a merger between township and city?

Breen questions how many residents today want a larger governmental body. The trend today, he notes, is toward decentralization.

If consolidation were to come about it would involve a charter, a joint millage rate of no more than five mills, and special assessment districts such as the one the city has for the business hub. Breen says he could put together such a proposal, but questions whether it could be sold to the voters.

To revert to the metaphor used in my opening column, Plymouth Township, like Cinderella, is no longer to be taken for granted or put upon by attempts at annexation. It has emerged, during the past three decades, as a power to be dealt with.

Where is fighting spirit?

When he picked up the paper at the breakfast table the other morning there in cold type — either by accident or design — were two stories that showed what television had done to our financial well being.

In the first was the detailed account of what Tommy Hearn and Marvin Hagler received for their fight that lasted only three rounds. Each of them was guaranteed $5-million. Then, just the squirt of an eye away, was the other story telling that Joe Louis widow, who lives only a short distance away from the fighting ring in Las Vegas, was in dire straits and had to depend on friends for the upkeep of her home. What a tragedy.

As he read those bits in the paper The Stroller was reminded of the morning in New York when Louis announced his retirement. He had defended the title 14 times and all told he received only $5 million, an amount present day fighters get for just three rounds.

WHEN THEY talk of million dollars in these days the promoters are talking about how much the spectators pay to see the fights. And if a fighter can draw that kind of a gate he is looked upon as a prize.

Well, the morning Joe retired in Promoter Mike Jacobs office Mike looked at him and said "Joe I am going to retire, too. We came along too soon. The day will come when you could earn more money if you fought in a telephone booth."

Joe never was one to squabble about money. All he ever asked was "When do I fight?" Then when he had a fight booked his mind was on training and not on money.

Unfortunately, Joe was a poor business man. For instance when his friends talked him into what was called the Chicken Shack on Detroit's east side, Joe, who was not in favor of it, said, "I don't want none of the profits, but I will pay all the losses." Did you ever hear of a deal like that?

EVEN IN training he was different. When a fight was booked he'd go to Stevensville, Michigan, to a friend's farm, to work out until he was in shape. Then he'd go East to a training camp and spar until the day before the fight.

His managers always kept him away from the fight mob as the bout neared. Then, on the day before the fight he would be turned over to a friend who drove him around New Jersey, showing him the country sides and never mentioning a word about the fight. There was no squabble about weights as Hearn and Hagler went through. So Joe always was in fine shape, physical and mentally. He never was upset.

Even on the day of the fight with Max Baer, when an argument arose over the fighting gloves, Joe looked across the table in the commissioner's office and said, "Do we need gloves?"

ALL THESE things have been taken up today by television and sold for high prices in all parts of the world.

That's where the big money comes from and why the big fighters get such enormous sums. Television has done it all and will continue to do it.

It has hit the other sports such as baseball, football and basketball. But none of these can pay what the fighters get $5,000,000 for less than the nine minutes they were waging the fight.

And there is no telling where it will stop.

— W.W. Edgar

years to what it is today. While you and I sat figuring out how to work around regulations, he just got it done. He never asked someone why not, he just put his head down and did it.

"Bart was the epitome of volunteer effort in the community. He was always there — involved, helping and leading the way. He was not eloquent in his approach or manner, just effective. That's a lot more important.

"Another thing — you and I, all of us kind of separate our lives into compartments — our business life, family life, and community life. With Bart, it wasn't that way. He just got up in the morning and worked hard all day long at whatever had to be done, whether it was a community activity, his business or his family. In Bart's life, everything was all entwined together — kind of a nice way to live."

Loren Bennett, Canton trustee: "Bart will be remembered with the greatness and vitality that he tackled every problem with. When everyone else was ready to say something could not be done, Bart would always prove them wrong. He was really the driving force in the renovation and opening of the Historical Museum.

"More than anyone else, he was one of the prime movers and shakers of Canton Township. Canton is today what Bart chose to make it.

"One of the reasons I'm in politics today is because of the respect I had for him and wanting to follow in his footsteps. While he was a commission member, I attended a planning commission meeting held in the fire station before the existing township hall was even dreamt of.

"In 1980, I was considering whether I should run for office. I sat down with Bart at a picnic table in his front yard and we discussed it. He gave me tremendous encouragement, and that was before I had told him what party I was going to run under. He advised me and helped me in my campaign.

"He was always there when someone needed him. My first memories of Bart go back to when I was a Cub Scout and he was a Cub Scout leader.

"It will be a challenge to every civic-minded person to try and come close to filling his shoes. We've lost a township treasure."

Dorothy West, Historical Commission member: "Bart had some real tragedies (in his life) and that made him want to give of himself in any way he could. He was very giving and very aggressive. He just wanted to do whatever he could to help. We're going to miss him in the Historical Society, and he's loved all over the township."

John Schwartz, community leader: "Bart seemed to have an unquenchable thirst to do things for the community. There were times when I'd say to him, 'Bart, we're going to have a hard time doing this or that.' He'd say, 'John, the heck with it. Let's go ahead and get it done.' And we'd go do it. I guess some of that has rubbed off on all of us."

Roy Schultz, Historical Society treasurer: "Bart just worked his head off. He built the shelter for the Historical Commission's farm tools, even though he received initial resistance from the Board of Trustees. After it was completed there were many compliments from the board. When he was determined to have something, he would put his foot down until it happened. He knew the (political) ropes and wouldn't take no for an answer."

LET THE SUNSHINE IN WITH FRANCE'S RHONE WINES

One of the most beautiful vineyard areas in France is the historic Rhone River Valley. Tourists acquainted with this sun-drenched region remember the celebrated bridge at Avignon, the monumental Palace of the Popes and innumerable Roman antiquities... the Pont du Gard, Maison Carrée in Nîmes, the amphitheater at Arles, for example. Also as memorable, the marvelous food and wine so characteristic of southern France.

Long before the advent of the Roman legions, the Greeks arrived to settle in this valley about 600 B.C. They found a land blessed with intense sunshine. Among the gifts they brought were the olive tree and the grapevine. Today, thanks to the cultivating talents of these early invaders, the harvest from gardens, orchards and vineyards offers a delicious cornucopia of tomatoes, olives, peppers, eggplants, pears, peaches, apricots, cherries, melons, and grapes.

The Côtes du Rhône vineyards are France's oldest. They stretch north from Avignon for 125 miles, ending just south of the city of Lyon. In the southern area the vines must struggle to survive in chalky, stone-covered soil, while in the northern half they scale steep palisades along the river. But everywhere, under brilliant sunshine, the grapes swell and ripen, and eventually are transformed into aromatic, full-bodied red wines, tingling, fresh roses and fruity, dry white wines. The variety and quality of Rhône wines have always been greatly admired by connoisseurs. Of late, their availability on this market has been growing at a rapid rate. In 1983, almost 850,000 gallons of wine from Côtes du Rhône shippers arrived in the U.S. to satisfy the demand of the American wine lover.

Châteauneuf-du-Pape is perhaps the region's best-known wine. It takes a combination of 13 grape varieties to make this intense, ruby-colored wine. More and more in demand are the less complex wines called Côtes du Rhône Villages that come from 17 villages scattered throughout the southern vineyard region. From this same area, Gigondas and Lirac (red or rose) are two more popular choices, as is Tavel rose, which was a great favorite of Louis XIV.

In the north, where the climate and vegetation are more continental, production is not as abundant as in the south. Yet the sumptuous and elegant red wines from Crozes-Hermitage, Hermitage, Côte Rotie and Cornas are considered to be among the finest of France.

The diversified style of the Côtes du Rhône means there is a wine to please every palate and every menu. Essential to any menu typical of this region are tomatoes, garlic and olives. Our sunshine menu opens appropriately with Beurre d'Olives, a zesty appetizer, simply made, simply delicious spread on fresh baguette and served with a glass of fruity Lirac rose.

The main course, Estouffade de Gigot (Lamb Stew) is redolent of vegetables, herbs and wine. A white bean casserole (Flageolets aux Herbes) complements the stew beautifully. Either a Côtes du Rhône Villages or a more full-bodied Gigondas make excellent wine choices for this course, and go as well with the cheeses that follow. Choose a selection of chevres (goat's milk cheeses) and include a wedge of Roquefort. Both choices marry well with the sunny red wines of this region. For dessert, an apricot custard cake (Clafoutis) will wash off this menu with great panache.

This sunshine menu, inspired by fine wines from the Côtes du Rhône, can inspire you the next time you plan to entertain. And, because each dish is so simple to prepare—and so delicious—each is sure to be a welcome addition to your everyday family recipe repertoire.

Surprise! Students are in good shape

College students often miss meals, rely on snack foods and have a limited amount of money to spend on food, but they are in surprisingly good shape nutritionally, according to a dietitian at Penn State.

"When some people think of college students, they envision young people living on black coffee while studying late at night in the library," said Martha Harveywebster, a registered dietitian at the Nutrition Information and Resource Center in Penn State University's College of Human Development.

"The lifestyle of the college student can make it difficult to eat properly," she said. "But most research indicates that college students are getting the recommended daily allowance of most nutrients."

She said students do follow an unhealthy trend typical of the rest of the United States population: They consume large amounts of sodium.

"College-age males in one 1983 study were found to have an alarmingly high intake of sodium," said Harveywebster. "The females in the same study had high levels of sodium in their diet as well."

Convenience foods such as bologna and frozen TV dinners, as well as salty snacks, account for much of the sodium in college students' diets, she said.

"I'M ALSO concerned that the number-one snack for students is carbonated soft drinks," said the Penn State nutritionist. "Students tend to substitute soft drinks for more nutritious beverages, such as fruit juices or milk. College-age women especially need the calcium that milk can provide."

Harveywebster, who has counseled students at Penn State's Nutrition Clinic, said many of the questions she receives — from both male and female students — concern weight control. She also frequently hears from students who are athletes.

"Those who run 40 miles a week and those who run a mile a day both want to know what their diet should be," she said.

"Most students know they should eat from the basic four food groups each day, but beyond that their knowledge is limited. They often don't know whether they're getting enough of various nutrients, and why each nutrient is important."

For students who suspect their diets may be less than healthy, the Penn State nutritionist suggested keeping a record of what they eat for a few days. "Count how many servings you get from each food group each day."

"If you're concerned about your diet, you can get help from a professional nutritionist. The nutrition department at your college or university is often a good place to start."

Pita bread fan? Make it yourself

Pita bread, once recognizable only in Middle Eastern cooking, is becoming the bread of choice for more and more sandwich eaters. Its advocates love the "pocket" that holds taco fillings, hamburgers and sandwich meats. The pocket is formed by baking small flattish rounds of dough at unusually high temperature.

Making pita bread at home is easier than ever.

A toll-free number has been established by Nabisco-Brands to answer consumer questions about fast-rising yeast, or bread baking in general. The number is 1-800-932-7800, Monday to Friday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Eastern Standard Time.

PITA BREAD Makes 12 breads

- 5 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. sugar
- 1 pkg. Fleischmann's RapidRise Yeast
- 1 1/4 cups water
- 2 tbsp. peanut oil

Set aside 1 cup flour. Mix remaining flour, salt, sugar and Fleischmann's RapidRise Yeast in large bowl. Heat water and peanut oil until hot to touch (125 degrees to 130); stir into dry mixture. Stir in only enough reserved flour to make soft dough. On lightly floured surface, knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Cover; let rise 10 minutes.

Divide dough in half; divide each half into 6 pieces. Shape each into smooth ball; place on baking sheet. Cover; let rise in warm draft-free place for 30 minutes.

minutes or until puffed and the top just begins to brown. Cool. Repeat with remaining circles.

On lightly floured surface, roll each ball to 5-inch circle. Place 6 circles on large cooling rack. Set rack on bottom oven rack; bake at 500 degrees for 5

Present guests with special flaming salad

"Keep the salad, Simon!"

This is a pun, but won't be so amusing if you concoct a salad that is anything but simple. Crisp greens laced with herbs and spices are refreshing anytime. There is no need for complications.

Color, eye appeal and taste are the governing factors. There are no other rules.

Because there is such variety of ingredients that go into a salad, or so say the salad experts, salads appeal to many tastes. In fact, one wag sought to criticize Omar for not eating a salad after the loaf of bread and jug of wine.

One group of epicurean souls, the wine-loving and wine-conscious purists, casts a jaundiced eye toward the tart vinegars that many times adorn a salad. So they always pass up the wine until after the salad with vinegar has been consumed.

Saladmakers need a free rein, enough to let their creative juices run free. However, every saladmaker knows that too many herbs, spices and condiments can ruin a perfectly good salad.

There are two schools of thought when it comes to making salads. First there is the school that believes eye appeal is more important than just tossing everything together, as the second school of saladmaking contends. And the second school frowns on the salad that looks too perfect.

One of the most important aspects of saladmaking is the use of ingredients. How often have you turned away from a salad that had too much vinegar, herbs and oil? The same applies when using other seasonings.

Brandy has been used in salads for hundreds of years. Today, California produces some 200 different brandies, each unique and with its own special taste. The variety of such brandies offers saladmakers unlimited variations on a single theme or recipe.

One of the most dramatic salads you can offer your guests at dinner combines California brandy and wine vinegar. The salad greens are already mixed. Then you make a marriage of bacon, California brandy and wine vinegar. A quick light and you have your special flaming salad to present your dinner guests.

FLAMING SALAD
4 slices bacon, cut in 1/2-inch pieces
Fresh ground black pepper to taste
3 tbsp. sherry wine vinegar
4 tsp. brandy
Greens of your choice

Saute the bacon until crisp. Pour off half the fat. Add pepper, vinegar and brandy and heat until the brandy sizzles. Ignite and pour over salad. Serves 4.

Entertain this weekend and not from the kitchen

If planning meals for weekend guests becomes more frustration than fun, more preparation than participation, it becomes a chore rather than a pleasure. To assure great meals without extra effort, plan appropriate dishes that are good tasting yet not too time consuming or difficult to prepare.

Entertaining for the '80s is marked by simplicity and casualness, with the emphasis on guests' comfort and enjoyment. Plan accordingly so there is time to relax and enjoy being with guests and at the same time feel confident about the meals served.

Creative cooks realize that preparing a dish or at least a part of it ahead of time is a real time-saver. For example, Oriental Lamb and Ginger Brown Rice makes a great choice for weekend entertaining because the cook is essentially preparing for two meals at once. A double quantity of rice is cooked; half of it is refrigerated for use in another dish later in the weekend.

Brown Rice, subtly flavored with fresh ginger, is a perfect accompaniment for the delicately seasoned lamb in Oriental Lamb and Ginger Brown Rice. Neither the rice nor the lamb is difficult or time-consuming to prepare, leaving the cook more time to spend with guests. And with half of the rice refrigerated for use later, the confident cook is assured of another superior meal to come.

This "dividend" rice makes a super Tuna and Vegetable Brown Rice Salad when combined with vegetables, tuna and bottled Italian-style salad dressing. Serve it for lunch or a light supper later in the weekend.

A real plus for weekend cooks is that the rice can be prepared up to three days ahead and refrigerated until needed. To serve warm, simply combine the rice and 2 tablespoons of liquid per cup of rice in a saucepan. Cover and heat for about 5 minutes. Reheating in the microwave oven is easy too. Spoon rice into a microwave-safe container, cover and microwave on HIGH (100 percent power) about 1 1/2 minutes per cup of rice.

ORIENTAL LAMB & GINGER BROWN RICE

- 2 cans (10 3/4 oz. each) condensed chicken broth
- 2 cups brown rice
- 1/4 cup slivered almonds
- 2 tsp. butter or margarine
- 1 1/2 lbs. boneless lamb cubes
- 3/4 cup pineapple preserves
- 3 tsp. dry sherry
- 1 tsp. soy sauce
- 1 cup pearl onions, fresh or frozen
- 1/4 cup thinly sliced green onions
- 1/4 tsp. minced fresh ginger
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced red pepper strips

Add enough water to broth to make 4 1/4 cups. Bring to a boil in large saucepan; add rice. Cover tightly and cook over low heat until all liquid is absorbed, about 50 minutes. Meanwhile, saute almonds in butter in large skillet until lightly browned. Remove almonds and reserve. Add lamb cubes; saute until evenly browned. Drain. Stir together preserves, sherry and soy sauce; add to lamb with pearl onions. Simmer, covered, until tender, stirring occasionally, about 30 minutes. Remove half of cooked rice; refrigerate, covered. Stir almonds, green onions, ginger and red pepper into remaining rice. To serve, spoon rice mixture onto platter; arrange lamb cubes over rice. Makes 6 servings.

TUNA & VEGETABLE BROWN RICE SALAD

- About 3 1/2 cups chilled cooked brown rice
- 1/2 cup chopped cucumber
- 3/4 cup frozen tiny green peas, partially defrosted OR 1/2 cup frozen cut green beans, partially defrosted
- 1/2 cup chopped green onion
- 1/4 cup bottled Italian salad dressing
- 1 can (6 1/2 oz.) white tuna, drained and coarsely flaked
- 10 cherry tomatoes, cut in half
- 1/2 cup sliced ripe olives

Combine rice, cucumber, peas and green onion. Add dressing and stir gently to coat ingredients. Gently fold in tuna, tomatoes and olives. Chill thoroughly. Makes 6 servings.

Weekend entertaining is a snap when the entire is Oriental lamb and ginger brown rice. It's a dish that doesn't require constant attention, leaving the cook time to spend with guests.

Fresh parsley needed for this dish

When I got out of my car at the neighborhood supermarket, I was surprised to find shopping carts in the parking lot. Those waist-high bars had kept the carts in front of the store, leaving departing customers two options:

Carry the bags of groceries to the car. Pull the car up to the traffic-jammed entrance. "We had too many complaints," said a bag boy, who was gathering up the carts.

"I was told you can't have an obstruction in front of the door," said the store manager. "It's a new county ordinance."

No matter the reason, it was a relief to wheel the groceries to the car, parked several rows away from the entrance, also cluttered with delivery trucks.

Each time a cart disappears, the store is out $100, the manager told me. And you know who will be paying the tab, I thought to myself.

During this particular trip, I picked up a bunch of fresh parsley, which had proved another nemesis over the years. I often throw away more parsley than I use.

I've tried various methods to prevent the parsley from wilting: leaving it in a cellophane bag, placing it in a damp brown bag or sealing it in a plastic container.

When I got back home, I didn't give the parsley much thought. My wife put away the groceries. The next day when I searched the refrigerator for the parsley, which I planned to use in an Italian pesto sauce, I didn't find it in the crisper — it was standing in a little water in a glass beer stein.

"I heard it was the best way to keep parsley," Anita explained. "You just change the water every day."

Four days later, the parsley was still fresh. It also makes for an unusual refrigerator plant.

FETTUCCHINE PESTO

- 1/2 cup butter, softened
- 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 3/4 cup finely chopped parsley
- 1 large garlic clove, crushed
- 1 1/2 tsp. dried basil leaves
- 3/4 tsp. dried marjoram leaves
- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 1 cup chopped walnuts
- 1 pkg. (12 oz.) fettuccine, cooked as directed

Cream butter in bowl, blend with cheese, parsley, garlic, basil and marjoram and gradually add oil, constantly beating. Add nuts and mix well. Yields 1 1/2 cups pesto sauce. Drain fettuccine, return to warm pot and toss with sauce until well coated. Serves 5-6.

Team up with cabbage, rice

Two favorite foods for budget-conscious cooks are cabbage and rice.

Teamed with ground beef, onions and tomato sauce, they make a winning dish that's high in flavor, low in cost. What's more, it makes six hearty and delicious servings.

CABBAGE CACCIATORE

- 1 1/2 lbs. lean ground beef
- 1 cup chopped onions
- 1 medium head (about 1 1/2 lbs.) cabbage cut into 6 wedges
- 1 can (15 oz.) meatless spaghetti sauce
- 2 tsp. garlic salt
- 1 cup grated mozzarella cheese
- 3 cups hot cooked rice

Lightly grease a large oven-proof skillet. Add beef and onions and cook over medium heat until melt is no longer pink and vegetables are tender crisp. Stir frequently to crumble meat. Arrange cabbage on top of meat mixture. Blend spaghetti sauce and garlic salt. Pour over cabbage. Cover tightly and bake at 350 degree for 45 minutes or until cabbage is tender. Sprinkle with cheese. Cover for a few minutes to melt cheese. Serve over beds of fluffy rice. Makes 6 servings.

THE LONG WAIT may be over. Nothing is definite, but there is hope.

"Amadeus" is coming to the Penn Theater in Plymouth — finally. Lauren Falcuson, owner of the Penn, got the word Thursday.

"Amadeus" will open here Saturday for a two-week run. The movie, starring Plymouth's own Tom Hulce in the title role, swept the Academy Awards. All his old friends and classmates shared a personal pride in the Academy Award presentations. The town had been hoping for an opportunity to celebrate with the young actor, long before he was nominated for an award.

The plans included two prime necessities — having Tom come home and having "Amadeus" at the Penn. The Plymouth Community Arts Council and the Plymouth Symphony League would coordinate the event with Scott Lorenz.

As of this writing, if Tom's mother, Joanne Hulce, can get in touch with him in Toronto, and if he can be here Sunday, May 5, the party is on. Tentative plans call for an afternoon showing of the film at the Penn, with Tom making a personal appearance there. A reception in the Mayflower Meeting House after the film is planned to honor Tom and give everyone an opportunity to express their congratulations.

At first, everyone was appalled by the short notice. Could they come up with a party in time? Scott was enthusiastic — he'd been anticipating a shingdig for Tom for months.

Right now, there is optimism. Hope to have some definite news on Thursday.

THE NIGHTINGALES group of the Symphony League had a fine turnout for their "Evening with Jeffrey Bruce" Thursday evening at the Hilton. They love him.

K.C. Mueller entertained the Nightingales, members of league board AND Jeffery at a formal dinner party before his appearance at the very successful fund-raiser. Ann Arendsen took him over to Channel 56 to serve his stint as a celebrity auctioneer. He's a real fan of Ann's cookies — the most healthful cookies you've ever eaten — as are her muffins.

FRED BRUSHER is guest lecturer Wednesday night for the second of the Plymouth Historical Society's Antiques Forum series. His topic will be "American Woven Coverlets" and he is the expert on the subject.

A transplanted Hoosier, he bought his first coverlet 25 years ago in a used furniture store in Lima, Ohio. His collection has grown to one of the largest and most diversified in the country.

Fred will bring some of his coverlets with him.

The lecture will be 7:30-9:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Plymouth Historical Museum, 155 S. Main. Admission is $3.50 and tickets may be purchased at the door.

TIM COYNE, chef at the Plymouth Round Table Club, was among the professional bronze medal winners at the recent Hospitality Industry Culinary Salon. His entry was for an individual cold food platter. The competition was sponsored by the Michigan Restaurant Association and Michigan Chefs de Cuisine.

THE GREAT CHILI Cook-off Hot Air Balloon Festival is May 4 and 5 in Saline. The annual event is a fund-raiser for the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan. Was wondering if we have any entries from Canton or Plymouth.

SEVERAL LOCAL students performed with the Livonia Youth Symphony Sunday in a concert in Livonia Churchill High School.

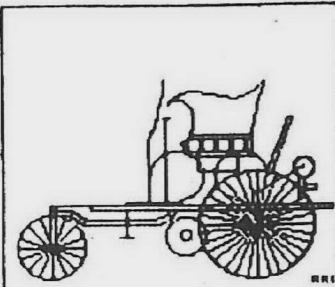

Bryant Wu, Jim Gross, Michael Kavalhuna, Alicia Rowe, Laura Rowe, Sarah Erickson, Julian Sell, Pam Crutchfield appeared in the concert. Darin Bell and Corrine Weaver played with the members of the Suzuki Cello School of Ann Arbor.

Janita Hauk, a member of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, is one of the directors of the Livonia Youth Symphony.

Plymouth Show
April 27-28, 1985

A pair of cacheted covers, prepared by the West Suburban Stamp Club for its show, commemorates Karl Benz and the centenary of the automobile, 1885-1985.

Philatelists from all over the United States and Canada will gather in Plymouth next weekend for Michigan's largest exhibition and bourse. West Suburban Stamp Club will present its 16th annual show Saturday and Sunday, April 27 and 28 in Central Middle School.

Known to stamp collectors as the Plymouth Show, it is one of only 30 national shows in the country accredited by the American Philatelic Society as a World Series of Philately Event. The winner will be among the 30 winners of national shows eligible to compete in San Diego in August.

Donald Watkins is general chairman of the show and Harry Winter is exhibition chairman. A show of this stature requires the cooperation of every member of club, which meets twice a month in the Plymouth Township Meeting Room. The majority of the members live in this area, but some come from as far away as Flint, Lansing and Toledo.

THE SHOW attracts both the collector and the non-collector with displays of stamp collections and a contingent of 40 stamp dealers from many states and Canada. Post offices will offer a show cancel and their countries' current stamps.

Great Britain, which serves as crown agent for 48 countries, will be represented at the show for the first time. Postal representatives of Australia, Sweden, the United Nations and Canada will be there, as well as a United States Post Office Substation.

Stamp dealers are coming from Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ontario.

Two commemorative cacheted covers marking the centenary of the automobile will be available to collectors. One cachet features Karl Benz's experimental tricar of 1885 while the second bears a likeness of Benz. Postage on each cover will be the current 17- and 5-cent regular postage stamps that feature an auto and a motorcycle. The cancel will be the special show cancel "Commemorating the Centenary of the Automobile, 1885-1985." For the set of two, mail $2 plus a large self-addressed stamped envelope to: WSSC, PO Box 643, Plymouth, Mich. 48170.

The first 100 youngsters to visit the youth booth each day will receive a free stamp album.

THE CLUB will continue its support of the Shriners Crippled Children's Hospital rehabilitation program. Donations of stamps either in person or by mail will be acknowledged by a special souvenir of the show. Donations can be sent to Shriners' Project, PO Box 643, Plymouth MI, 48170.

Special meetings are planned during the show by The American Air Mail Society, Peninsular State Philatelic Society, Bureau Issues Association and the Tin Can Society.

A slide show and program on the international show, AMERIPEX, will be presented at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Admission, parking and prizes are free. Hours are 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Central Middle School is on Main Street at Church, Plymouth.

Designing 5-year-old wins her dress

Pamela Canavet, 5, has a one-of-a-kind designer party dress. It could best be described as an A-line with pockets. The material is a print in muted shades of pink. Deep rose ruffles edge the neckline, short sleeves and hemline. Lace applique adds a soft touch to the bodice front.

The dress is a Pamela Canavet Original, made to her design by Jacobson's. The only exception to her specifications is the lack of smiling faces on the pockets.

It all started back in January when Pamela's mother, Joanne Canavet, read about a design-a-dress contest in the Detroit News. The contest sponsored by Jacobson's was open to children 5 to 14 years of age. Pamela had her entry in by the Jan. 26 deadline.

She was invited to attend the Dearborn store's children's Easter fashions show March 14. At the show, the winner of the design contest was announced. Pamela's design was judged the best received by the Dearborn store.

HER PRIZE was a necklace and bracelet.

Later, Pamela was the recipient of an invitation to an April 12 luncheon at Jacobson's. Her hostesses were Mae Hassien, children's floor superintendent, and Anne Schellhase, sales promotion manager. During the lunch, they presented the dress to Pamela.

They had followed her design right to the carefully crayoned colors in her entry.

She was in competition with entries from the Grosse Pointe, Birmingham and Rochester stores. Jacobson's kept her original drawing, but Pamela cheerfully offered to make another one for the Observer.

Pamela attends the Plymouth Montessori School.

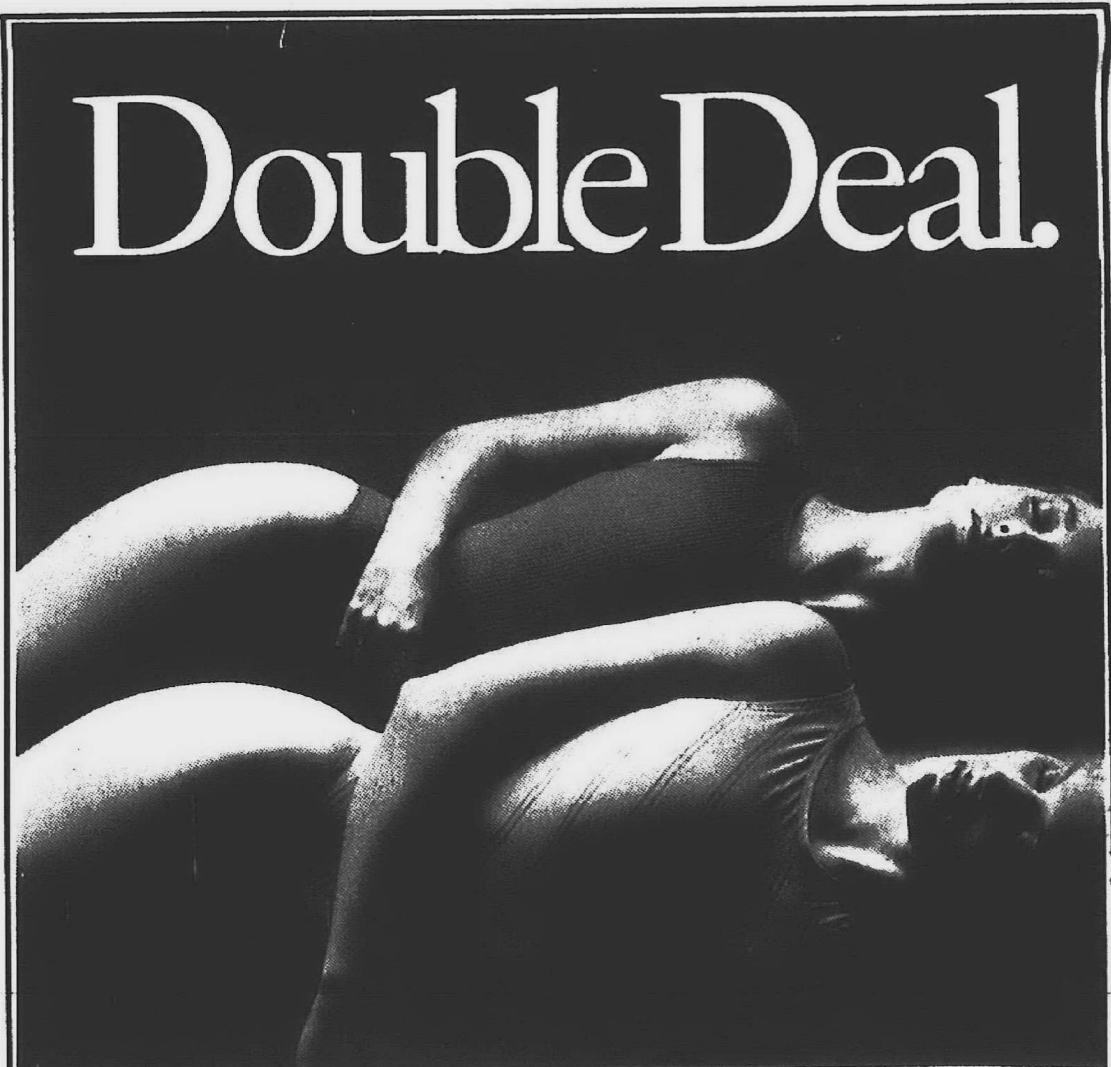

She is the daughter of John and Joanne Canavet of Canton Township.

Pamela's party dress is even prettier than she had hoped for when she entered her design in a contest.

BACK, HIP and LEG PROBLEMS

Painful problems of the back, hip and legs most frequently are the result of faulty alignment of one or more of the spinal segments in the lower back. The nerves branching out from these vertebrae control the lower extremities. If one or more of these nerves becomes "pinched" or irritated, pain, swelling and loss of function may occur. An understanding of these problems can help you avoid suffering and loss.

Sarah Jessica Parker is Janey Glenn, who wants to become a dancer on a TV show, in "Girls Just Want to Have Fun."

the movies Dan Greenberg

Teen dance contest makes movie move

"Girls Just Want to Have Fun," and you will too with this latest bit of fluff distilled from equal parts of MTV, basic boy-meets-girl and the usual cliché. "The show must go on!"

If you like MTV with dialogue, you'll enjoy this little jelly bean.

Janey Glen (Jessica Parker) moves to Chicago where her overprotective father, recently retired Army Colonel Glenn (Ed Lauter), and her dippy mother (Margaret Howell) enroll her in a strict Catholic girls' school to protect her from the evils of modern society and the big city.

Janey is quickly befriended by the class cut-up, Lynn Stone (Helen Hunt), who is most effective in her rebellion against the Sisters and what the school represents. Both girls just want to dance.

Well, maybe they'd like to mess around with the boys as well. But the majority of the plot revolves around who will win the big dance-off and become the stars of Chicago's big MTV show.

THIS IS THE excuse for adding love interest and a little bit of dramatic tension with Daddy Glen. If Janey is to express her right to dance and be a star, she has to (1) have a male partner and (2) rehearse at night with him. Well, you-all can see where this is leading.

Janey may not be permanently grounded, but it's hard to have a love life if you have to be in bed (at home) by 10 p.m. Friend Lynn is adept at playing both sides of the street and helping Janey sneak out to meet her partner and boyfriend, Jeff Melene (Lee Montgomery).

Naturally, their native talent is so superior that they're the clear choice to win the contest and live happily ever after in the land of MTV. Enter the villainous but lovely Natalie Sand (Holly Gagner), daughter of well-to-do (actually disgustingly wealthy) J.P. Sands (Morgan Woodward). Catch his initials?

Lee Montgomery is Jeff Melene, who becomes Janey's dance partner and her lover.

Not only does Natalie want to win the MTV dance contest, she wants Jeff as well for her very own. If he won't come on his own, there's always Daddy's money to lure him on. There's a threat that Jeff's father will lose his job, if Jeff doesn't cooperate.

By now, you've probably figured out that the plot is rather simple. In fact, the whole project is really very simple-minded. Unlike many movies "structured for the youth-market" — that's big-time talk for making the story easy enough for everyone to understand so the kids will pay to see it — this one doesn't single out adults for ridicule.

CHARACTERS in the film look foolish and one-dimensional, if you look at them as even shadows of real personalities. If you're willing to accept the whole enterprise for what it is, a lot of high-energy, good-spirited fun on the dance floor, you'll probably like this film.

The characters are very limited and mainly serve as an excuse for the dancing. The occasional attempts at "family-interaction" are not very significant. On the other hand, they're not offensive either as is often the case in this type of teenie-bopper picture. They're just sort of there doing their job and getting out of the way in time for the next dance number.

One interesting sidelight in the casting, the only really pretty girl, in the conventional Hollywood sense, is the villainess, Natalie. That's an interesting reversal as the two heroines, Janey and Lynn, physically are more in the tradition of class clown and comedienne.

As with every other element of this picture, the music and dance is not award-winning, but it is exuberant. Your soul won't be ennobled by "Girls" having fun, but you will be amused and entertained.

Playing days aren't over for Taylor yet

A MARRIAGE made in heaven. How else can you describe the circumstances that threw Cathy Taylor, a 30-year-old mother of two and a former professional softball player, into a starting role with Wayne State's team?

But, like many marriages, this one's had its share of problems, too.

What brought Taylor to Wayne State was an education. What brought Taylor to play softball for the Tartars was a lucky break.

Most college coaches do their recruiting at high schools. Tartar coach Gary Bryce found Taylor at Detroit's Softball City.

"I had seen her around for a long time," Bryce said. "My cousin used to be a part owner of the Michigan Travelers, and she played for them." The Travelers were part of a professional women's fast pitch softball league in 1976. Both are now extinct.

"Some of my former players played with her on a slow pitch team at Softball City," Bryce said. "I knew she wanted to go back to school, and we were kind of interested."

BRYCE'S "INTEREST" has turned into a genuine find. It's been 9 years since Taylor played fast pitch softball (since there is no longer a pro league, the NCAA has granted her 2 years of eligibility), but she's readapted as if it were yesterday. She leads the Tartars with a .448 batting average.

What led Taylor from Rochester Adams, where she graduated in 1972, to Wayne State was "basically, I always wanted to go to school." It just took her a little longer to get there.

"I couldn't get a scholarship out of high school," she said. Her life got derailed, as she put it, into a dental assistant's position.

In 1976, she joined the Travelers. The team played more than 100 games — losing most of them — in its only season, but Taylor hit .325 and was named to the league's all-star team.

After that came an assortment of other jobs, marriage to her husband, Bill, and two daughters: Christy, 5, and Mikki, 2.

In 1980, Taylor became the Adams' softball and volleyball coach. She kept that position until 1983, when she was replaced because she wasn't a teacher in the school district.

"That," she now admits, "was one of my incentives for going back to school."

AN OUTFIELDER, Taylor has given Bryce a weapon he's never had at Wayne State: a left-handed hitter. Left-handers are 2 1/2 steps closer to first base, which means a lot in a game in which bunt singles are more common, and therefore more important, than home runs.

"She has a lot of speed," Bryce said, "but the big advantage for her is she can bunt. That adds about 200 points to her average. About 50 percent of her hits are drag bunts."

Bryce's decision to give Taylor a scholarship was no real gamble. "I knew she could play defensively from watching her in slow pitch, and I knew she was a good athlete. I hoped she could hit .300."

Wayne State had just one .300 hitter last season, Jana Baringer from West Bloomfield. With Taylor batting first and getting on base ahead of Baringer, the Tartars' run production should rise.

IT SOUNDS like a story written for the movies, but it hasn't been without conflict. Life at home has changed for Taylor, with softball downtown and classes most nights. Husband Bill, she admitted, is "still wondering what I'm doing."

"He's not my biggest supporter, and that makes it even tougher. We're like real close friends, we do a lot of things together. He wants me to be there."

Her husband isn't the only one upset by her absences. Taylor's classes are at Wayne State's extension campus in Sterling Heights. Her hectic schedule and the distance between class and the downtown campus have forced her to miss some practices.

Bryce knew the problem existed prior to the season, and he made a special arrangement with Taylor and shortstop Gini Bruce, who has a class-related job that interferes with practice.

THOSE ARRANGEMENTS have caused friction on the team. People who are practicing every day aren't playing. Taylor and Bruce are.

"The pressure is on me because I made the decision," Bryce said. "It has caused hardship. I have a young team, and I'm telling them to be here and be dedicated and they say, 'Wait a minute, those two aren't here.'"

"It's 2 unique situations. I've had a meeting with the team. They're just going to have to understand it."

Taylor says she has not felt "pressure from the girls" but added that "at times, it's bothered me."

"I believe that practice is the difference between a mediocre and a good athlete," she said. "A good athlete puts in the extra time."

"I'm not out there to be best friends. When we're on the field, we should be friends, do whatever we can to help the team. But off the field, what we do is our own business."

"There's no animosity at all. It's not something I'm doing because I feel I'm such a better player, I don't need to practice. I've never felt like that."

Salem's Tom Moore reaches third safely as Harrison's Mark Schmidt awaits the throw. Both teams rolled around the bases but Salem prevailed, 15-7.

Rocks rout Harrison

It didn't take Plymouth Salem's softball team long to assert itself — only about 3 innings.

The Rocks sent 11 runners scampering across the plate in their opener Friday in dispatching Farmington Harrison 17-4 at Salem.

"It was a typical opening," said Salem coach Rob Willette. "We made some errors that I don't expect later on."

The game lasted just 5 innings, due to a 10-run mercy rule. Salem went over the limit with a 6-run fifth.

Heidi Reyst started and pitched all 5 innings for Harrison, allowing Salem just 6 hits. But Reyst had control troubles, walking 8 and hitting 3 batters. She struck out 3.

Kristin Sobditch started and took the win for Salem, allowing 7 hits, 4 walks and striking out 2. A sophomore, the game marked Sobditch's softball debut. She ran track at Salem last year.

Freshman outfielder Sandy Oberliesen drove in 4 runs for the Rocks with 2 hits. She also scored twice. Marcie Walker also had 2 hits, scored 4 times and drove in a run, while Leslie Plichta had 3 RBI and scored 3 runs.

Kim George paced Harrison with 2 hits.

FARMINGTON 10, NORTHVILLE 7: Erin Ellis, a freshman, belted a pair of 2-run singles to ignite a pair of 4-run Farmington rallies Friday at Farmington.

Ellis finished with 2 hits in 3 trips and 4 RBI, as the Falcons evened their record at 1-1. They scored 4 runs in the opening inning and, after Northville battled back for 6 runs, they added 4 more in the fourth.

Farmington managed just 6 hits in the game but took advantage of Northville pitcher Lori Houseman's wildness. Houseman walked 13.

Lisa Edwards went the distance for Farmington, surrendering 8 hits and 6 walks while fanning 1.

JOHN GLENN 3, N. FARMINGTON 2: Pitchers Suzette Greenberg and Barb Barbalas battled for nearly 8 innings before Barbalas settled it favorably for Westland John Glenn Friday.

North Farmington's Greenberg sparked throughout. But in the eighth, she walked Michele Hunt and, with 2 out, surrendered a game-winning triple to Barbalas.

Barbalas was equally tough on the visiting Raiders, going all 8 innings to earn the victory. Glenn remained unbeaten in the Northwest Suburban League at 2-0. The Rockets are 4-1 overall.

BENTLEY 9, FARMINGTON 8: Jenny Wischmeyer gave up just 4 hits, but ended up walking in Livonia Bentley's winning run in a 3-run seventh inning Wednesday at Farmington.

The Falcons collected 10 hits but also made 6 errors. Harriman's 3 hits paced the offense.

Salem's bats club Hawks

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

baseball

Yogi Berra was wrong. Sometimes it is over before it's over.

Plymouth Salem exploded for eight runs before Farmington Harrison had a chance to bat Friday, went to the bench early and cruised to a 15-7 win that wasn't as close as the score would indicate.

Salem starter Chris Davis turned the Hawks' bats into piano legs, or piano wire, for that matter. It wasn't much of a contest while he was in there. He allowed just two hits in his five innings and was so strong early that he threw just 29 pitches over the first four innings.

The Hawks finally scored three runs off Davis in the fifth, but by that time the Rocks had 11 on their side of the ledger. Even then, it took two errors by the Rocks and all three of the runs were unearned.

Harrison took advantage of reliever Dan Mark's wildness in the sixth to score three runs without a hit and added another run in the seventh for the final margin.

"THAT'S THE SECOND outing in a row that Mark hasn't been able to find the plate," said Salem coach John Gravelin, whose team is 2-1. "We're going to have to go to work with him. He's a senior, and we're really counting on him. Pitching is the question mark. This is a fine hitting team all the way through. We've got 16 kids who can really hit and that's a lot of fun."

Salem showed its depth. Designated hitter Darryl Brees had three solid singles and three RBI in the first two innings, then came out after the third. Tom Moore, a fireplug second baseman, had two walks, a double, a single, three runs and two RBIs; center fielder Jim Lynch had a walk, two singles, three runs and two RBI before he left.

And that's just the starters. The bench clobbered the ball, too. Curtis White boomed a long triple in his only at bat to lead off the sixth and fellow scrub Mike Kessen followed with a long double for an RBI to make it 12-3.

In all, the Rocks, who host Walled Lake Western, the defending Class A state champs, in their next game Wednesday, had 12 hits and 10 walks, six of them in a wild first inning. Vince Enright lasted just two-thirds of an inning as the Harrison starter, giving up six of the walks and seven of the runs.

"It was a long way to come back, that's for sure," admitted Harrison coach John Herrington. "We've got good hitting. I knew we'd be shy pitching. We dug a pretty big hole."

TWO CONSOLATIONS for Herrington were the strong relief pitching of Brad Rounds, the third of his four pitchers, and the power batting of shortstop Brian Smolinski, an All-State wide receiver on the football team.

Smolinski, a junior leadoff hitter, hit a screamer to center for an out in the first, crunched a two-run triple to center in the fifth and hit a towering blast to right in the sixth that was hauled in on a spectacular play.

"He's the best hitter we've ever had here," said Herrington. "We had a practice game yesterday and he hit one out 400 feet."

Harrison, which got just five hits in losing its season opener, plays Livonia Bentley Wednesday.

Whatever else that something is, it translated into 3 goals Wednesday as the Rocks overpowered visiting Farmington Harrison 5-0.

"She can wear down a defense all by herself," said Johnson of Head. "If she scored on all her chances she'd be averaging 10 goals a game."

Head's three scores were more than enough Wednesday. Suzie Balconi added a goal and 2 assists, Julie Tortora had a goal and an assist and Fran Whittaker had an assist. Karen Phillippi and Tracy DeGrazia split the goalkeeping duties.

The win upped Salem's record to 5-1, but, Johnson admitted, the road will be treacherous in the Western Lakes Soccer League with 5 of the state's top 10 teams as members.

"I think the state champ will come from this league," the Salem coach said, calling Livonia's Stevenson, Bentley and Churchill the favorites. "If we got lucky we could beat all three. But they're all tough."

Salem plays at Livonia Franklin Monday, then visits Stevenson Wednesday.

MERCY 6, MARIAN 3: Annette Ruggiero pumped in 4 goals to trigger Farmington Hills Mercy's romp at Birmingham Marian as the Marlins opened the defense of their Catholic League title Friday.

Ruggiero, a senior, now has 11 goals for the season. Leigh Clancy and Kathy Rush also scored for Mercy, which lifted its record to 3-2.

Midfielder Margaret DeMattia and back Banu Rangarajan each contributed strong efforts for the Marlins, who led 3-1 at the half.

N. FARMINGTON 4, CANTON 2: Three first-half goals supplied North Farmington with all the cushion it needed at Plymouth Canton Wednesday.

Jean Anzlover, Kristi McMinn, Mary Dundorf and Suzy Mattoon netted goals for North, which improved its record to 1-1. Beth Frigge scored for Canton.

Brooks Landback performed well in goal for the Raiders.

NORTHVILLE 4, CANTON 1: The Chiefs fell to 2-4-1 overall and 0-2-1 in the Western Lakes Soccer League with its home field loss to Northville Friday.

Beth Frigge converted a pass from Lisa Russell midway through the opening half for Canton's only score. The Chiefs trailed 3-1 at halftime and were outshot 18-6 in the game.

Last relay topples Farmington

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

Wait a minute. Isn't the tension and drama of track supposed to come later in the season, at the league, Observerland and state meets? Aren't early-season dual meets just to get the kids in shape? Aren't they supposed to lack in excitement and good performances?

Well, the calendar said mid-April at the Churchill-Farmington boys track meet Thursday, but the temperature (80 degrees) and the thrilling, emotional competition (settled in the last event of the afternoon) suggested late May.

There was Churchill's Mr. Grunt, Dave Mize, heaving the discus 161 feet, 8 inches and the shot put more than 52 feet. There was Farmington's Mike Forge, a sprinting dynamo who raced to four wins and in between each event would retire to the stands, limping his way from the field. And there was Doug Plachta, in the turning point of the meet, sprinting past sophomore sensation Chris Inch when the Chargers were just 110 yards from mathematical elimination.

boys track

"WHEW, that was what you'd call one of your more exciting meets," joked winning coach Fred Price. "You'd have to say that Plachta did what he had to do to give us a chance."

This was the situation: Churchill had taken a huge early lead by sweeping the field events — shot, discus, high jump (where Mike Meehan tied the school record of 6-foot-8), pole vault and long jump. But Farmington, led by Forge and its deep field of talented runners, swept the dashes and middle-distance runs (the 100 meters, 200, 400 and 800) and took two of the first three relays, the 400 and the 800.

Suddenly, with two events to go, the 3,200-meter run and 1,600 relay, Farmington, undefeated last year in its dual meets, had its first lead of the day. A first and third for the Falcons in the 3,200 would eliminate Churchill.

Inch, the Western Lakes' cross country king last fall, and Plachta, who missed much of cross country season with a stress fracture, took the lead at the start and ran shoulder to shoulder for 7 1/2 laps.

IN THE BACK straightaway of the last lap and with a fellow Falcon clearly settled into third, Inch bolted to a 10-yard lead. Suddenly, though, heading into the last turn, Plachta accelerated like a car hitting passing gear. He sprinted past Inch easily and stretched his lead to six seconds through the final 100 meters.

Churchill was alive, trailing by just 67-68 going into the last event.

"Plachta said he saw Chris ease up just a bit," explained Price. "So he figured he'd go after him, put on one last surge. But Chris didn't respond, he just let him go."

Plachta, who also won the mile in 4:40, was timed in 10:08, Inch in 10:14.

The final event was a thriller, too, but for one thing, Churchill won the 1,600 relay by a scant two feet in a duel that was tight from the start, but Farmington's leadoff man ran out of his lane in the first lap and Falcon coach Dave Catherman was announcing the disqualification to his disappointed troops before the race was half over.

Farmington is 1-1 after an earlier forfeit win over Waterford Mott, and Churchill is 2-1.

OTHER CHURCHILL winners: long jump, Ed Stoeckle, 19-10 1/4; pole vault, Doug Thaxton, 10-6; 100 hurdles, Gordon Babcock, 15.7; 300 hurdles, Babcock, 41.0; and 1,600 relay, Pete Mills, Ernie Healy, Babcock and Eric Williams, 3:32.4.

Farmington's winners: 100 meters, Mike Forge, 11.8; 200, Forge, 23.8; 400, Brian Looser, 52.8; 800, Al Stebbins, 2:04.3; 400 relay, Chris Mineweaser, Nathan Case, Looser and Forge, 44.6; 800 relay, Mineweaser, Case, Looser and Forge, 1:37.3; 3,200 relay, Ken Dunneback, Dwayne Kratt, Bruce Kerr and Stebbins, 8:40.3.

Final relay clinches win for Salem

In the first place, there was Karen Marciniak, Stacy Stojeba and Denise Durrer. And in the second place, there was a host of others.

That's what it took for Plymouth Salem's girls track team to open its dual meet season with a 67-61 triumph over visiting Dearborn Thursday.

Marciniak and Stojeba each won 2 individual events, Marciniak successful in the shot put (32-10 1/2) and discus (105-2) and Stojeba capturing the 100-yard (12.38) and 220-yard (28.67) dashes.

Durrer's role was equally important.

She sped to victory in the 880 (2:31.2), then anchored the winning mile (4:19.62) and 2 mile (10:43.53) relays.

Salem led by a single point going into the final event, the mile relay, and after three runners, Dearborn was ahead. But Durrer overtook her Dearborn foe to ensure the win.

When she got the baton we were behind," said Salem coach Fred Thomann of Durrer's race, "but halfway through her leg she caught her Dearborn opponent. She ran a great race."

Mary Beth Weast, Mary Zorney and Cheryl Durrer were also on the mile girls track

relay. Heidi Dupret, Amy Miyasaki and Chris Tarpani ran before Durrer in the 2 mile relay.

A bevy of seconds proved instrumental in the Rocks victory. "They had more firsts," said Thomann, "but we had 10 seconds, so we did a good job of scoring in all the events. And we swept (first, second and third) the shot put and discus."

Amy Johnson placed second twice for Salem, in the high jump and 110 hurdles.

Salem's chances to win the Western Lakes Activities Association's Lakes Division will be better defined by next Thursday. The Rocks run at Farmington this Thursday, then face Livonia Stevenson a week later. They are expected to be the division's strongest challengers.

CANTON 94, BENTLEY 34: Plymouth Canton remained unbeaten after 3 dual meets behind 12 firsts in 16 events Thursday at Livonia Bentley.

Hollie Ivey and Angie Miller each won 2 individual events for the Chiefs. Ivey's first in the shot put (34-3) broke her own school record. She also won the discus (78-3). Miller tied a school record in winning the high jump (5-2).

Her second first came in the 800-meter run (2:46.78).

Other Canton winners were Kenny Kincer in the long jump (14-2 1/4); Tricia Carney in the 200 (29.65); Carolyn Nagy in the 400 (1:03.12); Marie Jarosz in the 1,600 (5:56.08); and Rachel Mann in the 3,200 (13:35.0).

Carney, Nagy, Lori Schauder and Kim Bennett combined for a first in the 800 relay (1:55.9). Jarosz, Miller, Karen Boluch and Nagy were winners in the 1,600 relay (4:30.75), and Jarosz, Mann, Boluch and Miller took the 3,200 relay (11:11.38).

U-D HONOREES

If it weren't for the athletes from the Observer coverage area, who would University of Detroit give all its awards to at its athletic banquet?

Let's start with basketball. Greg Wendt, a junior and a Redford Catholic Central grad from Livonia, reaped a pair of prestigious awards at U-D's All-Sports Awards and Hall of Fame Induction Dinner last Thursday at the Gourmet House in St. Clair Shores.

Wendt was presented the Bill Ebben Award, given to the Titan basketball player who excels both athletically and academically, and the Leo DiMambro Award, given to the student-athlete who best typifies the U-D man in areas like high moral standards, pride in team achievement, determination as a competitor and graciousness in victory or defeat.

Wendt, a 6-foot-6 forward who transferred to U-D from Duke, led the Titans in rebounding (7.4 per game) and steals (4.5), was second in scoring (15.4 points a game) and field goal percentage (.522), and was third in assists (8.9) and free throw percentage (.714).

A business marketing major, Wendt was a member of the All-Midwestern Cities Conference (MCC) team and was second in balloting for MCC Newcomer of the Year honors.

But Wendt was not the only Observer-area athlete to reach the podium Thursday. Baseball players Tom Miner and Gary Beggs and runners Ken Dubois and Tom Zakrzewski were also honored.

Miner, from Garden City, won the Edmund T. Nolan Golden Glove Award, presented to the Titan baseball player who exhibits the best defensive skills for one season (1984).

Miner, a senior first baseman in 1984, committed just 4 errors for a .992 fielding percentage. He also batted .368 with 17 doubles.

Beggs, from Redford Thurston, won the James T. Campbell Award as U-D's top pitcher of 1984. Now a senior, Beggs was 5-1 with a 3.33 earned run average. He won his last 5 decisions, including a 3-hit shutout of Bowling Green and a 9-strikeout performance against Michigan State.

Dubois, a freshman from Livonia Stevenson, won the Dominick Tadonio Award for cross country spirit and sportsmanship. Dubois set a new U-D mark for seasonal 5-mile average (25:36). Dubois finished first for U-D in every regular season race.

Zakrzewski, from Catholic Central, was selected as the Most Outstanding Indoor Track Runner. He had the team's best times in both the 3,200 and 5,000 meter runs.

BRONCO STANDOUTS

Junior John Winterbottom, a North Farmington graduate, continues to excel as a member of several Western Michigan relay teams. At the Northwestern Relays April 12-13, Winterbottom helped the sprint medley relay finish first in a new stadium record (3:24.76). He also ran on a pair of second-place teams, the 1,600 (3:14.2) and the 3,200 (7:35.29).

At the Ohio University Relays April 6, Winterbottom helped the 3,200-meter relay team finish first (7:41.18).

For the WMU tennis team, senior Janet Ray from Livonia Bentley was a winner in a pair of No. 3 singles matches April 12-13. Ray defeated

Knee injury puts Wagner's cage career in peril

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

Emily Wagner, the Livonia Ladywood standout who was named Miss Basketball as the state's top player for 1984, underwent a knee operation Thursday and will miss her freshman season at Stanford University.

Wagner suffered the injury — to the anterior cruciate ligament of her right knee — during tryouts in St. Louis a week ago Saturday for the National Sports Festival team. Luckily for Wagner, she had signed her letter of intent to attend Stanford four days before the injury and still will be attending the West Coast school on a scholarship.

"We're optimistic she'll be playing basketball in a year," said Dr. David Collon, the head of sports medicine at Henry Ford Hospital, who performed 30 minutes of arthroscopic surgery and another hour of full-fledged surgery on Wagner. Collon is also the orthopedic surgeon for the Detroit Tigers and has operated on Alan Trammell.

"We don't plan on her playing for close to a year, but that's still up in the air," said Collon. "She's got a lot of rehabilitation ahead of her."

THE INJURY occurred just after Wagner had survived the first cuts of the 120 women, many of them collegians, in St. Louis for the Midwest trials. The squad was trimmed to 40 women and in the subsequent workout, Wagner, leading a fast break of a 5-on-5 drill, pulled up in the lane, popped her knee and fell to the ground in obvious pain.

"It was a Tartan surface," explained Richard Wagner, Emily's dad, from her bedside following the surgery. "It's a rubber composition. When you come to a stop, you stop. There's no slide like you get with tile or parquet. When you stop, that's it. When she pulled up, her foot stopped and her body got out ahead of her knee."

According to her father, Emily's scholarship is safe. "We've been in touch with the Stanford athletic director (Andy Geiger) and assistant athletic director (Dick James) in the last few days and they've been just super. Their main concern is that she take it easy, work on rehabilitating it and not worry about her scholarship. It'll be there when she's ready. And they've offered Stanford's facilities for her rehabilitation."

IRONICALLY, Wagner, an A student at Ladywood, plans on majoring in medicine at Stanford with a goal of becoming a doctor in sports medicine. She'll be getting a first-hand look at the field, now.

In four years as a starter at Ladywood, she totaled 1,254 points, 313 rebounds, 369 assists and 262 steals. She was a two-time All-Stater and made All-Catholic and All-Observer three times.

As a junior, she led her team to a 23-3 record and the state championship over River Rouge. As a senior, she averaged 15.5 points in leading Ladywood to a 24-3 mark and another berth in the state finals, where the Blazers lost a 47-46 heartbreaker to Rouge.

It's been a bad month for the Stanford basketball team. First, the woman who recruited Wagner, Dottie McCrea, was fired after her team posted a 9-19 overall record and a Western Collegiate Athletic Association mark of 2-12. Then, while looking for a new coach, the school lost its top recruit, at least for a season.

Char Govan, another Ladywood standout, was at the trials in St. Louis but did not survive the first cuts.

Bentley stops Churchill, 2-1

By Robert McElhaney
special writer

SOCCER

Livonia Bentley's front line dominance, led by Dana Dugan and Kim Paterson, coupled with an overall team effort Wednesday, enabled the host Bulldogs to beat city rival Churchill in an early season girls soccer showdown, 2-1.

It was Bentley's first tough victory of the season after lopsided triumphs over Garden City, Flint Central and Farmington.

The Chargers' setback was there first after winning the Schoolcraft College Invitational (on April 13).

"I was a test for us, and I was pleased with the kids' performances," said Bentley coach Paul Scicluna. "We played a team game, shut off Churchill's offense and possessed the ball 70 percent of the time."

Churchill coach Ed Dudek offered a simple answer for his team's loss.

"Bentley beat us to the ball," he said. "They were more aggressive than any team we've face. Today, they were the better team. We're looking forward to a possible rematch in the playoffs."

THE BULLDOGS wasted little time putting heat on Churchill as they opened the match by controlling the ball in the Chargers' zone.

Paterson found Dugan open on the left wing and zipped a pass. Dugan's 8-yard shot had no difficulty finding the net, giving Bentley a 1-0 lead at the 13-minute mark of the first half.

With the Bulldogs beginning to tire near the end of the half, Churchill began to assert itself.

The Chargers' two biggest opportunities to draw even came when forward Julie Myers, outrunning a Bentley defender, fired a shot which just missed the goal; and the other occurred when Shari Acitelli's follow-up hit the side of the net.

Churchill, however, finally managed to tie the game 10 minutes into the second half when forward Kim Montgomery was left uncontested on the right wing, accurately firing her shot into the goal.

AFTER CHURCHILL'S matching goal, the Bulldogs dominated the remainder of the game with Dugan, Paterson, Colleen McQueen and company keeping the ball in Charger territory.

With 15 minutes left in the match, McQueen scored the game-winner after she received the ball following a corner kick that the Chargers were unable to clear out. All McQueen had to do was shoot the ball in the net, which she did.

McQueen nearly had a second goal after she took a pass from Dugan, but her header sailed barely wide of the net.

OZARK NEWS

The School of the Ozarks may be located in Point Lookout, Mo., but its baseball team certainly has an Observer flavor.

Through 26 games (a 16-10 record), Fred Rumberger, a junior first baseman from Plymouth Canton, was batting .316 with 2 homers and 13 runs batted in; Todd Riedel, a sophomore second baseman from Plymouth Salem, was hitting .286 with 5 stolen bases, 12 RBI and 18 runs scored; Joe Winnicki, a sophomore catcher from Garden City, had a .314 average with a homer and 4 RBI; and Mike Battaglia, a sophomore lefthanded pitcher from Plymouth Canton, was 4-3.

"My classes have kept me from practicing, not because I have to go grocery shopping or something."

WHATEVER PROBLEMS exist Taylor has been able to leave on the sidelines. She collected 7-straight hits in a double-header sweep of Ferris State April 10. She extended that to 10 hits in a row before making an out against Hillsdale Monday.

"That's my job," Taylor said.

"(Bryce) has put me in the leadoff position for a reason. I just hoped I could play to the best of my ability and really help the team. My batting average isn't so important, as long as I get on base."

"My one goal is to help take this team to the NAAs."

Bryce believes Taylor could be a major factor in the Tartars run for the tournament.

"She's a great ballplayer," the Tartar coach said. "There isn't a team in the country she couldn't play for."
